Loss of the schooner "Cousman" is a tragedy. The ship struck the rocks in Libby Bay some 10 miles, and was lost with her cargo of 100 tons of lumber. All the crew were rescued, but the vessel was sunk. The schooner was built at Hatteras, N. C.

About This and That

Heat prostration can often be prevented by drinking salt water. This fact was emphasized in a recent statement by Dr. D. B. Dill, of the Harvard Fatigue Laboratory. It is especially valuable for men doing hard work in hot weather and sweating profusely. The sweat reduces the normal proportion of salt in the blood. Often a couple of glasses of 1 per cent salt water will work like magic, restoring normal blood pressure and pulse and giving the worker new vigor. This fact has been known for many years in steel mills, furnaces, and so on, where drinking water is often salted regularly in hot weather.

New business blocks, or public or residential buildings of substantial and attractive type may not directly mean enlarged payrolls, but they tend in that direction. Every ramshackle reminder of an earlier day, replaced by a modern structure means that the town's assets are just that much further enhanced. People look at these improvements, use them, pass in and out, do business in them, speak of them and perhaps without realizing it, share in community pride and satisfaction. A good appearing town, not lacking in proof of enterprise and confidence, has also a favorable effect on visitors.

This week's accolade goes to the presiding dignitary of a Canadian church conference. In an open session one of the delegates, himself a minister, had spoken quite sharply of another denomination, and immediately there were suggestions that the reporters present should not mention the incident. Thereupon the clergyman in the chair spoke words of wisdom. "The only way to stop regrettable things going into the press," he said, "is to stop saying them." And that makes sense. Every reporter is painfully familiar with the sort of speaker who forgets discretion, realizes when he sits down that some of those facile words wouldn't look so well in print, appeals to the press to save him from the embarrassment he alone has brought upon himself—to correct his error in judgment. Thus many a "good story" dies before it blooms, because reporters and editors, contrary to the screen tradition, really are soft-hearted fellows who dislike putting people to pain and annoyance. However, as the chairman told the delegates the only way to be sure such things don't get into the papers is to stop saying them. That places the responsibility squarely where it should be placed. When a reporter is taking notes men and women are talking for publication, and it is the time for them to guard their words, to resist the temptation of the biting phrase they would hate to see printed.

Even those who have control over full shares of this world's goods don't actually own a great deal. And when the realization of that fact comes to them it is usually somewhat of a shock. About all any of us have is temporary custody of the things we have been in the habit of considering absolute possessions. Even our homes are ours to use only if taxes are paid. Taxes are levied on cars and many other things we flatter ourselves we own. But if those taxes are not paid, we will eventually find our custody terminating. From the day we first play marbles "for keeps" most of us acquire false ideas as to the ownership of things. It would be interesting, if rather jarring, to know just how few "home owners" have their properties paid for and free of mortgage. A large percentage of autos are not paid for by the original purchasers. They are turned in on newer cars under refinancing schemes. At no time are they "owned" outright. A rich man has temporary custody or control over many things, but he usually can eat only about three meals a day and sleep in one bed at a time. As a class, the wealthy probably realize more clearly than others just how little they actually own. At the end of life, with his body soon to become dust, a man who has always flattered himself that great possessions were his, must do some profound thinking and revamping of views as he realizes that he can take nothing with him. There may be grave doubt as to whether he really owns his soul.—B. C. Journal of Commerce.

New Committee Will Seek Information.

"The Digby Development Committee" was the name of a new committee of the Digby Board of Trade, appointed at their monthly session last Thursday evening. C. E. Walker is chairman of the new committee, and associated with him are C. N. G. Wilde and G. Victor Cardozo. The function of this will be to make survey of sites and general conditions, with a general aim to encourage new industrial and tourist industries to come to Digby, and to formulate suggestions which will tend to improve existing conditions. Among the matters this committee will probably take up will be to make an effort to encourage the shipment of apples from the Annapolis Valley through the port of Digby.

Royal Visit as Seen by Scouts and Guides

Following are two of the essays of the Boy Scouts and a few highlights from those of the Girl Guides on their recent trip to Halifax. By request they are being printed "as is" no corrections having been made in spelling, punctuation or composition. Several more will appear next week.

The Royal Visit at Halifax

We arrived at Halifax at 6.30 and together with the Digby Cubs, we marched straight to our quarters in the immigration sheds. We were given a section to make our beds in by a Scout Commissioner, who also gave us a time table of meals. We, the "First Digby Troop", then made up our beds and ate our supper, believe me, we were all hungry. The troop went at night to the Family Theatre and saw a picture called "Trade Winds". We returned to quarters at 10.30, Atlantic Standard Time, and went straight to bed.

We got up at 5.00 o'clock the next morning, June 15th, and dressed and washed for breakfast. One Scout, who happened to look through one of the windows, saw and shouted that the day was going to be fine. This raised a great cheer from the rest of the Scouts as the night before it had been raining hard.

The breakfast was held at 7.00, and it consisted of cereal, eggs, tea and bread and butter. After the breakfast we were sent to rest in our quarters for about half an hour. The Scoutmaster then played games for an hour. A Commissioner then came up and gave a signal for all troops to line up, starting at pier twenty. At 10.30 led by a drum and file band, we started marching for the Province House and the provincial buildings, among a lot of cheering from the veterans.

We Kings Scouts, were stationed in the Province House. I happened to be stationed on the stairs, one of the guard of honor.

The King and Queen arrived at about 11.30, amidst cheers that made ones ears ring. Then as the Royal pair stepped into the Province House every person drew one long breath at the beautiful looks of the Queen. Then there was a deafening burst of cheering as every one realized that it really was their King and Queen, who stood before them. We, who were in the Guard of Honor, could not cheer until they had passed. That view of Their Majesties, as they walked up the steps, was one that will live in our memories forever. Their Majesties stayed in the Province House for about fifteen minutes before they drove away to the Nova Scotia Hotel for lunch.

The Scouts marched straight back to their quarters and had dinner, which consisted of salad, cold beef and pie. We then rested for a few minutes before leaving for the wanderers grounds, where Their Majesties were to attend a pageant. We left at 2.30 for the pageant and marched all the way. The sun was boiling hot.

There is not much that can be told about the happenings on the grounds because the crowds were so thick. The pageant was about the Founding of Nova Scotia. The costumes were lovely and very colorful.

After the pageant we marched back to the quarters for the last time. After our supper we started scrambling and searching for a place to see Their Majesties sail away. At about 7.30, the cruisers, Skeena and Saguenay, led the Empress of Britain out to sea. The Empress was followed by the Southampton and the Glasgow, who in turn, were followed by many different kinds of boats. One of these boats was the well known Blue Nose. Circling overhead were three Naval Bombers, recently purchased by Canada, the 204, 205, 206.

Their Majesties, who were waving from the bridge of the Empress, were soon lost to sight. This in the minds of all who attended was the end of a "Perfect Day", which would live in the minds of those who saw it, forever and a day.

The Royal Visit

Some time before the fifteenth of June, our Scout Master received a letter from Scout Headquarters saying that our troop was to be represented at the Royal Visit of Their Britannic Majesties on the fifteenth of June. Every fellow, who was going had to have a uniform. It cost $4.50 for each Scout's fare. All the spare time we had was spent in drilling and marching practice.

We were to leave the fourteenth of June at 11.00 o'clock in the forenoon. We were to arrive at the Scout Hall at 9.15 in the morning. While we were waiting there it began to rain and we were compelled to get cars to take us to the station. By 11.30 o'clock we were on the train and ready to start. We stopped at each station on the route and at several stops got passengers. Some of these were Scouts and Guides. At 6.30 o'clock we arrived at the station in Halifax.

It was still raining, but we did not mind, as we went directly to the Immigration Buildings, where we would stop during our visit in Halifax. Here we were met by other Scouts, who wore, not only khaki shirts, but blue, green and other colored ones. They also wore different colored neckerchiefs. We unpacked our knapsacks, rucksacks or whatever we had brought our lunches and blankets in. We also got our mattresses, which were supplied for us, ready to be slept on.

This done, we went out into the street and went to a show at the Garrick. After the show we went to a restaurant, where we ruined our night's sleep, by "stuffing" ourselves with goodies. As it was 11.30 o'clock in the evening we thought that everybody would be asleep. Creeping up the corridor like Indians on the war path, we arrived at our quarters to be greeted by a thunderous din.

At 1.30 the lights were put out and it was a bit quieter. Everybody was asleep at 2.00 o'clock and slept until 4.30 in the morning. We got breakfast, and then went out to look at the boats in the pier. We saw the Empress of Britain, or as it is sometimes called The Royal Yacht. At 9. we had to be back at the Immigration Buildings, so we had some time to look around. However, the time passed quickly and we were almost late.

We started for the Immigration Buildings at 9.00 o'clock and arriving just in time. We set out at once for the City Hall, led by a band, and a company of pipers in their colorful kilts. The King, Scouts and some of the Guides had preceded us and lined the steps of the Province House. At the moment the Royal Party left the Royal train the guns of Citadel Hill boomed out a 21-gun salute.

The orders were for the Scouts to stand "at the alert", but do you suppose they did? No! They waved their arms in the air wildly and shouted at the top of their voices. After the Royal visitors were welcomed at City Hall they turned and went again past the place where we stood. They went to the Nova Scotian Hotel where they appeared on the balcony and waved to the crowds.

By the time we arrived at the Immigration Building it was time for dinner and we ate a good meal. After dinner we marched to Citadel Hill, noting, on our way the many beautiful things, and decorations which we saw on the buildings. In the store windows were large portraits of their Majesties and the Princesses. When we arrived at the Citadel Hill we saw the beautiful picture made by the bright clothing of the children who were seated on the Hillside. The girls had dresses all colors of the rainbow and these against the azure blue of the sky, made a very pretty scene. It looked not unlike a flower garden does after a recent rain. We got our places and waited for the pageant to begin. This was a picture acted out to represent the founding of Nova Scotia.

The bright color of the suits of the guards, the reds, blues, greens of the kilts of the Scottish Highlanders against the gray walls of a miniature Edinburgh Castle made a great and beautiful contrast. At the end of the pageant as is always the case, many people became separated from their parties and the man who was in charge of the "mike" was kept busy sending out messages to the parties.

We then went back to "quarters" and had supper. After supper we got a good place and saw the Royal Party embark for New- foundland. The first in the procession were the two British ships the "Glasgow" and "Southampton", followed by the "Empress of Britain," who in turn was followed by the "Saguenay" and "Skeena," Canadian boats. Also there were small boats of every description, blunt-nosed tugs which had pushed the "Empress" into the Harbour, launches, and other small boats. All carried whistles and these, mingled with the cheers of the crowd on shore made a hearty farewell for their Majesties.

By this time it was 8.30, and we had to leave for Digby in an hour. We waited around and watched other boats and the three seaplanes which hovered over the Royal Procession, now in front, now behind ever watching for trouble of any kind. Came train time and we hurried to the station. After a long wait we at last hurried aboard our train and departed for Digby. Arriving in Digby after an uneventful trip we went home and slept off our excitement and fatigue.

Highlights from the Guides' Essays.

(1)—After royal welcomes and loyal cheers from all over the continent, their majesties reach their last port of call at Halifax. . . . After a little crippled boy had presented the Queen with some flowers and Their Majesties had passed on, the little boy exclaimed,

Graduation Exercises In Capitol Theatre

The annual graduation exercises of the common school were held in the Capitol Theatre on Friday afternoon last. The theatre was filled to capacity, showing the interest taken by the parents in the activities of the school. The chairman of the School Board—P. W. Holdsworth—addressed the children, wishing them all a merry vacation.

Rev. Dr. Hodgson was the guest speaker. He told a story of special interest to children, the moral being that children are all broadcasters, therefore they should try to broadcast only the good things they know.

Grade VIII diplomas were presented by the chairman.

Mrs. Humpherson had offered cash prizes to the Guides, Scouts and Cubs for the best essays entitled, "The Royal Visit to Halifax." The winners were as follows:

Girl Guides—1st, Grace Vincent; 2nd, Genevieve Savary; 3rd, Evelyn Hayden

Boy Scouts—1st, (a tie), Douglas MacKay, Peter Humpherson; 2nd, Philip Woolaver; 3rd, Teddy Tebo.

Cubs—1st, Dick Rockwell; 2nd, Teddy Barr; 3rd, Bruce Rice.

The report of the school activities for the past year was given by Principal Purdy. There was a total of 422 enrolled in the entire school—297 being in the common school, 70 in the junior high and 55 in the senior high.

After the report the chairman

ed "Gee, aren't I a lucky boy? . . . As they drove through Halifax in their handsome, glassed in Buick Sedan, they heard the last cheers of Canada, because they were on the way to Pier 20 where the Empress of Britain was docked. The next thing we saw of their Majesties was when they were waving farewells to Canada from the bridge of the great white ship. The most beautiful sight I ever saw was when the ships went out. On either side of the Empress was the "Glasgow" and the "Southampton". Three airplanes were flying in the air to ensure the safe-guarding of the King and his consort. . . . Out of all the things I saw on my trip to Halifax, I remember the Queen's winning smile most."

(2)—"We went down to the pier to see them go. They waved their hands good-bye. We blow our whistle and hollered. When they left the warf many other boats went after them. We went back to the station to wait for the train. The train was to be due at seven-thirty, but did not come to eleven-thirty. They told us to lay on the floor, and go to sleep. The people would walk on our feet and head or some other places. . . . So our train came at last. We were so glad because we thought it would never come."

(3)—" . . . and as they went by the cheers were something wonderful. On Citadel Hill there were so many people that looking from the road it looked like flowers, there we stood and listened to the pageant which I could not tell you in words how wonderful it really was. . . . and the Scouts put their hats on their poles and the girl guides waved their hats high above their heads, oh! what a wonderful sight it was. From there we marched to the station where we all layed down on the floor to rest. . . . Now and then we would hear someone say, another train but not ours and we were so discouraged, but remember—A guide sings and smiles under all difficulties."

(4)—"I was sick on the train. We got off the train and marched to Pier 20, but I was too sick to march farther so one of the leaders took me to the first aid station. The King and Queen passed by there so I saw them. The Queen was very beautiful but the King looked sort of tired."

(5)—"Soldiers were lined up along the street, as we marched, to keep the crowds back off the royal route. The uniforms of the band and the Highlanders made a very thrilling sight. The band led the parade followed by thousands of guides, scouts and cubs from all over the province. . . . The queen was dressed in a sky blue dress, blue hat and a parasol with white shoes. The King was dressed as a naval officer. The Queen was the most beautiful woman I've ever seen and the King is a very handsome man."

(6)—"It was very beautiful to see all the flags waving. It seemed as far as you could see people waving flags. They seemed to be against the blue sky and nearly as far as you could look in the directions east and west you could see people. The flags were very beautiful waving back and forth."

made a plea for more books from the citizens of the town to help fill the school library which is being inaugurated for next year.

His Worship, the Mayor, addressed the pupils, congratulating them and the teachers on their successful year. He also cautioned the children against automobile and bathing accidents. He also presented the cash prizes.

Before closing with the National Anthem the chairman thanked the management of the Capitol Theatre for their kindness in lending the theatre for this occasion. The children were then treated to a short movie, a "Pop-Eye" cartoon.

Claims New Cure

Dr. Mercier Fautoux, in an address to the Canadian Medical Association convention in Montreal, claimed a new successful treatment for angina pectoris. He explained that the removal of the chief blood vessel feeding the heart was the secret.

To Explore for Canada's Hidden Wealth

Extensive exploration work with a view to further development of Canada's hidden mineral wealth is the goal of 46 geological and topographical survey parties assigned to field work this year by the Federal Department of Mines and Resources.

The parties, many of which have already left Ottawa, will map and investigate areas in every mineral-producing province in the Dominion, and in Yukon and the Northwest Territories.

The parties will be divided into two groups, 33 to be engaged in geological surveys and investigations, and 13 in topographical mapping.

Of the former, seven are in British Columbia, four in Alberta, two in Saskatchewan, four in Manitoba, ba, three in Ontario, four in Quebec, two each in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, one in Yukon and four in Northwest Territories. Two of the mapping parties have been assigned to British Columbia, three to Alberta, one to Saskatchewan, five to Quebec, one to Nova Scotia, and one to Yukon.

Six additional parties have been sent out by the National Museum of Canada, to be engaged chiefly in gathering information on Canadian flora and fauna. These parties will also study Indian ethnology.

OBITUARY

The death of Atwood Miller, of Lansdowne, Digby County farmer, occurred at the Yarmouth Hospital on Sunday evening. The late Mr. Miller was well known throughout the County, particularly in the Digby and Bear River sections as a successful farmer, and operated a large farm in the village where he resided most of his life. He is survived by his widow; one daughter, Mrs. Theodore Beals, of Margaretsville, Annapolis County; two sons, Wilfred and Cecil at home. Funeral services took place at Lansdowne from the Union Church, Wednesday afternoon.

Dionne Quins at The Capitol

The Dionne Quintuplets have graduated! Having served their screen apprenticeship, they are now revealed as full-fledged entertainers—singing, dancing, making music and fun—in their third and what is heralded their best feature picture, "Five of a Kind." "Five of a Kind" provides a striking setting for the delightful little ladies, as it whirls in and out of Broadway, highlighting the exciting action and romantic excitement of two rival newspaper and radio reporters. It has been two years since Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Marie and Emeline emoted before the camera in a 20th Century-Fox feature, and in those two years they have "grown up." In addition to the amazing performance of the Quins, the story of "Five of a Kind", which revolves around the attempt of the two star reporters to bring the Quins to New York for a personal appearance in a Broadway auditorium is replete with thrills. On the trail of a missing heiress, Claire Trevor, ace reporter, is outwitted by Cesar Romero. He inveigles Claire into lifting a phony story from his pocket, which results in her losing her job. While seeking solace from her troubles in a movie theatre, Claire sees a news film of the Quins and conceives the idea of putting them on the air in a series of broadcasts. The wily Romeo, learning of her plan, proceeds to the Canadian town ahead of her and by representing himself as a police inspector from New York, has Claire and her girl friend, Inez Courtney, arrested. From then on one thrill-packed situation is said to follow another with the Quins coming through triumphantly in an electrifying climax. In addition to Claire Trevor and Cesar Romero as the romantic leads, Jean Hersholt plays the beloved doctor of the Quins, Slim Summerville, Henry Wilcoxon, Inez Courtney, John Qualen, Jane Darwell and Pauline Moore are also featured.

Now Fit to Join Again

Twenty years ago he left the army, constipated and rheumatic. Today, he is fit and nimble — a merry, romping granddad, 61 years young.

"I came out of the army, with rheumatism," he writes. "It was especially bad in my feet. I started taking Kruschen Salts, and in a few months I found relief from my rheumatism. I became nimble on my feet. Now at 61 — weighing 168 — I am cheerful, energetic and always ready to play with my grandchildren." — F. E. B. Many people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health—the need of internal cleanliness. Eventually, they adopt the healthy Kruschen habit. Then probably for the first time in their lives, they start getting rid every day of waste matter from the system. The result is renewed health and vigor. Ailments due to a clogged system vanish, youth returns, and life becomes really worth living.

Cost of Producing Swede Seed

(Experimental Farms News)

Among the several projects being conducted at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, N. S., on cost of producing farm crops, states J. L. Forsyth, Assistant (Agronomy) is one on the production of swede seed.

Data have been collected at this station for many years, on the actual cost of producing swede turnip seed. Included in the costs were rent of land, use of machinery, manure and fertilizer, and all labour, (manual, horse and tractor).

The cost per pound of seed varied with the yield, amount of necessary soil preparation; labour involved in planting, cultivating, hoeing, harvesting, threshing and cleaning, loss of roots in storage and other factors.

The average cost of producing one acre of turnip seed for a period of fifteen years was $220.82, while the average production for this period was 870.3 pounds per acre. That is the cost of producing one pound of seed is an average of the fifteen years in question was 25.4 cents, with a minimum cost of 12.3 cents and a maximum of $1.18 per pound.

Since these data allow a fair wage for labour, (all labour having been charged at the prevailing rates), it seems that profitable returns may be realized from such a cash crop.

In view of the fact that swede seed production has proved a successful undertaking in the Maritimes and that very little in the way of expensive machinery is required should be an encouragement for more to grow swede seed as a cash crop.

Ontario is planning to develop the vast lignite field in northern Ontario. These pictures show early operations in the field. Drillers are shown, UPPER LEFT, drilling for lignite with a steam drill on the banks of the Abitibi river, 126 miles north of Cochrane. A lignite dump at Onakwana is shown UPPER RIGHT, while a horse drawn lumber, loaded with lignite from the Onakwana field, is shown, LOWER LEFT. Sacking is thrown over the horse to protect it from deer flies. Lignite is being loaded into air-tight drums, LOWER RIGHT, for shipment to Germany for testing.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Running a newspaper is just like running a hotel, only different. When a man goes into a hotel and finds something on the table which does not suit him, he does not raise his hand with the landlord and tell him to stop his old hotel. Well hardly. He sets that dish to one side and wades into the many dishes that suit him. It is different with some newspaper readers. They find an article occasionally that does not suit them exactly and without stopping to think it may please hundreds of other readers, make a grandstand play and tell the editor how the paper should be run and what should be put into it. But such people are becoming fewer every year.

A FOOLISH IDEA

We heard a young man remark recently that "the world owes me a living." It is hoped for that young man's good that he'll get the notion out of his head. It's a mistake, a grave mistake. He never entertained a more foolish idea nor one which will bring him a smaller measure of respect. The world owes the young man nothing; but instead he owes the world and society an active, noble manhood, a steady, honest energy which will enable him to associate with decent men and women in a true manliness of character that will make his friendship valuable and his presence and companionship desired. The truly intelligent activity, and this young man should contribute to society's happiness and welfare, the grace which comes through study, toil and honest thought.

A MESSAGE TO PARENTS

ABOUT THEIR CHILDREN

No child with defective vision has a proper chance in the battle of life. A scientific examination of children's eyes, such as we make, is a sure way to determine whether they have normal vision.

Children who require glasses should have the benefit of the very latest scientific development—CORRECTAL Lenses. They give clear, undistorted vision over the entire surface of the lens so that there is accurate vision over all the very close.

According to an old dictionary, the word "eavesdroppers" is said to mean "such as stand under walls or windows at night or by day to hear news and carry it to others." The explanation is that years ago there were no water gutters to houses and so listeners under windows caught the rain dripping from the eaves.

PICTURES AT BEACH AND POOL

In taking pictures at the beach, remember that sunlit sand and open water are quite bright. Be careful not to overexpose.

SWIMMING pools and bathing beaches are busy places in the summer time—and wherever there is activity, there's a field for your camera.

Since you find a lot of rapid action at these places, the finer camera with fast lens and rapid shutter provides definite advantages. But if you use a trusty inexpensive box camera, you'll find plenty to occupy it, too. Among the things to picture are beach games, water sports, diving, children at play, sand castles, shadow patterns on rippled sand, and at the lake or the seashore—scenic views and sunsets.

The chief thing to remember, in taking pictures at the beach, is that sunlit sand and open water are extremely bright. Therefore, exposures can be shorter than when snapping pictures inland. With "chrome" type film, 1/50-second shutter speed at f16 lens opening is sufficient for a beach scene, and 1/50 second at f11 suffices for average shots of individuals and small groups. These, of course, are "sunny-day" exposures—on cloudy-bright days, use the

THE LAND OF BEGINNING AGAIN

I wish there was some wonderful place, Called the Land of Beginning Again;
Where all our mistakes and all our heart aches,
And all our poor selfish griefs,
Could be dropped, like a shabby, old coat at the door.

I wish I might come on it all unaware,
Like a hunter who finds a lost trail;
And I wish that the ones whom our blunders
Have done the greatest injustice of all,
Could be at the gates, like an old friend who waits
For the comrade he's gladdest to hail.

It wouldn't be possible not to be kind
In the Land of Beginning Again;
And the ones we've misjudged and the ones we've begrudged
Their moments of happiness here,
Would feel in the grasp of our loving hand clasp,
More than penitents would explain.

For what has been hardest we know has been best,
And what has seemed loss would be gain;
And I guess that it's laughter, that's most what we're after

THE OLD MAN AND THE BRIDGE

An old man, travelling a lone highway, Came at the evening, cold and gray.
To a chasm, deep and wide.

The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
For the sullen stream held no fears for him.
But he turned when he reached the other side,
And builded a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," cried a fellow pilgrim near,
"You are wasting your strength with building here;
Your journey will end with the ending day,
And you never again will pass this way."

"You have crossed the chasm deep and wide,
Why build you a bridge at even-tide?
And the builder raised his old gray head,
"Good friend, on the path I have come," he said,
"There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet will pass this way."

"This stream, which has been as naught to me,
To that fair-haired boy may a pit-fall be;

Throughout the ages the red flag has always been an emblem of anarchy and revolution. During the French Revolution the red flag was the symbol of terrorism and in the days of the Roman Empire it signified war and the call to arms.

THE SIGNAL LIGHTS OF LIFE

"It was well you stopped when the red light flashed,"
She said as we drove along.
"For an officer stood on the corner there,
In charge of the traffic throng."
And I smiled and said to my daughter fair,
As we waited on the spot,
"I always stop when the red light shows,
Be an officer there or not."

Then she sat in thought as we drove along
And suddenly this she said,
"There ought to be lights for us all through life—
The amber and green and red.
What help 'twould be if a red light flashed Where danger and shame are near,
And we all might wait till the green light came To show the road was clear."

"My dear," said I, "we have tried to light Life's road for your feet to fare,
And we pray you'll stop when the red light glows,
Though none of us may be there.
We have tried to teach you the signs of wrong
And the way to a life serene,
So stop when your conscience post shows red—
And go when it flashes green."

THE ROAD TO JERICHO

Well, wife, I've been to church today,
And mean to go again,
For the preacher started with the theme Of "The Good Samaritan."
Then, closing up the Sacred book
With voice so clear and plain,
Said, "Love will lift the fallen up
And start them on again."

O blessed boon from heaven given,
Is love's restoring power!
It reaches to the deepest gloom
And lights the darkest hour;
Thus to the downcast we must go,
Not waiting to be sent,
Nor willing yet to stop, although Our last lone dime is spent.

Then, with his keen and piercing eyes,
And voice more soft and low,
As he compared the liquor stores
To the thieves of Jericho, Scattered abroad like a hunter's traps
Where the foot of the wayward tread,
To rob them of their best and leave Them morally half dead.

FRATERNITY

(By Clara Bennett)
What's in a name?
Nothing as I can see;
It's how we act, and play our part,
That makes Fraternity.
Fraternity means to be kind
And seeks to understand His brother's needs, his sorrows, joys
And lend a helping hand.
A tender smile, a word of cheer,
Makes someone less afraid
'Tis little understood
It's simply brotherhood.

The church edifice now in course of completion of the First Church, Worcester, Massachusetts, of which Dr. Thomas Sherrard Roy (formerly pastor of the Digby United Baptist Church) is minister, is nearing completion and, according to a statement from the Finance Committee in the Calendar of June 18th, "it satisfies every expectation as to appearance and usefulness." The building fund, the same committee notes, has made equally satisfactory progress and only one and one-half per cent of the pledges, totalling $108,600, are overdue.

TAKING STOCK OF LIFE

"Is life worth while? Well, so much depends On who are your neighbours, and who are your friends; On what are your thoughts, and what your desires, On whether your garden grows roses or briars. If you are a miser, and worship your gold, And for it would suffer with hunger and cold, If grinding the poor to increase your gain Is the principal thought that's employing your brain, To such, I would say, this life is a curse, Its pleasures tied up in an old leather purse: You can't take your gold along when you die; If you could, it would melt in the warm bye and bye. If you have a heart sympathizing with others, A feeling that all mankind are your brothers, If the beauties which God has planted down here Are in touch and in tune with your eye and your ear— If to live a pure life is your greatest desire, And to manly manhood you ever aspire; If one friend remains who will stand by your side And hold to your hand, whatever betide, Though fate may have saddened your life in the past, Keep onward, look upward, you'll conquer at last. The fruits of your labors all ripe at the end You'll gather, and life is worth living, my friend."

DID YOU?

Did you go to your brother and honestly try, To find out the reason and ask him why He was back in his dues and failed to attend, Did you go as a dinner or just as a friend?

BEST AWHILE, DON'T QUIT

When things go wrong as they sometimes will, When the road you're treading seems up hill, When the funds are low and the debts are high, When you want to smile, but have to sigh, When care is pressing you down a bit, Rest if you must, but don't you quit.

Main Bout Ends By 15 Second Knockout

"Sluggers" Harmes, the sturdy 182 lb. boy from Weymouth, last night K.O'd Henry Clements, Digby, in what is probably the fastest time it has ever been accomplished in a Nova Scotia ring. 15 seconds after the opening gong of a scheduled 10 round bout, with very little sparring, Harmes connected with a hard right to the side of Clements' jaw.

Edward Melanson, Ashmore, got a technical K.O. over Billy Ryan in the fastest, most interesting fight of the evening. After going down in the first round, and taking a count of four, Melanson came back in the third to be awarded the decision. Ryan, a clever, gamey battler, couldn't go on and the referee stopped the fight to save him further punishment.

"Tappy" Robichaud won a decision over Edward Hill. Bernie Tebo lost a hard fought fight to "Pigskin" Melanson. "Pops" Saulnier won a decision over Leo Surtette, while Arthur Robar and Layton Savary, a draw.

George Richardson, Referee.

"SECURITY"

(By Bessie Fair Mason, Springfield, N. S., a shut-in afflicted with arthritis.) I do not know, I cannot tell What is in store for me; Each hour a mystery. But, this I know, come weal or woe, Come rain or shine, come friend or foe— God knows, and holds the key.

His hand unlocks each newborn day; He notes the sparrow's fall, He walks beside me all the way, And hears my faintest call. He sends the sunshine and the rain, He feels my sorrow and my pain. My Father knows it all.

And so I meet each day and hour, A moment at a time, Sufficient strength He gives to me, For every trial that's mine. Come joy or pain, come sun or rain, I know all things to me are gain, Sent by His will divine.

Kept by His love, I dwell secure, Though billows round me roll, He walks with me and talks with me, I'm under His control. Thus day by day, I walk His way, He guards me, guides me lest I stray, Blest Captain of My Soul.

Fishermen, who for about two weeks have not fished for the Lunenburg Sea Products Company, in Centreville, have resumed fishing after an interview with W. C. Smith, President, who visited the plant. In that time fish became scarce and what fish were caught were taken to Tiverton. The fish plant in Centreville has been rebuilt and enlarged since being destroyed by fire a few months ago. Large catches of fish were reported and business has been flourishing until recently.

Summer Rally of Annapolis Presbyterial

The Summer Rally of the Annapolis Presbyterial was held in the Digby United Church of Canada on the afternoon of June 28, the president, Mrs. E. A. Kirker, of Middleton, presiding.

A meeting of the executive, at which there were seven, besides the president, was followed by that of the entire delegation. Mrs. W. R. Turner, of Middleton, conducted the worship period, opening with hymn 41, a responsive reading, also a portion of the third chapter of epistle to the Corinthians. Mrs. Turner made a few well chosen remarks, one of which was "I wonder how much real hard work we are putting into our W. M. S.?" This part of the service closed with hymn 388. Greetings were brought from the Digby Auxiliary by Mrs. J. J. Wallis, and replied to by Mrs. L. M. Nichols, of Aylesford.

Brief reports were given by the various secretaries. Mrs. Higgins, of Middleton, secretary Christian Stewardship and Finance, said "Time, talents and money go hand in hand." Mrs. Dalrymple, of Bridgetown, secretary Mission Circle, reported an increase in circles. Mrs. Ewing, of Lawrencetown, an increase in membership and giving by Mission Bands. Mrs. Bent, of Bridgetown, supply secretary, urged all to have their contributions to the various missions forwarded in time for shipment. Mrs. Davidson, of Bear River, press secretary, read an excerpt from a letter of Press Secretary of the Dominion Board, Mrs. J. H. Turnbull, 433 Wesley Bldg., Toronto 2, asking that all notices of deaths of auxiliary members be sent direct to her from the Auxiliary Press Secretary.

A solo, "His Eye is on the Sparrow," was rendered by Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Digby, after which Mrs. F. Simpson, Tupperville delegate to the Branch, brought her report; then one verse of hymn 510 was sung.

The address of the afternoon was given by Rev. M. R. Ewing, of Lawrencetown, under the topic "Madras Echoes," this was very interesting, and instructive. The first Conference of such kind was held in 1910; the second in 1928 at Jerusalem; and the third in 1938 at Madras, which represented 64 nations with 472 delegates speaking 117 languages. At the third Conference only old established churches were represented; but at the last one younger churches were represented as well. South Africa asks for more christian missionaries. Japan wants more men who bring "The Book". One-fifth of the world's population is in India; yet only 6,500,000 are Christian. Canada's theme should be "The On-going Church of Jesus Christ." Cooperation and unity were the key words.

A standing vote of thanks was given Mr. Ewing for his splendid address. This was followed by prayer by Mrs. Dalrymple, of Bridgetown, for those of our missionaries in war stricken areas.

A pipe organ selection, and offering, followed by Mrs. Turner speaking on the "Leadership Courses", which are to be given at the Camp Meeting, Berwick, beginning August 4 and benediction by Rev. Dr. Hodgson, Digby; brought to a close a very interesting and inspiring session.

All then repaired to the vestry for a picnic supper, which was amply supplemented by the ladies of the Digby Auxiliary.

World Changes Hit Dried Fish Output

Back in the ten-year period, 1888 to 1897, Canada's production of dried codfish averaged about $66,500 hundredweights a year and in 1928-1937 the average was only 296,500.

And this notwithstanding that the waters off the Dominion's Atlantic Coast, long famous as one of the world's great sources of cod, apparently still have in them as many of these fish as they ever had.

The change in dried cod figures are eloquent of three things in particular—the development of added methods of preparing fish for market, with consequent shifts in emphasis in the fish business; second a sharpening of competition in important markets for Canadian dried cod, and, third, the dislocation of market conditions in various overseas countries in recent years.

This combination of factors and with others perhaps contributing, have made the position of the Canadian dried fish industry very difficult of late and it is for this reason that a Salt Fish Board is being set up by the federal authorities. Stated broadly, the purpose of the board will be to assist the salt fish industry—the term "salt fish" covers both pickled and dried fish—by market exploration and development and, under certain conditions, by financial aid. Headquarters are to be at Halifax because it is on the Atlantic coast that the Dominion's salt fish industry is centred.

Time's Changes
Fifty years ago, of course, transportation was still in the horse and buggy era. Similarly the world knew much less than it knows now about preserving fish and other foods by putting them into cans. Refrigeration methods and apparatus as people know them today were unknown then. Progress in all these fields led to revolutionary changes in the fish business as the years went by. Dried fish had to meet from fish in other forms a measure of competition which it had not previously to face. This was one of the factors which complicated life for dried cod producers. Another serious factor affecting Canadian producers and exporters was the development of increasing aggressiveness in important New World markets by some European producing countries in comparatively recent years. And then, added to everything else, was the world-wide economic disturbance of the early 1930's which was followed by some political events abroad that had severely adverse effect upon sales possibilities for Canadian dried cod in several countries.

Canada's dried fish people have been having a hard time. And, quite obviously, the fault is not their own, nor the fault of Canada. The troubles have sprung from a number of factors beyond the control of either the industry or the country. What the Dominion's producers and exporters deserve credit for is the courageous spirit they have maintained in the face of perplexities and difficulties.

Sold The Wolf's Pups

In reply to your request to send a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible to do so. My shattered financial condition is due to Federal laws, State laws, County laws, Corporation laws, Liquor laws, Mother-in-laws, Sister-in-laws and Outlaws.

Through these laws, I am compelled to pay a business tax, amusement tax, head tax, school tax, gas tax, light tax, sales tax, liquor tax, carpet tax, income tax, food tax, furniture tax and excise tax. Even my brains are taxed. I am required to get a business license, car license, driver's license, hunting license and fishing license, truck license, not to mention a marriage license, and dog license. I am also required to contribute to every society and organization which the genius of man is capable of bringing to life; the women's relief, the unemployed relief, and the gold-diggers relief. Also to every hospital and charitable institution in the city including the Red Cross and the Black ones, the Purple Cross and the Double Cross.

For my safety, I am required to carry life insurance, property insurance, old age and fire insurance, life insurance, unemployment insurance, old age and fire insurance.

My business is so governed that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it. I am inspected, expected, suspected, disrespected, respected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, summoned, fined, commanded, and compelled until I provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need of the human race.

Simply because I refuse to donate to something or other I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held down and robbed until I am almost ruined.

I can tell you honestly that except for the miracle that happened I could not enclose this check. The Wolf that comes to many doors nowadays just had pups in my kitchen; I sold them, and here is the money.—Ex.

Harvesting Hay High In Protein

Dr. F. T. Shutt, C. B. E., Ottawa, for nearly half a century as Dominion Chemist, never ceased to urge upon the farmers of Canada the necessity for cutting hay early in order to conserve its digestible nutrients, pointing out that when the plants head out the stems become fibrous with a rapid lowering in digestibility and nutritive properties. The influence of Dr. Shutt's advice on the improvement in quality of Canadian hay is inestimable, says B. Leslie Emslie, chemist agronomist, who, as soil fertility specialist, was assistant to Dr. Shutt for many years.

Timothy is deservedly the most popular grass for hay in Canada. It is both palatable and nutritious and when cut early is an exceedingly valuable fodder. Colonel W. R. Peel, D. S. O., M. A., in his book on Grassland Management, says that timothy hay should be cut before the heads have emerged, and none can dispute the wisdom of the statement.

The percentage of digestible protein is largely the measure of quality in hay. Protein is high in nitrogen; consequently, nitrogenous fertilizers, such as sulphate of ammonia, nitrate of soda and cyanamide, applied at the proper time, will definitely increase the protein content of the grasses, as Dr. Shutt's investigations have shown.

In the Journal of the Ministry of Agriculture for April, 1939, there appeared an interesting report by A. H. Lewis, Jealott's Hill Research Station, Bracknell, Berks, England, on improving the Quality of Hay. The author refers to experiments carried out by Sprague and Hawkins in the United States, who found that the protein content of hay grasses could be increased substantially by applications of nitrogen fertilizers from 10 to 20 days before harvesting. During the season of 1938, at Jealott's Hill, Lewis made extensive trials on replicated plots, the results confirming those obtained by Sprague and Hawkins.

Lewis points out that much of the hay crop in Great Britain has a very low protein content, the average being only 7.58 per cent of crude protein. Applications of nitrogen fertilizers in early spring usually increase yields and total protein but not the percentage of protein. In the Jealott's Hill trials no significant difference between results from applications made ten and twenty days before cutting, nor between the effects of sulphate of ammonia and nitrate of soda, were shown. But the percentage of crude protein in the hay was increased from 8.69 per cent to an average of 11.74 per cent.

In March the plots received a liberal dressing of a phosphate-potash mixture, the nitrogen fertilizer being applied at rates varying from 100 to 200 lbs. per acre. 10 and 20 days, respectively, before harvesting. A further advantage of the treatment was seen in the aftermath which was notably higher not only in yield but in the percentage of dry matter and crude protein.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Popless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The leading thing about low blood count is that you can't feel it as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, doped, tired and peevish. Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It's their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to make gasoline in your car, you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel a bound-up, energetic man or woman. Write for free booklet to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD PICTURING OUTINGS

On an outing, watch for amusing incidents, informal moments. Avoid stiff, posed shots.

SUMMER picnics and outings are fun—and the fun can last, if you bring back a collection of snapshots that really tells the story of the day's activities.

Getting such snapshots isn't difficult when you keep your eyes open for incidents and details that truly explain the "what, where, and how" of the picnic.

Don't bother with stiff, posed group snapshots. Make "story" pictures. Get a shot of someone coming down the steps with a heavy picnic hamper... putting it in the car... a picture through the windshield showing the picnic grove as you arrive. Snap a series of shots which show the spreading of the cloth... the setting out of pickles, cake, and sandwiches... cutting the cake... "close-ups" of individuals munching away... sports or games after lunch... the girl friend getting her skirt caught on a barbed-wire fence. If the picnic lasts into the evening, take a time exposure of the group gathered around the campfire, singing or telling stories. They'll have to hold still for this one, and the camera must be firmly supported on a handy post or table—but it's a worth-while picture.

When you make a series of "story-telling" snapshots along this line, you have something that gives far more satisfaction than a few scattered, random snapshots. And it's no trouble. Most of the pictures you can capture when your subjects are "off-guard"—not even aware a picture is being taken. Other pictures may require a little posing, but as long as you make the picture show some incident, something going on, it won't have that stiff, "posed" look.

Try making a series of related, "story-telling" snapshots on your next picnic or holiday outing. You'll quickly decide that's the way all your pictures will be taken on such occasions in the future.

Canadians Are Custodians of Forest Wealth

An estimate of the total forest production of Canada for 1937 has just been completed by the Forestry Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The estimate covers the products of operations in the woods, the unmanufactured materials cut in Canadian forests during the year.

An estimate has also been made of the extent to which our forests are being depleted annually in the process of exploiting these materials. For this purpose converting factors based on actual measurements have been used. Each of these factors represents in cubic feet, the quantity of standing timber that must be cut in the forest in order to produce one unit of the material in question, based on the total cubic content of the tree. By the use of these factors it has been estimated that our total forest production in 1937 involved the cutting of 2,996,633,000 cubic feet of standing timber.

Destruction Is Heavy

This constitutes only the depletion for use and to it must be added the volume of material destroyed by fire, which during the last ten years has averaged 304,000,000 cubic feet of merchantable timber and young growth of various ages estimated to be equivalent to 264,000,000 cubic feet. Insects, fungi and windfall destroy annually at least 700,000,000 cubic feet, so that the drain on our forest resources in 1937 was approximately 4,264,633,000 cubic feet.

The latest available estimate places Canada's forest resources at 273,656 million cubic feet of standing timber made up of 425,250 million feet board measure of sawn lumber and 1,746,629 thousand cords of pulpwood, ties, poles and other smaller materials.

Rate of Utilization Varies

Estimating the probable duration of our supply of forest products is not a matter of simple arithmetic. The rate of utilization is far from constant. It tends to increase with the discovery of new uses for wood, the increase in our population and the increase in the demand for forest products from other countries whose supplies have been reduced to a greater extent than our own.

Forest Fire Loss Reduced

The rate of destruction from fires and other agencies is also very uncertain. The fire hazard tends to increase with the increase of population and the extension of settlement unless measures are taken to prevent this tendency. During the last few years, forest fire damage in Canada has been materially reduced owing to favorable weather conditions and improved methods of detecting and fighting forest fires. Credit is also due to the general public for a greater measure of co-operation in the prevention of fires and to the various organizations which have carried on educational campaigns for forest conservation.

Let Us Reason Together!

So far we have quoted direct from the Department's report. A little study of the figures should prove enlightening. Cut for use is 2,996,633,000 cubic feet. Wasted by fire is 264,000,000 cubic feet. De-

Excellent rains have fallen over much of the province and pastures are generally good, hence it would appear that June milk production will be up as compared with May. May creamery butter production in the province was down nearly one-fifth as compared with last year. In some districts, however, rainfall has been very slight. At the college station, Truro, rainfall was only slightly over one inch during June as compared with 4.8

Forrest Eisner as chairman of the street committee—and the committee itself—are to be congratulated on the work they accomplished last week in cleaning up the beach along the water front. This is something that has not been done in years and the improvement is so marked that dozens have commented on it. Now it is up to the citizens who have been using the beach as a "dump" for store sweepings, etc., to see that it is kept clean. And another improvement we have noted is the placing of "rubbish" barrels along Water Street—and we have no doubt the street committee is responsible for that. Good work! Keep it up!

Paul Yates, accompanied by Mrs. Yates, spent a few days last week adding to their famous collection of Nova Scotia Scenic Gems, by making numerous new views at Grand Pre Park and Evangeline Beach, returning by way of Chester Basin, where they were joined by Miss Edith James, who returned with them for a visit.

Gordon Francis, a small colored boy, aged 10½ years, had a narrow escape from drowning at the Valley Bridge, a few days ago. From what we hear, we gather that he got beyond his depth, and his brother Charles, aged 12, seeing his plight, pushed a plank towards him and encouraged him to hold on. Hearing a truck approaching, they called for help, and Basil Porter, who was driving the truck, got the boy safely ashore.

Famous Royal Children Win Swimming Honors Presented by Royal Mother

Queen of a mighty empire, but more than that, a charming and devoted mother, who knows no happier moments than those spent with her children. Queen Elizabeth is seen here as she proudly presented the children's challenge cup to Princess Margaret Rose, who with her sister, Princess Elizabeth, is an accomplished swimmer. These pictures were taken at the Bath Club in London, and the two royal titulators are shown in their bathing suits. Princess Margaret Rose at the (left), wearing a bow on her shoulder and a life-saving medal, and her sister at the (right), wearing the crests of the Bath Club and the Royal Life-Saving Society. She is particularly adept at the backstroke, while her younger sister won her cup in a free style race for those under nine years of age.

Mielke Winner N.S. Golt Crown

It was the same title which he annexed in 1928, 1930 and again in 1935. A drab figure in his grey outfit, Mielke stroked around the Ashburn course in 71, giving him a total of 291 for the 72 holes of medal play.

Two strokes behind him came the best-known runner-up in Nova Scotia golfdom, Dr. P. C. Jarboe, of Chester. His 71 and 70 on Tuesday, represented the best day's work in the tourney, but Mielke's lead.

In the third spot was Don Miller, who was not enough to overcome Mielke of Chester, with 296. J. B. Harris, of Ashburn, was fourth with 299. Bryan "Bidy" Babcock, Gorsebrook club-mate of the champion, was fifth with an even 300.

Tied for sixth were Arthur Pothay, Digby, and Gint Cain, Yarmouth. Both had 302 totals. Cain, who bogged furly in the contest, came back with a 70 Tuesday afternoon to better his position.

All Saints Rossway to Hold Anniversary Sunday

About the time Napoleon had suffered his final defeat, about the time all European countries were preparing to assert their individuality, far off across the Atlantic men's minds were turned to higher things. Fifty years before, the Declaration of Independence and the American Revolution drove many loyal people northward and the whole of Nova Scotia was enriched by the villages which sprang up and the culture that attended them. Now, in the 1840's, Digby Neck was striving to mould this influx of people into a loyal and good-living society. The years 1840 to 1850 saw the greatest advance in religion for Digby Neck. Several churches were built, not least among them was All Saints', at Rossway.

In 1819 Digby Neck was made a separate parish of the Church of England. Shortly after, in 1825, the first Anglican Church was erected at Westport. During the rectorship of Rev. William Ballock, at Digby, several churches were erected. All Saints', Rossway, was the second church on Digby Neck.

This church, with its white spire and cross, has always been the focal point of life for the community. It is situated in a very quiet nook overlooking St. Mary's Bay and there one feels the force of those words: "O worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness". (Ps. 96). The constant love and care of its members has kept the building in good repair, and like good wine, it has improved with age. Inside, one will find the beauty of simplicity. The pews are the original ones, well over one hundred years of age. The carpeted chancel is neat and spacious. The altar with its simple cross and candles, is the very symbol of beauty and purity.

On Sunday next, July 16th, at 3.00 p. m., there will be a special anniversary service in this church. The service will be conducted by the rector of the parish, assisted by C. Russell Elliott, student assistant. Special music will be rendered by the choir of Trinity Church, Digby. The Baptist male quartette, of Digby, will also be in attendance.

All are invited to join in this service of thanksgiving with the members.

Mrs. Eric Vyse, of Halifax is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. E. Walker.

Mrs. Pineo was in Halifax this week, attending the Women's Liberal Association meetings.

O. Wright was awarded a special prize for the beautiful float he had in the Firemen's Day parade.

The steamer, Moyra, was in port last week with flour and feed. She discharged a quantity here and proceeded to Saint John.

"Old Timers" Defeat Ravens 4-1.

The "Old Timers" collected seven hits for four runs off Frank Raymond Friday evening, as they downed the Ravens 4-1 in a seven inning game. As a result of this—the Ravens second loss in as many games—it was expected that some changes in the infield line-up would be made last night, in an effort to get a winning combination to take to Bear River tomorrow night. In the win, Bud Winchester fanned seven Ravens and allowed only two hits, while collecting a hit and scoring two of their runs. Don Deming collected two hits, while Jack Keen placed two near-perfect bunts, Frank Raymond fanned seven batters in the defeat. The line-up: "Old Timers": — Dave Daley, c; Bud Winchester, p; Don Deming, 1b; Fred Harvey, 2b; Jack Keen, ss; Ted Dakin, 3b; Dr. Rogers, cf; Stan Spray, rf; Ray Bishop, lf. The SNAPSHOT GUILD

DEVELOPING PICTURES

Making an enlargement. Snapshooters who develop and print their own pictures can obtain interesting special effects, and derive more pleasure from their camera hobby.

MOST snapshooters have their films developed by a photofinisher. For the beginner, this is probably the safest method, as the finisher's work is swift and usually the quality is excellent.

However, as the camera hobbyist gains in skill, he soon wants to develop his own pictures and make his own prints. Such experience is just as valuable as it is fascinating, for it teaches many things about producing better pictures.

One does not need a special darkroom for developing film or making prints. A table in the bathroom at night provides adequate "working space," and the window can easily be covered with cardboard to exclude stray light.

Simple kits contain the few preparations for solutions and trays needed for either negatives or prints. Film of the "chrome" type may be developed under a red photographic safelight, so that one can watch the pictures as they "come up" during development. For "pan" film, it is best to use an inexpensive film tank. Once the film is placed in the tank, the regular room lights can be turned on. The tank method eliminates guess work with any kind of film but some think the "tray" or darkroom method is more interesting.

Only a few minutes are required to develop and "fix" a roll of film. It is then washed and dried, after which prints may be made at once. Making prints is even easier than developing film, since brighter light can be used.

After you have learned how to make "contact" size prints, you are ready to begin making enlargements. With a home enlarger, you can make your pictures in various sizes—change the composition of a picture by "masking"—and obtain special effects by double-printing, diffusion, and other devices that increase a picture's interest and charm.

Developing and printing your own pictures is a sure way to derive more pleasure from your hobby. Make up your mind to try it as you increase in picture-taking skill.

Get More Oxygen In Your Blood and Get the Lead that Leads You Up the Stairs

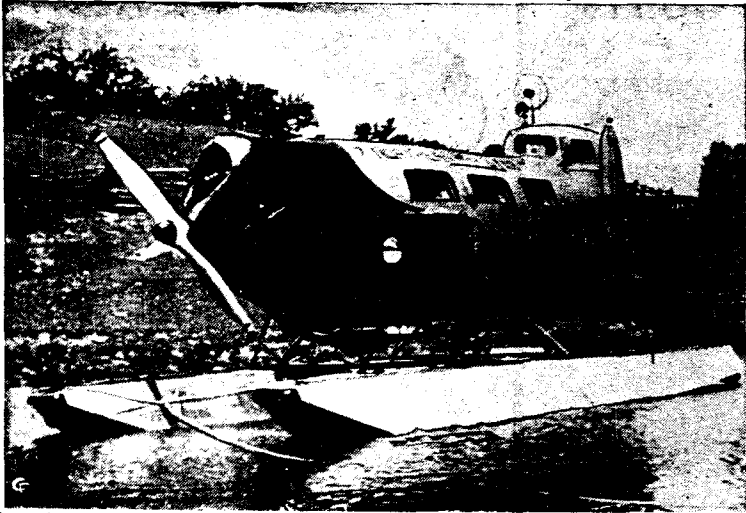

People who suffer from lead in the blood because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers.

They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, baby often noisy. Your nerves may become jittery—you tire quickly—feel depressed.

What you need is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today at your druggist. See for yourself how quickly this time-proven blood-builder will help give you back your P.B.

That honeymoon

A honeymoon we meant to take; We never took it, did we though? Mountain or ocean, woods or lake, Somehow we always meant to go. Somewhere we always meant to see, Somewhere that now will never be.

There wasn't anyone to blame: We meant to save, we started to; But times were poor, the children came, And other things we had to do. Youth went so fast, age came so soon, We never had that honeymoon.

And yet I wonder? Maybe we Who never went so very far, Who never got across the sea, Nor westward where the wonders are, We may have had, who never roam, A sweeter honeymoon at home.

We never walked a castle wall, We never passed a palace door, To make our cottage seem too small, Or wealth a thing to hunger for, No, never far afield we went, But stayed at home and were content.

Bav View has a full share of the tourists. Every boarding place is being filled, with more coming in each day.

The Poet's Corner

HIS LAST DEGREE

An old man sat in the Odd Fellows' Home, Feeble, and old, and gray; With tottering limbs and low bowed head, Just at the close of day.

The old man said, "My teeth are gone, My eyes are dim and dried; My wrinkled old hand is feeble now, Though still it is open wide.

The trade mark of age is on my brow, My hearing is almost gone; My memory is failing fast, And the race is nearly run.

I have seen the rose spread its glowing leaves In the light of the morning sun; Yet they withered and died upon the ground Ere the warmth of day was done.

I've watched the young man in the strength of youth, His head was held proudly high; But, just like the rose, he withered away, For all who are born will die.

I am filled with a longing to see again My brothers up there with the blest; My weary old head is bowed with years I am ready to go to rest.

PASSING THIS WAY

The bread that giveth strength I want to give, The water pure that bids the thirsty live; I want to help the fainting day by day, I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.

I want to give the oil of joy for tears, The faith to conquer cruel doubts and fears, Beauty for ashes may I give away; I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.

I want to give good measure running o'er, And into hungry hearts I want to pour The answer soft that turneth wrath away; I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.

I want to give to others hope and faith, I want to do all that the Master saith; I want to live aright from day to day; I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.

—Author Unknown.

THESE THINGS ARE FREE (By John Martin)

In gloomy times we need not cry—"How many things there are to buy!"

Here is a thought for you and me—"The best things in life are free." The air, the sunshine and the sea, All gladness, beauty—these are free.

Our faithful friendships, sympathy, The joys of living—these are free. The budding blossom, staid tree, God's open country—these are free.

All loving service, loyalty, Our God's protection—these are free. The more we look, the more we see, How many precious things are free.

The heart will find more than the eye, Of things we do not have to buy. Let's stop and think; let's know and feel, That things like these are truly real.

Yes, we think how very rich are we When all the best of things are free.

A PRETTY GOOD WORLD

There's a land that is fairer than day, And by faith we can see it afar, I would rather have one little rose From the garden of a friend, Than to have the choicest flowers When my stay on earth must end.

I would rather have one pleasant word In kindness said to me, Than flattery when my heart is still, And life has ceased to be.

I would rather have a loving smile From friends I know are true, Than tears shed round my casket, When this world I've bid adieu.

Bring me all your flowers today, Whether pink or white, or red; I'd rather have one blossom now Than a truckload when I'm dead.

TRUE VALUES

"The value of gold is a transient thing, And other old standards are falling.

There is change in the air, mixed with hope and despair, And uncertain voices are calling.

Yet kindness and goodness are still in the land, And people are loving and giving; True hearts, unlike gold, have not shrunk or grown old, And bring a real gladness to living.

When all our old idols go down with a crash, Their merits but drop in the fire, And the darkness descends, then the worth of true friends Is seen to mount higher and higher."

COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS

"There is no earth so bleak and bare But Heaven hath sent some blessings there, No table set so sparsely spread, But that a grace should there be said.

No life but knows some moment blest, Of sweet contentment and of rest; No heart so cold but Heaven above Hath touched it with the warmth of love.

So count your blessings, one by one, At early morn and set of sun, And, like an increase, to the skies Your prayers of thankfulness shall rise.

Look for the love that Heaven sends, The good that every soul intends; Thus you will learn the only way To keep a true Thanksgiving Day."

End of Louis-Galento Heavyweight Championship Fight

This picture tells the short, short story of the seventh defence of his world's heavyweight championship made by Joe Louis, as he turned back Tony Galento, after two minutes and 29 seconds of the fourth round, when Referee, Arthur Donovan, stopped the bout, which finished, as expected, when the champion's trip-hammer blows opened up the scar tissue that matted up Tony's eyebrows and forehead. Galento is seen as he clutched Donovan around the legs just before the fight was stopped.

Kentucky Jubilee Singers Gave Good Programme

We listened to one of the finest programmes we have been privileged to hear in the Grace United Church Hall, on Monday evening, of this week—it was the presentation of the Kentucky Jubilee Singers, a quartette of four coloured boys, who certainly had a thorough knowledge of the art of entertaining.

Unfortunately, for them, and for those who stayed away, they had a small house, but the small audience was certainly given their money's worth, in fact, had the programme, which was divided into three parts, been halted at the end of the first part, none would have complained, all would have felt they had been given a big thirty-five cents worth—and each of the two succeeding parts were better than the last.

We regret that with this concert the Jubilee singers are leaving this part of the country—they went to Stewiacke from here—for, although the press paid its way like the rest of the public—we would have been glad to give the entertainers a "boost" with the view of helping them in other parts of the Digby district. We certainly have never enjoyed better entertainment in Digby, or better harmony.

This programme lacked nothing, and consisted of just enough of everything—of the good old and new negro spirituals, readings, classical and popular music, tap dancing, and even "She'll Be Coming 'Round the Mountain". The Courier wishes the Jubilee Singers every success, and hopes they will have packed houses wherever they go. We have been told they expect to tour this section again in the fall—if they do, don't miss them!

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SUNSHINE INDOORS

Appealing "indoor sunlight" pictures can be made with the simplest cameras. Photo lights may be used to brighten shadows.

"Indoor sunlight" snapshots are easy with box cameras and high speed film. SS, subjects; WW, sunny windows; C, camera; PP, photo lights in reflectors to brighten shadows.

MOST sunshine pictures are made outdoors. But charming sunny pictures can be made just as easily indoors, wherever the rays of the sun stream through a window. Such indoor pictures are especially attractive when the sunlight is used as "backlighting." The picture above is "backlighted"—the sun comes from a window behind the subject.

and slightly to one side of the subjects. Therefore, the subjects are surrounded by a bright edge lighting, and interesting shadows are thrown toward the camera. When you make these backlighted pictures, it is wise to use photo lights to brighten the shadows (see diagram). This not only produces a better picture effect, but shortens the exposure. With photo lights arranged as shown, a snapshot can be taken with a box camera loaded with high speed film. Other cameras, 1/25 second at f.11.

Interesting silhouette pictures can be made, too, when the subject is placed in front of a sunny window. If a silhouette is desired, do not use the photo lights or a reflector of any kind to illuminate the shadow side of the subject. With subject against a sunlit window make a snapshot with the second stop opening on a box camera. Try a roll of "indoor-sunlight" pictures. Many charming effects can be obtained, and snapshots of this type have a cheery, homelike touch that makes them treasured possessions.

Crops are Fair, But Need Rain

Rain is needed in Digby County, according to local farmers, who, nevertheless, are of the opinion crops have not suffered any serious consequences as yet for the lack of moisture. Potato beetles, however, are causing serious trouble, and are declared more plentiful than they have been in recent years, and farmers are waging a constant battle to keep them down. Local strawberry crops have been fair, but have now passed their peak. At Digby, yesterday, they were retailing in the stores at 2 quart boxes for 25 cents. The lowest local retail price this season has been 3 for 25 cents.

Prospects are for a fair cherry crop, and a few of the earlier varieties were being peddled this week, but none have appeared in the retail stores.

In some sections haying has commenced. The crop, on the whole, is well up to the average, and declared to be of good quality.

The Royal Visit

The 1st Digby Scout Troop was represented by approximately fifteen members. I, fortunately, being one of them.

We left Digby on the rainy day of Wednesday, the fifteenth of June. As it was my first trip to Halifax, the trip and the beautiful countryside was very interesting, although the time practically flew. We arrived in Halifax about six o'clock and made arrangements for our meals and our sleeping quarters. That night we went around the city and soon came in to bed, because we had a very hard day ahead of us.

The next day seemed as if it was going to be the most important and most memorable day of my life. We got our breakfast and it was not long before we were marching to the Garrison Grounds. In the parade there seemed to be more color than there is in a rainbow. To one direction were the R. C. M. P., or better known as Mounties, in their bright red coats, shining boots, and broad brimmed hats. Behind and ahead of us were Boy Scouts in their colorful spotless uniforms. There were Girl Guides dressed in their plain uniforms, that were faultlessly neat. The Cubs also had a colorful uniform, which was very neat. The most mighty and powerful looking part of the parade was the militia, in the plain khaki. There were also many schools and institutions represented.

At about 2.30 o'clock I heard the crowds begin to cheer and it dawned upon me that I was about to see the most celebrated and most loved persons of the world. Their Majesties, the King and Queen of Great Britain. Their car went slowly by, the King saluting and the Queen smiling warmly. The Royal Standard flying all summing up to the making of Nova Scotia history. The Queen was dressed in light blue and the King dressed as Admiral of the Fleet and they looked every inch a mighty monarch and his Queen.

The Royal party went back to the Parliament Buildings and had lunch, while we marched back to headquarters.

At 3.30 o'clock we marched to the strains of the Scotch bagpipes, out to Citadel Hill. In the march I couldn't keep in step because I kept thinking that I had seen the rulers of the largest and mightiest nation of the world. At Citadel Hill there were some twenty thousand school children, which when waving their flags, made a most colorful picture. Soon a play started that was based on the founding of Nova Scotia. Their Majesties were there to witness it, while a choir sang patriotic songs. While the play went on, the cheering, the children waved their flags, and the Boy Scouts raising their hats, this all summed up to a most striking picture. After the play was over we marched to headquarters and waited for the embarkment of the "Empress of Britain", which was to carry Their Majesties away from Canadian soil. It was not long before the "Empress of Britain" was ready to go. Out in front were the Glasgow and the Southampton, two British destroyers, which acted as a convoy to the "Empress", the men were all dressed up for ship's company. In the centre was the huge "Empress of Britain" on which were Their Majesties. Behind the "Empress" were the Skeena and the Saguenay, which were Canadian light destroyers. They were also dressed up for ship's company. Overhead were three immense Amphibian aeroplanes, which seemed to be scanning the whole harbor in case of trouble. All these things put together made the greatest picture that I have ever witnessed! It was a magnificent send-off.

Before going to sleep on the train I could not help but think that the Queen of England had smiled at me.

About This and That

In spite of the fact that at the present time, no date has been set for a Federal Election, the political pot has reached the simmering stage, and political meetings of various kinds are being held in many sections of the country. Although no actual campaign is under way, there is, nevertheless, a campaign of a sort. Since coming under its present management, the "Courier" has been independent, and taken no part in politics. The same policy applies now. We will, in so far as possible, publish reports of various meetings for all parties. The report may be written by a member of our own staff, our correspondents, or by the chairmen of publicity or press committees, subject to our own editing, and as far as possible, confined to legitimate news, and stripped of propaganda, unless we have reports from both sides when they will be published side by side. However, any correspondent or political publicity committee, who wishes to further the cause of his party through our columns, may do so (subject to our approval), by paying for the same at "reader advertising rates" without price reductions of any kind. Such readers must be signed, and the signature published. We further will reserve the right to ask for cash in advance unless payment is guaranteed in writing by two or more responsible parties, or by the chairman of a committee who is authorized to handle paid advertising for the party.

Note:—In the above paragraph the bracketed "subject to our approval" is for our own protection. Experience in past election campaigns has taught us that precautions are necessary, even with paid readers, if we don't want libel suits.

The system of land tenure in Great Britain, which has lasted ever since the time of William the Conqueror, is about through. This is the twilight of feudalism. The last links with a system that has stood unbroken for nine centuries are giving way. Property is changing into freehold estates. In Norman England, all land belonged to the King, and he leased it to Lords of the Manor, and these noblemen rented it for certain payments and services to "the ordinary people of the land." These ancient and historic rights are to be exchanged for monetary payments and finished with forever. The Lords have until January 1, 1941, to do this. But the many curious and picturesque usages and customs which have grown up around hoary privileges linger. In fact, such may remain indefinitely. For in the old country, deeply rooted tradition does not die easily.

July of 1914, the Ottawa Journal reminds us, was a strange month. The world literally was sitting on a volcano, but it was blissfully unaware of the dark forces gathering for the explosion that came a month later. Life went on just as usual. They buried the Archduke with suitable pomp and the people forgot him. In Canada citizens went about as usual, discussed politics and other topics, automobiles were owned by a comparatively small number of citizens. But in Berlin there plotted and planned an ambitious ruler who decided this was "the day" to settle once for all with the decadent English; in Vienna, in his gloomy palace, sat an emperor, old and very tired, nursing the shadow of a once powerful monarchy, who let himself be persuaded—that Britain's hour had struck. So July of 1914 passed with outward quiet and inward tension and August came, and suddenly the world was awake to its danger, but too late. The Kaiser had his way—and it was War.

So far as is known, no bird ever tries to build more nests than its neighbor. No fox ever fretted because he had only one hole in which to hide. No squirrel ever died of anxiety lest he should not lay by enough nuts for two winters instead of one. No dog ever lost any sleep over the fact he did not have enough bones laid aside for his declining years. In other words, if human beings would study nature more closely we may learn a few things not dreamed of in our so-called philosophy.

The practical benefits of the Royal tour, to Canada, are already being seen. As an example of publicity, its reaction in Australia has been immediate and far reaching. Canada has been "sold," so far as the Pacific Commonwealth is concerned. Australian dailies and periodicals have been carrying pages of matter devoted to this Dominion, and so great has become the public demand for publications and illustrations dealing with Canada, that the Trade Commissioner's office in Sydney, usually well stocked, has had its supply exhausted. There is a flood of tourist inquiries.

Wheels Locked and Three-Way Crash of Pacers Took Place

The great harness horse pastime has its shares of spills and this one took place at the Historic track in Goshen, N. Y., hotbed of trotters and pacers. The spill was caused when the wheels of the sulky drawn by Adam Jr., and that of Queens Mac locked on a turn, throwing both horses to the ground. Show Lassie, coming up fast just behind them was unable to stop or swerve and drove straight into the wreckage: Dill, driver of Show Lassie, was thrown out, while Palin and Maher, up behind the other two, jumped free.

"It All Depends . . ."

A month ago—as this is written—but six weeks, at least, as it appears in print—the King and Queen sailed from Portsmouth for a visit to Canada. That visit is over. Canada, in a real personal sense, has a King and Queen—even though they are no longer in our midst; and there landed in England from the white-hulled "Empress of Britain" two Canadians.

It would be rather amusing to be able to hear the comments of slightly bewildered Englishmen after the first public appearance of the Royal couple back home. England loves its Royal family and shows its love with dignity. And that love has always been acknowledged in a dignified manner and with evident affection by the King and Queen.

But now it is all different. You and I are responsible for that. Even supporting you and I are stemmed from phlegmatic English stock we have taken on the freer, more exuberant characteristics of this great Dominion. We let ourselves go a little more than the Englishman upon his native heath.

So do the King and Queen. All across the broad plains and the high mountains that are Canada we watched them absorbing more and more the characteristics in which we differ from the crowds in Cheapside and Birdcage Walk. Bit by bit they tore away the ridiculous trappings with which the Committee of Stuffed Shirts had tried to swathe the Royal visit. And with the pushing to one side of each succeeding piece of flunkery—that fits Canadians as ill as the average Privy Council uniform fits the rotund absurdity of the average ward politician—the real warmth and friendliness of Their Majesties' natures came more and more to the fore.

For years they have wanted to be human beings, for years the King has found naturiness only in the boys' camp he founded. They had to come to Canada to find an opportunity to join with their subjects and be really Royal. At home occasions have been made for them to visit humble homes in slum districts. In Canada—and that means at home to them now—they made their own occasions to visit with their friends in all walks of life.

When at last, and with obvious reluctance, they tore themselves away from the friendly crowds they stood up in their car and waved until they were out of sight. And it was no planned gesture carefully worked out by aides for its goodwill value, it was spontaneous that Scotland Yard men held their breath as the King and Queen, taking it upon themselves to choose whom they should meet and greet, literally drove into crowds and became swallowed up and really a part of them.

You can imagine this happening in The Strand, or Hyde Park, or Trafalgar Square? Well, it will. And England can thank Canada for providing the opportunity for Their Majesties at last being able to meet their fellow citizens of the great British Commonwealth of Nations man to man and woman to woman.

The English will be a little stiff about it at first—even after twenty-five years I can still realize that—but they will have a pair of teachers, who have the will and he ability to impart a large meed of their own unaffected friendliness into any gathering they literally grace with their presence. All this sounds a bit like "slipping over" just because I have made the discovery that the King and Queen of Canada are folksy people, as folksy as any gathering on the Post Office steps, while the mail is being sorted, or any church social.

It isn't that at all. It is just another case of "it all depends". In this case it all depends where you are what people find out about you. This friendly unaffectedness is not something new that the King and Queen developed in Canada. But it is more than possible that without the visit to Canada it would never have been discovered. And that, perhaps, is the greatest contribution to the Empire Canada has ever made.

The Washington visit was an other illustration of the power of the Royal pair over those with whom they came in contact. At Lady Lindsay's garden party at the British Embassy, history was repeated. At Boston, 164 years ago, a lot of cold tea was made in the harbour because of King George. That was the third George. At Washington, three weeks ago, 1,300 cups of tea became cold and undrinkable, because of King George. So intent were the guests upon seeing and perhaps meeting Their Majesties, that all thought of enjoying the food and drink provided by their host and hostess, was forgotten. So you see, it all depends!

HUMANS NOW HIBERNATE IN TREATMENT

Doctors "Freeze" Patients for Periods of Five Days—Method May Cure Ills.

Like wildfire a new medical idea, human hibernation—is spreading among doctors and scientists throughout the nation. They want to try the new treatment for heart disease, insanity, tuberculosis, and the whole gamut of ills.

The idea was first presented, recently, at the annual gathering of the American Medical Association, in St. Louis, and doctors at the convention stood three-deep around the "hibernation" exhibit all during the sessions.

Dr. Temple S. Fay and Dr. Lawrence W. Smith, of Philadelphia, have found a method of putting persons to "sleep" like hibernating bears by the process of refrigeration.

The patients are stripped and covered with cracked ice like frozen fish. An electric fan is turned on. In three hours their internal temperature is forced down to 90 degrees, and they literally go to sleep. The sleep is the drowsiness that comes over persons freezing, except that there are none of the agonizing pains that precede freezing to death.

Patients can be kept in this state of coma for five days. At the end they are awakened by hot coffee or warm applications. They awake smiling and with no memory of what has happened during the five-day period.

It is not known how long patients could be kept in such hibernation, but the Philadelphia doctors do know that some patients have hibernated, at intervals, for as long as 40 days without ill effects.

Pulse Beat Disappears During the hibernation the pulse beat disappears, kidneys stop, and bowels and digestive organs cease functioning. Most important, many disease germs, such as cancer, cease multiplying while the rate of tissue healing continues at a normal pace.

Salt Fish Board Named

Wide extension of the government's many-sided programme of assistance to the fishing industries of Canada is contained in the recently announced Salt Fish Board, composed of C. B. Finn, F. C. I. C., and Burke McInerney, of Halifax, and Captain Wm. Deal, of Lunenburg, Hon. J. E. Michaud, Minister of Fisheries.

To investigate the marketing of salt fish in the export trade, and to explore all possibilities of opening up new marketing outlets; to devise plans for the orderly marketing of fish with a view to bringing greater returns to the producer and exporter, and to study and recommend methods of curing and packing, including inspection, to attain uniform grades for the various markets, the Salt Fish Board was created by the last session of Parliament.

Backed by an appropriation of $800,000, provided in the Fisheries estimates, the Board will seek the rehabilitation of the industry and the restoration of markets.

Under such terms and conditions which ensure that any assistance reaches the fishermen producers, the Board may give assistance to exporters to an amount not exceeding 25 per cent of the value of exported fish, such assistance to be made from the appropriation by authority of the Governor-in-Council.

For many years the salting, drying and packing of fish such as cod, hake, herring and mackerel was a branch of the fishing industry which provided a main source of livelihood for a majority of the Maritimes fishermen. A large part of the market for the products was in the West Indies, South American and Mediterranean countries. As a result of international economic disturbances, and other factors, the salt fish industry has suffered from declining prices and shrinking markets.

The success of the methods undertaken under Mr. Michaud's direction, in other branches of the fishing industry, where uniformity of product and development of sales methods resulted in great benefits to the primary producers, led to the introduction of the legislation by the minister at the last session, which now is being implemented by the Board's appointment.

Under the direction of the three members, each of whom is well versed with the problem facing them, it is expected that the Board will meet immediately and launch a thorough and comprehensive study of the salt fish industry. Under the powers conferred on it by the act, the Board may study foreign markets and undertake the promotion of Canadian fish in those markets, in addition to taking steps to bring about stability and uniformity in the industry. Advisory Committees of not more than three members, two representative of the fishing-producers, and all serving without remuneration, may be appointed by the Board.

Dr. D. B. Finn, F. C. I. C., has had an outstanding career in the Fisheries service. Following the graduation with the degree of bachelor of science and, later, master of science from the University of Manitoba, he engaged in fisheries research for the federal authorities. Still later, after receiving his Ph.D., at Cambridge, he resumed this work as director of the Pacific Experimental Station at Prince Rupert. In 1934 he was transferred to the Atlantic Fisheries Experimental Station, of which he is the director at present. He is considered one of the most capable experts in the Department's service.

Mr. McInerney, who also lives in Halifax, is secretary of the United Maritime Fishermen, an organization of Maritime and Magdalen Island fishermen. In recent years he has played a leading role in the development of co-operative marketing and purchasing plans. In his position on the Board he will represent the Atlantic "inshore" fishermen and co-operative groups. Capt. Deal, who resides in Lunenburg, but who is known throughout the industry, both in Canada and the United States, will represent the deep sea fishermen in the salt fish industry.

Further Study of Scallop Beds

A further study of the scallop beds of the Bay of Fundy, to supplement the work of the late John A. Stephenson, who lost his life by drowning, in the Annapolis Basin, in the fall of 1936, while carrying on his investigations, will be undertaken here this year by R. E. Brannen, of the Biological Station, St. Andrews, N. B.

Mr. Brannen, who is a native of Barrington Passage, N. S., and a graduate of Acadia University, Wolfville, arrived in Digby Thursday of last week with Dr. Lime, of the St. Andrews Station. He will commence his work here at once. During the three years Mr. Stephenson carried on his studies and investigations out of Digby, he brought to light many interesting and valuable facts relating to the life and habits on Bay of Fundy scallops.

Six months ago a Portland, Maine, man was jailed for non-payment of a poll tax of $3. Then somebody got to figuring a little. After six months in the calaboose, this gentleman had cost the community about $100. He was released, without having paid the tax. Everything then stood as at first, except that the community was out $100. Thus 33 citizens had to pay their poll tax to provide the money for a vain effort to collect it from the 34th. It costs money to enforce the law, but if you are going to have laws they have to be enforced.

DIGBY'S WATER SUPPLY

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir:—"Water, water everywhere, and not a drop to drink", so runs a line in "The Ancient Mariner", and one cannot help feeling that there are some "ancient mariners" mixed up in our present water problem in Digby.

This is a matter of vital importance to all of us, and we should all have a clear grasp of the situation.

In the first place, there are four things we can do:

1. Nothing, as at present.
2. Conserve our present supply, by reducing waste.
3. Increase our supply by a new pipe line.
4. Both increase and conserve, by combining 2 and 3 above.

Everyone will agree that something must be done, nearly everyone agrees that the reduction of waste, by the installation of meters, would go a long way to solving the problem, perhaps would solve it completely for some years to come.

With a considerable sum still to be paid on the present pipe line, it is clear that a new line would mean an increase in the water rate, and, unless some steps were taken in the first place to prevent waste, a new line would be no guarantee of a solution of the problem, because it is just as easy to waste the water out of two pipes as it is out of one.

The old pipe line has been down a long time, and is in poor condition. Sooner or later it will have to be discarded. If the suggested line to the reservoir had been run, when the old line was closed, the entire town would have been supplied by back-feed through the reservoir.

Since the town water pressure depends first on the pressure-head of the supply—the height of Lily Lake above the town—a new line which may be installed should connect direct into the town system, and NOT feed into the reservoir, since the reservoir is over 100 feet lower than Lily Lake, and therefore has less pressure head than the direct run from the Lake.

It has been stated—and is probably still being stated—that I was responsible for the fact that the ratepayers voted down the suggested $30,000 issue for the proposed line from Lily Lake to the reservoir. I do not flatter myself that I have any great influence with the ratepayers of Digby. I believe that it was their own good judgment and sound common sense that led them to vote it down, and I believe that that same good judgment and common sense will cause them to resist any attempt to "railroad" through a scheme which is unsound.

We are none of us infallible—we all make mistakes—but to continue with a mistaken policy after the mistake is pointed out to us is folly—and criminal folly when the ratepayers' money is at stake.

The first step to be taken—and it should have been taken right after the ratepayers' meeting last winter—is the installation of meters.

The second step should be to improve the quality of the supply.

The third step, and one which

Prize Winners In Shot Gun and Target Shoot

The annual shot gun and clay target competition, held each year, while the Maritime Wholesale Hardware Association convention was in session at the Pines Hotel, Digby, and conducted by Jack Learment, of the Dominion Ammunition Division of Canadian Industries, Limited, was completed last week, and resulted in keen competition among the large field. First position was won by Miss Dita Forbes, of Kentville. Miss Forbes, who has competed in the sporting rifle competition at Bisle, adapted herself to the shot gun shooting and her score topped many of those shot by the men targeteers.

First place in the men's division was won by David Sockett, of Montreal. Mr. Sockett, the youngest competitor present, shot well and received the hearty commendation of all present. Colonel R. B. Simmonds presented the prizes.

THE COMING FLOWER SHOW

The annual Flower Show and Tea for the benefit of the Digby General Hospital, will be held this year on July 29th, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. McCleave, at the Racquette.

Entries this year will be divided into three groups: Group I to include flower displays from any garden, as follows: Class A, Roses; Class B, Perennials (bulbs and biennials included), and Class C, Annuals.

The same classes are included in Group II, in which flowers from any garden not employing gardeners will be entered.

Group III will include House Plants; IV, Dinner Table Bouquets, and V, Living Room bouquets. Judging from the appearance of the many flower gardens in and about Digby, the display at the Show this year should be exceptionally good.

Miss Grace Chisholm, of Framingham Centre, Mass., is visiting her sister, Miss Bessie Chisholm, Warwick Street.

What would arise at present, is the installation of a new pipe line, which should not be less than a ten-inch pipe, approximately parallel to the present line, and connecting direct into the town system.

BETTER PARKING SUGGESTED

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—The recent restrictions regarding the parking of cars on the main street of Digby is most commendable. A further improvement along this line might be made by having a parking limit immediately in front of the post office. The post office is here to serve the public, but usually it is impossible to park a car near it during mail time, because the space is occupied by cars that are allowed to be parked there indefinitely. If a ten- or fifteen-minute parking limit were enforced within this area, it would be greatly to the advantage of many of our citizens.

The church of St. Vincent de Paul, at Salmon River, was the scene of a pretty wedding, when Margaret, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gaudet, of Beaver River Corner, was united in marriage by Rev. Comeau - Comeau

A pretty wedding was solemnized at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Concession, on Tuesday morning, July 11, when Rev. Father Castonguay, P. P., united in marriage, Alphonse Comeau, son of Innocent Comeau, of Concession, and Prescille Comeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Comeau, also of Concession. The bride wore a long dress of white crepe trimmed with manbou fur, conventional veil and wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white roses and fern. Mrs. Joseph Comeau attended the bride and little Rose Comeau carried the veil. The groom was supported by his brother, Joseph Comeau. As the bride was a member of the Sodality of the Children of Mary, she was married within the sanctuary. Before the nuptial ceremony she knelt before the altar of the Blessed Virgin and renewed her act of consecration. Other members of the Sodality attended. The bride is a graduate of the Provincial Normal College, Truro, and had been a teacher in Concession for the past five years and the school pupils attended in a body. At the church door little Jeanette Gaudet read an address in the name of all the pupils, and little Regine Melanson presented a beautiful crucifix. Breakfast was served to immediate relatives and friends at the home of Mrs. Joseph Comeau, after which the bridal party motored to Yarmouth for dinner, returning for a bridal supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Comeau. "I am a Salesman!"

NATURALLY, I am away from home a great deal, but household expenses continue and must be paid each month.

This presented a problem to my wife and me until our banker suggested we open a 'joint' account on which either of us could draw in the absence of the other.

Now, when I am away from home, my wife can pay her household bills promptly, by simply drawing a cheque on our 'joint' account. She always has money immediately available, because I have arranged with my firm to deposit my salary on pay days.

Incidentally, the cancelled cheques are receipts for money expended, and the entries in our cheque book stubs help me to make up our household accounts when I get home again.

(Should you or your wife wish to open a joint account for your mutual convenience, our local branch will be glad to arrange it for you.)

ST. JOHN'S GARDEN PARTY

On Wednesday July 12, with ideal weather, St. John's Guild and congregation held their annual garden party on Mrs. John's Roop's spacious lawns, which lend themselves so beautifully to such a fête. With flags flying in the breeze, and gaily decorated booths, the scene was indeed a gala one. Business was brisk at the various booths and at 5:30 o'clock a bounteous supper was served at long, rose adorned tables, the high light of which perhaps was the fresh salmon salad. The gross receipts were considerably above those of last year, and enables St. John's to again, this year, make a very substantial payment on the building fund.

PICTURING FLOWERS

Beautiful flower close-ups, such as this, are easy to take if you follow a few simple rules.

IN EARLY summer, our attention naturally turns to flower pictures. Few camera subjects are more pleasing, and good flower pictures are not difficult to take, provided you observe a few simple rules.

Any camera may be used for picturing flowers, but a focusing model with anastigmat lens is preferable. With a box camera or set-focus folding camera, you will need a portrait attachment. Slip this on your lens, and you can take pictures with the camera only about three feet from the subject. The attachment is also useful for more extreme close-ups with a focusing camera.

Plain backgrounds are attractive in flower pictures. Use sheets of cardboard, white, gray, or black, which you can obtain inexpensively at most printing shops or stationery stores. The card is placed behind the flowers you select for a picture. It should be of the correct shade to afford pleasing contrast.

Flower pictures should be taken during the two hours after sunrise, and the two hours before sunset. Sunlight is soft and pleasing at these hours, but around mid-day it is too harsh for pictures of delicate blooms.

Use a small lens opening for flower

"close-ups," and make sure the distance between subject and camera is correct. Film of the panchromatic type is preferable for picturing flowers, especially if they are brightly colored. You can use either a high-speed "pan" film or a fine-grained type. The high-speed film enables you to make shorter exposures, while the fine-grained film yields enlargements of superb quality.

Exposure should be ample, rather than too short. With high-speed film, try 1/25-second shutter speed at lens opening f.16. With fine-grained film, try 1/10 second at f.11, or 1/25 second at f.8. For box-camera pictures, the high-speed film is preferable. Use a firm camera support, such as a box or chair, for any shutter speed longer than 1/25 second.

Generally, your camera should be placed or held at about the level of the flower. Light should come from the side, as this emphasizes the shape of the bloom. Take care that direct light rays do not strike the camera lens.

Try to build up an album of flower pictures this summer. Practice makes perfect, and with experience you can produce splendid results—well worth your while.

AN INVITATION

Once again we invite all our readers to send us their "personal" items. Tell us who is visiting you, or where you have been visiting. Let us have an account of your "bridges" and other social affairs.

Because these items are often missed in our columns, it is most unfair to blame us. We try to gather all we can, but we do not know by instinct everything that is going on in town and surrounding villages. So, in future, instead of criticizing the paper, let us know. You will find us willing to co-operate.

Send your items by mail, or telephone our office (No. 100). The party who answers the phone is perfectly capable of taking down the necessary notes. tf

Meteghan. Surviving are two brothers, Harvey and William, in South America, and two sisters, one a religious in a New York community, and the second, Mrs. Meaney, residing in Montreal. Funeral services were held from St. Theresa's retreat, yesterday, with interment in Mount Olivet cemetery.

All Saints' Celebrates Anniversary.

A capacity congregation gathered Sunday afternoon last, and filled to over flowing the little church of All Saints, at Rossway, which celebrated its 122nd anniversary. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion and despite the very warm afternoon, the worshippers enjoyed the service, which lasted one hour and a half. The choir from Trinity Church, Digby, (Ena Robinson, organist) was present, also the male quartette from the Baptist Church in Digby. The quartette was greatly enjoyed, and rendered two selections: "The Church in the Wilderness," "Safe in the Ark". Mrs. Guy Morehouse, organist of the Digby Baptist Church, played for the quartette for this special music.

The service was conducted by C. Russell Elliott, who is assisting the Rector of the parish for the summer. The sermon was preached by Rev. E. M. Caldwell, who took as his subject: "Why Religion?" He based his remarks on the text: "Lord, to whom shall we go, Thou hast the words of Eternal Life".

All Saint's Church is the oldest church on Digby Neck, and over the years has been a stronghold of Anglicanism. By mandate of the Archbishop of the Diocese, on January last, it was incorporated on the same basis as Marshalltown, in the parish of Digby. The Wardens at present are Thomas Rowlette and Mr. Heisler. The Clerk is Mrs. Wilfred Robbins. They are to be highly complimented on the splendid way they keep both the church and the cemetery.

MARRIAGES

Watkins - Trask
The United Baptist Church at Little River, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday morning, of last week, when Winnifred Mae, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Trask, became the bride of Ralph Everett Watkins, son of Mrs. Ralph Haines and the late Reginald Watkins, of Westport. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. I. Chute. The church was prettily decorated, under the direction of Mrs. L. B. Collins. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march, played by L. B. Collins, looked lovely in a white satin gown; her veil, which was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, fell in graceful folds to the floor. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaid, Miss Doris Trask, sister of the bride, was groomed in pale blue chiffon and large picture hat to match. The groom was attended by Hantford Glavin, and the ushers were Helen Read, cousin of the bride, and Helma Pugh, cousin of the groom. At the signing of the register a solo, "I Love You Truly," was rendered by Mrs. B. P. Collins. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, and a buffet luncheon was served to over one hundred guests. Immediately after the bride and groom left for a motor trip; the bride travelling in a pale blue coat and hat with navy accessories. Among the guests from out of town were: Mrs. Ralph Haines, mother of the groom, Freeport; Albert Watkins, brother of the groom, Kentville; Mrs. Fred Phelan, Halifax; Mrs. Arthur Read, Rockingham; Jack and Helen Read, Rockingham; Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Denton, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mueller, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Trask and daughter Shirley Ann, Miss "Pat" Trask, and Allison Denton, of Halifax; Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Denton and daughter Marjorie, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Trask, Digby; and a number were present from Westport and Yarmouth. The young couple received many beautiful gifts. After they return from their trip, Mr. and Mrs. Watkins will reside at Westport.

A Few Observations Made By Summer Visitors

"Digby is catering to a class of tourists who have been dead for ten years" was the comment of an American visitor to Digby, the other day. He contended that the people of Digby overlook the fact that tourist centres are no longer catering to the millionaire class of summer visitors, but to the stenographers, office clerks, teachers and other salaried people, who have to work a whole year in order to save up the necessary $100 or $200 for their summer vacation. "They are all good spenders" he declared "but they want value for their money."

We have heard expressions from other visitors along similar lines. One once told us he was surprised to know that we had any points of scenic or historic attractions in Digby County, until he was taken for a drive by a local citizen. He said the only places the drivers of sight-seeing cars appear to know about are Grand Pre or points a "good long distance taxi drive away". He expressed himself that the scenic charms of rural Digby and Western Annapolis Counties is superior to any he has seen in the province, but, he added "your local taxi men whom I have contacted, like to keep this a secret."

have to be as sparing in the use of wood as they are in the use of food. It will be just as well to notify Adolph. For when heaving to the line, he lets the chips fall where they may.

What is the matter with the town's supply of water? During the past week we have had over a dozen people come into our office complaining of the water situation and asking us "to do something about it." What can we do? It is true the situation is serious—just how serious very few realize. People on the high levels can not get water in sufficient quantities—some not at all. One man, who came in our office to complain, insinuated that someone who favored the expenditure advocated at a recent public meeting—and which was defeated—is manipulating the water supply to scare the people into passing the resolution at some future time—but we can hardly think that. We are of the opinion that almost as much water is being wasted as is used and if the water commission made a determined effort to stop these leaks, there would be sufficient to supply the demand. But something should be done—and that at once—or the town will be in a serious condition should a fire break out.

When you next see a crowd staring in awe and admiration at what seems to be an ordinary policeman, you can be certain that they have read the statement of a British policeman, Chief Constable H. W. Young, who says: "The model policeman must be as wise as Solomon, as patient as Job, with leadership of Moses, the faith of David, the strategy of Alexander, the diplomacy of Abraham Lincoln, the tolerance of Confucius, and the kindness of the Good Samaritan." That's something for Fred to live up to!

Women's Co-operative Association Meet

Addressing an organization meeting of the Women's Co-operative Association, at the home of Mrs. Harry E. Kirkpatrick, Queen Street, Digby, Friday evening last, Dr. E. A. Fergusson, of Weymouth, stated that if the women of Germany and Italy were given a vote the world would not be feeling the terrible strain it is under today, and the governments of those countries would be working for constructive peace rather than conducting an armament race.

Opening his address, Dr. Fergusson told briefly, the story of the fight for franchise for women, and urged that the women of Digby carry on with the work of Mrs. Panhurst.

Women should enter politics, he said, to take up for the young men and young women of Canada, and stating that if even one-fifth of the moneys spent on armaments was put to work on unemployment problems, the lot of youth in this country would be brighter.

Other speakers were Frank Morris, Digby, and Keith Potter, President of the Digby County Co-operative Association. Mr. Potter

read a telegram from Mrs. Francis A. Mott, of Amherst, vice president of the Women's Co-operative Association, in which Mrs. Mott conveyed her best wishes to the new society.

Officers elected were as follows: President—Mrs. John MacDonald. 1st Vice Pres.—Mrs. H. E. Kirkpatrick. 2nd Vice Pres.—Mrs. T. H.

Matheson. Secretary—Miss Lois Walker.

Committees will be appointed at a later meeting.

It was decided to hold a meeting in the Scout Hall next Thursday evening, at which Mrs. Mott has been invited to be speaker.

At Friday night's meeting refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Kirkpatrick.

Frank Morris has organized similar societies at Weymouth Falls and Doucetteville, and it is understood that other Women's organizations will be formed in other sections of the country.

Digby Ravens Win Baseball Game

The Digby Ravens Baseball Team made their first win of the season by an 11-0 victory over the local Old Timers, in a twilight game, Wednesday evening of last week. By this win, both teams have a game, the Old Timers winning the first game of the season by 4-1.

Walter MacBride, a new-comer with the Ravens, was the hero of this game, he allowed the opposition four hits, struck out ten, and collected three hits, batting in three runs. MacBride was also given great support by the team, as they fattened up some sick-looking batting averages.

Guy Morehouse, Jr., led the Old Timers in batting, hitting two nice drives to the left field bank. Arthur Gouldin had the worst luck of the Ravens in the batting. His two nice drives being pulled down by Roy Wellings and Jack Keen—in fact, Jack's catch of Art's hard drive was declared the prettiest and most unexpected play of the evening.

Ravens—Walter McBride (p); Stevie VanTassel, (cf); Ken Raymond, (2b); "Tie" Collins, (lb); Gerald Muise (rf); Paul Winchester (3b); Dave Clarkson (ss); Art Gouldin (c); Ken Newell, (lf). Old Timers—Dave Daley (c); Dun Demming (lb); Fred Harvey (2b); Guy Morehouse, Jr., (3b); Bud Winchester (p); Jack Keen (ss); Ray Wellings, (rf); Gene Sanford (cf); Ted Sanford (lf); R. Luck Remains With Mothers Who Won "Stork Derby"

Four Wives Report Money Enables Them to Feel More Secure, Educate Tots Better.

Not only did Dame Fortune smile on the "stork derby" mothers in Toronto, Canada, a year ago, but she has also stayed with the four women who split nearly $500,000 from the estate of Chas. Vance Millar, wealthy lawyer.

If Millar thought sad experiences would result from his queer will and gifts of sudden wealth, he was wrong. The four winners of the money he left for the Toronto mother bearing the most children in ten years after his death, apparently have used it conservatively and well.

Each of the four women, who split the $500,000 bequest, had nine children during the ten years. None was rich, and none ever before had a fifth of the $125,000 each received.

"I haven't wasted a penny," says Mrs. Arthur Timleck.

"Not one cent has been spent extravagantly," affirms Mrs. Kathleen Macle.

The money has been preserved "carefully," say the lawyers of a third recipient, Mrs. Isabel MacLean.

Mrs. Annie Smith, the fourth winner, refuse to talk about the money, but neighbours in the Smith's middle-class district say she is just as wise and careful about money as they are themselves. All four mothers are agreed the money has produced happiness.

"We have lived more in this last year than in all the rest of our lives," Mrs. Timleck says, and Mrs. Macle declares: "We were happy before we got the money. The money has brought us a feeling of security, a chance to live in a better district, and a chance to give our children music lessons."

Biography of Dr. A. M. Hill, Formerly of Digby

(Montreal Herald, July 3)

Born in Nova Scotia, Rev. A. M. Hill, Ph.D., D.D., minister of First Presbyterian Church, Verdun, has held posts at various churches in the Maritimes before coming to this city. He was the grandson of the Rev. J. L. Hill, of Hartford, England.

Dr. Hill was educated at Dalhousie University, the University of Illinois, Pine Hill College and the Presbyterian College in this city. He earned his Ph.D. specializing in sociology, in 1910, from the Department of Sociology and history, University of Illinois. His D.D. degree was conferred upon him in 1936 by the local Presbyterian College.

He began his ministry at Digby, N.S., and later held posts at Saint John, N.B., and Yarmouth, N.S. While at Yarmouth he was appointed Chaplain with the rank of Captain, of the 11th Brigade of the Field Artillery and was stationed at their training camp.

Dr. Hill came to this city in 1925, and took charge of a minority group, the result of Church Union. In those days there were no houses beyond Fourth Avenue in Verdun, but realizing that the community was soon to grow, Dr. Hill and the congregation had the church built on its present site on Fifth Avenue. Today it has over 1100 members and has the largest Sunday School in the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

For six years Dr. Hill served on the School Board of Verdun, part of the time acting as chairman. He is a past president of the Religious Educational Council and has held office as moderator of the local Presbytery for one term.

He is chairman of the General Board of Missions of the Presbyterian Church, both Home and Foreign. He also holds the post as Lecturer in Religious Education at the local college.

He has written several books, most of them about Nova Scotia, including "The History of Digby County". His hobby is stamp collecting, his collection containing over 15,000 stamps.

He has three children, Dr. A. C. Hill, Ph.D., of Quebec; Harriet Hill, local journalist, and another daughter, Mary, who is at home.

BIGGEST CITIES

(Hamilton Spectator)

A new "biggest city" poster is that of the second largest city in the Americas. It is not Chicago, Buenos Aires, capital of Argentina, has gained this distinction, its rapid growth in recent years now giving it 3,304,000, as against 3,258,444 for the United States western metropolis. Another South American city, Rio de Janeiro, is among the fifteen urban leaders of the world.

Another poster along these lines, for whatever it is worth, is the statement that Montreal is the second largest French-speaking city. Montreal actually has a larger population than any city in France apart from Paris, heading, as it does, Marcellus. The sister dominion of Australia, however, has one city, Sydney, larger than Montreal, and another, Melbourne, just as large.

The order in size, by latest census is this: London, New York, Tokyo, Berlin, Moscow, Shanghai, Buenos Aires, Chicago, Osaka, Paris, Leningrad, Philadelphia, Vienna and Rio de Janeiro,

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

A LOCAL CAMERA CLUB

Exchange of ideas on picture-taking leads to better pictures and more snapshot fun. Every town should have a camera club.

IN EVERY town where there are several camera fans, there should be a local camera club. Such clubs are of value to anyone who takes pictures and wants to improve his picture-taking.

The camera club brings snapshotters together. It enables them to exchange ideas, and swap experiences. They can work together on problems, hear useful discussions, and organize special events such as picture parties, hikes or excursions. Contact with other camera fans helps each member, for there is always something new to be learned.

In the club, one member may know a great deal about taking snapshots at night. He can advise others on lighting, film and exposure for night snapshots. Another member may own a miniature camera, and specialize in "off-guard" snaps or human-interest pictures of children at play. Still another may know something about sports pictures, or flower pictures. Thus, each member can contribute some knowledge which will help all the others make better snapshots.

So popular and practical are camera clubs that, in the past few years, several thousand have organized on this continent alone. Some clubs have hundreds of members; others, only four or five. But no matter how small, the club is of value. In many instances, the camera club is part of a larger group, such as a Boy Scout troop or woman's club. Often, the club is able to have regular meeting rooms, and members "chip in" to fit out a darkroom with better equipment than each could afford by himself.

Organization of the club is quite simple. Camera fans simply get together, arrange for regular meetings, and plan a series of programs. Literature and suggestions for program material are obtained from various sources—often from manufacturers of cameras and film, who have special departments to supply such material without charge for club use. Picture exhibitions or "criticism nights" are usually planned, and whenever possible, tours, hikes, or other special picture jaunts are arranged. Under the stimulus of these activities, it is small wonder that pictures improve, and the snapshotter gets more fun and benefit from his camera hobby!

The Royal Visit

During the Royal visit to Canada, the 1st Digby Scout Troop decided to go to Halifax to bid farewell to their Majesties on their departure from Canada.

We left for Halifax on the eleven o'clock train on Wednesday, the fifteenth. We travelled all day, singing and playing, to pass away the time, and at last we arrived in Halifax at six o'clock.

We left the train and went to the Immigration Building to get ready for the night. That night we travelled about the city, which was being decked out in flags and bunting for the Royal visit.

The buildings were beautifully decked out with bunting. In the store windows there was also a great amount of decoration.

The next morning we got up bright and early to make ready for the Royal visitors.

We left the Immigration Building at eleven o'clock and marched to a square before the Province House. We waited for quite some time, and about two o'clock we were startled by the sound of a heavy gun. It was the beginning of the firing of the twenty-one gun salute, this signified that their Majesties had arrived. At these sound the people started hurrying. About half-past two their Majesties came to the Province House where we were waiting.

As the Royal car went by there was a terrific din as thousands of people cheered and cheered. The people surged up from behind and we found it necessary to make a fence with our staves.

The Queen was as beautiful and even more so than the papers had proclaimed she was. She was dressed in a blue, almost white, dress, with gloves to match. Her beauty cannot be described with words, she was so beautiful. She smiled at us and it seemed as if she were smiling at me personally. It certainly gave me the greatest thrill of my life.

The King was dressed in a dark coloured uniform with gold braid on his shoulders. He also wore a white-topped military cap. I did not see him as much as I did of the Queen as he was on the opposite side of the car.

After Their Majesties had gone to their hotel we went back to the Immigration Building for our dinners.

After our dinners about four o'clock we left for Citadel Hill, where a pageant was in progress. We Scouts marched to the Garrison Grounds, where the King and Queen were watching the pageant from a stand.

Filling all one side of Citadel Hill were eighteen or twenty-thousand school children from all over Nova Scotia. Below them on the level ground were three thousand Scouts and a large number of Girl Guides. The announcer, using the loud speaker, requested of the children to wave their flags of which each was equipped. Instantly the field was a wave of red, white and blue, it made a very beautiful sight and received a good deal of applause. We Scouts then put our hats on our staves and waved them in the air for a picture.

After Their Majesties left, some of the Digby Scouts got a chance to sit in the King's chair, unfortunately I didn't get the chance. We then went back to the Immigration Building for supper. That was the last I saw of Their Majesties until the "Empress of Britain" all shine and gleamingly white, left the pier.

Hardy Family At the Capitol

Young Mickey Rooney had the time of his life in his first night club scene for a movie. He promptly fell for Virginia Grey, who was one of the glorified beauties in "The Great Ziegfeld," although he was also drawn to her sister, Lorraine, who appeared in the chorus.

In "The Hardys Ride High," showing at the Capitol Theatre, sixth picture of the series, Michel moves from the mythical town of Carvel to Detroit, where the family inherits a fortune. For the first time the son of Judge Hardy sees the night life of a big city and is frightened by it, although he tries to conceal his fear.

The set, a departure from the usual Hardy scenes of domesticity, is the most elaborate and certainly the most spectacular ever built for one of the pictures. Two hundred dress extras provide sophisticated atmosphere for the night club. A thirty-piece orchestra plays current hits and Mickey wears formal clothes and a silk hat for the first time.

A chorus of twelve girls of which Virginia Grey is the leader, includes Marilyn Kinsley and Lee Bailey, both of whom studied dancing as stand-ins for Eleanor Powell.

In "The Hardys Ride High" the family inherits a temporary fortune from the estate of an ancestor of Judge Hardy. They take over the mansion in Detroit and live in luxury briefly but with enthusiasm. Mickey promptly essays to become a young-man-about-town, visits a night club and meets a glamour girl in the chorus. When he calls on her, however, he loses his nerve and runs out.

The familiar Hardy Family continues with Lewis Stone, Cecilia Parker, Fay Holden, Ann Rutherford and Sara Haden. New players in the supporting cast include Minor Watson, John King, John T. Murray, Halliwell Hobbes, George Irving, Aileen Pringle and Marsha Hunt.

The two small Canadian cruisers left first, then the two larger escorts and last but not least, by any means, came the "Empress of Britain". Their Majesties were on board waving their farewells, while three large seaplanes in perfect formation, dived overhead.

There were hundreds of small boats that followed the Royal party out the harbour.

So it was farewell to Their Majesties. "Long may they reign!"

About This and That

Because of the prevailing style of women's footwear, many ailments are being treated at the World's Fair, I am informed. With "spike" heels and other freak features in shoes, the women are unable to walk for any great distance without torture and, in some cases, real foot injuries. And so the foot doctors have official offices on the grounds to give advice, and to make temporary repairs on mistreated toes.

Our banks are full of money, but the public who own that money seem still hesitant about spending it. Unless they do so, trade and commerce cannot be expected to open up and advance into broader fields of trade exploration. The public must be behind business. If it is, then there need be little fear or hesitation about taking bold steps towards development.—Montreal Star.

One learns that if in Germany a family keeps a hen, they are not allowed to eat the eggs that the hen lays. Rather they are obliged to turn the eggs into a central depository and then join the queue to get their egg ration, along with everyone else. So much for regimentation!

As "a contribution toward peace of mind" the Hartford Courant announces that in its future obituary columns, the cause of death will be omitted. It is explained that this new policy may help offset the effect of brooding or gloomy prediction of others, who feel concerned about their health. The policy of the Courant is sensible. It is enough to record that a life has ended. No good purpose will be served by going into a lot of non-essentials.

It may be necessary to restore the hickory rod to the school room, says Dr. Whit Brogan, professor of education in Northwestern University. "An old-fashioned spanking or whaling which closes the incident, is far less harmful to the child than constant psychological hammering," he explains. If either body or mind must be hurt in the effort to make him behave, better the former than the latter. Particularly he deprecates such punishments as nagging, ridicule and isolation of school offenders. They have no educational purpose, he declares, and may result in warped mind and a permanent change of attitude toward the school. A good many old-timers may agree with him. The best way, no doubt, is to avoid both physical and mental violence, but it takes a very good teacher to do that and still get the pupils to do a reasonable amount of work.

For Tennyson's "pilots of the purple twilight dropping down with costly bales," poetically foretold three-quarters of a century ago, we now have pilots of the morning rush, dropping down with business men. Or at least we shall have them soon. And likewise soaring off in the late afternoon to deliver the tired business men aerially to their suburban homes—the same being anywhere from 10 to 500 miles away. This prospect certainly seems more real after the recent series of "rehearsal flights" with an autogiro in Philadelphia, for mail delivery. The giro performed admirably, delivering mail from the Central Airport outside of Camden to the Philadelphia Post Office in six and one-half minutes. The mail truck time is 40 to 45 minutes. Regular service of this type is expected from now on. And what can be done with mail can obviously be done with passengers. It is mainly a matter of providing landing places on the office-building roofs. This is simple for the autogiro, which besides flying horizontally can hover, drop down and rise up like an aerial elevator.

It is pretty well known that ancient Romans were civilized and made quite a bit of progress in business and the fine arts, but few people of this age have suspected how modern they were. Many surprising facts have been discovered in recent excavations of the old Roman seaport of Ostia, at the mouth of the River Tiber. They seem to have had there very much our sort of "culture", including labor rules. Tablets dug from the sand indicate that Ostians went in more strongly for bathing than we do. Their laborers worked six hours a day. They had five-and-ten-cent stores. They were much addicted to divorce, too, although we probably beat them a little in the speed of such proceedings. It took the Ostians two months for a legal separation. Business men employed many office employees, but with this difference—the secretary.

U. S. Submarine Brought Briefly to Surface

With a burst of white foam the nose of the ill-fated U. S. submarine Squalus, broke through the surface of the sea off the New Hampshire coast, where she sank with a loss of 26 lives. The appearance was short-lived, however, as she slipped the pontoons used to raise her from the mud, where she had remained embedded for nearly two months, and slid back into the depths. Most of the work accomplished on the salvage job will now have to be repeated.

It All Depends . .

"What does a columnist think about?" I can hear in my mind's ear several readers saying. "Does a columnist think?" The answer to the latter question is—or had you guessed?—it all depends.

The first question may be countered with another, what do you think about when there is nothing very pressing upon your mind? In church for instance.

Yes, I know that in church one's mind should be concentrated upon the service and what the service means. Subconsciously, however, I fear that the minds of even the most devout stray a little. Bathed in that relaxing sense of peace and all-rightness that weekly, or even more occasional attendance at Sunday service engenders the average mind will wander around.

Mine does. And I'm willing to bet yours does, too!

Sometimes it is the fault of the parson. It was last Sunday. He lapsed into a colloquialism that sounded odd from the pulpit. To illustrate a point he referred to the many delays before the departure of the Children of Israel from Egypt. "But Pharaoh kept on stalling," he said.

Away went my mind from the text and matter of the sermon to a conversation I had had with the reverend gentleman six weeks ago. On that occasion he had referred to some arrangements I was making as being "jake" and with the fatuous indulgence of comparative youth (he is perhaps 25 years my senior) I had mentally patted him upon the back for having the courage to use slang, albeit the slang was twenty years behind the times. By that time my mind was well away from the sermon and I got to thinking about this column. Here is your subject said my mind to me in a quiet voice. "The parson who uses slang although he is a studious, well-read man of more than a considerable education." From this I fashioned, mentally, a column of excuse for the slovenly habits of newspapermen who use the current idiom to express themselves because they are too lazy to belabour their brains for the right word in the right place. It fitted absolutely.

That brought in another chain of thought. Was this use of slang not an excellent example of the care that we writers fail to observe? With us the use of slang means we are too lazy to search the dictionary for the right word. With him it must represent the other side of the medal. He must have rejected the "legitimate" words as not being sufficiently expressive and searched diligently (through the pictorial but less customary vocabularies of the vulgar until he found that which he sought.

In the office we have an unabridged dictionary compiled, originally, by staunch old Noah Webster. So on Monday I thumbed through the pages. And as is so often the case when one tries to pick on another or feels consciously superior, I got my come-uppance!

"Stall, v. i. to stand, to maintain position . . ."

It is not slang at all! So now I must apologize to the parson and in that apology betray my ignorance of the language I make use of to earn my daily bread—all because I have unconsciously said the right thing for many years while thinking I was using slang.

How many expressions do you use without being absolutely sure of their precise meaning?

Anyway, now I'll have to ask the lady of the house to invite the parson to tea so I can abase myself. I shall watch carefully. If the first cup of the soothing beverage does not seem to have him in the right frame of mind another cup pressed upon him until, under the mellowing influence of the beverage upon which the sun never sets, he seems in the frame of mind to exercise forgiveness.

Since I write the last paragraph the weather has taken a change. Not to mince words, it's hot. So I guess the Padre will get iced tea. As a matter of fact "herself" is very good at that. She makes up a quantity in the morning, keeps it in a gallon vacuum jug, just pops an ice cube into a glass when anyone comes in and has a cool drink ready at a moment's notice.

I begin to think I am worrying too much about the parson. As a matter of fact, he will probably laugh the whole thing off—in fact, even, he may be as unaware of Webster's blessing of our slang use of the verb "to stall" as I was. In any event I have an excuse to ask him to tea.

Store Entered Goods Stolen

Walter Scott giving his address as Saint John, N. B., and Frederick Cokell (alias Clarence Williams), of Ontario, were sent up for trial by a superior court at a hearing before Stipendiary George H. Peters, at Digby, on Friday morning last.

The men were arrested in a box car at the D. A. R. station, Weymouth, by R. C. M. P. constables, Rankin, of Digby; McPherson, of Kentville, and Newton, of Bridgetown, who were making an investigation of another case.

In their possession were found articles of ladies' clothing, gloves, sweaters, ties and other merchandise, as well as a sheet of stiff celluloid, about 4x6 inches, hidden in the lining of Williams' cap; a file, an instrument made from the handle of a fork or spoon, and a receipt for a package shipped "express collect" to Clarence Williams, Halifax, from Walter Scott. Seizure of the express package, by Chief Thibault, of Digby, revealed it contained articles of merchandise, mostly dry goods.

Many of the items found in possession of the men and in the express package were identified by William H. Webber, manager of the Royal Department Store, Digby, as coming from that store. Identification was made by private markings. Other items, not marked, Mr. Webber stated, were identical to merchandise carried in his stock.

Mr. Webber stated he was not aware the store had been entered until he was called by the Mounties to identify the articles, as only a few items were taken from the various counters of the store. He valued the goods at approximately $40.

It is alleged entrance was gained by "flipping the lock" with the heavy sheet of celluloid found in the possession of one of the accused. Signed statements from each were admitted in evidence, but not read. Scott protested that the customary warning had not been given him before he made his statement.

Ramblings of a Rolling Stone

Are you having anything resembling an orthodox summer season in Nova Scotia this year? The farmers and dairymen in this part of the world are beginning to wonder if the year Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-nine is to go down on the record as another of the "Summerless Years" which we sometimes hear about but have seldom seen. There is an exceedingly heavy crop of hay but there haven't been two fine days in succession for weeks, and the crop is lodging and rotting on the ground. So far the season has been much cooler than usual. A dairyman, whose farm is only a couple of miles outside the city limits, told me a few days ago that there had been frequent frosts in his neighborhood during the month of June and as a result much of his crop of garden truck was badly stunted and some well nigh destroyed.

Letters which have come to me from the Prairie Provinces, tell of the transformation of a dust bowl into a mud bath. I sincerely hope that there will soon be a change to drier weather as too much rain usually spells rust, which is often a more costly condition than drought.

The fourth of July festivities, which took the form of a Pioneer Celebration this year, is already numbered with those things which are but memories. The Queen chosen to preside over the festivities, must have been a close student of Mother Goose's Melodies, because I have been given to understand that, lacking the "Bread and Honey" which that famous Queen is supposed to have eaten "in the parlour", our temporary sovereign substituted pretzels for the bread while the amber fluid, which is said to have given Milwaukee a place in the sun replaced the golden sweetness of Apollonian industry. O, Tempora! Mores, hic Jacet and Odds Bodkins! The coronation was delayed until "Her Majesty" could be escorted from one of the local juice dispensaries to the coronation chair.

Some time ago I sent a friend in Digby County, a clipping from one of the papers published in this state, in which was recorded the story of the nomination and the election of a mule in the elections of last November. As this actually happened, I thought it might prove sort of interesting to the recipient; but no, with all the nonchalance of a Senator Soper or a Judge Puffie, back came the answer:—"That's Nothing, We Elect Jackasses Here." I was much amused by the prompt and pointed rejoinder, but it was not till recently, that I came to the conclusion that my correspondent had really made a bull's eye. The passing in review of some of the "Choices of the People" whom I have known, convinced me that the statement contained more of truth than of jest.

"G. R. T." in the interesting account of his recent travels, spoke of some of the "Ghosts of Cities" once hives of industry, but which today are civic Rip Van Winkles, with perhaps somewhat less chance of awakening than had that henpecked hero of the Catskills. There are a number of ghost towns in this vicinity, towns which once were busy centers of the lumber industry; but there is one, Willapa, which is unique among ghost cities in that it never existed outside the minds of a group of scoundrels who sold much imaginary real estate in the non-existent city. I have made a somewhat diligent inquiry as to the supposed location of that incorporated will-o-the-wisp—a country seat, in fact—but have never been able to get more than the fact that it was supposed to have been located somewhere on the shores of the Willapa River between the city of South Bend and the Pacific Ocean.

A number of elderly people in the Middle West invested a large part of their savings in Willapa real estate, and coming to spend their declining days in what they fondly hoped would be a new and a better home, were dismayed to find that the Mecca toward which their aged steps were turned, had neither past, present nor future. I have known of the sale of stocks and bonds of mythical companies; of the investing in mines which were minus: of the buying of liquid building sites, but I do not recall ever having heard of so widespread a selling of shares in a city which was no more substantial than "The Flying Dutchman" or the "Drake Estate."

Yacht "Norwester" Wins Annual St. John to Digby Race

Her sails filled by a healthy breeze from the south west, Fred Brock's trim little yacht "Norwester" poked her nose out of the fog off Point Prim Light, near the entrance of Digby Gut, shortly before noon Saturday, crossing the finish line at the Digby pier half an hour later, to win the third annual yacht race from Saint John to Digby.

The Norwester was followed by the 42 year old yacht Canada, in command of that capable veteran Fred S. Haines, crossing the line by one minute ahead of James W. Barnes' "Zetes".

Next to finish was George Killam's "Kabob" which crossed from Yarmouth to Saint John to enter the race. The Kabob beat out J. McG. Grant's "Pelican" by 20 minutes. H. L. Marcus' "Wu Yuan" did not show up for two hours later, having got off her course in the thick Bay of Fundy fog, sighting land at Gulliver's Cove, several miles below the Digby Gut.

Official times, ratings and allowances were as follows:

Yacht	Rating	Allowance in sec. per naut. mile	Time
Norwester	25.7	249.71	5.45
Canada	37	178.74	6.24
Zetes	35.1	188.74	6.25
Kabob			7.09
Pelican	30.9	212.21	7.29
Wu Yuan	35.6	185.65	9.37

The first race of the series for the Digby Board of Trade Cup was run three years ago, and won by the "Zetes". Last year's race was won by the "Whistler", which did not enter this year.

With the exception of the "Kabob" (one of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron) all boats were members of the Royal Kennebecasis Yacht Club of Saint John, which club originated the series of races, open to all clubs in the Maritime Provinces. The prize is a cup, donated by the Digby Board of Trade, and held by each winner for one year. The American yacht "Heart's Desire", in Saint John, expected to enter the race Saturday, but due to unexpected developments at the last minute, was forced to withdraw.

Visiting yachtmen and members of the Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club of Digby, were entertained by the Digby Board of Trade at a sea food dinner in the Myrtle Hotel, Digby, Saturday evening, at which James J. Wallis, president of the Digby Board of Trade, presided.

A toast to the King was followed by an address of welcome by S. S. Aymar, Mayor of Digby. A toast to the Royal Kennebecasis Yacht Club, proposed by T. E. G. Lynch, Digby, and responded by James W. Barnes, ex-commander of the R. K. Y. C.

The Board of Trade Cup was presented to Fred Brock, owner of the winning yacht, by Commodore James W. Merkel, of the Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club.

Other addresses were given by H. L. Marcus, Fred S. Haines, George Killam, Channing LeFebvre (ex-commander of the Digby Club); P. G. Worsley, G. M. Morrell, and others. Channing LeFebvre was song leader for the evening's entertainment.

Pollock Fishing Great Fun

Pollock are very plentiful in the Gut. And are they affording our visitors a good time. The amateur fishermen are meeting with the greatest of luck, some of the parties landing as much as 400 pounds in one tide. This form of fishing is a revelation to dozens of our visitors, who never realized what excitement could be got from deep sea fishing until they tried this. The fish are large and as sporty as salmon. They put up a good fight and give the angler fishing with a rod all the thrills he could wish for. We heard of one party very recently—from Oklahoma—who were in town for a few hours. They were "killing time" when a boatman suggested they have a sail. They did so and were given the opportunity to catch a few fish. They decided to stay another day then another and finally have decided to stay until September 15. If the pollock run continues that length of time, Pollock fishing is great fun, and it is fun of which Digby County seems to have a monopoly in Nova Scotia.

PROSPERITY ASSURED

To the Editor of the Courier.

Dear Sir:—We of Digby need have no anxiety for the future. Our prosperity is assured. Our "city fathers" and those other illustrious gentlemen in whose able hands our destiny is firmly grasped—so firmly that at times we almost fear that their loving care will throttle us—have worked out a perfect scheme for our success. In a few words it is this:

"Take all the money possible out of Digby, but do not, under any circumstances, put any money in to Digby."

The most outstanding example of this system at work, of recent date, may be seen at one of our institutions.

We most of us know that we have amongst us, a few specimens of that rare bird the House-painter and Decorator. Some of these strange creatures have even gone so far as to build their nests in the town—on which they pay taxes—and it is reasonable to suppose that they peck a little nourishment from the counters of local merchants, to the benefit of the merchants.

But, when there is painting to be done in Digby, the Great Moguls, following the "Prosperity Programme", send the work, and our money, out of town;

If the work had been kept in the Municipality it would not have been so bad, because we do get a Municipal Grant.

Of course, it is very daring of us to voice an opinion in this matter, since we have not got the brains, foresight, or ability of the Great Moguls, and it may be that they plan on sending all the work out of Digby, and then taking the hat round Annapolis County, King's County, Colchester County, Hants County, and taking up a collection to pay our taxes, and our fuel bill, and our food bills, and our doctor's bills, and our clothing bills, etc., while we lie back on silken cushions at our ease, murmuring as we fall into a dreamless slumber, "God bless the Great Moguls".—Maybe!

Earle Spicer to Sing 600-Year-Old Ballad on CBC

Earle Spicer, well-known baritone, who again this week will appear as guest artist, on Marjorie Payne's CBC "Acadian Serenade" program, will offer among his five selections a unique Scottish ballad that dates back to about the year 1300.

The song is "Lord Randal" arranged by Cyril Scott. The story is that some 600 years ago when Bruce was King of Scotland, and always at war with the English, one of his generals died suddenly and mysteriously during a critical battle. The general was Lord Randal, and history records that his sweetheart poisoned him.

The traditional ballad depicts Lord Randal coming home to his mother, dying.

"Acadian" Serenade" is heard on the National Network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation from 8.00 to 8.30 p. m., Atlantic Standard Time, tomorrow, (Friday).

Shippers, Lines

Reach Decision

Representatives of the steamship lines operating out of the port of Halifax, struck a new high note of co-operation in their dealings with Annapolis Valley shippers at Digby, on Friday, when in the interests of orderly export movement of apples they definitely committed themselves to a policy of restriction tonnage of cargoes for markets already overloaded.

The definite assurance of the steamship interests that overload of boats—long a bone of contention with Valley shippers—would be discontinued during the 1939-40 season, was given, following a joint discussion staged during the semi-annual meeting of the Canadian trans-Atlantic freight companies held at the Pines Hotel, Digby.

Expressing appreciation of the action taken by the conference, Herbert Oyer, of Kentville, President of the Nova Scotia Apple Shippers' Association, in an interview with the Halifax Chronicle, following the meeting, declared it to be a very co-operative measure and should be, he believed, a major factor in the orderly marketing of this year's export crop.

Declaring Friday's meeting of the transportation companies and apple shippers to be one of the finest ever held, Mr. Oyer said all parties showed a praiseworthy, co-operative spirit that should result in material benefits to all.

BALL GAMES

Ravens Again Defeat Seniors

With good support by his teammates, Frank Raymond scored his first win in three starts, blanking the Seniors Monday night of last week, 7-0. It was the second win for the Ravens over the Seniors, both by the shut-out route. What the Ravens have been expecting for a long time, happened at last, the game was called on account of lost balls. Five full innings had been played, however, so the game goes on record.

Bowby pitched four innings for the Seniors, being relieved in the fifth by "Bud" Winchester, but the Ravens were too friendly with his offerings, getting five hits for four runs, before he retired the side with two strikeouts.

Leading the batting attack for the Ravens, was "Tic" Collins, who broke into the batting averages for the first time this year, with a perfect record for the game. In three times at bat he singled, got a double, then got the first homer that has been seen in the "bowl" for a couple of years. He also drove in three runs.

Winchester and Daley replaced Bowby and Graves in 5th. Umpire: Bill McNeil; base umpire, "Tickle" Collins.

Bear River Defeats Ravens

Two batters went the route for the Ravens, Tuesday night of last week, at Bear River, as the Bear River team topped the Ravens 8-7. To achieve that eight run total, Bear River unleashed one of the heaviest batting attacks seen there for some time, placing hits all over that field, which in the Ravens' opinion, is far worse than their own famed "bowl".

Walter McBride started pitching for the Ravens, and for three innings, it looked like a certain win for Digby, but the Bear River bats were dynamite, not mere wood. At the end of the third, Digby led 5-1. At the end of the 4th, in one of the wildest innings this season, Bear River came out on top 6-5. Frank Raymond then relieved McBride, and struck out seven batters, but received very poor support from his team-mates.

In the 6th, Digby rallied to better Bear River, 7-6, but Bear River kept pounding out hits to score two more runs, which led, Digby could not overcome.

From the fans' point of view, this game had everything.

Bear River:—McCormick, 2b; Harris, 1b; Hill, rf; Purdy, p; Frazer, lf; Harris, 3b; Henshaw, c; Parker, cf; Cress, ss.

Digby:—VanTassell, cf; Raymond, 2b; Winchester, 3b; Mulise, lf; McBride, p; Collins, 1b; Clark, ss; Turnbull, rf; Golden, c; F. Raymond replaced McBride, and Ken Newell replaced Golden. Umpire, David Daley.

Ravens Clip Seniors, 2-1

Walter McBride got his second straight win over the Seniors, on Monday night, as the Ravens clipped them 2-1. It was the third win for the Ravens over the Seniors, in four games, the scores being: 1-4, 11-0, 7-0 and 2-1.

Monday night's game was by far the closest and also the most interesting. Both pitchers turned in good performances, and the fielding of both teams was better than usual. The Ravens made one error, and the Seniors made two.

"Bud" Winchester allowed seven hits and fanned seven, while McBride allowed five hits and fanned eleven.

The Ravens scored a run in the first inning, then one in the fifth, while holding the Seniors to two safe hits and no runs. Going into the seventh, the Seniors rallied to make it one of the most exciting and close finishes seen here this season. There were two out when Fred Harvie got a hit that brought Jack Keen flying over the plate for the Senior's first run, then, with the score 2-1, and two men on bases, "Tickle" Collins made a great catch of Normand's hit to end the game and a threatening rally.

Dave Clarkson led the Ravens' attack with two hits, and also picked up two hot grounders. Paul Winchester batted in the two runs, one with a sacrifice hit. The game was played very quickly, taking only about an hour to play.

Bear River Defeated by Ravens

After a very shaky first inning, the Ravens settled down to defeat Bear River 9-4, at the "bowl" last Friday night. It was the first defeat Bear River has suffered at the hands of the Ravens, in three starts this season, although it was the most decisive.

The other scores were 4-3 and 8-7.

Frank Raymond started on the mound for the Ravens, but he was tagged for eight safeties, and that, coupled with the four errors that were made by his mates, while he was in, brought in four runs. During the four innings he worked, he got six strikeouts. In the fifth inning Walter McBride replaced him, and allowed only one safe hit, fanning two, getting credit for the win.

Brilliant fielding in the last three innings by the Ravens, robbed Bear River of many hits, as the Ravens rallied to tie the score in the fifth, then went out front in the sixth.

Langley, the Bear River hurler, scored six strikeouts and allowed only eight hits, but was given poor support by his team-mates as an outstanding total of fourteen errors was piled up.

Everett McCormick and Jack Harris led the Bear River attack with two hits each, while Arthur Golden led the Digby rally with a single and a double.

Ratepayers to Vote On Resolutions

Ratepayers of the Town of Digby will be given an opportunity to vote on one of two resolutions, or both, with a view to improving the water situation at Digby. The date of the meeting has been set by a special session of the Town Council, for August 8.

The first resolution asks their approval for the borrowing of a sum not to exceed $30,000 "for the purpose of extending and improving the water system for the town by the construction of 8 inch pipe line from Lily Lake to the 10 inch pipe line to the town, and for the purpose of acquiring or purchasing materials, machinery and implements deemed advisable therefore."

The second resolution calls for the borrowing of a sum not exceeding $10,000 to be used for the purpose of altering or improving the water system by the installation of water meters.

Early this spring Digby ratepayers voted on the first resolution, and turned down the proposal by a large majority with the argument that the shortage of water was largely due to wastage by consumers.

New Vessel Leaves For Far North

A sturdy little wooden ship, 70 feet long and powered by a diesel engine which send it along at seven or eight knots, left Meteghan very recently on its maiden voyage. Before it returns to Nova Scotia, the ship will have travelled several thousand miles far into the north land. It is named the Nouveau Quebec. On the trip north the craft will visit a dozen mission stations to drop supplies and in during the voyage a group of scientists will gather data on plant life. These, briefly, are the two main objects of the voyage. The boat will have to travel close to dangerous shores, along uncharted coast and among treacherous reefs. It will have to push its way through ice fields.

Three priests are aboard. They are Father Arthème Dutilly, O. M. I., research associate at the Catholic University of America at Washington, D. C., who is the head of the expedition and who owns the craft in the name of the Oblate Missionaries of Montreal; Father Hugh O'Neill, assistant professor of Botany at the same university and curator of the herbarium; and Father Maximilian Duman, O. S. B., of St. Vincent's College, Latrobe, Pa., who is doing research work for his Doctor of Philosophy degree, and whose material will be collected during the trip.

Scientists in addition include: Dr. G. Gardner B.A., L.S.C., D.Sc., associate professor of Biology at the University of Montreal; and his assistant, Brian Wilmet, of the Catholic High School, Montreal.

Skipper of the craft is Captain James O'Hearn, of Quebec City, who has been north along the same route half a dozen times before. He has six men as crew. They are: Nelson Pothier, Surrette's Island, Yarmouth County, engineer; R. Goulet, Moosonee, Ont.; G. Lortie, Montreal; J. LeClaire, Roxton Falls, P. Q.; A. Puras, Hudson Bay Junction, Sask.; E. Blais, Quebec City.

The ship is registered at Weymouth and has two sticks, but the skipper said he did not expect to use the sails except in good weather or in an emergency. Ship to shore radio-telephone will enable the scientists to keep in touch daily with government stations at Nottingham Island, Port Harrison and the ship N. B. MacLean. The Department of Marine always keeps close contact with the ship. Father Dutilly said. The Nouveau Quebec was built at Meteghan by the Meteghan Shipbuilding Company.

From Nova Scotia the craft will proceed north through the Strait of Belle Isle, then along the Labrador coast. Here many stops will be made while the needs of the many missions will be filled as far as possible.

A Satisfying Souvenir of a Satisfying Vacation.

When in Nova Scotia, Americans do as the Nova Scotians do—that is, they drink Morse's Standard Tea, the Good Old Family Tea of the Maritimes, with the result that they become so attached to this tea that many pounds are carried back to the United States each Fall. A cup of Morse's Standard Tea taken during a winter's evening reminds the tea drinker of the happy days spent in Nova Scotia during the summer, and at the same time is gratifying to the palates of their family and friends.

Morse's Standard Tea is the tea that has made Nova Scotia's meals famous. The very reasonable price on this great tea means that it may be bought in sufficient quantity to last a whole year. 58 cents per pound buys the Standard Blend, 70 cents per pound buys the choice Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe Tea.

Visitors to Nova Scotia are reminded that they may take back Morse's Tea to those who could not come this year, and a more appropriate gift could scarcely be found.

Shipbuilders See Revival Of Days of McKay

(By Leon V. Stone, in The Christian Science Monitor)

Shipbuilding, which was once the chief industry of New England's seacoast as well as of the American metropolis—New York—is on the verge of the greatest peace-time boom in the history of this country.

Latest evidence of the progress of the impending boom is the initial sailing from New York, a few days ago of the new cargo-passenger motorship, Donald McKay, just built at Chester, Pa., first of the C-2 type of vessels ordered by the United States Maritime Commission and assigned for operation to the American Scantic Line.

Moore & McCormack, Inc., are the operators of the line and the sailing adds the port of Oslo, Norway, to the eastbound itinerary of the line, and the ports of Bergen and Stavanger to the west-bound itinerary.

On June 1, a total of 129 vessels aggregating 631,850 gross tons, were under construction or contracted for, in American shipyards, and the auspicious program of the United States Maritime Commission calls for turning out 50 ships a year for a decade. Never before has so large a "planned" program been attempted in this country.

Already the first few ships in the Maritime Commission's plan have been launched. One of them, the Donald McKay, was named for the "Chief of Master Shipbuilders," who designed and built the fast clipper ships that made Old Glory a symbol of the world's commerce and the United States the mistress of the seas. In the golden era of 1840-1860, when "iron men sailed in wooden ships," America turned out vessel after vessel to sail the seven seas. They were second to none in the world, and brought fame and fortune to their builders and owners.

Donald McKay's fast clippers and most of his other ships were built at East Boston, and the home that he built for himself and family on White Street, with all the skill and attention to detail that characterized his ships, stands to-day as a monument to his success.

The new cargo-passenger motorship Donald McKay, was built at Chester, Pa., for the American Scantic Line, owned by Moore-McCormack Lines Inc. She inaugurates a direct service to Norway, characterized by a speed as high as 16 to 17 knots an hour. The craft measures 435 feet long, overall; 63 feet beam, and 8,875 deadweight tons.

But this is not the first vessel to bear the name Donald McKay. The first was a clipper ship, built by Donald McKay himself, at East Boston, in 1854. This ship carried about 16,755 yards of canvas and set speed records for that day as well as holding the distinction for many years of being the largest sailing vessel afloat.

The modern Donald McKay is a motorship, but the era of steamers had its Donald McKay, too, for in 1920, the United States Shipping Board finished a steamer of that name, as one of the links in the bridge of ships that were ordered during the World War. That Donald McKay, too, was built at Chester, Pa., and was 400.7 feet long, 54.2 feet beam and 30.2 feet depth. It has since gone the way of so many of the War-built fleet—to the junkyard.

The first Donald McKay, however, was of special interest. Strange as it may seem, she was built to order for an English shipping company and the name was given to her by the English owners. She was one of the quartette of famous clippers—the Lightning, the Jamez Baines, the Champion of the Seas, and the Donald McKay—built for England.

A native of Shelburne, Nova Scotia, Donald McKay came to New York as a lad of 16, worked in shipyards, made many friends, and later went to Newburyport, Mass., where he finished the ship, Della Walker of 427 tons for John Currier, Jr. He went into business there and about 1844 moved to East Boston, established a shipyard at the foot of Border Street, where his first ship was the Washington Irving, built for Train & Co., in their White Diamond Line service.

SAILING YACHT CAPSIZES

"Billy" Ganong, young owner-skipper of one of the Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club's boats, and his cousins, Frances and Anne Ganong, of Saint John, received a cold ducking in the Annapolis Basin, when the craft suddenly capsized. The trio were waiting for Dr. T. L. Rogers to bring them to shore in his dory, when the boat suddenly upset. Young Ganong was on one side of the craft, and the girls on the other. She turned over on Ganong's side. He says there was an impact as though something rose from under the boat, and struck it.

His yacht was in class 2, in Sunday's race, with Arthur Weyhe's boat coming in second. In the first class for larger boats, "Ted" Walker took first place, and Dr. T. L. Rogers, second.

Mrs. A. A. Hooper

Mrs. Addie Allalie Hooper, a native of Sandy Cove, and resident there most of her life, died at her home, early Monday morning, July 17th, after an illness of several weeks. She would have been 79 years of age in November. She was the widow of Rev. T. C. Hooper, who came from England to Nova Scotia in 1882, and who died while pastor of the Middleton Methodist Church, in 1891. During Mrs. Hooper's latter years she was crippled with arthritis and unable to move from her chair, but she carried on as brightly and bravely as if she were well, and lived a far richer life than many. She was always interested in people, and visitors who came to see her by the score, were entertained by her delightful conversation, her ready wit. No hint of her suffering ever escaped her, no unkind criticism ever crossed her lips; her courage and cheerfulness, her kindly sympathy, her interest in everything about her, from the birds which visited the garden to world-wide affairs, made her an interesting companion. Her hands were always busy, with some piece of work. Her interest in the Methodist Church, of which she had always been a member, was unflagging, and in all good works she gave of herself. Mrs. Hooper leaves a son, Harold, resident in the United States. Her only daughter, Miss Florence Hooper, died in 1919, since when a sister, Miss Annie E. Eldridge, had made her home with Mrs. Hooper, and cared for her to the end. Mrs. Hooper's life of patient, cheerful resignation, was not only a testimony to her deep religious and spiritual faith, but an inspiration to all her many friends, whose lives have been enriched and blessed by knowing her.

Samuel P. Saulnier

Samuel P. Saulnier, a teamster for various Gloucester, Mass., concerns, and recently a wharf worker for the Gordon-Pew Fisheries Company, died last week, after an illness of a week, at the age of 64 years. Born at Meteghan, Digby County, son of Peter and Jane (Sounier) Saulnier, he went to Gloucester at the age of 17 years. He married Eva J. Langley, who died seven years ago. Surviving are: a son, Everett J., of Gloucester; three grandchildren; three brothers, Henry, of Gloucester; Philip and Alfred, of Nova Scotia; and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Xavier, of Nova Scotia. The funeral was held from the home of Mrs. Robert Fralick, 15 Wheeler St., where the deceased resided, with a solemn requiem high mass at St. Ann's Church at 9 o'clock, and burial at Calvary cemetery.

SOLICITING COMMITTEE FOR HOSPITAL FAIR

At a special meeting of the convenors of Hospital Fair Booths, held last week, a committee was formed to solicit the local merchants for their usual donations for the Fair. This committee, composed of Mrs. D'Arcy Roop, Mrs. Kimball and Mrs. Conrad, will visit the merchants during the first week in August.

After the donations have been collected the convenors will again meet to distribute the articles among the various booths. It is hoped that this system will save the merchants from the frequent calls for contributions which have been made upon them in previous years, since this committee is the only authorized body to visit the stores in the interest of the Hospital Fair.

taries, clerks and typists were all men. There were many streets of little shops containing small compartments for the sale of all sorts of things, the first department stores. The whole place in its general plan strikingly resembled an American city. The strangest thing about that civilization was that the statesmen worked harder than other people.

What a blessing it would be—and what a relief!—if in the coming election Canada could be spared the spectacle of a horde of politicians rushing about all over the land promising everything from wharves to waffles. Nova Scotia, for example, elected its quota of representatives to the Federal House in 1935—and with certain notable exceptions, they have been mum as oysters. But now that elections are coming on again they are beginning to display an amazing activity, and before long they will be campaigning for votes in the good old-fashioned way. There is, of course, nothing reprehensible in campaigning for votes. But when votes and place and power and patronage get first call, it is no unkindness to say that politics has developed into a scramble. This year we celebrate the 75th anniversary of the original Confederation Conference. Canada is growing up—and the politicians should put away childish things. For it is peculiarly childish, this business of promising and pledging everything under the sun—in this pouring out of public money at election time—in a frantic bid for votes. If school children did anything half as silly, they would be sent to bed without their supper.—Ex.

The Royal Visit

As we passed the Joggins Bridge we saw lots of boats. Some bridges we passed was high and some low. We had to stop at every station. To get more people on. One place we passed was "The Land of Evangeline." We saw ducks, water lilies, the statue of the Evangeline. On the side of the track were fires. Some places had banks so the water would not flood the land. I saw lots of animals, I saw two young deers. After we got home we went to bed and threw orange peelings. We went to sleep about 10.00 o'clock.

At last Their Majesties. We started to cheer when they came. They went in a room and stayed a little while. They came out and the Queen touched me. The King and Queen were more beautiful than you could ever imagine. We went home and ate our dinner. We went up to the Old Fort and went in. An officer showed us a room where the men who wouldn't obey were put. The bed was all wood. No chairs, no table. So they would not hit any body who came in. I went home and went to bed and slept until half-past one. But let me tell you something, I had a very good time.

I was waiting and waiting a long time, and at last the day came. Mr. Walker took us to the station. I asked "Dick" to hold a bottle of ringer ale and he dropped it and it broke to pieces. When we were about to Bridgetown Norman Wright and David Clarkson got a couple of girls, and Dr. Turnbull's wife and daughter came in and got with them to keep them out of trouble.

When we came out of the show we took a street car to Immigration Buildings. Then we went to our room got in bed and threw raisins and orange peel around the room. When we awakened we washed ourselves and got our breakfast. We sat on the right side of the steps and the women on the left side of the stairs. It was very tiresome waiting for the King and Queen to come.

Then our leader took us up to

(Statement by Social Service Council)

The Social Service Council supports the churches in teaching that gambling is an insidious antisocial vice, and not in accord with the principles of the Gospel. We have distributed thousands of leaflets dealing with this question from an educational standpoint. The law against gambling "serves to educate the public conscience into the conviction that certain ways of gaining property or money are against a citizen's honor and standing."

1. There is flagrant violation of the law by some societies and organizations. It is overlooked that membership in a society or organization, however beneficial, does not carry with it license to ignore the law.

2. Under the guise of charity and religion the law is violated. Unfortunately, the law permits "raffles for prizes of small value at a bazaar held for any charitable or religious object"—but tickets cannot be sold or bought for a "drawing" except at such bazaar and not in advance of the bazaar, nor until the articles have first been offered for sale. This unethical permission to gamble will be annulled.

Again the gambling mania is fostered by officials who regard with indifference the provisions of the law.

When we first found out we were going to Halifax, I was so excited that the day did not seem to come fast enough. But it soon passed when it did get here.

When we got on the train we were planning on a long day, but we got to the station at Halifax around 6 o'clock. We went to the Immigration shed where we were showed where to sleep, where we slept soundly that night and woke up about half-past six in the morning.

After breakfast we went down to see the Empress of Britain. Then were told to line up to march to the Province House and lined up on the steps where we could see the King and Queen, very good.

When they came up the steps we cheered so loud and loud that we were all hoarse. The Queen was so beautiful we had to catch our breath so as not to choke. Then they were taken into a room where we could not see them as well.

When we got to Halifax we lined up and marched down long corridors and into the Immigration Buildings. The next day we lined up on the pier and marched to the Province House and lined up on the stairs when the King and Queen came we shouted as loud as we could. Thought the Queen was very pretty, but the King did not look very well. In the afternoon we went to the Fort and had special permission to go in, and we saw a bed where they kept prisoners. Then we went down to a tunnel and out in the mode and went into the other side and into some more tunnels and they had gun holes so when the enemies came down ladders they could shoot them down. That night we went down on the pier and watched the boats go out the harbour. The King and Queen were on the bridge and the Queen was waving her handkerchief. There were about thirty or forty boats following her. Three big bombers were to escort her out and four battle ships. Two belonged to Canada and two belonged to England.

After that we went up in the Immigration shed and slept for awhile. We slept all the way home and Mr. Walker got his car and took some of the Cubs home. I

CAMERAS as farm implements—that seems a novel idea. And yet, on a progressive farm, a camera can render unique, highly practical service.

I am not referring to snapshots for pleasure. Of course, everybody knows there are innumerable snapshot opportunities on a farm—beautiful sunset shots across the tiled fields, pleasant pasture scenes with stock grazing or drinking from a cool stream, story-tellers' snaps such as a hen mothering her brood—all sorts of chances, at any season. But there's another aspect to farm photography—the extremely valuable, practical aspect of keeping farm records.

Clear, detailed records play an important part in farm operations today, and usually pictures can make these records even more clear and serviceable. If your lower sixty acres makes a good crop this year, a picture will prove it. If hail damages the roof of your new barn, a picture can show the exact nature and extent of the damage. Records of livestock growth, new building construction, crops and crop diseases, planting and harvesting operations, new equipment—all these, and more, can well be kept in picture form.

Will the Meter System Be a Cure?

A warning has been issued from the office of Harold A. Nichols, Town Clerk of Digby, requesting water users not to water their lawns and gardens, and not to use any more water than necessary or any purpose, due to a shortage of water in the town.

For the past several summers the water situation in the Town of Digby has been more or less acute. Although there appears a plentiful supply in Lily Lake, the source of the town's supply, much difficulty is experienced in keeping the reservoir filled.

A proposal to run another pipeline from the lake to reservoir was turned down by Digby ratepayers by a large majority this spring, the consensus of opinion being the shortage was not due to lack of water, or to the fact that the present pipe line could not bring in enough to supply the needs of the town, but was due almost solely to wastage of water by consumers, particularly the larger users.

In an effort to correct this wastage, the Nova Scotia Board of Public Utilities is now considering a proposal to have water meters installed in the town.

Watch Feeding Of Foxes

During the summer months fox and mink ranchers should be on guard against the possibility of feeding spoiled feeds to their fur bearing animals, as they are very susceptible to food poisoning. Meats especially may soon become unfit for food unless properly handled and cared for. Meats in storage should be kept in a suitable refrigerator or ice box. Ice boxes and feed houses must be kept cleaned and ventilated. Meat grinders and feeding utensils must also be kept thoroughly cleaned. Ranchers should watch carefully.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Peoples Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and peepish.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today.

About This and That

Another impediment to marriage, says the Wall Street Journal, is the increasing difficulty in supporting the government and a wife on one income.

The word of power politics grows more like Alice's Looking Glass with every passing day. It is crowded with Tweedledums saying "I know what you're thinking about, but it isn't so, nohow," and Tweedle dees answering "Contrariwise, if it was so, it might be; and if it were so, it would be; but as it isn't, it ain't. That's logic."—Baltimore Sun.

A shower of conflicting figures breaks the silence that has cloaked the war in Mongolia. What is correct is unimportant. The vital point is that Japan has been waging war with Russia—or a subsidiary of the Soviet Union, the Mongolian People's Republic—thus giving a clear indication of what her ambitions are in the Far East should she ever succeed in subjugating China. There is no reason now to doubt that Japan's aim is the domination of all eastern Asia from the Arctic circle to the Dutch East Indies.

At the recent Ottawa Conservative Convention, Robert Bond, 89 years old, said he had first become a party adherent at the age of 14, and his advice to young men was to join a party, take an interest in public affairs, and help fellow Canadians to advance the good of their country. One hears a lot, today, of the ins and the outs, and assertions to the general effect that there is really not much difference between the two. But that is beside the point! If our parliamentary system, if a government of free men and women is to stand, there must be party divisions. There must be differing schools of thought, with the right and the privilege of giving fullest expression to these convictions. If there is no difference between the ins and the outs, what then? There must be some source of authority. It would come, in the shape of a dictator. And then, to quote Abraham Lincoln, government of the people, by the people and for the people, would indeed have perished from the earth.

"Religion has no longer a place in the Nazi state," says the New Glasgow Evening News.—According to the Nazi magazine, Nordland, the study of theology is "without value and unnecessary." Three of Germany's sixteen Protestant theological schools were ordered to close by October 1. Churchmen see in this a move to push religion to the wall. It is not directed against any single religion, but against religion in general, as the recent foul attacks on Cardinal Innitzer prove. One wonders what those who, like Dean Inge, saw in the Nazis a barrier defending Christianity against the Red menace feel now. The truth is, says the Sydney Post-Record, that there is more danger to churches in the Nazi doctrine which seeks to steal Christianity and use it for its own unholy purposes than in the openly atheistic doctrines of Communism. And there is danger to Nazi supremacy in the survival of Christianity. Christianity cannot be defended merely by material weapons. It is spiritual and must hold its own and achieve its purpose by spiritual ends. The Nazi and Communist challenges may reawaken Christians to this truth, which Christ expressed when he rebuked Peter for drawing a sword, cutting off the ear of the High Priest's servant, saying, "Put up again thy sword into his place for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." But the determined resistance of the German Christians of all denominations to the brutal tyranny of the Nazis shows the strength of arms of the spirit. The power which has sustained Martin Niemöller through more than two years of imprisonment is one with which even Hitler must reckon. Despite the fact that the German court found Niemöller guilty of an offence against his country, he still languishes in a Gestapo concentration camp and has given up hope of release while Hitler retains power. Hitler is said to have declared to those who sought the gallant pastor's release: "It is Niemöller or I." He could not have stated the issue more squarely. Eventually the German people must choose between the rampant materialism with its inevitable aggression, which Hitler typifies and the Christian ideal of which Niemöller is so worthy an exponent.

The Yarmouth Light, in an editorial comment last week, showed how the city press of this province totally ignores the rest of Nova Scotia—particularly the western portion—when it comes to news of interest to the tourist. For instance

Weighty Section of Ontario's Meteorite Brings $4.00

An 88-pound section of the meteorite which flashed across the mass of astral rock, largest western Ontario on the night of July 11, testifying many observers and stirring considerable interest among astronomers and scientists, was found on the Kent country farm of Daniel Solomon, near Dresden, Ont. Solomon sold the piece yet found of the meteorite, to Dr. Luke Smith, (upper right), of Chatham, Ont., for $4. It has been valued by experts at approximately $200, and ranks as one of the largest meteorite sections ever found in North America. At (left), Charles Ross, Dresden newspaper publisher is pictured with the meteorite which he "borrowed" to exhibit in the window of his publishing establishment. A closeup of the blackened pitted fragment is shown at (right).

Clothes From Coal and Lime on The Horizon

(Special to the Christian Science Monitor)

London—Coal and lime are now being used to produce "cotton" and "wool." This is the latest advance developed by researchers in substitutes. These latest substitutes may replace the so-called "cotton" and "wool" now made from vegetables and dried milk.

Even so, European chemists are not so advanced in the theory and practice of improving on nature as some of those in the Orient. Japan is making wool from the seaweed with which its coasts are plentifully supplied. The Toho Artificial Fiber Company of Tokyo turns out five tons of artificial wool a day made from seaweed.

The Japanese indeed, seem to specialize in what might appear to be far-fetched substitutes.

A leather is being made in Japan from human hair and the plastic material called bakelite. Leather is also made from the skin of whales, sharks, and salmon. During 1938 Japan made 15,000,000 yards of synthetic leather in addition to 50 tons from whale skin, 1,000,000 sheets from shark skins, and 300,000 yards from salmon skins. Denmark is another country producing "fish" leather.

A 13,000-ton Japanese ship for a round-the-world service is now under construction which will have no steel except for the hull and the engine room. The pipes will be of plastic, and all other articles normally made of metal will be of wood or glass. Textiles will replace leather and linoleum will serve instead of rubber.

Substitutes for Gasoline

A motor fuel made in Japan from fish oil and a chemical compound is said to be 90 per cent as efficient as gasoline; using this oil, cars have reached a top speed of about 44 miles an hour. Japan, as also Germany and Italy among others, is using charcoal as a substitute for petrol.

Japan claims to have invented a process for making a new type of charcoal not only cheaper than ordinary charcoal, but having a higher burning and heating content. This is achieved by treating dried branches of trees with a chemical compound and the resultant material starts an engine running within seven minutes as compared with the 17 minutes wait required for ordinary charcoal. Leaves from resinous trees are being dissolved in ether and then distilled out as fuel.

Substitutes for gasoline of all kinds are of course being sought by countries lacking an oil supply and by those the source of whose supply might be difficult to reach in time of war. Oil is being obtained not only from coal but from heather root and potatoes, and motor cars are being driven by gas as well as charcoal. The latest development in this field is the transforming of liquid ammonia into a mixture of ammonia and

A substitute for the linoleum, which the Japanese are using, where possible in place of rubber on the "substitute" ship, has excelled German ingenuity. Linoleum is normally made of cork, jute, linseed oil, and colophony, which have to be imported. All these needs are now said to be satisfactorily met by substitutes. Colophony, a natural material for linoleum, is like shellac, a natural type of resin required not only for manufacturing purposes but as an insulating material in electrical engineering.

Typewriter Made of Resin German chemists and others have made great strides in the provision of many types of artificial resins, some of great hardness and durability. Synthetic resin ball bearings are being used instead of steel ball bearings. They are claimed not only to last longer, but to need only water as a lubricant instead of the oil required by metal bearings.

At the Leipzig Fair a portable typewriter made entirely of resins was on show; it was three inches high and weighed eight pounds. Resins run through a whole range from extremely hard to extremely soft. The newest is so flexible that in the form of tubing, useful for passing oils, it can be easily tied in knots.

The international trade in these artificial resins is growing rapidly and prices are declining. Exports of the world's five leading producers—Germany, the United States, Great Britain, Belgium, and France—were worth $4,500,000 last year. In 1929 Germany supplied more than half the world's total exports, last year the share was only 30 per cent and that of the United States not very much less. Germany's production of synthetic resins is now round 50,000 tons a year, the chief aim being to use them as substitutes for various types of metal which have to be imported.

Tons of Sugar From Wood In the realm of "personal" requirements, cleaning and washing materials, without any appreciable amount of fat or oil, are available on the German market. So far 15,000 tons of sugar produced from many types of wood are also made available each year, but being a simple sugar it is mixed with feed for animals and is not yet offered at the table.

Synthetic foods are not as far advanced as synthetic materials, though there is no knowing what surprises may be in store in this direction. In Germany attention is being given to using what would normally be regarded as unusable or waste materials. Thus vegetable plankton, the minute sea flora and fauna, on which fish feed, is regarded as having a good nutritive value for human beings and being an excellent cattle fodder.

Additions to Canadian Industry

Be Careful

If there was no better way of telling, we would know summer has come by reading newspaper accounts of swimming tragedies. There have been several deaths by drowning in Nova Scotia already—and the summer is young yet. Let's have none in Digby County this summer!

Let's observe the strictest precautions—and take no chances. No, none.

The following rules have been thought up; and are published here for your own safety. Read them and remember them:

The first essential for swimming is good physical condition; and here are some other safety suggestions:

1. Wait at least one hour after eating before going swimming; stay out if overheated; never swim alone.
2. Do not dive into water unless you know there is safe bottom and safe depth.
3. Do not test your swimming ability by going far from shore, unless accompanied by a boat; swim along the shore line.
4. If you experience distress in the water, don't struggle frantically; keep your head, float while signaling for help.
5. Do not take unnecessary chances. It is a silly habit to rock a boat, even though all the occupants are in bathing clothes and can swim.
6. Never jokingly call for help from the water.
7. When attempting to make a water rescue, use a boat, a rope, or a life buoy, if possible. Make a swimming rescue as a last resort, and only if you are a capable swimmer. Always remove shoes and outer clothing before entering the water.
8. Learn how to perform artificial respiration; practice it until confident you can apply it to save life.

Letter to The Editor

To the Editor of the Courier, Sir—I read with great interest the letter in your last issue entitled "Prosperity Assured" and carrying the signature, "Painters". I should like to say that I heartily agree that there is too much money being sent out of town for commodities that could be purchased just as easily right here in Digby. This applies to labour also.

There is one thing in that letter, however, to which I should like to make objection. The writer says, "Our city fathers and those other gentlemen... have worked out a perfect scheme for our success... take all the money possible out of Digby but do not... put any money into Digby." To me and, I believe, to a great many more the phrase, "city fathers" has come to mean the members of the Town Council or, in a city, the Board of Aldermen. If this is what the writer had in mind when he penned that idyllic letter and made use of the phrase I think he is making a very unjust accusation. The Town Council, I believe, and in this the records will bear me out, are not subscribers to what the writer calls, "this perfect scheme for our success." The accusation does not apply to the Council in the particular instance which the writer seems to have in mind nor in any generalization.

It seems to me a poor policy for the writer of that letter to accuse everybody willfully of being in on this scheme to "assure prosperity." It's quite evident that he is not familiar with the facts or perhaps he had a different meaning in mind when he included that phrase, "city fathers" among his so called "Moguls" whom he so prayerfully asks God to bless. It is also quite evident that he does not know that you cannot gain sympathy for a cause if you falsely accuse possible supporters and that neither can you gain it by an exhibition of sarcastic humour at their expense.

In closing I should like to say that, while I feel that the painters may have just cause for complaint, I really think they could have made a better choice in selecting a scribe to present their case to the public through the columns of your paper. They should have selected one more familiar with the matter under discussion, one who would not let his desire to create a literary masterpiece of wit and sarcastic humour lead him away from fact into the realms of fancy. In so doing, they would have created a much better feeling, a greater spirit of sympathy among those who are in a position and who have the power to correct the evils which they feel exist. Mogul.

Chemical Styles

Will the chemist or the couturier design the clothes of tomorrow? Violet Chatterton is one of the arguments on the affirmative side in the new "Chemical World of Tomorrow" which will be featured at the Canadian National Exhibition. She wears a water repellent bathing suit which enables her to swim without becoming wet. She is shown looking at a six-foot chemical test tube.

DOG CATCHER CAUGHT

They caught the dog catcher in Magnolia, N. J. The pup chaser, Thorin Landin, was one of 22 persons fined $5 each, recently, on charges of failing to license their dogs. The fines were suspended after each paid $2.75 for the dog registration fee and court costs.

WORLD'S FASTEST CAR ?

Its Wheels Will Go Round 46 Times a Second.

A car going at the 360 m. p. h., which John Cobb hopes to achieve in August, on the Salt Flats of Utah, would take less than three days to cover a distance equal to the circumference of the earth at the Equator.

Strange points about his all-British Rallion are:

Its petrol consumption is just over one mile to the gallon.

Although it weighs more than three tons it is so shaped that the head-on resistance at 300 m. p. h. is the same as at 60 m. p. h. for the ordinary car.

Every minute it eats up enough energy to lift a heavy express train clear of the ground.

At full speed the tyres are one inch larger in diameter than at rest.

Every minute there are 30,000 gas explosions in the 24 cylinders of the two Napier engines.

The gasses in the pipes from the carburettors to the cylinders are sucked through at more than three inches a minute.

The wheels go round 46 times a second.

In about a minute the tyre's temperature goes up to the boiling point of water and tends to fly apart with a force of about 12 tons.

If John Cobb succeeds, he will be the first man to travel on land at six miles a minute.

Putty was removed from around a large window in the store of Crocker Bros. Freeport, but as far as can be learned, nothing was taken from the stock. The "Tattler" office was also entered while the office was unattended for a time, and a sum of money taken from the till. Motorists on the Island complain that gasoline is stolen from their parked cars.

Second Weekly Yacht Race Pulled Off on Sunday.

On Sunday, the Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club held its second weekly race of the season. A. G. Stenstone, Smith's Cove, rounded the No. 1 course in 39 minutes, to win Class I; Arthur Weyhe's boat came in 4 1/2 minutes later to win second place in the larger class.

William Ganong, leading the small boats, finished the course in 44 1/2 minutes. Second place was taken by George Saulnier, who rounded the course in 55 minutes. The large difference in times was due to the fact the wind suddenly died after the first five boats had crossed the finish line. Points to date are as follows:

Rain Badly Needed For the Crops

Rain is badly needed in this section. In the rural districts wells and streams are running low, and in the Town of Digby the water situation has just about reached the acute stage. However, it is said the situation in Digby is not because of a shortage of water at Lily Lake, the source of the town's supply, but because of inability for some reason to keep water in the reservoir.

In some sections of the town, most especially in the south end, and on the higher levels, it is impossible to get water at certain times of the day, particularly between the hours of 5 and 7 in the afternoons. Local householders frequently find themselves without water in the upstairs parts of their homes. There is little water for fire protection.

The situation is a real "head-ache" for the water committee and the entire Town Council, who have called a meeting of the ratepayers for Monday night, to endeavor to take steps to remedy the matter. As previously reported, two resolutions will be before the meeting, one, calling for power to borrow $30,000 for the purpose of an additional pipe line; the other for $10,000 for the installation of meters. Present indications are that meters will be favored, the opinion of many being, that the shortage is due to wastage by larger users, and by meters, these larger users as well as others will pay for what they use. At present there is a flat rate based on the number of taps, with also a flat rate for boilers.

Water is also needed for crops, which are feeling the effects of the drought. Brownish lawns show the effect of dry weather. Citizens of Digby have been requested not to use lawn sprinklers until the situation is improved, and the majority have abided by the request.

In some sections of the county rain fell on Sunday afternoon, although in Digby there was only a "sprinkle" of a few minutes duration. There was also a very slight rainfall Monday night.

Hospital Aid Meeting

Reports on the Hospital Flower Show were presented at the Hospital Aid meeting held on Monday afternoon. The convenors, Mrs. J. R. McCleave and Mrs. H. M. Warne, thanked the many who had assisted in making the Flower Show such a success, including all those who had exhibited flowers, and the donors of the silver cups, who were as follows: E. C. Sol-lows, R. B. Murray, J. A. Faust, F. L. Anderson, G. M. Morrell, H. M. Warne, Drs. DuVernet, Dickie and McCleave. Special thanks were extended to the judges of the exhibits, and to the many workers, who prepared and served the supper. Mr. Sack, of Weymouth is deserving of particular mention for his showing of garden fairs, as also Mrs. Kimball, who ticketed off a flower luncheon set; Mrs. H. A. Nichols and Mrs. Seymour Denton, who had a novelty table, and the Misses Louise Daley and Margaret Syda, who sold grabs.

The gross proceeds of the Show were $146.24, with expenses of $22.84, leaving final returns of $123.40.

The report from the Hospital Board meeting gave the following statistics for June:—Patients: Obstetrical, 5; babies, 5; medical, 19; surgical, 22; X-Ray, 22. Operations: major, 9; minor, 13. Total number of patients, 73. Deaths, 2. Expenses, $736.27; salaries, $661.94; X-Ray, $9.31.

An interesting feature of the report was the offer of a $500 prize, donated by F. McBride, for the best decorated booth at the Hospital Fair, the prize to be added to the proceeds of the winning booth.

Plans for the Fair were finalized, and solicitors appointed for the different districts. The ladies also visited the Manhattan grounds and voted to recommend that the Fair be held on the town property opposite the hotel. Permission was later obtained from the Town Council to rope off the street for the time of the Fair, and arrangements are under way for the decoration of this beautiful site.

Hair Styles Traced By Coins

(Special to the Christian Science Monitor)
York, England—Coins have enabled a British research expert to trace the development of hair styles, showing clearly that modern hairdresses have adopted many styles from Roman examples, first used some hundreds of years ago. From coins of 44 B. C., Mr. F. Teale, of Huddersfield, has discovered that Roman ladies of that period treated their hair very simply. Pomatums, curlings, and crimpings were not considered suitable for ladies of position and were appropriate only to courtesans and foreigners.

With the beginning of imperial times simplicity diminished, and it would seem that styles were adopted largely in accordance with the suitability to the wearer's face, and these varied greatly. Mr. Teale recently told members of the Yorkshire Numismatic Society. Excavations of Roman sites had yielded a rich harvest of hairpins, used by the Roman ladies, which were usually of ivory, bone or jet. In the case of a coll of hair found in a sarcophagus at York, on the site of the railway station, it was still fastened by two jet pins. The hair itself was a fine coil, retaining its auburn color.

In no case could he find any instance of short or "bobbed" hair, though many of the styles had a close resemblance to modern coiffures of different periods, showing that the modern hairdresser has adopted many styles from Roman examples.

Hospital Flower Show was a Great Success.

A gross of $148 was realized at the second annual flower show, conducted under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Digby General Hospital, on the grounds of Dr. John R. McCleave, at the Racquette, on Saturday afternoon. As an indication of the interest taken in the show this year, there were in all 131 entries. Among the most beautiful decorations on the grounds was the novelty table in charge of Mrs. Seymour Denton and Mrs. Harold Nichols. Another interesting attraction was the wheelbarrow of "grabs" presided over by Miss Louise Daley and Miss Margaret Syda, both dressed in farm costume. Colored motion pictures of flowers were shown by George Sack, of New York—a summer resident of Weymouth North. These pictures included many beautiful close-ups—so near that a single pansy would occupy the entire screen. A felt luncheon set was ticketed off by Mrs. Kimball and was won by L. Kirkpatrick.

Promise of a superior show was given by the wonderful floral displays in the local gardens. The glorious exhibits bespoke the care that had been taken by professional and amateur gardeners. Many very favorable comments were made by the summer visitors.

The judges were Miss Margaret Stewart; T. J. Harris, Racquette Garden, Digby; Mark Longworth, of the Little Greenhouse, Smith's Cove; and Mr. Klonman, of New York, a summer visitor to Weymouth. Their awards were as follows:

Stoney Indians at Banff Springs Make Helen Keller Tribe Sister

Helen Keller, blind and deaf author and lecturer, and who through her sensitive fingertips sees and hears, was recently honored with a membership in the Stoney tribe. The colorful initiation ceremonies took place at Banff Springs Hotel, Banff, Alberta, during the Annual Indian Days sponsored by the Canadian Pacific Railway. The illustration shows Miss Keller receiving a snowy eagle feather, the insignia of her Indian name "White Eagle Plume" from the hands of Chief Walking Buffalo, Chief Jacob Two-Young-Man looks on while Polly Thomson, Miss Keller's constant companion "interprets" for her blind friend.

Amateur gardeners—and professional ones, too—should look over W. E. VanBlarcom's garden on Birch St. He has no regular garden lot, not even a back yard lot, but has to use a strip here and a strip there—wherever he can find enough space to put a plant, and yet he has peas, beans, over 200 head lettuce, saffron (oyster plant), spinach, Swiss chard, squash, cucumbers, 7th crop radishes, cress, parsley, peppers, cabbage, horse radish, and probably the best tomatoe in the country. They are almost full size and will be ripe very early.

Mrs. Henry Morse, with Miss Mary and Tom, of Roxbury, Mass., are guests of the Misses Shreve.

Recalls Days of Capt. Slocum and the Sloop "Spray".

Victor Slocum, of New York, with a party of friends, is visiting the boyhood home of his father, the famous Capt. Joshua Slocum, and is registered at the Denton Cottage, Westport. Capt. Slocum was always proud of being once a Brier Island fisherman. After starting on his deep sea career from Saint John, he became master of American ships hailing from San Francisco and New York. After he retired from that he sailed the 9-ton sloop "Spray", single-handed, around the world. His take-off for this voyage was from Westport as many old-timers remember. When he reached the Strait of Magellan he sprinkled tacks on the deck to "keep the cannibals off."

(Editor's note.—The editor of the Courier knew Capt. Slocum well. After leaving Westport the Spray went to Yarmouth and remained there almost the whole of one summer. The editor was then "doing the water front" for the Yarmouth Times, and became well acquainted with the captain and the sloop. On his way north, up the South American coast, the Spray was overtaken by the U. S. battleship, Oregon, then making her historic voyage from the Pacific to Cuba at the time of the Spanish-American war. Thinking the small boat in trouble the Oregon ran close to render assistance, but the captain explained that he was all right. An officer of the battleship then asked if he had seen any Spanish warships, and told the astonished Capt. Spray that a state of war existed. Capt. Spray showed his sense of humor when he remarked: "Let's stay together for mutual protection."

A committee was appointed to interview "By" Blackford, the ferryman at Petite, in an effort to get facts and figures which would enable them to approach the matter of increased facilities more intelligently. It was thought that an increased subsidy for "By" might have the effect of providing a scheduled service with reduced rates for cars. Six new members were taken in at this meeting.

AT THE CAPITOL

Monday and Tuesday, another magnificent "Juarez", starring Paul Muni and Bette Davis, and a supporting cast which truly deserves the much-abused term "all-star".

After two months of careful planning and selection, another month during which some seventy camera tests were made, director William Dieterle finally chose the fortythree players to support Paul Muni and Bette Davis.

That preliminary search for names and talent in itself was unusual. Ordinarily the casting office handles such details in work-a-day stride, seldom taking more than three or four days for the job. But neither Muni, nor Dieterle, would have it that way.

It is for this reason that, on the cast sheet for "Juarez," are listed such famous names as Brian Aherne, John Garfield, Claude Rains, Gale Sondergaard, Joseph Calleia, Donald Crisp, Gilbert Roland, Henry O'Neill, Louis Calhern, Montagu Love, and Vladimir Sokoloff heading a cast of 1188 people.

Aherne reversing matters with the star in that he wear a beard while Muni goes clean-shaven, portrays the ill-fated "golden prince," Maximilian von Hapsburg, who wore the phantom crown of Mexico. Bette Davis is his Empress, the lovely and fragile Carlotta. Rains plays Napoleon III, his consort is Miss Sondergaard, who is the Empress Eugenie. Film-goers readily will recall their work together in "Anthony Adverse" and this is the first time they have been reunited since.

John Garfield, John Miljan and Gilbert Roland are included in the list. Miljan and Garfield as generals on Juarez's staff, one the shrewd Mariano Escobedo and Garfield as the fiery young Porfirio Diaz, in later years to become the president of his country. A Juarezian general, also Pedro de Cordoba as Riva Palacio and with him, one of the staff, is Charles Middleton as Carbajal.

Donald Crisp, Louis Calhern, Irving Pichel and Monte Blue are other famous names in the cast. The veteran Montagu Love has an important supporting part, with other such roles going to Hugh Sothern, Harry Davenport, Alexander Leitch, Gilbert Emory, Vladimir Sokoloff and Henry O'Neill.

OBITUARY

Rose Barnes

The death of Rose Barnes, native of Plympton Station, occurred Saturday morning at the home of Denis Robichaud, Acadia Valley. Funeral services took place Monday from St. Teresa's church, Marshalltown, Rev. Father L. Gaudett officiating.

Mrs. Mildred D. Dunham

The death of Mrs. Mildred D. Dunham, widow of Wellington H. Dunham, formerly a well known grocer of Saint John, occurred at her home in that city last Thursday evening, following an illness of a year's duration. The late Mrs. Dunham was born in Digby, daughter of the late George M. and Margaret White, of this town, and resided in Saint John for the past 44 years. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A. Garfield Neil, of Saint John, and two sons, George Winfield, of Digby, is a nephew.

Algernon A. Osborne

Algernon A. Osborne, son of the late Rev. Dr. Louis S. Osborne, died on July 25th, in Pasadena, California. Mr. Osborne came to Digby first in 1893 and for twenty years after consecutively. He returned for the summer, with his family, in 1934, occupying his father's house, Mrs. Chas. S. Cox is a sister.

Tailor, Critic And the King

Savile Row Plumps for Bright Blue Smoking Jackets.

The tailors of Savile Row are now sponsoring brighter colors in suits, according to A. S. Bridgland, editor of the London "Tailor and Cutter", probably the best known commentator on men's clothes in Britain. Here are some leaves from his notebook:

King George VI dresses with restraint in public, but sports gay checks on holiday. During his voyage to Canada and the U. S. A. he wore a bold check jacket, with a yachting cap, and white flannel trousers.

One of the best-known pictures of His Majesty shows him in shorts—at the boys' camp in Suffolk; but when the occasion demands formality, he has an admirable figure for morning and evening dress; about 37-inch chest, sufficient height for elegance, and slim in the waist.

The Duke of Kent has chosen glenurquhart check trousers to go with a black jacket for Australia. Glenurquhart is usually a big check with a colored overcheck.

Double-breasted morning-coats is one of the most radical changes seen for a long time in formal dress. The fashion is coming slowly. I saw only two or three at Ascot, one of them worn by the youthful Lord Morris.

But what a year for grey "toppers"! At Ascot there was an enormous proportion of them, worn with black morning dress suits. The King wore a grey top-hat with black suit in the U. S. A.

Smoking jackets are coming in to their own again. Not the usual black, but in rich colours like bottle-green, plum and bright blue.

A variation of the hunting waistcoat with brass or bone buttons is featured in a range of colors, and sports coats looking like heavy-tweed, are actually made of lightweight cashmere.

German natural scientists are now trying to find out the best way of harvesting plankton from the sea. With the German cry for "no waste", horses are being fed on cocoa pods, grape skins, grape pips, tomato skins, bran-siftings and by-products from the brewing of beer.

The Fire Department was called out yesterday afternoon for a fire at the dump in back of the machine shop of H. T. Warner, Ltd. The blaze had gained considerable headway before the arrival of the department, and in spite of the shortage of water, very noticeable in the south end of the town in which section the Warner plant is located, there seemed to be a strong stream. The pressure indicator on the fire engine, registered 150.

Rev. A. G. Robertson has returned from a vacation trip to Boston and the World's Fair in New York.

Ratepayers Should Carefully Consider the Water Question

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—From an advertisement appearing in your last week's issue I understand that the ratepayers of the town will shortly have an opportunity of considering and voting upon two resolutions with regard to our water system. These resolutions are, in effect, (1) that the ratepayers approve of the town borrowing a sum not exceeding $30,000 for the purpose of running a new pipe line in from Lily Lake, and (2) that the ratepayers approve of the town borrowing a sum not exceeding $10,000 for the purpose of installing water meters in the town.

These are matters of utmost importance and require very careful consideration by every ratepayer of the town. It is true that the water shortage this summer has reached alarming proportions but we should not let that fact stampede us into any rash and hasty decision in our desire to remedy the situation. Neither must we put too much faith in the "sure fire" and "only" solutions put forward by certain armchair experts in our midst. One thing we should bear in mind is this: that no matter what decision is reached at the ratepayers' meeting very little can be done to alleviate the shortage this season. That being a fact, we should make sure that the decision we come to at that meeting is no hasty and regrettable one but one that is sound and good not only from the viewpoint of the water question but also from a financial standpoint.

There are several things which should be taken into consideration before deciding upon these resolutions. One of these is the fact that the reason for our water shortage is because of the large amounts of water used by two, or perhaps three, of our largest users. It might be well, in connection with this, to consider one or two questions: (1). Is it necessary that these users expend such a large amount of water? (2). If a new basis of water taxation were used would it not result in a decrease in water usage by these and other users? (3). If such a decrease took place would it be sufficient to overcome the shortage? We should remember that at the last ratepayers' meeting on the water problem a prominent Halifax engineer informed us that the decrease in water consumption in the city of Halifax after the installation of meters, was almost unbelievable. Is it too much to suppose that a like decrease, in proportion, of course, would take place here in Digby, if meters were installed? Would it not be a good idea to get some definite information as to the effect of meters on the use of water in Digby before spending a large sum of money for the installation of a new pipe line that, if the decrease in water usage were great enough, would be entirely unnecessary?

In the above paragraph I have tried to set out some of the things I think we should consider before voting upon these resolutions. My own opinion on the matter, at the present, is that we should vote to install the meters and thus find out if they will remedy the situation. If they will not then, of course, something else must be done. In any event we shall not have wasted money by installing meters as everyone must agree they are a necessary thing in order to arrive at a fair basis of charging for water consumption. If, however, it is shown conclusively at the ratepayers' meeting that the new line is, even at the present, an absolute necessity, then, of course, I think we should support it. However, as I said, I feel we should try one remedy at a time, the less expensive one first. If by that we solve the problem and at the same time avoid making a large expenditure of money that we shall be called upon to pay back, we shall have done a truly commendable thing.

Sentenced to Two Years For Theft

Arrested in a box car at Weymouth, early last month, and sent up for trial by Stipendiary G. H. Peters, on a charge of breaking, entering and stealing goods from the Royal Department Store, Digby, Walter Scott, who gave his address as Saint John and Fredrick Cokell (alias Clarence Williams) of Ontario, Tuesday appeared before County Court Judge Kenneth Crowell, of Bridgetown, at his Court in Digby.

Cokell plead "guilty" to the charge, whereas, Scott entered a plea of "not guilty". Both were found guilty and each sentenced to two years in Dorchester penitentiary.

Burns was defeated by O. A. Miller, of Bridgetown; E. J. Theriault, Digby, prosecuted.

Arrest of the two men was made by R. C. M. P. officials, Rankin, of Digby, McPherson, of Kentville, and Newton, of Bridgetown.

Ravens Defeat Camp Aldercliff 30 to 1

In a six-inning game played at Camp Aldercliff last Saturday afternoon the Ravens swamped the home team 30 to 1. The Aldercliff team, ranging in age from 14 to 18 years, were no match for the Digby junior team. A hit by Carter, the huge shortstop for Aldercliff, followed by a hit by Jefferson, which brought Carter home, spoiled a shut-out for Walter McBride, the Ravens' pitcher. They were also the only two hits gathered off McBride in the game. Ken Raymond sustained a painful injury in the first inning as an Aldercliff base runner attempted to get to second and accidentally "spiked" him in the foot. Ken Newell replaced him at second for the rest of the game.

they will not print tuna news, emanating in Wedgeport or one or two are caught around St. Margaret's Bay. We were told of a similar experience here, a couple of weeks ago.

There was a gathering of druggists at the Pines, on a pleasure trip. They went out deep sea fishing and caught some remarkably fine fish. Eager to show their friends, they engaged a professional photographer to take pictures of the group and a part of their catch, and a splendid picture—excellent from a news point of view—was produced. Copies were sent to the city press and with them orders for quite a large number of extra papers—one for each member of the Association. The pictures were turned down for no other reason, we are convinced, than that they were advertising this part of the province as a tourist resort. But—and here's the rub! When those papers want to get out special tourist editions they do not hesitate to send high pressure salesmen to Yarmouth and Digby soliciting advertising. What successers we are!

(Lethbridge Herald)

The other day a farmer up-country lost his farm home by fire. It was insured for some modest sum, $1,500 we believe. But when the insurance company came to pay over the amount so that our farmer friend could build a new home for his family and thus continue to live on the farm and operate it, the company ran into a snag. It had to ask the Aberhart government whether the money could be paid over, and it had to take out of the insurance monies some $300 in back taxes and hand it over.
This is all of a piece with legislation which prevented farmers selling their wheat last fall until all debts owing to the government had been paid.

Families contributing data to a recent survey of Canadian wage-earner family living costs, spent an average of 17.9 per cent of their total living expenditure on shelter. Differences in percentages between owner and tenant families were comparatively slight, the tenant percentage being 18.3 and that for owners 17.3. However, the average income of owner families was over 11 per cent greater than that for tenant families, and these percentages represented dollar expenditures of $297 for owners as compared with $279 for tenant families.

Gertrude Britt, thirty-five, of Jeffersonville, Indiana, probably never will be able to pronounce her married name. The license clerk took it down, after numerous head waggings, as Schealleangpschzealleangtstandxianzebwestinze. Her future husband, whose first name is Rabboni, explained that his parents were natives of Ethiopia and that Schealleangpschzetleangtstandxianzebwestinze is a fine old Ethiopian name.

Seeking a divorce from her husband, Charles, Mrs. Vera Dougherty, of Flint, Michigan, charged he had been: "sullen, mean, irritable, morbid, disagreeable, nasty, gruesome, cool, jealous, heckling, picaunish, loathsome, insulting, brazen, miserly, gluttonish, temperamental, selfish, contemptuous, inattentive, uncivil and inconsiderate. A nice kind of a man, that!"

Treasure hunters, down around the Florida city of Miami, recently salvaged 32 cannon from H. M. S. Winchester, which was sunk in a hurricane in 1695. When the treasure hunters tried to land the cannon United States customs men called a halt, claiming the armament subject to duty because they came from a British man-o-war. The salvagers take the stand that the guns are not liable for duty because they have been in American waters since before the birth of the United States as a nation. There's a point for the much quoted "Philadelphia lawyers" to argue about.

Running a newspaper is just like running a hotel, only different. When a man goes into a hotel and finds something on the table which does not suit him, he does not raise his voice with the landlord and tell him to stop his old hotel. Well hardly. He sets that dish to one side and wades into the many dishes that suit him. It is different with some newspaper readers. They find an article occasionally that does not suit them exactly, and without stopping to think it may please hundreds of other readers, make a grandstand play and tell the editor how the paper should be run and what should be put into it. But such people are becoming fewer every year. But we still have the man who delights to point out an occasional mistake, notwithstanding the fact that the average newspaper make fewer mistakes than the average store, the difference being that more people see a mistake in a newspaper and it is talked about more. But when one takes into consideration the fact that in a newspaper the size of the Courier there are between 45,000,000 and 50,000,000 chances of making an error (including all possible transpositions), and you find one or two in the paper, that is a far better showing than the average business or professional man will make.

The average annual value of sales abroad of wood, wood products and paper, exclusive of books and printed matter, between 1928 and 1939 was $22,000,000. This was 24 per cent of the total exports of Canadian Products. Enormous indeed is the importance and value of the forests, which cover so great a proportion of Canada. And these forests are becoming increasingly so, for through study and research, the place that cellulose is to occupy, outstanding though it is today, will be infinitely wider tomorrow. The industrial chemist is at work all the time. The deep forests of Canada constitute a storehouse of treasure.

We hear much of what Hitler has "done for Germany". We hear less of what he has done to Germany—to German human beings. What he has done to German beings is disclosed in part by an analysis which the New York Times has made of German vital statistics. Thus: Since Hitler came to power in 1933 cases of diphtheria and scarlet fever have virtually doubled; of spinal meningitis actually trebled. Food poisoning cases increased from 1,565 in 1933 to 3,674 in 1937. Death rates between the ages of one and five went up 12.5 per cent for girls and 20 per cent for boys between 1932 and 1936. Said Goering: "We must have more cannon and less butter." They have had more cannon and less butter, and with the cannon they have had a population in physical decay, more starved children and more children's coffins. When one adds the spiritual degradation of the people, the chains on their minds and consciences, the brutal suppression of anything like free thought, the regimenting of a whole nation behind the chariot of war, the real measure is had of what Adolph Hitler has done for—and to—Germany.

N. S. Farm Notes

Proper Finishing of Poultry

A new milestone in the progress of the poultry industry in Nova Scotia is marked this year with the development of processing and packing of chicken now being done in three plants in the province, namely, the co-operative plant at Scotsburn, the plant of the People's Co-operative at Antigonish, and the Brookfield plant at Truro. In these plants the birds are killed, dressed and packed under efficient, modern methods. The packs from these plants are being well received on the market, and particularly is this true of a new six-bird corrugated paper box, waxed inside, which makes possible the turning out of a neat, convenient pack of chicken, readily handled by the trade, and of attractive form. The processing and packing carried on by the plants referred to has marked a distinct advance in the industry, particularly with respect to poultry marketed during the summer and early fall. Producers back on the farms also have learned to finish birds better, but much still remains to be done, since much of the poultry coming to market at present is still poorly finished. Proper care in finishing, with meticulous following of directions, will bring rewards in better prices. High degree of finish results in a greater proportion of milk-fed grade chicken, in which Nova Scotia has already earned a good reputation. These grades are netting the farmer 20 to 21 cents per pound, dressed.

"made", but there are other districts in which no real progress seems to have been made—according to reports coming into the provincial department of agriculture. Those who have been "making hay while the sun shines", are going to have good, clean hay. Those who are putting off hay-making are likely to be caught with a crop of coarse over-ripe hay with very low feeding value. There is more feed value by a good deal in early cut hay properly made, than in the late cut hay.

Annual Orchard Tour

The annual orchard tour held for the past eight years under the auspices of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association, in co-operation with the provincial department of agriculture and the federal experimental stations, will be held this year on August 22nd, 23rd and 24th. This has been an event of considerable value and importance to orchard growers in past years, giving as it does an opportunity to visit each other's orchards and learn how the other fellow has solved certain problems—as well as seeing something of the experimental work being carried on by federal and provincial authorities.

Comparison in Apple Crop Estimates

Preliminary estimate of the Nova Scotia apple crop for this season has been placed at 2,530,000 barrels; in other words, at present date, the expectation is for one of the heaviest crops in the history of the province. This compares with the estimate at this time last year of 2,300,000 barrels. British Columbia's estimate for this year, at this time, shows a slight drop from last year, the estimate in boxes being 5,876,500 compared with 6,048,500 boxes last year. Ontario's crop is also lower than last year, the estimate being 769,300 barrels, compared with 845,400 barrels last year. New Brunswick's estimate shows an increase from last year, the figures being 63,200 barrels for this year—against 48,600 barrels last year. The estimate for Quebec is not yet completed.

Make Hay While the Sun Shines
An old adage, this, but based on sound hay-making economics. In other words, never put off till tomorrow what today's bright sunshine will permit you to do best today. Tomorrow it may be raining. Nova Scotia has been enjoying considerable sunshine lately, and good hay-making weather. Many farmers, having in mind their experiences of last year, have been driving ahead with their hay-making operations, which has been all to the good with them. In many districts considerable hay has already been

How Souls and Thoughts of Germany's Youth are Chained to Nazi Paganism

An Eye Witness and Trained Observer Tells of a Few Experiences—Almost From the Cradle. Children are Taught One Ideal And One Ideal Only.

(By Kenneth Ulyett, English press correspondent in Germany, writing from personal experiences.)

Little children are the luckiest folk in Nazi Germany. Their "gods" is a certain Nazi chief named Hitler, who looks after children up to the age of 15, and who is responsible for all the holidays, free outings and health training they get. When you're a kid of six, the fun begins. At six you must go to school. That's what the law says. The law also says you must join the Jungvolk—the baby branch of the Hitler Youth scheme. So, with luck you can do plenty of military training and dodge the school-lessons! Each child has a uniform—ranging from green to brown or khaki, and from blouse and shorts to jacket and sking pants—according to the district.

I was not able to secure reliable figures for births, but the number of illegitimate children born as a result of midnight escapades at Youth Camps must present a shameful staggering total. Nazi officials don't care. There are staterun bureaus to care for unfortunate mothers. If children are to be regarded only as gun fodder, of course, I don't suppose legitimacy matters much.

Easy Marriages

On the other hand, marriages are being made much easier. A "Cub" or Scout in England would be astonished at what children of 7-10 must do in Germany. There are compulsory meetings three times a week, and long night parades in torchlight. Dozens of children collapse after an hour's heavy marching, with all the shouting, long speeches, cheering and excitement.

Not in a Lifetime

I have never seen any more pagan sight in my life than a column of children, 2,000 strong, marching at night under an archway of flaming torches, screaming the Horst Wessel Nazi "hymn". Not in a single lifetime could you undo what is being drummed into these children.

Their uniforms cost about six shillings. At 18, boys do their six months' land service, their two years in the army, and then join one of the party organizations.

No Altar, No Priest

I was invited to a Nazi pagan wedding—where a pal I had made in the "working service" was married to a flaxen-haired girl, who would be regarded as a plain-Jane outside Germany.

No make-up, shining cheeks and nose and chin; heavy, blonde, unplucked eyebrows; but—as a special concession to this important day—wearing silk stockings, and heels one and a half inches high;

that's what the bride looked like. The groom was in his Brown-shirt uniform.

Between rows of grinning, young Storm-Troopers, the happy couple advanced up the hall. Ahead of them was no altar, priest or cross. A gilt-painted plaster eagle, a yard high, was the only decoration on the wall. Nazi Swastika flags were held by soldiers, on either side of the local sports Fuehrer—in uniform, of course. Somewhere in the background was the registrar.

There was no Bible. We cheered, and the rest sang a rousing Horst Wessel song after the master of ceremonies had shifted the ring from the bride's left hand to her right, and had quoted official addresses by Hitler, Scholz-Klink... nebulous phrases about family health, children and one's duty to the state.

Then we all trooped out, dark quarts of apple cider, nips of cognac, dabbed forks into plates of savories, and within half an hour were cheerfully drunk. Another wedding was over. There were a few more crude and lewd jests from the more raucous Nazis before the party broke up; and as the only sober member, I had to escort three riotous lads back to their beds.

Seemed Unreal

Pagan? Bacchanalian? That night there was no time to think it out. I had to be up at 6.30 to attend a Nazi execution!

They have a nice rapid manner of putting to death traitors to the Nazi regime: heads are looped off by the axe!

A fast Mercedes drove me out to Halle, Berlin, soon after daybreak. It was so grim that it seemed unreal, like a film "set". But it was more than reality for two youngsters, in their early twenties, who were led into the prison courtyard, dishevelled, trousers torn, shirts open at the neck, unshaved. For them it was escape, freedom at last from tyranny of a regime into which they couldn't quite fit. No, they weren't Jews. But their parents had been butchered in the Hitler "putsch" on November 9, 1923, and for all these years they'd carried revenge in their hearts. They were the ring-leaders of a gang who'd put timber on railway lines, hoping to derail an express on which a high Nazi official was travelling.

Now was the moment for them to pay for this fantastic scheme. One lad walked out over the cobble courtyard with his chin high. The other was crying softly. A young Nazi, hardly out of his teens, kicked him brutally.

Made Ill

Within five minutes the grim scene was played to an end, and the dismembered corpses were carried back on stretchers.

Some of the younger Nazis were being ill, and had to "Heil" with one arm while holding handkerchief to mouth with the other!

It is impossible to print an accurate picture of the beastly scene. There was all the filth and squalor of a butcher's yard, coupled with merciless brutality which made me long to cry out, "Oh, God, how can such men live?"

We were all very quiet on the way back in the car, through Charlottenburg (Berlin's West End). Most of the men with me were hushed. For not more than five per cent of the Nazis can stomach the cruelty, pagan justness and brutality which every now and then crops up, as typified by Julius Streicher. It isn't really typical of the Nazis, or of the German people.

Guide is Appointed for C.B.A. Maritimes

Visitors are welcome at all times at the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's new transmitter, C.B.A. at Aulac just outside of Sackville, N. B., but with the tourist season now in full swing the influx of sightseers has become so great that the staff on duty there find it impossible to give their visitors the proper attention. The visitors' book at C.B.A. shows as many as 400 to 500 registered during one weekend.

In order that no person need be turned away without having the opportunity of looking over the Maritimes' modern station, the C.B.C. has appointed Michael Andrews, of Halifax, to act as guide at C.B.A. Mr. Andrews, who entered upon his duties there last week, is a veteran of the Great War and a member of the Canadian Corps of Commissioners.

Sought for Terrorism

Following fresh outbreaks of bombing by the Irish Republican Army, Scotland Yard has placed Prime Minister Chamberlain and other members of his cabinet under special guard. Plotter, who was employed as a fireman on board the boat, is also said to have been a butcher.

The Wilhelm Traber, in command of Captain Jassen, is registered at Hamburg, Germany, and arrived in port Wednesday morning to take on a cargo of peeled pulpwood for Germany.

Reported to Have Deserted Ship

Reported to have deserted his ship, the German steamer, Wilhelm Traber, mounted police of the Digby detachment R. C. M. P., have been asked to locate Wilhelm Plotter, 30 year old fireman, on board the German steamer.

Plotter, who is said to have made inquiries Wednesday of last week, with regard to train schedules from Digby to Halifax, was last seen between 9 and 10 o'clock last evening. His disappearance was reported to the R. C. M. P. Thursday morning. A train left Digby for Halifax about 10 o'clock Wednesday evening.

The alleged deserter is described as being about 5 feet 8 in height, weight approximately 185 pounds, blonde hair, thin on top, and walks with a roll. He is also described as having protruding ears. He was said to be wearing a dark brown suit, black shoes, heavy felt

The equipment was trucked to Digby from the Long Island and Capt. Leslie will operate his boat, recently purchased from G. M. Morrell, carrying sardines for the Booth Fisheries, New Brunswick.

Because of a scarcity of fresh herring at the Yarmouth Bar plant, owned and run by Amos Brannen, the Digby vessel, Terrus, owned by the Maritime National Fish Ltd., took a trip of herring from the Sandford Trap, Sandford, the first of last week and after discharging at the Connors Bros., plant at Beaver Harbor, returned to Yarmouth on Wednesday. A delightful outing to Weymouth was enjoyed by a number of Little River people on Monday afternoon, when Capt. and Mrs. Darrell Cheney entertained a number of their friends on board the motor vessel "Twilash and Roselle". MacLean and Mrs. Fred Baxter, of Montreal; Miss Francis Wilde, of Rhode Island; Mrs. E. E. Graham, Mrs. Arthur Denton and Mrs. Omer Denton. The sail was very enjoyable, particularly the return in the moonlight.

Yachtsmen Will Go to Saint John Next Week.

Twenty members of the Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club, of Digby, will go to Saint John, Saturday, August 19th, for a week end's sailing on the St. John River as guests of the Royal Kennebecasis Yacht Club of that city, and the club's scheduled race for August 20 will be cancelled on account of the trip.

Plans have also been made for the Club's annual picnic on Bear Island, to be held Sunday. Plans are also in progress for the club "get-together" on September 1.

The Club unanimously voted its gratitude to O. Wright who has given a handsome cup to be raced for by the boats of Class II (the smaller boats).

Two races were held by the Club during the past week. The first, on Sunday, over course No. 2, was raced by 15 boats, with A. G. Shenstone, Smith's Cove, winner in the large class, rounding the course in 41 minutes 45 sec.; Arthur Weir's boat came in some 9 minutes later to win second position in this class. The following finished in the order given: H. A. Nichols, T. L. Rogers, G. P. Worsley, C. Lefebvre, T. Baltzer, W. Weir. Dr. G. V. Turnbull was unable to compete owing to the loss of a rudder.

William Ganong rounded the course in 52 minutes to win Class II, followed by G. Saulnier in second place. T. Walker, B. Denton, B. Marshall and B. Baxter finished in order named.

On Monday (Sports Day) another race was held. A light northerly wind held until the boats rounded the first buoy of course No. 2, but later died completely. A. G. Shenstone and W. Ganong were again winners in their respective classes. Due to lack of wind only five boats finished.

Mid-Season Tourist Figures Show Increase Over Last Year

Figures on Nova Scotia tourist trade, released last week by the Hon. A. S. MacMillan, Minister of Highways, for the months of June and July, 1939, as compared with the same months of last year show an increase of 872 in incoming tourist cars this year over last year.

The greatest increases are shown in the number of American tourists crossing the border at Amherst. Increases in July are also shown in the number of American cars entering the province both at Yarmouth and Digby. Increases are also shown at all entry points on motor cars from Central Canada. The increase in tourist traffic to Nova Scotia is particularly gratifying this year in view of the decrease in tourist trade reported from other tourist centres, the competition presented by the two World Fairs in the United States and general business conditions prevailing in the States.

The number of enquiries from prospective tourists are holding up this year better than in preceding years and it is believed that the month of August will show even larger increases in our tourist trade.

The Digby Band's Land and Water Sports

Digby's day of land and water sports, under the auspices of the Digby Civic Band, came off successfully on Monday, and in spite of the somewhat overcast weather which prevailed, there were many visitors to the town, and the programme went without a hitch.

The day's celebration opened with a street parade, led by the band, and although the parade was somewhat smaller than usual on such an occasion, it was, nevertheless good, and indicated a great deal of work on the part of the entrants.

Frank Robinson's float, illustrating the home life of the Micmac Indians, captured first prize. The Indians, who appeared in native all, with their birch wigwam, camp fire and other accessories, were from the little reservation at Green Point, near the Pines Hotel. Farmers' Market captured second prize in the floats.

The first prize for best decorated car went to MacDonald Motors, with the Royal Department Store capturing second place.

Among the highlights of the sporting events was the baseball game between the Markland Cardinals, leaders in the Yarmouth Junior Baseball League, and the Digby Ravens. They played a 5-5 draw.

In the water sports the two Peck brothers—Eber and Watson—of Bear River, were among the prize winners in the professional class. Winners in these events were as follows:

Jury Clears Train Crew of Blame In Sunday's Accident.

A verdict of "accidental death," and coupling with this complete exoneration of the train crew, was returned at Middleton, on Monday, by a coroner's jury inquiring into the train-car crash at Brickton on Sunday, in which Louis Francis, car driver, and Arthur and George Stephenson, all of this section of the province, lost their lives.

Called before the coroner, Dr. L. B. Braine, were Engineer E. Hiltz and Conductor M. W. Woodman; Ronald Banks and Wendall Frank, who saw the car glide on to the level crossing, and struck by the train, and R. C. M. P. Constables Newton and Saunders, who investigated.

The names of Mrs. Bertha Stephenson and Mrs. Albert Stephenson, of Delap's Cove, who suffered serious injuries in the crash, are still on the "danger list" in the Middleton Hospital, while Ernest Curry is making good progress.

Thurston Banks Again Proves Ring Ability.

Thurston Banks, of Digby, continued his string of victories last Wednesday evening when he got a decision over Arnold Barr, of Weymouth. Barr, noted in this end of the province as a clever boxer, kept Banks from landing a solid blow throughout the 5 rounds. Barr weighed 142 pounds; Banks 156. Arnold Barr substituted for Wilfred Muise, Weymouth, who was billed for the fight but through some reason was delayed. The semi-final was between Claude Thompson, Digby, 137, and Willie Melanson, Ashmore, 138. Thompson got a technical ko in the first round.

"Pipeye" Ryan, Plympton, 120, lost a close decision to Eddie Melanson, Digby, 125. Johnny Blinn, Plympton, ko'd "Tappy" Robichaud, Plympton, in the third round. Eddie Amero lost to "Pope" Saulnier, and Don Surette won from "Bud" Hutchins, in the junior bouts.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Popless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—look healthy and strong, yet you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, doped, tired and peevish. Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car, you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today.

MARRIAGES

MacIntyre - Rogers

(From the Franklin Chronicle, Franklin, Ohio.)

One of the most beautiful home weddings ever solemnized in Franklin Ohio, took place on July 27th, at eleven-forty, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Rogers, when their daughter, Jeanne Maar, became the bride of Willard Clarke MacIntyre, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. MacIntyre, of Franklin, formerly of Bear River, N. S. Rev. Dr. F. W. Stanton, retired minister of the Methodist Church, performed the single-ring ceremony in an alcove off the Rogers' living room, picturesquely decorated with high standards holding lovely white gladioli and fern, and lighted by tapers in many-branched wrought iron candelabra. The floral decorations were continued all through the rooms of the Rogers' residence, the table for the wedding breakfast, which followed the ceremony, having a particularly setting, centered by a crystal bowl of floating water lilies, surrounded by tiny crystal vases of white flowers and white candles in crystal holders. The bridal procession down the stairway, was led by Miss Bette Rogers, younger sister of the bride, gowning in a past-tan crepe and chiffon ensemble, followed by Miss Nancy MacIntyre, the groom's sister, wearing a gown of aqua crepe, both attendants carrying flowers. The bride followed her two attendants, gowning in a white crepe ensemble on redingote lines, wearing with it a single strand of pearls, the gold wrist watch, presented by the groom, an antique lace handkerchief, (a family heirloom), and carrying a bouquet of white lilies.

Among the pretty gowns worn by the guests, were the bride's mother's of dark blue marquisette with corsage of gardenias, and Mrs. MacIntyre's, the groom's mother, an ensemble of blue crepe with aqua jacket and gardenia corsage. For travelling, the bride wore a crushed-raspberry crepe frock, with white accessories. Following the breakfast, the young couple left by motor for Saint John and Nova Scotia, where the groom has many friends, relatives and college chums. While in Bear River they visited his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cunningham, then going to other parts of the province, returning about the middle of August to take up residence on Hill Avenue, Franklin, Ohio.

Nothing to Compare with It in New Jersey.

Once more the firm of J. E. Morse & Company, Halifax, have proved that if you have a better product the world will beat a path to your door. Several years ago a New Jersey doctor was touring the Maritimes. While here, he made the acquaintance of Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe Tea, and ever since at intervals he has ordered a supply direct from the blenders at Halifax, because it is not on sale where he lives. Following is a direct quotation from his last letter.

"You must know it beats anything in the tea line I can get here, and our friends ask 'where did you get such wonderful tea'."

This is the written opinion of one person—an American doctor—and this opinion is echoed by thousands of others. Summer always means increased trade for Morse's Teas because so many tourists take a supply back with them. Some Canadians who return year after year take a whole month's supply. They say, "There's nothing more refreshing than Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe Tea, wherever you are." The price? Economical enough to be sure—just 70 cents per pound.

"ABOUT THIS AND THAT"—Continued (From First Page)

The active preparations to set in operation Canada's Federal election machinery are in full operation at Ottawa, and everything is evidently going to be in complete readiness for Canada's next big political event—a Dominion general election. Dominion election officials at the Capital estimate that 6,500,000 Canadian men and women will be entitled to vote at the coming election. Out of this total, it is calculated about 4,875,000 will actually mark their ballots on polling day. In the last Dominion election, held on October 14, 1935, there were 5,918,207 names on the voters' lists and of these 4,452,675 went to the polls and voted. This was approximately 75 per cent of the total. The running of a Dominion election is a big and costly job. Approximately 110,000 persons will be employed in connection with the election machinery, which will be under the general direction of Jules Gastonguay, chief electoral officer of the Dominion. To prepare the voters' lists and complete the necessary arrangements for the 32,464 polling sections into which the whole country is divided, will cost the Dominion government the sizable sum of approximately $2,500,000.

Director of N. S. Folk Song to Seek Material

Miss Helen Creighton's series of programmes "Folk Songs of Nova Scotia" which has been a Sunday afternoon feature on the National Network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for ten weeks, concluded on July 30. Early in August Miss Creighton will take to the "open road" to spend the remainder of the summer digging into the nooks and crannies of Nova Scotia for material to add to her collection of folk songs. Miss Creighton, who in the fall will assume her new position of Dean of Women at the University of King's College, will be accompanied on her tour this month by Miss Doreen Senior, of the English Folk Song Society, London. Miss Senior provided string arrangements and piano accompaniments for all of the folk songs heard in this summer's CBC series.

The job of hunting folk songs is not as easy as it sounds. Sometimes luck favors the seekers. In passing by some lonely farmhouse they may hear the voice of the housewife lifted in song. To ears attuned to such things it is a welcome sound—here is a new folk song for the album. Sometimes, however, days may be spent in following up some "tip" without results.

Miss Creighton was assisted on the current series of programme by Nina Bartley Finn of Halifax; Mrs. Edward Gallagher, wife of the lightkeeper at Chebucto Head; Walter Roast of Chatham; and Edmund Henneberry of Devil's Island.

"Folk singing," says Miss Creighton, "is a specialized art and there are few people who do it well. They must not only have voices that carry well, but they must know the best songs. Our songs are selected both from the point of view of words and music. One or two of the leading members of the English Folk Song Society have looked them over and we do not use anything that they haven't marked as being particularly good."

This Man's Thought With Waiting and Worrying

Other People on Earth, as Well as Two or Three in Europe

The following, which appears as an offhand opinion given by an obviously "fed up" individual, appears in a recent issue of the Financial News, may possibly harmonize with the thoughts of others. He says:

"I'll tell you, I'm getting almighty tired of this business of wondering and waiting. All I hear is: 'What's Hitler going to do?' or 'What's Japan going to do?' or 'What's Roosevelt going to do?' or 'What's Congress going to do?' The fact is there isn't a damn thing I can do about what any of them do. So why worry and talk so much about it? There's only one 'do' in the whole shebang that I can control, and that's what I do."

"So I decided to concentrate on doing it. So far as these other factors are concerned, all I can do is to keep as well informed as possible on what is happening and on what it's all about."

"But, however, all these matters break, the fact remains that there will be some business to be had just as there has been. And whatever all these outsiders do, my competitors will be just as much affected by it as I am. And I'm boss of what I do and that's all I'm boss of. So—I'm going after business just as hard as I know how. There used to be a saying in Wall Street that you never can do wrong taking a profit. Well, it's just as true that you never can go wrong selling your goods as hard as you can. Then, if there isn't much business, you'll get your share; and if there's a lot, you'll go to town. Anyhow, that's how it looks to me, and I'm all through with this waiting and worrying about what a lot of people may do that I can't control and can't figure out."

BUILDERS OF CANADA

Sir Alexander Mackenzie
A giant among Canada's men of action. Partner in the famous Northwest Company, he discovered two of Canada's mighty rivers. In 1793, at the age of 30, he was the first white man to reach the Pacific Ocean overland by crossing the North American continent north of the Spanish Possessions. His daring trip via Peace and Fraser Rivers opened up a new world beyond the Rockies to Canadian Fur Traders.

MARRIAGES

Milbury - Jefferson

A pretty wedding took place in Grace United Church, on Saturday evening last, when Audrey Rae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Jefferson, of Mt. Pleasant, became the bride of Ellisworth El, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Hervey Milbury, of Litchfield, Annapolis County. The bride, who looked lovely in white satin with the conventional veil, came in on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March. She carried a bouquet of pink bachelor buttons and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaid, Ruth Milbury, sister of the groom, was attired in pink chiffon and carried a bouquet of pink bachelor buttons. The groom was supported by Orbin Hamilton, of Litchfield; Rev. Dr. Hodges officiated at the ceremony and an Eleanor Wallis presided at the organ.

"Let Freedom Ring" at the Capitol.

Lusty outdoor drama of the pioneer West, "Let Freedom Ring," which opens Monday at the Capitol Theatre, presents Nelson Eddy in his most virile characterization to date, surrounding him with a cast of veterans who, despite their formidable reputations, are hard put to it to match the sterling work of the singing star.

In his singing, his acting and his limactic fist-fight with Victor McLaglen, Eddy sets a new high standard for himself, the role of the young Harvard law graduate of the 1860's, who must resort to trickery to win a battle against unscrupulous railroad interests being not only made to measure for his talents but offering him a scope hitherto untouched.

Picture-setting, stirring in its patriotic motive, authentic in detail and thrilling in song, "Let Freedom Ring" offers other memorable portraits by Lionel Barrymore as the pioneer farmer who is Eddy's father, by Virginia Bruce as Eddy's childhood sweetheart, by Edward Arnold as the thoroughly melodramatic villain of a Wall Street railroad tycoon, and by Victor McLaglen as the Irish railroad foreman with whom Eddy battles in a climactic sequence. That slugging match in the mountain cavern should add to Eddy's fans by the score.

Add fine comedy from Charles Butterworth as the saloon pianist, and other convincing character studies of the period from Guy Kibbee, H. B. Warner and Raymond Walburn. Veritably a feast of talent.

Under the excellent direction of Jack Conway, the songs of the picture are introduced as an integral part of the plot action, with Eddy heard in a wide variety of selections, among them "Dusty Road," "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," "Pat, Sez He," "Where Else But Here," "Home, Sweet Home," "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and "Love's Serenade."

From the viewpoint of story, acting and direction, "Let Freedom Ring" stands head-over-heels above anything of its kind seen in recent months. It spells entertainment from its first picturesque opening shot to its thrill-splattered climax.

Ravens Defeat Seniors Again, 6-5

Minus their catcher, Arthur Golden; second baseman, Ken Raymond, and their pitcher, Walter McRide, the Ravens bunched four runs in the first inning off Jack Keen to give them sufficient edge to top the Seniors 6-5. Bud Winchester relieved Jack in the first, and from there on allowed the Ravens only two hits for two runs, while his team-mates brought in five runs in an attempt to defeat the Ravens.

Joe Turnbull turned in a good game for his first start this season, as a pitcher. He struck out five, and allowed only five hits, while his team-mates collected five hits for six runs. Ken Newell, placed Arthur Golden, while Dave Clarkson played second and Stevie VanTassel played shortstop.

The game was called at the end of the fifth inning, on account of darkness.

Empire Press Will Visit Digby Next Year.

Arrangements for a visit of a party of about 120 who are coming to Canada next year for the Imperial Press Conference in Ottawa were made when W. A. Craik, of Toronto, was in Moncton a few days ago. He is honorary secretary of the Canadian section of the Empire Press Union. Tentative plans dealt with the reception of the party of about 60 editors, many of whom will be accompanied by their wives.

Because it might happen that if the Maritime part of the tour were left until the last some of the delegates would break off and return home, it has been arranged that the first week of the tour will be spent in the Maritimes. The group will go to Moncton via the C.N.R., and will spend a day on Prince Edward Island before proceeding to Halifax. A motor trip will take the visitors through the Annapolis Valley to Digby. From here they will cross the Bay of Fundy to Saint John, and will visit Fredericton before going on to Montreal. Twice Threatened By Fire In Four Days

Since Friday of last week, the Digby Courier Building has been twice threatened with destruction. The first blaze, which was discovered shortly after 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, was confined to the south east corner of the pressroom which is connected to the main building by a narrow passageway. This blaze originated on the roof from a spark which apparently came from a nearby chimney, and burned through the roof into the store room in two or three places.

The second, and most serious fire, occurred about 10 o'clock on Monday morning and completely gutted the upper floor of the press room, and it looked for a few minutes as though the plant and the old wooden buildings around were doomed. Prompt and efficient action of the fire department, who soon had two powerful streams of water on the building saved the structure although the contents on the upper floor and the roof were destroyed. Indirectly Monday's fire is believed to be the result of the fire on Friday afternoon. At that time, under the burning section of the roof there were several cartons of pasteboard boxes used for packing printed stationery. These were moved to a safer position very hurriedly and no regard was given to where they were put, and some, no doubt, were in contact with the pipe from the stove in the press room down stairs. On Monday morning, about fifteen minutes before the flames were discovered, a fire had been built up as is customary, every Monday morning—to melt the metal used in casting the cuts used in our news service and advertising, and it is thought the material which had been moved caught from the pipe.

The room contained about 1,000 stationery boxes, a quantity of poster paper and cardboard, some large type used in poster printing, some obsolete foundry type and about fifty spare cases as well as a number of case racks, all of which were destroyed. Damage on the lower floor was mostly by water. In that section the machinery escaped serious damage, although a quantity of newspaper paper was ruined and in order to print this week's edition it was necessary to wire for new stock.

At present the Courier is being printed in the only "open air" press room in the province, and although our farmers need rain—we don't.

Promoting Memorial to Late Bishop Richardson

A memorial to the late Most Rev. John A. Richardson, D.D., Archbishop of Fredericton, will be erected in the rustic St. Ann's Chapel, at Harbor View, Smith's Cove. For many years the late archbishop and his family spent their summers at the Harbor View colony, and on many occasions he was preacher in the little chapel. The committee, which comprises Dean A. H. Crowfoot, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, Rev. W. O. Kinsolving, Rev. J. W. B. Stewart, Caswell Barrie, A. D. Cossaboom, R. E. Cossitt, G. T. Dodd, J. G. Guest, F. S. Little, Harold Millbank, Theodore Nisbet, E. J. Payson, A. G. Shenton, W. W. Turnbull, D. L. Turner and E. L. White, includes many well known residents and summer residents of Smith's Cove and district. The form of the memorial has not as yet been decided on by the committee.

Enthusiastic About Coming Fights.

The last Wednesday of this month is the date set for the next boxing bouts in the Community Hall. The promoter, David (Max) Daley, tells us he has succeeded in signing "K. O." Fowler, of Yarmouth, to fight Clifford Harnes, of Weymouth. Harnes, you will remember, is the boy who succeeded in administering a knock-out to Henry Clements, Digby, in 15 seconds—the quickest K.O. ever in a Nova Scotia ring. The winner of the Fowler-Harnes fight is the most likely scrapper we are told, to meet Bert Hardy, of Bridge-water, for the Nova Scotia championship. It should be worth seeing. Also on the card, is one more of the Barr boys, of Weymouth. Their opponents haven't been decided on yet, and whether it's Arnold, Hector or Earle Barr, they can always be depended on to put up a good show. We were talking with the promoter and he was very enthusiastic about the coming fights.

Timothy and Walter Denton, of Little River, were in town yesterday.

B., gathered at the farmhouse which he built one hundred years ago, to celebrate its anniversary, and also the 70th birthday of Mrs. Minnie Dunn Campbell (grand-daughter) who occupies the home.

Dinner was served out-of-doors to the following relatives and friends:—Mrs. Frank Bent, Quincy, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Masson, Digby; Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Dunn, Sandy Cove; Frank B. Dunn, Mrs. Byard Marshall and two children, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. MacDormand and daughters, Bernice and Louise, Bear River; Miss Florence Dunn, Bridgetown; Mrs. J. B. Higby and Miss Rosalie Higby, Beaver River; Mrs. E. M. Crowe, Stewiacke; Wm. Roscoe Campbell, Halifax; Edwin Kempton, Granville Ferry; Allan Kempton, Annapolis Royal; George Dondale, Clementsport; J. Gillespie, Shauneevan, Sask.

Milford Corner Picnic

The Sunday School picnic held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wilson, on the Clarke Road, on Tuesday of last week, was very successful, about seventy attending. The dinner table was set under the trees, and with so many good things to eat, looked most attractive. Mr. Wilson had also put up a number of swings for the children, which were in constant use.

Just before the meal, Ralph Harris, the Superintendent of the Sunday School, in a short address, welcomed all present, but especially Mrs. H. R. Kinney, whom he stated was "the guest of honor" for the day. Mr. Kinney and Miss Muriel Kinney were also present. After singing a verse of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds", Rev. G. D. Brydon asked the blessing, and then all enjoyed a bountiful meal.

Following dinner, the younger people enjoyed games, scrambles for candy, a peanut hunt, etc., while the older ones present had a happy time together.

Before leaving the grounds there was a short song period, using familiar old Gospel hymns, very suitable in such a beautiful outdoor setting. Many thanks are due to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and others who worked hard to give pleasure, knowing that the influence of this Sunday School is being widely felt and deeply appreciated. It was noted that several passing cars stopped to listen to the singing of the hymns.

YOUTH, TO BE FEATURED BY EARLE SPICER

When Fred Rice was very young he wrote nice poetry. He was interested in music, too, and for one year when he was nine years old, he took lessons on the violin. Then his family moved from Sydney, N. S., and he did not have the opportunity to continue music study.

But six years ago, when he was 16, he combined his natural talents and wrote the words and music of a song called "Night".

The song came to the attention of Earle Spicer, prominent baritone, now summering at Berwick, in the Annapolis Valley. So impressed was he with the delightful melody of the piece, that he is featuring it among his offerings on Marjorie Payne's "Acadian Serenade" on Friday evening, August 25. The programme is heard from 8.30 to 9.00, Atlantic Standard Time.

This brings relief and quickly too. That tired aching burning sore feet and you go about your work again happy and comfortable. Unpleasant foot odors from excessive foot perspiration gone for good.

To Revive Famous Old Name "Willow Park" For N. S. "Ex" Harness Events at Halifax

A Fast Heat at Halifax's Willow Park Race Course

ALMOST forgotten by the present generation of Nova Scotians, the pleasant old name for the Nova Scotia Exhibition's park and race course at Halifax, "Willow Park", is being revived with this year's show, it was announced by the Nova Scotia Exhibition Commission last week.

The name Willow Park dates from the earlier days of Halifax when a fine old estate noted for its graceful avenues of willows, many of which survive to the present day as hoary giants, was the only occupant of the site near which the modern Exhibition park and its contiguous suburbs have arisen.

To Feature Name.
The revival of the old name is in line with the policy of the Commission to place more emphasis on the racing side of the annual Exhibition activities. Already widely known as one of Canada's outstanding harness events, it is felt that with so distinctive a name that with this fine trotting August 28.

In other directions the plans for the 1939 Exhibition are the most ambitious of any show ever held in the Maritimes. Spectacular and interest-holding grand stand show, the only occupant of the site near which the modern Exhibition park and its contiguous suburbs have arisen.

Television Show ever staged in Canada, an hilarious troupe of 50 madcap marionettes, "Archie", the Mechanical Man, 6 bands, the Halifax Junior Musical Ride, a bigger prize list than ever before, totaling $17,000, combined with a stronger list of industrial, agricultural, livestock and arts and crafts exhibition activities. Already widely known as one of Canada's outstanding harness events, it is felt that with so distinctive a name that with this fine trotting August 28.

Frederick L. Rice, of Joggins, N. S., studying to follow in the footsteps of his father, he entered college—Dalhousie and King's—when he was sixteen years old and received his B. A., at 20, in 1937. He has taken two years of divinity at King's, since.

Many of his poems have been published in newspapers and magazines. He has written other music, too, but this is the first time that one of his compositions will reach such a large audience—the National Network of the CBC.

Fishermen around Yarmouth now have a ready sale for their herring, whenever there are any, at all times, and the presence of the Digby motor vessel, Terrus, now stationed at Yarmouth, to pick up cargoes of these fish for the Connors Bros. plant at Beaver Harbor, is a great benefit to them. The craft returned very recently to Yarmouth, after landing 220 barrels of herring at Beaver Harbor, and was there to pick up another consignment. Amos Brannen, who operates a fish plant at the Yarmouth Bar, buys these fish from the fishermen and the Terrus takes them on board at this location. Skipper of the craft is Capt. Shirley Tidd, of Little River, who is accompanied by his son, Rex Tidd, and Ernie Denton, of Digby, is steward.

Highlights of the Royal Menu Contest

1. Mrs. R. R. Stirett of Swift Current, Sask., who planned the best-balanced, most typically Canadian meal in the "Plan a Supper for Royalty" contest. Sponsored by the millers of Robin Hood Flour.
2. Mayor Croll of Windsor, Ontario, and Robin Hood executives at presentation of second prize cheque for $100.00 to Miss Lillian I. MacKay, 1608 Goyeau St., Windsor.
3. Madeline Day of Winnipeg, Man., one of the judges, addressing the audience at Mrs. Stirett's presentation ceremony in Swift Current.
4. Mayor Taylor of Swift Current presenting cheque for $200.00 and the sterling silver cup to Mrs. Stirett at Memorial Park, Swift Current.
5. Miss Jessie Read and Miss Marie Holmes, two of the menu contest judges examining some of the thousands of entries.

The tremendous enthusiasm shown by women all over Canada was a striking tribute to the timeliness and real educational value of this unusual contest.

Yachtsmen Sail Through Heavy Weather to Bear Isd.

The Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club's picnic was held at Bear Island on Sunday. A heavy sou'wester greeted the yachtsmen after leaving the elle of the Digby shore. Although getting a good wetting nobody even thought of turning back. The first five or six boats anchored on the west side of the Island but soon weighed anchor and sailed around the island to the leeward side.

All hands went ashore to get settled and to prepare supper, others to dry out and explore the island. Everybody tried their hand at "tossing the rings". Evan Dunn was the winner for men and Mrs. Tom Baltzer for the women.

Claims were generously supplied by Percy and Arthur Weir. The fifty or sixty members and guests had a real opportunity to enjoy well-cooked meals.

About 7:00 o'clock the fleet started back. Although the wind had died a little the sea was rough and many boats shipped water after rounding the tip of the island.

Everybody got home safely. Now that the picnic is over, the yachtsmen are looking forward to visiting the Royal Kennebecasis Yacht Club this week-end. Some twenty-six or twenty-seven members are going on this short cruise up the St. John River. Accordingly there will be no race this coming Sunday.

Switzerland Acts Quickly

A Nazi Who Tried to Start Trouble in That Country Lands in Prison.

Little Switzerland isn't fooling with Nazi agitators. The leader of one of three Nazi type groups in the country has just been sentenced to jail for "attempts against the internal security of the Swiss federation." He and several associates were also accused of plotting to establish a Nazi dictatorship and of espionage on behalf of Germany. It is comforting to see people of this type dealt with firmly. The United States is having trouble along the same lines.

And we know that even in Canada there are men devoted to the Hitler "ideal" and anxious to promote it in this country. For the most part, however, they are kept quiet, apparently appreciating that it is dangerous for them to

This One "Didn't Get Away" from the Fisherman

Believed to be the largest fish ever hooked in these waters, a 12-foot blue-fin shark was captured some fifteen miles off Digby Gut early yesterday afternoon, and towed to Digby. It weighed 780 pounds. The big fellow was hooked by E. W. Maynard, of Wilmington, Delaware, from Capt. Fred Snow's motor launch "Tourist" at 12:15 o'clock. The party, comprising Mr. Maynard, Rev. E. P. Daniels and E. P. Daniels, Jr., of Concord, Mass.; Rev. Ebert, of New York; Dr. V. C. Jacobson, Troy, N. Y.; W. Stewart Thompson, of Montreal, and Dr. Robert L. Gray, Philadelphia, with Capt. Snow and "Teddy" Walker as members of the crew, left Digby at 7:45 in the morning.

The shark fought for more than half an hour before he was brought close enough to the boat for Capt. Snow to put two bullets into his head. This sort of treatment calmed him down considerably. When killed the party of nine were unable to get him into the boat and it was necessary to tow the monster to Digby where hundreds gathered at the spur pier to view him.

Sharks have been quite plentiful in the Bay of Fundy waters of late, and the party left yesterday with shark fishing in view. Coming in two other large sharks were seen.

Deep sea fishing has been very popular with summer visitors this season, cod and pollock having been quite plentiful, but Mr. Maynard's shark was the only big fish that has been taken this season—and in all probability it was the largest ever hooked by any party out of Digby.

While viewing the fish we overheard one man say he intended leaving for Wedgeport tomorrow (today) but since seeing this big fellow had decided to stay over and try his luck out of Digby.

Money Made From Tourists

But the Lady Who Recently Visited a New Glasgow Store Didn't Leave Very Much Behind Her.

Much has been written about the possibilities of tourist trade, and the millions of dollars left in Canada by visitors from across the line. The following is the story of an actual happening in New Glasgow, very recently:

A Packard coupe drove up to a grocery store on East River Road and a lady alighted. Upon entering the store she courteously asked:

"Have you bananas?"

"Yes!" was the reply: "three pounds for twenty-five cents!"

"Oh, I only want one!"

The grocer took two bananas from the bunch, put them in a bag and said: "Two for a nickel."

"I only want one," she repeated. Whereupon the grocer opened the bag, took one out, handed her the bag with one banana and she plunked down three cents—and walked out.

After a short consultation with the other occupant of the coupe, she re-entered the store.

"Do you keep sugar?"

"Yes! How many pounds?"

"Oh, I just want a little!"

A small quantity of sugar was placed in a bag and handed to the lady shopper.

"How much is this?"

"Oh, that's all right; there will be no charge," replied the grocer.

"Oh, it's worth something, it's worth a penny, surely," and she placed a cent on the counter and walked out.

Entering the adjoining drug store, she asked for a glass of water. The druggist courteously brought a glass of water and handed it to her. Taking a box of Aspirin from her handbag, she took out two tablets, placed them in her mouth, drank the water, and with a courteous "thank you" left the store.

About This and That

When you put a man's name in print, it's a wise precaution to be just a bit extra careful. It can often mean a libel action. Even if the name is spelled incorrectly, it can mean trouble. For example, in San Francisco, Hilaire Hiler, the noted muralist, has started a $100,000 damage action against a publisher because his name came out as "Hitler". May Heaven's mercy be vouchsafed the proof reader.

"Micky Mouse" has been banned in certain totalitarian countries. "Donald Duck" it appears, is not wanted either. And now comes word from Shanghai that "Good Little Butterfly" a parody on Madame Butterfly, is banished by Japanese officialdom. Some of history's greatest figures and the world's leading nations have always enjoyed a touch of clever banter, or burlesque. They have, in fact, encouraged it. When people become obsessed with their own dignity, they are on the way out.

That spry old gentleman, Henry Ford, was 76 on July 30, and in the enjoyment of apparently excellent health. He does not believe in dieting. All he does is eat sparingly. War, he declared is "on the way out," because people are beginning to realize its utter futility and stupidity. He does not believe another struggle is coming, despite the boom in armament. Instead, better times than ever known in history, may be said to be on the threshold. But, of course, there are times and conditions when its easy to be an optimist.

From Berlin comes word that "the spirit back of the submarine activities in 1914-18 is again being seen in Germany." But have they stopped to think it was that spirit, as much as anything else that spelled defeat, long before November 11th. It aroused a hostile universe.

There was once, says the Montreal Star, an eloquent preacher in Boston called the Rev. Joseph Cook, who took the world for his parish. No matter what happened anywhere in the world, he knew what should be done. Way out in Wyoming, Bill Nye, who ran the Laramie Boomerang, said: "Joe Cook could have a real good time if he would only look after the world daytimes, and let the Lord look after it at night." Canada is full of Joe Cooks, just now. There can be found any number of people who can solve problems in countries thousands of miles away. They know what the trouble is, and have sovereign remedies. Canadians can find plenty to occupy their thoughts without leaving Canada. This Dominion has no dearth of questions calling for solution.

The motion picture is classed as Big Business. It provides entertainment for untold millions; represents enormous investment and expenditure; and pays to popular favorites, princely salaries. But the man who invented the motion picture—who was first to put the idea before the world, never made a copper. He died in London, in 1921. So poor was he, that in his declining years, his personal effects were sold for debt, and because he was in debt he spent a while in Brixton jail. Freise-Green, father of motion pictures, pointed the way to those who, at a later date, came to enjoy wealth, fame and luxury, while it was his fate to know imprisonment and poverty.

A Dutch View of American Labor

We have already given an account of the difficulties at the World Fair caused by the American labor syndicates. Our correspondent in New York overheard a discussion while waiting with several others for the bus. A Dutchman, who had supervised the installation of the interior of the Dutch pavilion, let himself go.

"I am ashamed of my fellow-workmen over here. In Holland I also belong to a syndicate and it is a shame how the syndicates here in America spoil everything."

The correspondent afterward interviewed the workmen, who said:

"I constructed and put together every piece of this installation in Holland. I arrived here with my boss just in time to see a set of eight men lowering the basin for that beautiful level-chart, which shows how our country emerged from the water. We looked on for some moments and saw the man, ever fall several times.

At last our boss took off his jacket and we grasped theropes and pushed those fellows aside. You ought to have seen the riot! We were not allowed to do that! The work was laid down; it was a strike."

"At the Fair they (union workers) are almighty. Half of the time they are hanging at the telephone to consult with their delegate whether a screw must be fixed by a carpenter or by an ironworker. I usually missed one-third of my workmen and had to seek them everywhere. They lay sleeping somewhere or were gone for a walk. One delegate always went for a walk of an hour after every quarter of an hour work. He always said: 'Take it easy.'"

"The overtime began at half-past three and then those fellows got not less than $4 an hour."

"Don't think that a fellow who cleaned the floor would touch a table with linoleum on it or that a table-cleaner would take a pane of glass in his hands."

"This specialization is meant for big industries where a thousand men must do one thing but for the exposition it is destructive."

"An example of their methods you can see in the textile-stand. First we tried hanging the pieces of cloth ourselves, but we were not allowed to. Then a man appeared, but without nails. We had nails that were too big for his taste. He refused, however, to go and get what he wanted."

"A little hole had to be made for a piece of iron-wire. Now a carpenter had to make the hole and an iron-worker had to pull the wire through. Of course there was no carpenter and when one was found the iron-worker was nowhere to be seen. The consequence was that at half past one in the afternoon one piece of cloth had been fastened. Then another colleague had to be called to the rescue but they did not finish the work in time. But they did succeed in earning together more than $100."

"The consequence is that owing to the unexpected high costs, a great many things in the interior had to be dropped. Everywhere there had to be economy, especially on lighting. The refrigerator which is so made as to have ice around the pipes, had also to be abandoned. Molkenboer's mosaic-hasin contains no water; the money failed for the water supply."

Shipments of Canadian silver fox furs to the United Kingdom amounted to 153,434 pelts in 1936; 203,233 in 1937, and 193,508 in 1938.

Early History of the Canadian Family

From 1608, date of the first successful attempt at colonization, to 1666, date of the first census, the population of Canada progressed very slowly; it numbered 28 souls in 1608, 274 in 1639, and 3,215 in 1666. Fifty years after the arrival in 1617, of the first Canadian family, consisting of Louis Hebert, his wife and their three children, the Census of 1667 registered only 668 families. Except for the period 1665-72, when Louis XIV became interested in colonization, immigration under the French regime, was practically non-existent.

Acadia, although left to itself, made good progress until 1775, when the expulsion from Nova Scotia took place. From 1755 to 1763, 14,000 persons were deported, of whom a large number perished in their incessant journeys. Not only was the mortality rate very high, but the birth rate in such circumstances was greatly reduced, with the result that in 1787 the Acadian population (in and outside Acadia) numbered only 12,000. It had reached nearly 18,000 in 1755.

The slow growth of population in New France is understandable when it is remembered how neglected the colony was by the mother country, how long and hazardous was the crossing of the immigrants, and how serious were the dangers with which they were surrounded. It took great courage under these conditions to settle in Canada and courageous indeed were the immigrants who took that course, whether their motives were flight from the wars of religion, desire to bring Christianity to the native, ambition to assure the future of their children, or taste for adventure.

Two publications, "Relations des Jesuites" and "Histoire veritable et naturelle des moeurs et productions de la Nouvelle-France", together with two agencies, the companies and the seigneurs, played a part in promoting the settlement of New France. The colonists who were induced to come by these and whose settlement was facilitated, can be divided into a small number of families, single men, engages or soldiers, and single young women, filles du roi or peasant girls.

The young Canadian family, as established all along the north shore of the St. Lawrence River, by 1667, was practically self-sup-

Britain's Army Depends on Britain's Trade.

Evidences that British manufacturers are not only maintaining but increasing their country's export trade at a time when industry is also making unparalleled rearmament efforts, is supplied by export figures for the first 6 months of 1939. Goods and manufactures to the value of more than 236 million pounds sterling, which is over three million higher than last year, were exported between January 1 and June 30.

"The United Kingdom's military efforts depend on her industrial strength, which in turn depends vitally on our export trade," said R. S. Hudson, M. P., secretary to the Department of Overseas Trade, when asked to comment on the figures. "It is therefore most encouraging to see our exports developing so satisfactorily. Every country knows that foreign markets, once lost, are very difficult to regain, and our manufacturers are therefore making determined and successful efforts to meet overseas demands, and create fresh ones."

"The United Kingdom imports from abroad more than any other country, even without taking into consideration the huge imports from our own Empire countries. This is surely an outstanding contribution to the economic prosperity of other countries."

COMBINED PICNIC HELD

The Sunday Schools of St. John's, Bear River, and St. Andrew's, Victoria, held a combined picnic at Ernest Purdy's Beach, at Deep Brook, on Tuesday of last week. Upwards of fifty children, accompanied by parents, teachers, an their Superintendent, L. V. Harris, had a delightful, happy afternoon of games, etc., topped with supper, and voted it quite the best yet.

porting: for its food it could rely on its crop, a few cattle and chickens, hunting and fishing, while home-grown hemp and flax provided the necessary material for "letoffe du pays". The obstacles to expansion were many and serious—the massacres by the Iroquois, the ravages caused by epidemics, and the desertions of the coureurs-de-bois. These, however, could not stop progress, since their efforts were opposed by the high birth rate that goes with early marriages in a young and healthy population. The life of the colonists, if it was a rugged one, was by no means dull and gloomy; celebrations were held on many occasions and Canadian social life dates back to the very first day of Canada.

Bad Forest Fire on Long Island

For three days every available man and boy on the Freeport end of Long Island, off the tip of Digby Neck, fought forest fire, which broke near the property of Vaughn Lent, Freeport, and spreading toward Central Grove and Tiverton. To fight the blaze water was being carried by truck from Freeport to the scene of the fire, a distance of three miles. It was learned from the telephone office at Mink Cove, that the forestry pumper from Bear River had been on the scene, but had broken down.

The fire has burned over a considerable bit of woodland, with south west winds driving it in the direction of Freeport. The summer camp of Dr. A. F. Weir, Freeport physician, was for a time threatened by the blaze.

The fire-fighters cleared a large area of trees and dug trenches a half mile from the scene of the fire, in hope of checking the flames.

The management of the Digby-Westport Telephone Company state the fire has burned several acres of small soft wood, and because of extremely dry weather, has eaten deep into the soil. The Company, however, say they have only lost one of their telephone poles.

The King's New Auto

Britain's First Motoring Monarch a Careful Driver.

A week or two ago you might have found in a certain Coventry motor car manufacturer's delivery ledger the following entry:

"Delivered to His Majesty King George VI, at Buckingham Palace one Lanchester standard saloon."

Just below you might have found another similar entry:

"Delivered to John Smith, at Newcastle-on-Tyne, one Lanchester standard saloon."

Just a couple of simple ledger entries about two perfectly standard British cars, yet they give an exact picture of the present popularity of motoring among all classes of the community in Great Britain.

The King's new car is the 40th to be delivered to Britain's reigning monarchs since King Edward VII took the first, a 6 h.p. model, in 1899. Nor is the King's interest in motoring confined to relaxing in the luxurious upholstery of the back seat in a stately royal car. He is a very keen driver and the first real motoring monarch on the British throne.

His grandfather was not so very keen about motoring, because, after all, it was a difficult and nerve-racking sport in those pioneer days, when a man with a red flag was supposed to precede the "evil-smelling monster."

George V appreciated the comfort and convenience of motoring but was never known to drive a car, while the Duke of Windsor, as King Edward VIII, was so fond of air travel that he accepted motoring merely as a convenient means of completing the shorter cross-country journeys.

Whenever the opportunity arises the king takes the queen and the princesses for a run in his own saloon. He is a cool-headed driver; he prefers to travel at a moderate pace and to enjoy the passing scenery. He carefully observes the 30 miles per hour speed limits in built-up areas and has a friendly wave for the driver who lets him slip through a traffic jam.

The king is especially friendly towards any car carrying the Order of the Road badge. He is a keen member of this organization of motorists who have driven at least 10,000 miles.

There is nothing very exceptional about the king's favorite saloon, but the State cars, of which there are about 40, are very carefully planned and built. They incorporate a fluid-flywheel device, which prevents any possibility of the engine "bolting" when the cars have to travel for long distances at a crawl. The fluid-flywheel automatically sends the car into neutral when a more orthodox model would be grinding along in first gear.

When a new royal car is ordered

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS LEAVE DIGBY

Lord Beaverbrook, noted British newspaper publisher, left Nova Scotia last Friday after visiting in the province for the past five days. He went to Saint John in the afternoon in his private plane, accompanied by Morris W. Wilson, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, J. B. Bickell, Toronto mining executive, Brandon Bracken, member of the British House of Commons, and Lord Castlerosse, well known English newspaper columnist.

The first four days of the Beaverbrook visit were spent in Halifax with side trips to Truro, Lunenburg and Pictou. The party came to Digby Thursday and spent the night at the Pines. The Beaverbrook Grumman amphibian took off from the Halifax airport Friday morning, for Digby, where it later picked up the group and headed across the Bay of Fundy.

Daughter of Digby Woman In Charge of New Hospital

A recent issue of the British Columbia Catholic gives much space to the official opening of the new St. Vincent Hospital, at Vancouver which has been erected for the Sisters of Charity of the Immaculate Conception, from Saint John, N. B., at the corner of Heather Street and Thirty-third Avenue.

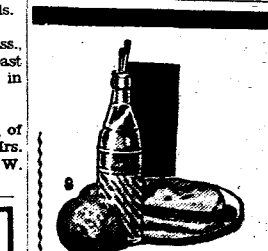

The erection of this splendid hospital is of particular interest to many in the Maritime Provinces. Not only are the sisters from Saint John, but the sister superior, Sister Mary Ruth, is the daughter of Mrs. Alexander Ross, of Digby. The architects pay tribute to the Sister Superior, by whom they were engaged and under whose direction they worked.

The new building has a total length of 173 feet, and its width is 41½ feet. It is full five stories in height. Its X-Ray equipment is said to be the newest in Canada. The hospital will hold 105 beds to start with. The whole building is fireproof and every room and ward is air conditioned. In charge of the staff of sixteen sisters, all experts in their special line of work, are Sister Mary Ruth, superior of the hospital, and Sister Camillus, director of nursing services.

A Typical Nova Scotia Gift.

The popular idea that Americans can't make a good cup of tea has been proven a fallacy. Given the same blend of tea that Canadians use our friends to the south can turn out as good a cup of tea as anyone. That is why literally hundreds of Americans carry home with them not one package of Morse's Tea but rather enough to last the whole year. There is no better gift to take back to the folks who could not come, whether they are native Nova Scotians or not. Everyone enjoys a cup of Morse's Tea, and the tea connoisseur will buy it in preference to any other blend. Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe Tea sells for only 70 cents per pound, and Morse's Standard Tea is an economical tea at 58 cents per pound. The money you spend on Morse's Tea is an investment in tea satisfaction. There are no free premiums, no prizes, no gifts—just superb flavor at a price you can afford to pay. For the tourist who wants a typical Nova Scotia product to take back with him, or for one who wants to present his friends with a truly appreciated gift, Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe Tea is a happy thought indeed. If your friend is a connoisseur of teas and you are looking for a special treat, ask for Morse's Darjeeling—the tea which is grown on the high slopes of the Himalayas.

Rogey, Winchester, 3 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Winchester, was badly scalded at his home. His mother was carrying a pot of boiling water from the kitchen to the yard, when the little boy ran into her, upsetting the water over his head, arms and chest. A doctor and nurse were called immediately. The boy is reported as resting comfortably.

Mrs. E. Burton Taylor

The services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hamilton; Dr. Bishop, of Deep Brook; Rev. A. G. Robertson, of Digby; and Rev. M. C. Higgins, of Smith's Cove. The final service at the house was that of Zelma Rebekah Lodge, of Digby, of which she was a member. Mrs. Taylor will be very much missed having been interested in all activities in the community. For a number of years she was president of the Smith's Cove Hospital Committee. The burial was in the Sullys cemetery beside her husband. The pall bearers were Carey Morgan, Dwight Morgan, Anthony Tubley and Fred Smith. The above picnic was held on the Colonial Arms Hotel beach, Deep Brook, recently, by kind permission of owners. There were about seventy present. MARRIAGES

Schmidt-Kinnear

A marriage of interest to friends in Saint John and throughout the province was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in St. James Church, when the rector, Ven. Archdeacon H. A. Cody, united in marriage Miss Gertrude Louise Kinnear, daughter of Mrs. and the late Harrison Kinnear, of Saint John, and Karl Milbury Schmidt, son of Mrs. and the late Frederick W. Schmidt, of Bear River. The bride was attended by Miss Olga Schmidt, sister of the bridegroom, and Donald Ellison was the groomsmen. The church was filled with friends of the bride and bridegroom to witness the ceremony. Miss Lillian Bromfield resided at the organ and played for the procession, the bridal chorus from Lohengrin. During the signing of the register Murray Thomson sang "Speak to Me of Love," and the recessional was Mendelssohn's Wedding March. The church was beautifully decorated, and the pews reserved for immediate relatives and intimate friends were marked with white satin bows. Given in marriage by her uncle, Frank A. Kinnear, the bride wore a jacket dress of Queen's blue crepe, the bodice fashioned of blue crepe in a lighter shade; her felt hat, shoes and gloves were of Queen's blue and she carried a bouquet of Rapture roses. Miss Schmidt was wearing a dress of navy blue crepe with white trimmings, and a navy hat with white trim, and she carried a nosegay of sweetpeas and roses. Mrs. Kinnear, mother of the bride, wore a dress of winecrepe and a black hat trimmed with wine, her corsage was of roses. Mrs. Schmidt, mother of the groom, was wearing navy sheer and a small navy hat; her corsage was of Talisman roses. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt left by motor on a wedding trip through Nova Scotia. The bride has, until recently, been associated with the Consumers Coal Company Ltd., and the bridegroom is assistant sales manager of the same firm. Among the many gifts received by the couple, was a substantial check from the president of the company. The bride has been the honor guest at many social functions prior to her marriage and has been showered with gifts by her friends.

As the county ranger at Bear River, was already in the woods at another section of the county, fighting fire, the ranger from Church Point was notified and arrived in a short time with a pumping engine. Halifax Children's Musical Ride Will Be Given at "Ex"

Maritime Juveniles Who Won Recognition at Royal Fair Will Perform For Home Folk at the Halifax Show.

MARITIMERS will take pride in a group of Nova Scotia youngsters whose horsemanship and elan have carried them to high honors in Upper Canada.

The Junior Musical Ride, staged by tiny horsemen and horsewomen of the Halifax Riding Club, received an international ovation when presented at the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto last autumn. Unspoiled by the laurels heaped upon them in distant fields, these graceful little equestrians will display their skill for the home folks at this year's Nova Scotia Exhibition which opens at Halifax on August 28.

Programmed to preface each grandstand show at the Exhibition, the Halifax Junior Musical Ride is listed as one of the Fair's biggest attractions by the management. While outstanding talent is notoriously slower to win recognition at home than abroad, the tremendous acclamation which these juvenile stars were accorded at the very sophisticated and cosmopolitan Royal Winter Fair will assure them of a fine reception from home audiences.

New Day-Names.

This year's Exhibition also inaugurates a new nomenclature for the six days during which the big Halifax show is held. For the future, Monday, the opening day, is to be known as "Young Canada Day"; Tuesday, the first of the four days of racing events, will be known as "Willow Park Day", in honor of the resumption of the "Day".

THE WOMAN WHO KNOWS ABOUT FISH

CREAMED FISH
Cover fish with water, bring to boiling point and simmer for a few minutes until fish is cooked — use top of stove or oven. Drain fish, place on hot plate with small pieces of butter on top. Return to oven to heat. Just before serving add 1/2 cup cream or whole milk heated. Do not let fish remain too long or cream may curdle. Garnish with parsley.

She has solved the daily problem... because FISH offers a welcome and wholesome change at mealtimes, something the whole family will like. There are over 60 different kinds of Canadian Food Fish and Shellfish from which you can choose, either fresh, frozen, smoked, dried, canned or pickled. All of them can be served in an infinite variety of recipes. And... one of the good things about FISH is that it is nourishing, and is easy to prepare! Serve Fish to your family often.

Civil Service Commission Has Big Job

Next time you have trouble in deciding which new maid or hired man to put to work, imagine having the task of examining some 50,000 persons in more than 1,000 competitions for positions as wide as different as editor and entomologist, or test pilot and seaman. Then you will have a keener conception of part of the annual work of the Civil Service Commission at Ottawa, the Dominion's employment agency.

Naturally the same yard stick cannot be used to measure the capacities of those applying for such a wide variety of positions as is found in the Government Service. The Commission has to size up each situation and decide what form of examination will give the best results. The candidate might be faced with a written, oral or practical test, or a combination of any of these. Or he might not be faced with any of them; for a very satisfactory examination for technical positions is one in which a Board looks over the application forms, references, and careers of the candidates and arranges them in order of merit, either with or without a subsequent oral examination—or competitive interview—these examinations are called in the British Civil Service.

Whatever the form of examination used in its competitions, the Commission is concerned first with getting as many qualified persons as possible to apply, and second in arranging them in their proper position of merit and assigning them for duty in order from the eligible list.

Commodore J. W. Merkel, of the Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club, Digby, and twenty members of the club, who were week end guests of the Royal Kennebecasis Yacht Club, who were week end guests Digby, on the Princess Helene, on Monday.

The boats of the local club were too small to make the trip across the Bay so the whole party crossed on the Princess Helene on Saturday. At Saint John they were welcomed and conveyed to the Union Club where the R. K. Y. C. members were hosts at dinner. Commodore Guy Lordy, of the R. K. Y. C., was chairman and with him at the head table were Commodore Merkel and Secretary W. F. Gagnon, of the local club, as well as H. O. Webster, vice-commodore of the Saint John Club.

After dinner the Saint John yachtmen and their guests repaired to the club house at Millageville, where a sing-song was the most popular part of the evening's entertainment. Dr. Channing Lefebvre, a past commodore of the Digby Club, as song leader.

The visitors were guests on board the boats of the fleet and on Sunday morning the fleet sailed up the Saint John River to give the visitors first hand knowledge of its scenic beauties and infinite possibilities for sailing and motor boats. The fleet returned to Millageville in the early evening.

The party from Digby included the following: Commodore J. W. Merkel, Dr. Channing Lefebvre, Dr. T. L. Rogers, Percy Weir, Arthur Weir, Dr. G. V. Turnbull, Richard Lynch, G. B. Clarkson, David Clarkson, Webster Dunn, Thomas Baltzer, George Saulnier, Harold Nichols, Norman Wright, Thomas Matheson, A. G. About This and That

Aren't we queer people! We have thought this for some time, but particularly since reading an account of the temperance picnics recently held at Port Clyde and Margareville. We note that temperance people gathered by hundreds and listened to long addresses by temperance workers, and we wondered why. It is true, the speakers were good and earnest temperance workers. We know them personally and know whereof we speak. But why waste time and energy—and cash—to bring speakers of that calibre to gatherings made up of temperance workers, many of whom knew all about the temperance question before many of these speakers were born. And the same applies to political meetings. The liberals will bring prominent liberal speakers to their gatherings; the conservatives will bring conservative speakers, and so on. We have heard many a person remark: "These meetings never make a vote". Of course they don't. The speakers are talking to people already converted to their point of view. To our way of thinking it would be far better for a gathering of liberals to invite conservatives to address them, for conservatives to get liberal speakers, for temperance workers to get speakers opposed to their view, and for vicariously get to hear the other side of the story and would have a far more intelligent view of the questions at issue. But, we suppose, human nature being what it is, temperance workers will still be bored by temperance addresses; conservatives and liberals will still sit and listen patiently to other conservatives and liberals and they will go away from their meetings thinking that there can be no other way of looking at the matters in which they are interested. Of course, we are queer people!

What's coming over our young folks, or have the frowning, headshaking elders been mistaken? The magazine Future recently conducted a survey asking the members of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce their views on important questions. It found that 82 per cent of the 119,000 young men questioned were church members.

"Did you ever stop to think that hard times mean nothing to a hen?" writes a philosopher. "She just keeps on digging worms and laying eggs regardless of what the newspapers say about conditions. If the ground is hard she scratches harder. If it's dry she digs deeper. If she strikes a rock she works around it. But she always digs up worms and turns them into hard-shelled profits as well as tender broilers. Did you ever see a pessimistic hen? Did you ever know of one starving to death waiting for worms to bring themselves to the surface? Did you ever hear one cackle because times were hard? Not on your life. She saves her strength for digging and her cackle for eggs."

A. P. Herbert, member of the British House of Commons declares this is a time when too many people talk and write in a roundabout and involved way. He is all for more simplicity and terseness. Mr. Herbert recently said that no doubt, if Lord Nelson had had the modern touch, his classic signal at Trafalgar, "England expects that every man will do his duty" might have read something like this: "England anticipates that as regards the current emergency, personnel will face up to the issues, and exercise appropriately the functions allocated to their respective occupation groups."

If you have a guest, if you are back from a trip, if you are going on a holiday, if you are staging a party, if there is a wedding, or a meeting, if you know of any interesting occurrence, anywhere—any time—telephone 100 and let this paper know about it. This helps in the making of what is known as news.

Explanation of Hospital Stand

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—Having noticed of late a tendency on the part of the "Courier" to disparage the Digby General Hospital and its Board of Trustees, I feel that the time has come when a halt to such pernicious propaganda should be called. As this campaign of petty slander has been caused chiefly through ignorance, I will endeavor to place clearly before the people interested the position of the Hospital in this community so that there may be no future misunderstanding. In the first place it must be remembered that the Hospital is a Public Institution. It serves not only the Town of Digby but to a greater extent the Municipality of Digby as well as part of the County of Annapolis. The fact that it happens to be located in Digby does not mean that it is owned by the people of Digby, nor does it mean that every dollar for its maintenance should be spent in the Town, as some would have us believe. For a moment let us glance over the receipts from patients and see who furnishes the greater part of "our" money that goes towards the upkeep of the Hospital. For the year ending July 31st the people of Annapolis County paid into the hospital's treasury the sum of $9,403.16; the people of Digby Municipality $5,196.73, and the residents of the Town of Digby $1,840.85. On the other side of the ledger we find that the Hospital disbursed in the Town of Digby the sum of $7,562.30, which does not include salaries; in Annapolis County practically nothing, and in Digby Municipality possibly a few hundred dollars for farm products. Does this look as if the people of Digby were being unfairly treated by the Hospital Board?

Recently tenders were called for the painting of the Hospital; a reputable firm of painters living in Annapolis County, having put in the lowest and best tender, received the contract. When this became known a hue and cry went forth, aided and abetted by the Digby Courier, that the Hospital Board were taking money from the workmen of Digby and giving it to outsiders, etc., etc. Just here let me again emphasize the fact that the Hospital is a Public Institution; its boundaries are not limited by the Town of Digby but extend twenty miles or more beyond. The men who got the contract are not "outsiders" from the Hospital's point of view, but live within its perimeter, and all things being equal, were just as much entitled to get the job as anyone living in this town. The Committee who had the painting in charge instead of being censured should be congratulated not only for getting a splendid job done but for an overdue friendly gesture to the County of Annapolis. The Hospital Board has the spending of something like $20,000 a year. These are public funds. Realizing this, the Board endeavors to spend it as economically as possible in the best interests of the public and the Hospital, if they have erred at all in the distribution of these funds it has been in giving the Town of Digby too much and the outside districts—that have been shown to furnish the greater part of the money—too little.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I would like to say that during these times I think that the Digby Courier could find much better employment than in lending itself to the stirring up of ill feeling and prejudice.

E. DuVernet, M.D.

ENERGY FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Mothers making out a list of purchases which must be made when school opens, should not forget the all important energy drink for children, cocoa. The logical cocoa to get at this time is Morse's Cocoa which was recently put on sale, and which compares favorably with the finest cocoas on the market. Morse's Cocoa has none of the "filler" which characterizes so many cheaper brands. It is a quality product, pure and wholesome. Morse's Tea and Coffee have already made enviable reputations in their own fields, and housewives who like to get full value for their money are well coming "his newcomer" to the Morse family. The introductory price for this superior cocoa is 25 cents per pound, 15 cents per half pound, but the wise thing especially for mothers of school age children, is to buy several tins. Ask for Morse's Cocoa, and look for the red and white package. You'll find it makes a richer cup of chocolate, which the children will cheer for.

MARRIAGES

Dickson - Dakin

A wedding of much interest to many friends took place in Trinity church, Digby, at noon on Thursday of last week, when Phyllis Marjorie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fritz Dakin, was united in marriage to Lawrence Cameron, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Dickson. Due to the illness of the rector of the church, the ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Ebert of the United States, and Rev. Mr. Holm, of Round Hill, Annapolis County, and the music was rendered by Dr. Channing Lefebvre, organist of Trinity Church, New York City. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of white chantilly lace with train, over white satin, and a finger tip veil, her bouquet being of white roses. The maid of honor was Miss Dorothy Dodge, New Rochelle, N. Y., a cousin of the bride, and Miss Frances Dickson, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. They wore dresses of mauve taffeta with hats of the same and carried bouquets of mauve and purple stocks. The groom was supported by Richard Lynch, of Digby, as best man, and the ushers were Dr. Victor Turnbull, Digby; Ernest Syvertsen, Yarmouth; and C. J. Holder, Halifax. After the ceremony a reception for about seventy-five guests was held at the Pines Hotel Club House. The church was beautifully decorated by friends of the bride. The mother of the bride was dressed in plum colored crepe, and the groom's mother wore a flowered crepe. After a few days spent in the province Mr. and Mrs. Dickson will leave for Ottawa to live. Mr. Dickson being on the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia, in that city. The bride's travelling costume was a black tailored suit, with black hat and accessories and silver fox fur.

Hospital Aid Society Meeting
Interesting reports on the proceeds of the Hospital Fair, were presented at the Hospital Aid business meeting held on Monday afternoon. The gross returns were approximately $1525.00, of which over $1000.00 will be clear when all expenses are met. In addition to the cash proceeds, there are many articles donated by firms, such as the medical supply houses, which are of direct benefit to the Hospital, and generous donations of vegetables were contributed through the vegetable booth, as well as bread, rolls and miscellaneous articles, which were forwarded from various booths after the Fair.

The report from the Hospital Board meeting gave the following statistics for the past month:—Patients: Obstetrical, 6; babies, 7; X-Ray, 25; medical, 24; surgical, 46, with 14 major and 32 minor operations. Total number of patients, 108. Deaths, 1. Expenses, $594.00. Salaries, $644.01.

A most pleasing feature of the report was the decision to install an electric elevator in the Hospital, as a memorial to the late Mrs. Hoyt, of Weymouth, N. S., whose generous bequest will make this improvement possible. Patients and staff will both share in the benefit from this much needed equipment which it has long been our hope to provide.

Successful Card Party At Harbor View

A card party was given at Harbor View, Smith's Cove, recently, for the benefit of the Digby Hospital, and the proceeds were donated to the Hospital. This party was given by the guests at Harbor View in honor of Eugene Ford, who has been Master of Ceremonies at the colony this summer. Mr. Ford has contributed his many talents for the benefit and pleasure of everyone by arranging delightful parties, managing the weekly dances in conjunction with the proprietors, and performing many personal services for the guests in the cottages. It was felt that this testimonial was an inadequate token of appreciation of Mr. Ford's services which have been felt by all.—Com.

Famous Story of the North-West at the Capitol

A thousand savage redmen sweep down on the Mounties' lonely outpost! A gallant garrison fights against overwhelming odds! A lone woman finds love amid peril on a primitive frontier!

Believe it or not—this is what happens in Shirley Temple's latest 20th Century-Fox picture, "Sassaparilla of the Mounties"! The famous story of the old Northwest is a thrilling vehicle for the "Num-ber One" star and it was selected as a counterpoint to the fantasy of her last hit, "The Little Princess".

Garbed in calico and buckskin, Shirley Temple's is a real dramatic role different from anything she has done previously on the screen. Randolph Scott and Margaret Lockwood, the lovely star of "The Lady Vanishes" are featured in the romantic leads, while others in the large cast are Martin Good Rider, 13-year-old Black-foot discovery who makes his debut in the film, J. Farrell MacDonald, Maurice Marchevitch, Moroni Olsen, Victor Jory and Lester Matthews. William A. Seiter directed "Sassaparilla of the Mounties," which opens at the Capitol Theatre on Monday. Shirley, the sole survivor of an Indian massacre, is adopted by Randolph Scott of the Mounties. The famous Police are trying to protect the construction of the great new railway from interference by the Indians.

Scott teaches the child a wonderful lesson in courage which bears her bravely through days of terrible danger.

Miss Dorothy Ellis, of Wood Bros., Halifax, has been sent to the Toronto Exhibition to demonstrate for the Peak-Frank Book Company, of England. Before returning to Halifax she will demonstrate at Sydney and New Glasgow. Miss Ellis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ellis, of Bay View.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Zipser, and Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Glick, of New York, have been spending the past few weeks at the Pines. Dr. Glick is the owner of a large printing office in New York.

She believed the "Courier" building and surrounding wooden buildings were doomed, but left with a very high opinion of Digby's Fire Department, which, she declared "one of the most efficient she has seen in action."

Gold Takes a Beating

A Craft of Ancient Egypt Survives Today in the Making of Gold Leaf for Decorative Purposes.

(By Phillip A. Novikoff, in the C. I. L. Oval)

A saffron sun shone down on the waters of the Nile snaking its way towards the Mediterranean. In the shade of a cluster of palms Cleopatra, Queen of all Egypt, reclined beneath a canopy of brocade gold, watching through sleepy eyes a group of slaves gliding the royal palanquin with leaves of solid gold.

Nearby could be heard the incessant pounding of gold-beaters' hammers. Thump! Thump!
Thump! Gold leaf for the throne of Cleopatra. Gold leaf for her vestments and flimsy queenly garments.

Even before Cleopatra's time, the art of gold-beating flourished.
King Solomon used beaten gold to embellish his temples and enrich the wardrobes of his many wives. In later centuries the Caesars of Russia gilded the domes of their cathedrals in Moscow and St.
Petersburg with gold leaf. The glory of the religious history of Rome is exemplified in the gilded furniture that abound within the vastness of the Vatican.

Since those days, bloody wars have buried many of the treasured links with a glamorous and ancient past under the debris of time. With the Renaissance the old arts and crafts were revived in Europe. Several centuries later the machine age swept away many of the ancient hand wrought arts, but the art of gold-beating survived this whirlpool of chaos and advancement. Today, it remains much the same as it was in the days of the Pharaohs.

On an obscure Toronto street, in the beating room of the Toronto Gold Leaf Company two of the oldest gold beaters in Canada carry on this ancient craft. One of them, George Gee, has beaten gold for 50 years. The other, Albert Winters whose father and grandfather were gold beaters, has been at it for 58 years.

In the preliminary processes of gold beating, the gold is melted in a sand crucible and alloyed with silver and copper, the amount of alloy depending upon the colour and karat content of the leaf desired. It is then poured into an ingot bar of one and one-quarter inches wide, about a quarter of an inch thick and six inches long.
This bar is passed through an electric rolling mill which reduces it to a thin ribbon 20 feet long and 1/1000 of an inch thick. A single length is known as a "beating" which is cut up into several hundred squares.

The actual beating of gold is basically the same today as it was in the days of Cleopatra. Three packets, four inches square and about an inch thick, are used in the process; the "cutch", "shoder" and "mould". The cutch is comprised of 225 sheets of vellum parchment between which the squares of gold from the beating are interleaved and bounded with a heavy steel mallet on a 400-pound granite block for half an hour. Infinitely thinner now and four times as large in area, the gold squares are then sheared into four parts and each part placed between sheets of gold-beaters' skin—900 in all—form the shoder.

Gold-beaters' skin has been used through the ages in the making of gold leaf and is probably the toughest parchment known to man. It is a leathery membrane made from the outer coat of the ruminant—the blind gut of an ox and the gut from 380 oxen is required to make a single shoder.
New gold-beaters' skin—1,050 sheets of it—is used in the mould where the gold receives its final beating. The skin usually lasts 200 beatings, after which it is transferred to the shoder where it becomes so thin under constant pounding that it is often used as artificial skin for cuts and bruises on the human body.

In the mould the gold leaf takes a five-hour beating, which makes the leaves so thin they are actually transparent to light, so thin indeed that no instrument in existence could estimate their thinness, though the beaters estimate that the fine leaf is close to 1/250,000 of an inch thick. Today, an ounce of gold is beaten to an average of 184 square feet of commercial leaf, though in 1711 A.D., a gold beater by the name of Reaumur accomplished the fantastic feat of beating a single ounce of the precious metal into 800 square feet of gold leaf. On the other hand, gold beaters under Cleopatra's rule were able to secure only a third as much gold leaf from an ounce of gold as the beaters of the modern era.

Commercially, pack gold leaf is used largely by sign painters for putting names on shop windows.
Gilders use it for picture frames; high grade shoes are stamped with it; and bookbinders use it for embossing book covers and gilding the edges. The famous Albert Memorial, which stands in Centerington Gardens, was gilded with gold leaf. Albert Winters, the beater at the Toronto Gold Leaf Company, remembers beating gold for this monument with his father.
He also beat gold for the tower of the Woolworth Building in New York, a task which required nine months to complete. Tiffany's of New York has its entire ceiling done in gold leaf, while in Toronto the gilded domes and railings of the Canadian National Exhibition buildings can be seen glistening in the sunlight as one approaches the city by lake steamer.

Wasteful, this re-birth of Cleopatra's lavishness? Hardly, when you consider that millions of dollars are lost annually by the tar-nishing of metals exposed to the air. But gold leaf will remain bright and lustrous for a lifetime for two lifetimes, for as long as the gold leaf covering mummy cases that rest in the silent tombs of Egypt lasted.

Two varieties of gilding size, especially prepared by the C.I.L.
Paint and Varnish Division and known to the trade as "Formula X" are required to fix gold leaf permanently to signs, picture frames and other metal, wood and glass objects. One is a 20-minute quick

Indians Get 'Treaty Money'

Canada is still paying the Indians for the land taken from them nearly a century ago.
Each year at this time Indians of Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia, and the Northwest Territories gather at central points for the formality of receiving their "treaty money". The so-called treaty money is actually an annuity which is given by the Ottawa Government to Indians and their descendants in Canada.

No fixed sum was paid for the land taken from the Indians, and it was agreed that a certain sum of money would be given to every Indian in Canada each year forever. Each province signed a treaty with its Indian inhabitants, and the sum paid to them differs throughout the Dominion.

Payments Differ
Some treaties call for payment of $5 to each man, woman and child. Others state the annuity to be $4. For once the man with most children fares best. He receives the largest bundle of fresh bills. Under some treaties the chief and his six councillors receive more, in some cases from $25 for the chief, $15 for each councillor. Treaty payments distribute altogether nearly $250,000.
According to the treaties, in bad times when the hunting has not been auspicious or the crops have not matured, the Government provides food and clothing. No Indian may be allowed to starve or go naked. The white man has signed solemn treaties at the council fires that he will take care

Recipe for Mrs. Cook's Prize-Winning Biscuits

I'VE sampled lots of tea biscuits in my time, but I have never tasted any that completely tickled my fancy. These baked by Mrs. George E. Cook, R. R. 5, Acton, Ontario. Her biscuits are really wonderful.
So light and flaky, so creamy, so meltingly delicious. Served with maple syrup, honey, apple sauce or preserved fruit, they are superb. Here's a copy of Mrs. Cook's own recipe—do try them!

2 cups sifted Robin Hood Flour
4 level teaspoons Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon Salt
4 tablespoons Shortening
1/2 cup of Milk

Sift the dry ingredients at least twice. Work in the shortening, then add the milk. Mix lightly as possible. Pat into shape and cut with a floured cutter. Bake in a hot oven, 425°

F., for 15 minutes.
Mrs. Cook says: "Speed in mixing plays a big part in the lightness and flakiness of biscuits. The dough must be soft and light and handled as little as possible after adding the milk." Be sure to use Robin Hood Flour. It is famous for the flavor, texture and lightness it produces in bread, biscuits, and, in fact, all baking.

Sincerely,
Evangeline

of him. And the bill runs to $2-

There is much merrymaking on the treaty payment day. It is an occasion for the Indian to partake of luxuries he cannot obtain in the bush. Candy and makers' bread, cakes and sometimes soft-drinks, these are the luxuries.
Young and old feast on the delicacies, while the trading post does a big business. Otherwise the money is spent to buy necessities as flour, sugar, tea, pork, blankets, bright calicoes for dresses, shawls, plaid shirts and guns. Trinkets, glass jewelry, alarm clocks, even saxophones and mouth organs are traded for the treaty money at some of these frontier stores.

Hold Field Day
Then come the sports. Canoe races, football games, lacrosse, baby shows with the visiting airmen and Indian agents as judges.
On Treaty Payment Day many difficulties are ironed out between the Indians and the white administrators from Ottawa. Reserve boundaries are discussed, enlargement or sale of portions, the divisions of tributes, education and similar problems. Then also the Indians hold their elections, the chief and his council being elected for a period of three years. The election allows for changes of leadership, and there is no hereditary control of the tribe as in the days of old, though many chiefs are re-elected time after time. But should a chief be unsatisfactory it is easy to replace him with a successor on the completion of his term of office.

Motoring on Coal Gas.

New Engine Invented In England Which Does Away With Gasoline.

British members of parliament are shortly to be shown new types of motor car engines driven by high-compression coal gas, which, it is claimed, operate as efficiently as engines driven by either oil or gasoline.

Evolved at the National Gas and Oil Engine Company's works at Ashton-under-Lyne, England, it is believed that the new engines may well revolutionize the fuel aspect of road transport.

The importance of the development in the event of war, when supplies of imported fuel may be precarious, is realized in government circles, where a keen interest in the new engines is being shown.
A scheme for rationing gasoline in war time was announced recently.

Already the United Kingdom Gas Corporation is investigating the possibility of setting up gas-filling stations in various parts of the country. These will refuel gas-driven trucks and gas-driven cars from cylinders containing compressed gas or from gas compressors on precisely the same principle as that used in putting air into tyres. The whole operation occupies only a few seconds.

Drawing attention to the recent highway fatality near Tracadie when a pedestrian was walking on to other similar accidents, Royal Canadian Mounted Police point out that the law in Nova Scotia requires those walking on the highways to keep to the left and face the traffic. Many people, they feel, do not know of the change in the law and should realize that they are not only legally bound to keep to the left, but that it is safer as well.—Antigonish Casket.

English Visitor Speaks Highly of Province

An interesting visitor to Halifax recently was Charles H. Saunders, 70 Pattison Road, London, England. A surveyor by profession, Mr. Saunders has travelled over most of Europe and for the past number of weeks has been on a tour across Canada from Victoria, B. C., to Sydney, C. B. Accompanied by Dr. H. W. Schwartz, of Halifax, he motored all over Nova Scotia, including the Cabot Trail in northern Cape Breton.

Mrs. Saunders, who accompanies him, is a landscape painter, and was deeply impressed with the variety of scenery available in this province. Both declare that in this respect, Nova Scotia has the advantage over all the other provinces of Canada. They described the people of Nova Scotia as interesting by reason of the variety of racial extraction.

Mr. Saunders remarked that he had spent his life largely in road building and affirmed that now-where in Europe did he see finer roads than the paved highways of Nova Scotia. He was particularly impressed, he said, with the type of paving selected and the methods of construction. In his opinion these roads are well designed to attract the attention of moterists everywhere.

He was most favorably impressed by the fact that advertising signs do not clutter up the roadsides in this province. He said that whoever was responsible for this clearance deserves every credit.
Road signs have become an absolute nuisance in many countries in Europe and other parts of America that he visited. The fact that these are largely absent on the highways of Nova Scotia, should, he said, be brought prominently to the attention of British motorists.

Mr. Saunders advocates that efforts to attract British tourists to Nova Scotia. He said that he had visited this province about five years ago and was struck on this visit by the improvement made during that time in our hotel accommodation. He said that unquestionably we now have the accommodation that would appeal to the average Englishman, and that the scenery, the people and sports available would appeal to his countrymen. He further stated that, at the present time, travelling to the continent from Britain is curtailed and thus the time is ripe, in his opinion, for a drive to attract the attention of British travellers to Nova Scotia.

He spoke appreciatively of the modern beds installed in so many Nova Scotia hotels and said that

In this respect, Nova Scotia is in advance of Great Britain so far as the country inns are concerned.
He also mentioned the importance of serving British tourists with afternoon tea at four o'clock. He said that the Englishman loves his tea at that hour but takes nothing with the beverage.

Bob Edge to Broadcast from Yarmouth on Tuna Meet.

Highlights of the International Tuna Fishing Tournament which annually attracts big-game fishermen from all parts of the world to the Nova Scotian coast, will be by Bob Edge, sports writer and "outdoor commentator" for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Mr. Edge will give a summary of the high lights of the two days' angling competition on Friday, September 8, at 6.45 o'clock, p.m., Atlantic Standard time. This commentary will be carried on the national network of the CBC and on the network of the CBS in the United States.

An expert angler himself, Bob Edge will be one of the entrants in the tuna tournament, which is being held this summer off Wedge-port, from September 6 to 11.
Teams from Great Britain, the United States, Belgium and Cuba will compete for the Alton B.
Sharp trophy, which was won in 1937 by the British Empire team and in 1938 by the team from Cuba.

China Issuing New Lot of Bank Notes.

Two British printers of bank notes are now carrying out contracts, given to them by the Government Central Bank of China, for printing 1,000,000,000 notes; neither the exact total nor the value of the notes can be divulged.
Four hundred extra hands have been engaged to cope with one of the contracts, which will take a further year to complete; the has already been completed.

The original plates will be in Great Britain and the themselves, will go to China to routen.
There are but few bank printers, other than government factories, in the world, and orders for bank notes are being carried through in England for Costa Rica, Salvador, Greece, Turkey, Egypt, Persia, Siam and Switzerland.

Romance of Fishing Fleet Retold

Down on the south shore of Nova Scotia, lies the town of Lunenburg, home of the Grand Banks fishing fleet. Here the proud Bluenose was built and launched. Here for 300 years Lunenburg men have gone down to the sea to earn their livelihood in the fishing industry. Here each year is held one of the most unique Fall Fairs on the continent.

The Nova Scotia Fisheries Exhibition is not like other Fall Fairs. Others throughout the country display the products of farm and home. The Lunenburg Exhibition is given over to the products harvested from the sea and the handwork of the men who take their living from it.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will present a unique act-uality broadcast from Lunenburg from 8.00 to 8.30 p. m. Atlantic Standard Time on September 12, when the story of the noted fishing port will be retold for Canadian listeners from coast to coast.

Not only are ships built in Lunenburg, but the very timbers for the staunch craft are cut and sawn by Lunenburg men. Lunenburg craftsmen make the sails and rig the ships. Lunenburg foundries manufacture the blocks and other metal equipment with which the vessels are fitted. Lunenburg tradesmen outfit the ships for the long voyages to the banks and Lunenburg plants cure and pack the fish which are brought back to their docks.

W. E. S. Briggs, of the CBC's Maritime staff, will take his listeners on a quick visit to the shipyards where so many proud vessels have been built, to the block foundry, and to one of the sail lofts. He will bring Paul, the Rigger, and other noted Lunenburg characters to the microphone.

Also heard speaking during the broadcast will be Dr. D. B. Finn, chairman of the newly created Salt Fish Board of Canada.

Such a programme would not be complete without sea chanteys, which will be sung by the Lunenburg male choir.

THROUGH THE CENTURIES ENGLAND AND THE EMPIRE'S MAINSTAY

For hundreds of years—from the first consciousness of sea power at Damme, through the days of the Spanish Armada, Trafalgar, Jutland—Britain's first line of defence and a powerful weapon on attack has been her invincible navy, and even with the ascendancy of war in the air, the fleet remains the solid keystone of her defence.

This picture whether the subjects be wooden sailing vessels or iron-clad moving fortresses, is typical of those that have thrilled British hearts in the past—ships of the line moving into formation for battle. This picture was taken during recent manoeuvres; today the ships are "somewhere in the North Sea."

Last of The Indiamen is Being Broken Up

The Java, believed to be the last East Indiaman still afloat, has been towed out of Gibraltar Bay to be broken up.

The ship, which has been moored in Gibraltar Bay for more than 80 years, was perhaps the most familiar mark in Gibraltar territorial waters. She was used exclusively as a coalhulk and was known to generations of merchant seamen as Hulk No. 6, for from her spacious holds thousands of merchant vessels have been supplied with bunkering coal for the best part of a century.

The Java had a romantic history. Built of teak at Calcutta, in 1813, with a displacement of 1,175 tons, she carried 30 guns of which 2 were mounted on the upper deck and 2 on the main deck.

The ship's name was intimately associated with her building which originated in exceptional circumstances. During the voyage of one of the early East Indiamen to Java and China a party of her passengers went ashore in Java. They were attacked by natives, who carried off a young girl passenger of high birth. An officer with an armed party from the ship was at once landed, and after having searched the bush succeeded in overpowering the native kidnappers and rescued the girl, who was found in a state of collapse, stripped of her clothing. Her father, whose gratitude to the ship's officer as leader of the search party, was unbounded, thereupon undertook to build and equip a ship as a present to his daughter's rescuer.

The ship, when built, was named Java, and carried as a figurehead the form of a young girl with hands crossed over her breast. The Java began her trading career in 1841, and was occasionally chartered by the British Government as a transport at the princely rate of 17s. 11d. a month.

Invitation to Happiness

Drama that is poignant and close to the heart, told in a story that is notable for its emotional sweep, its moments of vigorous action, and its downright human appeal will unfold on the screen of the Capitol Theatre, Digby, when "Invitation to Happiness" is presented on Monday to local audiences for the first time. Arriving Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray, featuring Charlie Ruggles, Billy Cook, William Collier, Sr., and Marion Martin.

The fine touch of Ruggles, and his writing collaborator, Claude Binyon, is clearly evident in this picture. This team, which has come through with a long line of hits including "Sing You Sinners" and "I Met Him in Paris," has taken an everyday story and translated it into dramatic terms which will be clearly understood by every audience.

Irene Intervenes

The story starts to unfold with Charlie Ruggles, manager of Fred, going to his old friend, William Collier, Sr., father of Irene, and asking him for a stake to help his young fighter along. Always a sucker for an investment, Collier decides to help him, but Irene intervenes to make certain that her father is not being cheated.

When Irene meets Fred she is impressed with the difference in his outlook on life as contrasted with that of the men whom she has known in society. Fred is restrained, tells Irene that he'd rather spend his time with Marion Martin, entertainer in a night club. This only serves to spur Irene on—and so they are married.

Pursues Fight Career

Fred is determined to pursue his career as a fighter, and Irene has to resign herself to long periods of loneliness. During one of Fred's barnstorming trips, a son is born to the couple. Irene is heartbroken at Fred's absence, but forgives him.

The drama progresses to its central emotional problem when, ten years later, the growing son (played by Billy Cook), hates his father because he realizes that his mother is lonely when his father is away.

POEM SAYS REDS AND CHRISTIANS HAVE SAME FLAG

A startling poem bringing out the fire and enthusiasm of the men of Antigonish, who meet the Communists with a challenge of love in building a new social order instead of the clenched fist of hate is the latest work of Kenneth Leslie, Canadian-born poet and editor.

The poem "O'Malley to the Reds" appears in the August issue of the Protestant Digest and is dedicated to Dr. M. M. Coady, director of St. Francis Xavier University, Extension Department.

This is Mr. Leslie's principal work since he was awarded the Governor General's medal for the outstanding Canadian poem of the year.

The sensational last stanza of the poem carries the message of "Father O'Malley" that the Reds have raised the Christian standard—a red flag, the blood-drenched flag of the early Christian martyrs.

Mr. Leslie is a native of Nova Scotia and one of the most interested workers in the co-operative movement. He delivered the principal address before the annual summer conference at Antigonish last year, when 300 educationists from different parts of the United States learned something of the spirit and practicality of the movement which is fast spreading in Eastern Canada.

Mr. Leslie's poem gets down to the rough gravel of reality. Its locale is Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, mining town:

"Your mine runs down here by the sea, beneath the sea as well.

A mile down and two miles out under the rolling swell."

Caught under the spell of the college priest, the Red miners "have walked the cindered mile" to hear him speak. They find that the Man of Christ has just as much social anger as they for the unchristian things done in the name of Christianity and that they both can serve mankind under the blood-drenched flag of the Christian martyrs.

Peril of the Circus Life

Digby people will regret to hear of the tragic death of Irene Ledgett, who last year visited this town with the Al. G. Barnes Circus. She was with the Russell Brothers Circus this season and while performing an act fell and broke her neck. She had been in the circus business for years and besides a versatile artist, performed aerial work, also had trained horses and elephants in her routine of circus life. Her husband, Fred Ledgett, who trained horses, and was in Digby with his wife, died at his home in Rockford, Ill., last November. Another well known circus figure to Digby is Charles Sparks, who brought his circus to Digby on more than one occasion, and of interest is the announcement that he has recovered from his long severe illness and is now taking a series of baths at Hot Springs, Arkansas. He expects to be back on the road next year. And a few words about Mabel Stark, another circus favorite in Digby. She and her trained tigers are among the acts to appear at the New Mexico State Fair, shortly.

About This and That

With the cunning of the true oriental Joseph Stalin has shocked the democracies of Europe. After years of hymns of hate between Russia and Germany it was suddenly announced that they were to sign a non-aggression pact. Perhaps Stalin figured this was the necessary incentive to bring Germany to the fighting point. It was to be hard on Hitler to retrace his steps on the Danzig question but had Russia formed a pact with Britain and France there is little doubt he would have done so. With his Eastern front safe from Russia, Hitler demanded Danzig and is fighting for it. What will be the result? This will be no quickly decided war, but a war of exhaustion, and when finished the fate of Europe will be in the hands of one man, the hands of Joseph Stalin.

Newspapers do not create war by carrying war news—they help to prevent it. They are not playing into the hands of the dictators when they carry war news. The dictators have everything to lose and nothing to gain when their cruel machinations are exposed to world opinions. The solid bloc of world opinion which is at present standing between Hitler and the realization of his supreme ambitions, is in no small part a result of the work of the newspapers. The blame for the condition of business today must be placed on the source of the news—the grasping dictators—and not on the newspapers. The newspapers have merely been fulfilling the trust placed in them to print the truth.

Not in generations has Germany known invasion. Nor has Italy felt aggression in many years. It is now certain that the territory of each, and not some other country, will know what modern warfare means. There are long and vulnerable coasts. There is no Siegfried Line, in the skies.

It is doubtful if anywhere else on the globe can be found so much undeveloped valuable territory as there is in Canada. Within the dominion are 350,000,000 square miles, suitable for exploitation and settlement. The people of Canada total about eleven million. Most of them never see this

We had intended our next week's issue to be a special one in celebration of our 85th anniversary, and had a lot of advertising and special articles lined up for it. Unfortunately the outbreak of the war has worked against it. Our advertisers do not care about making any extra expenditures at present and we think it wiser, perhaps, to conserve our supply of print paper—which will undoubtedly take a jump. So we will have to wait for another opportunity to celebrate—much to our regret.

On a passage to White's Cove, Digby County, to load a lumber cargo for Boston, Mass., the auxiliary term schooner, Irene Myrtle, Capt. At the port of Yarmouth for a trip of herring was the well known Digby motor vessel, Terrus, Capt. Shirley D. Tidd, which arrived last Saturday and was still there a week later. A consignment of fresh herring was just landed at the Beaver Harbor plant of Connors Bros., by the craft and whether or not another herring cargo will be taken from the Yarmouth Bar (where the last one was picked up), was not known. On the passage to Yarmouth, the Terrus passed the M. V. Mary T. Capt. Oscar Theriault, from East Ferry, off Boer's Head, the latter boat being on its way to White Head, Grand Manan, to pick up haddock.

Takes Exception To Our Remarks

To the Editor of the Courier.
Dear Sir:—An issue of your paper of August 31st, under heading of "About This and That" contained an article criticizing the holding of the recent temperance picnic at Margaretsville and Port Clyde.

It asked why energy and cash should be wasted to bring temperance speakers to bore audiences of temperance people, who knew all about the question, and suggested that in these, and in other assemblages, speakers should be secured who were opposed to the views of those under whose auspices the meetings were held.

As one who formerly had a little to do with the management of the picnics, which the Sons of Temperance have held at Port Clyde for the past 31 years, I may say that no cash was expended this year for their speaker, so that your writer may have no further worry on that account.

As for the remark that "human nature being what it is," and being "bored by temperance addresses," the large audiences who have assembled there during these years to listen to men like Rev. C. A. Williams of St. James Church, of Montreal—the largest Protestant Church in Canada—Rev. Dr. C. H. Mead, of New York, one of the most popular speakers of the United States, with his rare gift of combining wit, humor and fact; Rev. Drs. Alfred Noon and A. K. DeBlois, of Boston; Clarence MacKinnon, Principal of Pine Hill, and John Pringle, of Yukon fame, and many others, too many to mention here, did not feel bored, and if they had hearers "many of whom knew all about the temperance question before many of these speakers were born" as your writer states, he is the only one who possesses such information.

If there is one point in the article which is weaker than another, it is, that all the people who attend such gatherings are interested temperance workers. For many years the attendance at Port Clyde was between 4000 and 6000 people, and of these a great many were not temperance workers, and possibly not sympathisers, but they came, seemed to enjoy themselves, and received a message which might not otherwise have reached them.

There are few people who know all there is to be known about any question, and if any person knows all about the temperance question, and the effects of strong drink, physically, socially, economically, and politically, such person has never been identified.

Would any movement be advanced if its adherents sat down in smug complacency, feeling they knew all about it, and did not want to hear anything more in support of their views to enlighten or to encourage them?

To carry out this idea that people should have only speakers of opposite ideas to address them, we should have the Devil to occupy our pulpits, while the preachers would go to —, well, the matter of arranging an exchange, would be a matter of detail, which could probably easily be arranged by your writer of the article in question.

Sincerely yours,
E. R. Nickerson.

CORRECTION IN BEAR RIVER EXHIBITION PRIZE LIST

The Special Prize donated by Acadia Farms, in Class 14, should read Grade Herd instead of Pure Bred Herd.

The Coming Bear River Exhibition

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir:—While events of the moment are over shadowing the regular activities of the world, yet we are asked to keep calm and not neglect the homelike activities and thus support those who are called to bear a more active part in this the greatest conflict of the ages.

We were told at the time of the last World War (that for every man in the trenches we required five in the furrow.)

We are reminded that the stages have been set for our different County Exhibitions throughout the Province and the time of our Digby County Exhibition is September 26-27.

Considerable effort has been exercised by the management to make it a bigger and better show than ever before.

A new cattle barn, one hundred feet long, is being erected upon the grounds, which will be a great asset in caring for the live stock.

A class embracing school work, has been incorporated in the Prize List this year, which is a new feature, and should be of great interest not only to the children but to the parents as well.

Two silver cups have been donated, one by Acadia Farms, Clements, to be competed for in the Grade Herd Class, another by Mr. E. Fickes, Annapolis Royal, in the Garden Collection Class.

While all good cooks of the district will be much interested to know that the Millers of Robin Hood Flour have agreed to duplicate a number of cash prizes offered in our Baking Contest, provided the exhibits are baked with Robin Hood Flour.

All interested may find the events to which this offer applies, by referring to the Prize List. There is a worth while sum of money to be won, and we have no doubt that competition will be keen.

In order that the Exhibition may be a success, the management requests the co-operation of all those who in any way can contribute in a way that will make it a bigger and better County Show.

Mrs. John Berry and Miss Edna Peck left by Sunday's boat for Boston. Mrs. Berry will spend a month with her daughter Grace (Mrs. McDormand), in Westboro, Mass., and will return to her home in Farmington, Me., last Saturday.

We are pleased to extend congratulations to Miss Beryl Henderson on being a prize winner in the Girls' Garment Club, at the Provincial Exhibition in Halifax last week. This speaks well for Oakdene school and the teacher, Miss Campbell.

Oakdene school re-opened on August 28th, with Principal M. S. Oakes and his staff—the Misses Campbell, Sanford, Forbes and Schmidt. In our rural sections are Miss Parker, at the Cross Roads; Hazel Oickle, Lansdowne; Mrs. John Rawling, Greenland, and Miss Sollows, at Morganville.

ALL that certain piece or parcel of land situate lying and being in Bear River in the County of Digby, bounded and described as follows:—Beginning at a stake at high water mark and adjoining property of Dr. L. J. Lovett; thence north sixty-five degrees west passing seven feet to the westward of the house thereon 150 links (one chain fifty links) to a stone wall with a hold drilled in same on the south side of the Main Public Road; thence thirty degrees east along the said road one hundred and sixty-three (one chain sixty-three links) links; thence south sixty degrees east passing the front corner of old store twelve feet 1.00 chains to high water; thence following the several courses of high water in a westerly direction to the place of beginning; containing one half acre more or less reserving thereout the right of way to the Lovett property also a right to repair abutment of well subject to the rights of any encumbrancer prior to the mortgage foreclosed herein, together with all and singular the easements and appurtenances thereto belonging.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys.

Healthy kidneys show pictures from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy for

INFORMAL PORTRAITS

Use a portrait attachment to take informal portrait close-ups such as this with a box camera or fixed-focus folding model.

SUMMER is an ideal season for informal outdoor portraits of your family and friends, and informal portraits are about as easy to take as any other type of snapshot. Naturally, such informal shots are not to be compared with the work of skilled, experienced professional photographers... but, since you take them yourself for your own album, they do have unique personal interest. Your informal portraits may show one, two, or several persons, grouped naturally—without stiffness. The subjects should fill most of the picture space; too much background is detrimental. Faces should be turned so that a good likeness is obtained—whether profile, full-face, or in between—but as a rule the subjects should not look directly at the camera.

Two types of lighting are acceptable. Direct sunlight from one side is all right, but straight-overhead lighting from the noon sun produces harsh, displeasing shadows. For a softer lighting, and better likeness, place the subjects in "open shade"—for example, at the edge of shade from a big tree, where they will receive light reflected from the sky, but no direct sun. Informal portraits in direct sunlight require no increase in exposure. In open shade (not under

BEWARE OF PREMIUMS

The Latins had a word for it—they had a phrase which began "timeo Danaos" and which in English is translated "I fear the Greeks, even when bearing gifts."

The wise buyer today has good cause to fear for the quality of products which offer a silver plated utensil or a new style toy as an inducement to the buyer. Have you noticed how many heavily advertised wares base their appeal on the idea of getting something for nothing? Of course the premiums are usually disappointing.

They are either useless, or so perishable as to have little or no period of service. And moreover, an extra amount is usually added to the cost of the article.

Coffee, perhaps more than any other commodity, has been merchandised extensively by this method. And of course the brands themselves have suffered. Some have declined more and more in flavour and in quality as the premium race has progressed. It is refreshing to find a coffee firm which consistently eschews this practice. The fact that Nova Scotia's oldest Tea Firm has consistently relied on quality to sell their product is a point in its favour.

Morse's Standard Coffee is comparable to the finest coffee sold, and it retails for the very reasonable price of thirty-five (35) cents per pound. Morse's Standard Coffee is sold in bags which also accounts for a 25% saving. There are no prizes, no premiums, no presents—just superior quality at a price gratifying to the budget.

NOVA SCOTIA FARM NEWS

Boys' and Girls' Clubs at Provincial Exhibition

New and interesting features were introduced into the activities of the boys' and girls' clubs at the Provincial Exhibition at Halifax, last week. Among these was the new exhibit erected representing the work of the clubs in their various projects. This booth occupied a frontage of 50 feet centered with the shield of the Canadian Council on Club Work, and a lighted scene of rural background with the central figures three-foot enlargements of photographs of a boy and girl as symbolizing the membership in the clubs. The booth was erected under the direction of the extension division of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, and signified in the lettering in the booth the co-operation between the provincial and federal departments in the work.

Another most interesting feature was the "fashion show" conducted by members of girls' garment clubs in the booth, displaying dresses made by the girls themselves from materials available in their own homes, including such material as flour sacks in same cases. The dresses shown were surprisingly good, and this feature of the exhibit proved extremely popular with the public.

The display of calves by calf club members, some forty animals shown, also attracted a good deal of attention, and there was some keen competition in the judging.

Assistance to Sheep Breeders

To further assist Nova Scotia producers in the production of lambs of better type and quality, the Dominion Department of Agriculture, through Production Service, is continuing the Ram Club policy of 1939. Certain revisions are being made to render the assistance more effective. Breeders offering rams for grading and sale are advised that only rams of a minimum weight of 100 lbs. at time of grading will be accepted. By proper feeding and culling, breeders can readily meet this requirement. To effect satisfactory sales, breeders are requested to give extra attention to rams between the time of grading and sale. A dissatisfied customer is a poor advertisement.

Copies of the Ram Club policy and blank applications for assistance in purchase can be procured from offices of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at Truro, N. S., as well as from the local Agricultural Representative. They should be completed and returned as instructed, not later than October 15th.

New Nova Scotia Product

The manufacture of apple juice has been commenced this season in the apple producing areas of the province, with one plant now producing the juice, and another reported ready to commence production shortly. The manufacture of apple juice is a comparatively new development in the apple industry of Canada, and makes possible the utilization of quantities of the smaller sizes of apples which do not find a place in the ordinary apple markets. The product turned out in Nova Scotia is of a high quality, and is a product which might readily take the place of many fruit juices now used in the family diet, particularly on the breakfast table, most of which must be imported from other countries. The drink is very pleasant and appetizing, and ideal for family use. Nova Scotia consumers are urged to patronize this new by-product of the apple industry. With a substantial market provided for the juice in the Maritimes, its manufacture on a large scale would be of considerable importance and value to the building-up of the apple by-product industry.

Further Steps to Reduce Lime Costs

Canadian Troops Guard Against Sabotage

The Dominion government has taken steps to prevent sabotage of important public buildings, transport and communication lines. At the RIGHT, a sergeant of the Lincoln and Welland Regiment is shown standing guard on a bridge over the Welland canal, while a Lewis gun crew is seen, LOWER LEFT, keeping a watchful eye on the canal itself. In camp at Thorold, Ont., these soldiers, UPPER LEFT, gather around as one of their comrades receives a shave from the company barber, prior to taking up sentry duty.

recently regarding efforts of the provincial department of agriculture to make lime more easily available to farmers and, at less cost, it is announced by Hon. John A. McDonald, minister of agriculture, that a survey of certain limestone deposits is now being undertaken by officials of the provincial government and other organizations co-operating with the department of agriculture. Those engaged in the survey are Professor L. C. Harlow, provincial chemist; M. F. Goudge, mining engineer of the federal government; Angus Banting, provincial agricultural engineer; M. G. Goudge, provincial mining engineer, and Hugh B. Gillis, lime mining engineer of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation—whose services have been loaned by Dosco. In company with engineers of the provincial highway department, these officials have already investigated certain limestone deposits where lime might be quarried, and ground more cheaply than is now the case. Following the report of these specialists on the deposits, a thorough examination of the lime situation in the province will be made by the government with a view to reducing costs at which farmers can obtain lime for farm use. As previously stated on many occasions, lime is a prime requisite in Nova Scotia farm soils, to correct the universal "sour" condition of the soil, which is necessary before crops can be produced with high yields.

Britishers Keep Their Word

Once again the British Empire is at war with Germany.

On Sunday morning we in Nova Scotia heard the fateful announcement made by Britain's Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain. "This Country is now at War with Germany".

A few hours later were informed France had made the expected declaration of war against Germany.

Britain and France had fulfilled their pledges to go to the aid of Poland in their struggle for freedom, and their fight against Nazism.

On Sunday, too, we listened to the message of His Majesty, George V, to his people—a brief address that was an inspiration to British subjects the world over, an address in which he reminded his people "Over and over again we have tried to find a peaceful way out of the differences between ourselves and those who are now our enemies; but it has been in vain."

Other events have followed rapidly through the week. Of these we have been advised by radio and the daily press. Today, we are awaiting news of the special session of the Canadian Parliament, which will determine Canada's stand in the conflict now upon us.

In his address on Sunday, the Canadian Prime Minister, Mackenzie King, announced Canada would give effective co-operation to the motherland, and appealed to his fellow citizens to "unite in a national effort."

Monday's radio and newspapers told of the sinking of the Athenia, bound for Canada, with 1,400 refugees, "mostly Canadians and a few Americans." Reports state the Athenia was torpedoed by a submarine, which, after firing the torpedo, rose to the surface and shelled the vessel as the unfortunate passengers were escaping in lifeboats. The majority of the passengers are said to have made their escape, but a number were stated killed by the first explosion.

On Tuesday evening, out of curiosity, we tuned in on the English "news" broadcast from Berlin, via short wave. To say the least, the news was startling, but the most startling of all was the German reference to the sinking of the Athenia, the Berlin broadcast stated that in the United States the German version that the steamer was sunk by the British and blamed on the Germans for the purpose of enlisting American sympathy had been accepted in the United States. The broadcaster further stated the American newspapers and radio stations were supporting the German version. After listening to that, we tuned out in disgust.

In Digby, we understand a number of men who had previously signed up with divisions of the militia, had been called to the colors, and many more have offered their services and are awaiting their call.

President Roosevelt has proclaimed the Neutrality Law in the United States. Under this act, the United States will not sell materials of warfare to any nation at war. Not only have the major combatants in Europe been included, but both Australia and New Zealand have been declared as belligerents. At present, we understand, Canada is still regarded, under the act, as a neutral nation.

vast inheritance, and spend a lot of time talking about "their inexhaustible natural resources." It's all that and more. Foreign capital realizes it, and desire to do business. With both money and people being scared out of Europe, this looks like large scale opportunity.

If Hitlerism continues, a good many of us will conclude that the old Kaiser, who was heartily cursed about twenty-five years ago, was a perfect gentleman, even though he persisted in making himself an unmitigated nuisance.

Someone has said that children learn more from chance remarks spoken by their elders, than they do from all lectures and sermons they ever heard. Nothing gives youngsters such a wrong slant of life as to hear their parents constantly criticizing neighbors, acquaintances and public men. A child who hears nothing good spoken of anyone, is given an unfair start. He grows up, as a general rule with the general idea that there is no good anywhere. To get that notion firmly fixed is a real handicap at the very beginning.

Supremely indifferene to feverish humanity and the daily rags of international alarms, the little old world keeps wagging right along. The seasons will come and go, and there will be marriages and matings and births and funerals, and "didn't know it was loaded" accidents, as usual. Long after the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest, and long after Hitler and Mussolini are forgotten, this interesting earth will still be doing business at the same old stand.

It seems to us that the larger part of the Maritime Provinces is getting hysterical—and the next step would be a panic. For heaven's sake, cut out a lot of this war scare talk; the belligerent powers are too busily engaged overseas to take the trouble to send planes or submarines to attack small towns in these provinces. If they came at all, we can rest assured that the military zones would be the ones aimed at. Those who went through the last war and saw what damned fools people could make of themselves over alleged spies, camouflaged gun placements, etc., know how easy it is to get people to lose all sense of reason when considering war measures. We can remember during the Great War of men putting in concrete cellars in their homes or laying a concrete garden path and complaints would go into police and military headquarters that they were building gun emplacements for the Huns. The partial blackout ordered in Digby on Monday evening was ridiculous and had the effect only of making nervous people more nervous. Why get so jittery? Nothing is gained by it and its effect on the sick and nervous is all to the bad.

Sailmaker to be Interviewed on CBC Network

Several decades ago, before the dawn of the era of steam, the white-winged sailing ships of Saint John, N. B., were known in all ports of the Seven Seas. In those days Holder's Sail Loft down on the Saint John waterfront was a bustling place. From the nimble hands of Holder craftsmen came the billowing canvas that helped Saint John clipper ships win many a hard-fought race for trade. Today the wind ships are but a memory—except for a few scarred old three-masters which cling to the scraps of coastal trade left by the speedier steamers. Today Holder's Sail Loft has been given over to the more prosaic but still exacting business of fashioning sails for sporting craft, jaunty yachts and saucy little dinghies and of making awnings for business places and summer homes. But memories live in Holder's Sail Loft, memories of the salty days of wooden ships and iron men. Radio listeners in Canada will hear about the story of present-day sail making and how it contrasts with the old days, on Monday evening, September 11, William Holder, descendant of a family of sailmakers, will be interviewed before the microphone by deB. Holly, of Radio Station CHSJ, Saint John, at 7.45 p. m., Atlantic Standard Time. This is the first of the series "My Job" to be heard on the National Network from the Maritime Provinces. It is expected that the following week an interview will be presented from Halifax.

More Surprise Parties at Harbor View, Smith's Cove

During the evening of Thursday last, a surprise party was held in the Casino at Harbor View, in honor of Theodore Nisbet. As announcer of the programme, the Rev. W. O. Kinsolving played the part of Major Bowes. Four skits, taking off typical events in the summer activities of Mr. Nisbet and the Colony, were staged by the honor guest's friends; a bar-room quartet sang with gusto, interesting moving pictures taken by the Nisbets and the Flints, and beautiful still pictures of the World's Fair, taken by Huntington White, were shown. Arthur Rand read an original poem, and Mr. Nisbet was presented by the announcer with various humorous tokens of the Colony's esteem. A second surprise party was given the same evening at 11 o'clock, for Eugene Ford, Master of Ceremonies at the Colony this summer, by members of the Harbor View staff. Donald Cossaboom presented Mr. Ford with a purse, in token of the appreciation which the management and staff have felt in connection with all that the recipient has done for the pleasure and benefit of everyone. Simon Fraser

The name of Simon Fraser, a native of Glengarry, is written boldly on the pages of the early Canadian history of the Pacific Northwest. He became a partner in the powerful North West Company and in 1805 was placed in charge of its fur trading operations beyond the Rocky Mountains. In 1809 he explored the rocky, rushing Fraser River which now bears his name.

About This and That

The 33 men rescued from the Squalus have had their pay cut. Navy rules provide an extra allowance for men on submarine duty, but the General Accounting Office holds that since the men have been rescued they have not been on active submarine duty (their sub having sunk) and so should be paid the lower rate. The loss will run from $5 to $30 per month for the enlisted men and 25 per cent of the salaries of the officers.—Ex.

The journal of the American Medical Association, quoting three physicians, says there seems to be more than a chance relationship between grief, family worry and hard times, and the onset of arthritis. These conclusions were based on a study of fifty patients, thirty-one of whom gave histories of "no work," "financial stress" and "on relief." There is nothing new in the discovery of a partnership between ill health and destitution.

Public life invites criticism. It is necessary and makes for a healthier administration of affairs, so long as it is fully justified, discerning and fair. As a rule, however, the general mass of people remain unjust. There seems to be, in human nature, a curious twist that associates with public service the suspicion that everyone holding a legislative seat will bear some watching. It is curious, yet to a large extent, true. History shows that many of Canada's most eminent men have died, comparatively poor. They gave themselves to their country. Private gain was never paramount. In a personal sense, a member of parliament can be just as hard working, and just as high-minded and honorable, and in need of whatever he earns as those who are private citizens.

Erli Baldwin, former Prime Minister of Great Britain, who is getting a warm welcome in his present visit to America, said something the other day that we might well paste in our hats or on our walls. The British people hate war, he declared, and it has taken them a long time to realize that there are others who think differently. But now—"A realization of what totalitarianism means has caused a hardening of mind of our people. We have come to realize that if the challenge comes, it is one that has to be taken up. "A belief in democracy, and a willingness to work and live and die for it, is today the only salvation of the world. "No democracy can live unless the mass of the people have it in their minds that democracy is worth living for as well as dying for. "We have got to believe in democracy the same way the Nazis and the Fascists believe in their system."—This seems as true for Canadians and Americans as it does for Britons.

As Things Are . . .

(By M.G.T.)

Thank you, dear Mr. Editor, for asking me to send along a contribution to celebrate the Courier's 65th birthday. I'm going to celebrate also, although sixty-five years ago the folks at home had not even thought of me; and in any case, I probably would not be the same sort of a "blessed event" as a new weekly news paper would be considered to be. The Courier gets around more than I, too, clean across the country, even to South Africa. I'm sure I will never get there, and I don't believe I would want to go. Speaking of birthdays, my best beloved has a story that he drags out on all occasions that some one comes from down home, who knows the country around Weymouth, way back in the woods, many years ago, my grandfather, owned a large tract of timber land, which was always referred to as "back to Doty's", because, on the edge of the wood lot was a little, cleared bit of land, on which stood a cosy cottage home. Mr. Doty and his family lived there and fine people they were. On the first visit my husband ever made to Weymouth, Dad took him back to the wood-lot one day after blueberries, and as they passed the Doty place Dad remarked that "We moved that place back here the day your woman was born". No one had ever referred to me in those terms before, and it tickled him immensely. I don't mind him calling me "his woman", but the Saints preserve him if he ever starts calling me "the old woman".

Among my scrap-book collection is an old book, made many years ago, by the "Dunbar girls", who were old, old residents of Weymouth. It contains a little item concerning the various papers published by Albert Edward Dodge, in the year 1857, and continued to do business there until 1863, when it was removed to Weymouth, where the office was consumed by fire within a year. The next paper was "The Examiner", founded in May, 1865, and which lasted less than two years. The Digby Weekly Courier came next, the first number being issued in 1874, and has lasted to the present day, sixty-five years of faithful, efficient service to the public of the Maritime Provinces and all points East and West. Like the grand old Union Jack, "long may it wave."

It has been a hot and dusty summer down the old back road. I seldom leave my little home by the water, where there is always a cool breeze. Many folks have come to see us this year, including by brother and his wife. We had met only once in over thirty years, and sisters, let me tell you that there is nothing to the old saying that "women talk more than men". We have a pen with about fifty hens and chickens, and the roosters that crow every time the hens lay one of the dozen or more eggs every day, never made as much clack and clatter as those two men. They talked of everything under the sun; old family history, forgotten by me, years ago, stories grown grey with age, and which, I can assure you, lost nothing in the telling. They toured the back roads in the old truck, which breaks down every time it gets a mile or so away from the house, and then has to be cranked by hand before it will start again. I don't believe as much energy was ever packed in four days before, but a good time was had by all.

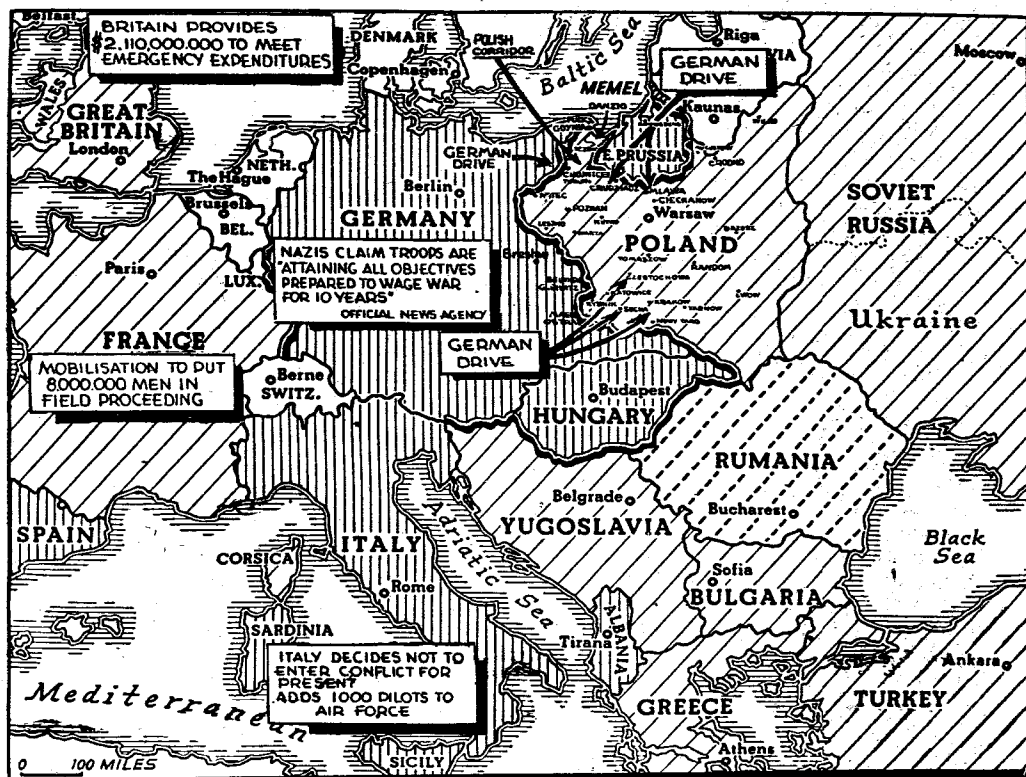

It is almost a year since we were visited by the hurricane, that almost devastated New England. That was a time that I hope to never see again, although we were among the lucky ones. Three days of heavy rain, then one afternoon the gale struck. It was only four o'clock, and in an instant so dark one could hardly distinguish anything. Electric and telephone wires went down with a crash, and while we could hear the crashing of the falling trees, none fell in our immediate vicinity. We had only two candles, a small lamp and one flash light in the house. It was pretty awful to go to bed in such total noisy darkness, with no way of knowing what was going on outside. In the morning we were no better off, with even the radio out of commission and the roads under water. We couldn't get out and no one could get to us. They told us afterwards at the telephone exchange, that they were deluged with calls for the club house and it was three days before the wires were repaired. You know New England never had a hurricane before, and it is one thing that will not bear repetition.

The German drive on Poland that appears to have started another reign of bloodshed in Europe, is illustrated on this map.

N. S. Farm Notes

Emphasis Now on Greater Production

With the commencement of another European war, in which the motherland is involved, the question of food production once more becomes a vital problem with Canadian farmers, no less in Nova Scotia than in other provinces of the Dominion. Just what will be the requirements, or what will be required of Canadian farmers in the way of speeded up production cannot yet be defined, but with the experiences of the last war still sharply in mind, and with submarine warfare already taking toll of merchant ships, there is little doubt that great emphasis will be placed upon a campaign for greater production of most foodstuffs.

Just where will Nova Scotia fit into a campaign of that kind? There will be first of all urgent need for increasing acreages in the various grains customarily produced here, and for this reason thought should be given right now to the matter of fall plowing, in order to have as much land prepared for seeding into grains as possible next spring. The farmer who makes a practice of plowing whatever fields he can in the fall has that particular job done and out of the way when the rush of spring work comes down upon him. It also permits him to plan his crop program to better advantage.

It is also emphasized that the production of a greater volume of vegetables will be important in meeting conditions imposed by war. With respect to the dairy industry, it is stated that owing to low butterfat prices there has been a tendency to neglect proper care of cows in many herds, and to let milk production decline. Now is the time to bring cows back into production for the coming winter; butter, like other commodities, is likely to increase in price, and is one of the products that will be required in greater volume. Hog production is also another line of farming in which Nova Scotia can quite easily bring about increased production. In the hog districts, it is suggested that the number of brood sows might be increased this fall.

These are matters to which the farmers of Nova Scotia are asked to give their serious attention. They are lines of production in which Nova Scotia can be of great assistance to the motherland.

Creamery Butter Production

There has been a slight improvement in butter production in the province, according to the report of Dairy Superintendent, W. J. Bird, for the month of August. Production for this month has reduced the decline in production this year as compared to last, from 14 per cent decrease to 12 per cent decrease, and there is indication that this percentage will be still further reduced as the fall season proceeds. Production for August this year was 644,648 pounds, compared with 732,953 pounds in August last year. The total for this year to the end of August was 4,086,829 pounds, compared with 4,653,733 pounds for the same period of last year.

Women's Institutes Organized for War Work

With nearly 150 branches now active through the province, the Women's Institutes of Nova Scotia, including in their membership a large section of the rural women of the province, are fully organized to carry on any work in connection with war duties which may be required of them, states Miss Helen Macdonough, Superintendent of the Institutes for the Provincial Government. Miss Macdonough has so notified the government. The motto of the Institutes is "For Home and Country", and during the last war had a notable record of war work. The Institutes have grown in number during the past few years, and through the establishment of courses in local leadership, many Institute members are now qualified to supervise important projects in their own communities.

Conference on Apple Marketing

As already announced, a conference on policies to be adopted in the marketing of Canada's apple crop, of which Nova Scotia supplies the largest production, is being held at Ottawa, where some definite action will be decided upon. Already the fruit interests of Nova Scotia have taken action to organize a board, which will advise on apple marketing, comprised of representatives of the fruit growers, the processing plants, the shippers and the provincial department marketing branch. The wholesale fruit trade is also being represented at the conference at Ottawa.

The marketing of Nova Scotia's apple crop, which is expected to be a very large one this year, will present problems under war conditions, since to a large extent at least, the usual market in Britain will be cut off. It is hoped at least that a large market can be established in the old land for processed fruit, and the plants in Nova Scotia are prepared to process an unusually large proportion of the crop, if orders are to be forthcoming. For the fresh apple market, the fruit growers will be compelled to depend to a greater extent than ever on provincial markets. Apples of a high quality will be available this year at prices lower than for some years at least, and consumers throughout the province are urged to increase their consumption of apples to the greatest possible degree.

An interesting feature of the show of Clydesdale horses at the Provincial Exhibition in Halifax, this year, was the fact that the championship for all ages was won by a three-months' old colt sired by Croft Eminent, the Clydesdale stallion, owned by the

Tips for Motorists

Because of earlier darkness, accidents involving motor vehicles increase greatly in September, and October over July and August. Make sure headlights are properly focussed and burning brightly. Reflectors should be cleaned and dim bulbs replaced. Be sure and use long-life Canadian-made lamps.

2. Brakes should be checked now after the summer's heavy driving. At 40 miles an hour, a car cannot be stopped under 115 feet. Have the car wheels "pulled" to assure proper check.

3. A good anti-freeze is an economy, not an expense. Many cases of freeze-up, causing costly repairs, are due to motorists thinking they were protected. But boil-away types of anti-freezes evaporate on warm days, leaving the radiator not sufficiently protected when cold weather comes again. The permanent type of anti-freeze keeps at full strength all winter long. A popular brand has been considerably reduced in price this autumn.

4. Old, worn tires are dangerous on rainy autumn days and particularly on icy pavements. For safety's sake, they should be replaced now.

5. Nothing cuts down a car's efficiency more than a rust-clogged corroded cooling system. Formerly it was a long, expensive process to clean it out by acids, but garages now report a simple, three-step cleaning process which does the work in half an hour at low cost. After having the cooling system cleaned be sure and use an anti-freeze which contains special rust inhibitors.

Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, and in the stables of the Agriculture College Farm at Truro. The champion colt is owned by McNeill & Son, of Windsor. Another interesting item comes in the fact that the grand champion Holstein cow at the Provincial Exhibition, Abegweit Sparkie, owned by Walter Jones, of Charlottetown, is from the same sire as the two cows recently purchased from the same herd by the Nova Scotia Department for the College, herd at Truro, purchase of which was announced recently.

Crop Conditions

The continued dry weather has made for short pastures and very little aftermath. As a result, milk production is still down somewhat as compared with last year. On the other hand, the hot, dry weather has hastened the ripening of grain, which not only has been gathered in excellent condition, but considerable threshing has already been done. Yields of early grain have been good. The late grain is spotty. Potatoes are ripening and promise at least a fair yield; early potatoes were good. Grain has made excellent growth but roots need more rain, although fields generally show a good stand and can with sufficient rain give excellent yields. The hay crop was gathered in excellent condition and is nearly up to an average crop, and is much improved in quality over a year ago.

Poultry is moving to market in excellent quality, and quantity increased over last year. Pools are already being lined up and prospects are that the biggest quantity of quality poultry will be marketed this year that has ever been marketed in the history of the province.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT TO FARMERS

(Special Despatch to the Courier) In a statement issued Monday, Hon. John A. MacDonald, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, urged upon all farmers in the province the utmost importance of increased production and improvement of quality of produce.

In view of increasing prices for feeds, the Minister urged that this emphasized more strongly than ever the need for a greater production of home grown feeds. In preparation for this, he pointed out the value of getting as much fall plowing done as possible this fall, for increased production of grains and other crops next season.

"Those farmers who remember the conditions created in the last war, realize how vital is the need of such increased production, and will be ready to give their full cooperation. This is the opportunity for the farming industry to demonstrate how completely it can make its contribution to the general cause," said the Minister. "I am sure our farmers will do all possible to increase production as well as to improve the quality of their products."

Shortly after the outbreak of war, Hon. Mr. MacDonald indicated to the authorities at Ottawa, the readiness with which the farming industry of Nova Scotia would co-operate in any policies laid down for the successful prosecution of the war. In a telegram to Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, Mr. MacDonald assured Mr. Gardiner of the "wishes of the Nova Scotia Provincial Department of Agriculture to co-operate with you and your department officials in furthering any federal policies which may be adopted for the purpose of assisting to win the war for democracy. In sending you this assurance I am not only expressing the desire of the Government but also, I believe, the wishes of the farmers of Nova Scotia whom we are endeavouring to serve, and who have co-operated so loyally in the carrying out of other policies."

Re-alignment of the provinces agricultural program to conform with whatever policies may be decided upon by those in charge of the prosecution of Canada's war-time program, is being carefully considered by Provincial Agricultural Officials, announced the Minister.

TO HITLER UPON ENGLAND'S DECLARING WAR

Enough! your course is ended; no more your cruel might Bring suffering and oppression, destroying all the right. No more shall nations tremble that on your borders lie The terror you have fostered, we pledge ourselves, shall die.

Your maniacal mouthings inspired by lust and greed Cannot misguide a people, a people who are freed. This freedom for the peoples, who in your bondage live Of the nations you have captured we promise them to give.

At Munich and before it, we trusted in your word But now to broken pledges our answer is the sword. No fight is ours for conquest, for hidden gain or greed We fight till Europe's peoples are from your clutches freed.

Our pledges not forgotten, still holding to the right We'll break your cruel oppression and crush your armed might. And from out history's pages we'll tear the bloodstained leaves Ridding the world of leaders, who are cut-throats, rogues and thieves.

"Alex Graham Bell" At the Capitol

Out of the stirring past of this great nation emerges another great accomplishment—the story of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone. His is the dramatic romance of one who dreamed and struggled, loved and achieved. Simple, human and inspiring, the magnificent motion picture coming Monday, to the Capitol Theatre, pays homage to his genius and to a woman's devotion. "The story of Alexander Graham Bell."

With Don Ameche (in the title role), Loretta Young and Henry Fonda sharing stellar honors, tells with power, with humor and with profound humanity the drama of a great man and the love that inspired him.

Bell's is a story of an obscure young scientist, his discouraging struggles, his invention of the telephone, his desperate battle against public ridicule and powerful opponents, his ultimate triumph, the flame of his genius kept alight by the love and faith of the woman he adored.

So intense was the struggle against poverty, disappointment and powerful opponents—a struggle which prevented his marriage to the girl he loved, that Bell halted on the threshold of his invention ready to sacrifice it so he could find happiness with Mabel Hubbard. To her, in his darkest hour, he wrote:

"Ever since I held you in my arms, I've known! My invention must be given up. This is little enough to do if it means that I may call you sweetheart and wife! The telephone will be born some day—and I do not care one bit who gets the glory so long as the world gets the benefit."

But the courageous Mabel spurred on the dreamer, who believed men could talk through a wire. It was their romance that gave the world the power to span oceans and continents with the human voice.

"When next you talk vast distances to those dear to you," says Associate Producer Kenneth Macgowan, "remember it was a great romance that wrought the miracle."

Included in the cast are: Charles Coburn, Gene Lockhart, Spring Byington and the three sisters of Loretta Young: Sally Blane, Polly Ann Young and Georgiana Young.

New Brunswick Vessel Turned Completely Over in Perfectly Calm Weather—Several Were Drowned.

After more than half a century the case of the 97 ton sailing vessel, Union, remains one of the most baffling mysteries of the sea. Built at nearby St. Martin's, N. B., in 1889, on a co-operative basis for the coastal trade, the Union made a maiden voyage to Boston and return. She was chartered to take on a load at Shulee, N. S., but put into St. Martin's on a Saturday so Captain John Kelly and crew members could spend the week end at home. Jack Dyre, cook, alone remained aboard.

The cook declared later that he was awakened Sunday night by a harsh, eerie voice saying, "Dyre, leave this vessel." He thought he had been dreaming, but after long intervals, was aroused two more times by the same ghostly order. A search of the ship revealed no one on board.

The next morning, Dyre, pale and trembling, told the story to the scoffing skipper and refused to sail to Shulee. A substitute was hired. The Union drifted out of St. Martin's with the tide. It was a clear day without any breeze. Hours later the tide ebbed and the vessel drifted back. Becalmed ships lay all around her. The sails of 40 vessels could be counted from St. Martin's. Black clouds gathered in late afternoon but there was still no breath of wind. "It looks like rain. I think I'll put on my boots and coat", Capt. Kelly remarked to Nelson Smith. No sooner had he spoken than the Union lurched violently. She seemed to be dropping through space and spinning. Suddenly, Kelly found himself standing on the ceiling. The ship had turned completely over.

Smith had dashed out the companionway. As the vessel capsized, his nimble feet carried him over her bottom, like a lumberjack on a rolling log. When the vessel came to a stop, upside down, he was clinging to the keel. Trapped in the gallery, Kelly dove through the companionway and was assisted up by Smith.

They sat on the bottom of the vessel for ten minutes in a blinding rainstorm. There was no sign of the other three crew members. So quickly had the Union overturned that she was full of air. This blew oakum from the seams with reports like pistol shots. Fishermen rescued Kelly and Smith. The body of Wm. Bradshaw, who had replaced Dyre, as cook, was found in the cabin. Bodies of another William Bradshaw and Frank McDonough were never found.

DISASTROUS FIRE DESTROYS MILL

The office, dryhouse and mill of the Sissiboo Planing and Saw Mill with all equipment and about forty thousand feet of first grade lumber was totally destroyed during noon hour on Thursday of last week, when fire of unknown origin fanned by a strong wind, struck with lightning speed. Loss is estimated between ten and fifteen thousand dollars with no insurance.

Workmen leaving at noonhour, saw nothing amiss. When the fire was discovered at twelve thirty, the interior of the buildings were filled with dense smoke and flames so that it was impossible to save anything. In twenty minutes the buildings were flat to the ground.

The mill was built forty years ago by two brothers, Pius and Eloi Comeau and during that time had given steady employment to a number of men. Of late it was being operated by sons of the original owners, who are now deceased.

During the past year considerable work had been done on the mill and dry house and new machinery installed. Besides the loss to the owners, John LeBlanc, local boat builder, lost blue prints and material for new boats which he had under construction in the building. One workman also lost a new bicycle which he had recently purchased.

Why Fishermen Wear Chains

Tourists, who have wondered along the waterfront of Lunenburg, which the salt-bankers call home, have often wondered why fishermen wear brass chains around their wrists. Few have ever found out, but Capt. William Spindler, who has sailed to the banks for 40 years, has come forward with an answer.

The brass coils are worn by fishermen to ward off fish boils, according to the skipper of the Isabelle A. Spindler. The boils, an infection of the skin, caused by bacteria getting into abrasions on the arms of men who handle fish, are painful and long periods of hospitalization are required to cure them.

About 90 per cent of the fishermen, who ship out of the South Shore ports, wear the chains. Unschooling in the ways of pathology, many of them believe the verdigris—or brass corrosion on the chains—prevents the infection.

The history of this odd method of disease prevention goes back half a century according to Capt. Spindler.

"About 50 years ago," he said, "I have been told, our men began wearing, not brass chains, but brass bands, like bracelets, made by Capt. Adam Knickle, of Lunenburg, on the advice of an old country doctor, who had been called upon to treat several cases of fish boils.

"This doctor said that the verdigris from the brass bands would form a sort of coating over the wet skin and prevent infection.

"Captain Knickle patented his invention but the stiff brass bands were somewhat clumsy and later someone got the idea that brass chains would give just as much protection and allow more freedom of wrist movement.

"Capt. Spindler said he believed the use of chains saved the fishing industry thousands of dollars yearly through the prevention of infection and the laying up of men.

Only Post Office Surpasses United Church of Canada

The Dominion Post Office alone surpasses the United Church of Canada in the number of its branches, for no other institution, whether railroad or bank, exceeds the church's total of 7,493 preaching places, according to a recent statement made by Rev. Dr. A. Lloyd Smith, Montreal minister and a former Home Mission Secretary. He made the statement by way of illustrating the vast extent of the United Church's home missionary activities.

It is perhaps because of its immense character that the average member of the church fails to realize what is being done in this respect, and the romance contained in missionary work, according to Dr. Smith. He said that "people are inclined to believe that oration, hardship and heroism are a part of the missionary enterprise, without stopping to think of what is actually being accomplished.

Speaking from the Atlantic to the Pacific mission work is today handicapped by lack of men and money, Dr. Smith stated. Not since church union, he said, have younger men been needed in the church as they are today. A family can make no greater contribution today, he held, than to send a son into the missionary field. To emphasize this point, he recalled that twenty missionary fields in one section of Canada, have had to be left vacant because men are no longer available.

CANADA AT WAR WITH GERMANY

Canada officially declared war on the German Reich on Sunday, one week after war was declared by the British Empire, and for the first time in history our country entered a war on its own account and its own will, approval of Canada's declaration of war was signed by His Majesty George VI. in the Commons Chamber Prime Minister MacKenzie King, made the announcement that adoption of the address from the throne would be accepted by the government as authority to proclaim a state of war between Canada and Germany. Only six members of the senate participated in the address and there was no dissension. During the course of his address Senator Arthur Meighen, leader of the conservative opposition in the senate, declared "If we don't win this war on the banks of the Rhine we'll have to win it on the banks of the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi".

A special session of the United States Congress is in the offing, and indications are there will be a real fight for a revision of the present neutrality act which prohibits the export of materials for war to any belligerent nation— which now includes Canada. It is felt in many quarters that pressure will be brought to bear on the American Congress to make it possible for these supplies to be purchased on a "cash and carry" basis.

The present stand of the United States, which proclaims herself as "great defender of democracy" brings to mind a bit of satire which appeared during the crisis of September 1938, which declared "America will fight for democracy to the last Frenchman".

One of the outstanding speeches during the week was that broadcast by Anthony Eden, on Monday, who, in the course of his talk declared "Today one fact stands out, and it is this, that before the war broke out we did all that we could do to make our attitude unequivocally clear to Germany's rulers so that—and here I use the Prime Minister's own words—"there should be no tragic ambiguity." He further declared that "the people of this country are prepared to fight a very long war to a bitter end, if that must be to rid the world of Hitlerism and all that Hitlerism implies. He closed his address with this remark "By Herr Hitler's own decision our new civilization must be built through a world war. We would have wished it otherwise. But our new civilization will be built just the same, for some forces are bigger than men, and in that new civilization will be found liberty and opportunity for all."

In Germany Field Marshal Herman Goering also had a little speech to say. Goering, named by Hitler, as the man to succeed him, said his country was "ready for an honorable peace" which statement British officials interpreted as forshadowing peace proposals from Berlin as soon as the Polish campaign reaches a stage satisfactory to Hitler. The British answer was prompt and unmistakable. The War Cabinet announced its plans were based on the assumption hostilities would last three years or more and this could be interpreted that Britain would fight just as long as it is necessary to rid the world of Hitlerism.

Hitler is already at the Eastern Front, and it has been intimated that his side-kick Goering has gone to join him to take charge of the air force. What an objective for an ambitious Polish snip-er!

Unofficial, but nevertheless believed, more or less authoritative sources claim that in one week of warfare Germany has lost 50,000 soldiers and well over twice that number wounded on the Polish front, where the Poles are putting up a brave and stiff resistance against the invaders. Warsaw, in spite of German claims a few days ago, has not been taken, and reports are that in some instances the enemy has been driven out of certain suburbs they had previously occupied.

The war at sea still goes on relentlessly and many British merchantmen have fallen prey to the German U-Boats, however, we have reason to believe this kind of warfare has reached its peak as 'he convoy system will be in force very shortly.

Canada's $100,000,000 war budget was passed Tuesday. Further details regarding this matter will be found elsewhere in the "Courier".

Summary of Tax Changes

The war-time budget delivered in the House of Commons, Ottawa, Tuesday, disclosed an excess profits tax will be levied by the government on all business and additional taxes will be placed on incomes, all alcoholic and aerated beverages, tea, coffee and tobacco to meet war costs.

With an estimated deficit for the current fiscal year, including war costs up to March 31, 1940, of $156,000,000 the minister announced plans to meet a large portion of it out of increased taxes on luxuries and excess profits.

All businesses, whether incorporated or not, will pay a tax ranging from 10 per cent to 60 per cent of profits ranging in excess of five per cent to 25 per cent of capital, or an alternative tax of 50 per cent on all profits in excess of the average for the last four years.

Individual and corporate income taxes are increased, the former by a surtax of 20 per cent of the total normally paid, and the latter by three per cent over the present level.

Domestic and imported spirits will be taxed an additional $3 per gallon excise duty, the excise tax on all wines is doubled, the excess duty on imported beers increased by nine cents a gallon and corresponding increases made in the

RETREAT FOR THE ANNA-POLIS DEANERY

Last year a retreat for the Annapolis Deanery was held in Digby, and this year again Digby was the centre for another Retreat for the Deanery. This was held in the Parish House and in Holy Trinity Church from the 4th to the 7th inst., the Diocesan Missioner, Rev. F. Ellis, conducting. The Rector, Rev. E. M. Caldwell, and the Rev. A. S. Hart of Weymouth, were unable to attend on account of illness. The Rev. T. R. B. Anderson on account of military duties, was able to attend only one day. The Rural Dean, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, The Rev. Canon Underwood, Bridgetown; The Rev. E. B. Gabriel, of Annapolis Royal; The Rev. Carl Holm, of Round Hill; The Rev. F. Gaskill, of Grandville, and C. R. Elliott, who is assisting the rector, were all present throughout the Retreat. Walter Harris, of Bear River, came in for most of the session.

The following was the order of procedure:—

The retreat which was most helpful and inspiring, closed on Friday morning the 8th inst., with celebration of the Holy Communion, The Rev. E. B. Gabriel being the celebrant and Walter Harris serving.

Votes of thanks were extended to the Rector, Mr. Elliott and to the members of the Parish, who had kindly assisted to make this Retreat possible.

On Tuesday evening of last week, Duncan MacD. Little, of New York, gave a "movie" show in the Temperance Hall, proceeds being for village benefits. The pictures were most interesting. One showed an up-to-date lumber camp in Northern Quebec, scenes gave accurate details of the work from the felling of the trees to the manufacturing of same. Another one of special interest was made in Poland and showed a Polish marriage and all the festivities connected with it. Every one greatly appreciated Mr. Little's kindness in giving us this opportunity to see these pictures. The ones showing the Harbor View fire last year, were unfortunately left in New York, but as Mr. Little promised not to forget them next year, we are still looking forward to that.

Soft, Springy Dough Makes Baking a Joy!

Commenting on the texture and whiteness of her bread, Mrs. James McKay of Newcastle, N.B. said: "There never was whiter bread with a finer texture than that made with Robin Hood Flour. I love to knead my bread, for its soft springy elasticity makes baking a joy."

Ten years ago friends advised Mrs. McKay to try Robin Hood Flour, and she is glad she did so. Here are some of her reasons: "For one thing I do not have to keep more than one kind of flour in the pantry," said Mrs. McKay. "Robin Hood is an all-purpose flour—as good for cakes and pastry as it is for bread and buns. Also, I get more bread from a bag of Robin Hood Flour and the last loaf is as moist and full of flavour as the first."

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating"—so the proof of the quality of flour is in the using of it, and surely nothing can be added to the above remarks made by a good home baker regarding the quality of Robin Hood Flour. Order it from your dealer. Remember, if after two bakings you are not absolutely satisfied, your money will be refunded, plus 10% extra in cash.

"ABOUT THIS AND THAT"—Continued (From First Page)

Having for many years given freely of his time to public affairs, Albert Murray, one of Boston's leading printers, has learned much about the Caspar Milquetoast characteristics of the average citizen says the Linotype News, Albert also knows what newspaper editors are up against. He pictures a red-faced man entering a newspaper office in a hurry. "Conditions in this city," shouts he, "are a scandal. Your paper ought to expose this man. I will give you all the facts. You ought to come out with a blistering editorial against him. It is your civic duty." The editor hears him through, then speaks: "I tell you what we will do," he says calmly. "You write our paper a letter exposing the scandal and we will be glad to publish it over your signature." A period of silence follows, during which the visitor cools down rapidly. He seems to shrink in size until he looks like a collapsed balloon. When he speaks again, it is in a different tone, lower and almost apologetic: "Why," he says, somewhat flustered, "You cannot expect me to do that. It would get me into trouble. It would hurt me in my business." After this speech the visitor begins to realize there is little more he can say. The editor watches him move toward the exit and smiles. "It was ever thus," he says, and goes to work.

Babies being fitted with gas masks in England, so that they may live for at least a little while when invading airplanes drop poison gas bombs. City school children being moved en masse to the country, where by scattering they will be harder targets for the air raiders' bombs. City museums closed and their treasures hidden far underground. Precious stained glass windows removed from cathedrals for similar storage in caves. The same measure taken in France and other western European countries. Efforts to prevent invaders from killing whole populations by poisoning their water supply. Small submarines with a range and effective, new unknown in the last big war, ready to sink unarmed passenger ships. Millions of men armed with guns of unprecedented range and power. The "rules of war" as they used to be known in more decent ages ignored. All this seems worse than the barbaric crimes of Genghis Khan and Attila the Hun in what we used to call the Dark Ages. With the means of making this earth a paradise, with culture and knowledge and power over nature never dreamed of by former generations, men as organized into nations and headed by reckless fanatics seem determined to make it a hell. If the human race is to be saved for a real civilization, this is the time to save it by marshalling the conscience and intelligence of mankind.

We have lovely flowers, some gorgeous gladioli and garden punks three inches across. It has taken lots of carrying of water, but it pays. Summer is so short and the flowers last such a short while.

This year will soon be over, and of course the greatest event of 1939 has been the visit of "Their Majesties." Didn't they enjoy America, and didn't America love them? I'm glad the Roosevelts were in the White House. No other first lord and lady of this land could ever have made visiting royalty so much at home. Every courtesy and all dignity possible, and yet, such grand informality. Even a King and Queen must get tired of pomp and circumstance, at times. Many delightful stories have been written around their visit, but the sweetest of all was one published in Saturday Evening Post called "We Have a Little Princess, Too." I hope you read it.

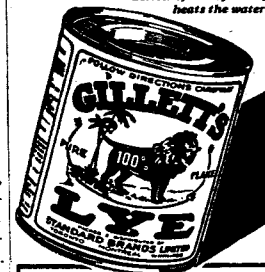

On my way back from the mail box this morning, I stopped to pick a bouquet of "queen's lace" and walked up the lane carrying it over my head. No doubt, I did look silly, but who cares? I was ten years old again, and the bundle of mail in my arms was one of mother's old rag dolls; the "queen's lace" made a beautiful parasol to keep the sun off the dear old painted face. It does one good to go back to childhood again, and forget, even for one minute, this hard boiled world.

Tony came back into our life again last week. He moved from our neighborhood about two years ago, but we occasionally see him. He has his several goats still with him, and the mother goat Johnny has just experienced another "blessed event," but the two babies died, and Tony is firmly convinced that a neighbor put the "evil eye" on "Johnny." He knows all about "evil eyes," because years ago, in story, an uncle of his hexed the her finally had to tell the uncle he must keep away from the cow. Perhaps that is what is wrong with the world today. We are befuddled by the evil eye of mias, whose fiery red eye has been balefully glaring at us for some time past, and those three sinister looking tails, hanging down, could be Germany, Italy and Japan. Perhaps! But here I am, laughing at Tony's superstitions, and talking "evil eye" myself. Shoo! Get away!

Living a rather lonely life, as we do, down the old back road we welcome a little conversation in most any form. Last week a nice young man came to the door, soliciting magazine subscriptions. We drifted into a decision of hard times, and he remarked that where he came from, there was little opportunity for a young man to get ahead. When I asked him where his home was he said "on an Indian Reservation, way up in New York State, and he was a member of the fast vanishing Mohawk tribe." His father is French, but his mother, a full-blooded Indian woman. He is studying engineering at Rensselaer, Tech. As he was leaving he turned around and said "I think you are an awful nice woman; you remind me of my mother, and I think you look a lot like her, only her skin is much darker." I was a little embarrassed, so I asked him if his mother put her hair up on "curlers" like mine was at the time, but he soberly said, "No, my mother wears her hair in two long straight braids over each of her shoulders." I have been told that I looked like lots of people, but never a nice Indian woman. However, if I remind any nice boy of his own dear mother, it's all right with me, so now I'm a "heap nice big Ingun squaw". Want to buy a basket?

"I'm very fond of my big sons But I have to hide my tears When I hear a mother asking 'Did you wash behind your ears?'"

My sons are clean and strong men. I look on them with pride, I look on them with gladness, But something says inside "I used to have a little boy Who laughed until he cried."

I love and bless my big sons, But the ones that live with me Are the little boys with tousled hair

The way they used to be." Many, many happy landings to the Courier, and another sixty-five years, if you want them. M. G. T. Sandy Hook, Connecticut. August 17, 1939.

Farm Apprentice Plan

Opportunity for Young Men to Get Started As Apprentices On Farms Where They May Have Special Instruction

The Nova Scotia Land Settlement Board will endeavor to find positions for young men from urban or rural communities between the ages of sixteen and thirty years, who wish to take up agriculture as an occupation and get some practical instruction.

Applicants must be approved by one of the Board's agents and either the Mayor of the town or the Warden of the municipality where they originate.

A period of one month is reserved for probation, so that if either the apprentice or farmer is not satisfied, the contract can terminate.

Apprentice boys will be paid $5.00 per month, and $5.00 more will be held in trust by the board for transportation and necessary clothes until his apprenticeship is completed when any balance remaining will be paid if required.

Six months will be the length of the apprenticeship and after that time the boy can make his own arrangements with the farmer as to wages and work.

Applicants must state their age and experience at farming, if any.

About This and That

When Samantha said, "We are all poor creatures," she said something. But we are largely to blame for we have the habit of appraising men more from their faults than from their virtues. How we would fare if we used the same yardstick on ourselves, is a question, for what may be a fault in one man may be a virtue in another. Perhaps we would find all the virtues in ourselves and all the faults in others. Honest self-appraisal is more difficult than honest appraisal of others. But this much is certain—there has to be honest self-appraisal before there can be honest appraisal of others. "First cast out the beam that is in thine own eye."

Occasional catastrophes on land and sea or in the air cause us to raise our eyes in horror, even to whisper that it is our punishment for trying to go too fast and too far, says an American exchange. A Nevada rail wreck, a clipper airplane crash, a disaster at sea, cause us to centre attention on one particular bit of ill luck, forgetting completely the tens and hundreds of thousands who have traveled in safety by these same means of transportation. In the last 15-year period, fatalities on American railroads have averaged only one death for every 400,000,000 passenger-miles traveled. In other words, if you are starting out on a 400-mile journey by train, you have only one chance in a million of being killed. Or take the matter of air transportation. We read of the occasional crash, yet pay no attention to the hundreds of flights completed in safety. American air records for last year show an average of one death for every 22,300,000 miles flown. Believe it or not, you are a thousand times safer in a railroad train, and a hundred times safer in an airplane, than you are driving over the highways in an automobile.

To stand squarely on one's feet and ask no favors of any one is a declaration of personal independence good to see and experience. So many persons are inclined to "thumb" their way through life. The pioneer spirit must persist if a people endure and make progress. For the pioneer spirit is self-reliance, independent, resourceful, and inventive. Our forefathers learned to do without a hundred conveniences which they supplied these things by their own initiative. They blazed paths where highways never ran. They welcomed work. In such a crucible their characters were formed. There is no substitute for self-reliance, independence, common honesty, neighborliness, and the temperate life. To put this spirit in youth where it is not inherent, or to develop it where it is native, is a prime objective of educational processes. Home, school, church, and state do well to put a premium on self-reliance. Personal independence is usually won through the winning of battles over sloth, indifference, selfishness, and parasitism.

Viscount Gort, V. C., and Field Marshal Gamelin lead the British and French armies. Each is a veteran of the Great War, each has a personality not unlike the other, each has a common understanding of European military problems, each is a man of efficient action and each possesses the confidence of the soldiers themselves. Gamelin is regarded as Europe's ablest strategist.

There has always been propaganda. It can take many forms and innumerable disguises. It has not always been known as what it is generally referred to today. Once, propaganda, so called, was rather raw. But today, it can almost be described as a fine art. Newspapers are required to be impartial on guard for very often what appears as news of importance is actually nothing more or less than the spreading of someone's set of systems or doctrines or what, purporting to be news, is merely serving another's interests.

Adolf, in his book which tells the story of his rise to power, as much as says that a treaty with Russia would be unobtainable. "One does not make a treaty," he writes "with a party to whom no treaty would be sacred, since they inhabit a world, not as the advocates of honor and truthfulness, but as the advocates of lying, deceit, theft, rapine and plunder." Now Adolf!

Touch of Grim Humor in English War Sidelight

Adding a touch of grim humor to the ominous days in England are posters headed 'Wanted for Murder, Kidnapping, Theft and Arson, and displaying in police fashion, full-face and profile, pictures of Adolf Hitler. A group of Londoners is seen looking at one of the posters on a sand bag barricade. At the beginning of the last war a London newspaper used a similar display on its front page with the Kaiser as the subject and revived it again this year, merely substituting a likeness of Hitler for that of the former German monarch.

Canada's New Chemical Industry

Development of an industry which can provide Canada with countless products not known or not available in 1914, and which has given Canada a hitherto unknown independence of foreign sources of many materials, was presented to visitors of the Canadian National Exhibition this year.

At an important period of modern history, immediately preceding and following the significant date of Sept. 3, more than a million Canadian citizens visited the 'avilion of Industrial Chemistry. There they saw the story of an industry of comparative youth, of manifold ramifications, and of such breadth that it produces from native materials thousands of products of vital importance today.

In 1914 this newest of modern sciences was almost unknown in Canada. Germany was known throughout the world at that time for its advances in the field of industrial chemistry, and to this science was credited much of that nation's strength when previously imported products were replaced with products of the laboratory.

In 1917 and 1918, people throughout the world were amazed at the products that science evolved to replace other materials. Since that time, Canadian industrial chemistry has become an important factor in industrial, domestic and commercial affairs. The Exhibition show revealed, more significant, however, was the realization that today Canada, food equipped with dozens of plants from coast to coast, laboratories manned by trained scientific and chemical staffs and an efficiently operating, coordinated distribution system, providing the machinery of chemical research and production for every need that may arise during coming months.

Wood pulp, coal tar, nitrogen from the air, cotton linters, limestone, water and other equally available materials are some of the bases. Exhibition crowds learned, from which this new science produces new materials which can be fashioned into innumerable wares. Today airplanes are equipped with shatter-resistant glass evolved by industrial chemistry; surgeons working under any conditions use a glass-like material which can direct light from batteries in the hands of the instruments to the spot where they are operating; special paints are produced from materials which are more durable than those nature previously supplied from far-distant places. Plastics, unknown only a few years ago, are fashioned from water, air and coal, to be used in innumerable ways, not the least of which are many purposes in the airplane manufacturing industry. Rubber, liable to swift deterioration under certain conditions, has been equalled in resiliency and elasticity and outvalued in durability by a material made by chemistry from water, air and coal.

Thus, Exhibition visitors see, at a time when Canadians are turning their attention to developments of importance which challenge their ingenuity and imagination, Canada's new chemical industry stands prepared to assist in the national emergency.

Ulster Women Create A New Industry

The nimble fingers of Northern Ireland's needlewomen have within a year won for them recognition in three continents for producing fine tapestries and "petit point".

The tapestries are of a kind hitherto only obtainable from a few European centres where the craft had flourished for many generations but is now declining for a variety of reasons.

The 400 workers employed up to now are making tapestries in traditional European designs and appropriate to various furnishing "periods" in fulfilment of orders from the U. S. A., Canada, the Union of South Africa, and Australia.

When choosing Northern Ireland, and particularly County Fermanagh, as the birthplace of the new industry, the founders were swayed by knowledge of the hereditary needlecraft skill of Ulster's womenfolk; but until last year true tapestry had never been produced in Ulster, with the exception of Victorian "samplers".

Allied to tapestry is "petit point", probably the finest needlework in existence with its 1,600 stitches to the square inch. Here again, Ulster needlewomen have quickly proved their skill, for to-day examples of artistic workmanship, indistinguishable from their European prototypes which have centuries of experience behind them, are finding their way to the farthest corners of the earth.

Memories

Trading watches with a "Syrian" merchant. That was one time when "The Assyrian did not come down like a wolf on the fold". It was only by persistently tapping my watch with a fore finger by way of emphasizing its undoubted qualities that I was able to keep up a feeble throbbing of its weary pulse.

Auctioning off the baskets at a social in the Southville school house. Changing the name tags on two that were trimmed nearly alike—the wrong fellow got the teacher's basket. Life has so many unpleasant surprises.

Putting a bumble bee in the ear of a balky horse when all other methods of persuasion had failed. The reaction being all that could be desired—and more. When the hint fails a swift kick seems to be indicated.

Going to Bear River for cherries! Wish that I might be there this year. When I hear people bragging about the Western cherries I tell them that they have never tasted real cherries unless they have made the acquaintance of the Bear River product.

Nova Scotia gravensteins. More full of juice than an Arizona grapefruit and ten times as good. Strapping the fruit question usually proves to be a fruitless task—when one hasn't the proof in hand.

Wondering why the lilies which grew in Journeay's Lake were different from those which grew in Provost Lake. Those which grew in Provost Lake were pure white, while the others were tinged with pink.

The print of a human hand in a stone by the side of a road which led to one of the mills back of Belliveau's Cove. Recalled to mind by the picture of a foot print in stone in a recent "Believe it or Not."

My first visit to New France and being much impressed by the bit of civilization in a howling wilderness. (By the way, why are wildernesses always supposed to be howling? I have seen a number and have never heard a whimper out of one yet, to say nothing of a good healthy howl.) Is New France deserted now, and numbered with the things that were?

The map of Digby County, which revealed one of the most astounding things in nature. The Meteghan River crossing the Sissiboo at the Upper Falls.

The old lady, who used to chase the rooster with a stick to keep him from eating any of the feed she had put out for the hens. Old Tantalus had nothing on the successive generations of roosters, who ran for their very lives at meal time. No danger of fatty degeneration, anyway.

Making up my mind to go aloft on the old Mary Jane, as she lay at a wharf in Barton. Changing my mind suddenly when the foot ropes broke, after I had climbed up a little way. Wonder what ever became of her? It seems to me that she was old enough to have qualified for a Townsend Pension when I saw her last.

Watching them make Comet Stove Polish when that factory was located in Brighton. The plant was afterward moved to somewhere in Quebec. Are they still turning out those shiny, black squares done up in the red, red wrappers?

The "Bear Tree". Here memory seems to have grown somewhat dim; did it stand, or does it still stand somewhere near the shores of Long Tusk Lake? Anyway, the trunk of that spruce tree was deeply scarred by the claws of generations of bears, which had passed that way. Some of them must have been really large, if one may judge by the distance the topmost ones were above the ground.

Friendly entertainment in homes in Roxville, Centerville, Mink Cove, Little River, Tiverton and Freeport. To some of them I came "a stranger, and they took me in." The kindly courtesy and generous hospitality which were given to me have lingered with me through the years and neither time nor space have ever dimmed the memory of those pleasant hours.

The fellow from Bear Cove, who, when he went on board the S. S. Yarmouth for a trip to Saint John, shook hands with me as we stood on the deck, and said:—"I think I go below now and be sick."

A bold, bad citizen of Weymouth, crawling under a drive way bridge over the gutter and spending the night there rather than face an angry spouse. He often boasted that he did not fear the face of clay; so I suppose his wife's face must have been a sort of a hard pan.

Going to a bean supper with the present Editor of the Courier. Hearing afterward that we ate more than any four people there. Which seems to prove that the "Knights of the Shooting-stick" are gluttons—for punishment. On second thought perhaps the assets of the corporation had become so completely liquid that they had leaked out of the treasury.

Discovering how utterly futile was the discussion of the political situation with an opponent who depended on memory for his wit and on imagination for his facts.

My first ride on a craft propelled by a gasoline engine. Glidden Campbell was my host and if memory is not astray the boat was named the "Scott."

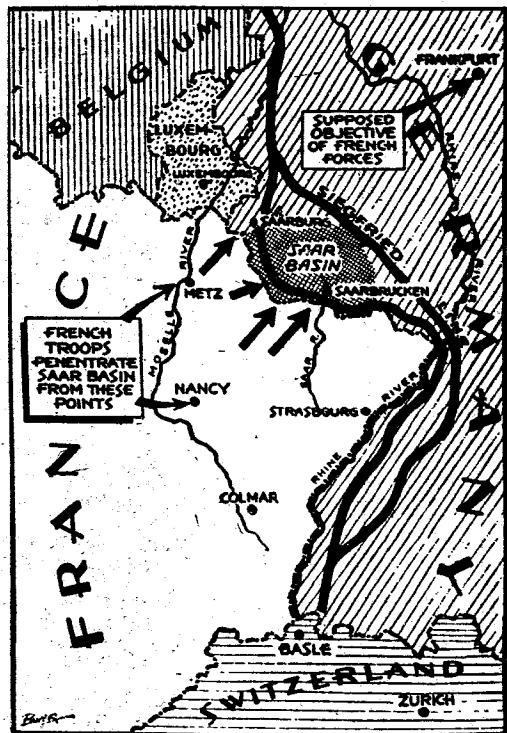

The editor who insisted that he knew more than I did about putting a "form" on the Peerless Press and getting his hand badly mashed for interfering with something which he knew very little about. A. F. Hache, do you remember?

A night spent at Cariboo Plains. I cannot understand why the many delightful canoe trips which Digby County has to offer has not been given more emphasis in tourist literature. Such an attraction ought not to be overlooked. When we were in California last summer we visited Boulder Creek, a summer resort which attracts thousands every year and yet it has not nearly so much of natural beauty as do scores of places which I might mention in those parts of the home county with which I am familiar. Get this, and let it soak in! City dwellers do not want to spend their vacation in some other centre of population, they want to get away from all of that. They want to visit the rivers, the lakes, the forests and the sea; they are in search of quiet and rest and are not seeking a different variety of noise and smell. The sooner the people of N. S. wake up to the fact that passable roads which will make the beauty spots of the province accessible to auto travel the sooner there will be a largely increased flow of tourist dollars into the province. Of course, as long as sectional jealousy is allowed to stifle the publicity which ought to be given, so long the tourist will seek those areas where people are blessed with a few grains of that uncommon gift which we erroneously call "Common Sense."

The Western Front

The two black lines in German territory are parts or arms of the Siegfried line, sometimes merging but at other times miles apart as around the Saar basin. Notice, too, that some of the Saar territory protrudes in front of the line. This is a part of the slack taken in by French Troops who have penetrated the basin from Baes at Metz and Nancy.

Canadian Fliers Needed

Premier MacKenzie King has suggested to Parliament that one of the best ways in which this Dominion could immediately aid the British would be by dispatch of "trained air personnel" overseas.

Canada has a permanent air force of some 2,400 men of all ranks, few of whom could be immediately spared overseas because of the necessity of defending Canadian territory from enemy air raiders, but there is a "blacklog" of 25,000 recruits on the R.C.A.F. enlistment waiting-list and several thousand more potential recruits among the retired Royal Air Force veterans of the last war. Many would be too old to handle the 350-mile-an-hour fighting aircraft of this war, but could relieve younger men from supply, training and administrative work of the air force.

In addition, there are perhaps 1,500 or more licensed civilian pilots in the Dominion and hundreds of feds learning to fly either at flying clubs, commercial flying schools or in the non-permanent Auxiliary Air Force, which is largely officered by wartime fliers still young enough to keep their hands in.

George O. Everett, United States banking authority, said in an interview recently, there is a strong possibility that large United States concerns might send their equipment into Canada and establish plants for the production of war supplies. Such action might be taken in the near future, he said, unless the United States neutrality act there were revised and American firms, especially munition and airplane factories, were permitted to sell their products to belligerent nations.

The United Church of Canada now has a membership of 707,264, compared with 600,522 at the time of Church Union. This fact is revealed in the 1939 Year Book of that Church which has just been distributed to the church's ministers. In a statistical report the Year Book reveals that The United Church has 1,742,622 persons under pastoral care. Number of families in the United Church of Canada is 464,689 compared with 369,562 at the time of the Union. The Year Book discloses that there are in the United Church of Canada 5,819 Sunday Schools with a total membership of 582,439. Members of "through the week" organizations number 201,706.

DIGBY FIRE DEPARTMENT HOLDS CLAMBAKE

In spite of rainy weather, which made it impossible to hold a clam-bake on the beach at New Edinburgh, Sunday, the Digby Fire Department had an enjoyable time at the residence of Julius Lambert, of that place. Out-door sports of various kinds, which were planned for the day, had to be postponed, and instead, the day was spent gathered around the organ and in games. Steamed clams, lobster sandwiches and coffee were served. The boys hope to make it an annual affair.

Charlotte Titus Cushman, of Swampscott, Mass., is visiting her cousin, Miss Holdsworth, Carleton Street.

HECTANOOGA

Mrs. Ira Gaudet, of Eel Lake, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Alice Deveau, returned home Thursday. On her return home, her mother and her aunt, Mrs. Stillman Deveau, of Mayflower, accompanied her for a short visit. On their way they called on their grand-aunt, Mrs. Leonie Maillet, of St. Alphonse de Clare, who is nearing her 106th year.

The Misses Emma Burridge, Marion Maillet, Cecile and Rita Deveau left Friday for the Annapolis Valley, for an indefinite period.

Sunday, for a couple of hours, a heavy rain and thunder storm was experienced. All the forenoon the western and northern skies were ablaze with vivid lightning, and the continuous roll of the thunder was heard. Toward noon it passed over the village, but of short duration and no hurtful effects.

Vincent Thibault, of this place, found what seems to be a dead sea-turtle, on the beach at Raymond's Cove, last week. The shell, cone-shaped on the back, measured about 18x15 inches in diameter, the neck about 6 inches in circumference. The head was like that of an owl, and the beak like a parrot, except that the upper part was not curved. It had no legs, but two pairs of fins, resembling wings, about 4 inches wide. He took it to Frank E. Burridge, where it was weighed, and it tipped the scale at 19½ pounds. Such a species had never been seen here before, and has been a source of great attraction for a few days.

Baptist Church to Observe Centennial

The Digby Baptist Church will observe its centennial by special services, beginning Sunday and continuing until Wednesday. At Sunday's services, Dr. F. W. Patterson will be guest speaker at both morning and evening services.

On Monday evening the church will be the scene of a young people's rally, when the pageant "Christ's Call to Youth" will be presented.

A social evening will be conducted on Tuesday with supper at 6.30, followed by a programme of music, readings and recitations.

The special services will be concluded Wednesday evening by a consecration, service and conference meeting, when the guest preacher will be Rev. F. E. Bishop, D. D. pastor the church from 1925 to 1935, and who was succeeded by the present pastor, Rev. Alvin G. Robertson.

During the past year the church has undergone extensive repairs, which include the painting of the church and the vestry; shingling, and the rebuilding of the tower—the old steeple having been torn down, and a square tower erected.

Although one "lobster baiter" was at Deer Island recently and soon got its cargo and sailed for Nova Scotia, it is not expected that many fish will be sold for bait this season, as lobster fishermen get a good supply of bait in St. Mary's Bay, it is understood. The price paid at Deer Island was $3.00 a hoghead, delivered at the vessel.

Reception For a Newly Wed Couple

Sergeant and Mrs. Alexander K. Sutherland, of Stewiacke, visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Payson, of Smith's Cove, on Monday, and that evening Mr. and Mrs. Payson held an informal reception for this newly married couple, when their home was well filled with relatives and friends, who were happy to have this opportunity to offer their best wishes and present their gifts, which were beautiful and useful. The rooms were tastefully decorated with early fall flowers, which included many lovely gladioli and roses. A part of the evening was given over to music and the solo singing by Mrs. Reg. Weir, of Digby, accompanied at the piano by Miss Frances Austin, was much enjoyed. The bride was gown in dark blue silk with corsage of sweet peas. Immediately after the reception Sergeant and Mrs. Sutherland left for Stewiacke, where his regiment is now stationed.

A Chicago housewife is suing for divorce because her husband has failed to return from a St. Louis jaunt he took 24 years ago. That's the trouble with women these days—they haven't any patience.

COMBAT. RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is often caused by uric acid in the blood. This blood impurity should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and excess uric acid remains, it irritates the muscles and joints causing excruciating pain. Plan to help prevent rheumatism by keeping your kidneys in good condition. Take regularly Dodd's Kidney Pills for half a century the favorite kidney remedy.

Prime Minister Chamberlain is seen here strolling in London without his famous and, until recently, inevitable umbrella. That accessory has been replaced by the gas mask which the Prime Minister carries over his shoulder.

TAKE THE "LEAD" FEELING OUT OF YOUR LEGS

Get More Oxygen In Your Blood and Get the Lead out of your system. People who are completely cut off from their blood supply are slowly smothering. If your blood lacks red corpuscles, red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen, your muscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery—you tire quickly—feel depressed. What you need is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today at your druggist. See for yourself how quickly this time-proven blood-builder will help give you back your pep. Over 1,000,000 bottles sold.

Eight Launches In Seven Days

Record Activity in Britain's Shipyards at Present Time.

No fewer than eight vessels, all of them of importance in one way or another, have been launched in the United Kingdom within seven days, and together they afford an example of the diversity of ship types under construction in British shipyards at the present time.

Two of the vessels are warships, and form part of Britain's immense Naval rearmament programme. They are the 23,000 ton aircraft carrier H. M. S. "Formidable", the largest warship ever built in Northern Ireland, and H. M. S. "Kenya", a Fiji-class cruiser of 8,000 tons displacement.

Of the six merchantmen launched, the motorship "Port Quebec" will shortly be seen in Canada, for upon leaving the Sunderland yard where she is building, she will join the services of the Port Line (formerly the Commonwealth and Dominion Line) between Europe and North America. Another motorship launched was the "Dolabella", of 12,000 tons, the last of a quartette of motor tankers for the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Co., Ltd., while a third was the Clan liner "Clan Macdonald", of 9,200 tons dw.

The fourth motorship was the "Merchant Prince", a cargo vessel of 9,500 tons for Greek owners. The other two vessels were steamers, the "Orion", for coastal cargo trade, and the "Cormarsh", an addition to Britain's ever-growing fleet of coastwise colliers.

Two of the above ships are completing on the East Coast of Scotland, two on the Clyde, three on the English North East Coast and one at Belfast.

Now that Canada is at War, it is the purpose of the Red Cross Society to establish a Branch organization in as many communities as possible. RUSSIAN TROOPS INVADE POLAND

News of the Russian invasion of Poland was broadcast on Sunday.

On Monday of this week the Polish town of Brest-Litovsk, Poland, was the scene of a meeting of the German and Russian invaders of Poland. On this occasion, it is reported, officers of the two invading armies exchanged handshakes.

It was at Brest-Litovsk that the Red Russians and Germany signed their separate peace in 1918.

It was at Brest-Litovsk, where, during the same year (1918) Germany, in spite of Red Russian protests, recognized the independence of the Ukraine Republic on condition that Ukraine deliver 1,000,000 tons of wheat to Germany annually—the Ukrainians failed to meet this term, and Germany occupied their country. Following the signing of the Armistice, both German treaties went by the board.

This week at Brest-Litovsk Nazi and Russian army chiefs were reported drawing up occupation lines, and according to a Berlin report, published in the daily press "It is said officially that the Poles might be allowed to hold a small strip of territory as a buffer between Germany and Russia but this depends a great deal upon the attitude the Poles assume."

However, in spite of the Nazi-Communist occupation of Poland, and despite the fact that officers of the Polish government and Polish military command are reported fled to Rumania, three divisions are reported making a heroic stand, and Warsaw has not as yet been taken.

Nazi submarine warfare is still taking a drastic toll of British shipping. To date more than 30 British vessels have been victims of the U-Boats, among them, the H. M. S. Courageous, one of Britain's largest and oldest aircraft carriers. The 22,500 ton warship is believed to have carried a crew of 1200, more than 682 of whom are said to have been rescued, 578 still missing, with a possibility that others were picked up by other ships. She sank within 30 minutes after being torpedoed, and her commander, Capt. W. T. Mackenzie-Jones, is said to be last seen standing on the bridge of his doomed ship. The submarine that fired the torpedo, is believed to have been sunk.

A number of other U-Boats that have been menacing shipping in the North Seas are reported to have been sunk.

On the Western Front the French drive is continuing favorably, particularly in the region of Saarbrücken, and heavy German reinforcements are reported reaching the Western Front from Poland, while additional French and British troops have moved into the area of the Maginot. French forces are said to be holding more than 300 square miles of German territory.

The war brought close to Nova Scotia last week, when 216 survivors of the Athenia, arrived in Halifax, Wednesday, on the American freighter, City of Flint, at Hamilton, Ontario, 10 year old Margaret Hayworth, was buried on Saturday. The little girl on the rescueship City of Flint, who died of injuries suffered, when a torpedo from a German submarine struck the Athenia, was the first victim of the second Great War to be buried on Canadian soil. Thousands attended the funeral, and at a ceremony attended by municipal officials, preceded by an extraordinary session of the city council of Hamilton a resolution was passed expressing horror at the "tyranny, deceit and inhumanity of the German Government."

On Tuesday Herr Hitler broadcast from the former Free City of Danzig, now incorporated into the German Reich.

In his address Hitler blamed British statesmen for the war, but practically intimated that now that Poland has been over-come, he would make no further claims on Europe and the settlement of the Polish question was a matter for Germany and Russia alone to determine, however, both Britain and France will probably answer a positive "No" to such a proposal. Hitler has broken too many promises with regard to no further claims on Europe, and France and Britain are determined not to allow Hitler to destroy the world's liberty and reduce it to slavery.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, announced Tuesday night a wholesale cabinet shuffle bringing Hon. Norman Rogers, labor minister since the government was formed in 1935, to the important portfolio of national defence.

Defence Minister Mackenzie, has taken over the portfolio of pensions and national health, while Pensions Minister Power, becomes Postmaster-General. Hon. Norman McArthur, who became Postmaster-General when Hon. J. C. Elliott was forced to retire because of ill-health early this year, becomes Minister of Labor.

One of Mr. Mackenzie's last acts as Minister of Defence, was to announce that two Canadian Divisions will be trained for overseas service, and that further recruit-

Shower for Smith's Cove Bride-to-Be

A miscellaneous shower was tendered to Miss Alice Woodman, of Smith's Cove, Wednesday evening, Sept. 13, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Woodman, at "Veranda Rest".

The spacious veranda was fittingly decorated for the occasion with paper draperies and autumn flowers, and a large table was used to display the numerous gifts.

A decorated wheel barrow was heavily laden with gifts, which was wheeled in to the veranda, where the gifts were opened and displayed, after Arthur D. Suls, on behalf of the guests present, presented the young couple with these gifts, which he expressed were given to show the esteem in which the young couple held in community life.

A brief reply was given by the groom-to-be, Chester Brinton.

Later in the evening Mr. Suls again made a presentation of a floor lamp, donated by the Young People's Society of the Baptist Church, of which both were active members. Miss Austin then presented a gift from the choir of the church, of which the bride-to-be was a valuable member.

After the main events of the evening, refreshments were served by a number of the young ladies, also music played a part in making a successful evening.

There were over one hundred guests present, and after wishing the young couple much success, left for their homes.

Saw German Menace Six Years Ago

Ruthless German defiance of the democratic world is no new development. Six years ago this summer, a staff writer of The Financial Post, was in Europe. In Paris he interviewed leading French officials and asked their opinion of the then rising Nazi Government in Germany. They warned him of the danger that Hitler and his advisers, they said bluntly, were a bunch of gangsters.

"If you put Al Capone and a group of Chicago gangsters in the White House and let them rule the country with sawed-off shotguns you would have a parallel for the situation in Germany," they told The Financial Post in July 1933.

The Nazi Government, according to the French spokesmen, was not considered as a representative government of the German people. "The men around Hitler," The Post was told, "are in a number of cases the exact counterparts of the men who have run the rum-running racket in the United States. We have reports on a number of them. These reports show that they lead the most immoral lives and are men of the basest character. Such men will stop at nothing. They have no sense of responsibility; of moral obligation to the nation. Their ambitions are personal."

It was suggested that perhaps the apparent apathy of moderate opinion in Germany resulted from disappointment and disillusionment concerning the Treaty of Versailles.

Not All Fault of Treaty

"But Germany is wrong to blame her economic troubles entirely upon the Treaty of Versailles," argued the French. "The fundamental economic problem in Germany is over population which means lack of opportunity. But we had the same problem in France and we have solved it. We have been building up our present industries like wine-growing and wheat-raising. Our industries are using large amounts of hand labor. Our tariff helps to raise the standard of the country workers rather than to build up large industries."

"In Germany," The Post was told, "they have sped the United States and Canada. Forgetting that German opportunities are not like those existing in the new countries of America, they have built huge factories and equipped them with the most modern machinery to replace hand labor."

Excess Population

Then came the prophetic words: "The excess population of Germany is a terrible threat to the world as the Government is in the control of some of the men around Hitler. They are men of consummate ambition and brutal disregard of the sacredness of private happiness or human life. Germany has at least two million excess men. What would be more easy than to go to war against the rest of Europe in a desperate gamble for power? Even if Germany lost 2,000,000 men and lost a great war she would not be much worse off than she is now. We are frankly afraid that if the Nazi leaders find their power slipping they will go to war to retain their power and influence over the people and in the hope that they will create permanent positions and world power for themselves."

"ABOUT THIS AND THAT"—Continued (From First Page)

What can be done with an apparently run down farm by a man who is interested in his work is remarkable! Last Friday we had the pleasure of being shown over Utanook Farm at Bear River, by the new owner. This farm, which has probably the prettiest outlook of any farm in Nova Scotia, was a good farm for many years, but for the past few years—eight or nine—it has been badly neglected. A large orchard on it was so run down that last year it produced only five barrels of apples. The new proprietor—a man who knows orcharding and farming—was rather late in commencing work on it this spring and missed the first spraying, but has been persistent in his work ever since and, as a consequence, has a crop which he estimates at well over five hundred barrels of good, clean fruit. He also showed us a six-acre field of "yellow-eyed" beans, just ready for threshing, on which he expects to get one hundred bushels. His other crops are also remarkably good—and it all goes to show what can be done if a man put his mind into it. In conversation with him he said that Bear River was one of the best fruit "growing" sections in Nova Scotia. We can remember when Bear River grew apples in large quantities and shipped them far afield—and they were apples which took second place to none—but of late years, possibly because the older men died or became too old for active work and the young men did not take kindly to work that did not bring them regular daily or weekly wages, horticulture and agriculture have been largely neglected and what were once money-making farms have become more or less a liability. But the possibilities are there, nevertheless. In the course of our "personally-directed" tour over Utanook Farm, the proprietor took occasion to remark that he believed implicitly in "tithing", and that he intended to donate one-tenth of his crops to charity. Of course he does not intend to do this promiscuously, but organized bodies, looking after the poor, particularly in Annapolis and Digby Counties, will have an opportunity to share in this good work.

sage came to the owners in Chicago. "Why did Chicora delay sailing?" This may not have been the exact message, but some such inquiry must have been sent.

Even then, no one got excited. In a few hours, any minute, word would come from along the lake, or from some vessel, telling of temporary engine trouble. Some annoying but unimportant delay would soon be explained.

The known facts are these, so far as I remember. The Chicora sailed. The Chicora did not arrive at St. Joseph, or anywhere else. Nothing was found, not a piece of wreckage, a boat, life ring, or anything.

The capsizing of the Eastland was so extraordinary that few have forgotten it. The boiler explosion of the Tigra, in the South Branch of the Chicago River, caused much excitement, but the passing out of existence of the new steamer Chicora, one of the greatest of unsolved marine mysteries, has been forgotten.

Perhaps some reader knows more of this than I do. Who built the steamer, who owned her, commanded her, manned her, and were there any passengers? Some news may have come in for I went to sea shortly afterward and may not have heard.

Queen Mary's Out-Rider

Any rank-and-file police motorcyclist on "courtesy cop" duty in Great Britain may now suddenly find himself requisitioned as an escorting out-rider to Queen Mary while she is motoring through the police division to which he is attached.

Provision of a patrol preceding the Royal car has been decided upon to avoid risks in unescorted drives as a consequence of Queen Mary's motor accident earlier in the summer, on her way home from watching the tennis championship at Wimbledon.

No particular officer will be detailed as an escort. The police chief in each division will be responsible for supplying one of his specially trained patrol men while the Royal car remains within the boundaries of his division.

The decision marks a new development in the use of police motorcyclists as "wardens" against road accidents, first tried out in April of last year. The men were at once nicknamed "courtesy cops" because their attitude to road users was one of "education rather than prosecution."

The experiment has proved so successful that the House of Lords has urged its extension at a cost of about £2,500,000 a year; and, on the basis of the reduction in accidents effected by motor cycle police patrol work in Lancashire, it is estimated that the system would save over 1,000 lives and 100,000 injuries a year.

The selected police motorcyclist will be on Royal duty when Queen Mary goes in her maroon and scarlet saloon to some specially important function at which big crowds and heavy traffic are expected. This car is in the same Royal colour as the King's; for her entirely private visits to friends, and for shopping expeditions, Queen Mary uses a dark green saloon car, the index number of which, beginning with the single letter "A", is known to every policeman in London. When she drives in this car, Queen Mary will continue to be escorted, for, on these trips, not even Superintendent Green, her personal detective, or Mr. O. Humphrey, her chauffeur, know where she is going until she gets into the car.

Her motor cycle escort will now ride in front of her on all semi-official as well as official occasions when Superintendent Green telephones the route to Scotland Yard. From there it is passed on to police stations affected, so that constables can be placed at every road junction which the Royal car is to pass and hold up all other traffic to give unhindered passage to the Queen Mother with her advance guard on his motor cycle.

ENDS LONG SERVICE

On Monday next, John F. Titus, who has just retired as Postmaster of Hampton, Annapolis County, will celebrate his 80th birthday. He went to Hampton when seven years of age from his birthplace in Centerville, Digby County. To Hampton he is more than a resident—he is an institution—popular with everyone. He was Postmaster for fifteen years, and for an equal length of time was Assistant Postmaster. During that time his wife was the "Postmaster", while he was engaged in transporting the mails over the North Mountain and along rural routes of the vicinity. He has been associated with the postal service, either in the office or as a driver for forty-two years.

He started his services under Sir John A. MacDonald, and then his route called for only three trips weekly, touching at Port Lorne, Bridgetown, and the Partridge and Hampton routes. He recalls when it took many hours, with the horse wading through deep drifts, to travel between Hampton and Bridgetown.

About This and That

The menace of the submarine lurks in every sea today, and it will not be less until these unseen assassins of the deep are hunted down and destroyed. The presence of enemy U-boats in latitudes so far apart as the Scottish coast and the Caribbean Sea is another proof that Germany had deliberately prepared for war. It is one of many.

A Liverpool, (England) stevedore is patting himself on the back and thinking the Americans are nothing, if they are not generous. An American asked him to rush his baggage board the vessel on which he was sailing. In the words of the stevedore: "He gave me ten bob and told me to keep his car. When I remonstrated he said, 'It's quite all right, I have no further use for it.'" So the stevedore is the owner of a 50 h.p. car which he says he plans to sell.

A woman writer wonders why the modern youth seems to prefer buying a car to getting married. He probably realizes that it is easier to back out of a garage.

There is need today of vision—not eyesight, but mental discernment about which the prophet wrote when he said: "There is no vision the people perish." Things do not just happen. For every effect there is cause. When the cause is known, the effect may be prevented or modified. The future should never be allowed to take care of itself when conditions forecast trouble. Sufficient unto the day should be the evil thereof, so that good success and happiness result. With proper vision, this old world can be made a far better place.

Enlistment in the militia does not give Ontario youths under 18 years, the privilege of drinking beer in public places. This is the ruling of Col. Hagarty, assistant adjutant and quartermaster.

The present-day slogan, "Soak the rich," is rooted in envy and misunderstanding. The have-nots envy those who have wealth and acquired. Yet the man who has made a fortune has helped hundreds of others as he went along. He has branched out in business, employing people, creating jobs, and contributing to the happiness of his fellow beings. Perhaps he manufactures some household convenience that has brought joy to millions. Or maybe he had the business acumen to build a town where nothing stood before. Even though he's a millionaire, most of his cash is put back into his business—a business upon which a thousand people are dependent for their livelihood. However, the envious and the democracy haters never consider this. They want to divide the booty without having helped in the battle.

Debt is a hazard to business, to health, and to life it—

"Wollogay"

My ears having been long attuned to the music of our mother tongue as it is interpreted by the members of the Blueson Clan, I was not very well fitted to enter, even as a guest, a home, the inmates of which, had but recently arrived from the land of scones, parritch and Highland whiskey.

I have never felt the slightest embarrassment when I have found myself in the treacherous quick sands which lie in wait for the unwary linguist who finds himself confronted by a Yorkshireman, "by gum", nor have I been known to flinch when some bewhiskered fugitive from the oppressions of Czarism has, with many "skis" demanded, or seemed to demand that I immediately render an opinion on the merits of the respective philosophies of Tolstoy and Alexander Dowie. My reply, seemingly, being altogether contingent upon his finding a time and a place when and where he might, without undue inconvenience, cease from his hirsute gymnastics.

I may be somewhat astray regarding the subject on which the erstwhile Volga boatman spoke with such furry vehemence; but for the life of me I cannot conceive of any other subject which could possibly call for such gurgled earnestness.

Though I have strayed somewhat from the subject in hand, the digression was purposely designed to impress upon my readers (if any) the fact that in matters of language, I am, and have been, the sort of a guy who can take it; and therefore my perplexity when suddenly confronted with the brand of Anglo-Saxon imported from North of the Tweed was not the result of either natural or acquired modesty. I have faced the redoubled "k" of the Finn without flinching; I have displayed the uttermost in nonchalance when confronted by the Balkan "ich" but the burred "r" from the Glens and Lochs of "Auld Scotia" reduced me to a state of acute incornicance, much to my amazement.

To the uninitiate the foregoing may seem an introduction all too elaborate when the comparative unimportance of my subject is taken into consideration. "Jum Wollogay," and I choose the name given him by the wee lad and lassie of the household where I first made his acquaintance, came to Canada from Alyth, a small collection of thatched cottages, located somewhere north of the old stamping grounds of the "Moss Troopers."

Shortly after landing he filed on a homestead about two miles west of where I had taken up a claim. Looking around for some kind of a power plant to use in his agricultural activities "Jum" was attracted by, and purchased, (on time) a steed of undoubted "Barb" ancestry—anyway, Chub had many sharp projections. Possessed as he was of all the "fine points" of that celebrated breed, the newly acquired helpmate was, in all outward appearances, the twentieth century replica of that renowned steed, "Rosinante," though "Jum" could scarcely be regarded as a re-incarnation of the redoubtable Don.

lowly ox of almost pre-diluvian vintage. So ancient was he that with a slight stretch of the imagination one could visualize him straining against the bow of an antique neck yoke and dragging, after him one of those swaying chariots, a covered wagon of the trail of 49. A second glance at the lowly ruminant and one saw that, contrary to all the historical records, the Sioux scalped both man and beast, "Jum's" ox being one of the sole survivors of some festival of feathered fiendishness.

The reposeful nature of the equine portion of "Jum's" team led to many differences of opinion between employer and employee and usually in victory for the proletariat. There came a day, however, when patience ceased to be a virtue and victory must perchance now or never upon the banner of St. Andrew.

Choosing as a rest period a time when the sun was nearing the zenith, Chub gently subsided upon the bosom of the kindly prairie. Turning the patient ox out to graze, "Wollogay," hastened to tie the recumbent steed firmly to the plough beam, leaving him there to ponder upon the error of his ways. Returning to the scene of conflict after having satisfied, somewhat, the inner man, he drove in the ox and then sought to arouse in the reclining recumbent some small sense of responsibility. Alack-a-day! "Chub" had chosen the intermission to make the final heigra to the Mecca of equine desire.

The plow was left in the furrow a prey to rust and decay, while "Jum" sought solace in the "enlightening" pages of "Das Kapital" (or something like that.) "Chub" represented capital but he refused to labor.

Since the above was written, the laddie referred to, now grown to man's estate, has been visiting with us. Accompanied by his wife and two children, he spent several days with us. The wee bairn of those early days on the prairie is now an instructor in a technical school in Regina, Sask., and the ties of friendship which existed between us then have not been broken by the years of separation.

SEZ GOERING

(New York Times)

Germany has nearly everything it needs; it is "the best-equipped state in the world." True, it lacks zinc, lead and copper, but "if you do not believe we have raw materials, you must agree the Russians do have them." The blockade is "damned thin," and "we have just concluded deals whereby we will get things." After all this, he admits that "suit clothes made from cellulose, manufactured of potatoes, may not be the best"; and "if necessary we will walk about in bathing trunks."

The contradictions merely begin there. Germany has bumper crops, and "there really needs to be no restrictions"; but "I am restricting from the first moment." "If I ordered that foreign radio stations must not be listened to, it was not because I feared foreign propaganda." "What is said about our war aims—Ukraine, Hungary, Rumania—is laughable," but "Rumania and Yugoslavia remain neutral because... they know what will happen to them if they fight against us." It is little wonder that he found it necessary to tell his German hearers at one point: "Some things may be hard for you to understand."

Tragic Accident at Freeport

Word was received at Digby, Friday morning, of a tragic shooting accident at Freeport, Long Island, Digby County. As the result of the accident, Roy Finigan, 25 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Finigan, is dead, and his companion, Mrs. Wilfred Dakin, (nee Beverly Eaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Eaton) was gravely injured by five shot gun slugs, which entered her body.

The accident occurred shortly before 7 o'clock Thursday evening. Finigan and Mrs. Dakin are alleged to have been deer hunting in the vicinity of Freeport. Nearby, Walton Nickerson, also of Freeport, was also hunting out of season.

It is stated Nickerson mistook the movements of the other two for the movement of a deer, and fired a charge from his shot gun. The slugs struck Finigan in the chest and left wrist; five other slugs entered the body of Mrs. Dakin, who is given a chance of recovery.

Finigan died within half an hour after the accident. An inquest into the tragedy was conducted at Freeport, Friday, by Coroner Dr. John R. McCleave, of Digby, and Carman Nase, of Freeport, foreman of the jury. This verdict was that Roy Finigan came to his death accidentally from the discharge of a gun in the hands of Walton Nickerson. R. C. M. P., and Prosecuting Attorney of Digby, attended the inquest.

Nickerson was brought to Digby, Friday evening and lodged in jail here. Later he was released on $1,000 bail, and will appear Saturday for his preliminary hearing on a charge of manslaughter.

ARMY PAY AND ALLOWANCES

Interesting and authentic information of pay and allowances for those serving in the Canadian Active service force is contained in "Financial Regulations and Instructions as for the Active Service Force," a copy of which has been furnished this office.

The rate of pay runs from $24 a day, as paid to a Grade 1 staff officer to $1.30 per day paid to a private soldier. Pay in the army is for seven days a week. In addition to these amounts there are allowances for subsistence and families.

As regards staff officers they are divided into 11 classes with $6 per day as the rate of pay, in Class 11,—the lowest paid category. Top is $24.

The following is the daily rate of pay for all officers entitled to regimental rates of pay with the exception of professionally qualified officers in the C. A. M. C., and C. A. D. C., who are paid higher amounts:—

Members of the nursing service are entitled to pay of their military ranks, follows:—Matron in-chief, rank of major; Assistant Captain, Matron Captain, Nursing Sister, Lieutenant.

In addition to the pay of officers, as above stated there are various forms of "additional pay." For instance, the commander of a battalion of 500 troops or more, receives "command pay" at the rate of a dollar a day.

The pay of warrant officers, non-commissioned officers and men, is as follows:—Regimental Sgt. Major $4.20, all other warrant officers, class 1, $3.90; Regimental Quartermaster Sgt., Staff Quartermaster Sgt., Quartermaster Sgt., $3.10; Company Sgt. An outfit allowance of $150 is authorized for officers and nursing sisters.

PLANT OF GREAT VIOLENCE

A plant was cultivated at one time in Kew Gardens, in England, which behaved so badly that it had to be killed off like a mad dog.

This was the Jatropha urens, a relation of the plant that gives tapioca. Its leaves are furnished with hairs that sting with terrible violence.

Several gardeners were stung severely at Kew, and suffered for months. At last the curator himself, reaching over a Jatropha, brushed its leaves with his wrist. He immediately became numb all over, and his lips swelled enormously. The poison acted on the heart, and the blood stream was almost entirely stopped. The victim soon became unconscious, but a doctor was summoned, and his life was saved.

He suffered excruciating pain for days, however, and his wrist was swollen and itched maddeningly for a number of months afterwards.

fantry to Highland Units or vice versa are granted an allowance for uniforms, and varying from $60 to $75.

Officers and soldiers not living in public quarters or camps and not receiving rations in kind, get the following subsistence allowance:—

Officers, on special rates of pay, per day $1.00; officers on regimental rates of pay $1.70; soldiers 85 cents per day.

If an officer or soldier is provided with rations but not with quarters, an allowance in lieu thereof will be paid as follows:—Officers $1.00 per day; soldiers 35 cents.

Officers and soldiers in addition to their own pay have the following amounts paid each month to their dependents:—Above the rank of Major $60.00; Major $55.00; Captain $50.00; Lieutenant $45.00; Warrant Officer, class 1, $40.00. All other ranks $35.00.

For dependents, son to age of 16, and daughters to age of 17, per month $12.00.

Allowances are made for any other dependent relative as follows:—Above rank of Major $30; Major $25.00; Captain $25.00; Lieutenant $25.00; Warrant Officers and all other ranks $20.00.

A soldier on whose account dependents allowance is issued must assign the following amounts per month to the recipient:—Warrant Officers, class 1 $60.00; Warrant Officers, class 2, $45.00; Staff Sergeant and Sergeant $35.00; Ranks below Sergeant $20.00.

Foresees United States of The World

Pressure of Events Will Force All Nations to Unite, Says Lord Lothian.

Being the British ambassador to Washington, is one of the biggest jobs in the British Empire. It has fallen to a prominent English liberal named Philip Henry Kerr, who is credited with having written more clauses of the Versailles Treaty than any other man.

Kerr is known as Lord Lothian now, since he inherited his cousin's title nine years ago. He was a close adviser of former Prime Minister Lloyd George, at the World War peace conference.

One of the Lord Lothian's main interests is that of a united states of the world. He firmly believes that the free nations should band together in a federal union which would be the nucleus for such a federation.

This Would Be Different

It would not, however, be just another League of Nations, he declares, for these countries would pool some part of their sovereignty to create a common government representative of, and responsible to, the people.

He believes that "it is now quite obvious that Europe cannot attain to peace or prosperity as 26 sovereign states, each with tariffs, foreign policies, and armies of its own."

How to create such a union has not been thought out, Lord Lothian admits, but he is sure that "it will never be accomplished by propaganda but only by the pressure of events."

"Personally," he says, "I have no doubt that once the nations feel the need of this advance and set their minds to it, they will find the way."

Barn and Contents Destroyed by Fire

The large barn of Paul Guler, at Waldeck Lane, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin, on Friday evening last. The house, which stood nearby, was saved. Destroyed with the barn were four cows, six and his entire crop of grain and hay as well as valuable farm machinery. The fire was discovered about 8.45 p. m., at which time both Mr. and Mrs. Guler were attending a barn dance at Clementsport, in the large new barn of Dr. Stone. The dance was held under the auspices of the Annapolis Royal Branch of the Canadian Legion. Mr. Guler came from Nova Scotia from Austria a few years ago.

THE PILGRIM'S PRAYER

do not ask that life serene may be Each passing day;
only ask for strength to follow Thee
On life's short way.
To speak a loving word to those who pine,
To cheer some heart;
To be like Mary, Lord, and choose for mine.
The better part.
do not ask for fame and fortune fleet.
These pass away;
only ask to guide the weary feet of those who stray.
To lift the heavy load, to lead the blind;
To share the loss;
To be like Thee, O Saviour of mankind.
And bear a cross!

Bear River Exhibition A Good Show

Rain greatly interfered with the opening of the Bear River Exhibition on Tuesday, but yesterday the attendance was good. The show this year is fully up to the average, although it was thought that the dry weather of the past few months would have the effect of cutting down the fruit, vegetable and grain exhibits. But as far as we could see in a hurried trip through the buildings and grounds yesterday, all these exhibits were exceptionally good, and the flowers were better than usual. In the gallery a lot of interest was shown in the school exhibits—a new feature this year. The portions of the building allotted to fancy work and cooking were well filled. Preserves, jellies and canned vegetables were shown in quite large quantities.

Downstairs the field and garden crops show up well and there are some particularly fine collections. The Women's Institute are again to the fore with a booth of home cooking and a display of interesting and odd antiques.

A large barn has been built on the grounds this year, and this, as well as the other live stock buildings and grounds, were well filled with cattle and horses. There were not so many sheep as usual, and swine had almost entirely disappeared. Poultry were in a little better display, but pets, etc., fell off.

But take it right through, the Bear River Exhibition was well worth attending.

ENDS LONG SERVICE

After 47 years of service with the D. A. R., Frank M. VanBlarcom, round house foreman, at Kentville, since 1919, will retire Saturday on superannuation. Mr. VanBlarcom, who celebrated his 86th birthday several days ago, will go on the retired list with an excellent record and wide popularity among his fellow workers and citizens of Kentville.

A native of Barton, Digby County, Mr. VanBlarcom is a son of Hiram VanBlarcom, who was one of seven sons of Sheriff Benjamin VanBlarcom, himself a seventh son. Going to Kentville in 1893, he served his apprenticeship with the Lloyd Manufacturing Company. Three years later he joined the D. A. R. staff, but discontinued his service two years later and went to New Glasgow as a machinist with the Brown Machine Company. In 1897 he returned to the D. A. R., and since then has had continuous service. He was foreman of the machine shop for fifteen years before being promoted to foreman of the Round House in Kentville.

Mr. VanBlarcom is Kentville's oldest active bandsman. He joined the band forty-three years ago and has served as president and in every other office of the organization. He has been a prominent member of the Hiawatha Lodge, I. O. O. F., which he joined more than forty years ago.

Mr. VanBlarcom's wife is the former Miss Winnie Andrews, of Ellershouse. They have three sons, Ellery, Head Office staff, Bank of Nova Scotia, Montreal; Lloyd, in radio wireless work, Toronto; and Murray, at home.

Hospital Aid Holds Meeting

Reports on the work of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society were presented at the September business meeting, held this week. The members were pleased to learn that the Masonic Lodge had authorized the Hospital Aid to restock the Masonic Room at the Hospital, with linens, and to purchase a new mattress, draperies and other items for the room, at their expense. When completed in the Lodge colors of blue and white, the room will be a great credit to the Masons.

The report from the Hospital Board meeting gave the following statistics for the past month:—Patients:—Obstetrical, 4; babies, 3; X-Ray, 44; medical, 12; surgical, 50; with 15 major and 35 minor operations. Total number of patients, 112. Deaths, none. Expenses, $1159.75; X-Ray expenses, $77.07; salaries, $631.84.

Future plans for the work of the Society include the holding of the Fall Variety Sale, early in October, and of making an annual collection during the latter part of the

Irving Berlin's new songs, Senja Henie's sunny brilliance, Tyrone Power's gay romancing, Rudy Vallee's singing and Edna May Oliver's fun—one of the greatest combinations of talent ever gathered for one show is making Irving Berlin's "Second Fiddle" the sensation of the preview critics who have lavished on the 20th Century-Fox film a chorus of praise.

It's something new in screen entertainment, this film—which will open at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, and it's filled with romance, dazzling spectacle, fresh comedy, six new Berlin songs and surprises galore, including sensational tangos on ice, snow rhumbas, ice ballets, and the new ballroom dance craze, the "Back to Back."

This is right in the line with the new trend, set by Zanuck in his production of Irving Berlin's "Alexander's Ragtime Band," of combining music with a story of real dramatic worth into perfectly blended entertainment.

"Second Fiddle" introduces, also, new-star Mary Healy, lovely young actress whose first screen appearance finds her in a romantic role opposite Rudy Vallee. The producers expect great work from this newcomer and her performance is hailed as fulfilling every expectation. Included with her in the cast are Lyle Talbot and Alan Dinehart.

For the first time on the screen Senja Henie has a skating partner on the ice, young Stewart Reburn. The handsome Canadian athlete appeared with the ice star during her triumphant personal-appearance tour of the country last winter.

Sonja also hangs up her skating shoes temporarily to join Rudy on the ballroom floor in the "Back to Back," a new dance created by Harry Losee from the song written by Berlin for the film. Other tune hits are: "I'm Sorry for Myself," "An Old Fashioned Tune Always Is New," "Song of the Metro-nome," "When Winter Comes" and "I Poured My Heart Into a Song," all by Irving Berlin.

MARRIAGES

Thomas - Marshall
A wedding of interest to many, took place at the Kingston Mission Church on Monday morning, Sept. 18th, at 9 o'clock, when Isabel Marguerite Marshall, daughter of Mrs. Arthur J. Mitchell, of Middleton, and the late Ingram P. Marshall, and Edward Christian Thomas, son of Gregory Thomas and the late Mrs. Thomas, of Halifax, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. P. Hayes, of Kentville, followed immediately by nuptial high mass. The church was artistically decorated for the occasion by girl friends of the bride. The wedding music was played by John W. Spurr, of Middleton, who during mass, rendered "Ave Maria". Given in marriage by her stepfather (Arthur J. Mitchell, formerly of Sandy Cove) the bride was charming in her floor length gown of white lace over satin with finger tip veil, caught up with lilies of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Frances, who wore a full length aqua blue gown, her toque being fashioned of flowers with ribbon streamers in the back. She carried a shower bouquet of pastel sweet peas. The groom was attended by his brother, Jack, of Halifax. The bride's mother was dressed in navy blue crepe with corsage of Tailsman roses. Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate families of the bride and groom, after which the young couple left on a motor trip of the Maritime Provinces, and on their return will reside in Halifax, where the groom is on the teaching staff of the engineering department of St. Mary's College. For travelling the bride wore a wine wool dress with matching accessories and fawn coat. The bride, who is a popular member of Middleton's young set, has been for the past eight years stenographer at the Commercial Office of the local Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Co., and since the announcement of her engagement, has been the guest of honor at a number of social events. The groom's gift to his bride was a string of pearls; to the bridesmaid, a pendant; his best man, cuff links, and organist, leather billfold. The young couple were the recipients of a large and beautiful array of gifts, attesting to their popularity, and the best wishes of their many friends follow them to their new home in Halifax.

self. Long-term bonds put that much capital out of circulation for generations. Bonds are debts and taxes on the instalment plan—taxes in storage for lifetimes at a stretch. Indirect taxes and bonds are the parents of squanderlust and crookedness. Every state, county, city, or town is a business. Not one in ten thousand pays its own running expenses. It rarely occurs to anyone's mind to make it pay. Private business which comes out even on expenses, is very undesirable. If it runs behind, it soon dies. Private business is so sound with assessments, taxes, and general unrest that capital hides in banks and bonds. Capital invested in public works never pays, therefore, it is buried for eternity, so far as business is concerned.—Myron Ellison, N. Y.

A war, of the scope this promises to be is certain to make its effect felt on industry in general. Certain lines, hostilities will stimulate. With others, there will be a depression. But all will in some way feel the consequences when nations start fighting one another. It is impossible to say just yet, how fishing will react to the struggle. In the North Sea in particular, where fishing has for centuries, given employment to thousands, operations may have to cease. It amounted to that in 1914-18 for the less these peaceful fleets have to do with mines and submarines and the movement of naval craft the better. At the same time, everything in the way of food and other supplies must be furnished. Fish will be just as necessary as ever.

Superior Judge Ben Lindsay, of Los Angeles, suspended a psychopathic hearing in his court recently, when he said to the crowded room: "This court will now listen to the greatest mad man in the world." Whereupon he tuned his office radio to a re-broadcast of Adolf Hitler's speech. Thirty minutes later he turned off the radio to resume consideration of a score of psychopathic cases.

Between press reports, skilful propaganda and over-emphatic radio broadcasts the general public will be certain to read statements which conflict. In the rush of stories from all over the globe during the opening week of a war of this magnitude, it would be indeed remarkable if all assertions and claims were in agreement. Take, for example, the position of the daily papers, large and small. The great objective is the unbiased truth. It is only in the realm of romantic fancy that there is any desire to play up palatable falsity, to distort or "twist" or magnify. The last thing a paper wishes to see happen is the printing of any story or item that will not stand closest scrutiny. Allowance must be made for the little errors and slips which do creep in, despite the utmost vigilance. All these are minor matters. The big fact is not that there are no inaccuracies, but that there are so few. The press as an institution, remain alive to its responsibility at all times and under all conditions, and welcome fair criticism. The great news gathering bureaus and agencies, long established dailies of repute, employ correspondents of proven ability, and highest standing and experience. Their despatches are signed. It is still to the printed word that people turn, for they know that the press and those who serve it are free.

Great Mysteries Of The Sea

What happened to the Koblenz? Carrying some of Denmark's most prominent youths on Training Cruise, it left port and was never heard of again—false SOS signals and no signals at all make ship disappearances baffling—second World War may bring more mysteries.

(By Donald Heffernan)

"SOS—SOS—Ship in flames and sinking! SOS—SOS!"
For many hectic hours private vessels and the United States Coast Guard searched the Atlantic Ocean off Southeast Florida by air and water, a little more than a month ago, seeking in vain a mysterious British tanker, supposedly in dire distress.

"SOS—SOS!" a wireless had cracked. "Send help. Urgent!" For seven hours radio channels had been loaded with a fragmentary story of explosion, fire, and lifeboat launching—and with pleas for aid.

"Abandoning ship now," came the final message, weakly just as dawn broke over the Atlantic.

Call a Hoax

The unknown operator had said his ship was the tanker Dunkwa, but Lloyds, of London, famous marine insurance agency, reported the Dunkwa safe in port at Rotterdam. Then further discrepancies in the calls—presumably sent by a ship's officer after the radio operator was badly hurt—were noted.

Then evidence finally pointed to a hoax, but the search was not immediately abandoned. The remote possibility of lives being in danger, of men adrift in small boats, led the coast guard to comb the area for hours.

No boats, no signs of a disaster, no survivors were found. Radio investigators agreed that the distress signals were false, possibly sent by some land operator in the vicinity, an offense that carries a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine and two years' imprisonment.

It was not the first time such fraudulent messages had sounded dramatically through the air.

Late in February a dozen ships scoured the smooth seas southwest of the Azores for twenty-four hours in an endeavor to answer the brief but frantic "SOS—SOS. Torpedoed by unknown submarine. Holed below water line. Sinking!"

But the captains of the searching craft could find neither crippled ship nor wreckage. And the call letters which had been given were found to belong to the French liner Bretagne, which was not in trouble.

As the hours passed, many voiced belief that the SOS was a hoax—that there was no ship, no torpedo, no submarine. Others were less skeptical, but none could say definitely what—if anything—had happened.

Thus another sea mystery was added to an already long list.

When the old sailing ships were replaced by trans-oceanic craft equipped with wireless—when their operators could tell the world exactly where their ship was, at what hour and in what condition—it was believed that the conundrums of the deep would decrease.

But in the almost thirty years that wireless has been in use, there have been numerous occasions when it has become a complication, when it has failed completely, or when it has made disappearance of ships more mysterious.

Big Vessels Disappear

It is a known fact that the Danish training ship Koblenz, the American ship Cyclops, the British motor ship Nuncoo, and the German training ship Admiral Karpfanger, which sailed over the horizon last year, were all radio equipped. Yet they disappeared silently, and it does not appear that their silence will ever be broken.

The Cyclops vanished during the first World War, and with submarine warfare already under way during the second World War, the "mysterious" disappearance of ships of belligerent nations in days to come is not a remote possibility.

There have been others—to mention just two, the tug Nina, which sailed from Norfolk, Va., in 1910, and was never heard from again, and the tug Conestoga, with 4 officers and 52 men, which left Mare Island, Cal., in 1921, for Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and never succeeded in reaching that destination.

Ships that actually vanish in silence furnish a stranger phenomenon than false SOS signals. Virtually all are equipped with wireless, and wireless doesn't often fail. The air above every ocean is alive with messages, criss-crossing from receiver to receiver.

Why, then, have these radio-equipped vessels disappeared without a word?

Fate Veiled in Mystery

In 1938 the German ship Karpfanger, fully equipped with radio, sailed from New Zealand with 60 German cadets on board, and was never seen again. Its last radio report was an announcement that it would proceed to Chile and around Cape Horn.

What happened? If the craft was struck by lightning, rammed into a reef, foundered in a typhoon, or struck an iceberg, why didn't the radio operation flash the news at once?

Reports of missing ships being found, or having been seen, or messages in bottles from such ships, never seem to end. So it was in the case of the British motor ship Nuncoo, a passenger-freighter, which left Georgetown, Grand Cayman Island, in 1936, with 21 aboard, including 9 Americans.

When she failed to appear it was thought she had developed motor trouble and was adrift without power—but no radio message was ever received.

Since she disappeared, fragments of wreckage have been seen at three different places. They may have been parts of the Nuncoo, and they may not. Two bottles were also found, both containing messages. One, picked up on Miami Beach, Fla., said:

"Please give to coast guard. Help.

"No need for anyone to try selling me any other brand. REGAL satisfies so completely that I wouldn't dream of using any other Flour."

Crashed on reef at Matecumbe. Wireless broken and unable to repair."

After investigation coast guardsmen branded it a hoax.
The other, bearing a message with the heading "S. S. Nuncoo", told of a mutiny, with all the passengers killed and the supposed mutineers heading the ship for Africa. Coast guardsmen suspected another hoax. At any rate nothing positive ever came of it.

Fueling Ship Lost

No story of ships which disappeared without a sound from their wireless could be complete without mention of the American ship Cyclops, one of the nation's largest fueling ships. Bound in 1918 from Brazil to Baltimore, she called at Barbadoes March 4, and was never heard of again. Neither were any of her 15 officers, 221 crew members, or 57 passengers, mostly Americans.

It may have been that the loss of the Cyclops was due to an attack by a German submarine, for this was during the World War, but if such was the case no portions of the ship were ever found, and there were no messages from her, no appeals for aid.

Perhaps she was caught in a hurricane and turned turtle when her cargo shifted, but one thing is certain—she hasn't been seen in twenty-one years.

Danish Vessel Vanishes

Ten years after the Cyclops disappeared the world's largest windjammer, Koblenz, equipped with wireless, sailed from Buenos Aires for Australia and vanished. She was a five-masted bark, a cadet training ship of the East Asiatic Company of Copenhagen, Denmark. Some of the 60 youths aboard her were members of Denmark's most prominent families.

Expeditions were sent to comb the 9,000 miles of ocean between the port she left and the one to which she was bound—but with no success. To this day the Danes are still hunting her.

INDIAN NAMES PUZZLE

Names of Navajo Indians are a headache for the Social Security Board, in Washington. Explains Lyman Brewer, board officer: "The Navajos just don't care. A baby's parents may call him Little Bow-Legs when he begins to walk. A little later he may be named Little Chicken Thief, and so on and on. If he has a physical affliction, they'll call him Crossed Eyes or One Ear. If you ask him what his name is, he'll just give you another one that he likes better."

The Earl of Sandwich, fourth in descent from the peer who, by ordering a waiter to place a piece of meat between two slices of bread and bring it to him as he sat at cards, and thus gave the sandwich to the world, was even more eccentric than his ancestor. In protest against the custom of women wearing their hats at luncheon he made his servants wear their hats while serving him.

The ladies of St. Ann Society, of which the deceased was a member, attended in a large number, and many Sisters of Charity from Wedgeport, Yarmouth, Meteghan and Church Point accompanied the Mother Superior of Wedgeport Convent, to her mother's funeral. Also the Sisters of the Congregation of Jesus and Mary from the College were present. It was one of the most largely attended funerals in Church Point. Our sincere sympathy to the family and in particular, to Rev. Mother Virginia, confined to the Halifax Infirmary, and to Resther LeBlanc, confined at home with paralysis, who could not assist at the funeral of their dear mother.
