Loss of the schooner "W. Coombes" is a tragedy. The ship struck the Lulu Bay shoals, and was wrecked with her cargo of lumber. All the crew were rescued, and the lumber was salvaged. The schooner was built by H. H. Coombes, and was owned by H. H. Coombes.

In Wake of Record Atlantic Hurricane

With a death toll expected to reach well over 800, authorities toiled night and day to care for thousands of refugees made homeless by the hurricane which swept the New England states, doing damage estimated at almost half a billion dollars. One of the victims is shown, TOP, as he walks disconsolately through the splintered wreckage that marked Westhampton, L. I., after the hurricane had passed. An aerial view of the water front of New London, Conn., which bore the brunt of the storm shows a chaos of shattered boats and failure of power.

Sunken Treasure

A bar of gold worth about $4,250 and a Spanish gold piece of 1779 have been on exhibition in London as evidence of the partial success of the salvage operations carried on by the dredger Karimata on the Lutine, wrecked off the Dutch island of Terschelling in 1799. The bell of the Lutine, salvaged in 1859, has hung in Lloyd's for nearly eighty years, where it is struck once to call silence for good news and twice for bad news.

The Karimata was built by the Billiton Company of The Hague to be used in dredging tin in Karimata Strait in the Dutch East Indies. The salvage operations off Terschelling Island are described by the London Times as a "mere test of power". Salvage of the vessel is vested in Lloyd's which issued a license to the Billiton Company. The gold bar was recovered on July 29, along with a number of silver coins. A day later a few silver and gold coins were brought to the surface, but the haul of principal interest on that day consisted of three guns, each about eight feet long and each still loaded with grape-shot. Later efforts have been less fruitful.

Early in August the dredging difficulties were increased by landslides and it was necessary to send a diver down sixty feet to reconnoiter. Subsequent dredging brought up a few gold pieces, but completion of the search of the entire 100 square meters first mapped out produced such scant results that a decision was reached to extend the area of search. This decision brought immediate results with a haul of three gold sovereigns, several silver pieces and a silver watch containing a lock of hair. Some big chains that were brought to the surface also encouraged the salvagers who identified them as having been used in the salvage operations of 1858 and 1859, when gold, as well as the Lutine's bell, was recovered. The discovery of the chains persuaded them that they had found the after hold of the Lutine in which the chains had been lowered in the earlier salvage operations.

When the Lutine was wrecked she had on board gold and silver coin consigned to Hamburg merchants by various London merchants; the menace of the French dictated the use of a naval vessel (and one originally captured from the French), for this service. How much treasure the Lutine carried cannot now be determined, for the records were lost with the destruction of the Royal Exchange by fire in 1838. Contemporary accounts, as one in the Gentleman's Magazine for November, 1799, give the Lutine's cargo as $700,000 in silver and gold coin and $5,000,000 in gold bullion. More than $500,000 worth of the coin was recovered within two years of the wreck before silting covered the Lutine's bones with sand. The salvage operations which brought the Lutine's bell to the surface also recovered more coins, cannon balls and fragments of the ship's structure. But each salvage attempt up to the present time has been defeated in the end by the same drifting and sliding of the sand that interrupted the Karimata's promising beginning.

The lure of the old treasure, ship seems just as strong as does the perennial magnet of pirate hoard, with mysterious chart and srypaogram preferred. The Lutine account tells of some of the difficulties encountered even where exact location is known.

Glendon Handspiker and Edward Ross were successful in getting a deer.

Canada Counts Her Reindeer

More than 4,500 reindeer were counted by herders in the annual round-up of the Dominion government's reindeer herd on Richards Island at the mouth of the Mackenzie River.

The animals were reported to be increasing in numbers. They were imported from Asia in 1935 to provide the basis for a reindeer population on the Arctic coast which might provide food and employment for Canadian Eskimos.

A total of 4,181 deer were put through the corrals, while an estimated 350 deer escaped the herders by swimming across a shallow bay.

Despite unavoidable annual losses, the herd has shown a steady growth since the original 2,370 reindeer were delivered to the Mackenzie delta area in 1936.

Richards Island, on which the round-up takes place, is the summer grazing ground for the herd. After the freeze up it will be moved to winter pasture on the mainland.

Herding is done by Laplanders, imported from Norway, assisted by Eskimo apprentices who have been selected as part of the government's scheme for developing a Canadian reindeer industry.

The animals have adapted themselves satisfactorily to local climatic and other conditions and consideration is now being given to establishment of a native herd, distinct from the main herd.

Noah's Flood

In the Weekly Telegraph, of London, appears the following interesting article by Cecil Walton:

"Science is wonderful. Talk of the wet summer we are having caused a scientist to remark to me that scientists are coming round to the belief that Noah's flood was an actual occurrence, and not legend, as sceptics say."

Coming round to the belief! Surely there can be no doubt about it! The initial folly on the part of sceptic is to suppose the teller of the story referred to the world as we know it now, and not to the then known globe.

"After all, let us suppose someone had written the story immediately before Columbus sailed the seas. He would have written of a flooded world too, but not the world we know. No one can tell us the name of the first recorder of the story, nor do we know his place of residence, but it was somewhere in the Euphrates Valley—Abraham's country."

"A joint expedition of Great Britain and America went out under the leadership of Sir Leonard Woolley in 1922 to spend seven years in discovering the lost city and to learn what it could tell us of an ancient civilization—excavating through the accumulated debris of century upon century, down to and past the grave of kings, piecing together the wonderful story they have to tell us."

"Preserving treasures of art and learning of a long-forgotten age, they came at last to a great bed of clay. It is well known that, according to summerian history, there was a break."

"Then came the flood," they say, "and after the flood kingship again descended from Heaven." This clay was penetrated, nothing was found in it, except such things as would be brought down by flood water from the upper reaches, and then, suddenly, after passing through eight feet of it, the excavators were again in layers of earth and rubbish full of the tools and records of an age existing before the flood came to wipe it out, certainly three thousand years before the birth of Christ.

"That there was a high state of civilization is certain and it is hoped to find writings older than the flood itself."

"There was, then, a real deluge covering an area some four hundred miles long and a hundred wide at least, which for the occupants of that stricken land, was the whole world."

MONOTONOUS.

Surely the most monotonous occupation in the world is that of John Fehr, Salt Lake City, who during the last thirty-six years, has repeated the same sentence 600,000 times, rubbed his hands together 800,000 times, and dropped about 7,000,000 pins. He performs this crazy-counting task in order to demonstrate to visitors the marvelous acoustic of Salt Lake's famous Tabernacle. Standing on the platform 200 yards from sightseers, John first drops a pin which startles the hearers by the distinct sound it makes. Next he whistles his little piece which is distinctly heard. The hand-rubbing ending his "turn" sounds like rubbing two pieces of coarse sandpaper together.

HAD LONG BICYCLE TRIP

Bryson Denton, clerk at Dakin's hardware store here has returned after a rather unusual vacation during which he covered, according to his cyclometer, 464 miles on his bicycle in five days.

Mr. Denton left Digby and bicycled to Halifax, a distance of 150 miles, in one day, leaving here at eight in the morning and arriving in the city at nine in the evening, stopping to eat en route. From Halifax he cycled to Truro the next day to Springhill, via Parrsboro; from there to Morton; thence to Saint John, taking the Princess Helene home.

En route he says he pushed his bike—equipped with gear shift—up every hill, including the Economy Mountain, until he reached Dorchester.

John Thibault, D. A. R. static agent at Meteghan, has resumed duty after spending his vacation in Ottawa. He was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Thibault.

About This and That

Much as we blame the legislators for making a multiplicity of laws, they are not the only guilty ones. Every law-making provincial or federal department grants the power to those in charge to make regulations to give efficiency to the law. Consequently we are hemmed in not only by the statutes which are made in legislatures or parliament, but by the regulations of every department. Few people realize the extent of regulation which has all the effect of law. It ought to be a lesson to us not to create too hastily any more departments, but such advice is lost in Ottawa where the administration counts that day lost whose low descending sun sets no new bureau created.

Our provincial department of labor has made a hundred regulations. So has the department of health and every other department. Each of the authorities created has the power to make proper regulations, and each has availed itself of the opportunity. If we only knew it, we are fairly plastered with laws and regulations. These incumbrances cover us and are as far-spreading as the public debt which fairly engulfs us. We are smothered, drenched and overpowered with personal, town, county, provincial and national debt. Each of us bends beneath a burden of debt. Further burdens must inevitably result in wholesale repudiation of debt with ensuing ruin for the nation. Meanwhile, we struggle beneath an ocean of regulations.

Seventy years ago we were the freest nation on the globe. Our right to anything we chose was uncontested. We had to submit to reasonable regulation as the population became greater and civilization became more complex. We have gradually submitted to domination allegedly for the public good so that we meekly endure whatever burden our politicians place on our shoulders. We cannot go into business without being regulated or licensed. We often cannot read an article in many parts of our province because of the unwillingness to give such service are forbidden by some regulation. These are samples of the thousands of irritating regulations which bother us. The tendency is toward more regulations, and it is time to protest and rebel. It seems to be the favorite indoor sport of legislatures, departments and town councils to regulate our conduct and chip off a piece of that freedom which we ought to guard with our lives. Public officials are in fact, our servants, but they often act like our masters. We should put an end to the imperious attitude of those officials who are trying to master us.

FALL RALLY OF YOUNG PEOPLE

The annual Fall Rally of the Young People's Union of the Annapolis-West Presbytery, is being held in the United Church Hall, Digby, on Thursday of next week. Rev. W. S. Godfrey, Field Secretary, of Sackville, will be present and will be the special speaker at the evening service, which is open to the public, and at which a silver offering will be taken for Y. P. purposes.

The theme of the rally is "Youth on the March", and the afternoon program will include discussion groups on "Worship", "Missions", "Sunday School", "Girls' and Boys' Work".

The supper will be in the form of a banquet with toasts to the King, Canada, the Church and the Ladies.

The banner will be presented to the Granville Ferry Union.

It is hoped that all the union in this part of the Presbytery will have a good representation of members present.

Mrs. B. J. Roop and Miss Bessie Hooper have been visiting in Saint John.

Mrs. Harry Lewis, of Digby, formerly Miss Mildred Amero, has moved to Weymouth and is residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Amero.

A Harvest Supper will be held in the United Church Hall, on Saturday, October 15th. Supper, 25 cents. Proceeds for the benefit of the Sunday School.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. VanBlarcom will, on Tuesday next, celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

The Pa-Gi Club will hold a Halloween Tea in the United Church Hall, on Saturday, October 29th.

Mrs. (Dr.) Canard, of Brookline, Mass., and her sister, Mrs. Grant, of Barton, spent Wednesday with their cousin, Mrs. Wm. VanBlarcom.

Mrs. Walter Marshall has returned home from Grand Manan after spending a couple of weeks with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Marshall and granddaughter, Mrs. Earl Hildrickson.

HARD TIMES? SAYS WHO?

All things being more or less equal, we all understand the saying that man is a very complex creature. Out of the many questions that have been formulated by some of our mental gymnasts have come such utterances as "How high is high?" May we propound another: "How hard are hard times?"

"Hard times," like the weather, is one of those ever prevailing topics of conversation. All complain. But in face of the complaint of hard times comes the report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showing that in a single year—1937—the people of Canada spent something more than $190,000,000 on just three luxuries—a sum representative of the expenditure of more than $17 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

Canadians smoked a lot that year. We burned up about 6,000,000,000 cigarettes, and, as a result, $60,000,000 literally went up in smoke. Add to this the cost of the 123,000,000 cigars with which we whiled away our leisure hours, and you have a fairly tall sum. To fill out our leisure hours, and add further to our search for pleasure, we entered into the spirit of betting game, and at various race tracks throughout the country we wagered the sum of $21,000,000. Canadian liquor stores took in the staggering sum of $109,000,000, the equivalent of an expenditure of $10 for every individual in the population.

The money, however, was not all lost. Much of it went to producers, wholesalers and retailers; and labor came in for its share. The government, too, got its cut through taxation; the consumer, incidentally, paying a great share along this line of revenue. But—hard times! my eye!

BOY KILLED IN CAR ACCIDENT

"That John Robinson, of Connaught, in the County of Digby, came to his death from injuries sustained when he was accidentally struck by a car operated by Howard Chesley Fraser. We attach no blame to the driver of the car."

Such was the verdict read by Foreman S. S. Aymer, at the conclusion of the inquest into the death of 12-year-old John Robinson, held at the Mounted Police office here, on Tuesday morning. Coroner Dr. John R. McCleave, of Digby, presided; other jurors, beside the foreman, were William Winchester, Fred Harvey, Michael MacKinnon, Hugh Vincent, Loran Hayden, Ross Turnbull, Eric Armstrong, Alfred Cossaboom, Horton Stark, Joseph Hall and Clifford O'Neill.

Witnesses heard were Dr. A. B. Campbell, of Bear River; James Robinson, grandfather of the victim; Richard Robinson, his 10-year-old brother; Howard Chesley Fraser, St. Stephen, N. B., driver of the car; J. S. Rankin, of the Digby detachment, R. C. M. P.; and Manson Fraser, son of H. C. Fraser.

When called to give evidence young Richard Robinson told how he and his brother had been asked to "give a shove" to a car stalled on the hill near their home. Jack was on his express wagon, with one leg on the car and pushing himself along with the other, while he (Richard) pushed on the car, Jack "bumped" against it with his cart. The car started and he (Richard) stepped over on to the gravel pit, and Jack, still on his wagon, pushed out on to the highway. Almost as soon as the car they were pushing started away, the other car, travelling towards Digby, came along and struck Jack.

He described how Fraser's car stopped and how one of the passengers picked up his little brother and placed him in the back seat. The car stopped again in front of his grandfather's house where the wreckage of the boy's wagon was cleared away from under the front bumper. Both he and his brother were taken to the hospital.

Mr. Fraser testified he left Granville Ferry for Digby, with his wife and two sons, about 8.15 Monday morning, and proceeded along at a moderate rate of speed. At the foot of the "long grade" where the accident occurred, he saw a car about a third of the way down the hill and facing him. He could not say whether the car was moving or not. Beyond it, he had a clear vision of the road, and there was absolutely nothing in the way. He said he was coming up the hill at a rate of between 20 and 25 miles. As he went along the car on the hill seemed to gain speed, and his wife called out "Look out, a little boy!" He said he caught a momentary glimpse of the boy and his wagon, the child and cart had come directly from behind the other wagon, and said they were scarcely two feet from the lad and cart when they went across in front of the car. Knowing the boy was struck he stopped immediately. His son, Manson, in the back seat, got out and picked him up from behind the car. The boy was unconscious but breathing, and they thought the quicker they could get to a hospital the better, not knowing who the boy was they took another little fellow (who proved to be Richard) along with them to identify him. The car had gone along a few feet, he said and seemed to drag as though there was a flat tire. He stopped and Manson and his wife got out and found the little cart under the front bumper. He also testified that which he met on the hill, stopped near the bottom; someone was standing on the running board and he signalled for them to come back. Instead the car started away, proceeding in the direction of Annapolis.

Constable Rankin told of being called by the hospital advising him of the accident. He testified the brakes of the Fraser car were in good condition.

The evidence of Manson Fraser was much the same as that given by his father.

Dr. Campbell, in his evidence, said that the fractured skull (the first to be taken) described the many injuries the boy suffered, but said the fractured skull was the cause of death.

Joseph Warren, who appeared before County Court Judge Kenneth Crowell, at Digby, Tuesday morning, was sentenced to serve two years in Dorchester penitentiary. Warren was convicted of breaking into the grocery store of Capt. C. F. Granville, and the tailor shop of A. F. Comeau, in Weymouth.

LEG BROKEN IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENT

James Simms, of Marshalltown, was admitted to the Digby General Hospital on Tuesday morning, suffering from a compound fracture of the left leg, resulting from a highway accident on the main highway between Marshalltown and Digby. He was walking to the town, where he is employed, and was offered a lift by a car travelling in the same direction. He stepped out into the road and walked directly into the path of another car, operated by Russell Lent, and was knocked down.

FISHERMEN STRIKE IN FREEPORT

The shore fishermen of Freeport went on strike on Monday against the price being paid for haddock and shuck by local buyers. Between 45 and 50 of their fishing boats lay tied up at the berths awaiting the formation of a union under the leadership of Bern. Blackford. At the time of the strike the local buyers' price for haddock were 1 1/4 cents per pound; for shuck 50 cents per hundredweight. The fishermen asked a 1/4 cent more for haddock and a 10-cent increase per cwt for shuck.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

The Boy Scout meeting was successfully held last week. The council fire was handled by the Eagle Patrol and was one of the most interesting yet performed. During the Court of Honor Norman Wright, one of the older scouts, was appointed patrol leader of the Eagle Patrol.

The Beaver Patrol regrets the loss of Donald Stillman who has been unable to return to the Scouts this year.

On Monday a committee meeting was held at the Power Board office to discuss plans for Apple Day and other Scout business. The business was not completed and another will be held on Wednesday of next week.

BOXING

Coming here to revenge a fight lost to Thurston Banks, popular Digby Neck boxer, "Bomber" Jack, of Yarmouth, again lost a decision after a spirited six-round bout, in the Community Hall, Wednesday evening. Early this summer the "Bomber" suffered a K. O. from the Digby Neckier in the second round. During the first round of Wednesday's bout, the Yarmouth boxer went down to the count of nine from one of Banks' hard rights to the head; in the second the "Bomber" took the canvas for a no-count fall. Both lads were hard hitters, and after his second fall, "Bomber" Jack came back with a real vengeance, and was dangerous every second. The decision, however, went to Banks.

One of the best scraps of the evening was that between "Kid Art" of Yarmouth, (142 lbs.) and Claude Thompson, Digby (143 lbs.). Thompson winning by a technical K.O. Early in the first round Thompson inflicted a cut over Art's right eye, and later in the same round Art floored his opponent for a no-count.

Earl Barr, Weymouth, won from Harley Dore, of Aylesford, in a very fast match. "Pigskin" Melanson and Bernard Tebo, Arthur Thomas and Edgar Hill, "Cops" Saulnier and "Dutchy" Comeau, all fought to a draw. The fights were refereed by Gen. Richardson, and judged by Leigh Peck and Bill MacNeil.

OBITUARY

William Gidney
The passing of William Gidney occurred at his home in Centreville last Friday, after an illness of several years, two years and three months of which he was confined to his bed. He was born in Rossby 65 years ago, and was a son of the late Johnstone and Elizabeth Gidney. There survive his widow; five sons, Willard, Kenneth, Frank and Ralph, all in Centreville, and William, in Gulliver's Cove; and two daughters, Mrs. G. Walter Hersey, of Waltham, Mass., and Mrs. Luella De-mock, of Centreville. Charles Gidney, of Rossby, is a brother, and Mrs. Charles Peters, of Centreville, and Mrs. Frank Mulse, of Seabrook, are sisters. The funeral took place on Monday from the Baptist church, in Rossby, of which he was a member, and was conducted by Rev. A. G. Robertson, of Digby.

Mrs. Reginald Sypher, Sandy Cove, accompanied by her daughter, Avis Elizabeth, and Miss Belton Jeffrey, spent the week end in Saint John.

She Was a Victim of Headaches

Kruschen Got at the Cause

This woman's headache, were of the gripping kind that reduce the sufferer to something like helplessness. She tried tablets. She tried pills. All without avail. Only Kruschen could help her.

"I used to get very bad headaches," she writes. "No tablets or pills of any kind could relieve them. One morning, casually, I tried Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water. I continued taking it but I have not had one of those awful headaches since Kruschen suits me better than anything else. I find it very good."—(Mrs.) L.A.W.

Headaches can nearly always be traced to sluggishness of the kidneys, liver and intestines, and to the unneeded retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. The numerous salts in Kruschen stimulate the internal organs to healthy, regular action so that no clogging waste is allowed to collect. Your inside is kept clean and serene. And that is just how Kruschen Salts brings quick and lasting relief from headache.

The many friends of Mrs. Wm. Forsyth, of Clyde River, formerly of Sandy Cove, will regret to learn that she is a patient in the Weymouth Hospital.

Miss Dorothy Thurber was the week end guest of her aunt, Mr. Clarence Thurber, at Union Avenue, Montreal, while en route to her duties at the MacDonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

The ladies of the United church held a successful pantry sale and afternoon tea in the Rebekah lodge rooms on Saturday, the sum of over $12 being realized.

Rev. Sister Gonzague

At the Sacred Heart Convent, at Meteghan, on Monday of last week, Rev. Sister Gonzague passed away after a lingering illness, at the age of 76 years, after 51 years of religious life, being one of the oldest teachers in the local schools. Her maiden name was Anne Marguerite, a daughter of the late, Joseph and Vitaline Bourque, of Eel Brook. Left to mourn are two sisters, Mrs. Jacques Pothier and Mrs. Peter Pothier, of Belleville, both of whom attended the funeral. The funeral services took place in the Stella Maris church, in Meteghan, on Wednesday morning. Very Rev. Father Bourneuf, pastor, officiating, with RR. FF. M. J. LeBlanc, of St. Albion, as deacon, and J. Doucet, of Saulnierville, as sub-deacon. In the sanctuary were Mgr. D. H. Comeau, of Eel Brook, and RR. FF. Hebert, of Church Point; McLanlan, of Theriault, of Weymouth; LeBlanc, of St. Bernard; Surrette, of Chetzetcook. The funeral procession from the Convent to the church was most imposing. Children from all the public schools of the parish, and others were in the procession and about fifty Sisters of Charity followed the hearse. It was one of the largest funerals ever seen in the parish.

The Mother Superior and all the Sisters of the Convent offer their heartfelt thanks to all those who have expressed sympathy or have assisted in any way.

Mandé Dugas

At Meteghan, on Friday morning last, Mandé Dugas died at the age of 74 years, leaving to mourn their loss his wife, formerly Morque Robichaud, and two daughters, Kate, (Mrs. John Thibault), in Boston; and Theresa, (Mrs. Guillaume Pothier, with whom he made his home; a step son, Grant Morrison, of Meteghan River; a brother, Jovite Dugas, of Meteghan, and a sister, Zephine, (Mrs. Mandé Romain), in Lynn, Mass. The funeral took place on Saturday morning, from St. Mary's Church, in Meteghan, Rev. Father Bourneuf officiating. Basile Albert and Fidele Robichaud, and Jules Deveau, nephews of the deceased, with Edmond P. Deveau and Lindsay Robichaud were pall bearers.

MARRIAGES

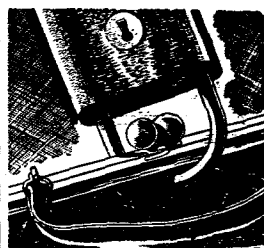

Corriveau-Deveau

Stella Maris church, at Meteghan, was the scene of a very pretty wedding Saturday morning when Rev. Father Delby Comeau, of Halifax, at a nuptial high mass, united in matrimony his brother, Ralph Comeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Comeau, of Meteghan River, to Miss Celeste Deveau, daughter of the late J. and Mrs. Deveau, of Meteghan. Miss Celeste was best man, and Miss Yvonne Deveau, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The organ was in charge of Fred Comeau, organist of the Saulnierville church. Another brother of the groom, and the choir was led by Prof. Mederic Comeau, also a brother. The Mass servants, Fidele and Camille Deveau, were the bride's brothers. After the ceremony breakfast was served to the immediate relatives, after which the happy couple left with their brother, Rev. Father Comeau, for Halifax, and they will be guests of the bride's brother, Louis Deveau, at Rockingham.

Harris - Handspiker

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at Mt. Pleasant on Saturday when Faustina Clara Handspiker, daughter of James Handspiker, was united in marriage to Douglas Harris, son of Mrs. Mary Harris, of Sandy Cove. Rev. A. G. Robertson officiating. The bride was very prettily dressed in a red-velvet not blue silk dress and white veil, and wore a corsage of white roses. The matron of honor was Mrs. Boyd Gilmartin; Mr. Germain supported the groom and their little daughter, Jean, was flower girl. After the ceremony refreshments were served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Germain. Mr. and Mrs. Harris will take their residence in Sandy Cove, a few weeks.

The Young People's Union of the Weymouth United church is meeting in the vestry this evening at 7:45 to commence the season's work. All young people are invited to attend.

YOU CAN'T PUT A PADLOCK ON YOUR PURSE

But you can put your money where you will not be tempted to spend it. You need a plan for saving, just as you need a plan for your own work or your child's education. Start your savings plan with the first dollar you can spare. Open an account with the nearest Post Office Savings Bank and let nothing stop you from adding to your savings regularly. Just as buttons accumulate, one by one, in the drawer of your sewing machine, so will dollars accumulate in your Post Office account. Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Lovett and daughter, Miss Edith, of New York, left last week end for their camp at White Sand Stream, where they will remain for the month of October.

Mrs. Reginald Potter is a patient in the Digby General Hospital.

Plans are being made for an anniversary service in the United Church during this month.

Henry M. Romans, accompanied by L. F. Fain, of Wolfville, arrived home on Monday for a few days' woodcock shooting.

Mrs. Frank Crosby returned to the Victoria General Hospital in Halifax last week for further treatment.

Hon. O. P. Goucher, of Middleton, was in town on Thursday last week, guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Kinney.

Mrs. John Harrow returned home last week after visiting her daughter and friends in Saint John for a few weeks.

Orrin Moore, of Cambridge, Mass., who has spent the past six months in Bear River, at his summer home, left to return last Monday.

Miss Alice Haslam, who has been a guest at the Baptist parsonage for several weeks, returned to her home in Saint John West last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lockhart (formerly Vera Parker), of Saint John, who were recently married, spent last week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Parker.

Mrs. Jacob Morgan, of Morganville, and her guest, Mrs. William Prescott, left on Tuesday for Mr. and Mrs. Amprim, New Hampshire, where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snell, accompanied by the former's mother, Mrs. Joseph Snell, have moved from Morganville to Bear River this week, and are now occupying Mrs. Roy Snell's old home, the Wentzell cottage, on the Bell road.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Harris arrived home last Friday after an extended holiday trip through Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts, visiting among friends en route. They were in Massachusetts during the big blow.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Dunlop will spend Thanksgiving with their daughter, Mrs. H. J. Woods, in Saint John. From there they will go to visit Dr. Alexander and Mrs. Sinclair, the latter a niece, at St. Stephen; thence to Halifax to visit Mrs. Dunlop's brother, G. W. Vennotte.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Miller, of Carleton, were in town last week on their return from Wolfville, where they had accompanied their daughter, Anna Miller, who is taking the pre-medical course at Acadia. Mrs. Miller remained for a few days here with her parents.

Capt. and Mrs. J. E. Woodworth, while Mr. Miller went to Saint John as one of the executive of the Baptist Convention.

The Philathea Bible Class will hold its October session in the Baptist vestry on Tuesday evening next, at 8:00 o'clock. Mrs. R. Snell, the president, in charge.

This meeting will be the annual temperance social, with Revs. G. D. Brydon and R. L. Roach as guest speakers, on "Total Abstinence". The High School and 8th Grade pupils, with their teachers, will be guests. A special program is also being arranged.

THE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Lacking a quorum on Monday afternoon the annual meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute had to be postponed, and the meeting will be held on Monday afternoon, October 17th. This is very unusual for the Institute and was due no doubt to the absence from town of several members; and the illness of others, as only "shirker" would evade the election of officers. England has on institute whose proud boast is that "no member ever refuses an Institute task". So all members were at the meeting on October 17.

BEAR RIVER BADMINTON

A meeting of the Badminton Club was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. M. Romans, and Mervyn Oakes was elected president to fill the vacancy caused by Capt. Forrester having been called to Toronto. The club hopes to be ready for play by the middle of the month.

Mrs. Carl Parker and daughter, Carlene, recently spent several days in Kentville, guests of Col. F. W. Robinson. Whilst there Carlene underwent an operation on her nose and throat in the Blanchard-Praser Memorial Hospital.

A post-nuptial miscellaneous shower was tendered Mrs. Reginald White on Wednesday evening of last week by her many friends, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hadleton. She was the recipient of many useful gifts to assist in house keeping. The evening was pleasantly spent in games and music, after which a dainty lunch was served by her girl friends.

PREVENT FIRES

These Simple Suggestions, If Followed by Every One In the Family, Will Make Your Home Safe From Fire.

Put lighted matches and smokes out before you throw them away. Keep matches where small children cannot reach them. Never smoke in the garage, barn, or attic, nor in bed.

Remove rubbish, waste papers and all unnecessary combustible materials. Provide metal ash and trash cans. Burn rubbish only in a safely covered brick or metal incinerator. Watch the fire.

Examine all stoves, furnaces, and smoke pipes to make sure they are safe and well away from woodwork or other burnable materials. Have needed repairs made at once.

Value the advice of your fire chief who says that many fires are caused by dirty or defective chimneys. Have the chimney cleaned regularly, and have all defects repaired.

Escape the danger of flammable liquid fires and explosions by keeping no gasoline in the house. Do dry cleaning with safe liquids or send to the cleaner. Never start fires with kerosene.

Notify the electric company of electrical trouble and the gas company of gas leaks. Replace "blown" fuses with new ones, not pennies. Avoid home made wiring jobs. Don't look for gas leaks with a match.

Teach everyone in the family to be careful of fire, to watch stoves, fireplaces, electric irons and all other possible fire causes, and every day to remove old rags, papers and other rubbish.

Fireproof your home as far as possible by fire-safe roofing, fire stopping in hollow walls and partitions to stop the spread of flames, and a non-combustible basement ceiling.

Inquire of your fire chief when buying a fire extinguisher, to be sure of getting the right kind. Don't hesitate to ask your firemen when even you have questions on fire prevention.

Remember always where the nearest fire alarm box is and how to send an alarm. If telephoning, be sure the address is clearly understood. Use a neighbor's phone rather than one in the burning building.

Explain to every one in the house what to do in case of fire, how to put out fire in clothing by wrapping in a rug or blanket, what to do when grease catches fire in the kitchen.

Save life and property from needless destruction by fire by keeping the principles of fire prevention always in mind and never taking a chance with fire.

MARRIAGES

Baird - Roop

At a quiet wedding in the Ryerson United Church, at Hamilton, Ontario, on September 16th Miss Joyce Eileen Roop, only daughter of Mrs. Lottie Roop and the late Capt. John Roop, of Bear River, was united in marriage to George William Baird, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Baird, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. Rev. John Garden was the officiating clergyman. The bride was a smart figure in a stylish travelling dress of blue, with a corsage of white gardenias, and a three-quarter coat with silver fox fur. Following the ceremony a dinner was served at the Corner House Hotel after which the bride couple left for a trip to New York, returning on the 22nd to Montreal, where they have taken up their residence in the Outremont district.

Mrs. S. McAndrews, of Hampton, visited her daughter, Mrs. Harold Nichols, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harris went to Halifax on Monday. They were accompanied by Miss Lillian Johnson, of Annapolis Royal, and their son, Walter Harris, who resumed his studies at King's College. Mr. and Mrs. Harris returned home on Wednesday.

Went Up in Smoke in 1937 6000 Lives Lost

This great loss of life and property is a heavy price to pay for negligence and carelessness! Make it your duty to take every precaution to prevent fire. Remember to follow all safety rules and—"BE CAREFUL AND YOU'LL BE SAFE."

MAKE YOUR HOME A SAFE HOME

Do It the Electrical Way!

You can eliminate most fire hazards! How? Simply by having your home completely modernized in the electrical manner. Give your home new lamps and electrical fixtures that are wired for safety and built for beauty and eye comfort. Give your home more electric outlets! Put an electric light in every closet! You then avoid the bother and danger of using matches in dark corners. These precautions, taken care of now, may actually prevent fire later! Have a competent electrician do the work NOW! For safety's sake—Use Electricity!

A Judge's Advice To Those Entering Baking Contests

HERSELF, winner of many baking prizes at Charlottetown and much in demand as a Judge at local fairs, Mrs. W. E. Prowse advises those intending to bake for Fall fairs to make sure of two things:

- 1.—To be certain you have a very good recipe.
- 2.—To choose a flour that works with you.

Mrs. Prowse says that some flours seem to work against you and handicap your best efforts, while others work with you and help you win. She states that she has never found a flour that works as nicely with her as Robin Hood. "I never need to fuss or use any special methods with this flour to have success with my cakes, pies, doughnuts or cookies. It is easy to handle, rises surely, and the color, texture and the grain of the finished baking are always splendid," states Mrs. Prowse.

COMBAT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is often caused by uric acid in the blood. This blood impurity should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and excess uric acid remains, it irritates the muscles and joints causing excruciating pains. Plan to help prevent rheumatism by keeping your kidneys in good condition. Take regularly Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite kidney remedy.

NO MORE PRESENTS

150 years ago (this is a true story), a German soldier was brought to trial for stealing the jewels that had adorned a Madonna. The accused did not deny possession but did deny the theft, claiming the Madonna herself had given him the jewels. The soldier's lawyer thereupon called several priests to the witness-stand and asked if there was anything impossible for the Madonna to do? Naturally, the priest said there was nothing that a Madonna could not do. "In that case," summed up the judge, "cannot convict the accused, since there were no witnesses to the alleged theft, but I do forbid him to receive any more presents from a Madonna!"

Auburn, Maine, has been having a butter scandal. Conversion of relief supplies—milk and other necessities as well as butter—to their personal use has involved several city officials. By their plea of guilty they have become by Maine law "forever disqualified to hold any public office, trust or appointment"—which seems more than a just fate for offenders as mean as they were dishonest.

1888—THE FINEST RANGES IN FIFTY YEARS

"ABOUT THIS AND THAT" Continued

The super-nationalism troubling the world today seems to be allying itself with religion. In various countries the fact is somewhat disguised, as in Russia where they have made Communism a religion, in Germany where Hitler's Nazism and Aryanism have become a religion, and in Italy where Mussolini has introduced a sort of worship of Roman imperialism. Greek dictatorship, likewise basing its state faith on ancient glories—those of the Hellenic race—differs in joining them to a modern Christian group, the Orthodox Greek church. In this the government shows surprising zeal. Under new laws, citizens found proselytizing in behalf of any other religion are to be fined and imprisoned, and foreigners guilty of the same offence are to be expelled. Action has already been taken against Christian Scientists and Roman Catholics. There is a strong drive, too, against religious difference. The church has ancient powers renewed. School children must attend church on Sundays. Orphans and foundlings must be placed only in Orthodox institutions. It is a surprising world we are living in.

The last census of Czechoslovakia, taken eight years ago, showed a total population of 14,729,536, and of these 9,756,604 were of Czechoslovakian origin, while only 2,231,688 were German, or at least German extraction. The people of Canada total 10,386,788, and of these 2,927,505 are of the French race. Proportionately, there is more French blood in Canada than there is of Germanic blood in Czechoslovakia. What would Canada and Great Britain think if the Government of France were to try and seize Quebec in order to give racial autonomy for those of French descent living in Canada, and to insist that a plebiscite be taken in the French sections in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick?

About This and That

Every day it is becoming clearer that unless he can achieve an ever widening zone of power and prestige, the position of Germany's leader, so called, becomes one of great peril to himself. Ruthlessness and blood marked his pathway to Nazi supremacy. He has kept himself there through the functioning of a dictatorship, more harsh, more merciless than the old Kaiser ever thought possible. Hitler cannot go back! That way lies destruction. And can he go forward?

It's an old lesson that most of us need to learn. We must learn to appreciate change, instead of wasting our lives seeking final security. So long as we are alive we are to be the victims of change, and our bodies will continue to be victims after we are dead. Our attitude should be that of a child who goes about wondering what will happen next. There is no such thing as an unchanging religion, unchanging economic system, or unchanging government. There is no such thing as stability. Everything is changing its position, moment by moment. If our attitude is that of one appreciative of change we will escape disappointments that break the hearts of those who want things fixed and set.

The swastika, symbol of Nazi Germany, goes back a long way in the story of human beings. Just how and where it originated is obscure in the mists of antiquity. The swastika, recognized as a charm or talisman, is supposed to bring good luck, and just now, it would seem Herr Hitler will need plenty if he is to survive. As long ago as the tenth century, the swastika was noted in Persia, also in China, and is said to have been known among the ancient native tribes of North America.

Weekly newspapers fret and fume over disloyalty of communities which persistently take their job work to out of town shops, but it is not often that one states the case as clearly as does the Yorkton (Sask.) Enterprise, which says:
"The very people who give orders to these outsiders holler the loudest about mail order houses and others who cut into their trade and would no doubt think this was a pretty poor community if it did not have an up-to-date printing plant and a live local newspaper. They also profess to believe that a newspaper is a worth while institution for encouraging community enterprise and organizations but are nothing short of community parasites when it comes to doing their part to help the newspaper function as it should."

This is one of the toughest problems that confronts the local weekly, which usually has to depend upon job printing for a large percentage of the revenue that enables it to keep its newspaper going.

An ironic feature of the situation is that the printing

As Prime Minister Left for Conference with Hitler

Prime Minister Chamberlain is pictured waving good-by as he steps aboard an airplane to take him to Germany for his historic conference with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

Things We Did Not Know

(The Canadian News, Boston)

HITLER'S SPEECH

Those who heard the harsh guttural speech of Adolf Hitler on Monday could read the character of the man. You did not need a knowledge of German to know that he was working himself into a mad fury. That man is only a hand's breadth from a lunatic asylum. No man can live long in such a mental atmosphere without going over the border line between sanity and what lies beyond. Stark unnatural hatred was in every line of his speech. He had no self control. He seemed to be trying to convince himself that he was right. He invented a long list of alleged attempts to secure peace. With the logic of a madman he tried to prove that the wicked democracies had insidiously led him on to war which he could no longer avoid.

Hitler in a real sense stood before the world as a witness in his own defence. His manner horrified all men of reason. He has gone far beyond all normal brain processes. He lives in a world of fanaticism in which he is leading the devoted German people to the abyss and over. Nothing could have been more repulsive than the evident madness of the man. It seemed extravagantly impossible that any human being could contain so much hatred and bitterness. If he does not end in a madhouse we are very much mistaken. The American people would like to see him hanged as high as Haman, but if he were caught he would probably be found mentally afflicted and fit only to consort with the criminal insane. His wild speech led the world's near war that it was only a hand's breadth away.

This mad fanatic has no learned that even if Germany wins in world war, she would lose. After the victory of the Allies in the last world war they were nearly as prostrate as Germany was. There is no profit in a great war, and yet this Austrian paper hanger has not learned the lesson. Apparently the world must make a beating and civilization perhaps disappear from Europe. Our attitude should be one of calmness. Yet plan must be made in advance for the outbreak of war. It is unthinkable however that we should be debarred from furnishing the French and English with food and other necessities. If the carelessly made neutrality law interfere with this natural action which will be desired by almost the entire American people, then that law must be changed.

The little village of Milford, on the Annapolis to Liverpool highway, and situated a few miles below the old town of Annapolis Royal, is showing signs of a new prosperity. At the present time six modern homes are either under construction or just completed. Two of them are much larger than the average dwelling built in this day and age, while the others are of the modern bungalow type.

OBITUARY

Leander M. Ellis, one of the best known citizens of Western Nova Scotia, passed away at his home Bay View, on Friday last, at the age of 75 years. The deceased who was born on the Shore Road, Digby, moved to the lighthouse at Point Prim at the age of 12 years. His parents were the late William and Mary Ellis, his father being keeper of the light until he retired many years later. The late M. Ellis, at the time of his father's retirement, was 48 years of age and from then until 22 years later, was the faithful guardian of the light, never missing a day during that long term of service. He was not only well known, but was also the friend of countless masters, steam and sailing vessels, who knew him for his unflinching devotion to his duty—through storm and stress, through long bitter nights when gales roared along Fundy's coast the light and fog alarm at Point Prim never failed. Among the travelling public of the United States his friends were legion. Thousands of tourists visited the lighthouse every summer, and carried away with them the story of his never failing courtesy and hospitality. He was closely associated with the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada. He too an active part in the affairs of the Bay View United Church, and had been a member of the Municipal council. Five years ago he retired on superannuation, and with his wife, took up his residence at Bay View, where he lived until his passing last Friday. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Ellis, formerly Miss Emma Turnbull, of Bay View; one daughter, Mrs. Frank Wilson, of Point Prim; also several brothers and sisters: William and James Ellis, of Bay View; John, of Bear River; Richard and Hartney, of Boston; Mrs. Matilda Turnbull, Bay View; Mrs. Samuel Wilson, Shore Road; Mrs. Fred A. Robinson, Digby; Mrs. Arthur Sillis, Smith's Cove; and Mrs. L. Bertram, of Florida. He was predeceased by two sons: Herman and Haddon, and one daughter, Mrs. L. Everitt. The funeral was largely attended, with services in the United Church at Bay View, conducted by Rev. Dr. Hodgson. The choir sang "Abide With Me" and "Just As I Am", favorite hymns of the deceased. Interment was in the family lot at Bay View. Among those present at the funeral was Rev. W. W. McNairn, M.A., of Ottawa, who came to pay his last respects to a friend of more than forty years. Two score years ago, Mr. McNairn, who is a brother-in-law of the widow, was student pastor at Bay View.

Mrs. Harding Mullen

The death occurred in Danvers on Friday, September 30, of Lottie Lewis Mullen, widow of Harding Mullen, who predeceased her less than two months. Mrs. Mullen had been in ill health for several years, high blood pressure being the cause of death. She was born in Hillsdale 62 years ago and was a daughter of the late Stephen and Elizabeth Mullen. Her first husband—Lindsay Lewis—was lost at sea. She is survived by two children, Curtis Lewis, of Dorchester, Mass., and Nellie Lewis, at home; three brothers, Percy, of Hasset's, and Leonard and Judson, in New Tusket. The funeral was conducted on Wednesday by Rev. I. D. Lytle and interment was in the Baptist cemetery at New Tusket.

Charles Deveau

On October 4th at Meteghan Station, Charles Deveau died very suddenly, being found dead in his bed, at the age of 82 years, leaving a widow (his second wife), and five children by his first wife: Adolphe, at home; Mrs. Edward Thibault, Hectanooga; Mrs. Willie Deveau, Hebron; Mrs. Joseph Dugas and Mrs. Mary Ann Robichaud, Ipswich, Mass.; also one brother, Leander Deveau, Yarmouth; and four sisters, Rev. Sister Antoinette, of the Sacred Heart Convent, Meteghan; Mrs. Anisette Geddry, Meteghan Station; Mrs. Jas Boudreau, Ipswich, Mass.; and Mrs. Richard Comeau, Saulnierville. The deceased had been superannuated from the D. A. R. for many years, having been a former section man on that railway. The funeral took place from the Saulnierville church.

The Murtle Hotel was broken into on Tuesday evening last. Entrance was gained by breaking a window. As far as investigators can learn nothing was taken from the premises.

MARRIAGES

Holdsworth - Turnbull

A wedding of interest to many took place on Friday afternoon, September 30th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Turnbull, Lighthouse Road, when their daughter, Ada Louise, became the bride of Reginald Keith Holdsworth, son of Wesley L. Holdsworth, of Digby. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of white satin, with rhinestone accessories, and wore a turban hat and shoulder veil. She carried a bouquet of larkspur and maiden hair fern. Her bridesmaid was her sister, Edna, who carried a bouquet of red roses and brightly colored asters, and was gown in aqua blue crepe with accessories to match. The groom was attended by Fred Turnbull, brother of the bride. The rooms were tastefully decorated with fall flowers and a window arch of autumn leaves and asters made a pretty setting for the ceremony. The bride entered the room on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The double ring ceremony was used, and Rev. R. L. Roach, of Bear River, officiated. Following the ceremony a delightful buffet luncheon was served to some fifty guests, immediately after which Mr. and Mrs. Holdsworth left on a wedding trip to Halifax, returning by way of the South Shore. They were accompanied by the bride's parents who were celebrating the 30th anniversary of their wedding. Upon returning they have taken up their residence in Digby, where Mr. Holdsworth is in the employ of B. H. Ruggles.

Wane - Elsnor

Ethel Estella Elsnor, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Elsnor, of Digby, was united in marriage on Friday last, in London, Ont., to Rev. Wane, of that city. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. C. H. C. bert. Mr. and Mrs. Wane will make their home in London.

Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William E. VanBlarcom observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage at the home on Birch Street on Tuesday. This well known couple were married October 11, 1883, in the Methodist (now United) church, a Brighton, by the Rev. T. C. Hooper.

Both Mr. and Mrs. "Van" are enjoying the best of health, and take a great interest in the affairs of the community, and in their younger days played prominent parts in the social, business and political life of the town.

Mr. VanBlarcom was born in Tiverton 77 years ago, and at the age of seven moved with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin VanBlarcom, to Brighton. His father represented this county in the Nova Scotia House of Assembly from 1878 to 1882, and after that was for sixteen years High Sheriff of the County. During much of this time Mr. VanBlarcom was his deputy and did much of the work in connection with their important office; following the death of his father he acted as sheriff until a new man was appointed.

In the year 1910 Mr. VanBlarcom also contested Digby county, unsuccessfully, for a seat in the local house. Shortly after their marriage they moved to Digby where for more than a score of years, Mr. VanBlarcom conducted a coal business.

Mrs. VanBlarcom was the former Miss Annie Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Marshall and was born in Brighton. On Tuesday they received congratulations and messages of good will. Their two daughters, Susie (Mrs. Carl Brooks), Truro, and Jennie (Mrs. Frank Ruddock), of Annapolis Royal, were with their parents on this occasion, and in the evening some thirty immediate friends and relatives spent a delightful evening at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bailey, daughter Maxine and son Max, are visiting in Westport.

BARTON

Miss Ruby West, who was the guest of Miss Bessie Harris, has returned to Kingsport.

Dr. and Mrs. Harris are visiting their son, Dr. H. L. Harris, in Kentville.

Mrs. Annie L. Gladwin has returned from Truro where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Thompson.

Miss Marion Lamberton, who has been ill, is much improved.

The School and Community Club met Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Smith, with a good attendance.

Miss Leah Roop, student at Dalhousie, Halifax, spent Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Roop.

Mrs. Octave Morrell has returned from Cape Breton where she spent the summer.

Miss Alice Wilson spent the holiday in Saint John.

Mrs. Ena Moore is spending a few days in Bear River.

Oakley Smith and Carmel Adams have been successful deer hunters this week.

B. Rev. Dr. A. C. Vincent, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of many invited guests and interested friends. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Tibert, of Fredericton, formerly of Little River. The happy couple will make their home in Saint John.

TAKE THE LEAD OUT OF YOUR LEGS

Get Oxygen in Your Blood and You'll Get the Pep that Sends You Bounding Up the Stairs

People who suffer to death because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery—you are quickly tired.

What you need is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today at your druggist. See for yourself how quickly this time-proven blood-builder will help give you back your pep. Case 198, 12, 7, 1912, 1913, 1914.

She Could Neither Walk Nor Sleep

Arms and Feet Swollen with Rheumatism

This woman suffered for many years. Pain sapped her strength until she lost hope of recovery. Many remedies were tried, but nothing broke the grip of her crippling rheumatism. At last her husband persuaded her to try Kruschen Salts.

"My arms and feet were swollen with rheumatism," she writes. "I could not walk nor get regular sleep, and nothing did me any lasting good. I was so hopeless of ever getting better, I lost my good nature entirely. Then my husband persuaded me to try Kruschen Salts. After two weeks I began to feel better. I persevered, and in six weeks I was doing housework. Later, I was able to go for a walk. Now I am free from pain and I feel grand."

(Mrs.) F. W. Rheumatism is commonly caused by deposits of uric acid crystals, which lodge in the muscles and joints. Kruschen helps to break up these deposits of troubling crystals and to convert them into a harmless solution, which is removed through the natural channels—the kidneys.

BEAR RIVER BADMINTON NOTES

The Bear River Badminton Club will commence their season's play tomorrow evening, in Sanford Hall, and it is hoped this winter to have six months of play.

gallery over the stage, formerly enclosed, has been opened, giving more space, and should add considerably to the comfort of those waiting for their game, as the congestion of room was a keen discomfort to the club in the past particularly when entertaining visiting clubs. Having only one court for a membership of over forty was bad enough! But the lack of room in which to wait comfortably for your game was insult added to injury! However Sanford's Hall is so beautifully central the club is indeed fortunate in having the use of it, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday are club days.

Recent guests of Mrs. Charles VanBuskirk have been, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hennigar and daughter, Lorraine, Hanover, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Scott and two children, Margaret and Graham, of Bridgetown.

Scallop Season Opens Tomorrow

Digby is ready for the 1933-34 scallop season, which opens tomorrow. It is understood that the fleet will not be so large as in the several seasons immediately past but nevertheless it will still be the largest of its kind on the Atlantic seaboard.

Last season was an unprofitable one for most of the fleet. From almost the first day weather conditions were against them, and for days at a time boats were forced to remain tied up at the piers. Frequently, when the waters of the Basin looked smooth, scallopers have ventured out into the Bay only to be turned back by rough weather outside. But the consumption of gas and oil ran into money.

Generally, throughout the season last year, prices were low and this, combined with the bad weather, caused many of the boats to "end in the red".

Last season was fortunate in one respect — not a single life was lost, although there were many narrow escapes. Accidents played havoc with the boats, however, and more went to "Davy Jones' locker" than in any other year since scalloping became Digby's principal industry. Three boats have not been replaced, and quite a number of others will not be operating, most of the absentees being from the South Shore of the province.

Since scalloping began in the waters of the Bay of Fundy the beds have been most prolific. Millions and millions of scallops have been landed with a value running into hundreds of thousands of dollars. For the most part Digby scallops find their market in Boston or New York, and as a rule one can judge whether or not the Digby fleet has made a large or small catch—or if it tied up altogether—by watching the prices on these markets. On the arrival of a large catch from Digby the price usually takes a big drop; when due to weather conditions or other reasons the fleet is tied up a rise in price can be expected.

Like any other fishery scalloping is no pleasure job. Commercial scalloping has been carried on here for about fifteen years, and during that time many have lost their lives and many more have been very seriously injured. The season of 1935-36 saw the heavy loss of life. In that season the sinking of one craft sent three to their deaths.

Since it came into being the scallop fishery has meant much to this town than any other of its industries, even including the tourist business, and the loss of the Bay of Fundy scallop beds would be a big blow to the town.

All the boats of the so-called "Digby fleet" do not operate out of Digby, although the majority make Digby their headquarters. The fleet operates from practically every harbor from Centre to Hillsburn.

SMITH'S COVE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hicks, of Digby, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Weir, on Thanksgiving day.

Austin Payson spent the week end at his home here, returning to Canning on Monday morning.

The sewing circle of the United Baptist church served a supper in the vestry of the church on Thursday of last week. A large number attended. The proceeds amounted to $27.

Mrs. Gilroy, of Sydney, was a week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Banks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Steadman, of New Glasgow, spent the week end here and on their return they were accompanied by Mrs. Steadman's mother, Mrs. Wm. Cossaboom, who will spend the winter with them.

Don Gunn, of New Glasgow, spent the week end with his sister, Mrs. Douglas Cossaboom.

The Misses Grace and Elizabeth Brooks, of Weymouth, accompanied by Miss Jean Porter, of Acadia University, Wolfville, were in the village on Saturday.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Soules, of Wolfville, spent Sunday at her home here, returning on Monday to resume her studies at Acadia.

Mrs. Arthur Kelsall and son, John, of Annapolis Royal, spent a day last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Thomas, at the Out-of-the-Way Inn, Mr. and Mrs. Kelsall have only recently returned from a trip to the British Isles and Germany.

The people of our community are much saddened by the death of the Most Rev. the Archbishop of Fredericton, who has spent many summers here and endeared himself to so many who were privileged to know His Grace. Especially will he be missed by the congregation of St. Ann's, the little rustic chapel where so many attend services during the time it is open in the summer.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SUMMER SUNSETS

Silhouettes against the sunset make striking snapshots.

SUMMER'S gorgeous sunsets are splendid snapshot material, and sunset pictures are easy to take, whether you have a simple box camera or a high-grade folding camera with ultra-fast lens.

Charming silhouettes of persons can be made with the sunset as a background, and sunset shots across a lake or stream, with reflections, are remarkably beautiful. The effect of a sunset is heightened by a good foreground, such as a "frame" of trees or overhanging leafy branches. In the country, try shooting the sunset with a piece of farm machinery silhouetted against it. A plowing scene, with straining horses silhouetted against the sunset sky, makes a successful snapshot.

One of the most important points in picturing sunsets, is to obtain a strong, vigorous cloud effect. Good clouds are often better than a lot of brilliant color, at least for black-and-white picture purposes. In many cases, a more striking result will be obtained if you place a color filter over the camera lens. The filter brightens its own colors, and darkens its opposite or complementary colors. When in doubt, shoot one picture with the filter and one without. A good sunset is worth an extra shot or two.

Either chrome type or panchromatic film is excellent for sunset pictures. Short exposures are desirable, in order to subdue detail in the foreground. If yours is a box camera which has a choice of lens openings, use the smaller opening. With rapid-lens cameras, try an exposure of f.16 at 1/50 or 1/100 second. If the sunset is quite bright, and you are shooting across water, you may use an opening as small as f.22.

Watch the sunsets—keep your camera loaded—ready for action—and you will add many a charming snapshot to your collection.

A COOK BOOK WITH NEW FEATURES

A new recipe book entitled, "Baking Made Easy" has just been issued by Robt Hood Flour Mills Limited of Montreal, Que. The makeup of this book is different from that of the average cook book. One unusual feature is the index which is arranged to run along the top of the pages as well as at the front.

All recipes which would be required for the average home are given as well as complete and simplified methods for baking bread with dry, compressed or liquid yeast. Several pages are devoted to the various ways bread dough may be worked into different kinds of rolls or buns to add variety to the menu without making extra work for the busy housewife.

Another good feature is the abundance of space, allowing each recipe to stand out clearly, with the ingredients listed on one side, and the method printed beside it in the 1, 2, 3, 4 manner. Each operation is so clearly outlined that no one could go wrong using these tested recipes.

Beginners will especially appreciate the manner in which photographs have been employed to illustrate the fundamental steps in baking bread, cakes and pastries. The photographs show the correct way to beat the flour, to knead the dough, to shape the loaves, in fact, every important step is illustrated.

The company is to be commended upon the good taste and workmanship of the book. It may be had by sending nine cents in stamps to their address, to cover mailing costs.

awarded to Toronto or Montreal concerns with mammoth plants often costs more, after transportation charges are paid, than it could have been bought for right in the home town.

Modern business has become notorious for price chiselling, but nowhere is price chiselling carried to such lengths as in negotiations over job printing.

A reader opportunely recalls, and produces, a notable passage from Victor Hugo's "Les Misérables" regarding Napoleon, and suggests its application to Germany's present Napoleon-Hitler.

"It was time," wrote Hugo, "that this vast man should fall."

"The excessive weight of this man in human destiny disturbed the equilibrium. The individual counted of himself alone more than the universe beside. These plethoras of all human vitality concentrated in a single head, the world mounting to the brain of one man, would be fatal to civilization if they should endure. The moment had come for the incorruptible supreme equity to look to it. Probably the principles and elements upon which the regular gravitations in the moral order as well as the material depend, began to murmur. Reeking blood, over-crowded cemeteries, weeping mothers—these are formidable pleaders. When the earth is suffering from a surcharge there are mysterious moanings from the depths which the heavens hear.

"Napoleon had been impeached before the infinite and his fall was decreed.

"He vexed God.
"Let him who vexes God beware!"

About This and That

It is a great blessing for the world to have avoided a European War such as it would have drifted into if Hitler had not been appeased by throwing Czechoslovakia to the Nazi wolf. All of us but that brave little country came to unscathed—this time. But how about the future? Hitler promises that he will seek no further conquest in Europe. In 1933 Hitler said: "As long as I am chancellor of the Reich, there will be no war, save possibly in event of invasion of our territory from without." He broke that pledge. In 1935 he said: Germany has neither the wish nor the intention to mix in the internal affairs of Austria, or to unite or annex Austria." He broke that pledge. In 1935 he also said before the Reichstag that he would respect the peace treaties of Locarno. He broke that pledge. In 1936, proposing non-aggression pacts, he said there were no exceptions to be made, and his suzerainty "applied equally to Czechoslovakia and Austria." He broke that pledge. Hitler is now sitting on top of the world. His ambition grows with his success. Who can trust him hereafter? By his own philosophy, he is above other mortals and above ordinary morals. The statesmen who made this peace at the muzzle of a gun may be justified, but they cannot stop there. Civilization dare not disarm. There may be a bolder Hitler and a stronger Germany to stop next year or the year after. So the tragic struggle goes on while, in the revealing words of Premier Chamberlain one nation centered in one man, proceeds "to dominate the world by fear or force." Let us not be lulled by words, nor the Premier's further comment that "without liberty would not be worth living." There are many countries including our own, where that is still true.

Roger Babson, prophet of business and commercial doomsday, brings the cheerful word that the day of the little businessman will again dawn, and that already various forces, to this end, are emerging. And, there must be co-operation among the small business men themselves. Little business, says Mr. Babson, has five advantages—smaller overhead costs, ability to change quickly, less labor difficulties, management in the hands of the owners and local co-operation.

AFTER LONG VOYAGE

Here are Roy Fitzsimmons and Murray Wiener, of the crew of the three-masted schooner Gen. A. W. Greeley, as they appear when the schooner dropped anchor at New York, after sixteen months cruising in the arctic of a study of weather conditions. Those luxuriant beards are the result.

FATE AND NUMBERS

This Student Seem to Have Hitler and Mussolini Numbers Down to a Do

(J. Bodin, in a letter to the Victoria, B. C. Times)
If you will consult publication ten years back you will find, think that I have quite a reputation concerning predictions based on my study of the science of numbers.

While I have not been playing with numbers lately—other than writing a few regular department in certain pulp magazines under pen names—I cannot resist the opportunity to go on record once more, and this time predict the Waterloo of both Hitler and Mussolini in 1939.

I based it on my Waterloo chart, which is governed by the date of birth—the Waterloo year being the sum of all three. It not only applied to Napoleon but to all dictators of history. For instance—Napoleon was born August 15, 1769:

August is the 8th month.....	8
15th.....	15
1-7-6-9 adds to 23.....	23
	46
Napoleon was 46 in 1815, the year of his Waterloo.
Now take Hitler and Mussolini:
Hitler was born April 20, 1889:
April is the 4th month.....	4
20th.....	20
1-8-8-9.....	26
	50
Mussolini was born July 29, 1883:
July is the 7th month.....	7
29th.....	29
1-8-8-3.....	21
	56

Hitler will be 50 and Mussolini will be 56 in 1939. I think your readers will like to know this prediction.

LOWER GRANVILLE

(Held Over From Last Week)
Mrs. Blackadar, of Lynn, Mass., is a visitor at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Parker.
Miss Iris Shaffner, who spent the past six weeks visiting friends and relatives in Lynn, and Nauset Island, returned to her home on Tuesday of last week.
Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Wheelock were his mother, Mrs. A. J. Wheelock, of Clarence, Mrs. Brown, of the United States; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parker, of Belle Isle, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bath, of Bridgetown.
Mrs. George Littlewood, Mrs. May Ray, Mrs. John VanBlarcom and Mrs. Albert Parker returned on Tuesday, Oct. 4, from a pleasant trip to the United States.
Ethel McNeill is spending a few days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lloyd Moore and Mr. Moore, of Annapolis Royal.
Mrs. Stannage Mills, who has spent the past few weeks with her sister, Mrs. George Hines, has returned to the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Halliday, of Hillsburn.

James Simpson, well known in Canadian labor circles and former mayor of Toronto, died from injuries received when his automobile was involved in an accident with a Toronto street car.

We Should Blame Ourselves, Not the Departments, for Increasing Taxes

A valued correspondent sends in the following comments on an editorial printed in this paper on the 14th inst:

"In your recent editorial we read a scathing denunciation of the present system of bureaucratic rule, that is government by departmental officials, and this revolt against red tape was closely linked with a reference to our increased debts—Federal, Provincial and Civic—with the implication that the one led to the other.

To those if any there be who are interested in the present and future of this country and its people, a closer analysis of the problem may be of interest.

There is a vulgar old doggerel which runs:

Big fleas have little fleas
On their backs to bite them;
Little fleas have lesser fleas,
And so on ad infinitum.

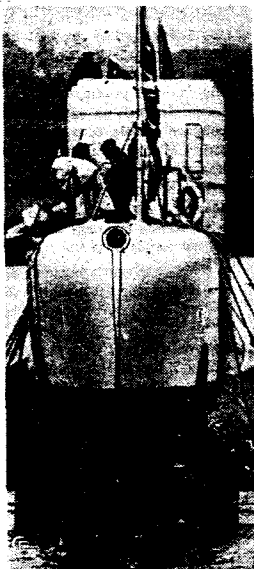

And at first glance this would seem to apply to the increasing maze of legislation under which we live. On closer examination however, we find that these laws, annoying though they may be, have been made from time to time by a well-meaning, if misguided, government for the protection of the people against themselves and a whole-hearted support, rather than a surly resistance on the part of the public, would render much further legislation unnecessary.

Let us consider some concrete examples: "We cannot go into business without being regulated or licensed." Obviously such a rule is made to protect the interests of persons already established in legitimate trade in certain commodities in certain districts.

We may not catch or sell lobsters under a certain size, because to do so would quickly destroy the source of livelihood of many men. We may not shoot certain game except at certain times and in certain numbers. To do so would be quickly to denude the country of its wild life.

We may not drive our cars over

BRITAIN'S LATEST

The 1,760-ton submarine, Seal, is shown in this unusual head-on shot after the craft was launched at Chatham naval dockyard recently. The craft, most modern of undersea boats, is 271 feet long and said to have the most powerful armament of any submarine afloat.

certain speeds, or in certain states of mechanical defect. To do so would be to endanger the lives and property of others.

And so, on and on, far into the night.

Let us assume then, and it is a fair assumption, that the great bulk of our legislation is fully justified by the evils which it is designed to remedy. Where then lies the fault? It lies fairly and squarely with the people, with the citizens of a so-called democratic country who do not even understand the principles of Democracy. The very people who kick and grumble at the laws, evade the laws, laugh at the laws and the government, turn the lash upon

CANADIANS IN THE U. S. NAVY

Most Canadians will learn with interested surprise that Canada has almost half as many officers serving in the United States fleet as she has doing duty in the Royal navy.

A recent listing of American naval officers by places of birth shows fifteen Canadians serving in officer ranks from ensign to captain, as follows:

Captain W. Lewis, commanding the cruiser Portland.

Captain Charles H. Maddox, commanding the cruiser Raleigh.
Captain Henry F. D. Davis, of the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

There is one Canadian-born commander, George D. Hull; also three Canadian lieutenant commanders, three Canadian lieutenants of the line, three Canadian junior lieutenants and three Canadian ensigns.

The Medical Corps lists five Canadian officers, the Supply Corps four, the Dental Corps one, and the Civil Engineers one. Five war veterans are Canucks, and two Marine Corps officers.

Excellent precedence for all this, of course, wasn't old Admiral Sims himself, America's outstanding seadog during the Great War, a product of Port Hope, Ontario.

Albert Parker is a patient in the Digby General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Robblee are occupying their new cottage, a hearty welcome is extended them. Mrs. Robblee was formerly Miss Edith Hicks, of Aylesford, and they were married early in August, at Bridgetown.

A number of men are at work at the Historical Site of Champlain's Habitation.

Mrs. W. W. Hudson has returned from Port Medway, where she visited her brother and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John VanBlarcom, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Shaffner, Mrs. Lloyd Shaffner, and Bertram Johnson motored to Bear River and Clementsvale on Sunday.

their own shoulders, and pave the way for Dictatorship at no distant date—these are the real villains of the piece!

The only man who was ever completely free—if he ever existed—was man the animal, who lived simply to live. The moment man became a Man the moment Men grouped to form communities, freedom came to an end, and each succeeding step in Man's long and laborious climb towards Enlightenment and Truth has called for an ever increasing curtailment individual freedom.

It is because most of us fail to accept it as a fact that the primary reason for our existence is a Spiritual one rather than a material one, that we find it so hard to "kick against the pricks".

It is because we, as individuals, make no attempt to apply the principles of Democracy to our activities that Democracy the world over, is facing defeat. Everywhere men are refusing to accept the responsibilities and sacrifices which democracy demand of them, and are turning, almost with a sigh of relief it would seem to the less exacting but more arduous serfdom of Dictatorship.

Let us remember then, that as long as we have democratic government, we are responsible for such faults as may exist, and we have the power to correct those faults. When we engage in political graft, when we evade the laws, when, for our own gain, we wink at evasion in others, let us not blame the government if the maze is further complicated by more and more legislation; the fault is ours.

And, if during the next few years we lose our freedom and, rising from the dust of a wrecked democracy, hear the whip of the dictator cracking around our ears, let us not try to load the blame on someone else the fault will be ours and ours alone.

So, while every word in that editorial is true, it is well to realize that the root of the trouble lies not with the bureaucrat, but with John Citizen who put him there, and lets him stay there yet.

CANADA TESTS NEW ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS

Canada's new anti-aircraft guns were tested at Point Petre, Ont., as a lone R.C.A.F. pilot, flying at an altitude of 3,000 feet, offered himself as a target, while two big anti-aircraft guns hurled 16-lb. shells in his direction. One of the guns is shown, ABOVE, mounted on a mobile platform made rigid by the use of jacks. The guns fire 16-pound, three-inch shells, capable of blasting an airplane from the sky at 22,500 feet.

CENTREVILLE

Mrs. Annie Gidney is visiting in Yarmouth.

Mrs. Fred Morehouse is on a trip to Saint John, accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Myrtle Graham, of Little River.

Miss Nellie Comeau, of Kentville, is spending a short time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Comeau.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Outhouse and daughter Greta, are visiting in North Range this week.

The Misses Muriel Howard and Luella Sallows of Tiverton, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle Graham, and of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thompson, at Lake Midway.

FORMER MICMAC CHIEF CELEBRATES 101st BIRTHDAY

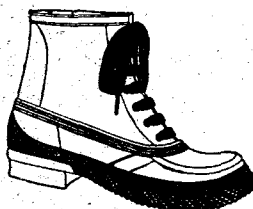

Malti Pictou, venerable Micmac of the Indian Reservation, River, celebrated his 101st birthday on Sunday. His many friends and acquaintances congratulated him on the event. While aged he is still able to move around and to remember the days of his youth when he engaged in porpoise hunting in the Bay of Fundy, or when he hunted the moose over the snow and when his home was the wigwam and his canoe made of birch bark. He is a devout member of the Roman Catholic church and loves his Bible, part of which he has in the Micmac language.

HER JUNGLE LOVE

Local and Personal

Mrs. Sara Cossaboom leaves today to visit her daughter in Drummondville, Quebec.

Miss McIlveen, former V. O. nurse here, is a visitor in town, a guest at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. McCleave.

The Ki-Gi Club will hold a Halloween Tea in the United Church Hall, on Saturday, October 29th.

We received several ripe Senator Dunlop strawberries last week, from Byron Delaney, of Central Grove, taken from his berry patch on October 13th. They were good, too! Thanks!

Mrs. Roy S. Small, of Tiverton, announces the engagement of her sister, Miss Mildred Outhouse, R. N., to Mr. Wilfred F. Griffin, of Saint John. Wedding to take place November 12th.

Stanley Spray and Stewart Winchester are spending this week in the woods.

Mrs. W. L. Ramsay, of Clements, is visiting at the home of her son, Charles W. Ramsay.

NOTICE—The dental office of Dr. G. V. Turnbull will be closed from October 15 to October 19.

The Digby General Hospital extends thanks for the following donations: Fruit, Vegetables and Flowers, from the congregation of the Lansdowne church; Miscellaneous Articles from Mrs. Shine, Deep Brook; Mrs. Cecil Jones, Joggin Bridge; and Mrs. Herbert Green, Digby.

BEGINNERS WANTED TO NIGHT, at the Band Room, to form a new Band and to learn music. See Paul Yates, Bandmaster.

Miss Patricia MacPhee spent Monday and Tuesday in Halifax.

Mrs. Helen MacKay, of Halifax, was a guest at the Adams Cottage this week.

Miss Dorothy Oliver arrived from New York this week and will spend her vacation here.

A. R. Turnbull, who has been visiting friends and relatives in Massachusetts, returned home this week.

Hugh Dickie, of the Bank of Nova Scotia staff, is spending his vacation at their camp at Sandy Bottom Lake.

Mrs. C. B. MacIntyre and her sister, Miss P. R. S. Delamere, of Aylesford, were week end guests at the Rectory.

Phyllis Dakin, of the Bank of Nova Scotia staff, is on her vacation. She is being relieved by Marjorie Clarkson.

The Misses Marion and Bernice Roop have returned from Boston, where they have been visiting for the past few weeks.

Mrs. Edgar Cowan and family left last week to join Mr. Cowan in Halifax, where they will in future make their home.

Miss Eva Haynes, of the Wallis Print staff, returned on Friday last from Saint John, where she spent her vacation with relatives.

Digby County District Division, Sons of Temperance, will hold its annual meeting with Anchor of Hope Division, Centerville, on the afternoon and evening of Thursday next.

The death of Robert O. Beckwith occurred at Brimton, N. S., at the age of 74 years, on Friday last. Kenneth Beckwith, of the Digby County Power Board staff, is a son of the deceased.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rosen crants and daughter have arrived from Nokomis, Sask., to make their home in Bear River. Mr. Rosen crants is opening a jewelry store in Bear River. See ad next week.

E. C. Sollows has returned home from a visit to Boston. While there he attended some of the races between the Nova Scotia champion "Bluenose" and the Gertrude L. Thibaud, pride of the Gloucester fleet.

A congregational rally in the vestry of the United Baptist Church, Digby, Wednesday evening, took the place of the annual Roll Call of the church. The rally was well attended, about 70 persons sitting down to the supper served by the ladies of the congregation. Special music was rendered during the evening by the choir. $125.00 was raised for church purposes by this means.

If our young people knew the pleasure of playing in a good military band, reading new music and playing it at sight, and enjoying the rehearsals in a splendid comfortable band room on the long winter evenings, under a competent instructor, they would flock to join the Band of beginners gathering tonight to talk it over. Very few small towns offer such generous opportunities for their young folks to get a musical education like that afforded by the Digby Music Council backed by the Town Council.

C. F. Titus, of Westport, is visiting his daughters, Mrs. Myra Morrey, of Malden, Mass., and his nieces, and Mrs. Annie Marshall Witham, of Marblehead, Mass. Last week they took an auto trip through the White Mountains of New Hampshire and up to Newport, Vermont, where they stayed a few days with another daughter, Mrs. May Leamitt. While there they took a trip to Sherbrooke, Que. On his return to Massachusetts Mr. Titus went to Marblehead to witness the contest between the Bluenose and the Gertrude L. Thibaud. The latter part of the week he will return to Malden where he will stay until the first of November. He will then be joined by his daughter from Vermont and they will return to his home, where he will spend the winter.

Advertising Campaign Started

"Eat More Scallops" is the advertising slogan of M. P. Levy Co., a well known Fulton Market, New York City firm of wholesale fish dealers, specializing in scallops, who, for the past several years have purchased a good portion of the catch of the Digby scallopers. The "Fishing Gazette" of New York congratulates this firm "on the splendid job they are doing to popularize scallops to the general public."

The president of the firm mentioned, states, with regard to Fulton Market "The greatest need in the Fulton Market at the present time is advertising that will reach the general public. We've started on an advertising campaign to encourage people to eat more scallops. We have a fleet of scallop boats and are the largest distributors of scallops in the Fulton Market. Although we do strictly a wholesale business we are doing all we can to help the retail trade."

"We are distributing display cards and receipt booklets to retailers who, in turn distribute them to the buying public. We believe this will stimulate buying, and will benefit others beside ourselves. This is our first venture into advertising and we feel other firms will start a campaign of a similar nature."

The display card is in two colors, red and green, and features: fried scallops arranged on a scallop shell in the most intriguing manner.

The firm of M. P. Levy Co., have advertised for Digby scallops in the Courier for several years, and have many friends among the Digby scallop fleet.

DIGBY SCOUT HALL

On Oct. 12, the Boy Scouts Group Committee consisting of M/srs Campbell, Walker, Humpherson, Sollows, Denton and Dakin with Scout and Cub Masters, Margeson, Winchester and Turnbull, met with the custodians of the Scout Hall to discuss the financial report of this building.

The Scout Hall was primarily rebuilt for the use of the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides and given in their trust to the Mayor of the town. However, the hall has financially been going behind and no attempt has been made to pay on the mortgage, so that the condition has become very serious.

The financial statement for 1932-33 was presented as follows:

Income
Credit balance	$ 74.66
Donations	32.36
Earnings	233.18
	$340.20
Disbursements
Sundries	$ 22.19
Int. Loan	14.99
Mortgage	120.00
Insurance	24.83
Fuel	30.03
Janitor	61.74
	$263.84
Bills outstanding	182.00
	$445.84

A debit balance of $105.64 for 1932-33 was shown.

On Oct. 18 the Scout Committee decided to take financial responsibility for the running of the Scout Hall and attempt to help pay off this debt, so that the hall would not be closed to the Scouts, Guides, Badminton Club and School Basketball Teams.

H. J. Campbell was appointed manager for the coming year and a plan outlined to raise funds to keep this hall open to the young people of Digby. It was decided that the Scout should work in various ways to help meet the current expenses for their hall, and throughout the winter put on various forms of entertainment as their share to raise funds for the support of the Scout Hall.

SHIPPING

The steamship "Herman Sauer", 1307 tons, of Hamburg, Germany, Capt. H. Tolschmibbe, has arrived in port from Gold River, Lunenburg County, where she took on a part cargo of pulpwood to complete loading at Digby. She will sail with some 1,800 cords in all.

The motor vessel "Kaye Marie", arrived in ballast from Rockland, Me., clearing with a cargo of hardwood cordwood for Booth Bay, Me.

The motor vessels "Muir", Capt. Frank Backman; "Aquachiqua", Capt. Morrel; "Gilbert M.", Capt. Ivan Mosher, and "Laird", Capt. Aubrey Backman, have arrived for scallop fishing, the "Aquachiqua" from Port Hawkesbury, and the others from Lunenburg County.

Contest is open to all readers and correspondents.

SPECIAL DEDICATION SERVICE AT ROSSWAY

On Sunday afternoon, at 3.15 o'clock, there will be a special service of dedication at All Saints' Church, Rossway, with a new font will be dedicated to the Glory of God and in loving memory of the late Rev. William Driffield, a former rector of Trinity Parish, Digby. Mr. Driffield always took a keen and active interest in All Saints' church, and this new font is a fine memorial to the beloved rector.

The office of dedication will be taken by the Rector, Rev. E. M. Caldwell, and the music will be rendered by Trinity choir, with Miss Ena Robinson, organist. It is hoped that many of the friends of the little old church at Rossway will be able to attend this special service.

Mention also of the new fence enclosing the church yard, will be made at that time. This new fence presents a very pleasing appearance and thanks are due to the Warden, Thomas Rowlett, and the other members of the congregation who are interested and diligent workers in the church's interest.

New Scallop Regulation In Effect

A new scallop fishing regulation has gone into effect, through which it is hoped a step will be taken for the conservation of scallops in the huge Bay of Fundy beds off Digby—the largest commercially operated beds on the Atlantic seaboard.

At the same time, the new regulation will tend to reduce considerably the number of scallops taken by the individual boats, and it is hoped in some quarters that it will reduce the catch sufficiently to warrant better prices for the local catch.

The regulation, approved by some, and opposed by others, calls for an eighteen foot drag bar—which will naturally reduce the catch capacity of every boat in the fleet, for the eighteen foot bar will only permit the operation of six nets on a bar, whereas during the past few years, the majority of the fleet have been operating with from eight to twelve nets.

Among the south shore craft to arrive for scallop fishing to date are those of Capt. Ivan Mosher, Capt. Frank Backman and Capt. Aubrey Backman, of Lunenburg; Capt. Maynard Colp and Capt. Amon Parks (the first of the Lunenburg boats to try scallop dragging out of Digby) are not expected this season, and at this date, Capt. Frank Strum, of Liverpool, Kenzie, who has "scalloped" out of Digby for the past two seasons, is reported to have lost his boat by fire Thursday of last week, off L'Have, while enroute to Digby from Halifax.

Serious Motor Accident

An accident which might have been fatal, occurred on Sandy Cove Hill, on Sunday afternoon, when a car driven by Edgar Bates of Freeport, suddenly becoming unmanageable, crossed the ditch colliding with and breaking a hydro pole stopping in G. W. Eldridge's field. Mr. Bates, accompanied by his wife, son Harold and Mr. Thurber, all of Freeport were returning from Kentville where they had gone to bring home Mr. Thurber's daughter, Mrs. Elzora Outhouse, who for the past two years has been a patient in the Sanatorium there. Mrs. Outhouse, who sustained severe injuries about the head and face, was taken to G. W. Eldridge's home and Dr. DuVernet, of Digby, was summoned, who found it necessary to take several stitches, but found no bones broken. Except for a few scratches the rest of the party were uninjured, and all proceeded to Freeport the same day with Harry Saunders, of this place.

Mrs. Alice Armstrong, who has spent some time with her sister Mrs. A. D. Daley and Mr. Daley, left this week for Montreal, where she will spend several months.

HARVEST FESTIVAL SERVICE AT LANSDOWNE

The annual Harvest Festival of Lansdowne, was held in their Union Hall, on Friday evening, Oct. 14, with a good attendance. Rev. A. W. L. Smith, of Clements, was in charge of the service, assisted by Revs. G. D. Brydon and R. L. Roach.

The addresses by these three clergymen were all based on "Thanksgiving" and were impressive and inspiring. The Thanksgiving hymns were well rendered, special help being given by Bear River friends.

The solo, "Bless This House" (as sung by John McCormack) was well rendered by Fred H. Harris. A quartette, composed of Miss Allis Forbes, Mrs. Burton Harris, Rev. G. D. Brydon and Fred R. Harris, rendered "Lead Kindly Light". Mrs. Lottie Roop accompanied during the service.

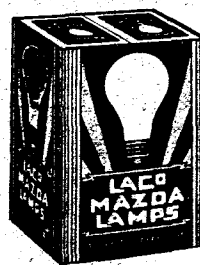

The decorations in the church for this splendid Thanksgiving service were well in keeping with the subject, for the autumn colorings of the maples and other branches were wonderful, the abundance of flowers, fruits and vegetables grouped in various sections of the hall, lent an air of gratitude to the giving of all good things, and were arranged most artistically.

The Lansdowne residents deserve much credit for their untiring efforts in transforming their House of Worship into a bower of beauty for this special thanksgiving service. The following day the collection of fruits, flowers and vegetables were taken to the Digby Hospital by Wilfred Miller and George Woolf as a donation from the residents of Lansdowne.

Dr. A. B. Campbell was present at the service and thanked the people of Lansdowne on behalf of the hospital.

Zelma Rebekah Lodge will hold its annual "Roll Call" on Monday evening.

Mrs. John Fraser, of Arlington, Mass., has been spending a few days at the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Adams, of Deep Brook.

Heartburn Kept Him Awake

Afraid to Eat Square Meal

What a worry he must have been to his wife! No food agreed with him. Acid indigestion made him positively wretched. In this letter, his wife tells how he got welcome relief:—

"My husband developed a wretched form of gastric acidity," she writes. "Meals were a misery to him. He often could not sleep for heartburn. Business kept him from home a great deal, but when he did get a spell at home, I gave him Kruschen Salts. I was amazed at the results. That weary look left his face, and his indigestion gradually disappeared. It is a treat to hear him say, 'I'm hungry.' It seems too good to be true." (Mrs.) K. M. E.

The numerous salts in Kruschen help to promote a natural flow of the digestive and other vital juices of the body. Soon after you start on Kruschen, you will find that you are able to enjoy your food without distressing after-effects. And as you persevere with the "little daily dose," you will see that Kruschen brings glorious relief.

Mrs. Roy Snell. A short business session then followed in which the class decided the next meeting to take the form of a sewing bee, for the benefit of the Greenland and Cross Road Sunday Schools.

The programme, prepared by Mrs. Carl Miller, was opened with a hymn, "The Light Is On".

Reading—"The Harvest," by Mrs. G. D. Brydon.

Vocal Solo—"Was That Somebody You?" by Mrs. Chute.

Address—By Rev. G. D. Brydon. Hymn—"Yield Not to Temptation".

The Secretary's Annual Report.
"Ten regular and two special meetings have been held, with an average attendance of eighteen."

"Our total membership numbers thirty-one, classed as follows: resident, 27; non-resident, 2; life, 2."

"The programs which were arranged by our efficient program committee, were carried out each month as scheduled and were both helpful and interesting."

"Refreshments have been served at the close of each meeting, the entertaining hostess being assisted by two members. The social side of the meeting is taken care of at that period, and greetings extended to visitors who are always welcome.

"Delegates attended the district executive meeting at Bridgetown on April 6th, and the annual convention at Truro."

"The Silver Jubilee at Halifax was attended by our official delegate and several other members and sixteen members and two guests attended the Rally at Paradise, on June 3rd."

"Our Publicity Committee have supplied local news items each week for the Digby Courier, and monthly reports of the W. I. activities."

"The Sick and Visiting Committee have given generously of their time in carrying out this very essential part of the Institute work. Through this committee we set out fifteen Christmas Cheer boxes to the sick and shut-ins, and remembered absent members and friends; and have endeavored at all times to be of assistance when and where needed."

"Likewise we have been enabled to keep in close touch with our schools, through our Education and Better Schools committee and the co-operation of our teachers. The Institute supplied hot cocoa to the school children during the winter months and member co-operated with school children in procuring play-ground equipment."

"Our standing committees have each been responsible for one program covering their particular branch of Institute work, resulting in exceptionally fine programs this year."

"Added to the above the Institute has sponsored the following:

"A Remembrance Day service in the Temperance Hall;

"Decoration of Soldiers' graves, June 3rd;

"Petition to Government to have sand spread to prevent further accidents at Victoria bridge. (This petition brought immediate results)."

"Endorsed the petition circulated by the Municipal Council to have signals erected at two dangerous railway crossings in the village;

"An 'Old Fashioned Evening', with corresponding costumes and games;

"Two 'Local Leader' meetings, at which knitting was demonstrated."

Keep outhouses sanitary with Gillett's Lye

Destroys contents... banishes odors

UNCLEAN outhouses are a peril to your family's health! Keep your outhouse clean and sanitary by using Gillett's Pure Flake Lye regularly. Just sprinkle half a tin of Gillett's over contents once a week. Used full strength, it quickly destroys contents... banishes odors as it cleans.

Gillett's Lye makes dozens of messy household tasks easy. Frees clogged drains... cleans ugly yellow stains from toilet bowls... whisks dirt and grease from pots and pans. Will not harm enamel or plumbing. Keep Gillett's Lye always handy. Buy a tin from your grocer today.

Never dissolve lye in hot water. The action of the lye itself heats the water.

Don't experiment with Children's Colds

Relieve Their Misery This Proved Way

WHEN your child comes down with a cold, you can't afford to take needless risks. Use the treatment that has been doubly proved for you—Vicks VapoRub.

It has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

Vicks VapoRub is direct external treatment. There's no dosing—no risk of spoiling appetite, or disturbing delicate digestion. VapoRub can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

You simply massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back (as illustrated).

Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, the youngster begins to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break up local congestion. And long after the little one relaxes into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working—hour after hour. Often, by morning, the worst of the cold is over.

TAKE THE LEAD OUT OF YOUR LEGS

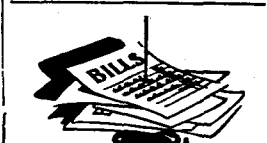

Get Oxygen in Your Blood and You'll Get the Lead Out of Your Legs

People who suffer to death because oxygen has been completely cut off from their bodies, just as surely as they are slowly smothering if their blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery—you tire quickly—feel depressed.

What you need is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today at your drugstore. See for yourself how quickly this time-proven blood-builder will help give you back your pep.

Miss Andrews is one of the popular young people of North Range, and is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Andrews, while Mr. Powell belongs to Tiverton. On Sunday they motored through to North Range to spend the day with the bride's parents. They will be making their home in Middleton.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

A joint Institute for the teachers of Digby and Clare was held here on Monday, with a record attendance of 120, from all and the Town of Digby, under the direction of Inspector T. A. M. Kirk and L. A. d'Entremont.

The morning session opened with announcements by the inspectors, followed by discussions on the Provincial Exhibition Educational Exhibits, led by Miss Ida LeBlanc of Maville, School Music, by Miss Barbara Payson of Smith's Cove, and Bradford Finigan, of Freeport, and Study Clubs, by G. R. Pierce, Weymouth, and R. O. Gibson, Barton-Brighton. The principal address of the morning was on Home and School Associations, by Miss Doris Baker, of Truro, Provincial President of the Home and School Association. This was followed by a lively discussion participated in by Sisters Columbiere and Noella, of Meteghan, and Miss Margaret Best, of Barton-Brighton.

In the afternoon Dr. Coady, of St. F. X. University Extension Department, addressed the meeting on the work of his department in Eastern Canada, through the Study Club, Credit Union and Producers' and Consumers' Co-Operatives. Dr. Coady's address was most inspiring one, and every one present will long remember it as an outstanding feature of the Institute. A vote of thanks was moved by F. C. Purdy, principal of the Digby Academy, seconded by Mr. Boudreau, of Bellevue Cove.

L. A. DeWolfe, Director of Rural Education, gave an illustrated lecture on School Improvements, and Miss Madeleine Comeau, of Weymouth, explained a French course prepared by her for the use of the schools of Digby county. At the close of the meeting thanks were extended to all taking part and to the School Board and Staff of the Weymouth School.

A feature of the Institute was the display of material from the Provincial Exhibition. One showed the work sent in from this county, the other that from a number of other counties. Both were the objects of much attention from all present.

On Tuesday a School of Weaving was conducted for eighteen teachers from the Digby Municipality by Miss Baker, Miss Harris and Mrs. DeWolfe, of Truro. Very keen interest is being shown for this phase of the handicraft programme in our public schools and already the exhibition work presents many useful articles made by pupils.

At the close of the Institute the Digby County Local Teachers' Union held a re-organization meeting, at which the following officers were elected:

President—Miss Fugatey, Digby
Vice-President—Carol Snell, Weymouth North
Secretary—Miss Ina O'Brien, Digby
Executive—Miss Payson, Smith's Cove; Miss Hicks, Freeport; Mr. Parker, Centreville.

The Young People's Union of the Heart Memorial United Church are meeting in the church vestry this evening at 7.45. The Misses Ruberta Rand and Tejesa Granville have charge of the programme, which promises to be most interesting. All young people are cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. H. A. Blackadar had charge of the special interest programme at the Rebekah Lodge, on Monday evening. At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Blackadar had one of the members, who is a proficient doughnut maker, demonstrate making doughnuts, which were afterwards enjoyed, with coffee. Mrs. Lottie Rhodenizer, of Bridgewater, warden of the Rebekah Assembly, will pay an official visit to the lodge on November 7th.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Ben. H. LeBlanc
On Wednesday of last week, at Meteghan, Mrs. Adelaide LeBlanc (née Comeau), widow of the late Ben. H. LeBlanc, passed away at the age of 79 years, after a lingering illness of paralysis. She had no children of her own she brought up and provided for a number including Rev. Father LeBlanc, of St. Bernard; Mrs. Jos. Doucet, of Church Point and Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Comeau, with whom she resided, along with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Valérie Comeau. She leaves two brothers, Leon and Nancie Comeau, Saulnierville Station. The funeral service was held from Stella Maris church, at Meteghan, on Friday morning, the Rev. Father Bourneuf presiding, assisted by her adopted son, Rev. Father LeBlanc, who officiated at the Solemn High Mass of Requiem, with Rev. Father Comeau, as deacon, and Rev. Father Comeau, a cousin, as sub-deacon. Rev. Fr. M. J. LeBlanc, of St. Alphonse, was master of ceremonies, and there were present in the sanctuary, Rev. Fathers S. Comeau, of St. Ann's College; J. Doucet, of Saulnierville, and J. A. Maillet, of Salmon River. The Reverend Sisters of the Sacred Heart Convent, with their pupils, were also present, as well as a large congregation.

H. M. Journey
There passed away at his home in Weymouth, on Saturday of last week, Herbert Moore Journey, at the age of 80 years. He had been a semi-invalid for a number of years. A widely known and highly respected citizen, Mr. Journey had carried on a dry goods business in Weymouth for more than fifty years. A man of high principle and integrity, the deceased enjoyed the respect and friendship of all with whom he came in contact during his long business career. He was active in church and community affairs, being church warden at St. Thomas' for many years. He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Mary Eleanor Jones. Of this union four children survive. Mrs. Leonard Rudolf and Geoffrey, in Saint John; Margaret, in Springfield, Mass., and Richmond, in Halifax. His second wife, formerly Maude Musells, and three children, Greta, Warren and Howard, all at home, also survive.

NOW WHERE DID THAT OTHER $100 GO?

MONEY still vanishes from pockets without leaving a trace—even when you do not really intend to spend it. But keep on letting your cash disappear in this way and you'll always feel "broke". Much better is the plan to place the money you don't intend to spend in the Post Office Savings Bank. Don't wait for a lump sum to start an account. You can begin with a dollar. Stick to your plan to save regularly and look what you'll have in a year! Your deposits in the Post Office Savings Bank will earn 2 per cent. compound interest. Withdrawals may be made whenever you need ready cash. A Post Office savings account is so easy to keep going and gives you a sure start toward independence. Begin at once to cultivate the habit of thrift.

Robin Hood Users Make Clean Sweep of White Bread Prizes at Canadian National Exhibition

To win a prize for home-made white bread in the adult section at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto is considered a great honor. We sincerely congratulate the five winners, all of whom were users of Robin Hood Flour.

THE FIVE PRIZE WINNERS

1st PRIZE: Mrs. W. A. Wylie, Bolton, Ontario, who has also lived in Weyburn, Sask., and Theodore, Sask.
2nd PRIZE: Miss Eva Jefferson, Deloraine Ave., Toronto
3rd PRIZE: Mrs. P. Forester, R.R. No. 2, King, Ontario.
4th PRIZE: Mrs. Jas. Ewart, R.R. No. 4, Bolton, Ontario.
5th PRIZE: Mrs. Wm. McClure, Brampton, P.O., Ontario.

In this great contest there were loaves baked from many different brands of flour, yet every loaf awarded a prize by the four expert judges was made of Robin Hood Flour. This clean sweep of the prizes by Robin Hood users was no accident. The loaves were definitely better loaves because they were made from a definitely superior flour—a flour milled from sparklingly clean, water-washed wheat.

Bake a batch of bread with Robin Hood Flour and see for yourself the superior bread it makes. See the beautifully browned crust, the fine, even grain of each slice, the silky texture, the snow white crumb. Smell the sweet appetizing aroma. Taste the true "wheaty" flavor. Then you will know why bread made of Robin Hood Flour has the quality that wins prizes.

DRESSED FILETS OF HADDOCK

1 cup of milk
1 tablespoon of mustard
2 cups of ground old Canadian Cheese
2 tablespoons of butter
fresh chopped parsley

Prepare a white sauce with the butter, the flour, the mustard, and the milk, add the ground cheese, season. Wipe the fillets with a damp cloth, cut in individual portions, cover each piece with the cheese mixture, sprinkle with chopped parsley, place on well buttered oven dish, and cook 20 minutes in moderate oven. Fillets of any other kind of Canadian Fish may be used instead of Haddock fillets.

THE KIDDIES' EYES will sparkle when you bring in an appetizing platter of Fish. It's a dish fit for a king, with its delicious, palate-pleasing flavour... yet so inexpensive that you will have money left over for extra meal-time treats.

You can enjoy Canadian Fish and Shellfish all the year round—over 60 different kinds—fresh, frozen, smoked, dried, canned or pickled... as often as you wish. Many tempting recipes make it easy for you to offer delightful variety to hearty appetites.

IF SHIPS COULD TALK

Reading the very interesting articles, printed in the Courier, by Capt. George Howard, reminded me of an incident that occurred on a ship which I thought might interest the readers of the Courier.

Returning from a trip to the West Indies I told my friend of my visit to Saint Pierre, describing the destruction wrought by the volcano some years before, when she told me the following story.

Her uncle, a sea captain, taking cargo to the West Indies, was entering the harbor of St. Pierre, when he noticed something about the atmosphere that aroused suspicion. The captain put out to sea and waited. The next morning the ship's deck was covered with lava dust. Re-entering the harbor he beheld the ruins and floating on the water was a box. On examination a live baby was found inside. The mother had only one alternative—to save her baby was to embark him on the ocean in a wooden box, trusting to the hand of fate.

The captain had the dust put into containers and on returning to New York had it put into small vials and sold as souvenirs. Thus through the ingenuity and kindness of a captain enough money was procured to educate the boy which fate had thus placed in his hands.

And who knows, but that a silent prayer was uttered for her child's safety as she launched that precious box.

And, by the way, many thanks for the graciousness of M. G. T. I hope I live up to her opinion of me.

OBITUARY

Hollis B. Dakin

The death of Hollis B. Dakin, 16 year old son of Mrs. George Dakin, of Centerville, Digby County, died at his home in that village on Friday of last week, with septic sore throat. Funeral services took place from the Centerville United Baptist Church, on Sunday, with Rev. J. T. Dimock and Rev. H. A. Browne officiating. Surviving him are his mother; three brothers, Sherwin Lovett and Wesley; one sister Jean, of Centerville; one brother and a sister, Burton and Ruth, in the United States.

Gladys Rosalie Jefferson

The death of 7 months' old Gladys Rosalie Jefferson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Jefferson, of Digby, occurred Sunday Oct. 9. Funeral services were held on Tuesday, Rev. E. M. Caldwell officiating. Interment was at Moschelle, Annapolis County.

Mrs. Augustus E. Pyne

The funeral services of Annie May, wife of Augustus E. Pyne, who suddenly passed away at the Digby Hospital, aged 59 years, took place at Centerville Baptist Church on Friday afternoon, Sept. 30, conducted by Rev. Mr. Dimmock, assisted by Rev. C. L. Chute, pastor of the Little River Baptist Church, of which the deceased was a valued member. The service was largely attended. The hymns sung were "God Will Take Care of You," "Dwelling in Beulah Land," "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." Rev. Mr. Dimmock spoke from the text II Cor. 5-20, "Be Ye Reconciled to God." The pallbearers were her four sons, Ellisworth, Charles and Arlston. The floral offerings were many and beautiful showing the esteem of her relatives and friends. The committal service took place on the Hillside at Centerville cemetery. Deep sympathy was shown to the grief stricken husband and family. Those left to mourn beside her husband were the four sons, two daughters Mrs. Alfred Sanderson, Waterford; Mrs. Harley Theriault, East Ferry; two sisters, Mrs. Harold Sabean, New Tusket; Mrs. Amos Hill, Weymouth; three brothers, Ralph Nisbett, Centerville; John Nisbett, Braintree, Mass.; William Nisbett, Weymouth; also eight grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends who mourn the loss of a wife, mother, neighbour and friend.

HITLER'S DEEP CONCERN WAS MERELY A POSE

The practical truth of Hitler's invasion of Czechoslovakia, which began three years ago, is this: Hitler is not interested in the Sudeten Germans but in the territory which they inhabit. If his heart were wrung by and sufferings of expatriated and captive Germans his first concern would be the tortured captives in that part of old Austria which now lies in Northern Italy. These people have suffered real persecution.

If Hitler's interest were humane and not territorial he would have encouraged the Sudetens to leave Czechoslovakia and make their homes in Germany. Such a mass emigration would involve some loss through the forced sale of possessions, but the loss would not be comparable to that suffered by the minorities in the Reich and who are forced to leave all their possessions behind them when they find opportunity to flee. In the matter of the persecution of minorities Hitler has nothing to learn. He wrote the book.

Konrad Henlein was assigned to promote treason in Czechoslovakia and has done a thorough, practical, cold-blooded job. He made frequent trips into Germany to report progress and receive further instructions.

If any minority in Germany had undertaken to do as Henlein has done in Czechoslovakia Hitler would have slaughtered both leaders and followers without pretense of a trial. Czechoslovakia, however, patiently endured Henlein's backstabbing. Hitler has filled graves and torture camps with minorities whose dissent was merely passive. Henlein on the other hand, has distributed weapons and drilled troops to await a day when Hitler would order them to betray their country to him.

The Sudetens never have been persecuted in the Hitlerian sense of the word, and, moreover, if the

BACK HOME TO COACH

Teddy Graham, ABOVE, for years one of the National Hockey league's outstanding defencemen, reverts to his first hockey love this winter when he returns to his home town, Owen Sound, to coach the Junior O.H.A. team. It was with the famous Greys of 1924, winners of the Dominion Junior title that Graham first achieved fame on the ice. He has been assisting hockey players in Owen Sound in various ways for the past few years.

persecution of members of his blood were Hitler's trouble he would have gone to the rescue of the Austrians in Italy long before this. But, for the time being at least, they have been yielded to their captors under Hitler's "practical promise" to Mussolini.

David F. Young

David Fletcher Young, a resident of Medford, Mass., for the past twenty-seven years, died on Thursday, October 6th, at his home in that city. He was born in Marshalltown, 74 years ago, and was a carpenter and builder by trade; many of Digby's finest homes were built under his supervision. He is survived by his wife, who was Alvaretta Welch, of Westport; and five children, Geo. E. Young, Mrs. Charles W. Knipp and Miss Rhoda Young, all of Medford; Mrs. Harry R. Bedell, of Saugus, and Mrs. B. P. M. Tebo, of Hooksett, N. H. Another daughter, Mrs. Viola Gourley, predeceased him several years.

Funeral services were held from his home on the 9th. Rev. Alexander Henderson, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Medford, officiating. Interment was in the Oak Grove cemetery. The house was filled with friends and associates, and the floral tributes attested to the respect in which he was held. George Turnbull, Wm. Turnbull and Curtis V. Young, of Digby, are nephews of the deceased, and Mrs. Augustus Copelan, of Bear River, is a niece. Mrs. Miss Edna Weir and Miss Florence Berry.

MARRIAGES

Forrest - Starke

The marriage of Goldie Benice, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emdon F. Starke, of Culloden, to Douglas Carleton, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Forrest, of Mt. Pleasant, took place at the Digby Baptist Church parsonage, on Wednesday morning, Sept. 28, Rev. A. G. Robertson officiating.

Livesay - Thurber

A wedding of wide interest in many circles took place on Wednesday, Sept. 28, at the home of the bride's mother, 4410 West Second Street, Vancouver, when Frances Adella, daughter of Mrs. Judson Daniels Thurber and the late Captain Thurber, (formerly of Freeport, Digby Co.), and Ernest Edward Livesay, son of Captain and Mrs. Edward Livesay, of North Saanich, V. I., were united in marriage by Rev. T. J. Hind. The bride attended the U. B. C. for the past three years, and the groom graduated from U. B. C. in 1933, and has since attended the University of Washington. The home of the bride's mother was decorated for the ceremony with a profusion of bronze chrysanthemums and gladioli in pastel tints. Given in marriage by her brother, Judson B. Thurber, the bride wore a trim tailored suit of navy blue, which revealed a blouse of white hand-tucked georgette. She wore a navy blue wide-brimmed sailor hat, navy accessories and her corsage was of gardenias. Following the ceremony, a reception was held, the guests being received by the mothers of the bride and groom. A three-tiered wedding cake centred the bride's table, which was covered with a damask cloth. For her motor trip south the bride donned a strictly tailored navy blue seave coat. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Livesay will reside in Victoria.

Titus - Swift

A quiet wedding took place on Friday evening, Oct. 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swift, at Westport, when their daughter, Dorothy, was united in marriage to Edgington Titus, of Central Grove. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Derby, of the Christian Church.

VOLUME LXV, NO. 6

About This and That

Frequently the Courier has voiced its favorable opinion of Nova Scotia's new paved roads. Driving through the country we cannot help but appreciate them, and we know, of their cost, Nova Scotia will benefit—from our own point, and from the standpoint of tourist traffic—but highways Department must realize, and that quickly, they need to provide more than hard surfaced highways—for the sake of local motorists and the sake of the tourist trade, gasoline taxes must be reduced. Too much is paid by motorists in Nova Scotia, whether they are resident or non-resident, for gasoline tax. Frequently, we have heard visitors from the United States complain of the price they must pay for gasoline while in this province—and they have just cause to complain, even when our gasoline is one-fifth larger than their one. The time will come when Nova Scotia's gasoline tax will keep as many of our American friends out of the province as did the old, dusty, dirty roads, unless immediate steps are taken to remedy the situation. There is no doubt in our minds that many vacationists from the United States who planned to visit Nova Scotia last summer, did not do so for this very reason—they could not afford to pay Nova Scotia gas prices. "Bring down the price of gasoline" should be the petition of every Nova Scotian to the government of this province. The price of gasoline is keeping many people from our province, and will continue to do so until it is brought down to a reasonably low level by a reduction of our excessive gasoline tax. The difference would in all probability, be offset by increased gasoline consumption.

"The German farmer is not allowed to hoard wealth, a here living is all that is vouchsafed him. The feeding of oat and wheat grain to livestock is 'verboten,' and half must be turned over to the government agency at a price fixed according to locality and the needs of the consuming centre, Rye, and to limited extent, barley may be used for feed on the farm. The import of concentrates is restricted, and few farmers can avail themselves of these supplementary feeds. Consequently the feed problem is acute, and the circumstances account for the scarcity of fats in the form of butter, cream, etc." Mr. Emslie was shown the records of a large poultry farm and noted a distinctly lower egg production this year, as compared with 1937. The reason is that no good grain is available for poultry feed this year, and a ground meal of inferior quality had to be substituted.

The United States Army now has a regiment which is 100 per cent negro. It is the 369th Infantry, of Harlem, New York—the State's youngest National Guard (Territorial) Unit. Hitherto the regiment has been commanded by a white colonel. Now Colonel Benjamin O. Davis, vet-

To show their appreciation to Premier Mussolini for his intervention in the recent Czech crisis, France has announced that she will recognize the Italian conquest of Ethiopia and send an ambassador to Rome, which post has been vacant for two years. It is reported that Andre Francois-Poncet, (above), present French ambassador to Berlin, will probably be sent to fill the Rome post.

ALBERT T. CANN POPULARIZED FRIED CLAM AND OTHER SEA FOODS IN HUB

Seventy-Six Year Old Proprietor of Famous Sea Grill Has Been Developing Restaurant Business in Boston For More Than a Half Century

(Canadian News, Boston)
Albert T. Cann, native of Digby, has shown Boston and the rest of the world how fish should be prepared, for the last half century. He has helped immeasurably in building the reputation of Boston as a fish town and has won fame throughout the nation as the originator of the fried clam.

Leaving Digby at the age of 20, he came to Boston and opened his first sea food restaurant three years later. It was largely an experimental effort as Massachusetts had never seen anything like it before. Even today he is credited with having introduced the sea food specialty eating place to the State.

His first shop opened in Court Street in 1885. Since then he has opened as many as 35 other places of business. Cann's Sea Grill today at 122 Canal Street, Boston, is one of the grand old relics and landmarks of the city. For over 35 years it has drawn customers from all parts of the world who have learned of its unparalleled reputation for dispensing fine food. Skippers of all languages and races who at one time or another have put into Boston and who have been drawn as by a magnet to Cann's, later have returned to their home ports and spread the good word.

In Retrospect
Today, at 76, Albert T. Cann has realized his ambition to make good in the new country. He has not, however, forgotten the old country, for he returns every year to his beloved Digby, and thinks what it would have been like if he had turned skipper as his father wanted him to.

He is still very active and is on the job every day ready with a cherry "Hello and how are you?" for whoever steps off Canal Street and opens the door to the sea food paradise. He is as much identified with the establishment as is the fresh salt aroma rising from the containers of broths and chowders within and the various exhibits of edible sea life on view in the traditional Cann's window display.

Invented Fried Clam
Mr. Cann enjoys being credited for the invention of the fried clam. Records prove that he originated the singed bivalve in 1905. Likewise, he likes to tell how he revolutionized sea food menus by introducing what might be called a marathon special, which runs the gauntlet of clam on sea foods. The sea food platée, a Cann origination, consists of lobster, oysters, clams, shrimp and crabmeat—served either hot or cold.

This dish comes close to being his favorite meal, too. The decision is a close one but in the end he decides that stuffed lobster à la Cann or broiled live lobster served with musty ale and French fries are his favorites.

Last week, above all others, has been particularly noteworthy for Albert T. Cann. The Fishermen's Convention has brought to town many of his friends scattered throughout the nation. And this

Violent Ways of Peacetime

(Vernon Bartlett in Sydney Herald)

China, where there is a war, is so much more easy-going and sensible than Central Europe, where there is not, that one would like to write exclusively about the Far East after a visit there. I am sure that one would not even like to stay there. I was able to travel from Canton to Hong Kong without being called upon to show my passport when I entered British territory. Nowhere when I left China territory was I asked how much money I carried.

And yet to land in Athens I had to have a visa, and to leave Athens I had to have another one. At the airport I had to make the most explicit declaration that I earned no more money than the equivalent of some seven shillings. The aeroplane landed for 20 minutes at Sofia, and for the honor of stepping out for that short time on Bulgarian soil I had to pay for a visa which cost roughly eighteen English shillings.

The aerodrome was so crowded at Belgrade with military machines doing stunts, that landing became quite dangerous. The airport at Budapest looked more or less normal, but Vienna more than compensated for this welcome fact. German military machines stood there in long rows. German Nazis and soldiers clicked heels and saluted at the entrance to the airport. The disreputable Austrians had hurriedly sewn the black swastika on their red and white striped flags.

Outside my hotel in Vienna, hitherto the most kindly and homely of places, stood two sentries. Their immobility, although they were standing at ease, was terrifying. Nevertheless, it was a fine afternoon, and I walked cheerfully down the main shopping street. In the Graben I saw a large crowd and edged my way into it. In the centre was a cultured looking young man with perspiration streaming down his face, and just as I was about to ask what he had done, someone gave him a push, and he went down on his hands and knees and began scrubbing at a Schuchnigg cross which had been painted on the pavement before the annexation of Austria. A crowd of those nice, comfortable and genial Austrians whom I have so loved, jeered and laughed at this man, who had the misfortune to be a Jew.

I had resolved in the aeroplane that brought me from Singapore to Alexandria that in no circumstances would I write anything bitter. War, I told myself, was the greatest of all injustices; the brutalities and the miseries which so disgusted one were the result of the last war, and nothing could justify the propagation of bad feeling which might lead to another one. I tried to forget the sufferings of Spaniards, as they are bombed into submission by German and Italian aeroplanes; I tried to forget those acres of blackened ruins at Shanghai that have been destroyed in what the Japanese Government calls "incident," and other Governments, terrified lest they should have to do something to stop it, still refrain from calling a war, but here in the presence of this mob, jeering at a man who happened to be born a Jew, I felt all my anger and resentment coming back again.

I would rather grow angry about these examples of human beastliness than defend them or deny their existence. And yet it is important that one should remain calm enough to distinguish between the hardships of individuals and the welfare of nations. One had the impression on returning from the Far East that one was returning to a madhouse, and the British were certainly not among the least hysterical.

GREAT WAR INEVITABLE

The following is from the pen of Wickham Steed, prominent English Conservative journalist, and his interpretation of the crisis overseas:

As to the probable developments in the European situation, in view of this unprecedented and shameful capitulation of Great Britain to a German threat, I believe that never within living memory has the position of Great Britain and the Commonwealth been so gravely jeopardized as it is now. The British Empire is looked upon by Nazi Germany as the ultimate obstacle to German mastery of Europe and the world. German plans are first to secure the mastery of Europe by control of the whole Central and Southeastern European countries and by enforcing union with the Reich of German-speaking populations in neighboring states. The reason why the Czechs were first singled out for destruction is not the sufferings, real or imagined of the Sudetens, but the Czechs stood as the first obstacle in German ambitions. If this business goes through we will have made a present to Hitler of three million men, two to three thousand planes, which would have been otherwise employed if Hitler attacked the Czechs.

I do not for a moment think he would have dared.

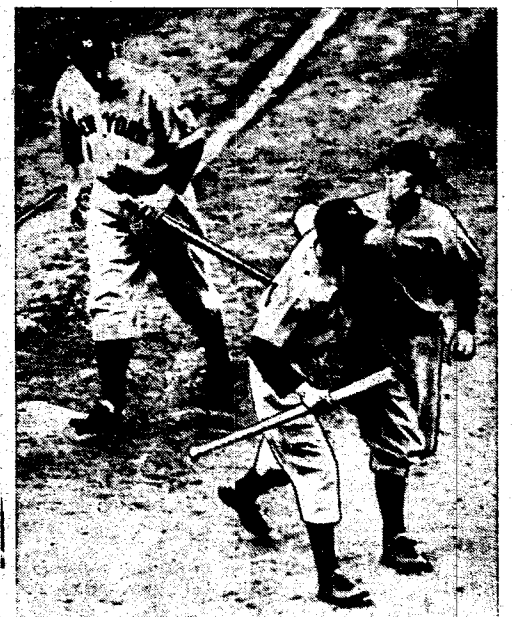

A short time ago Hitler was in a tighter place than he had ever been. Germany was seething with discontent—Conservatives, Liberals, and Socialists hoped and believed the hour of his fall was approaching.

This was the moment when the British Prime Minister, a business man from Birmingham, unskilled in foreign affairs, chose to deal alone with the astute politician in Europe: yielded to his bluff and accepted a time limit equivalent to an ultimatum for presenting Hitler without a struggle with the mutilated body of his victim.

Henceforth neither we nor France will have a leg to stand on when he demands Alsace, south Denmark, Holland, Flemish, Belgium, Transylvania and Switzerland (for these countries are all "mixed states," that is, to say, states containing elements in their populations of German or German origin). It is part of our policy to defend them. What hope will there be of defending them when Germany has at her disposal the resources and man power of Europe from the North to the Black Sea? These things all are in the German plan.

My view of this capitulation makes a great war inevitable unless we ourselves surrender. When war comes we will be friendless and discredited instead of being, as we might have been, liberators of western civilization, defenders of freedom and a bulwark for assured peace.

NOVEMBER BY-ELECTIONS

Four Dominion by-elections are to be held on November 14. The arenas are London, Waterloo South, Brandon and Montreal-Laurier. All of these constituencies except Montreal-Laurier elected Conservatives in 1935. The Liberals will not contest London nor the Conservatives Montreal-Laurier, but there will be straight party fights in the other two ridings. As the new elections act has not yet been proclaimed, these elections will be held under the 1936 statute, and this is the reason for the long period which is elapsing between the issue of the writs and polling. It is some time since an honest-to-goodness bi-party by-election fight took place in Canada, and for that reason these contests will attract an unusual amount of public interest.

Leander Saulnier, 79, a retired railway man, passed away at his home, at Saulnierville Station, on Saturday of last week, after a long illness. He is survived by his wife. The funeral service was held in Sacred Heart Church, conducted by Father J. Doucet, with interment in the church cemetery.

ENJOYABLE ROLL CALL

One of the most enjoyable "roll calls" ever put on in Digby, was that of Zelma Rebekah Lodge, last Monday evening. Of a membership of little over 100, over 90 were present. The beautiful Odd-fellows' Hall was nicely decorated. The tables were arranged by "months", that is, there were twelve tables each carrying a month name and the Rebekahs and guests sat at the particular table named after their birth month. The waitresses each wore a sash with the name of the month and waited on the corresponding table. Favors were at each place. The banquet was splendidly arranged and was thoroughly enjoyed.

AN EXPLANATION

Our correspondents evidently did not understand our ad. offering a dollar for the best "news" item contributed each week. Only two completed this week, and neither qualified. One was an interesting account of "Jerome," but that happened many years ago and is not "news"; the other sent in a "personal" paragraph, which our ad. stipulated were not to be considered. Our offer is for "live news" of the activities of the fishermen and the farmer and others—not personal "gossip" or history.

Help Those Who Helped You Buy A Poppy

One of the major activities of The Canadian Legion is the National Poppy Day Campaign. Its purposes are threefold—firstly, to perpetuate the custom of wearing the Poppy in remembrance of our heroic dead on the anniversary of the Armistice concluding the Great War of 1914-1918; secondly, to provide sheltered employment for partially disabled veterans who are practically unemployable in any other work; and thirdly, to raise funds in local communities to assist war veterans and their dependents in distress.

Veteran Poppies as "The Flower of Remembrance" have been available in Canada since the third anniversary of the Armistice. The appropriateness of the emblem has been universally accepted, so that the modest distribution of that day has increased until more than two million Canadians carried the symbol last Remembrance Day, while thousands of post-war graves memorials and cenotaphs bore the emblem in the form of wreaths and other methods of adornment.

The Poppies, wreaths, etc., are manufactured by war veterans in workshops under the direction of the Pensions Department. These men are pensioners and the Poppy Campaign affords them a means of supplementing their pension allowances and provides them with a type of work which they could not obtain in the common labor market. The Poppy distribution may be epitomized in the single sentence—"Remember the dead by helping the living."

No less significant is the third objective. Though the majority of ex-service men have re-established themselves, there are yet large numbers without employment. The war has left its mark on practically every man who served. Thousands have been helped by the provisions of the Pension and War Veterans' Allowance Acts, but it is the man with the invisible disability—the man who bears no outward scars and who apparently came through unimpaired—that requires the sympathetic aid made possible through the Poppy Campaign. The funds raised in local communities are devoted to this and no other purpose, with every cent being used to the best advantage. Thus the Pensions Poppy "Brings aid for the living from the dead."

Poppy Day is the one day in the year that the Canadian Legion from coast to coast, solicits funds from the public through the distribution of the sacred Flower of Remembrance in loving memory of fallen comrades. Citizens are given an opportunity at that time to contribute of their means towards this great purpose. Let us all be prepared to open wide both heart and purse when the appeal is made to us. Give a little more for your Poppy this year!

MARRIAGES

Dukeshire - Taylor
 A very pretty wedding, of interest to a large circle of friends, was solemnized at the Baptist parsonage Lower Granville, at 8 o'clock, on Saturday evening, when Marion Louisa, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ellisworth Taylor, of Victoria Beach, became the bride of Lawrence Sinclair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dukeshire, of Bear River. Rev. W. B. Crowell performing the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. The bride was dressed in navy blue with grey accessories. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Dukeshire were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, two showers being given them, one at Victoria Beach and one at Port Williams, where the bride was formerly employed. Mr. and Mrs. Dukeshire will reside in Bear River.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

On Wednesday of last week Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Kinney, one of the highly esteemed couples of this district, celebrated their thirty-fourth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Kinney, who was confined to the house through illness, was, fortunately, improved in health and thus able to enjoy a "surprise" visit from some thirty of their mutual friends who arrived to celebrate with them. Rev. Mr. Brydon, pastor of the Baptist church asked Mr. and Mrs. Kinney to take their places before him as they had done at the time of the original ceremony, which was performed by Rev. I. W. Porter. After a few short, well-chosen and witty remarks, in which he conveyed to them the best wishes of their friends, and the hope that they might have many years of happy married life yet before them, he presented them with a suitable anniversary gift. To this Mr. Kinney replied on behalf of himself and Mrs. Kinney, thanking the friends for their visit, which was a complete surprise to them, and which they appreciated all the more because they had been unable to be about as much as usual. Ice cream and cake were served, followed by a short period of music and singing, after which the guests departed having enjoyed a very pleasant time. The rooms were gay with lovely yellow chrysanthemums, an anniversary gift from their daughter, Miss Muriel Kinney.

In the Philathea Class special, of last week, it read the class is having a sewing bee next month. It should have read: the class is meeting for the purpose of making Christmas gifts.

Frank Fraser, Canadian Trade Commissioner, and Mrs. Fraser, sailed from Montreal on Wednesday for their home in Jamaica, B. W. I., after a week spent in Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Avard Marshall entertained at a "post-nuptial" shower last Saturday evening in honor of their son, Alfred, and bride, who were recently married in Caledonia. About fifty guests were present and brought many lovely and useful gifts for this young couple, in their new home.

Mrs. E. F. Powers closed her summer home in Deep Brook last week and left on Wednesday via Saint John and New York for her home at West Palm Beach, Florida. Mrs. Powers was accompanied by her niece, Miss Kathryn Burgess, of Grand Falls, N. B., who will be her guest for the winter.

INTERESTING SERVICES

Splendid congregations were present both morning and evening, in the United Church on Sunday, to join in different ways in the observance of the anniversary of the church and the harvest festival services of the day. The church was very tastefully decorated with fruit, vegetables and flowers, set in a lovely background of autumn leaves. The special speaker of the day was Rev. W. S. Godfrey, Superintendent of Home Missions for the Maritime Provinces. Mr. Godfrey is well and favorably known, not only in his capacity as superintendent of Home Missions, but also because of his place of leadership in the Young People's work of the Conference. His theme for the day was "Building", based on the 21st chapter of Revelations. In the morning he stressed the virtues necessary to the well balanced life, while in the evening the emphasis was centred around the need of courage and patience in the building of life. The speaker's thoughts were beautifully illustrated with a number of practical incidents which had come into his ministry.

At the close of the morning service the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed by an unusually large number. All the services were brightened and made more interesting by the special music rendered by the choir, especially so was the half hour song service held before the regular service in the evening, when a number of the old hymns were lustily sung by all present.

TAKE THE LEAD OUT OF YOUR LEGS

Get Oxygen in Your Blood and You'll Get the Pep that Sends You Bounding Up the Stairs
 People who suffer to death because oxygen has been completely cut off from them, but as surely as you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves say become jittery — you tire quickly — feel depressed.
 What you need is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These wonderful pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Obituary

Henry Dwight Sabean

Henry Dwight Sabean, 75, son of the late Henry C. and Margaret Ann (Randall) Sabean, of New Tuskot, died at Newton Centre on Sunday, October 18. He was born in New Tuskot but left his home when 21 years of age, and has been a resident of Boston and vicinity for 54 years. He was a member of the firm of Rhodes Bros. Company, wholesale and retail groceries and provisions. He was a Free Mason and a member of the Tremont Temple Baptist church, of which he was a life deacon. Owing to failing health he retired from business in 1934. The funeral services were held on the 19th at Tremont Temple Baptist Hall, with interment in Forest Hills, Rev. Mr. Brownlie officiating. He is survived by his wife, Mary E. (VanNorden), two brothers, Joseph Hartley, of Everett, Mass., and Charles Franklin, of New Tuskot, and one sister, Ella May. (Mrs. Nelson Sabean), Weymouth.

Mrs. George Wells and Mrs. Butler, of Annapolis Royal, were week end guests of their cousin, Mrs. Jessie Journeay. While here Mrs. Wells met with a painful accident when she slipped and fell, injuring an ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nickerson have moved into Mrs. Charles Saulnier's house for the winter. On Monday evening of last week a number of their friends gathered at their new home to tender them a surprise party.

Concession, a village which is well over 100 years old, had its first "talkies" in the parish hall recently. For several elderly persons and children these talkies were the first they had ever listened to. They were under the direction of the parish priest.

A baptismal service was held at the cove, Weymouth North, on Sunday morning, when Rev. I. D. Little baptized two candidates, Mrs. John Raymond and Mrs. Clyde Raymond. In an account of a recent baptismal service held at the same place, the name of Miss Rebecca Marshall of Ashmore, was unintentionally omitted.

Practices are being held Monday and Thursday evenings for the three-act comedy, "Aunt Minnie from Minnesota", which will be presented next month. The cast includes Mrs. W. R. Harris, Mrs. P. C. Gates, Mrs. C. DeLong, Mrs. L. Burgess, the Misses Roberta Rand, Kathleen Fitzgerald and Stella Sabine; and Galen Pierce, George Taylor, Robert Brooks, Jack McNeil and Bill Gardin.

Mr. Kinney was born at Ashmore, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Kinney. For 21 years he has been clerk of the Baptist Church, Barton, and for 47 years was secretary-treasurer of Gilbert's Cove Pier Company. After leaving Gilbert's Cove he moved to Barton, where for 30 years he has been a successful merchant and since 1935 Magistrate.

In 1888 he married Laura B. Rice, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Westley Rice, of Bear River. They have one son, Rice Kinney, B. Sc., merchant at Barton. On their anniversary they received many visitors and messages of felicitation.

BRIGHTON

(Held Over From Last Week)

On Monday evening at 8.00 o'clock, Rev. Mr. McKim will be the special speaker at the Riverside Baptist Church, Weymouth North.

New Edinburgh

(Held Over From Last Week)

Benny Raymond was rushed to the Digby Hospital on Sunday for an appendicitis operation. Mrs. Harry McCormack and son Jackie, visited relatives in Weymouth Mills, recently. Miss Evangeline Doucette arrived from Massachusetts, where she has been visiting her sister. A few other young men folk have recently returned from up the valley. Some raspberries were picked recently by Barbara McCormack.

This little village was saddened by the sudden and untimely passing of young Bennie Raymond. He had been working up the Valley and was forced, through illness, to return to his home here. It was found necessary to take him to the Digby General Hospital, where an operation was performed. Complications set in and he failed to rally. Bennie was a favourite with both young and old and friends from near and far came to pay their last respects. Some delicious raspberries were gathered by Barbara McCormack on Tuesday. They were larger than the regular crop.

Dennis Amiraault has recovered from an attack of pleurisy and is able to be out again.

METEGHAN

John P. Deveau left on Friday for Halifax, on ship-building business.

The work in Elisee Gaudet's shipyard is progressing. A repaired vessel was launched last week.

The lightship, "Lurcher", sailed Sunday morning from the Meteghan dry dock, after having been well painted.

Alfred Robichaud, of Theriault's Garage, Weymouth, visited his father, Elie Robichaud, on Sunday.

Congratulations to Emilien P. Deveau, Meteghan Station, who is the grandfather of 50 grandchildren.

The college boys from St. Ann's, Church Point, spent the "grand conge" they had Friday, at their respective homes; they were Rogers Comeau, Benoit Mallet, Alfred Deveau and Gilbert Gaudet.

Mrs. Annie Geddy, of Meteghan Station, visited her granddaughter, Mrs. Edward Saulnier, at the Royal Hotel, one day last week. She was accompanied by her sister, Rev. Sister Antoine, of the Sacred Heart Convent.

Mrs. (Dr.) P. E. Belliveau, Mrs. John P. Deveau, Mrs. Gus Dugas and Mrs. Leger d'Entremont were delegates at the annual Halifax Division Convention of the Catholic Women's League, in Windsor, Monday and Tuesday of last week and participated also at the Silver Jubilee of priesthood of their chaplain, Rev. Fr. H. J. Flemming, who has been parish priest at Windsor for eighteen years.

Those registered at the Royal Hotel last week were: S. J. Hill Halifax; A. J. Moore and E. D. Ferguson, of the Canadian Oil Co., Yarmouth; W. A. d'Entremont, West Pubnico; Allister MacDonald, New Glasgow; Raymond LeBlanc, Meteghan; Gustave Jobidon, Quebec; P. J. Jobidon, Loretteville, Que.; and L. Dubé, of Mont Joli.

An engine has been hauled by two motor trucks from the Meteghan station to be placed in the new boat "Mont Joli" which is built in the shipyard, under the supervision of John P. Deveau. The engine weighs 13 tons. Ley Kauf, of Montreal, is the engineer.

A boxing match, of local boys, was held in the Boudreau Hall, on Friday evening, and was filled to capacity. The first round was two young boys, Comeau about 10 years old, only for fun, and was called draw, second round, Martin Gaudet with Gerald Comeau was also a draw. Third round, Bernadine Saulnier with Elzear Deveau, Saulnier won by technical K. O. Fourth round, Herbier Saulnier with Bomber Jack, who won with a knock-out, K. O. Fifth round, Henry Clements with Victor Robert, was a draw. George Richardson, of Yarmouth, was referee; John Doucet, of Beaver River with another John Doucet, of Springhaven, were judges, and Charles Emien, Yarmouth, timekeeper.

SANDY COVE

Arthur Morehouse has returned to Boston, after visiting relatives for the past month.

Miss Myrtle Morehouse spent Friday with friends in Digby.

Members of the Light-Bearers Mission Band met at the home of the President, Mrs. Scott Sypher, on Friday evening. The following were appointed for the ensuing Sunday guests of the former's brother, C. F. and Mrs. Dunn.

DRESSMAKER HAD TO QUIT SEWING

Hands Swollen With Rheumatism

Pity this poor dressmaker! Nine-tenths of her work consists of sewing—and she was not able to sew. Rheumatism in the hands was her trouble, and she tried any number of remedies. But nothing helped much—until she came to Kruschen.

"Three-and-a-half years ago," she writes, "I had a violent attack of rheumatic pains. My feet and hands were swollen. The pain was terrible. I was really quite crippled and helpless."

"I tried many remedies without success. Then I started on Kruschen Salts, and after one month, I could stand up again. Then, I walked with a cane. In three months, I was quite well again. As I am a dressmaker, you can imagine what it meant to me not to be able to work my sewing machine. What a treat to be able to walk, to work, and to be free from pain!"—(Mrs.) E. S.

The stabbing pains of rheumatism are often caused by needle-pointed crystals of uric acid lodging in the joints. Kruschen brings relief because it helps to dissolve those troubling crystals and to expel them from the system.

year: Vice Pres., Yvonne Sypher; Recording Sec'y., Muriel Harris; Treas., Helen Jeffrey; Organist, Yvonne Sypher; Auditor, Morley Sypher. After the business session refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingram Nelly and family were guests of Mrs. Nelly's mother, Mrs. C. M. Mitchell, on Sunday. Mrs. Mitchell accompanied them home for a short visit.

Spurgeon Jeffrey was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Marshall, at Marshalltown.

Mrs. Edna Crowell has gone to spend the winter months in Hopedale, Mass., with her daughters, Iona and Gladys.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wright, of Marshalltown, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Sypher, on Sunday.

The Misses Clara Gidney and Yvonne Sypher spent Saturday in Digby.

Amos E. Outhouse visited in Digby and Roxville, a few days this week.

Osborne Morehouse has returned home from Clarence, where he has been employed for some time.

Mrs. Roy Davis has returned to her home in Upper Cunard, after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Dunn.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dunn and Mrs. Ellis, of Digby, were Olyn Saunders and Mrs. Frank Nichols, all of Digby, were guests of Capt. and Mrs. Wm. Burns on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Franklin, of White Head, G. M., are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Merritt.

Mrs. Annie Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Allard and daughter Ann, have gone to Montreal for the winter months.

SCOUT REPORT
During the previous weeks two important activities have been carried out in connection with Scout work. One was the taking over of the Community Hall and the other was Scout Apple Day. The regular meetings were held. The four Cubs who joined the Scouts two weeks ago, Murray Mount and David Clarkson, have passed their Tenderfoot tests and are ready to be invested. Gordon Comeau, Charles MacAuley, Ted Walker, Donald Wilson and Paul Winchester are now entitled to wear their second year service star and Peter Humpherson his third year star. As it is remembered "Pete" was a Scout two years before he joined this troop last year. Last Friday Douglas MacKay was taken into the troop on six weeks probation.

Obituary

Capt. Joseph E. Snow
Capt. Joseph Enoch Snow, one of the best known of Digby's old time fishing skippers, died suddenly at his home yesterday afternoon. He was 80 years of age and a native of Digby. He had been enjoying his usual health and yesterday after dinner, laid down to rest. A few minutes afterwards he was taken with an ill turn and died in a few minutes. He leaves a widow, formerly Miss Young, of the "Islands"; two sons, Lloyd, of Digby, and Loran, of Saint John; five daughters, Mrs. William Sullivan, Boston; Mrs. Florence Pierce, Denver, Col.; Mrs. Donald Butler, Washington; Miss Georgiana Snow and Mrs. Chas. E. Lindstrom, Digby; one brother, Capt. William Snow, Digby, and one sister, Mrs. Frank Swett, of Cambridge, Mass.

A WELL EARNED VACATION

Doctor F. E. Rice, of Sandy Cove, accompanied by his wife, has recently returned from a well earned vacation to Upper Canada, and the United States. He left his home at Sandy Cove, on Sept. 23, going by boat to Saint John, then by C. P. R. to Montreal, where they spent a week, visiting Mrs. Rice's brother, Professor Kelsey C. Denton. While there they visited several places of interest, among them was the beautiful drive to the Laurentian Mountains. They went from there by bus to Springfield, Mass., then to Westfield, where they visited the doctor's daughter, Mrs. C. Crowell and Mr. Crowell. While there they visited several scenes of the destruction of the hurricane and flood. They also visited Mrs. Rice's daughter in Boston, and called on old friends and acquaintances. They returned home by way of Boston and Yarmouth, motoring from Yarmouth.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE

The annual session of the Digby County District Division was held with Anchor of Hope Division at Centreville, yesterday.

ACROSS CANADA ON A SHOE STRING AND A TIRE PATCH

(By Donald Longworth)

In telling this story of my trip—which Mr. Wallis has asked me to do so—I do not want to give any wrong impressions nor influence any one to follow my example. I went without my parents' consent—a wrong thing to do, and the trip was far from easy. Leaving home on the afternoon of March 7th, I travelled down the main highway along St. Mary's Bay to Yarmouth. Had several "lifts" so reached Yarmouth that evening. I walked all night, and when a man gave me a lift into Shelburne, I slept while in his car. After leaving this section of the province I went along the South Shore to Halifax, arriving there March 10. Made no stay in the city but proceeded toward Moncton, going through the Wentworth Valley and having to walk a distance of about twenty miles between Folly Lake and Oxford. It was very cold but I did not mind for I had made up my mind to head west and see the country and get work if I could, and I would not turn back. Turning toward Saint John, I arrived there about noon on the 13th, and from there made Welsford that night. By walking and getting "lifts" I soon made my way through Fredericton, Woodstock and Hartland and on by way of Edmundston to St. Jacques on the border of the Province of Quebec by March 16. During this time I had met with kindness in receiving food and shelter and "lifts" along my journey. Walking at twenty miles per day, I made St. Rose that night, Cabano the next, and then Withworth (a small place where the section foreman is the postmaster.) From here I went to Riviere de Loup. All through the province was deep snow. The sections through which I passed were mostly farming localities. Everything sort of "old world" nice big old sleighs drawn by pairs of horses. Plenty of ox teams, too. In many cases the oxen are harnessed as we do horses, only they reverse the collar and harness, putting them upside down on the oxen. In many places children going to church ride in dog teams—just ordinary mongrel dogs are harnessed to small sleighs or sleds and the children drive them. All through Quebec are so many churches, shrines and crosses. Many of the churches have as many as four bells. The people are very hospitable—so kind. On one occasion I was walking along what seemed to be a perfectly safe and ordinary road when I suddenly sank nearly to my waist in water. The spring floods had started and deep water was running under the snow. A woman called to me to come to the house and I was kept there until I was dry and warm before proceeding on my journey. It was during the Lenten season when I travelled through Quebec, and the food was mostly fish and pancakes—and such pancakes, with maple syrup! Thus far my travelling—walking, riding in cars and sleighs. At Riviere de Loup I caught a fast train to St. Francis. From there

LIFETIME ALUMINUM WARE

Economy is one of the many reasons for the universal preference of Lifetime Ware; greater consumption of fuel utensils that wear out quickly; also Lifetime is economical because it means better and quicker cooking and gives a much longer period of wearing service. Cooking with Lifetime Aluminum is the healthy way as leading food and health authorities agree. According to "Popular Mechanics", Aluminum is used more extensively for the preparation, in Hospitals, than any other metal. When you buy a piece of Lifetime Ware you are getting a utensil that is not surpassed for weight or finish. It gives us pleasure to sell this class of goods for we can confidently tell you there is none better made.

EYE - STRAIN

Eye-strain, requiring correction with lenses is purely mechanical ability. There is nothing medicinal about it, and 95% of all eye trouble is corrected with lenses. We have the experience to do this work, as our thousands of satisfied patients will testify. The title Doctor of Optometry is not used in Canada or by the Ophthalmic Optician and Surgeon of England. My degree of Doctor of Optometry is recognized under the Charter of the Philadelphia Optical College chartered in 1892. (I challenge anyone to dispute this statement.) This College has been giving this degree for forty-five years and is still going strong. Time has proved our worth. Don't listen to talk, see us and see better.

Nova Scotia Farm News

Creamery Butter Production Continues to Make Records

A new all-time September record for creamery butter production in Nova Scotia was made by the creameries the past month when a total of 672,906 pounds was made, compared with 525,621 pounds for September last year, an increase of 28 per cent. Production for August was also an all-time record for that month. Total production for the nine months of the year now concluded has been 5,330,282 pounds, compared with 4,619,303 pounds for the same period last year, an increase of 15.6 per cent. It now becomes practically certain that the total production for the full year will exceed any previous year in the history of the industry, since it is apparent that the total will exceed the six million pound mark by a fairly substantial amount. Price levels have been lower in September than for some years past, the average for this September having been 22.4 cts. as compared with 26.3 cts. in September last year. This is largely due, reports Dairy Superintendent, W. J. Bird to the large surplus built up throughout Canada this spring and summer following the high prices of this spring. Nova Scotia prices, he states, still continue to be substantially higher than the prices paid in Western Canada.

Boys' Farm Club Camp for Winter Fair

Junior farm club work will be featured at the Maritime Winter Fair at Amherst next month, when a camp of 100 boys will be operated, 40 from the clubs of Nova Scotia, 40 from New Brunswick and 20 from Prince Edward Island. Another feature will be the calf club exhibit in which 46 animals will be shown, 17 of which have been selected from Nova Scotia clubs. The executive of the Maritime winter fair has contributed $300 in prize money for this exhibit. The camp is financed to the extent of a $500 grant from the Dominion department of agriculture, this contribution taking care of accommodation and general expenses. The three provincial departments of agriculture also contribute to the organization of the campaign and its expenses. The club members will go to Amherst on November 7 and will leave November 9. New fixtures for the club members this year will be a judging competition of dressed hog carcasses for members of swine clubs. Identification competition in which live stock, poultry and seeds will be included, a motion picture on rural electrification, and a public speaking competition and a knowledge test on the winter fair, with the winter fair as the topic for the speaking contest.

Short Courses Open

Co-incident with the opening of the Agricultural College at Truro on Wednesday last, the first of the series of fourteen short courses for farmers and farm women, to be held this winter under the joint auspices of the Nova Scotia department of agriculture and the federal department of labor, also was inaugurated at Truro. This was a course in poultry grading, which included instruction on killing, plucking, dressing, grading and packing, with birds selected from the flocks at the Federal experimental farms at Kentville and Nappan. Some 22 students, farm young people, are in attendance at this course, with instruction being given by both federal and provincial government officials.

Short Courses for Rural Districts

In addition to the series of short courses to be held this winter at the Agricultural College, Truro, a series of thirty short courses for rural districts, of from one to four weeks in length has also been planned under the same joint auspices. The courses will be along lines specifically applying to the districts in which they are to be held. It is probable that the first of these will be one at Baddeck in Victoria county, late in November, at which dairying, poultry and field crops will be emphasized. Certain financial assistance is available to young men from 16 to 30 years of age who desire to take these courses, but they will all be open to others as well.

Courses for Rural Women

Two short courses for rural women in home craft, under the youth training program, will also be held at the agricultural college this season, one from January 17 to February 10, and the other from February 21 to March 1. Subjects relating to home making and handicraft will be taken up at these courses.

Two interesting short courses in home crafts are being planned in Victoria and Richmond counties, Cape Breton. These are being held at Baddeck and Arichat respectively, October 25 to November 4. Lectures and demonstrations are being given by members of the staff of the Women's Institute division of the provincial department of agriculture in foods and cooking, laundry, home nursing, handicrafts. Certain financial assistance is available for students attending these courses.

Women's Institute Activities

Under direction of Miss Helen Macdougall, superintendent of Women's Institutes for the province, activities for the autumn season are now well under way. During the past ten days Miss Macdougall has been meeting with the district executives in Pictou county, Hants county, South Lunenburg and Queens-Shelburne. Two new Institutes have recently been organized at Nyanza, in Victoria county, and at New Minas, in Kings county.

Local leader schools, a plan inaugurated last season with considerable success, are being continued this year for local leaders in institute work, with instruction being given by the Misses Alice Dickie and Marion Eaton, of the Women's Institute division staff. There is keen interest being shown in these schools, and instruction in different projects is being given on a somewhat more extended scale than last year.

National Cheese Week

Announcement comes from the National Dairy Council of Canada that the national cheese week to be observed from November 7 to 12. The object of the campaign is to remind the public that cheese is made in Canada in considerable quantities of high quality, but that per capita consumption in this country is still lower than in Great Britain and other countries.

added to the annual convention to start in Kentville on December 6.

Crop Report

The outstanding feature of farm conditions at present, report district agricultural representatives is the unusually large amount of fall plowing done. The summer rainy season, providing easy plowing conditions in the soil, with excellent weather conditions this fall, and the stimulated attention to crops and proper plowing as a result of field crop educational campaigns and the provincial county and local plowing matches all have been factors in bringing this desirable condition about. Districts with the greatest attention to plowing are the centre and north shore districts. The valley districts, busy with the apple harvest, have not been able to give as much attention to the plowing. Threshing yields vary greatly. In the districts from Pictou east, returns have been fairly good. In the central district, early grains have threshed out well, but the late grains are light in yield. The lightest crop relatively is in the western section of the province. Margels are now being gathered with yields generally good. Turnips are also growing well. Potatoes generally are yielding well, but in many parts of the province loss by rot is heavy. Seed situation in many districts will be serious.

OBITUARY

Hollis B. Dakin

The death of Hollis B. Dakin, son of Mrs. Florence E. Dakin, occurred at his home in Centerville, on Friday, Oct. 14. He had just passed his 16th birthday on Oct. 4, and was ill only a few days. The funeral was held from the Baptist Church in Centerville, on Sunday, Oct. 16, and was largely attended. The service was conducted by Rev. J. T. Dimock, assisted by the Rev. H. A. Brown. The pupils of the Centerville school, which he attended, marched to the cemetery, and the service at the grave was very impressive. His sister, the late Mrs. R. C. Mount of Digby, predeceased him only four months ago. Besides a sorrowing mother, he leaves four brothers and two sisters. Interment was in Lakeside Cemetery, at Centerville. Floral tributes were many and beautiful.

Because his ancestors hid King Charles in that oak tree when Oliver Cromwell and his Roundheads were after the monarch, back in 1652, Irving H. Pendrell of Brooklyn, N. Y., draws a pension from the British Government. He is the only King Charles pensioner in the United States. When Cromwell's sons had gone on, members of the Pendrell family told His Majesty it was okay to come down, and he aided him in getting to Brighton, thence to France. In 1666 the Pendrells were awarded a perpetual pension which passes from son to son.

The transport of fish, by air, is suggested by the Canadian Fisherman, especially in developing the market where consumers dwell inland. Granted, it would be impractical under present conditions, the article says there may come a day when the growth of air transport, along with domestic demand for choice fish from the coasts, will make the proposition feasible.

A Toronto publication remarks that Germany has come so greatly reduced in circumstances that she finds necessary to take in borders.

A man who never saw a woman in his life, has died, aged 82, at the monastery on Mount Athos (Greece). He was Mihailo Tolotos, whose mother died when he was born. He was brought up at the monastery, where no woman enters, and eventually became a monk. He never saw a motor-car, a film or an aeroplane. Monks at the monastery gave him a special burial ceremony, as they believed he was the only man in the world who never saw a woman.

Going away for the week end may soon have a new meaning for motorists in New Zealand. Transport Minister for the Colony, the Hon. R. Semple, suggests that drunk motorists should serve their terms of imprisonment on Saturdays and Sundays. Reason is that he believes continuing sentences inflict undue hardship on wives and children deprived of their wage-earner. You know that's a mighty good idea and could be adopted in Nova Scotia.

Are you one of the 200,000?

THAT'S the approximate number of men and women who come of age every year in Canada.

Some start work at fourteen, sixteen or twenty; some go to college; some graduate from the school of hard knocks, and some never graduate from it.

But there is one common ground on which all can meet, and that is the habit of saving money and putting it in the bank regularly. A good habit, from which all conditions of men and women will benefit.

Money in the bank is far more than a reserve for "rainy" days. To each of this year's 200,000 a bank account will mean confidence, so essential to youth's success; and when opportunity comes along, a fund of ready cash to provide a means to grasp it.

About This and That

A finer match between Grand Banks racing schooners has never sailed than that now ended between the big Canadian champion Bluenose and the Gertrude L. Thebaud, of Gloucester, says the Christian Science Monitor, of Boston.
It is to be traditional of these rough-and-ready men who live their living from the sea to blow off steam about the rules and regulations under which races for the International Fishermen's Trophy are run. But whichever way the wind blows between races, it must be admitted that the 1938 series was the most keenly contested of them all. The lively sail-handling and clever helmanship evidenced on both sides showed that the men of Lunenburg and Gloucester have something of the skill and daring that typified these captain courageous in the days when full-sailed Grand Banks schooners stormed over a thousand miles of ocean year after year in many a thrilling chase to market. People are now aware that this is the last contest these magnificent ships will ever wage, and that this match between Bluenose and Thebaud is really the fishermen's valedictory to sail, the last stand against the days of Diesel engines. This thrilling international rivalry has encountered many a storm—on and off the racing course. But beneath the much-ruffled surface there is a feeling of mutual respect between the fishermen of Lunenburg and Gloucester. They are all cast in the same mold. All share in the perils of men "that go down of the sea in ships, that do business in great waters." And what is more they see eye-to-eye in their wholehearted admiration for a stately Grand Banks schooner.

An Unknown British Soldier

(By Edwin Pye)

These brief but poignant words, penned in deep black letters on a white wooden cross, kindled the flame that culminated in the burial of the Unknown Warrior at Westminster Abbey in 1920. The simple cross and the grave that it marked nestled in a little garden in rear of a billet in front of Erquinghem—the village, one mile west of Arras, recorded by Dumas as the scene of the climax in his Three Musketeers.

The inspiration, that saw its fulfillment on Armistice Day four years later, came to the Reverend David Railton, M. C., M. A., Senior Chaplain of the 47th (London)
Division and, later, of the 19th (Western) Division, early in 1916. The padre had just returned from the line where he had carried out the sad offices pertaining to his calling. It was dusk as he came to the billet at Erquinghem, and in the garden only about six paces from the house, stood the cross bearing the impressive inscription in two lines; the lower in brackets.

The Inspiration

"How that grave caused me to think!" stated the padre, "What can I do to ease the pain of father, mother, wife or sweetheart?
... Quietly there came out of this mist of thought an answer clear and strong. Let this body, this symbol of him, be carried reverently over the sea to his native land."

Then came the Big Push on the Somme. Here at the Bois des Foureaux—or High Wood as that chapel-house became known—Padre Railton won the Military Cross when, at great personal risk, he rescued an officer and two men under very heavy fire. The smoke of battle, however, did not obliterate the memory of that nameless grave, and among his foremost thoughts was the sending home, after the war, of the body of an unknown comrade.

On his return to England after the Armistice, the Reverend David Railton—who had been Curate at Ashford, Kent, in 1914—was appointed Vicar of St. John the Baptist Church at Margate.
Deterred, however, by the unsettled state of affairs following demobilization the padre held his peace; moreover he was in a quandary as to whom of the great men would likely heed his peculiar request. In August, 1920, his good wife, who in no small measure deserved a share of the credit —urged him to take action;
whereupon he wrote to Bishop Ryle, then the Dean of Westminster, asking him if he would consider the possibility of burying in the Abbey the body of one of our unknown comrades.

The Dean was strongly impressed by the suggestion which he forthwith communicated to the War Office, the Prime Minister, the Cabinet, and Buckingham Palace; with the result that special arrangements were made to obtain the body of an "Unknown" from the host of the nameless dead. The padre's cherished suggestion that the tomb should be designated the "Unknown Comrade," which he considered a more homely and friendly title, did not appeal to the Dean as significant as that of the "Unknown Warrior." The latter therefore was adopted.

Empire's Unknown

The remains of six unidentified bodies were then taken from the plains of Flanders, the hills of Artois, from Picardy and the Alsace, which included areas fought over by the 63rd (Royal Naval) Division. After being placed in pinewood coffins, the bodies were brought to the mortuary—a temporary hut—chapel at St. Pol. It is not possible to describe with certainty the scene that was there enacted as no official statement has ever been published, nor were the names of those who carried out the arrangements made public. Different accounts have appeared from time to time, and the following, while not vouched for, perhaps fairly describes the proceedings.

An officer of high rank was first blind-folded and then led into the hut where rested the six unknown warriors, to all outward appearance exactly alike, with outstretched hand the officer moved slowly about the hut until his fingers touched one of the coffins.

The coffin thus selected was placed in an iron-bound oak casket and, on the night of November 8th-9th, 1920, was brought to Boulogne in an army ambulance.

On the morning of November
10th, while the French destroyer
Marne, stood by, the Unknown Warrior was taken on board the British destroyer, H.M.S. Verdun, both nations thus paying tribute to each other by the vessels detailed. At each corner of the coffin an able seaman took up his position with arms reversed.

The homecoming presented a wonderful sight, when the flotilla, consisting of an escort of six British destroyers, three abreast fore and aft of the Verdun, crossed the channel from Boulogne to Dover.

Arrival in England
At Dover the body was placed in a funeral coach and conveyed by train to London, the coffin remaining in the coach over night at Victoria Station.

On the morning of November 11th, 1920, the gun carriage, drawn by the six famous "Old Blacks" of the Royal Horse Artillery and bearing the flag-covered coffin, moved slowly in solemn procession to Whitehall, where His Majesty King George V. unveiled the Cenotaph to "The Glorious Dead." Following this impressive ceremony the body of the Unknown Warrior was borne to Westminster Abbey and there committed to its final resting place, being covered with soil brought from the battlefields.

Seven days later—the night of November 18th—the grave was sealed.

Padre Railton's flag—the Union Jack which had been used at many burials on the Western Front and which had served as the pall on the coffin of the Unknown Warrior from the time of the moving scene at St. Pol until the reburial on November 11th, 1920—was deposited in Westminster Abbey for safe custody on Armistice Day, 1921.

Warriors are to be found sepul-chred with the most illustrious of the land.

The term "Soldier" should never be used when referring to the Unknown of the British Empire who rests in Westminster Abbey as nobody can say whether it is that of a sailor, a soldier, or an airman, nor whether he came from the British army or the forces of the Dominions. Due to the symbolism of this grave being Imperial in the broadest sense, no Unknown is to be found in any other country of the British Commonwealth.

Belgium disinterred five bodies of her unknown soldiers from cemetries, in the areas of Liège, Namur, Antwerp, the Yser, and the fields of Flanders, and brought them to a temporary chapel at Bruges. Here the pathetic office of marking one coffin for distinctive reburial in the crypt of the Colonne du Congrès was assigned to a veteran who had lost the sight of both eyes in the Great War. The blinded veteran was given a palm wreath and this he placed on the second casket from the left of the row.

The last rites were carried out before the statue of King Leopold I, which surmounts the Colonne du Congrès, on the morning of November 11th, 1922. Light rain fell during the ceremony.
The gun carriage—one that had served during the whole of the war—was drawn by six black horses. Sixteen disabled soldiers acted as pall-bearers, eight of them having lost the right arm and eight the left arm.

The bronze slab covering the tomb is inscribed in both French and Flemish: "Here rests an Unknown Soldier of the War 1914-1918." A flambeau—the symbol of everlasting remembrance—burns day and night nearby.

THE U. S. A.

The United States of America selected four unidentified bodies of the A. E. F. from the Meuse-Argonne, Aisne—Marne, St.
Mihiel, and the Somme cemet-

Radio and The Peace

(MacLean's Magazine)

Only those who experienced the tension of the first week of August, 1914, can fully appreciate the drama of the last week of September, 1938.

Had Chamberlain failed, science would have made war a horrifying experience.
outstanding hero of the American Army in France—entered the room wherein rested the four flag-draped coffins and slowly walked around the flower-decked floor; he was then handed a spray of white roses to place on the coffin of his selection. With hesitating steps the sergeant proceeded to the second bier and deposited on it his small spray of roses. He was then led away in tears.

The body of the American Unknown Soldier was brought home on the U. S. S. Olympia and on Armistice Day, 1921, was re-interred in the Arlington National Cemetery.

Poland exhumed only one of nameless war dead. The soldier's remains were taken from the vicinity of Lwow, near Lemberg, and were placed to rest in the Mausoleum at Warsaw on November 2nd, 1925.

Portugal brought one body from Flanders and one from Africa. The remains that represent that country's war dead were given repose in the Pantheon at Belem in 1920, transfer being made the following year, with further funeral rites, to Batalha Abbey.

Italy and Germany honoured their nameless dead in similar fashion. Italy's Unknown Soldier rests in the Church of Santa Marie degli in Rome, and Germany's lies in Das Ehrenmal, at the eastern end of Unter den Linden in Berlin.

France

France removed nine bodies of her war dead from Lille, Amiens, Châlons-sur-Marne, Belfort, Nancy, Epinal, Alsace, Lorraine and Belgium, and brought them to Verdun where in the Great War the most sanguinary fighting in the history of French arms took place. Verdun, as a consequence, will remain hallowed in the hearts of the French people for all time.

The nine coffins were placed in a row in the Citadel, and, on the morning of November 10th, 1920, the selection of one of the bodies to be signally honoured on the morrow was made. A guard of honour consisting of a company of veterans was drawn up on each side of the row of coffins. In response to the order of the Minister of Pensions, M. Maginot, later Minister of War, after whom the famous line of forts along the Franco-German frontier has since been named—one of the veterans stepped forward and chose the Poilu Inconnu.

The first repository agreed upon was the Pantheon, where rest the ashes of Gambetta, but a last minute change was made and, on Armistice Day, 1920—coincident with the burial of the Unknown Warrior in England—the body of France's Unknown Soldier was borne to the first floor of the Arc de Triomphe, there to personify the country's nameless dead.

Two weeks later, however, the French Cabinet decided to place their hero beneath the famous arch, so that the people might pass by the grave and render their tribute and respect. This was done, and today, on a flat slab directly under the arch, passers-by may read in French:
"Here lies a French soldier who died for his country—1914-1918."

Canadian Tribute

On August 1st, 1936, Canadian veterans on the Vimy Pilgrimage proceeded to the Arc de Triomphe and for once performed the nightly duty of re-kindling the Flame of Remembrance. The ceremony on that occasion is graphically described in "The Epic of Vimy" as follows:
"At the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, a flat slab almost directly under the great arch, the parade divided, the Canadians drawing themselves up on either side.
It was now 6.30 o'clock, the hour at which this ceremony is nightly performed.

"One saw the flame slowly dying until it was nothing more than a gutter of blue light rising fitfully from its cresset. There was a low mutter of drums, then slowly Colonel Macintyre (Lt.-
Col. D. E. Macintyre, D.S.O., M.
C., Chief Transport Officer of the Vimy Pilgrimage) received from one of the officials a blunted sword. Each grasped the hilt, the fingers of the official encircling the Canadian's hand, and the sword was inserted into the slot with a quarter turn. The flame immediately leapt up—it had again been rekindled." — (The Legionary).

ror from which no man, woman or child could have escaped.
Yet science helped to make peace possible.

It could not have been so in 1914.

There was no such speed in communication.

There was no radio.
In 1914, so far as people generally were concerned, statesmen and war lords were vague figures, regarded in many cases as supermen, aloof from the everyday life of the masses; beyond the influences of public opinion.

In 1938, the magic of radio banished time and distance; made average citizens participate in the drama being enacted.

Hitler, Mussolini, Chamberlain spoke not only in Nuremberg, Rome and London. They spoke in millions of homes throughout Germany, Italy and the British Empire. They spoke in Nanaimo and Glace Bay. They spoke to men in the mining camps of Northern Ontario and to sheep ranchers in Australia.

To millions of people in scores of countries their voices were heard as the voices of human beings, not as the voices of demigods.

They were men of human, of varying emotions. They were men who must be affected by the opinions of their fellow beings;
by the unmistakable revulsion of peoples everywhere against war.

Face to face, they themselves must have known that.

In spite of its abuse by ill-informed and misguided "commentators," in spite of its nerve-racking, rapid-tongued scare bulletins, radio performed an impressive service to mankind throughout the most momentous days in history.

tion which is open to all growers from Canada. The Challenge trophy is an award originally offered by the agent general of the provinces of Nova Scotia, British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec, resident in London and this is the first year the trophy has come to Nova Scotia. The only previous year in which Nova Scotia growers have made such a fine showing at the Imperial show was in 1922 when some half dozen gold medals came to Nova Scotia exhibitors. The Challenge trophy awarded this week was established since that time. Four of the gold medals awarded in this section came to the Falmouth Company, one to F. M. Chute & Sons, Waterville; one to H. E. Watts, Waterville, and two to Major J. B.
Leefee, Waterville.

Many heavy loads of kelp, for the most part harvested along the shores of the Saint Mary's Bay, in the Clare district, are arriving by truck in Digby these days. The kelp is taken to the plant of the Maritime Fish Corporation, here, and dried with steam heat. When prepared it will be exported for manufacture into iodine.

Local and Personal

Mrs. Alice West, of Melrose, Mass., is visiting her brother, Milton Bain, at Culloden.

Mrs. Alice West, George Bain, Milton Bain and Mrs. Sadie Stark spent Sunday with Mrs. and Mrs. Hillyard Barnes, at the Racquette.

The Misses MacMulleh, who have spent the summer at their home in Digby, left for New York last week.

C. M. Comeau, of Church Point, who has been filling the position of municipal clerk of Clare since the death of Isaac LeBlanc, died suddenly at his home on Monday afternoon.

George Bernard Sanders, a native of Digby, died at his home in Annapolis Royal last week, at the age of 55 years. He was a son of A. W. and Ophelia Sanders and was an ex-employee of the D. A. R.

The second installment of Donald Longworth's article was received too late for insertion in this issue. It will be published next week.

Proceeds of the Ea-Gi Club's supper, held in the United Church Hall, last Saturday, were a little more than $15.00. Another supper held recently for the benefit of the Sunday School, realized nearly $25.00.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Amoro announce the engagement of their daughter, Elsie Madeline Amoro, to Everett Charles Harvey, son of Mr. and the late Mrs. George Harvey, of Halifax. Marriage will take place late in November.

Mrs. H. F. Williams, of Halifax, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Elnor.

Miss Hattie M. Perry and Miss Dorothy B. Perry, who have been spending the summer at Barton, returned to Boston for the winter.

A. A. Shortliffe, Miss Bessie Hooper, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Titus made a tour of the south shore via Caledonia and Liverpool, returning via Bridgewater and Middleton, on Sunday.

Mrs. Edward McKay, Walker McKay, Mrs. Norval Morehouse and Clifton Banks, all of Sandy Cove, have just returned home from a two weeks' motor trip, visiting Quebec, Montreal, Niagara Falls and Toronto.

Mrs. E. Allen Perry, of Freeport, has been visiting her brother Stanley Sullivan and Mrs. Sullivan, of Bear River, also Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Collins, Queen Street, Digby. She is returning home today.

The Bridgetown, British West Indies motor cruiser, Annette S., is being held at the Halifax dockyard while police officials planned what action would be taken as result of the seizure of the 40-foot craft at Meteghan last week. Assistant Commissioner F. J. Mead, officer commanding "H" division, R. C. M. P., said no further steps had been taken "as yet". Officials stated Friday the seizure was made under orders from Ottawa headquarters.

Miss Gertrude Miner, of Barton, has returned from her visit in Saint John.

WARNING SIGNALS TO BE INSTALLED

Warning bell signals on the two level crossings at Smith's Cove, near Digby, are to be installed, work on their installation to begin this week, it is understood. Both crossings are over the main Halifax to Yarmouth highway, one known as the "Imbertville Crossing" was the scene of a bad accident a little over a year ago, when Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Hodgson, of Digby, were struck by the west bound D. A. R. train (from Halifax to Yarmouth). Mrs. Hodgson being seriously injured, and who is still suffering from the effects of the accident.

The approach at this crossing, from the Digby side, is quite blind, and many motorists have just missed "being caught". The crossing is also quite near the Smith's Cove school house.

The other crossing in the village, where a warning bell is to be erected is situated at the further end of the village, near the D. A. R. station.

It is hoped, now that action has been taken at Smith's Cove, similar steps will be taken at other crossings in the vicinity. Although not the busiest crossing in the town of Digby, one of the blindest approaches in the province is going south on First Avenue in the town of Digby, a short distance from the Digby station.

Some credit for the work now being done at Smith's Cove must go to the Women's Institute of that village, who petitioned for it early in the year.

HOSPITAL DONATION DAY—Friday, November 11. Tea served at the hospital from 4 to 6 p. m. Come and bring a gift of 1 lb. canned goods, vegetables or household linen.

WILL CELEBRATE 50TH ANNIVERSARY IN INDIANA

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Titus, a well known Digby couple, will celebrate the 50th anniversary of their marriage at the home of their daughter, Edrie, at Hammond, Indiana, on Monday. They left Digby Tuesday for Hammond, where they will spend the winter months.

On November 7, 1888, they were married at Centenary Methodist (now United) Church, at Saint John, by the late Rev. W. W. Brewer. The bride on that occasion was Miss Addie Johns, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johns, of Weymouth, N. S. She was attended by Miss Stella Titus (the late Mrs. S. S. Aymer) a sister of the groom. The best man was Frank Colwell, late of Halifax, and at that time a resident of Saint John.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Titus are well known in Digby, and throughout the Maritimes and the United States; they are the proprietors of the Hillcrest Hotel, one of the oldest and best known of Digby's summer hotels. Mr. Titus has for many years been a Justice of the Peace, and for a number of years operated a meat market in Digby.

They have two children, Edrie, wife of Capt. Oscar Lane, superintendent of the Lake Tankers Corporation, Hammond, Indiana, with whom they will spend the winter, and Harry, a civil engineer, in the employ of the Canadian National Railways, Montreal, N. B.

While walking along the shore on Sunday, the attention of Chas. E. MacAuley, Sr., was attracted by an object which appeared to be floating on the crest of the waves. Further investigation by Mr. MacAuley proved it to be a young buck deer, about 150 pounds, which had apparently drowned in the surf.

Miss Edie Adams gave a very enjoyable Halloween masquerade party at her residence, on Birch Street, on Friday evening last. Although there were witches, ghosts, and various other interesting make-ups, the "bride and groom" proved the centre of attraction and a special wedding cake was served in their honor.

During a visit to Halifax last week Paul Yates had the pleasure of attending a rehearsal of the Princess Louise Fusiliers Band, which is considered the best band in eastern Canada. Digby people will be interested to know that the youngest, and perhaps the most popular members of that band are Bobby Weir and Billy Christie, also members of the Digby Band. A feature of this rehearsal was the hour of First Aid and Stretcher drill in the armory. In actual service bandmen are required to act as stretcher bearers.

The residence of the late James Dunbar, of Weymouth, now owned by Scott Hankinson, and rented by Mr. and Mrs. William Durland, was badly gutted by fire at an early hour Thursday morning. The fire was first discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Durland, about 4 o'clock, when they were awakened by the smell of smoke. The alarm was given and the firemen and engine as well as a large number of volunteer fire fighters were immediately on the scene of the fire. Practically all of the contents of the house were saved but the interior of the building was all burned, as well as damage being done to the exterior. It is understood that the fire was caused by an overheated chimney as there was a small furnace fire on, and that the building was insured. Mr. and Mrs. Durland moved to Weymouth from the United States about a year and a half ago and have been residing in the Dunbar house ever since.

PALESTINE OFFERED TO U. S. 'AS GIFT'

The London (Eng.) Evening News has replied editorially to a reported statement by Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, that the United States can "do more than protest formally to Britain over any proposed (Jewish) immigration restriction."

(Senator Wagner said in New York recently that he and a group of senators would consult with President Roosevelt on measures that might be taken to indicate to the British government the "widespread" concern of Americans that immigrations into Palestine not be stopped).

"So it can," said the Evening News: "The United States can ask the League of Nations to transfer the Palestine mandate to them, and our Government, if not entirely bereft of its senses, will hand it over tied up in blue ribbon and with a courteous vote of thanks for favors bestowed."

Horace Smith, Digby baker, returned from Boston this week, after having had two fingers amputated. He suffered severe injuries several weeks ago as the result of having a hand caught in the bread moulding machine.

OPEN FOURTH ANNUAL FOX SHOW AT LITTLE BROOK

The fourth annual Fox Show at Little Brook, under the auspices of the Clare Fox Club, was opened in the Little Brook Hall, Thursday morning, with a large number of entries from all parts of the province, chiefly from the counties of Digby, Yarmouth, Shelburne, Annapolis and Kings.

The show is one of the best on record. Keen interest being taken by foxmen generally throughout the province. C. Clements, of Middleton, was named official judge.

During the past few years Digby County has gained a reputation of becoming one of the most important fox raising centres in the province. For the most part the industry is centred in the Municipality of Clare, but there are many large ranches in other sections, particularly on Long Island.

It is understood that Harley Deveau, secretary of the Clare Fox Club, gives the count of 1,900 female foxes in the county. It is also said that the ranches of Alphonse Elliott, Tiverton; J. W. Comeau, Little Brook; Camille Comeau, Little Brook; Deveau Bros., Maville, and Mrs. Denis Robichaud, Meteghan, are the five largest in the province.

OBITUARY

Mera Graham
On Sunday evening, Oct. 30, after a few hours' illness, the death occurred at Centreville, of Mera, 8 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Graham. Beside the parents, three brothers survive, John, Lewis and Farrel. The funeral service was held Tuesday afternoon in the Bethel United Church, the little girl being a member of that Sunday School. Rev. H. A. Browne, the pastor, officiated. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers, including a wreath from the school mates. The school mates marched in procession to the cemetery.

Luke F. Melancon
Luke F. Melancon died Oct. 28, at his son's home, in Ashmore, after a few months' illness. He was born in Ashmore and was the son of the late Frederick and Catherine Melancon. He was 71 years and 10 months old. His wife predeceased him twenty-seven years. Mr. Melancon has always resided in Ashmore and has been a very highly respected citizen. He leaves to mourn their loss, Mrs. Joseph Owens (Almeda) of Cambridge, Mass.; Harley, of Ipswich, Mass.; Clifford and Walter at home, and one grandson, Walter Melancon. Burial took place at the St. Croix cemetery at Plympton, with Father Gaudet officiating, on Monday morning.

Harry W. Bain
Harry A. Bain died at his home at Mt. Pleasant, on Wednesday of last week, after a lingering illness. He was born in Culloden and was the eldest son of the late Captain and Mrs. John Bain. He was in his 75th year. In his early days he followed the sea running in packets between Digby and Saint John with his father. Later he moved to Mt. Pleasant where he was active in lumbering and farming. He was also foreman on the highway for a number of years. His wife, Miss Elizabeth H. C., a former school teacher, predeceased him a year. He leaves three sons and three daughters. Joseph, of Marshalltown; Martin, of Saint John; Edmund, of Port Wade; Mrs. Ascar Stark, Culloden; Miss Bessie, at home; and Mrs. Hillyard Barnes, Digby; two brothers, George, of Saint John, and Milton, of Culloden; five sisters, Mrs. Alice West, Melrose, Mass.; Mrs. Lena Marchant, of Medford, Mass.; Mrs. Edith Peck, Danvers, Mass.; Mrs. William Henderson, Salem, Mass.; Mrs. Stella McIntosh, of Dorchester, Mass.; and eleven grandchildren. The funeral service was held on Friday afternoon in the Baptist church at Culloden, Rev. A. G. Robertson officiating. Interment was in the Baptist cemetery.

Walter Thompson
There passed away at Centreville, on Wednesday of last week, Walter Thompson, 73, after a long illness. He is survived by his widow, formerly of Tiverton; two sons, Douglas, of Saint John; Edmund, of Marblehead, Mass.; one daughter, Inez (Mrs. William Clahy), of Waltham, Mass., and two sisters, Mrs. Gordon Welsh and Mrs. Annie Gower, of Westport. Two daughters, Olive and Elizabeth, predeceased him a few years. The funeral service, conducted by Rev. J. T. Dimock, was held in Centreville, with interment in Tiverton.

A number of Digby girls received minor injuries in an accident at Roxville, while returning from a dance at Centreville recently. The accident occurred when the car, operated by Louis Wilson, turned over when making a sharp turn, and was caused by a "fat"

DALEY AND BANKS WIN BOXING BOUTS AT HALIFAX

Sports writers in the Halifax press acclaim the bout between David "Wildcat" Daley, 142 pounds, of Digby, and Gordon Mason, of Lunenburg, 137 pounds as the best bout on Monday evening's boxing card in that city.

"From start to finish," says the Halifax Chronicle in its description of the Daley-Mason bout, "there were lots of punches landed both ways, and the majority of them were hard thrown smashes which sent the battlers in turn to the canvas for much needed counts, and which found them both bleeding and battered as the fight progressed."

"The biggest surprise of the scrap was that either of the fighters was able to go the limit."

"Many of the fans called for a 'draw' but the verdict in favor of Daley, was well deserved."

Thurston "Thunder" Banks, 145 pounds, of Digby, was given a decision over 142 pound Ossie Meikle, in a scrap which found Banks landing body blows consistently, but taking plenty of punishment from the colored boy, whose left hand kept Banks in trouble.

Miss Dorothy Oliver has returned to Hartford Conn. after spending her vacation here.

THE NEW PHILCO MYSTERY CONTROL, NOTHING SHORT OF MAGIC

Guy D. Dunn gave us an opportunity to see and hear the new Philco Mystery Control radio, now on exhibition at his service station (see his advertisement in this week's Courier), and really, it is nothing short of magic, and when the Philco people say "it is the very latest in radio" we agree with them.

With the control box in our hands, we stepped out into the street, closing the door of the service station, and were able to switch the radio from one station to another; increase or decrease the volume—and even shut it off altogether by simply moving the finger on the mystery control box.

The marvellous part of it is—there were absolutely no wires connecting the box and the radio.

Mr. Dunn invites everybody to come in his service station to see, hear and try this Mystery Control Radio—take advantage of his invitation—you will find it the greatest radio thrill you have ever experienced.

The Philco Mystery Control Radio will be on exhibition until November 8.

J. Martin Bain, superintendent of City Works, and George Bain, of Saint John, arrived on Friday to attend the funeral of their father, the late Harry W. Bain.

The Baptist W. M. S. met with Mrs. Boyd Rice on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Murray Harris is visiting her father, Eber Potter, at Clemensville.

Mrs. Carl Parker was hostess to the Ladies' Circle on Tuesday afternoon.

A. B. Marshall and Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Roach spent Thursday at Yarmouth.

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church met on Tuesday evening with Mrs. C. V. Snow.

Miss Edith Hill returned on Monday from a vacation spent at Preston, Halifax County.

E. P. Crouse, of Saint John, was the guest on Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hubley.

Mrs. Howard Rice spent last week end in Saint John, with her daughter, Miss Eleanor Rice.

Mrs. G. B. Layton, of Clemensville, is a guest at the Grand Central House for an indefinite period.

Dr. W. Parker returned to Boston on Friday. While at the lake he was successful in getting a deer.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dukeshire spent the week end in Saint John, with their daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Hubley.

The Philathea Bible Class will hold its November session at the home of Mrs. Roy Snell, next Thursday evening.

Rev. C. U. McNevin, of Weymouth, will be the speaker at the United Church, on Sunday at both services. Rev. R. L. Roach will be at Weymouth.

Mrs. Charles Saunders and baby returned to Saint John on Monday. She was accompanied by her niece, Betty Smith.

Mrs. H. R. Kinney, who has been ill for some time past, is being cared for by Mrs. J. D. Harrow, R. N., on night duty.

Miss Pauline Harris left on Monday for Halifax, where she has entered the Victoria General Hospital as a student nurse.

Mrs. Lloyd Sanford entertained a number of small guests on Thursday night of last week, it being Kathleen's 5th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carey and P. Hirtle, of Dartmouth, were called home, owing to the death of their father, the late Colin Hirtle.

Hallowe'en parties were much in evidence throughout the town on Monday evening. Scores of those guests invaded the homes, and all reported a good time.

Miss Eileen Dunn, R. N., of Upper Clements, who was on professional duty at the home of Mrs. Frank Dunn, for some days, has also been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Rice, as Mr. Rice has been quite ill.

Miss Molly Robinson left on Tuesday for Montreal, where she will spend some time. Mrs. Robinson, accompanied by Mrs. Jefferson, went to Halifax on Tuesday. Mrs. Robinson remaining and Mrs. Jefferson returning on Thursday.

The beautiful flowers — yellow and white chrysanthemums, etc. — in the Baptist church on Sunday last, were placed there in loving remembrance of Mrs. Arnold Chute, by her husband and children and by her mother, Mrs. John Rice.

Rev. and Mrs. A. A. MacLeod and children, of Kingston, spent last week end in town, guests of Mrs. Elsie Heshaw.

The forceful and eloquent address on "Temperance" delivered by Rev. A. A. MacLeod, Field Secretary of the Sons of Temperance, in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening last, was deeply appreciated by the large number present, and the anthem "Calling Thee Home" finely rendered by the choir, added much to this splendid service.

On Thursday evening of last week Mrs. Lottie Roop entertained at a whiffle-board and music party, the teachers of Oakdene School staff, Rev. and Mrs. Roach and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Snow. A vocal solo rendered by Mrs. Roach, added much to the pleasure of the evening. The highest score at whiffle-board was made by Miss Doris Sanford.

A further amount of $21.27 has been added to the Bear River Fire Equipment Fund from collections made by the Boy Scouts during July, August and September. This makes a total of $90.35 which has gone in to the treasurer, Dr. L. J. Lovett.

OBITUARY

Colin Hirtle

There passed away at his home, on Wednesday of last week, Colin Hirtle, aged 62 years, after a short illness. Mr. Hirtle was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hirtle, of Charlestown, and had lived a number of years at Bear River. He had worked many years in the monuments works at Nictaux. He is survived by his widow; four sons, Reginald, of Boston; Kenneth and Clayton, at home; and Carlton, of Dartmouth; and two daughters, Viola (Mrs. Fred Carey), of Dartmouth; Katherine, chief operator of the Maritime Telephone Company, Bear River. The funeral was held on Friday from his late home, conducted by Rev. G. D. Brydon, of the Baptist church, of which he was a member. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Interment was in Mount Hope cemetery.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Monday next is Institute Day! and every member is requested to be present to complete arrangements for the catering of the Armistice dinner to be served the Veterans on the 11th; also to plan Christmas Cheer — 3 p.m. in the Masonic Building.

BADMINTON NOTES

Refreshments were served Saturday night at the Bear River Badminton Club by the officers, Mervyn Oakes, Mrs. W. M. Romans, Lenfest Harris and Mrs. Harold Nicholl.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The Young People's Group of the United Church of Canada held a Hallowe'en party on Friday evening. The witch and ghost were there in full regalia. The guests all came in costume. Miss Jennie Peck won first prize as "Miss Diana", and Hoyt Purdy, second, as "Bal", for the best costumes. Games were played, after which a lunch was served.

HOME AND SCHOOL CLUB

A "Home and School Club" was organized at the Bear River Road school house on October 21st, with L. A. DeWolfe, director of Rural Education, and T. A. M. Kirk, inspector of schools for Digby and Yarmouth Counties, as organizers. M. S. Oakes, principal of Oakdene Academy, was also present. The officers elected are: President—Mrs. Edward Rice. Vice-President—John Harrow. Secretary—Miss Ruth Parker.

The conviators of the School Improvement, Programme and Membership committees are, respectively, Mrs. Murray Alcorn, James Cook and Max Isles.

Lantern slides showing Handcraft work and School improvements were enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. T. Snow, of Musquodoboit, were week end guests of their son, C. V. Snow, returning to their home on Sunday.

THE BEAR RIVER ROAD SUNDAY SCHOOL

The Bear River Road Sunday School observed their third anniversary on October 30th, with Rev. G. D. Brydon as guest speaker. There were 59 present and the following program was rendered:

Hymn—"Jesus Is Calling".
Prayer—Rev. G. D. Brydon.
Solo—"Harold Isles".
Exercise—"The Lord Is My Shepherd"—Five Children.
Recitation—Mrs. Mailing.
Duet—"Jewels"—Jean and Angus Sloan.

Recitation—Laura Cosby.
Recitation—Corine Cosby.
Solo—"The Children's Friend Is Jesus"—Frances Chisholm.
Recitation—Robert Yorke.
Recitation—Jos Alcorn.
Recitation—Kenneth Isles.
Duet (Vocal)—Mrs. R. H. Purdy and Mr. Brydon.
Reading—Miss Bernice McDormand.

Recitation—Ernest Mailing.
Duet—"Ivory Palaces"—Miss Pamley and Edna Flemming.
Names of Disciples and Books of Old Testament—Donald Alcorn.
Address—Rev. G. D. Brydon.
Closing Hymn—"Stand Up for Jesus".

The organist was Mrs. Murray Alcorn and the guitar accompanist, Easterby Sloan.

Among the awards of scholarships in the prize list announced at Acadia University on October 24th, that of Maritime Grade XII Essay Prize, (Economics), $125, was won by Walton Snell, of Bear River.

Rev. T. B. McDormand, pastor of the First Baptist church, Antwerp, for nearly three years, preached his farewell sermon to a capacity audience on Sunday, and announced his successor, Rev. Mr. Olsen, of Winnipeg, will open his pastorate on November 13th.

Mr. McDormand will leave this week for Edmonton where he has accepted a position as secretary for young people's work for the four western provinces. (Mr. McDormand is a Bear River boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDormand, and the best wishes of his many friends go with him and his wife to the West).

SMITH'S COVE

A Hallowe'en social was held in the hall on Tuesday evening of last week, by the B. Y. P. U. The evening's entertainment began with a parade of ghosts led by the "Old Witch", through the dimly lighted hall, to the accompaniment of weird music, with Miss Frances Austin as pianist. An attractive feature of the evening was the "mystic cave" which created much curiosity and amusement among the young folk. Various games were enjoyed, followed by a 15-cent lunch of sandwiches, pie and coffee, the evening ending with a lively "sing-song".

Mrs. Alice Beeler spent a few days in Digby last week, the guest of Mrs. Eber Turnbull.

Mrs. Harry Williams, of Halifax, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Weir.

Rev. and Mrs. H. H. MacNeill and Miss Margaret Holdsworth, of Digby, were guests on Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Smith.

At the Baptist Quarterly meetings, which convened at Hill Grove on Wednesday evening and Thursday, of last week, the attending delegates from here were Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Oakley Smith, Mrs. Minard Weir and Mrs. George Laramore. Others attending were Rev. and Mrs. M. C. Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Sulis and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cornwell.

Rev. Ross C. Eaton, of Bridgetown, conducted service in the Baptist church Sunday evening in exchange with Rev. C. E. Rockingham.

The Misses Adra Farwell and Mary Moore, of Moncton, are spending several days here with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Farwell, at their home, "Rosemary Cottage". Harold Soules, Don Cossaboom and Stan Smith spent the week end on "Lac LeMarchant" coming out on Monday with a deer.

Ralph Cossitt was successful in getting a deer last week.

Frank Wightman, "Duke" Cossaboom and Oakley Smith are spending a few days camping at Sixth Lake.

Miss Isabel Cossitt is spending a few days in Digby, with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hicks.

On Monday the young people of the village were out in force, during the early hours of the evening, calling at many households where they received treats of candy and cookies.

TUBERCULOSIS CHRISTMAS SEALS

Eleven years ago, in 1927, the Canadian Tuberculosis Association decided to adopt the Christmas Seal campaign as a national effort, and during that time the returns have steadily mounted. In 1927, $101,426.70 was raised while in 1937 the Christmas Seal returns in Canada were $154,993.90. These figures do not include the returns from the Seal Sale of the National Sanatorium Association, who conduct a campaign in the City of Toronto and adjacent territory.

In Canada today this money each year has made possible many preventive clinics with their thousands of patients examined; provided Research Fellowships for studying Tuberculosis; done a vast amount of preventive work amongst children; employed full time Public Health Nurses; purchased equipment to give advantages to rural sections often only found in cities.

Tuberculosis is a preventable disease and one that is curable if taken in time. Support tuberculosis work by buying your share of Christmas Seals, which will make their appearance early this month.

Mrs. McDonald and son Walter, accompanied by Mrs. Henry Burton and daughter June, of Weymouth Mills, visited friends in Yarmouth last week.

Paintful to Bend a Joint

Hospital Case of Rheumatism

The value of perseverance with Kruschen, in the treatment of some cases of rheumatism, is proved by this man's experience. He says:—

"I was abroad for over seven years. When I returned I began to suffer from rheumatic pains—particularly in the feet and arms, and I was eventually taken into hospital, unable to move without groaning with pain. When I left the hospital after two months, I was somewhat better. I was recommended to take Kruschen Salts, have taken them continuously, and until now I am entirely free from pains. I would not be without my Kruschen Salts for anything."—M. B.

Two of the salts in Kruschen are effectual solvents of uric acid the excess of which is decidedly injurious. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the painful crystals—the cause of pain and stiffness—and convert them into a harmless solution, which is then expelled through the natural channels.

ASHMORE

Mrs. Ellsworth Kinney attended at the Baptist Quarterly meetings at Hill Grove, on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Ensley Prime entertained the sewing circle on Thursday afternoon. At the close refreshments were served.

David Kinney, William Kinney and Elvin Marshall, who are employed in New Tuskent, spent the week end with their families.

Cecil Prime, who has been visiting relatives in Waltham, Mass., has returned home.

A pie social was held in the Ashmore Hall on Thursday evening. Proceeds for the Ashmore school.

Mrs. Robert Sweeney is visiting Mrs. "Pat" Theriault, in Bear River.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Melanson, of Ipswich, Mass., were called here by the death of Mr. Melanson's father, Luke Melanson.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Melanson have moved to Digby.

Mrs. Harley Brooks visiting relatives and friends in Plympton recently.

James F. Melanson had the misfortune to lose a yoke of valuable oxen recently. They were out in the pasture last week and some hunter, either maliciously or by mistake, shot at and wounded them both so badly they had to be killed.

Activities Along Westport Water Front

Taking a stroll along the waterfront during the week, it was very interesting to note how busy the men seemed to be.

The fish trap was full of herring and several men were seen loading the auxiliary schooner, Matilda C., to be sent to the Maritime Fish Corporation, in Digby. Shortly after the herring were taken from the trap it again filled with pollock, some thirty thousand were seized and taken to E. C. Bowers Co., to be dressed and salted.

At D. B. Kenney's and E. McDormand's fish plants they were dressing and icing fish for the markets.

The breakwater pictured much activity. The auxiliary schooner, Tagati, was being loaded with salt cod by D. B. Kenney to be shipped to Gloucester, Mass., the schooner, Eleanor S., was loading dry pollock for Parker, Eakins, of Yarmouth; an auxiliary schooner from Cutler, Maine, was loading fresh haddock and cod for Portland, Maine. The auxiliary schooner, Thomas J. Carroll, was beside the wharf waiting a fair chance to sail. Several other auxiliary boats were lying beside the wharf and some loaded with lobster bait for different places along the shore, others with empty barrels ready to go across on the N. P. Brunswick shore for lobster bait. A few fishing boats had returned from the French shore, where they had been trading fish for vegetables, and the owners were getting their produce hauled home in trucks. The ferry was landing a large truck loaded with apples and vegetables from the main land, to be sold to the fishermen or traded for fish.

A pile driver was driving piles and some six or eight men were going repair work on the breakwater.

The ferry boat had just come from Meteghan and was landing passengers.

At the two liver plants the men were busy making oil from the livers. Some of the men were also hauling up their boats for the winter months.

Every man was hard to work and not losing any time.

You Can Be Sure Your Flour Is Pure and Clean

—all the wheat for Robin Hood Flour is thoroughly washed!

The Modern Housewife hates dirt. Everything she prepares for her table is scrupulously clean. But how can she be certain that her flour is clean? Wheat picks up dirt and grime just as potatoes do; so it is only by washing wheat before it is milled, that flour can be made absolutely clean.

Robin Hood Mills clean their wheat by putting it through huge, specially constructed washing machines. Over 100,000 gallons of water are used daily and every bit of grime and dirt is removed from the wheat. This means that you get in Robin Hood flour that is absolutely free from grit. The clean wheat also produces a flour of better texture, which gives you better results in all your baking.

Clever cooks all over Canada say there is no flour quite so clean as Robin Hood, for bread, cake, pies and pastry. Just make two bakings with Robin Hood flour and you will see how much better you can bake when you use a clean flour of superior quality. Money refunded—plus 10 per cent extra—if you are not fully satisfied.

TRY THIS RECIPE OF MISS BOYD FOR HER PRIZE-WINNING BREAD

11 Cups Robin Hood Flour 2 Tablesp. Sugar
4 Cups Milk Scalded and 1 Dr. Yeast Co.
Cooled 1 Tablesp. Salt
2 Tablesp. Butter

Scald milk, add butter and sugar. Cool and lukewarm, then add yeast dissolved in one cup of tepid water. Mix in part of the flour (five cups) to make a batter, beat well about five minutes. Let it stand over night. In the morning add rest of the flour. Knead ten minutes in a greased bowl, set in warm place and let it until it has more than doubled in bulk. Flour, bread board, knead slightly and divide into loaves. Put in greased pans and let rise until double in bulk. Bake one hour in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). This makes three loaves. For a larger baking, double all the ingredients.

ASKED TO MARK ROYAL VISIT BY STAMP

G. P. Bainbridge, a Vancouver philatelist, suggested Oct. 21, that an "international" postage stamp, available for use in both Canada and the United States, might be issued to commemorate next year's visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to North America.

"My idea is a three-cent stamp, the most widely-used denomination, carrying portraits of both of the King and Queen and of President Roosevelt," Mr. Bainbridge said.

"The stamp would foster a international goodwill as well as commemorate a momentous occasion."

WANTED - TOP GRADE NOVA SCOTIA POULTRY FOR CHRISTMAS TRADE

And Nova Scotia poultry farms can supply it—if the producers are doing their part.

The finishing period is a crucial one in preparing poultry for market—Careful attention to the fattening process can often decide the difference between Grade A and Grade C birds.

Every Grade A bird marketed brings a price approximately six cents lb. higher than Grade C birds, where the product is marketed on grade. Thus extra care and attention in the finishing process means extra money for the producer.

In 1934 only 13% of the turkey marketed in co-operative pools in Nova Scotia was in Grade A. But in 1936 this had increased to 55%—a remarkable change.

Why not help to raise that percentage still higher and put more money in your pocket. It's up to you, Mr. Producer.

The annual banquet of the Clare Fox Club will be held at Riverside Hotel, Meteghan River, this evening, at which the Hon. John A. MacDonald, provincial minister of Agriculture, and Dr. John Jack, of Summerside, P. E. I., will be the chief speakers.

THE ANGLICAN CHURCH

Services in Digby

Good congregations were in attendance at the services in Holy Trinity church, in spite of the rather inclement weather. At the evening service special music was rendered by the choir. Miss Fleming and Mr. Berwick sang a duet. The rector was the preacher at both services.

On Tuesday morning the service of Holy Communion was held, it being the Festival of All Saints. The celebrant was the Rector.

The Women's Auxiliary

The W. A. have this year inaugurated a series of "ten-cent" teas and sewing meetings at the homes of the members. Mrs. W. E. Tupper entertained the society last week and this week's meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Chipman.

The Anglican Young People's Association

The A. Y. P. A. of Holy Trinity are looking forward to a very successful year. At a recent meeting officers for the season were appointed. They were: President, L. Walker; Vice-President, V. G. Cardoza; Secretary, P. Woodman; Treasurer, D. Wilson. The society this year plans to raise money for the purchase of new burses and veils for the altar; also they are planning to do Christmas Cheer work in the Digby Neck section of the Parish.

On Sunday the members of the A. Y. P. A. will take part in the evening service at the Parish church. Every year a Sunday is set apart by the Primate as National A. Y. P. A. Sunday. This year it was October 30th but due to services being already planned for that Sunday it was decided to postpone the service here for a week.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew St. Andrew's Brotherhood have not yet started their meetings for the winter. It is planned, however, to hold the first meeting on Tuesday next. At this meeting officers will be elected for the year and a program planned for the season.

FIRE THREATENS DIGBY'S BUSINESS SECTION

Digby firemen were conquerors of a blaze which threatened Digby's business section Thursday morning. Starting in the rear of the building occupied by the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission, the fire within a few minutes had swept across the entire width of the large wooden structure, and upward nearly to the top of the two and one-half story building.

Buildings on either side of the liquor store also suffered damage. The Paris Beauty Salon, on the south side, owned and occupied by Les Peck as barber shop, beauty parlor, and tenement, caught fire on the roof, and was slightly damaged; the flames which tore across the rear of the liquor store licked off shingles and clapboards of the building to its north, owned by Harry Trask, and occupied by Mr. Trask's barber shop and David Daley's Big Apple Grill on the ground floor, with the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Trask overhead.

The fire was discovered in the nick of time. Starting at the south corner of the building, from the outside, flames spread rapidly, and only by their promptness and efficiency were the Digby firemen able to save the structure and other wooden business blocks in the vicinity.

Had the blaze been unnoticed another five minutes, the liquor store would have been doomed. The fact that at the time of the fire it was ebb tide further destruction was prevented. Firemen fought the flames from the shore at the rear of the building, which would have been impossible at high tide.

For the most part the flames were confined to the outside of the building, although fire broke through into the liquor store, and into the kitchen of the apartment of W. F. Webber, (owner of the building), located on the second floor, causing considerable damage. The greatest damage to the interior of both the liquor store and Webber apartment was by fire and water.

Much of Mr. Webber's furniture was removed. None of the stock was taken from the liquor store.

Damage will likely be in the vicinity of $3,000. Mr. Webber, owner of the building, suffering the heaviest loss, is out of town.

Charged that she was used to bring contraband rum into Canada, contrary to the Customs Act, the motor vessel Annette S., was seized at Meteghan on Friday of last week, and towed to Halifax by the R. C. M. P. cutter, Laurier. There was no liquor on board the Annette S., which seized. The vessel is registered at Bridgetown, Barbados.

Popular Manager Super Service Station Killed

Joshua Haight, manager of the Super Service Station here, succumbed at the Digby General Hospital at 1:20 Monday afternoon, from injuries received in an automobile accident which occurred at Roxville, on Digby Neck road, Sunday noon. An X-Ray examination taken Monday morning revealed that he had sustained a fractured spinal column, near the cervical region described as "practically a broken neck".

The accident occurred while Haight, in a car driven by Raymond K. Morse, of Middleton, was returning from Gulliver's Cove. Morse, in his evidence given at the inquest held Monday evening, stated he had been driving along at a moderate rate of speed, until Haight suggested that he "step on it a bit" as his wife would be worried if they did not arrive in Digby shortly. He said he looked at the speedometer a short time before the accident occurred, and he was then traveling at 45 miles per hour. He said that while driving through the straight stretch of road at Roxville (locally known as the Milligan Swamp) between the residences of Thomas Gibbons and Heber Small, the wind seemed to strike the car, causing it to swerve. He tried to straighten it out, but it took to the ditch, four or five feet deep. He did not remember anything after the car went into the ditch until he picked himself up after the accident.

Other witnesses who visited the scene of the accident say that by marks on the side of the ditch the car turned over several times before coming to a stop, off the road and at right angles to it, standing on its wheels. The body of the car was completely wrecked, the entire roof was torn off. It is thought both Haight and Morse were thrown through the roof. Both were taken to the hospital by Leonard Eldridge, who happened along a few minutes after the accident.

About This and That

The Germans are a great people in many ways—there is no getting away from that. In material ways they have come far. Yet they also have marked weaknesses. They lack moral integrity and soul power. It is shown in their willingness to abrogate their independence of thought and belief. No whole can be greater than its parts, and the German individual in his present status is bound to deteriorate and lose strength. The Germans, boast of their Aryan blood and persecute another race that they consider inferior.
Therein they show another evidence of intellectual obtuse-ness and moral blindness. When the day of Hitler passes it is to be hoped that a chance will be given them for reawakening.

When Hitler has consolidated his gains in Czechoslovakia, what next? It will take some time to digest all the territory and property that Germany is getting there, with various odds and ends around the still undetermined and "economic penetration" going faster than annexation. But already German attention has turned to the Baltic Sea, where East Prussia is separated from the main body of Germany by the "Polish Corridor", and where the thriving countries of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, strung northward along the coast, still beckon on. The first item that Berlin is concerning itself with it Memel, which the Lithuanians call Klaipeda, in the southwest corner of Lithuania, on the seacoast, touching East Prussia. It has about 1,000 square miles with 150,000 people, mostly Germans. It was taken from Germany by the treaty of Versailles and made autonomous, but under the protection of Lithuania, and is a seaport valuable to that country. Now Propaganda Minister Goebbels' newspaper, spokesman for Hitler, says
"Memellanders demand their autonomy, complete and unlimited", and it must go back to Germany. So that is probably the next restoration. After that, the world wonders how soon it will be until Germany proceeds on up the coast to swallow Lithuania itself, and then perhaps Latvia and Estonia. For a great empire is in the making.

lini catches recruits for his Fascist legion may be gathered from

Fox Club Banquet

The annual banquet of the Clare Fox Club at the Riverside Hotel, Meteghan River, marked the close of the fourth annual Clare (or Western Nova Scotia)
Fox Show, which opened at Little Brook, Digby County, on Friday morning of last week, under the sponsorship of the Clare Fox Club.

This year's exhibition comprised 120 entries, with "Tim" Chipman, of Bridgetown, acting in the capacity of official judge, to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

Classes of foxes shown were on a par with other years, and in the opinion of many, a shade better. Keen competition was the rule in every class, and winners had every reason to be proud of their positions.

Among the prominent exhibitors were: the Hon. J. Willie Comeau, operator of one of the large-est fox ranches in the province.
His fox, the winner of the grand championship of the show, was a beautiful specimen, one which should be a winner at any show at which it might be exhibited.

Mr. Comeau's son, Norbet, was runner-up amongst the exhibitors.

The Reserve Grand Champion
Fox of the show was exhibited by Gus L. Deveau, while J. S. Boyd, of Chebogue, managed to capture two reserve championships. Other leading winners were: N. P.
Nelly, Bridgetown; Brad Smith, Clark's Harbour; Campbell Gaudet, Little Brook; A. J. Belliveau, Church Point; A. Belliveau, Bel-iveau's Cove and Harley J. Deveau, Maville.

The excellent attendance was proof of the appreciation of the general public for such exhibitions. Breeders and ranchers agree that shows such as the Clare Fox Show are of great educational value, and that they teach many a lesson as to what constitutes a good fox with respect to breeding and fur.

Encouraged by the success of their four annual Fox Shows, the Clare Fox Club is now making plans to stage a pelt show at the close of the pelting season.

ALBERTA: LAND OF DINOSAURS

Alberta, a land of big trees and palm trees, where bananas flourished and giant dinosaurs roamed the marshes—millions of years ago—was pictured for interviewers by Dr. Barnum Brown of New York, world-famed paleontologist, as he visited in Edmonton.

Dr. Brown, Curator of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, plans an aerial survey of Alberta's badlands in the Red Deer Valley, where giant dinosaurs once lived.

Alberta was subtropical then he said. "Big trees, willows, and the great tree of California grew where wheat fields are now. I have found big fruit preserved in a stone for millions of years and it was almost exactly like figs we now eat."

Dr. Brown plans to fly from Edmonton to Montana, correlating from the air the geological formations. Powerful aerial cameras will record the findings for the use of natural scientists.

Dr. Brown first visited Alberta on a dinosaur expedition in 1909.
Since then he has taken eighteen complete dinosaur skeletons from the badlands region which he describes as the "greatest dinosaur hunting grounds in the world."

METEGHAN

(Held Over From Last Week)
Much credit is given to Rev.
Father Bourneuf for the good work done in our cemetery in the last few weeks. Many of the graves have been renovated and the lanes embellished.—Dennis and Alphonse LeBlanc, who have been employed in Kings County, have returned home.—A large number attended the concert given Friday evening, at St. Ann's College, Church Point, in honor of the visit of the General Superior of the Eudist order.—Miss Stella Aymar, who is employed at Kentville, arrived home Sunday to visit her mother, Mrs. Fred Aymar. On her return she was accompanied by two sisters, Annette and Ruth.

Across Canada on a "Shoe String"

In my last instalment I was at Lake Superior. There is a big Rouon—a mining town, gold and copper mines. Leaving here I travelled by the highway to Kirkland Lake. A gentleman gave me a lift in his car and when we reached Kirkland Lake invited me to the hotel for dinner, which I certainly enjoyed. On this part of my journey I passed through Swastika, Englehart, New Liskeard and Latchford. Through this section to North Bay they are building a new highway with straight stretches as long as fourteen miles. This was all mining area—gold, copper and silver. At Timagami I left the highway—which was under construction—and walked on the railway, the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario. While walking along the tracks I happened to see a lost or forgotten fusée (a friction match that will burn for some minutes). I took it along as I had no matches. At a small place farther along I came to a deserted lumber camp. There was a stove in it so I was able to make a fire. In a clean box in the stable I found some bran, so I took a little and made some porridge.
Being hungry, it tasted good even if it had no salt or sugar. From here I moved along to North Bay reaching there April 9th. Along this part of my journey I had earned some money by cutting wood and doing other odd jobs, so went into a department store in North Bay and bought 100 pairs of shoe laces. These I sold as I went along and could pay for my meals when cash was needed. The weather was mild enough for sleeping in the open. Went from here down to Sudbury, Copper Cliff and Webbwood, on the highway and caught a C. P. R. train to Blind River and next day rode a train to Sault Ste. Marie.
There is a canal connecting Lake Huron and White Fish Bay, on only, were in three tiers; the lower made up from the seats, as now, the middle and top tiers, really, sleeping shelves, consisting of flat boards, laying flat against the car side in daytime, lowered into horizontal position and supported by chains or iron posts at night. Fifty or seventy-five cents, according to the length of the journey, was the berth price.

According to the Baltimore Chronicle which announced the sleeping car's inauguration "the car is one of the completest things of the kind we have ever seen. Night travelling on a railroad is now made as comfortable as that by day and is relieved of all irksomeness." The newspaper concluded its glowing tribute to contemporary modernity in railroad travel with the prophetic remark: "Nothing now seems to be wanting to make railway travelling perfect and complete in every convenience, except the introduction of dining cars, and these we are sure will soon be introduced."

FIRST SLEEPER BIG SEN- SATION, CENTURY AGO

The first railroad sleeping car in history, was put into service 100 years ago this month and created a sensation among the travelling public. A description of this first sleeper, which operated between Baltimore and Philadelphia, has just been received from the American Railroads Association by W. W. Swinden, General Superintendent, Sleeping and Dining Car Services, Canadian National Railways.

The granddaddy sleeper of them all had accommodations for 24 persons. On the outside it looked like the other cars. Its interior plan was copied from the sleeping arrangements in canal packets, a construction that was followed for several years. The Surrender for Five Dollars "Mex"

Two dramatic pictures, showing the surrender of a group of Chinese soldiers near Lushan. (Top)
net and rifle ready, cautiously awaits the approach of the Chinese as hands raised, they come out of the underbrush. (Lower), holding aloft a dirty towel on a stick to serve as a white flag, the leader of the surrendering group stares at the bayonet point, while his comrades are searched. The surrender took place after Japanese airplanes had dropped leaflets behind Chinese lines offering $5 Mexican ($2.50), food and the opportunity to return to their homes to all deserters from the Chinese army.

SEA MYSTERY TRACED TO SHIP'S BREAK-UP

A British Government Court of Inquiry probing one of the deepest mysteries of the sea last week decided that the British freighter Anglo Australian, missing seven months, probably broke in half "from deck to keel" after its shelter-deck buckled.
The 5,456-ton vessel, carrying a crew of 36, disappeared last March in mid-Atlantic while on a voyage from England to Vancouver. It was last reported off the Azores, March 14. No trace of the vessel has been found.

The British steamer Northleigh, travelling from Cardiff to Panama just behind the missing ship, reported calm weather for the entire crossing.

The Court of Inquiry pointed out that more than half the freighter's deadweight was concentrated amidships. It decided that it was unlikely that an explosion or collision on the high seas caused the tragedy. It attached no blame to the owners, Lawther, Latta & Co.

AN EARLY SESSION

In well informed quarters in Ottawa, it is freely admitted that there is reason to anticipate the calling of parliament before the end of the year. One reason, it is said, is the necessity of having the business of state transacted, before the summer, which will bring the King and Queen to Canada. Another, which is not said, is the expectation of a general election, probably in the fall.

The Canadian-American trade agreement, Rowell Commission report, foreign policy debate, the new defence program and financial matters are just a few of the subjects to come before the government and legislators. A few "high lights" can be safely predicted. The Bren gun inquiry will arouse interest all over Canada. The latter is full of "ammunition" not only for the court of inquiry but for the opposition.

RUNAWAY CAR

On a recent Wednesday evening, while Miss G. J. Anderson, provincial nurse, was at supper,
the Royal Hotel, Meteghan, a car which had been parked in an imperceptible slanting position in the hotel yard, slipped its brakes and went backward across main road, and, as if guided, between two houses, and bumped in the Louis H. Comeau's stable door, which was broken, and even the corner of the barn removed about three inches. The car sustained damage to the hind bumper and the back of the body.

The car was removed to Bel-iveau's Garage, Belliveau's Cove, for repairs. Meanwhile Miss Anderson had a car from the Royal Hotel to do her travelling in that part of Clare.

THE GRAND OLD GAME

Not since the Loch Ness Monster has there been anything quite so likely to upset the quantity of a Scotman as the assertion that golf was not originally a Scottish game, says the Christian Science Monitor. Yet this "discovery" by Harvard professors isn't so new after all.
The 1935 edition of Columbia Encyclopedia referred to golf as a game which although it "seems to have originated in Holland... has become identified with Scotland, where it was introduced in the 15th century."

The professors who, while conducting a research into international law, uncovered an engraving of Huig van Groot showing the great Renaissance authority on jurisprudence as a youth holding a golf club, have perhaps corroborated what until now was only supposed to be the fact. How the game was brought to Scotland is still a subject for speculation, but the fact that it was introduced to Scotland, where it has for at least five centuries been a well-established sport, is beyond question.

Scotland can lose little glory by this latest revelation, for its part in popularizing the game cannot be minimized. In the minds of most golfers the world over, the ancient game of hit and hike will still be closely associated with Scotland, whose Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, founded in 1774, has long been recognized as an international shrine of golf.

This year Armistice should mean even more to us than it has in previous years... the crisis has been passed, and we are still at peace. Let us think more serious this Armistice... "Lest We Forget."

WALKS TWO MILES WITH SEVERELY BURNED ARMS

Archie Colpitts, Bear River labourer, was admitted to the Digby General Hospital early Tuesday evening, suffering from severe burns about the arms. Colpitts, an employee of the Lincoln Pulp Company, of Bear River, worked with a crew of men in the vicinity of Tom Wallace Lake.

With Wilbur Parkin and Clark Rice, both of Bear River, they were returning to the village after a day's work, when the truck in which they were driving, caught fire, apparently through defective wiring.

Getting out of the truck, the three men sought the trouble. Seeing flames under the body, Colpitts crawled beneath the vehicle in an attempt to beat out the flames with his cap.

Gasoline from a leaky gas line, ran up his right sleeve, and ignited, causing severe burns. Ex-tricated by his companions, the flaming clothing of the man were extinguished. In agony, from his burns, Colpitts, with his two companions, walked two miles to a camp near Morganville, from where the victim was taken by car to the Digby General Hospital.

PETITION OPPOSES NEW REGULATION

A protest over the new scallop regulation which limits the length of the scallop fisherman's drag bar to 18 feet, with a maximum of six nets to a bar, has gone forward to Ottawa in the form of a petition signed by many fishermen and merchants.

This regulation which was put into force at the opening of the scallop dragging season, is considered by the operators of the larger draggers as a severe blow to them. On the other hand, operators of many of the smaller craft regard it as beneficial.

Operators of larger boats contend that the regulation was sprung upon them so suddenly, that many were caught unprepared—they did not know such a regulation had been considered, and some had spent hundreds of dollars outfitting their boats with a larger drag bar and more nets. They feel the new regulation will practically put a number of the larger boats out of business, as the operation of the big boats, from every point of view is an expensive proposition, and to make any showing at all for their season's work they must be continuing. On the other hand, operators of smaller craft contend the measure is long overdue, and that it should have been put into effect some time ago. Briefly, their argument is that the big boats have been "crowding out" the little fellows by their larger catches, and also restriction of the number of drags is needed to prevent

DORCAS SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Dorcas Society of the Deep Brook United Baptist Church, was held at the home of Mrs. J. F. McClelland, on Wednesday, p. m., Nov. 2. The Secretary gave an interesting report of activities throughout the year, while the Treasurer's report showed $231.00 had been raised to be used for church purposes, during that time.

The following officers were re-elected:

President—Mrs. Addie Ditmars. Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Hubert Vroom. Mrs. John Adams.

Sect'y.—Mrs. Walter Lent.

Asst. Sect'y.—Mrs. Eric Adams.

Treas.—Mrs. Howard Adams.

Asst. Treas.—Mrs. J. P. McClelland.

Mrs. Ditmars was lauded for her very efficient work as leader of the Society. A pleasant social hour was spent, with refreshments at the close.

PICTURES ON THE FARM

Everywhere on a farm there are pictures—simple, pleasing snapshots that will give your albums new appeal.

THE man who says "nothing ever happens on a farm" certainly isn't talking about pictures. On almost any farm, if you keep your eyes open, you will find enough snapshot material to keep the camera busy from early morning to late at night—and still not exhaust the supply.

Farm animals offer scores of picture chances—woolly lambs in the sun, a hen fussing over her brood of chicks, cows being driven in for milking, pigs at the trough (or their owner summoning them with a lusty shout), horses drinking, ducks waddling in a line about the yard or taking an afternoon "cruise" in the pond.

Work scenes in the field make excellent pictures, and fresh-plowed and with long deep furrows is good for pattern snapshots. The orchard in bloom is a scene of beauty, and all around the house and barn lot there are details which make pictures.

Get a snap of Grandfather whitening, mending a single-tree, or busy at a whirling grindstone. Picture shady fence corners, old-time zigzag fences of laid rails, the battered wooden bucket at the well and the worn saw-horse or chopping block in the woodlot. Look for snaps down by the shady spring-house and brook. And watch the special seasons—such as hog-killing time later on—when there is some unusual activity to picture.

Yes, there are plenty of farm snapshots—everything from a calf being fed from a bottle to corn-husking shots at harvest time and foot-prints in the snow in winter. You can point your camera in almost any direction, and find something. Try it, every chance you get, and watch your picture albums grow!

John van Guilder.

EFFECTIVE INSPECTION

As evidence of the effectiveness of the inspection under the regulations of the new natural products act of Nova Scotia, which prohibits the sale of apples and certain vegetables below market grades in the domestic markets, and as evidence of the considerable volume of fruit and vegetables which pour out of the production areas at this time of the year, it is reported that during the month of October alone, a total of 528 trucks bearing apples and vegetables reported in at the inspection point established at the junction of the highways at Bedford. The figures are supplied by the offices of the federal fruit and vegetable inspection service at Halifax, which provides the inspection service for the provincial government under the new provincial marketing act.

Of the total number of trucks thus reporting in, 26 per cent of the traffic was during the night hours, from 6 p. m. to 7 a. m. Inspection points are also maintained under the new regulations at Truro, Mulgrave, Annapolis Royal, and a grading point also maintained at the exhibition grounds at Halifax. As a result of the regulations, which have now been in effect about two months, inspection service reports almost a complete disappearance from local markets and stores, of below-grade apples and vegetables. The report also states that excellent co-operation has been given in carrying out the provisions of the new act by the wholesale and retail trade of Halifax and elsewhere.

SPECIAL ARMISTICE SERVICES WILL BE HELD AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 13.

OLD TIME EQUIPMENT TRANSPORT MILESTONE

Old time equipment in use when travellers from Canada were ferried across the river before the world-famed Sarnia tunnel was constructed, was on display on the Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways tracks as a contribution to the historical features in evidence when the new Blue Water highway bridge connecting Sarnia and Port Huron was officially opened in the presence of a great gathering of dignitaries. A locomotive and coach of the 1870's, built in the Grand Trunk shops at Port Huron, correct in minute detail, were on exhibition together with a modern 6,400 streamline locomotive, the latter a Canadian National product numbered amongst the fastest and most powerful steam locomotives in the world. To further the contract between travel in the fifties and sixties and the present day, there were coupled on the streamliner the very newest of all-steel express cars and the last word in air-conditioned passenger coach luxury. The bridge is new but railway transportation, now furnished by the Canadian National Railways at these points, had its foundation in services inaugurated more than one hundred years ago on both sides of the international boundary.

Arthur Kelsall to Succeed Dr. Blair

The Civil Service Commission has announced the appointment of Arthur Kelsall, of Annapolis Royal, to the post of Superintendent of the Experimental Station, Kentville, from which Dr. W. S. Blair has just retired.

Mr. Kelsall has been a resident of the Annapolis Valley since coming to Canada with his parents in 1907. He entered the service of the Department of Agriculture after the war, and in 1922 was placed in charge of the Entomological Laboratory, Annapolis Royal, which post he has held since.

Research work conducted under his direction, have been very comprehensive, involving chemical studies of insecticides and their effect on plant life and destruction of insects. In 1937 his work was recognized by the Federal Department of Agriculture, and he was promoted to the rank of Agricultural Scientist. During the past summer he attended the International Horticultural and Entomological Convention in Berlin.

In civic affairs has been six times mayor of Annapolis Royal, which position he now holds.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Annie Bogart

Bear River lost its oldest Protestant resident, as well as one of its most beloved, last Saturday evening, Nov. 5, when Mrs. Annie Bogart passed on to her Heavenly Home, after a three weeks' illness at the home of her nephew, Carl Miller, where she was tenderly cared for. Born at Bear River in 1841, the daughter of the late William and Sarah Miller, "Bogie" as she was called, celebrated her 97th birthday June 2nd, by walking one-quarter of a mile to attend the meeting of the Missionary Society, of which she has been a charter member for over sixty years. Always in faithful attendance at the Sunday services, Prayer Meetings, W. M. S., Philathea Bible Class, etc., she will be much missed by both old and young. Possessing rare musical ability, Mrs. Bogart was organist in the Baptist Church for many years, also had a large class of piano pupils, she having studied music at the Boston Conservatory of Music. In 1862 she married Luke Bogart, who predeceased her many years ago. The funeral service was held in the Baptist Church on Tuesday afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Rev. G. D. Brydon, who spoke from one of her favorite texts, "To die is gain", assisted by Rev. E. L. Roach, of the United Church. Her favorite hymns "In the Sweet Bye and Bye", "He Hideth My Soul", and "Jesus Lover of My Soul", were rendered through the service. Interment was in the family lot, at Mt. Hope Cemetery. Confined Abed by Lumbago

In Pain for Weeks

"Acting on his principle of 'when you know a good thing tell your friends about it,' a man who has had very bad lumbago pains writes as follows:—

"I suffered from lumbago, and for weeks could scarcely move in bed. I had treatment, but it did not ease the pain very much. A friend said, 'Why not take Kruschen Salts? Take them every morning, and you'll likely get relief from that pain in your back.' So I have taken them every morning for some time and I am in fit condition for my work again—thanks to Kruschen."

Why is it that lumbago, backache, rheumatism and indigestion in many cases yield to Kruschen Salts? Because it is a combination of several mineral salts that are vital for your bodily well-being. Each of these salts has an action of its own. Stomach, liver, kidneys and digestive tract are all benefited and toned up to a high state of efficiency.

WHY WORRY?

We wonder why folks worry. There are only two reasons for worry. Either you are successful, or you are not successful. If you are successful, there is nothing to worry about; if you are not, there are only two things to worry about. Your health is either good or you are sick; if your health is good there is nothing to worry about; if you are sick, there are only two things to worry about. You are going to get well or you are going to die; if you are going to get well, there is nothing to worry about; if you are going to die, there's only two things to worry about. You are either going to heaven or you are not going to heaven; if you are going to heaven, there is nothing to worry about; and if you are going to the other place you will be so damned busy shaking hands with your old friends you won't have time to worry.

CELEBRATE 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson, of Westport, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Nov. 3rd. A reception was held with relatives and a number of friends present. Out of town guests were Mrs. Thompson's brother, Freeman Garron, of Yarmouth; and two nieces, Mrs. Percy Thurber and Mrs. Preston Thurber, of Freeport. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson have eleven children living, their second eldest son, Charles, predeceased them some few years ago. Four of the children attended the reception, the others, living in different parts of the United States, sent cards and telegrams of good wishes.

A purse of money was presented Mr. and Mrs. Thompson from the family. Their youngest son, Darrell, gave a short speech and made the presentation. Many handsome gifts were received from relatives and friends. The floral offerings from friends picked from their gardens, were varied and beautiful, and also surprising for the time of season.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were united in marriage by Rev. J. H. Saunders. They have fifteen grand children and eight great grand children. Mrs. Thompson is one of a family of twelve, eleven living to maturity.

Late in the evening refreshments were served, including a beautiful anniversary cake, given by Mrs. Irving Thompson. Best wishes are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Thompson.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Peters, of Centreville, Digby County, announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Delma Irene, to John Roger Lawson, only son of Mrs. Maude Lawson, of 41 Coburn Street, East Lynn, Mass., and the late George Lawson, formerly of Centrelea, Annapolis County. The marriage to take place in Nova Scotia, in the near future.

BANNERS OF PEACE

Marching, marching, can you hear them?
Silent figures, through the years,
Holding high a blood stained banner
Rent with sorrow, and drenched with tears.

How in mockery, now, they gather!
Holding that brave banner high.
Point in scorn a fleshless finger.
That in vain they had to die.

For these are the ghosts of soldiers
Who went forth with courage true
These, the youth of dauntless bravery
Gave their lives for me and you.

Where today is this great banner!
Which they passed to us unfurled.
We will find it trampled under
By the armies of the world.

So today, oh youth of nations,
Let's keep peace, and let us pray
That the Keeper of the nations
May the hand of war-lords stay.

Pray that God, who holds the nations
In the hollow of His hands
Give to us that peace, triumphant Peace, eternal, through the lands.

Obituary

Mrs. Martha Ruggles
There passed away on Friday, Nov. 4, Mrs. Martha Ruggles, of Lockport. She had been in failing health for some time. She was Martha Pugh before her marriage, and married Capt. Clarence Peters in early life. There was a family consisting of Milton, of Cape Breton; Mrs. W. Whitman, of Honolulu; Hawaii; Mrs. C. E. Collins, of Pontiac, Mich.; Capt. Emory Peters, Yarmouth; Jesse, of Westport; Capt. Walton Peters, New Jersey, who is now on voyage to France; and Clarence of Lockport. Her former husband passed away many years ago. After some years she married J. R. Ruggles, Customs Officer, at Lockport, she resided there until her passing. Mr. Ruggles predeceased her some years ago. She was a valued member of Westport Christian Church. Her only remaining brother is Charles Pugh, of "Pugh Farm", Westport, the last member of a family of nine. The funeral was held on Sunday at 2 o'clock from the Christian Church, Westport, Rev. J. W. Derby conducting the service. The choir sang "God Will Take Care of You" and "Sometime We'll Understand", and a dirge, by Gerald Bailey and Lloyd Derby, "Wonderful Peace". The floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which she was held.

Capt. Harold W. Dickson
Word has been received of the death of Capt. Harold W. Dickson, 333 May Street, Port William, Ont., which occurred recently at Deer Lodge Hospital, Winnipeg. The late Capt. Dickson, who was born in N. W. Brunswick, has been a resident of Port William since 1920. He entered the service of the C. P. R. as express messenger, and in 1919 was moved to Winnipeg, and early in 1920, to Port William, running between that city and Chapeau. He enlisted for service overseas, Oct. 6, 1915, in the 44th battalion at Camp Sewell, Man., going overseas with the 44th, and later transferred to the 27th battalion. On the field of battle he won the Military Cross, receiving his decoration from the late King George V. He was promoted to lieutenant while serving with the 27th, and in 1918 his heroic services won for him the rank of Captain. When word of his death was received by the Canadian Legion at Port William, the flag was raised at half-mast over the Memorial Hall. He is survived by his widow; one son Harold, Jr., and a daughter Ruth. A. E. Dickson, of Digby, representative for the W. H. Thorne Co., Ltd., is a brother of the deceased.

HOW RAILWAY CARS ARE NAMED

Naming of passenger cars is a system on the Canadian National Railways. Sleeping cars are named after stations, and chamberette or sleeping room cars have the names of Canadian seaports. Parlor and parlor-buffet cars are named after Canadian lakes, while Canadian rivers lend their names to cafe-parlor coaches. Compartment-observation-library cars bear names of capes, while another type of this class of car with buffet is named after forts famous in history. Dining, tourist and lunch counter cars are designated by number only, and the same system is followed for the new luxurious air-conditioned coaches.

BARBADOS VISITED BY MANY CANADIANS

Barbados in the British West Indies has enjoyed a steadily increasing tourist trade during recent years. Due to its easterly position in the Atlantic, Barbados is favored with a constant breeze and a moderate temperature the year round and attracts a considerable number of transient and annual visitors. A large percentage of whom are Canadians. A growing number of Americans are also discovering the vacation attractions of Barbados as passenger lists of the Canadian National Steamships "Lady" liners in this service show. These liners calling at Boston on both the north and south bound trips. Sailings south bound are from Halifax, N. S., with arrival on the return trip at Saint John, N. B.

Barbados' trade is done mostly with Great Britain, Canada and the United States, these countries accounting for approximately 70 per cent of the imports and absorb over 80 per cent of the exports. Sugar and molasses are the main products which Canada takes from Barbados and the largest single item imported into Barbados from Canada is flour. Other commodities include salt pork, unmanufactured wood and timber, oats, shingles, motor cars, sulphate of ammonia, shoes, and staves, wearing apparel, dried fish, cheese and many other items.

WENT TO BED WITH BOOTS ON

There has always been considerable controversy as to who built the first sleeping car. Records would seem to show that the first efforts were the adaptation of a day coach to sleeping car purposes in 1836 on the Cumberland Valley Railroad of Pennsylvania. The first "Pullman" is said to have made its appearance in 1859. In the first make-shift sleeping cars, passengers went to bed fully clothed and reclined on rough mattresses with their own blankets or shawls drawn over them. In referring to the inaugural trip of the first "Pullman," the conductor, J. L. Barnes, said "there was no crowd and the car, lighted by candles, moved away in solitary grandeur, if such it might be called. I remember the first night I had to request the passengers to take their boots off before they got into their berths. They wanted to keep them on—seemed afraid to take them off."

In Canada, the Grand Trunk Railway, now part of the Canadian National System, gave early attention to the matter of sleeping cars. There was strong objection at first due to some unfavorable experiences on American lines but the matter was settled for the time by introducing benches or bunks running the whole length of the car and without any curtains or divisions. A rug and a small pillow were the only extras furnished. Today the modern all-steel sleeping cars on the Canadian National System is the last word in comfort, with airconditioning and other improvements.

UNDERSTANDING CAPTAIN ANGUS

Depending on the way you look at it, Captain Angus Walters' visit to Boston with his "Bluenose" in tow, is either a great success or a colossal flop, says the Canadian News of Boston. Captain Angus is as Nova Scotian as the ship he sails, and like any good Nova Scotian he cannot be typed. He is a character, he is definitely of the days of "wooden ships and iron men", he has no Emily Post etiquette, and he says what he thinks and he thinks what he likes. This is something that his fellow citizens admire in him, even if they don't always agree with him.

It is a source of satisfaction to many Maritimers that the New England press has taken Captain Angus and his fiery utterances and actions in the spirit he gives them, it is a source of regret that other sections of the press and the public have turned up their noses at him as a poor sport and a "belly-acher" to use a term that Angus might use himself. Modern life in highly organized communities does not permit the formation of such characters as the "fiery little skipper" as Nova Scotia calls him, Angus has a habit of landing in the head-lines, but the fault is not his. He is a left over from an age when Bluenose skippers were known and feared over the seven seas. Newspaper men love him, for he has but to open his mouth and a bonus-story is in the making. Canadians love him as a Peck's Bad Boy, who more than often hits the nail on the head. And on the whole, New Englanders got a kick out of him, because he is the same type of man that once made her seaports the richest source of character on the Atlantic seaboard.

FISH STRETCHES THE BUDGET!

Serve Canadian Fish frequently for flavour.
Our Canadian fish is the finest in the world. It is healthful, nourishing, and contains plenty of those invisible aids to good health—Vitamins A and D. These are the vitamins that help us resist colds and all the winter ailments. They build up resistance, and make crisp, cold days a pleasure.

There are so many kinds of Canadian fish, packed in cans, quick-frozen, and in some markets rushed fresh to the stores, that great variety is possible. The way to stretch the budget is to watch the daily fluctuation in price, and to pick brands with well-known Canadian names, packed in Canada.

Here's a recipe you will use frequently. It's a stick-to-the-rib dinner for cold days, appetizing, flavorful, and most delicious.
Browned Chicken Haddle Lyonnais

1 can Canadian Chicken Haddle
2 cups cooked, diced potatoes
2 tablespoons minced onions
1 teaspoon prepared mustard or Worcestershire sauce
Dusting of paprika
2 tablespoons butter
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
1 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter.
Heat the potatoes in the butter. Add the hard-cooked egg, and onions. Combine the milk and seasonings. Add to the potatoes. Make the fish and add. Push to one side of the frying pan, melt the rest of the butter, cover the pan and cook until well browned. Fold over and serve very hot.
Serve with a relish of pickled beets or stewed tomatoes.

Miss Willa Porter is spending an indefinite time at Stony Beach. Miss Hope Nelson, of Annapolis Royal, was at her home here for the week end. The meeting of the Dorcas Society last week took the form of a quilting party, at the residence of Mrs. Walter Purdy. Guests of Mrs. J. R. Dittmars last week were: Mrs. Chester Sanford and young son of Bear River East. Flowers on the altar of St. Matthew's Church on Sunday were given by Miss Grace E. McClelland, in memory of her mother and sister. Mrs. Belle Burdill is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. Morgan, at Lansdowne. R. V. Dittmars spent last week in the Big Woods. Mr. and Mrs. Eric Adams motored to Windsor on Sunday. On their return they were accompanied by the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Purdy, who had visited Mr. and Mrs. R. W. W. Purdy several days. Mrs. Bertha Burrill, of Maine, is spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Paul Vroom and Mr. Vroom. Mrs. Vernon L. Harris, of Bear River, was a week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Dittmars. Mrs. Boyd Berry and wee daughter, of Saskatchewan, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Berry.

Miss Evelyn Mosher, principal of the school, spent the week-end in Bear River, guest of Mrs. Henry Wright.

Mrs. Fernley E. Silver and son Harry, spent the week end in Digby with her mother, Mrs. Lydia Haynes.

A branch bearing fourteen raspberries, six of which were ripened, was picked by Loran E. Adams, in his garden, on Saturday, Nov. 5th.

The annual Children's Service was held at St. Matthew's Church Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. At this service the rite of baptism was administered to the children of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Purdy.

Mary's First Bread-Baking is a Real Triumph with

OGILVIE
ROYAL HOUSEHOLD
Triple-tested
FLOUR

IS MARY THRILLED! Of course she has baked before, but this is her first real test. Today she is in full charge of the family bread-baking—this time Mother is only her assistant.

AS SHE SIFTS THE FLOUR, Mary remarks how finely ground it is and how snowy white. "Royal Household is always like that," smiles Mother. "It's sifted through silk—that's one reason so many housewives prefer it to all other flours."

MARY IS GOING TO TRY A CAKE NEXT. AND IT IS SURE TO BE A SUCCESS WITH OGILVIE ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR.

"IT CERTAINLY MIXES into a lovely smooth dough," says Mary. "Yes; and you'll find it goes further," says Mother. "You'll get an extra loaf to this baking." Excited, Mary slides the well-filled pans into the oven!

WELL DONE, MARY! Every loaf is a triumph for her and for Royal Household Flour. Perfect texture for slicing and spreading; delicious flavour; splendid keeping qualities. And Mary did get an extra loaf to the baking!

Try Royal Household for your next baking. It is made from wheat that is selected and washed—wheat that is put through nineteen different cleaning operations, of which washing is only one. You can depend upon Royal Household Flour. It is triple-tested—before milling, during milling and after milling. Order some today—you'll get an extra loaf to every baking.

WEAR A POPPY TODAY!

Poignant reminder of those spacious days of glory and of grieving, Poppy Day once more recurs to prompt the citizens of this country in the duties they have inherited from the past generation. To Canadian youth in this year of grace, the deep-red petals of the Poppy may not carry the same significance they bore to the youth of twenty years ago. The symbolism of sacrifice with which the Poppy has been charged is something to which the present generation succeeds only through the wistful memories of the ageing men who fought their country's battles, who suffered privations, endured long agonies and finally triumphed amid surroundings carpeted with poppies.

To wear this humble emblem on Poppy Day is to proclaim that amid all the jangling confusion through which this country is striving valiantly to penetrate, the heart and mind are nevertheless attuned to a sense of homage due to those men whose peace inspired 600,000 Canadians to offer themselves for service between 1914 and 1918; of which number more than 60,000 found graves in France and Belgium. It is over those graves that the Poppy blows in perennial bloom. The numbered dead were not strangers. They were young Canadians, some of them well known in this community, filled even as the youth of today is filled, with the joy of living. So also were the thousands of men who in 1938 bear upon their bodies the marks and scars of war; the disabled ex-service men who suffered disablement on behalf of Canada. To manifest that proud recognition of their place in this country, to mark that tribute which is their due, Poppy Day has been set aside in order that all may join in recalling the great sorrow.

The blood-red emblems distributed by the Canadian Legion's vast volunteer organization are the product of disabled veterans employed in the Veterans Industries administered by the Dominion Government. To purchase a Poppy is a small thing. For every citizen to do so is a big thing.

Let us all wear a Poppy on Poppy Day.

About This and That

According to figures issued at the close of last week a total of 6,475 deer were slain in the province of Nova Scotia, and at that date there were still more returns to be received from magistrates and justices of the peace. Of the number reported, 3,493 were bucks and 2,982 does. These, of course, are "official" figures. One cannot help but wonder to what extent "unofficial" slaughter would increase these figures—and to what further extent the figures would be increased if all mortally wounded deer, escaping the hunters, could be counted, for unlike the "fish that get away" many wounded deer perish miserably. We admit we have absolutely no way of telling, but we doubt if we would be far out of the way should we guess the actual slaughter (including those registered, those illegally taken and those which died from wounds), at 10,000 during a thirty-day season. We also wonder how many registered kills were actually "legally killed". In spite of every effort to catch them many so-called "sportsmen" have never shot a deer without the aid of a powerful flashlight.

The darkest and most dangerous places in town on a dark night are the station platform and the approaches to it. These places are travelled by many people on their way to the United Church and to other places in that vicinity. In the daytime or on moonlight nights they can do so with safety. But on a dark night, like last Sunday for instance, there is considerable danger. Going to church one young man, in the darkness, missed his step and fell from the platform across the rails and only his alertness saved him from injury. We hate to think what would have happened had it been an elderly man or woman. Another thing, a large number of young men and women—"hoodlums" they would be called in some towns—gather there and their language is not always the choicest; and from evidences we have seen the platform is used as a "dating" place for even worse than bad language. At the public meeting years ago when the D. A. R. asked for this station site, in reply to a question put by the late "Jake" Kiley, the late O. C. Jones, who was representing the railway, promised that if the request was granted the railway would have both the north and south approaches, as

CANADIAN WAR MEMORIAL

Work on the Canadian War Memorial at Ottawa, has now been completed. The King will unveil the Memorial during his visit to Canada next summer.

It All Depends . . .

The European crisis, to those of us in this part of the world at least, seems to be as much of the past as the nightmare that follows our last mistaken enthusiasm for lobster at bed-time.

But it is far from being of the past to those who were in the midst of it.

People in England have time to think it over now and letters—temporarily suspended in the rush of air-raid precaution work—are beginning to give the reaction of the "man in the street".

A Canadian teacher who is stationed in North London amongst none too opulent people tells of a very busy time. "We had to tell the pupils to warn their parents to expect enemy bombers two hours after an outbreak of war. This was necessary to get their consent to the evacuation of the pupils to the more remote villages in the country."

Another of her duties was arrangement for transportation. Parents were interviewed and asked if they could provide any cars. Most of them, she reports, could not and she was rather taken aback when a nondescript little man timidly ventured that he thought he could lend four limousines!

Inquiry developed that he was the local undertaker.

Out in the country the other side of the medal was interesting, too. After four days of intensive work assembling and issuing gas masks, the Air Wardens, who hold honorary jobs, were suddenly notified of their appointment as billeting officers. "We had had no sleep, what with trying to fit the masks together and give everyone a mask that would fit, when suddenly we found ourselves possessed of almost absolute power to walk in to any house and demand billets for varying numbers of London children."

His letter ended on a plaintive note. "In return for the honor of being Head Air Raid Warden in my district I shall be permitted to put on a hat and coat and walk around through bombs and poisonous gasses seeing that everyone else is safe; I'm going to join the army and get paid for being killed!"

In the Zoological Gardens in London keepers stood by with high calibre rifles ready to kill any dangerous animals which might be freed by the bursting of bombs. Axes were ready for the snakes and the big elephants who have taken children riding on their backs for years past were slated for long walks into the country where billets were chosen in barns with doors wide enough to admit the pachyderms.

Cynics who remember the last time women wore their hair "up" are wondering why they have adopted only part of the fashion. Those were the days, if the cynics' memories are good, of buttoned boots, cashmere stockings, heavily boned corsets and ric-rac braids.

At that time some of the Empire's tea was still going to London by the last of the famous clippers whose races to catch high prizes were a feature of maritime history. Men wore huge moustaches that were the object of almost as much attention as is given to feminine tresses today and barbers, in addition to shaving mugs bearing the names of regular patrons, always kept moustache wax in stock. The kids used to get a great kick out of being allowed to use father's moustache cup for their tea and maids never expected more than one day out per month.

There were no movies. Speaking of movies reminds us of a visit to Mervyn LeRoy, the "boy-wonder" producer of the M. G. M. lot at Culver City, a little while ago. He talked of some of the stars he has worked with or watched. "No two of them are alike," he said. "In Romeo and Juliet the director rehearsed the tender balcony scene over and over again. Between rehearsals Norma Shearer retired to a corner of the stage and concentrated on her tragic role. But Leslie Howard—Romeo—prepared for the next take by drinking tea and rolling dice with electricians."

"It all depends!" Whether you happen to think of air raids, coiffures, movie stars or moustache cups, each brings to mind its own train of thought. Here is a collection of random thoughts; perhaps they, in their turn, will take you back, or lead you forward—"it all depends".

Mrs. I. E. Hersey is spending a few weeks in Digby the guest of Mrs. Ansel Snow.

May Lay Cornerstone

At the 20th annual meeting of the Historical Association of Annapolis Royal, the president, Col. E. K. Eaton, told of the completion of an archaeological survey on the site of the habitation in 1605, at Port Royal, now Lower Granville. The exact foundation—by soil reading—has been of the interior court; the cellar of the store house has also been discovered, and also the well in the centre of the court yard. Col. Eaton explained that this place had what no other town in North America has. Hence, a resolution was passed to extend to their majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, to visit Annapolis Royal on their visit to Canada in the spring, and to lay the cornerstone of the habitation.

(Editor's Note.—Although we realize that should their majesties visit all communities in Canada from where invitations have been issued, it would take them the better part of a year instead of the scheduled three weeks to complete the tour, we do feel that every effort should be made to induce them to accept this invitation, for surely, there is no place in the Dominion of greater historical importance than our neighboring town of Annapolis Royal, the birthplace of Canada.)

FIRE DESTROYS HOME

The little home of Alfred Bailey, young colored resident of Conway, was totally destroyed, with all its contents, by fire, on Sunday afternoon. The origin of the fire is not known, but Mr. Bailey believes a spark from the kitchen stove got under the floor boards and set fire to the building. At the time both Mr. and Mrs. Bailey with their infant child, were out. Nothing in the way of furnishings or clothing was saved.

(Editor's Note.—We know that Mr. and Mrs. Bailey would appreciate any contributions of clothing, especially baby clothes, that our readers may have to dispose of.)

JOGGIN BRIDGE

Miss Dorothy Winchester, of Kingston, spent the week end at her home here.

Clayton H. Woodman spent last week attending the annual meeting of the Grand Division, Sons of Temperance.

Edward Tibbetts, who has been undergoing treatment at the Digby General Hospital, has returned to his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben. Franklin and daughter, Ella, of Acadiaville, were the Sunday guests at the home of James Winchester.

Miss Phyllis Thomas and friend, of Digby, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thomas, on Sunday.

Receives Appointment

Group Commander A. E. Godfrey, has been appointed head of an air command for the training of personnel for the R.A.F., to be established in Toronto, according to an announcement from the department of national defence. Capt. Godfrey, who until recently was O.C., at the Trenton air training school, will also control training at Weston, Trenton, Hamilton and Camp Borden.

Armistice Day in County

Twenty years after, the citizens of thousands of communities all over the world, observed, on Friday last, the anniversary of the armistice which marked the end of the Great War. Impressive services were held at War Memorials and community centres.

At Digby hundreds of citizens gathered at the monument to pay homage to those whose names are inscribed thereon, and who lie in Flanders Fields, where poppies grow.

The service of the day was preceded by a parade, led by the Digby Civic Band, in which the Digby Boy Scout Troop, Cubs, Girl Guides, Brownies and School Children took part. They were followed by the returned men and members of the town council.

The service was opened by prayer, led by Dr. T. W. Hodgson, pastor of Grace United Church, followed by appropriate selections rendered by the band. Promptly at 11 o'clock the two minutes of silence was reverently observed by all assembled.

A stirring address was delivered by Rev. E. M. Caldwell, rector of Trinity church, which stressed the folly and wastefulness of war. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. T. W. Hodgson.

Following the "Last Post" wreaths were placed at the base of the monument. Among the flowers were two jars of real Flanders poppies, grown by C. Y. Young from seed given him by Gerald Syda on his return from the Vimy pilgrimage.

On Sunday the veterans, led by the Digby Civic Band, paraded to the United Baptist church to attend their annual Armistice Sunday service. The sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. A. G. Robertson, with special music by the choir under the leadership of Hedley Dakin.

At the Digby Academy, on Thursday of last week, Alfred Boden, former town clerk and secretary of the school board, delivered addresses to classes, explaining to a generation unborn at the time of the signing of the armistice, the true meaning of Armistice Day. (Continued on Bear River page)

Lower Granville

Mrs. W. W. Hudson left on Friday last to spend the winter with her niece, Mrs. Frank Wallace, in Swampscott, Mass.

Margaret Wheelock spent the week end in Bridgetown with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Bath.

Mrs. A. E. Angers left on Friday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Wallace Broughton, in Salem, Mass.

Mrs. Frank Robblee has returned to her home in Passaic, N. J., after spending the summer months here.

Under the caption "Lest They Forget" comes this story: "A Dutchman was dining in the restaurant car of a German train. 'Hell Hitler,' said the waiter. The Dutchman did not reply. The waiter was annoyed. 'Every time I say 'Hell Hitler' to you," he snapped, "you must say 'Hell Hitler' to me." "Hitler? He doesn't mean a thing to us in Holland," retorted the Dutchman. "Maybe not," said the waiter, "but one day you'll see our Fuehrer in Holland, too." "Perhaps so," smiled the Dutchman, "we already have your Kaiser."

An Arrogant Hitler

(Gloucester, Mass., Daily Times)
Hitler's victory at Munich over Premier Chamberlain raised him to a portentous height in Europe. By the sheer force of his will, without spilling a drop of German blood, he secured another rich section of Europe for the German Reich. No people in the world could resist the appeal of such success. He became more than ever the idol of the German people and they became more than ever clay in his hands. Mussolini shrunk to a third class dictator and now sulks in Rome, a disappointed and disgruntled man who has lost his grip on world affairs. We shall now see how the Italian Duce likes to play second fiddle. Whatever expansion occurs in Europe will be for Germany's interests and Mussolini can expect for Italy only the crumbs from his great colleague's table.

Thus Hitler becomes the Man on Horseback of Europe, the compelling world force which brooks no opposition. His self confidence, never slight, has grown to enormous proportions. He is as convinced of his own greatness as are the German people. He is to modern times what Napoleon was at the height of his glory. But Napoleon's preeminence made him feared by all peoples, even his nominal allies. He had become too great. An unkind fate waited to cut the thin thread on which his successes hung. From his exalted position all roads led down, and imminent destiny led him down the long road to St. Helena. Thus with Hitler. He has become too great for the happiness of Europe. His appetite for more gains is not yet satisfied. Even those nations in the East which now court his favor fear him and would be glad to trip him up. Whether he has yet reached the apex of his power cannot be told, but his present exalted eminence looks like the top from which all roads lead down.

Hitler and Germany have become so portentously big and menacing that either he must subdue the world or be subdued. The Munich incident has taught us all the truth. Never was the prestige of the European democracies and that of the United States at so low a point in world opinion. Neither France nor England has any weight among the smaller nations of Europe today. Prestige is an intangible thing. The democracies have, at one blow, lost their influence. They are very near the bottom from which all roads lead up. Every free influence in Europe and America from this time on will be consciously or unconsciously preparing to check the Hitler threat to the whole world. We believe that with all its weaknesses so clearly exhibited in America at our very doors, democracy is more powerful than the dictatorships. Liberty of the mind is more powerful than enslavement. The call to freedom and the brotherhood of man is more powerful than the barking command to surrender all individuality. The stars in their courses moved to bring back European equilibrium by destroying Napoleon. The stars in their courses are already working to destroy that monstrous threat to liberty and peace which exists in the cruel pagan philosophy of Hitler and the German Reich.

New "Czar of Russia"

Grand Duke Vladimir, son and heir of the late Grand Duke Cyrill of Russia, shown leaving the American hospital in Paris, following the death of his father, who was pretender to the vanished throne of the Romanoffs in Russia. With the death of Cyrill, the mantle falls to Vladimir, who is now hailed as "czar" by the expatriate Russians now residing in Paris.

ANIMALS DESTROYED BY "JACKING"

John R. Nichols, well known Shelburne Road (Acacia Valley) farmer, lost his work horse last week. The animal was badly wounded during the deer hunting season, and since that time, Mr. Nichols has made every effort to nurse the animal back to health, but in vain. He blames deer "jackers" for his loss. Another farmer—Grant—who resides in the same district, had three of his sheep "jacked" during the season.

Some use, other than merely as a legal curiosity, should be found for the case of the San Jose man who loaned a friends $100, and 25 years later got a valid court judgment against him for something over $300,000,000,000,000 (yes, that's right—three hundred trillion dollars. We haven't figured it out but the Associated Press vouches for it.) All but the original $100 was interest, which the note provided should be compounded monthly. It did the lender no good; he collected exactly $19.69 of it and died worth only $2,500 altogether. But what an argument for the savings banks!

C. L. HAVEY ELECTED

Nova Scotian friends and relatives of Clayton L. Havey, of West Roxbury, Mass., will be interested to learn that in the recent elections over the border, he was elected to the Governor's Council for the State of Massachusetts. Mr. Havey was a candidate on the Republican ticket, and polled a total vote of 122,272, giving him a plurality of 22,800 over his Democratic opponent, whose total was 99,472. Mr. Havey is not new to the political field, having previously served two terms in the Massachusetts legislature.

Mr. Havey is a son of the late John A. and Daisy (Crocker) Havey, of Freeport. He is a grandson of Bernard Havey, of Digby. Dr. H. B. Havey, mayor of Stewiack, is an uncle. His wife is the former Miss Maud MacDonald, of Shelburne County.

IT TAKES A LOT OF SPUDS TO FEED THIS FAMILY

A well-known farmer who lives not far from Digby, was heard to remark one day this week that his potato crop was practically a failure. He had only raised about fifty bushels, "just about enough to see us through the winter".

Asked just how many potatoes his family used, he replied, "Oh, about ten bushels a month". Then he went on to explain that there were "about" fourteen of his family at home; in addition many of his twenty-one grandchildren, living in the neighborhood, frequently ate meals at his home, and beside those, there were the six orphan children of his son's and another orphan child given shelter under his roof.

He told that his wife couldn't get a pot big enough to cook her potatoes in, and that he had to send to Yarmouth to have one made to order. It holds about five gallons.

"Let's start housekeeping RIGHT"

"MOTHER says that a real homemaker is first of all a good cook. You can't bake well unless you use a good flour, so I'm going to start right out with a bag of REGAL. All the best cooks I know use nothing but REGAL Flour, so I'm going to benefit by their experience. We'll always have good bread in the house, whatever else we may lack."

THE PINES' ASSESSMENT

Ratepayers of the town of Digby will soon be asked to pass on an assessment for the Pines Hotel. When built the ratepayers granted an assessment of $60,000 for a ten-year period, which expires next year.

Deputations from the Canadian Pacific attended a special meeting of the Town Council Wednesday evening, all having something to say on the matter. Mr. Jeffrey, assistant ticket agent, at Montreal, pointed out to the Council the large investment the C. P. R. has in the Pines Hotel and gave figures relating to profit and loss since the hotel opened. At no time has the Pines been able to set aside any amount for depreciation, or pay an interest on the investment. Losses incurred during the past year of operation were $8,000. He asked the present assessment be continued for another ten years.

R. M. Ellis, manager of the C. P. R. Hotels in Nova Scotia, pointed out the benefits Digby derives from the Pines Hotel, as well as indirect benefits through advertising. He also showed figures giving the amounts for pay roll, taxes paid the Town of Digby, and Water and Electric Light Rates.

Mr. Chase, solicitor, of Kentville, spoke concerning the extension that had been given the Cornwallis Inn by the Town of Kentville, for a further period of ten years.

After discussing the matter, the Council decided it was a matter for the ratepayers to decide, and the matter will be taken up with them in the near future, it is understood.

NARROW ESCAPE OF FORMER DIGBY MAN

A newspaper clipping handed us yesterday by John A. H. Nichols, of Acadiaville, tells of the drowning of Bernard Sammis, chief operator of the Bircham Bend Plant of the Turner Falls Power and Electric Company, Indian Orchard, Mass., and of the narrow escape of George Peck, a brother of Mrs. Nichols.

The incident occurred during a recent New England flood. Peck had been visiting his friend Sammis, at the plant, and Sammis decided to row him across the river. They headed into still water, and got caught in the edge of the current, and before they could pull out were in the middle of the new flood channel, riding the rapids backward.

The boat almost got through the rapids before it turned over, according to Mr. Peck's interview, and before he knew it he was breathing fresh air. When he reached the surface the only thing he could think of was to keep his head above water and float down the river with the current.

The body of the victim was found after twelve hours dragging. Sammis' house was also washed away in the first flood and hurricane. He had only been released from a hospital a week before the fatal accident, and his wife having fought 72 hours to save the electric plant from destruction. Weakness brought on from his previous experience was thought to have some bearing on his losing his life in the flood on him losing his life in the second flood.

SMITH'S COVE

Fred Smith, Charles Kaulbach and son, Murray, spent Sunday in Danvers.

Mrs. Alice Beeler has returned from White's Corner, Kings Co., where she visited friends.

Ira Davis has gone to Danvers for the winter months.

Mary Elizabeth Sullis was a week end visitor of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Sullis. She was accompanied by W. Randolph. They returned to Acadia University on Monday.

The service in the United Baptist church on Sunday was taken by Rev. M. C. Higgins.

Joan Weir is on the sick list. Mrs. E. B. Taylor has returned to Yarmouth after spending a few days at her home here.

The Women's Institute

The November meeting of the Smith's Cove Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Marshall. Quite a large number were present. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Payson, who is ill, the chair was taken by the vice-president, Mrs. William Woodman. Arrangements were made for committee work and other business. At the close of the meeting Rev. C. E. Rockingham addressed the members briefly, congratulating them on the good work being done. The hostesses, assisting Mrs. Marshall, were Mrs. John Marshall, Mrs. Ralph Cossitt and Mrs. Oakley Smith. The December meeting, which will arrange for Christmas cheer, will be with Mrs. George Wightman.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Beals and children, Helen, Joyce, Carolyn and Gerald, of Margarettville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Atwood Miller of Lansdowne, over the holiday.

BAND NOTES

The beautiful cut-work pillow cases given to the band boys by Mrs. Weir have been disposed of by them, and the winning ticket 139, was held by Miss Edna Turnbull. The proceeds will be applied to the repairs and improvements which the boys have been making in the band room.

This is the sixth year that the band has participated in the Armistice Day services, and the first time that the weather has been anything but hard on the players. Delightful weather this time made playing easy and many numbers were played. Churchill Turnbull rendered "Last Post" and "Reveille" in excellent style. The veterans marched to the monument while the band played Mendelssohn's "Funeral March", followed by one of the same composer's Songs Without Words, "Consolation". Besides the hymns and patriotic numbers the band played "Hosts of Freedom", "34th Division", "Our Director" and "Florida" marches on the street, and several selections at the home of Raymond Lent, a member of the band who has been confined to his bed for several months.

SHIPPING NOTES

The motor vessels, Apohaqui and Nepsya, are in port loading cargoes of lumber for American ports, the lumber is being shipped by G. O. Hankinson. On the trip here, Jack, the mascot of the Apohaqui, got left behind in Boston.

The motor vessel, Jean Kathleen, Capt. Charles Morrell, of Freeport, is in port loading a cargo of hardwood for the Islands.

The motor vessel, Ella Pearl, was in port on Saturday from Saint John, with a cargo of merchandise for the local merchants.

THE NEW PLYMPTON CHURCH

To the Editor of the Courier: Sir—Due to exceptional weather this fall, work on the new Plympton Roman Catholic church has progressed very rapidly. On the first Sunday in December the basement will be completed and ready for occupancy. Mass on that Sunday and on all Sundays during the winter months, will be said therein.

The basement of the new church will be beautifully finished in ten-test fibre board and, on other than the winter Sundays, will be used as a Parish Hall.

On Thursday next, from 5 to 7, a Variety Supper will be served in the basement. (Look for ad in this issue of the Courier). If, on that day a little bit of curiosity should draw you to inspect the building, which I think is a credit to the architect and builders, it would be a curiosity quite in order.

MAKE MORE WORK IN TOWN

To the Editor of the Courier: Sir—Renewing my acquaintance with the picturesque little town I stood recalling many memories. Among numerous new scenes the black and yellow funnel at the pier head struck a familiar note, but where was the scallop fleet? I could not help being impressed, while strolling around the south end of the town, by the large amount of wood handled there. Load after load arrived to be fed into the mill and I learned that every cord of wood, converted into box shooks, increased in value 100 per cent.

When one learns or takes the time to think that every cord of wood exported, and likely as not, that would be utilized to make gun cotton or similar destructive matter in time of war, could be put to far more commercial benefit to the world of industry, and its value increased over 100 per cent by being used for the manufacture of something really useful, right here in this splendidly situated town of Digby. Over 100 men in that locality are kept in constant employment and I cannot help but think what a great boon this must be to the whole community; and I am told by good authority that the founder of the concern started from the bottom rung of the ladder and is to this day taking an active part, both in that business and in the community in general.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Another Christmas is almost here and Christmas Seals in aid of tuberculosis sufferers, will soon make their appearance. The fund which these seals represent has been contributed to for the past years by the citizens of Nova Scotia, and is gradually taking a very definite place in the anti-tuberculosis work of this community. As the proceeds from the Christmas Tuberculosis Seals fund grow, so will this sort of special service grow, viz.: the assistance of tuberculosis patients and the extension of education propaganda and preventative work. It is certain that special work of this sort will be of great benefit to the general public, and it is believed that it is in keeping with the Christmas spirit, and with the tendency of modern times to lessen the unhappiness of unfortunate people. These little Christmas seals with the double-barred cross, truly contribute health and happiness to others. How better can the Christmas spirit be conveyed? Buy Christmas Seals and help fight tuberculosis in Nova Scotia.

Chief John Paul and Mrs. Paul, of the Bear River Indian Reservation, made a nice donation to the Digby General Hospital recently, consisting of six useful and prettily decorated waste paper baskets for use in the wards and private rooms. The gift is much appreciated.

Archie Colpitts, who was burned about the arms when the truck he was driving was on fire last week, and who was attending in Bear River and later removed to the Digby General Hospital, is doing well and making a good recovery.

Dr. A. B. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell motored on Tuesday to Halifax, where the doctor will attend meetings of the Executive of the Nova Scotia Medical Society and also the meeting of the Provincial Medical Board. He will be met in Halifax by Donald Cossaboom, and they will motor to Boston. Dr. Campbell hopes to visit Philadelphia, New York and Troy Hills, N. J., before returning, via Yarmouth. Mrs. Campbell will remain in Halifax on business and will return to Bear River as soon as the same is concluded.

THE PHILATHEA CLASS

On Thursday evening of last week about twenty-five members of the Philathea Class met at the home of the president, Mrs. Roy Snell, for the November meeting. The devotional period consisted of a "Remembrance Day" poem, read by Mrs. Snell in memory of Mrs. Annie Bogart, a member of the class who recently passed away.

Mrs. R. A. Harris read the class poem and a prayer was read by Mrs. Harry Benson. This was followed by the business period.

Mrs. Emma Ford invited the class to hold its Christmas meeting in December, at her home.

The remainder of the evening was spent in making gifts to be distributed at Christmas time.

Delicious home made candy was served.

The meeting closed with "Blest Be the Tie that Binds".

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE Sharp Pains Shot Through Knees

OF BEAR RIVER

A two-day Institute of the Annapolis Teachers' met at Bear River on Friday and Saturday, November 4th and 5th, with an attendance of 124. After registration on Friday morning the teachers gathered in that spacious Assembly Hall of Oakdene School, where the Institute was formally opened by the president, D. B. Wright, principal of the MacDonaid Consolidated School, in Middleton.

Fred R. Harris, secretary to the School Trustees, Bear River, gave the civic welcome, after which Rev. A. W. L. Smith, district commissioner, addressed the meeting.

A paper by Inspector Foster, on "Other Worlds" and a meeting of Union were also included in the Annapolis County Teachers' morning session.

Friday afternoon featured group sessions including Primary, Intermediate and High School groups, dealing with the following subjects: Primary, Arithmetic, Busy Work, English and Reading, Health and Safety; Intermediate, History, English, Science and Health; High School, Social Studies, Science and English.

Following these sessions Inspector Murray Campbell, (Hants Co.) addressed the meeting, and concluding the afternoon's program led in a most enjoyable "sing-song". Miss Ethel Shaffner, Lawrencetown, presided at the piano.

At 6:00 o'clock the ladies of the Aid Society of the United Church of Canada, and of St. John's Guild, catered to a banquet for the teachers in the I. O. O. F. hall. Guests at the banquet included: Prog. Abell, Acadia University; Inspector E. K. Ford and sister, Truro; Inspector M. C. Foster and Mrs. Foster, Bridgetown; Rev. A. W. L. Smith and Mrs. Smith, Middleton; Howard Yorke, Chairman of the Bear River School Board, and Mrs. Yorke; A. B. Marshall and H. E. Harris, School Trustees, and Mrs. Harris, Bear River.

The special speaker at the banquet was Inspector Ford, Truro. Other speakers were Pres. D. B. Wright, Inspector Foster and Inspector Campbell, who again led in a "sing-song". The banquet, which was largely attended, was voted one of the best in years.

Saturday's sessions featured mass meetings in the Assembly Hall, where the following subjects were dealt with: Examination, School Room Hygiene, Music, Training for Character, Uses of School Library and Exhibition. Speakers on these subjects included Prof. Abell, on Art; Miss Anderson, Public Health Nurse, on Vaccination; and Inspector Foster, on Exhibitions.

Group meetings for Rural, Primary, Intermediate and High School dealt with Time Tables, Busy Work, Art and Languages.

Several matters of business were dealt with during these sessions and a great deal of benefit, inspiration and pleasure derived from the Institute as a whole.

Hearty votes of thanks were tendered to the Bear River School Board, Citizens of Bear River, the Special Speakers, Prin. E. M. Oakes and teachers of Oakdene School, the ladies of the Societies catering to the teachers, the president of the Institute and his Executive, and others.

RESUSCITATION OF ROYAL DIVISION

After lying dormant for almost two years Royal Division, Sons of Temperance, was resuscitated on Monday evening, with seventeen members. It was decided to meet on the second and fourth Monday of each month. The following officers were installed:

W. P.—Rev. R. L. Roach
W. A.—Mrs. Elsie Henshaw
R. S.—Mrs. R. A. Harris
A. R. S.—Miss Dorothy Potter
F. S.—Mrs. Lottie Stewart
Treas.—George Wade
Chap.—Mrs. John Ricq
Con.—Mrs. Mildred Henshaw
A. C.—Weldon Stevens
I. S.—Gerald Chute
J. P. W. P.—Mrs. Clarence Morgan
Recommended as D. G. W. P.—Harvey E. Chisholm

Miss Helen Woodworth recently visited her sister, Mrs. J. Carter, in Saint John.

Walton Snell, student in Arts at Acadia University, spent the holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snell.

Mrs. Clarence Wilson has returned from visiting her friend, Mrs. Albert Grant, and others at Weymouth North.

Mrs. J. Redmond and son, "Bobby", of Kentville, spent last week end in town, with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. John Woodworth.

Woman Suffered 10 Years.

"Since coming here from England 10 years ago," writes a married woman, "I have suffered badly from rheumatic pains. I bought medicine, lotions, liniments and have taken concoctions until I was tired spending my money. I heard of Kruschen Salts so often, that I thought one day I'd try that. By this time my knees were frequently full of terrible pains. I bought a bottle of Kruschen, and took a teaspoonful every morning. It had no effect. But my husband said 'Persevere! Give it a chance to act.' Well, I did, and before long my knees were nearly normal. I kept on, and believe me I am not like the same woman. I walked four miles the other day and felt fine, whereas before I could hardly walk across the floor." (Mrs.) E. A.

What more need be said about the relief that Kruschen Salts can bring to sufferers from the pains and stiffness of rheumatism?

CUT AND BRUISED

A collision near Lower Onslow, six miles west of Truro, sent one car hurtling to its side on the highway and a large truck into the ditch on Saturday night last. Mrs. Suther L. Corbett, of Bass River, occupant of the sedan, required medical attention for an injured knee. The operator of the truck—Ralph W. Long, of Clementsvalle—driver for the Lincoln Pulp Company, of Bear River, and his companion, escaped with superficial cuts and bruises, the truck being little damaged.

Mrs. Hubbard closed her house on Thursday and will be at the Grand Central for the winter.

Henry M. Romans, B. of Arch., returned to Wolfville on Sunday to resume his duties with L. R. Farn.

Mrs. F. H. Hatheway, of Lower Lincoln, N. B., arrived yesterday and is a guest of Mrs. C. W. Jefferson.

Mrs. Rand, of Wolfville, arrived on Thursday and remained over the week end with her sister, Mrs. Thad. Davidson.

Horace A. Porter, K. C., M. L. A., of Saint John, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harris, Mrs. W. M. Romans and Miss A. M. Rice went to Halifax on Tuesday and returned on Thursday.

Mrs. Charles Stewart, who attended the annual session of the Grand Division, Sons of Temperance, in Halifax, returned home on Friday.

Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Lovett went to Wolfville Saturday to attend the football game in which their grandson, Lewis Sutherland, played for Acadia.

The Home and School Club, of the Crossroads, met on Monday evening in the school house. Dr. A. B. Campbell was the guest speaker and the subject for the month was "Health of Children".

Dr. Ray Chisholm, of Victoria, B. C., was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Campbell on Friday of last week, on the way to Halifax. With his brother, Kenneth Chisholm, C. E., he enjoyed a shooting trip, working covers near Yarmouth, Bear River, etc.

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Bogart last week, were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller, of Carleton; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Morse and party, of Bridgetown.

Mrs. D. N. Anderson left on Thursday of last week for Saint John, en route to her home in Regina, Sask., after spending several weeks here with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. J. E. Woodworth. She was accompanied by her son, David, who has spent the past two years here, attending Oakdene School.

Mrs. Edith Marshall returned to her home in Clarence on Sunday.

(Concluded from First Page)

The Day in Bear River

"Remembrance Day" services began at the United Baptist Church, at a service attended by the Veterans, Boy Scouts and citizens. Rev. G. D. Brydon, the pastor, gave a fine address, and Rev. A. W. L. Smith, rector of the Anglican church, Rev. R. L. Roach, of the United Church, and Rev. F. C. Burnett, of Clementsvalle, assisting.

The decoration of the War Memorial followed, when wreaths from the Provincial government, the local Veterans' Association, placed by Rev. F. C. Burnett, and the Women's Institute, (placed by the president, Mrs. W. M. Romans).

The Bear River and Digby Legionnaires united for their annual banquet, which was held this year in Bear River, and attended by more than eighty returned men. The toast list was as follows: The King—Proposed by Rev. F. C. Burnett.

The Ladies—Proposed by F. C. Harris; response by A. Max Isles.

Canada—Proposed by John D. Harrow; response, M. C. Denton.

The Legion—Proposed by Dr. A. B. Campbell; response, B. H. Ruggles.

Fallen Comrades—Proposed by A. V. Banks; response, G. W. Harris.

Our Guests—Proposed by E. Sloan; response, Rev. P. M. Hamilton.

The Clare Veterans Celebrate Remembrance Day was observed by the veterans of Clare, who gathered at the Sacred Heart Church, in Lower Saulnierville, where High Mass was celebrated by Rev. J. Doucet, P.P. Mass was sung by the choir, directed by Fred Comeau, organist. A sermon was delivered by Rev. Jule Comeau, Superior of Ste. Anne's College, Church Point.

After Mass the veterans took their places in front of the monument. Louis Theriault, of Ste. Anne's College, sounded the "Last Post" and the flag was lowered by a Boy Scout, Isaac Thibault, and was again hoisted to the call of the "Reveille".

Major Stehelin gave the address. He said the memory of the many crosses on Flanders Fields and elsewhere, had greatly influenced Prime Minister Chamberlain in doing his utmost to avert another Great War.

In the evening a banquet was held by the Legion, at the Riverside Inn, Meteghan River, with the following program, with Leger Comeau presiding:

Two minutes' Silence; Toast to the King; Our Fallen Comrades, responded to by Dr. P. E. Belliveau; Our Legion, responded to by Col. Stan. Hallett; Our Allies, Major E. Stehelin; Patriotic Speeches, Sam. Hood, Yarmouth; Dan. Campbell, Yarmouth; Mr. Peters, Westport; Capt. Paul Stehelin, Yarmouth; Lieut. Eli Comeau, Meteghan River; Music and Patriotic Songs; God Save the King; Good Night and Auld Lang Syne.

Little River Observed the Day

Armistice Day was observed at the War Memorial in Little River when the school children marched and sang, "O, Canada". A wreath was placed on the monument by little Jean Chute and Betty Trask; Shirley Frost placed a wreath from the Mission Band. Rev. C. L. Chute, pastor of the Baptist church, delivered a stirring address to the large crowd gathered.

Remembrance Day Celebrated at Smith's Cove

Remembrance Day was fittingly observed in the village. A service was held in the Temperance Hall on Friday morning at 9:00 o'clock. The clergymen assisting were Rev. A. W. L. Smith, Dr. F. E. Bishop, Dr. T. W. Hodgson and Rev. C. E. Rockingham. The school children attended in a body. A wreath was placed by the Veterans and other beautiful flowers were there in memory of the departed.

Remembrance Day at Freeport

A Remembrance Day service was held in the Baptist Church on Friday morning. The war veterans from the two islands, who form the Legion, were in attendance, also the three pastors, Rev. Mr. Derby, and Rev. Mr. Cholornton, of Wigtown; and Rev. Mr. Wakeling, of Freeport. Two hymns were sung: "God of Our Fathers" and "O God Our Help in Ages Past". Rev. Mr. Wakeling read the scripture and offered prayer. Addresses were given by the visiting pastors, Rev. Mr. Derby, reading "In Flanders Fields". The congregation then retired to the monument and placed two wreaths in honour of the dead soldiers. The service closed with singing "The National Anthem".

Miss Edith Marshall returned to her home in Clarence on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Cole, of Milton, Queens County, were visiting friends here the first of the week.

Rev. T. W. and Mrs. Howard left on Monday for their new field at Andover, N. B.

Louise and Russel Bishop, of Lawrencetown, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chipman Potter after attending the Girls' Conference here.

The clam supper, which was held at the home of Mrs. Ira Dukeshire, was well attended and the sum of $22 was raised for church purposes.

Farewell Party to Rev and Mrs. Howard

A farewell party was given to Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Howard, at the parsonage, Thursday evening. About 90 friends were present of last week. After the singing of songs, etc., Mr. and Mrs. Howard were presented with a purse of money, by Mrs. Marshall Wheelhouse, who expressed in a few well chosen words, on behalf of the church, how much the community has appreciated their good work while in Clementsvalle.

It is interesting to note that the church was clear of debt and had a small surplus when Mr. Howard resigned.

The C. G. I. T. Conference

A Conference of the Canadian Girls in Training, was held at Clementsvalle from Friday to Sunday last, when girls from various groups gathered to have fellowship with one another. The Girls' Work secretary of the Maritimes, Miss Lawrence, was the leader of the Conference, and the first session was called Friday evening. Sessions were held Saturday morning and Saturday afternoon followed by a banquet the same evening, provided by the ladies and served by the older boys of Clementsvalle. The girls attended an Early Morning Watch on "Sunday morning and in the afternoon the closing service—a vesper hour—was held in the church. Everyone enjoyed the fellowship with one another and with those of Clementsvalle. About sixty girls

OBITUARY

Sylvester J. McBride

Sylvester J. McBride, 69, one of the best known active members of the International Typographical Union, died Nov. 2, at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, Mass. Funeral services were held with a 9 o'clock Requiem High Mass on Saturday, at St. Patrick's Church. Interment at Calvary Cemetery, Waltham, Mass., and was largely attended, the floral offerings being many and beautiful. Mr. McBride was born at Waltham, Mass., the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. McBride. He attended the public schools there and started his long career as a compositor on the Waltham newspapers. After a few years he transferred to the Boston Globe. He then went to the Boston American as one of the original force and worked there until his death. In 1897 he was married to Miss Margaret Falvey of Weymouth North, N. S., and shortly after, moved to Watertown, Mass., where he made his home. Mr. McBride was President of the Boston Typographical Union for six years and for almost a score of years was a delegate to the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor and the Boston Central Labor Union. He was a trustee of the Watertown Lodge of Elks, and an active member of the Royal Arcanum at Waltham. He was also a Past Grand Knight of Waltham Council K. of C., and a charter member of the St. Joseph Temperance Society of Waltham. Mr. McBride spent many summer vacations at Weymouth North, where he took an active interest in things pertaining to the community life. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret (Falvey) McBride; six children, Mrs. Joseph Spillane, West Newton; Mrs. Ernest Scanlon and Lawrence McBride, of Los Angeles; Eugene, of Watertown; Miss Ruth and Robert, who reside at home. Seven grandchildren; a brother, Charles, of Waltham; and two sisters, Mrs. Cecil M. Whelan, of Waltham, and Sister Hilda, of the Notre Dame Convent, Roxbury.

Joseph Morehouse

The death of Joseph Morehouse occurred at his home in Westport on Thursday of last week. He is survived by his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Garon; a step-mother, Mrs. Clara Morehouse; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Prime and Mrs. John Elliott, Freeport; a half sister, Mrs. Guy Thompson; and one brother, Judson, of Westport. He was a member of the Christian church and of Junia Lodge, I. O. O. F. The funeral was held from the Christian Church, on Sunday.

HECTANOOGA

Dennis and Emil Thibault returned last week from the valley, where they had been employed for several months.

Miss Aimé Comeau, teacher here, and Miss Pauline Boudreau, teacher at Briar Lake, spent Remembrance Day and the week-end with their respective families, at Comeauville and Grosses Coques.

Miss Certha Deveau, who has been employed for several months at Meteghan, is now home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent S. Deveau.

Miss Mary Connick, teacher at Lake George, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Connick.

Bernard Saulnier, of Meteghan River, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Vincent S. Deveau.

Labdou Doucet, of Saulnierville, arrived Saturday to spend the week-end with old-time friends.

About an hour after his arrival he was called home by the arrival of one of his sons, who had been away from home for a number of years.

Among the visitors here on Sunday were: Mrs. Francois Saulnier, of Maxville; Miss Helen Thibault, R. N., her sister, Miss Rosalie, her father, Leo Thibault, and her brothers, Ambrose, Larry and Leo, all of Mayflower.

Dennis Thibault was at Dayton on Monday to attend the funeral of his cousin, the late Adolph Deveau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Deveau, who died Sunday, after a long illness, at the age of 21.

C. L. Deveau, press correspondent, was at Beaver River and Port Maitland, Tuesday, on business.

A ripe wild strawberry was found in a field one day last week by Gerald Deveau.

FREEPORT

Miss Phyllis Crocker spent last week-end with her aunt, at Westport.

Mrs. Claude Hurley and Mrs. George Crocker visited relatives at Westport, on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. A. F. Haines was a passenger on the train to Digby, Nov. 17.

AN OLD DIGBY COUNTY VESSEL

A correspondent in the Gloucester, Mass., Times, writes:—"It was about this time some years ago, when the old schooner 'Princess' (I think that was the name) used to come here from Nova Scotia with a cargo of potatoes and turnips. She tied up at one of the local wharves and her cargo was soon disposed of to local residents who came to stock up with turnips and potatoes for winter. The vegetables were of fine quality and the prices reasonable, I recall customers year after year, am told. The skipper held his regular word was passed around that the 'Princess' had arrived he had start up. Modern transportation methods finally put this old vessel out of business. (The schooner princess referred to was a St. Mary's Bay vessel and was commanded by Capt. Ryan, of Marshalltown. He sailed that vessel during the whole of her career and never lost a man or met with a serious accident. Master and vessel grew old together and both were forced to retire. The vessel's ribs are still to be seen on the shores of St. Mary's Bay, and Capt. Ryan passed to his long home only a few years ago, at an advanced age.—News Editor Courier.)

GRIZZLY ATTACKS COUSIN OF AN ANNAPOLIS WOMAN

A short time ago two camera enthusiasts, H. Patterson, of Calgary and A. Nichols, of New York, journeyed towards the lower ice fields in the Rockies, in search of pictures of wild animals. After several weeks they decided to return home, having been successful in getting the pictures they wanted with the exception of a good one of a bear.

Shortly, Mr. Patterson noticed a bear in the distance and as they were not in the grizzly country, decided it was a black bear, and that they could take a good snap of it. Hence they climbed towards it and as the bear had not come out of a clump of trees they might be able to tree it and get a wonderful picture.

When almost there Mr. Patterson looked up and saw two large ears, which he said must have been a foot apart, he realized his mistake at once and yelled to Mr. Nichols to climb a tree and then started for one himself. The grizzly let out a roar, which he said sounded like a lion, and dashed after him. In his hurry he tripped and fell headlong, the bear, however, rushed past him and made for Mr. Nichols, who managed to dive under a windfall.

Not being able to swipe at him, the grizzly took a big bite out of his leg at the thigh and then went on his way. Mr. Patterson then took his friend to the place where they had left their horses and equipment and administered first aid, finding it necessary to pour boiling water and iodine in the wound. It seemed a brutal thing to do, he said, but the only thing that saved his life, as Mr. Nichols ran a temperature of 103 degrees to 104 degrees from infection, as it was. Fortunately they were near a highway and Mr. Nichols was rushed to a hospital.

Mr. Patterson does not know how they happen to be alive today, but both men are thankful that the grizzly decided to be satisfied with one bite.

A FORMER BLUENOSE ON THE MEXICO-TEXAS BORDER

While the Mexico-Texas border is in many ways most pleasant, we found the heat of the summer months very trying and began longing for the breezes of old Fundy and St. Mary's Bay, to say nothing of the Nova Scotia trout streams. As Nova Scotia seemed out of the question this year, a friend and I decided on an auto trip to the Pacific, choosing a cool route.

On the 5,000-mile trip, we had only one flat tire and that was miraculously discovered in front of a hole-in-the-wall gas station at Berthod Pass, on the Continental Divide.

Among other places, we stopped in order at Colorado Springs, Denver, Grand Lake, Salt Lake City, Reno, Yosemite Valley, San Francisco, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Bernardino, Las Vegas, Boulder Dam, Grand Canyon, Petrified Forest (Arizona), Albuquerque, Santa Fe and El Paso. In fact we did not miss much en route, from the gambling clubs of Reno to the Los Angeles temple of Alamea MacPherson. However, we would have been very glad to have missed Tlaxcala Pass through Yosemite National Park. We were charged $2.00 toll fees to go through it and I am quite sure no sum would induce me to go through it again.

It is supposed to be very beautiful but the driver is too busy watching the curves and precipices to note any scenery. Though it was past the middle of July the snow had been cleared only about ten days previously. On my return a gentleman was telling me that when he was there some time ago a placard at the entrance said: "Prepare to meet your God." The placard should never have been removed.

Mr. Willson's consular post is still at Piedras Negras, Coahuila, Mexico.

Slated for Cabinet

A photo of Robert H. Bernays, parliamentary secretary to the British minister of health, who is regarded as likely to win a cabinet post in the near future. Bernays leaped into national prominence recently when, in the absence of Premier Neville Chamberlain (fishing in Scotland), he crossed swords with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, warning the German dictator that Britain will not always retreat—that there is "a line from which no threats, however formidable, will cause her to retreat." Bernays issued his warning to Hitler during a speech to a Liberal National Party Council in Scotland.

SCOWS ARE LOST

Two tugs, Mary Cann, and Joseph E. White, trailing three scows and bound from Parrsboro to Bear River to load pulpwood, put in at Margaretsville, for shelter, but after setting out again Tuesday, lost the scows and continued on their journey. The three scows went ashore and smashed. Claire Boston, engineer on the Mary Cann, occupied the same position on the ill-fated Ruby L. H. Captain Charlie Baker, of Margaretsville, which was wrecked January 1930, while on a voyage from Saint John to Bridgetown.

The Anglican Young People's Association

At the regular meeting of the A. Y. P. A. on Thursday evening of last week it was decided that the society should co-operate with the Ladies Aid of the St. General Hospital in their drive for funds. It was decided to hold an entertainment in the Parish Hall in the near future, proceeds to be divided between the A. Y. P. A. and the Hospital.

After the business meeting a very enjoyable social evening was held. A number of games were played and refreshments were served. The "Blues" won the points for the evening, both in attendance and in competitive work.

The membership of the A. Y. P. A. is rapidly growing and has nearly doubled that of last year. Great interest is being shown in the work and everything points to a very successful year for the A. Y. P. A.

When I reached Winnipeg I was good and dirty from my ride on the tender of the engine. I went to the rooming house and had a bath and changed my clothes—always wore an overall suit when on the road—and went to look up a restaurant where I could buy my breakfast. Just as I was entering one a gentleman came along and looked at me very closely and said: "Would your name be Longworth?" Wondering just who he was and what he wanted, I answered, "Yes, that is my name." We talked for a few minutes and I found he was a man from Brandon who had just come into the city and happened to meet me. He had known my dad twenty-five years ago, out there in Brandon! Some coincidence! After having eaten I looked up some family friends and spent a very happy week end with them at their summer home about fifty miles from Winnipeg on a lake shore. It was the end of May and the weather was like summer. Winnipeg is a beautiful city, but like every other was full of unemployed, so I did not stay long. The day I was leaving I was hurrying through the station to the ticket office when my feet suddenly shot skyward and I came down on my back on the hard floor. Luckily my pack sack caught my head and saved an awful bump. Two policemen and a guard rushed to pick me up. They said my body seemed to go about six feet into the air and they thought I must be hurt. No harm had come to me so I went along, got my ticket to Portage La Prairie and having a nice box of lunch my friends had given me I left Winnipeg quite like a respectable citizen.

Portage La Prairie is quite a railway centre—has grain elevators and coal chutes. I stayed around here a few days and on June 5th left by highway and was lucky enough to have a long drive and made Brandon that night. It is quite a large city. This also is a railway centre—has flour mills and several breweries. I made no stay here but walked seven miles o Kenna that night. This is just a small place with only one elevator. Starting out next morning on the highway a man gave me a life and asked how far I was going. When I told him I was heading for Edmonton, Alberta, he said, "Well, I'm going to Regina and will take you that far." That was a big streak of good fortune. As we passed through Broadview, which is a railroad divisional centre I noticed the Mounties were "wiping off trains," that is, removing all none paying passengers, so decided from then on to leave trains strictly alone and stick to the highway. (My personal observation showed me that it was a wise thing to do—at least from Ontario west it was a good plan.) I stayed with the man who had kindly given me the ride and made Regina that afternoon. We drove over roads mostly unpaved all through these sections, but pretty good roads at that. Regina has old refining and flour mills. The country through Saskatchewan is so flat and covered with immense grain fields! To me, an Easterner, the crops looked mighty good. From Regina I went on foot to Moose Jaw, leaving No. 1 highway I travelled along No. 2 and made Tuxford that night. This is an elevator town. I was still selling shoe strings and had begun changing tires for motorists who were dressed up and did not want to get in such a mess. This helped a lot. Finding it paid me I bought a patching outfit so was prepared for emergencies. When I changed a tire I got 25 cents (One generous soul gave me a dollar!). If I mended the tire, using their equipment, I received 50 cents; if I used my equipment and material it netted me 75 cents. This paid me better than selling shoe strings but I kept at both so did quite well. Walking on through this section I came to Hanley and then into Saskatoon. This is quite a large city—a wheat centre.

Through the province of Saskatchewan there is much unemployment and outsiders are asked not to take work. I kept along through Radisson, Maymont, N. Battleford and Battleford, Highgate and Delmas into Marshall, when I rested. Next day went on to Lloydminster. Found here I had one foot in Saskatchewan and the other in Alberta! The taxes in the province of Alberta are less than in Saskatchewan and the stores are so arranged as to take good advantage of these provincial taxes. Stores are mostly on the Alberta side! From Lloydminster I went on to Vegreville—a large town, a grain and cattle centre.

All through Saskatchewan and thus far into Alberta, all the people were kind. Not so all the dogs. As I started into the driveway of a home to ask for a meal in exchange for work, a big German police dog met me. He objected to me coming in so I retired to the highway. He came too; more than that, he grasped me firmly by the seat of my overalls and refused to let go. Not wanting to lose a pretty good pair of overalls, and the dog's teeth not having gone through into my trousers, I removed the overalls and got them away from the dog and moved along—thankful I had my "hide". The next place I visited was Bruderham and then on to Edmonton, arriving there June 13th. Passing along a street a young fellow spoke to me and asked my name. When I told him he said: "Come on, we're expecting you!" It was my cousin, Ernest Brooks, son of Harold Brooks, who went there from Weymouth. They were all glad to see me and wanted me to stay for a visit with them, which I did.

OBITUARY
F. B. Witherbee
With the passing of Frank Bernard Witherbee the little colony of Harbor View at Smith's Cove has lost one of its earliest residents and a member who was most interested and active in its development. Thirty-four years ago Mr. Witherbee and his family rented a cabin there and the following winter he built one. Since then the family has spent every summer there with the exception of one when they were in Europe and last summer when he was too ill to cross the continent. He was a lover of out-of-door sports—tennis, golf and bowling on the green—and was a member of the Digby Golf Club on whose links he played almost daily. He was a member of little St. Anne's church of which he was treasurer for some years and a close friend of the late Archbishop Richardson. After a protracted illness he died last Friday in San Diego, California. He leaves a widow and a daughter, Mrs. Herman Kobbe.

Cyril Merkle
Word has been received here of the death of Cyril Merkle, which occurred at Seattle, Wash., on Saturday. The late Mr. Merkle was 63 years of age and was a son of the late Rev. A. D. Merkle. Surviving are his stepmother, Mrs. Margaret Merkle, Digby; three step brothers, James, post master of Digby; Andrew, of Halifax; and Gerald; also one sister, Grace.

MARRIAGES

Griffen - Outhouse
A quiet wedding, of interest to many friends, took place on Saturday, Nov. 12, 3 o'clock, at St. Andrew's Church, Saint John, when the pastor, Rev. Ward McLean, united in marriage Dorothy Mildred, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Danford Outhouse, of Digby, to Wilfred Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Griffen, of 301 Rockland Road, Saint John. The bride was attended by Miss Lillian Wilson, R. N., friend of the bride; supporting the groom was his brother, Ernest E. Griffen. The bride was becomingly attired in navy blue French sheer with all-over embroidery of dusky pink with navy accessories, wearing a corsage of butterfly roses. Miss Wilson wore a dress of rose-wine triple sheer with navy accessories, wearing a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. Incidental music was played during the ceremony by the organist of the church, Dr. Harry Dunlop. After the ceremony the happy couple left immediately for a motor trip through the Province of

Potter - Rand

A wedding was solemnized at Hantsport, on Monday evening, Nov. 14, when Miss Ruberta Rand, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Norris Rand, of Weymouth North, became the bride of Everett Keith Potter, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Potter, of Plympton. The bride was becomingly gowned in navy blue with accessories to match. Witnesses were: Margaret Rand, sister of the bride, and Jessie Potter, sister of the groom. Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. S. K. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Potter are spending a few days in Halifax, after which they will motor through the province. Both are well-known and are followed by the best wishes of their many friends. They will reside in Plympton.

Saves a Quarter Cup of Flour on Every Cake!

In Moncton, N.B., Miss Martha Poole is very well known as a cook of extraordinary ability. Her friends and acquaintances never miss an opportunity to enjoy her baking and they are loud in their praise of her skill. Like many other clever cooks, Miss Poole follows one rigid rule: she will use nothing but the finest ingredients and places great importance on flour. She says, "I use Robin Hood Flour for everything." No flour is finer or smoother for cakes and pastry and due to its lively quality it makes excellent bread. Miss Poole has another practical reason for always using Robin Hood. She declares, "It saves me at least one quarter of a cup of flour on every cake."

Miss Martha Poole of Moncton, N.B.

So besides having superior quality, Robin Hood Flour is also dependable and economical. Isn't that just what you want in flour? Why not give Robin Hood a trial? Why not bake bread, cakes, pies and pastry with the same satisfaction that Miss Poole does? Have your family and friends praise you! One of the many reasons why you will like Robin Hood Flour is its absolute freedom from contamination with dirt or dust. The wheat from which it is milled is all water-washed! Let us send you our new recipe book, "Baking Made Easy". Mail nine cents in stamps to Robin Hood Flour Mills Limited, Moncton, N.B.

ALL 5 AWARDS FOR WHITE BREAD AT CANADIAN NATIONAL EXHIBITION GO TO ROBIN HOOD USERS

The Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, is the largest of its kind in the world. At the baking contest this year many of Canada's finest home bakers competed, and naturally many different brands of flour were used. But, when the judges announced their decisions it was found that users of Robin Hood Flour had won all five awards for White Bread. This sweeping victory for Robin Hood flour is just one more proof that the flour milled from washed wheat has no equal for producing home-made bread of the finest quality. Why not make a batch of bread with Robin Hood and let it demonstrate its superiority to you?

thing new to you in your market, try it! There will be a taste treat in store.

Here is a recipe for our famed Canada cod which will make dinner an event. Use fresh cod steaks, frozen fillets or the salt cod (well freshened, of course).

Canada Cod a La Boulangere
1 lb. Canada cod, salt. (if fresh cod is used); pepper; 2 cups potato balls or diced potatoes; 4 tablespoons butter; 1 teaspoon chopped parsley; 2 tablespoons bread crumbs.

Put the cod in a greased fire-proof baking dish, season and surround with potato balls or diced potatoes. Put 2 tablespoons butter on top of fish and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) for thirty minutes, basting well with butter, adding more as necessary. Combine parsley with bread crumbs, sprinkle over fish, return to oven and cook for two or three minutes more until the bread crumbs are browned.

Now for a haddock recipe with a subtle kipper flavour:
Canadian Haddock en Creme
1 1/2 lbs. Canadian haddock fillet or chicken haddock; 1 teaspoon salt; 3 tablespoons butter; 1 1/2 tablespoons minced parsley; 6 tablespoons flour; 1/4 teaspoon pepper; 6 kipper snacks; 3/4 teaspoon grated onion; 3/4 cup top milk.

Cut haddock in pieces for serving and roll in mixture of flour, salt and pepper. Melt butter, add kipper snacks and cook slowly for 20 minutes; then add haddock and brown lightly. Place in greased casserole, add parsley, onion and milk; bake, covered, in a moderate oven (375 degrees F) for 25 to 35 minutes. This will serve six.

well as the platform, lighted at all times when necessary so that pedestrians could use the walk provided with perfect safety. In reply to a question some time ago a town official said "there was nothing to that effect in the deed". If that is the case someone slipped. The railway, for their own sake, should see that this is done before a real injury occurs.

We look into the mirror and there see reflected our features, dress and other details of what we appear to be and are. But what we really are is reflected in other mirrors—the company we keep, the books we read, the amusements we seek, the manner in which we spend our time. Indeed, what we really are is reflected in our attitude toward the vital question of the hour, our interest in the material, moral and spiritual welfare of the other fellow. These reflections should be studied more than that which the mirror discloses, and will be by every one who wants to be a good citizen.

Speaking of the German chancellor, a Stock Exchange story is being told, and like all fairy tales, has a moral. Here it is: "Dr. Schacht, president of Germany's Reichsbank, went over to London to try and raise a $200,000,000 loan. He saw Montague Norman, Governor of the Bank of England. "But what security can you offer?" Norman asked. "Our mineral wealth below the ground, our Fuehrer above our land," was the reply. "Well," said Norman, "I might consider it . . . if the securities were reversed."

Big, medium-sized and small cities and towns all have their own special brand of punishment for speeders, with more or less success. But a letter from a little town in the Ozarks, in the United States, tells us that there they are no longer troubled with speeding motorists, although formerly it wasn't safe for a pedestrian to cross the main street, which is a part of a highway. Fines and the like did but little good—the speeders merely paid the fine and speeded on to another town. Who was the originator of the idea we do not know, but now, instead of hauling the offender before a court, the police and highway officers merely stop the speeder wherever they meet him and let the air out of his tires. If in the city he is not allowed to get to a filling station to re-inflate them. It's odd that none of us before, have thought of so simple a method of punishment. After a driver sweats in the hot sun pumping up four tires he is likely to think twice before exceeding the speed limit or running through a stop sign.

It is written that man shall live by the sweat of his brow. This is the law of nature and a law of God. It means that man shall invest his effort, his energy, his will and intelligence, and that only from that investment is he able to derive wealth and happiness. And nowhere in the Bible does it say you shall stop doing these things at the age of 50, or 60, or 65. Lazy living off your neighbor is not possible, even if you are indolent enough to desire it. Parasitism breeds its kind. It spreads and entrenches itself, paralyzes and vitiates everything in its path. Work is the only way to competence and happiness. Government can help, of course, to establish and maintain general prosperity. Government should encourage industry, to provide work and to consume the raw materials of the farm and mines. To encourage industry and employment, taxes must be reduced, not increased. Premiums should be placed on activity, not sloth. On creative effort, not on ignominious taking of alms. The old human virtues and especially the Canadian virtues of labor and thrift, bring prosperity to the individual and to the nation. No individual and no nation ever prospered otherwise.

A real old-timer is one who remembers when "billion" was nearly always regarded as a misprint for a thin soup.

PLYMPTON

The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute, of Plympton, was held on Wednesday of last week. The main feature of the evening was a report of the delegates from the Bridgetown convention. Two delegates were appointed to go to the Institute School at Smith's Cove, on November 22. They were Mrs. Roy Mallett and Mrs. W. J. Blinn. Miss Viola Melanson was selected to go to the Vocational Training School in Port Maitland, from Nov. 30 to Dec. 9.

The Catholic Women's League held a card party and pie sale at the home of Joseph Melanson, on Thursday night of last week. The sum of $18.60 was realized. At the close of the evening a wool comforter was presented to Rev. Luc Gaudet, for the Glebe. The material was purchased by the League and the work very beautifully done by a member—Mrs. William Parker, of Gilbert's Cove.

Carol Walsh, of Reading, Mass.; Augustus Wilson, Everett, Mass.; and Patricia Monahan and Enos Kellan, of New Brunswick, who have been visiting Mrs. Marguerite O'Neill, left for their respective homes on Friday.

Friends and relatives in Plympton and Gilbert's Cove were saddened by the news of the death in Brighton, Mass., of Charles Oliver.

Work on the new Roman Catholic Church is progressing rapidly, with plans to hold the first High Mass on Sunday, December 4th, in the basement.

Three of the local girls, Viola Melanson, Cecilia Amero and Catherine Amero, are studying the Grade XI work through correspondence.

St. Mary's Cottage is closed for the winter, Miss Clara McGivern having gone to Saint John, and Mrs. Charles Knowlton and daughter, "Betty", have taken a residence in Digby for the winter.

Friends are pleased to learn that Captain John Smith is recovering from his recent illness.

RIVERDALE

Mrs. Alex. Wagner and Mrs. George Burkyone visited the former's mother, Mrs. Hartshorn Mullen, at Easton, one day last week. Mrs. Mullen left recently for New Brunswick where she will spend the winter with her son.

Miss Mildred Cosman, of Brockton, Mass., has returned after spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cosman.

The Misses Clara and Marion Mullen, of Easton, spent a day here recently with Mr. and Mrs. Seby McCullough.

Ernest Green, Liverpool, spent his vacation here with his sister, Mrs. Isaac Wagner.

Robert and Ralph McCullough spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seby McCullough.

First message through chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. This relieves the distress.

Then, take its long-continued poultice-and-vapor action last even longer. Spread a thin layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warm cloth. This gives the chest extra protection against chilling.

Long after the sleep comes, VapoRub keeps on working—breaks up phlegm—eases muscular soreness or tightness—clears air passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion.

Nominated as Outstanding Athletes

The Lou Marsh Memorial trophy, awarded each year to the athlete deemed outstanding in Canada, already has four nominations in for the 1938 award, representing rowing, rugby, track and boxing. Ormond Beach, (top left), Sarnia's mighty grider, who met death in an oil explosion this fall, is one of the nominations. Another is Bob Pearce, (lower left), world's champion professional sculler, who successfully defended his crown this year against the challenge of Evans Paddon, of Australia. Pierce originally hailed from Australia himself. Joe Gagnon, Montreal's outstanding amateur boxer, (right), is a third, and Eric Coy, Winnipeg's track star, a fourth nomination. The latter two are also in line for the Norton Crowe trophy, presented to the outstanding amateur athlete of the year by the Amateur Athletic Union. The Lou Marsh trophy embraces both amateurs and pros.

N. S. Farm Notes

Nova Scotia Teams at Royal Winter Fair

Nova Scotia junior farm club teams won a third, a fourth, and two sixth places in the national judging contests conducted for junior farm teams at the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, very recently. Highest place for Nova Scotia was in the poultry judging, in which Messrs. McLellan and Cox, of the Noel poultry club, won third place, with Manitoba first and Saskatchewan second. New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island were fourth and fifth respectively. Fourth place was taken by Nova Scotia in the potato judging contest. Messrs. Murray Fulton and Clyde Rogers of the Port Ellis potato team, being the contestants. First place in this contest was won by British Columbia, second by Ontario, and third by Quebec. In both swine and dairy calf club projects, Nova Scotia teams took sixth place, the swine club team being Gladys Beaton and Edith Black from the Lorneville swine club, and the dairy calf team being Weldon Cairns and Lorimer Thompson, from Oxford. In the latter contest, Prince Edward Island was seventh and in the former New Brunswick was seventh. All the markings were fairly close.

Short Courses for Rural Districts

The first agricultural short course held this year, other than at the agricultural college, was at Wentworth, Nov. 14-18. This course emphasized poultry, including turkeys; livestock, including diseases; farm crops; soils and fertilizers; and farm management. A short course will be held at Baddeck, Nov. 29 to Dec. 16. This course will include, besides the usual farm topics, some work on milk raising, cobbling, and forest conservation. It is expected that a short course will be held at Oxford the first week in December. Scotsburn is another point at which a two-day short course will be held about the same time. These courses are being conducted through the co-operation of the Dominion Department of Labor and the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, as a part of the youth training movement—with the exception of the one at Scotsburn.

Calf Clubs Complete Work

Forty-one calf clubs have completed their work for 1938, have held shows and turned in reports. There were 573 members showing this year as compared with 560 last year and 530 two years ago. This year 440 showed calves—275 yearlings, 212 two-year-olds, and 110 in the mature cow class. This latter class is the one which there was the greatest improvement as compared with other years, indicating more animals being carried into production by club members; also the continuing of the clubs over a longer period of time.

The Pines' Assessment

To the Editor of the Courier.
Sir:—In your issue of last week I read a news item in which it was stated that the matter of the Pines Hotel assessment would soon come before the ratepayers of the town. In my humble opinion, Mr. Editor, there is only one just and right decision that the ratepayers of the town can come to in this matter. That is, to assess the Pines Hotel at a sum based on the value of the property. If the Pines is to receive a greatly reduced assessment from er weather the demand for these has definitely increased. Threshing reports have been variable—generally poor in the western part to good in the central and eastern parts of the province on early seeded grain.

Possibly never in recent years has there been a larger amount of fall plowing done as this year. Not only have weather conditions been favorable, but also increased stress is being placed on crop production. The various plowing matches, both county and provincial, have been a factor in furthering attention to early plowing, as well as to good plowing.

Horses Show Increase

Livestock census for 1938 has revealed that Nova Scotia is one of the provinces in which there has been an increase in the horse population over 1937. Only two provinces of Canada showed decreases, these being in the West. Nova Scotia's horse population for 1938, as in June 1, was 42,540 compared with 42,470 in 1937. The difference in the total population is not very great but there was a considerable increase in the number of colts and fillies—4,350 in 1937 and 5,160 in 1938—which was offset by some decrease in the horses two years of age and over. There has been an encouraging tendency in the province to increased interest in the raising of horses, stimulated further by the policy announced this spring by the Provincial Department of Agriculture of financial assistance to farmers and horse breeders in the purchase of high grade stallions. Under this policy, several fine stallions have been bought in different sections of the province.

Apple Shipments

Apple shipments for the week ending November 16, were heavy, 51,657 barrels going out from Halifax and 46,538 barrels from Port Williams. This makes the grand total of apples exported to date from Nova Scotia 972,101 barrels, of which 630,391 have gone from Halifax and 341,711 from Port Williams. The total at the same date last year was

About This and That

Two other democracies, Great Britain and the United States, are this year setting further examples of international collaboration in their agreement on the joint use of Canton and Enderbury Islands in the Pacific, leaving the dispute over ownership to work itself out. Again, recent reports on the pending Anglo-American Trade Treaty point to success. Such are the ways of the democracies which we can only preserve by co-operating and planning together in peaceful harmony. The community of interest between the nations of the world and particularly between Canada and the United States is a highly practical affair. The latter live at peace not only because of their common ideals but because it is good business to do so.—Canadian Business.

Slippery roads are not necessarily the most dangerous winter hazard faced by motorists, engineers point out in cautioning motorists against carbon monoxide poisoning. Tasteless, colorless and odorless, this gas is decidedly dangerous if present in a greater concentration than four parts in 1000 parts of air. Yearly needless deaths occur when careless motorists run cars with tightly closed windows or in closed garages. Other deaths may be attributed to this poison. Winter accidents are often caused by a lack of alertness among drivers of tightly closed cars who are affected by a concentration of carbon-monoxide gas.

There is snow on the hills, a chill in the air, and if it's early enough in the morning, a glaze on the sidewalks. Prosperity may not be "just around the corner," but old man Winter is.

Admiral Sir Reginald Aylmer Ranfurly Plunkett-Ernlle-Erie-Drax, who visited Halifax, Quebec and Montreal several times in recent years while Commander-in-Chief of the West Indies Station, has certainly the longest name, if not the longest service, in the Navy. He went to sea 42 years ago, fought in the three greatest set engagements of the war, and is still on the active list. The hyphenated names of some of the senior British naval officers led to several amusing incidents with American naval officers during the war.

Local and Personal

Christmas Seals have been distributed this week.

Mrs. L. H. Morse spent the week (and in Montreal with her son, Eric.

Mrs. Frank Roop and Miss Edith Mullen spent the week end in Halifax.

Miss Elizabeth MacGregor is visiting relatives in the United States for a few weeks.

Mrs. Buren Taylor has returned to Yarmouth after spending a few days with her sister, Miss Blanche Morison, at the Adams Cottage.

Coming—Hospital Benefit "Radio Review"—under direction of Victor Cardozo—Trinity Hall—Tuesday, December 6th.

Mrs. Hugh Morehouse and Mrs. R. W. Sypher, of Sandy Cove, are spending a few days in Yarmouth.

Don't miss the play, "Christmas at Deep Coulee", Community Hall, December 8th, under auspices of the High School Athletic Societies.

A short time ago the Martin-Sencour Paint Company offered prizes for the best window display in Eastern Canada. It is interesting to note that B. H. Ruggles, of Digby, won the third prize—a great honor considering the competition from the big towns and cities. Gordon Ellis did the decorating.

P. R. Saunders, O.D., Optometrist at WESTPORT, Nov. 29, and FREEPORT, Nov. 30; at DIGBY, first week of December. Modern equipment; Latest methods. Eyes Tested; Glasses Fitted.

Some time Saturday night the Royal Store was entered and a small quantity of change, left in the cash registers, was taken. Entrance was effected through a back window. An attempt was also made over the week end to enter the Co-Operative Store. The front door was forced open over an inch but a fastening on the inside prevented it being opened further.

"UP TO THE MINUTE" Some of the Snappiest, Newest-Looking Hats around town are shown—at $1.75 to $5.00—at the Little Hat Shoppe, around the corner.—Gertrude Oliver.

Few days only—until November 30—for 10% discount on Christmas Portraits at the Yates Studio. As a gift your photograph is a compliment to your friends. Your family would be delighted. (Haven't you promised them?) Make appointment for day or night sittings as late as December 20, for Christmas delivery, but better come early.

LIFETIME ALUMINUM AND PYREX FOR CHRISTMAS

When you make a present from either or both of these lines you are sure to please and their attractiveness will make you fully satisfied as a giver. LIFETIME ALUMINUM, with its beautiful finish and in special pieces—green handles—is a useful ornament to any kitchen.

PYREX GLASS OVEN WARE needs but little description and now that it has been reduced in price ONE-THIRD your Christmas budget will spread considerably further. For example, a Pie Plate that sold for 75 cents is now only 40 cents; Genuine Pyrex Measuring Cups that sold for 40 cents, now only 25 cents; and so on through the whole list.

Put Lifetime Aluminum Ware and Pyrex down on your Christmas shopping list.

CALENDARS

We will have for free distribution from Dec. 17 to 24 a very attractive Calendar. These will only be given to those who register for them. If you would like one of these Calendars please phone, write or call and have one put aside for you. None will be mailed and please do not send the children for them. They will only be delivered to adults.

Digby County Power Board

DIGBY

Mrs. E. D. Morehouse, of Sandy Cove, was a visitor in town this week.

The motor vessel South Wind, is now in command of Capt. Ben. d'Eon, of West Pubnico. The vessel, which has been on the slip in Yarmouth for a few weeks, pending government inspection, is now ready for sea. Capt. d'Eon is well known in Digby as the owner-skipper of the schooner Philip J., which has been engaged in scalloping out of this port for some years.

The American four-masted schooner, Margaret F. Sterling, owned by Captain A. F. Haines, of Seattle, (formerly of Freeport, Digby County), has been acquired by the Pan-American Airways for use as a station ship off Kingman Reef, 1100 miles southeast of Honolulu, one of the stops in its California-New Zealand air route. The vessel was built at Victoria, B. C., in 1919.

It is reported the three master schooner Ronald C. Longmire, well known in Digby, and now at Meteghan, has been sold to southern parties, subject to delivery at Jamaica. Capt. L. F. Barkhouse, of Westport, managing owner of the vessel, it is understood will make the passage to the southern port in the vessel. The Ronald C. Longmire just finished the discharge of a lumber cargo at Boston, loaded at Weymouth, and is now under repairs and inspection at Meteghan.

On Saturday afternoon last at a special meeting of the Town Council and Council of the Board of Trade, was held in the Council chamber, a special resolution was passed condemning the German atrocities against the Jews, and requesting the Canadian Government to let down the immigration bars sufficient to allow a number of the German and Jewish refugees to enter Canada. The resolution was telegraphed to Premier King.

CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY

Home Division, No. 169, Sons of Temperance, Smith's Cove, celebrated its 78th anniversary on Wednesday evening. It was not a public event but an extra number of Division members were present to make a very interesting meeting. An enjoyable programme was rendered, which included an historical sketch by Mrs. W. B. Snow. During the evening it was announced that one of the oldest members of the Division—Mrs. John Smith—was also observing her anniversary, and Clayton Woodman, on behalf of those present, presented her with a birthday cake which was afterwards cut and passed around. Next Wednesday evening the Division is to entertain the Band of Hope.

BADMINTON

The officers of the Digby Badminton Club for the season are: President—Dr. G. V. Turnbull. First Vice-President—Frank K. Hayden.

Second Vice-President—Mrs. David Daley. Secretary-Treasurer—Bryson M. Denton.

Tournament Committee—Helen Boyle, Fred MacIntosh. Entertainment Committee—Dorothy Hinman, Jean Anderson.

SHOWER TENDERED

Mrs. Jack Ketch and Miss Florence Keen were joint hostesses on Thursday evening of last week at a post-nuptial shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mason, (nee Dorothy Dunn) whose marriage took place on Oct. 29. The gift table was tastefully arranged and many lovely gifts received. The evening was spent in games and later, refreshments served.

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE ROYAL STORE

Today the Royal Department Store opens its new Basement Groceries. Although basement departments are common in city stores this is the first basement to be used for merchandising in Digby. It is large, airy and comfortable and is reached by a wide easy flight of stairs back of the candy department. Three sides are lined with shelves containing goods, all distinctly marked with the price. The centre is occupied by a "horseshoe" counter at which the customers' selections are paid for and wrapped. The removal of the groceries from the first floor will give the store considerably more room for the proper display of other merchandise, and will relieve much of the congestion experienced on busy days and nights. For the Christmas season much of it will be devoted to toys and fancy goods.

THE BOXING BOUTS

In the main bout of a boxing card, presented at the Community Hall, Wednesday night, to a fair gathering of fans, John Smith, of Ashmore, lost the decision to Thurston Banks, that tough young welterweight, of Digby, by a knockout in one minute of the fourth round. It was a hard fight all the way with Smith being knocked down for varying counts four times during the four rounds the fight progressed. Banks, 150; Smith, 149.

The semi-final, in which Claude Thompson, Digby, fought it out with Mel. Barr, Weymouth, was won by Barr. The fight, fast and furious all through, was notable chiefly for the amount of gore flowing, and Thompson being knocked down in the fourth round and saved by the bell.

Other bouts resulted as follows: Paul Morehouse vs. Dutch Amero, won by the latter by a technical KO in the third round; "Pisikin" Melanson, Marshtown, vs. Bernie Teabo, Digby, won by Melanson on decision; 138-lb. Pat Robicheau KO'd 142-lb. Arthur Thomas, Digby, in the second round, while the junior bout was won by "Pops" Saulnier, 79 lbs., who defeated 98-lb. Young Everett.

Engagement Announced

OBITUARY

Mrs. Watson M. Holmes

The death occurred at Centerville on Tuesday evening, of Armina Adelaide, wife of Watson Holmes. She was 74 years of age and remarked while eating her supper how well she was; but at 1:00 o'clock she suffered a shock form which she did not regain consciousness and passed away before midnight. The deceased was a daughter of the late William and Mary Wagner, of Sissiboo Falls, and resided in Centerville all her married life. Besides the aged husband, there survive three children, Thelma, (Mrs. Frank H. Lingham), Boston; Mildred (Mrs. Albert J. Peters), of Centerville, and Hiram, at home; three sisters, Mrs. Annie Sample and Mrs. Dora Goodell, of Brockton, Mass.; Mrs. Cornelia Graham, of Alberta; and two brothers, Hamilton, of Sissiboo Falls, and Dexter, of Alberta.

Amaret Cropley Hawkesworth

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Amaret Cropley Hawkesworth were conducted at the Digby Baptist Church Tuesday morning, with the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bishop, former pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. A. G. Robertson, pastor, officiating. The late Mrs. Hawkesworth, who was 86 years of age, and who, for the past eight years, has been making her home with her daughter, Mrs. G. H. Peters, and Judge Peters, passed away on Monday. She was born at Hanley Mountain, Annapolis County, and married the late W. B. Hawkesworth, of Digby, who at one time was a shoe manufacturer here. Later, they moved to the United States, where Mrs. Hawkesworth resided for 50 years. Surviving her are her daughters, Mrs. George H. Peters, Digby; Mrs. H. S. Goodwin, Marblehead, Mass.; and Mrs. W. L. Cropley, Summit, N. J.; one daughter, Lena Hawkesworth, predeceased her. The remains were taken to Marblehead, Mass., for interment.

Daniel E. MacKay

Word has been received in Acaciaville of the recent passing at his home in Malden, Mass., of Daniel E. MacKay. The deceased was born in Baddeck, C. B., over 90 years ago and was for a number of years Principal of the Academy in that town, after which he went to the United States, locating in East Boston and accepting a position in Boston Elevated Railway Co., from which he was retired ten years ago. He has resided in Malden for the past 17 years, where he was highly respected by a large circle of friends. In religion Mr. MacKay was a Presbyterian and a valued member of the East Boston Presbyterian Church. Left to mourn are three sons, Duncan, Martin L., and Wallace MacKay, all of Massachusetts; and four daughters, Mrs. Fred Benson, Maplewood; Mrs. William Gunderson, Everett; Mrs. Lena G. MacKay, of Acaciaville, N. S.; Miss Henrietta MacKay, at home; also one sister, Mrs. Kate Morrison, of St. Ann's, C. B., the last surviving member of a family of 14. The widow, who was Miss Lavinia Selton, of England, is left to mourn the loss of a companion of 64 years of happy wedded life.

Charles W. Oliver

Charles W. Oliver, of Brighton, Mass., died on Tuesday, November 8th, at his home in that city. He was born in Gilbert's Cove, 45 years ago, a son of Capt. and Mrs. Joseph Oliver, who for many years conducted a store and boarding house in Weymouth. He had been a resident of Brighton for some years and was a member of the Holy Name Society of Our Lady of the Presentation church. Besides his widow, formerly Margaret Ross, he leaves to mourn his parents five children, Marie, Florence, Francis, Ella Blanche and Sara Louise; two brothers, William and Cutler, and two sisters, Mrs. Marguerite Grant and Mrs. Bernadette Melanson, the latter in Youngstown, Ohio. The funeral took place on the 11th and was followed by a Requiem High Mass by Rev. Daniel J. Donovan. The pallbearers were Frank Oliver, Arnold Pearson, Donald MacDonald, John Collins, Wallace Maclean and Carl Regent. Interment was in St. Joseph's cemetery, West Roxbury. There were many beautiful floral tributes and numerous spiritual bouquets.

YOUNG PEOPLE DISCUSS COMMUNISM

The weekly meeting of the Young People's Society of Grace United Church, was held in the church hall on Tuesday evening. Dr. T. L. Rogers, Convenor of Christian Citizenship, had charge of the evening. His discussion, "Christianity and Communism" was divided into three themes. Phyllis Dickie, giving some different "isms" of the world, and comparing them. Hugh Dickie giving the origin of Communism, and Dr. Rogers giving an outline of the workings of Communism. He showed the group, by reading and comparisons that Communism is not wanted in Canada, as Canada is a new country, and it would mean its ruin. The evening closed with recreation in various forms.

SCOUT REPORT

At the meeting of Friday, the 4th, preparations were made by the Scout and Cub Masters for the bean supper held last week. The supper was given as a reward for the Scouts and Cubs selling over $55.00 worth of apples on Apple Day. Each Scout or Cub donated either beans or pie, and was allowed to invite a friend.

The supper opened at 6:30 in the United Church Hall. The Cub Master, Assistant Scout Master, Miss Warrington, the Patrol Leaders, Seconds and Sixers served. As invited guests they had the presence of Mr. Walker, Capt. Lewis, Dr. Rogers, Rev. Dr. Hodgson, Mr. Sallows and Mayor Denton. The supper consisted of beans, bread, apple pie and ice cream and cake. There were about eighty boys present and the supper ended at about 8 o'clock.

O. F. WOODMAN WILL RE-BUILD

Fire, on Friday last, destroyed the general store of O. F. Woodman, at Joggin Bridge. The flames broke out on the second floor, about 11:30 o'clock and were well advanced before being seen first by a lady who lived across the road, although several people were in the store at the time. Willing helpers were able to move considerable of the stock from the ground floor before the fire drove them out. Nothing could be done to save the building and it was totally destroyed. The total insurance carried was $1,500—$700 on the building and $800 on the stock.

Yesterday morning work was to have commenced—and possibly did, (although it was a "dirty" day)—on a modern new store which will be built by J. H. Hicks & Sons, of Bridgetown. It will be erected a little to the east of the site of the old one, thus improving the visibility on the curve in the highway at that point, which was always a bad one. In the new building the fire risk will be reduced to a minimum; the outside will be covered with a fireproof asbestos shingle and the inside walls will be of fireproof wall board.

MARRIAGES

A quiet wedding was celebrated at St. Vincent de Paul Church, Salmon River, on Wednesday morning of last week, when Gustave Deveau, son of August C. Deveau, and Rose Pothier Deveau, was united in marriage to Miss Viola Deveau, daughter of the late Jerry L. Deveau, and Viola Sollows Deveau, now Mrs. Jos. P. Deveau, both of Salmon River. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Maillet, rector, who also celebrated nuptial high mass. The bride was attired in blue with accessories to match. She was attended by Miss Antoinette Deveau, and the groom was supported by his brother, Paulin Deveau. After the ceremonies the bridal party motored to the home of the bride's mother, where a wedding breakfast was served to immediate relatives and friends. They then motored to Yarmouth. On their return supper was served at the home of the groom's father. They then returned to the groom's own home, where they will in future reside. They received a large number of gifts.

Mrs. A. F. Haché, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Saulnier, of the Royal Hotel, and Mrs. James Geddy, of Meteghan Station, were on a business trip to Yarmouth on Thursday, and while there visited Mrs. Royden Allen, a sister of Mrs. Geddy.

USE BOTH HANDS TO WRITE

Letter From a Man of 90

He asks us to excuse his writing. We do more than that—we congratulate him on being able to write at all at his age, especially as he has been suffering from rheumatism. This is what he says in his letter:

"Three years ago I was in bed for six weeks with inflammatory rheumatism. Since that time I have been taking Kruschen Salts, and have not had another attack. But the complaint left me with inflamed feet, and it hurt me to walk. My hands were also somewhat stiff. I took Kruschen every morning before breakfast, and shall continue to do so, because I am sure they have kept me in good shape for three years. Excuse this writing, as I am ninety years old, and use both hands to write."

The pain and stiffness of rheumatism are often caused by uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen helps to dissolve and remove excess uric acid in a gentle way through the natural channels. Renewed health and vigour is the result.

FORMER WEYMOUTH BOY WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Harold M. Rogers, son of Rev. and Mrs. A. S. Rogers, of Oxford, N. S., formerly of this place, has been awarded the New Brunswick Overseas Scholarship for the coming year. Mr. Rogers obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree from Mount Allison University in 1934, and two years later received the Master of Arts degree from the University of Toronto. He is continuing his studies now at Toronto University toward a degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Mr. Rogers was born in Weymouth, on August 4, 1914, and took his high school course at the Saint John High School. He obtained honors in biology when he graduated from Mount Allison and was described by the President of that University as a student of more than ordinary ability, a hard worker and a young man of fine character and personality.

At Mount Allison he continued an interest in debating which he had displayed when a member of a Tuxis group, served on committees for social functions, was three times a member of the Maritime Intercollegiate basketball team and a member of the Maritime Intercollegiate champion track team, besides giving a good account of himself in interclass football hockey.

During his three years at the University of Toronto, he has been studying under Dr. A. G. Huntsman, editor and consulting director of the Fisheries Association. While completing his research work and thesis for the Master of Arts degree, he was an assistant in the University Laboratory and an assistant in the Department of Biology. He retains his assistantship appointment during the present year while he is working for the Ph.D. degree.

His research has been in connection with the estuary as a biological habitat for fishes which from time to time leave the sea to run up rivers and spawn, in which group are included many of the most valuable food fishes, salmon, shad, gaspereau and smelts. During the summers of 1934 and 1935 he spent considerable time examining the 9-mile estuary of the Saint John River, and while participating in the Margaree Salmon investigation in Cape Breton in 1936, made further investigation in that area.

In 1937, after spending a month and a half at Margaree, he was for three months biologist on the R. M. S. Nascope, as she made her annual voyage to the Arctic. The appointment on the Nascope was made by the Canadian Government to enable Mr. Rogers to spend a month at Lake Harbour, Baffin Island, and obtain much additional information concerning the estuaries at the habitat of food fishes.

In the summer of this year, his research was conducted at Margaree, Cape Breton, Mosher's River, N. S., and Miramichi and other rivers of the north and eastern coasts of New Brunswick.

While pursuing his research, Mr. Rogers has designed a new type of recording tide gauge, several of which were manufactured for use in the Margaree salmon investigation and designed and built a diving helmet, which he used himself, successfully under water.

The I. O. D. E. Scholarship is awarded for study in an overseas university and amounts to $1,400. for one year, although the practice has been in recent years to enable the winner to complete an overseas course by granting the scholarship to the same person for two years in succession. One is awarded each year in each of the nine provinces in the Dominion. The holder is expected to return to Canada and work there after completing his course overseas.

On the advice of Dr. Huntsman, Mr. Rogers plans to pursue studies in biology and specialize in aquatic biology to fit himself for a professorship, hoping to bring back to Canada knowledge that will be of real value both in the realm of education and in the practical development of the resources of this country. He will take his course of study, either at the University College, London or at Cambridge University.

THE ANGLICAN CHURCH

Service in Digby
Special prayers were said at all services in the Parish Church on Sunday for the Jewish people, especially those who are undergoing such persecution in Nazi Germany. The rector in his sermon at the morning service spoke of the Jewish problem and what must be, as Christians, our reaction to it. He said, "What we want to arrive at as Christian people is a just evaluation and appreciation of the Jewish people themselves. We do not want merely a spirit of toleration for the Jew—we want something akin to friendliness and understanding with him. God, after all has made of one blood all the peoples of the earth, notwithstanding their racial differences and peculiarities. And His great purpose for universal humanity is a universal goodwill and brotherhood. The Jew has given us the idea of One God—the greatest religion ever known on earth. The gift of a pure religion like Judaism is invaluable. For whatever other races have contributed to civilization by way of mechanics, government, philosophy and the like, they are all as nothing unless undergirded by great principles of honor, justice, integrity such as only a great religion such as Judaism can supply. And our own religion, let us remember, was a gift of Jewry. Our Blessed Lord—whom we worship as the Only Begotten Son of God—was a Jew. And we need no one to enumerate for us the many and manifold blessings of Christianity to the world. Let us remember that the only hope we have of society and the world at large is Jesus Christ—a Jew born in Bethlehem of Judea, 2000 years ago. From the standpoint of the gift of great religion alone, let us be thankful to the Jew. Let us see him as our great elder brother in matters pertaining to the Kingdom of God. St. Paul's oft-quoted words should impress us deeply, 'To the Jew first, then to the Gentile.' Mark you, I am not painting the Jew as a faultless human being but I am pleading for an understanding of him as a human being like ourselves. And I have the courage to assert that the Jew thus approached will prove to be the highest type of man that you could ever anticipate finding. May God grant to us of the British Commonwealth broad sympathies and understanding hearts toward His ancient people, the Jews. May we ever be ready to see in the Jew a man like unto ourselves and be ready to thank the Jew for his great contribution to our civilization, and in thinking of him, do it in a Christian way, with friendship in our hearts and malice toward none."

The rector closed his sermon at the morning service with a quotation from the speech of Lord Macaulay in the British House of Commons more than 100 years ago, "In the infancy of civilization, when our island was as savage as New Guinea, when letters and arts were still unknown to Athens, when scarcely a thatched hut stood on what was afterward the site of Rome, this continent people had their finest cities and cedar palaces, their splendid temple, their fleets of merchant ships, their schools of sacred learning, their great statesmen and soldiers, their natural philosophers, their historians and their poets. What nation ever contended more manfully against overwhelming odds for its religion and independence? What nation ever, in its last agonies, gave such signal proofs of what may be accomplished by a brave despair? And if in the course of many centuries the defused descendants of warriors and sages have degenerated from the qualities of their fathers, if, while excluded from the blessings of the law and bowed down under the yoke of slavery, they have contracted some of the vices of outlaws and slaves, shall we consider this a matter of reproach to them? Shall we not rather consider it a matter of shame and remorse to ourselves? Let us go justice to them. Let us open the doors of the House of Commons. Let us pen to them every career in which ability and energy can be displayed. Till we have done this let us not presume to say that there is no genius among the countrymen of Isaiah, no heroism among the descendants of the Macabees."

At the evening service the rector spoke from the text: "And they came every one whose heart stirred him up, and every one whom his spirit made willing, and they brought the Lord's offering to the work of the tabernacle of the congregation, and for all his service, and for the holy garments." (Exodus 35: verse 21.) Last Sunday, the Sunday next before Advent, is usually called "Stir-up Sunday." It gets this

But you can put your money where you will not be tempted to spend it. You need a plan for saving, just as you need a plan for your own work or your child's education. Start your savings plan with the first dollar you can spare. Open an account with the nearest Post Office Savings Bank and let nothing stop you from adding to your savings regularly. Just as buttons accumulate, one by one, in the drawer of your sewing machine, so will dollars accumulate in your Post Office account. "TIRED" ALL THE TIME

She felt miserable—draggy—low in vitality—lower in spirits. She hadn't thought of her kidneys, until a friend suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills. At once she took Dodd's. The "washed out" feeling was soon replaced by clear headed energy and renewed Headache, backache, lassitude, signs of faulty kidneys disappeared. Dodd's Kidney Pills

HERE AND THERE WITH G.R.T.

"Sailing, sailing, over the bounding main, where many a stormy wind shall blow". And how would you like to take a 5,000 mile voyage across the Pacific Ocean in a thirty-six foot Chinese junk, and a leaky junk at that. Believe it or not, such a strange looking Chinese craft is now tied up at the Los Angeles Yacht Harbor at Wilmington, Cal., ending an eighty-five day voyage from Shanghai with a crew consisting of three men and one woman—a Los Angeles doctor and his Japanese wife and two Russian sailors. Head winds, rain and fog, and calms under a blazing sun, made the trip anything but enjoyable, and the trip was supposed to be a honeymoon trip, but it fulfilled the boyhood dream of the skipper, who, now that it is all over, doesn't think so much of boyhood dreams. The chief diversions on the voyage, when the crew was not engaged in sailing, consisted of reading, playing cards and checkers. An old phonograph for which the doctor had twenty old records, furnished the honeymoon music. The craft had no radio.

When the junk reached Los Angeles harbor there was still enough supply of canned and dried foods on board to make another trip back to China. In mid-ocean they captain was fortunate enough to contact a Swedish oil tanker from which a small supply of green vegetables, fresh meat and water was obtained, all of which was much appreciated and enjoyed. Forty days and nights on any ocean being a long time to go without your coleslaw, carrots, and beef stew. These people arrived in perfect physical condition, but, the Russians are in a sort of "spot" so to speak, the immigration officials refuse to allow them to land here. The boys will most likely be sent back to China by the United States Government, but they are hoping that they will be sent on a Japanese liner, or a "Red" Russian freighter. These fellows being

"white" Russians have no great desire to be landed on Russian soil. Well, those who want to sail the ocean blue in a thirty-six foot junk may do so, but no such voyage for me. Oh maybe a trip down St. Mary's Bay in Captain Loomer Amoro's pinky "Mary Ann" would have been O. K. in my adventure seeking days, but today it is not the floating hotel nor the clipper of the air, but the modern covered wagon, the horseless vehicle, capable of doing 50, 60, or even 80, but preferable 50 miles per hour, with safety and comfort that wins me every time. I am a sort of a dry land sailor, and the wide open spaces with the blue sky above, and straight smooth highways running north and south along the ocean side or through the great valleys and mountain passes continually beckon me until I crave to go somewhere, and my craving for travel is satisfied to a greater or less extent as I roll along in one of Mr. Chrysler's "Dodge" sixes, a Dodge that dodges safely in and out, and through traffic and never fails me on the steepest grade.

Last week I finished a five-day trip—1373 miles—into the hinterlands of eastern California and western Nevada, making a tour of the old time gold and silver mining camps and a side trip into Yosemite National Park, a spot that some Californians delight to rave about, but mostly those who have not visited the redwood forests and the mountain and lake resorts of the State.

Leaving Los Angeles at day break we headed north through the Antelope Valley, now noted more for its pear orchards and tomato fields than for roaming antelope, and not being in the market at the moment for fruit and vegetables we hurry along to the desert metropolis called Mojave but pronounced Mo-hav-e by the intelligentsia, others call it Mohavey and let it go at that. Mojave being a desert town and always hot and dry, it is easy to understand why every other building in its business section is either a beer parlor or a cocktail emporium, but the day is still young and as we have acquired no burning thirst, we tarried only long enough to check our oil and water and fill up with gasoline before starting into new country, where, we were informed, service stations are few and far apart, and this information proved to be true, for Inyo County as this region is known, has very few inhabitants, a few villages of three or four hundred people each and only one town in the whole county with a population of over 1,000, just 1159 to be exact, the name of this place is Bishop and it is the county seat of Inyo. This is a cattle country, and large herds of them can be seen on the ranches scattered through the valleys. This is also a great country for hunting and fishing, and nearly every house along the road has a sign tacked to the gate post reading "Fish Worms for Sale", indicating that the gay and festive trout of this region prefers the soft and succulent garden worm to hayfield grasshopper or the alluring man made trout fly. Another business that seems to flourish in this section is the pack train and guide industry. The hunting here is said to be the best in all of California but you can only get within twenty miles of it by automobile, then you exchange your comfortable auto cushions for the hurricane deck of a saddle pony and load your camp equipment onto pack animals and hit the trail for the rough, rugged and heavily timbered regions where the deer and other wild animals are supposed to roam. Good sport, if you can afford it, and enjoy the hard work that goes with running down your venison, but with good beer steak selling at thirty cents the pound in the neighbourhood meat market, why spend two dollars worth of energy and four dollars worth of time per pound of deer meat? dear meat and no mistake sez I. Time was when Californians could go out to the cow pasture and bag a fine buck before breakfast and enjoy the pleasurable pastime of picking venison from between their teeth after supper, but those days seem to be gone forever, unless there should come a time when it would seem advisable to give the country back to the Indians, who were the only people who really knew how to keep the hunting grounds from being depleted. But if the Indians say "No wantum dam country" I suppose there would be nothing else to do but keep the game wardens on the job. But if all hunters were like the man that I read about today, game wardens would have an easy time of it and the deer would soon be running over the country in herds. It seems that a rancher, who lives in the extreme northern part of the state, had hunted every deer season for the past 56 years, but without success, he finally bagged his first deer on October 10th, of this year. It weighed 306 pounds—about three times the size of the average deer killed this season. I presume that he now thinks that at last patience and perseverance will eventually have their reward.

OBITUARY

Michael Hayes VanTassel
Michael Hayes VanTassel passed away at his home in Culloden, on Sunday evening, Nov. 13, at the age of 90 years and 5 months. He leaves to mourn his widow, five daughters and three sons. Funeral service was held Tuesday from St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church. Interment was in the Catholic Cemetery at Digby.

The Department of Fisheries, Ottawa, has just released a most helpful and interesting booklet, "100 Tempting Fish Recipes". The recipes are planned specifically for Canadian fish, and are tested by well known economists. Interesting chapters on the food value, vitamin content, and the way to buy fish are also included. Most popular recipes in this book for everyday use will be Canadian fish balls and Creamed Canadian Flank Haddie. The recipe with the most come-hither in the title is Hugger-in-Buff. You may learn how to make it by writing the Department of Fisheries, Ottawa, for your free copy of this booklet.

A fire of mysterious origin occurred in Freeport, on Tuesday evening of last week, in which an uninhabited house was burned to the ground. About 10 o'clock flames were seen and in a short time the building was a mass of fire. Being situated at the back of the village, no water was available, even had it been possible to save the property. Trees around the grounds and a small but building remained untouched. The property is owned by Clarence Campbell, formerly of Freeport, now living in the Canadian West, but whose parents are resident in Freeport. An investigation will probably be made.

Mrs. H. B. Short leaves today for New York where she will spend a short time before leaving for St. Petersburg, Florida, for the winter months.

A Complete Christmas Cut Service at Your Disposal

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

Brighten your Christmas packages and all your mail at this season by using those gay little seals that cry "Christmas Greetings" and carry the double barred cross of the Tuberculosis Association. It is from the sale of these seals that many thousands of tuberculosis patients receive help and children and others who have come in contact with the sick ones are taught how to care for themselves so that they too will not catch it.

The number of cases has steadily decreased, yet it is still the greatest cause of death between the ages of 15 and 45. Tuberculosis is the greatest cause of death among children of school age (except accidents).

The money you have contributed to the Christmas Seal Sale has helped to reduce Nova Scotia's death rate from 215 per 100,000 in 1908 to 92 in 1935. When you buy Christmas Seals you have a part in this fight against tuberculosis.

However great the other demands of the present moment, and however little the amount you can spare for charity now, you can at small cost and with much satisfaction buy some Tuberculosis Christmas Seals and encourage those who are carrying on this great work in Nova Scotia.

The Value of Club Work

The value of the experience gained in junior farm club work and in the journeys to the royal winter fair at Toronto, which have been won by junior farmers throughout the years, is emphasized in an interesting series of letters obtained by the extension division of the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture from former members of farm clubs who have been fortunate in winning the trip to Toronto. These letters have been gathered as a result of a general census of former club members being made under the auspices of the Canadian Council on boys' and girls' clubs, which now has general jurisdiction over club work in Canada as a co-ordinating factor for the club work in the various provinces.

Nova Scotia has regularly sent club teams to Toronto, along with other provinces, and in fact was one of the first provinces to promote junior farm club work. Today there are more than 6,000 junior club members in the province, and this fall four teams of two each were in Toronto competing in the national judging competitions at the royal winter fair.

Herewith are quoted three of the many letters which have been received from former club members in this province. Writing from Pugwash, James Coulter, who made the trip to Toronto in 1936, says: "Since my trip to the royal winter fair I have worked with my father on the farm. The past two years I have taken entire responsibility of the crop, dairy work, hogs, etc. I have found the knowledge and help obtained from the junior clubs and the unforgettable trip to the Royal have been a tremendous help in my work. At present I am in charge of the junior club here and am doing all possible to plan interesting meetings to help the younger members, as I have been in the past, and I realize what a benefit it has been to me."

Norman Embree, of Amherst Shore, Cumberland County, who has assisted in the live stock work in recent years at exhibitions, has been president of the junior farmers of his district, and of the Lorneville Farmers' Club. He has been assistant in charge of livestock classes at the provincial exhibition and at the Amherst winter fair. He emphasizes the value of the experience he has gained in both junior and senior farm club work, and he says: "I believe it was due to my being fortunate enough to win a trip to the Royal and in this way perhaps show that I took an interest in agriculture and particularly club work, that I got the work at the shows which in themselves have been a real education."

Henry Stewart of Stewiacke East, writes that: "My experience in judging cattle at the royal winter fair (club competitions) helps me to choose and purchase better cows."

"ABOUT THIS AND THAT" Continued

The story is told of a certain Commodore Home, of the U. S. Navy, who asked the name of the commander of a British ship. "Captain Cave-Brown-Cave," he was told. "Very well," he replied, "tell him Commodore Home-Sweet-Home wants to speak to him."—The Legionary.

Canadian railways have just issued another of those annual accident reports showing some of the amazing things that happen at our level highway crossings. There are the usual incidents of motorists running into the sides of locomotives, then a fellow who hit the fourth car back of the engine, and even one who hit the caboose of a 14-car freight train. But the prize package of the lot is the lad at Edson, Alberta, who succeeded in winning immortal fame by ramming the 60th car, of a freight, approximately 2800 feet behind the locomotive. But we do not have to travel to Alberta for instances of the mental fog that seems to envelop some drivers of motor vehicles. There was the classic instance of the driver who missed the locomotive of the Ocean Limited by a hair's breadth at one crossing, and at the next, a mile down the line, succeeded in driving into the train between the last two sleepers. In Nova Scotia, just recently, there is an instance of a driver running his car into the side of a train on the same crossing, two years in succession.

There are many thousands of English people who are very seriously considering at this time the advisability of making their permanent home within the Dominion, says "Canada's Weekly." Furthermore, the eyes of literally hundreds of thousands of people in Central Europe are turned to Canada, and there would now appear to be a great opportunity in the hands of those responsible at Ottawa to do something towards solving Canada's problem of lack of population by facilitating the immigration of vast numbers from Central Europe. For instance, there are many thousands of the peasant farmers in Czechoslovakia who are desirous of migrating to Canada. These would make excellent citizens and could be settled in mixed farming areas such as the Peace River district. It is quite obvious that Canada does not want to add greatly to her exportable surplus of foodstuffs, but this type of immigrant could be settled in areas where he and his family could live off their farms, and become at once self-supporting.

Game Leaders Meet at Annapolis Royal

The annual meeting of the Annapolis-Digby Fish and Game Protective Association at the Memorial Town Hall, Annapolis Royal, last Wednesday evening, was especially well attended and the following officers were elected:

President—Dr. L. J. Lovett, of Bear River, (re-elected).
Vice-President—Albert Doucette, Middleton.

Secretary—Douglas Cossaboom, Smith's Cove.

Directors—Ralph Cossitt, of Smith's Cove; R. S. Hallett, Weymouth; Frank Dittmars, Deep Brook; T. E. G. Lynch, Digby, and A. J. Burns, Bridgetown.
Auditors—A. B. Marshall, Bear River, and Ralph Murray, Digby.
Delegate to Provincial Convention—Dr. Lovett and Rev. A. W. L. Smith.

Dr. Lovett presided at the meeting and gave an interesting account of the Provincial Convention at Halifax, which he had attended as a delegate. He also read a letter from Mayor Arthur Kelsall, who was resigning from the Board of Directors on account of moving to Kentville, and a vote of thanks was passed to Capt. K. R. Forrester, formerly of Bear River, who had served as secretary before moving to Ottawa. In connection with the election of officers a resolution was passed that the Board of Directors be increased from 6 to 8.

The Close Season for Moose

The first question taken up for discussion was that of "Moose" and this brought a wide variety of opinions. Several of the best-known guides and sportsmen told of seeing many in the woods during the hunting season and a standing vote was finally taken in favor of an open season from October 20 to October 31, inclusive. Motions were passed: 1. advocating open season for deer (one buck) from October 20 to November 15; ruffed grouse from October 15 to Nov. 15; woodcock the same as 1938; rabbits November 15 to February 15; ducks remaining the same and geese to be discussed by the delegates.

Rev. F. C. Burnett asked for information concerning beaver and this started a lengthy discussion which concluded with the passing of a resolution, moved by Odbur Robar and seconded by Reginald Frazer, that there be an open season every third or fourth year on beaver, the time to be the same as mink, otter and muskrats; and if accidentally caught out of season that the skin be cured and sent with an explanation to the government. Another resolution was passed asking that a bounty from the municipality of $10 be placed on beaver, who were reported decidedly dangerous to young moose and deer.

Christmas in London

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, are shown, smiling happily, as they left the house they rented recently from the Comtesse de Sabini in Paris. They expect to officially move in on New Year's Day, when the redecorating is complete. Meanwhile rumor is busy, following the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester to the Windsors, to the effect that the Windsors may spend Christmas in London with the royal family.

was given by Bruce Hunter, of Round Hill, Fishery Inspector, who told of many improvements in methods, during the past three or four years, and gave many interesting statistics on salmon and trout fishing. County Whipped by Worst Storm in Years

Winter arrived with a vengeance on Friday last, being ushered in by one of the most severe November storms experienced here in many a year—a storm which caused millions of dollars damage in the Maritimes, and many thousands of dollars damage in our own county.

Candles and oil lamps were brought into play Friday afternoon and evening. Broken poles and trees across wires caused the current to be shut off early in the afternoon, and with the exception of a few minutes around 9.30 p. m., remained off until 11.30. For hours the town was isolated from the outside world because of broken telegraph and long distance telephone lines.

In town the garages of the R. C. M. P. and of Mrs. Lalia Eldridge, proprietress of Lour Lodge, both collapsed in the near hurricane; a chimney was blown off the residence of O. Wright; and many fine trees toppled to the ground.

At high tide early in the afternoon, foaming breakers washed across the street.

Hardest hit was Digby Neck, particularly the villages of East Ferry and Sandy Cove. On the Neck it is estimated between fifty and one hundred telephone poles are down—in some sections, it is said, not one pole is standing for distances of half a mile. Numerous uprooted trees crossed the wires, and blocked highways in all sections of the country.

Heavy seas, whipped by one of the mightiest gales to sweep through Petite Passage sunk every one of the East Ferry shore fishing boats, about 14 in number. The breakwater at East Ferry, completed only a few years ago, suffered heavy damage; while the ferry waiting room at the head of the breakwater rolled over three times, and was blown to the opposite side of the street.

The new smoke house of Herman Theriault, completed this summer, was also damaged. Propped up by stout poles to keep it from toppling into the sea, the structure took a merciless pounding. There are now some six metres of beach stones and gravel between the superstructure and its concrete foundation.

At Sandy Cove two barns were destroyed by the wind; others were damaged. The Sandy Cove hill, near the churches, was almost completely stripped of trees—only one left standing. Guy Morehouse, driver of the "bus", says the storm was about the worst he has experienced in his 25 years of mail driving. The bus was only able to reach Sandy Cove, 20 miles from Digby, on Friday, and would not have been able to get that far had it not been that other cars were travelling down the Neck at the same time, and the drivers and passengers were able to clear the road of fallen telephone poles and trees until they reached Sandy Cove. The heavy trees down on the Sandy Cove hill were too much for them. These were cleared away Saturday morning by men and ox teams.

At Rosway the smoke house of Charles Robbins was blown down.

At Deep Brook 75 heavy sheets of metal were blown from the roof of the Gypsum Company's warehouse.

Farmers reaching town on Saturday, told of their experiences, cutting and clearing trees from across the highways.

General relief was felt when word was received of the arrival of the motor vessel, Matilda C. Capt. George Crocker, at Little River. The Matilda C. left Digby Friday, bound for Freeport. She was seen passing Centreville about 2.00 p. m., shortly before the storm struck at its worse. Getting through Petite Passage, it is understood Capt. Crocker could not make Freeport, and nosed his boat up St. Mary's Bay to Little River.

The worst gale that has hit Westport South, for thirty years, was experienced on Friday. Changing from the mild weather that has prevailed during the entire Fall, winter seemed to swoop down in a few hours, and is still continuing. The one that suffered the most damage was Malcolm Welch, his wharf and fish shop being completely demolished. While trying to salvage some of the contents of the fish shop, his boat broke from her moorings, and caught on the end of South-east Point, had it happened one hour before, it surely would have gone out of the Passage. The men hastily prepared to give their assistance, and after working until after dark, they managed to pull the boat safely to the beach.

Lloyd Bailey also had the misfortune to have his fish shop blown down.

THE PINES ASSESSMENT

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—On behalf of a number of Digby ratepayers, may I express hearty approbation of the remarks appearing in last week's Courier, in the letter signed, "Ratepayer".

We would like it to be clearly understood that there is no feeling of animosity towards the Pines Hotel, or the C. P. R. generally, but that there is a firm decision in the minds of many of us that EVERY ratepayer should—and must—bear a fair share of the burden of our local tax.

With a heavy burden of civic debt, with a comparatively high assessment ratio, and a rate of 4.60 per cent, this is no time for extending the hand of charity to one of the largest and wealthiest owners of property within our limits.

We expect—and will demand—a just and fair assessment of this property when the time comes, and our intentions will not be altered either by statements to the effect that the Hotel ran at a loss. (Who did not, this year?) or that the ratepayers of Kentville decided to leave the Cornwallis Inn assessment unaltered. Conditions extant in Kentville.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

To what has already been accomplished the national Christmas Seal campaign for the Canadian Tuberculosis Association has made a valuable contribution, particularly in the last few months, in Nova Scotia. Conditions are improving because tuberculosis prevention is taught earlier but still Nova Scotia's death rate is very high in comparison with some of the other provinces. Tuberculosis takes more lives than any other sickness during the ages between 15 and 45. Through hundreds of clinics supported by the Christmas seal fund, thousands of families have benefited and will benefit from diagnostic and treatment facilities, from free advice, free follow-up and nursing services. Everyone may assist in furthering this work by buying Christmas seals.

and the comparative values of the hotels to the communities in which they stand, do not allow of any reasonable comparison between the two cases.

C. N. G. Wilde.

Mrs. Addie Barton

There passed away at the Kentville Sanatorium, recently, Mrs. Addie Barton, of Acaciaville, at the age of 56 years. The deceased, who was the widow of Edward Barton, and a highly respected resident of that village, is survived by one son, Lloyd Barton, and five daughters, Madge, Addie, Evelyn, Nettie and Kathleen, and a number of grandchildren. The funeral services were held from Acaciaville African Baptist Church, of which the deceased was a member, Rev. M. L. Anderson, pastor, officiating.

Kindly have your Hospital Calendar ready for the collectors when they call the first week in January.

DAMAGE DONE IN WESTPORT

One of the worst gales that has occurred for some years swept this place on Friday last, doing considerable damage. The breakwater at the dyke was completely washed away. A large motor boat, belonging to Garnet Frost, broke from its moorings and was nearly in the breakers on the shore when Arthur Titus, at the risk of his own life and the loss of his large fishing boat, succeeded in getting a line to her and towed her to safety before she was damaged. The new ferry boat, belonging to Frank and Holland Titus, dragged her moorings and was just a few feet from the weir when they, with great difficulty, got to her. Luck was with them as the engine went with the first turn. Had the engines in either of these boats stopped, the boats would have been smashed in the huge breakers that were rolling in.

The wharf, large shed and shop, containing all the nets, trawls, etc., belonging to Malcolm Welch, was washed away. A crowd of men quickly gathered and tried to save some of the fishing nets and lumber from the water. While they were working at that, one noticed Mr. Welch's boat had broken from her moorings. At first they thought she would go out of the passage and be lost, but a large sea tossed her ashore on Southern Point. Men from all over the Island rushed to the scene and the boat was saved with only a broken rudder. A garage, owned by Franklin Buckman, and a shop, belonging to Lloyd Bailey, were blown down, and the roofs from several other buildings were blown off.

Several electric light poles were down. Capt. Barkhouse's flag pole fell, breaking the telephone wire, so all communication was cut off from the Pugh Farm and Western Light. Fences and trees were blown down, and dories and boats were blown over.

At Peters Island, the light-keeper, Percy Welch, had a hard struggle. He could not make a fire in the stove, for as soon as he did, the wind would blow the fire out around the room. So they put the children to bed to keep them warm, and were without a fire all day. One building blew over and the top of the shed blew across the door so he had to climb out of a window, and crawl on his hands and knees to light the light. Mr. Welch said

M. C. DENTON RESIGNS AS MAYOR

The Digby Town Council, at their regular meeting on Monday evening, accepted the resignation of Maynard C. Denton, the town's mayor for the past three years. The letter of resignation was read with regret. Mr. Denton, who is now under the doctor's care, felt it necessary to take this step on account of ill health.

The council decided to carry on until the February civic elections. Until then, the deputy-mayor, Stanley S. Aymar, will preside. The annual report of the Digby Fire Department for the year ending October 31st, was presented and accepted. The report showed the department had been called out for 19 chimney fires and one building fire during the year, with a total loss of $200.

The town decided to again decorate the town for the Christmas season. The big community tree will be erected, and other small trees placed along the street in the business section.

Other business was of a routine nature, such as the passing of accounts, etc.

at one time he thought every building was going to be swept away.

Shortly after dinner the wind seemed to lull a little and several men went to their boats to make them more secure at their moorings, but before they got back the wind breezed up again with more force than ever, and some of them had great difficulty getting ashore.

The men were all very busy Saturday cleaning up the wreckage.

Christmas Tuberculosis Seals do their share. Are you doing yours?

Baptist Tea and Sale, Dec. 8. Supper, 5.30—Price 50 cents.

Miss Francis Smith left for Montreal, where she will spend the winter.

Christmas stands for peace and happiness. The tuberculosis Xmas Seal brings both. Buy now!

Coming—Hospital Benefit "Radio Review"—under direction of Victor Cardoza—Trinity Hall—Tuesday, December 6th.

Next Tuesday evening Grattan O'Leary, editor of the Ottawa Journal, will speak at Ottawa from 8.00 to 8.15, Atlantic Standard Time, on Christmas Seals.

The American fishing schooner, Joffre, Capt. Simon Theriault, was in port yesterday for shelter. Capt. Theriault is a native of East Ferry. The Joffre, now fishing in the Bay of Fundy, is 80 tons register and carries a crew of 27.

Capt. and Mrs. C. F. Lewis left Thursday for Montreal where they will spend a few days with their son, R. C. Lewis, en route to Windsor, Ont., where they expect to spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. Marvin H. White.

The German steamer Boltenhagen, Capt. F. Elwert, arrived this week from St. Pierre, where she discharged a cargo of coal. The Boltenhagen is registered at Hamburg, Germany, is 2,051 tons, and carries a crew of 30. After taking on a part cargo of 400 tons of pulpwood at Port Wade he is completing her cargo here.

The motor vessel, Kay Marie, Capt. Charles H. Melanson, of Gilbert's Cove, arrived at Meteghan River last week from Booth Bay, Maine, and moved at A. H. Comeau's wharf to load 95 m. ft. of spruce, dimensions shipped by Capt. B. N. Melanson, for Boston. The Kay Marie made very good time from Booth Bay to Meteghan River, having made the run in 13 hours. Capt. Melanson reports the sea of the Bay of Fundy as calm and smooth during his way across.

BEEES ARE TRANSPORTED IN EXPRESS PACKAGES

The ubiquitous bee is a very busy animal and occupies a strategic place in Nature's scheme. He flits from flower to flower gathering honey, which, by the way, he does for his own purposes, and in so doing helps in the propagation of plants. Man seems early to have acquired a taste for honey and forthwith raided the storehouses in hollow trees or wherever they happened to be. With the advance of civilization the art of bee farming was developed until today it is an important industry. Bees are now shipped from place to place and are sold by the pound. They are known as package bees. A pound will contain between 4,500 and 5,000 bees. The packages consist of a wooden frame covered with wire screen and are shipped by express. Considerable quantities of live bees are carried from time to time. The Province of Nova Scotia has been experimenting with the importation of package bees with gratifying results. The bees are imported from the southern states and enter Canada duty free. Winter weather conditions do not permit of profitably producing package bees in Canada.

DOING NICELY

Hello Folks:—Here I am smiling! After falling out of a car and landing on my head, it was this way, on Thursday, Nov. 17, I had gone to Digby to keep an appointment with my dentist, Dr. Turnbull, and got along fine; as we were making the turn near Maiden Lane, leaving town, I was thrown against the door, which burst open (I had fastened it myself). I just seemed to fly out of the car. Kind people picked me up and carried me into the Winchester Hotel, where both Mrs. Harvie and Mrs. Winchester were most kind. Doctors DuVernet and MacCleave arrived shortly, and after examining me, Dr. DuVernet had me taken to the Hospital, where it was found necessary to take three stitches above my right eye, and as it was a dirty wound from gravel, a serum to counteract lock-jaw was administered. I came home at once, and I'm getting along nicely.

Would like to thank all who were kind to me, I'm sorry I could not get their names at the time, and also wish to exonerate Mr. Leslie Thomas, in whose car I was from any blame.

Faithfully yours,
Thomas G. A. Cumming,

URGE USE OF POST OFFICE SAVING BANK

Where the Savings of Small Income Men are Safe

Recent events in Germany, where probably the best citizens, are being robbed wholesale by a dictator and a few accomplices must make Canadians proud of having a Democratic government in control of the Post Office Savings Bank, where the savings of the comparatively poor person are as safe and secure as humanly possible. It is the poor man's bank where, with thrift, the boy or girl's pennies grow to become the nucleus of a fund that may eventually make them comparatively independent. Independent with that security that has never yet failed under a Democratic government in the British dominions.

We conscientiously advise parents to inculcate the habit of saving in their children. That is the first and most practical lesson in "thrift" which so few of us practice.

PLAYS PRESENTED

Two short plays were presented on Monday evening, at the Community Hall, for the benefit of the Boy Scouts. The first one, enacted by the Scouts, was entitled, "The Last Fight of Scarsface Barbarossa", and was exceptionally well done. Many favorable comments have been heard, particularly about the "Fair Lady". The second play was

"Abou Hassen, the Wag" (from "Arabian Nights"). This was presented by local talent, other than the Scouts, and was indeed unusual to this community. The characters were particularly fine and the story was in a class by itself. The costumes alone is worthy of more than passing notice. A piano solo was rendered by Mrs. Harvey Walker, with Mrs. Frank Hayden accompanying. Much credit is due Mrs. T. J. Harris and Miss Margaret Stewart for the direction of these plays.

Church of England, Parish of Digby, Rev. E. M. Caldwell, rector, Victor G. Cardoza, lay reader, Digby, Holy Communion, 11:30, Evensong, 7:00; Rosary, 1:30, Marshalltown, 3:15.

PLYMPTON

On Tuesday Mrs. Roy M. Barnes and Mrs. William Blinn attended the Institute School, at Smith's Cove.

In spite of the bad weather many people attended the Thanksgiving Supper held in the basement of the new church on Thursday evening. After the supper a regular card party was held, as well as drawings on a hand-book, and a knitted collar. The raffle was won by Mrs. Vicie Melanson, Digby, and the collar by Mrs. Edward Doucette, of Marshalltown.

On Friday Mrs. Maud S. Cardoza, who has spent the summer at the "Gardenia" left for Philadelphia, Pa., to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Dennis Barnes.

"You bet she's a Good Cook!"

Happy is the new husband of this blushing bride. She makes bread just like his mother used to bake—Uses the same flour too... REGAL... It's a safe bet that their first grocery order will include a bag of REGAL.

Mrs. Fulton Parker, of New Hampshire, has been the guest of Mrs. Bruce Reade and Mrs. Fred Harris for several days. She returned to her home in Dover, N. H. today, accompanied by Miss Ruth Reade, who will remain the winter with her.

Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harris were hosts on Wednesday evening at a dinner bridge of three tables. The dinner was served at prettily decorated tables in the living room, and play continued until the wee sma' hours, high score prizes going to Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy.

Many friends of Wilson Ford will be glad to learn how splendidly he is progressing as a student at Queen's University, in Kingston, Ont. He has been elected president of his class for the second year—an unusual thing. Wilson, who is a son of Mrs. R. Ford, is studying medicine.

Principal E. M. Oakes, and teachers of Oakdene School, motored to Middleton on Tuesday evening to attend a meeting of the Sub-Local of the Annapolis County branch of the N. S. T. U., including teachers from Annapolis, Bear River, Lawrenceville, Bridgetown and Middleton.

Horace A. Porter, K.C., M.L.A., and Mrs. Porter, who came to Bear River last Friday because of the serious illness of Mr. Porter's father, the late Alfred Porter, returned to Saint John on Monday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Alfred Porter, who will make her home with them at 70 Orange Street.

CHICKEN SUPPER
The vestry of the United Church of Canada looked very attractive on Thursday evening, Dec. 1, when the Ladies' Aid held their chicken supper. The room was festooned in red and green roping, bells and wreaths. The red candles, with pine and holly, tables, with brass holders and very lovely, also the fancy work booth and candy table, done in the same Christmas colours.

ALMOST CRIPPLED WITH RHEUMATISM

Improved Greatly When He Tried Kruschen

There has just come to our notice a case of grand relief from severe rheumatic pains. The seriousness of the man's condition and the step that led to his ultimate recovery, are described in the following letter:

"For several years I suffered from rheumatism. I had all my teeth out, and still suffered. A year ago I lay in hospital for four weeks, almost crippled. When I got home I continued to take medicine, but began to go down again. A friend of mine asked me to try Kruschen Salts, and I am very pleased to be able to say I have been on the mend ever since."

Two of the salts in Kruschen are the most effectual solvents of uric acid known to medical science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the crystals—the cause of pain and stiffness—and often convert them into a harmless solution, which is then expelled through the natural channels.

THANK OFFERING SERVICE

The W. M. S., of the United Church of Canada, held their special Thank Offering entertainment on Thursday evening, Nov. 24, in the church vestry. The following programme was given: Piano Duet—Mrs. F. PLAY PRESENTED

A three-act comedy, "Aunt Minnie from Minnesota" was presented at the Community Theatre, Weymouth, on Wednesday evening before a large and appreciative audience. Proceeds amounted to over $43, which were for the Rebekah Lodge. The entire action of the play took place in the living room of Mrs. Evans' home in Brandon, a small mid-western town. Minnie Miller was the sort of girl who was a born old maid. But that was when she left her home town to live on a farm in Minnesota, with a wealthy aunt, some twenty years before the play begins. Having lost her aunt and inherited a large fortune, she returns to Brandon, full of "pep", dressed fit-to-kill, and with ideas for community developments years ahead of the sleepy inhabitants of a sleepy town. As a "waker-upper" she has no peer, as the manager of other people's affairs she is a whiz, but when problems concern her own heart and pocket book she's not so good. She meets trouble with a capital "T" but finally crashes through with a stunning victory which includes a romance all her own.

Everyone in the play has a fine part, the plot is loaded with audience interest and the situations with their novel and unusual twists, make for three acts of hilarious fun.

Before Judge K. L. Crowell, of Bridgetown, at Church Point, Albert Saulnier, of Meteghan Station, was charged by the R. C. M. P., with breaking and entering the summer camp of Augustus Theriault, at Maxwilton, and stealing provisions. The Crown was represented by Crown Prosecutor, E. J. Theriault. Arnaud S. Comeau, crier of the court, acted as interpreter. The accused pleaded guilty and was given thirty days in the gaol at Little Brook.

CONCERT AND PENNY SALE

A successful concert and penny sale was held in the Community Theatre, at Weymouth, on Monday evening, by the pupils of the Weymouth School, under the direction of the teachers, Galen Pierce, and the Misses Madeline Comeau, Stella Sabine and Agnes Payson, with Miss Frances Leat singing teacher, acting as accompanist. The programme consisted of a one-act play, "The Bugnissville Uplift Society," by members of the High School, assisted by Miss Sabine and Miss Payson; choruses by the Primary and Intermediate rooms, as well as duet, tap dancing, and dramatizations. The proceeds will be used to purchase material for handicraft work in the school.

OBITUARY

Alfred Porter
A wide circle of friends learned with deep regret of the death of Alfred Porter, which occurred at his home in Bear River last Saturday. He had been in failing health since last summer. Last September 10th was a gala day in the life of Mr. and Mrs. Porter who were joined by members of the family circle and honored by many friends on the occasion of the diamond anniversary of their wedding in England in 1878. Shortly after marriage the young couple came out to Canada and settled in Saint John, which was their home for many years. Mr. Porter, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Porter, was born at Battle, Sussex, England, on December 10th, 1855. Educated in England, he had considerable legal experience there as a young man, but left this field to come to Canada and he secured a position as assistant to J. Murray Kay, manager of the Saint John and Maine Railway. This company was absorbed by the New Brunswick Railway in 1883. Mr. Porter then became manager for Wm. Thompson & Company and fulfilled the duties of this position until his retirement in 1915. For many years one of Saint John's leading business men, Mr. Porter was also prominent in the social life of the city, and had a host of friends throughout the province of New Brunswick. He was a past president of the Union Club and a member since 1903; past first and second vice-president, former secretary and second ranking member of St. George's Society of Saint John. He joined the organization in 1883. Col. E. T. Sturdee is the only living member senior to Mr. Porter. He was also president, secretary and librarian of the St. John Music Society in the days when that organization was a vital influence on musical culture in Saint John.

A leading layman of the Church of England, he was a vestryman and last surviving member of the Corporation of Trinity Church at the death of Archdeacon Briggstocke, a life member of the Diocese of Fredericton, treasurer of the Church of England Institute, and of late years vestryman and warden of St. Clements parish, Annapolis County. From 1875 to 1882 he was a member and on the committee of the Evening Service Choir of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England. Mr. Porter was also outstanding in amateur athletic circles in Saint John in his younger days. He held office as president of the Neptune Rowing Club, and was an enthusiastic member of the old Saint John Golf Club. He had the distinction as well of being a member of the "hole-in-one-club," as an indication of excellence in this game. In August, 1910, he made a record at the 7th hole (Tiny Tim) in a single stroke, the first time this feat had been accomplished on the course. Mr. Porter was an expert too at chess and was twice chess champion of Saint John.

Of late years he has been a resident of Bear River. A gracious and amiable gentleman "of the old school" he was highly regarded in this community, and his many friends will be saddened by his passing.

On September 10, 1878, Mr. Porter married Miss Emma Jane Barnes, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Barnes, of London, England. He is survived by his wife and one son, H. A. Porter, K.C., M.L.A., Saint John. Lf. Col. Cecil George Porter, D.S.O., of Montreal, another son, died within the past year. Five grandchildren also survive him. They are Thomas, John and Peggy Porter, of Saint John, and Audrey and Kenneth Porter, of Montreal.

"I Never Have to Take Any Special Care With This Flour"

MRS. H. L. POOLE, of Montague, P.E.I., takes guests in her home and does so much baking she uses up a 98-lb. sack of flour every two weeks. Naturally a flour that would save her trouble and work would be popular with her. She has found such a flour in Robin Hood.

At the 1937 Eastern King's Exhibition, held at Souris, P.E.I., Mrs. Poole won prizes for cakes, white bread, buns, rolls, tea biscuits and pies—all baked with Robin Hood Flour. She won seven firsts, one second and two thirds!

"I never have to fuss with Robin Hood," said Mrs. Poole. "It needs no special care whatever. It is so easy to work with. It mixes into a smooth dough that has lots of life. You can count on it rising nicely, too."

"Another thing I like about Robin Hood," continued Mrs. Poole, "is the ease with which the dough moulds into well-shaped loaves. The dough keeps its shape, too, and has such a nice finished appearance when put in the pans that you know your bread is going to be good."

Knows She Saves Money
Mrs. Poole has found Robin Hood satisfactory for all purposes. She uses it for either puff pastry or the other kind and her crust is always flaky and short. "I know I save money when I use Robin Hood," stated Mrs. Poole, "because I use less flour. The last time I made drop cakes with another brand I had to add more flour to the recipe I regularly use with Robin Hood."

Wouldn't you, too, like to use a flour that produces the very finest results without a lot of fussing? Then ask your dealer for Robin Hood. Your money back plus 10 per cent. in addition if you are not fully satisfied.

THE ANGLICAN CHURCH Services in Digby

Due to the very inclement weather the attendance at the morning service in the Parish church on Sunday was rather small. The rector, in his sermon, spoke from the text: "Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come." (St. Matt. XXIV:42).

Service in the evening was cancelled owing to the bad weather. On Wednesday morning it being the Festival of St. Andrew, Apostle and Martyr, Holy Communion was celebrated in the Parish church. This is the day set apart for corporate communion for the members of the Women's Auxiliary. The members of the local branch of that body attended the communion in a body, as did also the members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The Anglican Young People's Association

Last week's meeting of the A. Y. P. A. was well attended. The society, at that meeting, decided to take on the work of decorating the church for the Christmas services. After the regular business meeting the remainder of the evening was taken up practicing for the entertainment the society is putting on in the near future. Mrs. Harold Nichols, representing the Hospital Aid Society, was present at this practice.

On Wednesday evening the Brotherhood of St. Andrew held their annual St. Andrew's Day banquet. A large number of the members of the Brotherhood, with their wives and friends, attended this affair. At the banquet toasts were given: to the King, by Director, George Cardozo; to the Church by Rev. E. M. Caldwell, responded to by Victor G. Cardozo; to the Brotherhood, by G. B. Hayden, responded to by H. O. Turnbull; to the Ladies, by Fritz Dakin, responded to by Mrs. R. Berwick. After the banquet games were played and a "singsong" was held under the direction of Mr. Dakin.

Weddings

Gotshall - Woodworth

Many friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Woodworth, 8 Jenny Lind Street, North Easton, Mass., Nov. 23, to witness the marriage of their daughter, Bertha Louise, to Abbott Gotshall, of Sandwich, New Hampshire. The date set for the wedding was of greater importance, as it was the birthday of both bride and groom. The bride was attired in a gown of white lace over satin with a finger-tip veil fastened to a rhinestone Juliet cap, and carried white roses and lily-of-the-valley. The bridesmaid, Pauline Woodworth, a sister of the bride, wore a gown of wisteria moire silk, with gold accessories, and carried tulle and roses. The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother-in-law, Rev. Andrew Thompson, of South Hants. Zeno Egan, a friend of the groom, was best man. The double ring ceremony was used. The wedding march was played by Miss Helen Carlson, of Brockton, Mass. Miss Carlson also accompanied Miss Marian Siverson, a cousin of the bride, in singing "Because" and "Oh Promise Me". The bride's gift to her attendant was a camellia pendant, and to the groom a travelling bag, to the pianist she gave a gold compact, and to the soloist an evening bag. Mrs. Woodworth, mother of the bride, wore navy blue crepe and carried red roses. The bride took her bouquet to New Hampshire to place on the grave of the groom's mother, who passed away a month ago. The groom was a former resident of Newton, Mass., graduating from the Newton High School and Boston University School of Business Administration, in the class of 1932. At present he is employed in a Sandwich business firm. The bride is a graduate of Oliver Ames High School of North Easton, graduating in 1932. The popular young couple received many useful gifts, including, money, silver, dishes, linens and electrical appliances. The bride's going away dress, old rose wool with black accessories and she wore a tulle corsage. After spending the holiday with the groom's father, Thomas Gotshall, of Sandwich, N. H., Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Gotshall will leave for a short trip to New York, and upon their return will reside in New Hampshire. Guests were present from New Hampshire, Middleboro, Newton, Stoughton, Brockton, Boston and the Eastons. Note:—This item will be of interest to the friends in Bear River and vicinity, as the bride was born in Digby and later moved to Bear River with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Corning Woodworth. She attended the local school for eight years, before moving to Massachusetts with her parents and family.

I think I made only one other "kill" and that was to save some chickens. Was having my dinner at house in Alberta one day when the lady of the house suddenly called to me to "get that shot gun" and kill a hen hawk that was after her chickens. A gun and I are strangers but I "grabbed" this one and rushed out into the yard. Seeing the hawk about to land among the chickens I just let blaze the gun, filled the air with shot and down came the hawk—a dead one for sure! So the lady thinks I'm a pretty good shot.

There was quite a good deal of road building going on through Alberta. They work in much the same way as here but the thing that impressed me was the way the men live, in wagons. Instead of having "shacks" which they use as a base they use covered wagons—large ones, in which they can live, cook, sleep and travel. In this way they can prove right along as they work. They must have gotten the idea from the old covered wagons of pioneer days.

Making a pretty quick trip by having long rides I soon covered Saskatchewan again and Manitoba. Coming by different routes I did not again visit my friends in Winnipeg. Near there one night it came on to rain and not being near any place where I could ask for shelter, I crawled into a dry culvert and slept. That was my only experience of that sort.

Through Ontario things were much the same as when I went out. The days were warm but the nights quite cold. One night I rested beside a camp fire another fellow had and was feeling nice and warm when I suddenly realized he was kicking me in the seat of my pants and saying, "The cost! She burn!" and here was the tail of my overcoat burned out. (I was able to patch it afterward so could still use it.) Coming through Ontario I made few stops—kept away from large cities mostly but did visit Ottawa to see some friends and then on to the province of Quebec. Montreal is certainly a big busy place and so full of people who do not seem to speak English. I liked Quebec city. It seemed to breathe history wherever you looked. Once more I met with such kind hospitality among these people. They don't let you ask for anything but just treat you as if you were an old friend—or so it was in my case. The country was beautiful in summer. Through here the houses have no screens on the windows as we go to keep out the flies. They all have those pretty old fashioned shutters and these are closed during the warm sunny days to keep out flies and make the rooms cool. To me they seemed very dark. I worked my way back through this province and a part of New Brunswick and on to Halifax, which city I reached on August 26th. (I had left Edmonton on July 12th). Leaving Halifax again in a couple of days I turned toward Cape Breton Island where I thought I might find some employment. I went through the counties of Halifax and Guysborough. There was no work but the people were kind. One day in Guysborough county I went to a house to ask for food in exchange for work or shoe strings. The door was open and the door step on a level with the kitchen floor. It had been raining and consequently the boards were slippery. Just as I knocked my feet slid and I landed on my back in the middle of the kitchen. Of course I offered my sincere apologies to the lady for having entered her home so unceremoniously and scrambled to my feet. Finding I was unhurt she laughed heartily and we got along splendidly. I was thankful she could see the funny side of things. Crossing over to Cape Breton Island I went to the extreme north along the Cabot Trail, around the Bras d'Or Lakes and back to a place near Port Hawkesbury where I found employment with a good Cape Breton Scotch family. I liked Cape Breton! It was no good to go to the cities or larger settlements so I kept to the place where I was for several weeks. My work was helping to look after the stock (I learned to milk the cows), and help with the logging operations, and I got along quite well. When the weather seemed to be turning cold and setting down like winter I decided to come home so left these kind people and crossing back to the mainland came by truck to Kentville where I bought a ticket and came on the fast freight to a point near home. Then by car and walking reached home on the afternoon of October 13th—just seven months and seven days from the time I left. Had visited every province in the Dominion except British Columbia and Prince Edward Island. Was thankful that I had kept well and had no serious accidents. Through the kindness of people and my shoe strings and tire patches and my odd jobs of work, I came through what I consider was a good experience for me and one in which I learned a good deal—but it was not easy!

The infant child of Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Neish, of Seaford, Halifax Co., was buried in Christ Church Cemetery, on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 19th. Our sympathy is extended to Rev. and Mrs. Neish in their bereavement.

Mrs. James E. Rice is a visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs. S. H. Blaney, at Granville Beach.

Miss Kathleen Cronin, Thorne's Cove, spent Sunday with Miss Pearl Melanson.

Capt. and Mrs. L. H. Porter left on Friday, Nov. 25, to return to their home in New York, after a few weeks spent at their home in Karsdale.

Warren, McCaul Sproul and Lottie Elaine Longmire, of Delap's Cove, were married Saturday evening of last week at the Lower Granville Baptist Parsonage, by Rev. W. B. Crowell.

TIVERTON

Our community learned with deep regret, the death of L. H. Outhouse, which took place suddenly at his home in Beaver Harbour, on Friday, Nov. 25. He was one of our home-town boys, a faithful member of the Christian Church, and leaves a host of friends who will hold fond memories of one who spent many years among us.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Small last week were: Mrs. A. R. Westcott, Mrs. A. H. Thurber and daughter Antoinette, and Mrs. Leonard Ring, all of Freeport.

Dr. A. H. Churchill, of Barrington, is in town for a few days.

Miss Gertrude Amero spent Thursday of last week with friends in Freeport.

Death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kendrick Outhouse last week and claimed as its victim their little 3 weeks old baby girl.

Clayton Outhouse returned home from Shelburne on Saturday.

George Outhouse has returned from his visit in the United States.

Through an oversight, the Canadian Legion neglected to mention, in their "Card of Thanks" published last week, the name of Rev. E. M. Caldwell, who delivered the address at the monument, on Armistice Day. They deplore the omission and through the Courier tender their apologies.

The motor vessel, Ella Pearl, Capt. Ralph Haines, of Freeport, arrived at Meteghan River from Saint John last week, with a general cargo of general merchandise for the local merchants and unloaded in the warehouse on A. H. Comeau's wharf. The Ella Pearl cleared the same tide for the return trip.

METEGHAN

An interesting concert was given in the Boudreau Hall, Meteghan, on Saturday—both afternoon and evening—by the school children, under the direction of Rev. Sisters Noella and Collette, and the following programme was rendered:

O Canada Belle Patrie.
Le Petit Vieux.
The Spotted Calf.

WELL KNOWN VESSEL SOLD

The tern schooner, Ronald C. Longmire, left Meteghan for Kingston, Jamaica, having been purchased by Mr. Von Decende, and at the helm was Captain L. F. Barkhouse, of Westport, 74-year-old veteran master mariner and formerly managing owner of the ship. The vessel will first, however, call at Turk's Island for a consignment of salt for delivery at Kingston and after being taken over by her new owner, Capt. Barkhouse and crew, numbering five men, will return home via Halifax. The "Longmire" has been personally examined by Capt. Barkhouse and found in perfect condition, having undergone a marine survey and granted all requirements necessary. Built at Meteghan, in 1920, for W. C. Longmire of Bridgetown, the ship has been in the coastal and West Indies trade ever since and lately delivered 20,000 feet of spruce lumber at Boston, Mass., loaded at Weymouth, being in command of Capt. George W. Brooks. From the Massachusetts port the vessel went direct to Meteghan in ballast and on her passage south took on a small quantity of lumber for ballast purposes. Another three master, the Mary B. Brooks, from Weymouth, was delivered to southern parties some time ago.

Captain Barkhouse was in Yarmouth Tuesday of last week, down from Meteghan, looking for crew members to ship on a voyage to Kingston, Jamaica. The Westport mariner is 74 years of age and he is making his last voyage on the high seas. At the age of 18 Capt. Barkhouse stowed away on a coastal ship and just before the ropes were cast off he was discovered and put ashore. A few years later he had persuaded his father, a steady and industrious farmer, that the life of a sailor was the life for him; the old gentleman finally gave in to the youngster's delight and young Barkhouse went to sea. Today he is 74. Twice he retired from the sea. Today the call of the sea is as strong in his breast as it was over a half a century ago. Capt. Barkhouse is heading the call. So he took the good ship Ronald C. Longmire out of Meteghan for adventure on the tumultuous Atlantic for Kingston and his friends wish him luck, good winds and God-speed.

TAKE THE LEAD OUT OF YOUR LEGS

Get Oxygen in Your Blood and You'll Get the Pep that Sends You Bounding Up the Stairs

People who smother to death because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery—you tire quickly—feel depressed.

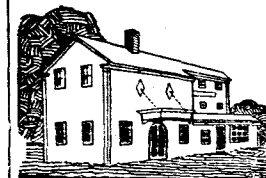

What you need is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today at your druggist. See for yourself how quickly this time-proven blood-builder will help give you back your pep.

About This and That

On a recent trip to Halifax we could not help noticing the number of signs an business and public offices, signifying that "agents, canvassers and solicitors were not wanted." Fully three-quarters of those we noticed were on the offices of concerns who, themselves, employed agents and solicitors,—particularly the newspaper offices—and we wondered what they would think if their agents had the same kind of reception. Surely if one employs agents they should always be ready to receive an agent from another concern. And what a difference between those notices and that at the entrance to the General Electric Company's sales office in a Boston building, which reads as follows: "Let us not forget that anyone who will visit us, anyone who will call us on the telephone, or anyone who will seek our aid, is offering us the privilege of creating good will. Let us not throw away that privilege." The placard bears the signature of Owen D. Young, the president of the Company.

In no nation in the world do the people want war. What nonsense to talk about man as a "fighting animal!" Intoxicate him with liquor, inflame him with propaganda, poison him with hate, and he will go mad and fight. But, even so, when the first wild fury is over, he must be driven to the slaughter—whipped like a slave, conscripted, disciplined and terrorized, if he is to be kept at the front to kill his fellow-beings in the line of battle. Man "a fighting animal?" Such an idea is fundamentally a misreading of human nature. Man does not want to fight, but only to enjoy the simple pleasures of existence. Work and play, the wife and children, a home, a little money for some innocent indulgences of impulse, a healthy life, a secure old age—these are the desires of the heart.

The Ottawa Journal suggests that during the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth, next summer, the practice of reading illuminated addresses should be banned. In mercy, please! The party responsible for the idea ought to be elected first president of the S. P. C. K.—the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Kings.

The Boston Post tells us of a remarkable affair that took place recently at Beverly when John Hill was installed as Worshipful Master of Liberty Lodge, A. F. and A. M., by his father, who is 81 years old. It seems that it is a tradition in the family to have this done, as Mr. Hill's father was installed by his father as he was in turn by his father. Thus four generations have belonged to the craft. It is doubted if such a record can be found in any other lodge.

Man's inhumanity to man is again multiplying a class of people that, quite properly, can be described as refugees. This is seen today in continental Europe where hundreds of thousands must find new homes. History, in fact, is being repeated. Centuries ago, Spanish Jews were driven to Holland, where they laid the foundations of the Dutch colonial empire. French Huguenots, driven out after revocation of the Edict of Nantes, settled in England and in America. Religious oppression in England, sent the Pilgrim Fathers overseas—something that left its mark on the political and cultural development of this continent. Other refugees were people who became known as the United Empire Loyalists. They fled to Canada—many to this section of Nova Scotia—at the close of the Revolutionary War and laid new foundations for all Canada. Mass migration of refugees has sometimes far-reaching effects.

The vessels of what was once known as the Canadian Government Merchant Marine have long since passed into other hands, or practically so. Of 57 that Lloyds still registers, says Canada's Weekly, three are operating under the Manx Line house flag, and used mainly in carrying news print. The other 54 are said to be owned in almost a dozen places. Some are on the West Indies run. A good many have passed to Japan. Spain is said to have three, and China six. Germany, Jamaica and Yugoslavia have one each, and several belong to Greece. Verily, they sail the seven seas!

HERE AND THERE WITH G.R.T.

(Concluded from last week)

Well, we were not on a hunting trip so we say good bye to the little towns of Inyo Country—with such names as Big Pine, Lone Pine, and Little Pine, with not a pine tree within twenty miles—and we head north toward Reno Nevada on a still straight smooth highway until we come to the Mammoth Lakes country with its stately pines and beautiful stretches of smooth water, boating, fishing, everything to make a delightful summer resort, far from the maddening throng, an ideal spot for rest and recuperation. If you are energetic and want to do some mountain climbing, the high Sierra mountains are close by with Mount Whitney poking its head into the clouds at an elevation of 14,496 feet, all it needs to make it 14,500 is for some ambitious mountain climber to get up there and build a four foot monument, try it some time, if you think it is an easy stunt. From this point our road leads into a mountain pass.

When a cold strikes... don't take needless risks

Treat Colds This PROVED Way

WHY experiment? VapoRub has been doubly proved for you... proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind; further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (See full details in each VapoRub package.) Only Vicks gives you such proof. VapoRub is the direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no risk of stomach upsets. Simply massage it on the throat, chest, and back (as illustrated). Relief starts almost at once. You begin to feel warm and comfortable.

able as VapoRub starts working direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time, its medicated vapors—released by the warmth of the body—are carried straight to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break local congestion.

Repeat treatment at bedtime. After restful sleep comes VapoRub keeps right on working, hour after hour. Often, by morning, the worst of the cold is over.

been answered and ordered the monument erected to commemorate the event. The gulls, however, had been coming to Salt Lake every year for more than a thousand years before the Mormons arrived.

From Mono Lake there is another climb through the pine wooded mountains to an elevation of 8,138 feet at Conway summit, and from there we roll down hill into the little village of Bridgeport, country seat of Mono County, the town is just a wide place on the highway, why it was so named no one seems to know; there is no sign of a bridge here and it is far from being a port. The court house, two or three small stores, a small hotel, two garages and three service stations make up the business section of the place. There is a very comfortable motor court and in one of its cabins we were glad to rest our bones after a drive of 396 miles for the first day out from Los Angeles, not such a long drive but plenty far enough for one day. Next day we crossed into Nevada, which I hope to describe, after a fashion, in my next attack upon the patience of Courier readers.

SMITH'S COVE

The big gale last Friday did quite a good deal of damage in the village. Ambrose Cossett lost his fish house, ornamental and woods trees were up-rooted and other damage done.

George Wightman returned on Saturday from a trip to Lockport.

Mrs. Gordon Cossaboom returned to Halifax on Monday. John Smith has gone to his camp in the wood for a short time.

Henry H. Sills is improved in health, after a recent serious attack of illness.

Mrs. George Austin is out again after being housed for some weeks with a lame ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall have returned from a business trip up the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Payson celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage on Nov. 26. Owing to Mrs. Payson's recent illness, the evening was spent quietly with only the family and near relatives. Among their gifts were a beautiful silver tea service and casserole.

For the first time corn is being grown commercially, two crops a year, winter and summer, without soil. The plants are fed with chemicals placed about the roots and reach a height of 12 to 15 feet. This method was begun in the 17th century and has been found to give better control over the plants. For the past years the Ohio Agricultural experimental station has been experimenting with using methods to produce corn commercially.

Kidney Aids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, aches, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills. A half a century the favorite remedy for

HERE and THERE

WITH G. R. T.

Now, it's good bye California, and hello Nevada, temporarily speaking of course, for we cannot linger long in Nevada and from California we cannot stay away. So it is up with old chancieer—a nice big and proud Plymouth Rock rooster—crowing for dear life in a near by yard. We build a fire of dry pine wood in the motor cabin cook stove—for there is no gas in this burg and only enough electricity for lighting, with voltage too low to operate our portable radio, so no morning news from the outside world. The pine wood burns quickly and makes a hot fire; coffee is soon boiling and with some fresh caught trout and bacon sizzling in the frying pan, toast and eggs, a real breakfast is soon ready to be devoured. Ah, this is the life, waking up rested and hungry, and being able to put away a good breakfast, enjoying every crumb of it.

Carson City is the capital of Nevada, and is the smallest capital city in the United States. The 1930 census shows 1596 inhabitants, mostly state employees, plus a few old timers who wouldn't live anywhere else. In 1880 the town had 4227 people; in 1890 the population had slipped to 3950; in 1920 it had dwindled to 1685 and has been dwindling ever since. The buildings in Carson, including the capitol buildings, are old and show the ravages of time. The state library and office of the Attorney-General is about the only new building in the town. Everything seems calm and peaceful here—the only real busy people in sight are the librarian and the janitor. Over in the capitol building the government employees seemed to have very little to do, but then one would not expect them to be rushed at a time when the legislature was not in session, so why not let them enjoy themselves in pleasant conversation, let them put in all the time they want in reading the morning papers—down in from San Francisco and Reno. The State of Nevada is rich, taxes are low, and who among its 95,000 inhabitants—being less than one person to the square mile of territory—is going to complain because state government employees have a soft job with good pay?

Nevada, "the Silver State" sometimes called the "Sagebrush State" on account of the sagebrush being the state flower—is the least populous of all states of the United States. It is mountainous and much of the high table lands are arid and semi-arid. The Federal government has a project to reclaim 160,000 acres by irrigation (in addition to 48,700 acres already under irrigation), and when this is completed about 20,000,000 is expected to be added to the Nevada farmers' income. Transportation facilities are fairly good. In addition to three trans-continental railroads lines—Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and Union Pacific—the state has a very good highway and stock growers can move their products direct by truck

Any way, as we gaze at these mountains at close range, we wonder what terrific forces piled them up and left them the way they are. Huge mountains of rock containing precious and semi-precious metals, also copper, lead, iron, and in some places great walls of burned-out lava, with lava boulders scattered along the foothills and washes as large as a commercial traveller's sample trunk. Well, don't let us think too much about it, no one knows just how it all happened except a few geologists who pretend to know all about the science that investigates the structure of the earth, the successive physical changes it has undergone, and the causes which have operated in producing such alterations in the crust of the globe. So let us be content to enjoy the visible and let the geologists go on geologizing with the invisible. Incidentally if you have any mineral ground that you would like a report on, you can get such a report from almost any geologist, who will charge you for his services at the rate of one hundred dollars per day or more, plus travelling expenses.

Well, the beckoning ribbon of road looks nice and straight out of Bridgeport, but we were soon to find that farther on it winds around another mountain with many curves and steep grades, but our little Dodge purred right along to the summit without a cough or sneeze. So down hill we go again, following a tumbling mountain stream for several miles—one which from appearance along its banks must have raged and roared with tempestuous glee during the spring rains, leaving heavy timber and boulders scattered about in wild disorder. There is still lots of water in this rocky little river and I was tempted to stop beside its banks for rest and meditation but my schedule calls for our arrival at Carson City, Nevada, before the hour of noon, so we have to hustle along.

One nice thing about this trip is that there are very few cars and trucks on the road and no motor cops at all to slow us down when the speedometer gets above the 45 mark.

And here we are at Coleville, the last town on this road in California, and we go rolling over the line into Nevada. It is all open country with scattered cattle ranches, well watered by small rivers and lakes; there are great herds of cattle everywhere. This is the Carson Valley and was first settled by the Mormons about 1849, when Brigham Young's kingdom, which he called the "state of Deseret", extended as far west as the California border. To many gold seekers passing and locating in this section, plus unfriendly Indians, upset Brigham's plans so he called his people back to the Salt Lake Valley in what is now the State of Utah.

Anti-Jewish Technique in Berlin

"Germans, defend yourselves. Don't trade in Jewish shops." is the legend these Nazi storm troopers are pasting on the windows of a Jewish-owned store in Berlin. This technique was comparatively mild beside that now being used, not only in Berlin, but in Munich, Vienna, Hamburg and other key cities, where mobs, unchecked by police, are wrecking Jewish stores and defiling synagogues. Cause of the outbreak was the death of Ernest von Rath, secretary of the German embassy in Paris, as the result of bullets fired into his body by a young Polish Jew whose parents had been mistreated by Nazis. If the public did not like their rates they could go "jump in the lake". Conditions are different, now. Before the railroads can set up a rate they must go hat in hand before either the State or Interstate Railroad Commission and obtain permission to put the rate into effect. If the commission thinks the rate is fair to all concerned they "O.K." it, but if the large shippers protest and can show good reason for their objection, the commission will in most cases ask the roads to reduce their proposed rate. Just now railroads are praying for increases in rates to offset increased expenses, but the various commissions which are made up of men who know nothing about railroad management, seem disinclined to give the roads any relief through rate increases.

The mountains of Nevada have produced more than a billion dollars in mineral wealth, of which the Comstock lode alone produced over six hundred millions since its discovery, in 1859. Much of the bullion comes from the Comstock mines, passed through the mint at Carson City, where it was converted into the coin of the realm and helped to finance the cost of maintaining Union troops in the field during the Civil War. The old mint building is still standing but has not been in use for many years.

While gold and silver mining is still one of the principal industries of the state, it does not now compare with the copper mining in the eastern part of the state where the mining is done with into the railroad cars which are steam shovels, loading ore direct hauled in long trains to the smelter. Copper produced in 1937 exceeded 140,000,000 pounds. From Carson City I am now heading for Virginia City, that is now more or less of a ghost of its former self. But in its day it was the most romantic mining camp in the world. And it was there that most of the well known millionaires of San Francisco got their real start on their way to riches. I'll tell you more about it next week.

Winter Coming On

by M.G.T.

I tell Pa that we're growing old, and sort of settled down. We're apt to get annoyed at things, and wear a little frown.

But Pa just sort of chuckles, and says "now don't you fret. There's one thing that I've always known, and don't mean to forget:

A man is young, if he can relish apples in the Fall. If he can watch the days grow short, and don't mind it at all.

If he can still feel that the cold is just a fine excuse! For sharpening the old axe blade and putting it to use.

I tell you, Ma, a man is young if he still likes the cold. And you and me—why we're still young, don't talk of getting old."

And so I go about my work, and hum a little tune, and think how thankful I should be it will be winter soon. When we can pile the fireplace full and watch the flames o' high.

And visit there together in the evenings, Pa and I. For winter evenings always are so peaceful and so fine. The very thought of them takes out my frown and smooths each line.

And I send up a little prayer, "Forgive me Lord, the rest, And too, my quick impatience, now I know Thy way is best."

D. W. Hill, Morris, Conn.

Winter has come. It arrived unexpectedly and with quite some violence last Thursday. It was Thanksgiving Day in the U. S. A. Sister and her family had arrived bright and early from down on Long Island, and all were enjoying their chicken and duck, when we noticed the first flakes, very soon the ground was covered with a wet snow, freezing as it fell. It wasn't long before all my guests were on their way home, before the blizzard struck, and as I listened to the wind shrieking around the house, and the snow thudding against the windows all through the night, I was pretty uneasy until I heard that they had all arrived safely, but reported many accidents and smash-ups along the road. Saturday it was six below, and Monday, eight below, pretty cold for November in New England. Yesterday it was forty above, and Pa and I tramped down the old back road to the village, all of a mile, each way. I enjoyed it so much. We have a big space cleared in the snow for the birds, and I spend many minutes through the day watching them. Last night I put out a double handful of chopped suet, as the blue jays love that fat, this morning it was all gone. I must confess that it wouldn't be beyond small Patch to sneak out and gobble it all down, but I like to think the birds got it. One by one, the pheasants, that escaped death through the hunting season, are coming back to their pens, and it makes me feel happy to know that at least a few of them are safe. I hate to see the hunters coming with their guns and dogs. We know that often times the birds are wounded and not always found, and it hurts to think of them hiding helpless, just waiting for a slow death. No wonder there is always a war

Miss Lydia Rice arrived from Boston on Tuesday.

St. John's Guild met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Wm. Dunlop.

Mrs. B. C. Clarke spent last week end at Annapolis Royal, visiting her sister, Mrs. George Rice.

Miss Bessie Morgan returned home on Sunday, after spending several weeks with her sister, in Farnsboro, Cumberland County.

Mr. and Mrs. Green, of Toronto, have joined their children at the home of Mrs. Green's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Baker, for the Christmas season.

A very large number of members of The Keith Lodge, A. F. & A. M., No. 14, gathered in their lodge room on Monday evening, having as the guest speaker, Rt. Worshipful Brother W. C. Parker, of Middleton, Deputy Grand Master, of District No. 3, who gave a remarkably fine address. Refreshments were served by the lodge at the close of the meeting.

Word has been received by Rev. and Mrs. G. D. Brydon, of the death of Clifford Cann, at Chatham, Yarmouth County, after several weeks illness. Mr. Cann is kindly remembered in Bear River as a talented singer, who assisted in the male quartette which sang at the Roll Call service in the Baptist Church here last May, also on later occasions here. Our sympathy is extended to his family.

Major and Mrs. A. M. Simons entertained Thursday evening of last week at supper and bridge. They met their guests at the United Church "chicken supper", at 6.45, when the party, numbering twenty, sat down at tables reserved for them, thoroughly enjoyed the fine supper provided by the Ladies' Aid, after which they returned to the Simons residence and engaged in an evening of progressive bridge, five tables being in play, and the prizes were won by Mrs. A. W. L. Smith, F. R. Harris and Mr. McCarthy.

Mrs. William Vidito, of Lequille, a former resident of Bear River, was a recent guest of Mrs. Lewis Banks.

James C. Brown, entertained the men's bridge club, of which he is a member, at his home, on Tuesday of last week.

Mrs. Lottie Roop left on Thursday for Moncton, where she will be a guest at the Y. M. C. A., until December 20, thence to New Glasgow, at Castle Bank, for a few months.

This town escaped with no serious damage from the recent storm, which left such a trail of disaster over the whole province. A few trees blown down on the Deep Brook road and other outside sections being its only marks in this vicinity.

The following item clipped from a leading West Palm Beach newspaper will be of interest to Mrs. E. F. Power's many friends, in this her summer residential home:—"Oldest of the cultural groups in West Palm Beach is the Shakespeare Club, founded in 1900. Mrs. Edward F. Powers, a winter resident, has recently been re-elected president of the Club, which sometimes varies its program of Shakespearean study with study of the modern drama."

Lower Granville

At the Baptist Church, Karsdale, Sunday, Dec. 18, at 3 o'clock, there will be special Christmas music by the Bridgetown male quartette.

A post nuptial shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Covert on Wednesday evening, Nov. 30, in honor of Mr. Covert's daughter, Mrs. Earle Chute and Mr. Chute, who had just returned from their trip to the United States. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Chute were presented with a Kenwood blanket. A pleasant evening was spent and all joined in wishing the happy couple many years of happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Wheelock and Margaret and Ernest, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bath, at Bridgetown.

W. I. NOTICE

Will all members and friends, who wish to contribute towards the Institute Community Cheer Boxes, please send or bring their contributions to the Masonic Kitchen, where the Institute members will be busy during the next two Saturday afternoons, repairing garments and packing toys, candy, etc. Clothing and contributions of home-made cookies or money are greatly needed. There are many children of all ages, on our list, as well as adults.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Simpson, of Victoria Annapolis County, celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary, very recently, by a party given in their honor and arranged by their daughter, Mrs. Stewart Potter, of Clementsvalle. Friends from Clementsvalle and Clementsport were present extending congratulations.

William Sanford, in his usual courteous manner, made the presentation, when the couple received a beautiful pure wool Brantford blanket, a special gift from Mr. and Mrs. Richard MacRae, and a tea set of dainty cream, rose and gold china, from the other friends.

Several musical numbers were rendered with William Sanford as soloist, accompanied at the organ by his sister, Mrs. Genos Sanford. The young Sanford boy's trio favored them with guitar, harmonica and other music. At the close of the entertainment a large number sat down to a table filled with good things to eat. A prettily decorated wedding cake of three tiers with "Congratulations, Father and Mother", done in icing, occupied first place on the table. It was made and presented by Mrs. Stewart Potter.

In the early morning the guests took their departure amid the usual "many happy returns of the day", thus a happy gathering came to a close. One which will be long remembered by the couple for whom it was given.

Mrs. H. R. Kinney is still confined to her room.

PUBLIC MEETING OF FIRE DEPARTMENT

The annual public meeting in connection with the Bear River Fire Department will be held in the Masonic Room on Monday evening, Dec. 12, at 8 o'clock. At this meeting the annual report of the trustees and fire chief will be given and other matters in connection with fire equipment will be taken up.

VISITS BOY SCOUTS

Kenneth Margeson, of Digby, visited the Bear River Boy Scouts on Thursday evening, Dec. 1, and put on a evening's programme for the troop.

The Scouts present enjoyed Mr. Margeson's visit and hope to have the pleasure of having him with them again.

Rev. G. D. Brydon has kindly consented to carry on as Scout Master for the season, and will be assisted by Eldon Banks.

The Wolf Cubs are again meeting and will be in charge of Bob Woodgate and Arthur Greene.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

On Monday afternoon the regular meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute was held in the Masonic Building, with the President, Mrs. W. M. Romans, presiding, and although the attendance was small, a considerable amount of business was transacted, perhaps some of the most important being the plans for the service of hot cocoa at Oakdene School, after the New Year. Very gratifying reports of the Armistice Dinner served for the veterans, were received, showing a substantial sum cleared, which will be used in the various activities of the W. I. for the good of "home and country".

The library report showed that a few new books had been added and more new ones ordered. The Benevolent Committee is especially active just now, preparing for the distribution of Christmas Cheer Boxes.

Many things are needed in Bear River, which could be accomplished through the Women's Institute, with a larger membership. Come and join the Institute.

PAY LAST TRIBUTE

The funeral of the late Alfred Porter, former resident of Saint John, for many years, during which time he occupied prominent positions in the business, church, fraternal and social life of the community, was held Tuesday afternoon of last week, from Trinity Church, Saint John. The service was conducted by the Rev. Canon C. Gordon Lawrence, assisted by Rev. F. J. Keable, curate. There was a large attendance of business men and others from different parts of the city, many of the former having been associated with Mr. Porter in transportation circles, patriotic work and during his long service in the councils of the Church of England.

Before Mr. Porter's body was taken from Bear River, where he and Mrs. Porter had been making their home, services were held in St. John's Anglican Church, here, conducted by Rev. A. W. L. Smith, a church to which Mr. Porter lent executive support for several years. At this service the pallbearers were: Major Alfred Simons, Fred W. Harris, Frank Dittmars and L. V. Harris. H. A. Porter, K. C., M. L. A., a son, and Mrs. Porter accompanied the body from Bear River on the steamer Princess Helene, Monday, as did Mrs. Alfred Porter, the widow.

THANK OFFERING MEETING

The W. M. Society of the United Baptist Church, held their Christmas meeting on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 1, at the home of Mrs. W. W. Clarke. After the devotional and business periods, the following program was given: Quartette—"Come Let Us Adore Him", Miss Annie Miller, Miss A. Forbes, Mrs. W. Dukeshire and Mrs. B. Harris.

The story of the Birth of Christ, Centred Around Bethlehem—Mrs. W. E. Miller, Mrs. Boyd Rice and Mrs. L. E. Roop.

Reading—"When the Deacon Went to Church, Mrs. Miller.

Duet—"Angels of Light", Mrs. Litchfield and Mrs. R. H. Purdy.

Reading—"By Mrs. McDormand Mizpah Benediction.

A substantial sum was received to be used for missions.

METEGHAN

At last our lobster fisherman were able to set their traps on Saturday, and the first catch on Monday was satisfactory.

Miss Adeline Comeau, R. N., who was employed at Lezin Gaudet's, Comeauville, during the sickness of his wife, who passed away last week, has come home for a rest.

Mrs. Arthur Robichaud is confined to her home with sciatica, and Philip J. Deveau, who is very ill, received the last rites of the Church last Saturday.

Isaac Geddy and his young son, Emery, of Concession, were visitors here on Saturday.

The motor craft Transport, No. 2, from Saint John, is at the Meteghan Shipbuilding Company's dry dock Saturday, for repairs.

CULLODEN

George Bain, who spent the past month with his brother Milton, has returned to his home in Saint John.

Miss Georgie Daley spent the past week with friends in Princesdale.

Rev. A. G. Robertson, of Digby was in this village on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Russell Small went to Saint John on Saturday to visit her daughter, Mrs. George Reed.

PLYMPTON

Miss Levina Melanson spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Melanson.

Willard Kinney and his bride, (the former Marion Thibideau, of Ashmore), have moved in the residence of Mrs. Demias Thomas.

The first Mass was held in the vestry of the new church on Tuesday morning. On Sunday the Mass was held in the basement of the new church.

A number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Potter on Tuesday evening, and Capt. John Smith presented them with an electric sandwich toaster, on behalf of those present. Although Mr. and Mrs. Potter were both taken by surprise, they very fittingly expressed their appreciation.

BEAR RIVER EAST

The Misses Ruth and Ruby Buckler, of Bridgetown, spent the week end at their home here.

Miss Erma Hinton and Edward Jefferson, of Round Hill, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tupper.

Mrs. Noble Sanford, who has been seriously ill for sometime with pneumonia, is steadily improving.

An entertainment and lunch was given in the school house on Friday evening, under the auspices of the Mite Society. Proceeds are for the purchasing of new hymn books for the church.

SMITH'S COVE

Mrs. H. MacLean, of Halifax, was a recent visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Cossett.

Mr. and Mrs. Casswell H. Denton, of Rossway, were guests last Friday of Miss Janet M. and Arthur Cornwell.

Austin Payson arrived from Canning last week and will spend a few weeks at his home here.

CLEMENTSPORT

Mrs. Robert Dittmars is on a trip to Boston and vicinity.

Malcolm Purdy, who has been employed at Oxford, arrived home last week.

Miss Emma Parka spent the week end in Medford.

The ladies of the Baptist Church held their annual Christmas tea and sale on Wednesday of last week. The hall was decorated with pine and red berries and the tables were very attractive with the good things these ladies have the reputation of providing. About $22.00 was realized.

Mrs. Sable McNinch spent a few days in Halifax last week. Capt. Milton Rice is spending two weeks with his family.

Mrs. W. W. Sanford and Donald, spent Sunday in Princesdale.

Mrs. Herbert Hicks left on Friday for Boston. She will spend a few days with her brother, then with friends by auto to Florida to spend the winter months.

FREEPORT

Guy Campbell, of British Columbia, is home for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Campbell.

Miss Maye Haines enjoyed a trip to Saint John last week.

Mrs. Elbert Crocker entertained the girls of her Sunday School class on Thursday evening of last week. The evening was spent in playing the games of bingo and monopoly. Refreshments consisting of candy, cake, and ice cream were served.

Miss Elaine Small spent last week end in town.

For the past two Sundays owing to stormy weather, no services were held except last Sunday evening.

There are to be no pictures on Mondays and Tuesdays at the Nu-era Theatre.

The children enjoyed a little skating last week end at Freeport.

Mrs. B. L. Thurber is still visiting her friends at Toronto. Mr. Thurber will join her to spend Christmas.

Mrs. Wilfred Trefry was in town on Saturday last.

HOSPITAL AID MEETS

The annual business meeting of the Hospital Aid was held in the Rebekah Lodge rooms this week. Mrs. (Dr.) E. A. Ferguson was re-elected President. Miss C. M. Carr, of Weymouth North, was elected Secretary-Treasurer in place of Mrs. (Rev.) F. Smith, who had tendered her resignation. The same standing committee was re-elected. The Treasurer's report was a very pleasing one. Finished work was brought in by the members. At the conclusion of the business session an afternoon tea was served, the sum of over $10.00 being realized.

CHAMBERLAIN'S MIS-TAKE

The press of Europe and America are more or less unanimous in condemning the Huns for their Hunnish atrocities against the Jewish people. It must be a savage blow to Mr. Chamberlain and all those who sympathized with his really humane measures to avoid war. All are now convinced that he erred in dealing with German Nazis, not on his efforts to make peace, but in placing reliance on his faith in the Hitler et al group of gangsters who misgovern Germany. It is now clear to the world that there is no such thing as honor left in the Hitler regime. When the governing body of a nation attack and rob their own faithful subjects, just because they belong to a different race or religion, they actually cease to be a government. When they break all laws human and divine, in killing and plundering by extortion and otherwise it is plain to the civilized peoples of the world that German Nazism is a new form of bestial insanity.

It is now evident, perhaps, most of all to Mr. Chamberlain, that he erred in dealing with Germany as a civilized nation. Where Bear River, N.S.

There is no law to protect the weak, the innocent citizens from an ignorant bloodthirsty plundering mob there is no civilized government. When lawbreakers become law makers, there is madness in evidence and chaos reigns supreme. Britain, France and Italy must now realize that the Munich pact, is a hopeless arrangement. Unhappy Austria knows that she has lost her freedom to pray or play. Her eminent statesmen are in Nazi prisons, her clergy silenced and wantonly attacked and abused for preaching and teaching the law of God. There is no peace possible under Nazi misrule, and the sooner the civilized nations of the world realize this the sooner a lasting peace will come.

The BANK of NOVA SCOTIA
OVER A CENTURY OF BANKING SERVICE

Dear Sir:—Why are the Maritime Provinces designated the "Province of Canada"? Perhaps the following incident is the answer. On Nov. 10 (10 days ago) the wharf at East Ferry was damaged by the storm. Up to the present time car traffic is still waiting to cross. I venture to say that this happened in the province of Ontario or Quebec, the small damage would have been repaired within twenty-four hours. But the impression one gathers in the Maritime Provinces is that "tomorrow is always another day." B. L. Thurber.

WOMAN AGED WITH SCIATICA

Now Praises Kruschen

When sciatica attacked this woman six years ago, she couldn't move without great pain. Treatment after treatment failed to help her. She tried Kruschen and got quick relief.
"Six years ago, I suffered terribly from sciatica," she writes. "I tried everything, but to no avail. Then I took Kruschen Salts. The first few doses gave quick relief. At the end of a few weeks my sciatica had gone. Now I always begin the day with a pinch of Kruschen in a glass of water. I live a strenuous life, being widowed four years ago, and having a son to keep. I run a boarding-house, rise at 6 a.m., and retire at 11 p.m. I am 52, but every one says I look 32—thanks to Kruschen Salts." (Mrs.) F. E. R.
The severe pain which is characteristic of sciatica is often due to needle-pointed uric acid crystals in the sheath of the great sciatic nerve. Two of the ingredients in Kruschen dissolve uric acid crystals. Other salts in Kruschen help Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

"DOWN UNDER"

Australia possesses lamentably little of the true "Dickensian" holly. However, many Australians manage to make shift at this season with a fairly satisfactory substitute which they find in their "Christmas bush." This is a shrub bearing the formidable botanical title of Ceratopetalum Gummiferum, which grows profusely in several districts, but seems specially abundant in the coastal region near Sydney. It begins to blow about two months before Yuletide, and, as each

Weddings

Harvie - Amaro
Miss Essie Madeline, daughter of Joseph Amaro, of Plympton, and Everett Harvie, of Digby, son of George Harvie, of Halifax, were married at the Baptist parsonage, last Saturday evening, by Rev. A. G. Robertson. The bride, who was attired in blue velvet, was attended by Miss Lida Theriault and the groom was supported by James Gibson. After a brief trip to Halifax they have returned and are now residing on Birch Street. The groom is on the staff of H. T. Ward's store.

Frost - Abramson
A quiet wedding took place on Wednesday evening, at 8.30, at the United Church parsonage, when Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson united in marriage Mary Gertrude, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Abramson, of Digby, and Eldred Amasa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burpee R. Frost, of Little Rivet, Digby County. The bride wore a navy blue taffeta dress with navy accessories and carried a bouquet of yellow and white chrysanthemums. The couple were attended by Miss Marjorie Trask and Reginald Turnbull. Mr. and Mrs. Frost will reside in Digby.

SANDY COVE, Y. P. U.

The Young People's Union was re-organized for the winter season, at Sandy Cove, recently.

The following officers were elected:
Honorary President—Rev. H. A. Brown.

President—Mrs. Hugh Morehouse.

Vice-President—Wendell Jeffery.

Secretary—Miss Juanita Snow.

Treasurer—Mrs. Emdon Morehouse.

Planist—Miss Florence Jeffrey.

Convenors:—Christian Fellowship, Gloria Morehouse; Missions, Yvonne Sypher; Christian Citizenship, Florence Jeffrey; Christian Culture, Faith Crowell; Recreation, Clara Gidney; Publications, Wendell Jeffrey; Leadership Training, Mrs. H. A. Brown; Press Secretary, Wendell Jeffrey.

The installation of the officers took place in the United Church on Sunday last. Rev. H. A. Brown installed the President, Secretary and Treasurer, after which the President installed the Convenors, and the Secretary read the duties of their office. The ceremony was very impressive.

The Y. P. U. held a social evening in the Community Hall, on Wednesday. The Convenor of Recreation, Miss Clara Gidney, took charge of the evening's entertainment. Games were played and enjoyed by all. Toward the close of the evening refreshments were served.

Guests present included the Misses Eleanor Wallis, Presbytery President, and Geraldine Syda, of Digby.

WE HOPE THIS COMES TRUE!

To the Editor of the Courier.
Dear Sir:—The blacksmith shop used to be the gossip exchange and many a cosy hour I have spent waiting for my team to be shod or having a bolt made or an axle ground, meanwhile hearing the latest local gossip, speculating as to how a neighbour could afford so much new stock and finally discussing more serious topics such as scallop fishing, assessments, valuations, the town's water supply, etc.
Though a few stalwarts still prefer a "Dobbin" to a "Dodge" and still foregather at the anvil, nowadays, it seems to me that the blacksmith shop is where one hears the discussions of the day, and while getting a "trim" I have heard things of far more importance, being "trimmed".

It was here, that I recently heard of a movement afoot to utilize this town to start up a new industry. Photographs had been taken of the contours of the town and it is to be hoped that a suitable site will be decided upon within our town limits as there are far too few industries here in Nova Scotia to utilize our abundant natural resources.

Whenever the town is the topic of our discussions, the governing body, who for years have worked faithfully and constantly for the public good, comes under fire. Their only reward, like Mr. Chamberlain's, seems to be not in currency, but in criticism, and I cannot help but wonder when I hear some sprightly twenty-year-old giving his opinion, whether the present generation will be so willing to contribute voluntarily to public service as the last generation did.

Looker-on.

RADIO REVIEW

The Radio Review out on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings by the members of the A. Y. P. A., and others helping, was a great success, not only financially but from the entertainment point of view. The choruses were well done, and the announcer did his part, even more than well. We all know more now about the Digby General Hospital.

Those taking part outside the choruses, which was made up of members of the A. Y. P. A., were: Edith Morehouse, Helen and Ellen Melanson, Florence Keen, Marie Fleming, Lenora Smith and Gloria Cunningham. The orchestra was made up of Lloyd Mount, Ross Turnbull and Ena Robinson.

The decorations were very tastefully arranged on the stage, in blue and white, the colors of the group, and the chorus was dressed in blue and white.

The most unusual part of the evening, and one of the most enjoyable parts, was the Community Sing-song. This is a new 'stunt' and with Victor Cardoza as song leader, the audience made the walls re-echo and resound with much music and laughter. Mr. Cardoza and the young people are indeed to be congratulated on the splendid entertainment.

BASKET BALL

The second game of a five series between Digby High School and Weymouth, was played in Digby on Dec. 1st, with the Digby team taking Weymouth in a 31-23 victory. The game was fast and well fought with both teams playing their strongest line-up. Dave Clarkson led the Digby boys to victory, himself getting 19 of the 31 points.

The Digby line-up was as follows: V. Rovicheau, 6; Dave Clarkson, 19; Paul Winchester, 3; N. Wright, 2; T. Walker.
The Weymouth line-up: J. McNeill, 5; Richard Brittain, 3; Hector Pothier, 2; Dick Ruggles, 1; Rupert Thurber; Clarence Melanson, 2.

BAD CUT, RESULTS FROM FALL

Weak from loss of blood, Wilfred Rice, South Range wood cutter, was taken to the office of Dr. W. R. Dickie Wednesday morning, where several stitches were required to close a severe laceration of the scalp, in the back of the head. Rice, who was going to the South Range farm of Jesse Marshall, to cut wood, slipped and fell, striking his head on the back of the sharp double bitted axe slung over his shoulder.

The injured man was taken at once to the office of Dr. W. C. Harris, Barton, but on his arrival the Barton physician was out on a call. Rice was rushed to Digby, where treatment was given by Dr. Dickie. He insisted on returning to his home at South Range in spite of the fact the doctor felt he should have remained in the hospital here for a few days.

Rice, who bled profusely, fainted several times en route to Digby.

THE ANGLICAN CHURCH

Services in Digby

In spite of the rather inclement weather, congregations at the Parish Church on Sunday were quite large. At the celebration of the Holy Communion in the morning a large number of those present partook of the Sacrament. In his sermon at that service, the rector spoke from the text, "Thy word is like fire in my mouth." At the evening service the rector spoke from the text, "I rejoice at Thy word as one that findeth great spoil."

Last Sunday, the second Sunday in Advent, was Scripture Sunday; a day set apart in the church year for special study and consideration of God's Holy Word.

The Women's Auxiliary "The love of Christ constraineth us."

At the regular weekly sewing meeting of the W. A., the sale of clothing, toys, etc., for the needy parish of Neil's Harbour, was packed. The ladies of the W. A. have done great work along these lines this year in preparing bales for needy sections of the Diocese and Dominion.

The Junior W. A. Meetings of the Junior W. A. have been postponed until the leader, Miss Lucille Cormack, is able to take charge again. Miss Cormack was operated on some time ago for appendicitis, and is now convalescing.

The Anglican Young People's Association

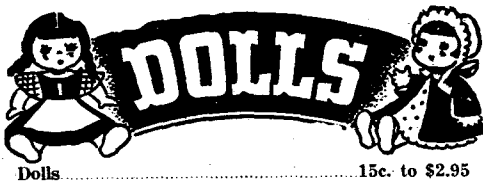

"For Christ and the Church"

On Monday evening the members of the A. Y. P. A. and those others helping in the entertainment produced by the society in aid of the Digby Hospital, enjoyed a delightful theatre party. At the special meeting held before leaving for the theatre party, the report of the Christmas Cheer Committee was placed before the Society. The committee have made great progress with their work and it is expected the Christmas Cheer work in the needy parts of the parish will be very well handled by the A. Y. P. A.

Royal Household is the triple-tested flour. Tested for wheat quality before milling, for flour quality during milling, and for baking quality after milling. The wheat is the cream of the Canadian crop. Not only is it washed, but it is also put through 18 additional cleaning processes. Then each batch is sifted through silk screens over and over again to make it finer.

None of the nourishing elements of the wheat are lost. Used with any good recipe, Royal Household Flour makes the most wholesome delicious bread, cakes and pastries you ever tasted. Why not have the best? Get a bag from your dealer today.

About This and That

The current of events is setting toward a redistribution of peoples, and no part of the world looks better to the sore beset and the homeless than the spacious, fertile vacant areas of Canada. And others are neither sore beset or homeless. They are plain jealous. "If we don't develop this country according to its potentialities" said Hon. W. J. Assestine, Minister of Mines, in British Columbia, speaking in Vancouver recently, "there will be glittering, covetous eyes looking at us from abroad." And that's no fairy tale.

Oil within the British Empire, and plenty of it, is "a consumption devoutly to be wished," just now. Oil, it is said, is the only key raw material that cannot be found in sufficient amounts within British territories, and this explains why so much attention is being given the possibilities of the Turner Valley in Southern Alberta. Chief oil supplies at present are located at the far end of the Mediterranean, and a single reverse comments the Financial Post might close the two great fields of supply, Syria and Persia.

"What tho' the spicy breezes blow soft o'er Ceylon's isle." An alluring, an enticing line, that! Perhaps you remember singing it, once upon a time when all joined lustily in "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," that fine old hymn written to stimulate missionary endeavor. But Ceylon is "on the spot" today. A great drought is over the land, and every living creature suffers. Even the beasts and serpents of the jungle come out to seek in vain for relief from the misery of thirst.

Canadians are justified in their concern for national well-being so long as political leaders fail to act with courage in matters of public policy. They are justified in their fear of eventual bankruptcy so long as public waste continues unabated in the administration of our relief policy, our railways, our unemployment problem and in the mounting liability of public debt and taxes. Canada can easily eliminate the national wastes that lead to bankruptcy if she wishes to do so. The first step is establishment of the leadership principle in Canadian public life.—Financial Post.

Racial persecution in Germany is a reversal to an age and a condition when the world was steeped in ignorance and intolerance. That is the core of a situation existing today. Science has gradually dispelled the gloom of ages—the darkness of superstition, brutishness, filth. The light of knowledge and wide charity is taken as a matter of course; accepted so universally that, as Roosevelt recently remarked, it is with difficulty that one can believe what is, however, the plain truth from Europe.

Canadians may be interested in a law enacted in South Africa, forbidding the sale or possession of toy guns, pistols, tanks and soldiers, or anything that looks like a revolver. This has been done because of recent acts of violence committed by young criminals. The government assumes that they got their bent toward such crimes playing with firearms. It is an old idea, long urged by pacifists, but Canadians mostly have refused to believe there was anything in it. Possibly the South Africans are better psychologists than we are.

Shoving sprouting democracies around the map of Europe and making automobiles and selling them are different problems. Ask Adolf. He knows. Der Fuehrer created a great stir with the announcement of a low-priced automobile. One has been built and Hitler rode in it as thousands cheered. He outlined a plan so every German family might have a car. Magnificent roads had been built and the German laborer was to enjoy them. But the German laborer hasn't bought a car and he isn't going to buy a car. Only 150,000 took advantage of the fine offer of the government, so the payments have now been reduced to five marks a month. The new auto costs 990 marks. A potential purchaser would be paying 16 1/2 years. And the final ridiculous provision is that 750 marks must be paid before the owner may obtain possession. A purchaser would be paying for the car 12 1/2 years before he could sit in it! Thousands have been sold and the down payment made, but none have yet been delivered. The name of the car was announced as the Volksauto—people's auto.

The writing of obituaries is to the country editor a task quite different in many ways to others undertaken by him. He is naturally expected to send the deceased to rest as one exemplifying all the virtues which human kind may be supposed to possess. It exemplifies the old Latin saying, "De mortuis nil nisi bonum." (Of the dead say nothing but good.) Fortunately, most have virtues which we can extol and at the same time omit the little human weakness with which those who know him are well acquainted. This is best and most suited to the ideas and temperament of our people. A Western editor, who lives where plainer talking appears to be in vogue, comments on the situation with remarks rather illuminating, as follows:—"I have laid more than one deadbeat to rest with encomiums on his integrity, who had jumped his subscription account for four dollars just because he knew the amount was so small I wouldn't sue him. I have enlarged on the beautiful home life of a man when I knew his widow was just waiting to marry her neighbor. I have extolled the enterprise of men who never ran an ad, and the virtue of men who couldn't keep a hired girl. With dripping tears I have called the man who beat his children a kind and loving parent. Only those who knew the deceased knew when I was telling the truth and when I was lying. I did it with the best of intentions; and here's hoping that when I embark on the journey over the Styx, there'll be someone to lie for me."

CANADIAN SHEEP

We are well aware that Canada is not a sheep country in the sense that some others are, such as New Zealand and Australia, the United Kingdom, etc. Our consumption of lamb and mutton is much less than that of very many countries. Why that is so is not easy to understand, but it is the fact. However, here is what Dr. Barton, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, said to some sheepmen recently, at a meeting held in Ottawa. "There will always be a place for wool, and always be a place for lamb as meat; there never will be substitutes for them. Lamb as a meat will withstand any opposition. "The sheep industry throughout Canada is now in a reasonably healthy condition, and it is today in much better shape for development than it was a few years ago. The Dominion Department of Agriculture co-operating with the Provincial Government and other agencies have done something to bring this situation about. In several respects the sheep industry has outdistanced some other branches of livestock industry in Canada. There has been notable progress in the handling of wool, though the market may not always be what sheep raisers would like. The world has grown smaller from the standpoint of market outlets. Everyone now has access to it; in fact in some respects there is almost a war at times in regard to price. "It is encouraging to see the interest the young people were taking in sheep. They have a great heritage to inspire them. Last year sheep from Canada were exported to New Zealand and Newfoundland, and now

PAPER, PULP OUTPUT IN CANADA IN 1937 HIGHEST SINCE 1929

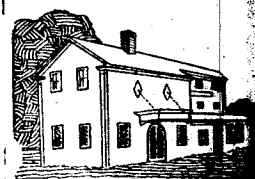

Reaching the highest total since 1929, production of pulp and paper in Canada last year amounted to $226,255,915, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported. The 1929 total was $243,970,761.

The 1937 production showed a 22.2 per cent increase over the 1936 output of $185,144,303 and an increase of 83.3 per cent over 1933 when production reached its lowest level, $123,415,492.

Newsprint paper made up 84.5 per cent of the total reported tonnage of paper manufactured in 1937, amounting to 3,873,886 tons valued at $126,424,303, compared with 3,225,386 at $105,214,553 in 1936. The 1937 production of newsprint marked an all-time record in Canada. The Canadian production was three and three quarters times that of the United States during 1937 and formed 73.7 per cent of the total North American output of 4,943,000 tons. The total employment on salaries and wages in pulp and paper mills in 1937 was 32,101 and the total pay roll $48,757,795, compared with 30,064 in 1936 with salaries and wages of $40,063,852.

BANTER FROM THE BRIDGE

Many good yarns are told of the old-time captains of the early trans-Atlantic steam packets. They were rough old sea-dogs of the sailing ship school, and as their steamers were fitted with yards and galls, they looked upon engines as new-fangled, evil-smelling contraptions that were doomed to failure. Nothing pleased them better than to suffer a complete breakdown in mid-Atlantic so that they could clap on canvas and sail the ship triumphantly into port, thus asserting their superiority of sail over steam.

As engines improved in reliability, sails were gradually cut down to a minimum, leaving only a couple of "fore and afters" for steadying the ship in beam seas, and even these finally disappeared about forty years ago. The only sails to be found in steamers today are those compulsorily carried in lifeboats.

The story is told of a captain and chief engineer who were always at loggerheads about the importance of their positions on board. The captain swore that he could do the chief's work with one hand tied behind his back, and the chief retorted that he could do the captain's job—standing on his head. So one night they agreed to swap jobs for the eight to twelve watch. After about three hours the captain belched up the speaking tube to the bridge, "You'd better come down here, Mac. The engines have stopped and I can't get them started again." To which the chief replied, "Don't worry. We've been ashore on a mud bank for the last two hours."

There is the story of Capt. "Foggy" Martin. On one occasion, after being forty-eight hours on the bridge in a pea-souper, he was more than usually ill-tempered.

It was 8 a.m., and although the visibility was nil, there was a bright patch of blue sky overhead. The sprightly second officer, coming up to take over the watch after a good sleep, said, "Good morning, sir! Nice and clear up there." And the captain, giving him a dark look, replied, "Yes, you blithering idiot. But we're not going that way."

During the South African war a famous Atlantic liner was converted into a troopship and dispatched to Cape Town with a crowd of units, including a detachment of nurses. Nearing the equator, preparations were made for the usual "crossing the line" ceremonies. Captain Flynn, a shock-headed Irishman, was in command and he was known to be an inveterate joker. One day a nurse stopped him and said, "Captain Flynn, when we cross the line do you think I'll be able to see it?"

"Sure," said Flynn, with a twinkle in his eye. "We'll be crossing at noon tomorrow, and if ye come on this bridge I'll show it to ye."

Next day, the nurse and several companions arrived on the bridge at the appointed time. "Now," said Flynn, taking the telescope from its rack and balancing it across the top of the bridge rail, "if you look through this in the direction of the horizon, you'll see the line." While the nurse was awkwardly focusing the glass, the captain, with a wink at the bystanders, plucked a hair from his head and held it horizontally across the end of the telescope. "D'ye see?" he cried.

"Oh, yes," replied the nurse excitedly, "and bless me if there isn't a camel walking along it."

If a passenger ever asked him at the beginning of a voyage, what the weather was going to be like, he invariably replied, "Fine weather all the way — roughly speaking."

In conclusion I must tell the story of the jovial captain who one Christmas Day, dressed up as Santa Claus and presented toys to the children from the tree, which had been provided.

The next day, when entering a congested West Indian port, the ship had the misfortune to run ashore. A few hours later all preparations had been made for getting her off. On the after deck, surrounded by a maze of bow-taut wires and cables; deafened by the rattle and clatter of capstans and winches; half-blinded by smoke from the snorting tugs, with the tropic sun beating down on his bald head, stood the anxious captain, directing operations. At the critical moment, when the ship was showing signs of moving, a little old lady, clutching a tiny camera, picked her way daintily to the captain's side and said, "Captain, dear, would you be kind enough to dress up as Santa Claus again so that I may take your photograph?"

Before the astonished captain could open his mouth two hefty sailors grabbed the lady and carried her to a place of safety, so his reply remained unrecorded.—By J. C. Bissett, Captain of the R. M. S. Scythia.

Capt. Ernest Lewis, at one time master of the fisheries patrol motor vessel, Capelin, and now a resident of Whitport, is in a hospital at Saint John. The well-known skipper suffered a stroke, and recovered sufficiently at the time, to go about his duties again, but lately has been in a run-down condition, necessitating his removal to Saint John.

SERVE FISH CAKES FOR BREAKFAST

Get Energy In the Good Canadian Way

Days are getting crisper, the whole family needs more pep and energy to tackle the day's school-work, business or homemaking tasks. And the way to get that energy is by a big platter of fish-cakes for breakfast. They're easy to make if you cook extra potatoes for dinner and have the fish freshening at the same time, and make the cakes right after dinner before the potatoes have a chance to get cold. Put them in the refrigerator or in a cool place, covered over with a sheet of wax paper, and they'll be all ready to fry crisp and hot for breakfast in the morning. Here's the easy way to make them.

Canadian Fish Cakes
1 cup codfish, flaked and freshened (if salt cod is used); 1 egg, beaten; 1 teaspoon onion juice, (optional); 1½ cups mashed potatoes; 1 tablespoon butter, melted; pepper to taste.

Simmer codfish until it flakes easily. Mix with mashed potatoes, add beaten egg, melted butter, onion juice (extracted by grating onion), and pepper. Beat until light and fluffy. Form into cakes, dip in beaten egg (mixed with milk or water), roll in finely sifted, dry bread crumbs. When ready to use, sauté in bacon fat, drain on unglazed paper, and serve.

This is the traditional favourite at the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa, where many M.P.'s stay during the session. They are served with a poached egg on top and Canadian bacon. Or you can use thick tomato soup as a sauce, or serve with bacon alone.

For a family breakfast, make your fish cakes generous in size, but for Sunday mornings, when breakfast takes on special significance, make them tiny and serve with little sausages, or follow with wheat cakes and maple syrup.

EXPULSION OF THE JEWS

The German government in their expulsion of the Jews, are only allowing those without means to leave that country, and are like any other gangster organization; holding the rich Jews for ransom.

They want not only assets these unfortunate men have in Germany, and Austria, but some four hundred millions they have invested in other countries, before letting them footloose to tramp out of that ungodly nation.

The powers that are in Germany are simply aping the criminal gangsters of the U. S. A., who kidnap for ransom and who murder their helpless victims even when their ransom has been paid.

The civilized nations of the world must combat this dastardly action in order to preserve their national honesty, and refuse to allow money earned in the several countries, through investments, etc., to be sent even to the owners of such investments, until they, and their families, are free and secure in their future homes.

To make this possible it might be necessary for every country in which these investments are held to enact a law forbidding such investments being sent to Germany, while the owners are under duress. When the owners of such investments can make personal application for same, the several other countries can deduct such moneys due the German state under laws existing in that country, prior to the Jewish persecution, or under laws of exchange in existence in the country in which the investments are held. If Germany holds these unfortunate people for ransom that country is manifestly unjust, and any other country would be equally unjust who allowed the money of investors to be sent to Germany for ransom. Unless such a law is enacted speedily, investment concerns will have no excuse but to send money to these unhappy people now in terror of their lives. If Germany has no use for the Jews—they have no right to steal their money and several Christian countries will be glad to welcome them. Jews and their money have always been available, and both men and money have helped win several British wars. The Jewish people are entitled to fair play—they want no favors.

LORE OF THE HOLLY

The lore of this season is rich in legend and superstition, and holly is not immune from it. In Rutland, the be unlucky to take holly into smallest county in England, for instance, it is supposed to be unlucky to take holly into a house before Christmas Eve, and in Worcestershire and Herefordshire holly that has once adorned a church is much sought after. The possession of one small branch, it is said, brings with it good luck for the coming year. In Germany, holly twigs are hung over the lintels of doors to safeguard the inhabitants against thunder, for in ancient times it was thought that thunder did the damage, not lightning. Holly is used, perhaps, because holly bushes are never struck. This plant is of the prickly as well as the non-prickly variety, commonly known as "he" and "she" holly. And in Derbyshire they say that the kind of holly brought into the house will enable one to say whether the husband or the wife will be of the most importance during the year.

The Recent Mink Show

The first mink show ever held in the Maritime Provinces was held at Lawrencetown recently, under the auspices of the Central Nova Scotia Mink Breeders' Club. This club was organized early in the year with membership limited to Nova Scotia.

The show was beyond all expectations. There were 233 mink exhibited and an estimated attendance of five hundred people. Hon. J. W. Comeau, minister without portfolio and member of the N. S. Legislature for Digby, opened the show. Other speakers were Dr. E. E. Hancock, Provincial Animal Pathologist, Truro; Raymond LeBlanc, Agricultural Representative for Digby County; and Donald White, Agricultural Representative for Annapolis County.

A banquet was held on the last evening at which over ninety were present. After the banquet addresses were given by Hon. J. W. Comeau; Judge K. L. Crowell, of Bridgetown; R. LeBlanc; G. H. Mayers, of Lampson; Fraser & Huth, Inc., New York, who judged the show; O. A. Elsner extended the greetings of the citizens of Lawrencetown and congratulated the club on the fine show; T. B. Chipman, Bridgetown, fur grader for the N. S. Silver Fox Breeders' Association; and E. M. MacDougall, secretary of that association, also extended congratulations and emphasized the importance of such shows.

The president of the club is M. P. Neily, Spa Springs, and the secretary is George O. Armour, of Middleton.

At the close of the banquet the ladies of the Clarence Baptist Church, who catered, and Donald White, Agricultural Representative, were given a hearty vote of thanks for helping to make the show a success.

The $50 cup was made possible by the following donors: Dr. Leo Stone, of Clementsport, one-half; and the remainder made up by the N. S. Silver Fox Breeders' of Bridgetown; Clare Fox Club; D.

A. MacRae, West Middle River, and W. L. Baker, Spa Springs.

Winter Coming On

some where. It seems to be, a part of men, and many women, the desire to kill something.

I like to watch the water of the pond in front of the house, stirring and rippling in the breeze, and as I look at the sky and bare branches of the trees reflected therein, I think of something my mother used to tell us of years ago. It happened more than sixty years ago. My memory doesn't go back that far, but there are people living in Weymouth now, who I am sure will remember the mirage, that very strange and unexplainable phenomenon, when the town of Digby was reflected in part of my father's hay field, near the house. It was plainly seen. Everything was upside down. The vessels in the harbor, trees and houses. It lasted several hours, and people came from all directions to see it. I used to think it was just a "make believe" story, until years afterwards I read for myself a full account of it in a clipping pasted in a scrap book, belonging to the late Mrs. Jeremiah Dahlgren. What a treasure trove that book was, and how I would love to see it today. Mother told us lots of other stories which I never tired of listening to, of cats and birds that talked. My nose was always in a book of some kind, fairy stories especially, so I was never surprised to hear that birds could talk, and I was quite a big girl before I ever saw a parrot and heard it speak. Aunt Susan married a sea captain, and sailed the Seven Seas with him in the barque Orion. She brought home with her from foreign ports many queer things, and one was a parrot, who would roost in the big apple tree near the house and when my mother was a little girl coming over the hill from school Polly would say, "Here comes Sarah! Here comes Sarah! What magic! One time when the vessel came home from France Aunt Susan brought a white Spitz dog, who always slept out doors in the snow all night. I would shiver and feel so sorry for the little dog curled up in a pile of snow, wrapped in his bushy tail, but he was used to that and would have died cooped up in a hot house. Aunt Grace had a cat named "Maria", and our eyes would stick out with wonder as we listened to the stories of the tom-cats who would sit outside the door and call, "Maria, are you coming out tonight?" all told in our mother's best story-telling voice. Oh, for the faith of our childhood, sometimes, even now, I think I'm not so grown up, when I swallow, hook, line and sinker, some of the tall yarns that I hear and which do me lots more harm than the stories our mother told us years ago.

I took a day off last week and went to the big city, where I met a dear friend for lunch, and did a bit of shopping. The stores are decorated for Christmas and the counters filled with all sorts of gew-gaws, useful and ornamental. Soon people will be hurrying along with faces all screwed up in worried knots, and children will spend hours with noses flattened against the clean windows and their hearts fairly sick with longing. I will, as usual, squeeze all the dolls I can without being seen, wish for all the books I could read and a million dollars to buy everything that childish hearts desired, and hand them around I hope you will all have a happy Christmas, everything that you want and all that is good for you. For myself, all I am wishing for is peace in this troubled world, and goodwill in the hearts of men. It's happiness enough to have folks and friends of my own, who come to see me when they can, and write to me when they cannot. The pleasure of good books and good music; of eyes to see and ears to hear; of the clean blue sky overhead and the good solid ground under my feet. What else would I wish for my Christmas stocking?

Cheerio, and happy landing to all.

About This and That

It has long been recognized that the power to tax is the power to destroy. A legitimate function of government, and a proper one if properly used, nonetheless the power of tax, if misused, may be second only to war in its destructiveness and as all-changing as a revolution. That is too great a power to entrust to any one man, to any one class, to any one faction, or even to any one party. It is a power conferred by all the people, which affects the lives of all the people, and it should be exercised in the interests of all the people in full daylight.—Industry, Boston.

Many a year ago, in an editorial sanctum in San Francisco, Francis Brete Hart wrote a poem that began with the declaration that for ways that are dark and tricks that are vain, the Oriental is peculiar. The passage of time evidently makes no difference. From Japan comes word that the wily sons of Nippon have given a town a new name. It is called USA so that goods made there can have, made in USA stamped on them. Japan already has an island called Sweden, where matches are manufactured.

This is an uncertain sort of world, but it can be safely predicted that a multitude of men, between Digby and Vancouver will be gazing, with more or less misgivings, at new neckties on or about December 25th.

We are indeed pleased to learn that the "Christmas Cheer," for the underprivileged children of the town, started a few years ago by the Kiwanis Club and continued the last two years by the Brotherhood of the United Church, is to be carried on this year by a committee appointed by the Board of Trade. We are pleased for the sake of the children and also because it has been taken up by the Board of

Nova Scotia Farm Notes

T. B. Tests in Yarmouth

Up to Nov. 23, the T. B. test for cattle, which is under way in Yarmouth County, has been applied to a total of 6,190 head, according to a report by H. H. Churchill, agricultural representative in that county, who states that in all this number only five reactors were discovered. This is an exceptional record.

Former N. S. Man Receives Appointment

Agricultural workers and others in Nova Scotia will be interested in the appointment of Howard L. Trueman, son of the late Dr. J. M. Trueman, who was principal of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, to the position of assistant to the director of science services in the federal department of Agriculture at Ottawa. Mr. Trueman, who graduated from the college at Truro, has in recent years been secretary of the Canadian society of technical agriculturists, and editor of "Scientific Agriculture".

N. S. Fruit Growers Celebrate Anniversary

Celebrating 75 years of service to the apple industry in Nova Scotia, the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association met in convention at Kentville, recently, and the gathering was featured by a number of interesting reports and addresses. A timely link with the past was furnished by the presence of Dr. Fred C. Sears, of Amherst, Mass., an outstanding horticultural authority, who lived in Nova Scotia in earlier years and later was professor of pomology at Massachusetts Agricultural College.

The historical address of the occasion was delivered by Hon. John A. McDonald, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, who traced the history of the organization and its relationship to the growth of the apple industry. His address was featured by the presentation of lantern slides of old time pictures, including those of early presidents of the organization. Mr. McDonald had words of praise for all the various factors and services and organizations which had contributed to the industry in any way. These included past presidents, life members, experimental stations, farmers' associations, municipal councils, co-operative fruit companies, transportation companies, shipper's association, the press, the universities and educational institutions, and the provincial and federal agricultural services. Representatives of many of these were present and were introduced.

Angus Elderkin, 1938 president, in his address, emphasized the vital importance of continually being prepared to meet keener competition, which he felt was bound to come from British growers as well as others. "Protect this heritage we have," was the keynote of his address.

Praising the high quality of Nova Scotia apples found on the British market this year, F. W. Walsh, provincial director of marketing, reported upon his recent visit to the old country. No better quality apples were to be seen than those from here, he said, but in his talk he emphasized the following points:

Necessity for regulating weekly shipments to the British market to prevent flooding of markets and consequent lowering of prices.
Necessity of reducing the volume of certain varieties. Mr. Walsh stated that too great a volume of Gravensteins had been forwarded.

Elimination of shipment of odd varieties.
Shipping of uniform lots.
Reduction of the great number of marks and brands.
Better storage facilities to ensure delivery of firmer fruit.

Another interesting feature of the gathering was the report given by Hon. Mr. McDonald, of the quantities of Nova Scotia apples being absorbed by the local markets in the province. The establishment of inspection service at strategic points under the new provincial natural products act, had made it possible to check the quantities of apples going forward by truck to local markets. In the period from September 12 to November 30, a total of nearly 30,000 barrels of apples had been checked at the inspection point at Bedford, outside of Halifax. Of these, nearly 22,000 barrels going to Halifax and Dartmouth alone. Out of the total of 30,000 barrels, only 7,100 barrels had been for export, the remainder going to provincial points. It was interesting that in the same period of time only two carloads of B. C.

apples had been brought into the province, the equivalent of 500 barrels.

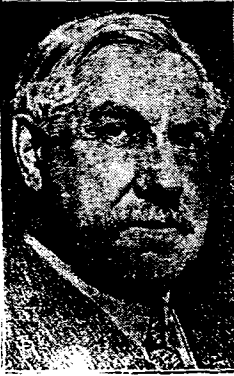

C. M. Collins, provincial horticulturist, told the convention of plans being laid for the complete census of apple orchards in the "valley", which would provide detailed information on the number of growers, trees, ages of trees, varieties grown, etc.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA'S TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Originating in Czecho-Slovakia these precepts have been taken up in other countries, and are on the bulletin board of countless schools:

1. Love your schoolmate; they will be your companions for life and work.
2. Love instruction, the food of the spirit. Be thankful to your teachers as to your own parents.
3. Consecrate every day by one good useful deed and kindness.
4. Honour all honest people, esteem men, but humble yourself before no man.
5. Suppress all hatred and beware of insulting your neighbor; be not revengeful, but protect your own rights and those of others. Love justice and bear pain and misfortune courageously.
6. Observe carefully and reflect well in order to get at truth. Deceive not yourself or others and beware of lying, for lies destroy the heart, the soul, and the character. Suppress passions and radiate love and peace.
7. Consider that animals also have a right to your sympathy, and do not harm or tease.
8. Think that all good is the result of work; he who enjoys without working is stealing bread from the mouth of the worker.
9. Call no man a patriot who hates or has contempt for other nations, or who wishes and approves war. War is the remains of barbarism.
10. Love your country and your nation, but be co-workers in the high task that shall make all men live together like brothers in peace and happiness.

THE ANGLICAN CHURCH

The Vestry

The Vestry of Trinity Church met for its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening. There were present Wardens J. W. Merkel, Edward Howard and eight vestrymen. The session was opened by the Rector with prayer. After the reading of the minutes by the Clerk considerable important business was transacted. One item of interest to all parishioners was the matter of removing a large portion of the old butternut tree on the Rectory grounds. This old tree is the only one of its kind, we believe, in the county but it was not able to withstand the severe gales of three weeks ago. Warden Merkel is taking charge of the matter of its removal.

St. Andrew's Brotherhood

St. Andrew's Brotherhood of Trinity Parish met at the Rectory on Tuesday evening, following the meeting of the Vestry. Director George Cardozo led the meeting. Prayers were said by the Rector. A considerable portion of the time was devoted to the matter of a constructive program for the winter. Satisfactory reports were given regarding the banquet held on the eve of St. Andrew's day. Some 24 men and their wives attended and it was felt that the Brotherhood had got away to a good start for the year. St. Andrew's Brotherhood is the recognized fraternity for men throughout the Anglican church on the continent, and the Digby unit is really a contributing force in our church life. Cecil Jones has charge of the program next Tuesday evening.

The Women's Auxiliary

The annual meeting of the W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Woodford Connell, Queen Street, on Wednesday afternoon. A goodly number were present. The president, Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch, was in the chair. After the roll call messages were read from both the Dominion and Diocesan presidents. Very satisfactory reports were given regarding the sale of clothing, gifts, toys, money, etc., sent to Neil's Harbor, one of the needy parishes of the diocese, and the aid given to Western Canadian Sunday schools.

The election of officers for the year followed the reading of the reports, and they are as follows: Hon. President—Mrs. E. M. (Jd.) well.

President—Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch. First Vice-President—Mrs. W. Connell.

Second Vice-President—Mrs. G. B. Clarkson.

Secretary—Mrs. F. Wilson.

Treasurer—Mrs. Raymond Lent.

The Dorcas Work—Mrs. Ralph Berwick and Mrs. Edward Howard.

The Living Message—Mrs. Ganong.

The Cent-a-Day Fund—Miss Louise Daley.

After the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

THE UNITED CHURCH

The Grace Church Brotherhood

The attendance at the United Church Brotherhood on Wednesday was exceptionally large. The tables were set for over forty and a large number attended the meeting which was opened to the public after the supper hour and business period.

Teams were chosen for the debate to take place at the next monthly meeting.

Wednesday night's programme comprised a general sing-song with G. B. Clarkson, president of the organization, acting as song leader. Music was furnished during the evening by R. M. Murray and E. J. Theriault, pianists; Dr. Hodgson, violin; and a vocal solo by Mrs. Harvey Walker with Mrs. Arnold Turnbull, as accompanist.

The main feature of the evening's program were the motion pictures shown by Mr. and Mrs. O. Wright. One reel was taken by Mr. and Mrs. Wright, and showed scenes of their trip to Florida last year, as well as many interesting local shots, including the liquor store fire, are Armistice Day service and the cutting and preparing of pulpwood for shipment.

Digby Young People Hold Meeting

The weekly meeting of the Young People's Society of Grace United Church, was held on Tuesday. The evening was in charge of the convenor of Christian Culture, Eleanor Wallis, and her committee, and was held in an improvised chapel in the Anti-Cant room, and was followed by the business, conducted by President Patricia MacPhee. A short dialogue, "The Blind Man Sees" was presented, which depicted the inward vision of a blind man. This was followed by a reading by Dora Hirtle, on the origin and history of carol-singing. Miss Hirtle was also appointed convenor of Publications during the evening. It was decided that the group would be responsible for decorating the church for Christmas. Meeting closed with recreation conducted by the committee.

The Weymouth Y. P. U.

The Young People's Union of the Heartz Memorial United Church of Canada, met in the church vestry on Friday evening as usual. Galen Pierce, Citizenship Convenor, had charge of the programme, and gave an interesting talk on the "Co-operative Movement". Starting with the Roachdale Plan of Co-operatives in England, he traced the movement to the present Co-operative Movement in Nova Scotia. He was assisted in the Worship service by Rev. C. U. MacNevin; the President, Jack Smith and the Fellowship Convenor, K. FitzGerald.

This evening the young people are presenting a three act pageant, "No Room in the Inn", in the church, at 7.45. This meeting is open to the public, and all are cordially invited to attend.

The Bear River Y. P. U.

The regular meeting of the Bear River Y. P. S. was held in the vestry of the United Church, on Friday evening. The meeting was under the leadership of Miss Eva Jack, the convenor of the Christian Fellowship committee. Several of the members took part in the programme.

Miss Eleanor Wallis, Presbytery President, Miss Patricia MacPhee, Presbytery Secretary, of Digby, were the guest speakers at the meeting.

TO ASK FOR T. B. TEST

A petition will be circulated by the Digby County Farmers' Association among the farmers of this county in the near future, asking the approval of agriculturists and dairymen for a T. B. test of cattle, to be held during the coming year. A resolution to take this step was passed at the annual meeting of the Digby County Farmers' Association, held in the Town Hall, last Saturday.

At this session the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Lin. Cmeau, Comcauville.

Vice-Pres.—H. W. Cossaboom, Lake Midway.

Secty.—Treas.—H. A. Nichols, Digby.

Delegates to annual meeting of Nova Scotia Farmers' Association.—S. F. Comeau, Meteghan; Harvey Chisholm, Bear River; D. C. MacKay, Acaciaville.

Alternate Delegates:—Joseph LeBlanc, Meteghan; Joseph Harrow, Bear River; Lloyd MacNeill, Marshalltown.

A resolution regarding an educational programme along agricultural lines, in the rural schools, was passed. It was also decided to try and hold short courses during the winter months, and to hold a ploughing match during next year.

Prizes for crop competition were awarded as follows:—

Oats:—1st, James Roop; 3rd, Goudy Nichols; 3rd,

Lloyd MacNeill.

Swedes:—1st, Leo Thibodeau; 2nd, Frank Gates; 3rd, Andre Comeau.

Mangles:—1st, Leo Thibodeau; 2nd, Andre Comeau; 3rd, J. R. Deveau.

IT HAPPENED ON CHRISTMAS MORNING

I heard the wind go whistling by On Christmas Day in the morning. Down from the mountains he came with a shout, Laughed and blew the little stars out— The little pale stars of the dawn—

"Where did you come from. Wind?" said I, "Wind of the Christmas morning?" "Up from the valley and down from the hill, To bring you a greeting with a will, This beautiful Christmas morning!"

"What did you see on your journey here? Wind of the Christmas morning?" "I saw some brown-cloaked shepherds go. Plodding wearily over the snow, To Bethlehem in the morning."

"As I went sweeping across the world," Sang the wind on Christmas morning.

"I saw Three Kings set out afar, I saw the gleam of a wondrous star, Shining on Christmas morning."

"And through the cracks of a stable wall," Sighed the wind on Christmas morning,

"I crept, and I saw in the scent of hay Sleeping, the little Jesus lay, Born on a Christmas morning!"

"And that is why I whistle and sing Gaily on Christmas morning, For the Babe who was born this happy day Shall take the sins of the world away, I wish you merry, I wish you gay— All on a Christmas morning!" —Author Unknown.

OBITUARY

Charles Doucet

At Little Brook, on Thursday, December 1st, Charles Doucet, passed away after a lingering illness, at the age of 49 years and 8 months. He was living with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doucet, and leaves five children, two sons, Albert and Emile, and three daughters, Elise, Laura and Rosie, all at their grandparents' home; one brother, Ben, in Somerville, Mass.; six sisters, Mrs. Ben Comeau, Mrs. Fred Burgess, Mrs. Adolphe Amiraault and Miss Elizabeth Doucet, all of Somerville, Mass.; Mrs. Denis Comeau, Digby, and Mrs. Lawrence Saulnier, of Saint-Jovite. He was a member of the Société de Les Artisans and of the Sodality of the Holy Rosary. The funeral took place at St. Mary's, Church Point, on Saturday, Rev. Father O. Hebert, officiating. His two sons, brother-in-law, Lawrence Saulnier, Denis Bourque, Willie LeBlanc and Denis Lombard were pallbearers.

Philip Deveau

At Meteghan, on Wednesday of last week, Philip Deveau died after a lingering illness of cancer. He was in his 65th year and leaves a widow, formerly Edith LeBlanc; a son, Emile, at home; four daughters, Mrs. George Saulnier, Saint-Jovite; Mrs. Aubrey Veinot, Yarmouth; Mrs. John Whittot, and Mrs. John Doucet, of Lynn Mass.; a brother, Joseph J. Deveau, in Meteghan. The funeral took place Thursday afternoon, from the Stella Maris church, Rev. Father L. Comeau, curate, officiating. Arthur Robichaud and A. F. Haché directed the choir. Fred and Louis LeBlanc, Bernard Deveau and Willie Comeau, all nephews of the deceased, were pallbearers.

A. D. Foote

The death of Alonzo D. Foote, a wheelwright, and one of Weymouth's oldest and most respected residents, occurred at his home at an early hour on Thursday morning of last week, following an illness of several months duration. The deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Foote, of Moncton, and was in his 81st year. He is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Morton, Barton; one son, Grover D., of Somerville, Mass.; and one daughter, Hazel, (Mrs. C. F. Nichol) of Strathmore, Alta.; both of whom were with him at the time of his death; also by four grandchildren and one great-granddaughter, also one brother, George Foote, of Chicago. The late Mr. Foote had resided in Weymouth for fifty years. He was for many years a member of the choir of the Riverside Baptist Church, and a deacon of the same church, and was also interested in things pertaining to the community life. The funeral service was held on Saturday afternoon from the Riverside Baptist Church, Weymouth North, with Rev. I. D. Lytle, pastor of the church, officiating. A solo was rendered by Rev. Donald Stockford, of the Christian Church. Interment was in the Riverside cemetery. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

Mrs. John Amon

Margaret, wife of John Amon, died at her home, in Barton, on Saturday, aged 25 years, after a long illness. The funeral took place Monday morning with interment in St. Croix Roman Catholic cemetery at Plympton. Besides her husband, she leaves one brother, Eugene Robichaud, of Doucetteville.

Mrs. Alma Height

Mrs. Alma Height, widow of Milford Height, died at her home, in North Range, Dec. 13, after a short illness. Mrs. Height, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Lewis, of Barton, leaves seven children.

W. Alvin MacNeill

There passed away at his home in Plympton, on Monday, Dec. 12, W. Alvin MacNeill, after a short illness. Mr. MacNeill was born at North Range, 77 years ago, the son of the late William and Hannah (Bacon) MacNeill. He married Miss Arabella MacGregor, of Tremont, Annapolis County. They lived in North Range until 1927, when they moved to Plympton. Mrs. MacNeill predeceased him three years ago, since that time he has been tenderly cared for by his daughter, Mrs. Theodore Gerard, of Halifax, who with two nieces and three nephews are the only survivors. In early life he united

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

CHRISTMAS CARDS

Snapshots such as this can be posed any time now—and will make charming, inexpensive Christmas cards.

ABOUT this time each year, I observe a ring of red ink around a date on my calendar, and a note on the margin—"Time to think about Christmas cards." It's a warning that has saved me lots of trouble in the past, and that is why I am passing it along to you now. Naturally, every dyed-in-the-wool Guild member likes to design his Christmas card around one of his own snapshots. However, many of us tend to put it off until the last moment—and, in the end, have to send out ordinary cards that are not at all individual. So my advice is—get busy now, and have your cards ready for early mailing.

No two photographic Christmas cards are alike. That is what makes them so personal, and there are thousands of ideas you can adapt. The picture is the important part, and a clever picture idea gives the card more appeal. If your child has a set of building

Funeral service was held from his late home in noon and Hann vbgk gkq rldidwll Plympton, on Wednesday afternoon, also service in the North Range Baptist Church, conducted by Rev. I. D. Lytle, pastor of Weymouth North Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. C. U. MacNevin, of the United Church. Hymns sung were: "Nearer My God to Thee", "Safe in the Arms of Jesus", "It Is Well With My Soul", a solo, "Some Day the Silver Chord Will Break" was sung by Hubert Shortliffe. Interment was in the Baptist cemetery at North Range.

FOR SALE—ONE Quebec Heater, second-hand; a bargain. J. J. Wallis, Birch Street, Digby

Evelyn Manzer was bridesmaid, dressed in a long floral gown with accessories to match. Scott Kinney, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Re-school friends of the bride, and they wore blue silk with navy accessories. The church was trimmed by friends of the bride with a very attractive pink and white arch with a green background. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, where a large number of guests were present. A buffet lunch was served. Mrs. Ronald Kinney and Louise Kinney poured and were assisted in serving by Rebecca and Edith Marshall, Helga and Florence Brooks, Hilda Kinney and Anna Willet. The bride's cake was made and beautifully decorated by her cousin, Courtland Kinney, of Plympton. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. Morton Fitzgerald, of Lockhartville, mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Mullen and son, Willis, of Weymouth North; Mrs. Sadie Mullen and Rev. and Mrs. Lytle and daughter, Betty Joyce, of Weymouth North; and Mrs. Roland Kinney and two sons, Reginald and Courtland, of Plympton. They received many beautiful presents, and will make their home in Wolfville.

Lytle united in marriage Marion Josephine, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thibedeau, and Willard Hamilton Kinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Kinney, all of Ashmore. The bride wore a royal blue satin dress with heavy accessories. The couple were attended by Vivian Thibedeau, sister of the bride, and Scott Kinney, cousin of the groom. Following the ceremony they went to Digby, returning later in the day. They will reside in Plympton.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS PRESENT PLAY

A large audience witnessed the production of the four-act play "Christmas at Deep Coulee" in the Community Hall, which was presented under the auspices of the High School Athletic Societies, Thursday evening of last week.

The play, one of the finest amateur productions to be presented here in some time, was written and directed by Baden Powell, manual training instructor on the Digby Academy staff, who also took one of the leading roles. Mr. Powell is to be congratulated on his success as playwright, director and actor; congratulations are also due his troupe of academy students, who took their parts well.

Proceeds were for high school athletics. During the first intermission Mr. Purdy, principal of the academy, thanked the audience for their attention and interest.

WOODMAN'S NEW STORE OPENS MONDAY

The modern new store of O. Woodman, Joggin Bridge, will open for business on Monday. This new building, replacing the store destroyed by fire just one month ago, is of fire-proof construction, inside and out, finished on the outside with white asbestos shingles, inside with Donacona Board.

The new building will house the store, warehouse, feed room and office of Mr. Woodman, the main store located on the west end of the building, while the other departments are on the east.

Two large plate glass display windows will face the street. Floors are all finished in hard wood. Mr. Woodman is to be congratulated.

NEWS FROM DIGBY

The Co-Operative movement is on its way. The majority of our people do not realize this yet, because never can it be said that this movement arrives amid a blare of rumpets. It is better compared to the kind neighbor, who, when trouble comes, slips quietly in the back door and helps with the chores, while loud-voiced, empty-handed sympathizers crowd the front door. The Co-Operative movement accomplishes things. So Digby is at last making her polite excuses to the sympathy brigade and hurrying to the kitchen to work side by side with this friendly neighbor.

HERE and THERE

Well, it is only fifteen miles from Carson City to Virginia City and we reached the latter—after making a side trip to Silver City, time for the mid-day meal and incidentally in time to hear Herr Hitler's famous speech on the Czech matter. Even in such an out-of-the-way place as Virginia City the townspeople keep up with current events through radio reports.

Virginia City is a typical mining camp of the roaring seventies, but the history of this famous old camp dates back to January, 1859, when on a cold wintry day a small group of prospectors, too tired and worn out to travel farther, made camp on Sun Peak, later known to map makers as Mount Davidson, upon which Virginia City, the greatest of all silver mining camps, was to arise.

In the morning these prospectors, just to try their luck, stuck their picks into the side of the hill, and to their great surprise and joy, uncovered an outcropping of yellow quartz, which later proved to be the top of what was soon to become the Ophir mine, which eventually was to produce millions for other owners. Needless to say, discoverers of gold in this new district, were tickled over their find, but were not so tickled at a later date and at some lower depth they ran into a sort of blue clay that gummed up their crude and primitive gold mining machinery and made recovery of gold difficult and unprofitable.

When some new comers to the district made them an offer of ten thousand dollars for their ground the boys accepted with alacrity and high glee, and as soon as the money was paid they proceeded to go out on a protracted and hilarious drunk. Lucky day for them, they thought. Let the new crowd dig and shovel and sweat in that blue clay all they wanted to. As for themselves they had all they wanted of it, and more, too.

But the lucky boys were the buyers, for it soon turned out that the blue ore that caused the gold miners so much trouble was nothing less than virgin silver, worth at that time and for years afterward, approximately one dollar an ounce at the United States mint.

This was the discovery of the famous Comstock lode from which fortunes totalling over a billion dollars were to be taken. The Comstock was named after an old chiseller, named Henry Thomas Paige Comstock, but better known to the few inhabitants as "Old Pancake," due to the fact that pancakes, that easily prepared and fairly satisfying food, were the principal item of his daily menu. Comstock located all of the ground that the law would allow—and some that the law did not allow, mining laws not being strictly enforced at that time—then sold the claims for all that he could get for them to new arrivals in the land of silver, having little faith in the future of the camp plus a complete ignorance of the values that lay beneath the surface, he thought that he was doing well for himself by getting all he could while the getting was easy.

Virginia City, that later was to appear upon the map of Nevada, was then a huddle of miners' shanties and tent houses without a name. So one day an old prospector from the State of Virginia named James Fennimore—nicknamed Finny and sometimes Old Virginny, coming off shift, stopped in front of the tunnel in the mine where he was working and made the following speech: "Fellers this here place aint got a name, right now I'm gwine to give her one; I hereby name ya Virginny Camp and you're being christened with this bottle of whiskey," which he proceeded to smash upon the mouth of the tunnel. So it then became known as Virginia Town and later as Virginia City. Some say Fennimore loved his whiskey too well to use it for such a purpose and that the christening liquid was nothing more than very weak and very cold tea.

News of the richness of the silver ore that was being found on the Comstock lode attracted most of the gold miners and "forty-niners" from the various gold camps in California's mother lode territory. Among them were men who later were to become San Francisco's millionaires and builders of that city of fine homes on Nob Hill, and hotels such as the Palace, the Baldwin, and others; also such office buildings as the Flood Building, the Sharon and many more that I cannot recall at the moment.

One of the best known, best remembered and best loved of this group was John W. Mackey, a young Irishman from Dublin, who worked his way to San Francisco in a sailing ship, had clerk's job in the city for a while and then joined in a rush to the placers along the Yuba river where he got his early training as a miner for which he developed much aptitude and ability. Over in Angels' Camp, California, was another young Irishman, Jim Fair by name, who came direct from "Old Sod" by the way of New York, Chicago and Salt Lake City, from the latter town in charge of a "covered wagon train" bound for California's gold diggings. Fair finally landed a job in the cold mines at Angels' Camp where he married Therest Roney, who kept a boarding house, from whose potato table that the house afforded, together with an extra wriggle of pie, in his lunch basket. Therest, however, was no ordinary "hash slinger" but a graduate from a Catholic school in New York. She came to California during the gold rush hoping to make a fortune, but at the time Fair met her she was doing best to make an honest living. Fair was said to have a keen eye for the ladies but a keener nose for ore, the latter being a great help when he joined up with Mackey at the Comstock mines. This pair being capable and practical miners, were not long in securing

"Sure Timmiel"

"I'll give you some of my lunch. I know you'll like the sandwiches mother makes. You bet she makes good bread. She uses REGAL Flour, and says she wouldn't have any other kind. You ought to tell your mother about REGAL. I'll bet it would please her, too."

pay ground from which they extracted about $140,000 worth of silver, but their experienced eyes and mining knowledge told them that there must be more rich ore in the ground adjoining their own little mine, but it took more capital than they then possessed to purchase this nearby property, so they hid themselves to San Francisco in quest of additional funds.

In the city by the Golden Gate were two well known Irishmen—Flood and O'Brien by name—who kept what was known as a respectable saloon in San Francisco's stock brokerage district. It was a place where men of affairs liked to lounge and gossip. Into this emporium of fancy drinks and straight whisky, foreign and domestic distillation, into this resort with its fixtures of polished walnut and mahogany and glittering chandeliers and bar glassware, drifted the two miners from Virginia City. In due time they explained their proposition to the two hosts, behind the bar, said hosts having had long experience as listeners to many such propositions, decided that this one listened the best of any that they had yet listened to. It was in fact, the one that they had wanted to listen to for a long time. It was the one for their money, so they put up sixty thousand dollars in cash and the four men formed a partnership and pooled their resources, and in a short time picked up control of some of the richest silver producing ground on the Comstock lode. Jimmy Fair's unerring nose for ore never failing him, led the quartet into millions. Millions that were to buy for Fair a European prince for his daughter. Millions for Mackey that were to enable him to join with James Gordon Bennett in the Mackey-Bennett ocean cables and land telegraph lines, and establish the Nevada State School of Mines for the education of young mining engineers. Millions that were to buy Flood palaces and mistresses, and unlimited whisky for O'Brien of which he eventually got to much.

But these were not the only ones to grow rich in Virginia City and take their wealth with them to San Francisco. There was Ralston, of the rich and powerful California Bank, who built the Palace Hotel, that time the finest hotel in all the western country. And, there was lucky Baldwin, who built the Baldwin Hotel in San Francisco, and one of the best in the city. Both these hotels were destroyed in the earthquake of 1906, the latter never rebuilt, for by that time Baldwin had run out of money and was glad to sell the site for "ash need" for upkeep of his immense ranches in Southern California. Neither of these men were miners, both made their money in stocks of Comstock mining companies. The former with his associates controlled some of the richest producing companies and profited greatly from manipulation of their shares on the San Francisco stock exchange. Baldwin, who was a horse trader and hotel man before he came to the Comstock, was clever in having miners, to whom he paid substantial bonuses, obtain work with the various mining companies, secretly reporting to him news of the discovery of new ore bodies before the general public became aware of the find. Then he bought shares for the "rise" and cashed in with big profits. With these profits he bought large tracts of farm land in Southern California near Los Angeles, but at the time of his death his affairs were in bad shape financially, but discovery of oil on some of his lands put the estate back on "velvet" and Baldwin's heirs are "sitting pretty" today.

Mark Twain was another well known personage who came to Virginia City to work in its mines, but Mark disliked the heavy manual labor of mining and soon thereafter took a job as reporter on Virginia's leading newspaper, "The Territorial Enterprise" from which position he later moved up to editorial writer and from there on to become one of America's greatest artists in putting one word down after another, resulting in contributions to literature that have been read all over the world.

That is all for this time, folks; I'll be seeing you again next week, I hope.

LOTTERIES AND LAW-LESSNESS

The provision in the Criminal Code which permits "raffles for prizes of small value at a bazaar held for any charitable or religious object" has led many to believe that for charitable or religious objects tickets can be sold for lotteries or drawings on various articles at any time.

1. It should be understood that this objectionable and unethical provision, which makes appeal to covetousness under the cloak of charity and religion, and which we trust will not remain long in the Code, does not, however, permit sale of tickets excepting at such bazaar and not in advance of the bazaar, and not until the articles, not exceeding in value $50.00, have first been offered for sale. These and other restrictions are overlooked, or held in contempt, by various organizations, and thus encouragement is given to fakirs, and disregard for all law is promoted.

2. The membership of organizations, and all persons, having due regard for the duties of citizenship, should surely observe the provisions of the Criminal Code, which make it unlawful, (with the exception above noted), to make or print, to sell or buy, lottery tickets, to advertise a lottery, to operate wheels of fortune, bingo, (house-house), coin tables, slot machines, to offer gate or door prizes, or to dispose of property by lots, cards, tickets or any mode of chance.

3. In the interest, particularly of the young there is need in churches and schools for teaching the duty of law observance. Municipal, City and Town Councils are under obligation to have all laws on our statutes enforced.

R. R. Grant,
General Secretary, Social Service Council.

Say, folks, ain't Christmas time just grand? nicest kind of feelin' shinin' round on ev'ry hand. No one's cross or grumpy, no one's feelin' sad. Everybody smilin' and gettin' mad. Turkey's in the oven, smellin' awful good; puddin' bakin' in the pot, just the way it should. Mince pies in the pantry. Cookin' on the shelf. No one cares a little bit how much I help myself. Stockings in the morning. All abouge down to the toe. Hours of fun right after makin' all the new toys go. Then it's time for dinner, and the things I tuck away. Would be sure to hunt my tummy, if there any other day! Sleighrides after dinner. Stories aft' dark. Mother singin' carols. Sweet as any lark. Oranges, round and yellow; Candies by the score; Feelin' awful sorry, when I can eat no more. But after awhile I get so sleepy. That the candles get all blurred and dim. And only look like yellow moons to me. Then father says, "Well, mother, this little kid's all in! He's had enough of Christmas. Till another year comes in!" LLOYD SANFORD

Mrs. George Croscup has closed her home for the winter, and is with her sister, Mrs. W. A. Chute.

The Sunbeam Band met on Tuesday afternoon. They are putting on their Christmas concert and tree the following week.

Mrs. H. E. Harris spent the past week at Saint John, where she was the guest of her brother, H. P. Crousse and Mrs. Crousse, returning on Monday.

C. V. Snow entertained the men's bridge club, of which he is a member, on Tuesday evening. Last week the club met at the home of Harry Purdy.

Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harris entertained at dinner and bridge Thursday evening of last week. Covers for twelve were laid on small table in the living rooms, and later contract was enjoyed. The prizes for which were won by Mrs. W. M. Romans, R. B. Murray and Mrs. L. J. Lovett.

The Benevolent Committee of the Bear River Women's Institute wish to stress the fact that all members or friends who wish in any way to contribute toward the Community Cheer Boxes should have their contributions at the Masonic kitchen by 3:00 o'clock tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon, to be packed. Any home made cookies or clothing will be thankfully received and contributions of money will be used to purchase groceries, toys, candy, fruit, etc.

The well-advertised annual meeting of the Bear River Fire Department on Monday evening, was attended by only five citizens of the town, showing a lamentable lack of interest in an organization that is vital to the safety of life and property. This meeting will be called for another date, and if the lack of interest is still manifested, it may result in the loss to this community of valuable fire protection. The welfare of a community depends on the interest its citizens take in promoting it, and lacking their support, all efforts by a few are futile and without results.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Carey Morgan
There passed away at her home in Lansdowne, on Friday morning last, Abbie (Henshaw) Morgan, wife of Carey Morgan, after a long illness. Mrs. Morgan was born at Waldeck East, the daughter of the late John Henshaw and Jemina (Chute) Henshaw, and one son, D. Wright Morgan, Lansdowne; and five brothers and four sisters, Wallace, Frank, and Fred Henshaw, of Salem, Mass.; Joseph, of Deep Brook, and Capt. Herbert, of New York; Mrs. Bell Burrell, of Deep Brook; Mrs. Huff, Mrs. Ware and Miss Jennie all in the United States. The funeral was held from her home on Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. G. D. Brydon. Interment was in the family lot at Smith's Cove.

WO NEW SERVICE STATION

BEAR RIVER

THE TOYS OF YESTER-YEAR

The toys of the children of today differ vastly from those of their ancestors. But crude as they were, a considerable amount of ingenuity and fine workmanship was put into them. Their dolls, for instance, were probably everlasting; a Coptic specimen made in the year A. D., 500 actually exists in excellent condition to this day.

Wood, china, wax, papier mache, and gutta-percha were used in the manufacture of their heads, while their bodies were stuffed so tightly as to be almost unbreakable. Soft, cuddly toys were regarded as too easily destroyed.

A cavalcade of toys would tell a fairly accurate story of the world's history. Children had toys even before the first Christmas. In A. D., 1100, there was a tiny stuffed lion on wheels in Susa (Africa), and a wooden crocodile, snapping its toothed joints, was the forerunner of a similar mechanical marvel of the present age.

The ancients did not possess our facilities, but they produced wonderful effects with the materials at their disposal. About the time of the French Revolution dolls were made hollow so that tiny sparrows could be inserted to give them movement and emit a tiny, life-like chirp. Of course, no toy was worthy of contemplation unless it walked with the times, and little French girls were given tiny models of the guillotine wherewith to decapitate their doll-aristocrats.

Every period has had its hobby-horse; a blood-stirring ride has always been welcomed.

Lacking our mass-production methods, old-time toys were stronger and made with greater attention to detail. The Dutch, Germans, Danes, and Italians specialized in dolls' houses of surpassing beauty; but even the wealthiest children have always loyally loved their rag dolls best of all.

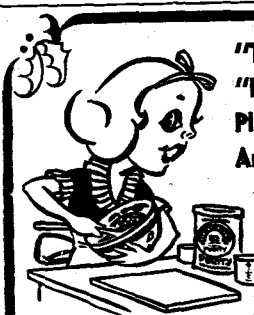

THE MADONNA ON THE ROCK REMAINS SERENE

Towering above the surrounding seas, a constant reminder to the people of Prospect of their religion is Virgin Island, one of the most remarkable natural rock formations in the world. On the side of this island is a remarkable likeness of the Madonna with the Christ-Child in her arms.

Away from the noisy, hurrying world, the rocky lands of the island have never been disturbed by human beings and only on a calm day do men dare approach this high hill set in the Atlantic Ocean—feared by mariners.

Engraved in the side of the island, 40 feet above the

"The spirit of Christmas," says Purity Maid,
"Expresses itself in a table well laid—Plum pudding and pies and a rich, fruity cake
And with Purity Flour they're so easy to make!"

surging seas, the picture of the Virgin Mary has withstood the wind and rain and storms for centuries and will remain as a guide to the residents of Prospect and the neighboring villages in their worship.

On a clear, calm day, visitors can approach the island and view the Biblical spectacle at close range, but no fisherman would venture near the rock in a storm.

It is a strange fact, too, that close by, in Prospect Bay the Norsemen are believed to have landed for the first time in North America, more than 1,000 years ago.

But the picture of the Virgin Mary and the Christ-Child still remains undisturbed, while the signs of the Viking Settlement have practically all disappeared.

TEAMMATES TO WET THE APPETITE

Plan an unusual main dish for dinner tomorrow by combining Canadian fish (whitefish, haddock, or salmon are suggested) with pineapple cubes or tidbits. It's a dish that will linger in memory and for which you will be asked again and again. Men, particularly, find the combination of flavors pleasing and unusual.

Here's the way to do it:
Canadian Fish and Pineapple
½ cup pineapple, cubed or tidbits

2 cups cooked, flaked fish whitefish, haddock, or salmon
3 tablespoons cream or top milk
Salt and pepper

1 beaten egg
Dash of paprika
1 cup mashed potatoes
2 tablespoons milk

Grated Canadian cheese.
Line a greased casserole with the drained pineapple. Mix the fish with the cream or top milk, season and add to casserole. Mix the potatoes with the egg, milk and paprika and pile on the fish. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 20 minutes. Top with grated Canadian cheese, return to oven, and brown.

Serve with this Canadian Fish and Pineapple a vegetable that will provide contrast in color and texture. Baked pepper squash, cut in half, dotted with butter and sprinkled with cinnamon-sugar, is a happy combination, or any green vegetable in season. The desert should be light and tart, a puffy lemon meringue pie, or an orange-chiffon pie would be a fitting finish to the meal ensemble.

Only seven more days until Christmas to do your purchasing for the Kiddies and your friends. We have as large a stock to select from as you can find anywhere, and on comparing prices, we can meet all and we think we can do a little better than most. Our stock is varied and of the highest quality, and again we say "Prices are Right".

T.C.A. Opens Air Mail Service

Regular Trans-Canada Airways, air mail service between Montreal and Vancouver was officially commenced on Dec. 1. Here we see A. M. Gibson, district director of postal service in Toronto, receiving the first bag of mail to arrive in that city from Montreal by the new Trans-Canada service from Capt. R. M. Smith, pilot of the gleaming Trans-Canada Airlines twin-motored plane which opened the air mail service in Toronto. Col. John M. Girvan (right), assistant director of postal service, also took part in the simple ceremonies marking the opening of T. C. A.'s mail-carrying program.

number two, and so on. The file finishing first wins.

Penny Push—Each player is given a yardstick and a penny. Place the penny at one end of the yardstick and with a toothpick push it to the other end of the stick. First two finishing score ten points. (It is suggested that a table be used and that a small book is placed under each end of the yardstick).

OLD-TIME FEASTING CUSTOM

Christmas in England has always been a great occasion for drinking and feasting. In fact, an Italian proverb says of a busy man, that "He has more to do than the ovens in England at Christmas."

In old England they had many dishes which we seldom hear of now. There was frumenty, a dish made of wheat which is still sometimes served in Yorkshire, ale posset, Shropshire "wigs," and caraway buns dipped in ale. Yule doughs or doughs were eaten everywhere, and in Coventry they made their famous Godcake. Tansy, too, was a favorite dish. This was made with eggs and cream, flavored with the juice of tansy, an extremely bitter, aromatic herb. In addition there was Christmas brawn, conynnges in gravy, and a host of dishes that have since died out.

Christmas was never a national festival in Scotland, but at this period of the year new sowens were always eaten. These were made from the husks and siftings of oatmeal mixed with molasses, and, to all accounts, were delicious.

METEGHAN

We have learned with deep sorrow of the accidental death of one of our boys, Joseph L. Robichaud, of Peabody, Mass. He was a native of Meteghan, a son of the late Luc C. Robichaud, and leaves two brothers, Sabin and Mathurin, in Meteghan, and another brother, Pascal Robichaud, in Minneapolis, Minn., and several sisters in Clare and New Brunswick.

Our sympathies are also extended to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred LeBlanc, of Meteghan Centre, in the loss of their baby, Joseph Alfred, five weeks old, who died on Saturday morning. The funeral took place the same afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maillet are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a son on Friday morning last. He was christened Sunday afternoon by Rev. Father Bourneuf, receiving the name of Ernest William. The sponsors were Marton Gaudet, a cousin, and Miss Frances Boudreau.

Mrs. John Doucet, of Lynn, Mass., arrived on Friday, too late to see her father, the late Philip Deveau.

Augustus Dugas, 96 years old, is critically ill at the time of writing.

Games for Your Christmas Party

Three In One—Three players are "It" and must run with arms linked. To catch anyone they must encircle him. The one whom they catch hooks on to the right end of the line and the one on the left end is no longer "It" but goes free. The next one who is caught does the same thing links arms with the right end of the "It" line and the one on the left end is free. That will make your "its" change constantly. If you think it is an easy matter to get away from three "Its" just try it!

Toothpick and Ring — Divide the group into columns. Give to each person a toothpick and to the leader of each column a ring. (A class ring or man's ring is best). The leader puts the toothpick in his mouth with the ring on it and the next in line must get the ring onto his toothpick without touching it with his hands. Then he passes it to the third player and so on down the line to the foot. The column passing the ring in this manner down to the end of the line first, wins the race. If the ring is dropped the whole column must start over again.

Christmas Toys — Each guest is invited to draw a slip of paper out of a box which will tell him to what family of toys he belongs. When everyone has his slip of paper, the different families of toys are to congregate, the drums in one corner, the horns in another, the rattles, dolls, soldiers, etc., in another part. Each group is to put on a stunt that will represent its toy the group giving the best stunt being presented with the toy it represents. Some of the stunts will be very simple, like that of the drum, while others like the mechanical dolls, whose gifts must be shown off, or the soldiers who must give a dress parade, will be more elaborate. It is also made clear that any group may borrow anything it likes from any of the guests present.

Muddy March — Contestants are lined up as for a relay race, the first one in each line being given two waste baskets or empty cartons. When the starting signal is given each of these first contestants is to put his right foot in one of his baskets, putting the empty basket one step ahead, then put his left foot in that; take his right foot out of its basket, put that basket one step ahead, and so forth, continuing in this manner all the way to the goal and return, giving his baskets to the next runner. Contestants aren't allowed to shuffle along with both feet in baskets. Some may try to do this.

Broom Relay — The group is divided into equal files. The first person in each line is given a broom and a small round object (small turnip or ball—or toy broom and balloon are good). On the signal to start the first person sweeps the object up around a given course and back to fax where he will be employed for a month.

Our best wishes to the Digby Courier for a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Capt. Edward Sullivan is getting better after being ill with blood poisoning.

Capt. Rupert Craft, of Saint

John, was a guest at the Royal Hotel on Monday.

Miss I. A. Turnbull, who has been taking up studies in Germany and Switzerland, arrived in Digby on Monday to spend a few days with Mrs. Jessie Turnbull, before returning to her home in Orillia, Ontario.

Meet Kathleen Strange

As the famous author of "With the West in Her Eyes"
And as a Clever Housewife on a Western Farm

In July, 1920, Major H. G. I. Strange, with his young wife, came from England to Fenn, Alberta. Neither one of them knew anything about farming. Yet today Major Strange is widely known in the West, and to many people in the East also, as the winner of a World's wheat championship and an authority on seed grain. His wife, Kathleen Strange, who shared the trials of those early days, has written a story about the romance of present day pioneering in the West. This story, "With the West in Her Eyes", won the grand prize in a recent Canadian Book Contest.

Mrs. Strange, however, insists that many farm women could tell of struggles just as great or greater than her own. Laughing about her first adventures in baking she says, "I was as green as could be, yet it wasn't until I was turning out bread of which I could be really proud. As I grew more experienced, I became more and more attached to Robin Hood Flour."

Kathleen Strange, Famous Author of "With the West in Her Eyes"

Mrs. Strange enjoys baking good things for her family

Thousands of other farm housewives—and city ones too—will back up Mrs. Strange in her preference for Robin Hood Flour. They know that in both bread and fancy baking, they get their best results by using Robin Hood. The bread is more flavorful, is lighter and whiter, and the flour is always dependable as it never varies. Another point is economy. Week in, week out, Robin Hood Flour is cheapest in the long run because it goes farther and yields more loaves to the bag.

Robin Hood Flour owes its purity and absolute cleanliness to the fact that it is milled from wheat that is thoroughly water washed. If you would only give Robin Hood a trial in your own baking you would prove how much better your bread and cakes can be by using a superior flour.

CIVIC BAND REMODELLING ITS BAND ROOM

Back in 1932, when the present Civic Band was forming, the former Daley Electric Light station, on First Avenue, was granted to the Band for a practice room, but the old building was in bad shape and the Town spent $100 for a new floor and new chimney and a lot of patching up, which gave the boys a practice room that answered very well for a time, and the boys were grateful for it. But the room had various bad features. It was hard to hit on windy nights because of many crevices. The acoustics were bad because the walls and ceiling, being of boards, reverberated every sound, and the appearance of the room was not attractive—it was rough, almost barnlike.

Now the band is well advanced and firmly established and the players feel the need of more suitable quarters. After long consideration they decided to go ahead and put the room in condition, although the cost would be another $100 or more. They couldn't ask the town council to do it and the music council already had its hands full, so there was nothing left except to do all the work themselves, hoping for the assistance of their friends in paying for the material. They have not been disappointed. 1400 square feet of wall board was obtained at small cost through the generosity of A. R. Turnbull, who also gave a cash donation. Electric fixtures and wire were supplied by the Power Board at wholesale prices, and some other material was obtained from merchants at prices ranging from wholesale down to free gifts. Fortunately there are among the bandsmen three carpenters, two electricians, several general mechanics and a lot of willing helpers who got together night after night until the hardest part of the work was done, though there is a lot of finishing-up yet. The ceiling and walls are now covered with a light green wall board, new safety electric wiring and fixtures have replaced the old unsightly wires, each light being covered with newly-painted shade that eliminates all glare, and numerous other improvements have been made. The room is now tight, the acoustics are wonderfully improved, and when completed the room will be very attractive—a credit to the town, and a gratification to the players who have to spend so many hours of practice there. However, there is one large item of material yet to be obtained and put up. All seams in the wall board are to be covered with a "strapping" and moulding is needed for corners and cornices. The boys are hoping that some good friend will help them out with this expense. Besides doing the work the boys have contributed to the cost and will need to raise another $50.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS SYMBOLS OF CHRISTMAS

Warren Elmore was mad—angry through and through. For the first time in his business career he had had a quarrel with his partner. Of course it had been all Peter's fault, but even that thought didn't help so very much. The old saying, "It takes two to make a quarrel" kept bothering him.

What was it that his wife had told him to get at Grant's? He asked himself the question as he entered the big department store. Hosiery for Muriel, that was it! Bother Christmas shopping, anyway; why didn't Beverly tend to things herself?

As he walked down the crowded aisles, he was conscious of music from the balcony. An orchestra was up there playing Christmas carols. Warren Elmore forgot his peeve against the world; he hurried up and joined the happy crowd. His voice joined in "O Little Town of Bethlehem." It was followed by the glorious "Adeste Fideles." Then came "Silent Night." As its beautiful strains filled the store, Warren Elmore was conscious that all anger was disappearing from his heart. He wanted to get back to the office, to slap old Peter on the back, and tell him they were a pair of fools for letting such a small thing interfere with their friendship. And, man-like, he purchased six pairs of hose for Muriel, instead of three on the way out. A store that took time and thought for Christmas carols should be regarded a little bit, he believed.

SANDY COVE

Miss Emily Bishop is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Bishop. Currie Woodman, of Marshalltown, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Jeffrey, recently.

Mrs. G. W. Eldridge spent a week with her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Thibault, of Rossburg. Mr. Eldridge also went on Saturday, both returning Monday.

Miss Doris Brooks, of Ashmore, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Scott Syphax. Miss Brooks rendered a solo at the evening service in the Baptist Church on Sunday last. After the service a number of friends, including Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Chute and Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Brown met at the home of Mrs. Syphax and enjoyed a service of song. Mrs. Brown being the pianist.

Miss Edith Johnson, who has been quite ill, is somewhat improved.

The Young People's Union was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Morehouse last week. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Clayton Denton, of Little River, was a guest of Mrs. Scott Syphax a few days last week.

Mrs. Austin Denton spent Tuesday with Mrs. Enoch Morehouse.

Mrs. Charity Morehouse has gone to Halifax to visit her son, Dr. Fred and Mrs. Morehouse, indefinitely.

While working in Digby, helping to load a pulp steamer, Edgar Merritt had the misfortune to have one of his legs caught by a hook. His condition is reported improving.

"VAMP" OF SILENT PICTURES OWNS LAND IN NOVA SCOTIA

The top of the highest mountain in Nova Scotia may be owned by a foreigner, but that doesn't worry residents of the beautiful Land of Evangeline. They are accustomed to visitors who come as sight-seers and end by buying property.

Theda Hara, original "vampire" of the silent pictures, was one who came to see the romantic homeland of Longfellow's Evangeline and succumbed to the charm of the seagirt province. She bought a wide strip of land on the picturesque point visitors see as they sail into Digby Gut from the Bay of Fundy. Visitors to Point Prim Lighthouse pass over the property of the one-time star, whose marriage was reported from Paris, France, a few weeks ago.

The top of Mount Beaman, highest mountain in the province, is owned by A. S. Leland, prominent New Yorker, who bought it in 1900 from a member of a well known Montreal family known locally as the Hermit. This recluse lived at the top of Beaman's Mountain where he could see the sun rise over the Annapolis Basin and set in the Bay of Fundy. Even after he sold his mountain he continued living there. Mystery shrouds his passing, local legend saying that he never died but just disappeared.

Guy D. Dunn DIGBY Nova Scotia

Pious legend has it that St. Boniface, heroic early missionary to the hard-boiled North Germans, chopped down a sacred giant oak to show his challengers how little power this lightning-god had. He was not blasted down in his tracks, as they all expected him to be; and presently a little evergreen sprang up alongside the stump of the overthrown god-tree. That, the legend says, was the beginning of Christmas trees.

It is a very pretty tale, but probably only a tale. For the same Germans who worshipped the oak also revered the evergreen trees, and cut down their branches to add to mistletoe and holly in decorating their halls of feasting. There were Christmas trees before ever there was a Christmas.

Favorites throughout the northern hemisphere, in lands where Christmas trees are used at all, are the short-necked spruces and firs. The "Tannenbaum" of the famous German song is a fir, or balsam. The two trees look much alike, but are easily told apart. Firs have rather soft, flattish, curved needles, and their cones stand up. Spruces have stiff, prickly needles, and their cones hang down. Besides these two, all kinds of other trees are used, through to a smaller extent: pines, junipers or "cedars," aborvitae, and so on.

In the early days of forest conservation, the Christmas tree practice was rather frowned upon; but now forestry experts approve their use, partly as an outlet for little trees that have to be thinned out of too-thick young growing stands of timber. Thus our holiday sentiment may serve a practical end as well, in the national economy.

not figure in the Christmas art, literature or legend of ancient and medieval times. They would appear to have got into our notions of equipment for St. Nicholas by way of Lapland, the "land of the north" in early modern European times, where these animals are both horses and cows to the people.

Excellent adapted to useful life in a hard country are the reindeer. They can stand any amount of cold, they can feed on the toughest kind of fare. Favorite fodder is the finely-branched lichen that grows in great mats all round the northern end of the earth, known for that very reason as reindeer moss. Tireless and fleet of foot, they well merit the name the Germans call them, "Renntier", meaning "running animal".

Reindeer of the old world have a bigger, huskier dentition on our own continent, the caribou. But our caribou has never been systematically tamed; it is still a standby for the hunting tribes of Indians and the Eskimos of the Far North.

Reindeer introduced into Alaska from Siberia have revolutionized the lives of the Indians and Eskimos of that region, turning them from hunters to herdsmen.

Colors of Christmas

Green and red are the colors of Christmas, cheerful against the white snow and the gray skies. Long before there was any Christmas, our Celtic and Teutonic ancestors of northern Europe celebrated a pagan Yule-feast, bringing into their houses green branches as though to assure themselves that winter must end and spring return at last.

Mistletoe, sacred plant to the old Celtic Druids, whose religion was borrowed in part by their Germanic neighbors, was a plant of mystery, for its seeds are so tiny that they may have escaped notice; and above all its habit of growing straight out of the branch of a tree of another species must

HARP INCREASE IN EXPORTS OF FISH

Canada's exports of fish showed sharp increase this year. Fisheries Minister Michaud, said recently in an address broadcast over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's national network, was one of a series of addresses by cabinet ministers on the work of their departments.

The general fisheries situation in Canada has shown steady improvement during the last few years. Mr. Michaud stated, "Last year Canada's fishermen received more money for their total catch than in any other year since 1930," the Minister said.

"Fisheries export trade in 1937 increased by nearly $3,500,000 over the total for the year before."

800,000 new voters will be added to general election lists of Canada for the next Dominion election in 1939 or 1940, according to Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer.

RECTOR'S ADVENT LETTER

My dear People:—Will you please consider carefully the following questions and act on the answer that your conscience gives to them.

What does my church mean to me? and hence to my friends?

What did the Church mean to Christ? He was in the Synagogue and Temple, taking part in the services, supporting and purifying these services of instruction, and of worship of God, His Father.

Do I and my household, follow His example? There is obedience owed by me to my God. The influences tend to interfere with the assembling of ourselves together for public worship.

1. We place our work and pleasure first, instead of God. If God were first in our thoughts and interests we would plan our work and pleasure so that we could attend Church. Some do this, as you know.

2. We obey social conventions rather than God's commands. If people come to see us on Sunday; instead of telling them we are going to Church and asking them to come, or wait until we return, we stay at home to entertain them.

3. We have excused ourselves in this all-important matter of Church attendance, by considering we have done our duty by sending our children or wife to "represent the family".

These seem to me to be the chief reasons for small congregations. We must make a break sometime. Do not wait until some one dear to you dies, or some great misfortune overtakes you, before you realize you owe this duty to God.

As your rector, I wish to do my duty by reminding you of your duty to God in this respect. If you are doing it you will sympathize with my efforts to awaken others who do not, and pray that this may be effective. We are all miserable sinners, but we need not continue to be as miserable as we are, and let us at once begin to improve and continue so to do. I write this in all humility and realizing my many shortcomings. We are here to help each other and to ask God to help us both. Will you not try to be in your place in Church with your family.

In sincere and loving faith,
Rev. A. W. L. Smith.

Annexation Proposed

The Italian Chamber of Deputies resounded to frenzied cries calling for the annexation of the French possessions of Tunisia, Nice, Corsica and Savoy, as Francois Poncet, newly appointed French Ambassador to Rome, embarrassed, pretended he did not understand what was being said. The action of the deputies was seen as Italy's first bid for territories, shown (above), which now belong to France.

GYMNASIUM DEMONSTRATION

Concluding a six-week course in physical training under able direction of Sergeant Major Wooding, a public demonstration was given in St. Ann's College gymnasium, Church Point, recently. Although the programme also included races and games by the Junior students, the major part of the entertainment was played by the Senior physical training classes. They performed two series of exercises with musical accompaniment and concluded with gymnastic games, which were greatly enjoyed by the spectators. The careful execution and great precision of the movements spoke highly both for Major Wooding and the students.

At the close of the demonstration, A. Hamel, '40, made a presentation to Sergt. Major Wooding on behalf of the faculty and student body. In the course of his address, Mr. Hamel voiced the gratitude of all and expressed the wish that Sergeant Major Wooding come again next year to continue the work so well begun. He also added that Saint Ann's College recognized the value of physical culture in the development of both mind and character. Sergeant Major Wooding urged them to continue the exercises which aim at cultivation of control and will power as well as muscular development.

This position was given Herbert by the school from which he graduated.

Lloyd Blackford was a passenger to Saint John, via S. S. Keith Cann, on Monday.

THE WAR CRY, CHRISTMAS NUMBER

The War Cry, Christmas number is a production that should be welcomed in every home of the land. It contains full page plates in colors, and letterpress of an elevating character.

Furthermore, the special number is a message that will bring blessing, profit and inspiration in its train. All the family will find in its colorful pages something to interest and cheer, and as an inexpensive and effective greeting-gift to a friend or relative, it solves a perennial problem.

Articles of a seasonable character and otherwise are well illustrated, and emanate from world wide, 'Army writers of note. Foremost is an imagination-capitulating article by General Evangeline Booth, entitled "The Pre-eminent Christ." Commissioner G. L. Carpenter, Canada's Territorial Commander, writes a trenchant article, entitled "Christ-mas and the World's Needs"; Mrs. Commissioner Carpenter, a gifted contributor to Army literature, pens a message of hope to those behind prison bars in a letter addressed "To Our Friend the Prisoner." The Chief Secretary, Colonel G. W. Peacock, writes of the blessedness and mystery of Christmas in "Chief Day of the Calendar."

Other illustrated articles and stories include: "Romance of The Army's Printing Press", by Lieut.-Colonel E. Webb; "White Sleigh and Bundle of Blue", by Mrs. Adjutant Rea; "Boss Plays Santa Claus", by Adjutant M. Stratton, etc.

Don't fail to get one. Mrs. I. E. Hersey, who has been visiting relatives and friends in Digby, has returned home.

The Theresa E. Connor, the 181st vessel to be launched by shipbuilders Smith and Rhuland, of Lunenburg, slid down the ways yesterday. The vessel was christened by Mrs. H. G. Connor, wife of one of the directors of the Maritime National Fish Company, for which firm the vessel was built. This vessel is a sister ship of the Lilla B. Boutlier, which was launched a month and a half ago.

Showing evidence of a terrific beating, the three-masted Saint John schooner Frederick P. Elkin, Capt. George Haughin, arrived in Yarmouth yesterday after a 27-day voyage from Barbados. From the day the ship sailed, heavy seas and storms were encountered, crew members said. Several sails were carried away and others damaged considerably.

Dr. A. R. Dafeo, of Callander, Ont., who brought the world famous Dionne quintuplets into the world, will pay his first visit to Nova Scotia next summer it was announced in Halifax recently, by D. L. Dolan, director of the Canadian Travel Bureau. Mr. Dolan said Dr. Dafeo told him he planned to make a Maritime tour.

F. E. Bath, manager of the Fur Marketing Service, agents for the Hudson Bay Co., received word Monday from the company in London, stating that furs shipped from here recently were sold at an advance of 7 1/2 per cent over previous sales and that 95 per cent of the furs shipped had been disposed of. This shipment included furs from fox ranches all through the Valley and from other provincial points.

LOBSTER FISHERMEN SUFFER DAMAGE

Lobster fishermen in Western Nova Scotia suffered $177,000 damage in the recent storm that swept the Atlantic coast, Fisheries Minister Michaud, said Wednesday.

About $7,000 damage was caused to lobstermen's gear at Shediac, N. B., the minister added.

Mr. Michaud said the department would co-operate with the governments of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick in replacing the lost and damaged gear.

Department of Fisheries inspectors on the storm scene sent telegraphic reports to Mr. Michaud outlining the extent of the damage to lobster pots and other gear, and fuller reports are expected soon by mail.

As reported in Halifax by R. E. Finn, Liberal M. P., for Halifax, the Minister wired him an offer of aid for Nova Scotia Government, declaring that the "Federal Government will contribute its share in the cost of re-establishing needy fishermen in the industry."

Christmas Poinsettias Popular Holiday Plant

THE brilliant street lights of a large city were flickering into the cozy front apartment of the Malory sisters. They were sitting alone on Christmas eve enjoying their snow white tree gleaming under its burden of blue electric bulbs in true modern fashion.

"Oh, dear," sighed Lois, "doesn't Christmas always remind you of poinsettias?"

"Sure does," replied her sister, wistfully. "How could we ever forget them? Remember how mother used to send us out in the sleigh to deliver those scarlet beauties to our friends, every Christmas? Those were the good old days!"

"Wasn't it fun, though? I can just see the dear old home simply loaded down with the 'Christmas stars' as we used to call them."

At this very moment several blocks down the street the telephone was ringing profusely in one of the busiest florist shops on the avenue. An order was being placed for the largest and very best poinsettia plant in stock. It was to be delivered to the Misses Lois and Mae Malory, on Rugby street.

Just fifteen minutes later the door bell at this residence rang and a messenger delivered the gift beautifully wrapped and tied in Christmas colors.

"Oh, Lois, come quick!" shouted Mae. "A gift from the home town. What can it be?"

"Why, it's a pot of poinsettias—one mass of 'Christmas stars'! Who could have guessed that?"

When they uncovered the card, it was more puzzling than ever, for the only inscription upon it was, "Poinsettias For Christmas." — Alice B. Palmer.

Sweethearts' Reunion Under Mistletoe Twig

BETTY JANE dressed carefully, wondering if college had changed Bill much. It was grand having him home for the holidays. The doorbell rang.

"Christmas gift," cried Bill, handing her a gayly-wrapped package, and taking her in his arms. Betty Jane drew back. She wasn't sure she liked this Bill so well—he seemed so sure of himself. She remembered Bill as humble, wooing for her favors.

"Come, say hello to the folks," Betty Jane invited, "and see the tree and smell turkey."

"They went, hand in hand. 'I suppose you've met a lot of girls at college,' she hazarded. 'Tell me about them.'"

"Well, there's just one I'm really crazy about," Bill answered. "All the fellows think she's swell. Her picture's on my dresser, and whenever I'm in doubt, I talk things over with her."

"How grand," said Betty Jane in a tight little voice. They came to the mistletoe. How different from last year, when she was just learning to love him!

"I have her picture on my watch, too," Bill went on, his eyes twinkling brighter than the silver star atop the tree.

"You used to carry mine there," Betty Jane observed, and managed somehow to laugh lightly.

"And still do," said Bill, exhibiting it. "All the fellows are jealous of the girl I left behind me. There isn't a girl in all the world, let alone college, like you, Betty Jane. And by the way, don't you know that a pretty girl should always stop when she comes to mistletoe?" — Helen Waterman.

Santa—Stick 'em up!

Believe Animals Fall on Knees A superstitious notion prevails in the western part of Devonshire, England, that at 12 midnight Christmas eve the oxen in the stables always fall on their knees.

MUCH GEAR LOST IN HEAVY GALE

The second gale within a week swept the Islands on Tuesday last. Several pieces of property were damaged, the roof was lifted off the shop owned by Gerald Bailey and deposited in the street nearby, damaging several telephone poles. Several trees were uprooted on the property owned by Bernard Bowers. A shop owned by Willard McDormand was completely destroyed. The fishermen suffered considerable damage to their lobster traps although not enough to put them out of the industry.

The Schooner Elinor S., Capt. T. M. Hicks, has gone into winter quarters at Freeport.

The motor vessel Zoarces of the Biological Survey, docked at fisherman's wharf, Westport, to take on a member of the crew who has been on leave.

SEVEN IN HOSPITAL WITH TYPHOID

Two more members of the crew of the light ship Lurcher, were admitted to the Yarmouth Hospital Wednesday, suffering from initial stages of typhoid fever. This brings the total number of isolated in the hospital, to seven. Admitted today were Lezin Mallett, Yarmouth, first officer; and Melbourne Robicheau, Bell Neck.

From Halifax came a report stating all samples of blood sent for analysis were original diagnosis of Dr. C. positive thus confirming the original diagnosis of Dr. C. A. Webster, Port Doctor. Others isolated besides the two admitted yesterday are Capt. Fred Nickerson, Robert Henderson, Yarmouth; Arthur Surette Lower Eel Brook; James Nickerson and Horace Roberts, of Argyle. It was revealed the "carrier", the man who carries the germ in his system while otherwise perfectly well, has been traced.

CHRISTMAS CHEER

At a special meeting of the Board of Trade held on Tuesday evening, a representative committee of citizens was appointed to "carry on" for the Christmas Cheer, under the chairmanship of J. J. Wallis, with E. C. Sollows as assistant. A sub-committee of ladies representing the different religious groups of the town, was appointed to make the necessary canvass of the town and to find out and purchase what was needed, as follows: Mrs. Howard Anderson, of the Baptist Church; Mrs. Fred Thibault, of the Roman Catholic Church; Mrs. Jas. Merkel, of the Anglican Church; Mrs. J. J. Wallis, of the United Church and Capt. Mason, of the Salvation Army, with Miss Brydon, the V. O. Nurse, G. M. Morrell was appointed chairman of the committee to solicit vegetables.

Contributions of toys, clothing, "eats" and cash are solicited, and can be left at the Courier Office, or, if word is left there, they will be sent for. The time is short and it is up to all interested to "get busy."

A general meeting of the committee is to be held this (Friday) afternoon in the council chamber, at 3.00 o'clock.

We Are Told That These Things Happened--But . .

We pass over tales, now related as fiction even in kindergartens, like that of Alfred and the burning cakes, or Nero fiddling while Rome was burning, but most people are still under the impression that the incident of Canute teaching his courtiers the folly of flattery by commanding the waves to approach no further is derived from some contemporary chronicle.

It rests solely on the authority of Henry of Huntingdon, who wrote about a century after the death of the Danish monarch.

That Edward assembled all the Welsh bards and had them put to death was first stated by a Welsh writer in the 18th century. It is glaringly improbable, and there is not a scrap of valid testimony to support it. Neither is there for the story that Wellington, at Waterloo, exclaimed, "Up, Guards, and at 'em." The only reported utterance anything like it was at the battle of Nivelle two years before, when the duke rode up to the 85th regiment and said, "You must keep your ground, my lads, for there is nothing behind you."

Blondel, guitar in hand, perambulating over the continent of Europe to find his master's place of confinement is obviously a pretty fable. Throughout Europe the capture and imprisonment of King Richard were perfectly well known.

The story of Bruce learning perseverance from the spider is another nursery story, without any discoverable basis. The same insect is alleged to have taught the same lesson to Tamerlane.

Is the badge of the Prince of Wales—the three ostrich feathers—derived from the crest of John, King of Bohemia, slain at the battle of Cressy? This was not mentioned in any authority extant until Camden, the Elizabethan antiquary, affirmed that the tradition—he puts it no stronger—was that the Black Prince won them at that battle. The victor, by the way, was called by contemporaries Edward of Woodstock, and the title of "the Black Prince" cannot be traced earlier than two centuries afterwards.

Trade. For some years past that body has not had enough local matters to deal with to keep its members interested. There are many matters that could be dealt with by the Board which would make it a very useful body. To our mind it should function in this town as a service club, run along lines similar to Kiwanis or Rotary. Monthly luncheon meetings with a good speaker and a live council to carry on between sessions, with active agricultural, social and public committees—and the Board of Trade would become a real institution. We hope that this "Christmas Cheer" will be the opening wedge to the wider field for the Board.

There is a celebrated sculpture by Rodin of the doubtful incident, just as there is a well known picture of Milton dictating to one of his daughters, though Dr. Johnson states that the daughters were never taught to write.

The famous anecdote of Raleigh impulsively laying down his gorgeous cloak on the mud for Queen Elizabeth to tread upon is first related in Fuller's "Worthies of England," and we may well consider its reliability on a par with the legend of Dick Whittington and his cat, or even Romulus and Remus with their wet-nurse of a wolf.

Mention of this last myth reminds us that Roman history during a period of more than 400 years of the foundation of the city, as accepted by all scholars, was packed with questionable incidents, until Niebuhr effectively demonstrated, principally from internal evidence, their apocryphal nature.

Livy is really no better authority for the period than Macaulay's "Lays." We may please ourselves whether we believe that Curtius jumped into the gulf, Horatius defended the bridge against an army, and so on.

Did Caesar exclaim, "Et tu, Brutus," in touching reproach? The adoption of the Latin words by Shakespeare made them familiar, but according to Plutarch Caesar continued struggling and crying out until he perceived the sword of Brutus, when he drew his robe over his face and yielded to his fate.

Suetonius said that Caesar exclaimed, "And you, my son, are one of them," but the story was probably suggested by the vulgar gossip at Rome that Brutus was Caesar's son.

The tales of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table, of King Charlemagne and Roland admittedly have no historical basis. The proportions of truth and myth in the stories of William Tell, Hereward the Wake, Joan of Arc, and other national heroes and heroines might be debated for ever.

We must surrender not only Alfred's burnt cakes, but also his venturing into the Danish camp disguised as a minstrel. It is not found in extant fragments of his life written by his friend Asser, or in any other Saxon writer.

The careful examination by historians has absolved the Caliph Omar from the crime of burning the library of Alexandria, and Charles IX. from the infamy of firing on the Huguenots with an arquebus from a window of the Louvre during the Massacre of St. Bartholomew. Shakespeare and Rabelais have both extended belief that the Duke of Clarence was drowned, by his own choice, in a butt of Malmsey in the Tower, but the only basis for the story is the fondness of Clarence for the wine.

The usual account of the establishment of the Order of the Garter—the Countess of Salisbury dropped her garter at the ball, the courtiers' sly jests, the King's declaring he would make it a symbol of the highest honour—all this was first told by Polydore Virgil nearly 200 years after. It is, to say the least, improbable.

Lady Salisbury must have been sixty at the time, and Froissart, though he is the principal authority for the love affairs of Edward III. and Lady Salisbury, does not mention the incident.

Did Galileo mutter "E pur si muove"—"It does move nevertheless"—as he rose from his knees after recanting his theory of the earth's motion, obeying the sentence of the Inquisition? There is no direct evidence.

The story of Newton and the falling apple is not mentioned by any of those to whom Newton himself related the source of his discoveries.

We know that the story of little George Washington and his hatchet, the cherry tree, and "I cannot tell a lie father," is pure myth.

"Good baking," says Purity Maid, "is an art That's bred in the bone and learned slowly by heart. But the reason my bread fills our folks with delight Is that Purity Flour makes it turn out just right!"

WHITE BREAD
(Straight Dough or 4 1/2 hour Method)
(4 loaves)
2 compressed yeast cakes (About) 12 cups sifted Purity Flour
4 cups water 2 tablespoons (melted) shortening
Method—Dissolve yeast in 1/2 cup lukewarm water. In the remaining flour (which should not be above 100 degrees F.) dissolve the sugar and salt; then add yeast. Mix in sufficient flour to make a soft batter; add shortening and beat well. Turn out on floured board and knead until soft and elastic. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until it doubles the original bulk; then punch down once more, divide into pieces which will fill half-dozen baking pans. Bake in hot oven of 400 to 425 degrees for 35 to 60 minutes, depending on size of loaves.

Kindly Season

It is the most human and kindly of seasons, as fully penetrated and irradiated with the feeling of human brotherhood, which is the essential spirit of Christianity, as the month of June with sunshine and the balmy breath of roses.—George W. Curtis.

Christmas Kindness

Because this old world is hungry for love, "the simple art of being kind" is needed to carry Christmas through the year. We may get along comfortably without further wisdom or guile or sophistication; but, as sorely as we need the gentle offices of love as we meet one another by the way.

Merry Christmas

A Visit to Bethlehem

In his simple and touching manner St. Luke thus tells us the story of the birth of Our Divine Saviour:

"And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth into Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; because he was of the house and family of David, to be enrolled with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child. And it came to pass, that when they were there, her days were accomplished, that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger: because there was no room in the inn."

The distance between Nazareth and Bethlehem is about sixty miles over ground that is for the most part rough and mountainous. Tradition places this first journey in the month of December, a time when the rainy season was at its height. Every mile of the journey, then, must have been a hardship. Yet we cannot picture Mary as anything but joyful, magnifying God in her heart as she recalls over and over again the sweet words of His angel: "The Lord is with thee."

Auto Bus Used Today

The same journey today, over good roads, takes only a few hours. At Jerusalem we change to an auto bus marked Jerusalem-Bethlehem. After riding for about four miles we come upon the delightful little town of Bethlehem hidden away in the hills to the south of the Holy City. "If," as Guerin writes, "the general aspect of Jerusalem and the memories which this city recalls evoke a deep and silent emotion which is full of grandeur but at the same time sad, the pilgrim experiences different sentiments at the sight of Bethlehem."

"An indescribable serenity and a gentle cheerfulness hover over this graceful little town, which instead of having to weep over the death of a God like the Holy City, encloses and still shows us with a holy joy the place of His birth and the site of His cradle. It is indeed the native town of Him for Whose coming the ancient world had sighed so long, of Him Who was to bring forth the modern world to a new life. Hence the eternal halo of gladness which to Christian eyes seems to encircle the brow of this little town."

Our first visit is naturally to the Basilica of the Nativity. This church is surrounded by three convents; each community cares for a distinct part of the building. All ancient writers tell us that Our Lord was born in a grotto or cave, either natural or dug out of the hillside. From the earliest times the grotto has been an object of veneration to the faithful. In fact in the year 100, Pope St. Evaristus, a native of Bethlehem, is said to have erected an oratory over the exact spot. A few years later the Roman Emperor Hadrian wishing to blot out all memory of Christ's birth destroyed this shrine and in its place set up a statue of Venus surrounded by a grove of Adonis.

Sanctuaries Destroyed

Thus when Constantine became emperor the place was still well known. At the request of his mother, St. Helena, he caused a splendid church to be erected over the very site of the cave. Like most of the other sanctuaries of the Holy Land, this one at Bethlehem has been destroyed and rebuilt in almost every succeeding century.

From the sanctuary of the Basilica we descend to the Grotto of the Nativity, a spacious cave cut out of the soft limestone rock. The only light comes from numerous oil lamps that are kept constantly burning. At the eastern end is a niche rounded above and still bearing traces of ancient mosaics. The floor is cased with white marble. Fitted into the pavement is a brass star with the inscription: "Hic de Virgine Maria, Jesus Christus natus est. (Here Jesus Christ was born of the Virgin Mary). Above the star burn night and day fifteen lamps, a few steps away is a depression in the wall representing the manger."

In it on Christmas night the Franciscans place a beautiful figure of the Infant Jesus. This custom is reminiscent of the fact that it was St. Francis of Assisi on his return from the Holy Land, who introduced the present custom of placing a crib in Catholic churches at Christmas. Opposite the manger is an altar dedicated to the Wise Men.

Altar to St. Joseph

At the other end of the grotto we emerge into a passage hollowed out centuries ago. Here an altar has been dedicated to St. Joseph in memory of the angel's warning to fly to Egypt. Further on the Holy Innocents also have a chapel where tradition says their relics rested for a time. Here of an evening is the procession of religious and faithful wends its way through sanctuaries can be heard the little silvery voices of the children's choir singing the "Salvete Flores Martyrum."

"All hail, ye little martyr flowers. Sweet rosebuds cut in dawning hours!"

When Herod sought the Christ to find

Ye fell as bloom before the wind.

"First victims of the martyr hands.

With crowns and palms in tender hands

Around the very altar, gay

And innocent ye seem to play."

The last of the chapels is dedicated to St. Jerome, who died in Bethlehem in the year 420. An ancient tradition tells us that from this cell came forth those vast commentaries on the Holy Scriptures besides the Latin translation of the Bible which is used to this day.

Beautiful Valley

We cannot leave Bethlehem without a visit to that beautiful valley to the east of the town where angel voices announced to the shepherds the birth of a Saviour. Ruth had gleaned in those happy fields and the boy David, had tended there his father's flocks. How fitting then that in this valley the shepherds should be the first to receive the glad tidings: "Glory to God in the highest and peace on earth to men of good will."

It is hard to tear ourselves away from the magic of those green hills that once echoed to angel choirs. Yet we are happy as we realize that this Christmas, 1938, years after, not just a handful of shepherds but millions in every part of the earth will rejoice in the birthday of their Saviour.

Dad's Christmas Present

A STORY FOR CHILDREN BY ALFRED BODEN

It is no unusual thing for parents to be extremely proud of their children, and perhaps John and Dora Westborne had very good reason to think highly of their four—Robert, a boy of sixteen years and now in high school; Grace, a winsome girl of twelve; Ruth, eight; and Jackie, six. They were robust, healthy youngsters, enjoying sports and fun, kindly disposed to everyone, doing their daily good deed, Robert, because he was a Boy Scout, and Grace, because she was naturally kind and helpful.

The Westborne family was indeed a happy one and their trim-built home, standing a little distance from the highway, and commanding a view of the Bay and pier, made a pleasant dwelling. John was a boat-builder, and each year added one or more sailing yachts or power boats to the fleet of pleasure boats that took part in the annual regatta, much to the enjoyment of the residents and summer visitors; indeed, "Stem Tide" and "Undine", both built by Westborne, had each won in its class last August. Robert had a small sailing boat of his own, and was becoming expert in its handling; he came very nearly winning in his class last year, but was unfortunately fouled on the last leg and was just beaten by his chum, Billy.

Grace and her mother both loved flowers and music; their garden was a riot of colour from June to September and most evenings either one or the other would sit down to the piano to play and sing.

The children were fond of their school and teachers, and had made satisfactory progress in their studies. Bob was in Grade XII, a thoughtful student who realised something of the value of a good education, and was looking forward to a college course when he finished at the Academy; he hoped to become an electrical engineer, and his mathematics, science and "lab" work gave him a lot of pleasure.

To encourage the youngsters in their lessons and general good behaviour the father promised them a present at Christmas, the value of which would depend on good behaviour and progress; but no amount of questioning or coaxing could prevail upon him to tell them what he would give them, and mother was bound to secrecy also. As Christmas drew nearer, the children could scarcely suppress their excitement, for they were convinced they had done pretty well, both at school and at home, and they had perfect faith in father's promise—but what would the present be?

Late in the afternoon of Christmas Eve an automobile stopped at the door of the Westborne home and a large package was unloaded, taken into the house, carefully unpacked and placed in the sitting-room; the youngsters watching closely, saw a beautiful cabinet radio set, and concluded this was dad's Christmas present. The man who brought the radio quickly made the connection with the electric current, tested the machine, and found it in good order. He pointed out that six stations could be obtained by means of the row of keys by just touching the keys; there being no necessity of using the dial for these, as they were automatically and accurately tuned. Other stations could be ascertained by the use of the dial and he felt sure the machine would give perfect satisfaction. Dad seemed pleased and the youngsters were delighted when dad said: "There is your Christmas present, children; I am glad to give it to you, as you have deserved it and all the pleasure that you can derive from it." Grace and Ruth kissed and hugged their dad and Bob did not feel that he was too big to implant a hearty kiss on his father's cheek and thank him profusely for the splendid gift: it was as nice a set as he had seen and he believed they would get a lot of pleasure and profit from it, as they would be able to listen to all kinds of broadcasts—educational as well as entertaining.

It was now supper-time, and the children reluctantly went into the room where supper was ready; and altho' the new radio was crowding out almost every other thought, they were able to partake of a substantial meal and then allowed to make another attack on the acquisition. By mother's permission and the use of the telephone they soon had quite a number of their school chums pouring into the house, and as all were agog with the Christmas spirit of good-will and happiness, a very pleasant time was spent. The programmes from several stations were brought right into the house for the first time with their very own radio, and that was different from listening to some other person's machine. All the children were more or less accustomed to seeing and hearing the radio, and some of them showed Bob how to find stations on the dial. Last Christmas broadcasts were called to mind when King George broadcast a message all round the world, and they heard programmes from London and also the bells from the church at the little town of Bethlehem; they would like Bob to try and get some foreign stations tomorrow, and he said he thought he would be able to as the daily papers gave the necessary details for dialling. They were all quite sleepy when mother said it was time for bed, and all the youngsters wished Mr. and Mrs. Westborne and the children good night and Merry Christmas.

Christmas Day was a very happy one for the Westborne family, whose stockings were found to be filled with the usual gifts, and round and upon the Christmas tree were packages for everybody. All of them went to church for the morning service, and after a light lunch the children went skating and coasting to get an appetite for supper which mother set about preparing. She cooked a big turkey, gave the final boiling to the plum pudding and made dainties that were likely to appeal to all of them; she had invited a number of relatives and friends and they all did ample justice to the good things provided. When almonds and raisins were handed round the children asked for permission to take them into the sitting room where

Radio was King. The evening was spent pleasantly and perhaps a little hilariously, as the party was entertained by many programmes: Bob and some of the visitors were successful in finding a number of foreign stations, and a varied entertainment was enjoyed; the children were not only pleased, they were mystified, and wondered how it was that the Radio could bring right into the room all kinds of sounds from the outside air that they themselves could not possibly hear. "How was it done?" They looked to dad, who was sitting in his easy chair and mightily enjoying himself, but he shook his head and turning to Bob, said, "This is where you come to bat, Bob; tell us how it is done." And with that he turned off the radio, that Bob might have a good hearing. The boy was not shy; he had not expected this, but made an attempt to answer.

Bob said they had studied Radio at school, and he had read quite a bit about it, too, for he was interested in radio transmission. It was very much like a baseball game between the pitcher and catcher; the pitcher warms up and then throws the ball with direction and speed to the catcher, who promptly catches it, that is, if the batter has let it pass him. He remembered "listening in" to a description of a ball game where there was a runner on first base, another on second and Babe Ruth came up to bat. Ruth let one or two balls go by and then found one that suited him, which he promptly sent over the bleachers for a home run, producing three runs. What cheering there was! One could almost feel he was in the ball field, the description that came over the radio was so real. But, he said, he ought not to have allowed his thoughts to run away with him, and would try and tell how radio transmission was brought about, but it would be difficult.

Every sound produces air trembles, but as air moves slowly, and air waves do not travel very far, it has been found possible to change the air waves into electro-magnetic waves that travel at the rate of light—186,000 miles per second—and pass through almost everything. Marconi was the first to make successful experiments with what we now call Radio, and DeForest helped to make the vacuum tube available for changing air waves to electro magnetic waves.

Four things are necessary for radio transmission or broadcast:

- 1.—A Transmitter from the generator of the current, which changes Sound waves to electro magnetic waves;
- 2.—An antenna to set loose the waves in the air;
- 3.—A receiving Antenna to pick up the waves; and
- 4.—A receiving set, like the one we have here, to change back to air by means of the vacuum tubes.

A broadcasting station is one where a powerful current is generated and changed so that it may be sent in all directions on what are called wave lengths. Each broadcasting station has its own wave length, and the receiving set must be tuned to the same length to receive the waves. The receiving set makes the necessary change to sound waves again and we are able to hear what has been transmitted. In the case of our Radio the connection made with the electric current utilizes the electric wires as antenna. Canada has no short wave transmitting facilities at present and all short wave programmes or messages sent to Europe from this side of the Atlantic are sent by United States stations. We may be able to send on short wave length some time in the future. In the meantime we can tune in and pick up what is being transmitted, as you have heard. The B. B. C. is doing a great deal with Television now, and it is possible that before long we may be able to see a Television arrangement to this Radio set and see, as well as hear. All is not known yet of the wonders of electro magnetic waves, and scientists are constantly making further experiments for the general benefit. If you look in behind the Radio case you will see the vacuum tubes which are very like electric light bulbs.

know is, Does God ever broadcast? father thanked him for his explanation and suggested they have a little more radio before bed time, and they were glad to hear some Christmas carols coming over and some of them joined in singing. When there was a lull for a few minutes, Ruth said: "At different times we have listened to big men talk: Hitler, who seemed in a bad temper, and shouted; Mussolini, the Pope, Premier Chamberlain, President Roosevelt. King George—all very important men, in great positions. Now what I want to know is, Does God ever broadcast—is His voice ever heard?"

Everybody was hushed and expectant. Could any person answer? At length mother said: "I do not think God ever speaks over the Radio, or talks so that we may hear Him with our outward ears. He does speak, however, and we can hear Him with our inner ears if we are tuned to be receptive."

We know there is something more about each of us than our bodies; there is mind and soul dwelling within: these think and feel. They can be impressed from without and are very sensitive. The mind, or intellect, can think and ponder over intellectual problems, as Bob does at school; but it does not express sorrow, or sympathy, or love, or suggest sacrifice or a desire to do good to others. These belong to the sphere of the soul: love, kindness, helpfulness, form part of our better nature, and receive impulses from outside ourselves. These must emanate from some source, or as Bob says, must be generated and given direction, so if we are tuned to receive them, we do so, and they become part of ourselves—incorporated within. We have all felt them, and they are, perhaps, accentuated at Christmas, for then we commemorate the coming of Christ who was "Of the Father's Love begotten," and came to show us that "God is Love," and can impart love in each of our hearts, so that we may feel Him ever present with us, influencing our thoughts and lives. It is in a still, small voice that God speaks to us, and if we are ready, like Samuel of old, we can say, "Speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth."

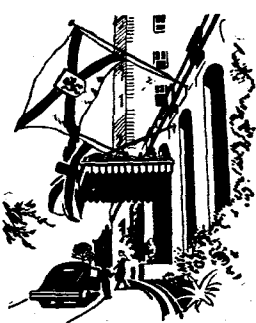

REDEMPTION UPHELD

The House of Lords, highest court in England, upheld a court of appeal decision requiring the N.Y. Brunswick Railway Company of Canada to redeem its bonds issued in 1884 at gold value.

Interest payments were exempted. The railway company, backed by the act of first instance held that by Canadian law its obligation was to pay in sterling, not gold.

The Court of Appeal decided that English, not Canadian, law controlled the performance of the bond contract and consequently that holders of the bonds were entitled to repayment on a gold basis. The judgment meant the company must pay about 185 pounds sterling for each 100-pound bond.

The British and French Trust Corporation brought the case against the railway company.

"The Cooky Lady" and Tim's Christmas Letter

PATSY liked to take her doll out in the sunny kitchen and watch Ann, the cook, roll out the cooky dough and cut round moons; then put them in a long pan ready for the oven. When they came out all smelly and warm Ann would put some on a paper plate for Patsy to eat. Ann had the nicest dimples when she smiled, and Patsy would smile right back at her and say: "Thank you, Cooky lady."

Sometimes there were brown cookies and fruity ones, too, but the red and green candied ones that Ann made for Christmas were the very best of all. Patsy adored Ann. Through the seven short years of her life she had been her constant companion. Mother was just the lovely lady who was always busy with her clubs and going places, and Daddy was too busy at the office to be bothered much; but there was always Ann.

Patsy liked the nice postman, Tim, who came to see Ann and sometimes they all went to the movies together. Tim could play "pretend" almost as good as Ann. But once she heard him call Ann his best girl, and say: "Some day you're going to cook for me." After that she did not like him so well. Things seemed all wrong, and Santa hadn't answered her letter, and it was only two days till Christmas. She had said: "Please write soon," and that had been days ago. He must help quick, or it would be too late. Several times a day she would go to the mailbox and stand on tiptoe to look in for fear her letter had been overlooked.

"Here, Tim," said one of the office clerks, "is another of the kid letters to Santa Claus; guess this one's up to you." Printed in a childish scrawl on the envelope, Tim read: "Santa Claus, care of Tim." He drew out the folded paper. It read: "Dear Santa, please bring Tim another best girl cause Ann has to cook for us."

"Your friend, Patsy Reynolds." Tim stared, then chuckled: "Santa, old boy, you're up against it this time."—Jocile Webb Pearson.

CHARM OF CHRISTMAS

THE chief charm of Christmas is its simplicity. It is a festival that appeals to everyone, because everyone can understand it. A genuine fellowship pervades our common life—a fellowship whose source is our common share in the gift of the world's greatest Life which was given to the whole world.

The Birth of Christ

The time draws near the birth of Christ: The moon is hid; the night is still: The Christmas bells from hill to hill Answer each other in the mist. —Tennyson.

Noel, Name of Two Towns

Noel, the French for Christmas, is the name of towns in Virginia and Missouri.

Old Christmas Customs

While many old-time Christmas customs have been discontinued others, such as the decorating of homes with holly and mistletoe, carol singing, and even the burning of the Yule log, still remain. The wassail-bowl is no more (by that name at any rate), although the practice lingers, much to the shame of a Christian community, the mummings, or masked players, and the lord of misrule or abbot of unreason are but ghosts of the past. The following description of old-time Christmas observances are from a column devoted to Christmas festivities of the 19th century:

The custom of decorating houses, churches, etc., with branches of mistletoe, holly and other winter shrubs and trees, is perhaps of older date than any other Christmas observance. It had its origin with the Druids, who were priests of the ancient Britons long before the invasion of that country by the Romans under Julius Caesar. It was their wont, at a certain period of the year, to resort to the forests in which grew the largest oak tree, followed by a great concourse of people. There, with many ceremonies, they proceeded to cut down a quantity of the branches of the mistletoe growing on the oaks which, having divided into small pieces, they distributed amongst the religious students who accompanied them, and who, considering these branches as so many emblems of good fortune, adorned their dwellings with them.

The custom of burning the Yule log was of Anglo-Saxon origin. That race of people was in the habit of celebrating a feast at the winter solstice, and on this occasion burned a large log of wood as an emblem of returning light and heat. The tree was hewn down on Candlemas Day, then kindled where it fell and suffered to burn until sunset, when the fire was extinguished, and the log laid in a proper place until it was required at Christmas.

The wassail-bowl also had its origin with the Saxons. In the old legend of Vortigern and Rowena, the first mention is made of the custom of wassailing. At a feast given by Hengist, the Saxon chief, to Vortigern, the British king, the royal guest, bewitched with the charms of the young and beautiful daughter of his entertainer. While on her knees the fair Saxon damsel presented the wine-cup to the British monarch, exclaiming: "Liever Kynning Wasshael!" or "Your health, lord King."

The waits, or Christmas bards, are a remnant of the old minstrels attached to courts and cities, and who added to their musical offices the more important, though less pleasant, duty of watching and guarding the streets.

Mummings, or masked players, seem to have derived their name from the Danish "Mumme", or the Dutch "Momme", to mask; and here is reason to believe that this custom of dressing and masking had its origin in the practice of exchanging clothes between men and women at the Saturnalia, a feast of the Romans. The mummings of the early ages being dressed in strange costumes and marked, went about at feast times, from house to house, reciting verses and singing songs.

The Lord of Misrule was an officer appointed in all large establishments to superintend the arrangements for the Christmas revels. In Scotland he was called the Abbot of Unreason. The authority of this dignity began upon All-Hallows Eve.

inexpensive mechanical toy has helped to make work for at least twelve other great British industries. It is interesting, for instance, to find that the sixpenny aeroplane is linked with iron mines, coal mines (used to smelt the iron which has to be rolled into thin sheets), smelting works, rolling mills, printers and lithographers, ink makers, paint manufacturers, wire-making works (miles of wire and brass rods are needed) machine tool manufacturers cardboard and paper makers, railway and cartage companies.

So we see that the British toy represents a huge total of our working hours.

Christmas Is Birthday of the Prince of Peace

THE sound of a children's quarrel broke the Christmas afternoon quiet. Mrs. Steele put aside the bits of tissue and ribbon she had been collecting, and called her three sons to her. "Boys," she said, "I have one more Christmas gift for you." They gathered around her in excited anticipation. "It was the very first gift mentioned when the Christ Child was born."

"Gold, mother?" asked the eldest eagerly. "No, Franklin. Something far more precious. Peace. 'Peace on earth, remember? Good will is seldom forgotten at Christmas but peace too often is.'"

"But how can you give us peace?" cried the second in disappointment. "I can't be sure, son. No person alone can guarantee peace, but everyone can help. Right now I can show three boys how foolish it is to quarrel."

"How, Mother?" "Franklin, you are stronger than your brothers. You could take their toys. But suppose then they join together to take yours? In the end all the toys will be broken, and you will have quarreled for nothing."

"But suppose they take mine first?" "Wouldn't it be better to agree to all play together and all enjoy them than to fight?"

"Is it that way with nations too?" "Exactly. Wars leave everyone worse off than before."

"But don't people want peace, Mother?" "Wanting is not enough. When everyone who wants peace does something to bring it about, then Christmas will really mean the birthday of the Prince of Peace—the coming of 'Peace on earth, good will to men.'"—Helen Waterman.

A Nice Christmas Gift, Thought Happy Marilyn

ALTHOUGH he lived across the hall, their acquaintance had been only a bowing one until he had reminded her that morning in the elevator there were only three days more until Christmas. A welcome announcement for any employee in Baxter's store, she thought.

She hadn't known his name until his sister spoke to Marilyn Marsh just as she was putting her key into her door that evening. Mrs. Hunt, Wade Kendall's sister, as she introduced herself, was having difficulty with some decorations. Would Marilyn help her? Marilyn did, in spite of preferring to rest after her day's work at Baxter's. Wade came while they were working with the decorations, and soon conversation turned to what plans each had for Christmas day. Mrs. Hunt would be with the Kendalls for the family reunion. Wade would not be though because business prevented. Marilyn had no plans, so Wade suggested they spend the day together.

Christmas day, Wade learned that Marilyn had been forced to give up her music instruction and was employed otherwise; he had guessed that, he said. The music he used to see her carry, he noticed she never had with her now. Too, he had seen her in Baxter's—and he had told his sister that anyone who could rise above disappointment and keep as cheerful and friendly as Marilyn, was an inspiration, and worth knowing.

That was the best gift she had received, she told him. She hoped to be an inspiration always. His eyes and lips told her she would.—Blanche Tanner Dillin.

A HAPPY CHRISTMAS

UNLOVING indeed must be the heart that cannot offer and respond to that universal greeting, for Christmas is the time beyond and above all others when we should forget differences and disagreements and quarrels. Serious though we may have hitherto thought them, shall we not put an end to them as the Yuletide greeting rings in our ears. "A Happy Christmas!"

"Mailing Early" The first reference to "mail early" in the Post Office department files is in November, 1913. This was at the time the parcel post was established. Sending packages overseas during the World war emphasized the idea, and succeeding years have found mailed packages more evenly distributed over the weeks before Christmas.

The Road to Bethlehem

By Right Rev. John W. Woodside, D.D., Moderator of the United Church of Canada.

When the shepherds in the Judean fields first heard the glad tidings and listened to the angels' song, they took God at His word. In swift and glorious decision they said one to another, "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass." The generations have been following that shining trail. The artists, the poets and the story-tellers, the philosophers and the theologians, the common folk and the children have been journeying to Bethlehem in expectant faith.

And yet there have been times in which Christians must have found it well-nigh impossible to make that pilgrimage, moods in which they must have felt that if they went at all it would be with clouded vision and heavy hearts. For many of us the present may appear to be one of these. We seem just now to be "in the bleak midwinter"—the midwinter of disillusion and discontent. Fears of the unknown make life miserable for millions of people in all lands today. The stark tragedy of war leaves its horrible trail of death and suffering even across the road to Bethlehem. Hymns of hate too often take the place of the angels' song. Class is being incited against class, race against race, in a discouraging and degrading spectacle.

But we who believe in God know that there is another side to the picture even at this moment. We know that the spirit and ideal revealed to the shepherds at Bethlehem is alive and active, and steadily gaining ground in our day. We know that over against the man-made tide that threatens to overwhelm all the finer things of life there is a tide of God, deep and strong, which will surely carry this distracted world out of the darkness into the realms of amity and peace.

We see in the Divine Child who came to Bethlehem an incarnation of the Good Will which lies back of all the frightening, changing scenes in which we play our part. And if men ask a reason for the faith that is in us, we have convincing proof for our belief. The trends of the world are towards unity. Beyond any doubt it is dawning on the mind of humanity that there is no hope or prospect of stability or prosperity which is not based on a common loyalty embracing all mankind. War is not inevitable! nor is violent overthrow of the social order. The "home-sickness of the human soul for justice, liberty and brotherhood" is not merely the sign of a universal demand for far-reaching changes; it is also the sign of a hope and a belief that the changes may be brought about in an atmosphere of peace and not of strife.

The friendly way in which the various churches are drawing closer to each other is expressive of all deepening faith and widening purpose that will unite more firmly all the forces making for righteousness. As never before, the churches are coming to have one conscience; and that conscience is uneasy

My Strangest Christmas

(By Mrs. Lottie Roop, Bear River)

Among the several strange Christmases I've enjoyed, perhaps the one I will tell you of now is the strangest of all—and it is absolutely true.

It was in 1907-08 that my husband, Capt. John Roop, and I were spending four months in Peru, South America.

We, from Nova Scotia, arrived at the seaport of Callao, via Seattle, Wash., on October the 9th and left on February the 9th for return to Puget Sound.

There we had the unique experience of Christmas in the tropical city of Callao, (population 30,000), and only a few miles from Lima, the capital, which we visited. On Christmas morning we woke up to find "Old Sol" sizzling well in that tropical land, only 12 degrees south of the equator, and where our winter is their summer—a vivid contrast to our white snowy Christmas in cold Nova Scotia, where "jingle bells" make merry.

Not a Christmas tree could be found for love or money, for Peru had had no rain for over three years and was quite minus of vegetation. Only a few trees in the town Plaza, and they are priceless—artificial irrigation being used. But to greet those around us with "Merry Christmas" seemed almost laughable to us in that hot climate where it was hardly safe for me to go ashore between 10.00 a.m. and 4.00 p.m., fearing prostration.

Of course I was addressed as "Senora" and my husband as "Senor Capitan". But, oh! the luscious ripe strawberries brought to us, on board our good British ship, Bolmor, (Liverpool), on that Christmas day for it was midsummer in Peru, and especially pleased was I with the beautiful magnolia blossoms brought us—the perfume was exquisite.

Callao has wonderful suburbs, so we went for a stroll after 4.00 and had our first sight of fine large grapefruit hanging on the trees—great golden balls, instead of our hard white snowballs of Nova Scotia. But the best was yet to come, for we had accepted an invitation for Christmas dinner at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Moses, (Captain Moses was then Superintendent of Callao Shipping).

It was a lovely, strange experience for us to visit in his beautiful Southern home, built Mexican style, flat roof with garden on top, and oh, the superb view of the country from this rooftop.

At dinner, we were joined by Capt. and Mrs. George Keneally, from St. John, N. B., whose ship lay near ours.

So we four, from the Maritimes, did enjoy that Christmas, turkey served English style—and that English plum pudding, brought in, surrounded by flaming alcohol, yet, out of respect for our temperance principles, the wine was omitted from the sauce.

After dinner we strolled on the roof to get cooled-off, and later to the drawing-room, where we helped strip the improvised Christmas tree—this was simply an upright pole with laths tacked on it for branches, and covered with green crepe-paper. With its pretty lights and Christmas gifts, it was a thing of beauty, even if not a real Nova Scotia fir or spruce.

When the gifts had all been opened and admired, we gathered around the piano in that nice, Spanish drawing-room, and joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" then bade our genial host and hostess "Buenos Noches" and soon returned to our ship in the harbour.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Moore, of Annapolis Royal, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. MacNeil.

Capt. and Mrs. G. B. McRae, of Karsdale, went to Halifax on the the Victoria General Hospital, where she was successfully operated on.

The Christmas service in the Karsdale Baptist Church was conducted by Rev. E. S. Mason, D. D., of Wolfville, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, which service had been planned by the late Rev. W. B. Crowell. The sermon by Rev. Mr. Mason and the Christmas music by the male quartette of Bridgetown Baptist Church, was inspiring.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Morrison, of Karsdale, are spending the winter in the United States with relatives.

Mrs. G. D. Brydon left on Thursday of last week by bus to spend a few days with friends, returning on Saturday.

The ladies' circle was entertained at the home of Mrs. Lyle Stevens on Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance.

Mrs. G. B. Layton went to Annapolis Royal to remain over Christmas with her son-in-law and daughter Col. and Mrs. E. K. Eaton.

Walter Harris, divinity student of King's College, arrived home on Saturday to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harris.

Voorheis Dittmars arrived home on Saturday to spend the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Dittmars, returning to Montreal on Monday.

Mrs. E. W. Robinson and her daughter Frances, a student at King's College, arrived in town on Tuesday and will be at the Grand Central for a fortnight.

Rev. E. M. Caldwell, of Digby, took the services in St. John's Church on Sunday morning, he and the Rural Dean, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, having exchanged parishes for the day.

Dr. A. B. Campbell arrived home last week, after a very enjoyable vacation spent in Halifax, Boston, New York and Troy Hills. Coming home via Saint John, he was the guest of Rev. J. K. and Mrs. McInnis, of Carmarthen United Church.

On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. White entertained fifteen guests at dinner and contract bridge in their new home. The illuminated tree on the lawn extended a Happy Christmas to the guests on arrival and the Christmas spirit was further carried out with candles and lovely favors on the dining tables, set in the living room. Contract was later played at four tables and the winners of the prizes were Mrs. McCarthy, R. B. Murray and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Snow.

OBITUARY

Peter E. Wright

Peter E. Wright, an outstanding resident of Clementsvalle, a few miles from Bear River, passed away at his home there, Wednesday morning, Dec. 14, after a long period of ill health, the immediate cause of death bronchial pneumonia. The late Mr. Wright was born at Clementsvalle, March 23, 1862, the son of the late Wm. O. Wright and Beulah (Long) Wright, and had spent his life in his birth place, following the occupations of farming and lumbering, retiring in 1930 from active participation in these, because of ill health. His sterling character and pleasant personality won for him the love and respect of a large circle of neighbors and intimate friends in his vicinity. In Bear River town there are many who will deeply regret his passing, having been closely associated with him in business and friendly relations for many years. His immediate surviving family are his wife, formerly Miss Mabel Curtis, of Nicotau, Annapolis Co.; two daughters, Mrs. Fred Witham, Ipswich, Mass.; Mrs. Robert Freeman, with whom he lately resided, and a son, William, of Caskatchewan. The funeral services were held Friday at the Wright homestead, conducted by Rev. F. Burnett, pastor of the Clementsvalle Baptist Church, of which the late Mr. Wright was a faithful adherent, and interment was in the Clementsvalle cemetery, adjacent to the church.

Mrs. Noble Sanford

The funeral service of Mrs. Emma Maud Sanford was held from Bear River East church on Sunday, Dec. 11. She was the daughter of the late Robert and Elizabeth (Copley) Miller, and was born at Bear River, July 1868, where the early part of her life was spent. Moving from there to Bear River East about thirty-five years ago. Surviving are her husband and one daughter, Viletia, (Mrs. Charles E. Douglas) Nashua, N. H.; two brothers, Atwood, of Lansdowne, Digby County; Charles, of Manchester, N. H.; and two sisters, Etta, (Mrs. John Leavitt) Walfboro, N. H.; and Hattie (Mrs. Oren Allen) Manchester, N. H. Her son Leonard, predeceased her at the age of nine years. She was a member of Clementsvalle United Baptist Church and the funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. D. Brydon, pastor of the United Baptist Church, Bear River, and assisted by Rev. R. Roach, pastor of the United Church, Bear River. Interment was at Clementsvalle and the floral tributes were many and beautiful. The following hymns were rendered by the choir, "No Night There", "Saved By Grace", and "Asleep in Jesus".

Acaciaville-Hill Grove

Miss Louise Kinney, of Ashmore, is visiting at the home of her aunt, Miss Nettie Warner. Sherman Gray is attending the Agricultural School in Truro, for a short time. Miss Margaret Porter, teacher at Karsdale, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Porter. The Home and School Association met at the Acaciaville School on Friday afternoon and gave the children a nice Christmas treat. A program of readings and other amusements was carried out and much appreciated by all. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Marshall, of Marshalltown, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur MacKay one day last week. Rev. A. A. MacLeod, Field Secretary of the Sons of Temperance, was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. H. Nichols, on Wednesday of last week.

TWO MEETINGS TO BE HELD

The annual meeting of the rate payers within the street lighting district, will be held in the Masonic Room, on Friday evening, Dec. 30th, at 8 o'clock. Election of commissioners, commissioners report and other business pertaining to Street Lights, will come before this meeting.

The postponed meeting in connection with the Bear River Department, will be held at the same place on the same evening as the above. The latter business will be taken up immediately after the adjournment of the street light meeting.

If these two utilities are to be continued in your town it is essential that the Fire Chief and others members of the squad, trustees and commissioners be given your support in these matters.

You have elected and by your election have requested the various ones in office to give their time, attention and free services in order that you may enjoy these advantages.

Your attendance at the meetings above will show your appreciation.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church of Canada were entertained on Wednesday evening of last week, at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Petrie, of Smith's Cove, to a delightful Christmas party and tree. The home was lovely in the Christmas decorations of pine and silver holly and poinsettias, red and green candles, 'Santa' received the guests at the door, and later in the evening he distributed the gifts from the tree. During the evening a programme was given consisting of songs, readings, and games. At a late hour the hostess asked the guests to the dining room, where a buffet lunch was served. The dining table was very attractive looking. At the close the members sang, "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

PHILATHEA CLASS

The Philathea Class met at the home of Mrs. Emma Ford for their Christmas tree. Over forty were present. The meeting opened the usual way with the President, Mrs. Roy Snell, in the chair.

A pleasing programme followed in keeping with Christmas.

Gifts and candy were distributed to the members of the class.

The meeting closed with singing 'Blest Be the Tie That Binds'.

The following students will spend their holidays in Bear River: Miss Dorothy Ann Brown, of Edgell School, at the home of Mrs. C. W. Jefferson; John Jefferson, of King's College, with his mother, Mrs. C. W. Jefferson; Miss Mary Fraser and Clarke Fraser, Kingston, Jamaica, of the Acadia University, at the home of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cunningham; Kimball Hollis Hamilton, Bermuda, of Mount Allison Academy, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Campbell; "Jim" Campbell, of Mount Allison Academy, at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Campbell.

'Phone 14 We Deliver

Say, folks, ain't Christmas time just grand? nicest kind of feelin' shinin' round on ev'ry hand. No one's cross or grumpy, no one's feelin' sad, everybody's smilin' and gettin' mad, Turkey's in the oven, smellin' awful good; puddin' boilin' in the pot, just the way it should. Mince pies in the pantry, Cookin' on the shelf; No one cares a little bit how much I help myself! Stockings in the mornin'. All abulge down to the toe; Hours of fun right after makin' all the new toys go. Then it's time for dinner, and the things I tuck away. Would be sure to hurt my tummy, if I were any other day! Sleighrides after dinner, Stories after dark; Mother singin' carols, Sweet as any lark. Oranges, round and yellow; Candies by the score; Feelin' awful sorry, when I can eat no more. But after awhile I get so sleepy, That the candles get all blurred and dim. And only look like yellow moons to me. Then father says, "Well, mother, this little kid's all in; He's had enough of Christmas. Till another year comes in!" Moral—You'll enjoy driving to Bear River; we'll enjoy sharing our Santa Claus' Specials with you.

LLOYD SANFORD

Ramblings of a Rolling Stone

Christmas will soon be here. As the yuletide season draws nearer and nearer we older ones are prone to look backward to those Christmas days of long ago, which, seen through the eyes of memory alone, become a glittering parade of golden hours.

We look again, and lo, we see a shadow fall across the pageantry of by-gone days; some friend, some comrade, in that laughing throng steps aside, and, all alone, goes down that dark, that narrow way, from whence none may return.

Year after year the thickening shadows fall, as one by one the weary marchers pause but a moment and are seen no more. Still onward the procession moves, a growing throng. New forms, new faces come to swell the ranks till at long last not one loved face from out the dear, dead past gladdens the eye; nor does the music of some well remembered voice ring out across that desert waste of long dead yesterdays.

Christmas! A dream of peace! When o'er the Bethlehem hills the Angel choir sang of "Peace on Earth" and of "Good Will to Men" because the Prince of Peace was born, earth knew no peace. The tramp of marching legions, the loud trumpet blare, the roll of distant drums spread far and wide the fearful coming of Imperial Rome. Though century on century is piled; though knowledge spread and man had thought the horrors of the age of savagery had passed, there is no peace! In some dark recess of the human heart a fearful monster dwells, lying quiet cent till the hour has struck, then claims his right to torture and destroy.

On Bethlehem's hills no peaceful shepherds watch beside their flocks; no angel host brings to the earth the tidings that a King is born; no wise men seek the manger where He lay! Within that crowded inn there was no room for Him; prophetic picture of the day to come when men would cry, in Pilate's judgment hall, "Away with Him!" "Give us Barabbas!" "Nail Him to the tree!"

Full nineteen hundred years have come and gone; man thought himself much wiser, more humane, and boastfully proclaimed that o'er the earth peace reigned supreme and all mankind were knitted in one common brotherhood.

How dim has grown the memory of those peaceful years—like fragments of some half-remembered dream they seem today. Just as the breathless calm heralds the coming storm, those years were as the quiet seaward flow of foam-flecked waters when some crested wave has spent its fury on the rock strewn shore and sullenly gives place to rank on rank of roaring waters from the mighty deep.

There is no peace! Our eyes grow weary as we seek in vain for some fair land where peace and quiet reign; where men and women free from haunting fear weigh not their neighbors' acts on false suspicious scales; where song and laughter make the burdens light; where happy children play; where no swift lightnings lick with tongues of fire across the dark horizon

SMITH'S COVE

Merry Christmas to our Editor and all the 'Courier' readers!

Despite the inclemency of the weather, the ladies of the Baptist circle, staged a very successful Christmas sale and tea in the church vestry, Thursday evening of last week.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Sulis, a student at Acadia University, Wolfville, is at her home here for the holidays.

William Snow, Jr., of Joggin Bridge, has been added to the Post Office staff for the busy Christmas season.

Miss Margaret Rand, of Halifax, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Longworth. Miss Sadie Kerr, a student at the Maritime Business College, Halifax, was a guest at the same home on Thursday of last week.

The members of the Smith's Cove Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. George Wightman on Wednesday of last week, for their regular December meeting and to celebrate the 17th anniversary of their organization.

At the close of the business session, the meeting adjourned to enjoy a social half hour around a gaily illuminated Christmas tree thoughtfully decorated for occasion by their hostess. After partaking of a round of dainty refreshments, provided by Miss Janet Cornwell and Mrs. E. B. Weir, Miss Cornwell presented the members with a prettily decorated birthday cake. When each member had taken her turn at the blowing of the candles' the where the thunders' roll; harsh, sullen heralds of the gathering storm.

To the longsuffering Editor and his family; to the members of the staff in the composing room who consider me a nuisance, and to those who have tried to read my erratic ramblings and have given up disgusted, I send the kindest of Yuletide Greetings.

cake was cut by Mrs. Geo. Austin, giving, as she did so, an interesting account of their Institute organization.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has announced that His Majesty King George VI has approved of the issuance by the Canadian government of silver dollars and postage stamps bearing features of members of the royal family.

THE DOOR TO COMFORT

When you enter this room there's a cosy restfulness that is part of the "homey" comfortable surroundings you associate with the Lord Nelson.

E. M. CALDWELL ELECTED PRESIDENT CHILDREN'S AID

Rev. Ernest M. Caldwell, rector of Trinity church, was elected to succeed Rev. Alvin G. Robertson, pastor of the Baptist church, as president of the Digby Children's Aid Society, at the annual meeting of that organization, held in the court house on Friday afternoon last. Other officers were named as follows:

First Vice-President—Rev. A. G. Robertson.
Second Vice-President—Dr. J. S. Thompson.
Secretary—J. M. Wallis.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. J. M. Wallis.
Treasurer—C. N. G. Wilde.
Agent—Austin L. Robbins.
Agent without salary—Rev. Walter Wood, agent for the Children's Aid Society, of Annapolis; Mrs. Austin L. Robbins, Executive Committee—Mrs. J. W. Merkle; Mrs. Howard Anderson, Mrs. S. J. Abbott, Rev. T. W. Hodgson, Miss Elizabeth MacWhinnie, Miss Jna O'Brien, Mrs. H. L. Smith, F. C. Purdy, Mrs. F. C. Purdy, Miss Dorothy Moses, Miss Jean Anderson, Mrs. G. B. Clarkson, Hillard Gordon, T. E. G. Lynch, Miss Brydon and Mrs. E. DuVernet.

The report of the treasurer, H. L. Gordon, for the year ending Nov. 30, showed the society with a balance of $144.25 on hand. The maintenance account for the year was $4,693.68, with $95.71 still receivable in this account.

Expenditures in the general account were $826.74, with receipts at $980.99, against which there are outstanding cheques to the amount of $62.28.

In both accounts expenditures were considerably increased over last year when maintenance costs were $3,875.62, and general expenses, $792.76.

According to the seventh annual report of Austin L. Robbins, the society's agent, eight children were made wards of the Digby society during the year. Of this number six were placed in boarding homes; one in a free home and one in the Halifax Industrial School. In all 109 children have been made wards of the society since it was organized, of which 35 are being provided for by the society; of the remaining 74, four have died, 35 are in free homes, and the remainder are self-supporting or have attained the age of 21 years.

Votes of thanks to the retiring officers and to Mrs. A. A. bott, who was convenor for the annual drive, and to Mrs. Merkle, who sponsored a play in the interest of the society, were passed at this meeting.

RECEIVER CONGRATULATIONS ON 100TH BIRTHDAY

On Tuesday, Dec. 20, many friends called on Mrs. Sabina Balsor to congratulate her on having reached her 100th birthday. Mrs. Balsor is at the home of her grandson, Roscoe Marshall, at Outram, Annapolis County, but in the summer time she lives at Mount Rose with her oldest daughter, Mrs. Adelia Marshall, who is 78 years old.

Mrs. Balsor is a most remarkable woman for her age. Her health is perfect now and she has hardly had a sick day in her life. She walks around the house with a step equal to that of the usual manner of a person of 70 rather than 100; she does not use a cane and carries herself very erect.

Her faculties are remarkable also. Her hearing is apparently not impaired in the least and she is still able to read in a good light. She also can write a legible hand, and when asked she sang in a clear soprano, her favorite hymn "There's Sunshine in My Soul". Every note was clear and true to tone and there was not a quaver. She also sang another song of three long verses without a mistake.

Two years ago while visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Andrews, at Outram, she suddenly decided to go and visit another daughter, Mrs. Jane Andrews, at North Range, Digby County, but did not inform the family of her intentions.

She waited for the mailman and drove with him to the station at Middleton, where she purchased her ticket and boarded the train. Arriving at North Range she looked up the mailman again and drove with him to the home of her daughter, who received quite a surprise, much to the dear lady's amusement.

Mrs. Balsor recalled a conversation by her father with a family friend, who were discussing the family history in which it was asserted they originally came from Holland and settled in New York. Afterwards her great grandfather moved to Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Balsor was born in Outram, and has lived in the vicinity all her life excepting for a short period spent in New Germany. Her maiden name was Worthy-lake, and at the age of 19 she married John Balsor, who was 6 years senior to her. He passed on nineteen years ago at the age of 87.

There were six sons and five daughters, ten of whom are living today. Mrs. Adelia Marshall, Mount Rose; Mrs. Jane Andrews, North Range; Theodore, John and Maitland, of Natick, Mass.; Richard, of Williamston; Frank, of Torbrook; Mrs. George Andrews, Outram; Mrs. Frances Milbury, Hillsburn; Mrs. Joshua Banks, Victoria Vale.

There are thirty-five grandchildren, sixty-one great grandchildren and seven great-great grandchildren.

Seven miners lost their lives in a rock slide at a 50-year-old asbestos mine at Thetford Mines, Que. Hundreds of men, under the direction of experts, toiled to remove the tons of debris which blocked the entrance of a 1500-foot tunnel in which the miners were working at the time of the slide. This picture, showing the tons of debris, was taken shortly after the fatal rock slide.

We heartily extend you our best wishes for the merriest of Yuletides and express our appreciation for your loyalty and cooperation during the past year.

IDEAL MINISTERS EXTEND GREETINGS

The message of Christmas is by glorifying God, who has sent His Son into the world. As the Babe of Bethlehem was the Messenger of Heaven to earth we think of the message of the Messiah to mankind.

Pathetically we sing the great Christmas hymn of adoration, "O Come, All Ye Faithful". It is right that on the morn of the nativity we should praise and worship God, for we get thereby the sense of exultation, of free and spacious thanksgiving that can lift us above ourselves and inspire us with the perplexities of life. It is the man who, as fully triumphant, can see Him who is Christ the man who can be the faithful soldier and saint to life's end. And because Christ is never so near to us as on Christmas day, on this day of the whole year we are stirred to human emotions purified by a true vision of humanity and purpose of God. We are as men wanting to settle under a leader who, too often forgotten, has come again to his rightful place. His presence all things possible, hope is once again more boundless, and not justly or dimly, but confidently and courageously we see the advent of "peace on earth, good will towards men."

Tomorrow, perchance, we shall have lost that vision as we somberly reflect on the empty facts of human life. Let us not forget that men are made great by their hopes. Let us struggle within our souls to keep living and let the message of Christmas Day—Peace and Goodwill towards all men.

My dear people: — Once more we draw near to the Feast of the Blessed Nativity and once again with wise men and simple shepherds, the world gathers around the manger-cradle of Bethlehem to pay adoring tribute to the Infant Saviour of the world.

God's gift came down from Heaven above
The gift of a wonderful Life of Love,
The gift of a beautiful Hope for earth,
But the world saw only a lowly birth
And nothing more.

Teach us, O Lord, this Christmas morn
To see in the manger where Thou wast born,
The gift that is hidden. The God-head veiled,
That here, where the sight of the world has failed,
We may adore.

As on the first Christmas morning, there was a meeting of the angels of heaven and the humble shepherds of Bethlehem, a meeting of heaven with earth, so let there be a meeting of the Lord and Master of the Nativity with yourself. And there is no more fitting place for this holy meeting than in His own House of Prayer.

On Christmas Day let the services of your church be a real Bethlehem to which you, with your dear ones and your fellow-men, may journey to meet the "New Born King."

Your whole joy at this Christmas-tide will be far, far richer if you wend your way to God's House, there to bend the knee in loving adoration before the founder of Christmas.

On the first Christmas morn it was said, "There was no room for them in the inn"—they said it of their inn.

Let us not say it of our hearts and lives. Make room for Him on Christmas Day".
Your friend and rector,
Ernest M. Caldwell.

"Christmas is a time in which, at all times of the year, the memory of every remedial sorrow, wrong and trouble in the world should be active with us—for all good." Charles Dickens. How true that is, the Spirit of Christmas is expressed in the impulse of giving and has its genesis in the heart of God, our Heavenly Father, Who so loved that He gave! What a gift that was—the gift of Jesus as Saviour to a dark and desolate world! The call of Christmas is a call to Love—to love God—to love the people, and all the people. Not love in the abstract, but actually—and shown towards the bad as well as the good.

In His loving purposes each to put in operation a Christ has a program for us a program of peace and goodwill. It overrides every national barrier; every distinction of class! It is love expressed in simple day-to-day deeds of unselfishness for Christ's sake.

The sorry spectacle of a world in chaos would be impossible were that spirit of love, peace and goodwill permitted universally to influence life and its activities. It is not only to those who themselves have abundance, and who may exchange gifts with us, that we should render our Christmas ministry, but to those who are likely to receive little kindness, and whose lives we may serve to brighten. Let us prove that Christ came from heaven to earth by sharing our joys and goods, when we celebrate His birth. This is a thankful season. The world is a sad enough place, and it is torn with strife, but, oh, what an uninhabitable world it would be without the remembrance that Christ came to deliver men from sin and sorrow and built a foundation of joy and hope. What if Christ had not come?

May we (more than ever) this Christmastide, set ourselves actively to the purposes of making the real spirit of love, peace and goodwill; that in home and family life, in public and in private, we may become spreaders of this glorious ideal which the herald angels proclaimed to a waiting world over the plains of Bethlehem.

Mary D. Mason,
Captain Salvation Army.

We hail once more the brightness and gladness of the magic Christmas season, when hearts everywhere are filled with cheer, when neighbours become more neighbourly, and when the spirit of goodwill is abroad in the land.

At this season of happy memories, high resolves, and beckoning visions, let me extend to you and yours the age-old greeting, "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year." May a full measure of joy and peace befall you, and may God's best benison go with you throughout this joyous season, and in all the days that follow.

My message for you, as you approach this great milestone in life's journey, comes wrapped in the heart of the following little poem:

A happy Christmas, a bright New Year.
Is the wish I send today.
God's help to strengthen. His light to cheer.
And His love to guide your way;
A thankful heart for the days gone by.
More faith for the days to be.
To face the strife, though you know not why.
To trust though you cannot see:
A life to be spent for lives around.
A love which is strong and true.
Through the Christmas joy which you have found.
And the love which comes to you.

Yours in the spirit of Christmas,
Rev. A. G. Robertson

BAND MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS EVE

The Digby Civic Band will play a short concert of appropriate music at the Community Christmas tree, on Christmas eve, Saturday, at 7.30, if the weather is favorable and not too cold. With temperature below 25 degrees the instrument valves and pads freeze which makes good playing impossible. Director Yates has arranged the following programme:

- 1.—March—In Honor Bound.
- 2.—Hymn—Joy To The World.
- 3.—Carol—Hark, the Herald Angels Sing.
- 4.—March—On To Victory.
- 5.—Carol—It Came Upon a Midnight Clear.
- 6.—Carol—Silent Night, Holy Night.
- 7.—March—Trombones on Parade.
- 8.—Hymn—Adeste Fideles (O Come All Ye Faithful.)
- 9.—Medley—Jingle Bells.

Journey to Bethlehem Not Like Today's Travel

ACCUSTOMED to our swift and modern transportation, it is difficult to visualize the hardships of that journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem, or the great fatigue and weariness suffered by Mary and Joseph. Consternation filled their hearts at the decree of Caesar; yet there was nothing to do but obey the summons. They must make the long, tiresome journey and at once!

No shining motor car waited outside their gate; no silver-winged plane stood throbbing in a nearby field; not even the mearest ox-cart was available. While others rode by in gorgeous caravans, a patient little donkey was their only means of transportation. We can imagine the tall and bearded Joseph leading the animal along, glancing back every now and then with words of cheer and encouragement for Mary, or pointing out some landmark along the way.

Behind them now was the Sea of Galilee and Mt. Tabor. Through the plain of Estraleon they labored; then came the rough and uneven trail through Samaria, where even the sure-footed donkey stumbled at times. To the west, the Jordan ran its course, to empty farther south into the Dead Sea. Along their way they passed many places whose names would be known and revered around the world in the dim future.

Did Mary have a vision as she went by that one day the Son whom she was about to bear would go up and down this country preaching a new Gospel of love and peace and hope for man and that His birth would be held in happy and blessed remembrance by all the peoples of the earth until time would be no more?—Katherine Edelman.

First Christmas Carol When Christ Was Born

CHRISTMAS is the time when men are drawn together in a great unity. Much of this may be attributed to our response to familiar songs, sung year after year to commemorate the advent of a little Child on earth. The first Christmas carol ever heard, we like to believe, came over the hills of Bethlehem, when Christ was born—"Glory be to God on high and on earth, peace, good will toward men."

But it was 1,200 years later that St. Francis of Assisi and his brothers took up the singing in public of carols at Christmas to combat the unbelief of their time. With lighted tapers they went about the streets of the small Italian village pouring out their hearts in songs of praise. In the 300 years since then the singing of Christmas carols has gone around the world. Wherever Christianity is known carol singing follows.

The simple vision of a mother lulling her babe to sleep gives Christmas music its strength. Some sing as a tribute to their religious faith, others as a custom they enjoy. But whatever the reason, the important thing is that more and more people do it. From such widely different sources as churches, theaters, schools, clubs, radio stations, come the words of "Away in a Manger," "Silent Night," "Joy to the World," "Little Town of Bethlehem," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and "Come All Ye Faithful," sung by soloists, choirs, choruses or the voices of school children. So each year new joy is expressed through old channels. — Frances Grinstead.

CHRISTMAS TRADITIONS

IF YOUR Christmas tree is a balsam—and that is the loveliest kind of all, both for appearance and for fragrance—then when you first light it a cheerful old superstition urges a glance at your shadow on the wall—if you dare. Should it appear headless you will not live to see another Christmas. Then, later, when the tree is burned, another tradition suggests keeping a partly burned stick to ward off lightning.

Paint Brightens Toys

In the basement or the attic many of us will find old toys the children have discarded. Christmas is almost here and much joy can be brought into the lives of less fortunate youngsters if we get out these toys, give them a coat of gayly colored enamel and distribute them ourselves or turn them over to a social agency to be handed out to needy youngsters on St. Nick's day.

In England's Wassail Bowls Brewed in England's Yuletide wassail bowls are baked apples, hot ale seasoned with spice, orange juice and rind and whipped eggs.

Plan Christmas Dinner

Plan to prepare as much of the meal as possible on the day prior to Christmas so that the housewife can enjoy the day with her family.

The fastest Atlantic passages were made by a 3080-ton steamer in 1869, eight days; a 10,600-ton steamer in 1889, six days; a 16,500-ton steamer in 1903, five and one-half days; a 30,000-ton steamer in 1909, in less than four and one-half days, and the 60,000-ton liner made in 1937 in less than four days.

HERE and THERE

Some more about Virginia City, Nevada. One of the first women to come to this old camp was a Scotch girl named Eilly Orrum. She came to America as a Mormon convert, later divorcing her Mormon elder husband and also severing the tie that bound her to the church. She went to Virginia City and opened a boarding house, and a little later married one of her boarders—Sandy Bowers—a poor but honest teamster. They secured a couple of mining claims that produced about a million dollars a year for them, which they spent as fast as they could. The only thing now remaining of what was theirs in those happy days is the stone mansion that they built several miles away from the camp in the Washoe Valley. It had walls of solid granite, doors with silver knobs and was furnished with the best of everything. The Bowers mansion still stands in "its pioneer simplicity". The house and its grounds with fountains and beautiful trees are all open to the public. The property, now a public park and picnic ground, is maintained at county expense. We made a nine-mile trip back along the Carson City-Reno highway to see this old place and to tip-toe through its empty rooms where in days gone by the great and near great of the Comstock country had been entertained. We made a nine-mile trip back along the Carson City-Reno highway to see this old place and to tip-toe through its empty rooms where in days gone by the great and near great of the Comstock country had been entertained.

Virginia City, like all other mining camps in Nevada, has had its ups and downs, depressions, booms, revivals and re-booms; ore bodies exhausted, new ones discovered; demonitization of silver coinage and government speculation in silver bullion being the principal causes. Today the place has about 1500 inhabitants as compared with 35,000 in the seventies and 65,000 in the bonanza days. Several mines are still being worked and their shares are still listed on the San Francisco mining exchange, but the mining results do not cause any excitement in these days. I noticed several steam shovels engaged in stripping operations on the mountain side, some one taking a chance on uncovering some of that blue clay that was found near the surface in earlier days.

The town has had some devastating fires both above and below ground but some of the older buildings are still standing, weatherbeaten and shabby, notably the historic "Pipers' Opera House" where such footlight favorites as Booth, Jos Jefferson, Fay Templeton, James O'Neill, Victoria Loftus, British Blondes, and even the famous Madjeska and Patti, played and sang to the host of admiring Comstockers. We visited this old opera house, a big barn-like structure now bare of seats and divans. The curtains and scenery are dilapidated and in rags, and the boxes which were occupied by the elite of by gone days, now bereft of their velvet and silver hangings, look drab and dismal indeed. Another famous building—one that has been kept in good repair—is the old St. Mary's Cathedral, noted for its lovely altars, beautiful murals and other paintings and its quaint private pews with old-fashioned doors. Here the great bonanza kings worshipped along with the poorest miner and mucker of the Comstock. This church was first built in 1868.

It was a victim of the big fire of 1875, and was rebuilt in 1876. Our guide informed us that Mr. Fair and Mrs. Mackay used to contribute ten thousand dollars a month toward the upkeep of this church. Although our informant was unable to say, it is quite possible that the Fair and Mackay relatives continue to contribute something each year.

Clarence H. Mackay, chairman of the board of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Co. and president of the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Co., who passed away recently, was a son of John W. Mackay. He employed the millions of his pioneer father to extend the cable network started by his father. These cable and telegraph lines eventually stretched two thirds of the way around the world. He completed the trans-Pacific cable, linking the United States to the Orient in 1904.

During the world war Mackay's Postal Company received a hard blow from which it never fully recovered. When the United States administration took over all of the war the Wilson administration placed the Postal under the management of the Western Union officials. The Western Union Company never had much use for the Postal, considering it a mere upstart in the telegraph business, so est workings 3300 feet. The largest ore body was mined from the Consolidated Virginia mine, the property for which the Mackey, Fair, Flood, O'Brien combination paid $80,000 and took out ore valued at $180,000,000—a bonanza indeed.

In spite of all of this underground burrowing the surface gives little sign of sagging, but some day as the supporting timbers dot away or there comes an earthquake we imagine there will be a big drop in city real estate.

what better chance to take the new company apart could it have asked for. The Postal Co., however, gave excellent service and was always a thorn in the side of the older company. In recent years the Postal, while continuing to give the same good service, has operated in the red.

The Clarence Mackay Harbor Hill mansion, at Roslyn, N. Y., is said to be one of the show places of America. In 1932 because of the tremendous cost of upkeep, the place was closed. In 1935 the family moved back into ore small wing of the house, minus the former luxury of a hundred servants. One of Clarence Mackay's daughters married Irving Berlin, Jewish song writer, whose most notable production was, and apparently still is, "Alexander's Rag Time Band". Mackay, being a Catholic, greatly disapproved of his daughter's marriage to a Jew and refused for a long time to receive the couple in his home, but later relented, when grandchildren came along.

Let's get back to Virginia City. The old court house built in 1876, where much mining litigation was argued out, where numerous murders and highwaymen received their due in early days, is still a fairly good looking court house. Some of the mansion homes of other bonanza kings are still standing but are closed to sight-seers and rubbernecks. We visited one of the old cemeteries at the north end of the town, where many of the pioneers are buried, not a few of whom died with their boots on. Interesting and unusual are some of the inscriptions on some of the

YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK

The Bear River Group "An impressive worship service was presented at the regular meeting, under dimmed lights, by the programme convenor, Miss Ethel Jack. The service opened with quiet music, followed by a group singing "Silent Night." The scripture was read by Miss Dorothy Rice, after which Miss Emma Benson read an interesting Christmas story, "The Keeper of the Stable." The convener then led in prayer. The worship closed with the singing of "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

The remainder of the evening was spent in games and fun, and then there was a beautifully decorated Christmas tree that yielded a present for everyone. Appetites were satisfied with candy and nuts.

After the games were over and everyone had received a present, Rev. R. L. Roach pronounced the Benediction, and a very enjoyable Christmas party was over.

The Sandy Cove Union

The Young People's Union met on the evening of Tuesday, December 13th, at the home of Mrs. Harry Saunders. Miss Florence Jeffrey, convenor of Carleton Citizenship, had charge of the programme for the evening. At the close of the meeting the Union was favored with a duet by the Misses Juanita Snow and Florence Jeffrey.

The Weymouth Young People's Union

The Weymouth Young People's Union, under the direction of Kathleen FitzGerald, Fellowship Convenor, presented a three-act pageant, "No Room in the Inn", on Friday evening. The first two scenes were of a dining room in an eastern inn. The third was the manger scene. The characters were:

The Inn Keeper—Galen Pierce. The Boy—Claude McNevin. Simeon—Jack Smith. Esther—Stella Sabine. Mary—Agnes Payson. Joseph—Jack McNeill. The Wise Men—Peter Connell, Clarence McNevin, Judson Nickerson.

In the worship part of the programme Miss FitzGerald told a Christmas story, "The Keeper of the Stable," which was paraphrased from the Scripture read by Galen Pierce. Miss Agnes Payson led in prayer.

Several matters of importance were dealt with at this meeting, including the paying of $10 towards the minister's salary, and $30 to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of the Church.

At the conclusion of the meeting Rev. A. A. MacLeod, Field Secretary of the Sons of Temperance of Nova Scotia, addressed the members in the interest of temperance.

Tonight (Friday) the members are going to Marshalltown to present a Christmas programme and take a treat to the inmates of the Municipal Home. This will be the third consecutive year that the members of the Union have tried to bring a bit of cheer to the inmates of the Home.

eadstones and monuments. One of the monuments are mostly works of art in marble and polished granite. In the o-called "Museum of Memories" we viewed many specimens of early day utilities and transportation, as well as many items of kitchen, dining room and chamber ware, old pictures, old newspapers, old skirts and whatnots.

Well, we have enjoyed our visit to Virginia City so far, and after a look into the stores and other places of business—both wet and dry—we have lunch in a fairly good restaurant at a reasonable price, a price, however, that I'd timer would sniff at. Those old boys paid big money for their eatments, a dollar and a half for a loaf of bread; flour, $75 per hundred pounds; $62.50 for sugar; andles cost seventy-five cents each; eggs three dollars a dozen; miners' picks, six dollars each; shovels five dollars each. Operators of freight teams often paid as high as fifty cents a pound for hay; lumber for miners' shanties old at $150 per thousand. Moonshine whiskey was the cheapest commodity of all—two dollars a quart, and two rinks guaranteed to make a miner sit up and yell like a coyote. So little did these old boys care for expenses that some of the mine owners had their saddle horses shod with silver. I guess those were his happy days: the going as often rough and hectic, but then men were men and ounce lizards found no accommodations to their liking in such environment.

And now, we are on our way to Reno—Reno, Nevada,

DIGBY BOY VICTIM OF ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

Accidentally shot in the abdomen Sunday afternoon, 19-year-old Churchill Durkee lies in the Digby Hospital where his condition is reported as favorable. The accident occurred shortly before 2:00 o'clock in the kitchen of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Digby Baxter, King Street, where Durkee and a younger cousin, James Baxter, were cleaning their .22 rifles. At the time of the accident Durkee was looking through the barrel of his weapon, which was pointed toward the kitchen window. Baxter was about to inspect his gun and as he snapped the trigger before opening it, the rifle went off, sending the bullet into Durkee's body at close range. Baxter is understood to have said he thought he had removed the shell from his rifle. Rushed to the hospital immediately after the accident an operation was performed. His physician, Dr. McCleave, says the boy bled internally, but the bullet passed between the bowels and did not pass through any of the organs.

MAVILETTE CHILD VICTIM OF CAR ACCIDENT

Struck by a motor car, driven by Scott Hankinson, of Weymouth, who was driving to Yarmouth, while playing on the highway near her home in Mavillette Sunday afternoon, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jeddy—Frances Madeline—was killed almost instantly. There were no witnesses to the accident but according to information received the little girl was running along the roadway at the time and apparently ran into the car. Death was due to a fractured skull. The little girl apparently tripped on the shoulder of the road and plunged directly into the side of the car near the rear. An inquest was held on Monday evening and the driver was exonerated of all blame.

About This and That

CHRISTMAS THE GREAT REVEALER

Christmas is the great Surpriser, the great Revealer. It makes us happy by awaking possibilities and joys we had forgotten we had and they are happy possibilities that unite us with others.

Outside the door of a certain church in London, is this placard—"Your lives are busy, useful, honest, but your faces are anxious, and you are not all you want to be. There is within you another life, a buried life, which does not get free. When it really hears God's voice it will arise. I don't think this life will be stirred by excitement. I believe that in the quiet of a place full of good memories, in the sound of good music, in the sympathy of fellow-seekers, we may better hear God's call. It may be that as you listen to the silence, to the music, or to the worship of others, God will speak, that the buried life will arise, and that you will have peace."

Isn't Christmas one time in the year when all the outward world becomes in a sense such a church? It puts us all busy, useful, honest, or even if we cannot feel too sure that we are any of these things, it puts us in the quiet of a place full of good memories, with the sound of beautiful and holy music round about, and the thought of others, too, seeking these things. Now, as the Silent Night comes on, and the songs it lets men hear, childhood and birth, the simple adoration and gifts and expectancy and affection of the universal simple heart, old happy memories and good will to all start up in us again.

Christmas tells us that this world is a pretty good world to live in. It means that the earth itself is beautiful and happy to walk on and look at. The sun is doing its least just now for this earth. It is farthest away. But isn't the earth even left a little by itself, isn't winter haunting and lovely? Its symbol is the Christmas fir-tree dark green and cozy against the snow.

Christmas means that people are friendly and good. It is happy to be with others here—not alone. Impulses to forgiveness and kindness and understanding now come to all.

Christmas means that celebrating all this joy in human ways, all the shopping, hurry, gaiety, merriment, holiday-making, are fitting. The human heart isn't left to itself, though our planet for the moment is.

Happiest of all is that almost everybody is in church with us now. It is the Christian gospel that God helped men to realize all the things just mentioned, and many more, by his timing and coloring of his revelation. But one doesn't need to be too technical about such things at Christmas. One of the pleasantest things about it is the way our Jewish brothers enter into the deepest spirit of the season. Believer and unbeliever, good and bad, young and old, at war or with outward peace about us, the good tiding of great joy somehow get to us from above, and awaken something in us that brings us peace.

A CHRISTMAS APPEAL

(A Contributed Editorial)

Another year is nearly gone, an interesting and eventful year; full of wars and rumours of wars, storms, floods, droughts and famines, and yet, in spite of all the terrible happenings and anxious hours, one sees, like a ray of bright light piercing through fog, an increasing hope in the hearts of men.

It is true that in certain countries the people are being taught to defy war, and to flaunt all the rules of decency and common humanity; but in the hearts of many of those very people is unrest and grave doubt at their own actions, and no man can foretell when this inner force for good will break through. Man proposes, but God disposes.

It is true that throughout practically the whole civilized—or rather industrialized—world, social and economic conditions are acute, but on the other hand, there has never been a time in history when so much time, trouble and money have spent on the alleviation of suffering, the amelioration of social conditions, and the general advancement of human welfare.

That we have still a long way to go is true, but that we have already done much is also true, and should not be forgotten as we check back over the past year.

Today man has conquered Nature on every hand. Hardly a problem which She presents, but chemists, engineers, scientists, seize upon it, and find the solution. Everything we need, materially speaking, is to hand for the creation of a very Heaven upon Earth.

Where, then, lies the weakness? Nowhere but in the heart of man. How strange it is, that man, so strong, so brave, so untiring in his efforts to conquer Nature, is so weak, so mean, so petty and so greedy in his dealings with his fellow man.

If only he could train himself to realize that the "almighty dollar" and all the material gain it represents is not the main object of his existence here on Earth: if only he would train himself to remember, during his contacts with others, that the spiritual rather than the material factor is all-important, the mighty problems which confront us today would fade rapidly away, and those dangers which threaten the whole social structure would disperse like the morning mist.

So simple, so easy, so vitally important, yet finding a place in the hearts of so few!

Why not give this idea a trial during the coming year? Why not make up your mind to try to take more interest in the other fellow, his life, and his problems? It will amaze you how quickly such an attitude will lighten the burden on your own shoulders.

Why not make a genuine effort to work for the good of the community, letting your own personal selfish interests slide into the background for a while? You will be surprised to find that those very interests will be better advanced in that way than in any other.

In the old days, when the pioneers went out into the woods amongst wild men and beasts, axe and gun in hand, it was "every man for himself" and "grab and hold what you can". But those days are gone, and if you want proof of it, look around you. We are still applying that "pioneer spirit" today, and it is ruining the country. By land and by sea we get poorer every day.

Why not face the facts of changing times, and, changing to suit those times, make up our minds to pull together for the good of the whole community, cheerfully, unselfishly, with absolute faith in our ability to prove that here at least, is one small corner of the globe where men understand the need for co-operation in the face of modern social and economic problems, where, great and small alike, they are willing to sink personal desire in a far more satisfying ambition for the well-being of their fellow men.

ABOLISHES MOTOR TAX

To facilitate growth of the auto industry in Italy — there are only 225,000 motor vehicles in a population of 44 millions—the motor tax on private cars and buses will be abolished on January 1st.

An interesting reminiscence was related in the Annapolis Spectator the other day by Capt. George E. Corbitt, as to when he began to go to school there some eighty years ago. He said that the school master was an expert penman; and used to send some of the kids around occasionally to pick up desirable goose quills for the purpose, as he had quite a call for them from lawyers and other writers. Asked where they got the goose-quills, Capt. Corbitt said that everybody kept geese and other poultry in those days and prices for best Christmas geese were only 50 cents each.

Is There a Santa Claus

Editor's Note:—Due to requests each year, we are publishing the following Christmas editorial, originally printed in the New York Sun, Sept. 23, 1897:—

"We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

"Dear Editor—I am eight years old.

"Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.

"Papa says, 'If you see it in the Sun, it's so.' Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"

"Virginia O'Hanlon. '115 West Ninety-fifth St.' Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They think that nothing can be that is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas, how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus? You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men see. Did you ever see fairies dance ing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders that are unseen and unseeable in the world. You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond.

Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding. No Santa Claus! Thank God, he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, may ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

Christmas Binds Us All Together

One of the interesting things about Christmas is the way in which it binds us all together in fellowship and celebration. It would be interesting for us to notice some of the facts in connection with the day.

For instance, we know that December 25th is not the actual date of the birth of Jesus. That is unknown. The season of the year a series of pagan festivals in the social life of the Romans was held, culminating in that of the winter solstice, the birthday of the new sun. This festival was spiritualized and made symbolic by followers of the Christian faith. These traditions and customs have come down to all of us.

Again in the origin of the Christmas tree, we share in what has come down to us from the past. Frederica Beard in 'The Encyclopedia of Sunday Schools and Religious Education' tells of its origin six hundred years after the first Christmas observance as follows:

Traditional Origin
"One wintry night, on a hillcock where stood the 'Thunder Oak' sacred to the God Thor, a company of people were assembled; in the midst were the high priest and a kneeling child—a victim to be sacrificed by the blow of a hammer Boniface appeared, turned aside the blow of the hammer by the Cross, rescued the boy, and felled down the oak. 'Here,' said he, as his eyes fell on a young fir tree, 'is the living tree that shall be a sign of new worship—the tree of the Christ Child, for this is the birth night of the White Christ. Go no more into the shadows of the forest to keep your feasts with sacred rites of shame; keep them at home with laughter and song and rites of love.'

So, in a multitude of ways, in the songs we sing, the customs we follow, the pictures we admire, the stories we tell each other at Christmas, we share with others in gifts that have come to us from all lands and all peoples. As we celebrate Christmas this year let us think in a new sense of them.—Marie Baptist.

The Christmas Story That Never Dies

Luke 2: 9-20

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the fields keeping watch over their flocks by night.

And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them; Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the City of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying:

Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will towards men.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another: Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning the child.

And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

But Mary kept all these things and pondered them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen.

FEDERAL HOLIDAYS

Seventy-five Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in Ontario have gone on record endorsing the movement to shift certain statutory holidays to Monday, regardless of the date upon which they fall. There are certain days that would have to be carried along as at present, such as Good Friday, Remembrance Day, Christmas Day and New Year's Day. There are also some who consider that Dominion Day should not be changed, but it was felt by the majority of the boards that such days as civic holidays, sovereign's birthdays, and other such could be just as well celebrated on Monday as Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and such other days are at present. A resolution will be presented through the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce to the members of Parliament, asking that the matter be brought before the House of Commons at its next regular session. — Halifax Commercial News.

HITLER FORESEES FOOD SHORTAGE

Chancellor Hitler told a large group of German road workers recently that Germany had about reached the limit of its food production and the country's consumption would have to be adjusted accordingly.

He spoke in connection with the completion of 3,000 kilometers (1,864 miles) of super highways. Earlier, Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, had declared Germany needed colonies because its territories failed to supply essential needs.

"We are getting today more out of German soil than any country in the world is getting out of its soil, but there is a limit to it," Herr Hitler said.

"It is necessary, therefore, to reckon with all realities, one of which is the right appreciation of the world around us."

"We want to make Germany so strong that no one can crush us."

"For this it is necessary that we organize our consumption so that we can cover it from our own production as far as possible."

Dr. Goebbels declared, "In Germany nearly 140 persons live on one square kilometer," (about 260 persons to a square mile).

"But the foreign press denies Germany's right to have colonies," he added. Saying that under the circumstances, Germany had to resort to projects like the super-highways to provide work for its people.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

We can no more measure Christmas by the hour hand of the clock than we can confine its good-will and happiness within the boundaries of a single human being—Christmas radiates its spirit beyond its day and year . . . Its joy permeates the very air we breathe—becomes an integral part of ourselves. In wishing you the full happiness that the season herald, it is our earnest hope that it may remain your personal possession across the busy months to come.

Trust Company Service Appeals to Business Men

Through the Clouds and in Time for Christmas

THE plane, "The Betsy Lee," had climbed to 10,000 feet. The man at the controls peered through the misted glass at the dense bank of clouds ahead. He had already encountered one squall, and there was a coating of ice on the wings.

Should he turn back, and take the train that would get him home too late for Christmas? Then he thought how disappointed Lucy and the kids would be. Christmas without Daddy. He squared his jaw and muttered: "Bill Parker, you're no quitter; Betsy, we are going through!" He grasped the stick with a steady hand as the bank of clouds loomed closer, and plunged into them.

The wind tore at the plane, causing it to zigzag crazily and it took all the strength of Bill's iron muscles to prevent a tailspin. Rain and hail fell in torrents, with an occasional flash of lightning piercing the inky darkness.

"What a storm to fight!" If he could climb high enough he might get above it. The roar of the engine answered, as he opened up the throttle, and the plane began to climb. Twenty thousand feet, the instruments registered. The storm was still with him. Five thousand more—he felt dizzy and numb. Then a lull as the plane roared into a calm, moon-silvered night.

Bill pounded his numb hands. "We're going through, Betsy, old girl, but it was close to 'Another plane crashed' headline. We missed the front page but we'll soon be home."—Jocile Webb Pearson.

1,000-Year-Old Play

Hampshire nummers still perform a play which is said to be 1,000 years old and for which there is no written script. The nummers are farm laborers who wear costumes made of colored wallpaper. They give the play at Christmas time.—Pearson's London Weekly.

A Sign in the Sky Was a Christmas Time Cross

"WELL, Ratty, we'll be handing ourselves a grand present by this time tomorrow."

"Yah, I don't hanker after the job. Somebody in this home-town of mine might get wise to me."

"Scared? You been away ten years doing time. You're out now, and free. No one ain't going to see you. You can lift plenty from that house you been telling about. You know every inch of it, by your say."

"Sure I do. I lived in it for nearly twenty years."

The man beside him in the speeding car whistled. "Never knew that."

"You keep your trap shut, Slinky."

Clouds swept across the moon, now revealing it round and bright, now hiding it.

"Stormy," said Slinky, "all the better for us."

They entered a broad village street. Elms lined either side.

"Right pretty, ain't it?" snarled Slinky. "But too neighborly for my blood."

"Hey," cried Ratty stopping the car. "Look at the moon shining up there behind the church steeple!"

A cross of light streamed from four corners. "Nothing but moon-dogs."

"Shut up, you. I'm telling you something. I'm not robbing the house I was born in. I'm tough . . . but not that tough."

"You crawling dirty rat!"

"And I'm going to church on Christmas morning like I used to with my, my," he hesitated, "with my folks. We got decent clothes. I'm going. That there," he pointed at the streaming light, "well, for just a minute I felt like I used to feel when I lived here as a boy. I'm going, and so are you. We can say Merry Christmas then, for once, without faking it. That cross," his voice was husky, "shows me up for just what I am . . . a rat. You and me, Slinky, are going to be decent tomorrow." — Martha Banning Thomas

Start Turkey in Oven Day Before

Hints for housewives, who are wondering how best to cook their Christmas turkeys, were offered by Louise C. Struve, head of the Division of Home Economics on the Davis Campus of the University of California.

According to Miss Struve, many turkeys are ruined by housewives who lack knowledge of the best methods of cooking them. Even the poorer grades may be delicious if well-cooked, she says, but it is wise to select the better grades which have been dressed scientifically, packed and frozen hard. Birds which are drawn immediately after killing seem to be superior in flavor to those not drawn.

Furthermore, water should not be allowed to touch the inside of the bird. Thus, all cleaning of the outside of the skin should be done before the bird is drawn.

Dressing adds much to the flavor of the bird. Miss Struve points out that a thin layer of dressing between the breast meat and the outside skin gives the white meat a more delicate flavor and surprising juiciness.

If the bird is stuffed and prepared for cooking a day or more in advance, more of the flavor of the dressing permeates the meat. Also, the texture and flavor of the meat are greatly improved, and carving is made much easier, if the turkey is three-fourths roasted on the day before it is to be served and the final fourth of the cooking completed just before the Christmas dinner. No need then for mother to stay away from church.

The easiest and most satisfactory method of cooking, says Miss Struve, is as follows:

Grease the turkey.
Place in an open pan, breast up.
Roast at 300 degrees.
Baste every half hour with melted fat.

TOBY BARNES, just home from the office, stood regarding his wife with amusement. "You have the manner, Kay, of being about to leap up and wave a flag. What's happened?"

"I've just discovered something important about myself," Kay's short, light curls were becomingly haphazard. Her eyes were of an intense blue. She was slender and young and vivid. "I'm supremely selfish." She rose to her feet and gesticulated with both hands. "I want to be utterly, gloriously engrossed in ME!"

They both laughed. Then Kay ran forward and dragged her husband down into a wide, comfortable chair, squeezing in beside him.

"You're a perfectly grand guy," she smiled, "but this Christmas, my man, I'm going to be superbly selfish, as an experiment. Will you try it too, Toby?"

"All right," he agreed, "I'll take you on." The next morning Kay tilted a pert gray hat on her curls, and walked imperiously to the shopping district. "I'm fed up with being poor, and scrimping and saving. I can be generous in mean, little ways. Today I . . . spend on myself!"

She felt guilty and ridiculous, and she turned her eyes away from a haberdasher's window where gentlemen's furnishings were invitingly displayed. Toby needed masses and masses of things. No, just this once she would spend with a bang all she had on something frivolous for herself. Toby had promised to do the same.

At noon she happened to notice a tall person standing by the next store window. He was absorbed in thought. Kay hardly breathed while the man suddenly plunged into the store door. She crept close to a sheltering pillar while she watched what happened inside.

She saw the man point to a woman's rich, quilted housecoat. She saw him pay for it, and leave, but without a package under his arm. Just the sort of housecoat for which she had yearned hopelessly.

She gasped in dismay. For one hot second she was possessed with anger. Toby wasn't playing fair. He had no right to make her feel ashamed and abject on Christmas morning!

When Toby's flapping overcoat was out of sight Kay slipped into the same shop, going straight to the counter her husband had left. "May I inquire," she asked crisply, "if that quilted housecoat just purchased, is to be delivered to Mrs. Toby Barnes?" She gave the house address. The clerk was startled into admitting the fact.

Kay threw up her chin. "I asked my husband, Mr. Barnes, to step in here today to buy that for me. I've changed my mind. May I exchange it for something I prefer?"

The clerk weakly nodded. Christmas eve found Kay a bit cryptic. Toby carelessly inquired if a package had been delivered that afternoon. Kay said yes; it was waiting in the closet. As it was, though not quite what Toby supposed.

Kay was excited as a child on Christmas morning. There were waffles for breakfast and especially good coffee. Afterwards Mrs. Toby Barnes shoved her tall husband into his big chair. "Sit there," she commanded him, and left the room.

"When is this fine exhibition of selfishness going to begin?" he shouted after her. "I want to see it in action!"

Kay returned with a large package, elaborately wrapped. Toby looked pleased. "There you are," he said. "I'm sorry, Kay, to fail down on our agreement, but I knew you wanted the darned thing." "There you are!" cried Kay hurling the box at him. "I simply will not let you squander your money on expensive things for me, Toby."

Toby opened the box, drawing forth a manly, well-tailored dressing gown for a tall gentleman. "You know," muttered his wife in a small voice, "you haven't a thing to sit around in at home."

"So this," he raved, "is the great exhibition of selfishness! And where is your housecoat, I'd like to know?"

Kay, in a thin, quivering voice, begged him to be kind while she explained.

The BOSS of THE FAMILY

HE has just reached the age where he's allowed bread crusts to eat, and does he love them. And they're good for him, too, especially when the bread is made from REGAL FLOUR. Bread made from REGAL has extra wholesomeness and nutritive value that builds sturdy, healthy bodies in children, and its delicious flavour makes them clamor for it. You'll nourish your children better if you use REGAL in all your baking.

REGAL FLOUR

Various Dates

The early Christian churches used to celebrate the birthday of Christ, some in January, others in April and May. December, being the rainy season in Palestine, it is unlikely that the shepherds would be watching their flocks by night in that month. It may be that one of the later dates was much nearer the actual birthday of Christ. But as Christianity grew its leaders, wise in their generation, chose for their great festival of the Nativity a date which coincided with the heathen festivals. The festival of the winter solstice was the chief. By then the last leaf had fallen from the deciduous trees. It was the turning point between decay and the beginning of the new life or spring. Perhaps it was because evergreens, like hollies and pines, do not shed their leaves, but symbolize the continuous life of Nature that they have always played a great part in the ceremonies of the winter solstice.

Christmas In The New Home

THE first Christmas in our new home," Janice Wray announced joyously as she stepped across the threshold of Stewart's and her new home. "Christmas in our new home," Stewart echoed, switching on the light.

"Oh, isn't it just grand!" exclaimed Janice. "I'll say it is—but slow up—slow up, Janny! I've got about all my arms will hold, without taking you aboard," Stewart warned her as Janice attempted to throw her arms about him.

"Oh, keep quiet! You're just as excited as I am—so why pretend?" Janice answered with a toss of her head. Stewart put his packages down and then with his arms around her he assured her. "You bet I am. Honey, I think it is wonderful! Stupid because they were so heavy, they both laughed.

"Come on—let's get busy with the tree," Stewart suggested. "Right!" agreed Janice, "just as soon as I change my dress." The tree must be neither too large nor too small. Some time had been consumed deciding just the proper size for a Christmas tree for two. They were to be alone this Christmas—the first Christmas in their new home; there was no doubt about that, for they had definitely decided that when they purchased the house. And now here they were ready to trim the much-discussed tree.

"Isn't that star lovely?" Janice said as Stewart placed it at the top of the tree.

"Yes. But I thought you had planned on something else," Stewart replied.

"I changed my mind," was all Janice said. She didn't tell him she couldn't think of a Christmas tree without a star at the top. They always had one on the tree "at home."

"Thought you weren't going to get any red balls," she reminded Stewart.

"I changed my mind." Both laughed at Stewart's echo of Janice's answer of a moment before.

"Mother would love this silver ball," Janice hung the ball where it caught the most light.

"Wouldn't Bess love this blue ball?" Stewart picked up the large blue globe.

"Our dad would enjoy that open fire—and Bill those spruce boughs over the mantel"—Bill, the older brother of Stewart, loved anything from the woods.

And so each thing reminded them of someone's fondness for it, or of some of the happy times of former holidays.

"Well, I guess that's all for now," Stewart said when the decoration of the tree was finished and he and Janice stood admiring it. Janice made no reply to her husband's remark at first.

"All but the presents," she said hesitatingly.

"Oh, we can put those out later," Stewart suggested.

"But I mean the ones for the family," she explained.

"Didn't you distribute those today?" Stewart asked in surprise.

"I thought it would be more fun to take them together."

"Stewart stopped and kissed her. "I think so, too, honey—so let's go."

"Wait until I get my hat and coat."

"And I'll bring the car up to the door."

When Stewart returned to the room Janice was placing packages under the tree.

"Janice, doesn't it seem to you there is something wrong with the tree?" Stewart asked suddenly.

"No," Janice walked all around the tree, looking at it critically. "No," she said the second time—then suddenly—"Yes, Stewart, there is something wrong—something missing—the loving sharing of decorating the tree. Our families would so have enjoyed it. We trimmed it just for ourselves. It does seem selfish."

Then after a moment's silence she cried: "I have it! Suppose we leave the presents here and invite our families here for a good old-fashioned Christmas eve celebration. What do you say?"

"I say—great! Here goes," and Stewart hurried toward the telephone.

Christmas in Many Lands

England, Germany and the United States are the world's greatest celebrants of Christmas. In some countries the day is not celebrated at all, and in France, Italy and Spain much more is made of New Year's Day than of Christmas. On Christmas in the last named countries, the religious ceremonies are more marked than in our country. There are midnight Masses, followed by feasts, but there is no gift-making. The giving of gifts and all general merry-making of the Christmas time so common in our country, are reserved for New Year's Eve, or St. Sylvester's Eve, as it is sometimes called. In Paris, Rome, Florence, Madrid and even in Berlin, the utmost joyousness prevails and the customs of the time in these places are curious and interesting. Canadians who are abroad in the winter months often make a special effort to be present in one of the cities named, on St. Sylvester's Eve. The whole world seems given over to revelry, and the happiness of the people finds expression in many ways that seem curious indeed to Canadians, but it is always delightful to witness such universal happiness and good feeling.

About This and That

In a country where the doleful refrain of "hard times" still echoes, it might be well to look our poverty in the face and see of what it is made.

Nothing is more demoralizing to the character of a nation or an individual than self-pity; and right now this country seems to be drenched in self-pity. The fact, however, that a large part of our population is considerably better off than the entire populations of other countries seems to suggest that perhaps we are not so unfortunate as we think. At least it is true that we have no need for many of the things we crave—some of them are actually bad for us—and, in comparison with other peoples and nations, our 130-000,000 are not poor—not in the true sense of the word, which is destitution.

We are poor in the sense of want—we want everything the other fellow has, and if we cannot have it we cry poverty. Poverty is the prevailing excuse for every evasion of debt and duty, and when hard, unpleasant work is offered.

A sturdy sense of well-being can be cultivated and the will-to-do restored, if only we will find another god than the "good car"; other happiness than that found in costly and exhausting amusements. There are still sunshine and fresh air, soap and water, books, friends, fields to walk in, streams to fish in, woods to roam.

If we can't go back to something simpler and more wholesome, or forward to something finer, then the whole race of Americans as the world thinks of them—
the American of robust humor, courage and the ability to turn in casually a tremendous amount of excellent work—will have vanished from the earth. Then, indeed, we shall be poor.—E. A.

Hunter in American Mercury.

The "good old days?" They never were, thinks Donald Hough, in the Rotarian.

"Men change, but time goes on," he says. "Tests prove that the apple of today is a better apple than that of fifty years ago. The snow lies just as deep, the winters are just as cold, the summers are just as hot—or vice versa.

To this, Hough adds the verdict that the best cooking is found not on the farm of yesterday, but in the restaurant of today. Cooking in America—once enslaved to the frying pan and boiling pot—is one of its newest arts, he indicates. The food is better now, perhaps the appetites aren't. "Not all the people in America live in three-room kitchenette apartments, most politicians are honest, the average policeman cannot be bought, the country is full of young people who really do know more than their elders, money as a barometer of human worth is losing its grip, the cooking is getting better, people live longer, the whole history of man still can be summed up in one short word: "advance."

Incorporation of Switzerland in the vast economic entity that Germany is now in process of creating (Germano-Balkan bloc) would destroy the policy of equilibrium to which Switzerland intends remaining faithful because of her international position.
Switzerland will gladly consider all that may improve her commercial relations with Germany. But it is evident she cannot become the economic vassal of any large power without endangering her independence and neutrality which all her neighbors promise to respect.—Gazette de Lausanne, Lausanne.

Cabinet Appointment

Appointed provincial secretary and minister in charge of the provincial tax commission in the revised Patterson government of Saskatchewan, Edward M. Cull-iton, 32 year old lawyer of Gra-velbourg, Sask., is the youngest member to be appointed in the Saskatchewan cabinet in 25 years.

DEPENDS ON THE WHEEL

In Detroit recently, the suggestion was made that all autos of more than five years of age be banned from the roads in an effort to cut down traffic toll.
The idea may have its merits, but have you ever noticed that in eight out of ten accidents the cars concerned are of very recent manufacture? The majority of accidents, we maintain, are not caused by mechanical failure but by failure of that unpredictable element "the nut that holds the wheel."

Cars of older vintage, on the whole, are not nearly so great a menace to their occupants and others as many people think. The high-powered modern car, in the hands of an incompetent or uncontrolled person, is far more dangerous than all the old autos put together. Dependence upon brakes which will bring a two-ton projectile to a dead stop in less time than it takes to tell, is all very well if the operator of those brakes is accomplishing his pace to that of others. But when that man, as so often happens, disregards speed limits and common courtesy and apparently goes out of his way to endanger himself and others, those super-brakes of his aren't worth two cents. That is where the personal element comes in.

A man who drives his five, six or seven year old car in that traffic knows and realizes the limitations of his machine and does not take any chances. Generally he drives at a rate which does not hinder traffic and whether he possesses of remarkable power or not he is not going to take the chance the man in the brand new car behind him is inclined to do with his 90 horsepower at instant call.

The Detroit suggestion has its merits in the fact that many old crops which are admittedly dangerous would take the long deferred trip to the junk yard, but on the whole, we would say that the whole idea is impracticable.
Better than this, would be a compulsory periodic inspection by certified mechanics of all autos, if the authorities wish to eliminate the mechanical failure element from motor accidents. But even then we would find that our accident toll would not appreciably be lessened.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Carey A. Morgan

Mrs. Abigail M. wife of Carey
A. Morgan, of Lansdowne, passed away Friday, December 9th, after a long illness. She was a devoted wife and mother, and her passing will be keenly felt by a large circle of friends. The funeral was held Tuesday, the 12th, conducted by T. S. Matheson, of Keen's Funeral Service. The service was in charge of Rev. G. D. Brydon, assisted by Rev. A. W. L. Smith and Rev. R. L. Roach, all of Bear River. The burial was in the Sullivan cemetery at Smith's Cove.
The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Relatives were present from the United States.
She leaves, beside her husband, one son, Dwight L. Morgan; five sisters, Mrs. Laura B. Burrill,

Great Improvements in Nova Scotia Highways

(By Hon. A. S. MacMillan, Minister of Highways)

In 1934 the Provincial Government began a programme calling for the paving of our main trunk highways. This main trunk system is comprised of highways leading from Halifax to Yarmouth via the Annapolis Valley, also via the South Shore, from Halifax to the New Brunswick border, and from Truro to Glace Bay, a system which enables visiting motorists and our own people to travel from one end of the Province to the other.

This paving programme has been practically completed on schedule. All grading work is finished and there remains but a few miles to be hard surfaced, sections which were impossible to do in 1938 owing to subgrade conditions. These sections, however, will be paved early in 1939.

At the present time, exclusive of towns, we have completed 804.7 miles of paving on our main trunk highways. We have also co-operated in the paving of 79.9 miles of through routes in incorporated towns, making a total of 884.6 miles of hard surfaced highways in Nova Scotia.

During the past five years the Department has met with many difficulties in the carrying out of this extensive undertaking. It was impossible to reconstruct our highways without causing a certain amount of inconvenience to the travelling public thus giving rise to complaints that, in the circumstances, were only natural.
As the work progressed, however, and longer stretches of paving were encountered, there was less adverse criticism about the dust nuisance and rough sections to be traversed. Each year saw an improvement in the situation and during 1938 there was practically no complaint from either our own people or visiting motorists.

As our programme nears completion we feel it should be made known to the people of Nova Scotia that the work has been carried out at a cost below that of any similar undertaking on this continent. First pavements laid have now given four years of satisfactory service. The amount of surface breaking has been practically negligible and all the pavements still possess as good riding qualities as when they were laid.

Uniformity is now a feature of Nova Scotia's trunk highways as the same class of paving has been laid throughout the province.
This feature is increasingly noticed by our motor visitors as in many of the States no uniformity of surface has been observed.
Considering the traffic which our highways have to accommodate, they provide as good facilities as any in North America, and motoring on our trunk highways today is perhaps more comfortable than in any other section of this continent. Unquestionably there are many highways in the States which have much wider surfaces, but where these are found there is also a very much heavier traffic and there is, therefore, no more accommodation than offered on our new paved roads.

Beneficial Effect on Business
The carrying out of our extensive highways building program has resulted in many benefits to our people:

- (1) The expenditure has been of direct benefit during a period of years when adverse employment conditions existed in all parts of America.
- (2) People living along the main trunk highways are no longer inconvenienced by dust.
- (3) Good paved highways are now available at all seasons of the year.
- (4) The cost of upkeep on all motor vehicles has been materially reduced.
- (5) There has been a decided increase in the number of our motor tourists, and further increases may be confidently expected. This means that large sums of money will be left within the province each year.

Snow Removal
While it is distinctly understood that under the Statutes of the Province snow removal still remains an obligation of Municipalities, this year we have decided, as far as possible, to keep our paved roads open for traffic throughout the winter season. A considerable quantity of heavy plant and machinery necessary for this work has been purchased and will be stationed at different strategic points on our paved roads throughout the province.
It is understood that Municipalities and other interested bodies

will keep the feeder roads open in order that people residing on secondary roads will also be able to take advantage of the transportation available on our hard surfaced highways.

New Highway at Stewiacke

The grading of a new highway through the town of Stewiacke is about completed. The highway has been diverted through one section of the town and a bridge is being constructed over the railway so that the present dangerous grade crossing will be eliminated. The Department has also arranged with the Board of Transport Commissioners for an improvement on the subway at Shubenacadie, and this work will be undertaken early in the year.

Ferries

A new ferry boat for the carrying of motor cars between Barrington Passage and Cape Island has been completed, will enter service shortly. This will mean two boats on this service. The new ferry is called the "Joseph Howe" and will carry thirteen motor cars at one time.

Highway Signs

The Department of Highways is contemplating doing considerable work on our "Danger" and "Direction" signs during 1939. At particularly dangerous points reflector signs will be used to give greater safety to night driving.
The Department, in co-operation with the Board of Transport Commissioners and the Railways, arranged and had installed at dangerous grade crossings within the province nineteen automatic signals.

County Roads

The saving in maintenance on our paved trunk highways has enabled us to make greater expenditures than ever before on our county roads—which includes all roads other than our main trunk system—and these roads have been materially improved and kept to a higher standard.

Bedford Road

A contract for two miles of the Halifax-Bedford road from Moir's Mill Bridge at Millview to the Super Service Station at Bedford, has been let by the Department. Contractors are already on the work and will continue as long as weather conditions permit. The present contract calls for the construction of the subgrade. Paving work will be carried on after the completion of

Weddings

Robertson - Girvan

In St. John's United Church, Moncton, on Thursday of last week, Miss Katherine Goldie Girvan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Goldie Girvan, Moncton, was united in marriage with Harold Douglas Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Robertson, Saint John, formerly of Digby. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. J. A. Ramsay, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives, including many from out of town centres. The church was decorated with white "mums" and palms. As the guests entered the church "Ave Maria" was played on the organ by Prof. Geo. Ross, who also played the wedding march. During the signing of the register R. A. Gander sang "Because". The bride wore a gown of white tulle cloth, designed by Molyneux, with long train, and a tulle illusion veil with train extending beyond that of the dress. The veil was caught at either side of the head with a gardenia. A cascade of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley with showers of bouvardia was carried. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Grant Longhurst, of Fredericton, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Mrs. Ralph M. Jones, of Moncton, bridesmaid. A. G. English, of Moncton, supported the groom. Ushers were Dr. G. Ralph Girvan, brother of the bride, and Grant B. Longhurst, of Fredericton. The matron of honor and bridesmaid were dressed alike in crystal tone gowns of blue tulle, with Dolly Varden hats of matching tulle, crowned with American Beauty roses. Each carried cascades of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Girvan, mother of the bride, wore a black velvet gown, with a slight train, hat of matching material trimmed with ostrich plumes and a corsage of Rapture roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. Robertson, mother of the groom, wore an Empire blue velvet dress and a corsage of yellow roses. After the ceremony a reception was held in candlelight, at the home of the bride's parents on Weldon Street. The bride's table in its traditional white was set against a background of evergreen and poinsettias, which were in profusion about the home. Later Mr. and Mrs. Robertson left to sail on the S. S. Yarmouth for New York, whence they proceeded to Philadelphia, Toronto and Montreal on a wedding trip. On their return they will reside in Truro.

Austrian Exile

Vera Freudenfeld, Austrian ski champion, and daughter of a prominent Austrian chemist, is pictured when she arrived in Montreal to spend Christmas with her fiancé, a New York surgeon. Miss Freudenfeld stated that her father was held in a concentration camp for 15 weeks and is now a refugee in Praha. All their property has been confiscated by the Nazis.

RATEPAYERS TO VOTE ON PINES ASSESSMENT

Wednesday, January 25, is the date set for voting on the assessment for the Pines Hotel, the vote to be taken at a public meeting of the ratepayers of the town of Digby, to be held at the Court House, at 8 o'clock that evening. The C. P. R. in behalf of the Pines will ask that the present fixed assessment be continued, but the amount of the future fixed assessment, and the period for which it will run, will be entirely in the hands of the ratepayers, who will decide this matter by a majority vote.

NEW TUSKET

Harold Sabine, who has been a patient at the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Greene and family, of Kemptville, Yarmouth Co., spent Christmas at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Harold Sabine and Mr. Sabine.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sabean and baby, of Waltham, Mass., spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Mullen. They returned home on Tuesday, accompanied by Miss Jenny Mullen.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Sabean and baby, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marr and family spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Mullen.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gaudet, Jr., and family visited at the home of Mrs. Gaudet's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mande Gaudet, of Ohio, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gaudet and baby spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Mullen, of Easton.

Miss Bessie Wetmore is spending the holidays at her home in Beaver River.

Donald Goudy and Miss Myrtle Barr, of Harlem, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goudy, on Sunday.

Clifford Gaudet, who spent Christmas at his home here, has returned to Digby.

Mr. and Mrs. Winston Mullen and daughter Myrna, spent Christmas at the home of Mrs. A. J. Hobbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery White, who are employed at Barn River, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gaudet. Alpheus Gaudet, of Brighton, spent the week end at the same home.

The school concert was held in the New Tuskett hall on Wednesday evening of last week.

Dudley and Alfred Dickie, of Dalhousie University, are enjoying their vacation at home here.

CAPE ISLAND MAN IN THE NEWS

The Vancouver Daily Province, in a recent edition, carried a photograph of Ed. T. Kenney, brother of Councillor Daniel Kenney, of Westport, and uncle of Miss Anne Kenney, of Digby. Mr. Kenney is a member of the Provincial Legislature representing the constituency of Skeena, and also a member of the Liberal Party in that province. The newspaper refers to a recent session of the House, when Mr. Kenney entered in the discussions regarding rebate on dynamite used in mining enterprises and said: Ed. Kenney, an astute gentleman from Skeena, thought one way about dynamite and the rebate to be had from it by prospectors and farmers.

TRINITY CHURCH ACTIVITIES

St. Andrew's Brotherhood The Brotherhood of St. Andrew's held their regular meeting in the Parish Hall, on Tuesday evening, the 20th inst., with Geo. Cardoza in the chair. This being Christmas week there were very few in attendance. The program of the evening was under the direction of Cecil Jones. A very animated discussion took place during the meeting on "Charities and Christian Giving". The Rector has charge of the programme for the next meeting in January.

The A. Y. P. A. The A. Y. P. A. met on Thursday evening in Christmas week at the Parish Hall. A very interesting programme was arranged. The young people during the afternoon went to Acadia Valley and gathered hemlock and in the evening made it into attractive trimmings for the church. A "comic gift distribution" was one very interesting feature of the programme. Then toward the end of the evening the house lights were turned off and all gathered around the softly lighted Christmas tree and sang carols. The meeting closed with the Benediction.

THANKS, MR. CALDWELL!

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir:—May I have this brief space in your paper this week to express my personal appreciation of your excellent Christmas number of the "Courier". Without a doubt it was one of the finest holiday issues of a local paper I have ever seen. Your material for the Christmas season was well chosen, the editorials appropriately written, and the advertising attractively done. You gave us indeed fourteen pages of profit and pleasure. Both you and your staff deserve much credit for such a fine edition. And in expressing these sentiments I believe I am voicing those of all our citizens. Sincerely
Ernest M. Caldwell.

Willmer Horsfall, of Halifax, is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Horsfall.

James Horsfall is ill at time of writing.

On Thursday evening, Dec. 22, a very enjoyable concert was put on by the teacher and pupils, and was held in the school room, which was prettily decorated. After the programme Santa arrived and distributed gifts, candy and oranges to all the children.

Miss Rhoda Hyson, of Bridgetown, spent several days last week the guest of Miss Muriel Whitman. Miss Muriel Whitman is spending the holidays at her home in Bridgetown.

Miss Ruth Hardwick returned from Deep Brook on Saturday evening to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harwick, the latter of whom is ill at the time of writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Coron and baby, of Montreal, are guests of Mrs. Coron's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Preceski.

Miss Thelma Preceski, of Edgehill College, Windsor, is spending the holidays at her home here.

Miss Zedie Horsfall, of Halifax, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary Horsfall.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mailman and baby spent Christmas with Mrs. Mailman's mother, Mrs. Van-Buskirk.

Alphonse Comeau, M. A., of Lower Saulnierville, and now language teacher in Bridgewater, has been honored by the Alliance Française. He has received a beautiful bronze medal in recognition of his excellent work as a teacher in the bilingual schools of Clare. The medal was presented to Mr. Comeau on recommendation of Rene Gautheron, Professor of French, at Dalhousie University, Halifax.

BAND NOTES

Despite the handicap of cold weather and inadequate light, the Civic Band played a very entertaining programme of music at the community Christmas tree on Christmas Eve. Most of the best-known Christmas carols and several fine marches, etc., were rendered. The music added greatly to the holiday spirit and to the enjoyment of the throngs of shoppers on the street. After the concert the band marched to the home of Raymond Lent, former drummer of the band, where a few selections were played, and the boys greeted him, each in person, with hearty Christmas wishes. After breaking ranks some of the boys formed an "awward squad" and quick-stepped (or pranced) up the street again, giving a good imitation of the Buntingtown Bugle Band.

The fine "esprit de corps" that has always characterized this band was never better shown than at this season when the boys all "chipped in" and presented the Bandmaster with a large fancy box of fine cigars, and made up a generous cash purse for a Christmas gift to one of their sick members. Again at last night's meeting another former member was remembered in somewhat similar manner.

Aitkin W. Thomas, of Lynn, Mass., has sent the first contribution to the cost of renovating the band room as described in a recent issue of the Courier, and Chester E. Whiting, of the 110th Cavalry Band, Boston, has contributed $10.00. Large or small contributions will be welcome.

Santa Claus made his annual visit to the Grace United Sunday School on Wednesday evening with gifts, candy and fruit for all present.

OBITUARY

Henry Robichaud

On Saturday morning last, at Maxwelton, Henry Robichaud died after a few hours' illness, at the age of 51 years, leaving to mourn their loss an aged mother, Mrs. Chantale Robichaud, with whom he was living; two brothers, Edmund and Leo, in the United States; one sister, Foy, Sister Alberta, of Mt. St. Vincent, Halifax; a step brother, Jesse, and a step sister, Agnes McLaughlin, both of Lynn, Mass. He was a son of the late Hon. H. D. Robichaud, who was a member of the legislative assembly for many years. The funeral took place from Stella Maris church, at Meteghan, on Monday morning, Very Rev. Father J. E. Bourneau, pastor, officiating. The pall bearers were Edmund P. Devane, Louis Robichaud, Anthony Harrington, Albert Harrington, Albert Babin and Edmond Geddry.

Mrs. Ambrose LeBlanc
On Saturday afternoon of last week, Mrs. Ambrose LeBlanc, formerly Marie Dugas, passed away, after a lingering illness, at the age of 89, at her home in Meteghan, where she had been living with one of her sons, Austin, and a daughter, Rosanne. She leaves also, another son, Joseph, in Ipswich, Mass., and a daughter, Mrs. Louis Coady, in East Boston. Her husband predeceased her many years. She was the last survivor of the family of the late Pierre Dugas and Anne (Therault) Dugas. The funeral took place Monday morning from Stella Maris church—Rev. Father L. Comeau officiating. The pall bearers were Joseph L. Dugas, Leo Dugas, Adolphe LeBlanc—all nephews of the deceased—and Eric Robichaud.

Geo. W. Prime

The death occurred on Thursday of last week, of George William Prime, at his home in New Tusket. He was in the 84th year of his age and had been mail driver for 25 years. He is survived by four sons, Guy, with whom he resided and who now drives the mail; Ira, Peter and Morrell, in the United States; four daughters, Delilah, (Mrs. William Beck, of Somerville, Mass.; Myrtle, (Mrs. Willie Mullen), New Tusket; Cora, (Mrs. Clarence Gray), Kemptville; and

Signed Polish Pact

Anastas I. Mikoyan, (above), Soviet foreign trade commissar, negotiated and signed the trade treaty between Russia and Poland which has forged a new link of diplomatic friendship. Observers say the treaty is a formidable barrier to Hitler's drive to the East, into the Ukraine.

George, (Mrs. Matthew Crowell), also of Kemptville; and one brother, Ashley Prime, of Truro. The funeral was held Saturday, conducted by Rev. I. D. Lytle, with interment in the New Tusket Baptist cemetery.

Annual Report of Digby General Hospital

The annual meeting of the Digby General Hospital for the year ending November 30th, 1938, was held in the Hospital Board room, on December 12th. In the absence of the President and Vice-President, Rev. A. W. L. Smith presided. The various reports presented indicated that the Hospital had considerably strengthened its position during the past few months. The Superintendent, Miss Maud McLellan, read a very satisfactory report of this year's work which is condensed as follows:

Number of Patients Receiving Treatment as at December 1st, 1937.....	22
Number Admitted.....	898
Born.....	82
Died.....	32
Discharged.....	954
Remaining in Hospital on November 30th, 1938.....	16
Total Number of Hospital Days.....	7485 1/2

On December 1st, 1937, the Hospital owed the Bank $502.56 which overdraft was created through taking up $2,000.00 in outstanding Hospital Bonds. Receipts for year were $21,880.58; Expenditures, $20,813.25, leaving a balance on hand of $564.77. All accounts and liabilities at end of year were fully met.

The following constitute the Board of Directors: H. M. Warne, President; Rev. A. W. L. Smith, Vice-President; R. B. Murray, Secretary-Treasurer; Mrs. Howard Anderson, Mrs. J. A. Faust, Mrs. George Morrell, C. F. McBride, W. W. Hayden, A. A. Shortliffe, F. L. Anderson, M. C. Denton, Dr. E. DuVernet, Dr. W. R. Dickie, J. W. Merkel, J. A. Faust, J. Vian Andrews, Dr. F. E. Rice, George Morrell and Leger Comeau.

The Royal Bank of Canada Reports Good Year

Total Asset $908,064,000 up $38,500,000 — Deposits Increased $48,000,000 — Commercial Loans Up $18,000,000 — Profits Practically Unchanged.

The annual balance sheet and profit and loss account for the year ending November 30, 1938, being issued by the Royal Bank of Canada to its shareholders reflects a very substantial growth in practically all departments of the bank's business. Features of the statement are substantial increases in loans and deposits. Total assets are $908,064,711, an increase of $38,500,000 during the year.

Loans Increase $18,000,000
Current loans in Canada, including loans to municipalities and the Provincial governments, amount to $218,211,058 as against $200,563,727 in the previous year. Current loans outside of Canada remain practically unchanged. The increase in Canada confirms the trend established in the previous year, total increase in current loans in Canada for the last two years exceeding $30,000,000.

Deposits Increase $48,000,000
Deposits are shown at a higher figure than in any previous Annual Balance Sheet. Practically the total increase is in non-interest bearing deposits. This no doubt is the result of the easy money policy in force in Canada and the United States. In this connection it is interesting to note that as late as November 1935 free deposits were 30% of the total, whereas they are now approximately 46%.

Strong Liquid Position

As might be expected under existing conditions, the liquid position is exceptionally strong, total liquid assets being $543,237,400, an increase of approximately $30,000,000. It is noteworthy that cash, cheques and deposits with other banks amount to $200,287,265. The percentage of liquid assets to total assets was 65.37, practically unchanged from the previous year.

Profits Practically Unchanged
Net profits for the year are shown at $3,696,233 as compared to $3,711,379 in the previous year. Dividends paid absorbed $2,800,000. The usual contribution of $300,000 to the Pension Fund Society was made as well as an appropriation of $200,000 for Bank Premises, leaving a balance to be carried forward of $2,721,409, an increase of $396,233.

The annual General Meeting of the Shareholders will be held at the Head Office of the bank at 11 a. m. on January 12, 1939.

IT ISN'T SAFE TO GO BY THE PRICE OF FLOUR

"It's the number of loaves per bag that counts"

Says Mrs. S. A. Berg

Mrs. S. A. Berg, Camrose, Alta.

At one time, Mrs. S. A. Berg of Camrose, Alberta, was accustomed to baking 20 loaves of bread each week. That's about 1,000 loaves of bread per year! You can understand, then, that baking on such a large scale, Mrs. Berg had need of a "two-in-one" flour. First it must yield satisfying results; secondly, it must give her the most for her money. Bearing this in mind, she began to try out several flours. She found that with Robin Hood she was able to get the best bakings—bread, cakes and pastry that were lovely, light and tasty. However, she thought she could save money by using a flour that was cheaper than Robin Hood. But it didn't take her long to discover that she couldn't go by the price on the bag. She found that because of Robin Hood's extra strength, she was able to get more loaves out of every bag. This more than made up the difference in price.

For 13 years Mrs. Berg has used Robin Hood for all her baking.

"I use it for Angel Food as well as for other baking," she declared, "because it is a healthier flour and more nourishing and it does make the nicest bread, pastry and cakes."

Make This Flour Test

The best way to convince yourself of Robin Hood's superiority is to compare it with other flours right in your own kitchen and in your own baking of bread and pastry. Give it a fair trial as Mrs. Berg did and you will always want to use Robin Hood. The whiter, cleaner character of Robin Hood Flour is due to special precautions taken to wash the wheat before it is ground into flour. So there's no danger of any dirt or dust getting into the flour which you and your family are to eat. Make up your mind to buy a bag of this superior, clean, grit-free flour for your next baking. You can get a new book of recipes by sending nine cents in stamps for "Baking Made Easy". Address: Robin Hood Flour Mills, Limited, Moncton, N.B.

F. Henshaw and Mrs. Snow defeated P. Scott and M. Hutchins 15-4 and 15-10.

DO THIS: Massage his throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub and tuck him into bed. Next, put a spoonful of VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water; place a newspaper or sheet over the child's head like a tent, covering the bowl too, so the medicated vapors can be inhaled for several minutes. This treatment loosens phlegm—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion. Long after he relaxes into peaceful sleep, VapoRub's poultice and -vapor action is still bringing relief—and you can get a good night's rest too.

COMMUNITY TREE

Bear River is proud this year, to have for the first time a community Christmas tree. The tree was beautifully lighted and was a great attraction to the town. On Christmas eve hundreds gathered around the tree and carols were sung. This good work was started through the efforts of Mrs. Helen Burrage and J. E. White, of the Lincoln Pulp Co. H. C. Anthony and son William of Annapolis Royal, visited over Christmas at the home of the former's father, Capt. C. O. Anthony.

The Sunday School tree and treat was held in the vestry on Friday evening last. Many children were present and numerous gifts were distributed to the older people by the Rebekah Lodge and the Sunday School teachers. Carols were sung and a few short numbers were given by the children.

There were two services in the Baptist church on Sunday. At the morning service two anthems were rendered by the choir and a solo by Rev. Mr. Wakeling. In the evening the choir rendered an anthem, and a male quartette gave "O Holy Night". There was also a solo by Mr. Wakeling, entitled "The Star of Bethlehem."

A splendid Christmas concert, under the direction of the teachers, Bradford Finigan, principal, Miss Elizabeth Kenney, intermediate, and Miss Theresa Nichols, primary, was presented by pupils of the school in the Community Hall, on Thursday evening last. A large and appreciative audience filled the hall to enjoy the well prepared programme. Deserving of special mention were the musical numbers, which included four-part harmony singing, directed by Miss Pryllis Crocker, who is now engaged on the staff as teacher of music. Following the programme Santa arrived and distributed gifts from a well-laden tree. The hall was attractively decorated for the occasion. The proceeds, which amounted to $26, will be used for school purposes.

OBITUARY

Mrs. J. S. Hines

At her home, Seabrook, Mrs. Alice Alberta Hines, widow of the late J. S. Hines, passed peacefully away on Christmas day. Although she had been in failing health for a number of years she bore it all with Christian patience and courage. A woman of sterling character, she was loved and highly esteemed by a large circle of friends. She united early in life with the Church of Christ and was faithful and unswerving in her loyalty and devotion to the cause of Christianity. Her home was always open to those who were proclaiming the Gospel. She leaves to mourn their loss her son, Joseph, and daughter, Miss Georgia, at home, who tenderly and devotedly cared for her during all her illness; also three other daughters, viz.: Mrs. A. I. Millar, of Edmonton, Alta.; Mrs. E. E. Shortliffe, of South Range, and Mrs. R. M. Johnston, of Milton, Queens County, besides a number of nieces, nephews and grandchildren. Funeral services were in charge of Rev. Donald Stockford, pastor of the Southville and South Range Churches of Christ. His sermon was from II Timothy IV:7, 8. Two of her favorite hymns were sung, "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Shall We Gather at the River." Mr. Stockford also sang, very effectively, "Sunrise To-Morrow." Interment was in the family plot, Rossway.

Increase in Tourist Trade

By Hon. A. S. MacMillan, Minister of Highways.

Due to somewhat unsettled business conditions in the United States, and to inclement weather over a wide area throughout the month of July, tourist traffic for 1938 suffered a reverse in nearly every eastern state and province. In some cases the records show a decrease of thirty per cent and it is, therefore, in view of all this gratifying to note that the tourist trade of Nova Scotia not only held its own but actually showed an increase over the banner season of 1937. Proof that this situation is largely due to the energetic publicity campaign that has been carried on by the Provincial Government and assisting agencies, is shown by the fact that a larger percentage of our registered visitors toured Nova Scotia this year for the first time.

The tourist traffic of Nova Scotia has grown steadily during recent years, despite the difficulties entailed by our road building program and the geographical handicap due to the fact that this province does not border upon the United States. This traffic has been well circulated throughout the province and during 1938 a substantial increase was noticed in travel to Cape Breton. From June 1 to September 30, 1938, 2016 tourist cars from the United States and 1505 cars from Central Canada entered Cape Breton. Practically eighty per cent of Nova Scotia's overland visitors of 1938 entered by way of St. Stephen, New Brunswick. Road construction in Quebec and northern New Brunswick curtailed tourist traffic in that area and it is understood that the Gaspé peninsula suffered a heavy decrease. In other years a large number of those who toured the Gaspé coast came afterwards to Nova Scotia but during 1938 very few visitors from that source reached this province. Had the usual number from that quarter come to Nova Scotia this year we would be able to show an increase in tourist traffic exceeding any previous year. It is encouraging to know that next season road conditions in our sister province will be improved, and Nova Scotia will be able to reap a full reward for her new highways and consistent advertising.

Deep sea sport fishing attracted an increased number of anglers during '38. Wedgeport showed a registration list of 556 visiting anglers, a gain of seventy-five per cent over the previous year. Tuna appeared in large numbers in Lunenburg waters and many large fish were taken in that area. Tuna were also plentiful in St. Mary's Bay and at St. Ann's Bay. Excellent publicity was gained through the Second International Tuna Tournament held at Liverpool in August, when angling teams composed of British, American and Cuban sportsmen competed. The Cuban team won the competition and were presented with the silver trophy donated by Alton B. Sharp, of the Eastern Steamship Lines. During the season of 1938 the largest tuna ever officially taken by rod and line was landed at Jordan Bay by Alfred Kenney, of Shelburne, and his feat gives to Nova Scotia every world record that is held to-day in tuna angling. More than sixty well-equipped boats are now available for anglers at the four principal centres for tuna fishing—Liverpool, Jordan Bay, Shelburne and Wedgeport.

While every attention has been given to tuna angling it must be remembered that for every summer visitor financially able to enjoy such sport there are probably one hundred visitors who would be interested in a fishing expedition involving a much smaller outlay. A hand lining excursion is always within their means, however, and fishermen along the Maine and Gaspé coasts have profited by such outings. Some definite system of advertising ing the many ports along the coast of our province where every facility for hand-lining excursions is provided needs to be evolved and should result in a summer-long revenue for many of our fishermen.

Throughout the past year the active tourist associations of the province, our provincial newspapers and railway and steamship companies, co-operated in utmost harmony with government bureau of information in the work of tourist publicity. Information booths at Yarmouth, Digby, Amherst and Port Hawkesbury are operated by the government bureau. These booths at ports of entry contact all visitors and supply them with firsthand information, official maps and travel literature.

Our 1938 census shows that 9206 cars from Massachusetts entered the province; New York was second with 3602 cars. There were 1247 cars from New Jersey, 1115 from Pennsylvania, 998 from Maine and 921 from Connecticut. Maryland, with 332 cars, showed an increase of seventy-two per cent over the previous year. California's 174 cars was an increase of seventy-two per cent over 1937. One of the pleasing features of the season was the fact that about fifty-three per cent of those who were in Nova Scotia for the first time remained for ten or more days.

The fact that the Governor-General of Canada is now Grand Master of the Order of the Good Time gave additional impetus to interest in the organization and during the past season many visitors came to the province with thoughts of membership in the Order uppermost in their minds. The continued display of Mem-bered at Liverpool and those were shown in 3200 theatres in the United States and Canada.

The Nova Scotia exhibit at the National Sportsmen Shows held at Boston and New York was a motion picture projector was projected at the Nova Scotia booth, showing a beautiful colored film of the province, the famous travel picture, "Land of Evangeline," and a film of the Babe Ruth hunting expedition. 180,000 pieces of literature and maps were distributed to persons calling at the Nova Scotia exhibit, and during the shows twelve broadcasts dealing with Nova Scotia were presented over stations in Boston, New York and New York.

Tourist advertising was carried in 23 publications abroad and resulted in 6281 requests for detailed information which could be accredited directly to those advertisements. 21,842 letters regarding our tourist facilities were received from persons in all parts of America, and each letter was answered in careful detail. The usual number of tourist booklets were published and distributed to enquirers, to motor clubs and information bureaux. Weekly fishing bulletins, dealing with both deep sea and fresh water angling, were mailed to organizations outside the province, made available to visitors at our information booth at ports of entry and to 316 rod and gun editors and columnists in the United States and Canada.

In March, 1938, the provincial government arranged a short course at Halifax for hotel proprietors from points north and east of the capital. The course was well attended and consisted largely of demonstrations in cooking and other details in connection with operating a place of accommodations.

Many visitors who came to Nova Scotia late in the season had been induced to do so through reports in our road conditions, they had received from friends who had made the trip earlier in the year. Our new paved highways induced much comment from our visitors during the tourist season, and these satisfied motorists should aid materially in increasing our tourist traffic during the coming season for the comment of a satisfied visitor is always an effective advertisement.

Meanwhile there remains need of modern facilities at some of our places of accommodation in the more remote areas, and for more accommodations, especially cabin colonies, on the Island of Cape Breton.

TAKE THE LEAD OUT OF YOUR LEGS

Get Oxygen in Your Blood and You'll Get the Lead Out of Your Legs
People who suffer to death because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery—you tire quickly—feel depressed.

What you need is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today at your druggist. See for yourself how quickly this little-proven blood-builder will help give you back your pep.

Because of Nazi restrictions which would not permit the transfer of legacies to American heirs of German estates, Judge Raymond MacNellie, of the Philadelphia Common Pleas Court, refused to allow part of a $91,000 trust fund to go to claimants in Germany. As a result of his action, Washington officials have been notified by the German government that the ban against American heirs removing legacies from Germany has been lifted.
