Now and then a printing job may be an important paper which required a large kind of posters, ink which smudged very easily now days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would let that job be the largest given. In spite of the fact that we always spread an outside door to lessen troubles on the customer.

One of the jobs I had to do, besides painting and grouting the floor, was to... I finished one and then... One day not long after I started to get to the grouting plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "How are you doing out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily. He thought the remark pretty good and said:

Sometimes the gasoline engine is a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and the "Man" if a man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without "Ma," "Ma" would then stand back and come out dramatically then he would immediately start working. "Ma," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of coaxing."

On other occasions when some group refused duty for the and, seemed to be broken, "Man" would say, "use a little oil" and sure enough often that is all it took. Thus often since, have I heard of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1958 got together just before dark one evening and decided to estimate the newly built outdoor Pearl Hotel swimming pool which had been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just out of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys, in thought or time for bathing suits, as to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in. The next one followed and across the pool the stream rest quickly followed and across the pool. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Couriers" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later (they are known as the late Dr. Carl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars, island world and Ketchikan), was awarded the Victoria Cross, Squire L. Smith, now prominent druggist, for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale apothecary, and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me how about writing your version of the story told about "The Marooning of Jerome". I did it and read at least two somewhat different versions about the man who was found marooned on a beach in some part on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Duxbury County. When I read this man's tongue and two cut out and his legs quite freely amputated were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jinnah" appeared to have been a man of considerable social standing and considerable wealth. However the only thing he could or would ever say after being asked for by some family in the French colony was something that sounded like "Où est le père?" either, would not, or, would not, who he was or why he was but the only thing it was, and it, one of Digne County, and, different ideas have been mentioned.

and, different minds have very different views concerning this man. "Mao" was, I felt so sure he was different about this man. "He has been very well explained to people and he was a sort of people who started where he started."

Comment by David Sanford

From the files of the Chamber of January 22, 1967, the following account has been copied concerning Dwight D. Davis:

Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Salem Times-Tribune of May, 1881, says the Tribune and among other advertisements contained in the issue referred to is one mentioning the town and forwarding of Daply, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this ad we are told the ownership of Daply "rests from the fact of Annapolis appearing in the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 100,000 acres." The town plot is there described.

The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and extends miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of W. Mary's Bay. This land not only has water's edge, partly on level ground, and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having on an eastern aspect a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in extent, it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth at that name. It was secured by Leyden, from New York in 1624, the time of which went nearly to Britain, or, moving to other countries, left the shore free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students, one of which was J.J.'s daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Morton of Tibet, Prescott, Digby Co.). Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters. I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print." I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like embossing, stapling, perforating, coaming, cutting and crumpling paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, too. The only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "go," the printers name for a completed name.

celebrates 97th birthday

Katherine Comeau celebrated her 97th birthday at her home in North Range on April 7.

Katie, as she is affectionately known by her friends, is a "grand old lady" of this community. Although born in Mavellette, N.S., and also having spent a number of years in the United States, yet the folks of this village have claimed her as their own.

Despite her ninety-seven years, she is as active and happy as a school girl. She has braided a number of mats, made several quilts and also found time for her knitting during the past winter.

Katie needs no grandeur to thread her needle, nor does she use any special sewing or heating aids. Her hands are steady and her sight and hearing as keen as when she was young.

Mrs. Comeau is a great lover of the outdoors and during the summer spends much of her time caring for her garden.

According to her son, John, with whom she lives, and I quote: "She can run circles around me any day yet."

Her many friends wish her many more years of happy, active life.

Has Interesting Watch Charm

Mrs. Clarence Haight of Acaciaville has an interesting watch charm that belonged to her grandmother and has been in her family for over sixty years. This watch charm is in the form of a tiny microscope and has a pinhole lens. When placed close to the eye the microscope shows in tiny letters the Lord's Prayer.

Another interesting curiosity owned by Mrs. Haight is another of the microscopes mounted on a stick pin. This one, which also belonged to Mrs. Haight's grandmother, shows a view of Niagara Falls and is still packed in the box in which it was purchased. The jeweller's name on the box is R. P. Slater, Niagara Falls.

Lift Restrictions in Digby County

Highway weight restrictions were further modified Saturday in Digby County but they remained unchanged in other parts of Nova Scotia. In Digby County it was opened to weights up to 12,000 pounds from the Annapolis County line at Victoria Bridge to Weymouth. Route 17 on Digby Neck was also opened to 12,000 pounds. All roads in the Digby district of Clare are already open to 12,000 pounds.

Fish Landings Down

Nova Scotia's fishermen netted $461,000 in February, or 9,011,000 pounds of fish landed in the province. The month's catch dropped $5000 in value below the catch of a year ago while the quantity was down 186,000 pounds. Landings of cod dropped in value and quantity but the losses were offset to a great extent by the higher haddock landings.

Higher prices on the lobster market gave returns of $99,000 to lobster fishermen, $25,000 more than for last February's catch, although this year's landings were 5000 below those of a year ago.

Nova Scotia's sardine fishery outweighed the herring fishery in quantity, landing 186,000 pounds compared to 55,000, and returning $5000 as compared with $1000 received by herring fishermen.

Smaller catches and cash returns were reported by scallop and smelt fishermen. Scallop fishermen received $2000 for the 4000 pounds as compared with $5000 for 10,000 pounds a year ago.

The halibut catch dropped off in value from $18,000 last February to $10,000 this year. The catch totalled 59,000 pounds as against 88,000 a year ago.

It's Not News, But

Dogs are wonderful pets, but the one that chewed the feathers off a local housewife's hat this week had a hard time getting back in his mistress' good graces.

Speaking of dogs, those lovely soup bones deposited on a Water Street lawn this week were a little too ripe for use. The vim with which they were tossed out onto the street by the lady of the house indicated she was quite annoyed about the whole matter.

That faculty versus students basketball game last week was really some game. Probably the first time in history of the game a step ladder was used to score points. The form (or forms) displayed by some of the faculty could hardly be called graceful or even athletic.

Yarmouth-Boston Run to Continue

Nova Scotia is not going to lose its traditional Yarmouth-Boston direct steamship connection with New England after all.

On Monday night, Hon. Harold Connolly rose in his place in the Assembly and informed the Speaker that he had an important announcement to make.

He then read a telegram from President Alton B. Sharp of Eastern Steamship Lines to the effect that the company has reconsidered its former decision to suspend the Yarmouth service, which will begin on June 17 and continue to September 18, right through the Nova Scotia tourist season, under the same conditions of operation that obtained in 1948.

The minister's statement was greeted with rounds of applause and many expressions of relief, for the threatened sale of the Eastern ships and the cutting of the sea link with Boston had been giving members from all parts of the province the utmost concern.

It was known that the Hon. Mr. Connolly has been working day and night for many weeks to avert the threatened disaster, and the minister mentioned, in passing, an alternate plan that was being worked out with another American shipping concern had the Eastern sale gone through.

Hon. Mr. Connolly paid special tribute to President Sharp to whom, he said, a great deal of credit is due for the happy outcome of an anxious situation. He said: "Mr. Sharp is a great friend of Nova Scotia, as he has demonstrated on many occasions. And I am in a position to state that his present successful intervention on our behalf has almost been against the wishes of his directors."

The delegation from the Digby Board of Trade appeared before Monday night's meeting of the Town Council asking that steps be taken to replace the boat slip at the Band Stand.

The delegation, headed by H. M. Warne, urged the rebuilding of this slip as an aid to the tourist trade and stressed the need of such a slip in the downtown section of Digby for water sports and as a convenience to visiting yachtsmen.

W. L. Troop, C. F. McBride and E. J. Morrissey were also members of the delegation and joined in urging replacement of the slip. Mr. McBride stated the slip would serve as a landing place for seaplanes which were now having difficulty in making a landing at the floating slip at the Long Wharf.

J. W. Merkel appeared for the West Nova Scotia Yacht Club and stated this organization were also desirous of having the boat slip at the band stand replaced. He stated, although the yacht club had their own slip at the Joggin, there was a definite need for the slip at the band stand for water sports and for visiting yachts at low tide periods.

The matter of dogs running at large in the town was brought before the meeting and it was decided to seek the services of a dog catcher, to remedy this matter. The Council decided to have the by-laws respecting dogs enforced and stated positive action in this might put an end to the trouble.

It was decided to authorize the Fire Chief or President of the Fire Company to attend the Fire Chiefs' convention in Yarmouth this summer.

Permission was granted the V.O.N. to hold a tag day on Saturday, April 9th.

A. S. Warner, reporting for the Streets Committee, stated considerable work was being done in travelling streets, particularly on the upper streets. He said Victoria Road would be completely gravelled as would other streets which were badly in need of work. A gravel pit had been purchased near the town which had effected a great saving in cost of the work.

Due to the absence of the mayor, the meeting was presided over by the Deputy Mayor, Victor G. Cardozo.

Officers were elected as follows: Pres.—Mrs. Lucy Sanford; Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Thelma Jefferson.

Sec-Treas.—Mrs. Gladys Wheelhouse. Asst. Sec-Treas.—Mrs. Thelma Buckler.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Louise Jefferson. Organist—Mrs. Cassie Duke-shire.

During the year this society has made and quilted several quilts, sent cards of sympathy and get-well cards, etc., also remembered the sick with fruit, etc., and flowers to the bereaved.

Several new members have been added. At the close of the pleasant evening refreshments were served including a beautifully decorated birthday cake with twenty candles, which was presented to the president. She in turn cut the cake, which was made by Mrs. Abbie Bell.

The president has held the same office for five years.

Ask Replacement Of Boat Slip

A delegation from the Digby Board of Trade appeared before Monday night's meeting of the Town Council asking that steps be taken to replace the boat slip at the Band Stand.

The delegation, headed by H. M. Warne, urged the rebuilding of this slip as an aid to the tourist trade and stressed the need of such a slip in the downtown section of Digby for water sports and as a convenience to visiting yachtsmen.

W. L. Troop, C. F. McBride and E. J. Morrissey were also members of the delegation and joined in urging replacement of the slip. Mr. McBride stated the slip would serve as a landing place for seaplanes which were now having difficulty in making a landing at the floating slip at the Long Wharf.

J. W. Merkel appeared for the West Nova Scotia Yacht Club and stated this organization were also desirous of having the boat slip at the band stand replaced. He stated, although the yacht club had their own slip at the Joggin, there was a definite need for the slip at the band stand for water sports and for visiting yachts at low tide periods.

The matter of dogs running at large in the town was brought before the meeting and it was decided to seek the services of a dog catcher, to remedy this matter. The Council decided to have the by-laws respecting dogs enforced and stated positive action in this might put an end to the trouble.

It was decided to authorize the Fire Chief or President of the Fire Company to attend the Fire Chiefs' convention in Yarmouth this summer.

Permission was granted the V.O.N. to hold a tag day on Saturday, April 9th.

A. S. Warner, reporting for the Streets Committee, stated considerable work was being done in travelling streets, particularly on the upper streets. He said Victoria Road would be completely gravelled as would other streets which were badly in need of work. A gravel pit had been purchased near the town which had effected a great saving in cost of the work.

Due to the absence of the mayor, the meeting was presided over by the Deputy Mayor, Victor G. Cardozo.

Officers were elected as follows: Pres.—Mrs. Lucy Sanford; Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Thelma Jefferson.

Sec-Treas.—Mrs. Gladys Wheelhouse. Asst. Sec-Treas.—Mrs. Thelma Buckler.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Louise Jefferson. Organist—Mrs. Cassie Duke-shire.

During the year this society has made and quilted several quilts, sent cards of sympathy and get-well cards, etc., also remembered the sick with fruit, etc., and flowers to the bereaved.

Several new members have been added. At the close of the pleasant evening refreshments were served including a beautifully decorated birthday cake with twenty candles, which was presented to the president. She in turn cut the cake, which was made by Mrs. Abbie Bell.

The president has held the same office for five years.

Burnt Out Fluorescent Tubes Dangerous

The following item is reproduced from the January Industrial Health Bulletin. The Courier feels the information contained is of importance to every reader because of the increasing use of fluorescent lighting not only in industrial plants but also in the home.

A serious health hazard has developed due to the increasing use of fluorescent lighting in industry. The fluorescent tubes are coated on the inside with a powder containing the element beryllium. If the particles of glass carrying this powder get under the skin the material may delay the healing of wounds and lead to chronic inflammation and tumor-like growths.

Fluorescent tubes are made of thin glass which shatters into fine, penetrating particles when the tubes are broken. It is urged that all maintenance men, factory operators, janitors and salvage employees be made aware of the hazards of breaking fluorescent tubes. Anyone accidentally breaking a fluorescent bulb should receive medical attention immediately to discover whether he has been cut by the beryllium contaminated glass.

Great care should be taken in the disposal of burnt out tubes. No attempt should be made to salvage or reclaim the powder from the lamps as inhalation of the powder can lead to serious lung damage. At home used tubes should not be put in the household incinerator or placed within reach of children. In disposing of used tubes in industry, full protective goggles should be worn and the operations carried out in such a fashion as to prevent the possibility of injury from flying glass. When a small number of fluorescent lamps are broken the following precautions are to be taken: (a) Break all tubes out of doors in a waste disposal area or in a waste container; (b) Avoid breathing dust or vapours that may be evolved.

The following rules should be followed when disposing of large numbers of fluorescent lamps: (a) Break lamps out of doors or in a waste disposal area or in a ventilated hood. To avoid unnecessary dust the breakage is best done within the waste container. (b) The operator should be supplied with and required to wear a respirator approved for toxic dusts. (c) Ultimate disposal of the broken lamps should be such that the public and others will not be unduly exposed to powders. In situations where it is necessary to break the lamps within buildings it should be done in an isolated room and in a hood to minimize the escape of dusts. Sufficient exhaust ventilation should be supplied to the hood to provide an air intake of at least 125 linear feet per minute at breathing level.

About This and That

Stray Dogs A Menace And A Nuisance

With the gardening season rapidly approaching the problem of stray dogs increases in importance. Digby seems to have an ever-increasing number of these dogs which are rapidly becoming a serious menace and a troublesome nuisance.

The by-laws of our town contain provisions regarding the handling of this situation and these by-laws should be rigorously enforced. While we realize the problem of handling the dog question and the enforcing of the by-laws in this respect is not an easy one, it can be solved and the menace and nuisance of these dogs running at large curbed.

While no one will argue the point that a dog is a splendid pet and a fine companion, everyone will agree that, if a person owns a dog, that person should be prepared to care for and look after his dog so that it does not become a nuisance to others or a menace to the community.

Complaints concerning the running at large of dogs in Digby are not the work of cranks or over fussy people. They are legitimate complaints that should receive the immediate and active attention of the authorities concerned. It is no joke to have one's garden torn up and flowers destroyed or a carefully tended lawn littered with bones and putrefying sections of some carcass, all the work of a pack of dogs whose owners are allowing them to run at large with no thought of the trouble they are causing.

Not only do these dogs running at large destroy property and make themselves a general nuisance but they are also a definite menace in the community. Dogs running at large, especially in packs, are dangerous. As yet we have had no trouble on this score in Digby, but in some communities children have been attacked by such packs. In northern Manitoba a child was literally "torn to pieces" by a pack of stray dogs. This can happen here. Let us act before it does and put an immediate and final stop to these dogs running at large in Digby.

Salvation Army Youth Group

The Youth Group meeting opened Friday night with the President, Capt. Howland, in the chair. Team Captain, Thomas Small was in charge of the meeting. Marion VanTassel led the Theme Song, after which prayer was offered by Wilfred Small. The Scripture portion was read by Alice Thomas. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary and the roll was called. The Business of the meeting was discussed, and a new member was welcomed into the group. A game, led by Mrs. H. Small was enjoyed by all present. The group was pleased to have to their visitor for the evening, Capt. True Ritchie, of Windsor, N.S. (the Salvation Army).

Another chapter of "In His Steps" was read by Lieut. Watts. Lunch was served and the meeting closed with the singing of "The Evening Vesper", and the members repeated together the Mizpah.

A SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Friends and relatives of Ingram Dakin of Centreville gathered at his home on Thursday evening, March 31, to celebrate his 80th birthday. To him it was a complete surprise as he knew nothing about it until the "gang" walked in at eight o'clock singing "Happy Birthday To You."

The evening passed pleasantly in playing games, etc. At 10:30 delicious refreshments were served including three birthday cakes brought by the visitors, one of which was decorated with eighty candles. Before serving, the candles were lighted and Ingram, in one breath, blew them all out but three. At a late hour the "gang" dispersed wishing Ingram many happy returns.

Fish Products Shipped From Freeport

Above is shown the motor vessel "Connor Bros. II" loading fish products at the wharf in Freeport. These products are from the Connor Bros. plant at Freeport and include boxed fish, fillets, etc. Value of fishery products from the Digby Neck and Islands amounted to $734,800 in 1947, with total landed catch of 18,810,000 pounds. In addition 12,277 gallons of steam refined cod liver oil were shipped out of the district.

Home and School Council Report

A full report on Digby County Home and School Council cannot be given because not all have sent reports to their convenor. But Bear River East had a splendid Founder's Day program, with a large attendance. The program consisted of readings, dialogue, solo, guitar and tap dancing. A lunch was served by a committee.

Barton meets every month with a good attendance. Efforts have been successfully made to bring in those who generally do not attend. A radio has been placed in the primary school. One was placed in the Advanced Department several years ago by the Home and School Association.

Freeport had a successful Pie Sale and Christmas party, and a combined Health Program and Founder's Day program, consisting of a play, "Good King Cold," by the school pupils, and a Founder's Day exercise and readings and special music. Refreshments and games followed.

Centreville had a Founder's Day meeting with readings and a talk. At their March meeting, Mr. McLean showed interesting pictures. Refreshments were served by a committee.

Digby has had Mr. C. Edwards to speak on "Adult Education." As the school buses were not running for a time it cut down the Home and School Association attendance.

The North Range Association reports all necessary equipment for the school has been provided. Hot drinks are served daily to the children. On Founder's Day a Founder's Day program was given. A paper on the history of the local association was read, and the school children were special guests. At their March meeting an interesting discussion was held on "Parents' Code of Ethics," a number of members taking part.

Smith's Cove has had Miss M. Tupper, R.N., as guest speaker, who stressed the importance of health in the schools. Sandy Cove held a successful Valentine Party with prizes and refreshments, and on Founder's Day a successful program was given with readings on "Milestones of Home and School," and discussion on the Home and School Creed. They had also had Dr. Rice as guest speaker and Mr. Tupper to show films. Waterford sent no report.

Westport had 41 members at their March meeting. After the business session, the program consisted of music, a humorous play, "The Donkey's Tail," and more music.

Weymouth had a successful

OBITUARY

Mrs. H. B. Franklin
The death of Mrs. Jessie M. Franklin, wife of Harry B. Franklin, 44 Mount Pleasant Avenue, East Saint John, passed away early this morning at the General Hospital. Mrs. Franklin had been ill for some time. During her active years she had been devoted to church work and was a member of the Edith Avenue Baptist Church; also she had held executive positions in several of the women's societies in the church, and was a past president of the W.C.T.U.

Mrs. Franklin was born at Digby, a daughter of the late Charles and Abigail Bell. For some 30 years she had lived in East Saint John.

She is survived by her husband; a son, Kenneth H. of Montreal; two daughters, Mrs. C. Springer Purdy (Bertha L.) of Saint John, and Mrs. Alexander Baxter (Ruth M.) of East Saint John; six grandchildren and two nieces.

The body rested at Brennan's Funeral Home, from where the funeral was held Saturday at 3 o'clock. Entombment was at Fernhill Cemetery.

Charles H. Westcott

The sudden death of Charles H. Westcott occurred at his home on March 10, 1949. The deceased was a son of the late Handley Chipman and Sarah Anne Cornwell Westcott, and was born at Watford eighty-four years ago. He leaves to mourn, besides his beloved wife, the former Cynthia Warren, one son, Roy, of Waltham, Mass.; a brother, Edward, of Vancouver, B.C.; one brother, Hadden and a sister, Ina, predeceased him many years ago. Mr.

Westcott was a faithful member of the United Baptist Church. The funeral took place in the United Baptist Church on Sunday conducted by Rev. G. S. McGray, assisted by Rev. Ralph Knock of the United Church. Hymns were "The Old Rugged Cross," "Saved by Grace" and "Face to Face," sung by Mrs. Gerald Morehouse. Floral tributes were many and beautiful. Pallbearers were nephews Sydney, Leigh and Wilfred Westcott and Malcolm Vidito. Interment was at Centreville Cemetery.

Mrs. Otto Frost

The community of Little River was shocked and grieved to learn of the passing of Marguerite, wife of Otto Frost, at the Digby Hospital, on Tuesday, March 29. Although in poor health for some time, her death was quite unexpected. She leaves to mourn their great loss, her husband, one daughter, Elma (Mrs. Alms Tidd) a son, Edgar; a granddaughter, Judith Tidd, her mother, Mrs. Edgar Denton, and two sisters, Muriel (Mrs. Allan Denton) of Rosindale, Mass., and Kathleen (Mrs. Lloyd McNeill), Marshfield, Mass. There are also four aunts, Mrs. Howard Denton, Mrs. Wentworth Trask, Mrs. Burton Frost and Mrs. Harley Ingersoll, and an uncle, Byron Trask, all of Little River.

Mrs. Frost was a woman of a remarkable personality, with a rare gift for making friends. Her unflinching kindness and sympathy will long be remembered by a wide circle of friends. Her home was a place of true hospitality, where a cordial welcome was always to be found.

In early childhood, Mrs. Frost united with the Baptist Church

Tiverton

Rainbow Lodge 113, I.O.O.F., celebrated its anniversary by having a very nice lobster supper on Thursday evening March 31st. Following the supper all enjoyed the pictures, after which a sing-song was held until the wee-small hours.

A number from the place attended the funeral on Thursday last of the late Mrs. Elwood Tibert at Central Grove.

Mr. S. Nickerson of Freeport spent Sunday with his daughter Mrs. Vincent Howard. Bernard Young has returned from Digby Hospital. Gorham Elliott and son Aubrey made a trip to St. John last week.

There are two freedoms—the false, where a man is free to do what he likes; the true, where a man is free to do what he ought.

—Charles Kingsley.

In Little River, has long been a valued member of the choir and of late years assistant clerk of the church. She has served as a teacher in the Sunday School and as secretary of the W.M.A.S.

The funeral service was held in the church at Digby. Favorite hymns of the deceased were sung, including a solo, "God's Way is the Best Way," by Mr. Churchill, "Good Night and Good Morning," and "Lead Me Gently Home" by the choir. Aubrey Frost, Reginald Trask, Boyd Adlington and Eldred Frost acted as pallbearers.

The numerous and beautiful floral tributes as well as cards and messages of condolence from friends and relatives in Canada and the United States, showed the love and esteem in which Mrs. Frost was held by her friends and the deep sympathy felt for her sorrowing family.

SNOW REMOVAL

A little thought on this matter will bring to mind that no one has any control over the weather, and that all machinery is subject to breakdown and accidents.

Misunderstanding will sometimes arise when, for no apparent reason, a plow is observed returning to the snowplow shed or garage while there is still much snowing to be done. The explanation is that the machine must be thoroughly greased and tightened up and minor repairs made, all at frequent intervals during the heavy work it has to do.

A machine cannot be serviced in this way on the open road in cold weather when its undergear is covered with a coating of ice. It has to be taken to a heated building and attended to. Neglect of necessary servicing will permit the snowplow to operate continuously a day or two longer without attention but the certain result is a serious breakdown and a general deterioration that will put it out of commission for a long period.

The plow that is properly serviced will be able to work many more days during the winter than will one that is not, even though the latter may make a brave show of it for a short time. Accompanying the actual plowing of snow there is the related service of sanding icy roads. The department does not undertake the complete sanding of highways. This is a service rendered only on very heavily travelled arterial highways in thickly populated districts where traffic has reached a density entirely unknown in our province.

Complete sanding comes under the heading of snow removal.

Bear River Home and School

The regular March meeting of the Bear River Home and School Association met on Monday, 28th of March, in Oakdene Hall.

With the president, Mrs. Gensler, presiding. The report of the president, Mrs. Gensler, showed that the association was in a flourishing state and among the reports was that of the Boy Scouts, Mr. L. V. Harris, who reported the formation of a "Club" and the report of the Deneby by Mr. B. R. McGraw, gave the highly gratifying results of the amount of work accomplished in that line.

A resolution for the adoption of the proposed constitution was adopted and the meeting was signed by the president, Mrs. Gensler.

Following the business, four very interesting films were shown, "Tennyson," "The Trees" and "Grand Manter" which refreshments were served. At this meeting it was decided to co-operate with the Women's Institute in an attempt for the travelling of Nova Scotia paintings when they arrive, and Mr. McCarthy and Mrs. Wm. Rompney were appointed a committee for this purpose.

Prior to the regular meeting, Home and School Association meeting was held at the school library as usual.

Red Cross Notes

With snow from time to time, the thought on that no one can control over the weather and that all machinery is set to breakdown and accidents will occur. Understanding will come when, for no apparent reason, a plow is observed returning to the snowplow shed or where there is still much snow to be done. The explanation is that the machine must be thoroughly greased and tightened up and minor repairs made at frequent intervals during heavy work it has to do. A machine cannot be serviced in this way on the open road in cold weather with its undergear covered with a coating of ice. It has to be taken to a heated building and attended to. Neglect of necessary servicing will permit the plow to operate continuously a day or two longer without attention but the certain result is a serious breakdown and a general deterioration that will put it out of commission for a long period.

The plow that is properly serviced will be able to work many more days during the winter than one that is not, even though the latter may make a brave show of it for a short time. Accompanying the actual plowing of snow there is the related service of sanding icy roads. The department does not undertake the complete sanding of highways. This is a service rendered only on very heavily travelled arterial highways in thickly populated districts where traffic has reached a density entirely unknown in our province.

Complete sanding comes under the heading of winter maintenance, and mile for mile is several times more costly than the snow removal operation itself. It could not be attempted here without running the cost of our winter work completely out of sight.

Of necessity the department can only place sand on the main trunk highways, where it is spread at dangerous places such as on hills and curves, at bad approaches to bridges, and at other spots where traffic otherwise would be unable to move or would be exposed to extreme danger.

Where icy conditions occur very quickly, as is often the case in Nova Scotia, the department has placed sand boxes beside the road to make possible quick spreading by hand and to provide the individual motorist a means of getting out of difficulties should the need arise.

It is hoped that the foregoing remarks have been of interest and that they will have explained something of what the Department of Highways and Public Works is about in the no small job of attempting to give the maximum snow removal service consistent with the money that can reasonably be spent on it.

We do not pretend to be perfect in every detail, as no large organization of any kind can ever be, and we therefore welcome constructive criticism. We feel confident that the general public will meet us half way on the annual fight against Old Man Winter.

Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled with the yoke of bondage.

—Galatians 5:1

Vincent Melanson Heads Men's Club At Church Point

The Men's Social Club held its fourth annual meeting and re-elected Vincent F. Melanson as President for the fourth consecutive term. Camille Blinn was elected as vice-president to replace Felix Thibodeau. The following were appointed to the entertainment committee: Edmond Belliveau, Eugene Thibault and Joseph A. LeBlanc.

The President spoke on plans of forming a Board of Trade for the district of Clare and he felt that all the members of the Social Club should show interest in this move. He outlined briefly what benefits can be derived by such a Board and what it had done for other districts. A special meeting to organize a Board of Trade is expected to be called at a very near date.

The entertainment committee were asked to form and organize a Horseshoe pitching team and league among the members. Several years ago this was quite a pass time among the older men of the village and the game was played with enthusiasm. It was also decided to hold more card parties this summer.

In its fourth year, the Social Club has done a lot of good in the community and it is hoped that more benefits can be had in the future.

Hold Ratepayers' Meeting

A meeting of the ratepayers of the village of Weymouth was held Wednesday evening at the school house. Wilfred Cosman acted as chairman for the meeting, with Victor MacNeill, secretary. This meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the school situation here re (a) classroom space; (b) what repairs, if any, should be made to the present school during the summer months. Reports show an attendance of 146 pupils for this term, with a larger attendance expected for the coming term. Congestion of the Primary and Intermediate rooms has been noted as increasing for the past several years.

Much interest was shown during discussion, which resulted in a motion being made by Israel Melanson and seconded by Rester Gaudet that a modern wing be added to the school, with cement cellar and lavatories. A com-

Second Section (PAGE NINE)

Continue Story Of County Survey

Several weeks ago the Courier carried a portion of the Dymond Report on Digby County. This report is an interim one, made following a survey carried out last summer by Mr. and Mrs. William Dymond of Cornell University, New York. The findings made by the Dymonds in their survey of Digby County are most interesting, and should prove of great value, not only to the University, but also to the various agencies interested in the welfare and development of the County.

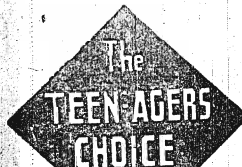

This week we are carrying a further portion of the report. This week's installment is a continuation of the section of the report dealing with the Economic Organization of the County and deals mainly with the fishing industry of the area.

Section III Continued

Some statistics will indicate the size and importance of the fishery to the economic life of Digby County. The 1871 Canadian census list 1197 men employed in fishery while the boats and equipment are valued at $42,900. The number of men employed in whole or in part time probably greatly exceeds that figure now and the value of boats and equipment we would estimate to be at least ten times the 1871 figure. Figures have actually been gathered only for the Digby Neck and Islands area which is the main centre of the fishery. In 1947 the total landed catch was 18,810,100 lbs. valued at $734,800, and in addition 12,277 gallons of steam refined cod liver oil were shipped out of the district. One informant has reported with respect to the Digby scallop fishery that it is worth from $500,000 to $750,000 a year.

Some of the fluctuations in the number of fish caught, due largely to the vagaries of nature as they affect the migrations and numbers of fish available on the fishing grounds, can be gauged by comparing the catches of the following varieties of fish in the months of June 1947 and June 1948:

June 1947 — Cod, 421,700; Haddock, 224,000; Pollock, 593,000; Hake, 842,700; Herring, 798,000; June 1948 — Cod, 682,700; Haddock, 455,200; Pollock, 1,413,800; Hake, 2,221,800; Herring, 223,000. Caught on the Digby Neck and Islands are not processed in the area but are shipped out fresh. The fishery during and since the war has been enormously prosperous as a result of good markets. Of course the costs of

Several weeks ago the Courier carried a portion of the Dymond report on Digby County. This report is an interim one, made following a survey carried out last summer by Mr. and Mrs. William Dymond of Cornell University, New York. The findings made by the Dymonds in their survey of Digby County are most interesting and should prove of great value, not only to the University in their work, but also to all agencies interested in the welfare and development of the County.

This week we are carrying a further portion of the report. This week's installment is a continuation of the section of the report dealing with the Economic Organization of the County and deals mainly with the fishing industry of the area.

Some statistics will indicate the size and importance of the fishery to the economic life of Digby County. The 1871 Canadian census lists 1107 men employed in fishery while the boats and equipment are valued at $42,900. The number of men employed in whole or in part time probably greatly exceeds that figure now and the value of boats and equipment we would estimate to be at least ten times the 1871 figure. Figures have actually been gathered only for the Digby Neck and Islands area which is the main centre of the fishery. In 1947 the total landed catch was 18,810,100 lbs. valued at $734,800, and in addition 12,277 gallons of steam refined cod liver oil were shipped out of the district. One informant has reported with respect to the Digby scallop fishery that it is worth from $500,000 to $750,000 a year.

Some of the fluctuations in the number of fish caught, due largely to the vagaries of nature as they affect the migrations and numbers of fish available on the fishing grounds, can be gained by comparing the catches of the following varieties of fish in the months of June, 1947 and June, 1948.

June 1947 — Cod, 421,700; Haddock, 221,000; Pollock, 593,000; Hake, 812,700; Herring, 798,600.
June 1948 — Cod, 652,700; Haddock, 155,200; Pollock, 1,419,300; Hake, 2,221,300; Herring, 223,000.
Caught on the Digby Neck and Islands are not processed in the area but are shipped out fresh. The fishery during and since the war has been enormously prosperous as a result of good markets. Of course the costs of fishing have gone up enormously also. Fishing boats which used to cost from $300-$400 now cost from $1,000-$1,200 and a line of 1500 feet which used to cost $9 now costs $17. A net which formerly cost $10 now costs $30. In July of 1948 the fishermen were receiving at Tiverton 3 cents a pound for cod, 4 cents for haddock, 2 cents for hake, and 2 cents for pollock. In 1935-36 they were receiving 1/4 cent a pound for hake, and it was said a man could work a full week 12 hours a day and make only $5. Contrast this with the situation today when two eleven year old boys in Tiverton report that their father took them handlining and they made $45 and $47 each in a week. It is not too unusual for two men in a boat to bring in a catch from trawling which is worth $100.

However, fishing as an occupation on which personal income is dependent is subject to numerous risks. There are the risks of price changes due to the interplay of demand and a supply in the market; and there is the risk that gear will be lost or damaged. In the Digby Neck and Islands during 1947, 200 tubs of trawl were lost at a cost of $2,000 and in the same season 3,000 lobster traps were lost at a cost of about $9,000. In addition to these difficulties, the vagaries of the weather determine whether or not the men can get out to the grounds and fish. Motors frequently break down and delay fishing operations and run up repair bills. One case can be cited of two men who had to lay off their fishing for three weeks while a new part came for their engine. In addition there are the usual hazards of broken limbs which may prevent individuals from fishing and against which the Government makes no provision in the form of unemployment insurance or accident compensation. In bad times fish firms have carried fishermen on credit supplying them with gear, etc. which they pay for when they bring in their catch. In sum, the cash income of the fisherman is an extremely fluctuating income for reasons over which he has little or no control. Nor is he able to insure or hedge against these risks other than by building up a back log of personal savings.

A trend of some significance has been the increase in the overhead costs which have had to be met by the fishermen in recent years. Boats and engines are getting more expensive gear and supplies are continually increasing in cost. Newer and more productive methods of fishing such as seining and dragging are nevertheless much more expensive than old handlining and trawling. This in effect means that the element of inflexibility in the cost structure of the industry is increasing while the risks and flexibilities of income attendant upon fishing have not decreased. Hence the ability of the fishermen to adjust to depression periods is affected.

The hours at which the fishermen work depend upon the tides and the actual fishing is at slack water. As the "slacks" are some what less than six hours apart it means that fishermen go out to the grounds at all hours of the day and night. Irregularity of income added to the irregularity of hours adds up to a high degree of instability in the occupational pattern of fishing.

Although there is much overlap, in the different parts of the county various kinds of fishing are emphasized. Scallop fishing has been mentioned at Digby. In Clare the lobster fishery in the winter and spring is most important—with trawling, handlining, and wrier fishing playing subsidiary roles. In Westport on Briar Island handlining prevails with very little trawling. In Freeport on the west end of Long Island both kinds of fishing methods are used, while at Tiverton on the eastern end of the same island mostly trawling is carried on with some drailing in the spring of the year. Wrier fishing occurs in many places in the county where sheltered coves and bays are found. Wriers require a substantial cash outlay of about $3,000 and as previously noted are usually operated by partnerships of one to five men.

The lobster fishery is a significant source of income for the region and is practiced by many fishermen who devote their time to other kinds of fishing when the lobster season is closed. The main lobster buyers in the county are at Digby, Mink Cove, Westport and Meteghan. Lobsters because of their perishable nature, require a special "pound" with circulating water facilities as well as marketing connections and this accounts for the small number of buyers. The Coop organized at New Edinburgh in Clare handles a large volume of lobsters and was founded by the fishermen primarily for this purpose. The lobster buyer at Digby has developed a marketing organization for his product at Toronto, Montreal and Detroit. He expects next year to expand his present facilities from 8 to 25 lobster tanks. Most of the other buyers in the County ship their lobsters to the markets in Boston or Gloucester. The Coop at New Edinburgh has an arrangement this year to sell their lobsters to Airborne Lobsters at Yarmouth, a concern which flies them to New York City.

Government regulations administered by the Fisheries Department of Canada have a considerable effect on the economy of the fishing industry. In the main the regulations are designed to protect the fishery from depletion of the supply. The inspectors appointed by the Department keep records of the amount and the value of the various kinds of fish caught and enforce regulations with respect to sanitation, labeling, canning, drying, pickling, and marketing of the fish. There are four fisheries inspectors in Digby county: one for the Digby Neck and Islands; one for Clare; one for Weymouth; and one who is a travelling inspector. On the Digby Neck and Islands the fisheries inspectors seem to be accepted in most quarters as necessary and desirable. There is some illegal lobster fishing done but for the most part the rules seem to be observed. In Clare there is a good deal of resentment against the regulations and violations are not regarded as crimes even by the most respected members of the community.

The Biological Board of Canada is the research arm of the fisheries Department and its activities have some effect on the economy of fishing. An example of the current work of the Board is a project, now going forward, to determine the best method of dragging for scallops while still preserving that fishery in high production over the long run. Experimentation is being done on the appropriate size of mesh for drags so that they will not catch immature scallops yet will gather the maximum of those which are commercially valuable.

The research activities of the Board have led to an interesting controversy with the Clare fishermen over the activities of a dragger which has been licensed for flounder fishing in St. Mary's Bay. The Board as a result of its research found that a valuable flounder industry was not being exploited and further that such action would not damage other kinds of fishing. The fishermen of Clare, however, resented the intrusion of this kind of fishing into an area which they considered their preserve and have claimed that dragging operations along the bottom of lobsters as the propagation of fish. As a result of the political pressure generated by the fishermen, the Board was forced to compromise by licensing only one dragger and posting an official on it to record everything caught by it. This provides an excellent example of more protection to a new and more productive method even though it is proved to be better and non-injurious to other interests. Generally the attitude of the Board's research people seems to be that a better and more productive method of fishing should not be held back in the interests of antiquated and less productive methods.

Little reliable information has been obtained on the mechanics of price setting in the fishing industry particularly the prices paid to fishermen at the point of sale. On one occasion it was noted that pollock was selling for 2 cents a pound in Digby while at the same time in Sandy Cove it was selling for 13 cents. The explanation offered for this disparity was that the only outlet in Sandy Cove was associated with the Maritime and the large company had dropped its price. Certain independent fish buyers, it is claimed, have a good effect on keeping up the price in the face of pressure to lower it. If one firm in an area has an outlet for its fish and is willing to keep the price up in order to obtain supplies, this act forces the price up from other firms. The main impetus for the development of fishermen's marketing Coops has probably been to introduce more competition into the buying of fish in local areas and so have a favorable effect on price.

Red Cross Great Humanitarian Agency

No other agency under private auspices has done as much for the Red Cross as the Canadian Red Cross Society. Pres. A. J. Smith, Canadian Congress, has been declared in writing by the Red Cross Society's national assembly, now meeting in its third week.

It is significant that the Red Cross is continuing to grow and extend the scope of its humanitarian work.

Now avenues of service being developed by the experience and expanding of the Red Cross Society. These responsibilities for the Red Cross are being passed on to the younger generation. There are a number of advantages in this order to utilize them as possible.

Emphasis is now being placed upon the Red Cross Society's service, which is the major development of the Red Cross Society in the past few years, and this is saving the lives of many.

Mr. Mosher has been a faithful service given to the Red Cross Society through the Society's Junior Cross work for veterans' families at home and abroad.

Builds House At 93

Accepting the challenge that he was too old at 93 to engage in strenuous labor, William Burnham Cornwall, one of the oldest and best known residents of Salem Depot, N. H., has just completed for himself a seven-room house started in November, which he has been occupying for the past two weeks.

A contractor and carpenter by occupation he did agree that the building of the cellar foundation was too much of a task, but from that point on he took over and proceeded to frame and build the large, modern house himself.

There is still a lot of work to be done, it is true, but to date he has a house livable and he has the installation of front and rear steps, grading and painting, which he has all good workmen before him to occupy his time.

His newest project is located on Pleasant street, Salem Depot, on a lot adjoining the bus farm, on a lot which he bought before he owned just before it was destroyed by a damaging fire about three years ago. The farmhouse is located at the corner of Cornwell court where three of the houses there were built by him.

Long in the building game, Mr. Cornwall can make a comparison between building a house today and what the experience was while he was a busy contractor for 27 years in Malden.

Mr. Cornwall is a native of Digby County, Nova Scotia, and when he first moved into Massachusetts he lived in Medford where he worked on a farm. Afterwards he moved to Danvers, where he commenced his trade as a carpenter. He then moved to Malden.

About 37 years ago he recalls he had a hanker for a farm and it was then that he bought the farmhouse next to his present home, which he sold and owned on three different occasions.

A brother, Charles, 91, died in Framingham within the past year. He has two sons, Harry, who is maintenance man at Revere park, and Edward, in Boston.

Incidentally, Mr. Cornwall is a brother of Mrs. J. H. Smith of Smith's Cove and A. J. Cornwall of Digby. He is the son of the late Jacob L. Cornwall of Smith's Cove.

Has Old Deed

Another "Old" article worthy of mention is a deed in the possession of Mr. and Mrs. Ary Doty, at Weymouth North. This deed was made out by 1. Jeremiah Talman of Shelburne, to Robert Bennett of the same place, for a parcel of land, dated at Shelburne on the 15th day of April, 1755. The deed is written by hand, on parchment, and although some of the creases are weak, the writing is legible, and the parchment in good condition.

Robert Bennett was an Englishman, and at one time, he was owner of Staten Island. He was the chief buyer of supplies coming into Nova Scotia at that time by vessel, and the captain of one vessel, Henry Barr, met and married Bennett's daughter, Catherine.

Mrs. Doty has also in her possession a letter from New York, telling of the death of Robert Bennett. This letter was mailed in 1813 before stamps were issued, and was brought from New York to Weymouth Point by Pony Express, taking about three months to arrive.

Before Bennett's death, he at that time gave the piece of land purchased at Shelburne, to his daughter, Catherine. Among the things bequeathed to his daughter was a bible, covered with goatskin, which is still in the community, also heirloom silver and other household effects.

It's Not News, But . . .

Last week's comment in this column regarding dogs evidently "killed two birds with one stone," and both of them had feathers. (There seems to be something fishy about that sentence).

Could it be there is some sort of competition as to who can provide the roughest ride through the valley on that night train?

That display window for the great production next week may represent the Nineties, but it certainly wasn't naughty.

"To be or not to be" seemed to be the question around town this week concerning a holiday on Monday. Today's proclamation by the Mayor clears up the matter, however. Only one sorry will be the fish.

Surely that wasn't an orchid a local professional man was sporting on his coat Wednesday.

Weymouth H. and S. Regular Meeting

The regular meeting of the Home and School Association was held on Monday evening, at the Academy, with Mrs. H. J. Melanson in the chair. After the singing of "O Canada," the minutes were read and approved. Letters were read, one of which was regarding the Travelling Art Exhibition. Mrs. C. G. Jones was nominated convener of a committee to investigate the possibilities of sponsoring this exhibition here, probably some time during the month of May. C. E. Edwards of the Dept. of Adult Education showed three films, "Hostility," depicting how environment affects the child as to make or mar his life; "The Life of Tom Thompson," and "A $1000 for Recreation" showing the desperate need of recreation for a community as a whole. The films were sponsored by the Parent Education Committee. Mrs. Dixon Rice, and Mrs. K. M. Hankinson spoke briefly on behalf of the group, thanking Mr. Edwards for coming to the meeting, and for the inspiration he gave the group, and issuing an invitation for further meetings with the group.

Name Delegates to V.O.N. Annual Meet

Mrs. John Russel and George C. Nowlan were named at Tuesday's meeting of Digby Branch V. O. N. as delegates to the Annual meeting of the Board of Governors to be held at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, on May 4th, and 5th.

From Miss Webb's report it was revealed she had made 235 visits in March and 25 new cases were admitted. There were 23 in attendance at the 4 Well Baby Conferences. Thirty-three hours were spent in school where 87 special inspections were made, 73 defects found and seventeen defects corrected.

Church Point Home and School Meets

One of the best meetings of the year of the Home and School Association was held Monday evening with 18 members in attendance of which 8 were men. The main features of the meeting was a panel discussion in relation to Education with Prof. W. J. Belliveau of St. Ann's school, Ernest F. LeBlanc, Miss Adele Dorset and Mrs. W. J. Belliveau taking part. The topics covered were:

1. Should a pupil who has no aptitude toward the subject taught continue to go to school?
2. Is education sought solely for the purpose of earning one's living?
3. What should be done by the teacher, parents and community to encourage the pupil to continue to attend school until he has at least attained grade 12?

Each speaker was enthusiastically applauded by the audience and the discussion proved very instructive and interesting.

Mrs. Edmond Melanson was appointed as delegate to attend the Rally to be held at St. Bernard's on April 19th.

Mrs. Anselme L. LeBlanc donated a box of fudge which was sold for $3.60 and a pair of diamond socks knitted and generous by donated by Mrs. Ben F. LeBlanc realized the sum of $14.40.

Classmates Honor Departing Pupil

A surprise party was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kirkpatrick when students of Grades 9 and 10 of St. Patrick's Academy gathered to honor their classmate, Claire Gaudet, who leaves Thursday to make her home in Montreal.

Joint hostesses for the party were Constance Kirkpatrick and Dorothy Deveau. The evening was spent in games and singing and at the close a number of lovely gifts were presented to the guest of honor from her classmates.

Scene At Ratepayers' Meeting

Shown above are some of those who attended last week's Ratepayers' Meeting at the Court House to vote on the guaranteeing by the Town of Digby of an issue of bonds by the Digby Recreation Commission. This meeting, one of the largest in the history of the town, gave overwhelming approval to the proposal by a vote of nearly eight to one. So large was the crowd attending the meeting a large number were forced to remain out in the hall until their names were called for voting.

Lay Charges In Break Case

Charges were laid last week against three teen age youths in the matter of the series of breaks which occurred in Digby some months ago. It is understood the three youths will appear before Stipendiary Magistrate G. H. Peters this morning in connection with the charges.

Laying of these charges brings to an end the investigation which has been carried on into these breaks which extended over a period of some three months.

Included in the breaks were the Super Service Station, Dunn's Garage, George Hinman's store, the Bowling Club and other properties.

Chimney Fire At Height Of Gale

A gale of almost hurricane force raged through Sandy Cove Wednesday afternoon and evening. The seas in the lake were of such size that the older residents had never seen before. However, little damage was done, but at the height of the gale, a chimney fire occurred at the home of William Crowell. It burned like a beacon for nearly an hour and inside the house the chimney became so hot, it scorched the paper, it was said. Necessary precautions against a serious outbreak were taken. How- ever it died down without serious damage.

Pro-Con. Leader Addresses Kiwanians

Last week's meeting of the Kiwanis Club was treated to an unexpected treat when Robert Stanfield, the local Conservative party leader, was a guest of one of the members. He was invited to speak and although the notice was so short, he rose to the occasion and gave a very interesting non-partisan address of the value of political parties in the life of any country. He urged everyone to take a greater interest in the party to which he was attached by doing so he would become a better citizen. He was introduced by W. L. Troop and thanked by A. C. Tingley.

Trout Fishing Opens Tomorrow

Opening of the trout fishing season in Nova Scotia on Good Friday, April 15, should see some very good average angling in the southwestern area of the province, according to the Nova Scotia Bureau of Information at Yarmouth.

W. Roy Cann, manager of the bureau, in a report on angling conditions said water levels probably would be slightly below normal for the season's opening unless there are heavy rains in the meantime. This is attributed to the winter's light snowfall in the western counties.

The angling season for Atlantic salmon opened in the Annapolis Valley and South Shore areas on April 1.

V. O. N. Tag Day Successful

At the monthly meeting of the Victorian Order on Tuesday, Miss Louise Daley reported that $70.55 was realized from the Sale of Tags on Saturday. The committee in charge of the Tag Day consisted of Mrs. W. K. Ganong, Miss Louise Daley, Mrs. G. W. Connell and Mrs. Seymour Denton.

Miss Daley spoke highly of the efforts of some of the fifteen boys and girls who gave their time to make the day a success and especially of those who had put forth every effort to raise the maximum amount possible from some of the more quiet parts of the town or under unfavorable circumstances.

Red Cross News, Digby Branch

The April business session of the Digby Red Cross Branch was held last week with Dr. T. W. Hodgson presiding, and Mrs. Bruce Robertson serving as assistant secretary.

The treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Mullen, reported March expenditures of $36.39 and a balance on hand of $191.79.

The correspondence included a request from the Division that the Branch send a representative to Halifax for the instructor's course in First Aid to be held the last week of April. As it is hoped to form a First Aid class in Digby next Fall, it was left with Miss Louise Daley and Mrs. Clay to try to secure a suitable representative who could attend the Halifax course with the object of acting as instructor for our local class. Several requests in connection with the loan of hospital beds and wheelchair were also left with this committee.

A letter was also read soliciting donations of second-hand playing cards for the Red Cross Lodge at Camp Hill Hospital. Mrs. H. M. Warne offered to forward any donations left at the Court House.

Mrs. G. W. Connell reported that five food parcels, containing special Easter treats, had been packed and shipped to England in March by the "Boxes for Britain" committee. A box of used clothing was also forwarded in response to a request from a young girl in Greece. Expenditures for food and postage during the month had totalled $32.11.

March donations, which were gratefully acknowledged by the committee, included generous assortments of food from Mrs. B. H. Ruggles and the Zelmah Rebekah Lodge, also cash donations of $5 each from the I.O.O.F., Miss Agatha Stewart, Miss Margaret Stewart and Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch.

The report of the Women's Work Committee, presented by Mrs. H. M. Warne, showed a busy and successful month's work. The work meetings had been well attended, and a particularly beautiful box of finished articles packed and shipped at the end of the month, including 13 quilts, 1 bedsheet, 1 man's sweater, 11 children's sweaters, 6 dresses, 9 nightdresses, 4 caps, 13 pairs mittens, 3 pairs socks, 20 baby blankets, 1 baby shawl and 88 baby garments.

New material received recently consisted of surgical gauze and folders for the making of 1600 "wipes" for the Blood Transfusion Service. Several groups are undertaking this work, and it is hoped that others will take it up in view of the fact that the Transfusion Service, uses 2000 wipes and 2000 swabs per week.

Many local requests for clothing had come in during the month, and the committee reported several cartons of used clothing given out and one layette in preparation. Thanks were extended for the following donations received during March:

5 quilts, Mrs. Guy Dunn and Mrs. Curtis Young; 1 quilt, Mrs. A. Jefferson; 1 quilt top, Mrs. MacKinnon; 1 pair mittens, Mrs. Currie Young; 1 pair booties, Mrs. Clarke; 1 baby set, Mrs. E. Dent, Mrs. E. D. Dickie, Mrs. F. C. Purdy, Mrs. Reg. VanTassel, Mrs. G. W. Connell, Mrs. Tilly and Mrs. C. E. Smith, Barton, Mrs. A. Tingley and Mrs. G. Goodwin.

Cancer Drive Opens This Week

The membership and fund campaign of the Canadian Cancer Society will open in this area next week. It has been announced by Victor Cardozo, Campaign Chairman. It is hoped this year to conduct an extensive campaign throughout the Municipality of Digby and the assistance of the schools in the rural areas will be asked in carrying this out.

Funds raised by the Canadian Cancer Society through its campaign are all used for educational, welfare and research work by the Society. Last year the Nova Scotia Division of the Society alone spent $19,327.92 on cancer education work throughout the province. This included the production of educational films on Cancer which were shown in centres in the province; booklets and pamphlets which were distributed to schools, nurses, teachers and the holders of meetings; and the holding of meetings and lectures on cancer in various centres which were addressed by lay and medical speakers.

Beside its educational program the Nova Scotia Division of the Canadian Cancer Society spent last year $1,885.70 on cancer welfare work. This included the provision of free dressings to cancer sufferers on application; the financing of transportation for cancer sufferers who otherwise could not afford to go to treatment centres and the provision of care for financially burdened cancer patients prior to and following hospital admission.

The Nova Scotia Division of the Canadian Cancer Society also spent in 1948 on research work $3,000.00. This money was spent in Nova Scotia to provide equipment, personal and other needs for the job of carrying out the all important research work in the field of cancer.

The objective for Nova Scotia in this year's campaign is $35,000 which is a modest one when compared to amounts raised for other purposes. The Society hopes this year to meet its objective of "a member in every home."

About This and That

Family Compact Stuff

We have not yet found anybody who thinks that the Ontario Legislature would be bothering about breaking up the Toronto Star charitable trust if that newspaper were a supporter of the majority party. That the purpose of the bill introduced by Mr. Frost is to deal with the Star situation is quite frankly admitted by the Star's chief competitor, Mr. McCullagh's Telegram, which explains that the bill "restates the law to plug loopholes," and that the Star case is the loophole. That the Telegram happens to be an ardent supporter of the provincial government and the Star an equally ardent opponent of it is not mentioned in the article, and no doubt the Telegram would like to have us believe that this is pure coincidence. We have made an honest effort to do so, for we desire to think the best of everybody, but we have not succeeded.

And if there is any connection between the hostility of the Star to the government and the determination of the government to break up the Star trust, the situation is not one which friends of the freedom of the press can contemplate with much satisfaction. It means that the Ontario government is willing to use its sovereign power to chastise a journalistic opponent by making unlawful something which it has already done and which was perfectly lawful when it did it. It establishes a most admirable precedent for future use by even more dictatorial governments of Ontario or other provinces. We can see the possibilities of a future Ontario government concluding that newspapers should not be owned by gold miners (it is not a completely unreasonable contention), or a future Saskatchewan government deciding that they should not be owned by anybody who has stock in a railway or an insurance company.

The Family Compact method, of raiding the printing shop and throwing the type in the Bay, was much less dangerous, for it at least left the owner a recourse of a suit in civil damages, which in Mackenzie's case was eminently satisfactory.

...thrin' me and Mirandy, my ... always had a hankerin' fer
... fireplace, to stretch our legs
... front of in the evenin's, and
... even pop some corn like
... when we were young
... So, the other day when ... we were discussin' our spring
... cleanin' and repairin', Mirandy
... "Why not put a fireplace
... ?" Down at Hick's they got ... some real good firebrick, and
... they put it up, of ... firebrick. And mantel brick and ... course. Everythin' to make a ... right snazzy fireplace. Me and ... Mirandy are like a couple of ... kids—we can hardly wait. Won... der why we put it off so long?

Don't see many brick houses in these parts. I recollect the first time I went over to Boston, I wondered what made the buildings look so strange—I was just a kid, and I puzzled quite a while before I figured out it was the brick. I missed the white frame houses.

Course there's places bricks are next to necessary. One of these is in chimneys. Speakin' of chimneys, a neighbor of ours had a chimney fire the other night.

I guess when he builds again he'll know enough to use chimney tile—once burned, twice shy, as the feller says, and, of all the places in the world, a chimney ought to be fireproof.

I believe in fireproof roofing, too. That's why I'm puttin' asphalt shingles on my house, and barn.

I've ordered my British Columbia Cedar shingles for that new spring coat I've been promisin' my house. I guess I'll have to wear the old gabardine myself for quite a spell, but I figure it will be worth it. House proud, that's me, Mirandy says. But I'm just protectin' an investment.

Been puttin' up the first of my shingles this week. It's easy as talkin' off a log, as the feller says.

My neighbor that had a fire in his house. Lucky, that is, if he had to have a fire and build again.
He's done it now. He can get cement for his foundation—and the best of the lumber Hick's have been pickin' out all winter for lumber finishin'. Later on, there may be short, and he would have to summer in a tent or be content with second best.

It's BAD LUCK

... to start a grass fire

That's right! Bad luck for everyone. The farmer who burns his fields carelessly damages the fertility of his soil. When the fire spreads to his woodlot he is burning "money in the bank", as flames kill seedling trees—his future tim-ber crops.

No one gains from uncontrolled grass fires. No one but the fire demon. Fire and nature are sworn enemies. Remember! It's bad luck to start a grass or fern fire.

Large Number Attend Weymouth Lodge Institution

Probably the largest gathering of Free Masons ever to be held in Weymouth — and the first since 1874 — took place in Kellam Hall Thursday night when the Grand Master of Nova Scotia, David O'Neil, of Bridgewater, and the Grand Secretary, R. V. Harris, of Halifax, assisted the District Deputy Grand Master for District No. 3, P. E. Black, of Middleton, in the formal institution of Tuscan Lodge, A. F. and A. M. Over a hundred were in attendance, coming from Digby, Yarmouth, Bear River, Annapolis Royal, Freeport and even from Massachusetts. The provincial officers of the new lodge are as follows:

N.M.—John K. Smith, Plympton.
S.N.—E. Philpot, Weymouth.
J.N.—J. E. Specht, Barton.
Treas.—Capt. C. Granville, Weymouth.

Secy.—Albert E. Jones, Weymouth North.
S.D.—B. T. Height, Brighton.
J.D.—George E. Wagner, Weymouth.

S.S.—Darrell Thurber, Weymouth North.
J.S.—Frank MacAlpine, Hasset's.

Tyler—Capt. H. B. Fitzgerald, Weymouth North.
Chap.—Rev. T. W. Hodgson, Digby.

Following the introduction and seating of the officers, the Grand Secretary gave an interesting address on the powers of a lodge under dispensation, and the W. M. read the names of many donors of articles necessary to the furnishing of a masonic lodge.

Several lodges donated gifts as a lodge, others was by individuals. One of the gifts was a Bible beautifully bound in masonic blue by the Grand Master.

Other speakers were the Grand Master, who spoke on the value of masonic training and teaching; the District Deputy Grand Masters of Districts No. 3 and 4; and several Past D. D. G. M.'s.

The lodge closed shortly after 10 o'clock after which refreshments were served by the ladies of the Guild.

The new lodge will hold its regular communication on the second Wednesday of each month in the Wagner Hall and the first meeting will take place on the 13th.

A Surprise Birthday Party

Friends of Roberta Sanford gathered at her home, Bear River East, on Saturday evening, April 2nd, to celebrate her 17th birthday.

To her it was a complete surprise when she returned home about eight o'clock from a friend's home where she was invited. Some greeted her singing, "Happy Birthday to You". The evening passed pleasantly in playing games and music.

At 10.30 delicious refreshments were served including two birthday cakes to about 25.

At a late hour the friends departed wishing "Bertie" many more happy birthdays.

Credit Union Meeting Held

The fourth meeting of the St. Joseph Parish Credit Union Study and Discussion Club was held on Tuesday, April 5, at 8 p.m. in the Parish Hall.

He stressed the valuable services that can be rendered by properly organized, properly active and properly supported credit unions to a group of people united by a common economic interest and economic purposes.

Following this very instructive talk a general discussion took place at which Mr. Riley answered questions.

Camille Muiise was chairman of the meeting with Denis Comeau acting as secretary. The thanks of the meeting was extended to Mr. Riley by Fr. Freckler and Mrs. J. D. Rice.

Come to CHURCH Easter

It is singularly fitting that the earth should celebrate its awakening from Winter with a glorious pageantry of bud and blossom when we, of Christendom, celebrate the miracle of the risen Christ. It is fitting, too, that we brighten and beautify our homes . . . rejoice in the warmth that brings new green and growth to our gardens . . . and array ourselves in new clothing in response to the primal urge of Spring. But it is in our hearts that Spring and Easter work the greater magic by fulfilling the eternal promise of hope renewed. It is a time of remembering Him who conquered death that we might have this hope. On Easter morning let us enter His House and give Him our gratitude and our love. Be one of the worshipping throng, COME TO CHURCH ON EASTER!

The Naturalist's Corner

What about the Pole star? You look up into the sky at night, and there it is. You can even find it during the daytime, if you know how, when and where to look, and your instrument is in adjustment. To ordinary appearance, it is fixed, stays in one place, but if you were to follow it through a whole day's journey you'd find it making a complete circle in the sky, and the centre of that circle is the north pole, or rather the axis about which the earth turns, prolonged into space.

This point, and the pole star's distance from it, are fairly constant (the pole actually wobbles a bit, and the star makes tiny circles of its own, but for our purpose we'll ignore them) and, if we stand on any certain spot on the earth, know the angle that the line from us to the star makes with the line from us to the pole, and a similar angle between the line to the star and the line we are trying to get the direction of, we can easily obtain the relation between this last and the one from us to the pole. This gives us the azimuth of our earthly line much closer than our compass can.

This requires calculations. We know how far the star is from the pole, we can measure how high it is above the horizon, and as there is a fixed point (wholly invisible, but accurately placed) in the sky known as the First Point of Aries, from which the distance of all the stars, the sun, and the planets, is calculated in hours, minutes and seconds of time (which can be translated into hours, minutes and seconds of arc), we can from these form an unseen triangle in the sky, and solving this triangle can not only find out the angle the pole and the pole star make to each other from where we're standing, but is, the azimuth of the star, but other measurements as well.

This sounds complicated, but is not so bad once you get acquainted with it. The odd thing is about the triangle. You see, for purposes of ordinary astronomy, the sky is considered to be the inside lining of an immense sphere, and all the stars, except our sun and planets, are pretty fixedly attached to it. This puts the triangle on the curved surface of the sphere, and makes it different from a triangle on a flat surface in that its sides and angles are measured wholly in degrees, instead of miles or degrees. You know how geometry teaches you that the sum of the three angles of a triangle amounts to exactly 180 degrees? Well, because of the curves of the triangles on the sphere's surface the sum of its three angles exceeds 180 degrees. This is known as spherical excess, and depends on the area of the triangle; the greater the area the more the excess.

Two or three years ago I had the job of reading the angles of triangles whose sides were miles long, and because the points of these angles were on the curved surface of the earth, they were really spherical triangles, and the excess had to be considered when closing the triangles. The allowable closing had to be within three seconds, and our luck was remarkably good.

Now this first point of Aries, which I just mentioned, is also the point which the sun apparently passes twice a year, and when it does it ushers in the spring, or the autumn, so there you are; we're back.

You know, the idea surveyors like best of one of themselves is of a man sitting patiently on a stump, waiting for a time star to cross the line of vision of his telescope. You know the star is due to come, nothing can stop it from doing so, and if it fails to turn up it is not the fault of the star but of some mistake in your own calculating. It develops in you a profound assurance of the steadfastness of the universe, as compared with yourself. You have to be right to succeed, because the star cannot be wrong.

A few years ago, forty or fifty, the surveyor who would attempt to gaze at a star during the daytime was a rare bird indeed, he deemed it an impossible feat. His observations were all made at night, with the aid of lanterns or candles to show the line and light up the instrument, while the mosquitoes bored into the eyelid or sought out soft and juicy spots on neck and wrist. It took a few years to wean these old sordidnesses from their midnight stars but now he who stays out long after supper for an observation is as rare as he once was plentiful. A star, seen in the daytime, is a wee white speck on the blue of the sky, and after you've spent some time hunting for it, and it suddenly comes into view, you are always amazed that you didn't see it long before.

The pole star can be found right now from about three o'clock on to dark; other brighter stars, Sirius, for instance, at almost anytime except very near noon. Depends on the amount of vapour in the sky. Out west, where the atmosphere is clear, you can spot Polaris twinkling up above, even at dinner time.

There's many a tale (not love tales; we didn't bother about them on the survey) centred about the pole star. One ambitious young surveyor called Abeysarskin, was just learning to observe, so he went out, put up his instrument, set it at what he figured was the right spot and he focused, and hoped for the best. No pole star could be found, but with the patience I spoke of before, he withstood the mosquitoes, and repeatedly peered through his transit till sundown. Then he suddenly remembered that someone had informed him the pole star had frequent fading out fits. That was the explanation of his failure. So, through the gloom and over the windfall, he went back to camp, and reported to the chief that Polaris had faded and couldn't be seen again till perhaps the next day. Of course, it hadn't, but the chief had himself gone through this in his early days, so Abeysarskin got off easy—except for the rest of the party.

This is the end of this astronomical stuff.

Famous cereal frees women from harsh laxatives

Searching desperately for constipation relief? Then read this unsolicited letter:

"For 10 years even strong medicines couldn't help me. At last my doctor in England advised KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. I began to eat this breakfast cereal and soon realized I was better. I eat ALL-BRAN regularly now and can definitely say I am free from constipation!" (Name given on request).

You, too, may never have to take another harsh laxative for constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet. Just eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily—and drink plenty of water. ALL-BRAN is not a purgative, but a wholesome regulating cereal. Eat as a cereal, or in muffins for constipation relief. "I pray the Lord my soul to keep"

Whatever our creed or language, we have all felt the impulse to pray. We may worship in various forms... we may call our God by various names... but, somehow, most of us express our faith in a Higher Power. When our loved ones are spared, we give thanks. At times of confusion or danger we call for guidance. When confronted by a mighty mountain, or the perfection of a tiny snowflake, we are awed by the wonder of life. We teach our children our faith, so that they will not be alone as they face the world.

FAITH is a family affair!

FAITH is not just for holy days. Faith is for every day... at work, at play, in the quiet times the family has together.

We need faith—and never so desperately as today. The world is filled with voices of confusion. It is easy to feel helpless and alone. But faith in a Power outside ourselves can be a bedrock of family unity, a shield for family happiness.

A return to faith can give men and women a broader view of life—a sense of perspective. Then they are better prepared for the give-and-take of family living. The family united in faith has a strong and lasting bond.

To keep alive the family's faith calls for a positive plan—just as you plan for your family's material welfare. How your family expresses its faith is a matter of choice. What is important to you is that you do express it!

Children naturally turn to faith when it is a daily part of the family life. And when they know the real meaning of faith, they will be tolerant of those who express their faith in other ways.

The home atmosphere is far different when a family stops trying to walk alone, when it sees its place in the bigger scheme of things. It works together for the things it can control—and trusts its God for guidance in problems beyond its control. Such a family can't help feeling closer together, more sure of itself, happier!

To keep alive the family's faith calls for a positive plan—just as you plan for your family's material welfare. How your family expresses its faith is a matter of choice. What is important to you is that you do express it!

Influenza Epidemic Hits Town

An outbreak of influenza in Digby and district has reached epidemic proportions, it is stated by members of the medical profession locally. Somewhat over a hundred cases have been reported and at the closing of Digby schools for the Easter vacation more than 25 percent of the pupils were absent because of the flu.

The influenza that seems to be so prevalent locally is accompanied by high temperatures and severe muscular pains.
A number of cases of mumps and measles have also been reported recently. Digby has been most fortunate up to the present with regard to these diseases for although the area adjacent to the town has been heavily hit, no cases were reported locally until this week.

Youths Get Suspended Sentence

Three teen age youths were given suspended sentences of two years each here Thursday morning by Magistrate Cor. H.
Peters on a charge of stealing batteries from a local warehouse.
The charges rose out of investigations into a number of thefts in Digby several months ago which ranged over a period of weeks.

In passing sentence on the youths, Magistrate Peters stated they were fortunate in that more serious charges had not resulted from their activities and warned them to be law abiding citizens in the future. He placed them on their own recognizance and ordered them to report each month during the period of their sentence to the local police office.

Hon. R. H. Winters

To Address

Trade Boards

One of the most outstanding meetings ever held by the Annapolis Valley Affiliate Board of Trade will be held on Friday, April 22nd, when the fourth annual meeting of the organization gets under way at the Cornwallis Inn, Kentville.

An outstanding feature of the meeting will be the presence of Hon. R. H. Winters, Minister of Reconstruction and Supplies, who will be the guest speaker.
Organized in 1945, the Valley Board of Trade is today recognized as one of the strongest organizations of the businessmen, represented by the 19 Boards comprising its membership.
Among many important items to be discussed are:

1. Improved boat facilities between Digby and Saint John.
2. Co-operation with the Fruit Grower in the solution of his problems.

3. Blomidon Park.
4. Resumption of a ferry service on the Minas Basin connecting with Passaboro.

5. Improvement of road conditions on Digby Neck.

The election of officers will take place at this meeting and many other matters of vital importance to the Valley as a whole will be discussed. The Secretary-Treasurer, John D. Mosher, Kentville, reported that already 100 reservations have been booked for the annual meeting. The deliberations of this meeting will be watched with interest by many people of the Valley and throughout the Province.

H. M. Wane, Digby President of the organization will preside.

Havelock

an and son Clarence of Weymouth spent Easter with their daughter, Mrs. Eddie Gaudette.

Wagner of Weymouth visited their sister and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Manly Wagner in Danvers last week.

Mr. Wilbur Sabean of Havelock has left for Annapolis where he has accepted a position.

Weymouth, a passenger to Saulnier, here she visited her mother, Mrs. Iphigene Gaudet.

Frank Raymond Awarded Hockey Trophy

Presentation of the Tufts Trophy, which is awarded each year to the "most valuable team member" of the Digby Ravens hockey team, was made at the complimentary dinner for the Ravens
by Dr. E. H. Anderson, President of the Digby Recreation Commission, to Frank Raymond, star forward of the Ravens who suffered a broken ankle in a game against the Kentville Wildcats late in the season.

In making the presentation,
Dr. Anderson stated Frank Raymond had been the unanimous choice of the judges who felt he had played a consistently fine game throughout the year and through his steadiness and keen playing ability, had proven a good example to other team members.

The complimentary dinner was tendered to the Ravens hockey team by the Digby Board of Trade, The Kiwanis Club and Y's Men's Club. Following the presentation to Frank Raymond, a presentation was made by Trade Board President, W. L. Troop to Dr. G. V. Turnbull who has acted as referee for the senior hockey games in Digby throughout the season. In making this presentation, Mr. Troop stated he felt Dr. Turnbull had earned the respect and appreciation of the community for his fine fair and impartial handling of the hockey games.

In replying to the presentation,
Dr. Turnbull complimented the Ravens on the showing they had made during the first year of play in the new Digby rink and stated he felt great things were in store for the team with the installation of artificial ice in the rink. He stated every effort should be made to build up good midget and junior teams who would provide material for the senior squad in the years to come.
He also urged the training of young men to act as referees as he felt the possible heavy schedule of games next year would require several referees to handle.

Ab Ettinger, playing coach of the Ravens, expressed the thanks of the team to the who had arranged the dinner for their thoughtfulness and stated he hoped the team would continue to earn the good wishes of the community in the years ahead.
Tony Saulnier, team manager, also expressed the thanks on behalf of the team and stated the year had been a most interesting one.

Addresses

Y's Men's Club

Victor G. Cardozo was speaker at Tuesday night's meeting of the Digby Y's Men's Club. Taking as his subject the motto of the club, "To acknowledge the Duty that accompanies Right", Mr.
Cardozo delivered a most stirring address.

The speaker stressed the need for a full awareness of the duties that should accompany the rights that Canadian citizens enjoy and stated the rights and privileges which are now accepted almost without thought by Canadians were hard won for them by men of courage and vision in times past who were willing to suffer and sacrifice in order to obtain those freedoms which now seem to be so lightly held.

He stated one of the foremost duties of Canadian citizens was the exercise of the franchise and stated that the right of a free vote was being accepted without the full use of the accompanying duty to exercise the right. He said these were many examples of countries where the duty of exercising the right of the free vote had been neglected with the eventual result this right was being denied with the establishment of dictatorship.

The speaker concluded by saying that every right which individuals enjoy is necessarily accompanied by a duty and urged that his listeners not only acknowledge these duties but also perform them.

Digby Club Honored

The Executive members of the Digby's Y's Men's Club were presented with special membership cards from the International office in recognition that the Digby Club had been the first in the Annapolis Valley to file their International file for the year.
Secretary Elton Arnold commented on this honor, and stated he felt this club had achieved a worthwhile record in being the first to file returns this year of all the Y's Men's Clubs throughout the world.

A letter was read from Roger Rand, Regional Director, which stated he planned to make an official visit to the club on May 2nd.

Firemen Purchase Ladders For Pumper

At the last meeting of the Digby Fire Company it was decided to vote a sum of money from the receipts of the card parties sponsored by the company to purchase two aluminum ladders, ordered through the Town Council, for the fire pumper. These ladders will cost somewhat over six hundred dollars.

Plans for the final card party of the season were discussed at the meeting. This party will be held at the Court House on Tuesday evening, April 26th, and every effort is being made to make this final card party one of the most interesting of the season.
Special prizes have been arranged and it is hoped attendance will be good.

The past winter has been a most active one for the Fire Company and they have raised a good deal of money for their project of supplying needed items of equipment to the department.
They are still far short of their objective, however, and much more money will be needed to enable them to secure all of the necessary pieces of equipment they wish to buy.

Body Found In Brook Near Home

A 13-year-old resident of the Annapolis County community of Virginia East, Allan Potter, was drowned in a small brook near his father's farm this morning.
April 15th, after he suffered an attack and collapsed.

The boy had been subject to weak turns for several years.
The victim took his father's cow to the brook for watering at 9 a.m. The cow returned to the barn alone and Owen Potter, the boy's father, became alarmed.

He found his son lying face down in the shallow pool.
Dr. C. R. Mahaney of Bridgetown, Annapolis County coroner, after viewing the body, decided that an inquest would not be necessary.

R. C. M. P. from the Digby Detachment investigated the tragedy.

The youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Potter, the boy is also survived by three brothers, Carl, Murray and William, and a sister, Florence all at home.
The funeral will be held Monday afternoon from the Clements-valle Baptist Church.
Interment will be at the Clementsvalle Cemetery.

Churches Thronged For Easter Services

Despite somewhat inclement weather, Digby churches were thronged with worshippers for services on Sunday marking the glorious festival of the Resurrection.

At Grace United Church special Easter music was a feature of both the morning and evening services. At the evening service a special Easter cantata, "The Resurrection Morn", was rendered by the choir. At the morning service the ordinance of baptism was conferred on three young people and three candidates were received into the membership of the church.

Special Easter music by the Junior Choir was a feature of the morning service at the Digby Baptist Church. At the evening service special Easter music was rendered by the choir, and the ordination of baptism was administered to several candidates.

At Trinity Anglican Church the beautiful choral eucharist marked the eleven o'clock service at which nearly one hundred communicants made their Easter communion. A large number also attended the early morning communion service at seven o'clock and made their communion then.

Special Easter masses marked services in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church on Sunday with capacity congregations being present at all services.

A sunrise service of Easter music was held by the local corps of the Salvation Army with their band in attendance. Other services were held by the Corps during the day at which special music by the band was a feature.

One of the oldest residences in the Far River was leveled by Friday night when fire broke out to have started from an electric wiring, through a two storey house, a large loss.

Three persons were left in the building; Miss Emma McLeod, a bed patient, and Mr. McLeod, who fled at night.

At a time the blaze threatened the residential section, the fire was quickly controlled by the Digby fire department.

The fire was caused by a short circuit in the wiring during a severe electrical storm and high wind.

It is estimated that within a few days the fire had made persons homeless in this community. Only five persons were left.

Continue Report on County Survey

(This week, the Courier presents a further installment of the 23rd annual Report on a survey of Digby County made by William and Rosalind Raymond of Cornell University last summer. Portions of this report have been carried in previous issues of The Courier and others will appear as space permits.)

Section III Continued

The fishing economy of Digby has somewhat unique characteristics not found in the remainder of the County. For all practical purposes it can be described as a fishery of St. Mary's Bay, since very few Digby fishermen go in other waters. Very few of the fishermen of Digby depend solely on fishing as a means of support, whereas the other fishermen of the County, particularly on the Neck and Islands, depend almost solely on fishing as a means of support.

Meteghan is the principal center of the Digby fishery and it is there that the largest fish processing firm is located. Some fishing, however, is done out of almost all of the villages concentrated along the shore. From December to May the principal activity is lobstering. Very little trawling is done by the fishermen of the French Shore and the lobstering is in the main supplemented by wellington and handling for pollock and cod. It is said that if the price of lobster has been so high the previous winter that very little fishing was done in the summer at all.

All the fish plants in Digby are locally owned with the exception of one at New Edinburgh. There are fish plants in the district located at Salmon River, Cape St. Mary, Meteghan, Saultierville, Comeauville, Church Point and New Edinburgh. There are about 9 weirs located in the district, one at Comeauville, three at Church Point, three at Grosses Coques, one at New Edinburgh, and one at Belliveau's Cove. The fresh fish business does not seem to be nearly as highly developed in Digby as in the rest of the County largely because the Maritime Company, which is the principal handler of fresh fish, does not operate in this part of the County. The firms market mainly salt, smoked, pickled and canned fish.

A fish plant at Meteghan seems to be expanding in recent years and reveals signs of aggressively developing the fishing potentialities of the region. Some twenty-odd years ago the firm operated on a much smaller scale and used to confine itself to canning fish for other firms under their labels. They then went into business for themselves canning lobster and other varieties of fish. Today, the products they process, and market (Please turn to Page 12)

A Familiar Scene In Westport

Shown above are Captain Moore and Mr. Titus enjoying a friendly game of cribbage in one of the Westport stores. The stores in the villages on the Islands of Digby Neck are great gathering places, especially in the evenings and during off fishing periods. In almost every store provision is made for the comfort of the villagers who like to congregate there. Benches are provided near the stove where the men gather to talk over politics, fishing and other subjects. These store gatherings are actually forums where the affairs of the day are fully discussed and opinions concerning local and world affairs are formulated.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Elwood Tibert
The community of Central Grove was saddened by the passing of Mrs. Elwood Tibert, wife of Elwood Tibert, whose death occurred March 29, at the age of 65 years.

Although not in the best of health for some years, there seemed an improvement in recent months, yet the end came very suddenly, after only three days illness.

She was a member of the Central Grove Baptist Church, a woman of sterling Christian character, and loved by family and acquaintances alike.

Mrs. Tibert was the daughter of the late Frances and Samuel Sanderson of Waterford, and leaves to mourn, beside her husband, two daughters, Eleanor (Mrs. H. Bouchie), Freeport; and Nettie (Mrs. S. Robar), Virginia East; three brothers, Henry of Waterford, George and Frank in the United States, and three grandchildren.

The funeral took place from her late home on Thursday afternoon, March 31, conducted by Rev. J. W. Derby of the Christian Church, Westport. The floral tributes were beautiful. Dearest sympathy is extended to the sorrowing family.

Gilbert Saulnier, who is employed at Halifax, spent a few weeks' vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Saulnier, at Meteghan River, and before his return he called on his aunt, Mrs. Cora Saulnier of the Royal Hotel.

There was a large congregation at the Stella Maris Church on Palm Sunday at both services. The work in the Meteghan Shipyard is going well. There are over twelve boats under construction of which five are patrol boats. We presume there will be a good summer's work.

SURVEY OF DIGBY COUNTY

ket are boneless dried cod and pollock, kippered herring, bloaters, chicken haddies, finnan haddies, pickled fish, salted fish, cod liver oil, lobsters and fresh fish fillets. For example, they can about 200 cases of chicken haddies a day. They employ about 70 people both men and women, the cheaper female labour being used in the canning process. The workers work 9 hours per day, the men being paid about $18 a week and the girls being paid as little as $7.50 per week. (According to employee informants W. R.O.) The plant is now in the process of developing a large indoor drier to expand its production and proposes very shortly to build a number of lobster tanks to expand this aspect of the business. The supplies of fish are drawn from a much larger area than Clare, particularly from Digby Neck and Islands, as the Clare fishermen alone do not provide a continuous enough supply to make large scale operation successful.

Some information was gathered on the operation of a weir at Church Point, which reveals some of the characteristics of this kind of fishing. Four men own this weir in partnership and it is sealed twice every 24 hours at ebb tide. The seine costs some $600 and the weir has to be rebuilt every year as it is destroyed during winter months. Constructing the weir takes about six weeks and it requires most of the winter to cut the necessary stakes and brush. A pile driver is required in order to drive the stakes into the sea bottom. The weir is fished in the summer and autumn and some trawling is done by the men in the early spring and winter when they are not busy constructing the weir or gathering materials for it. One favorable aspect of this kind of weir fishing above all other varieties is that the weir can be sealed in all kinds of weather since the interior is protected. When the fish are running heavily the weir can be very profitable and we are informed that the one at Church Point sometimes produces a day's catch worth as much as $600-$700. Of course, the size and value of the catch is subject to the same fluctuations as are other kinds of fishing. There are days when no fish of any commercial value are caught. The development of the branch of the co-op, the Maritime Fisherman, at New Edinburgh, is an interesting story and is possibly symptomatic of developments which will occur in other places in the future. This co-op has 100% membership among the fishermen of the village numbering 22 men in 14 boats. The co-op was first talked up in 1940 as a result of dissatisfaction over the price being offered by buyers of lobster. The local price was only 14 cents a pound when the fishermen knew from radio reports that the buyers were receiving 28 cents a pound on the Boston market. The fishermen also knew that those who fished from Sandy Cove across the Bay belonged to a 'marketing co-op' and were receiving a better price for their lobsters. Nothing was done, however, about the organization until 1944, since most of the men went to work in the shipyards at Weymouth during the interval. Before organization, a study group was formed to examine the proposition and assistance was given by a Department of Agriculture representative from Yarmouth who was

Captain Oscar Lane Has Been Afloat Since 1896

Capt. Oscar Lane, of St. Louis, manager of the Western Division of the Lake Tankers Corporation, retired March 1, with over 20 years service in the company. Capt. Lane, who is a native of Kent County on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, was first licensed in 1904 and has been a licensed master, unlimited, since 1908. Before joining the Lake Tankers Corporation in 1903, Capt. Lane sailed in all parts of the world with the Sun Oil Co., the Gulf Oil Corporation and the Shell Oil Company. He left the latter firm in 1928 to join Lake Tankers, his first employment in the shipping industry was in 1896 when he went to sea in sailing vessels. He was present at the battle of Manila Bay, viewing the scene from the mizzen sky-sail yard of the sailing ship Packard at anchor near Cavite.

Capt. Lane was master of the Lake Tankers Corporation's motorship Martha E. Allen on the Great Lakes until 1936 when he came ashore to represent the company at East Chicago, Ind. In 1940 he established a branch office in St. Louis for the operation of the company's barges and towboats on the Mississippi and in 1943 he moved his headquarters to St. Louis, retaining the a field organizer for co-operatives. The members of the co-op are at liberty to sell to whomever they like but usually market their lobsters as a group. In the fall they hold their lobsters at Yarmouth until about the middle of December, and then sell them to the highest bidder. The co-op holds back 1/2 cent a pound from the members in order to build up a capital fund which now amounts to $1600. The co-op also buys fishing supplies for the members but has not yet gone into the marketing of other kinds of fish. These are usually sold by the fishermen as individuals to a company which has a branch in the village. It is interesting that the fishermen in this village do not, as in other sections of the county, go out in partnership pairs, but one man owns the boat and gear and hires another man at a wage as a helper.

In 1947 the co-op at New Edinburgh handled 25,000 pounds of lobsters at an average price of 40 cents per pound. The over-all organization of the United Maritime Fishermen was founded in 1935, presumably as a result of pressures arising from the depression, and now is a $1,000,000-a-year lobster business. The over-all organization deals not only in lobsters but in most other varieties of fish handled by the trade in Nova Scotia as well.

branch at East Chicago. In 1942 another branch was established under his supervision in New Orleans.

Capt. Lane has been largely instrumental in the development of the Lake Tankers Corporation. He is well known throughout the maritime industry on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts as well as on the Great Lakes and the Mississippi system. He is a past president of the Propeller Club, Port of St. Louis and is a member of the American Bureau of Shipping. He is a former director of the American Waterways Operators, Inc. and has served with many technical committees for the U. S. Coast Guard, the old Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation, as well as for the American Bureau of Shipping. He is a charter member of the Twenty-five Year Club and of the Petroleum Industry. He is a 32nd degree Mason, a Shriner, a member of the Downtown Club, St. Louis, and the Lion Club, Hills Country Club, Normandy, Mo.

Upon Capt. Lane's retirement, his services to the Lake Tankers Corporation will continue in the role of consultant. Effective March 1st, the Western Division is to be divided into a Southern Division with headquarters in New Orleans where Capt. Carl F. Schaefer will be manager, and a Northern Division, with main offices in St. Louis, where Capt. Ralph F. Clark is to be manager. Houghton F. Randolph, who has been assistant to Capt. Lane will be assistant manager, Northern Division. Capt. Clark, who has had 10 years as a pilot and master on the Mississippi River system, is joining the Lake Tankers Corporation on February 1st after resigning as vice president of the National Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots and secretary-treasurer of Harbor 28, St. Louis, of that organization. Two dinners were given in honor of Capt. Lane. On February 8 a company dinner was given by David A. Wright of New York, president of the firm, at the Mark Twain Hotel and on March 7 the Propeller Club dinner, also at the Mark Twain, was Capt. Oscar Lane Night.

Captain Lane's wife is the former Edrie Titus of Digby. He and Mrs. Lane have been visitors here on many occasions.

Y's Men To Operate Workshop

Robert Marshall, chairman of the Digby Y's Men's Club, reported at Monday night's meeting that a place had been found for location of the shop and work of readying it was underway. Mr. Marshall outlined the plan of the Club to operate the workshop where articles of lawn furniture and other items would be made for sale, the profit going to the Club's youth welfare program.

Aubrey Hawkins stated that efforts should be made to dispense lawn chairs made by the Club so that orders could be taken. He stated the workshop was needed the orders to start work. Wood had been secured and equipment were ready.

Speaker at the meeting was President Baden Powell who gave a most interesting address on the work of manual training department of the new Rural High School. Mr. Powell stated the purpose of the department was first of all to find the direction of the pupil's abilities and then to provide them with educational opportunities, consistent with these. He stated every effort was being made to provide educational opportunities for the pupils in the department in agriculture which is the first of its kind in the province.

Thanks of the meeting were expressed to the speaker by Victor Cardozo, who stated that the people of this district were indeed fortunate in having educational opportunities for the children of the area. He also said he felt the staff of the school were able to interpret the school curriculum to provide an educational program particularly fitted to the needs of this area.

To Eliminate Traffic Hazards At City Entrance

Two outstanding problems that have plagued Halifax civic and provincial authorities for at least 25 years will be eliminated in 1949 by vigorous highways administration. Tabling his report on 1948 operations, Hon. M. Rawling announced in the House recently that in conjunction with Halifax authorities work will begin soon on a specially designed traffic circle which will effectively end the present undesirable conditions at the Arm Bridge where the South Shore highway meets four local streets and roads. At the same time the steps will be taken to eliminate the Fairview railway underpass bottleneck and bring traffic from Annapolis Valley and Truro highways over a better and safer route into the city.

While both these projects located on the outskirts of the city, they effect the general traffic interests of the whole province.

Another hundred miles of road surfacing will be completed in 1950, the minister said, stating that highways outlays in the biggest construction since 1939, had been $20,225,000 with revenues of nearly $9,000,000.

The department also plans (Please turn to Page 8)

It's Not New But . . .

It seems to be the pot thing now for some politicians to claim ancestral connections with Newfoundland. Could get awfully complicated if more provinces are added to the Dominion.

Residents of Bridgetown have been somewhat confused by the following their paper's two weeks ago and put clocks back an hour with the advent of Daylight Time.

It looks as if the question of improved boat service between Digby and Saint John is going to dry dock again for a year.

At last all the rumours election dates seem to be true. Now there'll be a few rumours as to who is going to run.

A local coach evidently intends to become a "swamp star of tomorrow." When it comes from a canoe then things you just don't see.

It's wonderful how things change on Sunday's fish market. Increase in size and number of fish.

With all the elections and to have any time to think about June.

In line with this the department has instituted a course in agriculture which is the first of its kind in the province.

Artificial Ice Plant Purchased

Purchase of an artificial ice plant for the new Digby Rink was made at the regular monthly meeting of the Recreation Commission at the Town Hall Monday night. It is understood the new plant will be installed late in the summer after the floor surface of the rink has been made ready and will be in operation for the opening of the hockey season in November.

The secretary read a copy of the new Act passed by the Legislature, increasing the borrowing power of the Recreation Commission and making provision for the guarantee of Recreation Commission Bonds by the Town of Digby in accordance with the wishes of the ratepayers. The new Act also names the Deputy Mayor as a member of the Commission, replacing the Town Clerk, who becomes the permanent treasurer of the Commission.

It was decided by the meeting that tenders would be called for the construction of the curling rink addition to the rink building.

Kiwanians Mark Good Will Week

Members of the Digby Kiwanis Clubs throughout Canada and the United States are marking "United States - Canada Good Will Week" this week and a special program has been arranged for the weekly meeting tonight.

Leaders of both the United States and Canada have this week issued statements citing the relationship that prevails between the two countries as an outstanding example of international good will.

President Truman and Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada declared that friendship north and south of the border constitutes the basis for world peace. President Truman said "the spirit of friendship and cooperation which has characterized the relationship represents a unique achievement in the annals of nations."

The peoples and governments of the United States and Canada," he continued, "provide the world with a striking demonstration of the ability of democratic, freedom-loving nations to live, to work, and to progress together towards lasting peace and prosperity."

Prime Minister St. Laurent, referring to "these troubled days," said the "cordial relations between our two countries are a pattern of international conduct which peace-loving men would like to see emulated everywhere."

Canada's chief executive also described the friendship as a "bulwark against aggressive forces which threaten democracy throughout the world."

Sponsored by the Kiwanis International, United States - Canada Good Will Week began Sunday, April 24th. More than 2,900 clubs and 200,000 Kiwanians are participating in the annual observance.

No Decrease in Fish Catch Despite Heavy Take

Despite the fact that millions of pounds of cod and haddock are taken annually from Canada's off-shore fishing grounds in the Northwest Atlantic, there has been no appreciable decrease in catches by Canadian fishermen over the past 17 years, according to statistics being compiled at the Atlantic Fisheries Biological Station, St. Andrews, N. B.

This statement may not find ready acceptance among those fishermen who, experiencing light catches during the 1948 season, believe that the stocks offshore are being depleted by over-fishing.

But Dr. W. R. Martin, Federal Fisheries Research Board biologist, points out that over-fishing would only be apparent by a steady decline in catches over a period of years. Last year's sudden drop might be explained by disturbed hydrographic conditions in the sea which upset the regular feeding habits and movements of the cod. Fluctuations in the annual catches over the years in part reflected economic trends in the industry's markets. During the war years when markets were good, the fishing effort was intensified and catches reached new peaks.

In depression years, the markets were limited, the fishing effort slackened and the catches

Provincial, Federal Elections Likely For June

RT. HON. LOUIS ST. LAURENT Prime Minister of Canada

HON. ANGUS L. MACDONALD Premier of Nova Scotia

According to statements from Premier Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia and Federal Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, elections may be expected in June for both provincial and federal fields.

Speaking in Kentville Monday, Premier Macdonald expected a provincial general election in June when the apple blossoms are in bloom. Addressing a Liberal nominating convention he said, "The choice of voting Liberal or Conservative will be shortly before you." He followed up by saying that the provincial election will be held on a cold, dreary December day, but rather when the sun is shining and the beautiful Annapolis Valley blossoms are in bloom.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent told the Canadian Press Monday—with as much force as he could without overstepping the bounds of official discretion—that the General Election date is to be Monday, June 27th.

Asked if he could indicate a definite date for the contest, he told a reporter, "Here is the situation. We want an election as early as possible and June 27 is the earliest possible date."

"Do Something About It!"

"Do something about it," was the cry of William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, when he saw shivering, starving men sleeping on the Thames Embankment. And Salvationists ever since have sought to obey that charge whenever and wherever confronted with human suffering and frustration.

The Salvation Army is a practical organization. It believes it should first serve the person in need, then concern itself with bringing that person into a right relationship with God.

For a lengthy period of time, this organization in Digby has been extending its help to the hungry and to the naked; seeking out new destitute families and meeting their needs; supplying clothing for many winter months, since have sought to obey that charge whenever and wherever confronted with human suffering and frustration.

"Do something about it," is a challenge to all of us when, during the current Red Shield Appeal, the Salvation Army asks for funds, to help it continue its necessary ministry. Let us, therefore, quickly and generously "do something about it."

"Naughty Nineties" Excellent Performance

The old time vaudeville show, "The Naughty Nineties", sponsored by the Ladies' Aid of the Digby General Hospital and presented last Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the Rural High School Auditorium before captivated audiences, was an excellent performance and was a real credit to the producer, Eugene Hand-spiker, and the entire cast.

Digby Neck Paving Program Outlined

Hon. M. D. Rawding, provincial minister of highways and public works, provided information to the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade concerning a resolution passed last year by that organization in regard to improving road conditions at Digby Neck, and particularly East Ferry.

In a letter, read by Secretary J. D. Mosher, at the Valley Board's fifth annual meeting at Kentville, the minister gave the following report: "The first section between Digby and Gulliver's Cove, approximately nine miles, has been reconstructed to a standard preparatory to paving. This was completed in 1947 at a cost of $119,236."

"An engineering survey was completed on the next section between Gulliver's Cove and Sand Cove, approximately 10.5 miles, and tenders were called March, 1947. At that time the bids were considered too high by this department and this work was re-called on May 1, 1949, when prices received were again considered to be too high, and the matter was again deferred for a more appropriate time."

Tender Accepted

"This work was again advertised July 21, 1948, and the tender of H. H. Latimer was accepted and the contractor proceeded immediately with the work. The estimated total cost of grading this 10.5 mile section is $204,000 and it is expected the work will be completed by the fall."

"The 10.5 mile section from the end of the present grading contract to East Ferry is now under investigation, and when all survey work has been completed, it will then be possible to advertise this section, which will complete the grading of the Digby Neck highway at an approximate cost of $534,000."

"In addition to this amounts gravel base course and paving of the 30-mile section will probably be in the vicinity of $30,000 per mile, under prevailing conditions. This would make an approximate total of $900,000 for the paving and adding the grading cost of $534,000, would make a total expenditure of approximately $1,434,000 for the reconstruction of Digby Neck highway."

In conclusion, Mr. Rawding said, "While there has been considerable criticism that not enough is being done to improve this section of highway, I believe the members of your board will all agree, the proper procedure has been taken to assure this area of a first-class highway."

The minister's explanation apparently seemed to satisfy the Fundy Board's delegates as well as other western boards. In any event, there was no further discussion.

All Provincial Highways Open

All highways in Nova Scotia were opened for normal traffic yesterday. The Department of Highways announced the lifting of weight restrictions in Cumberland, Colchester, Pictou, Antigonish and Guysborough counties, the last areas affected. In other parts of the province weight limits had been lifted earlier in the month.

Weight limits of 6000 pounds for single wheeled vehicles and 8000 pounds for those with dual wheels were first imposed in Queens, Shelburne and Yarmouth counties on March 12, to prevent damage while frost was leaving the ground. They were extended to all but Cumberland, Colchester and Pictou counties on March 15, and to these three counties the following day.

The restrictions were modified beginning April 1, to permit traffic up to 12,000 pounds and later lifted entirely. By April 11 full loads were again permitted all along the South Shore and on April 22 in the Annapolis Valley and the Halifax area.

Last week full loads were permitted again in Cape Breton Island.

Provincial Election June 9th

Nova Scotia Provincial elections will be held Thursday, June 9, according to announcement made last night by Premier Hon. Angus L. Macdonald. Nomination day will be May 28th.

To Study Fundy Boat Service

Suggestion that a joint delegation of the Annapolis Affiliated Boards of Trade and the Saint John Board meet with President John Board met with President Mather of the C.P.R. in connection with increased water transportation facilities between Digby and Saint John during July, August and September and October of each year, was approved at the Valley Board's annual meeting at Kentville.

J. R. Dudley, industrial commissioner, Saint John, and also a commissioner of the Saint John Board of Trade, felt that increased passenger service should be put towards obtaining these much-needed facilities. He was speaking to a resolution presented by the Digby Board and which, he said, met with Saint John approval.

It was Mr. Dudley's opinion that a good estimate of the number of motor cars which would be transported if the existing service was increased would be around 35,000 autos.

A. J. Dunphy, general manager, D.A.R., pointed out that the Fundy boat service had been inaugurated as a direct railway connection for Canadian Pacific lines from New Brunswick to Nova Scotia. He said it would be impossible to make two trips a day between Digby and Saint John for the "Princess Helene" boat as train connections had to be met.

William Troop, Digby, told the meeting that if the boards are on the wrong track, it might be well to explore from what highway in New Brunswick service could be established to Digby in order to eliminate the present bottleneck. Mr. Dunphy said that in 1948 the C.P.R. lost $158,000 on the service, and estimated a loss of $25,000 up to this period this year.

Col. S. R. Balcolm, President Halifax Board, said that Halifax would welcome the C.P.R. entering the city over its own rails.

William Troop was appointed chairman of the committee to consult with the Saint John Board in respect to securing an interview with the C.P.R. president, who is expected to be in St. Andrews, N. B., early in June.

Prepare For Baseball Season

F. L. Anderson, F. K. Hayden, E. B. Tufts, A. F. Payne, A. L. Robinson, J. Rosenthal and H. D. Dickie were elected to the management committee of the Digby Ravens Baseball Club at a meeting of baseball enthusiasts held recently at the Town Hall.

It was decided by the meeting that the net proceeds of the July 1st and Labour Day baseball games, together with the net profits of the baseball club for the season, would be turned over to the Recreation Commission at the end of the season.

The development of not only a strong senior team but also junior baseball for Digby was stressed at the meeting and it was decided every effort would be made to promote a well rounded baseball program for the coming season.

At a meeting of the management committee held later, F. L. Anderson was elected Chairman, with A. L. Robinson as Vice-Chairman and E. B. Tufts secretary. H. D. Dickie was named as treasurer. The committee decided to appoint H. G. Webber as manager of the senior team with A. R. Payne as junior team manager.

Island Lodges Confer Degrees

Over 100 members were present at St. George Lodge, I.O.O.F., on April 22 when the Second and Third degrees were conferred on Joseph S. Turnbull. The Second degree was conferred by Chippewa Lodge, of Freeport, and the Third degree by Juanita Lodge of Westport.

Each degree was conferred in a very impressive manner and the staffs received much praise. Two of the oldest members of St. George Lodge were present, John H. Smith, 87, of Smith's Cove, and Stanley S. Aymar, P. G. 84, of Digby; also two old members from Massachusetts Lodges, Thomas S. Farnham of Digby and David L. Welch of Barton.

Edward C. Clark presided at the piano.

THE BANK's the place for my money. I always put part of my pay into my bank account—otherwise it burns a hole in my pocket. I guess I trust the bank more than I trust myself. I figure that's one reason why my savings have been building up the way they have.

Another reason I'm sold on a bank account is that I always know just where I stand. All I have to do is take a look at my pass-book. They're a lot better bookkeepers than I am.

What's more, what's in my pass-book is my business and I can count on the bank people to keep their mouths shut about it. And that suits me just fine!

Going to your bank is not like having to deal with a state bureau—but that's how it would be under state monopoly.

Uncle Ed says

The poets kin sing about the flowers that bloom in the spring, but, as far as I'm concerned, for the lumber that's piled in the yards, tra-la.

When I was a little shaver the first day of spring for me, no matter what the calendar said, was the day I was allowed to leave off my long underwear and my cap with the earflaps and go out and climb around on the sweet-smellin' woodpile.

The smell of wood in the spring is still the purest smell in the world to me, and the sight of it's mighty purty, too, providin' it's good-lookin' lumber piled up neat like you see it up at Hicks's these days.

Where Hicks's handle so much lumber they kin get the very best. Met a feller the other day worked on those hundred houses up at Greenwood, and he said the lumber they got from Hicks's was the best they got.

One thing the folks around here don't have to worry about fer a while is cement. Hicks's are unloadin' it by the carload and huntin' around fer places to put it. They heard there was goin' to be a shortage and they aim to see to it that, wherever the shortage is, it won't be here.

Club River Baseball Club Elects Officers

The first meeting of the Bear River Baseball Club held recently in the Legion Hall with the president, Chester Kaulback, presiding, was a most enthusiastic affair. The minutes were read and approved also the statement of finances and the nominations resulted in the following slate of officers for 1949:

Pres.—Dr. D. G. Black.
Vice-Pres.—Hoyt Purdy.
Sec.—Donald Brown.
Club Manager—Gordon Benson.

Coaches—D. MacNeil and J. Parker.

Then followed a discussion as to repairs and work necessary for improvement of the field, and equipment to be purchased.

Several helpful ideas were suggested as to ways and means of raising funds for these purposes and committees were named to work on these objectives.

Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Randall and daughters of Black Harbor were guests this week of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Benson.

Master Sandy Hood returned to Kings Collegiate School at Windsor last week. He was accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hood.

The Misses Edith Hattman and Clara Robichaud returned to their homes in Digby after spending last week with the former's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Balser.

The Agricultural Society are busy improving their property. Recently they acquired over two acres of land and have filled in and levelled across in front of the main building, which greatly improves the appearance of the front approach. This should be a matter of pride for the whole county as well as to the village of Bear River, and their effort to raise funds with a community party next Tuesday night should receive generous patronage to aid these improvements.

were low. (Although there is no evidence of over-fishing as yet, the investigations into the off-shore resources by the scientists at St. Andrews aim to provide a basis for recognizing over-fishing should it occur and for recommending remedial action.)

The groundfish fishery is the most important on the Canadian Atlantic coast when offshore and inshore fishing of all kinds are included. The proposed establishment of an international commission to investigate the resources in the Northwest Atlantic, as discussed in Washington early this year, emphasizes the need for sound information in this field. Dr. Martin's work is an important preliminary contribution to this program.

In obtaining the information necessary to recognize changes in the abundance of groundfish, Dr. Martin has laid the ground-work for a system of collecting special statistics on catches as related to the actual fishing effort and on sizes and ages of fish.

The investigations require considerable field work. During the first six months of 1948, some 12,000 cod and 7,300 haddock were measured for size and some 2,400 cod and 1,500 haddock were examined to determine their age. Age of cod or haddock is determined by the number of rings on a fish scale or the rings on the otolith bone which is part of the construction of the inner ear of the fish.

This program of assessment of long-term changes in abundance and factors affecting such changes, which is still only in its early stages, is already yielding information on seasonal and annual changes in availability of cod and haddock.

For example, in 1947 the predominance of four-year-old haddock suggested that an exceptionally good production of this species occurred in 1943 which indicated that these fish would contribute much to the 1948 catch when they would be five years old and of good market size. This indication was confirmed by the actual catches last year when this 1943 year-class accounted for a large portion of the total haddock catch. Similarly, the appearance of a good 1948 year-class gives justification for forecasting improved haddock fishing this year.

extensive program of bridge construction. The 26,000-29,000 pound loads carried by so-called three-ton trucks make replacement of some of the older structures absolutely imperative if the province is to keep up with the times.

Praising the aggregate type of paving adopted in 1935, the minister stated that it has stood up well, and revealed incidentally that costs of pavement have risen from about $23,600 a mile to $52,500 a mile.

Mr. Rawding said two ferries, the John Cabot at the Strait of Canso, and the Highland Lass for Englishtown, had been built during the year. Number of vehicles registered is now 78,000 and Nova Scotia stands third among the provinces in expenditures on highways, having regard to mileage and registration. One person in every six in the province now holds an operator's license.

Buildings have been bought in Guysboro and Antigonish, and others built in Baddeck and St. Peters. Mechanical shops have been established at New Glasgow, Kentville, and Middleton, and additional repairs facilities installed at Sydney, Antigonish, Amherst, Bridgewater and Shelburne. These centres will facilitate all kinds of highways work but will particularly speed up winter snow removal.

One of the most important advances is the establishment on West Young Street, Halifax, of a public works department whence the chief engineer will direct all important construction and maintenance work throughout the province.

the College of Commerce, Moscow.

1910 marked the beginning of his relentless pioneering in refrigeration. He was official delegate to the First International Conference on Refrigeration Transportation, held in Paris, France, and he also attended the Second International Congress of Refrigeration in Vienna, Austria.

The first modern cold storage was built by Mr. Z at Moscow in 1911, which is still operating.

As early as 1912, Mr. Z fulfilled his wish of going to the United States, where he made an exhaustive study of American refrigeration methods of that period, and was particularly impressed with the great potentialities of California.

His scientific studies began also at that time. Together with Prof.

P. I. Bachmetieff, the spectacular study of ANABIOSIS was started. The effect of low temperature upon cold and warm blooded animals was studied, and it was noticed that it was possible to induce a state of suspension animation. The phenomena of live fish being quick frozen, stored, then defrosted and brought back to life was scientifically studied. Attempts were made to accomplish a similar effect with warm blooded animals, and under limited conditions partial success resulted.

The quick frozen foods which are a by-word today were actually produced by Mr. Z in 1913 on his expedition to Lake Gokcha on a mountain level of 12,000 feet near Mt. Ararat (of "Noah's Ark" fame).

During World War I, at the request of the then Russian Gov't, he organized and constructed some 17 meat packing and cold storage plants, some of which used mechanical refrigeration and others his special method of ice and salt chilling.

The Revolution of 1917 - 18 terminated everything. By sheer luck and perseverance Mr. Z and his family were able to emigrate. During this time he established a meat packing plant in Estonia and made trips to the U. S. A. He moved to France, and then to England. 1930 marks the development of his special process of quick-freezing, which became known as the "Z Process."

In 1931 he migrated with his family to the U. S. A. and became an American citizen. He and his son organized the "American Z Corp." which later became known as the "Z-Pack Corp."

which was the beginning of quick freezing not only in the U. S. A. but in India, Japan and Europe. The commercial activities finally culminated in the organization of National Frosted Foods, Inc. in 1938. This company is quite active under the Company management of his son, W. M. Zarotschewski and Charles Danziger, who during the past 20 years paralleled the activities of his energetic father.

During World War II Mr. Z served his adopted country in a technical and scientific capacity, assisting in the processing and preservation of food. Even though he is now semi-retired and has settled in Los Angeles (821 North Harvard Blvd.), he is still as active as ever. This summer he plans to supervise the production of quick-frozen fish fillets which is being carried out by National Frosted Foods for the account of "SNOW CROP MARKETERS, INC."

Chas. Danziger has been associated with Mr. Z and his son since shortly after their arrival in the United States, and is at the present vice president of the National Frosted Foods Inc. as well as their affiliates in Canada, United States and India. He is today resident manager of the Bellrock Packing Co. Ltd., a fish packing and quick freezing operation located in Digby and N. S. He is a native of City, and a veteran of World War II, with three years service in North Africa.

2. Lumber

Next to fishing, lumbering is the major industry of Digby County. As we have said, about 80% of the area consists of forest and the people who live away from the sea depend on the sale of timber as an important source of cash income. A good deal of the timber is on the west coast of the county. The small, scattered farms of the farmers either sell their trees to a small saw mill or do their own marketing after having the mill saw their logs for them. Much of the timber lands in the county are back of the settled areas. A large part of the land is owned or leased from the government by large pulp companies whose mills are outside the county. The Mersey Pulp Co. of Liverpool, N. S., owns lands back of Weymouth, the Minas Pulp Co. of Nanger, Maine, owns tracts of land back of Bear River. Timber lands are also owned by local operators such as the H. T. Warner Co. of Digby and the Comeau Box Co. of Meteghan.

Timber is exported in a variety of forms, but little of it in very highly manufactured forms such as furniture, matches, paper, etc. Fishing boats are probably the most highly finished timber product that is exported. Probably the major export is sawn lumber, but in addition there is pulp wood, pitprops, boxes and some furniture.

Today, when wooden ships were built during the war, their hard wood had to be imported from elsewhere as this kind has virtually disappeared from the area. The fishing boats which are still built locally are in the main made from soft woods.

As noted, the larger part of the timber seems to be exported in the form of sawn lumber and there are large numbers of saw mills dotted over the interior of the county. #### Lumber

Next to fishing, lumbering is the major industry of Digby County. As we have said, about 80% of the area consists of forest and the people who live away from the sea depend on the sale of timber as an important source of cash income. A good deal of the timber is on the world lots of the settled areas are by back of the settled areas are owned or leased from the government by large pulp companies whose mills are outside the county. The Mersey Pulp Co. of Liverpool, N. S., owns lands back of Weymouth, the Minas Pulp Co. of Nanger, Maine, owns tracts of land back of Bear River. Timber lands are also owned by local operators such as the H. T. Warne Co. of Digby and the Comeau Box Co. of Meteghan.

Timber is exported in a variety of forms, but little of it in very highly manufactured forms such as furniture, matches, paper, etc. Fishing boats are probably the most highly finished timber product that is exported. Probably the major export is sawn lumber, but in addition there is pulp wood, pitprops, boxes and some furniture.

In the days of wooden ships and sail, shipbuilding was an extensive industry along the shore of the county and probably accounted for a large proportion of the timber cut in the interior. Today, when wooden ships were built during the war, their hard wood had to be imported from elsewhere as this kind has virtually disappeared from the area. The fishing boats which are still built locally are in the main made from soft woods.

As noted, the larger part of the timber seems to be exported in the form of sawn lumber and there are large numbers of saw mills dotted over the interior of the county. These for the most part are water power mills operated by individuals frequently employing labor from the immediate family of the owner or at most only employing three or four others. There are a few large operators in the commercial lumber business, the largest having its headquarters in the town of Digby. This company (H. T. Warne Ltd.) has 250 employees and has a rotary mill, factory, millyard, machine shop and five wood lots, and maintains a company store. The labor for the operations comes from a large part of the county. Some of the employees live in small shacks near the mill.

Most of the sawn lumber of the county is shipped to the United States and overseas markets. At present the greater part goes by rail to larger ports, but prior to the war it used to be sent directly from the county in ships. Pitprops and pulp wood are still shipped directly from Bear River and Meteghan.

A shipyard at Weymouth that made wooden ships for the government during the war has been converted in the past year to making furniture out of native woods.

A box company at Meteghan produces fish boxes, egg crates and apple boxes in 60 different sizes and varieties and last year used over 2,000,000 feet of lumber. It employs around 60 people in its factory, saw mill and wood lots and in driving trucks. The business was started in 1906 by E. M. Comeau, was incorporated in 1942, burned down in 1944 and has been rebuilt and greatly expanded since that time.

There are only a few box manufacturers in Nova Scotia and there is at present very little competition in the industry as each operates at capacity supplying its own customers. The Comeaus say they would not expand their plant further because there is not enough wood in the nearby forest to operate on a larger scale. At present they have to go 25 miles for some of their timber. Their main market is in Nova Scotia although they have shipped boxes as far as Newfoundland and Toronto.

About 25% of their lumber is supplied by their own timber lands and the rest is purchased from farmers' woodlots. Mostly unskilled labor is used in the factory and woodlots and they work a nine hour day, making $4.50-$5.00 compared to $1.50-$2.00 a day paid prior to the war. Business is run by a father and six sons, with each of the sons in charge of one aspect of the operations and the father being president of the company.

Some information was gathered on a typical backwoods saw mill near Bangor in Clare. It is water powered and in the past year sawed about 800,000 feet of timber under contract for the Minas Pulp Company which is in the wholesale lumber business. Prior to the contract this mill sawed only 25,000-50,000 feet a year which indicates the great increase in the rate of depletion of the forests as the result of the current high price of lumber. The operator says that although he would like to continue the contract with this company he does not think that he will be able to get more than 400,000 feet of timber from the area next year. In the summer when the stream runs dry they have to shut down operations for a while and also in the spring the road gets so muddy they are no longer able to truck lumber over it.

Lumbering has been extremely profitable in the past five or six years of the war and post-war years due to the high price. This, however, is creating a major concern for the future because of the rapid depletion of the forest and almost every one in the industry admits that timber is being cut now at a much more rapid rate than it is being reproduced. Prior to the war the French farmers had a reputation for careful management of their woodlots on a self-sustaining basis by selective cutting. High prices have apparently destroyed this kind of conservation. It is reported that prior to the war there were 7 saw mills in Clare whereas there are now 30.

"J. J." Reports on Trip

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 16—Travelling by bus, train, boat or plane may be all right, but I wish I had my old Pontiac here. I find walking is not so easy as it was 30 or 40 years ago, and when one is not acquainted with the local bus and street car routes it is hard to get around without losing a lot of time. But still, for a change I have enjoyed my bus trips from Saint John to Elizabeth, because it has given me a better knowledge of the country—a knowledge I wouldn't have got travelling by train or plane. Trains only go through the worst part of towns and cities, and the plane goes over them, but the bus carries one through the pretty residential sections and the busy business sections.

The first time I travelled from Digby to Boston by car was in (Please turn to Page 12)

"NAUGHTY NINETIES"

Opening with an old time barbershop quartette, the show was fast throughout and featured many numbers that revived memories of the good old days when vaudeville was at its height. All of the "turns" were well presented and audience reception prompted encores for nearly every number.

Among the greatest "turns" was the featured performance of the "Naughty Nannies" whose dance routine was worthy of a professional performance. So great was the applause that greeted the performance by the Naughty Nannies they were forced to return for several numbers. Featured in this were Jean Robinson, Kaye Connolly, Molly Robertson, Leslie Wright, Gail Boutilier, Mary Rosenthal, Edith Troop, Helen Daley, Lou McQueen and Effie Chan.

Another program number well received by the audience was the group singing of the Jubilee Singers of Acadiaville. These singers presented several of those beautiful spirituals which are so much a part of their race.

Among the solo numbers, the Highland Dances, presented by little Caroline Peters rated high in audience reception. This sweet little youngster gave a faultless performance of the Highland Fling and the famous Sword Dance, that rivalled the efforts of "name" stars at the Gaelic Mead.

Another solo number that really had the audience on their feet applauding was the tap dancing of young Harold Barton. This lad showed all the fluid grace and rhythmic control of the famed dancers of his race and his shuffles and quick steps were a joy to behold. He was accompanied at the guitar by Charles Francis Jr.

Song numbers presented by Sophie Beatrice Cassell, portrayed by Joyce Dickie, added much to the show and her rendition of such numbers as "Daisy" brought back nostalgic memories of the days when such songs were popular numbers.

One of the loveliest numbers in the show was the song and dance number, "In an Old Dutch Garden". Featuring a solo and duet performance by Lillian Nichols and Norman Wright, the number also featured a lovely dance routine by Clotilde Theriault and Leslie Wright.

A beautiful Irish number, "County Cork", featuring the dancing of Gail Boutilier and a lovely solo by boy soprano, Frank Tingley, was well received by the audience whose applause called for an encore of this delightful turn.

The Digby Male Quartette, whose barbershop harmony was a splendid addition to the production, also presented a turn entitled "At Home". This number was well done and included a solo by Joyce Dickie. In the quartette were Elton Arnold, Norman Wright, Pat Vance and with them at the old parlor organ was Lillian Nichols.

Solo turns by Georgie Watts, portrayed by Gene Handspiker, and Willie Fitzgibbons, portrayed by Gug Morehouse, were very amusing and had the audience doubled up in laughter.

A delicately beautiful number was the gavotte presented by Maude Ray and Gail Boutilier. The delicate movements of this lovely dance number were done with fine precision by the two artists who were dressed in period costume.

One of the turns which received great applause and several encore calls was the old quadrille presented by Leslie Wright, Mae Turnbull, Effie Chan, Clotilde Theriault, Gladys Kirkpatrick, Helia Turnbull, Tippy Porter.

They were accompanied by Fred Guy and Charles Francis Jr. at the violin and guitar.

Accompanists for the entire performance were, Lillian Nichols, George McQueen and Puss Peters. The piano interludes between the stage turns were a great feature of the performance and ranged from "boogie woogie" to stately minuets and old time selections.

Members of the Jubilee Singers were: Percy Parker Jr., Gordon Francis, Charles Francis Jr., Roland Walton, Harold Barton, Deacon W. Barton, Floyd Barton, Bradford Barton, Ella Guy, Gladys Guy, Marjorie Cromwell, Pauline Guy, Ruby Miller, Mrs. John Miller and Lloyd Barton.

She's goin' to have "Arborite" counters with chrome mouldings — she's got a whole slew of colours — silver birch or tan or glossy black or red or blue.

She's goin' to have "Modernite" tile walls — green with white, or white with black, or ivory with grey, dependin' on what she picks out for her cabinets and counters.

She's goin' to have the ceiling wood-paneled or white-enamelled, and a tile floor, plain or mottled, dependin' on what she decides will be the least old-fashioned and quaint.

When I protested, she got a man from Hicks's to take me around and show me some of the kitchens they've done around town, and then we come home and looked at ours, and the man from Hicks's made some suggestions and gave me an estimate of cost, and I'll be danged if I don't think I'm goin' to like the kitchen 'most as much as Mother's.

Uncle Ed Says

I reckon a major cause of divorce is husbands tellin' their wives about the good apple pies and ginger cookies their mothers used to make.

As for me, I married a good cook and I know it, but Mirandy has often said she was goin' to leave me anyway, if I didn't stop talkin' to her about my mother's kitchen, with the big old wood stove and the sofa and the rockin' chair and the clean scrubbed wood floor with the rag mats and the pantry with the long wooden bakin' board and the open shelves for dishes and things.

Mirandy says she kin jest imagine who scrubbed the wood floor and washed the rag mats and scoured the bakin' board and all those open shelves and stoked the stove while who reclined in the rockin' chair or on the sofa, and she says that wherever's the place for old-fashioned quaintness it's not the kitchen.

So finally this thing come to a head, and Mirandy says she's goin' to have a brand new kitchen that won't have one thing in it to remind me of my mother's.

She's goin' to have plywood cabinets, finished in white or ivory enamel, with chrome or bright plastic handles.

She's goin' to have "Arborite" counters with chrome mouldings — she's got a whole slew of colours — silver birch or tan or glossy black or red or blue.

Hold Second Annual Banquet

The Clare Bowling League held its second annual banquet at the Riverside Inn in Meteghan River on Wednesday, April 27th, with 98 persons attending.

Prizes and the championship cup were presented to the winners.

Weymouth was officially presented with the league championship cup and Little Brook received two trophies for scoring the highest team single of 1236 and the highest three string score of 3127 in regular league matches.

Young Arnold Comeau of Weymouth was presented with a Westinghouse Personality Radio for the highest average; holding an average of 215.4, prize donated by Jubis and Deveau of Meteghan.

The president, Vincent F. Melanson, presented the prizes and was followed by short speeches by Mr. Mederic Comeau, Mr. Basil Bellevue, Rev. O. Hebert, and the captains of each team. All speakers stressed the fine sportsmanship shown throughout the season by all teams and it was believed that the league itself was doing a lot of good in making it possible of getting acquainted with the people of Clare and Weymouth.

A purse of $50 was presented to the secretary-treasurer of the league, Albert Melanson, for his untiring work in keeping the records and reporting averages and league standings to each captain weekly.

A dance followed immediately after the banquet and many friends of the bowlers were in attendance.

Regional Director Addresses Y's Men

Roger Rand of Yarmouth, Regional Director of Y's International, was guest speaker at Monday night's meeting of the Digby Y's Men's Club which was presided over by President Baden Powell.

In a most interesting address Mr. Rand told of the great work being carried out by the Y's Men's Club throughout the world. He stated there were over ten thousand members of some four hundred Y's Men's Clubs situated in 28 countries of the world. The Y's Men's Clubs came second only to Rotary in world membership, he stated.

Mr. Rand urged as many members of the Digby Club as possible to attend the Maritime convocation of Y's Men's Clubs to be held in Fredericton on July 1st and 2nd. He also stated the club should try, if at all possible, to have a representative at the International convention in the United States later in the summer.

Accompanying the Regional Director on his official visit to the Digby club was Irving Pink, also of Yarmouth, who is a past International Y's Men's official.

It was decided by the meeting that the ministerial show being planned by the club for presentation in May would be postponed until fall. This decision was made because of the many other activities to take place during the next month.

Speaks Of Work Of Baptist Mission Board

On Sunday morning, Rev. C. H. Wilkinson, General Secretary of the Board of Grande Ligne Missions of the Baptist Federation of Canada, was guest speaker at the Baptist Church at Digby.

Mr. Wilkinson spoke of the work being carried on by the Board of Grande Ligne among the French speaking people of Canada, stating the work was one of challenging opportunity. The Board carries on its work among the French in the areas where there is a request for Protestant Missionaries to minister among their people.

For one hundred and twelve years, Mr. Wilkinson said, this work has been carried on by the Baptists of Canada. Through individual churches in Ontario and Quebec and the Maritimes, the work has made advances in its membership and scope of work. One of the greatest contributions to Canadian life, which the Grande Ligne Mission is making is through the educational efforts of Feller Institute, Grande Ligne, Quebec. At this boarding school some one hundred boys and girls, from seven years up, are given Christian training, along with educational requirements for the public schools. The majority of the pupils at the school are French speaking.

Mr. Wilkinson interestingly outlined the work in some of the areas where the Mission is already established, and solicited the prayers and interest of the congregation in meeting the need.

Town Council Meets

Building permits were issued to Reginald Turnbull for the construction of a new home on Queen Street, to J. J. Wallis for the addition of a new sunporch to his home on Birch Street and to Denis Comeau for the enlargement of his blacksmith shop on Victoria Road at Monday night's meeting of the Town Council.

Routine business occupied most of Monday night's session of the Council. The Clerk was instructed to write the Department of Municipal Affairs regarding steps to be taken to implement the town's guarantee of the $85,000 bond issue for the new Digby Rink.

Following a report by the Public Properties Committee, it was decided to investigate the costs of a partial renewal of the boat slip near the bandstand. The Council felt it would not be possible to rebuild the entire slip this year as no provision had been made for the necessary funds in the estimates.

The C. G. I. T. were given permission to hold a Tag Day on Saturday, May 14th.

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

were being conducted on watersheds in back of Bear River. He said it was his opinion that if more power could be developed there, it would be a very dominant factor in making possible further industrial development in the municipality.

Warden Chisholm also stated he felt serious consideration should be given to the matter of municipal fire protection at this session of the council. He stated two fine homes in Bear River had recently been destroyed by fire and, had not assistance been rendered from the adjacent town of Annapolis, these fires would probably have spread to other properties in the adjacent area. With improved transportation facilities, the speaker stated, it was now possible for fire fighting equipment to serve a much larger area than previously, thus making possible the provision of equipment for sections of the municipality.

Need for consideration of the provision of air landing facilities in the municipality was also urged by Warden Chisholm. He stated municipalities as well as towns must give constructive consideration to this matter if they are to make possible further developments of the tourist industry in the municipality.

Speaking of transportation, the Warden stated he felt the municipality should also press for improved docking facilities at the port of Digby. He said such improvement was necessary if there was ever to be a resumption of passenger service from American ports to Digby. The need for improved dock facilities at Digby was also a pressing one, he stated, if we are to be able to take care of not only our present requirements but also the increased shipping that may be enjoyed as a result of a vigorous prosecution of a policy of greater development in the county.

With regard to the municipal effort to assist in snow removal, Warden Chisholm stated the committee had last year purchased 12 thousand feet of snow fence that was erected in the fall of 1948. He stated two snow plows had been purchased for use on trucks and a second power unit had also been placed at the disposal of the municipality by the Department of Highways. Fortunately, he stated, because of the light snowfall last year it was not necessary to put this equipment into heavy use.

In closing his address, the Warden thanked the council members and officials for their co-operation and timely support.

Councillor D. B. Kenney of Westport was appointed by the council to a committee to administer a trust fund set up by the will of the late E. C. Bowers of Westport, for the benefit of the village of Westport and its inhabitants. The other committee members will be the director-manager of the Bowers Company at Westport and a member to be named by the trustees.

A copy of a letter of complaint which had been sent by certain ratepayers of Westport to the provincial fire marshal concerning the alleged dangerous condition of certain chimneys and other fire hazards in the village, was read at a meeting together with a letter in reply from the fire marshal which stated this was a matter to be dealt with by the municipality.

After consultation with the solicitor, it was decided to pass a resolution providing Fire Wardens from Westport was ordered to the Fire Wardens in each district in the municipality. The letter of complaint was for action.

Second Section (PAGE NINE)

Agriculture Reviewed

By Hon. A. W. Mackenzie, Minister of Agriculture and Marketing.

The 1948 crop season in Nova Scotia was better than expected. The seeding was very early in all sections as extensive periods of wet weather held back seeding operations until unusually late dates. The result was that large acreages, usually seeded in late May and early June, were not in crop until early in July.

On this account, it was expected that the production of grain crops in Nova Scotia would be a partial failure, since it was believed that there was not sufficient time for late grain to ripen before the killing frosts of early fall. Now that the harvesting season is over, it is rather satisfactory to learn that crop production was found to be very satisfactory indeed.

The acreage seeded in field crops showed an increase and the volume of grain threshed during the season, and this is largely responsible for the improvement in the crop situation. The apple crop was a disappointment this year in that it is reckoned at about 60 percent of the 1947 crop of 1,000,000 barrels while the 1946 production exceeded 2,000,000 barrels.

The reason underlying the exceptionally low yield this season were poor weather conditions at the time when the blossoms were being set, unsatisfactory pollination conditions, and weather conditions which prevented Annapolis Valley growers from carrying out an adequate spray program during the growing season. Annapolis Valley growers are agreed that, if the apple industry is to survive in Nova Scotia, greater attention must be concentrated upon the home market. In this connection, the growers have agreed that all apples grown in the province should be marketed through the medium of a central marketing agency.

In order to enable this agency to meet consumer demand for quality products, four cold storage and modern packing plants have been erected and are now in operation in the fruit growing area. Two plants are located at Cokbrook on the outskirts of Kentville — one with a space capacity of 150,000 boxes, and the second a capacity of 250,000 boxes. The third plant at Hillsboro, near Canning, was completed in 1947 and has refrigeration space for 80,000 barrels and storage space for 100,000 barrels.

There is also an increase in the acreage of the field root production. In 1947, the 2,010,000 hundredweight estimate, 2,417,000 hundredweight

The increase in the acreage
of the field root production is a direct reflection upon the increased use of power machinery on Nova Scotia farms. It is now a common occurrence for Nova Scotia farmers to plough and harrow the greater part of the day. Last spring, as soon as the weather permitted, a break in the weather, farm work started their field work as soon as possible, and kept it going, thus speeding up seedling operations.

In sections where this was done, grain yields were considerably larger, whereas in other sections, where horse-power was used extensively, progress in seedling operations was somewhat retarded and large crops of grain, of necessity had to be cut for hay.

During the past number of years, it has been possible to effect emergency repairs only to the abutments, dykes and sea-wall protecting Nova Scotia's 40,000 acres from Bay of Fundy tides owing to the fact that sufficient funds were not available to undertake repairs on a long-term planning basis. Now, however, the Federal Government has agreed to assist in the rehabilitation and reconstruction of these maritime areas, on a long-term basis, in cooperation with the provincial government and the landowners. It is hoped that the rehabilitation and reconstruction scheme will be put into effect this coming season.

This scheme should mean much to Nova Scotia since the 40,000 acres of marshland and seawall, which is a valuable section of the agricultural lands of Nova Scotia which it brought to a high state of productivity, can add greatly to the balancing of the agricultural production requirements of the area.

There was an outstanding crop and it is believed that when final production figures are tabulated, it will be shown that there is a large quantity of hay in the province this year than was the case in 1947 when an estimated 70,000 tons were cut and stored.
The quality of the crop is believed to be quite satisfactory. New hay and clover seedlings were particularly good and in sections where ground limestone was applied, the increase in quality was quite remarkable.

Incidentally, the use of ground limestone in Nova Scotia considerably increased this year, and it is believed that it will not be long until 100,000 tons per annum will be in use since Nova Scotia farmers generally agree that ground limestone is one of the limiting factors in efficient crop production.

However, agricultural education continues to be reflected in the attendance at the various meetings sponsored by, and held under the direction of the field staff of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing, and in attendance at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College. There is a "noticeable interest being exhibited by college students in farming, a fact which officials of the institution find very satisfying.

Prior to the war, degree course students seemed to be more interested in the professional fields while now there is a noticeable tendency for degree students to be interested in farming as a career. The change, no doubt, is being brought about by the readjustment in both the economic and social positions of those who regard farming as a way of life.

The keener interest in agriculture is also reflected in improved attendance at agricultural gatherings of all types. This is particularly true of attendance at local, district and provincial meetings of the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association, at county exhibitions, and at the Maritime Winter Fair. Incidentally, new attendance records were again established at nearly all exhibitions held in Nova Scotia this year.

While the overall picture of agriculture in Nova Scotia is reasonably good, and while the majority of farmers are implementing up-to-date and scientific practices in meeting changing agricultural conditions, there is, nevertheless, considerable concern over the apparent lack of a national agricultural policy which would enable farmers to plan their farm production operations on a long term basis.

Nova Scotia farmers, in common with those in other sections of Canada, would like to see the agriculture of the country placed on a basis whereby farmers would be assured the cost of production and a profit sufficient to maintain their families on an equitable standard of living. This, they believe, is a reasonable demand and one which can become a reality as soon as national agricultural policies are designed to permit long term planning of a diversified agricultural program.

With this belief, the Department of Agriculture and Marketing agrees and it is for this rea-

Corporal MacPherson of the Match Committee reported, despite poor ice conditions, members had developed skill during the season. He stated the short curling season, January 24th, to February 2nd, the team members had developed good curling style and control. He predicted that the artificial ice next season will be a group of curlers develop in Digby.

It was decided by the Executive Committee to meet on the possibilities of organizing a Ladies' Curling Club for the coming season. It was decided to play for the ladies two afternoons and one evening a week with a membership of not more than ten dollars.

Dr. E. H. Anderson in a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Hanson for his efforts in the year stated Mr. Hanson's help and experience had been of great value to the club. He stated Mr. Hanson had been in charge of the ice surface for the first time in the history of the club since 1910 and that he had a favorable record in the field.

Institute Offers Tips On "Summerizing Of House Heating System"

When you shake down the fire in your boiler or furnace for the last time and leave a slight relief that Spring is here at last, that's the time to get ready for next winter.

This is the advice of the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating, who want to be sure that you don't wait too long in taking the necessary action to get your heating system ready for the next spell of cold weather.

It is a seasonal job, this, changing from winter to spring, some like changing the oil and grease in your car and getting the tune-up, the Institute says.

Our heating plant has just passed through a hard winter. Per the circumstances, the prudent thing to do is to call an experienced heating contractor and have him give the entire heating system the "once over".

A good cleaning is the first step. You might call that "summerizing" the heating plant because one of the objects is to prevent summer corrosion due to the mixture of condensation and the acid in ashes and soot.

The next step is careful inspection to see if any parts need repairing. The sooner this is done the more time there is to get the parts before you need them on the first cool day.

This seasonal spring check-up is just as important as your heat system is automatically fired manually fired. The boiler or furnace needs cleaning once a year and spring is the best time to do it.

There are a few handy, economical tips — if you don't want to rust eat into your furnace. Take down pipes; clean soot and wipe inside with oily paint outside; store second dry place for summer.

A Guest Editorial

The prospect of the imminent lifting of the Berlin blockade and the possibility of a reasonable settlement of the problem of the establishment of a government for Germany, are giving rise to conjecture as to subsequent developments in the field of relations between Russia and her satellite states on the one hand and the Western powers on the other.

Most informed observers appear to believe that the resolution of the difficulties in Germany will open the way to the lifting of at least some of the trade barriers now existing between East and West, and hence, eventually to the betterment of mutual understanding and the brightening of chances for lasting peace.

There should be none who do not wholeheartedly wish for the fulfilment of these hopes, but many of us will wonder how deep the source of the apparent change of opinion is. Does it spring from a better understanding of the necessity for freedom in human relations and government? Or is it a superficial change of attitude adopted as a pose to facilitate the moral and material disarmament of the opponents of Communism and so render world domination an object more easily attained?

— from basement to chimney top.

Air leaks below the fire-bed can cause too "quick" a fire; offset the draft needed for a sluggish fire that won't respond.

Finally, whether you have a stoker, blower or oil-burning heating system, they all have a motor, a fan, wiring and controls which should be carefully checked. The motor should be cleaned and oiled, and worn brushes replaced. The bearings should be checked. Accumulated dust from the fan should be removed. All instruments and gauges should be inspected and thoroughly cleaned. Air leaks where oil-burner, blower or stoker enters furnace as excess air impairs combustion.

Sugar Beet Acreage Up 35 Per Cent Over 1948 in Canada

Contracted sugar beet acreage in Ontario, Manitoba and Alberta is 35 per cent or 21,000 acres more than it was a year ago. Total acreage under contract is $2,610, compared with 61,223 on the same date in 1948.

Greatest gains have been made in Ontario, where the 33,100 acres are 75 per cent over 1948. Manitoba has 17,500 acres contracted, as compared with 11,000 a year ago, and Alberta reports 32,000 acres, which is 1,000 more than 1948.

Already 6,600 acres have been seeded in Ontario, but the pace is quickening as the cool and showery weather of April gives way to the warm, early-May temperatures. Manitoba has just started advanced planting, where 25,000 acres are reported to be planted. Both western provinces have had spells of dry weather, but from recent showers, and Alberta contemplates irrigating about 15 per cent of its sugar beet area.

The greatest and sublimest power is often simple patience.—Horace Bushnell.

It could be a change of heart for the better or a new tactical variety of psychological warfare. We shall not know the answer to our questions for some years. The record of communistic materialism is not such that it should mistake, at this stage, any permanent cure of the disease. Therefore, the Western democracies should not take any precipitate action to dissipate the strength behind the Atlantic Pact, nor the moral strength, the economic strength nor the military strength.

The opponents of free and untrammelled democracy will not agree with what they term the lack of peaceful intent backed up by active evidence of good faith. They argue firstly, that the maintenance of armed strength is unnecessary, in view of the allegedly enlightened attitude of the communist countries, and secondly that the possession of armed might will lead to war as it has in the past.

To the first of these arguments, we might well reply that the good faith of communistic countries has not been favourably evaluated or determined. Certainly the record in this respect is not impressive.

To the second, we may agree that the possession of armed might has led to war in the past, but we must point out that this armed might has been preponderant and available to one side only, the aggressor side. A true democracy cannot be an aggressor, the people would not permit it.

It therefore appears that for the present, we of the West, should trust only in God, keep our powder dry, and have plenty of it. — (The Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association)

Quick Frozen Peas Require Sugar Says U.S. Expert

Addition of about two to three per cent of sugar to most commercially frozen peas at time of packing is recommended by Prof. W. V. Cruess of the frozen products division, University of California.

Original sugar content of frozen peas is lowered by the blanching, cooking, tumbling and the delay between harvesting and freezing. Prof. Cruess states it is better to replace this lost sugar at the freezing plant, rather than give label directions to the housewife to add sugar before cooking. This permits better control, and eliminates inconvenience to the consumer.

"We recommend," says the frozen foods expert, "that commercial freezers try such a package on one or two markets this season. The amount of sugar required will vary, of course, with the natural sugar content, and starch content of the peas."

New Bait Freezer At Cheticamp

A boon to fishermen on the west coast of Cape Breton, the new Cheticamp bait freezer, built and operated by the Fisheries Division of the Nova Scotia government was officially opened last week.

The modern plant cost $35,000. The site was donated by the fishermen of Cheticamp and vicinity, who raised the money to buy it, and the federal government assisted with a $10,000 subsidy. The freezer has a storage capacity of 300,000 pounds of frozen bait and can freeze 15,000 pounds of bait in 24 hours.

Close to a thousand fishermen in Inverness county between Broad Cove and Pleasant Bay will be able to obtain adequate supplies of bait at a price of between 4 and 8 cents a pound. For years there has been a bait shortage in this area which often prevented fishing operations and meant loss of revenue to the fishermen. Bait had to be trucked from North Sydney and Mulgrave. It cost 8 to 12 cents a pound delivered and frequently could not be obtained at all.

At the opening ceremony, Rev. Patrick A. LeBlanc, parish priest of Cheticamp, described the new bait freezer as "the best thing that could happen to this part of Inverness county."

"We are mostly all fishermen here and when we catch fish we are pretty well off," he said.

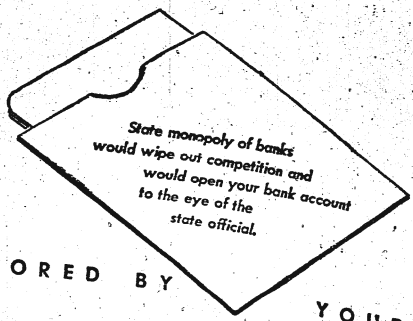

if every man were his own bank...

SUPPOSE you had to cart cash around to pay your bills. Pretty risky business. Hard on shoe leather, too.

You don't do it that way, of course. Like everybody else with a bank account — there are seven million of them — you simply get out your pen, write cheques and leave all the bookkeeping to your bank. That's the modern way... easy, simple, safe.

Handling and recording your chequing transactions is an important job. Your bank must do it right — or a competing bank will. You'll see to that!

Suppose there were no competition... Could you expect the same efficiency, courtesy, eagerness to earn your goodwill?

Modernize Fishing Industry
Modernization has come to Canada's ocean fishing industry, though as any hardy mariner who rides a deck to the deep-sea banks will tell you, its still far from a push-button operation. Plenty of hard wearing work goes into harvesting the ocean catch.

But today's deep-sea fishing fleets are geared to the tempo of big business. Sails gave way to steam and now diesel power supplanting both. There is better equipment, more comfortable quarters, streamlined methods of dealing with the catch once it comes aboard. It is in the handling and marketing of fish, however, that greatest progress has been made. Processing, transportation, warehousing and merchandising have reached a point where more people than ever before can have ocean-fresh fish on their tables whenever they choose.

Quick-freezing has without doubt been the greatest factor in broadening the fish market in Canada. From the time the cod, haddock, halibut, ocean perch or any of a dozen other varieties is hauled aboard the fishing vessel, speed becomes a mania with the fisherman. Cleaned and iced below decks minutes after leaving the water, the catch is rushed to port where quick-freezing facilities are at the docks. Within hours the fish is filleted, frozen and ready for markets which a few years back were considered beyond fresh-fish range.

Freshness is the keystone of the deep-sea fishing industry. Most of the fish taken in the eastern Canada commercial fishing trade comes from the great banks lying off the southern shores of Newfoundland and the Canadian east coast. They are caught deep, forty fathoms down, where the water is cold and the fish firm and tangy. The trawlers are fast and once the catch is made, they head for port under full power. With bone and waste cut away, inspected, and packaged into one, five and ten pound cartons, the fillets go into fast freezers with their freshness still intact. Under properly refrigerated conditions, the quick-frozen fish will retain its freshness indefinitely.

Canada Is Key To Australian Sugar Expansion
Continuation of the Canadian and United Kingdom duty preferences is vital if Australian sugar producers are to avoid over-production, says the Australian Sugar Journal. Raw cane sugar of average quality imported into Canada from non-empire points, pays a duty of $1.29 per 100 pounds; imports from British countries are charged only 25c. Under free market conditions, therefore, Australian producers receive most of the benefit of the one dollar preference.

To save dollars, the U.K. has given guarantees to Commonwealth producers of sugar, extending to 1952. Commenting on the effects of this agreement, the Australian Sugar Journal says: "Without the Canadian outlet we are facing the certain problem of over-production within the Empire in the early 1950's. Material expansion of acreage cannot therefore be considered (in Australia), except on the basis of production for sale to Canada." With Canada buying on the cheapest market, Australia must, if we are to expand, be able to sell at the free market price plus the obtainable proportion of the preference.

Devaul and Ruffin Pothier pitched for St. Ann's the latter being quite effective.

St. Ann's took the lead in the first inning scoring 4 runs and four more in the second when Meteghan also scored the same amount. Meteghan went ahead in the sixth when they scored 2 runs to make it 11-8. In the seventh, holding Meteghan scoreless in that inning.

New Wood Development
One of the fascinating stories of modern industry is the development of "wood that bends." It is a development with a dollar-and-cents value for Canada, which draws one-third of its wealth from forest resources, because it opens wide new markets for wood products.

Designers in the mid twenties, looking into the future, saw the streamlined train and airplane, the curved, sweeping design of today's furniture, the accent on shape and pattern in manufactured products from toys to houses.

"Functional design" they called it, but to turn their blueprints into reality they required new building materials which were durable, easily fabricated, appealing to the eye, and adaptable to new shapes.

Natural wood has limited bending capacity, but in certain processed wood products the designers found much of what they sought. Presswood board, invented by W. H. Mason and named "Masonite" in his honor, can be bent with ease. Moreover the manufacturing process welds the natural raw wood into a dense, solid panel, also eliminates "grain" and knots, produces an all-wood board that will not splinter, chip or crack. It has less weight and greater strength, more resistance to moisture and a harder, smoother surface than natural wood.

Curved contours, streamlined design, the eye-catching smoothness of today's cars, planes, furniture, toys would hardly be possible without the "wood that bends." It is equally important in construction where curved roofs, rounded corners, and fast-fabrication have become prominent features of home, farm and industrial buildings.

Canada has been making Masonite since the early '40's, and this year will turn out the greatest volume in history. Thousands of square feet will go to fill domestic requirements, the remainder being channelled into the constantly expanding export market.

Threatening Christian Church's Freedom

Hon. Ray Lawson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, Points to World Dangers When Installed as Chancellor of the University of Kings College at Halifax—Urges Widening Opportunities Matched by Zeal of Students

Halifax, Nova Scotia, May 12—Implacable foes threaten the Christian Church, Hon. Ray Lawson, O.B.E., L.L.D., Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, declared in his address here today on being installed as Chancellor of the University of Kings College which, founded in 1789, is the senior Anglican institution of higher learning in the Dominion of Canada. In a colorful ceremony, featuring the annual convocation, His Honor also was invested with honorary degree of Doctor of Canon Law (D. Cn. L.), the second honorary degree conferred upon him this year. In February, he was made a Doctor of Laws in the University of Michigan, the outstanding university of Florida.

Before the assembly of Kings College Board of Governors, Faculty, alumni, the graduating class of 1940, undergraduates and the guests, the Hon. Mr. Lawson not only in his address, but every word he uttered, was a challenge to the institution offers himself for service to the Church.

"In that field," His Honor stated, "lie the greatest of all rewards, which is the satisfaction which arises from spiritual achievement."

Need Great Leaders

"The Church, even more than business or the professions, must find great leaders. Never before in the twenty centuries of its existence has Christianity been assailed by such implacable foes. In its struggle to preserve that which is at once so dear and so necessary to us all, I am certain that today's graduates of Kings College will serve with distinction."

Ontario's Lieutenant Governor also warned that the free democracies today are targets of attacks "more vicious, more forceful and more highly organized than ever before in their history." "Some of these assaults," he declared, "are actually directed from beyond our own borders by men who would wreck our governments and erect their own. It is on you who are graduating today that heavy responsibility rests. You must do your part to make sure that the government shall ever illuminate our land."

Mr. Lawson, who was in private life one of Canada's leading industrialists, reminded his hearers that freedom and opportunity together form the birthright of every Canadian mother's son and daughter.

The new Chancellor of Kings College declared: "Those two words, freedom and opportunity, find expression in a thousand ways and in every field of our Canadian life. In this free land of ours we have educational advantages unmatched by other lands. Here in Canada the noblest aspirations of any boy or girl may be realized."

In their own free and unfettered way men have endowed every field of learning and most every branch of research. Scholarships have been created to help the living while commemorating the services and virtues of the dead.

The speaker also dealt with the problems which changing conditions created in connection with educational endowments and he asserted that "authors of great benefactions never intended that they should be perverted to weaker or destroy the kind of better world they built and left to us."

"The aids these benefactors provided," Hon. Mr. Lawson said with emphasis, "were meant to strengthen, never meant to weaken and not to sharpen the wits of the misguided."

Explaining that most scholarships and bursaries are provided for homes where the pinch of economic conditions are often felt, the speaker pointed out that some ambitious youths are not eager for higher scholastic education but that the value of the part they might play otherwise should not be overlooked.

Vocational Training

"For such youths from ambitious and freedom-loving homes," the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario suggested, "it would be better to have them start training for the vocation in which they may be interested early in life. They also should receive, in their varied endeavours, the highest level of vocational training by which they might profit and find happiness."

"Business and the professions are making an unrelenting search for talent and resourcefulness. They offer rich rewards and strive constantly to meet the needs of private enterprise."

"At the same time, in sponsoring scholarships, industrialists and financiers are insisting that parents show more and more interest even when it means some sacrifice on their parts. They rightfully expect students to demonstrate their zeal in the effort to gain advanced skills and higher education."

Hon. Mr. Lawson pointed out that the Maritime Provinces must have produced many great men and women and mentioned Mrs. George Kingston, Archbishop of Nova Scotia and Primate of the Church of England in Canada, who was born at Wolfville, N. S. His Eminence, James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, was born in Prince Edward Island. The President of Canada's largest university, native of Port Hood, Nova Scotia, and an alumnus of Kings College. That is, President S. E. Smith, L.L.D., of the University of Toronto.

"The President of Canada's largest university," Dr. Lawson said, "was born in Cape Breton and his predecessor was born at Lunenburg. The vice-president of that institution was born at Merigomish."

"I could go on and on, mentioning names of outstanding men in the ministry, statesmen, men of eminence in the professions, and leaders of commerce and industry, but I claim one or another of the Maritime Provinces as their birthplaces."

The True Measure

"None of these men came from illiterate or ambitionless homes; neither did they come from homes of material wealth. That is, they came from homes such as members of Kings College graduating class today cherish. Some of you are marked by destiny to be clergymen, scientists, industrialists, merchants or to find success in the professions. You will come to recognize what you have been taught here which is how to measure success by true standards that often have little relation to dollar value or popular acclaim."

"If you have a call to the Church, by all means follow the Ministry; if you have a call for healing the sick, follow medicine; and remember the material reward will be secondary. Put your whole heart into your chosen vocation and you will have your reward."

Rightly Called "International"

Rightly Called International. The following quote is from a statement made by King George VI when he was the Duke of Kent.

"I want to assure you of the great interest which members of my family have always taken in the activities of The Salvation Army. The Queen has, on occasion, visited their institutions and members of my family have witnessed their work in far-away places of the world."

"The Salvation Army makes great claims upon the regard, not only on my family, but of all sincere and thoughtful people, because it helps, undoubtedly, to make more tolerant religious opinion and class distinction. I believe there is to-day, more mutual sympathy and understanding, nationally and internationally; and The Salvation Army, among other religious bodies, has had a full share of bringing this about."

"The work of The Salvation Army may rightly be called international; and it is following with zeal, that commission to 'go into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature.'"

Red Cross Ships Over 90 Million Dollars In Goods

More than $93,000,000 worth of goods has been shipped overseas by the Canadian Red Cross Society in nine years. C. A. LaFertie, chairman of the National Transportation Committee, told members of the Society's Central Council who are meeting at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, in annual session.

The sum represents not only goods sent by the Red Cross, but also the value of the goods sent by other organizations between 1940 and 1948.

Of that figure, $25,933,989 has gone to the U. K. with the balance distributed among more than 37 other countries.

Last year the Transportation Committee arranged shipments of $22,057,771 worth of relief, including clothing, food and medical supplies, with 60 per cent of the Red Cross and other organizations.

C. A. LaFertie, honorary treasurer, reported that the Society's total expenditures for the year ended March 31, 1940, were $1,944,944 for medical and nursing services, $1,775,996 for international work, $1,001,022 for the National Blood Transfusion Service, $784,491 for services to veterans, $1,111,685 for other civilian humanitarian projects in Canada. Also listed under total expenditures was the sum of $1,475,000, representing a fund for the relief of Canadian flood victims contributed by the Red Cross in 1937.

LaFertie, chairman of the national transport advisory committee, reported that 79,391 rural Canadians received treatment by Red Cross Outposts, hospital nursing stations, who assisted also 3,775 births and 6,295 operations. There are now 75 Red Cross Outposts and Nursing Stations serving frontier areas across the Dominion, Mr. LaFertie said.

Nearly 20,000 hospitalized veterans received Red Cross diversion and crafts instruction last year. D. W. Lang, chairman of that work, reported. The Society assisted in promoting five successful sales of veterans' craft work in 1939, Mr. Lang said, in an effort to "increase the veteran's interest in these useful skills and to supplement his small pension."

John A. Cooper, chairman of the national Film Service to Veterans committee, told the Council that the Society had provided a total of 8,000 film showings to veterans in 60 hospitals and institutions during the year at a cost of approximately $68,500.

The swimming and water safety program, designed to reduce Canada's high drowning toll, has qualified 1,173 instructors in the year, and offered swimming instruction to nearly 40,000 persons, over 25,000 of whom tried and passed prescribed swimming and water safety tests, Dr. R. W. I. Urquhart, national chairman of the First Aid, Swimming and Water Safety Committee, said.

First Aid, 117 instructors were qualified, and 1,399 standard first aiders.

Nova Scotia's delegation to the recent Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention at Vancouver did a good job of advertising their home province on the trip across the Dominion. A Nova Scotian flag adorned the private railroad car on which they travelled and every member of the delegation wore the Nova Scotian flag on their coat. Questions about the flags kept the Nova Scotians busy at every stop. Major stopovers included Halifax, with the Nova Scotia flag on his coat, chats with Mayor Angus Macpherson of Saskatoon and R. H. McDade of Toronto in the Bessborough Hotel at Saskatoon.

Houses And Health

by R. J. DEACHMAN

I picked up a book the other day, the title was "Houses For Canadians." It was written by Humphrey Carver, A.R.I.B.A. Mr. Carver is Lecturer and Research Associate, School of Social Work, University of Toronto, and has given a good deal of thought and consideration to the problem of housing.

I am going to read it some day and may have a comment or two to make thereon but I first turned to a table of figures in the appendix at the back of the book, a quite complete appendix, with much information for those who are studying the problem of housing.

The first table is entitled "Relations Between Health and Housing Conditions," Toronto, 1931. The figures are taken from the report of the Lieutenant-Governor's Committee on Housing in Toronto. They are rather unfortunate for this purpose. The table is intended to show the incidence of tuberculosis, the infant mortality rate and juvenile delinquency rate in different classes of housing. So far as this table is concerned everything is attributed to this cause. There are three classifications of housing, "Good," "Poor," and "Worst!"

For instance in "good housing" whatever that may mean, the incidence of tuberculosis was 25 per thousand population, in the "worst housing" it was 64. Infant mortality was 58.3 per thousand live births in "the best" and 121.2 in "the worst." Similar figures were provided for juvenile delinquencies but here the variation in rate was even greater—running from 7.9 cases per thousand population in good housing and 26.6 in the worst housing.

My challenge to these figures is that they mock reality. Housing is not the only factor in health, food may be even more important, intelligence is another factor. National income reflects capacity to spend. In 1934 per capita expenditures on goods and services in the Dominion of Canada amounted to $3,030 million, the second lowest in the whole world. The total in 1947 was $8,885 million, a marked increase even after allowing for higher prices. There was only one year between 1926 and 1947 in which the national income was lower than it was in 1934. It was unfortunate that Mr. Carver had to go back so far in search of facts to prove his case.

We may get a clearer picture if we consider the progress made in reducing the infant mortality rate in the Dominion as a whole. The figures show death rate per thousand live births. Note the rapid decrease—housing was abundant and cheap until the war, scarce and dear, since and after.

The May meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Hicks and after the usual program prepared by Mrs. Fred Denton, a special feature of the meeting was the presentation of a Dominion Life membership Certificate and emblem to our President, Mrs. Hubert Bower, a gift from her husband. The program especially prepared by the U. W. M. for this occasion was given by the Secretary presented by the wife and Mrs. Arthur Hicks. The meeting closed by prayer after which refreshments were served by Mrs. A. R. Hicks and Mrs. A. R. Hicks. The meeting was a success and all the friends of the W.M.S. were glad to see the President and her husband. Quite a number from the church were present. The concert at the home of Mrs. Dolan, Carlton was a success. A shower was tendered to Mrs. Franklyn Goss. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bower were present. Refreshments were served by the W.M.S. and many thanks were received.

Average 1926-30
Average 1931-36
Average 1937-40
Average 1941-45

The way was over in 1945, but in 1946 the infant death rate had fallen to 47 and in the following year it had dropped to 43. When we select one factor out of many, as the basic cause of health we are putting a spotlight across the face of our difficulties seeking excuses rather than remedies.

The table I have criticized is, in fact, a danger in it. Things like this tend to invalidate the whole argument which may be presented in the book. When I read it I shall be compelled to examine every statement with careful consideration and the relationship of the facts, as given therein, to the problems which we have before us.

Catch On East Coast Fishing Banks

Out on the depths which cover the ocean fishing banks off the east coast, comes a well-filled net which will dump hundreds of pounds of cod, halibut, haddock, and ocean perch on to the deck of the commercial fishing vessel. Cleaned and dried below the gunwale, the fish will be rushed to Halifax where modern processing plants are taking over. Within a few hours these fish will be packed into cartons and quick-frozen ready to ship anywhere. Modern fishing and processing methods make it possible for Canadians anywhere across Canada to serve ocean fish at any season of the year.

Army Week Plans Outlined

There is not a single unit in either the active or reserve forces of the Army that won't be putting on a special show during Army Week, May 15 — 22, according to a survey conducted from Army Headquarters recently.

The big "Week" highlights the current drive for recruits for both the Active and Reserve Forces. All military installations and armories will be thrown open to the public and interested spectators will be treated to a wide variety of parades, band concerts, and military demonstrations.

In the east, soldiers will stage monster parades in Saint John and Fredericton and a mobile exhibit will visit all major towns and cities.

R.C.A.F. personnel will conduct a big two-day manoeuvre, May 14 and 15, to which the public has been invited. The exercise will demonstrate the support that may be given to the Army by the R. C. A. F. in an operation conducted on the divisional level. For purposes of the exercise it is being assumed that the city of Quebec is being attacked by both air and ground forces. There will be a huge parade of all Montreal units in Montreal; concerts by the visiting U. S. Army Band, and the band of the Black Watch; and a trumpet and bugle band competition at the 17th. Hussars Armouries. Three U. S. Navy ships are scheduled to call at Quebec and Montreal during Army Week.

Army Week in Toronto will open with a massed band concert of Reserve Force bands in Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday evening, May 15. The Royal Canadian Army Service Corps will carry out a demonstration at Sunnyside Beach while in the Aurora Area, all units of the Toronto Garrison will participate in an exercise.

In Winnipeg, the Army will put on a display of vehicles and equipment in a downtown area each day throughout Army Week. "At Homes", complete with military displays, dance music and refreshments will be held at Carriquet Barracks, Fort Osborne Barracks and at the McGregor Armoury. Firing demonstrations of the various types of artillery weapons and a demonstration of jumping from the famed "jump tower" at Shilo are also scheduled.

In the west, monster displays and demonstrations will be staged at Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria. At Calgary, the public will be treated to a display of night firing by tanks and anti-aircraft guns at the Sarcee range.

In fact, anywhere and everywhere where active or reserve soldiers are stationed, the general public will be given an opportunity to visit military installations and see just what constitutes the life of the peacetime soldier.

Zoos in Japan now are placing many orders for wild animals to replace those that were killed during the war because it was feared bombing raids might set them loose upon the people.

V.O.N. Plans Drive

Plans were made at Tuesday's V.O.N. meeting to hold the annual Drive from June 1 to June 15. The committee with Rev. E. C. Churchill at the head consists of Kenneth Beckwith, Victor Carrozza, W. T. McGrath and A. R. Turnbull.

From Miss Whebb's report it was learned 25 new cases were admitted in April and 172 made. Twenty-five attended the four Well Baby Conferences. Twenty-nine hours were spent in school and eighty-four special physical inspections made. Seventy-nine defects were found and ten were corrected.

Skilled Beet Workers Coming To Ontario From Belgium, Holland

"Canada and Dominion Sugar Company, in close co-operation with the Dominion government, is continuing its program under which farmer-sponsored sugar beet workers are being emigrated from Belgium and Holland to Southwestern Ontario in considerable numbers again this spring," says President W. J. McGregor in his annual report to shareholders.

This long-term program which placed thousands of the finest type of European farm families from Belgium and Holland, has not only maintained but actually increased the number of family-operated farms in our sugar beet area. These farm immigrants as a class, are the finest exponents of soil building and conservation and they have become a strong counter to the modern trend of exodus from farms to the cities.

The company is also establishing mobile labor pools in the sugar beet district manned by European farmers screened by the Dominion Government.

23 Receive Diplomas At NSAC Closing

For the third year in succession, the Governor General's Medal, awarded annually to the student of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College who excels in academic achievement and student leadership activities during the two years of his science course, was awarded to a veteran of World War II.

This fact was revealed at the college graduation held in the College auditorium, Debert, last Wednesday afternoon, when Principal Cox, who presided over the exercises, announced the winner of the coveted medal, H. A. L. MacLaughlin, Lawrencetown, R. R. 3, Annapolis County.

The award to Mr. MacLaughlin, incidentally, marks the first time that the medal has been won by a veteran of the Royal Canadian Air Force. Previously, the medal had been won in 1947 by C. E. Henry, Birdswater, who served with the Canadian Navy and last year by F. E. Scammell, Kentville, a Canadian Army veteran.

The Macdonald College Scholarship, awarded to the student who attains the highest academic standing in the work of the second year of the degree course, was also won by Mr. MacLaughlin, with the presentation being made by Dr. W. H. Brittain, Vice-Principal of Macdonald College.

The graduation exercises, held in the Debert Military Hospital, the temporary home of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College and attended by friends and relatives of the graduating class, as well as by a large number of alumni who, earlier in the day, had attended the annual meeting of their Association, were presided over by Principal Kenneth Cox, who presented graduation diplomas to twenty-three students, following their introduction by the Registrar, Parker Cox.

Three special students—one from Nova Scotia, one from Prince Edward Island, and one from Canada's newest province, Newfoundland, also completed their course and were furnished with transcripts of their records. Of the twenty-three graduates and three special students, records show that fourteen served in the armed forces in World War II, nine with the R.C.A.F., three with the Army and two with the Navy.

The Valedictorian's address was presented by Mr. MacLaughlin, while the address to the graduating class was delivered by W. R. Shaw, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Prince Edward Island, a 1914 alumnus of the N.S.A.C.

Greetings from the Government of Nova Scotia were brought by Hon. A. W. MacKenzie, a 1921 graduate of the institution, while J. R. Wright '37, President, extended greetings to the graduating class from the Alumni Association.

Full Larders Promote Peace. The preservation of peace in the world will not be difficult task when the larders of the world countries are full, declared Mr. Shaw in impressing the members of the graduating class with the important tasks of food production and distribution which still remained to be solved.

While many difficulties in these connections existed, Mr. Shaw pointed out that difficulties always occurred where opportunities existed. However, even very imposing difficulties, he felt, could be surmounted without too much trouble providing that those who attempt the solution take their inspiration from the records of their forebears, who opened up this unexplored and undeveloped Maritime Canada, who really builded better than they knew, and who sent out into the world, men and women who have made their mark in national and international fields of enterprise and activity. What needs to be accomplished, Mr. Shaw pointed out, stands as a challenge to the youth of today, but he believed that the youth who stood up to defend a country in time of war could also be depended upon to lead her in times of peace, providing that they accepted the challenge with the same enthusiasm with which they accepted demands upon their skill and initiative in time of conflict.

The Margarine Act

There has been considerable interest exhibited in the margarine question in Nova Scotia in recent months, following the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada that the sale and manufacture of margarine was legal in Canada, but that it was a question for each individual province to decide how margarine should be controlled in each respective province. This resulted in the introduction of Bill 132 before the Nova Scotia Legislature, by Hon. A. W. MacKenzie, Minister of Agriculture and Marketing. For the benefit of any who may wish to have a copy of the Bill 132 in its entirety, it is reproduced herewith:

Be It Enacted by the Governor and Assembly as follows:

1. This Act may be cited as The Margarine Act 1949.
2. In this Act unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "margarine" means margarine, oleomargarine, butterine, or any food substance other than butter, of whatever origin, source or composition that is prepared for substantially the same use as butter;

(b) "Minister" means Minister of Agriculture and Marketing;

(c) "package" includes wrapper, carton, box, tub, crock, crate or other covering or container;

(d) "public eating place" means any place where food or drink is offered for sale to the public for consumption on the premises and includes hotel, inn, restaurant, public conveyance, victualling house and lunch counter;

(e) "regulations" mean regulations made under this Act;

(f) "Inspector" means person appointed or designated by the Minister to carry out the provision of this Act and the regulations made thereunder.

Every keeper of a public eating place where margarine is served shall:

(a) where a menu is used, cause to be displayed thereon in a conspicuous manner the words "margarine is served here";

(b) where a menu is not used, cause to be displayed in a conspicuous manner in each room or place where food is served, a sign or placard bearing the words "margarine is served here" in letters large enough to be distinctly seen from all parts of each room or place.

4. No person shall mix margarine with butter for purposes of sale or for use in any public eating place.

5. No person shall manufacture, sell, offer for sale, or serve in any public eating place any margarine which contains any preservative (except salt) of a kind or in a quantity forbidden by the regulations.

6. No person shall sell or offer for sale any margarine except in a package having legibly marked thereon, in addition to anything required under any Act of the Parliament of Canada or of this Legislature:

(a) the word "margarine" or the trade name of the contents;

(b) a list of the ingredients and the percentage of each such ingredient;

(c) the name and address of the manufacturer.

7. No person shall manufacture margarine in Nova Scotia without a license therefor from the Minister.

8. (i) The Governor in Council may make regulations:

(a) providing for the issue of licenses to manufacturers of margarine and prescribing the form, term and conditions thereof; and the fees to be paid therefor; and providing for the transfer, renewal, suspension or cancellation thereof;

(b) prescribing standards of quality and color for margarine;

(c) prohibiting or limiting the kinds and quantity of preservatives;

(d) respecting any other matter necessary or advisable for carrying out effectively the intent and purpose of this Act.

(ii) No person shall serve in any public eating place, nor shall any person sell or offer for sale any margarine that does not conform to the standards prescribed by the regulations.

9. The Minister may appoint such Inspectors as may be required for carrying into effect the provisions of this Act and of the regulations made thereunder. Any Inspector appointed under this Act may at any time for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of the Act or the regulations:

(a) enter any place, premises, warehouse, factory, store, boat, car, truck or other vehicle used for the storage or carriage of margarine or which the Inspector believes is being so used;

(b) require to be produced for inspection or for the purpose of obtaining copies thereof or extracts therefrom, any book, shipping bills, bills of lading, sale records or other records or papers respecting margarine;

(c) detain any margarine for the time necessary to complete his inspection and at the expense of the owner, manufacturer, wholesaler or retailer, take samples of margarine wherever or whenever he deems necessary.

10. Every person who contravenes any provision of this Act or any regulation shall, on summary conviction, be liable to a penalty of not more than $100 or to imprisonment for not more than thirty days, or to both fine and imprisonment.

Dr. Cumming In Hospital

Any student who graduated from the Nova Scotia Agricultural College during the 25 year period Dr. Cumming occupied the office of Principal and all who came into contact with him later during his association with the Department of Agriculture and Marketing, from which he retired a year ago, will be interested to learn that Dr. Cumming left for St. John's Hospital, Lowell, Mass., where he will undergo an operation for the removal of cataracts. In recent weeks Dr. Cumming has been practically blind but he is quite confident that his eyesight will be restored following a successful operation.

Any who wish to contact Dr. Cumming during the next 12 days may address their letters to him in care of St. John's Hospital.

Tourist Information Bureau Opens

The government information bureau, located at the waterfront near the Customs, opened last week. American cars have been the Bureau already, by Miss Louise B. B. Lent. Yesterday afternoon, or who stopped, was from Victoria, B.C. The Bureau is open to make inquiries, information concerning the number of cars in the province, and it is a common sight to see many American cars on the main highway. These cars, nearly all stop at the government information bureau for information regarding routes, road conditions or other information before leaving town.

County Survey

This week the County Surveyor, Mr. W. H. Brittain, is in the field making a survey of the County. The survey is being made in the County of Digby, and the results will be used for the purpose of making a map of the County.

PART III (Continued)

One farmer in Digby County has said of farming that "it's a hard mouth existence but it's healthy." This sums up much of what can be said. In the main, agriculture in the County is a subsistence type with very little produce exported to other areas. Even so, locally in Digby it is a common sight to see many American cars on the main highway. These cars, nearly all stop at the government information bureau for information regarding routes, road conditions or other information before leaving town.

There is evidence that as things stand, now, agriculture in the County is a declining industry. For example, there were formerly extensive cherry orchards around Bear River and Hillgrove and apple orchards were also fairly common. Cherries are almost non-existent and apples have practically disappeared as a commercial crop. Grain was extensively grown at one time on Digby Neck and has now disappeared from there. There used to be considerably more chickens produced in the area than there are now.

If it may well be asked, why is agriculture declining in a period of rising farm prices? The answer in large part is that farms are exporting people to other agricultural areas have traditionally exported people in times of depression and imported people from the unemployment of urban areas. In general, farms have had fewer people working on them since 1940, but have produced much more food.

This adjustment has taken place through rapid increase in mechanization. However, this has not taken place in Digby County because the farms are not large enough. Twenty to twenty-five acres, the predominant size of arable land per farm in the County, will not support tractors, corn pickers, etc.

The men who remain on the farms say that the young people are no longer interested in the hard work on the farms and prefer the wages obtainable in cities and the regular short hours of occupations there.

Continue Report on County Survey

(This week the Courier presents a further installment of the Dymond report on a survey of Digby County made by William and Rosalind Dymond of Cornell University last summer. Portions of this report have been carried in previous issues of the Courier and others will appear as space permits.)

Agriculture
One farmer in Digby County has said of farming that "it's a hard to mouth existence as at it's health." This sums up much of what can be said. In the main, agriculture in the county is a subsistence type with very little produce exported to other areas or even sold locally in Digby itself. Many carry on agricultural pursuits in conjunction with some other income earning activity as a means primarily of being self-sufficient for their own family food supply. These who carry on agriculture frequently rely on the sale of timber from their wood lots as their main cash crop. There is evidence that as things stand now, agriculture in the county is a declining industry. For example, there were formerly extensive cherry orchards around the River and Hillgrove and apple orchards were also fairly common. Cherries are now almost non-existent and apples have practically disappeared as a commercial crop. Grain was extensively grown at one time on Digby Neck and has now disappeared from there. ## MARRIAGES

Rice - Anderson
Spring flowers formed the setting at St. George's Roman Catholic Church, Clarendon, Alberta, Easter Monday, when marriage vows were exchanged between Miss Ruth Anderson, R.N., and Dr. Donald A. Rice. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Anderson of Clarendon while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. A. Rice of Lethbridge and grandson of the late J. Arthur Rice, Bear River.

Rev. Fr. P. O'Byrne officiated at the ceremony. Entering the church at 2:30 p.m. with her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a gown of heavy white satin, fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline and bouffant skirt with full bustle effect in the back. Her veil misted from a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies. Making an attractive contrast were the gowns worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Isobel Clendenning and Miss Yvonne Lewis, in rose and pale blue.

Mr. R. McNally was best man while Edward Rice of Lethbridge, brother of the groom, Lloyd Anderson of Clarendon, brother of the bride, and Dr. Brian Black, Lethbridge, also Dr. Dion of Clarendon, ushered the guests. The reception followed immediately in the recreation hall at Clarendon. Receiving with the bride party, Mrs. Anderson wore a rose crepe afternoon frock, while Mrs. Rice chose a slate grey dress. A three tier wedding cake flanked by calla lilies and white iris centred the bride's table. Rev. Fr. O'Byrne proposed the toast to the bride with the groom responding and Mr. E. H. McNally proposed a toast to the bridesmaids. The couple left later by car for a honeymoon trip to Mexico. For traveling, Mrs. Rice donned a teal blue three piece ensemble and grey accessories complemented with a pink gardenia corsage. Dr. and Mrs. Rice will reside in Lethbridge.

There were numerous guests present from Lethbridge, Calgary and Edmonton.

Gidney - Lowe
A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Lowe, Bridgewater, recently, when their daughter, Audrey Vila, became the bride of Bailey Gidney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Gidney, Mink Cove. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Johnson under an arch of silver and white bells.

The bride entered on the arm given in marriage. She was lovely in a floor length gown of white sheer with embroidered bodice and sweetheart neckline. Her shoulder-length veil was caught

To Hold Summer School For Teachers

The Nova Scotia Summer School for teachers, conducted annually by the Department of Education, will be held in Halifax this year from July 4 to August 6. Last year 443 persons attended the school, most of them teachers wishing to qualify for a higher class teaching license and to become better informed on various phases of modern education.

A faculty of 45 instructors has been selected for the 1949 school, including outstanding teachers in the fields of economics, education, French, history, home economics, teaching methods, art, English, music, crafts, nutrition, and physical education, from education systems in Canada and the United States.

Director of the school will be H. P. Moffatt, Assistant Superintendent of Education, with Herbert K. Macleod, as Registrar.

It will be the 47th. session of the Summer School. As usual, most of the activities will take place on the campus of Dalhousie University. Limited accommodation for women students will be available at Pine Hill and at Shireff Hall residences, and for men in Dalhousie Men's Residence.

Education officials look for a large enrolment this year. The Nova Scotia Summer School Students' Association will arrange a program of entertainment for the teachers while they are in Halifax, and the students will be able to witness many of the major events in Halifax's Bicentenary celebration.

To Investigate Possible Bait Source

Use of the bar clam resources of the Bay of Fundy off Digby to relieve the bait shortage for trawl fishermen on the south shore of Nova Scotia during the summer dogfish season will be investigated this year by the Fisheries Research Board of Canada.

Dr. J. C. Medcof, of the Board's Atlantic Biological Station, St. Andrews, N. B., reports that in the deep waters off Digby, N. S., investigators working on the Board's vessel, "J. J. Cowie," found extensive and densely populated beds of bar clams suitable for use as bait. They might be substituted for soft-shelled clams which are in high demand for both bait and shucking.

A survey of bar clam resources of the Gulf of St. Lawrence undertaken in 1948 indicated that they were not present in commercial quantities except in a small area of Miramichi Bay, N. B. Here, in eight hours experimental dragging with a power dredge, investigators produced 26 bushels. This operation, Dr. Medcof reports, might be profitable but by comparison with returns from the other types of fishing involving boats and gear of similar cost, it would not be considered lucrative.

Turkey Raising

Increase

Now that spring is with us the farmers are busy tilling the soil and preparing for the planting season, while others are preparing to raise turkeys. This new farm venture is taking quite a hold here and the success of other farmers has encouraged new turkey pens to be built along St. Mary's Bay shore.

Only recently introduced in this part of Nova Scotia, turkey raising has been quite successful to date. Up-to-date methods are being used and slipshod methods have been done away with. The turkey is a delicate bird and extreme care must be taken at all times. Special pens are built with wire flooring on the wire enclosure in which they are allowed to roam around outdoors. This wire flooring is several feet from the ground. Sanitation is strictly adhered to so as not to spread germ dealing germs among the turkey flock, which can have very disastrous results.

Fox ranching in Clare has dwindled to practically nothing due to the poor market for fox pelts. At one time this district went in extensively for fox ranching. The high cost of feed and the low market price for the fox pelt has driven many ranchers from this once-profitable field. Mini-ranching is still being carried on and the market for mink pelts has been good with the possible exception of the last season.

WAKE UP, NOVA SCOTIA!

IT'S THE DOCTOR THAT'S HOPELESS!

THE TROUBLE IN NOVA SCOTIA IS THIS: The patient can be cured, BUT THE DOCTOR IS HOPELESS. We need a government capable of reviving the hope, arousing the faith, and liberating the energy and enterprise of all Nova Scotians. The Macdonald government has rewarded us with—

- (1) ECONOMIC AND INDUSTRIAL STAGNATION,
- (2) LACK OF OPPORTUNITY FOR THE YOUNG; and
- (3) MARGINAL LIVING STANDARDS FOR OLDER PEOPLE.

There's ONLY ONE SOLUTION!

Robert Stanfield and his new team of Progressive Conservative candidates are COMMITTED TO A BROAD PROGRAM OF PRACTICAL POLICIES FOR ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT, BASED UPON SOUND DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES, and designed to clear the way for a new day in Nova Scotia.

George Drew, the national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, has given his own unqualified pledge that THE ENTIRE C.N.R. LINE FROM MONCTON TO SYDNEY WILL BE OVERHAULED AND DOUBLE-TRACKED.

Robert Stanfield stands for—

A NATIONAL TRANSPORTATION POLICY, to achieve a fairer sharing of the freight rates burden and a transportation service here equal to that enjoyed by any other part of Canada;

A CONCERTED DRIVE TO DEVELOP NEW MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES;

MARITIME SOLIDARITY IN ACHIEVING MARITIME OBJECTIVES;

MORE PRODUCTIVE MARKETING OF NOVA SCOTIA'S PRODUCTS;

AND A UNITED FRONT BY THE PUBLIC, LABOR AND MANAGEMENT TO MAKE THIS PROVINCE FLOURISH AS IT SHOULD HAVE BEEN FLOURISHING IN YEARS PAST.

The Stanfield Manifesto marks A TURNING POINT IN PROVINCIAL HISTORY. Under the inspiring, resolute and practical leadership of Robert Stanfield, there is no reason why we cannot by our own efforts MATCH ANY OTHER PROVINCE IN ECONOMIC PROSPERITY AND STANDARDS OF LIVING!

This province needs most the kind of enterprise that brought into being the Mersey Paper Company, and our other great SELF-SUPPORTING INDUSTRIES. Do you want to carry on with the kind of "leadership" which has shut out the Shell Oil Company simply to preserve a valuable industrial site for a hospital which could be and should be located elsewhere?

Nova Scotia's A Place To Live—Not To Leave!

EVER SINCE THE MACDONALD GOVERNMENT CAME BACK IN 1945, NOVA SCOTIANS HAVE BEEN LEAVING THE PROVINCE. Indeed, out of all the 59 years in the last 67 during which the Macdonald regime and its political ancestors have held power, HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS HAVE LEFT THE PROVINCE—NEVER TO RETURN.

Is there any good reason why we can't provide for the natural increase in our population? WE MUST MAKE ROOM FOR OUR OWN CHILDREN!

SPEECHES AND ADVERTISEMENTS ARE THE ONLY SIGN OF INDUSTRY THE MACDONALD GOVERNMENT HAS GIVEN US. Remember "Made in Nova Scotia Week"? Mr. Connolly was advertising SUGAR and FLOUR WHEAT as Nova Scotian products. If Mr. Connolly thinks sugar is a Nova Scotian product today, he has given us the key to his own mind. HE JUST THINKS WE'RE GETTING THE INDUSTRIES HE TALKS ABOUT. Sugar!

The Tide Has Turned!

What happened in Digby-Annapolis-Kings last December was JUST A PREVIEW OF JUNE 9th. Just as the Macdonald regime found December 13th a trifle cold, so will it find June 9th a trifle warm for an election.

THE TIDE CERTAINLY HAS TURNED. The people know that Robert Stanfield and George Drew will give constructive, challenging leadership.

The people know that REAL OPPORTUNITY FOR OUR YOUTH CAN COME ONLY AS A RESULT OF GREATER

OPPORTUNITY TO GAIN HIGHER EDUCATION ALONG WITH A FAR-SIGHTED PROGRAM FOR INDUSTRIAL GROWTH.

In terms of educational, opportunity, future development of business and industry, and MAXIMUM employment, as well as in terms of higher standards of living, THE STANFIELD MANIFESTO AND GEORGE DREW'S PLEDGE SPELL THE DAWN OF A HAPPIER, MORE PROSPEROUS ERA FOR ALL NOVA SCOTIA!

The time has come to create opportunity HERE for ourselves and our children.

CITY SURVEY

ance of certain small establishments in the countryside which formerly took in summer visitors.

Ship Building, which was once a major economic activity, has disappeared from the construction of a few small fishing craft. The introduction of iron and steel ships is the obvious cause of the destruction of this once prosperous enterprise. Large three and four masted vessels were built in the early part of the century. At a number of points in the county, Bear River and San Juan, in the days of the ship building industry, there were ports with a considerable ship building industry. Today not even fishing boats are built at Meteghan and Weymouth. The yard at Weymouth has run by local people while the one at Meteghan was taken over by a company from Montreal and employed over 500 at the height of its activity. Mine sweepers, harbor craft, and "Fairmiles" were built.

World War II created another boom in shipbuilding in Clare, and fairly large yards were in operation at Meteghan and Weymouth. The yard at Weymouth has run by local people while the one at Meteghan was taken over by a company from Montreal and employed over 500 at the height of its activity. Mine sweepers, harbor craft, and "Fairmiles" were built.

An interesting phase of the wartime activity at the Meteghan shipyard was the organization of a local of the Marine Shipbuilding Workers which is part of the Canadian Congress of Labor. An organizer was sent in from Halifax in 1942 and the organization was bitterly opposed by the company and the influential people in the area. The company threatened to move its operations elsewhere if a union was organized and actually locked the employees out for a period of two weeks. Intervention on the part of the Federal Government, from which they had contracts, forced them to open again. In the end the union was successfully organized and a contract signed. Prior to organization, the men had been employed at an average of 35 cents an hour on a ten hour day. After the contract was signed, wages were raised to 80 — 90 cents an hour and hours were put on an 8 hours a day basis.

It is interesting that a number of individuals possessed all the skills associated with building and sailing these vessels which played to the county. We are told of a man at Plympton, an excellent woodsman, who would cut down trees from his wood lot, haul them to the shore, build the hull, and could make the model out of wood, and could make the iron work for his vessel and as a sailmaker, he was the best, and could make the sail and rig the ship. Finally, he was an expert seaman, and could launch his ship and sail it to distant ports.

Sixty years ago, it was reported that the boat building establishments along the French Shore were owned by Englishmen who exploited the skilled labor supply available to them. Only highly skilled carpenters were paid as much as $1.00 a day and company stores were operated so that the workers were paid little actual cash. It was only with the advent of alternative sources of employment in the labor camps, which paid their workers in cash, that this system was broken down.

The two World Wars created a demand for wooden ships and thus revived the ship building activities, at least in Clare, for their duration. In 1917 an observer counted 60 three and four masted vessels being constructed in the stretch of shore between Plympton and Yarmouth. For five to six years after World War I, the construction of run runners during the era of prohibition, kept the yards partially employed and then activity fell away to the construction of small fishing boats.

Although the shipyard at Weymouth was never organized, it apparently met the above terms to avoid it. The union dissolved when the shipyard practically closed at the end of the war for lack of orders. This is the only instance of organized labor in the area but it reveals that when industrial conditions develop as they did in Meteghan during the war, that the workers of the area will accept and cooperate with organized labor in spite of considerable local community opposition and union preventing efforts on the part of employers. The payment of high wages for a period of four to five years to a large number of workers in the area had a very stimulating effect on the economy. Many relieved themselves of debt burden, others accumulated funds for renovating their homes and installing conveniences and others secured a small fund of capital for going into businesses on their own.

As previously mentioned, boat building at present is confined to fishing boat construction at a few places in the county. There is a builder at Tiverton and a couple at Belliveau's Cove. There is a small shipyard at Meteghan

River which makes the somewhat larger Sardine boats and Sealop draggers and employs about 25 — 30 men. The Meteghan yard builds a few small yachts and there is another small boat builder there who employs 3 — 4 men and turns out 40 — 50 foot boats. There is also a builder at Salmon River. The lack of hard wood in the region is a handicap to the development of the industry in competition with other small pleasure boat builders serving the United States market. Pleasure boats are usually constructed of mahogany, teak, etc. woods which would have to be imported into the county. In effect, since the end of the war, a large skilled labor force of shipbuilders is available in the area with no outlet for its skill.

6. The Home and Its Economy
In the days of the early settlers, the home and family was, for the most part, a producing and consuming unit. The trend toward the family home being solely a consuming unit, dependent on a cash income, has not gone nearly as far in the county as in American urban society.

COUNTY SURVEY

The home in rural areas is still a producing unit, at for much of the food consumed. The women can fruits and vegetables over the summer for consumption in the winter months. Meat is often canned or salted from cattle or pigs grown on the farm. Potatoes and turnips are stored in the cellars, or root houses. Most farms and many homes, which would not be classified as farms, keep one or two cows and a few chickens. These supply milk, and buttermilk for the consumption of the family. Many housewives still bake their own bread. Wood from the wood lot is burned in the stoves and furnaces of many homes and water, except in the town of Digby, is drawn from wells.

DIGBY

Prior to the increased use of cash income and other ways of using time, such as going to the movies or riding in automobiles, many women carried on handicrafts in the home like hooking rugs, making quilts or the family's clothes. There are still some families in Clare who shear their own lambs, send the wool to the local mill for carding and then spin the wool at home and use it for making socks, sweaters, and other garments. However, this, which used to be almost a universal practice, is now relatively rare.

The Nova Scotia Handicraft, sponsored by the Government, is attempting to revive home handicrafts through sending teachers, free of charge, to groups of housewives in local communities to instruct in such arts as weaving and leather work. One of the difficulties encountered has been that the women, after taking a course in weaving, cannot afford to purchase a loom to continue their work. A group of ten housewives in Saulnierville solved this problem by forming a weaver's guild and as a group, purchased a loom which each uses for five weeks in the year.

A group in Clare has formed an organization known as "L'Artisane" for the sale of home-made handicrafts to tourists. One of the members sells the output of the others in her home at a ten percent commission.

In rural areas, a family can live reasonably well without handling very much cash in the course of the year. Home ownership is widespread and is almost 100% in Clare. Homes have very often been passed down from generation to generation which

Bride Honored By Shower

Mrs. Edward Robicheau entertained on Thursday night at her home when a miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Miss Louise Abbott whose marriage took place this week.

The rooms were decorated for the occasion with spring flowers and daintily wrapped gifts were presented to the bride-elect. Helping to serve with refreshments were the Misses Betty Wilson and Hilda Milbury.

has meant the gradual accumulation of a considerable stock of durable consumers' goods. As a result of home ownership, taxes are the major running expenses, since almost everyone is handy with tools and can do his own repairs. Taxes are very low. The pressure of competitive consumption in the Venetian sense, although present, does not seem to be nearly as strong as in the urban American environment.

In sum, the pressure of price inflation in recent years has had a much less onerous effect on consumers than in other areas of the continent. People are not nearly so dependent on cash to maintain a "decent" and social acceptable standard of living as in the urban environment. Along this same line it is probable that there is a much more equal distribution of income per capita in Digby County than in urban areas of American society. It probably is more equal than in many other rural areas although we have no statistical proof.

It's Not News But . . .

Indications are the election campaign in Digby is going to be a clean one—at least the streets were washed here this week.

Speaking of elections, there is certain a lot of budding politicians will be blossoming.

That little lad who was so sidiously fishing in the gutter at the side of the road at the street washing last week, probably enjoyed himself a lot more than some of the adults tramped miles and beat off swarms of blackflies over the end.

The "smashing success" achieved by the turning on of the water pressure last week, probably not compare with "terrible bust" when the rates are announced.

Election campaign efforts up to the present are in the "phony war" preceded Hitler's invasion of Lowlands.

Business Cuts Attendance Record

Due to the epidemic of colds and influenza which hit the Digby area in the month of April the percentage attendance at Digby Rural High School during the month was the lowest in several years, having dropped to 88.5%. This was revealed in the Supervisor's report presented at Tuesday night's meeting of the Board of School Commissioners.

In the Rural High School pupil days lost through sickness in April amounted to 338 with 631 pupil days lost in the elementary school.

Plans for the work of preparation and seeding of the grounds immediately in front of the new Rural High School were discussed by the Board and it was decided this work, together with other necessary work, be proceeded with immediately. Further beautification work on the grounds of the Rural High School will be left with Mr. Jankov of the Department of Agriculture. The services of this landscaping expert were placed at the disposal of the Digby Board by the Premier when he laid the cornerstone of the new building.

Finalizing of arrangements for both elementary and high school closings was completed at Tuesday night's meeting of the School Board. Rev. Professor Harry E. Dysart of Kings' College graduated the guest speaker at the Rural High School. It was decided. Professor Dysart is Registrar of Kings' College and is a brother of the former Miss Edna Dysart who for several years Victorian Order Nurse in Digby.

The Board acknowledged and acted upon several suggestions placed before them at their Tuesday night meeting. It was noted that, in addition to the regular prizes and awards this year, a silver cup will be known as the Memorial Cup. This cup will be given to the pupil of the year in memory of those from this area who gave their lives in World War II and will be presented to the pupil who makes the most outstanding contribution to the school life in the high school year. Although the cup will be presented to the pupil at the graduation exercises, it will remain in the Rural High School and will be displayed in the library there. The cup will be suitably inscribed and will bear the name of the winner in each successive year.

The Board laid down a policy with regard to use of the auditorium for the new school for public functions. It was decided that in term dances the auditorium be restricted to pupils of the Rural High School only and that attendance at the graduation dance, which is by tradition an invitation affair, be restricted for this year to former pupils of the area who served by the Rural High School in future years to former students of the Rural High School. It was felt that proper control and supervision was to be exercised at student functions in the school auditorium.

Delmar Horton of Halifax spent several days in town last week.

Other recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Banks of Port Lorne were Mrs. Allison Morse and Mr. Lawrence Banks.

Agriculture Agent Addresses Kiwanis

Raymond LeBlanc, agriculture agent for Digby County, was the guest speaker at last week's meeting of the Digby Kiwanis Club.

In a most interesting address Mr. LeBlanc stressed the importance of agriculture in the economy of Digby County and told of the work of the Department of Agriculture to raise standards and improve conditions of the agricultural industry throughout the province.

Mr. LeBlanc commented on the fine work being done by the agricultural societies in the county and stated their efforts were resulting in many improvements in the agricultural life of the county.

Speaking of the changes in agriculture in Digby County over the years, Mr. LeBlanc stated that turkey raising was becoming an important part of the industry here.

He said last year some two thousand turkeys were raised in Digby County and it is thought the number may exceed five thousand this year.

Present at the meeting were members of the Maple Leaf Agricultural Society of Conway, Mr. Lloyd MacNeill of that society who addressed the meeting briefly and told of the work being done by the society to promote and improve the farming industry among the members.

Mr. MacNeill commented on the development of the new Rural High School in Digby and stated this was proving of great benefit already to the farmers in the area. He told of the recent short course in agriculture and of the lectures on agriculture which were also held. He stated the course being provided by the new school in agriculture should prove of inestimable value to young people from the farming districts of the area served by the school.

At the close of the year Lieutenant Governor H. M. Wane presented three year perfect attendance tabs to Kiwanians Scott Eaton and Chester M. Levy. Mr. Wane complimented the two members on their splendid record of attendance and urged the other members to increased effort to keep up attendance.

Former Classmates Meet

An interesting sidelight to the visit of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and his party to the Digby Rural High School on Thursday last was the meeting of two former classmates of Mount Allison University who had not met since their graduation in 1931.

The two classmates who greeted each other on this occasion were Reconstruction Minister, Robert L. Winters and F. C. Purdy, Principal of the Digby Rural High School. Mr. Winters and Mr. Purdy were both students at Mount Allison during the same period and graduated together in 1931. The Minister of Reconstruction received his Bachelor of Science degree in Engineering while Mr. Purdy also received a Bachelor of Science degree.

Both men had a most enjoyable chat following their meeting at the entrance to the Rural High School where Mr. Purdy met and welcomed the Prime Minister and his party to the new school.

MARRIAGE Liberal Candidate

Doane - Buckler

A lovely spring wedding was solemnized in Bear River East Church on Sunday evening, May 16th, at seven-thirty o'clock, when Beulah Lavina, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Buckler, Bear River East, became the bride of George Leslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Doane of Yarmouth. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. S. Young, an arch of hawthorn and daisies. Friends and relatives in attendance were seated in pews designated by white crepe bows.

To the strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. Clifford Morine, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage. The bride looked very lovely in her gown of white satin, with sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and full skirt. A coronet of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley held her formal veil and her bouquet was made up of red roses, in full shower arrangement. Annie Buckler, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and chose a gown of blue net lace over taffeta with matching head-dress and gloves, and carried a shower bouquet of snapdragons, white lilies, Alstroemeria, and white lilies. Albert Buckler, brother of the bride, attended the groom. Clyde Parnell, the groom's brother-in-law, acted as best man. During the signing of the register, Miss Margaret Alcorn sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden."

The bride's mother wore a blue floral sheer crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother wore a dress of black silk crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses. A reception was held after the ceremony. Mrs. James Robbins had charge of the guest book, and the young couple received their guests in an attractively decorated room where also was displayed a very large arrangement of wedding gifts. Rev. C. S. Young proposed the toast to the bride, which the groom responded. The bride and groom were then presented by the bride's mother, Daisy Robbins, Rose, and the bride's cousins, Beulah Haines, Henrietta Haines, and the bride's sisters, Mrs. Maynard Haines, and Mrs. Leslie Doane. The bride and groom were then presented by the bride's mother, Daisy Robbins, Rose, and the bride's cousins, Beulah Haines, Henrietta Haines, and the bride's sisters, Mrs. Maynard Haines, and Mrs. Leslie Doane.

Saturday Evening Post Features Digby

The Digby Pines Hotel is featured in a full page advertisement which appeared in the May 14th issue of the Saturday Evening Post. The advertisement was inserted by the Canadian Pacific Railway and is a tribute to the Digby Pines, featured in the company's famous "The Pines of Digby" advertisement. The advertisement is a full color illustration of the Digby Pines, showing a portion of the hotel and the swimming pool, with the Annapolis Basin in the foreground.

This bit of publicity is worth thousands of dollars to the town of Digby, especially when one considers the fact that the Saturday Evening Post is one of the largest circulation newspapers in the world, with an circulation of over 1,000,000 copies per week. The advertisement is a full color illustration of the Digby Pines, showing a portion of the hotel and the swimming pool, with the Annapolis Basin in the foreground.

Political Parties Open Headquarters

Both political parties have secured headquarters for the forthcoming elections in Digby. The Progressive Conservatives are located in the Trohan building and the Liberals have secured the Air Force barracks building on the Cannon Bank.

Present indications are no candidate will be nominated for the C.C.F. Party to contest either Digby or Digby Municipalities in the provincial election. It is understood a meeting will shortly be held, however, to discuss the possibilities of entering a candidate in the federal contest.

A nominating convention for the Liberal Party for the federal constituency of Digby-Yarmouth will be held in Saultville on Saturday afternoon. It is understood several names may be possible for the convention as well as candidates. Prominently mentioned are E. Spinney of Yarmouth and E. T. Kirk of Saultville.

The Progressive Conservative Party will hold their convention to nominate a candidate for the federal election in Saultville on May 25th. Several names are also being mentioned as possible candidates. Among them are Malcolm S. Leonard, Digby; Col. U. G. Dawson, Yarmouth; Peter Judge of Austin Nickerson, both of Yarmouth.

Has Narrow Brush With Death

John Muise, 25 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Muise of Mr. and Mrs. Station had a close brush with death here Tuesday morning when a piece of plankling went through his right leg, narrowly missing the leg vessels in the upper part of the leg.

The accident occurred at the H. T. Wane Ltd. mill where Muise is employed. He was standing in front of one of the saws when, in some manner, a piece of plank, which he was feeding through the saw, flew back, passing through his leg above the knee. The plank was three inches in width and over an inch in thickness and tore a nasty hole in his leg.

The young man was immediately rushed to the hospital where he was treated by Dr. E. D. Dickie. He is reported as resting comfortably.

Red Cross Plans For Blood Donor Clinic

The May business meeting of the Digby Red Cross Branch was held at the Court House on Wednesday afternoon with Dr. T. W. Hodgson presiding. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Elton Arnold took notes on the meeting.

The first item on the agenda was a report by Alfred Dickie, chairman of the Blood Donor Committee. A letter was read from Headquarters requesting information regarding the number of donors who could be secured for a visit of the Mobile Clinic to Digby in the near future. Mr. Dickie explained the great need for blood, which is in short supply, and gave several instances of the saving of lives in the Digby Hospital by the fact of having the Red Cross Blood Bank available. He stressed the fact that owing to the shortage of blood donors, every drop of blood has to be made to go as far as possible, but that many cases absolutely require it, citing a recent haemorrhage case which will require 3 to 5 transfusions for recovery. In all, approximately 70 free transfusions have been given in the Digby Hospital since the establishment of the Red Cross Blood Bank last fall.

At the conclusion of this report, it was moved that a letter be written advising Headquarters of our cooperation in securing as many donors as possible for the next clinic, the details of which will be discussed at a later meeting after the clinic date is set. It was further moved that letters be sent the doctors and organizations in nearby communities with the hope of securing donors from the whole area served by the Digby Blood Bank.

The Treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Mullen, reported expenses for the past month of $10.64 and a bank balance of $181.15. A letter was read expressing thanks for a layette recently donated locally. Mrs. H. M. Warne, reporting for the Women's Work Committee, stated that no shipment of finished work had gone forward in April, and it was hoped to arrange a tea and a display of these articles before packing, for layettes for local use, and donations of quilt scraps were solicited.

The report of the Boxes for Britain Committee was given by Mrs. G. W. Connell, convener, who stated that five food parcels had been packed and shipped on April 25th, at an expense of $8.65 in addition to donations received. A cash donation of $1.00 was acknowledged and further donations solicited for the May parcels.

At the conclusion of the business session, tea was served by Mrs. F. J. Thibault and Mrs. Ralph Berwick.

Brotherhood Holds Banquet

The Community Brotherhood of Weymouth held a banquet and Guest Night at Killam Hall on Tuesday evening, May 10. Guests for the evening were Mrs. Eva Wendell, M.A., Guidance Director at Digby Rural High School, and wives of the members. Places were laid for about 45 and catering was done by the committee in charge.

Toastmaster for the occasion was C. L. Goudey, president of the Brotherhood, and the following toasts were given and responded to: The King, by Rev. R. J. Knock; To the Brotherhood, Mrs. Eva Wendell, responded to by G. E. Wagner; To the Guests, C. L. Goudey, with response by Mrs. P. K. Gates.

Following the banquet an address was given by Mrs. Eva Wendell, who gave a most interesting summary of a case history in psychological guidance. This was followed by the showing of two educational films.

Championship Wrestling Here

May 24th, will see the first championship wrestling bout ever to be held in Digby. This bout will be held as part of a boxing and wrestling card to be presented at the new Digby Rink on that date.

Taking part in the championship wrestling match for the Wanderers Club of Halifax championship will be Jerry Verge of the Wanderers Club and Billy Boy Taylor of Halifax. This match promises to give plenty of thrills and excitement. It is understood the reason for the holding of the match here is that the elimination matches for the championship got even a little too rough for the Wanderers' fans in Halifax.

Several provincial boxers will also be on the fight card for the 24th. These will include Brice Burgess of Halifax who will meet Bernie MacKinnon, of Kentville in a five round bout. Victor Trety of Yarmouth will match Corrie Cormier of Kentville for three rounds and Luke Erskins of Yarmouth will meet Boyd Bishop of Kentville in a three round bout.

A local lightweight, Ron Cowan, will be pitted against Bob Duncan of Yarmouth in a three round bout. There will also be another three round bout between local fighters which will be announced later.

At the conclusion of the business session, tea was served by Mrs. F. J. Thibault and Mrs. Ralph Berwick.

Call Tenders On Digby Neck Paving

Tenders for the completion of grading the base course and the bituminous surface treatment of the Digby Neck highway from the Digby Town line to Sandy Cove, a distance of nineteen miles, have been called by the Department of Highways. Tenders for this job of preparing and paving the Digby Neck road will be received by the Department up until noon on June 1st.

First section of the Digby Neck road to be subgraded in preparation for the paving was that between Digby and Gullivers Cove, a distance of some nine miles. This was completed in 1947 at a cost of $119,236.

The next section to be prepared for the paving program was that between Gullivers Cove and Sandy Cove, a distance of approximately 10.5 miles. Tenders were called for this three times before a price that was considered reasonable was received. The contract was let in July 1948 and the estimated cost of grading this section was $204,000.

From a letter read at a recent meeting of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade from the Minister of Highways, it is understood the work of subgrading the remaining portion of the Digby Neck road from Sandy Cove to East Ferry is under investigation and, when all the survey work is completed, it will be possible to advertise this section, which will complete the work of subgrading this highway at an approximate cost of $534,000.

Killing Cadlock and Mustard In Grass Is Easy

The control of wild radish (cadlock, kale etc.) and wild mustard in the grain crop is a fairly simple matter with modern weed killers of the 2-4-D type, says J. S. Leefe, Assistant in Field Husbandry, Dominion Experimental Farm, Kentville, N. S.

Fair control of cadlock in oats seeded down to clover was obtained with as little as 2 ounces per acre of 2-4-D acid. Adequate control, with little if any damage to new-seeded clover, was obtained with 4 ounces per acre of 2-4-D acid.

The 4 ounce rate should not be exceeded where grain is seeded with clover, since clover is quite easily injured with heavier dosages of this material.

Where grain is not seeded with clover, virtual eradication of radish and mustard may be obtained with 8 to 12 ounces per acre of 2-4-D acid.

Spraying should be done when the grain is 5 to 6 inches high and the weeds are getting the first true leaves. By spraying at this stage the young clover seedlings are protected to some extent from the spray, and the weeds are in the best condition to kill. Spraying delayed until radish or mustard is in bloom will not be successful.

The amount of liquid to apply went on to state that it was expected the total cost of reconstructing the Digby Neck highway would be in the vicinity of $1,434,000.

To Move Telegraph Office

The Canadian Pacific Telegraph office, which is presently located in the Shortt Block, will move to the Dominion Atlantic Railway Station on June 1st, it is understood.

Reason for the move is that present quarters are too small to accommodate the new equipment which the company is planning to install.

may vary considerably, but it should be more than 15 gallons and less than 100 gallons per acre. The amount of 2-4-D acid should be the same whatever the volume of liquid used.

Weed killers of the 2-4-D type may be obtained under many brand names and containing varying amounts of 2-4-D acid. It would be advisable for those unfamiliar with the material to consult their local agricultural representative regarding the correct strength to use of any particular brand.

SCHOOL BUSES

DURING their fifteen years' regime, the LIBERAL Government has had as one of its major objectives a revolution in Nova Scotia's educational system. Such a transformation is now underway and already much has been accomplished. In fact, Nova Scotia spends more on education per capita than ANY OTHER PROVINCE IN THE DOMINION!

The absurdly low teachers' salaries, ramshackle schools and lack of government assistance which characterized the twenty years of Tory administration have disappeared. . . and TODAY Nova Scotia's children benefit by constantly improving educational facilities—regardless of where they live or what their financial means may be.

New Hope for Rural Areas!

And this sweeping program doesn't only apply to academic learning. With equal vigor the LIBERALS are building VOCATIONAL Schools to teach the trades. They are also rebuilding the NOVA SCOTIA AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Then there are RURAL HIGH SCHOOLS—filling a long-felt need and bringing new high educational standards to the rural areas. Two are already in operation—FIVE MORE being built, the Government paying construction costs and 75 per cent of the operating expenses.

AND IN THE DAYS AHEAD . . .

Plans for the future call for a complete overhaul of the curriculum and a new TEACHER TRAINING SCHEME to provide for the tremendous increases in school enrolment. The EQUALIZATION FUND to help municipalities and the SCHOOL LOAN BUILDING FUND will continue to function and expand, and there are many more improvements on the LIBERAL schedule.

So when you cast your ballot on June 9th, KEEP YOUR CHILDREN IN MIND. You may be deciding their future—the chance they have—that perhaps you didn't get—to make the most of their lives.

TEACHERS' SALARIES DOUBLED!

Premier MacDonald, a former school teacher and college professor, KNEW HOW to tackle the problems facing his government. He realized the needs of FREE SCHOOL BOOKS for those who could not afford them and to date over $1,623,000 has been spent for this purpose. He stressed the need for QUALIFIED TEACHERS with ADEQUATE SALARIES and REASONABLE PENSIONS. Teachers' salaries have MORE THAN DOUBLED in the past eight years and the Liberals' basic teachers' salary of $1020 is believed to be the first such attempt of its kind anywhere in Canada.

More Help For MUNICIPALITIES!

In 1937 the Tory Government spent $1,190,000 on education. The LIBERALS now spend $5,280,000 AND PLAN TO SPEND MORE! They pay 51% of the education bill for municipalities; they've encouraged Home and School Associations, Regional Libraries, Correspondence Study and Technical Training, plus the other services illustrated.

Virus Diseases In Strawberries

It is becoming increasingly evident that many stocks of strawberries in Canada are infected with virus. The recognition of this fact has been delayed by the failure of the commonly grown varieties that are grown in Canada, when infected with a virus, do not exhibit the yellow mottling or marginal yellowing that is usually associated with virus infection. The only effect is a varying amount of dwarfing of the plants and suppression of runner formation, the end results of which are decreasing yields and the so-called running-out of the variety.

The situation is a serious one for the commercial grower, says A. W. S. Hunter, Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. It is also a situation that the grower cannot entirely overcome by his own efforts. The final solution will involve either the finding of absolutely healthy plants of existing varieties and their subsequent propagation, or, if this is not possible, the breeding of new varieties to replace infected ones. Both of these alternatives can be undertaken only by experimental stations or research institutions.

However, the grower can do something to reduce the rate of spread of viruses within his plantings and thus delay the eventual running-out of his varieties. He can take more care in the selection and growing of his planting stock. Since it is not possible to recognize diseased plants by leaf symptoms, plant selection must be on the basis of vigour.

In order to appreciate the precautions that must be taken, it must be understood that virus diseases are usually spread by infection can take place over relatively long distances. It should also be understood that viruses are carried in the plant sap, and once a plant is infected, all runners connected to it will quickly become infected. Therefore, in order to be of any value, roguing of diseased plants must involve removal of the whole clone.

Growers frequently obtained their planting stock from the last row or two in the fruiting plantation. From what has just been said, it is obvious that this is not a good practice. The system affords only a poor opportunity for roguing our diseased plants, and growing in such close proximity to the rest of the plantation, disease may easily spread from infected plants that are likely to be present in adjacent fruiting rows.

A much better practice is to grow plants for propagation in a location as far removed as possible from all other strawberries. This also includes wild strawberries, since they are frequently infected with virus. Set out only the most vigorous plants obtainable of the desired varieties. Plant them three or four feet apart in each direction and as soon as they start growing, inspect them regularly and remove all plants that do not look lively or that are not as vigorous as they should be. In order to be worth while, this roguing must be done carefully, regularly and ruthlessly. No plant should be given the benefit of the doubt.

UNCLE ED Says

If I had to pin a label on the year 1949, I'd call it this:
The year of greater value in home buildin'.

Why?
Because of these things:
First, big steps have been made in improvin' the things used in buildin'.
Go through any house bein' built or repaired today and make the comparisons. You'll see that it's true.

The days of substitutes and old fashioned manufacturin' methods are gone, and the better quality is plain to be seen.

New materials have been introduced and perfected.
And some of them are better than anythin' of the kind that was ever made before.

Look at the prices and compare them carefully with the old ones.
You'll be pleased 'cause you'll see that, for your dollar, compared to what it will buy in any other line, you're gettin' real value today.

You can pick and choose more this year. At least if you do your pickin' and choosin' at the place where they've got a big variety at reasonable prices—and of course, I mean at Hicks's.

Shelters Poultry

Experimental Farm News) Shelters are regarded as necessary equipment by progres sive poultrymen. They provide quarters for growing stock and for breeders which are conditioned for the fol lowing breeding season. Fortu nately, they provide shelter at low cost and they simplify the prob lem of caring for a large number of birds under conditions favor able to the development of a healthy flock.
Many different types of shelter are in use but they should all be constructed in such a way that they can be moved to a new location when necessary. The lar gest shelters which are too heavy to be moved by hand should be fitted with runners to facilitate moving.
Shelters can be fitted with hinges and rollers which will permit them to be moved a short distance from one place to another. This is a valuable feature in the small flock. The larger shelters are usually placed in the desired posi tion in the spring and are left there all summer. They are more easily moved than the larger shelters, and the chickens can be caught more readily, with the aid of a wire catcher, from the door. Moreover, chickens seem to prefer roosting in a smaller shel ter, judging by observation of the Experimental Farm flock.
Plans for this shelter are avail able from the nearest Dominion Experimental Station, or from the Information Service, Domini

new location the following spring.
It is customary to place a slat ted floor or heavy fox wire un der the roosts to prevent con tact with the droppings in the shelter. The use of fox wire has the advantage of encouraging the birds to use the roosts be cause they dislike resting on wire.
Roosting on the ridge of the roof can be discouraged by giving sufficient pitch to the roof and by building the roof of hard, smooth material such as hard pressed waterproof fibre board, painted. Birds which acquire good roosting habits give very little trouble in this respect when placed in the laying house.
Three common sizes of range shelters are 10 by 12, 10 by 10 and 6 by 8 feet, and they will accommodate approximately 200, 150 and 80 pullets respectively.
The largest shelter should defi nitely be fitted with runners and it may be advisable to provide an entrance at each end. The intermediate size may be built of light material, and if the base is built as a separate section from the top, two men can carry the smallest size a short distance.
The shelter at the Dominion Ex perimental Station, Fredericton,
N. B., says Leonard Griesbach, Poultry Assistant, and it finds favor particularly with small and medium size flock owners. It is # High Taxes. Heavy Surpluses and Huge Debts!

It sounds like a serious subject — "PROVINCIAL-MUNICIPAL RELATIONS." And it is serious.
It hits you where it hurts—in your pocketbook, and in your independence.
BUT THE GOVERNMENT BOOKKEEPERS DO A GOOD JOB OF SHIFTING THE BLAME FROM THE MACDONALD REGIME TO YOUR LOCAL, MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT—TO YOUR LAND
LORD—YOUR SHOPKEEPER—EVEN TO YOURSELF.
In villages, towns, cities and counties, TAX RATES HAVE BEEN GOING UP AND UP—AND RENTS GO UP AFTER THEM.

The People Pay—Every Time!

The tenant—just as much as the landlord—is entitled to know why property taxes and other municipal taxes are rising.
AND WHAT CONNECTION THIS HAS WITH THE MACDONALD GOVERNMENT'S SURPLUS OF $4,875,000 IN 1949 AND ITS MOUNTING BURDEN OF DEBT.
On paper a surplus looks fine. But the Macdonald government has pyramided its gross debt by an additional $56,000,000 since 1937. We'll be paying for that debt for the next 50 years, or more.
The word "municipality" simply means YOUR COMMUNITY.
And your community has taken the biggest trimming of all from the Macdonald government!
POLICE AND FIRE PROTECTION, WATER SUPPLY, SCHOOLS, STREETS, SIDEWALKS, SEWERAGE, HOSPITALS, JAILS AND COUNTY HOMES sound dull and uninteresting. But you and your community must have them. They're more important to you than most provincial or federal government services.

They've Acted Just Like Ottawa!

Acting in concert with Ottawa, the Macdonald government has cut off important sources of local revenue and has taken over the effective power of municipal government.
In provincial-municipal relations, THE MACDONALD GOVERN MENT HAS DONE EXACTLY THE SAME THING FOR WHICH ITS LEADER HAS CONDEMNED OTTAWA WITH RESPECT TO FED ERAL-PROVINCIAL RELATIONS. It has centralized power in its own hands, and revenue too.

It's Your Pocket Book!

Under the Dominion-Provincial "agreements", Nova Scotia was granted an "allowance" of some $10,627,000. The municipalities had a just claim for a fair share of the $10,627,000.
Recognizing this, New Brunswick laid down a scale of flat rates to pay off its towns, villages, cities and counties. Our sister prov ince gave back $2,055,000 to the municipalities from a smaller grant than the Macdonald government got. THE MACDONALD GOVERNMENT GAVE ONLY $784,000, plus the difference in the cost of maintaining T.B. patients between 1946 and 1947.

And Then The Surplus!

Having got $10,627,000 and having parted with less than a tenth of that, THE MACDONALD GOVERNMENT REPORTED A SURPLUS
OF $4,875,000.
In December, 1947, the municipal governments submitted to the
Macdonald regime A SET OF PROPOSALS SUGGESTING REVISION OF TAX REVENUES AND GOVERNMENT RESPONSIBILITIES.
YOUR COMMUNITY—AND ALL THE COMMUNITIES IN NOVA SCOTIA—HAVEN'T YET HAD THE COURTESY OF A REPLY FROM THE MACDONALD REGIME! SEVENTEEN MONTHS IS A LONG TIME, EVEN FOR A GOVERNMENT, TO ANSWER A SERIOUS QUESTION.

Stanfield Talks Common Sense!

This provincial-municipal problem affects everybody—YOU INCLUDED. The Macdonald government has tried to avoid the issue by a gift here, a hospital there, AND NOTHING ELSEWHERE, but fair-minded citizens want fair play and fair treatment for all communities.

Robert Stanfield pledges orderly and fair distribution of public revenue. Municipal governments will be restored their right to plan their work, and to meet their bills, without taking dictation from centralized authority in Halifax.

Continue Report on County Survey

(This week the County Surveyor, Mr. J. H. Dymond, continues his survey of Digby County, which is being conducted by the University of New Brunswick. Portions of this report have been carried in previous issues of the Courier and others will appear in future issues.)

PART I

LAND, SEA AND PEOPLE

The Land and Sea

Digby County, situated at the western tip of the Canadian Province of Nova Scotia, is divided into two Municipalities, Digby, which contains 208,000 acres and Digby, which contains 412,160 acres, making a total of 620,160 acres, or almost 1,000 square miles.

When Digby Neck and Islands are included the county has an area of approximately 200 miles of water shore line and about 75 miles of forest boundary. This indicates that the population of the area has considerable access to the sea for the purpose of making a living. At least one-tenth of the area is covered by forest which is used up to the other great natural resource, the remainder of the land is agricultural. The area is of exceptional fertility and a great deal of very poor being hilly and rocky. The large majority of the population is located within a mile of the water which reveals the heavy dependence of the people on the sea as an economic resource in addition to their reliance on it for transportation—at least in the days of early settlement.

One of the concentrations of population is in and around the town of Digby because it is advantageously located with respect to the Gap leading out of the natural harbour formed by the Annapolis Basin. Population is also relatively dense at Bear River because it is at the head of a tidal water inlet extending for some five miles into the interior. People settled here in connection with shipping the timber resources of the interior by way of sailing vessels. The fishing villages of Digby Neck and Islands developed around coves and sheltered places where the passage of the ocean. The French speaking population concentrations, along the shore of St. Mary's Bay and the Digby Neck, are determined to a great extent by historical and cultural factors, in contrast to the attraction of geographic advantages in English speaking portions of the area. All inland settlements seem much more haphazardly located either in relation to soil fertility or as bridgeheads for the tapping of the timber resources of the interior.

Continue Report on County Survey

This week the Courier presents a further installment of the Dymond Report on the survey of Digby County made by William and Rosalind Dymond of Queen's University. Last week's portions of this report have been carried in previous issues of The Courier and readers will appreciate the continuity of the survey.

PART I

LAND, SEA and PEOPLE

The Land and Sea

Digby County, situated at the Western tip of the Canadian Province of Nova Scotia, is divided into two Municipalities, Clare, which contains 208,000 acres and Digby, which contains 412,160 acres, making a total of 620,160 acres, or almost 1,000 square miles.

When Digby Neck and Islands are included the county has approximately 200 miles of tide water shore line and about 75 miles of forest boundary. This indicates that the population of the area has considerable access to the sea for the purpose of making a living. At least eight tenths of the area is covered by forest which makes up the other great natural resource. The remainder of the land is agricultural, some of it of exceptional fertility and a great deal very poor being hilly and rocky. The large majority of the population is located within a mile of the water which reveals the heavy dependence of the people on the sea as an economic resource in addition to their reliance on it for transportation—at least in the days of early settlement.

One of the concentrations of population is in and around the town of Digby because it is advantageously located with respect to the Gap leading out of the natural harbour formed by the Annapolis Basin. Population is also relatively dense at Bear River because it is at the head of a tide water inlet extending for some five miles into the interior. People settled here in connection with shipping the timber resources of the interior by way of sea-going vessels. The fishing villages of Digby Neck and Islands developed around coves and sheltered places such as the passages between the islands which afford protection from storms of the sea. The French speaking population concentrations, along the shore of St. Mary's Bay in Clare, are determined to a great extent by historical and cultural factors in contrast to the attraction of geographic advantages in English speaking portions of the area. All inland settlements seem much more haphazardly located either in relation to soil fertility or as bridgeheads for the tapping of the timber resources of the interior.

Digby Welcomes Prime Minister

A crowd of well over a thousand persons gathered at the pier here Thursday to welcome Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent as he arrived on the Princess Helene to begin a tour of Nova Scotia.

At the Rural High School the Prime Minister was introduced to the gathering by His Worship, Mayor H. M. Turnbull. He spoke briefly to the pupils urging them to become well grounded in the knowledge of their democratic rights and duties as citizens of a free land.

Thanks of the gathering were expressed to Mr. St. Laurent by Deputy Mayor Victor G. Cardoza. School Principal F. C. Purdy stated he would be glad to comply with the Prime Minister's request that a half holiday be granted.

IVING CANADIANS THROUGH CHEMISTRY

"Chemistry?"

IT DOESN'T MEAN A THING TO ME!"

If YOU WERE a farmer it might seem that way at first glance. But take another look!

Those fine crops, which mean so much to Canada's health and economy, often depend upon chemical fertilizers. Weed and pest destroyers, orchard sprays too, are but a few of the services that chemical research extends to agriculture.

Through good times and bad, the chemical industry plows a straight furrow, ever moving forward to create better things for farm, industry and home. Look to chemistry with confidence for a finer future... and to the C-I-L oval symbol of an organization devoted to serving Canadians through chemistry.

For instance:
HERBATE
Among the many contributions of chemistry to agriculture and horticulture is the killer, "Herbate" that eliminates mustard-weed, dandelions, plantain and other weeds without harming grain or grass. It is a product of Canadian Industries Limited, Head Office, P.O. Box 10, Montreal.

That is one of the reasons why the Maritimes are noted for producing and exporting brains.

Many of these students will be unable to continue their studies unless summer employment is available for them.

Also, many graduates are seeking permanent job openings.

Among the graduates and undergraduates are many war veterans—some with family responsibilities.

Standards Are Important.

For many years Canada has enforced a system of standards for the guidance of the buying public, yet it sometimes is surprising to learn how few people use these government yardsticks to gauge the value they are likely to receive from various purchases.

In buying men's shirts, for example, everyone looks for the collar size and many people stop when they have found the appropriate neck measurement. Yet there is a second equally important measurement to be considered in a well-fitting man's shirt—the length of the sleeve. The latter, expressed by the numbers 33, 34, or 35. Sleeves to fit men with shorter-than-usual arm lengths are marked 33; 34 is pretty much a standard size and 35 is suitable for tall men or men with long arms. All these figures are detailed on the neckband of the shirt, so watch for them next time you buy.

Women generally are acutely aware of the different widths and sizes to be had in shoes, but men as a rule are not so well acquainted with the particular type of shoe that will suit them best. They usually are content to tell the clerk, "I wear a size nine," without any mention of the suitable width. In shoes, AAAA is the designation for a very narrow shoe; anything but a wide shoe. The value of having government standards for industries to meet is well illustrated in the case of canned goods. "Fancy" quality goods in cans must conform to rigid specifications so that when a purchaser buys "fancy" quality, he or she may be confident that the fruit, vegetable or other product in the can will be of highest quality. Goods which do not quite measure up to "fancy" standards are labelled "choice." In most cases these two are the grades in greatest demand by the buying public. "Standard" quality denotes the next highest grading and in a few cases the sale of "substan-

"dard" goods is allowed in this country. Meat, likewise, is graded to pre-arranged government specifications. Thus "red label" meat is of highest quality, while "blue label" is the next best. In this case the grading and stamping of the meat is done by government employees. In every case, the public may be sure their interests are being protected, for that is the purpose of setting the standards in the first place.

More Jobs—More Income

More people are working than in any previous peacetime period—nearly a million more than in 1939. National income is three times as high as in 1939, is more widely distributed than ever before.

More Savings

People have nearly 2½ million more bank accounts than before the war. They have set aside more than 1 billion dollars in personal bank savings.

More Production and Trade

The products of our farms and forests, factories and mines and fisheries are worth twice as much as ten years ago. And Canada's exports are more than four times greater. Canada is the world's third largest trading nation.

More Family Allowances

The federal government has, since 1945, invested one billion dollars in Canada's children. Four million boys and girls in 1½ million families are receiving a better start in life. Benefits are being extended this year.

National Health

Health grants to provinces are helping to build a stronger nation. Many projects are already under way: nine provinces wide health surveys; 13,300 additional hospital beds; training for health specialists; increased health services and research.

More Old Age Pensions

Federal payments have been twice increased since 1945. The new pension basis is now increased to $40.00 a month, providing greater comfort and security for the aged and blind.

Aid to Home Builders

Close to 300,000 dwellings have been built since the war. More homes have been built in Canada, in proportion to population, than in any other country, and more were built last year than any time in our history.

And lowered taxes as well!

By careful administration, the Liberal government has established these records and been able to cut the national debt by 1,625 million dollars. And every budget since 1945 has announced lowered rates of taxation.

DIGBY COUNTY SURVEY CONTINUED

2. The People

(a) Historical Origins.

The part of Nova Scotia in which Digby County lies has an old and rather well recorded history. The early inhabitants found here by the first explorers were the Micmac Indians. Very few of these people remain in the county today, only 69 according to the 1941 census figures. Most of the

2,157 Micmacs still in Nova Scotia are to be found at the Shubenacadie Reservation 38 miles outside of Halifax. The few Indian families who remain in Digby County are to be found at Ohio, Bear River, Ectanogog, and Maxwellton, all except Bear River) small back country settlements. One or two families commonly camp near the town of Digby in summer.

The first settlers from the old world to become established in the county in any numbers were the French Acadians who were expelled from the neighboring Annapolis Valley in 1755. In 1768 some of these people who had walked back to Annapolis from the New England States, finding their former land occupied by English people, settled at St. Bernard's, Bellevue's Cove and Groceries Coques on St. Mary's Bay. Here, too, settled some Acadians who had hidden in the woods during the expulsion, thus starting the settlement now known as the "French Shore" in the municipality of Clare. These lands were surveyed for the French by the English Governor and sold to them beginning in 1775. The lots fronting on the shore and reaching back 3½ miles formed the long narrow lots with houses near the shore which are today characteristic of this region. This area, stretching 40 miles from Weymouth to Beaver River, is today made up almost exclusively of descendants of the original Acadians. This group now makes up approximately half of the population of Digby County, or 9,060 of the 19,472 total.

The English population of the county is for the most part made up of descendants of United Empire Loyalists who left the United States after the Revolutionary War because of their desire to live in a country loyal to Great Britain. The majority of these settlers were brought from New York and the New England States in 1783-4.

Of the present residents of Digby County, 8,646 give their racial origin as either English, Irish, Scotch or Welsh. Many of these bear the names of those who were originally granted land in return for services to the Crown. Although today the English Protest United Empire Loyalists and the French Catholic Acadians make up the two major ethnic groups, there is another ethnic group of considerable importance, although of small proportions. This is the Negro population of which 715 were living in the county at the time of the 1941 census. Many of these people came originally from the United States with the Loyalists as slaves and were freed here. Others came at the time of the Civil War by way of the underground railway. Still others came from the West Indies during the days when the sailing ships of Nova Scotia plied their trade with these islands. The colored people live in communities of their own at Conway, Jordantown, Weymouth Falls and Southville.

Those in the English part are mostly Baptists and the majority of the English and those near the French are Catholics. The only town in the county sufficiently large to be classed as an urban area is Digby itself which is now estimated to be about 2,000. This town was founded by loyalists from New England in 1783.

St. Patrick's Pupils Present Recital

On a beautifully decorated stage a program of piano, vocal selections and reading was presented to a full house at St. Patrick's convent on Friday night by pupils studying under the direction of the Sisters.

Evidence of the appreciation of the audience was shown in the much deserved applause accorded the pupils after each number rendered. Particularly was this so after the vocal duet, "I don't Want to Play in Your Yard" by Doreen Perry and Marjorie Belliveau.

Worthy of mention also was Hughena Rafuse who showed marked ability in her presentation of the vocal solo "Break O' Day." Choruses and a girls' trio completed the vocal numbers.

Helena Abbott gave a welcoming address which was followed by a reading on Music Appreciation by Jennylou Wallis. Much talent was portrayed by Jennylou in her expression and the manner in which she was able to hold the attention of her audience, conveying to them the same stirring emotion and appreciation of the fine art of music which the reading was meant to convey.

All the piano pupils of varying ages and grades showed excellent training and individual comment would be well deserved by many, particularly among the more advanced pupils who showed pronounced progress.

The piano selections were:

Dies In Hospital After Cycling Mishap

Believing death came as a result of a straightforward accident, Coroner Dr. J. R. McCleave of Digby said Sunday night that he felt there was no possibility of an inquest into the death of Keith Cosman, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cosman, of Weymouth North, who died in Digby Hospital Saturday afternoon without regaining consciousness from head injuries suffered in a bicycling accident Wednesday.

Charles Smith, 16, of Ashmore, remains unconscious and is still on the danger list, although authorities hope that his condition was "somewhat improved."

Both boys were thrown heavily to the ground and landed on their heads when their bicycle they were riding down the long, steep hill at Weymouth North last Wednesday night, lost the front wheel when it struck a gravel sideroad.

Surviving young Cosman are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cosman, Weymouth North; two sisters, Avis and Treva; and three brothers, Maurice, Bobby and Frederick, all at home.

The funeral was held from the Baptist Church at Weymouth North.

Large Turnout For Boxing, Wrestling

A capacity crowd thronged the new Digby arena Tuesday evening for the splendid fight card presented there by the Digby Recreation Commission.

In the wrestling match which climaxed the evening, Jerry Verge of the Wanderer's Club of Halifax took the Club title from Billy Boy Taylor in a championship match. Verge took the first fall fifteen minutes after the two husky maters came to grips. The second fall was taken by Taylor after a really rough and tumble battle during which both fighters took to the sawdust outside the ring.

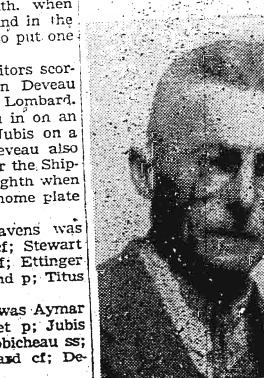

The final fall went to Verge when the referee gave the decision to the Wanderer's Club boy. Evidently dissatisfied with the decision, Taylor challenged the winner to another five minutes on the canvas, but the challenge was not accepted.

In the opening bout of the boxing card the decision went to young Bailey who put up a great scrap in the mosquito weight class. The second bout, between Bob Duncan, 125 lbs., of Yarmouth, and Ren Cowan, 115 lbs., of Digby, was declared a draw after three rounds of close fighting.

Boyd Bishop of Kentville took the next fight over Luke Erskine of Yarmouth. Erskine put up a good scrap but was outclassed by the heavier, bolder of the semi-final bout, Cormier of Kentville got the decision over Trefry of Yarmouth in a close fought battle.

In the final bout, Berlie McKinnon, 143 pounds of Kentville, scored a knockout over Lloyd Carr of Charlottetown in what proved to be the most thrilling packed bout of the whole evening.

Charge Seaman Following Fracas

Preliminary hearing was opened here yesterday afternoon in the charge of grievous bodily harm laid against a Parrishboro seaman, Earl Parker, following a fracas aboard the motor vessel, General Drury, which is tied up at the spur pier taking on a cargo of lumber.

The offence out of which the charge arose allegedly occurred aboard the General Drury on Monday night when Miss Alfreda Peach of Newfoundland was, according to evidence, found in the cabin of the accused in a dazed condition, badly beaten about the face.

According to evidence given yesterday afternoon by Laurie Blenkhorn, crew member of the motor vessel, he and his cabin mate heard a choking sound issuing from the cabin of the accused and, fearing he might be ill, went to the cabin. When they gained admittance they found the young woman lying on the floor in a semi-conscious condition.

Blenkhorn stated the accused was standing in the cabin and that he was badly under the influence of liquor and that he asked him (Blenkhorn) and his cabin mate to help in throwing the young woman overboard. The two men refused and the witness stated Parker then said he would do it himself if they would say nothing.

Witness then stated he and his mate contacted the engineer who went to get the skipper to call the police. They remained on watch until the police arrived, when the young woman was taken to hospital. He stated when he saw the woman in the accused's cabin this was the first knowledge he had of her being aboard the ship.

The hearing was adjourned until next week when the condition of the woman is expected to be such that she can give evidence.

Well Known Dartmouth Man Passes

One of Dartmouth's best known and respected citizens, William V. "Billie" Wheby, building contractor, died recently at his home, 7 Pine Street, following a short illness.

News of Mr. Wheby's death will come as a shock to a wide circle of friends and business associates. He had been in good health until about a week ago when he was stricken with a heart attack while on a fishing trip with two of his grandchildren.

The son of a contractor, Mr. Wheby carried on the business established before him by his father, the late William Edmund Wheby. Born in Dartmouth, Mr. Wheby played a leading part in the development of his community and he took a keen and active interest in all its affairs.

One of the best known sportsmen in the harbor town, he was not a participant but was a keen follower and backer of baseball, hockey and harness racing. His elder sons, Eric and Harry Wheby, who followed him in the contracting business, also follow in the footsteps of their father as keen sportsmen. Eric for many years operated an out-door skating and hockey rink, while Harry performed with leading hockey teams, including Halifax Wolverines and Sydney Millionaires.

William V. Wheby is the third son of William Edmund Wheby to pass away within the past year. Two other brothers, Ned Wheby and Fred Wheby were mourned in recent months.

Deceased was a member of St. Peter's C.T.A. and B. Society and a member of St. Peter's Parish.

Surviving besides Mrs. Wheby, the former Winnifred Cooper, are one brother, John F. Wheby of Dartmouth and six sisters, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Douglas Mills, and Miss Josephine Wheby, all of Dartmouth, Mrs. Douglas Thompson, Miss Ethel Wheby and Miss Theresa Wheby, all of Montreal.

The sons are, Eric, contractor of Dartmouth; Harry, who operates a guide and camping organization at Musquodoboit Harbor, and Frank Wheby at home. Miss Margaret Wheby, R.N., with the V.O.N. in Digby, N. S., is a daughter. There are six grandchildren.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. John Murphree, President. Mrs. Eric Cozma was the Recording Secretary. ## Don't Snap It!

(Boston Post, May 20, 1949) Wait! Don't snap that lighted cigarette from your car window. The lighted stub, landing on the roadway, can be carried into the brush. The motorist, speeding on his way, has gone many miles when, behind him, there has started a roaring woods fire. The cigarette or cigar, disposed of thoughtlessly, has provided the spark.

Valuable timber land is destroyed. Homes come in the path of the flames. Firefighters labor for hours. Homes criss-cross the highways. Traffic stalls. Volunteers with brooms and buckets help combat the flames. Sometimes lives are lost. All because some individual has dropped a lighted cigarette, or burns rubbish outdoors, or in some other careless manner starts a fire when the woods are tinder dry. Only heavy rain can relieve the present danger. Meanwhile—don't snap that cigarette from the car window. Stamp it out!

It's Cold

It's very cold in the home of Tipani Hermanoff, 3, of Rovaniemi in Finnish Lapland. The child's home is made of thin wooden lathes, with sawdust and paper insulation against the weather which, when this picture was taken, was twelve degrees below zero. When a CARE representative arrived to interview the family at three p. m. one afternoon, this child and his four sisters and brothers had eaten only a spoonful of porridge and dry bread all day.

Tipani and other Finnish children like him will benefit from the late children's day appeal for Finland, sponsored by Canadian Committee for CARE. Contributions in any amount, all fully tax-deductible, may be sent to Canadian CARE at 73 Albert St., Ottawa, earmarked for Finnish children.

OBITUARY

Keith C. Cosman

Funeral services were conducted on May 23 by the Rev. E. C. Churchill, of Digby, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis W. Cosman of Weymouth North, for their son, the late Keith Cooke Cosman, who passed away at the Digby General Hospital on Friday, May 20.

The deceased was a young man of eighteen years, and news of his passing is a shock to his grief-stricken family and a host of surviving friends.

Keith was a popular young man of sterling character and kind disposition, and will long be remembered as the finest of young men.

Besides his parents he is survived by two sisters, Avis (Mrs. Bernard W. Manzer) of Weymouth North; Treva (Mrs. Donald Manzer), Ashmore; four brothers, Lawrence, Westphal, Halifax Co.; Russell of Weymouth North, and Robert and Frederick at home.

Floral tributes were many and beautiful, testifying to the esteem in which Keith was held.

Interment was made in the Riverside Baptist Cemetery at Weymouth North.

30 New Members

In Church

A meeting of the Official Board of the Digby Neck-Weymouth United Church was held at the Barton-Brighton Church recently, with a large representation from all the churches present. Regret was expressed for the absence of Mr. Blair Dakin, treasurer of the Sandy Cove district, who has recently been a patient at the Digby Hospital.

Reports from the various Churches showed good work being accomplished, especially at Centreville where a new electric organ has been installed at a cost of $800.00, all of which has been paid, and in Sandy Cove where extensive repairs have been made to the choir platform and chairs.

Rev. R. J. Knock reported 30 new members taken into the Church this year.

The next official board meeting is to be held in November.

Receives Honorary

Among those on whom honorary degrees were conferred at the Graduating Exercises of St. Francis Xavier was Allen Frecker, brother of Rev. Charles Frecker, parish priest of St. Joseph's Church, Weymouth.

He made a two years survey of the education organization of all Canadian provinces. Last summer completed a survey of Labrador and its educational needs. He is also a well known lecturer on education, political and historical subjects.

Rev. Charles Frecker of Weymouth attended these exercises at Antigonish, N. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brooks have recently moved into their new home at Weymouth Mills. Mr. Brooks is an employee of the Power Board.

Mrs. M. O. Tibert and two children, Constance and Melvin, spent Thursday of last week with her sister, Mrs. K. M. Hankinson and Mr. Hankinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. M. Ellis of Port Maitland, Yar. Co., who have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. P. K. Gates and Mr. Gates, have returned home.

Mrs. H. A. Blackadar has returned home after spending several weeks in Halifax. She was accompanied by her granddaughter, Shirley Hue, of Halifax.

A number of friends from Sandy Cove and Centreville spent the day on Thursday with Mrs. J. Knock at the United Church Parsonage. In the afternoon a meeting of representatives from the Ladies' Aids of each society on the Digby Neck-Weymouth Circuit was held.

Those interested in the results of the Red Cross Drive held in the spring will be pleased to learn that the amount of $609.29 has been forwarded to Halifax by the chairman of the drive, Mr. J. H. Matheson. A box of clothing and quilts has been provided by this branch for Mr. and Mrs. John Young, recent victims of fire at Riverdale.

Tourist Season

No Harsh Laxatives in Two Years!

Man Finds Relief With Famous Cereal

If you are nagged by constipation worries, read this unsolicited letter:

"Constipation cost me plenty of money for strong remedies but since I started eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly over two years ago, I haven't had to take any laxative. Doing fine, feeling fine! Wish everyone troubled as I was by constipation would try it." W. J. Riley, Molson, Manitoba.

Constipated due to lack of bulk in your diet? You may find relief from sluggishness and taking harsh laxatives. For natural results, try eating an ounce (bowlful) of crisp, tasty ALL-BRAN every day. It's a delicious regulating food, not a purgative. Try one package and if it doesn't help you, you can get double your money back. Simply return empty box to Kellogg's, London, Ont.

This Is A Bed

This hard bench, covered with one ragged blanket, is a bed for the Matikainens family of Vuokseniska, Finland. Although Tauno, 5, and his sister, Pirjo, 2, are sitting on the bed for a picture, it is not for them. They sleep in wooden boxes on the floor, since there are only three beds for the ten members of the family. The floor is cold in the winter, and the Matikainens have no mattresses.

Food and clothing are scarce for these children too, but they won't be quite so scarce in the future if generous Canadians respond to Canadians CARE's Children's Day Appeal for Finland, which will bring packages to the neediest cases during the last week in May. Contributions in any amount will be welcomed by Canadian Committee, for CARE, 73 Albert Street, Ottawa. All such contributions are tax-deductible.

Nova Scotia FARM & NEWS

IFAP Delegates

Enroute To Guelph

Plans for the third annual conference of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers have now been completed. Colin Groff, Secretary of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, advises and all indications are that the conference will be the most successful ever held by the international organization which numbers representatives from over thirty nations in its membership. The conference will open at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, on May 31, and conclude 10 days later.

Outstanding figures in the international farm organization field will be present at the sessions over which Sir James Turner of Britain will preside. It is also possible that Lord Orr, former Director-General of FAO for three years, may also be present. Other delegates will include H. D. Louwes, President of the Netherlands Farm Federation; P. Martin, President of the French farm federation; Lord Francis Scott of Kenya; Kenneth Knowles, Secretary-General of the British Farmers' Union; Alan Kline, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation; James Patton, President of the National Farmers' Union of the United States; Albert Goss, President of the National Range of the United States; A. Hoegsbroholm, for many years Secretary of the Danish Agricultural Council; Professor A. E. Sandelin of Finland; Vincent Phelan of the International Labour Office; Professor N. G. Ranga, who heads a party of eight from India and, in addition, delegates from Belgium, Luxembourg, South Africa, Southern Rhodesia, New Zealand, Jamaica, and so on. All in all, it looks as though every leading agricultural organization in the world will have representation at Guelph.

Several of the delegates will be spending the week-end in Nova Scotia and while here will be the guests of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing and the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association. While in Halifax, the group will be taken on a harbour cruise and will have an opportunity to inspect Canada's number one aircraft carrier, HMCS Magnificent, Monday noon, the group will be entertained at a Department of Agriculture and Marketing Luncheon, Kentville, following which they will be motored to Truro in time to catch the Maritime Express.

Seeding Operations in Full Swing

Generally speaking, the weather has been fine for the past couple of weeks and Nova Scotia farmers have been making the most of their opportunities. Seeding is now in full swing and — to use the words of Ed MacPhee, agricultural representative for Cumberland — "is progressing as rapidly as humanly possible". In the western portion of the province, roughly three-quarters of the crops are in the ground. In the eastern counties, seeding will be quite general there next week, now that warm winds have had a drying effect on some of the heavier soils.

Hay and pasture crops continue to look good and little if any winter killing has been reported from any district in the province. In the Annapolis Valley, the early varieties of apple trees are just about in full bloom which is somewhat earlier than anticipated. Some fear was expressed early this week that the blossom set had suffered serious damage by some rather severe frosts on two successive nights but reports from Gerry Smeltzer and Don White indicate that damage has been light. Apple Blossom Sunday is scheduled for the week-end of June 5th, but it appears there will be a lot of bloom in the valley before that.

Range Nests
Birds are usually moved in from the range shelter to laying quarters when they are laying about 15%. If range nests are not provided, F. G. Proudfoot, Poultry Husbandman, point out that a large number of eggs will be lost, besides, the use of range nests starts the laying pullets on good nesting habits. These nests can be easily made from rough lumber or orange crates with a fairly tight roof, or the nest used in the laying pen may be so constructed that they are movable and can be used out on the range.

Canadian Agriculturists In Britain

Kenneth Cox, Principal of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, is now in Britain where, as a member of a group of Canadian technical agriculturists, he will study agricultural policies and agricultural services in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland. The party, whose members are drawn from different parts of Canada and are representative of the different phases of Canadian agriculture, is making the tour at the request of the British Ministry of Agriculture. The party will return early in July.

Heading the delegation is Dr. K. W. Neatby, Director, Science Services, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, who will have as his associates — in addition to Mr. Cox — Pierre Labrecque, Director, Livestock Branch, Quebec Department of Agriculture; Dr. G. N. Runke, Director of Research, Ontario Department of Agriculture; S. Sinclair, Associate Professor of Agricultural Economics, University of Manitoba; M. E. Hartnett, Deputy Minister, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Saskatchewan; and Dr. J. C. Berry, Associate Professor of Animal Husbandry at the University of British Columbia.

Dr. Cumming's Operation Successful

Dr. M. Cumming, former principal of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, who went to Boston recently to have cataracts removed, reports that his operation has been a success and that, although he does not know just how well he will be able to see eventually, his vision has been improved. He and Mrs. Cumming are expected to return to Nova Scotia in about three weeks time.

Limestone Use Up

These figures are a little out of date, and it is a certainty that Dr. W. V. Longley, Director, Extension Services, could supply more up-to-date statistics if requested, but they are being quoted here to show how limestone shipments this year compare with those during the similar period of 1948.

Total shipments of ground limestone during the first portion of the fiscal year ending April 30th, show that over 12,000 tons have been shipped in comparison with something under 9,000 tons a year ago. This is a record movement, and one that has been brought about chiefly by the fact that over 6,000 tons moved out in April as against 3,000 tons last year.

Over eighty percent of the limestone purchased was shipped into the Valley counties with Kings taking over 6,000 tons, Annapolis over 2,500 and Hants about 1,500. The good agricultural areas are the ones who are buying the limestone. This should be an example for many of the many other districts in the province to follow for there is a connection between good farming and limestone. Sometimes it takes some little time for all districts to appreciate this.

Forest Fires On The March

Forest fires are on the march again this year and to date roughly 2,000 acres of Nova Scotia woodland has been burned over. Fortunately, no really good stands of timber have yet been destroyed but it is a foregone conclusion that some good timber will be destroyed in the not-too-distant future unless more care is taken to control camp fires and slash fires.

What many do not appreciate, however, points out Hon. A. W. Mackenzie, Minister of Lands and Forests, is that these early spring fires really do more damage than is usually apparent. For instance, the top soil is usually so badly scorched that it is devoid of humus with the result that the soil is practically useless from a crop production standpoint. Then, too, the ground fires destroy seedlings and young trees and the growth that comes later is likely to be of less valuable species than those burned.

Forest fires usually result from carelessness and are rare where people appreciate the value of the forest and take steps to protect it. However small may be the probability of a fire in a woodlot surrounded by cultivated land, it is well not only to take great care to prevent its probability but, in fine weather, always to be ready with a plan

Margolian's Open Basement Department

Margolian's Digby branch store which was established here last year under the management of Mr. Benjamin Shane, who has had over forty years experience in catering to the buying public has extended its store premises to include a modern, up-to-date basement department.

The new basement department, which is to be under the able and competent management of Miss Olive Lewis, who came to the Digby branch of Margolian's from Yarmouth, is a most attractive addition to the store. Fully renovated and redecorated, the new department will house the ladies' wear, footwear, and smallware departments of the store. Attractive counter displays have been erected and wide aisle space has been provided for customers. In the boot and shoe section fitting chairs have been provided and the large stock of footwear is attractively displayed.

The main floor of the store has also been rearranged and will cater exclusively to Men's wear, featuring quality lines.

Whitsunday of Special Significance to Anglicans This Year

Not only will the Church of England celebrate Whitsunday as the birthday of the Church this year, but also as the 400th anniversary of the English Prayer Book. It was on Whitsunday, 1549 that the Latin Mass was simplified and translated into English in the English Church. The daily services to be said by the clergy were likewise simplified and the ancient offices of Matins, Lauds, Vespers, Prime, Compline, Terce, Sext and None were compressed into two services, Matins and Evensong. And the occasional offices such as Baptism, Holy Matrimony and the Burial of the Dead were also published in the native tongue of the people.

"Something was done in 1549," says Philip Carrington, Archbishop of Quebec, "which had apparently never been attempted before. The age-old Christian traditions of service, sacrament and worship were arranged in one book. They were revised, of course, in the light of Bible knowledge and of the custom of the early Church, and given to us in our own language."

Whitsunday was chosen as the day to introduce the new Prayer Book because it was on the first Whitsunday, or Feast of Pentecost, that the strangers in Jerusalem did first "hear them speak in our own tongues the wonderful works of God."

There were several steps which led up to the formation of the English Prayer Book among which were the translations of the Bible into English by Tyndale and Coverdale and the great popularity of an English Litany composed by Archbishop Cranmer. An English Invitation, Confession and Absolution had also previously been added to the old Latin Mass. There have also been revisions of the Prayer Book since 1549 but these did not essentially alter its character.

Twice it was suppressed, first by the Roman Catholics under Queen Mary, and later by the Presbyterians under Cromwell, but the Englishman's love for his Prayer Book accounted to a large extent for the unpopularity of both these regimes and their speedy replacement with rulers more favorable to the English Church.

A special form of service of Thanksgiving for the 400 years of the Prayer Book has been authorized by Most Rev. G. F. Kingston, Archbishop of Nova Scotia and Primate of All Canada, and will be used in the Anglican Churches for the occasion.

Mrs. Norman Sullis of Smith's Cove was a guest on Sunday of her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Ruggles and Mr. Ruggles.

for immediate and effective action if a forest fire should occur.

From now on, Mr. Mackenzie advises, permits to burn must be secured from the local forest ranger before any fires may be set. If the farmer needs some help and assistance in burning, the local ranger will be glad to co-operate and assist in the burning so that the danger of forest fires may be minimized.

Since forest fire danger is usually greatest between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m., Mr. Mackenzie suggests that any burning that has to be done should not be undertaken until after 4 or 5 o'clock.

Military Service

The North Now Limited

Troops serving in the are, permitted to volunteer only one additional tour of one year and a survey of their establishments is being made to ensure that the garrison is being observed.

Although most of the radio stations and other establishments "north of 60" have been closed, the miles of wilderness, the living is higher and the expense, many troops prefer to stay there.

All northern stations have excellent quarters, with heating arrangements, their married quarters of some 10 and all northern personnel paid extra allowances to compensate for the high cost of living. These are not the only reasons why troops like to stay there. "It's something about the country that gets into a soldier," it says here, and they never want to leave. The Army's regulation limiting northern service.

Nova Scotia Farms Prosper UNDER LIBERAL GUIDANCE!

It was back in 1933 when the farmers of Nova Scotia finally discovered that the Insurance Agent who was acting as Tory Minister of Agriculture was no better qualified to handle their affairs than were the two Lawyers who preceded him. The electors eagerly endorsed the advice of the LIBERALS that year and since then have had a practical EXPERIENCED FARMER as head of a real Department of Agriculture.

But rather than dictate policies to the men on the land, members of the present administration concentrate on "helping Nova Scotian farmers help themselves". They believe that is the objective of the farmers and the best way to ensure for them a standard of living equal to that of those engaged in other occupations.

And here's evidence to show the success of this policy. Departmental chemists analyze the soil without charge, pre-scribing LIME where necessary. And the Government delivers it anywhere in the Province at $1.50 a ton to make Nova Scotia farms more productive.

In 1933 only 3,000 pounds of dressed poultry was marketed in Nova Scotia. In 1948, the farmers of the Province GRADED 1,500,000 pounds, of which 950,000 pounds were exported. In 1933 Nova Scotia imported millions of eggs. In 1948, 134,000 cases passed through our grading stations which, with 50,000 cases exported, provided the highest return per unit in Canada.

There is a constant battle against disease in cattle and livestock generally. A NEW VETERINARY SERVICE, unique in North America, establishes a flat rate of $2.50 a call whether the farmer lives one mile or 25 miles from the doctor's residence.

Purchase of BETTER HERD SIREs, use of CERTIFIED SEED; increased FORAGE CROPS—all these things are sponsored by the LIBERAL Government to bring new prosperity to Nova Scotia farms. Nova Scotia's APPLE INDUSTRY is being systematically rebuilt with thousands of dollars spent on grants for tree removal and stabilization of varieties—plus $1,400,000 to date for modern cold storage plants.

To keep farmers in constant touch with their Government's program, AGRICULTURAL REPRESENTATIVES cover all sections of the Province through the Extension Department.

These are some of the outstanding things the LIBERALS have accomplished for the farmers of this province. It's been a long, hard, uphill fight BUT IT HAS PAID OFF. By planned production and marketing, Nova Scotia has come a long way in pulling the farming industry up from the LOW LEVELS to which it had fallen during the Tory regime. The job has been well-done but just nicely begun, and the surest way to ensure a continuation of the present prosperity is to re-elect the men who have made it possible so far.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

In the past twelve years more than 80,000 persons living in the rural areas of Nova Scotia have received the benefits of Electric Power. If all the homes availed of this new system by the LIBERAL Government were assembled in groups they would be equivalent to FIVE OR SIX GOOD-SIZED TOWNS. And here are some of the benefits that accompanied the power lines:

Small rural industries of the Province now use cheap, clean electric power to turn their wheels and produce MORE goods quickly and efficiently.

The farmer's wife can now make use of the washing machine, kitchen appliances and other luxuries which until now have been beyond her reach. Power lightens the work of the rural homemaker.

Farm Homes can now shelve the flickering kerosene lamps and at the flip of a switch enjoy the same brilliant light their city cousins have had for years. The country side is cheerier, brighter.

Barns and barnyards glow with light and electric energy drives farm machinery to shorten hours and speed the work of the farmer.

Home and School

Meets

The Home and School branch of Church Point held its monthly meeting with a very good attendance. The feature of the meeting was the showing of films loaned by the film library of the Dept. of Education. The films were "Reforestation," "The Case of Charlie Gordon" and "Learning to Swim." They were greatly enjoyed and appreciated by everyone present.

Rev. O. Eichert spoke a few words of encouragement and stated that the Home and School Association had done a great deal of good in the District of Clare in late years and he hoped that they would continue to do so. He mentioned that every school should have a piano and he was pleased to see that the Church Point School had obtained a piano. He felt that music was an education in itself and it enabled the children to sing properly.

A piano in the school, besides enabling the children to play and sing is also of very great benefit in assisting to make the regular monthly meeting of the Home and School branch more interesting. It enlivens the meetings by such means as singing with music and having special piano solos played by different members.

Mrs. Edmond Melanson gave a detailed report on the rally held recently in St. Bernard's which proved interesting and instructive. The local branch has subscribed to the Canadian Home and School Magazine which should prove very beneficial in organizing interesting meetings.

It is noted that program material can be obtained by reading the pages of this magazine.

A nominating committee was elected for the purpose of selecting officers for the next term. They are Mrs. Edmond Melanson, Miss Adele Doucet, Miss Emmanuel Stuart. It was brought to the attention of the meeting that the Music Festival will be held on May 31 at Saunierville Hall.

A discussion panel will be organized for the next meeting to be held on June 15. The subject will be chosen at a later date. A discussion panel held at a previous meeting was so enthusiastically received by everyone that it was felt that another one should be organized before this term ends.

Oil in the driving gears

BANK CREDIT oils the driving gears of production industry and commerce. It helps to produce the goods and provide the services and jobs which mark the Canadian way of life.

"Money in the bank" is the foundation of credit. You and some seven million other depositors have nearly seven billion dollars in the chartered banks.

To pay for work done, goods produced, bought and sold, Canadians issue—every month—upwards of six billion dollars in cheques.

Cashing these cheques, making loans, discounting notes—in many different ways your bank keeps money and credit moving through all the channels of trade and opportunity... like oil in the machinery.

This whole vast, private, competitive, efficient process is made possible by your "money in the bank"—and by the experience and skill and integrity of the men and women on Canadian bank staffs.

Rally of Digby Co. Institutes at Bear River

Last Wednesday, May 18, was Rally Day for the Women's Institutes of Digby County, and with brilliant sunshine, and apple and cherry blossoms in all their glory, Bear River, living up to its reputation as one of the beauty spots of Nova Scotia, gave a royal welcome to the many delegates who arrived by car and chartered bus from Meteghan, Meteghan River, Concession, and Saulnierville.

The I.O.O.F. Hall was the scene of the Rally and with over seventy in attendance, the morning session got off to a start at about 11 o'clock, with Mrs. Raymond LeBlanc, Provincial first vice-president, presiding. The meeting opened with O Canada, Flag Salute, Institute Creed, and then Mrs. Charles Balser, president of the Bear River Institute, very graciously welcomed the visiting institute members.

Mrs. LeBlanc then read a telegram from Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Provincial President, who was unable to attend, and introduced the new Provincial Superintendent, Mrs. Florence Hilchey, and Miss McGowan of the Home Economics staff at Truro.

The Institute representatives, as announced during roll call, were: Bear River—Mrs. H. E. Harris, Sr., Mrs. Charles Green, Jr.; Smith's Cove—Mrs. F. Weir, Sr., Mrs. Alex McLean, Jr.; Concession and Lower Saulnierville—Mrs. Priscilla Comeau, Sr., Mrs. Rosie Doucet, Jr.; Meteghan—Mrs. David Tufts, Sr., Mrs. J. Louis Comeau, Jr.; Meteghan River—Mrs. E. M. Comeau, Sr., Mrs. M. F. Comeau, Jr.

The noon hour presented a busy scene, the long tables with their white cloths and bouquets of cherry blossoms set in readiness at the side of the hall, were soon groaning under the weight of picnic lunches and the hostess Institute served hot tea and coffee. Mrs. LeBlanc, Mrs. Hilchey and Miss McGowan were special guests at the Bear River table with Mr. Raymond LeBlanc at the head of the table.

The afternoon session commenced at 2 p.m. with a sing song led by Mrs. Balser with Mrs. Lent at the piano. The committee composed of Senior and Junior representatives of the several institutes, then announced the slate of officers for the District Executive as follows: President, Mrs. E. M. Comeau of Meteghan River; Vice-pres., Mrs. Alex McLean of Smith's Cove; 2nd Vice-president, Mrs. H. E. Harris of Bear River; Sec. Treas., Mrs. M. F. Comeau of Lower Saulnierville and the Senior Representative as directors.

Lower Saulnierville then presented a Fashion Show of attractive, well fitting and beautifully made dresses, suits and blouses made by their members following a sewing course last winter. Some of the members had never before sewn a stitch and couldn't even run a sewing machine.

Miss McGowan gave the intriguing story of Home Decorating, with color charts to illustrate her points, stressing the value of "Color in the Home."

Mrs. Hilchey addressed the meeting, covering various Institute activities and announced there were 189 branches in the Province with over 4000 members and that two committees had been added to the list, "Better Farm Housing" and "Legislation and Citizenship," and that this year the first scholarship in Home Economics would be awarded, to be called the Helen J. MacDougall Scholarship, honoring Miss MacDougall, now residing in Winnipeg, who had been N.S. Superintendent for 26 years and was the instigator of the scholarship fund.

A very fine film on Arts and Crafts was shown after which Mrs. Parry, a Women's Institute member of Wiltshire, England, who is visiting in town, was presented to the assembly, and in a few words she voiced the thanks of Britain to Canada for the so very welcome and badly needed food parcels received.

Mr. LeBlanc also was called on for a few remarks, and at 5 o'clock the Bear River Institute served tea, which brought to a close a day of real inspiration and great happiness for all in attendance.

UNCLE ED SAYS

See that the American Institute of Electrical Engineers had a meeting in New York where they talked about some new 'thinkin' machines some of their members have invented.

These thinkin' machines are a caution.

They multiply numbers like 6478,561 times 1,789,642,109, and they get the right answer in ten seconds.

They kin store up things they learn just like the human brain. That's gettin' angous for the human race, like.

In fact, some of the machines are so hush-like that one of the inventors couldn't come to the meetin' 'cause he couldn't hear to leave his "baby" alone, and he couldn't find a baby-sitter.

But out of all their talk came one ray of hope for us poor humans who have a hard time even multiplyin' 4678 by 7682 in our heads in ten seconds.

They said that a thinkin' machine that could do all the work of the little human brain would be about as big as the Empire State Building and would take all the electric power that they could get out of the Niagara Falls.

Which should make us feel a little better. Imagine, all the power that can be got out of Niagara Falls right in your own little head. Flatterin', et'?

Well, there's one thing the human brain kin do that their machines can't do. It kin figger out ways and means of gettin' a roof over its own. And that's somethin' the machine can't do, without the help of an itty bitty human brain.

But there's one rigin' the thinkin' machine has that it would be good for human brains to have, perhaps.

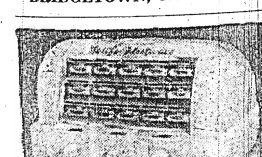

When it makes a mistake, lights come on and bells ring.

If the human brain did this and you decided not to go to Hicks' and let them help you get a new house, then there might be the greatest clangin' and flashin' you ever did see. Lights and bells might ring and flash all over town. The crashin' noise and the flashin' light might be deafenin' and blindin'.

The best way to make sure this doesn't happen is to decide now to talk right away about a new house, and to talk with...

Legion Urges Exercise Of Franchise

Lt. Col. L. D. M. Baxter, OBE, VD, of Winnipeg, Dominion President of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., announced the opening of a nation-wide campaign to urge the public to do its part in preserving democracy by voting on June 27th.

The Legion calls its campaign "Operation Vote" and operation orders have gone out to all of its 2000 branches in Canada, urging them to muster their forces for an all-out offensive against the enemies of democracy—Apathy and Indifference.

Col. Baxter pointed out that the Legion's membership was composed of men and women who had faced the enemies of freedom in time of war and helped to preserve our democratic way of life. He said that, in sponsoring the present campaign, the Legion is endeavouring to alert the Canadian public against the dangers facing a nation whose citizens become indifferent to their democratic responsibilities.

The Dominion President stressed the fact that the Canadian Legion as an organization is completely non-political and non-partisan, but is vitally interested in the maintenance of democratic principles.

There are over one and a half million people who obtained from voting in the last election, or one out of every four eligible, Col. Baxter said. There are eight million people eligible to vote in the coming election.

It is the duty of every citizen, the Legion leader said: (1) to acquaint himself with the questions at issue and the attitude of different parties; (2) to choose a party or support an independent candidate; (3) to take some part in selecting a candidate; (4) TO VOTE.

This is the only way in which the people at large can share in the government of the country, the Legion's national head asserted. Only by expressing their will at elections can they determine their future and maintain the principles of democracy.

Fear Curses Life Of People

Fear is one of the greatest curses of life in India, said Mrs. Gordon P. Bars, Mrs. Bars, fifty years as a Missionary in India under the Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board. During the war they were in charge of a large school in Coimbatore where there were 1500 students. When the Japanese came, they had to leave the school. Mrs. Bars said she had learned to have a new understanding of the Psalmists' trust in "The Lord is My Light and My Salvation."

Mrs. Bars was guest speaker at the semi-annual meeting of the Digby District W.M.S. of the Baptist Church held at Centerville on Tuesday. She reminded her audience that though in Canada we have fears, which are common to all people, in India the people live in constant fear. They fear their religion, the priests, who are arrogant and immoral; they fear death, cause of their doctrine of transmigration of souls. They constantly have fear of the dread diseases of cholera and leprosy. The Christian, said Mrs. Bars, with the message of the Gospel brings a peace of mind to India which is almost impossible to understand, unless has seen the change.

The meetings were under the direction of Mrs. J. V. Anderson, President. The Centre W.M.S. conducted the devotional service. Mrs. Harold M. all conducted the impressive, moral service. The societies presented included Acadia Hill Grove, Digby, Bear River, Little River, Centerville, N. Range, Smith's Cove, Tive Waterford, Westport and mouth. All of these gave a rapid report of progress the work of their local societies.

Real Opportunity for Youth - and Pensions for All at 65!

Do YOU want your children to be able to stay here in Nova Scotia, and to make a living HERE—or do you want them to grow up and go away to live in other provinces or states?

That same problem confronts Nova Scotians today, as it has for years.

THE SOLUTION IS HERE! New, able, inspiring leadership! Robert Stanfield, George Drew, and their associates are men of the same breed that made Canada a nation out of a forest wilderness—ready to prove their faith in the people by serving the people.

What does the Macdonald government offer? Short-sighted and defeatist policies which create just those conditions under which our ambitious youth have no choice but to seek opportunity outside Nova Scotia. Home industry is obliged to fight its battles alone, and a great industrial development like the Shell Oil is deliberately shut out of the province.

The Macdonald government and its political ancestors have held power for 70 out of the last 82 years since Confederation—the Premier won't let you forget it! From 1891 to 1948, Nova Scotia gained in population EACH YEAR at the pitiful over-all average rate of only SEVEN-TENTHS OF ONE PER CENT.

That's as close as a people can come to GOING BACKWARDS! It's been this way for three generations. THE RISING GENERATION LOOKS FOR A CHANGE.

Education and Industrial Growth Spell O-P-P-O-R-T-U-N-I-T-Y!

Gas and liquor sales provide the bulk of provincial revenues today. And it is right that they should provide a reasonable part of public revenues, so long as the province relies on gas and liquor to finance government service. BUT IS IT RIGHT THAT THE MACDONALD GOVERNMENT SHOULD BE SO DEPENDENT UPON GAS AND LIQUOR REVENUE THAT IT WOULD "GO BROKE" WITHOUT THEM?

Does it make sense that gas and liquor should maintain our Provincial Treasury? Of course it doesn't! We have rich, undeveloped resources—AND WE MUST HAVE MORE SELF-SUPPORTING INDUSTRIES, contributing to public revenue, and employing people who want to be self-supporting themselves in the land of their birth!

Two things we must have:

- (1) EQUALITY OF OPPORTUNITY FOR COUNTRY BOYS AND GIRLS WITH THE BOYS AND GIRLS OF THE TOWNS AND CITIES—AT ALL LEVELS OF EDUCATION; and
- (2) HIGH SCHOOLS THAT PREPARE OUR YOUTH TO EARN A GOOD LIVING.

Just as we want opportunity for ourselves, WE'VE GOT TO MAKE ROOM FOR THE NEXT GENERATION—their children will find room for themselves in other provinces and states.

Let's Chart A New Course!

With a far smaller average income than the average man living in Central Canada or British Columbia, THE AVERAGE NOVA SCOTIAN FACES THE HARD FACT THAT HE CAN'T AFFORD AS MUCH IN THE WAY OF GOVERNMENT SERVICES. He knows that he must have a bigger income before he can pay the government—AND HE WANTS A GOVERNMENT THAT WILL INCREASE HIS OPPORTUNITIES TO EARN MORE AND TO GIVE HIS OWN FAMILY MORE!

Do you want a HELPFUL government? The Macdonald government has proved itself thoroughly helpless in facing the challenge of the future. ROBERT STANFIELD PROVIDES THE ASSURANCE OF A HELPFUL AND CONSTRUCTIVE GOVERNMENT.

For years to come, we must concentrate on: (1) EDUCATION, and (2) INDUSTRIAL GROWTH TO PROVIDE EMPLOYMENT AND PROSPERITY. Progress in either direction depends upon progress in the other. THIS IS THE ONLY PRACTICAL ANSWER TO A BRIGHTER FUTURE FOR NOVA SCOTIANS.

Give Leadership A Chance!

From Cape Breton to Cape Sable, Nova Scotians are rallying behind Robert Stanfield—FOR STANFIELD IS THE MOST PROMISING LEADER NOVA SCOTIA HAS PRODUCED. His faith in his fellow Nova Scotians, and his own province inspires like faith in the rest of us.

ARE YOU CONTENT WITH THE MACDONALD GOVERNMENT WHICH DRIVES OUR YOUTH INTO EXILE? Or do you agree that it's wise to make the most of real leadership when it is offered to us? The Stanfield name stands for success—AND ROBERT STANFIELD STANDS FOR NOVA SCOTIA AT ITS BEST!

For the young and the old, better days lie ahead under the leadership of Stanfield. Not only is there hope for the young, but IMMEDIATE RELIEF FOR OLDER PEOPLE. Stanfield—like George Drew—is pledged to abolish the iniquitous "means test" and to make the Old Age Pension available to all at the age of 65 instead of 70.

The tide has turned. A CHALLENGE TOO GREAT FOR THE MACDONALD GOVERNMENT CALLS FOR THE LEADERSHIP OF A MAN LIKE STANFIELD. Without the chance to make a decent living, security is just an empty promise. And so—with faith in himself, and faith in you—Robert Stanfield pledges BETTER DAYS AND A BETTER LIFE FOR ALL NOVA SCOTIANS!

Back Stanfield For A Brighter Future!

Addresses

Pro-Con. Meet

George C. Nowlan, K.C.

Shown above, was speaker at a Progressive-Conservative Rally held in the Capitol Theatre on Monday night. Mr. Nowlan spoke in support of the provin-cial Pro-Con. candidate for the constituency, E. Keith Potter.

Pro-Cons Hold Digby Rally

E. Keith Potter, Progressive-Conservative candidate for this constituency in the forthcoming provincial election, addressed a capacity house at the Capitol Theatre here Monday night. The theatre was filled for the occa-sion with a large number unable to secure even standing room.

In a splendid address Mr. Pot-ter appealed for the support of those present at the polls on June 9th. He criticized the re-cord of the present administra-tion and stated they had, in his opinion, shamefully neglected this constituency. He pointed to the failure to pave the Digby Neck Road as an example of this neglect and stated the mat-ter of the failure to provide ade-quate ferry service and ferry ap-proaches at the Passages was al-so indicative of the lack of in-terest which, he stated, the pres-ent administration was exhibit-ing toward this area.

Mr. Potter devoted a portion of his address to the matter of the levying of fines on trucks for overloading, and called this "per-secution." He stated the law was outdated and outmoded and was working a great hardship on truck owners, particularly in this municipality where truck transportation of fish and wood products is a vital factor in the economy of the district. He said he was determined to do whatever possible to have this matter rec-tified and challenged his Liberal opponent to state his stand on the matter.

The candidate criticised the present government's stand on in-dustrial development and stated they were doing little to promote this in Nova Scotia. He chal-lenged anyone to name an in-duced where this municipality had been in any way benefited by government action in this direc-tion.

Mr. Potter closed by pledging his every effort, if elected, for the benefit of this constituency and its people. He derided what he stated was an unfair canvass being used against him that a government candidate could do more for the district than an op-position member. He said he would be, if elected, an opposition member, but stated even if this were so he felt he could do as much, if not more, than his op-ponent for the people he stat-ed. As an example he stat-ed that, ever since his nomina-tion, highway work in the con-stituency had been livened up and other programs, long lying dor-mant, started. "If this happens while I am only a candidate," he said, "how much more can we expect after I am elected?"

Following Mr. Potter's address, George C. Nowlan, K.C., M.P., addressed the gathering briefly. Mr. Nowlan urged support of the candidate and stated he felt the man best suited to rep-resent the constituency in Hal-ifax.

Chairman of the meeting was M. S. Leonard, President of the Digby Progressive-Conservative Association.

How They Voted Last Time

For the interest of its readers, the Digby Courier is present-ing this week the poll by poll figures of the last provincial general election for Digby County which was held in October, 1945. Three candidates were running at that time, K. E. Smith for the Conser-vatives, L. Outhouse for the C.C.F. and J. W. Comeau for the Lib-erals. The constituency included the whole of the county which has now, by the redistribution bill, been divided into two separate constituencies.

Pilgrims Attend Annual Service In Digby County

Hundreds flocked to St. Al-phonse Church, St. Alphonse de Clare, on Sunday, to visit the Shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes. The ceremony began with Mass at 9 a.m., followed by a second Mass at 11 a.m., with a special sermon.

At 2 p.m. there was a proces-sion of the pilgrims along the church grounds, with a special banner, statue of Our Lady, sing-ing and prayer. Among the pil-grims were many sick persons and one lady in a wheelchair. Following the procession there was the blessing of the sick, the prayer of the pilgrims, and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament conducted by Rev. E. LeBlanc of St. Bernard.

Father LeBlanc in 1940, on his return from Europe, brought back water from the miraculous spring of Lourdes, France, and this water was used by Rt. Rev. Monsigneur Bourneuf to bless the replica of the Lourdes shrine in St. Alphonse Church.

Last September the first pil-grimage to the shrine was un-deraken by Rev. Father Cas-tonguay of Saulnierville. This year the pilgrimage was under the direction of Rev. M. LeBlanc, pastor of St. Alphonse, with the authorization of Bishop McNal-ly.

Addresses Kiwanis Meeting

One of the most thought-prov-oking and interesting address ever given before the Digby Kiwa-nis Club was delivered at the reg-ular weekly meeting Thursday evening by Rev. Father McCar-thy, O.M.I., of St. Patrick's Church.

Father McCarthy took as his subject, "Youth," and told of the many problems facing youth to-day. He stressed the need for service work in youth welfare by service clubs such as Kiwanis and stated these clubs could do a tremendous good in this field if they would bend their efforts to the task.

The speaker was introduced by Kiwanian Frank Slovitt and the thanks of the gathering were expressed by Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson.

N.S. NOTES

Women In Annual Meets

More than 190 rural communities will be represented at the annual Rallies of the Women's Institutes of Nova Scotia, now in progress at various centres throughout the province. There will be 19 Rallies in all. The first in the series was held at Kempton, Yarmouth Co., May 17th, and the final two are scheduled for June 10, one at West Gore, Guys Co., the other at Isaac's Harbour, Guys Co. It is expected that either the Superintendent, Mrs. Florence Hickey, Truro, or the Provincial President, Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Bass River, will address the gatherings on the mainland. But at the Cape Breton Rally in Sydney, June 7, Miss Jean Munro, who, as Director of Home Economics N.S. Department of Agriculture, is in charge of all women's activities under the Department, will represent the Institute headquarters.

The programs, planned by the District Executives, will be based on projects taken up by the branches during the winter and will, therefore, vary greatly in different parts of the province. But all will feature demonstrations, reports, and talks by special speakers, including members of the W. I. N. S. Provincial Executive, wherever possible. Exhibits at all rallies will stress Interior Decoration and Nova Scotia designs.

One of the highlights of all meetings will be demonstration on Interior Decoration to be given by Miss Catherine McGowan, Miss Eleanor MacDonald, or Miss Elinor Blackie of the Home Economics staff. The demonstration will stress color and design and a color wheel and other charts and posters will be used to put the information across. Sample kits will be on display containing pamphlets of a general nature as well as some dealing with decorating problems in bedroom, dining-room and hall. These will discuss furniture arrangements as well as color and design.

At some meeting, by special request, Miss MacDonald will conduct Sewing Machine Clinics. In Nappan, at the Cumberland Rally, there will be less of a formal program and more of a recreational nature, including folk singing and dancing under the direction of Miss Blackie. In general it is expected that recreational features such as these will be stressed more than ever before.

Because of the large increase both in number of Branches and in membership, a record attendance is expected at all Rallies and particularly in Cape Breton where at the Navy League Centre, Sydney, the largest turnout ever is anticipated. The most recently organized group, the Pictou Branch, will be the hostess Institute. Interested groups at Marion Bridge, Sanfield and Dutch Brook, where branches are soon to be organized have been invited to send representatives. Also one of the largest Rallies in Institute history is expected to be held June 8th at Evangeline Beach, Kings Co., where representatives from all 28 branches in both East and West Kings will gather for a joint meeting, with North Grand Pre as hostess Institute.

From the Institutes' point of view, one of the year's most important developments was the closer relationship established between the District Executives and the County Farmer's Associations which in many areas are working more closely together than ever before. Reflecting this development, arrangements have been made for a member of the local Farmers' Association to speak at the Institute Rallies wherever possible.

A great deal that is of interest and of lasting value is expected to come out of this year's Rallies and, to encourage the keeping of careful records, the Provincial Executive is offering a prize of $10.00 for the best Rally write-up.

N. S. Institute Heads To Go To Saskatoon

The rural women of Nova Scotia will be well represented at the 16th. Biennial Conference of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, to be held at Saskatoon, June 20 - 24. Delegates include Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Bass River, Provincial President, Mrs. Elton B. Smith, Caledonia, Past President and Mrs. Florence Hickey, Truro, W. I. N. S. Superintendent. A former past president, Mrs. Edwin Crowe, Stevicke, is scheduled to preside at some of the sessions. It is understood, however, that Mrs.

Crime Comics Are Character-Destructive Influence

Pictorial beatings, shootings, stranglings, blood puddles, and torturings-to-death are scenes which are portrayed in Crime Comic Books, said Rev. E. C. Churchill, in an address delivered before the Spring Session of the District Meetings of the Digby Co. Baptist Churches held at Centreville on Tuesday. Over 500,000,000 comic books are printed each year, and the average child reads from ten to a dozen of these per month. If there is only one scene of violence a page, this gives a diet of 300 scenes of beating, shooting, strangling, torture and blood per month. Mr. Churchill was quoting from a report given by Mahattan Folklorist Gershon Legam in an address he gave before the Association for the Advancement of Psychopathology. The Crime Comics together with similar Western Moving Pictures were scored by Mr. Churchill as the most suggestive form for evil to take that we have to cope with today in juveniles.

Rev. E. C. Churchill, Digby, delivered a paper at the morning Session of the Digby Co. Baptist

Buildin' a house in the days when Nova Scotia was bein' settled was a real man-sized task, usually one man's. He cut the timber, hauled it and did the buildin' himself.

Sometimes his neighbours would help him. Then the owner would maybe give a party for all the men who had helped him build.

The finished house was far from a palace. Our modern houses sure are an improvement. Now buildin' is a lot easier, too.

You can't very well ask for much help from your neighbours. They're all too busy, and I'm afraid the custom has gone out of style.

However, there is someone to help you, even more than your neighbours could. You'll find helpers down at Hick's. Here's how they can help you in buildin' the new home you want.

You tell them the general price range that you are considerin' so that they'll have a startin' point. They'll help you get plans you like.

They can also help you build the house and get you good materials. If you let them, they can be real helpful to you right from start to finish.

You Can Defeat Your Biggest Tax Problem...

That is the 8% sales tax. The one the budget missed. The one that hits you hardest. This quotation

"... This tax costs the Canadian taxpayers 30 cents for every dollar of processed material" from a Liberal member of Parliament shows what the government is doing to keep taxes high... despite the "bribery" reductions in the budget.

So that you may have a sure, adequate income, the Progressive Conservative Party will

- Reduce sales taxes.
- Provide deductions to farmers for members of family who contribute to revenue.
- Reduce income tax rates and increase exemptions.
- End the administrative persecution of farmers by tax collectors.

For your protection the Progressive Conservative Party will take these steps:

PRICES

—Permanent floor price legislation based on these principles:

- A definite formula in the Farm Prices Support Act for arriving at floor prices.
- The floor prices will be announced well in advance of production period.
- The formula will allow for variations in production and demand for individual products.
- The floor price formula will be arrived at in consultation with representatives of producers.

EXPORT MARKETS

Restoration of the Canadian Wheat Board to serve its original purpose as a Marketing Agency for wheat producers... and its extension to include the handling of coarse grains.

Inclusion of representatives of farmer's organizations on all Boards dealing with farm matters.

Aggressive and immediate action to recapture lost markets; the development of new markets; to achieve security of export markets through foresighted negotiations.

Dominion marketing legislation based on the principle of democratic producer control.

PRODUCTION

Reclamation and conservation of existing soil resources; development of new producing lands through irrigation; greater accessibility to domestic markets by improved transportation facilities.

Bear River Bear Story

A week ago last Saturday Mr. Emery Doane and Harry Gates of Needham, Mass., with the latter's father, Frank Gates, and brother, Arthur Gates, of Hill Grove, accompanied Charles Balser to his camp at Sixth Lake Stream for a week's fishing and arrived back in town last Friday not only with trout, but with three bears—one dead, and two cubs very much alive.

Picture the excitement when Mrs. Bruin, who was most cooperative in posing for several photographs before being shot by Mr. Doane, was discovered in their trap. Then one of the party spied what he thought might be a hedgehog up a tree. Mr. Balser said it was the cubs and they immediately surrounded the tree, while one of the party climbed up and felled the branch, bringing down two cubs.

The cubs travelled into town in burlap bags and the first day were tethered in the Balser kitchen where they roamed and climbed to their hearts' content. Mrs. Balser doing the week end cooking must have found the continual side-stepping extremely exhausting.

Since then, the days being fine, the cubs, thought to be three months old, have been tied in the yard, and it is no exaggeration to say that literally hundreds of men, women and children have come to view and admire them.

Mr. Doane returned immediately to Needham with his fine bear skin to be made into a rug and is counting the days until next year's fishing.

W. I. MEETING
Monday, June 6th, being a public holiday, the June meeting of the Women's Institute will be held in the Masonic Rooms on Friday, June 3rd. Mrs. W. D. Sutherland spent several days with her mother, Mrs. L. J. Lovett and returned to her home at Lockeport on Friday. Mr. and Mrs. James B. Gorst and Mrs. Lovett motored with her to Yarmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harris went to Musquodoboit Harbor last Friday to spend the week end with their son, Rev. Walter R. Harris and Mrs. Harris. They returned to Halifax on Monday to attend the Church of England Synod and expect to arrive home today.

The Liberals Paved A THOUSAND MILES

with Safe, Modern HIGHWAYS!

After $18,000,000 had been wasted on highways by the Tories between the years 1925 and 1933, Nova Scotians were still forced to travel over rough, dusty and obsolete GRAVEL ROADS. To maintain such roads the government of that day was spending $1500 per mile and, worse still, there was no system to the highway building program. In the WHOLE PROVINCE there were NOT 50 MILES of paved highway and no provision made for snow removal. THE TORIES SAID SUCH THINGS COULDN'T BE DONE.

But thanks to 15 years of Liberal progress they HAVE BEEN and ARE BEING DONE. Today, there are 1042 miles of first-class hard surface pavement in Nova Scotia... 100 new miles are being added annually. Provincial snow plows cleared nearly 10,000 miles of highways last winter and kept traffic moving comfortably in the worst weather. In 1948 the Province ranked THIRD IN ALL CANADA in actual dollar expenditures on highways. In 1949 over six million dollars will be spent on COUNTY HIGHWAYS; $1,500,000 for the first year of a big BRIDGE PROGRAM.

Secured The Canso Bridge

By offering to pay a SUBSTANTIAL PART of the cost, and after intensive negotiations with Ottawa authorities, the Macdonald Government has turned the dream of a bridge across the Strait of Canso into a REALITY. It was announced recently that a 3274-foot long, low-level bridge, providing for both railway and vehicular traffic, will connect Cape Breton Island and the mainland of Nova Scotia. This is another LIBERAL achievement, hailed as one of the greatest economic improvements ever effected in Nova Scotia.

And The Barrington Passage Causeway

And to replace the ferry service between Cape Sable Island and Barrington Passage on Nova Scotia's South Shore, a 3000-foot rock-filled causeway has just been completed. This project, sponsored by the LIBERAL Government, provides a modern two-lane highway to the island, and was built for $700,000, about $150,000 less than the experts had estimated. It solves a transportation problem that, for 300 YEARS, has been considered impossible. Yes, THE LIBERALS GET THINGS DONE!

Another big step forward is the LIBERAL PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM. Last year alone, 3 County Buildings were erected at Guysboro, Baddeck and St. Peter's. Renovations were made to hospital premises at Shelburne, Kentville, Halifax, Dartmouth and Point Edward; a new Information Bureau built at Digby; Vocational High Schools started at Halifax and Yarmouth, additions made to the Nova Scotia Technical College and the Pathological Building. Many other similarly important projects are scheduled for the coming months.

Keep this energetic policy alive! Continue the battle against DUST and ROCKS—push ahead to the SECOND THOUSAND MILES OF PAVEMENT. Nova Scotians will get in return higher property values, lower automobile upkeep, faster transportation and more tourists. There's a BRIGHT FUTURE in store for Highways and Public Works if you LEAVE IT TO THE LIBERALS.

Four Leaf

Clovers Plentiful

From all indications four leaf clovers are no rarity in Digby County, at least.

Yesterday afternoon the Courier received seven four leaf clovers containing two with five leaves.

William Bondale of Digby, from the letter that accompanied the clover leaves, it was learned they were picked under an apple tree by Yvonne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dakin.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dakin, Digby, brought in to the office a four leaf clover that she picked while playing in the back yard.

The Courier staff are thinking of joining in a chorus of "Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover."

Fancy Fishing

Gear Fails

George Ellis of Port Maitland has proof that no fancy fishing gear is needed in order to catch big trout.

While fishing at Lake Gehue over the Victoria Day holiday he caught a lovely eighteen inch trout that provided a delicious meal for seven people, and his fishing gear consisted of an alder pole and a length of string with a hook attached.

A close friend, who accompanied him on the fishing trip, came well equipped with a fifty dollar pole and returned empty handed to his home without landing a single fish.

Mr. Ellis says he plans to return to Lake Gehue as the fishing season opens and he feels the mate of his big fish is still around.

Dr. Hodgson

Addresses W.M.S.

Mrs. A. T. Grimmer entertained the W. M. S. of Grace United Church at her home on Tuesday when Dr. T. W. Hodgson was heard in a talk on the Origin and Observance of the Christian Sabbath.

The theme of the Worship Service, led by Mrs. J. M. Wallis, was "Keeping the Lord's Day." Others participating in the program were Mrs. John Abramson, Mrs. T. W. Hodgson, Mrs. C. E. Barker, Mrs. Gordon Arnold, Mrs. Elton Arnold and Mrs. Oakley Turnbull.

As a study on Educational Missions, a playlet was presented in which Mrs. A. C. Thibault impersonated Dr. Stella Cheng, Principal of Girls' Middle School in Chengtu, West China; Mrs. Grimmer, Mrs. John Russell and Mrs. J. M. Wallis taking other parts.

The Supply secretary reported 2 barrels valued at $410 were sent to Labrador.

A social hour was spent when refreshments were served.

Concert Party At

Weymouth

There was an appreciative audience in the Weymouth Community Theatre on Monday evening to listen to the recital given by the Mount Allison Concert Party. The party was Miss Rhoda Pendleton, soprano; Gabriel Chasson, pianist; and Miss Elizabeth Murray, contralto. Mr. Allison Patterson of the Mount Allison Conservatory staff was the accompanist.

The program was a varied one embracing numbers from Schubert, Brahms, Tchaikovsky, Schumann, Chopin and Liszt. The depth of expression and accuracy of technique showed the skillful teaching of their instructors.

The applause that greeted the numbers showed how thoroughly they were appreciated.

It is a source of great satisfaction that the Brotherhood Society of the United Church has been able to bring these young artists to Weymouth.

It's Not News, But . . .

Maybe some of those four leaf clovers should have been sent to the election candidates.

Calcium chloride is a great dust layer—in town and out of town.

This column is certainly getting read. Even politicians, Statesmen and other like people are reading it and some even go so far as to quote from it.

It is a source of satisfaction that the fan mail has not reached the astronomical proportions routinely reached by other columns.

I'll soon be known whether we're out of the woods or in the sea. The devil and the deep blue.

WHAT DID THE PREMIER MEAN?

THE LAW OF NOVA SCOTIA FORBIDS ANY PERSON FROM ACTING AS AN AGENT TO PROMOTE THE SALE OF LIQUOR.

Premier Angus L. Macdonald told a political gathering in Kentville on April 25 that he had "NO DOUBT THERE ARE AGENTS FOR LIQUOR COMPANIES" in Nova Scotia.

This was in strange contrast with a previous statement by Hon. Geoffrey Stevens, Minister in Charge of the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission, that there was "NO MIDDLE MAN OR CONTACT MAN — and the policy of the Commission is to be guided ENTIRELY in its purchases by the demands of the public."

Premier Macdonald said agents were not allowed to sell, or try to sell, to the Liquor Commission.

THE LAW IS CLEAR

The law PROHIBITS AGENTS FROM TRYING TO SELL LIQUOR TO ANYBODY.

Moreover, THE PUBLIC HAS EVERY RIGHT TO KNOW EVERYTHING ABOUT THE PUBLIC TRAFFIC IN LIQUOR — and particularly about ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW GOVERNING THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

For the Liquor Commission BUYS WITH PUBLIC FUNDS, and SELLS TO THE PUBLIC AT A FANCY PROFIT. On a gross revenue of $21,423,491 last year, it had A PROFIT OF $8,075,318. TOTAL LIQUOR PROFITS — not revenues, JUST PROFITS — of the Commission from 1934 to 1948 amounted to $61,171,193.

The Liquor Commission is THE ONLY AUTHORIZED PURCHASER OF LIQUOR FOR SALE TO THE PUBLIC.

If Mr. Stevens and the Premier are both correct, WHAT ARE THE AGENTS DOING? With whom are they dealing?

IS THE LAW BEING ENFORCED?

IF THERE IS NO DOUBT IN THE PREMIER'S MIND THAT THERE ARE AGENTS OPERATING IN THE PROVINCE FOR THE LIQUOR COMPANIES, the people of Nova Scotia will want to know whether or not the law regarding liquor agents is being enforced.

WHAT ARE THE FACTS?

What Does The Premier Expect The People To Think?

We must have laws that are respected and enforced. We must have a government that commands the confidence of the people. THE MACDONALD GOVERNMENT HAS FORFEITED ANY CLAIM ON THE PUBLIC CONFIDENCE.

Dragger Sinks; Crew Safe

The 16-ton scallop dragger, "Annie & Ruth", owned by Lewis Hudson of Digby, sank late Tuesday night about six miles off Delap's Cove on the Bay of Fundy shore after her stuffing box broke open about an hour before the sinking. Captain Raymond Hudson and crew members Howard Hudson and Gordon Covert, of Parker's Cove, made their way to Digby after five hours rowing in an open boat.

The accident which claimed the dragger occurred about ten-forty-five as the Annie & Ruth was making her way to the scallop grounds. The vessel, which had been all newly rigged for the summer fishing season, was about eight miles off the coast when she began to take water. The skipper immediately put for shore and travelled about two miles before the water in the hold covered the engine.

Captain and crew members then took to the lifeboat and started their long row to Digby after watching the dragger, one of the heaviest rigged scallopers in the Digby fleet, settle in the water and finally go under.

Interviewed yesterday morning Lewis Hudson, owner of the Annie & Ruth, stated the loss would be close to $8,000 and that the vessel was only partly covered by insurance. He said new chains, hauling in cable and other new equipment had been put aboard the vessel this week and that nothing had been saved when she sank. One of the crew members lost his clothing which was in his cabin below decks and escaped the sinking ship clad only in his fishing clothes.

Captain Hudson and the crew members were exhausted yesterday morning after their long row from the scene of the sinking to Digby, a distance of some twelve miles. They stated they had considerable difficulty bucking the current as they crossed the Digby Gap in order to get to their home near Bay View on the Digby shore.

Premier Addresses

Huge Gathering

An overflow audience jammed the Capitol Theatre here last Friday evening to welcome Premier Angus L. Macdonald who, with the provincial candidate for this constituency, Blanchard S. Morrell, addressed the huge gathering.

In a stirring address Mr. Macdonald traced the record of his administration and enumerated its accomplishments. Referring to Conservative Leader Robert L. Stanfield's public remarks that the Macdonald Government is an old, tired and weak administration, the Premier emphasized that in the last session alone seventeen beneficial acts of legislation were enacted by his government.

The Premier listed them as:
1. The removal of the three cent tax on gasoline for farmers, fishermen and lumbermen, representing a saving to these groups of $200,000.
2. Removal of highways poll tax in the rural areas, representing a saving to poll tax payers of $75,000.
3. Increasing the grants to local hospitals by fifty per cent.
4. Grants of one thousand dollars per bed for every new hospital constructed in the Province (matched with a similar amount by the Federal Government).

T. A. M. Kirk Liberal Candidate

T. A. M. Kirk (shown above) Liberal candidate for the federal constituency of Digby-Yarmouth, is well known in Digby, having served as School Inspector for the Municipalities of Digby and Yarmouth for ten years.

A native of Yarmouth, Mr. Kirk was born there in 1908. He received his early education at the Milton School, later going to the Yarmouth County Academy. He attended Acadia University in Wolfville, graduating with the degree of Bachelor of Science (majoring in mathematics, minoring in physics), as he is familiarly known to all, during his university career, worked at many positions, including construction work and substitute teaching.

Following his graduation from Acadia, he became a teacher at the Yarmouth Academy and then took courses in Rural Education at Columbia University, New York. He later became a Yarmouth County Schools for Digby and Yarmouth municipalities which position he held for ten years.

In 1941 he received his B.Paed. from the University of Toronto and in 1947 was appointed Assistant Director of Vocational Guidance for Nova Scotia, resigning this position to accept the federal nomination.

Plan Further Surveys

Plans for further surveys, similar to that conducted by William and Rosalind Dymond of Cornell University, whose interim report has been published serially in the Courier, were discussed at a meeting held over the weekend at the summer home of Dr. Alexander Leighton, Joggin Bridge.

It is understood a survey is planned this summer in the district served by the Digby Rural High School. This survey will provide much valuable information as to the work being done by the school, the reception of the rural high school philosophy by the people of the area and some suggestions as to possibilities of increasing the service provided by the school as well as general information.

The survey work conducted in the Rural High area will be under the direction of Cornell University and a pre-test survey will be made by Mr. Norris Smith of Cornell, commencing next week. Dr. Schuman of the University staff will evaluate this test work on his arrival and the actual survey will begin in the first week of July with senior students of the High School doing the survey with the assistance of Dr. Schuman, Dr. Rosenzweig, and Mr. Smith of Cornell.

Also planned is a survey of the Municipality of Digby. This survey will be a continuation of the work done by the Dymonds but will be concentrated in the Digby area so that more detailed work can be done on the conditions in this district. Working most directly on this project will be Mrs. Rosenzweig, who is a native of France and speaks the language fluently.

Another area survey will be conducted by Acadia University in the Municipality of Digby. This work will be under the direction of Mr. MacMillan and Dr. Dalton Vernon of Acadia.

It is hoped that this survey work, which was started in the Digby County area through the efforts of Dr. Leighton and Cornell University, may be expanded and extended so that this tremendously valuable research work might be continued over a period of years to include many other problems and conditions than are now being covered.

Present at the meeting where these survey plans were discussed were educators from Cornell and Harvard Universities in the United States and Acadia University at Wolfville as well as local educational authorities.

W.M.S. Guest Speaker

The Woman's Missionary Society of Sandy Cove held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Saunders.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Blair Dakin, president, assisted by Mrs. Jack Morehouse with Scripture readings.

Rev. Ralph Knock presided at the piano.

The group was favoured with a piano duet beautifully rendered by Miss Nora Symonds of Saunders.

The special speaker for the evening was Mrs. Ida Everett, Boston, daughter of Mrs. T. Graham of Centerville. Mrs. Everett told about her work in home missions in Boston and California. Rev. Ralph Knock pronounced the benediction.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hosts.

Our greatest glory is not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall.

Pupils Present Piano Recital

A splendid recital of piano numbers was presented at the auditorium of the Rural High School last Thursday evening by pupils of Mrs. Louise Stephen. The numbers were all well presented and showed not only the developing talents of the pupils, but also the fine work being done by their teacher in bringing out these talents.

Included in the program, which was a well balanced one, were simple catchy little numbers which demonstrated the somewhat limited abilities of the beginners, and difficult compositions played remarkably well by the older pupils.

Every number was greatly enjoyed by the large audience present for the recital, and as each pupil concluded his or her rendition they were greeted with a hearty round of applause.

Included in the program were several songs rendered by Mr. Walter Dimars, baritone, of Deep Brook, in a most pleasing manner. He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Stephen and by his daughter. Also much enjoyed were two readings given most effectively by Mr. Eugene Handspiker, monologist.

First Strawberries
Of The Season

The Courier received on Tuesday morning a parcel of lovely ripe wild strawberries from Mrs. Perry of Barton. The berries, which were large and well ripened, were picked by little Judy and Kenneth Perry at Barton on Monday.

In a letter which accompanied the strawberries, Mrs. Perry said "Sorry, no cream." The berries were so delicious and appetizing they soon disappeared even if there was no cream to go with them.

TWO KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Two young men lost their lives and a third was injured when a boiler exploded at the sawmill owned by Isaac Comeau of Grosses Coques Friday noon. The men who were killed were Frank LeBlanc, son of Mr. Denis F. LeBlanc, and Gilbert Melanson, son of the late Don Melanson, both of Grosses Coques. Augustin Belliveau miraculously escaped serious injury, receiving but superficial injuries and burns about the face, shoulder and arms.

LeBlanc and Melanson were near the boiler at the time of the explosion and they were thrown about a hundred feet. Frank LeBlanc still held an oil can in his hand when found and it is said that Gilbert Melanson had the water valve knob in his hand. It is believed that water was injected into the boiler when it was dry, causing the explosion.

Augustin Belliveau was working about 15 feet away resetting the saw teeth on the patent edger saw. How he escaped serious injury or was not killed is hard to understand. The mill building was demolished, with but both ends remaining in a partial state of erection and timbers criss-crossed and piled up in those portions. The entire roof of the central portion was blown off and shifted to one side. It was under this portion that Augustin Belliveau was working. Large stones and pieces of cement can be seen all around the patent edger.

A portion of the steam boiler was thrown three hundred feet into the woods. The other portion was thrown into the mill. The cement and rock foundation was strewn all over the place.

Rescued After Princess Helene Sights Craft

The Saint John Pilot Boat completed a prompt rescue mission Tuesday morning, locating Walter Wilson, 70-year-old Lorneville fisherman who had been adrift for nearly two days in the Bay of Fundy. The veteran sailor had three days' provisions aboard his 30-foot motor boat and appeared not greatly concerned over his predicament, although he expressed his thanks to harbor pilots F. McKelvey and Jack Stevens when they took him in tow.

The elderly fisherman, who has been fishing alone for the past 14 years, developed engine trouble after leaving Lorneville late Sunday. After his repair efforts failed he rigged makeshift sails on his small craft but was becalmed and was unable to make any headway toward land. He was sighted by the Princess Helene while on her regular run from Saint John to Digby, and the position of the disabled boat was radioed to the harbor pilots.

The pilot boat set out a short time later and located Mr. Wilson about 10 miles outside the harbor. He was towed to within a short distance of the Lorneville wharf where his son came out in another boat and completed the towing operations about eleven-thirty a.m. Tuesday.

Mr. Wilson, who handles his 1000-foot-long nets alone while out fishing, said he had engine trouble on previous occasions, and is ready to continue the operation of his one-man boat as soon as engine repairs are effected.

Roll Call Services At Port Wade

The Annual Roll Call Services of the Lower Granville United Baptist Churches, were held at Port Wade on Sunday afternoon and evening, June 5th. Both services were largely attended and were conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. A. Robertson.

The Bridgetown Men's Choir was in attendance and during the afternoon session, presented a very fine musical program. The choir, which comprises seventeen male voices, was directed by Dr. O. R. Stone, with Mrs. Ernest McGrath of Port Wade, presiding at the organ.

The afternoon service featured the calling of the roll by the Church Clerk, Mrs. Roy Casey. Each member answered with a verse of scripture. Mrs. Casey was assisted by Mrs. Ralph Haynes, who read messages from those who were unable to attend, also from non-residents from various parts of the Maritime.

Several contributions were received in memory of the following: Mr. and Mrs. George McKenzie from Mr. and Mrs. Earl McKenzie and family, Mrs. Ernest Bohaker from Mrs. William Chisholm, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert some of it being over 300 feet from the mill. A large section weighing over a ton was thrown near a stream that flowed nearby. Devastation was complete.

The three men had come to the mill to get in readiness to start operation in the afternoon after a week's layoff. At the time of the accident, they were the only men at the scene. Mr. Belliveau gave the warning after the explosion, covering two miles afoot. He states that he never heard the explosion blast. When he came to his senses he claims that everything was black and he started to crawl out when he noted a hole in the roof. What is strange is that there was no roof over where he was, it having been blown off. It is believed that he was stunned severely at the time.

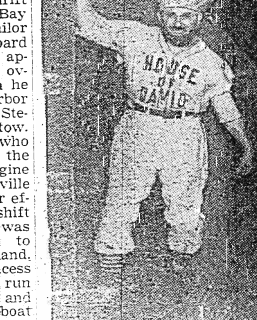

Mr. Belliveau, who was burned with the escaping live steam, is able to be up and around.

The funeral of the dead men took place at St. Mary's R. C. Church, with about a thousand persons in attendance at the services on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

All day Friday, Saturday and Sunday cars traveled to the scene of the explosion on the Isidor Thibault road in Grosses Coques. People from miles around came to view the disaster. Sunday saw the influx of the greatest number of curious onlookers to view the scene of death.

An inspector from Halifax arrived on the scene on Saturday and a portion of the boiler was cut away and taken for tests. The local R.C.M.P. were on the scene shortly after the explosion to investigate the cause.

House Of David To Play Here

Through the efforts of the Digby Baseball Management the local fans on June 24th will be treated to the most novel baseball exhibition in the history of the town. On that day the nationally known House of David team, now on a tour of this country, will appear here. Besides making up one of the best diamond aggregations on the road as a travelling team, the House of David athletes are an attraction in their personal appearance, their long beards being most unusual on the ball field but a part of the fashion of the cult of which they are members. Wherever the diamond aggregation composed of the disciples of this strange religion appear, they draw record-breaking crowds and their exhibition, besides being usually nearly flawless from a technical standpoint is of interest because of their unusual appearance.

Shaffner and Mrs. Alice Shaffner from Lloyd Shaffner and Mrs. Samuel Longmire from Mrs. F. S. Mills.

Six new members were received into the Church and given "The Right Hand of Fellowship" by the pastor, namely: Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Everett, Miss Avoira Taylor, Floyd Howse, Walter Haynes and Alvin Ellis, all residents of Victoria Beach.

Dr. Gibson, who was present at the service, also spoke to the new converts. Afternoon service closed by singing, "Breathe on me Breath of God".

In the interval between afternoon and evening services, the visitors were graciously entertained in the various homes of the community.

The evening service of Fellowship opened with the singing of "The Church's One Foundation." Several very fine selections were sung by the Bridgetown Men's (Please turn to Page 4)

Bring Back Bear River Cherries

The pioneers of Nova Scotia went in for cherries in a big way; the present generation appears content to allow them to die out.

by Vera L. Daye

Several years ago one of the most popular tourist attractions in the Annapolis Valley was the Cherry Carnival, held annually at Bear River, N. S. The crowds attending it were second only to those at the more famous Apple Blossom Festival in Kentucky. As late as 1940 the luscious ripe cherries continued to draw the crowds, but six years later the fruit had become so scarce as to disappoint many ready purchasers.

With a background nearly 3 centuries old it seems a shame this Bear River cherry should pass into the limbo of forgotten fruits, all for want of proper care and attention. The Annapolis Valley is ideally suited for growing cherries. There is a large commercial orchard at Deep Brook, which contains all grafted varieties. Many farmers up and down the length of the Valley have other small orchards or even a few trees in kitchen gardens, but none of them are the so-called Bear River variety.

It is quite probable cherry trees were planted in the Valley in the early 1600's by the French Acadian settlers. In the particular area between Annapolis Royal and Digby, the cherry began to propagate itself quite extensively, and became a tree to grow wild almost everywhere. Today descendants of these trees can be found growing all over. Within the last 30 years, these wild trees have been attacked by certain fungus diseases and are no longer propagating themselves as readily as they did.

Not Good For Shipping

This wild cherry of Bear River variety produces a fruit of excellent flavour. It is, however, a bit small to be of much commercial value or to compete with better commercial varieties. Then too, it is apt to oversoft when ripe and will speedily deteriorate if placed in storage. It is similar to, but apparently not quite identical with the strong Mazzard stock. The chief characteristic of the Bear River cherry is that it is grown from seed and not grafted. It grows up wild and is transplanted to the orchard. But in many cases little care is given the trees. Most of the cherries are marketed fresh at roadside stands.

The Bear River cherry takes its name from the town of Bear River and was first brought in to prominence by an English settler, one William Sutherland, who probably cultivated the descendants of the trees planted by the Acadians.

The town was settled first by Loyalists around 1783 who spread out from Digby in search of fertile farm lands. Many soldiers of German descent, Hessians and Weldeckians, who had fought beside the English-speaking Loyalists in the Revolutionary War, were disbanded here also and took up grants of land. A curious village superstition has it that there would be a blight upon the cherry trees if no monument were erected to the memory of the man who first planted them. In spite of the fact Mr. Sutherland has no monument, and the trees are blighted, these fungus diseases could be controlled by modern methods. In the heyday of their growth the Bear River cherries were exported to the tune of 5,000 boxes per annum.

Today, in the commercial orchard two kinds of cherries are grown, sour and sweet. Both do well in the warm climate of the Annapolis Valley. Both are divided into two distinct groups.

The sweet cherries (Prunus avium) are known either as Hearts or Bigarreaus; the first, a soft-fleshed kind, the latter with firm flesh. The Oxheart is a deep dark purple when ripe, the Whiteheart shining red. There are Sweethearts and Blackhearts, older varieties that are exceedingly juicy. Among the newer varieties grown today are the Ida, Governor and Black Tartarian, the latter a black cherry considered the best variety because of its high quality and productivity. It also adapts itself to many soils and many climates.

The firm flesh varieties of the Bigarreaus group contain many popular and familiar names. You have probably eaten many a Bing and dark red Windsor cherry from this group, or a yellow pink-cheeked Napoleon or Lambert.

The worst hazard the growers have to contend with are the birds, particularly the American Robin. These rascals have been known to destroy a complete crop within a few days. It is not unusual to see all sorts of devices, from blown-up paper bags to tinkling bells tied to the branches to scare away these unwelcome winged visitors.

In the sour group (Prunus cerasus) the Amareles are bright red and sour with a colorless juice. Montmorency is the best of this group, being large, of high quality and very produc-

ive. In the second group the Morellos are the sour variety. They are dark red with red juice. The English Morallo is the best of this class, being held in high esteem for table use. The chief objection to it is its unevenness in ripening. The tree is small and compact, hardy, but not always healthy. These sour cherries are excellent for canning purposes while the sweet ones are best for pies and puddings.

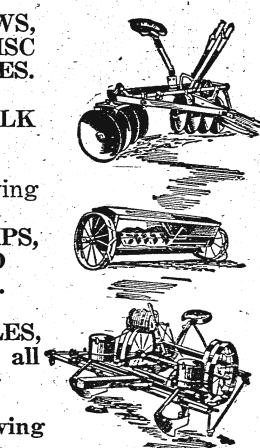

During recent years experimental growers have produced the "Duke" cherries, hybrids of sweet and sour. When dead ripe they are delicious to eat and usually have a long picking season. May Duke, Braxington and Royal Duke are recommended for Nova Scotia growers.

Commercial cherries are propagated in much the same fashion as apples. Growers bud the varieties they want on suitable stock that is, they insert a seedling in the trunk of a hardy cherry. Mazzard is the best stock for sweet varieties and Mahaleb for the sour and Duke varieties.

While the Nova Scotia cherries can't compete with those grown in Ontario's fruit belt, they are

Fores Fire Losses In 1948

Canada's forest fire-fighting costs in 1948, amounting to more than 2½ million dollars, were the highest on record. In terms of measurable damage combined with fire-fighting cost, the loss from forest fires in 1948 was exceeded only by that of the 1941 fire season during the 20-year period for which Dominion-wide records of forest fires have been compiled, according to information released recently by the Hon. James A. Mackinnon, acting Minister of Mines and Resources.

The Dominion forest-fire statistics are prepared annually from information supplied by all provincial and federal forest-fire protection agencies in Canada. Although the number of normal fires, 5,368, was about normal, the total area burned amounted to some 3,185,000 acres, representing an increase of 70 per cent over the average burned acreage for the previous ten years. Exceptionally dry weather over wide areas in the Great Lakes region and in central Canada during the early summer and autumn months contributed to the damage sustained.

The amount of merchantable timber on lands burned over in 1948 was equal to that used by all the pulp and paper mills in Canada for a 7½ month period, based on the average mill consumption from 1937 to 1946. Damage to timber, young growth and other property was estimated at $3,820,000; this, however, evaluates the wood only at prevailing stumpage rates and takes no account of other losses sustained by the wood-using industries. Moreover the figure makes no provision for damage to soil and site quality, streamflow regulation, wildlife, or recreational and tourist values, none of which can be reliably appraised in terms of dollars.

nevertheless important in the Maritimes on local tables. And if the beautiful Bear River trees are rescued from the ravages of disease they could once more play a part in bringing the tourists to the Atlantic province. — Montreal Star.

Eighteen per cent of all the fires were attributed to lightning, the remaining 82 per cent being man-made and therefore preventable. Only 2 per cent resulted from deliberate incendiaryism. Forty per cent of the fires were started by careless campers and smokers — an increase of 4 per cent over the previous ten-year average. Railways and settlers were the other major causes.

The above figures do not include the Yukon and Northwest Territories, in which 80 fires were reported with a total area of 121,000 acres.

The Dominion Forest Service points out that the 1949 fire season has already started, and that serious moisture deficiencies were reported in the early of the year in many forested areas, tourists, and others making use of the woods for recreational purposes.

Nova Scotians on Railway Board

Halifax, June 2.—(Special)—For the first time in the history of the Dominion Atlantic Railway company, four Nova Scotians have been elected to the Board of Directors increasing the number of directors from five to nine members. N. R. Crump of Montreal, president at the meeting held in Halifax last Thursday.

The Nova Scotian members elected to the board were George A. Chase of Port Williams, shipper and orchardist; A. A. Dunphy of Kentville, Manager of the Dominion Atlantic Railway; Alfred O. Leary of Halifax, president of A. T. O'Leary & Co.; Eric K. Spinney of Yarmouth, president and managing director of E. K. Spinney Ltd.

Other officers re-elected were: President, N. R. Crump; Vice-president, D. S. Thompson of Toronto; Secretary, C. Niderost, K. C. of Montreal; Treasurer, T. Moffitt, of Montreal; Directors, G. A. Walker, K. C. L. B. Unwin and C. A. MacNamara, all of Montreal.

In welcoming the new directors Mr. Crump said "The fact that Nova Scotian business men of standing are willing to give of their time and knowledge to the direction of the Dominion Atlantic Railway is not only of the first importance in that the citizens of the province will now have a distinct voice in the affairs of the company, but their close knowledge of business conditions in general will be of great benefit to the D.A.R."

"The appointments of George A. Chase, A. A. Dunphy, A. T. O'Leary and E. K. Spinney marks the first time that residents of Nova Scotia have been members of the board of directors of the Dominion Atlantic Railway and this fact will, I am sure, establish a closer community of interest between the Dominion Atlantic Railway and its parent company the Canadian Pacific Railway."

"The Dominion Atlantic Railway is providing service for the people of Nova Scotia through one of the richest agricultural areas in the Dominion and one that produces not only great quantities of apples and other fruits but also general farm produce, prize stock, gypsum manufactures and enjoys a wide-spread and productive fisheries. I look forward to even greater development of this important territory."

He is past president of the Maritime Board of Trade, past vice-president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, vice-president of St. John Ambulance in Nova Scotia and president of the Red Cross Society in Kentville.

PARDON our pointing... with pride.

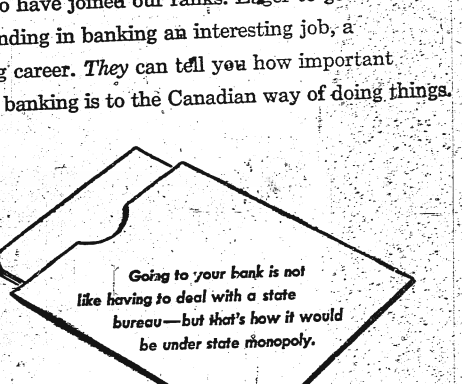

But it's an event when the number of bank workers passes the 40,000 mark—as it did last year. That's 65% more than before the war.

It's an event, first, because it shows the increased use of Canadian bank services...

More deposit accounts: now over seven million.

More funds: customers' deposits now reach nearly seven billion dollars. More services: to farmers; to personal and small-business borrowers; to war pensioners; to people receiving Family Allowances.

It's an event, too, because of the kind of men and women who have joined our ranks. Eager to get ahead, they are finding in banking an interesting job, a challenging career. They can tell you how important privacy in banking is to the Canadian way of doing things.

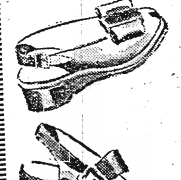

Going to your bank is not like having to deal with a state bureau—but that's how it would be under state monopoly.

Roll Call Services At Hill Grove Church

Roll Call Services At Hill Grove Church

Rev. H. L. Denton, President of the Maritime U. B. Convention, was the special speaker at the Annual Roll Call Services held at Hill Grove on Wednesday of last week. The church was filled both afternoon and evening with members, and friends of this old, and historic church of the county. During the Roll Call of the afternoon 90 of the 130 members responded to their names when called. The offering for the day amounted to over $400.00, which included a bequest of $100 from the Estate of the late Miss Nettie Warne.

During the services the choir, under the direction of Mrs. D'Arcy Roop, rendered special music. Mrs. E. C. Churchill was special soloist at the afternoon service. In his message in the afternoon, Mr. Denton spoke of "Beatitudes of a Church Member," stressing that enthusiasm, dependability, consecration were marks which make for happy blessing in the fellowship of a Christian church. At the evening service Mr. Denton spoke of "Living Stars or Dead Campfires." The speaker said that camp fires are indicative of the paths which generations have trodden in the past, but beside the camp fires there is no inspiration, except what has been done and said. On the other hand there is the inspiration which comes from following a Star as did the Wise Men of Old. To follow the Stars of challenge means that we each generation can best serve its day, and make its contribution to succeeding generations.

A Fellowship Supper was served in the church hall, provided by the ladies of the Social Committee of the church. The day was marked by deep interest and Christian Fellowship, as people from various parts of the country assembled for these important services. One rather singular observation made during the meetings was that the Hill Grove Church has been holding their Roll Call Services since 1916 and no one remembers a day of rainy weather for the occasion.

IFAP Delegates Come and Go

Delegates to the third annual convention of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers who found it convenient to visit Nova Scotia enroute to the annual meeting at Guelph have come and gone and the consensus is that they enjoyed their stay in Nova Scotia, even though it was much shorter than Nova Scotians would have appreciated. One group of delegates spent the week-end in Halifax where they were guests of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing and the Nova Scotia Farming and the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association. In addition to having an opportunity to see something of the city, the group was taken on a tour of Halifax harbour and the North West Arm on Sunday afternoon through the courtesy of R. W. Hendry, Port Manager, and Commander P. A. Webber, R. C. N. For many of the group, who were visiting this continent for the first time, this trip was an event since it enabled them to inspect the harbour facilities of which they had heard so much during the war when Halifax was referred to merely as "an East Coast Port".

The second group arrived in Nova Scotia on Monday morning, Princess Helene on Monday morning from Saint John and were motor-ed to Kentville where they met the first group who had motored from Halifax to be guests of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing luncheon at which time both groups were officially welcomed to the Province by F. W. Walsh, Deputy Minister of Agriculture and Marketing, and Hector Hill, President of the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association. After a hurried luncheon, the group boarded their buses and were driven to Truro where they boarded the Maritime Express for Quebec and the other points they will visit before finally arriving at the Ontario Agricultural College and the annual convention.

While in the province, the group was visited by several members of the Farmers' Association and one of the latter really summed up what was in everybody's mind when he remarked: "What amazes me is how harmoniously the delegates from all countries get along with each other. If agriculturalists can do this, why can't those who try to promote international peace take a leaf from the IFAP and do likewise".

Silver Seal Certificate To Berwick Guernsey

That Nova Scotia is the home of good Guernsey has long been recognized but this fact was proven once again a few days ago when the results of the records of performance for the month April were released by Dr. Roy Campbell, Secretary of the Canadian Guernsey Breeders' Association, for the report showed that Patricia's Jessica, owned by G. M. Magee, Berwick, led the all-Canada mature class in the 365-day division with a production of 13,073 pounds of milk and 565 pounds of fat.

This last record of Jessica's earns for her a Silver Seal Certificate for a production of 88,516 pounds of milk and 3,915 pounds of fat in seven lactations, or an average of 559 pounds of fat produced under ordinary farm conditions in each of the seven lactations. Jessica is sired by Dellwood Prospect, a sire with 27 ROP daughters, and is out of Princess Patricia, one of the truly great cows of the breed, with a record of 13,114 pounds milk and 885 fat, 365 days, 32% and 16.052 milk and 767 fat, 305 days, 32%.

Produce Top Quality Eggs

With warm weather approaching, a large number of farmers will have to improve their flock management and egg holding facilities if they expect to maintain their reputation of producing top quality eggs, says F. G. Proudfoot, Poultry Husbandman, who further advises that reports already have been received showing that there has been an increase in the proportion of Grade eggs marketed this spring. The following are some of the reasons which Mr. Proudfoot believes are responsible for this condition. Needless to say, the remedy lies with the producer. Here are the reasons:

1. Cockerels kept in laying pens when not needed for breeding purposes.
2. Eggs not gathered frequently enough. They should be gathered at least three times daily.
3. Eggs not cooled quickly enough.
4. Eggs held at incorrect temperatures — correct temperature 40 — 55 degrees F.
5. Broody hens — Eggs rapidly deteriorate under a hen whose temperature is 107 degrees F.

6. Hens running at large, having access to manure piles, etc. 7. Soiled eggs, resulting from dirty litter and nests. 8. Holding too long — ship at least twice weekly.

Canada's great Leader

LOUIS ST. LAURENT, Prime Minister of Canada

'At the polls on June 27 the voter must ask himself, ahead of anything else, who should be head of the government.

In Louis St. Laurent, Canada has found a great national leader.

That he had high abilities of the mind was proved by his career in law. That he had wisdom in cabinet, unique gifts in parliamentary debate and a quick grasp of large affairs became clear as soon as he entered the Government. In international affairs, as one of the original advocates of the Atlantic Pact, he made himself a world figure who spoke out as no Canadian before him, in the councils of the nations.

He also revealed an understanding of ordinary people, because he is one of them.

This warm and essentially simple human being is the real St. Laurent, the product of the small town, of humble beginnings, hard work, a big family and the friendliness of country neighbors.

In blood, language and instinct he combines the qualities of two great races.

To the voter it is equally important that St. Laurent is the leader of a truly national party, with proved strength from coast to coast, the only party which can hope to form a stable government after the election. His character, his ability and his achievements have made him the leader of all the Canadian people.

Canada Biggest Supply Source For Great Britain

"Canada is today what she has never been before, our biggest single source of supply, accounting now for 11 per cent of our imports, as against only 9 per cent before the war," declared the Right Hon. James Harold Wilson, President of the British Board of Trade, in addressing businessmen and others attending the 170th. District Conference of Rotary International, held in Ottawa on May 16, 1948.

"Even in the case of some of those commodities whose purchase we have had to limit through lack of dollars, we are devoting a higher proportion of our total expenditure to Canadian produce than before the war. Of the total amount we spent last year in bringing timber to our shores, Canadian timber accounted for nearly 34 per cent. In the five years before the war, Canadian timber accounted for only 18 per cent. Similarly with wheat and bacon, a far higher proportion of our imports are coming from Canada than before the war."

"There is an impression widely held in Canada that, as a result of mistaken or wrong-headed policies in London, Canadian manufacturers and producers are being driven from their traditional markets," he said. "If my visit does no more than provide some re-assurance on this, and if during my visit I succeed in convincing Canadians that we do not seek our economic destiny elsewhere to the exclusion of Canada, it will not have been in vain."

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Sypher and Mrs. Edward MacKay, Mrs. Hugh Morehouse, Mrs. Austin Morehouse attended the closing exercises at Acadia University in Wolfville last week.

Many new names were added to the already large membership.

It was decided to meet on September 19th. at the home of Mrs. N. D. Sanford, Clementsvalle.

Modern Way Of Handling Fish

Time, distance and temperature are the new A. B. C. of Canada's commercial fishing industry, which last year marketed products worth more than $120,000,000. The oldest industry known to this country, commercial fishing employs almost 100,000 people, many of whom draw their entire livelihood from the trade.

Though the salty mariner and the tang of sea spray is still much in evidence in our major fishing ports, the industry has become a complex, highly organized business. It's one thing to catch fish, but quite another to deliver the ocean harvest to markets spread across 3,000 miles of continent, and into a dozen foreign countries.

Today's commercial fishing is a race against time, with distance something to be defeated, and temperature — modern quick-freezing techniques — one of the most important aids to the fisherman. Take the east coast fishery, for instance. Steam or diesel powered vessels of 50 to 250 tons, fish the banks hundreds of miles off the coast. Some can catch 300 tons of fish. Cleaned on the spot, they are packed in ice and the race begins to land their catch and through the processing plant. While it is still occurring, the fish are packed in the holds and are taken from the docks. A few production lines take over here to keep the race going. Moving belt the fish are to filletting benches where workers, with a quick knife, slice juicy fillets of bone and waste.

Carefully inspected, the fish are weighed and packed before taking their turn in quick-freezers. That freezing process — the temperature of the fisherman's alphas is fast. Thousands of fillets go through the freezer. Furthermore, it is a race against time, for once the fish will retain its freshness properly refrigerated conditions, for as long as "God" haddock, ocean perch, Canadian fishing banks off Nova Scotia coast, can be fished across the country at the time of year and as fresh when they were pulled from the ocean.

MARRIAGE

Balcolm-Goes

A quiet but pretty wedding took place recently at St. Mary's Church when Annie Melville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hendrick, was united in marriage to Mr. Malcolm S. Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard of Digby, N. S.

The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Hendrick, in a street-length dress of grey and a shoulder cape of carnations and lace. She was attended by Miss "Swiber," sister of the groom, who was wearing a street-length dress of pink jersey with matching accessories and a corsage of carnations. The groom was supported by his brother, Creighton.

The groom is a veteran of World War II, serving with the R. C. S. O. He is now employed as section man with the D. A. railway. The bride just returned from Holland and is a Canadian very much.

Immediately after the ceremony, the happy couple left on a motor trip through the Valley.

Letter to the Editor

On reading over a pamphlet issued by the Nova Scotia Liberal Association, an article caught my eye about road conditions under the Tory Rhodes-Harrington Government from 1925 to 1933, and I quote, "All the Tories had to show for eight years of such outlays was a terrific cloud of dust that hung over the highways like a brown fog—choked and blinded motorists—ruined homes along the way," unquote.

Isn't it an amazing thing to know that after fourteen years of Liberal Government since that time Digby Neck still has that "terrific cloud of dust" together with flying rocks from speeding motorists which makes it even more hazardous.

However, the people are still living in hopes of a paved road down this way, also the urgent need of wharf facilities where there aren't any for the fishermen in the fishing villages.

Let us then ask Mr. Blanchard Morrell or Mr. Keith Potter, whichever is elected on June 9, not to let Digby Neck be a forgotten part of their constituency as in the many years of the past.

"ONE OF THOSE DIGBY NECKERS".

Balloons can be filled with air. If they are they rise quickly and drop as fast.

Digby's main street is rapidly becoming a speedway for the little motorcycles. It's a wonder their riders don't get dizzy going round and round the boulevard hour after hour.

Those Master Plumbers who have been in Digby with their new water system was turned on.

Could it be the high percentage of ozone in the air around Bay of Fundy affected the results in the areas bordering that body of water.

That could hardly be called a magnificent gesture off V. Point Beach the other day. They were looking for wrinkles.

At last the lowly clam is getting a break in this district. It is able to resume normal life again.

Victorian Order Hears Report

Dr. Martin Cherkosky of the Department of Home Care in the Montefiore Hospital, New York, gave special recognition to the work of nurses giving Home Care, according to the report of the Annual meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada, held at Ottawa, given by Mrs. John Russell, local delegate, at the monthly meeting on Tuesday. Dr. Cherkosky spoke particularly of chronic cases and said there were many helped who otherwise could not get within hospital walls because of expense. Those nurses he said have a wonderful opportunity to do much good for their fellow beings.

Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, United Kingdom High Commissioner, paid respect to the "Angels in Blue" in comparing them to the Queen's Nurses Organization in England, an order of which the people of England are extremely proud.

Mrs. Russell spoke of the session of the Annual which was held at Rideau Hall where the 250 delegates and nurses from all parts of the Dominion were welcomed by Viscountess Alexander. This visit to Rideau Hall has been customary since the founding of the V. O. N. in 1897 under the leadership of Countess of Aberdeen.

Mrs. Russell thanked the local Order for the privilege and pleasure of representing the Board at the Annual. The Board in turn showed their appreciation to Mrs. Russell for her splendid report.

The president announced to the Board members that the new car ordered for the Digby Victorian Order had arrived.

It was decided at Tuesday's meeting to extend the time of the Victorian Order Membership Drive another week.

Dies After Fall From Bridge

Critically injured on Thursday when he fell 40 feet from a staging at Jogging Bridge, near here, Edmond Francois Ivens, died at the Digby General Hospital the following day.

The accident which claimed the life of the 38-year-old former Belgian merchant sailor occurred as he was engaged in painting the bridge. In some manner he fell from the staging nearly 40 feet to the rocks below.

Rushed to the Digby General Hospital, he was found to have suffered a broken nose, broken jaws and other facial and head injuries. He died shortly after receiving the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

A hero of the tragic torpedoing of the Belgian freighter "Persir" in 1945, Ivens served in the Belgian merchant navy before the war. When Belgium went definitely into the fight, he was working in Montreal and joined the Belgian contingent of the Canadian Army and went overseas.

At the request of the Belgian Government in exile, all merchant service personnel were transferred again to this service and Ivens went back to sea.

It was while his ship was in port at Halifax that he met his wife, the former Marion Frude of Bear River, Digby County, who was serving there as a sergeant in the CWAC. They met at a sing song conducted by the Y.W.C.A. at which the Belgian seamen were being entertained.

Several months later they were married at the Embarkation Depot.

Following the war, Ivens remained with the Belgian merchant service and his wife went to Belgium to be with his people. In May of this year they returned to Canada, making their home at Bear River ever since. Shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Ivens came back to Canada his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Debelder, and several other members of the family, also came to this country.

Funeral services were held from the Roman Catholic Church in Bear River Monday morning.

Canal Committee Formed

A committee to further in this area the work of the Chignecto Canal project was formed at Tuesday night's meeting of the Digby Board of Trade.

This committee, headed by Mayor H. M. Turnbull and including H. M. Warne, W. L. Troop and Gregg Gilliat, was formed following an address by Mr. Rowe of the Chignecto Canal Committee who stressed the tremendous value of the proposed canal to the Maritime Provinces and told of work being done in other centres throughout the Maritimes to promote the project, which has received the endorsement of a number of candidates from all parties campaigning in the Federal election.

Matters concerning the Dominion Day Fair, sponsored by the Board of Trade, were discussed at the meeting and plans finalized.

East Meets West Here July 1st

Boxing promoter, D. J. Daley, stated here this week he intends to give Digby boxing fans a real thriller on July 1st, in the boxing and wrestling card that will be part of the Digby Board of Trade annual Dominion Day fair.

The newly crowned light heavyweight Maritimer champion, Alvin Upshaw, will meet the 1948 light heavyweight champion of the west coast from Victoria, B. C., here on July 1st, in what promises to be a thrill packed ten round bout.

Also included on the card will be a semi-final bout between Bill Painter of Winnipeg and Louis Carr of Prince Edward Island.

Ron Cowan, local Digby scrapper, will meet Joe Marfack of Halifax. This bout, if it lives up to the performance shown by Cowan in other fights here, will be a thriller that will delight the audience.

Acadaville's flyweight boxer, Carl Bailey, will also be included on the July 1st card, and his opponent will be announced later.

Master Plumbers Meet

Master plumbers and heating contractors from coast to coast gathered in annual convention at the Digby Pines Hotel this week. The opening session of the convention was addressed by Hon. Harold Connolly, Minister of Trade and Industry in the Nova Scotia Government, who welcomed the visitors to the province.

More than two hundred of the members of the Canadian Association of Master Plumbers and Heating Contractors, with their wives, are attending the sessions, which are being addressed by experts in the field of plumbing and heating engineering. A delightful program of social entertainment has also been arranged for the gathering.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Deveau, of Meteghan celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on June 6th.

A solemn High Mass was celebrated at the Stella Maris Church at Meteghan at 8 a.m. by the pastor, Rt. Rev. Msgr. Bourneuf, assisted by Rev. Father Edgar Comeau and Rev. Father William Power, of St. Ann's College at Church Point.

Mass was sung by the pupils of Sacred Heart Academy, Meteghan, directed by Sister Yvonne. Afterwards a reception was held at their home, the guest book being in charge of Mrs. Willie Comeau. The dining room was very tastefully decorated for the occasion, and on the table was a three tier cake, cut by the bride and groom of fifty years.

Among the large number of guests were Msgr. Bourneuf, Meteghan, and Father Delbe Comeau and Father Arcade Theriault of Yarmouth. Mr. and Mrs. Deveau are the parents of eleven children, and they have eleven grandchildren. Ten of their children were able to be present. These were Sister Julianne, Superior of Sacred Heart Academy, Meteghan; Mrs. Henry Amiraault (Margaret), Keitaville; Mrs. Herbert Deveau (Lise), Hibernia; Mrs. Willie Comeau (Beatrice), Digby; Mrs. Percy LeBlanc (Anne Marie), Wedgeport; Catherine of Yarmouth; Joseph and Bernard of Meteghan; Octave and Imelda of home. One son, Stanley, of Detroit, was unable to be present.

The couple received many lovely gifts, cards and a large sum of money.

They have the best wishes of their family and friends for many more years to come.

Two Candidates Nominated

Two candidates for the federal constituency of Digby — Yarmouth were officially nominated at Yarmouth to contest the election on June 27th. These were T. A. M. Kirk for the Liberals and Donald F. Fillet for the Progressive Conservatives. No C.C.F. candidate was nominated, and although it had been rumored an Independent might offer for election, no nomination was forthcoming as proceedings closed Monday night.

To Hold Graduation

The first annual Graduation Exercises will be held in the auditorium of the Digby Rural High School on Friday evening at 7.30 p.m. A. D. T. Speaker for the exercises will be the Rev. Harry Dysart of Kings College, Halifax.

Hold Class Day Exercises

Bill Hutchinson, President of the Students' Council of the Digby Rural High School was chairman of the Class Day Exercises held in the gymnasium of the new Rural High School Monday afternoon.

The program opened with an address of welcome from the chairman to the large assembly of parents and guests. This was followed by the reading of the Class Valedictory by Joyce Cobham, Grade XII Commercial.

Presentation of Literary D's to Annette Webb, Bill Webber, Bill Hutchinson and Beatrice Handspiker was made by Marilyn Campbell of Grade XI. Miss Campbell was presented with her Literary D by Margaret McLean, also of Grade XI.

Following the splendid vocal solo was presented by Joyce Cobham, entitled "Six Dreams". Miss Cobham was accompanied at the piano by Margaret McLean.

The presentation of Athletic D's to the girls was made by Carl Bremner, President of the Boy's Athletic Association. Those receiving their awards were Beatrice Handspiker, Jean Pyne, Doris Wedger, Ruth Morehouse, Joyce Cobham, Genevieve Gidney, Betty Mount, Elizabeth Turnbull, Jean Warner and Elbert Woodman.

John Pyne, President of the Girls' Athletic Association presented Athletic D's to the boys. Winners were John Andrews, Bill Hutchinson, Frank Oliver, John Roope and George Andrews. John Andrews' award was presented to his father, Municipal School Board Chairman, J. Vian Andrews, as John was unable to attend the exercises because of illness.

Following the presentation of these awards, a beautiful piano duet was presented by Margaret McLean and Connie Jones.

Dramatic D's were presented by Shirley Stark, to Marilyn Campbell, Connie Jones, Carolyn Forrest, Bill Hutchinson, John Roope, Graham McBride and Elizabeth Turnbull. Shirley was presented with her Literary D by John Roope.

In his address, Supervisor F. C. Burks urged the pupils who were leaving the school this year to always strive to live up to the high ideals and standards that had motivated them during their school years. He stated that, although he felt and hoped all of them would accomplish their purpose in life, he would leave with them a word of caution. This was, he said, not to be downcast or overcome by adverse happenings during their life. He said that, while it was easy to be lifted up by success and happy circumstances, many young people, flushed with success and the plaudits of the crowd, were not able to properly accept and overcome what might seem like defeat and failure.

He said that he had sought after good friends, and he urged listeners to truly realize that happenings in their life will always live up to the best and overcome the worst.

Following a short intermission, a really grand and act drama, "They Were Warriors", written by Baden Powell of the staff of the Rural High School, was presented. This play, which told in a very effective manner the moving story of a father and daughter, strongly advised the return of their loved ones who go down to the sea in ships. It will present the talents of those who took part and conveyed the story in a moving and deeply meaningful and splendid manner.

Following the play were the singing of hymns and a solo by the choir. The choir sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Concluding the exercises was the singing of hymns and a solo by the choir. The choir sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer".

OS/NAS Bill Cox of St. Mary's Ontario, who recently joined the Canadian Navy, arrived at H.M. C.S. Cornwallis on Monday where he will be stationed. Bill is a brother of Richard Cox of Digby.

About This and That

Members of the Clare Home and School Council are to be congratulated in their action of sponsoring the first Music Festival ever held in the Clare district. More than 700 pupils participated.

Music Festivals are now an annual event in most sections of Nova Scotia, the Digby area being one of the few exceptions. Without doubt these festivals are contributing much toward music appreciation, and the development of talent.

Owing to the facts the writer has no formal musical education, and that for the past two years he has been bedridden in an institution many miles from Digby, he is, perhaps, in no position to criticize or judge the musical tastes of the people of Digby and surrounding communities, nevertheless, as he recalls, the local musical events attracting large audiences were those featuring the strumming of banjos, "gee-tars", and the rhythm of fiddles along with the nasal wailings of cowboy and hill-billy vocalists. On the other hand, those programs that featured real musical talent too often went begging for audiences.

There is a definite place (never mind where) for cowboy and hill-billy lyrics, and they are worthy of their fair share of appreciation, however, it does seem a pity to let them crowd out such a great wealth of superior music—and the better kind is by no means confined to the opera or to the classics, but includes many of the popular numbers.

Unfortunately there are those who are inclined to regard anything above the musical level of "Home on the Range" as either grand opera or highly classical! It is surprising how often comments such as "How can people listen to stuff like that," or "There should be a law against that kind of screeching," can be heard when programs such as "Singing Stars of Tomorrow," or "The Album of Familiar Music" programs are on the air.

It is to be hoped the time will come when some Digby organization will follow the example set by the Clare Home and School Council, and sponsor a Music Festival for the Digby area—by so doing they will help to fill a great need. —J. M. W.

Father's Day Founded Waldec

To Fight Disrespectful Attitude

The approach of Father's Day on Sunday, June 19th, brings to mind a sentimental story behind this day, well established in Canadian tradition as the one-day in the year we honour the paternal head of the family.

The idea originated not on the male side but from the sentimental feelings of a mother. This woman, Mrs. Bruce Dodds, of Spokane, Washington, had looked back for many years upon the kindness and courage of her own father who raised six motherless children with faultless devotion as well as earning a livelihood for the family. So deeply impressed was Mrs. Dodds with this devotion, that she often wondered if more fortunate families, with mother and father, appreciated both parents equally. She knew that children, who spend more time under mother's wing, fail to see the importance of the paternal head of the family—aside from being a bread winner.

Mrs. Dodds, a spiritual minded woman, took her idea to the religious groups in her city. Backed by her pastor, Rev. Conrad Blümm, the Y.M.C.A. and a Ministers' Alliance, the first Father's Day was observed on the third Sunday in June, 1910. Mrs. Dodds' group met in church for song and verbal tribute. At that time, there were many songs and jokes in circulation making Father the butt of jokes. The group attempted to fight this disrespectful attitude shown to Fathers. Press, pulpit and women's groups took-up the crusade and in very short order Father's Day was evolved.

This thoughtful woman's attempt to have "Fatherhood revered as greatly as Motherhood" is today a reality in the United States, Canada and many other countries. This year, the Canadian Father's Day Council have adopted as their slogan, "For Better Citizenship — Make Dad Your Pal."

This Council feels that if the younger Canadian citizens paid more attention to Father, and the grown-up citizens gave fatherhood more respect, there would be less juvenile delinquency, family troubles and divorces. They feel that the modern freedom of this enlightened age does not give a license to show disrespect for the paternal head of the family.

Plan Handcrafts

Exhibit

A Nova Scotia Handcrafts Exhibition will be a feature of the Halifax Bicentenary program. Mary E. Black, provincial director of handcrafts and home industries for the Department of Trade and Industry, announced recently the exhibition will open Wednesday, June 15, and continue until August 15.

The two month show is expected to prove of special interest to visitors to the city during the celebrations. It will be located in the Provincial Handcraft Centre Street.

Craftsmen all over Nova Scotia have been invited to submit samples of their best work for display. No goods will be sold but orders will be forwarded to the craftsmen producing articles wanted.

Miss Black said space limitations would permit showing only articles of the highest standards of workmanship and design. Those not meeting these requirements would be returned to their owners.

Exhibits will be classified in two sections: (1) outstanding examples of handcrafts for which no repeat orders can be taken, and (2) work of producing craftsmen who wish to bring their products to the attention of the purchasing public.

Following the Halifax exhibition the annual Craftsman-at-work Exhibition sponsored by the Department of Trade and Industry will be held at Yarmouth. Dates for this event are August 22 to 27 inclusive.

Miss Black said that interest in Nova Scotia's handcrafts program has grown to such an extent that it has been impossible to obtain sufficient qualified instructors to meet the requests for craft training.

To Hold Music School

A new 10-day school in community music will be offered in August along with the second annual session of the Nova Scotia Drama School, according to an announcement recently by the Adult Education Division of the Provincial Department of Education.

The two schools will be held together at Camp Kademah on Lake William, near New Germany, 15 miles from Bridgewater, August 22 to 31, and are open to all the Nova Scotians interested in music or drama.

"These schools are set up to help community leaders and teachers working in music or amateur dramatics," Guy Henson, Director of the Adult Education Division, said. "In giving two-day short courses in music leadership to about 150 persons in six counties and in helping choral and other music groups, we found an interest in longer training such as the new 10-day school in music will give."

Last summer's drama school, held at Seabright, Halifax county, drew 20 adults, about half of whom were teachers.

Donald Wetmore, the division's dramatics adviser, will again be in charge of the drama school. Instructors in music will be Pro-

"We feel", he said, "after three years of operation that these services are beginning to meet a real need in cultural life of Nova Scotia communities. The success of the dramatics school last year and the offering of both music and dramatics this year, reflects the growing interest of many local leaders in these fields."

Tuition is free but there will be a charge of $2.50 per day for room and board. The course in community music will offer the rudiments of music, choral technique, conducting, appreciation, group singing, musical games and dances and will aim to develop leadership from among those who have had little or no musical training. Drama students will learn how to produce a play and improve average acting ability, and do practical work in scenery construction, lighting, costume and make-up.

Registration for both music and drama at the office of the Adult Education Division.

Camp Kademah will be the meeting place of a third school at the same time. Maritime divisions of the Canadian Red Cross will conduct a school in swimming and water safety at the camp during the 10-day period. It will be directed by Hugh A. ## Continue Report on County Survey

(This week the Courier presents a further installment of the Demographic Survey of Digby County made by William and Beaudine Deming. Portions of this report have been carried in previous issues of the Courier and others will appear as space permits.)

PART I

(d) Economic Distribution of People

All along the Bay of Fundy, particularly the head of the Neck and the Island of the Neck, the principal occupation is fishing. To a lesser extent fishing is carried on along the St. Ann's Bay shore as well. In the Bay shore the home of the fisherman is said to be the home of the largest scallop fishing fleet in the world with over 40 boats operating out of this fishery, processing from all over the shell fish from the neighbouring city and the neighbouring county. It has several shucking plants; a frozen plant, lobster handling plant, and a large fresh fish plant. The area near Digby is called agricultural in the cultivated sections of the area. Only a very low percentage of the population on farm income alone. For the most part the inhabitants throughout the county grow their own vegetables, and supply their own eggs, milk, butter and meat. The people who live in Weymouth and Digby and Hillgrove and Acadiaville of Digby municipality are the primary ones who are mostly on the farm. In the Digby Neck region the French districts is devoted to French. However, it is oversimplification to list these as discreet areas to discreet occupations. Along the French shore for all three to be engaged in the same individuals with the same occupation. In June, farmland and cutting wood lots in their own wood lots in the above Weymouth there is much fishing along St. Ann's Bay. Here the main occupation is farming with the fishing in towns for the come. Along Digby Neck the occupation with farming is the main occupation. Between Digby and River, many depend on fishing or three or four to farming is carried on.

(e) Intercountry Migrations

The population of appears to be rather migrations which almost solely from New England States. Many of the young French and English going to New England for at least the last few years. Numbers of return to Digby County settle down. For the summer visitors also from the New and some are people lived in the country latives there. This New England seems several factors:

1. The proximity.
2. Higher wages and opportunities for employment.
3. Similarly of the two areas. Many county find little doing themselves to the lumbering industry and Massachusetts.

Continue Report on County Survey

(This week the Courier presents a further installment of the Dymond Report on a survey of Digby County by William and Beatrice Dymond, of the University of Toronto. The report is published in serial form in the Courier and others will appear as space permits.)

PART I

(d) Economic Distribution of the People

All along the Bay of Fundy, particularly the southern shore, the principal occupation is fishing. To a lesser extent fishing is carried on along the St. Mary's Bay shore as well, but it is not the chief source of income. Digby is said to be the home of the largest scallop fishing fleet in the world with over 40 boats operating out of this base. It is also the center of the fish industry, processing both fresh and dry, and the neighbouring county, Annapolis. It has several fish smoking plants, a frozen fish plant, lobster handling plants, and a large fresh fish business. The area near Digby is that the called agricultural in that the cultivated sections of the farms are small. Only a very low percentage of the population depend on farm income alone although for the most part the inhabitants throughout the county grow their own vegetables, and supply their own eggs, milk, butter and meat.

The people who live between Weymouth and Digby, and in the Hillsboro and Acadia areas of Digby municipality appear to be the primary ones who depend mostly on the farm. Aside from the Digby Neck region the back country in both the English and French districts is devoted to lumbering. However, it would be an oversimplification to think of these as discreet areas devoted to discreet occupations since along the French shore it is usual for all three to be carried out by the same individuals with lobstering being the occupation from December to June, farming in the summer and cutting wood from their own wood lots in the fall.

Above Weymouth there is not much fishing along St. Mary's Bay. Here the main occupation is farming with the men working in towns for their cash income. Along Digby Neck and the Islands, fishing is the principal occupation with farming as a sideline. Between Digby and Bear River, many depend on the tourist business at the shore and for two or three miles back of this farming is carried on.

(e) Intercounty Mobility
The population of the county appears to be rather stable. The migrations which do occur are almost solely from and to the New England States. A good many of the young people, both French and English, have been going to New England to work for at least the last two generations. Numbers of these people return to Digby County later to settle down. For the most part, the summer visitors to Digby are also from the New England states and some are people who have lived in the county or have relatives there. This close tie with New England seems to be due to several factors.

1. The proximity.
2. Higher wages and more opportunities for employment.
3. Similarity of occupations in the two areas. Men from Digby find little difficulty adapting themselves to the fishing and lumbering industries of Maine and Massachusetts.

(f) Intracounty Mobility

One of the long time changes which has been taking place is a movement of the French up the coast into Weymouth and beyond into Plympton. The town of Digby has also increased its French population considerably in the last ten years. The Catholic congregation of Digby is said to have grown from 35 to 500 in that time. Another movement which is now almost complete in the shift out of Clare of the few English families who were settled in this district. There is also a movement of the English rural population into Digby town although this is not large scale.

4. A feeling of kinship as most of their ancestors lived in New England at one time — the English before the revolution and the French after the expulsion.

5. Some traditional hostile feeling toward upper Canada.

PART II SOCIAL ORGANIZATION Introduction

Digby County is really made up of two separate social worlds living side by side with very little contact between them. The French Acadian Catholic community differs widely from the predominantly English Protestant community in systems of belief about religion, race relations, morals, attitudes toward the future and the past, patterns of recreation and feelings of community solidarity.

Whereas the villages of Digby municipality are scattered over the area with a few miles of unsettled land between them, making for small separate units, the houses on the French Shore are close together all along the highway with no real physical break between the villages. This is one important difference that sets the tone for many other differences. Most of the people feel themselves to be all part of one community. The French Shore gives one the impression of one continuous village and has been called "the longest main street in the world." Each village has much the same characteristics as the others and all seem to feel closely identified with one another.

In contrast, the villages of Digby municipality differ greatly from one another. The prosperous, socially healthy island fishing village is very different from the back country subsistence farming community of North Range and both are very different from the small commercial centre of Bear River and the larger urban

Campaign Centres In Western N. S.

The anti-tuberculosis campaign of the Nova Scotia Department of Health will center on Shelburne, Yarmouth and Digby counties for the next three months. The department announced recently that every adult in those counties will have an opportunity to get a chest X-Ray free of charge as the government's mobile X-ray unit tours the western section of the province in June, July and August.

With the cooperation of the Nova Scotia Tuberculosis Association and local tuberculosis, welfare and social organizations, the department will aim to X-ray the entire adult population of the three counties as nearly as possible.

"An all-out effort to reduce tuberculosis as a health hazard in Nova Scotia is in progress," Dr. J. S. Robertson, assistant deputy minister of health, said. "Mass radiography is an important adjunct to the attack on the problem by medical profession both private and official."

"If every person over 16 years old, regardless of how well they feel or how old they are, will look upon it as a personal and community responsibility to make sure of their chest health, we shall be on the way toward a realization of our aim to eliminate this serious disease. The mobile chest X-ray unit offers a quick and convenient way to do this."

The chief object of the unit is to locate early unknown cases of tuberculosis, he explained, which can be more quickly cured and eliminated as sources of infection.

First part of the unit's schedule in Shelburne county is as follows:

Lockeport — June 9, 10 a.m. to 12 noon, 1.30 to 4.30 p.m.; June 10, 9 a.m. to 12 noon, 1.30 to 4.30 p.m.
 Jordan Falls — June 13, 9 a.m. to 12 noon, 1.30 to 3.30 p.m.
 Shelburne — June 14, 10 a.m. to 12 noon, 1.30 to 4.30 p.m.; June 15, 9 a.m. to 12 noon, 1.30 to 4.30 p.m.; June 16, 9 a.m. to 12 noon, 1.30 to 4.30 p.m.
 Ingomar — June 17, 9 a.m. to 12 noon.
 Port Clyde — June 18, 9 a.m. to 12 noon.
 Baccaro — June 20, 1.30 to 4.30 p.m.; June 21, 9 a.m. to 12 noon, 1.30 to 4.30 p.m.

COUNTY SURVEY

1. Government

Digby County is concerned with five separate governing bodies. 1. The Digby Town Council; 2. The Digby Municipal Council; 3. The Clare Municipal Council; 4. The Nova Scotia Provincial Government at Halifax; 5. The Federal Government of Canada at Ottawa.

(a) Digby Town Council

The Town of Digby was incorporated in 1890 and has had a town council since that date. The council is composed of seven elected officers—six councillors and a mayor, plus a town clerk who is appointed by the council. The councillors serve two-year terms staggered so that there is an election every February. The councilman polling the highest number of votes automatically becomes deputy mayor. The office of mayor is voted on separately. The council meets regularly once a month. Although there are 1200 people in Digby who qualify to vote in the town elections, only about one-third of these people voted in the 1947 and 1948 elections.

The town clerk's duties include the receipt and disbursement of money, keeping records of the money and keeping records of the minutes of the council meetings. He keeps general accounts of revenue from taxation which covers fire and police protection, and he keeps utility accounts which include water and electric power. Since the clerk is also automatically secretary-treasurer of the school board, he keeps the school accounts.

The town council is responsible to the Provincial Department of Municipal Affairs which checks and approves of the budget and any new, heavy expenditures. The town has a volunteer fire organization and employs two regular policemen, one day and one night man.

(b) The Digby Municipal Council

The Digby Municipal Council is made up of 12 members who serve three-year terms. One councilman is elected to represent each of the following districts:

Acaciaville, Barton, Culloden, Freeport, Hill Grove, Rossway, Sandy Cove, Smith's Cove, Tiverton, Westport, Weymouth, Weymouth North.

The duties of the municipal council include the upkeep of the municipal poor house, the back roads, the paying of teachers' salaries, handling property assessment and tax collection. Each councilman appoints a man in his district to act as assessor and another to act as tax collector. He also appoints people to serve as fence viewers, inspectors of fruit and vegetables, inspectors of wood, timber, logs, piles and shingles, inspectors of meat and fish, health wardens, overseers of the highways, fire wards, pound keepers, and overseers of the poor. The municipal school board is made up of three councilmen and three provincial government appointees.

Councilmen are paid $10 a day and mileage for each day of meetings they attend. Regular meetings are held twice yearly in January and May. The salary does not usually total more than $100 a year per councilman. There is a provision for yearly joint meetings of the Municipal and Town councils, but in practice these are very rarely held, only twice in 21 years. The Digby and Clare councils do not have any joint meetings, the occasional joint business which does arise being handled by the county solicitor. The Council employs a clerk and a deputy clerk who receive and disburse money and keep tax records. The budget is under the general supervision of the Department of Municipal Affairs in Halifax.

The municipal poor house at Marshalltown has relatively few poor people now in residence as all those over 70 receive the Old Age Pension. The inmates (about 40) are mostly those old or sickly people who have no one to look after them, plus a few who are mentally deficient or harmlessly insane.

It is the council's duty to see that the back roads are kept shovelled out in winter and all boys 16 to 18 are required to do the work. This is a hold over from the free labour days, although the work has actually been paid since 1932.

The province takes care of the main roads and taxes the county for this service. The county was $21,000 in debt in 1934 but is now solvent and very few people are behind in their taxes. As a matter of policy the council tries to have a few tax sales every year to serve as a warning.

Although in the formal organization, the councilmen only serve three-year terms, in practice there are very few contested elections and it is usual for a man to hold office for a good many years. One has served for 26 years, another 23, still another 22. The office is regarded as somewhat of an honour and is given to a respected local man. However, the job seems to entail a good deal of work without much financial reward. Still, it is a role expected of a responsible man in the community and is therefore accepted by him as a duty. "Politics" have been kept out of both the elections and the working of the council.

It is important to note that the council is now losing a good many of its major functions. It used to be in charge of the roads but these have since been taken over by the Provincial Government for the most part. The council also used to be in charge

(c) The Clare Municipal Council

In Clare there are now about eight districts each represented by a councilman: Bellevue's Cove, Church Point, Comeauville, Meteghan River, Meteghan and Cape St. Mary, Salmon River and Hectanooga, Concession, Corberrie.

The formal duties are much the same as the Digby Municipal Council. The council meets twice yearly, in February for 7-8 days, and in May for 3-4 days and their budget must be approved by the Department of Municipal Affairs, Halifax. They have their own poor home which at the present time is taking care of about 30 people. There is more turnover in the office of councilman along the shore districts with the present holders of these offices only averaging about five years. However, in the two back country sections, Corberrie and Concession, the same men have held the positions for 23 and 25 years respectively. The Clare municipality was $80,000 in debt a few years ago but now has $24,000 in the bank.

In this area, as in Digby municipality, there is a feeling that the council is losing many of its functions. One man said, "We haven't much to do now," another "The family allowances have taken many of the problems off our hands"; and another "Our problems are diminishing since the province has taken over the T.B. patients and the insane."

(d) Provincial Government

At time of writing this report, there was only one provincial member to serve both Digby and Clare. Nova Scotia in general and Digby County in particular has been overwhelmingly Liberal in politics for a long time. Also at time of writing there were no Progressive Conservative members in the provincial legislature, the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation with two seats being the official opposition. The Digby County representative was J. Willie Coe, an Acadian, who had held office for 41 years. He held the post of Minister without Portfolio in the Provincial Cabinet. The county is now split into two districts, Digby and Clare, and an English representative is elected from Digby.

(e) The Dominion Government, Ottawa

At time of writing the federal representative of this area was Rt. Hon. Mr. Dingley, who was the wartime Minister of Finance. The people state that "he was a good man but he got too far away from us." There is considerable feeling that the Federal Government has been unfair to the Maritime Provinces in general and to Nova Scotia in particular. The sentiment pattern is similar in both Digby and Clare—a feeling that we are neglected and victimized by the wealthy more industrial provinces of Ontario and Quebec which really hold the political power. The Maritimes have unfavorable freight rates, for example, which make it difficult for them to compete in the big off markets of Central Canada. (to be continued)

The Progressive Conservative Party's Declaration of Policy — Drafted and Approved by Canadians from every Province — Representing Every walk of Life

George Drew

Since Parliament dissolved a few weeks ago, Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew has visited all ten provinces. He and the Party he leads, as a result of this tour, are convinced of one thing: It's Time for a Change!

The important thing is for all Canadians to decide between now and June 27th is what that change will be.

With this thought in mind the Progressive Conservative Party takes this opportunity to present some of the major items of its Declaration of Policy. This is no hastily-drafted election manifesto, nor is it the opinion of one man. It expresses the unanimous opinion of delegates from every province who met in Ottawa from September 30th to October 2nd last year.

The importance of many of our statements of policy has been greatly emphasized by the conduct of the government during the recent session, but the policies themselves remain unchanged. They were prepared in the belief that they will serve the best interests of all the people of Canada. It is one statement of policy for the whole of Canada. The purpose of the undertaking we give to Canadians can be broken down under three headings: Opportunity, Security and Freedom.

OPPORTUNITY

The Progressive Conservative Party will assure opportunity to all our people by a bold and progressive national development program.

Canada stands on the threshold of her greatest period of development. A vigorous Progressive Conservative government with faith in the future will bring into production the immense resources which we possess in every part of Canada.

There is no part of Canada where there are not new opportunities of development if we provide the electric energy and other sources of power to encourage new industries and new types of agricultural production.

The Progressive Conservative national development program will cover development of power, oil, coal, mineral resources and the transportation facilities for their full use.

We will:

(a) Establish a National Development Advisory Council in co-operation with the provinces.

(b) Establish a National Power Authority to co-operate with the provinces in the technical examination of possible power development and in the actual development of electric power at cost.

(c) Undertake the commencement of a joint conservation, irrigation and power project on the Saskatchewan River.

(d) Encourage the development of power in the Maritime Provinces from coal as well as other means.

(e) Promote the development of the great iron ore resources of Canada and the establishment of a greatly expanded steel industry.

(f) Stimulate the development of petroleum and other mineral resources in co-operation with the provinces, by taxation and fiscal policies to encourage the investment of risk capital.

(g) Institute a vigorous program of water conservation, reforestation, flood control, irrigation and drainage schemes throughout Canada, for the reclamation of unproductive land and the preservation of our soil.

(h) Establish a positive program of marshland reclamation and development.

(i) Take effective steps as soon as possible to co-operate with the provinces in building and feeder roads, Canada highway greatly increase our not only greatly increase our transportation facilities, but also to develop Canada's tourist business.

(j) Remove the discrimination in freight rates between different areas.

(k) Deal effectively with the special transportation problem of Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Vancouver Island.

(l) Take the necessary steps to proceed with the development of the power and waterways project on the St. Lawrence River.

Expansion of Trade

The Progressive Conservative Party will adopt every practical means to expand our external trade with the U.S. and all other nations.

Specifically we will:

(a) Promote and expand overseas trade through reciprocal trade agreements.

(b) Remove all abnormal trade barriers imposed by way of license, quota or embargo.

(c) Remove the arbitrary provisions of the Foreign Exchange Control Act.

(d) Re-value the Canadian dollar within the limits permitted by the Bretton Woods agreement to assist our external trade.

(e) Open negotiations to make the dollar and the pound convertible, to regain our markets in the sterling area.

Reduction of Taxes

Sweeping reforms in our taxation system and reduction of taxes are necessary to encourage initiative and reward hard work.

The Progressive Conservative Party will:

(a) Increase exemptions to at least $2,500 for married people and $1,250 for single persons.

(b) Increase the exemption for dependent children by $200.

(c) Lower the general rate of personal income tax.

(d) Allow deductions to farmers for work done on the farm by members of the family.

(e) End the persecution of our people by tax-collectors acting under arbitrary powers.

(f) Encourage development of small business operated by the owner, by allowing proper exemption from money re-invested in the business and not paid out in profits.

(g) Provide for a graduated reduction in taxes on other small businesses left in the business for further development.

(h) Abolish nuisance taxes and make substantial reductions in general sales and excise taxes on necessities.

SECURITY

Security of Employment

The Progressive Conservative Party assures security to all Canadians by the following Declaration of Policy.

In co-operation with the various provincial governments we will explore every possibility of expanding the opportunities for work by encouraging new types of production. We believe that in Canada security for employment is based upon the fullest development of our resources which will create new employment and increase domestic markets.

Contributory Social Security Program

This plan will provide the following benefits:

(1) Old-age pensions at 65 without a means test.

(2) Unemployment Insurance benefits to be extended to include payments for time lost due to accident or sickness.

(3) Adequate medical and hospital care to be provided under a national health program which will include the most extensive preventive health services.

(4) The same family allowance for every child, regardless of the number of children in the family.

These and other provisions in our program will be worked out in co-operation with the provinces.

An Effective Program for the Construction of Houses

1. Loans and priorities will be made available to those who desire to build their own homes.

2. Low-cost housing will be provided under plans jointly approved by the Dominion, Provincial and Municipal governments. These plans will be administered by the municipalities.

3. New types of construction will be encouraged to reduce building costs.

4. Restrictions on building supplies will be removed.

Security for Farmers

The Progressive Conservative undertakes to:

1. Enact floor price legislation based on the following principles: (a) A definite formula in the Farm Prices Support Act for arriving at floor prices. (b) The formula will allow for variations in production and demand. (c) Floor prices will be announced well in advance of the production period. (d) Floor prices will be arrived at in consultation with representatives of the producers.

2. We favour the restoration of the Canadian Wheat Board Act of 1935 to serve as a marketing agency for wheat producers.

Coarse grains as well as wheat will be handled on a voluntary basis by the Wheat Board.

The producers themselves will decide the method by which their wheat will be handled and sold. Marketing boards and representatives of the producer organizations should and will determine their own method of marketing.

3. We will establish a board of livestock commissionaires.

4. We will extend the activities of the Federal Farm Loan Board, so that farmers can take advantage of long-term, low-interest rates.

5. We will increase research in agricultural research to find new uses for agricultural products.

We will in co-operation with Provincial Departments of Agriculture, conduct thorough studies of contagious animal and plant diseases to reduce the heavy annual loss from these causes.

6. In determining agricultural policy, we will enlist the cooperation of farmers' organizations throughout Canada.

The best interests of agriculture can be served under the guidance of those with practical knowledge of each phase of agriculture.

Security for Labour

Good working conditions for our people and friendly relations between workers and management, are not only in the best interests of the workers, but also in the best interests of the country.

The security and happiness of all our workers must be protected by legislation providing for effective collective bargaining, the determination of mutual rights, as well as conciliation and settlement of difficulties which may arise.

(a) We will establish a National Labour Council with equal representation from labour and management. This council will examine causes of labour disputes and propose solutions.

(b) We will provide for greater labour representation on government boards, commissions and agencies.

(c) We will encourage profit-sharing plans, through adjustments in taxation.

(d) We will improve legislation providing for compulsory collective bargaining, certification of labour organizations after a majority vote; machinery for conciliation of disputes; fair and adequate wages; standard hours of work, keeping in mind the industry concerned; holidays with pay.

Security for Veterans

(a) We will establish a standing committee of the House of Commons on Veterans Affairs to regularly review veterans' problems; (b) to retain and constantly improve all veteran legislation; (c) to eliminate all unnecessary delays in dealings with veterans and to simplify procedures; (d) to extend pension benefits to the members of the merchant navy; (e) to accept the medical category recorded on enlistment; (f) to stabilize pensions of First World War veterans; providing for upward revision where the disability has increased; (g) to increase and extend provision of war veterans' allowances — with an increase in the amount that a veteran may earn above the allowance paid.

FREEDOM

The Progressive Conservative Party pledges itself to terminate bureaucratic action by government officers-in-council; ministerial proclamation and departmental regulation.

(a) We will restore responsible government answerable to the elected representatives of the people.

(b) We believe in the widest possible measure of personal freedom consistent with law, order and the general welfare.

(c) We are opposed to powers which give the government control over the rights of the individual.

(d) We will restore the full supremacy of the law and the equality of every citizen under the law.

(e) We will conserve the authority of the provincial and municipal governments over local affairs.

(f) On assuming office we will convene a Dominion-Provincial conference.

(g) We believe that national unity depends upon respect for the federal constitution and the clear definition of the responsibilities of the Dominion, Provincial and Municipal governments, with assurance of adequate financial resources to carry out those responsibilities.

(h) We undertake to restore freedom of speech over the radio and to place the supervision of all Canadian broadcasting under an independent administrative body.

(i) We will abolish the license fee on radio receiving sets.

(j) We give our unqualified support to the North Atlantic Security Pact.

I believe this statement will provide convincing reasons why you should cast your ballot on June 27th for the Progressive Conservative candidate in your own constituency so that the public business of this great country will be handled by a strong, vigorous and progressive government in the years ahead.

Hold First Graduation Exercises at Digby Rural High School

Valedictorian—
Trophy Winner

Beautifully decorated with summer flowers and festooned with streamers bearing the purple and white colours of the Rural High, the stage of the commodious auditorium of the new Digby Rural High School provided a symbolic setting for the first Graduation Exercises held at the new school which were held last Friday evening.

The capacity audience were deeply moved as the long procession of graduates, the girls in long white gowns and the boys in blue jackets and grey trousers, made its way down the aisle of the auditorium and onto the stage. Music for the procession was provided by Mrs. Lillian Nichols at the piano.

After the graduating class and School Board officials had taken their place on the stage, the Invocation was pronounced by William Hutchinson, President of the Students' Council.

This was followed by introductory remarks by the Chairman of the Board of School Commissioners, Dr. J. R. McCleave. Dr. McCleave, in his remarks, stated it was indeed a proud moment to be present at the first graduation exercises at the new Rural

High School and to witness the first group of graduates preparing to leave the new school of which he said he knew they, their parents and all interested, were deeply proud. He traced briefly the development of the new school and told of plans being made for the coming year, in closing he paid tribute to the teaching staff who, he stated, had worked under great difficulties and heavy pressure during the year.

Following the Chairman's remarks a piano solo was rendered by Roland Theriault who played "Pure as Snow" by Gustave Lange. This was followed by the Valedictory address, delivered by Annette Muise. Diplomas were then awarded to the members of the graduating classes by the Chairman of the School Board.

A highlight of the program was the presentation of the War Memorial Cup Trophy, by Principal F. C. Purdy to William Hutchinson. In making the presentation, Mr. Purdy said it was the unanimous decision of the judges that this trophy, awarded by the staff of the Rural High School to the pupil most outstanding during the High School years and in memory of those from the area who gave their lives in World War II, should go to Bill Hutchinson who, he said, had given real leadership to the pupils of the school during his years in high school in Digby.

After the presentation of this award the address to the graduating classes was given by Rev. Professor Harry E. Dysart of Kings College.

Following Mr. Dysart's address a vocal solo was rendered by Mr. Gerald Goodwin, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Lillian Nichols. Presentation of the Debating Trophy was then made to Mr. Willis Hall, Debating Instructor, by Annette Muise. This trophy, won by the debaters of the Digby Rural High School in the West Valley contests, was presented to Mr. Hall to be placed in the archives of the new school.

In his report, Principal F. C. Purdy commented on the completion of the new school and spoke at some length regarding the philosophy of the Rural High School. He paid deep tribute to the teaching staff of the school who, he said, had done a tremendous job in carrying out their work so successfully during the year under trying circumstances during the transition period.

Mr. Purdy outlined a number of program changes made during the year and stated these included the introduction of a course on Agriculture which had been designed to meet the needs of this area. Other changes, he stated, were the introduction of courses in citizenship, a general mathematics course for Grade X, shop math, the provision of special aptitude course in industrial arts in collaboration with the Nova Scotia Technical College and the introduction of a physical education program.

The Principal stated a special activities program had been provided at the end of each day to cover public speaking, dramatics, debating, music, handicrafts, photography and other activities. He stated the students had set up and were operating a Student Council canteen which was being operated as a work-experience project by the pupils with profit sharing benefits to the Students' Council.

Addresses Rural High School Graduates

One of the most impressive addresses ever given at a local High School closing was delivered to the graduates of the Digby Rural High School by Rev. Professor Harry E. Dysart of Kings College at the first Graduation Exercises at the new Digby Rural High School which were held last Friday evening.

In his address Mr. Dysart impressed upon the graduates the fact that much of their future lies in their own hands. He stated they had been given an excellent start in life through the training they had received at school. What you do with this training and with your lives in the years that are ahead, he stated, is for the most part up to you.

The speaker urged the graduates to work always with a will and towards a definite goal. He stated they must be willing to face the world with all its disappointments and its hardships and strive to overcome these as they met them. Outside sources, he stated, could contribute much to the future of young people, but, in the final analysis, their ultimate success or failure was in their own hands.

Mr. Dysart stressed the need for the keeping of two great duties in mind in the struggle for success. These were, he said, the duty towards God and duty towards one's fellow man. To illustrate his point he told the pupils two stories, both of which drew the moral that success in life was more than a personal thing and could not be achieved selfishly without thought of God or of those who were also striving towards achievement of their hopes and aims.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. J. R. McCleave and thanks of the gathering were expressed to Mr. Dysart by School Commissioner Victor G. Cardoza.

Donates Flagpole To Rural High School

The thanks of the Board of School Commissioners was expressed by Chairman Dr. J. R. McCleave at the Graduation Exercises at the new Rural High School on Friday evening to Mr. Vincent Snow and A. R. Turnbull, Mr. Turnbull acted as chairman, Mr. Snow delivered the address, read the scriptures and prayer. Frank Tingley sang as a solo, "This is My Father's World", and Mrs. J. M. Wallis told the children's story. An anthem, "Teach Me O Lord" was rendered by the choir.

The flag pole, which is fifty-three feet in height and nine inches across at the butt, was cut by Mr. Theriault on his own woodlot.

Noting the straightness and sturdiness of the stick and feeling it would make an excellent flag pole for the new Rural High School, in Digby, Mr. Theriault came to town and made his offer to donate the pole to the school. The offer was readily accepted and Mr. Turnbull then proceeded to transport the huge stick to Digby where it was erected on the school grounds.

The first occasion on which the Union Jack proudly floated at the top of the new pole was on the visit of Canada's Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, to Digby when he visited the new Rural High School.

Celebrates Birthday

A delightful birthday party was held last Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Murley, Queen Street, when their son, Roger, celebrated his ninth birthday.

Following an afternoon spent in playing games, Roger and his playmates enjoyed a lunch served picnic-style on the lawn.

Growers Anticipate Good Strawberry Season

In common with the berry producers in the other two Maritime Provinces, Nova Scotia producers are anticipating that there will be a good strawberry season.

The plantations are in good shape, there is a good set of berries and prospects for a crop which might be termed "above average" are good. Some berries are already being offered on the Halifax market but the commercial pickings are not expected to come onto the market until the first of the week.

The weather has been dry for several days with the exception of scattered showers which, in the main, have been very light. Although moisture conditions are quite good in nearly all sections of the Province to date, farmers generally, and particularly the berry men, will welcome a few good showers in the next week, otherwise the estimated crop may be reduced somewhat.

Maritime growers are expected to place a production of 3,000,000 quarts of berries on the markets of Eastern Canada and Eastern United States this season. The bulk of this production will go forward as fresh fruit, but, in addition, a considerable quantity will be processed by fast-freezing methods for use at other seasons of the year.

The value of fast-freezing to the industry was forcibly presented at the annual meeting of the Maritime Strawberry Growers' Association at Memramcook, last week and it was generally agreed that this phase of marketing should receive considerable emphasis by strawberry exchanges who are looking to the future. Some experimental work in processing by fast-freezing was done at the ACA Co-operative last season with the berries growers supplying the Nova Scotia and Federal Departments of Agriculture co-operating in the project. The operating was a success and plans are already made to continue this work on a larger scale this summer, in order to determine the best varieties of berries to use, the best types and sizes of containers, the best packs, and so on.

In order that all markets may be adequately serviced, the growers went on record as favoring the continuation of the marketing information service instituted last year and supervised by James MacNeil of the Nova Scotia Department. Under Mr. MacNeil collected information from all the main Maritime markets, as well as from Montreal, Toronto and Boston. This information was then relayed to each exchange and each exchange kept informed of supplies going to each market. In this way, it was possible to keep one market from

Diplomas Designed By Students

The diplomas presented to the senior graduating class of the Digby Rural High School this year were designed by one of the pupils of the school, Miss Annette Muise.

Several weeks ago, when the Board of School Commissioners were considering the matter of graduating diplomas, a hand-drawn design was exhibited to the Board by the Principal. This design, neatly lettered and well illuminated, had been made by Annette Muise, one of the Grade XII pupils of the Rural High.

So impressed were the Board with Miss Muise's effort that they decided to adopt this design for the graduating diplomas for the Rural High and took steps to have reproductions made so they could be distributed to the graduates.

becoming glutted while another might be short of its normal berry requirements. The scheme worked so well last year that every exchange manager attending the meeting last week was all for its continuance.

Officers elected by the growers' Association for the ensuing year include: D. O. Mott, Grand Lake, N. B., President; P. J. MacDonald, Mount Stewart, P. E. I., Vice-President; and D. R. Kelley, Manager Maritime Food Council, Moncton, N. B., Secretary. The Directors include: D. B. LeBlanc, Berwick, N. S.; E. O. Randall, Kingston, N. S.; Leo Leben, Masstown, N. S.; Seymour Dickenson, West Brook, N. S.; Vital Gaudet, Memramcook, N. B.; and Malcolm Reeves, Charlottetown, P. E. I. Mr. Leben is the immediate Past-President.

Laymen Conduct Service

In the absence of Dr. T. W. Hodgson, who attended the United Church Conference at Sackville, the Grace United Church service on Sunday was in charge of Vincent Snow and A. R. Turnbull. Mr. Turnbull acted as chairman, Mr. Snow delivered the address, read the scriptures and prayer. Frank Tingley sang as a solo, "This is My Father's World", and Mrs. J. M. Wallis told the children's story. An anthem, "Teach Me O Lord" was rendered by the choir.

The same service was conducted at Bayview in the afternoon and when a trio was sung by Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Snow and Mrs. Milton Atkinson.

Domestic Science Holds Exhibit

As part of the closing exercises of the new Digby Rural High School an afternoon tea and exhibit of work was held by the Domestic Science Department of the school on Monday afternoon.

Those who attended the tea and exhibit were greatly impressed by the quality of the work exhibited. Included in the exhibits were handmade dresses, luncheon sets, cut work, bathrobes and a host of other items. All of the work was well done and ably demonstrated, not only the talents of the pupils, but also the ability of the teacher, Miss Isabel Chipman.

During the exhibit, tea was served by the students of the Department and guests were welcomed by Miss Chipman.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook returned home Tuesday after spending a week in Boston.

It's Not News, But . . .

Could there be any political significance to that popular song, "Cruising Down the River?"

That loon that couldn't get into the air from solid ground was probably in the same position as a lot of other birds trying their wings next week.

A heavy crop of weeds does not add to the beauty of any flower garden, privately owned or civic property.

Interest in the forthcoming federal election seems to be at a somewhat low ebb locally. Could it be everyone is suffering from an overdose of campaign hokey?

Call Light Installed

A police call light was installed this week on the electric light standard near the ruins of the old Waverley Hotel. This call light was authorized by the Town Council over a year ago, but could not be obtained from the manufacturers until just recently.

The new system will be operated from the telephone exchange and will be used to contact the night constable while he is on patrol. A telephone call box is connected with the light so that calls may be answered by the constable.

Welcome Rain,

The heavy downfall of rain

This week's rain broke a dry

two weeks. Strawberry growers

ment of their crops this season.
Farmers in the coastal areas of the county state the prevalence

Sent Up For Trial
Austin Langford of Weymouth Falls was sent up for trial at a higher court following preliminary hearing before Magistrate G.
H. Peters here on a charge of robbery.
The charge arose out of an affair at Weymouth Falls on the night of June 8th when 56-year-old Leonard Smith was allegedly robbed of a sum of money by two masked men who entered his home, blindfolded him with a heavy bag, and robbed him.
Langford was released on bail
of $2000.
Preliminary hearing into a similar charge arising from the same event against Wendell Langford was postponed until June 28th.
Giving evidence against Austin Langford at the preliminary hearing was Newton Lewis of Weymouth Falls who told of Mr. Smith's coming to his home on the night of the alleged robbery and asking him for aid.
Mrs. Lee Langford, mother of the accused, stated her son had come home late that night and given her ten dollars to keep for him until the morning.
The victim of the robbery, Mr.
Smith, told of the happenings of the night of the affair and stated the two men had whirled him around until he was dizzy after they had relieved him of his money, reportedly some thirty-nine dollars.
Also giving evidence was Spence Sparks who told of accompanying the accused and Wendell Langford in a car from Weymouth Falls toward Weymouth
on the night of the alleged robbery and of their leaving the car near the home of Mr. Smith.
A confession, allegedly made by the accused, was admitted into evidence following considerable argument by counsel. Representing the accused was M. S.
Leonard of Digby. The Crown was represented by E. J. Theriault, K.C.

Continue Report on County Survey

(This week the Courier presents a further installment of the Report on a survey of Digby County made by William and Rosalind Dyson of Cornell University last summer. Portions of this report have been carried in previous issues of The Courier and others will appear as space permits.)

2. Schools

The province of Nova Scotia spends over $9,000,000 a year on education which is more per capita than any other province.

(a) Digby Municipality and Town

The Digby Academy is a combined public and high school. Originally it was only for those who lived in the town with some pupils coming in to attend the upper high school grades. Each small settlement had its own public school, usually a one or two room affair, and employed its own teacher(s). The schools usually included grades up to 10 or 11. During the recent war it became more and more difficult for such schools to attract and hold teachers at the very low pay which was offered. For this reason a sort of minor consolidation took place and the public and high school students from the area immediately surrounding the town of Digby were transported by busses to the Academy. This overcrowded the Academy and necessitated the use of temporary buildings. After the war there was considerable pressure for a new high school and a wider consolidation. This actually took place this fall with the completion of a new Rural High School, the construction of which was financed by the Provincial Government. This is the first of 75 such schools planned by the province. There are to be at least two more in Digby Municipality, one at Sandy Cove to serve the Neck and Islands and one at Weymouth to serve the area from Plympton to Weymouth along the St. Mary's Bay and the back settlements.

The new consolidation area of Digby takes in 12 school districts, a total of 260 rural pupils from as far as Plympton and North and South Range. It was intended that it should take in the Neck area as far as Roxville, but this section turned down the proposal and preferred to continue their own school. The reasons given center around the increase in taxes it would entail and the fact that they believed it would take the children off the farm.

The consolidation is only for high school students, and Grades 7-12 and the country primary schools will be continued where they are. The new high school buildings include a community center auditorium which will be open at nights for speakers, plays etc. When anything of interest to the community is going on in the high school at night, the school busses will be sent to pick up any parents from the districts who wish to attend.

The new school will emphasize vocational education and domestic science. Agriculture courses are planned in the hope of improving technique and productivity of the farms. The principal of the school has had to face criticism for this policy. Many people have felt that if it isn't reading, writing or arithmetic then "it isn't what I am sending my child to school for."

The proportion who go to a university from Digby municipality is "very low," according to one informant. He says that the people "just can't afford it" and he believes strongly in Federal aid to education. The village of Freeport is, perhaps, one exception to the general rule of very few attending a university. It has a tradition of producing a good many school teachers and ministers, and even some university professors and one university president. One reason for this is that many of these men make enough money fishing in the summer to pay for their college work in the winter. This is not possible for the men who work in the woods or who farm.

The provincial government does some adult education work in the municipality occasionally. At the time of the study there were some courses being given in the Negro settlement of Weymouth Falls on Homecraft and Child Psychology.

(b) Clare

The schools of Clare also come under the Department of Education. Until about 5 years ago, all the teaching was done in English. The children spoke only French in the home and yet were expected to understand their lessons given in English. This was changed by Premier George Murray and now the teaching is half the day in French and half in English.

The municipality of Clare is divided into school sections. Until about 4 years ago, the school in each district was managed by the rate payers who appointed trustees. Under this system, the teachers were very underpaid and the people were unable to keep up the schools. Then the Provincial government helped them form a Greater School Unit with one board of seven men to manage all the schools. The government appoints three men to this board, while the people elect four, and the government contributes more than twice the amount paid by the municipality. This has resulted in teachers' salaries being raised from $600 a year to $2,000. The government is also pressing for consolidation of the little local schools.

At the more advanced grades, there is a convent for girls at Meteghan (which teaches the regular high school curriculum), and the college of St. Anne for boys at Church Point. The latter institution gives instruction from grade 5 through 4 years of university work and is the only college in the county. It is run by the Dominicans and offers both an arts and a commercial course but emphasizes a classical training in Latin and philosophy. The people of Clare are very proud of this institution. It has an enrollment of about 200 pupils who pay no tuition but a fee of $300 per year for room and board. There are 12 priests and 6 laymen on the teaching staff, and the college has provided the preliminary training for 160 priests and 7 bishops since it was started in 1890. It has also given preliminary training to all the local doctors and lawyers.

3. Religion

(a) Digby

The church apparently was a much more vital force in the lives of the people of Digby Municipality a generation ago than it is today. In those days the social life revolved about the church to a considerable degree and the old timers tell of the great times they used to have at sing songs and church picnics. Now, however, there is a general complaint among the protestants of very low church attendance and a lack of interest on the part of young people of the church. "There are too many things outside of the church attracting them" is the way one man put it.

On the other hand, the Catholic church of Clare has continued to be central in the scheme of things. When it became obvious to the priests that the young people were going to pack up in trucks and go off to the movies in Weymouth and Yarmouth on Saturday nights, they fought fire with fire by building church halls in which weekly movies were shown. "It keeps the young people together, it keeps the people here," one of them said. Sports were treated in the same manner. The church halls in Clare have put in bowling alleys, and the church has given its approval of baseball teams and girls softball teams. All these interests of the present generation of young people are thus

Former Centreville Lady Guest Speaker

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. R. J. Knock, of the Weymouth-Digby-Neck Circuit of the United Church, the services for Sunday, June 19, were conducted by Mrs. Ida M. Everett of Oakland, California, assisted by Mrs. Ingram Dakin of Centreville.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Elwyn Morton, the ladies were driven by auto to Weymouth for the service there at 11 a.m.

After the close of the service the ladies were special guests of Mrs. E. C. Gates at the Goodwin Hotel.

At 2 p.m. Capt. Granville drove them to Barton where Mrs. Everett again delivered an address. At the close of the service, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cosman drove them back to Centreville where they stayed to enjoy the evening service.

Beginning at 7 p.m., Mrs. Everett again addressed a large audience after a half hour of song service. The choirs of the United and Baptist Churches participated, some extra male voices were added.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Trask of Little River sang a duet, "At the Crossroads." Mrs. Trask also favored the congregation with a solo, "Sunrise." At the close of Mrs. Everett's talk, Mr. Trask and daughter, Mrs. Emerson Graham, sang "God's Tomorrow."

Mrs. Everett received many congratulations on her wonderful talk and everyone expressed the wish that they might have the pleasure of hearing her again before she leaves for California.

Special mention should be made of the presence of Mrs. Everett's mother, Mrs. A. Laura Graham, who attended the evening service. The hymn, "My Mother's Prayer," was rendered by the male choir especially for her and Ingram Dakin, with whom it is a favorite.

kept centered around the church in Clare but are in competition with the church in Digby municipality.

The communities of Digby municipality not being wealthy and the population being divided as to denomination, very few congregations can afford to support a minister of their own. The practice is for the ministers to travel and cover several communities on Sunday. The Baptist minister at Weymouth North, for instance, also serves Ashmore and New Tusket; and the Baptist minister at Digby also serves Hill Grove, Culloden and Roxville, and the United Church minister for Weymouth also covers Sandy Cove, Centreville and Barton — Brighton.

(b) Clare

In Clare, all the people of one parish go to church there on Sunday. That is, the people go to church as a central meeting place which is the stable heart of the community. This is in contrast to many communities in Digby municipality where one may say the church goes to the people. By this we mean that they are not drawn together around a central core but visited briefly by a man who is not part of their community and who does not remain more than a few hours a week. In Clare the priest is one, if not the, central man in each parish. Two priests serve on the Municipal School Board, for instance. The churches are very large particularly the large stone church of St. Bernard's which took 37 years to build. Much of this was done with voluntary labor and gifts of materials and it is a great source of pride to the people.

JUNE 27

DECIDE now that nothing is going to stop you from casting your vote on Election Day: neither rain, nor pressure of business, nor the thought that your vote isn't important.

It is important! Down through the long cavalcade of history — and through two terrible wars in this century — men have fought and died to win and hold our priceless heritage: the right to vote in freedom for the leaders of our choice.

Blind British-Jewish Evangelist Visits Bear River

Rev. Alexander Marks of London, England, field evangelist of the American Board of Missions to the Jews, New York, is to be visiting the Bear River Baptist Church on June 23-26, Thursday, Friday and Sunday.

Mr. Marks is well known all through the Dominion of Canada as he has preached in some of the largest auditoriums and churches throughout the Dominion. His messages are unusual as he deals with world events in the light of Bible prophecy.

During the speaker's visit he will deal with the Palestine, Arab United Nations tangle. His knowledge of Palestine has made him an authority on this subject. Mr. Marks believes that we are living in the latter days.
He doesn't believe that the end of the world is near, but certainly believes that the stage is being set for one of the greatest battles fought in human history; and this battle will be decided in Palestine on the mountains of Israel. The speaker predicts the ultimate destruction and defeat of the Communist forces. And he will speak about this matter while here. The Mission which he represents is world wide in its scope. It prints one million tracts per year and has been responsible for the baptising of more than 1500 Jews.

Subjects: True meaning of the Jewish Holy Days; Why the Arabs failed to destroy the new state of Israel; Will the U.S.A. and Russia lead the world to Armaggedon?

Pres.—Mrs. William Lent.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Fred Hankinson.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Milton
Sabean.
Treas.—Mrs. Fred Lent.
Secretary — Mrs. Katherine Hankinson.
Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

NOTICE

This notice is to call the attention of manufacturers, repair-ers, Insurance Companies and users of steam power boilers and pressure vessels to the fact that the Nova Scotia Steam Boiler Inspection Act has been re-written and is now known as The Steam Boiler and Pressure Vessel Inspection Act. Therefore, in addition to boilers, pressure vessels must be inspected.

Pressure Vessel means an unfired vessel used for containing gas, air or liquid and having an internal or external pressure in excess of fifteen pounds per square inch and having an inside diameter of more than six inches but does not include:

- (1) pressure vessels under the jurisdiction of any department of the Government of Canada;
- (2) pressure vessels located on locomotives and vehicles used for carrying passengers or freight;
- (3) pressure vessels used for containing either inflammable liquids or gases at temperatures of over 300 degrees Fahrenheit;
- (4) pressure vessels for containing only water under pressure for domestic supply including those containing air, the compression of which serves only as a cushion, or in air lift systems.

All persons concerned are required to report all boilers and pressure vessels in use (excepting those insured against explosion) stating the type, size and working pressure and the approximate time a general inspection could be made, to The Steam Boiler and Pressure Vessel Branch, Nova Scotia Department of Labour, Halifax, N. S.

Doctor Hugh

Never the subject of "good" crops up in Maritime news, invariably, the name of Hugh MacPherson of St. Xavier University is mentioned. It is generally recognized by all who know and follow agricultural practices, the policies which Dr. MacPherson has been advocating all these years are the very practices which are considered sound to-day.

At a recent banquet meeting of the alumni association of St. Xavier, a tribute was paid to Dr. MacPherson by Rev. Dr. J. H.

Gillis; the sentiments are those of all whose privilege it has been to know and associate with "Little Doctor Hugh".

"This man," said Claudian, "certainly has more of life, even granted that another may have more of the open road."

"He has grown old with his Alma Mater; he taught in almost every one of her departments; he pioneered in her Extension Department; and now in ripe old age he commands love and respect from her rostrum of the air."

The Top Six Inches

Although it takes about 400 years to produce one inch of soil, one heavy rain can undo centuries of Nature's soil-making if the water is not controlled for, if given the opportunity, the soil will be washed into the creeks and rivers, and out to sea. The farmer who, on his own farm, diverts what may be only a trickle of water today may prevent a steady stream tomorrow. Changing a contour, grading a water course, planting a few trees — half a hundred small and inexpensive operations — if done in time, may contribute to the overall programme of soil conservation.

The top six inches of the soil is the main natural resource of farming lands the world over but in all too many countries it is being allowed to run away because farmers, those in whose care the soil is placed, do not take the necessary steps to conserve its resources. Good soil management means the implementation of good conservation measures such as reforestation, drainage, contouring, fertilizing, liming, utilizing certain soil types for the production of crops for which they are admirably suited, and so on. In many countries where these practices have not been followed, but in which exploited instead, barren wastes today remain to remind us that which the future holds in store for those who fail to implement and follow good soil conservation measures and a sound soil building programme.

In the final analysis, the only asset of a farm is the soil for if the soil becomes unproductive, the farm is useless. The soil cannot be cared for too well, and part of that care is to keep it on the farm. Any who may not be certain of what their programme should be are reminded that the services of the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture and Marketing are available on request.

Sheep Situation In Great Britain

Figures submitted by the Minister of Agriculture for the year ending April 30th, show another alarming drop in the British wool clip which has been falling steadily since pre-war years. The 1947 — 48 production was 69,500,000 pounds as against 86,900,000 the previous year. In 1933 — 34, it was 120 million. It is noted that most of the decline in recent years has been in the Lowlands, due to the plowing of pasture land and a shortage of competent shepherds. In 1947, a severe blizzard was responsible for serious reductions in sheep population in mountain areas.

It is estimated that there are 100,000 sheep farmers in Great Britain and that 4,000 of these own flocks of 40 sheep or less. However, a campaign designed to popularize sheep husbandry has been instituted with emphasis being placed at agricultural shows throughout the country on the advantages of sheep farming.

Dealing with returns on the year's clip, it is interesting to find that prices obtained by farmers averaged 17.43d a pound, which works out at just over 29 cents in Canadian funds.

Farmers, in general, have been more or less dissatisfied with fertilizers of low analyses and on more than one occasion suggested that fertilizers of high-testing analyses should be used since the purchase of these involved the purchase of less filler material. Their suggestion, insofar as fertilizer analyses were concerned, were endorsed by the Maritime Fertilizer Council at its last annual meeting and it is rather interesting to note the trend that has been shown this season, the first time that low-analysis materials were not advertised for sale.

In reporting on the sale of fertilizers in Lunenburg—Queens this year, Burnette Knight, Agricultural Representative, writes, in part, as follows: "In connection with the campaign last winter re the use of higher-grade fertilizers, the farmers' association is exceptionally well pleased with the results obtained through sales made by their co-operatives. At Caledonia, they handled 7 carloads of fertilizers, and only had two bags of 2-12-6 and 4-8-10 which they had to take because some of the other formulae (3-15-6 and 5-10-10) were not available."

Mrs. Gladys Budrow returned on Monday from visiting for 4 weeks with her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Roger, and Mr. Roger in Amherst.

GIRLS' and BOYS' BASKETBALL TEAMS

First on the program, following the singing of O Canada, was a song by Kindergarten and Grade 1b entitled "Tommy Thumb." Next item was a display of mimetics by the Kindergarten Primer.

Third item on the program was a game, "Squirrels and Trees" by the pupils of Grade 1b. This was followed by a Clap Dance and Sailor Dance by Grades 1a and 2.

The Gipsy Dance performed by the pupils of Grades 3, 4, 5 and 6 was a most attractive number and drew a great deal of audience applause. This was followed by an equally enjoyable number, Folk Dances by Grades 3a and 3b.

One of the most impressive numbers on the program was the anthem, "Land of Freedom," sung by the pupils of Grades 3b, 4, 5 and 6. This was followed by a splendid display of gymnastics by the pupils of Grade 4, 5 and 6.

The program closed with a short address by the chairman of the School Board, Dr. J. R. McCleave, who complimented the students and pupils on their work during the year and urged them to continue these efforts in the year ahead. Dr. McCleave also distributed prizes and awards to the winners in the various grades.

Exercises At Rural High First Graduation

been made during the year, he stated. These included trips to the Experimental Farm at Kentville, attendance at Agricultural Short Course at Conway and at the Maple Leaf Agricultural Fair, trips to historic sites at Annapolis and to attend the Shakespearean play at Acadia University.

In the field of Adult Education Mr. Purdy stated worthwhile accomplishments had been made during the year. In service training for teachers in the area had been conducted under the leadership of Mrs. Eva Wendell; a two-day short course for farmers in the Rural High School Area had been conducted and a series of special lectures from the Department of Agriculture arranged.

Speaking of proposed program changes for the coming year, Mr. Purdy told of the planned introduction of a full time instruction course in music in the Rural High next year for all classes from Grades VII to XII with organization and supervision of music program in the elementary school. He stated the Industrial Arts program in Grade XI would be extended with credit comparable with work done in academic subjects.

It is planned next year to extend the Household Economics course in Grade I for full course credit and shop math and technology will be introduced in Grade XI as a full course. Remedial classes will be set up during one period each day in the Rural High for students requiring special assistance in all or any subject.

With the opening of the term next fall, the speaker stated, the operation of a school lunch program will be commenced under the direction of the Household Economics Department which will have two full time teachers in charge.

Mr. Purdy also stated Vocational courses would also be introduced next year for adult classes if the demand warranted. He stated further organizational work would be done with regard to the school library so that all classes would have at least one period a day for library use.

To conclude his report the Principal outlined the activities which had been carried out in the school auditorium during the term and stated this auditorium had gone a long way in fulfilling the need of a community centre in the area.

Following the Principal's report presentation of prizes was made by members of the School Board and the program was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem and the Recessional March.

Valedictory Address

The following is the Valedictory delivered by Annette Muise at the Graduation Exercises of the Digby Rural High School.

Members of the Board of School Commissioners, Members of the Teaching Staff, Undergraduates, Classmates, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is not without emotion that I speak to you this evening as a representative of the first Graduating Class of the Digby Rural High School — an emotion that is a closely interwoven pattern of the threads of joy and regret.

Our joy springs from the realization that we have reached an important milestone in our lives. Our regret, strangely enough, is a by-product of the very circumstances that have produced our joy, since progress from one goal to another in life frequently means a departure from the near and dear and secure into the relatively unknown and often lonely sea of opportunity.

We are fully aware that the circumstances of our lives will be greatly modified as we leave the peace and security of school days and assume our responsibilities as adult citizens of the world; a world, incidentally, which to-day requires the finest qualities human nature possesses for the solution of its manifold problems.

The lofty aspirations of men of good-will which centered on a brave new post-war world have been but dimly realized. Today, we are confronted with a world which is sharply divided into two mutually antagonistic philosophies of life, making co-operation, whether on the spiritual or cultural, the economic or political planes, seemingly impossible. We see clearly now that the success of the United Nations in preserving peace is just as contingent upon the character and attitudes of its member nations as its unsuccessful predecessor, the ill-fated League. The challenge to all young men and women today is indeed, clear and unmistakable!

Members of the Teaching Staff: To you we extend our sincere thanks for the knowledge you have so patiently and faithfully imparted. It will be our constant effort to prove worthy of the high standards you have set for us. We should like to convey a special word of thanks to our Supervisor, Mr. Purdy, for his many kindnesses and unceasing interest in our behalf.

Members of the School Board: On behalf of the Class of 1949 I wish to express our deep gratitude for the co-operation and interest in our welfare which you have always shown. We have grown to love the new Rural High, and appreciate fully the time and energy you have given in helping to provide it for us.

Undergraduates: To you we leave the responsibilities and privileges of the Senior Class. May you discharge your solemn trust in a manner that will reflect credit upon yourself, and also add to the developing traditions of the Digby Rural High School.

Classmates: I am sure that we all experience the significance of this moment. We have worked together, played together, and are now graduating together. Henceforth our paths will be widely separated, but "the heat and burden of the day," the common lot of mankind, will be lightened by fragrant memories of High School associations. We are facing an unknown future, but, under Heaven, we are humbly confident that we shall play a worthy role in the drama of life.

In the words of the poet:

Let us rise up and live. Behold, each thing
Is ready for the moulding of our hand;
Long have they all awaited our command;
What part is ours? — To take what all things give;
To feel the whole world growing for our sake;
To have sure knowledge of the marvellous;
To laugh and love — Let us rise up and live.

Purdy on the development of the Rural High School, the program for the past session and future plans. Following the Principal's report, there was a discussion period.

He appealed for the support of the voters on June 27th, and pledged active representation of the area if elected.

Also addressing the meeting was E. Keith Potter, who was elected as Progressive Conservative member in the provincial legislature to represent the constituency of Digby Municipality.

Liberals Hold Rally

A capacity audience heard T. A. M. Kirk, Liberal candidate for the federal constituency of Digby-Yarmouth and Senator J. J. Kinley of Lunenburg at the Capitol Theatre here last Friday evening.

In a stirring address, Senator Kinley contrasted the records of the Liberal and Progressive Conservative Parties. He outlined the record of the Liberal administration under the leadership of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent in the field of social legislation and told of the great benefits this program of social legislation has brought to the people of the Dominion.

Senator Kinley went on to read certain statements which he said were being made by the leader of the P.-C. Party, Hon. George Drew. In claiming his party was the most dominant force against Communism, Mr. Drew is just talking, the speaker stated. He said that when the government uncovered the infamous spy ring in Canada, and the commencement to take action against the people involved, it was the P.-C. Party members in the House of Commons who soundly upbraided the government for their actions and talked of the Magna Carta and habeas corpus and the violation of personal rights.

The Liberal Party, Mr. Kinley said, led by Mr. St. Laurent who was then Minister of Justice, have acted against Communism. The P.-C.'s are just talking. He stated he felt it was unwise policy to drive the enemies of democracy underground where they could carry out their subversive efforts undetected and this would result if the policies advocated by Mr. Drew were enacted.

Seek to Increase Trout Size

Federal scientists are experimenting with ways to increase the size of speckled trout in the St. Lawrence River. They are making them available in greater numbers to sports anglers.

By damming a stream to form an artificial pond, the scientists provide a new habitat in which the small trout should grow to sizes suitable for anglers and remain available to anglers in greater abundance than in the flowing streams.

Dr. M. W. Smith, Fisheries Research Board biologist at the St. Lawrence Station, St. Lawrence, N. B., determined that both the size and number of trout caught in an established pond at a Prince Edward Island stream were greater than in the flowing brook, which, like most brooks on the island is fast and productive of small trout.

Working on the theory that by the above observation, that the trout had more better and longer life span associated with manipulating the environment, the fish by damming streams and forming ponds.

At present, investigations are concerned with the determination of the most suitable densities of stock for the best production of trout of angling size under natural conditions in ponds. It is planned to investigate the possibility of improving production by supplementary feeding and fertilization.

Although pond formation is considered a good method of improving trout angling, it restricts the movements of the trout out into the streams. Anglers upon their upstream movements may affect the trout by causing them to aggregate in areas just below the dam throughout the streams, and reducing the stream area available for spawning.

The reduction in spawning areas is most serious if spawning areas are necessary for the survival of the young. The importance of the spawning ground obtained from the stock of trout in the streams, in terms of percentage.

An investigation was begun in 1948 at Ellerslie Brook, P. E. I., to assess the effect of pond formation upon the trout population of the system. To study the relationship between the stock and brook populations, and gain information upon the effect of a fish-way as a means of coming restrictions imposed on trout. The trout population at Ellerslie system will be studied until 1950 without a pond formed.

The scarcity of ivory balls in 1868 was the reason John Wesley Hyatt's search and development of plastic. Plastic ball was the first of the present plastics industry.

Although the number of that are laying eggs is 10 per cent lower than last year, every 100 birds is producing 15 eggs than last year.

Week to Increase Trout Size

Federal scientists are experimenting with ways to increase the size of speckled trout in Prince Edward Island streams and make them available in greater numbers to sports anglers.

By damming a stream to form an artificial pond, the scientists provide a new habitat in which the small trout should grow well and be suitable for angling and available to anglers in the summer months.

Dr. M. W. Smith, Fisheries Research Board biologist at the Atlantic Biological Station, St. John's, N. B., determined that both the size and number of trout caught in an established pond on a Prince Edward Island stream were greater than in the flowing stream.

At present, investigations are concerned with the determination of the most suitable densities of trout in the pond and the best method of spawning and raising them under natural conditions in ponds. It is planned to investigate the possibility of improving production by supplementary feeding and by fertilization.

Although pond formation may be considered a good method of improving trout angling, it restricts the movements of the sea-run trout into the streams. Restrictions upon their upstream movements may affect the sea-run fish by causing them to congregate in areas just below dams, throughout the streams, and by reducing the stream area available for spawning.

The reduction in spawning areas is most serious if sea-run parents are necessary for sea-run progeny, but of much less significance if the sea-run group is obtained from the stock of young trout in the streams, irrespective of parentage.

An investigation was begun in 1945 at Ellerslie Brook, P. E. I., to assess the effect of pond formation upon the trout population of a stream system, to study the relationship between the sea-run and brook populations, and to gain information upon the value of a fish-way as a means of overcoming restrictions imposed by dams upon upstream movements of trout. The trout population of Ellerslie system will be studied until 1950 without a pond being formed.

Red Cross Business Meeting

A business meeting of Weymouth Red Cross Society was held on Wednesday afternoon, June 15, in the Red Cross rooms. The President, Mrs. D. V. Theriault, was in the chair and all officers and convenors were present.

The treasurer's report showed that $609.41 had been raised by the branch for the Campaign Drive, and a bank balance of $150.00 was on hand.

It was decided to form a committee of men to be responsible for the canvass of blood donors in this district. Mr. Clare Ruggles, president of the Legion Branch here, to be the convenor of the committee.

Mrs. H. J. Melanson, reporting for the Women's Work Committee, stated that since the last business meeting, two boxes had been shipped to headquarters at Halifax. The first contained nightgowns and quilts, the sewing and cutting of which were highly complimented by Halifax. The second box contained knitted garments and some quilts. The knitting was done by the Danvers Auxiliary under the able leadership of Mrs. Amy Lewis. On hand at present, and to be cut by the cutters at the next meeting, is flannelette for layettes and wool for baby knitting. This will be distributed for summer sewing, as this branch will not meet for the regular weekly meetings during the months of July and August. The cod liver oil capsules provided for the school children had received favorable comment from some parents, this due, in part, to the splendid co-operation given by the teachers. One family had received aid from this branch after losing their home by fire.

Following the meeting, afternoon tea was served by Mrs. F. Hankinson, Mrs. J. D. Rice and Mrs. Fielding of the Entertainment Committee, assisted by Mrs. Lillian Marshall and Mrs. Richmond Journeay.

MARRIAGE

Ryan - Thurber

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Trinity Church, Halifax on Saturday, June 13, at 2:30 p.m., when Rev. F. A. W. Haffler united in marriage Miss M. Thurber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Thurber of Weymouth North, and Joseph William Ryan, son of Mrs. J. Ryan Cooke and the late Albert Ryan of Halifax. The double ring ceremony was used.

The bride looked radiant as she entered the church on the arm of her brother, Rupert Thurber. She was gowned in a creation of white satin, with fitted bodice and tapered sleeves. The skirt had bustle effect side drapings, with a slight train in back. Her conventional veil was caught up by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and baby's breath.

Miss Thurber, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and looked lovely in a gown of white, with a matching train. She wore a shoulder length veil and carried a nosegay.

The bridesmaid was Lillian McLeod of Halifax, who looked charming in a matching gown of white. She also wore the shoulder length veil and carried a nosegay.

Elmer Ferguson and Douglas Hyland, both of Halifax, acted as best men.

The bride's mother wore navy blue figured crepe with black accessories, and the groom's mother wore navy blue crepe with grey accessories. Following the ceremony a reception was held at St. George's Hall.

For travelling the bride chose a wool gabardine suit, with which she wore grey accessories. On their return, they will reside in Halifax where the groom is employed with Canada Packers.

Mrs. Ryan has been employed with Cousins' in Halifax.

They were the recipients of many lovely and valuable gifts.

Once upon a time there was a king and queen who lived happily for many years.

Then one day the king noticed that the queen looked kind of funny, and asked her, "What's the matter? You look kind of funny." She shrugged her emerald shoulders and went on kneading dough for ginger cookies. "I keep bumpin' into things," she said.

The king said "Ho!" and that it was only the spring air. He said he had been going to sleep on the throne and fallin' off, and it hurt.

The queen said she had been bumpin' into things since February and if he didn't get out of the kitchen she'd throw a gold dish at him.

The king was worried cause the queen had never talked that way before, bein' usually good-natured. He ran up the marble stairs, two at a time, to the palace doctor, and gasped, "The queen is sick. She keeps bumpin' into things."

They popped her into bed for three days and gave her lots of horrid medicine. The king brought all her meals to her on a golden tray. Mulligan stew was the only thing he knew how to make, so that's what they had.

When she got up again, she said she was fine, but the next day she bumped into the kitchen sink and the garbage pail.

When she told the king she still kept bumpin' into things, he rushed to the palace magician, gave the doctor on the way.

The queen is sick. She keeps bumpin' into things. "What kind of things?" the magician asked. "Oh, the sink and the kitchen cabinet and the garbage pail. Stuff like that."

The magician was a man who knew his onions. He had the king fix up the palace kitchen with cabinets and things that fitted right in against the walls. The queen soon had a place for everything, and everything was out of the way. She never bumped into anything again.

The cabinets were so handsome that from then on royal entertainin' was done in the kitchen. Naturally they lived happy ever after.

They just happen to make the same kind of kitchen cabinets down at Hicks's, and they can help you plan a royal kitchen so you can live happy ever after, too.

The first British Empire Sea Cadet Camp ever to be held is scheduled to open at Camp Ewing, 40 miles east of Montreal on July 25th, under the auspices of the Navy League of Canada and with the co-operation of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Forty-eight cadets and two officers are coming from the United Kingdom, 16 cadets and two officers from New Zealand, five cadets and one officer from Australia and, if present plans hold, a party of 25 will be here as the representatives of South Africa and Rhodesia.

Canada will be represented by one sea cadet selected from each of the 86 Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps which are, in turn, sponsored by the Navy League.

In addition, seven sea cadets and one officer will be coming as guests from Holland and six cadets and one officer from Sweden, thus bringing an international touch to what was originally intended as a Camp solely for sea cadets of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

The U.K., Sweden and Holland parties are expected to arrive on July 16th, the South Africans and Rhodesians on July 19th, while those from Australia and New Zealand are due at Vancouver on July 22nd.

Gloomy persons who, for political reasons, are convinced that the future is dark, might take a backward look. Ten years ago we were really having a hard time. It is hard to remember, for there was a time when there were plenty of jobs. There were young men, early and later twenties, who never had a job, and a chance of finding one. They were looking for a job, but they were not getting one. They were looking for a job, but they were not getting one. They were looking for a job, but they were not getting one.

That may be true, but it is not the whole story. Ten years ago, thousands of men were looking for a job, and finding none. They were looking for a job, and finding none. They were looking for a job, and finding none. They were looking for a job, and finding none. They were looking for a job, and finding none. They were looking for a job, and finding none.

Now, ten years later, the situation is different. There are more jobs than ever before. There are more jobs than ever before. There are more jobs than ever before. There are more jobs than ever before. There are more jobs than ever before. There are more jobs than ever before.

We have the Polynesian, that everything is well in the world of all possible worlds. There is still a lot of growing pains at home and abroad. Can You Remember
by Joseph Lister Rutledge
Gloomy persons who, for political reasons, are trying to convince us that the present is the future are dark, might come from their perspective by a thoughtful backward look. Ten years ago we were really having a bit of a hard time. It is hard, with all the things as come between, for the young to remember. So they are easily deceived by this propaganda. There were plenty of young men in the years ago, young men in the early and later twenties, who had never had a job, and had no chance of finding one. Many young lad was to enlist in the armed forces, patriotism was strong with a bitterly desperate belief that there was no other place for him. That may excuse the young men, who can judge the present by the past. Ten years ago thousands of men were desperate and finding none. They were looking for a bricklayer, or a carpenter, or for that matter, any unemployed worker ready to take a job. Ten years ago used to be every vacant lot, with buyers, a major problem for the industry. There was an overabundance of everything. Now we must wait and wait for cars and buses and refrigerators and sewing machines and a thousand other products that once glutted the market. And not because there are so few, but because the demand is so great. We who have in those days didn't quarrel with wages. We hugged the job with desperate eagerness. Today we are scoring earnings that are more than twice as great. We are quite ready to admit, of course, that it hasn't been all gain; that higher prices have come into gains; but they haven't hit them, and they haven't us back on the breadlines. We have no Polyanna belief that everything is well in the best of possible worlds. There are vast and growing problems at home and abroad. We have social problems, and labor and industrial problems, but we're all at work. And it isn't a pretty picture of war. It is moving forward with courage in our eyes. It is land worth fighting again, because men can live only again on what were once fertile acres. We have forgotten the bogey of over-population and over production. We want people to share with us. Perhaps our worst danger is that we have come to expect too much for too little effort, and that security without providing it. Yes, there are still plenty of problems, and they are tough ones. But we are free of the desperation that was in so many men's eyes a decade ago. A much backward glance proves for us.

This Story Is Dedicated To Carolyn

Digby, June 1st, 1949.

Because this story is dedicated to Carolyn, she and I become, as a matter of course, partners (not like married couples at all, for she is five and I am sixty-five!) but partners, all the same, and we've decided that any little girl or boy who might like to go with Carolyn on her trip may do so, and enter into the partnership, too. So please consider this story your own, all of you—The author, J. R.

Chapter I

Many fairy stories begin with "Once upon a time," which makes us imagine the events happened long, long ago, but this story cannot start that way, for the little girl who is its heroine is alive—very much alive. Her name is Carolyn. She lives in such a place that the fairies, squirrels, butterflies and birds may greet her every day, and some of them even wake her on the bright and sunny mornings, just to ask if she is almost ready to come out and play with them.

Of course, this should be in the country, and so it is, for there Carolyn lives with her mother, her nannie and her dad, with the fairies, butterflies, birds and flowers all around to entertain her through the shining hours. Naturally she loves her parents most of all, but next to them she cares for her brown spaniel, Honey, who, though he doesn't enter into these adventures, is quite an extraordinary dog, simply because he loves Carolyn with all his doggy soul and is willing to please her in every way he can, even to not chasing cats—which is a real self-denial for any dog, for they love nothing better than to chase tom-cats up the telephone poles.

Now on the day Carolyn began her travels she, her Nannie and her mother were all taking their after dinner naps, which is a good way to keep from getting indigestion after a hearty dinner, but is just as good for keeping people fresh and beautiful (we'll guess which of these they were napping for) and Carolyn was certainly sound asleep; and then, why she was as certainly wide awake!

What had happened to her? Well, we can't exactly say, but we may think she was dreaming. However, I'm sure you'll find, as she goes from place to place, that a fairy was enchanting her, was protecting her from harm, and was helping her to see the world at least that part of it in which she lived.

So now she found herself not only very wide awake, but very tiny, in fact so wee that she could, and was sitting on the inside of the cup of a daffodil, and warm and comfortable, for the daffodil held up its golden face to the noonday sun, and had sprayed behind its ears a delicious perfume, in the hope of attracting the butterflies and bees. And so it was,—along came a honey bee, a lady bee, and crawled into the daffodil's golden cup to search for the honey the perfume said should be there,—and, there, it saw Carolyn.

This bee was very much surprised. It had often seen boys and girls and men and women while on its travels, but they were many thousands of times larger than any bee and almost always horribly afraid of one, too; but here was a little girl smaller than the bee itself, and not afraid at all (for the fairy was standing guard, though Carolyn didn't know it) and ready to ask and answer and questions. "Why, where did you come from?" inquired the bee. "From the house," answered Carolyn. "But where did you come from, and what are you hunting for?" "Oh, I'm gathering honey and pollen from the flowers," to take back to our home, there to be made into food for our queen's children." "Has she a very large family?" asked Carolyn. "Oh yes, forty or fifty thousand, and almost all girls," was the bee's answer. "What nice times you must have, with all those sisters to play with," exclaimed the little girl. "Play!" said the bee, scornfully. "We never play, we work and sweep the floors, and feed our baby sisters and brothers till they're big enough to look after themselves. And we see that our queen is kept clean and beautiful, and many other duties we perform, as good daughters should." "Don't the boys do any work?" asked Carolyn. "Work!" replied the bee in the same tone she'd used when saying "play" before. "Why, they're too lazy for words. They're just like other boys, never washing behind their ears, nor chopping a stick of wood for the kitchen stove. But they certainly can eat. Oh my, if that flower and at once spied Carolyn and because he was, like most fat boys, very fond of girls, he pushed all over his face, even to beaming his unwashed ears, and wanted to say something especially nice, only he was sort of tongue-tied. Carolyn, though, was so eager to go and see the home of all the bees that she couldn't wait for him to loosen up, but all at once demanded that he take her there. Well, he had just had a big meal of honey, and besides felt very much flattered by anyone making anything of such a fat boy as he, so as soon as his tongue became untangled, he replied, "Sure 'nough. Sure 'nough. Climb right on board and I'll take you there pick-a-back."

"And then Carolyn found herself, not riding in such an unladylike posture as pick-a-back, but seated quite upright on the bee's broad back, between his wings, and sailing along quite as comfortably as if she were that lady who "sat on a cushion and sewed a fine seam." Though the bee's wings made an awful uproar, as he fanned the air with them, the trip was as steady as

Carolyn. "I'd love to meet your queen, and see your home and all your sisters." "I'm sorry," answered the bee. "But I've all the groceries I can possibly fly with, and if I don't get them home on time my sisters and the queen will be terribly angry, and will perhaps disown me; and besides, without their honey some of my baby sisters and brothers may die. But here is one of my grown-up brothers; he'll carry you there. He hasn't anything else to do, have you, brother mine?" and she flew away.

Then, sure enough, there came to the daffodil a big fat boy bee, who certainly hadn't washed behind his ears or combed his hair that morning. He looked into Carolyn and because he was, like most fat boys, very fond of girls, he pushed all over his face, even to beaming his unwashed ears, and wanted to say something especially nice, only he was sort of tongue-tied. an aeroplane journey could be, except for the bumps when he flew through the shadows of leaves. And as he flew he explained to Carolyn all his troubles, for you must know fat people have troubles the same as thin people do, only, instead of receiving sympathy, folks are just as apt to laugh at them, especially when they are at this fat-boy-bee stage of life, which is just about when they begin to feel their whiskers growing, and borrow, and often cut themselves with their fathers' razors. It's then they first fall in love (which older folks call calf-love, and smile at and sympathize with), but expect it to pass away, for they've had that at least once in their lives themselves).

Now this bee felt himself in love with a lady bee in the hive, but she, being one of those good solid workers who have no time for that sort of thing, had turned him down every time he proposed. You see, she'd determined to be a bachelor girl all her life. So the poor boy was terribly disappointed, but, hearing that some young queen bees would soon be born in the hive, he thought he might woo one of these (so as to show his lady-love she wasn't the only pebble on the beach) for, you know, they get married in beeland almost as soon as they are born—just like it is in India.

However, in order to win a queen, he had to get the consent of her mother, who was a very severe old lady and a dowager, who had very strict ideas as to who were worthy to become her sons-in-law. If she disliked him, she would probably order his head to be cut off, which would have been the end of him, forever and ever.

As he buzzed through the air, this young bachelor bee confided all these things to Carolyn, and told her that the queen loved no thing more than having her huge family admired, and would Carolyn please admire them, so that the queen would be in a happy mood, and give her consent when he asked for it.

Carolyn assured him she'd do her best, whereat the young gentleman burst out into what would correspond to the song "Annie Laurie" among human beings, only he ended up with "And for bonnie little queenie, I'd lay me down and dee, and that would certainly have been his end, had he obtained what he desired.

But now they came to the door of the bees' home, where they were met by a dozen or so of his sisters, who were standing guard, and, while their wings buzzed and forced fresh air into the hive, they kept their eyes open and their noses sniffing to see if any stranger was trying to get in, while their stingers were kept sharp to repel all such except the ones who could give the proper password, for they were all Eastern Stars and lady Freemasons, and this hive was their own particular lodge.

However, the bachelor bee had the password, and he smelled just right, so they let him in; and they allowed Carolyn to ride in, too, for he vouched for her. And so they went into the hive, but my, what an uproar. There were bees coming in with honey, and bees going out for more, there were charwomen scrubbing and sweeping the floors and chambermaid bees making up the beds for the new bees that were to arrive, and there were nursemaid bees running around with handkerchiefs or what do you call them tied over their noses, and there were stacks and stacks of bee feeding bottles and bee nipples and such things as are necessary for the young bees just coming into the world; and so on, so on, more than one can think.

But through all this bedlam the bachelor bee managed to find his way, with Carolyn sitting prim and upright on his back, even though some of his sisters glared at him, and made catty remarks about his fat, his laziness and especially his love affair. But he managed to get through the crowd, till suddenly they heard a shout, "Gangway for her majesty," and then all the honey gatherers, and charwomen and chambermaids and nursemaids stopped work, and formed two lines, and down between came half a dozen very pompous bees, just like the others, but oh, so stuck up, and in their midst a big fat bee, who was the queen, and who did nothing but peer into the holes that were the cradles of the hive, and whenever she found one that was empty, cry out "Stop, I must lay an egg here. How many is that, Lady Secretary?" And then the secretary, would answer, "Sixty-eight thousand, eight hundred and seventy-nine. Your Majesty needs only eleven thousand, one hundred and twenty-one to complete your family." And at that all the workers and chambermaids and nursemaids and charwomen would cheer loudly and the queen would look pleased, and go in search of a place to lay another egg. Oh, but she was a proud old lady, and dignified, too. Then people of the church. "There are too many things outside of the church attracting them" is the way one man put it.

On the other hand, the Catholic church of Clare has continued to be central in the scheme of things. When it became obvious to the priests that the young people were going to pack up in trucks and go off to the movies in Weymouth and Yarmouth on Saturday nights, they fought fire with fire by building church halls in which weekly movies were shown. "It keeps the young people together, it keeps the people here," one of them said. Sports were treated in the same manner. The church halls in Clare have put in bowling alleys, and the church has given its approval of baseball teams and girls softball teams. All these interests of the present generation of young people are thus travel and cover several communities on Sunday. The Baptist minister at Weymouth North, for instance, also serves Ashmore and New Tusket; and the Baptist minister at Digby also serves Hill Grove, Culloden and Roxville; and the United Church minister for Weymouth also covers Sandy Cove, Centerville and Barton—Brighton.

(b) Clare. In Clare, all the people of one parish go to church there on Sunday. That is, the people go to church as a central meeting place which is the stable heart of the community. This is in contrast to many communities in Digby municipality where one may say the church goes to the people. By this we mean that they are not drawn together around a central core but visited briefly by a man who is not part of their community and who does not remain more than a few hours a week. In Clare the priest is one, if not two, central men in each parish. Two priests serve for the Municipal School Board, for instance. The churches are very large particularly the large stone church of St. Bernard's which took 37 years to build. Much of this was done with voluntary labor and gifts of materials and it is a great source of pride to the people.

Voters of Digby-Yarmouth

A PRE-ELECTION MESSAGE FROM

Progressive-Conservative Candidate

Donald F. Filleul, C.A.
(Wing Commander, R.C.A.F.)

I desire to thank you for the wonderful reception you have given me during my tour of the constituency in both the Provincial and Federal Campaigns. The territory to be covered in the short time available was so great that it has been impossible for me to visit every polling district as I should liked to have done.

I have endeavoured to expound the policies of the Progressive-Conservative Party to the best of my ability and I am confident that the next Government of Canada will be headed by George Drew and it will usher in a brighter era for Nova Scotia.

If you honor me by electing me your Federal Member on Monday next, I shall place the interests of the people of Digby-Yarmouth above all other matters and will work with George Drew for a greater Canada. I shall also continue to travel throughout the two counties until I have visited and become acquainted with the people in all the places I was not able to reach during the campaigns.

You CAN still find people who "don't believe in banks" ... who keep their cash in old coffee pots, or hide it in the woodpile, or carry it around.

But most folk nowadays keep their money in bank accounts. They can get it whenever they want it; and they can pay their bills by cheque. Canadians have more than seven million such deposit accounts. In terms of Canada's adult population, that makes it practically unanimous.

The banks, in turn, know they must earn this confidence by giving you the best service they know how.

Today you can take your account to any bank you choose. And what is in your bank book is strictly between you and your bank. It is your own private business.

A wedding of interest to friends in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick was solemnized at Calvary Baptist Church when Rev. Westrup united in marriage Miss Muriel Bernice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Simms of Acaciaville, Digby Co., to Mr. Gordon Allison Holmes of Saint John, son of Mr. James Holmes and the late Mrs. Mary Holmes.

Miss Evelyn Jordan was the bride's attendant and Clarence Holmes, brother of the groom, was groomsmen. The bride wore a blue gabardine suit with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas and fern. The bridesmaid wore a street length dress of blue silk. She also carried a bouquet of sweet peas and fern.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's parents. Relatives and friends of the couple served the many guests. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth, and was centred with a three tier wedding cake flanked with white and pink candles. Streamers of white and pink ribbon carried out the decoration scheme in the dining room.

Toasts were proposed by Wm. A. Skinner and Wm. Arthur Tabot. The groom happily responded. The wedding cake was cut by Mrs. Wm. Richards.

It was regretted Rev. H. C. Cornish, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, was unable to be present due to illness.

The young couple received many beautiful gifts.

Out-of-town guests were the bride's mother, Mrs. Harold Simms, her cousin, Miss Ruby Miller and Mrs. Raymond Langford of Acaciaville. The happy couple will reside in Saint John where the groom is employed at the winter port.

The Naturalist's Corner

Two or three weeks ago the ladies' slipper was everywhere in the woods, and in many spots a half-dozen of these flowers, standing out above a carpet of the white blossoms of the bunchberry, made a garden all of their own. The bunchberry, just about our commonest wild flower, belongs to the same family as the dogwood trees, so there's quite a contrast between the two. The ladies' slipper is the most showy member of our orchids, all the rest being small, though sometimes very handsome flowers. Only a few days ago, as I worked in the garden, a car stopped on Maiden Lane, and a couple of young fellows got out and walked towards the corner. That's nothing; Maiden Lane has become lately the haunt of young people attracted to the weekly dance. So I didn't pay an attention to them.

But presently the two cars rounded the corner of the house, and lo, one of them was Doug, whom I hadn't seen for a year.

When a boy, ten, twelve or so years ago, he collected butterflies and moths, and he has been at it ever since, so that now he has perhaps the best collection in Nova Scotia, and has become an authority on such things, and likely corresponds with many learned scientists (which last is an ambition of every entomologist).

Anyway, he and his companion are this summer collecting for the Provincial Museum at Halifax, and have recently been working out of Annapolis, seeking out what may be found in the most likely spots in the surrounding country. They've been very successful, so this must be a good bug year.

They had come down to the Digby area, and had spotted Acacia Valley as a likely looking place. To obtain moths they use a lantern and white sheet technique which was described to me by Edmund Jenner, the druggist, many years ago, but which I never tried out. Like an old fire-horse, I became all excited over this and wanted to see what was done, so I invited myself, and being invited by the boys, I went too.

First we went out to look for the wind was so strong that they were against that spot, so we went across country to Acacia. There the equipment, the phernalia, was unloaded, the car, six Coleman lamps, six white sheets, clothes, ropes, a gallon or so of white paint, an endless supply of ent-sized cyanide jars, a two, a flashlight, a large tin, a rank smelling can of molasses and rum or so, a brush, and a bucket. Then, rods shaped at one end like a shepherd's crook, that it seemed like a bunch of sticks, were taken out of the woods and were stuck in the ground, and from each rod a rope was hung, its other end, and lo, one of them was Doug, whom I hadn't seen for a year.

Visitor

Lord and Lady Cornwallis

were week end visitors in Digby, arriving here from Kentville late Sunday afternoon. They spent the week end at the beautiful Pines.

Lord Cornwallis, a descendant of Lord Edward Cornwallis, the founder of the City of Halifax, took part in ceremonies marking the bicentennial celebration in Digby.

Following their visit to Digby, Lord and Lady Cornwallis will be on their way to Yarmouth where they spent some time.

Old Custom Revived

in North Range

The good fellowship of the community "quitting bee" revived recently in this village when a number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shortliffe.

As of old, it was a jovial party. Needless to say, the pace for friendly chatter and the comparatively short time the quilt was completed to the last detail. Refreshments were then served by the hostess.

The quilting party of the past differed in one respect from that of the past. Faithful to the old custom, the quilt was made by the doubtful needleless craft in "Sealing Nellie Borneo."

Former Digby Pastor

To Broadcast

The speaker on the CBC's popular religious broadcast on Sunday will be the Rev. Milton C. Munn, a former pastor of the Digby and Hill Grove Baptist Churches.

Rev. Mr. Munn resigned his charge here to become a chaplain in the Royal Canadian Navy, and during the war was stationed at Esquimaux, B. C.

He is now pastor of the Baptist Church at Sydney, N. S.

The broadcast, "Church of the Air," is heard Sundays from 5:30 to 6 p.m. over CBA and other CBC stations and stations on the national hookup. His many friends here will welcome the opportunity to hear him again.

It's Not News,

But . . .

Post mortems on the election results are the order of the day around Digby.

The term "floating vote" is an apt expression judging from some of the sights around Monday night.

Those street corner conferences won't seem half so sinister now that elections are over.

Those new water regulations seem to completely ignore the old adage about a man's home being his castle.

There seemed to be a preponderance of black crepe around town Tuesday morning — something in connection with the election no doubt.

world, he began to tell her all kinds of tales of the sea, of where he'd been, of what he'd done, of the dear young fellows he'd visited, and so on, and he'd which, of course, she didn't believe, for sailors are told liars.

Then, just as he had to stop to get his breath, there came swimming up out of the ocean the queerest fish you ever saw. At first there was only a tail, then a head, and then a whole fish, but this was followed by a head with a long beard, an under the chin like Scotchmen and long scraggly hair, and under the chin like Scotchmen and Irishmen and even many Canadians used to wear, and it was called a "Donegal." And after that the rest of the fish appeared, but only it wasn't covered with scales, but had clothes, a turtleneck and a sporran, and a bonnet space about where the head should be.

Carolyn thought it must be some sort of a Scotchman, may be from Cape Breton or Pictou, and when it opened its mouth it spoke like a Scotchman, to "And hoo are ye the noo, Maister Boomey?" To which Barnacle Bill answered, "Pretty well, Ralph, except that I hide pretty badly, and the late northeastern have given me the rheumatism something awful."

Of course, the little girl wondered why this newcomer could be and thought Barnacle Bill should be polite, and introduced red.

I hugged her and squeezed her,
and so she did me,
In most intemperate fashion,
But when I proposed, all she said was "Tee hee!"
You certainly have a bad mash on.
I'd gladly say yes, but you need a shore berth.
Not rolling about in salt water;
So, till you've a land job, and settle to earth
I'll be nothing more than your daughter."

"I've got my application in for shore duty," said Barnacle Bill.
"but they won't let me go till I'm all caked and rusty, and full of holes, and then I'm afraid she'll not take me. Alas is me!" and he tried to shed tears, but couldn't, because he was made of iron; but he rolled and groaned and moaned so much that Carolyn felt she was becoming seasick and wished the fairy would come and take her away. And soon she got her wish, for there came an extra big wave, which tossed poor old Bill high in the air, and then let him down with such a crash that all the wind was knocked clean out of him, and he could only gasp in a pitiful way, and lie on his port side like a sick fish.

But when he got his wind again, which wasn't very long, he forgot all about Carolyn and began to swear in a most horrible manner. But you must excuse him for that, because he had been brought up in the forecastle, where many strange words are used, and every man is either a most awful heathen, or a most holy saint.

I think Carolyn must have become quite frightened then, for the fairy suddenly appeared and whisked her right down to the bottom of the Bay of Fundy, where you'd think it dark and cold, only it wasn't; in fact, it was quite light and just warm enough to be comfortable.

And there, bowing politely before her, was the most elegant appearing (in his own opinion) lobster you ever saw. But that lobster was only his own idea of himself, for he certainly was like a man with false teeth, one eye gone, all the hair off his head, five fingers and two toes missing—not all there. He only had one claw, having lost the other in a grand fight with another lobster; and as for his legs, why all but two were gone from one side, so when he walked he looked like a bug canting in the wind.

One of his eyes was out of commission also, for, election time being near, he had just had a fierce discussion on politics, and so far forgotten himself that he had tried to run forward, as no self-respecting lobster should do, and had hit that eye on a sharp rock, and, in order that he might not appear too unsightly to the ladies, was wearing a white clamsheer over the eye, which, of course, made him look more like a pirate than ever.

But that didn't deter him, for like many silly old bunks, he had the greatest admiration for the girls in their teens, or just out of them, and, having been bidden by the fairy to take good care of Carolyn, he proposed to do so in the gallant manner for which all Irishmen are famous.

So he bowed low, and in courtly words requested Carolyn to sit and ride on his back, and the little girl who had sailed with the bees and the gulls, found herself sitting side-saddle, as ladies used to do, and moving, not now out into the Bay of Fundy, but back through Digby Gut, but now at the bottom of the ocean, instead of on the surface of the water.

She, of course, expected him to go forward, following his nose, and so had seated herself facing ahead. But this old lobster didn't do things that way. Instead, he gave his tail a flip, rose up on his legs, and sprang backwards, and he continued to move in that way through Digby Gut, so that Carolyn, instead of seeing what they were coming to ahead, saw only what they were leaving behind; but she did see plenty. As the lobster had lost so many legs and one of his eyes, his course was very erratic, sometimes near the shore, sometimes near the bottom of the Gut, so that all sorts of different things came into view as they went along.

She saw the kelp and the seaweed floating in the current, and the leafy dulse waving back and forth with every motion of the water, and the scallops opening and closing their shells as they moved from place to place, and the sea anemones about as they pink arms about as they searched for food, and the hermit crabs sitting at the mouths of their shells and waving their arms in greeting to Timbuctoo (for that was the old crab's name) as he went by (for he was a relative of theirs), to which he'd answer by a wave of his one claw and a wink of his one eye, for he was a pretty good old fellow in spite of his love of a fight.

But after they'd passed the buoy off Boyd Ellis' house, he began to get a little bit nervous, for he'd never been inside the Basin that far before. However, he did keep up his courage till they came to the entrance to the Racquette, when it failed him, and he refused to go on.

Then, just by chance, or perhaps by the will of the fairy, there came that way a nice gentle flounder with a curved back just right to sit on, and he, at the lobster's request, offered Carolyn a ride, which she accepted.
And so they started into the Raquette, which was towards home, only Carolyn has to see a few things more before she gets there.

Choir Conducts Service

The congregation that attended the worship service at Hertz Memorial United Church, Weymouth, on Tuesday morning, June 28, received an inspiration beyond description.

The Princeton Theological Seminary Choir of Princeton, New Jersey, conducted the service. The choir is composed of 24 trained male voices, and is directed by David Hugh Jones, Mus. Doc., F.A.G.O. The church was filled with worshippers from all over the county. After the service the lunch was served to the singers at the United Church Parsonage, before they continued to Lawrencetown and Middleton for further services.

Plans were made at this time for a return visit next summer. The choir sings unaccompanied, and their tone and expression show the great extent of training involved. Included in their repertoire were "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach; "Adagio Man's Desiring" by Palestrina; "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" by Luther, and several Negro spirituals.

Urges Support Of Blood Donor Clinic

To the General Public:

The establishment of the Red Cross free Blood Service in the Digby General Hospital has been one of the greatest boons to the people of this area for many years.

I know personally of several lives which have been saved and many more whose convalescence has been markedly shortened by the use of this blood. If it were possible to show each of you personally the wonderful effect a pint of blood has on the critically ill, haemorrhagic or surgically shocked patient, I know you would all flock to the next blood donor clinic.

If a man or woman were drowning, how many of you would refuse to jump in the water to go to their rescue. A pint of your blood may be just as effective in saving a life as your most strenuous efforts in pulling some one out of the water. Be sure and attend the next Blood Donor Clinic. Your blood may save a life.

Respectfully
John R. McCleave

Years Old,

One of Digby County's grand old ladies is Mrs. Elizabeth Theriault of Comeauville, who, on the 10th, passed her 99th birthday. The editor had the pleasure of an introduction to her on Sunday, but as she speaks only French, and the editor only English, we could not hold a very lengthy conversation. She is slightly deaf, but is able to read and keep up with the times and she voted in both elections in June, undoubtedly one of the oldest, if not the oldest, voter in Nova Scotia.

Weymouth Day

Program Success

Miss Juanita Weir Crowned

Miss Weymouth, 1949

Thousands Attend

Thousands of persons from many parts of the province assembled in Weymouth on July 1st for the second annual Weymouth Day celebrations and were treated with a varied program featured by the crowning of "The Weymouth Board of Trade sponsored the event, which was a decided success."

Huge crowds lined the sidewalks and a half parade route as floats, the first Maitland train band, clowns, decorated bicycles and doll carriages lined through the town's main street, officially opening the ceremonies. Fifteen of the floats were children's entries.

Miss Juanita Weir, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weymouth, was crowned "Miss Weymouth, 1949" amid a thunderous ovation from the spectators. The new queen, a student at the Weymouth High School, was crowned by Miss Edith Gaudet, who held the title in 1948. There were 14 entries in this year's contest.

It's Not News,
But . . .

Baseball is really getting to be the polite game. Friday the Ravens' star first baseman asked a Tiverton player who happened to make first base to "please lift your foot off the bag a minute" then promptly tagged him out. It could be that Ravens' player has been reading the sports page of a national weekly.

A popular local haberdasher is certainly gaining an international reputation for the coffee it serves. One customer was heard to say last week that it was the best cup of coffee he had in weeks. No — that wasn't a mistake — it is a haberdashery.

Those mat maulers sure put up a great show Friday night. It is not true, however, that they are going professional.

The telephone number of the last entry in the Miss Digby County contest is still on the secret list, despite the fact hundreds of gay young blades are clamouring for it. It is understood the judges were greatly impressed by "her" poise and especially her walk. Brother, what a physique!

That ungrammatical popular song, "Is You Is or Is You Ain't My Baby?", would seem to be in perfection the situation in neighboring constituency.

That American car on the front street the other night was certainly fugitive from a used car lot. Even the front number plate was handmade. On newer model the trunk lid is usually hinged and not tied on with manilla rope.

Some of those dizzy dopes who are throwing firecrackers on the street in front and behind unsuspecting pedestrians should be tied to a stake and made target for their own firecrackers.

Shown above are a group the entries in the Baby Parade which was part of the Dominion Day parade last Friday and led by the band of the local Salvation Army Corps. Winners of the parade were: 1st, Lois Turnbull; 2nd, Joan Cowan; 3rd, . . .
