The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern till, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to other countries, left the whole

Gosh! What A Barn!

We have recently been shown the picture of a barn in Limestone, Maine, owned by Howard Nichols, a cousin of Mrs. Edward Budd, of Digby. It is seven stories high, with stained glass windows and carries the world's largest weathervane, a copper cow bigger than life size, covered with gold leaf. But Mr. Nichols has been unfortunate in his barn—he has lost three by fire and has spent upwards of $95,000 on barns alone. He is a farmer on a big scale and has 350 acres in potatoes alone.

TOWN TALK

Flashes from the "Strawberry Fields"—
The Ridge—Ain't goin' to be any and besides they're goin' to be high.
South Range—They're goin' to be high and besides there's not goin' to be any.
North Range—We had hopes but last night the rain filled a barrel in my yard through a bung hole with three staves missing.
Marshalltown—(One district to bear from.) The crop reminds us of the potato crop last April.

MARRIAGE

Mansfield - Lyons
Marion Elizabeth Lyons daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allyn L. Lyons, Waltham, Mass., became the bride of Charles Edward Mansfield, U.S.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Mansfield, also of Waltham, at three o'clock, Sunday afternoon, June 23, at a service solemnized in the Beth Eden Baptist Church in that city. Rev. John Brush, D.D., interim pastor, officiated for the double ring service. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by Edith Mansfield as maid of honor. Her bridesmaids were Lorraine Massie and Virginia Enderwick. Albert Mansfield was best man. The bride was gown in a crisp fallie taffeta, period style, with sweetheart neckline, a fitted basque bodice and bouffant skirt with long train. She wore an off-the-face halo veil of fingertip length, detailed with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses. After an extended wedding trip the bride and groom will reside in Virginia. The bride is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burpee Frost, Little River.

Marshall - Prime
Spring flowers and foliage decorated the Outremont Presbyterian Church at Montreal, for the marriage at 3 o'clock, May 27, of Joyce McGidney Prime, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Gidney, of Mink Cove, to Lieut. Eric McLean Marshall, R.C.N.V.R., (Fleet Air Arm) son of Mr. and Mrs. J. McLean Marshall, of the Town of Mount Royal. Rev. Mr. Foote officiated, while W. Watkins played the wedding music. The bride was given in marriage by W. H. Harrison, uncle of the bridegroom, and wore a model gown of white silk jersey, floor length, with small white hat and veil, and carried a bouquet of pink and cream roses. Attending the bride was the bridegroom's sister, Miss Joyce Lee Marshall, as maid of honor, wearing blue sheer over taffeta, a small blue flower-trimmed hat with veil and carrying sweet peas in pastel shades. Lieut. Edward Trerise, R.N. (Fleet Air Arm) was the best man and ushers were Sub-Lieut. W. J. Hill, R.C.N.V.R., and Clifford Harrison. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, 239 Kindersley Ave., where sweet peas and lilies of the valley, decorated the rooms, and the bridegroom's mother received, wearing a grey ensemble with small flowered hat and a corsage of American Beauty roses. For the wedding trip to the Seignior Club, the bride wore a blue ensemble with touches of white, and matching accessories. The bridal couple will take up residence, temporarily, in New York City. The bride is a graduate of the N.S. Normal College, and for a time was on the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Yarmouth.

Atkinson - Dakin
A wedding of provincial interest took place at the Centreville Baptist Church, Wednesday, June 28, at 3 o'clock, when Rev. E. R. MacWilliam, of Liverpool, united in marriage, Evelyn Harriet Dakin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. P. Dakin, of Centreville, and Rev. Laurence Roswell Atkinson, B.Th., son of Mrs. Nellie and the late Stillman Atkinson, Liverpool. The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a floor-length gown of white chiffon over satin with long sleeves embroidered with yoke with bodice of soutache, braid with full-length veil falling from a coronet of white roses. She carried a bouquet of white and pink roses. Besides a gold locket, she wore a crescent shaped pearl studded pin, a gift of her late grandmother. The matron of honor was Mrs. Crowell Atkinson, of Liverpool. The bridesmaid was Doris Dakin, niece of the bride, and the groom was attended by Rev. Sydney R. Horton, of Barrs Corner, a college chum. The ushers were Crowell Atkinson, of Liverpool, brother of the groom, and Lieut. Sydney Whitehouse, of Yarmouth. The wedding marches were played by Mrs. Cecil Dakin, sister of the bride, and Karl Wall, of Liverpool, was soloist. The church was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Those serving were Mrs. Willie Dakin, Mrs. Cecil Dakin, Mrs. William Robichaud, Mrs. Robert Morehouse, Mrs. Lee Farnsworth and Mrs. Elwin Morton. The groom is a graduate of the class of '44 of Acadia University, and after a honeymoon in Cape Breton and other parts of the province will take up duties as pastor at large for the Baptist Home Mission Board for the Maritimes. The wedding gifts were many and varied. The bride was the guest of honor at a recent shower held at the home of her sister, Mrs. Cecil Dakin, and many useful gifts were received.

Munroe - Rusoe
A pretty wedding was solemnized in the United Church, Clementsport, at 7:30, Wednesday, June 28, when Ida Rusoe, of Boston, Mass., became the bride of Kenneth Munroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Munroe, Clementsport. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James Brooks, minister of the church. The bride entered the church on the arm of L.A.C. Harris, who gave her in marriage. She was becomingly attired in a floor length gown of white satin on fitted bodice effect with full flowing skirt and veil of soft ivory illusion and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses. Miss Frances Harris of Halifax, was bridesmaid and wore a floor length dress of blue with overdress of net; shoulder length veil, and floral hat of pink and blue. Her bouquet was pink snap dracena. Dorothea Munroe, sister of the groom, and Marjorie Harris were flower girls. The groom was supported by his cousin, Donald Harris. Sable McIntosh was usher. Wedding marches were played by Mr. Lunn of Annapolis Royal. During the signing of the register Mrs. D. MacLean sang "Because." Following the ceremony the wedding couple were entertained at the Golden Anchor, Annapolis Royal. The bride and groom afterward left on a short honeymoon trip through the Annapolis Valley and will visit Mr. and Mrs. Fred Munroe before returning to Massachusetts where they will make their home.

Outhouse - Moran
A very pretty wedding took place on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Moran, Freeport, when their only daughter, Barbara, was united in marriage to Delroy Outhouse, of Tiverton, only son of Mrs. Georgia Outhouse and the late Ruel Outhouse. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ross Eaton. The marriage took place under an arch of roses and fern, and the house was decorated with a profusion of wild flowers by girl friends of the bride, Miss Jean Haines, church organist, presided at the organ, playing the wedding march. The bride was attended by Miss Marion Finlan, while the groom was supported by Jim Robinson. The bride was attired in pale blue with bouquet of carnations and fern while the

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Amoro
Mrs. John Amoro, aged and highly respected resident of Hill Grove, passed away after a brief illness at her home on Sunday morning, June 25. The late Mrs. Amoro was born at Doucetteville, seventy-six years ago, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Doucette. Following her marriage she made many friends who will mourn her passing. She was always interested in the affairs of the school and community and was always ready to help along any good cause. In religion she was a devout Roman Catholic. Recently she and Mr. Amoro celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary. Besides her aged husband, she leaves to mourn eight daughters: Mrs. Alex Thibideau, of Doucetteville; Mrs. James Driscoll, Mrs. John Carr, Mrs. Harold Hayes, Josephine Amoro, all of Saint John; Mrs. Titus Nash, of Digby; Mrs. Edward Comeau and Mrs. Carl Winchester, both of Hill Grove; four sons: Percy, of Saint John; Hughie, of Acadiaville; Edward, of Hill Grove, and Joseph, of the United States Army; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Burton, of Saint John; Mrs. Willard Doucette, of Berlin, N.H., and one brother, Percy Doucette, of Milan, N.H., also fifty-two grandchildren and twelve great grandchildren. Funeral service was held on Wednesday at the Roman Catholic Church at Doucetteville with Solemn High Mass. Interment was in the Doucetteville cemetery.

Mary Elizabeth Whitman
The death of Mary Elizabeth Whitman, age 87, occurred suddenly Monday, June 26, in the Woodland Nursing Home, Annapolis, where she had been a patient for some time. Miss Whitman, who was born at Tupperville, lived for many years at the Racquette Gardens and was well-known in Digby. Funeral services were held at Round Hill, Wednesday, June 28, with Archdeacon A. W. L. Smith, Rev. E. B. Gabriel and Rev. E. Fream in attendance, also a large following of friends and neighbors and many lovely floral tributes.

Dr. A. L. Anderson
There passed away at his home in Wolfville, Dr. Alexander L. Anderson, an esteemed citizen of that town, whose passing is a distinct loss to the community. He had been in failing health for some time. Dr. Anderson was bridesmaid wore flowered silk jersey and bouquet of carnations and fern. The bride's table was arranged with a three-tier wedding cake. The gift to the organist and bridesmaid was a silver locket and chain and a pearl jackknife to the best man. After refreshments were served, the happy couple left on a motor trip down the south shore. They will reside in Tiverton. The gifts were many and beautiful, including money, linen, etc.

Warren - King
A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Luke's Church, Annapolis Royal, on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock when Marie Louise, daughter of Mrs. Mary L. King and the late C. C. King, and Fit-Sgt. George Lyman Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Warren of Bear River, were united in marriage by the rector, Rev. E. B. Gabriel. The church was beautifully decorated with a profusion of white and pink peonies and the wedding marches were played by the organist, Mrs. H. M. Doull. The choir sang the hymn, "O Perfect Love." The bride, who was given in marriage, was attractively gowned in an antique embroidered floor length gown of ivory faille, made with a sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and a short train. Her veil was of ivory illusion and was arranged with orange blossoms in halo effect. She carried a shower bouquet of shell pink peony buds and aquilegia. Her only attendant was Mrs. Raymond Carpenter of St. John's, Conn., as matron of honor. She wore a floor length gown of peach satin and chiffon with a floral hat of the same shade and carried a bouquet of pink and mauve peony buds and aquilegia. The best man was Cpl. Warren Balcom of the R.C.A.F., while Mayor H. Gordon McCormick and town clerk H. M. Doull acted as ushers. Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held at the bride's home for the immediate relatives and friends of the bride and groom. Mrs. H. Gordon McCormick and Miss Cylena Pickup poured while the bride's sister Miss Elizabeth King, Misses Glendean Buckler, Kathleen Spurr, Hortense Gilliat, Grace Schafner, Elizabeth Hardwick and Eleanor Douglas served. Later Sgt. and Mrs. Warren left for a wedding trip. Mrs. Warren wearing a strawberry colored suit with leather brown accessories. The bride graduated from Mount Allison University in 1941 with a B.Sc. degree and for the past two years has been on the staff of Hart House, Toronto. The groom before he enlisted was a member of the staff of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Digby's Dominion Day Celebration

Digby's July 1st celebration and sports day was one of the best of its kind since the old Indian Carnival days. Ideal weather conditions brought thousands from a radius of many miles for the big events. The day got off to an early start with a street parade. The parade committee excelled themselves, and as a result of their efforts the parade was the best in years. The prize list for the parade is as follows:
General Floats—1st, Red Cross Blood Donors' Clinic; 2nd, Zelma Rebekah Lodge and Dominion Corp. Ltd.
Commercial Floats—1st, E. B. Weir, Smith's Cove; 2nd, Rexall Drug Store and Lloyd's Decorators.
Novelty Floats—1st, Digby Branch Victorian Order of Nurses; 2nd, Digby Service Wives and Digby General Hospital.
Most Unusual Floats—1st, Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club; 2nd, Scotia Restaurant.
Decorated Cars—1st, Mildred Cart; 2nd, Fritz Dakin and Mahle Holdsworth.
Horse Drawn Floats—1st, Ever Ready Club, Mt. Pleasant; 2nd, Digby Kennels and Guy Dunn.
Ox Drawn Float—Harry Jefferson.
Bicycles—1st, Lillian Theriault and Eileen Winchester (team); 2nd, Jean Wilson and Roland Theriault.
Horseback Riders—Digby Dairy, educated in the schools of New York and he practised medicine successfully in Brooklyn, N. Y., for nearly 40 years. He established a summer home in Cheverie and was a frequent visitor to that place. When he retired from medical practice, he and Mrs. Anderson made their home in Wolfville. Dr. Anderson took an active part in community affairs, being one time the president of Eastern Kings Memorial Hospital Corporation, and secretary of the Hospital Medical Association. He was also active in the Red Cross. He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Lou Balcom, formerly of Bear River, where she spent her early life with her aunt, Mrs. John Fleet. The funeral service was held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock at the Baptist Church, with burial at Aylesford cemetery.

Mrs. Anthony and Mrs. Stevens. Four first prizes were awarded in the doll carriage parade as follows: Edna Haight, Norma Haight, Caroline Dunn, Lois Turnbull; 2nd, Joyce Warren; 3rd (all other entries) Geraldine Theriault, Margaret Wilson, Sally Wambach, Jean Spray, Kaye Dakin, Sheila MacIntyre, Mary Winchester, Sally Winchester, Roger Winchester, Frank Winchester, Gerald Sanford and Joan Spray.
Heading the parade was the band of H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, brought to Digby for this occasion by the kind permission of Captain Edwards. The Digby Civic Band did not march with the parade but were given a prominent place on a float near the end of the procession. Their float bore the inscription "29 members enlisted". In spite of their depleted numbers the quality of their music was excellent. H.M.C.S. ratings and wrens and Digby high school corps of Sea Cadets marched with the parade.
Following the parade, cutter and whaler races were staged in the waters of Digby Basin by crews of Cornwallis stokers and seamen, the stokers winning by wide margin.
Afternoon and evening events were staged on the athletic field on the old golf links. This field is a "child" of the Digby Board of Trade, whose share of the proceeds will go toward its further development. Proceeds will be shared by the Board of Trade and the Digby Branch of the Navy League of Canada, the latter's share to be used to develop a sea cadet camp on Bear Island, recently donated by D. C. Landers. The horse pulling contest attracted much attention. Louis Frude's team taking first place. This team, 3,015 pounds, hauled 7,366 pounds. Second place went to the team of Allen Taylor, 3,200 pounds, hauling 5,667 pounds; Joseph Jefferson's team, 2,570 pounds, took third place by starting 4,581 pounds.
Exciting exhibitions in pole vaulting, javelin throwing, shot puts, discus throws, broad jumping, high jumping, etc., were staged by Cornwallis personnel. Among stars taking part in these events was Bob Goldham, of Toronto Maple Leaf fame; W. Devitt, R. Copeland and J. Edwards.
Wrestling events were featured during the evening. These events furnished plenty of thrills and excitement, the participants, sparing no effort to put on a real show.

The main event was a two out of three fall heavyweight contest, won by Sto. Forier, of Montreal, who defeated O-A Kovacks, Toronto. In the opener between welterweights Able Seaman Jack and Able Seaman Smith, Smith was defeated by Jack in a single fall in 30 minutes wrestling. In the semi windup (middleweights) Stoker Suddick, present navy middleweight champion, defeated L-S Denniston, present Maritime navy middleweight champion.
Taking part in the only boxing number were A-S Harvey Dubs, present Canadian Lightweight champ, and A-S Harwynen, of Vancouver, present Maritime Lightweight navy champ.
All these events were refereed by P/O Ronny O'Connor, former welterweight boxer, and were directed by Sub-Lieut. Victor Baldwin, instructor, P. & R. T. School, Cornwallis.
The evening closed with dancing on the big open air platform on the field. Midway concessions on the field attracted large crowds both afternoon and evening.

Closing Exercises and Prize Winners, Digby Schools

Valedictory Speech
Gentlemen of the School Board, Members of the Faculty, Undergraduates, Classmates, Ladies and Gentlemen:—

They say there are people who always like to have the last word. I'm sure I cannot see why they should, for to me it seems the hardest of all words to say and I would rather, it be someone else to be the one to say it. For that word must be, to many if not all of us, goodbye.

We have finished the course given us, and are ready to step forward into the pathways of life. We have come a long way together, and hand in hand, looked forward to this time, forgetting it would be a time of parting. Now, we are forced to remember this feature, and in spite of our triumph, it makes us sad. Consequently, I'm not going to linger over parting words. To the School Board, I would extend the thanks of the class for the services which you have rendered and for the privileges which we have enjoyed. We naturally feel that we have received better training than those of other schools, for that is the spirit of school patriotism, and thus we are very grateful to those who have made it possible for us to attend this particular school.

To our principal and teachers, we must express our earnest thanks. You, who have trained us in the past four years, have realized that the strongest asset of our Canadian nation is its citizenship. How well you have succeeded remains to be seen in the future. But we thank you at this time for all you have so cheerfully done and trust that years to come may prove for your satisfaction, as well as ours, that you were as successful as even your ambitions could desire in making us true citizens.

Undergraduates, we are leaving you in the best and most capable hands we know. We only wish it were possible for you who are to come after us to profit by our examples and our experiences, and not have to learn all these things in the same bitter way by which the lesson has been brought home to us. By preserving effort and diligent study you will find that you'll be well repaid by the value received.

Classmates, there is only one more word and it must be to you. In our work here, we have become very dear friends; we have shared our pleasures, triumphs, and a few disappointments for so long that we will miss the old companionship. Some of us may work together, but I feel the most of us will be separated. But I am sure we shall not forget each other, and always think of these days as happy ones. Let us, as we part, pledge ourselves to remember that our instructors had the task of teaching us at least how to begin to live.

For now our boat glides out between the rocks that guard the shore, bearing the class of '44. To be a class no more. But looking forward with a smile of courage, strong and high, To meet in that glad after-while. No more to say, Good-bye. I thank you.

The Class Prophecy
Members of the School Board, of the Faculty, Undergraduates, Classmates, Ladies and Gentlemen:—
They had told me I must prophecy But I knew, not what to do. For I was not born a prophet. Any more than one of you. I had spent the day in study And in thinking hard and deep. So now all worn and weary, Lay me down and fell asleep. While dozing off to slumber I was awakened by a sound Which continued to annoy me Until I looked around. Through every door and window And in every picture frame. Before me were my classmates. Each one holding up her name. As I gazed at these strange visions. A great change came over me. And I heard strange voices saying, "It's nineteen fifty-three." Through a window which was open.

Stepped Alda dressed in white: She is now a private nurse On duty every night. In a picture of an airplane, Stood Phyl Abbot clad in blue. She is now an airline hostess With lots of work to do. Then through another window Ardis Warner came to view: I saw her books and school bell And that friendly grin for you. Then sweet music drifted softly From the piano by the door, It was Hazel Franklyn playing. From a very lovely score. As the music slowly faded In a picture I could see Eileen Marshall, V.O.N., Patching up a broken knee. And here sitting in a sick room, With a calm and thoughtful face, Was one who eased the suffering of a complicated case. As I glanced and looked much closer, Wondering who this girl could be. She turned and looked toward me. 'Twas Kitty Burnham, C.M.M.D. And there above the vision, I saw a mirrored face Gathered around with crowds of school kids It was myself, "That's no disgrace." I tried once more to see them. But their faces were not plain. I was stirred with deep emotion, And became myself again. Was it just another day-dream Or prophecy come true? Let's wait until the time comes round. "I hope it will, don't you?" I thank you.

Class Will
Members of the School Board, of the Faculty, Undergraduates, Classmates Ladies and Gentlemen:

You have been gathered together here, on this serious and solemn occasion to witness the reading of the last will and testament of my beloved client, the class of '44. Before reading this legal document, however, allow me to digress for a moment and review just a few of the many joys with which her life was so richly blessed.

During her span of life, my client was fortunate in that she enjoyed much popularity among the other classes and commanded not a little respect from the faculty. Her loss to them will be one which only the passing of time can amend. That she can never be replaced is unanimous.

Breaking so rapidly loose from life and realizing she no longer has time left to be spent in cultivating her many virtues she considered it only fair to distribute these virtues among those to whose need they seem best fitted. Although a mad scramble for her long coveted virtues resulted from the announcement of her obituary, she would fain weigh and consider each so as to ensure the most beneficial distribution. So listen one and all while I read to you the last will and testament of my client, the class of '44.

Being of crammed mind and possessing superhuman intelligence we hereby bequeath to the following these virtues from which we are sure they will receive the greatest benefit.

1. To the beloved faculty we bequeath restful repose free from the worry of whether or not such and such a person has his assignment studied. To this same beloved faculty we bequeath the knowledge that we conveyed to them on our various examination papers, hoping that it may be used to the best advantage.

2. To the school we bequeath the initials we so laboriously carved on the desks, hoping it will be an inspiration to those that come after us to do greater things.

3. To the Fundy Light we bequeath this peace pipe to be used by the staff on such occasions when a mutual understanding can not be reached.

4. To the undergraduates as a whole we bequeath any of our written knowledge found so indispensable by the staff.

To the individual undergraduates we bequeath:

5. To Clyde (Arlene) Banks— From Rossway came bright C. B., And high up in the class she ranks; As reading is her one main sin

6. To Gwendolyn Shirley Baxter— The one main feature of Shirley's day, Is to see the S. P. on it's way. Now naval law says, "No riders allowed."

So Shirley stands with her pretty head bowed. But in case Shirley's feet should find themselves lagging, Here's a trailer to hitch to the S. P. wagon.

7. —To George Charles Richmond Connell— To G. C. R. because of his name, We feel that his efforts have all been in vain, So to help poor Woofie turn o'er a new leaf.

The following article we hereby bequeath:

A one-gallon fountain pen with rust-proof tank, And fourteen karret nib, good at any bank.

8. —To Joyce Marie Daley—

Here's a jar to keep her book-worms in.

9. To Eleanor Joyce Frude— We know that Eleanor is not working, But it cannot be said that she is shirking. Because her mind is on Air Force blue. What cares she what others do? So to bring her back to earth again, Here's a cage to keep her birdie in.

10. To Elizabeth May Harvey—

Because of Beth's liking to ride on horses, Here's a booklet containing six horse-riding courses; We hope that you'll use them this summer while haying. For if you don't, in pain you'll be paying.

11. To Eleanor Margaret Hanson— To our fair-haired Eleanor we fondly give, A new road shortener to make it easier to live. We don't envy the distance you have to walk

About Digby Schools

...had to do it we'd be after 11 o'clock.
 To Millicent Beulah Long—thought it appropriate at this time.
 To Millicent something fine, to Millicent was the thing, Millicent needs them when ships don't come in.
 To Watson Smith Larra—old Watson we hereby bequeath for a better view of the opposite street, through the window that Watson marvels.
 To selling Connell's novels.
 To Louise Joyce MacDonald—MacDonald had a farm way out in old Smith's Cove, every day she took a bus, it soon runs into dough. To help her out financially, a share in Wagner Tours, for she.
 To Olive Jeanette Muaro—To give Olive's boy friend the trouble of coming to Digby when he has time to spare. We give to her a little bi-plane. To cut down on his fare.
 To Richard Allen Rockwell—My favorite pastime is playing with wire.
 To tubes, acids and watts, to help him along on the road to success.
 To a light bulb to light up his walks.
 To Morley Kaye Sypher—Morley is not what you'd term enigmatic.
 To considered it wise to give him a tonic.
 To give him his atmosphere.
 To Joyce Vivian Savory—Joyce in her spare time's quite a sewer.
 To make up odds and ends, to help her help her boy friend out.
 To a sock on which to mend.
 To Marie Joyce Small—Marie's mind is on navy blue. Just like the rest of all of you, to then to her we give a boat. In case her sailor should fall out.
 To Robert Eugene Vincent—Robert has a habit of banging his feet.
 To relieve the noise, we hereby bequeath.
 To a pair of enviable rubber heels, to dance more quietly to the Virginia reels.
 To Thelma Graham Wood—Thelma is short compared to others.
 To a handicap and quite a bother.
 To you we bequeath this six-foot ladder.
 To try and solve this little matter.
 To Eugene Clarence Alton—Eugene's one love is that of dancing.
 And when I say dancing I don't mean prancing.
 To love's to beat it close to the floor.
 To it isn't possible he beats it right to the door.
 To case he should find himself having to move.
 To a pair of reinforcements to keep in the groove.
 To Eleanor Almira Warington—There is nothing when Eleanor is out.
 To when she comes home, she's always in doubt.
 To whether she'll get in or have to stay out.
 To overcome this grave opposition, to a tent to pitch outside the kitchen.
 To Frances Clara Wood—Frances has a great understanding.
 To of course, her feet.
 To in case she should want to wear smaller shoes.
 To a binder to make them petite.
 To the subjoined list will be recognized, as entailed estates to which we declare the class of 1944, the real and rightful successors.
 To Our seats in the classroom. May they attempt to occupy them as beneficially, as timely, and as efficiently as we have done. Our seats in assembly we give to whoever is capable of grabbing them first.
 To Our senior dignity. May they uphold it forever, endeavoring to realize its vast importance in spite of their irresponsibility and natural light-mindedness.
 To Any old erasers or stubs of pencils we may have left behind in the haste and excitement of gathering up our precious belongings for the final time. May they not hesitate to use them, and perhaps that they may in some mystic way impart some of our great knowledge to them.
 To Last comes the one thing that is hard for us to part with. To our successors we leave our places in the hearts and thoughts of our principal and teachers. They will love this class, unworthy as we feel they are, even as they have loved us, to them will be shown all the same tender kindness and attention that they have bestowed upon us; they will show the same interest in their attendance, and the same sorrow when they fail. We are sure that the class of '45 will appreciate this as profoundly as have we, and that it may be their most cherished possession as it has been ours, and the one which we are most anxious in handing over to them, to make these rightful gifts we leave, voluntarily, our blessing, the warm memories of our pleasant association together, and our pledge of friendship from now and forever.

 All the remainder and residue of our property, whatsoever and whosoever, of what nature, kind and quality, soever it may be, and not herein being disposed of (after all funeral expenses have been paid) we bequeath to our beloved principal, to be disposed of for the good of the oncoming classes as he may see fit.
 And we do hereby constitute and appoint the said principal, sole executor to this our last will and testament.
 In witness thereof, we, the class of '44, the testators, have to this our will, written on these sheets of paper, set our hands and seal this twenty-third day of June, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and forty-four.
 I thank you.

 Hazel Merritt Franklin, valedictorian of the graduating class at Digby Academy, has been given the Seventh Annual Award of the Reader's Digest Association for students who by their successful school work give promise of attaining leadership in the community, it was announced at the school closing.
 Miss Franklin will receive an honorary subscription to The Reader's Digest for one year and an engraved certificate from the Editors, "in recognition of past accomplishment and in anticipation of unusual achievement to come."
 Since 1937 The Reader's Digest Association has presented these awards yearly in senior high schools throughout the United States and Canada to the valedictorian of the graduating class. The awards are part of the educational program sponsored by the Association and were a logical outgrowth of the wide use of The Reader's Digest in school work. With the collaboration of leading educators, a special edition of the magazine, containing reading improvement guides and study helps, is made available to schools and colleges as a supplementary text-book in English and social science courses.

W. W. Cooke has gone to Halifax on a business trip.

Miss Mabel Melanson has returned to her home at Weymouth Mills.

Miss Teresa Granville spent the past week visiting friends in Saint John.

Mrs. Roger Sabean has returned from a week's visit at Westport.

Miss Geraldine Comeau has joined the staff of the Royal Bank here.

Mrs. E. A. Fergusson and sons have moved to their summer home at Weymouth North.

Aldercliff Camp for boys opened on June 30th with forty-two boys in attendance.

Capt. and Mrs. Russell, Grand Manan, spent a recent week end at the Goodwin Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon Rice and son, Edward, spent the holiday at their camp at Wentworth.

Mrs. Caird Nichol and daughter, Shirley, spent the week end with relatives in Middleton.

Rev. and Mrs. Beft and children, Mrs. Porter, Yarmouth, and Mrs. B. Sweeney, Pembroke, were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Anderson.

Sergeant Sampson, who has been at Aldershot taking a three weeks' course, has returned to resume his duties with the Reserve Army.

Miss Leslie Ruggles, Deaconess at the Stone Church, Saint John, is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ruggles.

There will not be a Red Cross meeting held this week, but a tea and fancy work sale will be held at the next Red Cross meeting, July 12, at Hope Hall.

Miss Margaret Campbell, reporter for the Halifax Mail, Halifax, recently spent a day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glidden Campbell.

Johnnie Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cerezo Jones, entertained his young friends at a birthday party on Tuesday of last week. It was Johnnie's 10th birthday.

Dr. and Mrs. Pothier accompanied by Miss Seraphie Belliveau have left for Halifax, where Miss Belliveau will enter the Victoria General Hospital for treatment.

Guests at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Granville over the week end were: Miss Ethel Bliss, Halifax; Lieut. John Hargraff, R.C.N. V.R., Toronto and Cornwallis; C. P.O. W. E. Murray, R.C.N.V.R., and L/A I. J. Andrews, R.C.N. V.R.

The tea at the Red Cross meeting, last week, was much enjoyed. It was a beautiful warm day and the spacious veranda of Mrs. Grierson's home made an ideal spot in which to work. Two quilts were completed and much sewing accomplished. The sum of six dollars was raised at the 10c. tea.

Mr. and Mrs. John Frecker, of Montreal; Allen Frecker, of St. John's, Nfld., and Sister Agnes Therese, Quebec City, who have been called here owing to the illness of their mother, have returned to their homes. Church Supper Held At Smith's Cove

The Smith's Cove Baptist Church was the centre of much activity on Thursday last when the ladies of the church provided a church supper "fit for a king." Well filled tables were arranged in the vestry and the committee with Lucca Winchester, convener, did their part exceptionally well. Thanks are also due Oakley Smith and Allen Berry for their part in making the supper a success.

At 8 p.m. the congregation gathered in the auditorium, where the Annual Roll Call took place. The choir with Frances Austin at the organ rendered excellent music. The honor roll of church and community men and women in active service was unveiled by Mrs. Fred Smith, mother of Capt. Stanley and Y. M. C. A. Officer Robert, both now overseas, and the names inscribed by Robert Taylor were read by Mrs. John MacDonald, who has a son and daughter in the service. The church roll was called by the clerk, Mildred Larramore, and responded to by a large number of members. An inspiring sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson of the United Church of Canada, Digby. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers by Mrs. Elizabeth Bailey.

Deacon Arthur Sulis, treasurer of the church, reported the proceeds of the evening approximately $200. The service was in charge of the pastor, Rev. T. F. McWilliam.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Bernard Morehouse

At her home in Little River, on June 27, Maye, wife of Bernard Morehouse, after a short illness, passed peacefully away. Mrs. Morehouse united with the church at an early age and was an active, consecrated and efficient worker in it. In her sacrifice and devotion to the church as Sunday School teacher she was an example. Especially was she interested in mission work and a great helper in the U.B.W.M.U. In her last illness and death she found her faith in Christ all-sufficient. Funeral services conducted by Rev. Harvey Denton, of the First Baptist Church, Halifax, took place at the home with interment in the family lot. Floral offerings were many and beautiful. In her death the church has sustained a loss but a life like hers lives on and though dead she yet speaks. Mrs. Morehouse is survived by a sorrowing husband; two sons, Eric and Cecil, at Little River; two sisters, Elizabeth (Mrs. James Adams) Oakland, Calif.; Hazel (Mrs. Vernon Jones) Bear River; two brothers, Roy and Lloyd Trask, of Little River, besides other relatives and friends.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Fred Potter, of Clementsvalle, announces the engagement of his daughter, Ethel Margaret, to L.A.C. Foster C.R., (R.C.A.F.), son of Mr. and Mrs. Reiss Foster, of East Arlington, Annapolis County. Wedding to take place July 7 at the United Church, New Glasgow.

NEW OVERSEAS PLAN FOR BUCKINGHAM and WINGS Cigarettes

Prevents Loss in Transit*

New arrangements for sending cigarettes to Canadians in the Armed Services overseas have just been announced by the Postmaster General and the Minister of National Defence. Now, when your order for Buckingham or Wings cigarettes is received in Hamilton, an address label is made out and shipped overseas by air. The order is then completed from stocks previously sent overseas for this purpose. Not only does this greatly speed delivery but it avoids loss in transit.

ONE SIZE OF PACKAGE ONLY—300's

Under the new Government regulations there will be only one size of package—300 cigarettes at $1.00. However, you can send more than one package at the same time and at the same rate.

ORDER AS BEFORE—through your tobacconist or by sending your order to Buckingham, Box 100, Hamilton, Ontario, or Wings, Box 100, Hamilton, Ontario.

"Higher and Higher"

Celebrate 25th Anniversary

On Sunday, July 9, Rev. T. F. McWilliam and Mrs. McWilliam celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding day. To celebrate the event a large number of church and community friends gathered them on Friday evening for a party and taking charge of the paragonage. The evening was spent in music and singing the old time songs. Several of the ladies assisted in serving refreshments, which included a large 25th anniversary cake. The "bride" was presented with a bouquet of roses and D. B. Wright, on behalf of the community, presented the happy couple with a large box of silver coins. The party broke up at a late hour, congratulating their pastor and wife and promising to return for the 50th anniversary. During the Sunday morning service at Smith's Cove, Deacon

Arthur Sulis, on behalf of friends of that church and village, presented Mr. and Mrs. McWilliam with a gift of money as an expression of their best wishes on their 25th anniversary. At the close of the Sunday evening service at Clementsport, Deacon Chas. Stronach, on behalf of that church and village, presented the same couple with a substantial cheque as an expression of their best wishes on this happy occasion. Rev. T. F. McWilliam and Hattie Grace Mills were united in marriage by the late Rev. Isaac Brindley at the bride's home in Granville Beach on July 9, 1919, and therefore, have spent twenty-five years together in the Baptist ministry of Nova Scotia and the state of Vermont. They have been two and a half years in their present pastorate with parsonage at Deep Brook.

South African Reader Enjoys Courier Killed In Action Overseas

The editor received this week an interesting letter from B. L. Thurber, of Johannesburg, South Africa, written on April 14. He says: "Just a note to let you know how the Courier comes along in the days of uncertain mails. Have not had any for months and today no less than seven copies arrived, dated Nov. 4, Dec. 3, 9, 16, 23 and 30, and Jan. 13. Even though they are a bit old when they arrive I enjoy receiving them. Sorry to read in the issue of Jan. 13 of the tragic death of my old friend, Churchill Sollows."

Last week while on a visit to Capetown I met the new Canadian High Commissioner for South Africa (Mr. Burchell, who has hailed from Cape Breton) who has just arrived. He gave me a lot of news of the activities in and around Digby in connection with the "Cornwallis." Digby must be quite different to what it was when I was there last in 1941. Have been trying for the past year to get a passage across but there are no passages these days for civilians without a government priority rating. I enjoy the Courier and the home county news even though it does arrive a bit late."

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McCullough, Sandy Cove, have received word that their son, Gnr. Sidney Raymond McCullough, 20, has been officially reported killed in action in Italy on or about June 26. Enlisting in June 1941, he served only three months in Canada before being posted overseas. Besides his parents he is survived by five brothers, Gnr. Ray, serving with the R.C.A. overseas; L.A.C. Russell, R.C.A.F. Greenwood; Edmund, Mink Cove; Cerenio and Richard, at home; also one sister, Elizabeth (a teacher) at present at home.

Health at Low Cost From Milk Desserts

Why do so many mothers delight to prepare enticing milk desserts for their families? The answer is very obvious. It is because they are so wholesome and readily digested, and are ideal both for adults and children.

Then, too, every thrifty housewife takes into consideration the high food value of milk in relation to its very low cost, and the economy of preparation of this type of tasty, appetizing dessert.

"Milk Desserts"—the term itself suggests their nutritive value, since it implies that milk, proven by science to be the body's most indispensable food. Rich in vitamins, providing generous supplies of proteins, an abundance of calcium and phosphorus, and in addition, sugar and fat, milk is the best all round food to promote growth and to safeguard health.

Authorities agree that milk contributes to human needs more than any other single food, and recommend that each day a child should consume about a quart, and an adult at least a pint.

A great part of this quota can be provided by continually using milk desserts. They are easily prepared, can be most varied and are capable of being most attractively served.

Annual Meeting of Digby Yacht Club

The annual meeting of the Digby Yacht Club was held Friday, July 7, with several members attending. The club was re-appointed until September when an election will be held. These are as follows: Commodore Dr. Channing Lefebvre, Vice-Commodore, Charles Ramo, Rear Commodore, Percy Weir, Secretary-Treasurer, Frank Lar-

A triangle of three miles was sailed on, twice around making a six mile course. The first race of the season was held on Sunday with Roy Peters in the "Tar Baby" coming in first, Percy Weir in the "Sassy Sue" one minute later and Dr. Lefebvre's "Lucky Chance" running third. B. J. Staples, who also competed, lost a stay and had to drop out.

The next race will be held on Sunday at 7 p.m. when two classes of boats will compete. A cruise to Bear Island for the Navy Boys is being arranged and will be held on July 30.

Indian Guide Favors Open Season

In conversation with the Courier a few days ago, Louis Harlow, of Bear River, a well known Micmac guide, expressed the opinion that there should be an open season for moose. He stated that his investigation showed that there were lots of moose, they had come very well during the few years they had been protected.

The contralto voice of Wren Cunningham in the solo "Bless This House" opened the recital held in the Baptist Church Sunday evening when the music of several of the great composers was heard.

Among the offerings were Tschowsky's "None but the Lonely Heart," baritone solo by P. O. Arthur Jones; Bach's "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring," organ solo by S.B.A. Donald Forbes; Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata," piano solo, Alex MacPherson; Handel's "Vere Valtz," piano solo, S.B.A. Murray Ross; Schubert's "Ave Marie," tenor solo by Jean Haines, and many others, including the rendering by organ, piano and voices combined, "Land of Hope and Glory."

V. O. N. Report

At the regular monthly meeting of the V.O.N. on Tuesday, Miss Dysart gave the following report: 2 deliveries were attended; 3 hours and 45 minutes spent in school nursing, all physical examinations necessary complete for school year; hours spent in bedside nursing greater; 2 school-home visits made; 12 hours spent at blood donors clinic. The nurse and others had held one clinic at Weymouth, where now they have established one of their own.

Five Well-Baby Clinics were held with a total of 48 in attendance—44 infants and 4 pre-school children. The V.O.N. visited 33 infants and 9 pre-school children.

It has been arranged that a well trained V. O. Nurse will relieve Miss Dysart for a much deserved vacation during August.

Miss Shirley Connors, talented young dancer and violinist, of Lynn, Mass., is visiting her uncle, Roy Mallett, and Mrs. Mallett, of Plympton. Shirley, whose tap dancing was formerly heard over radio station WHDH, pleased a large audience with her dancing at the Parish Hall here this week. She and her sister, Louise, who is also spending her vacation here, sang duets at the same performance. Shirley will open a studio in Lynn this fall where she will be dancing instructress. Also visiting at Plympton with her is her mother, formerly Stella Mallett, a daughter of the late Capt. George Mallett of Plympton. Her father is a native of Annapolis County.

J. Courtney Purdy has commenced the erection of a house on Warwick Street near the South End Grocery. Another house in that vicinity (on Queen Street) is being erected by Sydney Hall. "Pat" Comesa is building on the hill near the convent. Several other buildings are going up around town.

Famous Sister Ships in Invasion Fleet

Photos show the PRINCE DAVID (top), the PRINCE ROBERT (centre), and the PRINCE HENRY (bottom) photographed before her conversion for war service

THREE Canadian ships in the Armada carrying allied troops to breach Hitler's Atlantic wall were originally designed for holiday traffic with no thought of grim business on the Normandy Coast. The Prince Henry, Prince David and Prince Robert were built for the Canadian National Steamships at Birkenhead, England. In the Pacific Coast service and in Atlantic waters each of these three sister ships covered great distances and carried many holiday travellers until 1939 when taken over by the Royal Canadian Navy. The H.M.C.S. Prince Robert became an anti-aircraft cruiser while the other two were redesigned as combined operations cruisers.

Press despatches from the front reported that the Prince Henry was one of the first ships to land troops in France while the Prince David also launched her landing craft in the early stages of the attack, and the Prince Robert was an important unit of the protective fleet.

While Canadian National Steamships officers had no thought of war when specifying the type of ship required, they did ask for power and speed, and thus, unknowingly, provided the basis for useful cruisers. The builders installed high pressure boilers feeding steam turbines to develop 16,000 horsepower and a top speed of 23 knots. The purpose was to maintain an exacting schedule.

The Prince ships were designed for 334 first cabin passengers with deck space for 1,500 day passengers. When launched these ships were each of 6,000 tons. In war dress their top decks, which carried much of the cabin accommodation, were dismantled.

H.M.C.S. Prince Robert has been more frequently in the news than her Canadian National sisters, early capturing a rich prize in the Pacific, and afterwards staging a fierce battle against enemy aircraft while guarding a convoy in the Atlantic.

These ships sailed to the Land of the Midnight Sun but no Alaskan adventure imagined by Jack London, Robert Service or Rex Beach approached that recent action off the Coast of Normandy.

In the past 12 months, the Navy League of Canada has had more than a million and a half visits from men and women of the active forces, at its clubs and recreation centres.

Strawberry Crop A Failure

Another strawberry-less strawberry season is over. For the second successive year the local crop has been a failure, with less than 20 per cent of a normal crop. Growers, who in other years harvested thousands of boxes, have scarcely averaged a crate a day this year. Lack of snow during the winter months is said to be the cause of the crop failure—without the protection of the snow, thousands of the plants were winter killed.

It is rumored some of growers, discouraged with two successive years of failure, plan to plough their strawberry beds under this fall. Others intend giving strawberries another chance next year.

The cherry crop is now coming along and indications are a fair crop can be expected in some areas of the country.

Canada's Oldest Agricultural Fairs

With the opening of the 1944 schedule of Agricultural Fairs in Canada comes a reminder that these fairs are among the Dominion's oldest institutions. Arrangements are being made to celebrate this year the centenary of the fairs at Vankleek Hill, Ont., and Richmond, Ont.

The first organized agricultural fair in Canada was held at Windsor, Nova Scotia, in 1765—179 years ago, and at Pictou, N. S., the first fair there was held 127 years ago. In Ontario the Niagara Agricultural Society held a fair in 1791. In 1882 what was then considered a great fair was held at Queenstone, Ont. It was intended to be the first all-province fair. The records disclose that "the fair was inconveniently crowded."

For the centenary celebration the Vankleek Hill Fair a special program is being planned. The first feature of this program, the planting of evergreen trees in the fair grounds took place recently. It was part of a general beautification and improvement plan. The Vankleek Hill Fair started in 1844 under the name of the County of Prescott Agricultural Society. It is interesting to note that the first fair there ended with a credit balance of three pounds (sterling) and seven shillings. English currency was still in Canada at that time.

In 1844 agriculture was not very extensively developed in the Vankleek Hill district, but now it is a progressive town in one of the prosperous farming sections of Ontario.

Richmond, a village about 20 miles from Ottawa, takes its name after the 4th Duke of Richmond, the same Duke, who with his wife, the Duchess, gave the famous ball in Brussels, Belgium, on the night before the Battle of Waterloo, June 18, 1815.

The Duke died of hydrophobia in a barn near Richmond, Ont., on August 28, 1819, the result of a bite from a pet fox.

The agricultural fair in Canada has been a great factor in social and economic progress. After war it will probably be bigger and better than ever.

Insects eat about ten per cent of all the crops produced in the United States.

Our Hens Must Take Heed

Even barnyard fowl of Northern Ireland are putting forth herculean efforts to win the war, Belfast advises in reporting an 11½ ounce goose egg as a record example of this part of the Victory movement. The egg, laid by a goose owned by David Free-land, weighs as much as four ordinary hen eggs. Hen owners also are reporting finds of super-sized eggs in nests.

A live baby fish, an inch long, has been found in the white of a normal-sized egg laid by a Liverpool (England) hen. It is suggested that the fish came from spawn germinated from fish meal, which was part of the hen's diet.

After producing four double yolk eggs in succession, a Light Sussex hen at Canterbury (England) has laid an egg with three yolks—the size of a goose egg.

About This and That

Last week one of the many navy personnel who are seeking homes in Digby visited our office (we have several every day) to ask if we knew of any places to rent. He wanted his wife and family to be with him, for the summer at least, while he was stationed at Cornwallis. He told us he was offered three rooms in the south end of the town of Digby for the modest sum of $90 a month! He would not reveal the name of the landlord.

This perhaps is the most outrageous case we have heard of, nevertheless other cases of excessive rents have been brought to our attention—such as rents in the vicinity of $50 for three small rooms.

In our opinion these profiteering landlords should hoist the swastika and proclaim themselves members of Hitler's Nazi Party—they are far from patriotic Canadians.

When we hear of the rents being asked in Digby and vicinity these days we wonder if the Wartime Rentals Board is making any investigations whatsoever in these overcrowded districts. It is time a house to house checkup was made. We are aware the instances we have cited are the exceptions, and acknowledge that for the most part, present conditions taken into consideration, most rents in this area are fair, nevertheless, all should be investigated and reasonable rates fixed with all who are renting flats and tenements.

(To those who are going to complain to us for publishing this item which may possibly be a step toward removing some of the cream from their profiteering, we say "Heil Hitler"—we regard them as the type who hope this war with all its slaughter will continue indefinitely in order that they may reap their harvest of bloody dollars.)

Some of us can remember away back when Class 1-A was just a grade in the schools.

Even the Germans make mistakes which they could easily have avoided. The latest was at Cherbourg, where apparently they took for granted a frontal attack by sea. Forgetting that Cherbourg has a rear as well as a front, they were not prepared for the drive up the peninsula that cut off their troops.

Cherbourg is Singapore over again. There, too, the defense expected a sea attack, whereas the capturing Japanese approached it through the jungles in the rear. The lesson of this conspicuous blunder was evidently overlooked by the Germans at Cherbourg.

Not only there, but in Russia, was the same mistake made of pushing armies into exposed tongues of land which could be cut off. Thousands of Germans were captured in this way in the Crimean peninsula.

More than one of our war commentators is more to be pitied than censored.

Marshal Bleucher is an old German hero, because his timely help at Waterloo turned the scale in favor of Wellington and against Napoleon. He was a stubborn fighter, but like many less famous people, he had his less lovely side.

Shown over London after the war, he evidently could think of but one thing. "What a city to loot!" he said again and again.

Evidently he was the Nazi of his time.

A woman may be as young as she looks, but never as young as she acts.

Work of C. B. Committee Finished

To the Editor of the Courier:
Sir—Was interested in reading "Prospector's" letter in a recent issue of the Courier.

It seems to me that some organization interested in the preservation of a strange and esoteric literature should immediately post a reward for the most reasonable explanation of the meaning and purpose of that letter. Surely it must have a meaning and purpose but to the uninitiated it was certainly very obscure. An investigation by the authorities might also be in order as this might have been a code, designed to transmit information to the enemy. However, if they are as puzzled as the average reader no harm to our cause can ensue.

Perhaps, Mr. Editor, if "Prospector" would abandon the old pick and shovel method of prospecting and advance with the times: use modern, up-to-date methods such as Radar, he might be more successful in his search for pay dirt or the equally elusive "Civic Betterment Committee."

In conclusion, I have heard it rumored that the Civic Betterment Committee have concluded their work for 1944 and are now concentrating on a plan of action for the future. I understand that their work for 1944, as "Prospector" may be well aware, was completed satisfactorily on February 8, the date of the Civic Election in Digby.

Tea Tips by MORSE

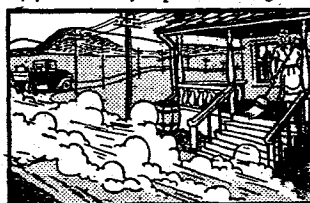

If you're hunting for a satisfying tea, ask your grocer for Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe.

"It's the choking dust that used to get me"
... said Polly

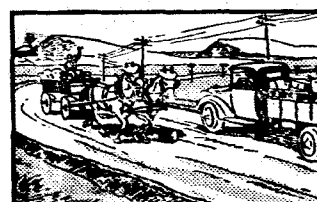

1. "The run to the village was a nice change of scenery and I like to get away from the rest of the farm-yard for awhile," said Polly. "But it was that blamed dust that always used to get me. I always say it's a nuisance to both man and beast! In fact, it used to take the joy out of every trip to the village."

2. "And what the boss used to say about it isn't fit to print. 'It's a menace' he used to say 'and always will be 'till something's done about it. And what it does to farm property is nobody's business!'"

3. "And the Missus had a name for it too! She said she couldn't keep the verandah clean for five minutes at a time; and as for sitting out of an evening, she claimed it was just as bad as a trip to the village."

4. "But now they've fixed the road, the boss puts like a kitten. 'It's wonderful what Calcium Chloride does' he says. It's not only a heap more pleasant, but it's a whole lot safer and the road's smooth and easier on us. No bumps, no ruts, no dust!"

5. "And the Missus not only has more time for knitting but she has a pleasant place to knit the sweaters she sends to Johnny. She says her housework's cut in half. She may be exaggerating just a little bit, but you can bet she makes her point."

Meeting of Town Council

At the monthly meeting of the Digby town council the council voted to confirm the action of the streets' committee in the purchase of a snow plough for $558 plus tax. Action of the mayor and streets' committee in raising wages of town employees from 40 to 45 cents an hour was also confirmed.

Requests to make an addition to the Shreve Block and to the Baptist Vestry on Montague Row were granted, as was a request from the Bank of Nova Scotia to block off portions of the sidewalk while the bank building is being re-shingled.

Edmund Amoro was given permission to erect a dwelling on the site of the one recently occupied by Otis Darres and destroyed by fire, providing the dwelling was erected according to the specifications submitted to the council.

The financial report revealed 65.5 per cent of current taxes and 53 per cent of arrears had been collected to date.

The council was advised Fred Muise had been hired as driver of the Fire Truck at a salary of $50 per month.

WAR-TIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—Our club, at a future meeting, wants to discuss problems arising from inflation. Could you give us any idea where to find the proper reading material?

A.—We have mailed you a list of a few of the latest books dealing with the subject, and have enclosed a number of pamphlets and additional reading matter that will help you.

Q.—A year ago I had a heater installed in my home and was charged $8 by the plumber for doing this work. Recently I decided to install another heater exactly the same and was charged $12. Are such charges allowed?

A.—No. The charges for such services are controlled by the Price Board. You should not pay more than was charged for the same work during the basic period Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, 1941. If you were charged $8 a year ago and $12 recently, it would certainly appear that you were greatly overcharged. As you gave the name and address of the firm making this charge we are having their prices checked up immediately.

Q.—I am in the navy and have been issued rationing sugar coupons because I do not eat in barracks. Would it be alright for me to mail the coupons home?

A.—Yes it would be quite in order. But you must remember to send the sheet showing the Ration Administration stamp. Do not merely tear off 10 coupons. It is illegal to offer a grocer loose coupons.

Q.—I wish to purchase a used refrigerator if I can find one. Do I need a permit for this?

A.—No, you do not need a permit to purchase a used refrigerator.

Q.—We sent in reservations for a summer cabin. When they accepted the reservations we were advised that the rent would be $10 per week more than last year. Are they allowed to do this?

A.—No, summer accommodation comes under the Board's rental rules and the owners are not permitted to increase the rent unless they have first secured permission from the Rentals Administration.

Q.—Will you please forward me any literature you have on home canning of vegetables and fruit?

A.—Such information is distributed by the Department of Agriculture. We have forwarded you a letter to the Consumer Section, Marketing Service, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. You will receive this information direct.

Send questions to the Consumer Branch, 47 Upper Water St., Halifax.

Presentation to Ven. Archdeacon, A. W. L. Smith

Monday evening at the regular communication, The Keith Lodge, A.P. & A.M., Bear River, W. M. Clayton Woodman called upon the secretary, J. E. Langley, to present the Chaplain, Archdeacon A. W. L. Smith, who is leaving this jurisdiction August 1st, with a gold masonic ring. Brother Langley expressed the appreciation of all in the activities of the chaplain in the church, state and lodge during the twenty years he had been a member of The Keith Lodge, and expressed the regret of the members at the Archdeacon's departure and wished him in the name of the Lodge, God's blessing in his new field of service.

The Archdeacon, in expressing his heartfelt thanks to the Lodge members, reminded that it was they that made masonry valuable and pointed out the great responsibility should do in the post war world.

Warne's Adopt Insurance Program

The H. T. Warne Ltd., of Digby, retailer, Lumber, Trucking, Box manufacturer and General Store, has adopted a group insurance program which provides its employees with life insurance and sickness and accident benefits. Announcement of the plan was made by H. M. Warne, Vice-President.

The plan is being underwritten by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on a cooperative basis whereby the employees contribute fixed amounts and the employer bears the balance of entire net cost.

Benefits include Life insurance ranging from $500 to $1,000 and non-occupational sickness and accident benefits ranging from $7 to $10.50 a week. Visiting nurse care and the distribution of pamphlets on health conservation and accident prevention are also included in the plan.

NEW OVERSEAS PLAN FOR BUCKINGHAM and WINGS Cigarettes

Provides Practically Airmail Service Prevents Loss in Transit

New arrangements for sending cigarettes to Canadians in the Armed Services overseas have just been announced by the Postmaster General and the Minister of National Defence. Now, when your order for Buckingham or Wings cigarettes is received in Hamilton, an address label is made out and shipped overseas by air. The order is then completed from stocks previously sent overseas for this purpose. Not only does this greatly speed delivery but it avoids loss in transit.

ONE SIZE OF PACKAGE ONLY—300's

Under the new Government regulations there will be only one size of package—300 cigarettes at $1.00. However, you can send more than one package at the same time and at the same rate.

ORDER AS BEFORE—through your tobacconist or by sending your order to Buckingham, Box 100, Hamilton, Ontario, or Wings, Box 100, Hamilton, Ontario.

$370 Raised at Garden Party

The Garden Party held on the grounds of the Baptist Church, Thursday, was a great success. The day being warm and sunny many people gathered around the tables of fancy work and miscellaneous articles and travelling basket, on the lawn.

A delicatessen table in the church hall was well patronized, the home cooking disappearing like the proverbial hot cakes. An excellent supper was served and the total sum of $370 was raised.

Those in charge of the tables were Mrs. L. H. Morse, Mrs. F. R. Eisener, Mrs. Roy Sypher and Mrs. Hubert Warner, Mrs. Charles Eaton and Mrs. Guy E. Morehouse, while Mrs. H. Anderson and Mrs. Scott Eaton were convener for the supper.

The money raised by this endeavor will be used for an extension to the Church Hall, which will consist of a Sunday School room, ladies' parlour and a kitchen, building to commence some time this month.

The following girls from the United Church C.G.T. (Flamingo Group) are attending the summer camp at Pinehurst: Jean Hazelton, Phyllis Hazelton, Jean Ramsay, Jean Richardson and Vivian Melanson.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Shankle, Miss Vera Shankle and Raymond, Jr., of Morningdale, Mass., were guests of Mrs. Shankle's sister, Mrs. J. M. Wallis, while en route to Middle LaHave, where they will spend their vacation.

Mrs. M. M. Kerr, who has been visiting at the "Shingles" for the past month, returned to Moncton today.

OBITUARY

Harold Hatheway

Telegrams received by relatives announced the death in Victoria, B.C., on June 29, of Harold Hatheway.

Mr. Hatheway was born in Granville Ferry, a son of the late F. W. and Christine (Bogart) Hatheway, and served in the First Great War, being a captain on retirement. After some years in the Bank of Montreal and the Royal Trust Co., at London, Ont., because of ill health he retired and lived some years in Bear River, later building a home in Lower Lincoln, N. B., where he lived until a year ago when he removed to Victoria. He had many friends who will learn of his death with regret. He is survived by his wife, the former Elinor Reynolds, of London, Ont.; one daughter, Patricia, (Mrs. John Porter) of Vancouver; a son, Harold R., in the R.C.N.V.R.; a brother, S. B. Hatheway, Coburg, Ont., and a sister, Mrs. George S. Howie, of Fredericton, N. B. Burial took place in Victoria.

Mrs. Howard T. Long

Funeral services for Mrs. Ethel J. Long, of 8 Long Place, Saugus, Mass., were held on Monday of last week at the Saugus Centre Methodist Church, conducted by Rev. M. Elizabeth Bee. Mrs. Long died at the Lynn Hospital, Friday, following a three weeks' illness. She was born in Bear River in 1902, and was a resident of Saugus for twenty-five years. She was a member of the Saugus Centre Methodist Church and Women's Society for Christian Service. Besides her husband, she leaves two sons, Pte. Gerald Long, overseas in the Canadian Army, and Howard Long, of Saugus; two daughters, Mrs. Ralph Williams and Florence Long, both of Saugus; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Dukeshire, of Bear River East; four sisters, Mrs. Lyle Stevens, Bear River, Mrs. Oscar Berry, Bear River East, Mrs. Kenneth Wamboldt, Bear River, and Mrs. Harvey Saunders, of Rowley, Mass.; two brothers, Wilfred Dukeshire, of Clementsvale, and Harry Dukeshire, serving in the Canadian Army Overseas.

Mrs. A. R. Parker and son, Eugene, of Hampton, N. H., are visiting her sister, Miss Ella Oliver, and brother, K. L. Oliver.

Billy Chisholm will spend the next two months on the boat with his father, Capt. William Chisholm, making trips from Yarmouth to Saint John.

A social evening was held at the Rectory on Thursday evening. Games were enjoyed and refreshments were served. Proceeds amounting to $24.00 are to be used for the New Trinity Hall.

Corporal Murray Gilliat, of the R.C.A.F., Bagotville, Que., has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gilliat. While at home Murray helped shingle the roof, repair the veranda and paint his father's house.

Dairy Foods Needed

Of all the food products urgently needed, dairy products top the list. The information comes from Dr. Barton, Dominion Deputy Minister of Agriculture and Chairman of the Agricultural Food Board. The reason for this, he says, is due to the wide range of demands for butter, cheese, concentrated milk, fluid milk and other milk products as a result of the war. The difficulty of increasing milk production under war conditions naturally aggravates the situation.

Red Cross parcels to prisoners of war sent from Canada total 100,000 per week. Dairy products in each parcel include one pound of butter, one pound of dried milk and a quarter-pound of cheese.

A recent survey of 70 of the largest cities and towns in Canada disclosed that the distribution of fluid milk was approximately 20 per cent greater than a year earlier. In 1943 total milk production in Canada was 17,517 million pounds, a slight increase over 1942. Creamery butter output in 1943 was 312,300,000 pounds, an increase of nearly 10 per cent over the previous year. Production of dairy butter was 55,400,000 pounds, 22 million pounds less than in 1942. The output of cheese last year was down 6½ per cent compared with the previous year. Less concentrated milk products were made in 1943.

Mt. "A" Men to Train Before College Opens

All physically fit male students entering Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B., this autumn will begin their year with a week of intensive military training in the C.O.T.C. and U.A.T.C. contingents. Their residences will be barracks and the students will live a service life—rolling out at reveille and turning in at "lights out."

Parades, sports parades and tactical schemes will be under the command of their own officers and attached training personnel.

This scheme was announced recently by Dr. G. J. Trueman on behalf of the Military Committee of the University. It will serve to eliminate many of the training hours previously sandwiched in during the academic year. The students themselves favor the change since it will give several hours more a week at their studies and laboratory classes and will allow more time for athletics, which have of necessity been crowded out during the past few years.

All male students, freshmen and upperclassmen will report at Sackville on Wednesday, September 20. Training will begin on Thursday, September 21, with medical examinations, issuing of equipment, etc. During the week the new students will be given a chance to meet their faculty advisors and to register in small groups. Training will continue until Wednesday, September 27, when matriculation examinations and the regular academic year will begin and the students will once more don civilian clothes.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers Titus and daughter from the United States, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Titus.

"AT HOME"

One of the most enjoyable social events of the season was given on Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Allan Harris and Miss Muriel Kinney were joint hostesses to their many friends at the home of Miss Kinney.

Pink and white peonies and red roses adorned the large drawing rooms. The attractively arranged table in the dining room with its centre-piece of pink roses and pink tapers in crystal holders was presided over by Mrs. J. L. Warren and Mrs. L. V. Harris.

Those assisting in serving were Mrs. C. V. Snow, Mrs. C. W. Jefferson, Mrs. F. Miller, Miss Blanche Purdy and Mrs. A. B. Campbell.

IS IN THEIR BLOOD

SINCE the beginning of Canada's history, independent trappers, operating on their own initiative and responsibility, have been the basis of Canada's great fur industry.

Rejecting an ordered way of living, trappers have adventured far beyond the boundaries of civilization in their quest for furs. Some have made fortunes. Some have not. But each has lived the life he wished to live... has treasured his right to fulfil a personal ambition. This is free enterprise in action.

This Bank, in its lifetime of over a century, has been a support of Canada's fur industry... has been attuned to the independence and the self-reliance of the men who built it.

Smith's Cove

E. B. Weir, Smith's Cove, is to be congratulated on winning first prize for best commercial float entered in July 1st parade at Digby. The float was complete in every detail and showed that much time and thought had been given to it. One part was made into a kitchen complete with cooking utensils and gas range in operation. The process of making bread was carried on en route by Mrs. G. Bailey, accompanied by her family; displayed on shelves in kitchen were packages of Robin Hood Oats and loaves of bread, outside of kitchen were bags of Robin Hood Flour. The rear part of float contained a real live mother hen and her brood of eleven chicks, watched over by Miss Frances Weir and Puggie; on the outside were displayed bags of Royal Feeds. At the bottom, along sides and rear were attractively printed banners, advertising Robin Hood Flour and Royal Feeds. Mounted on front of float was Robin Hood in person, complete with suit, bow and arrow. Streamers of red and white crepe paper gave the finishing touch.

INVASION MAKES MORE URGENT THE SAVING OF CIVILIAN GAS!

A Message to Canadian Motorists

THE invasion of Europe has thrown a vast and critical burden upon the petroleum resources of the United Nations.

In the first eight days of the campaign alone Allied aircraft flew 56,000 sorties. Many thousands of oil-burning warships and landing barges are shuttling ceaselessly across the Channel. Tanks, trucks, jeeps, mobile artillery, ambulances, by the thousands, are in action.

The driving power behind all this activity is petroleum—gasoline and fuels drawn from a dwindling crude oil supply. But—there is only so much oil. If existing supplies are to prove adequate, the most stringent economy of gasoline and fuel oil must be practised here at home.

Canada is able to produce only 15% of her own gas and oil needs. The remainder must be imported from the common pool of the United Nations; and the bulk of this is shipped here by tankers. Critical manpower is needed to produce our gasoline and oil. Precious lives and precious ships must be risked to deliver it to our shores.

Invasions, and the difficulties of supply and transportation are not our only problems. Right here in Canada gas and oil are needed in enormous quantities for vital war purposes. The Commonwealth Air Training Plan has consumed as much as 548,000 gallons in a single day. Canada's Navy—expanded since war began from 15 ships to 650—consumes over 2,150,000 gallons every week. Army training, war plant operation, food production, essential trucking—all are huge consumers of gasoline and petroleum products.

Gasoline is ammunition—ammunition of which we have all too little. To waste a gallon of it is a crime against our fighting men.

Answering Your Questions about the Gasoline Shortage

How much gasoline was consumed during the 54 days of pre-invasion bombing? ... More than 200,000,000 gallons.

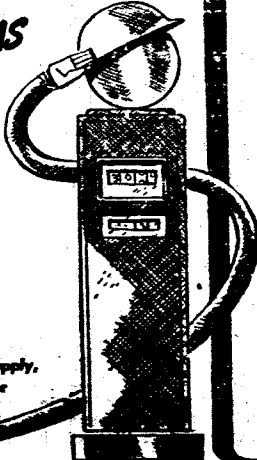

How much fuel oil does a battleship take in one refueling? ... Enough to heat an average house for 350 years.

How much fuel does one armoured division consume in every five miles of advance? ... 10,000 gallons.

How many gallons of petroleum products are required to supply the needs of 500,000 European invasion troops for a week? ... Over 21,500,000 gallons.

Crop Situation Is Favorable

Generally speaking, the crop situation in Nova Scotia is favorable according to reports received from the Department of Agriculture in July.

The month of June proved a growing month with the result that pastures developed especially well, reacting very definitely on milk production. Weekly production of creamery butter for the week ended June 24 showed an increase of 1.3 per cent over the corresponding week of last year. This was the first time in 10 months there has been such an increase.

While a bit short, is growing rapidly and indications are for a fair crop, probably equal in quantity to last year's crop but possibly in quality. Reports from the western part of the province, where the growing season started the latter part of the month, state that the land has been well watered after there will be a good crop. The poor land will have a poor one. A little better than last year, the acre was watered from a well-lined field in the town of Yarmouth.

In many districts of the province a large amount of clover is growing up, particularly in field and especially where large amounts of lime have been used. Grain looks exceptionally well throughout the province. Some early plantings are coming along nicely. Many vegetable gardens are also spotty, due to the dry weather in May and early June.

June Brought Good Growing Weather

While reports from all parts of the province indicate June was a good growing month on account of the warm rains, there was a variation in the amount of precipitation. Truro, in the east of the province, was the most favored. The meteorological station at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College recorded a rainfall for the month of 4.28 inches, which was far in excess of the 34-year average for June of 2.73 inches. The weather bureau at the Dominion Experimental Station at Kentville reported a June rainfall of 2.88 inches. This was slightly below the 26-year June average of 2.92 inches. Nappan, just a bit of an average between Truro and Kentville. The June rainfall recorded at the Dominion Experimental Station was 3.68 inches.

The heaviest rains for the month were 1.25 inches at Truro on June 22, .88 inches at Kentville, June 25, and .73 inches at Nappan, June 25.

June 29 was the hottest day of the month with Kentville being the hottest spot. The high temperatures on that day were: Kentville, 90; Truro, 85; Nappan, 87. Kentville also had the distinction of being the coolest spot. The low readings for the month were: Kentville, 30; June 5; Truro, 32; June 4 and 5; Nappan, 33. June 4, Kentville's high temperature was the highest June temperature ever recorded there.

The Kentville station reports the average mean temperature for the month was 59.78 which was slightly under the 26-average which stands at 59.95 degrees. Hours of sunshine were also down, being 187.8 compared with an average of 208.7.

Let records be what they may, June was a favorable month for the crops. "A good growing month" was the way Truro described it. Kentville states, "The month was well scattered and not in such a manner that it was absorbed by the ground with practically no run-off, but it must be remembered that this followed the driest May on record, and at present the moisture content of the soil is again depleted." Nappan states that "the showers which fell during the month were very beneficial to all crops, hay and pastures being much improved and growth very rapid during the last week of the month, due to the warm weather."

Should Carefully Consider Vaccination

While the vaccination of cattle for the prevention of Bangs disease is being carried on to an extent, and with good results in most cases, there are several factors to be considered.

J. A. Steele, Truro, Senior Inspector, Federal Department of Agriculture, "Vaccination means inoculating of the young animal with an attenuated virus which causes the animal to take the disease in a mild form, and in most cases they will clear up and return to negative condition in a few months. However, there are several important points to be noted on this."

He points out, "the vaccine is easily killed by keeping it in a refrigerator. Dr. J. A. Steele, recently reported that a percentage of the vaccine was non-effective for this reason. The cattle must become immune, and then become negative again. If there is no blood in the vaccine, there is no definite proof that it is effective."

the vaccination has had any effect at all."

"Another factor to be considered," says Mr. Steele, "is that only comparative immunity is gained. An experiment at Cornell with heifers which were carefully vaccinated and checked, and later put in where there was a very heavy infection, showed that 20 per cent of them had trouble, either going positive or aborting. While probably an unvaccinated herd would have resulted in 80 to 100 per cent developing the infection, the experiment demonstrated that vaccination is only one of several precautions necessary to prevent the spread of this disease."

"Where a herd is entirely free of any trouble it might be well for the owner to consider all angles of this subject before starting to vaccinate. Where any serious infection is encountered it is practically a necessity to vaccinate."

Farmers Marketing Own Poultry

Up to July 1 Nova Scotia farmers and poultrymen marketed well over 100,000 pounds of fowl and early hatched chickens through the facilities of centralized killing plants to seven points in the Province. The stepping-up that is going on in the poultry industry may be better understood when it is stated that while a total of 402,748 pounds of poultry was marketed in the province last year on a co-operative basis, not a pound had been packed at these plants during the same period last year.

Commenting on this heavy early season marketing, G. K. Samis, Provincial Poultry Promoter, remarks that, "the handling of poultry in warm weather naturally calls for refrigeration, in order to keep the product fresh and saleable. As the co-operative marketing of dressed poultry and eggs has grown year by year, facilities have been steadily improving until now the season in which these products can be properly handled has been extended, and now at most points year round killing and processing of poultry and candling and packing of eggs can be undertaken."

Mr. Samis points out that at points, such as Brooklyn (Hants County), Port Williams, New Germany, Scotsburn, Musquodoboit and Bass River, equipment has been installed so that the poultry may be rapidly pre-cooled as it is killed. It can be processed in safety, even in warm weather and the "bloom" on the dressed birds is not lost. At most places in the province, where any volume of poultry is being handled on a co-operative basis, artificial refrigeration has been installed in the killing plants. The walls and ceilings of suitable rooms are thoroughly insulated, and in the most up-to-date plants the floors are cemented and have good drainage.

The very latest in electrical equipment for heating water for semi-scalding may be seen at some of these points, while the use of mechanical plucking machines is now quite common. As many as 1,000 birds per day have been processed at some of these points, using one of the plucking machines.

"The principal feature of this centralized marketing program," concludes Mr. Samis, "is the fact that all these plants and equipment are owned or controlled by the producers on a co-operative basis, who are thus in a position to place their poultry on the market in any season and to a large degree to control the marketing of their poultry."

Ambitious post-war planners in Oregon say a refreshing drink can be made of ponderosa pine. Tasty, too, they declare, is a pie baked from extracted wood (pine) sugar, wood flour, and wood fats for shortening.

Prices of Honey Under New Order

Celling prices for honey in the new order which came into effect on June 26 gave producers a higher return for No. 1 white honey than for other grades. In sales of bulk honey at wholesale, this price difference is one cent per pound, with No. 1 white honey price half a cent higher than the 1943 highest price for non-pasteurized honey. In direct sales to consumers, a producer is allowed the retailer's markup.

The new order divides Canada into two zones. Zone 2 takes in the low production areas of British Columbia, the Maritimes, and that part of Quebec east and north of the counties of Compton, Richmond, Drummond, Yamaska, and Mackinong, and north of the country of Abitibi. All the rest of Canada is in zone 1. Highest prices at which any person may sell at wholesale, in bulk, any honey produced in zone 1 is 13 cents a pound for No. 1 white honey, and 12 cents a pound for any other honey, f.o.b., the seller's shipping point. Bulk honey produced in zone 2 and sold at wholesale to a buyer in that zone can sell at one cent higher to make the selling price approximately the same as the delivered price of shipments brought in from areas of higher production in zone 1.

The order allows one and one-quarter cents per pound to pro-

Poison Ivy, Ragweed Can Be Eradicated

Permanent death for many noxious weeds, including poison ivy and ragweed, is made possible by a new chemical compound, "Ammate," reports Elizabeth McKechnie in the June issue of C-I-L Oval.

Sprayed on the leaves of poison ivy, for example, this new herbicide penetrates the plant tissues and is carried down the food channels in the stalk to the roots. Within 24 hours the leaves begin to wilt; in about a week they become brown and brittle and then slowly dry and disintegrate.

Because "Ammate" is a non-flammable chemical compound, the dead weeds are made fire-resistant. The treatment enriches the soil with nitrogen and treated areas may often be used for growing purposes during the same season.

Among the weeds that can be controlled or destroyed by means of this treatment are poison oak, poison sumac, Canada thistle, chokecherry, bindweed, dandelion, goldenrod and ragweed.

In Piedmont, Italy, a grave-stone bears this inscription: "I was well. Tried to get better. Here I am."

To Use Wooden Boxes

At a recent meeting of the Nova Scotia Egg and Poultry Committee approval was given to placing an order for 2,000 stencilled wooden boxes to be used for the heavier top grade chicken and capon.

Do you ever get angry? Then read what Aristotle, one of the wisest of the ancient Greeks, says about it:

"Anybody can get angry. That is easy. But to be angry with the right person, and to the right degree, and at the right time, and for the right purpose, and in the right way, is not easy."

Aristotle would probably, however, approve being completely and 100 per cent angry with the Nazis, all the time and in every way.

An ounce of accomplishment is worth a ton of good intentions.

Andrews - MacLellan

A pretty wedding was solemnized in Trinity Church, Halifax, on Thursday evening, June 29, at 7 o'clock, when Luella, youngest daughter of Mrs. Alex MacLellan and the late Mr. MacLellan, of Sydney Mines, C.B., became the bride of Gnr. Lloyd Powell Andrews, G.M.P., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Andrews, of North Range. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Ibbott. The bride was given in marriage by Gnr. Calvin Garber, G.M.P., of Bridgewater, and was attired in a street length dress of white silk jersey with small white hat and shoulder length veil, and wore a corsage of red roses. Mrs. E. Neilsen, Halifax, was the bride's only attendant, wearing light blue with matching accessories and corsage of roses and sweet peas. Gnr. Byron Hudson, G.M.P., of Granville Ferry, supported the groom. Following the ceremony several friends of the couple assembled at 121 Cornwallis St., where a reception was held. They received many lovely gifts among them being gifts from the secretarial department of the Shipyard, where the bride holds a responsible position, also from the Garrison Military Police, of which the groom is a member. Gnr. and Mrs. Andrews left the following morning to spend a few days at the groom's home; the bride travelling in a pencil strip suit, black wool coat with light grey fur collar, white accessories, and wearing a corsage of American Beauty roses. They will reside in Halifax for the present.

"Where do we go from here?"

That's an important question for all of us, but this we know...

Hundreds of thousands of Canadians have long shopping lists of things they intend to buy when the war is over—new refrigerators, radios, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, cars—things they have saved for during these war years.

Thousands want new homes.

Industry will have a busy time meeting this pent up demand when peace returns. Private firms are already planning how to give you new and better goods than their competitors, at better prices.

This all adds up to jobs and opportunity for all of us after the war. Canada will be a busy place when Victory is won.

Accidental Death Verdict

Verdict of accidental death with no blame attached to the driver, was returned by the jury at Lawrenceburg on Friday last. The driver was summoned to inquire into the death of six-year-old Mullen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mullen, of Lawrenceburg, formerly of Digby County.

The inquest into the death of the little girl fell as she was crossing the road, and directly in the path of an oncoming car. Edward Mullen, of Halifax, driver of the car, testified he had no knowledge of how the child was struck by his car. His attorney supported previous evidence that the child had been on the pavement out of the car.

The accident occurred Thursday afternoon of last week at a hundred yards from Mullen home. The child was rushed to Middleton Hospital where she died half an hour later.

Town Obtains Pumper

An A.R.P. Auxiliary pumper, with 2,000 feet of 1½ inch hose has been supplied to the town of Digby. The pumper has a capacity of 150 gallons a minute, with a pressure of 125 pounds.

The initial try-out by the department was made last evening when the pumper, hooked to the regular fire truck, was towed to the Race Point and placed on the beach between the breakwater and the Reserve Army Drill shed. The suction hose was placed in salt water. Excellent pressure was obtained on the three streams of hose attached.

Later in the evening the pumper was hauled up to Victoria Street where the suction hose was attached to the hydrant at the corner of Victoria and Sydney Streets. This hydrant, said to have the lowest natural pressure of any in the town, failed to shove the pressure gauge up to 20 pounds, yet, when the little pumper got to work, 110 pounds pressure registered at the nozzles of each of the three hoses attached.

The addition of the auxiliary pumper will greatly increase the efficiency of Digby's fire fighting equipment, and when a trailer is built for the pump and hose, it will be possible for the town to send some of the fire fighting equipment to nearby communities in the event of an emergency. Due to the fact the town had just the one pumper truck, the town council passed a resolution a number of years ago which forbade sending the pumper outside town limits, except to certain areas of Mt. Pleasant (on the immediate outskirts of town) where residents pay the town a "fire protection tax."

Ceiling Price on Summer Favorite

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced recently that a ceiling price had been placed on cooked picnic shoulders. This is a popular summer item and plentiful supplies are available.

Maximum selling prices in the rural areas of Nova Scotia are 57c. per pound on shoulders up to 7 pounds, and 54c. on those over 7 pounds in weight.

These prices allow a 30 per cent mark-up and 8 per cent sales tax on wholesale price of processors. In cases where the processor's basic period mark-up is less than 30 per cent, his selling price will be lower.

A fool friend can do you a lot more harm than a wise enemy.

One Twin Killed, One Wounded

On Friday last tragedy struck twice at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Wagstaff, Milford, Annapolis Co., when two telegrams, received less than five hours apart, brought them news that their only sons, Douglas and Donald (twins), had been, the former killed, and the latter wounded, in action in France, on July 8.

The boys, born at Round Hill 26 years ago, have lived in Milford for the past 20 years, where they were very popular. After completing their school course they joined the staff of the Mersey Paper Co., as surveyors, working in that capacity until their enlistment in September, 1940.

Always together, they joined the Forestry Corps, trained in Quebec province until they went overseas in March 1941. They were later transferred to another unit and took a Signaller's course.

They crossed to France with the Invasion Forces on "D" Day.

On New Year's Day, 1943, "Doug" married a young lady of Blackpool, England, who, with their infant daughter, Diane, survive him in England. Other survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Wagstaff; his twin brother, Don; four sisters, Doris (Mrs. Edward Fair), Moschelle; Berta, of the V. G. Hospital staff, Halifax, and Margaret and Shirley at home.

No advise has been received regarding the extent of Don's wounds.

Plane Wreckage Found Off Islands

Two wings, a rubber life raft and other aeroplane wreckage were picked up along the coast last week, but so far no definite information has been obtained here as to the accident which is suggested by bits of aircraft found. Wreckage was viewed at Westport by members of the Royal Canadian Air Force, but no official statement has been made.

Tuesday morning a Westport fisherman named Clements found a life raft which gave the appearance of being partly scorched. Boyd Graham and Sydney Pugh, both of Westport, each found a wing. Pugh also picked up a gas tank, the floor of a plane and other wreckage.

Bernard Young, a Tiverton fisherman reported the finding of a section of plane, about 2½ feet square, bearing the markings "1-L981329B."

Former Moncton Boy In A A F Wins Commendation

An Eighth AAF Fighter Wing Headquarters: For the initiative shown by him and the fine spirit that was evidenced at all times in the establishing and operation of this headquarters. Private First Class Robert Urquhart was personally commended by Brigadier General M. C. Woodbury, Commanding General of a Fighter Wing, somewhere in England.

The commendation was made at a formation of officers and enlisted personnel of the headquarters commemorating the first anniversary of the Wing's arrival in the European theatre of operations.

Prior to his induction into the armed forces in December, 1942, Pfc. Urquhart was a production clerk in Boston. His father resides in Moncton, N. B.

(This boy is a great grandson of James H. Urquhart, ship carpenter, of Barton. His grandfather, John Dunham Urquhart, was a first cousin of O. S. Dunham, many years connected with the Digby Courier. His father, G. T. Urquhart, Sr., was born in Barton.)

Many more blood donors needed. Those interested please apply to Mrs. A. J. Dillon or Dr. J. R. McCleave.

A Man In Uniform Writes About Digby and Vicinity

To the Editor of the Courier: Sir—I have been away from Nova Scotia so long and I get so homesome for my many friends—some who are still there—others gone. May I have a little corner in your perfect paper to say a few things that keeps my mind on home and all that I hold as part of a pleasant start in life.

I close my eyes and I see Digby, the town of my childhood. I see the school that held my first attention of what life was to mean for me. The teacher trying to show us what school and discipline could do for us. The routine of running at the sound of the bell. The short cuts, and the fear of being late, and the apple that might save a punishment. The eraser that could be used for useful and praiseworthy purposes. Yes, the wonder of the first day of school that stays in our memory.

The boy scouts, the meeting place for boys who are anxious to learn about the woods, streams, boats, and life. The camping trip that we had looked forward to for so long. The rain and thunder storm that came while we were under the canvas for the first time. The camp fire and the first meal made by our own hands still thrills me.

The years pass by and the day of days. I am old enough to own a gun. Dad who knows how long I have waited has given me a gun of my own. The stock so smooth and the smell of the oil in the barrel and the box of shells to use for what I felt they should be used for. Practice and care made me a good shot and the permission to go into the woods and see what I could get. I was a hunter and was proud. I had power to kill or leave be. Even the dog that was with me felt and respected this new power that beheld me. What would I shoot first. A red squirrel was my first consideration. He was in the tree looking down at me as if to challenge me. The dog looked up the target and then at me with that look of anxiety that only a dog can give at a time like that.

My hands shook, my breathing became difficult. Should I take a life. Should I let it be and pass by. Should I shoot above it and scare it. My mind was working overtime. The power and the decision was in my hands. I thought of my gun and wondered if I could shoot the little animal that was challenging me. With careful aim and anxious breathing the gun gave its deadly charge and the squirrel fell to the ground and the dog went up and sniffed at the lifeless body. I looked down on my work and felt the feeling of remorse. I had killed. I had taken a life of something that had wanted to live. Perhaps had fought to live. I had no pride in what I had done. I dug a hole and buried the squirrel and walked away with a heavy heart. I had experienced the first feeling of helplessness. I had taken a life and now I was more powerful, more dangerous and cruel if I failed to stop. Yes, life is an experience that only can be conquered by experience and thought.

I have considered myself a hunter now. I had been told that all animals of the forest die a tragic death. I could do good by killing and making sure that the shots were fatal and that death would come easy. How easy it is to make yourself believe what others say is right. Anything to console your mind.

Digby County has many places of beauty. The "gap" and "basin" are the two places that mark our map. People from all over the world have enjoyed the beauty of these places.

Bear River and its hills and the winding road, high bridges and trees and green fields live in your memories.

Smith's Cove and its hotels and cottages. The birch bark church and board walk and the island so near warms your heart and quiets your mind.

The Acacia Valley and Hill Typical country of a province so beautiful. Hills, trees, winding roads and the river. The quiet and shade will live in my soul as a place to remember and return to some day.

My first trip away from home. The strangeness and loneliness keep you reminded of what you have left behind. Meeting new people who seem strange. New ways of living. Learning of what goes around you. Trying to make yourself impressive, always anxious to talk of your home. The tightness that comes in your throat when you speak of Mother or Dad checks your speech and you try hard to hide your feelings.

You return home after your first trip away and you seem to have so much to talk about but you secretly feel a little proud of having been away and the experience has broadened your outlook on life. You feel you want to see more of the world. The experience of going to the city for the first time. Seeing the crowds and traffic and stores makes you feel unimportant. A new field to conquer. You stay and suffer the insults of being called a hick and all that goes with being a country boy. The experience helps and soon you are at home in the new surroundings and feel that you have gained the respect of those around you.

More years pass by. Heartaches and happiness. Good times and hard times and new friends and old friends pass by. You are living life and have little care of the signs of trouble ahead.

Then comes the fatal sound from over the seas. War. People are talking about it, papers are telling of war in Europe. A troubled feeling settles over you and we wonder just how we will fit in to the picture. We wonder if we can adjust ourselves to this new experience. Have we the nerve? Are we afraid to die? Risking death is something new in our lives. It is hard to die, it will be hard to leave our people, just like going into an operating room. Not knowing if you will see them again. The recruiting centre beckons you. You walk by and think a little harder and then you keep on. What shall I do, can I leave all this just for the sake of the war? The pictures in the papers show how ghastly war can be and how terrifying it can be. All these pictures are on your mind. Then you make up your mind that Canada and the whole world is worth fighting for and you forget your selfish desires and walk in the recruiting centre with your head up and chest out and eyes steady and ask if you can join up. With the uniform you feel that you have made your first step.

At the training fields you experience a new and free feeling. A feeling of sureness and you feel proud to be in the uniform, and look forward to fighting for your loved ones. The day comes when you must go over there and you are all filled with mixed feelings but the first thing that comes to your mind is the fact that this is the good-bye and you will soon be leaving all that is dear and your next few years of your life will be an experience that only you can tell.

That is the way you feel when you are leaving. In my case, I didn't get away. I was told at the last minute that they had other plans for me. I was to stay behind for a while. I was mad. I was sore with the world. How could they say that I was to remain behind. They did, but I have never given up hope of going and as sure as I am staying behind now, I will be over there and when I do get there I will make up for all I have missed. There are some brave boys over there that are friends of mine. If I ever see them again, I want to be able to say I was in this war too.

Even though I am still in Canada. I am stationed a long ways from my home. I miss Digby County and hope that before very long I will be seeing that home of mine and all the ones I hold dear to me. Many faces will be missing and the place will seem strange but where there is an open door and one familiar face it will be home and it's a wonderful feeling to say "I am home and all is well." May God bless us all and keep us from danger and may we never have to experience another war or times like these again.

The Bay of Fundy is green and white and the tides come and go and the trees are green on the mountains. All is beautiful. Just like a promised land. Keep it as it is while we are away. Don't spoil it. Some day we shall return and we want to find it like it was when we left.

Respectfully yours,
A Man in Uniform

F. Tupper, fuelwood officer of the Prices Board and Department of Munitions and Supply in this province, advises that in spite of the improved situation reported at the close of last winter there is a possibility of a fuelwood shortage developing in some areas this fall. In view of this he is urging communities to examine their fuelwood positions without delay and suggests that householders who burn wood buy it at once and store it for next winter's use.

F. Tupper, fuelwood officer of the Prices Board and Department of Munitions and Supply in this province, advises that in spite of the improved situation reported at the close of last winter there is a possibility of a fuelwood shortage developing in some areas this fall. In view of this he is urging communities to examine their fuelwood positions without delay and suggests that householders who burn wood buy it at once and store it for next winter's use.

Rupert Cann Wounded

Word has been received that Rupert Cann, Central Grove, has been seriously wounded while in action in France. Since the first advise was received, it has been learned he was wounded in the right leg.

Rupert is well known throughout the country, and was a co-founder of the "Tiny Tattler", at one time published as Canada's smallest newspaper. When his partner, Ivan A. Shortliffe, left to work on larger newspapers, Rupert continued as editor and publisher for a number of years until his enlistment when publication was suspended. He was drafted overseas in the spring of this year.

"Bible" Wheat Crop Is Harvested Again

An unusual wheat harvest is being conducted this week end at Tecumseh, Mich., on 14 acres of grain, all of which was grown from an original planting of one cubic inch sown four years ago.

Grown by Perry Hayden, miller, for the Friends Church, ten per cent of the crop will be given to the church as a tithe. With the acreage increasing rapidly each year, it is estimated that the final planting in 1946 may require 2,000 or 3,000 acres of land, with the church tithing valued at thousands of dollars.

When the Reverend Clifton Robinson, of Newport News, Va., a supply pastor for the Friends Church, announced his text for a sermon back in 1940 it gave Hayden an idea. The text was from John 12:24: "Verily, verily I say unto you, except a kernel of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit." Henry Ford provided the land.

Soldiers For Harvest Help

"Consistent with military responsibilities," the Army is prepared to release on "harvest" leave a certain number of troops to help farmers harassed by shortage of labor. This was announced recently at headquarters, Military District No. 6, Halifax.

"Reports indicate," says a communication from National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa, "that in practically all parts of the country there will be an urgent need for assistance in the harvesting of agricultural crops of all kinds."

Emphasizing that the need will be "very great," a preliminary survey is being undertaken to ascertain how many men approximately can be spared from formations and units in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, and how many are likely to want to avail themselves of this leave.

The arrangement is accessible to soldiers owning own farms or willing to hire out to farmers, the Department of Labor co-operating in the placement of men who have no prospective employer.

About This and That

There is more than meets the eye at first glance of the story of the Michigan mother who wrote her daughter in Washington, asking the nature of the government job she had procured through her congressman. The daughter replied:

"I work in the data-analysis group of the aptitude test sub-unit of the worker analysis section of the division of occupational analysis and manning tables of the bureau of labor utilization of the War Manpower Commission, which is under the Office of Emergency Management."

Impossible, you say. No, nothing is impossible in the City of Confusion, where seven or eight wise men sitting on the supreme court bench recently ruled that an elevator operator in a New York office building was engaged in interstate commerce.

The self-appointed conquerors of the world are finally reading the handwriting on the wall. Hitler has emerged from the silences long enough to warn his dupes that they must have "unheard-of strength of nerves if Germany is to survive such times as the present and surmount a magnitude of future difficulties."

Over in Tokyo, Premier Tojo told the Japanese that the American capture of the Marianas Islands "will exert a very serious influence on the future war situation, and we must not discount the fierceness of the enemy's fighting spirit."

Yes, indeed, the situation is serious, especially to two bloodthirsty barbarians by the name of Hitler and Tojo, in the shadow of the hangman's noose.

With the tremendous consumption of gasoline and oil brought about by war needs, increasing interest is being displayed in locating possible sites of future oil supplies. In Canada, borings are under way or about to commence on Prince Edward Island and in several counties in Nova Scotia, particularly in Inverness County. There are extensive deposits of bituminous coal in Nova Scotia, also oil shales. Oil of a high grade exists in the sister province of New Brunswick and has been extracted for several years along with natural gas which is used in the adjoining Canadian National Railways centre of Moncton, regional headquarters for the Atlantic Region of the System. There are also extensive deposits of oil shales and coal is also mined in the province.

TIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Understand that I may exchange coupons for "F" coupons for sugar. Do I take them to the Local Ration Board?

It is not necessary to go to the Local Ration Board. Your coupons will accept preserve coupons for sugar at the rate of one pound of sugar per coupon.

Is it true that shoemakers put full leather soles on their shoes?

It was announced by W.P.T.B. that a shoemaker may use full leather soles in repairing children's shoes up to size 10. The regulation also applies to boots.

If I sublet my house furnished for six months must I have a rental set by the War Prices and Trade Board or charge the same rent we charge $25 for the use of my house?

Whether or not the house is furnished you must have a rental set by the Board. The price you decide may be quite different but an investigator will call to check on it after you for a fixation of rental.

Will you kindly tell me the price of milk and sandwiches should be on trains?

Prices for refreshments sold on train vendors are controlled at the price set for a half pint of milk is 10c and for sandwiches.

I am a breeder of canaries and that I have to pay extremely high prices for a very poor quality bird seed. The price I pay now is double what I have paid before. Is there no control over this?

There is no Board regulation which controls the price of seed. The uncertainty of the price of supply makes it impossible to place controls over this product.

The Consumer Branch of the War Prices and Trade Board answer any questions regarding price control and ration regulations addressed to 77 Upper Street, Halifax.

Where Do the Farmers Stand?

(By R. J. Deachman)
To the Editor:

Representatives of the railway unions appeared, a few days ago, before the National War Labour Board, at Ottawa, and asked for wage increases, which in the opinion of the railways, would add to the cost of railway operations somewhere between $84 million and $100 million per annum.

This is quite a hefty sum. How much is it? It is equal, at the lowest of these estimates, to the interest, at 3%, on a capital investment of $2,800,000,000. Let me put this statement in another way. If the government borrowed $2,800,000,000 at 3% and spent the money on housing, health, the restoration of agriculture, the improvement of education or any of these other things which we deem of national importance, the increased annual interest bill of the nation would be equal to the amount the railway workers now ask as a wage increase. The total wage bill of the railways for 1943 was $310,000,000—under the proposed rate it would have been close to $400,000,000.

The full cost of the proposal would be even greater. This increase cannot be granted without increasing the inflationary tendencies of wartime. Wages and costs, in other directions, would rise. Perhaps the government might be willing to bonus these wage increases, take it out of taxes! It might then add an item to the tax bill, ear-marked, "special tax for benefit of railway workers." Then the people would know the real cost! Yet this, silly as it sounds, would be less costly than the wage increases.

What argument did the railway workers advance? They wanted the rate now paid to American railway workers. American income, per capita, in 1939 was $530—Canadian, $390. The reason? We have a larger percentage of agricultural population. If we are to select one group and base its earnings on American rates, other groups must get the same and this can not be done. The farmers have a freight both ways. They will be compelled to pay the major share of the added wages of the railway workers. It will be a costly performance for the farmers but they were not represented.

Why were the farmers not represented? They did not ask to be heard. The farmers are supremely patient. Perhaps their leaders feel that if the workers got more, they will get more. The increase given to any special group, no matter how given, raises costs. It reduces the national income, the reduction will strike the weakest part of the economy. Those who are silent will pay the bills, those who are vocal will escape.

Would the farmers have been heard if they had gone before the National War Labour Board? Would any other powerful group such as the Canadian Manufacturers' Association? I think they would but against the most vigorous protest of the Workers' Organizations! The Unions did not want the broad facts of the case presented.

They were anxious to avoid the evidence of those who would pay the bills. They were in a hurry. Who wouldn't be in a hurry with a prize of millions stretched out before them. One man did appear. John L. McDougall of the Economics Division of Queen's University, a competent railway economist asked to be heard. He was granted permission to do so by Mr. C. P. McTague, former Chairman of the Board. Before the date of hearing a new chairman was on the job. He refused definitely to hear Mr. McDougall's statement of the case unless he came as a witness for either the workers or the railways. He refused to listen to argument in regard to his right to be heard.

As it now stands, the views of those who pay the bills are ignored. But this is a democratic country, the people are supreme, and parliament is sitting. Parliament can, if it will, see to it that the people retain the right to the free expression of their views on those things which are, beyond question, vital matters of public concern.

Could the National War Labour Board render a just decision without hearing all the evidence? It is very doubtful. The evidence, as it stands, is not complete. No consideration has been given to the broader issues involved. When a Board, denies the right of interested parties to appear, or even to state the grounds of their desire to appear, the functions of such Boards naturally become a matter for close public scrutiny. Freedom will perish when free men are on longer permitted to speak in its defence.

Fancy Meeting You!

The coincidences of fact outdo those of fiction at all times, and especially in war. Could anything be more wildly improbable than a woman applying for permission to billet one soldier and being sent her own husband? Yet that actually happened to Mrs. Curtis, of Alton.

Then consider the coincidence that happened to a Scotsman, working in Coventry. A soldier in the last war, he volunteered for service as a Home Guard and was issued with a rifle which for some reason felt familiar. Searching through his old Army records he unearthed the number of the Lee-Enfield rifle he had used in the last war, and found it corresponded with the old one he was using in the Home Guard. It was, in fact, the same rifle.

Beyond the bounds of probability is the lucky coincidence experienced by a certain major serving in Burma. He was leading a column of his men through the jungle when he decided to have a smoke. Slipping his hand into his pocket for his cigarette case, however, he found it missing. He knew he had used it since the last stopping place but realising the den-tropical forest he accepted the fact of its irretrievable loss and very soon forgot the whole incident.

Twelve months later, he visited a Burmese village, where a company of British soldiers were in occupation, and the officer in charge, hearing the major's name, produced the lost cigarette case. A patrol had found it.

Mr. Holt, of Dorchester, veteran of the last war, volunteered for service again in 1939. He was accepted and later his son also volunteered. For a long time father and son were stationed in England but although Mr. Holt made many attempts to meet his son he was never able to do so. He was either moved before he could make contact or arrived at his son's camp to find that the regiment had moved the previous day.

At different times both men were sent overseas to Africa and lost touch with each other.

A few months ago Mr. Holt, with a company of Royal Engineers, was helping to lay a new road in North Africa when an army truck skidded round the corner and pulled up just in time to avoid running into them. Holt dropped his spade and walked across to the truck to give the driver a piece of his mind, only to find when he peered into the cab that the driver was his son. It was their first meeting for more than two years.

Life is full of humorous coincidences. For instance, a soldier, stripping for an examination, said that his name was Latimer. The R.A.M.C. Officer laughed and chaffingly asked where Ridley was, referring of course to the two martyrs, Latimer and Ridley, who were burned at the stake. The soldier replied seriously that Ridley was next on the list. Thinking his leg was being pulled the M.O. went to the waiting room and found that it was true. The next patient on the list was Pte. Ridley.

Then there was the case of the American volunteer who, when he was enlisting, gave his name as Christopher Columbus and his address as 1492 Pinewood Avenue. The recruiting sergeant smiled at the coincidence for 1492 was the year Columbus discovered America. He didn't smile a few seconds later, however, for, when examining the volunteer's papers, he found that his registration number also was 1492.

The following coincidence is probably unique. A lady named Gadsby, of Niagara Falls, sent her daughter, living at Prestwick, in Scotland, a parcel for Christmas. Unfortunately the ship carrying it was torpedoed in the Atlantic and went to the bottom with the full cargo of mail. Two days after the daughter's birthday a policeman knocked at her door. A parcel had been washed up on the beach and the address was still faintly visible—it was her mother's Christmas present.

Finally there is an almost personnel coincidence for which the writer can vouch, his own father being on Crewe Station the day it occurred and remarking on it when he returned home.

It concerned Arthur Lockett a wheelapper. He had worked on Crewe Station all his life and had never been ill nor missed a day's work. He was naturally proud of his record and used to tell his mates that if he stopped so would all the clocks on Crewe Station.

On May 30, 1932, every clock on the station stopped. That morning while getting ready for work Lockett died suddenly.

Tapping of Wires in Canada Made Difficult

Tapping of telegraphic circuits as the Germans did in France in 1940 to get information of Allied movements would be a difficult if not impossible job in Canada with the present-day use of carrier current, according to the Canadian National Telegraphs. The channel circuits are so finely balanced that any extra attachments would throw them off and it would be difficult to get anything sensible out of them to say nothing of the difficulty in isolating any one circuit of the twenty-four channels in use and of utilizing portable equipment necessary which would be so heavy as to require the use of a truck. To make some circuits more secret, specially those operated by teleprint, messages are scrambled on the way so that if tapped nothing intelligible would be received, only a jumble of letters and figures.

Four of a Kind

During the summer of 1943 a black bear in Jasper National Park, Alberta, had four cubs, three brown and one black. Such an unusual occurrence created quite an attraction, not only for visitors but also for the residents of Jasper. As soon as the cubs were big enough to come to town the mother bear proudly paraded them through the streets and down to the railway station where travellers passing through Jasper could also see them. The cubs quickly became accustomed to humans who fed them countless chocolate bars, biscuits and other tidbits. Hundreds of feet of film were exposed showing the public feeding and petting the cubs and sometimes children rolling on the grass with them.

This summer these cute little "clowns of the forest" will have grown to good-sized and powerful bears. They will have become professional beggars, preferring the easy way of getting their food to the natural way of hunting for it in the forest. If sufficient food to their liking is not forthcoming when they require it they will take it anyway. They will raid kitchen larders, basements, cars, tents and garbage cans. Complaints will be numerous and eventually the park warden will be asked to shoot these "cute little cubs" of 1943.

That is why visitors to the national parks are being urged to refrain from feeding or petting the bears. It is dangerous for the visitors and is usually fatal to the bears.

A Paymaster with 3,500 Smiths, 238 Named John

More than 2,400,000 pay checks are issued annually to over 10,000 Canadian National employees. To complicate matters there are 3,500 Smiths, of which 267 are William Smith, 238 John Smiths, and 152 James Smiths. There are 2,000 Browns, many with the same initial as also applies to the Joneses, Whites and Thompsons. Then there are an "Early and Late," "Beck and Call," "First and Last," "Begin and End" and a "Dead-man," who is alive and working.

NEW OVERSEAS PLAN FOR BUCKINGHAM and WINGS Cigarettes

Prevents Loss in Transit*

New arrangements for sending cigarettes to Canadians in the Armed Services overseas have just been announced by the Postmaster General and the Minister of National Defence. Now, when your order for Buckingham or Wings cigarettes is received in Hamilton, an address label is made out and shipped overseas by air. The order is then completed from stocks previously sent overseas for this purpose. Not only does this greatly speed delivery but it avoids loss in transit.

ONE SIZE OF PACKAGE ONLY—300's

Under the new Government regulations there will be only one size of package—300 cigarettes at $1.00. However, you can send more than one package at the same time and at the same rate.

ORDER AS BEFORE—through your tobacconist or by sending your order to Buckingham, Box 100, Hamilton, Ontario, or Wings, Box 100, Hamilton, Ontario.

In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of my dear father, George E. Doty, who left us July 16, 1941.

Loving and kind in all his ways, Upright and just to the end of his days, Sincere and kind in heart and mind, What a beautiful memory he left behind.

Lovingly remembered by daughter, Edna. 45:1ip

IN LOVING MEMORY of a dear wife and mother, Bellezora Outhouse, who passed away July 21, 1942.

Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered, Sweet happy memories cling round your name, True hearts that loved you with deepest affection, Always will love you in death the same.

Merrill P. Outhouse and Family. 45:1ic

IN LOVING MEMORY of my brother, Petty Officer James Glendon Farnsworth, R.C.N., killed July 21st, 1943.

One year today my brother was called To his eternal rest, Gone where the angels sing so sweet, And taken when God knew best, We miss him here so very much, His presence oft seems nigh, But we all hope in Heaven to meet, Where no one says good-bye.

After a short honeymoon spent at Sandy Bottom Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Carey returned to North Kingston where they will reside. The bride is a graduate of the Provincial Normal College.

Induction Service At Clementsvalle

Clementsvalle was the scene of a very happy occasion on Monday evening, 17, when Rev. C. Saunders Young, of Havelock, N.B., was inducted into the pastorate of the Clementsvalle United Baptist Church. Pastors and others were called together by the clerk, Mrs. Maurice Potter. Mrs. Watson Potter presided at the organ and Rev. E. J. Chisholm, president of the county, was in the chair. Rev. D. F. McDormand, of St. George, N. B., read the scripture, and Rev. R. W. Lindsay, of Margaretsville, offered prayer. The induction sermon was preached by Rev. J. Earle DeLong, of Digby, whose theme was "Thine is the Power." Rev. A. J. Prosser, retired minister of Annapolis, gave the charge to the new pastor and Rev. T. F. McWilliam, of Deep Brook, the charge to the church. Rev. H. D. Hopper, of Lower Granville, extended the welcome of the N. S. Western Association, after which the chairman called ed upon the new minister, Rev. C. Saunders Young, who replied in a fitting address to the hearty welcome received.

At the close of the induction service the large congregation proceeded to the public hall for a social hour. Rev. E. J. Chisholm led the company in a lively service of old songs and choruses, after which the ladies of the church served refreshments, the service closing with the national anthem. Rev. M. Young succeeds Rev. Wm. Randall, now of Pennfield, N.B.

Red Cross Notes

DIGBY BRANCH

At the second quarterly meeting of the Digby Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, reports were presented for the months of April, May and June. The Blood Donor Committee reported successful clinics held each Tuesday evening. Also a special clinic held in Weymouth recently, while the War Committee reported the regular Wednesday afternoon work meetings held. An appeal for extra workers was responded to in June when an emergency order was received for hospital supplies to be made up for H.M.C.S. Cornwallis. Although the majority of the supplies are now made up and delivered, the order was not completed in June, hence was not included in the records for that period. With the increased need for hospital supplies, it was reported that the Branch expects to have further calls for similar type of work in the near future and all those who can sew are asked to assist.

During the month of April, the Digby Branch had several calls for knitted comforts for the Navy and Merchant Marine, the following articles being supplied: 1 windbreaker, 37 L.S.T.N. sweaters, 36 helmets, 27 prs. mittens, 10 prs. gloves, 39 prs. socks, 3 prs. seaboot stockings, and an assortment of magazines. At that time additional supplies were issued to our Branch from the Provincial Warehouse as follows: 25 prs. mittens, 25 prs. gloves, 50 L.S.T.N. sweaters, 50 helmets, 50 scarves, 50 windbreakers, 50 suits underwear, 100 prs. socks.

During the quarter 43 knitted articles, including socks, helmets, mittens and L.S.T.N. sweaters in navy and grey were completed by our Branch and auxiliaries and added to this reserve stock. In addition to this work, the following finished articles were forwarded to headquarters: 1 khaki sleeveless sweater, 2 airforce L.S.T.N. sweaters, 12 hospital pyjama suits, 4 towels, 12 face cloths, 37 large quilts, 8 small quilts, 29 girls' dresses, 7 skirts, 8 caps, 1 dressing gown, 1 night gown, 1 sleeper suit, 3 undershirts, 55 baby garments, 29 children's sweaters, 1 boy's knitted suit and socks, 1 pr. trousers, 1 blouse, 23 prs. felt slippers. Total, 237 articles, to which should be added the 43 items placed in reserve stock, giving a grand total of 280 articles.

Donations are gratefully acknowledged as follows: 12 quilts, Trinity W. A.; 3 quilts each, Centreville and Rossway Auxiliaries; 2 quilts each, Ever Ready Club, St. Patrick's Red Cross Club; 1 quilt each, Barton Auxiliary, Conway Ladies' Club, Grace United Church Ladies' Aid, Marshalltown Aux., Mrs. A. Adams; quilt top, lining and batt each, Mrs. Fred Adams, Mrs. Hart Hayden, Mrs. Rod Abramson; quilt materials, Mrs. Noseworthy, O. Wright, Mrs. B. J. Roop, Mrs. Herbert Woodman; cash donation of $2.57 for quilt materials from Bay View ladies; used clothing and materials, Mrs. Ganong, Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch, Mrs. F. R. Eisener, Mrs. Berwick, Mrs. Fritz Dakin, Miss Boggs, Mrs. C. E. Walker; Mrs. H. M. Warne; Finished articles: 1 pr. socks, Mrs. C. E. Walker, Barton Auxiliary, 8 dresses, 4 skirts, 1 jacket, 2 bonnets, 6 caps, 22 prs. felt slippers; Centreville Auxiliary, 1 dress, 1 pr. socks (donated by Mrs. Angus Gidney).

Does Canada Need A Revolution?

By Lewis Milligan

Somebody should write a book on Revolution, presenting an unbiased analysis of their root causes and tracing their ultimate results. I am thinking chiefly of major revolutions like that of the Cromwellian period in Britain, the French Revolution, and the Russian Revolution. Such a study would serve a useful purpose at the present time when there are so many revolutionary ideas in the air, and the Canadian people are being urged to change their established national system for something entirely different, namely State Socialism.

Such an extreme change would be a revolution, whether it were brought about by violent or peaceful means, and in either case the ultimate result would be the same—reaction. It is the law of nature, including human nature, that when extremes meet or there is a sudden change from one extreme to another, an explosion is bound to follow. An explosion might be a good thing, as in the case of a thunderstorm on an intolerably hot day, and a violent revolution may be inevitable and necessary in a nation that is suffering under an intolerable form of government or a tyrannical autocracy.

The root cause of the Cromwellian revolution in Britain was the arbitrary rule of Charles I, who usurped the authority of Parliament. It was a struggle for democratic government, for Liberty. Cromwell was a much better ruler than Charles, but the Long Parliament, aiming to establish its own power, became more and more unpopular because of its tyrannical foreign policy and its harsh treatment of Royalist prisoners, against which Cromwell himself openly protested. The results of the revolution, however, were generally beneficial to the people of Britain. They got rid of a stupid king and achieved a large measure of political and religious freedom. But when that had been achieved, a reaction set in, and the monarchy was restored on a constitutional basis. The Royalists came back to power, although they were robbed of many of their prerogatives, and the British nation thenceforth pursued a path of constitutional progress.

The point is that the Cromwellian revolution was a revolt against tyranny and not merely against the monarchical system. The same may be said of the French Revolution, which was followed by the restoration of monarchy in the rise of Napoleon. The Russian Revolution was similarly a revolt against a tyrannical and corrupt autocracy; it was a revolt for freedom, not for communism. The communists were in the minority, but they were well organized, and they seized power by force and dictatorship and brought about a complete revolution by the creation of an entirely new system. But that system is now undergoing a process of change. The wild theories of Karl Marx are gradually being revised by experience to conform to practical economic. A drastic reaction has set in.

An article in the New York Times states that "a sweeping change is being made in Soviet Russia in the Marxist economic dogmas as they have been officially taught in the schools, the press, and on the platform and radio. Marx's theory of the exploitation of the proletariat is completely revised and capitalism is declared a 'progressive,' not a 'backward' system." Stalin is said to be responsible for the change. The new doctrines are explained in a long article appearing in a recent issue of Znameniye, a Russian economic journal. Space does not permit quotations from this article, but it certainly represents the greatest departure from the orthodox communist creed and a restoration of the law of human values.

All of which leads back to the point from which we started, that a study of the causes and results of revolutions would serve a useful purpose at the present time, when the Canadian people are being urged by economic theorists to change their established political system for that of State Socialism. If Canada were in a similar condition to that of Britain under Charles I, or that of France under the Bourbons, or Russia under the Czar, a revolution would be justifiable. But Canada, with all its political imperfections, is one of the best governed countries in the world. There is plenty of room for reform, but Canadians must avoid the "falsehood of extremes" and continue to pursue the path of progress with sanity and good will.

New Ladders Are Affected.

The step which the War-time Prices and Trade Board has found necessary to take in connection with the distribution of wooden ladders forms a good illustration of the way in which articles which apparently have very little connection with the waging of war are nevertheless closely affected by war's demands.

Wooden ladders of all types from the extension variety to the familiar household step-ladder aren't being restricted to essential users because the army needs them to scale cliffs opposite their beach-heads.

These ladders, now obtainable only under essentially permits, have been placed under such restrictions because they are composed chiefly of fir. And fir, as everyone knows, nowadays, is a wood which is in great demand for the manufacture of aircraft veneer. Our Pacific coastal forests, extensive though they are, don't seem able to yield enough of it to meet such demands and have much left over for other purposes.

Because of this, the supply of the raw material of which wooden ladders are principally made has been declining for some months and ladders, of all things, have grown so scarce that now they must be doled out to only those who really require them for essential purposes. The order of the Prices Board is designated to distribute the limited supply where it is most needed.

This is a typical instance of the supply of something that is very remote from war being intimately affected by it. Similar circumstances are responsible for a good many orders which continue to affect the manufacture and distribution of familiar articles.

The average Canadian consumer will have little difficulty in choosing between an adequate supply of fir for the production of Mosquitoes and other aircraft and fir to be devoted to the manufacture of ladders. Our aircraft are carrying the war into Germany with ever-increasing effect. The Canadians will make his old ladder do—provided it is at all serviceable. He'll help keep the planes rolling overseas to do their job and shorten the war.

The same thing applies to other restrictions which remain in force so that sufficient supplies of strategic materials may be available for essential purposes. As long as the need persists, we at home will willingly and cheerfully do without non-essential articles made from essential materials. We want the men overseas to have everything they require to finish the job they have begun so well.

Among Fiji islanders the human head is sacred and it is an insult to reach above it.

Pity The Country Folk!

(Christian Science Monitor)

One half of the world may not know how the other half lives, but one city dweller recently found out.

A week end in Vermont gave him a convincing lesson in contrasts. His visit to these unfortunate folk in the country who seldom complain of their deprivations had this to offer a city visitor who was so sorry for their plight.

First, city and country cousin whipped a brook and caught a dozen trout in the cool of the morning just after the sun fretted designs through the trees on the meadow. Then, on the way home, they found wild strawberries, with a flavor unequalled by any cultivated variety. After they returned to the house, tender tasting trout encased in a crisp cover of cornmeal, ground at an old-fashioned water-driven grist mill, served to start breakfast. With it were griddle cakes made from home grown buckwheat, golden brown and smooth and swimming in maple syrup from the farm's trees. By that time in came an old-fashioned strawberry shortcake based upon hot biscuit—not cake—dripping with sweet, home-churned, golden-yellow butter, loaded with crushed strawberries and surmounted with cumulus clouds of cream—heavy, thick, rich and whippable.

As the city slicker backed away from the table he soliloquized: "These poor folk just don't know what it is to pay 60 cents a box for strawberries and have a few of them scattered on a base of unbuttered cake with some thin cream dribbled over it. They have to pour their maple syrup and cream out of great pitchers instead of having it in a cute little jug that holds about one tablespoon. And they have to help themselves from a huge mound of butter instead of having a dainty little pat and a wait-ess pertly saying—'no seconds.'"

The Vermonters' eyes twinkled and he said, "Want to come out and see our vegetable garden? We have only planted about an acre this year."

As the city visitor gazed admiringly at the flourishing rows, he thought reflectively of his own garden in the city. He had 12 tomato plants and the cutworms got one of those.

"Where is your ticket?" asked Police Sgt. James Kendrick, of Centralia, Wash., when a motorist asked where he could pay a fine for running past a stop light. Replied the driver: "I didn't get a ticket. Nobody saw me, but I think I ought to pay."

It is a rare man who marries a woman to reform her.

1. "The folks around here had been biting the dust for years. They took it as a natural thing that summertime should mean dusty roads—and a lot of unnecessary inconvenience. They had seen the good roads in other parts but they weren't convinced—thought that they couldn't afford to improve the roads!"

2. "The first man I spoke to was old Nick Brewster. He just wouldn't listen. After cussing the dust for ten minutes he ended up by telling me that I couldn't change nature and the roads had been that way since he was a boy."

3. "The next chap, Bill McEchran, was a bit more reasonable, but he said it would cost too much. The country just hadn't got enough money to spend, he said, and even if it had, he didn't think anyone would want it spent."

4. "Tom Town doubted if anything short of putting down a hard surface road would do any good. He'd come from the city and thought in terms of tar boilers and road rollers. Still he was open to argument. In the end he said it might be worth trying."

5. "Then I spoke to Old Mrs. Shippam, at the crossroads. She said something should be done and if Calcium Chloride could do it, we ought to get busy. Finally, she said she'd give the members of the Council a bit of her mind—and I believe she did!"

6. "Well, the result was that the Council had a meeting. Nobody voted against the resolution to have the road made dustless with Calcium Chloride. In fact, Nick Brewster proposed it and Bill McEchran seconded it."

Provincial Hay Crop Makes Rapid Growth

Samuel Cox, Provincial Agronomist, stated recently that Nova Scotia hayfields had shown rapid growth during the past ten days. Reports from various sections of the Province show a variation in the size of the crop. Some districts report only fair stands while others say there'll be a 100 per cent yield especially on fertilized fields.

The overall picture indicates a somewhat lighter hay crop for the Province this year. Realizing that feed will be none too plentiful this winter, many farmers are cutting their hay earlier than usual in order to reap the full food value from their hay crop. They point out that if hay is made early and harvested in good condition, an 80 per cent crop will be higher in food value than a full crop of later-cut hay.

While early cut hay is low in bulk, many of the best Scotch farmers are planning on utilizing some of the best oats straw for winter feeding to obtain the necessary bulk. Every year, many farmers are finding this good practice and, in view of the present shortage, early-cut hay is on the increase.

Mr. Cox said that many sections of the Province opened haying operations during the first week of July. This was especially true in the Annapolis Valley where high production early-cut clover, put in the time of that time, is still holding its color. Some excellent hay has already been harvested in the Valley area.

Wool Crop Shows Increase

Nova Scotia's 1944 wool crop is showing an increase in both quality and quantity, according to F. J. Walsh, Director of Marketing, Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture. Up to July 8, the Truro and Antigonish wool grading stations had received a total of well over 200,000 pounds.

The quality is better than last year, the figures on wool gradings plainly show the benefits of shearing. The percentage of wool receiving the four cents pound bonus is considerably more than it was at the start of the season.

During the first two weeks of gradings, the percentage of wool received totalling over 90 per cent was 22.5. Today, however, the figure has dropped to a percentage of 22.5. The answer to the difference lies in extension work carried on by the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture in co-operation with Eastern Nova Producers who have been well acquainted with the necessary in obtaining grade wool.

During recent weeks the Truro station has had difficulty in keeping pace with wool arrivals due to a labor shortage. This had resulted in a slight delay in returns. However, this situation has now been remedied and every effort is being made to grade wool on the day of arrival.

Mr. Walsh said recently that there would be no extension on the wool bonus payment deadline of July 31. The bonus will not be paid on wool arriving after that date, and so growers are advised to ship immediately.

City Helpers Now on Farms

A sincere word of thanks and appreciation to town and city workers now helping out on farms was extended by the Honorable John A. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, on behalf of many sections of the Province the call for extra farm help has been voluntarily answered by thousands of people, including young ladies and high school boys. In many sections business men have left their counters and desks to help out during the haying season.

Although many are inexperienced, these volunteers are performing an outstanding patriotic service with their zeal certainly making for any lack of experience. Provincial farmers are hard-pressed. Entire farm families are working early and late to get crops harvested and have deep appreciation for assistance now being freely given by many urban dwellers.

Mr. MacDonald spoke warmly of the unselfish response and expressed the belief that this assistance would be continued throughout the season until the emergency is past.

Craving For Something New

(By Lewis Mulligan)

Solomon is reported to have said that there was "no new thing under the sun." He said that about three thousand years ago, and it might be argued that if he lived today he would change his mind. But there must have been many new things in Solomon's day. Solomon's Temple at Jerusalem was brand new; it was one of the wonders of the then known world. There were so many new and marvelous things in Solomon's kingdom that when the Queen of Sheba visited the King and was shown around, she gasped with amazement and excitement. "The half has not been told me!"

Even Solomon would be amazed if he were to visit the world of today with all the marvelous scientific and mechanical inventions which are commonplaces of our time. But Solomon was not thinking of new inventions, and he would probably say the same thing today, that the eye is not satisfied with seeing airplanes, nor the ear filled with listening to radios. So far as the radio broadcasts are concerned, many people would agree with Solomon when he said, "The thing that hath been, it is that which shall be; and that which is done is that which shall be done."

An insatiable craving for something new has been characteristic of mankind down through the ages. In ancient Athens it was a craving for new ideas, for we are told that on Mars' hill "all the Athenians and strangers which were there spent their time in nothing else, but either to tell, or to hear some new thing." It is the same today with our "new orders," which are really not new at all. Emerson well said that "Plato makes havoc of all our originalities." And Plato was probably not entirely original.

All of which is by way of leading up to a Pastoral Letter issued by Archbishop Owen of Toronto, in September, 1939, which is as follows:

"Someone wrote to me today saying, 'Can you give me any new light in the world situation?' Any new light I have is a very old light. It comes from faith in God. He is working his purpose out in history of the Nations. I have never found anywhere in the New Testament any indication that this life here on earth, either individual or national, was to be an easy thing. I find no promises of security, safety or ease here in this world, but I find promises of grace and guidance, and the assurance of the ultimate triumph of goodness to those who serve Him. You will agree that all this is very old. It is, also, new enough for use today. I pray that we may all have grace to find it so."

People of Two Towns Killed for Revenge

Cold-blooded massacres of virtually the entire populations of the Greek village of Distomo and the French village of Oradour-sur-Glane and burning of both towns by vengeance-mad German soldiers have been reported in accounts reaching the United States. The Greek puppet government announced the Distomo slaughter, in which 1,000 persons died, saying it occurred on the second anniversary of the massacre and destruction of Lidice, in Czechoslovakia.

The story of the French village came from the British Broadcasting Corporation, which said 1,100 out of a population of 1,200 were slain.

At Distomo, according to a report received in Turkey, men, women and wailing babies were slaughtered impersonally the day after the deaths of 30 Germans in a fight with guerrillas. The account said that German troops surrounded Distomo, herded all inhabitants into the public square, and there chopped them down with machine-guns, rifles, and pistols.

Then the German troopers walked among the massed corpses, firing pistol bullets into the head of every body that twitched and trampling the life out of any infants who had been shielded by their mothers' bodies. They then burned the village down over its dead.

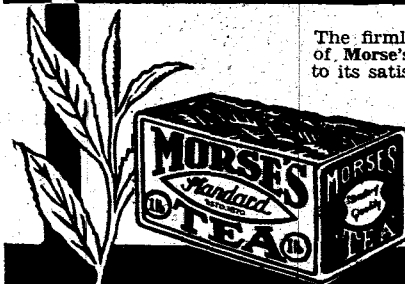

"Elimination" of the French village, the British radio said, was

Rat Pays Man's Fine

A man locked up for being drunk was convicted, fined and sent back to jail in Goldsboro, N. C., because he couldn't pay. In his cell the prisoner spied a rat with something in its mouth, stamped his foot and the startled rat scurried back into its hole. The prisoner picked up a $10 bill, paid his fine, and departed with something to spare.

Friends in Weymouth and vicinity will be sorry to hear that Sgt. Phillip LeBlanc has been wounded at Normandy. He is the son of Medie LeBlanc. Another Weymouth boy in the same unit, Gnr. Cecil Hallowell, was wounded some weeks ago. These boys are a part of the original 52nd Bty., stationed at Weymouth, and were part of the militia that trained at Petawawa each summer. They joined the active service at the outbreak of this war. Ray Nicholl is another of this unit.

Bedecked with red, white and blue streamers, flags, lanterns and cut flowers, Mrs. Grierson's spacious verandah provided a patriotic and ideal setting for the Red Cross tea, fancy work sale and business meeting held there Wednesday afternoon of last week. Mrs. Rice, president, and Mrs. F.O. Hankinson, arriving early, were responsible for the timely decorations. Mrs. H. Blackadar, convenor for the tea, was assisted by Mrs. Lalla Marshall and Mrs. Eli Comeau in the kitchen; those serving being Mrs. R. Campbell, Mrs. George Sabin, Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mrs. Haight, Mrs. John Dunkley, Miss Helen Taylor and Mrs. Victor MacNeill. The meeting was well attended, proceeds for the tea amounting to over $26.00, while sales from the fancy work table, in charge of Mrs. J. H. Matheson, assisted by Miss Mabel Melanson and Mrs. Cereno Jones, brought $22.00.

Mrs. Teresa Vroom
There was a general feeling of sadness throughout Deep Brook when word was received of the passing at midnight, Saturday, July 8th, of Mrs. Teresa Vroom, who for more than sixty years was a highly respected resident of that place. She died at Digby General Hospital less than a week after entering; and it was there she spent her 86th birthday, Friday, July 7th.

Mrs. Vroom was a daughter of the late John and Teresa (Clarke) Gregg, Saint John, and widow of William E. Vroom, who predeceased her sixteen years. Mr. and Mrs. Vroom were one of the last couples married by the late Rev. William Godfrey, for forty years rector of St. Clement's parish, Clementsport. Surviving are four sisters: Mrs. Ernest Purdy and Mrs. Edwin Pinkney, Deep Brook; Miss Janet Gregg, Saint John; Mrs. Robert Rhynd, Montreal; and one brother, Leonard A. Gregg, Edmonton, Alta.

Mrs. Vroom was a member of the Royal Hotel, Sunday.

Leger Robichaud, of Beverly, Mass., is visiting his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Robichaud, and his sister, Miss Alma Robichaud.

Rev. F. B. Gaskill Addresses Legion

Speaking before the Digby Branch Canadian Legion, in the Digby Hall Thursday evening, Rev. F. B. Gaskill, rector of Trinity Church, gave warning against the stampede that can be expected from Europe after the war. The speaker said that "if Canada's immigration policy is not watched sharply, disastrous results can be expected."

He pointed out that Canada with a population of approximately 12,000,000 could not withstand too great an influx of immigration, from all classes and peoples of Europe. Should the Dominion accept ten, twelve, twenty or twenty-five million immigrants, there was a grave danger of our own national character being completely swamped. In theory, he said, all peoples should be able to live peaceably together, but, in fact, they are not.

The suggestion was that immigration be restricted to those who may come from the British Isles, Scandinavia, Holland and Denmark, and against the acceptance of immigrants from southern Europe where the various races and peoples have a great hatred of each other, a hatred that has lived for centuries, and that will take more than a century to kill. Should these peoples be allowed in great numbers, the possibility of gaining a firm foothold on our national life was not remote, and should they be allowed to gain control it would not be impossible for Canadians to have to live under a regime similar to that as exercised by Mussolini.

He told the Legionaires they were a powerful organization, and that their power would increase in the years to come. He urged them to keep alive Anglo-Saxon liberties, and not allow any position that would tend to destroy our own Canadian National Life.

Thursday night's meeting was in the form of a supper, called to honor those who have been discharged from active service in this war, and those home on furlough. Among those especially honored on this occasion were Lloyd Jefferson, who has been honorably discharged after four years overseas; Pilot Officer James Woolf, who has returned from England and leaves next week for Lachine after a month's furlough at his home in nearby Conway, and Cpl. Donald Rice, R.C.A.F., of Conway, also home on furlough.

Major M. C. Denton, president of the Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion, was chairman of the meeting. Major Denton, who introduced the speaker of the evening, in his opening remarks, welcomed the above mentioned and other visitors, some of whom are also veterans of this war, and had been previously honored by the Legion. Brief remarks were made by James Woolf, Lloyd Jefferson, Donald Rice, J. W. MacNeil, secretary of the Digby Branch, George Devine, of Weymouth, Raymond Langman, of Weymouth, and others.

Barton

Mrs. William Cosman, Brighton, and Mrs. and Mrs. Wynne, of Sea Brook, and Mrs. Scott Grant and Mrs. Scott Jr., and Gordon, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Grant. Edward Landrigan and Ward, and Jack Pream, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Pream. Oscar E. Holmberg and Peter, Miss Helen Ennis, and John Ennis, of Boston, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Ennis.

A donation of the Red Cross held an afternoon tea and food sale at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Lamberton's on Wednesday afternoon. Proceeds amounted to $19.60.

Saw "1944" in The Sunrise

George Trohon, who has been a patient in the Yarmouth Hospital, has returned home. In conversation with the Courier on Tuesday, he told of a unique experience. He said his room in the hospital faced the east and each morning he watched the sunrise. On the morning of July 6, he was particularly impressed with the beauty of the scene. Two or three layers of clouds were purple in color and in between them the predominating color was gold. The sun's rim was just above the horizon. While he was watching some smaller clouds drifted across the gold streaks and through some vagary of the wind formed in distinct figures "1944". They were in sight for fully ten minutes before the rising sun obliterated them.

TOWN TALK

It's hard to keep a good hen out of the news. The latest comes from William Cosman, of Barton. One of his hens laid an egg clearly marked "7 D.N." She laid every day following for a week, then quit. Mr. Cosman then realized that she had given him 7 days' notice.

From the Barton district also comes a tale of lofty rhubarb. A man named Melanson claims that while he feels a stalk of the weed his wife stands by and hollers "Timber" for fear of crushing anyone who might be passing.

Now back to town where the cherry trees are full of juveniles and their faces and the ground below full of cherries. The kids report the raiding the best in years.

Confirmation at Meteghan

An impressive ceremony took place Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the new Stella Maris Hall, used as a temporary church, when Archbishop McNally, of Halifax, administered the Sacrament of confirmation to over one hundred children—boys and girls from ten years and upwards.

When His Excellency entered, the choir sang "Ecce Sacerdos Magnus" during which he blessed the congregation, then he blessed the new hall for religious purposes.

During the celebration of the Mass and the ceremony of confirmation His Excellency was attended by Rev. Father Hebert, C.J.M., pastor of St. Mary's Church Point, and Rev. L. LeBlanc, pastor of Plympton, Father Carroll, secretary of the bishopric, Halifax, was master of ceremonies.

An able sermon was delivered by Rev. Father E. Lachance, C.J.M., of the Holy Heart Seminary, of Halifax, recommending the newly confirmed to maintain their faith in religion, the love of Jesus and to be faithful to daily prayers. Right Rev. Mr. J. E. Bourneuf, D.P., E.V., pastor, and Rev. Fr. Castonguay, C.J.M., pastor at Saultville, were in attendance in the sanctuary.

Rev. A. Theriault, curate, and Rev. J. A. Comeau, Bridgewater, directed the choir. Mrs. Joseph S. LeBlanc was at the organ.

The newly confirmed were assisted, each boy with godfather, and each girl with a godmother, and they were directed by four Sisters of the Sacred Heart Convent. Over six hundred persons attended the ceremony.

MARRIAGE

Lutz - Woodman
Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Woodman announce the marriage of their daughter, Thelma Beatrice, to Austin Burton Lutz, of the R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Lutz, Aylesford. The marriage took place Thursday, July 20th, at Trinity Church, Digby. Rev. F. B. Gaskill officiated.

3 In Family Injured

An eleven-year-old boy, his mother and grandfather are under doctor's care, following two accidents, one at Deep Brook and the other at West Waldec, on Monday. Believed to have been stung by a bee, a young horse bolted in Charles Lent's field, Deep Brook, where Ernest Trimmer and his grandson, Garnet Trimmer, were mowing. Racing into the road, the animal headed for the town with the 11-year-old boy still seated on the rake. The Yarmouth-bound bus was on its way through the town and, faced with a critical situation, bus driver Sutherland promptly got his vehicle part-way off the road and attempted to halt the onrushing horse. His efforts, however, were not entirely successful as the animal charged into the front of the bus, tossing the rake's occupant against the vehicle, and continued on down the road where it eventually was halted by Mrs. Reg Thomas.

Garnet Trimmer was picked up, suffering from severe bruises and concussion is feared, and a short time later his grandfather was found in the hayfield, where he had sustained bruises and shock when dragged by the rake as the horse fled.

At supper time that same night Garnet's mother in West Waldec stepped on an upright spike and the third member of the family was placed under the doctor's care.

A new horse curfew has gone into effect in River Edge, N.J., with the animals forbidden to be on the streets between 10 o'clock in the morning, whether ridden or pulling vehicles. And when they are on the streets horses must carry license tags. The reason: Mayor Martin Ferber says River Edge is being overrun by horsemen from riding academies in neighboring towns.

OBITUARY

Mrs. George H. Frecker

Mrs. Suzanne Marie Frecker died last Friday in Weymouth, at the residence of her son, Rev. Charles Frecker, parish priest. The late Mrs. Frecker, born in St. Pierre, Miquelon, May 10, 1873, was a daughter of Joseph M. Benning and Emma Walsh. Her husband, George H. Frecker, died in St. Pierre on February 16, 1918. Surviving Mrs. Frecker are three sons and one daughter: Reverend Charles Frecker, Weymouth; Sister Agnes Therese, Sister of Charity of Halifax, stationed at St. Patrick's Convent, Quebec City; John O. Frecker, Montreal, and G. Alain Frecker, Secretary of Education, St. John's, Newfoundland. Mass was held at St. Joseph's Church, Weymouth, on Monday at 10:30 a.m. The funeral took place from the Halifax Funeral Home, 90 Dresden Row, Halifax, in time for ten o'clock mass at St. Mary's Cathedral, yesterday morning. Interment was at Mount Olivet Cemetery, Halifax.

Desire Comeau

The death of Desire Comeau occurred suddenly Thursday morning at his home in Grosses Coques. Mr. Comeau was employed at the Meteghan shipyards and had worked on Wednesday and on his car during the evening. During the night he felt ill and he passed away before a doctor could be summoned. He leaves to mourn, besides his wife, five children. Interment took place Monday morning in St. Mary's cemetery at Church Point, Rev. Oliver Hebert officiated at the service.

Alfred B. Seeley

The village of Marshalltown lost one of its most highly respected residents and farmers in the person of Alfred B. Seeley, who died on Sunday evening, July 16, at the age of 86 years and 3 months. He was confined to his bed only a few weeks. The deceased, who was of a quiet, upright charitable disposition, lived in that place all his life with the exception of four years spent in the United States. He was the son of the late Benjamin Seeley, of Argyle, Yarmouth Co., and Mary Ann Andrews, of North Ranee. His father was of Loyalist descent. Left to mourn are his widow, who was Miss Alice E. Marshall, of Marshalltown; three sons, Charles Bernard, of Bear River; Benjamin Alfred, at home; and Thomas William Tobias, of the Canadian West; four daughters, Janet (Mrs. Lloyd H. Wright), Plympton; Augusta (Mrs. Edward B. Smith), Anna (Mrs. Adolphe Jarvis) both of Wrentham, Mass., and Emma (Mrs. Charles D. Kearnes), Annapolis Royal, also seven grandchildren. The funeral service was conducted by Lie. Bernard Maner, pastor of the St. Mary's Bay United Baptist Church, of which the deceased was a member for about sixty years. Hymns rendered by members of the Barton Church choir were "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "The Old Rugged Cross," "Sometime We'll Understand" and at the graveside, "Shall We Meet." The pall bearers were Charles Kearnes, Edward Smith, Lloyd Wright, sons - in - law, and Alfred R. Wright, grandson of the deceased. The remains were laid to rest in the family lot in the Baptist cemetery at Marshalltown.

Rachel Ruth Mullen

The community of Lawrence-town was shocked and saddened when it became known that little Rachel, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mullen had passed away soon after being struck by a car on the street near her home. She was a bright, interesting child and had many friends in the neighborhood. Evidence of this was shown by the largely attended funeral held on Saturday, July 15, from her late home. Besides her parents, she is survived by three sisters, June, Glenna and Prenetta. The service was conducted by Rev. James Dauphinee, of Mahone Bay, a friend of the family, assisted by Rev. C. L. Gesner, pastor of the United Church, Rev. Mr. Dauphinee based his remarks on the passage: "Jesus took the little children up in His arms and blessed them", bringing a message of comfort to the family in the hour of their sudden bereavement. The choir rendered the hymn "Jewels", and four little girls sang "Jesus Wants Me For a Sunbeam." Mrs. Raymond Smith of Port Maitland, and Mrs. Arthur Owens, of Saint John, aunts of the deceased, sang "God's Way Is the Best Way". Interment was in Fairview Cemetery. Pall bearers were Philip and Bernard Hope, Tremaine Stillwell and Arthur Lowe. A great profusion of beautiful flowers were silent testimony of the place little Rachel held in the hearts of the townspeople.

Stewart C. Goldsmith

In failing health for the past two years, Stewart C. Goldsmith passed away at his home in Hill Grove, on Friday, July 21. He was the son of the late William O. and Margaret Lee Goldsmith, of Perotte, Annapolis County. Surviving are his wife, formerly Margaret I. Strang, of Saint John; two daughters, Mrs. Clarence E. Height, at home, and Nursing Sister Margaret S., who has been serving overseas for the past two and a half years, and is at present in Cairo, Egypt; two grandsons: one sister, Mary Goldsmith, of Digby, and four brothers, Benjamin, of Round Hill; Gordon, of Canning; Hugh, of Bridgetown, and Wallace, of Perotte. The funeral was held from Hill Grove Church with interment at Hill Grove Cemetery.

Rainfall Welcomed

Welcome rains fell in Digby town and county Tuesday afternoon and evening, bringing relief to acres of field crops that for the past few weeks have been suffering for lack of water and replenishing water in wells, lakes, streams and reservoirs, which, because of practically no rain for nearly a month, have reached dangerously low ebbs. Nevertheless, the quantity of rain that fell was hardly sufficient to do any great amount of good.

For several days in some areas of the county farmers have been forced to carry water for long distances because wells on their properties have gone dry. Field crops, which got off to a slow start because of an extremely dry May, rallied with the June rains, but are again suffering because of lack of water although farmers state that with a reasonable amount of rain in the near future, fair crops can be expected.

Hay is reported as "only half a crop," and in spite of lack of help, much of the local harvest has been stowed away. The dry July aided the farmers in that they had excellent "hay weather". Unharvested hay crops, particularly on upland fields cannot be expected to rally even with rain—they are parched and tinder dry.

Dry weather has also affected pasture lands and in many cases farmers are supplementing lack of green feeds by feeding mill feeds.

In spite of the dry weather the county has been remarkably free of forest fires. While serious fires have raged in several sections of Nova Scotia, none of any consequence have been reported here.

Waldec

Miss Joyce Wright has accepted a position in Saint John.

The farmers are doing well with their haying due to the fine weather.

Mrs. Ernest Veniot, Aylesford, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Loran Wright.

Mrs. Douglas Trimmer has accepted a position at the Cornwallis Canteen.

Mrs. Mable Hudson, Grand Bay, N.B., and Mrs. Hattie McKinsey, Halifax, called on friends here last week.

Miss Dorothy McGowan and little nephew, Bobbie Beattie, Bridgetown, spent the week end with her grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Rosencrantz.

Mrs. Annie Matheson and daughter, Marilyn, and Mrs. Russell Henshaw and children recently spent a few days with Mrs. Henshaw's mother, Mrs. Ary C. Doty, at Weymouth North.

On July 11 Mrs. Marian Snell received the sad news that her brother, Oscar Jefferson, had passed away at his home in New York. A memorial service was held at Morgantown, July 14, where he was born forty-two years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Jefferson. He leaves to mourn his passing, three sisters, Mrs. Mable Hudson, Grand Bay, N.B.; Mrs. Marian Snell, Waldec; Mrs. Hattie McKinsey, Halifax; one brother, Loran Jefferson, Morgantown; several nieces and nephews. The hymns sung were "Rock of Ages", "Just As I Am" and a solo "Abide With Me" by the Buckler sisters, a request of Mrs. Hudson. The service was conducted by Rev. G. D. Brydon. Burial was in New York.

Making mud pies, Mary Ann Scholes, 11, of Albuquerque, N.M., stuck in her thumb and pulled out a $400 diamond. It was returned to the wife of the landlady, who reported she lost it out of a ring 17 years ago.

Salmon Fishing Being Ruined

To the Editor of the Courier:
Sir:—I wish to draw attention to an existing matter on Salmon River fish offal and gurry is being dumped in large quantities, which must be an injury to the salmon coming into the river. This has been going on all the summer and is the reason why salmon are not being caught here as it is a noted salmon fishing place. Should a Fishery Officer visit the place where this stuff is dumped he would easily know (especially at low water) by the smell.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor.

About This and That

Although full details of the Family Allowance Scheme, proposed to become effective from July 1, 1945, have not yet been announced, it can be gleaned that through this plan the federal government will pay allowances from $5.00 to $8.00 monthly to all children in Canada, whether they are of families of paupers or millionaires. The grants, made to children up to 16 years of age, will vary according to the age of the child, with reductions in cases where there are more than four children in a family. The average allowance is estimated at $6.00 per month per child.

In our opinion this is the greatest mass political bribe in the history of Canada, and can only be compared with the $25.00 per month scheme of the Alberta Social Credit party—the scheme which swept that party into power in Alberta more than a decade ago, although the grants were never paid.

According to press and radio reports to date, no "means test" will be made prior to introducing the Family Allowance Plan. It is suggested the income tax will be used to get the allowances back from the higher income families.

Should such be the case, we can foresee more complicated income tax forms in the future. Furthermore, because of necessary clerical work required to issue monthly cheques for grants to Canada's 3,500,000 children, the average grant of $6.00 per month per child will likely cost the taxpayers of Canada in the vicinity of $6.25 to $7.00 for each $6.00 grant.

And while we have no objection to any legislation that will benefit the children and poor of our country, this proposed scheme will not work any great advantages. In many cases where the money will be most needed, it will simply mean an extra carton of beer for dad and more cigarettes for mother.

Denying the charge of juvenile delinquency, the youngsters are writing essays on what's wrong with the old folks. Now what did we do?

The Turkish situation, with all its angles and implications, infuses a little humor into the war along with more serious matter. To all appearances, Turkey is coming into the war very soon. It would happen naturally about this time, when the Allies have got the Germans just about licked and nobody has any doubt as to the outcome.

The Turks are intelligent people, who can tell which way the wind blows, and on which side their bread is buttered. Sitting astride the Bosphorus and Dardanelles, they wait until they are quite sure who is winning, and then rush in to help the winner share the victory. The wily Nazi emissary, Von Papen, and likewise Hitler may rage and foam at the mouth, but the Turkish flag-pole sitters are probably secure for another quarter-century or so.

And really, you can't blame the Turks. They wore themselves out in centuries of heroic battle, and finally settled down to a policy of living low, using diplomacy instead of guns, building up and modernizing their country. Various other small nations, that are able to choose, might well follow the same policy.

Yes, it is possible to make butter out of grass. All you need is a cow and a churn.

Nazism Is 2,000 Years Old

Once again Solomon is proved correct. He said that there was no new thing under the sun, and as far as the Nazis are concerned, he is right, for Nazism in a familiar form was an accepted fact hundreds of years before the birth of Christ.

The originator of it was Lycurgus, who was known to his followers as the Leader. His people were the Spartans, a name which has come to mean hardihood and oneness of purpose, but which covered also some of the worst principles of dictatorship.

They believed in race purity, and they made quite sure that they got it, for only babies whose bodies were perfect were allowed to live. A census made this decision a few weeks after the baby was born. If it was passed AI, he must face it without then it was returned to its mother to keep for the next seven years. If it did not conform to the rigorous standards set by the Spartan Council, then it was taken to a mountain top and left there to die.

When a boy reached the age of seven his mother lost him to the state for the rest of his life. She was never given any further opportunity to see her son, with the result that in a very short time she lost all trace of him.

The child grew up leading a truly Spartan existence. He was taught how to go without food for long periods. He was flogged, beaten, and barbarically treated for no other reason than to harden him. One main principle was knocked into him by sheer force—never on any occasion must he show weakness. In the face of the greatest trial, strain or pain, he must face it without finching, and to prove whether he had learned, marked, and inwardly digested this principle he was subjected to severe punishment.

One sign of tears or weakness and lessons were continued with increasing hardness until he proved capable of rising above physical pain.

When this lesson had been learned, he was then deprived of food and drink and told to go out and find it for himself.

It didn't matter whether he hunted it or stole it. Either way would develop his reliability — from the Spartan standpoint.

Every moment of his life he was spied upon, just as he was taught to spy on others. This was necessary to make sure that he never fell from "grace."

At the age of twenty his period of initiation was over and he passed into the army. As he was brought up to consider soldiering the noblest occupation of man, this was his only ambition. In between wars he lived like a king. He never soiled his hands with any work further than the cleaning of his equipment, and of course, if he could get a Helot (one of the common people) to do it for him, then he never did another stroke of work in his life.

He took his pleasure where he wished with none to say him nay. He had been brought up to believe that women were created solely for his pleasure, and acted accordingly. There were no complaints from the women, for they too had been brought up on the same principle.

As an army the Spartans were superb, and until their star set, were the finest fighting men in the world. Their upbringing had taught them never, under any circumstances, to surrender. They fought literally to the last man. The battle of the Pass of Thermopylae proved that a Spartan would rather die than give an inch of ground.

They had a short way with

A DEPENDABLE FLOUR FOR ALL YOUR BAKING

Fifth Columnists. Any of the common people who were known to have ideas above their station or who were inclined to doubt the perfectness of the Spartan regime, were just murdered. They didn't just disappear, but were killed quite openly as a warning to the rest.

Like all such systems they did not last very long. The Spartans first jumped into prominence about 500 B.C., and by the time Christ was preaching that the meek should inherit the earth, they were dead and gone. They left no culture, no monuments, no great books. Only their valour remains.

Wrong Number They rub it in on us poor men. Though they know it isn't square. We call the dear things the "sex."

When we know they're so unfair. Hitler promises to "stick with the German people to the end. And that, we understand, has become their chief worry."

A peculiar bird in Western sports a beard.

WARTIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

I bought a pair of children's shoes priced at $1.00. After they had been worn for three days I took them back. The manager said they should have worn them after sending them to the factory they only cost me 54c. credit. What do you advise?

A pair of new shoes certainly last a great deal longer than three days. You could obtain the shoes and forward them to our Consumer Division for consideration. Could you obtain from the store manager for the name of the manufacturer and we will see what can be done.

Will you please advise the cost of the booklet "Instructions for re-making old clothes."

There is no cost for this booklet. We appreciate your interest in conservation and one of our booklets "Reducing Wrinkles" has been sent to you.

I have used all my ration sugar coupons and I like to know if I may destroy No. 3 Ration Book.

No, keep your No. 3 Ration Book. This book contains all your coupons. If it becomes necessary to ration again these coupons will be needed.

I saw a slack outfit displayed in the window of a store. The price wasn't shown in the window and when I asked the clerk I found there was even a price tag on the garment. It seems to me this is a poor protection for the buyer—why the clerk should charge whatever he wants depending, I suppose, on how prosperous you looked. Are there some ruling parties?

Yes, there is. A recent ruling requires price tags on nearly all kinds of men's, misses', children's, and boys' clothing.

Should you get one or two bottles of "Old Colony" maple syrup for one ration coupon?

The ration allowance for maple syrup is 24 fluid ounces per coupon. The standard bottles of Old Colony contain 16 ounces avoirdupois weight which is 12 fluid ounces. Therefore you should receive two bottles for your coupon.

The Consumer Branch of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board will answer any questions pertaining to price control and ration regulations addressed to the Branch at 71 Upper Water St., Halifax.

Get Beauty From Your Milk Bottle

The milk baths of famous beauties—from ancient eastern queens to the modern western queens of Hollywood—probably have made more interesting reading than actual beauty.

For beauty is definitely more than skin deep. It can be acquired neither from bathing in, even pre-war milk, nor from the corner drug-store's cosmetic counter.

Essentially, beauty must come from within. It must be the outward sign of an inward vibrant health.

Which is why we advise you to get it from your milk bottle, and by the internal rather than the external mode of application.

For milk is rich in those very things without which there can be no real beauty—proteins, calcium, all the vitamins, riboflavin, and a number of other things essential to good health and the vitality and physical well being necessary to even ordinary attractiveness and passable good looks.

There is no skin treatment that equals the consumption of an adequate supply of minerals and vitamins which build rich, new blood and keep the surface of the skin free of blemishes while imparting bright, healthy color.

Calcium, iron, vitamin A, B, and C, are all necessary for a good complexion, as well as for lustrous, lustrous hair.

Vitamins B and C are also essential to the all round health and vigour—that lack of mid-Victorian languor—without which there can be no personal charm.

New discoveries regarding riboflavin are constantly being made. And one of the newest, now scientifically tested and accepted, is that most of our eye ailments are due to lack of this element in our diet. It has even been said that if we all had a balanced diet, including plenty of riboflavin, the use of spectacles would be unknown in this country within the next ten years. No one wants tired, watery, lustreless, smarting eyes. Nor defective sight. Nor the beauty marring lines invariably consequent upon the condition.

And what are the experts now recommending as the surest and easiest road to health and beauty? Well, first and foremost, a well-balanced diet. And, at the very head of the list of essential foods, they place Milk, the perfect food which nature has provided and which contains all those elements which health, and vigour, and beauty demand.

Former Granville Ferry Pastor Has Hard Luck

Sympathy is extended to Rev. and Mrs. N. Cole in the loss of their only son, Clarence N. Cole, age 23, R.C.A.F., Radio Engineer, who was killed in a plane crash in Labrador, July 6.

Rev. Mr. Cole was a former pastor of the United Church in Granville Ferry. Four years ago he left with Mrs. Cole and family (one daughter and two sons) to make his home in Port Hood. Two years ago their youngest son, Lloyd, a promising lad of sixteen years, died following an operation. Their only daughter, Miss Margaret Cole, has been a patient in the Kentville Sanatorium since January.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Keith Perry, of Bass River, in the loss of their infant son.

Jean Blackadar and Rowena Bouchie are attending meetings at the Girls' Camp in Bridgewater for a week.

Word has been received by relatives of the death of Mrs. John Hersh, of Saint John, formerly of this place.

The W. M. A. Society, the Mission Band with their mothers, held a picnic on the church grounds on Friday last.

Girl friends of Miss Nita Perry tendered her a surprise party on Tuesday evening, it being her 17th birthday. She received a number of gifts. After games were played refreshments of ice cream, cake and cookies were served.

Mrs. Fred Marshall, of Washington, Pa., has a service blanket on which 200 army, navy and marine emblems have been sewn.

It Pays to Advertise

Willing hands were just too much for Art Smith, who had a couple of acres of strawberries in Saskatchewan. He placed an advertisement in Swift Current's Sun advising people they could come and pick them if they brought their own containers and paid for them by the pound.

Smith's farm is at Saskatchewan Landing in the Stewart Valley region of South Saskatchewan, about 25 miles north of Swift Current.

"I just could not supply the demand," he said. "The pickers came in such flocks the berries were gone in no time."

"I had a good crop, say about 400 cases, and I was worried about getting them off the fields. That advertisement did the trick. I had to turn people away. They came in droves and soon the berries were picked. It was better than letting them go to waste," Mr. Smith said.

Came Well Supplied

A 70-year-old painter in Des Moines, Iowa, arrested on a minor charge, produced these things from his bear, shirt and three pairs of overalls:

Twenty paint brushes, 60 mechanical pens and pencils, 4 putty knives, 17 combs, a 50-foot cord line, road maps, a ration book, a quart of sauerkraut, several lbs. of frankfurters, five pounds of sugar, a tube of shaving cream, a whistle, a gross of used toothpicks, adhesive tape, four flashlights, a razor, bar of soap, three boxes of razor blades, a hammer, six knives, shoelaces, a grindstone, buttons, nails, marbles, safety pins and chains.

In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of a dear husband and father, Haddon Westcott, who passed away July 26, 1929.

Gone is the face we loved so dear, Silent is the voice we loved to hear, Too far away for sight or speech, But not too far for thought to reach, Sweet to remember him who once was here, And who, though absent, is just as dear.

Miss L. Sutherland

Miss in Action

Miss relatives and friends in Bear River and vicinity were deeply shocked when word was received that Capt. Lewis Sutherland, of the Royal Canadian Navy, had been killed in action in Normandy. Lewis was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Sutherland, and grandson of Mrs. J. Lovett and the late Dr. L. J. Lovett. He is survived by his parents and only brother William, L. J. Lovett, since coming from New York, has been the daughter (Dorothy) Mrs. Sutherland and family, being the sad news came. Mrs. Sutherland was just three years old the last of her life. She received her education at Horton Academy, and completed her pre-medical work at Dalhousie Medical College, where, responding to the call of his country, he enlisted in the North Nova Highlanders. He served in England, later being transferred to Canada to receive a commission for which he had been recommended. He returned to England as a Lieutenant receiving his commission on the field. He spent his summers in Bear River at the home of his parents and was a favorite of all who knew him. His ambition had been to follow in the footsteps of his maternal grandfather, who was a splendid athlete and part in many sports, including football. He was a keen and often enjoyed ducking at their camp at Port Jervis on the south shore. He was a keen and after en-

Miss Saint John Officer

Miss Holds Unique Rank

Miss Phillip Emmerson, Commissioned Writer in the R.C.N.V.R., Newfoundland, veteran of 9 years' service as a naval reservist, including active service since the fall of 1939, has achieved a rank in Canada's Navy which is quite literally unique. The 27-year-old officer, whose home is in Saint John, is the only R.C.N.V.R. commissioned writer in the Royal Canadian Navy service, a naval press release from a Newfoundland port points out. A commissioned writer is an accountant branch or paymaster officer, who has been promoted to that rank from Warrant Officer. There are several commissioned writers among permanent forces or Royal Canadian Navy officers but none in the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve, and only one in Miss the wavy-navy, the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve.

Miss The officer's rank and the gold lace rings on his sleeve are the same as those of a paymaster Sub-Lieutenant, and he is equivalent to an Army Lieutenant or a Flying Officer in the R.C.A.F.

Miss The next promotion for a commissioned writer is to the rank of Paymaster Lieutenant, equivalent to an Army Captain.

Miss Promotions are an old story to genial Phil Emmerson, who now is an officer in charge of the R.C.N. Records Office, handling the service documents of all ratings in ships and shore establishments of the Newfoundland Command.

Miss He joined the R.C.N.V.R. in 1938 and was a writer when he went active a month after war's outbreak. He became a Leading Writer in September 1940, a Petty Officer in December 1940, Chief Petty Officer in August 1943, Warrant Officer in June 1943, a Commissioned Writer in January 1944. The officer served 6 months in a destroyer in a North Atlantic convoy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Emmerson, of Saint John. His wife, the former Ruth Bustin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bustin, of Saint John, and two children, live in Bear River, where Officer Emmerson also resided for some time, being stationed at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis.

Miss Word was received last week by Dr. A. B. Campbell that his nephew, "Jimmie" Campbell, son of Dr. and Mrs. Roy Campbell, of Hensall, Ont., was seriously wounded on July 9, in the fighting at Caen. He was with the West Ontario Regiment.

Miss Mr. and Mrs. "Steve" Gehue received word last week that their son, Lieutenant Roy Gehue, of the United States Army Air Corps, is missing from operations overseas. Sympathy is extended Mr. and Mrs. Gehue and family in their sad news.

Miss Word was received by Mr. and Mrs. Elem Darres last week that their younger son, Pte. Aubrey Darres, was wounded in action in Normandy. The telegram stated that he was seriously burned on the right arm and left leg.

Miss One of Our Heroes

Miss (Dedicated to Captain Lewis Johnstone Lovett Sutherland, killed in action in Normandy)

Miss A fair-haired boy stood by my knee. And said, "When I'm grown up I'll be a doctor, like my gramp," and smiled. An earnest, happy, beloved child. As year by year I watched him grow. Into my heart he crept. You know how fast the years fly by. And he no other goal ahead could see.

Miss Each summer saw him taller. Fair he was and charming, dear Unto us all; we loved him so. To man's estate we watched him grow. Alas, these terrifying years Have changed all plans, brought many fears. He did not want to hurt, but heal. Yet on his heart did pressure feel. He must help make a better world. His banner now must be unfurled For Right, for Freedom; then for themes. For healing, and his boyhood dreams. We know he must have led his men With rallying calls—he would not then Be left behind, he always led. Can you not see him there, ahead? He is ahead to lead us too. To show what we behind must do. For we must never let him see That we are lesser clay than he. Oh, brave, dear boy, whose eyes of blue Were clear and unafraid and true. Your short life given in Freedom's fight. Shall soon, we pray, win through to Right.

Miss Yes, "greater love" a wondrous phrase. Shall win for others peaceful days. You and our other splendid men Shall have made a new world again. But we—we never shall forget Your dreams, all unfulfilled; and set Our hearts and lives to higher goals And so make worthy ransomed souls.

Miss 1. "I called it Hay Fever for years. Suffered directly the dry weather started—positively daren't sit on the veranda of an afternoon because of that 'pollen' as I used to call it. It just took all the joy out of the summer.

Miss 2. "Then the new doctor came to the district. I thought he was too young for his job. One day he came in to see Grandpa and I mentioned my hay fever. 'Hay fever,' he said, 'that's not hay fever—it's the DUST!'

Miss 3. "That's just what I say," chimed in Grandpa. 'No wonder folks cough and sneeze with these great clouds blowing in from the road. It's spoiling my crops too.

Miss 4. "Well Grandpa and the Doc. went down to the Council Meeting that very night and thrashed the whole thing out. The Doc. suggested Calcium Chloride. It'll pay for itself in the end, you'll save repairing costs—and you'll all have better health," he said.

Miss 5. "So they fixed the road with Calcium Chloride. That doctor is a smart young chap, I say. That's five years ago and we haven't any more big bills for repairs... and I haven't had any hay fever either.

Miss 6. "Reeve Jackson told Grandpa the other day that the cost of gravel road maintenance in the county is lower than it has been for years. Calcium Chloride treatment saves so much of the labour and materials needed for more frequent blading and re-surfacing in ordinary maintenance! In fact, after paying the cost of the treatment, he said, the county is still to the good, while the road surface is tremendously improved. Grandpa says, it's as plain as the nose on your face—that you can get better roads with Brunner Mond Calcium Chloride, without extra cost."

Hot News

When They Lit Fires to Tell Britons About the Invasion

Had you lived a few generations earlier, news of one of the most world-shaking battles in the annals of the British Army would not have reached you till eight days after it had been fought and won. That was the length of time taken for the news to reach England that Marlborough had won the Battle of Blenheim and rescued England, and indeed all Europe, from the grasp of Louis XIV of France.

So accustomed have we grown to having the overnight's battle dished up with the breakfast that we are apt to forget that piping-hot news is the invention of this century.

In very early times news consisted of little more than travellers' tales, and big events in remote parts of the world did not become known for weeks, months, or even years. There is reliable evidence to show that news of the life and teaching of Jesus of Nazareth did not reach the Scandinavian countries for hundreds of years.

We know for a fact that eight centuries after the Crucifixion the news had trickled through to the Viking bands as they launched their swift craft for marauding raids on these islands. But even then it was very distorted news, and reported that Christ was a martial king of the Romans.

At the time of the threatened invasion of the Spanish Armada elaborate plans were laid to relay the news of its approach throughout the land, and it was arranged that as soon as the fleet was sighted a succession of bonfires were to be lit on all hill-tops from Plymouth to Carlisle.

Similar preparations were made to signal the fateful tidings inland to the units of the First Home Guard when Napoleon threatened invasion in 1803. Several times rumors set the beacons blazing on hilltops, sending the volunteers rushing to arms. But thanks to Nelson and the British Navy all these rumors proved false alarms.

Short of beacons, a mounted messenger with relays of horses was the fastest method of dispatching news before the arrival of the steam power. It took close on a week for a messenger riding full tilt to carry the news of Elizabeth's death to her successor in Scotland James I.

It is not surprising that when printing was invented people were quick to sense its possibilities for circulating news. It is probable that there was a newspaper printed in Elizabeth's reign, but no genuine journal from that century exists. The first English newspaper of which we retain a copy dates from 1662. It was called the "Weekly News" and can be seen at the British Museum.

As these early news sheets grew in popularity, succeeding governments learned to fear their power, and a crippling stamp duty was imposed on every copy as well as a tax on the newsprint. It was not till these duties were abolished by Gladstone that newspapers could be distributed cheaply enough to ensure circulations of more than a few hundred, but from then onwards their increasing popularity was continuous and rapid.

Strange have been some editions of the modern newspaper. Not many years ago there was published at a French seaside resort a paper called "La Nalade." It was printed on waterproof paper so that bathers might read it at their ease while floating in the sea. At about the same time in Madrid appeared "Luminaria." By the admixture of phosphorus to the printer's ink it was claimed that this newspaper could be read in the dark. Another newspaper proprietor, this time in Paris, once sought to increase his paper's circulation by making it serve a dual purpose. He called it the "Mouchotr," meaning handkerchief.

With the advent of radio, it was prophesied that newspapers would soon die out, but in 1926 when newspaper distribution was paralysed by the General Strike, it was found that wireless news was no real substitute for the printed word.

Today newspapers are read more widely than before, and experts consider that they have many years of development in front of them, in spite of their highly organized news service of today.

Mrs. Lloyd Baltzer recently visited her husband, Sgt. Lloyd Baltzer, who is a patient in the Windsor hospital. Cpl. Sherman Rice, who spent his furlough at his home here, was accompanied to New Glasgow by his mother, Mrs. Clifford Rice, who will visit her husband, Sgt. Rice, who is stationed there.

Betty Ritchie, little daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. Vaughn Ritchie, celebrated her fourth birthday recently. Guests of honor were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie L. Bent. Betty's father has been stationed in Newfoundland since April.

A number of friends of Miss Julia Bent, daughter of Mrs. Abram Bent, gathered at her home one evening recently for a social time. During the evening Miss Bent was presented with a coffee table. After a pleasant evening playing games, refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. George Letson and children, Bobby and Hil-da, returned to their home in Saint John on Saturday after spending two weeks with Mrs. Letson's mother, Mrs. W. Swinn. While her, Mr. Letson, who is an ardent fisherman, caught a number of bass near Granville Bridge, one of which tipped the scales at 16 pounds.

He was accompanied as far as Halifax by his parents and brother, Austin, who returned home the following day.

Hitler is Rumored Preparing Hideout

Reports reaching London from Europe say that Adolf Hitler is supplying and arming his headquarters at Berchtesgaden into a "last stand" fortress and plans to seclude himself there.

Berchtesgaden is situated atop a tower-like formation of rock 1,800 feet high in the mountains of Bavaria and can be reached only by elevator. Hitler's political testament, Mein Kampf; important state papers, and Nazi party records are stored there.

Thirty feet above the lower entrance of the elevator shaft leading to the dictator's "eagle nest" are dynamite chambers for blowing up the elevators and strong-rooms.

Since it would not be too difficult for bombers to fly over the castle and destroy it, London observers presume Hitler might use the place as a refuge from his own people, in event of a revolution against the Nazis in Germany, or that he might destroy the whole hideout and himself to escape capture and punishment for his war crimes.

Hitler has spent most of his time at Berchtesgaden since the invasion of Europe. It is said using a powerful radio to direct his armies.

Poultry Plucking Machine Patented by N.S. Government

A machine which has enabled farmers to pluck large quantities of poultry at a minimum of expense and labour is the mechanical poultry plucking machine designed by Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture. The machine, designed by Angus Banting — has been patented by the Nova Scotia government. This was announced recently by the Hon. John A. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture.

Without the services of the machine, the large volume of poultry now being marketed in Nova Scotia poultry pools could not be reached today.

During the summer of 1944, the machine is now patented under Patent No. 421256, dated July 27, 1944.

Mr. McDonald said the machine was patented simply as a protection for farmers and poultrymen. There is now no longer any danger that organized groups would be forbidden the use of the machine because it infringed on patent rights.

Today, about 20 of these machines are being operated in the Province of Nova Scotia by organized farm groups and all of these machines are home-made.

The Nova Scotia government does not royalties from its patent. Farm groups are still free to use one of these machines. Plans which can be obtained from the Department of Agriculture at a nominal charge of five cents to cover their cost.

Following its introduction in 1944, the machine created a wide area of interest in the poultry world. Requests for plans have come from all parts of Canada as well as the United States and England.

This mechanical aid to the old method of plucking poultry by hand has speeded up production tremendously. One man operating this machine can now easily pluck an average of 100 birds an hour — a figure which hand plucking could never approach.

In view of the labor shortage today, it is only this mechanical machine which makes poultry pools possible. The machine has a further advantage in that it can be constructed by any handyman and is designed for home construction, using ordinary garden hose for the fingers which strip feathers from scalded birds at an amazing rate.

The first experimental model was built by Mr. Banting in the summer of 1942 at the Agricultural College in Truro. This was then built out by several provincial poultry pools with Mr. Banting acting as operator and demonstrator. The original machine is still in use today by the Bass River Poultry Pool of Cumberland County.

Big Increase in N. S. Canning Industry

Commercial canning of fruits and vegetables in Nova Scotia has taken tremendous strides in the nine-year period between 1935-44, according to figures released recently by F. Waldo Walsh, Director of Marketing, Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture. Canning of pears, peaches and other fruits has more than doubled while the canning of peas, beans and other vegetables has increased sixfold.

Annual Poultry Meetings Slated For August

The highlight of the year for Nova Scotia poultrymen will be a poultry field day to be held at the Agricultural College in Truro on Friday, August 11th. The event will be increasingly important this year in view of Nova Scotia's rapidly highly-expanded poultry and egg business. The industry has now reached a point where careful planning is necessary and discussion of these plans will probably occupy an important place on the agenda.

The movement of lime and marble from Nova Scotia quarries to other farms is now the heavy record for the summer season, according to Dr. W. V. MacDonald, Director of Extension, Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture. Nova Scotia farmers are ordering their supplies early in order to avoid the possibility of delivery due to congestion and to take advantage of the low price now in effect.

slack period in order to reserve their full time next spring for crop preparations.

Exhibition Plans Show High Praise

Making a revival of interest in rural districts in the County Exhibition, plans for coming shows this fall are showing high promise according to A. B. Banks, Acting Superintendent of Exhibitions, Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture. Many of these annual shows were necessarily curtailed at the start of the war but have shown marked improvement during the past two or three years.

Plans for most of the eleven exhibitions to be held this year are more extensive than those of last season. The Pictou County Exhibition to be held at Pictou during the week of September 18, is being revived after a five year lapse. Buildings and grounds are now being repaired with a race track to be added to the grounds. The Central Nova Scotia Exhibition, Truro, will also show development over the last two years when Field Days replaced the regular show. The show this year will include two days of horse racing.

The oldest rural show in Canada, and possibly North America, will open the fall series. This is the West Hants County Exhibition to be held at the last of August in Windsor. The history of this show dates back to the late seventeenth hundreds, with very few shows missed during that period.

Prices Board Order Regulates Milk Sales

Permission in writing to charge the consumer more than eight cents a quart for milk must be obtained by Nova Scotia milk distributors before August 1, 1944. No action need be taken by those already in possession of such written authority. This regulation is provided under War-time Prices and Trade Board Order No. A-1250 which amends Order No. 195.

Those not having the necessary permission are advised to write W. J. Bird, Department of Agriculture, Truro, N. S., Dairy Superintendent for Nova Scotia who is also Dairy Division Secretary of the Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities.

The amended order affects all persons charging the consumer more than eight cents a quart and collecting the subsidy of two cents a quart through the Bank. It applies in all Country Districts, Villages and Towns of the Province, but does not affect those who already have permission to sell milk retail at a price higher than eight cents.

Copies of the new order may be obtained by writing the War-time Prices and Trade Board, P. O. Box 815, Halifax, N. S.

Butter Production Shows Decrease

Production of creamery butter in Nova Scotia for the week ending July 8, 1944, shows an increase of 5.1 per cent under 1943 according to the weekly report of W. J. Bird, Provincial Dairy Superintendent. Production reached 100,478 pounds as against 105,899 pounds in 1943. Twelve creameries reported. The factory price of butter was still thirty-five cents, f.o.b., Halifax with the local jobbing price at ceiling.

Kandy Proved Handy

Kandy, the ancient capital of Ceylon, has shot into fame through its selection by the Supreme Allied Command as its headquarters in South East Asia.

It is a small picturesque town built around an artificial lake, with an island on which are the remains of a building.

The town lies in a cup of the hills lush with vegetation of which the giant bamboos are the most celebrated. The flowering trees and flowers make it a garden of enchantment. There is a dreaming quiet about the lake with the mountains reflected in its depths.

The past history of Kandy is bound up mostly with its kings, whose atrocities rival those of Hitler. The last king of Kandy was exiled to India after Ceylon was annexed by the British Government; he was the last in a line of 165, and it was the end of an unbroken independence for 2,357 years.

The pride of Kandy is its ancient Temple, housing a sacred Tooth. Pilgrims come from all quarters of the Eastern world for the festival of the Tooth which takes place in August; a week of much tom-tomming, procession of elephants, one of which carries the Sacred Shrine on his gaily-caparisoned back before multitudes of worshippers.

The Tooth has achieved an immense sacredness and has been an object of reverence for centuries. It is deposited under seven caskets of gold and silver encrusted with precious stones. There are three high Temple officials, who all have to be present when they are opened. The Tooth is only exhibited on State occasions.

The Old Palace of the Kings of Kandy is now the residence of the chief civil servant, known curiously enough as the Government Agent. It is related that a Government Agent visiting a French Man-of-War in Colombo Harbour, on sending in his card with this designation in one corner, was told that all the contracts had already been given out.

Neither the Portuguese nor the Dutch ever succeeded in conquering the interior of the Islands. It was left to the British to subjugate. The Kandians, like all hill tribes, are hardy and defiant warriors. They practised polyandry (plurality of husbands) and had a system of legislation in which the women had large privileges.

Kandy has a fairly cool climate and is about one thousand five hundred feet above sea-level.

One of the features of the lake after dark are the myriads of fireflies which light up the bamboo brakes like fairly lamps. Kandyan people are fine art workers in metal. The Old Palace is decorated with figures and heraldic beasts, giving a delightful effect. Kandyan architecture has steeply pitched roofs, and skilfully carved pillars are a feature of its halls and verandas.

Haven't you ever talked over the back fence?

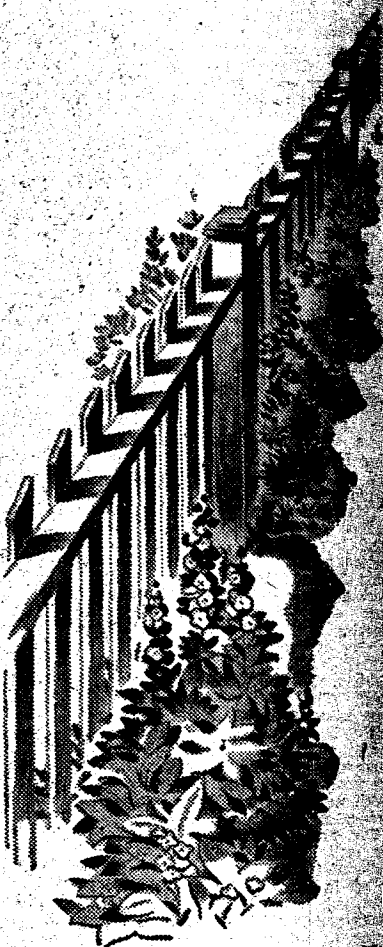

MAYBE you have a neighbour who doesn't know what it's all about when it comes to raising cucumbers. Or perhaps he hasn't a knack with roses. So you tell him what spray to get, or you give him a little lesson in pruning. And next thing you know he says: "I'm certainly sold on that advice you gave me."

And that's how progress comes about. A fellow comes along who knows more than you do about life insurance, for instance, and first thing you know you see a way to protect yourself and your wife and the kiddies, a plan you might never have thought of, yet it seems easy once you start.

If there were no salesmen, hundreds of thousands of people now insured would be without the security they enjoy. So many people put off till tomorrow what they should do today - so many neglect provision for the future. That is why the helpful neighbours who sell life insurance have become such great instruments in the promotion of thrift.

It is good citizenship to own LIFE INSURANCE

A Message from the Life Insurance Companies in Canada

If you were in the prisoner's BOX

If you found yourself in the prisoner's box of a court-room—arraigned before a judge and jury—would you be satisfied to have a layman handle your case?

The man who names, as executor of his Will, a relative or close friend, places himself in a similar position.

No one person could possibly have the experience, impartial judgment, permanence and integrity of a trust organization in handling such matters. . . . And yet the cost—fixed by law—is the same in either instance.

Over fifty years of experience and the complete facilities of our head office and six branches are at your disposal when you appoint us executor of your estate.

Leo Melanson Honored by Church

Leo Melanson, woodworking mill owner, of Little Brook, was highly honored recently when he was presented with the Papal Cross "Croix papale" by the "Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice" by his Excellency Mgr. J. T. McNally, Archbishop, of Halifax, at St. Mary's Church, Church Point. His Excellency congratulated Mr. Melanson for the great work he has done in constructing several churches in Clare. He was the contractor for building St. Mary's Church, which is sometimes called the largest wooden church in Canada, and also built St. Ann's College. The steeple of St. Mary's Church is 190 feet from top to bottom, to give an idea of the size of the church itself. His mill furnished the woodwork finish for the R. C. Churches at Plympton, St. Bernard's, and many other minor alterations to other churches in Clare, beside furnishing the finish work for the new Meteghan Hall, which is being used for religious service since the old church burned down. Mr. Melanson is of quiet disposition, is well admired by his brother parishioners, and is known as the builder of churches and colleges.

Favors Larger School Unit

Members of the Municipal School Board spoke strongly in favor of the larger school unit at a meeting of the board at the Court House, Digby, Monday, with J. Vian Andrews, chairman; Roscoe Handspiker, secretary; and S. E. Woodman, W. F. Cossaboom, W. G. Blackadar, and Inspector of Schools T. A. M. Kirk, attending. The "larger unit" has completed its first year of operation in Digby County.

An acute shortage of teachers, coupled with the deterioration of the present school buildings and the ever increasing demand for higher education, presents a very real problem in the municipality today.

Against this the advantages of the Consolidated School, with its ability to pay highly trained and qualified teachers, ensuring better educational opportunities and a wider scope in the field of specialized training which seems to be the answer to the present day need. The board unanimously expressed their desire to help any who are interested in the Larger School Unit.

Reports and accounts of the various schools were read, and bills passed. It was moved and passed that the maintenance fund should remain at the same figure as last year.

Next of Kin Receives Letter

Mrs. Kenenth Donnelly, of Digby, has received the following letter from Major M. J. Dalton:

H. Q. 4, Adn. Inf. Bde., Cdn. Army Overseas.

"Dear Soldier's Next of Kin: 'You have heard that Kenneth Donnelly F-5042 has received his reward in Heaven for duty to God and country. He was always well respected and liked by his comrades in arms, although not long with us. I officiated today at the burial in the peaceful Normandy countryside, torn by war recently. Ken's jeep received a direct hit from an enemy mortar fire as we were travelling in convoy, July 11.

"May God have mercy on the soul of a gallant soldier and give you all strength to be resigned to the will of God."

American Cousins Visit Digby

Five cousins, all girls, coming from Boston and Andover, Mass., met in Digby last week as guests of Mrs. Paul Yates and Mrs. Enos VanTassell. Several of the cousins had never met before. Beulah and Marion Dennison, daughters of Harry Dennison, who moved from Digby to Andover years ago, met Mrs. Brice Weatherbee and little Claudette Bairt, daughters of Mrs. Claude Bairt, who accompanied them, the fifth cousin being Edith James, now employed at the Yates Studio. Beulah Dennison was born in Digby and Marion in Annapolis Royal, but this is the first time in twenty years they have enjoyed the wonderful summer climate of Digby.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Gladys Wilkins
The death of Mrs. Gladys Wilkins, of Port Lorne, Annapolis Co., occurred at the Digby General Hospital on July 23, after a short illness. Interment was in the Baptist Cemetery, Digby, on Wednesday, with Rev. J. Earle DeLong officiating.

Mrs. Ada F. Eason
The death of Mrs. Ada F. Eason, 76, occurred at Gloucester, Mass., at the Addison Gilbert Hospital, on Wednesday of last week. She was born at Gilbert's Cove on June 30, 1868, a daughter of Samuel and Mary N. (Comeau) Parsons, and had been a resident of Gloucester since 14 years of age. She married Robert H. Eason, who predeceased her several years. Surviving are three sons, Wallace, of Woburn, Mass.; Robert and M. Paul, of Gloucester; two daughters, Mary A. (Mrs. Edmund Deveau), and Mrs. E. Annabelle Sheen, both of Gloucester; two sisters, Miss Anna Parsons, of Woburn, and Mrs. William Lacey, of Holyoke. Funeral services were held Saturday morning with a solemn High Mass of Requiem in St. Ann's church, Gloucester.

Mrs. Beecham Haight
The death occurred suddenly at North Range, on July 18, of Edith Florence, 69, wife of Beecham E. Haight. Although confined to her bed for several weeks, her passing came as a shock to her family and friends. She was the daughter of the late James E. and Annie Haight, and was a life long resident of the community. Surviving are her husband, four daughters, Mrs. Eli Marshall (Gladys), Mrs. Frank A. Haight (Ada), and Mrs. John Haight (Muriel), all of North Range, and Mrs. Guy Brown (Selma), Mount Rose, N. S.; four sons, Roland, of Lowell, Mass.; Warren, North Range; Clarence, of Hill Grove, and Clyde of Weymouth; two step sons, Herman, of South Range and Byron of Hill Grove. One son, Milford, was fatally injured a few years ago by a falling tree. Four sisters, Mrs. Edward Bragg, North Range; Mrs. August Youngblood, New York; Mrs. Covert Wright, Hill Grove, and Mrs. Ira Sabean, South Range, and two brothers, Hantford and Sylvester, residing in Massachusetts, also survive, as do 24 grandchildren and one great grandchild. The funeral service was conducted by Lic. Bernard Manzer, pastor of the North Range Baptist Church, of which the deceased had been a valued member since early youth. Mr. Manzer spoke words of comfort to the family, taking for his text "She is not dead, but sleepeth". The combined choirs of the Baptist and Christian Churches sang the hymns. Pallbearers four grandsons, Gnr. Myron Marshall; L.A.C. Gerald Marshall, Pte. Vernon Haight and Scott Haight. Interment was in the cemetery adjoining the North Range United Church, from which the funeral service was held.

MARRIAGES

Gidney - O'Neill

A wedding of interest to their many friends in the province took place July 29 at the Grace United parsonage, Digby, when Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson united in marriage

Jessie Mae O'Neill, daughter of Mrs. Atkins and the late Frederick Atkins, of Harrigan Cove, to Elmer Lawson

Gidney, of Sandy Cove. The bride was very becomingly attired in a two-piece frock of orchid silk crepe, with trim-ing of a deeper shade, white hat with deep orchid veil and white accessories. Her corsage was of sweet peas and maiden hair fern. She was attended by Mrs. Freeman Wilson, of Digby, who wore an allover printed silk frock with gold color hat and accessories. Mr. Wilson supported the groom. After the ceremony refreshments were served to a number of friends and relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson. Mr. and Mrs. Gidney will reside at Sandy Cove.

About This and That

Dr. Paul Goebbels, Nazi propaganda chief, seems to have turned sanctimonious. He wrote in one of his recent articles: "All nations, including Germany, are longing for quiet and relaxation, national progress, far-reaching social reform, economic prosperity, and undisturbed happiness."

For once the little monster who shapes the German mind is absolutely right. These are exactly the things we are fighting for, the things we long for, the things we mean to have, even if it means hanging every Nazi gangster high as Haman.

Peace, quiet, undisturbed happiness—these are what the coming terms of peace must yield us. This time we plan to make them stick.

You can't afford to be polite to everybody. Some may mistake it for weakness.

The death rate of the Japanese who fought at Saipan was another striking example of their fanaticism in combat. This trait was first observed by white men at the siege of Port Arthur in 1904, where the Japs threw themselves against strong defences in great waves, regardless of cost. They still show the same apparent indifference to death. Recent reports indicate that about 10 Japs are killed to one Allied soldier.

Obviously at this rate the Japs are practically licked before they start fighting. Unfortunately for our own soldiers, the fighting has to be done, and far too many good Allied lives must be lost in spite of the favorable ratio. But the figures are reassuring.

Plenty of people are willing to stick their oar into anything. But not many are willing to pull on it.

Use of lightweight stationery to conserve space on trains, ships and planes, may at first glance seem unnecessary. Nevertheless, one ordinary four-page letter on heavy stationery, weighing half an ounce, will take double the space of one for which lightweight paper, weighing only a quarter of an ounce, is used. Multiply this by millions, it becomes important. For the duration it's patriotic to cut out expensive practices in this as in all other directions.

Postal authorities are always urging writers to write legibly, and to address mail fully and correctly. Observation of these simple precautions was never so important as now to avoid disappointment and delay in the delivery of mail to hundreds of thousands of Canadians uprooted from their permanent addresses by the exigencies of war.

Once a woman reaches the age of thirty, it usually takes her the same length of time to reach the age of forty.

The Stadium Of Death

It stands in the heart of Rome, silent witness of the ages. Three great tiers of light yellow rock arches, marred by the ravages of time.

The Colosseum has been swept by fire and damaged by earthquake; it has listened to the thunder of many armies; and even now it is still one of the world's most wonderful buildings.

It was built very great and yet if you were to find yourself back in ancient days and were to ask for it, even by its Italian name of Colosseo, an ancient Roman would scratch his head and inquire if you meant the Flavian Amphitheatre.

This it was so-called from the family of Flavian emperors and at first was strictly a family affair. The Emperor Vespasian planned it for his amusement and 12,000 Jews, lashed into forced labor, slaved for eight years to carry out his will. He died without seeing it completed, but his sons continued the scheme, and two centuries later, other emperors were still adding the finishing touches.

At the inaugural spectacle in the year A.D. 80 the mighty structure was packed by 100,000 citizens of Rome, and, far above the tiered tiers, bronze-covered sailyards supported awnings to protect the audience from the burning rays of the sun.

When night fell the performance still went on. In places of honor with the emperor were the Vestal Virgins, dainty creatures to whom a kiss would mean death, screaming with excitement as they watched lions, tigers and gladiators in mortal combat.

The spectacle lasted 100 days, and by the end of it the sand and the very stones of the theatre were drenched in the blood of 5,000 wild beasts and thousands of men who lost their lives. It was the first red chapter in the Colosseum's blood-stained story, and it was only the beginning.

Cruelty begets cruelty, and the sight of a man fighting a tiger becomes too monotonous to be enjoyed, so elephants, stags—even giraffes and ostriches—were introduced, and the arena flooded to bring about a novelty in death agonies. As a special titbit, two naked women Christians were hoisted in a net and bulls set loose into the arena.

Soon, thousands of Christians were butchered; as they died, singing their hymn-songs St. Ignatius of Antioch fell on his knees to pray, and St. Vitus and St. Crescentia were among the many who suffered martyrdom.

For five centuries the structure served the barbaric pleasures of the Romans, but time brought its revengeful changes and the barbarians swept down from the north.

The holes which disfigure the arcades to this day were made by a minor Hitler in an attempt to extract the valuable bronze on the awning supports. The gold leaf and silver were chipped away, and by the year 1000 the Colosseum was being used as a fortress by a family of brigands.

By then, too, it had been given its present world-famous name by an Englishman, the Venerable Bede, who came home impressed by its colossal size.

The early Christians demonstrated their victory in the fifteenth century with sacred miracle plays performed in the arena. Part of the structure was used as a hospital, and in another part there was the factory and shop of a sil-

By the Middle Ages, time again wrought a transformation scene, and the Colosseum became a quarry. Thousands of workmen removed its stones, carting away material to help build the medieval palaces of Rome and Venice. Legend has it that some of the stones of St. Peter's and the Vatican derive from the Colosseum. Certainly by the time the quarrymen had finished almost two-thirds of the bulk of the structure had been removed. That is why some views of the Colosseum in 1944 seem to present less than half a building.

At one time over four hundred varieties of wild flowers had sprung up amid the stone benches and women were at work spinning cloth in the grassy arena. Then later, marble for the Forum was refined there in limekilns.

For many years, visitors were kept away by a tribe of wild cats which infested the ruins, but rumor sprang up that the cats were guardians of a Roman treasure and eager fortune-hunters began to pull up the very foundations.

Then, just two hundred years ago, Pope Benedict XIV consecrated the blood-soaked structure for all time as a Christian church. Succeeding popes buttressed and strengthened the sagging walls. Archaeologists brought to light underground dungeons and corridors through which the Christian martyrs had walked to their doom. Near by were found the cages of the wild beasts, and a great water conduit to supply water for aquatic sports; it has also been proved that the floor of the original arena was of wood.

Now in the arena today there only stands a stone cross a symbol of the unconquerable spirit of mankind.

What actually happened no one knows, but several possibilities present themselves, the most likely one being that the hen appropriated the nest of a wild duck and, being in the mood for hatching, retained it by forceful means or otherwise. Perhaps the mother duck had met her death just after having finished laying, the hen stumbled upon the nest at the psychological moment, and being in a "broody" state, decided to carry on.
Perhaps some reader has a better theory to explain this

MARRIAGE

Israel - Bent

A very pretty wedding took place at Granville Ferry United Church on Wednesday evening, July 26, at 8 p.m., when Rev. G. C. Quigley united in marriage Julia Mae, only daughter of Mrs. Abram Bent, of Granville Ferry, to Pte. Ralph Garfield Israel, of Phinney Cove. The church was tastefully decorated with flowers for the occasion. The bride, who was given in marriage by her half-brother, Ewan Rooney, was becomingly attired in a two-piece suit of Queen's blue crepe with white hat and accessories and carried a beautiful bridal bouquet. Miss Ruby Halliday, of Litchfield, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid and was dressed in rose crepe with matching hat. Harold Bent, brother of the bride, acted as best man.
Miss Audrey Gilliat and Miss Marguerite Sarty ushered the guests and friends to their seats and C. Lunnen, of Annapolis, presided at the organ.
After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, where a luncheon was served to about sixty guests.

When The First Ghost Walked

The phrase, "The Ghost Walks," a theatrical expression for pay-day which has been widely adopted, is said to have originated during Shakespeare's early career as a dramatist. He worked in stock company productions of his own plays, directing, acting in small parts, and serving as financial manager. Among these small parts was the Ghost in "Hamlet." On Saturday nights, while still in the costume of the ghost, he would pay his fellow actors.
So "Has the ghost walked yet?" was a question of importance to performers.

Try It In Your Family

(By Lewis Milligan)

When someone approached Lycurgus, with a new idea for a popular government, and suggested that he establish it in Lacedaemon, the Spartan lawgiver replied: "Go, and first make trial of it in thy own family."

That was about three thousand years ago, but human nature has not changed in the meantime, and the advice of Lycurgus holds good today.

I was reminded of that saying recently while reading a chapter on "Social Planning," in a remarkable book by Dr.
Henry C. Link, entitled "The Return to Religion," first published in 1936. Dr. Link is a practicing psycho-analyst and in his book he records numerous cases where people have consulted him about their personal problems.

"One of my most difficult cases," says Dr. Link, "was that of a young woman who was involved, with her mother, in a continuous quarrel with the rest of the family.
These quarrels centered around the ownership of their house and other financial matters, and were becoming
ing up of the family seemed imminent. The young woman and her mother were planning to leave the father and three sons and then to institute legal proceedings for the possession of the house.
In obtaining the histories of the people involved, it appeared that the young woman in question was an ardent advocate of World Peace, and her principal activities centered in the prevention of war. She had taken part in many demonstrations against war."

Dr. Link says he was tempted to ask the young woman,
"How do you expect to stop wars between nations when you can't stop them in your own family?" But he thought that would be useless, and he shortly withdrew from the case because the hatreds and bad habits of all the people concerned were so deep-seated and beyond his influence.

Dr. Link says the psychologist finds that the seeds of war, poverty, and discontent are deep-seated in the inferiority, selfishness, and emotional instability of the individual. "One of the most common symptoms of an inferiority complex or of personal failure is the desire to change the social order, usually in one's immediate environment, often in the world at large."

After all, the test of any social plan is whether it is practicable in the family circle. Lycurgus was right. And yet, as Dr. Link says, "Millions of people, unable to plan their personal or family economy, are now enthusiastic for a Planned National Economy."
Of course, any system can be made to work in the family circle if the head of the family assumes the powers of a little dictator, but it usually ends up in resentment and rebellion.

Lycurgus himself established a sort of socialist commonwealth in Sparta. Plutarch tells us that Lycurgus "taught his citizens to think nothing more disagreeable than to live by or for themselves. Like bees, they acted with one impulse for the public good, and always assembled about their prince. They were possessed with a thirst for honor, and enthusiasm bordering on insanity, and had not a wish but for their country."

That is ancient history, and yet it seems quite recent.
There are no "New Orders."

HERE'S THE MATCH - the terror of the trees!

WOULD you toss a live match on that pile of shavings and paper in the cellar and then unconcernedly turn in for the night! Most certainly not! You'd be inviting a terrible fate for your family, yourself and your home.

Yet you disregard just as elementary a safety rule when you throw a match on the dry pine needles of a forest floor. Many a beautiful forested slope has been made barren and desolate by just such carelessness on the part of a smoker.

The forests of Nova Scotia furnish an essential raw material for war industries. They shelter game. They provide cool shade and restful quiet as nowhere else. So you've simply got to be careful in the woods now. And make others careful, too. That's your job—while our former fire fighters are fighting for you overseas. Therefore take the PLEDGE herewith yourself—and show it to at least three of your friends.

Farewell to Rev. and Mrs. Smith

On Wednesday evening, July 26, Archdeacon A. W. L. Smith and Mrs. Smith were "at home" at the residence of Mrs. Walter M. Romans with the ladies of St. John's Guild acting as hostesses.

About fifty parishioners and friends availed themselves of the opportunity and spent a happy, informal social evening with the rector and his wife, at the close of which refreshments were served and flowers and a very substantial cheque were presented to the honor guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith expect to leave tomorrow to take up residence in their new parish at Maitland, beyond Windsor, and will be followed by the good wishes of St. John's parish, which regrets exceedingly their leaving, but hopes for occasional visits from them in the future.

Visitor From Hawaii

An interesting visitor to the province arrived in Digby last week in the person of Dr. Henry S. Dickson, of Honolulu. Dr. Dickson flew from Honolulu to San Francisco, and thence to Montreal, where he spent twenty-four hours before continuing his trip to Nova Scotia.

He is en route to Sydney where he will visit his mother, and plans to spend a few days in Halifax.

Dr. Dickson played an important part in the defence organization in Honolulu and surrounding districts on the island of Oahu, and following Pearl Harbour, was asked to take complete charge of the district, establishing first aid posts, emergency hospitals, etc. After carrying through this work he has returned to private practice. His organization and executive work has been greatly appreciated by the United States government.

On his return from Sydney Dr. Dickson will be accompanied by his second daughter, Alfreda, who will enter the Vancouver General Hospital to train for a nurse. An elder daughter, Dorothy, has completed her first year of training in that hospital. Dr. Dickson speaks highly of "Canadian Trained Nurses" who have a very high standing in the United States and especially in Hawaii.

Dr. Dickson was met at Digby by Dr. A. B. Campbell, of Bear River. They were classmates and friends at Dalhousie Medical College, and through the years have kept in touch with each other.

MARRIAGE

Crouse - Carter

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Woodstock, N.B., was the scene of a wedding of interest to friends throughout the Maritimes on Saturday at 2:30 o'clock, when Rev. Ross MacKay united in marriage Marjorie Eleanor, daughter of Mrs. T. W. Carter and the late Mr. Carter and Staff-Sergeant John Ronald Crouse, R.C.A.S.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crouse, of Saint John. The church was effectively decorated with baskets of flowers and the guest pews were marked with tiny nosegays of sweet peas and forget-me-nots, tied with white satin bows. Mrs. T. M. McEachren presided at the organ and Mrs. Rufus Holt was guest soloist. The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Robert Carter, looked charming in a two-piece frock of Queen's blue. She wore a tiny model hat fashioned of flowers and finished with a circular shoulder-length veil of net. She carried a shower bouquet of American Beauty roses and bride's bouquet. The bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Crouse, sister of the groom, wore a two-piece frock of Dutch rose taffeta with basque jacket. Her half hat was fashioned of rosebuds, having a finger-tip veil. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses and Baby's Breath. Sergeant Frank Cadieux, R.C.E.M.C., of Toronto, was groomsmen. Ushers were Sergeant A. Colwell and Sergeant G. Powers, both of the North Shore Regiment. Mrs. John MacIntosh, grandmother of the groom, was present. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 85 Franklin Avenue. After the reception

Staff-Sgt. and Mrs. Crouse left by car for a trip to New River Beach. (The groom is a nephew of Mrs. H. E. Harris, Bear River.)

How Many British Isles?

When we speak of the British Isles, we usually think of Great Britain and Ireland, but there are thousands of other islands. There are 500 Hebrides, of which about one-fifth are inhabited, and the Orkneys and the Shetlands have 190 between them, with 57 inhabited. There are 140 Scilly Islands, though people live on only five, and there are great numbers of small islands off the West Coast of Ireland.

Taking all of them into consideration Great Britain and Ireland, the smaller islands, and the islets off the coasts of Great Britain and Ireland, they number about 5,000.

Razor blades are said to last six to ten times longer if they are subjected to daily honing in a tumbler of hot water.

Embalmed in Ice

During the summer of 1919 two Austrians, Beiner and Fudwick, began to climb a glacier in the Austrian Tyrol. They were keen mountaineers and generally spent their summer holidays with rope and pick.

While climbing this particular glacier one of the two men slipped in to a snow-concealed crevasse, pulling the other with him. The sides were smooth as glass, offering no foothold. Both men had lost their picks during the fall and had nothing to cut steps in the ice walls.

After a number of vain attempts to extricate themselves, they realized that the fate which overtakes so many mountain climbers in the regions of ice and snow had overtaken them, too, and they resigned themselves to the inevitable end.

Back in the village from which they began their ascent, friends waited for their return, until at last it was realized that they must have met with an accident. Search parties set out at once, for a man lying injured in those freezing atmospheres does not live very long.

The search parties returned eventually without having found any trace of the missing men, and they were presumed dead.

The next episode in this tragedy occurred in 1935. A guide taking the same path that Beiner and Fudwick had trod sixteen years earlier noticed a dark object at the foot of a crevasse, and, peering down with the help of a torch, saw two men sitting in the ice, playing cards. Each man held a pack of cards in his hand, while a pile of cards, face upwards, lay between them.

They were soon identified as the missing climbers, and from their attitude it was clear that once they found they could not escape they sat down to a final game of cards until the freezing hand of death claimed them. The ice forming round them had preserved their bodies perfectly.

They are still there and will remain there, as young in appearance as when they died until the glacier, moving slowly but inexorably into warmer temperatures, delivers the bodies.

By timing the movements of a glacier and noting the direction it takes, it is possible to tell almost to an hour how long it will be before a body is delivered. This unusual branch of science was started by Professor Hugi in 1837.

Such prophecies were so amazingly accurate that it was possible for relatives of people entombed in a glacier to travel to a certain spot on a certain day and be sure that the body would be delivered on time.

As an instance of this, take the case of an English officer, Henry Arkwright, who was caught by an avalanche of snow and ice while ascending Mount Blanc on August 22nd, 1866, and hurled into a crevasse from which escape was impossible. Expert scientists informed his family that his body would be delivered exactly thirty-one years later, and also told them the spot where it would be found.

On August 22nd, 1897, his sister climbed to the spot indicated by the experts, which was more than nine thousand feet from the place where Arkwright met his death, and on that day the body was recovered. It appeared less than fifty feet from the spot the scientists had worked out. Glaciers move at varying speeds. Just before the war the body of an Italian soldier in a uniform that was one hundred years old was cast up.

One of the most tragic "re-unions" took place a few years ago. Nineteen years earlier a honeymoon couple named Webster were climbing the steep Fiescher Glacier in Grindelwald, when the bridegroom stepped on a thin film of snow over an unseen precipice and Mrs. Webster returned that night a widow. Nineteen years later a frail, grey-haired woman went back to find her husband, who, as the ice returned him, looked young enough to be her son.

Service Girls Get Good Food Habits

All across the country thousands of young Canadian women in the services are forming good food habits and learning lessons in dietetics in the feeding of their own families throughout the years that are to come.

For the first time in the lives of many of them, they are eating scientifically balanced meals, abundant in healthful vitamins, minerals and proteins.

And they like them! For surveys show that they follow these good eating habits even when at perfect liberty to choose their foods as they please.

Consciously or not, these women are learning an invaluable lesson—the feeding of their future families with nutritious foods that will build a stronger, healthier, better Canada.

And with these women, Ice Cream is an overwhelming favorite. Like the men they get it as part of their regular diet—with all its wealth of proteins, calcium and vitamins.

These women are learning that Ice Cream is not only a delightful dessert but is a nutritious, balanced and essential food. That is a lesson that they will never forget and one that they will carry with them on their return to home making in civilian life.

The consequent improvement in the food habits of the nation is one of the benefits which we shall derive from our being engaged in the present dreadful conflict.

Prices of Early Apples

Retail prices for early apples will be somewhat lower than those which prevailed last year, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board said last week in commenting on a revision of its order setting ceiling prices for this product.

No ceilings were in effect for early apples last season and sales of the main crop were not brought under price control until October 1.

There is no charge in the mark-ups allowed wholesalers and retailers, and the Board emphasized that the new order applies only during July and August.

All pulpwood price ceiling orders of the W.P.T.B. have been amended to allow payments of higher prices when the wood is purchased by a mill through established dealers or brokers, A. H. Williamson, timber administrator, announced recently.

Earlier orders of the Board, Mr. Williamson explained, fixed maximum prices which could be paid for pulpwood by the pulp and paper companies at delivery points. The prices covered all charges including commissions. Under the new orders the maximum prices are unchanged, but dealers may add a charge of 40 cents per cord for handling rough and 60c. per cord for peeled pulpwood. Brokers' commissions are 75 cents and $1 per cord for rough and peeled pulpwood respectively.

The changes are expected to stimulate production from farmers and settlers through the assistance given by brokers and dealers in financing and arranging transportation and will help in maintaining fair distribution of wood among the mills. It is not anticipated that the overall cost of pulpwood to the consuming companies will be greatly affected since the amount of purchased pulpwood is only 20 per cent of the total used. The provinces affected are Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

All dealers and brokers will be licensed by the Timber Control, the basis of classification being the quantity of wood handled in 1942 or 1943.

Revealed by War Lost Treasures

During General Montgomery's sensational advance across the desert, many treasures that had been buried for centuries were brought to light. One beautiful villa, ancient pottery, and other items that a collector would have given a fortune to own, were uncovered by shell and bomb.

One of the Eighth Army men was an authority on this ancient land, and he said that valuable discoveries were made during the sweep into Tunis.

After one particularly deadly bombardment a small villa that must have been buried beneath the sand for many centuries was uncovered—and the remains of what looked like a human being were found.

When the Germans blitzed the City of London their bombs brought to light many ancient Roman remains that archaeologists had suspected were in the square mile of the City.

St. J. McNeill, Inspector of Ancient Monuments for Wales says that archaeologists are anxious to get to work on the finds before rebuilding commences in the capital. Very little is known about ancient Roman London, and it is hoped to prepare a picture of it from the information uncovered by Luftwaffe bombs.

Roman remains were found from twelve to twenty feet beneath the ground. They survived the Great Fire of London in 1666, and dozens of enemy bombs fell upon them before the blast finally blew away the covering soil.

It would cost $10,000 to excavate the remains of what experts believe to be Roman London, but it is believed the results would richly repay such a venture!

In various other ways the war has been responsible for the unearthing of treasures. When Richard Eises, of Guildford, England, for example, began digging in his garden with a view to erecting an Anderson shelter, he never dreamed that he would discover treasure.

During the course of excavating his pick struck a hard surface. He thought it might be a piece of rock, but "something" made him refrain from striking again. A careful investigation revealed a piece of 14th-century church pewter plate. Today this is worth a great deal of money and many dealers would like such a piece. But its discoverer hopes one day to see it placed in the new Guildford Cathedral.

One of the most amazed men in the world was a Frenchman who discovered he was wealthy after he had just escaped death as a result of a bomb, and at the same time lost his home!

When the Germans were advancing through France an enemy bomber unloaded over Lyons, and hit the house where the Frenchman was sheltering in the cellar. The building was badly blasted and one wall was cracked. From this wall there streamed hundreds of golden louis, which some think were probably concealed there by a French aristocrat in the 18th century. He is, about the only one who can say he is richer because his house was bombed.

1. "When we were your age we wouldn't have thought of driving in the summertime without some kind of protection from the dust. Your Grandpa wore a dustcoat and I had a linen coverall. Even then we used to come home with plenty of dust on us and on the car."

2. "The dust behind every car that passed us was like the tail of a comet and you didn't swing out to pass anything for fear of meeting something coming through the dust, the opposite way."

3. "The things your Grandpa used to say were awful. But I couldn't blame him. In fact I used to say the same things under my breath—that is if I had any breath left after a few miles driving."

4. "Yes, that's the dustcoat that your Grandpa uses now when he works in the henhouse, and I wore out the coverall around the house. You see there's no need of them now, since they fixed the road with Calcium Chloride. No dust, no dustcoat and no coverall!"

5. "Getting rid of the dust has made a pile of difference in these parts. The crops are better, driving—even with the truck—is safer and we don't spend half our time in the house with a dust mop. That Calcium Chloride is good stuff right enough!"

6. "Fred Hall, our county engineer, told me the other day that it cost practically nothing to make the road dustless with Calcium Chloride. He said that the cost of the Calcium has been more than paid for by the reduction in maintenance costs." "My men spend less time re-spreading gravel and leveling", he says, "and with labour scarce this makes things a whole lot easier for everybody. I've been getting all the bouquets", he says, "but the praise should go to Calcium Chloride. That's what did the trick!"

Dairy Food Necessary

With the practice of successful Nova Scotia farmers, C. Eric Boulton, Provincial Animal Husbandman with the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, recently reminded dairy farmers that late July and early August is the season for supplementary feeding of dairy cattle on pasture. This season usually brings on an annual feed crisis as feed, and sometimes water, is scarce and flies are plenty.

The farmer who has planned early and well is ready to face the problem with a variety of nourishing and succulent green feed. Corn, Oats, peas and vetches) alone, buckwheat, soybeans and other similar feeds are very satisfactory for this period of the year. In some cases it is possible to have cut clover available.

These feeds may be fed by cutting in the field and feeding them in the pasture or they can be moved easily, and can be harvested quite satisfactorily by the cattle themselves so that no feed is wasted.

If no preparation has been made for the dry spell, then supplementary feeds are necessary. Mill feed, home-grown hay with hay or some other roughage for bulk, may be added to the ration. During a dry spell, such as that now prevailing, pastures cannot produce sufficient bulk or necessary nutrients, especially protein.

Not only the question of a sustained milk flow figures in the need for supplementary feeding. Perhaps more important is the general welfare of the dairy herd. The dairy farmer is well aware that when a cow drops in her milk, and that drop is carried on for any length of time then it is impossible to regain the quantity until the cow again freshens.

Production during the fall and winter period of cows that have freshened prior to the dry spell, depends upon the flow of milk now being carried. Udder glands only function with a supply of satisfactory food and other favorable conditions. If this is not done, milk production drops and cannot be regained until the cow again freshens.

Even though it might cost more than is profitable to produce milk at the present time, experienced farmers know that this is profitable in the long run. The careful farmer figures his costs and profits on either the basis of annual production or better still, the life production of his cows.

Dry cows and young stock will stand a certain time of rather poor feed, provided it is not too long. Cows that are on the last part of their lactation might well be dried at this time of year and allowed to build up a supply of food in their bodies.

This will make for cheaper milk and butterfat production after the calf has arrived.

Shade from the hot sun, fresh water and some protection from flies will be a big help during this present period, but will not overcome the necessity of a well balanced and palatable ration. This is simply a matter of good farm business judgment and practice.

Hog Producers Have Trouble

Recent reports received by the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture indicate that several Nova Scotia hog producers are experiencing trouble with young pigs being fed in self-feeders. The young pigs often do not thrive and become sick.

Provincial Veterinarian Dr. R. I. Hancock, recently pointed out that this trouble may result from weaning the young pigs at too early an age. Good results have been obtained to date, in treating sick pigs, by a simple remedy. The pigs are taken from the feed and placed on wet feed. If skim milk is available, this is added.

Sickness in the young pigs probably develop when the animals are switched to suddenly from the sow to dry feed at an early age. This can usually be overcome by providing a creep for the young pigs at about three weeks of age. By using the creep method of feeding, the young pigs gradually become accustomed when the time comes to place them on dry feed from self-feeders. The creep should be placed so that the sow will not have access to this supply of feed which is only for the young pigs.

Generally speaking, pigs which have not been weaned for six weeks or more, do much better than pigs weaned at four weeks of age. Trouble sometimes develops in this later class. Even pigs of two and a half and three months of age, which are being raised on self-feeders and which are not thriving, can be improved by changing them over to wet feed.

British Interested In Nova Scotia Farming

Another story from Nova Scotia Farm News has won serious consideration in Great Britain. A while ago, the British Ministry of Food sought further information about the plucking machine designed by Professor Angus Banting, which had been written up in Farm News. Now, according to word just received from A. R. Milne, Canadian National Railways Department of Colonization and Agriculture, London, the British National Federation of Women's Institutes has become very much interested in the sewing machine clinics carried on in the past year under the direction of Miss Helen J. Macdougall, Women's Division, Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Milne clearly indicates the interest being taken over there in agriculture on this side of the water. "Your department," he states, "sends your Nova Scotia Farm News to us regularly, and it is much appreciated, in keeping us in touch with agricultural and rural developments and conditions in Nova Scotia. The issue of the eleventh of December last carried a note on sewing machine clinics. Thinking it might be interesting, and suggest something similar in Britain, I have passed this on to the Secretary of the National Federation of Women's Institutes. A story on these clinics appeared in their paper, 'Home and Country,' April issue, a copy of which I enclose for your Farm News."

The pleasing and interesting story above referred to follows:

"Women's Institutes in Nova Scotia, Canada, have solved the sewing machine repair difficulty by attending Sewing Machine Clinics which are held at their request by the Women's Division of the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Department's Agricultural Engineer. We are told that machines enter the clinic badly out of condition, most of them unfit for use and emerge bright and shiny and 'rarin' to go'."

"It has been suggested that similar clinics might prove useful in this country. What do readers think? Leicester-shire has already taken action by devoting a whole day of their Make-do and Mend courses to the care and use of sewing machines. An experienced demonstrator from a well-known machine company came through the Education Authority and taught members how to clean and oil each part, how defects could occur and how to remedy them. New and old machines were fully explained and the machine accessories demonstrated, especially the darning. Reports since received show that members have been able to set their own machines in order and have also been able to help other housewives."

Poultry Pools Have High Production

Production of Nova Scotia's cooperative poultry pools to date this year is over 60 times as great as for the corresponding period last year, according to C. M. MacMillan, Poultry Products Inspector for the Province. Since the first of June about 125,000 pounds of poultry have been marketed through the pools as against only 2,000 pounds for the same period last year. The bulk of this production is fowl, with the greater part of this going into storage.

According to an officer's report from Burma, parachutes which are used to drop supplies in the jungle are being used as bedclothes.

MARRIAGE

Davies-Comeau

A marriage of interest to a wide circle of friends and relatives took place Tuesday morning of last week in the Stella Maris Hall, Meteghan, when the pastor, Right Rev. Mgr. J. E. Bourneuf, united in marriage Jeannette Comeau, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Comeau, of Meteghan River, and P.O. E. G. Davies, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Davies, of Durham, England. The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in white satin with accessories to match. Her sister, Miss Leona Comeau dressed in blue, was bridesmaid, and P.O. Paul Burke, uncle of the bride, was best man. Mrs. Joseph S. LeBlanc was at the organ, Arthur Robichaud directed a choir of young ladies, and A. F. Hache was soloist. After the ceremony breakfast was served at the home of the bride, after which they left for a wedding tour. They will reside in Shelburne. Previous to the wedding—on Monday evening—a shower was given at the Hillside Inn. Mrs. Eva Comeau, of Meteghan, was pianist, and R.C.M.P. Martin rendered several solos. The bride has been employed on the Clare Shipbuilding Co.'s staff who presented her with a silver tea set.

Mrs. A. W. L. Smith was guest of honor at a tea given by members of the Red Cross in their rooms at Clementsport on Wednesday afternoon last, about twenty-five members being present. Mrs. Smith has been president of the Red Cross for the past four years and leaves shortly with her husband, Ven. Archdeacon A. W. L. Smith for their new parish in Maitland, Hants Co.

Mrs. Smith was presented with a Kenwood blanket and a sum of money. In presenting the gift, Mrs. Hartley Marshall read the following verse and expressed general regret at Mrs. Smith's departure from the village. The best wishes of all go with both Mr. and Mrs. Smith for happiness in their new home and work.

We all went together
To greet you this way,
And we all went together
To get this today,
And we all went together
On our good wishes, too,
And with all of us wishing They're bound to come true.

Mrs. Smith responded in her usual gracious manner. A short business meeting was held previous to the tea, with Mrs. Smith in the chair. At this time Mrs. Hartley Marshall was appointed president and Mrs. Wilfred Curries, convenor of the Ways and Means Committee.

Train Derailed

Shaken up, but quite unharmed passengers on the Yarmouth-Halifax express on Wednesday last when the last of the cars (all passenger cars) suddenly left the rails at Upper Clements, two miles west of Annapolis Royal.

The cause of the accident is reported to have been caused by the intense heat of the sun which expanded the rails. Late in the afternoon passengers en route across the Bay of Fundy were brought to a halt for some time. Mails and Halifax daily papers were transported to Digby by other means. It was not until late in the evening a train came through en route to Yarmouth.

The west-bound train returned to Halifax after transporting passengers and baggage from the wreck. Train No. 100 was made up at Annapolis Royal and left that station 40 minutes behind schedule.

Normal train service was resumed on Friday.

Roll Call Service Held

The annual Roll Call service of the Christian Church at Southville, was held Sunday evening, preached by Rev. R. M. Johnston, was very impressive. The Honor Roll placed in the church was in memory of all the boys who are in active service. Mrs. M. Cosman, of Weymouth, unveiled the roll as she has four sons, one son-in-law and also a brother-in-law in the service. After the unveiling the congregation stood and bowed in reverence while the pastor offered prayer in thankfulness to God that so far their boys had not been a casualty among them and trusted in God that in the future they would all return safely home.

Hymns sung at the service, requests of the soldier-boys, were "When The Roll is Called," and "Will the Circle Be Unbroken." A request was sent in by Alma Brier, of Middleton, in memory of her father, the late Alpheus Marshall, "Pass Me Not"; Nancy Wagner Helms requested "In the Sweet By and By" in memory of childhood days when sung in the church, and a solo sung by Mrs. George Wagner.

The church was filled to its capacity.

MARRIAGES

Toms - Morgan

A wedding of wide interest took place at the Deep Brook Baptist parsonage on Thursday afternoon, August 3, when Rev. T. F. McWilliam united in marriage Stoker 1st Class Harry Bernard Toms, of H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, formerly of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Toms, Toronto, and Norma Isabel Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Morgan, of Toronto. The bride, who was charmingly dressed in Queen's blue with hat to match, arrived in Deep Brook, August 1, and will remain at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chute for the remainder of the month. Stoker Earl Rylett, a boyhood friend of the young couple, witnessed the ceremony.

Newman - Post

A wedding of naval interest with Reverend Dr. T. W. Hodgson, pastor, officiating, took place in Grace United Church, Friday evening, when Wren Margaret Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Post, Emerson, Man., became the bride of L/Smn Stanley Ernest Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Newman, Windsor, Ont. The bride, who looked very smart in her Navy uniform, was given in marriage by Lieut. Richard Lynch, and attended by Wrens Diana Priestley, of Yorkton; Grace Alcorn, of Toronto; Doris Kechn, of Port Arthur, while L/Smn C. J. Kelly supported the groom, with L/Smn W. Greenley and R. Ball as ushers. During the signing of the register Lieut. Thomas Kynes rendered the solo "Because," accompanied by L/Bdm Clifford Clark, who also played the "Wedding March." The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, with red and white flowers. The mothers of the bride and groom, Mrs. E. Post and Mrs. H. Newman, respectively, attended the ceremony. About seventy-five guests attended the reception in the dining room of the Myrtle House, which was gaily decorated with many flowers. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Lieuts. Shaumessy, Caruthers, Lytle, and Sub-Lieut. Tredgold acted as hostesses. After the reception the happy couple left by taxi to spend a short honeymoon at Sandy Cove. The bride was attired in a suit of lipstick red with fawn topcoat.

F. R. Zoppi left Tuesday to spend a few days in Moncton.

Angus Haynes Victim of Tragedy

The body of Angus Haynes, a Victoria Beach fisherman, was found a short distance from the Port Wade Pier on Sunday afternoon. Haynes, who was a man in his late forties, lost his life by drowning, on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

It is reported he was standing in the stern of a motor fishing boat returning from a dulse expedition. The craft had just rounded the end of the pier at Port Wade to come into its berth, passing under ropes by which other boats were tied to the wharf. One of these ropes apparently caught the unfortunate man and knocked him off balance, causing him to fall into the water.

He was not seen alive again, although a sailor on one of the training craft tied up at the pier, stated he saw a body floating under the pier shortly after the accident. However, the remains were not found until Sunday afternoon in spite of an extensive search conducted under the direction of the Bridgetown detachment of the R.C.M.P.

It is thought that in his fall Haynes suffered a blow on the head which rendered him unconscious. The body was viewed on Sunday by Dr. L. B. Braine, coroner, of Annapolis Royal, and by the R.C.M.P., and removed to his home at Victoria Beach. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon by Rev. E. Hopper of the Baptist Church.

Mr. Haynes was unmarried, and was a son of Rachael and the late Stephen Haynes. Beside his aged mother he is survived by three brothers, James, Ira (Sr.) and George, all of Victoria Beach, and one sister, Mrs. Lydia Haynes, Digby.

Thousands See "Meet the Navy"

On Monday and Tuesday evenings thousands attended the return engagement of "Meet the Navy" in the drill shed at H.M.C.S. "Cornwallis." This popular troupe played in the same building eleven months ago and since then have toured Canada from east to west. They put on a delightful show—one very popular with all classes of service men (and civilians, too). It is colorful, entertaining and amusing, and full of variety. The program is largely the same as that of their previous engagements but there are one or two changes. For instance, they are now presenting a splendid "tumbling" act—and believe us, that act goes over big. We missed the ventriloquist of last year—she was good—but the new acts make up for what has been taken out. We understand—although we have not heard officially—that this was to be their last appearance in Canada for a time and that they will shortly go overseas to entertain the troops there.

Mrs. B. J. Dolling, of New York, Harry F. S. Snow, of Jamaica Plain, and Patsy Height, of Worcester, are visiting in Digby.

Rev. A. W. L. Smith Expresses Thanks

The Editor of the Courier:

Dear Sir:—As it has been impossible for me to personally meet and thank all those who have expressed in so many ways their regret at our parting, I would like to take this opportunity of expressing my sincere thanks: to the members of The Order of Good Cheer, Annapolis Royal, for their presentation gift; to the brethren of The Keith Lodge, No. 16, Bear River, for the gold signet ring; members of St. John's congregation, and friends, Bear River, for their reception and purse; Upper Clements congregation for their purse; friends in Deep Brook for surplus and purse; those donating towards reception and purse from Clements; members of The Deanery of Annapolis for their gift; and also for individual gifts, letters and money from former parishioners and friends (not all of my own congregation) in Bear River, Deep Brook, Victory, Clements and Annapolis Royal.

To you, Mr. Editor, I wish to express my pleasure for the cordial relationship always existing between us and to thank you for this space.

Sincerely yours,
Ven. A. W. L. Smith

TOWN TALK

People here talk about almost nothing but the heat last week, and her's some of the words they used to describe it: terrible, awful, beastly, wicked, killing, terrific, cruel, unbearable, etc. Eleven "grab bag" thermometers consulted ranged from 61 to 108 degrees and averaged 89.007 degrees.

An ice truck from Conway two miles distant, arrived in town empty, but all wet, proving they didn't forget to load it.

People everywhere reported they couldn't sleep but only toss and twist and turn and squirm, and flounce and roll and gasp and groan all night. One man turned his pillow so often that he finally expired and got several winks as a result.

Staff Sgt. Sidney Smith has been transferred from the Yarmouth Military Hospital to Camp Borden-Military Hospital, Ontario.

OBITUARY

Gilbert Thomas Moore

The passing occurred at Digby General Hospital early Thursday evening, August 3, of Gilbert Thomas Moore, Clementsport. He had been ill a month and entered the hospital ten days ago. Death was caused by a lung condition resulting from a wound received in World War No. 1, where deceased served four years. Mr. Moore was born in Cape Breton 49 years ago, and following the death of his parents while he was a very young child, he was brought up by an aunt, Mrs. A. Brunt, in Halifax. Later he spent several years in the United States, coming to Clementsport 11 years ago, where he was assistant postmaster, and managed a taxi business. Mr. Moore was a member of the B.E.S.L., Annapolis Branch, also of the Masonic Order. He is survived by his wife, formerly Birdie G. Miller, of Annapolis Royal. The funeral, with Masonic rites from St. Edward's Church, Clementsport, took place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. E. B. Gabriel, of Annapolis Royal. Burial was in Clementsport cemetery.

Memorial Service At Sandy Cove

A memorial service for the late Gnr. Sidney Raymond McCullough, Royal Canadian Artillery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McCullough, of Sandy Cove, was held on Sunday evening, August 6, in the Zion Church. A large gathering of friends attended the service to do honor to one of their own lads, who gave his life in the service of his country, being killed in action in Italy on the evening of June 26.

The church service was conducted by the minister, Rev. Arthur Thorpe, who had for his text, "He saved others, himself he could not save." The musical part of the service was under the direction of Mrs. Blair Dakin. Two solos, "Beside Still Waters," and "Peace, I Leave With Thee" were beautifully rendered by Miss Mabel Trask.

Recently another memorial service was held in his honor by relatives of his family in the First Methodist Church, Lynn, Mass., with the Rev. Arthur Hopkinson officiating. Camp Parker, British and Canadian War Veterans of Lynn, were represented at the service.

Gnr. McCullough has two brothers also in the service, Gnr. Roy, of the R.C.A., serving in France, and L.A.C. Russell, R.C.A.F., Greenwood.

Dollar Sells at Bargain Price

E. C. Webber, local auctioneer, officiated at an auction sale held at Deep Brook last week for the benefit of a colored family who recently met with the misfortune of having their home destroyed by fire. Pies, cakes and other items brought good prices on the auction block, but, when auctioneer Webber offered a $1.00 bill to the highest bidder, he was more than surprised when the bill was "knocked down" for $1.50.

Annual Service At St. Edward's

The annual memorial and decoration service will take place at St. Edward's Church, Clementsport, this year, Thursday afternoon, August 17. The speaker on this occasion will be the Rev. H. H. Hoyt, R.C.N., chaplain at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis.

Timothy Gaudet has returned to his home in Winnipeg, Manitoba, after visiting his sister, Mrs. Hugh Amero, Acaciaville. On his return he was accompanied by his niece, Miss Louise Amero, for an indefinite stay in Winnipeg after visiting in Montreal, Ottawa and Leonard, Ont., en route.

Eugene Sanford Prisoner of War

Word has been received that Eugene Sanford, son of Mrs. Bessie Sanford and the late Harry Sanford, Clementsvale, is a prisoner of war. No further details are known here. Sanford was reported missing during the early days of the Normandy invasion, and advices were received the glider in which he and others were travelling, failed to reach its destination. Apparently the glider came down in an enemy occupied district.

William Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Berry, Clementsvale, also reported missing, is thought to have been in the same glider with Sanford, although no further word has been received to date.

Tiddville Boy Killed In France

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Raymond, of Tiddville, have received word from France as to the nature of the death of their son, Pte. Glendon Raymond, who was killed in action June 6. The message was as follows:

"Your son's career ended suddenly a few hours after landing in France, and was the first casualty in his company. We had stopped prior to our push inland and everyone was 'digging in' when the enemy put down Mortar fire on our area. The first bomb landed in our locality and a large piece of shrapnel struck him in the chest. Everything possible in medical aid was given, but he passed away bravely and peacefully a half hour later."

No Time to Shave

The Digby Fire Department was called out Saturday evening for a small blaze, apparently started from a cigarette butt, on the Long (Government) Wharf. The fire was extinguished within a few minutes. There was no damage. This is the third such fire within a few weeks.

The "story" however, is not the fire—it is the speed in which fire truck driver Fred Muise got his apparatus to the scene. The siren had scarcely ceased blowing when the truck was out of the fire hall and on its way to the blaze.

At the time the alarm was sounded, Freddy was at his home in the midst of shaving. He arrived at the fire with one half of his face shaved, the other half still white with lather.

Successful Supper Held

The annual Supper and Sale of work sponsored by the ladies of Trinity Church, was held Thursday evening in the Parish Hall.

An excellent supper was served and the sum of $300 raised. Proceeds will go to Trinity Guild to be used for church purposes.

Community Fair To Be Held

An "old time fiddlers' contest" will be one of the events to be featured on the programme of the Community Fair to be held shortly on the grounds of James Rook & Son, Hill Grove. Decision to hold the fair again this year was made at a well attended meeting of the Maple Leaf Agricultural Society, held in the Acaciaville Hall, Monday evening. The Maple Leaf Society, who have sponsored the fair for the past two years will again be its sponsors.

Raymond LeBlanc, Agricultural Representative for this area, was present at the meeting, and reported Digby County has been placed on the Educational Film Circuit.

A. W. Prime, principal of the High School in Hannah, Alberta, arrived last Wednesday to visit with his mother, Mrs. Annie E. Prime and sister, Mrs. B. J. Ruggles. Mr. Prime was originally from Freeport.

DIGBY ACADEMY RE-OPENING

THE DIGBY ACADEMY and COMMON SCHOOL will re-open on WEDNESDAY, the sixth day of September, 1944, when all pupils of School age are expected to be in attendance.

Parents and Guardians of children registering in the Digby Public Schools for the first time are required to attend the registration before school opens. The Principal will be in his office in the Academy on Tuesday, September 5th, from 2 p.m., for the purpose of receiving early registration. Please note that the Objector's Certificate or Health Certificate MUST BE RENEWED EACH YEAR.

New High School students and New Common School students should register on September 5th.

All students to come on September 6th with pencil and note book.

By order of the Board of School Commissioners of the Town of Digby.

H. A. NICHOLS,
Secretary

Dated August 9th, 1944.

Building Activity In Digby Approaches Boom Days

Perhaps not since the boom days that preceded 1929 has there been as much activity in civilian construction as there is within the town of Digby at the present time. Many buildings are in various stages of completion, while others have been finished. Still others plan to build or make extensive alterations as soon as men and materials are available.

Among buildings nearing completion at the present are the modern new Nurses' Residence at the Digby General Hospital, construction of which was made possible through the generous gift of $10,000 by J. Hary MacLean; the new St. Patrick's School which adjoins the convent. Construction on this building was started in the early summer. It is expected the three storey structure will be ready for use by next month; the large addition to the Digby Dairy Ltd. plant is also nearing its final stages of construction.

Work on the large addition to the vestry of the Digby Baptist Church commenced recently, and forms in which the concrete will be poured for the foundation, have been built. The building recently occupied by Digby Business College, and purchased a short time ago by R. R. Baxter, local grocer, is undergoing extensive alterations. When completed Mr. Baxter will move into this new stand.

Extensive alterations are also being made to the store in the Shreve Block, occupied for many years by Miss Mary Clinton as a confectionary store. Miss Clinton retired from business about a year ago. The store will be used as a restaurant.

Additions to the Navy League Hostel have been completed, as have alterations to the former Webber's Lunch, operated as Cornwallis Cafe, under a new management. In addition to these there are probably a dozen houses, cottages and other smaller structures in various stages of construction.

About This and That

Permission to excavate beneath the blitzed areas of the City of London is sought by the Council of British Archaeology and it may not be long before passers-by will be able to see, written in ashes, the history of three great fires.

This is what archaeologists expect to find; a layer of ashes—Boadicea's fire; two or three layers of Roman houses; three or four layers, developing into the Saxon period; unbroken layers leading up to mediaeval times; then another layer of ashes—the Great Fire of London; more layers, and capping it all, the ashes of this war's fires. From these strata archaeologists will be able to piece together the life history of the people.

It is unfortunate that so many citizens in this country are demanding something for nothing. It is even more unfortunate that they are getting it.

About forty Canadian cities and towns have adopted cities and towns in the Soviet Union.

In general, adoption implies collection of materials, such as clothing and hospital equipment, which is shipped through the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund, and setting up a regular exchange of information between organizations and individuals in the two cities. This takes the form of photographic exhibits, samples of Canadian craft, writing and art. The city of Fort William has prepared a pictorial folder with captions and texts in Russian and sent it to Poltava, the Soviet city adopted by Fort William.

A library of music by Canadian composers, sent to Moscow by the National Council for Canadian-Soviet Friendship, is reported to be receiving wide attention. The Council has been advised that David Oistrakh, leading violinist of U.S.S.R., and professor of the Moscow Conservatory, intends to include some of the violin compositions in his concert repertoire. The Council is now preparing comprehensive material on Canadian art.

How strange that organists are paid to work the stops, while saboteurs are paid to stop the works.

ELEMENTS OF SUCCESS

Man cannot be satisfied with mere success. He is concerned with the terms upon which success comes to him.
—Charles A. Bennett

The most important thing for a young man is to establish a credit — a reputation, character.
—John D. Rockefeller

A man's true estate of power and riches, is to be in himself, not in his dwelling, or position, or external relations, but in his own essential character.

Newcombe - Watts

A marriage of interest to many in the Maritimes, was solemnized at the United Church parsonage, Collingwood, on July 30, when Christabel Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Watts, became the bride of William Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burgess Newcombe, of Nappan. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride was attractively gowned in a street-length dress of Queen's blue sheer. She was attended by her sister, Frances, who wore a street-length dress of dusty rose crepe. The groom was supported by his friend, Gerald McKay, of Nappan. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Later the bridal party left on a short wedding trip, after which the groom will return to Aldershot Camp, where he is now stationed. (Rev. W. H. Watts is a former pastor of Grace United Church in Digby, and Christabel was born in Digby during his pastorate.)

WOMEN PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN INVASION PLANNING

Thirty women, specially selected for their mathematical ability, were responsible for the whole of the work involved in calculating what war materials would be needed for the invasion.

Clarence Adams returned to his home in Arlington, Mass., on Wednesday, after spending the past two weeks as guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Warren.

Mrs. John Wightman and children, of Caribou Mines, and Mrs. Frank Wightman and son John, of Smith's Cove, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Green on Friday.

Mrs. Harold Burrett, of Montreal, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Fred Harris, for some weeks and will be joined by her husband, Lieut. Barrett for the coming week end.

Mrs. Robert Rowter, Sr., of Maitland Bridge, visited her son, Dr. R. M. Rowter, last week end; leaving Monday for Kentville where she visited her daughter, Mrs. Carol Cunningham.

Mr. and Mrs. B. R. McCarthy and little daughter, Phyllis, with their guest, Miss Phyllis Chittick, of Halifax, spent the week end at Lake LeMerchant. They were accom- panied by Mrs. C. W. Jefferson and family and Raymond Yould, of Annapolis Royal.

The property owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hewey has recently been purchased by Mrs. L. M. Stewart. Mr. Hewey has purchased a home in Smith's Cove where he with his family will reside in the near future.

Mrs. James Hole and son, Jimmy, who are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Purdy, will remain in the province during the month of August, owing to the outbreak of poliomyelitis in the United States, which has reached serious proportions in many districts.

Rev. B. G. Quimby, of West Head, was in the village on Wednesday last, and will be greatly missed by his many friends, when, at the end of August, he leaves for Whitefield, New Hampshire. Mr. Quimby hopes to make a short visit in Bear River before leaving the province.

Mrs. Frank Cashman, of Prinsedale, is spending a few days with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Potter.

Young Walter Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Harris, was a patient in the Digby General Hospital last week for removal of tonsils.

Sgt. Everett MacLeod, R.C. A.F., who has been spending a month's leave with his parents after recently returning from four years' service overseas, left for Ottawa yesterday.

Mrs. John MacLeod was a patient at the Digby General Hospital last week for a short time, having had a minor operation on her foot. She returned home where she will be cared for by Mrs. Ethel Smith.

William McDermott arrived home Thursday from Montreal and Halifax having received his honorable discharge from the Army in which he has served for four years, arriving home from overseas about six weeks ago.

Mrs. F. H. Hatheway has returned to duty with the R.C. A.F., near Victoria, B.C., feeling that by so doing she will be carrying on for the man whom she replaced; also repaying in some measure, the kindness shown to her by all the members of her unit, through the time of her great anxiety and sorrow. Young Harold, serving with the R.C. N., came East to resume his training as wireless operator.

Friends of Mrs. Henry Sullis (the former Hattie Chisholm), of Smith's Cove, will regret to know that she has been a patient in the Digby General Hospital, but glad that she is showing marked improvement.

The property on Main St., formerly owned by the Frank Jones' estate and recently purchased by Kenneth Sanford, has been thoroughly renovated, making an attractive appearance and adding improvement to the town's business section. A very desirable apartment has been made in the upper storey and is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Anslow, of H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, and Sanford's Meat Market is operated on the lower floor.

Mrs. Evatt Lewis and her wee son are visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. (Dr.) R. M. Rowter, where the baby was born. Mr. Lewis, who is with the R.C.A.F., but just now stationed at Greenwood, was also a guest, returning to duty shortly after the arrival of his young son. Guests at the same home recently were Miss Marion Christie, R.N., of Halifax, and Mrs. Fader, of Maitland Bridge, who returned to their respective homes after a short visit.

MARRIAGES

Ruggles - Harris

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the Deep Brook Baptist parsonage on Tuesday evening August 1, when Rev. T. F. McWilliam united in marriage Calvin Charles Ruggles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ruggles, of Clementsvalle, and Marion Jean Harris, daughter of Mrs. Murray Harris and the late Mr. Harris, of Bear River. The bride was prettily dressed in a two-piece dress of royal blue with hat to correspond. The young couple were supported by Mr. and Mrs. Murray E. Potter, of Clementsvalle. After a brief honeymoon, the groom will return to Sussex, N. B., where he is employed with a pulp company.

Bent - Cook

A very pretty garden wedding took place August 8th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis R. Cook, Lighthouse Road, Digby, when their second daughter, Dorothy Pearl, became the bride of Laurie Armstrong Bent, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bent, Tupperville. Rev. J. Earle DeLong performed the ceremony beneath an archway of white wedding bells and red roses. To the strains of the wedding march played by Eileen Marshall, cousin of the bride, the bride entered the garden on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was beautifully dressed in a floor length gown of white crepe and wore a heart shaped veil tipped with lily-of-the-valley. Her bouquet was of lilies and fern. Her only ornament was a string of pearls. The matron of honor, Mrs. Ralph Garland, sister of the bride, wore a floor length gown of baby pink taffeta, and carried a bouquet of roses and fern. The flower girls, Phyllis Cook, sister of the bride, and Charlotte Bremner, were dressed in blue organdy and carried bouquets of sweet peas. Eddie Nauus, H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, supported the groom. The bride's mother wore a two-piece suit of navy blue crepe with white accessories and a corsage of sweet peas, while the groom's mother was attired in a street length dress of black flowered crepe and black accessories. The guests were ushered to their seats by Eugene Handsaker, among

Church Celebrates

On Monday the Church of the Nativity at Sandy Cove celebrated its 100th anniversary of its consecration by Bishop Inglis. A special evening service was held in the church (which was beautifully decorated with red and white roses for the occasion) in which the clergy of the Diocese of Annapolis took part as special guests. The guest speaker was the Rev. E. B. Gaskill, rector of St. Luke's parish, Annapolis Royal, taking as his text "One place wherein thou standest is holy ground," he preached a splendid sermon that was an inspiration to all that heard it.

Rev. F. B. Gaskill, rector of Holy Trinity parish, Digby, conducted the service and the lessons were read by the Rev. S. F. Beck, of Granville Ferry, and the Rev. R. Y. MacLean, of French village. J. B. Hobbits, student in charge at Sandy Cove, was master of ceremonies. The church was filled to capacity for the service.

Prior to the evening service the visiting clergy, parishioners and friends were entertained at tea by Dr. F. E. Rice, Church Warden, and Mrs. Rice. The clergy were also supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Merritt. Mrs. Merritt is president of the Ladies' Guild of the Church. Those from out of town being Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bent, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bent, Mrs. L. C. Dargie, all of Tupperville, and Miss Rita Height, Saint John. About 40 guests attended the reception on the lawn, where the bride and groom cut the wedding cake. Hostesses were Mrs. Donald Young, Mrs. Clyde Bremner, while the Misses Evelyn Hayden, Kitty Burnham and Hazel Franklin served. After the reception the happy couple left for various parts of Nova Scotia, the bride travelling in a light navy suit with white accessories. They were the recipients of many lovely gifts, among them a $60 cheque from the groom's parents and a chest of silver from the bride's parents.

"I guess it's up to me!"

Now that I can go I'm not going to stick around and let the other fellows do it.

Bill and Jack went over last week, and Fred's been over there a year. Now it's my chance.

It's going to take months of training before I can get fighting-fit, so I'd better get moving today.

Yes sir! I'm going now, to tell Dad and Mom that I'm on my way to sign up.

INVASION FASHIONS

By Chris Gould in "Answers"

Three men sat at a great round library table, drawers and secret compartments of which held the key maps and documents of a nation at war. "We shall need a triumphal arch," said one man. "If we start to build it now before the event, it will have a tremendously encouraging effect on the people."

"Let's have the device 'The Road to London' in large letters above it," said the second man. "It will cheer the armies on."

The third man had been a corporal before he became a great military figure and a potential invasion chief, and he had a practical turn of mind. He said:

"We shall need plenty of foreign money. Can we fake it here so that we can distribute it when we invade London? No, I have an even better idea. We'll have a Victory Medal — something symbolic of us overthrowing the British — Hercules overthrowing a merman — yes, that's it. And we'll have 'Struck in London' on the medal, so that all the fools will think the Victory Medal was our first act on entering the capital."

The three were not Hitler, Goering, and Goebbels, though their psychology of war-time propaganda has changed little. The corporal of this occasion, planning his cross-Channel invasion of Britain, was Bonaparte. The other his advisors, Deboisgeline and two at the conference were Layeux, and the year was 1803.

It was a year when many of the present much-discussed secret invasion weapons were first known. Invasion barges, rockets as aerial weapons, fake money to upset currency of the invaded country (as used by Hitler), extensive sabotage schemes, Commandos — they'd thought of them all by 1803, the year of the Peace of Amiens fiasco. Yes, there were peace fiascos then too.

Since 1798 the idea of invading Britain had taken root in the overheated brains of France's dictators, but serious preparations were not made until five years later, when the Amiens affair gave Napoleon the incentive to attempt wiping Great Britain off the political map of Europe by entering London with an invasion army.

"Let us be masters of the Channel for six hours," he said, "and we are masters of the world!"

Flat-bottomed invasion barges were ordered. Henry Kalsar, who builds warships in America today, is only following the example set by Napoleon's French peasants. Entire villages were set to work in the forests on the borders of the highways to cut and prepare the timber for the barges.

The triumphal arch was erected in Picardy, complete with the superscription as suggested by Layeux. "The Road to London," and through the arch they marched, cheering and carrying the hand-carved transoms for the barges being fitted together on the coast. They thought it was all over bar the fighting, and flags lined the route to the Channel bearing the device: "A good wind and thirty hours." They thought it was as certain as that.

But the experts had a few tricks in case the British Navy offered unexpectedly heavy resistance. The most sensational of these was known in London as the French raft. It was not a well-kept secret, for the raft had been sighted at St. Malo during early tests in February, 1798, and an engraving publisher in the Minories produced a fantastic etching of the raft within a fortnight.

It is very doubtful if the raft ever floated as pictured in the engraving. A fanciful degree of exaggeration was probably added by the current fear of the coming French "Second Front." Facts given at the foot of the picture have been highly colored by the Fifth-columnist who brought the design over from St. Malo.

The French raft was reputed to be 600 feet long, 300 feet across the beam, and was propelled by four paddles driven by windmills above deck.

In the centre of the raft was a covered section grandiosely named the "Grand Citadel," and reputed to be bomb-proof. There were drawbridges at both ends of the raft, but hardly large enough for the total strength of 15,000 troops alleged to be carried aboard, together with 500 pieces of cannon, 36 and 48 pounders, as well as horses to provide power to turn the paddle-wheels if the windmills were shot away.

It is doubtful if the full-size

Appeal for Harvest Help

Arthur MacNamara, Director of National Selective Service, has made an urgent appeal by letter to all employees in Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritimes to grant employees temporary leave of absence for work on local farms whenever it is possible to spare them.

Also, Ontario employees are urged to release men who can be spared, to go to the Prairies for harvesting there later on, under the Dominion transfer plan.

It is felt that the logging and pulpwood industries in these provinces may be in the best position, because of the summer slack season in logging operations, to release a large number of workers for the vital job of harvesting of farm crops, so that a special appeal to curtail summer woods cuts has also been made. Fruit, vegetables, and other farm produce must be saved by harvesting when ripe, it is urged.

The appeal for emergency harvest help will likely be extended to employers in the Western provinces as the later western season approaches.

Richard MacAlpine

The death of Richard (Dickie) MacAlpine occurred on Monday, July 31, while swimming in the waters of the town reservoir dam at Lockport. The body was recovered. He leaves to mourn his father, a member of the Merchant Navy; two sisters, "Teddies", telegraph operator at Lockport, and Madeline, at home; three brothers: George, serving with the army, and Hugh and William, at home. He is a grandson of Ernest Germaine, Digby.

raft would have floated, and still more doubtful if it could have crossed the Channel under its own power. Any possibility of a raft invasion of Britain was finally removed October 21st, 1805, by Nelson's victory at Trafalgar, which smashed French power at sea.

But the Paris-made dies for the "Victory Medal" bearing the legend "Frappe a Londres (struck in London), 1804" were not wasted! A few medals were struck, and now have collectors' value. The rockets which were to have been fired across the Channel to set light to English south-coast village roofs went damp with the delay. Eventually the stale gunpowder was scraped out of the rocket containers and sold to owners of shotguns.

Napoleon had his Commandos, too, for several abortive attempts at single-handed coastal landings were made. A coastal strip almost as extensive as our own 10-mile banned area was nightly scoured for intruders, and beacons were put up so that they could blaze an alert if the enemy tried a full-scale landing. But the "Road to London" stopped at the coast.

The Channel has not always proved a bar to invasion; it did not stop William the Conqueror. But this time, thanks to our command of the sea and air, and the many ingenious types of landing craft specially designed for the job, the Allied Armies have crossed this obstacle with ease.

According to the director of prison industries, work worth $10,000,000 has been done in British prisons since war began.

A pine tree growing in the has such straggling interlocking branches that the English call it, quite appropriately, a monkey puzzle.

Check Your Furnace Now

These hot summer days are the best time to give your furnace some thought. The cellar is usually the coolest spot in the house, and this is the only time of year furnaces can be given a complete overhauling.

It is a good idea to see that the furnace is in wartime fighting trim. Both furnace and fuel are at a premium. Coal is a vital war commodity and a shortage of sheet steel is cutting down on furnace production.

Nine times out of ten the doors need a little attention. A badly fitting door permits unwanted air to enter the furnace and cool off heating surfaces. Consequently you find yourself burning more fuel than you need to.

Any visible cracks should be filled with furnace cement.

Sooty pipes reduce draft and act as an insulation, preventing heat from being most effective.

If your furnace is beyond repair, get your application for an essential certificate into the Wartime Prices and Trade Board at once. Since the supply is not expected to meet the demand, persons who need a new furnace and are late in applying may not be able to buy one for this winter.

MOST HARMFUL BIRDS
Unlike the majority of British birds, the wood-pigeon, the carrier crow, and the house sparrow are most harmful, according to the Ministry of Agriculture. They destroy foodstuffs and growing crops and do little or no good to the farmer.

Mrs. Ida Amoro is visiting relatives and friends in New Brunswick.

The Misses Virginia and Arlene Stanton have returned home after visiting friends at East Ferry.

Pte. Willie Thibault spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thibault.

Wayne Smith, small son of Major and Mrs. Kenneth Smith, has returned from the Digby General Hospital, where he underwent an operation for the removal of tonsils and adenoids.

The Mount Allison Music Centre recently received the certificates from Mount Allison University for the pupils who took the piano examinations earlier in the year. The marks are: Grade I, Albert Theriault, 71; Grade II, Muriel Nichol, 72; Grade III, Margaret Grant, 64; Grade IV, Yvonne Theriault, 68 and Charlotte Thurber, 85 (honors).

A bad fire started on Saturday, August 5, in the woodland between and back of the homes of Fred and Warren Lent. How the fire started is not known, but the Weymouth fire engine was used and a number of men and boys worked for six or seven hours, before the blaze could be put out. Watchmen watched during the night and all day Sunday someone kept an eye on it to see that it didn't start up again. Had it reached the road, around ten homes would have been endangered.

Weymouth Boy Killed Overseas

The Honor Roll for Weymouth in this present war, has added another to its list in the person of Freddie Mullen, age 19 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Mullen.

One of the Reserves for the North Nova Scotians in Normandy, Freddie had only been overseas since April 30, 1944, and was killed in action July 10, 1944. He enlisted August 20, 1941, and prior to his enlistment in the active army he was in the Reserve Army at home and also served three months in the Merchant Navy. Besides his parents, he leaves to mourn their loss one sister, Mrs. Hollis Kimble, Royalton, N.B., and one brother, Oscar, at home.

July An Unusually Dry Month

The rainfall for the month of July at the College Station, Truro, amounted to 1.53 inches, this as compared with 5.04 inches for last year and 3.20 inches for the thirty-four year period, or it was approximately half the average. Of this amount 1.09 inches fell in the last five days of the month. The maximum temperature was 86 degrees. It reached 80 degrees or above on eleven days. The minimum temperature was 38 degrees on the 19th.

The government Meteorological Station at Nappan reports the rainfall for the month of July amounted to 1.19 inches, while the 32-year average for July is 3.03 inches of rainfall. Rain was recorded on ten dates, six after the 24th. The lowest precipitation on record for July at this station was in 1933, 29 inches.

Dr. W. V. Longley, Director of Extension, N. S. Department of Agriculture states the month of July was thus a dry month with rain coming in the last week. It was an excellent month for work and haying went forward rapidly when one considers the labor situation. Hay has been stored in excellent condition. The crop varies from light in the South Shore and western parts of the Province to medium in the Valley and central sections to good in the North Shore area and many parts of the east. Haying is already well along in the western and central parts of the Province. Early grain is already ripening and while it is headed out low, prospects are for a good crop. Early potatoes in the Valley are yielding light due to the very dry weather. Most potato fields though are looking well and the recent rains will materially aid. There are no reports of blight as yet. Root crops are variable. Many sections report excellent, while others have failed to get a good stand and it has been too dry for development. Truck crops are coming on well and early vegetables are on the market.

Recent rains will materially help in the apple district where a big crop is in prospect.

Butter Coupons Postponed Again

Reasons for postponing valid dates of butter coupons 72, 73 from August 3 to August 10, include the fact that butter production this year is down 5 per cent while butter consumption has increased 16 per cent. Canada's butter production was down 5,000,000 pounds at the first of July.

Consumption of fluid milk has increased. And nine quarts of milk are needed to produce one pound of butter. Canada, too, has tremendous commitments to send cheese to the United Kingdom.

This is also the season when reserves for the fall and winter period of low production are built up, the Board points out.

Quota users have had their butter reduced, in line with the consumer reduction. Apart from this, the armed services in the Dominion have voluntarily reduced their butter consumption by 12 per cent.

Because the tiny, wheel-like flowers of the scarlet pimpernel close as a storm approaches, the English call the plant poor man's weatherglass and shepherd's barometer.

Spraying has been well done and the coverage good. The crop is a clean one with very limited insect damage.

Digby Woman Killed

Death of Mrs. C. E. Walker Shocks Town

The death of Mrs. C. E. Walker, which occurred suddenly Thursday night, came as a great shock to relatives and many friends.

Mrs. Walker, formerly Muriel Walker, was born in Chippenham, England, and came to Nova Scotia in 1911, making their home in Digby. An active member of the community she was well known and loved by many. A member of Trinity Church she was active in its Women's Auxiliary and Dorcas Society, also a member of the Women's Committee of the V.O.N., secretary of the V.O.N., and worked on the V.O.N. Committee of the V.O.N. She was a member of the Red Cross.

ACCIDENTAL

A coroner's jury enquiring into the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. C. E. Walker, in the Court House at Digby on Monday evening, returned a verdict of accidental death caused by a fractured skull. Mrs. Walker was fatally injured in a taxi accident early in the morning near Warral.

The inquest was presided over by C. L. Emerson, coroner. The attorney-general was represented by E. J. Henneberry.

Witnesses were heard, the coroner being Constable Gray of the detachment of the R.C.M.P. A statement which was read by G. E. Sanford, a son of the victim, and which read the preliminaries in the case.

W. F. Lumsden, an intern attached to the staff of the Saint John General Hospital, told of the accident receiving a call at approximately 12:40 on the morning of August 11. The call, he said, requested the ambulance to come to a point on the road between the Saint John and the Warral. On arrival at 12:45 a.m. on arrival at the scene of the accident they found the car on the left hand side of the road headed away from Saint John, and in direction of Fredericton. Several people arrived at the wrecked car by 1:00 a.m. and the intern was directed to the back seat of the Plymouth sedan where Mrs. Walker was lying diagonally across the back seat of the car. She was not alive.

OBITUARY

Minnie Campbell

The death of Miss Mary Alice Campbell, better known among her many friends as "Minnie," occurred after a week's illness. Born in Digby, Miss Campbell, age 79, was a daughter of the late John and Lavinia Jane Campbell, and has lived the greater part of her life in Digby. A devout member of Grace United Church she was active in most of the church societies and was for years a teacher in the Sunday School. Surviving are her sister, Mrs. Nyrone S. Calkin, of Concord, New Hampshire; two brothers, Hallet J. of Patterson, New Jersey, and Ezra S. of Mahwah, New Jersey, and several nieces, nephews, cousins. Funeral services were held at Grace United Church Wednesday afternoon with Rev. T. W. Hodgson conducting the services. Interment was in the family lot at Fairview Cemetery.

Mrs. Mande Doucet

After a long and painful illness Mrs. Mande Doucet, of Cape St. Mary's, formerly Marguerite Gaudet, the last of the family of Anze Gaudet and Elizabeth Saulnier, of Meteghan Centre, age 89, passed away on August 10, at the residence of her only daughter, Mrs. Jeremie (Helen) Comeau, of Beaver River. She was married first to Mande Comeau, of Meteghan, secondly to Henri Comeau, of St. Alphonse de Clare, and her last husband, Mande Doucet, predeceased her several years. Funeral service with High Mass of Requiem was celebrated Saturday last by Rev. Father Maillet, pastor in the St. Vincent de Paul Church, Salmon River. Miss Marie Maillet was at the organ; Miss Isabelle Maillet and A. F. Hache, of Meteghan, directed the singing. The Society of Les Dames de Ste. Anne, assisted in a body. Mrs. Norman Deveau carried the banner and Mrs. Jos. L. Deveau, the cross. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Edmund P. Deveau, of Meteghan, had charge of the burial and Joseph Comeau, of Meteghan, and Emile Saulnier and Tesselin Gaudet were bearers.

Robert Leo Butler

A useful life, devoted to many worthy causes, came to a sudden end August 4th, in St. Joseph's Hospital, Saint John, with the passing of Robert Leo Butler, age 53 years. He became ill a few weeks ago, and his condition became steadily more serious. Word of his untimely passing brought genuine expressions of regret from many citizens in various walks of life. Mr. Butler was a life long member of the Catholic Church, a faithful attendant, he was always ready to render services in any or all of its affiliations and was for thirty years director of St. Peter's Choir. He was a well-known merchant in Saint John, having been in business there for many years, also leaves many friends in Nova Scotia, where he spent some time each summer visiting relatives and friends. He was a son of the late John W. and Mary Butler and leaves to mourn a sorrowing wife (formerly Miss Aleta Outhouse, Tiverton); one daughter, Miss Mary Butler; five sons, Garfield, naval service; Leo, R.C.N.V.R., wireless operator; Paul, Merchant Navy; Eugene, R.C.A.M.C.; and Gerard, R.C.A.F. overseas; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Garnet, Halifax and Miss Martha Butler, Saint John, and one grandson. Floral tributes were many and beautiful. Funeral took place from St. Peter's Church on Monday and was largely attended. Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Resigns From Committee

At the regular monthly meeting of the Navy League Hostel managing committee, held on Monday evening, the resignation of L. E. Shaford, as chairman of the Entertainment, was received and accepted with deep regret. Mr. Shaford has done a real job with that committee and the success of the Hostel is, in a large measure, due to him. All the other business transacted at the meeting was of a routine nature—the reception of reports, etc., and preparing plans for the winter's activities.

hands and arms badly cut and bleeding. He went immediately to enlist aid and after several futile attempts managed to get aid from one of the neighboring farmer's. Before many minutes three other men passing in another car stopped and gave assistance. It was, however, decided not to move Mrs. Walker from her position in the car until medical aid could be secured. Donald Garnett, the driver of the Saint John taxi which had been delayed with battery trouble, on appearing at the scene of the accident, proceeded down the road further from where he was able to call the Saint John Hospital.

Digby Hospital Now Has Penicillin Supply

"Penicillin" called the "mystery miracle" is here—that wonderful discovery of recent years—or perhaps we had better say months—which is proving so effective in many cases which the medical profession has thought incurable, and which, since its discovery by medical science, has been out of reach by the rank and file, is at the Digby General Hospital, a small supply having been received during the past few days.

A scientific writer in a recent magazine says: "Penicillin is a Poison for disease bacteria. It is an extraordinary poison, the like of which science never imagined. Thus, Penicillin is a thousand times more potent in killing disease germs than are the powerful sulfa drugs. Unbelievably small amount of Penicillin spell death for germs that cause pneumonia, meningitis, anthrax and many other serious infections. Researchers have weakened Penicillin with 30 million times its weight of water and found the resulting solution effective against pus germs."

And this is that article that is now in the Digby General Hospital! May it prove as effective as the claims made for it!

Attending C.W.N.A. Convention

J. MacN. Wallis, the associate editor of the Courier, accompanied by his daughter, "Jennylo", left on Saturday afternoon for Winnipeg to attend the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, which opened in that city today. It is being attended by weekly newspaper publishers or their representatives from all over Canada and Newfoundland. A little over a year ago it was seriously considered to discontinue these conventions "for the duration," but the government urged that this annual meeting be continued as the support of the weekly press is being constantly solicited and government officials use the convention as one method of keeping in touch. There are a number of government speakers on this year's programme.

While in Winnipeg Mac and his daughter will be the guests of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William MacNaughton. Before returning home they will visit the Mennonite village of Altona, where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Friesen, of the "Altona Echo."

Tenants V- Not Move Before May

All well-behaved tenants of houses, apartments, flats and rooms or parts of houses, not now under notice to vacate can be sure they will not have to move before May 1 next year. This state of security is brought about by an order effective July 29, which extends to tenants of shared accommodation the same protection now enjoyed by occupants of houses, flats and apartments it is announced.

Boarders are not covered by the measure. Nor does it apply to shared accommodation in certain eastern congested areas such as Halifax, Montreal and Kingston, which reached saturation point early in the war and which some time ago were brought under special administrative control, involving regulation and rate fixing.

Tenants who do not pay their rent, or who break their agreements, are not given protection of the order, and can be put out by order of the provincial courts, as in peacetime.

Beware of Man With Skeleton Key

To the Editor of the Courier: Sir:—To the residents of the town of Digby: I would advise you to beware of a man somewhere in this town with a skeleton key, as he may be calling at your house some night when you are out for a walk, as he did in my apartment on Warwick Street, Sunday night, after being alone all day. I took a little stroll around town and when I came back found my lights on. I heard a person was seen crossing the lawn just a few minutes before I came in. I hope, whoever he was, he enjoyed his own company, but I would rather have company when I am at home.

G. Spurr
Digby, August 15.

Mrs. Percy MacMurtree, who has been visiting in Digby and spent some time at the Navy League Hostel, left Monday for Saint John where she will take charge of the new Seamen's Hostel.

Popular Pastor Resigns Charge

Rev. Ross C. Eaton, pastor of the Long Island group of United Baptist churches—Freeport, Central Grove and Tiverton—announced his resignation on Sunday. He has accepted a call to the First Baptist Church at Truro and expects to enter on his work in that charge on September 24. Mr. Eaton has been on the islands for some time and is very much liked by his people there. He is president of the Digby County Branch of the Christian Social Service work and he writes that he plans on calling a meeting some time in September.

Memorial Service For Pte. K. A. Donnelly

Members of the Canadian Legion attended the Memorial Service held Sunday evening in the Baptist Church, Digby, in memory of Pte. Kenneth Angus Donnelly, who was killed in action with the Canadian Army in Normandy.

Wreaths from the family and many other flowers banked the pulpit, and a large crowd attended the service. A duet, "Abide With Me" was feelingly rendered by Wren Doreen Cunningham and Mrs. W. J. Cunningham and the anthem "Shadows" was rendered by Hedley Dakin and the choir.

Rev. J. Earle DeLong, who conducted the service, took for his text John 10:10, "The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy; but I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

Rev. Mr. DeLong said that Kenneth had made a sacrifice to save society from thieves which came to steal, to kill and to destroy, he gave his life for principles that we consider Christian and valuable, and we as a community must see that his sacrifice was not in vain.

Mercury High Over Week End

With maximum temperatures over the week end ranging between 86 and 90 degrees, we here in Digby experienced one of the hottest spells of the summer season to date.

Temperatures in other parts of the Maritimes hit the highest levels in the entire country. At Moncton Saturday the mercury touched 99 degrees, while at Ellsboro near Fredericton the peak was 101, the weather bureau reported. Wolfville reported a maximum of 96 Saturday and Sunday.

Bad Forest Fire In the County

There is a forest fire in Digby County between Caribou River and Silver River on the land of the Port Royal Pulp & Paper Co. The land was recently purchased from the Nova Scotia Timberlands Co.

The fire started August 8 and a hundred or more men have been there ever since fighting it and setting it under control. So far, it has only burned over old chopings and as far as is known has not burned any good timber. It has burned thousands of acres. If the wind had shifted the fire would have crossed Silver River and would have burned thousands of acres of valuable timber and pulp wood. The fire is within three or four miles of New France.

MARRIAGES

Merritt - Lewis

A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Mary's Church of England, Saint John, at 4:30 p.m., July 31, 1944, when Rev. W. C. Martin United in marriage Audrey Roberta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Lewis, Hartland, N.B., and Carl Foster Merritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Foster Merritt, Sandy Cove. The bride wore an afternoon dress by Alfrede in Poudre blue crepe, with V neck, shoulders and waistline shirred with Irish crochet lace in matching color, long tight sleeves. Her hat was of navy pleated moiré with matching veil. Her accessories were navy blue and she wore a corsage of briarcliff roses. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Watts, sister and brother-in-law of the groom. A wedding supper was held at the Royal Hotel, the table was centred with a silver bowl of multi-colored roses. The bride and groom left later by boat on a short wedding trip to the groom's home in Nova Scotia. The bride is a graduate of the Saint John General Hospital and has practised her profession in that city. The groom is a corporal in the R.C.E.M.E. and has left since for Newfoundland.

Beeler - Wheeler

A very pretty wedding took place at the bride's home on Monday, August 7, at 3 o'clock, when Margaret Olive, eldest daughter of Cpl. and Mrs. Gilbert Wheeler, Round Hill, became the bride of Enock Freeman Beeler, only son of Mrs. Edwin Gidney and the late Arthur Beeler, of Smith's Cove. The bride entered the room on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin Wedding March, played by Mrs. Paul Bailey, and took their places under an arch of roses and evergreen. The bride was attended by her sister, Dorothy, and the groom by William Whitman. The bride wore a floor length gown of white Mousseline De Soir with sweetheart neckline, short sleeves, and skirt of graceful fullness, her full length embroidered veil of silk net fell from a halo of white silk flowers. She carried a bouquet of roses with long streamers tied with sweetheart roses. Rev. L. B. Wright officiated. Fifty guests attended the reception following the ceremony. The bride's mother wore a gown of powder blue crepe with white accessories and corsage of pink sweetheart roses, while the groom's mother wore yellow figured silk with matching accessories and pink corsage. The dining table was adorned with lace cloth and three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, and silver candlesticks. The house was effectively decorated with cut flowers. Mrs. Mary Innes, of Kentville, great-great aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Myles MacQuarie, of West Somerville, Mass., great aunt of the bride, presided over the tea and coffee cups. Mrs. James Morrison cut the ices. Others assisting in serving were Mrs. Frank Rhodes, William Whitman, Phyllis Lamberton, Mary Whitman, Mrs. William Whitman and Mrs. Paul Bailey. Later Mr. and Mrs. Beeler left on a honeymoon trip. For travelling the bride wore a two-piece suit of rose crepe with white accessories, wool tweed coat and a corsage of roses. The bride is a graduate of the Digby Business College. The groom is a valued member of the Wagner Tours. Previously at a shower in her honor, the bride received many useful and valuable gifts.

Man Found Dead

Chef At "Scotia" Victim of Heart Attack

Roy P. Hazelwood, age 46, who has been chief cook at the Scotia Restaurant for the past year, was found dead about ten o'clock Tuesday morning. He had been complaining of not feeling well for the past week.

He was discovered lying face down on the bed by Miss K. Gillis, who entered the room to open the safe. When he failed to answer her, she called Dr. W. R. Dickie, who verified death was caused by heart seizure.

Mr. Hazelwood was a son of Mrs. Annie and the late William Hazelwood, of Somerset, Kings Co., and is survived by his widow, Halifax; one daughter, Mrs. Edward Williams, Kentville; two sons, Carmen, of the R.C.A.F., overseas, and "Barty", of Kentville; his aged mother and two brothers, Boyd and Lorne, of Somerset; two sisters, Mrs. Harry Legge, Somerset, and Ethel, in United States.

The funeral will be held in Kentville this afternoon.

Ice Cream Will Provide Market

With a world at war, production of all sorts of foodstuffs is being urgently furthered by the Government. And, probably no form of production is more necessary or insistently urged than dairying, for milk, and milk products, is one of the vital necessities of life both in the battle areas and on the home front.

Here, then, in the Ice Cream industry alone will be a new, vast market for the dairy farmer. And a market paying fair prices in cold cash for all the dairy products that he can deliver.

About This and That

Nobody seems to know exactly why the Gothic Line is called by that name. Experts in research and foreign affairs have been unable to find out. One finally decided that the Germans seemed to name such lines without much reason: Hitler Line, Gustav Line, Gothic Line. Not far north of that line, however, Gothic culture and architecture begin. Looking south from Germany, "Beyond the Alps lies Italy," with its richness of agriculture and art.

There is a definite racial connection between Germans and Goths. Three nations successively sacked Rome—the Goths, the Huns, and the Vandals. In the last war the German was called the Hun. In this war he himself seems to have taken the Goth as a national hero, bent on loot and conquest. Of all the barbarian tribes who overthrew the Roman empire and established the states of medieval Europe, the Goths were for centuries the Roman's most formidable enemies. They built two powerful states, Ostrogoths, or East Goths, in Italy, Visigoths, or West Goths, in Spain. Others made their way to the Crimea and Asia Minor.

Long after their end as a nation the Goths' name survived in a connection, not rightfully associated with them. Gothic architecture was not their invention, but a later style, so-called in the 15th century by people who did not like it, using "Gothic" as a term of disapproval.

The man who paddles his own canoe and his own kids has little trouble getting along with both of them.

East Prussia, according to the discussions now going on between Russians and Poles, may be given to Poland, to compensate for losses to Russia farther east. The reason for this arrangement is that East Prussia is a German island, separated by Poland from the main body of German territory just as Alaska is separated by Canada from the United States.

This separation goes back nearly a thousand years. In the days of the great migrations of the Germanic tribes, they passed through East Prussia, but later lost it to the Slavs. Gradually the Germans began to regain the territory. In 1226 a Polish duke foolishly called in the Teutonic Knights of the Cross, an order partly religious and partly military, to help him against the heathen Prussians. The Order exterminated them, and made East Prussia their own. Later Poland conquered the territory, only to lose it in the 17th century to the new Prussian state.

Now apparently it is Poland's turn again. This time, most of the world hopes it will remain permanently—and peacefully—in Poland's hands.

Some men think more than they say, and some say more than they think.

Recently I purchased a dress which has proven to be of poor quality and poor workmanship and not at all in line with the price I paid for it. Is there anything I can do about it?

Take the dress and the receipt to the nearest office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Control Board.

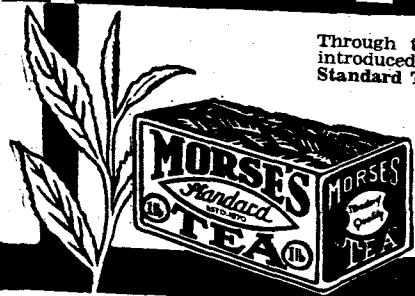

The Standards Division will be glad to have concrete evidence of such deterioration of quality as you allege. However, the Board cannot interfere with the policy with regard to such things as exchange and refund.

There is only one restaurant in the town where I live and have been getting my meals for a number of years. Recently I have noticed that the size of the servings have become a great deal smaller. The proprietor says that he is doing this because food is so much more expensive than it used to be. Is it allowed to make such an adjustment?

No. A restaurant must serve the same size portions of food as was its custom during the period in the fall of 1941. A restaurant reduces the size of its servings it is automatically increasing the price of meals which is an infraction of the War's regulations.

It Doesn't Leave a Lot for the Civilian

WHEN war demands have been filled... when invasion gasoline, aviation gasoline, Navy fuel oil, petroleum for the manufacture of explosives, synthetic rubber, and gasoline for war industry, farming and essential trucking all have been taken from Canada's oil supply — it doesn't leave a lot for the civilian!

Figure it out for yourself. It takes 5,250,000 gallons of gasoline to fuel 5,000 bombers and fighters for a mission over Germany. It takes enough oil for one fueling of a battleship to heat an average house for 350 years. It takes 18,000 gallons of gasoline to keep one armoured division on the move for one hour.

From petroleum and petroleum gases we obtain the gasoline and fuels needed to power planes and ships and tanks as well as the raw material for acetone, ammonia and toluol for explosives, organic chemicals for anaesthetics, naphthas for camouflage paints and plastics and resins for war weapons production.

This is why civilian gasoline is short. This is why it's up to every motorist, to every owner of an oil-heated home, to exercise the strictest economy in gasoline or fuel oil usage. Every gallon we can do without here at home is one gallon more for the fighting men. And they need every gallon they can get.

Two full years of gasoline rationing and fuel oil control in Canada have saved 393,000,000 gallons of gasoline and 175 million gallons of fuel oil — a total saving of 568,000,000 gallons of petroleum products. Yet, despite this saving, gasoline stocks on hand in Canada, as of March 31st, this year, were 55,000,000 gallons less than at the commencement of rationing, April 1, 1942.

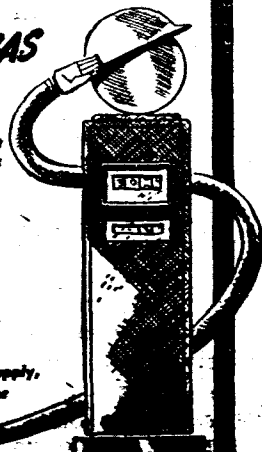

Oil has a mighty war job to do — yet supplies are short and are constantly dwindling. Oil powers the attack on every front. Oil can mean the difference between success or failure, between light casualty lists and heavy. Oil is vital ammunition — not to be wasted, not to be needlessly, frivolously spent.

Answering Your Questions about the Gasoline Shortage

What are Canada's total yearly requirements of motor gasoline? ... Approximately 800,000,000 gallons. Do these requirements have to cover both military and civilian needs? ... Yes. Why cannot this supply be increased? ... Because total hemispheric supplies are inadequate to meet both the colossal war demand and civilian needs. There is not enough oil, there are not enough tankers, for both. How much of Canada's petroleum needs is supplied from Canadian wells? ... Only 15%. Why can't this home production be increased? ... Every effort is being made to do so. More new wells are being drilled or prepared for drilling, than at any time in the history of Western Canada, but we have yet to find a new Turner Valley. War does not wait for new production.

LESS CIVILIAN GAS MEANS MORE "FIGHTING GAS" FOR THE FORCES

An announcement issued by The Department of Munitions and Supply, Honorable C. D. Howe, Minister

HERE'S THE BRUSH FIRE — that spreads if unwatched!

PERSONS burning brush between the 15th of April and the 15th of October require burning permits from the Forest Ranger. And portable mills operating within sixty rods of any woods now require operating permits for all seasons of the year. Severe penalties are levied for not securing these permits.

Holders of such permits must exercise all necessary vigilance to prevent their brush or slash fires from spreading beyond their control. Should any do so the permit holder is held responsible for all costs of fighting any forest fires caused thereby.

Most forest fires are caused by carelessness, but every year fires are set by malicious people and thousands of acres of fine timber lands destroyed. It is the duty of every citizen to help the law officers run down these criminals and see to it that they are punished as they justly deserve. And persuade others to do likewise by taking the PLEDGE herewith and showing it to at least three of your friends.

Play Safe! Be Careful! Prevent Forest Fires!

Harry V. Banks Killed In Action

We regret to chronicle the death of another one of our Bear River boys, who has made the supreme sacrifice, in the person of Harry V. Banks, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Banks, who died on August 2, from wounds received in active service somewhere in France.
Harry enlisted in the R.C.A. in October, 1943 and went overseas in June 1944. He was only in action three weeks.
He received his education at Oakdene School and was also interested in Boy Scout work, having been a member of the local troop for several years. He was nineteen years of age.
Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, Arnold, in active service in Italy; Eldon, of Bear River, and one sister, Annie, at home.
He is also survived by his age grandfather, George Banks, of Bear River.

Review of Poems By Atlanta Sollows

A book of poems recently published, entitled "Climb the Rigging" by Atlanta Sollows, who is a Foot Specialist in Saint John, will be of special interest to her friends in Bear River.
Eileen Cushing in a review of the poems says: "They are varied as to subject and style . . . through all of them run a love of humanity, of living creatures or the sea. The sea permeates them in many ways. . . Her poems about gulls are particularly apt and will intrigue anyone who has spent sunny days along the shores of the Bay of Fundy, when they too, watched the gyrations of these birds.

"But she can write also of feelings and emotions. She can be full of sentiment or extremely caustic as in Praying for Peace, Hypocrisy, The Permanent or The Auction Block. Above all, these poems reveal the core of life, the fundamental things: home, friends and what they mean, hospitality, tolerance, sadness, gladness and a love of beauty. Trees call forth from Miss Sollows, admiration as they have done from many poets. She says:
As warm winds of spring breathe their healing
Where winter has cooled with her frost,
And soft tiny buds come stealing
On branches where leaves once were tossed,
I watch, with amazement and wonder,
Each move and unfolding to be.
And seek for one clue to discover
The designing and growth of a tree.

Dwight Durland
 The funeral services for the late Dwight Durland, of North Range, were held from the United Church Friday afternoon, August 4, with interment in the adjoining cemetery. Mr. Durland had been a patient in the Digby General Hospital for two weeks but was removed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Mahar, Barton, where he passed away Wednesday morning, August 2. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Harry Collins, of Nashua, New Hampshire, also one brother, Augustus, also in the United States.

Simeon Comeau
 One of Meteghan's most highly respected citizens, Simeon Comeau, of Comeau Bros., Meteghan River, died at his home on Friday evening, August 4, in his 73rd year, after a long illness. He leaves his wife, formerly Lennie Sheehan, after forty years of happy marriage; a daughter, Mrs. Leander Frontain (Elsie), and three sons, Louis J.P., Adolphe, at home and Desire, manager of the firm, Comeau Bros. The deceased was a son of the late Hilaire C. Comeau and Marguerite Bourque Comeau. Three sisters and one brother survive: Rev. Sister Marie-Zita, of the Sisters of Charity, Halifax, at St. Patrick's Convent, Roxbury, Mass., for the past forty-eight years, who celebrated recently her 50th anniversary of religious; Rev. Sister Modest, of the same order, retired at St. Mary's Convent, Church Point, who is in her forty-ninth year as a religious; Mrs. Libvire Boudreau (Marie Rose), of Meteghan, and Emilien Comeau, at the old home, Meteghan River. All members of the family were present at his bedside at the time of his death. Funeral service took place Saturday, August 5, at 3 p.m., from the Stella Maris temporary church, Rev. Father A. Theriault, curate, officiating, assisted by Rev. Father S. Comeau, C.J.M., of St. Ann's College, Church Point, cousin of the deceased. Rev. Father Jules Comeau, C.J.M., Superior of Sacred Heart College, Bathurst, N. B., also a cousin, attended at the choir. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at funeral mass Monday morning, at 8 o'clock, conducted by Right Rev. Mgr. Bourneuf, D.P., F.V., pastor, assisted by Rev. Red Cross Notes

WEYMOUTH

In the absence of the vice-president, secretary and treasurer, the monthly business meeting of the Red Cross, which was to have taken place Wednesday of last week was postponed until the week following. However, the regular weekly quilting and sewing was carried on with a large number present to assist in the work. A table display of 2 large quilts, 2 small quilts and 2 pairs of pyjamas from the auxiliary at Belliveau's Cove, also 2 quilt tops and 2 dozen handkerchiefs from one of the shut-in members, Mrs. Farquhar, who received much favourable comment. Mrs. Sack also sent in 3 dozen handkerchiefs. Ditty bags were given to volunteer members to be filled by the last of September. A letter of thanks to Miss Mabel Melanson from the seaman who received the ditty bag, filled by her, last Christmas, was read by the president, who addressed the meeting briefly, proposing a 25 cent tea to be held August 30th, in conjunction with the regular weekly quilting. The proceeds from the tea are to be donated to St. Thomas Guild to help defray expenses on the newly laid hardwood floor in Killam Hall, in appreciation of the Guild's generosity in giving the hall, rent free, for the use of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Brooks, president of St. Thomas' Guild, expressed her thanks, fittingly, to Mrs. Rice, Mrs. William Cook, organizer of the very successful paper salvage drive, recently carried out in the community, also wished to thank all those who so kindly co-operated with her in this venture; particularly The LeBlanc Ship Building Co., H. E. Wagner, R. J. M. Taylor, Cereno Jones and Howard Payson.

Regular meetings of the Red Cross will now take place in Killam Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Amiraault, who had spent a week's holiday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Isle LeBlanc, returned to Haverhill, Mass., Thursday.

The Misses Anna Mae and Margaret Thibault, of Melrose, Mass., arrived Tuesday to spend their holidays visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Thibault.

Nova Scotia must have 2,000 or more workers to handle this year's apple crop, stated Hon. John A. McDonald, Nova Scotia Minister of Agriculture, in a net-work radio address in which he reviewed the current story of Nova Scotia agriculture.

After stating that indications were that the crop might approximate two million barrels, he declared he could not overstress the urgency for workers.

Picking will start about the middle of September; then there will be packing and processing with work lasting well on into December. Experience is not needed. What is required, said the Minister, is common intelligence, a will to work and good physical condition.

All those willing to help with this work should get in touch with the nearest National Selective Service office or their County Agricultural Representative. Workers will be given reasonable pay and living accommodation. Transportation will be paid by the Federal and Provincial governments to those producing a signed statement from their employers after completing three or more weeks' satisfactory service.

Improved living conditions for many rural Nova Scotians was envisioned in a statement issued recently by Hon. A. S. MacMillan, Premier of the Province and Chairman of the Nova Scotia Power Commission. He was treating with rural electrification.

"We are determined," he said, "that our rural dwellers will have the same advantages with light, power, telephone service, and everything that goes to make country life more attractive, as the city dwellers have. Our aim and ambition is to distribute electric power and energy as far as possible in order that the housewife in the country may be able to have in her home an electric refrigerator, electric washing machine, and ironing machine, and the farmer may be able to use electric power to reduce his labor costs by mechanizing everything possible around his premises."

"While it is not our policy to take over distribution systems," said Mr. MacMillan, "it is our policy to take over generating systems when we can do the job cheaper than the local company, thus enabling us to develop rural communities and furnish light and power for rural electrification. We now have surveys of every possible power site in the Province and are prepared to develop wherever and whenever it is necessary. We have the right to take over any and all power developments owned by public utility companies, municipalities and private corporations, and I can assure you that we will not hesitate to do so if it becomes necessary in order that cheap light and power may be furnished rural dwellers."

Continuing he stated, "it should be remembered that we deliver power to public utility companies and consumers at cost. However, even at cost, it has been found impossible to reach out into the farming districts. As we are anxious to do this the Government decided to assist by way of a bonus, which cost the province last year approximately $100,000. We propose to continue along the same line just as soon as the responsible department of the Federal government releases the necessary construction material which has been tied up during the war."

Fourteen men from various parts of the Province completed the three-day dressed poultry grading course held at the National Harbours Board Cold Storage Plant, Halifax, August 9-11. This course, held under the National Youth Training Program of the Federal Department of Labor and Provincial Department of Agriculture, was for the purpose of training men to grade capon, chicken and fowl in accordance with standards set by the Federal Department of Agriculture. Birds so graded are eligible for the highest ceiling price of their respective grades. Ungraded birds are not eligible for higher than "B" grade. The producer of high class poultry, should profit as much as four or five cents a pound by having his birds graded.

The time for county fairs is drawing near. According to a revised schedule issued from the office of A. B. Banks, Superintendent of Exhibitions, Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, eleven of these district exhibitions will be held with the first, Hants Co., opening August 29.

The list of fairs in this vicinity, together with the place at which they are being held, the dates and the names and address of the secretary-managers, is given below:

Annapolis, at Lawrencetown, September 19, 20, 21, Don White, Lawrencetown.

Digby, at Bear River, September 20, 21, H. E. Chisholm, Bear River.

Queens, at Caledonia, September 19, 20, 21, 22, Fred Kempton, Caledonia.

Yarmouth, at Yarmouth, September 12, 13, 14, E. L. Crosby, Yarmouth.

Present indications are that at least 50,000 tons of agricultural lime will be used in Nova Scotia this year. This amount while short of the estimated 65,000 to 75,000 tons needed for soil correction, is way above the amount used in any previous year. Shipments in the year 1943 totalled 35,139 tons and constituted a record.

Lime orders now being received by the Department of Extension, at Truro, are heavy. As the price advances from $1.40 per ton to $1.50 for delivery after August 30 there is a piling up of orders for the last of the month.

Every effort is being made for prompt shipments. During the slack season in July the 2,000-ton storage shed at the Upper Musquodoboit plant was filled and a new pulverizer installed. Mr. Mosher, proprietor of this plant, can now ship four or five cars a day. A large proportion of the orders at Musquodoboit are from the North Shore, particularly Cumberland, Pictou and Antigonish Counties with quite a number from Inverness and Cape Breton Counties. Orders from the Valley are being filled from Windsor, while truck orders from Hants and Colchester are directed to Admiral Rock where a new engine was recently installed. The quarry at Churchville handles lime for eastern and central Pictou.

A break-down of lime sales by districts for the first six months of the year shows Pictou-North Colchester leading with Antigonish, Cape Breton, Colchester, Cumberland, and Inverness counties following in the order named. Yarmouth County was by far the lowest in the list, sales to that county totalling only 30 tons.

A total of 4,275,273 pounds of butter was produced in the creameries of Nova Scotia from January 1 to July 31, according to a report issued from the office of the Nova Scotia Dairy Superintendent. This was a decrease of eight per cent from the production in the corresponding period of last year which totalled 4,647,537 pounds.

Cold storage holdings, reported in August 1, from nine Canadian cities totalled 33,731,558 pounds on August 1, 1943.

Old St. Edward's Has Anniversary

Old St. Edward's Church, Cambridgeport, celebrated one more birthday Thursday, when people gathered to its doors for the memorial service commemorating the 150th anniversary of its consecration by Bishop Inglis.

Built in 1797 by the Empire Loyalists, it has stood for years, a famous landmark, guiding the mariners in days of old up the shallow waters of the basin, its spire like a finger pointing its people ever upward over the rocks and shoals of life, to God.

Rev. E. B. Gabriel, of Annapolis, in master of ceremonies, took the place of Rev. T. R. B. Anderson, who was unable to attend. Rev. P. B. Gaskill, of Digby, conducted the first part of the service, and Rev. M. Payzant, of Annapolis, reading the second lesson.

An address of welcome was extended by Rev. Gabriel to visiting clergy, both those taking part in the service and those on vacation in the vicinity, also to the choir, organists and all attending the service.

Rev. H. H. Hoyt, M.A., Chaplain R.C.N., H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, who preached the sermon took for his text the words of the Psalmist "I will strengthen to strength," Psalm 84:7, and of the apostle Paul in 2 Cor. 3:18, "from glory to glory." The psalmist referred to strength gained by communion with God, while the apostle spoke of trust in him.

In this present world conflict we as a nation have done much in the fight against nazism, how much more we could do if we put as much energy in our religion, and instead of talking of the future of the church to fill today's need, if we lived in closer communion with God and put our trust in Him, we too could go from strength to strength and from glory to glory.

The final prayers and benediction were given by Canon Underwood, (retired) after which the congregation left the church for the courtyard, and there in the old and peace of the old cemetery, where stones dating back to the 17th century were found, a silent service was paid to those long gone and the hymn "On the Resurrection Morning" was sung at the church doors.

Stan Spray in France

Extracts from a letter to Paul from Stan Spray, (formerly of the Courier staff) somewhere in France, dated August 4, 1944.

War is not anything like I expected it would be. I don't know how now I really did expect it to be but it is surely different than any person who has not been under fire could imagine it. First thing one seldom finds himself scared. Sometimes he gives a God-awful start when an unexpected shell breaks near, but after the first one, and you are sort of all for the next one, it does not bother you as much as I thought it would. The psychological effect of a slit trench (you would be surprised how comfortable you make them) is worth a million dollars of anybody's money. I have only once been caught on a trench where the only hole was a shallow ditch and spent a very uncomfortable minutes with my feet pressed firmly into the mud. One soon gets a different sense of values here and understands someone is killed or maimed.

It is very easy to shrug one's shoulders and say "no damn done" regardless of who has been hurt or what has been destroyed. I have never seen such a poverty-stricken area in all my life. I know that a lot of it may be due to the war and all that, but the people I have seen look very dirty and miserable. I still can't see how the newspaper correspondents get their information about a province of wealth and luxury.

Am getting to know the roads as well as those in the south of England—get around quite a bit in the course of my duties but have not seen a civilian who can talk English.

We all find ourselves now hoping that another spring might find us fishing again and quite confident that the fall will find us moose hunting.

When I think that when I come home I will not even know my family, let alone any of the friends I used to know long ago, it is all so strange. I have changed a lot as things are changing around us. I think that my own sense of values will have to undergo a terrible change before I will ever be able to go down again.

Next you go to Band and you will give my regards to the who are left and who are going the band together till I come to put it in full effect. I often think of the pleasant evenings spent in the band room and now feel that war is near—much over to

Ainslie Titus

The funeral of Ainslie Titus was held from the Westport Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon, of last week, conducted by Rev. H. Morgan, assisted by Rev. J. W. Derby and members of the L.O.O.F. He was a member of the Baptist church also the L.O.O.F. He had been in poor health for some time and was past seventy years of age. He leaves to mourn, his widow; three brothers, Walter, John and William; one sister, Mrs. Hantford Swift, besides other relatives and friends.

Heber C. MacNeill

The community of North Range has suffered another loss in the passing of Heber C. MacNeill, at the age of 83 years. Although the late Mr. MacNeill had been ailing for some time he was able to be around. He will be greatly missed in the Baptist Church, of which he was a member, also held the office of deacon. He was a faithful and active member and was always present when his health permitted. The deceased was interested in the cause of Temperance and was a member of the local order, Isalah W. Wilson Division. On Tuesday evening he was out to attend a Division meeting and suffered a stroke the following morning, from which he never rallied, passing away Friday, August 18. Funeral services were held from the home and the Baptist Church Monday afternoon with his pastor, Lic. Bernard Manzer officiating. He is survived by four daughters and one son, namely: Mrs. Earl N. Tibert, Central Grove; Miss Leda MacNeill, Mrs. Alice Brittain, North Range; Miss Florence MacNeill, Framingham, Mass.; and Manning MacNeill, at home. Interment took place in the North Range Baptist Cemetery.

Pedal of Bicycle Catches, Youth Hurlled to His Death at Naval Base

Acting Able Seaman William F. Jans, age 19, of Lasburn, Sask., whose accidental death occurred Thursday at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, was buried with full Naval honors at 2:30 p.m. Monday.

William was riding his bicycle along the jetty when the pedal caught in the side timbers hurling him onto the rocks 32 feet below. The service, conducted by Rev. Mr. MacDonald, R.C.N., Chaplain, was held in Grace United Church, interment at Fairview Cemetery.

A squad of his comrades followed the body to its last resting place, while the band from H.M.C.S. Cornwallis played the Dead March. A three volley salute was fired over the grave and the Last Post sounded.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Jans, of Lasburn, Sask.

Eminent Bandmaster To Visit Digby

Laidlaw F. Addison, conductor of the famous Toronto Symphony Band, said to be "the most perfect band in Canada," was elected President of the Canadian Bandmasters Association, Inc., at the annual meeting held in Stratford, Ont., July 15-17. A feature of the meeting was a massed band concert conducted by Mr. Addison who included one of his own recent compositions on the program. The Stratford daily Beacon-Herald says: "Compositions by Canadian Musicians included a march 'Point Prim' written by L. F. Addison, Toronto, the new president of the association, and dedicated to his friends Mr. and Mrs. Paul Yates, of Digby, N.S." The original manuscript of this march is now in the hands of the Digby Civic Band who have played it over several times and are delighted with it, but its premier performance is being held back with the well-justified hopes that Mr. Addison will be in Digby during September to conduct it in person. If so, the Music Council propose to make a gala day of it and will expect a large audience because all music-lovers will be eager to hear this well-known musician conduct a program.

Barton Boy Killed in France

Evelyn Height is spending two weeks with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard McDormand, Westport.

Harry Dunn and friend, of Boston, Mass., arrived on Monday to spend their vacation at the home of Miss Gertrude Dunn.

Missionary to India As Guest Speaker

Mrs. B. Gullison, who was guest speaker at the Baptist Church Sunday evening, has been with her husband Dr. Ben Gullison, a missionary to Sampetta, India, sponsored by the Baptist Young People's Association of the Maritime Provinces.

Mrs. Gullison was born in Apohakul, N.B. and educated at Provincial Normal School, Fredericton, (where she was a classmate of Rev. J. Earle DeLong, pastor of the Digby Baptist Church,) also at Gordon Bible College, Boston.

Dr. Gullison, whose parents came from Yarmouth, was born in India, graduated from Acadia University, M.S., and Edinburgh, Scotland, and has been in charge of the hospital at Sampetta.

Dr. Gullison has been selected by the International Council to take a special course in leprosy and will study in New York and the Southern States after which Dr. and Mrs. Gullison will return to India where he will take charge of a Leper Hospital, which is being built in connection with the one at Sampetta.

Also attending the service were several Yugo-Slav navy boys, some of the famous Marshall Tito's men.

Restaurants Have Fire Alarms

The fire engine was called out Saturday afternoon when a billow of smoke, issuing from the basement of the Scotia Restaurant, caused the alarm to be sounded.

On investigation it was found that a belt from the freezing unit had slipped, stalling the motor and sending a strong smell of burning rubber and smoke into the kitchen.

At about 5 o'clock Monday morning a conductor of a passing train saw smoke and flames issuing from the chimney of the Ideal Restaurant. The engine was called out and the fire brought quickly under control.

One Killed, One Safe In Sinking

Among the casualties reported in the loss by enemy action of the corvette, "Regina" overseas, appear the following:

Killed in Action—Saulnier, Joseph Melbourne, able seaman, son of John P. Saulnier, of Meteghan River.

Survivor—Farrow, Arthur F. T., leading seaman, husband of Muriel Farrow (nee Simms), of Digby.

$4,200 Raised At Annual Picnic

The annual two-day picnic held at Belliveau's Cove, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, in aid of the new Saint Bernard Church, was a great success.

Record breaking crowds attended both days, and at one meal 1,800 persons were served. The sum of $4,200 was raised.

Illicit Still Draws Fines

Edward Stanis Dugas, of St. Martin's, Digby Co., was convicted in Magistrate d'Entremont's court at Meteghan last week and was fined $40n for the possession of an illicit still with an additional fine of $100 under the N. S. Liquor Control Act. An assistant, Camille L. LeBlanc, was also fined $100 under the L.C.A. and $100 under the Excise Act. R.C.M.P. officers who investigated the case rounded up the offenders in short order on August 8.

A recent issue of the New Glasgow Eastern Chronicle gives a new light on school buildings. All the furniture will be movable and the walls will slip down in slots to the basement making a large auditorium of the place. Further details are not given, but it is added that Linacy and Prestville sections also in the count of Pictou will build duplicates of the Mount William schoolhouse.

APPLE WORKERS W-a-n-t-e-d

OWING to the scarcity of workers in the apple industry and in order to meet the present emergency, the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with the Dominion Department of Labor, is sponsoring a campaign to secure apple pickers, apple warehouse workers and help for apple processing plants in the counties of Hants, Kings, and Annapolis.

Free Transportation

The Departments have arranged to pay railway and authorized bus fares to and from Valley points from within the Province to all workers who have been satisfactorily employed for three weeks or more after September 10.

This bonus is payable to workers whether their employment has been arranged for through National Selective Service or by direct contact with their employer. Transportation payment will be made after presentation to the National Selective Service office at Kentville of evidence of satisfactory employment signed by the employer and the worker.

List Requirements

Growers, warehouse operators and processors requiring labor should list as soon as possible their requirements as regards number of workers and for what period they are wanted, with the National Selective Service offices at Kentville and Windsor or the Agricultural Representatives' offices at Windsor, Kentville, and Lawrencetown.

Status Unchanged

The mobilization Board has agreed that men on postponement for farm work will not have their status changed by undertaking this employment. Pay includes living accommodations.

For further information apply to your nearest National Selective Service office or your Agricultural Representative.

About This and That

According to Sir Alexander Cadogan, British permanent under-secretary for foreign affairs, the broad outlines of the American plan for an international security organization after the war are approved by the British government. Its own plan differs in some important details, however, including the vote which would be necessary within the peace agency's council before sanctions can be applied on a recalcitrant nation. The American plan is understood to demand a unanimous vote; the British plan is believed to call for a majority or two-thirds vote.

Russia, after having refused earlier to reduce her post-war security plans to paper, has advised America and Britain of the broad outline of her ideas. Security plans of the big three nations and later, those of China are to be discussed at a conference in Washington this week.

The straight and narrow path has not yet developed enough traffic to require a four-lane highway.

On the job studying post-war needs for doctors, a British government committee has found that after the war 2,500 new students will have to enter medical schools in Britain each year, and of these 500 will have to be women. Figures show that since 1938 more women have been filtering into the medical profession, but if the post-war quota is to be met an even larger percentage will have to be interested.

The committee would like to see all medical schools compelled by law to open their doors to women and to offer grants and allowances so that Britain's future doctors can be recruited from all levels of society.

If the services of women are to be enlisted where they are so badly needed—in new efforts to raise health of children and to study personality and home conditions in relation to a patient's physical ills—then, the committee warns, the age-old prejudice against employing women on hospital staffs must be broken down, and equal wages will have to be offered women for equal services performed.

The man looking for trouble doesn't have to be armed with a search warrant.

Fifty years ago coal miners deep in the Camer Mine, at Walsenburg, Colo., left a fully loaded pit car in one of the farthest extensions of a shaft. For some reason they never returned.

The car, with its coal, has been there ever since and was discovered when workmen broke through into the old workings from a new shaft. The car is of such antique style, company officials decided to bring it to the surface and place it on display.

Some people get the idea they are worth a lot of money just because they have it.

Ice Cream in the War News

Ice Cream bobs up in the war news in the most unexpected place! W. C. Heinz' column in the New York Sun, was titled:—

"Hunting U-Boats on a Baby Flat-Top"

An Ice Cream Pitching Contest on the Ocean or What Happens When a Destroyer Escort Runs Short of Supplies.

— and the article explains, "Men stood today on catwalks about forty feet above the water and threw Ice Cream over the Atlantic Ocean. It was vanilla Ice Cream too."

"It may be a bit confusing to try to imagine what men at war, men hunting U-boats, are doing scaling Ice Cream over the mid-Atlantic but it should be understood that each escort carrier operates in the company of several escorting destroyers and that, in time, these latter run short of supplies. Then it is that the destroyers nestle in turn close to the side of their mother ship and find there not shelter, for they are buffeted and tossed about by the waves off the carrier's bow, but Ice Cream and meat, fruit, flour, bread, cigarettes, chewing gum and candy."

"Then it is that the seamen bring up the Ice Cream and start scaling it across the mid-Atlantic. It is vanilla Ice Cream too, but next time it may be chocolate, for wars are won on all flavors these days. But mostly on vanilla." The New York Post "Radio Roundup" reports an interview with the captain of the exchange ship "Grispsholm," which recently

Charles Gates, R.C.N., of "Cornwall," Deep Brook, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gates, recently.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Chisholm were David Chisholm, of Lynn, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lettney, of Salem, Mass.

Miss Mildred Tupper, of Aylesbury, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Turner. Miss Blanche Turner, of Litchfield, was a recent guest at the same home.

On Sunday, August 13, at the Church at 11 a.m., Rev. G. Cameron Quigley preached his usual sermon. At this service Miss James Carl, baby son of Mr. and Mrs. John McNeil received his holy rites of baptism, administered by Mr. Quigley.

Miss Mills of the R.C.A.F., recently stationed in Saskatchewan, has been transferred to Greenwald. En route to his home here he stopped in Toronto to see his mother, Mrs. Harry Mills, and his brother, Gerald, who are visiting her brother. During his stay in Toronto Alfred and Gerald visited Niagara Falls.

Members of the United Church gathered at the home of the Misses Pickup on Monday evening, August 7, in honor of their pastor, Mr. G. C. Quigley, and Mrs. Quigley, who are leaving to make their new home in Montreal. During the evening they were presented with a purse of money by J. A. Ruffee, donated by members of the United Church who regret to see Mr. and Mrs. Quigley leave but wish them happiness and prosperity in their new field.

On Sunday, August 13, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Saunders had with them their seven children, as follows: Lillian (Mrs. Edward Ryder), Miss Dorothy Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Saunders, Estelle (Mrs. Jack McCoskill), Ethel (Mrs. Donald Hickling, R.N.), and Miss Officer Basil Saunders, recently returned from three years' active service overseas. It was the first time in ten years the entire family had been home together. Also present were their two grandchildren, little Oril Ryder of Halifax, and little Treasure Hickling, whose father, Mr. Hickling, of the R.C.A.F., is now stationed in Yarmouth.

WAR-TIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—Last week I bought a gallon of molasses and through no fault of my own the glass jug containing it broke the other day. The molasses is a total loss. Could I explain this to my grocer and get another gallon for the same coupons?

A.—Your grocer has to account for each gallon of his molasses and each month he must turn in all the ration coupons he collected. It would be impossible for him to allow you the extra gallon to make good your loss. Rationed goods are in such short supply that it would upset the rationing system if allowances were made on a national scale for "tases such as yours."

Q.—The ladies' society at our church is planning a picnic for servicemen. Could we obtain some extra rations for this purpose?

A.—Sorry, no extra rations are allowed for such occasions. The only thing you could do is have each member of your society bring some rationed food. These items, of course, would have to be purchased with coupons from members' own ration books.

Q.—I have had a pair of shoes repaired for which I was charged $1.65. I have never paid such a high price for repairs. Are these prices not controlled?

A.—These prices certainly are controlled. The shoemaker should not charge more for the same repairs than he charged during the basic period, Sept. 15, to Oct. 11, 1941. As you have given us the location of this repair shop, we will have their prices checked.

Q.—Does the new order on the sale of used cars apply to the sale of used trucks?

A.—No. The new order on used cars concerns only the sale of used passenger motor vehicles which means according to the order, "a motor vehicle suitable for carrying passengers, with seating capacity for ten people or less." By a previous order sales of used trucks were placed under ceiling prices.

Q.—I wish to sell my car. May I sell it privately or must I give it to a dealer to sell for me?

A.—You may sell it privately. A signed statement of sale, with all details including the name and address of the owner and purchaser, etc., must be filed within four days of the sale with your nearest Board office. The necessary forms for this are available at all Wartime Prices and Trade Board offices. Of course, the car must not be sold at a price higher than the ceiling set by the Motor Vehicles Controller.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board will answer questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations. Or you can write direct to the Consumer Branch, 77 Upper Water Street, Halifax.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Sebray McCullough

The community of Riverdale was shocked and saddened when it became known that Mrs. Alicia McCullough, wife of Sebray McCullough, had passed away suddenly at the Victoria General Hospital on Sunday, a week ago, at the age of forty-four years. She leaves to mourn their loss, a sorrowing husband, seven daughters and nine sons (two of whom are overseas); six grandchildren, five sisters and four brothers, also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Mullen, of Easton. In the passing of Mrs. McCullough the community has lost a kind friend and neighbor and the home a devoted wife and mother. The funeral which was largely attended was held at the Southville Christian Church on Wednesday afternoon conducted by Rev. R. M. Johnson, the pastor. Burial was in the Southville Cemetery. Beautiful flowers testified to the affection of relatives and friends.

Saw A White Swallow

While Dennis Theriault, of the D.A.R. Maintenance of Way staff, was on his usual rounds near the little Joggin Bridge, last Thursday, he saw a flock of swallows. Nothing unusual in that you may say. No, except that among them was an albino—a pure white swallow—and that is unusual. Another thing that fixes Thursday morning in Mr. Theriault's mind is that he picked a five-leaf clover.

HERE'S THE FIRE PLEDGE —show it to three friends!

TODAY Nova Scotia needs her forest wealth as never before. Although this is a mechanized war, WOOD is actually in greater demand for ships, planes, war plants, soldiers' huts and containers for shells, food and equipment than any other material.

Yet, due to carelessness and criminal acts, great stands of Nova Scotia's precious war timber may be reduced to ashes within the next few months. Destruction of our trees, always a serious matter, is something we simply cannot put up with in wartime.

It remains then for the people—the OWNERS of Nova Scotia's forest heritage—to stop this wanton waste of our war resources. You simply must be careful in the woods now. And make others careful, too. That's your job—while our former fire fighters are fighting for you overseas. So take the PLEDGE herewith yourself—and show it to at least three of your friends.

Play Safe! Be Careful! Prevent Forest Fires!

1. "The folks around here had been biting the dust for years. They took it as a natural thing that summertime should mean dusty roads—and a lot of unnecessary inconvenience. They had seen the good roads in other parts but they weren't convinced—thought that they couldn't afford to improve the roads!"

2. "The first man I spoke to was old Nick Brewster. He just wouldn't listen. After cussing the dust for ten minutes he ended up by telling me that I couldn't change nature and the roads had been that way since he was a boy."

3. "The next chap, Bill McEchran" was a bit more reasonable, but he said something should be done and if Calcium Chloride could do it, we ought to get busy. Finally, she said she'd give the members of the Council a bit of her mind—and I believe she did!"

4. "Tom Town doubted if anything short of putting down a hard surface road would do any good. He'd come from the city and thought in terms of tar boilers and road rollers. Still he was open to argument. In the end he said it might be worth trying."

5. "Then I spoke to Old Mrs. Shippam, at the crossroads. She said something should be done and if Calcium Chloride could do it, we ought to get busy. Finally, she said she'd give the members of the Council a bit of her mind—and I believe she did!"

The third son, Petty Officer Gerald Earl is somewhere on the West Coast. All three boys followed the sea at an early age, serving in Imperial Oil Tankers prior to the outbreak of war.

R.D.F. Parker Porter, the youngest son, is serving somewhere at sea, having left school to enlist as soon as he became of age.

Following the family traditions of generations back, of men who go down to the sea in ships, these four young men volunteered to serve their country soon after the outbreak of war, probably having crossed the same ocean lines as their father before them, the late Captain Arthur, who served as Commanding Officer of a destroyer during the first Great War. Born at Westport, the son of Capt. James A. Moore, he died and was buried at sea in 1937.

He also had three brothers sea captains—Capt. Will, Capt. Fred.

Mrs. Lillian Melanson, of Saint John, visited her aged father, Handy Bowe, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Budd are spending a few weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Budd.

Mr. and Mrs. Halton Hayden and boys, Lawrence and Donald, were visitors in Yarmouth on Friday.

Mrs. M. J. Isaacs and children spending a week in Saint John with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Isaacs, Sr.

Cpl. T. P. Rowlett, of Digby is spending a 14-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rowlett.

Miss Alice Roberts has returned home from Berwick after visiting her sisters, Beatrice and Evelyn Roberts.

Mrs. Lorenzo Mailman and children, Bruce and Linda, of Springfield, Anna, Co., are visiting relatives here.

The weaver bird inserts thorns into its nesting materials to frighten its enemies.

and Capt. Albert, serving on the Patrol. Another brother is a Baptist missionary in North Alaska. Following the sea also is Captain Parker Porter, a brother of Mrs. Ethel Moore.

Somewhere in France, not far behind the roar of guns is a daughter, Lieutenant Evelyn, who went overseas in March of this year with a Surgical Group of American Army Nurses. She is a graduate of the New England Baptist Hospital.

Another daughter, Elaine, is employed in Defence Work.

Rev. James Brooks spoke on "The Church"; at the evening service Rev. B. C. Salter, B.A., chaplain at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, was the guest speaker, using as his text, "Finding God." There were special selections by the choir. Lovely flowers banked the altar.

It is over a hundred years since the church first held services in this community. Today, more than ever the steady, unfailing witness of the church is vital and necessary. Now is the time for the church to be a burning and shining light in the world, pointing the way to a saner, more just and peaceable society. A large offering was received.

OBITUARY

Frank E. Jefferson

One of the oldest residents of Bear River East passed away at his home on Friday morning, August 11, following a lengthy illness. He was a son of the late Albert and Helen (Potter) Jefferson and had lived all his life on the homestead where he was born January 26, 1870. He is survived by his widow, formerly Tressa M. Potter, of Clementsvalle; three daughters, Mrs. Otis (Abbie) Bell, Marshalltown; Mrs. John (Jennie) Tupper, Bear River East; Aida, at home three sons, Fred, at home; Herbert, of Digby, and Percy, of Mexico, Maine, and one brother, William, Mount Pleasant. He is also survived by thirteen grandchildren. The funeral service was held from the home on Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. James Brooks, assisted by Rev. Saunders Young. The late Mr. Jefferson was a member of the United Church, Bear River. The hymns rendered were "Does Jesus Care," "Some Sweet Day," and "By." "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer" and "Goodnight." The pallbearers were the four nephews, Reginald, Joseph and Harold, of Marshalltown. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Interment was in Mt. Hope Cemetery, Bear River.

We did it at VINNY...and CAEN-

WE'LL DO IT AGAIN- but we need YOUR HELP!

Yes, we need your help...and need it badly.

This is the biggest job we have ever tackled! Everything depends upon Victory.

Canada's Army needs volunteers NOW. And, that means you and you and you!

Wear Canada's Badge of Honour on your arm. You'll be proud of it, so will your friends.

Every man who is able has got to do his bit!

Maybe you don't think this means you... that it's a job for the other fellow.

If you do, you're wrong. It's your war, too... a war for every man who is a man... for everyone who has a stake in Canada.

Yes, this means you all right and we need you now for the months of intensive training to make you fighting-fit. We did it before and we can do it again... but we need your help.

GOING - INFLATION - GOING - GONE?

EVER walk into an auction and find yourself getting excited and wanting to bid... a victim of "auction fever"? Wartime conditions can breed "auction fever" if we let them. Everything is in short supply. Many more people are able to bid.

But... if prices are bid up... all our dollars will lose some of their value. Even necessities could get out of reach.

- What use is more money, if living costs go up still higher.
- What good are higher returns to business, if they are offset by higher costs.
- What does the farmer gain if higher farm prices lead to depression and low prices later.

We cannot continue a full war effort and prepare to meet the problems of the post-war period unless we maintain a stable and reasonable price level now.

About This and That

For the first time in history four rabbis are serving with a Canadian expeditionary force, while four other rabbis are in the Canadian Chaplain Services in the Dominion, according to the current issue of "Jews in Uniform" which has just been published by the War Efforts Committee of the Canadian Jewish Congress. This publication which is the only one of its kind in the world also reports that thirty-five Canadian Jews, who are serving in the army, navy and air force, have been decorated or mentioned in dispatches since the outbreak of the war. Other features are news about Jewish men on various war fronts with the Canadian Forces and a lengthy casualty list. The total number of Jewish casualties in this war has reached three hundred and thirteen.

Employers to Check On Male Employees

An Order signed on August 15 by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour, requires employers of male employees to check on the documents in the possession of any new employees being engaged, so that the employer may be satisfied that the man has not failed to comply with Mobilization Regulations.

While each employer is required to check on all new employees he engages in the future, he is only required to report to the Mobilization Registrars on men thought to be in the designated age classes who fail to furnish evidence that they have complied with the military call-up, or that because of marriage or for other reason, they do not have to comply.

The employer must report on any doubtful case within 7 days of the time he engages the man. Even though a man does not possess documents to show that he has complied with the regulations, the employer is not prohibited from hiring him, providing that any other Selective Service regulations have been complied with.

By an order of the Minister of Labour signed several months ago, all employers had to similarly check on their male employees by May 1st, this year. Under the present order employers are required to report by August 29, to the nearest Mobilization Registrar, on any employees hired since May 1st, who do not possess the necessary documents.

Employers in business and industry are being notified by mail of their responsibilities under the order just signed, while the necessary report forms are available on application through the Employment and Selective Service Offices. These Local Offices will also assist employers by furnishing information regarding the procedure under the check-up.

Special Rationed Supplies Doled Out

Having a serious illness seems an unpleasant way to get an extra pound of sugar a week yet this is one of the very few ways in which extra quantities of that particular commodity may be obtained from the alert guardians of Canada's precious sugar supply! In all of 1943, only 187,814 lbs. of sugar were permitted by the special Medical Advisory Committee to be allotted to needy medical cases.

Sugar is not the only rationed foodstuff which may be obtained in larger quantities by those whose illness makes it necessary for them to have additional supplies of rationed goods. Butter was allowed for special cases to the amount of 45.267 pounds last year. Evaporated milk and canned fruit are also "okayed" in extra quantities for certain purposes.

When meat was rationed, it, too, was given to those whose diet required more of such strengthening food, a total of 15,879 lbs. of it being so earmarked during 1942. Of course, the applicant for special rationing consideration has first of all to prove that he or she is suffering from the illness for which extra rations are permitted. Application must be made to a ration officer at a branch of the Ration Administration, and the applicant must present a certificate signed by a registered doctor. The name of the disease must be stated, with a list of the kind and amount of food required above the regular ration. The application also must show the period of time for which the additional supplies are desired.

Requests for extra rationed foods are refused when the nature of the disease concerned is not listed as necessitating additional rationed foods. Great care is taken to see that the privilege of extra rations is not abused. If the application is for excessive amount, or is not authorized by the special Medical Advisory Committee set up by the Department of Pensions and National Health, it is refused.

Flame Keeper Dies

The man who kept alive for 80 years a fire started by his ancestors 150 years ago in an open fireplace is dead at 84. The keeper of the flame, William Morris, died in a hospital at Tryon, N.C.

A bachelor, he was the last direct descendant of Robert Morris, of Philadelphia, who migrated to the Blue Ridge Mountains in 1780 and started the blaze that has burned continuously since. Before going to the hospital Mr. Morris left the fire in the care of Hampton Owens, a nephew.

Russians Facing Many Obstacles

The people of soviet Russia, who have lived through 27 years of revolution, civil and foreign wars, famine, five-year plans and purges, face at least another decade of toil before they will be able to relax and enjoy themselves.

That's the belief of Henry Cassidy, who has just returned to America after nearly four years as an American correspondent in Moscow.

Cassidy poses this important and intriguing question for the post-war world: What does the soviet government propose to do domestically?

He understands that the answer is: The soviet government envisages two more five-year plans, designed to build up heavy industry and capital goods, rather than light industry and consumers' goods.

When the first of the revived five-year plans will begin depends on when the war ends. Despite the rapid progress of the red army's summer campaign, there is little over-optimism in Moscow about an early end to the war. Since then, they have been in the war. The Russians thought it would end in 1942 and it didn't. Since then, they have been increasingly chary about predictions.

When the German army has been defeated, Cassidy says, the red army men who have fought on the fronts already for three years, the partisans who have lived under or away from nazi occupation will return to the hard work of long-range building.

Farmer's Carelessness Causes Cow's Death

"There is no question whatsoever but that this particular cow died from arsenical poisoning. The cause of this poisoning was simply carelessness in the disposal of the empty bags of lead and calcium arsenate." That was what F. A. Herman, chemist in charge, Dominion Experimental Station, Kentville, reported to a farmer following analyses of the organs of a dead cow which belonged to the farmer. Arsenic was present, according to the report, in heavy quantities throughout the entire cow.

The chemist points out that cows have a particular preference for lead arsenate and calcium arsenate which they will readily consume. Referring to the farm on which this cow died the report stated "in looking around the water hole of the back pasture bags of lead arsenate and calcium arsenate were on the ground. In many cases there was still considerable poison in each bag."

Mr. Herman points out that all empty containers of spray material, irrespective of whatever nature, should be carefully gathered up and placed in an iron drum or other suitable container and burnt. When burning bags of arsenicals care should be taken that one does not breathe the fumes coming from the burning bags.

One cannot stress too strongly, he adds, that great care should be exercised in seeing that no spray material or containers are loose where stock is grazing. It is also pointed out that sulphur preparations, either as dust or flotation sulphur, can cause indirect cattle poisoning. For this reason all containers of spray materials should be carefully segregated. A final word from Mr. Herman to the owner of the ill-fated cow, states, "I should also stress that when filling the spray tank beside the water hole that in no case should the spray tank be allowed to overflow and the toxic ingredients flow into the drinking water."

John A. McDonald, Nova Scotia Minister of Agriculture, on his return from Ottawa, has been discussing the situation with Federal labor and officials, advises the Province to take help is available when it is needed.

Right now, he states, there are a certain number of men on coastal patrol who can be used for farm work, and also a number of civilian farmers may feel that they can get along for the present without extra help, but know they will be needing workers later on for apple picking and other work of harvesting. If conditions were normal, it would be all right to delay taking men until they were needed for some specific work, but today conditions are far from normal; hence the advice to get men when they can be had, so that these men who could be used from the army would in all probability be sent to some other part of the Dominion for work if not employed here and as a consequence would not be available when greatly needed for apple picking time.

He points out that the outlook for getting men from the armed forces was done last fall when thousands were released from the army for handling the apple crop, not favorable owing to the trend of the war.

His advice, he repeated, is for farmers needing help for harvesting to take men now if they cannot get them as later on they may be able to get them.

Farmers wanting help should make their requirements with the agricultural representatives with National Selective Service at Kentville.

A serious weed situation is developing throughout the province, that calls for a determined effort in order to keep the soil from becoming polluted. The weeds referred to are perennial thistles, which have been described as "the world's worst" and Ragwort or Stinking Ragwort. Both of these, according to the Provincial Botanist, Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, are rapidly spreading in the province. Both are now in flower and conspicuous along roadsides or in fields and pastures. The ragwort is gradually spreading toward the centre of the Province, while the sow thistle is now well established throughout the Province. In many places there are only a few farms that do not contain one or more patches.

The spathy in respect to these weeds, says the Botanist, "is so great that a warning should be issued. Sow thistle has been described as the world's worst weed. Once it gets established, it is almost if a farm may ever be cleared of it. The gradual increase will in time interfere with the growing of grain and hoe crops so seriously that repeated and expensive control measures will be necessary."

Here, as in few other places on the farm, it is pointed out, a little prevention will save endless trouble later. Patches of these weeds should be mown or pulled wherever they are found. Particularly they should be cut out of grain fields so that the seed will not be scattered at threshing time. This, at least, will prevent their spread until more thorough control measures can be taken.

Other dangerous weeds have been observed during the year.

WAR-TIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—Can the price of apple butter vary in different stores in the same town? Can my butcher charge more for steak for cutting the fat off for me, and is 50c. a pound too much for bacon?

A.—The ceiling price of apple butter varies, depending on what the individual store charged for it during the basic period in 1941. The price of $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. bacon can fall anywhere between 43c. and 55c. according to grade. However your butcher is not right in charging you for removing fat. The correct procedure would be for him to sell you the steak at the stipulated ceiling price and remove the fat after "fining."

Q.—Will you please tell me the maximum selling price of bananas in Nova Scotia? Recently I have been charged more than I was a month ago.

A.—The retail selling price of bananas in this region is 15c. a pound.

Q.—We had a front tire blow out a mile from the nearest town. The garage man towed us in the mile and later towed the car a short distance to our home. He charged us $22. Are such prices not controlled?

A.—Yes, such prices certainly are controlled. The garage should not charge more for such services than he charged during the basic period, Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, 1941.

This charge seems very high. We are investigating the garage mentioned in your letter.

Q.—In 1941 and again in 1943 we purchased prune plum trees at 75c. each. This year the price has increased to $1.50 each. Why are these prices allowed to increase in this way?

A.—Nursery stock, including fruit trees, is exempt from Board regulations. The reason for this is the difficulty of estimating costs. The cost of raising a tree depends on weather and so many other factors.

Q.—Is a store permitted to hold back ice cream and candies to be sold only on the week-ends when a higher price can be charged?

A.—There is no Board order which requires a merchant to sell anything in his store at any specific time. However, merchants have been asked to distribute goods in short supply in as fair a way as possible among their regular customers. If this merchant is charging more over week-ends than was charged by him during the basic period, send in his name and address and we will have his prices checked?

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board answers questions put to the Digby Courier regarding price control and ration regulations. Or you may write direct to the Consumer Branch W.P.T.B., 77 Upper Water St., Halifax.

Nazis Despoil Occupied Lands

Now that there is no longer any doubt that Nazi invaders will be driven from the countries they have occupied they have set themselves one final goal, according to a report from Netherlands Information Services. That goal is to despoil the countries so thoroughly that their recovery will be hampered for years.

In Holland university education has been brought to a complete standstill, and the relentless strategy of "weeding out" Holland's intellectuals and future spiritual leaders is continuing with accelerated fury. With a few exceptions the country's entire student body has vanished from the campus. They are either in hiding or they have been forced to join the vast army of Hollanders slaving in German war plants.

It becomes more and more evident, the report goes on to say, that the Nazis have no intention of restoring the 3,000 Netherlands students now in Germany to normal life and study, even after the war. Systematically and brutally they have set out to break these boys, both physically and spiritually. And they are making good progress.

Students in philosophy, theology or the sciences are put to work at lathes, hoisting cranes and other forms of physical labour. When these boys unaccustomed to this strenuous type of work, slow down in their effort, they are sent to the so-called punishment camps. From these camps there is only one exit—the nearby crematorium.

From the student body in any country come many of the future leaders of the country, its scientists, philosophers, musicians, its lawyers, technicians, engineers, doctors. In Holland, as elsewhere the student cannot fight for liberation of his country except through the underground movement. Nor can he pursue his course of study. Thus he is deprived of the opportunity of making his contributions to national life both now and in the future.

Underground in Japan Hits Divine Attributes of Ruler

Not as publicized and probably not as effective in German-held Europe, an underground is operating in a small way in Japan.

Making up the underground are persons who had formed a liberal movement in the island before the war. After the conflict began the movement, hounded by the Tojo government, supposedly disbanded, but many of its members "went underground."

Pamphlets, propaganda, and newspapers of the organization are scattered throughout Japan. Death is the penalty for persons found with this literature, but the movement continues to grow throughout the country.

As allies began their island-hopping march toward Japan, the Japanese generals falsified communiques to make United States victories appear as Japanese triumphs. The underground, however, tuned in Chinese and American radios, learned the real truth and informed the people.

So successful was this step that it forced the Tojo government into damaging admissions, which had the long-sought effect of establishing in the minds of the people a doubt as to the reliability of their leaders' pronouncements concerning the war.

With this doubt well established the underground hit the core of Japan's imperialism—the emperor and his divine attributes. This daring move, however, is proving successful, and an increased amount of propaganda along this line is being distributed to the Jap people.

Stories of Japs Handling of Natives

A detailed picture of how Japan has treated the conquered peoples of New Guinea and the Netherlands Indies is emerging—a picture of unbelievable cruelty to population noted for their peaceful nature.

The details, drawn from liberated natives, are taken by the Dutch as discrediting completely the claims of Japanese propagandists that they won over the natives through a "velvet glove" policy.

In Dutch New Guinea, said natives, everyone was put to work at airfields from 7 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night, sometimes until 3 o'clock in the morning. For this they paid 20 Dutch cents (about 11 cents in American money) when the men lagged at their work they were beaten with lengths of wood, spades, and hammers.

When the men were away from home the Japanese would enter and steal whatever they could find. At night Japanese soldiers would lie in ambush for young women, and gardens would be plundered.

The Japs closed many schools and uniformly discouraged attendance among native children. They closed churches, banned Christian worship, and prohibited any reference to Dutch rule or use of the Dutch language.

The same sort of thing appears to have gone on in Australian New Guinea, but in that area many natives retreated to the hills and posted lookouts to avoid Japanese raiding parties seeking native laborers.

In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of a dear brother, Harold MacGowan, killed in France, July 15, 1944.

Just a prayer at twilight,
For our soldier boy
Who is sleeping far from home,
Far across a lonely sea,
Oh, how we miss you, brother darling,
For though you're gone to stay
Please, God, watch and guide him
Till we meet again some day.

—Inserted by his brothers Clarence and Stuart, and sister Winifred MacGowan. 51:11c

IN LOVING MEMORY of our brother, Devere L. Handspiker, who was drowned September 4, 1943:

There's a face that is haunting as ever,
There's a voice that I'm longing to hear;
There's a smile I'll always remember,
Though I try to forget every tear.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance,
There's a memory fond and true;
There's a token of affection, brother dear,
And heartaches still for you.

—Inserted by loving sisters, Vivian and Bereace, Saint John, N. B. 51:11p

IN LOVING MEMORY of our dear son and brother, Devere Laird Handspiker, drowned off Anderson's Wharf, Digby, September 4, 1943:

The one we loved has gone to rest,
His fond and tender heart is still;
His hands that always helped us
Now lie in death's cold chill.
There was not a thing, too big or small,
That he would not try to do for us
all.
It seems so strange and we wonder why
The best are always to die.
So quickly came the call.
Your sudden death surprised us
all.
We have lost but God has gained
One of the best the world contained.

—Always remembered by mother, father, brother (Pte. Hartford, somewhere in Canada), brother Clyde, brother Glendon, sister Zelda, and sister Phyllis. 51:11p

On the evening of August 10, friends of Mrs. George Jefferson, Bear River East, gathered at her home in honor of her birthday. About twenty-two ladies were present and a pleasant evening was spent. Mrs. Jefferson received many nice gifts among them being two nice pieces of china from several members of the Mite Society of which she is a member. Refreshments consisting of a decorated birthday cake made by Mrs. Jefferson's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Spears, small cakes and ice cream were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Marshall Wheelhouse, Mrs. Lovett Brown, Mrs. Gordon Ruggles and Thelma Lou Jefferson. At the close of the evening the guests departed after singing "Happy Birthday to Thelma" and "She's a Jolly Good Fellow" and wishing many birthdays would follow.

Visits St. Clements'

An interesting visitor in town over last week end was Rev. F. W. Weaver, Church of England chaplain in the Royal Navy, who for many years did mission work in China and Japan. With his wife he left Shanghai just ahead of the Jap occupation and they are now resident in Halifax in charge of the "Flying Angel" Mission, which was established there two years ago to minister to seamen of all services, ranks, races and creeds. Mr. Weaver is visiting the various dioceses of Eastern Canada soliciting support for the Mission and Sunday morning he conducted the service in St. John's church—Maitland and Holy Communion. During the service the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Lovering (nee Kaulback) was baptised, the name given the baby, "Nancy Joan". Mr. Weaver also conducted Sunday services in Clementsport and Deep Brook.

Lawrence Hubley, of Saint John, has been spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. G. Hubley, and his wife, at the home of Mrs. Walter Dukeshire.

Flight Lieut. J. R. Marvin, D. F. C., of Kentville, who has just returned to Canada after a tour of duty with the R.C.A.F. overseas—a veteran of many operations against the enemy—is now visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. McGregor.

Dr. Douglas Black arrived on Monday of last week to be at the home and office of Dr. A. B. Campbell during the period of time he will be absent. On Tuesday morning Doctor Campbell was operated on at the Digby General Hospital, where he is making satisfactory recovery. Later he will go to Halifax where he will spend some weeks at the home of his niece, Mrs. D. G. Cameron, R.N. (Janet Cameron), who has visited Bear River many times and has many friends here and in Digby.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS AND THEIR MALE EMPLOYEES

By an order signed on August 15th, 1944, by the undersigned Minister of Labour under authority of National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations:

- Commencing August 22nd, 1944, every employer is required to check the documents held by each newly engaged male employee, within 7 days of the employee's engagement, to determine if such employee possess documents to show that he is in good standing under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (that is, in relation to the Military Call-up);
- Every employer must report on Schedule 9 to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division, concerning any employee found not to possess documents as referred to;

- Every employer is required similarly to check the documents held by each male employee newly engaged between May 1st, 1944, and August 22nd, 1944, and to report to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division by August 29th, 1944, on any such employee found not to possess documents as referred to;

- Any male employee here referred to, is required by the Regulations to present his documents to his employer for purposes of inspection;

- Penalties are provided for any employer or male employee who fails to comply with these Regulations.

By an earlier order, employers were required to check the documents held by their male employees, and to report by May 1st, 1944, on doubtful cases as well as cases where employees did not possess documents. The procedure for the present continuing check, although being notified to employers in "Notice to Employers and their Male Employees", which is now being mailed, is identical with that set forth in "Employers' Guide", which covered the check made before May 1st, 1944.

Employers are asked to remember that they do not report on men who do possess the necessary documents—only on those who fail to present documents for examination, or where there is doubt that the document presented actually proves good standing.

The employers of Canada co-operated very satisfactorily on the first check, made up to May 1st last. This co-operation was decidedly helpful, and is very much appreciated. Further co-operation is now earnestly requested.

Schedule 9 and details as to documents which prove good standing, are available through the Employment and Selective Service Offices.

Recent W.P.T.B. Regulations of Interest in N. S.
The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced details regarding the distribution of limited amounts of rim fire cartridges and shot shells to sportsmen. This will be the first allowance of such ammunition for sporting purposes since rationing began.
No centre fire cartridges will be released to sportsmen because of the great demand for this type of munition from essential users.
The Board said labor and production facilities still limit the amount of ammunition available and needs of essential users such as farmers, trappers and prospectors must continue to have first claim on supplies.
Under the new distribution plan every person possessing a registered rim fire rifle may apply for a permit to purchase not more than one hundred rim fire cartridges and every owner of a registered shotgun may apply for purchase of 50 shells. If the person possesses both types of gun he may make application for purchase permits for both types of ammunition. No matter how many rim rifles and shotguns he owns, he is entitled to only 100 cartridges and 50 shot shell. A purchaser with shot guns of two different gauges may take 25 shells for one gauge and 25 for another.
Sportsmen may make application to their local ration board until September 30. The applicant must present both his gun registration certificate and his ration book or card. No hunters purchase permits for small arms ammunition will be issued after that date but permits issued will be valid for purchase of ammunition from September 1 to December 31 inclusive.
Each permit will be good for the purpose of only one type of ammunition—rim fire or shot shell—and will be issued accordingly.
Essential users of small arms ammunition including farmers, trappers and prospectors who desire ammunition for sporting purposes will be treated in the same manner as other applicants and may acquire ammunition for such purposes under the above terms. Such an allotment will not affect their usual allowance for essential uses.

Slaughter Permits No Longer Necessary For Hogs
After August 21 farmers may slaughter hogs for sale without obtaining a slaughtering permit and may sell pork without having it stamped, the foods administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced recently.
This simplification of procedure was made possible, Board officials said, because of the suspension of meat rationing and the great increase in the number of hog producers.

Mrs. Alojajian left Thursday for her home in Boston after visiting her mother, Mrs. Greene, for the past two weeks.

Recent week end guests at the home of Mrs. Emma Greene were J. Reid and Stewart Richardson of H.M.C.S. "Cornwallis".

Staff Sergeant Alphie Comeau, who has been spending a two-weeks' furlough at his home here, has returned to Aldershot.

Rev. and Mrs. Hartley Mullen, accompanied by Mrs. Grant, all of Havelock, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Mullen, on Sunday week.

Mrs. Richards and two children, who have been visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Anderson, have returned to her home in Malden, Mass.

Mrs. Cassie Watson has returned to her home in Boston after spending the summer with her sister, Miss Rosa Jones, Weymouth North.

Little Denise Cooke was an overnight patient in the Digby Hospital on Wednesday of last week and underwent a tonsillectomy.

Miss Patsy Howlin, who has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Brun since June, has returned to her home in New York.

Friends of Father Frecker note with delight that he is looking more rested after spending two weeks' vacation in Prince Edward Island.

Mrs. Douglas Gates, Weymouth Mills, is enjoying a visit from her son, Richard, of the Merchant navy, and her daughter, Olive, of Moncton.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Grierson and two sons, who have been visiting relatives here and in Annapolis, have returned to their home in New Jersey.

Mrs. K. M. Hankinson is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wallis, in Digby, and her sister, Mrs. M. O. Tibert, in Central Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Perley Mullen left Wednesday of last week to return to their home in Waltham, Mass., after having visited Mrs. Roger Sabean.

Mrs. Moore, Yarmouth, was a week end guest of Dr. and Mrs. Simpson. Mrs. Simpson also entertained a number of friends at supper Saturday.

Gerald Saukier has been a patient in the Digby Hospital. He suffered a broken knee cap when he had the misfortune to fall from a building he was repairing at his home here.

Pte. Donald Bonnanfant, who has been spending a 39-day furlough at his home here after being wounded in Italy, has returned to Halifax and expects to leave for overseas duty soon.

Victor Comeau left Monday of last week for Halifax to join the Army. Fred Dior, Weymouth North, a former clerk for G. D. Campbell & Co., has also gone to the garrison city to join the colors.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Harris, Mr. D'Oubin and Miss Helen Journeay, all of Halifax, and Mrs. Manning of Montreal, spent the week end at the home of Mrs. Frank Journeay, Mrs. Harris remaining until today.

Mrs. Loring and two children, of Amherst, have returned home after a visit of two weeks at her parents' home. Prior to her departure she and several other guests were entertained at supper by Mrs. R. S. Hallett.

Mrs. J. D. Rice, Mrs. H. Melanson, accompanied by Mrs. Leonard, Mrs. Peters and Mrs. Theriault, of Digby, attended the Officers' dance of the Reserve Army in Kentville, on Thursday, August 17th, returning home the following evening.

The weekly Red Cross meeting in Killam Hall, Wednesday of last week, was well attended. As many members as possible were gathered around the two large quilts in the frames, while the other members cut or sewed garments and patchwork. In the Denvers display were five large quilts and one hundred and twenty handkerchiefs.

A Memorial Service was held Sunday week for Freddie Mullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Mullen, in the Reformed Baptist Church, Tusket, former home of the deceased. The service was well attended, the lovely floral tributes testifying to the respect and affection of the community for this brave young boy who gave his life serving with our forces in Italy.

A. R. Freight Truck Wrecked

One of the Dominion Atlantic's large motor freight trucks was damaged considerably yesterday afternoon in an accident on the Digby River. The van which was between Digby and Annapolis Royal, was in charge of Mr. Jeddry.

According to reports the front end of the vehicle locked causing the machine to go over an embankment between the Royal Bank of Canada and the Bear River Trading Company, plunging into the river and turning upside down. Neither Mr. Jeddry nor the helper was injured.

William F. Addison Arrive Today

William F. Addison, president of the Canadian Bandmasters' Association, Inc., and conductor of the incomparable Toronto Symphony Band, is expected to arrive today for a vacation of several weeks. He has consented to conduct an out-door concert at the Digby Civic Band, at which a march—"Point Prim"—will be played, some time this afternoon. Forty years ago Mr. Addison was a member of the noted "Band of Canada" which made a tour of the world and won two command performances for King Edward VII, at Balmoral Castle and later at Sandringham Palace, on the King's birthday. During the first World War he was conductor of the band of the Canadian Machine Corps, and he has a record for service—thirty-five years—in the great Toronto Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Addison is widely known as one of Canada's pre-eminent musicians, and during his stay in Digby will doubtless be visited by numerous Maritime bandsmen.

Fire Destroys Small Shed.

Located on the property of John [Name], in the south end of the town, a small shed was completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning, the alarm sounded shortly before 5.30. The cause of the blaze is unknown. The building was used for storage of lumber and other odds and ends. One of Mr. Raymond's pups was destroyed in the fire. The estimated loss at about $200. The fire was first seen by Harold [Name] fireman at the Navy Hostel.

The Winnipeg Convention

By J. M. Wallis

From the standpoint of news, the 25th Annual Convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association is now almost history. Most of you have read abbreviated accounts of the convention in your daily newspapers; many of you heard some of the broadcasts that went on the air over the CBC network. Nevertheless, as the Courier's representative I feel there are a few details in which you will be interested.

As you know the convention was held in the great Canadian city of Winnipeg, where some 350 delegates, representing weekly newspapers from Newfoundland to the Yukon, met at the Royal Alexander Hotel.

The Courier's "alternate delegate" to this convention was my eight-year-old daughter, "Jenny-lu", and although she only attended one session, she got a great deal out of the trip and saw a lot of the geography she will later study in her school books.

Space will not permit my chronicling her impressions of the trip. We left Digby on Saturday, August 12, and after a pleasant crossing of the Bay boarded our train at Saint John that evening and arrived in Winnipeg on Tuesday morning. We remained in the city for a week, stopping with relatives in the Elmwood sector.

The convention got under way on the morning of Thursday, August 17. After registration and invocation, addresses of welcome on behalf of the Manitoba Division of the Association were given by President E. P. Brown and A. W. Hanks, divisional secretary and chairman of the National Convention Committee. Due to the absence of W. J. Rowe, of Manitou, Man., president of the Association, who was ill in a Winnipeg hospital, the president's address of welcome was delivered by E. P. Galbraith, of Red Deer, Alberta, First Vice-President. Routine reports followed.

C. V. Charters, of Brampton, Ont., managing director of the Association, in his report challenged editors to do a bit more preaching on moral and spiritual standards in preparation for the post-war world.

The chief speaker during the first morning's session was Carl C. Carlson, publisher of the Long Prairie Leader, and president of the Minnesota Press Association. He charged the tendency of metropolitan dailies was toward "editorial cowardice". He deplored the lack of editorial policies and space devoted to the writings and opinions of columnists whose "opinions are not necessarily those of this newspaper". He complimented the weekly editors on their editorial policies and declared that because of the editorial cowardice of all but a few of the large dailies the weekly newspaper is becoming the last bulwark of free speech.

Other committee reports followed Mr. Carlson's address.

We were guests of the government of the Province of Manitoba at lunch. The guest speaker was the Hon. Stuart S. Garson, premier of Manitoba. I believe Premier Garson's speech on that occasion made the headlines of newspapers all across Canada, so I am not going to write much about it. He sharply disagreed with the remarks made by Premier George Drew, of Ontario in his radio address from Toronto on August 9. His clash with the Ontario premier was on the latter's claim that if the recently enacted Family Allowance legislation came into effect the people of Ontario would have to pay nearly 50 per cent of it and would receive much less in benefits.

"In it he aimed a shaft at Quebec which hit, instead, the prairie provinces and the Maritimes", Mr. Garson declared. "I am perfectly sure Premier Drew's figure is incorrect and that he cannot find an economist or statistician who will say the use he made of it in his radio speech was a legitimate one."

Continuing his remarks the Manitoba premier stated: "I suggest that the figures overstate the taxes paid by the people of Ontario and Quebec and substantially understate the taxes paid by the prairie provinces. Even a casual perusal of records shows that this 50 per cent for Ontario and 33 per cent for Quebec includes customs duties, excise taxes and sales taxes paid by importers and manufacturers as in Ontario and Quebec."

"These taxes are written into the cost of goods and services which these Ontario and Quebec concerns sell in Western Canada and in the Maritimes. A large part of the Ontario figure represents taxes which ultimately come to rest upon the taxpayers in the West and in the Maritimes."

He went on to say that Mr. Drew's figure also included income taxes paid upon all profits made by the oil, milling, packing, manufacturing, insurance, trust, loan, implement and mercantile companies and the chartered banks—nearly all of which have their head offices in Ontario and Quebec with branches in the prairies and the Maritimes.

"When Premier Drew undertakes to think up ways of spending in Ontario taxes paid by people in other parts of Canada and income taxes made by Ontario firms in other provinces, he is discussing revenues which the provincial government from Toronto has no power to reach. Under a situation such as Mr. Drew supported, the West and the Maritimes would become economic colonies, not so much of Ontario and Quebec, but of Toronto and Montreal."

Afternoon sessions on Thursday were devoted to reports and group conferences. Mayor Garnet Coulter officially welcomed the delegates to the city of Winnipeg. The Winnipeg City Council provided special entertainment for the ladies attending the convention by chartering special street cars to Assiniboine Park.

Our hosts at dinner were the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, with Dr. Joseph S. Davis, director of food research for Stanford University, California, as guest speaker. Dr. Davis' address was most interesting, but as his remarks applied almost entirely to the wheat growing prairie provinces I will not enlarge on them in this report. Following the address the "Bingville Bugle" was published and broadcast over the CBC network.

At breakfast on Friday we were entertained by the Winnipeg Branch of the Toronto Type Foundry Ltd. The address of Dr. Floyd Willoughby, president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, was, to my mind, one of the highlights of the convention. Dr. Willoughby stressed that adequate education for democracy demands that our schools be staffed with teachers of the very best ability; character and attainments, and that these teachers should have the best professional training possible and the most ideal conditions under which to render their professional services. He said: "I need not point out to you, I am sure, that we require our medical profession to take six or seven years of professional training before entrusting them to take care of our bodies. Even nurses in many provinces are required three years' training after obtaining their matriculation. But apparently we have been willing to allow conditions in the teaching profession which cannot attract people of superior ability and attainments, when we give such people a few months' training and place them in positions in our schools where their work and influence are bound to affect the

Schools Reopen After Vacation

We didn't hear any shouts of "Happy Days are Here Again" yesterday morning when hundreds of the "kids" marched off to school—singly, in pairs, and in small groups—all heading up the hill to the old red brick school house after their long summer vacation.

Nevertheless, those we saw were not looking sad about it. Some, of course, did considerable grousing, but, on the whole, they appeared to us as a mighty cheerful lot of boys and girls—especially those veterans of the third and fourth grades.

A few of the tiny tots trudging off to school for the first time (most of them in care of big sister or brother, and a few with their mothers), did appear a bit "befuddled", perhaps wondering what it was all about, and looking forward to their first days of school with both anticipation and fear and trembling. A few shed tears, and some of the younger mothers looked as though they might have shed a few tears themselves.

Hospital Fair Raised $4,200.

Proceeds for the annual Digby Hospital Fair are reported in the vicinity of $4,200 with still a few small sums expected. The gross proceeds of the fair are the highest in its history, exceeding last year's, when the fair was held on two days, by some $200.

The 1944 Hospital Fair was held on Labor Day on the Myrtle Hotel Grounds, on the west side of First Ave., and on a portion of First Avenue which had been roped off for the purpose.

In spite of gasoline rationing and travel restrictions, the fair, which has become one of Digby's "locked to" events, was attended by thousands, an indication of appreciation of the needs of Digby County and surrounding territory in their hospital.

Booths were operated by out-of-town Hospital Aid Societies and swelled the proceeds by several thousands of dollars.

These booths were in addition to the many operated by the Digby Hospital Aid Society and other local organizations, who gladly gave of their time and effort.

New comers to the town and district also showed their interest in the Digby General Hospital through their attendance, their assistance in the booths and the help they gave in many ways. Most of these new residents are connected with H. M. C. S. Cornwallis. A Cornwellian orchestra furnished music for the dance held in the Myrtle Hotel dining room during the evening.

Weather conditions, both afternoon and evening, were ideal.

OBITUARY

Mrs. William Sanford

The funeral of the late Mrs. William Sanford, Clementsport was held from the United Church on Monday afternoon, August 28, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Jas. Brooks, assisted by Rev. Frank Smith, former pastor of the Baptist churches in the district and now of Victoria Street church, in Saint John. Burial was in the Clementsvalle cemetery. Born in Perotte, Annapolis county, Mrs. Sanford was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Spurr, who lived in Round Hill many years. Until her health prevented she was a very active person in all community and church work, and she leaves many friends throughout the district who will mourn her passing, which occurred on Friday afternoon, August 25, at her home. Surviving are her husband; one son, James, who was home on leave from Petewawa; also several sisters and brothers. The eldest son, Donald, was accidentally killed in England on September 17, 1942.

very destiny of the nation. I submit to you that this is not good enough and along this road can lie only disaster for democracy and democratic institutions."

During the course of his address he pointed out there was one group of political leaders who saw with fearful clarity that education is the very basis for all social planning. Those, he said, were the Fascist and Nazi leaders who lavished every attention on education and the youth of their countries, in order to militarize their spirits before giving them the weapons of war and they were thus able to fasten on the people the Education for Death program. He continued: "Again the world is shaken to its very foundations by a world-wide conflict and again education is being used as a mighty instrument in the fight for

Escapes Death

Sheldon Sproule Comes in Contact With High Voltage Wire

A very serious and what might have been a fatal accident took place in Deep Brook last Thursday when Sheldon Sproule came in contact with a live electric wire carrying a high voltage of current, and was knocked unconscious and severely burned.

A foundation was prepared near the highway on the property known as the Annapolis Co. Poultry Farm, and the cottage in the field, occupied by Sproule, was being moved across the land to the new foundation. As the cottage was passing under the wires connecting the cottage with the poultry house, Mr. Sproule, believing that the current had been shut off, went on the roof to lift the wires over the chimney top.

The current had not been shut off and when he took hold of the wire he received the full charge of electricity; the wire coming also in contact with the chimney caused a vivid flash of fire which Mr. Sproule received in the face. He fell unconscious on the roof and was carried down into the house by the workmen. Dr. Rowter, of Bear River, was summoned and being unable to secure a vacant bed in the hospital, is rendering all possible aid to him in his home. Had Mr. Sproule touched both wires at the same time he would have been killed instantly. The accident is more distressing due to the fact of the ill health of Mrs. Sproule, who was compelled to leave her bed and minister to her afflicted husband who has severe burns on his hands, arms and legs, beside a badly burned face as a result of the flash of fire when the electric wires came in contact with the chimney.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Larsen are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dukeshire. — Mrs. Mary MacCarthy and daughter, Edna, of Cambridge, Mass., are visiting at the same home.

Hospital In Dire Need of Help

The need of help has been felt in nearly all professional and business lines since the beginning of the war. Many trained men and women have joined the Forces or are working in various war plants.

No where has the need been more keenly felt than in our hospitals, both in professional and domestic capacity. Many doctors and nurses are serving with the Forces, and girls who would, in normal times, be available for kitchen and laundry work are doing their bit in the factories.

In our hospital in Digby the cry for more help is urgent. Last week one of the girls in the laundry had the misfortune to break one of her wrists, but gamely continued at her work in spite of this handicap.

However, three girls are needed, two for the kitchen and one in the laundry. Two nurses are also needed to fill in temporary vacancies. Even girls with partial training would be of great assistance in making beds and doing small chores, thereby relieving the other nurses of part of the load.

The number of patients has been steadily increasing in the last ten months, making a heavier load for a small staff. Perhaps you know of someone who could help fill in if only for a short time.

And Now It's Cucumbers!

The Courier has received from Central Grove, a "twin" cucumber. Both grew on one stem. This curio is a product of the garden of Frank and Llewellyn Delaney and the combined vegetables measure 9 inches long and 6 1/4 across.

Mrs. H. VonLengerke, of Newark, New Jersey, is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. VonLengerke, Brighton.

Spr. Elsie LeBlanc, of Little Brook, a member of the Royal Canadian Engineering Corps, has recently been reported as wounded.

Walter Moses, President of the City National Bank, Philadelphia, and Miss Eleanor Voorhees, of Cambridge, Mass., are guests at the Myrtle Hotel.

John E. Rogers, of South Peabody, Mass., is visiting his mother, Mrs. Katherine Rogers. This is the first time Mr. Rogers has been home in seven years.

Commander Thomas Hood, with Mrs. Hood and son, "Sandv", have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. (Lieut.) Vernon Hewitt, at the home of Mrs. Mac Hewitt.

Miss Shirley Snow and cousin, Miss Patsy Height, of Worcester, Mass., returned Saturday after spending a few days with the former's father, Roy A. Snow.

Mrs. D. C. Sinclair, who has been acting as assistant hostess at the Y. W. C. A. Leave Centre here, returned recently to take up her duties at a school near Moncton.

Pte. Raymond Edward MacIntosh, whose name recently appeared in the Canadian Casualty List as "wounded" is a half-brother of Pte. George Winfield, of Digby.

Mrs. G. W. Sabean and sons, Clarence and George, who have been visiting with Mrs. J. Out-house, in Tiverton, returned to their home in Saint John Thursday last.

Mrs. S. Jas. Pink and daughter, Miss Margaret, of Ottawa, arrived Saturday to spend a couple of weeks with the former's daughter, Mrs. P. R. Zoppi and family. Mrs. J. L. Bowiby, who was visiting at the same home, returned to Ottawa Friday.

Mrs. K. C. Piaget and Miss Eleanor Piaget, of New Jersey, and Miss Lillian Lork and Miss Helen Pleyer, of New York, who have been visiting Mrs. Piaget's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. VonLengerke, Brighton, left on Friday to return to their homes.

During the month of August the Y. W. C. A. had 1244 visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Grant will leave today to spend some time in Ottawa.

Mrs. Ethel Taylor, hostess of the Digby Leave Centre, left on Wednesday for Moncton.

The regular monthly meeting of the Hospital Ladies' Aid will be held in the Court House on Monday.

Mrs. Walter Henshaw and son, Walter, left on Tuesday for their home in Lynn, Mass., after spending the summer with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. David Ellis.

Mrs. W. Moore, of Bear River, was the lucky winner of the cedar chest raffled at the Hospital Fair on Monday. A complete list of prizes and winners will be published next week.

A special meeting will be held in the Salvation Army Barracks tomorrow night at 8.00 o'clock when Colonel and Mrs. Ursaki, Divisional Commanders, will be guest speakers. All are welcome.

A special meeting of the Ladies' Hospital Aid was held on Thursday last when Mrs. J. R. McCleave tendered her resignation as president. Mrs. J. W. Merkel was elected to fill the vacancy.

Gdsm. S. L. Larrimore, of Amherst, spent the week end with his wife and son in Mt. Pleasant. On his return to Amherst on Monday he was accompanied by Mrs. Larrimore who will remain for some time.

Miss Josephine Mitchell, who has been teaching at Mt. Allison Summer School, is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Russell, before going to Connecticut College, where she has accepted a position on the faculty.

Mrs. William Christie left for Halifax last Friday to attend the marriage of Miss Beverley Major, daughter of R. A. Major, president of the Navy League, N. S. Branch, to Lt. "Terry" Fitzpatrick, which took place last Saturday in St. Paul's church. She will be accompanied back by Lt. Christie.

Several personals were received in the mail this week which we are unable to use as they had not been signed. All notes sent in for publication must be signed by the sender. Among the notes referred to was an interesting batch of village news without either heading or signature and from a strange writer. They were apparently from Victoria Beach (judging from the names used), but we do not care about "guessing at" such things.

Two Digby County Micmac boys—Joe Lewis, of Digby, and John Paul, of the Bear River Reservation, have returned home from overseas as casualties. Both are well known, particularly to hunters and fishermen, who they guided into the hinterlands in pre-war days. John was severely wounded in the early stages of the Sicilian invasion, and as the result of his wounds wears an artificial leg, his right leg having been amputated below the knee. Jos was wounded in Italy, and for the time being finds it necessary to get along with a cane.

In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of Leonard Allen, who passed away September 2, 1940:
Four years have passed since that sad day.
The one we loved was called away. Forget him—no, we never will. For in our hearts he liveth still. Oh, happy hours we once enjoyed. How sweet their memory still. But death has left a loneliness. The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by his three daughters, Dorothy, Norma and Margaret. 52:11p

IN LOVING MEMORY of our dear mother, Mrs. Cynthia J. Hand-spiker, who passed away September 11th, 1940:

Four years have passed and gone. Since one we loved so well. Was taken from our home on earth.
With Jesus Christ to dwell. The flowers we place upon her grave.
May wither and decay: But the love for her who sleeps beneath. Shall never fade away.
—Inserted by her daughters, Ada, Della and Bessie, and sons, Leonard, Edgar and John. 52:11p

IN LOVING MEMORY of our dear brother, Harold Alexander, who was killed in action in France, July 15th, aged 26:

You are not forgotten, brother dearest.
And as dawns another day. In our lonely hours of thinking. Thoughts of you are not away. Friends may think we have forgotten. When they some time, see us smile. But they little know the sorrow. That the smile hides all the while.
—Ever remembered by his sister Winnifred, and brothers Clarence and Stuart. 52:11c

NATIONAL IMMUNIZATION WEEK September 10 to September 16

Each year hundreds of Canadian children die needlessly of such diseases as diphtheria and whooping cough, while small-pox is a constant threat.

Medical science has the means to prevent these diseases. Toxoid prevents diphtheria.

Whooping cough vaccine protects against whooping cough. Smallpox vaccine prevents smallpox.

Every child should have these treatments by the age of one year, or earlier.

A "re-inforcing" dose of Toxoid should be given before the child starts to school.

Nova Scotia Parents do your part—it is up to you to protect your child. Do not neglect your duty and responsibility.

Winnipeg Convention

justice, decency and freedom. When that victory comes, is this instrument to be again relegated to a secondary position by world statesmen, or is it going to be used to help build a new world society and a just and lasting peace?"

Other speakers during the morning were Dr. P. A. MacDonald, of the Manitoba Cancer Relief and Research Institute; G. Warren Brown, president Cockfield Brown Co. Ltd., on "National Advertising for Weekly Newspapers"; Ralph W. Keller, manager Minnesota Press Association, and John Atkins, paper administrator for the W.P.T.B.

The Winnipeg "Tribune" and the Winnipeg "Free Press" were our joint hosts at luncheon on Friday when the address, prepared by Graham F. Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada and national chairman of the Canadian Finance Committee, was read by D. B. Mansur, assistant chairman of the National War Finance Committee. Mr. Towers was unable to attend on account of illness. In this address warning was given that victory in Europe will not end the war. The speaker said: "Up to the present Canada had been very successful in the fight against inflation, but Canadians could not afford to rest on the laurels of past achievements. The future was full of fresh challenge which must be faced with determination and confidence. It would be tragic to throw overboard all good work up to now, through a premature slackening support of the savings program or of other measures necessary to continue the fight against inflation."

Friday evening was the occasion of the annual trophy dinner of the association. Percy Phillips, Canadian representative of the New York Times, at Ottawa, was the guest speaker. He was the Paris correspondent to that paper from 1916 until the fall of France in 1940, and in that time came to know and love France.

He expressed the hope that not only the victors would be represented at the peace conference: "These people who have lost know what modern war is like and in their humility and great need I think they would more surely lead us along the right road to peace than those who have only been slightly frightened," he said.

Speaking of the fall of France he said its defeat was not due to leaders such as Laval but to overwhelming odds against them and the belief that the democracies had deserted them. Only ten British divisions were in France; Canada had an army of 4,500 men and 15 small war vessels. Neither Russia or the United States had declared war, and yet 40,000,000 Frenchmen were expected to hold back 80,000,000 Germans.

"I submit to you that no men, no nation, can fight when it is so outnumbered, so outarmed, so broken in spirit as the French were when they found themselves alone in May, 1940. Laval and company could never have come to the top if the French army had not been unsupported by the other democracies. The fact is very clear that separately we would have lost the war—as the French did. It has only been by hanging together and working together that we have come through."

Capt. G. A. T. MacKidd, of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, who was wounded and captured at Dieppe, and recently returned to Canada on the Gripsholm, was speaker at breakfast on Saturday morning. The breakfast was sponsored by the Manitoba Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, and made possible by the co-operation of Winnipeg merchants. Capt. MacKidd told of life in German prison camps. He declared the Red Cross has kept the prisoners alive, in fact, he said "if it hadn't been for Red Cross food parcels received each week, I would not be speaking to you today. They are the one thing that keeps prisoners of war happy and healthy and in good morale."

The T. Eaton Company were our hosts at Saturday's closing luncheon.

about the things you buy in wartime

Milk

IS NOT ELASTIC

WHAT HAPPENS TO ALL THIS MILK?

In spite of greater production, the demand for milk and milk products has risen even more, because—

- There's more money to spend;
- More people are working, with changed food habits and increased food needs;
- Our Armed Forces and Allies make heavy demands.

It has therefore been necessary by rationing, by subsidies, by careful planning and by other controls—to divert our milk supply into channels most suited to our various food needs.

The production of milk and milk products in Canada has achieved a notable record. Careful planning makes the best use of every quart. But we must all recognize the conditions imposed by war and realize that in these times we all can't get all we want.

Chapman Warfare Prices & Trade Board

Product	Percentage of Supply
Fluid Milk	48%
Butter	35%
Cheese	10%
Evaporated Milk	6%
Ice Cream and Other Milk Products	1 1/2%

TAKES 48% OF OUR MILK

Because fluid milk is regarded by nutritionists as the most nearly perfect food, nothing has been allowed to interfere with its sale. Today, Canadians are drinking more milk and a greater percentage of our milk supply is being consumed as fluid milk—than ever before. Fluid milk has the right of way, but don't waste a drop of it.

BUTTER
TAKES 35% OF OUR MILK

In the first three years of war, our butter consumption increased 10.9%. So, rationing was established to prevent too much milk going into butter, at the expense of other important milk products, and to insure a fair share to everyone.

The rationing of butter was influenced by the fact that it has less nutritive value than some other milk products, and because we get a generous supply of fats or their food equivalent in other forms.

To maintain a proper balance of consumption between various milk products and to ensure that butter is put into storage for winter use—when production drops—it is necessary to reduce the ration from time to time.

CHEESE
TAKES 10% OF OUR MILK

Canada's annual cheese production has gone up by about 37 million pounds since the war.

Cheese is a concentrated food product—easily shipped and stored. That is one reason why we send large quantities to Great Britain to help meet its pressing food needs. While in the last year we exported four of every five pounds of cheese we made, our production has been so increased that we have left for domestic use about three million pounds a year more than before the war.

EVAPORATED MILK
TAKES 6% OF OUR MILK

More than twice as much (152 million lbs.) was used by Canadians this last year as in 1938 (74 million lbs.). And yet, there has not been enough.

Where has it all gone? It's an important food for babies—and there are 50,000 more of them a year. Larger quantities have gone to areas where fresh milk is not available. Armed Services have added new demands. In spite of this, our exports of evaporated milk to Great Britain, Newfoundland and the West Indies, etc., are maintained at pre-war level.

ICE CREAM AND OTHER MILK PRODUCTS
TAKE ABOUT 1 1/2% OF OUR MILK

The manufacture of ice cream is restricted to the 1941 level because milk is needed for other purposes. Milk Powder and Condensed Milk are taking more milk. Milk sugar is used in the manufacture of Penicillin and for other wartime purposes. Casein (a milk by-product) is used in making glue for aeroplanes.

90% OF THE MILK PRODUCED IN CANADA IS CONSUMED IN CANADA

THE WARTIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD

Rationing and Price Control

Since the outbreak of war the Dominion Government has received, and in our opinion, justifiable criticism in connection with the manpower question—extravagance, etc., etc., but there is one thing the Government is justly entitled to a great deal of credit for, and that is Rationing and Price Control. Rationing has meant an equal distribution and price control has stopped inflation, and in the final analysis will mean a great deal after the war is over.

All remember too well the after effects of the last war, on account of there not being Price Control, the price of wheat skyrocketing with the result that flour prices became almost prohibitive. The same applied to sugar and many other articles. This meant those who could afford to purchase at the high prices had an unfair advantage over the person not in as affluent circumstances. This in itself was bad enough during the war years. However this was not the only bad feature of lack of price control. After the war period, the west in particular suffered a set back that took years to recover from. Many farmers lost their homes to the Mortgage and Loan companies. With wheat selling at from $2.00 to $2.40 per bushel, farmers could not resist buying up more land at prices far beyond the value of the lands purchased. In order to make down payments on this additional land, the home farms were mortgaged to the hilt, and when price conditions came back to normal, farmers not only found themselves land poor, but also bank-account poor... then came the depression.

During this war farmers have received, for their grain crops, a fair price—a price that paid to raise grain, and instead of putting their savings into the purchase of additional lands, they have purchased Victory Bonds, and have put themselves in a first class financial position to carry on after the war is over. True, much equipment will have to be replaced, farm homes and buildings painted, and in many instances remodelled, etc., but as stated they will be in a position to improve their properties, instead of paying interest on lands purchased.

So again we state the Price Control Board are deserving of commendation, and the beneficial results are so evident that every effort must be made to prevent inflation, by way of wage increases, etc.—of course we do not wish to infer that wages are now higher than the work entailed warrants. We do know that in the East particularly, that men and women earning from five to seven dollars a day are not saving one dollar which is the first step towards inflation.

WAR-TIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. I bought a used car on August 10, and was able to sell it two days later. Now someone tells me I cannot buy another used car to replace it. Is that correct?

A. Yes. Under the used car order of the Prices Board no individual may buy more than one used passenger car in any calendar year, unless he owned five cars or more last year when he is allowed to buy one for every five so owned.

Q. I have read a great deal about the remake centres, but unfortunately one has never been started in our community. Is there in any way in which we could have one?

A. If you will write to the Consumer Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, I am sure your request will receive very earnest and sympathetic consideration.

Q. I am anxious to obtain a hot air furnace for installation in the house I am building. How can one be procured?

A. You may make application to any office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, provided you hold a permit from the Controller of Construction.

Q. I wish to obtain a quantity of molasses to use in feeding hens. What is the coupon value of such molasses?

A. Blackstrap molasses if sold in bulk or in containers greater than 120 fluid ounces is not rationed. It is this type of molasses which is used to feed livestock or fowl.

Q. What steps must one take in order to become identified with the Consumer Branch of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board?

A. Any women's group is entitled to select a liaison officer to represent it under the Women's Regional Advisory Committee of the Board, which in turn represents the Consumer Branch. Send the name of the liaison officer you choose to the Regional Chairman of the WRAC, Mrs. K. L. Dawson, 77 Upper Water Street, Halifax. The committee will shortly be holding their annual conference.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board answers questions put to The Digby Courier regarding price control and ration regulations. Or you may write direct to the Consumer Branch, W.P.T.B., 111 Water St., Halifax.

Aurle Comeau left Saturday for Bridgewater where she will teach this school term.

Alan Amiraull, Yarmouth, spent a couple of days with his aunt, Mrs. Brun, last week.

Mrs. Evelyn Cooke has gone to Mount Uniacke to visit her sister.

Mrs. Grant, Moncton, has been a guest of her sister, Mrs. Victor MacNeill, since Friday.

Mrs. Eli Melanson and daughter Lucy left for Bridgetown last week to visit Mrs. John Thibodeau.

Miss Alice Payson left on the holiday to take up her duties as school teacher in Kentville.

Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Wilfred Cosman, Halifax, were visitors here over the holiday week end.

Miss Pader and Miss Fergusson, of Halifax, are among the guests at the Bayside Inn, Weymouth North.

Miss Adams, teacher of the preparatory class for the coming school term arrived here on Monday.

Lt. John Hargraft, R. C. N., of Halifax, spent a recent week end at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Granville.

Jock Campbell, Halifax, is spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dougald Campbell, Weymouth North.

Mr. and Mrs. Snelling and family, of Boston, are visiting Mrs. Snelling's mother, Mrs. Rudolf, Weymouth North.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bent and small son, of Yarmouth, are visiting Mrs. Bent's mother, Mrs. Alphonse Muise.

Mr. and Mrs. Cereno Jones motored to Halifax Labor Day and are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Harris.

Mrs. Dobert MacGowan, Weymouth, is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. W. M. Woodley, in Saint John.

Mrs. Ollie Goodwin of the Goodwin Hotel, who suffered an ill turn Monday of last week, is now able to sit up in a wheel chair.

Mrs. Carl Reeves has returned to her home in Mulgrave after visiting her mother, Mrs. Annie Cornwall, Weymouth North.

Recent Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Hankinson, were Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hankinson and son, David, of Middleton.

Commander and Mrs. Denny and family, who have been visiting Mrs. E. A. Fergusson, have returned to their home in Halifax.

Mrs. Martha Sabine, Digby, arrived here on Saturday and will take up the duties of housekeeper for her nephew, Howard Payson.

Elizabeth Brooks, R. N., accompanied by Frances Winchester, R. N., Windsor, were recent guests at the home of Miss Brooks' parents.

Miss Lucy Mullen, who has been spending her summer vacation at her home here, left last week for Halifax where she will teach this term.

Mrs. Merle Mullen had as her guests last week her mother, Mrs. Nathan Andrews, and sister, Miss Alice Andrews, of Melbourne, Yarmouth county.

Nieces of Mrs. Brodie, the Misses Hatfield, of Halifax, were recent week end guests of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Brodie, at St. Peter's rectory, Weymouth North.

Mrs. W. M. Woodley, of Saint John, and Mrs. C. E. Buscher, of New Jersey, who have been visiting relatives in Weymouth, have returned home.

Dan Melanson, of East Boston, is visiting his brother, Dr. Melanson, of Weymouth. He will also visit his former home in Corberie before returning to the United States.

The many friends of Flying Officer Jack MacNeill, R. C. A. F. overseas, will regret to learn that he is reported as missing, according to word received by his parents last Friday.

Mrs. Glidden Campbell and daughter Margaret spent a few days in Saint John last week. Upon their return home Miss Campbell left to resume her duties as reporter in Halifax.

Mrs. Victor MacNeill, accompanied by her husband who has been with the local Reserve Army platoon in Aldershot for the past two weeks, returned home Tuesday of last week, after visiting relatives in Kentville.

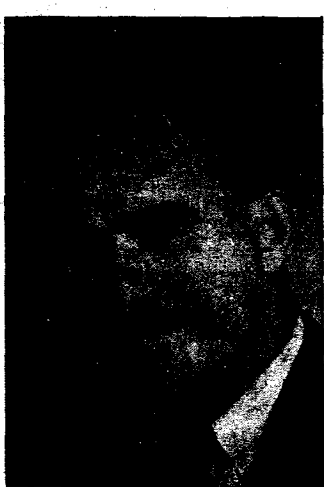

During the vacation period electric lights have been installed in the Weymouth school. In spite of this new convenience, however, the pupils show the customary lack of enthusiasm to return to school.

Clara Hankinson, assistant supervisor of the Deaconess Hospital, Boston, and George Hankinson, instructor in North Eastern University in the same city, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George O. Hankinson.

Fair weather attended the launching of the Air Force boat at noon on Labor Day and many out-of-town as well as local people witnessed the event. This vessel is the first of its kind to be built by the LeBlanc Shipbuilding Company and the largest boat this company has turned out to date. A reception was held in the afternoon following the launching on the grounds of Mrs. E. A. Fergusson's summer home in Weymouth North.

The small number of donors at the Weymouth Blood Clinic, held Thursday last, was very discouraging to those who had given so much of their time to assist in making the Clinic a success. Only about twenty donors volunteered to give blood, although five times that number could have been attended to. Drs. Melanson, Pothier and Medical Student "Bing" Dickie were in attendance, also nurses Mrs. Melanson, Mrs. Brun, Mrs. Johnson and Miss Rand, of Digby. Refreshments and stimulants were in charge of Mrs. D. Rice and Mrs. Eli Comeau; while Aurle Comeau, Mrs. E. A. Fergusson, Mrs. Arthur Jones, Mrs. Cereno Jones and Mrs. Matheson attended to the clerical work. Instead of the regular Tuesday night trips to the blood bank in Digby, Mrs. Cereno Jones has decided to hold the clinic here every eight weeks for the convenience of our local blood donors. However, anyone who wishes to volunteer a car for the Digby trip will please "phone 56-20 and Mrs. Jones will find volunteers to fill the car. It is hoped our next local clinic will be, at least, as successful as the first ones held here.

The afternoon tea, held in the Killam Hall Wednesday of last week by the ladies of the Red Cross, rewarded the tireless efforts of the president, Mrs. Rice, and the entertainment committee chairwoman, Mrs. H. Blackadar, by being a grand success. The many people attending from surrounding communities, as well as the local attendance, expressed much admiration for the appearance of the hall, which was artistically decorated with green foliage and cut flowers. Presiding over the silver tea and coffee services were Mrs. Thorpe, Mrs. F. O. Hankinson and Mrs. Hogan. Among those serving the dainty

ROY PARKS HAZELWOOD (Published by Request)

The sudden death of Roy Parks Hazelwood recently at the Scotia Hotel came as a great shock to his many friends. He had been employed at the Scotia as head chef for the past year and by his genial disposition and kindness had made a host of friends both here and through the Annapolis Valley. He was forty-six years of age—born in Somerset, N. S., and resided at Harbour View for a number of years. He left to mourn their loss, his widow, residing in Halifax; two sons, Carmen, of the R. C. A. F., now in France; Barty, in Kentville; and one daughter, Mrs. Edgar Williams, also in Kentville; and his aged mother, one sister, Mrs. Harry Legge, and two brothers, Lorne and Boyd, in Somerset; and two sisters, Ethel and Edith, in the United States. The funeral was held on August 17 from the home of Mrs. Williams, Kentville, Rev. Mr. Fenerty, of the United Church officiating. Interment was at Oak cemetery. The beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which he was held.

Refreshments were Mrs. H. E. Gates, Mrs. Arthur Jones, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Quigley, Mrs. Geo. Wagner and the Misses Aurle Comeau, Theresa Granville, Geraldine Wagner, Alice Payson, Mae Parker and Miss Comeau. Replenishing were Mrs. Eli Comeau (the Red Cross's efficient tea and coffee maker), Mrs. Guy Blackadar, Mrs. H. Blackadar and Mrs. George Hankinson. Musical entertainment was provided by Mrs. Rice, who played the piano, while Mrs. Harley Amaro, Gilbert's Cove, and Mrs. George Wagner sang. Guests of honor were Rev. and Mrs. Brodie and the officers of St. Thomas' Guild, as follows: Mrs. Fen. Journeay, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Grierson, Mrs. Greeno and Miss Helen Taylor. Mr. Brodie thanked Mrs. Rice on behalf of himself and St. Thomas' Guild (to whom the proceeds were given) for the generous gesture, presenting her with a basket of gladioli. Mrs. Rice expressed her thanks for the gift and to all those who in any way assisted in making the tea a success. Proceeds for the afternoon amounted to between $55 and $60, more than $13 of which was realised by a ticket sale on a large layer cake made by Mrs. Alphonse Muise and won by Mrs. Snelling. Among those attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Gaede and Mrs. McGrath, Barton; Mrs. E. O. Theriault, Mrs. Alfie LeBlanc, Mrs. Alfie Theriault, Mrs. L. C. LeBlanc, Mrs. Louis Belliveau, Miss Eugenie Belliveau, all of Belliveau's Cove, and Mrs. Wilfred Belliveau, of St. Bernard's.

Many Gifts for St. Ann's Chapel

There was a well-attended business meeting held at the home of Mrs. Frank Witherbee, Smith's Cove, on Friday evening of last week. A review was made on the activities of St. Ann's Chapel for the season, which had been very successful. It was decided to make necessary repairs to the Chapel, also to paint and stain it. At the conclusion of the meeting a social hour was spent.

At the last service for the season in the chapel held on August 27, Holy Communion was celebrated, Rev. F. Smith, of Halifax, being the celebrant. At this service a dedication was performed in connection with a gift to the church by Mrs. Frank Witherbee, of San Diego, Cal. The articles comprised an Antependium, Book Mark, Chalice Vale and Burse, Pall, Corporals and Lavapo. These articles were made by Mrs. Witherbee personally. She has been a visitor to Smith's Cove for a number of years and is a staunch supporter of St. Anne's. The embroidery work is beautiful and adds greatly to the beauty of the little church.

Community Fair Attracts Many

A very successful community fair was held by the Maple Leaf Agricultural Society at Hill Grove, Sunday and was well attended. Exhibits of livestock featured horses, oxen, calves and sheep. Garden crops were much in evidence, with a good showing of pumpkins, tomatoes, onions, and other vegetables, with many different types of potatoes, among them the new Chippawa, which was tried out for the first time this year.

Booths were set up for displays of fancy work, home cooking and home produce, and crowds gathered around the bingo booth and the wheel, while girls busily plied their needles on quilt, candy, bannocks, bedroom slippers, cakes, etc.

The fair, held on the farm of Messrs. Rupp & Son, is the third sponsored by the Maple Leaf Society. Proceeds are shared with the Red Cross.

The list and other details will be published in next week's issue.

Retires After Long Service

When the school bell rang this week it was the first time in almost 35 years that Principal Frank I. Lent did not sit behind the desk at Westville Academy.

A native of Freeport, Digby Co., Principal Lent retired after giving all those years of faithful service to the Westville schools.

In recognition of his service he was presented with valuable gifts and a purse of money by the School Board, the teachers, the present High School students and the former High School students. The latter group, with representatives from all over Canada and the United States, made the gift of the substantial purse of money.

Further honoring a beloved teacher, the Student Council has made arrangements to have an enlarged picture of ex-Principal adorn the wall.

Yacht Club News

The 1944 yachting season came to a close Tuesday evening with a banquet held in the boat house. Commodore Dr. Channing LeFebvre presided, and an excellent supper of baked clams was served.

The season proved successful, eight races were held, and a cruise for the Navy boys. Commodore LeFebvre presented the cup to B. H. Ruggles, who was the successful candidate, scoring 25 points with his yacht, Peter Pan.

An election of officers was held, and plans made for next season. Officers as follows: Commodore, B.H. Ruggles, Vice Commodore, Arthur Weir, 2nd Vice Commodore, Percy Weir, and Secretary-Treasurer, Frank Larche.

Points scored for the last four races—August 20, B. H. Ruggles, Peter Pan, 4; Arthur Weir, The Wren, 3; Percy Weir, Sassy Sue, 2; Dr. LeFebvre, Lucky Chance, failed to finish. August 27—Peter Pan, 4; The Wren, 3; Lucky Chance, 2; Sassy Sue, 1. September 3; Peter Pan, 5; Tar Baby, (Roy Peters) 4; Lucky Chance, 3; Sassy Sue, 2; The Wren, 1. September 4, Peter Pan, 4; The Wren, 3; Sassy Sue, 2; Lucky Chance, failed to finish.

Extraordinary Band Concert Next Sunday

The Digby Civic Band, through the influence of Bandmaster Yates, has brought to Digby one of the foremost Band Conductors in Canada—Mr. Leidlaf F. Addison, Conductor of the great Toronto Symphony Band, who will direct a program of popular and choice numbers at the Digby Band Stand next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Digby Band will be augmented by a dozen visiting bandmen, chiefly from H. M. C. S. Cornwallis, though Bandmaster P. F. Belyea, organizer of the new and permanent Military Band of Saint John, has assured Mr. Yates that he will send as many players as can be taken care of overnight, and perhaps will come in person.

Mr. Addison gave the Digby bandmen a good drill last Thursday night and will meet the full band again tonight for rehearsal.

This concert will cost the Digby bandmen a sum running into three figures, and as the band treasury is almost empty they advertise "Admission 25c. (by collection)". It is hoped the public will respond. The Board of Trade heartily endorses this project and many send an authorized representative to solicit private contributions about town, and to take charge of the collection at the concert, in co-operation with Fred McBride, President of the Music Council.

Couple Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary Of Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Melanson, one of the most esteemed couples of Little Brook, Clare, recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The happy event commenced with a Solemn High Mass at St. Mary's Church, at Church Point, celebrated by Rev. O. Hebert, C.J.M., rector of Church Point, assisted by Rev. Simeon Comeau, C.J.M., as Deacon and Rev. L. Laplante, C.J.M., as Subdeacon. John Thibodeau, of Church Point, was Master of Ceremonies. Prof. Ulysse Comeau, church organist, presided at the organ with the full choir of singers attending. The large edifice was filled to capacity.

Later a banquet was held at the home of the couple, at which over 150 invited guests were present. At the banquet Mr. and Mrs. Melanson were presented with an address of congratulations and a purse of $145. They also received many beautiful and valuable gifts and cards and telegrams of congratulations, some from the United States, New Brunswick and Newfoundland.

Mr. and Mrs. Melanson were married at St. Mary's Church, Church Point, by Father O'Connell. The bridesmaid was Chantale Comeau, who was also present at the banquet, and the groomsmen, Charles Romain.

Digby Boys Are Casualties

Captain George M. Morrell, of Digby, has received word that his youngest son, Earl, has been seriously wounded in action in Italy. According to the dispatch received, the date of the action is not yet available. The nature of the wounds are described as a serious bullet wound in the right arm and hip, and a compound fracture of the iliac crest.

Earl, who has been in the service for a little more than two years, is thought to be the youngest of the Digby boys to join the services, enlisting shortly after his 16th birthday. He is one of Digby's most popular young men and attended Digby Academy and St. Anne's College, Church Point.

Mrs. Leona Winchester has received word that her husband, Sergeant Carl (Gillie) Winchester, was wounded in France on July 23rd. Sgt. Winchester is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Winchester. His wife and two sons reside in Hill Grove.

Lieut. Robert Merkel, son of Gerald C. Merkel, of Chicago (formerly of Digby), has been wounded on a bombing mission over enemy country, it has been learned. He is a nephew of Postmaster J. W. Merkel.

George Wilfred Marsters, who enlisted in the West Nova Scotia Regiment almost five years ago, returned to his home in Deep Brook, from Italy, on Monday. Apart from being somewhat nervous he is remarkably well after his long and strenuous service in the armed forces, and is being royally welcomed by his wife and son, as well as by his many friends.

He enlisted on September 4, '39, and proceeded to Scotland in May, '40. After his period of training and service in the British Isles, he proceeded to Sicily and thence to Italy, where he rendered efficient service to his king and country.

When his leave is up he will report again for duty and his future service will be in the hands of the military authorities.

Town Planning Committee Discussed

Organization of a Town Planning Committee, representative of citizens of the town of Digby, was discussed at the Board of Trade meeting, Tuesday night. Further and more definite details will likely be considered later, in the meantime, the Board will request that the Town Council take preliminary steps in the organization of such a committee.

During the discussion on the matter serious conditions in Digby were considered. It was pointed out that the town's population has doubled during the past two years, and many of the newcomers have established permanent homes here, indicating their intention of becoming permanent residents. After the war boom means of providing a livelihood for these people, as well as for our own boys now in the services will have to be found. It was felt the only solution was to encourage new industries to establish themselves in Digby.

The sad condition of the government pier and the future of the tourist industry were brought to attention of members. It was pointed out the pier was in a serious state of bad repair making it a detriment to shipping, and that as summer hotels had been converted into tenements, and used for other purposes to meet with present day conditions, Digby was now left with only one modern tourist hotel, the C.P.R. "Pines Hotel" which has not been operating for the past two years. There is now practically no "year round" hotels in the town, and accommodation for transients is practically nil.

V. O. N. Report

At the September meeting of the V.O.N. on Tuesday, Miss Dy-sart reported on the work for both July and August. During July 219 visits were made of which 176 were nursing visits; 2 deliveries made; 7 hours 30 minutes at blood donors clinic. In child welfare 27 infants and 8 pre-school children visited; 4 well-baby clinics held with an attendance of 30 infants and 5 pre-school children.

During August the nurse made 237 visits, of which 218 were nursing visits; 4 deliveries; 1 infant death; 13 hours 45 minutes spent at blood donors clinic; 4 well-baby clinics with 19 infants in attendance. In child welfare 13 infants and 3 pre-school children were visited.

Patrick's School Formally Opened

The new St. Patrick's School formally opened on Monday of last week with 121 pupils registered in regular school classes and 100 in commercial courses.

The formal opening and dedication of the new school will be held on Thanksgiving Day, November 9, when the building will be opened for public inspection.

Work for to be done in basement and auditorium the building is now practically completed. There are eight classrooms, a large auditorium, base-ment and roof garden.

The school is under the supervision of the Sisters of Charity, Mother John, N. B.

Travel to A. Prohibited

In view of the increase in infantile paralysis in the western parts of the United States, army personnel, except on duty, are prohibited from crossing the border, according to an order issued from Ottawa on September 5th.

Some 70 ladies from the convention inspected the plant where 2,400 parcels are packed daily between 10 a.m. and 12 noon by volunteer Winnipeg ladies.

Want Standard Time

The Digby Board of Trade at their meeting in the Town Hall Tuesday evening, passed a resolution requesting the town council to petition the federal government to revert to standard time during the winter months.

In the discussion which took place over the matter it was pointed out that in the winter season "daylight time" imposed a definite hardship for many, particularly to the school children in the rural areas.

These children, who in many cases, have long distances to travel to school, must leave home in pitch darkness, and in all kinds of weather. In a number of schools not equipped with electric lights, opening is postponed until 9:30 or later, and time made up during the afternoon session. Not only does this procedure delay the home coming of the children and upset schedules, but makes the afternoon session too long for little tots.

H. J. Campbell, superintendent of the Digby County Power Board, stated that going back to standard time for the winter months would not seriously effect the load on the hydro system.

The secretary was also instructed to write C. W. Ross, provincial director of Physical Fitness to inquire re ways and means of establishing a physical fitness program for the Digby Schools.

The Board voted unanimously to cooperate in every possible way with the seventh Victory Loan Campaign to be launched next month.

The Board also recommended that the Town Council be asked to take definite steps to arrange for a V Day Celebration.

MARRIAGES

Jefferson - Hersey
The United Baptist Church was the scene of a quiet wedding on Sunday night when Mrs. Isabell Hersey, Digby, became the bride of William W. Jefferson, Mount Pleasant. The bride wore a navy blue suit with wine accessories. Mrs. R. E. Jefferson, matron of honor, wore navy, while Reginald E. Jefferson, supported the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Earle DeLong. A surprise party was held at the home Monday night.

Padget - Goodwin
A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Baptist parsonage on Tuesday afternoon when Eva Goodwin, daughter of Mrs. George Goodwin and the late Mr. Goodwin, of Brandon, Man., became the bride of Sgt. Cecil R. Padget, R.C.A.F., Ottawa, son of Mrs. Padget and the late Alexander A. Padget. The bride was attired in a beige wool suit with black accessories, and wore a corsage of pink roses and sweet peas, with maiden hair fern. Rev. J. Earle DeLong officiated at the ceremony. The bride and groom left on the Princess Helene.

Flt. Sgt. Roy Porter has gone to Lachine, P.Q., after spending a leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Porter, Hill Grove.

Mrs. Levi Mead and Mrs. Lloyd Hersey were in town for a day on their way to Boston to visit Commander and Mrs. Jack Anderson, of that place.

Mrs. Gordon Burnham and son, David, have returned to Halifax, having spent the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Eldridge.

Couple Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary Of Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Melanson, one of the most esteemed couples of Little Brook, Clare, recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The happy event commenced with a Solemn High Mass at St. Mary's Church, at Church Point, celebrated by Rev. O. Hebert, C.J.M., rector of Church Point, assisted by Rev. Simeon Comeau, C.J.M., as Deacon and Rev. L. Laplante, C.J.M., as Subdeacon. John Thibodeau, of Church Point, was Master of Ceremonies. Prof. Ulysse Comeau, church organist, presided at the organ with the full choir of singers attending. The large edifice was filled to capacity.

Later a banquet was held at the home of the couple, at which over 150 invited guests were present. Sufficient Water For Hydro

Although water levels on Grand and Fourth Lakes are low, a good level is being maintained on Fifth Lake, according to H. J. Campbell, superintendent of the Digby County Power Board, who recently made an inspection tour of the lake area.

It is these lakes that feed the Sissiboo River which furnishes the water power to turn the turbines of the Digby County Power Board's two generating plants. Should the water supplies fail, the situation here would be serious.

However, Mr. Campbell stated there is sufficient water to provide power for some time, but admitted the water situation has been the cause of much concern.

This has been one of the driest summers Digby Co. has experienced in years, and with the exception of some heavy rains in June and the first part of July, there has been practically no rainfall of any consequence since May. A few light rainfalls during the past week or so have done nothing to raise the water levels in lakes and streams in the district.

During the dry summer of 1930 the water supply on the Sissiboo system practically failed, and in order to provide hydro for the evenings, power was shut off during most of the daytime, thus building up a head of water for the then single generating plant. Since that time, due to the construction of an elaborate system of dams, a good level of water has been maintained even during the driest summers even although the consumption of electrical energy has almost trebled since then.

J. W. Merkel Re-Elected Secretary

Digby's postmaster, James W. Merkel, was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the Maritime Branch of the Canadian Postmaster's Association, which met last week in annual convention at Cornwallis Inn, Kentville, N. S. Mr. Merkel was also honored at the closing meeting of the association when he was awarded the prize "to the postmaster doing the most for the welfare of the Association during the year."

Other officers re-elected were W. J. Gaynor, McAdam, N.B., President; and P. J. MacInnes, Borden, P.E.I., Vice-President.

Members of the new executive are E. A. Shawn, Pocologan, N.B.; R. J. Vroom, Deep Brook, N.S.; C. J. Havelock, Plaster Rock, N. B.; and George MacLean, Winsloe, P. E.I.

Postmaster Vroom, of Deep Brook, was also among the prize winners—his prize for being the heaviest postmaster present at the convention.

About This and That

With this issue the Courier enters on its 71st year of public service. We can now consider ourselves among the veterans although there are several papers in the province older than the Courier, and all of them are just as youthful as the youngest. A newspaper never grows old in the sense that other properties do—it always has a forward outlook. As soon as one issue is off the press it is of the past—history. Then the news staff and editorial writers look ahead for the next issue, the past forgotten. However, we look back on our seventy years of history and we are proud of our record. We have never missed an issue and only once or twice have we missed a mail—weather conditions in one case made it impossible for the staff to get to the office and press breakdowns two or three other occasions. But the Courier—seventy years young—is still carrying the news of the county to its many readers and constantly gaining new friends. We heartily thank our loyal correspondents, some of which have been writing the news of their communities for many years, and are grateful for the patronage shown us by the general public.

A German broadcast says that "the enemy will enter the reich only over our dead bodies." Well, that will help a lot.

The average man's post-war dream was lately depicted by a cartoonist. All the help without which he had barely struggled along for the past few years was now on hand again, eager to be employed. The painter pined to decorate his house. His stenographer was on the doorstep, her work vastly improved by service in the Wrens and Waacs. A new car was at his gate, and the filling station operator was asking: "Fill her up? Don't need coupons, you know." This is the kind of dream from which a man hates to wake up. It may be a little ahead of time now, but the day is coming.

"Women will eventually own and operate the world," says one student of sociology. Whatever became of the idea that it was the meek who were to inherit the earth?

Bad news for the Nazi leaders. They will find no post-war refuge in neutral Switzerland. The Swiss Federal Council has announced that hereafter "foreigners unworthy of asylum because of despicable acts or of their activities or attitude violating Swiss interests are in no case to be admitted." Hitler, Himmler, et al, will not therefore be able to flee to Switzerland after the war as the Kaiser did to Holland in 1918, and thumb their noses at the United Nations. Spain and Portugal remain, but they will need favors from the victors too greatly to offer asylums to down-and-out Nazis. Now if Argentina can be cut off all the holes of escape will be closed.

The person who loafs around "waiting for something to turn up" had better keep his eyes on his toes.

MY THOUGHTS

The following poem was written by a young soldier from Centreville on a train returning to camp after his last leave home before going overseas:

Pictures of the past flit through my mind,
Like the landscape flies by the speeding train;
Those memories bring a smile to my lips,
But to my heart bring pain.
For I've left all things held dear to me
And I can never relive the past again.

I have no one to lead me on,
No one to tell me what's right or wrong;
To give me courage, strength or love.
No one, but God above.
So trusting in His tender care
I'll leave my burdens with Him up there.
And face the future with a smile,
And in the end it will be worth while.

Mrs. Porter, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Trimper, has been visiting her mother recently, having come from the United States.

"Junior" Marshall, who has spent some time with his sister, Mrs. Donald Baird, has returned home, accompanied by Mrs. Baird and little son, Reggie.

Mrs. Clyde Brooks, of Medford, Mass., was a recent guest of her sister, Mrs. Ralph Potter, and was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. John Simpson, of Victory.

Mrs. Ralph Potter and daughter, Mrs. Weston Sanford, recently spent a few days in Tupperville, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Potter and Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Inglis.

Burton Coburn and daughter, Elaine, have been visiting the former's sister, Mrs. George Danielson. Dr. and Mrs. Chudley, of Halifax, were also guests at the same home.

The B. Y. P. U. had charge of the Sunday evening service in the Baptist church, presided over by the president, Miss Freda Potter. Topics dealt with were: "The Day of Prayer" and "The Place of the Church in the Nation". A report on the history and achievements of the B. Y. P. U. was given by Miss Marjorie Pierce and two of the young people rendered a duet.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Howard and son, Whitney, of Ipswich, Mass., have been visiting Mrs. Beale Sanford (who recently returned from a visit to the United States), and other relatives and friends. — L/Cpl. Bruce Sanford, of Fredericton, also spent a few days at the same home, with his mother.

On Saturday evening, August 26, a large crowd assembled at the Foresters' Hall to welcome home one of the young men from overseas—Oakley Potter. The evening was spent in musical games and dancing, music being supplied by Mr. and Mrs. Chipman Potter and other participants. During the evening a hand of welcome was extended to Oakley by Norman Sanford, a veteran of the last war, who also made a presentation of a sum of money, token of the honor and appreciation felt toward Oakley for his part in the cause of freedom. This was followed by "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and a general "sing-song". Refreshments were served before the close of the evening. Pte. Oakley went overseas with a Montreal regiment in 1941, and took part in the Sicilian campaign; then spent a year in Italy from which area of action he recently returned to Canada. He is a son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Fred Potter, and is very much welcomed as he has not been home for nine years, having been employed in Ontario for some time before war was declared.

WORTH CROWING ABOUT!

We have caught up with orders for the first time in two years

Additional experienced help and the usual September lull have enabled us to reduce our job work files to a point where we are "just comfortably busy." We can reasonably expect to be in this position for another three or four weeks.

Check Your Printed Forms Today

... and place your orders now—before the usual fall rush begins. We expect to be very busy after the first of October. You will be wise to "order now" even if you have enough forms on hand to keep you going until the first of the new year.

Nova Scotians Becoming "Used Car Minded"

Nova Scotia has become "used car-minded". Wartime Prices and Trade Board officials decided wistfully last month as countless inquiries regarding all aspects of new regulations governing sale and distribution came from hundreds of prospective buyers and district dealers.

Most disappointed of those who sought information were car owners who have purchased a used car since December 31, 1943. They will not be eligible for another car until January, 1945, unless their present car is destroyed or stolen.

Leading the field in requests for information were questions dealing with prices. Second and fast becoming a favorite is the problem of trade-ins. Dealers want to know "do I have to sell a car without a trade-in?" and prospective buyers echo, "can a dealer make me give him a trade-in?"

Explaining the regulations designed to curb any possible black market tendencies, Stanley Lee, prices and supply representative for the region, stated that in some cases dealers may demand a trade-in. In other instances they must sell a car without a trade-in.

"If the prospective buyer of a used car is eligible in Class A, B, or C in the Rubber Controller's Order Number 4 for priority for used or new tires, the used car dealer cannot insist on a trade-in," Mr. Lee said. "The dealer may, however, demand a cash payment. Those who have no priority rating for tires may be required to give a trade-in. In those cases, at present the decision belongs to the dealer. Individuals selling a used car may not demand a "trade-in". The allowance for a trade-in must be "fair and just".

The new regulation does not alter maximum prices established by an order in effect for some time. They do require the dealer to tag the car with the record of the year, make, serial number and model and the maximum price, including all accessories and any spare tires or tubes.

Individuals who advertise a car for sale are required to indicate the year, make, model, serial number, accessories as well as the owner's name and address, with the price asked. This figure must not be above the maximum selling price in the regulations.

All persons, whether dealers or individuals, who sell a used car after July 31, must secure forms from the W. P. T. B. office in their locality. These forms are designed to record details of the transaction in triplicate. One copy is returned to the W. P. T. B. office from which the form was secured, one given to the purchaser and one retained by the seller.

While the ceiling prices have been established by order the regulations point out that the car must be "fit for the purpose it was manufactured". In other words, Board officials stated, the car must be in good running order before it can demand legal maximum ceiling prices.

CALL TO SAINT JOHN

John Amero, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. John Carr and family, who were visiting him, were called to Saint John by the death of Mr. Amero's son-in-law, James Driscoll, of West Saint John.

Mrs. Charles Douglas

Word has been received by Kenneth L. Sanford, of the death of his cousin, Mrs. Charles Douglas (Violetta Sanford) at her home in Nashua, N. H. She was a daughter of the late Noble and Emma (Miller) Sanford, of Bear River East, and was the last member of the family, her brother, Leland having passed away at the early age of 9 years. Surviving are several uncles and aunts.

James Driscoll

Many friends will learn with regret of the death of James Driscoll, which occurred at his residence, West Saint John, on Sunday, the 3rd inst., after an illness of a year and five months.

Born at Lorneville he was a son of the late Daniel and Jane Driscoll. He resided there in early life but had lived in West Saint John for the past forty-five years. He was well known in the city and county, particularly along the waterfront and had been an employee of the C. P. R. for more than forty years. He was a member of the Church of the Assumption parish and held membership in the Holy Name Society and League of the Sacred Heart. He was also a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Freight Handlers. Surviving are his wife, formerly Miss Ena B. Amero, of Hill Grove; one son, John J., and two daughters, Mrs. R. S. Millican and Mrs. P. D. Darragh, all of Saint John; four brothers, Thomas, John J., Patrick and Timothy, all of Saint John; and seven grandchildren. The funeral was held from the Church of the Assumption for Solomons, Mass. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery.

Mrs. Fred Fogg and daughter, Evelyn, left Thursday last for their home in Bryantville, Mass., after spending three weeks with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Handspiker.

Victorious Canadians enter Berlin

Every Canadian looks forward to that headline. Every Canadian believes that some day soon a great victorious convoy will thunder down the road to Berlin. Huge Canadian trucks . . . Canada's crack battle equipment, and gallant Canadian soldiers, world's finest fighting men, will all be there.

Will you be with them on the road? . . . or at least, on the way? The smashing defeats we must inflict upon the enemy before that day, however, cannot be won except by fierce, determined fighting . . . and the First Canadian Army, you may be sure, will help to deal the hammer blows that punch the way along the Berlin road.

That's why Canada's Army needs men and needs them NOW! Join for General Service TODAY!

When Peace has come, you'll be proud to know (and know that the world knows) you had your place in the mighty force that fought its way to final VICTORY.

Mrs. Louise McRann, who for nearly a year has been a member of the "Courier" staff as reporter, leaves next week for her home in Prince Albert, Sask. We are sorry to see Louise go—she has been a great help to us, and during her short residence in Digby has made a host of friends by whom she will be remembered for a long time to come.

It is said of Auber, the famous French composer, being 80, was firm of step and young in spirit. On being congratulated on his 80th anniversary he laughed and said, "Oh, no. I'm not 80—merely four times 20." Digby's grand old man—young in step and spirit (we refer to W. E. VanBlarcom) will on Saturday be four times 20, plus 3. Congratulations, Mr. Van!

Laidlaw Addison, the Toronto Conductor, now vacationing in Digby, has the reputation of being a "tough" man at rehearsals. When rehearsing the massesed bands at the recent Convention of the Bandmasters' Association in Stratford (temperature in the bandroom at 104) he was dubbed "Simon Legree" by the exhausted bandmen, but our Digby bandmen found him a most genial, though rigid, bandmaster.

Although registration has not yet been completed approximately 470 students enrolled for the fall and winter term at the Digby Academy, on Tuesday last. Brie; Home Economics, Miss R. Campbell, who is absent on sick leave).

OBITUARY

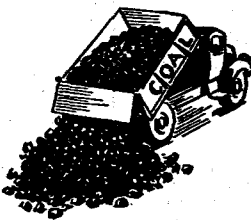

Joseph Amoro
Joseph Amoro, 74, husband of Mrs. Johanna (Philbrook) Amoro, of Gloucester, Mass., died Thursday evening at the Danvers State hospital in Hathorne, where he had been a patient since April. Mr. Amoro was born in Doucetteville, Digby Co., on March 17, 1870, the son of Jessie and Julia (McCauley) Amoro. In Gloucester he worked as a laborer until his retirement a few years ago. His first wife was the late Nora Lynch. Surviving in addition to his second wife, is a brother, Freeman Amoro, of Doucetteville. The funeral was held Monday with requiem high mass in St. Ann's church at 10 o'clock. Burial was in Calvary cemetery.

Warwick V. Harris
Warwick V. Harris, of South Lincoln, Mass., died at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, August 29. He had been in poor health for several years. He was the son of the late Rev. George D. Harris and Mrs. Harris and was born at LaHave in 1894, and later lived in Weymouth, where his father was rector of the Episcopal Church until the family moved to the United States. His maternal grandfather was the Reverend Henry Lambeth Owen. Mr. Harris served overseas during World War I and returned to his post at the Old Colony Trust Company in Boston (recently merged with the First National Bank of Boston). He was trust officer at the 1st National Bank. He was town treasurer of Lincoln for 18 years. Burial services were held at St. Anne's Church, Lincoln, the Rev. Alfred Starrett, rector, officiating. Mr. Harris is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Gordon Harris, of Santa Ana, California; and two sons, Gordon and Owen Harris. He also leaves a brother, Cyril Harris, of Cambridge, Mass., and a sister, Mrs. John O. Furrer, of Bangor Maine. In spite of his poor health Mr. Harris returned as often as possible to Nova Scotia during his vacations and kept in touch with his many friends here.

Robert Ellis, of Kentville, manager of the Pines Hotel, was in town this week on business.

Fifth Ration Book

Canada's fifth ration book will be distributed during the third week in October. This news was contained in a letter received by the Local Ration Board from Howard Ross, the Ration Administrator in Montreal.

Mr. Ross announced that the new book will last 50 weeks. All former books were renewed after thirty-two weeks.

In a letter, dated August 23rd, the Administrator mentioned two occasions in the recent session of the House where members praised the citizens who volunteer to help with the burden of distributing books each year.

Mr. Ross said that the larger book will not only be more convenient, but will represent a huge saving in time and effort.

Digby County Exhibition Next Week

Bear River will play host to the Digby County Exhibition on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. In spite of its official name "Digby County Exhibition" it is better known as the "Bear River Exhibition" for it has been held in that town for the better part of a century, and its most active committees are comprised of those who reside in the Bear River area.

Then, too, situated as it is with one half of the town on the Digby county side of the line, and the other half in Annapolis County, it is only natural that many of the fine exhibits that will be on display this year, and that have been displayed in other years, are representative of the products and skill of Western Annapolis County folk who, like Digby County folk, regard this exhibition as their exhibition.

But, whether or not the exhibition is known as the Digby County or Bear River Exhibition, it has always been one of the finest, although by no means the largest, in this part of the province, and those in charge are to be congratulated in their determination to carry on in spite of difficulties that have arisen during these war years. Record attendances and improved exhibits during these past few years have proven beyond any doubt that they have been justified in their determination.

The County Fair is the outstanding event in any community. It is the one medium that brings folk together from miles around. We will wager there are dozens of old friends who will be brought together who only meet and talk with each other during exhibition days. They will have much to discuss in common; they will exchange ideas that will influence their personal and community lives for years to come. They will go away from the exhibition looking forward to another year when they will meet again.

And while bringing the people together may be regarded as one of the important functions of the exhibition, its chief purpose is, and has been, to promote better farm produce. We wish it could be possible to compare the exhibits displayed at the first exhibition with those that will be on display in Bear River next week. We know well in our minds there would really be no comparison. Present day products of the garden and orchard are much superior to those products of not too many years ago—in fact we can see an improvement with each normal year (weather conditions naturally have an adverse effect at times); and the livestock today compared to that of yesteryears is of a far better quality.

Of course modern agricultural methods and education in breeding have had a great deal to do with these improvements. A number of our young men have attended agricultural colleges and profited greatly by their learning, nevertheless, the envied "First Prize" tag has been an important factor in the development of agriculture. The desire to have that tag attached to their own produce, their own livestock, their own poultry has been a great stimulus in improving the farmers' product.

The same thing applies to the home exhibits, although due to sugar rationing, the exhibits of preserves, jams, jellies and home cooked delicacies have not been as plentiful as in pre-war days, their quality has continued to improve. In these days the quality and quantity of needle work exhibits has come greatly to the fore.

It has only been during these past few years that school exhibits have been featured at our local exhibition—but the quality of these exhibits show a marked improvement year after year, and while teachers and scholars have worked hard to bring this about, again none can deny the "first prize tag" has urged them on to better work.

Let's make our plans to pay a visit to the exhibition on one or both days this year. In addition to the exhibits an entertaining program has been prepared by the committee and includes among other things Horse and Ox Pulls; Physical Training performances by H.M.C.S. "Cornwallis" stars on both Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. "Cornwallis" personnel will also stage an exciting tug-o-war on Wednesday evening, and the big "Cornwallis" band will give concerts on the fair grounds on Thursday afternoon and evening.

Meteghan

Mrs. Gerard Lefebvre, after several weeks with her parents, returned recently to Montreal to meet her husband.

Mrs. James Jeddry, Meteghan Station, has returned after four weeks with her husband who is C. N. R. station agent at Rockingham.

Mrs. Arthur Doucet, who has resided in Boston for several years, has returned—spend a few months at her former home at Cape St. Mary, after having visited relatives and friends in St. On-er, Quebec, and Halifax.

Mrs. Wallace Maillet, with her baby, Francis, of Lower Wedgeport, visited her brother, Elie LeBlanc, last week, and also her father, Chas. Elisee LeBlanc, at the Royal Hotel, who is employed at the Clare Shipbuilding Co. Rev. Father H. Boudreau, of Yarmouth, with his mother, Mrs. E. Boudreau, of Boston; his sisters, Miss Marie, of Boston, and Mrs. Joseph Comeau, Halifax; his brother, Lieut. and Mrs. A. T. Boudreau, of Saultville, were guests at a family dinner at the Royal Hotel recently.

OBITUARY

Flora Gertrude VanBuskirk
The sudden death of Flora Gertrude, age twelve years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert VanBuskirk, of Bloomfield, occurred on Thursday morning at the Digby General Hospital, following an operation for appendicitis. Besides her parents she is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Harold Minard, (Bessie) of Mount Rose, Annapolis Co.; Hilda and Dorothy and one brother, Adelbert, at home. The funeral service which was largely attended took place at the United Baptist Church at North Range, of which she became a member at the early age of nine years. The service was conducted by Reverend Bernard Manzer. The burial was at the North Range Baptist Cemetery. The hymns sung were: "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," "How Beautiful Heaven Must Be," "By Cool Siloam's Shady Rill," and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

THE STORY OF CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR

OBVIOUSLY babies and children must have underwear. So—the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has given special attention to the production of these garments.

The problem has not been so much one of a lack of raw materials, but of getting the raw materials (wool, cotton, rayon), spun into yarns—and then knit into garments. Canada has never produced all the wool, cotton and rayon yarn she requires. We have always had to get a substantial part of our requirements from other countries, even in peacetime. But since the war, there has been an acute shortage of underwear yarns everywhere.

There has been a greatly increased demand in addition to production difficulties. The efforts of the Board to meet the problem are given below.

THE INCREASED DEMAND RESULTED FROM:

- More babies... It's apparently always the way in wartime.
- Reduced use of second-hand or "hand-me-down" garments.
- Extra buying... Perhaps too many people wanted to be "on the safe side."
- Increased consumption... More people with more babies.
- Less home sewing... Mothers have been working outside the home.
- Huge demand for underwear by Armed Forces.

MORE UNDERWEAR: but still not enough!

The reason is that it just has not been possible to produce with the skilled workers and machines available to the United Nations enough yarn and garments to meet the increased demands all over the world.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE ABOUT IT

- First of all the Board found out the kind and quantity of garments Canadian children must have.
- This showed that the public is asking for more than is actually needed.
- So plans were made to see, by directing production all down the line, if we could meet the swollen demand as nearly as possible.
- Each manufacturer was told to produce an increased number of garments.
- A constant check is kept on mills to see that they are producing the required number.
- Manufacturers not previously making children's underwear were induced to go into its production. An additional 600,000 garments will be provided this year from these sources.
- Negotiations were conducted with production authorities in other countries for supplies of yarn to Canadian knitters for use in children's underwear.
- Primary cotton mills were required to divert spinning facilities from fabric manufacture to the spinning of underwear yarns.
- Arrangements were made through National Selective Service to direct more labour to the underwear mills.
- A special campaign was launched to enlist part time workers.
- Distribution to retail stores was organized to ensure equitable supply to all areas.

The greatly increased supply of children's underwear resulting from these efforts is shown by the relative sizes of the figures below.

Year	Relative Size of Figures
1935-1939 average	Small
1942	Medium
1943	Large
1944	Very Large

Religious Festival In India Described In Airman's Letter

Gates, Weymouth, Receives Interesting Letter from Australian

Following is a vivid description of the celebrated Jugganaut religious festival held in India, sent to Olive Gates, in Weymouth, by F/O W. Cawsey, of Australia, who is now serving in India. Mr. Cawsey has travelled quite extensively in Canada and hopes to return to this country in the near future.

I had better tell you the Jugganaut Festival is a religious festival held in India, sent to Olive Gates, in Weymouth, by F/O W. Cawsey, of Australia, who is now serving in India. Mr. Cawsey has travelled quite extensively in Canada and hopes to return to this country in the near future.

The temple wherein Jugganaut and the other two gods live is a large affair which consists of a courtyard about half a mile square and it has four gates, one in the centre of each wall. There is the Elephant Gate, Lion Gate, and the fourth gate is the Main Gate which leads up to the temple. Inside the walls are a large number of temples, and the largest is of course being Jugganaut's. It is a gigantic affair built out of solid rock standing about 250 feet high. It has thousands of carvings which are supposed to represent each incarnation. There is great confusion about how this temple is built. There isn't any rock there. They have several legends for it though. One runs down the sea receded and left this high rock and it was then hewn out of the rock. Another is that it was transported by a large number of elephants and then it was built. I can't say if it is built or carved as 'non-believers' are not allowed to enter the temple gates, although, which ever it is, it is a really excellent job.

The large temple is in the centre of the square and the next temple as we approach the main gate is the temple of Allahdar, another one of the gods, exactly what he is god of, I was not able to find out. His is a smaller temple about 100 feet high, and the next temple still approaching the gate is that of Subdallah, who is sister to Allahdar, and also Goddess of Wealth. These are the three main dignitaries of the temple but there are thousands more of these gods and goddesses, varying in size right down to some which are about 1/2 inch and which have a temple to themselves so you can imagine the number of smaller shrines that are spaced about in the courtyard.

On the very top of the largest temple there is a red ball and a bundle of red streamers and flags which are to show that this is a place of worship for Hindus. The Main Temple Gate is a very large heavy iron gate in a large rock setting which stands about 80 feet high, the doors themselves are about 20 feet high and 7 inches thick of iron and hard wood and when closed you cannot see inside it at all. The top consists of a large dome with small carvings all over it, most of them representing gods and goddesses but to you and me more like gargoyles, but the workmanship in them is really marvellous.

I went down to see this festival with a major and a friend of mine from the station and arrival at the square where the festival was supposed to commence from, and on arrival I found that the governor was coming and a spot had been arranged for him and a few guests on the verandah of a civic building, if you could call it such, and so we went up there quite brazenly and viewed the proceedings from there. And from here we were afforded a fine opportunity also to watch the crowd and their capers.

The place was absolutely packed and I have never seen so many people at a gathering. The captain of the Orissa State Police, who was there and explaining everything to me, told me that it was the poorest crowd he had ever seen there due to the restricted travel. In all the neighboring buildings every tiny bit of space was being used. They were sitting on the tops of buildings, on the roofs, hanging out of the windows, hanging on to ledges—everywhere—just to see the festival.

The crowd was terrific, and the din they were creating was worse. They were banging gongs, beating drums, clashing cymbals, and also ringing little bells. A party down on our left alongside the temple gates were dancing madly and kind of working themselves into a trance; others just sat about waiting for the appearance of the gods; others were chanting prayers, etc., and all this time the sun was beating down mercilessly and every now and then you would see the ambulance men run off with a stretcher and carry off a native who had collapsed. Moving among the crowd were also water sprayers who had sprays and stirrup pumps and were spraying water over the people's heads to keep them cool.

Some of the people were poorly clad, the men with only a little loin cloth on and the women with a very poor type of dhoti and there were also very wealthy people with their colorful gowns of different types, but everyone had their own caste marking which consisted of anything from markings of different design and colour, on the forehead, face or body.

Below and in front of us were lined three very large "cars", these being the cars which are to convey the deities to the stepmother. The cars were nearly identical in shape but their difference was in colours. A car was about fifty feet high, being mounted on twelve wheels, each wheel being about eight feet in diameter, the wheels being fixed to long wooden axles which extended across the bottom of the car, forming a diamond pattern underneath the platform. The platform was of a peculiar shape, like a very large square but with the corners indented and about a foot lower than the centre

Freeport Native Dies In Oxford

Clarence E. Howard, 57, vice-principal of the Oxford High School and prominent citizen of that town died suddenly Tuesday afternoon of last week.

He was a member of the Oxford Baptist church, taking a prominent part in the work of the choir and other church organizations. In fraternal circles he was a valued member of Wimburn Lodge, A. F. and A. M., at the time of his death filling the position of senior warden. For a number of years he has filled the position of chairman of the entertainment committee of the Cumberland County exhibition and it was largely due to his untiring efforts that the entertainment of the exhibition continued to expand. Immediate survivors are his widow, formerly Miss Gertrude Henderson, of Oxford; one daughter, Katherine, at home; three sons, Emmerson, with the Royal Canadian Navy overseas, Harold and Hilpurn, at home.

"Jackie" MacNeill Missing Overseas

"Jackie" MacNeill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor MacNeill, Weymouth, has been reported "missing" following R. C. A. F. action over enemy territory. Jack is one of the county's popular young men and for a number of years, "when a little fellow" lived in Digby, going to Weymouth with his parents when his father gave up the restaurant business here. Mrs. Annie MacNeill, Registrar of Deeds for the County of Digby, is his grandmother.

The Yellow Bird Wanted to Know

During the last days of his vacation—and the last days of the trout season—"ve junior ed," made an excursion to a nearby stream, and had the unusual experience of having a yellow bird light on his rod just after he had made a cast. The little fellow, which had been flying about for some time, perched no more than a foot above the reel on the rod, looked about for a moment or two, then, when he got good and ready, flew away.

That post-war car—or radio, or home—may never materialize should you decide to "cash in" now on the Victory Bonds you have been buying so faithfully.

Your need for ready cash may be urgent: for taxes, or a sudden illness, or one of a hundred other emergency situations. But if you sell, you not only reduce your share in the financing of the war... you also reduce your chances of ever owning what you had planned to buy, after the war.

So don't sell your Victory Bonds. Instead, use them as security for a bank loan. Pay off your loan by convenient instalments... and get your Bonds back when the loan is repaid.

YOU CAN ALWAYS BORROW ON YOUR VICTORY BONDS

Any branch of The Royal Bank of Canada will immediately lend you money on your Victory Bonds at special low rates. It's an important extra reason for buying all you can.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore, of Cambridge, Mass., have been visiting her mother, Mrs. Fannie Orde. On their return they were accompanied by Mrs. Orde who will spend the winter with them.

A very successful lawn party and pantry sale was held on the lawn of L. M. How on Friday afternoon, at which the sum of $80 was realized which will be used for the new Parish Hall fund of Holy Trinity church.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hudson were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hudson, of Port Wade; her sister, Mrs. Edward Wilson; and Mr. Wilson of Ashland, Mass., and brother Cpl. John Hudson, of the R. C. A. F.

Mrs. Chester Chisholm was given a very enjoyable surprise party at her home on Friday of last week the occasion being her birthday anniversary. After an evening pleasantly spent in games, refreshments were served which included a beautiful birthday cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Ralph Chisholm. The guest of honor was a very inspiring sermon. The special music included a solo charmingly rendered by Mrs. Edwin Caswell: "Will You Walk in the Garden with Jesus", and a beautiful duet by Mrs. Chester Nauss, of Port Wade, and Mrs. Lloyd Moore, of Annapolis Royal: "Come Holy Spirit". At the close of the service the regular pastor, Rev. L. B. Wright, thanked all who helped make the service such a grand success.

Howeed Now Flames Where Bombs Fell

By Lewis Gannett
The Herald-Tribune

paradoxically, is the place where she has been most severely wounded. The wounds made this by flying bombs are, of course, still raw and bare, but the courts shattered into ruins by the German raids of the last year have been taken over by weeds which have grown up in the ruins. They are as gay as any tilled by human hands.

is the brilliant rose-purple that Londoners call the willow herb. Americans know it because it blazes in a forest fire has raged. It grows in the shade, but a little shade as yet in the ruins. It likes nitrates. The ruins are full of wood ash. It grows across this pockmarked and turns what might have been a path into flaming beauty. It is everywhere — great clumps of it in Lambeth, where the bombs were blizzed; waves of it in St. Paul's. Behind West-Abbey bits of it are high up in second-story fireplaces. The fireweed plant gives the characteristic rose-purple and green color tone to what look like weeds all over London—the London has done a neat job of clearing and inclosing these ruins. Dangerous walls have been tumbled down, rubble and debris heaped and piled, and neat foot brick walls today guard the cellar holes. Some of the holes have been sealed in and filled as temporary reservoirs, and the image of clumps of fireweed reflected in the water gives beauty to the picture.

Life of the old ruins are bare. Only two years after the blitz of 1940-41, the present director of the Royal Botanical Garden at Kew, Professor E. J. Salisbury, has identified ninety-nine species of plants, not counting mosses and fungi growing in the bomb sites. He also eliminated from his count the species found in areas which had formerly been gardens. He counted only plant immigrants into London since the blitz.

Contrasting with the rose-purple fireweed are everywhere fiery yellow patches of groundsel, or ragwort, a bushy plant with chrysanthemum-like blossoms. Three species are abundant in the ruins. The least conspicuous common groundsel is an old resident of England, but the most striking of the three, curiously, is a native of Sicily, at home among the volcanic ashes of Mt. Etna. This gay flower was introduced into the botanical gardens at Oxford in 1794 and in England is called the Oxford Ragwort. Its present wild abundance dates from the blitz.

Most of the weeds and wild flowers of the blitz sites are familiar to Americans; red and white clover, musk mallow, evening primrose, chamomile white and purple-flowering nightshade, wild lettuce, sow thistle, Canada thistle, yellow rocket hedge, mustard dandelion, knotweed, the various docks, lambs and quarters (better known as pig weed), the coarse plant that Americans call horseweed, but in London is known as the Canadian fleabane; the daisy-like pest which Litchfield County, Conn., calls Germanweed, but which erudite Londoners generally mispronounce its Latin name call "gallant soldiers". And the rank, rounded leaves of the common coltsfoot, which in early spring put up dandelion-like flowers, are part of the picture of almost every blitz site.

The tree of heaven, the Ailanthus, which some of us call the Manhattan back-yard tree and which Betty Smith made famous in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," is already beginning to overshadow the wild flowers in some blitz cellars. But the most common tree to start growing in the ruins is the Goat Willow. There are also incipient poplars and sycamores, presumably seeded from the green squares that dot old London.

A few flowers known to Americans as garden plants are frequently part of the wild gardens in the cellars of London, notably poppies, calendula, larkspur, candytuft and hollyhock, all of which are common signs about Holborn and in the great devastated areas behind St. Paul's.

Here and there among brick piles in this moist climate of London, ferns have sprung up—sometimes the handsome male fern, which looks at a distance like the spinulose ferns our florist pack with roses, but more often the common bracken. Both grow in the churchyard of St. James', in Piccadilly, behind Charing Cross station and at Amen Corner. In some cellars behind St. Paul's, bracken is beginning to form miniature bracken heaths.

The botanists say that the most abundant plants on the bomb sites are those with parachute attachments for their seeds. A weed-like yarrow, common beside the well travelled paths on the embankments, is seldom seen in the ruins. The most abundant blitz plants—fireweed, groundsel and horseweed—are all air-distributed. Birds carry some seeds, but birds have little interest in cellar sites until vegetation has established itself there, providing food for them.

Today the blitz sites are untended gardens. In another few years the shade provided by these plant pioneers will doubtless permit new types of plant life to appear, and the reigning beauties of today will disappear. But London's ruins are not likely to pass through what the botanists call a normal cycle, for London is full of plans and dreams of new types of new houses and gardens to spring up where the Germans have so expensively destroyed the old.

TOWN TALK

According to Street Superintendent Frank Robinson all eels have been removed from the town water system to the last inch. Mr. Robinson thinks the total captured amounted to about 973 running feet. The elongated pests sure got around, even lawns were invaded. The police department was called on several occasions by people who thought a plague of snakes had struck.

Religious Festival

of the platform. In the centre was a dias, being raised two feet, and on which was the throne for the god. Then over the throne was a huge spire. Now Juggernaut's car was covered with black and red silk all over the spire. Subda Liah's with yellow and green and Allahdah's with red and green. Each car was engraved on every bit of wood work and each corner, no matter where it was, had a small engraved figure on it. Hung on different parts were also plaques which were beautiful and—I believe—priceless.

The cars are made each year, the wood being given by the people for the making of the cars and after each festival they are sold at auction except for the small statues and plaques which are kept for the next year.

Well, at last being 10 a.m., the festival began. It commences with the preparation of food by the high priest and the offering of it to the gods and goddesses, and after this they are brought out one at a time and placed on their respective cars and pulled off to the other temple, after the rajah has offered them food just before the cars leave.

At last the Temple Gate opened, heralded by the clanging of gongs by about a dozen barely clad servants, the waving of horsehair tails by different yogis, the incessant rumble of the people saying their prayers; another ten men sweeping the dust off the road to clear the path, another following scattering some liquid which looked very much like lime, then out came a log of wood about seven feet long, carried by ten laymen, which appeared to be pretty heavy. They circled the sister's car and put it on her, or at least alongside her throne. This was a kind of battleaxe. Then they disappeared through the temple gate which was then closed and everybody remained waiting once more.

We had to wait quite a while this time, the reason being that the food which had been prepared and left in front of the god had been defiled because someone's shadow had fallen across it, necessitating another preparation of food. After another hour there was more din.

The same proceeding went on as before but this time with more marked feeling. This time we saw Allahdah, who was dragged out and placed in his car. As he came out of the Temple Gate a large number of people fell down and kissed the ground; others stood with their hands firmly placed in front of them offering up prayers. The god itself consisted of a very large log which had been carved to represent a face, but to me it seemed more like a Mardi Gras face. The face was about four feet high and had a very large and much ornamented head dress. Apparently this god was very heavy for it took quite a while to carry it from the gate to his car, which was the farthest away from the gate.

The entry of Allahdah was closely followed by the entry of Subdallah and she, being a woman, was very light. They carried her very quickly to her car. She also had a face carved out of wood but did not have a head dress. She did not seem to have the following the gods had although many of the women were praying to her.

Lastly was the entry of Juggernaut. This was most impressive. The bands played, the horns blew and there was a frantic wailing of the people who surged forward the priests not being able to keep them back. Strangely enough the

Q.—In shopping for a new fur coat I was offered one labelled simply "Genet". The clerk was vague as to what type of fur it was, but thought it was wild cat. Can you tell me what it actually is?

A.—"Genet" is the commercial trade name for dyed or natural cat. It is illegal for a furrier to offer fur coats for sale unless they bear tags showing both trade name and correct name of the fur used. Since you give us the name of the store it will be investigated.

Q.—Are tea-coffee coupons in Ration Book 3 still valid?

A.—They were good up until August 31 after which tea or coffee ration coupons in Book 3, numbered 14 to 29 and E1 to E6 are not good for consumer purchases.

Q.—We have started to convert our house into apartments. What procedure must we follow for determining the rental?

A.—As landlord, you should make application to the Rentals Appraiser at your nearest War-time Prices and Trade Board office to fix the rental for these apartments. The maximum rental for any housing accommodation will not be fixed at any amount higher than the rental generally prevailing on October 11, 1941, for similar accommodation in the neighborhood of your apartments.

leaders and the people in front were mostly soldiers, all devoutly saying their prayers, chanting, etc. It was amazing to see the people whipped up into a frenzy so quickly by the sight of their god, who also had a carved wooden face, very brightly colored, with very big eyes. Everyone seemed intent to help this god to his car and despite its very heavy weight it was soon on its dias. The time was now 12.30, so you can see that the ceremony was very long and drawn out but of course a vast amount takes place inside the temple, which we could not see at all.

When they were all seated the Chief Priest of guest Rajah came forward and offered food to each god in turn so that he will be comfortable during his journey, and this was deposited on the throne. We could not see this being done as we were facing the other way. The rajah, who formerly used to appear dressed in his regal robes

Q.—Is there a price ceiling on all fruit? Canteloupe has been sold in my district at a dozen different prices all summer.

There is a price ceiling on a great many fresh fruits and vegetables, but not on canteloupes. This fruit is very perishable and stores must move their stocks quickly. When there is a plentiful supply the prices will be much lower than when the fruit is scarce. This is not a wartime condition. The price of perishable fruits has always varied according to the supply.

Q.—Is the reduction in the cost of imported farm equipment computed on the wholesale or the retail price?

A.—The reduction in the cost of imported farm equipment is computed on the laid-down value of the machinery to the importer, not on the selling price to the consumer. Since the laid-down value does not include the parts of Canadian origin necessary to make the machinery a complete unit the decrease in cost to the consumer may not be so great as anticipated.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board answers questions put to The Digby Courier regarding price control and ration regulations. Or you may write direct to the Consumer Branch, W.P.T.B., 77 Upper Water St., Halifax.

with all the attendants, elephants and guards, then drops back and all the Brahmins take their turn until finally the car is very well provided for and then a signal is given and the cars are prepared for the journey.

They have very thick, long ropes and these are stretched out and the people, together with the help of one elephant, haul the cars to the other temple. This is a great honor—to haul these cars—and the people fight frantically to pull. At one time the people used to throw themselves under the wheels of these cars and it purified the family, but that has been stopped. Somehow or other half a dozen managed to get under them during the procession. Allahdah goes first, then comes Subdallah and then Juggernaut brings up the rear.

The time it takes to haul the cars varies greatly, depending on the weather and rains but they reached their destination at 8.00 p.m.,

Farm Tractor and Fatal Accidents

According to a recent Kansas State Board of Health, the greatest single cause of fatal farm accidents in 1943 was farm machinery and the machine taking the greatest toll of lives was the tractor.

Tractors were the means by which 27 Kansas farmers met their death last year. Twelve farmers died when their tractors overturned. One of these men was not accustomed to driving. Two farmers were fatally crushed when trying to drive tractors up a steep slope. One man's tractor and then they had a great feast, so great that our chobis could not think straight for two days afterwards. Another thing about the cars is that they have fixed axles and so the cars cannot be turned and should they run off the side of the road they have to be pushed back on, straightened up, and off they go again.

These gods, which are carved out of wood, are kept for twelve years, and at the end of that time are thrown down a deep well in its place. The temple and monastery at Puri are reputed to be among the richest in the Hindu faith. They own nearly all the town and neighboring land, and thousands of sites elsewhere in India, left to the different monks of the monastery.

The temple itself employs about 400 cooks to cook the food for the pilgrims who come there and for all the beggars who surround the temple. At feeding time they have guards with long poles which they use to keep the people in line while they get a handful or dirty rice to eat.

"TIRED" ALL THE TIME

She felt miserable—draggy—low in vitality—lower in spirits. She hadn't thought of her kidneys, until a friend suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills. At once she took Dodd's. The "washed out" feeling was soon replaced by clear headed energy and restful sleep. Headache, backache, lassitude and other signs of faulty kidneys disappeared. 112 overturned when being driven across a ditch; another when being driven out of a ditch. When driven too near the edge of a ditch, an embankment or a creek bank, seven more tractors overturned and each time the drivers were killed.

Ten farmers died after falling from their tractors. Five died as a result of the fall itself. Five were run over by other machinery as a result of their fall. Five these farmers were run over by a disc, two were fatally injured by a one-way plough, and two by a mowing machine.

One man's foot slipped from the drawbar and he fell into the power take off. Another's clothing caught in the whirling gears and he was drawn into the machinery. In all, three farmers died when caught in the power take off of their tractors despite the fact that power take off shields are available.

Another farmer died when caught between tractor and trailer after the clutch facing broke and the clutch would not release. Still another was run over when cranking his tractor while it was in gear.

Agricultural engineers say that most, if not all, of these accidents were preventable. The best prevention, they say, is constant vigilance—and the determination not to take a chance.

Hurricane Does Some Damage In County

Toronto Musician Conducts Concert

Lovers of Digby were treated to a rare treat Sunday afternoon when Laidlaw F. Addison, conductor of the Toronto Symphony Band and President of the Canadian Bandmasters' Association, was guest conductor at an extraordinary concert of the Digby Civic Band. Local bandmen assisted on this occasion by a number of visiting bandmen from H. M. C. S. Cornwallis. In addition to the Cornwallis musicians, George Burgoine, of Riverport, Sgt. "Bud" Winchester and "Billy" Christie, all former bandmen, took part in the concert.

The first numbers on the program, "O Canada" and "Our National Flag" were conducted by Addison, regular conductor of the Digby Civic Band, who then passed over the baton to Mr. Addison. The feature of the afternoon's program was the presentation of the "Point Prim March," a number composed and conducted by Addison and written especially for the Digby Civic Band, and dedicated to Mr. Addison's friends, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Yates.

A collection taken during the concert realized more than $75.

"Them Were the Days!"

Looking over the Digby Courier of June 16, 1899, we came across the following item of interest in the Freeport Notes:

"J. A. Crocker has just purchased a 'Columbia' wheel, and Seth Prime a 'Jubilee' bike."

News from Freeport also stated that the schooner Mable B. had a very narrow escape while on the fishing ground last week. During the night for the S. S. Peerless ran against her breaking the anchor and several pieces as it hung on her bow."

Won Beaverbrook Scholarship

Ralph L. Prime, Jr., of Fredericton, was one of seven young men from different parts of New Brunswick to receive a Lord Beaverbrook Scholarship, recently awarded in the capitol city. The scholarships are valued at $400 for students resident in the city, and are tenable for four years. They are awarded pupils writing matriculation examinations to the University of New Brunswick. Out of a possible mark of 800, young Prime came third with a mark of 734. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Prime of Maryland Hill, Fredericton, and will take the arts course at the University this fall. Ralph L. Prime, Sr., is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Seth V. Prime, of Freeport.

Rev. Raoul Deveau Transferred

Rev. Raoul Deveau, who for the past year has been curate at St. Patrick's Church, left on Saturday for Bridgewater where he has been transferred as curate to Father Day of that parish. Father Deveau is not being replaced in the parish of Annapolis as the parish of Annapolis and Digby have been divided. Father Murphy to remain as resident priest in Digby, and will have charge of the Roman Catholic Churches in Digby, Deep Brook and Bear River.

Rev. Arcade Theriault (formerly curate at Digby) has been appointed Parish Priest at St. Thomas Church, Annapolis Royal. His duties will include St. Thomas, Annapolis and Caledonia Churches.

The Allison Morehouse, accompanied by her sister, Miss Mary Morehouse, Beaver Harbour, N.B., has returned home after spending a few weeks in New Brunswick.

A 36-foot motor fishing boat, owned by Gordon Banks, Culloden fisherman, became a total loss during Friday morning's gale. Two other fishing boats were carried away by the storm, and a fisherman, Robert Hersey, washed overboard. Hersey managed to reach shore safely.

Four of the Culloden fishing boats had been hauled up on the inside of the breakwater where it was thought they would be safe from the much prophesied hurricane, and except for a freak feature of the storm, the fishermen had taken wise precautions.

However, sometime after the storm had reached its height and the gales were commencing to diminish (although heavy seas were still rolling). Shortly before noon a huge wave, resembling a tidal wave, swept over the breakwater and catching the four boats that had taken refuge inside. Owners of the craft, Robert Hersey, Gordon Banks, Arthur Hersey and Gordon McDonald fought to prevent their fishing boats from going adrift. Robert Hersey was carried overboard in his successful attempt to save his boat. The other three were carried out to sea in their fishing boats.

Arthur Hersey and Gordon McDonald managed to start their engines and were able to get their boats away from the rocks before any damage was done. Gordon Culloden fishermen are circulating a petition to raise money for the purchase of a new boat for Gordon Banks. We are advised that Mr. Banks who lost his boat in Friday's storm had only a short time ago gone to considerable expense to re-fit and overhaul his craft. The petition is meeting with splendid initial success.

Banks could not get his engine started. His boat was carried on the rocks and became a total loss. He was taken off by McDonald.

Telephone communication with Westport, on Briar Island was restored shortly before 11 o'clock Sunday morning. It is learned the storm did little damage along the waterfront in that area. The Western Light Fog Alarm Station on the Island took a severe beating. Most of the windows in the station were broken out by the gale, and many of its shingles torn off. It will be recalled that the lighthouse at Western Light was destroyed by fire last February. A new concrete structure to replace the century old wooden building is now nearing completion. Alfred Walsh is keeper of the lighthouse and fog alarm.

Holes were torn in the roof of the home of Sidney Westcott, Sea Wall, when three large trees blew down. A chimney on the residence was also carried away.

Generally, damage was slight. Falling trees disrupted telephone and electric light service in all sections of the county, the main lines of communication being restored by Friday evening. Digby town was without electric power for practically all of Friday morning.

Vice-Regal Party To Visit Here

Will Arrive in Digby September 26th

Canada's Governor-General, the Earl of Athlone, accompanied by H.R.H. Princess Alice, began their tour of Nova Scotia on Tuesday with an inspection of the R.C.A.F. air port at Eastern Passage. The vice-regal party, who arrived in Halifax Monday evening, will remain in the city for a week.

Prior to the opening of their inspection of the city of Halifax, Lord Athlone and Princess Alice were officially welcomed to the province by Lieutenant-Governor H. E. Kendall, provincial and civic government officials and heads of the armed forces.

Their tour of the province will include visits to Kentville and Digby. Although no official word of their visit had been received by Digby civic officials, or Cornwallis authorities up until yesterday morning, it is understood the vice-regal party will arrive here at 4:50 a.m. Tuesday and leave at 12:05 p.m. Thursday. Their South Shore tour will extend from Yarmouth to Lunenburg.

Accompanying them are Miss Vera Grenfell, lady-in-waiting to Princess Alice and Lieutenant the Hon. Ernie Chatfield, R.C.N.V.R., and Major Mark Clayton, aide-de-camp of the Governor General.

The Women's Institutes of Yarmouth, Shelburne and Digby counties are to be honored on September 28 when Her Royal Highness, The Princess Alice, will meet representatives of these institutes at a reception and display to be held in the town of Yarmouth.

Digby County Exhibition

More Exhibits This Year Than Ever As Fair Gets Off To Grand Start

Splendid exhibition weather greeted the opening of the Digby County exhibition at Bear River yesterday. It was early in the morning—before the exhibits were complete—that our representative was there, but at that time there were three times as many exhibitors registered as there were in 1943 and the exhibits far outnumbered those of last year. All departments showed a wonderful increase. In spite of the dry and hot summer the vegetables were excellent. It had been an excellent season for potatoes especially and these were shown in profusion. But other vegetables which many thought would suffer have turned out wonderfully well. Squash and pumpkins have not reached the mammoth size of previous years but they are of fair size and excellent in quality.

There is only one garden collection this year, but it is the best single collection we have ever seen and it is from the garden of John Payne.

Upstairs the fruit display is away ahead of previous years and the exhibits of women's work are the best ever seen. The show cases, which line both walls are filled to capacity and attract much attention.

In the yards, too, everything is filled up and there are large displays of horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry. Much interest is shown in an exhibit of four white neck platinum foxes from the Beehive Ranch of F. B. Dunn.

There is a much larger school exhibit than usual and it is attracting much attention.

More details of this exhibition will be published next week.

Town Making Plans For V-Day Celebration

Mayor F. L. Anderson has named Chester Levy as chairman of the local V-Day celebration committee. Other members of the committee comprise Fritz Dakin, representing the Anglican church, C. F. McBride, representing St. Patrick's Church, M. C. Denton, representing the Baptist Church, and A. J. Dillon, representing Grace United Church.

The committee has drawn up its tentative programme, and advertisements with respect to V-Day are to appear in the local press at intervals from now until Victory Day.

A Thanksgiving Service in Trinity (Anglican) Church is to be held as soon as possible after the Victory Message comes thru, although should weather be chilly, time will be allowed for the heating of the church. A parade will follow the church service, and a mammoth bonfire will be lighted in the evening.

Citizens are asked to turn on the lights in their homes "from top to bottom" on Victory Day—they are asked to carry out this procedure should the signal come in the early morning or during the evening.

The V-Day signal will be six blasts of the fire siren, followed by a long blast to last for several minutes. This will also be a signal for the blowing of mill, train and boat whistles and the ringing of church bells.

Sunshine Bible Class Entertained

On Thursday evening, Sept. 14, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Small, of Central Grove, entertained the Sunshine Bible Class of the Baptist Church, Tiverton.

The twenty-one members present were first served a cabbage supper, after which Mrs. Edward Blackford, vice - president, and Mrs. James Outhouse, program leader, took charge of the meeting.

At the close of the program, Mrs. Arthur Powell, on behalf of the members of the class, presented Mrs. R. C. Eaton, wife of the resigning pastor, with an appropriate gift in appreciation of her work while in this field.

To Speak At Digby

Colonel Richard Adby, an officer of The Salvation Army for over 50 years, was accepted for officership by the Founder of the Salvation Army, General William Booth. Colonel Adby on many occasions accompanied the Founder in his lengthy tours and campaigns in the British Isles.

It was the Colonel's privilege to hold various high positions of heavy responsibilities in England, South Wales, Canada and Newfoundland. The Colonel was in charge of The Salvation Army work in Wales during the Singing Revival of 1903.

The Colonel is an authority on the origin of Gospel songs and often devotes a whole evening in singing the songs and speaking of their composers; a service that has been very acceptable wherever given.

The Colonel can speak with authority on the Founder and his message; giving glimpses of the Founder's life and career and the early days of The Salvation Army when it was misunderstood and its message and method were not accepted.

The Colonel's own life story of over 50 years in Salvation Army warfare has proved of interest to both young and old.

The Colonel and his wife now live in retirement in Toronto, but he finds that his retirement gives him the opportunity of visiting the various fields of Salvation Army activities both in Canada and the United States.

The Earn and Give Club will meet on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Kirkpatrick. As this is the first meeting of the season all members are asked to attend.

'Regina' Survivor Arrives Home

Leading Seaman Arthur Farrow, one of the Maritime naval men, who survived the sinking of the H.M.C.S. Regina, off the coast of England last month, was among those who reached Halifax last week for clearance on 28 day leave.

Leading Seaman Farrow is well known here where he has made his home for some time, and where his wife, the former Muriel Simms, and little daughter reside. His home is in Fort William, Ont.

He arrived in Digby on Saturday, having been granted 60 days' leave, the additional furlough is on account of injuries received at the time of the disaster.

Roy C. Gehue, Bear River, Dies of Wounds

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gehue, Bear River, received official news on Saturday from the U. S. Government, that their only son, Roy, died on July 6th, as the result of wounds received in action over France on July 4th. Roy had previously been reported missing, but hope was held that he might be a prisoner of war.

Roy C. Gehue was 27 years of age. He received his education in Oakdene School and Academy, Bear River, where for some years he was employed at electrical work. He was well-liked, of responsible character, fond of music, especially the violin, which he played well. He had been a member of the local Boy Scouts—he was a good shot—fond of open field and stream—a good clean sportsman, and a devoted son.

He enlisted in Florida January 13, 1941, receiving his training at Macdill Tampa, and was commissioned as 2nd Lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force early in 1944. During this time he made periodic visits to his home. He went overseas early in 1944 and won the U. S. Air Medal—the citation reading as follows: "For meritorious achievement in accomplishing aerial operational missions over enemy occupied Europe. The courage, coolness and skill displayed by Lieut. Gehue in the face of determined opposition materially aided in the successful completion of these missions. His actions reflect great credit upon himself and the armed forces of the United States." Lieut. Gehue was the navigator of one of the A.A. F's Giant B-24 Liberators, and as a crew member took active part in the successful invasion and liberation of France.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gehue in Bear River, and one sister, Mrs. G. W. McKibbin, of Toronto, to whom the sympathy of the district is extended. "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friend."

Wounded In Action

Word was received by Mr. and Mrs. Ira Sabean, South Range, last Friday, that their son, Pte. Donald Sabean, had been wounded in action. It is not known whether he was in Italy or France.

MARRIAGE

McFarland - Hazelton

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Norton, N.B., Baptist parsonage, Friday evening, August 11, when Rev. W. U. Close united in marriage Muriel Martha, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hazelton, Bear River, and George James, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McFarland, Waterford, N.B. The bride wore a dress of blue crepe with white accessories. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McFarland left on a short wedding trip. They will reside at Sussex, N. B.

About This and That

It is appropriate we say a few words of appreciation to the lads who maintain the hydro, telephone and telegraph lines. The appreciation we express is not only for their splendid work during Friday's gale when interruptions were kept at a minimum, but for the excellent work they do throughout the year. Busy at all times, these men have their toughest days when weather conditions are such that the most of us stay inside as much as possible. The hardships they face climbing poles during gales and hurricanes, facing extreme cold, wind, rain, and sleet, in order that communications may be kept intact, is appreciated.

Yes, mother sometimes trusts father, but it's against her better judgment.

Since the 1940 Red Shield War and Home Service Appeal to finance the Auxiliary War Services and the whole of The Salvation Army's Home operations, one annual appeal to the public for funds has replaced the several annual calls for funds which formerly financed the work.

For many years contributions were sought in the Spring for the Self-Denial Effort and in the Autumn for the Harvest Festival Fund, while subscriptions were annually sought from friends in larger cities to finance the Social Work.

The superiority of the single annual call for support in The Red Shield Home Front Appeal is readily accepted and in fact has been enthusiastically received.

As a National Organization, The Salvation Army operates 1,152 Corps and Outposts, with 1,508 employees in Canada, and 81 Social Service Institutions, besides War Service Centres and Supervisors in Canada and Overseas.

The funds of The Army have always been subscribed direct by the public and used where needed, and not necessarily in the locality where raised.

This system has developed a standard of service found in few, if any, any other organizations. It is this distinctive quality of service the public has seen fit to maintain and cultivate by its support.

The Army is not organized on a local basis, as are most Community Chest Units, and other charities, but is under the control of the National Headquarters which is enabled by this policy to interchange experienced and trained personnel, and supplement the funds of inadequately supported local units.

The Army has endeavored to co-operate wherever possible in united money-raising efforts, but it has found it cannot conform its national and international obligations with closely organized local bodies which involve the control of the operations and policies.—Red Shield Report

Gems of Thought

WORDS: Their Power and Beauty
He sent his word, and healed them, and delivered them from their destructions.

—Psalms 107:20

Words, like fine flowers, have their colors too. —Ernest Rhys

Among the sources of these innumerable calamities from from age to age have overwhelmed mankind, may be reckoned as one of the principal, the abuse of words.

—George Horne

Without knowing the force of words, it is impossible to know men.

—Confucius

Whatever weights in the eternal scale of equity and mercy tips the beam on the right side, where the immortal words and deeds of men alone can settle all questions amicably and satisfactorily.

—Mary Baker Eddy

Which circle slowly with a silken swish.

And tender ones, like downy-feathered birds!

Words shy and dappled, deep-eyed deer in herds.

OBITUARY.

E. G. Lynch, Esq., death occurred on Wednesday 13th, at his residence, The Hill, Digby, of Thomas Grindon Lynch, well-known of Digby town and which was the fourth son of late George Lynch and Mary Lynch, of Hawthorn, Digby, where he was born on 1st, 1873.

Early life he spent many years in the American West, engaged in copper mining and real estate, his home in Dillon, Idaho.

Upon his return to Canada, he became prominent in business, serving as councillor for many years and as Mayor for several years from 1927-1931. His administration was most successful during a critical period of the changing growth. Mr. Lynch was county organizer for the Dominion Government Loans, both World Wars, making a success of all objectives. He was associated with the Halifax branch of the Royal Security Corporation and a trusted executor of many estates.

His hunting and fishing he was a sportsman and a member of the Fish and Game Society of Nova Scotia.

He was an honorary member of the Canadian Legion; a Mason and a loyal member of Trinity Church, serving as warden for many years. Possessed of the highest integrity and deep sense of duty he will be sadly missed by his town and a host of friends.

Mr. Lynch is survived by his wife, the former Edith Nichols, of the late Rev. Dr. Nichols of Liverpool and Digby, two daughters and one son, Sgt. Edith A. Lynch, C.W.A.C., Mrs. E. C. Lynch, wife of Brigadier Plow, London, Eng., Lieut. G. R. K. Lynch, R.C.A.F., and one grandson, T. A. Lynch, Jr. Three brothers and a sister predeceased him many years ago.

Mrs. Edna P. Crowell

The death of Mrs. Edna P. Crowell, widow of the late Captain Walter Crowell, occurred at her home at Sandy Cove, Digby Co., on Sunday, September 18th, at the age of 83 years. The late Mrs. Crowell, who was a daughter of the late Captain and Mrs. Jacob Brown, of Freeport, had for the past fifteen years, spent the winter months with her daughters, Iona and Gladys Crowell, Hopedale, Mass., returning to Sandy Cove for the summer. She was a devout member of Grace United Church, Sandy Cove. Funeral services took place from her home on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. P. W. Briggs, of the Weymouth and Sandy Cove United Churches, officiating. He was assisted by Mr. Smith, student pastor of the Anglican Church in that village. Burial was at Sandy Cove. Surviving are her two daughters mentioned above; two sons, Dr. A. D. Crowell, of Framingham, Mass., and Judge K. L. Crowell, Bridgeport.

Ann MacGray Mullen

Ann MacGray Mullen passed away at his home, Weymouth, on Wednesday morning, September 14th, at the age of 63 years. He had been ill for two years. He was born at New Tuskett, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Mullen, and made his home in that village until moving to Weymouth eight years ago. Surviving are his widow; one son, Oscar, now living in Weymouth; one daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) Edith Kimball, Royaltown, N. B.; and brothers, Elisha, of Everett,

Animal Diseases Bulletin Now Available

"Some Common Animal Diseases" is the title of a 67-page bulletin that has just been published by the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture and is now available, free of charge, to the farmers of Nova Scotia. The author, Dr. E. E. Hancock, V.S., B.V. Sc., Truro, Provincial Pathologist, discusses in non-technical language the prevention and treatment of some of the more common diseases of farm animals. Horses, cattle, swine, sheep, poultry, are each given a section. There is a detailed table of contents which makes the book one of quick reference. The author, after pointing out that "the maintenance of healthy animals is of vital importance to the livestock industry," states that the suggested line of simple treatment is adapted to the means and conditions of the average livestock owner. He further points out that the bulletin "is in no sense intended to replace the valuable services of the veterinarian, which, if available, should by all means be obtained."

Dr. Hancock, in his opening section, uses the old adage, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." The truth of this saying, he says, applies in the care of livestock as well as in other things. He then adds that attention to the following points will go a long way towards reducing the likelihood of disease and minor troubles: — cleanliness of barn and yard; quality of feed, feeding methods and water supply; details of care and management; isolation of sick animals, as well as new animals brought into a herd; disinfecting stables after disease has occurred; care in the disposal of dead animals; use of inoculations with serums, vaccines, etc., in preventing certain diseases.

Throughout the bulletin an effort has been made to avoid fine distinctions and technical language in the hope that the information given may better supply the widespread need for a practical and popular discussion of livestock ailments.

As previously indicated the book is now ready for distribution and may be had by farmers, free of charge, on application to the county agricultural representatives or by writing direct to the Department of Agriculture at Truro or Halifax.

Artificial-Bred Calf Wins Championship

The top Jersey calf, the junior champion at the Nova Scotia Central Exhibition and Livestock Show at Truro, September 12, 13, was the product of artificial breeding. The proud youthful owner of the champion was George Semple, of the Brule Calf Club, while the sire was Brampton Standard Volunteer 11, of the Yarmouth Artificial Breeding unit.

Sends in Record Lime Order

The largest order for ground limestone ever sent in from Annapolis County by an agricultural society, reports Donald White, Annapolis County Agricultural Representative, was recently made by the Riverside Agricultural Society, John D. Harris, Secretary. The order was for 180 tons. In the words of Mr. White, "this is just one example of what an organization can do if the members really make up their minds to do things."

Ice Cream Cones In War Zone

The weekly newsmagazine Time, had this incident to report in its issue of May 22 in its department, "Canada at War." "It was early morning, but Ottawa's Union Station was already jammed. The mayor was there with an air vice marshal, an Air Force band, a crowd of excited relatives. Some 200 Canadian airmen, from humble ground crewmen to two of Canada's top aces, were coming home after long tours overseas. "The 200 piled off the train, impatiently shuffled into line for the official twaddle of an official welcome. Suddenly they broke ranks and the real welcoming began. One airman appeared, brandishing an ice cream cone. Another shouted: 'Cones again!' Some of them had not seen an ice cream cone in four years."

Have YOU a Baking Problem?

AT SOME TIME OR ANOTHER since you learned to bake, some question has probably cropped up which was really "ticklish", and like me, no doubt you searched through all your cook books trying to find the answer.

Well the Lakeside Milling Company, realizing the baking problems which homemakers face, set up the Home-Baking Service Bureau where women could seek such advice. Every mail brings questions from Canadian women who have experienced some difficulty—maybe a certain recipe is always a failure—or certain combinations of ingredients never work. Whatever it is that's bothering you, write me about it and we'll try to find the solution. There is absolutely no charge or obligation for this information. It is sent to you free with the compliments of the Lakeside Milling Company.

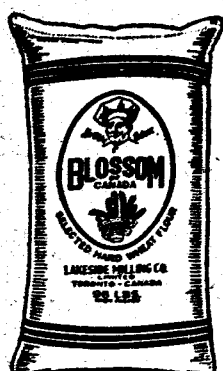

I'm a homemaker myself and can understand the tangles you run up against when baking. In the Bureau we are constantly trying new recipes and improving old ones, and every day we are discovering an easier and better way of doing things. Different brands of products are also tried and we have discovered, when it comes to flour, that Blossom of Canada gives the best results. I can truly recommend it for all your baking.

Mr. Campbell, President of the Lakeside Milling Company, is anxious that all homemakers know about this service. So write me, giving your discoveries in baking and we can exchange ideas. Remember, all inquiries are answered free without any obligation.

Ruth Hudson
Director,
Home-Baking Service Bureau

For eight years Ruth Hudson has been in charge of the Lakeside Home-Baking Service Bureau and I have the utmost confidence in her. She is a graduate dietitian and in addition, is a homemaker with the problems of a family. I have placed all the facilities of the Bureau at her disposal to help Canadian housewives. This service is not confined to users of Blossom of Canada Flour. It is offered free to all women who are interested in baking.

OBITUARY

Fred M. Redding
The death of Frederick Moody Redding, well-known Yarmouth County resident, and who has many friends in Digby, occurred suddenly as Summerside, P.E.I., at the age of 79 years, on Friday. He was born at Hebron, a son of the late William H. Redding, (later of Digby), and at one time was associated with his father in the shoe manufacturing business in Hebron and Yarmouth, later moving to the United States. On his return to Hebron in 1917, he took up work as a travelling salesman. Information from Summerside suggests Mr. Redding left his hotel for an evening walk and was stricken with a heart attack. He was found unconscious on the lawn of a resident, and died shortly afterward in hospital.

George Robert Letteney
The death of George Robert Letteney, occurred at his home, Digby, on Sunday, September 17. The late Mr. Letteney was born at Digby, December 12, 1859. He lived his entire life in the house in which he died. During his early years he followed the sea and later became foreman at the former Digby firm of Sproule Bros. For several years he has been a foreman at the Maritime-National Fish Company's plant here. Surviving are four children, Mrs. Jennie MacDonald, of Fairlee, Vt.; Miss May Letteney, Mrs. Charlotte Piper and Burton Letteney, all of Digby, and one brother, Loran, of Digby. Funeral services were held from the home, Monday afternoon at 2:30, Rev. T. W. Hodgson of the Grace United Church, officiating. Burial was in the United Church Cemetery.

In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of our dear mother, Marjorie Cann, who passed away September 21, 1940.

Sweet is the name of mother. And these few words will show. She will always be remembered. In the years that come and go. 'Tis a tribute of love and remembrance.

To one we can never forget. Her absence to us is a sorrow. Her loss we shall always regret. As we loved her so we miss her. In our memory she is dear. Loved, remembered, longed for always. Bringing many a silent tear.

Experiments With NU-WALL

... on outdoor surfaces have shown that it stands up remarkably well to the weather. Although mixed with water, when Nu-Wall hardens, water makes very little impression on it. This property makes it all the more valuable as an inside finish for Plaster, Paper, Wood or Metal as it positively can be washed and there is just enough of the surface removed to bring to the top clean, bright Nu-Wall. MARRIAGE

Milner - McCormick
 A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon McCormick, Bear River, Saturday evening, when their only daughter, Pauline Aleta, was united in marriage to Allister Milner, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Milner, Morganville, in the presence of immediate relatives, with Rev. G. D. Brydon, performing the ceremony. The bride wore a floor-length gown of sky blue tulle with white cap and shoulder veil, and carried a bouquet of salmon pink gladioli. Miss Edna Flemming, of Windsor, attended as bridesmaid, wearing a floor-length gown of yellow dotted muslin and carrying a bouquet of orchid gladioli. The groom was attended by Pte. Clifton McCormick, brother of the bride, as best man. The bridal party stood against a background of potted ferns and flowers, with candle lighting. Lovely gifts of pyrex, silver, glass, money, linens, dishes, etc., were received. After an informal reception the happy couple left for Kempf, Queens Co. On their return they will reside at Bear River.

OBITUARY

Mrs. C. C. Archibald

Friends will learn with deep regret of the death of Mrs. Minnie S. Archibald, of Truro, widow of Dr. C. C. Archibald, of Truro, who passed away September 10, at the home of her cousin, Miss Helen Marshall, Halifax, after a short illness. She was the daughter of the late M. C. Harris and Harriett (Piggott) Harris, of Bear River, well-known and esteemed in Truro. She leaves to mourn their loss, besides many friends, one daughter, Muriel, R.N., of Montreal, one son, Manning, of Montreal, two grandsons, one sister, Mrs. Beatrice McLintock, of Truro, one brother, Harry E. Harris, of Bear River. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon from Mallat Funeral Home, Truro, conducted by Rev. R. Rowley, of the St. Andrew United Church. The abundance of flowers showed the high esteem in which she was held. Interment was at Truro.

MARRIAGES

Raymond - Dittmars

The dining room of the Sea Breeze Hotel, Deep Brook, home of the bride, was a perfect setting for the marriage of Anna Roberta, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Dittmars, and Seymour Conrad Raymond, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Hantford Raymond, Waterford. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. F. B. Gaskill, of Trinity Church, Digby, Thursday evening, September 14, at 8 o'clock. The double ring ceremony was performed beneath an arch of evergreen. The occasion was also the 23rd wedding anniversary of the bride's parents. Among the guests were the bride's paternal grandparents and the groom's grandfather. Another grandfather of the bride was unable to be present. Dressed in white brocade satin, buttoned down the back, styled in sweetheart neckline and sleeves ending in a point over hands, and worn with finger-tip veil, halo style, with coronet or orange blossoms, complete with silver slippers, and carrying a shower bouquet of American Beauty roses, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Mrs. Aubrey Westcott, of Digby, presided at the piano. Miss Marion Raymond, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Vincent Raymond, a cousin, supported the groom. Mrs. Howard Freeman and Mrs. Elsie Henshaw had charge of the serving with their assistants, Mrs. J. J. Taylor, Mrs. T. McGuigan, Mrs. B. Marriott, Mrs. J. Shipton and Miss Ann Freeman, all wearing corsages of sweet peas. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Miss Barbara Rice was in charge of the wedding table; Mrs. A. Hiltz, the shower table, and Miss Gwendolyn Rice attended the register.

The bride wore a wool suit of olive green with chalk white blouse and accessories for travelling which included a motor trip to Prince Edward Island. On their return they will reside in Annapolis Royal. The bride attended "Edrehill" Windsor, for two years and later graduated from the Digby Business College. For the past two years she has been on the staff of H.M.C.S. Cornwallis.

Hersey - Brittain

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, Aug. 26, at 11 a.m., when Rev. J. E. DeLong united in marriage Lawrence Elwin Hersey, of Freeport, and Mrs. Alice Margaret Brittain, daughter of the late Heber MacNeill, of North Range. The bride wore a travelling suit of grey with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. Following the ceremony which was attended by immediate relatives and friends of the bride, the happy couple left by automobile to visit friends and relatives in Phinney Cove, Bear River and Freeport, before returning to the bride's home in North Range on Saturday, September 2. While on their trip Mr. and Mrs. Hersey were guests of honor at two receptions, being the recipients of a great many lovely and useful gifts. Following this school term during his absence. WAR-TIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—May I sell fruit and vegetables from my own orchard and garden. If so could you give me a list of the correct prices.

A.—It would be impossible to list all the prices for fresh fruit and vegetables in this column. You certainly may sell your fruit and vegetables. It is very important that there should be no waste. You would be considered a grower and would be able to obtain the correct prices from your local Board office.

Q.—Recently I was charged $6 for the cleaning of my furnace, whereas last year I was charged only $3.00 for the same service from the same company. Is this increase permissible.

A.—Anyone performing such a service must not charge more than he did during the basic period Sept. 15th to Oct. 11, 1941.

Q.—I have a boarder who eats here 6 days a week. He eats lunch and dinner but not breakfast. Am I allowed some of his ration coupons? If so, how many?

A.—There is no Board ruling which sets out the number of coupons you may collect from a boarder who does not take all his meals at your home. Of course, you need some of his coupons, but this is a matter which you should arrange between your boarder and yourself.

Q.—My husband has just recently been discharged from the army. Will he receive the full amount of canning sugar by applying for it now?

A.—Yes. In the case of men discharged from the armed forces and first ration books for babies the full amount of canning sugar is allowed.

Q.—It is inconvenient for me to apply in person for a permit to buy ammunition. Can I obtain this by mail.

A.—Yes. You must submit your gun registration certificate and your personal ration book to your Local Ration Board with a covering letter. The name on the ration book must agree with the name on the certificate.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board answers questions put to the Digby Weekly Courier regarding price control and ration regulations. Or you may write direct to the Consumer Branch, W.P.T.B. 77 Upper Water St., Halifax.

MARRIAGE

Doty - Theriault
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Theriault, East Ferry, Digby County, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, September 9, at 8 o'clock, when their eldest daughter, Freda Marguerite, became the bride of Victor Ashton Doty, son of Mrs. Etta Doty and the late Roger Doty, Ashmore. The single-ring ceremony was performed beneath an arch of flowers, by Rev. J. W. Derby, of Westport. The room was decorated in pink and white. Mrs. Dean Tidd, of Little River, played the wedding music. Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked very attractive in a floor-length gown of white satin with sweetheart neckline made in princess style. She wore a fingertip veil held by a border of white flowers, and carried a bouquet of gladioli, sweet pea and fern. Her bridesmaid, Miss Grace Robichaud, of Centerville, wore pale chiffon with dutch cap to match, and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. The groom was supported by Franklin Theriault, brother of the bride. Following the ceremony a reception was given to a large number of guests. The bride was the recipient of many lovely gifts including a sum of money. Later the happy couple left on a wedding trip to the South Shore.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy.

Deadline for Christmas Parcels Overseas

Postmaster General William P. Mulock advises that it is time to make plans for Christmas gift parcels to members of the Armed Forces Overseas. The Christmas mailing period this year is SEPTEMBER 15-OCTOBER 25.

Naturally parcels sent to those serving in the more remote theatres of war should be sent the earliest. Suggested "deadline" mailing dates are:—

September 15—The far East, India, Burma, Ceylon, etc.
October 5—The Middle East area—Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Syria, etc.
October 10—Central Mediterranean Forces.
October 25—The United Kingdom and France.

In view of the rapid progress of the war these dates might possibly be subject to change.

MARRIAGES

Wilson - Cooke
A quiet wedding was solemnized in the United Church parsonage, Weymouth, Saturday evening, September 16, when Rev. A. Thorpe officiated at the marriage of Doris, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cooke, and Henry Wilson, both of Weymouth. The bride, becomingly dressed in rose with matching accessories, was attended by her sister, Miss Marion Cooke. Judson Nickerson supported the groom. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will reside at Weymouth.

Red Cross Notes

Weymouth Branch

A gratifying number of members attended the monthly Red Cross meeting held Wednesday of last week in the Killam Hall. Mrs. Lewis, president of Danvers Auxiliary was among those present and from which auxiliary there was a table display including a woman's sleeveless sweater, a long sleeved turtle neck sweater, a man's sleeveless sweater and three pairs of socks. The Southville-Riverdale Auxiliary also had a display of two and a half dozen towels, one slip and several dozen handkerchiefs; three long sleeved turtle neck sweaters were also on display from Gilbert's Cove. Among the business discussed was the question of storing salvage paper until such time as it could be shipped to Halifax. The president was pleased to announce that Mr. Rice had offered his back shop for this purpose and anyone wishing to do so could leave salvage there at any time during the weekly store hours. Mrs. Harold Blackadar suggested conducting a rummage sale instead of the usual tea and fancywork sale this month. The date has been set for Friday, September 22. Everyone is asked to cooperate by bringing or sending in as much rummage as possible to make the sale a success. It will be held in Killam Hall. The treasurer, in addition to reading the usual financial report, also read a very touching letter received by her daughter, Jacqueline Comeau, from an English mother whose four children have been evacuated and whose home has been destroyed twice by bombs—the last one a robot. The mother, not wishing to cause the children added worry has kept them in ignorance of the bombings. This woman expressed her thanks and gratitude for the warm clothing received by her from the Canadian Red Cross for herself and children.

Prepare Now For

VICTORY DAY CELEBRATION

When the Victory Message comes through the Fire Siren will be blown five or six blasts, then blown steadily for five or ten minutes. THIS WILL BE THE SIGNAL FOR ALL AND ANY KIND OF WHISTLE TO BE BLOWN—MILLS, BOATS, TRAINS, CHURCH BELLS, ETC.

Thanksgiving Service and Parade

If the message comes through before 8 a.m., service will be held three hours after 8 in the Anglican Church. Time must be allowed to heat the church if weather is chilly. It is impossible to set the exact time for the service, but there will be approximately three hours between the signal and the time of service.

Parade

The parade will follow the church service as soon as can be arranged, and will gather on Queen St., between Warwick and St. Mary's, and on Second Ave., from Victoria to Queen. It is hoped all auto owners will try to do a bit of decorating and turn out.

Illumination

On the evening of Victory Day citizens are asked to light their houses from top to bottom. Should the message come through very early in the morning, turn on the lights immediately.

Bonfire

There will be a mammoth bonfire on the hill overlooking the town on Victory Day.

Men Released on $500 Bail Each

Donald Oliver Townsend and James Zradicka, seamen, appeared before stipendiary J. Peters here Monday morning and were released on $500 bail each.

The hearing was adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

It is alleged the sailors "borrowed" a car belonging to Llewellyn H. Shaw, Digby, without the owner's permission, and drove off in the direction of Yarmouth, passing near Salmon River Corridor.

At Salmon River, it is said, "borrowed" another car to return home. Mounted police in chase, and the sailors abandoned the second car near the shore of O. F. Woodman, Joggin Lake, and took to the fields.

After a chase they were caught about 5 a.m., Saturday, and lodged in the Digby Jail.

Successful Exhibition At Bear River

The two-day Digby County Exhibition, held at Bear River on Wednesday and Thursday of last week, was one of the most successful in the fair's history. Nearly three times as many entries were recorded as in 1943, and the gate exceeded all expectations.

Professor C. C. Collins representing the Provincial Government, formally opened the fair on Wednesday evening. Other speakers included Raymond LeBlanc, county agricultural representative, and Warden H. E. Chisholm.

Exhibits of horses, oxen and dairy cattle were declared to be of very high quality. George Nelson, who has been judging livestock in several county fairs throughout the province declared the graded Jersey herds at this fair were the best he had judged this year. He also stated the pure bred Jerseys were a credit to the community.

This year's poultry exhibit was the largest on record; sheep and pig exhibits were small in number, but good in quality. The showing of white neck platinum from the Bee Hive Ranch of F. B. Dunn attracted unusual interest.

Exhibits of fruits, school work, and women's work were of high quality, and more numerous than in other years.

The ox-pull was one of Wednesday afternoon's highlights, the 1,000 pound team of Glendon Robins, Bear River, taking first place by pulling 6,515 pounds. Second place went to the 2,750 pound team of Morris Wagner, Digby, which pulled 5,616 pounds, while Genos Sanford's team, Clements, took third place when it pulled 6,815 pounds. The Sanford team weighed 3,375 lbs.

Some pulling contests were staged Thursday afternoon, first place going to the team of Maynard Miller, weighing 2,384 lbs., and starting 6,975 pounds; Arnold Adams' 2,485 pound team took second honors when it started 6,815 pounds, and Oakley Banks' 2,485 pound team third place with 6,416 pound start.

Cornwallis Seamen and Stokers appeared for the tug-o'-war finals, the former being the winners. The physical training display by a local Cornwallis team won much applause and admiration. A concert was given by the Cornwallis Band and a Cornwallis Orchestra provided music for the dance on Wednesday evening.

The exhibition was thrown open to school children on Thursday afternoon, and pupils and teachers from many of the schools in the area in attendance.

Mrs. K. R. Elliott, R.N., and George, leaves today for her home in Fort William, Ont., after spending three weeks visiting her mother and sister-in-law, Leading Seaman and Mrs. A. J. Farrow. Leading Seaman Farrow is to leave after the sinking of H.M.C.S. Regina.

Miss Rita Height, of the Princess Helene, attended the Patterson-Hayden wedding on Monday evening.

Mrs. Charles McBride spent the week end in Annapolis.

"Dud" Dickie on H.M.C.S. "Ribbie"

H.M.C.S. "Ribbie", a new river class frigate built in the United Kingdom for the Royal Navy but manned and maintained by the Royal Canadian Navy, has been commissioned and is now in service. R.C.N. officials announced last week.

The new frigate is in command of Lt.-Cmdr. Aylan B. Taylor, of Parrsboro, Nova Scotia. Other officers include Surgeon Lieut. E. Dudley Dickie, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Dickie, of Digby, and Lieut. (E) H. Denyer, of Saint John, N. B.

The Ribbie is named after a famous river running through the north of England and is designed to be used as an escort or striking force vessel.

Barton Man Knows Pacific War Area

Last week the editor had the pleasure of calling on Frank Kinney, in Barton, who has been in disposed for some time. He found Mr. Kinney very cheerful and spent an interesting time with him. He was born in Ashmore in 1855 and has lived in Ashmore and Barton—where he has carried on business as a general merchant—practically all his life. As a young man, however, he shipped in one of the Campbell vessels out of Weymouth, and the present war situation in the Far East, recalls his trip vividly to mind. He told us that in imagination he could see Manila Bay—every shoal and cape—as plainly as he could see Gilbert's Cove. The vessel he was on was dismantled but managed to make Manila where repairs were effected. They were there for three months, and during that time he became well acquainted with the Bay, and now he follows the movements of the American bombers on their trips of destruction, with interest. He also spoke of visiting Batavia and other places in the Pacific area of war.

Concert Next Sunday?

Laidlaw F. Addison, the eminent Toronto Bandmaster whose concert at the Digby Band Stand, recently, was so enthusiastically received has consented to direct another concert next Sunday, but only on condition that some of the Digby bandsmen, now in the R.C.A. Band of Halifax, arrive home in time. The boys are expected here for the week end. The only definite announcement will be made by posters or circulars distributed later this week. Watch for them.

Pte. Ralph Wright spent the week end with his family, Light-house Road.

MORE DIGBY COUNTY MEN IN CASUALTY LISTS

Cpl. Howard Hanshaw, son of Mrs. Mary Hanshaw, 83 Myrtle St., Melrose, Mass., has been reported as missing in action in France, according to a telegram from the War Department.

Mrs. Hanshaw at the time was visiting in Lake Midway. A later telegram disclosed Hanshaw is believed to be a prisoner of war. Walter Walker and William Walker, of Lake Midway, are nephews of Cpl. Hanshaw.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Shaw, Round Hill, have been notified their second son, Sergeant J. Murray Shaw, W.N.S.R., was killed in action, September 14, in Italy. This is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw to pay the supreme sacrifice, a younger brother, Leslie, died of wounds May 23, in Italy. Murray, who enlisted during the early days of the war, went overseas in December, 1939, and was promoted to Corporal during his training in England. He received his promotion to Sergeant while serving in Sicily.

He was severely wounded a year ago when his motor cycle ran over a land mine, and was in hospital for some time. He later rejoined his regiment in Italy.

A letter received a few days ago, and written September 10, told how he captured a German paratrooper.

Besides his parents he is survived by his widow, the former Jennetta Boswell, of Edinburgh, Scotland, serving with the W.A.A.F. in England; a brother, Cpl. Louis Shaw, invalided home after two years with the W.N.S.R., in England; two sisters, Frances, (Mrs. Trueman Cress), Round Hill, and Hilda, (Mrs. Mason Wamboldt), Clementsport.

Mr. and Mrs. Camille Doucet, Bellevue's Cove, have been notified that their son, Arthidore, has been wounded in Italy. Another son, Gerald, met death in action overseas about a year ago.

On Thursday, Sept. 21, Mrs. Elmer Reece, of Bear River East, received the sad news that her brother, Pte. Norman Mailing, was killed in action in Italy. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones.

Mrs. Thelma M. Chalmers, of Smith's Cove, received the sad news of the death of her husband, Sergeant Edward Dempsey Chalmers, who died in Italy on September 15, as the result of wounds received in action "on a date not yet available."

Sergeant Chalmers enlisted with the West Nova Scotia Regiment in September 1939, and had therefore served his King and country for five years. During his overseas service, he was returned to Canada for special training, after which he saw service in Africa and then returned to his own regiment in Italy. A letter received by his wife only a few days ago told of his good health and high hopes of seeing his family soon, so that the official information from the defence department came as a greater shock to the family.

Sergeant Chalmers was born in Glasgow, Scotland, 34 years ago, and came out to Canada when a boy of 9. He married Thelma Warren, of Smith's Cove and settled there. Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn their loss, three little boys, David, 10; Robert, 9; and Kenneth, 8, at home; also a stepmother and sister in Glasgow, Scotland, and three brothers, who are all in the service over there. No details regarding the nature of his wounds or place of death have yet been received.

VICE REGAL PARTY VISITS NAVAL BASE

His Excellency, the Earl of Athlone, Governor General of Canada and Her Royal Highness, Princess Alice, presently on a tour of the Maritimes, spent Tuesday visiting H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, largest naval training base of its kind in the British Empire.

Met by Captain J. C. I. Edwards, R.C.N., Commanding Officer of the establishment, their Excellencies were greeted by a naval guard of honor of ratings and wrens.

His Excellency, accompanied by Captain Edwards, Major Mark Clayton, Adc., inspected the ratings' guard of honor while Princess Alice, accompanied by Lieut. Janet Carruthers, WRCNS, Cornwallis unit officer, reviewed the Wrens.

Following the inspection the vice regal party proceeded on a tour of the establishment, visiting the Gunnery School, Gun Battery, Physical Training Centre and the Recreation hall before adjourning to the naval wardroom where they attended at an informal dinner given in their honor.

In the afternoon's tour of the large naval base the vice regal party took separate routes, the Governor General visiting the seamanship school, Boat Shed and jetty, Depth Charge School, the sports arena, Anti Submarine school, and the Mechanical Training Establishment, while Princess Alice made a tour of the Cookery School, the naval laundry, WRCNS mess hall and living quarters and the hospital.

Following the tour their Excellencies proceeded to the spacious parade ground where they reviewed the entire ship's company at general evening quarters. After quarters, the vice regal party paid an informal visit to the residence of Captain Edwards, before leaving for Digby.

Mrs. Reginald Turnbull and Miss Freda Condon, of Digby, spent the week end at Granville.

Former Editor Visits Courier

Aubrey J. Fullerton, of Edmonton, Alberta, was an interested (and interesting) caller at the Courier office on Tuesday. He told us that fifty years ago this year he started work as editor of the Courier, then under the management of the late "Dick" McCormack. He remained here several years but later went west and became connected with the Southern Press—one of Canada's largest publishing houses, remaining with them for 34 years until his retirement a few weeks ago. He arrived here last Friday and has been visiting relatives and renewing old acquaintances. He tells us he is going to Wolfville to make his home and we hope he will enjoy his leisure for many years.

Permits Must Be Applied For At Once

Sportsmen and farmers wishing to purchase small arms ammunition for hunting purposes must obtain their permits for ammunition before September 30, a spokesman for the ration branch of the regional office of the War-time Prices and Trade Board said this week.

Application must be made to a local ration board and the applicant must present his gun registration certificate and his ration book. No hunter is entitled to ammunition unless his firearms were registered before August 15 of this year.

It was pointed out, however, that it is not necessary for the hunter to purchase his ammunition immediately. Permits remain valid for the purchase of ammunition until New Year's Eve.

The Hill Grove Fair prize list was crowded out of this issue but will appear in the next week's.

Dr. George J. Trueman, President of Mount Allison University, Sackville, has announced that Captain Waldo H. McCormack (above) has been appointed to the position of Director of Physical Education at Mount Allison. Captain McCormack who has been serving with the Canadian Army since the outbreak of war recently received an honorable discharge in order to accept his new position.

Patterson - Hayden

The Digby Baptist Church, beautifully decorated for the occasion, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, when the pastor, Rev. J. Earle Delong, united in marriage Evelyn Joyce, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loran Hayden, of Digby, and C.P.O. Howard A. Patterson, R.C.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Patterson, Grand Falls, B.C. The single ring ceremony was used.

The bride, beautifully attired in white corded taffeta with veil held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, carried a bouquet of talisman roses, and was given in marriage by her father, who flew from Newfoundland to be present for the ceremony. She was attended by Miss June Campbell, as bridesmaid, whose costume was of pale blue, and who carried a bouquet of American beauty roses. Sgt. James Tupper attended the groom.

Mrs. Guy Morehouse, Sr., church organist, played the wedding marches, and accompanied Hedley Dakin, who sang "I Love You, Truly" during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony a reception attended by some 75 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson left yesterday for British Columbia where they will spend a month with the groom's parents.

Walks Miles To Church at 87

Mrs. Natalie Toomey, of Lake Doucet, celebrated the 87th anniversary of her birthday a few days ago. She was formerly Miss Natalie Burridge, the last surviving member of a large family of the late William Burridge and Marceline Doucet, and was born at Lake Doucet. Despite her advanced age she is still able to walk to church on Sunday, a distance all told of over six miles. She is able to knit and sew and help in the household work. Her memory is still quite keen, especially about old-time events. She is living with a niece, Mrs. Charles Melanson, of Lake Doucet.

Pupils of Stella Maris and Meteghan Centre schools, entertained Father Theriault, for a number of years curate at Meteghan, with a concert at the hall on the eve of his departure for Annapolis Royal to take charge of the parish there as rector.

The entertainment consisted of songs, music, recitations and farewell remarks. During the entertainment a well-worded address was read by the pupils expressing their regret of losing their curate, and sincere wishes for success in his new field.

The Baptist Guild will meet with Mrs. F. R. Eisener on Tuesday evening.

Accident Claims Life of Sailor

The remains of Ord. Sm. Christie Milton Belyea, were taken to Saint John by special naval service ship, Monday afternoon. Belyea, died of concussion, Saturday night, following an accident which occurred while he was being posted for duty at Cornwallis. It is understood he fell from the back of a truck, striking his head.

He was a member of Ship's Company, H. M. C. S. Cornwallis, and was the eldest son of Major and Mrs. C. M. Belyea, West Saint John. His father is staff officer at Military Headquarters, No. 7, being representative of the district officer commanding for Department of National Defence in connection with the National Resources Mobilization Act.

He was 19 years of age, and besides his parents he is survived by his brother Cleveland, and sister, Phyllis, at home.

Funeral services were held from St. Jude's Church, Saint John, yesterday afternoon, under naval arrangements, and Rev. E.R. McCordick, rector of the church.

On Radio Tuesday

Dr. R. O. Jones, Associate Professor of Psychiatry, at Dalhousie University, Halifax, will give a series of four talks on Tuesday evenings at 8:45 p.m., ADT, over the Maritime network of the CBC.

In his first talk on September 26th, "If John Would Only Try" Dr. Jones pointed out that in dealing with misbehavior and faultiness in school children, parents and educationalists should handle the children with understanding rather than by punishment.

His second talk "All children Are Not the Same" on October 3, will contain a number of reasons why children do poorly in school, pointing out that every child has individual strong and weak points in physical make-up, in intelligence, and in special abilities, which must be taken into consideration if school problems are to be handled satisfactorily.

In his third talk "Children Who Misbehave in School", October 10, Dr. Jones will discuss the factors behind behavior problems in school children.

For his final talk "What Can Be Done About Troubles in School" on October 17, Dr. Jones will advise parents and teachers what they should do to help children in difficulties in school as well as emphasizing the value of home and school societies.

Observe Anniversary

On Saturday, September 30, Dr. G. W. F. and Mrs. Glendenning, of Amherst, will celebrate the 60th anniversary of their marriage.

They will be "at home" to their friends on Saturday evening, Sept. 30, from 8-10 o'clock, at the home of their daughter, Mrs. R. J. Lawrence.

Mr. Glendenning, who is a retired minister of the United Church of Canada, is widely known over the Maritime provinces, where he had pastorates in North Sydney, Liverpool, Berwick, Halifax, Digby, Truro, New Glasgow, Charlottetown and Moncton. Many friends will wish to offer their congratulations to this well-loved couple.

Pte. Ronald VanTassel has been spending a two weeks' furlough at his home in Digby. He left Saturday for Camp Shilo, Manitoba. Having made the required number of jumps from aircraft and completed other specialized training he is now a qualified paratrooper, and received his wings recently at Camp Shilo. He has been in the service two years and four months, serving in other parts of Canada. He is the youngest son of Mrs. Margaret VanTassel.

Last week end he and his wife, also Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Henshaw, of Deep Brook, were in Lunenburg, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Tanner.

The Baptist Sewing Circle will meet with Mrs. Harry Baxter on Tuesday evening.

About This and That

The present time of year has proved prolific in the launching of weekly newspapers in this Province, particularly in its western part. That period is now long past and it would be a very bold and reckless man who would start to break uncultivated ground. The papers which have been long established have proved their worth and are still able to maintain themselves against the onslaughts of the dailies which have intensively invaded the fields once wholly occupied by the humble weekly, whose efforts must be almost entirely occupied with references to events in its trading area.

A week or so ago the Digby-Courier passed its 71st birthday and it has apparently made good progress even in recent years when the difficulty of maintaining a staff has been more than acute. Friend Wallis now has his son to support his news and editorial efforts, and in this as well as in other cases the infusion of young blood means an advance in many ways.

The Courier has one advantage over other Valley papers. It has a whole county to itself which must react most favorably even if half the people in it do not claim English as their native tongue. It follows, however, that as time goes on their interest in English publications must grow as the people become more mixed and fused with Anglo Saxon stock. This is one of the things more or less inevitable.

The Courier during recent years has greatly improved its plant and is thus in a position to serve its constituency with increasingly good results. That is well for evidences of neglect to keep up plants soon shows itself in deterioration of weekly papers. They have to spend money to earn money. This is true of papers as well as of individuals. A few people through a long life acquire some means by refraining to spend the first dollar they ever made, but such people are a marked exception to the general rule. Progressive methods always bring their reward if they are not too progressive with little or no prospects ahead of them.—Bridgetown "Monitor".

Oh well, the Germans won't have to spend another hard winter in Russia.

"In Canada it is illegal to publish a newspaper on Sunday. That being a desirable fact, the object being to preserve the Sabbath, why is it permissible for broadcasting stations, particularly a nationally owned concern, to engage in advertising soaps, sardines, tobaccos, tomatoes, and other daily needs plus luxuries such as cigarettes, beverages, and everyday commodities that may be purchased on any week day?

"As the Orangeville Banner rightly concludes and wisely puts it, 'there seems to be something wrong about this. We suppose the radio owners will contend that the advertising is needed to defray the cost of providing the Sunday programs. If this could be distributed over the six week days so that the Sunday programs could be kept free from advertising, the change would be relished by the radio public. It would also improve the quality of these Sunday programs and would prevent the infliction of the shocking incongruities to which radio audiences are now obliged to listen so frequently on the Sabbath Day.' Yes there is not only something, but much wrong."—Enterprise-Bulletin, Collingwood, Ont.

Most women are given to exaggeration, but never regarding their age.

It is quite apparent that boxed chocolates are not as scarce an item as some merchants would try and have us believe. During the past few months we have seen hundreds of boxes displayed in Digby stores, but, during the same period we have not seen one of these displayed boxes offered for legitimate sale!

The only way they can be had is via the punch board. We confess we have gambled our dimes once in a while, and, while on occasions we have been awarded, we are opposed to this method of sale (?) and recommend action be taken against punch board operators who refuse to make legitimate sales of boxed chocolates.

Not only are punch boards technically illegal, but we believe an investigator would show operators of the boards are getting well over the ceiling price for merchandise disposed of in this way.

Gems of Thought

APOTHEGMS
Apothegms to thinking minds are the seeds from which spring vast fields of new thought, that may be further cultivated, beautified, and enlarged.

He is a benefactor of mankind who contracts the great rules of life into short sentences, that may be easily impressed on the memory, and so recur habitually to the mind.

The short sayings of wise and good men are of great value, like the dust of gold, or the sparks of diamonds.

The benefit of proverbs, or maxims, is that they separate those who act on impulse; and they lead to promptness and decision in acting.

The poet's line, "Order is heaven's first law," is so eternally true, so axiomatic, that it has become a truism; and its wisdom is as obvious in religion and scholarship as in astronomy or mathematics.

Food Outlook and the New Ration Book

Ration Book 5 will be distributed to the Canadian public the week of October 14-21, the War-time Prices and Trade Board has announced. Coupons will be included in the new ration book to cover emergencies that may arise.

What may happen in the case of sugar, for example, is not predictable at the present time. However, the sugar situation in 1945 is likely to be tough. Large allocations of sugar out of the 1945 crop will probably be required in Europe. According to O. W. Rodomar, Deputy Ration Administrator, W.P.T.B., Russia has not had one pound of sugar in three years.

The situation regarding rationed commodities is examined regularly every few months to determine their position in the light of any new developments. A study, for example, is now being made of the preserves ration picture to see what action should be taken, should the sugar supply situation become worse.

The butter situation is not likely to become any better, officials of the Foods administration say. Butter production has fallen 5.5% during the first seven months of 1944 while consumption of creamery butter has increased, 20,000,000 pounds during the same period.

WAR-TIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—I do not want to buy my canning sugar just yet because I am not sure whether or not I want to exchange the F coupons for preserves coupons. Can you tell me when the canning sugar coupons will expire?

A.—There is plenty of time yet to decide whether or not you want to can some late season fruit. The "F" coupons will not expire until December 31.

Q.—I usually rent a gun for the hunting season. May I make application for ammunition as well as the owner of the gun?

A.—No. Only the registered gun owner may apply for a permit to purchase ammunition for hunting.

Q.—I have purchased a house, have paid half the value as a deposit and am paying the rest in monthly instalments. The occupant has been given six months' notice to vacate. The person I bought the house from says I don't draw the rent until the six months terminate. Is this correct?

A.—Sorry, this is a personal agreement between yourself and the Board's jurisdiction. We would advise you to consult your own solicitor.

Q.—The other evening at a gathering I attended the question of inflation came up. I heard how inflation affected the consumer, but I don't quite understand how inflation comes about.

A.—Inflation simply means a violent general rise in prices which takes place when available purchasing power exceeds our productive resources. War production has put bigger incomes into the hands of more people than before. There are more dollars to be spent and fewer goods upon which to spend them. Without control the inevitable result would be an increase in prices.

Q.—What particulars should I give the W.P.T.B. when I think the price ceiling is being broken?

A.—You should put down in writing your reasons for thinking this, giving all the details: (1) The name of the store. (2) The date of the attempt to charge a price higher than the legal maximum. (3) The date on which you bought a similar produce at a lower price. (4) The kind of product concerned. (5) Its quality. (6) The weight or quantity purchased in each case. (7) If it is at all possible, you should have sales slips or other written evidence as to the price you paid in each case.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board answers questions put to The Digby Courier regarding price control and ration regulations. Or you may write direct to the Consumer Branch, W.P.T.B., 77 Upper Water St., Halifax.

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

Courier Subscription List Grows

A periodic check-up of the Courier's subscription list shows a splendid growth over the past year. This week we are printing 2,150 copies, the largest number for regular circulation at any time in the history of this newspaper. We have printed greater numbers on occasions when we have published "special issues."

The 2,150 copies mentioned include those sent out to regular subscribers, newsstand sales, exchanges and an allowance for press and folder spoilage. The figure is more than 200 above that of a year ago.

We are especially proud of the fact that our subscription list is now "fully paid up." Before we increased our subscription rates just one year ago, we adopted a policy of discontinuing all subscriptions more than 30 days in arrears. We have stuck to this policy, and regard it as one of the wisest moves we have made. We can well recall the time when more than $2,000 was outstanding in subscription arrears, simply because "country publishers" regarded all subscriptions in force until cancelled by the subscriber. We housecleaned our list. Some of those in arrears paid up; some compromised, and others didn't pay at all ... and remarkable as it may be, although it has been three years since we sent out bills on these arrears, we occasionally receive payments on their account. It was only a few weeks ago one subscriber paid us $4.50 for arrears outstanding in 1937.

As far as we are concerned any arrears for more than three years back are forgiven although we will not refuse any voluntary payments on their account. Those who wish to start as new subscribers are welcome to do so, and their subscriptions will be accepted on the same basis as those of all our subscribers, viz: strictly cash in advance with the understanding the subscription will be cancelled when 30 days in arrears. With the exception of the "30 days of grace" ours is the same policy as is enforced by all leading publications.

Things you can't add on your fingers

The street car you ride on—the electricity that perks your coffee—the home you live in—the school your children attend—the hospital where your baby was born—these are available to you partly because of life insurance investments in Canada's mills, factories, power plants and public works. The money you put into insurance is always circulating to make more jobs for more people. It's hard to add up all its benefits because they are felt in every corner of the land.

Some say that life insurance money would be better employed as "venture" capital rather than invested in long term bonds and mortgages. Well, life insurance companies must regard the investments which they make from year to year as trust funds, and policyholders would not want it otherwise. Deliberate safeguards have been set up to protect these investments and government laws very properly prohibit the use of life insurance funds for speculative purposes.

The truth is that life insurance assets are safely invested in such a wide variety of local and national undertakings that the average man has no conception of how much the development of the country depends on life insurance funds.

It is good citizenship to own LIFE INSURANCE

Be Sure Before You Shoot!

Nova Scotia offers you fine sport in her well-stocked forests this season, and hopes that you will have "happy huntings" wherever you go. You will have, if you are careful!

So be careful with your gun. Don't fire it blindly at every movement in the bushes. Make sure that it's game. You can't be too careful when a man's life hangs in the balance—and your own security.

Be careful, too, with your matches, your cigarette butts, your campfire. Stamp them out—DEAD OUT. Otherwise a forest fire may result that will destroy valuable timber and the fish and game it shelters... Take care, so that you and other sportsmen can hunt again.

Large and Small Potatoes

F. R. Eisener showed us ten potatoes grown on the farm of his father, Charles Eisener, Clements-ville, the ten of them tipped the scales at exactly 16 pounds.

J. H. Farwell, Joggin Bridge, brought us something unusual in the potato line. It was a stalk from the farm of George Winchester of that place. There were eighteen small potatoes growing on the stalk. We were told there was also a cluster of small potatoes ranging from pea to hen's egg size at the root of the plant. We believe farmer Winchester has something there—if he can develop a plant that produces spuds at both root and stem, his fortune should be made!

M. C. Denton Unit Chairman

The Nova Scotia War Finance Committee has announced the appointment of Maynard C. Denton as chairman of the Digby unit. Mr. Denton, who is a retired contractor, and a former mayor of the town, is well-known in Digby and surrounding countryside and has always taken a prominent part in county activities.

He is president of the Digby branch of the Canadian Legion; a member of the Digby General Hospital Board, and a former member of the Town of Digby Board of School Commissioners. He was a major during the last war, and has a son, Cpl. Seymour Denton, serving with the R.C.O.C., in Italy.

In accepting the chairmanship of the Digby Unit, Mr. Denton said "My son is serving his country on the fighting front; the least I can do is serve on the home front."

Barber Ready for War's End

The V-Day customer in Thomas Console's barber shop, Boston, will have to join the victory celebration "as is." Patrons were fairly warned by this sign: "You sit in the chair at your own risk. Soon as victory bells ring I will drop my tools, whether you're half shaved or half hair cut."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Lizzie Trahan, nee Abramson, passed away at her home in Belliveau's Cove, September 22, at the age of 76. She is survived by her husband, Capt. W. Trahan, four daughters, Ethel (Mrs. Jos. Comeau); Grace, (Mrs. Orgul Theriault); of Belliveau's Cove; Alice, (Mrs. LeDuc) of Boston; and Hazel, at home; two sons, Fred and Roy, of Belliveau's Cove. Funeral took place at St. Bernard with Requiem High Mass. Rev. Father Elie LeBlanc officiated, assisted by Rev. Fr. Blinn and Rev. Fr. Precker, of Weymouth.

The death occurred at his home in Victoria Beach, Friday, September 22, of Isalah Wallace Kinghorn, at the age of 89 years, after a lingering illness. He was a life-long resident of that place and a member of Victoria Beach Baptist Church; a friend of all and was well-liked by all who knew him. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kinghorn, and leaves to mourn besides his widow, four daughters, Cora, (Mrs. John Lightle) Halifax; Nettie, (Mrs. Howard Northup); Annapolis Royal; Flo, (Mrs. John Whalen) Halifax; Melvine, (Mrs. Clifford McGrath); and one son, Edgar, of Halifax. All were with him when he passed away. Funeral services were conducted from the church by Rev. Harold Hopper.

ABOUT THE THINGS YOU BUY IN WARTIME...

"I think it can be safely said that the sugar supply position is the most difficult situation we have to face today in any rationed commodity. You can't get all you want in wartime. If one pound will do, don't buy two."

Chadson

The sugar situation is NOT sweet

FOUR-FIFTHS OF THE SUGAR CANADA CONSUMES HAS TO BE IMPORTED

This map shows where Canada, Great Britain and the United States got their sugar in the good old days of peace. Our three countries take practically all the exportable sugar from these major sugar-exporting areas.

But supplies have either been cut off by enemy occupation of the country—as in the case of Java and the Philippines, or their production radically reduced by shortage of workers, as in the case of Hawaii, Porto Rico, Australia, Trinidad, Fiji.

Even the production of beet sugar in Canada and the United States has been drastically cut by labour shortage. In both countries the '43 sugar beet crop was forty per cent less than in '41. The only country to show an important increase is Cuba; where output had for years been deliberately restricted. But its increase has not been sufficient to offset the losses elsewhere—let alone meet the increased demand.

ROLLING ON SUGAR

The war has brought some unusual demands on the United Nations' sugar pool. Vast quantities have been taken for making industrial alcohol used in the manufacture of synthetic rubber (tires, etc.) as well as T.N.T. and smokeless powder. For instance, the explosive to fill five 16-inch shells requires as much sugar as is produced on an acre of the finest sugar land. This year Cuban sugar alone used for making industrial alcohol will equal Canada's normal sugar imports for more than two years.

THE SUPPLY IS SHARED

All sugar supplies are pooled and under the control of the Combined Food Board of the United Nations, which allots supplies to Canada, United States and Great Britain on a uniform basis.

WE'RE LIVING ON OUR SUGAR CAPITAL

At the time of "Pearl Harbour" the United Nations had a reserve stock-pile of about 3 million tons, but for the last 3 years we've been using more than has been produced—and dipping heavily into "reserve." Liberated nations will have to dip in too. Extra good crops could improve the situation, but greatly increased supplies are not in sight. If current consumption keeps up, we could be very short of sugar next year. We must do the utmost to conserve our supplies.

RATIONING WAS STARTED BECAUSE OF SHORTAGE OF SHIPS. IT MUST BE CONTINUED BECAUSE WORLD STOCKS ARE DEFICIENT

Archbishop to be at Meteghan Sunday

Delegates from all parts of the Yarmouth - Digby district will gather at Meteghan on Sunday in a testimonial dinner to Archbishop J. T. McNally.

Laymen of the region called the dinner to give His Grace an opportunity to lay before a representative audience the details of his seven-point program for the post-war needs of the Archdiocese. Means of financing the program will be considered at the gathering, one of three similar functions being held next week in different sections of the Archdiocese.

A committee has been working on plans for the dinner under Dr. P. E. Belliveau, chairman, and a large attendance is expected. Members of the committee include Senator J. P. L. Robichaud and Hon. J. Willie Comeau, Provincial Minister without Portfolio.

Dr. Belliveau will preside and, in addition to hearing the Archbishop's program outlined, the gathering will hear Rev. William P. Stone, R.C.A.F., discuss means of attaining the objective. Rev. J. Elle LeBlanc, of St. Bernard's and Rev. T. J. LeBlanc, of Middle
