Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after full time. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was added to the staff in early 1929.

Eva's job was to run the printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean out and then, one day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later, I was quite alone in the street that I lived back and forth, led a boat clanking noise, powered by a small engine, and a "plur", and as I remember it, it was a "plur". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his sense of humor.

Years ago, during the time Mr. Wallis was editor of the Scott Act (Prohibition Law) in 1928, I was about and advocated by some people, and I attended a boys' conference in the town of Digby.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole side to be bought proved by about who now reside detached, built dwellings with orchards, and some fishery and. It has communal parts of the communal provisions in a cheap, built readily to be from many circumstances, probability of place of some shipbuilding, the West India a cheap and of residence.

This advertisement, dated at Digby, December, 1802, were to be a No. 100.

free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was some Digby's daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but,

Years ago, during the time Mr. Wallis was editor of the Scott Act (Prohibition Law) in 1928, I was about and advocated by some people, and I attended a boys' conference in the town of Digby.

About This and That

I am not going to take up any space this week in writing of the "tie-up" of the Lunenburg fishing fleet. Headlines in the daily press have screamed of little else since the closing days of the year—but, for all that, we have only the newspaper accounts to go by, and, in my opinion, the majority of us are not acquainted with the actual ins and outs of the situation; and at all times one should keep in mind there are two sides to every question.

Nevertheless, in regard to the situation locally, it is hardly likely the demand of the Lunenburg Fishermen's rederation for a ten per cent increase in the price of haddock will have any effect to speak of on the fishing population of Digby County, at least, not at this time of the year. As far as the town is concerned, I was informed that (unless scallopers are classed as "fresh" fishermen) there is not one man in this so-called fishing port who makes his living by "fresh" fishing; the fresh fisherman is as extinct as the dodo bird.

The local plants are supplied by shore fishermen operating out of Digby Neck and Island ports; out of Victoria Beach and from along the Granville Shore; up along the Bay of Fundy coast, and brought in from other ports further away. As near as can be learned, the price paid locally is about, on the average, that paid the Lunenburg fleet before the tie-up, although in some cases it has been slightly higher. In any case, the majority of boats supplying the local plants will likely tie up—strike or no strike—within a few days, as it has been the custom for years to haul the boats out on the beach from about the middle of January until the end of March or early in April. There is practically no fresh fishing in the Bay of Fundy during that season.

Speaking of fishing, how many of the Digby scaup fleet are provided with boats to escape from their craft in case of emergency? We are afraid not many. When the Kenneth W. went down a short time ago, had it not been for the nearness of another craft, five men would have gone to their deaths. Human lives are precious. Many risks are taken every day on the scallop grounds—even under the best of conditions—and there should be no unnecessary gambling of this kind.

More and more complaint is made of the class of magazines, tabloids, etc., sold on the newsstands and which, too often, find their way into the home. It has now been proposed that the principles of the Legion of Democracy, which has done so much to banish filth from the movies, be applied to such publications, which would mean a vast pledge on the part of millions not to purchase such offerings, and that probably is what it will come to in view of the spread of indecent publications. That this is not in any way exaggerated is shown in the very plain comment of "Editor and Publisher," an authoritative journalist publication, which we quote in full:

"There has always been a market for pictorial bawdiness and pornography and there probably always will be, but it has generally been furtive and under cover. Now, with the mad scramble of the picture magazines for circulation, involving the big ones as well as their nasty little satellites, the business of purveying pictorial salaciousness on a big scale has come into the open. We do not know the present number of picture magazines on the market, since no one seems to be keeping an hour-by-hour

THESE DICTATORS AND OUR EMPIRE

By Claris Edwin Silcox

I Speak of Germany: by Norman Hillson. (Toronto: Musesons). Price, $3.50.

I Know These Dictators: by G. Ward Price. (Toronto: Oxford Press). Price, 2.75.

We have heard much of the Rome-Berlin axis and much of the Paris-Moscow axis. Sometimes we have wondered just where London came in. Since Italy and Germany are now both out of the League of Nations or on their way out, and since Britain, France and Russia still render lip-service to Geneva, London is for the time being in the Paris-Moscow axis, but the Rothermere press and the Anglo-German fellowship are leaving no stone unturned to create a Berlin-London axis. Their propaganda favours the jettison of the League of Nations, the return to a system of alliances based on national interests, the safeguarding of the lines of empire by an agreement whereby Germany will be given a free hand in Eastern Europe if she will leave us alone on the high seas, and a recognition of Realpolitik as opposed to Wilsonian idealism. This may or not be the best policy, but to convince Britain, democratic as she is, that it is, will tax the Rothermere resources to the limit. It also means that the people of the United Kingdom must forsake France and Russia and throw in their lot with the dictators, and if Britain does this, what will the Dominions say?

I Speak of Germany
As Mr. Hillson's book bears the sub-title "A Plea for Anglo-German Friendship," he does not disguise his partisan approach to the whole matter, although—perhaps this is typically English—he completely ignores what the Dominions may think about his scheme. He minimizes the importance of such problems as Hitler's cruel treatment of the Jews and seems quite unfamiliar with the more subtle factors in the opposition of both Catholic and Evangelical churches to the Hitler regime. In general, he admires everything that Hitler's government has done and compares their achievements with the meagre efforts of the United Kingdom to act with equal effectiveness.

Undoubtedly the Hitler regime, like the Communist regime in Russia, has worked some miracles, and we need to understand its good points and to study its success dispassionately. We can therefore learn a great deal in this book if we read it critically and not be carried away by the author's prejudices. Perhaps the best chapter is that on "The Total State" in which he attributes the resurrection of Germany to the "combination of economic methods with social service." In Canada, our governments vacillate between economic methods of creating wealth and alleged social service methods of dissipating wealth, and it often seems that more attention is devoted to its dissipation than to its creation. Only as we see the problem of relief in relation to the question of wealth, creation and take steps to safeguard the wealth already accumulated and to circumvent horrible losses in the future through forest fires, land erosion, etc., will we be able to approximate under our system of freedom what the dictatorial regime have apparently succeeded in doing at the price of freedom.

Mr. Hillson is obviously and bitterly anti-French, and if a Berlin-London axis is to be prevented, the Paris government will do well to encourage a little more understanding of British problems among the French people, for there is some truth in the author's statement that "whenever the British government begins to think of the British people at the expense of the French, the French press rises in fury and accuses us of the basest treachery." Certainly the main purpose of the British government is not to protect France, and if France does not learn to understand that fact, she may force Britain directly into the arms of Germany. In this connection, it must be remembered that Britons have perhaps more in common with Germans than with the French, although, on the other hand, France and Britain, being both "imperial" powers, may inevitably be bound more closely together against the encroachments of "hungry" nations.

I Show These Dictators
G. Ward Price is a special correspondent of The London Daily Mail and a loyal devotee of the Rothermere press. He knows and admires both Hitler and Mussolini. The best thing about the book is that it is a corrective of the thesis that these dictators are megalomaniacs, egotists and fanatics. Indeed, he finds them intensely gentle, amiable and human. Much in the lives of these two men is comparable. Both were born in relative poverty and knew its bitterness; both served in the war; both were wounded on active service; both served terms in prison for political offences; both love music; both are orators and know how to sway huge crowds to frantic devotion with impassioned, even theatrical, appeal; both are adored by their subjects; both are practically total abstainers, Mussolini limiting his indulgence in wine to state dinners when bore some speeches have to be offset in some way; both are non-smokers and Hitler cannot abide the smell of tobacco; both are frugal in their meals, Mussolini sipping only a glass of milk for breakfast and abstaining from both tea and coffee; both are thoroughly consistent with their own avowed principles. To be sure, there are some differences as well. Hitler is a true German—dreamy, mystical, intuitive—who cannot refer to some of his early struggles without tears coming to his eyes; Mussolini, on the contrary, is a true Latin with flashing, twinkling eyes and a dash of saving cynicism, less mystical and more coldly and ruthlessly logical. The one is the more subjective; the other the more objective. Both, however, believe in their stars and do not fear assassination. They expect to die in their beds.

What is more important—both have challenged democracy and done away with the crudities of the multiparty system which is the bane of democracy. Mr. Ward Price, however, sneers openly at the follies of democracy and quotes Lloyd George "the dictators act while the democratic leaders fumble"; again, "the difference between Germany and the democratic countries is like that between a professional and an amateur football side. The amateurs can please themselves; but the professionals have the satisfaction of playing better football." Again, to use the words of Mussolini "fascism has abolished the game of parliamentary chess; it has simplified the taxation system and reduced the deficit to measurable proportions." While Mr. Ward Price is glad that democratic Britain allows the Rothermere press to speak its mind freely in praise of dictators, he appears to favour the subservience of the press to government policy instead of the practice of democratic countries where a large part of the press has moved in the opposite direction. Instead of putting national movements first, "its outlook on public affairs is dominated by a set of vague and visionary principles." Mr. Aberhart might approve.

Mr. Ward Price gives much more space to Hitler than to Mussolini and this is probably due to the larger amount of material available in Hitler's autobiography and also because his primary concern is with Anglo-German friendship which, he says, "is the key to the European situation." No one objects to Anglo-German friendship if it is not based merely on the author's fundamental abhorrence of communism, his contempt for democracy and the ideals of collective security, his addiction to nationalism, imperialism and Realpolitik, his incurably European mind which views the lesser breeds with contempt, and his opposition to the set of idealistic principles which he designates as "vague and visionary." Perhaps his policy may win the day, but one wonders if it is worth the possible price of the disintegration of the British Empire and the collapse of all possibility of Anglo-American understanding. Britain may have to choose, and Rothermere at all will do well to widen their vision beyond Europe to the New World and the Far East.

According to statistics, more than one-half of Japan's total foreign trade is with the British Empire and the United States and its dependencies.

COASTING ACCIDENT

An unfortunate accident occurred early last week on the highway hill known as the Winchester Hill, Smith's Cove, when a number of the children in that vicinity went on a coasting party, after supper. A large sled, with two boys on it, crashed into a set of double sleds with almost fatal results. The unfortunate victim was Charlie McKinnon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McKinnon, who was seriously injured, having his upper lip badly cut, losing or injuring a number of his teeth, cut about the face and hurting both knees. When picked up by some of the neighbours the lad was unconscious. Dr. Campbell, of Bear River, was called. Some of the children were slightly injured. The lad is improving rapidly.

While working on a portrait of King George, Philip de Laszlo, the famous portrait painter, was taken ill and died shortly afterward in his home in Hampstead, England. The portrait was to have been hung in the Royal Veterinary College. De Laszlo was 68, a native of Budapest, and a naturalized British subject.

Because he suspected his girl friend of going out with another man, a youth of Ballarat, Australia, pulled out her false teeth, then took her fur coat and burned it. This was testified in a Ballarat court when the girl charged the young man with the theft of the coat. The case was adjourned.

Christmas Tree At Tiverton

This Christmas Tiverton joined other towns and villages having a community tree, brilliantly lighted, and adorning the heart of the town, near the Digby County Power Board show room. Donations were handed in from all stores in the town, of candy, peanuts, oranges, etc. All children received their share from Santa Claus and those who needed toys received same.

This cheer and happiness has started a great work, and we feel that in the coming years greater things will be done to help the little ones and make their lives brighter.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Sulis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Sulis, who has been spending the Christmas holidays with her parents, at "Hillcote", Smith's Cove, has returned to resume her studies at Acadia University, Wolfville.

Wishing One Great Blessing For the New Year

(Wolfville Acadian) Best Wishes for 1938! For the readers of the Acadian, and for the world in general one wishes at least one great blessing.

Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany did not have it. The lack of it cost him an empire, "or as an American might say, cost the German people billions of dollars" (Lin Yutang is responsible for this). Mussolini hasn't it. Hitler hasn't, although they say that in private life he shows some symptoms of it.

Even in Wolfville one occasionally meets some one without it.

If the former German Emperor or had had it we might have been spared the World War. If Mussolini and Hitler had it, they would not be precipitating Europe into a "state of nerves every few weeks."

If citizens in general had it, they would not, for instance, lose their temper when they lose, say, at cards, or checkers. They would not resign from the committee because some one opposed their views. Most of the gossip that hurts would never set out upon its itinerary. Church work would flourish in a gracious and lovely fellowship—if people all had this great blessing. No more would time be wasted "handling people with gloves". Petty irritations, jealousies, resentments, a multitude of nuisances would at once disappear.

It is a sense of humour. The ability to laugh at ourselves, to avoid taking ourselves too seriously, to avoid the assumption that we are always right, and more important, the ability to value more correctly, not only ourselves, but the ambitions, pursuits, etc., to which we devote ourselves, the capacity for seeing life in a true perspective. May we all strive to achieve it in 1938!

Yours quite seriously,
J. P. C. Fraser,
Minister St. Andrew's United Church, Wolfville.

Foley—Boudreau
A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry King, uncle of the bride, Clementsport, Jan. 4th, when Helen Dorothy, daughter of Mrs. H. Boudreau and the late Samuel Boudreau, became the bride of Douglas Reid Foley, oldest son of Mrs. Orbin Everitt and the late Austin Foley, of Victoria Beach. Rev. K. C. Burnett performed the ceremony. The couple will make their home at Victoria Beach.

Elliott—Rice
The marriage of two popular young people of Clementsport was solemnized by Rev. C. E. Rockingham at the Baptist Parsonage, Deep Brook, Thursday morning of last week, when Alma C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. A. Rice, became the bride of Vernon A., son of Mrs. Gertrude and the late Walter Elliott. The ceremony was witnessed by immediate relatives only. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott were on a short motor trip through the western part of the province, and are now residing in Clementsport. On Wednesday evening of the same week a miscellaneous shower was tendered these young people when many beautiful gifts were received.

LIKE US, HE LOVES THE "ROCKIES"

Mr. and Mrs. Jule Faust after spending Christmas in Oakland, California, left on Monday of this week for Los Angeles where they intend to stay a few days, before proceeding to St. Petersburg, Florida, where they will spend a month or so. In a letter to the editor, Mr. Faust says they have seen many beautiful places and refers particularly to Monterey. But, like the editor and party on their recent trip, he was impressed with the beauty and grandeur of the Canadian Rockies. We cannot do better than reproduce his own words: "Just a word in closing. Had I only a fair command of the English language, a vocabulary of even a first grade pupil that I could let loose the impressions cooped up in my head concerning the wonderful gift God gave to Canada when He planted the "Rockies" on our side. If there were no other mountains other than Castle Mountain it would still be worth a trip around the world to see. The unfortunate thing is I did not see the Rockies twenty-five years ago that I could have twenty-five more years to visualize and thoroughly enjoy them."

Maurice Webber is on a trip to the West Indies.

Howard Marshall
The death of Howard Marshall, well known Digby County carpenter, occurred at his home at North Range, Digby County, on Tuesday of this week. The late Mr. Marshall, who was 76 years of age, was born at South Range, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Marshall. Funeral services took place yesterday afternoon from North Range Baptist Church, Rev. M. C. Higgins officiating. Interment was at North Range. Surviving him are: his widow, the former Nettie Bell, whom he married more than 50 years ago; nine children, namely: Henry, of Hill Grove; Mrs. Alfred Height, North Range; Mrs. George Donnelly, Digby; Mrs. Curtis Cook, Digby; Benjamin, Hill Grove; Donald, of North Range; Mrs. John Ryan, Needham Heights, Mass.; Pearl, at home, and Robert, of Digby; also two brothers, Alpheus Marshall, Weymouth, and Augustus Marshall, South Range; two sisters, Mrs. Alfred Cosman, Riverdale, and Mrs. Nettie Young, Brighton.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gidney
There occurred on Dec. 20, at her home in Rossway, the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Gidney, one of the oldest residents of the province. She passed her 95th birthday on Dec. 8. She was one of Digby Neck's most highly esteemed residents and until some months ago has been very active. She was the widow of the late Johnstone Gidney, who predeceased her by fourteen months. Surviving her are: two daughters, Mrs. Charles Peters (Elizabeth) of Centreville; Mrs. Frank Muise (Mary) of Rossway; and William, of Centreville, (who has been confined to his home for many months); two sisters, Mrs. Leander White, of Rossway; and Mrs. Frances Wagner, of Sissiboo Falls; and one brother, Timothy Robicheau, of Rossway. There are also many grandchildren, and several great grand-children. High Mass and funeral service were conducted at the Roman Catholic Church at Rossway, by Rev. Fr. Gaudet, of Plympton, on Wednesday morning. Interment was beside several children, who predeceased her.

Samuel Connors
Samuel Connors, a native of Digby and a half-brother of the late Hardy Bent, died at his home here Wednesday at noon, after a very brief illness of pleurisy. He leaves a widow, formerly the Miss Hilda Butler, who is a patient in the Nova Scotia Hospital at Dartmouth, but, as far as is known, no other living relatives. He was about 65 years old—a quiet, hard-working man well liked by those who knew him well. His life has not been an easy one. As a young man he was always in trouble, and to his companions was known as "Snowball". Going to the United States he committed an "assault with intent to kill" on a woman friend, and was sentenced to life imprisonment. He had no friends to intercede for him and his sentence dragged along year after year although the woman he had assaulted made a complete recovery, married and raised a family. Forgotten by everyone except his half-brother, Hardy Bent, who remembered him every Christmas, the years passed along, until he had served about 37 years. Finally the editor of the Courier, who wrote Hardy's letters for him (he was unable to write himself) and read Sam's replies, wrote to Governor Fuller, drawing his attention to the case, and Sam was released three weeks later and deported to Canada. Since his arrival he has been an exemplary citizen. A good worker and thrifty he soon managed to buy a piece of land and build a small house. Then he married and in his home life was happy. During his incarceration he had learned the right way of living. Deeply religious in a quiet way, he has done a lot of good work among the people of his own race. A non-drinker, non-smoker and non-swearer his example to the children has been good and he frequently talked to them in "Sunday School" and church. In the few years of his freedom he has done much to offset the wilful years of his youth. Poor Sam! We trust that in the life he looked forward to he will find the happiness and joy that he lost in this life. He was a member of Holy Trinity Anglican Church, here, and also devoted much of his time and effort to the activities of the Acaciaville African Baptist Church. Funeral services will take place this afternoon

THE POST OFFICE

Looking back over the week or ten days that have passed, few will begrudge the Post Office a word of hearty commendation. It handled a record mail in a record manner. It did it all with so little fuss that the service might be passed by without notice; and for that reason it is well to draw attention to it and to invite the public to appreciate what was done for it this Christmas. The public asked more than ever of the Post Office and the latter rose to the occasion. The vast Christmas mail was carried and distributed with exemplary despatch and efficiency, while there was no noticeable dislocation of the routine mail. What this must mean in terms of organization and forethought is better imagined than described. A tremendous amount of arrangement must have been necessitated by this year's Christmas mail.

At any time the Post Office is something of a miracle. It is, however, one of those marvels to which we are so accustomed that we even grumble when the tiniest hitch occurs.

The work of the Post Office has grown tremendously, no alone in the volume of matter carried, but in the variety of services it performs. The Post Office is now a great deal more than a mere carrier of letters, newspapers and parcels. It acts for many as a banker; within limits it is an insurance agent; by using its C. O. D. system it collects small accounts and when general information on government affairs is to be distributed this is usually effected through the Post Office. Its employees have to be trained and trustworthy servants to perform all these duties, and it is therefore all the more remarkable when additional calls are made upon it and extra staff must be employed how spontaneous and unflustered is the Post Office's response.

RAVENS TI-UNCE ANNA-POLIS

The Digby Ravens took their first crack at junior hockey on Tuesday night and emerged victorious over Annapolis by a score of 8-3. The Ravens outplayed their opponents all through the game. It was a fast and bruising game, but only three penalties were handed out, all to Annapolis.

The Ravens scored right after the face-off, F. Raymond netting the puck after a scramble in front of the net to open the Digby scoring; Raymond scored the second goal about 10 minutes later. Gilliat scored the first goal for Annapolis before the end of the period. Raymond put the Ravens three up with two more goals in the second period only to have Annapolis cut the lead to one goal by Weir and Gilliat.

Raymond scored his fifth goal of the game about twenty seconds after the start of the third period, and G. Sanford added the sixth a few seconds later. Theriault scored from a scramble in front of the nets and G. Sanford stickhandled through the entire Annapolis team to score a brilliant goal. Annapolis put the pressure on in the last minutes of the game but could not penetrate the Ravens' defence. J. Raymond, with five goals, led the Digby attack and was outstanding for Digby. All the Digby team showed up to advantage. The line-up was: Goal—Golden.

A luxuriantly conditioned travel on a deluxe Canadian Pacific train brings the holiday seeker to Victoria. He has passed through all the rigors of winter, sub-zero temperatures, blizzards and a whole continent swathed in white, but and he has traversed the eighty-odd miles of the San Juan de Fuca straits, he enters, at the conclusion of his trip, a new land—Canada's Evergreen Playground—Vancouver Island with Victoria at its southern tip, and he has exchanged winter at its peak for summer.

Fourth largest in the chain of great Canadian Pacific hotels across the Dominion, the Empress Hotel at Victoria offers him all facilities. Located in a beautiful garden fronting the placid waters of Victoria's inner harbor, the Empress Hotel covers such unique features as its Conservatory with fountains playing amid masses of flowers and the nearby Crystal Garden with glass-enclosed swimming pool, palm-bordered promenades and warm salt-water bathing.

The traveller steps into summer at once with new sights, brilliant sunshine and the tang of Pacific breezes, minimum rainfall and ideal temperature variations. Golf is at hand on the championship Royal Colwood Club course where, March 7-12, there will be held the Annual Winter Golf Tournament for the Sir Edward Beatty Challenge Cup, the Chamber of Commerce Trophy, Victoria Rotary Club Rose Bowl, the Matson Inter-District Team Cup and other valuable prizes.

We congratulate Miss Peck and wish her every success in her new sphere of work. (Miss Peck is a daughter of Geo. Peck, of Bear River).

Harris - Benson

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sanford, Clementsvalle, on the evening of December 29, when Edith Louise only daughter of Harding Benson, of Bear River, was united in marriage to Vernon L. Harris, only son of the late George H. and Lalia Harris, also of Bear River. The Rev. A. W. L. Smith, rector of St. Clements parish, performed the ceremony beneath an arch of evergreen and white roses, from which was suspended a white wedding bell. A Christmas tree, beautifully decorated and illuminated with colored lights, formed a pleasing background. The bride looked charming in a gown of powder blue crepe and was given in marriage by Frank H. Dittmars, brother-in-law of the groom. Following the ceremony a dainty lunch was served from the dining room table, which was tastefully decorated in a color scheme of pink and white. An attractive wedding cake adorned one end of the table while at the other end a birthday cake, equally pleasing, occupied a prominent position, it being the occasion of Mr. Sanford's birthday. At a late hour the happy couple left by car for Bear River, where they will reside.

Her Finger Joints Began to Swell

Perfectly Straight at 63—Thanks to Kruschen

Nearly twenty years ago, this woman was attacked by severe rheumatism. Now 63, she tells how Kruschen restored her to health, and has kept her free from rheumatism all these years.

"In 1918, an attack of 'flu' left me with severe rheumatism and I was in bed three months. When I got up I could only hobble around with difficulty and pain. My finger joints were beginning to swell, and were very painful. I was told that nothing could be done for the swelling. A friend recommended me to try Kruschen Salts, which I did with very satisfactory results. To-day, at 63, my fingers are perfectly straight, I am free from rheumatism, and can do all my own housework." — (Mrs.) M. W.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen have the power of dissolving the needle-pointed crystals of uric acid which settle in your joints, causing them to swell, ache and inflame. Other ingredients of Kruschen assist Nature to flush out these dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEETING

The January meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute was held in the Masonic building on Monday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. Romans, in the chair. The secretary had a wealth of correspondence to be dealt with, and among the reports of the committees received the most important, perhaps, was that of the Christmas cheer boxes, showing a very heavy task done in an efficient manner by the benevolent committee, and boxes containing fruit, candy nuts, toys, groceries and clothing were sent to eleven families. The packing and delivery of these boxes—which is no small task—was ably looked after by Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Harris, and surely the old saying still holds true: "If you want a thing done promptly ask a busy person to do it" as this must have been an added burden to them at a very busy season of the year. The Institute was also supported in their work by donations of money from the Hon. J. L. Hilsley, Major Simons, Capt. Forrester, the Porter Bridge, Willing Workers' choirs, ekm. Club and some of the Institute members; and this week $5.00 was given us by the Girls' Willing Workers' Club, and will be used to augment the Cocoa Fund, as, beginning next Monday, cocoa will be served to the "bring-their-lunch" pupils of Oakdene.

Due to the volume of business transacted at the meeting the demonstrations of knitting had to be postponed to a future date.

The Ladies' Circle met with Mrs. R. J. Anthony, Tuesday afternoon.

Annual Christmas tree entertainments were the order of the week in the Bear River Sunday schools; also at Morganville, Greenland, Cross Roads, and Milford Corner—all real successes.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

"I resolve, by the magic of lighting, selection, and arrangement, to find the pictures hidden in common things."

LONG tradition demands that everyone resolve, at the beginning of a new year, to turn over a new leaf, perhaps several new leaves. If this is a good idea for ordinary people, it is a still better idea for us as photographers. Even the best of us make mistakes that we could avoid if we would only take a firm stand—and nothing can help so much as to work out a code and then stick to it.

Here, then, is a set of New Year's Resolutions for Snapshot Guild members. Check them over and see which ones apply to you. Add any others you think of. Then paste the whole list in your photographic notebook and abide by it in the twelve-month ahead:

- This year I resolve—
1. To think always before I shoot.
 2. To remember that a camera has no brain of its own, only an eye, and will only take pictures of the scenes and subjects I put in front of it.
 3. To bear in mind that my pictures to be good must be interesting to other people as well as myself and that to be interesting a picture must have a central idea, a pleasing arrangement and lighting which is suited to the idea the picture is to express.

I further resolve—

4. To try to see the "hidden pictures" in everything and to ask myself, not "Is this a good picture subject?" but rather, "How can I, by the magic of lighting and arrangement, bring out the picture or pictures this subject contains?"
5. To experiment with lighting and pictorial arrangement so that my eye will become trained to see the pictures inherent in common things.
6. To study my mistakes and note down what I did that was wrong and remember not to make the same error twice. And I resolve that whenever I make an error, I will try to do the picture over the right way, so that its lesson will be more pointed.

In other words—I resolve to make more and better pictures.
John van Guilder.

AN IDOL (?) SHATTERED

One of the screen's so-called heroines committed popular suicide via the radio route. On Sunday night, Dec. 12, the sensational actress Mae West registered, according to Congressman O'Toole, "an all-time low" in a broadcast from Hollywood, advertising a brand of American coffee.

Canadian listeners were shocked at the blatant vulgarity and wondered at the depths to which some could sink. But American reaction came quickly. Next day the broadcasting station and the sponsors hastened to apologize through the press and the humiliation was again expressed at the opening of the programme the following week. Now Congress has debated it and demanded a censorship of radio to keep broadcasts "decent and clean".

One effect the incident will have is to remove from the public eye the licentious siren that had gained a debased popularity through her shocking the senses of all persons having a degree of morality. She happily has knocked herself out.—(Eastern Chronicle.)

NEW YEAR GREETINGS

Dear Courier:—I am writing to wish you a Happy New Year. The year now closing has been, as far as I can judge, a good one for you, and I hope the new one will be still better.

I was a small boy when you were born and ever since, and especially during the last nine years, I have marked your progress with much interest. I can therefore claim to be one of your oldest friends. For sixty-four years you have bravely carried on through storm and sunshine. You have had your ups and downs, and who has not? You have faithfully recorded the joys and sorrows, the good and bad deeds of the people of Digby County. You have encouraged the boys and girls to do their best at school by printing the results of their examinations. You have made famous the farmer, who killed the biggest hog or raised the largest turnip. You have brought joy to the hearts of the youngsters who found the latest strawberry or caught the earliest butterfly. You have championed the cause of the people of Digby County against all assaults. You have done many "thank you" jobs to promote the work of churches and worthy societies.

We are none of us perfect. The most the best of us can manage is to keep an account with ourselves of the good and evil that we do and try to make the good a little more than counter-balance the evil. It seems to me that your account shows a large number of good entries with very few items on the per contra side. Within your own field you are a mirror of that strange mysterious thing we call Life and an influence for good that the people of Digby County could ill afford to do without. From this far distant point I send you and all your readers my heartiest Greetings for a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Frank Jones.

"ABOUT THIS AND THAT" Continued

total, but the last half dozen we have looked through reveals their editors tunnelling sweetly into the smut pile. A few newspapers, perhaps thinking there is a bonanza in this sort of thing, have recently printed picture features which are definitely out of place in publications going into the home.

"Two facts in the situation are plain to responsible publishers and editors. First: that national advertisers wouldn't be caught dead in ninety per cent of these publications, as their lack of copy attests; second, that a firm groundwork is being laid for insistent censorship demands. The printed material already at hand which, if assembled, would impress any legislative group. The censorship implication is by far the most important, not only to the newspapers but to the picture magazines themselves.

Obviously, if the public refused to buy these horrible things they would soon go out of existence just as the salacious movies have disappeared because the public refused to patronize them. Incidentally how do these abominations manage to get through the mails?

Maritime Telegraph & Telephone Company, LimitedOFF TO A GOOD START

The new blend of coffee recently put on the market by J. E. Morse & Company, and known by the name of Morse's Standard Coffee, has already scored a success. Coffee drinkers are asking where they can get it, retailers who stocked a sample carton are asking for more, and others who have heard about it are on their own initiative asking for a shipment. In other words, the new product is off to a good start. One factor which greatly helped its introduction was the prestige of the Morse name. Ever since 1870 the name of Morse has been synonymous with quality in tea; consequently, buyers have been ready to welcome the new coffee. The response to the new enterprise was immediate and the house of Morse is greatly encouraged. Put up in parchment-lined bags a great economy in production is achieved by which it is possible to sell Morse's Standard Coffee at 27 cents per pound.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

A HEALTH REVIEW

At the beginning of each year it is customary, in many fields of human endeavor, to review the twelve months which have passed, to take stock, as it were, and to consider whether or not the year has been a profitable one. It is upon the successes and failures of the past years that we base our plans for the future.

It is, therefore, rather an appropriate time for us to review the health conditions of our own families as they were during the year. First of all, we should consider whether or not we have taken those steps which would protect us from certain diseases. Vaccination does prevent smallpox. Have you allowed yourself or your children to be exposed to this disease through failure to use vaccination as a means of protection? Diphtheria can be prevented by diphtheria immunization. Have you allowed this disease to continue as a menace to the very lives of your children by your failure to have them immunized?

Safe water and pure milk are fundamental needs. Contaminated water and dirty milk are still the cause of much sickness and many deaths. Have you seen to it that the water you and your family drink, and the milk that you use are pure, or do you live with the dangers of impure water and milk hanging over you?

Have you given attention to your home? Are your windows screened to keep out flies? Do the windows open to allow for proper ventilation? Does the sunshine get into your rooms?

A much larger measure of health is within the grasp of most of us, but we must make the necessary effort to seize it. If you delayed last year, if you were careless in health matters start off this year by doing the things you should do in order to avoid certain diseases and to lead healthier lives.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

About This and That

The approaching civic election date has started political pots a-simmering in many of the provincial towns, in fact, judging from press reports they are literally boiling over in some towns. To date, we have only heard one new name mentioned as a possible councillor for the next two-year term.

We apologize for not mentioning it before, for certainly we had intended to: The thanks of this district are due the Bank of Nova Scotia for their beautiful 1938 calendar; the picture is one of local interest, showing Bear River and Digby Gut. The thousands of these calendars that have been distributed cannot help but speak a good word for this locality. Other calendars we have received this year include those of Rolph-Clark-Stone, Limited; Royal Print & Litho, Limited; Sears, Limited; Barber-Ellis, Limited; George C. Ryan, Royal Bank of Canada, Digby Motors and Dakin Brothers.—Another very much appreciated gift was that of a leather pocket book from Senator Dennis, of the Halifax Herald.

Notwithstanding the advance made in other forms of land transport, railways throughout the world are still the backbone of land transportation. They are continuing to show progress and there seems to be a noticeable trend back to the railways, due possibly to the more and more congested state of the highways and the delays thereby encountered and the increasing danger to life and limb. As a case in point, New Zealand shows a 5.8 per cent increase in passenger travel according to latest figures available. Freight traffic recorded an increase of 13.1 per cent.

Canadian Relief Cut Heavy Annual Load

Although relief figures now stand at a new low for recent years, Canada is still faced with serious problems of unemployment and dependency, according to "The Relief Outlook in Canada," an annual review prepared by the Canadian Welfare Council.

The council concluded, "There is a heavy tide of seasonal dependency in Canada that engulfs 300,000 to 400,000 individuals each year in recurring dependency on public aid; that involves an unascertained number of 50 years ago.

ber in idleness and dissipation of savings and reserves and that must affect some 150,000 adult workers.

The total of relief recipients in Canada for December is estimated by the council at 900,000 compared with officially recorded totals of 1,043,166 in November and 1,118,552 in December, 1936.

The widow of Dr. Hillard, of Grimsby, Ontario, who died in 1919, has just received a letter from an anonymous writer, enclosing $5 in settlement of a debt owing to her husband over 50 years ago.

DIGBY, NOVA SCOTIA. FRIDAY, JANUARY 14, 1938

VOLUME LXIV, NO. 16

Let Us Assert Ourselves as Citizens of a Live Town

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—Please accept my heartfelt congratulations upon your last editorial in 1937. Pleasing in tone, it was at the same time impressive, and full of meaning for the people of this town. It is seldom, indeed, in these days of panics and "phobias" that one has an opportunity to read such sane and well-balanced comments upon the community in which one lives.

After speaking with a justified pride of the past progress, and present standing of Digby, you continue:—

"While Digby has much to boast of as it considers past achievement, it would be sheer folly at this stage of community development to rest content with past laurels, and cease striving for further advancement."

In very proof and emphasis of this statement, we read in the Christmas Cheer report of the same issue:—

"We do not seem to realize that about one out of every fourteen of our town population is living in dire need the WHOLE YEAR ROUND."

And what, one asks of the hundreds, who, while not in DIRE need are on the borderline of mere existence?

Surely, with such a spur to urge them on, the entire adult population of the community will ACT to ensure a very different story before next New Year!

Act? Yes, but how? People will ask, frequently do ask: "I'd like to do something, but what can I do?"

The answer is clear. We are living in a democratic country, that means in a country governed by Demos, or the people, and that, in turn, means that WE alone, the citizens and not the government (state, provincial or local), are to blame for such evils as we see around us. WE alone, the citizens, have the power to correct those evils. For this purpose was Democratic power put into our hands, and, if we fail to use it, or allow of its misuse by others, it will be reft from us, and we will fall under the heel of extreme dictatorship.

It is interesting, in this connection, to notice how common it is to meet men who say that while they would like to see things altered, they dare not speak for fear of losing their jobs, or the goodwill of customers upon whom their business depends. We also hear, that for the same reason, the press is not free to speak its mind on subjects of communal importance.

If this is a true bill, the persons responsible for such suppression of free speech are anti-social; they aim to kill democracy; they are the breeders of that very Communism which, with good reason, they hate and fear.

If they continue to apply this suppressive principle, with the advancement of their own selfish material gain in view, they will be the assassins of Democracy, the creators of extremist Dictatorship, and the guarantors of the destruction of that very power and property which they hold most dear.

But is this serious charge fully justified? Are there really people in our community so short-sighted that they will intentionally set out to kill the goose that lays the golden egg? Or is this rather a neat excuse for the average citizen who wants to get out from under his communal responsibilities and at the same time save his mace?

It is up to US, the citizens, to answer that in no uncertain voice. Ever since those dark days, over a hundred years ago, when five farm laborers of Tolpuddle, in England, tried to form the first trade union, and for their pains were sentenced to deportation for life to the penal settlements of Australia, the upward fight of the "working class" ses" in that country has been painful and slow. Today, due partly to the power of the T. U. C., but far more to the increased enlightenment of the employers of labor, Great Britain is the sole representative of true Democracy in all this troubled world.

Neither Communism nor Fascism can make any headway in a country as long as the people are free to speak, and make proper USE of that freedom. Deny that freedom, or neglect it, and dictatorship is at hand.

This principle, which is true of a country, is equally true of a smaller community, such as this town. WE, the citizens of Digby, must have absolute freedom to speak our minds, and we must USE that freedom to the advancement of the community's welfare.

This is not a challenge to any man, or group of men; it is a call to every adult citizen of Digby, "big" or "little", young or old. Let us resolve to try out for this coming year the principles of true Democracy. Let us meet and discuss our problems with mutual trust and good nature. Let us be willing to sacrifice personal gain to communal welfare. Let us be guided in our dealings, not so much by the Letter of the Law, man made and fallible, as by that inner sense of Right, which is Divine and infallible. Let us so think and speak and act, that by the Christmas of 1938 this little community of Digby will stand as an example to all men of the fruits of true Democracy.

SOVIET PURGE TOLL 1300

Nearly 1300 persons, including many high Soviet officials, are known to have been executed in Russia since Joseph Stalin declared last March: "The enemy must be exterminated."

A campaign against farm "wreckers" resulted in the execution of 630 individuals accused of crimes ranging from grain spoilage to spreading disease among livestock.

Charges of spying and sabotage sent an additional 651 persons before the firing squad during the 10-month period.

Among those once high in Soviet councils were eight officials whose execution was announced December 19, including Leo M. Karakhan, former Vice Commissar of Foreign Affairs, and Avel Yenukidze, veteran of the revolution and a close friend of Mr. Stalin until his arrest on charges of personal immorality.

Probably the most eminent of the victims of the "purge" was Marshall Mikhail N. Tukhachevsky, Vice Commissar of War, who was executed with seven other high ranking generals on June 12th.

Most of the executions were never officially announced in Moscow. Reports of them were culled largely from provincial newspapers, and many are believed to have escaped even that much notice.

In recent months, many Soviet ambassadors and ministers, recalled from their posts abroad, have disappeared from public life. In this group was Boris Skvirsky, well known in the United States as one of the first Soviet diplomatic agents in Washington.

MOST PROVINCES MAINTAIN THEIR VICE-REGAL HOMES

Ontario joined a small minority of Canadian Provinces at the end of November when it discontinued paying keep of an official residence for the lieutenant-governor.

Premier Hepburn long has contended that the $25,000 spent annually for the maintenance of Chorley Park could be put to some other purpose. So when Lieutenant-Governor Herbert Bruce moved out of the stately residence in Rosedale, on November 30, the Ontario government no longer maintained it as the official domicile of the king's representative. It may be sold.

Of the other provinces, New Brunswick is the only one actually without a state residence. Many years ago the Government house was sold to the Dominion government and it is now used by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick, at present Col. Murray MacLaren, lives in his own home in Saint John and rents a residence in Fredericton during legislative sessions. His expenses are paid from interest on $50,000, the sum obtained from the Dominion for the old Government House.

In Prince Edward Island, the lieutenant-governor pays for the upkeep of the official residence at Charlottetown. There is an arrangement, however, whereby the government defrays the cost of repairing.

Except for Rideau Hall, at Ottawa, the residence of the governor-general, maintained by the Dominion government, the province of Quebec maintains the most lavish of the vice-regal establishments.

Quebec's government house is at Spencer Wood, a 69-acre property on the south-western fringe of Quebec city. It has housed seventeen lieutenant-governors since confederation. Its yearly maintenance cost is about $55,000, not counting the $10,000 salary to the incumbent, at present Hon. E. L. Patenaude. In recent years the upkeep has gone somewhat above the $50,000 figure.

The government house at Halifax was built in 1827. Present cost of maintenance is about $5,000 yearly, paid by the Provincial administration.

The Manitoba government house was built at a cost of $125,605, and the legislature at Winnipeg appropriates $10,000 a year for its support.

In Alberta about $12,000 a year is spent to maintain the government house at Edmonton. In 1934 the legislature passed a resolution asking that no further appointment be made at the end of the term of the lieutenant governor in office. The resolution recommended an inquiry into the possibility of turning the government house into a sanatorium. No action has been taken as yet on the resolution. It costs about $35,000 annually to keep British Columbia's

Acadia's 100th Anniversary

The interest of all friends of Acadia is focussed this year upon the preparations being made for the Centennial of Acadia's founding. On November 15th, 1838, the decision was made to add to the work being done in Horton Academy, established in 1828, the work of a college. Classes were opened shortly afterwards.

From the beginning of Horton Academy in 1828 and of Acadia College in 1838 the work of the institutions at Wolfville has continued without interruption. There have been obstacles that at the time seemed insurmountable. There have been many changes in the curriculum and in the organization of the institutions themselves. But the changes have been those incident to an evolving life. At no time has either the College or the Academy been forced to discontinue its work.

It is this one hundred years of continuous service which graduates and friends of the University will celebrate on August 24-28, 1938. The indications are that graduates will gather in large numbers from all parts of Canada and the United States. The exercises, plans for which are already underway, will be, in character, appropriate to mark the close of one century and the beginning of another.

The founders were men of vision, and foresaw a great future for Acadia, but in their most inspired moments they could not have seen, even dimly, the Acadia that was to be. The faculty of three has become a faculty of fifty. The student body of 21 has become a student body of over 500. The stately wooden building erected at the cost of about $12,000 has given place to 18 buildings, some of them among the finest of their kind, valued, with grounds, at nearly $2,000,000. The site, picturesque but uncared for has been transformed under the touch of the landscape gardener that no more beautiful campus is to be found in Canada.

But grounds and buildings do not make a university. When properly planned and well cared for they have an educational value government house in operation. The structure was built in 1903. Hon. Archibald Peter McNab, who receives $9,000 annually, lives in the government house at Regina, which is maintained by the province of Saskatchewan.

Miss Primrose Elliott, who has spent the past three months in Central Clarence, has returned to her home here.

Bertram Johnson returned on Thursday last from a pleasant visit with relatives and friends in Massachusetts.

Mrs. J. E. Rice is confined to the house by illness.

The Karsdale Helping Hand of the Baptist church, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Wheelock, on the 5th inst.

but they are chiefly tools with which the main work of a university is done. What really counts are the academic standards of a university and the results it is able to secure in the personalities of its graduates. What of Acadia in this respect?

The record of its graduates has been high. In the graduate schools of Canada and the United States they have won high standing. Since 1918 the graduates of Acadia have won approximately $250,000 in scholarships, assistantships and fellowships in the graduate schools of Canada and the United States.

In addition many of them have gone on to positions of importance in the universities. The student body of Acadia has never been large yet more than 180 of its graduates have filled positions of importance as presidents, deans and professors in the colleges and universities of this continent. Many others have gone into public life and have filled important places in such professions as medicine and law. They have their place on the bench of the Supreme Court, in the Provincial and Federal parliaments, and in the Senate of Canada. Some of them have won high places in the public life of the United States.

Today Acadia faces the future. The problems at the end of the century, however, are much the same as at the beginning. The outer garb of youth has changed, but the heart of youth is the same, with the same impulses, ambitions, temptations, and problems as the youth of a century ago.

RAVENS DEFEAT ANNAPOLIS IN OVERTIME

The Digby Ravens made their second appearance of the year on Annapolis ice on Tuesday evening and defeated a strengthened Annapolis team, 6-5, in overtime play. It was a hard fought game throughout, the Ravens having a slight edge.

The Ravens took the lead in the first period, Theriault scoring on a pass from J. Raymond. D. Weir evened the score later on a long shot from the blue line. The Raymond brothers combined to score the best goal of the game to put the Ravens ahead, F. Raymond scoring ten seconds before the bell. Weir scored the only goal in the second period after a scramble in front of the net. Coach Emile Blinn sent out four forwards in the third period and they got results, C. Sanford scoring on a pass from Theriault, and Weir again evened the count one minute before the bell.

In the overtime Theriault scored the Raven's fourth goal only to have Weir tie the count at the half way mark. C. Sanford and F. Raymond put the visitors two up. Annapolis' attempt to even the score fell one short, W. Cummings scoring with about a minute left to play. The line-up was:

Annapolis — Goal, Kearnes; Defence, L. Smith, Hardwick, H. Smith; Forwards, W. Cummings, Rushton, C. Kearns, Gilliat, D. Weir, D. Smith, F. Weir, S. Miller.

Digby — Goal, Golden; Defence, G. Sanford, Trimmer, Baxter; Left wing, F. Raymond, W. Sanford; centres, Theriault, Perkins; right wing, K. Raymond, C. Sanford. Coach—Emile Blinn.

Mrs. Viola Ellis, who has been visiting her aunt and other relatives and friends in Lynn, Mass., and other American cities, returned home last week.

Several Apply for Position as Town Clerk and Treasurer

Seven applications for the position of Town Clerk and Treasurer were before the special meeting of the Town Council on Friday afternoon, last. The application accepted after discussion, was that of Harold A. Nichols. The applicants, and salaries were as follows:

H. A. Nichols	$ 1,000
G. B. Hayden	1,200
Edward Howard	1,800
G. N. C. Wilde	1,200
Fritz Dakin	1,600
H. S. Humphreson	1,500
V. G. Snow	1,500

Councillor Anderson moved, and Councillor Turnbull seconded the appointment of H. A. Nichols. After some discussion Councillor Sollows suggested a delay in the appointment until certain points in the applications were cleared up. Mayor Denton then turned the chair over to presiding councillor Aymar, and stated he was against postponement pointing out that in his opinion the appointment should be made after the audit.

SCALLOP FISHERMEN GET A BREAK

Advices were received here on Wednesday by H. H. Marshall, supervisor of fisheries for Western Nova Scotia that the fisheries department had decided to postpone the enforcement of section 4 of the scallop fishing regulations until the beginning of the next fishing season.

Section 4 of the regulations is as follows:

"Metal containers only shall be used for shipping fresh scallop meat. Such containers shall not be over five gallon capacity and shall be of such shape that the meat may be chilled throughout. The metal containers shall be packed in ice within a larger wooden container. The metal containers shall be perfectly water tight so that water from melting ice cannot enter them. The wooden and metal containers shall be marked with the name and address of the shipper and the number of his certificate. The shipper shall keep a record of each shipment, together with the names and license numbers of the producers from whom he purchased the scallops, provided that this section shall not become effective until after February 1st, 1938."

The above regulation, the enforcement of which has been given a hoist until the opening of the 1938-39 scallop season, has met with disapproval among a great many of the Digby scallop fishermen, and a largely signed petition was forwarded to the Department of Fisheries asking that it be rescinded. The chief objection is the extra cost entailed in the purchase of the metal containers. The greater part of the scallops shipped from Digby at the present time go to the markets in wooden kegs containing from 12 to 14 gallons of scallop meat.

Mrs. M. W. Piroff spent the week with her sister, Mrs. Edwin Sabean, at Port Lorne.

After his address the Mayor returned to his chair.

Finally, Councillor Anderson moved, and Councillor Turnbull seconded that Harold A. Nichols be appointed Town Clerk and Treasurer, effective February 14. In the meantime the new appointee to familiarize himself with the work in collaboration with the present Town Clerk, and on production with a satisfactory bond as required by the By-Laws at the salary stated in his application, $1,000, to perform the duties required by the Statutes or by resolution of the Town Council, of Town Clerk and Treasurer and incidental thereto.

On a vote being taken, the Mayor declared the resolution carried without dissent.

In his application, Mr. Nichols offered to act as legal advisor for the town without extra cost.

Another special session of the Town Council was held on Wednesday afternoon of this week, when it was agreed the same salary paid to the present Town Clerk for his duties as Secretary to the Electric Light and Water Committee be paid the new Town Clerk. The salary as Secretary to the School Board is paid by the School Commissioners.

Mr. Nichols is well qualified for the position. For several years he has been Solicitor for the Municipality of Digby, and during the few years he has conducted his practice here, has taken an active interest in town affairs. He is a Past President of the Digby Board of Trade; Secretary-Treasurer of the Digby County Farmers' Association, and is actively connected with other societies in the town and county.

He is a son of the late Frank W. Nichols; a graduate of the Dalhousie Law School, Halifax and was born in Digby. After his graduation from law school, he took over the law practice of his late father, and is well known as a barrister in this section of the province.

In arranging his program it is the director's aim to provide music that will please everybody—a little taste of the classic and operatic, plenty of pleasing melody and rich harmony, some of the latest hits, a little musical nonsense, and a surprise number—hoping that the public will soon realise what a delightful entertainment is presented at Scout Hall on the first Thursday night of every month, and will show their appreciation by filling this fine little hall every time.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

TABLE-TOP HUMORETTES

Breakfast! A simple, humorous idea, simply and neatly told. The spotlight is a two-inch hole in a piece of cardboard, held in front of an amateur floodlight bulb. Exposure 1/2 second at f.16.

MOST amateur camera workers wait until they find a picture situation ready-made, before they snap the shutter. Others have found that they do not have to wait—that they can often create a picture opportunity by selecting and arranging materials already at hand.

Still-life studies, of fruit, of flowers, of the play of light on textures and glassware, are all examples of this creative method and a still-life expertly done can possess extraordinary beauty. Still-lives, however, require a keen sense of pictorial composition, judgment in lighting and a willingness to arrange and rearrange until everything is exactly right.

"Table-top" photography permits more latitude, particularly when the central idea is humorous. Here the emphasis is on telling a story, rather than developing an ideal arrangement of lights and shadows and textures. In consequence, the "table-top" worker can limit his labor to the story-telling essentials, and let supplementary considerations go.

"Table-top" photography permits more latitude, particularly when the central idea is humorous. Here the emphasis is on telling a story, rather than developing an ideal arrangement of lights and shadows and textures. In consequence, the "table-top" worker can limit his labor to the story-telling essentials, and let supplementary considerations go.

Small toys, comical in themselves, are easy subjects to work with. Dolls are also convenient to use. The clever worker can construct funny figures from vegetables—for example, a carrot appropriately dressed and equipped with tiny wire spectacles can become a very presentable old lady. Cotton-and-wire pipe cleaners can be bent and combined into interesting action pictures.

Some amateurs build elaborate miniature stage settings for their "table-tops" just as if they were producing a professional motion picture. This can be fascinating work and often well worth while. But it is not imperative and can be avoided simply by selecting a story idea that does not demand realistic background.

"Table-topping" requires that the photographer work fairly close up to his subject. He can do this in two ways: either by using a portrait attachment over the lens of his camera or by using a camera with double-extension bellows. Cameras of the latter type will allow him to photograph small objects in their actual size and they usually have groundglass backs which help in focusing and arranging the picture. When a subject shows up too small on a negative, it is good practice to have it enlarged, with surplus margin masked out.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH REAL BEAUTY SPOT

There has just been placed in All Saints' Church, Rossway, a very handsome Baptismal Font, in memory of the late Rev. Wm. Driffild, who, for many years, ministered there. The font is of Ontario elm and is very beautifully made. It has a maltese cross carved on the front and a brass inscription plate.

During the last year or so a new altar, prayer desk, lectern, etc., have been placed in the church, also new carpet in the sanctuary and some very handsome brass altar candle sticks. The whole of the furniture was manufactured by the Globe Furnishing Company, Limited, of Waterloo, Ontario, and is made of Virginia oak. It certainly is a credit to the manufacturers.

All Saints' is not only one of the prettiest country churches in Digby County, but also one of the oldest.

It was built nearly 120 years ago by Rev. Dr. Bullock, during his regime as rector of Digby. He and his helpers built it well for the building is just as staunch as ever.

Dr. Bullock was also a hymn writer of repute. One of his hymns, frequently sung in this church, is:

"We love the place O Lord, Wherein Thine honor dwells"

The church and surroundings are beautifully kept and display a loving care that is very pleasing.

Ski-ing Across Canada

Pleasure and competitive ski-ing now rank high among the major winter sports throughout Canada. The keen sunny winter days call thousands to the trails, from the Maritime Provinces in the east to British Columbia in the west. The Canadian Pacific Railway is contributing in large measure to the development of ski areas, both in the east and in the west. From Montreal and eastern United States thousands travel on the "Ski Specials" to the Laurentians each week-end, and on the prairies and in British Columbia other thousands visit Banff, Sunshine Valley and other Canadian Pacific resorts for the winter season. Layout shows, upper left, the ski club on Grosvenor Mountain, Vancouver; upper right, skiers halting for a breather on a high pass above Sunshine Valley, Canadian Rockies; middle left is a group of Winnipeg enthusiasts on one of the ski trails south of that city, and lower left shows Laurentian Mountain enthusiasts preparing luncheon on the trail. Lower right are two ultra-enthusiasts—object, the famous Laurentian sun-tan.

Laid Up For Weeks By Sciatica

At 76 Kruschen Conquered His Complaint

At 86 years of age this man is still going strong, yet ten years ago he was laid up for weeks with an attack of sciatica. Read how he keeps fit in spite of his advanced age:—

"Ten years ago, I was laid up for about a month with a severe attack of sciatica. I was quite unable to sleep and I suffered a great deal. I tried several remedies, but obtained little relief. At last I saw one of your advertisements, and decided to give Kruschen a trial. I stuck to it and took about half-a-teaspoonful every morning in my coffee and my sciatica gradually went. I was 86 last month—still going strong—and my friends ask me how I keep my clear skin and healthy looks. I tell them all it is due to Kruschen Salts."—C. T. L.

Whether you are in your teens or past your prime, it is neither too early nor too late to start on the "little daily dose." Just a tiny, tasteless pinch in your morning tea or coffee—that's the Kruschen rule for constant fitness.

ORDER OF GOOD CHEER

The members of the Order of Good Cheer, of Annapolis Royal, and the community at large, are fortunate in having secured G. W. I. Creighton, chief provincial forester, to speak to the Order on Thursday, January 20th, at 6.30 in the evening. Mr. Creighton is a well known and recognized authority in his particular field, and will undoubtedly bring to the members of the Order an illuminating and a very interesting address. It is to be hoped that a large number of the members of the community will take advantage of this opportunity to hear Mr. Creighton.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ST. JOHN'S GUILD

The annual meeting of St. John's Guild was held at the home of Mrs. L. V. Harris, on Wednesday of last week, with thirteen members present. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved and the secretary-treasurer's report was received and adopted. The president, Mrs. B. C. Clarke, who is in Boston for medical treatment, sent in her resignation, and the following were elected to office:

Honorary President — Mrs. B. C. Clarke
President — Mrs. Howard Rice
Vice-President — Mrs. L. V. Harris
Secretary-Treasurer — Mrs. W. M. Romans (13th year)
Shopping Committee — The Officers
Cutters — Mrs. H. Rice and Mrs. W. P. Brinton
Altar Guild — Mrs. Simons, Barbara Rice, Mrs. Jefferson and Kit Jefferson

The reports showed that the $500 note had been paid in full, just two years ahead of the original schedule. (It is just four years the 19th of this month since the destruction by fire of old St. John's, and this has been in addition to buying carpet and other furnishings for the new church) and the usual amount of charitable work has been carried on.

Considerable discussion took place as to ways and means of raising money to pay the $700 mortgage (now the only indebtedness), and it was decided to hold a garden party or fair on the second Wednesday in July (the 13th), the usual date, and the possibility of staging a play during the spring was considered.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

TRAIN YOUR EYES TO SEE

Railroad yards may be sooty and ugly but the photographer who trains his eye and his pictorial sense can find beauty there—and in every other common thing.

HOW many of our Guild members, I wonder, go far afield searching for beauty, in the likeliest places, and do not find it, and cannot understand why?

It is an experience most camera workers have. But, sooner or later, if they are serious workers, they learn a basic principle: that is, that beauty is not so much in the subjects they find as in themselves and the way they look at things.

To put it another way: pictures do not exist in a scene but only in the trained eye that can select and single out that which is interesting and good.

Few persons beginning to use a camera would think of a railroad yard as a place to find beauty. But one photographer has become world-famous for pictures made just there.

He works when the air is crisp, when a locomotive's exhaust steam fans upward in a great white plume. This steam, contrasting with the black of the engine, forms a focal point in each of his pictures. He selects his viewpoint so that the rails, curving away from the locomotive, are highlighted in long, silvery white lines; lines so arranged that they form his picture's compositional framework. Wherever possible, he includes a framing of dark foliage to give his picture depth and he likes to work when there is mist or fog in the distance so that far-away buildings or figures are reduced to soft, dim outlines. The objects this photographer works with are not appealing. They are dirty, sooty, ugly. But his pictures are beautiful because he has trained his eyes to see, to select, to arrange, to recognize mood and atmosphere—in brief, by the use of his creative imagination to extract beauty from ugliness.

There is magic in photography like this but it is magic open to all. It calls for no wizard's wand but only thought and feeling and the application of your imagination to commonplace things. Kitchen pots and pans are not pretty but I have seen pictures of a group of them, rhythmically arranged and lighted so their texture was emphasized, that were beautiful. Old shoes are not attractive but I have seen a picture of a pair wet and dripping beside an umbrella in a hall corner, so photographed that they contained all the essence of rainy Autumn.

Fellow Guild member, beauty is not over the next hilltop, down the next road—it is inside you. But you must train yourself to bring it out.

John van Guilder.

Annual Session Municipal Council

In his address to the Municipal Council for the District of Digby, which opened their first session at the Court House on Tuesday afternoon, Warden J. Vian Andrews, of North Range, who was re-elected warden by a unanimous vote, charged that the assessors in the county were not giving proper thought to equalization.

"We feel that it is not necessary for our assessment to continue its downward trend, and that assessors are not giving proper thought to equalizations which in some cases are very glaring indeed. Now this is a serious matter and may lead to serious difficulties," said the warden.

Speaking of present day conditions, Warden Andrews stated that during the past three years we have been emerging out of a depression which hit this municipality pretty hard, and although the year 1937 was a fairly prosperous one, he did not think we were back to normal yet. He felt, however, that owing to improved conditions, tax collections should have been improved, "but we are disappointed to find them about the same as last year, so we are inclined to think the tax collectors did not take advantage of the prosperity."

He pointed out that owing to the increasing number of insane cases, the previous council took the matter up seriously and recommended that this council carry on their idea of building an annex to the alms house at Marshalltown large enough to take care of all insane patients and to employ a nursing staff. As another problem to be dealt with by this council he stated that the matter of the agreement entered into with the provincial government in regard to unemployment relief had not been settled. On that account the Nova Scotia Hospital has been held up, "although the amount due the hospital for 1937 has been paid, I believe," the warden commented.

E. F. Hankinson, councillor for the district of Weymouth, was re-elected deputy warden, although a new chairman was appointed to the committee on tenders and public property which post Councillor Hankinson has held since 1923.

In his report as chairman of this committee for 1937, Coun. Hankinson stated the cost of maintenance of the court house for the year was $1,588; of the jail, $1,063. During the year outside poor cost the municipality $4,316.57, a decrease of over $1,000 from 1936. Coun. Hankinson gave figures pertaining to the cost of outside poor during his term of office. The cost in 1923 was $958.

The cost of maintaining inside poor during 1937 was $4,336.95; while the cost per day for maintenance of inmates was .212 cents. His committee awarded tenders for coal for the jail to A. R. Turnbull, and for the alms house supplies, as follows: Groceries, H. T. Warne, Ltd.; Boots and Shoes, H. T. Warne, Ltd.; Medical Attention, Dr. W. R. Dickie; Dry Goods, O. Wright.

Committees appointed on the recommendation of the nominating committee which comprised Couns. Morrell, Dunn and W. C. Woodman, were as follows:

Assessment—The Whole Council.
Roads and Bridges—The Whole Council.

Finance and Public Accounts—Couns. FitzGerald, Morrell, H. W. Cossaboom, Hankinson, S. E. Woodman and Kenney.

Poor and Harmless Insane—Couns. Dunn, W. C. Woodman, Chisholm, Wm. Cossaboom and Cornwell.

Tenders and Public Property—Couns. Chisholm and FitzGerald.

License—Couns. S. E. Woodman and Cornwell.

Arbitration—Couns. Hankinson, Morrell and S. E. Woodman.

Hydro—Couns. W. C. Woodman, Kenney and Hankinson.

Bye-Laws—Couns. Dunn, Cornwell and Wm. Cossaboom.

E. J. Theriault was appointed solicitor for the Municipality, his term of office to begin in February, at the expiration of Mr. Theriault's term as solicitor for the town of Digby. He succeeds H. A. Nichols, recently appointed town clerk and treasurer for the town of Digby.

All members of the council were present, as follows: Warden J. Vian Andrews, North Range; E. F. Hankinson, Weymouth; H. B. FitzGerald, Weymouth North; W. C. Woodman, Smith's Cove; H. W. Cossaboom, Lake Midway; Wm. Cossaboom, Tiverton; G. D. Dunn, Culloden; S. E. Woodman, Marshalltown; D. B. Kenney, Westport; B. S. Morrell, Freeport and H. E. Chisholm, Bear River.

Wednesday's Session
The auditor's report, tabled at Wednesday's session of the annual meeting of the Digby Municipal Council, showed a decrease of $270 in tax collections over 1936. The tax collections for 1937 amounted to $45,547.98, of which $40,390.96 was on the 1937 assessment, the balance was back taxes. The tax income for the year represented 95 per cent of the 1937 levy.

There are still $7,447 due the Municipality on last year's taxes and $16,060 due on back tax, of which amount $7,000 have been written off by the auditors as "uncollectable".

The total income for the year apart from village supply, amounted to $53,881.55 against expenditures of $54,333.10—an excess of payments over revenue of $451.55. Municipal accounts payable are in excess of $25,000. The Municipality closed the year with a balance of $685.09 in the current account and $1585.15 in the relief account.

Appeals for grants to the Institute for the Blind, the Digby General Hospital and the Digby Children's Aid Society were left for consideration by the Council at a later date.

The matter of building a wing on the Alms House at Marshalltown, as recommended by the last Council, was discussed at length, but no action taken. The estimated cost of the wing is in the vicinity of $12,000, while the estimated cost of maintenance of harmless insane patients (including interest and re-payment of bonds) was approximately $5,000 annually. The Municipality is at present paying in the vicinity of $4,000 annually for harmless insane. However, should it be possible to house all insane patients in the proposed new wing, it was figured it would mean an annual saving of $500 to the Municipality. (Owing to limited facilities at the Marshalltown institution, Digby Municipality is boarding a number of its harmless insane in other similar institutions in the province.)

Thursday's Meeting
At yesterday's sessions of the Municipal Council the time was taken up principally with the reception and discussion of the Hydro Board's report, and the appointment of the Board of Assessment. Some smaller matters were disposed of such as the appointment of Dr. Harris as Medical Health Officer, and the re-appointment of Belyea & McNeice as auditors.

The Hydro Board's report was most satisfactory. It showed that there had been a decided increase in the amount of energy purchased and the revenue received over 1936. In the latter year 220,152 kw. had been purchased and in 1937, 257,850 kw. The revenue received in 1936 was $18,508.34, and in 1937, $20,516.67. The cost of capital construction in 1937 was $2,818.18, which was considerably higher than in 1936. This was due to the purchase of more meters, the addition of cedar poles in a number of places, with other necessary improvements—and it was all paid out of earnings. An operating surplus of $1,447.41 for 1937 and the probability of a still larger surplus for 1938, indicates that a reduction of rates should be considered and the Council passed a resolution asking for a reduction of one cent per kilowatt hour on the first step of the lighting schedule, together with a reduction in the service charge for all those over forty-five cents.

The Board of Assessment brought up a lot of discussion and it was not settled when the Council rose at 5 o'clock. It will be the first item of business on the agenda today.

The Nova Scotia Fish and Game Protective Association is holding its annual meeting at Halifax.

MILEAGE OF LOCOMOTIVES INCREASED

It used to take three locomotives to carry the International Limited between Montreal and Toronto. Engines were changed at Brockville and Belleville. The giant Hudsons which have been in service for the past seven years run all the way from Montreal to Toronto, H. C. Rochester, General Car Accountant, Canadian National Railways, told a Montreal audience recently.

It used to be the practice to run an engine for about 50,000 miles and then give it a general overhauling. As a result of improved methods, Mr. Rochester pointed out, the mileage between shoppings was extended to 60,000 and then to 70,000 miles. But the 5700's are running an average of 250,000 miles between general overhauls.

Designed to handle a train of eight cars on the six-hour schedule between Montreal and Toronto, with a possible maximum of 10 on busy days, their trainload has been gradually extended from 10 to 12 and 13 and now to 14 cars. Fourteen cars weigh 1,200 tons. Boosters on the trailing wheels assist in starting from stations.

The Young People's Society of Grace United Church held a united meeting on Tuesday evening with the B. Y. P. U., and A. Y. P. A. Miss Helen Clarkeson lead the recreational period; President, Mrs. W. MacKay, lead the worship period.

The Fire Department was called out early last evening for the fourth time in the week, for a chimney fire at the home of Geo. Parker.

A petition requesting that T. E. G. Lynch run for Mayor, is being circulated in the town.

DEWEY'S PREDICTION FORTY YEARS AGO

From his diary, John Barrett, former United States diplomat, produces the prediction of Admiral Dewey, made nearly forty years ago while the two sat on the deck of the flagship Olympia.

The victor of Manila Bay said: "I look forward some 40 or 50 years and foresee a Japanese naval squadron entering this harbor as I have just done and demanding the surrender of Manila and the Philippines with the plan of making these islands part of a great Pacific Japanese empire of the future."

"I will not live to witness what you will see if you live your ordinary life. That will be the conquest of China by Japan and, when that is done, the conquest of all the island possessions from north to south of the Pacific coast of the Far East."

Japan has not only a large part of China under control but is solidly in possession in the Mariana, Caroline and Marshall groups of 1400 islands scattered over an area as big as the United States and latest statistics show 50,000 Japanese in the islands. Paul, in the West Caroline group, with an excellent air base, is less than three hours by plane from the Philippines, Dutch East Indies and Australia.

Other invasions have been peaceful penetrations. Mindanao, one of the richest of the Philippines but neglected by the Filipinos, has been invaded by thousands of Japanese. Today they control sixty per cent of the land of the Davao province and more than seventy per cent of its imports come from Japan. Only one day's journey by steam from Mindanao is the Dutch Island of Celebes, and there they now hold many copra plantations.

The Japanese have made economic inroads into the Australian mandated territory of New Guinea, although the Japanese immigrants are few in number. The same story comes from the French island of New Caledonia, from the New Zealand mandated western Samoa, and from the Tonga (or Friendly) Islands, a British protectorate.

DIVORCES IN CANADA

Divorces are becoming more common in Canada. Last year there were 1526 divorces granted. This was 150 more than in 1935 and 420 more than in 1934.

Just how far we have traveled in the direction of divorce is indicated by the fact that before the Great War the highest number of divorces in any one year was 60. One of the effects of the war was to increase divorce; the causes are obvious. The yearly number increased rapidly until in 1932 it had reached 995, which was greater than the total of divorces granted from Confederation down to 1917.

During the last three years the number of divorces granted has climbed much more rapidly than for many years. It went over the 1000 mark in 1934. In these three years the number was 4600 compared with 2000 in the previous three years. The war does not explain this.

The number of divorced persons living in Canada at the census of 1931 was 7,441 or one in about 1400 of the population. Some divorced persons had remarried and these were not listed as divorced. Nor had all these persons obtained their decrees in Canada.

The smallest number pro rata of divorced persons, according to the last census, is found in Quebec, with one in 3,831 of the population, Prince Edward Island coming second but very close behind. Then follows Nova Scotia, Ontario and New Brunswick. Pro rata to population there are many more divorces in the West than in the East. British Columbia heads the list for all provinces, followed by Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, according to the General Statistics Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

BENEFITS OF TEA DRINKING

Leading physicians in Europe and America sing the praises of Tea, which off has been a favorite theme of poets. Sir Donald Ross, Fellow Royal College of Surgeons, says:

"Like most people in this country I have drunk tea twice or thrice daily all my life, and consider it to be wholly unobjectionable if so taken, and I regard its introduction as a notable addition to the amenities of civilized life—as harmless as it is refreshing. It is worth noting that Great Britain consumes about 10 lbs. of tea per head per annum, and that as the consumption of Tea has increased enormously in the last century, the consumption of alcohol has correspondingly decreased, while the longevity of the nation has increased by over twenty years in the last eighty years."

The benefits of tea drinking are enhanced in proportion as the pleasure of it is increased. After all, when the cost is so small, one might as well enjoy the luxury of drinking the tea of fine quality. When the fact is considered that a pound package of Morses' Selected Orange Pekoe Tea will make over 200 cups, it will be seen that the cost per cup works out at less than one-third of a cent a cup, on the basis of 70 cents per pound package. One would hardly need a cheaper beverage than that.

MAKE THE HIGHWAYS SAFE

The time for pussyfooting with reckless driving of motor cars is certainly not now. There never was a time when reckless driving was in order. But just at present it is more dangerous than ordinarily.

It is more difficult to control a car on winter's hard and slippery roads than on the clear roads of the summer time. What is more, many a car is not in as workable condition in winter as it is in summer. Furthermore many drivers operate their cars with windows closed and in some cases with clothing covering the ears. Windshields are very often covered with frost or snow.

View winter driving as you will there is more hazard in driving a car in winter than in summer.

There are, however, some people who disregard these facts. They drive as if they were the only ones on the highway. Along they go, regardless of consequences.

Such people should not be allowed behind the wheel of a car.

A great deal has been said recently about the drunken driver. We have no brief for such a driver. We believe he should be off the road completely. But in emphasizing the menace of the drunken driver we wouldn't lose sight of the other dangerous drivers. It must be remembered that there are those who will not show care in driving a car and there are those who never were intended to be car drivers and consequently never will be able to properly drive a car. Some people cannot drive a car just as some people cannot drive a nail.

The drunken and the wilfully careless driver should be taken off the road and punished as the law provides. While the one who has the will but not the ability to drive properly should be refused a license to drive.

The need of greater safety on the highway is engaging the attention of the best minds the world over. The menace is not peculiar to any one province or locality. It is universal. But of course it is a problem that has to be treated with in each locality.

As far as this province and this town is concerned, we would urge, and urge with all the emphasis at our command, that the law be applied, rigidly, to the drunken and careless operator, and that the person who has the will and is unable to properly operate a car be refused a license.

There will be no safety on the highway as long as there is any improper handling of the car. And as far as accidents go it makes no difference to the one who is killed or maimed whether he was hit by a drunken, a reckless or an inefficient driver.

Make a general clean-up and let it start now at the time when driving hazards are greatest. Rid the highways and the town streets of all those who will not or cannot drive properly. Use the jails, cancel the licenses or do whatever is necessary, but get rid of the dangerous driver.

HEALTH

DRAUGHTS

A bugbear to many people is draughts. A draught is a current of air which, striking one part of the body, cools or chills that part, while the rest of the body remains warm. We can stand out of doors in a good stiff breeze and feel stimulated by the rush of air. We can go in bathing and have the whole body wet and yet experience nothing but good out of the plunge. If, however, we have a perceptible breeze strike only one part of the body, or if our feet become chilled after having been wet, such an experience is apt to be followed by discomfort in the part chilled by the draught, or a cold in the head may follow. There is no question but that some people are more sensitive to draughts than are others.

Fear of draughts should not lead to our living a life shut off from fresh air. Living in overheated rooms, with the air absolutely still, is to be avoided, for it has a definite ill-effect on the body. It is quite practical to keep the air in a room in the gentle motion which comfort and good health demand, without draughts. The motion of air which does not strike and chill one part of the body is an essential of good air and makes a most desirable atmosphere in which to live and work.

Draughts may be avoided by opening the window an inch instead of a foot, or by the using of window boards to direct the incoming air upward and so prevent a direct draught. In offices and schools a good practice is to open the windows wide at regular intervals while everyone moves about or takes some simple exercises.

Those who are sensitive to draughts can frequently overcome the condition by the use of cold baths or by douching the chest with cold water. In this way they tone up their bodies to adapt themselves to changes in temperature. Clothing according to the thermometer is also necessary.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Annual Report Digby Branch Victorian Order of Nurses

During the year of 1937 two hundred and thirty-seven pupils of the Digby Academy were immunized against diphtheria, it was revealed in the report of Miss M. E. MacIlveen, Victorian Order Nurse, at the seventeenth annual meeting of the Digby Branch of the Victorian Order, held in the Court House on Friday evening last.

Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson, the president, presided over the meeting, which was largely attended. Following the reading of the minutes of the 1937 annual meeting, by the secretary, Mrs. G. V. Turnbull, the annual reports of the secretary, the treasurer, Mrs. C. R. Sypher; the chairman of the Publicity Committee, Mrs. Jessie Turnbull, and of the nurse, Miss MacIlveen, were presented and received. The treasurer's report showed receipts for the year of $1,257.67, and expenditures, $1,453.28. With a balance on hand at the beginning of 1937 the Order closed the year with a balance of $296.45 on hand.

The officers for the ensuing year are as follows:

Hon. President—Mrs. Jessie Turnbull
President—Rev. T. W. Hodgson
First Vice-President—Mrs. G. M. Morrell
Second Vice-President—Rev. A. G. Robertson
Secretary—Mrs. C. E. Walker
Treasurer—Mrs. C. R. Sypher
Executive Committee—Mrs. Fritz Dakin, Miss Louise Daley, Mrs. Victor Turnbull, Mrs. G. W. Connell, Mrs. F. W. Nichols, Mrs. P. W. Holdsworth, Mrs. Howard Anderson, Mrs. Mae Morse, Mrs. H. M. Warne, Mrs. J. R. MacCleave, Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Mrs. R. Shafner, Mrs. Frank Hayden, Mrs. Loran Hayden, Mrs. Reginald Weir, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. F. C. Purdy, Mrs. Christie and Rev. E. M. Caldwell—the first three named to comprise the Supply Committee.

Auditors: T. E. G. Lynch and G. H. Peters.
Representatives at Ottawa—Hon. J. L. Hilsley and Col. Eaton.

The address of the evening was presented by Dr. W. R. Dickie, who took as his subject "The Common Cold", attributing its causes chiefly to other things beside the chilling of the body. The ordinary chilling of the feet and ankles with fatigue he attributed as one of the principal causes, but said, remaining in ill ventilated rooms was one of the easiest ways to take a cold. He also attributed colds to dressing too warmly and too many bed clothes. Complications arising from ordinary colds are frequently serious, the doctor asserted.

Miss MacIlveen's report showed a general increase in all work. During the year 216 patients were attended by the nurse, which was an increase of 49 over 1936; the number of visits made during the year was 2067, an increase of 260 over the previous year. She spent 2073 hours on duty, 262 hours of which were spent in school work during which time 1706 inspections of school children were made.

The Nurse's Report

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:—The purpose of the Victorian Order is to attempt to meet the health needs of the community, to the best of its ability.

In carrying on a programme which embraces the following phases—bedside nursing, a complete maternity cycle, school work, child welfare work, instructive tuberculosis work, and in this last year with the addition of the toxoid immunization work, we are attempting to carry out that policy in Digby.

Looking back over the year's activities the influenza epidemic of last winter stands out as a very strenuous and trying time. Since that we have had minor visitations of measles and chicken pox. But we have much for which we can be grateful, when we can say that the town, proper, was free of the dread polio-myelitis (infantile paralysis) epidemic—which laid its mark on so many of the youth of our country last fall.

There has been a general increase in all of our work, with the exception of obstetrical cases. There were not as many this last year, as there were in 1936. However, more prenatal cases received care and instruction.

It is very satisfying to know that 237 pupils of the school received immunization against diphtheria. We acknowledge with gratitude the help of the Provincial Department of Health for supplying the toxoid, and the generosity of the doctors and assistants for giving their services and time.

At this place may I say that I trust this work will become a routine procedure. We have seen to the school child—what of the pre-school child? There is such a prevalence of diphtheria in this age that it would not be wise to procrastinate in seeking preventive treatment for them.

The environmental hazard plays a very prominent part—especially in the health of the school child. The child who comes from the underprivileged home to school, having already contracted many health menaces, does much to jeopardize the health of the other pupils. This is a growing problem in the community.

We are very grateful to the School Board for their interest in the work, signified in the supplying of milk and cocoa to pupils during the winter months. It helps greatly in making up this nutritional deficiency.

Due to circumstances arising, the dental and tonsil clinics planned, had to be postponed. However, I have been assured that at the earliest possible date, the work may be resumed.

In January the cases registered were 22. At the end of the year 216 patients had been attended. This is an increase of 49 over 1936.

They were classified as:

Medical	52
Communicable	37
Surgical	17
Pre-Natal	33
Emergency Obstetrical	4
Infants of Obstetrical	15
Post-Natal	3
Infants of Post-Natal	13
Health Instruction	42

These cases were referred for care by patients themselves, relatives of patients, doctors, friends of patients, others including Metropolitan life Insurance agent, teachers and nurse. The greater percentage came from parents and relatives of patients.

The total number of visits made were 2067. This is also an increase of 260 over last year. There was a slight increase in our bedside work, but the greater number of visits were due to an increase in instructive work.

In our Child Welfare Conference work, 81 cases were registered this year.

Number of Clinics Held	41
Total Attendance at Clinics	366
Number of Instructional Consultations, with Nurse	356
Number of Visits Made to Homes of the Pre-School Child	516

We are indebted to Mr. Larchie, who has so faithfully and generously supplied milk

AS TOLD TO

Are you teaching your children to be honest? Like a river, a child's honesty can rise no higher than its source—the standards and the example set by father and mother.

Honesty is the best policy in the nursery as in the market place, and many who should know attribute the rising percentage of speculation among juvenile delinquents and youthful criminals to inadequate home training in integrity. Said William B. Joyce, former head of the National Surety Corporation, the other day:

"Ninety per cent of those convicted of embezzlement or more serious crimes are persons who were not taught in their early childhood that it is wrong to be dishonest."

Nor can you teach the kids one thing by word of mouth and another by your personal practice. How much good does it accomplish for a mother to scold little Julia for fibbing—then to lie about Julia's age in her presence so that a train conductor will accept a half-fare ticket?

When dad lectures Dick on always keeping his word, then hurries off to play golf instead of taking the boy on a promised excursion—is Dick going to believe that a promise is a sacred trust or that it is a run-around?

Sometimes to tell a little child the whole truth may seem unwise—strong meat for babes—but at least it should be possible never to tell him or her a lie, never to break a promise either of punishment or reward, never to betray a confidence.

This last mentioned dishonesty is particularly disillusioning and distressing in its effect on youngsters. Most of them have a natural and profound respect for the inviolability of a "secret". If having shared one with mother or father they overhear elder siblings laughing at the whispered laughing at the whispered con- fession may be so strong as to shut out all future confidences.

In her dramatic story, "The Secret," published in Pictorial Review, Vina Delmar describes how a father's failing to keep faith with his beloved little daughter wrecked the beautiful relationship and resulted indirectly in the child's death. As one thoughtful young mother commented to me:

"Pictorial Review in this story prints a sermon to startle and waylay all parents. I cannot see why they feel that dishonesty toward children is not as important as dishonesty toward an adult. For their own good, parents will tell their children lies, repeat their children's secrets, deliberately give them false impressions. It seems to me that the child's FIRST good is to learn honesty—you do not learn it through the dishonesty of those you admire. And you always eventually discover the crookedness."

Superstitious Ones Have Less to Fear—Four Eclipses in Period

The year 1938 Anno Domini, has many features to commend it. One of the most satisfactory is that the New Year will have only one Friday the thirteenth. Superstitious persons are expected to derive considerable comfort from this fact.

New Year's day, under the Gregorian calendar, corresponds to the 2,428,900th Julian day. The year 1938 A. D., is the 6,651st year of the Julian period. The year 5699 of the Jewish era begins at 1938. The year 1937 of the sunset on September 25th, Mohammedan era, or the era of the Hegira, begins at sunset on March 2nd, 1938. The 72nd year of the Dominion of Canada begins on July 1st, 1938. January 1st, 1938, of the Julian calendar, corresponds to January 14th, 1938, Gregorian calendar.

Ash Wednesday in 1938 will come on March 2nd; Palm Sunday on April 10th, Good Friday on April 15th and Easter Sunday on April 17th. Midsummer Day is June 24th. Labor Day is September 5th. The Hebrew New Year (Rosh Hashanah) falls on September 26th. The accession of King George VI will be observed on December 11th.

In the year 1938 there will be four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the moon. A total eclipse of the moon, on May 14th, will be partly visible in the Toronto area and other parts of eastern Canada. There will be a total eclipse of the sun on May 29th but it will be invisible in Eastern Canada. A total eclipse of the moon on November 7th and 8th will be partly visible in the eastern section of the Dominion, but a partial eclipse of the sun on November 21st and 22nd will be invisible here.

ANNAPOLIS COUNTY PRESBYTERIAL

The annual meeting of the Annapolis County Presbyterian Society of the United Church, will be held in St. George's church, Annapolis Royal, on Thursday and Friday of this week. Sessions will begin at 2.00 o'clock Thursday, with the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Business in the afternoon will be interspersed with an exercise by junior girls, "Chinese Lanterns", and a solo. At the evening service Miss Harriett Jost, returned missionary, will give the address and an anthem will be rendered by the choir. The president, Mrs. W. R. Turner, of Middleton, will be in charge of the convention.

CHURCH ORGANIST FOR THREE SCORE YEARS

Mrs. Margaret Riordan may justly claim some kind of a record as one of the organists longest in service for a parish on this continent. She has been organist in Annapolis Royal for 62 years.

She first served in the former Church of St. Louis, now torn down, and since 1910 in the present Church of St. Thomas. Although she resided some distance away and in former days had to use a horse and buggy and cross a river by rowboat, she never wavered in her duties. The only break in the 62 years was for infrequent spells of illness.

About This and That

The following editorial which appeared recently in the Saint John Telegraph-Journal under the heading "Why 'Junior G. Men'?" expresses our sentiments exactly.

There has been incorporated under federal legislation a Vancouver organization, the objectives of which are highly commendable, but a question arises as to the desirability of the name which it has selected. An Ottawa despatch quotes the aims of the body as follows: "To arouse the interests of the people of Canada in training of the youth of Canada for the responsibilities of citizenship and in the veneration of and with respect to the laws of the Dominion of Canada and their enforcement."

"Why an organization with such splendid ideals should choose the name 'Junior G. Men of Canada' is a problem which does not readily admit of solution. In the first place, there are no G. men in Canada, nor do the conditions which necessitated their being created in the United States exist in this Dominion—and it is to be hoped they never will. Nor is it to be expected that the methods followed at times by the G. men across the border will ever become necessary in the prevention and detection of crime in this country. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and their predecessors, the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, have a sterling reputation for 'getting their men', and only in cases where lives have been threatened has it been found necessary to shoot down suspected criminals before bringing them to trial.

"By Canadians generally the selection of the name 'Junior G. Men' will be considered as an unfortunate one, especially in view of the worthy motives underlying the formation of the organization."

Perhaps, unfortunately for the G. men, who doubtless are doing a great work in catching criminals and checking to some extent the continual crime wave on the other side of the border, the articles we read—in fiction and in news—, for the most part, unfavorable to the average mind of the right-thinking Canadian, or for that matter, American. G. men seldom figure in the news unless of the most sensational nature, with a killing or two to wind up their day's work—and seldom, if ever, in fiction unless the story reeks with blood. In fact, there are times when one is almost inclined to believe (should one swallow American criminal fiction, detective stories—true and otherwise—and sensational news stories, hook, line and sinker) that American justice is administered from the business end of a gun rather than from the courts of justice.

The municipal councils have finished their sessions for another few months, and, as usual, the chief problems confronting them were those of assessment, tax collections and relief costs. In regard to the latter I understand (unofficially), that about 50 per cent of the money spent by the Municipality of Digby goes directly or indirectly for charitable and relief purposes, to provide for those who are unable to provide for themselves; in the Municipality of Clare, the proportion is even larger.

DOINGS OF FIRST BEAR RIVER SCOUT TROOP

The Scouts met on Thursday evening of last week, and there was quite a good attendance. There are now only three patrols—Foxes, Ducks and Beavers. Some of the boys planned a hike for Saturday and about ten boys were in attendance. The programmes are very interesting and lively. A great many of the boys are working on First Class tests and Proficiency badges. There is much talk of building a new hall. Let's hope the talk materializes.

LAST TRIBUTE PAID LT. COL. PORTER

Lieut.-Col. C. G. Porter, D.S.O., died at his home, Montreal, on Wednesday of last week, as the result of war disabilities. He had been ill for some time. Born in Saint John fifty years ago, Col. Porter was educated at Rothesay School and McGill University, graduating from the latter in 1911 with the degree of B. Sc. Interested in metallurgy he took up research work in the development of steel which resulted in his later being awarded the degree of M.Sc. At the outbreak of the Great War he enlisted as a private in a Montreal unit, the 24th Battalion, but before leaving Canada he was transferred to the 26th Battalion, a New Brunswick unit, and given the commission of lieutenant. He remained with the battalion throughout his long war service, rising to the command with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Order for bravery at the front and was mentioned several times in despatches. Wounded several times during his years of service at the front, Col. Porter was invalided out of the army on his return to Canada. On leaving the army, Col. Porter established the firm of C. G. Porter & Co., building specialists, which he headed at the time of his death. He was a prominent member of the University Club and the Theta Delta Chi. He is survived by his wife, the former Winnifred Mathewson; one daughter, Miss Audrey Mary Frances Porter; one son, Kenneth Mathewson Porter, and one brother, Horace A. Porter, K.C., of Saint John. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Porter, of Bear River, also survive.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon, the service being held in the Church of St. John the Evangelist, conducted by Rev. Canon W. H. Davison—a service of outstanding simplicity and peace. The church was nearly filled with sorrowing friends from all walks of life.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon, the service being held in the Church of St. John the Evangelist, conducted by Rev. Canon W. H. Davison—a service of outstanding simplicity and peace. The church was nearly filled with sorrowing friends from all walks of life.

Miss Doris Sanford spent last week at her home in Bear River East.

Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harris entertained delightfully at dinner last Wednesday night, and the guests enjoyed "contract" during the evening, when three tables were in progress, the prizes being won by Mrs. Walter M. Romans, Capt. Forrester, Mrs. Forrester and Mervyn Oakes.

The union service by the Y. P. S. and B. Y. P. U., held in the United church last Friday evening, was greatly appreciated; and considering the icy condition of the streets, was well attended, with the pastors—Roach, Brydon and Henderson—as leaders. Rev. C. P. Henderson gave the main address, in which he made a splendid plea for our young folks to co-operate with the older ones by being trained for leadership in the work of the Kingdom. The Scripture lesson was read by Miss Doris Sanford; and the vocal trio rendered by Emma Benson, Dorothy Rice and Bruce Elliott, also the solo by Miss Allie Forbes were much appreciated.

He Was Afraid to Cross A Street

Lost His Nerve After 12 Months' Agony

Suffering from acute rheumatism in both his knee joints—treated in hospital twice without result—so unnerved that he was afraid to cross a street—how readily every rheumatic sufferer will sympathize with this man. Read what he says:

"For 12 months I suffered pain and misery with acute rheumatism in both my knees. Twice, I was treated in hospital—but it was no use. I could not walk up or down stairs. I was afraid to cross the street, for I had lost all confidence in myself. Fourteen days ago, I started taking Kruschen Salts, and already I am a new man. I can walk with a smart step, go up and down stairs with ease, and cross the street with complete confidence. My rheumatism is getting better every day."—D. L.

In a good many cases, rheumatism cannot resist the action of Kruschen Salts, which dissolve the painful crystals of uric acid—often the cause of those aches and pains—and assist the kidneys to eliminate this poison through the natural channel.

THEY PRONOUNCE IT EXCELLENT

A lady who used a bag of the new blend of coffee—Morse's Standard Coffee—wrote saying:

"We have given it a fair trial and must say we find it excellent. It is blended just right for us, and we consider our opinion worth while, as we are more or less cranks when it comes to coffee, having tried mostly every kind we could get hold of."

J. E. Morse & Company also submitted a bag of the new blend to a coffee expert in the United States, who reports that it is excellent. Americans are connoisseurs in coffee as Maritimers are in tea, and knowing the coffee business as this expert does, his judgment carries special weight. However, anyone who likes coffee will form the same judgment on giving it a trial. On all sides, J. E. Morse & Company are hearing praise for Morse's Standard Coffee—not only verbal praise and written testimonials, but that most kind of praise that is registered in increased sales. Put up in parchment-lined bags a great economy in production is achieved by which it is possible to sell Morse's Standard Coffee at 37 cents per pound.

VIRGINIA MAN BADLY INJURED

Friday afternoon, Charles Dunn, a well known resident of Virginia, Annapolis County, with many friends in Bear River, was severely injured when the front stake, binding his load of wood, broke as he was starting his team from woods in the vicinity of his home, causing the front tier of load to slip, pinning him between the sled and horses' hoofs. Fortunately, his cries for help reached DuVernet Riley, working near, and the injured man was released from his perilous position, medical aid secured from Bear River, and he was conveyed to the Digby General Hospital, where x-ray examination revealed a badly fractured and crushed right arm and injury to right side of chest in addition to head wounds and severe bodily bruises. It is hoped there are no serious internal injuries.

The children taking lunch at Oakdene School are enjoying their hot cocoa at the noon hour. Kindly notify Mrs. J. D. Hubley of any help you may wish to give towards this worthy activity of the Bear River Women's Institute—either financial or otherwise.

Mrs. B. C. Clarke's hosts of friends in Bear River and other parts of Nova Scotia, will be glad to learn that she was successfully operated on at the Faulkner Hospital, Jamaica Plain, Mass., on Tuesday morning, and shortly will be leaving the hospital to visit her sister, Mrs. Hines, Newton Centre, Mass.

Patience is the gift of God, but it develops through years of struggle and continuous difficulty.

Treat Colds This PROVED Way

WHY experiment? Vicks VapoRub has been doubly proved for you . . . proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind; further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (See full details in each VapoRub package.)

Only Vicks give you such proof. VapoRub is the direct, external treatment. No risk of stomach upset. Simply massage on the throat, chest, and back (as illustrated). Relief starts almost at once. You begin to feel warm and comfortable.

able as VapoRub starts working direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time, its medicated vapors—released by the warmth of the body—are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break local congestion. Repeat treatment at bedtime. After restful sleep comes VapoRub keeps right on working, hour after hour. Often, by morning, the worst of the cold is over.

Municipal Council Hears Reports of The Hydro Board

The production of kw. hrs. generated by the generating system of the hydro electric system of the Digby County Power Board, showed an increase of 15% over that of 1932, whereas the increase in the amount of kw. hrs. sold during the past year, showed an increase of 16% over the year previous. The Power Board produced a total of 1,412,500 kw. hrs. in 1932 against the previous year's record of 1,228,700 kw. hrs., according to the report of Superintendent H. J. Campbell, as received by the Municipal Council in session at Digby.

For the first time in the eleven years since the inauguration of the Power Board the sale of kw. hrs. of energy topped the one million mark. Total sales for the year were 1,051,943 kw. hrs., compared with 901,147 in 1932.

Purchases from all wholesale customers, which include the Municipality of Digby, the Town of Digby, the Municipality of Clare, the Village of Weymouth, the Maritime Fish Corporation, Connors Bros., Ltd., and Canadian Pacific Railway showed substantial increases in the amount of energy purchased. In addition to those mentioned, the Acadia Construction Co., purchased 8,260 kw. hrs.

The Town of Digby, the board's largest customer, purchased 459,710 kw. hours, whereas the amount of electrical energy consumed in the town (taking into account the wholesale purchases of the Maritime Fish Corporation and the Canadian Pacific Railway) exceeded 55% of that consumed.

The financial statement of the Digby County Power Board showed a gross revenue of $40,377.67, which is considerably higher than any revenue heretofore reported. Ordinary operating costs of the system were slightly higher than in 1932. Due to additions in depreciation charges, the annual fixed charges were also higher. Expenditures for the year were $31,726, leaving a surplus for the year of $8,651.67. The report says "As this surplus is considerably larger than necessary, it is evident that a further reduction in rates should be considered and I would recommend an application be made to the Nova Scotia Board of Public Utilities asking for a reduction of one-half cent per kw. hr. on the first two steps of the rate schedule." The total surplus, including profits on the sale of merchandise, amounted to $9,716.55.

The superintendent's report stated no trouble was experienced during the year in maintaining an adequate water storage. The main dam at Fifth Lake had been rebuilt, and is now a permanent structure. Two other small dams are to be completed this year.

It was pointed out that if the board were to properly maintain service, it is imperative a new unit be installed at Sissiboo Falls No. 1 plant in the very near future.

Other matters dealt with were the appointment of Dr. J. R. McCleave as jail physician; the passage of a resolution asking the Dominion government to give financial aid in the care of tuberculosis patients; (a similar resolution was before all the councils in the province); the appointment of G. O. Hankinson, Weymouth; George W. Wightman, Smith's Cove, and Sinclair Cann, Westport, to comprise the Municipal Assessment Revision Board; the re-appointment of Thomas Denton, Little River, as special constable to collect tax arrears.

A resolution was passed fixing the assessment on milk kept for breeding purposes at $5.00 per pair.

On Saturday the council concluded its session by setting the tax rate for the year at $4.05, an increase of 15 over the rate last year. Highway tax remained at .60—thus the rate for this year's assessment is $4.65. The increase is due largely to the marked drop in assessment in the municipality. The press was informed by one member that the assessments decreased some $11,000 last year, and approximately $200,000 over a period covering the past ten years.

Grants made at this session were $50 to the Blind Institute; $200 to the Digby General Hospital, and $300 to the Digby Children's Aid Society.

The council voted its approval of a new generating unit to be installed in the Digby County Power Board's No. 1 hydro plant at Sissiboo Falls; also for the replacement of flumes and repairs and building of dams, the total to cost in the vicinity of $35,000.

STROKE OF LUCK REUNITES TRIO

Miss Gertrude Mason, foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar G. Mason, of Falkland Ridge, Annapolis County, has had a delightful surprise, having recently "found" her two twin-sisters whom she had neither seen nor heard from for nearly 13 years.

The children, who are orphans, were separated when Gertrude, 12, became the foster child and, by mutual consent, took the surname of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mason. The twins, Doris and Dora, were placed in separate homes and, being only 6, gradually remembered but dimly their older sister.

At the home of Rev. G. D. Brydon, where Miss Gertrude Mason has for several weeks been a guest, in Bear River, she met, accidentally, the lady of whose household one of the twins, Miss Doris VanArmburg, now a charming young lady of 19, is a member.

Among the Christmas mail during the happy season of peace and good will, none more sincerely conveyed the spirit of joy and affection than did the messages and photographs exchanged by Miss Gertrude Mason and her twin sisters, Doris and Dora VanArmburg, for Dora, too, has been "found", and the three girls anticipate a joyous family reunion at the foster-home of the older sister, to which the twins have received a cordial invitation from Mr. and Mrs. Mason, who rejoice with the young ladies because of the happiness fate has dealt to them in so leading them together after years of separation.

Prior to the closing of the mid-winter session of the Albert County, (N.B.) Council George I. Higgins, on behalf of the council board, extended congratulations to Councillor Judson A. Cleveland, of Alma, who occupied his seat at the beginning of his 45th consecutive year of service for the county. Mr. Cleveland first became a councillor in 1893 when he was known as the "boy councillor". This is considered a record for attendance at municipal councils in Canada.

Western District Musical Festival

The committee of management through its secretary, Miss Iris Copcutt, Yarmouth, has announced the selection and acceptance of Mr. Ifan Williams, of the Halifax Conservatory of Music, as adjudicator for the proposed Musical Festival opening in Yarmouth the week of May 2nd. Contestants will be confined to residents of Yarmouth, Shelburne and Digby Counties and all entries will be accepted from these districts only. The committee urges the tax, regularly every week end, making no secret of her conviction that in Mr. Williams she has a teacher whom it is impossible to improve upon. His graduates have given outstanding recitals and many are now in the musical profession as teachers and players.

Mr. Williams was responsible for the holding at the Conservatory this year of examinations by the Associated Board of the Royal Academy and Royal College of Music, London. When in England last summer he called on the principal of the Royal Academy, Sir John B. McEwen, very kindly arranged a meeting at which were present Sir John B. McEwen, Sir Hugh Allen and Colonel Fennell and Mr. Williams. It was decided at that meeting that the Associated Board Examinations would be held in the Halifax Conservatory in May of this year.

Report of Publicity Committee for 1937

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:—In looking over the publicity work for 1937 there has been the usual routine of endeavoring to keep the varied aspects of this important work before the mind of each individual, which is principally done through the medium of our local paper; and for publishing these articles we wish to thank the Editor. An innovation though was the Davis Machine, procured from head office at Ottawa, in June, which Mr. May kindly allowed to be exhibited in his shop window. This machine by its rotation of pictures showed the diversified round of duties that the Victorian Order Nurse accomplished.

Let me remind the audience that visitors are always welcome to the monthly meetings, when the various reports are read, and on hearing the nurse's report leaves one wondering how she can manage bedside nursing, clinics, health classes, school work, etc., etc., in one short day, having to go from one end of the town to the other.

But what is the necessity of publicity, some will ask? Although this Branch of the V. O. N. has been organized for 17 years it is surprising how many individuals still do not realize the Public Health work being done by this organization. A couple of generations ago there were epidemics of typhoid, diphtheria and other diseases as the seasons came around, often with fatal results. Do we have these occurrences now? To be sure we have some different epidemics, but not so virulent, and as people become more health conscious and greater knowledge acquired these may be lessened and we hope eliminated. It is through dissemination of literature that the Anti-Tuberculosis Association, trying to assist in stamping out tuberculosis. Through publicity the Minister of Health is working and he states that disease is being reduced in Nova Scotia.

In a recent broadcast the editor of Toronto Saturday Night, speaking of Health work, stated that the Victorian Order of Nurses does much to improve the health of the people of Canada. If we do our bit in Digby by sending forth healthy citizens, is not this a worthy work?

For many years the V. O. N., through their Supply Committee, provided garments, food, etc., to the underprivileged, and as the season came, to each family Christmas cheer. Mr. Boden often remarked the Victorian Order saved the town hundreds of dollars. When the Kiwanis organized they took over this work and since then other charitable societies, which have left the V. O. N. free to concentrate their energies on their specified work.

I cannot close this report without referring to Mr. Boden, late town clerk, who feels that he must retire from active duties. It was during the terrible epidemic of flu in the latter part of 1918, when a public nurse had to be brought into town, that the idea of a Victorian Order nurse was first mooted. But it was not until 1921 that practical work was begun. Mr. Boden, from the first meeting, has always given his sympathetic and financial support. Until 1936 he was one of the auditors of the treasurer's reports and his words of praise and encouragement, particularly at the annual meetings, has greatly helped the members to carry on.

Physicians, Nurses, Members of the V. O. N. and many others, are all working for the diminution of human pain and suffering more and more, as the brotherhood of man is realized. The V. O. N. committee wish to thank the public for their interest in the past and solicit their sympathetic and financial support for the future.

Respectfully submitted,

Secretary's Report

Mr. President, Members of the Victorian Order of Nurses:

Ladies and Gentlemen—I beg to submit the following report:

During the year there were 12 meetings with an average attendance of 9. Twenty-three letters were sent, seven received, two of these being reports of Miss Dawson, Eastern supervisor, who visited this Branch twice and who gave satisfactory reports of the work. Funds were raised in the usual manner, namely, Bridges, Teas and Pantry Sales, Rummage Sales, and in December through the sale of T.B. Seals.

Miss MacIvreen had the usual month's vacation during which time Mrs. L. R. Shaffner very capably carried on the work.

The year 1937 has not been successful financially, going so far as to borrow on one of our bonds. But through the perseverance of the faithful workers the Victorian Order has been able to keep on with this wonderful work. We must, if at all possible, keep this organization in the town. It is needed and is doing a valuable work in the school and especially among the mothers. More infants receive follow up care after mothers return from the Hospital, a healthy sign as indicating young mothers know where to turn for advice. The Clinic, which are held weekly afford the mothers free advice or the care of their children. Among the teen age girls who are Junior Health and Hygiene Class members, can one realize the value of this organization again. These girls are taught care of the baby, how to prepare trays for sick-rooms, dietetics, first aid, knitting and sewing, and great credit is due Miss MacIvreen for her work along these lines. The girls show their appreciation by maintaining an enthusiastic interest.

Expansion of Foreign Markets for Canadian Wheat Pressing National Problem, Says Morris W. Wilson. — Urges Reciprocal Trade Agreements to Secure Outlets for Staple Commodities. — Drought Problem Reviewed.

Bank's Balance Sheet Reflects Satisfactory Year for Business States Sydney G. Dobson. — Looks for Reasonably Good Conditions in 1938. — Answers Alberta Critics.

The expansion of foreign markets for Canadian wheat by reciprocal trade agreements and a truly national approach to the drought problem were urged by Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, at the Sixty-ninth Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada.

Canada was a fortunate country stated Mr. Wilson. The high level of national well-being reached by the phenomenal recovery of 1936 was maintained in 1937 and the activity in most lines of business compared not unfavorably with the record year of 1929.

A tragic exception of the general improvement was experienced in the Prairie Provinces. Obviously the need which exists is acute, the situation could not be handled by the Province, and the Federal Government is to be commended for having shouldered the greater part of the burden.

The immediate problems created by the drought require emergency measures; but a situation has also been brought to a head which has been unsatisfactory for years and requires treatment on a national basis.

Large areas, ordinarily unsuitable for the purpose, have been planted to grain. Under favorable weather conditions the crop from an area equal to that planted in recent years would furnish serious marketing problems. The efforts towards self-sufficiency in food supplies on the part of many countries, and particularly Germany, France and Italy, have also narrowed the international market for wheat and flour to a point where total overseas sales of the four important non-European exporters have been reduced as follows:

Exports of Wheat and Wheat Flour
(Crop years, Aug. 1 to July 31)
Millions of Bushels
	1924-25 1925-26 1926-27 1927-28 1928-29 1929-30 1930-31
Canada	346 406 194 195 88
U.S.	130 134 20 60 104
Argentina	171 222 117 162 80
Australia	86 109 85 102 104
Total 4 Countries	735 891 456 459 376

— Broomhall's estimate of December 15, 1937

It is a sad commentary that a large crop in Canada, unless accompanied by crop failures in other countries, would bring little more total remuneration to our farmers as a whole than they have secured in the years of drought.

There was no single remedy to bring about improvement, said Mr. Wilson. Diversified agriculture, withdrawal of sub-marginal land from wheat and more scientific methods would help. But these should be combined with exceptional efforts on the part of the government to open the doors of foreign markets, so that when Canadian farmers again reap a good crop the wheat may be sold to advantage. It is clear that the Prairie Provinces cannot solve this problem alone. This is a task which calls for prolonged, consistent and whole hearted co-operation.

The best possible hope of securing outlets for our grain der the nurse's constant supervision and six of the worst cases were sent to Yarmouth for eye examination and to receive glasses.

We cannot speak too highly of Miss MacIvreen's untiring efforts, working day and night, during the epidemic early in the year and it is due to her that immunization against diphtheria was introduced in the school, and about 80% of the pupils received the toxoid. The medical profession freely giving their services. One more reason why the Victorian Order of Nurses should remain active in Digby.

To the President, Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson for his unceasing interest, the members of the Victorian Order and to the public may I offer my sincere thanks for the co-operation they accorded me during the year and may the coming year be more progressive and far reaching in its efforts.

Respectfully submitted
M. May Turnbull,
Secretary.

exists between Government and business.

It surely cannot be long before a plan for practical co-operation between government, industry and labour will be adopted.

CONCLUSION:

Where the recent prosperity in the United States has been dependent mainly upon large-scale government deficits, the Canadian recovery took its origin from foreign trade.

Without doubt, prosperity based upon world demand for Canadian products is more soundly established than that based upon deficit spending. Sixty per cent, of our exports go to countries other than the United States, and even with a substantial decline in exports to that country total Canadian prosperity should be only moderately affected.

On the whole I look forward to 1938 as a year in which—barring some upset in international affairs not presently anticipated—I expect to see an improvement from present levels in the United States, and a further order economic reconstruction in many foreign countries. If this proves to be an accurate forecast, we can, I believe, look forward to further substantial progress towards full recovery in Canada.

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

In reviewing the general Balance Sheet, Mr. S. G. Dobson, General Manager, referred with satisfaction to an increase of $14,000,000 intotal assets, a renewal of the upward trend in commercial loans and a growth of 190 million dollars in Bank deposits in less than five years.

Conditions in Canada definitely improved during the year, said Mr. Dobson, the dark spot being the drought areas in Western Canada.

Referring to the unfair criticism in Alberta, Mr. Dobson said in this campaign of misrepresentation, efforts have been made to stir up resentment against the banks. As yet, during the last five years, not in one single instance has any farmer or home owner in Alberta been deprived of his farm or home by this bank through foreclosure.

To demonstrate the wide diversity of services banks provide, Mr. Dobson took occasion to analyze certain of the bank's figures. At the end of the year, the bank had on its books loans to farmers totaling $16,000,000, to retail merchants $21,000,000, to professional men and other private individuals, $51,000,000. As a further example of the extent to which we facilitate the affairs of what might be termed the "smaller client", I may say we had loans outstanding to 61,000 borrowers whose liability to the bank did not exceed $500 each.

In conclusion Mr. Dobson said that a profitable year for business was clearly reflected in the Bank's own balance sheet for 1937.

You'll never develop even trouble from looking at the bright side of things.

About This and That

The annual meeting of the Digby Board of Trade, called for Monday evening, was adjourned until Thursday next, for your benefit. Minutes and reports given Monday evening revealed an active year, but because of the small attendance, it was decided best to leave the election of officers and committees and the transaction of new business until Thursday, when it is hoped there will be a large attendance.

If our town is to amount to anything, we must have an active Board of Trade, and we cannot have such a body until every business man is behind it. Be sure to be present Thursday night—remember the meeting was adjourned for YOUR benefit.

Congratulations to Mayor Denton and Councillors Sol. Iow, Woodman and Morrell on their re-election for another two-year term, by acclamation.

The mild spell we had this week makes us wonder just what the conditions of the country roads will be in the spring. Considering this has been a cold but open winter, the frost must have penetrated to a considerable depth. So far, the paved roads are still proving a blessing, and around Digby, at least, the main highways have been as safe as during the summer months, although we expect it will be too much to expect them to escape damage when the spring thaws commence.

Nevertheless, despite the fact the main highways are

For Year Ending December, 1937

Madam President, Ladies:—I beg to submit the thirteenth annual report of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society of Digby.

After compiling the necessary facts and figures for this review of our work in the past year, I have come to the conclusion that the institution of annual reports is indeed a valuable one to any organization. It reminds me of a traveller who climbs a hill at the end of the day to see the direction his steps have taken before starting his next day's journey. Our society goes on from week to week and month to month, meeting the various situations that arise, but it is not until we pause and look back from this vantage point that we can accurately estimate our success in reaching the goal toward which we have striven. From this distance our strength and weaknesses stand out, and trends become apparent which at closer range may escape our attention.

The general outline of the past year's work is practically the same as that of recent years. Funds have been raised and expended in the customary way and the usual work of the Society carried on successfully. As shown in the Treasurer's statement, the earnings for the year have been over $500.00 and with a Bank balance of $455.95 to our credit at the end of 1936, we were enabled to pay $500.00 to the Hospital Board to be used for bond redemption, meet all other expenses, and close our books this year with a balance of $217.21.

Of the funds raised during the year, by far the largest amount may be credited to the Entertainment Committee, which has sponsored twelve Benefits, netting a total of over $400.00. Next in financial returns come the Bridge Clubs, with an income of approximately $75.00. Following this, there are membership dues and donations, totalling $45.50. And finally, Hospital Calendars, which have returned over $11.00. In reference to the last item, it should be explained that the collection of 1937 Calendars was not made until too late to be included in our financial returns for this year, the sum quoted representing the balance of the preceding year's Calendars collected in January 1937. There should be at least $50.00 from this source to be added to our funds as soon as the Calendar collection is complete in January 1938.

General expenses for the past year have amounted to more than at any time since the new Hospital was equipped, the sum of $239.89 having been spent for the purchase of hospital supplies. This is double the expenditure of 1936 for the same purpose. The increase is accounted for by the purchase of china, silver and trays for the hospital, amounting to approximately $150.00, in addition to the usual supplies of linen and household utensils. Incidental expenses for the Society including advertising have amounted to over $30.00 for the past year.

The increased expenditure has resulted in added responsibility for the Supply and Buying Committees during the year. The former committee has visited the Hospi-

Although financially our Society shows no return from the Hospital Fair held annually in August, arrangements for the Fair occupy a large part in our year's programme. A committee from the membership is formed each year to convene various booths, and sewing circles with ten-cent teas held weekly during the winter months aid in the preparation of articles for sale. Our efforts in this direction are greatly aided by the ladies of Bear River and Weymouth who are responsible for two very successful booths each year, and by the Smith's Cove ladies who take charge of a supper table. Receipts from the 1937 Fair amounted to approximately $1,550, which is a very gratifying return from our combined efforts.

As an auxiliary organization of the Hospital Aid Society, the Hospital Sewing Club functions very successfully. Although originating several years ago among the Bridge Clubs, contributing to our resources, the Sewing Club has now become a separate organization, earning and administering over $100.00 a year. The Soldiers' Memorial room has been taken over by this club, who supply linens and furnishings, their surplus funds being utilized for other hospital requirements. Their outstanding contribution during the past year was the glazing of the hospital porch, a much needed improvement to the building.

One change in our customary activities became necessary this year when it was found that owing to the hospital being filled to capacity the holding of the annual Armistice Tea and Donation day at the hospital was impossible. The public responded to our plea for the usual jams, preserves and pickles, for which we wish to express our gratitude, as well as for the fruits and vegetables donated by kind friends from time to time. Assistance of this nature is quite as valuable as cash donations and equally appreciated.

During the year there have been held twelve regular and one special meeting, in addition to the annual meeting, with an average attendance of ten members. It is in this respect that the general trend of our efforts becomes most apparent, for the average attendance of our meetings has been dropping slightly for several years. Through illness, death and removal from Digby a few of our most faithful

Many are strong for Shirley Temple—on the screen. But they do not turn to 7-year-olds for religious guidance. Incidentally, we hope this little evangelist who is coming to Boston to preach—"The Rev. The expulsion of all Jews from Ecuador except those engaged in farming was decreed on Tuesday of last week by the provisional military government of Col. Alberto Enriquez. The decree declared hundreds of Jews allowed to colonize in Ecuador to escape persecution in Central Europe had entered business instead of agriculture, as the Ecuadorian government had expected them to do. It gave alien Jews not engaged in farming 30 days in which to quit the country.

G. H. PETERS HAD CLOSE BRUSH WITH DEATH

Stipendiary Magistrate Geo. H. Peters had a close brush with death on Saturday afternoon when his car collided with the Yarmouth bound D. A. R. express, at the Church Street-First Avenue crossing. Mr. Peters left the court house shortly after two o'clock on an errand down town, forgetting it was time for the afternoon train. He turned to re-down the Church Street hill and was approaching the crossing when the engine came into view. Jamming on his brakes at a distance from the crossing, which under ordinary conditions would have brought the car to a safe stop, the wheels locked, and instead of stopping, the car coasted along the ice-coated street into the train. Thrown against a railway crossing sign and two line poles standing in a group at the corner, the car was demolished. The right front door was crushed almost over against the wheel on the driver's side, the body and frame twisted out of shape.

The driver's side of the car was also badly damaged by the impact against the poles, the force of which snapped the railway crossing sign off at the base. The car was thrown over a two-foot ditch and landed on all four wheels in the vacant lot near Robinson's stable. Mr. Peters had a miraculous escape and suffered only from bruises and a few superficial cuts. He continued his journey down town on foot a few minutes after the accident.

Obituary

There passed peacefully away, at his home in Lower Granville, on Thursday morning last, Samuel Hall Blaney, at the age of 73 years—a life-long resident of that village. He was a son of the late Stephen and Hannah (Hall) Blaney, and fifty-two years ago, married Miss Eliza Littlewood (their golden anniversary was celebrated in May, 1936). In May, 1882, he was baptised by the late Rev. Isaiah Wallace and joined the Lower Granville Baptist church. A man of fine Christian character, always ready to do a kind act, his passing has left a place that will not be easily filled, as he was beloved by old and young. He is survived by his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Howard Adams, Deen Brook; two grandchildren, Vernon and Myrtle Adams; and a sister, Annie, (Mrs. George Littlewood). The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. B. Crowell, assisted by Rev. C. E. Rockingham, of Deep Brook.

John P. Walsh died at his home, Cambridge, Mass., last week, after four-days' illness following heart attack. He was a native of Digby, having been born in this town in 1899, a son of the late James Walsh. Surviving are his mother, in Cambridge; two sisters, Annie E., formerly of the Courier staff, but now living in Cambridge, and Mrs. Catherine Gorman, in Hingham; a brother, James, of Edmonton, Alberta. Burial was in St. Paul's cemetery, in Hingham.

The death of Mrs. Annie Neilson, 73, occurred early Saturday afternoon, at 18 Harding Street, Saint John, the home of her daughter, Mrs. Janet Beckwith, stewardess on the steamer Princess Helene. The deceased had many friends in Digby, many from this town stopping with her on their visits to Saint John. She was the widow of Alexander Neilson, of the 72nd Seaforth Highlanders, and is survived by four sons and five daughters.

Josephine, widow of the late Rev. William Driffield, a former rector of Holy Trinity church, died at her home here on Wednesday, after a long illness. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Bishop, of Digby. She had been for several years a valued member of the Digby Academy teaching staff, and previous to her marriage had been principal of the Willow Street school, in Truro, and of the West Highland school, in Amherst, for several years. She is survived by five brothers, Sheriff H. R. Bishop, of Digby; Victor, of Montreal; Claude W., of Liverpool; Gerald V., of Halifax; and Douglas, of Detroit; also two step-daughters, Miss Dorothy Driffield, at present in Digby, and Mrs. George Byford, of Boston. The funeral takes place from her home to Trinity church, this afternoon, at 3.00 o'clock.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

Vice-President George M. Morrell, presided over the annual meeting of the Digby Board of Trade, held at the town hall, Tuesday evening, and later adjourned until next Thursday evening. Minutes of the last annual meeting and of board and council meetings held during the year were read by the secretary, Harold A. Nichols, who, also as treasurer gave the financial report, which showed a balance of $88.68 on hand at the end of the year.

F. C. Purdy, principal of the academy, in his report, stated the school population had increased considerably and the indications point to still further increases. He prophesied it would be necessary to employ another teacher for the next school year, and that the time was not far distant when further additions would have to be made to the school.

(A large addition was made during the summer of 1936, and the staff increased by three teachers. Another teacher was added to the staff at the beginning of the present school year.)

G. W. Connell in reporting for the property improvement committee, told of setting out a number of shade trees in the town. He also stated that citizens of the town made an extra effort to improve their properties last year; more paint had been used and the lawns and flower gardens were exceptionally good.

Owing to a comparatively small attendance it was decided to adjourn the meeting officers and committees will be until next Thursday, when of elected and new business dealt with.

Obituary

Morgan - Morgan

A very pretty wedding, of interest to many, was solemnized on Saturday evening of last week, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Morgan, when their youngest daughter, Catherine Viola, was united in marriage to Dwight Lloyd, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Carey Morgan, of Lansdowne. Rev. G. D. Brydon, pastor of the Bear River United Baptist church, officiated at the double-ring ceremony, which was performed beneath a beautiful floral arch in the living-room, in the presence of thirty-five guests. The bride looked charming in her gown of wine silk crepe, with white accessories, and carrying a beautiful bouquet of carnations and maiden-hair fern. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Hazel Fleet, as matron of honor, while Fred Turnbull, of Digby, supported the groom. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Helen Burrage, who also sang "O Promise Me", during the signing of the register, accompanied by Mrs. Lottie Roop. After the ceremony refreshments were served. The happy couple received many fine gifts of linen, silver, glass ware, etc. Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Ronald Killam, Yarmouth, (sister of the bride), Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Turnbull and son, Fred, of Digby, and Lloyd Adams, of Smith's Cove. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will reside in Lansdowne.

This was also true with the Ladies' Aid Society, the W. M. S. and the Mission Band, while the allocation to the M. and M. fund, set by the Presbytery was raised in full.

The report of the Sunday School showed that the work of this important branch of the church was being well maintained. The activities of the Young People's Society are also going forward with success.

BEAR RIVER UNITED CHURCH HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

The annual congregational meeting of the Bear River United Church was held in the vestry of the church on Wednesday evening of last week. Rev. R. L. Roach occupied the chair, with J. E. Langley, recording steward, acting as secretary. After the devotional exercises, which were conducted by the pastor, and the minutes of the last annual meeting had been read, reports from the various branches of the church organization were called for. In submitting these reports the different leaders showed that definite progress had been made in the work of the church during the year, and that a feeling of optimism and hope was rife among the people as they looked out upon another year.

The report of the session showed an increase in membership and expressed its satisfaction in the fine work that is being carried on among those who are unable to attend the regular services.

The treasurer's report was most encouraging there being a substantial credit balance, shown.

This was also true with the Ladies' Aid Society, the W. M. S. and the Mission Band, while the allocation to the M. and M. fund, set by the Presbytery was raised in full.

The report of the Sunday School showed that the work of this important branch of the church was being well maintained. The activities of the Young People's Society are also going forward with success.

After the election of officers for the coming year and several expressions of commendation on the fine reports that had been submitted the meeting was brought to a close with the benediction.

BETTER THAN WINE

As far back as the year 2200 B.C., Chin Hung, reputed scholar and physician of that time, said:

"Tea is better than wine for it leadeth not to intoxication, neither doth it cause a man to say foolish things and repent thereof in his sober moments."

It is a fact that the sobriety of nations has increased with the increasing use of tea, and their general health has improved also.

A rapidly growing use of this delightful, gently stimulating product of the Orient has accompanied the advance of culture and civilization, so that today it is the world's favourite beverage. A certain element of leisure and restfulness is associated with tea-drinking—factors which are manifestly important in its beneficial effect upon mental and physical efficiency.

This delicious, friendly, harmlessly stimulating gift of the Far East is at its best in Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe Tea—at its best not only in flavour but in economy also. The cost works out at about a third of a cent a cup. The retail price is 70 cts. per pound package, but its strength is such that it will go farther than ordinary teas and it accordingly turns out to be an actual economy to use it. It is a fortunate circumstance that so fine a tea costs so little when measured by the number of cups it will produce to the pound.

REPORT OF THE MAYOR AND STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTS, TOWN OF DIGBY, 1937

THE MAYOR'S REPORT

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Digby:

Ladies and Gentlemen—Your Council have continued the program of light surfacing streets, which, I believe, is one of the best things we have done. During the year they have extended this program to a number of the streets which will be completed in the near future. Further treatment should be given to the streets.

Water System—Your authority to improve the Water System in the South End of the Town was carried out by your Superintendent with the supervision of the Water Committee and I trust will prove a benefit to property owners and industry in that section. The cost was a little more than the estimate and was paid out of current account, which shows an increase over the previous year.

Fire Brigade—We appreciate the deep interest the Fire Brigade and Fire Wards take in this department. Their quick response to calls for aid and their efforts to combat fires have kept the Town immune from great fire loss, with the exception of the mill of H. T. Warne Limited.

Finances—Your Treasurer collected $26,641.17 of the 1937 assessment and $4,931.73 of back taxes—the former being a small advance over 1936 but still a long way from achieving the amount that ought to be collected.

Electric Light—The Electric Light shows an increase in the number of kilowatts purchased and in the total receipts; $1,057.38 expended on extension and new meters has been charged up to Current account as we had no authority to increase the Bank overdraft on Construction accounts.

Academy—This is the first full year's report since the addition was made to the Academy and Grade XII work taken up; we are pleased with the result of school year-end examinations—the percentage of passes reflecting great credit to Principal Purdy and his excellent staff of teachers, the attendance being excellent. The extra rooms provided are well equipped and it has been found necessary to engage an additional teacher and utilize a portion of the Assembly Hall. It is likely that in the near future the Hall will have to be divided into two class rooms as the need becomes imminent.

The roof of the old building was found very faulty and in the summer vacation was completely renovated. This expense and an extra teacher account for the increase of expenditure on the school account.

The Academy had the honour of being represented in London at the Coronation of King George in May last. Miss Audrey Holdsworth being the fortunate choice for Digby-Annapolis.

The V. O. N. continue the constant examination and oversight of the pupils, and under the care of Miss Jones hot milk and cocoa are supplied to the under-nourished during the severe weather.

Police—Chief of Police, F. J. Thibault, has had a busy year, and found it necessary to take fifty cases before the Stipendiary for infractions of law, chiefly the result of speeding through the Town; no great damage to life or property occurred.

Dr. W. R. Dickie closed the School and Public Library for a short period as a safe-guard against the spread of measles, and no cases developed in Town. Other reports of health conditions generally good.

Town Clerk's Office—Mr. Boden, this year, as in the past, has worked faithfully for the interests of the town. After twenty years of service he has deemed it best to retire and, to resign his office.

On accepting his resignation all the members of the Council expressed themselves as sincerely regretting Mr. Boden had found this necessary. My sincere wish for him is "Many years to mingle with us and enjoy a well-earned rest."

Superintendent of Streets and Water—Mr. Hayden has again had extra work in both departments: in the Water replacing and extending new mains and in cleaning the system. On the streets, extra drains and preventive work on streets and sidewalks, together with his usual necessary work, and has provided quite an amount of employment.

Town Council—This year concludes my term of office as Mayor and I wish to express my appreciation to the members of the Town Council for the attention they have again given to their various duties both in Council and Committee work, and to all civic officials for their active co-operation.

I have the honor to remain, ladies and gentlemen,

Yours, faithfully,
M. C. DENTON
Mayor

THE AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Mayor and Councilors,
Town of Digby, N.S.

Gentlemen—

We have completed the audit of the accounts of the Town of Digby for the year 1937.

All revenues received have been deposited in the Bank and duplicate records and deposited to the credit of the Town.

The expenditures of the different departments have been examined carefully, and have been properly authorized before payment.

The Bank Accounts are all in balance and have been verified with the Banks as at closing date.

Total tax collections for the year amounted to $32,641.17 against $32,488.66 for 1936, an increase of $152.51; collections on the 1937 assessment were $26,641.17 and show an increase of $694.01 over the previous year.

The total income for the year amounted to $30,435.19 against expenditures of $40,264.15 and reveal an excess of payments over revenues of $9,828.96 which is reflected in the increase of the Bank overdraft during the year.

Collections of Light and Water rates show a considerable improvement over last year.

The Sinking Fund Bonds at the Bank of Nova Scotia have been checked and found in order and the yearly installments have been made to the Sinking Fund accounts.

An extension was made to the Water System in

The South End of the Town during the year at a cost of $2,572.12.

We find an overdraft in the Light Construction bank account amounting to $4,444.59 at December 31st and we would suggest that some arrangement be made to repay this to the Bank. There is also an overdraft in the Fire bank account and this should be charged into the general account.

New Side Walk construction and re-surfacing of some streets was carried out during the year at a cost of $5,793.34, and this was financed by the sale of Paving Bonds.

There are still a large number of outstanding taxes on the Town Books and we would again advise a strong drive on the delinquent accounts and the writing off of all uncollectable amounts.

Your Town Clerk, Mr. Boden, is retiring this year from office and we wish to compliment him on the splendid record he is leaving behind him after a great many years of service to the Town.

Respectfully submitted,
BELYEA, McNEICE CO.

Deep Brook Churches Ask Embargo on War Materials to Japan

The annual meeting of the United Baptist Church of Deep Brook, Annapolis Co., was held last Friday evening, the pastor, Rev. C. E. Rockingham, presiding.

Reports were heard from the various officials and committees all of which showed the church had made progress. Considerable work had been done at the parsonage, including the installing of a new water system, and all bills had been paid.

Among the officers appointed were:—
Clerk—Mrs. Ruth Walker.
Assistant Clerk—Mrs. Walter Dittmars.
Treasurer—Mrs. J. M. Nichols.
Denominational Treasurer—Mrs. Augustus Purdy.
Organist—Mrs. Eric Adams.
Assistant Organist—Mrs. Walter Lent.

An appeal from the National Committee for the relief of war sufferers in China was read and discussed. As a result the following resolution was adopted and ordered sent to the Prime Minister.

"Whereas, we, in common with all churches in the Dominion have received an appeal from the National Committee for the relief of war sufferers in China for a contribution to a fund to be created for the relief of war sufferers in China, and whereas, Canada, by the export of raw materials to Japan is unwittingly aiding in Japan's conquest of China;

Be it therefore resolved, that we, the United Baptist Church, of Deep Brook, Nova Scotia, petition our Dominion government to place an embargo on all metals and other materials to Japan which are likely to be converted into armaments and ammunition."

Resolution for Embargo Against Japan

The congregation of the Baptist churches of Clements-port, Deep Brook and Smith's Cove, on Sunday went on record as favoring an embargo against Japan. The pastor, Rev. C. E. Rockingham, said it was inconsistent that they should receive an appeal from the National Committee for the Relief of War Sufferers in China when Canada is doing nothing to halt the aggressors. Sympathetic attention would be given the appeal for the National Committee but it was felt that the government should co-operate by placing an embargo upon all materials for Japan that are likely to be converted into armaments. Resolutions to this effect were ordered sent to the prime minister.

Fenerty - Burbridge

The marriage of Miss Minnie Evangeline Burbridge and Walter Ervin Fenerty, both of Middleton, was solemnized by the Rev. C. E. Rockingham, at the Baptist parsonage, in Deep Brook, on Saturday evening last. Witnessing the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Fernley Silver.

Other Items of Interest

Mrs. Bernard Comeau sailed from Halifax on Saturday for England, where she will spend several weeks with relatives at her former home in Nottingham.

Mrs. L. E. Sherman, is this week's hostess to the Dorcas Society of the Baptist church. The regular weekly meetings of St. Matthew's Guild are being held at the residence of Mrs. Walter Purdy during the winter months.

L. J. Strong is moving to Caledonia where he is carrying on extensive lumber operations.

Mrs. Lydia Haynes, Digby, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Fernelly Silver.

Mrs. Douglas Weir, Annapolis Royal, is spending an indefinite time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Berry.

Mrs. Elburne Berry has returned from Middleton where she spent several months.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Jefferson and Mrs. Miriam Corbett, who were patients in the Digby Hospital, have returned to their homes.

The ladies of the Dorcas Society held a cut-pie sale in the church hall last Wednesday evening.

On Tuesday, the 11th, St. Matthews' Guild enjoyed a social evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Spurr.

Several friends from this village attended the funeral of the late S. H. Blaney, Stoney Beach, last Friday afternoon.

St. Matthew's Guild Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of St. Matthew's Guild was held at the home of Mrs. Walter Purdy, on Tuesday evening of last week, with an attendance of eleven. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved, and the secretary's and treasurer's reports were received and adopted. The following officers were elected:

Honorary President—Mrs. Walter Purdy.
President—Mrs. Edwin Hiltz.
Vice-President—Miss Ethel Purdy.
Secretary—Mrs. W. H. Spurr.
Treasurer—H. E. Sullis.
Altar Guild (2 months)—Mrs. F. H. Dittmars, Roberta Dittmars.

The reports showed that 1937 had been one of the most successful years; a new Karn organ was purchased for St. Matthew's; a window (to match the memorials) replaces the old one over the entrance of the church; various repairs were made to the building; flowers were given an elderly resident on her birthday; gift of money was sent to Saskatchewan; another was given to the organist of the church at Christmas, beside many minor expenditures during the year.

Annual Meeting of St. Clement's Parish

The annual meeting of St. Clement's parish took place on Monday, in St. Matthew's Church, Deep Brook, with the rector, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, in the chair. (Owing to the funeral of the late Mrs. W. S. Abbott, of Kingston, taking place on the 17th the meeting had to be postponed to the 24th). There was a large attendance and an enthusiasm pervaded the meeting. The excellent reports of the rector, wardens, chapel wardens, Sunday Schools, guilds and the various committees showed the splendid work that has been, and is being, done. It would be difficult to particularize any one accomplishment, but perhaps the establishment of Sunday schools at Deep Brook and at Victory were outstanding. St. Matthew's Guild had a prosperous year and succeeded in placing a new organ in the church. St. John's Guild retired the note of $500 debt on the new St. John's church in TWO years instead of in FIVE as planned. They now have a mortgage of $700 to pay. The

THE DANGERS OF DISEASED TEETH

On Saturday evening a group of representative citizens of the town enjoyed an instructive talk from Doctor Harry S. Thompson, Field Secretary of the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council. Dr. G. V. Turnbull was chairman of the gathering.

The purpose of Dr. Thompson's meeting Saturday evening was to outline a future more extensive programme to be carried out in the town. He is working in this province under the direction of the Minister of Education and the Minister of Health, and will remain in the province for five months. To date, Nova Scotia has been the only province untouched in this programme of Health Education.

He stated the purpose of his meetings was to educate the people on the dangers of diseased teeth, to which he said, most of the ailments known to the human body could be traced. He also stated that 97% of the anglo saxon people suffered from tooth decay, which was practically unknown to many of the more primitive races. Diet was to blame in a large measure.

Miss Doris MacDonald, of Stellarton, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Clarkson.

Your presence is needed, and you are cordially invited to attend the 3rd "Popular" Concert, at Scout Hall, Thursday evening, February 3rd, at 8.15 o'clock. Splendid programme by the Civic Band.

Herr Hitler has given orders for the manufacture of a motor car which is to cost no more than $280 at the present rate of exchange. Cars of this model are to be produced by the hundreds of thousands by 25,000 employees in the new German Detroit; and before long it is expected millions of Germans will own their own cars. The capital for the undertaking is supplied by the Nazi trade union.

in good condition generally, many of the secondary highways and gravel roads have been dangerously icy, and frequent accidents, due to their slippery condition, have occurred. For safety's sake, exercise caution, and drive carefully; that advice, of course, goes not only for this time of the year, but for all times of the year.

supplies on hand. More work requires two things: more workers and more money—more workers to carry on, and more money to purchase materials to carry on with.

This brings us to the second general trend which has become apparent in our organization—a gradual drop in our earnings in the past year or two. This seems to be a tendency shown by other societies, so is probably due to no fault of our own. Certainly our president and committee have worked faithfully and well and are deserving of great credit. Certainly, too, a portion of the public is unfailingly generous in its responses. But whereas a few years ago the Hospital calendars brought in a yearly revenue of approximately $200.00 now we can hope for barely $50.00 from the same source. The same may be cited in regard to practically every other means of raising money. During the recent business depression this was understandable, but it is more difficult to explain for the past year when incomes have been stationary or higher than in the preceding year. Charitable work is something which must go on, and it is to be hoped that the public as a whole will reawaken to the necessity of supporting this worthy cause. Let us ask ourselves, one and all, how Digby could get along without its hospital, and then bear the answer in mind when further calls are made in behalf of the Hospital Aid.

Having brought these facts before you for consideration I wish to thank all those who have assisted us with the past year's work, and to appeal to more of the public to unite with us in 1938. A small investment of your time, a little personal interest in our problems will pay big dividends in the success of the Ladies' Hospital Aid for the ensuing year.

Respectfully submitted,
Louise M. Warner

COURAGE

Admiral Lord Howe, when a captain, was hastily awakened in the middle of the night by the lieutenant of the watch, who informed him, with great agitation, that the ship was on fire near the magazine.

"If that be the case," said he, rising leisurely to put on his clothes, "we shall soon know it," the lieutenant flew back to the scene of danger and, almost immediately returning, exclaimed, "You need not, sir, be afraid; the fire is extinguished."

"Afraid!" exclaimed Howe. "What do you mean by that, sir? I never was afraid in my life." Then, looking the lieutenant full in the face, he added, "Pray how does a man feel when he is afraid? I need not ask how he looks."

Passing secrets around in company is difficult for a Chinese person, since it is almost impossible for the Chinese language to be whispered, as it is a tone language and the inflections are almost as important as the articulation. He Suffered Agony in Wet Weather

Rheumatism Attacked Limbs and Body

He had been bothered with rheumatism for years. The pain in wet weather—to use his own expression—was "indescribable." But all that is gone now—thanks to Kruschen Salts. Read this letter:—

"I suffered with rheumatism for years. I dreaded wet weather, for during such periods the pain was continuous and indescribable. To begin with, it was confined to my limbs, but in time I began to suffer as much agony in my body as I did in my limbs. When I began to take Kruschen Salts, I found it did me more good than all the other medicine I had taken put together. Today, I have peace and freedom from pain, even during wet weather, and can heartily recommend Kruschen Salts to anyone who suffers from rheumatism."—N. M.

Rheumatic conditions are often the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients in Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients in these Salts assist Nature to expel the dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

WONT LET QUINTS BE GUINEA PIGS

Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, medical guardian of the Dionne quintuplets, is looking forward to the time when the five sisters can be "taken from behind glass walls" and permitted to play around with neighbor children, just as less famous boys and girls.

"The time is approaching when the five girls must begin to mingle with other children in order to brush more intimately against life," Dr. Dafoe told an audience of women at Cincinnati, Ohio, last week.

"They must be taught to be indifferent to the gaze of the curious, to which they will be subjected as long as they live," he stated.

The next problem, said the doctor, is a plan for their education. The girls are receiving pre-kindergarten training under the direction of a private tutor and nurses, he said.

We will not allow them to become scientific guinea pigs," he added. "We try to remember that each of the quintuplets represents a distinct personality."

The country doctor, who suddenly became a world figure when he delivered the quintuplets, was in Cincinnati as guest of the woman's exposition.

About This and That

"Ain't it funny!" Now that nomination day is over, and all that, we have heard numerous "interested lamenters" voicing their valued opinions on the lack of interest shown by the Digby people in letting nomination day slide past by returning the mayor and retiring councillors by acclamation.

"Lack of interest" is certainly a peculiar argument for anyone who really thinks a change is needed, but still, there are always those who raise the roof because "George didn't do his duty," but perhaps "George" is getting tired of "doing it". At any rate, as far as we are concerned, we have no complaint to make.

Judging from newspaper reports of last week's nominations in the provincial towns, the majority of them appeared to be satisfied with their civic governments, for acclamations and re-elections by acclamation were quite common. Peculiar situations, however, exist in Shelburne County, where there are three incorporated towns; in two of them—Clark's Harbor and Lockeport—citizens failed to nominate a mayor, while in the shire town of Shelburne, only one councillor was nominated.

It looks as though we were in for a late spring, if any faith can be placed in the old "Groundhog Day" superstition, for there was no doubt but that the groundhog saw his shadow on Wednesday—and that means (or does it?) we have six more weeks of winter ahead of us.

Although the snow this week has been light, it was welcomed by the woodsmen. We understand conditions have been fair in most sections—poor in some, excellent in others. On the whole, although there has been but little snow this winter, there has been a splendid "bottom" for what did fall. Woodsmen from the interior of the county tell us conditions have been ideal for them, and they were getting out a good cut of cordwood, pulpwood and timber, until the recent thaw. The little snow there was in the woods was sufficient to make good hauling. Nearer the coast, there is a good bottom but not enough snow to assist the operators to any extent. However, they, too, seem to be getting out a good cut and hope for more snow as the season advances.

Midget Engine Conveys Honor Key To Rail Chief

A SPECIAL railway line was set up by the Halifax Board of Trade recently by which Mayor Walter Mitchell presented a golden key to the City of Halifax to S. J. Hungerford, Chairman and President, Canadian National Railways, and President of Trans-Canada Air Lines. The occasion was the annual banquet of the Halifax Board of Trade, at which Mr. Hungerford was guest speaker. The track was laid along the head table and Mayor Mitchell, after making the presentation speech, placed the key on the tender of a miniature Canadian National locomotive which conveyed it along the rail and stopped in front of Mr. Hungerford. The picture shows the President of the National Systems receiving the key. Among those present at the inauguration of this unique rail service were Hon. Robert Irwin, Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, Premier Angus L. Macdonald and Frank K. Warren, President of the Board of Trade, who presided.

A war-time romance has just come to a happy conclusion in Calgary, Alberta. Miss Dorothy Louise Hart, of London, met Herbert Samuel, serving with the Canadians, while he was on leave in London during the war. Samuel returned afterwards to Calgary, but continued to correspond regularly with Miss Hart, who has now married him in Calgary.

Under the provisions of a bill just introduced before the New York legislature, an employer who refuses to employ, or keep in his employ, any worker 40 years of age or over, because of his age, can be jailed. Penalties of $50 to $200 fine or 20 to 30 days in jail, are provided by the measure. What action will be taken on the bill remains to be seen.

Five thousand families are hewing out homes for themselves under the guidance of the Saskatchewan northern settlers re-establishment branch of the provincial government. There they are finding fertile soil with moisture lacking in the burnt-out area, from which they came, abundance of fuel and lumber for building. Fifteen per cent of the families who moved north were off relief within a year.

Mayor Bone, addressing the Belleville, Ont., Kiwanis Club, declared that youths of the country are getting nowhere under the present school system, adding it takes a near-lunatic or child with an intelligence quota of 109 to pass matriculation examinations.

Germany's tax equivalent of four cents a gallon on gasoline produces sufficient revenue to cover interest charges on loans raised to build the high-speed autobahn, Dr. Todt, director-general of German highways, said last week.

We notice in the "movie and beauty hints" in some papers that it says: "The time is coming when men will be using cosmetics to improve their appearance. 'Goodness, gracious, girls, our face is red already!'"

In his book "Papuan Epic" Keith Bushell tells of tailed-men among some of the more primitive tribes of Papua, which fact lends interesting support to the Darwinian theory. It was while searching a native hut for prisoners that he came upon an old man, obviously of great age and therefore a tribal chief, who possessed a hairy tail of several inches in length. Upon being questioned, members of the tribe did not appear to find anything unusual in this appendage, and explained that long ago Pai-wa men had tails and their women as well. But that now some of the piccaninies do not have them.

No decision has yet been reached on the matter of extending the scope of the Railway Commissioners Board to include practically all carrier facilities. The bill was turned down last year, and at that time it was intimated that another attempt would be made.

Snow fell heavily and instead of the snow being ploughed the plough was snowed at Kilbirnie, Ayrshire, recently. Workmen left it at the roadside while they sought food and a short rest in a village. When they returned they were unable to find it. Back they went to get a second snow plough to recover the snowed-up plough.

Germans are fairly easy-going so long as they get enough beer; not so the Italian tenors. The famous Beniamino Gigli, for instance, needs careful handling. Once in New York he objected to singing "Rhadames" to the high-speed autobahn, Dr. Todt, director-general of German highways, said last week.

It would be interesting to know who set the fashion of tinting the nails. The Creole women do so in order to hide the bluish half-moons which betray their race.

Altred Boden "Caned" at Council Meeting

The presentation was made by Deputy Mayor, S. S. Aymer. At this meeting the resignation of E. J. Theriault, as town solicitor, was read and accepted. Mr. Theriault was recently appointed solicitor for the Municipality of Digby.

Upholds Evolution

After nearly 14 years of study, a commission under the chairmanship of Archbishop of York, above, has issued a 242-page report upholding rights of modernists to believe the world and all its creatures are a process of evolution. The Biblical account of the creation of the world provides "no objection" to such theories, said the report. The report is described by church leaders as the most important Anglican document in nearly 400 years.

ADVICE TO PARENTS

It is perhaps too much to expect the sons and daughters of today to find as much interest and entertainment in family tasks as members of earlier generations did. There are too many competing interests. But the girl who learns to cook and keep house and the boy who masters the intricacies of the family furnace or learns to shovel walks or mow lawns with speed and completeness have learned lessons which are as valuable as any on their school curriculum. Perhaps parents have overlooked the possibilities of such homework. Children do not have to be drudges but they might actually learn to like work.

Brown (after a night out): "When I arrived home last night my wife was awake and promptly went off into his-tories."

Jones: "You mean hysterics."

Brown: "No hysterics. She dug up all my past history."

BISHOP OF LONDON'S RECIPE FOR YOUTH

The Bishop of London strongly hinted at a recent meeting that, after his retirement in July, 1939, instead of doing anything so foreign to his nature as relaxing, he intends to set off on another world tour of the missions overseas. He was presiding at a large gathering of Sunday School teachers and leaders of clubs, guilds and other societies for young people of the diocese, invited by the London Diocesan Council for Youth to the Draper's Hall, Throgmorton Street.

Expressing his longing that the diocese of London should lead in the campaign for bodily fitness, the Bishop bore in mind that an ounce of practice is worth a ton of precept, and told how he himself achieves the not very easy task of doing in his eightieth year exactly what he did in his thirtieth. It must, Dr. Winning-Ingram insisted, be done by rule. "Once you have chosen the right father and mother and got a good constitution, I am certain as I am that I stand here that the secret of keeping back your age and being able to hold a salmon for three hours and play two rounds of golf at eighty is: don't smoke, don't drink, don't eat too much, and take regular exercise every day."

He went on to speak of mental fitness and its importance, particularly for teachers. Teachers could never be fresh unless they kept on reading themselves. They must have growing minds all the time. As for the idea that reading upsets one's faith, it was utterly ridiculous. His own faith in the veracity of the Bible had been strengthened more by reading the works of Sir James Jeans than by any other book. Above all, there was the need to be fit spiritually, to enlarge the capacity for worship with its power to disinfect and ennoble the soul. "Do let us keep fit, and make our children fit, physically, mentally and spiritually; and then there will be a force here, which will convert the world."

GOLD MINING TAKES A SPURT IN NOVA SCOTIA

Michael Dwyer, Nova Scotia Minister of Mines, told the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, on Monday, of last week, that the gold mining industry in this province is being revived. Some 20,000 ounces are being mined this year and the production will be doubled next year. About half a dozen gold mines are operating now, and modern methods with higher price for gold, made it profitable to mine ore running one-quarter ounce to the ton.

About twenty mines will be in operation shortly, but it had been agreed, said Mr. Dwyer, that Nova Scotia would not be advertised as a gold mining country until it was definitely established that mines could operate at a profit.

Deep concern swept through Canada and the United States when it was learned that Eddie Cantor, pop-eyed radio and motion picture comedian was suffering from a throat infection. The comedian, who usually laughs and jokes his way through life, didn't think it was so funny when he received medication from a nurse during an intermission in his radio program.

The idea of the machine is to enable a heavier payload to be carried. The "helper ship", after the take-off, will return to the landing field while the other section, heavily-laden, will set out on its flight.

"Is there a doctor in the audience?" brought unusual results in Tel Aviv, Palestine, and gave the city an idea of the large number of German, Jewish and other medical men practicing there. During a performance of "Benjamin Disraeli" by a Hebrew company an actor fainted on the stage near the close of the second act. The curtains were rung down and the stage manager appeared to ask if there was a doctor in the house. The audience rose almost to a man.

2-WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

Take 2 "ASPIRIN" tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

If there is sore from the cold, wash out with 2 "ASPIRIN" tablets in 1/2 glass of water. Gargle twice. This soothes throat soreness and soreness above and below.

No family love, neglect even minor head colds.

Here is what to do: Take two "Aspirin" tablets when you feel a cold coming on—with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly.

The "Aspirin" method of relieving colds is the way many doctors approve. You take "Aspirin" for relief—then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in this form of a cross on every tablet.

Free From Sciatica For 35 Years

In Perfect Health at 73—Thanks to Kruschen

Thirty-five years ago this septuagenarian was helpless with sciatica. Then he heard of Kruschen. Since that day he has enjoyed perfect health. Here is his remarkable story: "Thirty-five years ago, I had a severe attack of sciatica and could scarcely move for about six weeks. Then I started taking Kruschen—about half a teaspoonful every morning in hot water. In a few weeks, I got rid of the awful pain in my hips. I have never had to consult a doctor since, and am still in perfect health at 73 years of age, which I can only attribute to taking Kruschen Salts every morning."—T. A.

Most people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health—the need of internal cleanliness. Eventually, they start the healthy Kruschen habit then, probably for the first time in their lives, they start getting rid, every day, of all waste matter from the system. The result is renewed health and vigour. Ailments due to clogged systems vanish, youth returns, and life becomes really worth living.

Moved by Councillor W. C. Woodman, seconded by Councillor Hankinson and passed.

"Whereas, within recent years great progress has been made in the diagnosis and treatment of Tuberculosis; and Whereas, the result has been that a great number of cases of this disease that would not have been discovered or made available for treatment some years ago are now being found in large numbers in the primary stages of the disease;

And Whereas, the result has been that increased numbers of applications are being made to the Municipal authorities for assistance in treatment by persons who are incapable financially of providing such treatment for themselves, the numbers of such applications being so large that most Municipalities find themselves unable to provide adequate medical treatment for such cases.

Now therefore be it Resolved, that this Municipality join with other Municipalities in the Province of Nova Scotia in requesting that the Government of the Dominion of Canada through the Department of Pensions and National Health make provision at the coming session of Parliament for a grant from the Department to the Department of Public Health for the Province of Nova Scotia to be applied towards the assistance of Municipalities in their work of providing treatment for persons suffering from tuberculosis;

Health Officer's Report

To the Warden and Municipal Councillors for the Municipality of Digby:

Gentlemen—I beg to make the following report as to the sanitary condition of the Municipality for the past year. During the month of September there was a case of Infantile Paralysis at Conway. The diagnosis was confirmed by examination of the spinal fluid, at the Pathological Laboratory in Halifax. Strict quarantine was observed.

Another case of this disease was reported by Dr. J. R. McCleave, in Marshalltown. The schools and churches were closed, and the premises quarantined. I am pleased to say there was no further spread of the disease.

During the summer there were several cases of typhoid fever in the municipality, and through efforts of Dr. P. S. Campbell, Chief Health Officer, the infection was traced to two men who worked in the neighborhood where the disease occurred. These men are typhoid carriers and means are being taken by inoculation to have the danger of them spreading the disease overcome.

I regret to say Tuberculosis is still our greatest problem, and that in spite of the efforts of Provincial Health Department with the assistance of the Provincial Sanatorium and others, the death rate from the disease still remains high.

The usual complaints have been received from schools, mostly of sores and rashes on the pupils. I have visited all these schools I had complaints from. In nearly every case the trouble was Eczema or Impetigo, or other skin diseases easily curable.

In presenting this report I am pleased to say the sanitary condition of the Municipality, at present, is good.

Yours respectfully,

Frank E. Rice
Medical Health Officer for the Municipality of Digby
County, N. S.,
January 5th, 1938.

Report of the Auditors

January 12th, 1938

To the Warden and Councillors; Municipality of Digby, N. S.

Gentlemen:—We have completed the audit of the books and records of your Municipality for the year ended December 31st, 1937, and wish to report as follows:—

We have prepared from the books the following statements which are attached hereto.

1.—Balance Sheet Statement of Assets and Liabilities as at December 31st, 1937.

2.—Statement of Cash Receipts and Cash Payments for the year ended December 31st, 1937.

3.—Statement of the Contingent Account.

All monies received have been checked to duplicate receipt records and deposited to the Bank account.

Payments have been examined with authorized bills.

We have reconciled all Bank accounts and have checked the balances with the Bank.

Tax collections for the year amounted to $45,547.98 and show a slight decrease of some $270.00 against 1936 year, the Tax Income representing about 95 per cent of the 1937 levy.

surplus as this merely represents deficit.

There is about $1,600.00 in the Direct Relief Bank Account earning very little income and we recommend that consideration be given to wards more profitable investment of this money.

The Serial Bonds amounting to $1,000.00 were retired during the year.

We would recommend the bonding of all collectors with a Guarantee Company instead of the present method now in use and we find that the special collector was not covered by a bond during the past year.

Report of Chairman of Committee on Tenders and Public Property, Year 1937

To the Warden and Councillors of the Municipality of the District of Digby:

Gentlemen:—Your Committee on Tenders and Public Property beg leave to present the following report for the year 1937:

Your Committee issued orders to amount of $1,507.92 during the year 1937. Included in this amount there were two insurance policies for $30,000, with premiums to the amount of $390.00 that were paid and which do not fall due again until the year 1940. The east and north sides of the building are now getting in bad shape, brick crumbling and falling out and in places the outside is bulging, and would recommend this matter be taken up at this annual session of this Council and have repairs made to north and east outside walls of building as was done to the south and west walls during the year 1936. The Janitor's salary of $40.00 per month was paid by the Treasurer, amounting to $480.00 for the year 1937. This, along with the $1,507.92, issued by orders of the Chairman, making a total amount of $1,063.56. The House Maintenance for the year 1937. You voted for this department the amount of $1,200.00. Your Committee would recommend a vote of $1,500.00 for the year 1938. Your Committee advertised for tenders for Soft Coal for heating building for year 1938 in two issues of the "Digby Courier" and tenders were received from R. W. Sypher and A. R. Turnbull. The tender of A. R. Turnbull for

Jail

Your Committee issued orders during the year 1937 for Keep of Prisoners and Turnkey, plumbing repairs, to the amount of $1,063.45. The Jailor's salary of $50.00 per month was paid by the Treasurer, amounting to $600.00 for the year 1937, making a total amount for Jail Maintenance of $1,663.56 for the year 1937. You voted for this service for year 1937, the sum of $1,300.00. Your Committee would recommend a vote of $1,500.00 for year 1938.

Outside Poor

Your Committee issued orders for the keep of the Poor outside the Home, to the amount of $4,316.57. There are a number of bills outstanding to come in, which will have to be paid, estimated about $500.00, which will make a total of $4,816.57. You voted $4,000.00 for this department for year 1937. Your Committee would recommend a vote of $4,500.00 for the year 1938. Just to give the Council an idea how this department has increased, the year 1923, my first year as Chairman of this Committee, the amount expended was $958.14; year 1924, $1,089.28; year 1925, $1,474.86; year 1926, $1,941.77; year 1927, $1,728.08; year 1928, $2,475.40; year 1929, $1,754.37; year 1930, $2,790.49; year 1931, $2,383.82; year 1932, $2,019.25; year 1933, $4,236.12; year 1934, $3,186.80; year 1935, $3,849.90; year 1936, $5,493.35.

Alms House Capital

During the year we carried out your instructions and had a new 1½ in. pipe laid from the Home up across the main highway to connect to other pipe the same size. Also, finished cells in men's insane ward. Some repairs will have to be made during the year 1938 and would recommend a vote of $500.00 be placed in the estimates for year 1938. We issued orders for this department to the amount of $503.90. In this amount, two insurance policies were paid, namely, premium on $10,200.00 on Alms House, amount of premium $302.95, which falls due every year.

Inside Poor

There were orders issued during the year 1937 for the keep of the Poor and Harmless Insane, inside the Home, to the amount of $4326.95. We will have to have repairs to cellar steps this year, also repairs to front steps. Also, will have to have some new piping done inside the house, also chimneys of house new-topped.

Your Committee advertised for Tenders for Supplies, Boots and Shoes, Dry Goods, Wood and Medical Attendance for the year 1938, in two issues of the "Digby Courier", and tenders were received from the following:

Tenders for Groceries, Supplies, etc.: A. A. Shortliffe and H. T. Warne. Tender of H. T. Warne, being the lower, was accepted.

Tenders for Boots and Shoes and Rubbers, from H. T. Warne and A. J. Dillon. The tender of H. T. Warne, being lower, was accepted.

Tenders for Medical Attendance, with medicine, were received from Dr. W. C. Harris and Dr. W. R. Dickie. The tender of Dr. Dickie, being the lower, was accepted.

Tender for Dry Goods was received from Wright's. This being the only tender, was accepted.

There being no tenders for Wood, it was decided to leave this matter for this Council meeting.

Your Committee finds during the last ten years, the cost per day per inmate in the Home, including Food, Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Heat, Light, Medical and other attendance, has been as follows:—

1929	0.242
1930	0.234
1931	0.223
1932	0.227
1933	0.22
1934	0.20
1935	0.213
1936	0.206

Register of Deeds' Office

Your Committee carried out your instructions and had a new hardwood floor laid in the Register of Deeds' office; also had chimney taken down below roof and rebuilt. Your Committee also found a new stove had to be procured for the office as the old one was getting worse for wear and was not fit to be left in the building with any fire in it. The total amount of orders issued for these repairs amounted to $135.05. The amount voted for this service was $75. Your committee would recommend a vote of $75 for year 1938.

Respectfully submitted
E. F. Hankinson
Chairman of Committee on Tenders and Public Property

God Save the King

WHAT ARE YOU WORTH?

What sum would you offer to a man who saved your life? At what rate, that is to say in other terms, do you value your own existence your contribution to the world? A discussion of the same question in one of Mr. Anthony Powell's witty novels; five shillings, the characters appraised as the correct sum. In this country, however, a lady, on being rescued from the sea with great difficulty and at considerable risk by a boatman, generously rewarded him with the gift of a shilling! This action on her part seems to have been self-depreciation carried to its furthest point! At the same time, what would you give in similar circumstances?

EXPENSIVE SHORT-CUT

Before the Panama Canal was opened steamers bound from Britain to New Zealand travelled round Cape Horn, but the opening of that great canal established a short cut that reduced the length of the voyage by six days. Now some of the cargo ships are going back to the old route because it is much cheaper to make the voyage a week longer than to pay the cost of the Panama Canal tolls. The charge for a vessel of 9,000 tons is about $10,000, whereas the cost of an additional week's voyaging around the Horn is only about $1,500.

Advertising is what makes a man go out and buy a car instead of saving up for it.

Obe the law, and where there is none, obey your conscience.

Cleaner Chamote Skins

After you have used a chamote skin for cleaning windows or washing the car, rinse it out three times, shake it well and hang it up. Pull and shake it several times while it is drying. (That will keep it soft.) Chamote should be dried slowly—never directly in the sun or over heat.

ANNUAL MEETING OF DIGBY BOARD OF TRADE

George M. Morrell was elected president of the Digby Board of Trade, held in the town hall last evening. The meeting was one of the largest and most enthusiastic to be held in years, and many matters of importance were dealt with. Other officers and committees elected were: Vice-President—James J. Wallis; Secretary—H. A. Nichols; Manufacturing Committee—H. M. Warne, F. L. Anderson, A. C. Hutchinson;

Primary Industries—M. C. Denton, Charles Ramsay, A. J. Trohon;

Commerce and Transportation—C. F. McBride, K. L. Porter, H. J. Campbell;

Tourist and Publicity—P. W. Holdsworth, J. M. Wallis, L. A. Hayden;

Labor—F. L. Anderson, Rene Richard, Ed. Webber;

Civic Advisory—T. E. G. Lynch and the chairmen of all other standing committees;

Welfare and Education—F. C. Purdy, P. W. Holdsworth and Dr. W. R. Dickie;

Entertainment—J. W. Merkel, Fritz Dakin, Frank Hayden;

Membership—G. B. Clarkson, J. J. Wallis, H. A. Nichols;

Property Improvement—G. W. Connell, Geo. Cardoza, Dr. J. R. McCleave;

Auditors—A. R. Turnbull, H. Gordon.

The officers and the chairman of each committee will constitute the council.

President Morrell brought to the attention of the Board that he had received word of the anticipated visit of 100 American ticket agents, who will spend an hour in Digby on June 18, and requested that steps be taken to give the visitors drives about the town during their short stay. The matter was left in the hands of the transportation committee.

The board also voted to erect illuminated road signs at Aymar's corner and the new Woodman's corner to point the way to Digby and to welcome visitors.

The so-called cannon bank property was discussed at length. The property is at present held by the railway, who have taken some steps to improve the grounds, which are located at the head of the Digby pier. On motion it was voted that the railway be approached as to the possibility of turning the property back to the town, the plan being to place seats and plant shrubs and flowers on the grounds. The matter was left with the property improvement committee to deal with.

The matter of the annual banquet was left with the entertainment committee to decide time and place. On motion it was voted that retiring town clerk, Alfred Boden, be the guest of honor at this function.

The shipping facilities of the port was the subject of considerable discussion, and it was pointed out that the port is losing considerable shipping, through lack of loading facilities for large steamers at the "spur", the secretary, H. T. Warne and others pointing out that many inquiries are being received, one steamer, it was said, with a 24-foot draft (loaded) would load regularly if facilities would permit. Recent repairs have not improved conditions insofar as commercial shipping is concerned, it was pointed out. A committee comprising T. E. G. Lynch, M. C. Denton and H. A. Nichols was appointed to draft a resolution from the Board to be presented to the federal government through Hon. J. Illsley, asking for an addition to the west side of the pier.

The matter of the erection of a community skating rink—with space for curling—was also brought up and G. B. Clarkson, Edward Webber, Loran Hayden, Dr. J. R. McCleave and A. C. Hutchinson were appointed a special committee to look into the matter.

Dry ice (carbon dioxide snow) is put to many uses, notably also to the killing of rats. The gas given off in the process of evaporation of dry ice is heavier than air and asphyxiating. Therefore, if a lump of dry ice is inserted into a rat-hole and the hole plugged afterwards, the released gas will pour into the nest and kill its inhabitants painlessly. This method of rat extermination is not advisable for inhabited buildings, because the dead rats remain in their holes and decompose there.

"Diet may shrivel a woman's arms and legs to pipe-stems without taking an ounce off the hips."

There is an amusing story of the former Prince of Wales now Duke of Windsor, who has inherited his grandfather's sense of humour and dislikes intensely a stiff, formal atmosphere. Seated beside him at a big public dinner was an archbishop who, while descending to men of low estate, yields to no proud prelate of medieval times in an awareness of his own dignity.

"Phew!" exclaimed the Prince when His Grace had bowed leave to withdraw.

"Now I know what it feels like to dine with Royalty."

You Pay Too Much For Too Little Light

When buying Electric Lamps many say that they cannot afford to use sizes of sufficient power to give the proper light but they overlook the fact that when using too little light the work is done slower, reading is slower and the work cannot be done so well. The low power lamp is burning longer than one that will give the proper light and the saving is small. The cheap imported lamp is marked for wet age but what light are you getting from it for the amount you pay for current.

Laco Mazda Lamps

as with all Mazdas have a reputation to maintain and with them you get the maximum light for the lowest possible current cost.

You Can Replace Lamps But Not Eyes

so use Laco Mazdas of enough power so as to avoid eye strain.

About This and That

The use of quotas granted Canada by the United States in the 1935 Canadian-American trade pact on natural commodities, was revealed in Department of Trade and Commerce figures for 1937, recently published. Quotas on exports to the United States of two classes of beef cattle and on red cedar shingles were filled in 1937. The quota on unmanufactured lumber was only a little over half filled. Only 34 per cent of the quota on dairy cows was utilized, less than 10 per cent of the cream quota, and almost none of the seed potato allowance. Canada sold the United States full quotas of 155,799 head of cattle weighing 700 pounds or over, and 51,733 head of calves under 175 pounds, while only 6,752 head of the 20,000 dairy cattle quota were sold. Maritime potato growers were allowed a quota of 750,000 bushels of seed potatoes, but only 43,512 bushels were exported to the United States. It is understood that Western cattle raisers and lumbermen are seeking an extension of the American quota on their products.

The advantages of living in a small town are not always fully appreciated by its residents. Make no mistake about it: There are many advantages to be had by all in a small town which are not for the average city resident to enjoy. Like everything else, however, a small town has its good points, and its bad points. Among the bad points we are aware of none is so despicable as the gossiping habit. The renowned whispering tongues mar the beautiful picture of the many enjoyments and advantages in a small town. "Whispering tongues can poison the truth." And how some tongues can whisper! And how the truth can be poisoned! If the individual but fully realized the misunderstanding, the harm, the feeling, the hurt and the all that his or her gossiping did, either indirectly or directly, there is no doubt about it but that they would stop and think before they made statements, the full facts of which they did not know.

The United States Commerce Department reported last week that Great Britain was the largest buyer of American goods during 1937. The British took $535,000,000 worth of exports, an increase of 21 per cent over 1936. Canada was the next largest customer, Japan third, and France, Germany and Mexico ranking next in order. Canada was the principal source of American imports during the year, the department said. British Malaya, Japan and the United Kingdom were

M.G.T. WRITES ABOUT SCRAP BOOK AND TELLS ABOUT OLD RESIDENTS OF WEYMOUTH

Ever since I was a small girl I have loved scrap books, and as far back as I remember anything at all, I remember going over to my grandmother Journey's and sitting for hours, pouring over an old book made by my aunt, Mercy, mother's sister, who died before I was born. It must have been made about the time of the American Civil War, because I recall very plainly the pictures and bits of reading matter pertaining to the war. Those were the days of Dunderberg whisks for men, and hoon skirts and bustles for the ladies. I was always promised that book for my own, but the years have gone by and I have never gotten it. Upstairs, in my bedroom, is a large wooden chest, and in that chest are my own scrap books, seven in all. The first one that I ever made was over twenty-five years ago. It is filled with poetry only, and the pages are so ragged and worn I have tied them together with a long yellow ribbon.

On the cover is a picture of an immigrant girl with a handkerchief tied over her head, and a bundle containing clothing in her hand. Underneath the picture is written: "M. G. T., Her Book". The next two are one that I acquired about five years ago. They were made long, long ago by the Dunbar sisters, of Weymouth. One is a treasure: letters written to several friends and received from them in return, all written in poetry form. They tell of many incidents in the daily life of those people, and I get that book out every once in a while and just gloat over those verses. They were probably written over sixty years ago and only one of the persons mentioned therein is alive today. The next book is a very big one, and so heavy it is hard to hold. It was made by my own mother, during the years of the World War, when her heart and thoughts, like those of so many Canadian mothers, was with her boy in France. A vein of sadness runs through all the things pasted in that book—it couldn't be otherwise. Nearly all of the pictures, poetry and stories have to do with the war. There are many pictures of children and grandchildren; old songs; little notices of boys who went with the 112th Battalion, and never came back. I treasure that book, with its heartaches and its memories. In the last four years I have made three books of my own, and the things in those books are many and varied. I am so fussy about them! If I find a picture that I like I save it until I can find a bit of poetry or little story that will match that picture. A friend told me once that she had a scrap book, but hers was full of sad, sober things—not a bright spot in the whole book. I couldn't be like that. Scrap books are like our own lives, and some one told me once that a book like that tells very plainly the character, disposition and general make-up of the person building the book. I hope it is true. I would love to be like some of the things I find in my much-loved and treasured scrap books.

We have been having weather in old Connecticut the last week or two. Last Monday was a mild snowy day, but along about midnight the house commenced to creak and groan, and I woke up thinking there must be a change of some sort in the temperature. I got up at 6:30 and went out to look at the thermometer. Imagine my surprise to find it twenty-nine below zero.

I've been having a vacation. Went to New York and stayed a whole week; visited friends, went to Radio City, saw the sights, and bought some new clothes. On New Year's eve, of all the many places in New York to go to, we went to church. It was so peaceful and quiet: just candle light and soft organ music. I'm ashamed to tell you this, but I had a nap during the sermon! I was tired, and the church was so warm and scented with the spicy smell of many small Christmas trees used for decorations, that I was just overcome by the atmosphere. I looked at my nephew and he was asleep; so was my sister, and pretty soon, so was I. I had never been in New York at night time. We drove in from Long Island one night about dusk, and it was like fairy land—millions of lights twinkling like a forest of lightning bugs. Thousands of Christmas trees, with their many colored lights, and many more thousands of electric signs, advertising everything imaginable from "Wrigley's Gum" to Jacob Ruppert's Beer". I don't wonder people call it the greatest city in the world.

Friction Between Veteran Heads

CAPT. REV. S. LAMBERT

Indicating possible friction between two of Canada's leading war veterans' organizations, the Canadian Legion in session at Fort William, Ont., declined to approve co-operation with the Canadian Corps Association in its promotion of a corps re-union in Toronto during August of this year. Brig-Gen. Alex Ross heads the Legion and Capt. the Rev. Sidney Lambert the Canadian Corps Association.

Every tree and shrub was heavy with frost. It stayed cold all day, but Wednesday started getting warmer and by Thursday the temperature had risen almost fifty degrees. Harry was away, down in Rhode Island, visiting the hatchery where the trout for stocking our streams are bought. There are so many things to contend with in feeding and caring for the fingerling fish in the pool. They have to be fed so carefully, given oil and iodine, like people, to prevent goitre. Did you know fish had goitre? Well, they do; and there is some sort of a fungus growth comes on them, caused by bruising. They have to be fed a very balanced diet: so much raw lean meat, and so much fish. At the hatchery one of the fish was sick and the man in charge of the feeding said it probably "had a bone in its throat." That delighted me. Imagine a fish suffering from a bone in its throat, "even as you and I", but he said it frequently happens that in putting the fish food through the grinder, some of the bones do not get broken up, consequently the fish will swallow one and it sticks in its throat. But I thought it funny, just the same.

Two Digby Boys Crash Through Victoria Bridge to Death

Returning Home From Work at Annapolis Royal. Icy Roads.

One of the most serious auto accidents that has taken place in this section of the province for years took place shortly after 5.00 o'clock Monday afternoon, when a light truck went through the railing on the eastern approach of Victoria Bridge, carrying to their deaths Eustace Dunn and Roy Hayden, two of Digby's young men. Both were plumbers in the employ of B. H. Ruggles, and had been engaged on a new house at Upper Clements for some time, driving to work in the morning and returning in the evening. They had followed the usual procedure Monday and had left their work at 5.00 o'clock as usual. The bridge is about seven miles from where they were working and they probably reached the bridge about 5.15. A car following a few minutes later saw it go off. The alarm was at once given and hundreds were soon at the scene. When the car could be reached Hayden's body was found in it, but there was no trace of Dunn, but his body was found about two hours some 75 feet from the car. He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Dunn, and was about 32 years of age. He also leaves a sister, Miss Dorothy, in Digby. Hayden was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hart Hayden, of Bay View, and was 29 years old. Besides his parents he leaves a brother in Detroit, and a sister in Stoughton, Mass., as well as a widow and son about 8 years old. About sixty feet of the protecting fence on the bridge was demolished by the car before it took the plunge. An inquest was considered unnecessary.

SALLY'S SALLIES

Saving through a woman is a clever illusion. Seeing through one is another.

IT HAS HAPPENED AGAIN

To the Editor of the Courier:

It seems such a waste of life that in this province we lock the stable after the horse is stolen. Two valuable young lives were snuffed out Monday night in the waters of Bear River, when a light delivery truck crashed through the railing on the upper side of the eastern end of Victoria Bridge at high tide. Several cars went through the railing on the western end before the authorities placed a suitable buffer on that side of the bridge. We wonder now if two lives are sufficient to purchase proper safeguards here. The bridge itself has been reported condemned for many years, and heavy loads go around by Bear River rather than risk crossing the bridge. Further the Department placed the bridge against heavy loads. Monday the planking was very slippery and no doubt one should be careful, but safeguards are necessary, as the accident of Monday night proves. If the authorities do make an efficient guard rail here it will be an acknowledgement that the previous rail was inefficient. If they do not it will mean the possibility of future accidents. This matter of proper guard rails has been persistently brought to the attention of the government. When Harry Sanford met his death a few years ago on the Bear River road, by going through a gingerbread bridge rail, we expected a change. We now await results. If the sons or daughters of those who are responsible for these details were in the place of these young men something might be done. Some day they may be one can never tell—we trust not. The fact is, these bridges were built for horse drawn vehicles and have never been adapted for modern traffic. Hence death haunts the highways not only in the form of the drunken driver but in insufficient protection on our bridges.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, Yours for service, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, Clementsport, N. S., Feb. 7.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wallis have been spending the week in Halifax and Wolfville.

No Beauties Wanted

"Wanted—A homely girl to share my apartment with me. That was the ad that brought reporters hurrying to the home of Miss Frances Wood, in Detroit. Sentencing a story, they were treated gratis to the following piece of advice—"If you want to keep your boy friends, don't have a pretty girl for a roommate."

INSULATION

The importance of insulation is slowly being recognized. The wonder is that it has taken so long, Canadians need insulated houses because of our intense heat in the summer and our cold winters. The amount of money that is wasted for coal that is wasted is appalling. Look out your window and notice the roof of each house in sight. Some of them will be covered with snow, and without thinking you might say, that house must be a very cold one. But it is the very opposite. The roof where the snow is all melted will be on the cold house, because the heat from the house has escaped and melted the snow. In a properly insulated house, the heat cannot escape and the snow on the roof will not be melted. How about your own house? Are you paying for coal to melt the snow on the roof? It is an expensive proceeding. Much cheaper in the end to insulate.

Frank C. Robinson, of Watertown, Mass., son of Capt. and Mrs. F. A. Robinson, of Digby, was operated on for appendicitis in one of the Massachusetts hospitals on Monday.

NOTICE

TO ALL TRUCK OWNERS IN NOVA SCOTIA

The maximum gross weight for general operation has been increased from 12,000 pounds, to 16,000 lbs. on all highways. As at present, 18,000 pounds is the maximum when the load is divided on three axles.

Loads may be increased on some sections of our main trunk highways by special arrangement.

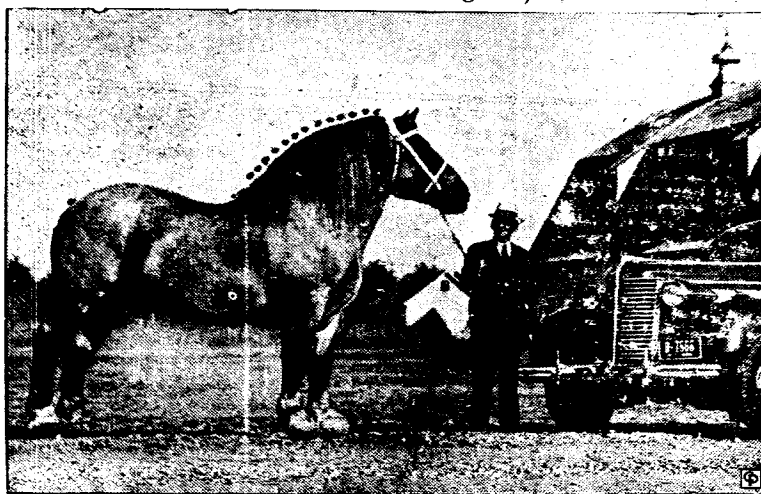

It is to be noted, however, that many bridges in the province are not capable of carrying 16,000 pounds. At the earliest possible date a notice will be posted on these bridges advising truck owners as to the capacity of the bridges and anyone crossing with a greater gross weight than that set out in the notice will do so at his own risk.

It is the intention of the Department to enforce the Weights and Loads of Vehicles Regulations to the limit, and any truck owner who is found overloading will receive no consideration.

Truck owners on application in the regular way, may have their gross weight requirements increased on their 1937 registrations, by paying an additional amount for the balance of the registration year as extended.

Used to Wake Up With a Headache

Now Fresh and Lively Every Morning

Here is a man who woke up every morning with a dull headache. Then Kruschen transformed his days. Read his letter:

"I used to wake up in the mornings with a dull headache. A year ago, I started taking Kruschen Salts regularly. To-day, I wake up fresh and lively and can do my day's work without any exertion. I can recommend Kruschen for anyone suffering from headaches and constipation, and for putting new life into you. I intend to continue with Kruschen for the rest of my life."—E. P.

Headaches can nearly always be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unsustained retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons—prevent them from forming again—and you'll never have to worry any more. And that is just how Kruschen Salts brings quick and lasting relief from headaches.

The "washed out" feeling was soon replaced by clear headed energy and peaceful sleep. Headache, backache, lassitude and other signs of faulty kidneys disappeared. 112

REV. J. W. O'BRIEN TO REMAIN WITH CHURCH

At the annual congregational meeting of the East Saint John United church, held recently, the pastor, Rev. J. W. O'Brien tendered his resignation to take effect at the end of the conference year. The following Sunday, at a large and representative meeting a unanimous vote of confidence in Rev. and Mrs. O'Brien was passed, and a strong committee was appointed to wait on Mr. O'Brien and request him to reconsider his resignation. At another congregational meeting later on Mr. O'Brien announced he would remain with the church for another year. In July he will have concluded eleven years pastorate of the East Saint John charge, which under his leadership has shown steady growth in all departments. One of the outstanding examples of this development is the fine modern church which graces the hill on Park Avenue.

Mr. O'Brien has filled a number of positions of trust apart from the work of the congregation and is at present the secretary-treasurer of the Evangelical Alliance of Saint John and secretary of the Maritime Conference of the United Church. He is also a Protestant chaplain of the Saint John Tuberculosis Hospital and the Boys' Industrial Home.

(The above taken from the Telegraph-Journal of Feb. 7, will be read with interest by many Courier readers, as during his pastorate at Bear River some years ago, both Rev. and Mrs. O'Brien made many friends.)

WORKS IN 2 WAYS ON DISCOMFORT OF

COLDS

1. Take 2 "ASPIRIN" tablets in 1/2 glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

2. If throat is sore from the cold, crush and stir 2 "ASPIRIN" tablets in 1/2 glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat rawness and soreness almost instantly.

No family need neglect even minor head colds. Here is what to do: Take two "Aspirin" tablets when you feel a cold coming on—with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly. The "Aspirin" method of relieving colds is the way many doctors approve. You take "Aspirin" for relief—then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor. • "Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

We often sit and think of you. When we are all alone; For memory is the only friend That grief can call its own. We have only just a picture Of the face we loved so well. Lord Atholstan Dies

Lord Atholstan (above), publisher of the Montreal Star, died at his home in Montreal after several months' illness. Formerly Sir Hugh Graham, the 90-year-old publisher was elevated to the peerage in 1917. Although he had sold the Star outright 12 years ago, Lord Atholstan arranged that delivery of the voting stock should not be made until his death.

It is easier to tell the unemployed in Europe. They all wear uniforms.

C.G.I.T. Week Observed in Digby

This is Canadian Girls in Training Week. Beginning last Saturday the groups of Canada have been doing everything possible to make the general public feel "eachotherness" and be C. G. I. T. conscious. In Digby, the groups decorated seven windows, namely: B. H. Ruggles, The Buyrite, Fred May's, Mrs. Keen's, The Little Art Gallery, A. R. Turnbull's and Connell's. Each window portrays some feature of their work.

Last evening the girls held a mother and daughter evening in the church hall, at which each girl brought a "mother". The programme was in full charge of the girls, who tried to make it as interesting as possible.

On Sunday evening Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson gave the girls a very inspiring talk on "Esther", bringing out the vital points of the responsibility of being a girl, and the greater responsibility of being a "Canadian Girl in Training".

This Sunday evening, the girls themselves are taking full charge of the service. The Junior Choir will assist in the music, and the Digby Girl Guides will be in attendance. This is an open service, and everyone is welcome. We have heard it rumored that the "mystery mothers" will be particularly welcome. A candle-lighting ceremony will be a special feature of the evening.

The C. G. I. T. groups of Saint John, have used the radio as one way of expressing "eachotherness" this week, by giving the morning devotional period over CHNS, and very interesting and inspiring services they have been, too.

ity to know more about the work the Canadian Girls in Training are doing. Come and worship with us Sunday evening in Grace United Church when we have charge of the service.

Valentine's Day is drawing near. Have you all bought valentines for your friends, sweethearts, etc? If not, come with me and we'll go buy some, and look at F. J. May's window, which has been trimmed by some C. G. I. T. Girls.

The C. G. I. T. motto is there. The motto being:—"As Canadian Girls in Training, under the leadership of Jesus, it is our purpose to cherish health, seek truth, know God, serve others, and thus with His help become the girl God would have us be."

Let us analyze this motto step by step. Not only should the C. G. I. T. Girls practise this worthwhile motto, but everyone should in their everyday life. Everyone tries to eat the proper food, and get the right kind of exercise to protect their health. If a person tells one small white lie, it will take three or four more to get him out of the one small lie, which he told at first. Take a few minutes of your time each day and read your Bible. Go about and help others. If you take heed and follow this advice you will get more pleasure out of living.

Stop! Look! At the window of B. H. Ruggles which was decorated by two C. G. I. T. girls. Maybe you think it queer to call to your notice, camp, at this time of year. But as there is only one C. G. I. T. week annually, and it happened to be in the winter, this was our only opportunity to attract your attention. So this is representing a C. G. I. T. camp scene, and a few of the different necessities for an enjoyable two or more weeks there. A C. G. I. T. camp carries out one of our purposes, Cherish Health. Is there any better way to cherish health than by eating the proper food and living out of doors? No, of course not.

Last year three girls from the "Flamingo" group attended C. G. I. T. camp at Carleton Place, Ontario, when they returned, believe me, they were very healthy and strong.

Have you seen the "blue and white Flamingo window" at the Buyrite Store? Flamingo is the name of our C. G. I. T. group and means "radiating light".

Blue and white are the C. G. I. T. colors. Our various group projects are represented here—knitting and soap carving. Our magazine, "The Torch", and song book are also on display.

Don't pass by on the other side and miss this interesting window.

next in order. Imports from Canada were valued at $399,000,000, an increase of 6 per cent.

Of interest to Maritimers is the announcement that a new branch of the Canadian Naval Reserve is provided for in the new plans for the naval service for which a vote is to be asked from Parliament. The rank and file of this reserve will be drawn, it is learned, from the uncertificated men who follow the sea who are willing to take training. From their ranks may be drawn subsequent naval ratings. The reserve will give young fishermen and other seafarers a chance to qualify as petty officers.

The election in Russia surprised everyone. One ticket was headed by Stalin, whereas the other one was headed by Stalin. Early returns indicate Stalin running ahead. Later on, he was overtaken by Stalin. Stalin conceded the election to Stalin. Thus the great democracy will now be governed by Stalin, whereas it was previously governed by Stalin.

came again. A few weeks ago, some one wrote to the "Courier" saying that he thought "people lived too much in the past". I cannot agree with him. We do not sigh for the good old days and wish we could live them over again! I'm sure no one would wish to do that. We long for the dear ones that were with us in the days that are past, but if we were not continually looking ahead into the future, we would not be looking at flower catalogues in January, and planning the gardens that we would make when summer came again. I'm sure that writer must be very young. That he hasn't lived long enough yet to understand that memories of past days are something that we just hug to our hearts, and that the brightest dreams of the future can never take their place. If he is very young, I know that he will understand some day, and his memories of the past will be something not to be exchanged for dreams of the future. After all, what does the future mean to us? We can plan our plans, never thinking there is a destiny that shapes our plans for us. Very rarely do our dreams come true, and if they do the cost is so great that oftentimes accomplishment finds us a different sort of person altogether, and the thing that we desired most is not the thing at all that we are wanting today. He can have his dreams of the future, and I will keep my dreams of the past.

For a long time I have wanted to write about the folks of Weymouth who live in that little corner called Weymouth Falls. I don't think there are many living that I knew when I was a little girl and they came to work for my mother and father. The first one that I can remember was Mrs. Peter Cromwell, always called by older folks, "Mary Pete". She lived with my grandmother when my father was a baby, then came to stay with us when we children were small. Long years after, when I was grown up, and married, with children of my own, when I went home every summer, we always went to see her, and took her little presents. She was very old then, but loved to tell us stories of when dad was a little boy. Next in my life is Rachel. I have almost forgotten her last name, but think it was Barnes. She has been dead for almost half a century. She did laundry work for several families living "down the river" and would usually stay all night at our house when her day's work was done. It was a great occasion when my mother and dad would go out for the evening, leaving Rachel to care for us. She was not as safe with us as we were with her, and one night, when Rachel, tired from her day's work, fell asleep by the kitchen stove, my sister lighted a match and set fire to the straggling hairs which decorated Rachel's chin. Pandemonium reigned, believe me, and when the folks got home I got my hide tanned—not because I did the awful deed but because I was the oldest and should not have allowed it. Rachel was raised a good old fashioned Baptist and in later years joined the Episcopalian church, and was confirmed wearing a black silk dress, on her hair Mrs. St. Clair Jones and a white lace cap made from part of mother's lace curtains. We were as much interested in Rachel's children as we were in our own family. She had four—Martha, Ophelia, Ella Jane and one boy, called Roger. We liked them so much that once we called a little calf, "Ella Jane", after Rachel's daughter. I think they are all gone, but if any are living I'm sure they will remember me. Next in my memory is Mrs. Sam Jarvis, a very handsome woman, who came every spring and fall to make our clothes. Everything was made by hand, from under waists to dresses, and sometimes coats. She had two little girls—Jessie and Josie. They were of great interest to me, because they had had a I don't know whatever became of them. I remember once after they were grown into young ladies, and they were very lovely, stylish girls. I think Mr. Jarvis died about a year ago, at the age of ninety odd years. There was Thomas Falls, who must have been very old at that time. He would come down home looking for a little work, some times to Aunt Ann's, some times up home. Mother would set a little table for him by the kitchen window and while eating his dinner he would always fall asleep. The children thought it very funny to see old Tom's head dropping lower and lower until it was almost in his dinner plate, when dad would call to him. Some times he would fall asleep and drop out of his chair on the floor. His wife, Phoebe, was the only person in my young life that I was thoroughly frightened of. My mother could always round me up by threatening me that Phoebe Falls would get me. I never knew her to harm anybody, but she was so tall, black and straight and always carried a big bundle on her head, that I thought she was something to be frightened of. There was Mrs. Sarah Tynes—not one of the original colored folks of Weymouth, but a person who always told us that she had been a slave in the South before the Civil War, and that after the war ended and the slaves freed, she came north, and gradually worked her way until she finally wound up at Weymouth Falls. She would tell us stories of the South as she knew it, and we children thought her very remarkable because she was world. There was Susan Ham someone from the outside mond, poor soul, who went crazy every time the moon changed (so they say) and used to walk down the railway track telling folks how the train said "catch-a-nigger, catch-a-nigger" (say it fast, and see how it sounds). There was "Sarah Joe"—I don't remember her last name, but think it was Robert. She was a very tiny old woman who came down to Aunt Ann's to wash. Once dad came home and laughed all dinner time because she told him about a big bumble bee that came in her home, and how she said he "rumbled avile and away he went". She had a grandson, Joe, who lived with her and went to our school. I have a school picture and right in the front row of scholars is Miss Prime, with her hand lovingly on Joe's shoulder.

I wish I could think of all their names. They were always real friends and when I would go home after being away for years they would always greet me so gladly I always felt flattered. There were many beautiful singers among them and while all those I have mentioned are gone long ago, their children and grandchildren still live at Weymouth Falls, and when I was home one winter several years ago, my husband and I loved to go up to their little church, and hear them sing the grand old hymns. Sometimes my brother writes me of seeing some one on the streets of Boston that he is sure that he knows, and of finding out that they came originally from Weymouth Falls. There are many more that I could mention but it would take up too much space. The generation living there today are all strangers—I don't know them at all, but the older ones, now dead and gone, are part of the ghosts of memory. All good, true old friends, whom I remember with a great deal of affection.

It is several days since the above was written, and we have had time to find out that the most of our six thousand small trout are still with us. With the exception of numerous holes and gullies around the house, and the loss of the door mat from the front porch which was washed away and lost, we were quite fortunate in the little damage done by the latest flood.

There are roads that lead north south, east, west— Such glamorous roads to roam: For one goes straight to climes grand.

And the nation's golden dome. The north way climbs the mountain side.

The south leads o'er the foam. But the one I love the best of all Is the road back home.

Good night, everybody!

Ramblings of a Rolling Stone

In spite of drought and flood, dust storms and grasshoppers, Mormon crickets and the boll weevil, there is one crop which seems to be a never-failing one.

Fashions may change, the skirt grow ever longer till at last its fallen hem will sweep in eddying circles down the dusty walk, or, rising phoenix-like, become once more a belted fringe revealing, as of yore, the bony drumsticks on the apposing arcs. Unchanged by time, or place, or circumstances, the crop of would-be saviours springs up, as hope is said to spring, "eternal in the human breast."

Growing on many stems, drawing nourishment from many sources, these parasites in human form flourish as does "the green bay tree". As long as the dear public will continue to furnish the where-withall, just so long will the rainbow-tinted bubble float in all its iridescent glory in the economic firmament.

"Twas not so long ago when the radio priest and Louisiana's Bayou bull frog were reaching out over the airways their puissant hands to steady the wobbling ship of state. The hierarchy spake and fallen were the airy castles Coughlan built. Louisiana's capital reeked with the smoke of an explosive combination of sulphur, saltpetre and charcoal and Huey Long was made the recipient of something which even he could not share. Then came the E. P. I. C. way to life, to joy, to wealth. It like a mushroom grew—and like a toadstool died.

Those grew and flourished for a little hour, and died. The duped supporters, looking for a friendly spot whereon to rest their bruised souls, welcomed, with open arms, the "PLAN". Attended in its birth by the benevolent physician, nurtured in ignorance and petted by political ambition, the "Revolving Pension Scheme", known as the "Plan", was presented to a public which should have been, but was not, surfeited by visions of easy wealth.

From its very inception till the present time there has been a steady flow of hard-earned nickels, dimes and quarters into the insatiable maw of this "daughter of the horse leech". Week after week the call goes out for money and yet more money to finance this Utopian dream. Congress must be coerced, state legislatures must be memorialized, communities must be "thoroughly organized; above all, "send every dollar at once to National headquarters".

Amusing? Yes; but to contemplate the thing in action, so pitiful. Aged men and women, buoyed up by the false hope of an annuity beyond their wildest dreams, are giving, giving, giving—and all the while their "stomachs are being filled with the east wind" of promises impossible of fulfillment.

How so many people can be hoodwinked for so long a time into a voluntary support of so wild and economically unsound a scheme passes comprehension. To demonstrate to the devotees of the "Plan" in terms of unemotional mathematics, the fallacy of the idea, is a useless waste of time and patience. "The fund is a revolving one; the money paid this month goes back to Washington to be re-distributed next month. Don't try to point out any weaknesses in this confession of faith. The Doctor says so—therefore it is."

Looking northward, into Alberta, we get a glimpse of Social Credit in action. When I recall the rounded periods and the "unassailable logic" with which those in that province, who were suffering from both acute and chronic deflation of the pocket book, were shown the economic light and I compare the performance with the promise, I am ready to admit that international boundaries may divide nations but not ideas—may fix the territorial limits of a tribe but cannot circumscribe that realm where Luna reigns supreme.

Youths Sentenced

A sentence of two years in Dorchester penitentiary was given young Edward Smith, one of the five Yarmouth South youths charged with breaking into the post office at Weymouth North, a few days ago. Two of the quintette were juveniles, and one was sentenced to two years in the Industrial School at Halifax, and the charge against the other dismissed. Of the other two, Louis Frederick Robichau, was sentenced to three months in the county jail at Digby, and Wilfred Mulse to two years suspended sentence. County Court Judge Livingstone presided at the trial, which was held in the court house, in Digby, last Friday.

DIGBY VISITOR TO ALBERTA SEES FAILURE FOR THE PRESENT FORM OF GOVERNMENT

SOCIAL CREDIT "FOOLISHNESS"

Enormous Debt of Country Blamed on "Party" Practices

(Edmonton Journal)

Party government is proving itself a failure after its generations of test, and must be replaced by nonpartisan "unity" government as the only alternative to dictatorship, it was declared in Edmonton, by Frank Jones, K.C., 76-year-old barrister, of Digby, N. S.

The best possible example of the necessity of such a unity non-partisan government, he added, is Alberta—a province "split by partyism, political dissension and various shades of economic terrorism."

"I think that the 'Unity' movement which has started here is one of the most hopeful signs of political and governmental reform Canada has had for a long time, if it turns out that the 'Unity' movement can be carried into government as well as political campaigning," he said.

Mr. Jones said that he would not be offering any comment on Alberta affairs if he regarded himself as an outsider in this province—as just a sort of casual visitor. He is not that, he said. Altho' he never lived in Alberta for a long time at any period, he has made many visits here and has substantial investments in Edmonton real estate. He is visiting his son, Douglas Jones, at 12330 104th Avenue.

Still active as a lawyer in Nova Scotia, Mr. Jones has just completed 50 years' practice in law. He came to Edmonton a few weeks ago and late in February will go to Seattle to board a ship which will take him through the Panama canal back to New York and Halifax.

"I was born a Conservative, but I've been independent in voting just about all my life," he said at his son's home. "I've always voted for the man, not for the party. I believe that much of the public debt which bears down upon every democratic country, and every province of this country has been caused by nothing else than party politics."

"The party in power wants to stay there so it spreads money around on things that the country, or the province, can't afford at all. And the party that's out of power makes loud cries for economy on the one hand, and promises all kinds of big improvements on the other."

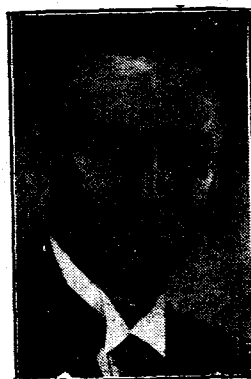

"Because they depend on votes for their existence, and because they can get votes by spending money, the party governments lavish money that the country hasn't got. So we go into debt."

Asks Business Methods

"We need business governments. If we are to continue in democracies we must elect real business men rather than party nominees, and have governments that don't think they have to run the country deeper in debt in order to be re-elected."

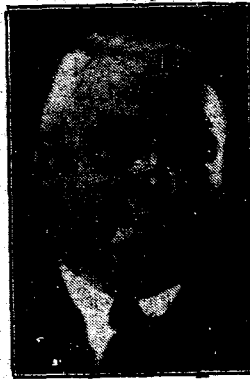

"Otherwise conditions in public debt are going to get worse and worse until the

DR. FRANK P. DAY

A distinguished graduate who will direct the Mount Allison Centenary to be held in 1940.

At the last October meeting of the Regents of Mount Allison, a provisional plan for the celebration in 1940 of the hundredth anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the first Mount Allison Academy, was presented by the president, Dr. George J. Trueman, approved in principle and referred to the Executive Committee for action. At the January meeting of the Executive steps were taken to organize for the Mt. Allison Centenary. A General Committee, representing the Regents and the Faculty, was raised up with Capt. R. V. Bennett, of Sackville, N. B., as chairman, and Dr. W. M. Tweedie, of Sackville, N. B., as historian and secretary. Subsequently the appointment of Dr. Frank P. Day, of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, a distinguished graduate as director was announced, thus completing the organization that will handle the details of the proposed Mt. Allison celebration. As a part of an extensive program certain learned societies will be asked to hold their sessions in Sackville in 1940. Invitations will be extended to representatives of all Canadian Universities and to other distinguished men to be guests of Mount Allison in June, 1940, when the celebration, lasting three days, will take place.

As a result of the Centenary and of the events leading up to it, a great awakening of interest in the activities of Mount Allison is hoped for. Mount Allison, badly crippled by debt, as a result of the burning of the Academy, "Old Lodge" and Centennial Hall in 1933, will, it is hoped, emerge in 1940 without financial encumbrances, eager to uphold the traditions of Mount Allison and freed of the weights, which now handicap her in the educational race.

About This and That

With this issue we welcome to the town hall our friend, Harold A. Nichols, who, on Monday, took over the office of town clerk and treasurer; and we bid farewell to our old friend, Alfred Boden, who has seen fit to resign after seventeen years of faithful service.

We extend our best wishes to both. To Mr. Nichols we tender every good wish for his success in the carrying out of his new duties; we know his task is not an easy one, but we feel that he is a man equal to it. We do not expect to see him carry on without friction from one source and another from time to time, for that is too much to expect of any public official. Nor would we want to expect it, for, in our opinion, a "yes" man should have no place in public life.

To Mr. Boden we extend our wishes for many years of health and happiness to enjoy a well-earned rest from his strenuous duties in the town office. During the years he has served in the capacity of clerk and treasurer, he has won the profound respect of all who came to know him. We know he will never lose his interest in the town and its affairs.

Last week, while the writer spent a few days in Halifax, he called on Arch Dillon at the Victoria General Hospital in that city. Arch appears very much on the mend, and hopes to return to Digby shortly after March 1. His friends will be glad to know that he was then up and dressed and able to take strolls through the hospital corridors. Arch appreciates visits from his friends, and from all accounts, he has many callers. He will be found in room 27 on the second floor of the V. G. Hospital.

No man is too poor to take his local newspaper, and it is false economy to try to get along without it. Hardly a week passes that something does not appear in its columns which will be a financial benefit to you, and by the end of the year you have made or saved from one to twenty times its subscription price, says the Kingsville Reporter, and we heart-

Nellie McClung and the Family Herald and Weekly Star

In her recent autobiography "Clearing in the West", Nellie McClung, pioneer girl of the covered wagon days, now a director of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, makes eloquent and affectionate reference to the "old" Family Herald and Weekly Star—the paper that has since grown to be Canada's National Farm Magazine. The Family Herald must have been a great influence on the pioneer girl who was destined to become a well-loved writer, for she writes:

"The Family Herald from Montreal brought the world to our door. We read in the Family Herald that there were riots in the streets of Montreal (this was the execution of Louis Riel). 'Always there was the Family Herald with its great wealth of reading.'"

These are but a few of the references to the Family Herald made in "Clearing in the West."

And ever since those early days, the Family Herald and Weekly Star has continued to be a guide, philosopher and friend. As times have changed, so has the Family Herald; changed, new features being added from time to time to meet new conditions. For example, with the more general use of electricity and many farmers modernizing their buildings, the Family Herald has been quick to inaugurate a "Power, Buildings and Mechanics" department which by supplying practical ideas is saving Canadian farmers untold money.

Nellie McClung has written of the value of the Family Herald to those of the pioneer days. The value of the Family Herald to the modern farmer and his family has perhaps been best expressed by farmer William Burgess, who says: "My wife and I always reckon the farmer who takes his local paper for the local news and the FAMILY HERALD for the FARM news, stories and home features, gets the very best value his dollars will buy."

BOY SCOUTS

On Friday last the usual Boy Scout meeting was opened at 8 o'clock in the Community Hall. A show up of nineteen regulars and three new-comers proved to be one of the best for a long time. After the study period three games were played, the Beaver Patrol winning each game. The older boys then stayed for Court of Honour. Three new boys were accepted into the troop on probation. Paul Winchester was presented with his Pathfinder and Electrician's Badge. Ted Thibault and "Nink" Woolaver finished up their scout's pace and "Bud" Harlow was presented with his Second Class Badge. The meeting closed at 10:00 o'clock and Court of Honour at 10:30.

PLEASED WITH THE CONCERT

To the Editor of the Courier: Sir:—Last week I had planned to write a letter through your columns—but just didn't get around to doing it.

I happened to be in town to hear the last "Pop" concert, given by the Digby Civic Band—and wanted to give my congratulations to the band master and the boys for the fine work they are doing.

From a recent letter in the Courier—I had expected deafening sounds from being in a noisy quarters. I certainly was agreeably surprised! Evidently the boys took the hint, and softened their music.

One of the outstanding selections to my mind was a baritone solo, "Silver Threads Among the Gold" by "Billy" Christie. His notes came forth like so many folds of velvet—rich and true. His accuracy and speed showed excellent training and practising.

"Southern Melodies" was as usual, a hit of the evening. I could elaborate on the other selections, at great length, but I'll just say—that the Band Master has surely done a treat work with the boys, and the boys have certainly co-operated with the Band Master. Their work shows it in every respect—and I, for one, will be looking forward to the next "Pop" concert.

Very sincerely,

A Music Lover.

The use of lip-stick has become common in Japan during the last few years, so common in fact, that the Japanese Government has had the ingenious idea of putting it to use in filling the state coffers. Following the example of European countries that have put tobacco under a state monopoly, Japan has given the state a monopoly on lipstick and rouge. It is believed in government circles that feminine vanity being what it is, both in the East and in the West, the new monopoly will be a very considerable source of income for the national treasury.

Eel Grass Coming Back Gradually

Eel grass on the Atlantic Coast hasn't yet succeeded in overcoming the disease which nearly wiped it out a few years ago, but reports to the Dominion Department of Fisheries from its officers in the Maritime Provinces and the Magdalen Islands indicate that the situation improved a bit in 1937. If improvement continues, it may not be very long before fishermen will again be able to add something to their earnings by harvesting this marine grass, which can be used in the manufacture of insulating material. As a matter of fact, in one locality some harvesting was undertaken during the past year. The improvement in the condition of the grass in 1937 was not everywhere apparent but in some areas there was a distinct change for the better. This was the case, for instance, in the Magdalen Islands, especially in the northern section, and in parts of Cape Breton and on the eastern mainland of Nova Scotia. On Grand Manan Island, in Southern New Brunswick, the fisheries inspector reported "vast improvement." An interesting point made by one officer, a Cape Breton inspector, was that the greatest change was in areas where freshwater brooks ran into the sea and where was low salinity.

There is an amusing story told of our would-be dictator, Sir Oswald Mosley. At a recent Fascist meeting, when arising to speak he raised his arm in the Fascist salute, whereupon a youthful voice from the back of the hall called out amiably, "Yes, Master Mosley, you may leave the room!"

Wants Maritime Names for Craft

A suggestion Maritime Province names be given the two new destroyers being purchased from the British government for the Canadian navy was made in a query placed recently in the Commons votes and proceedings, by G. T. Purdy, (Lib., Colchester-Hants). The member asks if the government will consider this. The names of the new vessels are Comet and Crusader. In the past Canada has named Royal Canadian Navy ships after famous pioneers, as in the case of Vancouver and Champlain, or after Canadian rivers, geographically distributed between the west and the east, as in Skeena, Fraser, St. Laurent and Saguenay. Maritime Province names have had no place in R. C. N. nomenclature.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS SOCIETY OF CANADA

Miss Constance Hayward, of Moncton, Maritime Secretary of the League of Nations Society of Canada, visited Digby last week while on a tour of the province in the interest of her work. While here she was the guest of Mrs. H. M. Warne, who entertained at tea in her honour, during which she gave an address on the aims and accomplishments of the League.

Although the failures of the League of Nations more often make headlines than its successes, there are a great many phases of its work with which the public is only half-familiar, and which are being carried on most successfully. Only through an educational program in which the purposes and policy of the League are brought before the public, can it hope to have sufficient support to become an effective "peace parliament."

With this end in view it was decided to organize a branch in Digby, affiliated with the more than three hundred groups all over the Dominion. Literature outlining Canada's part and policy in world affairs is available to study groups through the International Affairs Literature Service, with national offices in Ottawa, and it is hoped to meet fortnightly with programs and discussions relating to this subject. Membership in the Digby group is open to everyone at a nominal fee, covering the cost of the literature service. Miss Margaret Stewart was appointed president and Mrs. H. M. Warne secretary-treasurer, the first meeting to be held at the Court House on Wednesday evening next, at 8:00 o'clock, when further plans will be formulated.

MYSTERY IN THE MAKING

Sax Rohmer, when he starts to write one of his mystery-chillers, lights some joss sticks in his study to get a villainous Chinese atmosphere. First he thinks up names of his characters and then decides what they have to do for a living; in some cases, he gives them independent means; some he makes very rich. He then conjures up a horrible crime without any clue as to its perpetrator. The next process is to write the last chapter, in which he is careful to see that the man he thought had done the murder, did not, and that the heroine marries the man whom he intended, in his first conception of the story, to kill half way through the book. Having got thus far, he spends the next week in tying the mystery and the characters into such a knot that he cannot see any solution to the puzzle. He invites his friends to see if they can manage it, and if anyone sees a glimmer of light he puts a shutter on that. Now, having an insoluble situation, he spends the next six months in solving it.

He is survived by two sisters, Miss Grace Brooks, with whom he resided, and Mrs. E. D. Harris, of Vancouver; also one brother, A. H. INTERESTING FAMILY UNION

(Truro News)

Wallace G. Whidden, who has been in Truro on several occasions during the past two months visiting his sister, Mrs. J. E. Sponagle, plans to leave this week for his home in Saskatoon. One of the interesting episodes of Mr. Whidden's visit to the east occurred a few days before Christmas when in the early morning he was called to the door and was greeted by his parents Stipendiary Magistrate D. G. and Mrs. Whidden, of Wolfville, and his brother, Howard, of Antigonish. In less than twenty minutes Wallace and his early morning callers were on their way by car for New York where a decidedly pleasant Christmas was spent with Captain Chas. Whidden, of the United Fruit Company, and family. It was the first time in their lives that the brothers—Charles, Howard and Wallace—had ever been together; it was also the first time in 24 years that Captain Charles had been with his family for Christmas and it was the first time in 31 years that Wallace had seen Charles. The family of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Whidden has the distinction of never having all been together.

(The above will be of interest to many in Weymouth as Mrs. Charles Whidden, of New York, was formerly Miss Fannie John, of this town).

HE WAS ALWAYS TIRED AND ILL

Three Complaints Gave Him a Miserable Time

Suffering from three complaints—disordered kidneys, sciatica, and rheumatism—how could this man be anything else but always tired and ill? This is what he writes:—

"Up to a month or so ago, I had suffered continually from kidney disorder, sciatica, rheumatism and generally felt off colour. I was constantly tired, and under medical supervision. I tried many remedies, but without effect until I gave Kruschen Salts a trial. In four weeks, Kruschen has brought about a complete transformation. I have a healthy appetite and once more feel that it is good to be alive."—S. V. N.

The kidneys are the filters of the human machine. If they become sluggish, impurities find their way into the bloodstream, and the seed of half-a-dozen common ailments is sown.

The scientific combination of salts in Kruschen quickly coaxes the kidneys back to healthy, normal action. Soon your ailments are relieved and life becomes a joy again.

Fears that death toll in disastrous floods sweeping Jamaica would reach 100 or more were held recently after receipt of a message stating that a raging river torrent had swept through the village of Portland, taking seventy lives.

Many strange cargoes have been carried on by staunchly built Nova Scotia vessels, but the three-masted Daniel Getson, of Weymouth, which has just been sold by George O. Hankinson, is destined to see service that is entirely unique. She has been bought by Howard Livingston Sutton, New York, and will be used by the Silver Lake Museum of Natural History, as an expedition ship. The Getson was built at LaHave in 1910 and registers about 320 tons.

Under direction of her new owner, who is well known as a taxidermist, glass blower, sculptor, celluloid worker, artist in both landscape and undersea paintings, and expert diver, both with helmet and bell, the vessel will sail to many out of the way places to collect specimens, animals, fish, birds and reptiles.

With her change of ownership she will acquire a new name, that of Wander Thirst. Her name will not be the only change for she will be rebuilt to hold a scientific laboratory and other scientific quarters in one part. The other part will be devoted to living quarters and storerooms.

Aboard the craft artists will record, in paintings, landscapes of countries visited and other specimens collected. Some will be fashioned in celluloid, particularly replicas of the plant life. Some expeditions will carry the scientists to jungle countries, hitherto untrod by white men, some to coral reefs. Many photographs will be taken to provide data for construction of "life groups" in the museum.

The first expedition will be to the Orinoco River, South America, and will take about a year. A powerful radio transmitting set will be installed on the schooner, and it is expected regular programs will be broadcast over some United States network. Moving pictures will be taken during expeditions.

The Wander Thirst's home port will be Rochester, N. Y., nearest port to the museum, which is to be at Silver Lake, Wyoming County, N. Y. The first building to be built will feature groups representative of different sections of the Eastern States. Another and larger building is to house the specimens brought from all parts of the world.

The art of professional storytellers in Japan has always been popular. Even today the theatres, called "yose", where singers, dancers, jugglers and story-tellers entertain crowds of people seated about on the ground, are serious rivals of the cinema. The majority of the tales told are comic—"hanashika", full of subtle irony and sarcasm. Here is an example: A man was repairing a door of his house, and needing a hammer, he called his little son. "Go over to the neighbour's and ask him to lend me a hammer!"—"Yes, daddy!"—"Daddy sent me to ask you if you would lend him a hammer?"—"Well that depends! Is he using bamboo nails, or iron nails?"—"Iron nails!"—"Well, nothing doing. I won't let him use my hammer on iron nails!"—"Daddy, the neighbour wouldn't lend me a hammer!"—"The miserable old crank! Go and bring me our own hammer, then!"

School Pupils Present An Amateur Hour Program

On St. Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, the school pupils presented an Amateur Hour program in the hall. Mr. Finigan, principal of the school, acted as Major Bowes, and the other teachers, Miss Kenney and Miss Crocker, arranged the programme. There were about eighteen or twenty numbers on the programme, a few receiving the gong.

On the programme was tap dancing, trios, duets, music by the school band, monologue, imitations, impersonations, and at the close a humorous dialogue by two boys. Following the programme there was a sale of ice cream, fudge and grab-bags, also fortune telling.

The hall was attractively decorated in white and red ribbon, hearts, and pictures.

Cards were played in the upper hall following the sale, and dancing was enjoyed downstairs.

Proceeds amounted to about $26.00. Amount clear for the use as prizes in the sewing club and boys club about $20. The teachers extend their hearty thanks to all who patronized the programme, to those who made contributions toward the ice cream, fudge, grab-bags, etc.

EDUCATION WEEK IN LITTLE RIVER

Education Week was observed at Little River, under the auspices of their school principal, G. M. Marshall, and Rev. C. L. Chute.

Tuesday and Wednesday were observed as parent's and visitor's day. On Tuesday afternoon the programme was opened by a talk given by Dr. F. E. Rice, of Sandy Cove. He addressed the pupils and visitors very intelligently on the important subject of "Personality". His address was followed by speeches by Wm. B. Denton and Mrs. Timothy Denton.

On Wednesday afternoon Rev. H. A. Browne addressed the pupils and visitors on the subject, "How to Beautify Our Community", followed by a speech by Rev. C. L. Chute, on "School Improvement". Mrs. Brown gave an interesting talk on the pupils' work and "Our Authors of Nova Scotia".

On these two days an exhibition of the pupils' work in both departments was given by the teachers, E. O. Harnish and G. M. Marshall.

Friday afternoon the Current Event Club held a program in the school room. The program consisted of readings and music given by the pupils.

Papers on the "Government's Responsibility" were given by the following pupils: Greta Denton, Marjorie Denton, Beverly Frost and Mildred Kelly, after which a thorough explanation of "Democracy" was given by Mr. Marshall.

On Sunday morning an educational service was held in the church. The pupils of the advanced and the elementary departments in a body. The Scripture lesson was read by two pupils, Greta Denton and Beverly Frost. An address on "Teachers' Responsibility and the Organization of Our Schools" was given by Mr. Marshall, followed by a talk on "The Pupils' Responsibility" by Marjorie Denton, a Grade XI pupil. Rev. C. L. Chute spoke very impressively on the "Parents' Responsibility". At the close of the addresses a duet was rendered by two of the Grade XI pupils, Winnifred M. Trask and Mildred E. Kelley. This brought Education Week to a close.

Evolution

Darwin's theory of evolution has not been, in recent years, such a fighting question in England as in America. The English people passed through that phase earlier. Many of them still oppose the great scientist's idea of man's ascent from lower animals, but they don't get excited about it any more.

This spirit of tolerance is now shown by the conservative Church of England, agreeing unanimously that the Darwinian view is unobjectionable. As the church's "Commission on Christian Doctrine" expresses it, the Biblical account of creation provides "no objection to the theories of evolution". In short, there is no conflict here between revealed religion and human science.

Some church leaders consider this report "the most important Anglican document in almost 400 years." It will arouse discussion in this country.

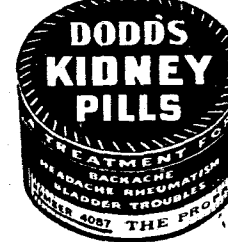

Darwin, whether right or wrong, never undertook to lay down a "doctrine." He tried to discover and explain the processes by which life as we see it developed in our world. He was not interested in attacking religion or the Bible, and quietly presented his conclusions for people to take or leave.

The English Church now accepts his findings as a reasonable description of the way God made the world and all its creatures in six long days or ages. There might still be an argument about the seventh day. The Bible says God "rested" on that day. Religious scientists (and there are many such) say God is still making the world.

The following true story gives some idea of living conditions among the poorer classes in Poland:—

Asked what he most wanted, a Polish peasant subsisting on potatoes replied: "I could have a little salt for my potatoes." Pressed for a serious answer, he stammered, "Well, if I could have a little sugar, I could have sugar in my tea on Sundays." Told that these were trifles, he replied with dignity, "Salt in potatoes is no trifle."

TEMPER TANTRUMS

The average mother of a first child is apt to be bewildered by temper tantrums, unless she has studied child psychology and knows that they are a normal development in a child up to the time he is four years old. If they continue after that, there has been wrong handling. Why do they have them? Perhaps to gain attention. If mother gets all worked up too, that adds to the attention. Perhaps they have found by experience that it is a sure method of getting their own way. The first thing to do in dealing with a temper tantrum is to see that they don't work. Pay no attention. A tantrum is no fun without an audience. If you and the child are alone in the room, walk out on him, and let him have the room to himself. If there are other people there, and there frequently are, as the greater the audience the more the excitement, pick the child up and put him in a room by himself. You may say, "I can't do that, he bangs his head on the floor and may hurt himself." Don't worry. He won't hurt himself. Not seriously anyway. If he does hurt himself once, it is his own punishment and he will not do it again. Look back and see if you have given him his own way after he has had a tantrum. If you have, you have been rewarding bad behaviour. Remember, no excitement on your part, no audience, and no results.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. John Amoro, of Hill Grove, who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home here recently were the recipients of many gifts, messages of congratulation and hearty good wishes, from numerous people. Having spent the greater part of their lives here the couple are highly respected. Both Mr. and Mrs. Amoro have been blessed with splendid health throughout their long life together, and are still hale and hearty. They have eleven children and forty-five grandchildren living, nearly all being present at a big party when nearly one hundred guests were welcomed. Refreshments, prepared for the occasion by the bride of fifty years ago, were partaken of, after which the company dispersed. A pleasing feature of the celebration was the presentation of fifty dollars in cash by their immediate family.

Billingsgate Business

R. A. J. in Christian Science Monitor

The glare of arc lamps, burly men in white jackets, raucous shouts, the clatter of wooden-soled boots, and fish—pink, white and gray—dash everywhere, in boxes, barrels and sacks, and piled up on ice. Five minutes' walk away the dark silence of the city's early morning desolation.

At Billingsgate Market—which is shortly to be doubled in size—London fishmongers have brought their fish for a thousand years at least. There has been the same uproar and activity at dawn, at the same spot by the Thames, ever since London was a little walled city surrounded by a marsh.

The same bargains have been struck, the same banters have been exchanged, men have clattered and barged with their heavy loads over the same ground—only the language and costume have changed.

The type of salesman who would have once rebuked a fish porter with the words, "Zounds, thou knavish loon," now shouts, "Wotter up to? Clumsy, ain't yer?"

"Billingsgate was Founded by Belen ye 23th British King," says a seventeenth century writer. Belen was supposed to have lived in the 4th century B. C., so perhaps this market goes back more than twice a thousand years.

But the disenchanting rationalism of the Dictionary of London prefers to derive the name from a private gentleman called Billing, who perhaps once owned a gate or a wharf on the site of the present market.

The laws of the Saxon King Ethelred are the first document to mention Billingsgate. They provided that tolls and customs should be paid by vessels arriving at the quay. For centuries Billingsgate was the principal quay of London port, and the market grew out of the buying and selling of goods that arrived there by ship. It was not till 1699 that an Act of Parliament made it a free and open market for fish only.

King Charles II. it is said, had a great partiality for eel pie; and to ensure his being able to enjoy it at any time, he allowed Dutch eel fishermen free mooring in the

But their traditional leather hats, cleverly evolved to meet especial needs, are their most noticeable peculiarity. Flat on top, to bear the flat wooden cases in which the fish are tightly packed, the hats have broad brims ending in a ridge about one inch deep. These damp the moisture which perpetually oozes through cracks in the boxes, and would otherwise trickle stickily and icily down the porter's necks.

William Hogarth, the painter whose vivid satires perpetuate the life of eighteenth-century London, once visited Billingsgate on a riotous tour

Thames so long as one of their boats should always lie off Billingsgate with a cargo of his favorite delicacy. This privilege has been retained throughout the centuries. Looking down stream from London Bridge, one can always see a fishing boat anchored near the left bank.

To approach Billingsgate from London Bridge it is necessary to pass down Lower Thames Street. The church of St. Magnus Martyr, on the right, was built by England's greatest architect—Sir Christopher Wren.

T. S. Eliot, the American poet, who for a time worked in a city office, refers to Lower Thames Street.

Harold Harris, of Lansdowne, is employed with A. Douglas Cossaboom during the absence of Benoit Dugas, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Digby General Hospital, and who is now at his home in Meteghan River.

Mrs. Charles Burt has returned to her home in Massachusetts after having spent the past few weeks with her mother, Mrs. Harcey Weir, who has been very ill. She is now much improved.

Miss Evelyn Carey, of Bear River, is now at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Weir, caring for Mrs. Weir.

Mrs. Gordon Cossaboom and little daughter, Nancy Ann, were passengers by bus to Weymouth, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clayton left on Tuesday for Boston for a short time.

John Marshall is on a trip to Yarmouth and Capt Sable Island this week.

The entertainment put on by Home Division on Friday night was most enjoyable. Because of the very cold weather many were not able to attend and so missed one of the best programmes ever put on here.

Miss Virginia Clayton spent the week end here. On her return to Lawrencetown she was accompanied by her small niece and nephew, children of Mr. and Mrs. James Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Payson and Miss Frances Austin, of this village, with Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Weir, of Digby, attended the funeral of Ernest Brooks, at Weymouth, last week.

A goodly number of village people called on Mr. and Mrs. William MacGregor one evening with a few cronies. Every detail of this tour was related in doggerel verse by the Rev. William Gostling, who thus describes Hogarth's meeting with a fish porter:

But what most pleased us was his Grace Of Puddle Dock, a porter grim. Whose portrait Hogarth, in a whim, Presented him, in caricature. He pasted on the cellar door.

To the outside world "Billingsgate" means a certain highly colored type of language; and it might be imagined that this language originated with those vigorous personalities—the porters. In fact, it was the women, selling their wares at stalls along the quay, whose shrill voices echoed across the Thames, centuries ago, uttering vituperations rich, violent and humorous.

Now the concourse is entirely masculine, and talk is no longer characterized by keen imagination. One who visited the market recently was astonished to hear the only example of "billingsgate" from two members of that normally taciturn body—the City Police.

Will international relations be further cemented next summer by friendly competition in speedy airline traffic? When wings flash over the Dominion in 16 hours, Canada will have a transcontinental airline faster than any in the United States, Philip G. Johnson, of Trans-Canada Airways, which starts operations in the summer of 1933, reported at a business men's meeting.

But whether the transcontinental flying times will become advertising competitions between the two countries remains to be seen, although it is a fact that airlines are fast cementing the long bond or friendship between Canada and the United States by networks of quick, easy travel between the two countries that will augment the system of rail and highways.

Eastern Canada and the United States are joined by air routes, as are cities of the Pacific coast and in Manitoba and the States to the south of that province.

Last Weeks Activities in The Churches

IN GRACE UNITED CHURCH

Girls Conduct Church Service

A beautiful service at Grace United Church on Sunday evening, marked the conclusion of the special observance of the National C. G. I. T. Week by the Flamingo group of Canadian Girls in Training, who took full charge of the service on that occasion.

Assisting the girls with music were the members of the Junior Choir of the church. Members of the Digby troop of Girl Guides and of the Acadiaville African Baptist C. G. I. T. group, the Sandy Cove C. G. I. T. group, attending the service.

The service was announced by Miss Hazel Clarkson; the Scripture lesson, St. Luke 2: 40-52 was read by Miss Gwendolyn Abramson.

"We—small as our group—large as the world" was the sermon topic each of the three girls, Miss Charlotte MacKay, Miss Geraldine Syda and Miss Helen Hazelton speaking on one phase of the subject.

The candle lighting ceremony which brought to a close the service, was most impressive. The girls, forming a friendship circle about the centre aisles of the darkened church, passed on the light until all candles were lighted. This part of the service was directed by Miss Mary MacKay and the candle bearers were Audrey Jefferson and Eileen Melanson. During this portion of the service a duet, "Pass On the Torch," was rendered by Misses Helen Melanson and Eleanor Wallis. The ushers were Vivian Hayden, Asaphine Hazleton, Lillian Jefferson and Phyllis King.

Anglicans Win Debate

After listening to arguments in a debate on the subject, held in the hall of Grace United Church, Tuesday evening, the judges were unanimous in their decision "that Digby would be more prosperous as a manufacturing centre than as a tourist centre."

The debate was between teams from the St. Andrew's Brotherhood of Holy Trinity Church and the Brotherhood of Grace United Church, the subject being chosen by the Anglican Brotherhood who were challenged by the men of the United Church. Both teams brought out many strong arguments in favor of their respective sides. The affirmative was supported by Victor Cardoza, captain; Garfield Hayden and George Cardoza, while the opposing side was James J. Wallis, captain; Stanley Spray and Kenneth Margeson. The debate was judged by Rev. A. G. Robertson, Kinsley Collins and M. L. Leonard, of the United Baptist church.

This debate was preceded by a chicken supper, followed by a brief musical programme at which Rev. E. M. Caldwell, rector of Holy Trinity church, presided at the piano, and Rev. Dr. Hodgson, pastor of Grace United, played the violin. Two selections from Drummond were read by W. E. VanBlarcom.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH

More Instrumental Music
During the Epiphany season our church has been quite active in each phase of its life. The services of Holy Communion and Morning Prayer have been exceptionally well attended notwithstanding the fact that so many of our people leave Digby for the winter months. In fact, the average congregation of the season has numbered sixty at the hour of 7:00 p.m. We are glad that new interest has been stimulated in the musical portion of the service at Evening song. More members of the choir are returning for the second service since the organ has been supplemented by some fine musical instruments including clarinet, trumpet, cornet, trombone and bass horn. Mr. Fritz Dakin has kindly volunteered to lead the several players service and to arrange their positions, music, etc., from time to time.

One Club Disbanded, Another Organized

On Tuesday, the 8th inst., the Vestry met for their monthly session at the Rectory, after which there was a meeting of the Men's Club. It was decided to discontinue the club and to form a Brotherhood of St. Andrew, a definitely Anglican fraternity. Mr. Geo. Cardoza was elected president, Mr. C. Ernest Walker, vice-president, and Mr. Harry Turnbull secretary-treasurer. The time of meeting each month will be announced by the president. On Tuesday of this week the Brotherhood were guests of the Brotherhood of Grace United Church at a chicken dinner, which was enjoyed to the full.

Meetings of the Guild and the W. A.

The Guild of the Church met on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Fritz Dakin, and the W. A. on Wednesday evening with Mrs. G. B. Clarkson. Both societies are keeping up well with respect to attendance and are doing splendid work. In the absence of Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch, president of the W. A., the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Geo. Turnbull. Mrs. Dixon, president of the Guild, led the meeting at Mrs. Dakin's.

The Junior W. A.

The Junior W. A. meets with Mrs. Caldwell, at the rectory, this afternoon. This society consists of eleven little tots who are taking a very keen interest in the missionary work. At present they are busy making an afghan to be sent to the Northwest.

The A. Y. P. A.

The A. Y. P. A. meets this evening in the Parish Hall, under the leadership of the Programme Committee.

Last Sunday in the Church

Last Sunday, called Septuagesima, the services in the church were Choral Matins and Evensong. At the 11:00 o'clock service the rector took as his subject, "Life's Triumph Over Environment," from the text, "All the saints salute you especially they in Caesar's household." He pointed out that with the coming of Christianity a new religion was born into the world which represented the "triumph of personality," character over external circumstance by virtue of a great inward dynamic. He said, those saints in Caesar's household kept, first the realism of their environment, of all their idealism despite it. They dared to dream the Christ amidst a hostile and cruel world; secondly, they retained their distinctive character notwithstanding the pressure that was brought on them to conform to the life of their contemporaries; and thirdly, they saw in every barrier to their progress an opportunity of doing Christ service.

At Evensong he spoke on the "Decay of Reverence," from the text, "And when I saw Him I fell on my face as one dead." John's falling down at the vision of the Son of God represented the truly reverent spirit. He pointed out that the absence of reverence in our age was largely due to three things: Our materialistic attitudes, our analytic mentality, and our altered emphasis during the last hundred years with regard to the character of God. The rector said we did not want a reverence today that was not according to knowledge, or akin to superstition and magic. Rather he asked for a reverence that was the acknowledgment of what was great, magnificent and sublime, both in the universe and in humanity. Great thinking, great being, great living, had as their basis the truly humble reverent spirit.

PETITION TO CLOSE WEYMOUTH LIQUOR STORE

Residents of Weymouth have presented a petition to Hon. Angus L. Macdonald and his cabinet asking for the removal of the liquor store in Weymouth, Rev. Donald Stockford, of Weymouth, was given an audience by the Premier in his office this week. He aired the grievances of Weymouth after presenting the petition signed by some 600 people of the town. Declaring he represented a majority of the voters of Weymouth, Mr. Stockford, who preaches at the Southville and South Range churches of Christ, obtained from the Premier a promise to discuss the matter further with the Attorney-General. Mr. Stockford told the Premier the Municipality of Digby had voted against "liquor control". The residents of Weymouth are opposed to the principle and think that they are legally right in asking for the "removal of the liquor store". It was pointed out that the statute reads that any municipality voting against the issue can turn down the establishment of a liquor store in the locality. There are three liquor stores in Digby County, in Digby, Meteghan and Weymouth.

Robert Tibbetts, of Beverly, Mass., passed away in the Beverley Hospital a few days ago, after a brief illness. He was born in Plympton, a son of the late Robert and Sarah Jane Tibbetts. Left to mourn are three brothers, Percy, of Salem, Mass., and James and Willis, of Brighton, Digby County.

BAND NOTES

George Cossaboom, of Detroit, Mich., a former resident of Digby, and a member of the old Digby Band, sends a ten dollar contribution and his best wishes to the present Civic Band—a letter and a gift both sincerely appreciated.

Through the sale of homemade candies and the bridge set donated by Mrs. Barnes, the Band realized $16.00 at the last concert. The boys are wondering where the next gift of articles for sale is coming from—and "living in hopes".

Some musical novelties that are sure to delight you will be featured at the next concert, Thursday, March 3.—"Pleasant Recollections", a brilliant arrangement of fourteen old-time tunes in a medley; Selections from the opera "Bohemian Girl"; a double brass quartette (four cornets, three trombones and euphonium); Ross' Swing-timers in a recent musical hit; the talented Baxters with some fine guitar playing; new marches, etc.

A most decided novelty is in rehearsal. It is a vocal rendition of the "Charm of Days Gone By" sung by twenty children of the Juvenile Choir, trained by Miss Eleanor Wallis, and accompanied by the Band playing the ancient "Amayrillis" Gavotte Louis XIII.

The remarkable repertoire of the Civic Band consists of about 300 compositions chiefly music of the better class, and the Band is constantly improving with diligent rehearsals twice a week. It is regrettable their fine concerts are not always greeted by a full house. The players surely deserve more encouragement than they receive.

GRANVILLE FERRY

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeBaron Mills, on Tuesday evening of last week, when about twenty-five members of the Baptist Church and congregation met for a social evening. During the evening Rev. F. E. Bishop presented Mr. Mills with a very nice floor lamp on behalf of those present in recognition of the faithful service he had rendered the Baptist Church, having been the organist for the past twenty-seven years. Recently Mr. Mills had to resign owing to ill health. At the close of the evening refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Mills daughter, Mrs. Harry Mills

PICOBAC PIPE TOBACCO FOR A MILD, COOL SMOKE

For some time the medical value of bees' stings for rheumatism has been recognized, and now a new farm has been started at Illerstissen in Germany for the cultivation of bees for this special object. Trained assistants will gather the poison from the bee by making it sting. The method is simple. The assistant expertly presses the bee against paper which has that the chemical composition of the poison remains unchanged.

As many as 6,000 stings are collected daily. The poison is then made into an ointment and distributed for medical use.

When Wordsworth said to Lamb, "I believe I could write seasons being opposite, like Shakespeare, if I had a mind to try it." Yes, nothing is w-w-wanting but the m-m-mind," came Lamb's answer as swiftly as the stutter would allow.

MORE ONIONS BEING CONSUMED

Canadians are eating more onions with the result that there is a scarcity at the present time which is being met by imports from the United States. Egyptian onions are expected to arrive in Canada shortly. Canada also imports onions from New Zealand and exports to that dominion, the seasons being opposite.

Hints On Fashion

Jewelry Is Important in Current Trend of Style. Large and Amusing Motifs Used for Designs.

Ensemble of bracelet, brooch and clips made of catalin and simulating Viennese stag horn.

Not the least important and delightful of the season's fashions is the current trend in jewelry. You can embellish your dress, suit or even your housecoat or beach ensemble, with the gayest, danglest, and most fascinating costume jewelry imaginable.

Back in great grandmother's day huge brooches were worn, and they have come back. You are in luck if you have an old one. These large old brooches are matched with massive necklaces, bracelets, clips, buckles, etc. Even "refined" women are wearing large and garishly colored pieces.

An interesting old European custom of hunters was dividing the stag horn so that each participant in the hunt would have a trophy. This was done by slicing the horn allowing the rough exterior to remain unfinished and carving ing delicate figures symbolical of the hunt in the white centre of the horn.

Among the interesting fashion accessories seen this season, was new costume jewelry simulating these Viennese stag horns.

The ensemble shown consists of bracelet, brooch and clips, all using the old Viennese custom as their inspiration. These replicas are made of a plastic material called catalin. They are pictured here worn by a fair rider, and attracted considerable attention at the hunt.

The new lapel jewelry is the very latest thing in that line to attract the eye—and the pocketbook. The bigger the better is the slogan for the pieces that decorate the lapel of your new spring suit. There is horse-head clip done in gold and rhinestones; a parakeet with real feather tail; birds, beasts and fishes, even a Victorian hand holding a rhinestone rose.

Bracelets are just as fashionable as ever, and the larger they are, also the better. Wide and dramatic is the last word in these accessories.

people simply can't carry on. And every party government that gets into power wants to stay there. One of these days, unless we reform our system, we're going to have on the insists on staying in power. Then we'll have dictatorship."

Mr. Jones said that he had followed the Alberta situation exceptionally closely since the Social Credit government assumed power, "and I think I understand political conditions here pretty thoroughly."

So, he said, he believes in the present movement toward unity among political parties in this province.

"Do you believe in the unity idea merely as a means of defeating the present government?" the interviewer asked

"No," Mr. Jones answered. "I believe that the 'Unity' movement should be carried right through into the new government and then retained, although it would be a good deed well done if the 'Unity' movement were to get this Social Credit foolishness out of the way."

"I would like to see even the Social Credit party go into the 'Unity' idea, if its leaders were willing. I want to see all party government abolished and have legislatures and governments chosen from among the best administrators in the province. Then let the government members sit around the council table for the good of the province instead of the benefit of the party."

"It can be done. It is being done in Britain, and look at the way that nation has progressed since the national government was formed several years ago. The effect is similar in Norway and Sweden. And those countries are becoming stronger democracies all the time, as well as forging ahead economically. Party government will wreck us, for sure, if we keep it up," he declared.

HEALTH

Within the body lie certain glands which pour their secretions directly into the blood stream. These secretions are particularly powerful, and any abnormal condition which results in the alteration of one or other of the internal secretions, whether this be in quantity or quality, gives rise to serious disorder in the human body.

Situated close to the outlet of the stomach is the gland known as the pancreas. The pancreas produces an internal secretion, insulin, which allows the body to digest and use certain foods. The old idea that in diabetes, or the absence of the normal supply of insulin, the blood turns to water, comes from the fact that one of the first signs noted by the diabetic is that the quantity of urine is considerably increased as is the frequency of voiding. Further, there is a thirst which seems impossible to quench, and, in spite of an increasing appetite, there is loss of weight.

Many mild cases of diabetes are detected when apparently well persons present themselves for medical examination in connection with life insurance, or for a periodic medical examination. These persons are the fortunate ones for they are given a chance of early treatment and so avoid the dangers that attend the untreated, advanced stage of diabetes.

Before the discovery of insulin, the only treatment for diabetes was diet, and mild cases are still controlled by diet alone. The more advanced cases are treated by diet and insulin. Insulin is not a cure for diabetes. It supplies the body with the substance which the normal pancreas furnishes and it must be taken regularly being injected under the skin. Insulin does not replace dieting; it is always used in combination with diet.

A. D. Outhouse is visiting his wife and family, after an absence of four years.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Morrison are indeed glad to welcome them on their return from their long visit in Lynn, Mass.

A pre-nuptial shower is being tendered Miss Marion Thorne, at her home tonight. Her marriage to Avarad Morrison takes place this month.

The diabetic who follows the instructions of his doctor with regard to diet and insulin may expect to live a long and useful life. Because he has to take care of himself, he may outlive the non-diabetic. It is not easy to adhere to a diet. This is something for all of us to remember in our contacts with diabetics; we should help them, not tempt them, in their adherence to what they have been told and what they know is best for them.

Properly used, insulin has allowed to live many who, otherwise, would have died. It has made an active life a reality for many diabetics for whom diet alone had to be so restricted as to leave them weak and incapable of working. Insulin permits the young diabetic to live; before its discovery, the younger patients had but little hope. Every case of diabetes requires medical supervision in order that his or her particular needs receive proper attention.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

METEGHAN

Rev. Father Bourneuf spent last week in Montreal, returning in time for his Sunday's duties.

Lawrence German, of Boston, visited his mother, Mrs. Thomas German, last week, and also friends and relatives in West Pubnico.

The Meteghan students of Ste. Anne's College, Church Point, were at their respective homes on Tuesday of last week, it being a grand concert.

They were Bernardin, Felix and Pierre Deveau; Roger Comeau, Benoit Maillet, Normand Robichaud and Martin Gaudet.—Alfred Deveau, who had been home for a few days on sick leave, returned to the college with them.

Augustin M. LeBlanc, Martin Gately, Mrs. Michel Maitte and Miss Grace Robichaud are all dangerously ill.

ily concur with the statement. The city papers do not take the place of your local paper, although some people seem to think they do. The city papers are alright in their way, but they do not give you what you are most interested in in your community. You cannot learn from them when public meetings are held, who are dying and who are marrying, who are moving out and who wants to sell land—in fact, hundreds of items which might be of particular importance to you. Such matters city papers cannot furnish, but your local paper does.

It is well known that the prosperity of any community depends upon the buying power of the people. They must have money to spend and spend it. There is the old saying that you cannot have pie and eat it too, neither can you have money when you spend it outside your own community.

In the Maritimes there are approximately 1,000,000 people. Suppose every man, woman and child spent ten cents more a day for goods produced in the Maritimes. That would mean $36,500,000 a year. It would not be necessary to spend that much more money, but simply to switch from outside goods to home products. If this could come to pass the problem of unemployment would be completely solved and many of the other difficulties that now confront us would be wiped away. Therefore every person in the Maritimes should buy Maritime goods on every possible occasion.

The agricultural agent, Raymond LeBlanc, is very busy at this time of the year in the fox industry.—The co-operative hatchery which he organized in Clare last year, is already in operation for this season.

Miss Bernadette Boudreau returned on Friday to Kentville after spending a few months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Liboire Boudreau.

Basil Robichaud, who was employed on vessel repairs in Saint John for the past six weeks, returned home on Saturday.

Mrs. Damien Boudreau, post mistress at St. Alphonse de Clare, was here Sunday, as was also Mr. and Mrs. Lennie Belliveau, of Belliveau's Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. Demiller Melanson, of Grosses Coques, visited their daughter, Mrs. Joseph L. H. Comeau, on Sunday.

Norbert, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Doucet, of Meteghan Station, sustained a severe cut requiring medical attention, on one of his knees last week, when he slipped and fell on the icy road.

About This and That

We must ask our readers to "bear with us" for awhile. If the Courier doesn't look quite as well as it should look—if certain headings, features and correspondence have been omitted, try and forgive us. We are more than "up against it" for the time being, and will be until we are able to make the necessary repairs to our linotype, which is completely out of kilter because of trouble with the heating unit, which keeps the metal from which the slugs are cast in molten condition.

We have telegraphed for parts and will have them installed just as soon as possible after they arrive. In the meantime we must ask our good readers to overlook our paper's typographical faults. You have our assurance we are doing the best we can under extremely difficult circumstances.

At the time of writing we do not know how large an issue we will be able to print. It may be we will only be able to give you a four page paper, however, we are doing our best to make it a larger edition.

Another car-train collision on Monday—and another Nova Scotia's life forfeited. On the whole, most of these accidents, which occur too frequently, are attributed by the public in general to carelessness on the part of the motorist. Perhaps "the public in general" is right, nevertheless, that does not put a stop to the number of railway crossing accidents in this province, or in any other province or state.

Many of us have experienced "close shaves" and have thanked Providence we got over the crossing in time, or noticed the train just at the moment we did—otherwise our cars might now be enroute to Japan as scrap metal, and we-if we escaped the cemetery—might have been maimed for life. It is admitted that the occupant of a closed car frequently fails to hear the blast of the locomotive's whistle, and thus is not warned of approaching danger until the train itself is sighted—which is often too late.

A suggestion has been made to the writer at should "stop" signs be placed on both sides of all level crossings, and the drivers of all cars be compelled to stop under heavy penalty, the majority of these accidents would be eliminated. True, travelling would be slower—but, then it is better to lose a few minutes "getting there" than to end the journey in a hearse or ambulance.

By making an example out of all offenders, such a regula-

Middleton Boy Returning Home From Visit

Returning from Digby, where he had spent the week-end with friends, Ernest Armstrong, of Middleton, was fatally injured at the east crossing near the D. A. R. station at Bridgetown early yesterday afternoon, when the car in which he was driving was struck by the west bound D. A. R. express.

Details of the accident to reach us are meagre. It is understood the train struck Armstrong's car broadside rolling it over and over into the station yard in full view of numerous spectators awaiting the arrival of the train.

The car was so completely demolished it was impossible to distinguish its make from the heap of debris that remained. Armstrong, who was unconscious when taken from the wreckage, died enroute to the hospital at Middleton.

He spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Cotton at the Residence of Evan Dunn, at the Raquette, Digby.

Britain Moves to Stamp Out Terrorism

A truck on the highway outside of Jerusalem is shown stopped by British police who searched both truck and passengers for arms. This incident took place after the triple hanging of three Arabs, two of whom were convicted of murdering a Jewish chauffeur, and the third of firing on British troops. The executions brought the total to seven since Britain began a drive against terrorism last September.

How Ships Were Named

A rather interesting story is being told concerning the names of the Cunard-White Star superliner Queen Mary and her sister ship, which is to be the Queen Elizabeth.

It seems that, according to the report, the first ship was to be the Queen Victoria. But when the idea was presented to King George he misunderstood and he thanked the officials warmly for honoring Queen Mary. There was then nothing to do but to name the ship for the Queen.

The name tentatively selected for the sister ship was King George. But this suggestion was rather coolly received by the present King, who delicately suggested that Queen Elizabeth would be a good name.

This story may or may not be true. If it is, then the loyalty of both Kings to their wives is commendable.

Great Britain's bid for the first transatlantic air-mail service will rely on an invention of Major R. H. Mayo, known as the Composite Aircraft. It combines a heavy, long-range, four-engined monoplane and a second booster monoplane that is attached on top the flying boat in taking off to form an eight-engined biplane. When the craft are in the air and at full speed, the lifting monoplane cuts off and returns to the airport, while the big ship continues on its way with a pay load too heavy for it to lift off the ground alone.

In an unusual accident at Picton on Tuesday, of last week, Lloyd Irving lost the hearing of his left ear. Suffering from a cold, he was blowing his nose, when he started to cough, and "blew out" an ear drum. His physician said his ear drum was split, and although totally deaf now, Mr. Irving may be able to hear with the ear in warmer weather.

Eire President?

JOHN MCCORMACK

An American citizen since 1919, John McCormack, the burly Irish singer, is being boomed by friends for the presidency of Eire, the former Irish Free State, against a Czechoslovakian count and a veteran judge. McCormack, who sang his farewell to American concert audiences in March, 1938, is 58 and a count of the Holy Roman Empire.

The gross revenues of the all-inclusive Canadian National Railways System for the week ending January 21, 1938 were $3,157,300 as compared with $3,295,352 for the corresponding period of 1937, a decrease of $138,052.

CONFLICTING CALENDARS

When you had the 1938 calendar you probably noticed how it varies from year to year, and wondered why. You would have wondered still more had you lived in 1462 of the Egyptian Era. For it was an Egyptian astronomer who discovered that a year is more than 365 days by a few hours, calculating that this meant a loss of a day every 1,460 years. So the Egyptians made a cycle of 1,460 years in their calendar, and instead of calling the first year after the cycle 1461, called it 1462, thus leaving out one year in every cycle!

Not that Egypt only knew of the calendar. The Chaldeans and Red Indians had a calendar of a sort, long, long ago.

The peoples of the East had their calendars, though different from ours. The Chinese date their years now from the foundation of their Republic under Sun Yat Sen. The Japanese dated theirs from the legendary beginnings of their Empire. This Empire started, they say, when a tyrannical ruler of China dispatched an expedition to their islands. The Mohammedan Era began from the year A. D. 622, when Mohammed fled from Mecca. Our present calendar is based on this so-called Julius calendar. He reckoned that the year consists of 365 days 6 hours, and out of the six hours he made an extra day every four years. This is the Leap Year of blessed memory, though few remember that to Caesar be the thanks for it.

It was discovered in 1582 by Pope Gregory XIII, that the year is actually less than 365 days 6 hours by eleven seconds, and that therefore we had gained 11 days. So in that year he cut 10 days out of October, October 5 becoming October 15. To make sure that it wouldn't occur again the Gregorian Calendar lays it down that February 29 shall be dropped from Leap Year three times in every 400 years. The year 1900 was not Leap Year. Neither was 1800, nor 1700. The year 2000 will be.

Transportation in The World of Tomorrow as Seen Today

A high-speed truck-train and a faster, more powerful and safer plane, as envisioned by industrial designer Raymond Loewy, are pictured ABOVE. These new departures in the transportation scheme of the world of tomorrow will be on show on the focal exhibit of transportation at the New York world's fair in 1939. The streamlined truck-train, TOP, will replace the motor truck and trailer today. The eight engined airliner, BOTTOM, will be foolproof, with comfort and safety as the reigning features.

EAST FERRY

Mrs. Chloe Eldridge has returned to her home in Sandy Cove, after spending a few months with Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bates.

Mrs. Stella Stanton of Little River, spent the week-end with her grandmother, Mrs. Chloe Eldridge.

Bernie Stanton spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Stanton.

Mrs. F. P. Small spent a day recently at her former home, in South Range.

Mrs. Irving Height is a patient in the Digby General Hospital.

Mrs. Carl Small has returned from Little River, accompanied by her niece, Mrs. Trask.

Edith Theriault is employed at Cutler-Theriault's.

Mrs. Carrie Hersey spent a few days at Mink Cove, last week.

Mrs. Burwell Stanton is confined to her home by illness. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Ella Harris, Mrs. Harry Harris and daughter, Romona, spent the day with the former's daughter, Mrs. Arch Greenland at Tiverton.

Its cockpit empty, a fleet little biplane of the Royal Air Force roared over thrilled crowds at the Hendon, England, airport recently. As an officer on the ground punched buttons on a radio control box, the speeding machine obediently dived, looped, rolled, and finally swooped down to a perfect landing. The pilotless plane will take off from land or sea, fly at 100 to 120 miles an hour, and alight at the home port or on a warship's deck. Its flying range is announced as 10 miles from the control station. So far, the only announced purpose of these robot planes is to train gunners—like the radio-controlled battleship Centurion, which for several years has been the target of the British Navy's ships. For both planes and ships operated by radio control, however, spectacular wartime possibilities are forecast.

Skates of Other Days

The earliest skates of which there is a definite record were really a form of sliding runners. They were formed with the leg and rib bones of animals, which were fastened to the feet with straps.

The skater propelled himself by means of an iron-shod pole. It is quite possible that primitive man made use of this means of locomotion during the ice age, and it is practically certain that the Scandinavian invaders of England introduced the practice before the Christian era.

The origin of iron skates is not very clear, but it is believed that in their earlier form they were iron runners fixed on the bottom of snow shoes.

The first figure skating in Great Britain appears to have been done at the Edinburgh Skating Club, founded in 1642.

In Europe, among the Greeks and Romans, calendars were known at an early date. The Greeks reckoned their dates from the last Olympic Games held every four years. But Roman documents used to be dated from the legendary founding of Rome by Romulus in 753 B. C. In 48 B. C., however, Julius Caesar reformed the entire calendar.

Teachers Get High Praise

The Clare local of the Nova Scotia Teacher's Union held a meeting on Saturday, Feb. 12, in the Meteghan River school. Discussion centred mainly on the control unit of administration. After the business meeting a banquet was held in the Meteghan River Hotel. Alphonse Comeau presided and introduced the speakers. Miss Anne Marie Stehelin, teacher at Maville, responded to the toast to the King; Thomas Boudreau, teacher at Belliveau's Cove, responded to that proposed to the teaching staff of Clare. Professor Felix Poirier of St. Ann's College, Church Point, was the guest speaker of the evening. He detailed the numerous responsibilities of the teacher and paid a high tribute to the teachers of Clare.

SCALLOPING—THE MOST PROFITABLE INDUSTRY IN CANADA

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—Such a statement as the above will naturally horrify and astound, not only the fishermen themselves, but the public in general, or anyone who has been connected directly or indirectly, with this industry during the past ten years. But if any interested party should go to the trouble of studying the statistics of the Department of Fisheries they will find that by striking an average that every boat engaged in this industry during this ten-year period, has not only paid for itself but has also furnished a livelihood for its operators, the oil companies, the blacksmiths, the merchants, the buyers and, in fact, everybody who has been—directly or indirectly—connected with it. This extraordinary feat has been accomplished in such a way as to be unnoticable to a large percentage of the public or the operators. It has also accomplished this feat without any change or enlargement of its markets.

The first question that one would naturally ask, is "How has it been done?" And the answer is so simple that it is hardly conceivable: "By shipping on consignment." Just four words! But these four words have cost the fishermen or primary producers the huge sum of $165,888.80 during this ten-year period, or a sum equal to the market value of the whole fleet.

Rather than tire the readers with the Department's figures for the last ten years we will take those for the fishing season of 1936-37 as an average yearly basis upon which to work. No doubt there have been seasons when the market prices were considerably higher, and the season's production and the number of boats operating considerably less, so one fact offsets the other. I believe that the majority of the fishermen will agree with me in considering that the production, price and number of boats employed during the 1936-37 scalloping season, is a fair average year on which to base our figures. In taking an average year's production as a basis on which to work, we are compelled to strike an average year's market value on the number of boats employed during this same season. We know that an average of sixty boats operating yearly is a rather high percentage but in order not to be biased we will give this part of the subject the benefit of the doubt, and we will set the average value of each boat at $4,000, which means that the average yearly value of the Digby and Annapolis County scallop fleet during the past ten years, has been $240,000.

It must be remembered that the first debt paid by any scallop boat after commencing operations, is the 8 to 12 per cent that the U. S. Commission charges to market the production. These commissions are the first expenses taken out of the gross stock made by the boat, therefore it is only fair to credit the boat with this, as the boat has actually earned this amount even if the owners or operators have seen fit to give it away afterwards. According to the Department of Fisheries statistics the 1936-37 production for this fleet was 197,270 gallons, or 1,972,270 pounds, having a market value of $332,361. We will again give the subject the benefit of the doubt and place the commission charged for marketing at 8 per cent. This means that the boats of the scallop fleet actually earned and paid the sum of $26,588.88 in commissions during this fishing season. Spread this average over the ten-year period and you get the sum of $2,658.88—an amount more than equal to the value of the whole fleet.

Now, Mr. Editor, is there anyone who can dispute the fact that scallop fishing has been one of the most profitable industries in Canada, and who is to blame for its present serious condition? It can't be the boat for we have proved that she has not only paid for herself but has furnished

Well Known Digby County Lawyer Passes

News of the passing of Frank Jones, K. C., at Edmonton, Alberta, was received in Digby Tuesday morning. The late Mr. Jones left for the west a few weeks ago to spend some time with his son Douglas at 12330 140th. Ave., Alberta, and from there it was his intention to leave the latter part of the month for Seattle, where he planned to take a boat to New York through the Panama Canal, and return to Digby by way of New York and Halifax.

The late Mr. Jones was one of the senior barristers of the province of Nova Scotia, and was born at Joggins Bridge, in this county, the son of William M. Jones, 76 years ago.

For more than half a century he has been an active barrister, a well known figure in the courts, and known to the members of his profession throughout the Maritimes. He was respected by all, and regarded as "an able lawyer".

In his younger days he was a successful school teacher, and was principal of schools in Bear River, Digby and Baddeck. Winning a scholarship of $1,000 he went to Dalhousie University at Halifax, where he won his B. A. about 54 years ago. He was then attired to a Digby barrister for a term of four years.

He was also, at one time, a partner of the late E. Hart Nichols at Digby. Also, from 1900 until 1915 he conducted law offices at Digby and Bear River, where he was proprietor of the old Bear River Hotel. After the hotel was destroyed by fire, he came to Digby, and for a few years, conducted offices at both Digby and Weymouth.

Active in civic affairs, both town and municipal, he has served on the Digby Town Council, and at one time was deputy mayor.

About forty-five years ago he married Mrs. Margaret E. Douglas, Milligan, at present in New York; who survives him, as do five children, namely, Helen, Mrs. Harry Anthony, at present in New York; William, of Toronto; Douglas, of Edmonton, Alberta; Cecil, of Joggins Bridge, Digby County, and Louise, of New York; also two step children, Mrs. Jessie Romans, of Bear River and Rev. Frank Milligan of Winnipeg.

The remains are expected to arrive on the "Princess Helene" Monday morning. Funeral services will take place Monday afternoon from Holy Trinity Church, Digby, with interment in Forest Hill Cemetery, Digby. Rev. E. M. Caldwell, rector of the church, assisted by Rev. Thomas MacDormand, of Amherst will officiate.

a living for hundreds of operators and labourers during this period, so therefore I am afraid we will have to agree with the remarks made by Major Sutherland, Mr. Walsh and Mr. Sollows when addressing a Board of Trade meeting in Yarmouth, on February 3rd, on the subject of the marketing of lobsters, when they all claimed that the fisherman was to blame himself, by shipping on consignment.

In conclusion we might also note that we are shipping on a consignment basis to the same markets as we did ten years ago. There have been no new markets developed and there never will be until the idea of shipping on consignment is changed. It costs money to find and develop new markets so why should the U. S. commission merchant worry? He is playing a gilt-edged game. Not having a cent invested he has nothing to lose. Change the market to a Cash on Delivery, F. O. B. Now, Mr. Editor, is there anyone who can dispute the fact that scallop fishing has been one of the most profitable industries in Canada, and who is to blame for its present serious condition? It can't be the boat for we have proved that she has not only paid for herself but has furnished

FOSTERING TALENT

Work that gives us scope for self-expression, work that we really enjoy is every one's aim and object in life, but most parents overlook the fact that the average child shows an aptitude for his true vocation at an early age, writes a child psychologist. Guide your children and help them by training and encouragement to fit themselves for earning a living at something for which they show real ability and liking.

The first thing parents have to do is a little character reading. Know your child, try to realize his talents and develop his gifts. Watch him try to unknot a piece of string or mend a broken toy. Is he nimble with his fingers? Is he gifted with much patience?

It is not enough only to encourage talent; you must supply deficiencies also. There are many ways of doing this. Toys provide the best means at first, for they are, next to people, the most important things in a child's life. At four or five years a child likes to have toys which can be made into things. Bricks, clay, scissors (with dull ends) and paper, jig-saw puzzles, steel building outfits are the sort of toys that help a child to learn to concentrate.

Every child these days seems to have a hobby, whether it is saving pictures of the Royal Family and making them into a scrap-book, or collecting stamps, coins, carpentry tools or fishing tackle. Some youngsters clip bits of verse that appeal to them, paste them neatly in a book, and others make a hobby of photography. All these are useful things and should be encouraged.

It is of enormous value in life to be well read, so allow your child to have as many worthwhile books as he can. Naturally the younger children won't want to tackle anything on the heavy side, but by supervising their early reading you will give them a taste for the better books later on.

Choose books wisely and do not always limit them to the standard works for the age of the child in question. It is a difficult matter to gauge just how much a child understands or grasps, but if a book holds his attention and gives him useful information this is for all normal purposes test enough.

All these are indirect ways of guiding a child's tastes, but it is a mistake to talk too early to him about his actual choice of career. A sensitive child can worry and become different if a sense of responsibility is thrust upon him too soon.

Unfortunately he may become over-anxious to make his decision and this in turn may lead to the idea that he has nothing much to offer in the way of talents. Youth has a spirit of hopefulness and courage all its own. Don't destroy it by fretting and worrying before the proper time but when you see the way the wind is blowing help him hoist the sail that will guide him into a safe and pleasant port.

RELIEVES THROAT PAIN, RAWESS

No family need neglect even minor head colds.

Here is what to do: Take two "Aspirin" tablets when you feel a cold coming on—with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions on each package. Relief comes rapidly.

The "Aspirin" method of relief is the way many doctors now approve. You take "Aspirin" for relief—then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

WARNS PLAN WILL HASTEN TEN GREAT WAR

U. S. Congressional committee heard a warning recently that the $800,000,000 United States naval construction programme would hasten another great war.

Leading the opposition to the 20 per cent fleet increase recommended by President Roosevelt, former Representative Jeannett Rankin, first woman member of Congress, told the House of Representatives naval committee "wholly abnormal" warship building by the United States would "intensify international tensions and distrust."

House Coats Have Charm As Well As Color to Woo Women Folk

THE PINK SATIN

House coats are garments about which most women can wax lyrical. There is "something about them" don't you know?

Of course, a house coat may be a very practical and uninspiring garment, but generally speaking they are colorful, graceful full of "charm and allure" as a beauty expert says.

Jeanette MacDonald, popular singer of screen and radio, is snapped informally at home wearing a "dream" of a house coat in a dusty pink satin. The felt collar and short puff sleeves have smart stitched details. The bodice part is fitted, and the skirt full.

A swanky and uplifting little house coat need not be expensive to make milady feel like a million dollars. A printed cotton batik coat in pretty, bright colors.

With flattering lines and dainty little puffer sleeves may be obtained for a very modest sum.

If you are a business woman and you come home from work dog tired, there is nothing quite so restful and uplifting as taking a warm, perfumed bath and putting on a beautifully colored house coat, preferably one that trails on the floor. It gives a woman a wonderfully refreshed feeling, changing her from a drab creature ture to a most desirable companion. If you don't believe it, try it!

The house coat pictured will do the trick. It is approved by the best stylists. The Paris exposition print has a satin stripe and bouquets of roses that look as if they were hand-painted.

The coat has intricate seaming in the bodice to give it fitted lines with a full, flaring skirt.

The gown is zipped up in the front, the skirt closing ending in a kick pleat.

The Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen, Germany, are building an airship for transatlantic service which is virtually a flying hotel. The passenger accommodations are placed inside the hull and resemble a two-story house. One floor contains a lounge, 25 cabins for the 50 passengers—each cabin with two beds, hot and cold running water, a clothes closet and writing desk—and a dining saloon which seats 30 people. The other floor houses a smoking room, bathroom, lavatories, kitchen, crew's quarters, and storerooms. This spring the ship will start a fortnightly service between Frankfurt-on-Main and Lakehurst, N. J. The trip will take two days and cost about $400.

A bag-snatcher used a new trick when he attacked Mrs. Reeves, London Road, Southwark, as she was walking along Mead Row, Westminster, London. He walked up to her and slapped a large wad of newspaper smeared with a gluey substance, on her face, then grabbed her bag, containing $150 and ran off.

THIS is the time of year when telephone service is even more valuable than at others. During the winter months the companionship and protection afforded by a telephone in the home are indispensable to comfortable living.

The home that has a telephone is always happier and more secure. Those who live in it are benefited both spiritually and physically by the outside contacts the telephone makes possible—and in the hour of emergency it may save life or property. Through just one service it may repay its cost for months—perhaps years.

Just compare what a telephone will give you, with what you pay for it. You will find that in usefulness, protection and convenience it represents unparalleled value. Can you afford to be without it?

themselves with swatting and complaining, or using sprays and dopes which are at best only temporarily or partially protective.

So now, while winter is still here, is the time to plan for action in spring and early summer to destroy the larvae and pupae while they are still concentrated in transient water bodies. Like other animals, these creatures must breathe, and this they do chiefly through tube-shaped organs which they force through the water surface at frequent intervals into the outer air. If a film of petroleum oil has been sprayed on the water the larvae and pupae are cut off from the life-giving air, and, in their efforts to reach it, their breathing organs and bodies become fouled with the oil and they quickly die. Better still, because the effects are permanent, the removal of the water from the breeding places by drainage also destroys the larvae and pupae and prevents the development of others. By these means enormous numbers of mosquitoes may be destroyed at small cost considering the benefits that follow.

For best results, proper planning and organization in advance is necessary. Organizations or communities interested in undertaking such work should write for further information to the Dominion Entomologist, Entomological Branch, Ottawa. Copies of a circular entitled, "Mosquito Control in Canada," prepared under the direction of the Dominion Entomologist, may be secured from the Publicity

With the start of regular transatlantic air service by the Pan American Airways, a passenger now may travel around the world by plane. Leaving San Francisco on the China Clipper, he would go to Manila and the coast of China. At Canton he could step into an Imperial Airways plane, fly down to Singapore, then westward to Delhi, Bagdad, Cairo, and Rome. Thence to Lisbon by the Royal Dutch or the French air line. There he could board a plane of the French line or of the Deutsche Lufthansa, fly down the west coast of Africa, and then make the South Atlantic hop to Natal, Brazil. There he would find a Pan American plane waiting to take him northward up the Pacific Coast to San Francisco.

Women's Institute

On Thursday afternoon a special meeting of The Bear River Women's Institute was held, at which the speaker was Miss Eaton, from the Department at Truro. Miss Eaton came to speak to, and give instruction to, those interested in Handicraft, her visit being in connection with extension work, which the Department is carrying on throughout the Province. Following the business meeting, a social hour was spent over the tea cups, the hostesses being Mrs. T. J. Davidson, Mrs. J. D. Hubley and Mrs. A. B. Campbell. Bible Class Social

The February social of the Philathea Class was held at the home of Mrs. Oakley Banks, on Thursday evening the 16th, with a good attendance considering the very cold weather.

The President, Mrs. Roy Snell, presided and conducted the devotionals during which a beautiful class poem was read by Mrs. Car Miller.

A good amount of business was transacted, making plans for an entertainment to be sponsored by this Philathea Class in the near future.

Following this, Mrs. Leslie Rice, convenor of the program, took charge, and the following numbers were pleasingly rendered:

A Valentine Reading: Mrs. Hardy Benson.

Poem, selected, Mrs. Harry Benson.

Humorous Reading: Mrs. R. A. Harris.

Valentine Poem: Mrs. Ford.

The two contests, sponsored by Miss Louise Harris, gave much enjoyment to all.

The refreshment committee, with Mrs. Brydon convenor, served a dainty repast, after which the closing hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" brought this social evening to a close.

Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Sandford, of Belmont, Mass., left on Thursday for a three weeks cruise to South America. They are well known in Bear River, having spent the past five summers here.

I found my old friend, Pokewhist, busy at his desk, with a large sheet of paper in front of him and a new nib in his pen.

"I am glad you have popped in," he said, "because this is definitely one of those occasions when two heads are better than one, even if one of them is purely ornamental."

"I shouldn't call you ornamental," I said frankly, "but I shall be glad to lend you the use of my brains. What are you writing?"

"My last will and testament," said Pokewhist in sepulchral voice. "A sudden windfall of £1,000 brings with it new responsibilities. I have never bothered to make a will before, because all I have possessed has been the furniture, which would be greeted with loud jeers if it appeared at a respectable jumble sale, and the suit I stand up in—or rather, sit down in—which is not yet paid for. This £1,000 has aged me a good deal, and I am anxious to leave it so that my family will honour my memory."

"Have you a great many relatives?" I asked.

Pokewhist sighed. "They are as the sands of the sea for number," he said. "Placed end to end they would

TRAVELOGUE

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church of Canada, held a special night, on Tuesday evening, Feb. 22, at the church vestry. The guest speaker was J. L. Wallis, of Digby, who gave a "travologue" with slides, on his trip across the continent, which all enjoyed. The entertainment committee of which Mrs. H. E. Harris was convenor, gave a few selections: Piano solo, Mrs. Burrage; solo, "The Stranger of Galilee," Mrs. R. L. Roach; trio, "Every Heart Breathes a Prayer," Mrs. Roach, Mrs. L. Sanford, Mrs. H. E. Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. John Purdy entertained at a Valentine birthday party on Monday evening, Feb. 14, covers being laid for the six o'clock supper.

Those comprising the quartette of relations whose birthday was being celebrated, were: Cornelius Simpson, Mrs. Purdy's father; Mrs. Vernon Peck, her sister; Mrs. George Oickle and David Dukeshire. Needless to say these were of various ages.

Throughout the evening contests, games, prizes and a three-tiered birthday cake helped make this unique party a most enjoyable one.

GIRL GUIDES

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. E. K. Eaton, of Annapolis Royal, District Commissioner of the Girl Guides' Association of Canada, was the guest of the Local Association at a tea given in "Oakdene Hall," at which the parents of the local girl Guides and Brownies and a number of other interested friends were also guests.

Mrs. Eaton spoke to the assembled guests regarding the work of "Guiding," the important part it plays in character building, developing, as it does thoughtful, responsible and capable citizens. It was a very great pleasure and privilege, to have Mrs. Eaton come to us at this time.

Bear River is indeed fortunate in having as Captain of the Girl Guides and Brownies, Mrs. F. Maud Robinson, under whose capable leadership the members of these groups are receiving training of an extremely high order, and whose ability as a teacher is well known and appreciated. In the Brownie organization her title is "Brown Owl." Her assistant, known as "Tawny Owl" is Miss Molly Robinson, an able helper with some twenty young Brownies. There are over thirty Girl Guides enrolled.

The Local Association, consisting of ten members, assists the officers and members of the Guides and Brownies with the various problems that confront them from time to time. Mrs. J. D. Hubley is President of the Local Association and Mrs. C. W. Jefferson is Secretary-Treasurer.

At a nicely appointed table, tea was poured by Mrs. L. J. Lovett and Mrs. W. M. Romans, assisted by members of the Local Association and a number of the Guides and Brownies.

SALLY'S SALLIES

At 83 She Defies Rheumatism

After Suffering Acute Pain for Years

Rheumatism first attacked this old lady in 1931, and gradually spread from her arms to other parts of her body. Then she started to take Kruschen Salts, and now she sends the following letter in her own handwriting:—

"I have suffered from rheumatism since 1931. At first, I felt acute pain in both arms. I could not sleep for pain. It grew worse, and gradually crept down to the tips of my fingers. Next it reached my knees and ankles, which made me quite helpless for a long period. A friend recommended me to take Kruschen Salts. I find they do me more good than any other medicine, liniment or ointment I ever used. This is my own writing, though I am in my 84th year."—(Mrs.) H.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are often caused by deposits of needle-pointed uric acid crystals in the muscles and joints. Kruschen Salts stimulate your liver and kidneys to healthy, regular action, and assist them to get rid of the excess uric acid which is frequently the cause of your suffering.

CARE OF RANGE

In caring for your kitchen range be sure that you don't set down heavy utensils with a rough hand or it will chip the enamel. Guard the enamel zealously, clean it only when it is cold, and then with mild soap and water, for porcelain enamel is glass you know.

Take a small wire, not a toothpick that will splinter, when you clean clogged burners in gas ranges, and use a soft brush, not a harsh fork, when you clean the oven units of electric ranges. Keep the oven immaculately clean, so that spattered foods won't burn into its surface.

And last, form the habit of turning the heat low after a dish has started to boil. Once you have formed this habit it will eliminate such things as "boil-overs".

MUSTARD, BURNT SUGAR END COOKING ODOURS

Mustard may be a condiment but it has other uses, too. For instance, it is an effective agent in destroying "fishy" odours on dishes. Add some dry mustard, or a generous quantity of washing soda, to the dish water, says one of the cookery demonstrators on the staff of the Dominion Department of Fisheries, first rinsing the dishes in salt water. In preparing fish for the oven, the demonstrator adds, it is a good plan to rinse the hands first in cold water, thus closing the pores to odours, and to cover the working surface of the table with a layer of paper.

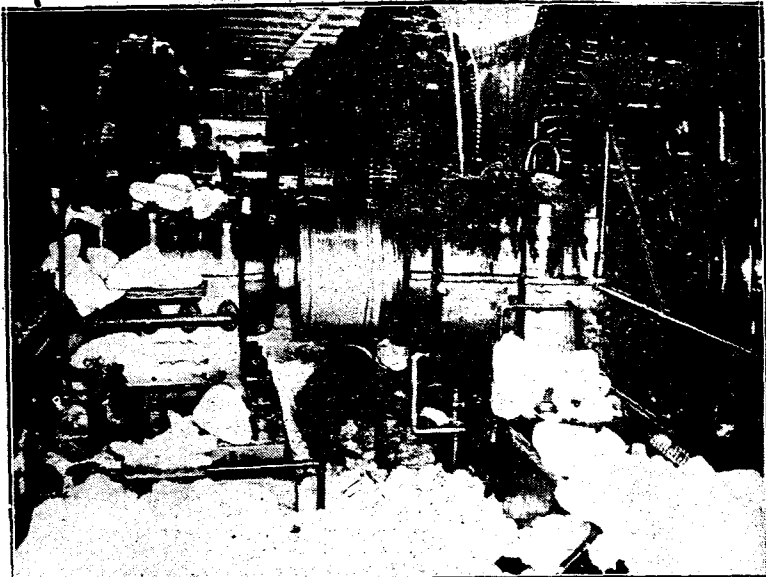

time. No, your easiest way of disposing of the money will be to leave it to a personal friend as a token of esteem. And you needn't look very far to find a man who has stuck to you through thick and thin."

"I suppose you mean yourself," said Pokewhist, "and though I didn't think the description quite fits I suppose you might as well have it your own way. Do you spell your name with an 'i' or a 'y'?"

"A 'y' I said. So Pokewhist wrote out a short Will leaving the £1,000 to me, and I reflected that, although he looked quite healthy, there was always the chance he had some dreadful disease up his sleeve, and anyway he was pretty careless the way he crossed the road. "But you'll have to lend me the pound," he said.

"What pound?" I asked.

"The pound to put on Laughing Lizzie," he explained. "Laughing Lizzie at 10 to 1 in the 3.30, and Stewed Prunes in the 4.30 at 100 to 1. That's my windfall. . . and I have it straight from the stable-boy's mouth that they can't lose and that it is an absolutely water-tight double."

Though immediate danger of destruction is believed past for the Niagara power houses of the Ontario Hydro Commission: just below the Canadian falls and at Queenston, Ont., since the ice jam which wrecked the International bridge is expected to move out slowly, mechanics and engineers face many months' work before the upper plant, which was engulfed with water and ice, is again in operation. One mechanic is shown here at work amongst the giant generators starting the task of cleaning and drying them into renewed production. Note the huge chunks of ice still piled over the costly machinery. The plant, built low in the Niagara gorge, was virtually buried in a mountain of ice which backed up behind the main jam.

DIABETES

Within the body lie certain glands which pour their secretions directly into the blood stream. These secretions are particularly powerful, and any abnormal condition which results in the alteration of one or other of the internal secretions, whether this be in quantity or quality, gives rise to serious disorder in the human body.

Situated close to the outlet of the stomach is the gland known as the pancreas. The pancreas produces an internal secretion, insulin, which allows the body to digest and use certain foods. The old idea that in diabetes, or the absence of the normal supply of insulin, the blood turns to water, comes from the fact that one of the first signs noted by the diabetic is that the quantity of urine is considerably increased as is the frequency of voiding. Further, there is a thirst which seems impossible to quench, and, in spite of an increasing appetite, there is loss of weight.

Many mild cases of diabetes are detected when apparently well persons present themselves for medical examination in connection with life insurance, or for a periodic medical examination. These persons are the fortunate ones for they are given a chance of early treatment and so avoid the dangers that attend the untreated, advanced stage of diabetes.

Before the discovery of insulin, the only treatment for diabetes was diet, and mild cases are still controlled by diet alone. The more advanced cases are treated by diet and insulin. Insulin is not a cure for diabetes. It supplies the body with the substance which the normal pancreas furnishes and it must be taken regularly being injected under the skin. Insulin does not replace dieting; it is always used in combination with diet.

The diabetic who follows the instructions of his doctor with regard to diet and insulin may expect to live a long and useful life. Because he has to take care of himself, he may outlive the non-diabetic. It is not easy to adhere to a diet. This is something for all of us to remember in our contacts with diabetics; we should help them, not tempt them, in their adherence to what they have been told and that they know is best for them.

COMBAT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is often caused by uric acid in the blood. This blood impurity should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and excess uric acid remains, it irritates the muscles and joints causing excruciating pains. Plan to help prevent rheumatism by keeping your kidneys in good condition. Take regularly Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite kidney remedy.

Properly used, insulin has allowed to live many who, otherwise, would have died. It has made an active life a reality for many diabetics for whom diet alone had to be so restricted as to leave them weak and incapable of working. Insulin permits the young diabetic to live; before its discovery, the younger patients had but little hope. Every case of diabetes requires medical supervision in order that his or her particular needs receive proper attention.

HINTS TO BOXERS

When taking up boxing do not try to do too much until your muscles are quite supple and you have acquired an easy style.

It is very important how you stand. Your left foot should be in advance of the right; the left arm should be extended except for a slight bend at the elbow; the right arm should be held loosely at the waist.

Punch as straight as possible with the left hand, keeping the right as a guard. Having sized up your opponent, begin to measure the distance and make openings with this straight left. Then begin to use the right punches.

The hands should be carried high, and you should remember to bend the elbow when parrying. Make much use of your feet.

When the German Emperor visited Pope Leo XIII, Count Bismark tried to follow into the audience chamber. A gentleman of the Papal Court motioned him to stand back, as there must be no third person at the interview. "I am Count Herbert Bismark," shouted the German, as he struggled to follow his master. "That," replied the Roman with calm dignity, "accounts for, but does not excuse, your conduct."

The marriage of Miss Velda Bain, of Port Wade, to Carroll Morrison, of Karsdale, took place at the Lower Granville parsonage, on Wednesday afternoon of last week, Rev. W. R. Crowell officiating.

reach—at a conservative estimate—from here to Saskatchewan. If we decided to go on a family pleasure cruise nothing but the Queen Mary would be big enough, and even then quite a number of third cousins would have to swim alongside. Until I started making a list of them I had no idea how many there were."

I looked at him sympathetically.

"Why not jettison the relatives?" I said. "If you single out just a few of them it will only cause bad blood, and the rest will probably band themselves together and march to the cemetery and dance on your grave, muttering curses the while."

I really felt that the advice was good, and that Pokewhist would do much better to divide the money among a few old and tried friends—chaps who had stuck to him through thick and thin, braved the battle and the breeze with him, stood shoulder to shoulder against a sea of troubles, and all that sort of thing.

"Jettison the relatives?" said Pokewhist. "That is certainly a good idea. But if I jettison the relatives who shall I leave the money to?"

I coughed suggestively. "You don't want to leave it to anybody underserving," I said slowly, "my idea . . ."

"I see what you mean," said Pokewhist, "you think I ought to leave it to charity? It's not at all a bad idea. The Society for Providing Artificial Dentures for Decayed Bishops, or something like that?"

"That wasn't exactly what I meant," I said carefully. "I had an idea of something more personal."

It is extraordinary how stupid people can be. Even now he didn't grasp what I meant.

"You mean a drinking fountain or something like that?" he said. "It's not at all a bad idea. I could leave directions for a drinking fountain to be built to be called the Pokewhist Memorial Fountain. It might even run to a large bronze statue of myself with the water coming out of my foot. Now I come to think of it I have always rather had a fancy for being a statue some day. Would you think I would look best on a horse waving a sword or just standing on a pillar wearing a top hat and brandishing a scroll of parchment?"

You'd look silly on a horse," I said.

"Then it will have to be the top hat and the roll of parchment."

"A sheer waste of good money," I said. "The boys would chalk rude remarks all over you, and when processions went by people would sit on your head. Statues have a most uncomfortable

Board of Trade Banquet

Alfred Boden, whose resignation from the post of town clerk and treasurer for the town of Digby, went into effect on the 14th inst., was the guest of honor at the annual banquet of the Digby Board of Trade, held in the Waverly Hotel, on Tuesday evening. Due to the illness of the president, Capt. G. M. Morrell, and the absence from town of the vice-president, James J. Wallis, M. C. Denton, mayor of the town, presided.

H. T. Warne was called on to introduce the guest, and spoke in glowing terms of the great service he has rendered the town during the seventeen years he was in office, and recalled the time when, as mayor, he with the then town council, telegraphed Mr. Boden, then residing in British Columbia, to come to Digby as town clerk and treasurer. At the end of his remarks Mr. Warne presented Mr. Boden with a brush and comb set, as a mark of esteem from the members of the Board of Trade.

In his reply Mr. Boden gave a concise review of the affairs of the town since incorporation in 1890, and particularly since he came to Digby as town clerk and treasurer. Reviewing his own term of office he stated he had served under seven mayors and 38 councillors; of these 25 have served for a single term; the present mayor and council have served an aggregate of 34 years; Councillors Aymar and Anderson have both served nine years.

During the seventeen years three former mayors—F. W. Nichols, G. I. Letteney and H. B. Short—have died, as have eight ex-councillors, viz.: Frank Jones, O. C. Jones, H. E. Jones, C. J. Eldridge, S. A. Keen, O. S. Dunham and J. T. Letteney; and two former town clerks, H. L. Dennison and Clarence Jameson. Prominent private citizens he named as having passed on during that time were H. Green, Rev. William Driffield, Howard Anderson, Aubrey Brown, Eber Turnbull, C. A. Dakin, J. F. Milberry, J. A. Russell, Dr. S. B. MacGregor, J. A. Taylor, H. A. P. Smith and Major John Daley.

(Of those named G. I. Letteney, H. B. Short, O. C. Jones, S. A. Keen, Dr. S. B. MacGregor have all died within the past year. News of the death of Frank Jones, former town councillor and town solicitor, was received on Monday.) He paid tribute to these men who have given many years to the work of the town and have bettered the town by their work.

Delving into financial matters he stated that in 1890 the town's revenue was $13,101, of which $7,134 was collected in taxes; at that time the town's liabilities were $51,130, with loans amounting to $50,100. During the year 1937 the town collected a total of $74,133, of which $36,000 came from taxation; liabilities amount to $211,499; loans, $185,175; interest $9,470. When he came to the town in 1921 the total amount collected was $28,841, and in 1931, the year in which the town expended more money than in any other in its history, due largely to the March storm which caused such great damage to property, the total expenditures were $112,747.

He classed as the town's chief asset its school children and schools, with these words: "The young in the schools are your first asset we have to-day. Watch them!" He also touched upon many of the developments which have gone to improve the town in the past, which have contributed to Digby's progress.

Special tribute was paid to Mr. Boden by T. E. G. Lynch, one of the members of the council when Mr. Boden came, and mayor of the town for five consecutive years during Mr. Boden's term of office; and by F. Courtney Purdy, principal of the Academy, who thanked Mr. Boden for his help and co-operation during the seven years of his principalship, and for the numerous talks he has given the high school on various topics, and said that the doors of the school would be always open to Mr. Boden.

The Business Meeting
At the business session following the banquet the Board endorsed the resolution coming from the Board of Trade of Liverpool petitioning the provincial government (providing that any steps be taken to pave the cross country roads connecting the Annapolis Valley and the South Shore) that the paving of the Annapolis-Liverpool highways be undertaken first. The motion was made by E. J. Theriault and seconded by G. H. Peters.

During the business session Fritz Dakin read a communication from the Royal Kennebecasis Yacht Club in regard to the awarding of the Digby Cup for the annual yacht race from Saint John to Digby. The deed of gift, drafted by the Yacht Club at the suggestion of the Digby Board of Trade, will be considered by a later meeting of the Board of Trade Council.

Former School Principal Passes

Citizens of Digby will regret to learn of the death of Bernard Chisholm, for two years principal of the Digby Academy. The late Mr. Chisholm was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. David Chisholm, of Westville, Pictou County. His death occurred at the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium, London, Ontario, Feb. 9. He was a graduate of St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish. He was principal of the Digby Academy for two years, following which he spent four years in the Kentville Sanatorium. Later he went to Toronto, where he was associated with the College of Education University in that city, and was still associated with that institution when his last illness overcame him. Burial took place in Westville, Mass being celebrated by Rev. Father Nearinc, a former classmate at St. Francis Xavier University, assisted by Rev. Father MacKenzie.

Larry Hatfield, Parrsboro, was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Linden Morehouse.

Last Sunday's Sermons

Last Sunday, called Sexagesima, at the celebration of the Holy Communion, the rector spoke from the 117th verse of the 119th Psalm, "My soul is in my hand," and "The Union of the Soul and the Body" was his theme. He said a gospel that stopped short of the whole man was inadequate.

Man is a soul but man has a body and God was interested in the physical part of man. Moreover, the body was the vehicle through which the soul expressed itself. The Christian's hand, especially, should express his soul. In the Master's touch there was healing and benediction—so it should be with the disciples'. Also since God has entrusted our souls to our hand, how carefully we should live. Where our hand is our soul is. What the hand does is evidence of the kind of soul we have within.

At evensong he spoke on "Spiritual Growth", from St. Paul's words to the church at Ephesus, "That ye may grow up with Him in all things". He pointed out that as Christians we should grow in respect to our conception of God and our conceptions of the world in which we live and toward the ideal set for us by God in His Blessed Son. The musical portion of Evensong went over very well with the five instruments supplementing the organ. A full choir was in attendance. David Daley rendered a cornet solo, "The Lost Chord". Victor Cardoza, lay reader, read the Scripture lessons—one of the finest portions of the service.

BOY SCOUTS

The Boy Scout hot-dog (feed) held in the Scout Hall last Tuesday night, was a huge success. With the presence of twenty-five Scouts, twenty-five Guides, twenty Brownies, and nineteen Cubs they finished up all of the twenty-four dozen hot-dogs and rolls. All were delighted to have the attendance of Mrs. Eaton, the District Commissioner of the Guides, Mrs. Harris and several ladies of the committees.

The "feed" was in commemoration of Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, whose birthdays were on February 22nd. The Cubs gave the "Dance of the Koa", then a song from the Brownies, by Shirley Snow; the Scouts gave a demonstration of artificial respiration and a fireman's lift race. The entertainment closed with a demonstration of Tenderfoot Tests by the Guides. The Scouts "chipped in", and with the help of Mrs. Budrow, prepared and served the hot-dogs and cocoa.

The evening closed with several songs, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Hayden on the piano, and then three rousing cheers for the ladies present.

An important feature of the Scout meeting last Friday was the formation of two new patrols: The Sea Gull Patrol, with Ted Walker as leader; Chas. MacAulay, second; Louie Daley, Gordon Comeau, L. Saulnier and Clifford Saulnier as Scouts; the Bulldog Patrol, with Peter Humpherson as leader, Gordon Barr second, and Douglas Everett, "Buster" Winchester and Gordon Comeau as Scouts.

The meeting opened at 8.00 o'clock and closed at 10.30, with Court of Honor until 11 o'clock. Ted Walker, Paul Winchester and Chas. MacAulay received their Healthy Man Badge, and the latter two their Fireman's Badge. "Bud" Collins was presented with his Second Class Badge.

There are people who bear their pains with a better grace when they think of greater sufferings on the part of other people, and so, in a dentist's chair, they keep their minds upon hospitals.

"Lazy", Get Job

This advertisement appeared in the situation wanted columns of a Cleveland newspaper: "Man, young, unreliable, dishonest, lazy, doesn't want position, but needs 1; asst. mgr., personal consultant, etc., short hours, big pay. ME, 2830." Andrew J. Babinec, 22, unemployed, inserted the ad, because he wanted to attract attention and get a job badly needed. It did attract attention, so much so that 78 persons called him on the telephone, offering jobs. Andrew is taking one with an advertising agency.

Mr. Gilbert Burrell has laid the keel of a 36 ft. motor boat. It will have an 8 ft. beam and will be fitted to accommodate passengers. This will be good news for the many tourists and others who enjoy Deep Sea fishing and water excursions on the Basin. Clementsport has needed such a boat for years. Previously it was necessary to get a boat from Deep Brook or Bear River. We prophesy a good business for Mr. Burrell this summer.

We are glad to report that the saw mill here formerly operated by Mr. Brenton Rice and for some time idle owing to the illness of Mr. Rice, is to be operated by his son, Sheldon and Mr. Vernon Elliott. In nine breeding station districts in Canada, saddle and hunter horses, and horses for police, remount, and light delivery purposes are being produced in considerable numbers. This type of horse is in keen demand in Canada and in the United States, and there is little likelihood of any decline in popularity. Horse breeding clubs among Canadian farmers increased from 125 in 1933 to 254 in 1937, while the number of purebred stallions qualifying for approval in 1937 showed an increase of 21 per cent over 1936.

(A true story)

One of our customers said recently, "Why don't you tell parents that the way to please their children is to let them open a savings account themselves? My little daughter aged six, came to her mother the other day, and said she wanted to go to the bank herself and open an account. Her mother, being wise, called up the Bank Manager, told him the story, and said that her small girl would be in to see him soon... Sure enough, in came the child, clutching a little purse. Signed her name four times (which she told her mother afterwards was foolish) and got her bank book. Did it all herself."

That young lady has the right idea. She regards the bank as HER bank. You can make it yours.

tion would doubtless save many lives. A similar regulation regarding speed over some of our dangerous bridges might also be effective.

Many folk interested in Digby have asked us "how is the new theatre coming along?" We are pleased to say the new building is well under way; the framework up and boarded in, and some work done on the interior. Mr. Walker informed us some time ago he hopes to open by the 24th of May. As we have stated before in our columns, the building will be a splendid addition to our front street, and one the town can be justly proud of, and should the same class of pictures continue to be shown as we have been enjoying for the past few years and we know that will Digby's new theatre will compare with any.

MEN BETTER LOOKING THAN WOMEN

Men are better-looking than women, even in Hollywood. Women seem better-looking, but they're not—they only look that way because they use cosmetics, hairdressers, and variegated clothes. Men seem drab by comparison because they have about the same haircut, and wear about the same things and colors. Dress women as men dress, give them men's haircuts, and they would look even less attractive than men do. Actually, men as a rule, are endowed by nature with better eyelashes, better eyebrows, better complexions than women. In a big family of boys and girls you'll find more handsome brothers than sisters.

It's nature's idea. Man, like other male animals and birds, started out to be the attractive sex, and women chose their mates. As soon as man got the notion that he was boss, and began to do the choosing, women began to make themselves as attractive as possible — and now look.

About This and That

Another of Digby's well known citizens has been laid to rest. The funeral of the late Frank Jones, K.C., took place here on Monday afternoon. We, in this office, will miss him greatly. For nearly nine years we have shared the same building for our business offices, and in those years a close bond of friendship has existed between us. We will miss his cheery "good mornings" and "good nights", his friendly banter, his comments and criticisms, his good advice and suggestions. Yes, the "squire", as he was respectfully known by young and old, rich and poor, will be missed.

Once again we would like to extend an invitation to churches and schools in Digby town, county and surrounding districts, to send us news items of interest. We like to publish them, our readers like to have them. During the past few weeks, when we have stressed church news a little more than usual, we have received many favorable comments—and a few criticisms; the latter, for the most part, have been because we have "favored" certain churches in our columns. We "favor" none—but it is impossible for us to attend all and if those interested in the work of any church will send

Canada Prepares For Gas

Equipped with the most modern of protective equipment, two Royal Canadian Regiment troopers at Montreal, Que., give a demonstration on the operation of the gas masks. Both men shown (above), are wearing gas-proof capes especially designed to exclude gas, and the long stick held by the trooper at (left), is a chemical gas detector capable of locating even a small pocket of poisonous fumes. The man at (right) is wearing a transparent face shield not visible in the picture. Demonstrations on how to operate anti-aircraft guns and to cover them with a gas-proof oil were also given by the men.

Two Men Injured While at Work in Lumber Mill

Two men bearing the same name, John Comeau, were admitted to the Digby General Hospital as the result of an accident which occurred in the lumber mill of H. T. Warne, Ltd., shortly before noon this morning, where they were employed.

Although both painfully injured, neither are in a serious condition. John Comeau, of Concession, underwent an operation at the Digby General Hospital Monday afternoon, when a piece of steel, evidently a bit of saw tooth, was removed from the angle of his jaw. The other John Comeau, of Plympton, also in Digby County, is suffering from severe bruises about the hips, legs and hands. Neither have any bones broken.

The two men were employed sawing timber, and in some unknown manner the log they were handling got out of their control, and it is thought the log carriage struck the saw, causing the accident.

ACCIDENTS FROM HANDLING OF EXPLOSIVES

A total of 129 accidents in the handling of explosives in Canadian mines, quarries and elsewhere during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1937, according to the Report for that year of the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa, which has been tabled in the House of Commons.

These accidents resulted in the death of 29 persons, and in injuries to 133 others. No accidents occurred in the manufacture, storage and conveyance of explosives.

The report also advises that playing with detonators and other explosives resulted in two deaths, and in injuries to forty-four, nearly all of whom were children of school age.

Output of high explosives showed an increase of 15 per cent over the previous year, and a slight increase was also shown in the output of fireworks.

Importation permits totaled 475, and special importation permits 34, or a total increase of 34 over the previous year.

The Gambling Mania

Our organization gives assistance to the churches in the work of inculcating in the minds of the people the truth that raffles, lotteries and other luck devices are not in accord with the principles of the Gospel, and under the guise of charity and religion degrade the idea of voluntary giving.

Convictions have been made in our courts against men who kept and maintained places to which persons resorted for the purpose of playing games of chance such as Bingo, House-House, Wheels of Fortune, Punch Boards, Whistle Boards, Slot Machines and other gambling devices, and yet in parts of the province there is open defiance of the law by charitable and other organizations. The Bingo raffle is in operation, door prizes are offered with admission to entertainments, tickets are sold for the disposal of various articles.

There is a call for education in the home, the public school, the pulpit and the press. on the question, if the youth of the province are to be safeguarded from this evil.

Attorney-General to Police.

The Attorney-General in a recent letter, (Feb. 14), to all Chiefs of Police of the Province, said:

"The Social Service Council has requested that we again call attention to the matter of Chiefs of Police and their staffs taking aggressive action with regard to the enforcement of law in the areas under their respective jurisdiction, and particularly with regard to the provisions of the Criminal Code, including those sections dealing with lotteries, gambling, betting, and other illegal practices."

New Senate Clerk?

L. Claire Moyer, who is considered most likely to be appointed to the position of clerk of the Senate at Ottawa, when A. E. to the provisions of the Criminal Code, including those sections dealing with lotteries, gambling, betting, and other illegal practices."

"It is the duty of all police officers to see that all laws in force within their jurisdiction are enforced and obeyed, and the Social Service Council has asked that attention be directed particularly to the above mentioned offences, because the practices which they prohibit are not only illegal, but injurious to the best interests of the community and especially to the young."

"It is imperative that all police officers conscientiously perform their duty in this regard and in all respects without fear or favour, and there is room for general improvement, and in some places there is definite need for greater enforcement, and the Department is pointing out generally to all police officers the necessity of giving their community a high standard of service."

It is to be noted that the Attorney-General is directing Chiefs of Police to take aggressive action with regard to the enforcement of law in the areas under their respective jurisdiction, and particularly with regard to the provisions of the Criminal Code, including those sections dealing with lotteries, gambling, betting, and other illegal practices."

"The position is not only illegal, but injurious to the best interests of the community and especially to the young."

Discouraging Outlook for Scallop Fisheries

To date the scallop fishing season out of Digby has been a most discouraging one to the fishermen here. Prices have been low, and since the beginning of the season, weather conditions have been decidedly against the scallopers. On days when the weather permits, catches have been fair, but, it is quite evident the bottom has fallen out of the American scallop market, on which so many of Digby's large scallop fleet depends.

Many of the operators say they will not drag scallops another season unless there is some prospect of higher prices. Others plan to rig up for haddock as well as scalloping, and on days when weather conditions are not suited for scallop dragging operations, they will be able to go haddocking.

The M. W. Coip, one of the Lunenburg boats, that has been scalloping out of Digby for the past five years, discontinued operations for the season, and this week sailed for home. The Coip, which usually goes sword fishing during the summer months, will likely go into fresh fishing out of Lunenburg for the remainder of the season.

Heavy Snow Storm

The worst snow storm since the winter of 1933-1934 visited Digby Monday night and early Tuesday morning, covering the ground with about a foot of snow, and in many places drifts are several feet deep. This snow storm gave Digby and vicinity its first experience with snow drifts for this winter. Government snow plows broke out the main highway early Tuesday morning, but, in rural districts, away from the pavement, communities will likely be snowbound for a few days to come, unless there is an unexpected change in weather conditions.

The World Day of Prayer will be observed in the Baptist Church hall, this afternoon, (Friday), at 3 o'clock.

BLACK HAWKS WIN FROM SMITH'S COVE

At Monday night's meeting of the town council it was voted to pay the expenses of the fire chief to Sydney should he wish to attend the annual Fire Chiefs' Convention, to be held in that city this summer.

A petition was received from town employees asking that their pay be increased to 30 cents an hour, and that payment be made twice a month instead of monthly. The matter was tabled to be dealt with at next month's meeting.

It was decided to place three new street lights on Mount Street, and another at the Racquette Corner, near Dunn's Dance Hall.

A letter was read from the Digby County Power Board, asking that a meeting of the ratepayers be called in the near future to vote on the borrowing of $35,000 for the installation of a new unit at the Weymouth Mills hydro plant. The council decided to advertise the meeting to be held on the evening of March 14th.

FARM BONUS REFUSED

True to their pacifist traditions, two Mennonites, placed on farms under the Federal farm-bonus plan, have refused to accept their cheques lest acceptance should involve them in any war.

Labor Department officials said the two received $5 cheques but promptly returned them because some one told them the whole thing was a scheme to get them involved in a war by enforcing compulsory service upon them.

Bureau of Labor officials did not wish the men to go unpaid, so wrote returning the cheques and urging the men to keep them. But the men adamantly refused.

SHROVE TUESDAY

Tuesday was Shrove Tuesday. Its name comes from an early period of British history as its name indicates, and as to shrove was to confess, the religious connection is apparent. The day is that before Ash Wednesday and not only marks the close of the pre-Lenten period but also gives to those who are to observe Lent, warning that the time of fasting, penitence and religious observance is about to open. But as the final day of a period of good-living it has not the compulsion of the days to follow. So in English tradition the pancake is related to Shrove Tuesday and it can be taken as the reminder of the passing of the pre-Lenten time, and its absence of the restraints which Lent will impose. Mardi Gras—"Greasy Tuesday"—is the French name for the day and the celebrations and lollifications of those lands which follow the Latin tradition took place. There is every reason, however, for each and everyone to give a thought to the fact that life does not consist wholly of feasting and pleasure. Duty and self-discipline are important matters in human existence. The period when they will be emphasized is about to begin.

New Hats this week at the Hat Shoppe.—Gertrude Oliver.

Digby Barrister Laid to Rest

The funeral of the late Frank Jones, K.C., whose death occurred in Edmonton, Alberta, February 21st, of pneumonia, in a hospital in that city, took place at Holy Trinity church here, on Monday afternoon, with the Rev. E. M. Caldwell, rector of the church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Rural Dean A. W. I. Smith, Clementsport, and Rev. Thomas McDormand, pastor of the First Baptist church, Amherst, assisting. During the service a beautiful solo was rendered by Fred R. Harris, of Bear River. The pallbearers were his sons, Douglas, of Edmonton; William, of Toronto; and Cecil, of Jorgin Bridge; his son-in-law, Harry Anthony, Annapolis Royal; and nephews, Henry Romans, Bear River, and William Anthony, Annapolis Royal.

Desperate Effort to Save Mr. Jones

The following, from the Edmonton Journal of February 22, was written by Aubrey Fullerton, a former editor of the Courier, now living in Edmonton:

"Frantic efforts to secure a rare serum and have it flown by aeroplane relay from New York to save the life of an Edmonton patient suffering from pneumonia failed when the salvation fluid did not arrive in Great Falls on schedule early Sunday. The patient, Frank Jones, K.C., 76, died in a city hospital early Monday. "When diagnosis revealed the sick man was afflicted with 'type three pneumonia,' Edmonton medical experts immediately wired New York laboratories for phials of a special serum discovered and tested successfully only a few weeks ago.

"Supply of the precious fluid was very limited but word was flashed back that about 100-200 units, sufficient dose for 24 hours, could be obtained. Arrangements were made to have the serum flown over American aerial routes from New York to Great Falls.

"Meantime in the city early Sunday, Pilot Harry Haver was preparing for an emergency dash across the border to pick up the serum, fly it to Edmonton in Mackenzie Air Service's fast Beechcraft, 'CF-BBB'."

"Then, just before take-off, word was flashed from Great Falls that the serum had failed to arrive, so the flight was postponed. Death of the patient early Monday was followed by cancellation of flight plans.

"Mr. Jones, the deceased, was father of Douglas Jones, 12330 104th Ave., and was visiting in the city from his home in Digby, Nova Scotia, when stricken with the rare pneumonia."

Plan Last Rites for Digby Lawyer (Edmonton Journal) Funeral service for the late Frank Jones, K.C., of Digby Nova Scotia, who died in an Edmonton hospital early Monday after a hard fight against pneumonia and an unsuccessful effort to secure serum supplies from New York by aeroplane, will be held Thursday, 8.00 p. m., at the residence of his son, Douglas Jones, and will be conducted by Rev. C. G. Stone. The body will be taken to Digby, leaving Thursday night.

Mr. Jones had come to Edmonton in mid-December to spend the winter with his son and family, intending to return home in the spring by way of the Panama. He was a meat snacker at the recent Maritime club meeting.

At 76 Mr. Jones had a record of fifty years' practice in Nova Scotia and was widely known in professional circles of that province. He trained at the law school of Dalhousie University, Halifax. This winter's visit to Edmonton was the sixth Mr. Jones had made, and he was interested both as an observer and an investor in the city's life and development. His widow, two daughters and three sons are the surviving family. One son, William, lives in Toronto. Douglas Jones, whom he was visiting in Edmonton, will accompany the remains on their way east for burial in Digby.

WILL THE NATIONS AD- OPT A NEW ONE?

In 1782 the amended Gregorian Calendar was legally adopted. An international effort is being made at present to reform the calendar again. Two hundred schemes have been submitted to the League of Nations, and now the number has been reduced to two. Of the two most favoured, one is the Desborough Calendar, so called because sponsored by Lord Desborough. In this calendar, among other suggestions, there will be one odd day every year to be called Year Day, which will come at the year end, and will not count in the calendar. Let's hope they'll make it a holiday with pay.

A FILM LIBRARY FOR POSTERITY

No one agency could have captured the shadows which have flitted across the American scene in the past 40 years as successfully as the movies with their revealing cross section of the life of their time. Accordingly, the Museum of Modern Art in New York, with a grant of nearly $100,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation, is gathering a Film Library to preserve significant films for posterity.

It is being done with difficulty. Without thinking much about it, most of us assume that the movies are as permanent as books or phonograph records. But they are not. It is a problem to preserve them. Motion picture film shrinks (some of the Pickford films have shrunk as much as three quarters of an inch to the foot); it decomposes; it is injured by too much or too little humidity. Stored away, it requires as tender care as fine wines or cheeses, and even then—experts say—it is unlikely that it will last more than 25 years, or perhaps 50 under ideal conditions.

Films chosen by the library are rephotographed onto new film, and any stained, scratched, or faded sections repaired as well as possible. If the old films have shrunk a costly process is used in which each tiny picture (16 to the foot) is enlarged separately back to normal size. About every 25 years every single foot of negative in the library will have to be rephotographed onto new film.

If your kidneys are out of order and failing to cleanse the blood of poisons and waste matter—your rest is likely suffering, too. AIR FORCE IN PLOT

The terroristic plot of "Les Cagoulards" (Hooded Men) to overthrow the Government by revolution, set up a Fascist dictatorship and ultimately restore the monarchy, led investigators recently to the high command of the French air force.

Within eighteen hours after Minister of Interior Marx Dormoy announced that the sensational expose involved leaders of the defense forces agents of the Surete Nationale seized General Edouard Dussigne, retired Commander of the air force.

Ridding the kitchen of "fishy smells" may be done very easily by burning or caramelizing a little sugar in a saucepan in the oven or on the top of the stove. A sprinkling of coffee grains on the top of the hot stove, or burning a piece of orange peel on the stove, will accomplish the same purpose. Of course, there is less spreading of cookery odours when the oven-cooking method is followed than when the frying pan is used for fish cookery.

NURSERY SWEETMEAT

To make Honey Candy—Butter a pan lightly. Put in one pound of extracted honey. Boil briskly for 20 minutes, or until honey hardens when dropped in cold water. Pour into a buttered dish, and with a knife-blade work in a teaspoonful of lemon essence. When cool enough to handle dip the fingertips in icing sugar and pull honey till opaque. Form rolls or twists and cut into pieces.

"Hear, hear!" was shouted by the troublesome member. Sheridan turned around and, thanking him for the prompt information, sat down amid a general roar of laughter.

HIS BACK ACHED FOR FOUR YEARS

Kruschen Put Him Right

For four years, this man's back ached almost continuously. Now, at 57, he starts the day fresh as a daisy, and his back aches no more. Read his story:—

"I had continuous backache for four years. I looked on the black side of everything. Now, I write with extreme gratitude for what Kruschen Salts has done for me. The freshness with which I start my day's work is perfectly marvellous. After seven days of Kruschen, I felt better and could get up immediately, without any special effort. I am 57, and my early morning dose of Kruschen is my salvation."—J. T.

The kidneys are the filters of the human machine. If they become sluggish, impurities find their way into the bloodstream and produce troublesome symptoms—backache, rheumatism, and depression. Kruschen quickly coax your kidneys back to healthy, normal action. As an immediate result you experience relief from those old dragging pains. As you persevere, you lose your pains altogether.

Work in the woods this season has been very good, the conditions for getting out lumber and wood having been excellent.

The most serious, tender, passionate love scenes are those that are projected over the footlights through suggestion, without actual contact. A man mauling a woman on the stage is a subject for laughter from the old roués and a matter of regret from the nice men. The greatest love scenes in the world are played free from physical contact—Shakespeare realized it, and the two greatest lovers in the world played a scene, the acme of tenderness, on the balcony and ground, respectively.

ter; three brothers, Oliver, of Quincy, Mass.; Alfred and John, of Mayflower, Digby Co.; one sister, Mrs. Thomas Saulnier, also in this county. The funeral took place Monday from St. Ann's church, Gloucester.

An entertainment of much interest to lovers of good music was presented in the Freeport Baptist Church on Monday evening, Feb. 28, at 8 o'clock, under the direction of Miss Phyllis Crocker, B. M., assisted by a number of her pupils and the Rev. J. G. Wakeling. The programme opened with a presentation of four organ selections played by Miss Crocker and followed by two piano selections each by Miss Jean Haines and the Messrs. Edward Weir and Blair MacNeil, the manner in which they were performed reflecting credit on both teacher and pupils. During the evening four vocal solos were rendered by Mr. Wakeling, through whose kindly co-operation this entertainment was made possible. Don't experiment with Children's Cough

Relieve Their Misery This Proved Way

WHEN your child comes down with a cold, you can't afford to take needless risks. Use the treatment that has been doubly proved for you—Vicks VapoRub.

It has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

Vicks VapoRub is direct external treatment. There's no dosing—no risk of spoiling appetite, or disturbing a delicate digestion. VapoRub can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

You simply massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back (as illustrated). Then—to make colds and coughs longer—spread a thick layer of chest and cover with a cloth.

No Long Waiting for Relief! Almost before you finish the youngster begins to cough and breathe more comfortably as VapoRub works direct through the nose like a poultice. At the same time, the vapors soothe the warm of the body, and direct to the irritated airways with every breath.

This double action loosens and soothes the throat, helps break up local congestion. And long after the little laxes into restful sleep, keeps right on working hour after hour. Often, by morning, the worst of the cold is over.

Some men can't be trusted too near—and others can't be trusted too far.

The price per pound is not an accurate method of counting the cost of a food. Tenderloin may be 45 cents a pound, a shoulder 15, yet you could not properly say that the tenderloin cost three times as much as the shoulder, because there is neither fat nor bone in the tenderloin and therefore no waste. The only accurate way to count costs is to estimate the cost per portion. That is, take the cost of your food and divide it by the number of portions it has served. If you have never done this before, you will get some surprise. Some of the foods you thought were cheap, because they cost less per pound, will be found to be more expensive than some of the things you thought were rather extravagant.

Canadian Arrested for Crossing Border on Mercy Errand

Taken into custody for illegal entry into United States, Robert Ferguson, Jr., of Napanee, Ont., was released by Federal Judge Frank Cooper, when the latter learned that Ferguson was on his way to New York to donate his blood to a sister in urgent need of a blood transfusion. Ferguson was released on his promise to return to Rouses Point, N. Y., to face the charge of illegal entry. While in New York he was "adopted" as a mascot by the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey team and watched them play New York Americans. Here Ferguson is pictured at Bellevue Hospital, N. Y. with another sister, Ida, left, and a friend, Betty Ward.

Local and Personal Items

A chimney fire in the residence of Frank Robinson called the department out yesterday. There was no damage.

While Loran Hayden was returning from Bridgewater via Halifax, this week, his car left the road in the city and struck a tree damaging the forward part considerably. He left the car in Halifax for repairs.

Rev. John Lockward, known as the oldest Anglican priest in the Diocese of Nova Scotia and believed to be the oldest in Canada, died at his home in Halifax on Wednesday. He retired from active duties about four years ago after a turn approaching Clements serving since 1915 as Halifax City Home chaplain. He was at one time rector of St. Clements parish, Clements, N.S. "Reg" Lockward, at one time manager of the Royal Bank here, is a son.

A collision between the Digby Bakery truck and the Berwick Bakery truck took place at Upper Clements Tuesday resulting in considerable damage to both trucks. The snowy condition of the road was responsible.

A postal service official has been in Concession this week arranging for the installation of a new post office in the second division of Concession, which will probably go under the name of St. Joseph.

Five Digby people, returning from a hockey match in Annapolis Royal on Monday night narrowly escaped death when their car failed to make a turn approaching Clements port bridge. All received bad cuts and bruises and were given first aid at Will Westham's home. The car was driven by Fred Harvie. A blinding snow squall is blamed for the accident.

DIGBY DEFEATED IN BRIDGEWATER

(Bridgewater Bulletin)

The V-8's showed a large crowd that they are a powerful machine when ploughing through slush as they defeated the Digby Juniors 4-3 here Monday night with almost impossible ice conditions. But it was the old story of stage and rink—the show must go on. Bridgewater eliminated their adversaries by the total score of 10 to 6.

Crouse Scores Three Goals

The very bad condition of the playing surface made team play futile. Therefore, the combatants more or less had to resort to haphazard solo rushes that produced quite a few lively episodes for those assembled. The Ravens, as a whole, seemed to adapt themselves to circumstances more effectively than the V-8's. I would say that the visitors had a distinct territorial advantage throughout the contest. The Digby players showed a very effective defensive system by forcing the entire Bridgewater troops back into their own territory—where they continually harassed "Much Man" Hirtle with bouncing angle shots. But when the V-8's attackers broke loose, which was quite infrequent, they were very dangerous, as their shooting was very accurate and forced the Digby net custodian to make many spectacular stops. Ernie Crouse was the V-8's man at the wheel—he was the driving force that carried Bridgewater to victory—he scored three of the local juniors' four goals as the result of very smart individual attacks. Douglas Hubley, who worked hard and well all evening, broke the 33 score which prevailed in the third period with a furious rush and a bullet shot for which he is justly famous.

Extra! Extra! V-8's Given Money by Losers

One of the inevitable angles of competitive sport is that one of the contenders must be a loser. Bitter rancor toward the triumphant aggregation is unfortunately often manifested by their victims. Consequently, Jack Jordrey, the V-8's secretary-treasurer, almost fopped when Mr. Webber, promoter of junior hockey in Digby, gave the V-8's $5.00 as a contribution towards further playdown expenses. Naturally, the local lads registered much gleeful surprise in appreciation of Mr. Webber's very generous gesture. We can assure Mr. Webber that the entire V-8's personnel consider him a gentleman and a scholar.

One day one of the greatest bibles of the Players Club said to Oliver Herford, "Oliver, I have been grossly insulted. Just as I passed that crowd over there I overheard someone say he would give me $50 to resign from the club."

"Hold out for a hundred," counseled Mr. Herford, "you'll get it."

Presentation to Departing Parishioners

On Tuesday afternoon the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary held their Dorcas Tea at the residence of Miss Effie Adams. A good number were present and a delightful and profitable afternoon was enjoyed by all. The proceeds of the tea were considerably more than the previous year, which was very gratifying. Mrs. Ralph Berwick, the Dorcas secretary of the W. A., deserves great credit for the splendid interest she has taken in this portion of the Women's Auxiliary work in our church. One feature of the afternoon's programme was a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Berwick of a nice travelling case and steamer rug, as they are leaving within the next week for their home in England. On behalf of the Vestry, the Choir, the W. A. and the Guild, the rector presented them with the above tokens of appreciation expressing the hope that after a pleasant holiday in the Old Country they would come back again to Digby. Both Mr. and Mrs. Berwick have been splendid workers in the church and they will be greatly missed from among us.

Ash Wednesday Services

On Ash Wednesday there was a celebration of the Holy Communion at the hour of 8.00 a.m., and evensong at 7.00 p.m. Fair congregations were present at both services. It is hoped that during the Holy Season of Lent more of our people will avail themselves of the opportunity of attending the mid-week service. Lent is a season in the Christian year when as good Anglican Christians we should draw aside as much as possible to the contemplation and the study of Holy Things. It is a season of penitence and re-dedication, and as such we should regard it. We should keep it as free as possible from worldly encroachments. During the season the rector will speak on a series of sermons entitled, "The Dedicated and the Consecrated Life."

Day of Prayer for Women

Today, being the World Day of Prayer for Women, there will be no Junior W. A. The women of our church will join with those of the United and Baptist churches in the prayer service at the Baptist hall. It is hoped many of our ladies may see their way clear to participate in a service of this kind.

The A. Y. P. A.

The A. Y. P. A. will meet this evening in the Parish Hall under the leadership of the Missionary committee, Victor Cardoza and Miss Jean Robinson will conduct the program.

The Bishop's Lenten Pastoral

Last Sunday's services were very well attended. Matins were said at the 11.00 o'clock service and the Rector read the bishop's Pastoral in place of the sermon, which is customary on the Sunday call of Quinquagesma, or the Sunday next before Ash Wednesday. His Lordship's Lenten appeal was in the nature of a call to devotion and sacrifice to the work of the building up of the Kingdom of God, or an earnest recall to the Christian attitude to Life and Service.

At Evensong the subject, in keeping with the day, was "Christian Charity" from the 1st Cor. XIII:13: "Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three, but the greatest of these is love". The rector, in the course of his remarks, spoke of charity as a word of unusual significance and of worldwide application. He said

Hints On Fashion

Tweeds and Checks are Correct and Pleasing for Outdoor Activities This Spring

To be properly dressed; not just smartly dressed or even becomingly dressed—but dressed for the occasion. That is the aim of women of good taste. They choose all their clothes in the colors and styles that become them, and then they take from these clothes the garments that are just right for the occasion on which they are to be worn.

Spectator sports clothes is a term to cover a multitude of occasions. You may be walking in the country and correctly wear this type of dress, just as you may be viewing a horse race, dog race, a football game or tennis match. Casual clothes is another term that means much the same.

A casual or spectator sports costume is shown here. It is a green hand-knitted suit with fine lined wide check. With it is worn a simple felt hat with cross-grain it wasn't a narrow world which smacked of institutions and societies given to mere organized benevolence. It was a word that spoke of love, devotion and service in God's Kingdom. First of all it captured the soul of a man and then sent that man out with widened horizons, deepened sympathies and love for all mankind irrespective of barriers—racial, national or social—that so obviously afflict our world today.

Marshalltown and Rossway

At 3.00 o'clock Sunday afternoon the Marshalltown service was conducted by Lay Reader Victor Cardoza, while the rector and several members of the choir went to All Saints' Church in Rossway. Mr. Thomas Rowlet, chapel warden at Rossway, has recently had a new font installed in the church and a beautiful pair of Eucharistic candle sticks. The church presents a beautiful and worshipful appearance within. Practically all the furniture is new and a new pulpit is anticipated in the near future. Mr. Rowlet and those who work hand in hand with him deserve high credit for the great interest taken in the old, yet lovely, church.

"CLARION" OFFICE RAIDED

Quebec Provincial Police raided the Montreal office of the Toronto newspapers, "The Daily Clarion" recently, and seized 700 copies of the paper along with other publications and documents.

In the Park Avenue office, police said, they found also a few copies of the Montreal French weekly, "Clarite" (light) whose office and printing plant were locked up a fortnight ago under Quebec's "padlock" law aimed at stamping out Communistic propaganda.

IN MEMORIAM—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Charles S. Malling, who departed this life, February 21, 1937.

Deep in our hearts lies a picture Of a loved one gone to rest; In memory's frame we shall keep it.

Because he was one of the best, Our lips cannot tell how we loved him. Our hearts cannot tell what to say.

God only knows how we miss him, As we tread along life's way. He will never be forgotten Though on earth he is no more; But in memory he will be with us As he always was before.

relationship between the common cold and pneumonia. The respiratory tract is continuous from the nose down to the smallest branches of the bronchial tubes in the lungs. A cold is an infection of the upper part of the respiratory tract, and neglect of the common cold is often followed by an infection of the lower part of the respiratory tract, which is pneumonia.

Preventing pneumonia means keeping fit. Dress properly, and enjoy some form of outdoor life the year round. Secure sufficient rest and fresh air; do not become overfatigued, and, by dressing according to the temperature and the weather, avoid exposure to cold and wet. Use some green vegetables and fresh fruits every day during the winter; your body needs them. Shun coughers and sneezers. Wash your hands before eating, and keep your hands away from your face. Take care of a cold if you develop one. Keep away from sick people unless you are caring for them, and then take the precautions that are necessary in dealing with a communicable disease.

2-WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

The speed with which "Aspirin" tablets relieve the distressing symptoms of colds and accompanying sore throat is utterly amazing. . . . and the treatment is simple and pleasant. This is all you do. Crush and dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back. This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain vanishes promptly; rawness is relieved. You will say it is remarkable. And be few cents it costs effects a big saving over expensive "throat gargles" and strong medicines.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

varying in altitude from 100 to 5,000 feet above sea level. Imagine road conditions ranging from sharp stone to hub-deep mud, and temperature variations from zero to 120, and you have a picture of the rigours under which the Los Angeles-Boulder Dam power line is patrolled.

Under these conditions, and over these punishing roads, moves day and night the 34-man force of linemen whose responsibility it is to see that the flow of Boulder Dam power to the homes, factories, schools and hospitals of the public's fifth largest city is uninterrupted. The high-tension line is strung from 2,700 steel towers.

The patrolmen travel in 14 chevrons, fitted with oversize tires and short-wave radio. And into their daily work is packed a wealth of drama and adventure which they accept unemotionally and without comment.

Blizzards and snowdrifts, sandstorms, landslides, cloud-bursts, washouts, dust-storms, fogs and freezing sleet are only a few of the hazards which beset the hardy force engaged on this work. But their record is unsullied, and for this Chief Patrolman James Joyce, gives credit to three factors: expert linemen-patrolmen; good organization, and the proven stamina and dependability of their Chevrolet radio-cars.

A Million Safe Miles
One million miles of driving over a period of forty years without a single accident, is the remarkable record established by Captain Ed. Shank, of Napanee, Ont.

To his amazing feat of sustained safe driving, Captain Shank has added refreshing modesty, and he is on record as having said: "It is nothing; it is just what any driver should be able to say at the end of 40 years."

This remark followed the sending to Shank of a gold emblem and a letter of congratulation by C. E. McTavish, General Sales Manager of General Motors Products of Canada. "This gold emblem," wrote Mr. McTavish, "is the highest award given to drivers in the General Motors safety organization. It signifies that the driver has made an outstanding contribution to safety on our highways by careful and efficient operation of his car under all conditions."

Explorer Dead

From the inland jungles of British Guiana word reached civilization of the death of Dr. Frederick T. Fox (above), Ontario-born New York scientist, who was with the Waldeck expedition searching for Paul Redfern, missing U. S. flier. The report said that Fox died on Devil's Hole Island from exposure, while the rest of the party went for help. The remaining members of the expedition are safe.

Safety propaganda in recent years has materially reduced the proportion of motor vehicles being driven in Canada on unsafe tires, but many drivers still operate cars and trucks on rubber which is a menace not only to themselves but to every other driver on the road.

Under brake application on sharp turns, only tire-treads stands between the vehicle and the danger of a skid. And at high speeds a worn, patched tube and casing simply cannot be relied upon, and blowouts are a momentary peril.

Continuing to use a tire that has passed the point of common safety is more than just poor economy; it is often suicidal.

Car Ordered by Air
A unique method of sending in an order for a new motor car was used by A. A. Zeller, of 11 Northumberland Road, Johannesburg, South Africa. He employed short wave radio to buy a new Pontiac.

Since the factory at Pontiac, Mich., is without radio equipment, the South African radio enthusiast exchanged messages with Rev. Theo Kowalewski, pastor of St. Joseph Catholic Church in Pontiac, who operates a short wave set. The priest relayed the order to the Pontiac Sales Manager.

Detroit's Official Car
The Cadillac Sixteen became the official car of the City of Detroit recently when a new sedan was purchased for Mayor Richard W. Reading. The machine is a seven-passenger Imperial with a glass partition separating the front and rear compartments. Fittings include a new type of electrical communicating telephone to the driver's seat.

Almost every nation except the United States claims to have invented the game of billiards.

"I sure work better after a good lunch"

"WHEN I have to carry my lunch to work I am always thankful my wife bakes bread with REGAL Flour. No other bread I've ever tasted is so satisfying, and believe me that's very important when a man's doing heavy work. My wife says it's because REGAL has more solid nourishment in it than ordinary flour. Believe me, REGAL makes bread that tastes better, too."

us brief items of interest, concerning any activity of the church, they will find a welcome place in our columns. The amount of space occupied depends entirely on the church. If one church reporter sends in enough copy for a column, and another only sends in two or three lines we cannot very well be accused of "favoritism" because one church occupies more space than the other. The same applies to the schools. But we must make it clear that advance notices for any function at which an admission is charged, or which is for the purpose of raising money in any other way, is advertising and will be charged for at the paper's regular rates. It is not "news" until after the event has taken place. Any such items sent in will be published and charged to the sender. Advertising is a newspaper's merchandise, and we cannot be expected to give away our merchandise any more than any merchant can be expected to give his.

Reporters are often "damned" because they do not always go to the direct source of information for news items. However, that is not always the fault of the reporter, who has frequently learned the "direct source" is often the least reliable. Accidents have been known to happen in Digby, and the reporter has sought information from parties who should be best acquainted with the facts, and it appears to him, received nothing but a lot of deliberate misinformation. It may have been for the purpose of preventing so-called "unfavorable publicity", yet, nevertheless, if a reporter has a "story" to get he will usually get the true facts from some source, therefore, it is better that the true facts come from the parties most interested. And strange to say, when others are involved in news stories, it is usually those who have "nothing to say", or nothing but a lot of misinformation to give, who blame the newspaper the most when their versions do not quite coincide, or if the paper inadvertently makes some mistake in reporting the story.

On Monday our good friend, Arthur S. Sweeney, made his last return crossing from Saint John to Digby, on the C. P. S., Princess Helene. Mate Sweeney signed off at Saint John on his return Monday night, it being his wish to "sign off" at the same port at which he "signed on". He has completed 27 years' service on the Saint John to Digby run, and 43 years' service altogether, joining first with the Yarmouth Steamship Company, which was later taken over by the D. A. R. and still later by the C. P. R. Mate Sweeney has made a host of friends in Digby and Saint John, and of those who have made crossings between these ports. "It has always been my ambition to make friends," he has been known to say. In this we know he has succeeded, for his great wealth of friendships is one that is admired by all. We join with all his friends in wishing him many years of health and happiness in which to enjoy his well earned retirement.

Three words, "Is It British?" are given considerable credit for changing the buying habits of people in Great Britain during the "Buy British" campaign held five years ago as one result of which a noted American writer claimed the unemployment total was reduced by 649,000 in three months after the scheme had been in force for one year. Spasmodic efforts have been made to introduce a similar campaign in Canada with the idea that Canada could reduce the number receiving unemployment relief and agricultural aid which, in 1937, amounted to 753,714, apart altogether from those receiving aid from private charity. Efforts are now being made to resuscitate this plan in the Dominion in which event it is considered likely the three words, "Is It Canadian?" will become a popular phrase in the mouths of the buying public.

given a pleasant surprise by the members, when they presented her with a nice gift and a beautifully decorated birthday cake.

A large congregation attended the service held in the Baptist Church on Sunday morning, Feb. 13, when the pastor, Rev. F. E. Bishop, dedicated an organ, the gift of Cant. and Mrs. C. W. Crosscup, who have been faithful members of that church for many years. A pleasing feature during the service was a solo by Blair Hatfield accompanied by Mrs. R. T. Chisholm at the new organ.

About This and That

It has been a long time since we have written anything of our volunteer fire brigade. We are glad to state, also, that there have been several months since they have had a fire of any consequence to fight—and we hope it will be many months more before they are called out.

Nevertheless there have been numerous chimney fires and during the past few months the department has been called out time and time again, at any hour of the day or night, for these fires, which, but for the prompt action of the department, might have led to more serious trouble.

Yet, whenever there is a fire of any description, we doubt if there are many departments in the province, even including those with a permanent staff, that can answer a call with greater speed than our Digby Fire Department.
The truck motor is usually turning over before the final blast of the siren dies away, and in less than two minutes after the alarm is given (in actual timing), the truck has left the fire hall and is on its way.

Digby's Fire Department is a credit to the town, and deserves praise. The driver, Fred Muise, is entitled to an extra "pat on the back".

We were prompted to write the above lines after watching their quick "get away" for a chimney fire in the south end of the town, last Thursday afternoon.

"Peace Years"

(Legionary)

The Great War of 1914-1915 was "the war to end wars"—but since November 11th, 1918, there has been active strife between nations in all parts of the world. Here is a list of the conflicts which seem to make a mockery of the sacrifices of 1914-18:

Galicia, 1918-19—Poles and Ukrainians fought for control of Eastern Galicia, the struggle ending in the area being awarded to Poland.

Ireland, 1912-21—Sporadic and blood-thirsty guerilla fighting in Ireland between Republicans and British "black and tans".

Russia, 1919—Red Russia crushed the White Russians who were led by Admiral Kolchak in Siberia, General de Millar in North Russia, General Denikin in the South, and General Yudenich in Estonia—all of whom were supported by the Allies.

Morocco, 1919-22—Spanish war in the Riff country of Morocco.

Arabia, 1916-26—War between Ibn Saud and King Hussein, the latter being de-throned.

Poland, 1920—Russia attacked Poland and threatened Warsaw—the Poles inflicting a heavy defeat upon the attackers.

Armenia, 1920—Turkey attacked the Armenian Republic and opened up a direct route to Russia.

China, 1920-26—Warfare among rival generals and armies in China.

Asia Minor, 1921-22—Invasion of Asia Minor by the Greeks, who were finally defeated by the Turks after a battle lasting continuously for a month. During this Smyrna was destroyed. The damage was estimated at $50,000,000 and thousands of people were massacred.

Syria, 1925—Druse Rebellion in Syria against French control.

South America, 1925-35—Long-drawn-out war between Bolivia and Paraguay over rival claims to territory of Gran Chaco. Huge loss of life.

China, 1926-28—More war in China.

Manchuria, 1931-32—Japan invaded Manchuria, defeating and driving out the Chinese ruler, Marshal Chang Hsiang-ling, and setting up a puppet Emperor while retaining full control for themselves.

China, 1932—Hostilities between Japanese and Chinese forces at Shanghai with terrific loss of life and $70,000,000 damage to the city.

Abyssinia, 1935-36—Italy invaded Abyssinia.

Spain, 1936—Spanish War—still continuing.

China, 1937—Japanese and Chinese again in conflict—still continuing.

UPPER CLEMENTS

Mrs. S. M. Swiber was hostess at a delightful birthday party on Wednesday, March 2nd, in honour of her sister, Miss Ruth Balcomb. The evening was spent in playing crokinole, after which refreshments were served.

Mrs. Reginald Thomas was called to Greywood last week to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Avar Oard, whom we are sorry to report are both critically ill.

There was no school held on Tuesday, owing to the absence of the teacher, Miss Chipman, who attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Chas. Chipman, of Halifax.

Capt. M. S. Swiber made a very short visit to his home here on Thursday of last week, returning the same day to New York accompanied by Mrs. Swiber.

Ramblings of a Rolling Stone

In the remote event that anyone may be harboring the idea that the whole tribe of "Witless Mambas" are to be found in the ranks of those who blindly follow the "gas illuminated" pathways marked out by would-be Joshuas of today, let me say that this condition is an extremely common one: more widespread than the "flu", more devastating than any pestilence and as hopelessly incurable as the leprosy.

Since the first of December the majority of the mills on this coast have been silent. This long shut-down is partly due to the "recession", which by the way, is only one letter short of being a depression, but the outstanding reason is the fact that many of the mill unions changed their allegiance from the A. F. of L. to the C. I. O., which action resulted in a boycott, by the carpenters' Union, of all the other produced in those mills where the unions had severed their first love. Practically all the mills in which the employees remained faithful to the older organization have continued to operate in spite of the slump in business. In spite of this fact and the additional one that several mills which have returned to the A. F. of L. fold have resumed operation we were edified by the following spectacle a week ago:

"Led by a sound car with music issuing from its loud speakers, 145 men and 49 women and children, sympathizers and members of labor organizations, staged a protest parade last Saturday morning against 'industry's sit-down strike.' Although all Willapa Harbor unions were invited to participate in the peaceful demonstration, many more members stood by and watched the movements with inactive interest.

Several banners proclaimed reasons for the parade and stated the policy of the organizations which staged the march. One banner, carried by a small boy, proclaimed: "My daddy is locked out." Others stated in large block letters that: "We are 100 per cent for the New Deal"; "The port is open. Where is the lumber?"; and "We protest the bosses sit-down strike."

Less than ten per cent of their claimed membership took part in the parade and it served as useful a purpose as the shooting of arrows and the throwing of coconuts indulged in by the inhabitants of some of the South Sea Islands during an eclipse as they sought to frighten away the demon who was swallowing the sun.

Exhibit number two is equally enlightening and might easily be enlarged upon without any violence to the truth: Two strikes this week caused operations to be halted on the $58,000 bridge project, and the proo logging camp, when demands of unions could not be met by those in charge of the construction and the operators of the camp.

Demands for $1 an hour and a 30-hour week, made by the A. F. of L. hodcarriers' union employed on the bridges between Raymond and Lebar, caused the Warrant North West Ins., of Portland to be delayed in their work. The company had been paying 75 cents an hour on a 40-hour week scale.

The two strikes bring the total up to three for the past two weeks. The first strike, as on a WPA job at the Little creek tunnel project, when workers were informed that they had been reclassified into a lower pay bracket, than "tunnel workers doing their own timbering." All of the timbering was completed, according to J. E. Buckingham, city engineer, but the men contended that their work was dangerous and that they were entitled to the higher pay classification. The WPA officials suspended the project indefinitely as soon as word of the strike reached them.

These clippings are from the columns of the Raymond Herald, of Feb. 25, and show clearly the trend of things in this part of the world.

In contrast to man's hit-and-miss performance, the seasons follow each other in orderly procession, making their circuit as calmly and as steadily as the Great Dipper swings round the Polar Star. The aquatic swing bands are on the air every night; the robin is flaunting his crimson vest, the meadow lark and the blackbird are spending a few days with us en route to their summer home farther north; a cheery, chattering group of welcome visitors.

While nature hangs out many banners heralding the season's change, there is a surer sign, one which more nearly touches and more deeply thrills the very heart of man. Some may be callous, blind, and fail to recognize the signals nature gives of the impending change—but where the man so hardened that he feels no thrill comparing this with last month's lightning bill!!!

A Chinese Bishop Speaks

(From the Living Church, New York)

Bishop Tsen, of Honan, who was in attendance at the Nova Scotia General Synod last August, at the conclusion of a service of Holy Communion on board the S. S. "Empress of Japan," delivered the following moving exhortation just before the Benediction.

We are happy to pass it on to our readers:

Brothers in Christ, I exhort you, now that you have had Communion with our Saviour, keep forever steadfast in that Communion in heart, in soul, in mind, in every fibre of your being.

Remaining steadfast in that spirit, I exhort you, bethink yourselves of the suffering people of Spain, where brother is committing crime against brother because of blindness of our Master's will, led by passion and by ignorance. And I exhort you ever to remain steadfast and firm in your Communion so that your eyes will always be open to our Master's will, and that you will never do ought in thought, word, or deed which will promote or cause such human misery.

Brethren, I exhort you at this time to bethink yourselves of the weeping women of Japan—mothers weeping for sons who will never return, wives for husbands who are gone forever. I exhort you to bethink yourselves of the desolation and the grief of the orphaned children of Japan— orphaned in a cause in which the people of Japan have no heart.

Brethren, I exhort you to bethink yourselves of the boys of Japan, sent against their will by a ruthless military spirit to do things in a foreign land against which their souls and hearts revolt. I exhort you to bethink yourselves at this time of thousands of those poor boys who even now are lying in torture and maimed, and whose life's blood is now being drunk by a foreign soil.

Brethren, I exhort you to bethink yourselves of those of us who are far from our native land, whose dear ones are in the midst of an inferno of death and destruction, whose fate we know not of. Pray for us; pray that we may maintain in this dark hour that spirit of brotherly love and compassion for which our Lord Saviour gave His life.

Brethren, I exhort you to bethink yourselves of those of us who are far from our native land, whose dear ones are in the midst of an inferno of death and destruction, whose fate we know not of. Pray for us; pray that we may maintain in this dark hour that spirit of brotherly love and compassion for which our Lord Saviour gave His life.

Unofficial Diplomat?

Rumors in diplomatic circles at Rome have it that Lady Chamberlain, (above), widow of Sir Austen Chamberlain and sister-in-law of the British Premier, did no small part in preparing the ground for an Anglo-Italian agreement. Italian Foreign Minister Ciano is reported to have told one diplomat that England and Italy would reach an understanding "when her brother-in-law (indicating Lady Chamberlain) gives the signal". Lady Chamberlain has spent several months in Rome and has reportedly had interviews with Premier Mussolini.

Lord Saviour gave His life.

Brethren, I exhort you to bethink yourselves of the suffering people in my native land of China, in terror, driven from their homes to wander as strangers about the land; thousands of whom are now maimed and helpless. I exhort you to bethink yourselves of little children, wounded and crying for a mother's aid and comfort, with the mother lying with eyes glazed in death and lips stilled so that never more can they give a mother's comfort.

Brethren, I exhort you always and ever to maintain your Communion with our Lord, ever to remain steadfast and faithful to His teachings, so that always, in your lives, your hearts, your minds, your acts, you will do those things which will bring to suffering humanity that peace of God which passeth all understanding.

With the Scallopers

It is largely with the hope of better prices during the Lenten season that more of the Digby scallop fleet have not suspended operations for the season. The scallopers are "up against it", with weather and prices against them, and few of the boats are making expenses and many are operating at a loss.

There seems to be a feeling that the Lenten season will bring better prices, despite the fact that it was during the Lenten season of 1937 that the decline in the price of scallops began, and they have never returned to normal.

This week has been a disappointing one. On Tuesday and Wednesday the boats ventured through the Gut but many returned to port without putting a drag over. Those who did fish did not get more than a barrel to show for their two trips. Last week, on Friday, the boats made a pretty fair haul.

Scallop dragging must be carried out in almost ideal weather conditions. The fisherman gathers his harvest from the floor of the ocean sinking his heavy steel mesh drags (nets or rakes, whichever one prefers to call them) to depths of 100 feet and over. The drags themselves are heavy, but when they come up, to be dumped on the decks of the small craft, the weight is increased by hundreds of pounds. The basket like drags are hauled over the bottom and collect large rocks and other ocean refuse—and, if they are dragging over a good scallop bed, a few pounds of scallops; but their main content is rock—and heavy ones.

It is a risky business at any time, and there is always danger of capsizing boats when the heavy laden drags are hoisted from the bottom, even when weather conditions are the best; and when the sea is choppy, the risk is too great to undertake. Very frequently it happens as it has twice this week, that the Annapolis Basin is as calm as the proverbial mill pond, and the scallopers, encouraged by prospects of good weather, venture forth through the Gut to the scallop beds located several miles out in the Bay of Fundy, only to meet with impossible weather.

Before going to press last night we were advised that the price of scallops had advanced to 18 cents per lb., on the American markets, which is regarded as a good price at this season. The trouble is there are very few scallops to sell at that price, and doubtless when weather conditions become favorable and even a fair quantity of scallops are shipped, the price will take the usual drop.

Obituary

Cranston DeB. Millidge

A wide circle of friends in Digby will regret to learn of the death of Cranston DeBlois (Pete) Millidge, who passed away suddenly at his home in Saint John on Tuesday afternoon. He was a member of No. 2 Salvage Corps, of St. John, and agent for fire trucks and equipment.

Sister Katherine Margaret

Daughter of the late Rev. John Ambrose, former rector of Digby, Sister Katherine Margaret, member of the Anglican Sisterhood, died in Boston a week ago Saturday. She joined the Sisterhood fifty years ago and was the oldest member of the Ambrose family of eight sons and daughters, only three of whom are now living, Miss Charlotte, in Boston; Rev. George, Halifax, and Edward, in Alberta.

Amasa N. Eldridge

There are many who will mourn the passing of Amasa N. Eldridge, whose death occurred at Sandy Cove, early yesterday morning. The late Mr. Eldridge was proprietor of Hillcote Farm at Sandy Cove, one of the pioneer summer hotels on Digby Neck. In his career as a hotel proprietor he has made countless friends from all sections of United States and Canada. A man of sterling character, he was deeply interested in the affairs of the community, and has done much for the benefit and development of Sandy Cove and of Digby Neck in general. He was a member and devoted worker in the United Church of Canada. He was born at Sandy Cove, 72 years ago this week, and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Eldridge. Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Annie Lent, of Barton; and two sisters, Mrs. A. A. Hooper and Miss Annie Eldridge, of Sandy Cove. A brother, Captain John Eldridge, was drowned several years ago.

Theopolis Melanson

On Saturday afternoon, the 5th, inst., Plympton lost one of its well known and respected citizens, in the passing of Theopolis Melanson, after a lingering illness. Mr. Melanson was born in Plympton, Digby County, in 1869, son of the late Henry and Natilie Melanson. His life was spent in Plympton, and he, in former years, was foreman in the surrounding lumber woods. He also carried His Majesty's mail for eight years, after which he was engaged as foreman on the main highway between Barton and Gilbert's Cove. He was of a jovial disposition and took part in many social activities of the village. He is survived by his wife, formerly Lena Trahon, of Plympton, four daughters, Mrs. James Doucette, Mrs. Donald Amerault, both of Plympton; Mrs. Wm. White, of Salem, Mass.; Mrs. William Brady, of New York; four sons, Wilfred, of Concord, Mass.; Hughis, Frank and Philip, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Henry Doucette and Mrs. Frank Doucette, Plympton; and three brothers, Freeman, of Fall River, Mass.; James, of Albany, N. Y.; and Charles, of Plympton; also twenty-four grandchildren. The funeral was held from St. Croix church, Rev. Father Gaudet officiating.

W. Cleveland Harlow

The funeral of W. Cleveland Harlow, Lawrencetown, Annapolis County, was held in Clementsport, on Wednesday of last week at 3 o'clock. It was to have been on Tuesday but owing to the storm on Monday night, the Boston boat did not dock until noon, and the body was held in Yarmouth until Wednesday. Mr. Harlow left his home in Lawrencetown, Dec. 7, to enter the New Eneland Baptist Hospital for treatment. His wife joined him Dec. 17 and remained with him until the end. The service was in the Baptist Church with Rev. C. F. Robinson officiating, assisted by Rev. E. O. Hamble of Lawrencetown. The funeral tributes were especially lovely. The music was under the

SORE THROAT

Relieves THROAT PAIN RAWNESS

Enters Body Through Stomach and Intestines to Ease Pain

The speed with which "Aspirin" tablets act in relieving the distressing symptoms of colds and accompanying sore throat is utterly amazing... and the treatment is simple and pleasant. This is all you do. Crush and dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back.

This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain eases promptly; rawness is relieved.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

A damage suit for $2,500,000 against the former Emperor Haile Selassie, of London, which—if it does nothing else—may show how much cash the Negus of Ethiopia has on hand, has been filed in British courts.

Leo Chertok, who claimed to have arranged a deal for Ethiopian oil concessions between the Emperor, and the Standard Oil Company of New York during the last days of resistance to Italy's invading army, is behind it. He said it would be for alleged damages sustained by the downfall of negotiations on the supposed oil deal and includes 28,000 pounds (about $140,000) which Chertok says the ex-Emperor owes him.

He said if the suit is successful he will then institute bankruptcy proceedings designed to force a declaration of Haile Selassie's legal assets and liabilities, and clear up his financial status.

Another result of the suit, Chertok explained, will be to determine whether Haile Selassie still is Emperor of Ethiopia.

"Haile Selassie claims he is poverty stricken," Chertok said, "and hasn't sufficient food or enough water for his bath. I know different. They have plenty of money."

"I personally saw stored in London sacks of gold stacked to the ceiling. I have since been informed the gold has been delivered to Selassie."

MOISTURE FROM SNOW BANKS

Taking advantage of the bountiful supply of snow this winter, some Saskatchewan farmers have been ploughing the snow into furrows on their wheat fields in order to conserve moisture for next summer's crops.

Andrew MacBeth, who owns farm lands in the Regina district, stated recently that he has ploughed the snow in windrows across his fields. Last summer he noticed that the crops near fences, where snow drifts during the winter, were greener than they were in midfield, so this winter he has made artificial drifts through the fields to catch additional snow.

RESCUED "ALE" AND "PORTER"

Two kittens in trouble required international co-operation before they could be rescued. Cecil Ople, Canadian National Railways checker, heard plaintive cries from within a box car, grain laden, which had arrived from St. Louis. The car being in bond, it was necessary to obtain authorization of the United States customs officials to break the seals and open the doors. Permission being given, the doors were opened and officials found two scrappy kittens. They were fed, adopted and named "Ale" and "Porter" because their first feast of milk was served from an ash tray advertising these brewery products.

Mother of Five Who Was Always Tired

Now Awakes as Fresh as a Daisy

A mother of five has a lot to do. Especially a country mother. And this one was "always tired." But Kruschen ended all that—now she gets up, feeling fresh, at five o'clock in the morning! She writes:

"I and Kruschen Salts the best thing money can buy for my health. I am the mother of five children, and before taking Kruschen, I was always feeling tired and run down. Now, I am glad to say that I get up feeling fresh—and I get up at five o'clock in the morning. I do my house work, look after my children, and leave the house at 6.30 to start my daily work."

(Mrs.) B. Tiredness and that run-down feeling can be traced to one root cause. That cause is internal sluggishness; failure to keep the inside free from poisonous, waste matter.

Kruschen Salts is an excellent recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The numerous salts in Kruschen stimulate your internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your inside is thus kept clear of those impurities which, when allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

THE SALVATION ARMY

Prison Sunday
On Sunday, the 20th, the Salvation Army will hold its annual "Prison Sunday" meetings in all, or most of the penal institutions in Canada. In view of the public interest in remedial work among prisoners we are publishing the following item of news which has been handed us:

"The Salvation Army operates in 95 countries and is a League of Nations which for works of benevolence is solidly united. The following story shows how tangled the skein of life can become, and how the Army's international scope helps it to unravel life's tangled circumstances:

"A man convicted of murder was sentenced to imprisonment for life. After twenty years' imprisonment in the Kingston Penitentiary he was granted parole. He worked in a Salvation Army institution until age prevented further employment. Application was made for an old age pension. But he was a non-naturalized Russian so it could not be granted. An effort was made to secure naturalization papers. For this a birth certificate was necessary. A letter was sent to the Salvation Army in Germany and a German officer visited the old man's home town in Russia and obtained the document. But papers of citizenship were again refused on the ground of a criminal record. The Salvation Army took the case to the Department of Justice at Ottawa, and it was made possible for the poor old man to become a naturalized Canadian, a recipient of the old age pension, and to spend his remaining years in peace."

The Guild
On Tuesday afternoon the Guild met at the home of Mrs. Edgar Cowan, on First Avenue. Some fourteen ladies were present with their sewing. During the meeting the question of the church's budget apportionment to the diocese was brought up and $143.73 was voted towards it, which amount was to be paid at once. They also assumed an additional $196.77 to be paid in August. While the Guild is essentially a parochial organization, yet it purposed to assist in the extra-parochial work of the church. The wardens wish to express their thanks to the ladies of the Guild for their devoted interest in this important matter. Refreshments were also served by the hostess.

The Vestry

The Vestry met at the Rectory on Tuesday evening, with the rector presiding. Those present were Warden Merkel, Mr. Fritz Dakin, Dr. G. V. Turnbull, Harry Turnbull, Garfield Hayden and George Cardoza. It was proposed to build a new outside cellar way and porch on the Rectory, which will be planned and looked after by J. W. Merkel. A letter of appreciation was read in reply to the night letter sent Bishop Philip Cook, of Delaware, by the Corporation last month, expressing their deep concern over his recent serious operation.

Mid-Week Lenten Service

The mid-week Lenten service on Wednesday evening was very well attended. The rector spoke on "The Will of God" which he interpreted as obedience, growth in righteousness, and as activity in carrying out God's purposes in society. He said the Will of God was not something to be resigned to but something to be done. After the 16th the hour of these services will be changed to 8.00 o'clock as there are many who find it too early.

The A. Y. P. A.

A special meeting of the A. Y. P. A. was held in the Parish Hall on Thursday evening for the purpose of enrolling new members. Miss Lois Walker, president, led the meeting, while Victor Cardoza, Lucille Cormack and Helen Clarkesdon had charge of the social part of the programme. It has been generally felt that the A. Y. P. A. should follow a different line of programme procedure in order to interest every member. Mr. Cardoza has taken it upon himself to re-arrange the schedule of activities and we know he will succeed.

The Junior W. A.

The Junior W. A. will meet at the Rectory this afternoon with Miss Jean Robinson, in the absence of Mrs. Caldwell.

Last Sunday's Sermons

Last Sunday, the 1st Sunday in Lent, there was a celebration of the Holy Communion at 11.00 o'clock, and Evensong and Litany at 7.00. Owing to the weather the morning service was not very well attended but the evening congregation was attended as usual. The Rector spoke in the morning on the First Temptation in the Wilderness, from the words: "If thou be the Son of God command that these stones be made bread." And at Evensong he took as his subject "The Cross of Christ", and he spoke of it as a three-fold revelation: 1st, a revelation of what a world could be; 2nd, a revelation of what a man could be; and finally, a revelation of what God could be. During the season of Lent the evening subjects will deal more or less with the Cross of Christ and The Passion.

GRACE UNITED CHURCH

The C. G. I. T. Group
The Flamingo C. G. I. T. met at the home of their leader on Friday evening, with the president, Mary Elizabeth MacKay, in the chair. After a short "sing-song" the meeting was called to order and the devotional period was led by Helen Melanson, who used as her theme, "The Tender Shepherd." The Bible discussion took up the 5th chapter of St. Matthew. After business period the girls made navy blue braided halo hats to wear with their regular C. G. I. T. midy and skirt. The meeting closed with the circle and Taps.

The Explorers
The Explorers, under the leadership of Dorothy Dunn, have been holding some interesting meetings. They meet every Thursday evening, in the church hall.

Church Re-Decorated

Last Sunday's services of Grace United Church were held in the vestry, the church itself being in the hands of painters and decorators. It is expected that the church will be ready for use on Sunday.

To Enlarge the Hall.

The ladies of Grace United Church are working hard to raise money to help in financing an enlargement to the hall which will be started as soon as the weather is favorable. An enlarged and up-to-date kitchen with full equipment will be provided as well as a ladies' parlor and class room.

The Brotherhood

The Brotherhood of Grace United church will hold its regular monthly meeting next Tuesday evening. It will take the nature of a social evening, with games and music.

The World Day of Prayer

Members of the Anglican, Baptist and United Churches in Digby observed the annual World Day of Prayer at a special service in the Baptist church on Friday afternoon last. The service, which was the prescribed service for the day, was led by Mrs. George Turnbull. A duet was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Charles Ramsay and Mrs. Reginald Weir.

RATEPAYERS' MEETING

On Monday evening the ratepayers of the town will vote on the issuance of $25,000 of debentures for the installation of a new unit at the Weymouth Falls plant of the Digby County Power Board. The borrowing is to be made under provisions of section 12 of chapter 113 of the Acts of 1926, entitled "An Act to Incorporate the Digby County Power Board", as amended. It was pointed out at the annual meeting of the Municipal Council by H. J. Campbell, superintendent of the Power Board, that the present plant had reached its capacity and that the installation of a new unit was necessary.

BAND NOTES

A very fine pair of hand embroidered "cut work" pillow cases has been donated to the band by Mrs. A. E. Dickson, for sale before the next concert, at which time the owner will be announced. Every woman who sees them will want them.

A friend of the band has offered to buy forty tickets for the next Pop concert on condition that each of the first forty ticket buyers shall be given one extra ticket free of charge. This decidedly novel offer should be eagerly grasped as soon as the tickets are on sale, Saturday, March 26th.

The Guitar specialty by the musical Baxters announced for the last concert, had to be postponed until next time because of an accident to one of the boys, but a surprise number was offered in that grand old song, "The Holy City," beautifully rendered as a trio by Billy Christie, euphonium; Ross Turnbull, trombone; and Mrs. Harold Nichols, piano.

Accident, sickness and bad roads interfered with rehearsals during the past month, but unless these obstacles prevent, the 5th Popular Concert, on April 7th, will be one of the finest entertainments ever presented by this band, and will include several extremely interesting features, besides some of the finest music in the band's extensive repertoire. See later issues of the Courier for a description of these novelties.

DYNAMIC STORY OF CHINA—FOUR YEARS IN PREPARATION

The dramatic story of China's teeming millions, their struggles, their hardships, and the intensely human heartbeat of this great and little-known nation, is transcribed from Pearl Buck's Pulitzer prize winning novel, "The Good Earth"—one of the greatest best-sellers of the past decade. It was adapted to the stage by Owen Davis, and was originally presented by the Theatre Guild with Nazimova and Claude Rains featured in the star cast.

Adaptation of this great novel and stage success to the screen is the fruit of four years of research and preparation, of the work of a film expedition that spent a year in China filming exteriors, studying details and bringing back thousands of authentic properties, of the inspired acting of a great cast of stars headed by Paul Muni and Luise Rainer. The success of this gigantic venture is in no way more evident than in the sensational acclaim given it from all parts of the world—a production that will serve as a milestone in the advance of the motion picture art.

This great picture will be shown in the Bijou Theatre on Monday and Tuesday of next week.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R J SCOTT

Paper money in large denominations is gradually disappearing says Washington. Some people must be hoarding $1,000 bills, Treasury Officials said. Most denominations of currency declined in circulation last year, but the $100 bill increased $25,000,000 worth to $298,000,000. That's a $1,000 bill for every 150 persons in the country. The $20 bill suffered the worst slump in usage—a drop of $26,000,000—although there were $1,000,000,000 worth of $20 bills.

ALLAN SHIELDS
Principal claimant for the title of league bad man this year will be Allan Shields, Montreal Maroons' defenceman, when the National Hockey league starts handing out its annual "bouquets". Shields has recorded something over 60 minutes in the penalty box, nothing like the old-timers were wont to serve, to be sure, but enough to make him leading candidate for the dubious honor.

Team! Although the boys lost out in the playoffs with Jugewater, they are to be congratulated in getting that far. Perhaps these same Junior Ravens may, in a few years, again find a place for Digby on the hockey map of Nova Scotia. The old Digby Ravens were always considered one of the best amateur teams in the Maritimes, but, unfortunately, since Digby lost its rink, we have seen very little hockey, which is, and always has been, Digby's sport. Give the present Junior Ravens a rink, and they will go far.

In this issue, one of our advertisers—Dakin Bros.—announces, in an advertisement found elsewhere, that that firm has been selling hardware in the town of Digby for a good sixty years. Sixty years in business is a long record, and it is only through honesty and fair dealing that any business can hope to survive for so long a time. We join with others in extending our best wishes on this, the occasion of their 60th anniversary.

THE GRAVEYARD OF THE ATLANTIC

Sable Island, a low-lying piece of ground, lies 118 miles southeast of Halifax, Nova Scotia, and is familiarly known as "The Graveyard of the Atlantic." It consists of two parallel sand ridges with a lagoon between them. The sand bars extend several miles from each end of the island.

Since 1873, the Canadian government has built three lighthouses on Sable Island, two of which have been swept away and the third undermined, as the island is gradually sinking. Less than a century ago, its length was 40 miles, but at the present time it is 18 miles long with sand hills reaching a height of 100 feet. In 1901, over 80,000 trees were planted to check the shifting of the sands.

In addition to two first-class lighthouses, watch-towers and life-saving stations are maintained along this dangerous section of the Atlantic. In clear weather the entire coastline is under observation from the lighthouses and watch-towers and in fog or thick weather, mounted men patrol every mile of the island.

Another well-known light-house is the one at Cape Race, on the coast of Newfoundland. It towers 180 feet above the ground and its flashing light of over one million candle power has been seen a distance of 76 miles. The optical apparatus and lantern weigh 42 tons. The electricity for the light is generated on the premises and the fog signal, which has been heard 45 miles away, is operated by compressed air. Four lightkeepers keep continuous watch day and night throughout the year.

There are thirteen lighthouses maintained on the coasts of Newfoundland and Labrador by the Canadian Government to aid Trans-Atlantic shipping.

With approximately 50,000 miles of coastline along the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans, the Great Lakes and other lakes within the boundaries of the Dominion, extensive light-house service is necessary. It requires, during the season of navigation, 2,000 lights, 400 fog signals, 600 gas and signal buoys, 12 lightships, 32 radio stations, 9,000 unlighted buoys, beacons and day marks to prevent accidents. According to Census reports, there are over 2,000 persons employed in the lighthouse

About This and That

Once again the map of Europe has been changed. It was reported this week that new maps, showing Austria as part of Germany, were on sale at Vienna and Berlin. Let us hope no more such changes are anticipated. Nevertheless, we with the rest of the world cannot help but wonder whether or not Herr Hitler, after his peaceful conquest of Austria, is having plates made for a still later map which will show Czechoslovakia as part of the new Germany. Indications are that should Czechoslovakia be invaded, "peacefully" or otherwise, it would be the spark that would set Europe—and the rest of the world—on fire.

Still, we can see no need for the diplomats to worry.

Visitor Recalls Bay View, 1914; War Talk

Dear Sir:—Among the many vacations I have enjoyed at Bay View, the summer of 1914 stands out in my memory, more distinctly than any of the other years. There was no end of excitement due to the beginning of the World War, and there was also a larger gathering of tourists at Bay View, than any previous season. I left New York with my travelling companion, Geo. Wheeler, on Aug. 1st. Newsboys were already on the streets selling war extras, with flaring headlines, that Germany had declared war. Arriving at Yarmouth, the boys, who we expected would be offering the usual assortment of souvenir post cards, had gone in for selling a war extra, called the Yarmouth Light News; a strip of paper about six inches wide and fifteen inches long. The price was three cents or two for five cents, and being interested in keeping up with the times, we bought two copies and found the extra was made up of headlines we read in the New York and Boston papers. Digby was alive with war talk, and upon arriving at Bay View and making the usual round of visits, the chief topic, it was war, war, war. At Pictou Lodge we were greeted by Mrs. John Justice and Mr. Jefferson Justice with more talk on war. Mr. Justice having served through our Civil War, and having been Commissary General of the 9th Union Army, could interpret the war news from the standpoint of a war veteran. On visits to Annapolis Royal, we found shopkeepers were posting war bulletins on store windows; one of them reporting that nineteen German warships were sunk in a big battle in the North Sea; this was long before any German war craft, excepting U-boats, left the protection of their land fortifications. However, the war spirit and all of its excitement, didn't curtail our summer activities. We enjoyed the usual picnics, hikes and boat rides, as well as never-to-be-forgotten, ox cart jolts, on trips to Digby and Culloden. Pictou Lodge having been established as a summer social centre, we enjoyed many delightful evenings, sitting before a crackling log fire, discussing events of the day or times; toasting marshmallows, and indulging in many other parlor amusements. Mr. Justice Jefferson was a most genial host; a kindly type of gentleman.

Fascists Name Leader

Adrien Arcand, (above) Canadian Fascist leader, announced in Montreal recently the fusion of the three principal Fascist parties in Canada. Simultaneously Joseph P. The leader of the western Fascists, who have joined the Ontario and Quebec groups, has been named as William Whittaker, of Winnipeg, described as Chief of the Canadian Nationalist Party.

Canadian Fascist Banning in One Party?

Adrien Arcand, Quebec Fascist leader, says the "blue-shirt" groups of Quebec, Ontario, and the Western Provinces have been united, and that negotiations are proceeding to bring in Fascists of the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia.

The various groups, he said, will be united under one banner, and a supreme leader will be chosen at a convention planned for the spring or early summer in Kingston, Ont.

Quebec Fascists of whom Mr. Arcand, newspaper editor, is leader, are known under the name of the National Social Christian Party.

The Fascist leader claims the Party is purely Canadian and not financed outside the country. He claims a membership of "about 80,000" in the Province of Quebec alone. "I can't say exactly how many there are in the other provinces, but the Party constantly is gaining strength."

With the apple export season coming to a close, a total of 1,280,933 barrels have gone into export, the greater portion of which went to Great Britain. The total crop last year was estimated at 2,250,000 barrels, one of the largest in the history of the province.

What's in a Name?

Just the word "Sterling" has come to mean quality when applied to silver, so has the name "Keen" come to signify elegance when applied to funerals. In neither case was reputation based on mere boasting or unverified assertions—service and value have been the foundations upon which these reputations have depended! Keen's name has stood the test of many years' service!

More Sanctuaries Needed in Canada

The only way to guarantee the future of Dominion wild life is to provide sanctuaries suited to its needs. Prof. J. R. Dymond, Director of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology, said in an address at Toronto recently.

Many species have been completely exterminated, he said, expressing concern for two others, moose and muskellunge. He claimed that in few parts of the world has wild life been slaughtered with such recklessness.

While much of North American wild life, such as caribou, moose, elk, bison, beaver, lynx, bears, wolves, foxes and many kinds of birds and fish, are derived from the Old World, animals peculiar to America include the white-tailed antelope, the pronghorn antelope, Rocky Mountain goat, cougar, and such fish as black bass, eastern speckled trout, and muskellunge.

CANADIAN INDIANS EDUCATED TO SAVE THEIR ANCIENT ART

Education of 18,000 Indian children cost the Dominion $1,831,000 in the year ending March, 1937, according to a recent annual report of the Department of Mines and Resources.

An encouraging feature of this educational program is the increasing tendency of Indians to recognize the value of their arts and crafts, the reports states. Demands for agricultural and homemaking short courses indicate a desire for courses relative to specific needs.

Attempts have been made to bring the educational policy of the Indian Affairs Branch into closer conformity with the needs, the report states. Plans have been made for day schools designed to meet particular requirements of pupils in localities where schools are in operation.

These efforts are part of a program to conserve still further the ancient values and skills of the Indian population, thus contributing to the cultural life of the Dominion.

Tourist Business Digby's Sole Hope For Future

To the Editor of the Courier. Sir—"Government of the people by the people for the people, is not just a glowing phrase to catch the imagination. It's a declaration of faith in the form of government to which we have given our unwavering allegiance. It is a statement of the democratic ideal in its simplest and most persuasive form means a united voice speaking through its chosen representatives and in the interests of the whole." While these words, taken from the editorial in the Canadian Magazine for March, are aimed at the Canadian people as a whole, they have a very direct bearing upon our local activities and interests.

There is at the moment, and this seems most unfortunate, a growing local sentiment against the tourist trade. On every hand one hears disparaging remarks about the tourist business and airy talk of industry in Digby. At a recent debate on this subject, the unanimous vote was in support of an industrialized Digby, and before this canker eats any deeper it seems well to place certain facts before your many readers.

Digby has no outstanding features to attract the industrialist. She is not handy to any large supply of raw material; she cannot offer a ready supply of skilled labor; she has, at present, no reasonable facilities for the handling of the weights entailed in heavy industry, or the volume entailed in light docking or loading facilities. She has no suitable for large ships. She is not situated in, or near a large centre of population to provide a ready market for consumable goods. Add to this the fact that for years she has adopted a policy of discouraging industrial development, and you have amassed a formidable argument.

And what is the record of the industries she has or has had? The scallop fishery is an outstanding example, and one has no need to enlarge upon an already painful subject. What support have smaller industries received? Our jam factory our packing house, the bakery, the farming industry right at our door?

On the other hand it is a fact that foreign tourists spent $295,000,000 in Canada during the season of 1937, and if Digby did not get her fair share of that total, who is to blame? We never have tried to develop the tourist industry. We never have outlined a definite constructive policy to put Digby where she rightly belongs on the Canadian Tourist map.

While no person in her right mind is going to deny the benefit which would accrue from all the year round employment in local industry, the time and money entailed in the development of such industry, and the uncertainty of its outcome, puts that beyond the realm of practical politics, and the real hope of a prosperous future for Digby and district lies in a keen support of a constructive tourist policy.

Ratepayers Approve Plan Power Board

Ratepayers of the Town of Digby unanimously endorsed the proposal of the Digby County Power Board to borrow and issue debentures for the sum of $35,000 to be used for the purpose of installing a 500 h. p. unit, including turbine, generator, switch board, transformer bank, concrete intake and addition to the power house and other equipment thereto.

The borrowing of this sum and issuing of debentures, will be done under and by virtue of Section 13 of Chapter 113 of the Acts of 1926, entitled: "An Act to Incorporate the Digby County Power Board" and amendments thereto.

Mayor M. C. Denton presided over the meeting. Town Clerk Harold A. Nichols, explained the purpose of the meeting, and read the resolution to be considered. The resolution was moved by H. L. Woodman and seconded by H. M. Turnbull.

Approval of the ratepayers of the Town of Digby Monday evening was the final sanction to be given to the Power Board for the borrowing and issuing of debentures as outlined in the resolution. The Digby County Power Board is owned jointly by the Municipality of Digby, the Municipality of Clare, the Village of Weymouth and the Town of Digby. The three other municipal corporations had previously given their approval.

The legal phase of the resolution was explained by E. J. Theriault, who stated the da during the season of 1937, and if Digby did not get her fair share of that total, who is to blame? We never have tried to develop the tourist industry. We never have outlined a definite constructive policy to put Digby where she rightly belongs on the Canadian Tourist map.

While no person in her right mind is going to deny the benefit which would accrue from all the year round employment in local industry, the time and money entailed in the development of such industry, and the uncertainty of its outcome, puts that beyond the realm of practical politics, and the real hope of a prosperous future for Digby and district lies in a keen support of a constructive tourist policy.

C. N. G. Wilde
Digby, March 14, 1938.

Power Board had the right to borrow and issue debentures with the approval of the above named municipal bodies and the Nova Scotia Board of Public Utilities. Legislation to borrow up to $275,000 was passed some years ago, and up to the present, $240,000 had been borrowed. He stated the present assets of the Digby County Power Board were $315,000.

H. J. Campbell, superintendent of the Board, explained the resolution from a business point of view. At present the Board has two plants on the Sissiboo River, the upper plant with a capacity of generating 350 hp., and the lower plant with a 600 hp. capacity. At present, he said, the plants are sufficiently large enough to take care of the load, but not large enough to care for the load if one plant were taken out of operation for repairs. Realizing that it would be necessary to overhaul the lower plant this year, and thereby putting it out of commission for two weeks at least, the renting of a crude oil plant for a period was considered, as was also the purchase of a crude oil plant for auxiliary purposes.

However, both plants were discarded as being uneconomical, and the present action decided upon, taking into consideration the fact that it is only a matter of a few years before the present equipment would be unable to care for the load. Decision to install the new 500 hp. unit at the upper falls was decided upon in spite of the fact that it could be installed more cheaply at the lower plant, for the installation at the upper plant would be more economical on water.

T. E. G. Lynch reviewed briefly the electrical history of Digby from the time the town purchased the old Daley plant, and said that with an additional debt of $35,000 and comparatively no known market, he could not see where there was much opportunity for a lower rate for some time, and made comparisons with rates at Deep Brook, where power is provided by the Avon River Power Company, with rates in the neighboring village of Smith's Cove, where energy is furnished by the Digby County Power Board. He also compared the Deep Brook rates with rates in the Town of Digby, where power is purchased by the town at wholesale from the Board, and retailed to local consumers.

In answer to Mr. Lynch, Mr. Campbell explained an application was now before the Board of Public Utilities to reduce the service charge and the rate in the Municipal Distribution System, which will bring the rate in the Municipality on about a par with the Avon rate. There is also another application before the Utilities Board to reduce the wholesale rate to the Town of Digby which, on the basis of the amount purchased last year, if accepted, would mean a saving to the town. (How ever, it was pointed out the town could not expect to give a reduction in its rates to the consumer until the debentures for the purchase of the Daley plant were paid off, which would be in 1942.)

At Monday night's meeting it was pointed out that when the Power Board took over operation eleven years ago, the output was 195,000 kw. hrs.; last year, 1,412,000 kw. hrs., and the estimated production for 1938 is 1,553,700 kw. hrs.

DISLOCATED ELBOW LED TO NEURITIS

Could Not Straighten Her Arm

Four months ago, this woman dislocated her left elbow. Although the elbow was properly set, she developed neuritis and could not straighten her arm. She was ordered to take Kruschen—with the happy result described in this letter:

"I had an accident four months ago, and my elbow was seriously dislocated. Fortunately, it was set right, there and then, but afterwards, I could not straighten the arm to its full extent. It was X-rayed, and the surgeon told me I was inclined to be rheumatic. I was ordered to take Kruschen Salts—one teaspoonful in a glass of hot water on waking. Now I am getting along famously. The pain in my elbow is better, and daily, I am able to extend the arm more easily."—(Mrs.) P.

Rheumatic conditions are often the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

SALVATION ARMY OF FICER VISITS OLD WEYMOUTH HOME

Brigadier-General Herbert George Carter, of the Salvation Army, at present stationed at Toronto and editor-in-chief of The War Cry, was in Weymouth last week. While there he was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blackadar, and also visited many of his former friends. On Thursday evening of last week, Mr. Carter gave an illustrated lecture on South Africa to a large audience in the Hartz Memorial church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of that church. On Friday evening he again gave a lecture in the same church under the auspices of the Young People's Union. At the latter meeting Mr. Carter gave reminiscences of his former life in Weymouth, starting with his coming to Canada from England, of his life and later conversion in Weymouth and of his later going to Saint John to join the Salvation Army.

Mr. Carter is a native of London, and after working as a telegraph officer and travelling salesman, came to Canada at the age of 21, and became employed with the Campbell Lumber Company, of Weymouth, working his way from common laborer to an accountant with this firm in a few years. Mr. Carter's story of this sounds almost like an Alger book. Since leaving Weymouth 31 years ago and joining with the Salvation Army, Mr. Carter has been stationed in various parts of Canada, particularly the West; also in England and South Africa—having spent seven years there—and is now back in Canada. This was his first visit to Weymouth since he left. He called on Mrs. White, with whom he boarded while there, and at whose home he became converted. She is now in her 94th year.

Airplane Powered by Steam

PLANE SOARED A FEW INCHES

One of the first, if not the very first, aircraft engineers to realize that the greater the speed the greater the lifting pressure, was Thomas Moy, engineer of the Royal Aeronautical Society, London. More than 60 years ago, he built a plane which he hoped to get going at 150 miles an hour. In those days, that was speed.

The trouble with Moy's machine, however, was that gasoline was unknown. His motive power was a three-horsepower steam engine. In a trial at the Crystal Palace, in 1875, his plane managed to rise a few inches off the ground. It lacked the proper power-weight ratio and Moy went on seeking this in lighter steam engines.

With the discovery of gasoline, aeronautics took a decided turn for the better and it's hard for people to realize that anyone could ever imagine that a steam engine would fly. It's a far cry from Moy's contraption, which looked like a couple of windmills or a collection of Venetian blinds, to such steamlined, all-metal birds as those of the Trans-Canada Air Lines. The Lockheed is now in service between Vancouver and Seattle, and in raining schedules across the Rockies from the Coast to Lethbridge, have a maximum speed of 205 miles an hour. The ten big planes now being built for transcontinental flights will be able to go as fast as 250. And they can soar thousands of feet above the mountains.

Canada imports palm oil principally for soapmaking the provisional estimate for 1936 being fixed at 22,000 tons, of which some palm kernel oil was included. Two kinds of oil are produced from the fruit of the oil palm—palm oil, which is extracted in the countries of production from the fleshy pericarp, and palm kernel oil, which as a rule is extracted from the palm kernels in the importing countries. Palm is used mainly in the manufacture of soap and candles, as a flux for tin-plating, and to a lesser extent for margarine. Palm kernel oil, which is similar to coconut oil, is extensively used in soapmaking, and also for margarine. The manufacture of margarine, a substitute for butter, is illegal in Canada.

Fond memories and the thought of leaving his barber shop after he had worked and lived in the same place for forty-three years, led Aloysius Talbacker, 62, of New York, to commit suicide in his bedroom behind the shop. He had been notified to leave so that the old building could be replaced by a new apartment house. Patrolman Christian Kautz, familiar with the barber's habits, investigated when he saw no light in the shop. He found Talbacker had shot himself.

Hints On Fashion

Lovely Materials But Simple Styles Favored For Party Frocks For Young Girls.

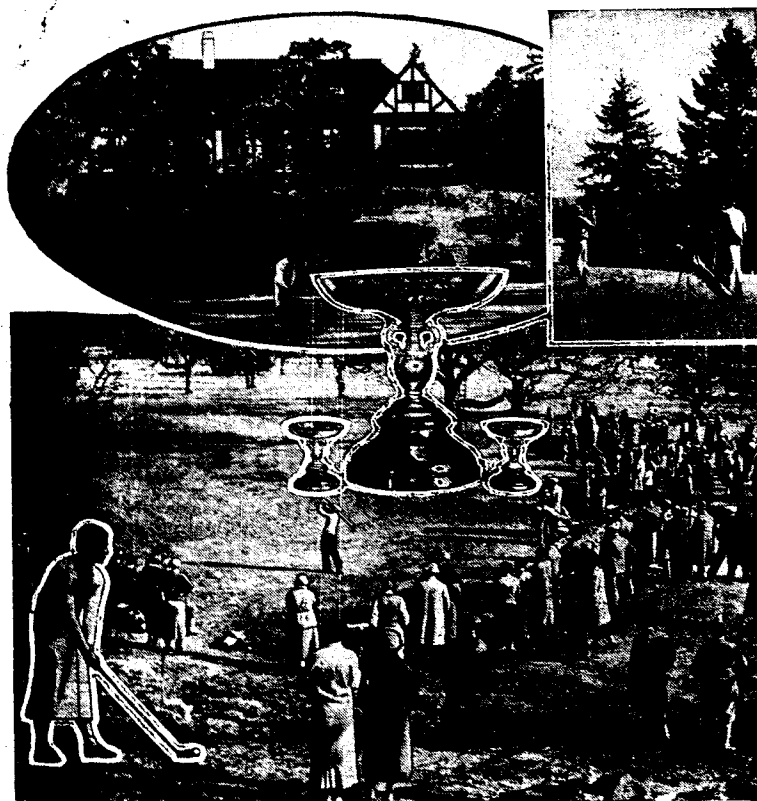

Birthday parties, Easter parties and school parties call for "formal" dresses for the young daughter of the house. In the United States and Canada we follow the good old English custom of sporting simple clothes for children. Nice materials rather than elaborate stylings are preferred.

A charming little dress for little girls is shown here—in silk. What a small girl doesn't like the feel and the thought of a silken gown?

A silk georgette street length party frock is worn by the girl kneeling on the chair. It is box-pleated its entire length from a straight shallow yoke. The shoulders are pleated, and Chantilly type lace is set in the yoke and puff sleeves.

A dash in contrasting or deeper shade is tied at the side front. Little French girls are rather naïve.

Golfers Ready for Victoria Meet

While the rest of Canada is skil-ing, Victoria, B.C., will be the scene of one of the Dominion's most important—and certainly its most unusual—golf tournament of the year.

Ten years ago Victoria produced its first winter golf meet to prove that Canada too could have winter golf. The idea caught on amazingly, with the result that the tournament has grown steadily. Entries have increased, more trophies are being given, and a record turn-out is expected for this year.

Already more than 30 entries have been received for the tournament, which commences March 7, from nearby Seattle, including Lee Stell, who won both handicap and scratch events last year, and from Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary and Vancouver. A few Eastern Canadian golfers are also expected for this annual Empire Hotel fixture on the famous Royal Colwood course.

The main event is a handicap competition for both men and women for the Sir Edward Beatty trophy. Other prizes include the Victoria Chamber of Commerce open trophy, match play on a scratch basis, men's and women's inter-club team games; Jack Matson trophy for inter-district match; Rotary Club rosebowl for women's best gross score; and special medal awards.

All in all, it adds up to five days of golf and fun, with the Empress Hotel and Royal Colwood clubhouse en fete to receive golfing visitors.

George E. Dittmars

Deep Brook mourns the loss of another esteemed citizen in the passing of George E. Dittmars, aged 72, on Friday morning of last week, following a brief illness of pneumonia. Mr. Dittmars was the eldest son of the late George and Hannah (Bogart) Dittmars and enjoyed the respect of the entire community and indeed the whole countryside. His was an exemplary life and it is a comfort to his family to know they are not alone in their sorrow, for all feel keenly the Home-going of one long known and beloved. A lover of the finer things of life, Mr. Dittmars was ever active in all good works, and as a member of the Church of England he was most loyal to its teachings and attended regularly the services in St. Matthew's which he loved so well and where for many years he served as organist. He was vestry clerk of St. Clements' Parish for more than thirty years. Surviving are his widow, formerly Caroline Lambertson; two sons, Joseph and Wellington; and three little grandchildren. The funeral from St. Matthew's church on Sunday afternoon was one of the largest and most impressive ever held there. The rector, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, was assisted by Rev. C. E. Rockingham, who read the lesson, I Cor. XV:20, as appointed by the church. The hymns were: "Forever With the Lord," "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "Safe In the Arms of Jesus," sung by a combined choir. The rector spoke very briefly from II Timothy IV:1,8, leaving from the congregation the thought that even though meeting many disappointments going through life, the deceased was ever faithful, truly leaving an example for those who follow after. The bearers were Luke Vroom, Harold Purdy, Howard Adams and W. H. Spurr. The many floral tributes expressed silent tributes of esteem.

Genuine regret was expressed when word was received here of the passing of Mrs. E. D. Caswell, at her home in Grandville Ferry. She had been in poor health for some time. She leaves many friends here and in Hillsburn where she used to reside. Sincere sympathy is extended to the bereaved family that are left to mourn the passing of a kind, loving mother. CLEMENTSPORT

On Monday afternoon a debate was held in the advanced department of the Clements-port schools. "Resolved that we today enjoy life better than the people of the 18th century." The affirmative was represented by Miss Edith Amberman, Norman Rice and Miss Beatrice Potter; the negative by Miss Ruby Riley, James Sanford and Miss Alma Brown. The judges, Mrs. Howard Potter, Miss Edna Tupper and Rev. A. W. L. Smith, awarded the victory to the affirmative on preparation and argument, but the negative had the better presentation. The debate was interesting and the teachers and pupils are to be congratulated.

Miss Pauline Berry made an excellent chairman for the afternoon. A baking contest was also judged at this time. Bread had been baked by pupils and brought to the school. The judges, Mrs. Walter Elliott, Mrs. Harry Low and Mrs. Sabie Mcintosh, awarded the prizes to two lettered loaves, which proved to be those made and baked by two boys Norman and Clyde Rice, and each scored 100 points. The contest was arranged by the Robin Hood Flour Company.

George F. Dittmars

The funeral of George F. Dittmars, of Deep Brook, took place from the Deep Brook church on Sunday, at 2.00 p.m. Rev. A. W. L. Smith officiating, assisted by Rev. C. E. Rockingham, of the United Baptist Church. Interment was in the Old Churchyard at Clementsport. Mr. Dittmars was Vestry Clerk of the Parish of St. Clement's, for over forty years, a staunch churchman, a good citizen and an example to the people of his community. A magistrate for many years, he was known as "The Squire" and gave good advice to many. He will be greatly missed. His many friends extend sympathy to the widow and family.

On Wednesday evening of last week, about 7.30, the rector's car was run into by a truck and badly damaged, on Clementsport hill opposite Mrs. Elliott's. The Mounties were called and declared the truck was to blame since it was on the wrong side of the road. But the real blame is on the condition of the road. It was a sheet of ice. The Bear River Board of Trade had written the Department requesting this hill, and had received word that it would be done. Fortunately no one was injured. We trust the Department will not wait until some one is killed before fulfilling their promise.

Miss Evelyn Mosher spent last week end as a guest of Mrs. Harry Lowe.

Address Heard

Health organizations to-day are not so much interested in seeking a cure for diseased conditions as they are in seeking the means to prevent these conditions, and to discover the means to check them before they become deep rooted, declared Dr. Harry S. Thompson, travelling secretary of the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council, in an address given under the auspices of the Digby Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses at Trinity Parish Hall, Wednesday evening.

The speaker was introduced by Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson, President of the Digby Branch of the Order, who presided. Loaned to the Nova Scotia Department of Public Health, and the Provincial Department of Education, Dr. Thompson has been carrying on his campaign in this province for nearly four months.

"The most important branch of public health is public dental health" quoted Dr. Thompson, as coming from one of the heads of the Life Insurance Association, who made this remark in giving the reason for the large annual grant to the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council. Dr. Thompson said diseased teeth may be the cause of diseased conditions of the body, and the mission of the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council was to assist in teaching the importance of dental health in order that we may have healthy bodies.

He lauded the work of the fourteen public health agencies now functioning in Canada, paying special tribute to the Canadian Tuberculosis Association; the Canadian Mental Hygiene Association and to the Canadian Red Cross. With regard to the former, the speaker said that the death rate from tuberculosis in Canada had been cut by 64% over a period of 34 years, largely through the efforts of that association; nevertheless, he regarded the work of the Mental Hygiene Association as most important, and over the same period of years 37% of patients who enter Mental Hospitals, are now discharged as cured against 9% thirty-four years ago, when the average discharge was a death certificate.

Regarding the association of which he is Field Secretary, he explained the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council was not an association of dentists, but a lay association. He explained that dental disease was not just that a cavity had formed in the tooth, or that a tooth needed to be extracted. "Dental disease" he said "is positively incurable", and the purpose of the council was to prevent dental disease, perhaps not for this generation, but for generations in the future.

He explained the diseased condition is caused by decay of the teeth, and exposure and killing of the "nerve". Poisons are sent into the blood stream to various parts of the body, attacking where resistance is lowest, and thereby many of the diseases of the body and mind may be rightfully blamed on diseased conditions of the teeth.

"No part of the body can be diseased without affecting the whole body" he said, and pointed out that research has proven that 98% of the entire Anglo-Saxon race suffers from diseased teeth; whereas in Central Europe diseased teeth is only found among 34% of the people; of the native Morays in New Zealand, 1%, and among the Canadian Esquimaux, 3%, and in the latter cases the cause is largely through accident by which teeth have been broken.

Diet is largely responsible, he explained. The soft cooked foods of the Anglo-Saxon, during the cooking of which the value of the calcium and phosphorus so necessary for tooth structure, is lost. But, he said, all teeth are formed inside the mouth and under the gums when a child is 7 years of age, and a change in diet will not benefit teeth that are already constructed.

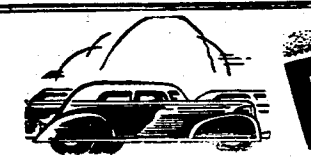

He pointed out that the important times for healthy tooth structure are during the nine months of prenatal life and the first three years of the life of the child; the diet of the mother is in a great measure, responsible for the dental health of the generations to follow.

During the course of his address Dr. Thompson paid high tribute to the medical profession, referring to them as the trail blazers to public health, "and due to the information they have given freely to the world as the result of their research, the road to public health is no longer a blazed trail but a wide concrete highway", he said, "and 91% of all illnesses can be prevented if a start is made early enough."

At the opening and close of the meeting, piano selections were rendered by Mrs. H. A. Nichols.

The re-flooring of the spur of the government pier was completed this week. Work on this job, with other repairs in connection with the wharf, has been in progress for some months.

Old Business Changes Hands

British Justice and Fair Play Were Absent

To the Editor of the Courier:
 Sir—For some time I have been carrying a conviction that I should write an account of my being fined $25 for having a 22-calibre rifle in my possession on the highway on which I was travelling, on my way to a trapline, in all confidence that it was lawful to do so, as I was ignorant of any change having been made making it unlawful to carry rifles of that calibre at any time. But my plea of ignorance fell upon deaf ears and as the officer of the R. C. M. P. considered it his duty to enforce the letter of the law I was eventually arraigned before the magistrate, where I pleaded "not guilty" of any intent to transgress the laws and claimed the right of British fair play and justice. But I was fined $25, or 25 days. The fine I can ill afford to pay as I am a poor man materially, and we are seven in family. On account of one of my boys being subject to attacks of chronic appendicitis and being needed at home, I did not go to gaol but managed a note for three months to raise the money.

Now, if this letter will help someone else to be aware of the change in the Game Laws and save them a fine, I shall feel that my experience is not entirely a loss, though I may not recover my rifle which the R. C. M. P. took from me.

The experience, however, is of some worth to me, that it was a sad revelation to find that old teachings concerning British justice and fair play were obsolete, if they were ever anything other than nice sounding phrases. In 1916 I left a good job and went overseas in the Great War because I believed British fair play and equal justice were endangered; and now to find it is not in use was a sad revelation to me. I have been taught that British laws were based upon Bible Truth, and having studied the Bible somewhat and being in remembrance of Jesus' own teachings that we "judge not by appearances" and again, "blessed are the merciful for they shall obtain mercy," I naturally supposed the spirit of that law was the basis of British good government, and not the letter of the law: "The letter killeth but the Spirit giveth life."

Now a criminal is in another class from him who transgresses in ignorance, for again we find the Bible rule to the effect that "he who knoweth not will receive few stripes whereas he who transgresses knowingly will receive many." This is a Bible rule and any who think they can improve it and come off a winner will have reasons to regret their adventure.

Perhaps this was an oversight and may yet be corrected.

A. L. Morehouse
 Lakeside, Digby Co.

A brother, S. A. Spurr, for several days.

In these days of business changes in Digby, when we see mercantile establishments come up like mushrooms, and disappear almost as quickly—we should not overlook the fact that we have a number of business houses which have been in operation for many years, and when one of these changes ownership it is real news. Such an event happened on Monday when the Keen Funeral Service became the property of T. S. Matheson, who is now here. This business was established 62 years ago by the late John G. Rice, and was first carried on in a large building at the head of the "Long Wharf," so called, which was later destroyed by fire. Then Mr. Rice obtained from the late Eber Turnbull a building on the east side of Water Street, near where the old "Red Raven" used to stand. This, too, fell a prey to flames and Mr. Rice then opened in the building known as the Hawkesworth Tannery, on the site of the present building. On his death he was succeeded by his son, the late Fred Rice, who carried on for about sixteen years, when the business was acquired by his brother, Dr. Frank Rice of Sandy Cove, in association with his nephew, the late Stanley A. Keen. After a little more than a year Mr. Keen became the sole owner. In 1925 the plant was destroyed by fire and the present spacious building was erected immediately afterwards. Mr. Keen continued to operate it until his death, last July, and since then it has been carried on by his mother, Mrs. James M. Keen, daughter of the founder of the business. On Monday Mrs. Keen sold the business as a going concern to Mr. Matheson, who has taken charge. He announces that the business will be carried on under the old name—Keen Funeral Service—with Dominique Melanson as foreman of the carpenter shop and assistant mortician; and the same staff of local agents, in Bear River, Clementsvalle, Clementsport, Barton, Centreville and Sandy Cove. Their ambulance service will be continued. They intend to manufacture most of the caskets they will use as they have a plant well equipped for the purpose.

Mr. Matheson has become a resident of the town and is occupying the Ross C. Smallie house, at the Racquette.

King Cole TEA

"ABOUT THIS AND THAT" Continued

If they were not so "pig-headed" their problems could be solved simply by sending to Digby for some of our local diplomats to come over and advise them. They have the solution to all the world's problems in a nut shell—and such a nut shell!

But, let us leave Europe to come back to our own little Nova Scotia to watch the "war" being waged by the Halifax press. The newspaper boys in Halifax are certainly throwing stink bombs at each other these days. First, it was the "million dollar liquor ring," and now, news despatches.

However, the fight is largely between themselves and the public is more amused than interested.

Although we believe some of the reports regarding the so-called "million dollar liquor ring" may be exaggerated, we are convinced that the bootlegger and rum-runner are far from being extinct, even after the promises made by the Temperance Reform Association, back in 1929, before the present government control system was voted into being. We believe, too, that many of the "small" bootleggers are looked after to a large extent by the "higher-ups" whose connection with the industry cannot be easily proven. Also, it is our belief that much of the stuff purchased legally from the government stores during their open hours, is sold illegally after hours, but, like others who hold the same beliefs we have no proof to offer.

It is, because of these beliefs we believe it is time for a real investigation into the legal and illegal liquor business in the province. It is more than an issue for newspaper editors, but is one which should be thoroughly gone into for the welfare of the people as a whole and not for the welfare of politicians and political heelers.

We heard a new one the other day. A well known gentleman of this town called us on the phone and ordered us not to publish a certain news item; if we did, he was going to sue us for damages. Whattayeknowaboutthat!

It is to be admitted that editors of "country" weeklies are not as heartless as their brothers on the city desk of the large dailies, the reason being, perhaps, that the "country" editor is in much closer contact with his readers and subscribers, and has a more intimate knowledge of the people who make up his constituency. For this reason it is not an uncommon occurrence to overlook trivial matters which might unnecessarily injure someone.

But none of us are inclined to "take orders" in regard to what news to print and what news not to print. News is news—and not libel. If a man could sue a newspaper because it published his name against his will in connection with some news item, there would have to be a special court in continuous session to deal with such cases.

2000 STEEL-SHEATHED BOX CARS ORDERED BY C. N. R.

Two thousand steel-sheathed box cars with wood linings and ceilings have been ordered by the Canadian National Railways, according to announcement made at Montreal recently. They will be delivered in the spring. The Eastern Car Company of Trenton, N. S., and the National Steel Corporation of Hamilton, Ont., will each build 700, and the Canadian Car & Foundry Company of Montreal, has a contract for 600.

Complying with the increased demand of freight shippers for greater cubic capacity, the cars will be wider and higher as were the 3,000 built for the railway last year.

The cars will be the standard length of 40 feet six inches, but they will be eight inches wider than the former type—nine feet two inches instead of eight feet six inches. They will be 10 feet high as against the former nine feet. Cubic capacity will be more than 3,700 cubic feet, an increase of nearly 500 cubic feet. This will be of particular benefit to shippers of cereals, furniture, canned goods and other bulk products. The weight of the whole car will be approximately 1,700 pounds lighter. Load limit capacity will be more than 45 tons.

TALE OF A CAT

An Angora cat, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Brandes, of Sydney, has had a strange adventure.

The cat was taken from England to Australia, but on arrival there was not allowed to land. It had either to be destroyed or sent back to England to be put in quarantine. Back it came, to be quarantined for six months, and then again it went ten thousand miles home to Sydney, so that it had been round the world and half round again by the time it was allowed to land.

RAILROAD MEN SPEAK LINGO OF THEIR OWN

Railroading has a language all its own—a language that is used every day in the yards, around the shops, on the road wherever railroad men meet. Humorous for the most part, this picturesque jargon is as colorful and homely a manner of speech as can be found anywhere in the lexicon of North American slang, says the Canadian National Magazine, which gives a list of some of the terms, under the title "Railroad Slang."

The names are not always complimentary. For instance, the engineer is known as a "hogger" as well as an "eagle eye"; a car repairman as a "car toad"; a boilermaker is an "iron skull"; the master mechanic is "master menial"; and the train dispatcher is "dettainer". The fireman has to put up with "diamond pusher", "tallowpot" and "bakehead". The conductor is usually referred to as "the brains"; on some trains, he is "brass buttons"; officials are called "brass collars" and "brass hats". A "car cat" or "brakeman" and "scissor bill" is what they call a student brakeman. Telegraph operators are "Hams". The dispatcher is the "master mind". The yardmaster is a "dinger"; a checker is a "number grabber"; "gandy lancer" means a section hand; a machinist is a "nut splitter".

The hogger's locomotive has many names. It is a battleship, (so is the landlady, sometimes), a calliope, a pig or hog, a goat, a Jack, a mill and a stack of rust. The calliope is known as a hearse, a buggy, a hack and a clown vagon. A box car is "a side-door pullman". A railroad motor car is a "doodle-bug". To "beat'er on the back" is to make fast time; to "bend the rail" is to turn the switch; to "jerk soup" means to take water on the fly; and to "wipe the clock" is to stop suddenly.

RAILROADING, HEROISM TRADITIONS IN THIS FAMILY

When modest young Frank Jones, of Wellington Street, Verdun, Montreal, saved two little boys from drowning in the icy St. Lawrence recently and was recommended for a medal, he was carrying on a family tradition. No one was prouder of him than his grandfather, James Power, of Point St. Charles. Frank has saved five lives. The grandfather, still a strong swimmer at the age of 75, has six rescues to his credit.

Frank's five rescues all took place in the last 18 months. Once a man jumped into the river after a watch he had dropped. The youth saved him and retrieved the watch. "I've lost my teeth," another man said when Frank had pulled him out of the water. Frank went back after the teeth. The hero is six feet one inch in height and weighs 130 pounds. He will be 18 on May 21. Ever since he was a child, he has been swimming.

fishing and shooting and has many cups and prizes. Testimonies of his prowess. Twice he has shot the Lachine rapids in a canoe.

His father, George Jones, is assistant foreman in the iron foundry shops of the Canadian National Railways. His mother is the daughter of Jas. Power, member of one of Montreal's pioneer railway families. James Power retired in 1929 after nearly half a century of service in the Canadian National shops, twenty-eight years of which were spent as foreman of the wheel and tender shop.

Now Frank Jones is about to enter Canadian National service in Montreal. The old railroad family is carrying on into the fourth generation.

LENSES FROM PLASTICS

It is now possible to mold lenses already polished and ready for use in eyeglasses, binoculars and cameras. The lenses which are unbreakable, are made from plastic transparent materials. They have optical properties said to be superior to glass, and are only half the weight of glass. The new method does away with the long and expensive process of grinding.

VOLUME LXIV, NO. 27

Berlin and America

(Christian Science Monitor)

Brief and blunt is the answer to continued rumblings about a secret agreement between Great Britain and the United States. Senator Johnson of California has got a plain and public "no" from Secretary Hull. Everyone knew there was no treaty of alliance. No one who knows Mr. Hull will now question his categorical denial that any agreement exists for co-operative action by the British and American navies. Yet the fear of millions of Americans that their Government will be drawn into another war by London leading strings cannot be refuted by a simple "no."

There is no secret agreement for joint naval action. There is no blue-print for dividing up the seven seas between British and American fleets. There is an open treaty—the London Treaty of 1936. By it Britain, France and America agreed to limits on the size but not the number of ships. They have all questioned Japan about her building plans. They are acting under a treaty clause allowing any signatory to go above the limits if a non-signer started building bigger ships.

In 1936 Britain and America both denied Japan's plea for parity; both plainly indicated they would build if necessary, to prevent it. They have taken parallel but not joint action. They have kept each other fully advised. Mr. Anthony Eden's "daily consultation" phrase may not be too strong. But neither is committed to help the other. If they were, some of their projected increases might be unnecessary.

Yet there is a British-American agreement. And to some it is a secret. Italy has never understood why feeling in Boston over Ethiopia was so similar to that in Glasgow. Mussolini might be surprised to know how "English" is the American reaction to his intervention in Spain and his casualness about pirate submarines. France and Germany can hardly fathom the inwardness of an unguarded Canadian border. Japan has been puzzled by the similarity of British and American feeling over the bombing of Chinese civilians as well as the slamming of the "open door."

British interest in continued American occupation of the Philippines may not be quite clear to Tokyo. In Berlin it might be difficult to explain why London felt so much concern about a far smaller German Navy in 1914 and so little in 1921 about an American Navy actually or potentially bigger than Britain's. In the orange groves of Senator Johnson's California, it may not be wholly evident why—without any plan for dividing the oceans—the American fleet can be concentrated in the Pacific.

In the mountains of Senator Borah's Idaho, there may be no deep appreciation of what America's position might be in a world where Britain ranked as a second or third rate power. And on the plains of Senator Nye's, North Dakota, the belief may persist that only Morgan loans took the United States into the World War.

Yet the foundation stones of a basic Anglo-American agreement are no secret. One is no more occult than the habit of thinking in the language of the English Bible. One is plain to all who know the Puritan story and the long struggle for freedom of conscience and of speech. There is no mystery in a common, common law, in the shared heritage of slow-grown liberties. Memories, traditions, ideals. Sports, songs, sentiments—there are many stones in the foundation. Americans listening to the Coronation, Britons to President Roosevelt's inaugural—by radio sharing today's events as yesterday's history.

And not all the agreement rests on sentiment. Trade reaching three-quarters of a billion weaves a web regardless of likes and dislikes. Common interests in China, in a dozen other sections of the globe, are so great that "pulling American chestnuts out of the fire" might be as true a taunt as the reverse.

There is no need to exaggerate the foundations, material or spiritual, of the agreement between Britain and America. They may have been exaggerated in 1917. Neither country will gain by ultimately building on foundations that do not exist.

But there is no good in blinding our eyes to the real understanding which makes parallel action probable and natural. Americans who depreciate the ties with Britain only falsify their country's position. Without alliance, without secret agreement, without any more sentiment than inevitably exists, a sound foreign policy for America must take full account of fundamental agreements with Britain.

FARM BOY NEEDS GOOD EDUCATION

Who are to be farmers of the future if they are not the farm boys of the present? How is farming to be a progressive enterprise if it is not subject to changing conditions and requirements? Who is to put farming on a higher level in its relations with other industries if farmers themselves cannot put it there? Is it fair to expect the farm boy to continue on the basis of the past and with no more educational equipment than an incomplete public school course when boys entering other industries and professions are in increasing numbers being given higher and higher university training? These are questions that have to do with the future welfare of farming and the future well being of farmers.—EX.

And, of course, the new model cars will be driven by the same old drivers, who burn up the road without reference to anyone's feelings and little regard for anyone's life—not even the driver's own. It would be nice to think there is going to be also a 1938 model motorist.—Calgary Albertan.

"Royals" is Suit New 65-Card Bridge Deck

It looks as though there's lots new under the sun. Behold the fifth suit in a new 65-card bridge deck which recently made its debut in New York from England. The title of the new suit is "Royals" and the value is between spades and no trumps. Sixteen cards are dealt to each player, the 65th card going into the "kitty" from where it may be exchanged by the dealer for a card in the dummy hand. A game of poker might be pretty involved with a deck like this—especially if it was seven card stud with deuces wild.

Highest Water Temperature on Record

A seventeen year record, by the Atlantic Biological Station, of water temperatures in the Bay of Fundy region has brought out the fact that summer surface water temperatures of 1937, were exceptionally high, with the highest monthly mean of the period 1921-37 recorded for May, June and August.

In the investigation of problems of the sea, a knowledge of water conditions is a first essential. We are all aware that one acre of ground may be favourable to one particular kind of crop, and unfavourable to another. The concentration of different fisheries over different parts of our coastline, ably demonstrates that a similar situation exists for water. One versed in agricultural pursuits is well able to analyse a sample of soil and advise as to its suitability for a particular crop under suitable climatic conditions. Similarly, one versed in fishery sciences is well able, through a knowledge of water conditions, to advise with respect to a particular fishery. It is reasonable that one phase of the work of the Biological Board of Canada—the scientific arm of the Department of Fisheries—is concerned solely with the investigation of conditions in the sea.

It may be a surprise to some to find that water conditions in the Bay of Fundy are considerably different from those in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. It may be even more surprising to learn that summer surface water temperatures are, in general, more than ten degrees Fahrenheit warmer in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, than in the more southerly area of the Bay of Fundy. It is a fact also, that the bottom waters of Bedford Basin, which opens into Halifax Harbour, are warmest during the autumn and winter months (generally between 37 and 39 deg. F., from September to March) and coldest during the spring and summer months (generally between 32 and 35 deg. F.). These facts might suggest that there are many such similar features of our Canadian Atlantic waters that require more than passing attention.

As many as fifteen coastal points have, at one time or another, been chosen for regular observations of surface water temperatures so that we may have a knowledge of daily, monthly, seasonal, and annual variations of the surface water temperatures of representative areas of our coastal waters. Observations at these points were made twice daily and recorded over a period of years. At present, these observations are being continued at St. Andrews in the Bay of Fundy region, at Halifax and the Halifax lightship on the south coast of Nova Scotia, at Entry Island of the Magdalen Island group, and at Cape St. Mary and Mutton Bay on the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. On the basis of an analysis of the data of the past few months, from these selected points, it can be stated that the comparatively mild winter of 1936-37 was reflected in the monthly means of the winter months which were generally higher than normal, at points relatively free from ice. The summer surface water temperatures in the Bay of Fundy were also exceptionally high, with the highest monthly mean of the period 1921-37 recorded for May, June and August. On the south coast of Nova Scotia however, summer surface water temperatures, with the exception of those for July, were either normal or less than normal. July temperatures in Halifax Harbour were well above normal, and the July mean was the highest recorded for the period 1926-37. In the Gulf of St. Lawrence, monthly mean surface water temperatures

And Now It's Industry's Turn

To the Editor of the Courier:
Sir:—"Tourist business Digby's sole hope for future." "The idea of an industrialized Digby is a canker that must be rooted out." Statements such as the above brand their author as a man lacking in foresight and terribly narrow-minded. Surely he does not believe them, let us hope he is writing merely for the sake of argument. In case he is not, I should like to take a little of your valuable space to show Mr. Wilde the error of his ways.

"Digby's only hope for the future lies in the tourist business." That is nothing more nor less than a joke. A good future depends on a sound past. How does the tourist business meet this requirement? We must all agree that in Digby, the tourist business has had anything but a sound past. The present as an evidence of that past is surely far from sound. If the tourist business has failed both past and present, how can we look for it to prove the only hope for the future? It is true, success has often been wrested from defeat, but only at tremendous cost. Is the tourist business worth that cost? Would it not be better to spend the money required to resurrect the tourist business on industrial development? Such development would lead to the fact that the tourist business can never give us, year round employment, cheaper living, etc. If we were to ask the man on the street, the man who earns his living by the sweat of his brow, what he preferred; the tourist business with its nine-month layoff when he has to pray God to send snow so that he can earn a little money by clearing the streets, money needed to feed and clothe his family; or steady year-round employment offered by industry, I know he would choose

This year, spring appeared to come on its scheduled date. March 21st certainly was a real "spring day" and the days that have followed have been delightful. Practically every trace of snow along the main highways—in this section at least—has disappeared; youngsters are playing "catch" and marbles, and in a few more days we expect to see little girls out with their skipping ropes. Next we will look for crocuses, daffodils, mayflowers and dandelions. Spring fever has already struck—in fact, with some, the only time they are not afflicted with this malady is when they are asleep.

But the disappearance of the snow and ice from the streets shows up the winter's accumulation of filth and rubbish. The streets are in a disgraceful condition. We saw some of the local merchants trying to clean up in front of their premises but that only shows up the rest of it—and it should not be the work of the merchants anyway. Why not do what many other towns do: Get the pumper out and wash down the streets. The town should take the lead in work of this kind.

This week I am letting a correspondent who sent me the following letter take my place in this column. I will, however, make a little comment in regard to the least important part of his epistle, viz.: his reference regarding "coming events" as found in the first paragraph. The "forward advice" we are endeavoring to exclude on the ground that the items are in the nature of advertising and not news, refers to the countless paragraphs and items received at our office regarding teas, pantry sales, concerts, and so forth, for which admission or a charge is made for the benefit of some organization. These items are purely of an advertising nature, and sent us with no other object in view but to advertise the function mentioned. And in many cases when we send out bills for this disguised advertising the recipients are surprised and shocked that we

The following is taken from the Telegraph-Journal, Saint John: "The silver tea, held at the home of Mrs. G. Douglas Denton, Pad-dock Street, on Saturday afternoon, proved to be one of the most delightful social occasions of the early spring season. The drawing-room, like other parts of the house, was adorned with spring flowers and lighted with green candles in silver candlesticks. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. R. J. Collins, Mrs. David R. Smith, Mrs. C. Gordon Clark, Mrs. A. William McIntosh, Mrs. Rex Cormier, Mrs. George A. Cameron, Mrs. K. Burton Reed, Mrs. Ella Palmer, and Miss Alice Robinson. The patrons were received by Mrs. Denton, Mrs. S. S. Poole and Mrs. A. G. Gunter. The table in the dining-room had a cloth of lace and was centred with a crystal vase of green carnations. Green and ivory candles in silver candlesticks completed the artistic effect. Those who assisted were Mrs. W. L. Clark, Mrs. Harold Estabrooks, Mrs. N. J. Cunningham, Mrs. Harry Mealey and Miss Kathleen Richards. The proceeds from the tea will be used for the work of the Philathea Class of German Street Baptist Church, of which Mrs. A. G. Gunter is the president."

DIGBY COUNTY LADY 104 LAST SUNDAY

Last Sunday, Mrs. Leonie Maillet, residing at St. Alphonse de Clare celebrated her 104th birthday. Her maiden name was Miss Leonie Boucher, a daughter of the late Simon Boucher and Marguerite (Maise) Boucher, and she was born at Shuice Point, Yarmouth County, in 1834. She has lived under six sovereigns from William IV to George VI and also under six Popes. Her grandfather and the progenitor of the name in Yarmouth County was Jean Boucher who had married Anne Doucet, a daughter of Michel Doucet 1st and of Mary (Maise) Doucet, a sister of Rosalie Doucet who had married Jean Baptiste Thibault, who in 1798 had settled at Salmon River on the premises now occupied by A. N. Deveau. He then moved to Lake Doucet to the premises now occupied by Eddie J. Deveau, and lived there till the great conflagration of 1820. Losing all his belongings in that fire he moved to the present village of Mayflower, being the progenitor of the Thibaults of that community.

Mrs. L. Maillet was twice married. Her first husband was Cyprien Frontain, of Plympton, and the second Vincent Maillet of St. Alphonse de Clare, who predeceased her four or five years. Despite her advanced age she is still quite active. Although quite deaf she has a good memory and can relate anecdotes long gone by. In 1901 she visited her native place, Shuice Point, it being her last visit there. Last year she took an auto trip and visited relatives and old time friends at Lake Doucet. In her young days her family had much to suffer from the incursions of American privateers in 1812. A sister, Anne, who had married the late Mande Geddy, of Mayflower, lived to the age of 101.

The oldest resident in Clare after her, seems to be Mrs. Theophile Deveau, of Mavillette. Her maiden name was Miss Marguerite Comeau, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Marco Dudley Comeau, of Grosses Coques, and an aunt of Rev. Father Bourneut, rector of Meteghan.

FIRE DOES $3,000 DAMAGE

Fire of undetermined origin badly damaged the home of Robert Yorke, Bear River box manufacturer, early Tuesday afternoon. The blaze was discovered by Alfred Marshall, who saw smoke issuing from the roof. Unable to break into the burning building he rushed to Bear River, a quarter of a mile away, and called the fire brigade, which responded quickly, but the house was so filled with smoke it was difficult to fight the flames successfully. Mr. and Mrs. Yorke were spending the day in Digby, and arrived home shortly after the fire had been extinguished. The blaze penetrated the floors and walls of the second floor and seeped through the walls. The furnishings were saved, and were only slightly damaged, although a quantity of clothing was lost. The damage is estimated at $3,000.

Hands In Resignation

Rev. A. J. Prosser has resigned the position he has held for fifteen years as Agent of the Children's Aid Society of Annapolis. He has accepted a call to the Annapolis-Granville group of Baptist Churches and will take up his pastoral duties on the first of May, when the newly appointed Agent, Mr. Walter Wood, of Greenfield, Queens Co., begins his work. Mr. Prosser will continue to have supervisory oversight of the work until the new Agent becomes familiar with it.

During the fifteen years Mr. Prosser has served as Agent of the Annapolis Children's Aid Society nearly two hundred children have been made its wards. He assisted in the organization of Children's Aid Societies in Annapolis, Digby, Shelburne, Queens and Lunenburg Counties and has at various times acted as Agent for the Societies of Annapolis, Digby, Yarmouth, Shelburne and Colchester Counties, and has taken over about four hundred and fifty wards.

He began work with the Society while pastor of the church at Bridgetown and resigned there to give full time to the Child Welfare work.

the latter. Then he would not need to dread the winter for Digby would no longer hibernate but work would go on year-round.

It is very easy for people with assured incomes to rave of the wonders of the tourist industry, but I think they would sing a different tune if they were forced to make their living here in Digby. It isn't the tourist industry that feeds and clothes our working people and keeps them 'off the town' during the winter, no, it is the few small industries we have even now. Digby's big drawback is that we have too many people here getting their living from inherited money, interest on stocks and bonds. They don't care if Digby prospers or not, they still live and enjoy the comforts of life. What do they care if Tom, Dick or Harry can't get work, let 'em get out or go to the poorhouse, they're only the working class anyhow. Why, if we have factories here it would ruin the scenery and the noise of the whistles might disturb the dear, dear tourists."

If we were to ask the storekeepers their views on whether Digby's future lies in the tourist industry, I know we would get a negative answer. One of the most forward steps in merchandising taken in Digby in recent years was made not for the tourist but for our working men, the Co-operative movement. Even the stores engaged in the tourist trade realize that it has no large possibilities.

No, Mr. Editor, I think Mr. Wilde is on the wrong track when he asserts that our only hope lies in the tourist business. Our hope lies in industrial development, in developing our latent possibilities along these lines. The tourist business is a good sideline but should not be depended upon as a sole hope.

Mr. Wilde says that Digby cannot become an industrial centre, we haven't the facilities. I am sure that if he will give this matter more thought he will see that such is not the case. Digby has facilities for the development of a great many branches of industry. We perhaps are not suited to the iron and steel business or coal mining. But think how many other industries there are. We have a good supply of raw materials near at hand. Forest, sea and land could produce materials usable in many industries. We are well located for local and export shipping. We have a good supply of labour handy. True, it is not skilled but it is skillful and can be trained. Are we going to make use of all these possibilities, or are we going to go on, hoping that times will pick up in the United States so that the tourists will return for a couple of months next year?

I agree that we can improve our tourist business, adopt a more practical policy but don't let us neglect all our other opportunities for the advancement of our town. Digby's sole hope for the future does not lie in the tourist business. The tourist business, as a sideline, will help Digby but we need something more firm and stable on which to base our hopes for the future. I think, and I know many will agree with me, that the advancement and development of Digby as an industrial town will assure us that the future will be a good one. The canker that needs to be rooted out is not the idea of industrialization but the idea that Digby can not prosper and develop except as a tourist town.

NEW HAL ROACH SUPER COMEDY
"Topper" Stars Constance Bennett and Cary Grant in Gay Romance

The Hal Roach-M-G-M super-feature comedy, "Topper," opening Monday, Bijou theatre, streamlines spectacularly into the ultra-modern and futuristic realms of entertainment.

Luxury and richness provide the background for the fast moving action and hilarious humor of the new picture, based on Thorne Smith's delightful novel of whimsy, wit and satire.

Co-starring Constance Bennett and Cary Grant, with Roland Young as "Topper", and a supporting cast which includes Billie Burke, Alan Mowbray and Eugene Pallette in featured roles, provided Director Norman McLeod with outstanding players to enact the astounding and ribald adventures and the merry mirthquake of episodes.

The luxurious wardrobes shown promise new creations for next season's styles. Samuel Murray Lange, noted stylist, returned to the Roach studios, direct from Paris, to design and execute the gorgeous gowns for Miss Bennett and Miss Burke, who are already renowned as lovely ladies of foremost fashion.

Advanced technical fashions introduced area futuristic automobile roadster and an ultra-modern streamlined railroad coach.

PENSIONED OFF A FIT MAN

Rigours of Police Life Did Not Harm Him

At 50 years of age he was presumed to be beyond the arduous demands of police duties. But was he? Read what he says now—five years after he was pensioned:—

"I am a man of 55 years. I was pensioned off from the Police. I went through thick and thin, day and night in all weathers, while I was on the Force, and am to-day as fit as any man still serving on the Force. People often ask me 'How do you keep so young?' and my answer is 'Kruschen, Salts.' I have used Kruschen now for the last 13 years, and I will certainly use these Salts for the rest of my days."—W. J.

The numerous salts in Kruschen provide just that gentle daily aid your internal organs require to enable them to perform their work properly. These vital salts keep your liver and kidneys in top-notch efficiency, so that they help to free your system of poisonous waste matter. The result is a feeling of youthful health and vigour—"that Kruschen feeling!"

2-WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

The speed with which "Aspirin" tablets act in relieving the distressing symptoms of colds and accompanying sore throat is utterly amazing... and the treatment is simple and pleasant. This is all you do. Crush and dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back. This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain ceases promptly; rawness is relieved. You will say it is remarkable. And the few cents it costs effects a big saving over expensive "throat gargles" and strong medicines.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

BURNED TO DEATH

The little community of Corberrie, about 15 miles from Weymouth, was plunged into sudden sadness Tuesday morning, when the residents learned that one of their oldest and most highly respected people, Miss Emma Burbine, had burned to death during the night. Miss Burbine and her brother, Nemeis, both old age pensioners, lived together. When lighting a lamp Monday night, in preparing for bed, the fire in some way caught into a table cloth and then caught Miss Burbine's clothing, spreading rapidly. Her brother frantically endeavored to tear off her clothing and extinguish the flame, but his attempts were in a measure unsuccessful as she was fatally burned before this was accomplished.

Dr. H. J. Melanson, of Weymouth was immediately summoned, but owing to the muddy condition of the roads, with the frost coming out, was delayed in getting through by hours, finally having to make the trip by way of Concession, many miles out of the way, and he, with Father LeBlanc of St. Bernard's, finally reached her bedside a few minutes before she died, about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Deceased is survived by her brother, Nemeis, with whom she resided, and a brother, Luke, also of Corberrie.

Mrs. G. L. Coggins visited relatives in (Yarmouth last week.

Mrs. Fred Shinner, of Halifax, (formerly Miss Ethel Grant, R. N.) is visiting her mother, Mrs. Albert Grant, at Weymouth North.

Among those going from Mt. Allison will be Gerald Tingley, of the Arherst teaching staff, a former principal of the Weymouth High School.

Mr. H. T. BOUGHTON, says:

"I have learned quite a lot about transportation in thirty-five years as a locomotive engineer, finishing this period without one accident or demerit mark. Safety comes first... I have never yet seen another car equal Dodge in a stop... An engineer thinks more about how he is going to stop in an emergency than how he is going to get started... We always felt safe with the hydraulic brakes any time or place. Dodge has a great engine too... It will always be Dodge for me."

Cod Oil
Fox Biscuits
Cannot Be Equalled

Question: Why are Silver Tip cod oil fox biscuits better than any other cod oil biscuit?

Answer: Because S. T. cod oil biscuits are coated with the best grade of cod liver oil after baking. Other makes have the cod oil cooked in 200-300 degrees of heat thereby rendering it useless.

Mr. Smith, number two, aged thirty-three, has been following the rule adopted fifteen years ago—namely, to take a leaf out of the books of successful men. Because of his character, and good standing, his business ability and his habit of saving, has been able to go to his bank for assistance when he needed to be aided over a difficulty.

... at 60

Mr. Smith, number three, aged sixty, finds his theory has produced a natural result. He finds he, too, is prosperous. At age eighteen he couldn't have told you much about what the bank could do for him. At age thirty-three, he was anxious, hopeful, and experienced. At age sixty he is convinced of the attitude his bank has held towards him, and its friendly and practical assistance. His early resolve to come to his bank has paid him very big dividends.

Mrs. Leslie Crosby

There passed away at her home at Hebron, Yarmouth County, on Friday last, Mrs. Leslie Crosby (nee Clara Miller, a former Bear River girl) after a very short illness of pneumonia, aged 38 years. She was a devoted and valued member of the Hebron Memorial Baptist Church, very active in the choir and Sunday School, of which she was President of the ladies' "Torch-Bearers" class. Both Mr. and Mrs. Crosby have been much appreciated in the church and musical circles of their community, who deeply regret her passing. In addition to her sorrowing husband and two small sons, Robert, 6, and William, 9, she leaves a mother, Mrs. W. E. Miller, one sister, Annie, and one brother Roy D., residing in Carleton. The funeral service was held from the home in Hebron on Tuesday afternoon, the 22nd, with the pastor, Rev. A. H. Whitman, officiating. Interment was in the family lot at Mt. Hope Cemetery, Bear River, on Wednesday, Rev. G. D. Brydon in charge.

..and a bag of REGAL

"All set, Jim. Everything's aboard, including that bag of REGAL you're so scared of leaving behind. Oh, I know! If you reached home without it you'd get an awful bawling out and have to come right back for it. Well, you can't blame your wife at that, Jim, when you think of the dandy bread she bakes with REGAL."

NOVA SCOTIA AS A SUMMER RESORT

Nova Scotia with its beautiful natural scenery, farms, famed apple orchards, boating and easy accessibility to all countries, is an ideal summer home for tourists. Many come year after year, some to board and many to their summer camps on the lovely sandy beaches. Many of these beaches have surf bathing.

All scenery of Nova Scotia is beautiful with the forest of green spruce, pine, maple and birch, especially in the autumn when the leaves have turned to red and gold; its waters teeming with fish, its forests with game and the roads winding along rivers and lakes for miles and miles. The scenery is exceptionally beautiful along the South Shore, Cape Breton Island and around Cape Blomidon.

The apple orchards are situated principally in the Land of Evangeline. The apple orchards when in full bloom, are visited by thousands of people. Apple picking time is also a visiting time, especially when thousands of barrels of apples are being shipped to England.

For lovers of fishing, either rod or deep sea fishing, there is no better place. Tuna fishing provides a real thrill. Other fish which are plentiful, are sword fish, cod, pollock, trout and salmon.

The main roads of Nova Scotia are paved, these with the beautiful scenery, and the numerous refreshment stands along the highway make an auto drive a most delightful affair.

The history of Nova Scotia is both interesting and romantic, from the crumbling walls of Louisbourg designed as the greatest fortress of the new world, to the fort which crowns the heights of Halifax.

With paved roads, beautiful scenery, sports of all kinds, first class accommodations, favorable climate, and romance, what better place could a tourist find to spend a summer than in Nova Scotia.

Rescued at the Point of Death

A column of smoke rising from the chimney of a hunter's cabin, near Grand Lake, in the hinterland of Digby County, caused two Doucetteville loggers—Hantford and Angus Thibault—to investigate, and led to the discovery of forty-year-old Frank Croft, of Wolfville, whom they found in a pitiful condition, seated on a chair in front of the little camp stove.

Croft reached the cabin, known as the "Archie Kate" place, owned by Archie Amirault well known Doucetteville trapper, about four o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. He had been wandering through the deep forests for five days and four nights. Entering it, he lighted a fire with half a match he had in his pocket, and sat down, prepared to die. Half starved, and badly frozen, he could go no further.

He left Caribou Plains, where he had been employed cutting pulpwood, about 10 o'clock Monday morning. Being advised of a good trail, it was his intention to strike through woods to the road, then go to Digby where he would take a train for his home near Wolfville.

Unfortunately, the winter's snows had covered the trail and Croft soon became lost, and before the end of the first day began his almost hopeless wanderings. About midday on Monday he came across a small cabin, and entered it. Three he found a quart of molasses, which proved to be his only nourishment until he was found by the Doucetteville loggers Saturday morning. The cabin, also, provided his only shelter from the wind, rain and cold, until he reached the camp which is about half way between Unacke and Grand Lakes, where he was found.

Croft does not know the location of the cabin he entered at midnight on Monday, but he found it so cold he was unable to sleep and spent the night keeping a roaring fire going in the camp stove.

Leaving that cabin Tuesday morning he wandered aimlessly day and night, until finding shelter late Friday afternoon. Often, he said, he waded streams and brooks which went over the tops of his fifteen-inch lumberman's rubbers, often, he stepped into deep holes; frequently he fell, and on one occasion lay on the ground unconscious for several minutes as the result of a fall.

On Friday he was so weak from hunger and exhaustion that he could barely get along; his feet and legs ached, and frequently he covered his ground on his hands and knees. When he was found, Saturday morning, his feet were badly frozen; his arms and legs frost bitten; half-starved and suffering he was prepared to die. The loggers, who entered the cabin by chance, gave him what assistance they could; then returning ed to their own camp, bringing back a horse and sleigh, and food.

Croft was fed and then carried to the waiting sleigh. The party arrived at Mc Bride's Corner, nine miles from the camp, about 1.30 on Saturday afternoon.

From this place Dr. H. J. Pothier, of Weymouth, was summoned, and the victim removed to the Digby General Hospital, where he has been placed in care of Dr. W. R. Dickie. He will likely be confined to the hospital bed for some weeks.

Telling the story of his wanderings, Croft stated he saw plenty of game and "ghosts," although he admits that the "ghosts" were probably the result of his condition, and that his mind was playing tricks on him. He told of meeting two men, one of whom offered him a job cutting pulpwood, but when he went to answer them and accept, the offer, the men had disappeared. "They were probably ghosts," he added. He also told of meeting a boy, when he arrived at the camp, nine miles from the highway, on Friday afternoon, and of asking the lad where he could get some grub. The boy, he said, replied we have very little at home, but come with me and perhaps we can get something for you to eat. To this, he said, he replied his feet hurt him so he couldn't walk any further. The boy was likely conjured up in his imagination, due to the exhausted condition of his mind and body, but he (Croft) said, "These things seem real to me; so do many other things I saw, which I know didn't exist."

He also tells of seeing much game and of wandering in thickets for hours at a time. Frequently he walked in circles, and hours later, came across his own tracks.

THE EARTH'S CRUST

According to science, the earth's crust rises and falls with the gravitational pull of the moon. Twice a day Halifax and Vancouver and every other city, village and farm in the nation rise and fall about nine inches.

DO YOU KNOW THE DIFFERENCE between A Person-to-Person and a Station-to-Station Long Distance Call?

The first important difference is in the cost. Station-to-Station service is about one-third cheaper than Person-to-Person service.

A Station-to-Station call is one where you merely ask to be connected with a distant telephone. After the called telephone answers, if you wish, you may then ask for some particular person, but the charge on a Station-to-Station call begins when the distant telephone answers.

A Person-to-Person call is one where you ask to be connected with a particular person at a distant telephone. Timing of a Person-to-Person call does not begin until the person you want is brought to the telephone.

On both these types of service there is a marked saving after 7 P. M., and all day Sunday, when Night Rates are in effect. The Night Rate reduction on Station-to-Station calls is approximately ten per cent greater than on Person-to-Person calls.

The front pages of your Telephone Directory provide Long Distance Rates and other information covering every type of service, and our Long Distance operator will gladly answer any question you may wish to ask. Call upon her freely.

"ABOUT THIS AND THAT" Continued

make a charge for such publicity. We must keep hammering away to remind them that advertising is our only stock-in-trade.

And now for our friend's letter:

"On several occasions recently you have mentioned the fact that a newspaper is run on the receipts from advertising, that a thing is news after it has happened, that you cannot include forward advice of coming events in news columns, and so on, and one begins to wonder if perhaps, you are not losing sight to some extent of the enormous responsibility which rests upon the press in its capacity of a directional influence in the community which it serves.

"At the present time, when the whole civilized world hangs perilously on the edge of catastrophe, it is the bounden duty of the press to seek Truth, and to place it fearlessly before the people, so that common sense and right-thinking may not be displaced by propaganda and mob-hysteria and in no country is this more needed than in Canada.

"The first thought which must occur to every serious-minded Canadian today is: How does Canada stand in relation to the growing tension in Europe? And that question leads at once to another: What IS Canada? Is she in reality a Nation, with a will of her own, a policy of her own, and a freedom and power to carry that policy into effect? Or is she just a "puppet state" carrying on a "make-believe" government as a sop to her people's pride, but actually under the control of an outside power, in the direction of whose activities she has no real say?

"The present situation in Europe could easily have been averted by prompt action several years ago, but those steps were not taken, and today we are faced with conditions far worse than those which existed in 1914. To what extent is Canada responsible for this state of affairs?

"To what extent is she to answer for the short-sighted weak-kneed policy of a hag-ridden government which is not her own?

"If Canadians feel either that 'they have no say in the matter', that whatever the British government decides to do, Canada must follow suit, or, if Canadians feel that she is jointly responsible, as a result of her own part in international affairs, with Britain, for the present impasse, then there is no need for further debate, it is just a case of 'following in father's footsteps' to the inevitable collapse of civilization which must follow another big war.

"But, if Canadians find any serious doubt in their minds on this subject, far deeper thought is needed. We must try in the first place to drive from our minds all personal feeling. No man, unless he is a fool—or amazingly brave—can face the prospect of taking an active part in modern warfare without a chill at the heart; no normal woman can think of her husband, her son, or her sweetheart, being pitchforked into that roaring inferno of death, mutilation, filth and horror unspeakable, without sheer terror touching her, but these things MUST NOT BE ALLOWED TO COUNT. Cool, calm and fearless, we must ask ourselves what is best for Canada? What is best for the future of Civilization? We must remember that the last Great War was a war to end wars, a war to make the world safe for Democracy, and we must look around us in the world as it is today, and note just how far it went to achieving that end.

"If the men who went, never to return from those bloody fields of battle, had known that THIS was to be the reward of all their suffering and sacrifice, would they have given as they did? Would it have been RIGHT for them to do so? Can war bring any lasting solution to the troubles of the human race?

"We do not deride the doctor and the nurses who tend the shattered wrecks spewed up by the God of War because they do not carry arms, because we realize that their part is just as important and as heroic as that of the fighting man. Under certain conditions may not the same be true of a Nation? May it not be that the whole future hope of civilization and Christianity will depend upon the courage of a Nation to withstand the impulse to join in the fray? May it not be that for various reasons the people of this continent are best suited for that part?

"Please understand that this article is no plea for pacifism. If it is right that we should fight, then let us fight with a will, and as one man. Let us fight with a clear understanding of WHY we are fighting, and what is our objective. Let us take up arms with the certainty that they will not again be laid to rest until the point is reached when we may know for certain that twenty years hence the world will not be saying: 'Those men died in vain'.

"It is our right as citizens of a Democratic country to know what our Government is doing. It is the duty of the press to seek out this information and make it public. It is the duty of the people to speak their mind and to impress upon this occasion, no autocratic measures will be tolerated; that, once convinced of the Rightful need for action, the Canadian people will move as one man, and will fight to the last ditch, but that until that conviction has been reached we have a will of our own which will not bow to external coercion."

were either normal or less than normal, but in region of Belle Isle Strait, the monthly means of June and July are the highest on record for the period 1930-37. August temperatures were somewhat higher than normal.

Our observations of surface water temperatures extend far from the coast. Self-recording instruments carried by vessels of the Canadian National Steamships, out of Saint John, Halifax, and Boston, furnish regular and accurate temperature records of the surface waters of a considerable portion of the western North Atlantic. These data are particularly valuable when combined with similar figures obtained by vessels of United States registry. An analysis of a recent late August record indicates that the "Central Atlantic water," which lies south of the Gulf Stream, exhibits surface water temperatures which are approximately two degrees Fahrenheit higher than the recognized temperature limit set by previous observations of the past ten years. This would indicate that the exceptionally high surface water temperatures, observed in Canadian coastal waters, were featured also during the past summer, in oceanic areas of the western North Atlantic. —(H. B. Hachey.)
