Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

1877-1978

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after full time. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was in the staff in early 1929.

Eva's job was in the left up-stairs. "J.J." occasionally printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean up now and then. One day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later I was quite a bit older and was in the street that I lived back and forth, I had a boat clanking noise, powered by a small engine, and I was a "plur", and as I remember it, I was a "plur". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his sense of humor.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole side to be bought proved by about who now reside detached, built dwellings with orchards, and some fishery and. It has communal parts of the communal provisions in a cheap, built readily to be from many circumstances, probability of place of some shipbuilding, the West India a cheap and of residence.

This advertisement, dated at Digby, December, 1800, were to be a No. 100.

free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was some Digby's daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but,

Town Council In Short Session

Monday night's meeting of the Digby Town Council, was one of the shortest held in some time. The meeting was over shortly after nine o'clock. Those present were the Mayor and all members of the Council with the exception of Councillor Soloway. At this meeting the financial report of the Indian Carnival was received, and on motion of Councillor Anderson, seconded by Councillor Morrell accepted.
Stop signs are to be placed on both sides of the Warner crossing, scene of the fatal crash this summer. The Council will also make a request that trains to slowly over crossings in the town limits.
The Superintendent of Streets reports that the streets which were sprayed this summer, have been treated in preparation for the second application. A man from Kentville instructed town employees on how to go about this work. He also reported that most streets were holding up well, with the exceptions of the whole of Malden Lane and Montague Row from St. George to Warwick Street. In the first instance the difficulty was caused by horses driving over the street before the surfacing was dry, in the latter by someone driving a mowing machine along the street before it was ready for traffic.
He also reported the rebuilding of the Racquette Hill up as far as the Lighthouse Road corner. The grade had levelled off the Shore Road. Prince William Street, King and Victoria Streets. A cement wall, 96 feet long, 4 1/2 feet high, 18 inches at the base and 12 inches at the top had been built at the foot of Warwick Street and a stone wall 80 feet long and 3 1/2 feet high on Chapel Hill.
Shrubs Planted as Memorial
During the past week the grounds of the Digby General Hospital have been wonderfully improved, through the efforts of two New York landscape artists, Mrs. W. H. Wells and Miss Ruth Haver, who supervised the setting out on the spacious grounds more than seventy flowering shrubs, two flower trees and four elms. Five more elms will be set in the spring. Climbing vines have also been set out at the corners of the building, and wired to train them to climb over the sides.
All the shrubs and trees were donated by Mrs. Wells, as a memorial to her sister, Miss Helen Gladys Crowe, who passed away in the Digby General Hospital a few years ago. Mrs. Wells and her mother, Mrs. Herbert Crowe, spend their summers at Milford, Annapolis Co.
Flower beds are to be set out along both sides of the walks leading from Warwick Street to the hospital door, and the present beds are to be widened. Miss Ida Germain has been engaged to care for these beds, and the Hospital Board will provide a plot in the back of the building in which the young plants will be raised for transplanting. They are also making an appeal to those who have any flowering plants they wish to donate for these beds. James Hall has been appointed caretaker of the shrubbery.

Marriages

Bent-Ball
The United Church at Caledonia was the scene of a very pretty wedding Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, when Jennie Marjorie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Ball, of Caledonia, was united in marriage with Vernon Leslie Bent, of the staff of the Digby Courier, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bent, of Digby, in the presence of a large gathering of friends. Rev. W. B. MacPhail, pastor, performed the ceremony. The church had been prettily decorated with autumn leaves, flowers and plants by friends of the bride. The maid of honor, Miss Myra Ball, sister of the bride, wore peach taffeta with hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. Little Miss Maxine Murray, as flower girl, was pretty in yellow gandy. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in white satin and veil and carried a bouquet of white gladioli and ferns. Eric Bent, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The wedding party stood for the ceremony within a lovely floral arch. Miss Brenda Ball, sister of the bride, played the wedding marches, and the ushers were Foster Ball, brother of the bride, and H. C. Murray. During the signing of the register Ronald Chute sang "Because", most acceptably. There followed a reception at the home of the bride's parents to about fifty guests. Many nice gifts evidenced the popularity of the young couple. The bride having been a popular teacher, and the groom having formerly been on the staff of the Caledonia Gold Hunter.
Stevenson-Adams
The marriage of Phyllis Gregory Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burrows Adams, Prudhomme Ave., Montreal, to John Robert Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Harry Stevenson, of Sydney, N. S., took place last week, in St. Luke's United Church, Montreal, with the pastor, Rev. E. Dewitt Scott, officiating. Gladioli, delphiniums and ferns were used to decorate the church, the guest pews also marked with gladioli and delphiniums. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of silver lace, made on simple lines, tight fitting to the knees, joined by a circular flounce which forms the train, the large full sleeves tightened below the elbow, and ending in points over the hands. A wide sash completed the gown; hair well controlled, net, formed in three points held in place at the back by orange blossoms. She wore silver sandals, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath. Following a reception at the Queen Hotel, Mr. Stevenson and his bride sailed on the Lady Rodney for Bermuda. They will reside, on their return, at Notre-Dame de Grace, Mrs. Stevenson is a niece of Loran and Mrs. Adams, and Mrs. James Ellis, of Bay View, Digby County.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO HOLD RALLY IN GRANVILLE FERRY

The annual Fall Rally of the Annapolis West Young People's Union will be held in the United Church at Granville Ferry, on Friday, Oct. 11. There will be afternoon and evening sessions. A picnic supper will be held, each society providing its own lunch, and tea and coffee will be served by the Granville Ferry Society. The theme of the Rally will be "Christian Youth Building a New World", the programme will include a discussion period on the following topics:
"Helping to Build a Christian Economic Order"; "Promoting the Christian Mission Work of Our Church"; "Developing a Programme of Personal Religious Living"; "Developing a Programme of Leadership Training in the Local Union".
Worship periods will be led by the Bear River and Granville Ferry Societies. There will also be business periods, including the installation of officers, recreation and singing. The guest speaker will be Rev. M. W. Armstrong, of Fairville, N. B., who will speak in the afternoon on the subject, "Christian Youth Building a New World", and in the evening on the subject, "Christian Youth Organizing for Action".
Each Society is requested to appoint delegates to attend this Rally, and it is hoped that a large number will be present to make a good beginning for the next year's work, as well as to enjoy a day of splendid fellowship together. The ministers and representatives from the Young People's Societies of the Annapolis East end of the Presbytery, are also invited to be present at this Rally.

SCALLOP SEASON OPENS

The Bay of Fundy scallop fleet, reported at 52 strong, most of which make their headquarters at Digby, sailed on Tuesday, the opening day of the scallop season, for the whole Atlantic seaboard, last year landed scallops at a value of over $180,000, which made up 93% of the total catch of scallops in Canadian waters, has developed into one of the most important fisheries of the western end of the province. We understand that the size of the fleet will be considerably increased before the season gets into full swing.

Fire Prevention Week
The week commencing Oct. 6, has been set aside by Royal proclamation as Fire Prevention Week. The fire losses in insurable property in the Province of Nova Scotia during the past year were $1,393,301. J. A. Rudland, Provincial Fire Marshal, has requested that each town and city provide a speaker to the local schools on the subject of "Preventing Fires". We understand that Fire Chief Harry Hetherington will make an address in the Digby school this week.
The Entertainment last Friday evening in Trinity Parish Hall, by MacPhail's Concert Band, under the auspices of the Victorian Order of Nurses, proved to be of unusual interest, particularly to music lovers. The receipts were $27.50.

NEW OVEN INSTALLED
The Digby Bakery is installing a new oven this week. It is one of the latest designs, and will no doubt be one of the most modern in the province. This oven has capacity for three hundred loaves of bread, surpassing his present oven by twice as many loaves. It weighs about eight tons, three and one-half tons more than the old one.
This is a big step in the baking business, and is a certain sign that the town bakery should be sufficient to supply the citizens with bread, and cakes. Let us buy Digby products as long as they are produced here—then if they stop—buy Nova Scotia—but put the home town first.

Church Point Man On Missing Steamer
T. O. Randale, who has been living for the past ten years at Church Point, was second mate on the steamer Joseph Mendell, which left some time ago with coal from Newcastle England, for Montreal, on her maiden voyage, and has been missing for some weeks. Mr. Randale is a bachelor, of about 50 years of age and came from England, where he is said to have a sister and brother living.

MASTERING OUR TOOLS

"We hear a great deal of talk," says Thomas J. Watson, President of the International Business Machines Corporation, "about the machine age and what the machine age is doing. You know that is perfectly ridiculous, because it is not a machine age. Machines don't grow on trees or bushes. This is a great man age, and the machines that we see on every hand, on every side, are evidence that it is a great man age."

Men make the machines and use them for man's good. As for the notion that machines take work away from men, Mr. Watson disproves it with figures comparing the carriage and wagon industry in 1890 and the automobile industry in 1930. The former, in its most prosperous day, employed 717,000 people, including all industries connected with it—livery stable keepers, teamsters, draymen, hatters, blacksmiths, and so on. In 1930 the motor industry employed 1,510,000 people.

That is all true, as far as it goes. Thinking people do not want to destroy machinery or stop the invention of new machines. Yet those who talk about the perils of the machine age have a side. The same tools in the hands of an infant, an intelligent but untrained youth, and a skilled workman will produce quite different results. The infant may injure himself, the youth may do a botched piece of work. Only the trained workman will realize the full usefulness of the tools. Society, at the moment, seems to be not much out of the infancy and youth stages in its use of today's marvellous machines. But we are learning and growing up.

QUARTERLY TAXES

In Hamilton, Ont., property owners heretofore will pay their taxes in quarterly installments instead of semi-annually. The plan was recommended by the heads of the tax department on the grounds that collections would be better and the city would save money by not waiting so long for payments.

There have been suggestions along the same line lately in various American communities. Some tax experts even recommend monthly collections, and in a few cases owners actually have the privilege of paying by the month if they prefer, just as they pay rent and store bills. That is probably moving in the right direction. Taxpayers ought to save up their money and have it ready for semi-annual payments when the time comes; but don't, and too often they can't. Practically and psychologically it seems easier and more logical to pay in shorter periods. It would make more bookkeeping for tax offices, but perhaps less trouble for everybody in the long run.

SAFETY ADVICE

Pedestrians have their faults, but they are not crimes punishable by death. The foregoing and the other following safety sayings we pass on believing they are of special value.

Have complete control of yourself and you will have complete control of your day.

After a day's driving better to have a life to your credit than a death. Save a life.

If all drivers kept to their own side of the road at all times, there would be no head-on collisions. Morning. Keep to your side of the road.

There is no quitting time for safety.

When making right and left turns remember, according to law, the pedestrian has the right-of-way.

A one-eyed driver is the fellow who drives alone, pretending he is a motorcycle, frightening other drivers and generally creating dangerous accident situations all along the highway.

Driving and drinking don't mix. If you must drink, don't drive, and Never be a household drudge.

"Newspaper advertising costs more than circulars and is worth more. Quarterly reports printed today show that two national chain stores outstripped a small job during the quarter just ended, while two San Francisco large department stores showed five per cent gain over last spring and 20 per cent over two years ago. The chain stores use little if any newspaper advertising, while the San Francisco stores are liberal advertisers."

"Surrounding store ads with live news, particularly with live and intimate local news that cause people to read the papers by the hour, costs the publisher a lot of money and is worth a lot to merchants who advertise in papers. Today the Hayward Daily Review is paying a repair bill on a straight matter linotype machine of $120. Printers who sell circulars do not pay bills for repairing their machines, for they have none. The news makes the papers, carrying the ads, welcome in the homes. They come as paid-for guests, while circulars only intrude and find ready access to the family waste basket."

"Consumers and readers owe a debt to newspapers they seldom realize or appreciate. It costs a great deal to gather the news. People want the news. They pay a cent or two for a paper to get the news, but in so doing they contribute a very small fraction of the cost of the paper they so appreciate and that serves them so well. They should go further. They should deal with advertising merchants who make possible the newspapers they read."

"The general public owes a debt to papers. It has never paid and never can fully pay."

SCHOOL FAIR AT LOWER GRANVILLE

The annual School Fair was held in the Lower Granville Hall on Friday afternoon and evening. Port Wade, Karsdale and Lower Granville Schools, taking part in the contests, drills and singing. The exhibits of apples and vegetables were not as good as past years, but the cooking and canning and display of flowers were much better; and their school work showed a marked improvement over past years.

The Lower Granville School carried off the first prize in marching and drill, first prize in the demonstration, first prize in group singing, and first prize in public speaking.

In the evening the hall was packed with people and all enjoyed the speeches by Rev. W. B. Crowell, Rev. E. W. Forbes, Col. Eaton, Rev. Kell, Mr. Richardson, Mrs. W. C. MacPherson, and readings by Mrs. Fred Parker, music by Mrs. Crowell, Mrs. L. Moore and Mrs. P. Robb.

The officers were re-elected for the coming year. The evening's program closed by singing the National Anthem.

BONES WERE PLENTIFUL

The Inspector had come to examine the class in physiology. He tried a little girl with this teaser: "How many bones have you in your body, little lady?"

"Something like nine hundred," was the prompt reply.

"Oh, under?" said the Inspector. "Well, that's a great many more than I have."

"Very likely," said the child, "but I guess you ain't had herring for breakfast."

A KANSAN'S FAVORITE STORY (Topeka Daily Capital)

Our favorite story concerns Jim Powell, a fine printer, a gentleman and a scholar. He enlisted in the Spanish-American War. He served in the Philippines. Discharged, he came home and went down into Arkansas seeking work as a printer. He landed and one afternoon came upon a hamlet where there was a print shop.

No one was in. A Negro boy said the editor was across yander hoe in 'laters. Jim went over. The man admitted he was the editor and Jim asked for work. The old editor looked Jim from head to heel judiciously, scratched his head and said: "Printer, hey? I'd never have guessed it from the looks of you. Sure you are a printer?" Jim replied in the affirmative and then asked: "What makes you think I'm not a printer?" "Well," said the editor, "my experience is that a real printer always has a right shoulder higher than his left. He gets that way setting type. You don't have one high shoulder."

Realizing what military drill had done to his shoulders, Jim chuckled and said: "By gosh, you're right, old man. Gimme a job, hein? 'laters." Then the old man chuckled and took Jim on as a printer.

"Ah, wants a ticket for Virginia," said Mose.

"What part?" asked the hooking clerk.

"All of her, cap'n. Dat's her watchin' in my suitcase."

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CONSTITUENCY OF DIGBY-ANNA-POLIS-KINGS

At a convention of the Reconstruction Party, held at Middleton, on Sept. 30th, Mr. E. B. Wetmore, of Wolfville, was unanimously nominated as the candidate of that party to contest the forthcoming Federal Election in this constituency.

Mr. Wetmore, while not previously taking an active part in politics, has been a passive supporter of the Liberal Party. He stands high in his position as manufacturer's representative, and is highly respected in the community in which he lives, as well as in the various parts of the province which he visits from time to time in connection with his business.

In associating himself with the Reconstruction Party, Mr. Wetmore has done so in response to the earnest request of a large number of the electors, to whom he is well and favorably known.

He has been nominated by a desire to offer the electors of this constituency an opportunity to express their dissatisfaction with the policies of both the Liberal and Conservative Parties, which have entirely failed to remedy the critical conditions throughout Canada.

It is obvious to all that at this late date it will be impossible for Mr. Wetmore to make a personal canvass door to door in any except the largest centres of the constituency. All are asked to watch for the advertising and make a special effort to attend the meetings in order to secure the fullest information respecting the policies and aims of the Reconstruction Party.

Adv. inserted by the Executive Committee of the Reconstruction Party.

ST. CLEMENT'S PARISH NOTES

The Annual Harvest Festival was held in Acadia Hall, Upper Clements, on Thursday evening, Sept. 19, at 8 p. m. There was a splendid attendance and the whole service one of Thanksgiving and joy.

Mrs. William Horsfall presided at the organ. The decorations of Autumn leaves, flowers, fruit and vegetables, surpassed all previous occasions and reflected great credit on those who did the work. The fruit and vegetables were a gift to the Rector, who suitably thanked his many friends for their kindness and generosity.

The Annual Mission in Victory, took place much earlier this year than usual. It began on Monday night, 23rd inst., and lasted until including Friday the 27th. The attendance was the largest throughout of any previous Mission held in St. Andrew's Church. On Monday a car came from Smith's Cove showing the interest in the church work taken by Miss Jasgar and her friends.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Bruce Elliott, organist of St. Edward's Church, Clementsport, and a number of his choir came by truck, and took charge of the music for the evening. These people coming from other parts of the Parish on these occasions, are a great comfort to both the Rector and the people of St. Andrew's Church, both of whom sincerely thank those who come and make it possible for them to come. We hope next year that the various churches of the Parish will offer to take an evening each during the Mission. Mrs. George Darres was organist during the week and with her able leadership, the music had a life that made congregational singing heartfelt and inspiring. On Thursday the Sacrament of Holy Baptism was administered to Helen Louise, the child of Mr. and Mrs. Andum Hewey. The Rector visited the homes of those in Victory, including Mr. Frank Blackadar's camp. While in Victory he was the guest overnight of Mr. and Mrs. George Darres. The Rector wishes to thank all who did so much to make this Mission one of help and comfort.

FIRESIDE TEA

The ladies circle of the United Baptist Church, served a very enjoyable fire-side tea on Thursday of last week, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Kinney, which was patronized by nearly fifty members and guests. The proceeds amounting to considerably over $10.00 is to be used for church purposes.

RALLY DAY SERVICE

The morning service in the United Baptist Church was given over to the annual Rally Day exercises of the Sunday School.

The pupils of the Primary Department occupied the first seats in the auditorium and took part in the service.

The Primary Superintendent, Mrs. R. A. Harris, presented grading certificates to the beginner's class, numbering twenty, and a special offering was taken for educational work.

Marriages

Dittmars-Adams

An exceptionally pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Adams, Victoria Bridge, on Thursday evening, at 8.30, Sept. 26, when their second daughter, Mary Ethel, became the bride of Walter Archibald.

The bride was a winsome and girlish figure in a beautiful gown of pale pink moiré tulle, cut in long graceful lines, wearing a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair. She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses with maiden-hair fern. The house was beautifully decorated with autumn foliage and fall flowers with pink and white streamers and wedding bells. Following the ceremony a delightful lunch was served to about fifty guests, after which the happy couple left by motor on a honeymoon trip to various points of interest in Nova Scotia. The bride wore for travelling a brown and beige frock trimmed with blue, a beige coat and brown accessories. The lovely gifts received testified to the esteem of the young couple. The groom's gift to the bride was a cheque. On their

THE PARING PARTY

At the close of the day as I am watch
The mantle of night hover low,
My thoughts travel back to earlier days,
Way back in the long ago.

Back to a dear old farmhouse,
Where the folks will gather, every one,
For a good old paring party,
And a bit of wholesome fun.

I can see the barrel of apples
Needles, twine, knives, everything,
All ready for the neighbours
Who will pare, and core and string.

And on the old pine table
Sets the oil lamp burning bright, Sending its ray around the kitchen,
With a clear and steady light.

And from the stoves bright woodfire,
Comes that crackling, snapping
A sound,
Giving a comfy warmth and welcome
As the heat permeates around.

And there the old iron teakettle
As it boils and bubbles along,
Too, adds a homely feeling,
As it sings its cheery song.

I can hear the lively chatter
As the folks will laugh and joke,
And enjoy the wholesome banter
As they fun at each will joke.

And the young folks a perfect peeling
Around their heads three times will swing,
How they'll laugh, as it drops to the floor
And see the letter it will bring.

Soon that barrel will be quite empty,
Strings of apples will hang up to dry,
Then to wind up the party, there's Luncheon
Including cider and apple pie.

At the end of the evening, will follow
Another paring party, no, not with knives,
This time 'twill be the men folks'
Paring for home, their sweethearts and wives.

Now my thoughts that I've penned,
Once so real,
Are now fanciful dreams, nothing more,
But what would I not give if the wheels of time
Would turn me back to that old farmhouse door.

Drag River For Missing
Weymouth Man

Grappling operations commenced in the Sissiboo River yesterday morning in search of the body of Herman Cromwell, colored, of Weymouth, who has been missing for his little life, after he left the bowling alley, Campbell's mill, since Saturday, Cromwell, who is a widower, said to be about 51 years of age, was last seen about midnight Saturday, approaching the traffic bridge in the centre of Weymouth's business district, after he left the bowling alley. Weymouth people have made a thorough search of the woods and district for the missing man, and Mounted Police were called Wednesday to take part in the search. It is understood that the grappling operations, which commenced yesterday morning, are under their directions.

Cromwell has never been known to leave without leaving word with someone as to his destination, or as to how long he intended being away. His wife, Mrs. Helen, and a girl, in which he takes great pride, he left no provision for their care, and that is one of the reasons it is believed he may have fallen into the river and drowned.

CONWAY

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Potter, of Lynn, Mass., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Woodman—Clarence Mercier and Edmund Woodman, who are employed by the St. George Construction Company at Meteghan, were here over the week end.—W. J. Franklin, road superintendent of Highway for Digby County, has a large crowd of men widening out the highway, preparatory to hard surfacing next year.—Judge Taylor and family, attended the Yarmouth Exhibition on Thursday last week. Frank Morse, of Sydney, C. B., who has been visiting here, left for Lawrenceville on Friday. While here he called on "friends at Cullen, Seabrook and Digby." We hear that the Minister of Highway is doing all in his power to have the underpass widened out. Here is hoping he succeeds, as it is a very dangerous place.—Wilbur Clements, who has been in all summer, is gradually improving.—James Wolf left for Meteghan on Sunday, where he is employed on the highway.

CULLODEN

Miss Florence Griffin, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. W. Kirtland and Mr. Kirtland, East Mill, returned home Saturday. She was accompanied by her sister, the Misses "Peg" and Margaret Griffin, to spend their vacation with their mother, Mrs. J. Edgar Post and Mr. Post—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Woodman and daughter, Mrs. Claude Connell, of Conway, and Frank Morse, of Sydney, were in this village one day last week calling on friends.—Mrs. Judson Handsaker and Mrs. Sadie Stark spent Wednesday of last week in Digby, the guests of Mrs. Lillian Weir.—Miss Barbara Hanson spent the week with friends in Mt. Pleasant.—Mrs. George Hersey of Mink Cove, is spending this week with her sister, Mrs. Charles Morse and Mr. Morse.—Miss Bertha M. Fraser, of Pinedale, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. John Daley.—Arch Handsaker, of Mt. Pleasant, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Stark.

County Court In Special Session

Judge W. A. Livingstone presided at a special session of the County Court last Friday, at which two cases were up for hearing, viz: the case of the King vs. Barton and the appeal of the King vs. Alice Morehouse.

Lloyd Barton, who was charged with obtaining money under false pretences, was sentenced to 60 days in the County Jail.
The case of the King vs. Alice Morehouse, of Centreville, was an appeal by the Crown against the decision of Stipendiary Taylor, who dismissed the case in August. According to evidence the accused had in her possession a bottle of alcohol, and on the arrival of the police, fled with it to the woodpile, extracting the cork and dumping the contents. Corp. Hetherington is said to have obtained the bottle which still contained a small quantity of the contraband. Decision was reserved.

A lot of men are in danger of overworking themselves trying to live without work.

VOLUME LXII, No. 4

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

With election day on Monday, the political campaign in Digby seemed to have peaked somewhat during the past week. The first addresses to be given in Digby during this period when J. L. Dibley, candidate for the Liberal party in the constituency of Digby-Annapolis-Kings and Col. J. L. Halden, candidate for the Conservative party, at the Bijou Theatre, which was filled to its capacity. Dr. L. J. Lovett, of Bear River, was chairman of this meeting.

On Wednesday afternoon at the Band Stand, another meeting was held in the interests of the Reconstruction Party, at which Frank Jones, K. C., of Digby, presided. The speakers at this meeting were C. L. Wright, Leverett Long and C. B. Wetmore, candidate for the constituency.

To-night a meeting in the interests of the Conservative party will be held in the Bijou Theatre. This meeting will be addressed by R. D. Caldwell Stewart, of Annapolis Royal, government candidate for Digby-Annapolis-Kings. Mr. Stewart is the youngest contestant in all Canada. H. P. MacKenzie will also address this meeting.

On the whole, all meetings throughout the country, regardless of whose interests they have been held, have been large but very quiet. Loud cheering and loud applause seem to be things of the past insofar as this campaign is concerned, nevertheless, the speakers have had very attentive audiences.

Florence Simps and Lindon Morehouse spent last week in Grand Manan, at the home of Mr. Morehouse's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morehouse.

Fire Chief Addresses School Children

Fire Chief Harry Hersey, addressing the pupils of the Digby Academy on Wednesday afternoon, on the causes and prevention of fires. The address was part of the Fire Department's Fire Prevention Week programme. The fire department is also entering into the "clean up campaign" and in this connection are receiving assistance from the Junior Fire Department, recently organized by Chief Hersey.

Weymouth Man Still Missing

A cap found in the Sissiboo River on Sunday, and identified as belonging to Herman Cromwell, colored, of Weymouth, who has been missing from his home on the bank of the river near Glidden Campbell's mill, since Saturday, Sept. 28, gives weight to the theory that the man lost his life in drowning in the river.

R. C. M. P. officers have been in charge of grappling operations in the river since Thursday of last week. Cromwell was last seen approaching the bridge at Weymouth shortly after midnight Saturday, Sept. 28, and was walking in the opposite direction from his cabin.

THE FATE OF THIRD PARTIES

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir:—Third parties will gradually be absorbed by the Conservative party. Indeed it is my opinion that the Liberal party will finally be forced by circumstances into accepting the status of a third party.

Frank Snow,
Port Wade, Oct. 9, 1935.

Polls Open From 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Polls for the Dominion General Elections will open at 8 a. m. local standard time, and close at 6 p. m. As there are four different times across Canada, polls on the Atlantic Coast will open and close four hours ahead of the polls on the Pacific Coast.

Lunenburg Boats Join Scallop Fleet

The Lunenburg scallop draggers arrived in port over the week end to join the Digby scallop fleet. The M. C. Cole arrived Saturday morning in a country tax barrow. It will be the Violetta G., on Sunday night, in command of her owner and master, Capt. Almon Parks. This is the third season for each of these boats. It is understood that Capt. Struheim, of Mahone Bay, is fitting up a boat at Liverpool, and will join the Digby fleet within a few days.

ELECTIONS COST MONEY

Representative institutions it is noted are an appreciable factor in a country tax barrow. It will be admitted however that they should be worth the price.

From Ottawa comes the estimate that the coming general election is going to cost the Treasury $4,000,000 at least, which will be about double the expenditures in 1930. This of course, represents only the expenses incurred under the Election Law. What a general election costs each of the political parties can only be estimated but in the last contest in 1930, the figure was placed as high as $4,000,000.

It will be recalled that a new method is now adopted in preparing the voters lists under which the revision took from last October until June.

The cost of preparing and printing the lists and of supervision by the Franchise Commission will be $2,000,000. Another $2,000,000 will be required for the election itself—salaries of 243 returning officers, clerks, rent of polling places and other costs. Because there are over 800,000 new voters the number of polls will be increased from 28,000 to 33,350. Each poll will cost about $40.

Returning officers receive a minimum of $500. From this the scale runs up to about $1,200 depending on the size of the constituency and the number of polls.

It is of interest to note that the largest voting strength is reported to be in Ottawa West with 55,727 voters. The Halifax electoral district with two members has 60,344 voters.

It has been figured that the cost of each vote cast this year including the public expense and that of the parties, will average $1.60.

AT THE THEATRE

We missed out on the theatre news last week, because the boss was away. And we were just too busy to get around to it. There are some especially worth while pictures this week, as usual.

To-night and to-morrow night is "Babes in Toyland" with Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy. You all know what that means—laughter.

On Saturday there is a matinee, and the show starts at 7.15 and 9 in the evening. Every other night there will be only one showing—at 8 o'clock.

For those who like ghostly mysterious pictures, be sure to see Rider Haggard's story "She" on Monday and Tuesday. The leading stars are Helen Gahagan, Randolph Scott, Helen Mack and Nigel Bruce, with a backing cast of five thousand others. It is a marvellous production, storm and lightning, fire and flood. It is the terror striking background of the strangest love story ever conceived—the story of a beautiful woman who bathed in fire and stayed young 500 years—so wicked that a kingdom quaked before her—so human that a touch of love transformed her. Don't miss seeing this production. Its drama slanders the imagination.

Going on, we have on Wednesday and Thursday, Garry Cooper, Carole Lombard and that bewitching Shirley Temple, again, in "Now and Forever." What a cast—what a picture—what pictures!

SHIPPING NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. E. Churchill Soloway have returned home, after a pleasant two weeks motor trip to the New England and Atlantic States.

There will be a meeting of Union Division No. 6, Sons of Temperance in the United Church Hall next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The latest guests to visit Digby Gap Inn, Bayview, were: E. T. T. Walker, architect, of Boston, and R. S. Jackson, also an architect, of Brookline, Mass. They both enjoyed sketching and took away with them a number of pictures in water colors and oil.

Mr. Walker has been an annual visitor to Bayview for the past seven years, but this was Mr. Jackson's first visit. They returned to the United States on Tuesday.

It will be welcome news to our readers to learn that on Sunday, Oct. 13, Rev. W. H. Hurd will resume his tour over C. H. G. S. Summer-side, P. E. I., at 4 o'clock and his Cheerful Hour at 5 o'clock. This will begin his eighth year on the air, and each year has seen an increasing interest. Forbear and Independent of Creeds and Dogmas in religion. Compassionate and kind toward the erring and discouraged; tender and sympathetic toward the suffering and sorrowing; his voice enters into thousands of homes every Sunday afternoon. We are glad to make this announcement.

Marriages

Berry-Dexter
The marriage of Beatrice Dexter, of Digby, to Herbert Berry, took place in Brookline, Mass., Sept. 25. Mr. and Mrs. Berry motored to Digby and are spending their honeymoon here and at Clementsport. They are returning to Boston to-morrow.

Francis-Thomas
The marriage of Miss Dania Holden Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eldon Thomas, 112 Park Street, Montclair, N. J., to John Read Francis, son of Mrs. Jessie Francis and of the late Dr. Richard Pearce Francis, Montclair, took place at noon on Saturday in the Unity Church of that city, and was followed by a luncheon in the Marlboro Inn. Only members of the family attended the ceremony and reception. Rev. Norman D. Fletcher, pastor of Unity, officiated. Sydney S. Huxley, the organist, played the wedding march. The church was decorated with pale pink and white gladioli, daphnium cybotium ferns, English ivy and white candles. The bride, who is the granddaughter of Mrs. Deldamia Thomas, Plympton, Digby Co., and of the late Frank E. Thomas, Hill Grove, was attended only by Miss Lathrine Moller Hink, of Montclair. N. Conant Webb, of Montclair, was best man.

ON THE SCREEN

Theatre-goers throughout the Dominion are currently viewing the cinematic records of the celebrations which attended the 170th anniversary of Associated Screenplay at Windsor, Ontario. The first agricultural exhibition ever held on the North American continent. Later, film-fans in other parts of the Empire will be seeing these sequences caught by a corps of cameramen and technicians of Associated Screenplay News who travelled to Windsor to record in sight and sound the 1935 version of an exhibition which was first held in 1765.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vincent, Accaville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marion Josephine, to Charles H. Morse, of Jacksonville, Florida. Marriage to take place in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon L. Bent have returned after a short wedding trip, and have taken up their residence in half of the A. J. Trochon residence, Birch Street.

DO CHILDREN HAVE TOO MUCH SCHOOL WORK TO DO AT HOME?

Fear has been expressed by the School Supervisor in Truro, that the free school text books recently supplied the common school grades in that town, would not stand up to the wear and tear of regular daily use, and still be in good condition. He told the Board that he thought seriously of adding a study period to the day's work so that pupils could leave their books in the school room. The extra time will not be popular among the kids. We may be quite sure of that. The higher common school grades were issued books because they were considered absolutely necessary for home study.

The opinions expressed by the Supervisor call attention to the whole question of home study. Personally, we believe that there is at the present time entirely too much home study provided for pupils of tender age and it would be much more profitable all around in schools particularly where teachers have but one grade or maybe two to teach, if less home work were imposed, and more personal direction were given in the class rooms. Small children need considerable guidance and assistance in the preparation of their work in order to get it properly instructed with reasonable understanding of what they are working at.

As matters now stand in our educational system, as applied, a burden most unreasonable is thrust upon mothers tired with the day's labors by the time that evening comes, when they feel obliged to assist and direct from two to half a dozen children in the preparation of their home work and also hear their lessons. As our system is onerous at present there are no signs of relief. The amount of home work imposed upon small children at the present time is largely unnecessary and to a considerable extent practically useless.—Bridgetown Monitor.

What men call firmness in themselves they call contrariness in others.

WHAT WE MAY EXPECT

The president of an eastern university sounded a warning recently when he said: "Nothing can threaten industry and civilization more than some of this so-called social legislation. It is begging the unfit to be more unfit, and inviting the fit to join the ranks of the unfit."

This may seem a harsh view to take of the relief situation in this country. But it is in at least the essence of truth. The sins of our philanthropic politicians are coming home to roost some day. We are making idleness so attractive that millions of persons now in this country will probably never work another day in their lives, if they can avoid it.

The fellow who refuses to take himself seriously may miss a lot of dignity and honor, but he usually enjoys a longer, happier life.

YOUR HISTORY.

The most of us are acquainted with modern history, and some of us have a general knowledge of ancient history. A few of us know our family genealogies, but very few of us know our own history.

Yet your history and mine is to you and me the most important history to know, for knowledge of it in many ways would aid us to determine how to live in order to live the most successful lives possible.

Since the beginning of the Twentieth Century science has made tremendous strides in utilizing personal history to personal advantage. It is slowly but gradually instructing individuals how to do so.

In another generation or so there will be a considerable decrease in misfits, and consequent reduction in life's failures.

You have a history—learn every phase of it, physical, mental, and spiritual.

Poverty is cruel in that it deprives many persons of the things they are better off without.

TAXES

If every man were compelled to work without pay for the government three months of every year before he could get any wages for himself, he would make the welkin ring with his complaints. Yet that is virtually what is happening in the United States today.

When a fool keeps his mouth shut he may sometimes be taken for a wise man.

THE MIRROR OF LIFE

A Professor in Union College has advised his class of freshmen pupils to read at least one newspaper thoroughly and critically every day of their college year.

"By critically," he explained, "I mean with full awareness that news gathering is a business as well as a profession, and by thoroughly I do not mean every word of every column, but in such a manner that you can understand something about every major item that concerns any large body of your fellow men."

This is the soundest sort of advice, not only for college students, but for every man and woman in the country. The newspaper today is the fairest possible reflection of the age in which we live. It is a mirror in which every act of the human race can be observed.

If we are to understand the age in which we live, if we are to adapt ourselves to it, if we are to function intelligently within it, then we must know what this age thinks and does.

This is the function of a well-edited newspaper. And so faithfully has the press as a whole met these requirements that no other medium has been able to supplant it as a mirror of human life. Wise is the man or woman who examines this mirror frequently enough to know and understand what is reflected in it.

PALESTINE IS BEING RAPIDLY MODERNIZED

Palestine is being rapidly modernized and new industries are springing up every day, operated almost entirely by Jews. Close onto 170 new industrial establishments with a total capital of approximately $8,500,000 were put into operation last year including a foundry and machine shop, metal works, brick plant, essential oil factory, factories for fabricating silk, glass sheets, tiles, chocolates and confectionery, jams and marmalades, chemicals and drugs, toilet preparations, cotton spinning and weaving, hosiery, wood-working, automobile assembling, stationery, packing material, cigars. Thirty companies increased their capital and many factories enlarged their plants and took on an increased number of hands, the more important among these being for the manufacture of citrus fruit juices, textiles, artificial teeth, cement and furniture. The prevailing wages for Jewish workers in the building industries were from 40 to 50 per cent higher at the end of last year as compared with 1934. Wages to Arab laborers are considerably lower than those paid to Jewish workmen, due to the Arabs having fewer trade unions, whereas the Jewish workman is fairly well organized. There has been a steady influx of capital and it is estimated some $50,000,000 were brought into Palestine by Jews last year.

CANADA INCREASES SHARE
SOUTH AFRICAN IMPORTS

The prosperous condition of the Union of South Africa is reflected in the large increase in value of imports registered last year over 1933, about $81,545,505, or 35.1 per cent. It was even larger than as between 1933 and 1932 which was considered quite substantial. Canada moved up from sixth to fourth place. Great Britain, followed by the United States and Germany, Japan came fifth and next in order was India, Sweden, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Dutch East Indies, France, Czechoslovakia, Ceylon, Persia, Finland. Great Britain accounted for 48.1 per cent of the total imports; the United States, 16.9; Germany, 4.8; Canada, 3.9. The United States increased its share of the trade by 4.3 per cent, the most important item of which was motor vehicles which showed an increase of approximately 100 per cent.

THE ETERNAL FEMINE

The large influx of Canada and American tourists into the British West Indies and British Guiana has brought about a demand for smartly cut frocks on the part of the women of these Empire colonies. A new promotion of these visitors are cruise liners, on "Lady" liners. More attractive fares are also being displayed in the leading department stores. The average shopper for ladies apparel is now demanding articles that are smart in appearance. Canadian hats and dresses have a particular appeal and there is every prospect of the demand increasing. The most popular selling lines are smart home dresses, and for sports and afternoon wear. Straw hats are worn throughout the year and large quantities are imported from Great Britain. The principal demand in the more expensive hats is for crepe, with a smaller demand for hats made of linen and ribbon.

TO A SUMMER DAY ON DIGBY NECK

Dawn:
I heard the distant crowing of a cock,
And opened a drowsy eye
To see, within my open casement framed,
The rose-gold glory of the eastern sky.
Aurora sweeping back, with matchless grace,
The starry robe of night;
Tinting the fir-clad hills and red-brown cliffs
With amethystine hue;
And, with caressing touch, from off
St. Mary's face,
Brushing the silver mist,
And dropping sunbeams on her robe
of blue,
Thus came the dawn
To Digby Neck.

Noon-tide:
Full fledged the day, The sun
Had reached the zenith of his course.
Hushed were the emerald fields;
The golden grain, drunk with sun-drenched
Winey air, leaned tipsily:
The pointed firs stood tall and straight and still;
The white-faced cattle rest
Beneath their blue-green shade;
The noisy crows ceased from their raucous chat.
A Ruby-throat slipped a last drop of nectar
From the mallow's cup, then joined his mate:
And high o'er head, against the cobalt blue,
A great white gull wheeled soundlessly.
High noon on Digby Neck.

Sunset:
Departing day, The western sky
A miracle of gold, a molten sea,
Where jewelled islands sent
Their tinted gleams afar;
And purple mountains, tipped with amber flame,
Rose up in majesty to greet the waning sun.
Well pleased the kindly sun sought
well earned rest,
And Fundy's Bay, in cloth-of-silver clothed, Cradled his ruddy head upon her amplified breast.
Then gently softly dimmed the light
To the rose-gold glow of dawn,
And thus came night
To Digby Neck.

$10,000 IN CASH PRIZES

Through the generosity and co-operation of the Kellogg Company, $10,000 in cash prizes will be awarded in one of the most unusual contests ever to be announced. Very few children on the continent are not familiar with the voice of Rene Wicker, the voice behind the mike when "The Singing Lady" program goes on the air five nights of the week. For more than five years she has been telling youngsters charming stories, both new and old—stories which have won for her a juvenile audience beyond estimate.

Now she's searching for new ideas, and she wants the help of every parent. She wants plots for new stories; suggestions which can be used to improve "The Singing Lady" program; letters telling her the kind of stories they like best; what type of characters they want; what heroes and heroines. For the best of these there are substantial cash prizes starting with a grand prize of $1,000, a second of $600, a third of $400, ten more prizes of $100 each, 20 more of $50 each and 1,000 prizes of $5 each.

Because the Kellogg Company is keenly interested in making this contest a success they have given a most generous group of prizes. Few radio programs have appealed to a larger or more loyal audience than "The Singing Lady." A poll of radio editors for the past two years voted this program the best children's entertainment on radio, and this year the Singing Lady received Radio Stars Award for distinguished service to radio. More than two million fan letters have come from children themselves and many of their grateful parents.

Prizes will be awarded for the letters that are the most helpful to the Singing Lady. Any one of three types can win: (1) a letter with ideas for new stories; (2) a letter telling what kind of stories children like best; (3) a letter giving constructive suggestions and ideas for the Singing Lady programs. All suggestions submitted become the property of the Kellogg Company.

Be sure to put your grocer's or store manager's name on your letter. If you win one of the big prizes he will win one too. Send your letter to the Singing Lady, Kellogg Company of Canada, Ltd., London, Ontario.

NOVEL EXPERIMENT PROMOTES MILK CONSUMPTION

Dairies in the United States have been using the new transparent straw, made by the Kellogg Company, in promoting the consumption of milk. They found that they were particularly appealing to children who were generally fascinated by the sight of the milk passing through the straws and drank more as a result.

"You'll never get that dog to obey you."
"It only needs patience. My husband was difficult at first."

It is said that the management of money is nothing less than the art of the natural operation of the laws of supply and demand, and it is a long and difficult step from securing stability in exchange values to measuring currencies in terms of commodities.

Unless the different countries of the world can trade freely with one another and the surplus of one can be used through the channels of trade and investment to increase the productivity of others, each country will have to remain more dependent on itself and the state of the world will become as unfortunate as the condition of a community, while individuals cannot trade with one another or lend or borrow between themselves.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia or neuritis, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin".

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin", most so-called "pain" remedies were advised for by physicians as being bad for the stomach, or often, for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is rated among the safest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

SCHOOL CLUB AT WEYMOUTH POINT

The School Club of the school at Weymouth Point has been re-organized for the 1935-36 term with the following officers:
President—Treva Cosman.
Vice-Pres.—Herbert Robicheau.
Secretary—Odella Robicheau.
The Club meets in the school room every Friday afternoon. Among the meetings held to far this term have been three, when programmes of readings, singing, etc., have been held, these taking the form of a contest between the boys and girls of the school. One afternoon a debate was held and today a mock election is being held. Great interest in the Club is taken by the pupils. R. Oliver Gibson, of Round Hill, is the teacher of the school.

METEGHAN

Wednesday of last week, at the 7 a. m. service, Rev. Father L. d'Entremont presided at the reception of young girls into the society of Holy Angels, of which Miss Marguerite Melanson is president, under direction of Rev. Sister Claude-Colle. Rev. Father L. d'Entremont, of Plympton, was visiting at the Glebe House last week—School Inspector, d'Entremont, of West Public, and W. N. Gates were at the Royal Hotel on Tuesday of last week—Charles Thibodeau, of Haverhill, Mass., is visiting his sister, Mrs. Aug. Dugas, after an absence of fourteen years.

Siffoi Pothier, of Haverhill, Mass., was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Deveau, recently—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Comeau of Weymouth, visited Mr. and Mrs. Leo Thibodeau, Sunday—Mrs. Leo Thibodeau visited his sister, Mrs. Harvey LeBlanc, of Ohio, recently—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond LeBlanc have returned from Cape Breton, where Mr. LeBlanc attended many exhibitions as an artist.

They escaped a serious accident when the steering rod of the car broke, but they received no injuries—Mr. and Mrs. Augustin Dugas have a bride party Wednesday evening of last week—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LeBlanc and Mrs. Germaine Muis, of Bellevue, accompanied by John Surette, of Stoneham, Mass., who was visiting relatives at Eel Brook, passed through this village to visit Saint Anne's College.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Williams, of Salmon River, were week end visitors at their son's, Edward Williams—Sunday evening the Society L'Assomption had a very interesting meeting. Guest speakers were: Mr. Charles Edmundson, N. B., and E. LeBlanc, of Moncton, organizers of the Society—Rev. Father J. M. Deveau is improving at the Halifax Infirmary.

Mr. and Mrs. Baden Powell and baby, visited the former's mother, Mrs. Byard Powell, at Plympton, on Sunday.

The members of Olive Branch Rebekeah Lodge, No. 100, met in the lodge rooms on Friday for a quilting party, and on Monday evening they held their regular semi-monthly meeting. On Oct. 18th, they are to have a special meeting, when Mrs. Beulah Speedy, of St. Stephen, N. B., Warden of the Rebekeah Assembly, and Mrs. Minnie Robinson, Past President of the Assembly, will be present for an official visit. It is hoped that all the members will make a special effort to be present at this meeting.

A delightful surprise was given to Mrs. D. V. Theriault, on Saturday evening of last week, by a group of her friends, it being her birthday. The evening was very enjoyable, spent in dancing, games and music. An address was read and she was presented with a beautiful and useful gift. Refreshments were served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Melanson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank LeBlanc, Professors Cormier and Pothier, and Miss Annes Stethelin, all of Church Point. Mr. and Mrs. Valery Theriault, of Bellevue's Cove, Augustin Lombard, of Corberrie, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Comeau, Mr. and Mrs. Harley LeBlanc, Mr. and Mrs. Plus Theriault, Miss Rose (Comeau) and Messrs. Phillip Brun and Frank Bellevue, all of Weymouth.

Marriages

Morehouse—Melanson

A wedding of interest to many friends took place at eight o'clock Monday morning, of last week, at Stella Maria Church, Meteghan, when Rev. Leopold d'Entremont united in marriage, Miss Nora Melanson, daughter of Morris Melanson, of Freeport, and Steve Morehouse, of Westport. The bridesmaid was Miss Elizabeth Melanson, of Freeport, cousin of the bride, while Augustus Theriault, of Meteghan Centre, supported the groom. As they entered the church Lohengrin's bridal chorus was played by the organist, Mrs. Joseph S. LeBlanc. Several other selections were also played during the nuptial Mass, and a very beautiful Ave Maria was rendered by Theodore Melanson. Following the Mass a reception was held at Lydia's tea-room at which over fifty friends of the couple, who had gone to Meteghan from Westport to attend the ceremony, were present. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts at a shower held in her honor at Westport, several weeks ago. They will reside at Westport.

Amiraull—D'Eon

A quiet but pretty wedding took place recently in St. Bernard's Roman Catholic Church, when Miss Arthenise d'Eon, only daughter of Theodore d'Eon and the late Mrs. d'Eon, formerly of New Edinburgh, but now residing in Haverhill, Mass., became the bride of Joseph Nelson Amiraull, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Amiraull, of New Edinburgh. Rev. Father E. Bourneuf, parish priest, performed the ceremony before a large number of friends and relatives of both bride and groom. The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother-in-law, Demetrius Amiraull, and looked charming in her wedding gown of white satin and lace, wearing a veil of white net. She wore white slippers and carried a white prayer book, from which were streamers of white ribbon and lilacs of the valley. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Lillian Doucette, as bridesmaid. The groom was attended by his only brother, Demetrius Amiraull, as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Amiraull will reside in New Edinburgh.

TENNIS CLUB NOTES

Members of the South Ohio Tennis Club motored here on Saturday and played a friendly tournament with members of the Weymouth Club. Following are the results:

Gentlemen's Singles, Weymouth—Donald Campbell, South Ohio—Gerald Crosby, scores 6-2 and 6-4 in favor of South Ohio.

Mixed Doubles, Weymouth—Katharine Blackard, Galen Pierce; South Ohio—Barbara Cooke, G. V. Jacques; scores 6-3, 6-1 in favor of South Ohio.

Ladies' Singles, Weymouth—Gertrude Harris; South Ohio—Alice Moses; scores 6-3, 6-1 in favor of Weymouth.

Mrs. Anderson spent a few days recently at Yarmouth.

W. R. Harris has returned from Halifax, where he attended the Exhibition.

THE only trouble with making pictures of Christmas dinners is that the day goes so fast. Before you know it, chances for rare shots have come and gone—gone, some of them, never to return, next year or ever. For babies will grow up and friends will move away.

So plan how for a few good shots this Christmas; shots that will mean, inescapably, Christmas, 1934.

To do the job up brown, you'll probably need to call all of your snapshotting talent into play. For there'll be interiors as well as outdoor shots, daytime and nighttime pictures, close-ups and long shots.

For example:

Holly wreaths at the door and in the windows. Shoot them from the outside at night, with lights arranged to bring out their full importance. A time-exposure from the outside, shooting in through the window at the lighted room, will give you a fine silhouette of the wreath in the window. Ask one of the youngsters to stand very still at the window during the exposure; that will add the necessary "human interest".

Trimming the tree. This will probably be a long shot, taken from far enough away to show the whole tree and the busy decorators. In all likelihood, a photoflash-type bulb will be your best reliance for this one.

Hanging the stockings at the mantel. A photoflash or photoflood type lamp in the fireplace (the fire itself, of course, being out) will illuminate the figures of children as they hang up their hopeful stockings. Be sure that the direct rays of the light do not strike your camera's lens.

A close-up of the piled-up gifts, before the children—or the grown-ups, for that matter—attack them. This will be another photoflood picture. If there are no people in the picture, you can close down the aperture of your lens and give a longer exposure than usual—half a minute or so, depending on the amount of the light and its distance from the centre of the picture.

Then, of course, a picture of the beautiful confusion of present-opening time. Don't let the tidy housekeeper deter you from getting the scene as it actually is. The more littered, the better.

If there are children, get a snap of each surrounded with his gifts. And there's no reason why every other member of the family shouldn't have the same treatment. If Sister has a new wrist-watch, see to it that it shows very plainly.

If yours is a neighborhood where the folks make much of outside decorations, with illuminated trees and such, you'll find that time-exposures of a minute or so will give you excellent pictures of the various lawn displays. Here, as in practically all shots, a tripod will come in very handy.

And if carol singers come your way, get a shot of them busily carolling away. A photoflash type lamp, in a hand-battery holder, will make this shot easy.

No—you needn't spend the whole time with camera in hand. But a few, well-chosen snaps will be very much worth the few minutes they require. Far better to spend those few minutes than lose the feeling, unique opportunities altogether. Right?

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

Gentlemen's Doubles, Weymouth—Galen Pierce, Donald Campbell; South Ohio—Crosby, Porter, scores 11-8 in favor of South Ohio.

Ladies' Doubles, Weymouth—Katharine Blackard, Gertrude Harris; South Ohio—Alice Moses, Barbara Cooke, scores 6-1 in favor of Weymouth.

At the conclusion of the tournament a buffet supper was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Harris.

Mrs. Anderson spent a few days recently at Yarmouth.

W. R. Harris has returned from Halifax, where he attended the Exhibition.

Mrs. Frank Journeay, of Annapolis Royal, spent the week end at her home here.

FOR SERVICE RENDERED

PART of the new Classified Long Distance Rates is the "Report Charge." In order to make possible the savings that accrue to Long Distance users through the new Station-to-Station rates, it was necessary to apply the Report charge on Person-to-Person calls.

When you put in a Person-to-Person call for someone in a distant locality, the operator establishes connection with his telephone. Whether she is able to put you in connection with him or not, operating time and labor have been expended, and the Long Distance circuits have been in use. It is for this service, including the operator's report to you, that the Report Charge is made.

Only one Report Charge is made, regardless of how many reports you receive. The circumstances under which it is applicable are as follows:

- (1) When the wrong telephone number or address has been given and the person cannot be reached within an hour.
- (2) When the called person is unknown and cannot be located.
- (3) When the person calling is not available or refuses to talk when connection has been made.
- (4) When the call is put in collect, and is not completed because neither calling nor called party will accept the charge.

No report charge is made:

- (1) When the telephone called is reported "Busy," "Out of Order," "Does not Answer."

WHY DOES SUCH A DIFFERENCE EXIST IN PRICES PAID BY THE CONSUMER IN CANADA COMPARED WITH THOSE IN THE UNITED STATES FOR HUNDREDS OF ARTICLES THAT ARE USED EVERY DAY IN OUR HOMES?

The wages and standards of living, if anything, are a little higher in the United States than in Canada. Our Canadian workmen are just as efficient, able and anxious to work as those in the United States. The Canadian retail merchant sells on a closer margin of profit than does the United States merchant.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
LABOR DAY PICTURES

Opportunities are unlimited on Labor Day for story-telling pictures such as the above.

IT'S hard to realize that the good old summer days has rushed by so fast and that we will soon be enjoying our last holiday of the summer season—Labor Day. But even if it is the last, it's almost the best from a picture-taking angle.

The above snapshot is just one example, and there are countless others.

As there is such a variation of light in different locations it is not possible to give any set rule for diaphragm openings and shutter speeds. For instance, when the above picture was made the sun was shining brightly but the picnic party was shaded by surrounding trees. The snapshotter with a folding camera got the correct exposure when he set the diaphragm opening at f/8 and the shutter speed at 1/25 of a second. But suppose this was a beach party; no trees are near to cast shadows but instead the bright sunlight is blazing down on the party and additional light is reflected from the water and sand. Then what?

You could then set the shutter speed for 1/100 of a second with the f/11 diaphragm opening. This setting of the diaphragm opening and shutter will serve two purposes. First—you will have the proper exposure, and second—at 1/100 of a second it will not be necessary for your subjects to "hold still" when the picture is snapped.

If you have a box camera you would open it to the largest stop for the picture above and a smaller one for the beach picture.

Although the principal rules for good picture making have from time to time been given in the Snapshot Guild, some readers may be benefited by a review of a few of them:

If there is any doubt, always give a little longer exposure.

Avoid prominent straight lines such as telegraph poles and trees and horizons which seem to cut the picture in half.

Never allow the sun to shine directly into the lens of your camera or there will be a flare of light on the negative.

Do not try to crowd too many objects nor too much scenery into a picture. Simplicity is the keynote of art in photography.

Two-thirds land or two-thirds sky makes for better composition in a landscape photograph than one-half of each.

With that review, here's to more and better pictures over Labor Day.

JOHN VAN GUILDER

MY DEBT TO MY TOWN

My Town owes me nothing; if accounts were balanced at this date I would be a debtor. Haven't I, all these years, lived within the limits of the Town and shared all its benefits? Haven't I had the benefit of its schools and churches? Haven't I had the use of its libraries, parks, and public places? Haven't I had the protection of its fire, police, and health department? Haven't I people, during all this time been gathering for me, from the four corners of the earth, food for my table, clothing for my body, and material for my home?

Haven't my Town furnished the patronage by which I have succeeded in my business? Haven't it furnished the best friends of my life, whose ideals have been my inspiration, whose kind words have been my cheer, and whose helpfulness has carried me over the greatest difficulties?

What will I give in return? Not simply the taxes which cover so small a part of what I have received. I want to give more; I want, of my own free will, to give enough that I can rightfully say, "This is my Town," so that I can take pride in "my Town" so that I can take pride in its prosperity, in the honors which come to its citizens, and all that makes it greater and better.

"I can only do this by becoming a part of the Town—by giving to it generously of myself. In this way only can I, even in small part, pay the great debt I owe to my Town."

Marriages

Comeau-Boudreau

At St. Paul's Church, Cambridge, Mass., Camille Comeau, government land surveyor, of Church Point, and Miss Martha Boudreau, of Cambridge, Mass., formerly of Weymouth, were united in marriage recently by Rev. Father Greene. Miss Irene Bennett was bridesmaid, and N. E. Comeau supported the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Comeau before returning to their home at Church Point, took an extensive wedding trip, visiting New York and Washington.

Allan-Colegins

A wedding of much interest was solemnized at the Baptist parsonage, Digby, on Sept. 28, when Rev. F. E. Bishop united in marriage Miss Dorothy Ellen Doty Coggins, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Coggins, of Weymouth North, to Hugh Allan, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Allan, of Yarmouth. The bride wore a wine suit with accessories to match. After the ceremony the couple motored to Lake Annis, where they spent a few days, after which they visited at the home of the bride's parents, before motoring to Yarmouth, where they will reside, where Mr. Allan is in business. The bride is a graduate of the Yarmouth Hospital, and has had a position for the past six months at Miltown, N. B. The many friends of the happy couple extend best wishes for their future happiness.

NORTH RANGE UNITED CHURCH

A fine example of community co-operation was shown a few weeks ago, when the people of North Range got together and, through a supper, raised a considerable sum of money, which they used in painting the exterior of the old Methodist Meeting House (the United Church) at Bloomfield Corner. This building dates back to about seventy years ago, and the inscription in the Bible on the pulpit runs, "Methodist Church, Bloomfield Corner, Digby Co., July 20th, 1877." The decorating work was done by Donald Marshall, Ross Thibideau and Eddie Emerault.

Then again they observed Sunday, the 6th, as a day for Harvest Thanksgiving. An abundance of fruit and many kinds of vegetables were brought to the church and these, along with very artistic decorations of flowers and foliage, made a fine display. Rev. C. U. MacNeven, who is there the first and third Sunday of the month in the afternoon, brought a message from "Give us this Day our Daily Bread," and, in the light of the Harvest, emphasized some of the ways in which this petition is answered. A fine congregation and good singing made it a very helpful service.

Obituary

Mrs. Alvin MacNeill

A great surprise came to the community, when it was learned that Mrs. Alvin MacNeill, of Plympton, had passed away on the afternoon of Sept. 23. She had always been a most active woman, but experienced a bad fall in the early summer which gave her leg a bad break and confined her to the hospital for a number of weeks. But she returned feeling fairly well, and all thought that a speedy recovery was on the way. However, other diseases were at work, and almost before people realized she was sick, she had died. The funeral was held on the following Wednesday, being conducted by Rev. C. U. MacNeven, of Weymouth, assisted by Rev. Mr. Higgins, of Brighton. The message was based on "The Fading Leaf," and, among other things, we were reminded that the leaves fade silently, gradually, differently, characteristically and beautifully. So should it be with a life lived according to God's purposes. The remains were laid away in the cemetery at North Range, where Mrs. MacNeill lived for a number of years and had won for herself many friends. The large number of people who filled the church for the service was a fine testimony to the respect given a life well lived.

Marks C. P. R.'s 50th Anniversary

Calgary, Alberta, November 7. — Next marks the fiftieth anniversary of the driving of the last spike in the completion of the Canadian Pacific line from Montreal to Vancouver and the final consummation of Canadian Confederation. Arrangements are now being made for its fitting celebration so that Canadian people and the country in general may be reminded of the part this country has played in national development. It is particularly fitting that the company's jubilee year should be marked by the appearance of an important book bearing on its history and the new volume by J. Murray Gibbon, whose picture is shown above, will be the more welcome on that account. It is entitled "Fifty Years and Apart from its special interest to Canadian people as a most complete and interesting history of their own country, it is so comprehensive and fascinating a tale of the discovery and development of Canada that it will make a strong appeal to all who are interested in this country. It is published by the Hobbie Merrill Company in the United States and by McLeod & Stewart in Canada and appears as an extremely handsome volume. Sixteen full color illustrations and over two hundred in black and white help carry the interest throughout, aided by a series of explanatory maps. It sells at $3.50 a copy. Despite its wide range of information and the vast amount of reading and research that clearly has gone into its making, it is full of human interest and an absorbing record of the human desire and ambitions that have become the foundation stones of Canadian nationality. History of the Canadian Pacific as it may be, is a fascinating and important book long before each played their part in the development of Canada. The fur trade, gold discoveries and ultimately the opening up of the country as a land for settlement each played their part in the development of Canada. But it was the search for the road to the "fast" that drew adventurous pioneer souls forward until Canada had become a Dominion and the Canadian Pacific Railway had been built.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

IS YOUR LENS CLEAN?

With a clean lens, plus proper exposure, you should always get sharp, clear pictures such as the ones above.

THE Guild has received a number of letters from fellow snapshoters complaining about smudgy looking pictures. They say they know their exposures are correct and developing done carefully with fresh, clean chemicals.

Granting that all this is true the next thing to consider is your lens. Is it clean? You have looked through dirty eye-glasses with probably a few finger prints on them. If you haven't it's a sure bet that you have experienced the difficulty of looking through a smudgy window. Clean eye-glasses and clean windows give clear vision and similarly the camera cannot "see" so well if its eye (the lens) is cloudy and smudgy from grease, finger prints and dust collected over a period of months.

Cleaning a lens is a very simple operation. All you need is a soft, un-starched linen handkerchief and perhaps a match or pencil. If the lens is quite smudgy the rear surface of the lens can easily be reached by removing the back of the camera. If the camera has a double lens (one behind and one in front of the shutter diaphragm), the front combination may be removed by turning to the left, which will allow you to work through the shutter opening when set for "time," with the handkerchief over the end of the match or lead pencil. If the lens is quite dirty breathe on it and then rub quickly with the handkerchief. Be sure, when replacing the front lens, to screw it back into the shutter as far as it will go.

The suggestion to work through the shutter opening also applies to cleaning the front surface of cameras with single lenses fitted to box cameras and certain folding models. Handle the lens carefully and don't exert too much pressure. It isn't necessary and might scratch the surface.

The amount of pleasure you get out of your camera depends almost entirely on how much thought and care you give it.

Picture taking is just like golf, tennis, basketball or bowling—the more you experiment, the more you learn. The more you learn, the greater your reward in self satisfaction.

There are many good books available on amateur photography but one of the latest and best is called "How to Take Good Pictures." It is packed with sound advice for the beginner or the advanced amateur and profusely illustrated with pictures of every type, diagrams and what have you. It might be called "The Amateur Photographer's Reference Book," but don't think for one minute it is as "dry" as such a name might imply. You can no doubt purchase this book from stores that sell cameras and photographic supplies.

If you know your camera—its limitations or its versatility—give careful thought to composition and storytelling possibilities then you are well along your way to take pictures as interesting and sharp as the two shown above.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

THE VOICE OF THE LEGION

Branch 22, of the Canadian Legion, met in the Dig-out with the Vice-President, Comrade C. B. Blanchard, in the chair. The goodby number present proved the wisdom of Comrade Secretary, V. L. Harris, in sending notices by card to all the membership.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President—Comrade C. L. Blanchard.

Vice-Pres.—Comrade Fred Harris.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Comrade Harry Benson.

Secretary—Comrade A. V. Banks.

Treasurer—Comrade J. Freeman.

Comrade Milton Morgan was added to the Trustees.

After the business period the troops had music and refreshments. The voice of the Legion urges all returned men to join up with them in order that they might exert their full weight and influence in these difficult days.

Mrs. L. V. Harris, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. MacIntyre, Miss A. M. Rice and Miss Blanche Purdy motored to Yarmouth on Wednesday of last week.

St. John's Guild met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Howard Rice, the first meeting since July, and plans were made for the winter's work.

Mrs. John Woodworth returned on Friday from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Redmond, at Kentville, and also with her sister, Mrs. Janey Foster, at Lower Granville.

Dr. Frank Parker Dry, of Lake Annis, was in town on Monday enroute to Annapolis Royal, where he will be the guest of Judge Livingstone.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING AT LANSDOWNE

On Thursday evening, Oct. 3, the people of Lansdowne held their annual Harvest Thanksgiving Service in the church, there being a large attendance of the residents of the district and visitors from Smith's Cove and Bear River. The ladies, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, Rev. C. L. Blanchard and Rev. F. S. Steeves conducted the service. Rev. Mr. Steeves giving the address, which was received with great interest, dealing as it did with sowing and harvest, not only of an agricultural nature, but of character as well.

During the service a trio, Mrs. Burton Harris, Mrs. Laura Litchfield and Rev. Mr. Steeves, of Bear River, rendered two beautiful selections. Mrs. John Roon, of Bear River, presided at the organ, and among those present was Miss Jagger, of Smith's Cove. Both take a deep interest in the work of this church.

The decorations were tasteful and lovely. Before the pulpit was a carpet of fruits and vegetables, most forming a soft background for the bright red of apples, soft yellow of squash and pumpkin, gay orange of carrots, crimson of cranberries, the back of the church and each window sill and chandelier trimmed to correspond, fern and asparagus mingled with autumn flowers forming a bank against the wall behind the pulpit, a particularly graceful wreath on the wall and on the end of each pew a wreath of Canadian Holly or one of carols with the feathery tops, proving what beautiful effects can be obtained by tasteful arrangement. Gladioli and other garden flowers were also used to complete a picture of peace and plenty. The ladies who carried out this work deserve high praise. The vegetables used for decoration, as well as generous boxes filled to overflowing with delicious apples, nourishing potatoes, turnips, etc., are given to the Digby General Hospital as a token of appreciation of the value of the Institution to the community.

PORTO RICO WAS ONCE COCK- PIT SPANISH MAIN

Among the islands comprising the West Indies is one which figured largely in the numerous fights which were staged during the 16th and 17th centuries in the Spanish Main, Porto Rico. It was discovered by Christopher Columbus in 1493. In addition to invasion of war, pirates and freebooters frequently sacked it. Following the Spanish-American war, Porto Rico was ceded by Spain to the United States. The island contains an area of about 3,200 square miles with a population of 1,543,913, overwhelmingly native, and therefore is very thickly populated. The capital is San Juan. Increasing numbers of Canadians have visited Porto Rico on the vacation cruises operated by the Canadian National Steamships from Montreal during the summer and Halifax in winter. While the United States supplies about 90 per cent of the island's imports, there is a considerable trade in codfish, Canada supplying one-third of the total quantity. Newfoundland two-thirds, the balance coming from Norway, the United States and other countries.

CANADA VIRGIN TERRITORY FOR WRITERS AND SPORTSMEN

Canada holds more unexplored possibilities, both for writers and sportsmen, than any other country, declared Rex Beach, internationally known writer, on his arrival in Montreal recently. Mr. Beach was returning from a trip which took him to Alaska via Canada. In Alaska he visited the settlement projects of the United States government and also renewed acquaintances in the territories he knew when he began writing his series of Gold Rush books. In Canada he passed long evenings at Jasper National Park in the Rockies to test the new rainbow trout fishery at Amethyst Lake in the Tonquin Valley, and he declared it more than lived up to advance notices.

"I talked fishing with people from Jasper to the Coast," declared Mr. Beach. "and I am convinced that in addition to this marvellous rainbow trout fishing at Amethyst, where I was a member of the first party to fish the lake since its planting, you have unexcelled rainbow trout fishing from Jasper to the Pacific."

"Canada is full of interest, there are so many things going on here. The exploration work which is being done all over Canada, with airplanes and other means for the discovery of mineralized areas, is an object lesson to the world. I advised the Alaska people to take a leaf out of Canada's book. Do you know, there isn't a prospector left in Alaska today while Northern Canada is full of them. And in Canada they are getting results."

"As for writers, there is so much going on in Canada today that it is an ideal country for them. You have new experiments in government—referring to Alberta. If you have romance you have everything to keep a writer busy. And for the sportsman, you have marvellous hunting, fishing and anything else he wants."

Defective Chimneys And Flues

Defective chimneys and flues were the cause of 21,000 fires in Canada during the last three years.

It is unfortunate that architects, masons and people generally are so careless in the construction and maintenance of chimneys and flues. The haphazard method of construction and indifferent use and care place them among the worst offenders. Chimneys and flues are the chief cause of fires in dwellings and consequently should be most carefully guarded.

Inspect and clean your chimneys and flues at least twice a year. New or start heavy winter firing without a thorough inspection and repairing of heating appliances and cleaning of chimneys.

The neglect of these results in the loss of many lives in the homes of our country. If you neglect yours you are exposing those helpless ones in your home to an unnecessary danger, and also contributing to the cause of our deplorable fire loss.

The habitual grouser was holding forth as usual, in the village grocer's about the price and quality of the goods.

"What do you want—the earth?" explained the grocer in exasperation.

His customer gathered up her string bag and fired a parting shot. "Not in my sugar, I don't!" she said, witheringly.

The physician was giving an informal talk on physiology. "Alas," he remarked, "it has recently been found that the human body contains sulphur."

"Sulphur!" exclaimed the girl in the blue and white blazer. "And how much sulphur is there in a girl's body?"

"Oh, the amount varies," said the doctor, smiling. "According to the girl."

"Ah!" returned the girl. "And is that why some of us make better matches than others?"

Hiram—"Waal, Si! I planted a mess o' turnips in 'er garden, an' what d'ye think cum up?" Cyrus—"Dunno, what?" Hiram—"A flock o' hogs, an' et 'em."

To the Electors of Digby-Annapolis-Kings

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

This is my third election campaign. Never before have I felt it to be more important to the people that they support my party, and myself. Let me give you a few reasons for so stating.

1. The country should put an end to one man government. Mr. Bennett is by temperament a dictator. Parliament has been flouted, Cabinet colleagues have become puppets, ministers have deserted him wholesale on the eve of battle, and he has held power to the last minute regardless of the wishes of the people, as expressed in nine successive by-elections. I believe in the restoration of the supremacy of Parliament and of true Cabinet government.

2. I believe that the Bennett tariffs of the last five years have been beyond all reason. They have shattered our customs revenues; which have decreased by over $100,000,000. This among other things has unbalanced our budgets and led to huge increases in the public debt and to heavy and ever heavier taxes. Our trade has been cut in two. Great foreign markets have been lost. Our efforts at reciprocity with the United States have failed. We have fallen below other countries in world trade; The distress of the fishermen; Bennett's "forgotten man"—is pitiable. The farmer has fared little better. There are four times as many men out of work as there were five years ago.

3. The Bennett policy of shutting out British goods from the Canadian market is calculated to lose the great market to which we have had free access for a century—the British market. Speakers for one of my opponents say that my party would scrap the 1932 Empire Trade Agreements. This is a gross misrepresentation. We would extend them and place them on the only basis on which they can last—a basis of give and take. I have read at nearly every meeting my leaders' pronouncement in this regard.

4. Public men who persist in making promises they can not or will not carry out should be turned out. The language of the ballot is the only language they understand. I have read at most meetings the wild Bennett promises of 1930. They constitute a disgraceful episode in Canadian politics. If such episodes become common, democracy is doomed.

5. The distress of the past five years has thrown up several new political parties. It has also caused the people to lose confidence in the Bennett government. As a result the Bennett Conservatives have no hope of change of a clear majority in the next House. Neither have the Stevens following or the Woodworth group or the Communists, or those advocating Social Credit. If any party is to have a working majority it is the Liberal Party. Some party must have a working majority or the result will be disaster. The issue is "KING OR CHAOS."

Let me say a word about the Stevens' following. In this riding a party has come forward claiming to be the party of the "common people," against "privileged interests," not wishing "party advantage," against "poverty in the midst of plenty," with no "political bosses," for "clean government," against "graft," and having the "cause of the people" and the "common good" at heart. The same claims have been made for every party from time immemorial. You are interested not in high claims but in the POLICIES by which these claims are to be made good. In matters of policy there is little of substance in the Stevens platform. The movement is led by a skillful Conservative politician of twenty-five years standing whose accusations against the established parties have come surprisingly late in life. I appeal to you not to be misled by them.

Just a personal word in closing. My party's constructive proposals have been printed and circulated and I need not repeat them here. Something depends on the quality of a member's activity apart from his party's policies. During the past nine years I have taken great care to give my constituents as high a grade of personal service as it is possible for a representative to give. I have been more independent than the average member, but it has been a matter of pride with me to be a good member. Whether I have succeeded is for you to determine.

I respectfully solicit your support.

Yours sincerely,

J. L. Hsley.

NEW YORKER EATS MORE APPLE PIE

Among pies, apple is the great favourite of the New Yorker. During the summer season, however, New York pie bakers turn out blueberry and huckleberry pies up to 80 per cent of the apple pie production. The domestic supply of blueberries comes for the greater part from Maine, while, as regards the imported variety, Newfoundland is the largest supplier of frozen berries, followed by Canada, Massachusetts, New Jersey and the Southern States.

Supply a large cultivated blueberry which is sold to restaurants and large purchasers, while those from the State of Maine, Newfoundland and Canada are of the semi-cultivated type. Maine produces annually an average of 264,750 bushels. Timed blueberries are not as popular as the frozen type, pie bakers claiming they obtain a great deal more fruit than in the case of the canned berries where juice makes up a good proportion of the weight. The greater portion of the timed blueberries come from Maine.

HOLLAND PRODUCES FOUR CLASSES OF POTATOES

In Holland, potatoes are divided into four classes: clay potatoes, grown for the greater part in a clay soil; moorland potatoes; sand potatoes; seed potatoes. The clay variety is the most important as regards exports. Belgium, Germany, the United Kingdom and France are the principal markets. Exports of seed potatoes are on the increase. Strange to say, Holland also imports potatoes, and the chief country of origin is Malaya. Germany supplies seed potatoes. As regards products, Holland is a large exporter of potato flour, supplies going to more than forty different countries, including Canada. Dextrose is also widely exported, although Great Britain took about 70 per cent of the total quantity last year. Belgium comes second, followed by Canada, Spain and British India.

There was a crash in the hallway, and mother rushed out to find Benny sitting fully on the floor at the foot of the stairs.

"Did you miss a step, Benny?" she enquired anxiously. "No, mom, I tripped Benny. 'I hit every one'."

Jury Fails to Agree in Conspiracy Case
Oct. 18, 1889
Genos Sanford's fate still hangs in the balance as a result of recent proceedings in the Supreme Court, where he is being tried on three counts charging conspiracy to defraud the Dominion Government of large sums in Customs and Excise Revenue through illegal liquor operations. A petit jury with Charles A. Pender as foreman, after considering the case from 12.30 to 1.30 failed to reach an agreement and were discharged by Judge Graham. The case was heard in Halifax.

Sanford was released on bail to appear this morning, when it will be decided whether he will be retried with a new jury or at the next term of the court. G. R. Ramey, associate defense counsel, gave an undertaking to His Lordship guaranteeing the appearance of his client. Daniel Owen, K. C., chief defense counsel, said that he would be unable to appear for another week due to the fact that he had several cases to conduct in Kentville, when the Supreme Court opens there next week.

Since arrangements had been made by the Crown to go ahead with the case of Eugene Price, charged with manslaughter; Sanford could not be retried right away. The Price case, defense counsel L. A. Ryan indicated previously, would take at least two and a half days, there being 28 witnesses.

Prosecutor H. P. McKeen, K. C., called two more witnesses when the case resumed, after having occupied the whole of the previous day. Mr. Owen called no defense witnesses.

Obituary

Simson Joseph Sully

There passed away in Smith's Cove, on Friday evening of last week, one of the oldest residents of the village, Simson Sully, in his 86th year. His death was quite sudden. It occurred in his home at 10 o'clock, after only a few hours illness. Simson Sully was of United Empire Loyalist descent and son of the late John and Araxine Dyer Sully, and had resided all his life in Smith's Cove. For the last twelve years he had made his home with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cossett. Previous to that he had owned a farm, and was also by trade a carpenter. He had been an active member of the Baptist Church during 70 years; a deacon during 28 years of that time; and Sunday School Superintendent for 12 years. He was of a genial and jovial disposition, and will be much missed in the community. His wife, Elizabeth Winchester Sully, predeceased him by twenty-three years. He is survived by one son, Arthur D. Sully, and two daughters, Mrs. Ralph Cossett and Mrs. Elmer Weil; and six grandchildren; all of Smith's Cove. The funeral was from the home of Mr. Cossett, conducted by the Rev. W. H. Turner, of the Smith's Cove Baptist Church, and was largely attended. The many floral tributes testified to the esteem in which Mr. Sully was held. Interment was in the Sully cemetery.

Mrs. Jesse F. Ameriault

The death of Mrs. Jesse F. Ameriault, deceased, occurred suddenly at her home on Monday. Death was caused by a stroke of apoplexy. The deceased, who was about 34 years of age, was formerly a Miss Keddy, of New Ross, N. S. She is survived by her husband and six small children. Interment was made at New Ross.

Mrs. H. A. Baxter, was a passenger to Saint John on Saturday, where she met her son Douglas, they motored to Boston. Mrs. Baxter expects to be gone two weeks.

894 candidates have been nominated for the 245 seats in Federal Parliament. Conservatives 232; Liberals 242; C. C. F., 118; Reconstruction, 174; Social Credit, 47; Others, 81.

THE BASKET SOCIAL

As I am sitting here relaxing, After my daily work is through; I am going to play I am young once more. And I know what I will do. I'll pretend there's a basket social At the old school house tonight; And I'm going to trim my basket With colors nice and bright. 'Twill be covered with crepe paper, That lovely pink and blue; And oh, a lot of nice roses, And ruffles, not a few.

When finished I will carry it To the top of Raymond's hill; To the dear old country school house. And won't I get the thrill! And when the baskets are gathered Ready for auction, well, I Would liken them unto a rainbow So colorful in the sky.

Then the auctioneer be started, Then the basket near. Now how much I offered For the basket I'm holding here? Thirty cents, well, that's a starter Why the trimmings worth that I'm sold. Let alone, what's under the cover First, second, third and last time; (one dollar) sold.

And as the baskets were auctioned I surely was lots of fun; But yet, I was awfully sorry For those who procured the wrong one.

And when a rival started bidding A lively interest did ensue; As the figures kept rising higher Their ire also grew.

And then my bright little basket In the auctioneer's hands I did see. And the one who really procured it Was the one I had hoped it would be.

How come he to get my basket? Well, I told him which one, for he Said he wanted that pretty basket Because it belonged to me.

At last the auction was over, The couples all smiled for they knew, That in that old country school house The seats would only hold two.

Oh my! I must have been dreaming, Too soon I awakened for you see I was listening while he was repeating About that basket belonging to me —Eva Harvey Nichols, 59 Perth St., West Roxbury, Mass.

LARGE BROADCASTING STATION TO BE ERRECTED IN INDIA

There are a large number of wireless sets in operation in India, the greater portion being of United States origin. Great Britain is the next largest source of supply followed by Holland and Germany. The native is keen on radio, 90 per cent of the licenses in the early days of broadcasting in India being taken out by Indians. In addition to electrically operated sets, which are increasing in number, electric transmission lines are extended, battery sets are in use where there is not an available supply of electric current. There is also a demand for parts for assembling sets of more simple types. Radio reception in India is complicated in some parts of the country by high-powered European and other outside stations and a new large broadcasting station is about to be constructed in Delhi, which will be able to change its wave-length at will and is an endeavour to overcome this interference. It is designed to cover the 200-550 metre wave band.

On Sunday, Sept. 22, Mr. and Mrs. John Robichaud and children, Grace and Jack, motored to Bridgetown, accompanied by Mrs. Ida M. Weil.

Obituary

Mrs. Fred Peck

The death of Ethel, wife of Fred Peck, occurred at Roxbury, Mass., on Sunday. For many years Mr. and Mrs. Peck were residents of Digby. She was the daughter of John and Clara (Taylor) Moore, of Saint John, N. B., and was born in that city. The remains were brought to Digby on Tuesday. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the home of Mrs. J. W. Peck, with Rev. H. H. MacNeil officiating. Rev. T. W. Hodgson officiated at the grave. Interment was in Fairview (United Church) cemetery. Surviving are: her husband, Fred Peck, three sons, Kenneth, Frederick and Gerald; two daughters, Mrs. Ivar Carlson (Ethel), and Lillian, all of Roxbury, Mass.

Mrs. George Jordan

The death of Fanny, wife of Geo. Jordan, occurred Monday at Acadiaville. Deceased was 45 years of age. Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon by Rev. M. L. Anderson, pastor of the Acadiaville African Baptist Church, officiating.

Albert Marshall

The death of Albert Marshall, well known resident of South Range, Digby County, occurred at his home in that village on Oct. 7, after a comparatively short illness. The late Mr. Marshall, except for a few years during which he resided at Joggins Bridge, lived his entire life at South Range, the village in which he was born ninety-one years ago. He was the son of the late Stephen and Matilda (Bacon) Marshall. For many years the deceased was superintendent of the Christian Sunday School at South Range. Funeral services took place on Thursday of last week with the Rev. Donald Stockford, pastor of the Christian Church, officiating. Services were at the home and in the church. He is survived by his widow and three sons, Burpee, of Framingham, Mass.; Jessie and Hanford, of South Range; and one daughter, (Ethel), Mrs. William Cossaboon, of Port Maitland. One sister, Mrs. William Devore, of South Range, also survives.

Olive Branch Rebekah Lodge, of Weymouth, is meeting in the lodge rooms on Monday evening, Oct. 21, at 8 o'clock. At the conclusion of the meeting a clipping party will be held. It is hoped that the members will make a special effort to be present, and to bring a friend along for the party.

Scallop Sloop "Tryme" Cap-sizes and Sinks

Three lives were claimed last night in the worst tragedy in the history of the Digby scallop fleet, when the dragger "Tryme No. 3" capsized about four miles off Gulliver's Head, and plunged to the bottom in sixty fathoms of water.

The dead are:—

Capt. Charles Hayes VanTassel, age about 35 years, married, and survived by a wife and four daughters.

Lea Clements, of Eel Brook, Yarmouth County.

Gerald Stark, son of Luther Stark, Digby, age about 21.

The fourth member of the crew, Lea Elliott, of Digby, age 55, was rescued.

As far as can be learned the tragedy occurred about 5:30 o'clock. The "Tryme" was hoisting in her five-net set of drags, heavily weighted with rocks and scallops, from the bottom, when, in some manner the cables jumped the "nigger head" or winch drum, throwing the net aloft the weight capsizing the boat. The "Tryme" was the only open boat in the fleet of Digby scallop draggers.

Joe MacDormand, of the dragger "Vivie M.", Capt. John Tibbets, said the craft started about fifteen minutes before taking her final plunge to the bottom. According to MacDormand, the "Vivie M.", the Elliotts, and the "Tryme" were all within a few hundred yards of each other. While the "Tryme" was hoisting, the other boats had their drags out, and were not aware that anything out of the ordinary had happened until they heard cries coming from the vicinity of the stricken boat.

The boats, as soon as they could free their drags, went to the rescue. When the "Vivie M." arrived within range ropes were thrown to Elliott and Stark, the only two men who remained afloat. Elliott, the oldest member of the crew and the only one who could not swim, caught the rope thrown by MacDormand, and was hauled aboard. Stark was seen to reach for the rope thrown by Lawrence Elliott, also of the "Vivie M.", and a nephew of the rescued man, but he missed it and went down never to come to the surface again.

Beside Capt. Tibbets and the two already mentioned, another member of the crew of the "Vivie M." was Jack Deviller, roommate and pal of Clements, the Eel Brook man who lost his life.

Capsized by the weight of the heavily laden drags, the craft first rolled over on its side, then settled into the water stern first. In the stern were three and a half barrels of shelled scallops and a large quantity of scallops in the shell. This added to the weight of the machinery, soon carried the boat to the bottom.

Captain VanTassel was seen to grab a piece of wreckage and cling to it for a time; then he left it and swam back to the sinking boat and clung to it. When the craft took its final plunge, Elliott and Stark were seen to jump clear, but the captain and Clements were dragged down with her.

When the "Tryme" was sighted by the "Vivie M." her stern had settled in the water, and her bow was standing upright about ten feet in the air. Other boats from the fleet joined those nearest the stricken craft and helped all possible in the rescue work but in vain. The fleet cruised around in the semi-darkness in a search for bodies but none were found.

Elliott, the sole survivor, perhaps owes his life to the fact that he succeeded in kicking off his heavy boots. Stark, the youngest member of the crew, was unable to free himself of his boots.

Last night's tragedy was the first of its kind in the history of the fleet. There was one fatality during the early years when a man named Halliday, of Hillsborn, Annapolis County, was caught in a winch cable and crushed to death. Others have received serious injuries which have resulted in the loss of limbs. Gerald VanTassel, brother of Capt. VanTassel, the captain who lost his life last night, lost a foot about two years ago as the result of catching it in the cable.

Westport Youth May Lose Leg

Dangerously wounded as the result of a duck hunting accident Saturday morning, Nickerson Lent, 15 year old Westport youth, may lose his right leg.

Lent, together with a chum, were gunning for duck on Digby Neck, when the latter accidentally dropped his gun. The weapon striking a rock was discharged and the heavy load of duck shot caught Lent in the thigh lacerating the flesh terribly and shattering the bone.

Lent was taken to his home, where first aid treatment was given and later placed on board a government cutter, and taken to the Yarmouth hospital, where he lies in a serious condition.

Dr. L. M. Morton, the surgeon in charge of the case, says that his injuries are severe, but expresses the hope that his leg will be saved.

SUBSCRIBERS' ATTENTION!

Newspaper Law.

1.—A postmaster is required to give notice in writing (returning the paper does not answer the law) when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office and state the reason for its not being taken. Any neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publisher for payment.

2.—If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until payment is made.

3.—Any person who takes a paper from the post office, whether directed to his name or another, or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for pay.

4.—If a subscriber orders the paper stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send, the subscriber is bound to pay for it. It takes it out of the post office. This follows the same principle that a man must pay for what he uses.

ELECTION COMMENTS WE HAVE HEARD

"Where is the Reconstruction Party?"

"What will become of Canada—the government has been defeated?"

"King has won, prosperity will come."

"It's the quietest election I have ever known."

"The Liberals are always honest and always play fair on election days—that's more than you can say about the Tories."

"We're sunk."

"Bennett has given Canada the best government it has ever had—his work has not been appreciated."

"The Tory oppression and Bennett dictatorship are things of the past."

"What difference does it make—they are all tarred with the same stick."

"Hurrah! For the past five years I have only been able to run a wheelbarrow. Now King's in and I'll be able to buy a car."

And then there is the story of the man who woke suddenly from a sound sleep, exclaiming "What's that! What's that! His wife replied, 'I guess it's only the cat.' "No, no," he said; "I know what it is—it's the 'Reconstruction Party.' Then he rolled over and went back to sleep."

Capt. and Mrs. Selvaie and family have returned from Toronto, where they attended the Salvation Army Congress.

This is the third list appearing in the Courier. If any contributions have been omitted, we shall be glad to rectify the mistake.

Better Lighting for Safer and Better Living

The Cheapest Comfort You Can Buy is Good Lighting . .

Good light costs less today than ever before in history. More than 100 major improvements have benefited Lamp users—and since 1921 price reductions totaling about 58 per cent. have been made in Edison Mazda Lamps. Added to this is the great reduction which has been made in the cost of Electric Lighting during the last ten years—even if good lighting were expensive it would be worth many times its cost yet it is actually one of the cheapest necessities in the world. Compare the cost of light with some of the comforts and pleasures for which you spend your money. The average family spends less than 40c a week for lighting their homes—Less than the price of two packages of cigarettes.

GIVE BUSINESS A CHANCE

Few seem to question the reports that business is definitely getting better. The improvement may be slow, far too slow for some persons, but it has been steady, and there have not appeared so many of the seasonal retrogressions of the past. Business seems to be consolidating the gains it has made.

This is good news for Canada.
Most of us have sensed the improvement in conditions, and all of us hope that progress along this line will continue. The early autumn pick-up has been noticeable, and prospects are for its continuance until the end of the year, at least.

As we enter the first of next year, with the picture brighter than it has been since 1930, most of us are hoping and praying that nothing will develop to upset the business apocalyptic.

In this connection two things must be remembered. We shall do well to avoid all things that will create business uncertainty.
And we should curb inclinations to lax to death this growing business boomlet. Not only the federal government, but provincial governments as well, have fallen into these errors in the past. Therefore the voters should see to it that their legislators refrain from tossing monkey-wrenches too promiscuously when law-making bodies meet again. Give business a chance.

Adolph Hitler has come out against former President Wilson's 14 points.
He doesn't seem so very strong for the Ten Commandments either.

NIAGARA GORGE RAILROAD A MEMORY

The old gorge route at Niagara Falls soon will be a memory.
Officers of the Niagara Gorge Railroad Company, operators of the scenic trolley along the gorge since 1896, have applied to the Public Service Commission for dissolution of the company.

Unable to compete with the motorized transportation, the railroad, which has carried thousands of tourists close to the swirling waters, has suffered of late years from decreasing patronage.

Mark Twain wrote of the beauties of the trip. The Prince of Wales rode the gorge-line cars. Kings and princes and plain honeymooners have listened to the voice of the guides rising above the roaring waters to explain the wonders of the view. In all, more than 13,000, 000 persons from all parts of the world have patronized the gorge line.

Perhaps the thing most needed in this country is to have about 10,000-000 people take the Golden Rule home with them on Sunday, instead of leaving it in church.

SUPERIOR TO OUR CITIZEN- SHIP

Blatantly flaunted in the face of youth today are all manner of glamorous and intriguing temptations. Through press, screen, and misdeeds by their elders, the minds of youth are constantly exposed to deeds of misconduct.

In spite of all this, the mind of the average youth of today will be found harboring high ideals. It is true that many of our youngsters have gone astray during the last decade or so, but many of the older folks have done the same. The fact fails to furnish proof that either all of our boys and girls or all our grown-ups are on the down grade.

Youth of today enjoy privileges of freedom and advantages of education undreamed of by the youth of past generations.
We have faith in our young folk and are sincere in belief that the present crop of boys and girls will mature into men and women far superior in every way to our present generation of all.

Don't Guess But Know

Whether the "Pain"
Remedy You Use
is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's
Well-Being to Unknown
Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are using for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN".

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among
the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism—feverish and neuralgic. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this:

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company,

SCHOOL FAIR AT LITTLE BROOK FOR CLARE DISTRICT

The annual School Fair was held this year at Little Brook. The weather being ideal, the largest crowd ever seen on such an occasion, gathered there in the afternoon to witness the various exercises.

The three schools that took part were Stella Maris School, Meteghan, Church Point and Comauville school.
The order of the exercises was as follows:

The three schools led by their own ranner, lined up and paraded to the rounds. Then Church Point went through their exercises followed by Stella Maris School and last by Commauville School.
The programme which consisted of parade, agns, drill, school yell and public speaking, was scored according to merit by Dr. Longley, of Truro, Director of the Extension Service.
He commended the work of the three schools and of the increasing progress that was shown.

Stella Maris School scored highest in the song, yell, parade and speech contest. Church Point banner scored highest, while Comauville led in the drill.

After the programme several speakers addressed the audience. They were: Dr. Longley, Inspector of Elementary Schools, M. F. Raymond, Willie Comeau, M. F. Raymond, pastor of Church Point;
Miss Armstrong, and finally R. Le-Blanc, our agricultural representative, who is untiring in his effort for the success of our Rural School Fairs.

FOUNTAIN PENS 600 B. C. SURE

Relics of a lost American race, which had developed a crude form of fountain pen and other evidences of considerable cultural growth more than 2000 years before this continent was discovered by the white man are being uncovered by the Witte Memorial Museum expedition now working in the caves of southwest Texas, says the Christian Science Monitor.

Just what that race may have been where it originated or what finally became of it is a complete mystery.
It is believed not to have been Indian, for hair found clinging to two skulls is dark brown in color and of very fine texture, entirely unlike the coarse, jet-black hair of the true Indian. It is evident, also, that the race was very small in stature, as its skeletons, which have been left in great numbers, would barely fit a 12 year-old boy of today. The race was lashed utterly more than 2000 years ago.

The fountain pen, which is perhaps one of the greatest of the man, mysteries being uncovered by investigators sent out by the Witte Memorial Museum, of San Antonio, is made of a five-inch piece of bone from a deer's leg. The bone has been carefully hollowed out, and the small lower end is set a piece of manganese ore, like a clumsy pen-point. Into the large upper end, was poured oil or grease, which flowed down around the piece of ore, forming a workable kind of ink.

Just what may have been written with the pen is a mystery equal to all the others which surround the discoveries, for, so far as can be found, the race had no written language and no trace of writing has been discovered. It is thought, however, that the writing, whatever it may have been, was done on some crude form of paper or perhaps on hides, which have entirely disintegrated with the passage of many centuries.

That the race was of a highly affectionate nature is evidenced by the loving care which it seems to have bestowed on its children.

Tiny necklaces and pendants of very beautiful workmanship have also been discovered, as well as diminutive sandals, far too small to be worn by a child able to walk, and evidently part of the layette which some prehistoric mother prepared for her baby.

While the race apparently wore few, if any clothes, it was highly skilled in spinning yarn from fur, which it wove into blankets of excellent quality, and also in the making of cordage from which it manufactured bags of various kinds. Some of the latter were closely woven and waterproof, for use in carrying water from streams and springs to the caves. Many of the bags were of a nature almost identical with meshbags sold in modern stores and if laid side by side with the modern bags, could hardly be distinguished from them, except, perhaps, because of their superior workmanship.

Lodge on Friday evening. Pair Isle Rebekah Lodge, of Brunswick, explained the Rebekah degree, which was done very beautifully.—Eugene McDermott, teacher at Tiddville, spent the week end at his home here.
—The quarterly meetings held here on Tuesday and Wednesday were largely attended and money enjoyed.

—Mrs. Robie Tibert, Mrs. Edgar Whitcomb and Mrs. Arthur Campbell were week end guests of Mr.
and Mrs. Holland Titus.—Work is completed on the Government pier and the men have returned to their homes.—A. Hayden and Jack Nichols, of Digby, spent one day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thompson.—Guests at Harbor View Inn last week were: Mrs. George Sollows, Mrs. Walter Outhouse, Mr.
Thivert, Samuel Stills, Yarmouth;
W. d'Entremont, Meteghan River;
Charles Greene, Smith's Cove; Mrs.
Robinson, Mrs. Speedy, St. Stephen.

—The Misses Dorothy Thompson and Alice Bailey were in town Monday.
—Miss Olive Bailey, of Digby, spent the week end at her home here.—A tragic affair occurred here on Saturday morning, when Wickerson Lent, son of Harry Lent, was acci-dently shot through the leg by his companion, Alfred Garron. The shot was fired through the leg, breaking the bone completely off. He was rushed to the Yarmouth Hospital in Patrol Boat, Capelin.

THE SNAPSHOT GUILD

HOW ABOUT MOVIES?

MAY as well be frank about it. Until a few months ago I had the notion, shared by a good many other folks, that home movies were (1) expensive, (2) difficult, and (3) not very good anyway.

And then Bill, a friend of mine, got a movie outfit. Neither he nor his family can be classed as wealthy, or anything like it, but there he was, sporting a movie camera. Naturally, I was curious.

The camera itself was about the size of a small book. Slid into a top-coat pocket without any fuss at all. It was not as simple, Bill showed me how to run it. You merely held it up, aimed it as you would a gun, pressed a button, and you are making movies. Oh, of course, there was a spring to wind and a lens aperture to set, but it was any amount simpler than my favorite snapshot camera. Even the loading was easy.

That particular camera, as I recall it, cost about $40. It used 8 mm. film and held enough to allow for a couple of dozen full-length shots—each shot long enough to show, for example, a sensational football play, from the snap of the ball to the end of a fifty-yard run, forward pass included. All that on ten cents' worth of film.

Movie film, I learned, is really pretty cheap to begin with and doubly so when you consider that the purchase price includes the cost of finishing done by the manufacturer.

Well, I revised my notions of movies, as to cost and difficulty.

promptly. And when I saw the finished movies a week later, I got all over the idea that amateur movies weren't very good. Bill's were excellent. And he's only an average person, a snapshotter like the rest of us.

Am passing all this on merely for your consideration. Movies, at their best, will never in this world take the place of good snapshots. The snapshot camera has a charm all its own. But there's no reason at all why snapshots shouldn't take up more than their proper share. They can do things that still cameras cannot. They can get the whole of a bit of action instead of merely a part of it.

As far as technicians are concerned, anyone who has mastered the essentials of snapshotting can take up the modern movie camera without a quiver. Bill has permitted me to make a number of movie shots and I'm both surprised and delighted with the results. Maybe someday I'll get me an outfit.

I find that there are two standard sizes for amateur movie film—8 millimeter and 16 millimeter (Hollywood uses 35 millimeter film). Naturally, costs are less in the 8 mm. class than in the 16, but even the 16 mm. outfits are surprisingly reasonable in both first and operating costs. Of course, you can spend a great deal of money on special equipment, but it's not at all necessary. By the way, with something 16 mm. outfits you can get action pictures in full color. That's something we snapshotters can't quite do, to date.

LANTERN SERVICE IN THE WEYMOUTH FALLS AFRICAN BAPTIST CHURCH

Another lantern service was held in the African Baptist Church at Weymouth Falls, when Rev. C. U. MacNeven, of the Weymouth United Church, was there with his machine on Tuesday evening, Oct. 8th.

Mr. MacNeven had about twenty slides along with him, which showed some of the world's famous paintings, such as Watts' "Hope," Tissot's "The Ruins of Da Vinci's 'The Last Supper' etc. The last slide was of Cologne Cathedral in Germany, a building of unusual proportions and with a history that fires the imagination, for more than five hundred years were spent in building it. Mr. MacNeven used this picture as an introduction to a sermon based on the words of St. Paul, where he said that "Christ loved the Church and gave himself for it."

CENTRAL GROVE

Richard Delaney, of Digby, spent the week end recently with his father, George Delaney—L. J. BEAR RIVER AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Bear River Agricultural Society was held in Bear River, on Saturday, Oct. 12, with a representative number of the members present. Reports in connection with the 1935 Exhibition were presented and showed that the Society's funds are in a healthy condition. The 1935 Exhibition showed a surplus of $400.93 which is some $50 less than the previous year. The Exhibitors numbered 201 and the Exhibits 1106. Attendance was almost equal to that of the previous year. Further improvements were made to the Stock Sheds and inside the main building and dishes were also purchased for 100 people. The management wish to take this opportunity to thank all who helped in making the 1935 Show a success and to also thank the Manager and staff of the Stock Sheds in Bear River for their kindness in distributing the prize checks, which results in the saving of considerable postage. Exhibitors whose address is Bear River might note that the Prize Checks can be obtained from the Bank by calling there for them.

The following were appointed as officers for the year 1935-36:

President—Roy S. Snell.
Vice-President—Frank Dittmars.
Secretary—Treasurer—P. H. Hatheway.

Auditors—C. D. Rice and C. W. Jefferson.

Directors—Howard Rice, Bernard Arnold, Fred Rice, George Oickle and Fred C. Harris.

Delegates to County Association Meeting: Roy Snell, H. E. Chisholm and P. H. Hatheway.

It was decided that the Prize List should be in the hands of the Exhibitors not later than 1st of May next and a meeting will be held early in the year to make plans for the 1936 Exhibition.

P. H. Hatheway, Secretary.

Free Samples of Vick Aids to Better Control of Colds Offered by Local Druggists

Trial Packages Contain Vicks VapoRub And a Home Guide to Faster and Shorter Colds—Druggists Also Have Free Samples of Vicks Medicated Cough Drops

Thousands of Canadian families have already gained greater freedom from colds with the help of the famous Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds.

Developed by the makers of Vicks VapoRub, this home guide to faster and shorter colds is common sense made easy. It is the result of 30 years of practical experience and research by Vicks Chemists specializing in the study of colds. Its worth has been demonstrated not only in everyday home use, but also in extensive clinical tests under medical supervision.

And now — to introduce Vicks Plan to more families in this section — local druggists are distributing free trial packages containing complete details of the Plan and samples of the Vicks Colds-Control Aids.

Aid in Preventing Many Colds
Discovery of Vicks Vapo-Rub, unique aid in preventing colds, made Vicks Plan possible. Especially designed for the nose and upper throat, where most colds start—Vapo-Rub aids and stimulates nature's own functions to prevent many colds, and to throw off head colds in the early stages.

Vapo-Rub is easy and convenient to use—any time or place! Just a few drops up each nostril at the first nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze. Used in time, it helps to avoid many colds.

Don't forget—your druggist has a few free trial packages of these Vicks Aids to Better Control of Colds. See him today, before they're all gone. The free packages contain all the information you need for following Vicks Plan. Test the samples — then prove what Vicks Plan can do for you and your family. You'll find it easy to follow in your own home.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION MEET AT GRANVILLE FERRY

About one hundred were in attendance at the annual fall rally of the Young People's Union of the Annapolis West Presbyterian of the United Church, which met at Granville Ferry on Friday last. Meetings were presided over by Mrs. W. H. Forsyth, of Sandy Cove. Representatives were present from Granville Ferry, Bear River, Digby, Centreville, Weymouth, Annapolis Royal and Sandy Cove. The only society not being represented was the Young People's Union of the Annapolis East. P. U. Union had been invited to be present the following societies were represented: Bridgetown, Lawrencetown, Aylesford, Berwick and Waterville.

The guest speaker for the day was Rev. M. W. Armstrong, of Fairville, N. B., a former Bridgetown, N. S., young man, his subject for the afternoon was "Christian Youth Building a New World." He spoke of the meeting being held on very historic ground, he spoke of the first arrival who started out from that place to build a new world and that it was very fitting for the young people today to be starting out on their quest of building a new world, by starting on the same path and within the shadow of the same mountain and within a few yards of the place where the first convert was made to Christianity, the first ship was built and where the first blood was shed in the war between England and France. As those early settlers succeeded he saw no reason why the young people of today could not succeed in their quest. As the early settlers trembled at the thoughts of the first winter, so the young people of today tremble at present world conditions. He urged the young people to take the path which Jesus has set for them, and with courage and faith build the new world.

Before an open forum many problems were discussed, including War. The word service was at the afternoon session was taken by the Bear River Society, and at the evening meeting by the Granville Ferry Society. In the evening Mr. Armstrong took as his subject, "Young People Organizing for Action". The following officers were elected: Honorary President—Rev. W. H. Forsyth, Sandy Cove. Vice-President—Miss Dorothy Saunders, Granville Ferry. Secretary—Miss Kathleen Fitzgerald, Weymouth. Treasurer—Miss Florence Keen, Digby.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

DON'T BE EMBARRASSED

Don't let crowds interfere with your picture taking for there are too many picture possibilities to overlook.

EVERY day we learn more about our amateur photographers and, surprisingly as it may seem, find that many feel somewhat embarrassed taking pictures in view of the public eye. They shrink from the attention they arrogantly believe they attract. To feel that way is really absurd. That type of self-consciousness will be the cause of your missing many interesting pictures. You can rest assured there is no thought of ridicule on the part of those who may be apparently watching you snap a picture. Nine chances out of ten the spectator is envious and wishes he owned a camera or had one with him.

There are times, however, when you may want to conceal your camera—and your actions—as much as possible, not because of embarrassment, but for the sake of an unusual human interest picture.

Everywhere you go in a city, whether it is in the park where babies are perambulated by their nursesmaids, or in the gloomy slums where some immigrant mother hangs out the family wash while ragged little urchins play perilously on "upper" balconies, you can find dramatic, story-telling pictures. As you walk through the streets and parks there are countless opportunities for snapshots that are really unusual, and such pictures breathe new life into your snapshot album.

When you come upon a good picture possibility in the form of a person or persons in action, that is the time you want to conceal your camera and intentions as much as possible, for to get the best results, your subject should not be conscious of your presence. On approaching such subjects, it is best to set your focusing scale at a distance from which you believe you will get the best results. Judge your shot and properly set the diaphragm and shutter speed. When you are "all set," approach your prey quite unobtrusively and when you reach the proper distance to take the picture you are after, shoot without further delay and your unsuspecting victim will have unknowingly furnished you with good snapshot material.

This kind of amateur photography can be employed in so many places. This is especially true in the summer, for if there is any place to get informal, candid camera pictures, it is on picnics, at your local swimming pool, or the favorite old swimming hole, at the seashore or summer resort.

And, speaking of summer resorts, have you noticed the number of nationally known people—stars and screen stars, members of socially prominent families, and even great business leaders—who are pictured in newspapers and magazines with their cameras in action. It has really become the smart thing to own and use a camera.

So, forth with your camera with all the abandon of a sailor strutting with one of his many sea-birds, and get the kind of picture your friends will talk about and prize.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

The Institute Objective

The Woman's Institute is an organization of women under the direction of the department of Agriculture, the object of which is to help the housekeeper to make her home attractive, healthy, and beautiful, to promote social intercourse, to learn how to better care for the sick and to give the best education to the growing child, to encourage the young people on the farm to study those subjects which are most useful to country life, to study the selection and preparation of food from an economical and nutritive standpoint, to economize labor, and all of which goes to help the mothers and daughters to live the healthiest and fullest lives possible under the conditions which surround them.

Following is the Secretary's Report for Bear River Institute for year ending Sept. 30, 1935.

We have held ten regular meetings during the year with an average attendance of seventeen members.

The meetings have been interesting and helpful. The programmes varied and have included papers on "Important Days of the Year," Current Events, Infectious Diseases, the Silver Jubilee of King George and Queen Mary, Christmas Readings and Carols, Piano Selections; school children gave songs and exercises at one meeting. Conundrums and Household Remedies in answer to Roll Call. Probably our outstanding programme for the year was the address by Mrs. G. S. Sanford, of Goldbrook, president of the provincial executive. With her pleasing personality and helpful and inspiring address it was a most interesting meeting. Institute members were asked to keep in mind two things—Friendliness and Loyalty. These are keystones to successful Institute work. Refreshments were served at this meeting, also at several other meetings during the year.

The rally held at Meteghan River on June 18 was very interesting. An excellent display of needlework, quilts, mats and thrift articles were shown. Miss MacDougall was present and spoke of interest that was taken by members in these rallies.

The activities of the Institute have included the following:—The placing of a wreath on the monument by the president on Remembrance Day; also geranium and alstroemeria plants were placed at the base of the monument and it has been a beauty spot during the summer months.

A delicatessen booth was conducted by the Hospital Committee at the Fair in Digby. This has been a yearly effort by the Institute members where the people of the town can contribute toward the Hospital Fund by donating food and early jellies, etc. which are sold, and the money turned in to the treasurer of the Hospital Board.

The Bear River convalescent hospital has also been re-decorated and a new linen scarf for-dresser and a small chair re-upholstered. A new copper plate, with name "Bear River" engraved, has been placed on the floor of the room, and a brass plate engraved with the name of Fulton Park has been purchased and hung on the hospital bed. The room now presents a very attractive appearance.

The "Country Carnival," held on February 26, proved a delightful evening. Games, songs, contests, dancing and refreshments, with a display of old fashioned clothing and hats added to the enjoyment of all.

We have donated money to a number of worthy objects:—Agricultural Society, Home for Colored Children, Sons of Temperance, the Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund; subscription to Pictorial Education given to the school—also a donation of books from our library; a donation of twenty books was made to the Boy Scout library.

The Benevolent Committee has accomplished a splendid year's work. Early in the fall the public were appealed to for second hand clothing, boots and rubbers. These garments, were repaired or made over at our sewing parties as well as new material made up. A pair of new mittens were knit for each child, a number of boxes were packed with the clothing and food and sent to needy families. Several small pots were sent to the little new babies in these families.

A good many sick calls have been made during the year. Potted plants sent to members who were unable to work.

The Publicity Committee have done their work each week, and the paper in the Digby Courier is a credit to them. The Library was very well patronized during the nine months it was open.

The Home and School Committee were a busy committee during the winter months. Hot cocoa was served to about twenty-five pupils of Oakdene School, for fourteen weeks. A good many donations were received for this work, and was much appreciated. The Nelson Co. of Toronto donated over two hundred samples of cocoa.

A Christmas dinner was given to twelve children in the vestry of the United Church. Those who helped with this effort felt well repaid at seeing the pleasure of the children who thoroughly enjoyed the dinner. And gifts of candy and toys were given.

I have tried to give you a summary of our year's work. While we are small in numbers if each member will do her share of the work and stand by each other and the officers in friendliness and loyalty a great deal of good work can be accomplished in the year.

Respectfully submitted,

Auditors—Mrs. Frank Weir, Mrs. Charles Green.
Directors—Mrs. E. B. Taylor, Mrs. W. E. Gillett, Mrs. Frank Weir, Mrs. Arthur Marshall and Mrs. Laurence Robinson.

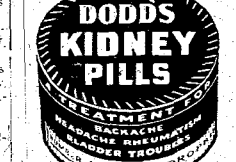

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Taylor and the assisting hostess, Mr. Edw. Payson.

Secretary's Report for Year Ending Oct. 1935.

Madam President, and Ladies of the Smith's Cove Women's Institute, I beg to submit the following report: The W. I. have held ten regular meetings during the year, with an average attendance of sixteen members. We have a membership of twenty-three resident members and six non-resident members. We have cordially welcomed visitors to our meetings and have entertained twenty-three guests this year. In Oct. 1934, our delegate was sent to the Annual Convention at Truro, and brought us a detailed report of convention proceedings, as did our representative to the two District Executive meetings held at Bridgetown. In November we carried out a very successful Remembrance Day program with a service in the Baptist Church, at which service the local War Veterans, and those from Bear River, were present. From the church the Veterans proceeded to the cemeteries to pay tribute to their departed comrades.

At our December meeting we were favored with a visit from our Provincial President, Mrs. G. B. Sanford, who brought us an inspiring message of Institute activities across Canada. Christmas cheer was sent to shipping and greetings to our absent members.

The sick and visiting committee have continued this phase of the work throughout the year.

A Publicity Committee has functioned during the year supplying interesting news items and reports of W. I. activities, for the "Digby Courier."

In January a sewing class for girls was organized by Miss Armstrong, and sponsored by the Institute. The class met each week under the direction of responsible Institute members.

A contact between the Institute and school has been kept up through regular school visitors and through the Education and Better School Committee. Interest has been stimulated by the reports brought to the Institute each month. "Home and Country" has been largely supported. A very clever year book of programs was compiled by our Entertainment Committee, and the programs and roll call subjects have been carried out each month, thereby ensuring much more interesting meetings.

In March we entertained the members of the Girl's Sewing Class, who in turn entertained us with a very excellent program.

To avoid confusion in the future, regarding money and supplies being sent to the Digby Hospital, the Institute voted that hereafter we would work in conjunction with the local Hospital Aid Society.

In March an entertainment, under the auspices of the Institute, was held, the proceeds being $16.20.

On June 3rd, flags were placed on all soldiers' graves in local cemeteries, and on June 26th twelve members attended the Institute Rally at Meteghan River. A collection was taken in aid of the Peace Garden at the June meeting.

Meetings were suspended during July and August. We have given financial assistance to several charitable organizations, and prize money for the Girls' Sewing Class exhibit. We have received gifts of money, and a beautiful hand-painted screen for stage scenery, was donated by Miss Jaggar.

At our September meeting proceedings were instituted for having a sane speed limit enforced through the village.

Plans were made to have an "at home" for our gentlemen friends, and this another year has come to a close.

Respectfully submitted,
H. Allen Woodman,
Recording Secretary.

'CRIM.' DOES NOT PAY' SAYS BILL BIDDLE
Large audiences assembled at the Imperial Theatre yesterday afternoon and evening to hear "Silent Bill" Biddle, once an outlaw and for eighteen years an inmate of a prison, who spoke on the subject, "Does Crime Pay?" He gave a brief synopsis of his early life and also showed a series of prison pictures, including preparation of prisoners for the death penalty.

Mr. Biddle, who was born in Ontario, is now touring the country as a sort of evangelist, preaching the gospel that crime does not pay. He strongly emphasized the importance of having the right home influence, and urged parents to make "pals" of their children. He blamed the home influence for the fact that so many young men are filling our prisons today.

Mr. Biddle spoke in praise of the efforts that are being made in Canadian prisons to reform criminals, and stated that Canadian prisons were far ahead of those in the United States. He expressed the belief, however, that our reformatory schools do not reform, and that there is need for changes.

Referring to the lash, Mr. Biddle expressed the belief that it does tend to prevent crime in many cases, and he advocated the use of the lash in certain types of crimes such as rape, kidnapping and holdups.

In concluding, the speaker made an earnest appeal to parents and others to rouse themselves to see that boys are started and kept on the right track.—(The Sackville Tribune).

Parking his car in front of the school house at Centreville, Saturday afternoon, Stanley Marks, field representative of the Courier, returned to find the vehicle had been tampered with during his absence. Children had entered it and tore the ignition wires from under the dash and caused other damage which delayed Mr. Marks for more than two hours. The matter has been reported to the R. C. M. P., at Digby, who are making investigation.

THE BUCKINGHAM CONTEST

Interest is mounting among local smokers in the work of the Digby Fire Department to secure free toys and candies for distribution to needy children at Christmas by means of the Buckingham Christmas Gift Plan. Under this plan the manufacturers of Buckingham exchange empty packages of Buckingham Cigarettes, Buckingham Fine Cut and Buckingham Pipe Tobacco for toys and candies. All that smokers need to do to help this worthy cause is save their empty Buckingham packages and deposit them in the ballot boxes or "Santa Claus Stations" the Digby Fire Department have distributed in stores, restaurants, barber shops.

Guests at the Adams Cottage this week were S. G. Darling, of Parrsboro; Mrs. E. MacIntyre, of Boston; Reynolds Haines, of Freeport, accompanied by R. B. Buckman, of Tiverton; C. E. Doherty of Saint John; W. J. Dean, also of Saint John, and F. Kidney, of Montreal.

"Marty" Barnes, assistant in the C. P. R. Telegraph office, left this week with William Eldridge to tour the province. During his absence he is being relieved by F. D. Young, of St. Stephen.

J. H. Budd and brother, Gerald E. Budd, of Upper Canada, Kings Co., spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Budd, Seabrook.

Miss Olivia Wright is leaving today for Brookline, Mass., where she will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Spurr were visitors to Halifax this week.

"THE MONITOR VIEWS THE NEWS."

It is very interesting at times to read an outsider's views of Canadian or provincial political matters, especially when those views are expressed by a strictly impartial observer. We look upon the Christian Science Monitor, of Boston, as the most reliable daily newspaper published in the world. In their issue of Tuesday, October 15th—the day following our election—the Monitor dealt with it in several ways. The news story itself was from their own staff correspondent in Ottawa; then Rufus Steele, who writes the very interesting column "The March of the Nations" gave his views, and finally the paper dealt with it editorially. We are taking the liberty of reproducing both Mr. Steele's comments and the editorial—we know that our readers will be interested. Mr. Steele said:

"Canada ousted Premier R. B. Bennett and the Conservatives and sweeps into office former Premier W. L. Mackenzie King, assuring the strongest majority ever seated in the Canadian Parliament. 'This is like history repeating itself north of the American border; the same general dissatisfaction which swept Mr. Hoover out and Mr. Roosevelt in, has replaced Mr. Bennett with Mr. King. The titles of the parties are misleading. The Liberals are now really Conservative in their views and the election result shows a reaction from the more liberal methods of the Bennett regime. Victory comes to old and tried middle-of-the-road policies, rebukes threats of a coalition, and is a protest against high tariffs. Mr. Bennett in some things appeared the dictator—And a 'Down With Dictation' slogan has hurried him out of power."

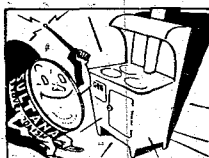

Mr. Bennett and his followers regard themselves as the victims of five years of depression. A considerable surprise of the election is the poor showing made by the Reconstruction Party, which advocated radical policies. Its utter routing shows that the people as a whole, having little sympathy for new deals, new methods and new policies, no matter how tempting set forth. W. L. Mackenzie King, who will again be Premier, declares in his statement the Canadian people have made clear "that in their opinion a course of action which does not distinguish between materialistic and spiritual values must make way for something nobler in a nation's affairs. He says they wish to share one another's burdens and to follow the Golden Rule."

Monday of last week, Canada voted all of it, for the first time in five years. And from the Grand Banks to the prairie provinces a wave of Liberalism swept the country. On incomplete returns it appears that the Liberals have captured 165 out of 245 seats in the Dominion Parliament. Premier Richard B. Bennett will give way to Mr. Mackenzie King.

Just how much of a change this will mean in the course of Canadian history, is problematic. Mr. King reads the vote as a mandate for freer trade within and without the Dominion. He believes the people of Canada are against "planning for scarcity, by the restriction of production, of trade and of employment." Mr. Bennett's name has been associated with the Ottawa trade agreement, and tariff protection, but he had found it necessary to negotiate for a reciprocal treaty to break down some of the barriers between Canada and the United States. Doubtless Mr. King will carry this project through as one of his first acts.

The Liberal leader also considers the election result a verdict "in favor of a properly constituted national bank to perform the functions of rediscount and the control of currency issue in terms of public need." This seems to cover the major purposes of the new regime. Mr. King had refused to go in for a large program of social reforms, to compete with Mr. Bennett's so-called New Deal. He offered very little as a counterattraction to the larger promises of the Reconstruction Party, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, or the Social Credit League. Apparently his main reliance was on dissatisfaction with the Bennett Government. Probably also he counted on Canada's habit of swinging like a pendulum between the two major parties. With few exceptions, it has changed from Conservative to Liberal and back again about every decade for nearly seventy years. It would seem that the voters say: "The Ins haven't done anything for us: let's put in the Outs." Even as in other countries! Without expectation of any great revolution, but with interest that extends far beyond Canada's borders, her friends will watch to see what the Outs, who are now going in, will do.

A California litigant has instituted a damage suit for twenty septillion dollars. That's more money than even the administration at Ottawa has heard of—and we hope it doesn't.

RECOMMEND YOURSELF

Some persons seem to feel that a recommendation from one of superior intelligence or prestige will prove a valuable credential in obtaining a position, or that it will provide an entering wedge into some field of human endeavor. This is a mistake, for recommendations are easy to obtain, easy to write, and easy to accept. No matter how incompetent one may be, there is some person who likes that one and will be inclined to make judgment extravagant. We are all gullible toward those we like. Chums hunt up chums and ask favors—and not in vain.

A recommendation may be given honestly and with the best of motives. But it is merely the expression of personal opinion, of one's best judgment, and judgment is often faulty. But what if recommendations are desirable and references are required? They cannot guarantee competency and capacity.

We can best recommend ourselves. Every one of us stands at the centre of a world of our own choosing and creation. We set the works going; we make friends or enemies; we are good or bad, trustworthy or shiftless, original or mimetic, agreeable or contemptible, positive or negative, reverent or profane, tolerant or bigoted, magnanimous or unreasonable.

We conciliate and draw friends unto ourselves, or else we have a temperament that breeds contempt. People want to be with us, or as far away from us as possible. We have qualities of leadership, and people look up to us, respect our views, and want our opinions on vital topics. Or else others put us merely as followers where others lead, and give low rating to our opinions.

This being true, if you desire a recommendation, remember that you must have something that is worth remembering. And it best comes from your own life and personality, doing your tasks in your own way, and doing them so well that others recognize your attainments. You then create a demand for your output.

Success succeeds. The ability to do grows. Achievement cannot be hidden. It is something that comes to the surface, like cream on milk, and men prize it.

Others can no more recommend than they can eat our dinner for us. We must make up our minds that we are the sole arbiters, the umpires of what we are to do and accomplish in life. Life places a huge question mark before us. It asks, "What have you?" Money, "pull" and "drag" amount to help by others, the so-called nothing unless we have the capacity to do. You and must recommend ourselves, for "every man decides which way his soul shall go."

"BULL THROWS SENATOR!" was a headline of last week in an exchange. Now that's what you call news!

WE MUST LEARN TO COOK

The following letter appeared in the current issue of "Forest and Outdoors," a popular magazine published in Montreal.

Stamford, Conn., U.S.A., 1935
Editor of Forest and Outdoors—

In the August number Mr. E. Newton White tries to tell about "Flaw in Our Tourist Business," but I can see where the head of a pin before the eye can, hide the finest mountain from men. Mr. White is too close to his subject to see it. I have been in every province of Canada but for purposes of brevity I will confine comments to one province that I have known intimately for many years, i.e., Nova Scotia.

Nova Scotia has fine salmon, but I have never seen that fish properly cooked for tourists. Apropos of codfish, do you realize that millions of people in the interior of the United States would travel hundreds or thousands of miles to catch codfish—a novelty for them. They would hire local inhabitants to take them out—paying more money in a few days than some hard-working fishermen get in a year. And going to lobster pots and setting them, do you know how much would be paid for that? Find out!

Outside of Ireland, I have never seen such potatoes as are raised in Nova Scotia. There are four hundred published ways for cooking potatoes. I have never seen one of these ways properly managed in Nova Scotia.

ON "MAKING MISTAKES"

The world is held back by people who "never make a mistake." There is an army of them (and a whole live in Digby) who seem to think that it is fatal error to acknowledge ever being in error. To admit making a mistake is impossible. They will persist in error rather than admit the same. Whereas it is the simplest thing in the world. It is just as easy as it is for a baseball player to admit the error charged on the score-keeper's book. The admission tends to perfect his playing instead of harming his standing. He makes fewer errors having admitted them.

Families are broken up for every stubbornness in this respect. There have been families which were intended to be happy; but which are most unhappy, because man or wife can not admit being in the wrong on some trivial matter. In Will Carleton's old poem, "Betsy and I Are Out" he says: "Draw up the papers, lawyer, for Betsy and I are out," and the strain that runs through it is "For Betsy and I have agreed that we can never agree." You are such weak and powerful fools, dear people—you hum after happiness at home, who love the partners of your bosoms—because you can't "humiliate" yourself by confessing to a mistake. Yet to confess it is to be greater than the one who will not confess and who will persist in error. THAT alone is to be weak and mean, and small and childish and miserable.

Napoleon refused to admit error in his Russian campaign after being shown his mistakes. He suffered almost to extinction of his fine army.

These may be considered matters of judgment—but there are countless examples of men and women who knowing the error of their behavior to others, their harshness and unkindness; suffering the tortures of an outraged conscience, yet refuse to acknowledge that they have been wrong. And it is so easy. It mortifies possibly the pride—but pride that goeth before a fall is persisted in to the bitter end. "Whoever shall humble himself as a little child, the same shall be great in the Kingdom of Heaven," did not mean in the next world. It meant in that Kingdom of Heaven that "is within you."

When General Booth wanted to send a word to his followers in the Salvation Army some years ago, at Christmas time—a word of inspiration, comfort and helpfulness, he sent, after much thought this single word, "Others."

"There is a sermon in this one word. If the Citizen had been thinking about anyone but himself, he would have said: 'My mistake, sorry.' If, when the other day a man bawled us out for some fancied mistake on the road he had said: 'All right, mister, we all make mistakes,' he would have preached, 'Others.' If any husband clinging to an opinion until it breaks the home-happiness; if any wife scolding and nagging over nothing but a small affair of the household, would think of General Booth's word, 'Others,' the acknowledgment of a mistake would be so easy. And whatever were said about it later, the person so confessing, may know in the heart that he or she is the greater for so doing."

In the church-yard of St. Paul's, London, is a monument to General Charles George Gordon. The message on this monument is this: "Sacred to the memory of General Charles George Gordon, who at all times and everywhere gave his strength to the weak; his substance to the poor; his sympathy to the suffering." General Gordon once acknowledged, making a tactical mistake in one of his campaigns. It was thought that it might ruin him. His soldiers cheered as the "old man" came to the front and said that he had been wrong. Thereafter they would follow him to the death. He who makes a mistake is human. He who confesses it is one of us.

Teacher—Now if I subtract 25 from 37 what's the difference? Little Willie—That's what I say—who cares?

Any Place But "Where can I find your husband?" "I haven't the slightest idea. He said he was staying late at the office to finish some work."

"What people don't know may not hurt them, but what they imagine can bother 'em a lot."

The Digby Weekly Courier

Advertising today is one of the greatest blessings which has come to mankind; because it enables rich and poor alike to share in the benefits of modern civilization.

Honor and truth in public and private life were never so essential in order to achieve permanent success or personal satisfaction as at the present time.

Wealth is often sought for its power, yet in the hands of a miser the riches of the entire universe would be useless and helpless.

"Newspaper advertising today is a running account of the commercial history of the times. It includes every development, every activity in the realms of trade, art, science—all of them depend upon advertising for their advancement and expansion," so says James E. Barrett, managing director of the Oklahoma Billmore Hotel.

If we are to have war again, someone should invent a way of having a bloodless one.

The story of human progress is the story of good roads.

The nut crop this year will be only fair, we learn. Not that it matters now that the election is over.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Ethiopian Reverses at World Gathering
Among those present at the recent world gathering of Rover Scouts in Sweden was a group of very smart and highly intelligent Ethiopians, according to one of the leaders of the Canadian contingent. There were no Italians.

So Why Not Spend the $6's?
According to Rabbi Louis Mann, of Chicago, "It costs that city $6 a year to maintain a Boy Scout, and $5,500 to apprehend and confine a juvenile delinquent." The figures do not greatly differ in Canada.

The Kind Hick Finn Would Have Chosen

Boy Scout resourcefulness turns many strange structures into satisfactory meeting places. An ancient retired C. N. R. box car, on a vacant lot, has been made into a home, according to the boys of the 1st North Regina Troop. A firehouse will make it the coziest place in town in the winter.

William Nesbitt and his little three year old daughter, Nellie, met with painful injuries last Thursday afternoon. They had gone to the garden with an ox team to gather vegetables. The little one, sitting in the cart, lost her balance, and her father jumped to catch her. The sudden motion scared the oxen making them start forward, when the cart passed over both father and child. The little girl had one leg broken and a shoulder and arm badly bruised and Mr. Nesbitt was hurt about the chest.

Mrs. Beulah Sweeney, of St. Stephen, warden of the Rebekah Assembly of the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, paid an official visit to Olive Branch Lodge, Weymouth, on Wednesday evening last. She was accompanied by Mrs. Minnie Robinson, also of St. Stephen, Past President of the Assembly. A good attendance of members were present at the meeting and both Mrs. Sweeney and Mrs. Robinson were heard in the addresses. At the conclusion a social hour was held and refreshments served. While in town Mrs. Sweeney and Mrs. Robinson were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Harris.

The title of lady champion of the Lincolnton Golf Club for this year is held by Mrs. Allan Tasman, Sydney, who is well known in Weymouth. The article which accompanied Mrs. Tasman's picture in last Saturday's Herald, stated that "Mrs. Tasman is also well known in tennis circles and is interested in many charitable organizations in Cape Breton."

is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's
Well-Being to Unknown
Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach, and often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this:

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

BARTON-BRIGHTON BROTHERHOOD RE-ORGANIZED

The men of Barton and Brighton had their first meeting in the United church there Monday evening when they met to re-organize their Brotherhood for the winter. A fine gathering was there to see a set of some sixty-five lantern slides which gave a fine idea of natural scenery in various parts of British Columbia. After that Millard's painting of the "Boyhood of Sir Walter Raleigh" was shown and the pastor, Rev. C. U. MacNevin, used it as a basis of an address on "The Need of Vision." This is one of the great paintings of the world which was on exhibition in Toronto at their annual Fair this past summer. (In it Raleigh and his chum are seen as boys playing on the seashore of Southern England when they meet an old sailor who has travelled far and seen much. He begins to tell the boys the story of his travels till at last he becomes fired with all the enthusiasm of a great preacher, an enthusiasm which also takes possession of the boys and at last sends Raleigh out to become one of the noblest explorers and sailors of England.)

The Brotherhood organized with the following officers: President—Rev. C. U. MacNevin, Vice-President—J. A. Morehouse, Secretary—Lloyd Grant.

Members of Executive—Fred Grant and John Russell.

Plans were made for the next meeting to be held at the home of Fred Grant.

DIGBY CIVIC BAND NOTES

Entire reorganization of the Civic Band is being considered. Members will be pledged to stricter attendance at rehearsals, and especially at summer engagements. A player is no use to the Band unless he takes his part in all pupils' performances except when his absence is due to Real Necessity, and not to indifference or trivial causes—there has been too much of the latter. A smaller band of fellows who never shirk duty, will be a better band.

The Instrument and Uniform fund started last August, will enable the Band to greatly improve its instrumentation, but there will be little left to apply on uniforms. Response to the appeal was very generous, considering the general state of money matters, and the long list of donors shows public approval of the band. Summer visitors contributed about $50.00. Don't forget that the list is still open.

The Band has been asked to join the Veterans in their Sunday Church parade, November 10, and also to take part next year in the Armistice Day service. Fine arrangements have not yet been made.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hood and son, of Yarmouth, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Leint, Bayside Farm, one day recently.

Bayswater Lady Suffered Severe Pain In Back

Seen Found Relief Through Dodd's Kidney Pills

Bayswater, N. S., Oct. 21 (Special). "About four years ago I was taken sick with pain in my back and left side," writes Mrs. Oliver Amalt, of this place. "It was so severe I couldn't straighten up to walk or lie anything. I was told it was Kidney trouble so my husband got me two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. After I used them I was better, so I kept taking them until I felt no pain at all, I haven't had any backache or any of the old trouble since."

When the kidneys fail in their work, many of our most common ailments from the blood—backache often follows. Be guided by the experience of Mrs. Amalt and thousands of others, and take Dodd's Kidney Pills if anything goes wrong with your kidneys.

Here and There

Our vanishing wildernesses have for some time elicited the concern of conservationists, but now science is beginning to take an interest in the matter.

It is in the memory of living persons that the glaciers which hid fair to disappear within a few decades, if so-called summers succeeded by mild winters become the rule.

Dr. François E. Mathies, of the United States Geological Survey, fears that within another 30 years Glacier National Park, Montana, also has suffered from heat prostration.

At no time within the memory of living persons has the recession of the ice rivers in these areas been so rapid as during the long-protracted heat wave of 1934.

During normal winters snowfall and frost are wont to keep the glaciers in the degree the melting shows of summer.

Obituary

Mrs. John Moakler

Word reached Saint John Saturday last of the death of Ruth, widow of John Moakler, which occurred Friday in Winchester, Mass., where her only surviving child, J. Chester Moakler, resides.

She had reached her 90th year. She removed to Boston from Saint John when a young woman. Her husband was of the firm Spence, Moakler & Bell, art glaziers, whose memorial window work graced many churches and public buildings in New England.

Old Saint John people will recall sisters and brothers of Mrs. Moakler—the late Mrs. Jeremiah Brundage, the late Mrs. James Ibbister, the late Mrs. James Morehouse, Bear River, and the late Mrs. Sarah Groves, also of Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Edgar Gates returned home a few days ago after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lynian Pyne, Digby.

Miss Camilla Rye spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Wilcox.

Mrs. James Mallman has returned home from Kentville where she has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williams.

Mrs. Samuel Wright, of Digby, is visiting at the home of Frank Gehue.

The autumn meeting of the Valley Medical Society meets on Monday in Bear River.

Mrs. Ethel Barlow returned from Halifax Saturday after receiving treatment at the Victoria General.

ARYAN EARTH CLOUDS

Even the ground in Germany is of different clay from the rest of the world.

A returned traveler quotes an article he read in a newspaper there at the time when lemons were getting scarce because of Italy's increased war demand for them.

The authorities had recommended that the people eat German rhabarb instead. Said the Frankische Tageszeitung:

"Only the fruits of the German earth-cloud can create German blood. Through them only our German blood is purified to the blood those delicate vibrations which determine a German type. That type is unique the whole world over, as there is but one German soil on the earth. Farewell lemon, we need thee not! Our German rhabarb will take thy place fully and entirely."

This outburst would not have been bad as a humorous treatment of the situation. It was, however, thoroughly serious in tone and intent.

The pure Aryan, it seems, is developed by eating Aryan fruits and vegetables grown in strictly Aryan-German soil.

There is something pitiful about such object acceptance of an idea based on no facts whatever.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

LET'S GO HUNTING

It's the wise hunter who keeps his camera loaded and ready to snap the real story-telling pictures such as this one.

DON'T these cool, crisp fall mornings sort of give you the hunting fever? In spite of all the pleasure you had during the good old summer time you probably look upon the fall hunting season as one of the highlights of the year, and as you sit enjoying a good evening smoke, isn't it a lot of pleasure to talk over the happenings of the day?

There should be more to a hunting trip, however, than "tracking your game" or "anticipating that tense moment when the animal is in the young jack make their appearance through the trees; or he carelessly makes a wild dash into the clearing and you put up a valiant fight against a severe attack of "buck fever."

The appearance of your game and the exciting moment when you quickly raise your gun to your shoulder and pull the trigger, is one of the thrilling adventures of a hunting trip.

There are, however, many moments of relaxation and leisure, too. It is then that you should do a different kind of shooting. "Shooting" with a camera should not be overlooked for it is with snapshots that you can make a picture record of your trip and enjoy your expedition over and over for years to come.

Your snapshots can picture your trip from the time you and your hunting pals load your duffel bags, guns, blankets and other equipment until your return—well, we hope—your trip.

Space will not permit enumerating all the picture possibilities on such trips. Picture taking opportunities, however, seem to have the habit of appearing at the most unexpected moments so it's the wise hunter who keeps his camera loaded and ready for action.

If you have never before taken snapshots under overcast fall skies (it is important to remember that it will be necessary to give a longer exposure than ordinarily made under summer's bright sunshine).

But your snapshot should not be confined to outdoor pictures for it is at night in the cabin or lodge you can take pictures of your party seated around the open fireplace swapping yarns and reviewing experiences in this and former hunting expeditions.

You will find that Photoflash bulbs will serve your purpose admirably. A Photoflash bulb is similar in appearance to a common electric light bulb and can be screwed into a special, but inexpensive holder, resembling an ordinary hand flashlight tube.

It can be purchased at almost any store selling photographic supplies. The flash is set off by pressing the flash button and it gives an intense light without any noise or smoke.

After placing your camera on a tripod or some solid support, look into the finder and be sure you are all set to be included in the picture. Set the diaphragm at f/8 or f/11, set the shutter at "time" and then flash the bulb. Be sure to close the shutter immediately after the flash.

It is not necessary to have the room in total darkness when the flash is made, but be sure that a bright light is not shining directly into the lens of the camera.

Make your camera an important part of your hunting equipment and on your return have a picture to show to your friends.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD HALLOWE'EN PICTURES

Snapshotting will add to the fun at your Halloween party.

THERE is probably no folk holiday which has taken a stronger hold upon the imagination than Halloween.

Halloween is really an autumn festival of the old world but peasant superstition robbed the holiday of its original meaning and surrounded it with the delightful mystery of ghosts, witches, spirits and hobgoblins.

Through all its variations it still retains its place in Canadian life as a night for grotesque, gay costumes and parties; and when parties are given order your camera should play a prominent and important part in the festivities.

A Halloween party simply isn't a success without some of the traditional games. It would be like celebrating Christmas without some reference to Santa Claus. One of the games extremely popular with the younger generation is "Bobbing the Apple."

Isn't such a picture as the one above well worth taking? I imagine has succeeded in capturing the bobbing fruit from the tub of water—and what a picture it makes! It's very simple to snap such a picture if you have a camera with an f.6.3 lens or faster. It is advisable too to use super sensitive panchromatic film when making snapshots at night. Here is what you do. First of all you will need two or three Photoflash bulbs. These lights, are similar in appearance to the ordinary electric light bulb used in lighting your home. They are inexpensive and can be purchased from almost any store selling photographic supplies.

Place an ordinary floor lamp about three feet to the left of your subjects and slightly forward. Tilt the shade upwards so the light fully illuminates your scene. In the same position place another lamp to the right of your "apple bobbers." See diagram.

By the light from the ordinary bulbs in your lamps you can locate your subject in the finder. After setting the distance or footage scale at the proper distance set the diaphragm at f.6.3 and the shutter speed at 1/25 of a second—the camera loaded with a super sensitive film. Now you can replace the ordinary light bulbs with the brilliant Photoflash lamps, turn them on and you are ready for your picture. Be sure that the lamps do not show.

A shutter speed of 1/25 of a second will not stop much action so have the one who gets the picture hold a position for just an instant, such as that of the boy in the above picture, and zip—you have made a snapshot at night. Isn't that simple enough?

If you have a box camera you will need a Photoflash bulb. Set your camera for a time exposure. For a time exposure you should place your camera on a table or a firm support of some kind for any movement of the camera may cause a blurred picture, even though the flash of these lamps lasts but 1/50 of a second.

After locating your subjects in the finder place a Photoflash bulb in a floor lamp at your side and slightly forward but within arm's reach. Tilt the shade the same as described above. Now—open the shutter of your camera, and switch on the current. After the flash close the shutter immediately.

It is not necessary to have all the lights out in the room when taking a Photoflash picture, but do not have bright lights near the subject or any lights shining into the lens of the camera.

This is just one example of the many pictures you can take in the house on Halloween night. Demonstrate your ingenuity by working out other picture taking stunts. Your friends, and you, will get a real "kick" out of it.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

DAUGHTERS' SOLEMNITY

An American minister returned from a European trip is most concerned about the deadly solemnity he finds in some countries.

"The seriousness with which the Germans take all propaganda and the whole political situation," he says, "is difficult for an Englishman or an American to understand. An Englishman can criticize his prime minister mercilessly and yet be loyal to his politics. We can joke about our president and not like him the less. But in Germany any frivolity about Hitler is looked upon almost as blasphemy. Parades, decorations, salutes and every symbol of Nazism are treated with almost religious reverence.

"If only our good German friends would not take themselves so seriously. If only the Italians could laugh a little!"

The Canadian public will echo that sentiment. We are accustomed in normal times to criticizing frivolity, but this more deadly seriousness is probably more dangerous to the nations concerned; and to the world, than any frivolity. When an individual loses the ability to smile he is in a bad way.

The mood of Germany and Italy seems to normal Canadians no less than psychopathic. A nation that has lost its mirth and its sense of humor has lost its balance wheel. That way madness lies.

A Will Rogers would be worth far more to Germany or Italy today than those grim, unsmiling, never-relaxing leaders, Hitler and Mussolini.

The Mite Society met at the home of Mrs. Earl Potter on Friday evening, with a good attendance. — Mrs. Augustus Potter and Mrs. Edward Potter, of Clements, were guests on Wednesday of Mrs. Joel Long. — Mrs. Silas Wiles is visiting at Liverpool. — The guest of her son, Hardy Wiles. — Mrs. William Alcorn is visiting her niece, Mrs. Arthur Jefferson, for a few days. — Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Whitehouse were in Deep Brook on Thursday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Purdy. Mrs. John Purdy and Mrs. Walter Dittmars. — Mrs. Brunswick Tobin, who has spent several months in Bear River East, the guest of Mrs. Chas. Van-Buskirk, has returned to Digby. She will be greatly missed in our community. — Rev. I. D. Little, of Deep Brook, occupied the pulpit of the Union Church on Sunday afternoon and delivered an interesting and inspiring address. Mr. Little was a former pastor on this field. — Wilson Reece met with a serious accident last week. While driving a yoke of oxen he fell and one of the oxen stepped on his leg, breaking it above the knee. He was rushed to the Digby General Hospital by Dr. Harris, of Barton, near whose home the accident occurred, and he is resting as comfortably as can be expected. — The District Sunday School convention was held in Bear River East on Tuesday afternoon and evening of last week, with Rev. Mr. Barber of Paradise, and Rev. Leon Wright, of Nictaux Falls, as the speakers. — Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ruggles and sons, Richard and Walter, motored to Alton and Weston on Sunday and visited the former's sisters, Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Skinner. On their return they were accompanied by Mrs. Melville Ruggles, who has spent several months with her daughters.

Obituary

Dr. Henry Clay Vedder

Dr. Henry Clay Vedder, of Chester, Pa., retired professor of church history, writer and journalist, died in the Chester Hospital on Sunday, October 12, in his 83rd year. Born in DeRuyter, N.Y., the son of Meander W. and Harriet V. Vedder, he studied at the University of Rochester where he was graduated with A.B. and A.M. degrees in 1873. He later received the degree of Doctor of Divinity at the Rochester Theological Seminary. Shortly after his graduation from the seminary he married Miss Minnie M. Lingham, of Rochester, their union being blessed with two children, Edward Bright Vedder and the late Henry Rossiter Vedder. The son, who, besides his mother, survives, is a retired colonel of the U. S. Army Medical Corps. From early manhood Dr. Vedder was a writer and as he advanced in years his works became nationally known. He became a member of the editorial staff of the Examiner, a Baptist newspaper published in New York, serving in that capacity from 1876 to 1892, when he became editor, serving in that capacity two years. He was also editor of the Baptist Quarterly Review from 1885 to 1892. For some time he was on the staff of the New York Times. In 1894 he accepted the post of professor of church history at the Crozer Baptist Theological Seminary in which capacity he served until he retired in 1926. His hobbies were reading, sailing and deep sea fishing. He has for many years maintained a summer home at Smith's Cove and only returned to Chester a few weeks ago. He will be greatly missed by the summer visitors to this locality.

James Malling

The death of James Wilson Malling, aged 72 years, occurred recently at his home in Bear River East, following a very short illness. The deceased was a son of Andrew and Julia (Freeman) Malling, and is survived by his widow, formerly Pauline Mitchell, of Jeddoe, and nine children, namely: Reginald, of Worcester; Edith, wife of Elmer Reece, of Bear River East; Jean, wife of Henry Malling, of Bear River; Edna, wife of Thomas Richards, of Somerville, Mass.; Esther, wife of George Malling, of Greenland; Pearl, wife of Irena Blackadar, of Victoria; Grace, wife of Lee Long, of Alliston, Mass.; Emma and Norman, at home; one brother, Charles Malling, of Greenland, and three sisters, Mrs. George Wright and Mrs. Elmer Floyd, of Clements, and Mrs. William Claxton, of Ipswich, Mass. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. F. C. Burnett, of Clements, and interment was in Clements, All nine children were present at the funeral, which was largely attended.

der the auspices of St. Matthew's Guild. In spite of the unfavourable weather there was a good attendance. The Rector and Mrs. Smith and R. V. Dittmars received the guests. The proceeds, amounting to $10, were for the organ fund.

On Tuesday evening in Bear River, the sacrament of Holy Baptism was administered to Roxie Irene, Doris Maxime, Dorothy Louise, and Hazel Mary, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Buckler.

On Sunday afternoon last a children's service was held in St. Edward's church, Clements. There was a good congregation and the music was taken by the Sunday School. Mrs. A. W. L. Smith, the superintendent, presiding at the organ. At this service Robert Valentine, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Robinson, Upper Clements, was baptized.

Among the gifts received by the Rector and Mrs. Smith on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of their wedding was a handsome silver plate from the congregation of St. John's church, Bear River. This was deeply appreciated by the recipients.

Watch Your Step
In the Woods

The season for invading the woods with guns and dogs is here again. And despite the long record of tragedies caused by careless gunmen, there is a very real danger that innocent human blood may once more redden forest autumn leaves.

These hunting tragedies are in much the same class as the slaughter on the highways of our land at the hands of criminally careless motor maniacs. Fools on the road and fools in the woods are in the same class. And by a strange coincidence October is the chief danger month in motoring. A Registrar of Motor Vehicles in one of our big cities said recently that "October is always the horror month in motor killings."

It is to be feared that the chief cause of manslaughter on the highways and in the October woods is incurable carelessness. A careful study of killings in the autumn woods proves that careless excitement pulls the fatal trigger. What is the remedy?

Well, one restraining agent is the press, and in spite of discouragement owing to lack of results, we must add line to line of warning and entreaty, in the hope that it may stay some hunter's hand and lessen the October tragedies in the woods. —Dartmouth Patriot.

Liberal Cabinet Is Sworn In

A Liberal Government of 16 members, headed by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, was sworn into office Wednesday, to succeed the Conservative administration of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.

With several departments merged as an economy move, the Liberal administration will consist of only 16 men, compared with 21 for the Bennett cabinet at the time of dissolution.

One of the features of the cabinet slate was the return of Hon. C. A. Dunning, to the finance department, after five years on the political sidelines at a result of his defeat in the 1930 election. He was expected to enter the House through a Quebec seat, being the English-speaking representative from that province.

Only one portfolio, agriculture, was not filled and Prime Minister King announced he had offered it to Premier Gardiner, of Saskatchewan. A reply from the Western government leader was expected in a day or two.

Prime Minister King was sworn in to office late Tuesday afternoon by Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff, shortly after resignation of Mr. Bennett. In a statement to the press, Mr. King announced he would establish a system of under secretaries, patterned after that in vogue in the United Kingdom. It will be designed to train younger men in departmental routine and take some of the load from the ministers.

The Prime Minister reiterated his intention of calling a Dominion-provincial conference as soon as possible, to discuss constitutional, financial and social problems. He said it would be discussed with the cabinet immediately.

The cabinet sworn in follows: Prime Minister, President of the Privy Council and Secretary of State for External Affairs, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Ottawa.

Minister of Mines, Immigration and Colonization, Interior and Indian Affairs, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Winnipeg.

Minister of Justice, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Quebec.

Minister of Public Works, Hon. P. J. A. Carlin, Sorel, Que.

Minister of Finance, Hon. C. A. Dunning, Montreal.

Postmaster-General, Hon. J. C. Elliott, London, Ont.

Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. W. D. Euler, Kitchener, Ont.

Secretary of State, Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Montreal.

Minister of Agriculture (vacant), Hon. Ian Mackenzie, St. John's, Nfld.

Minister of Pensions and National Health, Major the Hon. C. G. Power, Quebec.

Minister of National Revenue, J. L. Isley, Kentville, N. S.

Minister of Fisheries, Hon. J. E. McLeod, Edmundston, N. B.

Minister of Labor, Hon. Norman McLeod, Rogers, Kingston, Ont.

Minister of Railways and Canals and Minister of Marine, Hon. Clarence D. Howe, Port Arthur, Ont.

Minister of Agriculture (vacant), Minister without Portfolio, Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Montreal, Liberal leader in the Senate.

Some "Gas" Figures of Interest

Nova Scotia with 3.71 per cent of the total motor vehicles in the Dominion, accounted for 4.04 per cent of the total net gasoline consumption and provided 4.4 per cent of the total gasoline tax collected by nine provinces during 1934, according to tabulations from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics for 1934 just completed.

Ontario was the highest, with totals of 48 per cent of the motor vehicles, 49.9 per cent of the gasoline consumption and 47.5 per cent of the gas tax revenue.

Statistics of other provinces, in order were: Quebec with 14.63 per cent of the motor vehicles, 18.4 per cent of the gasoline consumption and 17.6 per cent of the gas tax revenue.

British Columbia with 8.14 per cent of the total motor vehicles, 6.7 per cent of the gasoline consumption and 7.9 per cent of the gas tax revenue.

Saskatchewan with 8.09 per cent of the total motor vehicles, 5.6 per cent of the gasoline consumption and 5.9 per cent of the gas tax revenue.

Alberta with 7.91 per cent of the total motor vehicles, 6.7 per cent of the gasoline consumption and 6.7 per cent of the gas tax revenue.

Obituary

Charles Hayes VanTassel
Charles Hayes VanTassel, one of the victims of the scallop boat tragedy last Thursday evening, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes VanTassel, of Culloden, (formerly of Digby). He was about 35 years of age and leaves a widow and four children, as well as his parents and eight brothers and sisters:—Mrs. Charles Henderson, of Malden, Mass.; Warren VanTassel, of Yarmouth; Cleveland VanTassel, of Saint John; Mrs. Russell Small, Mrs. Forman Handspiker, Garfield VanTassel and Mary VanTassel, of Culloden, and Mrs. Gordon MacDonald, of Digby.

Gerald Stark
On Thursday evening of last week a gloom was cast over the village of Mount Pleasant when word was received from the scallop fleet that the mighty waters of the Bay of Fundy had claimed the life of Gerald Stark, the third son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Stark. Gerald was only 21 years of age and was engaged in the scallop fisheries on board the dragger, "Try-me", which was lost with its captain and another member of the crew, as well as Gerald. The latter was a great favorite with the young folks and beloved by all who knew him. This is just another of life's mysteries, which teach us to be prepared for our Heavenly Home, for "we know not the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh." May the family be united in the Great Beyond. Our sincere sympathy goes out to the sorrowing ones in their hour of grief. Besides his parents he leaves to mourn their loss, four brothers, Lorne, Louis, Clyde and Boyd, who all reside in Mount Pleasant.

The darkness of night had fallen. As the ships sped on their way. To tell the sorrowing parents Their son had passed away.

We, in our homes, were snug and warm. But out on the ocean blue, Fighting for life and dear ones, Was a staunch and gallant crew.

They tried their best to save him From the waters there that night. But the Fundy tides had claimed him And they saw him sink from sight.

In the darkness, as in daylight, On water as on land, God's eye is looking on us, And "sometime we'll understand." —Communicated

STARVING OUT A WAR

Credit starvation may wreck the Italian adventure. Mussolini is fighting fiercely against time. Abyssinian resistance, in a land that is a great natural fortress, may last long. He starts with his forces supplied for a brief campaign. His country lacks material resources. The League of Nations and independent powers are shutting off his material and financial supplies. There is said to be $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 of gold in the Italian treasury. That is no more than went to America last month, in light from Europe. Credit soon be exhausted. Mussolini can print all the paper money he likes, and make his people take it, but it will do him no good beyond his borders. Credit restriction will tighten around him. He has three months for conquest of Abyssinia. His arms and funds may last that long. Then the rains will start again, and if he has not won the country he must dig in until next fall. By that time his army of occupation might be riddled with disease. The Abyssinians may harass his forces indefinitely. Disease and privation may beat him. Bankruptcy of the national treasury may beat him.

The last seems most likely.

Better Lighting for Safer and Better Living

The Cheapest Comfort
You Can Buy is Good Lighting . .

Good light costs less today than ever before in history. More than 100 major improvements have benefited Lamp users—and since 1921 price reductions totaling about 58 per cent. have been made in Edison Mazda Lamps. Added to this is the great reduction which has been made in the cost of Electric Lighting during the last ten years—even if good lighting were expensive it would be worth many times its cost yet it is actually one of the cheapest necessities in the world. Compare the cost of light with some of the comforts and pleasures for which you spend your money. The average family spends less than 40c a week for lighting their homes—less than the price of two packages of cigarettes.

Narrow Escape

Barton Letteney, Digby carpenter, was rescued from drowning, after falling off the Anderson wharf, at Jew Cove, here, at high tide yesterday afternoon. He was saved by the prompt action of John Hersey, who happened to be on the wharf at the time.

Hersey jumped into the water almost immediately after Letteney fell, caught the struggling man, held him up under his arm until a line was thrown by Harold Wormell, who, with the help of Capt. Robert Russell, hauled Letteney on a scallop sloop tied up at the wharf. The line was then thrown to Hersey, who climbed up the side of the sloop, unaided. Letteney is reported as being pretty well exhausted.

Mrs. F. E. Rice, wife of Dr. F. E. Rice, of Sandy Cove, Digby County, was admitted to the Digby General Hospital Tuesday, suffering from a badly fractured hip. Mrs. Rice was lying on a sofa in her home, and in some manner rolled off, inflicting the injury.

Chester Levy was called to his old home in Windsor yesterday by the very serious illness of a brother.

SUFFERING FROM LOCKJAW

Cutting his hand on a stove pipe several weeks ago, Joseph Potter, postmaster and well known farmer and blacksmith, of Plympton, is suffering from tetanus (or lockjaw).

At the time the cut was inflicted Mr. Potter thought little of it, and it healed in due course. But symptoms developed later and Mr. Potter has been quite ill, but is responding readily to treatment and hope is held out for his ultimate recovery. Gordon Potter, of Montreal, a son, arrived home this week.

BROKE HIS COLLAR BONE

Fred Harvey, proprietor of the Winchester Hotel, is suffering from a broken collar bone as the result of a motor accident on the Siasiboo Road, near Bear River, Harvey, in company with Eric Bent, of Digby, and Kliser Warren, of Bear River, who were returning home from camp, and were travelling along at a fair rate of speed, when the front wheels of the old model "T" locked, threw the car into the ditch and upset it. All three occupants were thrown considerable distances, but, with the exception of Harvey, all escaped injury. The car was almost completely demolished.

Boys' Conference Opens

The older boys Conference of Digby and Annapolis Counties, opens at Digby this evening with the registration of delegates, opening addresses and organization. Tomorrow morning and afternoon the boys will hold their "square" sessions, and listen to interesting talks and addresses by prominent boys work leaders. Lloyd J. Jess, of Acadia University, will be one of the principal leaders and speakers at this convention.

The business sessions of the Convention will be held in the Digby Baptist Church, and local boys are especially asked to attend and to their part toward making the Convention a success.

The convention banquet will be held in the United Church Hall, Saturday evening, commencing 8 o'clock. There will also be a Final Service for the boys in the United Church, after the regular service on Sunday evening.

Upwards of sixty boys from out-of-town are expected to be in attendance. Each of the two churches, the Digby Baptist and Grace United are entertaining thirty boys.

On Sunday the Convention will hold sessions both afternoon and evening. The sessions for the three days are to take place as follows: Friday, 7 p. m., Registration; 8 p. m., opening address and organization. Saturday, 9:30 and 2:15 square sessions, talks, etc.; 6:00 p. m., Banquet. Sunday: Afternoon and evening sessions, hours to be announced.

VICTORIAN ORDER OF NURSES

On October 25th an afternoon tea was held in aid of the V. O. N., and on the 29th a telephone bridge. The various hostesses were—Mrs. Frank Nichols (assisted by Mrs. Sypher); Mrs. Loran Hayden, Mrs. Fritz Dakin, Miss Louise Daley (assisted by Miss Gertrude Oliver), Mrs. W. Christie, Mrs. G. W. Connell, Miss Mary Lynch, Mrs. C. L. Bowley, Mrs. Wm. MacMahon and Mrs. H. L. Smith were joint hostesses at the tea hour as was also Mrs. Victor Turnbull. Captain George Morrell entertained at 45's.

The prize winners at the Bridge were—Ladies' First, Miss Jean Anderson (Bottle bath suits donated by W. S. Troop). Gentlemen's First, H. B. Short, (10 lbs. sugar donated by George Ryan). Ladies' Consolation, Mrs. Frank Hayden (satchel handles, donated by Miss Gertrude Oliver). Gentlemen's Consolation, T. E. G. Lynch, (pack of cards, donated by Fred May).

At 45's Tupper Warne won the cigarette case, donated by Churchill Solloos, and a pound of tea donated by Dr. Dickie, went to Mr. Solloos. A donation of $2.00 was received from Mrs. George D. Turnbull.

To the above donors, the hostesses and Mr. Morrell for his kindness, and all others who assisted in helping this worthy cause, the convener extends her sincere thanks. The proceeds amounted to about $40.50.

D. B. Kenney, of Westport, was in town this week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Westhaver left on Friday last to spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. Patterson, in Portsmouth, N. H.

Miss Edna Warrington, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. W. Warrington, and Mrs. James Warrington, went to Wolfville on Sunday.

Little "Teddy" Woolaver escaped serious injury on Saturday afternoon when he was struck and knocked down by a car driven by Dr. E. A. Ferguson, of Weymouth. The accident occurred in front of the Royal Department Store. The little lad was caught by the bumper of the car. He was taken to the Digby General Hospital for treatment and allowed to leave very soon after being admitted. His injuries were only a few bruises.

WATERFORD

Mrs. Irving Height and family, of East Ferry, recently visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Sabean.

Miss Alice Cornwall, Rossway, and Hartley Powell, of Digby, were Sunday visitors of Fred Raymond and family.

Locates Cable and Drags

While dragging in the Bay of Fundy, off Gulliver's, the nets of the Digby scallop sloop, skittered by Capt. Gordon Longmire, became entangled in the cable and nets of the ill fated sloop "Try Me", which sank in the bay two weeks ago, costing the lives of three.

It is said the Longmire sloop took a dangerous list; the weight of her own drags and of the drags of the "Try Me" pulling her down. The larger sloop, M. V. Colp, of Lunenburg, the largest in the Digby fleet, came to the rescue, and took hold with her drags. They were successful in bringing up the "Try Me" drags and part of the cable. They were unable to raise the sunken craft.

Scallop fishermen acknowledge that the old bulk, unmarked, and on the bottom in the centre of one of the most important scallop beds, is a menace to all boats dragging in the vicinity. It would be an easy matter for scallop nets to become caught in the wreckage, and the boat pulled under while the nets are being hoisted on deck.

A government boat spent a short time grappling for the bulk this week, but was unsuccessful in locating it, and soon left.

Mrs. Norris Rand, of Weymouth North, picked a strawberry blossom on the 9th.

Mrs. Marvin H. White, of Halifax, is the guest of her aunt, Miss Mabel Holdsworth.

Dr. H. W. Kirkpatrick, of Halifax, will be at his office in Middleton, for treatment of diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, on Tuesday, Nov. 12th, and Wednesday, Nov. 13th, until 4 o'clock p. m. Glasses fitted.

A cabbage supper will be held at the residence of Walton Shortt, South Range, on Thursday evening next, from 6 to 8 o'clock, in aid of the Christian church. Price 25 cts.

Douglas Young has returned to his home in St. Stephen. He has been relieving "Marty" Barnes in the C. P. R. Telegraph office for the past two weeks. Marty has returned from a motor trip around the province.

Edgar T. Williams, one of Digby's best known young men, has opened a grocery store in the little shop built on the ruins of the old Warne Block.

Mr. Williams is starting out the right way by advertising in the local paper. Read his ad. this week. We wish him success.

CLEMENTSPORT HEIGHTS

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. White and Mr. and Mrs. George DeLong, all of Kemps, Queens County, were guests on Sunday of Miss S. J. Rawding, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rafuse, of Truro, were guests at the same home on Monday and Tuesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pulley spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morine. Alfred McGray, Walter Trimmer, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Long and Obediah Pulley motored to Digby Saturday evening.

Lottie Berry and Olive Trimmer attended the funeral of the late Mrs. John Yorke, at Bear River, Monday afternoon. Connie Wright spent the week end at her home in Princetown.

Clifford Peck, of Bear River, spent Saturday with his cousin, Howard Peck. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Trimmer spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Everett Taylor and Mr. Taylor, Clementsvale. Ruth Buckler and Arnold Silver spent Sunday with Olive Trimmer.

THE TOWN COUNCIL

At Monday's meeting of the Digby Town Council a motion moved by Councillor Aymar and seconded by Councillor Morrell that the finance committee take in hand the matter of the collection of back taxes, and that action be taken immediately, was passed. It is understood there will be a special meeting of the committee shortly to go into this matter.

Town Clerk Boden advised that complaints had been received of school age boys and girls raiding gardens, and of three boys doing damage to the boat of Wylie Tower. The clerk was requested to write Principal Purdy asking him to speak to the children regarding these complaints.

The medical health officer's report stated that one of the Maiden Lane properties ordered to connect up with the sewer had done so, but others had not. Councillors at a North End tenement and a property on First Avenue were also reported, and the clerk instructed to write the owners of these properties advising them that if they were not connected with the sewer by November 10, the town would do the work and charge the costs to them.

Rats in swarms are invading the fish houses along the Centreville shore. They eat the fish, eat holes in the boxes, destroy the bait and even eat the trawl lines. Fish have been scarcer than usual this season and the shore has been kept well cleaned up. With their usual voracity, the fish, lacking their hungry hordes, are attacking everything in sight.

Miss Gertrude Chisholm has been visiting friends in Annapolis.

Motor Fatality

Mrs. Melvine (Lambert) Cutting, 51, widow of Gerald G. Cutting and a well-known woman resident of Brantford, Ont., died Wednesday evening following injuries sustained when struck by an express truck during a shopping tour during the morning. Physicians declared she was not instantly killed. Mrs. Cutting was a native of Parker's Cove, N. S., where she was born July 27, 1884, the daughter of Ira and Katherine Lambert. She received her early education in Digby, N. S., where she spent her young womanhood up to the time of her marriage to Mr. Cutting, who was a native of Weymouth. She is survived by one son, Ira Lambert Cutting, of West Springfield, Mass., and a sister, Mrs. Albert A. Morse, of Stanstead, Quebec.

THE VOICE OF OPPOSITION

While most people regard the result of the federal elections as a "clean sweep" for the Liberal party a closer analysis of the total vote polled shows that while 1,507,679 people voted Liberal, 1,817,752 voted against. The Conservative vote was 1,016,974; Reconstruction, 334,411; C. F., 299,369; Social Credit, 100,160; others, including Communists, 66,648.

Mrs. C. R. Ruggles and little son, Earl, who have been visiting her parents in Yarmouth County, have returned to their home in Weymouth.

Stanley Marks, field representative of the Courier, is leaving for Saint John on behalf of the paper. When through in that city he will again resume his work in this territory.

"DUNKING"

"Dunking" is an American slang term used to describe the act of dipping food into coffee or what have you. The habit is frowned on in polite society, yet everybody "dunks" to a certain degree—if not their food their conscience, especially in propositions pertaining to the public.

In parliament a member will "dunk" his proposed law into partnership and it soon tastes of politics more than anything else.

In business, big undertakings are for public benefit until the tariffs create profits to stockholders greater than benefits to the public.

In society, ambitious men swim dig themselves in the social swim and belong to this clique or that.

"Dunking" food therefore, is not half so serious as "dunking" conscience.

This country is not wholly wicked. There still exist communities where residents hide the cards when the preacher calls.

THE MAN WITH AN IDEA

The man who is the safest to follow, the man who creates respect in his journeys up and down the world is the man with an idea. He may at times err in judgment, but that makes him wiser and more useful. He may much of the time be lonely, because there are so few like him, but in the long run he is the man who wins, the man who gets somewhere and has a reason for the course he is taking.

If one has an idea, he builds his life around a constructive program, and there is unity in his work. Some people work at random, scattering their shot, and thus accomplish nothing very definite. Their work is routine.

Routine work includes the ordinary tasks which are necessary for the world's life. It means the daily tasks, the grind, the pursuits that are done over and over again, perhaps in a rut, but, nevertheless, because they are necessary.

There is another type of work, and it calls for originality, the stamp of personality. It is what some people call genius because it is individualistic and involves the full play of individual traits. It brings out the stuff in one which nobody else has produced. It has its own way of doing things as to methods and accomplishments.

There is no discounting routine labor, but it is never anything else but routine labor. It will never be, it can never be anything else. Those who do routine work can be found everywhere, and we can name what their pay shall be. He who has the qualities of an artist, who can produce a fine finished product from raw material, who creates a demand for his services because he is not the slave of other people's thoughts, who refuses to go around in circles, but strikes out and blazes new trails, and dots it so well that others want to follow him—he can have anything he wants, and other people will "eat out of his hand."

The reading world is waiting for the book from him who has a new idea, an idea that makes things new. The best sermon are those which accomplish one definite thing and are built around an idea that has first set the preacher's soul on fire. Inventive genius is merely discovery of what others could not find. "Genius sees what other men look at," somebody has said. Therefore have an idea, an idea that is worthy of the name; not notions that burst like soap bubbles in the presence of the least resistance. Be original, do your own thinking, keep out of ruts, and never be a slave to the thinking of others who are able to have so many come their way because such followers refuse to think.

Have an idea that is sufficiently large and elastic and strong that it arrests the attention of thinking people, who, through you, will become better thinkers. Says Lowell: "They are slaves who dare not be in the right with two or three."

Medical experts find that Ethiopia is reeking with malaria, typhus, leprosy, smallpox, gripe and tapeworm. What!—no halitosis?

No notable fiction has been written in America recently, literary critics say. But Canada has had its share of fiction during the last two months.

A WORKER WANTED

A farmer inserted a classified advertisement in a Kentucky newspaper the other day that has caused a lot of comment over the country.

It is unique in its kind and it would be interesting to know how many takers he had in this day of easy government relief, high relief wages. The advertisement follows:—

"WANTED—I want a man to work on my farm. I don't give dancing lessons. I have no piano. I can't serve planked steaks three times. I do give three square meals, a real bed and fair wages. If any man knows a cow from a talking machine, can hear an alarm clock and get up at 5 o'clock and wants a job, I will agree not to treat him like one of the family, but a damned sight better."

That little advertisement strangely like a plea from a man who has sought a worker for a week and has been unable to find one, is answer enough to those who would have relief wages correspond with prevailing wages.

SOCIAL CREDIT CANDIDATES IN GREAT BRITAIN

Social Credit forces have entered the British election arena, proposing in their manifesto, a "dividend" of $1,500 a year for each family over and above their present income.

Organized as "Greenhirts" and led by John Hargrave, the new party placed Reginald Kenney retired business man, as candidate in North Bradford, and Wilfrid Townsend in Southeast Leeds.

Law To Be Broadened.
England's divorce law is expected to be broadened at the next session of Parliament. The change will increase the number of divorces by nearly 20,000 a year. The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin."

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach, or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

Do you ever stop to think

Hon. Frank Carrel, president of the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph, in a front page editorial, says: "There is a class of business men who wend their way through life complaining that the goods of other business men are preferred to those which they sell. They never go any distance to prove the value of their own goods."

"The public are not all fools. The men who sell their goods are the men who are not afraid to back up their stock with advertising appeals to test the veracity of their statements by buying their goods."

"It is thus and through this means that the men who advertise make a success of business."

Condition figures for the late crops in Canada in 1935, including peas, beans, buckwheat, corn, potatoes, alfalfa, and sugar beets, states the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, indicate that yields will be slightly below the average but above the level of 1934.

ORIGIN OF HALLOWE'EN

From Earliest Times It Has Been Linked With Agriculture.

Hallowe'en, in spite of its legendary spooks, may be said to have had an agricultural origin, and to the present day is associated with the fruits of the earth, particularly apples. There are reasons for this. In the Christian Church, Hallowe'en or All Hallow's Eve, is the name given to the evening of the 31st of October as the vigil of Hallowmass, or All Saints' Day. Before the Christian era, however, the eve of the 31st of October was the occasion of harvest and other ceremonies in various countries; and the festivities which gradually gathered around the Christian Hallowe'en at a later date originated for the most part in customs under the sway of the Druid religion, chiefly Britain, plus a few indoor and outdoor celebrations borrowed from the pagan Roman festival to the goddess of fruit.

The two chief characteristics of ancient Hallowe'en were the lighting of bonfires and the belief that Hallowe'en was the only night of the year in which ghosts, warlocks, witches and evil spirits were permitted to wander on earth. On the 1st of November the Druids held their great fall festival and lighted fires in honour of the sun god in thanksgiving for harvest. It was also a firm belief in the religion of the Druids that on the eve of this festival (Hallowe'en as we know it), Saman, lord of death, called together the wicked souls that within the past twelve months had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals. With regard to this belief, it is interesting to note that in parts of Ireland the 31st of October was, and still is, known as Oidhe Shamhna—"the vigil of Saman."

On or about the 1st of November also the Roman festival in honour of Pomona was held. Pomona was the goddess of the fruit of trees—hence the words, pomologist, grower of fruit and pomology. At this Pomona festival, nuts and apples, as representing the winter store of fruits, played an important part, and thus originated the custom of roasting nuts and apple ducking—attempting to seize with the teeth an apple floating in a tub of water—a sport in which many later generations of young folk have celebrated the eve of 31st-October. Some cynics aver that the evil spirits of old Druidical times still exist in the shape of thoughtless youths whose rough pranks on Hallowe'en often result in injury to persons and much damage to property. Their pranks are the survival of the licentious part of the Pomona fruit festival.

The custom of lighting Hallowe'en fires survived generally until recent years in the Highlands of Scotland and Wales, and still is in vogue in some of the remoter parts. In the dying-embers of the fire, it was usual to place as many small stones as there were persons around and next morning a search was made. If any of the stones were displaced, it was regarded as an omen that the person represented would die within twelve months.

NATIONAL THANKSGIVING

Canadian Festivals In the Long Long Ago.

In view of the recent celebration of Thanksgiving Day, it is interesting to remember that in Canada national thanksgiving for harvest dates back to remote ages. Long before the white man came to Canada, certain days were set apart for public acknowledgment to the Great Spirit for abundant crops. The aboriginal native of Canada, like the Israelites and other ancient peoples, did not crowd their public thanksgiving into one day, nor did they confine it to one season. Besides the main thanks given in late fall or early winter for all crops of the year, there were public ceremonies for thanks for the rising of the maple, for the ripening of fruits and berries, and for the planting and reaping of corn.

The Huron and Iroquoian nations had at least six major thanksgiving festivals throughout the year, culminating in the one of general appeal. There was a festival of seven days when the corn was planted; another of seven days when the corn was green; a third festival of four days when the corn was harvested, and a fourth the great mid-winter festival of general thanksgiving. Certain elected officials were placed in charge. They begged contributions of food from each household; they fixed the dates of the ceremonies, and chose the orators to open, the proceedings with an appeal to the Great Spirit and a prayer of gratitude to the three sister goddesses—Corn, Beans and Squash.

The Ojibwas usually celebrated their "mid-winter" in the season of ripening fruit and berries, while on the Pacific Coast in what is now British Columbia, the coming of the salmon was celebrated in a feast of thanksgiving.

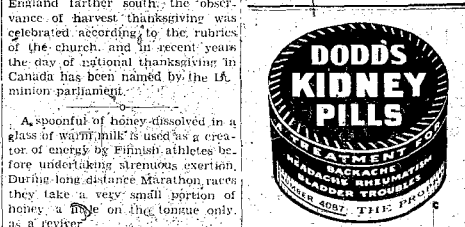

With the wheat ripening early in Palestine, the Israelites celebrated the feast of Pentecost as their harvest festival, and Moses was commanded to appoint and proclaim the days of thanksgiving.

"Three times thou shalt keep a feast unto Me in the year. Thou shalt keep the feast of unleavened bread seven days... and the feast of harvest, the first fruits of thy labours which thou hast sown in the field, and the feast of ingathering which is in the end of the year, when thou hast gathered in thy labours out of the field. Three times in the year all the males shall appear before the Lord God."

In ancient Britain the Druids celebrated their thanksgiving for harvest on the 1st of November, and in later years in Britain in Pre-Reformation times, Lammas Day, August 1, Old Style, was observed as the beginning of the harvest thanksgiving, each member of the church presenting a loaf made out of the new wheat. The Pilgrim Fathers after their first harvest, at Plymouth in 1621 set a day apart for thanksgiving. It was not until 1680 in the Massachusetts colony that the festival became an annual one, Connecticut having previously established the annual observance as early as 1647. In the United States, President Abraham Lincoln appointed the fourth Thursday of November 1864 as Thanksgiving day, and since that time each succeeding president has adopted the same date. To Canada, with the arrival of the French Colonists prior to the founding of New England farther south, the observance of harvest thanksgiving was celebrated according to the rubrics of the church, and in recent years the day of national thanksgiving in Canada has been named by the 14th. man parliament.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Morgan and daughter, Juanita, have moved to Granville Ferry, where they will reside.

Mrs. Simeon Darras, of Victoria, had the misfortune to sustain a bad fall recently, severely bruising her face and body.

Friends will be pleased to know that John Porter is recovering from an attack of pneumonia at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal.

Rev. A. W. L. Smith attended the "Order of Good Cheer", in Annapolis Royal, Thanksgiving night. This was the first meeting of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller were in town last week, enroute to and from Wolfville, and on their return to their home in Carleton, were accompanied by Mrs. Miller's mother, Mrs. John Woodworth.

Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harris, spent Thanksgiving Day in Halifax with their son, Walter, who is a divinity student at King's University. Both going and returning they called on their son, Lenfest, who is attending King's College School, in Windsor.

On Sunday a combined Children's service and Harvest Festival was held in St. John's church in Bear River. The church was filled, there was a large number of children present, among them Mrs. F. H. Hatheway had the group of Wolf Cubs—the only group in Bear River—sixteen in number. The decorations were most artistic, and the Rector congratulated those who had initiated and carried on the work so successfully. The music included children's hymns and harvest hymns and were heartily sung by the whole congregation. The address dwelt on the subject of "Sowing Spiritual Seed."

W. M. S. THANK OFFERING

The annual Thank Offering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, of Bear River, was observed by the local auxiliary on Sunday evening, Oct. 27th.

The local society presented a pageant depicting the work of the Women's Missionary Society in Canada and other lands. This was also the 10th anniversary of the Women's Missionary Society, as the Societies of the Methodist, Congregationalist and Presbyterian Churches united in October in 1925.

Those who were present were interested to hear the pledges given at that time and to see in the pageant how the traditions of these old churches were being fulfilled in the United Church.

The members of the Auxiliary are very grateful to the organist of the evening and all others who so generously gave of their time and talent to make the service a success.

A generous offering was received and dedicated to the great purpose of the society in spreading the good news of God's love throughout the world.

GRANVILLE FERRY

Miss Frances Mills has been visiting her sister, Miss Agnes Mill, who is teaching in Berwick.

Mrs. W. H. Waterspoon has closed her house and gone to spend the winter months with her daughter, Mrs. Curly Windsor.

Mrs. Mildred Sabean, of Lower Granville, who has been staying with Mrs. Mary Willett, is sick with tonsillitis.

Mrs. Archie Bent spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. Catherine Mills.

Rev. R. A. Neish, of Seaford, was the guest speaker at the Anglican church, on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Hamilton spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. Dr. Messenger, Middleton, recently.

VALLEY MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETING

The semi-annual meeting of the Valley Medical Society was held in Bear River on Monday at 3 p.m., at Riverview Lodge. In the absence of the President, Dr. Lovett, the Vice-President for Digby County, Dr. E. A. Ferguson, of Weymouth, conducted the meeting. Papers were presented by Dr. H. E. Kelly, of Middleton, and Dr. A. B. Campbell, of Bear River, followed by a general discussion of both papers. Dr. L. R. Morse, of Lawrenceville, and Dr. Ferguson, Weymouth, were then served at the lodge and the gathering dispersed, those present having had a profitable and enjoyable time. The next meeting will be held at Annapolis Royal.

SERVICE AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

On Sunday afternoon last a combined Harvest Festival and Children's Service was held in St. John's Church, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with vegetables and fruits, the sanctuary being especially lovely with autumn foliage and sprays against the stained glass of the windows and the reds and oranges of the chandeliers of wheat and loaves of bread. Together with the beautiful service of the church and the very appropriate, interesting address by the Rector, it was a service to be long remembered by even the smallest child there. The church was filled almost to capacity, the many children present joining lustily in the familiar Thanksgiving and children's hymns. The Wolf Cubs attended with their leader, Mrs. Harold F. Hatheway.

THREE-DAY MISSION ON INDIAN RESERVE

On Monday evening, Oct. 16th, Father John Barry, of the Redemptorist Order, opened a three-day mission in the Indian Reservation. The little white church, against a background of green, and the wavy autumn colors of the trees, was a picture, especially when lighted at night.

The ladies of the Reserve deserve much credit for the manner in which the interior of the church was prepared for the ceremonies, the attendance at which was all that could be desired.

This was Father Barry's first visit to Bear River, and he was greatly impressed with the beauty of the place, and the friendliness of the people.

Miss Myrtle McCormick entertained a number of her small friends on Monday in honor of her birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. James and Mrs. Barker returned home on Saturday after spending the past week in Lequille, Annapolis Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckley, of Philadelphia, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Millegre Floyd, recently.

Messrs. Milton Morgan, Herbert Langley and Wm. Morine and Malcolm Parker left on Saturday for a week's trip in the woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Millegre Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wamboldt and Miss Grace Hubley and Mrs. G. Hubley spent Sunday at Milford.

Mrs. J. E. Langley, Mrs. Milton Morgan and Mrs. Wm. Morine attended the Sunday School Convention at Bear River East, on Tuesday of last week.

The Mission Band of the United Church was delightfully entertained by their leader, Mrs. Harry Harris, on Friday evening, at the Sample Room by a Halloween Party.

J. E. Steadman, M. A., Supervisor of Schools at New Glasgow, who spent Thanksgiving at his home in Angus's Cove, was a guest of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Campbell, on Saturday.

Mrs. Watson Burgess, of Mount Unioke, was in town this week to attend the funeral of her cousin, the late Mrs. John Yorke, being a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baxter.

William M. Jones, of Toronto, was in town over the week end, guest of his sister, Mrs. W. M. Romaine, and was warmly welcomed by many friends, this being his first visit in fifteen years.

Mr. Keith, of London, England, who with his partner, Mr. MacDonaid, of Glasgow, Scotland, conducted a small animal circus, travelling by motor, was unfortunately quite ill last week end, and unable to take part in the performance on Monday evening, which played to a crowded house.

Obituary

Mrs. John Yorke

A wide circle of friends will regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Rhoda Annie, wife of John Yorke, at her home in Bear River, on Saturday afternoon, following a long illness. She was born 71 years ago, at Chester, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Marriette, and following her marriage moved with her husband and small children to Bear River, where for some years she carried on a millinery business. Surviving are, besides her husband, three daughters and two sons: Mrs. Valentine Barr, Mrs. Richard Baxter and Robert J. Yorke, of Bear River; Dimock, of Jamaica Plains, and Mrs. Vernon White, of Norton, Mass. Mrs. Yorke was a member of St. John's Church of England, and of Elita Rebekah Lodge, and will be long remembered for her very many acts of kindness to those in need. The funeral was held from the home on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, Rector of St. John's Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. C. L. Blanchard, of the United Church, Interment was in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Oscar Rink, of Clementsvalle, is in the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, for treatment.

Mrs. Carl Miller is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Warren at Kentville.

Frank Dittmars, George Curphey, Clarence Parker and Roy Smith returned from a successful hunting trip to Dish Lake and vicinity a few days ago, bringing in two moose, two deer and a bear.

BAPTIST CHURCH HOLDS ROLL CALL

The annual Roll Call of the United Baptist Church of Bear River, was held on Wednesday evening of last week, presided over by Pastor Rev. Stanley P. Steeves, and in spite of the very inclement weather, a large number attended.

At 6:30 o'clock a bounteous supper was served in the church vestry, which was prettily decorated with autumn foliage and cut flowers, to about two hundred members and guests. At the conclusion of this they repaired to the auditorium, where roll was called, a large number responding to their name, some from non-resident members. Special music was rendered by the choir. Mention might be made of a fine male quartette, and an inspiring address was given by Rev. I. D. Lytle, of Deep Brook. A substantial offering was taken to be used for church purposes. Meeting closed with Benediction by Rev. C. L. Blanchard, of the United Church.

Marriages

Searle—Wamboldt

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday morning, Oct. 19, at 10:30 o'clock, when Harriet Mae Wamboldt, youngest daughter of Mr. Charles Wamboldt, was united in marriage to William Thomas Searle, of Truro, eldest son of John Searle.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. L. Blanchard, pastor of the United Church, Bear River, in the presence of the immediate family. Little Miss Joyce Combs in white silk, made a very charming flower girl. The bride was dressed in a tailored suit of blue tweed with navy trimmings, with hat, bag, shoes and gloves to correspond. Her bouquet was deep red roses and fern. The rooms were artistically decorated in autumn leaves and cut flowers of calendula and snapdragon. The arch being made of the autumn leaves. The groom's gift to his bride was an amethyst pendant and to the flower girl a white gold ring. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Searle left for Truro, where they took the train for Upper Canada, where they will spend their honeymoon. On their return they will reside in Truro.

Mrs. Rose Berry left on Saturday for Walham, Mass., where she will spend the winter months with her daughter, Miss Edith Berry.

Carl Schmidt, of Saint John, was the week end guest recently of his mother, Mrs. Fred Schmidt.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

CLOUDS AND FILTERS

If it's clouds you want in your next picture a filter will capture them.

LAST week the Snapshot Guild received a letter from a reader who lives in the country. She wrote in part: "At this time of year the clouds are simply beautiful and often when their formations are unusually attractive I take many snapshots hoping they will register and give a rather true picture of the beautiful scene. I have been somewhat disappointed in the results, however, for these beautiful, soft, white clouds have not appeared in the pictures as true to nature as I had hoped for."

Clouds do add to the beauty of any outdoor picture but it is true that they do not always register through the lens of the camera as they appear to the eye. Suppose we are taking a picture such as the one above and use a filter which is sensitive only to ultraviolet, violet and blue light. We should not be able to distinguish between the clouds and sky if we give enough exposure to show detail in the landscape. This is because the light from the blue sky and the white clouds is very rich in light rays to which the film responds.

Although clouds and blue sky are both rich in ultra-violet, violet and blue, there is a marked difference between the two. The light from the clouds, being white, actually contains a certain amount of green and red light, while that from the blue sky does not.

This, then, makes it necessary to distinguish between clouds and sky in order to record both in a snapshot. We must, therefore, use a filter which will respond to green, or to green and red light, and also put over the lens a filter which holds back the ultra-violet and blue. The green or green and red light from the clouds will thus effect the film, while practically no light from the sky will get through to it, and in the finished print, the clouds will appear whiter than the sky.

Some film is slightly sensitive to green light but super-sensitive panchromatic films will respond to both green and red light. Such films will, therefore, show up the clouds against the sky if used with a yellow filter. The deeper the yellow color in the filter the more violet and blue it removes, or "holds back."

As you will no doubt surmise, there are various types of filters and each type has its limitations so in choosing a filter you must make your own decision, based on your general requirements. A good general all-round filter is the K2 which requires lengthening the exposure two to four times, depending on the film employed.

There is also a filter known as a Sky Filter used extensively by the amateur to photograph clouds in a landscape with no increase in exposure time. Half of this filter is yellow and the other half clear. This filter can be used without increasing the exposure because the sky is photographed through the yellow part while the landscape, or general subject, is photographed through the lower half, which is not colored.

If it's clouds you want a filter will prove invaluable.

COD MADE UP OF DIFFERENT RACES

Autumn-Spawning Cod Have One Less Vertebrae in Backbone

Just why it is so may still be one of nature's secrets but codfish which spawn in Canada's Atlantic waters in the autumn season have at least one less vertebrae in the backbone than members of their family which spawn in the winter.

That is one of the points that has been established by Canadian fisheries research workers in the course of their study of the cod's natural history and migratory habits, and this study has shown definitely that the cod population of the Dominion's Atlantic coast is not made up of one homogeneous stock but of several different races. These races belong to different areas, although they may move to other grounds in seasonal migrations.

"The more the research people can find out about the habits of fish the better it is, of course, for the fishing industry. For instance, if by tagging experiments the investigators can determine the migratory habits of the cod—the course which the fish normally take in moving about—it becomes possible to indicate where the fishing is likely to be good. Or by finding out what water temperatures are most favoured by cod—some very interesting work in this field has been done by Newfoundland land investigators by the way—the research people can pass on to the fishermen information which can be made very useful in fishing operations. Other examples of the way in which scientific research can be turned to the fisherman's advantage could be cited.

Canadian investigations into Atlantic cod stocks have indicated that several geographical divisions exist in the winter spawning stock. The situation as regards the autumn spawners has not yet been made so clear. One of these geographical divisions in the winter spawning group is made up of the United States shore on the Gulf of Maine. Another is the Bay of Fundy and southwestern Nova Scotia, including Brown's, Roseway and LaHave Banks. One of the others is the Halifax to Cape Breton region of Nova Scotia, including the western banks but possibly excluding the Canadian Bank; and the fourth is the Quebec side of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

One of the specific subjects which is being studied by R. A. McKenzie, the research worker who has been concentrating on cod investigations for the biological board of Canada in the past few years, is the question as to the relative abundance of the different broods occurring in the autumn spawning group. The work on this part of the cod population of fish which spawn every autumn in some of the larger inlets along the outer coast of Nova Scotia, was begun in 1933 and is still in progress.

Reporting recently as to the results of his studies in this regard in 1933 and 1934 Mr. McKenzie stated the 1927 brood of fish has been found to be dominant. In 1933 the fish from the spawning of five years before came second in abundance and the 1925 brood ranked third. Last year, however, there were more 1925 fish than those of the 1928 brood. Cod of the 1926 brood were fourth in abundance both in 1933 and 1934.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

IT'S FOOTBALL TIME

Enlargements of long distance shots will often bring out the "action" detail of a football play (left). A shot from the side lines (right).

HOLD that line! Hold that line! Yes, football season is with us again with its excited, yelling crowds, raccoon coats and joyous celebrations by supporters of the winning team.

What a paradise for the snapshot! He who goes to the game without his camera is missing a golden opportunity. Pictures of the game, the crowds in the grandstands and informal shots of his classmates and friends will furnish him many hours of pleasure year after year as he looks back through his snapshot album.

There are countless opportunities for interesting, story-telling pictures at football games. All you have to do is use a little imagination. When you are blocked in the traffic and remark to the girl friend, "Gee, look at that line-up of cars and the crowd at the gate," don't stop with that—take a snapshot. Don't be satisfied with stepping out of the car and just snapping a straight line of cars. Stand on the bumper and snap down on the traffic and crowds. The results will be much more pleasing than the ordinary, conventional view.

The period before the start of the game offers further opportunities for unusual snapshots. For instance, take a picture from the top of the grandstand steps showing the crowds coming up the steps to their seats. A shutter speed of 1/50 of a second will stop the motion of the people as they walk directly toward your camera.

Stand on your seat and take a full view picture of the crowds in the grandstand and as you do this you may see some of your friends seated nearby. Attract their attention and as they wave with a cheerful "Hey, Bill," you can snap another interesting, story-telling picture. Even a chance "blind" shot over your shoulder may bring unusual and pleasing results.

See today that your camera is ready for action, load it with film and leave for the game determined to get the kind of pictures you will be proud to show your friends.

JOHN VAN GUILDER

Incoming broods of 1929 and 1930 did not seem very abundant, and among the older year classes the 1923, 1916 and 1919 broods seemed least plentiful.

One interesting comment bearing on the effect of water temperature on fish movements was made by Mr. McKenzie when he pointed out that the presence of a very thick intermediate layer of ice cold water, apparently explained why a spring run of cod which seems to move both ways along the coast from Halifax in April and May did not put in an appearance on the usual grounds this year. Moving toward the inshore feeding grounds, the fish apparently came upon the unexpected cold water and promptly sheered off shore again, moving rapidly in water deeper than that which is usually fished.

The extensive area occupied by this layer of ice cold water in the Cape Breton region seems to have influenced a large number of cod to go out to Western Bank, where good fishing lasted some weeks longer than usual during the summer. Some of them did make their way inshore, on the Cape Breton coast, and were caught within five fathoms of the surface, the water below that level being unsuitably cold.

Another interesting point brought out in this year's investigations was that during the early months of the year a large body of cod showing the vertebral character of fish from cold or waters than those frequented by Canadian stocks moved into Nova Scotia waters eastward of Lunenburg. By late July most of them had disappeared again, though a number continued to be present later than that in inshore waters of the Canso area. Why they came and why they went is not certain.

OUTLIVES SEVEN WIVES

Saying he is the oldest man in Turkey, Derviche Dayi, of El Aziz, recently observed what he claimed to be his 127th birthday anniversary. He has outlived seven wives, and recollects taking part in the siege of the Malakoff Tower during the Crimean War, in 1855. At present married to a woman 55 years old, Dayi has 10 children, 32 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren.

The enslavement of black by white began, it is presumed, as soon as white met black; the pre-historic graves of Lower Egypt evidence that 10,000 years ago the Libyans had enslaved the blacks about them.

SAILS ON ITS LAST VOYAGE

Only a Few More of the Old Sailing Ships Left.

There is a tide in the affairs of sailing ships—a slow-moving ebb that has not yet run its course. Only the other day the four-masted barque Star of Zealand, a lofty relic of the world's once great company of sail, cleared San Francisco on her final voyage—to a junk yard in Japan.

Launched as the Astral, at Bath, Maine, she with her tall sister, Acme and Atlas, helped keep the lamps of China burning in a strenuous decade of service as case oil carriers under the house flag of Standard Oil. Eventually she joined the Alaska Salmon Packers' "Star" fleet whose fast-vanishing forest of masts today looms out of Oakland Estuary in forlorn disuse.

Wrought of men's highest naval artistry, they brought a virile loveliness into the hard-cased calling of the sea. All was not beauty and romance in those departed days when the world's commerce moved by the whims of wind and tide. Tales of mutiny and dismasting, of storm and peril, are inscribed in the log of those three Down East barques. In the end, Acme went "missing" somewhere along the way to Cape Horn. Now the Star of Zealand, at Astral goes to an alien shipbreaker's yard. Only the Star of Lapland, once Atlas, is left of that lordly clan which Bath sent forth at the turn of the century in sail's last defiant stand against the challenge of steam.

Time lays its softening aura upon the scene. Only the good endures in the memory of men who survive that era. The old blue-water sailor is a sentimental fellow, too. And so from the seclusion of some snug harbor ashore he gazes wistfully into the wake of the windjammer and sighs:

They mark our passage as a race of men.
Earth will not see such ships as those again.

CANDLES AND SOAP FROM SARDINES

Modern industrial chemistry is transforming many of the staple articles into uses which people of an earlier day never dreamed. As a case in point fish have been caught for eating and for their oil. Modern chemists have now extended the use of fish oil into the manufacture of soap, candles and other domestic articles, the oil undergoing a hardening process. In the production of this fish oil the sardine occupies a prominent place, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. Canada has the largest sardine fisheries in the world in New Brunswick, and is an important source of supply for fish oil. The sardine accounts for 75 per cent of the production of fish oil in Japan with herring, shark, whale and cod also contributing. The greater portion of Japan's fish oil goes to Germany, followed by Great Britain, Norway, Kwantung Province, Holland and Australia. The hardened oil is more widely exported, Italy taking the greatest quantity, followed by China, Philippine Islands, Germany, Great Britain, Egypt, India, Hongkong, the United States, Hol-

CAPT. BARKHOUSE LOSES ANOTHER VESSEL

Schooner Esthonia Founders Off Nantucket—Crew Saved

Rescued by the Norwegian tanker South America when the three-masted Nova Scotia schooner Esthonia sank off Nantucket on Sunday, Captain J. D. Mahoney and his crew of six were transferred to a R. C. M. P. cutter and landed in Halifax this week. The cause of the Esthonia's loss was not stated, but she was laden with salt from Turk's Island for Bangor, Maine, and it is believed the cargo shifted in the rough seas.

Corried by Capt. L. F. Barkhouse of Westport, the Esthonia sailed from White's Cove, Digby County, on August 21, and arrived at Bangor, September 18. Clearing from there on September 30, she reached Turk's Island on October 7 and sailed three days later for Bangor.

Captain Mahoney's crew was made up of Jack Mahoney, his son, Frank Wambach, Mount Pleasant, seaman; and two men signed on at White Cove when the Esthonia loaded a cargo of lumber for Barbados.

Dried fruits and vegetables which have been preserved by drying where canning was not available should be stored in air-tight containers. Tin cans and glass jars are satisfactory, or paper bags, dipped in wax and allowed to dry. The bags should be carefully sealed and stored in a cool, dry, well-ventilated place.

G. R. Pierce, principal of the Weymouth High School, spent Thanksgiving at his home in Wilmot, where he attended the Teachers' institute at Bridgetown.

REV. F. E. BISHOP CLOSES HIS MINISTRY HERE

Retires After Ten Years' Service In the Digby Baptist Church

There was a large congregation in the Digby Baptist church Sunday evening on the occasion of the farewell sermon of Rev. F. E. Bishop, who has served that church and its associate church at Hillgrove, faithfully for the past ten years. In making reference to his pastorate here Mr. Bishop stated that he had spent one-quarter of his ministry in Digby, and making allowances for vacations and other causes, had occupied the pulpit of the church one thousand times. Sunday night's service was his last as the pastor of the church. He has secured a property at Deep Brook, a few miles from town, where he will live in retirement. For the past eight years Mr. Bishop has been president of the Digby Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses. He is also a past president of the Digby Children's Aid Society, and is at present one of the vice-presidents of that body. Mrs. Bishop has also taken an active interest in community affairs.

During the course of his address Mr. Bishop expressed his thanks to the members of the choir, the officers of the church, the congregation and friends for the wonderful co-operation they have given him during his pastorate here, the longest pastorate he has ever held.

Since Mr. and Mrs. Bishop came here from Newcastle, N. B., in 1925, they have made a host of friends, who, although regretting they have severed their active connection with the church, are very much pleased to learn that they are making their home so near Digby and will still be in a position to take an interest in the affairs of the community and church.

Obituary

Julius Deveau

On Monday morning of last week, at 8 o'clock, Rev. Father d'Entremont officiated at the funeral of the late Julius Deveau, of Meteghan, who passed away Friday the 18th, at the age of 76 years. He leaves his wife, (neé Calvary Walsh, of Plympton, N. S.); four sons, Walter, Thomas, Howard and Andrew; five daughters, Mrs. Joseph LeBlanc, (Kate), Lina Bernadette, Geille and Corine; also five sisters, Fred Comeau, organist of the Saulnierville church, presided at the organ, and the choir was directed by Arthur Robichaud. The pall bearers were all nephews of the deceased—John Deveau, Jules Deveau, Willie Robichaud, Edward Deveau, Adolphe Deveau and Albert Robichaud.

Joseph Arthur Risseu

The death of Joseph Arthur Risseu, chef at the Scotia restaurant here, occurred at the Digby General Hospital early Tuesday evening. Mr. Risseu, who had been ill since Friday, underwent a serious operation at the hospital Sunday afternoon. He was 26 years of age and survived by his wife and infant child. The remains were forwarded to Lunenburg yesterday for interment at Charlville, Shelburne County. He was born in Weymouth.

Adoniram J. Rice

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, at Barton, of Adoniram J. Rice, who died last Saturday after a short illness, aged 75 years. Rev. M. C. Higgins conducted the service and interment was in the Barton cemetery, beside his wife who died some years ago. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Everett Turck (Eleanor), and Mrs. Arthur Foster (Ruby); three grandchildren, Laura and Louise Turck and Effie Foster; also one brother, Seymour, in the United States.

Cats Can See in the Dark... Children Can't

Cats can see in the dark. But your eyes and a child's eyes were never intended to do close seeing in anything but ADEQUATE LIGHT. In fact, nature developed our eyes for distant seeing, out of doors. It never intended that we should use our eyes the way we do—for reading books, playing games, sewing or other close work, in HALF LIGHT. No wonder that 95% of all the people over 60 years of age have impaired vision.

Even children are not exempt. Twenty grade-school children out of every hundred have defective eye-sight. They need eye-glasses or BETTER LIGHT or both.

Proper lighting can do much toward preventing this alarming condition. And fortunately, science now tells us EXACTLY how much light we need for easy, effortless seeing.

BON. RUSSELL'S CAR WRECKED BY A MOOSE

Though there were an exceptionally large number of moose killed by hunters in Nova Scotia during the recent short season, there are still some left. Motorists are finding this out. Driving to Kentville from Digby Sunday night Ronald Russell, son of Capt. R. W. Russell, had his car crashed into by a big bull moose on the main highway between Lawrencetown and Middleton. Traveling around 35 miles, the Russell machine was hit by the moose which jumped from the ditch on the left hand side of the road. One headlight was knocked off, two doors were dented and mudguards were smashed, as the moose bounced off the front of the car and slid along the side of the machine, his antlers almost smashing the car windows. Bringing his car to a stop Russell saw the moose limping off into the woods.

Honour the Dead: Remember the Living

The Poppy has a lasting history dating back to antiquity. In the well-known story of the poppy of mythological ancient China it was the drug, distilled from it, as the flower of forgetfulness. And through the ages it kept this meaning until the time of the Napoleonic Wars, when a thoughtful and observant writer of the period first remarked the intimate association the scarlet poppy had with the graves of those who had fallen in battle. He remarked that the fields of battle, Waterloo, Dettingen and others—bare wastes before the conflicts—blossomed after battle and the burying of youth into vast stretches of scarlet—the scarlet of Flanders Poppies.

In the Great War millions had the opportunity of observing this singular phenomenon. They, their comrades lay, great vistas of poppies waving defiantly amidst the shot and shell and all the terrors of warfare. A Canadian soldier poet saw the poppies, too, and immortalized them in a poem—"In Flanders Fields."

The War ended, the men came back to start life afresh. They expected, and quite rightly too, that they would pick up the threads of civil life as they put them down to take up arms in the service of their country. Unhappily, disappointment awaited many of them, and soon we saw throughout the country thousands upon thousands of ex-Servicemen and their families unable to obtain employment, and living in conditions of the direst distress.

In the Old Country the British Legion had been formed to foster the interests of ex-Servicemen, but it required funds to cope with the growing demands made upon its resources by those in distress. The late Field-Marshal Earl Haig, as all well know, gave of his best in the cause of his old comrades, and the great need for funds to aid them occasioned him the greatest anxiety. Many methods of obtaining the necessary funds were suggested. Some were tried, but the solution was not found. Eventually the idea of utilizing the poppy for sale as an emblem of remembrance on Armistice Day was put forward. It was immediately submitted to the Field-Marshal who, instinctively realizing its great possibilities, set in hand the organization which is now the most wonderful organization of its kind in the world. With only six weeks to organize it, in the first British Poppy Day Appeal in 1921 produced the splendid total of 100,000 pounds.

Most of the poppies used on that occasion were made by the women and children in the devastated areas of France, but Lord Haig was quick to see the splendid possibilities which future Poppy Day appeals would provide for the employment of disabled men, and early in 1922 the British Legion Poppy Factory was started.

In Canada the first poppy replicas were worn on the third anniversary of Armistice Day. From the modest distribution of that day the custom became universal, until last Armistice Day nearly two million Canadians carried the symbol, while thousands of post-war graves and hundreds of memorials and cenotaphs bore the emblem in the form of wreaths, sprays and individual flowers.

The Flanders Poppy replicas achieve the first and greatest purpose of remembrance—remembrance of those thousands of splendid Canadians and brother Britons who sacrificed their lives on the altar of freedom: remembrance of those days when human values were placed in sharp relief, with the multitude of quiet, decent-living people bending every effort to achieve victory. And remembrance is essential if future generations are to heed the lessons of that stupendous conflict.

But, contributory to this great purpose, the Flanders Poppy has been the means of fulfilling two other most worthy purposes. Appropriately enough, the manufacture of the poppy replicas has been concentrated in the hands of men who were broken by the conflict. Men who are unemployable in the exacting processes of ordinary commerce find in the manufacture of these little flowers a sacred and congenial task. Their fingers may not be nimble, and their day's output may be modest, but they put into the results a significance that the rapid processes of commercial manufacture cannot possibly encompass. For the disabled veterans in Veterans and Red Cross workshops are creating true memorials, while a poppy replica produced under ordinary commercial conditions petitive conditions is nothing more than an artificial flower.

No less significant is the third objective. The distribution of these symbolic flowers, each year in local centres which serve the splendid purpose of bringing relief of the distressed and disabled, among those who fought, and their dependents. War's ravaging hand left marks on the hearts and bodies of practically every man who wore the King's uniform. Many have been fortunate enough to have had sufficient strength left to rise above this condition. Others have fought a losing battle, although with few exceptions every man has made a courageous effort to overcome the handicap. Innumerable reasons have contributed to the need for a helping hand. Pensions and treatment provisions have helped thousands, but it is the man with the invisible disability—the man who bears no outward scars and who apparently came through unimpaired—that requires sympathetic aid from his comrades. Poppy replicas are not sold, but citizens are given an opportunity at the time of the annual distribution to contribute of their means towards this great purpose. Thus the Flanders Poppy "Brings aid for the living from the dead."

The success of the poppy distribution this year develops in an even greater degree upon the attitude of ex-Servicemen. The non-veteran public look to the veterans of the country for guidance in all matters affecting the disabled and the dependent. The first duty of the individual veteran, then, is to advocate and insist upon his local branch of the Legion undertaking the poppy distribution for his community using only poppies made by disabled veterans in Veterans and Red Cross workshops. If a suggestion is offered that artificial flowers can be secured at lesser prices from competitive firms, the fact should be firmly emphasized that every poppy bought from other sources reduces the employment opportunities for their comrades who are unable to follow normal occupations. It should be pointed out also that the commercial flower lacks utterly in the great significance requisite to the attainment of all the purposes represented by the Flanders Poppy.

If we strive conscientiously to fulfil the great purposes represented in the Flanders Poppy, we will have done much towards holding high the torch which has been passed to us from the failing hands of our comrades who rest beneath the poppies of Flanders Field.

Mrs. James Ellis, of Bayview, has returned home after spending a week with her daughters, Mrs. E. M. Ritchey and Miss Dorothy Ellis, in Halifax.

The ladies of Trinity Guild will hold their annual Tea and Christmas Tree, in Trinity Parish Hall, on Wednesday, December 4th.

Mrs. W. W. Warburton and daughter, Edna, accompanied by her granddaughter, Eleanor, and Mrs. Henry Trask, were week end visitors to Wolfville.

Proceeds of the pantry sale for the benefit of the hospital, held last Saturday, were $20.05. The lucky ticket for fruit cake was drawn by Mrs. H. Baxter.

There will be a Clam Supper in the Smith's Cove Temperance Hall, next Wednesday evening, from 5.30 to 7.30 o'clock. Clam Chowder will be the principal dish but other good things will be on hand. Price 25c.

A cut pie social was held at the home of Mrs. S. B. MacGregor, at Smith's Cove, on Monday last week for the purpose of raising money for hymn books for the church. The proceeds amounted to $9.00.

There will be a special service for the returned men in the Temperance Hall, at Smith's Cove, on Monday, The Digby and Bear River branches of the Legion have been invited and the Digby Band will be in attendance. The service will start at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

The ladies of the Baptist Church will hold their Christmas Sale and Tea on Wednesday, December 11th.

THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH DEBTS

"Does England Owe Anything to the United States?" was the subject of an address presented to the Digby Kiwanis Club by Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson, pastor of Grace United Church. Dr. Hodgson's answer was an emphatic "No!"

He contended that the United States owes Great Britain far more than Britain is supposed to owe the United States, and that the American debt to the United Empire Loyalists, recognized by the American Congress after the Revolutionary War, is far in excess of Great Britain's war debt to the United States—and today, at a moderate rate of compound interest, would amount to approximately $1,200,000,000.

However, during the course of his address the speaker only touched on the alleged Loyalist debt and took the greater part of his time discussing the American obligation to Great Britain resulting from the Alabama dispute which arose out of the American claim that Great Britain was responsible for the whole cost of their Civil War after the Battle of Gettysburg, on the ground that this battle would have concluded the war had it not been for Britain's alleged lack of vigilance in not holding back the privateers, Alabama, Florida and Shenandoah, employed by the Confederate States.

This matter was brought before a court of arbitration for settlement, the court ruling that national claims should be excluded, by nevertheless recognizing some of the American claims and ruling that Great Britain should reimburse the individual United States citizens of any losses through the privateers. Not knowing what these claims would amount to, a court and Great Britain promptly handed over the sum of $15,000,000 to be held by the United States in trust to pay any legitimate claims which might be presented.

These claims amounted to $5,000,000, leaving a balance of $10,000,000 in the trust fund held by the United States. The question then arose as to what to do with this money. Some congressmen and senators argued that this should be turned to Great Britain, others argued that it should be paid to compensate insurance companies and others, not individuals, who had suffered loss—which was entirely contrary to the ruling of the court of arbitration. At any rate, the money was never returned to Great Britain, and, with interest, has grown to over $125,000,000.

MORE NEWS ABOUT KIWANIS CONTEST

Applications are coming in from places as far distant as Bellville's Cove and Round Hill. So it looks like a Big Night of vaudeville, song, music, dancing and impersonations. Amos and Andy will be there, and Madam Queen is on her way from Annapolis to check up on Andy.

The Contest is to be held in the Bijou Theatre, Thursday evening, and if there are sufficient children's numbers the Friday afternoon Contest will be held for them, otherwise children are to compete on Thursday evening.

Get your tickets in advance, from Kiwanis Club members and exchange for reserve seats at Rexall Store. Money Prizes $1.00-$5.00.

Proceeds for work among underprivileged children.

Judge Livingston, of Annapolis Royal, was in town this week.

HOSPITAL DONATION DAY

On Armistice Day, some years ago, the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society inaugurated the first Donation Day for the Digby General Hospital. It has proved very successful and has become an annual custom. This year the public is again invited to visit the Hospital on Armistice Day. There will be served from 3 to 5.30 in the hospital reception room by members of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society. Any donations will be most gratefully received—preserves, pickles, vegetables, groceries, linens or money—all acceptable.

May our gratitude to those who served and suffered in the Great War find tangible expression on Armistice Day, in helping the Hospital which is ministering to those who suffer today.

Miss Gertrude Chisholm has returned from a visit to Annapolis Royal.

USE SMALL WORDS

Lord Macaulay said in praise of a famous book that he read page after page of it without meeting with a word of more than two syllables. The same idea is advanced by the Christian Science Monitor, of Boston, as follows:—

"Small words are best. Leave the long ones to those who need to show they have been to school. Short words have force. Most of the strong thoughts and acts and hopes of men take short words to tell them. Might and right, strength, faith, are words of just one sound each.

"And such words speak well in small groups. From start to the full stop need be but a few sounds
—each sound a word, each word a punch, and the whole a cause won.
Things for which men feel awe may be held in a small word. Things they love, too, like trees and grass and lakes and the sea, the blooms in the yard by the door. Things they hate need not be told nor things they fear, but these, too, can be felt in the sweep of a short string of short words.

"More could be found to say for words of one sound, for chains of words with few links. This should show that one can talk long though he uses short words, and he may say less in long ones and more of them."

This is a sensible and well-expressed opinion. The reader will note that only words of one syllable are used.

RIVERDALE

Miss Mildred Cosman, of Brockton, Mass., is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cosman.

Miss Meiba Outhouse, teacher at Hasset's, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sabine.
Miss Hilda Wagner spent a few days last week with Mrs. George Wagner, Weymouth.

Mrs. Johnson and Miss Muriel Marshall, of South Range, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
A. Cosman last week.
Miss Clarence Mullen, of Woodstock, N. S., accompanied by his sister, Mrs.
Russell Lewis, of Danvers, called on friends here on Sunday.

Mrs. Alex. Wagner spent a few days last week with her parents,
Mr. and Mrs. Hartshorn Mullen, Easton.

The Misses Myrtle Chute and Vivia Wagner spent the week end with friends in New Tusket.

Hanford Ring, of Barton, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Roxanna Sabine.

C. D. Greene, of Weymouth, was a recent guest of his sister, Mrs.
Isaac Wagner.

HARLEM

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Levensal, ler and Miss Dorothy Mullen, of Augusta, Maine, are now spending their vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mullen, as is also another daughter, Miss Bertha Mullen, who has been working in Wolfville.

Mr. and Mrs. Gidney and Mrs.
George Merritt, of Mink Cove, and Mrs. Edward Hersey and daughter, Mrs. Aubrey Westcott, of Centreville, were recent guests of Mrs. Fred Mullen, Jr.

Mrs. William Gaudet and Mrs. Alphonse Thibault and daughter, Betty, of New Tusket, spent Sunday with friends in this place.

Aubrey Amero, who is employed in Yarmouth, spent the week end with his family here.

The engagement of Miss Rita
White, of Southville, to Cornelius J.
Boudreau, of Harlem, has been announced, the wedding to take place on November 18th, in St. Joseph's Church, Weymouth.

Mrs. Samuel White returned home Saturday from Yarmouth, where she spent a few days visiting friends and relatives.

So modest that when he visits Canada
now he travels in disguise and only a fraction of his courageous exploits are known. He is the true Air man of British wings and still flies in the British army in the King's uniform.

Went to sea as a boy and at eighteen was close to the South Pole, navigator of Scott's ill-fated Antarctic expedition. When war broke out he forgot the sea and took to the air where he became the greatest combat pilot in the allied service. He was third only to Bishop and Ponck amongst Allied aces and was never scratched although shot down three times. His guns destroyed twenty-nine craft in two months and in 1918 his air-Canadian 203rd Squadron shot down
203 enemy craft.

Has flashing white teeth, blue eyes and fair hair. Unlike most heroes, he actually prefers the thrill of a dangerous deed to getting a medal for it.

PLYMPTON

Miss Monique Dugas, of the Glebe House, spent a few days last week among relatives and friends, at her old home in Grosse Couques.

Mrs. Sam. Thibault, of Doucetteville, is visiting her daughter, Mrs.
Kazler Comeau.

Mrs. Marius Melanson, Marshall, town, is visiting her old home in Doucetteville.

A. F. Hache, of Meteghan, recently spent a few days with Rev. Father Gaudet, and returned home on Monday.

There will be a basket social in the parish hall tomorrow evening, for church purposes.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD STUDY YOUR COMPOSITION

It is quite obvious that pictures of groups of people, or animals, such as the horses shown above, should be taken with the camera in a horizontal position, while arches, high waterfalls, etc., should be vertical.

NEWSPAPER cameramen are sometimes sharply criticized by those who consider photography as an art, for various faults in composition, lighting, shadows, etc. These criticisms may be right but they do not stop to consider that the news cameraman must take his pictures when he can get it and often on the run. It's the picture of an individual or action he is after and heaven help him if he returns to his city editor and says, "Sorry chief, but I didn't get that picture of the mayor being slugged. The sun was in the wrong position, the shadows terrible and the mayor was in an atrocious pose when he was struck."

Only a shutter to think of what would happen to that cameraman!
There is one point, however, we can all learn from the news cameraman and profit by it in taking more interesting pictures. It is this: Include into the principal subject in a picture. In other words, if you are taking a picture of an individual or a group, focus the lens on the principal subject and forget about the sharpness of the background or the surrounding scenery, building, or whatever it may be, unless the background is of some importance and is part of the story.

If you are taking a landscape picture determine before you "shoot" the most attractive view and concentrate your focusing on that spot.
Two pictures showing two well composed and attractive scenes are worth many snapshots with innumerable points of possible interest.
Then there is the shape of the picture to consider. First of all this is controlled by the way the camera is held—vertically or horizontally.

A high waterfall for instance, or a single figure standing in a high doorway, obviously should be taken with the camera in a vertical position, while, on the other hand, a landscape, a herd of cattle or a scattered group of people should be snapped with the camera held horizontally.

Although the right camera position has been chosen, trimming may be advisable to cut out unattractive or unnecessary details which were not noticed in the finder when the picture was taken. This can be done by masking the film when it is intended to eliminate too much sky or objects at either side of the picture that may distract the attention from the view you had in mind at the time you took the picture. Occasionally, it is advisable to trim away the background altogether and mount the principal subject as a cutout on the album page.

Orals, circles and panels are shapes which suit various types of subjects, circles making attractive frames for portraits. The size of the circle and its position with regard to the head must be left to individual taste, but where the head is not shown in full front view, more space should be left on the side toward which the face is turned.

NOVA SCOTIA FOR A HOLI- DAY.

An English Writer Gives His Impressions of This Province
By the Sea.

The following article from the pen of Rev. A. M. Churchwin, M. A., in the British Weekly of October 17th should prove of important publicity value to Nova Scotia:

Nova Scotia deserves to be better known in Britain than it is. If the average Englishman thinks of Nova Scotia at all, he imagines it to be a land of fogs and Arctic winds, yet Nova Scotia gets more sun and less rain than England, and in spite of snow and ice its winter is dry and stimulating. But it is of Nova Scotia's summer that I want to write.

I have never heard anyone refer to Nova Scotia as an attractive country except Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, who, after his visit a year or so ago, spoke of it as an ideal place for a holiday. His words have come back to me again and again during the days that I have recently spent on its lakes and in its forests.

Nova Scotia has three months of glorious summer, followed by a month of early autumn which for colour can be equaled in but few countries. There are no heat waves or thunderstorms in its summer, only sunny days and gentle warmth.
Its beaches and cliffs cannot compare with Cornwall. Its glory is in its lakes. I don't know when I have seen any lakes so lovely as the Bras d'Or Lakes, of Cape Breton.

Though right in the heart of the country, the lakes are salt and slightly tidal. There are two narrow openings through which sailing ships and small steamers can pass from the open sea and find that they have something like a hundred miles of lovely lake land to explore. One lake opens, at the bend of the hills, into yet another. The largest lake must be nearly fifty miles long.
There are several smaller ones, and a host of charming coves and wooded islets. For the most part trees grow right down to the water's edge.
With here and there a farm clearing or a summer residence gleaming white amongst the trees.

One or two small holiday towns have become playground for wealthy Canadians and Americans. There are speed-boats dashing about and white-sailed yachts leaning over to the wind. It reminded me of the Thousand Islands in Lake Ontario, except that in the Bras d'Or Lakes
there are neither so many islands nor so many millionaires. On the other hand, there are glorious fir-clad mountains coming close up to the lakes. I cannot recall anything in the Thousand Islands quite so lovely as the view from the hillside home of the late Professor Bell, the inventor of the telephone. The house is now occupied by his son-in-law, Dr. Grosvenor, the editor of the National Geographic Magazine, which has a circulation, so he told me, of considerably more than a million.

Of the other lake-side homes I visited another will abide with me.
It is the holiday home of a Nova Scotia doctor. He and his sons have built a lovely cabin on a tiny wooded islet. I don't think I have ever seen a more perfect setting for a home. As we sat talking on the verandah in the setting sun the water was gently lapping against the rocks a dozen feet below. It reminded me of Thoreau's hut on the edge of the Walden pond.

The beauty of these lakes was increased for me by the glimpse here and there of little church spires peeping between the dark firs or gleaming white in the afternoon sun.
I found these little wooden churches bright with their summer coats of paint, singularly attractive at any rate from the outside. Inside they were undistinguished.

Religiously and educationally, Nova Scotia suffers from an excess of denominationism. There are, for example, far too many universities granting degrees. This is true of all the Maritime Provinces. If one denomination has a college of university standing, every other denomination will have one, too. The province could do with 50 per cent fewer universities. Suggestions have been made for uniting some of these institutions, but the vested and denominationist interests have so far proved too strong.

The Church Union movement in Canada, which resulted ten years ago, in the union of the Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists to form the United Church of Canada, hardly touched Nova Scotia.
There were practically no Congregationalists in the province to unite, and a great number of the Presbyterians refused to enter the union.
So far as Nova Scotia was concerned the union movement came to be largely a Methodist movement, and there are as many denominations in the province today as there were ten years ago. However, the relations, I am told, are good, and who knows what a generation may bring forth, especially amongst such a friendly people. It would be hard to find folk who make a visitor more welcome or at home.

There is more history in Nova Scotia than in most colonies. Few parts of the empire have been taken and re-taken so many times, and French place-names bear witness to the pictures when it was a French possession.

To me it was even more interesting to find that there were hundreds and even thousands of people in Nova Scotia who still speak Gaelic and who speak no other tongue. Though not a Highlander I found it strange to find moving to come across a signpost pointing the way to Belain Breagach and then to come upon a village where every person has the Gaelic.

If only Nova Scotia were not so far away it would be a perfect holiday haunt. The holiday maker would find change without tropic heat, and a new land but the old religious bonds.

AUTOMOBILES AND MAN- SLAUGHTER

Ontario Judge Outspoken On the Matter of Careless Drivers

Whatever the reason may be,
there has been a startling increase in auto accidents this year.
Both the number of cars on the roads and their average speed seem to be increasing; and the frequency of accidents, and their grave character, demand quick and decisive punishment for all who may be at fault. In Ontario, a judge has spoken out strongly and we quote the report of his remarks to the grand jury as follows:—

Addressing the grand jury in the Ottawa Assizes Mr. Justice Kelly urged these representative men of Carleton County to do what they could "to create a sentiment for the protection of people on the streets and highways against death and maiming at the hands of automobile operators."

His Lordship said perhaps ninety per cent of drivers observe the law, but the other ten per cent includes drivers whom he called "a disgrace to civilization." The courts, he went on, of late had been inclined toward greater severity in cases arising out of reckless driving, but the attitude of the public was wrong.

He had tried hundreds of cases of criminal negligence where the jury had found the accused guilty and he had given six to twelve months imprisonment with the result that

NO JEWISH HEROES

Under a recent order issued by Germany's Minister of Propaganda,
Paul Goebbels, the names of 12,000
Jewish soldiers killed in the World War while fighting in the German armies will be taken off—and kept off—memorial monuments. This action does not harm the dead soldiers or their surviving relatives. It can hardly benefit the Nazi-Nordic cause, however. Simple gratitude might be expected to protect the names of any who have fought and died for Germany, regardless of their race.

Despicable as the order seems to us, it is hardly worse than some of the things Canadians did during the war, when they made life miserable for law-abiding, public-spirited, nonbelligerent residents of German descent, when they banned German language and literature from schools and colleges, and so on.

Hatred, such as war breeds, and an obsession such as that of Nordo-German purity and supremacy which grips Germany today, can lead usually sensible people to do hateful and insane things.

Unquestionably the times demand a new conception of the responsibilities of drivers to the public. The driver whose recklessness takes life or causes injury has no right to expect generous treatment. He is a menace to the common safety and he must be treated as such.—Ottawa Journal.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Searle returned to Truro on Tuesday.

Ladies' Aid met on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Mrs. Hubbard.

Atwood Miller, of Lansdowne, left last week to pay an extended visit to his daughter, Mrs. Theodore Beals, Margerville, and other relatives and friends.

The Milford Corner school was the scene of a delightful Halloween entertainment on Thursday. Great credit is due to Mr. Snell and the pupils who entered into the spirit of the occasion with so much enthusiasm, and to Mr. Blanchard, who added greatly to the general air of fun and merriment. A creditable little programme had been prepared and after the guests had shaken hands with a semi-circle and nerve-racking ghost at the door, they were shown into a darkened room, replete with "pumpkin-grubbers". Recitations, and songs suitable to the occasion, were followed by apple-bobbing, a ghost parade, fortune-telling and other Halloween fun. Refreshments were served and a pleasant and happy afternoon drew to a close.

Mrs. C. D. Rice entertained a few friends at the tea hour on Friday last.

St. John's Guild met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John Harrow.

Mrs. Sylvester Robar, of Bridgetown, is visiting her mother, Mrs. John Coombs.

Mrs. Mary Hubbard is a guest at the Grand Central Hotel for the winter months.

The Keith Lodge, A. F. and A. M., held its regular communication on Monday evening.

Frank Jones, K. C., of Digby, was a week end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Anthony.

Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Lovett went to Lunenburg on Saturday to visit their daughter, Mrs. W. D. Sutherland.

Mrs. Walter M. Romans left on Tuesday for Truro to attend the Provincial meetings of the Women's Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Isles spent several days in Halifax during the past week and were guests of relatives while there.

Mrs. Norris MacGowan left on Saturday for Halifax and entered the Victoria General Hospital for treatment.

The Ladies' Aid were delightfully entertained at a Halloween Party on Tuesday evening of last week at the home of Mrs. Charles Van-Buskirk.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

The Sunbeam Mission Band of the United Church were entertained at a Halloween party at the home of their leader, Mrs. H. E. Harris, on Friday evening. The room was beautiful in its dress of yellow and black—cats, witches, and so on. Prizes were given to those in costume, viz: Hoyt Purdy, Maxine Rice, Linda Banks, Marjorie Cress and others. The witch was there with all her regalia and gave to each a fortune. A large birthday cake, lit with ten candles representing ten years of service in band work since union and was enjoyed by all.

James D. Hubley motored to Halifax on Sunday last.

Mrs. Alfred Porter returned on Saturday from Saint John, where she was the guest of Mrs. Charles Saunders for the past three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Chisholm, of Halifax, have been in Bear River for woodcock shooting, and were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Harris.

Mrs. Truman Hamilton went to Kingston on Monday with Dr. Campbell, and will remain there with her son John, who is teaching school in that district.

William H. Anthony, of the Royal Bank staff, who has been commuting back and forth all summer, is now resident in Digby at the home of George H. Peters.

Mrs. Harry Moore has gone to Bridgetown to visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cunningham, Mrs. MacIntyre and Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harris went to Wolfville on Saturday to attend the Acadia-Dalhousie foot ball game.

Dr. C. and Mrs. Archibald, Truro, were in town last week. On their return they were accompanied by Mrs. N. McClintock, who will spend the winter with them.

Mrs. George Freeman returned to Halifax on Wednesday of last week after having been a guest at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Freeman, of Lansdowne.

Dr. A. B. Campbell attended the annual meeting of the Provincial Medical Board, at Halifax, on Monday evening, he being the member for this section of the Province. He was accompanied by Allan Harris.

On Tuesday evening of last week the people of East Waldeck were entertained at a pie sale and Halloween party, held under the auspices of the Waldeck East school. After an hour of entertainment the pies were sold. A large number of people attended and the amount of $18.00 was raised for school purposes.

Miss Margaret MacKenzie, who has been the guest of her niece, Mrs. J. D. Hubley and Mr. Hubley for the past few months, left on Friday for Boston, where she will spend a month with relatives. Her brother, Dr. D. J. MacKenzie, of the Public Health Department, Halifax, spent the Thanksgiving season at the same home, returning to Halifax on Sunday.

Cosby—At Bear River, Oct. 29, 1935, to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cosby, a daughter.

Mrs. Charles Harris

The death of Mrs. Ruella (Snell) and Harris, daughter of the late William and Lucinda Snell, of Morganville, occurred on Oct. 25th, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elder Milner, Morganville, with whom she had resided since the death of her husband, some years ago, and by whom she was lovingly cared for during her illness. Mrs. Harris is survived by three daughters, (Ada) Mrs. Grady, of Montpelier, Vermont; (Lucy) Mrs. Jos. Milner, of (Winnipeg) Mrs. Elder Milner, both of Morganville; also one sister, Mrs. Lucy Eldridge, Orleans, Mass.; and a brother, James Snell, of Exeter, N. H. The funeral service was held on Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. S. S. Steeves, of the United Baptist Church, Bear River, with interment in Greenwood cemetery, Morganville.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEETING

The regular meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute for November, was held last Monday afternoon in the Masonic Building, with the President, Mrs. MacIntyre, in the chair.

The reports of the various committees were received, and considerable routine business transacted, after which, to augment funds, a 10 cent tea was served by Mrs. Baker, Mrs. C. D. Rice, Mrs. Milton Morgan and Mrs. Harding Benson. About thirty-six ladies attended and plans were formulated for sewing and knitting for those in need during the coming winter, and surely there are many more in the community who might join the ranks of the Institute and lend a hand "for Home and Country". The Treasurer, Mrs. Romans, was appointed a delegate to the Provincial meetings being held in Truro this week.

BEAR RIVER EAST

Mite Society was held at the home of Mrs. G. M. Ruggles recently. — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wiles, who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Wiles, returned to their home in Brooklyn, Kings Co., last week. — Mrs. Charles VanBuskirk entertained the Bear River Aid Society on Thursday evening of last week. CURIOUS TAXES

Chimney Taxes, Taxes on Beards, Sait Taxes, Sales Taxes, Are Old

In these days when the public is apprehensively speculating about new or additional taxes to be imposed on them, it is interesting to recount some of the curious taxes which past governments and rulers have levied on their people.

One of the queerest taxes ever imposed was that on beards levied by Peter the Great of Russia in 1720. This astute tsar revealed an acute and ironic conception of a tax with a certainty of collection. He well knew how far his subjects would go to preserve their beloved beards. He called it a luxury tax. Beard owners were given tokens to prove they had paid. In case the tax-gatherer came by, armed with a pair of shears, woe to the owner of a beard who failed to possess a receipt token. Poor Peter II freed peasants from this tax and Catherine II entirely abolished it.

One of those infamous feudal taxes in France before the Revolution was the tax for the silence of gentlemen, or silence of the frogs, which was levied upon parts of Brittany. This tax was paid in lieu of services in beating the marshes to keep the frogs quiet when the wife of the Marquis was in readiness at the chateau.

The English Long Parliament, which sat just before the dethronement of Charles I, devised a tax equal in value to one meal per week, which was levied on six years.

The chimney tax appeared in England about the time of the Conquest. It was a small tax on each chimney of a dwelling. It was changed to a hearth tax in the time of Charles II. This met with popular opposition, not so much because of the tax itself, but because assessing it made necessary a visit inside one's dwelling by an assessor, which was an invasion of the privacy of an Englishman's home. To avoid this difficulty, a tax on windows, which could be assessed or counted from the outside, was imposed in the reign of William III. Houses with less than eight windows were exempted.

The Druid priests required the heads of families to report at their temples on the last night in October to pay their taxes. Following payment, the Celt householder was given a bit of the sacred fire.

Not only have taxes been held responsible for overturning empires, but in these particular cases they have changed fashions. The English Parliament in 1762 enacted a duty on a certain type of imported hat for women, which was then the fashion, as security for a loan of one million and five hundred thousand pounds. The women thereupon stopped buying this particular type of headgear. Another tax, also in England, levied in 1797 on hair powder, is said to have resulted in the lapsing of the custom of powdering hair by men and women.

With governments as they always have been, in need of money, and with taxpayers always compelled to pay their taxes, it is not strange that many of the familiar taxes of today have their origin in antiquity. The poll or capitation tax, of so much per person, was imposed in Gaul. A seemingly stiff tax of 25 gold pieces was levied yearly against every free man, who composed the smaller but wealthier portion of the population. The English poll tax is supposed to have caused the Wat Tyler Rebellion, which almost cost King Richard II his throne. In the reign of William and Mary, a peasant or laborer paid a six-shilling poll tax yearly, a tradesman ten shillings and a gentleman, one pound. Roman Catholics were forced to pay double these rates.

A tax on salt was common in past centuries. The Romans had a salt tax, or Vectigalis Salis. This tax became infamous in medieval France as the gabelle. Each province levied different tax rates on salt. Consequently there was widespread smuggling into those districts with the high rates. Before the French Revolution, it is said that there were 3000 arrests a year for salt smuggling. In eighteenth-century England the tax on salt was said to have been over twenty times higher than the eighteenth century bushel production cost of this commodity.

Our modern sales tax has a long ancestry. A sales tax of 1 per cent was levied on all transactions in the public market in Rome. This was borrowed from Athens. From the fourth century to recent times,

Spain imposed the ruinous alcavala, a 10 to 14 per cent sales tax. Catalonia and Aragon purchased their freedom from this tax, which some historians assert accounted for the comparative prosperity of these two provinces. If anything further were needed to paralyze Spanish trade and industry, it was the bolita, or a 15 per cent tax on manufactured products.

Mexico borrowed the sales tax from the mother country, with the result that every state and even cities levied in various forms of this type of tax. An American residing in Mexico City some years ago wrote that in his house a stove costing $31, he had paid a total of $130, because of the many sales taxes. It was said that a loaf of bread in its evolution from grains of wheat was taxed 22 times.

In the last year or two, many American states have levied a 2 or 3 per cent retail sales tax, primarily to pay the tremendous relief costs. Augustus, first Roman emperor, levied an inheritance tax of 5 per cent to pay for his soldiers' pensions. Another form of this tax was the "relief," or amount paid to the king to permit the handing over of an inheritance to the heirs. Most nations and states now levy this tax.

A land tax in Gaul took one third of the annual value of the produce, which is no greater than the rate of tax paid by North American farmers in many communities during low farm prices in recent years. King Henry I, of England, levied a tax of 3 shillings on a hide, or small tract of land, to pay the expenses of his daughter's wedding. Another early land tax was the Saladin tax imposed by King Richard the Lion Hearted, to finance his share of the Crusade against his gallant Saracen opponent, after whom the tax was named.

The land tax is the backbone of the American state and local tax structure. The rates are imposed against the supposed capital value of the land, whereas in England, France and other European countries this tax is levied against the real or theoretical income of the land and improvements.

Highway taxes have an interesting history. Rome required six days a year labor on the highways by the surrounding farmers to work out their road tax. One of the most oppressive taxes of French feudalism was the corvée, or forced labor on the roads. A farmer could be dragged away from his spring planting to work out his highway tax. Usually 12 to 15 days a year labor was required. The Suez Canal was built by the corvée. This practice of highway work in lieu of tax payments is still to be found in many states and provinces, although the practice is dying out.—C. A. Grosser, in Christian Science Monitor Weekly magazine.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, governor of New York, finds 220 taxes are paid in part by a pair of shoes, and "40 by a loaf of bread"; and judging from the increased cost of living as many taxes are being imposed upon other essentials of life.

LOWER GRANVILLE

Mrs. Spencer Sanders, of Stewiacke, is spending a few weeks at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Noble Wheelock.

Mrs. Albert Angers left on Friday for Lynn, Mass., to visit her sister, Mrs. C. J. Cunningham.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Harris, Mrs. Frank Randolph and Mrs. John Harris, of Upper Granville, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Shaffner.

The teacher and pupils of the I. S. Land School held a Halloween and Box Social in the school room Friday evening. A good number attended and the sum of $1125 was raised for school purposes.

Mrs. Joseph Haynes, of Victoria Beach, spent a few days last week at the home of her brother, James MacNeil.

DOUCETTEVILLE

A hunting party from Kentville was in our village last week.

The following were among the lucky hunters during the season just closed.—John H. Thibault, a deer; Edward Wagner, a moose; Ernest Height, a moose and a deer; Mrs. Ambrose Doucet, of Concession, was visiting her nieces, Mrs. Martin Dugas and Mrs. Hanford Thibault, last week.

Mrs. (Capt.) Gifford Melanson, of Clarence Gilbert's Cove, and Mr. and Mrs. Leland Elliott, of Plympton, were guests of Mrs. Clarence Thibault for a day or so last week. Among those who came to attend the funeral of the late George S. Thibault were Mrs. Rose Thibault and son, Richard, of Wedgeport; Mrs. Marius Melanson, Marshalltown; Mrs. Sam. Comeau and Mrs. Charles Comeau, of Gilbert's Cove; A. F. Hache, of Meteghan, was a guest of Clarence Thibault, last week.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia or neuritis, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin".

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin", most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach, of often, the heart, and the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct. Remember the fastest method yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pain . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Demand and Get "ASPIRIN"

To drive home to farmers in general the important place of good seed in an agricultural programme requires that a continuous, persistent, sound, educational programme be carried on over a period of years. said Professor Robert Summerby, of MacDonald College, in his presidential address to the Canadian Seed Growers' Association.

One large duck farm in Eastern Canada is planning to ship 2,000 boxes of ducks to England before the close of navigation at Montreal and to hold them in storage for subsequent sale.

Several changes in school inspectorates in Nova Scotia are to be made shortly with the result that the number of inspectors will be increased from 16 to 17. Kings, Hants and Colchester counties are each to be one complete inspectorate. At present the three counties are divided into two inspectorates known as Kings-West Hants and Colchester East Hants.

Did you ever stop to think that the difference between advertised and non-advertised products is the same as that which exists between the modern transatlantic liners and the ancient barques?

In fair weather the barque may make good progress, but it can never rival the speed of the modern transatlantic liner. In the doldrums it stands becalmed or drifts with the tide, and in the storm it goes wherever the winds and the waves may take it; whilst the transatlantic liner pursues its steady course, perhaps with variable speed, but without mishap.

The advertised product, like the modern transatlantic liner, has its own power and directive force. The turbines of scientifically evolved selling appeal drive it forward and compel consumer acceptance, so that it passes untroubled through the calms of depression and rides the economic storm.

An advertising campaign, scientifically planned and effectively carried out in the leading newspapers in each community is highly remunerative. It pays to advertise!

Blessing Worked.
Several years ago the English sold Siam an old destroyer, re-named by the latter, "The Pride of Siam". The destroyer was taken over with great ceremony by the Siamese and blessed by the King, by which it was supposed to be rendered invincible and invulnerable, and never proved otherwise, for the Siamese were never able to move the destroyer after that ceremony.

There is no time that can be called the "darkest hour of the night." No light is received from the sun when it is 18 degrees or more below the horizon, and during these hours there is no period on moonless nights that is regularly the darkest.

Here's the way the American baker measures modern times. "The baker," he says, "saves the average housewife enough time to go to two movies, one card party and on a trip to the country in the car each week."

According to statistics, Nova Scotia in the past year led all the provinces of Canada in the total of spruce exports to the United Kingdom. In 1920 Nova Scotia shipped 107 millions of feet while in 1935 the figure rose to a new high record of 115 millions of feet.

It is estimated that in the coming Quebec provincial elections the voters' lists will contain about 700,000 names. Compared with other provinces the total is not great, but it should be remembered that women do not vote in Quebec's provincial elections.

A. J. Dennison, of Rhode Island, (formerly of Digby), on Wednesday of last week shot a large bear in an orchard at Middle Stewiacke. The animal was eating apples at the time. Mr. Dennison is having the skin prepared to take home.

1345 candidates were nominated Monday for the general elections in Great Britain which take place on Thursday next. Over thirty were acclamations.

Also all that certain piece, parcel or lot of land, beginning at the base line and running to the Bay Shore, on Digby Neck in the County of Digby, taking its width at the Base Line so as to make fifty acres, being a part of said lot number thirty-nine letter "M", and the same lands and premises conveyed by Deed to the said John Grant Walker by Jonas H. S., the Caretaker, Post Office Building, New Glasgow, N. S., and the Caretaker Public Building, Digby, N. S.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with the conditions set forth therein. Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque on a chartered bank in Canada payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of the tender, or Bonds of the Dominion of Canada or of the Canadian National Railway Company and its constituent companies, unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Dominion of Canada, or the aforementioned bonds and a certified cheque if required to make up an odd amount.

By order,
N. DESJARDINS, Secretary,
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, November 2, 1935 8 11

Convention of Sunday School Workers

Officers elected at Wednesday's Convention of Sunday School Workers, of the Bear River and Digby District, held in the vestry of the Baptist Church, here, in the afternoon and evening, were as follows: President—J. Vian Andrews. Sec'y.—Treasurer—Robert Smith. Vice-President—J. M. Wallis. The Convention was conducted under the leadership of Miss Lawrence, Girls' Work Secretary of the M. R. E. C., who has just recently conducted successful conventions at Westport and Sandy Cove, and yesterday left for Nova Scotia.

Shower Given For Bride-elect

Miss Jean Anderson and Miss Dorothy Hinman were joint hostesses at a tea shower held at the home of the former, on Monday afternoon in honor of Miss Avril Smith, who soon will be a principal in an important event. After refreshments were served by the hostesses, the guests were ushered to another room where many useful gifts were opened by the bride-elect, they having been contained in a miniature house. The guests were: Misses Avril Smith, Dorothy Smith, Lois Walker, Marjorie Tupper, Marion Roop, Bernice Roop, Harriett Campbell, Louise Daley, Helen Syda, Mildred Syda, Gertrude Oliver and B. Wright.

Legion Holds Banquet

Rev. C. L. Blanchard, of Bear River, was the chief speaker at Monday evening's banquet of the Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion, held in the Dining Salon of the Waverly Hotel. This banquet, which was the Legion's Annual Armistice Day Banquet, was attended by more than fifty persons, and was presided over by Major M. C. Denton, President of the Digby Branch.

In opening his remarks Mr. Blanchard extended the greetings of the Armistice Day, or Remembrance Day, was a day, in which we should strive to catch some message from our fallen comrades "who, being dead, yet speak". He said that one of the gravest dangers today in our efforts for world peace is the fearful and difficult contradictions which arise in the minds of men and women of the streets, who say "Our men who die are heroes; how can we say that fighting is wrong and war is sin—sons did not die in sin." This dilemma, he said, is fostering the spirit of war.

Also, he urged that when we think of those who paid the supreme sacrifice that we think not only of our own dead, but also of the dead of our erstwhile enemies, who, too, were sacrificed to greed and ignorance, and who too, paid the price to prove "that war is wrong". The war, he said, has failed to do one single thing men promised it would do. It was a war to end war—and yet Europe to-day is in far more difficult circumstances than it was in 1914; it was a war to make the world safe for democracy, and yet, many nations of the world to-day, are under most despotic rule; it was a war for righteousness, yet that revenged document, the Treaty of Versailles, has planted seeds of war, and stands out as one of the worst of treaties in the history of the world.

He urged that members of the Digby Legion set aside a period during their meetings for the sole purpose of discussing things of peace "put all the effort you have into

Grace United Church Brotherhood Meeting

The Men's Brotherhood of Grace United Church, held their first supper meeting for the season in Grace Church Hall, Tuesday evening, and re-organized for the winter, electing the following officers:

President—Reginald Turnbull, Sec'y.—Treasurer—Kenneth Beckwith. Membership Committee—R. C. Smallie, Reginald Jefferson and Ralph Wright. Catering Committee—A. J. Dillon, chairman.

Entertainment Committee—J. M. Wallis, chairman. Sick and Visiting—Rev. T. W. Hodgson, chairman.

It was decided to accept an invitation from the Brotherhood of the Barton United Church to attend their Brotherhood Supper on the evening of Nov. 22.

It was also decided to organize a Brotherhood Class to meet immediately after the church service every Sunday morning.

Following the business of the evening, Rev. T. W. Hodgson gave a very enlightening lecture on "Robert Burns as a Religious Man."

those movements which stand for the peace of the world," he said.

Following is the toast list:

"The King"—Proposed by Dr. G. V. Turnbull.

Our Dead—A silent toast marked by the members and their guests standing with bowed heads for two minutes.

Our Guests—Proposed by J. W. Merkel, who thanked the Mayor and Council for their co-operation in finding work for returned men, thus keeping them off relief; the press for its co-operation; Dr. Hodgson, for his address at the morning service at the Monument and for his Sunday's sermon to the Legion; Mr. Boden for his care of the Monument Garden; Mr. Blanchard, the speaker of the evening; and H. L. Y. Beaman for providing the music at the banquet. The reply was given by Mayor or Shortliffe.

The Legion, proposed by Gerald Syda, and responded to by M. C. Denton. Both speakers gave an outline of the work the Legion is doing, and has done for returned men of the community, and of Canada as a whole.

Other speakers were, Alfred Boden, Town Clerk, who gave a beautiful description of the services at Albert Hall, London. Continuing, he said that those fighting for either side felt they were in the right, and prayed to the same God for victory.

He emphasized the fact that while the Legion was striving for peace, children in many parts of the world were being brought up to war, and that dictators are now causing a great conflict in Europe.

Rev. C. T. MacNevin, of Weymouth, in his address stated that without the Legion, the prayers of many who were killed or maimed during the Great War would never have been answered. T. E. G. Lynch also gave a short talk.

Annual Meeting of Agricultural Society
The annual meeting of the Digby Central Agricultural Society was held at the Court House, Saturday evening. A fairly large number of members being present.

After receiving the financial statement for the year, the plying of the bulls was dealt with. On motion, the Guernsey bull, located at Frank Gates', and the Jersey bull, located at Byron MacNeill's, were ordered to remain at the present stand for the winter.

Dr. S. B. McGregor addressed the meeting on behalf of the farmers of Smith's Cove, requesting that a Jersey bull be placed in that district. Dr. McGregor and W. W. Potter were appointed a committee to place the bull at Smith's Cove.

Joseph Jefferson, Custer VanTassel and Oakley Turnbull were appointed a committee to interview the farmers in the Mount Pleasant district to determine the breed of bull to be placed in that district.

Mr. R. A. Levanic, Agricultural Representative for this district, and guest speaker for the evening, gave a very instructive address.

The following were appointed as officers for the year 1935-36: President—Curtis Y. Young. Vice-President—Harry O. Turnbull.

Sec'y.—Treas.—J. Oakley Turnbull. Directors—William Jefferson, Goudy Nichols, Frank Woodman, Byron MacNeill, Dr. S. B. McGregor, Lloyd MacNeill, Joseph Specht.

Delegates to the Digby County Association:—Frank Gates, Goudy Nichols, Joseph Specht, W. W. Potter, J. Oakley Turnbull.

There has been a substantial growth in the membership and number of clubs in the Canadian Boys' and Girls' Farm Clubs since 1931. In that year the number of clubs was 1,215 and the membership 21,142. Now there are 1,900 clubs with a total membership of 30,282.

Mrs. Almon Parks and son Stanley, of East LaHave, accompanied by her sister, Miss Fancy, and Miss Janet Corkum, were week end visitors to Digby. Miss Corkum was the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. M. Wallis and Mr. Wallis, while the others were guests of Capt. Parks.

THE WEATHER

We have again been asked by some of our American readers to publish a weekly account of the kind of weather we have been enjoying in this particular section of the North American Continent. Well we must say that October was a marvelous more like summer than some of the summer months. November, up until yesterday, continued mild and warm with some rain. There are still many blossoms in the flower gardens round about, these among others, include sweet peas and pansies. The garden at the Soldiers' Memorial, which has been so well cared for by Mr. Boden, for the past ten years is still a mass of bloom. Yesterday, however, the weather was a little more on the "wintry" side. High tides, driven by strong winds, sent across the street, and along the coast immense breakers broke along the shores. Yes sir, yesterday was one of the days many of our summer visitors would have enjoyed being down around Point Prim.

The Officers and Members of the Smith's Cove Women's Institute wish to thank all those who assisted in any way to make the Remembrance Day Services a success. Especially the Clergy, the Digby Band, those who donated cars and the Bear River and Digby Branches of the Canadian Legion.

Visit of Colonel Levi Taylor

Many times a visitor, in connection with Salvation Army work when he was a Divisional Commander at Saint John, N. B., Colonel Levi Taylor, now of Toronto, will visit Digby today, (Friday, Nov. 15). Since those earlier days the Colonel has had a varied experience of responsible positions on Territorial Headquarters, Toronto, also a period of service in New Zealand.

Accompanied by Mrs. Taylor and the Halifax Divisional Commanders, Major and Mrs. Mundy, the Colonel will give an interesting illustrated lantern lecture on "Life in New Zealand." The United Church Hall has been kindly loaned for the occasion, and it is expected a good crowd will attend. The Colonel has some splendid slides showing life in that land.

Following the week end meetings, Commandant F. G. Major will conduct a series of Special Revival meetings, commencing on Monday night 8 p. m.

Birthday Party At Tiverton

On Monday evening, Nov. 11, the home of Marie Small was the scene of a delightful birthday party, the evening being spent in playing progressive crokinole. Prizes were won as follows: Ladies' list, Phyllis Ruggles; Gentlemen's list, Harold Greenleaf and Consolation, Lydia Outhouse. At the conclusion of the game refreshments were served by Mrs. Roy Small and Joyce Small, mother and sister of the hostess. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received.

A bunch of Mayflowers was sent in to us this week that were picked on Armistice Day, by Mr. Dunn, of Lansdowne. That is certainly a rare bunch for November.

The sale of the 43 ton auxiliary schooner Ella Pearl, to Capt. George Haines, of Freeport, has been reported by Capt. G. M. Morrill, of Digby, her former owner. The Ella Pearl is 80 feet in length, 20 feet wide, and is powered by a 45 h. p. Fairbanks Morse engine.

The Digby scallop fleet has been in most of the week on account of adverse weather conditions. The boats were out Monday. This is the longest period which the boats have been tied up since the opening of the season on October 1. The Lunenburg dragger, M. W. Colp, had the misfortune to lose her rig, and is laid up until new ones are made. The Colp carries six three foot drags.

Armistice Day Services

Armistice Day was fittingly observed at Digby and Smith's Cove, when citizens of these places honored their heroic dead, who paid the supreme sacrifice during the Great War, and remembered those who returned from the struggle and slaughter of the years of 1914 to 1918.

At Digby, on Monday morning, there was a large gathering at the Soldiers' Memorial, erected in memory of those from this town who laid down their lives for King and Country. Returned men, led by the Digby Band, the Girl Guides, Wolf Cubs, the Mayor and Town Council, marched to the Monument for that most impressive service.

Prayer was offered by Rev. F. E. Bishop, following which the gathering stood silently for two minutes with heads bowed in reverence out of respect to those whose names are inscribed on the stone, and to the millions of those, who, like the boys from Digby, sacrificed their all.

Wreaths were placed on the Monument by the Mayor, members of the Legion and others. Following which a stirring address was delivered by Rev. Dr. Hodgson, Pastor of Grace United Church, Dr. Hodgson, on Sunday morning, also addressed the members of the Legion, who, headed by the Band, paraded to his church.

Earlier in the morning a special service, inaugurated by the Smith's Cove Women's Institute, was observed at Smith's Cove. Here, members of the Digby and Bear River branches of the Canadian Legion, headed by the Digby Band, paraded to the Temperance Hall, where Rev. W. H. Turner, pastor of the Smith's Cove Baptist Church, presided over the service. Prayer was offered by Dr. Hodgson, and short addresses given by Rev. F. E. Bishop and Rev. A. V. L. Smith.

Obituary

Norman Trask

The death of Norman Trask, age 42, son of the late Capt. Manning Trask, occurred on Thursday, Nov. 7th, after three weeks illness. He was a member of the Baptist Church. He leaves to mourn their loss his mother, also one sister, Mrs. Ronald Folkins, of Montreal, who arrived home to attend the funeral, which was held Saturday, conducted by the Pastor, Rev. C. L. Chute, of Little River. The floral tributes were beautiful.

Robert Herbert Jefferson

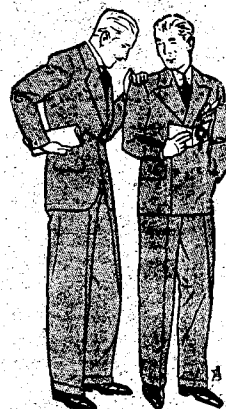

The death of Robert Herbert, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jefferson, of Digby, occurred in the Digby General Hospital Friday morning last. Beside his parents, the little lad is survived by three sisters and a brother. Funeral services were held from the home on Sunday afternoon with Rev. Dr. Hodgson, officiating.

Mrs. Sadie Turnbull and daughter, Harriett, have returned from a trip to Boston.

GOOD HUMOR

Good humor is good sense;
more than that, it is the clear blue sky of the soul. The man who is always cheerful is a blessing to his fellowman.

Cheerful, hopeful people always refresh you—they lift you up so that your horizon is enlarged, and you can see beauty and goodness you may never have dreamed of.

They help you to bring out
the best there is in yourself.
They convince you there is something worth while in life no matter how low the dark clouds hang.

It is worth all it costs when you are blue and discouraged to locate one who has kindness and sympathy in his heart, and to show the other fellow that you are a good-natured, good-humored friend.

Cinders and pretty girls are quite difficult to remove from men's eyes.

THE NAVAL ARM CON- FERENCE

Only an incurable optimist can view with anything but cynicism the naval arms conference to be held in London next month. The United States, together with other signatories to the Washington naval treaty of 1922, will be represented at the gathering.

The big nations of the world took a real step toward navadisarmament when they subscribed to the Washington naval treaty, 13 years ago. But every bit of progress registered since that time has been backward.
The race for naval supremacy has become more intense instead of less strenuous.

The late Arthur Henderson, British statesman, aptly described the whole disarmament movement since the World War as being marked by "difficulties, delays, disappointments, and hopes deferred." And we cannot expect much improvement upon this situation until the peoples of the world, tiring of the burden of taxation for war preparations, take the average run of present day statesmen by the back of the neck and cast them on the diplomatic ashpile International peace through disarmament needs far more than more lip service.

An English scientist has informed this country that there is a vast reservoir of hot air 200 miles above the earth. So that's where all the political oratory goes!

A LIFE OF FORMULA

We live a formula life after all. We are born, bump around through childhood, go through school, develop an ambition, along some special line, meet somebody and fall in love, marry, raise a family, marry them off, celebrate our golden wedding anniversary, and lay down and die.

Of course, there are many variations along the way. Some folks don't get through school and never have any ambition.
Those who don't marry always wish they had, while others who marry regret it. In some cases the family is omitted and society is substituted, but not without a few secret heartaches.
Some fail to live to see that golden cake full of candles or to read the flattering remarks in the local papers. Some folks don't live long enough and some live too long. But all in all considered, life is pretty much of a formula.

The easiest thing in the world for a man to do is to think of the right excuse at the wrong time.

Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall never be numbered among the unemployed.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Brighten Your Shadows

"A piece of white cardboard brightened this shadowed face"

HAVE you ever tried taking a picture of your best girl—or your wife—wearing her new broad-brimmed summer hat and find when you see the finished print, that her pretty face turned out to be an unattractive dark shadow? Of course you have. Who hasn't?

Now there is really no excuse for this common error in amateur photography. You can't prevent the appearance of the shadow but you can lighten it considerably in the picture by using a reflector to cast or reflect the necessary light under the brim of the hat and on her face.

Please don't gasp and think about spending a lot of money for a reflector for it isn't necessary. A satisfactory, efficient reflector can be had for practically nothing. Any number of things will serve you; a piece of white paper about three feet square, a white cloth of the same dimension or even a pillow slip or white towel, if the chancery of the linen closet will let you get away with it, will serve admirably.

What's the trick? There's no trick to it at all. This is all you have to do.
Suppose we use the pictures of the comely young lady above as an example.

Both snapshots were taken at noon with the sun's rays striking the top of the hat. Notice the picture to the right; how the brim of the hat casts a dark shadow over the face.
The picture to the left, however, shows the pleasing results by using a reflector to cast or reflect the sun's rays on her face and under the hat.
If there is not a third party to hold a reflector it can be placed on a chair at the proper angle or tilted against a stick placed in the ground. Be sure,however, that the reflector does not appear in the view finder of your camera.

This is only one of the many ways
a reflector may be used to advantage in getting better pictures. By giving a little thought to your snapshotting you can readily detect where a reflected light on your subject may brighten over-shaded spots in outdoor or indoor picture making. Try it.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

FOXBERRIES IN DEMAND IN THE UNITED STATES

Foxberries, or as they are also called, Lingonberries, are very popular with Scandinavians in the United States who preserve them for winter use. They are slightly smaller than cranberries which they resemble in appearance, but are slightly less ac-rid to the taste. At one time Sweden supplied this market but subsequently Newfoundland became the principal source of supply. The annual consumption is estimated at between 5,000 and 8,000 barrels, with New York and Chicago the main trading centres. Foxberries are native also to the Maritime Provinces, and here would seem to be an opportunity to get a share of this market.

Official Visit

Miss Elizabeth Smellie, Chief Superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses in Canada, paid an official visit to the Digby Branch of the order, on Friday of last week.
That evening, in the council chamber in the court house, she addressed a large audience of those interested in the wonderful work that is, and has been, accomplished by the Order in Canada, and particularly in Digby.
She was introduced to the audience by Rev. F. E. Bishop, president of the Digby Branch.

She opened her address by stating that health work was a great adventure, and that the work of the V. O.
nurse was a combination of curative and preventative nature. She attributed most of the difficulties confronted by the nurses were the results of disease, ignorance and poverty.

In her reference to the large number of maternity cases that have been handled by the V. O. N. she stated that whereas the maternal death rate in Canada is about 5 per 1,000 births, during the past five years the maternal death rate in cases where Victorian Order nurses have assisted have been but 2 per 1,000.

In giving her reason why more local nurses were not engaged, Miss Smellie stated that more than hospital training was required by the Victorian Order whose nurses must undergo special training for their work.
V. O. nurses must be interested in people and quite unselfish—they must be chosen for the work.

Speaking on financial problems the speaker was of the opinion that civic grants should be adequate to cover a great amount of free work. During the past few years this work has gone to thousands, resulting in a great saving in hospitalization. However, she said, the V. O. N. and the hospitals do not work in competition with one another, but rather, they work hand in hand.

In concluding her address she paid tribute to the board members and nurses.

Brief addresses were also made by H. B. Short, who spoke in appreciation of the work the Order, through its capable nurse, Mrs. Sturgeon, has done in this town; A. J. Dillon, chairman of the Digby School-Board, who expressed his gratitude in the wonderful work the nurse has done at the schools, which, he said, has been a great assistance in the prevention and spread of disease; and Dr. W. R. Dickie, who expressed his appreciation of the nurse, especially in maternity cases. There is a real urgent work for the V. O. nurse, particularly in follow-up work from the hospital; I don't know what we could do without her, said the doctor.

A vote of thanks, moved by T. E.
O. Lynch, and seconded by Miss Margaret Stewart, was extended to Miss Smellie.

Just before the meeting came to a

Don't Guess But Know

Whether the "Pain"
Remedy You Use
is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's
Well-Being to Unknown
Preparations.

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly
about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain"
remedies were advised against by physicians, bad for the stomach, and, often, for the heart. Which is good for thought if you seek quick,
safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among
the fastest methods yet discovered for
the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In close Mrs. Jessie Turnbull read an address to Mr. Bishop, who has been president of the local order for the past seven years, and who has resigned. The address paid a special tribute to Mr. Bishop, and sincerely thanked him for his untiring efforts; and although expressing deep regret at his leaving, wished both he and Mrs. Bishop much happiness in the future.

Mr. Bishop, who for the past ten years has been pastor of the Digby Baptist church, and is retiring from the active ministry, to reside in Deep Brook, gave a very appropriate reply, and thanked all for their excellent co-operation.

PEOPLE WILL TALK

We may get through the world, but it will be very slow.
If we listen to all that is said as we go:
We'll be worried and fretted, and kept in a stew.
For meddlesome tongues must have something to do—
For people will talk.

If quiet and modest, you'll have it presumed.
That your humble position is only assumed.

You're a wolf in sheep's clothing,
or you're a fool;
But don't get excited, keep perfectly cool—
For people will talk.

If generous and noble, they'll vent
their spleen;
You'll hear some loud hints that you're selfish and mean.

If upright and honest and fair as the day,
They'll call you a rogue in a sly, sneakish way—
For people will talk.

And then if you show the least boldness of heart,
Or a slight inclination to take your own part,
They'll call you an upstart, conceited,
or vain.

But keep straight ahead, don't stop to explain—
For people will talk.

If threadbare our coat, old-fashioned your hat,
Someone of course will take notice of that,
And hint rather strong that you can't pay your way;
But don't get excited whatever they say—
For people will talk.

If you dress in the fashion, don't think to escape;
For they'll criticize then in a different shape.

You're ahead of your means, or the tailor's unpaid;
But mind your own business, there's nothing to be said—
For people will talk.

They'll take fine before you; but then at your back,
Of venom and slander there's never a lack.

How kind and polite is all that they say.
But bitter as gall when they're out of the way—
For people will talk.

The best way to do is to do as you please.
For your mind, if you have one, will then be at ease;
Of course, you'll meet with all sorts of abuse,
But don't try to stop them, 'twill be of no use—
For people will talk.

If a young man is seen to chat with a girl,
How the gossip will start and their slanders unfurl.
They will talk of her prospects, also of his means,
And declare he's engaged to a chit in her teens—
For people will talk.

Oh, yes, they will talk, you know.
For people will talk.

Spent Days in Bed Unable to Get Up

New Brunswick Lady Suffered So With Headaches

Mrs. Legresley Soon Got Relief Through Dodd's Kidney Pills

Lagaceville, N. B., Nov. 13. (Special) "I was suffering from kidney trouble, which gave me severe headaches," writes Mrs. Edward Legresley, of this place. "I used to spend days in bed unable to get up, and had rheumatism even in my fingers. I saw the testimonials in Dodd's Almanac, and started with one box. I took six boxes and now I am well. I no longer get headaches. I am a housewife 53 years old, and do all my own work."

When the kidneys get out of order, and fail in their normal duty, straining impurities from the blood, poisons remain in the system, and usually follow headache, backache, rheumatism may be the outcome of a disordered kidney condition. To help keep the kidneys in condition to perform their work take Dodd's Kidney Pills. It is a half a century's favorite remedy for kidney ailments.

WORLD'S POULTRY CONGRESS SCHEDULED FOR LEIPSCIG

Owing to a serious conflagration in the city of Berlin, Germany, the large building in which the live bird exhibit of the Sixth World Poultry Congress was to have been held in 1936 was destroyed by fire. As there was no other hall in Berlin large enough for the purpose, the Congress authorities decided to hold the congress in Leipzig. According to official information, this arrangement will give better accommodation than was possible in Berlin, while at the same time the delegates will have every opportunity of seeing the sights in and around Berlin itself on the occasion of a pre-arranged visit. Provision is also being made for the delegates to visit the Olympic Games which will be held on the outskirts of Berlin. A Canadian tour is being arranged, and Canadians there have been some definite bookings and a large number of applications for information.

Miss Grace Whitman, teacher at Ashmore, spent the week end with friends at Weymouth North.

Mrs. Leo Belliveau, of Marquette, is back home from an extended visit to relatives in Massachusetts.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Blackadar, of Plimpton, spent a recent week end with their parents at Port Maitland.

Mrs. Leo Belliveau, of Marquette, the latter's sister, Mrs. Isabelle Harries, at the Weymouth Hospital, on Sunday.

Lie. Ernest Churchill, preached at the Ashmore Baptist Church on Sunday morning, and New Testament Sunday at ten o'clock.

NAMU CANNERY IS SUITABLY NAMED

Activity Is Appropriate to Indian Word That Means Whirlwind Bay

Capacity Over 100,000 Cases

Success Due to Splendid Work of Superintendent Morehouse, a Sandy Cove Boy

Perhaps one of the best-named cannery on the British Columbia coast is Namu. It was so named by the late Robert Draney, who established the site many years ago. It is an Indian word of the Bella Bella tribe, and means Whirlwind Bay.

Whirlwind is the only term that fully expresses the activity around Namu cannery. It is the headquarters of the B. C. Packers for the greater portion of fishing district No. 2, reaching from the north coast of Vancouver Island to the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

From Namu, the district superintendent, Harold V. Morehouse, oversees four operating canneries, and five fishing camps.

With the beginning of the season more than a dozen substantial boats are placed in operation to travel the various fishing grounds and pick up the catch from the fishermen. Arriving at the cannery they discharge their burden and put about, returning to the fishing area, a process the cannery must follow almost monotonously throughout the entire season.

The Namu cannery has a capacity of more than 100,000 cases of salmon in a normal year. Apart from the dry-salting of salmon for the Japanese market, no other operations are conducted. There is no reduction plant, and no fresh, frozen or curing processes are carried on. It is a large production plant for canning salmon only.

Canneries must be situated near a good volume of readily available fresh water. In this respect Namu is fortunately located, for several hundred yards inland from the waterfront is a large lake, the outlet of which enters the sea beside the cannery. A board walk, leading from the plant to the lake, has been constructed to give cannery employees easy access to this watering spot for recreation.

The great twin with borders flowers located in front of the cannery, is surrounded by various buildings on three sides and fronted by a wharf. The vivid coloring of summer flowers, tripping a carpet of green, lends a refreshing and unusual atmosphere to the cannery in contrast with the average plant.

This aesthetic touch in bold contrast to the harsh outlines of plant equipment and the rugged evergreen forest leads one, immediately, to search for the reason of its existence. The explanation is not forthcoming until one realizes that Mr. and Mrs. Morehouse, as well as other members of the permanent staff, live at Namu for the greater part of the year. It is home to them, and particularly to Mrs. Morehouse, who takes pride in her garden.

As in the case of most canneries along British Columbia's coast, Namu is located on rocky shore surrounded by dense forest. There is no agricultural land in the vicinity, such as exists at canneries located at Alert Bay, Bella Coola, Bella Bella, and on Graham Island. The cannery population is therefore transient. The buildings and wharves at Namu are spacious, and the most is made of the facilities at hand to provide recreation, such as tennis, badminton and dancing. Whenever time permits advantage is taken of the opportunity, by the staff of the office and plant.

Harold Morehouse, superintendent, was born in Sandy Cove, Digby Co., and went west as a young lad. He finished his schooling in British Columbia and started in the fishing industry as a junior under the direction of the late Henry O. Bell-Irving, whose name has been written in the annals of British Columbia and Canadian history. He has followed only one calling—that of fishing and canning.

Having worked under nearly all of the pioneers in the salmon canning operations on the British Columbia coast, Mr. Morehouse knows fishing, understands fishermen and their problems, and is a master of cannery operation. "Moris," as he is known throughout the industry, will never ask any person to do that which he has not already done or is prepared to do himself. He demands loyalty and expects the industrious application of every employee to his job. Cannery operations can not lag. The process is continuous from fish to can. One inefficient or indolent person may obstruct the effective working of an entire crew. The cannery at Namu radiates the energetic and jovial personality of the man who has made it what it is today.

"Bella Bella Indians hold the record for the highest catch this year at Namu. Off to the right and behind the cannery there are two rows of houses occupied by Indian families who work at the cannery. The most amazing thing—which must escape the passerby—is that every house has its long line of washing hanging out every day in the week, to say nothing of the double-wash on Monday morning. These Bella Bella Indians take a pride in their persons, and the transient homes they occupy during the canning season. Investigation discloses that one of the reasons for the thrift of the Bella Bella tribe is their attachment to Namu; not only the cannery, but because they make their living by working of the understanding interest and patience of its manager, "Moris."

"One can better understand why "Moris" has become respected by the Indians, when in conversation with them, particularly the older generation, he lapses into the Chinook jargon with a smattering of native dialect, which he speaks with as much ease as the natives themselves, and thereby holds their confidence and respect."

Without the "whirlwind" activities at "Whirlwind Bay," hundreds of persons would not be employed in gainful occupations and scores of Indians at Bella Bella would not have reached their present state of advancement. The development at Namu today has more than justified the far-visions plans of the late Robert Draney who first established the site; and the aggressive, enterprising devotion of its manager to the progress of large production on a "Whirlwind" basis.

It is a compliment to the pioneers of the industry under whose training "Moris" served his apprenticeship.

Mothers Aided by Guide to Better Control of Colds

Practical Plan is Helping Families Everywhere to Have Fewer, Milder and Shorter Colds.

SIMPLE AND EASY TO FOLLOW

Already, thousands of Canadian mothers are benefiting by following Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds—proving for themselves that it is a practical home guide to fewer and shorter colds.

This commonsense, medically sound Plan represents the 30 years' experience of Vicks Chemists in studying colds. It has been tested in extensive clinics by practicing physicians further proving its everyday home use throughout the country.

Here, briefly, are the three simple steps in Vicks Plan:

1. To Help Build Resistance to Colds.

Live normally—avoid excesses. Eat simple food—keep elimination regular. Drink plenty of water. Take some exercise daily—outdoors preferably. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

2. To Help Prevent Many Colds.

At the first warning nasal irritation, sneeze, use Vicks Vapo-rub—just a few drops up each nostril. Vapo-rub is especially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. Used in time, Vapo-rub helps to prevent many colds—and to throw off head colds in the early stages.

3. To Help End a Cold Sooner.

If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, rub throat and chest at bedtime with Vicks Vapo-rub. Vapo-rub acts two ways at once: (1) By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster; (2) By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, direct to inflamed air-passages. Through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm, soothes irritation, helps break congestion.

The Vicks Plan can do for you and your family can be proved only by trying it. Directions for following the Plan come in each package of Vicks Vapo-rub and Vicks Vapo-rub.

Indian corn has never been found in a wild state. This may mean either that wild corn was extinct before botanists could make a record of it or that the original wild plant is so different from the cultivated form that it is impossible to recognize it. Corn was found growing as far north as the St. Lawrence Valley when the first white explorers arrived in Canada.

There are two families of stinging nettles in Canada—the nettle and the wood nettle. There are five Canadian species of the nettle, two of which are widespread and three are western. The wood nettle is found in Eastern Canada.

BEAR RIVER LEGION MEMORIAL SERVICE

On Sunday morning a mass meeting of the citizens of Bear River, together with many from outside districts, attended the Remembrance Day Service arranged by the Bear River Branch of The Canadian Legion, which was held at the Advent Church. Long before the hour of service the seating capacity was filled and many had to sit at the back of the church or stand during the hour of reverent worship.

The Legion members, commanded by Colonel Garnet Harris, attended in a body, parading from their Hall to the church, and made a very creditable showing.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Pearl Henderson, pastor of the Advent Church, who gave a splendid address, touching in its simplicity and sincerity. He was assisted by Rev. C. L. Blanchard, of the Bear River Branch of the Legion.

United Church, President of the Rev. S. S. Stevens, of the Baptist Church, Rev. F. C. Burnett, Clements, and a male quartet, Avard Marshall, Walter Dukeshire, Fred R. Harris and Harry Purdy, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, of the Church of England, sent a letter of regret as he was unable to attend.

Following the Church Service a short Memorial Service was held at the Memorial, the members of the Legion forming up beside the Memorial while Rev. F. C. Burnett led in prayer, wreaths were placed by the Rev. Garnet Harris on behalf of the Government of Nova Scotia, and by Mrs. A. B. Campbell, Vice-President of the Women's Institute of Bear River, on behalf of the people of the community. Flowers were also placed and the period of silence observed, after which the Last Post was sounded by Rev. C. L. Blanchard. The members of the Legion then proceeded to the Cemetery on Indian Hill and decorated the graves of War Veterans buried there. On Monday morning a number of the Bear River Legion attended the Memorial Service held at Smith's Cove.

The twenty-second annual Convention of the Women's Institutes of Nova Scotia held in Truro last week, many courtesies were extended to the visiting delegates, none of which was more appreciated than the splendid co-operation of the Press, both Provincial and Local.

The "Herald" and "Chronical" of Halifax, and representatives throughout the sessions and much valuable space, even the coveted front page was given to detailed accounts of the various activities reported at the sessions. Each morning every visiting delegate received a complimentary copy of both papers and also a copy of the Truro paper. A special edition of which (covering news up to noon of the second day) was printed to meet the demand.

Alastair Buchan, as the liner neared Quebec.

HOW BATTLE CREEK WAS NAMED

Many travellers wonder as to the origin of the warlike name of this important centre on Canadian National lines, today so busy and thriving on peaceful industry. Some one recently delved into the archives and unearthed a letter from Col. John Mullet, who directed a survey of Calhoun County in 1825, and whose staff named the creek, "While making the survey we were bothered by beginning Indians. Our party was camped upon a creek in Pennfield Township in Calhoun County with two men left in charge of the camp. They had been instructed not to give the Indians anything. Two Indians appeared and, when refused food, tried to help themselves. In the night which followed one of the Indians was knocked down and both fled. That night, as an account of the fight was given, one surveyor suggested that the creek be called Battle Creek. It was given that name and later when Battle Creek was settled, it took the name." Col. Mullet wrote.

NEW FACTORIES OPENED IN GREAT BRITAIN

New factories to the number of 478 were put into operation in Great Britain last year, employing 37,200 workers. In addition 144 existing factories were enlarged. 78 of the new establishments represented transfers from other areas, 59 of these going to London. 71 of the 478 new factories were branch establishments, an increase over the year previous of which 69 out of the total of 467 consisted of branches. As against the number of new factories opened last year, 515 were closed.

Obituary

Mrs. Samuel McGrath, Jr.

The community of Victoria Beach was shocked and saddened to learn of the sudden passing of Lillian, beloved wife of Samuel McGrath, Jr., who passed away on Tuesday morning, Oct. 29. The deceased, who was the daughter of James Ellis, Sr., of Port Wade, had been ill only a week, and her death came as a great shock. She leaves to mourn a husband, five sons, Wilbur, Curtis, Clifford, James, and Gerald, the latter with his father, is employed on the S. S. Princess Helene, and one daughter, Doris, also an aged father, four brothers, Hartley, of Saint John; Andrew, of Victoria Beach; James, of Port Wade, and Douglas, of Litchfield. The funeral services will be held at the home of the deceased, 568 Holly Ave., St. Paul, Minnesota, where he has lived for the past eight years. Mr. Moore was born in Bear River, N. S., but as a young man moved to Boston and remained in business there the greater part of his life. In addition to his son in St. Paul, there survive him a daughter, Mrs. Atlee B. Clark of Montreal; a son, Ernest H. Moore of Boston; as well as four brothers and sisters, Janet M. Moore, of St. Paul; Mrs. Mary Hubbard, Berers were many and beautiful, testifying to the esteem in which she was held. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. B. Crowell, with interment in Victoria Beach cemetery. Much sympathy is extended to the family.

William A. Moore

William A. Moore, 74 years of age, died Sunday, at the home of his son, Royal A. Moore, 568 Holly Ave., St. Paul, Minnesota, where he has lived for the past eight years. Mr. Moore was born in Bear River, N. S., but as a young man moved to Boston and remained in business there the greater part of his life. In addition to his son in St. Paul, there survive him a daughter, Mrs. Atlee B. Clark of Montreal; a son, Ernest H. Moore of Boston; as well as four brothers and sisters, Janet M. Moore, of St. Paul; Mrs. Mary Hubbard, Ber-

River, N. S.; James E. Moore, Santa Monica, Calif.; and Orrin W. Moore of Cambridge, Mass. Burial services were private.

ONCE LOWLY POLLOCK
HAVING ITS INNINGS

Leads All Other Fresh Fish Landings in Gloucester This Fall

The lowly pollock has supplanted mackerel as king and cod as sacred in the eyes of the Gloucester (Massachusetts) fishermen this fall, for it has paid dividends far beyond their fondest dreams, commanding as high as $1.50 per hundred pounds and even higher some days, while the fish seem to abound in large quantities within two hours run from Eastern Point.

The greatest haul ever known in the 25 years of gill netting history of Gloucester, was made Tuesday of last week when a fleet of 26 boats reported 444,000 pounds of pollock. Pollocks popularity, and resultant high price lies in the recently discovered value of filleting the fish for the market, a field in which the Cape Ann Cold Storage, of Gloucester, was one of the pioneers last year through the far-sightedness of John DeTorchio, the manager. It is said.

The supremacy of pollock over all other fresh fish landed here this fall can be best seen in reviewing the landings of this fish for the ten days preceding last Tuesday, and what the landings meant to Gloucester's welfare. Statistics faithfully gleaned, show that some 2,686,000 pounds of fresh fish were discharged on Gloucester wharves by the gill net fleet, numbering some 26 boats, in which approximately 160 men earn their livelihood fishing. Practically all this fish was pollock which netted a cent and a half per pound for the vessel, or a total of $40,000 added to the city's spending power, the most of which may safely be said to have been spent in that city.

Added to this must be taken into consideration that the eight wharves at which these boats land their fish, employ what is known as shore hands to help handle the fish, mend and wind the nets on the reels and perform such other tasks necessary, to the gill net industry.

The fishermen in this field have certainly appreciated pollock this fall for their weekly earnings have soared. The highest known weekly earning last week was $111 for each of the men on a Gloucester boat whose skipper, though a young man, has proven himself fully capable to cope with the best in the business. However, pollock has increased their earnings and they are happy for they realize that the months are coming when pickings will be lean.

Years ago pollock was caught by hook and line off Eastern Point, although the business was what fishermen could hardly call profitable. It was good sport, however, since pollock is a game fish. On the advent of the gill netters, the pollock caught in the Fall was sold as fresh at very low prices until the market became glutted and the fish went to the splitters at even lower prices.

When split or salted they were exported, but in more recent years, competition with Nova Scotia, Labrador and Newfoundland fisheries in this trade has proven disastrous to Gloucester exportation, and the demand has decreased there to a minimum. Only five years ago pollock sold as low as 50 cents per hundred pounds, or one-third the present price.

The large quantities of pollock caught off there in the fall of 1934 created a need to dispose of them in another and more profitable manner, and since the filleting process was fast being developed, and popularized, enterprising Boston merchants, together with the Cape Ann Cold Storage, began experimenting with filleting pollock. The results were satisfactory. It is understood, and when the gill netters again landed on the pollock, others began filleting the fish until now practically the entire daily lift by the fleet is filleted at Gloucester or in Boston.

MAGAZINE'S CANADIAN HALL OF FAME
No. 19

"All right gentlemen," says
Major General J. H. MacBrien, chief of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, "they were last seen eating the Army River;
so and get your men."

The urge to get your man is universally attached to us
C. M. P. and is a throwback to the war time phrase used by the chief commander when he used luck boards
and carried a sniper's rifle instead of a cane. They still tell it in France that General Mac-Brien, when he led the Twelfth Brigade, set an all-time record for brass hats. He refused to stay in his safe dugout and direct troops, and had an idea that a commander's place was in the line with his men.

Now he has a desk in a shabby little office over a department store in Ottawa but soon he will have headquarters in a new $1, 500,000 building. When he moves to his new quarters he will take with him a map with little red flags. These flags mark the far-flung outposts of the R. C. M. P., one of them within eleven degrees of the North Pole.

A fine horseman, immediately after his appointment by Provost Bennett, he is promulgated the dictum that every mountie must be able to ride. He rounded up the desk-warriors sent them to Regina to suffer scuttlation and set their heels standing up.

Today his men have shut down the run runners in the Maritimes and the dope peddlers of the central provinces; they have checked the drug smuggle on the Pacific coast and the fur stealers of the Northwest.

Major General MacBrien was born in Port Perry, Ontario; has an Irish ancestry, a charming wife and six athletic children.

VALUATION OF CROP IS SET AT $8,000,000

It looks as if the $8,000,000 valuation put upon the Ontario flue-cured tobacco crop by the experts will be exceeded by the value of the actual purchasing made by Canadian and British manufacturers recently. Yet it is only a few years since tobacco importing in Canada was practically limited to a few farmers raising it for personal use or for a limited local market. Now approximately 30, 000 acres of the best soil in Southern Ontario are almost exclusively devoted to the growing of Tobacco leaf in a scientific way, this year's crop amounting to 35,000,000 pounds, and having a selling-value $3,000,000 in excess of the crop return of 1934.
The finest cigarettes and other tobacco products in Canada incorporate Canadian tobacco in large and increasing quantities, where, hitherto, American and other tobaccos had been used, while the Canadian leaf also has an excellent market in Great Britain in competition with foreign leaf.

The Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Limited, which buys a great part of the Canadian crop, has had much to do with the great strides taken by the tobacco-growing districts because it has had a policy for years of trying to encourage domestic production. First, however, was necessary to gradually teach growers what and how to grow in order to meet public tastes long accustomed to foreign leaf. The company, at its own expense, imported cultivation experts, brought in the necessary plants for experimentation, made its own chemical and other researches of the soil, of moisture, and other conditions contributory to the best grades of tobacco, taught the grower on his own land by introducing experimental plots, and in other ways interested him in improving and enlarging his crop for the uses of the domestic market. It also illustrated to him the precise processes by which the domestic market might be developed in a profitable way. This, and the researches of government experts, combined largely to produce the present condition, and to the creation from a small and un-marketable crop, a large and marketable crop, valued at more than $8,- 000,000 a year.

STRONG FARM MACHINERY

Proper care should be exercised at all times to protect the large investment in farm machinery from rapid deterioration. Heat, moisture, wind, frost and direct sunlight are the most destructive elements encountered by farm equipment.

Storage means protection against these deteriorating effects during the inactive life of the machines and has been found by the Dominion Experimental Station, at Swift Current, to be the greatest single factor in prolonging the life of farm machinery.

The most active period of deterioration is during the season of machine use. It is important, however, to protect machinery the year around from the effects of weather.
Generous use of paint on all wood and metal parts, wherever the original has worn thin, and the removal to a dry shed of all slats, canvases, knives, ploughshares, cultivator teeth, etc., immediately the machine is out of use, will help prolong the useful life of the implement.

Pack all bearings with the correct grade of lubricant. Cover all exposed metal parts worn bright from use with oil crankcase or transmission oil before putting the machine aside even for a few days. This will keep out all dirt and moisture from the bearings and off the wearing surfaces, thus preventing excessive wear due to rust.

Clean all seed from drill boxes, make sure that dirt is removed from plough or one-way disk bottoms and that they are well greased before leaving. All straw, grain or weeds should be thoroughly cleaned from binders, combines, separators, cultivators, disks, etc., before greasing and painting for storage.

Bright sunlight and moisture cause exposed wooden parts to warp and crack, paint applied yearly will prevent this destruction. Metal parts exposed will rust and wear; grease or paint will save these surfaces.
Store storage of grain boxes,
wooden drills, wagon-running gears,

and wooden separators is desirable,
but not essential. Outside storage of machinery has been found highly successful at the above station when proper care has been exercised to protect against animals and weather by good fences, the use of paint and proper lubricants.—G. N. Denike, Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, Sask.—(Experimental Farms Note.)

Kiwanis Club Elects Officers for 1936.

At their Tuesday's luncheon the members of the Digby Kiwanis Club elected their officers for the year 1936, as follows:—
President—J. J. Wallis.
Vice-President—O. Wright.
Treasurer—W. R. Pillmore.
Directors—C. Fred McBridge, P. W. Holdsworth, C. Roy Sypher, H. J. Campbell, J. M. Wallis, E. C. Solows, W. R. Dickie.

THE WEATHER.

Saturday and Sunday made us feel certain that winter was not far away. These were the first two cold days we have had this season—and they were no worse than could reasonably be expected at this time of the year. Other days have been a bit on the chilly side of the fence, that is, up until Wednesday and yesterday, both of which were mild. The sun made its appearance for a few minutes on Wednesday for the first time since November 11. Strong nor'easters, which have been having a fine time playing around the coast, let up sufficiently late in the week to give the scullap fleet a chance to get out on the grounds again. Incidentally, there was a little snow Saturday night and Monday morning, but not enough to show on the ground.

Fish, Game Association Meeting

Resolutions requesting legislation for a five-year closed season on moose and deer with strict enforcement and commendation of the action of the fish hatchery at Nictaux, Middleton, with a request that the said department make the retaining ponds at the said place in order that the young fish in the hatchery be retained until the best age for distribution, and that copies of the resolution be forwarded to the minister of fisheries, were moved by Fred E. Cox, of Middleton, at the annual meeting of the Digby and Annapolis Counties Fish and Game Protective Association Thursday night of last week. Both these resolutions were sponsored by the Middleton Board of Trade. Dr. V. G. Turnbull made an amendment to the first motion calling for a three-year closed season on moose and that the open season for deer be sometime in November, but Dr. L. J. Lovett came forward with an amendment to the amendment asking that the moose and deer season be from the 20th of October to the 10th of November. The amendment to the amendment carried.

At this meeting Rev. A. W. L. Smith, who has held the office of President, since organization of years ago, turned in his resignation. The state of officers brought in comprise:—L. M. Hull, Annapolis Royal, President; G. N. Reagh, Middleton, Vice-President; A. Kelsal, Annapolis Royal, Secretary; Treasurer: L. J. Lovett and P. W. Holdsworth, delegates to the Nova Scotia Fish and Game Association; Cecil Jones, J. F. Cunningham, alternate delegates; P. W. Harris, Arthur

Receives Call to Island Pastorate
Friends of Rev. H. L. Denton, former pastor of First Baptist Church, New Glasgow, will be interested to learn that he has received a call to the Charlottetown Baptist Church, which he has accepted. Rev. Mr. Denton went to New Glasgow in 1930 following his graduation from Acadia University with the degree of Bachelor of Theology. After five very successful years there, he resigned in September to study for the Bachelor of Divinity degree and will take up his studies at Charlottetown next spring when he completes his post graduate work at Wolfville.

Local and Personal

The Misses MacMullen have returned to New York.

Miss Chisholm is selling all Hats at cost, at Mrs. Roop's.

Mrs. Ferny Silver, of Deep Brook, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Haynes.

Mrs. Laura Jenkins has returned to Worcester, Mass., after spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Smallie.

The Initiatory Degree will be conferred in St. George Lodge, I. O. F., tonight. A full attendance is requested.

Thanks to Mrs. Enoch Mullen, of Easton, for the lovely box of Mayflowers, picked Nov. 15. Their fragrance was certainly delightful.

The Young People's Society of the United Church will hold its meeting on Tuesday evening. All young people are invited—but come at 8 sharp.

The Ladies' Hospital Aid Society wish to thank the many friends of the Hospital, who by their presence and contributions made the last Donation Day one of the most successful that has ever been held.

A wonderful work is being accomplished by the Tuberculosis Commission in trying to stamp out this dread disease. Results are being shown for tuberculosis is decreasing in Nova Scotia, but still the good work must go on to be effectual. Next week the T.B. Christmas Seals are to be sent out. May we ask each citizen for their co-operation, by buying as many as possible of these seals.

NEW BADMINTON CLUB FORMED

The young people of Digby, decided lately, that since there was to be no rink here this winter, and Bridge lacked exercise, to say nothing of novelty—they had better start a Badminton Club. So after a number of them got their heads together, talked about it, and thought about it, a meeting called at which officers were elected, and things began to move. Father Murphy has given his consent to use the New Saint Patrick's Hall, for a very small amount. Stanley Magee was unanimously elected President, and Stanley Spray as Secretary-Treasurer. So with the two Stan's leading, the Club ought to go, of course, co-operation, which, so far, has been top-notch, is of utmost importance. The games will not begin until December 3, but after that, it shall force ahead three nights a week, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

NOTICE

The Digby Badminton Club wishes to thank all those who helped to make last night's dance such a success. Any person wishing to join the Club may do so by applying to Stanley Magee or to the undersigned. Dues are: Ladies, $2.50; Gentlemen, $3.00, payable in advance.

It is the intention of the Club to play Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights. Any member may play in the afternoon of those days.

Persons wishing to use the Club's racquettes instead of buying their own, may do so on payment of an extra 50 cents for the season.

STANLEY SPRAY,
Secretary-Treasurer.

V. O. N. REGIONAL CONFERENCE

On Tuesday of last week delegates from various points in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick met at the Lord Nelson Hotel, Halifax, for a regional conference of the Victorian Order of Nurses, at which Miss Elizabeth Smallie, C.B.E., R.R.C., of Ottawa, chief superintendent of the order, was present. Mrs. George D. Turnbull was the delegate who represented the Digby Branch.

The morning session was a closed meeting, devoted to a round table talk, presided over by Mrs. Dennis, C.B.E., president of the Halifax Branch. Hon. Dr. Davis, Nova Scotia's minister of health, was a speaker at the afternoon session, and said that without the co-operation of the V. O. N. and similar organizations the efforts of his department during the past five years would have been futile. He expressed his belief that the people of the province were becoming "health minded".

The session concluded with a conference between Miss Smallie and attending nurses. The afternoon session featured a symposium open to the public on "Opportunity and Responsibilities of the V. O. N. in Local Health Programme".

Newspaper Publishers of Nova Scotia Organize

A meeting of the weekly newspaper publishers of Nova Scotia was held Saturday afternoon last at the Carleton Hotel, Halifax, for the purpose of organizing an association in this province. Officers were elected as follows:

President—Frank J. Burns, Kentville Advertiser.

Vice President—C. J. McGillivray, Antigonish Casket.

Sect'y-Treasurer—C. J. Alibon, Springfield Record.

Executive—P. J. MacPherson, Bridgewater Bulletin; J. A. Fisher, Pictou Advocate; J. J. Wallis, Digby Courier.

Membership Committee—H. S. Anslow, Hants Journal, Windsor; W. B. Foster, Citizen-Sun, Truro; C. S. Day, Liverpool Advance.

Among matters discussed was a protest against the action of the late Federal Government in the printing of the voters lists for which a $250,000 grant was given up at Ottawa and the fulfilment of the "Royal Gazette" published by the Nova Scotia Government as a means of distributing legal information.

It was decided to have the association affiliated with the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association.

AN UNENVIABLE RECORD

The United States holds an unenviable record in the matter of fatal accidents and homicides. Death rates from both causes, according to statistics furnished by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, continue to be the highest in any civilized country. It is stated that the accident mortality rate is almost twice that for England and Wales, Germany, Italy, Sweden or Belgium. The homicide rate in the neighborhood of eighteen times that of England and Wales. Fatal accidents in the States take about 196,000 lives per annum; suicides 20,000 lives and homicide 12,000. The Metropolitan Life feels that this record reveals a rather general influence to human values throughout the southern half of this continent.

According to some American historians this state of affairs had its origin in the American Revolutionary War when Loyalists by tens of thousands were subjected to brutal treatment by the rebellious fellow citizens. Another factor is the existence of very extensive groups of undigested foreigners throughout the republic, though these foreigners before they left their homes in Europe were not avaricious of human life and more particular in the observance of existing laws than the aggregate American population appears to be. A writer in a leading New York newspaper has attributed the great number of violent deaths to the egotism of the average adult citizen whether he or she is driving a motor car or engaged in other activities.

Still another cause of the large number of violent deaths in the United States, an exchange points out, is certainly to be found in a lax administration of the criminal laws. This in turn is traced to the fact that most judges and magistrates and police officers depend upon political votes for their appointments. This is a weakness to which successive American Presidents have called attention and to which the American Bar Association has been devoting a great deal of study in recent years.

Rev. A. N. McNinch, who recently resigned from the clergy of the N. S. has received and accepted a call to the church at Clark's Harbor, N. S., and has already begun work on the field. This is the third time that Mr. McNinch has been pastor at Clark's Harbor. His first pastorate with that church extended to seven years and the second to two years.

Amateur Contest Great Success

The Amateur Contest put on by the Digby Kiwanis Club last week, was considered a huge success. The theatre was filled to its capacity, people thronged from all the surrounding country. Annapolis Royal had four contestants for the evening. Harry Beaman held the position of gong-master and applause recorder, while Rev. A. E. Gabriel was chairman of the evening. The prizes awarded to the children were: 1st—Diana Wallis, Bear River. Little Miss Diana was one of the best features of the evening and deserves a great deal of credit. Diana and her sister first danced, and both were graceful and charming; the second act was a recitation, and the third, a dramatized song, "The King's Horses." Both were splendidly rendered and the applause was such as one seldom hears from a Digby audience.

The second prize went to Marjorie Snow and Fern Stark. A duet with guitar accompaniment, which was very well rendered.

3rd prize went to Edith Trimmer, of Clementville, Miss Trimmer performed some steps of the Charleston, and gave a short harmonica solo.

4th Prize went to Shirley Snow, of Digby—a second Shirley Temple. Shirley is to be congratulated on her purpose and grace. Her number was a solo, "An Earful of Music," finishing with a short dance.

Prizes going to the adults were as follows:

1st—Mrs. Urquhart, of Annapolis Royal, soloist. Her personality, as well as a beautiful contralto voice, won her over to the audience.

2nd Prize went to Frances MacNutt, who did a delightful dance. She was costumed very appropriately, and as usual, brought the house down.

The 3rd prize went to Socy McGinnis, of Annapolis Royal, who did a fine imitation of Harry Lauder.

4th Prize was won by the Digby Serenaders, Carl Sauter, Bernard Baxter and Paul Wilson. The act was a melody, played by two harmonicas and a guitar.

The last prize was divided between Moulaison and Sybley—both doing

Sam Langford In Serious Condition

Sam Langford, one of the leading negro heavyweight fighters 20 years ago, remained in a serious condition in a New York Hospital, after being struck by a taxicab in Harlem, N. Y., recently. He received intestinal injuries.

Langford, 48, has been virtually blind since he fought Fred Fulton in 1917. He was born at Weymouth N. S.

Electric systems in Nova Scotia worth hundreds of thousands of dollars are understood to have passed from the control of the Associated Gas and Electric Company, subsidiaries of that of the Royal Securities Group, already the largest single factor in the power business in the province, says the Bridgetown Monitor, which states that no definite statement has been secured from those who have been conducting the negotiations, but the information comes from an authoritative source. Properties said to have changed hands include the Annapolis Valley Electric Company, which serves the territory from Middleton as far westward as Digby—Digby town and vicinity are served by the Digby County Power Board, a publicly owned utility.

Again we must remind our correspondents that absolutely no articles are published in this paper unless they are signed by the sender. Several anonymous articles were received this week.

step-dances, though Moulaison put on a comedian act with the dancing.

The audience were given an opportunity to applaud at the end of the evening, as well as after each act. For the most part it was found almost impossible to strike a comparison with a step-dancer and a soloist, or between a comedian and a pianist. Thus the Amateur Contest had to be a popularity contest. But on the whole—the evening was splendid; and we hear it cleared over $130 dollars—so it was splendid in more ways than one. Great credit is due the Kiwanis Club for putting it on, and for the good they have been and are doing. We should like to mention all the contestants, but space does not permit.

VIRTUES THAT BRING REWARDS

There are approximately 100,000 members of the Quaker faith in North America, scattered all over the continent. At the recent general meeting of this society, the amazing report was given that not a single member of this faith has been on the relief rolls during the whole of the present depression.

Truly this is a remarkable record. It speaks very highly of a people who so arrange their affairs that they are ready to meet any emergency. Here is rugged individualism carried to the point where it shames the rest of us.

Industry, frugality, and thrift still remain cardinal virtues, even though they appear to have fallen into disrepute with us during the past few years. Old-fashioned virtues they are, to be sure, far too slow for the speed of modern life.

But the fact remains, nevertheless, that all of us would be far better off today if we had been content, as our forefathers were, with the derided horse-and-buggy rate of progress in our financial affairs.

This is the last of opportunity, but the catch in it is that a fellow can't get rich without a lot of hard work.

SENSIBLE DECISION

A year ago last spring a Michigan group drove his automobile into a crowd of pedestrians and killed two people, the parents of five children. Charges were brought against the youth, and just recently a final disposition of his case was made.

Under a court order, he must pay $10 a week toward the support of the five orphaned children for five years. He must not drive an automobile again, and under no circumstances may he purchase liquor. The court put him on probation to make sure that these orders would be carried out.

Here is a disposition of a traffic case which seems to be highly sensible. The young motorist is getting enough in the way of punishment, surely, to impress on motorists generally the need for caution.

Being kept away from liquor and automobiles he won't repeat his offense. Meanwhile, he is compelled to render a substantial financial aid to the dependents of his victims. The whole might well set a precedent for similar cases elsewhere.

Ah, gentle autumn, do not pass, the kindest that we know. We have no cause to cut the grass. Nor yet to shovel snow.

BUREAUCRACY

No method of procedure has ever been devised by which liberty could be divorced from local self-government.

No plan of centralization has ever been adopted which did not result in bureaucracy, tyranny, inflexibility, reaction and delinquency.

Of all forms of government, those administered by bureaus are about the least satisfactory to an enlightened and progressive people. Being irresponsible they become autocratic, and being autocratic they resist all development.

The cost, too, is tremendous and demoralizing. Rising taxes inevitably tend toward declining standards of living. The larger the percentage taken by tax levies, the smaller the percentage remaining for those creating the earnings taxed. Bureaucracy thwarts booming business.

Unless bureaucracy is constantly resisted it breaks down representative government and overwhelms democracy. It is the one element in our institutions which sets up the

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out
Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN".

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and often for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this:

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

NEW LOW LEVEL FOR CANADA'S MEANEST MAN

A new low level for Canada's meanest man has been set. A traffic solicitor for Telegrams reports that he was crossing the intersection of Yonge and St. Clair, Toronto, when he saw a wallet lying on the street-car tracks. He picked it up and found negotiable bonds amounting to several hundreds of dollars and currency, more than a hundred, and just crossed to the sidewalk when a man came dashing out, asked if that was his wallet. He accurately described the contents and the man handed it over to him. The man hesitated a second, then said, "Come into the drug store and wait while I get my things." They did so, the man ordering two five-cent drinks. When they were placed on the soda counter he jumped to his feet, saying, "I must move my car. Back in a second." He never returned. The Telegram solicitor paid for the two drinks.

CANADA IN PROMINENT POSITION IN THE TRADE OF DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Canada supplies approximately 76 per cent of the calcium carbide imported into the Dominican Republic, the United States the remainder. Other Canadian products which occupy a prominent place among Dominican imports are salted, dried, smoked and pickled fish, malt, rubber, maple, leather, evaporated milk, newspaper, paper, copper wire and cable, inorganic chemicals and stationery. Raw sugar is the principal export of the Dominican Republic, accounting for 52 per cent of the total value. Great Britain took 55 per cent of the sugar, France 21 per cent, Canada 19 per cent. Cocoa accounts for 13 1/2 per cent of the total exports of the United States takes 71 per cent and Germany 27 per cent, according to the latest figures. Coffee is another export commodity, of the Republic, averaging 12 per cent of the total. France is the big customer with 43 per cent, Spain 21 per cent, Italy and Holland each 9 per cent.

Obituary

Mrs. F. E. Rice

The death of Laura, wife of Frank E. Rice, M.D., occurred at her home at Sandy Cove, Digby County, Friday morning after a long illness. The late Mrs. Rice was born at Halifax 65 years ago, and was the youngest daughter of the late Rev. A. D. Merkel and the late Elizabeth (Piers) Merkel. Funeral services took place at Sandy Cove Sunday with Rev. A. E. Gabriel, rector of Trinity Church, Digby, officiating. Surviving are her husband and two children, Hilda, (Mrs. Cutler Crowell) of Westfield, Mass.; and Estlin, at home; one daughter, Mrs. Grace Oliver, of Wendell, Mass.; and a brother, Cyril Merkel, of San Francisco, Calif.; also three half-brothers, Andrew D. Merkel, of Halifax; James W. Merkel, of Digby; Gerald Merkel, of Chicago; and a step-mother, Mrs. Margaret Merkel, of Digby. Although she has been ill for some time, the death of Mrs. Rice was hastened as the result of an accident a short time ago, when she fell from her couch, fracturing her hip.

Samuel Pickup

Word of the death of Samuel Pickup, of Warden of Annapolis County, and one of the best known citizens of Western Nova Scotia, was received here on Friday. Mr. Pickup was found dead Friday morning, he having passed away suddenly during the night. He was born at Grandville Ferry, Sept. 16, 1888, and was the oldest son of Samuel W. Pickup, for several years, Federal Member of the County of Annapolis, and Lillian (Troop) Pickup. He was educated at Grandville Ferry, the Annapolis Royal Academy and Mount Allison University. In 1913 he was employed on the construction of the National Transcontinental Railway, and contracted typhoid fever which necessitated his removal to British Columbia, where he entered the employ of the Royal Bank of Canada. In 1917 he enlisted for overseas, and in 1918 was discharged as a Lieutenant of the 55th Battalion, C.P.A. Since his father's death in 1920 he has resided at home, and has been a prominent figure in the life of the community. Funeral services were held at Grandville Ferry on Sunday.

COFFEE AND IVORY FROM EAST AFRICA

A considerable quantity of Canada's coffee comes from Kenya and Uganda, in East Africa. Other products of these Empire countries which Canada purchases are sisal fibre, oils, tea, beans, chillies and ivory. In turn, Kenya and Uganda take from Canada motor trucks and accessories, motor tires and tubes, agricultural machinery, aluminum sheets, machinery, rubber manufactures, earthenware, textile manufactures, manufactured goods, tools, hardware, timber, electrical goods and appliances.

WINS TROPHY FOR BIGGEST TROUT

The award of the Nipigon Shield for the landing of the biggest trout from the famous Nipigon River in Ontario, a well-earned trophy the lure of which brings many anglers to the stream every year, is now announced by Joseph VanWey, General Manager of Hotels, Canadian National Railways. For the second consecutive season the prize goes to a Port Arthur, Ont. man, the year being M. K. Morrison, who caught a trout weighing 7 pounds 1 ounce. Another coincidence is the fact that Charles F. Wright, of Lisbon, Ohio, who was the runner-up last year with a trout weighing 6 pounds 8 ounces, is in the same category this year with a fish exactly the same weight.

A ONE-TREE ORCHARD

Pears from apple trees, apples from pear trees, or what have you, seems to be all within the reach of the art of grafting. There is an apple tree near Fredericton, in New Brunswick, which has had grafted on it nearly every variety of apple grown in the province, including crab apples, and last year a pear graft was incorporated; very soon the owner expects to be able to graft pears along with the apples. The owner is F. A. Good, a teacher of botany in the Provincial Normal School in Fredericton. Other grafts made by Mr. Good were apples on a mountain ash, hawthorne and shad bushes. The apple bush has already produced apples.

TO MAKE SILK FROM THE MULBERRY TREE

The silk worm is having a hard time competing with its artificial competitor, rayon, made from cellulose, and now plans are under way in China to take its food, the mulberry tree, to produce rayon. The project calls for a factory to be erected in Kwantung Province to manufacture rayon from mulberry branches.

Mrs. A. L. Gidney is spending a few days in Yarmouth.

The Ladies' Aid of Bethel United Church held a "Jigg's Supper" in the hall on Friday evening which was well patronized.

THE WRONG HALIFAX

An elderly Glasgow couple left a tin at Halifax, Yorkshire but their real destination was Halifax, Nova Scotia.

When a train reached Halifax from Liverpool, a man appeared at a carriage window and asked if he had to change for Halifax. "This is Halifax," said the porter.

"Is this Halifax, Nova Scotia?" the astonished railwayman was asked. He thought it a joke but the man who was accompanied by his wife, revealed that they came from Glasgow and had sold their home to join their children in Nova Scotia. On reaching Liverpool, instead of going to the shipping office, they went to the railway station and booked tickets for Halifax. They received tickets for the Yorkshire town.

Officials put them into the first train back to Glasgow.

A British scientist says the height of a human intelligence is reached at the age of 16. That seems entirely plausible, judging by the way people vote after 21.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The Veterans of Clare as well as a large number of people, assembled on Armistice Day at the Sacred Heart Church, Saint-Jovite, where a Solemn Mass of Requiem was celebrated by the Rev. Jovite Doucet, parish priest.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the veterans formed up in front of the Memorial Monument. Wreaths were placed at the foot of the Monument by Rev. Father Doucet, for the Nova Scotia Government and by relatives of soldiers who had paid the supreme sacrifice.

In the evening at Riverside Inn, Meteghan River, a banquet was presided over by Lieutenant Colonel Stanley Hallett, of Weymouth. Col. Willie Belliveau, of St. Anne's College, spoke. Major Knowledge, of Plympton; Raymond LeBlanc and Dr. Pierre Belliveau responded to toasts. A number of the Weymouth veterans were present at the banquet.

REBEKAH LODGE

A pleasant event took place in the Rebekah Lodge Rooms on Monday evening at the conclusion of the semi-annual meeting. A social hour was spent and the presentation of a silver cake basket and bouquet of flowers was made to Miss Mildred Amaro, a P. D. D. P., of the lodge, who is soon to become a principal in a happy event.

Mrs. W. R. Harris, on behalf of the lodge members, made the presentation to Miss Amaro, it being accompanied by an original poem, "Harry's Quest", which was composed by the Noble Grand, Miss Ruberta Rand. Miss Amaro thanked the members in a fitting manner. Ice cream and cake was then served, including a decorated wedding cake.

Melanson—Saulnier

Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock of last week, Rev. Father L. d'Entremont united in marriage Demille Melanson, of Grossex Coques, and Mrs. Delille Saulnier, (nee Lydia LeBlanc, of College Bridge, N. B.). The witnesses were Edward Saulnier, son of the bride, and Miss Louise Melanson, daughter of the groom. Mrs. Joseph S. LeBlanc at the organ, accompanied High Mass, and executed appropriate marches. The Sisters with the convent pupils, assisted to the ceremony, which was largely attended. After breakfast at the residence they took a wedding tour to Digby, where they had dinner at the home of Mrs. Dennis Comeau, sister of the groom, and on their return took supper at Fred Melanson's, Weymouth. They will reside at Grossex Coques.

Jules Theriault
At Meteghan Station village, on Friday, November 8th, Jules Theriault died at the age of 62 years, after a lingering illness. He leaves a widow, formerly Annie Melanson; four brothers, Edward, at Gloucester, Mass.; Eddie and Josue, Meteghan; and Louis, of St. Alphonse de Clare; two sisters, Amy, widow of Siffrid Maillet, and Marie (Mrs. Hilario Melanson). The funeral took place at the Stella Maria church, and was largely attended. Rev. Father L. d'Entremont officiating.

FRANK ENDS IN SERIOUS INJURIES
On Tuesday night of last week, about midnight, a truck loaded with probably drunken men, had a puncture in front of St. Mary's church. Church Point. One of the men, felt that he should wake the village, and entering the church, put in motion the big bell, which is only sounded at night in case of fire.

The village people got up hurriedly and went to the church but could find no trace of fire.

Pierre Belliveau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Belliveau, hearing the bell, got up and struck a match and lighted his lamp; but he threw the match on a dynamite detonator which exploded and blew three fingers off his left hand, and he may possibly lose the hand.

Both mumps and German measles are quite prevalent here.

Mrs. Margaret Tooker recently visited her daughter, Mrs. Douglas Raymond and Mr. Raymond, at Ashmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Marshall, of Ashmore, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cosman, at Weymouth Point, one day recently.

Mrs. A. W. Carr, of Weymouth North, has been visiting her brother, Cortland Robinson and Mrs. Robinson, at Saint John, N. B.

Inspector M. C. Foster, of Bridgetown, paid an official visit to the school at Weymouth Point on Tuesday and to Weymouth North on Wednesday.

Donald Campbell, who has been spending part of his vacation with his aunt at Calais, Maine, has returned and resumed his position at the Royal Bank of Canada.

Dr. H. J. Pothier, Mrs. J. B. Lent and Mrs. Elsie Plouffe, returned to Yarmouth on Monday to see Mrs. Isabelle Harries, who has been a patient at the Yarmouth Hospital.

Mrs. Leslie Ruggles, who recently received a bad fall, when she stepped on a piece of apple, calling in her home, is able to be out again, after having been confined to bed for a week or two.

Blueberry blossoms were picked by Ben Hatfield, of Riverview, on Tuesday. It is said that this is the first time in years that blueberry blossoms at this time of year have been found in this vicinity.

A Minstrel Show was held by the Meteghan troupe at Meteghan on Monday evening of last week and was a great success, under the direction of Rev. Father L. d'Entremont. The show was also played at Meteghan River on Tuesday night; Little Brook Wednesday night; and West Pablico on Friday night. The sum of $150 was realized, which will go towards the new glebe house.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The annual Sunday School Convention for this district was held at the New Tusket Baptist Church, on Thursday of last week, with afternoon and evening sessions. In the absence of the President, the meetings were presided over by H. E. Wagner, of Weymouth. Vice-President was Mr. M. R. E. C. who gave helpful and inspiring talks on Sunday School work.

The worship service at the evening session was conducted by the young people of the New Tusket Church, led by Miss Nellie Lewis, who was assisted by Mrs. Thurston Mullen and members of the choir. A duet by the Misses Florie and Willie Mullen, also a solo by Alton Jones with guitar accompaniment added greatly to the service.

The following officers were appointed: President—Rev. Donald Stockford, Weymouth. Vice-President—C. F. Sabean, New Tusket. Sec'y—Treasurer—Mrs. Thurston Mullen, New Tusket.

At the conclusion of the meeting brief remarks were made by Rev. Donald Stockford and Rev. C. U. MacNevin.

LANTERN SLIDES SHOWN AT NORTH RANGE
A gathering that completely filled the United Church at North Range, met there on Tuesday evening to see a number of lantern slides shown by Rev. C. U. MacNevin, the pastor of that church. They began with "Hope", that famous painting by George Frederick Watts, and ended with the one "The Boyhood of Sir Walter Raleigh", by Millais, and along with them were copies of several other famous paintings. A short talk was also given on each picture as it was shown. Mr. Wamboldt was also there with his gramophone and furnished music. A satisfactory sum was realized which goes to provide music for the choir.

Art Bradley, special representative of the Tip Top Tailors, was at J. A. Muise's store on Thursday of last week.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

HOME LIFE

Family gatherings offer unusual opportunities for story-telling pictures.

A READER of the Snapshot Guild has an example of what can be done by an amateur photographer with an inexpensive camera.

Photographically it is an excellent picture and this Guild member is to be congratulated on his work.

To the Snapshot Guild, however, this picture represents much more than an example of good photography. It tells a real story. As we visualize the story behind this picture it takes us into the homes of thousands of typical Canadian family groups gathered at the home of parents for the day or evening.

It is just such pictures that are interesting and valuable to our snapshot collection and every year, as the children "grow up" you will cherish such snapshots more and more.

Record pictures, such as scenes, buildings, monuments and other places of interest you snap in your travels are important and interesting, but don't overlook the innumerable opportunities for intimate, story-telling pictures of the family.

With present day film and Photoflash or Photoflood bulbs you can take indoor pictures with any camera equipped for "time" exposure. The picture above was taken with an ordinary camera with the aid of a No. 20 Photoflash bulb.

Here is what you do. Place your camera on a tripod, table or something solid so that there will be no movement of the camera when the picture is taken. Locate your subjects, or group in the center. At arm's length to the side of your camera place an ordinary floor lamp; to get full efficiency from the light, remove the shade and hold a white card or a pillow case in back of it to serve as a reflector. If in a group picture of this kind you find that the distance at which the Photoflash will be placed is about 10 feet from the group use a pup with an anastigmat lens or No. 1 stop on single lens cameras, or box cameras, with double lenses, not of the anastigmat type, use the largest stop. With the current in the lamp turned off, replace the home bulb with the Photoflash bulb. Set your camera for a time exposure; open the shutter and instantly "throw on" the Photoflash bulb which you have placed in the floor lamp. There will be a vivid, instantaneous flash of light. Immediately after this flash close the shutter of your camera and you have your picture.

If you prefer you can take a snapshot of such a group, providing you have a camera with an f/2.8 lens or faster, using Photoflood bulbs. It will be necessary to employ two floor lamps; place one lamp about 5 feet in front and a little to the right of your subjects; place lamp number two about six feet to the front and left of the group. Tilt the shades on the lamps so that the light is cast over the entire group. Set the shutter speed at 1/25 of a second; turn on your Photoflood lamps and snap—you have made an snapshot at night indoors.

When shades on home lamps cannot be lifted, use a kind that does not permit directing the light on the subject, remove the shade. In such cases, some kind of reflector back of the lights will throw considerably more light toward.

Don't forget these important pictures around the home. Get some Photoflash or Photoflood bulbs (they can be purchased in almost any store where they sell photographic supplies), load your camera with super-sensitive panchromatic film and take a few snapshots at night indoors. It's a lot of fun.

A TRIBUTE TO NOVA SCOTIA

"Did it ever occur to you that the Creator may have left this little sea-girt peninsula until the last? That He may have reserved for it many of the treasures of His workshop? That after He finished His great masterpiece, He may have spent some time in moulding those features of this province which possess such delicacy of beauty, such subtlety of charm, that, travel the world over, we find them unexcelled and without peer?"

"Did it ever think that when this world was coming out of chaos, the Creator might have set aside so little of the concealing mass upon which to imprint His own special design? Have you not thought of the Divine Hand pressing a finger upon a soft clay and behold a valley here, another there? Have you not seen in the wonderful contour of hills and mountains of this land the Divine imagery of what hills and mountains should be?"

"Have you ever heard in the babble of its brooks, and the murmur of its tides and surge of its surf, the music of a divine choir which sang praises while the Creator worked? Have you ever heard through the forest, through the orchards, over the fields, and meadows, the breath that gave it life?"

"Did it never seem strange to you that THIS is a land without tempest, or flood, or drought, or gale, or pestilence, and if you did, did you ever think that it is because it is God's land?"

It is seemingly that the above tribute should be reprinted—and in connection with it the following incident may be recalled, also—A Nova Scotian lady travelling by train in Upper Canada overheard two gentlemen talking. One gentleman had travelled all over the world and his friend asked him what place he considered the prettiest of all he had visited. His reply was that in his opinion it was that little hamlet in Nova Scotia called Bear River.

We have read of early blizzards—flood, drought, earthquakes, cyclones—these all pass us by. Should we not give thanks that we live in "God's Land?"

The tribute above was written by Horatio C. Crowell, then a member of the staff of the Halifax Chronicle, and was read in the Legislature of Nova Scotia, during an afternoon session, by the premier at that time.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

WITH the arrival of cooler days and nights that do not offer much encouragement for outdoor activities, there is a very noticeable increase in interest by amateurs in snapshots in the house at night.

Once you start this fascinating hobby you will undoubtedly agree that it is a real pleasure and an ideal way to occupy your time profitably during the long evenings of fall and winter.

All of us are familiar with the ordinary type of snapshots but few have made silhouette pictures. With this type of picture, even more than with ordinary snaps, it is important that the pictures tell their own story—unless, of course, you want simply a profile head and shoulders study—for you have only outlines to work with, unsupported by perspective or detail.

The first essential of silhouette pictures is a perfectly flat background, devoid of detail. And the easiest way to obtain such a background is to stretch a bed sheet across a broad doorway between two rooms. It's important that the sheet be tacked up so that all creases and wrinkles are eliminated.

To light up this background, a strong light must be put in back of it, about five feet away, either centered or placed directly back of the major feature of the picture. You have a wide choice of lamps for your lighting. You can use a couple of ordinary 60-watt bulbs such as you use in your home lamps, or a Photoflood or Photoflash bulb. The latter are available at most electrical or photo supply shops at very low prices. The Photoflood bulb, which gives an exceptionally brilliant white light, is probably your best bet. Its life is about two hours of constant burning, thus it can be used for many pictures. Pose your subject about two feet in front of the sheet (on the side away from the light). See diagram. Place your camera on a tripod or table so that it is directly opposite your subject. When the picture is taken, the light that illuminates the sheet should be the only light in either of the rooms.

Now about the exposures. If you use the two 60-watt lamps, you will need an exposure of about 10 seconds, with the lens well opened; with a Photoflood, a couple of seconds will suffice. Using the Photoflash (which gives an instantaneous, vivid flash of light) set the shutter at "time," turn out all room lights, open the shutter, flash the bulb, close the shutter—and there you are—you've got your picture.

A little practice with silhouettes is worth volumes of instruction. Good silhouettes make excellent material for greeting cards, book plates, place cards and so on.

In making them, you can call all your ingenuity and inventiveness into play. Try it tonight.

Obituary

Miss Georgie Gilliat

Miss Georgie Gilliat passed away on Monday afternoon at the home of the Misses Bernasconi, Grandview, where she has been living the past year. She had not been in very good health lately as she was suffering with heart trouble, but had been so much better the past week that her death came as quite a shock.

Miss Gilliat would have celebrated her 80th birthday had she lived, tomorrow. She was a daughter of the late Capt. and Mrs. Jerry Gilliat. Miss Gilliat's father was lost at sea when she was a tiny child; she was a faithful member of the United Church, a teacher in the Sunday School, secretary of the Women's Missionary Society, and a member of the Ladies Aid. She leaves a host of friends and will be greatly missed.

Mrs. Patrick Doyle

The death occurred on Saturday, November 16th, at Mattapan, Mass., of Mrs. Patrick Doyle, of Caledonia, Queen County. Mr. Doyle was 88 years of age and was on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. J. J. Glasgow, when she passed away after a short illness. Her husband predeceased her only eleven weeks ago and her eldest son passed away only a year ago. Mrs. Doyle is survived by three sons and four daughters: Thomas and Jason, of Mattapan; and James at home; Mrs. J. P. Donnellan, Mrs. J. J. Glasgow, Mrs. Edward Scott and Miss Melita Doyle, of Mattapan; and Mrs. Bernasconi, of Bear River. The remains were brought home on Tuesday and the funeral was held on Thursday at Caledonia.

Lie. Donald F. McDormand having spent the past month in town the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McDormand, left Tuesday for Olds, Alberta, where he has accepted the pastorate of the Baptist church of that place. En route he stopped off at Medicine Hat where he was the guest speaker on Sunday. No member of the church in Olds, Alberta, left for Calgary, where he visited his aunt, Mrs. A. C. Archibald for a few days.

Pickup, of Granville Ferry, on Sunday.

ANNUAL MEETING DEEP BROOK DORCAS SOCIETY

The annual meeting and 24th anniversary of the Dorcas Society of the United Baptist Church, Deep Brook, was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Norman Sulis, on Wednesday afternoon of last week. The president in the chair. Meeting opened with singing, "To the Work," followed by scripture reading by the president and prayer by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Turner, after which the president welcomed the visitors, and spoke words of appreciation to the members who had so faithfully supported her during the year. The secretary, Mrs. Myrtle Jackson, presented her annual report which was well prepared, giving a good account of work done. The treasurer, Mrs. Addie Dilmar, reported $189 raised by the society during the year; $78.79 was paid out for church purposes, leaving $90 in the treasury. Mrs. W. H. Turner submitted the report of the nominating committee and the following officers were elected for the year:

President—Mrs. Addie Dilmar.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. Norman Sulis.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Lilla Rice.
Secretary—Mrs. Myrtle Jackson.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Carl Nichols.
Treasurer—Mrs. Cory G. Harris.
Assistant Treasurer—Mrs. Howard Adams.

At the conclusion of the business session a pleasant social hour was spent while delightful refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Walker and Mrs. Gordon Ruggles. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. B. H. A. Rice and Mrs. Minnie Purdy, of Clements, and Mrs. Gordon Ruggles, of Bear River East.

Mrs. Lucie VanBuskirk is visiting in Digby, the guest of Mrs. B. W. Robin. Miss Emma Mailing returned to her home on Friday from the Digby Hospital. Lewis Long had the misfortune to cut his leg badly on Monday. Several stitches were required to close the wound. Wilson Reese, who has been a patient at the Digby Hospital, for some time, returned to his home here on Monday. Mrs. Gordon Ruggles and son Walter, spent Wednesday of last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sulis, at Deep Brook. Mrs. George Gaylor, of Maschele, visited relatives here last week. Mrs. Arthur Jefferson entertained the Mite Society, on Friday evening. The Misses Beth and Lillian VanBuskirk returned to Middleton last week. Miss Edith Wiles is on the sick list.

Mrs. Carl Miller returned from Kentville on Saturday.

Frank Jones, K. C., Addresses Kiwanis

Digby Kiwanis, at their weekly luncheon on board the "Princess Helen" Tuesday, listened to an address from Frank Jones, K. C., of Digby, on the subject of "Self Education" in which the speaker pointed out that while only a small percentage of pupils, often due to circumstances, graduate from our high schools, and a very small percentage receive a college education, the "greenness" after he gets out in the world to make his way.
Good reading he said is one of the main essentials of completing one's education. He stressed the fact that, in his opinion, the generation of to-day do not know how to read, and prefer "light, trashy stuff" to the really good books and periodicals. In closing he stressed the need of a public library in Digby in order to provide good reading for all.

George E. Graham, vice-president and general manager of the D. A. R., was unanimously re-elected president of the Avon Deane's Laymen's Association, at the annual meeting in Kentville, on the 19th inst.

Someone picked a strawberry blossom last week, and left it in our office. We don't know who it was, but strawberry blossoms are supposed to be picked in June, aren't they?

Teams, Auto in Accident

Two mail teams and an automobile were damaged and two mail drivers thrown from their wagons, on Saturday afternoon when the horse hauling the heavy express wagon which carries the Bay View mail three times a week, bolted and ran away. The wagon was driven by Joe Condon, of Bay View.

The other mail team which figured in this accident was the Culloden mail, driven by Angus Handspiker, of that place. Handspiker had left the post office slightly ahead of Condon. Mr. Condon does not know what startled his horse, but the frightened animal, out of control, tore up the front street, and at the Birch Street railway crossing dodged in between the Culloden team and Dr. DuVerne's car, which was parked in front of his office.

As a result one of the rear wheels of the Culloden team was torn off and the driver thrown from his seat and dragged along the pavement for a considerable distance. The DuVerne car and the Bay View wagon also suffered considerable damage, and Condon was thrown from his wagon before his horse was brought to a stop. Handspiker was quite badly bruised and lamed as the result of the accident.

PRESENTATION MADE

Rev. F. E. Bishop concluded his extra services with the Digby United Baptist Church on Sunday last. At the close of the evening service, B. B. Short, in a very fitting address, on behalf of the men of the church, presented Mr. Bishop with an attractive toilet set and Rolls razor as a small token of the esteem in which he is held. Mr. Bishop has been the recipient of several gifts from the various organizations of which she was a member. The best wishes of a host of friends follow them to their new home in Deep Brook. Mr. Bishop leaves this week to occupy the pulpit of the United Baptist church, in Charlottetown, until the end of the year, and in the meantime Mrs. Bishop will visit their son Karl and family, in Fredericton.

Capt. and Mrs. David Ellis left this week for Boston.

NEW CREW FOR THE LIFEBOAT

The new crew for the Life-Saving Station at Bay View, just inside Digby Out, take over their duties tomorrow. They are as follows:

- Coxswain—Hilliard Barnes, Digby
- Engineer—Shannon Raymond, Centerville
- Boatmen—Wallace Handspiker, Culloden; Eugene Adams, Bay View; Kenneth Peters, Rossway
- Cook—Gordon Turnbull, Bay View

Marriages

Scott—Smith

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Smith, Sydney Street, was the scene of an unusually pretty wedding Tuesday afternoon, when their daughter, April May, became the bride of E. Frederic Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Scott, of Halifax. The ceremony was performed beneath a floral arch of green, trimmed with white chrysanthemums, by Rev. F. E. Bishop.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was becomingly gowned in a dress of petunia chiffon velvet, with accessories to match, and carried a bouquet of tallman roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, sister of the bride, was dressed in a gown of midnight blue chiffon velvet and carried a nosegay. The groom was supported by his brother, William R. Scott, of Halifax. Mrs. H. L. Smith, mother of the bride, wore a dress of black silk crepe trimmed with lace, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Mrs. Scott, mother of the groom, wore a wine colored silk velvet gown, with accessories to match. During the ceremony, the wedding march was played by Mrs. Gay E. Morehouse, organist of the Digby Baptist church, and during the signing of the register, a solo, "I Love You Truly," was rendered by Raymond Winchester. The home was beautifully decorated with green and white. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the dining room of the bride's home, the dining table being centred with a beautiful three-tier cake, made for the occasion by Howard Smith, of Digby. Bridesmaids, Mrs. C. A. Mumford, of Middleton, aunt of the bride, poured, while Mrs. Howard Anderson, of Digby, cut the loaves.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Scott, parents of the groom; Mrs. E. G. Garmon, grandmother of the groom, and William R. Scott, brother of Halifax; Mrs. C. A. Mumford and C. Earl Mumford, Middleton; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lent, Weymouth North; Miss Ethel Young and Claude Young, of Hantsport.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Scott left on a motor trip to various parts of the province, and on their return will reside in Annapolis Royal. The groom is a successful traveller for the Knechtel Furniture Company, of Hanover, Ontario. The bride is well known in Nova Scotia, and for some time was in the employ of the MacLeod-Balcom Drug Stores, in Halifax.

Boswell—Rice

The marriage of Eric Boswell, of Bear River, formerly of Chester, England, to Lillian Gertrude Rice, daughter of P. S. Rice, Bear River, took place in the United Church parlour on Wednesday evening, Rev. Dr. Hodgson officiating.

The United Church choir is holding a Pantry Sale tomorrow at the Bayrite Store. Your patronage will be greatly appreciated.

Subscriptions are being solicited along Digby Neck for the purchase of a snow plough to be attached to the Digby Neck bus, this winter for the purpose of keeping the highway open during the coming season. It is understood that the cost of the plough will be in the vicinity of $75, and already more than $50 has been contributed or pledged. Guy Morehouse, owner of the Digby Neck bus, has promised to make it his contribution to have the plough attached to his car. Lindon Collins, of Little River, who is making the soliciting, advises us that the plough will be ordered from Truro this week. Similar ploughs were used successfully in other parts of the province last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Dixon Rice and Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Melanson, of Weymouth, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Theriault, on Sunday.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Two Smith's Cove men are thankful they have a pet cat. They are George Potter and his son, Gerald, for had it not been for that cat their home would have been destroyed by fire and possibly both men would have lost their lives.

The incident occurred several days ago, but only reached the ears of our reporter yesterday morning. About 3:30 on the morning of the 17th Mr. Potter was awakened by the cat which was licking his face. He discovered the bedroom filled with smoke and went to wake his son. On investigation they found the room next to Mr. Potter's in a mass of flame, the fire having originated from an overheated flue. The two managed to get a part of the fire subdued before summoning the help of neighbors who soon had the fire extinguished. Beside the damage to the residence a quantity of dishes was destroyed and the parlor furniture badly damaged.

CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY

The tenth anniversary of the founding of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League was marked by the members of the Digby branch by a supper held in St. Patrick's Hall, Monday evening. More than forty were in attendance. Legion members "tuned in" to the broadcast from the Dominion command, and listened to the address of the Minister of Pensions and National Health.

Given to the evening by James Merkel, secretary of the Digby Branch; Alfred Boden, town clerk; and Dr. G. V. Turnbull, all of whom laid particular emphasis on the work the Legion has done for returned men in this district, and strongly urged that every returned man join up.

P. L. Anderson spent a few days this week in Saint John.

Town Council Meets

At the regular monthly meeting of the Digby Town Council Monday night permission was granted to Maurice Raymond to build a one-story residence for his son, Douglas, on his property in the south end of the town.

A letter was read to the council from the owner of the property on First Avenue, which the council ordered connected up with the sewer, giving reasons why the work had not been done. As there was no communication from the owner of the property in the north end, the superintendent of streets and water was given instructions to have this work done, and charge the same to the owner of the building.

The town clerk read a letter re the accident at Warne's Crossing, which stated that the speed limit for trains through the town, was now ten miles per hour.

In the matter of a request from Burgess VanTassel to have West St. opened up, in order that he might build a house on the property of his father, John VanTassel. The matter was left in the hands of the streets committee.

Councillor P. L. Anderson asked permission to install gasoline tanks and pumps at the head of his wharf property. Permission was granted.

The report of the superintendent of streets and water told of work done on the streets in the southern part of the town; the cleaning of ditches, and the cutting out of brush in other sections. In connection with the water his department had cut out trees and bushes from around Lily Lake, and made repairs to water services and to the main pipe line.

E. B. Pugh, of Westport, was a visitor to Digby yesterday.

A meeting of the Men's Association of the Denary of Annapolis will be held at Round Hill on Tuesday evening. At this meeting officers will be elected for the ensuing year, and dinner will be served by the Guild ladies, at 6 o'clock.

LOOKING FOR GOOD LOBSTER SEASON

Alden Elliott, of Tiverton, one of the best known lobster buyers and packers on Digby Neck and the Islands, was a visitor to Digby on Friday last, and says that extensive preparations are being made by the lobster fishermen for the opening of the season on December 2nd. "It has been many years since lobster fishermen were as active in their preparations as they are this season," said Mr. Elliott.

He prophesies that this season will be a successful one, and that the price for lobsters at the opening of the season is going to be good. In his opinion the lobster price will remain up for some time.

A successful lobster fishing season is certainly due the lobster fishermen on the Islands and Digby Neck, and along the St. Mary's Bay shore. For the past few years lobster fishing has been practically a failure with them. Low prices, bad weather, and a scarcity of lobsters had worked against them to such an extent that many of the fishermen took up their pots before the end of the season.

This year, in the midst of the fishing centres, lobstermen are enlarging the size of their "cars" and increasing the number of their pots.

THE WEATHER

This week has seen another combination of winter and spring. The winter weather struck on Sunday, and Monday brought quite a bit of snow, which, in town, had disappeared by Tuesday morning, although quantities could be seen on the surrounding hills. Seven inches were reported in some sections of the Valley. There was also a severe nor'easter on Monday. Since then the weather has moderated somewhat, and between shells we have had some really lovely weather.

D. H. Collins, M.A., B. Paed., of Lunenburg, (son of Ernest Collins, Digby), is receiving congratulations from his many friends for having received the degree of M.A. recently from Acadia University. He is now in his tenth year as principal of the Lunenburg school.

Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Campbell and Mrs. F. H. Hatheway motored to Yarmouth on Tuesday, where Dr. Campbell attended the Autumn meeting of the Western Counties Medical Society, returning the same evening.

Capt. John N. Berry, of Clements, spent his 88th birthday, Monday, Nov. 18, the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Minnie Chute. Also guests at the same home were Miss Minnie Berry, Mrs. Alice Hurland and Capt. Robert Rawlings, all of Clements.

Patricia Hatheway, of Bear River, played the leading female role in "Keith Winter's 'The Shining Hour,'" a currently popular psychological drama presented by the Dramatic Guild, of Queen's University, Toronto, a few nights ago. The play, staged two nights and both performances were greeted with capacity houses. Commenting on the production, the Queen's Journal said: "The stormy love scenes between Anne Green and Patricia Hatheway were convincing. The student audience than which there is probably nothing less tolerant of romantic exhibitions, received even these scenes without complaint."

Don't forget the Chicken Supper December 5.

Yorke, Dittmars entertained the Bridge Club on Tuesday evening. Ross MacCormick is a patient in the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dittmars and two children, of Deep Brook, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Harris, on Sunday.

Mrs. Dr. Dinmore, of Clyde River, arrived on Tuesday to visit her father, E. C. Clarke and Mrs. Clarke. She was enroute home from Boston.

The car of Elden Miller "ran away" while being cranked in front of the Bear River Trading Company, and swinging around in circles several times, struck the building and tore off a section of the corner.

Services in the Bear River Baptist Church on Sunday evening brought to a close three weeks of special services conducted by Rev. I. D. Little. At this service, Mr. Little gave an address on the outstanding features of the Church Covenant, after which the pastor, Rev. S. F. Stevens, baptised twenty-five candidates. The church was filled to its capacity at this service.

BEAR RIVER WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

On Monday, Dec. 2nd, the Women's Institute will meet at 3:00 o'clock, in the Masonic Building, and a large attendance is hoped for, as the reports will be received from the Provincial Convention, held recently at Truro, and also plans made for Christmas Relief, so it is urgent that all convenors, or committees, and others should be there.

At the close of the business meeting a 10 cent tea will be served, the proceeds to go towards Christmas Cheer.

The Library is open every Saturday from 3:30 to 5 p. m., every Institute member is entitled to a book, and books can be obtained by the public at the small rental of 7 cents a week.

BADMINTON NOTES

The Badminton Club started its season's activities last week, games being played on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons, and evenings. Saturday evening refreshments were served by Mrs. Wilson Jefferson, Mrs. F. H. Hatheway, Mrs. Jim Hubley and Mrs. W. M. Romans.

The officers for the current season are:

President—Rev. C. L. Blanchard. Sec'y.—Treas.—Yorke, Dittmars. House Committee—Mrs. A. B. Campbell and Mrs. Wilson Jefferson.

ELECTED DELEGATE

Mrs. L. J. Lovett attended the meeting at Halifax last week of the Provincial Women's Liberal Club, also the Men's Provincial Liberal Club, and was chosen a delegate to attend the National Liberal Federation at Ottawa.

DINNER BRIDGE AT GRAND CENTRAL HOTEL

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Brown entertained delightfully on Friday night of last week, at a Dinner Bridge at the Grand Central Hotel. At 7 o'clock they with their guests, numbering twenty-three, were seated at a long table set diagonally across the dining room and centered with beautiful rose chrysanthemums, flanked by rose candles. Later tables were arranged for bridge and the very attractive prizes were won by Miss Blanche Purdy, Mrs. L. V. Harris and Fred Harris.

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin."

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember, this "Aspirin" is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

Obituary

Fred S. Jones

The death of Fred S. Jones, occurred at his home at Clementsport, on Thursday of last week. About three weeks ago Mr. Jones suffered a paralytic stroke from which he appeared to rally, but on Thursday evening, Nov. 21, he passed peacefully away. The funeral was held on Sunday at the United Church, by the pastor, Rev. T. E. McLennan, of which church he had long been a faithful member. The late Mr. Jones was a Mason, and the Masonic part of the service was conducted by Herbert Layton, of Annapolis Royal Lodge A. F. & A. M. The hymns, "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Some-time We'll Understand," were sung by the choir and William Sanford sang a solo, "One Sweetly Solitary Thought." There were many lovely floral tributes. Interment was in the United Church cemetery beside his late wife, who predeceased him four months. He leaves one brother, George, of Massachusetts, a daughter-in-law, and grandchildren in Danvers, Mass.

Mrs. Donald Macgarvie
The passing of Louise, the beloved wife of Donald Macgarvie, of Parker's Cove, took place recently, although in failing health for two years past, death came quite unexpected. The deceased, who was a daughter of Mr. Richard Hardwick and the late Mrs. Hardwick, will be missed in the community. She leaves to mourn their loss a husband, two sisters, Edith and Hilda; one brother, Yorke; and a son, Donald. The funeral was held on Tuesday, at 2 o'clock, with the Rev. E. W. Forbes, of the United Church, conducting the services at the house and grave. Interment was in the Parker's Cove cemetery. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones.

Marriages

White-Potter

The marriage of Miss Gladys Olive, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Potter, of Clementsvalle, to Arleigh White, of Young's Cove, took place at the home of Rev. I. D. Little, Deep Brook, who officiated, on Nov. 20. The bride was dressed in copious blue satin. The bride's parents and two sisters, Edith and Greta, were present at the wedding. The newly wed will reside at Young's Cove. A few days before a shower was given the bride at the home of her parents, at which she received many useful gifts.

Jones-Scott

A quiet wedding took place last Friday at Hamilton, Ontario, when Miss Helen Scott became the bride of William M. Jones, of the Jones Realty Co., Toronto. After a short honeymoon motor trip, which included a couple of days in New York, visiting the mother and sister of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Jones took up house keeping at 45 Lake Shore Drive, New Toronto. Mr. Jones is a Bear River boy, and went overseas with the first contingent, and after many casualties including the loss of an eye, and receiving several medals. He was associated with the late Sir Eric Swayne, in Belgium relief work, and later was with the first army of occupation in Germany.

BERNIUM'S DREAM BEING SHATTERED

The dreams of a forest empire envisioned by the late J. D. Bernium, Canadian millionaire and timber conservationist, who died in Paris in 1933, is crashing to earth in the probate courts across the continent. The lifetime of effort which made Bernium the out-landish conservationist of the country, has been brought to nought and already the ring of the axe and the rip of the saw is heard in the vast virgin reserves which Bernium the idealist had intended for posterity.

In Nova Scotia the Bernium interests in forest land, totalling tens of thousands of acres, in Annapolis, Lunenburg and Victoria counties, are up for sale and his estate will be formally closed in the Probate Court at Annapolis Royal within a few weeks. In far-away British Columbia the big 2,000-acre Cowichan reserve of Douglas fir has already been sold and the greater part of it cut down for the market.

Bernium's zeal for conserving forest resources had carried him into all corners of the earth; he had spent great sums of money in establishing "perpetual" timber reserves, and had conducted a vigorous, personal campaign in newspapers and elsewhere against the dangers of thoughtless and wasteful exploitation of timberlands. But in spite of all this his dream of an empire of forest reserves failed. It failed because F. J. D. Bernium neglected to make any provision for the continuance of his campaign after his death.

Mr. Bernium died in Paris in 1933 without making a will. He had always said that the making of a will was an "admission of old age." Nor had he made any other provision for the perpetuation of the reserve; he had so laboriously created. He always had a distrust of governments and sooner than deed his reserves to government bodies had during his lifetime preferred to pay taxes on the properties and administer them himself.

Large Holdings

During the years between 1918 and 1925 Mr. Bernium spent much of his time in Nova Scotia, through the Bernium Forest Foundation (Nova Scotia) Limited, which he controlled personally, he held upwards of 20,000 acres, most of which is in Annapolis county. Together with associates he purchased 310,000 acres of the Macleod Pulp Company and other properties, and an additional 160,000 acres through the Annapolis Royal Lumber Company. At one time he was also interested in lands in Victoria County and was the original purchaser of the "Big Lease" in Victoria and Inverness Counties.

Mr. Bernium's estate in Nova Scotia will be closed within a few weeks. The beneficiaries, who are his widow, four daughters and one son, are said to be anxious to convert all the late Mr. Bernium's timber into cash as quickly as possible, and already they are advertising for tender for purchase of it in parcels that have properties in British Columbia and elsewhere have already been disposed of in this manner.

In British Columbia

Frank J. D. Bernium had visioned the preservation for posterity of one of British Columbia's finest stands of big timber, Douglas fir sticks, running from nine to eleven feet in diameter, 350 years old, and situated in one of the most beautiful parts of Vancouver Island. To this end he established a 2,000-acre Bernium Forest Reserve on the Cowichan River, near Duncan.

Now the great trees are being cut down and within a few years the Bernium dream will be a waste of stumps and brush except, perhaps, for a tract of 200 acres comprising the most beautiful part of the forest with trout streams and magnificent falls in it. This was deeded to an old friend, Chandler Hovey, of Boston, who may retain it.

Born In Montreal

Mr. Bernium, 74 years old when he died, was born in Montreal, a descendant of an old Norfolk, England, family. As a young man he bought large tracts of timber in Nova Scotia and Maine, ultimately disposing of them except for 300,000 acres in Nova Scotia and some holdings in Maine, Pulp and paper companies, purchased several million acres from him during and shortly after the war. He amassed a fortune estimated at various times as high as $30,000,000.

From 1920 on Mr. Bernium devoted his energies to a reforestation campaign. He had a mailing list of 3,000 which he personally attended, sending out pamphlets on forest conservation every week to all parts of the world.

Mr. Bernium was at one time a member of the Nova Scotia Legislature. He was elected from Queen's County in the general election of 1925, but only sat during one session, that of 1925. He resigned soon afterwards.

He visited China and was so disheartened by the barrenness there that he resolved to create a perpetual reserve in British Columbia, safe from windstorms and bad fire hazards, yet accessible to the public.

Consultation with two old friends, R. W. Hibbertson and W. B. Ryan, who were at the time of the Cowichan River, led him to the 320-acre tract of Lady Strathcona, which had been acquired about thirty years ago by Lord Strathcona. The then governor-general of Australia saw it on one of his trips home from Canada, and bought it for his children.

Secured Great Acreage

Property was acquired until the reserve aggregated more than 2,000 acres and at the time of Mr. Bernium's death Hibbertson and Ryan were negotiating for the purchase of an additional 900 acres. An attempt to purchase 200 acres from Sir Oswald Stoll, London financier, was unsuccessful.

In 1932 Mr. Bernium was invited to Rome by the Italian minister in charge of reforestation to give his advice on the program upon which Italy had embarked at Premier Mussolini's direction. Mr. Bernium journeyed to Rome and talked with Il Duce. He contracted a cold, however, and on the return journey became ill and died of pneumonia in Paris.

No will was found and his great British Columbia preserve was "disposed of" to private interests.

British Columbia has other stands of big timber but the only extensive tract readily accessible or on the highway is that of Cathedral Grove, near Cameron Lake, between Nanaimo and Alberni.

Big Money Paid for Jokes

Do you want a good job, one which is never mentioned by the vocational guidance experts and has been forgotten by the census-takers, but one which pays from $200 to $1,000 or more a week? If you do, write jokes.

Gag writing is the very serious business of making funny men funny. The gag writers produce those funny lines which comedians recite, causing you to laugh or turn off the radio. The business at present is dominated by about fifteen or twenty men, but if you're funny enough you can break into the game.

About 100,000 gags are written each year for radio. Movies and what remains of good old vaudeville also use and need plenty of ribs that really rib. It is estimated that each comedian who receives anything from a few paltry hundred dollars to as high as $10,000 weekly, uses about 1,500 gags a year for a weekly one-hour programme. Possibly 25,000 are considered.

Depression Fosters Jokes

A radio diet so rich in comedy has a reason: The depression. Listeners all over the country have been laughing off their troubles with one of the cheapest forms of entertainment.

Well known among the hidden profession of gag writers are David Freedman, who writes or has written lines for Eddie Cantor, Burns and Allen, Block and Sully, and other fun makers. Harry Conn, who does the writing chores for Jack Benny, Billy K. Wells, who writes for Jack Pearl; Sam Carleton, who works with Joe Penner; Harry Tugend, Doc Rockwell, Harry C. Green and Eugene Conrad.

Gag writers all have their individual methods of achieving effects, just as any other type of writer. But the chief stock in trade of the funny-magazine devoted two whole pages of one issue to different variations of the same theme. The famous gag line: "Did I or did I not order a room with a private bath?" has been used under at least a half dozen different cartoons.

Personality a Factor

Gag writing is not, of course, as mechanical as this outline may indicate. The comedian injects his personality or dialogue into it. The same joke told by Joe Penner in his easily mimicked and imbecile dialect would differ strikingly from the more sophisticated rendering of Beatrice Lillie. The comedian has his own style, mannerism, and type. Eddie Cantor is the smart but offensive type. Ed Wynn is the "teched-in-the-head" type. Eve Sully is the "dumb" type. Raymond Knight is the "cuckoo" type, and Grade Allen is the well, probably "incongruous" is the word that best describes her brand of masterful side-splitting.

Most of the comedians who come from other theatrical fields—vaudeville, burlesque, or musical comedy—depend on regular gag writers. But the all-too-few comics developed by radio, such as Stoopnagle and Budd, and Raymond Knight, write most of their own material and never employ helpers.

Perhaps it is the fact that they were "nourished in the nursery of the kilocycles and grew up in the bedlam of radio" that makes it possible for them to meet the demands of the radio in both preparing and delivering the jokes of the trade to the laughing audience.

George was sitting reading a newspaper when his wife entered the room. "George," she said, "what do you think? Mother wants to be cremated."

"Right!" said George throwing the paper on one side and springing to his feet, "where is she? Tell her to put her things on."

The world's first bird tax has been imposed by the Motavian town of Zabrak. All birds kept in cages are to be taxed, some more heavily than others. Canaries and nightingales will cost their owners $5 a year in tax. Many poor persons must give up their pets.

The Grand Duke Nicholas was a great figure who well carried on the dignity that was Russia's after the Revolution. He died in 1927 and his widow followed him last week.

Freshmen Always Funny

Another pigeon hole in the joker's desk is the domestic joke, often sharpest when coined by the cynic or the disillusioned realist. The innumerable number of variations on the husband-wife, ice-man joke belong partly in this grouping. The mother-in-law in the rumble seat, the husband in the kitchen, and the frisky grandmother usually are also cauded here.

Another category is the underdog, children or weakling joke. This group includes the Mr. Milquetoast, the green freshman, and the cute sayings of children. Often the joke is funnier if the comedian unknowingly bests the bully, such as Chaplin and Lloyd have done so often in the films.

A refined, frail professor says: "Now, you must cook your eggs this way," is an example of another classification—incongruity. Still another instance is that in which one of two men falling down a deep well says to his companion: "Don't worry, they say it's bottomless."

A final category is the topical, or many type of joke brought up-to-date. Any stories on the front page of the daily newspaper furnish opportunity to use this device, and it is almost sure-fire when fresh. Will Rogers was topical in one way, but his humor was far more personal and opinionated than his comic contemporaries.

Strange Language Used

Gag writers use picturesque terms to describe the various laughs produced by their jokes. An extra large "belly laugh" is referred to as a "yuk-cha-de-bokcha," although it seems so difficult to pronounce that one feels certain that it is used sparingly, probably by only a few of the comedians themselves. Beatrice Lillie, who uses only the cream of the jests, could probably get away with that word with ease. A regular light laugh is called a "lighty." A soft laugh or titter is termed a "tittam-tittam."

"Twisting" a joke is the device that makes the large number of jokes possible from the few usable formulas. There are probably thousands of variations of the joke: "Who was the lady I seen you with last night?" and the well known answer: "That was no lady, that was my wife." Originated in an old-time minstrel show, this gag became so popular several years ago that a popular co-

ABOUT VIEW FINDERS

You will not cut your friends in two if you use your view finder properly.

"How did I ever happen to do that when I took this picture? There are the fish and part of Bill but I certainly did a fine job of cutting him in two." Haven't you heard those old words before? Sure you have.

The answer is very simple. The lad taking the picture failed to use the view-finder properly, when he made the shot. He probably saw that the string of fish was in view, but he quite overlooked the fact that the proudly grinning Bill was neatly cut in two.

Most modern cameras have two kinds of "view-finders." First, of course, is the familiar reflecting finder—the kind into which you peer from above. Properly shaded, it will give you an accurate idea of what each shot includes. There is the "direct" view-finder; mounted on the top or side of the camera. In using it you hold the camera at eye-level and sight through two rectangular openings. What you see, the camera will get.

With either or both of these finders there is really little reason for failing to get what you want in a picture. Of course, there are limits, defined by the size and shape of the film and the capacity of the lens. You have to select the most interesting bits of a scene and concentrate on them. When an artist does this, he "composes" his picture. Many volumes have been written on the subject of composition, but the whole idea may be boiled down to this: Good composition is simply a pleasing arrangement of the elements of a picture, an arrangement that puts the emphasis on the most interesting feature.

A little care in using your view finder will, almost invariably, give you a well composed picture. For your eye will reject an arrangement that is confusing or displeasing; it will warn you that somebody's head is going to be lopped off; it will reveal whether or not the finished picture will tell a story—the story you had in mind when you unlimbered the camera, for "telling a story" is the essence of a good picture.

Although we have only ourselves and a few friends to please we can increase that pleasure vastly by pausing, just before we click the shutter, to check up our picture in the view finder. If it's what we want—five aces! And when the finished picture comes back, we shall certainly not begrudge those few seconds of concentration on the view finder.

Miss Phyllis Dickie entertained a number of her friends at a birthday party on Monday evening.

Mrs. B. J. Roop has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Sully, in Des Moines, Iowa.

Tonight, at the theatre, the old favorite, Douglas Fairbanks, is leading in Don Juan. Sounds rather Spanish, doesn't it? Doug Fairbanks is certainly a thriller as far as action goes, so you who like action, don't miss the picture tonight and tomorrow. Oh, yes, it's a double feature—be nearly forgot. "Among the Missing," with Richard Cromwell and Richard Cromwell. Remember him in "McFadden's Flat?"

On Monday and Tuesday a different type of picture is showing—Grace Moore in "One Night of Love." You have all heard the theme song over the radio. Miss Moore has a beautiful voice and is one of the leading stars of the day. Those who like romantic pictures be sure to see "One Night of Love." Then, on Wednesday and Thursday, is the picture, "Born for Glory," starring Betty Balfour and Barry Mackay. To date we have not the story of the picture, but from all we've seen of the rest of Mr. Mackay's pictures, it can't help but be good. Keep in touch with the delectable that have been given out by the Theatre: they give an outline of the pictures for the next two months and there are certainly some grand ones coming—Robert, "Naughty Marietta," "Painted Veil," "Private Worlds," and many others.

Mrs. Muriel J. VanBlarcom, of Halifax, is visiting her father, Mr. J. VanBlarcom, Mrs. Mary Morgett, who spent several weeks with her sister, Mrs. Fred Smith, Smith's Cove, has returned to Brighton. REMODELLED

During the past few weeks, the Royal Department Store has been completely changed in appearance. When it opened a few years ago it was a distinct departure from the average small town store by adopting a great many of the methods of the up-to-date city chain store—and from time to time this store arrangement has been changed, always with an eye to improvement. But the most radical changes have taken place during the last few weeks. The visit will show that practically every department has been changed—but especially the grocery department, which has now developed into a self-help grocery. Efficient sales ladies are in attendance to help any customer who has difficulty in locating what he or she desires. The store now gives steady employment to eight young ladies and partial employment to several others.

ANNUAL MEETING CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Digby, was held in the Court House, here, on Friday evening last, with the President, Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson, presiding.

The report of the Treasurer, Dr. J. S. Timpany, was one of the best to be presented for some few years. Dr. Timpany reported the over-draft of over $200 had been reduced to $58.02, with all expenses paid to date, and a sum of slightly more than $9.00 receivable. Dr. Timpany in his report paid tribute to the work that had been accomplished by the "Little Helpers of the Children's Aid" a group of young girls who have organized themselves to assist the society. Last year they turned into the treasurer $24.10.

Concluding his report and comments, the Treasurer tendered his resignation from the office he had held for two years, during which time he has succeeded in cutting down the over-draft from over $300 (two years ago) to the present $58. However, he was persuaded to take office for at least another year.

Austin L. Robbins, the Society's agent, in his report, reported two wards added to the Society during the year, bring the total since organization, up to 92, 18 of whom are in boarding homes and 9 in institutions. 29 are in foster homes, 16 have been returned to parents, 2 have died, 2 have married, and the others have become of age, or are self supporting.

During the year the agent had travelled by car more than 4,000 miles in the work of the Society, and by train, over 1,000 miles. He had made over 200 visits to wards, and investigated many cases.

A vote of thanks to W. R. Fillmore, who audited the treasurer's books, was passed, as was a vote of appreciation to Rev. F. E. Bishop, a past President of the Society, and a valued worker. Members expressed keen regret at losing Mr. Bishop.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows:

President—Rev. T. W. Hodgson.

First Vice-President—Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch.

Second Vice-President—Rev. A. G. Robertson.

Secretary—J. M. Wallis.

Treasurers—Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Timpany.

Agent—Austin L. Robbins.

Agents Without Salary—Rev. A. J. Prosser and Mrs. Austin L. Robbins.

Executive Committee—Mrs. S. J. Abbott, Mrs. C. G. Sturgeon, Mrs. P. W. Holdsworth, Mrs. E. DuVernet, Mrs. F. C. Purdy, F. C. Purdy, Rev. C. L. Blanchard, Rev. A. E. Gabriel, Miss Ina O'Brien, Miss Jean Anderson, Miss Dorothy Moses, Miss Elizabeth MacWhinnie, Mrs. Reginald Weir.

FINE DISPLAYS

This week, we are taking as an example of an outstanding store, the one opposite the post office—Wright's. Have you been in to look over their Christmas stock? Their display is exceptionally fine this year, and one feels on entering that the customer is indeed welcome. The color schemes are of a warm appearance for these wintry days, and the whole store seems to have a warm atmosphere. The clerks are characteristic of the place and make you feel welcome. Read their advertisement in today's paper—then go and see their stock. You cannot help but buy.

Miss Marion Roop spent the week end in Halifax.

The annual Christmas Tree and Sale will be held in the Baptist Vestry on Wednesday, December 11th. Supper ticket, 50 cents.

George Barnett, of Halifax, is spending a few weeks in Digby.

Miss Meredith Morehouse and J. F. Rafuse, teachers in the Centreville school, were in town on Monday.

The hospital calendars will be collected this coming week. We have been requested to ask all who have them to have them filled and ready for the collectors.

Mrs. A. M. Noseworthy, of Halifax, has taken up residence with her son, W. H. Webber, manager of the Royal Store.

The School and Community Club, of Barton, met, this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Parker Lamberton.

The ladies, of the Baptist Church at Barton held a successful tea and sale last week. The ladies of the United church held one this week.

The 1936 fashions for photographs are different. Let us show them to you. Give friends the best for Christmas. Prices reduced.—Yates, Digby.

Local and Personal

Miss Marjorie Tupper spent the week end in Halifax.

Miss Margaret Stewart spent Sunday in Annapolis, Royal.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Kirkpatrick spent the week end in Halifax.

Mrs. A. N. Eldridge, of Sandy Cove, was a visitor to Digby on Friday last.

Anyone not having received Christmas Seals may get them from Mrs. George D. Turnbull, (Telephone 106).

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Short plan to leave on Tuesday for St. Petersburg, Florida, where they will spend the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. David Ellis were called to Lynn, last week on account of the serious illness of their granddaughter, Arlene Henshaw.

The Ladies Aid of Bethel United Church, Centreville, will hold a Christmas Sale in the hall on Tuesday evening, December 17th.

Rev. Alvin G. Robertson, who arrived last week to succeed Rev. F. E. Bishop as pastor of the Digby and Hill Grove Baptist churches, was well received by large congregations at both places on Sunday.

Sittings at eight by appointment. Edison floodlights better than daylight.—Yates, Digby.

Halifax post office officials stated this week that mail for delivery in European countries before Christmas should be mailed to connect with the steamer Montclair, closing at the Halifax post office tomorrow.

The petition of the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Company to install the dial system of telephones at Port Mouton and Weymouth was granted by the Public Utilities Board at Halifax on Tuesday.—And Digby, which has more telephones than any other town of its size in the province, still has to worry along with the old grindstone method of using the telephone.

Dr. H. W. Kirkpatrick, of Halifax, will be at his office in Middleton, for treatment of diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, on Tuesday, December 10th, and Wednesday, December 11th, until noon. Glasses fitted.

The hunting season in the United States has taken the lives of 87 hunters, according to the latest survey. Most of the mishaps occurred in the northern tier of states with New York reporting the most fatalities with 21. Maine and Minnesota were second and third, with 13 and 10 respectively. By sections the deaths reported were: New England, 23; Eastern, 21; Mid-Western, 33; Western, 7; and Southern, 3. This is certainly a deplorable record.

FORMER WESTPORT MAN KILLED

Word was received at Weymouth on Wednesday morning of the death of William Moore, of that place, formerly of Westport, male of the term schooner. Daniel Getson, of which his brother, Capt. Arthur Moore, is master, when he fell into the hold on November 17th, while on a voyage from Barbados, to Jacksonville, Florida, and was almost instantly killed. He is survived by his widow, now residing in the United States; one daughter, Miss Winnifred Moore, of Weymouth; and several brothers and sisters, including Mrs. Gordon Morehouse, of Centreville; Capt. Arthur Moore, of Weymouth; Albert and Fred Moore, of Westport, and another brother who is a Baptist missionary.

Town of Digby Loses Appeal in Trimmer Case

At a sitting of the County Court, here, yesterday, His Honor, W. A. Livingstone, County Court Judge for District No. 3, gave his decision in favor of the defendant in the case of the King vs. Norman Trimmer. This case was an appeal from a decision against Trimmer handed down by Town Stipendiary Magistrate, Bernard Healy, early in the summer. Trimmer's appeal was heard by Judge Livingstone on September 16, and decision was reserved by his honor.

Information against Trimmer was laid by the Town of Digby some months ago, accusing him of selling meats within the incorporated town without a license. In this case an argument was raised on the point of law as to whether the town's by-law in regard to peddlers' licenses was ultra vires or not. Trimmer claimed that the town had no right to impose a license on peddlers of produce of forest, farm or sea.

In the decision of Judge Livingstone, the costs of the appeal are to be paid by the Town of Digby. The town was represented by Town Solicitor, E. J. Theriault, and the defence by R. W. E. Landry.

The appeal of the King vs. W. L. Holdsworth, charged under the Intoxicating Liquor Act, Sect. 68 2a, was also heard yesterday, and decision reserved. The case was dismissed by Stipendiary J. A. Taylor some weeks ago, and appealed by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

FARM ARISTOCRATS

The Nazi government is forming a "puppet aristocracy" in Germany. There has long been an aristocracy of wealthy land-holders there, especially in Prussia, but this group takes in the little fellows.

There are two important requirements: The farms shall be "hereditary," the land passing from the father to the eldest son, and the families must be "racially approved." Like all Nazi procedure, there is a great deal of red tape and drama about this. The farmers or peasants, when Nordic and hereditary, are distinguished as the very backbone of the Reich.

Dr. Friedrich Schuler, head of the agricultural guild says: "The peasant through his close connection with his native land and with nature develops forces which cannot be dispensed with for the development of characteristic national culture. When we speak of peasants and peasantry we do not mean people who are out of touch with the exploitation of the land. We think of people whose souls are linked with the land."

There might be great good in such a movement, but Canadians will shake their heads sadly at such illogical and unfair limitations as disinheritance of daughters and younger sons, and exclusion of any racial group from the land. This is a throw-back to medievalism.

In the good old days, the only things that ever went bust were suspender buttons and corset strings.

CRITICS

There are two kinds of critics, those who say "it can't be done," and those who question the way it is being done. The first kind is destructive, the second may be constructive.

Destructive criticism has been obstructive of human progress, sometimes even of achieving achievement in spite of it.

Constructive criticism has promoted progress, sometimes aiding advancement beyond expectation.

Destructive criticism delayed the Wrights many years; constructive criticism helped them solve one problem vital to the success of their airplane.

If you must be a critic, be a constructive critic and help along progress in whatever encourages your criticism, thereby contributing to the welfare of mankind.

By the time one brings wisdom to a man he is usually too old to have any use for it.

EFFICIENCY NEEDED

The keynote of present government administrative agencies—local, provincial and federal—seems to be, "Spend, spend, spend." Everywhere those in power search out and pounce upon every possible source of taxation, and every known source of revenue is milked dry of every dollar it will yield.

It would be bad enough if the taxes were used for the efficient administration of government, but when the hard-earned dollars of poor, hard working people are diverted by unscrupulous politicians to satisfy their lust for personal power and social prestige, it is time to put a stop to this unnatural situation.

No sober-minded citizen will deny that our government can be administered more efficiently with the expenditure of less money. If the cumbersome, outmoded governmental machinery were scrapped, and "a clean plan" of efficient government, we would soon be fairly on the way to complete recovery.

The only trouble with a woman changing her mind is that the new one doesn't seem to work any better.

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it in comparison with Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach, or often for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct. Remember this: "Aspirin" is rated among the safest medicines yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains, and is safe for the average person to take regularly.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Germany. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

BETTER STAY YOUNG

We are hearing a lot these days about this being a young folks' world. Too many of us accept that situation and begin to peep around the corner at that old-age pension.

Say, what's the idea? We're just as old as you think we are. Let's stay on the young side of the fence and keep moving. There is still work to be done, and we grown-ups are the ones to keep right on doing it. It is much too soon for us to turn everything over to the youngsters so we can go to snooze in the shade and dream about that pension.

Rhubarb, says an oculist, is good for the eyes. Why not try crossing it with grapefruit?

To combat an unexpected increase in unemployment during the winter, the German government is planning an elaborate new program of public works, including an electric railroad, a huge landfill for dirt, and harbor improvements. Present work projects include construction of canals and highways and erection of new munitions factories in general part of Germany.

How can you check these burglars? They entered a Boston apartment last week and boldly removed a 100-pound safe while a watch dog in the apartment slept through the operation.

THE TALKING DRUMS OF AFRICA

The real enigma of the drums lies in the enormous area of Africa over which the news of great events has undoubtedly been spread.

"The most noteworthy example in recent times occurred when the news of the death of Queen Victoria was carried to West Africa. Native emissaries, hundreds of miles from railways and telegraph lines immediately began talking of the death of the 'Great White Queen.' Government officials received confirmation of these drum messages days and weeks afterwards.

"Again, when Khartoum fell and General Gordon and his staff died fighting, the details were known in Sierra Leone the same day. During every African campaign news has dashed across Africa in this way. Before the Ashanti campaign the British military authorities were aware of the fact that the entire native fighting forces in the territory could be mobilized within a hour, if the declaration of war. "From east to west, from south to north, the drum news travels. The rising of Lobengula and the Matabele impis in 1893 was known almost immediately, from Mombasa to Accra."

THE FIRST BANKS

Few things play a more important part in our lives today than the system of banking.

The word bank originally meant a trading-post, and the first bank in anything like the modern sense existed about 2,700 years ago. We learn about this bank from clay tablets discovered near Babylon. Apparently the first firm of bankers was that of Egnat and Son, who flourished in Babylon about 600 or 700 B. C. The early Chinese were in the habit of issuing paper money—in the form of a cross on every tablet.

But banking as we understand it today did not begin until the twelfth century, when the Bank of Venice was established. This was followed by the Bank of Barcelona, in Spain, and the Bank of Stockholm, in Sweden. The latter was the first bank in Europe to issue paper money. This was in 1668. Other early banks were the Bank of St. George, at Genoa, the Bank of Hamburg, and the Bank of Amsterdam.

LINER LAUNDRY

The giant luxury liners of today, excite universal admiration because of their speed and lavish comfort. But one seldom hears anything of their laundry arrangements despite the importance of this domestic feature. The washing of the Olympic, Homeric and Maestric, for instance alone amounts to nearly 450,000 pieces, including 25,000 blankets, 10,000 more of sheets among other items.

Towels reach the enormous figure of 170,000, there are over 100,000 table napkins, 15,000 bed covers and no less than 17,000 tablecloths. In the course of a year the three liners use the colossal number of six million pieces of linen. Renewal of this laundry bill is in the neighborhood of $200,000. It has been calculated that if all the washing belonging to these ships were pegged out on a giant clothes line it would stretch for more than four hundred miles; or if laid out on the grass to bleach it would cover some 120 acres—a fairly large farm.

Good Reason

The old Indian was riding along the road on his pony, while his squaw followed on foot heavily burdened with luggage.

Passing Motorist—"Say, Redskin why isn't your wife riding?"

Indian—"Ugh! She got no pony."

WHOSE BOY? YOURS?

The brewer, ever on the alert for business, is making a bid for the boys of today. The salvation of his business depends on his capturing the boys. The salvation of the boys depends on their evading capture. But the plotting goes on in cool, hard-headed fashion. Here is what the Brews' Guardian said in its issue of June, 1928: "We must have sufficient faith to keep on advertising. A continual and never-ceasing pressure and persuasion is essential, not only to preserve old and regular customers but to capture the younger generation growing up." From the Brews' Journal we take this paragraph: "It is not so much a question as to whether existing beer drinkers can be made to drink more beer, but as to whether their sons and daughters will take custom to this beverage."

On June 15, 1933, Sir Edgar Sanders, Director of the Brews' Society, speaking before the Birmingham and Midland Counties (England) Wholesale Brewers' Association, uttered these words, which may well be regarded as the Brews' Manifesto: "It is not so much the present drinker who should drink more, but rather that we want new customers. We want to get the beer drinking habit instilled into thousands, almost millions, of young men who do not know the taste of beer. These young men, if they start with what they can afford to do, as they grow up they will afford better beers to the great advantage of the brewing industry."

Why, one would think from such statements that beer was one of the most healthful drinks. Instead of the destructive evil that it really is, surely these ardent advocates would not sacrifice the good of the millions of youth even for "the great advantage of the brewing industry." And yet one suspects their zeal for their own business has blinded their eyes to life's higher values. Here for example, are the considerations of Dr. L. D. Mason, an eminent American physician, vice-president of the American Society for the Study of Alcohol and Other Narcotics:

"To the thinking, considerate man, who wants to know the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, beer is not bread. It is not a food, it is a degenerator of tissue, of nerve, of brain cell, a protoplasmic poison, a source of physical, mental and moral decay and degeneracy, and it requires no prophet to predict the future of the man who uses it as an habitual indulgence, and how unreasonable it is on the ground of expediency and health and morality and temperance, to use such a beverage."

And yet it is to this that the brewers would win the boys and the girls of this generation! Whose hall it be? Yours? What young man or woman will be deceived by their subtle propaganda? You?

METEGHAN

Mrs. (Dr.) A. J. Deveau returned Friday from a visit to her old home in Buctouche, N. B., where her father, Wilfred Robichaud, is now living. She also visited her daughter, Miss Alfreda, who is a nurse at the Hotel Dieu, Moncton, and a sister, Mrs. Nowlan.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustin Dugas visited Friday to the funeral of Mrs. Jean N. Gaudet, of Concession, a sister of Mr. Dugas.

Mrs. Arcade Doucet returned last week to Chelsea, Mass., after a week spent with her mother, Mrs. Peter Doucet, who is sick.

Mrs. Beatrice Deveau and Miss Marie Thibodeau returned to Lynn, Mass., a few days ago after visiting their father, John J. Thibodeau, who is seriously ill.

The shower party organized Saturday by the ladies brought many valuable articles and pieces of furniture for the new Glebe house. The Women's Institute gave a nice electric lamp and the women of the Catholic League a splendid desk and office chair.

Mrs. Eddie Theriault attended the funeral of her brother, Cyrille Gendry, at St. Alphonse de Clare, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Peter Saulnier, of St. Alphonse, died last week.

Hon. J. L. P. Robichaud and Mr. Robichaud, and A. F. Hache, of Meteghan, attended the funeral of Anselme LeBlanc, at Church Point, on Saturday.

Mrs. Jules Theriault died on Sunday at the Yarmouth Hospital. Her remains were brought here for interment. Her husband only preceded her by three weeks. They had no children, but relatives and friends are numerous.

"Be gay! Our life is fuller and merrier today, and it is due to your efforts—our heroes of labor," declared Joseph Stalin, dictator of Russia in a recent address in Moscow. Stalin also recommended relaxation, food rationing, and other government disciplinary measures. Besides he hailed the huge red army as unconquerable and asserted that it is making Russia "invincible to foreign plotting" and safe from invasion.

CHEWING GUM

Chewing gum is probably one of the most widely used stimulants in the world, and it has had a romantic history.

Notable among the villains of American history is Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, who in 1836 led an overwhelming Mexican army against the Texan Alamo. This Santa Anna was a handsome, part-Indian general with a Napoleonic belief in his star, and a Napoleonic lust for power. His later career included several terms as President of Mexico, one stretch as dictator and several periods of exile. During one of the latter he came to Staten Island. He stayed a year and then sailed off to Mexico. But he left behind in his desk drawer a hunk of chicle, an act which has become more far-reaching than any other in his long and tempestuous career.

The hunk came into the hands of one, Thomas Adams. Adams began to experiment with the stuff. He tried without success to vulcanize it. Then he thought it might work as a setting for false teeth, but a dentist friend rejected it scornfully. Finally, he recalled that Santa Anna and chewed his chicle—an immemorial Mexican custom in which the chewer is accused the finishing white teeth of the Aztec maidens.

Thomas Adams, finding it sticky, boiled it, chewed it, and at last produced a delightfully chewy substance. He rolled this out with his fingers, rolling pin and sent it to a candy store in New Jersey. It was an immediate sensation. Box after box was sold until Adams was ordering more chicle and he and his sons were giving all their time to making the stuff. Later he added sugar and flavouring extracts to the chicle, and business boomed.

The yield of potatoes in Canada in 1935 is estimated to show a reduction of 9,500,000 cwt., or 19 per cent, as compared with 1934. The large decline was due partly to a decrease in the acreage of 42,400, or 1 per cent, and partly to the summer drought in Eastern Canada and British Columbia which reduced yields per acre to levels below those for 1934 and the long-time average.

Death spoiled the plans of Richard Bennett, 75-year-old pioneer, who tucked dry kindling wood and paper in a corner of his cabin, near Kichikan, Alaska, ready to light the fire whenever death threatened. Officials, who found him dead said he had evidently sat down on his bed and died of heart disease before he could fire his funeral pyre.

MEOW

A Mexican and an American worked together on a mine in Kansas. On several occasions the Mexican had rabbit for dinner, and shared it with his workmate.

One day the American asked: "Where do you get rabbits Jose? I can't find any."

My wife she get 'um, Jose replied. "Ever'night they come round the house and make noise. She shoot 'um."

"No.e? Rabbits don't make a noise."

"Sure," asserted Jose, positively. "Go, Meow, meow."

The production of concentrated milk in Canada for the ten months ended October 31, 1935, showed an increase of 10,493,831 pounds, or 13 per cent over the corresponding period of 1934. The 1935 output for the ten months was 53,774,571 lbs.

"Start with the high chair instead of the electric chair!" advised a Chicago man the other day, lecturing on "How to Take the Gang Out of Gangland."

ALBERTA'S 7-CENT GAS TAX IN COURT

The revenue collected by the Alberta government from their 7-cent per gallon tax on gasoline, amounting to a total of $1,724,462 in the last fiscal year, is now threatened by an action filed in the Supreme Court of Alberta by the Beaver Oil Company, claiming this gasoline levy is an indirect tax and as such is unconstitutional. The gas company claims that this 7-cent tax is collected from the consumers by the gasoline vendors as agents for the government and is in effect indirect taxation and so "ultra vires, and beyond the competence of the legislative assembly of the province of Alberta."

The provisions of the British North America Act, Canada's constitution.

state that the only taxation which the provincial governments are empowered to levy is "direct taxation within the province for the purpose of raising provincial revenue."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

ENLARGEMENTS AS GIFTS

Enlargements make just about perfect gifts for any occasion. Here are two different enlargements from the same snapshot negative; one for Dad's desk at the office and the other for the living room out at Grandma's.

EVERYTHING considered, snapshot enlargements are a lucky lot. As we have seen, they have the edge on ordinary mortals in the matter of really personal, meaningful Christmas cards. And snapshot enlargements are lucky in that they have the means of creating gifts of exceptional charm and value for any occasion.

These particular "means" are the snapshot negatives from which beautiful enlargements can be made. If you haven't yet experimented with enlargements, now's the time. If you have a darkroom of your own, where you develop and print your own pictures, one of the simple modern enlargers will make it a vastly more fascinating place. But you get practically the same pleasure—and uniformly excellent work-out-of-enlargements made from your films by any regular photo finisher.

In enlarging a picture you get not only a bigger, more realistic image but the opportunity to select the best part of any negative for magnification. Suppose you have a good negative of the youngsters at play in the sandbox—a picture which their grandparents would be delighted to have, enlarged, as a gift. But suppose there's something incongruous—a wash on the line, a lawn mower or anything else that doesn't add to the charm of the view—to the right or left of the children. With an enlargement, that distracting, unnecessary feature can be completely eliminated.

There's nothing complicated or difficult about enlarging. It's exactly

A word about subjects for enlargements—particularly if they're to be used as gifts. Choose pictures that will mean something to the recipients. A shot of Fluffy trying to climb a tree, or a close-up of the cat, will be vastly appreciated by big brother or sister away at college, but it won't mean very much to Aunt Cynthia who doesn't care for either dogs or cats.

Some of the best enlargements we've seen have been landscapes—or seascapes. Mountains usually make good pictures. But if they're to be given as remembrances, choose landscapes familiar to those who will get the pictures.

SAM LANGFORD GETS JOB THRO' NEW YORK'S MAYOR

Sam Langford, the "Boston Tar Baby," who boxed the best of them between 1902 and 1923, called at the New York City Hall a few days ago at Mayor LaGuardia's invitation, confessed that he was broke and went away with a job.

The mayor had invited the interview after reading that Langford had been struck by an automobile several weeks ago as he was crossing a Harlem street. Sam put in two weeks in Harlem Hospital. On the day he called on the mayor he was wearing the same overcoat he had worn when the accident occurred. The coat had a large rip in it, but Sam was healed. With a wide grin he said the doctor couldn't do much for the coat.

Langford is 49 years old and admits that he is old as boxers go. His sight is almost gone, and he was taken into City Hall on the arm of a friend. In his prime he was 5 feet 6½ inches tall, weighed 200 pounds, and as one record has it, "was built more or less on the lines of a square block of wood."

After inquiring about his health the mayor told him to report to the 369th Infantry, Armory at Lenox Avenue and 143rd Street, near his home. Langford was vague about the details of the job, but there was no doubt that he was glad of it.

Langford began boxing when he was 16 years old and won his first fight in 1902. His last fight was on Oct. 19, 1923, when he knocked out Fireman Jim Flynn, in three rounds, in Mexico City. When Jack Johnson became heavyweight champion after beating Jim Jeffries, he refused to fight Langford for the title.

CENTREVILLE

Miss Violet Prime, R. N., who recently graduated from the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Prime.

Mrs. A. M. Gidney, who has been visiting friends, in Yarmouth, returned home on Saturday.

Mrs. Burnee Frost, of Little River, spent a few days last week with her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Shaw.

The Hockey boys held a Pie Sale and dance in the hall on Wednesday evening of last week. The sum of $22.00 was raised.

An interesting event of last week was a surprise party, arranged by Mrs. Frances Boutillier, to celebrate the birthday of her son, Angus. Guitar and accordion music, rendered by Carl Dimock and Victor Titus, also vocal solos by other guests, were much enjoyed. Bridge, forty-fives and crokinole were played. Dainty refreshments were served.

ANCIENT CHURCH, BY WHEN, TO BE DEMOLISHED.

The Church of All Hallows, Lombard Street, London, England, claimed to be the second oldest ecclesiastical foundation in London, is to be demolished.

The present church, which was the last to be reconstructed by Sir Christopher Wren after the Great Fire of 1666, will probably be re-erected in an outlying district, where the problem of ministering to new populations is constantly growing.

The sale of the present site, in the very heart of the "Square Mile" is expected to yield a huge sum for the work of the churches in "new districts."

A proportion of this sum will be given to dioceses adjoining London, where the problem of shifting populations is as great as that of London itself. Thus, it is believed, will end a long controversy over the preservation or demolition of All Hallows Church.

The east wall of the church was condemned as a dangerous structure in July, 1935. The parochial church council then asked the Bishop of London to appoint a committee to prepare a plan for the union of the benefice with that of St. Edmund King and Martyr, Lombard Street.

It is hoped that the present scheme will offer a permanent solution to one of the most acute aspects of the problem of empty city churches contrasted with populous areas outside the city which lack Christian ministrations.

One city church, that of St. Andrew, Wells Street, was re-erected some time ago on a new site at Neasden. Here effective ministrations is now offered to a population of about 600,000 people.

The original church of All Hallows, Lombard Street, was built on a plot of land granted by Britton of Grasmere to Archbishop Sigismund in 1053. The edifice as it stood in 1666 was partly destroyed during the Great Fire, and was rebuilt by Sir Christopher Wren between 1669 and 1694.

During the progress of reconstruction work two years ago, strewn left by the flames, were discovered on part of the old building which had been incorporated in the new.

The pulpit from which John Wesley preached his first extempore sermon remains in the church today. There also remains relics of three other city churches, demolished when the benefices were united with that of All Hallows.

Reconstruction work was carried out at considerable cost about twelve years ago. It was hoped that the edifice had been restored to permanent stability. These hopes were, however, destroyed when the east wall was found to be unsafe.

The church has been gradually relegated during the centuries to the comparatively small site which it at present occupies. Office buildings in the year 1865 finally put it out of view from the streets and the original outer gate was removed to the porch.

WILL BE MILD WINTER, SAYS INDIAN CHIEF

It's going to be a mild winter and there won't be much need for overcoats. Rubbers may come in handy, but mufflers will be out. This is the prophecy of Chief Sam Snake, of the Ojibway Indians, on the Rama Reserve, and his words are corroborated by Black Hawk, the tribal prophet, who himself has seen 72 winters and has been busy forecasting them for at least fifty.

Chief Sam Snake bases his weather prophecy upon nature's natural barometer, the far-reaching animals, and birds, a number of nature's signs. In a telegram received by the Toronto Passenger Department, Canadian National Railways, the Chief stated that the geese on their southward journey flew higher than they have for years, a sure sign of an open winter. The foxes and other fur-bearing animals have not donned their heavy coat this fall and the beaver and muskrat do not think that a winter home will be a necessity. Even the fish have not taken to deep water, as they would ordinarily do, if heavy frosts were promised.

Prophet Black Hawk goes even further than Chief Sam Snake. He predicts that in the north snow will not fall more than a foot in depth. This fact is indicated by the deer, which are scratching their horns on trees and bushes just twelve inches above the ground. Through some strange intuition, Prophet Black Hawk finds that deer invariably select as their scratching mark the depth that subsequent snow will fall. And to clinch his statements, the prophet claims that there will be practically no snow fall along the shores of Lake Ontario.

"No, 99, you have been granted a remission of your three-year sentence."

WE BELIEVE IN SANTA CLAUS

We certainly do, and all the good traditions that make Christmas time a season of joy and laughter and good cheer. We believe in real Christmas trees... holly wreaths... stars in the sky... in Christmas colors of red and green... and all the glitter associated with the Yuletide season.

Some there are, particularly at this season, who refuse to become excited, saying "Christmas is only for children... nothing more." But we always note that these same, called "hard-boiled" folks succumb about December 20th-24th... and then a mad dash to their favorite store to later emerge laden down with gifts for all their friends and relatives.

But we say to you—don't be like that! You'll be caught in it, the swift, emotional tide as last, and do what you, deep in your heart, want to do. The point is—Do It Now! Because you enjoy a far better selection—you buy to far better advantage.

This year, the world needs Christmas more than ever, with its ideals of kindness and good cheer and giving. Get ready Now—and be it much or little—GIVE.

"The reason I can't get along with my wife is that she wants to submit all our differences to arbitration."

"To arbitration?"

"Yes, she always wants to refer disputes to her mother."

WHY WORRY?

There are only two reasons for worry: you are either successful or you are not successful. If you are successful there is nothing to worry about; if you are not successful there are only two things to worry about. Your health is either good or you are sick. If your health is good there is nothing to worry about; if you are sick there are again only two things to worry about. You are either going to get well or you are going to die. If you are going to get well there is nothing to worry about. If you are going to die there are again two things to worry about. You are either going to Heaven or you are not. If you are going to Heaven there is nothing to worry about; if you are not, you will be so busy shaking hands with your old friends that you won't have time to worry at all.

So why worry?

MANY TONS SHIPPING BEING BROKEN UP.

There has been a great mortality among ships since 1934 due to the demand for more up-to-date vessels to meet the requirements of world trade, today, states the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. During that time, according to Lloyd's register, 652 vessels, representing over 1,843,000 tons have been, under the process of or about to be broken up. In addition 321,000 tons have been lost due to casualty or stress of weather. At the end of June, 1935, there were 167 new vessels under Lloyd's classification under construction, representing 929,038 gross tons or 72 per cent of the world total, of which 57 per cent was credited to Great Britain. During the year 1934, 35,280 vessels were put into commission under Lloyd's, an increase of 115 per cent in tonnage over the previous year and representing 67 per cent of the world tonnage, with Great Britain accounting for 398,703 tons and elsewhere 356,611. In 1913-14 there were 2,020,185 tons of new shipping registered by Lloyd's and in 1933-34 350,430 tons. There has been a steady reduction in laid-up tonnage indicative of the revival in world trade, it having fallen from 12,000,000 tons, two years ago to 8,000,000 tons last year and there is a further drop to 5,500,000 tons, in a total drop of 7,500,000 tons, in three years.

Willard Kinney and Elvin Marshall visited friends in North Range recently.

TEMPUS FUGIT

Sam Watson, a tall, solemn looking colored chap, making his annual trip for his holiday purchases, was a little belated, reaching the city on Christmas eve. Having finished his shopping, he was hurrying to the station to catch his train, when he stumbled; a jug fell to the sidewalk with a crash and the precious contents at once became a mere wet place on the concrete.

Sam stood for a moment, dazed by his misfortune. Then, as he turned away from the heart-breaking sight, he said in lugubrious tones: "Dah now! Christmas done come an' gone!"

Secretary

Hydro is Yours - - Use It

Do you want the clean, healthful ease of living with the aid of Electrical Appliances, or do you want the discomfort and drudgery of the out-of-date methods which must be endured where first class Electrical Service is not available.

Think of the clean, swift cooking of an Electric Range, with its elements at full heat at the turn of a switch; its beautiful oven at any temperature you desire for clean wasteless baking.

Do you want the mess and irritation of the old ice box with its sour, messy drain pipes, its drip pans to empty or upset, the mopping up after the ice man; or do you want the health and convenience which a General Electrical Refrigerator gives you with its constant, correct temperature; food stuffs kept sweet and wholesome, crisp and fresh for days. These features all mean the saving of actual time and health. You can have them at a cost far lower than ever expected. Just a few cents a day—the Hydro way.

Do you want the messy, back-breaking drudgery of the wash tub or the clean, efficient, gentle washing of clothes and linens by the A. B. C. Washing Machine.

Call at our show rooms and get acquainted with these appliances which can be purchased so easily by small monthly payments.

POWER BOARD IN NEW BUILDING.

The new office and show rooms of the Digby County Power Board was opened in the new Hayden Block, next to the Royal Store, Water St., on Monday of this week. On Monday and Tuesday, the opening days, many came from town and county, and visited the new premises, and expressed their satisfaction not only of the new quarters, but also of the fine stock of electrical appliances on display. Door prizes of an electric toaster or iron were given on the first two days. Monday's prize went to Mrs. Minnie Appleby, and Mrs. Guy Morehouse was the lucky winner on Tuesday.

The building in which the office and show rooms are housed is one of the finest—and the newest—in Digby's business section, having only been erected this summer.

Since the fire of January 6, which destroyed the Warner Block in which the Power Board was one of the tenants, they have maintained an office in the Court House.

BADMINTON NOTES

The Digby Badminton Club opened for their first game on Tuesday night. They started off with about a dozen paid members and everybody seemed to enjoy themselves. The games are all being held at the new St. Patrick's Hall, and for those who are waiting for sets to finish, other games are supplied, as Table Tennis, which was kindly donated by Harbor View Hotel, and the Club extends its heartiest thanks for the gift. Cards are supplied and magazines to read. The club is in hopes of arranging for other indoor games for persons who do not play Badminton. Anyone wishing to join may send in their name to Stanley Spray, secretary of the club. The next game are to be played tonight, any time after supper.

George Hubbard, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Digby Baxter for the past three weeks, returned to his home in Yarmouth last week. Mr. Hubbard is heard of station CJLS every Wednesday evening, in Hawaiian programmes.

THE WEATHER

Winter seems to be here. Yesterday morning we saw the first real blanket of snow on the ground—a little more than one inch on the level—and to tell the truth, winter overcoats did not seem at all out of the way. Nevertheless, the weather to date for the most part has been mild, and has meant, so far, quite a saving on fuel.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND LAYMEN IN SESSION.

Following a banquet in the public hall, Moschelle, and served by local men of the parish, members of the Laymen's Association of the Denary of Annapolis, motored to Round Hill where they held the annual business meeting of the Association, electing the following officers for the ensuing year:—

President—L. V. Harris, Bear River.
Vice-President—Kenneth Harris, Annapolis Royal.
Secretary-Treasurer—S. A. Keen, Digby.

The executive committee will be appointed by the election of one representative from the congregation of each church in the Denary, at the annual meetings of the various churches.

George E. Graham, president of the neighboring Association of Avon, was the guest speaker, and led in an interesting and instructive debate which touched on the various phases and activities of church life, stressing the importance of contact between congregation and rector; the benefits of the Duplex Envelope system, and other matters.

Marriages

LeBlanc-Thibault

St. George's church, of St. George, N. B., was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday morning, November 12th, when Miss Gertrude, daughter of George W. Thibault, of Six-hoo Falls, Digby County, became the bride of James LeBlanc, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emery LeBlanc, of Musquash, N. B. The bride wore a dress of deep blue silk crepe with silver trimmings, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, and white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. LeBlanc will make their home in South Musquash.

UNITED CHURCH BROTHERHOOD

The Brotherhood of the United Church held its regular monthly supper meeting in the church hall, on Tuesday evening. There was a good attendance, and they had as guests the Barton-Brighton Brotherhood. A fine supper was served and after routine business during which O. Wright was elected vice-president, Rev. C. U. MacNevin, of Weymouth, gave an illustrated lecture with some twenty slides, which are copies of world famous pictures. They were used to illustrate the place that art can take in religious education.

Are you wondering what to give your older son or daughter for Christmas? Why not pay their dues to the Badminton Club? It is a gift they will remember all winter. For particulars apply to S. A. Magee, or Stanley Spray.

Don't forget the re-opening of the Men's Class in the Baptist vestry on Sunday.

Arrested in Halifax last Friday, Burton Letteney appeared before Stipendiary B. Havel Monday morning and a preliminary hearing was set for a later date. Letteney was brought from the city to Digby on Sunday morning by Chief of Police Fred Thibault. The arrest was the result of a warrant sworn out last Tuesday morning charging Letteney with forging cheques.

There is every indication that this year's Christmas shopping period will produce really big results. In fact some prophets believe new records may be established in many lines.

IMPROVEMENT IN TELEPHONE SYSTEM DEMANDED

A special meeting of the Digby Board of Trade was held in the council chamber on Wednesday evening to consider several matters of vital importance to the town. The first was that of an improved telephone service. It was pointed out that although the domestic rates for telephones had risen from $20 to $30 since 1910, and those for commercial instruments from $20 to $40 in the same length of time, the service had not been improved in the slightest degree and that the system here dated back a quarter of a century. The importance of Digby as a tourist centre made it absolutely necessary that the system be improved. The board was unanimous in deciding to ask for the so-called battery automatic system instead of the dial system. Resolutions were drawn up to be submitted to the proper authorities.

The Board also considered increased bathing facilities at the Riquette. At its own expense the Board had built a five-compartment bathing house this last summer, but this proved to be far from adequate and it was decided to ask the incoming council to put a sum of $125 in the estimates, to double the number of these compartments and to clean up the beach.

Proper facilities at the "spur" pier for the scullion fleet and a berth for larger tugs, were also discussed. A resolution will be sent to the Hon. the Minister of Inland Revenue (sup. local representative), asking him to send an engineer down to look over the situation, the engineer to consult with the local committee, consisting of Mayor Shortliffe, E. C. Solloway, George Morrell and A. R. Turnbull, who know the local conditions and the requirements.

A request will also be made to have the "spur" adequately lighted for the protection of the many men using it, particularly during the scallop season.

Marriages

McBride-LeBlanc

At Stella Maria Church, Meteghan, on Monday morning, November 25, Rev. Leopold d'Entremont officiated at the marriage of Miss Elise LeBlanc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alpha LeBlanc, of Meteghan Centre, and Harold McBride, of the staff of the Philadelphia Record and eldest son of John T. McBride, of Halifax, formerly of Digby, and the late Mary Rose Comeau McBride. Mrs. Patrick LeBlanc, of Meteghan Centre, was patron of honor and the groom was supported by Alphonse LeBlanc, brother of the bride. As the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, Lohengrin's wedding march was rendered by the organist of the church, Mrs. Joseph S. LeBlanc, and during the Mass, besides several organ selections, the "Ave Maria" was sung. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which the happy couple motored to Yarmouth where they were guests of the groom's aunt, Mrs. Spurgeon Ritchie, until Tuesday, when they sailed by the steamer Yarmouth Junction on their way to Philadelphia, where they will reside. The bride was very popular in her home community. There were several shower-holds in her honor and on each occasion she was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. Testimony to the high esteem in which she is held by her many friends. Previous to joining the staff of the Philadelphia Bulletin and later that of the Philadelphia Record, the groom was engaged in newspaper work in Halifax where his father is a member of the staff of the Halifax Chronicle. The groom is a nephew of C. F. McBride, of Digby.

An unusual heavy shipment of live oysters went forward from Yarmouth Tuesday night when a total of 519 crates were shipped. It was expected that the arrival of so many at once would have a depressing effect on the market.

GROSSES COQUES FISHERMAN LOST HIS LIFE

Sometime Wednesday Fred Dugas, 44-year-old, fisherman of Grosques Coques, a few miles below Weymouth, lost his life in St. Mary's Bay. His body was found on the shore not a great distance from his home about 5.45 that evening.

Details as to just how the accident happened are lacking. Dugas is known to have left his home to follow his occupation as fisherman, some time between 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning, and about 3 o'clock in the afternoon a group of men saw an unmanned motor boat drifting about the bay, headed in the general direction of the wharf at Grosques Coques.

On further investigation it was found to be Dugas', 30-foot motor boat, but the lone fisherman was nowhere to be found. The gasoline tank had run dry. It is thought that the engine of the boat was running when the accident to Dugas occurred and that he unwittingly cruised about the bay for some time before the engine stopped for want of fuel. It is thought that Dugas fell overboard while working with his fishing gear.

At low water that evening men and boys of the village searched the shore for the body, which was found by a group consisting of his uncle, Kenneth Dugas; Max Melanson and Charles LeBlanc.

The unfortunate man, a widower, lived in a small house near the head of the breakwater, with his three children, Les, about 17 years of age; Dorothea, 12, and Lester, 7.

CHURCH ORGAN RECITAL

Holy Trinity Anglican church organ has been recently renovated and enlarged by Bryant, Keable, organ builder, of London, England. Mr. Keable, who is in the province for a short time, comes with the highest recommendations and has proved himself a master craftsman.

In addition to the general re-conditioning of the organ a new tubular pneumatic pedal system, oboe-gamba stop and tremulant have been installed at surprisingly low cost.

Mr. Keable will give an organ recital in Trinity Church, Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, when the congregation and others interested in music will hear the organ at its best.

O. Wright presided at Tuesday's luncheon of the Digby Kiwanis Club. As the speaker for this meeting had been unavoidably detained the time was taken up in discussing town matters particularly those which were to be considered at the next night's meeting of the Board of Trade. It was their decision to endorse the action of the Board in endeavoring to get an improved telephone service, and expressed a preference for the automatic battery system.

P. W. Holdsworth was asked to present the views of the Club at the Board meeting.

MISTAKES

The man who never made a mistake never lived and never will. Mistakes will be made by man so long as he lives.

Mistakes, unless intentional, are not the worst things a man may be guilty of, so long as he is willing to admit them.

The big mistake is not to admit a mistake when the one who made it knows as well as everybody that it was a mistake.

When a man refuses to acknowledge an error plain to everybody else, he not only denies his own intelligence, but questions that of others.

Indeed, he convicts himself of dishonesty and merits being called a fool by his associates.

Remember when you first noticed that the world was going to the dogs? Well, that was when you began growing old.

A HUSBAND'S POCKETS

That New York judge who ruled that a wife had a perfect right to go through her husband's pockets and take whatever she found wasn't fooling anybody. Nor was he adding to the sum of the world's wisdom.

Common law has been built up through custom and usage, and our statutes are founded largely on common law. Probably Caesar and Caesar's wife knew about this pocket business and it has been the common practice ever since.

So the wisdom of Solomon found a reflex in the decision of this New York judge. He couldn't have ruled otherwise and made the decision stick. As for the poor husbands—well, some of them may eventually devise a one-way pocket for their benefit. But it won't be by law.

If we in Nova Scotia keep on having fatal accidents as often as we have had this year, we won't have a great deal of need for the old life pensions.

WAR BY POPULAR VOTE

We ought to have a law transferring the right to declare war from parliament to the people as a whole. This should be an iron-bound, fool-proof policy which will give the people of this Dominion—those who will fill the trenches in the event of war—a chance to say whether or not we are ready to go to war. Under such an amendment, the country could not declare war unless the declaration was approved in a nation-wide referendum.

However, it is certain that such a proposal would meet with a good deal of opposition; and it is equally certain that its basic idea is logical. But it is the ordinary plain, everyday citizen who does the fighting, pays the taxes, and suffers the agonies of sacrifice when war comes. Then why not let him have the last word on whether war is to come at all?

A boy never gets much comfort out of his first cigar but he gets a devil of a lot of experience.

THE "MERCY" DEATHS

Opinion is naturally divided in the discussion which has followed recent stories of "mercy deaths", appearing both in English and American newspapers.

Those few cases in which physicians admit deliberately hastened death for patients doomed to hopeless, lingering, painful illness are being widely discussed from legal, ethical and humanitarian viewpoints. There has been both praise and censure for physicians involved.

Life is regarded our most precious possession. The taking of it therefore becomes our greatest crime. The power to inflict death is a dangerous one to entrust to any person. But this is only arguing one side of the case. There is the side of the hopeless, suffering patient to consider, and then it becomes easier to understand how humane motives may transcend even the legal or ethical aspects of the case.

So no matter on which side of his controversy our opinions may lie, it might be well if we were more tolerant of the other side. We should remember that judgment is not infallible, any more than suffering is bearable.

We read with interest that "retired office holders enjoy loafing in Ottawa and Halifax," and then wonder where they get this "retired" stuff.

COUPLE OBSERVES FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Major and Mrs. E. Stehelin, on November 23rd, celebrated the 40th anniversary of their marriage which took place in 1895, at the Holy Heart Seminary. Rev. Father Cochet officiating. The bride was Miss Annie Baldwin, of Timworth, Leicester, shire, England. She arrived by the steamer Labrador, and after the ceremony the couple left for New France Digby County, where she was welcomed by the Stehelin family and the Acadian workmen and lumberjacks, numbering about 100, who were engaged in building the new settlement.

Ten dollars was too much for a cow's tail, the county board sitting at Stevens Point, Wisconsin, decided. It awarded Mrs. Emma Volossek, the bound, fool-proof policy which will give the people of this Do-

ENGLAND LEADS IN SIZE OF NAVY

The United States goes into the current London conference with a navy slightly less powerful than Great Britain's but 300,000 tons more powerful than Japan's.

An official tabulation of comparative naval strength, made by the United States navy's bureau of operations, shows that the United States now has 67 undersea, or active, warships of 730,910 tons. By adding the 84 vessels of 280,450 tons now under construction, the United States has a potential naval strength of 1,011,360 tons.

The British fleet has 12 undersea vessels, 146 active, or active, ships of 877,338 tons, and are building 49 of 165,350 tons, which will give them 195 warships of 1,042,488 tons displacement.

Japan's undersea, or active, navy consists of 147 vessels of 570,085 tons. In addition, 37 vessels of 7,407 tons are under construction or appropriated for, giving a total of 84 ships of 667,496 tons.

Broken into various categories, U.S. ships, America's strength is as follows: 12 undersea battleships, 3 aircraft carriers, 15 heavy cruisers, 19 light cruisers, 8 destroyers, and 39 submarines.

The British fleet has 12 undersea battleships and battle cruisers, 6 aircraft carriers, 17 heavy cruisers, 15 light cruisers, 62 destroyers, 47 submarines.

In the Japanese fleet, according to available figures, are 5 battleships, aircraft carriers, 12 heavy cruisers, 17 light cruisers, 62 destroyers, and 7 modern submarines.

To achieve parity Japan would have to convert 343,804 tons into warships to equal the American tonnage of undersea vessels and ships now under construction. The Nippon is built up to virtual treaty length, and 12 ships already appropriated for are destined to replace vessels that will pass the age limit in the near future.

The United States is not yet up to treaty strength. It could still observe the provisions of the treaty and utilize tonnage sufficient to build 54 more warships in the next few years.

PROFESSOR HERO IN DEATH

All the Irish Free State is praising the independence of Professor Hugh McNeill, who died recently in Dublin Workhouse, where he had gone in failing health, and refusing all attempts to persuade him to leave it. When he was young all Ireland knew him as a gridiron star; when his football days were over the university knew him as its professor of classics, and scholars respected him as one of the greatest of linguists. But when age and ill-health dimmed his faculties he went to the workhouse, and nothing would move him. His successful brothers and his son highly placed in the Free State Government appealed to him in vain. He returned to his money, he tore up their checks; he had chosen his bed and would lie on it, and in this stern resolution he died.

STAVED A WHILE

Edward Melenkoff, 20, went to San Jose, Cal., jail, to visit Ira Baker, his best friend, and is still there. Baker is serving 60 days for theft. When Melenkoff arrived at the jail and saw him, Warden Semas remembered that there was a warrant out for him for larceny. Semas placed the two friends, together in the same cell.

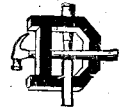

OBJECTED TO CHES

The 17th century Puritan objected even to the playing of chess. In the "Evile of Chess," a 17th century Puritan clergyman says that "the student that needeth chess or cards to please his mind I doubt hath a carnal empty mind."

THIEF LOST NERVE

"Here is your jewels. I am returning them. Please stop further investigation by police. I am returning two rings, an two pearl necklaces which is all I have." The note and jewelry were found in a broken bottle on the porch of Fred Tapp, Olean, N. Y., three days after the Tapp residence was forcibly entered and looted. It seems the thief lost his nerve.

Exports of Canadian cattle to the United States up to November 21 amounted to more than 121,000 head, during 1935.

Less than 50 years ago, Vancouver, a city of more than a quarter-million, had a population of only 600.

WILD FOWL MENACED

The mysterious disappearance of eel grass from the Atlantic seaboard between the Straits of Belleisle and North Carolina, may cause the total vacation of the Eastern Brant, popular game bird, from this part of Canada.

This picture, painted for the Saint John branch, New Brunswick Fish and Game Protective Association at a meeting in Saint John last month, was frankly sketched by Hoy's Lloyd, supervisor of wild life for Canada under the National Parks Branch Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

Accompanied by Robie W. Tuft, chief federal migratory bird officer, Mr. Lloyd spoke on wildfowl conservation.

Mr. Lloyd explained in detail the serious plight of the Eastern Brant which, during the past four or five years, has become seriously depleted along the Atlantic coast, especially in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

This state of affairs, he said, is generally believed to be caused by the odd disappearance of eel grass from this coastline since 1930. He began at North Carolina, the speaker said, and worked onward to the Straits of Belleisle, the northern extreme of the marine plant.

As eel grass, forms about 90 per cent of the food of the Eastern Brant the condition is serious. Efforts have been made to determine the numerical status of the brant, season by season, he said. The latest findings of those engaged in the survey are gloomy.

Mr. Lloyd said that unless eel grass recovers from the mysterious malady affecting it, it is feared by those in close touch with the situation, that the bird will continue to decrease until it vanishes from our shores altogether.

FOUR YEARS FOR THEFT

Accused of killing and selling the meat of an ox, property of Willie Boudreau, Pierre Comeau, of Condesion, at a speedy trial presided over by Judge Livingstone, was found guilty and sentenced to four years in Deychester penitentiary.

ANCIENT KITCHENS FOUND

Parts of kitchens believed to be at least 10,000 years old, have been unearthed near Kingston, South Australia. The ruins, thought to have been used by some of Australia's earliest inhabitants, the Uralians, consisted of 1400 sharp-edged areas of flint and many knives, all of the Palaeolithic Age. Basaltic stones had been built in the shape of ovens which may have been used for roasting kangaroos at ceremonies.

ARE YOU PUZZLED DADDY? HERE'S WHAT TO GIVE

Here are suggestions for parents and others doing Christmas shopping for children:

One to six months old:—Rubber ball and doll, rattle.

Three to six months:—Rubber toys, aluminum cup and spoon, small ball.

Six to nine months:—Blocks, wooden beads on string, leather reins with bells, large ball, bathtub toys of celluloid, Tinker toys.

Nine to twelve months:—Small drum or Japanese gong, basket for toys, stuffed animals, wooden and rubber dolls.

Baby beginning to crawl or walk:—Large balls to roll on floor, small flag car, rocking chair, horse, floor toys to push and pull, wooden train, etc.; doll carriage, several brick-chopped wooden blocks to push or lift (size 2 by 4 by 10 inches), toys to pull with strings, low swing—low enough for child's feet to touch the floor, strong chair to sit on and push about.

Two year old:—Sandbox and colored stones, sand toys, pails and mops, balls, large, soft wool, etc.; wooden blocks 4 by 4 inches, spoons, rattle with bells, tambourines, washable dolls, wooden or rubber; linen and heavy cardboard picture-books, wagon, block nest.

Two to five years old:—Board game, walking beam, slide, wheelbarrow, train of cars, broom and snow shovel, horse reins, balls of all sizes, large floor blocks of different shapes, musical toys, hammer and nails and soft wood, colored beads for stringing, dolls, unbreakable and shatterable, cooking utensils for dolls, doll furniture, telephone laundry equipment for dolls, stuffed or wooden animal, tools—real ones, sand, toy animals, humpy dumpty, circus, modelling clay, paints, chalk, paper, paste, blunt scissors, black-board, books.

Six year on:—Sewing materials, dolls, books, globes, maps, tools, work bench, musical instruments, stamp book, gymnasium apparatus, wagons, balls, boxing gloves, punches, bag, skis, skates, snowshoes, sled, doll furniture, real cooking sets, modelling clay, names of all kinds, electric trains, toy building materials, small sewing machine, usable laundry equipment, real dishes, typewriter, printing set.

This list was published in an issue of Mental Health, bulletin of the Mental Hygiene Institute of Montreal, and since reprinted and distributed by the Ontario Department of Health. Advice given included the following:—Choose carefully, buy only a few things, be sure they are good. In selecting play materials, keep in mind only the child's need and do not let yourself be tempted by what is interesting or attractive to you. Spend largely on raw materials rather than finished product and by intelligent and painful selection you will be sure to provide for the child the essential tools for satisfying and educative play—good toys and playthings.

NO WONDER WE PAY FOR CARS

In a list of salaries of General Motors executives, Alfred P. Sloan, president, gets $201,743, and William S. Knudsen, executive vice-president, $111,126. Twelve other directors receive a salary of more than $70,000 while some other twenty directors collect salaries of $35,000.

The greatest "money kings" in America are not the Rockefellers, the Fords, the Morgans, or the Mellons, but the DuPonts, of Delaware. Hidden in one of the smallest states of the union, living in feudal splendor, is this singular family—proud, aloof, oligarchic—which today controls a greater slice of American wealth than has ever before fallen into private hands. They are the DuPonts, of Delaware.

Last Friday was St. Nicholas' day. Nicholas, the original Santa Claus, was bishop of Myra, in Asia Minor, early in the fourth century. He became our Santa Claus, a legendary bringer of gifts to children, because of his generosity to young people, always giving secretly. So the answer to the inevitable questions would be that there was a Santa Claus and the others have been playing his part, just as actors play parts.

Marriages

Jones - Scott

A quiet but pretty wedding was celebrated recently in Hamilton, Ontario, when Miss Helen Scott, became the bride of William M. Jones, of the Jones Realty Company, of Toronto, and son of Frank Jones, K. C. of Digby. After a short honeymoon trip which included a few days in New York, Mr. and Mrs. Jones returned to Toronto and will make their new home at 45 Lake Shore Drive, New Toronto. Mr. Jones is a veteran of the Great War. He went overseas with the first contingent and after many casualties, including the loss of an eye, returned home. He was associated with the late Sir Eric Swayne in Belgium relief work, and later was with the first army of occupation in Germany.

DEEP BROOK

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vroom will be sorry to learn that their only son, Jack, was obliged to enter the Digby Hospital for an emergency operation for appendicitis, but will be pleased to learn that he is making a satisfactory recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Landers spent last week in Lawrence town and Midleton.

Mrs. John Adams returned home last week from a pleasant visit with relatives in Granville Ferry and Annapolis Royal.

Rev. Frank Bishop and Mrs. Bishop left here on Thursday of last week. Mr. Bishop is supplying the first Baptist church in Charlotte for the month of December, and Mrs. Bishop is spending the month with her son, Carl, in Fredericton.

Miss Ethel Spurr, R. N., was a recent guest of her sister, Mrs. Raymond Moore, en route to Kentville where she will spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Spurr.

Miss Barbara J. Shine left here on Tuesday to spend a few weeks in Foston with her mother, Mrs. Jeanne Shine. Mrs. Shine and Barbara expect to return for the Christmas season.

Rev. W. H. Turner returned on Thursday from Pawtucket, R. I., where he had been invited to occupy the pulpit of the Memorial Baptist Church of that city, on December 1.

Having received a unanimous call to become pastor of the above church, and having accepted the same, he tendered his resignation to the Deep Brook circuit of churches. He has had a successful pastorate of four years on this field.

(From our new correspondent) Jack Vroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Vroom, is recovering from an operation for appendicitis, performed at the Digby Hospital a week ago, and expects to return home this week.

Little Barbara J. Shine, who resides with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs.

Ernest Purdy, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Jennie P. Shine, Roxbury, Mass., for two weeks.

Mrs. Norman Sullis has returned from Massachusetts where she visited relatives. She was accompanied home by a niece, Mrs. Guy Ash, of Long Island, N. Y., who was her guest for several days.

The Dorcas Society of the Baptist church held a sale in the hall on Wednesday evening.

Rev. W. H. Turner, pastor of the Baptist churches of Deep Brook, Cleeve, and Smith's Cove, has tendered his resignation to take effect the last of this month.

Miss Cecelia Thomas, of Smith's Cove, was a guest recently of her aunt, Mrs. John Adams.

THE JOY OF GIVING

For somehow, not only for Christmas, but all the long year through. The joy that you give to others is the joy that comes back to you. And the more you give in blessing, The poor and the lonely and sad, The more of your heart's possessing Returns to make you glad.

—Whittier.

Sonny—"Dad, what does seeing the humorous side, mean?" Dad—"Well, I'll illustrate. A banana skin has two sides. The person who slips down on a banana skin sees the serious side and the one who laughs at him sees the humorous side of it."

TEACHER'S STUDY CLUB

The Teachers Study Club met at the Weymouth North School House on Saturday afternoon with the following teachers present: Miss Clara Hankinson; G. R. Pierce, Weymouth; Miss Louise Muller, R. B. Powell, Weymouth North; and R. O. Gibson, Weymouth Point. In the absence of both the President and Vice-President, G. R. Pierce, of Weymouth, presided.

The afternoon was spent discussing Current Problems, Teachers' Problems and making plans for the next meeting, which is to be held in Barton, the first Saturday in February.

Supper was served at The Outlook, the home of Miss Louise Muller, at Weymouth North.

CLARE NOTES

The Women's Institute, of Belliveau's Cove, held a social evening recently at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Emilion LeBlanc. Bridge and whist were in play. Honors for highest score in bridge were awarded to Mrs. Delphie Gaudet and Fred Belliveau, both of Belliveau's Cove. Consolations were presented to Mrs. Laura Theriault and A. J. Belliveau, both of Weymouth. Honors for highest score in whist were awarded to Mrs. Hilarion Theriault, and consolation to Mrs. Alphe Theriault, both of Belliveau's Cove. Afterwards a party sale was held and a very successful evening enjoyed.

The Clare Bridge Club was recently entertained by Dr. and Mrs. P. E. Belliveau, of Meteghan. Five tables of mixed bridge were in play. Honors for highest scores were awarded to Mrs. G. Dugas and J. F. Deveau, both of Meteghan. Consolations were presented to Mrs. Fred Belliveau and Vincent Blinn, both of Belliveau's Cove. Invited guests were Mrs. Rochaud, of Meteghan; Gabriel Cormier and Felix Poirier, both professors of St. Anne's College, Church Point. A delicious lunch was served, afterwards music and singing was enjoyed.

The Catholic League held a social evening recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Theriault, Belliveau's Cove. Bridge and whist, also auction, forty-fives, were in play. A large gathering from the surrounding villages were present. Afterwards a party sale was held.

Mrs. W. A. Livingstone, of Annapolis Royal, was a guest of Mrs. Emile Stehelin, at Church Point, one day recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Belliveau, of Halifax, visited relatives in Clare recently while en route to Yarmouth from which port they sailed for Boston.

Paul Stehelin, accompanied by C. Toppell, of Yarmouth, spent the week end at his home in Church Point.

Marguerite Doucet has returned to her home in Lynn, Mass., after visiting relatives in Saultville.

Mrs. Edith Theriault, who was operated on at the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, three months ago, left for Halifax last week for X-ray examination.

Mrs. Mary Thibodeau recently returned to her home in Lynn after visiting relatives in Meteghan.

Hon. J. W. Comeau has been on a trip to Prince Edward Island, where he purchased some silver foxes for his ranch at Comeauville.

Leonard Melanson, section foreman on the D. A. R., has been off duty at his home in Saultville Station, due to an attack of blood poisoning.

Deidre LeBlanc, foreman on the breakwater at Peggwash, with his brother, Willie, arrived home at Comeauville recently. They had not intended to come before Christmas but owing to the cold weather changed their plans.

Miss Madeline Comeau, of Little Brook, is visiting Mrs. Delbert Melanson, in Belmont, Mass., for a few months.

Miss Carrie Comeau has returned to her home in New Edinburgh from the Yarmouth Hospital, where she was operated on for appendicitis.

Denis Gaudet, who is employed on the Canadian National Steamship Lady Drake, spent a few days recently with his wife and little daughter, Patricia, at Concession.

Mrs. Joe C. Thibodeau, Grosses Coques, recently underwent an operation in the Yarmouth Hospital.

Tommy Comeau, student at St. Anne's College, Church Point, has been confined to his home by his sister, Mrs. Denis P. LeBlanc, with la grippe.

Mrs. Esther Theriault has returned to her home in West Newton, Mass., after visiting relatives in Belliveau's Cove.

A card party was given at the Concession school house recently at which $24 was realized, to be used for painting the interior of the building. The Misses Rosalie LeBlanc and Priscilla Comeau, local school teachers, were in charge.

Pierre Belliveau, Grosses Coques, who seriously injured his left hand in a dynamite explosion, is improving.

Violent ringing of the bell aroused the chemist at midnight. Below his window he saw a young lady.

"What can I do for you, Miss?" he inquired. "Is anyone dying?"

"Oh, no," came back the answer in sweet tones. "But I'm dancing at the ball close by and I have quite run out of rouge."

"Indeed!" snorted the disgusted chemist. "I'm sorry, Miss, but I never keep enough rouge in stock to cover a cheek like yours!"

"Your fiancée is a charming man. He has a certain something."

"Yes, but I would rather he had something certain."

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gaudet visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Belliveau, at Church Point recently.

Obituary

Dennis P. Gorman
Dennis P. Gorman, 71, of Meridian Street, Boston, died last Wednesday afternoon, from a bursting blood vessel. Gorman, who was a native of Digby, went to Boston nineteen years ago. He was riding on a trolley car when stricken, and he was rushed to his home but died within an hour. A brother, Michael, of Dorchester, survives.

AXEMEN BUSY CUTTING XMAS TREES

All through Canada axemen have been busy helping Santa Claus prepare for Christmas and this year he expects to do a rushing business, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. Some 4,000,000 Christmas trees will be cut in Canada for the United States market alone to delight the hearts of kiddies in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Illinois, Missouri and other states in the Union, on Christmas morning. The bulk of the cut from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick goes to cities in the Eastern States. Few York alone orders about 850,000 trees from Canada every December. From early reports of shipments from Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes, the supply of fine Canadian Christmas trees available to the American public will be considerably larger this year than ever before.

In addition to this large cut for the American market, anywhere from 60,000 to 1,000,000 Canadian homes are adorned during the Yuletide season with the favorite tree of St. Nicholas, the patron saint of this celebration. Piles of Christmas trees are now coming into evidence about country stations of the railways.

The origin of the use of trees for decorative purposes at Christmas time is lost in antiquity, but it is believed that the custom has been adopted from pagan ceremonies, tho' it is only in comparatively recent years that the Christmas tree has become thoroughly popular in North America and the British Isles.

Conservationists are agreed that the cutting of Christmas trees is not wasteful as the majority of these trees would have small chance of reaching marketable size as timber. The cutting of such trees also assists the larger trees in attaining bigger growth since most of the trees for decorative purposes may be described as under-growth which sap a lot of strength from the ground and hinder the growth of more sturdy trees.

PARKER'S COVE

There will be service in the United Church on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Douglas Ellis and son, Lawrence, of Littlefield, visited her daughter, Mrs. Oscar Clayton, recently. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Longmire, and Dorothy and Phyllis, of Delap's Cove, visited the former's mother, Mrs. Sophronia Milner, over the week end.

Miss D. Taylor, the teacher, is instructing her scholars for a Christmas entertainment.

Gerald Clayton, of Windsor, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Longmire and son, DeWitt, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Halliday recently.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Halliday went to Young's Cove on Sunday and were guests of Mrs. Halliday's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Minard White.

Claude Milner was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudson, of Hillsboro.

Miss Vera Magariv, teacher at Granville Beach, visited her home here over the week end.

Some of the scallop boat crews from Digby were home over Sunday.

The Yuletide is drawing near, and your correspondent wishes the editor and staff a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Wharf Damaged by Storm

The motor vessel Elizabeth Cann, Captain Ray Hall, arrived from Saint John on the 6th with merchandise for the local merchants. After her arrival we were visited with the first real snow storm of the season. With the wind blowing very hard from the northeast the Cann was tossed around at her berth considerably, inflicting considerable damage to the wharf. The light was also damaged.

Lost His Home By Fire

Capt. D. D. Clayton had the misfortune to lose his home in Parker's Cove by fire, on Friday night last. It is thought to have caught from a defective flue. The wind was blowing very hard from the northeast which fanned the flames and the house was very quickly demolished. All the upstairs furniture and clothing was destroyed and only a few pieces from the ground floor was saved. Capt. Clayton was in Windsor at the time. The house was partially covered by insurance.

BADMINTON CLUB NOTES

The Bear River Badminton Club is again enjoying another season of play and the club has been strengthened by the addition of several new members, in both senior and junior classes. New racquets and a new net have been purchased and everything tends towards another successful season.

Due to the fact that moving pictures will be shown in the hall on Saturday evenings, the club will be open for play on Friday evenings instead, and through the kindness of Lloyd Sanford, who owns the hall, Friday afternoons will also be available for play. Mr. Sanford making no charge for using the hall at that time, provided no fires are put on until players arrive at the club. The club is grateful to Mr. Sanford for his privilege.

It is hoped to have a social evening in the near future, probably between Christmas and New Year's, when many of our young folks will be home for the holiday.

The Ladies' Circle of the Baptist Church met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Rice. A great deal of business was transacted at this meeting and plans were made to hold the pantry and Christmas sale on the 21st.

The Clementville Teachers' Study Club met with the Clementville teachers at the home of Mrs. Maurice Potter, Wednesday of last week. Lessons were given by Mrs. Rawdwin, Mrs. Hayes and Miss Potter. Present were: Miss Mosher and Miss Tupper, Clementsport; Miss Foster, Clementsport Heights; Miss Durkee, Virginia East; Miss Barclay, Princeville; Mrs. Hayes and Miss Sanford, Deep Brook; Miss Zalcom and Miss Potter, Clementville; Mrs. Rawdwin, Waldeck East.

On Thursday evening a very pleasant shower party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Eber Peck in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Boswell, who were recently married. The gifts, which included silver, linen, china and glass were placed on a table over which was suspended a very pretty decorated umbrella. After the opening of the gifts the friends, numbering about twenty-five, joined in games, music and contests. Delicious refreshments were served, including a very pretty decorated "bride's cake." Best wishes were extended to the bride and groom.

THE BEAR RIVER FIRE DEPARTMENT

The annual meeting in connection with the Bear River Fire Department was held in Oakeside Hall on Monday evening. Owing to weather conditions there was not a large attendance. C. E. Clarke was appointed chairman and J. A. McKenna, secretary.

The trustees reported that 350 feet of new hose, bearing a guarantee for six years, had been purchased during the year, and also an expansion coupling outfit which makes it possible to attach couplings to hose needing repairs and it will be no longer necessary to send hose away for this work.

The treasurer, Dr. Lovett, reported balance of $17 on hand. Besides the proceeds from the carnival there had been added to the funds donations of cash from the Royal Bank, and Company and Mrs. B. C. Clarke.

The inventory presented by the secretary of trustees, J. H. Cunningham, showed an increase in value of 160, notwithstanding generous advances for depreciation.

Fire Chief R. R. Baxter gave his report which showed that the total loss in Bear River during the past year totaled $750. A vote of thanks and an expression of appreciation was presented to the chief and the fire squad for the time and efficient service given to the town during the past year.

A vote of thanks, and appreciation to the telephone operators, was also passed.

At the meeting Chief Baxter presented a letter of appreciation from the John Roop of the work of the guard at the time of a chimney fire at his residence. Mrs. Roop enclosed a donation of $100.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Trustees—L. V. Harris, Dr. Lovett and J. H. Cunningham.

Auditor—J. A. McKenna. Fire Chief—R. R. Baxter.

CHICKEN SUPPER

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church held a chicken supper on Thursday evening of last week, in the church vestry. The room was carefully decorated in red and green, and the tables were very attractive with their brass holders and red candles, with centerpiece of pine, red berries and cones. The money table was in charge of Mrs. H. E. Harris; the candy table, Mrs. C. I. Blanchard; the tea table, Mrs. R. R. Baxter, Mrs. William Morine, Mrs. J. T. Davidson, with helpers, Mrs. F. Burrage, Mrs. J. Harris, Mrs. J. Larramore, Mrs. M. Morgan, Mrs. R. H. Purdy, Mrs. Otis Rice, Miss Ellen Baxter, Miss June Schmidt, Mrs. A. Bergeman. Others assisting were Mrs. A. Chute, Mrs. J. Langley, Mrs. C. Wainbold, Mrs. Schmidt, Mrs. F. Robinson, Mrs. H. Morine, Mrs. H. Bennon, Mrs. F. R. Harris, Mrs. H. Cross, Mrs. R. Baxter and Mrs. R. Harris were servers; Woodford Davis was ticket seller. The supper was a great success.

BOY SCOUTS—BEAR RIVER TROOP

On Tuesday the Troop marched to Morganville to be present at the funeral of Scout Willis Porter, a member of the Wild Duck Patrol, who accidentally shot himself. A member for over a year and a favorite of the Troop, the boys and officers join in the sorrow of the parents. Willis was one of the party who journeyed to Halifax to meet Lord Baden-Powell, and will be missed from the Horseshoe this winter. May his epitaph be "I have done my duty to God and the King, helped people at all times, and obeyed the Scout Law."

Don't Entrust Your

Well-Being to Unknown
Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin."

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach, or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practices.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT TAKES YOUNG BOY'S LIFE

On Sunday morning young Willis Porter, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Porter, of Morganville, went out alone to attend to his rabbit snares, carrying his 22-caliber rifle. Finding a rabbit snared, but living, he tried to shoot it, but failing, grasped the rifle by the barrel, using it as a club to end the little animal's suffering. This discharged the rifle, inflicting a terrible wound in the abdomen. Alone, bleeding badly, Willis walked about a quarter of a mile to his home where medical aid was immediately secured. Dr. A. B. Campbell fortunately being at a case in a neighboring town.

The lad was at once transferred to the Digby Hospital, where an X-ray showed the bullet lodged near his spine, severing in its path three of the intestines, and in spite of an operation and all efforts to save him, the patient passed away early Monday morning.

Willis was a bright lad, the oldest of four brothers, and great sympathy is felt for his family in this great sorrow. The funeral, on Tuesday afternoon, was a very large one, the Bear River Boy Scouts, of which he was a member, attending in a body, under the direction of Assistant Scout Master, Edward McDormand, and laying a beautiful wreath on theasket, in remembrance of their former companion. The Rev. S. F. Steves, pastor of the Bear River United Baptist church, conducted the funeral services at the home of the parents, and interment was in the Morganville cemetery.

Women's Institute Notes—On Monday afternoon a number of ladies met in the Masonic Building and spent a very profitable afternoon sewing and mending and planning Christmas boxes. A number of donations were received and it is planned to meet again on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock—an opportunity or even more helpers.

Birthday Party—On Tuesday Alfred Porter celebrated his eighteenth birthday. In the evening he entertained the Contract Club of which he is a member, also their wives, as a birthday party would be complete without the ladies. At the end of a happy evening spent at bridge, delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Porter are a charming couple and indeed younger than most. They celebrated their fiftieth anniversary of their marriage nearly eight years ago. We wish Mr. Porter many happy returns for the day.

NATIONAL MADNESS

It is inconceivable that Italy would have started the war of conquest against Ethiopia if she had foreseen that the League of Nations would crack down on her. It is inconceivable that Mussolini himself would have dared start any such adventure with the world leagued against him. But the Duce was in a critical situation, with industry at home prostrated, and growing unemployment, and the government budget steadily running behind, on his sole responsibility. This modern Caesar, too, was ambitious for conquest. Ever since he had forsaken his early Socialism for personal dictatorship, he had been moved by imperialistic dreams. He would make a modern Roman Empire. Italy should expand again across the Mediterranean sea. After that, perhaps, in Europe and Asia.

It was a bold, ruthless gamble, and possibly the Italian nation is lost. For the leader's madness grows from desperation, and his people seem to turn mad with him: as Ethiopian resistance stiffens and the League stands firm.

The present oil problem presents the first big crisis. Wild threats come from Rome as the League powers ponder the problem of cutting off Italy's oil supply, and thus cutting short her military operations. Italy will attack the British fleet. She will fight the British fleet. A nation may run amuck.

This is the mess a fine, free people can get into by abandoning their constitutional and traditional liberties and submitting to the judgment of one man.

PERFECT SALESMAN

The perfect salesman has been found in Vaughn, Wash. State Fire Inspector John Reid drove into a service station to buy a fan belt. The attendant, carrying a bucket of water, met him. Reid named his want; the man put down his bucket, made the sale and, as Reid drove away, ran down the street with his bucket. His house was on fire but he had stopped to serve a customer.

A BOOTLEGGER'S CONVENTION

Well, that's "going home." Down in Chattanooga, Tennessee, last August there was an honest-to-goodness, open-and-above-board, make-no-bonus-about-it Convention of bootleggers. They met for business and meant it, just like any other business delegation. It seems that there had been a price-cutting war among them. That must be stopped. They might boot-leg all they could against the public, and all honor to them! But, to boot-leg against each other—no, sir, that would never do! So they met in convention to consider the whole issue.

Without raising the question as to how or when or where they severally secured the liquor that filled their caches and made necessary this "blind pigs," "speak-easies," and all that illegal mess, they declared for the ending of the liquor price war as between themselves. I dare say they made some progress, though for the life of me I cannot see much hope for an honorable agreement that would be honorably kept by bootleggers. But let that pass. Think of it, however, a band of brigands, openly declaring themselves to be brigands, with all masks off, meeting in open convention in a city of 120,000 people! The story does not tell of any officers of the law taking down their names or making arrests. It all seemed like an attempt to palm off the bootlegging business as a respectable business that had a right to the "freedom of the city."

"Yes," we are bootleggers; what are you going to do about it?" Perhaps there are bootleggers' conventions being held here in Nova Scotia for the above purpose or another. But so far as I know they have not come out in the open yet. Think of the widespread conscience, the miserable cowardice, the sneaking selfishness of the man whose every-day, every-hour occupation consists of hiding himself and his business from the eyes of honest people who live all around him! I wouldn't live his life for anything. And yet the other day a man, who claimed to know, said in a public meeting that there is today more boot-legging going on in Nova Scotia than ever there was at any time in the past. And this under "Government Control."

Miss Alice Bailey, who has been employed at the Scotia Restaurant, returned to her home in Westport this week.

JURY WANTED PAY

A jury in Justice of the Peace John Wood's court, in Big Sandy, filed out after it had reached a verdict. "What about the pay?" the foreman of the jury asked Judge Woods. "That's a matter for the Commissioner's court to decide," the judge replied. "Well, we've reached a verdict, but we won't return it until we're sure of being paid," the foreman said. And it wasn't until the Upshur county attorney personally guaranteed their pay that the jury announced its finding that W. T. Minor was not guilty of driving without a license.

HAND-WRITTEN BIBLE TURNS UP AFTER CENTURIES

Did a devout monk in Egypt about 300 years after Christ, have his hand-written Bible buried with him, for Arab treasure hunters to dig up and sell to eager scholars today? It is believed that this may be the story back of a mysterious Bible of extreme age and very great importance that has been coming to light, bit by bit, since 1930.

Arab dealers who sold 190 papyrus leaves of this book to A. Chester Beatty, an Englishman, five years ago, had nothing to say about the source of the find. Since then, the University of Michigan has acquired more than 30 leaves, in instalments, with equal mystery surrounding their past. And now, recently, 46 more leaves have come to Mr. Beatty.

The Bible pages in Greek thus revealed are said to be giving scholars new ideas about the earliest Bible wording—which they are continually seeking—and the order of the books, and most particularly they find their wonderful new treasure a principal authority for the Epistles of St. Paul. Current gossip in Egypt has it, according to report, that the papyrus were found in a Coptic graveyard. If true, this would suggest that the graveyard was used by a Coptic monastery. The leaves may have come from a single grave, buried perhaps with the last member who could read Greek, and the time when the book was buried is placed in the fourth century—since some parts seem as recent as that.

A hand-written Bible of papyrus is not apt to have lasted in use more than a century, an expert estimates. So, he figures that the very oldest portions, which happen to be the Numbers and Deuteronomy books, were written out at the end of the second century or in the early part of the third. This would be around 200 A. D. Hand-written as it was, a Bible in those days was assembled book by book, and the result was not the work of a single scribe or a single year.

WATCHING FOR SANTA CLAUS

It was Christmas Eve, the clock had struck ten, When under the covers Nelson and Ben Talked about Santa Claus, what he would bring. How he'd fill up their stockings with every nice thing.

But Nelson said, "Ben, I've been thinking 'al day Hoy he'll get down the chimney I can't tell the way— He'll have toys to bring and a Christmas tree, too; I can't see, for the life of me, what he will do!

"I wish it were larger," he said, with a sigh: "Yes, indeed," answered Benny, "so do I—so do I!"

"Suppose he gets caught in the chimney—what then?" Oh! that would be awful, now wouldn't it, Ben?

"But I thought I heard sleigh bells!"

Just listen! Don't you?" "I believe, brother Benny, that really I do!"

And with hearts full of gladness and eyes full of glee, They listen in wonder for, surely, 'tis he!

"Just pull back the blind, Ben, and take a sly peep; But be very careful—he thinks we're asleep." Now Benny had hardly got out on the floor, When down through the chimney there came such a roar!

No peeping for Benny, but back into bed—

He covered himself up—eyes, nose, chin and head— And whispered to Nelson, all trembling with fright, "I told you I heard him! Now, wasn't I right?"

"You must have been, Benny, for, oh, such a roar— I never heard anything like it before: Just keep very quiet, and I'm sure we will see Him step out of the chimney, as sure as can be!"

They watch and they listen: as their vigil they keep, Till eyelids get heavy and, both fall asleep;

And, dreaming, the night passes quickly away, And when they awaken, 'tis glad Christmas day.

Then up out of bed with wide open eyes, They look all around them with joy and surprise: Their stockings were filled, and there stood a tree Just loaded with good things, as fine as could be.

They looked at the chimney, and thought it was small— But old Santa Claus found them in spite of it all!

Are You Ready for Winter . .

Thrifty motorists know the damage that can be done to automobile parts unless their cars are serviced for the changing seasons.

Winter is just ahead, and NOW is the time to have your car serviced for cold weather.

Oil should be changed; batteries looked after regularly; brakes adjusted or relined; radiators flushed and anti-freeze added, and the engine tuned for cold weather.

BIRTHDAY PICTURES

It's never too early to start taking pictures of the babies and children. In a few years they will prove to be one of your priceless possessions.

Too many parents look upon their children's birthday anniversaries only as a time to give them a party or a present. No one will argue against that angle of birthday celebrations. Birthday parties and gifts were in vogue long before our time on this earth and will continue long after our demise, but there can be another feature of the celebration from which both parents and children will get long-time enjoyment, to wit: the birthday snapshot.

Suppose you are to be parents of one of the quarter of a million babies to be born in Canada this year. It won't be easy to remember exactly how that baby looked ten years from now, but a few snapshots will keep the likeness for you. True, if you are the father, you are lucky in these prophylactic times, to be permitted to see your newly-born heir for several days after Sir Snappy has delivered his package, unless through the heavy glass of a well-guarded window or door. But when the nurses and doctors finally concede that you are not a common carrier of encephalitis lethargica, or what other germs you are supposed to have, you should exercise your authority. Tell them you are determined to shoot the baby, then laugh lightly, and walk in with your camera.

Every month is usually considered a birthday in a baby's life until he is a year old. At least a picture a month should be made of the new boarder for this first year. You will be surprised and delighted in seeing the changes which the pictures record. After that one of you should see that the camera is always loaded, for you can never tell when your baby is going to take his first cautious, faltering step—and what an event in your life, even if it means nothing to the baby just yet. The baby is quite matter-of-fact about this adventure, but you get all excited, let out a couple of whoops, gasp, laugh, and probably scare the infant so thoroughly that he falls down and has to do it all over again.

The chances are that you will not be prepared for that first step, or if you should happen to be holding the camera in your hand you will, in your excitement, probably have it turned the wrong direction and get an out-of-focus picture of your misadventure. But don't miss this moment of moments the next time. Have your camera and yourself ready for action.

There never seems to be enough of these baby pictures to go around, for there are grandmothers, aunts, cousins and friends in distant cities who are always looking forward to receiving a snapshot of the newly arrived commander of the "infantry."

There's always the "first time" for everything and this applies to thousands of events in a baby's life. There is the first time he discovers he has toes, and immediately decides if his own little mind that they are something good to eat. His first smile, and then that great moment when he reaches out with his chubby little arms and says, "Daddy," which is at once interpreted by the parents to mean "Daddy" or "Mommie," sometimes depending on who is governor of the household. Volumes could be written about baby pictures but space is limited here. Whatever you do, however, don't forget that snapshots of the kiddies are important right now and in later years they will prove to be one of your priceless possessions when your children become mothers and fathers and you are among those known as grandparents.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

GRANVILLE FERRY

In the year of grace 1700 the British parliament enacted the following tasty bit of legislation: "That all women, of whatever age, rank, profession or degree, whether virgin, maid, or widow, that shall from and after such act impose upon and betray into matrimony any of His Majesty's subjects by means of recent painted cosmetics, washes, artificial stays, false hair, Spanish wool, iron stays, hoops, or high-heeled shoes, shall incur the penalty of the law now in force against witchcraft and like misdoings, and that the marriage upon conviction shall stand null and void."

CLEMENTSPORT

Miss Minnie Potter is spending the winter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morton.

Mrs. George Potter returned from the Digby Hospital on Wednesday after having been operated on for the removal of her tonsils.

The ladies of the Baptist church held a clam supper at the hall on Wednesday evening of last week. The room was very attractively decorated in Christmas colors, and the supper tables laden with good things to eat upheld the reputation these ladies have always enjoyed as cooks. About $30 was realized.

George Potter, of Cold River, recently spent a few days at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lincoln, of Massachusetts, have purchased the house owned by L. G. Morgan, and, with their family, moved in last week.

Mrs. A. C. Millie is spending a few days in Halifax.

Capt. Herbert Rawlings is in poor health at present.

CLEMENTSPORT HEIGHTS

Miss Evelyn Foster attended the meeting of the Teachers' Study Club held at Clementsport on Tuesday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Freeman were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, Virginia East.

J. H. Rawling made a business trip to Annapolis Royal on Tuesday.

R. W. Long, who has been employed at Moose River, Cumberland Co., returned home.

Everett Pyne visited relatives and friends at Princeville last week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Shaffner, of Clementsport, spent Sunday at the home of Frank Beeler.

Mrs. Fred Burrell, of Clementsport, has a recent guest of Miss S. J. Rawling.

Miss Verna Long, of Annapolis Royal, spent Sunday at his home here.

William Paquette, town clerk of Champlain, N. Y., has advised Canadian authorities he financed the wedding trip for a Canadian couple whose identity police withheld. He complained the groom tendered a $20 note and received $18 change after paying for the wedding certificate. The note was counterfeit.

Linwood Perry, of Tiverton, is a patient in the hospital, where he underwent an appendicitis operation. He was accompanied here by his wife and mother.

Merry Christmas

Happy Christmas to You All

"Believe it or not," I get fan mail, and no one is more surprised than myself. The little trip "down the old back road" seems to have started something; and I don't know why, unless it's because, in the back ground of every one's memory, there lurks an old-fashioned road, complete with its tumble-down rail fences, or old stone walls, and most of those roads led to some well-beloved place; perhaps over to grandmother's or down to old Aunt Mary's. Anyway, ever since, I have been receiving letters from unknown friends, and what a feeling! When I go down to the mailbox at the end of the lane, and find a letter addressed to M. G. A. Potatuck Club, Sandy Hook, Conn. It's very nice of folks to encourage these simple scribbles. Heaven knows there is nothing uplifting or high brow about such every-day things as I see around me—the greese and old quack-quack, small Patch and Spinner, the tom-cat. I am more than likely to split infinitives, and end sentences with prepositions, and do all the things one should never do. One letter I received this week contained a very interesting picture of the depot at Digby, taken in 1902. There are several people in the foreground, one of whom is very much like the late Judge Grierson. Some of the letters contain verses for my scrapbook and this is as good a time as any to ask any reader who would care to do so, to send me scrap book material—poetry, short stories, pictures, or what have you. I am starting a new one on New Year's Day and would like to call it my Friendship Book. Many times folks ask about my dog. What "Patch" looks like? How old is he? and what breed? So I will just say, once again, he is a small fox terrier, white with black patches (hence his name), and eight years old. He has been to Weymouth and one night, about dusk, I was walking on the "bridge" hill with him on a leash, and we met Seymour and his mother, and I heard him ask her "what kind of a dog that was," and she replied, "a little feeding the papers into the press. Every so often, I, or one of the other girls would substitute for him while he added coal to the fire to keep up steam. "Long, long ago, long ago," I wonder if Selwyn remembers, too. The old printing office is no more and the gang scattered far and wide. For all I know, Dillie is the only one that has passed on.

 We have had some very cold weather, and one morning the pond was frozen clear across, and we had to take the boat out and break the ice so the geese and old quack-quack could come home for breakfast. After building them a nice warm shelter they refuse to accept it, preferring the icy water, finally going over the dam into the running water below. One night, a very fierce snow squall came up with the wind blowing a gale. I heard the cat at the window and went to let him in, but instead of coming in he bolted across the yard and in the duck house, where he crouched, with his eyes shining like glass, until the squall was over. Do you know that a gander is as good at giving an alarm as a watch dog? Well, they are, and old "Mussolini" stretches out his neck and screams every time any one approaches. He particularly dislikes cars and will grumble indignantly every time one comes in the driveway.

 The hunting season is over and I am glad. Many of our pheasants have survived and have come back to the pens. The men are trapping along Potatuck brook, but not having much success. I am doing lots better with a mouse trap in the pantry. One night they caught a handsome skunk. The poor old fellow only had three legs, evidently having been caught before and gotten away, leaving one leg behind. I am hoping to look out one day and see a fox stealing across the yard. I have never seen a wild one and there are lots around. I have a whole flock of blue jays that come every day to feed on the grain the geese leave. They are thieving, screaming rascals, but I do love to see them. They are so pretty with their grey and blue feathers, black top knots and ring around their necks. We have filled the window boxes for winter with pine branches and bunches of red rushes which never fade in sun or rain. It can be

Connie's Santa Claus

An Original Story

Everybody had seen the little girl dressed in red, with a mo-shanter and gloves to match, and many people loved the bright blue-eyed lassie, and knew that she came from a home where a loving mother, a doting father and a big rugged boy dwelt. The girl in red had been going to school for a few months and was especially fond of writing, and almost every afternoon after she returned from school, she sat down to the table and busied herself with pencil and paper. A week or two before Christmas she was thus engaged, and her mother occasionally looked to see her rubbing out a letter or two, as the little Miss was not satisfied with the spelling. Her brother, Eddie, came into the room and went up to where his little sister was so busy, and when he saw what she had done he burst into a merry peal of laughter, and said, "What do you think, num, Connie is writing a letter to Santa Claus, and she can't spell the words, and does not know where to send the letter to; I don't believe there is any Santa Claus. Oh, you funny girl!"

"Mummy," said Connie eagerly; "can't I write a letter to Santa; I want to tell him something very tickler."

"Yes, Connie," her mother said; "and no matter what Ed says, I'll see your letter goes. May I read it before sealing it?" Connie gave her the letter, which was as follows:

"Dear Santa Claus:
"I am onely a littel girl, not long in school, but I av end a grate deebout U and ow kind U R. I kno U av a verri big lot ov chilren tu karri toys tu on crismus da, an i feal sorri fur yur pore raindeer aving to go so fur and yu climbing on the top of houses tu tri an get down the chimneys. I end 2 boys taining a da or 2 ago and thay seed their woe, no santas claus—but their iz bekos i av iz pitcher hear, an e cud not av a pitcher if he wascent, cud e, and when i luk at hiz pitcher i see a smile al over iz face an kno e iz kind: "I hoap yu R not, 2 tired tu read thiz letter—I can not spel vtri wel, so must ekaste me—but u kno little Billy vot lives nex door—wel iz dady iz in the sea—deap down an won't never kum hoam no moar. so Billy is a horfant and iz mummy iz very pore—do yu think U can manage tu squez—I can not spel that—down ther chimley an levee Billy an Betty iz sither sunthin fur ther stoking fur i kno thay wil ang them at the fut ov ther bed, an if U kan do thiz U wil giv them a lot of pleasure an appiness—pleez tri an member Billy and Betty."

U alius members, me an Eddie an the doll U brot me las yeare iz nerely worn out, a leg an an arm cumed off an the stuffin iz cummin-out ov her tummy, but i av loved her al the yere and luv her now an i thank U Santa fur bringin u tu me, mem. Billy and Betty pleez merry crismus santa an lots ov luv.—Connie.

Christmas dawned and Connie was awake to find a stocking well filled with good things, and in a parcel wrapped nicely was a new doll, one that could open and shut her eyes and say "mamma". Her joy was indeed great, and when she came downstairs and saw a big Christmas tree all decorated and laden with presents and candies, she danced and clapped her hands. After she had breakfast her mother allowed her to go next door to see how Billy and Betty had fared. Connie found that their stockings had been filled also, and somebody had brought a nice piece of beef, some cakes and sweets and the mother and children were delighted. But there was no Christmas tree and Connie set her mind to work, and when she returned to her mother she said: "Mummy they have no Christmas tree next door—can we ask Billy and Betty and t their mother to come in and look at ours?"

"Certainly," said mother; "ask them in for supper and we will have some games for the children."

So the evening was spent pleasantly; all shared the nuts, candies, oranges and other good things, and the visitors enjoyed themselves.

Connie was a very happy but tired little girl when her mother suggested bed, and before retiring the little lassie said: "Mummy, aren't you glad I wrote that letter to Santa Claus? I am, and believe in him more than ever; he is so kind and he makes other people kind, too—don't you think so, mummy? Let me have my new-dolly in bed, feel so happy. Kiss me, mummy, good-night. Thank you, Santa, for remembering Billy and Betty for me."

The Gift

'Tis Christmas time, and I would make a gift; Something distinct, unique as gifts do go; Whose very presence with my friend shall lift His thought toward me, cause him to know How much his loyal friendship means to me. And how much more to me this living meat Than in the days before I chanced to see His walking on my path, by Heaven sent.

I missed, The friend I saw was multiplied By scores and hundreds who had done their part, Had come upon my path, walked by my side To bring the cheer of friendship to my heart. Dismay then seized me, for I could not give To all this host fit mark of my esteem.

My gratitude that they had helped me live, And as I thought, I lost myself in a dream.

Within me then a commanding voice spoke: "Friends need no gift to keep their friendship true, No bauble, jewel, gold or royal cloak. Friends only need to know they still have you, So then at Christmas set your mind at rest: Give of yourself to them in heart and mind; Of all you are let them but have the best, And they the richest gift on earth shall find."

Christmas Bells! and Joyous Wedding Bells!

CEADARVILLE: Cee-dar-villet!
With a jerk the great Christmas train came to a stop and the next moment Sylvia and Bob were fling their way through the happy, smiling Christmas passengers laden with parcels, boxes, suitcases and good will! Christmas! Christmas everywhere!

Off they hopped and hurried through the blinding snow storm to the house on the side of the hill, the old familiar homestead of Sylvia and Bob. There it stood in its snowy coat and Christmas welcome—much the same as when she had left it but a year before.

"Just think, to be married on Christmas, Bob. The grandest day to the whole year. Isn't it wonderful? Let's hurry, I can hardly wait to see Mother."

Bob acquiesced by a tighter grip of Sylvia's arm and a genial smile of understanding.

Stomping and brushing the feathery flakes from them, they opened the door and were almost smothered with greetings and shouts of "Merry Christmas" from the whole family.

What a sight! Christmas bells! Wedding bells!

The tree itself was one glittering mass of lights and miniature bells—bells of gold and bells of silver. Even beneath its branches stood a huge bell-shaped confetti simply loaded down with Christmas gifts—wedding gifts—all for this one night of nights!—Alice
B. Palmer.

A CHRISTMAS SMACK

George—Would you be alarmed if I kissed you while you are under that mistletoe?
Grace—Yes, but it would be a still alarm.

Good King Wenceslas

Good King Wenceslas immortalized in the well-known carol, was really a Bottleneck prince who died in A. D. 935.
His name should properly be spelt "Wenceslaus." He was famous for his great kindness to the poor and needy.
When, in September, A. D. 935, he was killed by his brother, Boleslav, the people of the country were heartbroken.
He is still regarded as their patron saint.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Santa Claus Is Popular

"Dat geh'nan Mister Santa Claus," said Uncle Ebenezer, "is popular. No body else could carry around so much valuables without sooner or later bein' blacked."

When Christ Was a Child

It is good to be children sometimes,
and never better than at Christmas, when the mighty founder was a child himself.

Little Christmas Trees

They haven't yet invented the colapsible Christmas tree for the little flat, but the colors and sources gray more lilliputian.

Wife—That Mrs. Fish next door is continually borrowing things and never returning them.

Hubby—Well, don't worry, my dear. I'm doing the same thing with Mr. Fish's money.

Mr. B.—Does your sister believe marriage is a failure?
Mrs. B.—No, but she believes that trying to get married is.

Aunt Chloe's Inherited "Merry Christmas Gift"

OLD AUNT CHLOE was a dainty almost as white as she was high.
She had a smile that would melt a quart of ice cream. She wore a red bandanna handkerchief tied about her head, with two corners sticking up like rabbit's ears. Her aprons were blue enough for the main part of a square-rigger. She radiated such a warmth of hospitality in her own little, clean little shack that many visitors called there for the pleasure of basking in the glow of it. Aunt Chloe was very poor, and unconquerably cheerful. She also had Imagination.

Tacked to her walls were two colored prints. One was of a garden in full summer bloom. The other depicted a Christmas scene—a sleighload of people going off on a glorious ride.

Christmas morning some of her neighbors dropped in to complain a little about hard times. They found the old woman gazing intently at the sample picture. She turned her head to welcome the visitors. "Then if Ah'm a little cold," she explained, "then if Ah don't much Christmas, I got one gift don't never fail. Ah can think ahead inter pleasant times. When Ah'm all fit and stenny in de summer, and thined, too, I looks at de snow picture, and right away Ah'm cool. And now Ah'm in de summer time. Ah keeps a-lookin' at de summer one. I kin eben feel de sunshine on mah back. Dem things is so . . . eben if day ain't so just dis minute. It's a gift from de Lord, chilluns, a gift from de Lord.
And it keeps me fannin' along." Her wide smile lit up the room. "Like no-body's business!"—Martha Manning

Christmas Luck; Omens Used in Days Long Ago

DO YOU know that a full moon at Christmas day is supposed to be unlucky, the saying going:

"Bright Christmas, light wheatsheaf;
dark Christmas, heavy wheatsheaf," and that a windy Christmas and a calm Candlemas were held as omens of a good year. Rain during the twelve days after Christmas was said to foretell a wet year to follow. When decorating the house with Christmas holly, be careful not to burn any leaves or berries that fall, but put them carefully away until Twelfth Night, when they should be burnt with the rest of the decorations. Then luck and happiness will follow; but if so much as a holly leaf is burned beforehand, you are courting disaster, say the old-fashioned country folk who set store on Christmas omens. Look to your fire on Christmas day, for if it burns brightly it is a sign of prosperity; if, however, when the fire is first lighted it smoulders and refuses to "draw," setbacks may be looked for during the year to come.

Wear something new on Christmas day if possible, "for luck," and be very careful to put on no garment with a hole or tear in it, or otherwise you will lose money. Also, remember that the first words spoken in the day should be cheerful; to speak a word of grumbling is to court bad luck.—Montreal Herald.

OUR SANTA CLAUS

THE American Santa Claus is a corruption of the Dutch Santa Nicolas. G. B. McHughes says: "Santa Claus, the name derived from St. Nicholas, has passed through the familiar way of children in Teutonic countries, crossed to America. The direct route followed by him is somewhat open question. On the way he traded his gray horse for a reindeer and made changes in his appearance."

Making Sugar Toys

Sugar toys may be made according to the following directions: 4 pounds of sugar, 2 ounces of corn syrup, 1 pint of water. Boil to 240-250 degrees, then stir until cloudy and pour in plaster of paris moulds that have been drained after soaking in cold water for two or three hours.

Christmas Air

Every big London market has its own special characteristics. One of the characteristics of all its Leadenhall market, because of its position and the essentially friendly and family air about it. During the Christmas season the air is positively festive.

Nice for Christmas Gifts

Jars of mince, fruit juices, jams, jellies or baked goods make nice remembrances and carry an "official touch."

Few persons who have nothing to say are able to keep quiet about it.

Santa All the Year Is Found to Be Good Idea

SANTA CLAUS comes in July as well as December, to those who need him in Columbia, Mo. Last Christmas a dollar given anonymously by "a group of children" was used by the Welfare society there to start a fund for year-round needs, instead of giving people with too many baskets of goodies one day out of 365.

These are some of the things the fund has paid for: glasses to replace those broken by a boy whose mother wishes to keep him in school; means of getting a crippled girl to and from school; shoes for the old horse used by the society when there is hauling to be done; the cane a grandchild needed to help him get about; fares of a trachoma patient and a tubercular child who were sent to hospitals; soap and a razor for a young man who wanted to clean up so he could try for a job.

Regular donations to the society may be spent only for food, fuel, clothing and shelter; these all-the-year gifts, though badly needed, would have been impossible but for the dollar from the children "to use any way you want" that gave welfare workers the idea of the Santa Claus fund.—Frances Grist-stead.

Christmas in Christ's Land Is Without Snow

LITTLE Christian children who live in Jerusalem or who are traveling there with their parents will not have a snowy Christmas. Snow almost never falls in Palestine, for the temperature is seldom below 38 degrees.
When it does snow, the flakes melt as soon as they touch the ground.

Most of the people in the country where the infant Jesus was born do not celebrate Christmas, however. For only a few of them are Christians; most are Moslems or Jews. There are some Christmas trees in Christian homes, and gifts are exchanged among those who observe Christ's birthday.
But there are no street decorations and no late shopping problems. The post offices have no big signs urging "Mail your packages early."
Yet there is probably no place in the world more appropriate to visit at Christmas. The Holy Sepulchre is in the old part of the city, and at Bethlehem, six miles south, is a great church that has replaced the humble inn where Christ was born. Inside is a large flat stone on which the infant Jesus is supposed to have been laid, reminding us how Christianity grew from one humble life.—Frances Griststead.

AT CHRISTMAS TIME

"Heary, what were you conversing with the ashman about?"

"Why, Helen, I was trying to coax him to smoke these cigars you gave me for a Christmas present."

"Call him back, Heary."

"Ah, you would like to see him take the cigars?"

"No, I want him to take some perfume to his wife—you know, dear, the perfume you selected for my Christmas gift."

The Need of Santa Claus

"If there were no God it would be necessary to invent him," said a well-known writer. There is no Santa Claus in our grown-up world, but we have found we needed him as one of the most beloved characters in the life of a child, which is peopled with legends of the child's own making. The enchanting belief in Santa and his reindeer, his paunch and his pack filled with toys will never hurt a child. The critical grown-ups, who have too completely lost their belief in him and his kind, need your help.

Demand for Christmas Toys

Children are still running true to form in their requests to Santa Claus.
The girls still want dolls, play furniture and toy household appliances and the boys want cowboy suits and mechanical toys year after year.

Children Like to Buy

Children take pride in being able to buy their own gifts for members of the family and for friends. Gift exchange is their ingenuity put to a severe test to find ideas enough to go round in the narrowly limited price range.

A South African was asked whether he had ever set eyes on the unusual variety of wild cat which is said to inhabit the banks of the Modder River. It is described as being bright red in color, with black stripes, piercing yellow eyes which flash out from a round head, and ferocious bristling whiskers. He replied tersely: "I am practically teetotal."

HAVING TROUBLE WITH YOUR CHRISTMAS LIST?

Here are a few suggestions for gifts which would be greatly appreciated by the car owner, and would prove most useful:

Tire Chains, all sizes and prices.
Hot Water Heaters
Windshield Defrosters
Flash Lights
Cigarette or Cigar Lighter

These, and many other items which we carry in stock, are most indispensable to the motorists who use their cars at this season of the year.

Why not come in and have them explained and demonstrated—or call us. We will be pleased to go to your home and assist you in making your choice.

WINDOWS SMASHED

Windows in two Digby business places, were broken Wednesday night, or early Thursday morning. On opening the drug store of P. W. Hols, worth, a rock about the size of a man's fist, was found amongst the display of Christmas goods, and a large hole about eight inches across in the plate glass window on the north side.

The other broken window was in the office of the Canadian Pacific Steamships on the Long Wharf. Chief Police Fred Thibault, who is investigating, does not believe there was any connection in the two breaks. In his opinion the Holsworth break was an act of vandalism, while the break at the wharf was caused accidentally by someone leaning too heavily against the pane of glass.

During his investigation the chief inquired of Fire Chief Harry Hersey, who lives in an apartment over A. R. Turnbull's store, directly opposite the Holsworth store. Mr. Hersey stated he heard the town clock strike two, a few minutes later a car came down the street and stopped with the engine idling. Later, he heard a crash, the car door slam shut, and the car drive off. He thought nothing of it until he heard of the window being broken Thursday morning.

Local and Personal

George Winfield has enlarged his little store near the railway crossing. Schools close today for the Christmas holidays.

The Elms, Mount Street, is open for business.—E. Glencross, Mrs. S. J. Abbott left on Tuesday for Boston where she will spend the holiday season with relatives.

The Digby General Hospital wishes to thank the people of Smith's Cove for their generous donations of jam and jellies.

Ernest Everett brought in a mayflower this week, picked while out cutting his Christmas tree. Is this an early spring or a long summer?

Christmas Tree and programme will be held in the Salvation Army Hall, on Monday evening, commencing at 8 o'clock.

The different bodies in town which have been in the habit of distributing Christmas cheer in the past, are working together this year to avoid duplication.

Mrs. Osborne Turnbull and son, Richard, arrived from Saint John last Saturday and are staying with Mrs. Turnbull's parents, Capt. and Mrs. Fred A. Robinson. Mr. Turnbull arrived yesterday.

The meeting of St. George Lodge, I. O. O. F., last Friday was the best in many months. Three candidates received the first degree. The second degree will be conferred on the 27th and Friendship Lodge, of Bear River, will do the work.

Handsome and inexpensive easel frames for your portraits, and the highly artistic "Gems of Nova Scotia Scenery" with or without frames, at reduced prices.—Yates, Digby.

Long prominent in Nova Scotia medical circles, Dr. Samuel Nelson Miller, who first introduced fresh air and sunshine as treatment for tuberculosis in this province, died at his home in Middleton on Monday. He was 85 years old.

Rev. F. E. Bishop, who went to Charlottetown about the first of December to supply the Baptist church, has been asked by the church to remain until the end of May. Mr. Bishop will go to Fredericton for Christmas, after which he will return to Charlottetown, accompanied by Mrs. Bishop, who is visiting their son, Carl, in Fredericton.

The tern schooner Frances J. Elkin, was sold last Saturday at Saint John for the ridiculously low price of $80, complete with chains, anchors, etc. She has been laid up for the past two years. The Elkin was built at Church Point in 1918, by M. Belliveau, and was registered at Weymouth for many years.

BABE FOUND IN BARN AT SEA BROOK

A two-weeks' old babe was found lying on a litter of hay in the centre of the barn floor of Eliza K. Budd, Sea Brook, three miles from town, shortly before seven o'clock on Wednesday morning, by Gerald Budd, who, with two of his brothers, entered the barn to do their morning chores.

The infant, a male child, was well clothed, and wrapped in a fleecy pink blanket. The clothing appeared to be hand made, of good quality, and some of it had apparently been sewed before. Alongside the baby was a bundle containing a blanket, baby's clothing, diapers and a comforter.

An envelope pinned to the bundle contained a two-dollar bill. On the face of the envelope was a note, addressed to Mrs. Budd, asking her to board "my baby" for two weeks, the two dollars to be used for board. The note, which was written in a small and literate hand, further said, "If I do not return in that time, I will send you more money." The baby's birth date was given as December 4.

Mounted police of the Digby detachment were notified, and went immediately to Sea Brook, to make investigations, and are determined to look into every clue that might lead to the identity of the child and his parents. The Children's Aid Society of Digby, was also notified, and Austin L. Robbins, agent for the Digby and Yarmouth Societies, arrived in Digby yesterday to act for the society.

Later on, the babe was removed to the Digby General Hospital, where it is doing nicely. With the exception of cold hands and feet, it apparently suffered no ill effects from exposure.

He is a beautiful child, with big blue eyes, dark hair (and quite a bit of it), and weighs 7 pounds, 9 ounces. It is understood that the police now have a few clues to work on which may aid in the identification, and lead to an arrest; nevertheless, they are desirous of obtaining all information possible which may be of assistance to them.

Mounted Police told the press last evening they had found the mother of the babe. However, information regarding her identity is withheld. The child was returned at once.

QUITS WHEEL, DIES OF HEART TROUBLE

Driving into Yarmouth Tuesday, Emdon Fleet complained of "not feeling very well" and asked his companion, George Brittain, Pleasant Lake, to take the wheel. Fleet had hardly changed seats when he collapsed and died of a heart attack. He was 46. Emdon Fleet was born in Digby, and left here 12 or 14 years ago for Yarmouth. He was a carpenter by trade. Surviving are his widow and three children, a brother, Burton, of Digby; and a sister, Mrs. William Graves, of Saint John. The remains arrived here yesterday and the funeral took place in the afternoon. Rev. Dr. Hodgson officiating.

Miss Edith Hersey is spending a few days in Halifax. George Garland, of Berwick, is spending a few days in town. Gerald Bishop, of Halifax, spent the week end with his mother here. Best Creamery Butter, 32 cents pound, at Walter VanTassel's.

Mrs. Minnie Appleby left on Tuesday for the United States where she will spend some time.

Miss Muriel Kinney, who has been visiting Miss Edith Mullen, returned to Bear River this week.

Dunn's Service Station will be closed on Christmas Day.

A letter signed by "One Interested" and dealing with transportation problems, etc., was set to go in this issue but last minute advertising forces is to leave it for next week.

The Junior Choir of the United Church is making its first appearance on Sunday evening at the usual 7 o'clock service. It is a rare occasion, and beautiful Christmas music will make it well worth your while, to attend this Christmas service. No admission charged, just the usual offering.

A few weeks ago a new business was opened in town. We canvassed them last week for an ad. but were told "Advertising isn't necessary; our products sell themselves." Today the blinds were down at that store and the proprietors had gone—choosing night time for their departure.

WITH the snows and the crisp December days come our greetings for a Very Merry Christmas.

CHRISTMAS

The Christmas season is here again. What if it does not look as though the gifts would not be as elaborate as in years gone by. What if it does look as if we would all have to get along on less.

After all Christmas time was not meant as a time for ostentatious display, and the giving of costly gifts. The poor man can enjoy it just the same as the wealthy.

Humble as any home may be it cannot be as lowly as the manger in which Christ first saw the light of day.

Few folks of today are as poor as were His family.

They wandered about to Bethlehem with no mode of transportation except that of a tiny donkey. They had few belongings, just what little they could carry in a bundle. They had coarse and cold food. They had none of the luxuries of life, nor any of the modern conveniences.

Few today are in such poor circumstances as that Holy family were in at that time. Even the poorest enjoy comforts that not even Herod enjoyed, and he was the mightiest ruler of the age. So as Christmas time rolls round again let's adjust ourselves to the surroundings in which circumstances have placed us. Let's try to bring a little happiness to those around us and let's try to remember the first Christmas in the manger and be happy that we are alive, living in a great country, and in an age of wonderful opportunities.

The only place where some people are willing to take a back seat is in church.

LIFE'S DEEP HOLES

In the Bald Eagle range of mountains of Pennsylvania there is a deep depression, accessible only through a narrow gorge. So deep is it, or so high the mountains, whichever way you want to look at it, that in mid-summer the sun's rays do not reach the bottom of the hole before 9 a. m., nor after 3 p. m.

And that's about the way with man's life. They are lived at the bottom of holes, spiritual rather than material.

Some of these holes the occupants make themselves, and some are made for them by forces and conditions which they cannot control. And the worst of it all is that few accept help to get out of these holes, and get up on the mountain tops where human aspirations can be rekindled in the warm light of man's sympathy and God's love.

"What is going to become of the younger generation?" is the question frequently heard. The answer is easy. They will fall in love, get married, have children, grow old, and then worry about what is going to become of the younger generation.

LIVE ON THE HIGHER LEVELS

All of us are called upon to make important decisions every day. Many of these decisions if not most of them, concern our environment, which includes our associates, our habits, contacts, and the forces in general which affect our lives and make us either better or worse.

To be more explicit, we decide what company we shall keep, what form of reading we shall indulge in, what political ticket we shall vote, and how much or how little energy we shall put forth toward our tasks.

We may be content with mingling with stupid people who know only one or two things, and very little about them at that. We may associate with those who go through life seeking the easiest tasks, expecting others ever to help them, while they themselves are never linked up with the more useful factors in the community.

This class is not objectionable in the true sense of the word. They are not lawless. They cause no trouble. They are not offensive. But, on the other hand their virtues are negative. They lack qualities of leadership. They would make very little headway were it not for people of superior attainments, people who have done some studying, some thinking, and who have always lived their lives on the higher levels.

If our decision is to associate with people who, as a general rule, live on the higher levels, then our decision is a wise one. We are then seeking the best, and the best is never too good. Nothing can be too good. Nothing should be our goal, short of the best.

We choose our environment, then our environment molds us. Life is reciprocal, a give and take affair. We receive as we give, and in proportion as we give. Anything cheap about our decisions makes us just that much cheaper. A business firm which is tricky, which makes shams and does double-dealing, is injuring itself more than anybody else. It may fool others for a while, but it cannot fool itself. Truth will out, and when it does come out it will once again prove that you can't beat the old game of life. Life always turns the searchlight on those who persist in walking on the lower levels.

The higher levels pertain to the best—the best reading, best associates, the cleanest thoughts and language. The higher levels have the stamp of dignity, and those who dwell there ring true. Their word is as good as their note.

The lower levels of life are crowded, because there are so many people who lack energy and the stamina and vim to climb higher. The upper levels find people lonesome but somehow those minorities are giving ballast and balance to our world. Each one is what he chooses to be. To be content with low aims and sordid associations means a second-rate life. To be satisfied with nothing but the best means a life's victory, and life's greatest usefulness.

The difference between a turkey and a taxpayer is that the turkey gets it in the neck only once a year.

A NEW SAGE HAS ARISEN

The Sackville Tribune runs an interesting column reviewing current events—chiefly political—by the Tribune manager. We always read it, although some times we find its political statements—which give all the good to one side and all the "dumbness" to the other—hard to swallow. But in its issue of the 12th it got "under our skin" from a religious point of view. In this issue the manager found occasion to refer to the subject of "Missions", and this is what he said:—

"I am heterodox, of course, but I confess that I am unrepentant. An appeal to me for funds with which to support missionaries in foreign fields, falls on deaf ears. Very, very deaf ears. I have the idea that Christ's injunction to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature, should be taken with some reservations.

Can you imagine that! The manager of a country newspaper telling Jesus Christ, whose birthday we celebrate next week, that He didn't know what He was talking about! We thought better of the Tribune and its manager than that.

SACRIFICIAL GOLD

It is rather a pitiful gesture that is required of the Italian people in raising the national gold fund. Wedding rings, and other personal possessions, turned over to the government in special ceremonies all over the country, do not contribute much to the total, while they deprive their owners of articles of great sentimental value.

All the gold thus far turned in, from the rich cities as well as the country districts, comes to only a few millions. It can't possibly balance the billions of lire gold which have left the Bank of Italy this year to purchase war materials abroad.

Perhaps Mussolini knows this already and is urging the gold fund not as a practical measure but for its psychological value. The sacrificial spirit involved in parting with wedding rings and other loved treasures will enable citizens to bear other hardships and losses uncomplainingly.

A new use of tanks, under a Norwegian patent, has been developed to transport fish alive to almost any distance, and our western fish dealers will now be able to offer their customers as fresh fish as we get here.

WHO GETS THE INTEREST?

(Financial Post)
When someone borrows money from a Canadian Bank, who gets the interest? From an examination of the available information, we would conclude that only a very small part of it goes into the hands of the shareholders of the Bank.

When a farmer pays 7 per cent interest on a loan from a bank, the 7 per cent is divided up in a number of ways. Probably about 2 per cent of it goes to governments to pay for hospitals, sidewalks, old-age pensions, etc. About 2 per cent goes to the farmer's neighbors, who are depositors in the bank. Another 2 or 3 per cent must go to pay wages, salaries and similar expenses of the bank. We would doubt if as much as 1/2 of 1 per cent finally gets back to the shareholders. And over 90 per cent of these shareholders are people of very moderate means.

The figures we have given are merely rough estimates. The Financial Post cannot present the exact break-up of the $7 the farmer pays each year on a $100 loan. We cannot do it because the banks have not made public the necessary information.

Some day Canadian banks are going to realize that theirs is one of the most human of businesses and that people will be interested in being told the simple constructive facts about it. They will find the public averse to such facts, interestingly presented. And the facts will provide a defense against the misinformation that is spread by some of the critics of Canadian banks and the Canadian banking system.

WHAT SHOULD SCHOOLS TEACH

A fact-finding committee made a survey in New York state to find out what subjects parents wanted their children taught in the public schools. Only one-fifth of the parents questioned replied; leaving considerable room for speculation as to the facts found.

The discovery that surprised the committee most was that farmers do not want their children taught agriculture, parents in industrial sections are less enthusiastic about industrial subjects than are those of other groups, and tradesmen oppose commercial courses.

It may be, says the committee report, "that people do not wish their children to engage in the same occupations as their parents, or they may feel that formal training is not necessary."

It may be, too, that parents want their children to have a broader education than they themselves have had. They may believe that specialization comes more easily and effectively after a sound foundation of general education has been built.

There is a chance, too, that farmers, industrial workers and tradesmen have been dissatisfied with the special courses which have been offered in those subjects, finding them superficial and not particularly helpful. They regard them as a waste of time that might better be devoted to improving English, mathematics and spelling, three subjects which stood at the top in preference.

BRITAIN EXPANDS

The meek not only inherit the earth but hang onto it. Great Britain is planning a plebiscite in Kenya (British East Africa) and Tanganyika (German East Africa now held by Britain under a mandate), to determine whether they shall be joined under the British crown. They would make a Union of East Africa corresponding to the Union of South Africa.

Kenya of course is willing. The German inhabitants of Tanganyika would prefer to have their region revert to Germany. But they are only a handful in a native population of several millions. Britain is not inclined to give back any mandated territory, particularly a choice morsel larger than Germany, rich in gold and other minerals. And Germany lately has seemed reconciled to losing it, looking for future expansion in Eastern Europe.

It would be a pity, as the British point out, to risk any break in their African territory which, with the German piece, runs from the Mediterranean southward through Egypt, the Sudan, Uganda, Kenya, Tanganyika, Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa to the Cape of Good Hope, an expanse more than 4,000 miles long and roomy enough to accommodate the whole British race. Britain certainly deals with real estate in a big way.

Two spinsters up-country were discussing modern youth. One said: "I wonder what the world is coming to with women dressing up as men."

"Yes," remarked the other; "and then they suspect everybody, for only yesterday I got a letter that started: 'Dear Sir or Madam!'"

Mrs. Beatrice Deveau recently returned to her home in Lynn, Mass., after visiting relatives in Meteghan.

Temperance Table Talks

HOW ARE THE MIGHTY FALLEN?

Alcohol is hopelessly losing caste. For many a day it paraded among us as a "stimulant." That gave it a sort of prestige, even in spite of its untoward and disastrous capers. Its respectability belonged to the age of aimless. But today, the strong sunlight of science has been turned upon this as upon everything else. The British Commission on the Action of Alcohol on the Human Body a few years ago declared that "alcohol is first and last a narcotic drug," "essentially sedative," and "is not truly a stimulant." This is a serious indictment, but science is no respecter of persons. The truth it tells is a great leveler, and down falls King Alcohol from his lofty pedestal to take his place with morphine, cocaine, and such like, the "publicans and sinners" of the world of drugs.

This is how it works: The high centres of the brain, latest in development, are those that govern intelligence, judgment, self-criticism and self-control. Alcohol makes a "dead set" for these as its first action on the human body, not to stimulate, mind you, but to stupefy and finally to paralyze. It is just a narcotic drug, no more, no less. Remember that—you can driver, upon whose conduct at the wheel depends the safety, not of yourself alone, but of all with whom you come in contact on the king's highway. Remember that—you "hail fellow, well met," who with just a little sip, but enough to "blur the moral twinges," make yourself quite unfit for decent duty, and not sense it until afterwards. Remember that, too—you man or woman of fashion, who may easily yield to the lure of the cocktail party" only to find that the thrill of the seemingly adventurous has landed you in that state of social decrepitude which inevitably follows from the doping of the higher centres and leaves you the glib victim of uncontrolled emotions, instincts and passions. Alcohol is not crowned "stimulant." It is just low caste "narcotic."

their banqueting halls, their gymnasiums, their cocktail bars or shopping centres—but a good deal less is said at normal times about the grimmer regions of these floating townships. But when it comes to breaking them up at the end of their careers, the cupboards, with skeletons are apt to be exposed as well as the wardrobes with luxurious contents. Thus it is mentioned now that the Olympic is to undergo the dismantling process, that room was found among her various resources for a mortuary and padded cells—apartments that are not likely to have been mentioned to many prospective passengers. Yet it would be difficult to dispute the necessity for those grimmer items in the vessel's scheme of things. Those vast ships put out to sea with a company of passengers, and crew that represent a world in little, and, as we know, "it takes all sort to make a world," even a floating one. The cupboards with the skeletons are a reminder of what some of the sorts may come to.

PADEREWSKI WATCH READY

Paderewski, the great pianist-composer, is to be presented a watch which he will know is his. It has just been completed in Warsaw. The timepiece has the hours represented by the letters I, J, Paderewski, a piano keyboard representing the minutes. The hour hand is in the form of a pen, the minute hand like a conductor's baton, the second hand marked with the name of the district in which Paderewski was born, and around the dial are the notes of 12 Paderewski compositions. It is said to keep perfect time.

Neighborhood News

Frank Jones, K. C. of Digby, spent the week end in town.

W. R. Harris, of Weymouth, was in town on Saturday.

Mrs. M. Sanford, of Torbrook, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Lovett Harris.

Otis Rice, Lee Rice and Alfred Parker spent the week end at their homes.

H. E. Harris, Lawrence Harris and V. L. Harris were visitors to Digby on Friday.

St. John's Guild met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter M. Romans.

Mrs. H. E. Harris and Mrs. Otis Rice spent Monday in Annapolis as guests of Mrs. H. Patterson.

Mr. Earl McCormick went to Digby on Friday and visited her sister, Mrs. Carol Snell, at the hospital, where she is a patient.

Dr. L. J. Lovett motored to Yarmouth on Sunday, accompanied by Fred Marsters, of Deep Brook. The latter, while there, was operated on by Dr. W. S. Phinney.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Harris entertained on Friday night at a dinner bridge of three tables. The prize were won by Mr. and Mrs. James E. Brown and Mrs. J. H. Cunningham.

Miss Dorothy Leary left on Friday last for Halifax and sailed on Sunday for England, where she will make her home with relatives. Mrs. J. D. Harrow accompanied Miss Leary to Halifax and remained there over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Trueman Berry, and were son, Bobby, of Toronto, arrived in Bear River on Wednesday of last week and were guests of Mrs. Berry's aunt, Mrs. A. B. Campbell, until Monday when they left for Halifax, where they will remain a few days before returning to Toronto.

On Saturday the Scout Troop turned out for one of the biggest hikes in several years. Thirteen scouts made the hike down the river to Raymond's Brook. About half a mile up the brook a halt was called for dinner. Breaking into pairs the scouts proceeded to make cooking fires and pass cooking tests. Campers, twigs, porridge hunter's stew and tea were among the first. Class cooking tests passed. About a mile further on bivouacs were erected for the passing of the Campers' badge. From here the hike was cross-country to the Lansdowne road and home—a total of about ten miles.

PHILATHEA CLASS

The Philathea Bible Class of the Bear River Baptist church held its monthly social at the home of Mrs. John Purdy, with the president, Mrs. Roy Snell, in the chair. Forty-seven members and friends gathered round a brilliantly lighted Christmas tree—the emblem of Christmas, time and itself—giving—and all joined heartily in the singing of Christmas carols, and the theme throughout the meeting was "Glory to God in the highest and on Earth Peace Among Men." The story of the Babe of Bethlehem was read by Mrs. S. F. Teves.

Plans were made and a committee appointed to attend to the Christmas Cheer boxes to be distributed this year.

A very pleasing programme followed under the convener'ship of Mrs. Otis Rice.

WOLF CUB NOTES

On Wednesday of last week the Bear River Wolf Cub Pack, under the leadership of Cub Leader, Edward McDormand, and Mother Wolf, Mrs. H. Hatheway, held a Jamboree in the hall, which was well attended and a sum of $10.25 was realized. In the absence of the Scoutmaster, J. H. Cunningham, who had been asked to officiate as chairman, his office was assumed by F. H. Hatheway, who told the audience how the Bear River Cub Pack had been started in the village and how it had progressed under the various leaders. He also told the audience how the Cub movement was founded on the story of Mowgli in Rudyard Kipling's "Jungle Book" and each member of the pack had to qualify for advancement. He praised the present leaders and three rousing cheers were given for the Cub master and mother wolf.

The Cub master then took charge and, assisted by Scouts, Genue and Banks, put the pack through their tests, which were passed successfully, after which he awarded the First Stars was made. The next event was presentation of the new Cub flag, made by Mother Wolf from material supplied by Mrs. A. B. Campbell and Mrs. C. W. Jefferson. The flag was presented by F. H. Hatheway and he urged the Cub master to see to it that the Cub would always regard his flag as emblematic of the Laws of the Pack and the Promise.

Refreshments were then served and the Cub master is grateful to all those who so kindly gave cakes, cookies, coffee, cream and candy. Peanuts, done up in individual bags, were presented to each cub, having been provided by the Scout Master and Mrs. Cunningham.

After singing "God Save the King" the Jamboree came to a close.

Eric Boswell returned from Kentville on Saturday.

Miss Muriel Kinney returned home from Digby on Monday last.

Miss Laura Weir, of Amherst, is a guest at the home of her cousin, George T. Tupper.

Mrs. John Burrill, Clementsvale, returned home from the Digby General Hospital on Friday and is convalescing nicely at her home.

Miss Frances Robinson returned from "Edgehill" this week to spend the Christmas vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Robinson.

Mrs. Roy Alcorn was a patient at the Digby General Hospital for a few days during the past week but has improved and is at home again.

LOWER GRANVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. F. Richardson left on Friday for their home in the United States, after spending the past six months at the Riverview Cottage. Their many friends were glad to see Mr. Richardson so much improved in health.

Mrs. George Anthony entertained the ladies of the Granville Preside Industry. It being the last meeting before Christmas, Christmas carols were sung, with Mrs. A. E. Parker at the piano. Mrs. MacPherson gave a very helpful address and little Mary Thorne and Elizabeth Litch recited. Mrs. May Ray presented Mrs. MacPherson with a gift from those present. A dainty lunch was served.

Clifford MacNeil, who spent the past few months in Somerset, Kings County, returned home on Friday. Mrs. John MacNeil, of Middleton, and Mrs. Lloyd Moore, of Annapolis Royal, spent last Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. MacNeil.

"The World's Redeemer," a Christmas cantata, will be rendered on Sunday evening in the Baptist church. Special music will also be rendered at the morning service. H. B. Veige, of New Germany, was a recent guest at the Grand Central. Other guests at the same hotel have been H. B. Gale, W. B. Rogers and P. L. Judge, of Yarmouth.

Social Credit Talk Fills Every Corner of Alberta

By Henry Edison Williams, Staff Correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor.

On corral fences, in the dry cool of wheat elevators; at mine shafts; in bunk houses; on street corners; in railroad club cars; wherever, in fact, Albertans are found together, in that place there waxed and waned an interminable discussion of Social Credit.

"Impossible! Visionary! It won't work!" denounce adherents of the orthodox school of economics.

"Practical! Imperative! It must work!" defend the advocates of the new school.

And a visitor to the province—finding that to be economically incoherent is to be socially incompetent—does in Alberta what all good Albertans do: He proceeds to seek the wherefore and whensoever of Social Credit where it may be found.

Goal of Efficiency

The objective of the Social Credit party in Alberta is pretty generally known, having been widely publicized during the election which swept the United Farmers of Alberta out of parliament and seated 39 Social Creditors to the right of the Speaker where they face a somewhat pathetic opposition of five liberals and two conservatives.

Premier William Aberhart—teacher, evangelist, Bible student, radio speaker, but distinctly not a politician—was, probably the most surprised man in Alberta when he found that the doctrine which he had adopted and advocated from Major C. H. Douglas's writings, with the hope of giving encouragement to the young people who passed under his supervision, had lifted him into the forefront of provincial affairs.

He had preached—with the vigor, impressiveness and a sense of added authority which radio often lends the human voice—a province free from debt and cleaned from woe, a province self-sustaining, prosperous, progressive, wherein a basic dividend of something like $25 a month for every adult would provide against want while stimulating the rotation of the industrial wheel.

Three Major Factors

The system was to rest on three factors—first, a basic dividend as above mentioned; second, an automatic price control system; third, provisions for a continuous flow of credit. Mr. Aberhart furthermore promised that individual enterprise should not be shackled, that there would be no repudiation or confiscation of that which would be acquired in accord with the British North American Act, and that Alberta's government under the sway of Social Credit would be reorganized from the standpoint of sound business rather than along political lines.

He won. And today he is presiding over a province where every other individual is a more-or-less competent arguer on economic subjects where Social Credit as a theory is already a fact, but Social Credit as a fact is still a theory; where works on economic nationalism are as familiar in many homes as "Robinson Crusoe"; and where the word-of-mouth method of imparting economic doctrine is as popular as it was in Old Testament days.

Technological Unemployment

"Oh, yes," responds the clerk in a book store: "We have plenty of Social Credit literature, although we don't sell a much now as before election. Funny thing: before election every other person was saying, 'Wait till I get my $25 dividend.' Now they are saying, 'Well, even if we don't get it, I guess Mr. Aberhart will give us a competent government, and that's something.' Just the same, I think Mr. Aberhart will go farther than that. I guess we all know something has got to be done about technological unemployment."

Slightly bewildered by such a display of wisdom from an unexpected source, the visitor managed to stammer: "Ah, yes—yes, or, technological unemployment."

"That," continues the clerk brightly, "is why we need Social Credit, don't you think so?" Then without waiting for an answer: "With every machine that's produced and every unit that's added to the total horsepower a certain proportion of human hands and human brain is put out of work."

Rise in Production

"In spite of what old school economists say, higher standards of living and new gadgets, apparently do not increase employment of men to offset the displacement of men by machines. Why, your own United States Department of Commerce shows that during the normal years of 1919 to 1925, while there was a steady gain in production there was an employment decline in the four basic industries of 1,675,000 workers."

"And a report of the Commission on Recent Economic Changes in your country shows that, while from 1900 to 1920 a production increase of 70 per cent brought on increase in jobs of only 40 per cent during the next period of 1920 to 1929 while output was increasing 25 per cent, jobs had fallen off by more than 7 per cent."

"And I remember how your Gen. Hugh S. Johnson once said in a loud voice: 'If we return to the 1928-29 standard of prosperity there would still be 4,000,000 unemployed.' Well, something has to be done for the machine made unemployed. Isn't it better to add them to the world's normal self-respecting consumers by including them in a general Social Credit dividend, than it is to stimulate in them the pauper point of view by placing them even temporarily on relief rolls?"

New "Unearned Income"

Having in thought the orthodox economic theory that technological advances lessen the cost of production the price of goods, increase purchasing power, release money for other purchases and hence stimulate industry so that workers dislocated in one industry may find work in some other and perhaps an entirely new industry—having such thoughts, the visitor finds no immediate reply. He turns to leave the store.

"And don't forget," comes the parting shot, "your own president admitted his fear of permanent unemployment the other day when he pointed out that whereas production is back to 90 per cent of predepression levels, employment shows a lag which brings it only to 82 per cent of normal. Can you suggest something better than our 'unearned' income as a remedy?"

"Unearned Income!" repeats the visitor. "Why the very term violates, all my preconceived notions about the dignity of labor. A dividend to take the place of individual effort—it sounds almost immoral."

Some Visible Examples

With that the visitor makes his way to the street and hails a taxicab. As he is rolled along the wide, windy street and out into the interminable prairies his thoughts finally bubble forth in speech:

"See here," he demands of no one in particular, "wasn't man condemned to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow, and wasn't it St. Paul who said, 'If a man will not work, neither shall he eat?'"

"Right-o, Buddy," grins the taxi driver. "An' make out I don't know the answer to that! Been hearing it explained over the radio for two years or more. Y'see, yonder's a factory, and over there's a hydroelectric plant, and off in the wheatlands there are tractors and gang plows and combines, and here at our feet is a gas engine that whizzes us along. Well, looking at it in a large way, all these doodads constitute the sweat of man's brow. Man thought 'em. He invented 'em. They represent his work. They take the place of muscles. They ought to be slaves, untrusting slaves; but instead of that they hold the whip hand. They put a lot of us out of work; they produce more than we can buy; instead of serving us well, they serve us ill."

Machine Out of Control

"Now we don't want to escape from work. And we don't want to destroy all the machines. Very few of us would like to sit in the sun and twiddle our toes in the dust, even if we could. But doesn't it seem as though the intelligence which man has used in devising these technological slaves might likewise be used in controlling them?"

"In the old days before machines, were invented folks had to get out and hustle to get together the stuff for tomorrow's dinner. Today machines do most of the hustling for us. When this taxi with me at the wheel will take you farther in an hour than you'd get in two days half a century ago."

You wear boots that would have kept an old-time shoemaker busy for two weeks when craftsmen made by hand only about 25 pairs of shoes a year. Today a factory shoe worker averages more than 1,000 pairs a year, and I hear there's a machine that's capable of turning out finished boots and shoes without the aid of a human hand, except for the machine tender."

"They tell us of a bottle-making machine that replaces 54 men; of a rib-cutting machine that does the work of 25 girls; of a coal conveyor that supplants 49 men, of an electric milker that milks six cows at once; of another machine that does the work of 60 bank clerks; and it has been estimated that some 4,000 men equipped with modern machinery could produce the whole of the wheat crop in the United States."

Abundant Resources

"Now it looks to a lot of people as though with such efficient means of producing and distributing goods, with such a fund of raw materials to draw from; with all these means at hand to supply an abundance for all and with such vast power reserves, ready to give untiring service to mankind—it seems, we think, as though there were time to find out whether that old rule of 'no work, no eat,' really holds water. In Paul's day when scarcity was the rule, that was good common sense."

"Today, when intelligence has supplanted brawn; to the extent that much of the burden of labor has been transferred from human to mechanical shoulders, we think it possible that intelligence might be utilized further to adjust our potential abundance so that the burden of insecurity should be lifted from individual shoulders onto the shoulders of a new economic order based on human progress rather than on human cupidity."

Admittedly Revolutionary

"And," inquires the visitor, "you think Social Credit is capable of doing this?"

"Ah," remarks the visitor, we begin to see. You Social Creditors, then, propose to change the financial system so that the banks will not have a monopoly in the creation of 'tickets,' or credit money. Is that it?"

"Something like that, broadly speaking. We think that if the power to monopolize credit making and the accompanying power to fix prices were removed from private hands, such as the banks which trade for profit in money, the capitalistic system could go on with benefit to all. And we believe that this would go far toward normalcy by getting rid of the present threat of Socialism or Communism or regimentation of any sort."

"Tampering" with Money

After some further talk the visitor departs, still greatly concerned with the old taboo that had entered his youthful consciousness, with the Bryan "Cross of Gold" debates, and had remained as a caution that to "monkey" with currency is a dangerous business. In the lobby of his hotel he shares some of his apprehensions with the manager.

"Well," agrees this competent man; "I'm just an average person. Frankly outside of business routine, I don't understand money, and I think very few people do. And so I'm a bit concerned with this talk of tampering with the financial system. But, on the other hand, I have a great deal of faith in Alberta and its people. It seems to me that in a

"Enough of us Albertans thought so to elect a Social Credit government. We think it's worth trying. And we think our reasons for the change are sound."

"But the method. Isn't it pretty revolutionary?"

"Maybe so. Machines are revolutionary, too, aren't they? They destroyed the old rule of scarcity and brought the possibility of abundance for all. But we haven't enjoyed this abundance because our methods of distribution do not allow us sufficient buying power to keep the machines going."

A Farmer Witness

Having had some experience with the lack of buying power, the visitor remains thoughtful as the taxi rolls into a farmyard and comes to a stop before a barnyard gate. The farmer is seated on the fence watching the antics of a frisky heifer. The tentative cordial having been established, the visitor broaches his subject:

"And how's your buying power today?" he inquires.

The farmer grins. He knows what is expected of him.

"Well, sir," says he; "there's some of it on that fence," pointing to a bundle of cowhides. "There's a lot of shoes and harnesses and travelling bags and upholstery, and the like in them hides. Yet I'm wearing worn-out boots. The only travelling bag we got is made of rat skin or something, some of our upholstery just ain't, and my work harnesses are patched till they creak."

"Yes, sir, my trouble is that I can't realize on my buying power. Them hides would make a lot of things I want and other people want as well. But no one will buy the hides, because something has happened to the money market and they ain't got the tickets."

What Is Money?

"Tickets?"

"Tickets, yes, sir. That's all money is, isn't it? It's a sort of claim on goods or services, somebody says. They call it a medium of exchange, I call it tickets. What's a dollar bill but a ticket, largely created by book-keeping. We all know that there's more currency in circulation than there is gold in the vaults to cover it. We take it and use it on faith because we believe the credit of the banks or nations that issue it is sound."

"It's actually credit, or credit money. It's not valuable to us because of or in ratio to the gold it represents, but because of our belief in its buying power. When our confidence begins to waver to the money structure begins to break down and we have another periodic depression."

"And our confidence begins to go when we find the machinery of distribution slowing up. When we find that tickets for the goods that are being turned out are not circulating fast enough to use up the goods. When that happens my hides hang on the fence unwanted. I get along without new boots and my wife uses a straw suitcase."

Hides Better Than Gold

"Measured in every-day needs my hides represent more utility than gold in vaults. I'd like to have people get the benefit of my hides; and in exchange I'd like to get the benefit of the things other people produce. But I can't bring this about, because something has happened to financial credit. Now real credit is still there. The potential ability of society to produce and to consume what it produces is still there. The natural resource, and the means for their utilization are still there. In other words there is plenty of social credit. But we are not able to benefit by this real credit because somewhere among the many varieties of our present banking and financial system, something has happened to our tickets."

"Ah," remarks the visitor, we begin to see. You Social Creditors, then, propose to change the financial system so that the banks will not have a monopoly in the creation of 'tickets,' or credit money. Is that it?"

"Something like that, broadly speaking. We think that if the power to monopolize credit making and the accompanying power to fix prices were removed from private hands, such as the banks which trade for profit in money, the capitalistic system could go on with benefit to all. And we believe that this would go far toward normalcy by getting rid of the present threat of Socialism or Communism or regimentation of any sort."

"Tampering" with Money

After some further talk the visitor departs, still greatly concerned with the old taboo that had entered his youthful consciousness, with the Bryan "Cross of Gold" debates, and had remained as a caution that to "monkey" with currency is a dangerous business. In the lobby of his hotel he shares some of his apprehensions with the manager.

"Well," agrees this competent man; "I'm just an average person. Frankly outside of business routine, I don't understand money, and I think very few people do. And so I'm a bit concerned with this talk of tampering with the financial system. But, on the other hand, I have a great deal of faith in Alberta and its people. It seems to me that in a province so rich in resources as this, something might be done to eliminate recurrent slumps and to eradicate want. And it seems to me probable that, so long as the majority of Albertans are behind it, almost any social security scheme might be made to work. Besides that, I am convinced by the way many thoughtful men show a willingness to go along with Social Credit."

"I know of one manufacturer from another province who is so convinced that Social Credit will bring prosperity to Alberta that he is negotiating to move a branch of his factory here."

"And here in the hotel we are entertaining a well-known economist whose writings have appeared in many of our magazines. In the States, he tells me, the Social Credit has such a margin of workability that even though Mr. Aberhart is unable to adopt all of Major Douglas's proposals there still remains a fair chance of success. I'm not worrying, yet. And most of the business men with whom I talk seem optimistic. But I must say that the bankers are pretty hot and bothered over it."

Economist Interested

A little later the visitor meets the economist.

"Albertans," he ventures, "seem pretty well set in the mind for reform in the distribution of wealth, but I have hard work understanding the remedy called Social Credit."

"You have plenty of company," responds the economist with a smile. "Some people declare that Mr. Aberhart himself does not understand it. But the remedy Major Douglas proposes is not difficult to state. It's the discussion about it that becomes involved. Briefly, the remedy comes under three heads."

"First, comes a change in the control of the banking policy. While retaining the efficient banking machinery, Social Creditors, propose to base credit on currency on the full capacity of industry to produce, rather than on gold. And they propose to keep the credit in proportion to production."

"Then they would get up a statistical board to regulate prices according to need, rather than financial cost. This is expected to prevent the loss of buying power through short cutting, to lower prices and to insure the full consumption of industry's products."

"And finally comes the Social Credit dividend which is expected to go to every adult Albertan. The original source of this dividend would be traced back to a portion of potential production, natural resources, etc. The hoped-for effect is, the continuing relief of distribution, a speeding-up of industry, an expansion of business, an increase in jobs and wages, and a constantly rising demand for more goods."

Typical Observations

Not all the Albertans one meets discuss the ubiquitous subject in such detail, but most of them have something to say. The foregoing conversations are typical of one class. Out of casual conversations with some 25 individuals on the streets of Edmonton and elsewhere it is possible to select a few of our subjects.

A Calgary professional man: "Social Credit in Alberta is in for a tough battle, and I don't see how it can succeed. But we've got to find an answer to our economic muddle somewhere, and so I think the experiment worth trying."

A girl at the news counter: "They tell me I'd better not quit my job to go to another province, if I don't want to lose my dividend. But I'm going. I can't see 'em paying dividends when they haven't even balanced the budget."

Contrasting Opinions

A man in a government position: "I've seen too many on relief who won't work when we give them the chance to think that Social Credit would be a good thing. The balance of voting power even now is too much in the hands of the ne'er-do-wells with large families. Give such people $25 for nothing and many of them would be a menace. It would put a premium on large, improvident families."

A housewife and church worker: "It sounds very attractive. I could do so much good with $25. I hear that it will work and I hear that it won't. I don't understand such things. But I think Mr. Aberhart is a wise and honest man and whether we get Social Credit or not I believe he will do much for Alberta."

A college professor: "Douglas's A plus B theorem is full of holes. If A owes B $5, and B owes C, and C owes D the same amount, and D in turn owes A $5 they could come to an agreement without money passing hands. But if D doesn't owe A, that puts the work-out of kilter. That's what the A plus B theorem does to Social Credit. Puff! The whole thing is outlandish."

Search for Security

Yet there is nothing outlandish about the picture of a whole province taking a revolutionary step in a common search for security. Perhaps there are mistakes. That will be proven pro or con in time. But, right or wrong, this thing is certain—Social Credit is producing in Alberta a population of economically-minded citizens who are going to demand some answers that no mere platitudes can supply."

How the new Social Credit government in Alberta proposes to respond is a subject for another article. But how society will respond to this and other challenging proposals for a new economic order—proposals like the Townsend plan, the EPIC movement, the various share-the-wealth programs—is something which is likely to furnish one of the most engrossing fields for study. Viewed in this light the Alberta experiment has significance far greater than the immediate development might indicate.

Believed to be the first in the province the Glace Bay General Hospital is now operating with the members of the nursing staff working on an eight-hour day basis.

Fred Heigh and his four-piece orchestra, of Hill Grove, played for a dance at the Weymouth Point hall on Wednesday evening of last week.

VERY ATTRACTIVE

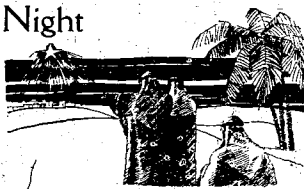

No doubt most of you have been in Mrs. Roop's store this season, and have seen how attractive it has been made for the occasion. For the ladies, there is certainly a fine display, placed attractively, in order to look its best. For the men, everything is in a conspicuous place attracting them. The windows of the store are certainly a credit to the decorator, and we have heard many remarks about the very original candles lighting the first window. Those who have not been in the store this season, make it a point to go now, see for yourself if we are not correct in pointing out these excellent qualities. The whole store, not excluding Miss Chisholm's department, is remarkably well displayed.

Earl Prime, of Kyle, Saskatchewan, is visiting his sister, Mrs. B. H. Ruggles. He plans to remain east for the winter.

JOGGINS SCHOOL

A Christmas Concert will be held at the Acadiaville African Baptist Church, on Monday, Dec. 23rd, at 8.15 o'clock, p.m. Admission, 15c.

Edson R. Waite, the writer of those interesting articles, "Did You Ever Stop to Think," died at his home in Oklahoma last week.

Hundreds of candles will be lighted in Hebrew homes during the festival of dedication which begins today and lasts for eight days. The feast which is called Hanukkah, commemorates the valiant deeds of Judah Maccabaeus, who opposed the tyranny of a Syrian governor and thereby restored the Temple at Jerusalem to the worship of God.

The B. Y. P. U. and the Girl Guides of the Acadiaville African Baptist church, visited the Alms House at Marshalltown on Sunday last, where they spent the afternoon in singing hymns and quoting Scripture to the inmates. Fruit, candy and peanuts were passed around by the visitors.

Mrs. Reginald Comeau and her little child, returned from the village post office at Marshalltown about 5.45 Wednesday afternoon, to find their small bungalow in a mass of flames, and in spite of all the neighbors could do, it, with all its contents, was destroyed. The origin of the fire is unknown but it is supposed to have caught from a defective flue. The Comeau home was one of the several small dwellings that have been erected recently on the Bay Road, (No. 1 Highway), a short distance below the Alms House, and near the Ryan residence.

SMITH'S COVE

The December meeting of the Smith's Cove Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. John Smith on Wednesday afternoon last. A large number of members and several guests were present. After the usual business was dealt with a social half-hour followed.

The chief attraction was a prettily trimmed Christmas tree from which each member received a gift. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Frank Weir.

The January meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Edward Payson, with Mrs. George W. Whitman and Miss Cora Thomas as hostesses. The roll call subject will be: "A New Year's Resolution." Programme—First photo contest.

"DO YOU ever wish anything in these contests you are always quibbling about?" Muriel Wilson quipped at her sister Agnes, who was home for the holidays, as they sat on the bed doing up last minute family gifts Christmas eve.

"Not yet," Agnes laughed. "But by the law of averages I should win sometimes."

"Soon, I'd say," Muriel said grimly. "You've been entering contests of one kind and another ever since we were infants and mother entered you in a prettiest baby contest."

"That's where I began my losing. If I won then I'd probably have kept on winning like these people we read about who live on what they make from contests."

"Phooey!" Muriel scoffed. "What makes you do it, anyway?"

"Just my love of adventure. I'm really a born gambler—in a discreet way, of course. That's why I write for my living. Just to see if my brain children will find a place or come back home to me."

"Was it your love of adventure, or gambling spirit, or whatever you call it, that made you turn down Harold Ryan three years ago when he came home from college with his cousin Fred to spend the holidays? Now, why did you do that, Agnes? He was everything anyone would want in a husband—looks, family, money, and aren't we always told that marriage is the great adventure?"

"Maybe it is an adventure but what sort of a gamble is it to marry a man who already has everything. No, I preferred to gamble with my own career."

"And now that you've made a success where is the gamble in it?" Muriel asked, looking at her sister with a mischievous grin.

"When Agnes replied it was in a more serious manner:

"Since you ask me so pointedly, Muriel dear, I told you, perhaps, if Harold lost his money during the depression, as so many did, and if he were to present himself now as a man winning his way through his own efforts, I might trust myself to adventure along with him. But I fancy, it is too late. He's probably found some less adventurous soul ere this."

"Most likely," Muriel answered, as she rose to answer the doorbell which had been persistently ringing. "Guess we're home alone." She hurried down the stairs.

Five minutes later she was back, trying vainly to refrain from any show of excitement:

"Some one on business for you, Agnes. He's the persistent kind, insisted he had to see you right now."

"Oh, well, all right. I'll go down and get it over with," Agnes took off her smock and departed.

Muriel heard Agnes' surprised ejaculation, but it was some time before she was summoned to join the two in the living room below.

"Muriel is just dying to congratulate me," Agnes' sister groined her younger sister. "Behold, sister mine, I've actually won in a contest. You see, Harold is bringing editor now on the paper that was running this particular contest. When the judges were sort of stuck as to which of three people they would prize they referred the matter to him and, recognizing your honorable sister's name among the three, he immediately decided in her favor and came, in person, to deliver it."

"But I thought it was for another reason I was to congratulate you," Muriel did not try to conceal her disapproval.

"There is," Harold answered promptly. "I let Agnes speak first. But the reason I had for bringing Agnes the prize in person was to see if I could win this prize person."

Just then the door of the room adjoining was thrown open and another overjoyed young man appeared. This time it was Agnes' friend to show astonishment:

"All things, Fred Ryan! Have you been there all the time?"

"Sure thing. I came with Harold, a sort of moral support. You see, Muriel and I have our wedding all planned. Let's make it a double one."

To which bright idea they all joyfully agreed, hugging one another and shouting "Merry Christmas!"

It's a good sign when cigar makers report a decided increase in their smoking. Cigars were among the first articles to feel depression effects.

It is just one hundred years ago this autumn, we read, that the first act was passed against cruelty to domestic animals—by the British parliament.

Journey From Nazareth, Birth of Christ Child

ALMOST two thousand years ago the great emperor, Caesar Augustus, sent out a decree that the whole world should be enrolled. Each one was to go to his own city; to the house of his fathers. None were exempt from the decree.

From the hill town of Nazareth two people set out in answer to the summons. One, a tall, bearded figure, his shoulders sagging under the weight of years, and from the continued stooping that his trade as a carpenter necessitated. The other, a young and beautiful woman, her face aglow with a strange, sweet serenity. Their names were Joseph and Mary, and they were going to the distant town of Bethlehem, not because they were of the house of David.

The man waited patiently beside the plodding donkey on which the woman was seated. They showed no impatience as others passed them by; nor did they join with any of their fellow travelers in venting anger against Caesar for taking them on such a long and tiresome journey.

Perhaps because of Joseph's age, or of Mary's delicate condition, they were among the last to enter Bethlehem, and to seek a shelter at the inn. They were told that there was no room for them there. Their humble appearance made no appeal to the innkeeper on a night when more prosperous looking guests were crowding the doors.

Disappointed and fearful, they sought further. But they could find no place. Some one spoke of a cave outside the town. Joseph looked at Mary and his eyes filled with tears. But she nodded assent. . . . And in that lowly place, warmed only by the breath of Joseph, the babe and promise of all mankind, was born into the world—Katherine Edelman.

Giuseppe's Christmas Was a Grand Revelation

CHRISTMAS was approaching and Giuseppe was "homeless." There were others in the school from foreign lands but no one spoke Giuseppe's language.

Christmas had been so much fun in Italy. In the province where Giuseppe lived, a tree decked with oranges was the center of their Christmas festivities. All the relatives came to a big feast on Christmas day, and afterwards old and young danced around the orange tree, and, of course, some folks had a miniature manger with St. Joseph and other figures.

"I don't see how I am ever going to stand it," Giuseppe said to his mother. But she had answered and said, "It will be all right, son. You'll see."

Then Christmas preparations began at school. There were carols to be sung, and Giuseppe was to sing the carols of his country, all by himself. Giuseppe was very proud. There was a play with the manger and the wise men, shepherds, angels and Mary; the Virgin, and Joseph. Giuseppe could not tell his ears when he found he was to be Joseph. And after the program there was the tree.

But what was that? Giuseppe said to his mother and father as they walked home together, and mother and father agreed—Florence Harris Wells.

Use Sleigh Bells for Jolly Christmas Game

HERE is a new and exciting game to play at a Christmas party. First borrow a set of sleigh bells. They are not as easy to find as in the old days. Find a string with tinsel, varying notes. If you wish the game to jingle to the full measure of holiday fun.

The idea is simply this: It is possible to suggest, then control the action of a person who does not know what is in your mind, but must find out through the sound of the bells. Here is the way to do it:

Send one of the guests from the room. The remainder decide what he must do. For instance—go to a certain table, pick up a book, take it to another table and place it near the lamp. Here are four separate acts in succession.

The person outside is called back. Somebody has been chosen to be the manipulator of the bells. He must use a nice judgment in giving them, ringing softly when the act approaches what is in the minds of all; ringing loudly as the perplexed player moves away.

Try it. Use subtle gradations of sound to guide your partner. Without a word being spoken he will at last be guided to do what has been secretly agreed upon. Loud ringing when he is far from his goal or going from it, soft, soft, barely audible when he is near the doing of what is required.

Martha Banning Thomas.

MAKE HOME AND TOWN ATTRACTIVE

Why is it that the average young man of twenty has an intense longing for life in the big cities?

Why is it that the millions of men of maturity in the cities have an equally intense longing for the peace and quietness of the rural districts they left in their younger days?

The country towns do not blaze with the bright lights of life as do the great cities. It is small, but it is gold and substantial and inclined to be subdued. Its citizens' words are as good as their bonds, and their reputation stands high in the sight of their fellowmen, but the variety and excitement that appeals to youth is too often missing. Hence youth becomes restless, and impatient of restraint and finally breaks the home ties and rushes into the maelstrom of metropolitan existence.

Once in a great city, possibly one in ten succeed, and a few forge gradually to the front. In time these few are known to the world as self-made men. The other nine are not so fortunate.

Opportunities are numerous. It is true, but where there is one opportunity there are many young men of varied experience to grasp it.

Thus the great majority of young men from the country who invade the cities expecting to set the world afire, find that about the best they can do is to burn the candle at both ends.

Too proud to go back to the home town and confess failure, they just plug along and do the best they can, disillusioned and wiser but no better. There are millions who, later in life, long for the peace and quietude of the home towns they left in their younger days.

The remedy is simple. Pull the home town out of the rut and the boys won't want to rush out of the town.

Loosen up on the purse strings and introduce some spice and variety into our community life.

Make the country town and the farm so attractive to our young people that the city will no longer appeal to them.

Don't expect our boys and girls with red blood in their veins to be content with spending their lives in a cemetery.

Begin to live yourself, and you won't be opposed to allowing the rising generation to do the same.

Life is full of changes, and there is only one end for the person who is not willing to change with the times.

PENCILS

Only three firms in the world specializing in the art of pencil manufacture are reputed to have arrived at the perfect pencil. One of these firms is in Austria, another in the United States and the third in England.

During the war English firms were the sole manufacturers of pencils for all the Allied Governments, with the consequence they were unable to supply outside parties with pencils, and many shops stocked pencils of foreign make.

The lead was originally made entirely from graphite, but today is composed of a mixture of clay and graphite. Hard lead contains little graphite, while soft lead contains the maximum of it.

Red cedar wood from Virginia, U. S. A., is the best outer covering for the lead.

One English firm, with an output of a million pencils a week, manufactures 500 different varieties of them.

PULPWOOD FLOATING AT SEA

Evidence of what may have been a marine disaster was sighted recently from the steamer Markland, on her way from Liverpool to New York. She radioed the branch hydrographic office of the Customs House in Boston that she had steamed through about 100 bundles of pulpwood, floating on the sea about 150 miles east of the Boston lightship.

In spite of the gales and heavy seas of the past few weeks, there has been no report of any vessel foundering in that vicinity. It has been pointed out that, while there are a number of Nova Scotia schooners engaged in the carriage of pulpwood from Nova Scotia to United States Atlantic ports, even if one had sprung a bad leak her cargo would keep her afloat. Coast guardsmen are of the opinion that the pulpwood is part of the deckload of some ship, washed overboard by heavy seas. The patrol boat Harriet Lane has been detailed to investigate.

THE ROMANCE OF RUBBER

When Christopher Columbus found American natives playing with balls made of a substance of which he was entirely ignorant, the famous Spanish discoverer was the first white man to see rubber. That was about 1496, but it was not until the 19th century that two discoveries brought into being rubber as we know it today. In 1820 Thomas Hancock discovered the process known as mastication, while three years later Charles Macintosh adopted the use of coal tar naphtha for making a solution for proofing fabric. In 1843 Thompson made the first rubber tyre, but it was left to J. Dunlop to make the pneumatic tyre a commercial proposition in 1889.

The real beginning of the rubber industry within the British Empire was made in 1876 when 70,000 seeds were smuggled out of Brazil and sent to Kew. About 2,000 germinated. Some were sent to India, some to the Malay Peninsula, but the majority went to Ceylon. Today over one million tons are produced yearly.

METECHAN

Rev. Father L. d'Entremont visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles d'Entremont, of Lower West Public, on Monday of last week.

Mrs. J. J. Thibodeau, of Church Point, visited her cousin, Mrs. Augustin Dugas, last week.

Rev. Father L. Comeau, curate at Amherst, who was visiting his sick mother, Mrs. Edouard Comeau, of Comeauville, was the guest of Rev. Fr. Deveau, on Thursday last.

Basile Robichaud has returned home from Black's Harbour where he has been employed.

Mr. Sollows arrived last week from Prince Rupert, British Columbia, to stay a few months with his aged parents in Freeport, after a few years' absence. He also visited Mrs. Sollows' parents in Port Maitland last week.

Alphonse Saulnier, of Meteghan River, left last week for Boston.

Mrs. John Comeau, Digby, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Williams, on Friday.

Rev. Father D. Comeau, P.P. of West Public, accompanied by the Sisters of his Convent, paid a visit to the Meteghan and Church Point Convents.

Mr. and Mrs. Denier Melan-on, of Grosses Coques, recently visited their daughter, Mrs. Joseph L. Comeau. Bernie Gaudet, with his family, moved last week to their new and lovely residence near the Convent property.

WITH THE CANADIAN CLUB

The 35th annual banquet and ladies' night of the Canadian Club of Boston, at the Hotel Vendome, a few nights ago was the most successful in recent years. The presence of Hon. J. L. Libby, minister of national revenue, as guest speaker, attracted a large number of guests, who enjoyed both the speech of the minister and the short address of Governor James M. Curley, who went on from an engagement at Worcester to attend the affair. Professor Roy Davis, of Boston University, whose home was in Colchester County, was toastmaster.

Among those present were: R. E. Gilliland; Mrs. Mabel D. Butler, a native of Annapolis County; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Prime, the former from Freeport, the latter from Saint John; Miss Letitia Berry, Deer Brook; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon G. Cook, Yarmouth; Albert T. Cann, Digby.

THE STORY OF FIRE INSURANCE

The first organized effort to found a fire insurance company was made in 1635, when a number of London citizens petitioned the King to allow them to insure houses at the rate of a shilling per year for each 20 pounds (sterling) rent, the association undertaking to repair or rebuild houses that were burned and to institute certain precautions against fire, such as watchmen to patrol the streets at night.

Political disturbances led to the idea being abandoned, but it was revived by the Great Fire of 1666, which led directly to the establishment of fire insurance companies.

One of the first was founded the following year by Dr. Nicholas Barbon, a son of the famous Puritan, "Praise-God Barebones." The business thus started was taken over shortly afterwards by a company styling itself "The Fire Office," its purpose being to insure houses in London for a fixed premium of 2½ per cent for wooden buildings. The business developed, and so great was the interest taken in it that the Common Council of the City of London proposed insuring its citizens' houses at lower rates than the company. The plan, however, was vetoed. The judges upholding that the Council had no power to transact such business.

Many insurance companies sprang up at this period, among them the "Phenix Office," which was not, as some suppose, the original of the present Phoenix Company; the Union Society; the Company of London Insurers, known nowadays as the Sun Office; and the Hand-in-Hand, which began as the Amicable Contributors for Insuring from Loss by Fire, and with which, it is believed, Daniel Defoe was connected.

The present day Fire Brigade system owes its existence to these early companies, each of which kept its own fire engine and staff of firemen. Not quite a hundred years ago the companies amalgamated their staffs of fire fighters, and in this way the term "Fire Brigade" came into being.

The old "fire-marks" of the companies may still be seen on houses in London and elsewhere. They were metal plates marked with the number of the policy and moulded in a distinctive design. Property to which a "fire-mark" was affixed was judged to be safe from incendiaryism. The "Sun Office" mark was one of the best known.

PORT WADE

The ladies of the Baptist church held a supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Johns, last Tuesday. The sum of $41 was realized.

Mrs. Bancroft, of Round Hill, recently spent a few days with Mrs. Ada Johnson.

Mrs. Laila Ellis returned home from Saint John last Saturday. She has been spending the past month in that city with her daughter, Mrs. Nooks.

Members of the Ever Faithful Sunday School Class held their annual class meeting at the home of Mr. James Snow, on Saturday evening. Officers elected for the coming year are as follows:—

Teacher—Miss Lillian Johns.
President—Mrs. Cyril McWhinnie.
Treasurer—Mrs. Robert McGrath.
Secretary—Mrs. James Snow.

Membership Committee—Misses Marton and Hazel McWhinnie and Etta Musells.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

FREEPORT

Miss Elaine Eaton arrived 1½ months recently from Boston, where she has been spending the summer and fall months.

Little Donald Weir had to undergo an operation for appendicitis last week in the Digby General Hospital. He was accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Weir, the latter remaining in Digby until he is able to come home.

Rev. Mr. Derby, pastor of the Christian church in Westport, gave a lecture in the Freeport Hall on Monday evening.

Mrs. Doris Nickerson, who has been visiting relatives and friends in Weymouth, has returned home.

The Western Star Division had two more added to its growing number last Friday evening. They were Lawrence Bates and Miss Edna Thurber. The music was provided by the following group: Dr. A. F. Weir, Miss Margaret Weir, Gerald Stoddart and Watson Crocker.

The Sunday School concert will be held in the Freeport Baptist church on Sunday evening.

The schools close for the Christmas holidays today. The closing Christmas concert was given last night.

George Lent, student at St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish and son of Principal P. I. Lent, of Westport, (formerly of Freeport), figured in an important part of the cast in the play, "The Answer," which was presented in the Picton County town under the auspices of the Westville Credit Union.

Miner Suffered With Rheumatism

Nova Scotia Man Reports Relief Through Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Carbury Got Prompt Relief.

Macan, N. S., Dec. 16, (Special).—I have been troubled since 1915 with rheumatism in my back and legs," writes Mr. Thomas Carbury, of this place. "I tried several things without relief. A friend told me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took his advice. After taking two boxes I found relief. I am 45 years of age and a miner."

Rheumatism is often caused by uric acid in the blood. If the kidneys are in good condition they strain impurities from the blood. If the kidneys are out of order and fail, poisons remain in the system and rheumatism often follows. To help keep the kidneys in good condition do as Mr. Carbury did—take Dodd's Kidney Pills as thousands of others have done during the past fifty years.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION MEETS

Members of St. Anne's Alumni Association of New England gathered recently at the Hotel Lenox, Boston, for their regular quarterly meeting, and to hear an address by Rev. Father A. Deparle, S. M., rector of the Church of Our Lady, Boston, which numbers among its members many Academics, on "Conditions in Mexico." Father Deparle's mother, Mrs. Eliza (Baker) Deparle, was a native of Arichat.

The St. Anne's Association, which is constantly growing, now has more than 200 on its membership rolls. Many of the graduates of the college at Church Point have migrated to the United States and many are prospering.

Henry J. Cormier, president, was in the chair. Mr. Cormier, who now lives in Waltham, was a member of the class of 1916.

Others present included Albert G. Baker, the secretary, class of 1910; Gerald Lefort, of Woonsocket, treasurer, '15; Neil Comeau, a native of Little Brook, who was the first student to enroll at St. Anne's in 1889—he graduated in 1897; A. F. Thibault, of Church Point, now of Malden, class of '10; Alphonse J. Boudreau, of Church Point, now of Quincy, class of '13; Sam Comeau, of Dorchester, class of '21; Ambrose J. Comeau, of Lynn, class of '22; John N. Parkin, of Somerville, class of '08; William J. LeBlanc, of Dorchester, class of '04; J. Edward Gaudet, born at Saulperville Station, now of Somerville, class of '26; Lubin Daniel Chaisson, native of Marikare, now of Belmont, class of '14; John D. Stuart, of Church Point, now of Watertown, class of '12; Ferdinand P. Lefort, of Taunton, class of '13; M. F. Melanson, of Church Point, now of Dorchester, class of '13; Gustave Comeau, of Saulperville Station, now of Somerville, class of '13; Frank Boivin, of Dorchester, class of '12; Emile Bellevue, of Church Point, class of '14, and Adolph Melanson, of Milton, class of '04.

CULLOREN

Mrs. Wiley Ross spent a day last week with relatives in Yarmouth. James Ross spent last week with friends in Bridgetown.

Mr. and Mrs. W. VanTassel and Mrs. Lotie Small spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Small.

Miss Rhoda Handsaker, of Digby, spent Sunday with relatives in this place.

Mrs. Wilfred Murphy spent Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mc-ton Crawford, Lighthouse Road.

The sum of $10.35 was realized at the pie sale held in the United Church last week. The proceeds go toward the up-keep of the church.

Mrs. John Daley, William Daley and George Daley spent Sunday in Marshfield with Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Daley.

Jud-on Hand-piker spent the week end with friends in Rossway. Mrs. William Daley and son Crawford, spent Sunday in Gulliver's Cove with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Peters.

Capt. Wiley Ross, of the Government Dredge, spent Sunday with his family here.

Elliot VanTassel, of Mount Pleasant, was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Ross.

Wishing the Courier and all its readers a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Mr. Charles R. Grant, Weymouth, left on Wednesday for Annapolis Royal to visit his sister, Mrs. G. B. Hardwick.

BIBLES FOR THE LEGISLATORS

The Gideons, an organization of commercial travellers that has been responsible for placing Bibles in hotel rooms, now plans to place the Scriptures on the desks of all Canadian legislators. Whether this means that they are of the mind the legislators are in need of Scriptural guidance or not they do not say, but if they were to take a glance through Hansard, Senate or House of Commons, they might be surprised to find that the Bible is not overlooked; that it is often quoted, and by none more than Mr. King and Mr. Bennett. The Bible is a widely read book, and the legislators do not overlook it. In his time Sir Wilfrid Laurier read the Bible regularly, not only for the inspiration it gave, but because of its clear, simple diction. Sir Wilfrid sought to express himself in the English language in a way that was lucid, as plain and understandable as possible, and so he resorted to the Bible for instruction. Despite the talk about the world drifting away from Christianity, the Bible is still the world's best selling book. It still carries inspiration and guidance to hundreds of thousands, and by many more is treated as the world's best example of purely and simply expressed English; it is not infrequent to find noted writers paying tribute to it as the world's masterpiece.

RECORD OF SHIPWRECK 151 YEARS OLD

A Tokyo paper records that a note written on pieces of wood and sealed in a bottle telling the fate of 45 shipwrecked Japanese sailors who embarked on a search of a treasure island 151 years ago, was found on the shore of Hirata-mura, Aomori Prefecture, by one named Zinkichi Fukushi, recently.

Finding the bottled notes written on pieces of wood, the finder took it to the Aomori Meteorological Observatory.

The note is written by Chunosuke Matsuyama, the last survivor of the crew, and according to the note, the 45 men embarked on a search of a treasure island said to be located in the Northern Sea, according to the order given by their overlord.

On account of heavy seas and storm, they drifted more than 700 days and finally were wrecked on an uninhabited island. The crew died one by one until finally only two were left, the writer of the note and a carpenter named Seisaku. As the end of their lives neared, Chunosuke Matsuyama wrote the message on pieces of wood, and sealing them in a bottle, threw them into the sea. One hundred and fifty-one years later, the note reached the shores of Aomori, and was picked up.

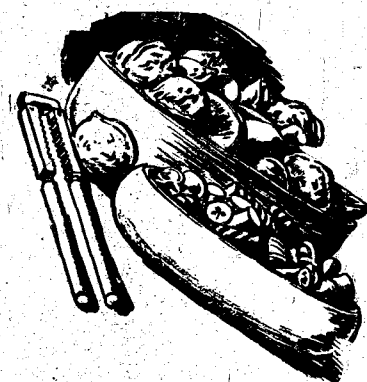

Arnold Lent, Weymouth North, recently returned home from New's Harbor.

BADLY HURT IN ODD ACCIDENT

An unusual accident caused painful injuries to Herbert Devoe, of Doucetteville, last week. The rear wheel of his car struck a heavy well sweep, causing the sweep to fall, striking Mr. Devoe a glancing blow on the side of his head and landing on his shoulder. He was knocked unconscious for 12 hours. Dr. Melanson, Weymouth, found the collar bone broken. Mr. Devoe is making a good recovery.

THE JUNIOR CHOIR

The Junior Choir assisted at the Grace United Church on Sunday evening. It consisted of nineteen children, namely: Arnold and Carl Melanson, Helen and Lillian Jefferson, Shirley Keon, Norman and Robert Wright, Lorna McKinnon, Ellen and Helen Melanson, Asaphene and Helen Hazell, Edith James, Geraldine Cowan, Charles and Kathryn Robinson, Phyllis King, Barbara Sylla and Gwendolyn Abramson. The soloists of the evening were: Eileen Melanson, in "The Shepherd, Had An Angel," supported by a chorus choir; Helen Melanson, in "A Christmas Invitation," supported by an alto and soprano choir; and Kathryn Robinson in "Away In A Manger," supported by a soprano choir. The young chorists opened the service with a professional "Silent Night," and closed with a recessional "The First Noel." The programme is being repeated on Sunday evening by special request, with slight variations. Everyone is welcome—give the children encouragement.

HE DID THE "IMPOSSIBLE" AND MADE NEW WORLD RECORD

A Nova Scotian, now living in New England, has just completed a task which experts said was impossible. The Nova Scotian is Charlton V. Purdy, of Clementsport, son of Mrs. Minnie Purdy, and the late Melbourne Purdy, and the job he did was the world's largest welding repair.

Nation-wide attention of engineers in the United States was attracted to the accomplishment of the Wyoming Welding Company, of which Mr. Purdy is the owner.

The welding job was done on a casting which weighed twenty tons. It was one of the largest castings ever welded.

Owned by the Concrete Materials Company, Saugus, Mass., the casting was broken two weeks ago while in process of crushing stone and a steel top section weighing 3300 lbs. was smashed completely off the main casting. Several welding firms were called in but their representatives said the job was impossible. Mr. Purdy investigated the project and after several days' figuring it out started the work with nine expert welders.

Two weeks of continuous labor, both night and day, were required to cut open the casting with acetylene torches before welding could be started. The section repaired was eight feet long and one foot thick. A reinforcement plate weighing 650 lbs. was placed on top of the casting to give it added strength. This alone required fifty-six hours of steady welding work. Tests showed that the casting was stronger than it was before it was broken.

The work aroused the attention of engineers, steel workers and welders of nation-wide importance and several companies have had photographs taken of the project. Mr. Purdy has resided in Lynn, Mass., for the past eight years.

Ross C. Smallie has been given the appointment as caretaker of the town clock. He will commence his duties on the first of the year.

Ezra Anderson, McGill student, is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Anderson.

STORE GUTTED BY CHRISTMAS MORNING FIRE

Three alarms of fire were sounded early Christmas morning calling the Digby Fire Department out to fight a stubborn blaze which originated in the north east corner of the grocery store of George C. Ryan, on the east side of Water Street. The first alarm was sounded at 1:35 Christmas morning.

Discovery of the blaze was made by Dan Dakin, who, passing along the street, noticed the flames breaking through the wooden wall of the basement next to Dakin's Hardware Store. It was Mr. Dakin who gave the alarm.

Firemen were quick to arrive at the scene. In a few minutes the pumper was at work pouring streams of water into the building, and within twenty minutes after their arrival it is said the fire was under control insofar as its danger of spreading to other buildings was concerned.

The blaze, which is thought to have originated from the mechanism of the electric refrigerating plant in the basement, confined itself mostly to that part of the store and worked up through the partition to the attic. The main store was missed by the flames.

Nevertheless, the blaze was a most stubborn one. Fire between the walls, strong fumes of ammonia from the refrigerating plant and smoke made it very difficult to fight, and it was not until after 5 o'clock in the morning that firemen felt it safe to leave with their fire fighting equipment.

Large quantities of merchandise in the basement and attic were damaged as well as a large percentage of the goods in the main store, which were made unsalable by smoke, water and fumes of ammonia. One of the firemen, Loran Hayter, was overcome by the fumes, but soon revived after being brought out in the fresh air, and "carried off."

It is understood that there was some insurance on the building (owned by S. S. Aymar) and on the stock.

BARTON

Miss Evelyn Campbell is spending her Christmas holidays in Boston.

Miss Barbara Campbell is visiting friends in Smith's Cove.

Harold Specht is visiting his brother, William, in Lynn, Mass.

Miss Margaret Specht, of Halifax, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Specht.

Mrs. Everett Turck and two little daughters, Louise and Laura, were passengers to Boston Friday.

Dr. Herman Harris, of Kentville, is visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Harris.

Miss Sara Specht and Miss Ruth Specht, teachers, are spending their vacations with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Specht.

The school concert Thursday evening was a decided success. No special mention can be made as every item was so good. After a programme of songs, plays, drills and recitations Santa came down through the fire-place and helped distribute gifts, candy and oranges.

CENSURED FOR FEAT

Matthew Flinders (1774-1814), English sea explorer, circumnavigated Australia and secured it for Britain just as the French were about to annex it. His reward consisted only in being censured by the government for having been absent so long, and told he had lost his chance of promotion. Flinders, died of a broken heart, and nothing was done for his wife and child until the government of Australia came into existence.

C. A. Clinton, of Portland, Maine, spent Christmas with his sister, Miss Clinton.

Sypher Morrell, of Halifax, is visiting his parents, Capt. and Mrs. G. M. Morrell.

We wish to extend our deep thanks to E. K. T. Hughes of Vancouver, for a beautiful bunch of holly.

Miss Helen Sylla left on Friday for the United States to spend the holidays.

DIED

Meaney—At Brookline, Mass., Dec. 24, 1935, Mrs. M. E. Meaney. The funeral will be held from the United Church, Digby, Dec. 31st, at 3:30 o'clock, p.m. The late Mrs. Meaney was a sister of Mrs. J. A. Faust, Digby.

Scallop Boat 'Sonata' Three Men Missing

Grave fears are held for the safety of the Digby scallop boat Sonata, which did not return with the fleet last night. On board are Capt. Mansfield Burnham; his son, Harry Burnham, both of Grand Manan; and Stanley Vidite, of Digby. It is feared that all three may have lost their lives.

There are few particulars regarding the incident. Advice from the Life Saving station this morning is to the effect that the life boat went out but was forced to return on account of a raging wind and snow storm. Waves are breaking high at Point Prim and all along the shore.

Boats returning before the storm last night report seeing the Sonata. She was passed about 4:30 by the Sypher M., and Capt. Fred Snow's boat sighted her shortly before they entered the Gut last evening. The Snow boat arrived in port about 6:30.

On Friday of last week the Sonata was picked up off Gulliver's Head by a disabled engine and towed to port. She is owned by Capt. G. M. Morrell, of Digby, and was built last year by J. J. Theriault, at Bellevue's Cove.

Local and Personal

Miss Lillian MacRae, of Middleton, is visiting her sister, Mrs. P. C. Purdy, and Mr. Purdy.

Miss Inez O'Brien, of the Digby teaching staff, is spending her holidays at her home in Noel.

Miss Jennie MacMahon, who has been studying at Mount St. Vincent, has returned home for the holidays.

Richard (Randy) Ellis left this week for Brooklyn, N. Y., where he will spend Christmas with his father, R. E. Ellis.

Miss Margaret Hawke, worth, who has been attending Mount Allison University, arrived on Friday to spend the holidays at her home here.

Miss Margaret Hodson has arrived home from Mount Allison to spend the holidays at the Parsonage, with her parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Hodson.

Crossing from Port Wade to Digby on Monday, the Port Wade-Digby ferry boat developed engine trouble. The boat was sighted by both the life boat crew at Bay View, and the crew of Capt. Horace Sings' scallop boat, the latter boat towing the disabled craft to Digby, where repairs were made. She returned to Port Wade less than one hour behind schedule.

Rodney G. Dakin, president of the Everett Teachers' Club, president of the Everett Benefit Association, and sub-master of the Fairfield Whitney Junior High, Trade, Vocational and Continuation School of Everett, Mass., is spending the Christmas holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle D. Graham, Centreville. During the past few summers, Mr. Dakin has spent considerable time in Nova Scotia gathering the ancient lore of the Indians, and is using the material for a book to be called "Micmac Legends of Nova Scotia."

FATHER AND BABY BURNED TO DEATH

Trueman J. Morris, son of Capt. G. M. Morris, of Bear River, and a native of Cumberland County, laid down his life in a vain attempt to rescue two of his babies trapped by the flames which destroyed his home at 19 Beck St., Newburyport, Mass., a few days ago. His horribly burned body was found on the floor with one fist tightly clung to one of the side rails of the crib in which lay his 15-months' old daughter, Cora Anne. Two other children were rescued, the three-year old daughter, suffering from severe burns and smoke inhalation, and was rushed to the Anna Jacques Hospital where she was placed on the danger list. (Latest reports are that she will recover). Five-year-old Arthur was taken from the burning building by firemen, but not until Fire Captain Charles R. Dow, overcome by smoke collapsed with the child in his arms.

RADIO III. OF TIVERTON, FOUNDERS AT SEA

Capt. Cecil Thurber, of the 99-ton motor vessel, Radio III, arrived in Halifax Sunday night from Cherryfield, Maine, and said his vessel sank in the Bay of Fundy, after a submerged object was struck by the propeller and ripped a hole in the craft's stern. The crew reached shore at Mill Bridge after abandoning the vessel nine miles off Petit Manan Island, Maine, on Friday.

The crew of the Radio III comprised Engineer Sydney Morhouse, of Woodport, and Assistant Engineer, Gordon Thurber, of Freeport; Cook William Hummelman, of L'Anse-au-Loup, and the captain's dog.

Bound for Gloucester from Freeport with a cargo of 25,000 pounds of fish, the Radio III was owned by D. C. Althouse. The vessel was built at a cost of $25,000 and the cargo was valued at $6,000.

PRaise for the Department

The undersigned business men of Digby, whose property was endangered by fire on Wednesday morning wish to publicly express our appreciation of the fine work done by the Digby Fire Department in containing the blaze to the interior of the building where it started.

They were prompt in answering the alarm, and their efficiency saved much valuable adjacent property.

REPORT GOOD BUSINESS

Local merchants report a splendid Christmas business this year, and the majority of them state they have cleaned up pretty well on their holiday stock. One grocer told us that he put in stock 150 five pound boxes of chocolate, and sold out all but 4 boxes. On the day before Christmas, it was next to impossible to obtain celery, sweet potatoes and other fancy vegetables. One merchant had even sold out his stock of grapes.

Other stocking gift lines, of a more or less luxury type, pointed to their show cases, which had been pretty well emptied during the Christmas rush.

However, this year it appears Digby citizens did their "Christmas shopping early", for, except with a few of the grocers, there was no big day before Christmas rush. It is quite true that the day before Christmas trade was the best of the season, but the increase was nothing like in other years.

Miss Lucie LeBlanc, Church Point, has arrived home via Boston and New York, travelling from France on the steamship Champlain, after a successful year of studies at the University of Paris, France, where she was successful in obtaining a diploma as Professor of French and a diploma in Dictation and Elocution Française. Miss LeBlanc is a well known francophone teacher and was awarded a scholarship by the committee Franco-Acadia to the Sorbonne University, in Paris, France.

The scallop sloop, "Sonata", Capt. Burnham, and owned by O. M. Morrell, was picked up off Gulliver's Head Friday and towed to port by the Government Patrol Boat "Capelin", Capt. Ernest Lewis.

PATRIOTISM AND INTERNATIONALISM

Patriotism is generally defined as love of country. But this definition implies a narrow minded view of the subject. Patriotism in its broadest sense includes a love of other nations, as well as our own, or at least a sincere interest in their welfare and development. It is a case of loving our neighbors as ourselves.

The narrow-minded view of patriotism has been the cause of many wars. Only the higher form of patriotism, or the spirit of internationalism, will insure the peace of the world. If the majority of people everywhere were inspired by this spirit there would be no more wars.

H. G. Wells, in his "Outline of History," has expressed the idea that a knowledge of history as the common adventure of all mankind would bring a lasting peace. In other words, a clear understanding of the civilization of past ages would help to preserve the civilization of the future.

A free country is one where 90 per cent of the voters obey rules demanded by the 10 per cent who organize and care legislatures and parliaments.

WE'RE COMING BACK.

Continued business improvement shows we as a nation are coming back—that is, there is more business at better profit. But the reduction of unemployment is slower than it should be, and many of our activities continue to be handicapped for lack of funds. Naturally efforts are concentrated on the restoration of these activities, and we are still materialistic.

Still, we are slowly recovering from this, too. We are thinking straighter. Our objectives better accord with common sense. We are placing the practical before the theoretical. We are not charging windmills. We are getting our feet more firmly on the ground. In these respects we are coming back, too, and this is the best assurance of final recovery.

"Hell is full of professional reformers," declares one minister. We regret to hear this, for we were hoping there was room for many more.

BIBLE PARABLE A PERFECT STORY

The short story has always existed though it was not until the 19th century that the art of writing it was consciously practiced. As Sophocles said of Bechylus, these early authors of short stories, did the right thing without knowing why. It was only on rare occasions, however, that these happy accidents occurred. Thus Professor Baldwin, after exhaustive examination of the 100 tales in Boccaccio's "Decameron" declared that only two of them are short tales in the modern critical sense, while three others represent the totality of impression which as the result of conscious unity in expression. We must go back to the New Testament for a short story which is a structural masterpiece. The parable of the Prodigal Son, which is only 500 words long in the authorized version, satisfies the modern definition, securing the greatest emphasis possible with a surprising economy of means. In America the short story had its beginning in the "Sketch Book" of Washington Irving.

WHEN THE FARMER GOT MAD

On a farm in South Georgia the following notice was posted:—
"Trespassers will be prosecuted to the full extent of two mean moneys which ain't ever been over-soluble with strangers—and one double barl shot gun which ain't loaded with no soft pillars. Dam if I ain't tired of this hell raisin' on my property."

MAKES EXQUISITE QUILT CONTAINING 5780 PIECES

A patchwork quilt, containing 5780 pieces, of that old fashioned but ever popular design known as the "log cabin" pattern, has just been completed by Mrs. Eleanor Dakin, of Centreville. Every stitch of the work is beautifully set and the blending of colors to carry out the design is a work of patience and skill.

Mrs. Dakin, who has passed her 83rd birthday, still does exquisite needlework, and many pieces are regularly contributed to church work which is one of the vital interests in this gracious lady's life.

Mrs. Dakin, who makes her home with her son, K. P. Dakin, is known both at home and in the United States where she has spent many winters with her two daughters there, and her two sons, Rev. Lefter Dakin, who has held pastorates in Chicago, New York, and is now in Milwaukee, and Rev. Elbert Dakin, of New Britain, Conn.

Sam Langford, Weymouth-born "Boston Tar Baby", pugilist of other days, who has gone through a long run of hard luck, with partial blindness, no job, and a recent motor accident, is signed up by a Brooklyn, N. Y., burlesque King to appear in his show. In a photo in a recent edition of the Halifax Herald, it showed Sam signing the contract, while girls of the chorus looked on approvingly.

JANUARY THE 1st, 1936

My deep resolve, this New Year's day, As written on a page of life, Will be with honest heart to pray The world be cleansed of hate and strife.

Nor shall my resolution end In phrase empty as the air— The stranger shall become my friend Nor less in deed than in my prayer. There shall be neither East nor West Nor mountain range, nor ocean tide, Where there is hunger in the breast For that which my hands may provide.

To human need I pledge my part, This New Year's day in loyal pact— Lord, may the motive in my heart Find no betrayal in the act.

—Prof. E. J. Pratt
University of Toronto.

Although we have had but little severe winter weather, it is not too early to begin feeding the winter whose natural food supplies are being steadily reduced.

Storms that start in the northwest and move southeastward do not gather great intensity until they begin to recurve to the north. East of the Rocky Mountains a storm which moves to the left of its normal track increases in intensity.

What business seems to need more orders from customers and fewer from government.

APPROVES OF MOVE

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—Kindly allow the space in your valuable paper to express the sincere gratitude and thanks of all those who are directly and indirectly interested in the development and improvement of the port of Digby, and especially of the many men who are employed in the scallop fishing industry. In the continuance of the efforts on the part of Mayor A. A. Shortt, of Digby, and E. C. Sollovs, president of the Digby Board of Trade, in their determination to procure for this port a satisfactory and safe loading and landing berth for steamers, employed in the export trade and passenger traffic, as well as adequate protection for the entire scallop fishing fleet, the largest and most profitable industry that the town enjoys for at least eight months of every year.

It is not a new issue to either one of the above-named gentlemen. Mr. Shortt inherited the predicament from his predecessor and has been called upon twice during his short term of office to iron out trouble arising from the present inadequate conditions, and upon each occasion he has personally viewed the unbelievable conditions, and has willingly given much of his time and energy in trying to procure its betterment. Although E. C. Sollovs has only been president of the Board of Trade a little less than a year, this will be his second attempt to try to persuade the Federal government of the urgent and immediate necessity of improvement to the shipping facilities of this port. When the matter was first drawn to Mr. Sollovs' attention he personally made an examination, and being more or less familiar with marine matters, he realized the necessity for quick action if the port of Digby wished to protect its most valuable industry and continue to be an export shipping centre, or catering to tourist cruise ships. With the valuable information obtained by these gentlemen by their personal inspection and acquired during their former appeals, together with the assistance of Capt. G. M. Morrell and A. R. Turnbull, the Digby Board of Trade has selected a competent committee to handle this important matter, and with the assistance and co-operation of all those interested, we are in hopes that by the time the cruise ships again arrive, it will not be necessary to land their passengers in "painted" up fishing boats, and that when the scalloping season again opens there will be the necessary protection for the entire fleet, as well as a deep-water berth to accommodate any export trade that might offer.

ONE INTERESTED

64,000 LBS. OF CHEWING

Were the old-time buccaners to re-visit their former hunting grounds in the Spanish Main they would, like Rip Van Winkle, rub their eyes and wonder just where they were. British Honduras, in particular, would cause them some wonderment. The country was noted from earliest times for its mahogany and logwoods, and now it also supplies the foundation for one of America's popular pastimes—chewing gum. The gum comes from the Sapodilla tree and goes by the name of chicle, of which Canada took some 64,000 pounds, last year—quite a lot of chewing. Airplanes roar overhead and motor cars honk their way through the streets. The natives, instead of appearing in their birthday clothes, are seen all dressed up in cotton and silk piece goods, the latest in millinery and hosiery, while the male species go round in the latest finery of the haberdashery trade. The revival of the mahogany trade has brought about a measure of good times, with consequent increase in buying power. Bananas and grapefruit are also exported, all of the bananas going to the United States last year, while Canada took approximately 31 per cent of the grapefruit. Canada is the chief supplier of rubber-soled canvas boots and shoes, a position she retained last year from the Strait Settlements, and supplies also butter, cement, cheese, canned fish, flour, hardware, hosiery, barrelled pork, bacon and ham, medicines and drugs, iron and steel nails, condensed milk, sweetened and unsweetened powdered milk, refined sugar, dressed lumber, much of which reaches British Honduras in vessels of the Canadian National Steamships, direct service being maintained between Kingston, Jamaica, and the C. N. S. Connector playing between Kingston and Belize, British Honduras.

USE OF THE PANAMA CANAL

Because of Mussolini's adventures in Africa the Suez Canal has been getting the publicity breaks lately, but its younger brother, the Panama Canal, recently celebrated its 21st birthday, and is now an adult inter-oceanic channel, since the Chicago Daily News.

Since its formal opening, on August 15, 1914—just in time for the big war trade—ships have used the Panama cut 82,000 times, and have paid tolls aggregating $394,000,000—a sum greater by just a few millions of dollars than the French lost in their unsuccessful attempt to construct the canal under the engineering leadership of the avaricious Ferdinand de Lesseps, who had previously united east and west across the sands of Suez.

But, although successful, Panama has not lived up to its prospectus. It has become more a route for the inter-coastal, domestic trade of the United States, and less an international highway, than was expected. Instead of opening world markets to the middle west, it has actually handicapped our old Pacific coast trade via the trans-continental railroads.

In addition to the innumerable uses to which cellophane is put, they are now using it for umbrella coverings. Cellophane umbrellas are said to be waterproof and are very attractive in their various transparent colors.

LOOK TO WEATHER MAN TO PROVIDE XMAS CHEER

Rough weather has interfered with all branches of the fishing industry along the shore for the past month. The fishermen, however, who are alert to every change of wind and tide, are taking advantage of every hour of fine weather. Christmas dinners, warm clothing and comforts for the family depend on their efforts together with the uncertain factors of the weather and the run of fish. It's an old saying among the fishermen that the Christmas week always brings good fishing, and it's to be hoped that this season will not break the record. Fairly good catches of haddock are being landed. Carmen Outhouse's boat was high liner landing 2,000 pounds on Monday. Haddock are bringing $1.75 a hundred weight at the shore. Scallops are selling in the Boston market at $2.00 a gallon, and good catches are being made when weather permits the men to get out.

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance Alliance)

ALCOHOL A BAD MIXER

"Wine does not mix with flying," said Major Robert D. Dargue, explaining why his company of five airplane pilots carried bottled water with them instead of wine on their goodwill flight over countries south of the United States. They were offered wine different times en route, but always courteously refused. Charles A. Lindbergh, well-known flying ace, is a total abstainer. When offered wine during the days of his famous flight and subsequent celebration, he courteously refused. The flyer needs skill to judge distances accurately, read instruments correctly, judge wisely. This is the very thing of which alcohol robs him. "Wine does not mix with flying."

"Whiskey and gasoline do not mix," said Henry Ford, the automobile magnate. There are at least five physical processes called for as the driver of a car meets a threatened danger: Seeing the danger; impression conveyed to the brain; judging the proper action to take; message sent through the nerves to the muscles of arms and legs to issue in action; the actual use of steering gear, brakes, etc. Now suppose a man has been drinking and his eyes do not register accurately, or the action of the brain is slowed down so that its message goes out to arms and legs a wee bit slower, or the leg and arm muscles themselves are a bit slow responding, what happens? For answer read the newspapers. "Whiskey and gasoline do not mix."

"Drink and baseball do not mix," said Ty Cobb, of athletic fame. And a host of other top-notch athletes echo his words. "The man who drinks," says Ty, "eliminates himself from serious athletics. He's through before he starts." Knute Rockne demanded that the men on his team abstain from alcoholic drinks, both in and out of the football season. "Coaches and umpires," said Alvin Karpis, "are dead against the use of alcoholic liquors, even beer." Even M. Davison, who won the world record in 1931 for the 200-yard dash and high jump, said, "Alcohol and running won't go hand in hand." And from the lawn tennis court there comes the word of Helen Wills Moody. "The precision that tennis demands, makes necessary total abstinence, even from beer. The person who says one cocktail or one glass of beer doesn't make any difference in one's eye and co-ordination and balance is wrong—at least from a tennis player's point of view."

And listen to this from a writer in a liquor trade journal writing to men in the liquor trade: "It is your business to sell beer, but if you know as much as you ought to know, you will never drink it."

Adelbert Prime, Weymouth North, received word on Tuesday that his father, in Hasset's, had suffered a paralytic stroke.

The Misses Margaret Grant and Frances Comeau have been clerking at H. M. Mullen's store during the Christmas season.

Christmas services were held in the United and Baptist churches on Sunday last, special music being furnished by the choirs.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Baden Powell and baby are spending the Christmas vacation with the former's mother, Mrs. Byard Powell, in Plympton.

Miss Rosella Muise, student at the Sacred Heart Academy, Meghan, is spending the vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Muise.

Miss Margaret Campbell, student at Edgworth Girls' School, Windsor, is spending the holidays with her parents, Major and Mrs. Glidden Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Amiraault and son, of Gilbert's Cove, and Mrs. E. R. Gaudet, of this place, were guests at New Edinburgh, one day recently of the Misses Helen and Emma Amiraault.

Wecker's Shows, so well known in his vicinity, are adding several new musical outfits for the 1936 season. The dogs and ponies are now in comfortable quarters for the winter season and are reported in fine condition.

At a card party by the Women's Institute, at the home of the Misses Helen and Emma Amiraault, New Edinburgh, the ladies' first prize for bridge was won by Mrs. Leger Comeau; consolation by Mrs. Philip Theriault. Gentleman's consolation by Leger Comeau—all of Weymouth.

METEGHAN

Simone Comeau, J. P., of Concession, was in our village on Monday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Strickland, of Halifax, were at the Royal Hotel last week on their way to visit relatives and friends in Westport and Freeport.

Camille Comeau, of Church Point, land surveyor, was surveying in the woodlands back of Meteghan last week.

Miss Melinda Robichaud, teacher at South Brookfield, is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elise Robichaud.

Our local boys attending St. Anne's College, are home for the Christmas vacation. They are: Benoit Mallet, Roger Comeau, Bernard, Felix and Harvey Deveau, of Meteghan; Mederic Comeau, George Comeau, Gerald D'Em, Meteghan River; Alphonse Saulnier, St. Alphonse; and Camille Doucet, Capt. St. Mary's.

Ambrose Comeau and Raymond Deveau, students at Dalhousie University, Halifax, have arrived to spend the Christmas season, the former with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Comeau, and the latter with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Deveau, Mayville.

Rev. Sister Bernadette was called to Montreal a few days ago by the death of her father; she was accompanied by Rev. Sister Rose de Lima, superior of Sacred Heart Convent.

Peter LeBlanc, of Salmon River, and his son, George, of Yarmouth, visited A. P. Fache on Friday.

Miss Hermeline Robichaud left last week for Somerville, Mass., to take care of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Adine Robichaud, who is dangerously ill.

A concert was given Friday evening by the students of Sacred Heart Convent, under the direction of the Sisters of Charity. The pastor, Rev. Father Deveau, presided.

Mrs. Harley LeBlanc, Ohio, Weymouth, and Mrs. Louis P. Comeau, of Weymouth, were visiting Mrs. Jules A. Robichaud and Mrs. Elise Robichaud, on Saturday.

HOW CAN I?

Q.—How can I remove the colored letters from empty flour bags?

A.—Rub pure lard thoroughly into the letters and figures; soak in lukewarm water for a few days; then put in the boiler with soap flakes and boil. This treatment will remove all the lettering.

Q.—How can I prepare a supper dish with fresh pork?

A.—A delicious dish can be made by boiling a pound of fresh pork for an hour, then adding new potatoes and 1½ pounds of fresh green beans. Cook this altogether slowly for an hour and season with salt and pepper.

Q.—What is the cause of windows steaming excessively?

A.—It is an indication that there is not the proper amount of circulation in the room.

Q.—How can I take precautions against receiving a shock when using any household electrical device?

A.—Never operate any of the household electrical devices, or even turn on the switch, if the hands are wet. And when turning on a switch of some device, or of an electric light, use just one hand. Keep the other free from any metallic contact.

Q.—How can I improve the flavor of coffee?

A.—Try pouring off one or two cups of coffee and pouring back into the pot, and see the improvement in the flavor.

Q.—How can I remove chocolate stains from linen?

A.—Moisten with cold water and borax; then pour boiling water over it.

Q.—How can I remove blackheads?

A.—A treatment for blackheads is to use soap and water freely. Gently massage a thick lather on the face, and when it has dried, rinse off thoroughly. The larger blackheads can be pressed out with the fingers, using care not to bruise the flesh. Then sponge the skin with witch hazel. This treatment should be used daily.

Q.—Is it well to leave a sewing machine uncovered when not in use?

A.—No; the machine gets out of repair if exposed to dust and will require a good cleaning before each using to prevent soiling the material to be stitched.

Q.—How can I keep lemons in good condition for a long time?

A.—Try keeping them in a box of dry sawdust.

Q.—How can I make a rubber hot water bottle last longer?

A.—It will last twice as long if the steam is pressed out before inserting the stopper, if it is never filled more than two-thirds, and never with boiling water, and when not in use is hung with opening downwards.

Q.—How can I easily remove the white lining of an orange?

A.—The lining will come off with the skin if the orange is soaked in boiling water for five minutes before peeling.

Q.—How can I change the color of white stockings to tan or brown?

A.—Boil them for a few minutes in strong tea and then rinse in clear water.

Q.—How can I soften water for bathing?

A.—Add a half teaspoon of ammonia to the bath water and it will soften the water wonderfully, and also has a stimulating effect on the skin.

Q.—How can I remove paper that is stuck to the polished surface of a table?

A.—Rub the paper gently with a cloth moistened with a few drops of sweet oil.

Q.—How can I make a good luncheon or supper dish with devilled eggs?

A.—Place the devilled hard-boiled eggs on slices of toast, covering with cheese sauce and heating thoroughly in the oven.

Q.—How can I make a good linoleum polish?

A.—Mix one cup of melted paraffin, two cups of kerosene and three tablespoonful of turpentine.

Q.—How can I remove stains from kitchen knives?

A.—Stains can be removed from the kitchen knives by dipping a raw potato in brick dust and rubbing briskly.

Q.—How can I loosen the dirt in a blanket before laundering?

A.—Soak the soiled blanket overnight in a solution of cold water and borax. This loosens the dirt and makes the job of washing much easier.

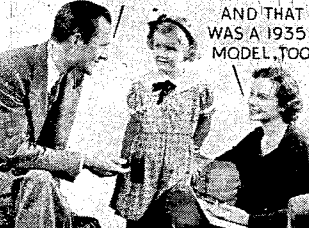

MOSCOW'S WORLD DRIVE

(Montreal Gazette)
The Riga correspondent of the London Times sends to his newspaper details of a new Moscow campaign the object of which is to spread the doctrine of communism throughout the world. The Comintern (Third International) held its world congress in Moscow last August and at least one Canadian delegate took a prominent part in the discussions. Since then, says The Times correspondent, the Comintern has taken several momentous decisions involving radical changes in its tactics abroad.
Its junior organization, K.I.M.,

NEW DODGE "Beauty Winner" BREAKS ALL GAS SAVING RECORDS

"Averages from 21 to 27 Miles to the Gallon"

OWNERS REPORT

MANY new 1936 Dodge owners are recording amazing gas and oil mileage. From all over the country come reports of 21 to 27 miles per gallon—and from 15% to 20% less oil consumption.

But these big, new Dodges give you more than economy. They give you style and beauty so breath-taking that the 1936 Dodge are being hailed as the most beautiful cars in all Dodge history.

And Dodge gives an amazing new ride—the "Airtide Ride"—made possible only by Dodge's redistribution of weight evenly to all four wheels, by cradling passengers between the axles, and by Dodge's "chair-height" seats—easy to get into, easy to get out of, comfortable to ride in. Dodge also gives you patented Floating Power engine mountings... safety-steered bodies... and genuine hydraulic brakes—hydraulic brakes that have more than eight years of experience in hydraulic brake building behind them!

Inspect the big, new, Money-Saving Dodge today. Drive them. Make a point-for-point comparison of Dodge with any competitive car within $500 of Dodge's price. And remember the big, new Dodge "Beauty Winner"—at new low prices—is priced right down among the lowest priced cars.

All other spheres of activity, Socialist and non-Socialist, must be studied and a firm footing gained in them all, especially in sport. In this connection it is worth noting that one of the immediate tasks is to deliver the plans for holding the Olympic Games in Germany next summer.

Unemployed girls are to be sought out for conversion in such countries as England and Belgium, and lodging houses and night shelters are recommended as good fields to work in. Small organizations are to be formed, and as these gather strength they are to serve as reservoirs from which suitable elements may be trained for the great class war of the Comintern. The world field is to include "colonial and semi-colonial" countries as well as the greater ones.

All races and colors are to be included in the K.I.M. programme, the hope being to train individuals everywhere "in a spirit of hate for their imperialist oppressors." A new executive committee of 41 has been appointed, at the head of which is a young Frenchman, and the central organization will work from two chief bases, Moscow and Paris. This new and more intensive campaign is of interest to Canadians, for the Comintern party has been established in this Dominion for the past twelve years. Its mission is to establish the Soviet regime in this country, by force of arms, if necessary.

GILBERT'S COVE

Mrs. Mary Brown moved to Weymouth the past week.

PREPARING THE GROUND

A Toronto correspondent notes that newspapers of that city report that atheism and communism are being taught in the schools of Ontario. The charge is made on the authority of Rev. R. A. Hiltz, general secretary for religious education of the Church of England. "There are said to be fifty-six Communist Sunday schools, in Toronto alone, where children are taught there is no God and that the Bible is false. Mrs. Tim Buck is said to maintain a similar school during the summer months north of the golf farm, on Saturdays."

Reports to this effect have been made from time to time, and not alone with reference to Ontario, but this is the first definite statement that has been given out regarding this type of subversive propaganda. The correspondent goes on to say: "Course, are given in our universities by people whose bolshievic proclivities are only too pronounced. The excuse is made that bolshievism is a phenomenon of our day, and so must be studied. But who would be studied under the guidance of people in sympathy with it? It permeates our schools. I have in mind children who come home to Christian parents, declaring they are pagans and do not believe in God, who refuse obedience, as in Russia." It would be interesting to observe what would happen to a leading university if it were found that groups of fascists or nazis were active within its walls, among students.

The Royal Bank of Canada Presents Strong Statement

Total Assets Have Crossed the Eight Hundred Million Mark—During Year Deposits Increased Over $50,000,000—Liquid Assets at $423,673,881 Are Up From $382,172,287 and Are Equal to 58 Per Cent. of Total Liabilities to the Public.

Reflecting the definite improvement in financial conditions throughout the large field it serves, The Royal Bank of Canada is issuing to its shareholders a statement that shows very substantial growth during the year.

As a result, total assets have crossed the eight hundred million mark. Deposits have again duplicated the remarkable gain of the previous year, by increasing more than $50,000,000. At the same time, holdings of high grade Government bonds have increased to $209,453,208, up from $150,708,285. Of special importance is the tendency of current loans to move upward as a result of the gains that have been evident in many lines of business.

Shareholders will note with satisfaction the high esteem in which the Bank is held as reflected by an increase of more than a hundred million in deposits over the last two years.

Strong Liquid Position

The general statement, which is for the year to November 30, shows total assets of $800,519,700, up from $758,423,674 in the previous year. Of this large total, liquid assets have reached $423,673,881, as compared with $382,172,287 and are equal to 58% of total liabilities to year. Of this large total, liquid assets are cash on hand and deposits of other banks of $157,430,042. The outstanding change in liquid assets is an increase in the holdings of Government securities of $58,744,825.

Commercial Loans Up

Current loans of $328,821,416, against $326,782,534 at the end of the previous year, show a moderate increase which is encouraging when it is taken into consideration that against increased demands from industry on account of improved business. Liquidation of slow loans continued during the depression has continued and the general experience on this Continent is that commercial

It has been reported to us on good authority that a passenger on the steamer Princess Helen, bound for Saint John, lost a purse containing a sum of money while in Digby, a few days before Christmas. The purse was found by a small boy and handed to his father, who at once took it on board the steamer, where it was reported to the owner. A reward was refused, but the father was persuaded to accept a small sum for the lad. The finder or his father would not give their names.

On Wednesday evening of last week the pupils of East Walpole school gave a very entertaining concert in the school room. The children present were well trained and gave the audience in the over-crowded room a very enjoyable evening.

Douglas H. Moses, who is staying with his uncle, Rev. P. M. Hamilton, Saint John, and attending St. John High School, passed through Digby Monday on his way to South Ohio, Yarmouth, to spend his holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses. Miss E. MacPherson, of the teaching staff, is spending the holidays at her home in Port Wake, Nova Scotia. Miss Vera Mason is at her home in Mahone Bay for Christmas and New Year's, and Miss Dorothy Moses, of the primary department, is visiting her brother in Bridgetown.

We were reminded yesterday morning that it was just 90 years ago on that date that the Long Wharf was carried away by a storm, and that the side-wheeler, Seal, crossing from Saint John, could not enter the Gut and was forced to wallow around in the Bay all day.

On Thursday of last week, Mrs. Kenneth Lewis, of Rosaway, was injured when she fell down the cellar steps of her home, and fractured her shoulder, beside suffering from other bruises. Her daughter, Mary, who has been employed at Brighton, is home to attend her mother.

BEAR RIVER SCHOOL CONCERT

Last Friday night the teachers and pupils of Oakdene School presented their annual Christmas concert to a hall filled to capacity with delighted parents and friends and reached a high mark in school concerts.

To begin with the new school, with its very large modern windows, decorated with Christmas wreaths and ablaze with light, was the admiration of all beholders, well worth going some distance to see; and the hall itself, with its charming scheme of decoration, including the beautiful new stage curtains of deep blue velvet, was a splendid setting for a very delightful concert. The programme followed:

Piano Selections—Judy Burrage and Aileen Seamount.
Christmas Carols—School and Audience.

Opening Remarks by Dr. L. J. Lovett, Chairman of Trustees.
Welcome—Boys of Grades I and II.
How the Dolls Played a Trick on Santa—Grades I and II.
Star Drill—Girls of Grades V, V and VII.

Christmas Offering by Children of Other Lands—Girls of Grades III and IV.
Song—"Santa Claus Is Coming"—Boys of Grades V, VI and VII.

Christmas Acrostic—Girls of Grade III and IV.
Christmas Story—Girls of Grades I and II.

The Twenty-Sixth—Gerald Chute.
One-Act Play—"Christmas in the Air"—Grades VII and IX.
Singing a Song of Christmas—Boys of Grades III and IV.
One-Act Play, taken from the Literature Work of Grade X—"Spreading the News"—Grades X and XI.
"Goodnight"—Girls of Grades I and II.

Arrival of Santa Claus.
The teachers of Oakdene wish to thank the public for their generous support in making the concert such a financial success. The receipts from the sale of tickets amounted to $41.15. Of the proceeds, after expenses are paid, a sum of money is to be offered the Trustees for the purpose of equipping the library with a table and shelves for books now on hand. Donations of books suitable for school children will be greatly appreciated.

GRANVILLE FERRY

Rev. and Mr. E. W. Forbes are spending this week in Halifax. Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bond and children, of Truro, are visiting Mrs. Bond's mother and sister, Mrs. D. Caswell and Miss Bessie Caswell. Dr. Carl Mesinger and Mrs. Mesinger of New York, were welcome visitors in this village last week. Harry Logan, who has been employed in Guyborough the past year, is spending Christmas with his family here.

LOWER GRANVILLE

The teacher and scholars of the Karsdale School gave a Xmas entertainment in the school house on Friday evening to a crowded house each one taking his or her part well. Old Santa arrived and each child taking part, received candy and orange and presents from a heavily laden tree. Miss Parker was presented with an all-work blanket by her pupils, who was received, which will be used for school purposes.

Season's Greetings to the Editor and staff of the Courier.

We notice that another attempt is being made to build an out-door rink on the Russell lot, Birch Street. We understand Frank Robinson has undertaken to do it and we hope he will be more successful than those who tried it last year.

THE BANDMASTER COMMENTS ON THE CHILDREN'S CHOIR

Church-goers who attended Grace United Church last Sunday night were surprised and greatly edified by something different in Christmas music.

As the service opened the sweet voices of children were heard in the lovely strains of "Silent Night, Holy Night," coming from an unseen choir. Soon the little choristers appeared in the rear of the church, impressive in their white surplices, led by little Arnold Melanson, marching sedately up the aisle to a platform in front of the big organ where they sat up straight and dignified throughout the service singing their own solos, and choruses very nicely indeed, and joining in full voice with the church choir on the hymns. Their teacher, Miss Eleanor Wallis, a capable musician, presided at the organ, and under the watchful eye of her assistant, Miss Patricia McPhee, the children maintained a unity in their singing, and a decorum worthy of emulation by adult worshippers.

This was the first appearance of these young singers, whose ages range from 16 to 18 years, but they evinced careful training in enunciation, time and behaviour—even their book were properly held. The Junior Choir of Grace United Church have found a place in the hearts of the congregation, and they have been asked to repeat their program next Sunday night. When its members increase, as they surely will, and when its field of membership has been broadened, it may develop into a Junior Choral Club that will prove of incalculable value to the community.

The idea of forming a Children's Choir, in Digby was originated by Miss Wallis herself, prompted by her training in Junior Choir work under Prof. Arthur Flager Fultz, minister of music of the Alton, (Mass.) Congregational Church, and Director of the Boston Music Guild, and has been successfully developed and its expenses provided entirely by her.

Incidentally, the neat white surplices were made by Miss Wallis. A special service with contributions to cover these costs and to provide further funds for this little choir would seem to be quite in order.

Few people realize the tedious and exhausting labor involved in teaching the rudiments of music up to a point where successful performance is assured, especially in so short a time, but the efforts of Miss Wallis and the pianist, Miss MacPhee, have produced most gratifying results.

The motive prompting these ladies was their sense of the need, their keen realization of the importance of developing musical talent in the very youngest children, and their desire to afford them the benefits of mental training and discipline which go hand in hand with the study of music. The foremost educational authorities in Canada (and everywhere else today), give music the same rank as mathematics and the sciences for required study in the school curriculum. In all progressive schools, music study is considered an essential. Call this a dogmatic statement, if you wish, but give it serious thought—Knowledge of music is necessary, if your education is to be considered complete.

These two girls have started something fine. They will deserve the highest praise if they can keep it going. They are among the few to adopt as a slogan, "Do Something for Digby." It's a good example for us all.

The list of singers will appear in another column.
