

Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after full time. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was added to the staff in early 1929.

Eva's job was to run the printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean up now and then. One day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later, I was quite a young man, and I was back in the street that I had lived in, and I was clanking my powered up car, and I was thinking of "Jerome", and as I remember it, I was thinking of "Jerome". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his ability to make people laugh. One day in 1928 during the time Mr. Wallis was editor of the Scott Act (Prohibition Law) he was about and advocated by some people, and I was attending a boys' conference in the town of Digby.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was some Digby's daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but, it was much time and got an order, but, side to be bought proved by about who now reside detached, built dwellings with orchards, and some fishery and. It has communal parts of the communal provisions in a cheap, built readily to be from many circumstances, probability of place of some shipbuilding, the West India a cheap and of residence. This advertisement, at the December, I were to be a No. 100.

The first time wireless telegraph ran into Digby was in 1910. The equipment was sent from the U.S. and was used for the first time on the 19th of December 1910. The new wireless telegraph was put into operation on January 15, 1911. The old Lighthouse Passage and stone Northeast of it.

Loss of the ship "W. Coombs" is a story of the Digby Courier of January 1911. The ship was a 100-ton schooner, and was on the coast when it was lost. The ship was carrying a large amount of cargo, and the loss was a great blow to the community.

KEEP WHISTLING

Don't grumble and scold when things go wrong.

Always complaining won't help it along.

When taught seems to help, just try something new.

Like whistling a merry tune or two.

Don't kick when the clouds keep pouring rain.

And you doubt Old Sol will shine again.

That's when the blue sky will be peeping through.

So just keep whistling a tune or two.

Don't let it get you grouchy and sore.

Just back up and say, "I'll fight it through!"

And 'twill help if you whistle a tune or two.

No matter what happens just keep your nerve.

Cheer up! you are rounding depression's corner.

Round the bend prosperity is waiting for you.

So just keep whistling a tune or two.

MT. ALLISON ACADEMY OPENING

The Mount Allison Academy has opened for its ninety-fourth consecutive year. Rev. Ross Flemington, the Headmaster, reports that there is a large enrollment for new boys. About the usual number of resident girls are enrolled in the commercial courses, whilst the number of day students has increased.

The only change in staff is the appointment of a music master in the person of John Inch, of Glace Bay, who graduated in the two year course in Musical Conservatory last year.

Three new classrooms have been added during the summer to relieve the congestion and all the teachers in both matriculation and commercial now have their own classrooms.

Mrs. H. A. Powell, of Saint John, recently presented the school with a number of books from the library of her late husband, H. A. Powell, K. C., D. C., who was a teacher on the staff from 1876-1879. These have been placed in a small library near the chapel which is to be known as the H. A. Powell Reading Room.

During the summer memorial brass plates were put on the doors of a number of the study bedrooms which have been furnished in memory of Old Boys of the school. Others bear plates stating that the rooms were furnished by the Alumni Associations in Toronto, New York, Quebec, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Connecticut, etc., as well as in various parts of the Maritimes. To date forty such rooms have been furnished in this way. The epidemic hospital in the west end of the school, has been furnished by the Saint John Alumni Association.

Stained glass windows have been put in the chapel during the last month, and are the gift of Albin MacBeath, of the Saint John High School staff, who was at one time a teacher at the Academy. These seven windows, portraying various events in the life of Christ, add greatly to the attractiveness of the chapel.

Emmerson White, of Waterford, sent a ripe strawberry on Monday. He says there are a great many blossoms, and several of the berries have ripened.

THE SNAPSHOT GUILD

THINK BEFORE YOU SHOOT

Left: A person often can be included incidentally in a scene to add composition and to denote relative sizes. Right: This is more directly a story-telling picture in which the figure of the boy dominates.

WHAT should be done to make a photograph a picture? The photographer who takes the most possible view of things, but an amateur photographer? We of the Snapshot Guild know that this is a serious question, and one that must be answered by amateurs who are being constantly exhibited in salons and reproduced in magazines and newspapers because of their artistic and photographic excellence.

Publicly, let us disdain this "snapshot" but privately, shall we not confess that most of us snapshot photographers are guilty of "taking the worst possible view of things" more often than we should? Let us know that there are too many examples of carelessness in our picture taking and strive always to observe the slogan of the Snapshot Guild: "Think before you shoot."

In other words, instead of shooting aimlessly and trusting to luck, let us always take time to secure the best possible composition of our picture subject. For it is composition that makes the difference artistically between a good and a bad picture.

Composition is really only another word for arrangement. In photography scene arrangements we can make by purposeful placing figures or objects before the camera. Pictures taken as they are presented to make any good pictures, as they are, to make the arrangement wholly by changing the viewpoint.

The Edible Part of Scallops

Scallops use their central or adductor muscle to open and close the two halves of their shell but man knows a better use for it than that. Knows the scallop muscle as one of the delicacies among fish foods.

Fishermen of western Nova Scotia looking for this delicacy for market purposes found fortune turning a favoring eye upon them during the past scallop fishing season and they increased their catch by close to 20 per cent. In the 1934-35 season, which began in the autumn of 1934 and continued until the early summer of 1935, these fishermen landed approximately 107,000 gallons of marketable scallop meat but their 1935-36 fishing yielded more than 126,000 gallons. Of course, the gross weight of the catch in each season was a good deal more than the figure given, but it happens that only part of this shellfish, the central muscle, is sold for food purposes, although, as a matter of fact, the remainder of the flesh is edible and it is these meat portions that are covered here by the phrase "marketable scallop meat." They're tender, by the way, though muscle.

Scallops occur in certain New Brunswick and Quebec waters—indeed, there is quite a large proportion by New Brunswick fishermen—and they are also found off Prince Edward Island but it is off Digby, Annapolis and Lunenburg Counties in Nova Scotia that the biggest catches are made. Out of the total Nova Scotia landings of 126,000 gallons in the last season, Digby and Annapolis accounted for nearly 122,500 gallons, which were worth over $215,200 to the fishermen. More than 60 scallop boats were fishing off these counties.

Scallops are bivalves which, in fishing operations, are taken by means of dredge-like apparatus operated from a boat. They have comparatively high protein content and a very pleasant, distinctive flavor. In preparing them for the table various methods are followed, but perhaps they are most commonly cooked by frying. In frying they are seasoned with salt and pepper, then dipped into bread crumbs which have been mixed with an egg and two tablespoons of cold water and fried in deep fat of a temperature of about 360 degrees Fahrenheit. Fried scallops are usually served with tartar sauce.—The Fisheries News Bulletin.

IMPORT DUTY ON MAIZE OFF UNTIL END OF YEAR

Because of the generally light corn production in Canada and the United States, arrangements have been made by Hon. J. L. Hilsley, Minister of National Revenue, and announced by him at Ottawa last week, which will enable the importation into this country of Indian corn or maize from Argentina, free of duty until the end of the present year.

Indian corn or maize had always been admitted to this country free of duty until the Imperial Economic Conference of 1931, when to facilitate a trade agreement with British South Africa an intermediate duty of 20 per cent, and a general rate of 25 per cent were imposed.

A considerable shortage in the supply of Indian corn for feeding purposes developed in Canada this fall, and Mr. Hilsley conferred with the South African government with a view of having it waive the protection margin for a certain limited period, and the South African authorities have agreed to the proposal. As a result the duty of 20 per cent against intermediate countries on Indian corn will be remitted on imports up until the end of the present calendar year.

Obituary

Thomas W. Cook

There passed away to his eternal rest on the 14th of Sept. Thomas William Cook, a highly respected citizen, of North Range, at the advanced age of 83 years and 7 months. Although Mr. Cook had been in failing health for some months, death came unexpectedly. He was a son of the late Thomas C. and Hannah (Brooks) Cook. His wife Freelove (McNeill) Cook, predeceased him by eight years. Surviving are his five daughters, namely: Mrs. W. E. MacDonald, of Marlbrough, Mass.; Mrs. W. S. Dunn, of Princetown; Mrs. E. L. Ring, of Barton; Mrs. R. B. Cook, of North Range; Mrs. J. S. Thurbur with whom he resided, and who tenderly cared for him during his illness. Also left to mourn are two sisters and one brother: Mrs. Jane VanTassel, of Mount Pleasant; Mrs. S. E. Rice, of Joggins Bridge; and Ephraim Cook, of Bay View. The funeral was held from his late residence Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Cook was a life-long member of the United Church. The services were conducted by Rev. C. U. MacNeill, assisted by Rev. M. C. Higgins, of the Baptist Church, also Rev. Burnett, of Clementsville. Hymns sung were: "Does Jesus Care," "Sometime We'll Understand," "Somebody the Silver Cord Will Break," "Abide With Me." A duet entitled "In the Land Where We Never Grow Old" was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Andrews. Interment was in the family lot at North Range.

Mrs. Alina Powell, of Freeport, and son Harold, of Saint John, spent the week end in the Annapolis Valley.

Here and There

Famous officers of the Canadian Pacific Railway and Sir John A. Macdonald, Premier of Canada, arrived at Revelstoke recently and held a series of historic meetings. Among them were: Sir John A. Macdonald, Stephen, James J. Hill, Van Horne and Shannessy, names associated for the past half century with the history of Canada's first transcontinental railway. The party actually comprised a group of film players portraying the historic characters in the stage board-room sequence of "The Great Barrier," Gaumont British picture depicting the strenuous construction days fifty years ago.

Says Gene Sarazen, one time world's champion golfer, writing of the Banff Springs Hotel course at the famous resort in the Rockies: "That course of Banff is everything you said. Miss Helen Hicks and I played it against two guests at the hotel and we were beaten. With a huge gallery it may seem funny to hear we simply couldn't keep our minds on the game—the scenery was simply too much."

The first 1937 world cruise to set out from New York will be the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, which will sail January 6 for a voyage of 25 days, covering 20,000 miles and visiting 29 ports in 22 different countries. Among these countries are Palestine, Egypt, India, Ceylon, Malay Archipelago, the Philippines, China, Japan, Hawaii and back to New York via California, the Panama Canal and Havana.

Canada's first complete semi-streamlined air-conditioned train, built for the Canadian Pacific Railway, now in operation with four units in different parts of the Dominion, has been placed on inspection at a number of points across the country and has aroused high praise and enthusiasm on the part of the hundreds of thousands of Canadians who have seen it. In Montreal alone 60,000 spectators went through it in the four days it was on inspection at the Windsor station and the same interest was displayed everywhere else. These units will be in operation between Toronto and Detroit, Montreal and Quebec, and Edmonton and Calgary.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and other delegates to the League of Nations Conference at Geneva sailed from Quebec in September in the Canadian Pacific flagship, the Empress of Britain. Accompanying the Premier was Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Government leader in the Senate and Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor.

Captain George Gold, new skipper of the Empress of Russia, sailed from New York in the vessel early in September. It is his first command of a Pacific Empress, though he has served the fleet in all official capacities from fourth officer to staff-captain during the past 22 years.

Least of three motor parties visiting this year, 14 British automobile enthusiasts arrived recently at Quebec on the Empress of Britain. The motorcade under the organizer Graham Lyons, drove from Quebec to Montreal and will visit Ottawa, Toronto, London, Detroit, Cleveland, Washington and New York.

Dedication of New School

Sunday afternoon marked the dedication of the new school building at Conway, Digby County, and in spite of the chill of the afternoon, there was a fair attendance at this open air ceremony.

The new building which replaces the ancient "box" is a splendid example of a modern country school architecture; well lighted by several large windows, and with a seating capacity for some seventy pupils. The outside measurements of the building are 24' 10" x 34' 10"; the inside measurements, 24x34. It will be the new school home for the colored children of Conway and vicinity.

Certainly the structure is a credit to the community, and the building committee, appointed by the ratepayers of the district, are to be congratulated on their achievement.

Chairman of this committee, which was discharged at the close of Sunday's ceremony, was Wendall Tucker, assisting him, Wilson Francis, chief carpenter on the job, and James Robinson.

It was Mr. Tucker who presided over the ceremonies and introduced the speakers. The service was opened by the marching of the school children from the bridge, a short distance away to the school. They were led by their teacher, Miss Georgina Hill, and sang as they marching song "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Following the singing of a hymn by all present, Mr. Tucker, in a few words, told of the long felt need of the colored residents for a new school, and how, at a meeting of the ratepayers, early in the summer, they voted for a new building and appointed their building committee. There were no plans for this new building, Mr. Tucker explained, but members of the committee had seen published in one of the daily papers the picture of a new school building that had been recently erected in the province—this picture was used as the model for the new Conway school.

Lie. William Barton, one of the Deacons of the Acadianville African Baptist Church, read Scripture and offered prayer. This was followed by the raising of the flag by James Robinson, assisted by two school boys, Leonard Irving and Donald Parker. The flag was donated to the Conway School by the members of the Fort Anne Chapter I. O. D. E., of Annapolis Royal.

Miss Hill then delivered a brief address of welcome and thanks to all those in attendance. Other addresses to follow were delivered by M. C. Denton, Mayor of Digby; A. J. Dillon, Chairman of the Digby School Board; M. C. Foster, Inspector of Schools for Annapolis-Digby; H. T. Warner, of Digby; and Mrs. Frank Gillatt, Educational Superintendent of the Fort Anne Chapter I. O. D. E., Annapolis Royal. Short addresses were also given by Mrs. Clarence Mansfield, Mrs. Maynard Miller and William Barton, residents of Conway. Following this a collection to aid in paying for school seats and desks was taken—the school itself being all paid for.

The benediction was pronounced by Lie. Barton, followed by the singing of the National Anthem.

APPLE RECIPE BOOKLET

An attractive apple recipe booklet has been prepared under the authority of the Hon. John A. McDonald, Minister of Agriculture, for general distribution to housewives throughout the Province.

This booklet, supplies general information on importance of the apple industry to Nova Scotia, contains a chart showing recommended varieties of apples in accordance with seasons, and sixty-five ways of preparing apples as a food, which should be helpful to the housewife who is charged with the task of preparing nutritious meals in the most economical manner.

Already top thousands copies of this have gone forward to women throughout the Province, members of such organizations as the Women's Institutes of Nova Scotia, Local Council of Women, the L. O. D. E., Catholic Women's League, Women's Christian Temperance Union and to Study Club leaders in the Province. Many of those who have already received the booklet have written the Department commenting on its attractiveness and usefulness. A considerable quantity is still available for distribution and may be had by writing the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, Halifax.

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 4 to 10

WHEN THE CIGARETTE BACKFIRES

Last year nearly four and one-half billion cigarettes were smoked in Canada. This works out to an average of 1,250 cigarettes for every man and woman of smoking age.

The old adage, "Where there is smoke, there is fire," is aptly illustrated by the cigarette, for in 1935 nearly 12,000 fires were definitely traced to the careless handling of cigarettes. These fires involving a loss of over $1,800,000. Smokers' carelessness was responsible for more than any other single classification, three out of every ten fires being attributed to this cause.

Canadians, in common with other peoples of other countries, are devoted to the little white gods. The above statistics show this to be the case. Whether the cigarette is good for us or bad for us is not the point; we cannot blame the fires on Sir Walter Raleigh. The "smoke" is not at fault but the smoker—not the cigarette is good for us or bad for us. Every time a cigarette is carelessly tossed aside, an emetician will tell you that all there is danger of fire. A mathematically smoked cigarette in Canada last year were placed tightly end to end they would encircle the earth at the equator nearly eight times. This is a purely academic interest but the fire hazard of 197,000 miles of cigarettes is of very real interest to Mr. and Mrs. Canadian Citizen because it hits where it hurts—right in the pocket. Fire Prevention Week serves to call attention to the fire hazard of the carelessly thrown cigarette amongst other causes of fire loss. Be careful.

Jeffreys The Hanging Judge

Every student of English history recalls to mind "Bloody Jeffreys," a judge of the reign of Charles I, whose career is one of the big blots in that history. We have been loaned a copy of The Weekly Telegraph of London, one of England's most popular weekly magazines, whose special writer, Cecil Walton, who has been touring England "writing up" historical villages and persons, tells of his visit to Wrexham, Jeffreys' birthplace, and recalls Jeffreys' career.

"On the left-hand side of the road, from Chester, just as you are entering Wrexham, there are four stone pillars, the figure of a sitting hound on each.

"I have passed them many a time, but now have gone through them and explored a weed-grown drive and found a house, very forbidding as I saw it. Even the sun was lost behind a bank of cloud, as if determined I should see it at its worst. Two cars were standing on the gravelled way, quite out of place. There should have been a weather-beaten coach and bony horses, hanging their heads low in very shame.

"I went in through the open door, up the stone steps, into a hall you might swing a coach in. Dust and cobwebs everywhere. A notice told me that the first floor was occupied by the building department of the County Council, but for all I saw of anyone, it might have been a haunted house. True, as I wandered round I was looking for a ghost.

A Baby Born to Blot Our History

"There was a window through which I looked. Out upon what was once fair lawn and rolling park lands, underneath a tree a man and woman sat, and nuzzling up and down before them a nurse, with a screaming baby, fighting to free itself from her protecting arms. The man and woman were the Jeffreys, and the child had just come home from the christening, still with the shock of water on its face. They had called it George.

These were ghosts, indeed, for even now, three hundred years have gone, that baby's name is still a blot on English history.

"And as I came away, feeling that whatever glory there might have been has long since faded with the paint and peeling paper, there came to me a picture of this boy's early life. His stay at Shrewsbury School; his home at terms to play in the fields about the house; his drive to Wrexham church on Sundays, where he sat in the family pew, and, finally, his setting out for London to make his living at the law. I could see him seated in a horse-drawn chaise at the door and hear his father's parting words. "One thing is certain, George. You'll never die in peace," said in London. They'll hang you, sure as day, and with your shoes and stockings on."

Jeffreys Sets Out to Make Bad History.

"He had some gifts. Nature had endowed him with a hard frame which he bent him on his feet when his companions sprawled in drunken sleep beneath the table. His language was a stream of filth so vile he was notorious even now. If now and then his room was bare of food and drink there was always a fool woman ready to provide it for him, and pay the price by giving something of herself as well. His very ugliness had fascination; and he had not reached his manhood yet.

"London was ripe for orgies. Charles had been hailed the Merry Monarch once again, and all was joy, except that underneath the cloak of pagantry and flaunting pleasure, strong men rebelled. Puritans snarled, like beaten dogs, ready to spring. Men who had been faithful to the Royal cause clamoured for law and justice for their sacrifice.

A Villain Who Betrayed His Friends.

"A man was wanted with some knowledge of the law, not one to plead and gently argue, but one to shout, and burst his way through opposition. No one was better fitted, and so he joined the rebels: held his secret meetings with them; found money coming forth in plenty; drank with the best or worst of them; confusion to the House of Stuart. But not for long. Only until he lived their names, so that their lives were in his keeping, and, seeing an easier and a brighter way to wealth, and power, he sold them—to the King. And, having done so, turned, with all his fury, on his friends. There was no trial. No trial was necessary. They stood convicted by his knowledge of them, so they were swept aside—to death.

"Small wonder that he rose so quickly. In two short years he had become the Lord Chief Justice, with fates of thousands in his hands. High and low, rich and poor, men, women, and even children, were brought as animals to the slaughter. The weaker they appeared to be, the more his mad, drink-sodden brain broke out. "I charge you, Hangman!" he would cry, "pay particular attention to this lady! Whip her well! Flog her until the blood runs free. The show is falling—a good day to strip in. Warm her shoulders for her! Take her away!"

"My lord," cries out another girl, "you cannot do this thing! You cannot murder my father!" "Can't, didst thou say, thou spawn of Satan?" he roared. "This mad shall know what I can do. Let him be hanged, and when he has hung long enough cut down his body. Let it be quartered and his head stuck high upon the Palace gates!"

A Ruffian with Mighty Power

"And James, who had followed his brother Charles as King, gave him, in performance, a seat in the Royal cabinet and a peerage in the Realm.

"Then there was trouble in the South. Young Monmouth, nephew of the King, had marched his way from Dorset, gathering the farmers to his colors on his way, claiming the crown as his.

He met and fought the Royal troops at Sedgemoor and was dragged from hiding in a ditch. His followers scattered in terror to their homes.

"So Jeffreys, with the powers of life and death, came to that peaceful land to punish. He opened up his court in Winchester.

"Who is this woman?" he roared, at the first case tried.

"Lady Lisle, he was informed, charged with giving food and drink to two poor fellows, flying for their lives, and offering shelter for the night. Was this poor lady to be burned for showing human kindness?"

"Hell's fire and fury!" he shouted. "What viper's nest is this? She shall be burnt, and not tomorrow—Now! See to it it is done!"

"They did not burn this kindly, brave old lady. They took her to the market place and gave her to masked men, with shining axes—and she died.

"Out of three hundred down at Dorchester, two hundred went to violent death. In Somerset and Dorset, three hundred were hanged, drawn, and quartered.

"Public gibbets on the highways grained and broke beneath the strain: not an inn-post or a sign but some poor body hung in chains. There was no church without a grinning skull nailed to its gates. Maypoles, flagpoles, everything upon which a festering corpse could hang, was commandeered, until the very air was poisonous, and travellers closed their eyes in horror. Nearly a thousand went to penal servitude over seas. How many died before they got there no man knows.

"As a reward James made him Chancellor of England.

The Great Betrayal.

"William of Orange landed, and King James fled the country. The hue and cry was out for vengeance on Judge Jeffreys. He hid himself, and went to Wapping. Shaving even his eyebrows he disguised himself as a collier on a barge sailing for Newcastle, hoping he might bribe the master of it to deliver him at Ham-burg.

"Coming ashore for drink he visited a local inn, and, peering through the window, was seen by a man who had appeared before him in the courts. Instantly an alarm was raised, and a mob, armed with blueglasses rushed to the place, shouting for his life. It took two regiments of militia to carry him in safety to London.

He did not die there, as his father said he would, hanging with shoes and stockings on, but rotten, both in mind and body, a bully and a coward to the end—and he was not yet forty-one.

The End of a Bully and Coward

"He did not die there, as his father said he would, hanging with shoes and stockings on, but rotten, both in mind and body, a bully and a coward to the end—and he was not yet forty-one.

"A man who held the devil in his mouth. Who with success might blast and bawl. Where lustiest lungs and foulest tongue wins all."

"And yet this human fiend, this human blot in English history, once played in the quiet fields at Acton, Wrexham, and was a boy, like other boys, at Shrewsbury School."

The Misses Edith and Gwen Taylor, of Weymouth Mills, spent the week end in Digby, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Raymond.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Fire Prevention Week is set apart for National observance in order that once yearly the attention of our people may be directed to the tremendous loss of life and property by fire and in order that public sentiment may be crystallized into action.

In our busy life we are too prone to put off the things we actually do not have to do. "Yes that is a good thing and well worth doing, but I will do it just a little later." In our club ones, and we have many good ones, there is too much of a disposition to endorse things that are worthy. We are for it, and believe it should be done. We endorse it one hundred per cent but you do it. Clubs are a very useful part of our social and commercial fabric, but too often they are used by individual members as a convenient means for "passing the buck."

Now public endorsements are good. We need them to aid this great work but what we need

Stephen E. Thorne

The many friends of Stephen E. Thorne were sorry to learn of his passing on Friday morning, Sept. 25th, after a lengthy illness, at his late home, at the age of 76 years. He leaves a widow, who was formerly Amanda Marshall, of Clarence; two sons, Ernest and Carey, both at home; and three grandchildren and one brother, Edward L. Thorne, of Granville Beach. The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon, at his late home, conducted by Rev. N. Cole, pastor of the United Church, assisted by Rev. W. B. Crowell, pastor of United Baptist Church. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved family.

Miss E. K. McClelland

Word has been received of the death in Boston, of Miss E. K. (Bess) McClelland, granddaughter of David and Emma Jones Young McClelland, late of Deep Brook. Elizabeth Keats McClelland was born in Annapolis Royal in 1890, second daughter of David, Jr., and Ida Margeson McClelland. Part of her childhood was passed in Deep Brook, where her father occupied the general store now owned by L. E. Sherman. Later the family moved to Massachusetts, where she became a graduate of the Jamaica Plain High School, and of Boston University. She taught in Miss May's School for Girls, Boston, and in the Brierly School of New York city. Of scholarly tastes most of her later years were spent abroad, in France, Scotland, and in England, where, at Oxford, she did important research work. Services were held September 10th, in Trinity Church, Boston, of which she had long been a member.

MANUFACTURING IN THE MARITIMES

With Factories Move Nearer Atlantic Seaboard?

The suggestion that Canada's industrial plants may tend to move nearer to the Atlantic seaboard as the Dominion's export of manufactured goods expands, is made by "Canada's Weekly," the only journal devoted to Anglo-Canadian trade published in Great Britain.

"A subject that will become of increasing significance in Canadian industrial circles in the near future is the location of industries in relation to export trade," says the article which is by J. E. Ray, a former Canadian government trade commissioner. "It will not be denied that an industry located near a seaboard, provided that costs of production are equal to those prevailing inland, stands an infinitely better chance of competing in overseas markets than one situated hundreds of miles from the coast. Although Great Britain is a relatively small country, and therefore not handicapped by factory location to the same extent as a continent like Canada, the tendency in recent years has been towards the erection of factories in the south rather than in the northern and midland counties, particularly if export trade is likely to absorb the bulk of the factories' output. The object of the move is to minimize inland transportation charges, although the incidence of local taxation plays its part in the movement.

"Sooner or later, if Canada is to develop export trade in manufactures on a large scale, the question of factory location may have to be seriously considered by industrialists. Quite 80 per cent of Canada's industries are situated hundreds of miles from the Atlantic seaboard and much greater distances from the Pacific coast. Into the reasons why they sprang up in such large numbers in the interior of Eastern Canada while there exist relatively few in the Maritimes and British Columbia, it is unnecessary to probe.

"The industrial pioneers and their immediate successors were doubtless influenced by the conditions of the times as related to the existing population, facilities for production, supply of labour, and regional suitability for distribution in the conduct of exclusively domestic trade. Few of these pioneers could have foreseen the present magnitude of Canada's export trade and more than we can foresee its magnitude fifty years hence if the changed conditions of our time and the conditions that will assuredly arise in the coming years.

"The Canadian trade pacts with the United Kingdom, Dominions and Colonies, have introduced a set of conditions and opportunities that were undreamed of in earlier days when the popular belief—and hope, in some quarters—was that trade would take a southerly and not an eastward or westward direction. The extent of Canada's trade with countries of the Empire will be dictated by the ability of her manufacturers to compete with other industrial nations exporting thereto. In arranging future plans for industrial expansion, would not this question of factory location in relation to export markets be worthy of consideration in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick the number of industrial plants is infinitesimal compared with Ontario and Quebec. Yet location in the Maritimes would be an invaluable asset in competing for trade in the United Kingdom, the Continent, the West Indies, and Latin America on the Atlantic side. Regarding the Orient, Australia, New Zealand, and other countries, would not factory location in British Columbia be an asset of no mean worth?

"The suggestion is advanced solely with Canada's future in view. At present fully 85 per cent of the country's trade is internal; but such a condition will not always prevail unless people are content to remain static, which is inconceivable. Canada must export more and more as the years go by, must convert more of her raw materials into finished products if the population is to be increased and fuller employment found. Competition in the markets of the world is keener today than ever, and is likely to become keener, should industrial nationalism persist. Canada can ill afford to neglect any course, therefore, the pur-

He Keeps His Job Though Turned 70

House Painter Who Takes His Kruschen Every Day

How many painters can continue to work when they are over 70? Here is one who can—and he still does some of the most trying jobs in the trade. How does he do it? He tells us in this letter—

"I have been in the habit of taking a few grains of Kruschen Salts in every cup of tea I have had for a great number of years. I may state that I am turned 70 years of age, being born on July 22nd, 1864. I am a house painter by trade and still at work. I can work off any ladder, no matter what height, or in cradles which are hung outside high buildings. I have been asked many times how I carry my age so well, as I only look about 50. Well, I tell them all that I take Kruschen Salts regularly every day."—J. S. A.

Kruschen is a combination of numerous mineral salts which assist in stimulating your liver, kidneys and digestive tract to healthy, regular activity. They ensure internal cleanliness, and so help to keep the blood-stream free from impurities.

"The Maritimes, though doing quite well in circumstances, have not as many manufacturing industries today as they had five or six years ago. In 1931 there were 2,611 establishments; in 1934 there were 2,506 with an invested capital of $246,000,000 and a production of the value of $118,000,000. The manufacturing industries were distributed thus: 273 in Prince Edward Island, 1,386 in Nova Scotia, and 847 in New Brunswick."

THE COME-BACK OF THE BICYCLE

A word about the extent to which the bicycle has come back. Almost 1,000,000 will probably be sold on the American continent this year. As late as 1931, 260,000 constituted a year's sale. Big cities are now making bicycle paths in their parks, and to-day 20 per cent of the bicycles sold are women's against eight per cent a few years ago.

Mrs. Cecil Hamilton, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Carr, has returned to her home in Boston.

Big Ceilidh Planned.

Perhaps you don't know what a "Ceilidh" is, but we have it from the Antigonish Casket as follows: Following a conference at Halifax last week between Premier MacDonald and travel bureau representatives, it was stated that about one hundred Americans of Scotch descent may visit Nova Scotia next year for a Gaelic get-together. The proposed visit would take place in September, with the party landing at Yarmouth, travelling through the Annapolis Valley, and on to Pictou or Antigonish, where it was hoped a Highland reception and field day would be staged for the visitors.

Faces In Stones.

An observing friend of ours claims that if you search long enough you can always find a human or animal face on any rough stone you may pick up. To bear out this statement he picked up several small stones at random, and with a few dots of pencil, produced several realistic heads.

SCRIP IS CALLED FLOUR MONEY

Smart Indian Squaw Just Wasn't Having Any.

(From the Drumheller Journal)

The Oriental who objected to "onesided" money in Medicine Hat has a contemporary in an Indian who this week went into an East Coque store with a $5 bill and was offered scrip in exchange.

"No ketchum Canada money," he quipped.

"This is just as good," the storekeeper replied.

An excited conversation in the aboriginal tongue was held between the Indian and his squaw before the scrip was handed back with the comment, "Squaw she say this is Robin Hood flour money." (Premium coupons).

NOBODY READS THE PAPER IS THAT SO?

"Nobody reads the paper, so why advertise?" say some merchants. Yet advertising experts of national concerns who demand and get results, fearfully give a big share of their advertising appropriations to weekly papers.

"Nobody reads the paper," yet if the editor gets the mumps, the linotype breaks down or anything else happens to delay the paper, the post office and editor are swamped with calls from indignant subscribers.

"Nobody reads the paper," but let the editor misspell one name in an obituary item buried at the bottom of an inside page and twenty readers will "kid" him about it before the paper has been out two hours.

"Nobody reads the paper." Then why do the local publicity hounds be-devil the editor for free space and favorable notice? And why are politicians so eager for the support of the paper?

"Nobody reads the paper." Yet the delinquent subscriber squawks to high heaven when his subscription is stopped.

New Mill Stream.

Way back when big worn-hill stiff collars and high-top shoes, they used to foregather from time to time, we are told, and harmonize an old song: "Down by the O-go-od Mill-ill Stream." Maybe they still do. Anyway, the stream is still there, near Findlay, O. Its old name is Blanchard River, and Tell Taylor, who wrote the old song, still lives near it banks. But it is a different mill stream now, filled with industrial refuse, mosquito larvae and organic matter. Local residents are launching a drive to get it cleaned up and restored to something like its former idyllic purity.

RUBBISH AND LITTER

Careless housekeeping in permitting the accumulation of in flammable litter and rubbish was responsible for 26,000 fires during the last three years in Canada. The careless practice of dumping litter of all kinds in basements, or unused rooms, or around buildings, is not only a serious fire hazard but is unsanitary and disgracefully unsightly. It is a time-honored saying that Cleanliness is next to Godliness.

Make an inspection of your home and your place of business. Use the limit of your perception and reasoning powers to discover and eliminate all possible causes of fire, just as you would in making an important business deal. It will pay you a handsome dividend in safety and saving.

Do not cast the reflection of carelessness upon yourself or your business by becoming careless in your housekeeping. Keep all of your premises clean. It will reflect credit upon you and make a better impression upon others, besides eliminating a serious fire hazard.

A marriage of interest to many was solemnized by Rev. C. E. Rockingham, in the Deep Brook United Baptist Church, on Wednesday morning of this week, when Frances Bernice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Purdy, became the bride of Eric, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Adams, of Smith's Cove. The church was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers, the young couple standing beneath an arch. The bride, attired in a sand suit, with accessories to correspond, and carrying an arm bouquet of pink roses and maiden hair fern, entered the church with her father by whom she was given in marriage. Mrs. Walter Lent presided at the organ. Ushers were Hugh Berry and the bride's brother, Arnold Purdy. The weather was ideal and a large congregation witnessed the wedding of these popular young people.

Among out of town relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rice, Bear River; Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Purdy, Digby; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bacon and family, Hill Grove; Mrs. Henry Sillis, Smith's Cove; the groom's mother, sisters and brothers, Smith's Cove. Among the numerous gifts were a gold piece from the bride's oldest uncle, J. D. Purdy, and a sum of money from the Baptist church, where the bride is organist. Following the ceremony the young couple left on a motor trip through Eastern Nova Scotia. On their return they will reside in Deep Brook.

COUNTIES OF NOVA SCOTIA

On August 17, 1759, Nova Scotia was divided into five counties, Halifax named after the Earl of Halifax; Cumberland in honor of the Duke of Cumberland, son of George II; Lunenburg after Lunenburg in Hanover; Kings as an expression of loyalty to the monarchy; and Annapolis in honor of Queen Anne. In course of time other counties were created out of the original five; Antigonish from the Miamee word meaning where branches are torn off the trees by bears getting beach nuts; Cape Breton from the early fishermen from France; Colchester after the English town of that name; Digby in honor of Admiral Robert Digby; Guysboro after Sir Guy Carleton; Hants the abbreviation of Hampshire, England; Inverness, from the Scotch county; Pictou from a Miamee word said to mean Big Harbour; Queens as an expression of loyalty; Richmond after the Duke of Richmond, governor General of British America, 1818-19; Shelburne in honor of the Earl of Shelburne; Victoria in honor of the young queen, and Yarmouth after the Earl of Yarmouth.

The Oxford Journal states Rev. Frank Smith has resigned the pastorate of the Oxford Baptist Church and will leave shortly for St. George, N. B. Mr. Smith, for several years was pastor of the Deep Brook circuit of Baptist Churches.

THE IMPORTANCE OF PERSONAL HABITS

The subject of personal habits is a very ticklish one, one which needs careful handling. It is an old saying that "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread," and in this case we will take the fool's chance. In fact, that is what many people are doing in their careless personal habits with fire every day of their lives. Perhaps the most effective way to approach the matter is to relate the results of some personal habits in other people, as people generally like to hear about the other fellow.

A man dropped a cigarette in a rubbish pile in a rooming house and burned to death eleven people.

A man dropped his cigarette in a couch in the lobby of a hotel. Fire resulted at 3 a.m., and four people lost their lives.

A mother in one of our leading college cities, for the five hundredth time, perhaps, started a fire with coal oil. The fire she started burned to death three children beside herself.

A man dropped a match on a garage floor, walked on and left it. A six year old child found it and ignited her clothing which resulted in burns that caused her death a few hours later.

Man attempted to sleep and smoke at the same time—result, he set bed afire, was overcome with smoke, and removed in an unconscious state. Only the timely arrival of the fire department saved him from being cremated alive.

Some grown-ups placed ordinary matches on a kitchen table. Two small children acted upon the implied suggestion and carried some to their play house, innocently starting a fire. Result, little boy burned fatally.

Do you always think about the safety and welfare of those about you when you discard your match and cigarette stub? Are you mindful of the safety of the children in your home to the extent of providing safety matches, and keeping them out of their reach? Do you have proper respect for the dangerous properties of gasoline and always handle it with care?

Mrs. F. H. Burns, who has been spending the summer with her sister, Miss Annie MacKay, returned to Marblehead, Mass., on Saturday.

George Wade, of Bear River, who has been visiting a daughter in New York for some weeks, returned this week and was in Digby for a few days en route home.

Eric Armstrong, who graduated from Acadia University with his B. A. degree last May has returned for a post graduate course, studying for the degree of Bachelor of Education.

SCALLOP SEASON OPENED

The scallop dragging season for 1936-37 officially opened yesterday, Wednesday evening, the family sound of crude oil oil engine, which provide the power for the boats of the fleet, was heard again as the craft commenced to shift their positions at the wharves in order to sail at midnight, and put their drags out as soon as possible after that hour.

The fleet in the Digby area this year is said to be the largest fleet of its kind in the history of the world. From Long Island, off Digby Neck, to Hillsboro, well up the Bay of Fundy Coast of Annapolis County, more than 80 boats are expected to be in operation this season—and should the season prove as successful as last year, these boats will land the bulk of the scallops landed in Canada, or along the Atlantic seaboard, for that matter. Last season this fleet landed more than 97 per cent of all the scallops landed in Canada.

The boats from Lunenburg, Queens and Yarmouth Counties which have been operating out of here for the past few seasons, are expected again this year, although it is understood the Violetta G., Capt. Parks, of East Colville; the M. W. Colp, Capt. Colp, of Bayport; and the Little Roy, Capt. Strum, of Liverpool, will try their luck in seeking new beds off Yarmouth and along the coast before proceeding to Digby.

Capt. Ivan Mosher and Capt. Backman, of Lunenburg, both of whom have operated boats out of Digby for others in past seasons, are expected to bring their own boats this season.

The boats which sailed for the beds the first day of the season, were forced to return after a few hours on account of unfavorable weather.

Gone to Acadia

Robert Brooks, of Weymouth, motored to Wolfville on Tuesday to take his sister, Miss Elizabeth Brooks, who was entering Acadia University. He was accompanied by Miss Gene Brooks and Miss Roberta Rand, the former being enroute to Halifax to attend the Provincial Exhibition. They were also accompanied as far as Smith's Cove by Mrs. A. H. Brooks, who visited her mother there.

Obituary

Mrs. George Bishop

The death of Margaret, widow of the late George Bishop, occurred at her home at 10 o'clock Tuesday after an illness of several months, aged 82 years. She was the last surviving member of the family of the late William Gidney, of Mink Cove, her two brothers, Angus and Henry, having predeceased her some years. She leaves to mourn their loss six sons, Sheriff H. R. Bishop, who resided with his mother; Roger, of Boston; Victor, of the C. P. R. office, Montreal; Gerald, with A. M. Jack, Halifax; Claude, a druggist in Liverpool, and Douglas, in Detroit; and one daughter, Josephine, widow of the Rev. William Driffield, late rector of this parish. The funeral will be conducted from her late home this afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, by the Rev. A. E. Gabriel, with interment in Forest Hill cemetery.

Rev. Dr. A. C. Chute, a native of Digby, former dean of theology at Acadia University, died at his home in Wolfville, on Wednesday, after a lengthy illness. He was 89 years old. Before his retirement from active life in 1932, Dr. Chute had served the community of Wolfville and the University of Acadia, as pastor and teacher, for thirty years. He was author of a number of books.

John Pyne, well known resident of Tiverton, passed away at the home of his son, Irvin, on Tuesday, Sept. 29, at 10 a.m., following an illness of two months. He was 79 years of age, and during his illness was a very great sufferer.

He was a member of the Baptist Church and I. O. O. F., at Tiverton. Funeral took place from the Baptist Church, Rev. Mr. Morgan, of Westport, officiating in the absence of Rev. Mr. Wakeling. Being a life long lover of music his favorite hymns were sung by the choir: "Shall We Gather at the River," "Some Day the Silver Chord Will Break," and "Thus Far the Lord Has Led Me On." The many beautiful flowers were proof of the love and respect of his many relatives and friends. The late Mr. Pyne is survived by two sons, Irvin, of Tiverton; Albert, of Cambridge, Mass.; one daughter, Mrs. Laura B. Norton, of Hartford, Conn.; a sister, Mrs. Mary Davis, of Boston, Mass.; and a brother, William, at Freeport. Burial took place at Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

ANGRY MOOSE GIVES GROUND—Leo and Cyril Deveau, of Heberton, held off an angry bull moose Sunday by throwing sticks and stones at the animal until he retreated in one direction and they made off in the other.

They were proceeding over the French Mill road on their bicycles, and the moose, snorting and pawing the ground, was standing on the roadside. They approached within 25 feet, and hurled their missiles, the forest monarch finally retreating five or six yards while they mounted their bicycles and hurried away. Looking back, they saw the animal again in the road. They said he had the finest pair of antlers they had ever seen.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Sollows left on Saturday on a motor trip through the United States.

Dishes from Bed of Ocean.
Limoges dishes, bearing the mark of Wm. Gueim & Co., Limoges, France, were picked up off the bottom of the ocean Wednesday by the scallop dragger, Phillip J. Cant, of Son. On the front of the dishes was the C. P. R. crest. For the most part they were broken by scallops and ocean debris dragged to the surface by the scallop rakes, but one large dinner plate was in almost perfect condition, except for a little nick on the edge. Capt. d'Eon presented this dish to D. B. Kenney, municipal councillor for Westport, who, with Mrs. Kenney, have been spending a few days in Digby.

Mrs. W. R. Tibbets and daughter, Miss Elaine, of Winthrop, Mass., who have been visiting Mrs. Tibbets' brothers, J. L. and G. H. Peters, and sister, Mrs. Clark, returned home on Tuesday.

Shot Through the Neck.

Louis Thibodeau, railway section man, of Annapolis Royal, was admitted to the Digby General Hospital on Monday evening with a bullet wound in his neck. Thibodeau, it is alleged, was hunting in the Horsfall woods, near the estate of the late Chief Justice Harris, at Upper Clements, when he was struck by a stray bullet. The missile entered the left side of his neck and lodged in his right jaw.

Breaking Window.

Five Digby dads dug into their pockets to the tune of $8 each last week to pay for damages alleged to have been caused by their sons—boys in the early teens—to the windows of the path mill at the mouth of Bear River. The boys, it is reported, rode out on their "bikes", and threw stones through the windows. Somehow, in our opinion, we feel they must have had a very busy afternoon to break ALL the windows that are broken in the old building, in fact we can hardly see where they could find a whole glass to break—but THEY were caught.

FREE MUSIC LESSONS

Beginners' Band starting soon. Fifteen new members wanted at once. Application fee, $2.00 no other dues. Fifty free music lessons. Parents please consider. Citizens please encourage enrollment. A fine chance to learn music and help your town to maintain a big band and a GOOD one. Removals drain membership which must be kept at full quota by new members, or rapid decay will follow. The bandmaster would like to talk to everbody interested. Please call promptly, or phone 55.—Paul Yates, director.

Among the late guests to visit Digby Gap Inn, Day View, were Mr. and Mrs. Gahmatt Allan, Newton Highlands, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Gustin, of Newton, Mass.; Miss Marjorie Houser and Mrs. Louis Stethew, both of Philadelphia. The last two named returned home on Tuesday, after having spent a very pleasant vacation.

Harold Wilson was a recent visitor of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Wilson, Shore Road. After several days' vacation he returned to Halifax, accompanied by his mother.

Body of J. A. Stevenson Found Friday

The body of John Alexander Stevenson, young Toronto student and scientist, was found about 11 o'clock Friday morning of last week, drifting near the government pier at Deep Brook, by Roy Henshaw and his brother Llewellyn. Stevenson had been missing for seven weeks.

At an inquest held early in the afternoon, the coroner's jury, with Charles Ray, of Deep Brook, foreman, returned a verdict. "That John Alexander Stevenson came to his death by accidental drowning in the Annapolis Basin, September 15th, 1936." Dr. L. B. W. Braine, of Annapolis Royal was presiding coroner.

Three witnesses, namely Capt. John Abramson, of Digby, who was taken to the scene by the B. C. M. P. to identify the body; Roy and Llewellyn Henshaw, were examined.

Capt. Abramson testified that he had been letting Stevenson use his boat for the past two summers. On the afternoon of September 15th Stevenson took the boat out for the second time that day, and at that time asked for the loan of a sail. In letting him have the sail, Capt. Abramson said he warned him not to use it while dragging his net. This net, he explained, was of light iron frame, about 14 inches long, and 6 or 7 inches wide, to which was attached a net of green twine.

He further testified that he went down to the wharf with him and helped to lower the sail to the boat, again warning him to be careful and not to use sail while dragging, to which Stevenson replied, "John, I'll be careful."

Capt. Abramson stated that he had not seen Stevenson since until the present occasion, when he identified him by his clothing.

Roy Henshaw testified as to how he and his brother Llewellyn had gone to the shore that morning to haul up his boat and remove the gill net, and to bring back a load of sand. They had been working some little time when he saw an object floating some 200 yards off shore. He thought it resembled clothing, then, thinking of the missing man, he got in a dory and rowed out to it. On discovering it was a human body he returned to shore for his brother and the two of them brought the body ashore. He phoned the Mounted Police at Digby at 11.55—about five minutes after they brought the body to the beach.

Llewellyn simply stated that he had heard his brother's evidence and had nothing more to add.

The body, badly decomposed, was removed to Keen's Mortuary, Digby, and interred in the cemetery (United-church) cemetery, at the request of his father, Col. K. L. Stevenson, of Trinity College School, Port Hope, Ont., who wished his son buried in a cemetery overlooking the water.

Young Stevenson, who was 26 years of age, had been employed for the past two summers in preparing a biological study of the life and habits of the scallop, and was working for the St. Andrews' division of the Biological Board of Canada. On the 15th of September he went out to drag for a few specimens needed to complete his work in Digby for the summer, and this was to have been his last trip. He planned then to return to Toronto and resume his studies at the University of Toronto, after spending a few days in Saint John.

The boat he used was found on the Granville shore of the Annapolis Basin on September 16. The sail was picked up Tuesday, day of last week, near Victoria Beach. The body was found on the opposite shore.

Narrow Escape for Dr. Hodgson and Wife Monday

A Dodge car, owned and operated by Rev. Dr. Hodgson, pastor of Grace United Church, became practically a total wreck on Monday evening as the result of a crash at the corner of Warwick Street and First Avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. Hodgson, who were just returning home from a vacation spent on Prince Edward Island and Sackville, N. B., were less than half a mile from the Manse when the accident happened. Neither was seriously hurt.

The accident happened when a Chev. car, operated by Willie Dunn, of Greywood, Annapolis County, coming out of First Avenue, shot straight across Warwick Street, the main artery in town. The Dunn car struck Dr. Hodgson's car on the left rear door, swinging it around and turning it over on the pavement with such force that it was pointed the opposite way from which it had been travelling, when it came to rest.

Dunn claimed he thought when he struck the First Avenue pavement he was on the main road to Annapolis, and instead of making the corner shot straight ahead, believing his car was on the main road and had the right of way.

The Dunn car was also involved in an accident Sunday evening when it struck a telephone pole on First Avenue, near the Town hall. As the result of that accident two of the occupants of the car, John Pippey, of Digby, and Freeman Dunn, of Greywood, were jailed. Two charges—operating a car while under the influence of liquor and having liquor in the car—were preferred against them. Both were sentenced by Magistrate Havey to seven days and a fine of $10 and costs. In the event of non-payment of the fine, 30 days in jail.

FIRE DOES DAMAGE TO BLACKSMITH SHOP

The blacksmith shop and scallop rake plant of A. J. Trohan, First Ave., was damaged by fire, discovered shortly after 11 o'clock Monday evening by Ernest Wilson, who, passing along the street, sighted flames through the windows. The fire had broken through the floor, near the forge, and was extinguished by the firemen before any serious damage was done.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford MacKinnon and daughter, of Brooklyn, N. S., spent the week end at the home of Mr. MacKinnon's brother, Michael MacKinnon.

SCOUT NOTES

On Thursday evening the scout season opened with a full meeting of the Court of Honor, including the patrol seconds, to arrange for the winter's programme.

Several important changes were made in the organization of the troop. The number in each patrol will be limited to six instead of eight, as at present, and the number of patrols will be increased from three to four. This seems to be the set-up that is being followed by the most successful troops.

With the special training received by the S. M. and the A. S. M., at the Gilwell Training Camp at Sussex during the past summer, it is expected that a very interesting and instructive line of activities will be carried out by the troop during the coming season.

Obituary

Vida Peck

The community of Greenwood, in Annapolis Co., a few miles from Bear River, was saddened on Tuesday morning, September 29, when it was learned that Vida, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Peck, had passed away at the home of her parents. Vida had been sick for some time, but hope had been entertained for her recovery until the day before her death, and therefore it was a shock to relatives and friends. For three short years she had brought sunshine into the lives of those around her, and her presence will be sorely missed by all who so dearly loved her. The funeral service, conducted by Rev. C. P. Henderson, pastor of the Adventist church, Bear River, were held in the Clements-ville United Baptist church, and interment was in the Clements-ville cemetery. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful, and the wide-spread sympathy of the whole community was deeply appreciated by the bereaved father and mother and the three brothers, Vincent, Lewis and Homer. Comforting to them are Christ's words:

"Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Miss Oradell Peck left on Friday for Northham, Mass.

Miss Dorothy Killam, who has been the guest of Mrs. H. C. Anthony for the past two weeks, returned to Yarmouth on Monday.

Miss Edith Lovett, R. N. of New York, arrived on Friday and will spend a three months' holiday with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Lovett.

Week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hubley were Miss Blackadar and T. A. Kirk, of Yarmouth, who returned to their homes Monday by motor.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hole, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Purdy, spent a couple of days in Halifax last week, and on Friday left for their home in Utica, N. Y.

Mrs. Harry E. Harris left on Friday last for Boston, accompanied by Sophie Marshall, of Lawrence, Mass., and will visit Malden, Milton, Dorchester and Providence, before returning home.

Miss Blanche Purdy, accompanied by her niece, Mrs. "Ted" Stevens and four young daughters, left on Tuesday for Saint John to meet Mr. Stevens with whom they will motor to Orlando, Florida, Miss Purdy remaining there for the winter months.

Mrs. Stevens was much improved in health, after having spent several months in Bear River.

On Sunday evening, about 7.00 o'clock, a chimney fire broke out in the United Baptist Parsonage. Prompt action on the part of the local fire department and interested neighbors quickly had it under control and averted what might have been a disastrous fire.

Quite a number of Bear River people attended the Harvest Festival service held at Lansdowne on October 1st. All fruit and vegetables brought to the hall are annually donated to the Digby General Hospital by the people of the community—a worthy effort which is much appreciated.

YOU MAY WIN A VALUABLE PRIZE

We want a slogan for Ogilvie Royal Household Flour and for the best ones submitted during this contest will award prizes as outlined above. Read the simple contest rules and send in your entry.

Your chances of winning a prize in this contest will be greater if you keep in mind that Ogilvie Royal Household Flour is triple-tested. It is tested for what quality before milling, for flour quality during milling and for baking quality after milling.

This all happens before Royal Household Flour is put into quality-protecting bags and sent to your dealer. Now you can easily understand why this first-quality flour simply must blend better with other ingredients—why it makes finer, better-textured bread; richer, more flavoured cakes and flakier pie crust.

Get a bag of Ogilvie Royal Household Flour now. You'll find it is really fun to bake when you use this "triple-tested" flour.

This is what you do

Merely write a slogan of not more than ten words relating to Royal Household Flour and good enough to describe this favourite brand. It's easy to do. Here are a few examples: "Best by Triple Test," "Made by the Master Millers" or "A Guarantee of Uniform Baking Results!"

You may send in as many slogans as you wish, providing you follow the simple rules below.

HERE ARE THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. Use a plain sheet of paper and write out your slogan of not more than 10 words. Write your name and address clearly at the bottom and on the other side of the sheet write the name and address of the store where you purchase your Royal Household Flour, or use the coupon.
2. You may submit as many slogans as you desire, but with each one send the words "Royal Household Flour" and "Triple-Tested" in every bag of Royal Household Flour. Or you may send in a reasonably accurate facsimile of same.
3. This contest will close on November 30th, 1936. All entries must be postmarked not later than that date.
4. Address your entry to "The $14,500 Prize Contest, The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Limited, 11400 Main Street, Montreal, P. Q., Canada. Entries will be accepted at the nearest Ogilvie office listed.
5. ONLY RESIDENTS OF CANADA may compete in this contest. Employees of The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd., and their families are not eligible.
6. In case of a tie the prize money will be equally divided. The committee of judges is composed of three independent, disinterested persons in no way connected with The Ogilvie Flour Mills Company Limited and their decision will be final. No correspondence will be entered into and all slogans submitted will become the property of The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Limited.

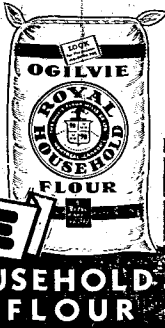

RETAILERS

You share in this, too. The retailers named by the first six prize winners will each receive $25.00 cash.

CITIZENS, THINK!

At a time like the present, when the greater part of the civilized world is in a state of flux, when governments are changing with almost breathless rapidity, and when national after national takes drastic steps to gain or to maintain stability, the following statement, made by a graduate of Acadia University, should be food for serious thought to all true Canadians:

"It is high time that the men and women of Canada took more interest in the changes which are taking place in the economical and political activities of the world at large, for none of us know how soon the day may come when we too will be called upon to make decisions of momentous national importance.

For generations Canadian politics have revolved themselves into a simple question of "Grit or Tory?" But the old order chancery, giving place to new, and it is certain that before the younger generation of Canadians begin to find "silver threads amongst the gold" they will be called upon to make far-reaching changes in the structure of the State.

"Our England is a garden, and such gardens are rare and precious. By saying 'Oh, how beautiful!' and sitting in the shade."

These words, taken from a poem by Rudyard Kipling, apply with equal force to Canada and we cannot impress too strongly upon the minds of all who read this article that if they wish to ensure the continued safety and prosperity of the Dominion, for themselves and for their children, they must make a very real effort to take an active part both in local and federal developments.

Democracy, on which we pride ourselves, is the fruit of the untiring efforts of our forefathers, and, unless we wish to lose all that we have gained, we must not let behind them in selfless devotion to the State. Nor must we be discouraged by the fact that we, as individuals, feel small and helpless. A loaf contains many crumbs, a brick contains countless grains of sand and clay, and Democracy—government by the people—gains shape and dynamic force from the thousands of tiny impulses coming from the people themselves. No crumbs—no loaf. No grains of sand and clay—no brick and no individual expression from the people of a democratic state and Democracy will die: it's place being taken by chaotic mob rule or iron-handed dictatorship.

It has been said by some that Democracy is bound to fail. That is not true: wherever it has failed its failure has been due to the inability of the citizens through ignorance or laziness to fulfil their duty to the State. While it would perhaps be unjust to accuse the electorate of Canada of being either ignorant or lazy the graduate's remark should come as a timely warning and we of the younger generation whose duty to the State grows daily with the passing of our elders must make every effort to fit ourselves for the great work which lies ahead.

BALANCED BUDGETS

It is necessary that we balance public budgets in Canada for several reasons, says the Financial Post.

One is that a budget-balancing effort by any government generates a will to administer efficiently and economically. There is no end to what governments can spend if they think only in terms of spending. And there is almost no end to what governments can save if politicians will only think of their funds as coming out of the pockets of the people and not out of a mythical and bottomless treasury.

ure chest called public revenues. A second and equally important reason is that unbalanced budgets are an invitation to disaster: to fiscal and monetary collapse through default, a flight of money or uncontrollable inflation, or all of these.

The financial stability of Canada is a matter of interest to every man, woman and child. Financial stability makes for confident investment, the creation of jobs, the increase and wider distribution of wealth—in short for true prosperity and social happiness. Financial instability, as marked by deficits in Dominion, financial and municipal accounts, cannot but be the forerunner of unemployment, of slackened force in national development, of cruel suffering for every citizen.

A CAMPAIGN TO INCREASE FISH CONSUMPTION

Attention is directed today to the striking advertisement of the Department of Fisheries, Ottawa, which is seeking to increase the consumption of fish in Canada by a big publicity effort. It is noteworthy that the designs used in Maritime advertisements have been drawn by a Maritime artist, while the copy has been written by Maritime advertisement writers.

There seems to be abundant reason why Maritime people should eat more fish. The arguments are all with the Department of Fisheries. From the standpoint of food value, vitamin and mineral content fish easily lead the food parade, while as regards tastiness and ease of digestion many foods swim in a class by themselves.

When you eat fish you help to stimulate a great Canadian basic industry. You help the fisherman; you increase his buying power. As a patriotic duty, therefore, as well as to safeguard your health and properly nourish your body, you can profitably eat more fish, for any day is fish day.

You are urged to read the fish advertisements as they appear in this paper with the hope that the suggestions made in them may result in a larger consumption of fish foods in your home.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS, ATTENTION!

The ninth National Temperance Study Course for Sunday Schools, sponsored by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, began October 4th and will end November 1st. The course will be found appearing in five lesson stories in the Sunday School and church papers, also in the "Northern Messenger". There are two grades in junior and two in intermediate senior, making in all four grades. At the end of each lesson there are two questions which are to be answered at the end of the course, according to the age of the pupil.

No answer shall exceed 150 words, written plainly, on one side of the paper only.

Sunday School superintendents will receive a relative to this course upon request to Mrs. Wm. Lent, Weymouth North, and it is hoped that an effort will be made by them to have the schools enter papers, thus valuable training in temperance is afforded by so doing, and prizes are offered by the local, provincial and national W. C. T. U.'s for the best papers submitted.

As temperance has to be taught in the public schools, many teachers are using this course as they find this story an interesting chance from the fact book and a very valuable aid in imparting necessary information.

After the papers have been examined, send the three best ones in each grade to the above address not later than November 30th. In the meantime all needed information will be supplied by Mrs. Lent.

Married

MacKay - McNairn

One of the most interesting and charming of the early autumn weddings was quietly solemnized in St. Paul's Eastern United Church, Ottawa, a few days ago, of Ruth Arnold, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. W. McNairn, to John William MacKay, son of Mrs. A. L. MacKay, of Pictou. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. McNairn, father of the bride, who is minister of the church. Glad tidings in the lovely coral-tones with bankings of greenery were used to adorn the church. Miss Lillian Jeans played the wedding music very effectively. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Kelvin McNairn, and was unattended. She wore her smart travelling costume of brown wool in tunic effect, trimmed with Persian lamb. Her hat was of brown velvet and her accessories in matching brown. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of sweetwill roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. McNairn, mother of the bride, wore a handsome costume of brown triple crepe with a brown felt hat and a corage bouquet of roses. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate relatives only and later Mr. and Mrs. MacKay left for Montreal from where they sailed to Newfoundland. On their return they will take up their residence at Kirkland Lake. (The bride is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Ellis, Bay View, where she spent a part of last summer).

The hot plate, donated to the Hospital Fair by the Digby Co. Power Board, was drawn for on Thursday morning. Miss Margaret Stewart was the winner, holding ticket no. 203.

Could Hardly Rise From Her Chair

Rheumatism Relieved by Kruschen

This woman was such a confirmed sufferer from rheumatism that she thought she would never get relief. But before she had finished one bottle of Kruschen her rheumatism was leaving her. Here is her letter:—
"I had rheumatism so badly that once I got into a chair I found great difficulty in rising again. A friend told me to try Kruschen Salts, but I thought it was a foolish idea, as there seemed to me to be nothing that would relieve rheumatism. My friend gave me two doses to try. I took one dose on Monday and another on Tuesday, and by then my pain had moved to another part of my body. Well, that was a good start, so I bought a bottle and it gave me great joy to find my rheumatism disappearing, and now for a long time I have been free." (Miss A. R.)
The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently due to deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen Salts, by helping to stimulate the excretory organs to healthy, regular activity, enables them to expel this uric acid from the system.

HARVEST FESTIVAL AT LANSDOWNE

On Thursday of last week the community of Lansdowne held their annual harvest festival—a public expression of thanksgiving to God for the fruits of their labor in garden and field. Although the night was not pleasant the hall was well filled, proving the sincerity of the spirit of the people. On the platform were Rev. A. W. L. Smith, of the Anglican church; Rev. C. L. Blanchard, United Church of Canada; Rev. S. F. Steeves, Baptist, and Rev. C. P. Henderson, Advent church.

Rev. A. W. L. Smith opened the meeting with prayer, followed by a hymn, in which all joined heartily. Responsive reading was led by Rev. C. P. Henderson; scripture reading by Rev. S. F. Steeves. The Creed was recited in unison, followed by a Thanksgiving prayer, with responses. After singing a hymn Rev. C. L. Blanchard gave the address, taking as his text, Psalm 24:1: "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof: the world and they that dwell therein," emphasizing the following points: 1st. The Sovereignty of God; 2nd. God calls to us to be co-workers with him in the realm of nature; 3rd. Our responsibility and power to God. All were deeply impressed by the address and felt an uplift of the spirit that only comes at a time when deep feeling of a spiritual nature permeates an audience. The address concluded with prayer.

A trio, Mrs. Fred Rice, Mrs. Walter Dukeshire and Mrs. Burton Harris, Bear River, rendered "From Every Stormy Wind that Blows." Mrs. Lottie Roop, also of Bear River, presided at the organ throughout the entire service.

Rev. A. W. L. Smith, on behalf of the community, presented the gifts of fruit and vegetables to The Digby General Hospital, represented by Dr. A. B. Campbell, who, in a few well-chosen words, extended thanks from the hospital, not only for the gifts, but for the spirit of co-operation and appreciation which led to holding this annual service, and expressed the wish that it might continue from year to year as a tangible token of thanks to

While in the village Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Comeau, Mr. and Mrs. Shields and daughter, with Capt. and Mrs. Oliver Comeau, visited Fort Anne, at Annapolis Royal, recently.

God for His goodness. The service closed by singing a hymn and one verse of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

The hall was decorated with garlands of Virginia creeper with Canadian holly, also with lovely garden flowers—the window sills gay with rosy apples in beds of green moss, while the ends of each pew were a tall corn stalk, their different shapes proving a most unique and pleasing decoration. Sheaves of ripened wheat, combined with on-dew-dahlia formed very artistic large bouquets at the front of the hall, and immediately in front of the pulpit was a carpet of moss made beautiful with bright colored vegetables. No effort had been spared by the committee in charge, who worked hard to achieve an impressive setting in which to hold this harvest thanksgiving, and were most successful in so doing. The well deserved praise extended to them by Rev. Mr. Smith and which were personally expressed after the meeting by many of those present, among whom was Miss Louise Jagger, Smith's Cove, who ever takes a keen interest in the activities in this community. Lansdowne has set an example that other communities may follow with benefit to all.

Old English Blend

(Sixth Installment)

Tuesday, July 28th, all hands on deck early this morning to take in the sight of the sea back through the English Channel. Field glasses are out scanning the coast. On we go up the Thames, finally to arrive at Tilsbury dock. The Montrose has arrived ahead of us so we must drop anchor and await our turn to dock. There is lots of excitement here as we watch the steamers packed with vacationists, bound on cruises, on to the beaches further down the river. Ocean tramps, tugs and barges seem to be everywhere.

Finally, there comes a few sharp blasts from the whistle of the Montrose, answered by our ship, the Montcalm. These blasts served as a signal for the Montcalm to weigh anchor and proceed to the dock. We all flocked to one side of the ship, anxious to get our feet on the shore.

We hadn't long to wait. We soon passed through the Customs where we were each given a card corresponding in color with the labels on the train by which we were to travel to London. (In this case we did not have a numbered seat, but each compartment, with the names of the London hotels reserved for us; we simply walked along the platform until we reached a compartment corresponding to the name of the hotel on our card).

Mavor and I found we were on the same train, but at different hotels so we made arrangements to get in touch with one another as soon as possible. My hotel was the Mermaid, 11 Grosvenor Place, Portman Sq., London, W. 1; Mavor's was at 14—just across the street.

After passing through the Customs we had to leave our baggage behind. I just wish you could have seen the heaps of luggage on the station platform—all properly labelled for the hotels where the pilgrims were to stay. On our ship there were 1,500 pilgrims, each with an average of two pieces of baggage each—and there were five shiploads of us.

The conductor shouts "All Aboard," and we're away for London City. Here we take busses to convey us to our hotel—each bus is labelled with the name of the hotel at which we are to stop.

Our crowd arrived at the hotel about 2.30, signed the register, gave our properties the "once over" in order to make sure everything was O.K., secured our rooms—and away we go to find out just about where we are located. We learn that our hotel is just about a three minutes' walk from Hyde Park, between Bond Street and the Marble Arch underground stations.

The rest of the day being free and clear of any programme, we take a sight-seeing bus along Bond Street, Oxford and Regent Streets to Trafalgar Square, get off the bus at Canada House, take a few snaps, and then walk up the Strand as we used to when on leave years ago, finally drifting to a "pub" for a couple of "alfs" and away to a good restaurant for dinner. This over, we spent the rest of the time looking the city over, meeting a lot of old friends, among them Johnny Walker, John Collins and Vickers. All seemed very sociable. We arrived back at our hotel about midnight.

Wednesday, July 29, was our big day in London. First of all we assembled at Westminster Hall at 10 a.m. for address of welcome from Premier Baldwin. I am sure all of the 6,000 pilgrims were there—what a crowd!

Part of Premier Baldwin's Address

Mr. Stanley Baldwin, in a moving address to the pilgrims, said:

"We have no doubt that many of the troubles of this world are due to the fact that we have lost our best men in the war, our best who today would have become our leaders.

"I am confident of this, if the dead could come back today there would be no war.

"If Europe and the world can find no other way of settling disputes than the way of war even now, when we are still finding and burying the bodies of those who fell twenty years ago—if we can find no other way, the world deserves to perish.

"We can never forget you in those first days of the war and in that peril you leapt to our side, and you stayed with us in that first grim fighting around Ypres and throughout that first gas attack in April, 21 years ago."

"I think we showed you then what we thought of you. We gave you Vimy, the key spot of the whole line. And we gave you moreover Julian Byng, and I think you loved Julian Byng as I know he loved you. (Cheers). When his work with you was done Canada produced a man, and your own General Currie took over. (Cheers). Julian Byng and General Currie were friends in life, as such men were bound to be; and in death not long divided, for both have been called home within recent years, and each lies honoured for all time in the pleasant land that gave them birth.

This over at 10.30 a.m., we met at the Old Palace Yard and formed up on markers provided by H. M. Brigade of Guards for parade to the Cenotaph at 11 o'clock. This was very fitting, and we went off in grand formation all wore berets, medals and pilgrims' badges. The Canadian Pipers' Band led the blue beret detachment, followed at a distance of 200 yards by the khaki beret detachment, headed by the Band of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery and the band of H. M. Welsh Guards.

At the Cenotaph the memorial service, led by the Bishop of London, began with the Canadian anthem, "O Canada, our home, our native land, we stand on guard for thee." Prayers were said, and the hymns included, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," "All People that On Earth Do Dwell," then the placing of the Legion's wreath, the "Last Post," "Reveille," and the National Anthem.

At the close a special party, led by a detachment of Canadian Mounted Rifles, went to the grave of the Unknown Warrior, in Westminster Abbey, where Mrs. C. S. Wood, a Canadian mother who lost seven sons in the war, laid a wreath.

After dismissal we had until 3.45 to do as we pleased. We went back to Trafalgar Square, to St. Martin's, our headquarters, then down Fleet Street to get photographs of the unveiling of Vimy. I also mailed newspapers and cards to Digby.

By this time we had another appointment with Johnny Walker (we had to smile when we met him—he's not a bad fellow)—spent a pleasant half-hour, and then—lunch. After this a little shopping (mostly wool) and back to the hotel to do up for the next event.

"By the King's Command"

A Reception was held by Their Royal Highnesses The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester in the Gardens of Buckingham Palace, from 4 to 6 p.m.

Each of us was given a personal invitation to attend, and I guess we were all there—right on time. It was a beautiful palace. I wandered all through the gardens, then sat down and watched the crowd. Finally the crowd started on the run. I didn't know just what was up until I heard someone say, "The King is here."

It was impossible for me to get very close to him at this time, but shortly after his arrival there came a downpour of rain. Mavor and I followed the others into the palace. Here we spent a pleasant half hour, and while there, I mailed my invitation to attend this function back home. Buckingham Palace is certainly a lovely place, and I think a great privilege was given us pilgrims.

About the time we had completed "making the rounds" Mavor called me to the door—"The King is coming." We got on the step and stood, and as the king passed Mavor patted him on the back. He went upstairs to a balcony overlooking the lovely lawns and delivered a very pleasing talk to us.

The King's Speech.

In a voice carrying far across the crowded lawn, he said:

"Old comrades and friends from Canada: none of us who were present at the wonderful ceremony at Vimy on Sunday can ever possibly forget it. For me personally my recollections will always be very vivid, because it brought me into contact again with so many Canadians. It brought back memories to me, not only of the Canadian Corps during the war, but also of my four visits to the Dominion. It was a very beautiful and moving occasion, tinged with sadness.

"Today we meet under less solemn and certainly happier circumstances—although, I am sorry to say, somewhat damper circumstances."

This raised a burst of laughter. "We don't care. We are enjoying ourselves," shouted one pilgrim, as the King glanced ruefully upward at the teeming heavens.

"I don't take any responsibility for the rain," continued the King, which raised another merry shout. "I can only hope you have not got very wet, and when I know how badly the rain is needed in Canada, especially in the west ('Alberta—High River')—interrupted a pilgrim. I can say that we certainly have the rain in the wrong place.

"I want to assure you what a very great pleasure it is to welcome you at Buckingham and to see you before you sail for your homes in Canada. I sincerely hope you will enjoy every minute of your stay here, and carry back memories of the great pilgrimage to hearten you in the years to come."

As the King finished there was another storm of applause. Someone started to sing "For he's a jolly good fellow" and "God Save the King." Eight thousand voices, with vibrant emotion, took up the refrains, and there was a scene unparalleled in the history of Buckingham Palace as the King's guests stood on the King's lawn and sang to the King on the balcony above them.

I don't believe the likes of this reception have ever taken place at Buckingham Palace before. Certainly we had full charge—and goodness knows how many rolls of film were used during our brief stay there—cameras were clicking all of the time. I succeeded in taking a nice snap of General Turner, V.C., as well as of others.

I cut a clipping from a London paper of this day to show you just what would have happened if we were not invited guests. It reads as follows: "July 29—A man stepped over the railing into the Queen's Gardens opposite the main entrance of Buckingham Palace, today. "Police officers questioned the man, and one of them accompanied him in a taxicab to the Cannon Row police station.

"Later the man was taken to St. Stephen's Hospital, Fulham, for medical examination."

Now compare our privilege. We Canadians were inside looking out—this Londoner was outside looking in. I suppose he just wanted to know what it was all about.

High Tides Did Damage.
The high tides this week did considerable damage to the dyke on the south side of the town. When it was so badly damaged in the early spring it was decided not to repair it, as it would be too expensive, so an inside dyke was built, and this is the second time this year the new one has been broken down by high tides.

POSTMASTER RECEIVES GIFT

Norman Wright, who has served as postmaster at Princetown for the past 36 years, was paid a surprise visit by the patrons of the office on the occasion of his retiring, on Wednesday evening of last week. Rev. F. C. Burnett acted as master of ceremonies, and with a few jovial words presented the retiring postmaster with a silver-mounted engraved cane. Mrs. I. W. Howard then addressed the postmaster's wife, who has been his appointed assistant all these years, and presented her with a Parker pen and pencil set, expressing the good wishes of the neighbors and friends of the household.

The SNAPSHOT GUIDE

The Shape of a Picture—Horizontal or Vertical?

When the principal lines of a subject are horizontal, don't forget to hold the camera horizontally. Composition may be further improved by enlarging the picture.

FROM the standpoint of artistic composition the shape of a picture makes a lot of difference. This statement may seem axiomatic but how often do we snapshotters give thought to it in using our cameras? We all know that most cameras are so constructed as to give us a choice between horizontal and vertical pictures, depending upon the position in which we hold the camera, but in the business of taking pictures there seems to be a sort of psychology of laziness that makes us choose the way most convenient to our heads. With some cameras the vertical position seems easier, with others the horizontal, and to change to the other position seems to require an effort. Too many of us don't make the effort, when we should.

So, we go right on taking pictures the easier way without bothering about the shape of the picture. It is thought and little more than a twist of the wrist would make all the difference between good and bad composition. Remember that the high-angle picture is a picture as much as any part of its composition as the lines inside.

Snapshot albums show all too many pictures of vertical subjects, including persons in full length poses, with a vast waste of margin, right and left. Because they were taken with the camera in horizontal position. This is bad, because, for one thing, the excess of margin diminishes the importance of the subject and for another, distracting objects are usually present on one side or the other. That snapshot of Mother picking flowers in the garden is an excellent likeness, but why the corner of the garage on the left margin and clothes reel on the right? The only object in the picture has been eliminated if the up-and-down view had been used.

In the case of scenic pictures, a spreading landscape and such subjects as a flock of sheep or a herd of cattle almost always call for the horizontal position, but no less often does a picture of a tree, a waterfall or a skyscraper demand the vertical. It is simply making

FORTUNATE ESCAPE FROM INJURY

Early Saturday morning Maurice Balcum and Howard Cress escaped what might have been fatal injury when the truck in which they were riding, which was driven by Balcum, shot over the edge of the bank near Imbert Mill, on the Digby side of the river, and turned over several times before coming to rest on the bed of the stream. Again, fortunately, it was low tide, and the men were able to make their way from the damaged truck to the shore and to the village for medical help. Neither of the men was injured to any great extent, Balcum having some cuts about the head, and body bruises. He is able to be out and around, but Mr. Cress was more seriously bruised and, while he was around the village on Saturday afternoon, later had to remain in bed owing to stiffening of the bruised muscles. The truck, which was badly damaged, was taken up the bank on the opposite side of the river, where the tide is low, as at the spot where it went off, the road the bank is not only very steep but rocky, and it is a miracle the men were not more seriously injured.

Fire Destroys Residence at Plympton

Early Saturday morning a fire of mysterious origin destroyed the large unoccupied home of Mrs. Christine Melanson, widow of the late Israel Melanson, who was drowned in St. Mary's Bay about three years ago. There are circumstances pointing to incendiary.

The fire was discovered some time between midnight and one o'clock, by Augustus Melanson, who was returning by car to Plympton from Weymouth, and when discovered had gained considerable headway.

Mr. Melanson aroused neighbors in the vicinity who fought in vain to save the house, which with all its furnishings, was destroyed, at a loss estimated between $3,000 and $5,000. The fire fighters succeeded in saving the barn and nearby residences and buildings.

People of the district state there was a strong odor of gasoline at the scene of the fire and Mr. Melanson reports meeting a car travelling at high speed, shortly before he discovered the blaze.

About Labour Day it is alleged an attempt was made to burn this residence. Burnt paper and rags were found stuffed beneath the steps and verandah.

The owner is at present residing in New York, but spent a few weeks in Plympton this summer.

Arrested for Alleged Theft

After eluding the police for some time Alfred Amoro was turned over to Chief of Police, Fred Thibault, by the local detachment of the R. C. M. P., on Friday night last, and committed for trial by Stipendiary Bernard Havey, Saturday morning on a charge of theft.

Amoro is alleged to be an accomplice of Glen Stoddard, arrested earlier in the week and committed for trial on the charge of stealing 18 blankets from the summer home of Bishop Cook, Anglican Bishop of Delaware, whose cottage is on the Shore Road, below the Pines Hotel.

On Friday evening Amoro went to a local residence and telephoned the Chief, who, at that time, was not at home. He then rang up the R. C. M. P. and informed them if they were looking for Alfred Amoro they would find him at Acadia Valley a few miles from Digby. After putting through this call he left the house. The householder, however, recognized Amoro as the man who used his phone, and immediately after leaving put in another call to the Mounted Police, telling them about where Amoro could be found. He was picked up a few minutes later and turned over to the Chief.

CONFIRMATION SERVICE

On Sunday last His Lordship, Bishop John Hackett, D.D., visited the parish administering the rite of confirmation upon a class of thirteen adults in Holy Trinity Church. There was a large congregation and the music was well rendered by a large choir, with Victor Cardoza as organist.

At Rosway, in the afternoon, the bishop dedicated a memorial altar, communion rail, lectern and prayer desk, all of oak, in memory of George Kimball Nichols Budd, Bishop Hackett referred to the improvements in the church building since he was a student there some 34 years ago. The Rosway church is the first building to be erected for religious worship on the Neck road. Later in the afternoon the bishop conducted a service at Sandy Cove, where the church was crowded with interested listeners who made friends with His Lordship years ago.

In the evening the quaint artistic chapel of St. Paul's, Mar-shalton, listened to a splendid sermon by the bishop and an oak font was dedicated in memory of the late Jessie A. Goddard, a faithful and loyal summer visitor of the parish.

The class of junior candidates for confirmation will be confirmed at a later date.

70 Bushels to the Quarter Acre.

Tons of Squash.

William Bacon informs us that this year he has grown over seven tons of squash on his farm at Hill Grove, and in one day "peddled" out 2,500 pounds. He brought one big fellow—weighing 41 pounds—into the office to show us.

Couldn't Find Any.

A peculiar thing was noted here on Wednesday. A North Range subscriber dropped in the office to renew his subscription and made the remark that he liked scallops—either in chowder or fried—and had tried in vain to get them at any of the local restaurants. And this is supposed to be one of the biggest "scallop towns" in the world!

Eugene T. Welsh

Word was received yesterday of the death of Eugene T. Welsh, of West Roxbury, Mass., which occurred this week. For many years, Mr. Welsh, who conducts a hardware business in Boston, has been a summer resident of Smith's Cove, where his son, Cuthbert, resides. The remains will arrive today for interment.

Joseph Fletcher Milberry

The death of Joseph Fletcher Milberry occurred suddenly at his home, Second Avenue, about 2.30 o'clock Tuesday morning, following a heart attack. He only lived about five minutes after he was stricken. Mr. Milberry had been in apparent good health and retired as usual on Monday night. During the day he spent some time at his store at the Racquette. He was born in Plympton in this county, 63 years ago and was the son of the late Fletcher P. and Monetta Milberry (later Mrs. Jonathan Letteney), and at the age of seven years came to Digby to reside. Before the Digby fire of 1899 he was in the employ of Howard Anderson, and afterward operated a store for the Maritime Fish Corporation, taking over the business for himself several years ago. He worked at this store in the Racquette for 35 years. Surviving Mr. Milberry are his widow; one son, Boyd, associated with his father in business; and one daughter, Eunice (Mrs. Jack Uhl), of Huntington, where his Virginia, two grandchildren, and three half-sisters, Mrs. (Rev.) A. B. Higgins, Middleton; Miss Edith Letteney, Digby, and Miss Mary Letteney, Kentville. The funeral services will take place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. Dr. Hodgson officiating.

William Yorke

The death of William Yorke occurred early yesterday morning, at the home of his sister, Mrs. James Everett. The deceased was 84 years of age. Interment will take place tomorrow afternoon in Fairview cemetery following the services which will be held in Keen's Mortuary Chapel.

Conservative Convention

The annual convention of the Digby County Liberal-Conservative Association met in Weymouth on Wednesday, and with a good attendance, and the president, M. C. Denton, in the chair. In opening the convention Mr. Denton took the opportunity of expressing his wish to be relieved from office.

The minutes of the last convention were read and approved. The secretary-treasurer, J. J. Wallis, who has served in that capacity since 1929, asked that when it came time for the nomination of officers that his name be not considered.

A nominating committee, consisting of B. P. Spechts, A. A. Theriault, Alcide Comeau, F. K. Hayden and Newman Small was appointed. They immediately retired to name a slate of officers.

While absent Senator Robicau expressed his pleasure at seeing so many present. He reviewed briefly the action of the recent provincial convention in Truro, and then launched into a fighting political speech, pointing out the sins of omission and commission of the governments in power. Speaking of the local association in particular he pointed out that the incoming officers should have the whole-hearted support of the party in this county. He regretted that the president and secretary had decided to give up their offices. He had worked with them both and had found them hard workers.

The nominating committee recommended the appointment of the following officers:— President—E. B. Pugh, Westport. First Vice-President—Edmund P. Deveau, Meteghan.

Second Vice-President—Jordan Hatt, Weymouth.

Secretary-Treasurer—H. A. Nichols, Digby.

Mr. Nichols, who was present, informed the convention that he could not accept the office at the present time, and the committee, a little later, recommended for the office, S. A. Keen, of Digby, when the revised report on motion of J. J. Wallis and D. C. Mackay was adopted.

President Pugh took the chair and thanked the convention for the honor conferred on him, and hoped that the convention would give him and the other new officers its ardent support.

Dr. G. V. Turnbull, H. E. Wagner and Jordan Hatt addressed the meeting briefly.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Failure of their engine and being caught in a heavy wind, almost meant disaster to Austin Denton and Charles Frost, of Little River last week. The two men, in a small fishing boat, were blown six miles off shore, below Boar's Head, and were at the mercy of the seas all afternoon. Early in the evening the wind subsided and they were able to row into Centreville, where they arrived about midnight.

The men were taken in at the home of Alton Graham, where they were given dry clothing and food. Later they were taken to Little River.

Harold Mason, of Mahone Bay, was a visitor in town on Friday of last week. He was accompanied on his return by his sister, Miss Vera Mason, who spent the holiday in Mahone Bay.

AUTUMN

I love the autumn season,
The beautiful to see;
The glorious rainbow colors
That glow in sky and sea.

Autumn for glorious sunsets
That lovely gold and blue,
And mingling with the orange
The purple comes peeping through.

At Jack Frost's kiss the leaves all Blush
From gold to a lovely brown;
How gay they look when the wind Plays fast.

As they come tumbling down,
And many our deeds on the tree of Life,
Rejoice that they also, may Shine like a beautiful rainbow,
At the end of life's great highway.

NEW YORK BIG MARKET FOR CHRISTMAS TREES

It will not be long before the seasonal traffic in Christmas trees from this county to the United States cities will commence, in fact, there are several buyers in the county at present. While there seems to be an increasing demand for potted trees and rather costly artificial trees, the traditional tree is holding its own. There have been marked increases in the number of trees cut in this county in the last few years. New York is the main consuming centre, taking annually 400 to 425 cars of from 1500 to 2000 trees each. The trees range in height from 12 feet down, the most common sizes being from 6 to 10 feet.

"THE SACRED COD"

The tradition among fishermen is that the cod was the fish selected by the Saviour when he multiplied the fishes and fed the multitude. For this reason the cod has always been called "sacred".

History recalls that America's earliest colonists gave as their reason for desiring to settle on this continent their intention "to propagate the cod fishery of the North Atlantic". And when we consider that without the cod those pioneers never could have succeeded in making their settlements permanent, we are not surprised to find this fish regarded as almost sacred by many and their descendants for many generations.

For hundreds of years cod was all sold salted. Now, however, due to modern developments in transportation and refrigeration it is marketed fresh and frozen as well as in salted form. And since it tastes delicious, can be prepared in so many different ways, is an economical source of essential mineral salts and vitamins, is always in season and always available, no wonder the popularity of this first fish continues and grows. The cod, which played such an important part in the development of the new world is still a significant factor in the lives of our citizens today. In fact, there's no product we should enjoy often than good, clean, healthy, giving, employment giving Canadian Cod—the fine-flavored romantic food backed by more than 300 years of sea-faring adventure!

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

The liver should pour out two quarts of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile does not flow freely, your food does not digest properly. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up, and you feel bloated, and you feel as if you had a stone in your bowels. A mere bowel movement doesn't always get rid of the bile. You must take a medicine that will make the bile flow freely and make the bowels move. It's called "Liver Bile" and it's the only medicine that will make the bile flow freely and make the bowels move. It's called "Liver Bile" and it's the only medicine that will make the bile flow freely and make the bowels move.

To Vimy and Return

When I signed off last week, I was telling you of our experiences at the Buckingham Palace reception—but all good times must come to an end, and leave Buckingham Palace we must.

As we came out of the palace we had a splendid opportunity to give the famous King's Guards the "once over" after which we took a stroll through "Rotten Row" (the trees there are very beautiful), finally ending up at Trafalgar Square. Then, after getting our mail at St. Martin's, we partook of a good dinner, and spent the rest of our time, until nearly midnight, "doing" Piccadilly Circus and Leicester Square.

On Thursday morning (July 30), we left our hotels at 9 a. m. for the Marble Arch underground station to take trains for the great Masonic Temple, where, on July 30, 1933, H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, presided over the ceremonies of inauguration and dedication. We were first admitted to the entrance vestibule, where we signed the register; next to the museum and library where we were shown some of the Masonic treasures and curios. Finally, we approached two large bronze doors, through which we entered the temple proper, the meeting place of seventeen different lodges, a magnificent structure erected at a cost of 1,500,000 pounds sterling.

This Peace Memorial Temple was erected as a memorial of gratitude to Almighty God, wherein members of the craft can render fitting honor to the many brethren who fell during the war. Mavor and I certainly enjoyed our visit there.

We spent the afternoon seeing the sights, visiting the Thames Embankment, London Bridge, the busiest bridge in all the world; the Tower Bridge, which can be opened in two minutes; the Tower of London, erected by William the Conqueror, and now used as a barracks; the Parliament Buildings; Big Ben (the tower of which is 315 feet high and 40 feet square, each face of the clock measuring 22½ feet in diameter, the minute hands 14 feet long, and the second hands 9 feet, and the bell weighing 13½ tons); the magnificent St. Paul's Cathedral; then back to Trafalgar Square where the National Art Gallery, the Coliseum as well as our headquarters, St. Martins-in-the-Field, are located.

At the headquarters we made arrangements for our second trip to France. With considerable difficulty, Mavor and I succeeded in being billeted at the same hotel in Paris; his room to be on the 7th floor and mine on the 2nd.

Friday, July 31st was the last day spent in Old London. As this was a busy day, we did considerable shopping; had films developed; purchased tickets, and insured baggage we did not wish to take to France with us, and wished placed on board our ship in time for the homeward voyage.

Having looked after these details, we boarded the train for Dover, which took us through Kent County, passing through many of the towns familiar to old soldiers. We arrived in Dover at 10 p. m., and were given our membership certificates.

From Dover we took steamer No. 1 to Calais, where we arrived at 24 o'clock—or, in other words, midnight—after a pleasant crossing.

On this day the pilgrimage actually came to an end, but more than 5,000 of the 6,500 of us accepted the invitation of the French Government to be their guests for another five days. It took four steamers to carry us across to France.

After lunch at the Maritime Station, Calais, we went to purchasing the capital letter on the train with the capital letter on our membership certificates. At the windows of each railway carriage posters indicated the seat numbers. Inside the cars other posters gave the numbers contained in each compartment, each seat also marked for each person. The same system was in force in our travels throughout France. We left Calais at 0.40 o'clock, but, of course, saw little of the country until daylight. However, at this hour, trains travel at great speed, and we arrived in Paris at 5.53.

We were directed to the station yard by a system of loud speakers. Here, again, our membership certificates came into use. By referring to them we knew which bus we were to take to the hotels allotted us. My bus was No. 16, Hotel Bohy-Lafayette, Rue de Mouloulin. I again joined Mavor, and we went to the office to arrange for room accommodations. As I said before, Mavor's room was on the 7th floor, and mine on the 2nd—that didn't bother us, for there were elevators a-plenty. Incidentally, throughout the hotel were placards, "No Tips—No Taxes."

After breakfast we took a look around this section of "Gay Paris" until lunch time, after which buses called to take us on a sight seeing tour, and then to the Hotel de Ville (town hall), where we were received by the Municipality of Paris. We spent a wonderful afternoon here—the interior of the building was nothing short of magnificent.

Here, also we met a number of old friends, none of whom were bad fellows to those who knew how to take them. Old Cognac gave us an especially warm welcome.

Returning to city hall, we again picked up buses to convey us to our hotels for dinner. My bus was always No. 16. I noticed there were 158 buses lined up awaiting us.

Dinner over, the buses again called for us to take us for an evening drive in Paris, showing us the illuminations of the principal buildings; Place de la Concorde; Arc de Triomphe; Notre Dame and other places of interest. After an evening drive, throughout the city we noticed everywhere immense beer parlors where crowds of people sat in small groups, drinking, smoking and chatting.

The buses brought us back to our hotels at midnight—but that was far too early to go to bed in Paris on Saturday night.

In spite of the fact we were only able to grab a few winks of sleep for ourselves, the buses called for us at 8 a. m. to take us on a continuation visit of Paris. We saw the opera; Place de la Concorde; Place Vendôme; the Tuilleries; Madeleine Church; the Champs Elysees; the beautiful church of Sacre Coeur; Place de la Republique; Chatelet; Tour Saint-Jacques; Palais de Justice; Luxembourg; Pantheon; Notre Dame; Eiffel Tower; Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and the Tomb of Napoleon.

After this trip we were taken to the Palais des Invalides for a special luncheon served in our honor. Here I had an opportunity to take a good snap of Marshal Petain. At this reception each of us was given a souvenir medal and souvenir ash tray, and the ladies with us, a bottle of perfume.

So far each day seems better than the day before—we are all finding plenty to do for excitement.

Deer On Outlaw List.
Deer have been placed on the outlaw list by New Zealand and may be shot at sight by hunters. They have increased to such numbers that they are destroying the young forest plants, causing floods in the rivers. In 1934 the government paid men to shoot 5,000 deer, but now thousands more will be slain in an effort to save the forests.

CONFIRMATION IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

His Lordship, Bishop Hackett, visited St. Clement's parish this week and on Tuesday evening, in the beautiful little church of St. John, Bear River—in the presence of a capacity congregation—he administered the rite of confirmation to 20 candidates. The church, with its harvest decoration, was a fitting setting for this most impressive service, after which an informal reception was held at the residence of Mrs. Walter M. Romans, giving an opportunity for His Lordship, with the rector and Mrs. Smith, to meet with those newly confirmed and many of the congregation and parish.

At the close of the social hour refreshments were served by the ladies of St. John's Guild. On Monday His Lordship held service at Victory; and on Wednesday evening at Deep Brook, a class of eight candidates was confirmed.

On Sunday afternoon a very fine service of thanksgiving was held in St. John's church, which was beautifully decorated with autumn foliage and berries—a most attractive background for the offerings of fruit and vegetables, massed on the chancel steps, surrounding sheaves of wheat and a large loaf of bread.

THE W. M. S.

The W. M. Society of the Bear River United Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. W. W. Clarke on Thursday afternoon last, a large number attending. Several readings were given and a considerable amount of business was transacted. A letter was read from the secretary of the Baptist Union of Western Canada asking for help for the needy folk of the West in the matter of clothing. To say the need is great is putting it mildly. Plans were made by the local society to pack a box to be sent this month.

A solo was given by Mrs. Waldo Chute with Mrs. Rupp at the piano. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Ten Rules for Orators.

Addressing a Kiwanis Club dinner in Montreal, J. A. Edmiston, a lawyer, enumerated these ten commandments for orators: "Thou shalt not commence thy speech with apologies; thou shalt not fill thy speech with statistics; thou shalt not exaggerate; thou shalt not be sarcastic or unfair; thou shalt not be dull; thou shalt not murder the king's English; thou shalt not steal the time of the audience, and thou shalt not be long-winded." This is excellent advice and should be posted in all Canada's legislative chambers and at other functions where much suffering takes place.

Her Life a Misery Through Backache

Pain So Bad She Could Scarcely Walk

Three years of suffering and then at last—glorious relief! This woman feels it her duty to tell other sufferers how she got back her health. Here in her letter she tells her story:—

"I feel it my duty to tell you how, after nearly three years of suffering with neuritis and backache, I have obtained relief after taking two bottles of Kruschen Salts. I have been in hospital, had radiant heat, etc., but nothing touched it until I read about Kruschen Salts, and the benefits derived from them. I can walk at least three miles a day now, and before I could merely crawl about the house."—(Mrs. A. N.)

Kruschen is an excellent diuretic—that is, it helps to stimulate kidney functions. When kidneys are restored to healthy, normal action, poisonous waste is properly eliminated, and the blood stream is purified, and you get welcome relief from dragging pains of backache.

Auction Lasts 64 Years.

Sales of rare books and manuscripts amassed by Sir Thomas Phillipps, a native of Manchester, England, have established a record in auctioneering. Sixty-four years ago Sotheby's began selling sections of the vast store, whose owner died in 1872. The sale has been resumed and will probably go on for another 30 or 40 years.

AN ENJOYABLE TRIP

Mrs. Richard MacRae and Mrs. Joshua Simpson have returned from a pleasant visit to Salem, Mass.

While there, accompanied by their three sisters, Mrs. Roland Ring, Mrs. Everett Smith and Mrs. Manford Campbell, they enjoyed a trip to Mt. Washington spending one night at the Cog Railway base camp. The grandeur of lofty heights surpassed anything of its kind in Nova Scotia. The grandeur became awesome as one approached the mountains.

"Old Man of the Mountains" stands out in its almost supernatural sublimity. The foliage of the mountain slopes were doing their autumnal glory, making the scenery all the more enchanting, until your nearly held your breath in admiration. Echo Lake nestled high, among the peaks was alone worth the trip. The cold, rarified air and sparkling mountain spring water, clear as crystal were a great treat.

On coming down the mountain they passed through the Great National Forest, with trees meeting overhead and straight tall trunks with foliage only at the tops. The excellent highway, winding along streams of water, running water, dashing over smooth round stones, clean and clear white, which had the effect of making one thirsty to look at it. The great natural beauty of the lofty peaks made one feel as if they were in the presence of the Eternal God, who only could create such grandeur. The memory of it will never fade until the end of life's trail.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

On Sunday last the congregation of the United Church of Canada held their anniversary service, the special speaker to Bear River being Rev. Dr. Watson, of Pine Hill Theological College, Halifax. The morning service was attended by a large congregation and special music was rendered by the choir, with a mixed quartette—Mrs. L. V. Sanford, Mrs. Ralph Purdy, Mrs. Harris and Harry Purdy—who have a lovely selection. Rev. Dr. Watson took as his subject, "Why must the righteous suffer?" and received great attention from those present. He spoke of the beauty of the church, made more beautiful with the trimming of autumn leaves and flowers. The morning service was a departure from the usual, as following the opening hymn and reading of scripture, an interesting and most instructive talk was given by Dr. Watson, illustrated with many lantern slides. At this service the congregation of the United Church joined with that of the United church, and there was a very large attendance.

THE V. O. N.

The monthly meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses, was held on Tuesday afternoon and was particularly interesting and enlightening as regards the work being done among the girls to prepare them for practical work in the home.

Miss MacIver, who began her work in Digby the first of the month, was cordially welcomed by the president, Rev. Dr. Hodgson. Miss Dawson, V. O. N. eastern supervisor, on her tour of inspection, being present, was called upon to address the meeting. She gave some information of the work in general and some helpful suggestions; also telling of progressive innovations in public health work. If every person could look into the homes where V. O. N. work had been done, they would see the results and realize the value of the various activities of the Victorian Order. Miss Dawson said she stressed class training for young people. Evil propaganda was being instilled into the minds of boys and girls not only abroad, but here in Canada, and why not train our youth in useful ways? "The challenge of youth to better ways would make a man a more hopeful tomorrow."

Dr. Hodgson added at the conclusion of Miss Dawson's address.

Following the business meeting the Junior Health League Class was introduced. Each member had written an essay on what she had learned during the course of lessons, and while it was difficult to judge, the one considered the best was written and read by Gladys Winchester, who was awarded the first prize, and Emma Purdy the second. These were presented by Dr. Hodgson who also handed to each member the certificate for the prescribed course of work. Congratulating them on their efficiency he reminded them that this was but the beginning of their life work and trusted they would continue to progress in future. Of the Sewing Class, also present, Dorothy Winchester received first prize and Dorothy Franklin second. Afternoon tea was served and a social time spent giving Miss Dawson and Miss MacIver an opportunity of getting acquainted with those present, including His Worship, the Mayor among the number.

Some of the girls who had formerly taken the classes mentioned, and wishing to still help the V. O. N. have meetings for sewing, and assisted in serving the afternoon tea. To these and all who contributed prizes and food, the committee wish to extend their cordial thanks.

Mothercraft certificates were awarded at this meeting to Lilian Jefferson, Barbara Syda, Gladys Winchester, Margaret Donnelly, Dorothy Amon, Phyllis King, Asaphine Hazleton, Louise Daley, Emma Purdy and Edith James.

Invited to Centreville.

The Junior Choir of Grace United Church will sing at the evening service of the Centreville United church on Sunday, October 26th.

Zelma Roll Call.
The annual roll call of Zelma Rebekah Lodge will be held in the lodge room, on the evening of Monday, October 26th. Supper will be served at 6.45. This has always been an important event in Zelma Lodge, and it is hoped that this year's roll call will be the 'best ever'.

Divisions Again Active.

The various divisions of the Sons of Temperance in this county have taken up their winter's work with a will. The latest division in this group was that at Centreville—Anchor of Hope—and it has increased in membership to such an extent that it has outgrown its present quarters and will soon have to move. The reorganization of Tyro, in Little River, is expected to take place shortly.

Enjoyable Lodge Meeting.

St. George Lodge, No. 55, I. O. O. F., held a "Roll Call" on Friday evening last, the first for several years—and undoubtedly the best they have ever had. A splendid supper of scallop chowder, and all that goes with it, was served about 7.00 o'clock. This was finished and the tables cleared away for the lodge to open at 8.00. There were about fifty present, including a number of visitors, two from American lodges and five from provincial lodges; and a number of absent members answered by letter or wire. The meeting was an inspiration; speeches were of a particularly high order and the spirit of the meeting was splendid. It was in this way that St. George opened its fall and winter activities.

Sentenced to Dorchester

On Friday morning last, His Honor, W. A. Livingstone, County Court Judge for District No. 3, passed sentence upon Alfred Amoro and Glen Stoddard, both of Digby, to respective terms in the Dorchester Penitentiary of four and three years.

Stoddard was arrested late in September, and Amoro early this month, on the charges of stealing a quantity of blankets from the summer home on the Shore Road of Bishop Cook, Episcopal Bishop of Delaware.

In a statement read at the trial Amoro confessed to six breaks and one attempt break in Digby since February 13. In all but two of these, he confessed, he was a "lone wolf". Stoddard was with him in two instances.

STRUCK BY BICYCLE

"Teddy" Thibault, son of Chief of Police Fred Thibault, was quite seriously injured Sunday afternoon, when struck by a bicycle, driven by Gordon Comau. The two boys, who had been playing together, were in the vicinity of Milberry's store when the accident occurred—but just what happened is not known.

It is understood the boys were "carrying on" when young Thibault was knocked to the pavement rendering him unconscious, and causing injuries about the face and mouth. He is still confined to his home but making good progress toward recovery.

SHIPPING

Several minor difficulties have been reported from among the scallop fleet during the past week; two of the boats, the Victor M., Capt. Outhouse, and the Gilbert M., Capt. Mosher, having the misfortune to lose their spars while hoisting drags.

The scallop dragger, M. W. Colp, Capt. Colp, arrived from Lunenburg over the week end.

VESSEL HAD ROUGH TIME

Th little motor vessel Nepsya, in command of Capt. Gilbert Zinec, of Lunenburg, arrived in Digby about 8 o'clock Sunday morning, after a terrific beating by the Bay of Fundy during one of the most severe storms to strike this coast during the season.

The Nepsya left Weymouth at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, bound for Boston with a cargo of 70,000 feet of lumber for Boston. Of this quantity of spruce lumber, 45,000 feet were carried on the deck. When the vessel arrived at Digby Sunday morning, it was estimated that more than one-third of the deck load had been washed away.

Encountering the storm some fifteen miles off Brier Island, an attempt was made to turn about and return to the quieter waters of the St. Mary's Bay and to Weymouth. Due to the heavy seas, and the strong easterly, their efforts were in vain. They were driven up the coast of Fundy, spending a night at sea that will never be forgotten by any of the six men on board. "It was the worst in our experience," they say.

Due to the loss of a large part of her deck load, the craft developed a dangerous list to port. During the night the storm developed into a "young hurricane"; mountainous waves broke continuously over the little craft. The dory, torn from its lashings, brought up against the pilot house.

It was a night of horror for all on board, who feared their ship would go down at any minute—but, without the deckload, which made her topheavy, they say there would have been nothing to fear.

The Nepsya, however, proved to be most seaworthy. In spite of the punishment, received, she does not appear to be strained a bit, and, in the opinion of a member of the crew "if she came through that storm, she can come through anything".

Beginners' Band now forming. Apply at once to Paul Yates, Director. Fee only $2.00. A rare chance to learn music. First meeting Friday night, Oct. 30.

Rev. and Mrs. F. E. Bishop are spending two weeks with their son Carl Bishop and Mrs. Bishop, in Fredericton, N. B.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Miss Wilda Davis, of Carty & Davis, is spending her vacation at Hillsboro, N. B.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Denison, of Riversville, N. I., are spending two weeks touring Nova Scotia.

Miss Florence Draper, Hantsport, motored to Digby with Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Gabriel this week.

Miss Eva Haynes, of the Wallis Print staff, has returned from a two weeks' vacation spent in Saint John.

Mrs. J. E. Uhl and daughter Betty, of Huntington, West Virginia, arrived for the funeral of her father, the late J. F. Milberry.

Mrs. W. C. Warrington, Miss Edna Warrington and Mrs. Warrington's father, Harris Bowls, have returned from a motor trip to Parrsboro.

Ross C. Smallie left on Saturday for Worcester, Mass., to visit his brother, Robert, whom he has not seen in 25 years. He was accompanied from Saint John by his daughter, Helen.

Stanley Vidito, of the crew of the scallop dragger, Earl H. Capt. D. Tidd, had a narrow escape from drowning on Friday of last week, while employed at scallop dragging operations off Gulliver's Head. According to our information young Vidito went to attend the messenger cable after the drags had been lowered, and in the heavy seas, the craft gave a lurch, causing him to slide overboard.

His plight was noticed immediately, and the boat ordered to "heave too", and at once instructions given to haul in the drags. The strain on the cables caused the boat to swing toward Vidito, he was picked up and brought on board, just before going down for the last time. He was pretty much shaken up as the result of his experience.

It is said that air pockets formed in his oil clothing had much to do with keeping him afloat, thus giving the crew of the boat an opportunity of reaching him before it was too late.

Members of Trinity Parish are requested to bring contributions for Western Relief Bale to the Parish Hall on Monday afternoon, good second-hand and new articles of clothing are requested.

THE SERIOUS SIDE OF IT

English journals considered to have some knowledge of the situation in Europe take a very serious view of the Spanish Civil War. The result they think will have an important bearing on the immediate future of Europe. G. K.'s Weekly expresses the opinion that the future of Europe is bound up with this struggle in Spain; that the fighting there is more important than anything that has happened since the Great War, and may perhaps prove in the long run more important than the Great War itself.

"The Great War shook and cracked a Europe already in peril through the loss of its traditional morals, but in Spain the decision is being disputed before our eyes as to whether the shakings shall be thrown down or no. For make no mistake about it, if the so-called 'government' wins, revolution goes forward throughout western Europe; and if it fails but keeps Catalonia, which is now thoroughly communist, the example of Catalonia will spread to every port in the Mediterranean. Catalonia will affect immediately the southern and southeastern districts of France which are just over the frontiers, will encourage the insurrection of North Africa, and will be a strong reinforcement for communism in every industrial centre beyond the Spanish borders."

HORATIO ALGER IN HALL OF FAME? WHY NOT?

Harvard University is about to commemorate the deeds of some 5 of its graduates in a hall of fame and it has asked eight judges to vote on names.

Among the literary sons of Harvard, it is announced, four were approved unanimously: Oliver Wendell Holmes, James Russell Lowell, George Bancroft (not the movie actor) and Francis Parkman. But the interesting part, to us, is the fact that three of the judges voted for Horatio Alger.

Considered from the artistic standpoint, says an exchange, it is probable that there never was a worse novelist than Horatio Alger. It is hard to think of a literary fault that his work did not possess; his books weren't even interesting to anyone beyond the grammar school level.

And yet Harvard might do a great deal worse than put his bust in its hall of fame. It is very doubtful if, among the 50 distinguished alumni whose names are finally agreed upon, there will be a single one who influenced the life of his time more profoundly than did this same Horatio Alger.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

PRE-NATAL CARE

The importance of pre-natal care has been recognized for ages but it was not till 1900 that it was organized on a wide and scientific basis by Dr. Ballantyne, of Edinburgh, who received from a friend, a legacy of 1000 pounds for this great purpose.

The little pre-natal ward which he established in the Edinburgh Royal Infirmary had a garden and Dr. Ballantyne's plans were most kind, enlightened and successful. We have learned since then that every expectant mother should have pre-natal care to keep her well, to prepare her for a safe and comfortable pregnancy and a successful delivery. The way to get this necessary care is to see her doctor as soon as she knows that she is to be a mother, and be guided by his advice.

Of course the family physician is the one to whom the mother goes and if she and her husband have not chosen a family physician then they should choose one without delay. Do not think, because the birth will not take place for a few months, that there is plenty of time. That is not true, for it is important to have the doctor's advice from the very first, so that he can do his best for the mother and make sure that everything is all right. Nature's preparations for child birth are complex and wonderful and important beyond words. Nearly always, everything is all right, if the mother knows what to do and does it. But how does she know what to do, unless she has the best of medical advice and care?—and the doctor is the only one who can give her that.

People should be very careful in choosing a doctor. It is a most important decision. Choose a doctor whom people trust and respect who has had some experience, who is devoted to his work and of whom other doctors speak well. Young doctors, nowadays, are generally very good, well-trained and careful. It is well to arrange with the doctor for care during all the months before the birth and until the mother is recovered and able to be up again. The doctor will probably arrange with the mother to come to see him every month for the first seven months and then twice a month or oftener for the rest of the time. He will tell the mother when to bring a specimen of the water she passes and will give her all the necessary advice and directions and help, and make the necessary examinations at the right time. It is usually the best plan to arrange for a reasonable fee to cover medical care during the whole time, including the time of birth and for a short time afterwards.

But if, for any reason, the prospective father is not in a position to pay for medical and nursing care for his wife then the hospital or the medical officer of health or the municipal officers will help him to arrange for such care.

The mother must be well cared for during the whole time of pregnancy.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Kept From His Ship by Sciatica

Sailor Who Could Hardly Walk for Pain

"I am a seaman," he writes, "and have travelled all over the world in sailing ships. Some time ago I was taken bad with sciatica and rheumatism. If I went out I had to rest two or three times before I got home. One day an old mate of mine asked me what was the matter, and he said 'get some Kruschen Salts'. So I got some and I am pleased to say I felt a great ease. After continuing for a week, I was a great deal better and on the Saturday I was back on my ship."

T. R. W.
The pains of rheumatism and sciatica are frequently caused by too much uric acid accumulating in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid and other ingredients of these Salts assist the intestinal organs to eliminate dissolved uric acid from the system.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Monday evening Mrs. Lalia Dunn, of Langsdowne, who had celebrated her eighty-fifth birthday on Sunday, Oct. 18th, was pleasantly surprised, when some twenty-five relatives and friends arrived to wish her many happy returns of the day. Mrs. Dunn had not the slightest inkling of the affair as she and her sister, Miss Ambrose Harris, sat enjoying a game together, before retiring. However, she was quite equal to the occasion and made her guests welcome. A musical round was rendered by Mrs. Lottie E. Rupp, Rev. and Mrs. S. F. Steeves, which was much enjoyed. Gifts were then presented to Mrs. Dunn, which she opened, expressing her thanks to the donors. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dunn's daughter, Miss Gertrude Dunn, and Mrs. Ralph Dunn. Then followed many old favorite songs and a solo, with guitar accompaniment by Cecil Miller. Mrs. Dunn's favorite hymn "When I Can Read My Title Clear" was sung, Mrs. Rupp being at the organ throughout the evening, which will be remembered as one of happy friendship, expressing the esteem in which Mrs. Dunn, who is just as active and interested in everything in the community as those many years her junior, is held in the entire district.

To Vimy and Return

Last week the editor cut my story short—and shoved in that "to be continued" slug after I finished telling you folk of the many places we saw and visited on our "continuation" sight-seeing trip of Paris, and of the special dinner held in our honor by the Municipality of Paris—but believe me, there were many other events happened on that day (August 2) I must mention.

At three o'clock p. m., or, as they say in Paris, fifteen o'clock, we again boarded the busses and started off on a trip to Versailles—a beautiful drive which took us through Neuilly, Reuil, Bougival, Port Marly and Rocquencourt, and on past the Petite and Grand Trianon to the Parc of the Royal Castle.

Here guides took us through the Royal Palace showing us the principal rooms, including the Galerie des Palaces, where the peace treaty was signed in 1919. Returning to our busses, we were brought back to our hotels in Paris in plenty of time for dinner—after dinner, away we go to a show, "Follies-Bergere"—and wotta show ! ! ! ! boy, wotta show ! ! ! I went with a young couple from New Jersey, who were spending a vacation in Europe. They had visited Germany and Switzerland, and while in Paris, were stopping at our hotel.

The show was over about midnight, and back we went to our hotel and to bed, after a really well spent day.

I might say here it was very hard to realize this day was Sunday. Theatres, stores, markets and beer parlors were all open, and all appeared to be doing a rushing business. I remember that on our other visit to France the same custom prevailed. I also intended to say before this time, that at our hotel all the clerks and waiters spoke English, which made things much pleasanter for us pilgrims who could not "Parlez-vous".

The French officials, who were our hosts on this second trip to France, seemed determined that our trip would be occupied to the fullest, leaving out a bare minimum for sleep—for, at 8 o'clock on Monday morning, the busses called at the hotels again, this time to drive us to the Austerlitz station where we were to train for an excursion to the Chateaux of the Loire. Five trains were required to look after us, but as they were not returning until midnight, Mavor and I decided not to join the party, but to spend the day "on our own" in Paris. However, I exchanged notes with another friend, who was too tired to take the later trip to Rouen.

The trip included a visit to the property of the family of Orleans, the famous castle under the auspices of the Municipality of Amboise. Then, they were given two hours to look over the city. Back to the train they continued to Blois, where a reception was given at the station by the authorities and delegations of ex-service men. The party also visited the castle and under the guidance of members of the ex-service men's association.

At 18 o'clock Vin d'Honneur was offered by the committee, with concert by the 131st Infantry Band. At 19 o'clock the 5,000 pilgrims were guests at another banquet at the Palace de la Republique, presided over by M. le President, Camille Chauvets, state minister, and others. Following this affair, the party then returned to the station, and enquired for Paris, where they arrived at 23.16.

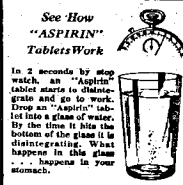

I have given you "second hand" information of their trip—and, now to go back a ways, and give you a little dope on the doings of Mavor and myself. After seeing the crowd off, we took a stroll down to Cadet underground station, went across to Chatelet, where we came up to the surface.

Here, we fell in with a chap by the name of Albert Simaey, formerly of Hamilton, Ont., who had been residing in Paris for the past six years—he recognized us by the maple leaf on our hats. We spent an hour with him, and then (poor chap) he had to leave for work. Nevertheless, he arranged to meet us at Hotel Bohy Lafayette at 16.30. He promised to show us as much of the city as he could from that hour until midnight.

Until the hour for our appointment with Albert, Mavor and I wandered around with no place in particular to go, losing ourselves several times, but always finding ourselves by entering an underground station, and returning to our starting point. We found Paris a much harder

For QUICK Relief
If you suffer from headaches what you want is quick relief. "Aspirin" tablets give quick relief, for one reason, because they dissolve or disintegrate almost instantly they touch moisture. (Note illustration above.)
Hence, when you take an "Aspirin" tablet it starts to dissolve almost as quickly as you swallow it. And this is ready to start working almost instantly... headaches, neuritis and neuritis pains start easing almost at once.
"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

city to get around than London—perhaps because we could not speak French. We managed to get in a little shopping, and really had a wonderful time by our lonesomes.

While on this little excursion of our own, we stopped to rest at one of the many beer parlors, sat down at a table to write a few cards (?), when Mavor sang out "Look quick, Syda"—to my amazement a large van, driven by a young chap was passing, and on the side of the van, printed in large block letters was the word "SYDA". After that Mavor insisted I had been in Paris before, and I had to convince him it was my first visit. Later in the day we saw a bread wagon being pushed by an elderly man, and on the side of this wagon was also the word "SYDA".

As you know, "Syda" is not a common name. Before visiting Paris, I had known of none others but the Digby clan who bore that name—possibly we are of French origin.

The mention of the bread wagon reminds me to state they sell bread in France in almost the same manner as "Hunt" Foster sells cordwood here—you can buy it in four foot lengths, or in stove lengths (15 inches).

It's now time to return to the hotel and keep our appointment with Albert—and, when we arrived, we found him right there waiting for us. We did not stop for dinner, but left it to him to find a good place to eat—he did—the food at the place where he took us was special—and the waitresses—superspecial.

From the restaurant we went, sight seeing until show time—and then to the show. We returned to the hotel at an "early" hour, made Albert happy by a present of a few francs, and retired at the end of another perfect day.

New Machine Measures Love.

Love's intensity is measured by a machine the invention of George Barinresco, foremost neurologist of Rumania. It consists of two lead plates connected to a series of electrical devices leading to a galvanometer. The plates are fixed on the subject's arm and the inventor reads a list of names. As soon as the subject's heart is mentioned the galvanometer's needle begins to quiver, and the more intense the emotion, the greater its deviation.

ANNAPOLIS ROYAL DEANERY MEN'S ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Annapolis Deaneary Men's Association took place Tuesday evening at 7.00 p. m., in St. Luke's Hall, Annapolis Royal. Sixty-five men sat down to a sumptuous supper provided by St. Luke's Sanctuary Guild. At the head table were seated His Lordship, Bishop MacKenzie, the President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer of the Association, the Rector of the Parish and the Rural Dean. After supper the President, L. V. Harris, of Bear River, took the chair. The Rural Dean, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, opened with prayer. The Bishop then gave a most inspiring address, pleading for personal service in life and united action in supporting church work by godliness of living, church attendance and support of the Budget. He pointed out the great need of funds to carry on the work in the Diocese. All present felt strengthened, and will go back to their parishes determined to make a greater effort. A standing unanimous vote of thanks was tendered His Lordship for his presence and his message.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, as was also the financial report. A short recess was then declared to give an opportunity for paying dues and new members joining. Fifty-five receipts were issued. Fred W. Harris, of Annapolis Royal, and T. E. G. Lynch, of Digby, were appointed a committee on the Constitution to report at the next meeting.

The officers were unanimously re-elected: President, L. V. Harris, Bear River; Vice-President, K. P. Harris, Annapolis Royal; Secretary-Treasurer, Stanley A. Keen, Digby.

Members of the Executive Committee to be elected at Annual Parish meetings. One member for each parish. Discussion took place on the best way to aid the stricken people of the West in response to a letter from the Primate, requesting fruit and vegetables. Rev. Charles Rand, L. M. How, F. W. Harris, K. P. Harris, Rev. Canon Underwood took part in discussion. Community action was urged. The Bishop stressed the great need in many of the Western Dioceses as he had learned from personal contact with their Bishops.

The Rector, Rev. C. White, was requested to carry the vote of thanks of the Association to the Sanctuary Guild. Every parish in the Deaneary was represented except Weymouth.

NEW BAND FOR DIGBY

Next Friday night the young musicians of the Beginners Band will meet at the band room to choose the hour for rehearsals which are to begin the first week in November. A dozen more members are wanted, if they will interview the Bandmaster at once. Lessons will start with the simplest elements of music and the cost is insignificant.

Mr. Yates has recently visited numerous bands up the valley and on the South Shore, and he finds the most unusual activity and interest in band work everywhere. Old bands are waking up and planning great progress. Beginners are starting at the bottom with high ambitions, and many are taking private lessons at considerable expense. Digby seems to be the only town where thorough training is offered to so many young people almost free of charge. Next summer is expected to show the largest number of first class bands the province has ever seen, and Digby hopes to remain in the front rank. Every citizen should encourage this work, especially right now by recommending young people who like music to talk it over with the Bandmaster. The entire community will profit by it.

IN MEMORIAM—In sad but loving memory of a dear mother and wife, Mrs. Ralph Nesbitt, Centerville, who passed away October 21, 1933.

What would we give to clasp her hand,
Her happy face to see;
To hear her voice and see her smile,
That meant so much to us.

—Remembered by loving husband and family. 6 lip

IN MEMORIAM—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, James Hunsdicker, who departed this life, October 25, 1933. "Gone, but not forgotten," by his wife, and son and daughter.

There is one who misses you sadly,
And finds the time long since you went;
There is one who misses you daily,
But tries to be brave and content.

CARD OF THANKS—I wish to take this opportunity for thanking many kind friends for their kind acts of sympathy shown during the illness and death of my father, Eugene T. Welsh, and for floral tributes, Outburr Welsh. 6 lip CARD OF THANKS—Dear Mr. Editor:—For the sake of my good old friends, through the columns of your valuable paper I want to thank my friends and neighbors whom I had not seen for 26 years. I never was treated with such hospitality in my life. They came from far and near to greet me and invite me to their homes. They certainly are God-loving people at Mt. Pleasant, Deep Brook, Galden and Digby. I went to Nova Scotia to visit my brother, Andrew Thibbitts, whom I had not seen in 26 years, and to let him know I had not forgotten him. When I was a child, much younger than him, he helped me to Sunday School and church, and helped give me what little education I now have, although going without himself. Personally I've never been able to understand why it is that the oldest child in the family is expected to hustle for himself and to leave the other children float along comfortably on the waves of their elders; but this was the case with my dear brother Andrew, and if it were not for the good people he could not have written me to let me know how he was. Thank God for the faith, hope and charity there is in the world—the greatest of these is charity. I hope God will keep them in the halow of His hand and shield them from all danger, is my prayer. —Rebecca Lord, Lunenburg, Maine.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go!

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food cannot digest. It just decays in the bowels. One block up your stomach, you get constipated. Bile goes into the body and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink. A new blood purifier does not take away the bile as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel up and up. If you are constipated, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a hundred laxatives without hurting you. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else, Sir.

Obituary

Mrs. George W. Manzer

Ashmore lost one of its oldest and most highly esteemed residents when Mrs. Lalia, widow of the late George W. Manzer, passed away at her home in Ashmore on Thursday afternoon last. She was 73 years of age and was the youngest daughter of the late Ephraim and Ruth Brooks. She was the faithful postmistress in Ashmore for 22 years, and her smile and kindly greeting for all with whom she came in contact will long be remembered. For many years she has been a faithful member of the Bethel Baptist church and her strong Christian character was an inspiration to all. Her children and friends think of her as a mother who had great faith and who never ceased to remember them in prayer. She leaves to mourn their loss two sons, Fred and Lloyd; and four daughters, Gladys, (Mrs. Muir); Rena, (Mrs. Warner); Veda, (Mrs. MacDonald); and Inez (Mrs. Sypher); and one brother, William Brooks. The funeral was conducted in the Baptist church on Sunday afternoon. Lic. Ernest Churchill, officiating. He addressed the mourners. Interment was in the Riverside cemetery. The floral tributes were many and beautiful testifying to the high esteem in which she was held.

Old Lady Tells Secret of Her Vigor

The writer of the following letter once suffered from rheumatism, headaches, and depression. Then one day a vigorous old lady told her the secret of good health. And now that former sufferer writes to tell others how she obtained relief through Kruschen:—

"Kruschen was recommended to me by an old lady of seventy-two who can dance the Highland Fling—thanks to Kruschen, which she has used for thirty years. She told me to take Kruschen Salts to try and relieve a dull heavy headache from which I suffered nearly every morning on waking. I was also troubled with rheumatism in both shoulders. Kruschen turned the trick. The headache disappeared and so did the rheumatism. I have continued taking Kruschen and intend to keep it up."—(Mrs.) F. B. W.

Kruschen is a combination of mineral salts which assist in stimulating your liver, kidneys and digestive tract to healthy, regular activity. They ensure internal cleanliness and thus help to keep the blood stream pure.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND THE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

TELL THE PEOPLE.

Tell the people. We have told them that they must pasteurize their milk and we have told them why. The people have taken it well. No doubt it was a shock to them at first. No doubt there are still some unbelievers. No doubt there are a few towns and villages where milk is not pasteurized and where they may not be intelligent enough to submit a by-law for the pasteurization of milk on January 1st, 1937. No doubt there may even be some places where such a by-law may be defeated, if submitted on January 31st, 1937. Those who vote Nay are partly responsible for the sickness, disability and death caused by the use of unpasteurized milk. But the people have taken the news well and in the country many of our leading farmers have the milk used in their households boiled three minutes and they like the taste of it and they know why they have it boiled.

We have told the people, ever since 1882 when Koch discovered the tubercle bacillus and proved that it was the cause of tuberculosis, that tuberculosis was a communicable disease, and therefore that it could be prevented. Don't let it be transmitted.

Every one who has tuberculosis got the infection from some other person who had tuberculosis. Therefore, if every person who has tuberculosis is scrupulously clean and careful and makes sure that everything he coughs up, any sputum, is burned or otherwise destroyed, that he uses paper handkerchiefs and they are burned and not kept in his pocket, that he does not cough in people's faces or otherwise cause his breath to be breathed by them, that his dishes are washed by themselves in boiling water and not used by others and if he takes all other necessary precautions, then no infection is transmitted by him and nobody gets tuberculosis from him. People who work in sanitariums for tuberculosis are safer from infection than anyone else, because the precautions taken in such a sanitarium are perfect and no one gets the infection of tuberculosis there.

We have told the people all this and they have taken it well, although since 1882 there have been some people who only half understood these facts. They got the idea that tuberculosis was transmissible and their minds stopped at that point and so they were afraid of the person who had tuberculosis and were sometimes cruel to him. Do not be afraid of the clean and careful person who has tuberculosis. He is safe. The only one to be afraid of is the person who has tuberculosis and does not know it or won't admit it and so will not take any precautions. He should be examined by the best modern methods to ascertain whether he has tuberculosis or not and if he has, he should go to a sanitarium, so that he can learn how to cure and protect himself, and then protect other people when he is well enough to come home again.

Tell the people! It pays! Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

JUNIOR CHOIR AT CENTREVILLE

The community of Centreville on Sunday evening greatly enjoyed the fraternal visit of the Junior Choir of Digby United Church, under the leadership of Miss Eleanor Wallis. The congregation overflowed, and many were the expressions of appreciation.

The singing revealed careful training and Miss Wallis deserves the thanks of all who enjoy good music. The young people, arrayed in their white surplices, presented a quiet dignity and elevating quality to the service. The usual form of worship was followed. Rev. Mr. Dimock of Centreville, offered prayer, and the pastor Rev. H. A. Brown delivered the sermon based upon Ezek. 33: verse 32, "Thou art Unto Them as a Very Lovely Song". The prophet won the appreciation of Jehovah—but the people refused the message.

So we exert an influence by song far beyond our ken. "Our lives are songs, God writes the words, And we set them to music at pleasure, And the song grows glad, or sweet or sad, And we choose to fashion the measure."

We must write the music whatever the song. Whatever the rhyme or meter, And if it is glad, we can make it sad, And if it is sad, we can make it sweet.

The season of Centreville United Church hope that another visit of this young choir may be arranged in the near future. In the meantime, Sandy Cove has extended a very hearty invitation for Sunday evening, Nov. 15th, which has already been accepted.—Communicated.

To Vimy and Return

Finishing our last breakfast in France on the morning of Wednesday, Aug. 5, we went for a short walk, and to take our last look about the beautiful French capital, returning to the hotel at 9.45, at which hour we were to board the busses assigned to convey us to St. Lazare station, where we were to be met by Dieppe. We all seemed to like Paris very much, and it was not without regret that we left.

Our train was one of seven required to convey the pilgrims to the steamers. We left the station at 10.10. The trip to Dieppe was for the most part through what appeared to be a prosperous agricultural country. Beautiful fields of grain, and great herds of grazing cattle were much in evidence. Occasionally we would pass through a city or town or village, but always back again to the farming districts, with their long sloping hills on either side of us. The name of one of the stations we passed was just plain "US".

The trains travelled at terrific speed, and were run very closely together, some of them only three minutes apart, and delivered us right on the dock where the steamers were waiting to carry us across the channel. On the train, however, basket lunches were served so we could eat during the crossing.

Arriving at Dieppe at 12.45, we had no opportunity to look over the city as the boats were leaving just as soon as at all possible—at 12.55 it was "Au Revoir France" with us.

Our steamer was the Rouen—a smart looking craft, but after her wartime experience, one that was considered lucky to be afloat. In the dining saloon hung a large photograph, taken after she had been torpedoed. The torpedo had entered her stern and lodged itself in the hull. Engineers on two large shields, made from that torpedo told the story of how the steamer made port after that experience—she had gone down by the head until her stern came out of water—and was assisted to port by another steamer.

There was a stiff breeze blowing as we crossed the Channel, which became exceedingly choppy and exceedingly nasty—I saw more seasickness on that short trip than I saw on the ocean crossing. I made an attempt to find a suitable place to sit and enjoy my lunch, but my attempt was a vain one—everytime I went to take a mouthful, someone along side me started to "feed the fish"—finally I gave up in disgust, and fed the fish the contents of my lunch basket, then went below for a couple of "bass" (you old soldiers remember them—they are named after a fish, but no bones to bother with). The waters commenced to calm as we neared Newhaven, the run across took about three hours.

From the moment we boarded the Calais steamer at Dover, until we landed from the Dieppe steamer at Newhaven, we were the guests of the French Government. From the few details I have tried to give you, no doubt you have formed some idea of the five days we spent in France—it was an adventure, or for that matter, any of the pilgrims who accepted the invitation, will never forget the grand hospitality of our hosts, and of the French people in general. To us the trip to France was free—and unexpected. We were treated in grand style, put up at the finest hotels, and given the best of everything to make the trip a real pleasure to all of us. Quite a contrast from the days a score or more years ago when we first saw France, then torn by war and strife with death and destruction talking all about us. In those days we saw France at her worst; we travelled about in cattle cars, slept in mud holes, and ate—well—anything that happened to come our way.

I might say the various receptions on this trip through France were very capably arranged by the following committee of welcome, namely: Marshal Petain, President; General Vincen-in, General Secretary; and Captain Doucet, Minister of Pensions.

Arriving at Newhaven, it was a very short time before we got by the Customs officials, and boarded our train for Victoria Station, in good old London. Here Mavor and I made inquiries about trains, checked our luggage in a parcel check room, then proceeded to take a look around, and say "Good Bye Piccadilly and Farewell Leicester and Trafalgar Squares. We returned to King's Cross Station, where, at 8.30 I bid farewell to Mavor, who had been my almost constant friend since we left Montreal. Mavor left from here for Aberdeen, Scotland. After bidding him good bye I walked to Euston Station, put in time until midnight at which hour I was to start on my train trip to Liverpool.

Sharing the compartment with me on the train was a fellow pilgrim, also bound for Liverpool from where he intended taking a boat to Belfast, and two Liverpool lads, who were just returning from a visit to the giant ship "Queen Mary". Their sister was in charge of one of the beauty salons on this new queen of the seas, they told me.

I found the two brothers very interesting, and excellent travelling companions. In our conversation, I learned quite a bit about them, and answered as many questions about Canada and Canadians I could. Their home in Liverpool was only a short distance from the hospital in which I spent two months, 20 years ago, while awaiting a ship to take me back to Canada. (I might say here the ship in which I crossed, the "Landover Castle" was torpedoed, and all hands lost on the return trip). The boys lost their father in the battle of Jutland, he was one of the crew of a small cruiser that went down in that great marine struggle. The older of the two told me he could remember his father, but the younger could not.

Arriving at Lime Street Station, Liverpool, at 5 a.m., I said "good-bye" to the boys (who, incidentally, hope some day to come to Canada) and then joined the Belfast pilgrim. We breakfasted at a nearby restaurant, and, as there was a polling rally, returned to the station, where we waited awhile, and then took a good wash and shave for a brace. Thanks to my "Boys" I finished ahead of my new friend.

Waiting for him, I went out of the platform to watch other pilgrims, who had just arrived by another train, and somehow took particular notice of one couple. The lady spoke to me, and then I heard her remark to her husband "That is a pilgrim standing there".

He turned and addressed me, and asked what part of Canada I came from. I informed him I was a Nova Scotian. To that, he remarked "By any chance are you Sylvia from Digby?" to which I replied "Right you are."

He then introduced himself as Olmstead, of Plattsburg, New York. "Meet my wife", he said "you ought to know her, she is the daughter of Captain Ansel Casey, of Port Wade."

I told them I knew the Captain well, as everyone around here did, but I had not been fortunate enough to meet his wife, and suggested that perhaps he got back from France ahead of me, and took her to New York state. After a short talk we decided to find out at once if we could get aboard our steamer, the S. S. Montrose, on this day, or if we must wait until the following one, the day of sailing.

First, however I went to the water front with my Belfast friend while he arranged for his transportation. Here again, met Rev. and Mrs. Olmstead, and we made our inquiries, then bid adieu to the Belfast chap, and returned to Lime Street Station.

The Olmsteads here inquired of a friendly "bobby" as to the whereabouts of a good hotel. On his directions we went to a place handy the Atlantic, and were relieved of our packs and luggage. We then had lunch together, and I remained with them all the while we were in Liverpool. You will know from that I was in good company, with a Baptist minister and his wife.

After lunch we took a short walk about the city, then returned to the hotel for a nap—then up and away to see the sights of Liverpool. This trip, included a taxi drive to Birkhead. I was there many years ago when we used to cross the famous Mersey by ferry and attend the best shows I had ever seen up to that time. In those days we travelled on trams, ferries, and attended theatres free while we were wearing the "blues" hospital uniform).

There is now a great tunnel with four tracks passing under the Mersey—two tracks each way, a fast and a slow—traveling in fast company, we took the slow route. After our trip we went to a nice restaurant, ordered and did justice to a good dinner; then, took in a show, returning to our hotel about midnight glad to get into bed (sleeping!). This was our last night in England.

I arose early the next morning (Friday August 7), feeling very much refreshed, and without waiting for the Olmsteads, went out for my breakfast. Returning to the hotel my friends inquired as to where I had been, I told them, and then they broke the sad news that the price we paid at the hotel included breakfast. There must be some Scotch in me, for, acting on that information, I sat down and ate a little more to be sure of getting my money's worth.

After breakfast, we went out to attend to a little shopping, and found prices in Liverpool more reasonable than in other places. Referring to my notebook, I discovered I had been completed all my errands but one—namely, to procure a quart of Younger's No. 1 Scotch Ale for a friend back home. After making several inquiries, I learned there was only one "pub" in the city, "The Clock", that stocked this particular brand, and decided, in case it was something special, to purchase a double order, and have one for myself. The person went in with me, and I reckon it was his first visit to such a place. However, we managed to get back to the hotel safe and sound, get our parcels together, check out, and hail a taxi to take us to the ferry. The taxi driver happened to be the same chap who drove us the day before.

JOHN PORTER AIDS MCGILL

When McGill University won its second track and field title on Friday last in Intercollegiate competition, John Porter, of Saint John, who is a student at McGill, was very much in the limelight.

John placed first in the 120-yard hurdles and was third in the 220-yard low hurdles.

His team collected a total of 65 points to 48 for Royal Military College, Kingston, and Ottawa 22.

Porter is one of the finest track and field athletes ever turned out in Saint John. He was also Padminth champion in these provinces on more than one occasion.

He is a son of H. A. Porter, K. C., M. L. A., and Mrs. Porter of Saint John.

The above is of interest to many friends in Bear River, as John spends his vacations with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Porter, and has been a member of the Bear River Tennis Club for many years.

NATIONAL CHEESE WEEK

Capitalizing the growing scientific concern over "mineral deficiency" in the national diet, National Cheese Week publicity, this year is stressing the health value of cheese as a source of calcium and phosphorus, and urging each Canadian family to eat one extra pound of Canadian made cheese during the officially designated Cheese Week, November 7 to 14.

The campaign is sponsored by the National Dairy Council, in co-operation with cheese producers, manufacturers, food retailers, and dietetic authorities. The slogan is: "Choose Cheese for Balanced Meals and Budgets."

Every year large quantities of surplus milk are wasted which could be converted into whole-some cheese if the domestic demand were enlarged, it is pointed out. The benefits to Canadian agriculture of an added pound of cheese per capita per year would be immense.

Public health authorities admit that it requires more fat to increase the daily consumption of cheese than to step up the per capita consumption of fluid milk. Although health authorities insist it is far from adequate, Canada's per capita milk consumption is actually high in comparison with other countries. Canada's cheese consumption, however, is low, being little more than one-third that of Great Britain.

It is felt that a large part of the anticipated increase in Canadian cheese consumption will come through its more general use in cooking. During Cheese Week cooking authorities will suggest cheese menus, and hotels and restaurants will feature attractive cheese dishes.

Retailers all over the country will display "cheeses in variety."

Old Days on the Ridge

Hello, William Bacon, of Hill Grove. What about sending Bobby Nichols that 41 pounds squash. And, believe it or not, Bobby knows you can raise 'em. Have seen your name in the Courier many times and have often thought of writing you directly, as I have written Goudy Nichols, Duncan McKay, Sam Woodman and my cousin, J. A. H. Nichols. Have had some very pleasant letters from the folks down east.

When I saw mention of your squash pile in the issue of Oct. 16th, I made up my mind to write you through the Courier—so here I am. And, for the time being I am at Hill Grove on the old place that you have kept going, and which is undoubtedly much improved since your dear old Dad passed away many years ago—and who, in his prime, when we as boys used to visit the home place, I can recall your father as one of the best farmers in that section, as well as my uncle Abe, Goudy's father.

You may recall that uncle Abe always prided himself on raising the finest and the best—the first to market potatoes on July 1st, for Dominion Day.

Well, "Bill", my old friend, I am not going to start a competitive bid as to who really was the best farmer in that section but I do say that every one was one hundred per cent in their special farm product, this of course, embraced your dad and uncle Abe.

From my reading of the Courier over the past two years and from the information gathered through other channels, being as I am, very much interested in the old home and surroundings, I have acquired considerable knowledge as to the conditions of today, and am very happy to express my opinion to the effect that you boys, as of my time, the home guards of today of the old farms, through your advanced knowledge of farming and improved condition of machinery and greater knowledge of soil conditions which necessarily afford you a greater advantage that thereby you are producing larger crops on smaller acreage as well as better crops with less hard labor which does not necessarily mean that you are using less labor, but it does mean that has become more of a pleasure than that of a former drudge on a farm.

I feel and have felt for many years that could we have had the same advantages in the days of which I write, wherein farm labor and handling could have been as of today, many of the boys who left the Valley, the Ridge and the Range would today be keeping all of that good old soil which is now dormant, in a class of excellent cultivation and that the entire region there would be occupied, which would mean more life, more activity and better times for all.

Well, my old friend "Bill", I'm rambling here, but before I stop I am asking you respecting your sister Ida, and your sister Lillian, whom we always called Lily—if they are still in the land of the living, that you kindly remember me to them, because in particular when I was a wee kid in the old Hill Grove school and

..and a bag of REGAL

"All set, Jim. Everything's aboard, including that bag of REGAL you're so scared of leaving behind. Oh, I know! If you reached home without it you'd get an awful bawling out and have to come right back for it. Well, you can't blame your wife at that. Jim, when you think of the dandy bread she bakes with REGAL."

your sister Lily was quite a grown girl, just about completing her school grades, she was my really honest to goodness sweetheart in that she used to help fight my battles and take my part, which was mighty nice.

For, you know "Bill", the little fellows sometimes get into mischief and at other times get stepped on for they are too small to be seen, just like I think I have said before, when old Granny Porter, whom you know, once told me that she thought I'd never grow up sufficiently to wear long pants. Well, be that as it may, I've never forgotten your sister Lily.

Let's go calling a little bit while we are up on your Ridge Road, for we don't get there very often, and in my last writing you may have observed that I called on all the old folks or nearly so, from the Shelburne Road. And that reminds me "Bill", that from your properties on the Ridge Road you could look across the canyon and see and name every farm house from the Franklin's, clear on up to the Bell properties. Likewise from the Porters' properties including the Shelburne Road side the folks over there can yell good morning to you. How about it?

I have one very pleasant remembrance which I will mention, which was at the time of my first visit to the old valley and district after having spent two years in Massachusetts, on which occasion my sister Helen, and myself visited mother at the old home on the valley road, which was in the horse and buggy days, and I borrowed the old horse from uncle Abe and took mother and sister Helen and the rest of my younger brothers and sisters at home, some five or six of us, and drove back to the Haines properties and Haines Lakes and spent a day.

We had a most wonderful visit as the Haines family were old friends of ours, and you may recall that Norman Haines taught one term at the Hill Grove school during my boyhood days. They had two boats on the lakes adjacent to their property, and we certainly enjoyed that visit.

Well "Bill", space is short, but I want to say that during that visit I called on everybody on the Ridge Road from the school house to the lakes, including the good old colored man Peter Hill, who, for years, made his living by gathering clams. Yes, he knew more about clams than that fellow up on Bacon Hill, who must be guessing some more. Well, with a cheerio and hello we say—good night.

Bobby Nichols.

KIWANIS CLUB

At a meeting held in the Town Hall Monday evening, members of the Digby Kiwanis Club passed a resolution to surrender their charter. The club has been inactive since spring. Before the meeting adjourned, those present, however, passed a resolution that the former members of the club would support in whatever way possible any effort to further the Community Hall movement.

It was passed that all funds on hand be turned over to this movement, and that the club's mimeograph also be handed over to the management, and that the said funds and money realized through the sale of the mimeograph be used for whatever purpose the Community Hall management committee saw fit.

All those present expressed their regrets that the club was to disband, but under the circumstances saw no way to continue operation. It was decided the membership was too small for a successful club. P. W. Holdsworth, in summing up the activities of the club during its years of existence pointed out the many things of material and lasting benefits that have been brought to the town and district through its efforts, and of the splendid work the club has done in behalf of the underprivileged of the community.

MISSED THE GROCERY ADS

For the first time in 35 years last week's issue of the Courier did not carry a single grocery advertisement. Before Friday was past two subscribers—one from Smith's Cove and one from town—asked us if they had received the paper as they had looked for the paper as they had found none. The same afternoon we were in a grocery store making a few purchases and overheard a lady asking the proprietor why he hadn't advertised—she had looked for his advertisement and couldn't find it. His reply was that he had intended to write one but it had slipped his mind. The lady went on to say that the local advertising—particularly the grocers'—were the first things she read in the paper. We are rather glad they skipped the week we have heard many comments which go to show us that the ads. are read. By-the-way, Arch Dillon tells us that his last week's shoe ad. was one of the best he ever had for direct results.

Obituary

There passed away at her home at Marshalltown, after a lingering illness, on Thursday evening, Oct. 29th, Cora, beloved wife of Isaiah T. Morgan, aged 57 years and 6 months. The deceased, who was a woman of sterling character and integrity, was a daughter of the late Charles and Adelaide Bacon, and a granddaughter of the late Samuel T. Bacon, of Conway, and leaves to mourn beside a sorrowing husband, two brothers, Samuel F. Bacon, of Glendale, California; and Fulton S. Bacon, of Vancouver, B. C.; two sisters, Mrs. Blanche MacLean, of West Roxbury, Mass.; and Mrs. Olive Hatch, San Jose, California; and a host of relatives and friends, who will learn of her passing with deep regret. The funeral services were held from her late residence at Marshalltown and the Hill Grove United

Following an illness of several months, James Rosencrantz, 85, passed away at his home, Waldec West, Thursday morning of last week. He was well known by many, having lived his life in that village, and was one of the oldest residents there. He was the son of the late John and Susan (Peck) Rosencrantz, of Greenland, and last of his family. The late Mr. Rosencrantz married three times, and of the first family, a daughter, Mrs. Blanche Henshaw, of Waldec West; and four sons in the United States, survive, together with another daughter, Mrs. Charles Laramore, of Mount Pleasant, of the second marriage. SCOUT HALL IMPROVED

The Boy Scout Hall in Digby, is undergoing extensive repairs, and being materially enlarged, and will shortly be converted into a community hall. This building purchased a number of years ago by a company of seven-entire public spirited citizens, was formerly the old Presbyterian Church, which united with the Methodist Church twelve years before the church union. Since its purchase, the building has been used by the Boy Scouts and for gymnastic purposes.

In time repairs became necessary, and it was felt the building too small for practical purposes, and at a meeting of the directors, it was decided to put the building into shape and enlarge it. At this meeting it was also decided to reserve one night each week for the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, and on other nights the building would be used for community purposes. On these nights, it is intended, a nominal charge be made for the use of the hall, and that the money derived therefrom be used to pay off liabilities incurred by the present repairs.

Appointed on the management committee are: Fritz Dakin, P. W. Holdsworth and M. C. Denton. Presidents of local organizations have been named on the Financial Aid Committee. A deed in this property, in trust, has been made out by the Mayor of Digby, and will be turned over to each succeeding Mayor.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Are You Getting Smudgy Pictures?

Fascinating winter scenes of all types can be snapped with inexpensive cameras. Don't let the winter stop you.

There are in this world many amateur snapshotters who simply do not give their cameras a "check-up." They complain of smudgy looking pictures and sometimes believe something is radically wrong with the camera. The exposures are correct and developing done carefully in fresh, clean chemicals but still, they say, the final results are smudgy looking prints.

You have looked through dirty eye-glasses with probably a few finger prints on them. If you haven't it's a shame but that you have experienced the difficulty of looking through a smudgy window. Clean eye-glasses and clean windows give clear vision and similarly the camera cannot "see" so well if its eye (the lens) is cloudy and smudgy from grease, finger prints and dust collected over a period of months.

Cleaning a lens is a very simple operation. All you need is a soft, un-starched linen handkerchief and perhaps a match or pencil, if the lens is quite small. The rear surface of the lens can easily be reached by removing the back of the camera. If the camera has a double lens (one behind and one in front of the shutter diaphragm), the front combination may be removed by turning to the left, which will allow you to work through the shutter opening when set for "time," with the handkerchief over the end of the match or lead pencil. If the lens is quite dry breathe on it and then rub quickly with the handkerchief. Be sure, when replacing the front lens, to screw it back into the shutter as far as it will go.

The suggestion to work through the shutter opening also applies to cleaning the front surface of single lenses fitted to box cameras and certain folding models. Handle the lens carefully and don't exert too much pressure. It isn't necessary and might scratch the surface.

The amount of pleasure you get out of your camera depends almost entirely on how much thought and care you give it.

Picture taking is just like golf, tennis, basketball or bowling—the more you experiment, the more thought you give to your hobby, the greater your reward in self satisfaction.

There are many good books available on amateur photography but one of the latest of the press is called "How To Make Good Pictures." It is packed with sound advice for the beginner or the advanced amateur and profusely illustrated with pictures of every type, diagrams and what have you. It might be called "The Amateur Photographer's Reference Book," but don't think for one minute it is as "dry" as such a name might imply. You can no doubt purchase this book from stores that sell cameras and photographic supplies or secure it in your public library.

Remember that your camera is a precision instrument and should be treated as such. Know your camera—its limitations or its versatility—give careful thought to composition and story-telling possibilities and you will be well along the way to take the kind of pictures of which you will be proud.

Is the lens in your camera, fellow Guild member, clean?

Remembrance Day

Concluded from first page will, or as you deem them to be, it is ours, if we believe in God at all, to understand them and to brighten them where and how we can.

The minutes of silence, the still small voice, have reminded us with decisiveness of the need of thought and prayer behind and around our new efforts. See that these are there. Look close at home. Ask yourself with the blunt honesty which insists upon an answer: What am I myself in ordinary life doing or saying towards making ready, as the path thereto opens, the roadway of the Prince of Peace? In the casual converse of every day am I contributing my drizzle of help to the stream which runs, or is ready to run, that way?
Or do I by dullness of perception or moroseness of outlook, or petty irritation at the drawbacks which beset us, or sullen refusal to let the dead past bury its dead, contribute something the other way? Do the wrongs of the war years rankle? Do you try to mollify, or do you rub into fresh activity, the wounds which were then acute?

The fifth petition of the Lord's Prayer has two clauses, and the first without the second is not what Jesus, Christ said.
"Forgive us our trespasses as we also forgive"—it should literally be, "have forgiven".
What does our attitude towards these questions contribute one way or other? Do we consider then when "the sound of gentle stillness" comes to us? You know the suggested words: "In remembrance of those who made the great sacrifice, O God, make us better men and women, and give peace in our time". On every one of us lies the responsibility. To-day brings it home.

It can only be as we all together and each severally for himself for himself, accepts that answer-ableness that we shall rally the unconquerable force which can win for Jesus Christ here in England and in the world, "the Kingdom of God and His righteousness."

If only every man or woman who holds our holy faith could realize what the love of Jesus Christ our Saviour means, would there be the need—so real, so imperative, so unanswerable, as it is to-day—for a League of Nations? Before the impact of that love, whatever is cowardly or revengeful or self-seeking would go down, and righteousness and peace would stand.

Listen—from my heart I pray you—listen for that Voice of God. "After the earthquake, a fire, and after the fire a still small voice." Let it not speak

VICTIM OF GANGSTERS DIES

William Sullivan, 29, of 37 Rockford St., Roxbury, Mass., believed by police to be a victim of gangsters, who threw him from an automobile on Ivy St., Brookline, election night, died at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, victim of a bullet wound in the head.

Death came after hours of unconsciousness, during which police awaited unavailingly for a chance to question him in regard to his assailants. He died without giving the slightest inkling to the identity of those who caused his death, and a 24-hour search by Brookline police failed to produce a single clue in the slaying.

Sullivan collapsed on the front piazza of the home of Dr. Robert B. Greenough, a prominent specialist, at 93 Ivy St., Brookline. He had walked from a point on the street where police believed he had been ejected from an automobile.

Four groups were chosen for a programme and attendance competition to be held throughout the year. After the business period, games were played.

BID FAREWELL TO FIRE-MAN

Members of the Digby Fire Department gathered at the Winchester Hotel, Sunday evening, following church services, for the purpose of bidding farewell to a valued member of their organization, Lloyd Hersey, who left the following day (Monday) for Yarmouth, to which town he has been transferred by the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Co., in whose employ he has been for many years.

Following a scallop chowder supper, served in the hotel dining room, words of appreciation, regrets, and best wishes, were addressed to Mr. Hersey, who as well as being a valued member of the brigade, was President of the organization, and driver of truck No. 2. Following the addresses he was presented with gifts from the Fire Department; from his father, Fire Chief Harry Hersey, and from Edward Webber. The presentation was made by H. A. Nichols.

In reply Mr. Hersey thanked the boys for the many fine things that had been said about him during the evening, and for the gifts that had been presented him.

After the supper the group adjourned to the reception room, and spent a delightful evening singing the old favorites, and finished the evening with rousing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" for the benefit of Mr. Hersey.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICES

The Armistice Day service at the Soldier's Memorial, Wednesday morning, was marked as one of the most impressive for some time, and, in spite of cold weather and snow, was attended by a large crowd. While selections, appropriate to the occasion, were being played by the Digby Civic Band, under the direction of Paul Yates, the parade, headed by school children, girl guides and brownies, who were followed by the Legionnaires and members of the Town Council arrived.

At eleven o'clock the two minutes of silence was observed. Following this the "last post" was sounded by Capt. Hutchinson, of the Digby Corps of the Salvation Army. Prayer was then offered by Rev. A. G. Robertson, pastor of the Digby Baptist Church.

James W. Merkel, President of the Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion, after a short talk, called upon Mayor M. C. Danton, himself a past president of the Legion to give the address. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. A. E. Gabriel, rector of Holy Trinity Church.

Earlier in the morning a service was held at the United Baptist Church, Smith's Cove, the music on this occasion being furnished by the Digby Civic Band. Returned men from Digby, Bear River and Smith's Cove were in attendance at this service. The address was given by Rev. T. W. Hodgson; Scripture Reading by Rev. C. E. Rockingham, of Deep Brook; and Prayer by Rev. A. G. Robertson. Capt. Hutchinson, of the Digby Corps of the Salvation Army, sounded the "last post".

On Sunday morning members of the Digby Legion, led by the Digby Civic Band, marched to Holy Trinity Church for the annual Armistice Sunday service. The sermon, most appropriate for the occasion, was delivered by the rector, Rev. A. E. Gabriel, whereas special music was rendered by the choir.

DIGBY WEEKLY COURIER

WITH THE ODDFELLOWS

Last week was quite a busy week among the Oddfellows in this county. On Wednesday, Grand Master A. R. Wood, of Fredericton, accompanied by Rev. J. W. Derby, of Westport, Grand Chaplain and D. G. M., of that district, and J. J. Wallis, of Digby, D. G. M., of District No. 10, paid an official visit to the Oddfellows and Rebekahs, of Westport. The day was very rainy but there was an exceptionally large attendance. The Rebekahs were celebrating their eleventh anniversary and were the hostesses at a splendid supper at 6 o'clock. At eight o'clock the district lodge of Oddfellows opened, and the problems affecting that district were discussed. After supper the district lodge meeting was again thrown open to the Rebekahs and an interesting programme consisting of speeches from the visitors, readings, etc., was carried out, followed by another supper.

The Grand Master and District Deputy Grand Master left Westport the next morning, intending to go to Bear River, but the elements interfered. A pouring rain storm had wet the ignition system of the car, which was on the Freeport breakwater, and it was some time before it could be started. They had a belated dinner at Central Grove, afterwards driving to Tiverton. Here the storm which was raging, had stirred up Petite Passage and it was thought unwise to bring the car across. But a traveller, whose car was on the East Ferry breakwater, offered the Grand Master a ride to Digby, and Mr. Wallis decided to stay on Long Island until the next day. From Digby A. R. Turnbull's car took the Grand Master to Bear River, where a large gathering of Oddfellows and Rebekahs had assembled to meet him.

On Friday the semi-annual session of the District Lodge for District No. 10, was held in Digby, with St. George Lodge. Four of the seven lodges in the district were represented—Annapolis Royal, Bear River, Lawrencetown and Digby—and an interesting session was held. Plans for the winter's activities were discussed, many of the problems affecting the local lodges were considered.

JAILED AFTER CRASH

Alphie Rene Saulnier, of Saulnierville, who appeared before Stipendiary Bernard Havey, on Monday morning, was sentenced to ten days in jail for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, and fined $10 and costs for driving on the wrong side of the road. He paid the fine.

The charges against Saulnier were a sequel to an automobile crash on Warwick Street, between Queen and King Streets, early Saturday evening, when a truck operated by him, crashed into a coupe operated by Arnold Henshaw, of Deep Brook, Annapolis County. In the Henshaw coupe, beside the driver, were Hope Nelson, sitting in the front seat with Henshaw, and Arnold Henshaw and Maxine Berry in the rumble seat. All were of Deep Brook. Occupying the truck cab with the driver was George Saulnier, also of Saulnierville. All were cut and bruised as a result of the accident, and several were treated at the Digby General Hospital.

Henshaw was driving into town, while Saulnier was driving in the opposite direction, both on the right side of the road. Suddenly, Saulnier swung across the street, crashing into the coupe, which was demolished as a result.

Marriages

Weir—Brooks

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday evening at Smith's Cove, when Mrs. Harriett L. Brooks, of Dalhousie West, Annapolis County, and Minard Weir, of Smith's Cove, were united in marriage by Rev. Charles E. Rockingham, of Deep Brook. The ceremony took place at the home of Mr. Weir. The bride and groom, who were unattended, entered the parlor to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Frances Austin. The bride wore a gown of brown silk crepe with brown suede shoes and misty stockings, white accessories completed her costume. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and asters with fern. The parlor was tastefully decorated with ferns and flowers. During the signing of the register, Calvin A. Lasky, of Victoria Island, B. C., sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied at the organ by Miss Austin. Mrs. Arthur Sulis and Mrs. Edward Payson received the guests at the door. Mrs. Ralph Wright and Mrs. Edward McKinnon, of Smith's Cove, acted as ushers. During the evening dainty refreshments were served to over one hundred guests. Mrs. Gertrude Petrie and Mrs. F. A. Burroughs, of Bear River, being convensors, while the Misses Mary Elizabeth Sulis, Joyce Payson, Wilda Winchester, Bessie and Stella Woodman served. The bride's cake, three tiered, made and decorated by Mrs. Arthur Sulis and daughter, was presented to the bride, who made the first cut. Rev. C. E. Rockingham proposed a toast to the bride and groom, to which Mr. Weir responded. Numerous and beautiful gifts were displayed. After a very enjoyable evening, the guests wishing the couple much happiness, departed for their homes. Out of town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Frene Ship and daughter, Miss Elaine Ship; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ship and two children; Mrs. Appleton Buckler and Mrs. Freelove Harmon, of Dalhousie West; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bacon, Bridgetown; Arthur Gesner, Bellisle; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Trimmer and Mrs. Thomas Larramore, of Clementsvale; Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Rice, Gordon Rice and Mr. and Mrs. Lovet Thomas, of Lansdowne.

BETTER FERRY SERVICE
NEEDEDFishermen and Tradespeople
Would Benefit by Improved Facilities

A more adequate ferry service or a system of fish collection boats for produce of the fishermen and dealers of Long and Brier Islands off the end of Digby Neck who claim that under existing conditions, getting their fish to the markets is one of their grave problems.

Although speaking highly of the government appropriating money for advertising in order to make the people of Canada "fish conscious" and thereby create larger and better markets for produce of the fishermen, the Island fishermen speak as though this effort on the part of the government is of little advantage to them, for, they say, "we can get all the markets we need, but what we need is a better means of getting our fish to the markets we already have. If the government could assist us in this way, it would be more appreciated."

They contend that the present ferry services are inadequate. Fish land trucks cannot be ferried across Grand Passage from Brier Island to Long Island, and then across Petite Passage to the Digby Neck mainland at all times of the tide. Once at East Ferry, on the Digby Neck mainland, these trucks would have a straight road to Digby, where they can connect with the boat or trains that would carry their fish to the markets in Saint John, Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Boston and New York.

The present ferry service between Tiverton on Long Island and East Ferry on the mainland has been vastly improved in the past few years, but apparently does not come up to the requirements of the shippers and buyers of fish on the islands, who claim that with a ferry service by which they could take trucks across at any time of the tide, fish trucks could run between the islands and Digby almost daily. If a better ferry service cannot be provided, they say, a fish collecting boat would be of great advantage to them.

Incidentally, they contend that improved ferry services would not only be of advantage to themselves and the fishermen, but to all concerned. During the past few years automobile traffic on the islands has been greatly increased, and more motor tourists are visiting the islands each year. It is also claimed by them that tradesmen in Digby would realize a benefit from a ferry service that would permit more traffic between the islands and the shiretown.

At present there is a steamboat service between the three island ports: Westport, on Brier Island, and Freeport and Tiverton on Long Island that connects them with Saint John and Yarmouth, but that service is not a daily one. It is semi-weekly in summer and weekly the rest of the year.

To Vimy and Return

When I dropped my yarn last week, we were enroute to the dock from where we would board S. S. Montclare, for our return voyage to Canada. It is hardly necessary for me to say that we arrived there O. K., or is it necessary to add there were a great many other pilgrims on that same dock when we arrived. Before going on board, however, we had to line up, and await our turn—and these preliminaries took some little time. Nevertheless, after getting on board, it seemed a matter of only a few minutes before we heard a blast from the whistle of our boat—this blast was a signal to the tug to swing us around, and start the ship off pointing down stream on our homeward journey. Later, other blasts were blown, the tugs let go their hawsers, and we slid down the river, bidding farewell to good old England.

For awhile we stood on the decks to watch the land fade away in the distance, after which I started looking for my stateroom—and to learn whom my room mate was to be on the homeward trip. He was a young chap by the name of Paul Wilson, of Berwick, and was traveling with an aunt and uncle, who occupied the cabin next to ours.

Paul was a very young fellow when his father was killed in the battle of the Somme, and while on the pilgrimage, he had the privilege of visiting his father's grave in France.

I might say that on the berth in my stateroom, I found my Gladstone case, which I left in my hotel room in London, before leaving on the second trip to France—that was part of the system—the bag had been left after the payment of a small insurance fee, with the understanding it was to be placed on board the boat for the return trip.

Well pleased with my room and room-mate, I returned again to deck, where I joined my new friends, the Olmsteads, who informed me they had succeeded in reserving a seat with them and we were to have our meals together on the homeward crossing. The table they reserved seated four, the other chap was a Mr. Vyse, from Toronto.

Looking about the deck I saw many faces who were with us when we crossed from Canada, the same ones from Windsor, Wolfville and Kentville; Beatty, from Bridgetown, was absent; the three Wilsons from Berwick; Ken, Harris and Ken, Edwards, from Annapolis Royal, extra. Dr. Anderson, of my old battery, and Mr. Rathburn, of Montreal, and one-time of Digby, were aboard on this crossing.

It was a jolly trip and a jollier bunch. We had a band from the R. C. H. A., Hamilton, Ont., on board, as well as a Canadian Pipe Band, also A. S. Alward, the Canadian Sculptor of the Vimy Monument.

We passed the Isle of Man about dark, and proceeded onto Belfast, Ireland, arriving about midnight. Here we took on a quantity of mail and a few passengers, proceeding from there to Glasgow, sailing up the Firth of Clyde to Greenock, where we arrived about 6 a. m. Here we took considerable freight, a number of passengers and two cars.

At 11 a. m., we weighed anchor, and once again were under way. It was a beautiful day, and a great part of the sail was on inland water, giving us an opportunity of viewing some of the beautiful scenery of that "old country"—but, as time goes, so goes the ship. It wasn't long before we left the shores of the land of the thistle behind us, and commenced to feel the surge of the mighty Atlantic.

The return trip was by a more northerly route than the easterly crossing, and not as agreeable from the point of view of weather, in fact, we experienced some very disagreeable days. The events of this crossing were very similar to those of the eastward cruise, so therefore I will not give a detailed day-by-day description, although I will record the mileages made each day, and a few of the outstanding events.

On Friday, August 7, we covered 132 miles; on Saturday 83 miles, and on Sunday, 344 miles. On this day we attended church service aboard ship. On Monday we made 387 miles; Tuesday was cold, rough and disagreeable and the ship only clocked off 362 miles. Wednesday was warm and pleasant, and we made 416 miles. On that day arrangements were made for an evening concert to be held in the dining salon. It was presented at 9.30, and was marked as one of the most enjoyable events of the voyage.

On Thursday we covered 376 miles. This day will live long in my memory, for I was given the privilege of visiting the ship's boiler room, engine room, electric light plant and inspecting the refrigerating system—and even followed her mighty shafts to the very tail of the ship. It was what I considered a rare opportunity, and an education in itself to watch the mighty engines in motion, and to see the men at work. On this day we passed Belle Isle.

On Friday, one week from the day we sailed, we covered 384 miles and passed Anticosti Island at the mouth of the Saint Lawrence River. That night we held our "Au Revoir" turkey dinner.

Saturday we covered 96 miles.

arriving at Quebec at 5.30 a. m. Here cargo was discharged until 11 o'clock, then, sailing another 297 miles to Montreal, where we docked 1.30 p. m. By midnight we had disembarked and cleared the customs. We then took a short walk about the city, and returned to the ship, where we remained until early morning.

In the morning I got up to see the Olmsteads away in their Nova Scotia bound car. They invited me to come along with them, but I was tired, and declined their kind invitation.

Later, taking a taxi, I went out to call on Ernie Rathborn, at 421 Viger Ave., and he sure showed me Montreal. First, from an observation car which took us through a great part of the city, and then, by taxi to the places the observation car missed.

After a good dinner, we went to Windsor station, where we were joined by Miller. Traveling by C. P. R., boarded the train at once, and sat chatting until the train pulled out. Miller, a Scotchman, gave me a nice bit of Scotch heather, which I put with some fern I got at Buckingham Palace, and on my return to Digby, presented it to the biggest Scotchman I knew—Angus MacPhee.

At the station at Montreal I also met Col. Hallett, of Weymouth, returning with his battery from Petawawa. They were also attached to our train, and came across the Bay of Fundy with us.

In conclusion, I will say that I don't know as I have ever enjoyed anything so much as these trips—by the word "trips" I am including the Vimy Pilgrimage and the second trip to France at the invitation of the French Government. Aboard ship and on land I met many fine people—old friends and new—and many of the friendships made will be lasting. Since my return I have received numerous letters from fellow pilgrims, and hope that many of these friends will soon spend vacations in Digby—for whenever possible, I did missionary work for the old town, and never tired of telling of its many beauties and attractions. Garfield Hayden, the live wire in charge of the Government's information bureau, at the Digby pier, sent pamphlets, with my compliments, to a number of them.

At this time I also wish to express my heartfelt thanks to the members of the Canadian Legion, and to all those who contributed to the fund that made this trip possible, and to the management of the Digby Weekly Courier for the space they have given this series of articles, and the help given me in their preparation.

Slapped the Talker

A New York man slapped a woman in a movie theatre the other evening because she talked all the time, and he was, as a consequence, unable to enjoy the show. The woman took legal action, but the judge dismissed the case because he said patrons who pay to see and hear a show, should be considered.

Rheumatism Spread to All Her Joints

Obtained Relief by Using Kruschen Salts

Here is a sad story of suffering, but it has a happy ending. This woman was attacked by severe rheumatism which spread to all her joints. But Kruschen brought relief as she describes below:

"I feel it my duty to tell you how Kruschen Salts brought me relief from a severe attack of rheumatism. I had rheumatism in my legs and knees, later spreading to every joint in my body. This lasted over a period of 13 weeks. I was then ordered to bed with acute rheumatism. I was recommended to try Kruschen and before finishing the second bottle I was able to perform my normal duties."

(Mrs.) I. D.

Rheumatic conditions are frequently due to an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients in these Salts assist Nature to expel the dissolved uric acid through the natural channels.

TOO MUCH PUBLICITY

In Wolfville members of the Canadian Legion have placed themselves on record as strongly opposed to the publishing of articles in the provincial daily papers concerning the private life of His Majesty King Edward VIII. During the past few weeks the press of Canada and the United States has been running syndicated articles to which the Legion objects, and rightly so. American news commentators are now cluttering the air with their observations, which are not welcomed, at least on this side of the border. English papers do not consider the private life of the King a "news", and we in Canada might well follow their example.

Stole Dictionary

A Chicago man stole a dictionary recently. When asked why he took the book the thief explained that he wanted to look up a word. When pressed to tell what word he wanted, the man said it was "larceny". As he had already been arrested four times for a similar offense, one would think he should have a fairly clear idea of the word without having to look it up in a dictionary.

TOWN COUNCIL

The Town Council met on Tuesday evening, Nov. 2nd, having been postponed from Monday evening on account of several members being away. The Mayor presided and all Council members were in attendance. Much of the time was taken up with the claim of Mrs. R. P. Jefferson presented by K. S. Smith. It seems the electric wiring in his side of the house has in some way become mixed with the wiring in the other side, and he has been paying part of the current used by Mr. Atkinson. Mr. Smith asked for a rebate of $30.00, but the Mayor did not think the town would be interested. He would, however, leave it to the council, and they could make some agreement with the Electric Company.

Councillor Fortier reported that some progress had been made in tax collections. A bill for coal supplied to the town building, office of S. Rippey, Superintendent of Light and Water, was passed, also several other bills including $155.00 for poles from the Digby Power Company.

When kidneys fail the system clogs with impurities. Headaches, backache, frequently follow. Dodd's Kidney Pills help clear the system, giving nature a chance to restore health and energy. To Quickly Ease Pains of Rheumatism

Ask Your Doctor About "ASPIRIN"

Any person who suffers from pains of rheumatism should know this: Two "ASPIRIN" tablets, taken with a full glass of water, will usually ease even severe rheumatic pains in a remarkably short time. Ask your doctor about this. He will probably tell you there is nothing better. For "Aspirin" tablets not only offer a potent analgesic (pain reliever), but start going to work almost instantly you take them. Note illustration of glass.

Try this simple way. You'll be surprised at how quickly pain ceases. "Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

CONNELL'S

ILLISLEY'S ADDRESS IN LIVERPOOL

My Lord Mayor of Liverpool:

It is very good of you to give me this opportunity of extending to you, and to those participating in the Imperial Fruit Show, friendly greetings and good wishes, a message which is made possible only by the magic of radio. To have this privilege of joining your activities is a high honour of which I am deeply conscious.

I need hardly remind you, my Lord Mayor, that between Canada and the great seaport of Liverpool there are many ties of historic association. Those ties are particularly close between my native Province of Nova Scotia and your thriving port. The famous clipper ships of Nova Scotia in years gone by have passed up and down that steam of liquid history, the Mersey. Today, sturdy liners and salt-caked freighters through the Atlantic lanes between Canada and Liverpool.

It may interest you, my Lord Mayor, and your assembled guests, to know that the Canadian export apple trade, now grown to such large proportions, had its humble beginnings in 1849 when a trial shipment was made from Halifax to Liverpool.

In 1861, an experimental shipment was also made from the Annapolis Valley, Nova Scotia, to the British Isles. Since that time, the export of apples and, to a lesser extent, of other fruits has steadily and rapidly increased and fruit of the finest quality, not only from Nova Scotia, but from the warm interior valleys of British Columbia and from Ontario, is to be found in increasing quantities on the dinner tables of Great Britain.

From the small beginnings of the first trial shipment from Halifax to Liverpool in 1849, this expanding export trade has grown and during the shipping season of 1935-36, Canada exported to the United Kingdom one and a half million barrels and two and a quarter million boxes of apples, or approximately 50% of our entire crop.

We fully appreciate the value of your market to us and we realize the desirability of giving you access to our market for your products to the greatest possible extent. In a world of tariff barriers, the friendly trade treatment extended by the different parts of the British Empire to one another stands out as

SCALLOPERS MAKE RECORD CATCH

Scallop boats commenced to arrive in port before noon on Saturday, forced to return, not because of unfavorable conditions, but because they had no room for more scallops. The early arrivals had their holds filled, and the decks of their craft piled high. Other boats, equally well laden, continued to arrive until evening. Most of the draggers had been out since Friday.

The catch is said to be the largest ever taken by the local fleet, and in all probability, the greatest catch of scallops ever landed in any port. Conservative estimates for the fleet have been placed at nearly 500 barrels, with a value of some $8,000.

Few boats reported under 10 barrels; several from 12 to 16; a few more 18 barrels, and one, it is understood, landed 20 barrels.

Within fifteen years scalloping has developed into one of the leading industries of the province, and the principal fishery of this section. It is expected this season the value of the catch will run close to a quarter of a million dollars. More than 95% of the total of Canadian scallop catch is taken in these waters.

Harold Morehouse attended the Older Boy's Conference at Lawrence town, last week.

Rev. and Mrs. E. S. Mason, of Wolfville, were recent guests of Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Robertson. Mrs. L. H. Morse has returned from Halifax

a notable achievement in statesmanship, something to be cherished and fostered and developed. My hope is that the campaign now being launched for the extension of our trade in the Liverpool district and our participation in the Imperial Fruit Show may result in trade developments beneficial both to your country and to ours and indeed, to the whole family circle of British nations. Ottawa, 3rd November, 1936.

Sypher for the use of their hotel, and to the Ladies' Aid for the delicious lunch after the service; and to the drivers, namely, Douglas Syda, Harold Goodwin, Ralph Wright, Rod Abramson, Clyde Outhouse, and to Gerald Syda for the use of his car.

The Amateur Hour
The Amateur Hour conducted last week by the B. Y. P. U., of Digby, was an unqualified success, despite the fact that it was held on Friday, the 13th. The "studio" was filled to capacity, and all present were agreed that the "hobnobbed city" of Digby is rich in musical talent. It will be of interest to our "radio audience" to know that a similar programme, only "bigger and better," will be broadcast from our station B. Y. P. U., in the not distant future.

DIPS INTO OLD CLASSICS
Interpreted with lively marches and other good selections at the band rehearsal, music by the old masters was given considerable attention. Their interest in music of this sort indicates that these young players are acquiring a taste for music of the highest order. Practice of this kind will make easier for them to understand and play effectively music of the simpler kind usually required for concert use. The following numbers were played. (Figures give date of composition.)

Bach (1750)—Choral.
Handel (1759)—Duet, March in "Saul".
Schubert (1828)—Marche Militaire.
Donizetti (1818)—Sextette from "Lucia".
Chopin (1849)—Polonaise Militaire.
Brahms (1897)—Hungarian Dance, No. 3.
Incidentally, Chopin's Funeral played at the monument on Armistice Day in Digby, was played at the funeral of the late King George.

C. G. I. T. OPEN NEW ROOMS
The Flamingo Group of the Grace United Church, held their first meeting in their new room over the Courier Office, on Friday evening. This room previously was used as a store room, and during the week the girls cleaned it up and now have a fine room, though lacking in furniture.

The business period was followed by refreshments. Meeting closed with "Taps".
The Group wish to extend their thanks to Mrs. MacPhee and Mr. Yates for the loan of chairs for the meeting. Any wishing to store chairs or an old organ or piano would find the girls very grateful if they would pick this room for storage.

Marriages

Connor—Gilliland

A pretty wedding took place in Grace United Church on Sunday afternoon, with Rev. Dr. Hodgson officiating, when Barbara Elizabeth Gilliland and Rufus C. M. Connor were united in marriage. The bride, who was unattended, was given in marriage by her uncle, Frederick Gilliland, of Rosedale, Miss. J. Oakley Turnbull was groomsmen. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Connor left on a short wedding trip to Millville, Annapolis County. They will reside in Digby.

Denton—MacNeill

A very pretty wedding of particular interest throughout the province was celebrated at the home of the bride's mother, in Little River, on Tuesday, when Kathleen Olson Denton, youngest daughter of Mrs. E. M. and the late Edgar M. Denton, became the bride of Byron Lloyd MacNeill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron MacNeill, of Marshalltown. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. C. L. Chute, (the double ring service being used), took place under a white lattice work arch, beautifully decorated with ferns, evergreen and red flowers, and background of pink streamers and potted plants. The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, looked charming in her wedding gown of white satin, fashioned on princess lines, with train, silk veil and coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of pink and white mums, with fern, and was attended by her niece, Elma Kathleen Frost, who made a winsome flower girl, dressed in blue silk organdie and carrying an elaborate nosegay of yellow and white mums. The wedding march was played by Miss Helen Frost. During the signing of the register Mrs. (the Frost) sister of the bride, and the groom's sister, Miss Helen Frost, sang "Because".

The mother of the bride was gowned in grey silk robe with corsage of pale pink, and the groom wore a white tuxedo with green and white tie. The bride's mother wore navy silk robe with corsage of white and yellow mums. In the centre of the bride's table was a beautifully decorated three-tiered cake. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held, a delectable lunch being served to about a hundred guests. Those assisting in serving were the Misses Ella Trask, Edna Cheney, Helen Frost and Mildred Kelly. Ronald Trask, Audrey Frost and Ernie Morehouse, bride and groom left immediately for a two-weeks' honeymoon trip to Boston, Mass., the bride's travelling costume being a suit of navy blue all wool tweed fabric, trimmed in grey fur, with hat and accessories to match. On their return they will reside in their new home in Marshalltown where the groom is a prospective farmer, being a graduate of the Provincial Agricultural College. The bride is a graduate of the Normal College, and was a successful school teacher. The young couple received many useful and costly gifts, including cheques, linen, silver, china and cut glass, which testified to their popularity.

Doveau—Doucette

The marriage of Melina Doucette to Joseph George Doveau took place on Tuesday evening at St. Vincent de Paul church, Salmon River. Rev. Father Mallet officiating. Bride and groom were attended by Venerable Doucette and Robert L. LeBerge. The couple were in Digby on Tuesday and took dinner at the MacKinnon House.

HOSPITAL HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Spontaneous combustion in the coal bin of the Digby General Hospital almost spelled disaster to that institution Saturday night, and although the blaze was soon placed under control by the Digby Fire Department, several men worked all night removing the smouldering coal from the basement. Damage to the building was slight, although some of the woodwork was scorched and burned.

Birth Follows Death

ADVERTISING

With Christmas only five weeks off it is full time that local merchants were perfecting their arrangements for adequately advertising the goods that they will have to offer to their customers at that time. A proper publicity is so important a factor in modern merchandising that its neglect is pretty sure to result disastrously. Most dealers who are up with the times realize this and make their advertising an outstanding feature at all seasons of the year. At Christmas they devote more than usual energy in this direction and reap results. The advertising space in the Courier is always at a premium at this season, and those who are likely to require additional space in which to present their offerings, will be wise in making reservations early. Our advertising manager has this year plenty of facilities for making up attractive and forcible announcements, and his services are always available for those who require assistance. In the matter of Christmas advertising as in many others "the early bird" is most likely to profit.

COURIER

Of late we have had frequent requests for back numbers of the Courier, and strange to say, many readers are of the opinion they should get these papers for nothing—or at least at a discount.

Such is not the case, as certain issues are scarce. In future, back numbers will be charged for at following minimum rates:

One month old or less, 4 cents copy.

Three months to one month old 10 cents copy.

Two years to three months old 25 cents copy.

Over three years old, 50 cents copy.

These are minimum prices. For editions that are very scarce, prices will go as high as $1.00 or more—and there are some scarce numbers for which we wouldn't take $10.00.

Eat Canadian Fish and Shellfish for health, for food value.

The value of the output of the Canadian fisheries for the year 1935, was $31,427,854, compared with $34,022,324 in the preceding year. The 1935 value is the highest recorded during the five year period 1931 to 1935.

Looking back and taking stock, we who are interested in the attempt to control tuberculosis, must feel that some progress has been made. Dr. A. F. Miller, Superintendent of the Nova Scotia Sanatorium, asserted in a message at the beginning of the year.

An early diagnosis and proper care are essential to this work. The Victorian Order of Nurses in collaboration with the Nova Scotia Tuberculosis Commission, are giving constant service in trying to stamp out this disease. The Committee of the Victorian Order, with Mrs. Frank Nichols and Mrs. Harold Nichols as conveners, will put on the campaign for the sale of the T. B. Seals the last of this month. Obituary

Freeman Kenneth Darres

The death of Freeman K. Darres, of Victory, took place at the Digby Hospital, on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 20th. Mr. Darres was stricken with appendicitis on Friday the 6th, and rushed to the hospital, where he was operated upon. He was a man of outstanding worth. He it was who kept the settlement of Victory together, providing employment and in every way assisting the people to own their homes. He was Chapel Warden of St. Andrew's Church for over twenty years and a delegate to the Diocesan Synod. A churchman, who was always in his church, and a regular communicant. He was an Oddfellow and a member of the Bear River Lodge. For many years he was Secretary of School Trustees. Always progressive, he brought about the telephone for Victory. He operated a mill in Victory and had operated at other places. His life was an example to all. True and just in all his dealings, kind and considerate to all, loving his church, his home and his village, he was himself beloved and today very many mourn the loss of a trusted advisor and a true friend. Funeral took place Tuesday 17th, from St. Andrew's Church, Victory, Rev. A. W. L. Smith officiating.

The death of Mrs. Emma Jane (Hinxman) Peck occurred at her home in Bear River, on Tuesday, Nov. 10th, after a long illness. The late Mrs. Peck was born at Lansdowne, Digby Co., on July 26th, 1870, the daughter of the late Charles Hinxman and Mrs. Hinxman, the latter, now 95 years of age, still survives, residing with her son, George Hinxman, in Digby. Ever since the late Mrs. Peck's marriage to Levi J. Peck of Bear River, she has resided here, was a faithful member of the local Adventist Church, and had earned the respect and love of a large number of friends and acquaintances. She is survived by her husband, four sons, Everett and Watson, at home; Elmer of Bear River; Ernest, of Cambridge, Mass.; and four daughters: Oradell, at home; Jennie, Needham, Mass.; Hattie (Mrs. Joseph Martin) Hyde Park, Mass.; Florence, (Mrs. Wilbur Parker) of Bear River. Two brothers also survive, William Hinxman, of Lansdowne; and George, of Digby. The funeral service was held at the Peck residence on Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. C. P. Henderson, pastor of the Bear River Adventist Church, assisted by Rev. S. F. Steeves, pastor of the Baptist Church, and interment was in the family lot, the four sons of the deceased acting as pall-bearers. Special music, a favorite hymn, "When I Awake," was rendered by Helen Barrage and beautiful flowers attested to love and friendship of relatives and friends.

"SILENT BILL" TO SPEAK ON CRIME

"Silent Bill Biddle," lecturer and radio talker, who believes that the home is largely to blame for cases of juvenile delinquency, will lecture in the Bijou Theatre on Sunday evening, Nov. 22nd. "Does Crime Pay?" is the striking title of the speaker's talk. His mission is "evangelistic and uplifting—an attempt to tell the youth of today that crime does not pay." A most interesting lecturer, Mr. Biddle stated that he had voluntarily decided to devote the remaining years of his life to the education of youth against crime. One of the outstanding points of the speaker's talk concerns the segregation of juvenile offenders from hardened criminals in prison life.

Mr. Biddle's appearance here Sunday, is his second. His case, which has been mentioned in magazine articles and radio programmes, concerns his 18 years' experience in Sing Sing. This talk by Mr. Biddle, ex-convict and gangster, is very timely in view of present interest in the crime situation, and prison conditions. This will be Mr. Biddle's farewell tour of Eastern Canada.

CANADA ARMS

Americans are interested in the news that the Canadian Government proposes to undertake some new measures of national defense, says the Gloucester Times. Premier MacKenzie King proposes spending $10,000,000 or more for naval destroyers and bombing planes.

"The destroyers, of course, are not intended for Canada's southern water boundary, the Great Lakes, which will continue free from war vessels as they have been for a century and a quarter. Neither are the warplanes meant for use against our country. Both types of armament are intended for home defense against possible invasion from Europe or Asia."

The sum mentioned looks small to Americans, but represents a dollar for every person in Canada. When relative wealth of the two countries is considered it might mean as much to Canada as a quarter-billion to us. Most Americans will regard it as adding to the defensive power of the North American continent, and therefore justifiable in the present state of the world.

German Nazism began with a great burning of books. Ever since, there has been a strict censorship of the German press. Apparent success in the imprisonment of German minds has not satisfied the government. What is quaintly called the "Ministry of Enlightenment" has cracked down harder than ever on authors, publishers and booksellers. The language of Hans Jost, president of the Reich Chamber of Literature, is startling to Americans.

"The people are compelled 'with loving force,' he explains, to read the books of Nazi authors. 'Book dealers must not use books as a means of profit, but in the service of the Third Reich. In the future I will eliminate the unknown among the bookdealers and I will not tolerate a dictatorship of the buying public.' The buying public is our people, and our people want to be, and shall be, advanced and led."

"National Socialist books are the only books that will go to the people. Our state needs a revelation of our spirit. Resistance will be broken with dynamite."

To such a depth of mental bondage has struck a people who before the Great War, boasted, perhaps correctly, of being the most intellectual nation in Europe.

Obituary

James Percy Thomas

The death occurred at Annapolis Royal, on Wednesday of last week, of James Percy Thomas, at his home on Church St., at the age of 79 years. He had been confined to his bed since last September. Born at Upper Clements, he was a son of the late Alexander and Katharine (Quinlan) Thomas. He learned his trade with the firm of Charles B. Dargie & Son, becoming an expert upholsterer and cabinet worker, working for about thirty years in Lynn, Mass. He was twice married, his first wife being Annie Jefferson, of Annapolis Royal, by whom he had four children, two sons, Arthur L., of Lynn, and Reginald P., of Montreal; and two daughters, Fannie and Blanche, who both predeceased him. His second wife was Ella Lavina Clarke, by whom he has survived, by whom he had two sons, Clarke, now of Lisbon, New Hampshire; and William, of St. John.

Mrs. George Hudson

After a short illness, Mrs. Elmina (Gregory) Hudson, wife of George A. Hudson, passed away at Annapolis Royal, recently, at the age of 70 years. She deceased is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Minnie Gillian, of Port Wade; and Mrs. Addie Young, of Young's Cove East; four sons, George and Charles, of Upper Granville; Lloyd, of Port Wade; and Currie, of Young's Cove; one sister, Mrs. Alton Guest, and a brother, Freeman Gregory, both of Young's Cove.

G. Frederic Boehner

Word has been received here of the sudden death at his home in Brookline, Mass., of G. Frederic Boehner, well remembered by many older citizens in this his home town. Mr. Boehner was the oldest son of the late Jacob and Anne (Giesner) Boehner, and was born in Annapolis Royal 66 years ago. After attending the Academy, he entered the office of the Annapolis Spectator, to learn the printer's trade, at which he subsequently worked for fifty-three years. While still a young man he moved to Boston, and twenty-two years ago established a job printing business in Brookline, in which his only son was later associated. The deceased is survived by his wife; one son, Robert M., and a sister, Mrs. S. M. (Dolly) Browne, of Boston. Mr. Boehner was a prominent Mason, with membership in several lodges, and also belonged to the Brotherhood of the Harvard Congregational Church. The funeral took place from St. Mark's Church, with interment at Beverly.

Dr. Arthur Horsfall

The death of Dr. Arthur Horsfall occurred at an early hour Wednesday morning of last week at his home on St. George St., after a long period of failing health. Dr. Horsfall was born at Saint John, N. B., on Jan. 1, 1859, the youngest son of the late James and Mary (Lasscolle) Horsfall, of Wakefield, England. Coming to Upper Clements with his parents, as a young boy, he attended the Annapolis Academy and then entered the drug store of the late Dr. A. B. Cunningham. He later graduated from the College of Pharmacy at Boston, and for a short time was located at Yarmouth, after which he took up the study of dentistry and graduated from a Boston Dental College. After practicing in Boston for many years, Dr. Horsfall, who had always been a frequent visitor to his old home, finally settled in Annapolis Royal in 1913, and purchased the Albert Mill property, where he carried on his practice until incapacitated by ill health. The late Dr. Horsfall was twice married, his first wife being Miss Estelle Chisam, of Augusta, Maine, and the second, Mrs. Winifred (Thorne) Porter, of Granville, who survives him. The deceased was a prominent Mason and member of St. Luke's Church. Interment took place in the family lot at Oak Hill cemetery.

British Columbia leads all the Provinces in value of fish production. This is due to the large output of salmon on the Pacific. Nova Scotia comes second, with lobster the chief fishery; and New Brunswick, third, sardine production leading.

To Ease a Headache Fast

Get Real Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving "ASPIRIN"

For QUICK Relief

If you suffer from headaches what you want is quick relief. "Aspirin" tablets give quick relief, for one reason, because they dissolve or disintegrate almost instantly they touch moisture. (Note illustration above.) Hence—when you take an "Aspirin" tablet it starts to dissolve almost as quickly as you swallow it. And this is ready to start working almost instantly. Headaches, neuritis and neuralgia pains start easing almost at once. "Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet. Try it. You'll say it's marvelous.

Blinding Headaches Made Her Helpless

Forced to Lie Down for Hours at a Time

Other sufferers from headaches will be interested to read this letter:—
"Until last summer I was subject to very bad headaches. While they lasted I seemed to lose my sight and all power in my hands, and was forced to lie down for hours at a time. My aunt (who has taken Kruschen Salts for 12 years with beneficial results) suggested my trying them. I did so, and I've not had any return of those headaches for months, in fact I feel quite better. I shall always take Kruschen regularly in future."
(Mrs.) M. W.

Headaches can frequently be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in the complete elimination of waste matter, resulting in a purer bloodstream, and thus helping to bring relief from headaches.

KEYS OF HAPPINESS

(Montreal Standard)

When Lord Horder, the famous London physician, was in New York recently, he was asked what new things medicine had done to prolong life, and his answer was: Ask me rather what it has done to promote happiness.

Unfortunately, they are not quite the same thing, for long life does not always imply health, and health itself is valuable mainly as a source of happiness.

Aristotle was the first to define happiness as the supreme good, and though he was a pagan, he did not differ very greatly from the stern Presbyterian catechism which says that the supreme end of man is not merely to glorify God, but to enjoy Him forever, for Aristotle, too, found happiness only in virtue.

Lord Horder finds it in health, but he does not mean by that the health and happiness of the animal, but the state in which all the human faculties, physical and mental, attain their just and equitable balance.

He finds the present age too excited for happiness, and his rhetorical name for the clash between Communism and Fascism is hyperproxia, or high fever. He postulates a certain balance and settlement as the condition alike of health and happiness.

To come down from the general, what are the specific particulars of health and happiness according to Lord Horder?

He enumerates five.
The first is, Enough of the right food.

The second, Easy access to the fresh air.

Third, Shelter, but shelter at a rent which leaves enough to buy food with.

Fourth, Leisure for play, which Lord Horder thinks is necessary for thinking and may lead even to high thinking.

And by play is not meant athletics alone.

When youth is past, violent exercise at the week end may be a dangerous sequel to a week's sedentary life.

Fifth, less Noise.

Lord Horder warns us against hysteria and exhorts us to find in the liberty and the mental poise that it preserves the condition of our national well-being and service to the rest of the world.

Many of the diets dictated by doctors and eminent scientists recommended fish foods frequently. This is because fish foods are a source of mineral salts, vitamins and the protein which the body must have every day.

LOBSTER SEASON OPENS NEXT WEEK

Digby County fishermen along the St. Mary's Bay shore of Digby Neck and mainland, and along the Bay of Fundy coast, have about completed their preparations for the lobster season, which opens December first.

Under existing regulations no fisherman is to leave the shore with lobster gear before seven o'clock on the morning of the opening day.

It is hoped that the approaching season will be a successful one, and in that way at least partially compensate the fishermen for the discouraging seasons they have experienced during the past several years. For several successive years in some sections of Digby County, fishermen have taken up their traps early in the season for the reason that they were operating at a loss in attending them.

Nevertheless, one does not hear these days so much of the agitation for a closed season on lobster fishing for a period of years in sections of this area. Such a proposal was talked of in some quarters in previous years.

Lobster fishermen in this area, however, do feel their season, which extends through the winter months, is about the worse season possible. During the winter storms there are often days, and sometimes a week at a time, when it is impossible for the boats to attend their traps. Also sudden storms mean the loss of hundreds of pots and other gear to the fishermen along these shores.

Especially from the upper section of the Bay of Fundy shore of Digby Neck, principally from those who operate from Gulliver's Cove, come mild complaints of the lobster fishing boundary. While Gulliver's Cove fishermen can legally fish for lobsters off the shore at that village, it is illegal for them, or any lobstermen, to set their traps any further up the coast than Burns Point, which is within sight of the Cove. At Gulliver's they seem to feel that at least the boundary should include the whole of Digby County, and that in extending it another four or five miles to Digby Gut this would be done; and the Gut and Point Prim would be a more logical boundary mark than Burns Point.

Pigeons Act as Spies.

Carrier pigeons are being trained in Germany to act as "flying spies". The birds are equipped with miniature automatic cameras. The plan is to release them near an area where photographs are desired for military purposes, setting the camera to work when it is judged the pigeons will be over the place selected. The negatives are tiny, but the photographs can be enlarged to show every detail of the ground.

Old Bottle Holds Fortune.

Golden sovereigns amounting to $1050 were found by a farmer in an old pickle bottle turned up by his plough near Cattle New South Wales, Australia. He had never seen coins like them before and he took the bottle to the farmer who employed him.

"Look at these queer yellow things, what do you suppose they are," he asked. It is thought that they belonged to a miner who buried them, fearing robbery by bushrangers, outlaws of the olden days in Australia.

WRIGLEY'S NEW RADIO SERIES

When Poetic Melodies, the new Wrigley four-a-week broadcast over Columbia Broadcasting System, hit the air on November 9th, in the U. S. A., the public was treated to a program in which exactly three words at the beginning and end of the broadcast was devoted to the sponsor, in accordance with the rules of C. B. S., requiring that the sponsor be mentioned.

The time usually given over to selling the product will be devoted to giving credit to the retail merchant, describing the helpful service he renders and his importance in the daily life of the community.

On Friday night of each week at the same time, the sponsor will provide a program strictly for the entertainment of dealers. However, if the public happens to have their dials turned to the right station they will hear the advertisers of one Mortimer Gooch, super-salesman with the wildest ideas about merchandising. Fun for all, but despair for Mort's boss at head office.

Nation wide hookup of the Columbia Broadcasting System is employed, starting Monday, November 9th, at 7:00 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, and 11:00 p. m., Central Standard Time. Some of the important stations on the chain making the broadcast available throughout Canada are: Boston, WEEI; Buffalo, WGR or WKBW; Chicago, WBBM; Cincinnati, WKRC; Cleveland, WHK; Detroit, WJRB; Minneapolis, WCCO; New York City, WABC; Rochester, WHEC; Syracuse, WFBF; Toledo, WSPD; Seattle, KOL; Spokane, KFTY; San Francisco, KFRG.

MARITIME INDUSTRY MAKING PROGRESS

It is gratifying to know that The Brown-Holder Biscuits, Limited, of Moncton, continue to make satisfactory progress. Starting when the Depression was almost at its worst, this industry has struggled forward in spite of difficulties aplenty, until today it is one of the most progressive concerns in the Maritimes. Major A. J. Tingley, president of the company, has given generously of his time while Messrs. Fred M. Brown, general manager, and Surrey L. Holder, secretary-treasurer, have been notably successful with their work. With low executive costs with an adequately equipped factory and with the reputation of turning out first-class products, Brown-Holder Biscuits Limited is an organization of which its shareholders may be justly proud.

London Fur Sales Report

Cable advices as to the prices received on this year's Silver Fox Pelts shipped for the auction, which is now taking place in London, say that so far, the prices are somewhat lower than they were at this time last year but they are very satisfactory in view of the unfavourable reports that have been circulating among fox-men.

Blind Operate Dial Phones

Two blind operators have taken control of the automatic switchboard in Great Portland Street telephone station, London. They are Miss M. G. Lantry and J. Riley. They were trained to begin work immediately when the board was changed from manual to automatic. Their first day was without an error. The switchboard has pins at top and bottom of plugs so that they can gauge the spot they want. They also take down messages and telegrams for the staff members, using a Braille shorthand machine at the side of the switchboard.

INVESTIGATION OF THE SCALLOP FISHERY OFF DIGBY

By John A. Stevenson

Introductory Note by A. H. Leim
Director Atlantic Biological Station, St. Andrews, N. B.

Before his untimely death by drowning on September 15th, the late Mr. J. A. Stevenson had prepared a series of nine short articles on the scallop and investigations relating thereto. These were prepared to acquaint the fishermen and residents of Digby with the nature of the work which he was doing. As a preface to these articles a few notes concerning the author may not be out of place.

Mr. Stevenson was born at Devonport, England, in 1910. He showed an early interest in the sea and while in his teens prepared natural history notes for English papers.

It is not surprising, therefore, that after coming to Canada and entering Queen's University at Kingston, Ontario, he should have desired to return to his marine interests. He first came to St. Andrews in 1931 and spent a few months at the Atlantic Biological Station during the summers of 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934. He was put to work to study the life history of the scallop.

During the summers of 1935 and 1936 he was stationed at Digby to secure facts about the life history of the scallops on the important beds near that place. His own articles will tell what he had accomplished and what he hoped to accomplish.

Mr. Stevenson received an Honour B. A. degree from the Queen's University, in May, 1934. The following winter was spent at the University of Western Ontario, London, while during that of 1935 he was at the University of Toronto studying towards a Ph.D. degree.

It should be pointed out that in this and many other cases the work was not done for financial gain. Mr. Stevenson received merely enough to cover his travelling and living expenses during the summer months. His chief remuneration lay in the securing of material for his post-graduate University work.

His passing will definitely retard progress with the study of the scallop as his knowledge will in part at least, have to be slowly gained by whoever may continue the problem. Apart from these articles a portion of his work has reached the stage for printing and will be made available to others.

1. Purposes of the Investigation

Some of us wonder sometimes what sort of a place the world would be now, if it were not for the amazing progress during the past three or four decades, of the sciences. We realize then how completely they are responsible for practically all that we have in the way of material things. The physical sciences have supplied us with our millions of machines, our radios, our aeroplanes and ships; the chemical sciences have supplied us with new and enduring materials, with medicines of infinite value, and with the keys to advancement in innumerable industries. And no less important than these two, though by reason of its far more complicated nature much slower in producing practical results, the science of life, biology, has provided us, and is providing us, with another great array of benefits. Much, for example, has surely been worth all the efforts of every biological research worker that existed! And in the field of agriculture, Sir Charles Saunders' development of Marquis wheat was virtual salvation to the farmers of the west. But all biological research takes much time and painstaking effort, before practical results can be produced, and we must therefore be patient with biologists, and give them all the time that they need in their work.

Never more true is this than in that field of biological study, Fisheries Research. Here, the biologist is as often as not working with an animal that lives in entirely different medium to himself, which of course surrounds the work with peculiar difficulties that are not met with in agriculture and medicine. Fisheries Research has provided in the past, and will continue to do so in the future, great quantities of information, which if applied correctly by the fisherman to his industry, can be of incalculable benefit to him.

It is said that if you would deal with a man you should know him first. And it is also said that if you should know a man, you should know him at home! The very same thing applies to fish. If you would make the most of your fishing, then know all you can about the home life of your fish! That goes almost without saying.

In Canada, we have a body of trained biologists who spend all their time providing the fishermen with information about fish that otherwise they could not easily learn. I refer to the Biological Board, whose sole function is to investigate methods whereby the fisheries of Canada can be improved. And if fishermen will follow up the work that the Board does, and apply the results to their own work, they will surely find that the work has been worth while.

During the past two summers, the Biological Board has been conducting an investigation at Digby, to answer the general question: "Why are scallops so plentiful there?" and "What does the future hold for the Digby scallop fishery?" and during the next few weeks I shall endeavour in a series of short articles to outline briefly the why and wherefore of the investigation, and the more important results obtained.

Maritime Industries are in the Front Rank of Canada's Recovery

The so-called boom year, 1929, is looked upon as the high level from which business in many lines fell to mere fractions of its former self. It is remarkable to learn therefore, that one Maritime industry—the Enterprise Foundry Co., Ltd., of Sackville, N. B., makers of kitchen stoves and furnaces, actually shipped seventy-six per cent more stoves in the first six months of this year than in the similar period of 1929.

The Enterprise factory at Sackville, is one of the biggest stove making plants in Canada. Millions of pounds of iron and steel are used and over 200 workmen are continuously employed. The manufacturing facilities of this plant have been taxed to the limit for many months past. Additions have been built and more labor employed, but still the orders for stoves, heaters and furnaces coming in keep the wheels turning furiously, necessitating night shifts in some departments.

Not all of this heavy demand is from Canadian homes. Exports to South Africa are large and increasing. At the Johannesburg Exhibition this company had a large exhibit of electric ranges, as well as coal and wood burning furnaces, about fifty different models being shown. In this sister dominion, this old Maritime name is getting to be as well known for its stoves, heaters and furnaces as it is in Canadian homes, and it is rapidly extending to other Empire and Foreign countries.

In these days of mergers and bewildering company changes, it is interesting to learn that this industry, one of the largest in the Maritimes, has been operated by one Maritime family for over forty-eight years, and is now in a stronger position than at any time in its successful history. The long years of service of many of its workmen are as much a part of its present day vitality as is the ability of the management to keep abreast of modern developments.

Enterprise Heating Engineers are continually working to improve their range and furnace design and construction, and maintaining a special service to advise in a scientific and practical way on domestic and commercial heating problems without cost to its customers.

Thousands of homes, stores, offices and other buildings in all parts of Canada, are installing air conditioning, science's latest wonder, which automatically provides constant pure air of the right degree of warmth and humidity. Air conditioning is the greatest contribution of the age to indoor comfort and health, and before long will be just as familiar to us as electric refrigeration and radio, which have so revolutionized our way of living. Many of these installations are Maritime-made by Enterprise, who pioneered air conditioning in Canada, and have developed

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—half a century the favorite remedy. 103 units of every size in such a way that even small homes can, by attaching them to existing furnaces, have properly circulated, pure, warm air in every room. Economy of fuel is always a first thought when buying heating equipment, and this important item is an outstanding feature of Enterprise Ranges and Furnaces. A recent furnace model, employing new principles of combustion, has shown savings of twenty-five per cent and over in fuel consumption. This progressive company is one of many instances in which Maritime industry is making rapid strides towards general business improvement.

One Family School

Prince William Station on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, fifteen miles east of McAdam, in New Brunswick, boasts of a school built just for one family—the eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Jamieson. There is a student for each class from grade one to eight. Jamieson holds five jobs—farmer, postmaster, mail stage driver, tax collector and express agent. Because there is no accommodation for her at Prince William Station, the teacher, Lydia Pheene, daily commutes from McAdam and back.

Kiss Costs Him $32

For kissing a married woman of his acquaintance a man was fined $320 at Kiel, Germany. Her husband brought action, alleging that he had been insulted. The court, in imposing the fine, declared that it was only owing to the man's hitherto blameless record that he had escaped imprisonment.

The Park of Peace

The United States and Mexico have made up their minds to live on good terms with each other. As a symbol of this good resolution they are setting aside a section on the frontiers of the two countries to be called the Park of Peace.

OLDEST DIGBY COUNTY WOMAN PASSES

The death took place at Cape St. Mary, last week, of the oldest resident in Clare, believed to be the oldest resident in Digby County, at the age of 101 years and eleven months, following an illness of several weeks, in the person of Mrs. Rose V. Comeau. Deceased was born at Salmon River, on Dec. 16, 1834, and was a daughter of Andrew Morrisset and Sophia Deveau. The family later moved to Gilbert's Cove, Digby Co., where the deceased attended the public school. As a young lady, she went to Gloucester, Mass., where she married Capt. Thos. O'Connell, who was drowned on the George's Bank in a great storm, on Feb. 21, 1878. Returning to her parents' home in Gilbert's Cove, with her two young children, she lived there until 1882, when she married Eude Comeau, of Cape St. Mary. From this union one son, William C., was born with whom Mrs. Comeau lived. On Feb. 3, 1893, her son's wife died, leaving her to look after a family of seven children, the youngest a year old. She devoted herself to the upbringing of "my children" as she affectionally called them, doing the knitting, serving and cooking for her "family." She was always interested in the happenings of the day, and until a year ago, never missed reading her daily paper. Her husband died several years ago. Besides her son, she is survived by one daughter by her first marriage, Miss Mamie O'Connell, her seven grandchildren, one great grandchild. She was a devout Catholic, and in her sixties walked four miles to attend Mass on Sunday. The funeral took place at the St. Alphonsus Church Tuesday morning, Rev. Father M. LeBlanc said Requiem Mass. Interment was made in St. Alphonsus cemetery.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Make Your Own Exposure Guide

Pictures like this usually need an exposure different from that required for a landscape. It's better to know than to guess.

THE trouble with a good many cameras is that they never get beyond the stage of happy-go-lucky shutter clicking. They keep on making happy-go-lucky exposures at random, notwithstanding the photographer's best intentions. They would be surprised at what they could accomplish as a regular thing if they take a picture.

To be sure, exposure is a bit of a puzzle even to the most experienced, which is why so many "advanced amateurs" use exposure meters. But, if you are still a beginner, nothing prevents you from learning to be a good one before you take the problem.

Take the time again day soon to make an experiment with different stops and shutter speeds on the same subject. Have a pad of paper with which you can have written the date, time of day and light conditions and the type of film. Then for every shot you make, fill down the exposure data, No. 1, 2, 3, 4, etc. Make two series of exposures, like this, first with a group of persons, then with a landscape.

TAX FACTS

Ownership of a home is accounted the most precious of all possessions.

What forces so many families to give up their homes?

Taxes! Taxes cause the loss of more homes than any other one thing. Real estate taxes have become oppressively, shockingly, cruelly easy.

Of course, you don't escape the tax burden when you start paying rent.

One exhaustive study finds that four months' rent each year goes to pay the taxes on the property rented.

Who pays?

The landlord?

No.

The tenants.

Yet self-seeking authorities who love to spend other people's money, would have us believe that only the rich pay taxes!

LIFE STORY OF THE SCALLOP

For some weeks previous to his death, the late John A. Stephenson, was preparing a series of articles on the life of the scallop, for the Digby Weekly Courier. Only two days before the accident, which claimed his life, he had mailed these articles to his superiors for their approval. This week we are publishing the first of these articles, of which there will be nine in all. The introduction is written by Prof. Leim of the Biological Board, to whom we owe our thanks for his kindness in sending the articles to us. We are sure they will be read with interest by the hundreds interested in this great Digby industry.

PUNISHMENT COMING

It is going to be a hard winter, according to Charley Big Knife, Chippewa weather prophet, of upper Michigan, who claims to have a flawless forecasting record for 40 years. Buying his winter supplies at Marquette two weeks earlier than usual, he delivered himself as follows:

"Bear, muskrat, beaver, mink, loon and wild goose all say cold winter, and they do not lie. The goose went south early. The muskrat built his house in a hurry and the bear came out of the swamp to look for a place to sleep. Fish tell the same thing. The brook trout run up creek to spawn, not waiting for November. The frog has buried himself two feet in the mud, as in the winter of 1917-18."

Develops Giant Strength.

Scientists in Glasgow, Scotland, are speculating about Wm. Gallagher, who has suddenly developed the strength of a giant although he is only five feet seven inches in height. Last year he was hugging his wife when she fell to the floor in a swoon. He had broken her ribs. He was amazed and wondered if he was unusually strong. He saw a plough in a field near his home and lifted it with ease. Next he bent six inch nails with his fingers, then iron bars with his hands. In Glasgow he saw a motorist who was trying to change a tire with a jack that was too short. He lifted two wheels clear of the ground until a brick could be placed under the axle. When he walked away several burly men tried the same feat and could not budge the car. Apparently slight of build, the strong man says he does not know where his power comes from.

IN BED FOR WEEKS WITH BACKACHE

Quick Relief with Kruschen

It was advice from her mother that led this woman to take Kruschen Salts for her backache, and before she had finished the first bottle she was feeling better.

This is the letter she writes:—"About this time last year I had severe pains in my back and was prostrate for three weeks. I could not even rise in bed. I tried several well-known remedies, but to no avail. Then I wrote to my mother telling her of my trouble. She wrote to me by return of post urging me to try Kruschen Salts. I immediately bought a bottle and I can truthfully say before I had taken the fifth dose I could sit up. I kept on taking them and in less than two weeks I was about again. I am never without Kruschen now."—(Mrs.) A. G.

Unless the kidneys function properly, certain acid wastes, instead of being expelled, are allowed to pollute the bloodstream and produce troublesome symptoms: backache, rheumatism, and excessive fatigue. Kruschen Salts is an excellent diuretic for kidney aperient, valuable in assisting the kidneys to excrete acid impurities.

Clue in Boston Tragedy

Discovery on Winthrop Beach near Boston, Mass., of a woman's brown dress wrapped in a portion of a burlap potato sack spurred police investigators seeking to identify the dismembered body of a slain girl, whose legs were found floating in Boston harbor. Police began a tour of homes of all girls known to be missing in metropolitan Boston to establish whether the background of any might fit that of the girl. Dr. Brickley, medical examiner, has established tentatively that the victim was a young woman, no older than 30, that she probably was a dancer, an athlete or one who did much walking.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach, and you feel bloated. Bile enters the body and you feel loose, mink and the world looks pink.

A mere bowl movement doesn't always get the bile out. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you wake up in the morning. Bile enters the bowels and you feel loose, mink and the world looks pink.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND ASSOCIATED INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

THE DIET OF THE EXPECTANT MOTHER

Everybody knows that we need good food to keep us well, but within the last few years there has been an amazing amount of new knowledge about good food made available by research and study. We now know that certain kinds of food which have a pleasant taste and satisfy our appetites, and apparently do us no harm, yet do not keep us in good health because they do not contain special substances which are found in other foods and which we must have every day if we are to be in good health. These special food elements are absolutely necessary for us all, but they are particularly necessary for children, because if children do not get these food elements they will not grow, and as the expectant mother is really feeding her unborn child for 280 days before it is born, it is very important that she should be getting a good supply of these food elements so that she can give them to her growing unborn child and use them herself.

Stored up in the tissues of the body are great reserves of valuable food material, made from these special food elements. If the mother is not getting enough of these food elements in her daily food she is capable of supplying her growing child's wants from these valuable food reserves. But this means that she is robbing herself of very useful stores of material, which she needs and cannot afford to lose. So she may likely suffer from ill-health and her baby, though nourished to some extent by this sacrifice, will not likely have the good health and vitality he needs to develop perfectly after birth and which he would have had if his mother got the right food.

When nourishing mothers look pale, probably they have not had enough of iron in their food. Where do we get iron in our food? Chiefly from green vegetables. Bones and teeth are made from calcium and phosphorus. We get these from milk. But we must also have a vitamin or the calcium and phosphorus will not be built into the bones and teeth. This vitamin is called Vitamin D and we can get it in egg yolk, cheese, butter, animal fats, cod liver oil, and by getting out into direct sunshine. So mothers are advised to take these foods, to get out into sunshine as much as possible and to take plenty of milk—about a quart a day. Fresh fruit and fresh uncooked vegetables and cream are excellent. Iodine is helpful: it may be got by eating sea fish once or twice a week. Meat or fish once a day is advisable, and the mother may take with the exceptions mentioned below. Cooked green vegetables and other vegetables are needed. Cook not more than twenty minutes, using no soda.

Summary: The expectant mother should have every day, one quart milk, one egg, some fresh fruit, and fresh vegetables and other foods according to her own taste. Sea-fish and liver once or twice a week. Two teaspoonfuls of cod liver oil a day are especially good for her.

She should avoid fried foods, pickles, highly seasoned foods, and strong tea or coffee and should drink plenty of water between meals. Do not take any indigestive food.

The mother should choose food that she likes and make her meals varied and interesting. It is, better for her not to take much salt with her food. Milk should be pasteurized or boiled, and should be sipped slowly. Milk puddings, milk soups, junket, custards, ice cream and milk sauces will easily make up at least half of the daily quantity of milk the mother takes. Coffee should be the cafe au lait—made with an equal quantity of hot milk.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

The Fathers Criticized

Fathers of two 15-year-old Toronto boys were criticized by Judge Hawley S. Mott, the other day, when the lads appeared in Juvenile Court to answer charges of having robbed smaller boys of their Sunday School collection. The boys were remanded a week to allow further investigation. "You'd better waken up to your responsibilities if you want to remain in this country," said Judge Mott, when it was learned both boys are of foreign extraction.

It was always my favorite!

"You find REGAL best? So did I. It was always my favourite, and with six hungry children to feed I did a lot of baking in my day. Always gave them plenty of good home-baked bread, made with REGAL. They thrived, and I saved—for I never had a poor batch of bread all the years I used it."

by the Rev. A. G. Pentz, who gave a very earnest and illuminating address on the present financial situation of the funds of the church. This was followed by a retreat, conducted by the Rev. C. L. Blanchard, and these findings were recorded:—Lack of interest in missions due to lack of personal experience in Christ; the fear that money given to missions might cut down the givings to the local church needs; the need to preach money without any apology; the spiritual appeal necessary; emphasize the human appeal of our literature and the pictures of foreign lands put out by the church; the need of keeping pace with the changing times; invite friends to allow their usual Christmas gifts to be devoted to missions; prove Christianity as a Social Gospel in order to present it to foreign lands; unwillingness to pay the price expected in sacrificial service; point out the significance of the cross of Christ; the need of meditation and prayer. Hard times were mentioned as one reason for smaller contributions but this was thought to be more of a hard-time complex since most people seemed to have money for other things. Education re Christian missions among our young people was stressed, and the evident need when presenting the budget to particularize the various funds.

A generous supper was served by the ladies of the church.

A public meeting was held in the evening to receive the reports of the two commissioners to the General Council, Rev. T. E. McLennan and C. L. Piggott. Mr. Piggott gave a fine outline of the Church Organization and of the friendly, earnest and purposeful spirit of the Church Council. Rev. Mr. McLennan dealt with the interesting persons, who contributed so much to the splendid work carried on in the United Church of Canada.

A request from the Granville Ferry church for restoration to the Home Mission Fund was laid on the table till the new year.

FOR ROAD DIVERSIONS

The Canadian National Railways must contribute $2,000 to the Nova Scotia Government towards the cost of division of the highway in the Mulgrave subdivision at Auld's Cove, Guysboro County, by which two dangerous railroad crossings have been eliminated, the Board of Railway Commissioners ruled in Halifax this week.

Presiding over the session held in the Admiralty chambers of the Law Courts, was Hon. Hugh Guthrie, chairman of the Board, and with him on the bench were Commissioners Geo. A. Stone and F. Nap. Garreau.

On a second application of the Provincial Department of Highways, the Board ordered the Dominion Atlantic Railway to contribute $1,000 towards the cost of diversion of the main trunk highway at Clementsport, Annapolis County, by which one railway crossing has been eliminated and a second made less dangerous.

SUCCESSFUL FOX SHOW AT LITTLE BROOK

The Clare Municipality Fox Breeders' Exhibition at Little Brook, held Nov. 24-25, was formally opened by Dr. Melville Cumming. This exhibition was open to exhibitors from all parts of Nova Scotia, but practically all the entries were from Digby County. It was the second annual Fox Exhibition at Little Brook. The number of entries was 141, being about 20 per cent more than in 1935 and the number would have been considerably larger were it not for inclement weather.

Dr. Cumming complimented the people of Clare on the splendid growth of the industry which commenced in the year 1922, when a single ranch was established by the Hon. J. W. Comeau, who now operates the largest ranch in Western Nova Scotia. There are about 125 ranches in the Municipality, the value of which, including equipment, is estimated at about three-quarters of a million dollars. The proceeds from pelts sold from that Municipality will amount, for the current year, to approximately $100,000.

Dr. Cumming pointed out that one of the major problems of farmers in Nova Scotia was to find a cash crop source to supplement the ordinary revenue on the farm. Fox ranching provides this at a number of points in the province but nowhere to a greater extent than in Clare.

The judges at the Exhibition were Mr. Worth of Charlotte-town; and E. M. MacDougall, Secretary of the Nova Scotia Silver Fox Breeders' Association. These men complimented the exhibitors very highly on their prize winning foxes, but, at the same time, pointed out the importance of further attention to the selection of breeding stock on the part of many of the ranchers, if they hope to achieve the highest success. In concluding his remarks, Dr. Cumming stated that the Department of Agriculture was giving a leave of absence to Raymond LeBlanc, Agricultural Representative for the County, in order that he might take a laboratory course in the diseases of foxes, at MacDonald College, Quebec. Mr. LeBlanc is now President of the Fox Breeders' Association in Clare, and has done much to promote the organization of that Association, under which the Exhibition was held.

BAND NOTES

One night last week the members of the Civic Band were guests of Mr. Walker at the Bijou Theatre, where the splendid musical show "Breaker of Hearts" gave them a fine opportunity of studying the work of a great orchestra at close range, while it also demonstrated the beautiful tone reproduction given by the very excellent sound apparatus that has made this theatre so popular.

The Junior Band is now in full swing with two rehearsals each week, and everybody working enthusiastically. It comprises a flute, saxophone, six clarinets, two cornets, bass clarinet, baritone, trombone, two altos and three basses. Drums will probably be added. New members can be accepted for a short time yet. A saxophone, two altos and other instruments are still wanted and two instruments will be supplied to the players.

The scallop dragger Violetta C. Capt. Almon Parks, limped into port this week, after losing her rudder some three miles off in the Bay of Fundy from Digby Gut. Nesbitt—Cognwall

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Baptist parsonage at Digby, on December 1st, when Herbert Carl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nesbitt, of Ross, was united in marriage to Alice Maude May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Cornwall, of the same place. Rev. A. G. Robertson officiating. The bride and groom were attended by C. W. Cornwall, father of the bride, and his sister, Mrs. Jesse J. Cuttle, of Truro. After a few days' visit in Boston and vicinity the happy couple will reside in Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Tibert and daughter, June, Central Grove, visited Mrs. Tibert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wallis, this week.

Miss Dorothy Killam, of Yarmouth, was in town yesterday.

AN APPEAL

There are two children, a boy and a girl, ages 7 and 8. Please send all contributions to Court House on Monday afternoon, from 1 to 5 o'clock.

Stores Broken Into

Thieves Wednesday evening, or early Thursday morning were successful in breaking into the men's furnishing store of M. Webber, Water Street, and unsuccessful in an attempt to break into the South End Grocery store of K. E. Collins, Warwick street.

No articles of clothing were missed from the Webber store, the cash register, however, was riddled, and some $13 or $14 in silver taken. Papers in the cash register were piled in a heap on the counter. Mr. Webber states he had no bills in the cash register.

Entrance to the store was gained by breaking the door window, and an attempt made to open the door by turning the Yale lock on the inside, the door was further secured by another key lock, which they were unsuccessful in opening. They evidently entered the store by crawling through the broken window.

At the south end of the town, K. E. Collins, who lives upstairs over his grocery store, was awakened about 4 o'clock yesterday morning by the breaking of a large sheet of glass in his store door window. The would be thieves, made their escape.

B. Y. P. U. RALLY

MONTHLY MEETING OF TOWN COUNCIL

At Monday night's meeting of the Digby Town Council the resignation of Dr. Edward DuVernet, as medical health officer, was received and accepted, and Dr. W. R. Dickie appointed to fill the position until the end of the term. Dr. DuVernet resigned on account of his leaving Digby on a prolonged vacation.

On the recommendation of the fire wards, Burton Eisner was appointed licensed chimney sweep for the Town of Digby.

An application had been received by W. W. Hayden, superintendent of streets and water, for permission to use the road to Lily Lake for the purpose of hauling timber.

After carefully considering the matter the Council decided to leave the matter as it has been for years, feeling they had the interest of the water users to serve in keeping the road free from outside traffic.

The report of the superintendent of streets and water recorded making repairs to the abutment between Smith's Drug Store and Dakin's Hardware Store, and building a railing at the same place. The side walk on the east side of Water Street near the Power Board office, had been repaired. Two stop signs had been erected, one at the corner of First Avenue and Warwick, and the other at the corner of King Street and Warwick.

Extended until December 15, at the YATES STUDIO. 10 per cent on Portraits for Christmas. A great opportunity to get a fine photograph of yourself at a low price. 11-12c

WHY DOES ONE CITY PREFER LARGER TURNIP TO ANOTHER?

Why does one city prefer a certain size of turnip while another prefers them smaller? Probably custom has a lot to do with it. In the United States, New York and Pittsburgh are partial to them large, 4 to 6 inches in diameter. Boston likes her turnips medium, 3 to 5 inches, and Philadelphia, Cleveland and Baltimore smaller still, 3 to 5 inches. Canadian turnips from Prince Edward Island and Ontario are the preferred choice as compared with the domestic article because of their fine flavor and appearance. Canadian turnips are purchased by hotels and restaurants and by the average housewife while the domestic turnip is sold for the most part on local farm markets or to factories. New York and Boston are the main consuming centres for Canadian turnips, those from Prince Edward Island commanding the highest price in these markets. The market for Ontario turnips is Chicago, Pittsburgh and other interior points, being more accessible.

EARLY HISTORY OF TRINITY PARISH

Shortly after the arrival of the Loyalist in Digby, they began preparations for a church. The first church wardens appointed in the Town of Digby were James Wilmot and Col. Isaac Hatfield. The first vestrymen were John Roome, John B. Moore, Ebenezer Street, Thomas Bayeux, Jonathan Fowler, John Burckett, Thomas Devenport, Richard Will, Captain Patrick Haggerty, Dr. Christian Tobias, Dr. Joseph Marion.

They first met at the house of John Roome. At the second meeting a committee was appointed to prepare a memorial to the Governor, asking him to fix the bounds of their Parish, and a committee was also appointed to apply to the agents for the land allowed to the church in the grant.

A parish was immediately afterwards formed which consisted of a part of the township of Digby and was known as "Trinity Parish."

Public worship was first held in the house of Francis James. On the 26th of August, 1786, the Rev. Mr. Scovill assisted by the Church Wardens and Vestrymen inducted the Rev. Mr. Viets into the pastorate of the parish, on the church grounds.

He had removed to Digby in the beginning of July 1786, and received a salary of £25 yearly.

In the fall of 1786, the people had raised in money and promises of labor about $176 toward their new church. The government assisted them by a grant of £300, and Admiral Digby granted them £100 for himself and also raised another hundred among his friends. The bell of the church was also the gift of Admiral Digby. The corner stone was laid in 1788.

WORLD PEACE MAY DEPEND ON BRITAIN

There would be no general war in Europe if the pugilistic dictators there knew of a certainty that Great Britain would be against them.

Such is the view of Wickham Steed, London, England, in an able article in "The New York Times Magazine" of recent date.

He admits that the present European situation today is similar to that of 1914 but insists that it is not identical.

For one thing Germany had in 1914, by insidious propaganda, made sure that many Britons would be strongly neutral before she started to invade Belgium. That would not be true today.

Furthermore Russia is more united and far better prepared. Mr. Steed says that German officers today—if not the people—know that they would not begin to be a match for Russia—and Russia is for peace so that she may go on undisturbed with her plans for the development of her own land.

Common sense would say that Britain and France could take care of Mussolini and his supporters.

Steed claims it was a great stroke for peace when Britain, France and the United States jointly agreed recently on the rating gold should have in international exchange. It took a few bumps of conceit off the Dictators' heads to be shocked into the realization that big moves could be made—quite ignoring them.

Russians' relative invincibility and Britain's new preparedness and spirit augur well for the peace of the world—to say nothing of what is going on to unify the western hemisphere.

LOTTERIES AND RAFFLES

Complaints come to the Social Service Council that in certain communities in the province raffles, lotteries, drawings, are being prompted by various organizations and individuals. For the information of persons interested, we may note that the Attorney General has repeatedly called the attention of Chiefs of Police to their duty and the duty of all peace-officers to see that the provisions of the Criminal Code are enforced and observed. Their attention was particularly directed to the provisions relating to gambling. "Because," said the Attorney General, "the practices which they prohibit are not only illegal but injurious to the best interests of the community and especially to the young."

The Criminal Code forbids the following:—

1. Promoting or taking part in any scheme for the disposal of property by lot, card, ticket or any mode of chance whatsoever.
2. Making printing, selling or offering for sale any such lot, card, ticket or similar device.
3. Conducting or managing any scheme or contrivance to determine what lots, cards, tickets, numbers are the winners of prizes or property by any method of chance.
4. Disposing of goods or merchandise by any mode of chance or mixed chance and skill.
5. Operating wheels of fortune, punch boards or gambling devices, or including others to risk money in any such operations.

For Charity

There is a provision in the Criminal Code relating to gambling and lotteries which permits "raffles for prizes of small value at a bazaar held for any charitable or religious object". The moral sentiment of the best citizenship of Canada is not in favor of this provision and steps are being taken to have it expunged from the law. It is unethical, and it covers with a cloak of religion and respectability an "insidious vice". It is pleasing to the professional gambler and faker.

But, there is flagrant violation of the law as it stands. It allows only the selling or buying of numbered tickets or coupons for a drawing "at a bazaar held for a religious or charitable object". It will thus be seen that the law has been violated by those who have been inducing people to buy tickets with the understanding that the holder of the lucky ticket will get a prize.

We claim that individuals and organizations should observe the law and assist the churches in teaching that:—

1. Raffles and Drawings of any kind or under the guise of religion and charity degrade the idea of voluntary giving.

INVESTIGATION OF THE SCALLOP FISHERY OFF DIGBY

By John A. Stevenson

No. 2—Major Phases of the Problem.

I said last week that the main purpose of the scallop investigation at Digby, during the past two summers, was to supply answers to the two most important biological questions that there are about the scallop fishery: "Why are scallops so plentiful at Digby?" and "How will the fishery fare in the future?" It should be mentioned here that the Biological Board, which has conducted the investigation for the Digby fishermen, is concerned neither with marketing problems nor with the enforcement of regulations. Its function is solely in the purely scientific end of the question, and today, I shall endeavour to outline the main problem to be solved in greater detail.

It is to the decided interest of every Digby scallop fisherman, to know that there will always be plenty of scallops in the Bay of Fundy in the future; and I believe that everyone is anxious to know whether or not there will be. Therein lies the major part of the problem. If it proves possible actually to predict just what sort of fishing the scallopers are going to have, even a year from now, then an investigation such as that which has been conducted is surely worthwhile! But the investigation has gone further than that; not content with merely attempting to arrive at a method of prophesying the fishery, it has sought to explain just why the fishing does vary from year to year. Every year, prodigious quantities (in 1934-35 somewhere around twelve million) scallops are raked up from the bottom of the Bay of Fundy. It stands to reason that if the fishery is to survive, all those scallops that are raked up must somehow be replaced. Just how are they replaced? or are they replaced at all? Do these Bay of Fundy scallops manage to hold their own, in spite of the incessant, intensive dragging, by spawning every year such vast masses of spawn that the beds will never be depleted? Then again, supposing all this dragging does actually deplete some of the beds, how long are you going to have to wait before a new batch of young scallops has grown big enough to be caught? How fast do the scallops grow? When do they reach a spawning size? It is perfectly obvious that the scallops, if they are to produce spawn which to replace depleted beds, must be allowed to grow at least up to the spawning size, and must be allowed to spawn, before they are ever caught; otherwise they will not have even a chance to replace themselves.

These then, are some of the major phases in the problem that confronted the Biological Board when they first undertook the investigation; and I am happy to say here that considerable success has rewarded their efforts. The results of these efforts will be discussed in this series during the next few weeks.

GOOD BONES AND GOOD TEETH

Best Teeth and Best Bones in children of Scotland found in "Black Houses" of the Island of Lewis. Mothers live on equivalent of cod liver oil and sea fish. Breast nursing universal. The island of Lewis is the largest of the outer Hebrides. It is a relatively barren land whose inhabitants live in "Black Houses" and subsist chiefly by fishing.

A leak house is a low, rectangular building constructed of flat unceasing drystone, thatched with turf or straw. The walls about 7 feet high are double, and the space of 6 inches between the two tiers of wall is filled with earth. The thatched roof overlaps the inner but not the outer wall, and has but a slight incline from the middle. A high-pitched roof would not withstand the winter gales and a projecting eave would be only an invitation to the wind to snatch the roof off. In the winter gales of 1921, which swept the sea over the outer isles, the roofs of many more modern houses were blown off but none of the black houses was damaged. A few of the latter have a chimney; in the majority the neat smoke gets out as it can through the thatch. The only entrance, and that usually through the attached byre, and the closed windows, if there are any, are on the lee side.

The interior is covered with a layer of carbon from the peat fire hence the name, "Black House".

The interesting thing about these houses is that the children born under their roofs have the best bones and the most enduring teeth to be found north of the Tweed. These children, until they are at least 3 months old, never cross the threshold. Outside Stornaway, there are no perambulators and yet in 1923, according to the registrar-general's report, the infant mortality in Lewis was only 28 per 1000 births—one of the lowest in Europe. For the same year the corresponding rate in Glasgow was 90, in Edinburgh 82 and in Aberdeen 104. Rickets was unknown and Dr. Sutherland, the writer, says that, he has never seen healthier or more beautiful children.

The secret of the good bones, teeth and healthy character of the children of Lewis is that their mothers before the children are born live largely on a diet of sea-fish including the livers, which in the case of all sea-fish, great and small, are filled with the equivalent of cod-liver oil. The men eat the same fare. When a couple of men go out to the line-fishing they take with them two large scones. As soon as a fish is caught, the liver is cut out, sliced and placed between the two bannocks. These are placed on a seat of the boat and one of the men sits on them. At the end of an hour considerable of the oil from the liver has been expressed into the scones. This is eaten by the men; they are eating bannocks saturated with the purest and freshest cod-liver oil. At home the women fare similarly.

Maps Voyage in Canoe

When a newly built canoe was found tied to a tree on an estate near Glasgow, Scotland, it was taken to a police station. It was claimed by its owner, 26-year-old David Forman, of Gavan, who said that he built the canoe in the wood. He will test the boat along the coast, and if it proves seaworthy will paddle it to France. From there he will go to the Mediterranean to visit his lands. After finding his craft at the police station he named it Jail Bird.

The most urgent need at the present time is uniforms for the Guides, and after some discussion it was decided that very presentable tunics might be made of flour bags with the aid of a few packages of navy dye. In consequence this is an SOS to the community at large, in inviting donations of flour bags, which would be gratefully received by any of the Guides themselves, their leader, Mrs. Robinson, or any of the following ladies of the Association: Mrs. James Hubley, Mrs. Wilson Jefferson, Mrs. F. Miracles and the Christ Child

By Katherine Edelman

IN THE far-fung land of the west the Christ Child had been waiting for Christmas usually mild although it was near Christmas now the weather was bright and clear, almost spring-like in its mildness.

Everywhere that the message of the Christ Child had reached, men and women were busy and happy preparing for the great day, a new and added joy of life surging within their hearts. Into each home there had come a strengthening and rejoicing of family ties as a new birth of love and service that reached out even beyond the home.

Out on the reservation, however, the Indians went about their tasks as usual, for on the night of the wonder and the glory of the Christ Child time had yet come to them. And it felt a little something in the air at this time, they understood it not at all, for the brightness from the Star of Bethlehem had not yet burst upon them.

Moonlight Brook was very lonely—she had only little Silver Star, her daughter, with her now—the big chief had sent Strong Oak, her husband, with other braves, on a mission to the distant village. And Moonlight Brook had missed him every hour, for their love was still burning as bright as the big camp fire that blazed near the teepees at dusk.

Her love of the great open spaces helped to cheer her during the long hours of his absence. Every day with little Silver Star she wandered afar. In these lonely places that she went there always came to her the sense of some unknown presence—the hand of some great power.

Early one morning Moonlight Brook called little Silver Star to her and told her that they would go for a long walk, away up to Roaring Creek. Moonlight Brook was lost in wonder at the beauty of the scene, but a great and sudden change had come over the day. Now, looking at the lowering, threatening sky, she decided that she must make all possible haste back to the village. For with the darkness and the gloom that had come over all there had come, too, from across the prairie a low menacing wind that carried with it at times small, dry snowflakes.

With Silver Star in her arms Moonlight Brook started in the direction of the village, walking with the swift, strong stride of the woman who lives much in the open. The snow now was coming down in large flakes and the wind had grown blizzard-like in its velocity. Hoye was not doing within her, for she was trembling from exhaustion. Then overpowered nature did the thing which she had tried long to keep from happening—she sank to the ground. Her last thought as she felt consciousness leaving her, was the blanket closer about little Silver Star and to wait a prayer to the Great Spirit to take care of Strong Oak when she was gone.

But the prairie has many stories to tell of strange things that have happened there, and on this day there was added to the list another of those coincidences which happen often in real life than some would have us believe. For Strong Oak and his party came by the creek's edge at the very spot where Moonlight Brook and Silver Star lay a short time after they had sunk exhausted.

Some of the men had tried to take the other trail, but something within him that strange, unknown force which comes to all at times, made him choose the Roaring Creek trail instead and he found his loved ones and with the help of the guides they reached the village in safety.

A few hours later, Moonlight Brook and Strong Oak sat hand in hand, the ecstatic happiness of being reunited surging within them. Moonlight Brook whispered over and over that it was a miracle that the Great Spirit had wrought that Strong Oak should have found her. And Strong Oak told her while he had been gone he had heard the story of the Christ Child who had come upon earth on this day, and ever since has been called Christmas. As Moonlight Brook listened to the beautiful story that has been told so much, which keeps its thrill through the ages, she felt that this day was indeed a day of miracles, for, like her braved husband, the story brought her a wonderful peace and stilled the restless longings which had come to her so often in the past.

Our Christmas Days as They Used to Be

SOMETIMES it seems as if the "older days" were the best. Think of their Christmas! Where is the grace and generosity of those times? The warm welcome, the large cordiality, the mellow fun of innocent celebrations?

Perhaps we look back through the softening glow of distance, but there is a romance, a delicate, fine flavor of something which indeed seems lost to us now.

How the neighbors rode through the snow on horseback to large gatherings! How the pretty girls were muffled in rugs and furs, skimming over the roads in sleighs! How the bells rippled and rang! And how the wide doors flew open to greet these guests!

Light of candles... breath of pine wreaths... sprigs of holly... and the high thrill of holiday thoughts.

Laughing faces... graceful and the Virginia reel in the evening. It is a heartsome thing to think about. Let us try to insert some of this gentle beauty and spirit into our Christmas day. We have not the leisure and spaciousness of those times, but hearts can reflect just as truly the invisible yet invincible power of love and loveliness—Martha B. Thomas.

Old Yuletide Hymn Favorite Everywhere

HERE is scarcely a church of any denomination that does not sometime during the Christmas season echo to the strains of that beautiful and soul-inspiring hymn, "O, come all ye faithful." It seems to be a favorite at Yuletide in every land and in every clime, whether it is sung as above referred to, or in its original form as the "Adeste Fideles."

The hymn was first given to the world in the Thirteenth century by a Franciscan monk, but did not gain world-wide popularity for a long time after. The English translation was made by Canon Frederick Oakley over sixty years ago. Since that time the hymn has been translated into the language of every nation and the custom of singing it at Christmas time in many remote places.

But while the English translation has superseded the original Latin to a great extent, yet the beauty of the original composition is such that there are many who still prefer to hear it, even though the language is not their own.—Katherine Edelman.

Receiving Christmas Gifts is a Fine Art

OF COURSE, every gift given means also a gift received. Christmas always has two sides, and certainly there is great joy in receiving the tokens of love and friendship that come to us, not because of their monetary value, for most gifts are bought for small sums, but because they convey to us an expression of someone's affection. I heard a young girl remark when a little gift came to her, "well, that didn't break anyone's bank." What a pity. As if Christmas could have in it great joy for anyone who looked for the price tag on a gift. Our character is likely to be revealed by the spirit of our receiving quite as well as by the spirit of our giving. It is this fine art of receiving well that will not only make Christmas the more joyous, but will give us an abiding spirit, if it is cultivated in our hearts.—P. H. Sweet.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor of the Courier.

Dear Sir:—As a Past-President of the Kiwanis Club of Digby, permit me to express through your columns, my personal disappointment in the announcement made in the Courier a short time ago to the effect that funds available from the Kiwanis Club, lately disbanded, would be given to the Scout Hall management.

The Kiwanis Club members are under a moral obligation to see to it that all monies raised for work among the "underprivileged" are used for that purpose alone. "Will ye rob the poor?" What happened to the Amateur Contest money raised especially for work among the underprivileged?

The enlargement of the Community Hall is a worthy object for the town, but I do think the Kiwanis Club would be better advised to spend all available funds on the poor and thus fulfill the purpose for which the Club was formed.

Faithfully yours,
Albert E. Gabriel

(The writer of the above should have been the last one to ask where the Amateur Contest money went. He was President of the Club last year and must know that every dollar of that was spent for Christmas Cheer for the underprivileged. The money handed to the Community Hall had been raised principally in membership dues. Probably if Mr. Gabriel had remained in the Club instead of resigning the same week his successor was installed into office, he would have been better informed on the Club's contribution to the Community Hall.—President Kiwanis Club.)

WHAT THE WORLD NEEDS

Edison, the inventor, said, shortly before he died, "This country has gone already too technologically. Our next job is to catch up spiritually."

We hear it on all sides, from educators, statesmen, yes, and from scientists. "What the world needs is a revival of religion and loyalty to its institutions." With this thought in mind, we pass along the following which was copied from an esteemed exchange.

One man was heard to say to another, "I can't stand it to go to church and see people there who dodge their bills." The other said, "Probably you don't go to lodge or to an uplifting movie for the same reason. I consider a church to be a training school for character rather than a domicile for professed saints. Although by some standard, every man has his faults, generally speaking there are two classes of people: those whom Christ particularly needs to keep His Church going, and those who need the church. Of course it is probably true that in a sense, most of us are in both classes." But then, the final test of the validity of any excuse for not attending church, is, "how will it sound when a few days or years hence I give it to Him who gave His life for this institution might live and prosper."

Men will ever despise hypocrisy but it should not crowd out their love of, or duty to their Maker.

Boys don't go to school because they know it all, nor men to church because they consider themselves already perfect. Some boys have played hockey because of boy, they thought well of did. Others go completely to the devil for lack of strengthening because they stayed away from church, following in the steps of some fairly good man in the community who wouldn't go to church because some imperfect people did.

One man has said, "The mocker at religion repeats tales of hypocrisy and of weakness of the confessors of it, and thus treats logic ill. The fruit of the tree is not to be judged according to the wormy apple on one of the boughs. To judge by fault alone is the greatest fault. Of many tests of merit, this is the best."

that if the thing brought forth for judgment ever had been, would conditions be better or worse or unchanged? In the measure of this test, religion has been the greatest single boon to mankind.

DR. L. J. LOVETT TO HEAD FISH AND GAME ASSOCIATION

The sixth annual meeting of the Annapolis and Digby Fish and Game Protective Association, was held Thursday afternoon of last week, at the Memorial Town Hall, Annapolis Royal. The following officers were elected:—President—Dr. L. J. Lovett, Bear River; Vice-Pres.—George N. Reagh, Middleton; Secty.—Treasurer—Vernon Harris, Bear River; Directors—Dr. S. B. MacGregor, Smith's Cove; R. S. Hallet, Weymouth; T. E. G. Lynch, Digby; A. J. Burns, Bridgetown; Mayor Arthur Kelsall, Annapolis Royal; delegate to the annual meeting of the Provincial Association, Dr. Lovett; alternative delegate, F. H. Hatheway, Bear River. Rev. A. W. L. Smith was previously elected honorary president for three years.

The meeting was presided over by the retiring president, L. M. How, of Annapolis Royal, who presented a splendid report, in which he expressed regret of the death of Warren L. Harris, an esteemed and active member of the association. After expressing the hope that something might be done to revive interest in the association, Mr. How gave a statistical account of the game killed during 1935, and deplored the illegal killing of moose and jacking of deer. He favored a bounty on bears, which are reported increasing, and said that while woodcock and partridges were holding their own, ducks were more plentiful. Lakes had been restocked, he said, and closed till 1937, and dams placed in several streams.

The retiring secretary, Mayor Kelsall, read some correspondence regarding the appointment of fishery guardians and reports of the annual meeting at Digby and an executive meeting, and in moving their adoption, Mr. Hatheway complimented the secretary on the excellent reports. An address of much interest was given by J. D. MacKenzie, M. L. A., who thought that more attention might be given to the word "protective" and members and licensed guides should do their duty to make protection effective. He compared the number of killings from an account dating from 1908, and with the proof of these figures was confident that there are as many moose as ever. He also commented on the growing sentiment to preserve moose for sight-seeing instead of killing, and in closing, assured the association that as the representative of Annapolis County, he would respect its wishes and support its views.

W. C. L. Dargie, of Round Hill, Chief Forest Ranger, declared the past season a record one, in respect to the scarcity of forest fires, and in his summary of the game situation, said that while there are arguments for both sides, he saw no convincing proof of the need of special protection for moose and deer, and contended that the establishment of sanctuaries was preferable to a close season.

In his report on game birds, F. H. Hatheway said he had never seen as many woodcock anywhere as he had in his district this year, and reported the same situation in regard to partridges, therefore he saw no reason now for a closed season.

Fred M. Millet, of Middleton, reported on hatcheries, and he thought there would be more fish in the coming season than last year, but urged that the Association take up the matter of better protection, especially in Salmon Lake.

A discussion on several points of legislation and enforcement of the game laws was carried on by Frank Dittmars, Mr. Hatheway, S. G. Parker and Mr. MacKenzie, and after a vote of appreciation to the officers of last year, the meeting adjourned until last evening, at Digby.

The account of last night's adjourned meeting will appear in next week's Courier.

Order of Good Cheer.
The Order of Good Cheer held its monthly meeting and dinner in the Oddfellows' Hall, Thursday evening last, with the Rebeccas catering. Kenneth P. Harris was the speaker.

Entertained Young People.
Mrs. Arthur MacKenzie was hostess to a number of young people on Monday evening. Mrs. J. A. Ruffe poured and assisted in serving were Mrs. Ernest Atkinson and Mrs. Jack Pickels.

Could Not Lift Arms Above Head

Owing to Painful Rheumatism

This woman suffered from rheumatism in her back, arms and legs. For two months, she endured this painful condition, then, like many another sufferer, she decided to try Kruschen Salts. Read her letter:—"About fifteen months ago I had rheumatism in my arms, back and legs. The pains in my arms and legs after getting warm in bed were almost unbearable. I was like that for two months, and could not reach above my head. I heard so much about Kruschen Salts that I thought I would try them. I am so glad to say that for more than a year I have not had the slightest return of my rheumatism."—(Mrs. H. E.).

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently due to deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen Salts assist in stimulating the internal organs to healthy, regular activity, and help them to get rid of this excess uric acid.

Please Note These Errors.

In the hurry of going to press with two of the pages of the present issue the "proofs" of the advertisements were not corrected. One was that of O. F. Woodman, again Bridge. In his ad, the price of Cream Candy should be 19 cents (not 10); and Oranges should be 23 cents a dozen (instead of 20 cents). The other correction is in the Power Board ad, where the price of the Usher Telephone Clock should be $4.95 instead of $12.25.—There are several errors in spelling in L. W. Jones' ad (Weymouth), but they do not spoil the sense of the ad.

Although every night a 3000-foot beam of light is thrown in to the sky by a 14,000,000 candlepower beacon at the Empire Exposition in Johannesburg, South Africa, no one can see it. The climate is blamed. All the clouds see on a cloudless night is the glow of the stars, even when the light is fully switched on.

Ernest Clarke

On Thursday of last week Mrs. Minnie McKenzie received word of the death of her brother, Ernest Clarke, who passed away in Lynn, Mass., that morning, after a short illness. The remains were brought here on Tuesday for burial on Wednesday from the home of his nephew, Earl McKenzie. Besides his sister he leaves a brother, James Clarke, of Granville Beach, and two nephews, Roy and Earl McKenzie.

Mrs. Jacob V. Robblee

On Friday morning there passed away at her late home, Mrs. Isaline Robblee, widow of the late Jacob V. Robblee, after a year of failing health. THINKS STERILIZATION WOULD AID

Speaking of the problem of sub-normal children, Rev. A. J. Prosser (agent of the Children's Aid Society of Annapolis County, declared at the annual meeting of the Society in Annapolis Tuesday night of last week, that sterilization would not cure all such ills, but it would be a great help in reducing the numbers of dependent children which in turn may become both a social and financial problem from birth.

Presiding over the meeting was Rev. T. E. MacLennan, the president, and there were a large number of members present. Following is the list of officers and committeemen presented by the nominating committee appointed at the last executive meeting:—Hon. President, Rev. Canon Underwood; President, Rev. T. E. MacLennan; Vice-President, Mrs. F. F. Smith; Treasurer, Miss Hilda King; Secretary-Agent, Rev. A. J. Prosser; agents without salary, Mrs. Prosser, J. A. Myers, A. L. Robbins; executive, above named officers (excepting Mr. Robbins); Dr. L. B. Braine, Mrs. W. R. Smith, Mrs. G. C. Douglas, Miss Gertrude Anderson, Daniel Owat, K.C., Kenneth S. Smith, Boyd Barteaux and the resident pastors of Annapolis Royal and Granville Ferry.

Because of the obvious difficulties in having an executive from over the whole county, the following committees were appointed for outside districts from which the executive will always be glad to receive suggestions and recommendations: Bridgetown—Karl Freeman, K. L. Crowell, C. L. Piggott, J. I. Foster, J. A. Myers and the resident pastors of the town; Middleton—mayor of the town, president and secretary of the I. O. D. E. and Women's Institute, and the resident pastors of the town; Lawrenceton—president and secretary of the Women's Institute and the resident pastors; Clementsport—Capt. Elias Rawding, Mrs. Howard Peter, Mrs. S. McNinch and the pastors of the village churches; Bear River—President and secretary of the Women's Institute and pastors of churches; Deep Brook—president and secretary of the Dorcas society, Rev. F. E. Bishop and pastors of churches. Statistics were given of the placing of the 158 children delivered to the society since its organization, to November 30, 1936, of which 22 are still being maintained.

A special tribute was paid to J. I. Foster, of Bridgetown, who has resigned after many years of faithful service as treasurer and before the close of the meeting Mr. MacLennan presented a hearty vote of thanks and appreciation to Mr. Prosser, who for fourteen years, has labored incessantly for the upkeep and accomplishments of the society.

THE MOST USEFUL MEN

Who are the most useful men in your town? This is an interesting question and not easy to answer.

In my opinion, the most useful man is the one who brings in the most money from outside the town.

The most useful man in a seaside resort is the one who has the largest hotel and brings in the most visitors.

In an industrial town the most useful man is the one who sells most goods to outside customers.

From the point of view of prosperity, no man is more useful than he who brings in the most money from outside. Certainly he adds most to the wealth of the town.

In second place I would put the employer, who gives work to most people. He does much to help the rank and file in his town.

In third place I would put the man, rich or not, who is most interested and active in promoting the welfare of his town as a whole. He is the best citizen. He suggests improvements—better lighting, cleaner streets, better railway service, new parks and so on.

It is a wise town that knows and appreciates its most useful men. — (The Efficiency Magazine).

CHRISTMAS SEALS

All over Nova Scotia committees are hard at work launching the annual little messenger for tuberculosis sufferers. The Tuberculosis Christmas seal will travel far and wide to carry its message of hope and help.

To help eradicate tuberculosis is to improve the health condition of the community at large. Every case neglected means cases multiplied, while every case cured means prevention.

It is within the power of all to help bestow the gift of good health and one way to do it is to send Christmas Tuberculosis seals on every Christmas letter, so that these cheery little messengers will go forth to all parts of the world. They will carry a Christmas greeting of goodwill and will also "let the world know" that you are interested in the work and are alive to the importance of tuberculosis prevention in your own community. Strengthen the hands of those doing their utmost for this worthy health campaign. Buy your Tuberculosis Christmas seals early—and buy lots of them.

Chevalier of the Legion of Honour and one of the greatest living authorities on the Arabic language, Father Anastase Marie de Saine Elie, of the Carmelite Order, has forewarned the world, and although he is a member of a dozen learned societies he has vowed never to speak again. He is 72.

Cheap World Tour Ends

INVESTIGATION OF THE SCALLOP FISHERY OFF DIGBY

By John A. Stevenson

No. 3.—Background for the Study —Previous Knowledge

Of all fisheries on the east coast of Canada, none has had such a rapid rise as the Digby scallop fishery. Starting in the year 1921, when Richard Wornell was one of the first to exploit a bed of scallops existing in the Annapolis Basin, in fifteen years it has grown to truly great proportions. Directly and indirectly it now supplies a means of livelihood for well over 600 people, and in the year 1933 the catch for the Bay of Fundy was valued at the amazing figure of $149,623.00, which increased during the subsequent winter to well over $200,000.00. It is a wonder that both the Canadian Government and the people of Digby want to take the right steps to ensure the perpetuation of an industry like that? Yet most surprisingly, until the present investigation was started, the knowledge about the subject of the fishery, the lowly scallop, amounted to practically nil. The Digby scallop-fishermen could tell you fairly accurately when the spawning season occurred, and very accurately just where the scallops were most plentiful. But knowledge of the life-history of the scallop, of where the scallop came from, of how they came to be so plentiful off Digby, and how fast they grew, was entirely lacking. And without a smattering of such knowledge, it is sheer foolishness to attempt methods of conservation—of ensuring that the fishery should last.

The Dominion Fisheries Statistics tell the story of the rise of the Digby Fishery very well. It is a story of steadily decreasing price which, of course, is to be expected of any price-trend when the supply is increasing. There was a rapid increase in landings from 1920 to 1922, a drop till 1924, and then another rise until 1927, when the landings for the Bay of Fundy were valued at $176,296.00. However, yet another drop occurred from 1927 to 1931, a drop that reached a low of only $26,685.00 (1931), and is largely explained, I understand, by a peculiar scarcity of scallops. In 1932 though the landings began to rise again and since then, the fishery has been a story of amazing progress, the landing of scallops having increased to height never before realized. True, more boats have been added to the fishery, and they have fished further and further afield; but in addition, the scallops have most certainly come back in their former numbers again, sufficient to support the increasing depredations of the enlarging fleet. How did they come back? And what was the reason for the fluctuations in their numbers? Both these questions have a direct bearing on the fishery in the future and are part of the present problem. But before we discuss them, it is necessary to know something of the life-history of the scallop and this will be the topic for discussion next week.

Girl Buried Alive

Buried alive by a mother-in-law, a young woman of Anhwei, China, was rescued by a soldier at Liu An, a small town. The soldier was passing when he heard weird sounds. He ran away in fright, but returned with a spade. He dug up a coffin, pried off the lid and discovered the girl, who was struggling feebly and moaning.

Convicts battered a guard with their tea mugs during a mutiny that broke out in the prison at Horsens, Denmark. The revolt started when they found that the cook had forgotten to put sugar in the tea served for their breakfast.

HAVE YOU TASTED BOUILLABaisse?

Have you ever tasted Bouillabaisse? Do you know off-hand what it is? In case you don't, the story goes that there were once two old fishermen in the ancient seacoast town of Marseilles who very nearly came to blows in a dispute over the best way to cook perch and sturgeon together. Both made the attempt and one claimed that he had concocted an unforgettable dish. He told his friend how to make it and ended up with this: "E: quand cela commence a bouillir, baisse le pot au feu", meaning the minute it boils take it off. And so we came to have Bouillabaisse.

Bouillabaisse is still a favorite dish in France and also in New Orleans. But nowadays perch and sturgeon aren't all that go into its making. In fact, a French cookbook claims that he more varieties of fish you put into it, the better it will be. With more than sixty varieties, of fish and shellfish available Canadians ought to be able to make the perfect Bouillabaisse! An excellent version can be made by using only salmon lobster small whole herring and bits of haddock. Why not try it for yourself? Here is how:

Cut up these various kinds of fish into very small pieces. Then heat a little olive oil and cook some seasonings in it for a few minutes. (Parsley leaves a little onion and a few cloves will do). Then add the fish and cook for a few minutes longer. Next cover the fish with boiling water or, better still, with stock made from fish heads and bones. Simmer for half an hour. When the fish is done, place thick slices of bread in a large vegetable dish and pour the fish stew over the bread. This dish has been known to intoxicate strong men with happiness!

She Dreaded Going Upstairs

Woman's Fear of Rheumatic Pains

One of the many troubles that afflict rheumatic sufferers is the difficulty of getting up and down stairs. Such was the case with this woman, before she started taking Kruschen, but now she finds it no trouble. Read what she says:—

"I have been taking Kruschen now for over 12 months, a half-teaspoonful in hot water first thing in the morning, and I feel a new woman. I had very painful rheumatism in my legs and back and also my head, was getting very bad. I used to dread walking upstairs, now I am very thankful to say it is no trouble at all and I scarcely have any pains. I feel better in health than I have done for years."—(Mrs.) C. M.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are rotatable for their work in dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients of Kruschen assist Nature to expel the dissolved acid from the system.

PICTURE WORTH $2 FREE

A handsome engraved photograph of H.M. King Edward VIII is waiting for you at your druggist's—a picture every home will proudly frame. Free with the purchase of a bottle of Kruschen Salts. Supply limited—get yours now.

HEALTH

A NEW IDEA

"I am almost afraid to have this baby." Here are these words in the expectation mother's letter and we must attend to them.

Tell the people. But there has been so much about maternal mortality in the newspapers and magazines that no wonder the mothers are afraid. They are afraid because they only get hold of a general indefinite idea that a great many mothers die at the time of child-birth. Now that is not true. All good doctors know that mothers should not die at that time, and if only the mother goes to the doctor in time, as soon as she thinks perhaps she is going to be a mother, and keeps on going to see the doctor regularly, and does what he tells her, generally speaking, she is safe. Pre-natal care is the greatest safeguard we have. Last century (and it is the same now), doctors used to feel that they ought to have at least one thousand maternity cases without losing a mother and a great many of them succeeded in making this good record both then and now. And they make better records now. Our national record ought to be better and we are all trying to make it better and now we have a new idea about how to make it better.

The greatest single cause of maternal mortality is what used to be called child-bed fever, or puerperal fever or puerperal sepsis. In Canada it causes about one-third or more of all our maternal mortality. But, remember, very few mothers have it or any other trouble at the time of the birth of the baby.

In 1931, Dr. J. Smith, of Aberdeen, City Hospital Laboratory, made a study of 21 cases of puerperal fever and was able to find the germs which caused the fever in 18 of these cases. He also found out where these deadly germs came from. Most of them were the common germs that are found in common colds.

In a few cases he found that the germs came from the patient herself, sometimes from her nose or throat. In 12 cases the germs came from the throat or nose of the doctor or nurse, or one of the medical students who attended the case.

This gave us a new idea. We saw how to prevent puerperal fever. We now examine the noses and throats of all maternity patients and likewise of all their attendants and nurses so as to make sure that they are free from these dangerous germs, and we make other searches for germs. And the doctors and nurses and others who are near the mother at the time of the birth wear a little gauze mask as an added precaution. The hospitals where this is done do not have cases of puerperal fever. This can be done in the home just as well as in the hospital. So when the mother sees her doctor and nurse come into her home at the birth of the baby with a gauze mask tied over her nose and mouth, she does not say, "Is there anything the matter with you?" She says "It is all right—I know you are wearing that for my safety. Thank you." Great care is taken by everyone in attendance on the mother to be perfectly clean and to keep the hands and nails perfectly perfect—no scratches or sores. Sterilized rubber gloves are worn. No one with a cold is allowed to enter the mother's room. Other precautions are also faithfully carried out.

The doctor can tell the mother to be "afraid to have this baby" and we can all stand by the doctor. He is right.

Obituary

Norman W. MacLean

At midnight, on Tuesday, the 24th, Norman W. MacLean, passed quietly away at his home in Grand Manan, after an illness of several months. Mr. MacLean was born in Bridgewater 73 years ago, coming to Bear River with his parents to live, at the early age of six. When a lad of fourteen he went to Grand Manan and has made his home there ever since. He has always been an active church member and took a keen interest in the community and business enterprises. For several years he served as county councillor and his unfailing interest in the entire island gained for him the love and respect of everyone. His chief business during the past years was a general store, until his failing health compelled him to retire. The funeral service was held from his home and was conducted by Rev. H. C. Archer, a personal friend of the deceased for 45 years. His text "For he was a good man," was very fitting. The large attendance of relatives and friends proved the esteem in which he had been held. He is survived by his wife; a sister, Mrs. J. H. Berry, Bear River; two daughters and three sons, besides several grandchildren.

EVANGELINE DOLL FOR SHIRLEY TEMPLE

It is a far cry from Acadia to Hollywood, and it is a question as to just how many of the residents of the movie colony could tell just where Acadia is supposed to be or what it means, or know anything of the story of Evangeline. But at any rate there is one bright star of the colony who is able to tell the story upon and down the Boulevard and across the movie lots, as a result of the action taken recently by the women of Meteghan, Digby County, for Shirley Temple, juvenile darling of the screen, has been presented by the Women's Institute of Meteghan, with one of the latest "Evangeline" dolls, to be added to the little star's famous collection of dolls from the many countries of the world. Along with the presentation, went the story of Evangeline, and something about the beauty of the land where the Acadia's pioneered, and where now the world's best apples are produced.

Needless to say Shirley was highly delighted with the gift, and did not hesitate to say so. Her letter of acknowledgment was sent to the Nova Scotia Exhibition, through which medium the gift from the Meteghan women was sent.

The doll, presented to Shirley was one of the many hundreds of Evangeline dolls, in the traditional costume, turned out by the Women's Institute members at Meteghan, where the making of the dolls has developed into a considerable community industry. His development was instituted under the direction of Miss Helen Macdonald, provincial director of Women's Institutes, and the women have become adept at the art. More than 45 dolls have been made to date, and disposed of in many parts of the province to tourists and others, providing a welcome source of income for many of the women of the district.

FRED J. MAY The Book Shop

To The Boys of The Ridge

This time it is "Hello" to Goudy Nichols, Duncan MacKay, Sam Woodman—and particularly that good old pal, Frank Woodman. It's been a long time since I've seen you boys, but as a result of my writings through the Courier I have had several letters from old friends.

I have not always mentioned your name in particular, Frank.

Thirty were present at this meeting and it was learned that over fifty women have signed their desire to become members. A temporary committee and officers were appointed, these being:

President—Mrs. E. A. Ferguson.
Secy-Treas.—Miss C. M. Carr Committee—Mrs. McNevin, Mrs. Stockford, Mrs. Melanson, Mrs. Glidden Campbell, Mrs. Arch. Thurber, Mrs. Dunkley.

Material is to be bought, cut out and distributed as soon as possible, and the work done at home. There will be no further meetings until Wednesday, Jan. 13th, when the finished work will be collected and sent to the hospital; new officers and committee will then be elected; further plans and arrangements discussed and more work given out.

It is earnestly hoped that anyone willing to help with this splendid work will get in touch with a member of the committee or any member of the D. H. A., who will be glad to give any information about work and see that material is supplied for sewing. Please do what you can, be it little or much. The dues are only 50 cents a year—less than 1 cent a week—but any donation, either of money or of your time, will be gratefully received.

as my previous letters have always carried my very best regards to all—and I mean by that everyone in the old valley and around the Ridge road, and the Shelburne road. And it includes, too, that good family of yours on the Digby road, close to the VanTassel place.

That calls to mind the old lane leading down to the shore where we used to gather seaweed. There, too, were those fine seaweed pebble rocks folks would gather and place around their flower gardens. Then, there was the sandy beach where we could look and laze all through the summer season, and into the fall. It made a wonderful place to hold a picnic—as I'm sure you will remember.

A little further beyond, near your father's place, at the time of which I write, were the teaberry grounds, and I trust Frank, that the teaberry vines are still there.

I'm hoping to have met great pleasure of my day paying an extended visit to that locality. I am visiting with all the old boy friends—and maybe we can call on a good friend, "Gimpy" Saunders. Boy like, but with all due respect to him, we called him "Gimpy" because he had one short leg. As I remember, he lived about a half mile beyond your place on the Digby road. This was about two miles from the Conway school and near the "ick yard," and if my recollections are correct that is about where my cousin, John Nichols lives. This would be about half a mile from Aymer's Corner.

Well, friend Frank, I hope you've checked up on my writings, and in doing so that you remember I've been, envisioning some of those good old days of fifty years ago.

I would get a great deal of pleasure out of hearing from you, either by personal letter or through the Courier. From the many communications I have had from many old friends, it has surprised me to find how many of the recollections of the old days. Many are scattered all over the globe, but, like myself, they enjoy reflecting on early days and, too, they have real enjoyment in word from the boys and girls down here.

My interest reached a new height some two years ago, following receipt of a letter from my cousin John. I subscribed for the Digby Courier at that time and it has been a wonderful treat to read the old home news and find the names of old friends in the paper from week to week. Because of this I feel I've grown younger and stronger in devotion to the memories of my boyhood friendships. I can hardly describe it in any other manner. And it is the reflection on those old home ties that cause me to write you today. So, good night, Frank—and good night, boys.

Bobby Nichols

Ramblings of a Rolling Stone

Has some unchronicled cataclysm paralyzed the pens of M. G. T. and G. R. T.? For months I have searched the columns of the Courier in the hope that one or both of them would break the long period of silence and we would be made glad by further reminiscences and by more of the vivid pen pictures of the people with whom they came in contact and of the places they had visited.

Just about every time I decide to impose on the patience of the editor and trespass on the space in his interesting paper, we on this coast, seem to be the throes of a strike. This time it is the longshoremen, the masters, mates, seamen, cooks and—well if any group has been overlooked I crave the pardon of all concerned.

As a result of the strike, all the mills which ship their product by water, are shut down. The only ones operating are those mills which are situated too far inland to make water shipment profitable and route their product to market by rail.

Just how long this state of affairs will continue would be impossible for one to guess with any degree of assurance that the hazard might prove a correct one.

In the mean time Mr. and Mrs. John A. Public and family are paying the piper without any hope that their uncomfortable seats as wall flowers will be changed for the hilarity of the ball room floor.

A few years ago a group of local men became sufficiently interested in oyster culture to invest in a shipment of Japanese oyster spat. Success has crowned their efforts to an extent undreamed of at the time the venture was launched. The vision of yesterday is the reality of today. This year the industry has reached the million dollar mark in only its infancy.

Last spring about a dozen men of this town embarked on a peagrowing venture. Choosing a piece of grass-covered "tideland" (and subject to flooding at high tides) as the scene of operation they planted twenty-five acres to peas; and when the crops were balanced at the close of the season it was found that they had made a net profit of ten per cent on their investment. Next year they are planning to plant much larger acreage and hope for a large per cent of profit, as much of the initial outlay for this year's crop will not be required next year.

Christmas season draws on apace. Already the shop windows are taking on a holiday dress. The red and blue, the silver and gold of the toy departments are attracting the eye, and attracting the attention of the young hopefuls. I have about decided that my grandson shall have a trumpet with a truly stentorian voice. His mother is not wholly wedded to the idea, but grandpa is somewhat "set" in his ways, and I fear the voice of the trumpet will soon be heard in the land.

I saw the "Thunder and Lightning Believe It or Not" in the last Courier. Well, we can bet that. We have a drought accompanied by forest fires, dried up crops, ungerminated wheat, and dandelions in bloom. I started a while ago to wish the editor and staff a Merry Christmas; but as usual I got side tracked. Lest something throws the switch and gets me off the main line again I will hasten to extend to you all The Season's Greetings.

This Safe, External Treatment Helps END A COLD Quicker

The 3-Minute VapoRub Massage

Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with a cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.
2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute—direct to the irritated air-passages.

During the night, VapoRub keeps right on working. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets
This safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can't be absorbed, as often as needed, even by the youngest child.

Mrs. R. Thibault, of Hectanooga, who is 80 years of age, had the misfortune to slip and fall a few days ago, breaking one of her legs.

Shortage Fear Ended.
That the day is approaching when the Irish Free State need not fear bread shortage in time of war or in any other emergency is the announcement of the government's agricultural experts. Wheat crops and yields have been increasing steadily. A prize was offered for the best three acres of wheat grown in Leinster. It was won by a Carlow farmer, P. McDonnell, who grew three tons to the acre.

Fancy Work for Christmas.
All kinds of Fancy Work will be on sale at the Annual Christmas Tree and Sale by the ladies of the United Church, on Thursday next. A delicious supper for 50 cents.

Jewish Holy Day Ushered In.
The Jewish holiday Hanukkah was ushered in at sundown on Tuesday throughout the world. It commemorates the release from bondage of the Jews more than 250 years B. C. A feature of the observance which lasts all week, is the lighting of a candle by the head of the house, each night, starting Tuesday with one, two on Wednesday, three last night, and so on until eight are burning.

Tigers Deserve Place.
Tigers have besieged the village of Hsuwlin, in Kwantung Province, China, for month, and the inhabitants declare that sixty men, women and children have been devoured. A number of families have departed, taking their possessions with them. Those that remain close and bar the doors of their houses every afternoon and at night, and at other times gather in groups. Recently a housewife saw her neighbor walk into his kitchen, and soon afterward watched a tiger drag his body away and make for the hills.

COMMUNITY TO BE OPENED WITH AMATEUR PLAY

Digby's new Community Hall will be opened on Tuesday of next week with an amateur play "His Uncle's Niece", which will be presented by a strong local cast. The entire proceeds to go toward the Community Hall fund.

In our opinion the Community Hall project is one of the most worthwhile that has been advanced in some time, for a real Community Hall has been needed in this town for many years, and those who prompted the repairing of the original building, which has been used by the Boy Scouts, are to be congratulated for their enterprise. The building had reached a bad state of repair, and is now practically as good as new.

As we understand it, one night a week is reserved for both the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides; other nights are open for any community project, and a small fee is to be charged for these community objects until the repairs and remodeling are paid for. We urge that all attend Tuesday night's play.

FARMERS' ASSOCIATION
At the annual meeting of the Digby County Farmers' Association held in the Court House, last Saturday afternoon, J. Oakley Turnbull, of Digby, was elected President of the Association.
Other officers elected included the following:
Vice President—Louis Boudreau, Mavillette.
Secretary-Treasurer—H. A.
A. R. Turnbull and S. S. Aymar were appointed as auditors.

S. F. Comeau, Comeauville; H.
F. Hatheway, Bear River, and Lloyd MacNeill, Marshalltown, were appointed delegates to the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association, and Camille Deveau, of Meteghan; Frank Dimars, Deep Brook; and Goudy Nichols, Acaciaville, as alternate delegates.
Two important resolutions were passed as follows:
"Whereas the sales of registered Swede Seeds depends directly upon the maintenance of high standard of purity and quality, and whereas it is important that purchasers of registered Swede Seed have every possible assurance of the purity of the stock purchased, and whereas there are many practical difficulties in farmers' seed retailers maintaining the purity of seed sealed in large containers, and later retailed in smaller lots, resulting in loss and disappointment to the ultimate purchaser; therefore be it resolved that this association, namely the Digby County Farmers' Association, urge the Dominion Seed Branch in the revision of the Seed Act, and regulations thereunder, provide for the sealing of all registered Swede Seed in packages not larger than two pounds.

Another resolution reads as follows:
"Resolved that this Association go on record as favoring any movement that would tend to increase the interest of pupils at Rural Schools in all problems appertaining to farm life and Agricultural Practice, and that a direct request be made to the Department of Education to include such subjects in the course of study."

the Eastern Coastal Steamship Company's motor ship, "Elizabeth Cann, was taken to the Digby General Hospital Monday evening, where, now, his condition is reported favorable.
Shortly after 9 o'clock Monday evening, Arnold went to go ashore from the Cann, which had docked at the "T" of the Government Pier Spur. Believing himself to have a straight road along the pier, he had only gone a short distance before walking off the western arm of the "T".
Falling a distance of some fitteen feet, he struck on the deck of the pile driver into the icy wharf, and rolled off into the water. He was rendered unconscious by the fall.
Although the man was unfortunate in walking off the pier, good fortune was certainly with him when he rolled off the deck to the pile driver into the icy water—his arm pit caught one of the heavy hawsers which made the pile driver fast, and held his body above water until help came.

Dr. W. R. Dickie was summoned, and ordered the man to the hospital, where an X-ray examination revealed no bones were broken, although Arnold was badly bruised and shaken by his fall and immersion.
The Elizabeth Cann is one of the coastal vessels making runs between Bay of Fundy ports and Saint John.

Mrs. Harvey Marshall, who has been spending the last few months at the Commercial House, Bear River, has returned to her own home.

Pastor's Wife Ill

General sympathy goes out to Rev. T. B. McDormand, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Amherst, (formerly of Bear River) because of the illness of Mrs. McDormand, who was obliged to enter the Kentville Sanatorium for treatment, a short time ago. Every encouragement is given by medical advisors that her condition is such that she should make a complete recovery after a few months' special treatment. The report of the annual meeting of the Amherst Church indicates the progress the church is making under Mr. McDormand's leadership.

Pansies in Bloom.

Mrs. L. E. Haight picked some pansies on December 13, from the garden of Beatrice Haight, in North Range.

Banks and schools observed the king's birthday on Monday. For the most part other places remained open for business as usual. It is understood some business places intend giving members of their staffs a day off after the New Year.

B., early in November, was obliged to enter Spring Hill Hospital for surgical treatment. It is reported he has sufficiently recovered as to be able to carry on work in his new field. The Oxford church has been fortunate enough to secure the services of Rev. F. E. Bishop, of Deep Brook, as interim pastor.

Mrs. E. E. Chalmers, Bear River, was in town on a business trip this week.

Of Local Interest

Christmas Tree

The B. Y. P. U. of the Acaciaville African Baptist Church, held their Christmas tree and social in the church last Friday. A delightful evening was spent. Santa Claus distributed the gifts to all the members present. The programme closed by singing "O Come All Ye Faithful".

New Fire Chief

At a special meeting of the Digby Fire Department held Wednesday evening, the resignation of Fire Chief Harry Hersey, was received and accepted. Stewart Winchester was appointed Fire Chief to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation. Mr. Hersey has been a member of the Digby Fire Department for 36 years, serving in the capacity of chief for many years during that time.

Christmas Cheer.

The Brotherhood of the United church, who have undertaken to provide Christmas Cheer to the underprivileged children and families of the town and vicinity, have, so far, been very successful in their appeals for assistance. About $50 have been paid to the committee as well as a quantity of groceries, fruit, clothing, books and toys. The committee is meeting this afternoon in the Town Hall to see what clothing is in need of repairs, and to lay out the work of distribution.

Here Comes Charlie!

The play "Here Comes Charlie," put on by an amateur cast at the Bijou Theatre, in aid of the Hospital, Thursday evening of last week, was remarkably well rendered and won sincere and hearty applause from the audience. Unfortunately, on account of very poor advertising, the house was only about two-thirds filled—something very unusual in Digby as an amateur play generally fills the theatre. Each character was well taken—in fact, we cannot see where they could have been improved very much.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Collins left on Saturday for Lunenburg, where they will spend a short time.

Obituary

Marion Gladys Muise

The remains of Marion Gladys Muise, accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Eugene Muise, who has been with her since she was taken sick, two months ago, arrived at Digby from Portland, Me., yesterday morning. Requiem Mass was observed at St. Patrick's Church this morning, with Rev. Father Murphy officiating. The late Miss Muise was born at Digby, August 7, 1903, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cyril W. Muise. Before leaving for Portland, Me., where she joined the staff of the Portland Evening News, some seven years ago, she was cashier on the staff of the Digby Weekly Courier. Her death occurred in Portland, on Monday of this week. Surviving are three brothers, George and Frederick, of Digby; and Eugene, of Toronto, also one sister, Mary, (Mrs. M. A. McGouldrich) Peak's Island, Me.

Mrs. Thomas Fader

Word was received this week by George Muise, of the death of his aunt, Mrs. Thomas Fader, at Lynn, Mass. Deceased was born at Eel Brook, Yarmouth County, and was a former resident of Yarmouth. Funeral took place at Lynn, Mass.

Edward Percy Hanson

The death took place at the Yarmouth Hospital, on Nov. 26, of Edward Percy Hanson, aged 75 years. The deceased, who had been ill several months suffering from complicated diseases, was taken to the hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate one of his limbs; due to his advanced age, he failed to rally from the operation. "Ned" Hanson had spent many years as cook in the employ of H. T. Warne, in this town, and was a well known Salvation Army worker. The funeral service was conducted from his home at Tusket, Yarmouth Co., with Rev. Mr. Wright of Acadia assisted by Adjutant Hiscott, of the Salvation Army, conducting the services. Hymns sung were "Rock of Ages", "Lead Kindly Light", "Some Day the Silver Cord Will Break", and "The Christian's Good Night" at the grave. Surviving are his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Roy Sweeney, and two grandchildren, all residing in Tusket.

DOGS SHOT WHILE HUNTING

It is understood that owners of hunting dogs will demand an investigation into the alleged shooting and wounding of their hounds while hunting in the Mt. Pleasant area. Hunters in this district, while hunting rabbits, have, on recent occasions, had their dogs badly shot up—and the opinion the shootings are by no means accidental.

One group, while waiting for their dog to circle with a rabbit, heard a shot, followed by the agonized yelping of the dog. Before they could start off to investigate, another shot was fired. After a long search, finding no trace of the animal, or the person who fired the shot, they returned home to find the dog had reached home ahead of them, his forelegs and hips filled with shot.

Another animal returned home Monday afternoon, shot through the chest, at apparently close range.

Mrs. Almon G. Parks, of East LaHave, spent the week end with her husband, Capt. Parks.

Immunization Is Urged By Halifax Doctor

"I feel it is my duty to recommend to you for its great worth and to urge you all to help spread this gospel of diphtheria immunization at an early age," Dr. Kenneth P. Hayes told the Catholic Women's League, at Halifax, at a meeting early this week. "Children should be immunized between the ages of six months and five years," he declared.

Over 80 per cent of all cases of diphtheria occur in children under the age of 10 years, he said. 64 per cent of children affected are under five and 80 per cent of all deaths from the disease are under five. Against these statements came evidence of proof that an overwhelming number of persons who took the treatment became immune.

The speaker characterized the Public Health Clinic as pioneers in the immunization of hundreds of children in Halifax and pointed to the fact that since 1931, when the School for the Blind began treatment not one case has developed. Not a case had been seen at St. Joseph's Orphanage since 1933 when 150 children were immunized by the Dalhousie Clinic.

"Why run the risk of getting the disease at all when one can be protected by such a simple and effective method?" Dr.

Hayes concluded. A demonstration in immunization with movies was presented by Miss Edith Fenton, of the Dalhousie Public Health Clinic.

(Diphtheria immunization is being advocated in all parts of Canada with great success in the treatment. It is now being considered by the local doctors and Victorian Order nurses for our town).

THE INDIVIDUAL VS. THE STATE

An unnoticed line in a newspaper account of the great preaching missions in Boston suggests the worldwide strife between two systems of government. The dominant note of the sermons of the mission preachers was "consideration of the individual rather than the world about him." This illustrates the British and American system in contrast with that of Italy and Germany where the individual has sunk into insignificance and the state is supreme. This shows that the Christian concept is akin to democracy and the converse of this statement is proved by the irreligious tone of the German dictatorship. Religion flourishes under democracy. For a reason which should be deeply studied, communism is thoroughly irreligious and fascism is hostile or indifferent to Christianity.

To this system of individualism Canadians should cling desperately, or we shall lose our liberties. We believe that government is made for the individual. Under it he should have every opportunity for self development. He should have the right to self expression and his decisions should be respected as long as they are not anti-social. This is the glorious system under which we have all grown up. It tells each and every one of us to go ahead and develop his faculties to the highest. Let him compete with everything which he has against his equally free neighbor. Development of character will come with acceptance of the result, whether defeat or victory. Our system designed to help the individual, means freedom, aspiration, full expression and success.

Germany, for the sake of unity against imaginary enemies which have no desire to seize her territory, has given up everything which we know as liberty in order to make the nation one mighty force with Hitler as its spear head. In Germany or Italy the individual is nothing, the state is everything. There is a certain force in this kind of government. The old Germany approximated this model. Good observers felt that the unified autocracy of Germany could overcome the looser democratic organization of the Allies in the World War, but it proved otherwise. The strength of democracy is underestimated. There is a real force in freedom, which finally triumphed in the World War, although it was at a disadvantage.

Rich Man Wants Wife.

Only about 5,000,000 girls in Central Europe are eligible to be the wife of a millionaire bachelor of Austria who set forth his specifications in a "want ad." He received 10,000 replies in a few days, says a Vienna report. Here are his wants: "I wish to select for marriage purposes a girl, preferably from countries formerly parts of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. Desirable are brunettes of medium height, not over-developed and not too thin. Poverty and moderate school education are no obstacles. But she must be a girl with an immaculate past and not more than 25 years old. She should be pretty, honest, healthy and good-tempered. I am 43 years old and have a fortune of about $1,000,000."

to Retiring Officers—Financial and Other Reports

At the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Digby, held at the Court House, here, Friday evening, the report of the Treasurer, Dr. J. S. Actually, the Society, with all its bills paid, closed the year with a small credit in the year's operations. Total receipts for the year amounted to $102.46.

Dr. Thomas W. Hodgson, who has been the society's president for the past two years, also at a previous meeting, asked that a successor be appointed, and before the close of the meeting votes of thanks and regrets were extended to Dr. Hodgson.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two quarts of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Bile is the natural solvent for the body, and you feel sore, weak and the world feels like a burden.
A new bowel movement does not always get you up. You must remember that waste on the liver as well. It takes those good old people of bile to get you up. very hearty support and encouragement which I have received from the president, officers and members of the society during the past year.

In addition to regular work which has its connection entirely with the Children's Aid Society, we are often called upon to make investigations regarding cases which are not directly connected with child welfare, but are concerned more particularly with that part of social work relating to what is termed "family welfare."

During the past year we have been called upon to investigate cases from Seattle, Washington, Detroit, Michigan, New York, Boston and other parts of the U. S. A. We have also had cases from Vancouver, B. C., Montreal and other places throughout Canada.

During the past year we have taken as wards of the Society six children, making a total of 98 since the Society was first formed. Of these, 25 are in boarding homes, 7 in institutions making a total of 32 which have to be provided for by the Society. Of the other 66, 30 are in free foster homes, 15 have been returned to their parents or guardians, 2 have died and the others have reached their majority or are supporting themselves in such a way as to be no longer a charge on the Society. In addition to the six children taken as wards we have arranged for the care of several families through the help of the Overseers of the Poor in such a way as to prevent them becoming a charge on the Children's Aid Society.

Our correspondence, as usual, has been much and varied and we have visited our wards regularly, and in company with Miss Sarah Allen, of Halifax, and Dr. Brison, the provincial psychiatrist, made a special examination of all our boarding homes and had a number of children examined by Dr. Brison.

The conference of agents of Children's Aid Societies which was held in Halifax last April, was very helpful. We were able to come in contact with other agents and received suggestions from them regarding their method of handling certain problems, which has been a great help to us in caring for cases of a similar nature.

We were much encouraged by the visit of Mr. Blois, director of child welfare. Mr. Blois spent a number of days with us, being present at a meeting of the Society at Digby, and also at Yarmouth, and spoke very encouragingly of the work being done by the Society.

Our problems during the past year have been as usual—many, and have been in most cases reported at the monthly meetings and such action taken as the executive committee advised, and we feel that much good has been accomplished which will be of lasting benefit to the entire province.

The regular monthly meetings of the Society have been well attended and very keen interest has been manifested in all phases of the work by the members, and on the whole we feel that our endeavour for the betterment of Society has been worth while.

At the last session of the Legislature the Children's Protection Act was amended to such an extent that the method of taking a child as ward of the Society is very much more difficult than formerly. It is now necessary to take a child before the County Court Judge where formerly any magistrate could hear a case, under the Children's Protection Act.

There are many other amendments and changes to the Act that were passed and have become law which have a tendency to make the work of the agent more difficult and more perplexing.

Again thanking you for your whole hearted assistance during the year past.

Respectfully submitted,
AUSTIN L. ROBBINS

WHEN Christmas comes to Shanghai, a cross-section of the world makes holiday. The average Chinaman fails to get the meaning of it, but such a few are beginning to do so with one more celebration. So the Chinese himself adds to the din with fire-crackers and gift-giving parties and the making of gifts.

There is a distinct western touch to the observance of the season in this most cosmopolitan city. Shanghai's "social register" starts plans for dinners and dances as early as the middle of November; immediately reservations are checked off on the calendars of ballrooms and restaurants. The exact form of observance varies with the nationality divisions of the city. In the Russian section the day is observed as it is on the steppe or in Moscow. The French greet Santa Claus in their own way, even though the wax dolls have to be brought far from the Champs Elysees. The Japanese prefer to make merry by drinking sake. The English must have their plum pudding and holly.

At the mission schools, where boys and girls are taught in separate classes, Christmas carols around the tree give modest school girls a chance not only to understand but to enjoy the holiday.

In interior China, however, most of the people prefer to celebrate their own "Dragon Boat, Mid-Autumn, and New Year holidays rather than this "imported" one. They do not even try to understand the meaning of the holiday. To them December 25 is just another day—Frances Grinstead.

Made Best of Worst of Christmas-Time Mishap

THE snow began nearly a week before Christmas and when the great day arrived, folks were trying to remember the time when it didn't snow in Morton City. Barnes, the only merchant, had put off getting his shopping supply so there were no gifts in town to be bought for love or money. But when news got about that the train down on the railroad siding was snow-bound in Morton City, old and young sort of forgot about the lack of gifts. Too the president of the road with his party had a special car on the rear of the snowbound passenger, and wasn't that a great honor indeed?

Folks got over the novelty of their visitors in time for the organization of a huge choir of carol singers that went down to the train and paraded through the length of the coaches, even to singing for the chef and the porters and, of course, all the train men. They had remembered to take along a tree decorated with the makeshift ornaments they had on hand from previous years. But somehow they made a great hit with all the strangers who lolled heartily in the fun.

The passengers dove into their baggage and brought out boxes of candy, candy but not the fancy soap and bath salts, highly perfumed, beautiful towels and even lovely baby clothing, wearing apparel and jewelry. In fact, not a soul in the little settlement was without one of the treasured gifts. The passengers received old-fashioned roasted fowls and all trimmings of a generous feast. What one hath not, the other hath, seemed the most terse explanation of the happy condition!—Luella B. Lyons.

ON HIS WAY

"Green—Going away this Christmas? Wile—No, but I guess I'll go away right after Christmas.
Green—Where to?
Wile—To jail as a bad debtor.

"It Is More Blessed to Give Than Receive"

HIS has nothing to do with banks or savings accounts; but more money is saved at Christmas time than any other time of the year. Yes, saved. That may sound absurd to a lot of people who have spent all their money buying presents for their families and friends and neighbors, but it is true just the same. How? Why, because giving is the finest sort of saving, and not only saving, but investing. Every good gift is a permanent gain to the giver; it is better than a bank book carrying the same amount, for a gift is more truly a saving than credit account on a bank ledger. If you want to save your money, give it away—wisely. Does that sound unreasonable? Remember, it is more blessed to give than receive.—F. H. Sweet.

"Where's your 'gwine'?" was the question, as Erasmus passed by with a good-sized Christmas tree. "I've been where I 'gwine," was the rather enigmatical answer.—C. G. Hazard.

The Women's Institute

On Wednesday afternoon of last week the regular December meeting of the Smith's Cove Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. John Smith, with the president, Mrs. Edward Payson, in the chair.

A large number of members were in attendance. After the regular business and reports from different committees plans were made for the distribution of Christmas cheer.

A pleasant feature of the afternoon was a prettily decorated Christmas tree with a gift from each member suitable for a child, the unwrapping of which made all feel they were children again. These will later be added to the Christmas boxes.

At the close of the meeting dainty refreshments were served and a social half hour was enjoyed over the tea cups. Mrs. Geo. Wightman and Miss A. B. Cumming were hostesses.

The January meeting will be held with Mrs. Charles Greene.

Celebrated 95th Birthday.

On Monday Mrs. Jonas Rice, Smith's Cove, "grand old lady", celebrated her 95th birthday, by being "at home" to her many friends in the afternoon and evening. Her daughter, Miss Jennie Rice, received the guests. She was assisted by Miss Florence Berry. "Aunt Louise" as she is known by her many friends, presented a lovely picture as she received her guests in her charming way, a way which endears her to all who come in contact with her.

She enjoys one of life's greatest blessings—wonderful health, and attends to her various household duties, the delicious birthday cake served having been made by her. She reads without glasses and, indeed, looks years younger than she really is, one guest having been heard to remark: "Are you sixty-nine today?" to which she smilingly replied, "You will have to guess again."

Delicious refreshments were served. Mrs. Rice received many cards, letters and gifts, among them being a bouquet of chrysanthemums from the Smith's Cove Women's Institute.

Miss Margaret Banks, accompanied by Russell Millie, of Halifax, were week end guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Banks.

Why Christmas Day Comes

on the 25th of December

CHRISTMAS, which seems to have been first officially instituted as a church feast day by a decree of Theodosius, between 142 A. D. and 154 A. D., was a movable feast. Indeed, it was the most movable of all the Christian festivals. It was usually celebrated by the eastern branches of the Christian church in April or May, while in the western part of Europe days in January or other months were observed as Christmas.

In A. D. 336 St. Cyril, bishop of Jerusalem, obtained from Pope Julius I authority to appoint a commission to determine, if possible, the precise day of Christ's nativity. From the chronological archives of the Roman caesars, establishing the times of occurrence of certain events of the same period as the Roman government of Palestine, the theologians of the eastern and western divisions of the Christian church agreed upon December 25 as the date of the birth of Jesus, and thereupon this became the officially decreed and generally accepted Christmas day.

INVESTIGATION OF THE SCALLOP FISHERY OFF DIGBY

By John A. Stevenson

4. The Scallop's Early Life-History.

To look at an unexciting animal like a Bay of Fundy scallop, you would hardly imagine that its life-history would be at all interesting. Yet it is; it reads like a fairy story. And once its major secrets have been revealed it throws great light on dozens of other questions that are concerned with the fishery, both directly and indirectly.

As most Digby scallop fishermen know, the spawning season of the scallop is in the summer time. At that time, the developing eggs in the females appear reddish, and the milk in the male creamy white; and the gonads, or reproductive organs of both, swell considerably. Although the eggs appear red as early in the season as the end of March or the beginning of April, it is very doubtful if actual spawning takes place before June, because the eggs are not ripe until then, and no young scallops, just spawned, were found during the scallop investigation until well on into June. The height of spawning seems to take place during August and by the 10th of September it is practically over and done with. At this time the gonads of the scallops lose their opaque red or white color and become limp and relaxed and quite transparent.

When the scallop spawns, it throws its genital products directly into the water surrounding it and fertilization takes place actually in the water. The reddish eggs are so small that they cannot be seen separately with the naked eye. They tend to sink to the bottom slowly, but if there happens to be any sort of current or eddy in the water, it is sufficient to keep them from settling on the bottom, and they may even be brought right to the surface. Off Digby, as the scallops well know, the tidal currents are exceptionally strong and it is very doubtful if any eggs at all have ever a chance to settle on the bottom as they are whirled along, wildly, by the submarine hurricane.

A butterfly will lay eggs on a leaf and sooner or later the eggs will hatch out tiny caterpillars, which will eat up the leaf, and grow large, and finally change into what is called a chrysalis. And later on, out of the chrysalis will break forth another full-fledged butterfly! And so it is with the young scallop. The egg is laid in mid-water and develops into an apparition that bears not the least resemblance to the full-grown scallop and it is not at all difficult to imagine that this in no way eased the problem that confronted the Biological Board, when they undertook to ferret out the whole story of the scallop's life-history. Next week, however, I shall try to describe what they found.

Women's Hats

Funny; Harken

Back, Men!

The time seems to have come for a serious, heart-to-heart talk about the feathers on women's hats, says the Montreal Herald.

There are feathers that go straight up, feathers that take a sideways, and feathers that take a perky jab to the south-west.

Some of them emerge from little slap-dash affairs of hats and some of them are the crowning glory of tall but shabby edifices of felt and fabric that would make a Zulu chieftain proud.

Some women look very elegant in them and some, alas, look like nothing human; and the harassed male once again gets a chance to announce that there is something fundamentally off with which with a sex and periodically goes in for such irrational adornments.

For it comes in waves. Every so often some natural law or other makes it necessary for women to adopt a hat style that is just naturally gosh-awful, and we seem to be on the verge of one of those periods right now.

There is nothing for it, probably, but to dig in, hope for the best, and wait until the hat fashions decide to let up on us again.

Do you ever get out the family photograph album and take a look at the snapshots of 1910, which show mother moving about uneasily beneath a sky-scraping conception of feathers, flowers and preserved fruit? Or do you, by any chance, recall the era of the Merry Widow?

But if you do remember these things, and you are a man, you might do well to pause and reflect before announcing that women have a monopoly on odd styles.

Dig out that family album once more and study the hats you yourself wore back in the far-off pre-war days. Remember them—those flat-crowned, narrow-brimmed hats that tried to make sober men of affairs look like innocent lads on the way to Sunday School?

And do you remember the collars that were in vogue at that time—those three-inch-tall things that looked awful, felt awful, and were well-nigh impossible to fasten?

And how about the rest of the outfit men used to wear. Surely you can remember the era of peg-topped trousers, when the male form was ennobled by pants that were 18 inches too wide across the hips and six inches too short at the ankle? And the buttoned shoes with fatty tumors on the top of the toes? And, heaven help us, the floppy sailor style breeches of post-war years?

The male has scant reason to point the finger of scorn? He togs himself out in some pretty weird duds now and then. If women follow queer styles occasionally, they at least never went in for the fad of letting their socks slip down carelessly around their ankles.

The truth seems to be that these changing styles victimize us all. We are not the rugged individualists we like to imagine ourselves.

Instead, male and female alike, we are regimented within an inch of our lives by the stylists—and all we can do is take it and try to like it.

Obituary

Catharine Potter Austin

There passed away in Smith's Cove, last Saturday morning, one who was almost the last of "the oldest inhabitants" of that village, leaving but one or two remaining contemporaries of her age and generation. Mrs. Robert Austin, widow of Captain Robert Austin (who died in 1931) and who had reached the last quarter of her 91st year. It would be difficult to convey to the young people of the present generation the full meaning of a life like hers, her childhood and girlhood having been spent under the very different conditions prevailing in the middle of the last century; and whose influence on her neighbors, her family, her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, has been one of long and unending usefulness, goodness and kindness in every relation of life.

Catharine Isabel Potter was born in the old Potter homestead which still stands, unoccupied, in the heart of Smith's Cove. Her father, the late Edward Potter, who also lived into his nineties, will be remembered as for many years postmaster of the community, a position which he handed down to his son-in-law, Capt. Robert Austin; and he in turn to his daughter, Miss Frances Austin, who is the present postmistress. Catharine's mother was Abigail Sully, sister of Capt. George Sully. Aunt Cassie's recollections went back to the days before motor cars and electric lights—indeed as far back as the days of open fireplaces for cooking, and candles for lighting—days when the highroad was more sparsely populated than at present—when neighborly kindness often involved caring for the sick, watching by the dead, or, in an emergency, presiding at a birth. In all these services of love Mrs. Austin would be called upon and never failed. Is it surprising that such a personality, who lost of friends and will now be sadly missed? She continued active in her own household until the age of 88; and always it was a pleasure to hear her talk of the old days, and of the leading personalities who figured in them—all of whom, for the matter of that, contributed an influence to this community which has given to Smith's Cove that individuality, and peculiarly friendly atmosphere, which is remarked today even by strangers who come to sojourn in it. Mrs. Robert Austin was the mother of ten children, only four of whom remain. She leaves, however, twenty-seven living descendants. The surviving relatives are a sister, Mrs. T. Oscar Morgan, Smith's Cove; four daughters, Mrs. George Weir, Mrs. Mark Longworth and Miss Frances Austin, all of Smith's Cove; and Mrs. Augustus Brooks, of Weymouth; eleven grandchildren: Harold, Carl, Grace, Robert, and Elizabeth, Weymouth; Mrs. Jennie Brooks Adams, of Connecticut; and Mrs. Frances Brooks Kierkegaard, New York; Reginald Weir, Digby; Mrs. Edward Payson, Smith's Cove (nee Jessie Weir), Miss Katharine Weir and Donald Longworth, of Smith's Cove; and 12 great-grandchildren, the children of Mrs. Payson, Reg. Weir, Mrs. Kierkegaard, Mrs. Adams, Carl Brooks and Harold Brooks.

The funeral services were held on Monday afternoon in the United church, Smith's Cove, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Hodgson, assisted by Rev. A. W. L. Smith, of Clementsport, and the Rev. C. E. Rockingham, of the Baptist church. Interment was in the family lot in the Sully cemetery in Smith's Cove. Such personalities as this "Mother in Israel", whom her many descendants and friends mourn today, are not soon forgotten. Her own immortality being assured by her Christian faith, she still remains to them that other immortality "which lives again in lives made better by her presence".

LOWER GRANVILLE

Miss Helen Porter, who has spent the past few weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Morgan, Granville Ferry, returned home on Saturday.

Bertram Johnson purchased a fine yoke of oxen in Paradise last week.

Mrs. A. E. Angers returned on the 8th from a visit to relatives in Lynn, Mass.

The last meeting of the Granville Fireside Industry before Christmas was held at the home of Mrs. A. Angers, on Saturday afternoon. A good number were present and a very pleasant afternoon was spent. The leader, Mrs. W. C. MacPherson, gave a very helpful address. There was also a recitation by Mrs. W. Covert, a reading by Mrs. Bessie Farnsworth and music by all. Refreshments were served at the close. Mrs. MacPherson received a small Christmas remembrance.

No one wants a fine mansion completed in Shanghai, China, only a short time ago. The rich owner, soon after moving in, received a note from gangsters demanding $30,000. They said they had planted a bomb in a secret place in the house and would explode it unless the money were forthcoming. The owner and his family moved out hastily, although they felt the threat was a fake. Nearly everyone else feels the same way about it, but no wants to rent the house.

The Acacia Valley, 1936

I have been reading the accounts that you former "Valley People" have been writing about your old homes and the way you used to have your good times. Some of the things that you speak of seem quite funny, and some seem and were wonderful. They seem more wonderful to you now, than they did when you were kids.

After reading, and thinking of the things that used to happen down there, I thought that I would write you on the "Present Acacia Valley".

I am not any writer, and I hope that you readers will excuse the messiness of this, and what I will try to tell you.

The Acacia Valley is still that "God's Country" that you used to know. It still has that charm that makes you light hearted, care free. You understand what I mean. Soon as you enter the Valley there is a difference that you recognize readily.

It seems that the Valley is resting in dreams of gone by days. There seems to be a brooding, and silent hush over the land. After listening to the old timer's story, we can understand some of the things that we suspected.

Every season of the year brings a change of appearance to the Valley, but its the same, and no matter how the wind blows or the thunder crashes it is the same.

One day last summer I was up on the hill behind John Nichols' old farm. If I say what I was doing, I would feel guilty. If I don't tell you what my mission was, you may get the wrong guess. I will tell you. "I was sampling his cherries!" I only had a couple when I heard some one calling. Of course I thought that it was for me, so I got out of the tree, and stood on the ground in the shade. As soon as I landed I heard the reply to the call. It wasn't for me! It sounded so thrilling that I sat down under the tree, and listened for more. While I listened I thought of the stories I had heard about the "Old times in the Valley".

A soft wind was blowing from the sea, and the tall grass was waving like a brown carpet. Over in the west side of me I heard a farmer mowing hay. He was alone, as I was. His thoughts were different than mine. He was thinking of the time when the hay would be cut and in the barn. After that the garden to look after. My thoughts were "blank". I was dreaming. How could I help it though? How could I help being this way when this play was being enacted around me.

While I sat there I hadn't noticed what was near me. Soon I was to find out. A chirp came from the tree above me. It was a robin killing the cherries. This fellow was taking a bite on one cherry, then another. Soon as he left one branch, a swarm of ants were in the ones that he left unfinished.

I got up, and started for the road, I came out by the bridge. The old house that was once a store, was down. Just a pile of boards and plaster. I walked down the bank and followed the brook. I came out to a field where an old cellar was in plain sight. I wondered who had lived there. It was situated in the centre of a small field, and around it were some old apple trees. The trees were bare of fruit. Just the leaves and dead branches. What a sad scene. I imagined the home that it used to be. A man and wife living there. Children playing on the shore. A dog barking at a squirrel in a tree. Now, just a reminder of what used to be.

I heard a car horn on the Hill Grove road. As that died away, in the distance, I heard someone on the road above me. I walked over to where I could get a clear view of the person. It was an elderly man with a bundle under his arm. Who do you suppose it could be? As he neared my hiding place I saw who he was, Manassa Hunt. There was an old hunt. I wanted to go and ask him who had lived in the field where I was standing, but he seemed to be deep in thought, as I was a little earlier. I watched him go by, and I started for home.

The next day was Sunday, and again I found myself headed for the Valley. The road was lined with trucks, cars, bicycles, men, women and children. They had gotten word that the cherries were ripe, and had left their homes from the French Shore, to get a feed! They all seemed to be doing that very thing when I went by Mr. Weyhe's house. Two motor boats were tied to the Chute Bridge. Children with cherry stains on their faces, and baskets half filled, played under the trees, while men and women were filling their baskets before the sun got out too bright. This was happening through out the Valley. Several girls, "pretty too", were amusing themselves down on the shore. They would yell at the top of their voices and listen to their echo from the opposite hill. The Valley was gay with noises. Cars were going and coming, making dust, and smoke. The Acacia Valley seemed to be alive again. It seemed to put on new color for the occasion. The trees and hills were of the deepest green, and the water reflecting the shadows from the bank. The change was so noticeable that I wondered if the old place was tasting some of its old happenings.

At noon time the Valley became silent, while the cherries rested. The sun came out warm, and the air became very sultry. After I had finished my lunch, I went down the road to see the truck that the crowd was trying to get started. I was stopped by an old man, who asked me where Bernie Smith and Freddie Roop were living. I told him that Fred had died, and Bernie was living in Bear River East. He was greatly shocked of the former's death, and was also surprised to hear that Mr. Smith had married. He told me that he used to know all the people in the Valley, and now they are all dead or moved away. Time changes everything.

On the south side of the river there is still some marsh hay. Part of this is cut each year. Most of it goes to waste. Places that used to be fields are now wood lots. Great banks have been formed by freshets: these were not so noticeable thirty years ago. Those who come back after years of absence, see the changes and wonder at the sights. I speak of these because they have been told to me by one who used to live down there, and is now residing in the U. S. A. He told me that the land which is now covered with woods, was fertile fields and gardens.

In the fall the two summer visitors leave the Valley for the winter. Namely, the Payzants. Mrs. Payzant once lived in the Valley, and is now residing in the States. The Weyhe's are the other family. Their home is in New York. When these two families leave at the close of summer there is one family left to keep the place from being left alone. Mr. Porter and family live in the John Nichols home.

Of course the hunting season keeps things going on down there. Every man who does any hunting heads for the Valley. The deer start on the go, and they are very lucky if they escape a wound, or being fired at. The deer are very plentiful there in the summer and winter, but to the hunter's disappointment are scarce in season.

Now it is winter in the Valley. Everything is dead. The trees are bare of leaves, and the ground is waiting for the snow. All the song birds are gone, and the other familiar noises have ceased. On a Sunday, not long ago, I went down and walked through the woods. From the hill, I could see the little church on the hill and hear the voices of the people who were on their way to worship. I came to the road again and started towards the river. I saw a grave stone in a bunch of blackberry bushes. It was nearly hidden from view. I got closer and read the inscription that was on it. Mrs. Nancy Nichols, wife of E. H. Nichols, died 1878, she was born in 1836. Her three small daughters were buried there too. Ella J. died 1881, she was 11 years old. Minnie, at 1 year of age, died in January 1867. Eva, age 3, died March the 8th, 1867. Who are these people, and what about their lives. I do not know. Maybe I will find someone who does know.

Now, my friends, I have rambled on for some time, and believe that this bit of work may not be printed. So I will close, and hope that you will read it with some interest, and realize that there is someone in the present age that believes that there is not any place like the "Acacia Valley, Digby County, N. S."

Signed,
A Sapling from an old Tree.
P.S.—Wish you all a Merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year. Same to you Mr. Editor.

History Proved Wrong.

Archaeologists delving among the relics of the Shang Dynasty in Honan Province find that the story books of China have been guilty of many mistakes through the years. Already 50 pits and 100 tombs have yielded a vast amount of information about the dynasty which existed from 1783 to 1135 B.C. The principal error has been with regard to chronology. The names of the many kings have been misspelled frequently. The years of the various reigns are badly out of balance. It will take much time and patience to sift the data and correct history so as to give the Chinese people a proper understanding of their ancient civilization.

The young ladies of this community have organized a Glee Club. They recently held a very successful pie sale and dance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril McWhinnie. Proceeds to be used for Santa Claus purposes.

James Ellis went to Upper Granville last week, where he will be employed as cook at one of the camps there.

William Hudson, of Parker's Cove, spent a few days last week with his sister, Mrs. Lavinia Merry.

A number of the young people attended the pie sale and dance held at Victoria Beach last Friday evening.

One-Half Dozen Happy Kiddies

By ELEANOR KING

Young Woman Gathers in Homeless Tots for Christmas Festivities
The dining room of this exquisite home was beautiful, spacious and furnished in the best of taste. Its massive Jacobean high-backed chairs, long table, draped all harmonized. But that quality which puts one at ease was lacking. It looked austere and unfriendly. The servants had decorated the table and room profusely, trying to give a little of the Christmas atmosphere. The forbidding look still asserted itself, though. From the length of the table and amount of cushions piled upon it, one might have judged there was to be quite a party, but only four places were set.

The dinner gong sounded. A middle-aged, well-dressed man and woman appeared.

"And you say Thelma went out in the car?"

"She didn't say where she was going," Hubert replied, his wife.

"She probably thought Hubert was taking too long in getting over here, so she took it upon herself to go after him."

"Endoubtedly," assented Mrs. Fremont.

"Thelma came soon hurrying in upon her folks, coat and hat still on. 'No be sure,' she had Hubert with her."

"Dad, mother," she exclaimed, "come and see what I have out here!"

She led her folks into the front hall. To their astonishment, they found the butler and a maid occupied in removing coats and hats from six children.

"Well, where did you get these?" said Mr. Fremont in his blustering way.

"It's like this, Dad," began Thelma with a rather apologetic air: "When I came downstairs this afternoon and saw that dining room table heaped up with good things—well, I just went for Hubert; together we found the name of the nursery or home or whatever you call it, near here and we went over there. I had the matron give me half a dozen children, and here they are."

She pointed to the group in front of her, who were busy taking in their surroundings. "Children, this is my father and this my mother. Now, Dad, here is Tony, Rose, Frederick, Charles, Anna and Marie."

"Now, children, we are going in to have dinner. Let's see, Hubert, you take Frederick and Charles. Dad, take Tony. Mother, you take Anna, and I will have Rose and Marie."

The children, ranging from six to eight, were rather shy until they set eyes on all the good food on the table; then they were all excitement. Thelma winked at Hubert, and then looked at her dad. He was busy keeping meat enough out for Tony, supplying his numerous other demands, and keeping up with his many questions. The children were fairly stuffed when they climbed down from the table.

"We are going to play some games now," said Thelma. "Hubert, you get on that side of the droler, come on Dad and Mother. Put an amount of coaxing could bring Dad and Mother. Dad thought he had done his share."

"What do you think?" said Thelma to the children a little while later:

Mrs. S. P. Fremont, of Ertton, who has been visiting her children in New Jersey, for about a month, has returned home.

"It Is More Blessed to Give Than Receive"

THIS has nothing to do with banks or savings accounts; but more money is saved at Christmas time than any other time of the year. Yes, saved. That may sound absurd to a lot of people who have spent all their money buying presents for their families and friends and neighbors, but it is true just the same. How? Why, because giving is the finest sort of saving, and not just saving, but investing. Every good gift is a permanent gift to the giver. It is better than a bank book, crying the same amount, for a gift is more truly a saving than credit account on a bank ledger. If you want to save your money, give it away, wisely. Does that sound unreasonable? Remember, it is more blessed to give than receive.—F. H. Sweet.

ning in the Yule Log for a Merry Feast

ONE of the most delightful of the Christmas ceremonies was bringing in the Yule log. According to an English writer, this was a massive piece of wood, frequently the rugged and grotesquely marked root of a tree. It was drawn through the forest with shouting and laughter, while each wayfarer reverently saluted it, since he knew it to be full of good promises and that in its flames would be burnt our old wrongs and heart burnings. As it came to the great hall, the living room of the old castle, each member of the household sat upon or saluted it to turn, etc., as a Yule-song, after which all went to a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. A favorite Yule-song had it with: "Welcome to that are here, Welcome to that are here, Welcome to that are here, Welcome to that are here."

UNDER THE MISTLETOE

"Oh, professor, see the big bunch of mistletoe I have hung on the chandelier," exclaimed the young lady, standing under it and smiling roguishly.

Young and Learned Professor (looking near-sightedly through his glasses): "Ah, yes, it is an excellent specimen of the Viscum Album, of the order Loranthaceae. It is a jointed dichotomous shrub." And that was all.

A FAIR EXCHANGE

Laura and Tommy often had important discussions on serious subjects. Christmas evening found them in grave colloquy. These seemed to be a slight ambiguity about who gave them gifts, God or their father. It was a matter which could not be settled. Finally Laura said in a superior tone:

"You know, Tommy, that daddy isn't our only father; we have two."

Tommy appeared surprised. "Who's the other one?" he asked.

"God!" answered Laura succinctly.

Tommy gave the occasion much reflection. Then he said earnestly:

"Well, I wish Daddy would go to heaven for a while and let God come down and stay with us—I'd like to get acquainted."—M. B. Thomas.

HORSE PLUNGES INTO BAY OFF BREAKWATER

Started by a car, a horse ran 15 miles along Digby Neck, Monday night, finally jumping from the government breakwater at Little River into the icy waters of St. Mary's Bay.

The horse, owned by Melbourne Prime, of Rossby, was turned loose and went across the street for water. A passing car frightened it and it ran ahead for several miles, until the car stopped.

From there another car drove it some distance further. It then ran along in front of a fish truck which was carrying a load of fish to Little River. The horse continued to run on ahead even out on the breakwater, and, before the truck stopped, plunged off into the water.

Several men present at the time pulled it out and took it to a nearby barn where they rubbed it down.

Mr. Prime took the horse home Tuesday, none the worse for its experience.

Delivered Lecture. Rev. E. A. Kinley, of Acadia University, was the special speaker in the United Baptist church, on Sunday evening, delivering an address on Acadia University. Following the regular church service he gave an illustrated lecture on the Oberammergau Passion Play.

Obituary

The death of William Sanderson occurred suddenly at the Digby General Hospital on Wednesday morning. Deceased, who was 56 years of age, was a resident of Waterford, and was admitted to the hospital about a month ago, as the result of injuries received while cutting wood with a circular saw. His right hand came in contact with the saw and three fingers were severed. A bad rash was also out in his arm below the elbow. He was responding well to treatment and was able to walk about the ward. His wounds were practically healed and it was expected he would be discharged from the institution this week. He was suddenly stricken and died before medical assistance could reach him. The deceased is survived by his widow, three brothers and two sisters. Funeral services will take place at Waterford this afternoon.

Season At An End.

The "Christmas Tea and Sale" season of the local churches has come to a close. All are reported as being well patronized, and the proceeds realized therefrom will be welcome additions to the funds of the different churches.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch leave today for New York City to spend Christmas with their daughter, Miss Edith Lynch. Mr. Lynch expects to return to Digby the 1st of January.

Xmas Advertising Heavy.

Christmas advertising in the Courier this year has been the heaviest in its history. This month we have published two 10-page editions, and this week, twelve pages. We do not know yet how large our Christmas edition (which makes its appearance on Wednesday) will be, although several pages have already been printed. In spite of the increase in the number of pages, we find it almost impossible to find room for all copy received for publication. Our press is not as up-to-date as we would like to have it, and we are only able to print two pages at a time; for this reason, when we are running heavy editions as we have been lately, we have to go to press with parts of the paper as early as Saturday. A twelve page paper such as this issue, calls for 12,000 impressions—and that on a press which does not average 800 an hour.

"His Uncle's Niece"

If the success of the initial entertainment in the new Community Hall, on Tuesday evening is any criterion of the hall's future, the promoters of the project have no need to worry. For "His Uncle's Niece" was a success in every respect, and those who directed it, as well as the actors themselves, are to be congratulated. The unexpected and tangled situations kept the large audience in gales of laughter and puzzled amusement from beginning to end. One great charm lay in the fact that every character took his or her part so naturally that one forgot it was more "acting". Miss DeWitt favored the audience with two solos, which received most hearty applause.

Mrs. Osborne Turnbull, who has been spending the last few months with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Cronin, in South Natick, Mass., returned home last Saturday and puzzled amusement from

Where Christmas Really Began

By Sara Lockwood Williams

TWO THOUSAND YEARS AGO Augustus Caesar issued a decree that all the world was to be taxed.

Thus Joseph took Mary his betrothed, from the home of her mother Ann in Jerusalem and journeyed to Bethlehem to pay their taxes. Now the way was six miles. Mary, seated sideways on a small donkey, with their few belongings tied in a cloth hanging across the donkey's neck and Joseph trudging beside her, found their way through the narrow streets of ancient Jerusalem, through the Joppa (or Jaffa) Gate down into the Valley of Gihon, then up to the ridge or water-shed of Palestine's hill country and on to the Plain of Rephaim. Midway on the plain they probably paused beside the road to drink from a well. They did not know this well would some day be called the Well of the Magi because the three Wise Shepherds following 'God's bright star' would stop there to drink and to see the star reflected in the water's depths as they traveled by camel to Bethlehem in search of Jesus, the Son soon to be born of Mary.

Joseph and Mary were humble and fine and they loved each other. They gazed happily across the well-cultivated terraced valleys, across the fields where shepherds guarded their flocks, noted the old stone watch towers where the farmers and shepherds could go to look far across their lands in all directions. Then they glimpsed the city of Bethlehem, a small and humble village whose rock walls, cobbled streets and stone buildings showed gray and uninviting.

The man and woman wended their way through the throngs of tax-payers about the bazaars and found the inn where they sought lodging. The inn was overflowing. People were having to sleep by the wayside. Now Mary was with child and Joseph wanted to protect her and make her comfortable, but no room was to be had. So the couple sought shelter in the stable beside their tiny donkey. The stable was a cave or grotto in the rocks with crude wooden mangers filled with hay. Here, in the year 4 B.C., the thirty-third year of the reign of Herod the Great, Jesus of Nazareth was born. Mary wrapped Him in swaddling clothes and laid Him in a manger. Here the shepherds, to whom angels had announced the Saviour's birth, came to kneel low beside the humble bed and lay their gifts before the Babe whom they adored.

Because this Babe was born the whole world rejoices and celebrates Christmas. Joy, peace, love, humility—all the great truths of Christianity came to the world with His birth. The basis of modern civilization lies in the little town of Bethlehem.

Even as the Wise Men 2000 years ago made their way to the shrine, so pilgrims, tourists, believers and non-believers journey today across the self-same road, still the main artery of communication between Jerusalem and all the southern part of Israel. They see the Well of the Magi, the terraced gardens, the shepherds' fields, and the old, old watch towers. The highway is now smoothly paved. The travelers all too often ride in luxurious motor cars. But they still pass caravans of camels and asses and see pedestrians garbed in costumes of many lands. For pilgrims come from near and far to the Holy Land, particularly to ancient Bethlehem, whose grayness has increased with centuries of dust and erosion on its leaden-hued stones. But dull as is its outward appearance, few approach the city without a thrill of reverence and awe, without renewing acquaintance with the Holy Scriptures and gaining inspiration and faith. Today they cross the lively bazaars where "objects of piety" made of shells, mother-of-pearl and olive wood have wide space among the food-stuffs and goods for sale. They go to the Church of the Nativity, Bethlehem's greatest relic of antiquity. In 330 B. C. Constantine built this basilica above what is believed to be the grotto-stable in which Christ was born. The church looks like a fortress and its entrance door is so small even a short person must stoop to enter. It was made thus not, as some say, to cause thoughts of humility and reverence upon entering so holy a place, but to prevent the ancient Saracens and Turks when they were in power from desecrating the place with cattle. Five different nationalities of Christians now guard this church and hold services here. The place is strikingly simple. The Greek Orthodox and the Armenian and Syrian churches occupy the main floor. Two circular stairways lead to the dark caves below. There is a chapel in the grotto. On the floor is a great silver star with silver nails over a hollow where Mary is said to have given birth to Jesus. Around the star is the inscription:

"Hic de Virgine Maria Jesus Christus Natus Est."

Fifteen silver lamps unceasingly burn day and night over this holy place. Four belong to the Latins, six to the Greek Orthodox, and five to the Armenians and Syrians. Representatives from many Christian nations kneel in common before the little altar. Seldom is the grotto without worshippers. Whether or not they believe this to be the authentic spot of the Nativity, it carries the atmosphere of holiness and spirituality. The handsome, proud natives of Bethlehem seem always a happy people, but at Christmas time Bethlehem radiates joy.

Merit Wins The Soul

A Christmas Story by Agnes Myers

IT WAS Christmas eve and Jane Harrison was preparing to close the Book and Gift shop after a busy day. The door opened and an elderly man wearing spectacles and a white muffler entered hurriedly.

Setting aside his gloves and cane, and hastily scanning the shelves, he said: "I have but a few moments to make a selection; perhaps you could assist me. Something for an elderly lady."

Jane was more than a bookseller; she was reader. And, too, she could quickly sense the literary taste of an individual. Diving into a case she brought forth Mrs. Gaskell's "Life of Charlotte Brontë," "Sonnets from the Portuguese" and "Out of Doors in the Holyland," all in new holiday bindings.

"Here are some delightful gift books," she remarked.

The gentleman raised a pair of surprised eyes and wondrously surveyed the girl rather than the books. Drawing a wallet from his inner coat he replied:

"My dear young lady, your excellent choice has tempted me to take all three." Handing Jane a card he continued, "please have them sent over to Miss Adelaide Perkins, Burton street, number 12."

"Thanking her he dashed out his cab and was gone."

"Seventy-eight Burton street," gasped Jane, "and the delivery boy gone for the night on his last round!"

Locking the store and with Miss Adelaide Perkins' gift in the hollow of her arm, the tired girl started off on her errand.

Jane and her widowed mother had lived in Edgebrook on a small income. She attended Miss Edmonds' School for Girls as a day student and received a very thorough education. In the evenings Jane worked in the town library. Her mother passed away and Jane had gone to the city. This was her first Christmas to be alone.

At the Perkins address the door was opened by an elderly lady. "My goodness, child! A package for me! Do step in." But before she could close the door a boy called out:

"Telegram for Perkins."

"Yes, yes," she said, all bewildered. "Mercy me, where are my glasses!" and she fumbled around in her pocket.

"I'll sign for you, if I may," said Jane.

"Yes, please do—dear, dear, where are my glasses! Oh, here they are," and Miss Perkins' fine patient hands trembled as she opened the envelope.

"It is from my niece, the Bosworth girl. They are driving down from Harland tomorrow afternoon and will be here for tea with me around five."

"Your niece the Bosworth girl?" exclaimed Jane; "not Emily and Susan? Why, they were my best friends at Miss Edmonds' school, and thoughts of Edgebrook dashed through her mind."

The June commencement—Richard Bosworth, the tall brother, up from the city for the festivities.

"And don't forget, tomorrow at five," called Miss Perkins as Jane was departing.

The next afternoon Jane helped Miss Perkins put the finishing touches to a table set in fine china of yellow pattern. There was the sound of a motor, then merry voices in the hall, Emily, Susan, Richard, Uncle Carroll, the elderly gentleman who had sent the books, were greeting Miss Perkins.

"Why, Jane Harrison!" gasped the Bosworth girls in one breath.

Then followed such excited exclamations: the bliss of renewed friendship; with a rattle of her silken skirts Miss Perkins led the way to the dining-room. Jane sat opposite Richard. She liked the strength in his broad shoulders, his well modulated voice and his clear honest eyes. Emotions of newly awakened interest roused her sentiments.

Richard was beaming across the table at the young woman in the blue frock; her quaint charm, rippling laughter, the glance of her brown eyes and the lift of her pretty shoulders.

As the happy gathering moved into the sitting room Jane felt the warmth of a large hand gripping her own slim one. Looking up, she smiled into Richard's firm and understanding face.

Uncle Carroll, with an approving nod, stroked his beard like a prophet, and reflected upon the words of the poet:

Charms strike the sight,
But merit wins the soul.

Uganda, under British Protectorate, in Africa, a land a little bigger than the state of Minnesota, has, it is estimated, about 20,000 elephants with an annual killing-off of about 1000.

Gentle vs. Weak.
It is a detestable tendency of mean natures to mistake gentleness for weakness.

Christmas At The Barracks

by Helen Gaisford

"I HATE Christmas!" Marcia thought passionately. She pressed her face close to the toy window, so passively would not notice her burning cheeks nor tear-filled eyes.

Suddenly she was face to face with that overwhelming longing for someone to make Christmas worthwhile. "Why am I such a fool?" she asked herself miserably. "A grown woman weeping at a store window during the holidays!"

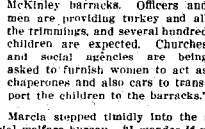

She hurried on to her lonely day, and stood looking in the mirror. Thirty-two! "I don't feel old," she said.

After a while she got up and washed her face, determined to be sensible. She couldn't eat yet—she was too shaken—so she sat down with the home paper. No use trying to avoid the Christmas ads. Might as well face the fact that no one really cared—

"Well, why not and some one? And then, as though in answer, she saw the item in the paper.

"Poor children of this and neighboring communities will be treated to a real old-fashioned Christmas dinner and tree at the McKinley barracks. Officers and men are providing turkey and all the trimmings, and several hundred children are expected. Churches and social agencies are being asked to furnish women to act as chaperones and also cars to transport the children to the barracks."

Marcia stopped timidly into the social welfare bureau. "I wonder if you could use me to help take the children out to the barracks on Christmas," she asked. "It would be so much nicer than—than anything else," she finished.

He Was Taking the Coat Off a Trousseaued Boy.

lately. She had really meant that it would be nicer than a sympathy dinner invitation from one of her friends. "I even thought maybe, if I happened to find the right youngster—I might adopt one."

She stopped, a little breathless. She hadn't meant to commit herself so far. Yet the lady was very kind, and arrangements were easily made.

She had never been to the barracks before, and she thrilled to the ride over the snowy road, but she was more fascinated by the children under her care. Their too-bright eyes glittered and they pressed their noses against the car windows, leaving marks where they had touched.

They were excited, terribly excited, but happy, too. So was Marcia. Joy and excitement shone from her eyes, making her usually pleasant but rather plain countenance radiant.

He stood tall and straight in his officers' uniform, a handsome man, not many years her senior. As soon as the children began eating, he came over and introduced himself.

"Having a good time?" he asked. "Glorious!" "So are you."

"Hair?" "Glorious, of course. Don't mind my bothering you? I thought you seemed, well—understanding. When I was looking at you—remember?" Marcia nodded. "Somebody once said that if you look into a person's eyes, you create a bond that can never be broken. I know what he meant, now."

"I felt it, too," Marcia murmured. He looked about. "I say, shall we ditch the program? I'd like to show you around the barracks, if you'd let me."

They didn't notice the cold, the falling snow, nor, later, the children's carols.

"Goneness!" Marcia exclaimed at last. "They're leaving. I must look after my carload of youngsters."

"Wait!" He caught her hand, held it fast. "I'll want to see you again, soon. We have so much in common, you know—we're both lonely, we like children, we enjoy Christmas parties—and I want to know if you like hiking and tobogganing, movies, operas, lots of things. Me, for instance."

"Of course," answered Marcia. "But let me go now. Here comes that welfare lady." She pulled away. "We were just coming," she apologized.

The lady smiled. "No hurry. But I wonder—you said something, you know—have you decided what child you want to adopt?"

"Heavens!" declared Marcia. "I forgot."

"Well, why?" asked the soldier, "adopt one? I mean—wait until next Christmas. Things change so in a year."

"In a day," breathed Marcia.

Popcorn Presents
Apples, jelly or canned fruit, and even big cherry homemade wreaths done up "Christmas" make practical presents; but the gayest and most welcome of the off-the-farm-and-on-to-the-city presents seem to be pop corn and hickory nuts. With a basket of pop corn and a bag of hickory nuts all kinds of Christmas boxes are suitable for every one from grandfather and grandmother who lived on a farm and picked up chestnuts when they were young, all the way down to the littles boy cousin, who's inordinately fond of candy.

Holiday Garnish for Salads
Cranberry jelly sliced and cut into fancy shapes with a cookie cutter or a knife makes an attractive and unusual garnish for salads and desserts during the holiday season.

Uncle Eben's Advice
"Santa Claus will soon be here," said Uncle Eben, "and isn't no time to tell you financial worries. If you writes him a letter, don't write it in red ink."

Carver's Language
Few people are aware that such a pleasant Yuletide task as carving has a language of its own, which has nothing to do with exasperation. Forgetting for a moment the ubiquitous turkey, which apparently is only "carved," an expert cites the following terms as appropriate to the occasion: Alay a pheasant, China a salmon, Mince a plover, Barb a lobster, Lift a swan, Spall a hen, Unbrace a duck, Disfigure a peacock, Dismember a heuron, Thigh a woodcock, and Tame a crab. In the Middle Ages, when most of these picturesque terms were evolved, herons, being as common as sparrows today, were a favorite Christmas dish among the poor; while the rich granted the peacock the place of honor at their banquets.—London "Tit Bits" Magazine.

Blooms at Christmas Time
According to tradition the famous thorn at Glastonbury Cathedral was brought and planted there by Joseph of Arimathea and was part of the crown of thorns which was pressed upon the brow of Christ. According to tradition it blooms at Christmas time and the possession of a piece is said to insure good fortune through the year.

Television Nabs Man.
By means of a picture televised to Scotland Yard in the West End of London a "wanted" man was arrested within 45 minutes. This was only an experiment. But it proved so successful that work has been started to develop television as a powerful aid to crime detection. As soon as possible every police station will be equipped with television apparatus, including special cameras and squad cars with receivers and transmitters. Experts of Scotland Yard have transmitted pictures over a fifty mile radius, compared with the present 25 miles used for entertainment purposes. The new camera, which needs no special lighting, is so small that it can be concealed in a room with a microphone and will reveal the actions and conversation of suspected persons to watchers in another part of a building.

JUNIOR CHOIR MADE HIT

In spite of the very cold weather on Sunday there was a fair-sized congregation at the United Church, to hear the special Christmas music by the combined choirs, featuring particularly the Junior Choir. The service opened with "Silent Night" as a processional. This was immediately followed by a tableau of the Nativity, with Mary and Joseph, surrounded by angels, around the manger. Mary, taken by Charlotte MacKay, beautifully rendered a solo—"Away in a Manger", while Joseph, (Audrey Jefferson) knelt at her side. This was followed by a chorus, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing", and another delightful solo by Helen Melanson. A medley of carols, preceded the regular form of service which opened with the Doxology. After the Scripture, "O Holy Night" was rendered as a duet by Charlotte MacKay and Helen Melanson. At the Offertory the three combined choirs rendered a glorious selection, "A Song of Wondrous Beauty". The sermon was based on the "three wise men" and was very fitting for the occasion. The climax of the evening was the Junior Choir singing "Gloria in Excelsis Deo"—a four part anthem, without accompaniment, directed by their leader. All four parts were rendered clearly and accurately.

AN AMAZING STORY

 The Paris Soir, one of the biggest newspapers in the world, revealed in a featured article recently some of the details of the French preparation for a possible war with Germany.

 In view of the disturbed situation of the world, the story is amazing.

 With Edward VIII. of England (who may some day be termed "Edward the Transgressor") on his way into exile, with the Pope in ill health, with our President securing South America to this country in a peace pact, the chief organ of Paris produces both a warning and a threat.

 The article states at the outset that the French secret service has discovered the plan of Germany for the next invasion of France. This being through Switzerland.

 In consequence the Maginot line of fortification has been in process of extension, from 250 to 600 miles. It now extends along the Franco-German border.
 Shortly it will be along the entire eastern frontier of France.

 The article, in brief, states:
 The French army is leaving nothing to chance. A million men can be hidden underground in this engineering feat.
 Already 100,000 troops are stationed in these underground cities which surround Verdun, Mulhouse, Metz, Thionville.

 Steel turrets peep out of hedges, fields and even out of ponds and lakes. A labyrinth of huge chambers start to extend down from 60 feet below the surface.

 There are magnificently equipped hospitals, recreation chambers, kitchens and mess halls provided. Storerooms, containing thousands of tons of frozen meat, have been excavated, and no less than 500,000,000 gallons of wine have been stored away from the vineyards of France.

 Far underground are tanks and motorized army equipment which can race to the surface on a moment's notice over concrete ramps for a counter-attack. Even planes are stored there to be elevated by giant lifts to take to the air from secret fields.
 A hint of the crass brutality expected in the next war is displayed by the fact that preparations have been made to destroy the dead in acids, so that cemeteries will not have to be provided.

 Reservoirs of water are racing through huge conduits to supply this vast future army. Full gas protection is provided by enormous ventilators.

 The enemy, despite all these precautions, might capture the Maginot line. If it is captured, it is entirely mined, and can be blown up from a switch station concealed in a stone cottage only a few miles from Paris.

 No war story in recent times compares with this story of France's preparations. It is an astounding and disheartening tale.

 Because a child was cured of infantile paralysis in Nepal, India, a children's ward has been added to a hospital at Oxford, England. It is the gift of Gon-Krishna Shumshere Jung, Nepalese minister in London, for it was his little daughter in Nepal that Dr. G. R. Girdlestone, the hospital's honorary surgeon, travelled thousands of miles to save.

 When Benjamin Franklin was our ambassador in Paris in Revolutionary days, Paul Jones and other American captains cruised about France waiting for English ships to fight, and since America was so far away, Franklin found himself often acting as navy department, paying bills, judging claims, and arbitrating among the sailors as they murmured of mutiny.

INVESTIGATION OF THE SCALLOP FISHERY OFF DIGBY

By John A. Stevenson

SCALLOP'S LIFE-HISTORY
Part 5

 We saw last week how the scallops in the Bay of Fundy spawn directly into the water surrounding them, and that their eggs are whirled away, utterly wherever the under-water hurricane, the tidal currents, happen to take them. They cannot do a thing about it, for the eddies over the bottom are too strong to allow them to settle, but it doesn't really matter very much, because they have been designed for this sort of existence, and quickly adapt themselves to the violence of their surroundings. In about four days, the eggs that have been fortunate enough to be fertilized develop of their own accord into infinitesimal round specks of jelly, that swim around actively within their own small spheres of existence, by means of rapid beating hairs all over their surfaces. And still they are too small to be seen with anything but a microscope. What could be more unlike a scallop than a tiny ball of jelly covered with hairs? Yet amazingly enough, those of the hairy globules that happen to survive, will actually become scallops, and will maybe do their own small part in helping on the Digby scallop fishery.

 These larvae, as the young scallops are called, next grow a couple of tiny shells, still too small to see, and quite transparent, like celluloid. All the time this is happening, they are floating about in mid-water, just wherever the currents happen to whirl them. The small shells, at first hardly visible under even a powerful microscope, gradually grow down and over the hairy jelly-droplet, and finally cover it completely except for a small hairy flat that sticks out from between them. The hairs on this flat beat harder and faster than ever, and serve to keep the veliger, as the young scallop is now called, up in the water. And in this way the tiny speck of life that is, or is not to be, a scallop according to what Fate decrees, grows and drifts, grows and drifts, feeding on the tiniest imaginable morsels of living matter all the while, until finally, several weeks after it was born, there comes a time when it reaches a definite point in its existence, when it seems automatically to withdraw its hairy swimming-flap, close its shells, and sink like a plummet to the bottom. We don't know what causes it to want to do this; all we know is that it invariably does so (if it is not eaten by its many enemies beforehand), and that once it has definitely settled to the bottom, it undergoes another weird transformation or metamorphosis, loses its hairy swimming-flap, and starts to grow a real scallop shell. In short, after its hectic existence as a free-swimming and free-floating larva, it has now finally decided to change into a real scallop. We wonder why it doesn't do so in the first place; why didn't it develop directly into a scallop right at the spot where it was spawned? In other words, of what advantage can such a curious traveling early existence be to a scallop? I shall endeavour to suggest reasons in the course of the next article of this series.

Prayed For Sun's Return

 The ancient Egyptians were so afraid that the sun which had set in the west might not come back in the morning from the east, that they made daily prayers and magic begging the sun to return in the morning.

Ideal and Art

 The ideal, not in the sense of the conventional, the innate, the untrue—but in the sense of human experience transfigured by human genius—will always be, as it has always been, inseparable from art.

"M. G. T." SENDS CHRISTMAS GREETINGS IN BRIGHT, CHEERY LETTER

Dear Friends:—

Happy Christmas to you all! I hope you haven't forgotten M. G. T. in the months that have passed since I wrote you. I have started several times to write but there was always so much to catch up on that I just postponed the job. It has been a very busy summer and fall. Since the day, way back last April, when the stream and pond were stocked with 1500 trout, until the day one hundred and fifty pheasants were added to our pens and the hunting season started, the club has been a busy place. The fingerling trout in the new horseshoe shaped pool have grown from three inches to five and one-quarter inches, and the baby ducks are now full grown and hard to tell from the mother in size. I never did write to tell you about the flood—which is an old story now, but quite thrilling to remember. How we watched the water rising all day, until at 8 o'clock we took the rugs up off the floors, and removed all fishing tackle, clothing, etc., from the lockers, and my better half went to bed. He said he couldn't do anything, anyway; but I was too excited and 2:00 in the morning, when I was too tired to stay up any longer, I could hear the water running under the floor of the house. We got up at the first glimpse of dawn to find ourselves literally surrounded by water; the living room and club room floors completely covered and not a bit of grass in sight outside. It was all very thrilling and not dangerous. We found out how many friends we had, too. The telephone rang all day from people calling to see if we needed help. Every time some one called I would have to shout to relay the message to hubby, outside, and one good neighbor, in hip boots, was wading down the road to see what he could do for us, and he turned around and went back to town for assistance, saying we must be in real distress and calling for help. When night came again the rain had stopped and the water gone down enough to enable us to see what damage had been done. Such a mess! Bridges washed away, dams broken, dirt and rubbish all over the yard, and shrubbery washed out by the roots. We were lucky compared to other places, and we didn't lose a fish. It all happened about three days after the stream stocking, but the damage to the stream was slight and we are better prepared if another flood comes.

Well, as you know, I spent three blissful weeks in the old home town this summer, and wanted to stay much longer, but sickness brought me back. We drove all the way back, in spite of the most awful roads I ever came across, we enjoyed the trip immensely. I had never seen much of my native Nova Scotia, and with the exception of Saint John, not much of New Brunswick. I had never been "over the Bay" except to Sandy Cove, and then in a sail boat. One Sunday we drove to East Ferry, a most beautiful drive, and we thought we would stop for church in the afternoon. In parking the car we somehow got caught on a large stone, and it took the combined efforts of almost the entire congregation to lift the car off. One man wanted to know if we thought "the Lord had anything to do with it" and we replied, "He probably did." But to this day, I don't know whether he meant that the Lord put us on the rock, or sent the congregation to get us off. Anyway, someone may read this who helped that day, and may be interested to learn that M. G. T. was in that party. We drove to Annapolis Royal two different times to have tea at the lovely "Wishing Rock" tea house. It's like the story book tea rooms. Delightful food, and, of course, being myself, I did covet the lovely china were used on the table. We spent on happy day at "Braemar", near Yarmouth—an ideal spot: called on an old friend whom I hadn't seen for many years, then went on to Yarmouth. I am very fond of that nice town and do you know, one of our club members told me he has a thousand acres of land there and a cottage, and he goes down nearly every summer for fishing. I was sorry to come back, because I didn't see all the dear old friends that I wanted to see. I wanted to go to Digby and call on Mr. Editor, but didn't have time. I hope to go home again before many months go by. You remember Tony, and his cat, Rosie? Tony has been very sick and it took all the neighbors on the old back road to induce him to consent to go to the hospital. His chief excuse was modesty. He said "he wasn't going to have strange women giving him a bath", but he got so bad that he had to go. Now he is home, and quite well, and has decided that the hospital is "not so bad". I must tell you what he said the day I got back from my trip. I was upstairs, unpacking my bags, when Tony came in the driveway. I heard my husband say, "Well, Tony, the boss is home". Tony looked apprehensively at the house, and to my everlasting delight, replied, "We gotta Hell, now, huh?" Really, I'm not a bit that wty, but I sent him home one day when he was intoxicated, and I was afraid he would fall in the brook. He made us a grand vegetable garden, and after much conversation on the matter made me a flower garden but he thinks flowers are a waste of time, and cannot be eaten like beans, lettuce, etc.

Was glad to see a note from L. H. S. I fear he doesn't think much of me now; thinks I have sort of gone to the "dogs". Knowing him as I do, I'm sure the little grandson will not have much chance at the trumpet. Grinda will be on a toot all day himself. Oh, my!

There are signs of Christmas all around our small home. A big tree is waiting on the outside porch and a pile of ground pine, ready for garlands, piled in the corner. Wreaths are already hanging in the windows and packages have arrived, wrapped in gay paper and tied with bright colored ribbons. They all bear that tantalizing label, "Don't open until Christmas"—and I hope I won't.

All the friends at our place send you best wishes. Old "Quack-Quack" and his wife,

"Cream Puff"; "Mussolini" and his wife, "Maajame"; my adorable small "Patch," and "Spinney" the tom-cat—you know them all. After the holidays are over I will write you more about them. About "Madame," the big white goose, and the night when she had her nest full of eggs already to hatch, and in the morning we found her with half her feathers lying on the ground; and the nest entirely empty—not a trace of even an egg shell. About small "Patch" and his new red sweater which he hated because we laughed at him with it on; and, how one day he went out dressed up in it and came back minus the sweater. We haven't found it yet. About how "Spinney" got caught in a trap, or hurt in such a way that he almost lost his front paws. We debated for days whether we would have to kill him, or if he could get well. He did—and is just a beautiful cat.
Now, it's almost midnight, so I will close with best wishes to you all for a Happy Christmas.
Good night!

BUFFALO KILLS

In the old days of Canadian history, buffalo kills were like modern fishing methods—mass slaughters. Furs and flesh were of little value and it was believed the number could never be reduced. Naturally the number was reduced and if the Canadian Government had not stepped in, the buffalo, more properly called the bison, would be as extinct as the dodo.

For some years now, however, the buffalo have increased in numbers to such an extent that some have to be killed off for lack of grazing space. And so the story comes from Wainwright, Alberta, that sharp-shooter Sam Purcell's rifle is cracking again with deadly accuracy, and that each time a spurt of flame issues from its muzzle, another buffalo bites the dust.

Each year a contract is awarded to the highest tenderer for disposal of the carcasses, and this year more than 1,500 choice buffalo were turned over to a prominent western meat processor. Soon a steady stream of refrigerator cars will be rolling eastward, each loaded with buffalo carcasses for Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and other eastern cities.

A good market is readily available, distributors claim, since buffalo meat, in addition to having a certain curiosity value, is comparable to prime domestic beef. Buffalo steaks, tongues and other cuts are considered delicious, as they were in the days of the plainsmen.

Annual thinning of the Wainwright herd is necessary in order to keep the number of animals within the grazing capabilities of the huge government-maintained park. Each year from 1,500 to 2,000 animals, approximately the natural increase must be slaughtered lest the park be overrun.

The meat is made available to the public while the hides and heads are retained by the government under slaughtering contract.

Heads are mounted and sold, while hides are tanned and made into robes, coats and other articles. Members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police on Arctic patrol are supplied with coats of buffalo hide to protect them against sub-zero cold.

TUBERCULOSIS

Two General Types, the Human and the Bovine—Bovine is Most Common in Children.

The human form of tuberculosis is by far the commoner. Like the bovine form it is usually acquired in childhood and from someone closely associated with the child. Eighty per cent of all tuberculosis is of this type.

Bovine tuberculosis invariably infects the child through milk from the cow with a tuberculous udder. Four-fifths of the tuberculosis appearing in little children is of this type. It affects the bones and joints, the glands of the neck or deals destruction as meningitis, the so-called brain fever.

It would be a simple matter to control bovine tuberculosis. The method is pasteurization of all milk used by children. In cities where all the milk and cream used is pasteurized, there is no bovine tuberculosis, and the incidence of such infections as undulant fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever and the devastating summer complaint of babies is unheard of. Pasteurization of milk means simply the heating of the milk to 145 degrees F., holding at this temperature for thirty minutes and rapidly cooling it and keeping at a low temperature until used.

Human tuberculosis is not so ready of control. It involves the "separation of the sick from the well." The tuberculous person—the source of the infection—must be sought out and sent to a sanatorium, to some place where he will learn to take proper care of himself until he is safe for other people to associate with.

Although important progress has been made in the control of tuberculosis in the last 25 years, much remains to be done. All milk supplies must be brought under pasteurization. Children in school and under the school

KITES FORM LETTERS

The Chinese are much given to the pastime of kite flying and some of the constructions are marvelous to behold. The Chinese kites often have two strings and these enable the operator to make the kite do wonderful things. It becomes an aerial messenger as it is possible to make the kite form letters and characters by which messages may be exchanged.

PAPER-WEIGHTS

Old trolley lines which have been pulled up from the Paris streets have come to a dignified end. Cut into sections a few inches long, they have been chromium plated and are being sold as paper-weights, for people who have no doubt some sentimental reason for wishing to remember a ride they took once upon a time in a Paris trolley.

Canadian doughs are breaking up the old in the re-shipment of flour time, and Canadian wheat flour also figures among the principal Canadian exports to the Holy Land.

Badminton Club Notes.

The Bear River Badminton Club announced its 1936-37 season on Tuesday, the 15th, and plans to continue play until the 15th of March, 1937. A drive for new members was made and as a result it is going to be possible to reduce the membership fee to $1.50 for the season. It is hoped to arrange for tournaments with the Annapolis and Digby clubs in the near future and to also hold an inter-club tournament. The club will be open for play every afternoon and evening during the week between Christmas and New Year's.

STREET LIGHTING

The annual meeting of the ratepayers of the district as defined by the Street Lighting Act, will be held in Masonic Room on the 30th of Dec., at 8 p. m.

At this meeting a report by the Street Light Commissioners will be given and the matter of street lights for the district will be determined.

Junior Choir

The Junior Choir of the United Church of Canada, presented the music on Sunday, Dec. 13, and also presented the music at the evening service Dec. 20. Owing to some error it was stated that The Ladies' Aid had charge of the music. We wish to correct the error as the Junior Choir, which is under the direction of Bruce Elliott, is doing a splendid piece of work, enabling these young people to share in the work of the church to a greater degree than heretofore. Such training is invaluable in creating responsibility.

SCHOOL CONCERT

On Thursday evening last the pupils of Oakdene School presented a concert to a capacity audience of parents and friends. The programme opened with a few timely remarks from Major A. M. Simons, chairman of trustees. Mr. Oakes, the principal, announced the different numbers in the programme which showed painstaking care and training on the part of the teachers and the children received hearty applause. Mention might be made of the short play put on by the high school, which was taken from their literature course and was directed by Mrs. A. G. MacIntyre. At the close of the programme Santa Claus appeared amid shrieks of delight from the eager children, and presented every good pupil with a gift from the beautifully decorated tree and Oakdene school has no bad pupils.

Dimock Yorkie arrived on Tuesday from Boston.

Winter Roads Association Organized

On Friday evening last a meeting representative of Bear River, Smith's Cove, Deep Brook, Clements, and Bear River East was convened in the Masonic reading room, at Bear River, and an organization formed called "The Annapolis West Winter Roads Association," for the purpose of keeping the roads in these districts clear of snow and open for motor traffic through the winter months. A snow plough was purchased last winter, and this year, for more efficient work and to serve a larger district, the organization proposes to hire another plough and secure additional equipment.

The following officers were elected: President—Dr. L. J. Lovett, Bear River. Vice-Presidents—Fred R. Harris, Bear River; N. D. Sanford, Clements; R. Moore, Deep Brook; Rev. A. W. L. BORN

Eisener—At Waldec, N. S., Dec. 18, 1936, to Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Eisener a daughter.

Our Popular West Coast Correspondent Recalls the Happy Days of the Past in Acadia Valley.

Hello, all you good folks down east. It is nearing Christmas and Bobbie Nichols wants to wish you the very best in life, and we include, too, the good editor of the Courier and his capable staff who so nicely give us all the news pertaining to the territory we know so well. Being the land of our birth, we love it. And may the sun ever shine on good old Nova Scotia soil.

Have been thinking of all my old friends of the clan, and, too, of M. G. T., our friendly scribe from Sandy Hook. And to you—M. G. T.—I extend also the greetings of the season—and to your big gobble, to Tony, and to your cherished cat; and we express "agin" our interest in your pond and the lilies and all those surroundings we know you so dearly love.

In California there is much of sunshine and fair weather, down east, we visualize the blanket of snow at Christmas time. The houses well banked, the cellars stocked with supplies of food. And the Christmas parties—how vivid they seem to us even today. There were the gatherings for quilting, the apple peeling parties and the basket socials.

Those baskets would be decorated in a most attractive manner, and what fun we would have when the auctioneer got busy in his descriptions of them. At any such that may be held this season we are trusting that the best basket may go one hundred per cent and that the prize winner get the sweetest girl. For the basket's contents may be sweeter than the famed "honey and locusts", and the fair maiden be God's best gift to man. Yes, such gatherings are fun. And the ride home was always a fitting climax. Away the sleigh would go over the snow, with bells merrily a-jingle. The moon shining bright—and keen frost in the air. What could be more grand or more thrilling.

We fancy we can hear the old church bell ring, in the church atop the hill, near the Valley road, and we can see the folks gathering. They're coming from the Ridge, from the Shelburne Road, and from the Valley; from the Digby road and from Smith Cove way. What a gathering of joy, happiness and real pleasure for the Christmas time.

Well, good friends, I'd like to be with you again. I'd enjoy a real old-fashioned squash pie, and I'd like to have "Guess Again" along with us. We'd skate on the old mill pond. We'd visit the colored church, and finally round up for a basket social in the old Hill Grove school house.

So, with love and best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all, we say—Good Night.

Bobby Nichols

DR. DuVERNET SEES MANY INTERESTING THINGS ON HIS TRIP

An Amusing Story of a Negress—Sees No Evidence of a Depression—Impressed with Radio City.

Sir—The following editorial, clipped from the New York Sunday Times of the 13th, may not be without interest to the readers of the Courier, as it will give them an idea of the splendid spirit which has prevailed in the American press throughout this most unhappy episode in British history.

"King Edward VIII kept fully and nobly his promise to Mr. Baldwin that if he went he would 'go with dignity,' that he would not allow a situation to arise in which he could not do that and that he would go with a little disturbance to his ministers and his people as possible. 'Vanquished in life' by an overpowering love, he 'made amends' by the deep feeling he showed in his farewell to his people. By the passing of his breath in the most widespread speech ever heard on earth he won his 'defeated ends.' Regardless of how one views the course which he pursued it can be said that with all his devoted brave and brilliant service to his Empire as Prince, King and Emperor, nothing in his official life 'became him like his leaving it.' Nothing more moving has been carried around the planet than his parting wish for his brother, 'God Save the King.'"

I never saw a man so intensely interested in anything while I have been here. It has practically covered the front page of all the newspapers and has been the one topic of conversation and discussion from the highest to the lowest. To illustrate this I heard a rather amusing story the other day while lunching with a surgeon on the staff of the Brooklyn Hospital. He said that that morning when he went down to breakfast he found his servant—a negress from Alabama, and somewhat of a character—with her head buried in a copy of the Morning News; beside her was an electric toaster, pouring forth clouds of smoke. He said to her: 'Why, Mahala, what is the matter?' She looked up, startled, and exclaimed: 'This King has got me so upset that ah don't know what ah is doin'; I wonder why can't they let him have an 'organic marriage'?'

If depression exists down here I have failed to discover it. So far as I can see everyone seems to be busy and happy. In Boston the crowds on Tremont St. and vicinity were terrific—just a seething mass of humanity.

One wondered where all the people came from. The traffic conditions there seemed to be much more difficult than in New York.

When you hear over your radio. "This is from Radio City, New York," you have little conception of what Radio City really is. You wonder how the human mind could conceive and imaginatively erect such a structure. You have to have a guide to take you through, and what you see—well, I can't describe it; but the grand finale of your tour is to be shot up seventy stories in an express elevator which makes you feel rather shaky in the knees and gives you a feeling in your ears as if they were being inflated. From the top of the building you really see New York. The view from all sides is simply magnificent. Better come and see it!

Expect to do Washington today—that is as much as it is possible to do in one day.

Obituary

George William Marshall

The death of George William Marshall occurred at his home here, on Friday, Dec. 18. Deceased was 49 years of age, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marshall, of Digby. He is survived by his widow; one daughter, Marjorie, and a son, Walter, by a former marriage. Also his parents and four sisters, Mrs. William Wagner, of Plympton Station; Mrs. William Vidito and Mrs. Robert Marshall, of Digby, and Mrs. Ashton Hemeon, of Yarmouth, survive. Funeral services took place Sunday afternoon from the residence of his parents, Rev. Dr. Hodgson, of Grace United Church, and Capt. Hutchinson, of the Salvation Army, officiating. Interment was in Fairview Cemetery.

Hen Lives In Stack

During threshing on a Falkland, Scotland, farm, a hen was found imprisoned inside the grain stack, and evidently had been there for several weeks. It had survived by eating the grain, but had laid no eggs and was weak from the lack of water. It quickly recovered.

Miss Margaret Hodgson is home from Mount Allison University, Sackville, N. B., to spend the vacation with her parents, Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson and Mrs. Hodgson.

SCOUT NOTES

The first meeting in the newly repaired hall was held on Friday evening. There were sixteen scouts present. A new ceremony—cub investiture—was introduced at this meeting. This consisted of discharging the Cubs who were the right age, from the cub pack and taking them into the scout troop. Scouts John Keen and Joseph Turnbull passed their compass tests, and William Ganong, Paul Winchester, Edward Walker, Louis Savary and Donald Wilson their first aid tests.—Digby Everett was taken into the Troop.—It was decided that the Scouts would have a Christmas tree at the next meeting.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH

In spite of the weather there was a large congregation at both the regular and after service of the Digby Baptist Church on Christmas Sunday evening.

The regular service took the form of a "white gift service," and on this occasion many gifts of all kinds were presented. These will be turned over to the Christmas Cheer Committee for distribution.

At the after-service the beautiful Cantata "Angelic Tidings" was ably presented by the members of the choir under the direction of Hedley Dakin with Mrs. Guy Moehouse organist.

Mrs. A. W. Hanson, who has been in Amherst attending the funeral of the late Mrs. G. K. Hanson, returned home on Monday.

Miss Vera Mason, of the Digby teaching staff, is spending the vacation at her home in Mahone Bay.

Strange Claim Filed.

One of the oddest claims ever made against a public body in England was recently filed with the Public Assistance Committee at Leicester. It was for $50 expenses incurred for mourning by a family left, med mistaken, by that one of its members had died in a Leicester institution.

Necktie Minded.

To make Moscow men "necktie minded" four large government automobiles displaying huge wooden models of ties, toured the city and succeeded in influencing not only those of the city to wear neck decorations, but brought orders to stores from farmers.

Christmas in Shanghai

WHEN Christmas comes to Shanghai, a cross-section of the world makes holiday. The average Chinaman fails to get the meaning of it, but such a fun-loving people can do with one more celebration. So the Chinaman himself adds to the din with firecrackers and gift-giving parties and the making of gifts.

There is a distinct western touch in the observance of the season by this most cosmopolitan city. Shanghai's "social register" starts plans for dinners and dances as early as the middle of November; immediately reservations are checked off on the calendars of ballrooms and restaurants. The exact form of observance varies with the nationality divisions of the city. In the Russian quarter, the day is observed as it is on the steppes of Moscow. The French greet Santa Claus in their own way, even though the wax dolls have to be brought far from the Champs Elysees. The Japanese prefer to make merry by drinking sake. The English must have their plum pudding and holly.

At the mission schools, where boys and girls are taught in separate classes, Christmas carols around the tree give modest school girls a chance not only of singing hymns but of "seeing him." In interior China, however, most of the people prefer to celebrate their own New Year holidays rather than this "imported" one. They do not even try to understand these queer foreigners. To them December 25 is just another day—Fragon's Christmas.

Made Best of Worst of

Christmas-Time Mishap

THE snow began nearly a week before Christmas and when the great day arrived, folks were trying to remember the time when it didn't snow in Morton City. Barnes, the only merchant, had put off getting his shop, or supply so the snow was his gift in town to be bought for love or money. But when news got about that the train down on the railroad siding was snowed down in Morton City, old and young sort of forgot about the lack of gifts. Too, the president of the road with his party had a special car on the rear of the snowbound passenger, and wasn't that a great honor indeed?

Folks got over the novelty of their visitors in time for the organization of a huge choir of carol singers that went down to the train and paraded through the length of the coaches, even to singing for the chef and the porters and, of course, the train men. They had remembered to take along a tree decorated with the makeshift ornaments they had on hand from previous years. But somehow, they made a great stir with all the strangers who joined heartily in the fun.

The passengers dove into their baggage and brought up boxes, boxes of candy, candy, hams, dice, fancy soaps and bath salts, highly perfumed, beautiful towels and even lovely baby clothing, wearing apparel and jewelry. In fact, not a soul in the little settlement was without one of the long-awaited gifts. The passengers received old-fashioned roasted fowls and all trimmings of a generous feast. What one hath not, the other had, seemed the most sensible explanation of the happy occasion.—Lucella B. Lyons.

Tabby Brought Kittens Into Christmas Manger

THE celebration with the Christmas tree that took place last evening and a manger beneath it, was over, and a row of little stockings were hanging for Santa Claus. Mother had just tucked the happy children into bed and the soft glow of the nursery Christmas tree was singing Christmas carols to them.

Father was about to turn off the lights below and lock the door for the evening when he heard a faint "mew" from the cold darkness without. Upon opening the door he saw a forlorn, bedraggled tabby cat almost frozen to the Christmas snow.

"Why, my poor creature," spoke father tenderly, "come in this minute!" For some moments father was busy making tabby comfortable. He found some milk which he warmed, and a portion of his day food. He served tabby with generous portions of Christmas feast and then provided a soft bed in the corner, with a cushion from his own easy chair. Tabby showed her appreciation by purring and purring louder than father had ever heard a cat purr before.

Satisfied and delighted with his Christmas guest, father retired, grinning and wondering what the family would say in the morning. Christmas morning the happy family entered the living room—the children rushing ahead, bearing their bling stockings and shouting with laughter. "Oh, look at the manger!" cried mother with surprise.

Her Christmas Present

WAS A LOVELY DAUGHTER MRS. BURKE kept a little as she trimmed the Christmas tree. "This will be the last time," she thought. "Next Christmas I'll be all alone in the world."

Her son, who was as she shared, "dreading doled up," his mother thought. "All for that girl!" She held a bright bulb aloft as though she must dash it to the floor, thought better of it, and bug it on the tree.

"Ready, mother? I'll drop you at church on the way over to Dorothy's." "In just a minute, son," Mr. Burke said, "my son, why must you leave me? Your first Christmas seems only yesterday." The beautiful old anthem filled the church. "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten son." The text: "More blessed to give than to receive." Sacrifice. I must give up my son. His happiness means more than mine.

"They were waiting for her in front of the church, young and happy. "Say, mother, Dorothy is here to have a Christmas alone. Mrs. Burke. We're all going out and celebrate. You see—my brother got married last summer, and I know just how you felt that we were losing him, and so forth. But I really wanted a dear sister, and so I want you to be just my other mother, and think of us both as your children." Joy swept back into Mrs. Burke's heart.

"Such a wonderful Christmas present!" she cried. "A daughter!"—Helen Gaisford.

TOYS CHILDREN LIKE

A COMPREHENSIVE SURVEY leads to the conclusion that building blocks are the favorite toy for children up to the age of seven, followed by dolls and stuffed animals. Mechanical toys, on the other hand, are soon discarded. Adults usually enjoy the mechanical toys more than the children for whom they are purchased.

Perfect unselfishness is equivalent to perfect selfishness.

It must be REGAL

"SORRY, but the flour must be REGAL. It may seem fussy, when flours all look so much alike, to insist on one particular brand; but REGAL is reliable, always the same, and if you spent as much time baking bread as I do, Mr. Grocer, I think you'd insist on REGAL, too.... You'll get it for me? That will be fine."

Joan's Unexpected Guest Was Her Yuletide Love

NINA had gone with her Donald to Christmas Eve, but her Christmas house to meet her and Dora, she had gone up to Lovell for Bob's fraternity dance. Joan would not if any girl had ever had such a lonely Christmas holiday in her past.

See, there's that little cripple boy down there in that rooming house on the corner that might wish some "food." I've waited at him every morning for the last six weeks. I guess we know each other well enough and they do say his mother takes that early bus into town to scrub floors, every day in the week. She told herself she was about to drop off to sleep, Christmas eve.

It was scarcely daylight when Joan had gone to the little rooming house, slipped a little note of invitation under the door of the cripple boy's door, and was on her way to the store for a supply of everything that belongs in a traditional Christmas feast, plus a few gifts for the lad.

There was barely time to exchange her house dress for a street frock so she hurried down to the corner to push the youngster's wheel chair to her house as she had promised. But at the very moment she stepped forth into the hall, she met not only her zero-to-be but a splendid, handsome young man.

"You see, miss, I got the invitation—the note was tucked under my door, but I gathered at once who you meant it for so I delivered it to Jimmy and he brought me here. I've been here together the past two hours, taking a short ride and now I'm turning him over to you, Miss—Miss—"

"Joan Burke, and you are—?"

"Larry King, Miss Burke, and this is Jimmy Jordan. With your permission, then, I'll return for my chance later in the day. What hour do you say, Miss—?"

Joan interrupted. "If I may be so bold as to ask—running at a gallop to where?"

"To the lunch wagon, if you must know," Larry acknowledged.

"You are not. If you don't stay to have Christmas dinner with us, I'm going right out into the street and hail the first stranger I see. You see I don't want any turkey left over for turkey hash, tomorrow."

Three parrots of Joan's royal feast sat the fourth guest, though unseen, was present. Love was there, uninvited. But that fourth remained forever and a day, upon invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Larry King who never forgot to include little Jimmy Jordan at their special celebration the year around.—Lucella B. Lyons.

Why Christmas Day Comes

CHRISTMAS, which seems to have been first officially instituted as a church feast day by a decree of Pope Telesphorus, between 142 A. D. and 154 A. D., was a movable feast. Indeed, it was the most movable of all the Christian feasts. It was usually celebrated by the eastern branches of the Christian church in April or May, while in the western part of Europe, days in January or other months were observed as Christmas.

In A. D. 337 St. Cyril, bishop of Jerusalem, obtained from Pope Julius I authority to appoint a commission to determine, if possible, the precise day of Christ's nativity. From the historical archives of the Roman emperors, establishing the times of occurrence of certain events of the same period of the Roman government of Palestine, they ascertained the exact day and eastern history of the Christian church agreed upon December 25 as the date of the birth of Jesus, and thereupon this became the officially decreed and generally accepted Christmas day.

CHRISTMAS SMOKES

Alice—They say a woman can't see her Christmas cheer.
May—Nonsense. I have been soundly with my husband and he says he likes tight chairs. All you have to do is to watch the shade.

Mistletoe, a Tree Pariaute

Despite its popularity as a Christmas tree, there is little word about concerning the country's supply of mistletoe. For this attractive plant, with its shiny, dark leaves and waxy white berries, grows at a price high on the branches of trees and does considerable damage to its host trees. Science has revealed that the mistletoe seeds are carried from tree to tree by birds.

Christmas Warning

"Be selfish man," said Uncle Eben, "can't be surprised if he only way he can be sure of a 'Merry Christmas' is by talking it into a phonograph record."

Expensive to Move Wheat.

It has cost Canada $4 per bushel to get a total of less than 17,000,000 bushels of wheat into seagoing boats via the Churchill route in six years of northern port operation. Generous marine insurance rates and highly efficient management over this period have failed to bring profitable operation to the Hudson Bay route.

Mr. Gandy Good Shopper,
but Forgot Own Present

IT WAS simply out of the question for Mrs. Gandy to go to Sayville last morning. The day before Christmas and a thousand things to do; but Mr. Gandy was going. Of course he could do many errands, yet hardly the one she wished most to have done—a gift for himself. Sayville was the nearest shopping place to the tiny village where the Gandys lived, a good fifteen miles over the mountains by a rocky road which ran once a day.

Mrs. Gandy was struck with an idea. He hurried to a neighbor's house and begged her to come home with her. "Just ask Mr. Gandy if he will buy or you a pair of gloves, for your husband. Give a large size. He'll never miss."

"You got the sage for the dressing? The celery?" The red toy truck for Grandma? The blue mittens for Sarah? The nuts and raisins, and the white wool for grandma?

Mr. Gandy nodded and inquired how soon supper would be ready.

"And," asked his wife casually, "the gloves for Andrew, his wife wanted?" Mr. Gandy smiled. "I clean forgot about them until the bus was ready to start. So I just jumped into a place and grabbed the first pair I saw. Good enough for old Andrew. I thought, but they aren't much. He grumbled a little shamefacedly, like a boy.

Mrs. Gandy plumped down in a chair. "Bill Gandy, that serves you just right. Those gloves are a Christmas present from me to you. You are served with your own sauce." And she laughed so hard that Bill Gandy had to join her at his own expense.—Martha B. Thomas

Mothers' Night, Ancient

English Christmas Name
THE oldest English name for Christmas is Mother's Night, or Mothers' Night. In the early days when our own forefathers had just settled down in the country that was to be England, the day of December 25th was given up to games and feasting. At the night was dedicated to the honor of mothers. They occupied the seats of honor, and every one brought their gifts. Sons and daughters who had come out into the world strove to be at home on that night in the year.

A little later the name Yule was given to Christmas, and the rejoicings of the day were prolonged into night, when men sang and told stories telling of the cheerful blaze of the Yule log.

The old customs of Mothers' Night gradually died out, though they still survive in a few parts of the country. Its place has been taken to some extent by Mother's Sunday in the North of England. The day this everyone who can do so still makes a pilgrimage somewhere, and the mother receives the homage of her family.—London Tit-Bits Magazine.

THE DAYS BEFORE

What nice minsters the polite Mr. Thompson have!
Yes. They are always like that just before Christmas!

Proper Size for Toy Blocks

Four inches long by two inches square is a good size for children's building blocks, according to educational experts. These can be made at home by cutting them from a 2 by 2 sheet of wood, sandpapering the edges and corners to a slight roundness, and painting them in bright colors. Old corn blocks can be given a new lease on life by enameling them in gay hues.

Shakespeare and Christmas

Christmas is mentioned but twice by Shakespeare, and then incidentally. Yuletide was, however, an important time in his life, because it was then that his plays were produced by command at the courts of Queen Elizabeth and James I, with Shakespeare in the cast.

Toys Should Please the Child

Select Christmas toys to please the child, not to amuse the adults in the family.

Your Christmas Pleasure

Your Christmas pleasure is due when your Christmas duty is done.

Producers in Germany of "Ronsell" the new rustless steel substitute for silver, have announced that it will be sold only in the home market for the present.

Seeing two children, tending cattle on a Transvaal farm, attacked by a lion, a bull rushed at the invader and compelled it to retreat after a fierce struggle.

Christmas Eve Alliance

Made Two Hearts Happier

THE wind howled dully, and Oscar Huggins, looking out at the shivering snow, put up the shutters. But when he righted, too, the little grocery would be closed tomorrow. Only, he wondered how to spend Christmas.

He checked over his stock, nibbled a bit of cheese, and opened the back door to throw out a rotting apple. In the snow stood a boy. The lad loved for the apple, polishing and handing it as something precious.

"Here," said Oscar roughly. "What are you doing?" The boy looked startled. "I thought you threw it away," he answered, "and so, it's pretty good."

"Humph," said Oscar. "All right, keep it. But mind you're no longer offering here. You should be home in your weather, and on Christmas eve, of all times." The lad shifted uneasily but did not leave. "Well?" Oscar demanded.

"I was looking for work, sir." Oscar looked at him sharply. "Out on your own, son?" "Yes, sir."

"Where are your folks?" His tale of bereavement, struggle and loneliness was brief but impressive.

"How'd you like to spend Christmas with me?" the grocer offered. Funny, his life a bit ago he had almost wished he wasn't closing tomorrow—now it seemed joyful.

"Gee!" exclaimed his new friend. "Sweet!" They packed a market basket to overflowing. But Oscar turned back. "Wait a minute." He selected his best candies and found a bit of red string.

"If I keep him to help in the store, he'll probably eat it anyway," he mused, "might as well show him a Merry Christmas."—Helen Gaisford.

Santa as He Appears in the Different Countries

SO SANTA CLAUS wears a red suit and a long white beard, and when he isn't busy in the toy store, drives a sleigh pulled by Donner and Blitzen? Not if you live in Hawaii. There, on a moonlit December night, you might see Santa Claus riding in from the ocean on a surf-board. As likely as not there would be a net, or wreath of flowers, about his neck, though he wears the same red suit and water-proof boots he dons for boys and girls of the United States, since Hawaii is really American territory.

In the Philippines, though it, too, is American, the white cap turns coral like a Spanish cloche. He carries a red-and-white lantern which helps him find the home of every good boy and girl, and drives buffalo, which they call carabao. The gifts are packed in baskets along across the backs of these creatures.

What would you think of Santa in a dinkshaw? But, after all, if you were a Chinese child isn't that what you would expect? And Santa never disappoints. In Japan he sits with his feet tucked under him to take his tea on a wintry afternoon, and in the African tropics—well, you just wouldn't recognize the red suit. He has even taken to using the airplane in our own country. I am sure that when he leaves the reindeer in his barn, he puts the nose of each one and urges the ice elms to feed them plenty of reindeer moss till he comes home again.—Frances Grinstead.

SANTA CLAUS

THERE is a Santa Claus. His real name is Spirit of Charity. He is the symbol of benevolence, compassion and altruism. He is the ideal of that small legion of really human beings who, pace unselfishly numerous paths to happiness with kindness, sympathy and charity.

He Was a Dutch Boy

Christmas was celebrated long before Santa Claus was ever thought of. His prototype was the Dutch boy bishop, St. Nicholas, who on December 5 used to go round punishing little children who did not say their prayers and rewarding those who did. Gradually he was changed from a boy into a jovial old man, while the glee and "reindeer" are modern additions. According to Santa Claus was unknown in England a hundred years ago. The Dutch founders of New York introduced him to America, and England borrowed him from the States.—London Tit-Bits Magazine.

Believe in Yuletide for Dead

Kitzbuhel, Austria, is one of the few places in the world which believe that the dead should share in the Yuletide celebration. On Christmas eve, this picturesque little village in the Tyrol has, for many years, decorated each grave in its cemetery with a tree lighted by candles and other small lights. Collier's Weekly.

Select Sturdy Toys

Well-built toys which will provide happy play throughout the year are better than those which make a brave showing on the Christmas tree but which are soon broken or discarded.

Thousands Seek $82.62 Job

Air-Guns Fire Trucks

Firefighting equipment is being carried by airplane to small communities in Soviet Russia in time of need and dropped to the blaze-fighters by parachute.

"Come, Let Us Adore Him,"

Happy Christmas Thought

THERE is a magical pause, a mysterious something in the air, an awakening of man's best and sweetest instincts as the Yuletide carols ring out the hallowed words: "Peace on earth, good will toward men." A pause when even the most sullen, forbidding, hard-hearted person feels an urge of the soul within him, to join in the merry festivity of Christmas.

Then, too, there is magic in red holly berries, gray green branches of bewitching mistletoe, and the perfume of woody evergreens, melting wax and the burning log. How mysteriously they recall sweet thoughts of long ago to the elders! How they fill the hearts of playful children with joyous delight!

"Christmas is the significance of childhood for almost two thousand years ago the Christ Child brought the redeeming message of love to the world. Love that keeps the little flame of hope burning; love that gives patience and courage to endure the problems of life; love that prompts the giving and receiving of gifts."

When Wise Men of the East, men of profound learning, saw a brilliant star and followed it, they found this little messenger of love in his rude and humble resting place, and they laid their most precious gifts before him.

These gifts were highly symbolical. Gold to a King, the King of Love and Mercy; Frankincense to a Priest, the God of human needs. Myrrh for a man, and for the sorrow that redeems. Thus they recognized in a little Child, the King, the Divine and the man.

As we commemorate Christ's birth each Yuletide, there is a radiant warmth and spirit of love in the giving and receiving of gifts; we pay homage and reverence to our King, our God and our Redeemer.—Agnes Myers.

Martha Found a Way to Raise Christmas Funds

CHRISTMAS was drawing nearer and nearer, but Martha Woods seemed no nearer a solution of her problem. The giving of gifts at the Yuletide season had been a tradition with Martha as long as she could remember. This year, however, she saw no way to keep up the cherished custom.

During the past months her income had shriveled to where it would buy only the necessities for herself and Emma, her faithful servant. Through no scrupling or saving could even the trifling gifts be sent to those whom she wished to remember.

Now, as she watched the whirling flakes of snow, she thought how lovely it would be to see the big room full of gaily and packages, waiting to be sent on their various ways. Regretfully she pictured the disappointment of relatives and friends who would think she had forgotten; they would never dream she had grown too poor to buy Christmas gifts; they all believed her wealthy.

With a heavy sigh she looked around the beautiful living room. The furnishings were luxurious; many of them had been in the house for generations. . . . Suddenly a cry came from her lips. She had thought of a quick, sure way to fulfill her desires. She would sell a few of the lovely old pieces. She would send to the proprietor of the antique shop without a moment's delay! Her Christmas gifts would be on their way tomorrow!—Katherine Edelman.

MANY TYPES OF HOLLY

HOLLY, so popular as a Christmas decoration, is most abundant along the bottom lands of eastern Texas and southern Arkansas. There are about 175 species of holly found throughout the world, the largest being the American holly which attains a height of 60 feet. The red-berried holly is most common, although some species bear yellow berries and others black.

Ancient German Christmas. Belief

Germans of ancient times believed that crumbs of bread made at Christmas, and which fell on the ground, would grow into little star flowers with minuscule healing powers.

Santa Claus as Usual

"Santa Claus is coming! About as usual in December," said Uncle Eben, "trigle" to bring along enough good cheer to heat de ice collector."

Non-Christians and Christmas

Non-Christians frequently join in the social observance of the day. To them, it simply has no religious significance.

Christmas Cards Old Custom

The sending of Christmas cards by way of friendly greeting and remembrance has grown up since about 1860.

Christmas Puddings Made Round

Christmas puddings are made round so that they may go round.

After going mad and terrorizing people at Moorsburg, South Africa, a cat nearly three feet long has been trapped. Once the pet of Paul Smith, a farmer, it suddenly went wild, robbed poultry houses and threatened bigger game. The feline would carry large pullets over a six-foot fence, and Smith thought the depredations were those of a jackal until he trapped it.
