All For Teenagers

Now that I am a grandma of ten, I would like to say a few words in behalf of the young people. I know some very fine young ones, even in this modern age, and I often wonder if it should not be the parents of problem children, who are put in detention homes — parents who do not know where their children are or with whom.

I think the following verses would apply:

We read in the papers and hear on the air.
Of killing and stealing and crime everywhere;
We sigh and we say, as we notice the trend,
"This young generation — where will it end?"

But can we be sure it is their fault alone,
That maybe a part of it isn't our own?

Too much to spend, too much idle time,
Too many movies of passion and crime,

Too many books not fit to be read,
Too much evil in what they hear said,

Too many children encouraged to roam
By too many parents who won't stay at home.

Now kids don't make the movies, they don't write the books
That paint a gay picture of gangsters and crooks;

They don't make the liquor and they don't run the bars
They don't make the laws and they don't buy the cars.

In how many cases we find that it's true,
The label "delinquent" fits older folks too!

Vapors Are Harmful Warns Safety Body

Vapors from improperly deodorized garments cleaned in self-service dry cleaning machines can be dangerous, warns the National Safety League of Canada. The League has reports of instances where such vapors intoxicated car drivers and caused serious accidents.

Should these improperly dried garments be placed in a closed area, such as a car with windows shut, the vapors can harm the occupants.

If a strong odor of solvent is detected when the garments come from the drier, they should not be placed in an area without proper ventilation. If that area is a car, there must be lots of fresh air. Hang the articles in a well ventilated room at home until the odor of the toxic solvent has disappeared.

Names Make News

The visitor to the small town was chatting with the editor of the local weekly newspaper. "I don't understand," said the visitor, "how you keep up your circulation in a town where everyone already seems to know what everyone else is doing."

"I agree that everybody knows what everyone else is doing," replied the editor, "but they buy the paper to see who's been caught at it."

A.V.A.B.T. Sends Request To Valley Towns

Following is contents of a letter sent by the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade to towns, villages and municipalities throughout the valley. The organization is seeking financial assistance for the possible establishment of the office of a Tourism Director for the area.

"The Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade, an organization composed of responsible business and professional men from Windsor to Meteghan, at their annual meeting of December 4th, 1963, held at Bridgetown, Nova Scotia, unanimously approved a plan which is expected to give our area a tremendous boost and expansion in the field of Tourism and Industrial Development.

The plan calls for the establishment of the office of a "Tourism Director" who would spend at least 6 months a year on the attraction of tourists to our area and the balance of his time would act as "Secretary-Manager" of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade.

We wish to point out that similar plans have been successfully adopted by other districts elsewhere in Canada and also in Nova Scotia, notably in Cape Breton and the Halifax area. Last year a total of approximately 700,000 tourists visited Nova Scotia and it is well within the realm of possibilities that we could attract one million visitors annually.

Economically this would give a tremendous boost to our district, the Annapolis Valley, not only to hotels, motels and restaurants, but also to farmers, service stations and retailers in general who according to statistics are taking a major part of the so-called "tourist-dollar" spent in our area. It is also clear that economically speaking whatever benefits one particular district or segment of our economy, in the long run benefits us all.

It is therefore clear that above mentioned plan should be called "far sighted" and "progressive", in tune with the terrific overall change which the world is experiencing; along trade and social patterns and which is slowly being recognized by forward thinking men in government and industry.

It is also clear that the establishment of this office will cost money, a small investment — by all of us which is bound to pay handsome dividends in a very short time.

Our Provincial Government has understood the importance of "Tourist development" which goes hand in hand with "industrial expansion" and therefore has agreed under the so-called "Matching Grant Regulations", which should be in your possession at this time, to match dollar for dollar up to a certain amount the total that will be raised for this purpose by any geographical unit in this province.

Considering all this, the A.V.A.B.T. wish to go ahead and apply to the Nova Scotia Government for a matching grant early in 1964, after we have received assurances from all municipalities, towns, and villages in the valley, that they will support this plan financially, each to the tune of the amounts shown separately in this letter.

We wish to make it clear that in order to reap the profits which this plan promises our valley yet in 1964, rapid action by all of us is of utmost importance.

Furthermore we wish to point that we are not asking for a "gift", but hope that all of you will see this in the light of a sound business investment.

Kindly advise the present Secretary of the A.V.A.B.T., Mr. Gifford Lewis, of Weymouth, Nova Scotia, of the time it will be convenient to you to receive and meet with a delegation of our Board to clear up any questions which you might wish to have cleared up before making your decision.

Boat Sinks At Mooring

Although cause of the sinking has not yet been determined, it is thought a sprung plank may have been the reason.

No one was on board when the boat sank. It has been beached where repairs will be made.

Thin Plastic Film Dangerous

Even normally careful parents can make the slip that could cost a child's life. While most have learned by others' sad experience never to reuse plastic film to cover a crib mattress, or as a diaper bag in the carriage, it's not so obvious that even carrying plastic covered clothing home from the cleaners on the same car seat as a baby can lead to sudden death.

Not only is suffocation from the thin film quick because it is air-tight, its very thinness will make it cling to a baby's face despite attempts to free it. It happens fast — in less than a minute. Most of us would be shocked at the thought of leaving garden shears or a carving knife on a car seat with a baby, but a transparent plastic bag looks so harmless it's hard to realize it is just as lethal.

In the home, car, backyard or anywhere else where children are, plastic should be out of bounds. Never reuse it for any reason, urges the Nova Scotia Federation of Home & School Associations. If you need a mattress cover for the crib, buy a heavy one made for the purpose. For laundry use a cotton laundry bag. Collect the children's toys in a box. Plastic film is not a safe substitute for any of these items. It is not safe in the same house with children.

Burn it or tie it in a tight knot and discard it every time you come across one. Always remember a plastic bag anywhere near a baby could spell instant death.

New Supt. At Annapolis Hospital

She graduated from the Annapolis Royal Academy and trained at the Yarmouth Regional Hospital, where she received her R.N. and served as head of the surgical ward.

She was evening supervisor at the navy hospital at HMCS Cornwallis before joining the Annapolis hospital staff, where she has been day supervisor and acting superintendent.

She was officially appointed superintendent on the resignation of Mrs. Marilyn Brown who finished five years of duties with the hospital or December 31.

Store Struck By Truck

Considerable damage was done to a building in Weymouth owned by J. A. Hatt when struck by a large vehicle. A large auto transport truck and trailer owned by Ross E. Judge, Halifax, was leaving empty after unloading cars at Weymouth Motors Ltd.

The driver was proceeding up a hill on the Main No. 1 highway, en route to Halifax, when weather conditions retarded him and, as he backed down, the vehicle went out of control and hit the front of a building housing a general store, office and warehouse of Mr. J. A. Hatt.

The front of the store was damaged, a large plate glass window broken and the rear of the trailer rammed the shelves and counter inside, destroying a large amount of stock. No injuries were received in this accident but traffic was tied up for a time.

It was only a short time ago that a large low bed truck hauling a bulldozer and owned by Bernard and Derard, Lombard, of Corberrie, suffered a broken drive shaft when mounting this same hill. However, damage was averted when the driver, having a clear road, was able to manoeuvre the trailer against the large trees on the lawn of the Goodwin Hotel which held the vehicle, preventing further descent.

Safety Council Commended

The Nova Scotia Temperance Federation from its office at Wolfville, N. S., commended the Highway Safety Council and other interested agencies seeking to reduce highway injury and death over the Christmas and New Year Holiday.

Commenting on the current slogan, "make the one for the road coffee", General Secretary MacFarlane said, "By all means make the one for the road coffee. But, do not expect it to cancel the effect of any drinks — be it few or many — that have preceded it. Even one drink affects slightly the driving of a few people; two drinks affect adversely the driving of most people; and three drinks affect the driving of all to some degree. No amount of coffee can alter these effects once the alcohol is in the blood stream."

Week Of Prayer Services

The annual Week of Prayer meetings for the participating churches in the town of Digby will be held next week, commencing on Tuesday night at the Reformed Baptist Church.

On Wednesday night the service will be held in Grace United Church, and on Thursday and Friday the services will be in the Baptist Church. All services are scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

Religious groups taking part in the services include the United Baptist Church, Grace United Church, the Church of God, the Salvation Army, and the Reformed Baptist Church, with the pastors of these respective churches having charge of the services or giving the messages.

The meetings are open not only to members of the congregations involved, but to the general public. These services sponsored by the Canadian Council of Churches are being held across Canada during the Week of Prayer.

Christmas Party Held

A Christmas party was held on December 19 at the shellfish plant of Vincent Snow, Digby.

Mr. Snow was presented with a gift from his staff. Carroll Wilkins, foreman, and Keith Hawkins exchanged gifts with the employees. Harley Amero, Plympton, driver of employees, received a necktie set. Mr. Snow presented his employees with a Christmas bonus.

Games were played and refreshments served.

Parish Hockey

Last Friday saw two close games in St. Patrick's Parish Hockey League, with St. Pat's squad edging Champion St. Theresa's by a score of 7-6. The winners were led by Andy Doucette, who tallied four goals. John Amero and Bruce Surette picked up the others while Eric Melanson, Fred Jordan, Fred Smith, and Bob Sibley scored for the Marshalltown entry.

In the second game, brilliant goalkeeping by Greg Gidney, and goals by Richard VanTassel, Doug VanTassel, David Doucette, and Mike Surette, brought the Christophers out on top for a 6-4 margin over St. Joseph's. The Weymouth team's markers were picked up by R. LeFort, John Comeau, Cromwell and Thibault. The victory for the Christophers leaves them tied for first place with St. Theresa's, as a close series is promised by these well-balanced teams.

Seat Belt Must Fit Snugly

"Unless a seat belt is properly worn, it may not offer the protection expected of it," declared Roy Haeusler, an executive of the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

Mr. Haeusler, automotive safety engineer with Chrysler of Canada and former chairman of the Council's automotive engineering committee, warned that a seat belt must fit snugly over the pelvic region to provide full protection. He suggested the wearer test snugness of the fastened belt by running his thumb under it, then attempt to push it forward to make certain no slackness remained.

At a meeting of the Council's seat belt committee, Mr. Haeusler also referred to the new recolling seat belt. This type operates on the "window blind" basis, retracting the belt onto a roller when not in use. The committee agreed that this type of belt would not protect the wearer unless it was tightened enough to ensure all webbing was pulled out of the retractor. Unless this was done, the meeting was told, slack would allow the wearer's body to move forward excessively on impact and possibly crash into the instrument panel, steering wheel or windshield.

On Weekly Papers

Weekly newspapers are "The Journalism of Tomorrow," so says Mary Anne Guitard of Redding, USA, in an article of that title in the March Mademoiselle.

Miss Guitard quotes the city editor of a leading metropolitan daily as saying that the weeklies are capturing much of the advertising from the dailies and are growing stronger.

Miss Guitard's article, designed for young women interested in becoming newspaperwomen, points out that while big city dailies do not hire beginners, weeklies are usually short-handed and will hire anyone.

"The pay is low: it seldom goes above $100 a week, and in most cases, hovers around $75; but there are compensations — the chief one being that virtually everything you write breaks into print."

Noting that writing for a weekly is "rather like performing in front of your own family" Miss Guitard says that, "however, if the family is a literate and sensitive one, performing under these sheltered conditions can help you gain confidence."

Miss Guitard suggests that while a girl who wants to go deeply into things may be frustrated by a newspaper's obligation to cover all the news, "taken as a kind of graduate course in life, however, the stint on a weekly can be immeasurably satisfying."

Undertaker Calls, Finds No Body

We have heard the saying "that there are some people in mental institutions that should be let out and some that are running loose that should be put in," judging from the following incident.

A few days ago a local undertaker received a call from an unknown party to go to an address on Main Street, Yarmouth, South, to get the body of a woman who had just passed away. The lady in question was at the time recuperating from a slight cold when a knock came to her door. She called out bidding the caller enter. He did so. The woman, for a moment, was greatly surprised to see the undertaker at her house, but was more surprised, nay, shocked, after asking the undertaker what she could do for him. He replied that he had received a call from someone to get a body and naming the "deceased."

The badly frightened lady of the house assured the undertaker that she was the lady named and was very much alive. Isn't it amazing to what heights practical jokers will go in "their diabolical lust" for amusement. This type of person is surely a very sick person mentally, to stoop to this type of amusement. (Yarmouth Light)

Mayor's Report For 1963

A special meeting of Digby Town Council was held on Monday evening for the purpose of dealing with the remainder of the town's business for 1963, and to approve the accounts of the past month.

During the meeting Mayor Vernon L. Bent presented his report of town affairs for the past year:

"At this time I thank the council for the co-operation I have received during the past year. I think we have accomplished a lot for the long-term betterment of the town. At any rate we've done the best we could with the time at our disposal. The projects we've undertaken and carried through have been many. Some are still in process. To name a few: the new Digby General Hospital in which we took our share; the water line which has raised pressure all over town and resolved a long-standing problem of our fire department in fire fighting, as well as providing a reserve for expected increase in the construction of new buildings.

"Our shopping area appears to be expanding and spreading. The gap on Water Street caused by the destruction of the old post office will, we expect, be filled in this coming year with a fine new building. New business houses have opened their doors. With the completion of the new hospital we expect more building of dwellings in which to house the personnel needed to operate the hospital.

"Our assessment total will, we expect, be accepted at a figure nearly $300,000 over last year. The fire department has bought for the people of the town a new $18,000 pump — a wonderful achievement.

"The town's growth has been steady over the past year and the end is not yet in sight. A new wharf for the docking of the Princess of Acadia is necessary and expected. The present wharf, we expect, also will be improved and modernized.

"We have felt the need in the town for a master plan for sewage disposal and took steps earlier this fall to look into costs. The aim was for a long-range plan which may be followed in all installations in the future and thus, over a period of years gradually complete a town owned sewage system. I consider this project to be very important and hope the incoming council will direct our engineer to prepare such a plan. The cost of the preparing of such a plan is nominal.

"On behalf of the council of 1963 I give my thanks to the ratepayers of the town for their faith in our judgment in so many expensive undertakings. For the proper growth of Digby in the next ten years improved utilities were necessary, more will need to be done. We are proud of our streets now, also of our water system and our new hospital. "Our efforts to bring new industry to Digby will, we hope, show fruition in the future.

"Once again, in closing, the thanks of the council and myself go out to all the service clubs and other organizations for their help through the past year.

"We wish the new mayor and council the same co-operation and good-will of the citizens as has been our lot during the past year."

The Digby General Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary will meet with Mrs. Clayton Snow on Monday evening.

Christmas Services at the United Church of Canada At Bear River

Indicative of the Christmas Spirit and the meaning of it the decorations that beautified the Altar, put one in a most reverent mood, to listen to the old, old story of the birth of our Saviour as read by Rev. Elmer Asaph from Luke 2nd Chapter.

His sermon was based on words taken from John 3:16, "His only Begotten Son".

Rev. Asaph's theme was "The Manger of Bethlehem cradled a King".

Quoting Mr. Asaph he said "The greatest paradox of human history can be found in those words, 'The Manger of Bethlehem cradled a King'."

God's only begotten Son in a manger of straw, but, despite the humble environment and the unawareness of the Saviour's birth, yet a new way of life was born in Bethlehem. God had entered the main stream of humanity and created the story of the ages. But it was more than a story, it is a spiritual faith that permeates the soul and quickens the spirit of the moral being. We love it for its simplicity and yet we cannot fully understand it. The irony in the whole account is that the sign board which read "No room in the Inn" was inconspicuously indicative of how he would be treated generally throughout his missionary on earth and after.

He found closed doors wherever he went and the important question is what room is given Him today?

This is the challenge of Christmas Day. Love gives best and knows no rest.

It knows no rest, until its best is given.

And that is why, love at its best is Heaven.

In other words, God gave us Heaven when He gave us Christ. For our eternity and our salvation came he found only in that manger and that cross.

The Prelude, "Christmas Chimes" was played by Mrs. Henshaw. Two beautiful anthems were sung by a full choir, "The Glorious Song" and "The Star of the East." On Sunday, December 29th the sacred rites of the Lords Supper will be held at 11 a.m.

Mr. David Wallace, Sheffield Mills, Kings Co., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Wright over the Christmas holidays. Mrs. Pauline Lent spent the Christmas holiday, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ellis at Moncton, N. B.

PENNY ANTE

I have known laughter and life.
I have known pain and disaster.
Filled a difficult role as well as I could,
Had my share of both praise and blame.
Fettered, and yet held fast
With determination nothing could master.
Winning, or losing, I knew
It was all a part of the game.
Youth, with all its bright dreams,
Happiness, loneliness, sorrow,
I've been dealt every card; I have played every card.
And I took each trick that I could.
And now, with time, ebbing short,
Be the end today or tomorrow
I have staked and played for myself.
And the game has been very good.

Westport Fishermen Missing

By Mrs. Charles McDormand

The village of Westport was shocked and saddened when final word was received that two of our young men would not be coming home. Donald McDormand and Gerald Welch went trawl fishing on Wednesday evening, December 18th, and were due back Thursday morning. When evening came and no boat, all were getting alarmed. It was blowing hard, snowing and a heavy vapor.

Hope was still held for the boys until Friday evening when word was received that the boat, "Ruth Lillian II", was ashore on Ellenwood Island, below Yarmouth. The men on the island said the boat was there, without pilot-house and awning and no sign of life.

Donald was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard (Ace) McDormand and is survived by his parents and one sister, Sylvia (Mrs. Gerald Griffin), Coldbrook, N. S.

Gerald was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Welch and is survived by his parents, his bride of less than two months, the former Carolyn Howard; one brother, Burton, Freeport; three sisters, Freda (Mrs. Allan Morton), Ontario Vera (Mrs. Sherman Hines), Ontario, and Fannie (Mrs. Cyril Urquhart), Saint John, N. B. A brother, David Welch was lost at sea near Grand Manan, N. B., four years ago. The sympathy of the village is extended to the bereaved families.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Mother 'Doesn't Have Time' To Help Daughter

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am a seventeen year old girl. My mother works and has never discussed anything with me, so any questions that I wanted answered I have always found in books. I am now going out with boys and I need help in deciding if I should go out with certain boys or not. You see, even though they live in my home town, I don't know much about them because I've always been kept home to take care of the younger kids. My mother does not have the best reputation in town as she goes out a lot. What I want to know is whether the boys who want to go out with me are the right kind of boys. I've tried to talk to my mother, but she says she doesn't have time to talk to me. What can I do?"

OUR REPLY: If you cannot get advice from your mother, is there not some relative, family friend or otherwise responsible adult to whom you can turn? If your mother's reputation is not the best, this is a handicap you must overcome. If she cannot find the time to talk to you, to help you, then you must help yourself, and you have already done so by realizing that a good reputation is important. If your mother has not shown you what to do, she has, perhaps, shown you what NOT to do. The "right" boys usually come from good families, are active in school and church groups. The wise girl avoids boys with a questionable reputation and gives a rapid "brush-off" to any boy who proves himself to be anything but a gentleman.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an occasion to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, FREEDOM, AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

SPIKING — Modern equipment may have displaced the sledgehammer, but building a railroad is still hard work. Canadian National Railways is using 100 men to construct a 15-mile spur from Nipisicuit Junction near Bathurst to the site of Brunswick Mining and Smelting's concentrator in northern New Brunswick. The operation pictured here is known as "spiking". Men on the end of a slowly moving flat car pass tie plates to work crews, who insert them between rail and tie. Another crew, coming along behind with an automatic driver, "spikes" rail, tie plate and tie together. The line will help develop the mineral deposits of the area. (CN Photo)

FISHERMAN'S JOYS

Rising 'ere sunrise, before break of day,
Breakfast of porridge, toast and tea.
"Good-bye" to my wife as she sees me away,
Down to my vessel, whatever winds play.
I step 'board my ship, my good sturdy friend,
Hoist her sails and our way we wend.
Through the rising, the sweeping, the leaping in play,
Of whisking, flinging and showering spray.
The moaning, the roaring, the sighing of gales,
The rattling, the shaking, the creaking of sails.
The falling, the sprawling, the clatter of fish
As they fall from the net, hauled with a swish.
From the dark, heaving deep,
Oh, the joy and delight, most joyous sight,
Fisherman's peace and reward of the fight
With wind, wave and weariness by day and by night.

B. I. Morash.

FISHERMAN'S LAMENT

Wrap me in my oil-skins,
Put the rope in my hand,
With the moaning of the wind,
The thundering of the strand,
Let me sleep in the ocean
Where I've rocked night and day,
Heard the grumbling of the waters
And seen the whales at play.
Refrain
Oh, the moaning and the groaning,
The raging of the tide,
Is the music and the magic
Where the fishing schooners ride.
The flapping of the sail,
The pounding of the lope,
Is music to my ears,
Oh, may it never stop
Until the great Lightkeeper
Bears me to that strand,
Where all is peace and joy
In that bright and happy land.

Puzzled Personalities

These three slightly perplexed people are Alan Millar, Margaret Morris and Allan Manings, permanent panelists on CBC-TV's Sunday evening series, Flashback. The cause of their perplexity? No doubt a particularly puzzling problem posed by panel moderator Paul Soles, the man who asks them to identify once-famous people or objects, on this weekly television program.

Has the novelty of television worn off? It was not so many years ago that we went to our friends' houses to spend an evening, and spent the entire time staring at the pale blue screen in the corner. In those days we did not leave the room lights on when we watched T.V. The screen glowed in a darkened room, and we could not see the faces of the people around us. Conversation was limited to "This is not a very good program, but the next one is good." We stared hypnotized at the bad programs and the commercials. We said "Good-bye" when we left.

I think we are considerably less of television idiots now than we were five or ten years ago, but I still wonder how much part this newest of the mass media has had in making us a nation of watchers rather than a nation of doers and experiencers. Even the people who "think young" on the soft drink commercials, or the men who "enjoy the real things of life" in the cigarette ads, seem to radiate a kind of glorious spontaneity which nobody off the blue screen seems to have. Perhaps we never see the "real things of life." Perhaps we spend too large a part of our lives watching other people either have exciting experiences or pretend to have them. Perhaps we spend this time this way because the only way we can rise above the humdrum of our own world is to identify with these characters. I know this theory has holes in it as big as your hand. It can be applied just as well, though perhaps to a lesser extent to movies, radio, and, let's face it, that most socially acceptable of all occupations, reading.

Television seems to share the honors with working mothers in popular opinion, as the top cause of juvenile delinquency. I have just read a psychologist's report on the effect of television on children. I admit the report was written several years ago, probably during the heyday of the early "telemania", but I do think many of the findings are still valid. She seemed to think, among other things, that poor students were more addicted to television than were their classmates who learned quickly. She also noted that television appealed more to children with a poor emotional adjustment than to well adjusted children. She was quite reluctant to call this a cause and effect relationship in either case. Instead she felt that these children used the escape offered them in the fantasies of other people to compensate for their own inadequacies. In other words, the television viewing was a symptom, rather than a cause.

Surely there must be a great deal of harm which can result from the excessive viewing of television by children, and surely we adults can keep a bit of a watch on our children's viewing activities. I once heard of a father who did not let his children watch T.V. until they had completed a prescribed amount of reading a day, or week, or some other length of time. At first I thought this was a wonderful idea, but as I thought about it, it seemed to defeat its own purpose. Television seems to become the prize, and reading the punishment, which, of course would make television watching the more desirable activity.

In any case, whatever method is used to curb his watching, I am sure the potential delinquent can get enough ideas of his own, with no instruction from the blue screen in the corner. The danger, I think, lies in just the opposite situation. A great deal of what is seen on television does not offer enough ideas to the young, or older minds. Rather than gaining ideas, we are robbed of them as the same tired situation, the same jokes, and the same characters, slightly revised and rearranged in the hope of disguising them, are paraded before us. After a while we reach a point where we no longer realize what is happening, and when the words, or the visual image or the old jokes have been shuffled a bit we think them funny, and the more predictable the plot is, the better we like it.

Of course there is a great deal which is good and worth while in any media, and television is no exception. A very large part of television can enrich our lives rather than rob us, and make us more keenly aware of "the real things of life", rather than less. More than one student of the effect of television on children has felt that whatever its effect on the less bright child, the effect on the bright child is very favorable. The bright child tends to follow up things he has seen, and try to learn more about them. He also absorbs information from the visual images on the screen which reach the file and forget department of less observant minds. Just for the record, the report which inspired this article stated that the teachers who were most critical of the effect of T.V. on their students were those who did not own T.V. sets themselves.

Anyway, I think our own critical standards are improving as the novelty wears off, and as long as a few television producers realize that the average mental age of Canadians is more than thirteen, the prognosis for television becoming an even more effective means of communication than it is now, are very good.

Start Home Nursing Course

Miss Jean Adams, R.N. interim Director of Nursing Services for the Red Cross was a recent visitor in Weymouth, where she met with Mrs. Dan Hankinson, Chairman of Home Nursing and Sick Room Loan Service, and Mrs. Vera Hankinson, Instructor of the Home Nursing Classes for some time. She showed lovely quilts she was taking to the regional meeting at Digby and enjoyed some time talking over the work done by the quilters in various communities. A highlight of the Weymouth call was a session with Mrs. Rhuland Proudfoot, R.N. to whom Miss Adams took the Teen Home Nursing Manual and Instructor's Guide. A Home Nursing course was started in her recently established C.G.I.T. group, which will be the nucleus for a larger group.

New President Fish & Game

Charles Hall (above) of Digby, became president of the Digby Fish & Game Association at its annual meeting held Thursday evening at the Maiden Lane fire hall. Retiring president is James Dunn, of Lansdowne.

In accepting the office Mr. Hall pledged his full co-operation with members and friends to work faithfully for the betterment of the association. He stressed the need for aroused interest in the completion of the building being constructed at Haines Lake, site of Defaga Lodge, and the need for more interest in regular fish and game activities than has been the case in the recent past. "During the past year a majority of our members have had just one thought in mind . . . dances. They're good to raise money, but Fish & Game is a lot more than a dance and a good time". The association was organized for the protection and betterment of wildlife and wildlife activities, Mr. Hall said, and we are duty bound to work towards the fulfillment of these ideas. "To do this we need the support of all our members", he said.

The treasurer's report revealed that as of December 31, $371.41 remained in the bank, and a few small bills are yet to be paid. Association membership totals 365 including junior members.

Motions were passed at the meeting stating that regular meetings hereafter shall be held on the second Thursday of every month, and that the directors are to meet before each meeting. The association will meet at Defaga Lodge from April to November, and at the Maiden Lane Fire Hall from December to March.

Concern was expressed regarding the diminishing deer herds in the western counties. The group decided to contact someone to act as publicity agent for the association, to report happenings to local news media, and to make public the opinions and feelings of its members.

Other officers for 1964 include: Buddy Barr, first vice president; Henry Lewis, second vice president; Aubrey Adams, Treasurer; Irving McKenna and Tom Cleveland, auditors. The following were named directors: Everett Trefry, Don Haight, Fred Amoro, Charles Hall, Henry Lewis, Aubrey Adams, Buddy Barr, Jack Nichols, Frank Comeau, Jimmy Dunn, Fred Smith.

Entertain At Teas & Bridge

Mrs. Helen Anthony and Mrs. Louise Stephen were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Anthony, Montague Row, to several social functions.

On Friday Mrs. Donald Brown presided at the tea table when tea was served to about twelve. Mrs. Allan Harris and Miss Marjorie McCormick served. Tea was again served on Monday when Mrs. Cecil Jones poured. Mrs. D. E. Lewis and Miss McCormack served.

On Saturday three tables played at a Buffet Supper Bridge when prizes were presented to Miss Dorothy Oliver for high score and to Miss Louise Daley, low.

Deer Jacking Said Rampant In Digby Co.

Long Island and Brier Island, Digby County, is an area where "deer jacking" is rampant, according to Dr. Donald G. Dods, the province's assistant director of conversation.

Much of the jacking is from the highway, he said.

"Mainlanders" were mostly to blame, Dr. Dods said.

Mail & Passenger Carrier Retires After 52 Years

Lloyd Blackford, of Freeport, recently retired from 52 years of successful mail and passenger carrying service for Long and Brier Islands (Westport).

Mr. Blackford began his career while a young boy, in 1912, at Tiverton, as an assistant with his father, the late Edward Blackford, of Tiverton, who had assumed the responsibilities of mail and passenger carrying service while a young man, during the latter part of the century.

In 1912, mail service on the Islands was still depending on the capabilities of the horses and carriage. Both had to be sturdy — and the driver as well — to stand the 12 mile trek over the corrugated and often deeply rutted roads.

Because of poor road conditions and the slow method of transportation on Digby Neck also, mail and passengers from Digby and beyond, enroute to the Islands, were forced to remain at Sandy Cove, Digby Neck, overnight. They were ferried across Petite Passage the following morning. Mr. Blackford, whose parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blackford, operated the first hotel in the area, took the passengers there in the winter-time where they were served a steaming hot cup of tea or coffee and rested a bit before completing their journey, which often took many long tedious hours. After seeing the passengers safely to their destination, and the mail deposited, he stabled his horses and remained at Freeport overnight at a boarding house operated by Mrs. Miller.

With 1913 came the era of automobile. The horses that had so faithfully served Mr. Blackford and his father were sold as soon as the capabilities of the automobile had proved to be successful. Residents today who were youngsters at that time, recall the sleek shiny spirited steeds that Mr. Blackford kept stabled in readiness for travel at any time. They also recall the delightful sound of sleigh bells — so unfamiliar to this generation — that Mr. Blackford always attached to the horses' harness during the winter. Also the sleigh rides were enjoyed when they went "down the Island on the mail" to visit grandparents and friends.

The horses were replaced by a Buick make of car that required nearly as much time and attention as did the horses to ensure prompt and efficient delivery of mail and passengers. More problems arose. The winter brought drifting snow which created barriers in different areas along the route. As one resident said, "We had snow in those days!" No one went any distance from home without a shovel — Mr. Blackford carried plenty of spare ones in the event assistants were required to shovel him out.

Spring brought winter's thaw, which created mud. Where a horse could wallow through it, the mail car became mired. A span of horses or a yoke of oxen were quickly summoned to haul the car out and onto firm ground.

Regardless of the hardships and difficulties that surrounded the early mail and passenger delivery service, Mr. Blackford did not miss a single day — the mail always got through.

By 1920 Mr. Blackford had become so familiar with car engines and the working parts of cars that he opened his own garage. This also proved to be a boon to fishermen in the area. Boat engines had been introduced to Tiverton in about 1904. Those fishermen who had been faced with the expense and loss of time that resulted from the necessity of sending their engines elsewhere for repairs, could now take them to Mr. Blackford's garage where he repaired them speedily and efficiently.

Being mechanically inclined, Mr. Blackford was also able to eliminate a considerable amount of labor and difficulty during the delivery service in (Please turn to page 10)

Powell To Second Speech From The Throne

At a recent caucus meeting in Halifax of the Progressive Conservative members, Gerald Doucet, Grand Etang, Richmond Co., was chosen to move the Speech from the Throne, at the opening of the Nova Scotia legislature on February 6. Second of the Speech from the Throne will be Robert Baden Powell, Plympton.

Both Mr. Doucet and Mr. Powell are new to the legislature, Mr. Doucet being the youngest member elected to the House of Assembly.

Fishing Dragger Destroyed By Fire

The 65 foot fishing dragger, Charlotte Louise, tied up at the government pier in Little River on Digby Neck was destroyed by fire on Tuesday morning. The loss is estimated at $90,000 and was only partially insured.

The boat with a tonnage of 73 was built in 1962 in Port Greville and is owned by Stanley Denton, Little River.

Origin of the fire is unknown. Mrs. Eric Morehouse, resident of the village, noticed the fire at the early hour of four o'clock Tuesday morning and immediately called the local telephone exchange. A north-east gale fanned the flames making efforts of Mr. Denton and local fishermen fruitless in extinguishing the blaze. The Charlotte Louise was moved to another position but before this could be managed another dragger Industrial II was scorched.

League Taking Shape

St. Pat's and St. Theresa's squads seem to be shaping up as league leaders in parish hockey, both strengthening their positions by wins in last Friday's play.

The Marshalltown team downed the Christophers 11-5, led in their scoring by Freddy Jordan in a cleanly-played game.

St. Pat's set down Weymouth 11-3 in a lop-sided match in which Dave Wood and Andy Doucette each picked up four markers.

Despite uneven scores the quality of hockey was good and penalties were at a premium. The two leading teams are scheduled to play off tomorrow, when some close games are anticipated.

The parish league is made possible this year through the sponsorship of the Digby Knights of Columbus club.

Clare Wharves Under Repair

Bernard and Gerald Lombard, of Corberrie, Digby Co., have been awarded the contract for wharf repairs at Church Point. The cost will be in the vicinity of $22,000.00. The job consists of placing crosscut timber for a distance of 235 feet of the wharf and untreated timber for a distance of fifty feet on the block extension. A reinforced concrete anchor wall will be constructed the full length of the old wharf with iron bars crossing a distance of 20 to 30 feet to the wharf timbers.

The Lombard contracting firm is completing another harbour construction job at Meteghan River where a 40-foot rock mound is being constructed at the end of the (Please turn to page 10)

Horticultural Society Meets

The January meeting of the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society was held at the home of Miss Louise Daley with the President R. K. Beckwith in the chair.

It was announced that the Annual Flower Show this year will be held as usual on the second Wednesday in August which this year falls on August 12th.

There was considerable discussion on the welcome Sign area of the Cannon Bank Gardens, because of the recent publicity regarding a new wharf. Since major decisions may be necessary in the spring two new members were added to the Garden Committee.

A Penny Sale was held to add to the assets of the club after which the hostess and the two co-hostesses served refreshments.

Celebrate 59th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Burham Thibault, Ductteville, quietly celebrated the fifty-ninth anniversary of their wedding on January 9th. Mr. and Mrs. Thibault were married on January 9th, 1905, at Holy Cross Church, Plympton, as at that time there was no mission church at Ductteville. Father Cote performed the ceremony, being parish priest at that time. Miss Annie Thibault, now Mrs. Martin Dugas, Halifax was bridesmaid, and Herbert Thibault, brother of the groom acted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Thibault were taken to and from church with horse and sleigh as that was the main means of transportation at that time. They have resided in Ductteville most of their married life, where they held the position of postmaster and postmistress for the past 36 years.

Mrs. Thibault is the daughter of the late George Thibault and Mary Doucette Thibault of Ductteville and Mr. Thibault is the son of the late Isaac Thibault and Catherine Amoro Thibault also of Ductteville. They have one daughter, Mrs. Elsie Thibault (Mozie) and one son, Donald with whom they reside. They also have four grandchildren, Shirley, Delroy, Gary and Patricia Ann. One daughter died in infancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Thibault, who are both in ill health, received phone calls, cards of congratulations on the occasion of their many years of wedded life. All join in wishing them many more.

Youth Plans At Grace United

On Sunday, January 26, the youth organizations of Grace United Church will take a prominent part in the Church service at eleven o'clock in observance of Youth Week, January 26 to February 1st. During the week the organizations will sponsor their own programme and films demonstrating the work of the church at home and overseas will be shown.

On Saturday evening, February 1st, the members of the organizations will meet in the Church hall at seven-thirty for a social evening and a get acquainted meeting. The new extension to the hall now makes it possible to have more meetings in the hall on the same evening and the facilities now available makes the work of the teachers much easier in the Church Schools.

At a previous meeting the resignation of Mrs. Elton Arnold as Secretary had been received with regret after many years of faithful service to the Branch. At the conclusion of the January meeting the President announced that Mrs. Mary Robert had agreed to fill this office, with Mrs. Brittain continuing as Assistant Secretary. Mrs. Robert was heartily welcomed to membership in the Branch.

The meeting concluded with the customary social hour, during which tea was served by the Ways and Means Committee.

Digby Masons Install Officers

Committee Welcomes Support

Congratulations on the formation of a community welfare organization in Weymouth, and best wishes for its success, were expressed by the Disaster Relief Committee of the Digby Red Cross Branch at its January business meeting held last week at the Court House. Mrs. Winfield, in presenting the report of the Disaster Relief Committee, stated that many of the cases requesting assistance from Red Cross have always come from the Weymouth area, thus it was of great assistance to have a local welfare organization established there, and it was hoped that by another year they would also be able to provide Christmas parcels as well as clothing for needy cases. This Christmas the Digby Red Cross Branch had supplied 21 cartons of toys, dolls, mittens and other items for a total of 115 children, Christmas dinners for these families being supplied by the Salvation Army. Provision of "Christmas Cheer" is a major project of the Digby Branch through the Disaster Relief Committee, and Mrs. Winfield, in addition to reporting the large amount of work accomplished by her committee, extended thanks on behalf of Mrs. Daniel Comeau, co-chairman, and herself to all those who had assisted in any way, with special mention of the following donations, including several anonymous cash donations, wrapped gifts from the Eastern Star, 42 knitted articles from the Conway Club and over 100 pairs of much-needed mittens, 72 pairs of which were knit by Mrs. Alma Melanson. Special thanks were expressed to Delbert Forrest for his assistance in repairing the many second-hand toys, which he made "as good as new", and to all the ladies who dressed the dolls, also to Phillip Woolaver and Daniel Comeau who had provided transportation of parcels. Mrs. Winfield concluded her report with a request for yarn and flannelette for the continuation of welfare work in the year ahead, both of which were authorized by the members present at the meeting.

Mrs. R. B. Lent, Digby Branch President, chaired the meeting, the minutes being read by Mrs. J. J. Brittain, assistant Secretary, and the Treasurer's report presented by Mrs. B. H. Ruggles. The report of the Ways and Means Committee, prepared by Mrs. Ralph Berwick, showed a balance of $25 on hand after a donation of $15 toward the Christmas work of the Branch.

The Sickroom Loan Committee reported a hospital bed and one pair of crutches returned, also that the new wheelchair authorized by the Branch was on order. Congratulations were received from Commissioner Illesley on this proposed addition to the sickroom equipment.

The course, held at HMCS Shearwater, was a "first" not only for Nova Scotia, but for Canada in that it was the most intensive training course ever provided jointly by the two societies in this country. A. Parkes Addresses Digby Trade Board

A. Parkes, secretary and manager of the Maritime Boards of Trade for the past twelve years, was guest speaker at a dinner meeting of the Digby Board of Trade held at Fundy Restaurant on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Parkes stressed the important part played by small organizations in the overall picture of Boards of Trade. Eighty-five percent of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce members are from Boards in towns of 5000 and under population. The voice of these people is heard on each level of government — on the municipal level through the work of the Board, on the provincial level through the channel of the Maritime Boards of Trade and the federal level through the channel of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. The importance of the small Boards presenting resolutions through the Maritime and Canadian levels was emphasized by Mr. Parkes.

Mr. Parkes told the Digby Board that the success of any Board was in its program of work. Set down a program of work, he advocated, and then publicize it. He warned against a one sided program of all long-range projects and no short-range plans. Both were necessary, he said, to the success of a Board, for a sense of achievement and to stimulate interest of members.

Mr. Parkes mentioned several meetings of interest in the near future including the planned overseas trade mission in April. A Nova Scotia Board of Trade Conference is to be held in Truro on February 18, the Maritime Boards of Trade annual will be held in Charlottetown, P.E.I., on May 24, 25 and 26, and the Canadian Chamber annual is to be held in Winnipeg.

Mr. Parkes was introduced by Mrs. J. M. Wallis immediate past president of the Digby Board and was thanked by His Worship, Mayor C. D. Snow. Mr. Snow recommended to the Digby Board that they endeavour to get the merchants of the town together and work out uniform store hours for the town. He said the town would back them in their effort.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Ralph MacIntyre who announced that an executive of the Board will be held at the Town Hall on Friday evening next when reports will be heard and new officers installed.

93 Years Old

Mrs. Laurabell Burrell, seen above with her birthday flowers, was 93 years old on December 28, 1963. Born at Waldee East, Annapolis County, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John E. Henshaw. Her first husband was Charles Sanford and later she married Avard Burrell. Her children are (Wanetta) Mrs. Wilfred Masters, Windsor, Vermont, who telephoned her mother on her birthday, four sons, William Sanford and Eldon Sanford in Windsor, Herbert Sanford in Lynn, Mass., and Wendell Sanford in Bridgetown, N. S. All visited their mother in the summer vacation. She has two sisters and one brother living and ranging in age from 76 years to 81 years.

Mrs. Burrell can give no reason for her longevity. She felt she had worked quite hard both indoors and on the farm. Besides housework she hooked rugs and made quilts until three or four years ago. Her married life took her to West Saskatchewan and Deep Brook in Nova Scotia.

At present and for the past ten years, Mrs. Burrell is living at the home of Mrs. George VanTassel, Lighthouse Road, Digby where she claims she is treated most royally, including "breakfast in bed". In fact, Mrs. Burrell, spoke most highly of the people on Lighthouse Road and wished to extend thanks to all her friends and neighbours who are so kind to her. In an interview, she said that Christmas was most pleasant, having been invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Holdsworth for dinner and New Year's to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold VanTassel. Santa treated her well and she expressed appreciation to the Digby Baptist Church and Grace United Church for Christmas remembrances. She also spoke of her appreciation for visits throughout the year from Rev. R. H. Hughes, Rev. H. S. Hartlin and Rev. L. R. Atkinson.

And how do you spend the days? Mrs. Burrell was asked. Having been engaged in a round of auction 45's at the time Mrs. Burrell found it unnecessary to mention that recreation. She volunteered other activities such as listening to radio, reading and writing. She keeps in touch with the news by radio and claims she couldn't do without The Digby Courier. One of her favorite programs is that of Oral Roberts and she turns on her radio at eight in the morning to hear it. How about T.V.? we asked. "Don't care for it at all" was the answer. Mrs. Burrell cannot see T.V. programs too well but even at that her idea is that there is too much "trash" on T.V. — cannot stand it. There are only a few worthwhile programs, she claims.

Recreation is not all that keeps Mrs. Burrell busy. Her health is good so she insists on caring for her room and helping with dishes for exercise. "I am most meticulous with my bath and personal care", she said, "just as I was when I was 20 years".

About This and That

Open Ski Trail

While the snowy weather and the storms do have their disadvantages, there are some people in Bear River who are welcoming the snowy weather which happens to be here as we write this particular item. Allison Denon and Chipman Chisholm, in Bear River, are looking forward to a good quantity of snow for a successful official opening of the Bear River Ski Trail on Saturday.

The ski trail in Bear River was inaugurated in 1962 by several forward looking persons. Though the project has, we believe, changed in ownership since then and the trail has taken a new location in the village, there can be seen steady improvement. Those who initiated the project and those who are continuing in its development deserve our heartfelt congratulations.

The new location is a decided improvement over the former. The tractor "tow" has given way to a more modern lift and the latest addition is a small but comfortable and convenient lodge for skiers and observers.

Granted the progress is not swift, but the determination is there and we are looking forward to the Bear River Ski Trail to be a second Wentworth or, dare we say, a trail which in time won't be second place. All that is needed is a bit of co-operation from the villagers, some good skiing weather, some good advertising and a profitable venture for the season is assured.

The tourist season is short. The ski trail could be a winter tourist boom from which everybody in Bear River and locality could benefit. Our congratulations and best wishes for success to the Bear River Ski Trail venture.

The Weather Makes The Difference

We have not quite reached the Nova Scotia shore as we write these lines enroute across the Bay of Fundy on the Princess of Acadia. The trip has been most enjoyable. Scarcely any motion is felt as the ship wends her way on regular schedule. Happy voices of children skipping and playing on the spacious decks are heard. The newly decorated lounge where we sit certainly adds a much more luxurious appearance than that of a "ferry-boat". The new wall-to-wall carpeting is in a rich deep blue and the newly upholstered chairs are in an attractive gold. Both a pleasant decor and comfort are here in the lounge to greet the passengers, including the summer tourists, as they travel the Fundy this Spring and Summer.

But the weather makes all the difference. This is Monday. The crossing on Saturday was a different story. Gales of 60 to 70 miles per hour lashed the Bay. The pleasant decor of the lounge seemed to mean nothing as passengers vacated it to seek the lower centre of gravity on another deck. Children's voices were seldom heard in gay delight. Instead unhappy cries and "peculiar" sounds indicated illness and unpleasantness. Only the "old salts" attempted to walk the aisles without support while passengers huddled up in the arms of the seats or stretched flat on the floor. Sounds of breaking dishes and pounding gear which at times accompanied the rock and roll gave evidence of the reported 60 to 70 mile gale.

How much we are at the mercy of the elements! Those who crossed the Bay via Princess of Acadia on Saturday were likely to say "never again", even though the capable captain chose a longer course to avoid the worst of the storm. Those who are crossing on Monday are heard to say "she's a lovely boat — it is a pleasant trip — we'll take it again soon." We can readily see why the trip was not made on Friday of last week and on previous occasions. The best facilities are needed when dealing with the elements and we await rather impatiently a new wharf to ease the docking situation in Digby.

We commend the captain of the Princess of Acadia for his careful handling of the ship on Saturday, to make the least possible discomfort for his passengers. We congratulate the CPR on their redecorating scheme. We hope the rumor of two trips a day in the vacation period is correct. We think the tourist travel will warrant it. The only unfavourable condition beyond our control is the occasional weather upset. The weather does make a difference.

Marriage

Tidd — Outhouse

Bethel United Church, at Centreville was the scene of a pretty Christmas wedding when Dorothy Muriel, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy N. Outhouse became the bride of Lauriston Alton son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Tidd, of Whale Cove. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. R. H. Hughes, Digby, assisted by Mr. F. I. NOVA SCOTIA

- Congratulations -

The BEAR RIVER BOARD OF TRADE commends those concerned for their splendid efforts to establish a Ski Trail at Bear River, the famed Switzerland of Nova Scotia.

Since operations began in 1962, each year has shown improvement in facilities. Last year saw the erection of a Ski Tow, an improvement over the tractor tow previously used. This year a new lodge has been built for the comfort of spectators and participants.

With other necessary improvements it is anticipated that the Bear River Ski Trail will soon be unsurpassed in the province.

Something new happened to Bear River back in the year 1962. A ski trail was opened on the slopes along the river. Indeed the vision and imagination of some energetic men of the village not only brought something new to Bear River but also brought a new commercial Ski Trail, the only one for miles around.

The vision of these men has not been dimmed for they are looking to the time when the Bear River hills will be a noted ski attraction for winter tourists. The progress is of necessity slow but the progress is sure. Each year some improvements have been added. Starting with nothing much more than an organized run with a tractor operated for a "lift", the venture now boasts of a tow with a total 2400 ft. length. The latest addition during the present year was a ski lodge, 20 x 20 ft. constructed of wood. The lodge is convenient for the skiers and provides comfortable quarters for those who come to observe. A lunch counter or coffee bar is contained in the lodge where skiers can be refreshed for further recreation and where observers can bide the time.

The official opening of the trail for the winter and the opening of the lodge will take place on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Those who wish to do so are invited to bring along skis and take advantage of a free skiing for the afternoon.

The official opening will be by Baden Powell, M.L.A., and present as guests will be Capt. Steele, H.M.C.S. Cornwallis; Warden Ronald Morehouse; Mayor Clayton Snow, Digby; V. G. Cardoza; Howard Yorke; Board of Trade, Bear River;

By
Hon. N. Layton Fergusson,
Minister of Municipal Affairs.

During 1963, the municipalities of Nova Scotia continued to improve their facilities and enlarge their services. School construction has continued to be a cause of heavy capital expenditures, particularly in the rural municipalities. There has been the usual amount of construction of water and sewer facilities, and of streets and paving. There has been an increased interest in the field of community planning and a continued improvement in assessments.

Assessment —
The total net assessment of all municipalities in the province first exceeded $1,000,000, 000 in 1961. By 1962, it had become $1,116,000,000. For 1963, it was $1,179,000,000. The improvement is caused partly by the increase in the physical volume of assessable property as new houses are built and other construction takes place. It is also caused by an increase in the value of property. The third and most commendable reason for the increase is the great improvement in assessment methods.

Considerable progress was made in the field of assessment by a number of municipalities which undertook to conduct reassessment programmes during the year. The towns of New Waterford, Yarmouth, Westville and the rural municipalities of Annapolis, Barrington, Hants East, and Richmond are now engaged in reassessment. This includes making a complete record of all property in considerable detail; and the assessment of all property on the full basis of assessment to conform with the Assessment Act. These municipal units are to be commended for the progressive step they have taken in obtaining a proper assessment roll. It is hoped and expected that the few municipal units in the province which have not had a reassessment in recent years will do so soon.

The Department of Municipal Affairs continued its training programme for assessors during the year. It conducted the eleventh annual short course for assessors. It continued to sponsor and promote the three year correspondence course for assessors, which is administered on its behalf by the Institute of Public Affairs of Dalhousie University. It conducted regional study groups in Antigonish, Dartmouth and Liverpool. The Department has been greatly encouraged by the registration of assessors for the correspondence course as well as the large attendance and the keen interest taken in the other two courses. The enthusiasm of the students and their desire to improve their knowledge in methods of assessment, have been a reward in the work of the Department in this field.

There are fifty-nine Nova Scotians registered for the three year course. Thirty-eight of these successfully completed the second year and are now working on their third and final year. Eleven assessors from the province are taking the second year after successfully completing the first; and ten are enrolled in the first year.

The Department of Municipal Affairs was honored at the Annual Conference of the International Association of Assessing Officers in Chicago, by being awarded the most Distinguished Assistance Award of the Association. This award is conferred by the International Association from time to time on the organization, agency or body, public or private, which makes the most outstanding contribution to the improvement of assessment administration, including the training of assessors of officials.

Tax Levies —
While figures for 1963 are of course, not available at the present time, the tax levies of our municipalities have undoubtedly increased again. The total tax levy of all of our municipal units for 1962 was approximately $42,500,000. There can be little doubt but that the figure will be in excess of $45,000,000 for 1963.

Community Planning —
In 1963, the Community Planning Division of the Department of Municipal Affairs continued its assistance and its programme of promotion in the field of community planning. Technical planning assistance was given during the year to twelve towns, three villages, five rural municipalities, two metropolitan planning commissions, the Peggy's Cove Planning Commission and the Louisburg District Planning and Development Commission and the Halifax Housing Survey, Planning studies of the Municipality of West Hants and of the East River Valley Metropolitan Planning Commission were prepared under the supervision and with the assistance of our Community Planning Division. Special studies were completed for Peggy's Cove, Liverpool and Canso. Property mapping assistance was made available to assessors in a number of communities and maps were prepared for Port Hawkesbury and the East River Valley Area. A model zoning by-law was prepared for use by rural municipalities and towns. The by-law provides for forestry, water resources and agricultural zones.

Financial assistance has been given to the East River Valley Commission towards the salary of a planning engineer. It is worth noting that this Commission leads all other areas in regional planning. Financial aid was also given, as part of the Department's aerial mapping programme, to the villages of Pugwash and Brooklyn, the Peggy's Cove Commission, the City of Sydney, and the towns of Wolfville, St. John's and Pictou.

The Division promoted interest in community planning also by participating in five conferences. It also participated in the courses provided by the Department for assessors and for municipal finance officers, and also in a lecture series on the principles of town and regional planning sponsored by the Community Planning Association of Canada and the Institute of Public Affairs. Officials of the Division attended meetings of town and municipal councils and public meetings in order to promote regional planning. These included a general meeting in the Annapolis Valley region, in the Queen's County and Liverpool region, in the Colchester and Truro regions, and in the Cape Breton County and Sydney region.

During the year, the Director of Community Planning was appointed to the Advisory Board of the Nova Scotia Water Authority and also to the Provincial Government Committee on Parkway Regulations.

As the year was drawing to a close, the Department sponsored what may be one of the most important conferences of the year — a conference of representatives of various provincial government departments whose development policies and activity affect local planning and the implementing of local planning controls. The meeting offered the opportunity for the establishment of a continuing collaboration among those provincial departments which have important development roles in the development of community planning.

Requests for the services of the Community Planning Division received in the final months of the year seemed to indicate that a larger number of communities will seek and receive community planning assistance in 1964, and are very encouraging.

Course for Financing Officers —
The usual annual short course for clerks, treasurers and municipal finance officers was held in October. It was very well attended not only by municipal officials, but also by a number of municipal auditors. We are again indebted to a number of persons not directly connected with municipal administration, who made their time and services available to prepare and give lectures concerning a number of topics. As usual, the programme covered a variety of different items in which the municipal finance officers and auditors are interested. We are again encouraged by the large attendance and by the interest taken in the course.

Sale of Debentures —
There was a slight reduction in the volume of municipal debentures issued and sold. The figure for 1962 had been $15,355,000. More than half of this, however, had been issued by three municipal units alone, the City of Halifax, the City of Dartmouth, and Halifax County. During 1963, the City of Halifax issued $3,500,000 which was larger than their issue of 1962. The City of Dart-

In Memoriam

BRAITZ — In loving memory of Louise (Jeffrey) Braitz, who passed away at her home in Devon, Conn., Jan. 15th, 1953.
Deep in our hearts her memory is kept
To love and to cherish and never forget.
— Ever remembered by Ma, sisters, Belva and Vivian, brothers Frank and Victor, sons Billy and Jeffrey. 21:1c THIBAUT — In loving memory of husband and father, Mr. Alphonse J. Thibault who passed away January 14, 1954. All the day's since he's been gone have been lonely, but today is the saddest for on this one eight years ago, he passed away left us grieving for his presence in a home that he'll never see his passing through its room's again except in memory.

— Always remembered by wife, Grace, daughters and son and grandchildren. 21:1c

HANDSPIKER — In loving memory of a dear brother Edison T. Handspiker who passed away in Victoria Hospital in England, February 5th, 1918. I often think I see his smiling face.
As he bade his last good-bye And he left his home forever In a distant land to die. — Mrs. Ernest B. VanTassel, Mrs. Ainslie S. Handspiker. 21:1p

HANDSPIKER — In loving memory of my dear parents, Mr. James A. Handspiker, who passed away January 17, 1937 and Mrs. James A. Handspiker who passed away January 22, 1960.
Today recalls sad memories Of our dear ones gone to rest And the ones who think of them today
Are the ones who loved them best.
— Mrs. Ernest B. VanTassel, Mrs. Ainslie S. Handspiker. 21:1p

MOREHOUSE — In loving memory of the late Guy Morehouse.
In loving memory of your noble deeds,
The songs and hymns you sang So well, sincere and true, have woven
In our loving hearts, the wish to honor you.
The songs you sang brought gaiety,
The hymns, some made us cry, For God had given you a gift, To sing for all posterity.
Through all the changing scenes of life,
Through over two score and ten,
In summer heat and muck and mire!
The songs and hymns you sang again,
Through sleet and rain and storms of life!
Your voice rang out in winter's blast!
Through snow-clad roads piled high!
You brought the mailcoach through at last!
In honor bound to one so true Who gave his all for God and man Serving all along life's way. They left their cares, dear Guy, in your command.
For years on years God led you on,
And guided you for what was best,
For peace on earth, good-will to men,
And then He gave you some years of rest.

EVERETT — I wish to express my thanks to all my friends and neighbors for cards and letters I received while a patient at the V. G. Hospital. Also those who visited me. Many thanks to all. — Mrs. Jamie Everett. 21:1c

AMERO — Our grateful thanks to all who were so kind during the recent illness and passing of Donald J. Amero. Thanks to doctors and nurses at the V. G. Hospital, Dr. Black and nurses at Digby hospital. Special thanks to Father Devau, Mrs. Alfred Roy and Adoris Devau. — Signed Mrs. Donald Amero and family. 21:1c

AT REST — With loved ones, safe in their care.
Your deeds on earth through years and day and even
Our Lord and Saviour etched them on His scroll of Immortality in Heaven,
That when the bells began to toll,
And life's journey was drawing nigh,
Old and young would mourn and cry
And say Goodbye! dear Guy, Goodbye! Goodbye!
— Frederick P. Timpany

Year End Review

Hon. R. A. Donahoe, Minister of Public Health

The Nova Scotia Department of Public Health serves the people of this province by helping to eliminate health hazards by providing diagnostic facilities and treatment for certain conditions, by promoting the use of preventive measures, and by encouraging positive health for all through a program of general health education.

The eight health units continued to bring a wide variety of services to people all over the province. The following review only a sampling of the many activities of the staff.

The Environmental Health Division continues to supervise public and private water supplies, public and private sewage disposal, milk supply and processing, industrial hygiene and radiation hazards. This year there was a fresh approach to problems involving water resources. The Nova Scotia Water Authority was set up with wide powers to prevent and reduce water pollution and this Department is represented on its advisory board.

Over 1,000 children received treatment (600 of them for the first time) at the Mobile Dental Unit this summer. Another 13,000 children had a dental examination, application of topical fluoride and instruction in care of the teeth at the dental hygiene clinics.

This year Windsor and Antigonish started water fluoridation programs - a procedure which should substantially improve the dental health of these areas in the future, as it already has in about half our urban population.

The Nutrition Division has received many requests for assistance with food budgeting problems this year. Food budget guides and information, were compiled, and the Diet Manual for the use of physicians and institutions were completely revised. Nutrition education in the schools was extended into the community and the home through the use of media and materials.

We were fortunate in the incidence of serious communicable disease remained at a low level. There were, however, 46 cases of severe gastroenteritis, mainly in the Cape Breton area, with seven deaths.

Chronic diseases are also receiving attention. In 1963 the Department of Public Health provided free medications and testing materials to over 5,000 diabetics.

The Rehabilitation Division conducts a program of vocational rehabilitation for adults with physical or mental impairments. This year 93 people were helped to become self-supporting through vocational training and or special job placement.

Tuberculosis continues to be a problem. During the first 10 months of the year 187 new cases of active tuberculous disease were discovered and 50 patients whose disease had been healed or inactive for a number of years broke down again and required treatment.

In order to find new cases of tuberculosis before the disease advances, the Nova Scotia Tuberculosis Association is assisting the Department of Public Health by sponsoring four Tuberculin Test Survey Teams. More than 100,000 tuberculin tests were carried out last year.

There are now nine Mental Health Centres in operation in Nova Scotia. The latest, the Cumberland County Mental Health Centre with offices in Amherst and Springhill, was opened this year.

The Nova Scotia Hospital has been undergoing renovation and a new Nurses' Residence is being built. When completed, it is expected that student nurses from all parts of the province will be able to take courses in psychiatry.

Follow-up services will be improved when Public Health Nurses in two areas begin visiting patients discharged from the Nova Scotia Hospital early in the new year.

Another significant activity of the Mental Health Division this year was the training program for clergymen, arranged in co-operation with the Institute for Pastoral Training.

Our staff has also continued its own education. All public health nurses have attended courses, organized by the Emergency Measures Organization, concerning the nurse's role in a nuclear attack. Several other staff members have been away taking advanced courses in other aspects of public health.

Staff shortages continue to be a problem. Bursaries have been provided for students training for positions with this Department and other public health agencies, in an attempt to increase the supply of trained personnel. This year 152 bursaries of all types were awarded.

Public Health Grants administered by this Department were also used to support the new school of Physiotherapy at Dalhousie University and several hospital construction projects. The Queen's General Hospital Nurses' Residence, St. Rita Hospital, Nurses' Residence, and the New Waterford Hospital were completed this year.

The workers "behind the scenes" also had a busy year.

During the first 11 months of the year the Registration Services Division recorded 17,767 births, 5,763 deaths, 263 stillbirths, and 4,757 marriages. Drastic changes in the legislation administered by this Division required a great deal of extra work on the part of the staff.

The Laboratory Services Division has reported a heavy load in almost all sections. Most notable were 33 per cent increase in cytopathology and a 24 per cent increase in the work of the biochemistry laboratory. New methods have been introduced to cope with this demand and to improve the quality of the work.

Staff shortages also trouble this division. The Technician Training School continues to graduate two classes a year, but many technicians are lost to other provinces or to marriage.

Throughout the year all divisions of this Department continued to work with other departments of government, other health agencies and physicians in the community. Without their co-operation it would be impossible to carry out our program.

Reg "I see so many spots - which one is the ball" Outhouse and Bernard "Nellie where are the left-handed clubs" Robbins. Mr. Pyne (better known as the three iron kid) addressed the group: "Better known as the Fernwood Quartet in a voice filled with emotion and said:

"It mattered not how you played the game just as long as you won". It was notable that the trophy had also been inscribed "1962 winner - Reg Outhouse"; this was due mainly to the fact that Reg had paid for the trophy out of his own pocket and also owned the nail that made the inscription. Other interested observers were Mrs. Bernard (Nellie) Robbins, Miss June Robbins and Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Robbins. Refreshments were served and an enjoyable evening was spent in the traditional way of golfers, lying about last seasons golf games.

the winter by designing a snowplow and a caterpillar tractor, which he attached to his cars.

By 1926 it was apparent that cars were here to stay. As road conditions improved, mail and passengers no longer remained overnight at Sandy Cove. They left Digby about 2:30 p.m. after the train had come in and all passengers and mail for Digby Neck and Island were safely stowed away in the bus operated by the late Guy Morehouse. (His son, Paul operates the bus at present). They reached East Ferry between 4 or 5 p.m. Mr. Blackford was then able to make his deliveries before supper. However, he still remained overnight at Freeport — he had married the former Helen Churchill of that area and resided there.

During this period Mr. Blackford and his father operated a taxi service that safely transferred passengers to any part of the province (occasionally outside) that they wished to travel.

During 1936 Mr. Blackford completed the first and only movie theatre on the Island. It was located at Freeport and the name "Nu-era" was designed in neon lights. He obtained a wide variety of movies to please young and old and until the TV. era, presented a different movie four evenings a week. Gradually movies were and still are limited to one a week. There is a dance hall attached to the theatre which Mr. Blackford operates whenever the public desires to hold a dance. They dance to the latest current hit records.

Several years ago, Mr. Blackford obtained a small fishing boat that operates with an outboard motor. He and his partner, Mr. Edred Outhouse of Tiverton fish during the summer and tend their few lobster traps during winter.

An era of mail and passenger carrying service ended for the Blackford family when Mr. Lloyd Blackford passed it's responsibilities over to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crocker of Freeport. Mrs. Crocker is the former Rita Outhouse of Tiverton.

Mr. and Mrs. Blackford have six children, Jean, Mrs. Bernard Riston, Washington, D. C., Louise, Mrs. John Ropas of Miami; Barbara, Mrs. Clayton Tees, Rosemere, Quebec; Patricia, Mrs. George Robbins, who is with the Digby Medical Records at Digby hospital, Mary Lou, who is a R.N. of Digby and Bradford who is an assistant scientist at the Institute of Oceanography, at Halifax.

WEYMOUTH

Miss Bessie Sabine left last week for Wollaston, Mass., where she will spend the winter with her brother, Mr. John Sabine, and family. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sabine to Yarmouth where she went by plane to Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith and three children of Anna, polis were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Dukeshire during the weekend.

The Ladies Circle met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Vernon McCormick.

A gift was presented to Mrs. Dunn by the newly installed N.G. Mrs. June Cosman and a Past Noble Grand's Cord was presented to the Junior P.N.G., Mrs. Freda Doly on behalf of the Lodge. Following the installation and business meeting, a social period was enjoyed.

Meteghan River wharf and presently constructing a 100-foot rock talus beyond the old wharf. The 40-foot rock talus was constructed at the end of the old breakwater which had been broken up by the heavy seas. A rock talus already existed at the end of the breakwater. The present extension of 100 feet is to lengthen the existing rock mound. The purpose of the rock mound is to prevent gravel from closing the harbour entrance. It was found that the former rock mound was not long enough and gravel was still coming into the harbour entrance but the 100 foot extension is believed to be the remedy of the matter.

The Lombard firm recently dredged the Comeauville wharf when heavy gales of the early winter tossed gravel over the wharf into the boat channel. The gravel in the channel caused the lobster fishing boats to tilt dangerously during low water and some boats were flooded with the incoming tides when the boats could been accepted by the province. There is no change in the type of project, but certain municipal units in areas designated by the Dominion Government will now be receiving 60 per cent of the cost of unemployed labor, rather than 50 per cent. At the time of writing this report, forty-three applications have been accepted.

The province has also offered again its Winter Work Programme which provides for work of a current nature. At the time of writing, twenty-seven applications have been received and accepted.

General —

The position of our municipal units continues to be sound. The principal and the interest on all municipal debentures have been paid in full in 1963 as they have always been paid in full. Our municipalities continue to be administered prudently and wisely. There is nothing to indicate that this will not continue to be the case in the future, as it has been in the past.

It is hoped that further repairs to Church Point wharf will be undertaken soon. A portion of the old wharf which extended at right angles to the west has been extensively damaged by heavy gales and gravel from the retaining wall is being washed into the bay and it is feared that it will gradually work to close the harbour entrance.

The Bible Today

The "stepping up" of Scripture distribution throughout Africa was planned by delegates from fourteen countries in association with leaders of the Bible Societies working in Africa, at Limuru, Kenya, recently.

Recommendations included the "Africanisation" of Bible Society work as speedily as possible by the creation of national Bible Committees representing all denominations at work in particular countries and the training of Africans for key positions in Bible Society work.

In view of the urgency of the task the Conference recommended the African churches to throw themselves into the campaign launched by the United Bible Societies under the title "God's Word for a New Age" at Tokyo on Whit Sunday, 1963, which aims at trebling world Scripture distribution by the year 1966.

It was emphasized that the knowledge and use of the Scriptures was not keeping pace with the advance of literacy. There was an urgent need for the African churches to engage in the task of Scripture distribution.

The disturbing fact was that in 1962, the total distribution figure for Africa was only 3 million copies. In a year when the population increase of Africa was 6 million souls! During the past twelve months only one Gospel was available for every ninety non-Christians numbered nearly 200 million.

The average profit in the Canadian manufacturing industry in 1962 was 5.1 cents per dollar of sales.

CURE BEING TESTED

A new way to cure alcoholism is being tested by a group of New Jersey scientists, according to the New York Times.

The alcoholic is first frightened, then given a few sips of his favorite liquor. Since the secure has to be a powerful one the scientists give the patient a drug that paralyzes his muscles, destroying his ability to breathe. The paralysis lasting from 60 to 90 seconds is so terrifying it convinces the patient he is dying.

After the experience, the scientists have found the alcoholic does not want to drink again. The taste, smell, even the idea of alcohol bring back the moment of terror, so that drinking becomes very unpleasant.

Police Seek Vandals

Digby police are seeking vandals who early Sunday morning broke four large windows along the town's main street.

Heavy beach rocks were thrown through windows at the Bank of Nova Scotia; the N. S. Liquor Commission store; premises owned by Mrs. B. J. Roop, formerly a ladies wear store; and a service station.

So far as can be determined the windows were broken shortly after two o'clock Sunday morning. No attempt was made to enter any of the premises.

Manufactured Products Sought

A letter was read at the meeting of the Digby Board of Trade on Tuesday evening from the Woolco Department Stores Division of F. W. Woolworth Co. Ltd., which is interested in securing manufactured merchandise from the area.

The letter stated that the Woolco stores are interested in supporting as far as is economically possible, the manufacturing industry in the areas in which they are located. The first of these stores in Nova Scotia has been built in Sydney River, Nova Scotia. The new store has a floor space of 26,000 sq. ft. and carries a full line of departmental store goods.

The letter also stipulated that only quality merchandise would be acceptable, but the Maritime Provinces have long been famous for making only top quality merchandise, it stated. If a manufacturing line is extensive enough, the Woolco Stores will arrange to have a buyer visit the factory of a manufacturer.

The Digby Board of Trade expressed itself as being interested in the proposition and hoped that publicity to the request might stimulate manufacturing in the area.

To Construct Swimming Area

At a recent executive meeting of the Digby East Fish & Game Association it was decided to build a 120 foot by 40 foot enclosed swimming area for youngsters along the lakefront near Defaga Lodge, at Haines Lake. Work will be carried out as soon as possible.

The fact that the lake is solidly frozen over will not hinder the work, but will in fact assist in carrying it out, association officials state. The plan is to construct a completely enclosed area to provide a safe swimming area for youngsters. The enclosure will be built on top of the ice, piles driven through the ice and the enclosure put into place as the ice leaves the lake.

Along with the construction of the swimming area the association plans during the winter to clear out areas adjacent to the lodge site for tenting and camping. In the spring installation of kitchen and toilet facilities at Defaga Lodge will be completed and pumping equipment installed enabling the use of lake water for toilet facilities.

Ice Carnival March 21

Ray Thibault was appointed chairman of this year's Firemen's Ice Carnival at a meeting of the special committee on Monday night.

At this meeting plans were made to continue in the same manner as in past years with the exception that the local show will stay strictly with local talent this year and will not go to outside expense, although it is hoped that Cornwallis Navy Band will be able to assist as in the past. At this meeting Victor Cardozo was chosen as master of ceremonies when the show takes place on the ice on March 21st.

Figure skating practice is to commence this Wednesday at the Forum and Mrs. Donald Cameron will again be in charge of this part of the program. Mrs. Ralph Wright will be in charge of the costume parade. At the present time no chairman has been appointed to take charge of the queen and princess contests.

MacLeod Kiwanian President

Other officers installed with the president were Mr. Brown, 1st vice president; Charles Hall, 2nd vice president; C. D. Snow, treasurer; Mr. Applejohn, secretary. Directors are J. J. Brittain, past president; P. C. Outhouse, Mr. Hattie, Keith Raymond, Earl Morrell, Charles McBride, Rev. H. S. Hartlin and John Till.

An important part of Thursday's meeting was the address or conference of the newly elected president, the purpose of which was to familiarize the officers, committees and members with the 1964 theme, their duties and to outline the objectives for the year 1964.

"The theme for 1964 is 'Freedom' — a call to personal service," announced the president, who stated that "freedom is one of the highest on the list of achievements of man". He quoted the late President J. F. Kennedy as saying "Freedom makes you the master of your destiny". He reviewed many of the principles of Kiwanis and asked the Digby Kiwanians to re-dedicate themselves at the beginning of 1964 as Kiwanians.

Step by step Mr. MacLeod reviewed the duties of committees some of which are:

1. Committee on Boys & Girls Work — to inspire youth towards worthwhile personal goals; emphasize the value of the family and the home; aid the underprivileged and handicapped children; foster faith in God, love of country and respect for law.
2. Committee on Agriculture and Conservation.
3. Committee on Public and Business Affairs — work to achieve better government at all levels; encourage individual initiative; personally serve in building a better community.
4. Committee on Support of Churches — recognize personal need for spiritual growth, share with youth the conviction of the importance of spiritual values; encourage brotherhood among all men; carry the emphasis of spiritual values into government and business.
5. Committee on Citizenship and Vocational Guidance — to assist school in solving the "drop-out" problem; make available guidance plans and literature for careers; offer guidance tools for leadership and character building.

A review of the year's work showed 1963 to have been successful.

Sponsor Hospital Ward Kiwanis Objective

Newly-elected president of the Digby Kiwanis Club, William MacLeod, announced at the regular meeting on Thursday night that the directors of Digby Kiwanis had chosen as their 1964 major project the sponsoring of a children's ward in the new Digby General Hospital. They plan, he said, to ask the Weymouth Kiwanis Club to participate in the venture.

President MacLeod said it is proposed to support the hospital project by night club evenings, minstrel show, talent show, a gas-a-rama, sale of apples, Christmas tree sale, etc.

The club will continue the Crippled Children's Work, Easter Seals and the Little League Baseball Program.

R. Baden Powell, Plympton, MLA for the Electoral District of Digby, officially opened a new ski lodge at Bear River on Saturday afternoon and gave an official sendoff to the skiing season for the year in Bear River. Next to Mr. Powell in the picture is Lt. Com. William Peakman, H.M.C.S. Cornwallis; Warden Ronald Morehouse, former Warden Harvey Chisholm and His Worship Mayor C. D. Snow, Digby.

In declaring the season and lodge open, Mr. Powell congratulated those responsible for the ski trail and who had shown initiative and vision. He said there were far too few ventures of this sort and that citizens of communities have responsibilities in encouraging and supporting such undertakings. One of the ways to support such ventures is to talk about them, make it well known that such facilities as the Bear River Ski Trail are available.

The ceremonies were chaired by V. G. Cardozo, Digby. Among those participating (Please turn to page 10)

Nowlan Optimistic New Digby Wharf

George C. Nowlan, M.P., Digby, Annapolis-Kings, who was in Digby on Monday regarding the proposed new wharf, expressed the greatest optimism that plans for a new Digby wharf would materialize without too much delay.

Mr. Nowlan said that they had almost completed the planning stage and when these plans were completed tender would be called. Although there is no money in the pot, current estimates at present, Mr. Nowlan was confident that the wharf could be included in the supplementary estimates and money should be available.

When in the Maritimes this week, Mr. Nowlan discussed plans and wharfage necessities with K. R. Perry, Saint John, N. B.; Superintendent of CPR Atlantic Region, and with Captain John Goodwin and the crew of the Princess of Acadia.

The site for a new wharf, north of the present wharf, has already been decided upon, Mr. Nowlan said.

Although the fisheries wharf is also under consideration, Mr. Nowlan said the wharf for docking the Princess of Acadia is of paramount importance as the Princess of Acadia had already missed eight trips from its regular schedule during the fall and winter.

Editor's Note: Since the above, the Princess of Acadia missed a trip on Tuesday, making nine of her trips between Saint John and Digby missed for the season. A qualified source stated his belief that the Princess Helene would have missed more trips than the Princess of Acadia had she remained on the run this season.)

Merchants Invited Discuss Store Hours

At a meeting of the Digby Board of Trade on Tuesday evening and presided over by the newly elected president, Charles Haliburton, it was decided to invite the merchants of the town to attend the next meeting of the Trade Board with the view of discussing Digby store hours. It was also suggested, that not only the merchants themselves were interested in this subject but that it was a vital subject to the public in general.

All attending the meeting of the Board of Trade will be given an opportunity to speak on the subject of store hours; express ideas and get the feeling of the other person toward the subject. It is hoped that following the discussions, that a merchants committee of the Board of Trade or group to deal with such matters might result.

Tuition Classes

Tuition Classes, giving instruction in any subject included in the school curriculum up to Grade X, is being sponsored at the Digby Regional High School under the Adult Education Department. Wallace Hodgson is instructor.

According to R. Baden Powell, director, a student can elect any subject and when finished is given credit for it. When a complete grade has been made the student receives a certificate for the grade. One purpose of the classes is to upgrade the education of those who wish to prepare for trade training.

The classes meet once a week on Tuesday evening at 7:30 for two hours. Of necessity the classes must be kept at a minimum. Twenty-three are presently enrolled.

Mr. Hodgson and Mrs. C. Wenaus conduct similar classes at the school at Conway, where twenty-seven are enrolled in mathematics and English classes from beginner grades to Grade X. The Conway classes meet on Wednesday evenings at eight o'clock. Sponsored by Adult Education, the Conway classes had their initiation through the Education Committee of the Community Betterment Project in the village.

He reviewed the work of the Board with reference to the Digby wharf and the tourist industry, making special mention of the meetings at (Please turn to page 10)

Resolution Re Second Ferry

At the meeting of the Digby Board of Trade on Tuesday evening Vincent Snow said that he had been surprised to learn that the Maritime Boards of Trade had not received a resolution regarding obtaining a second ferry to run between some point in the New England States and Western Nova Scotia. He felt the Maritime Boards of Trade could be of great benefit in furthering such a course. After considerable discussion the following resolution was moved by Mr. Snow and seconded by Ralph MacIntyre.

Whereas Western Nova Scotia needs more means for transportation for economic development, and

Whereas, the States of New England, U.S.A. is the largest potential market for sale of Nova Scotia products of fishery, farm, forest and factory and

Whereas, many more people from New England would visit Nova Scotia if sufficient means of transportation were provided, and

Whereas, it is understood a certain Nova Scotia government survey determined that another ferry service was feasible from Western Nova Scotia to New England,

Therefore, we, the Digby Board of Trade petition the Maritime Boards of Trade to be an advocate to the proper provincial and federal government authorities for them to provide another ferry service between some point in Western Nova Scotia and some point in New England. The point in New England thought to be best by the consensus of the Digby Board, is some point in or near the Boston area. It is also believed that any such ferry should be built mostly for carrying products of fishery, farm, forest and factory, and that a return trip every other day would be sufficient.

A copy of the resolution to the Maritime Boards of Trade was also to be sent to other Trade Boards in Western Nova Scotia for their endorsement.

About This and That

Kids Need Hockey Leadership

Leadership is an ingredient that doesn't come easily and always has to be re-earned and re-learned. Leadership is not like a cheerful disposition, natural skating ability or a ready wit. Leadership requires hard work, responsibility and a determination for achievement.

Every activity, every sport, requires and responds to leadership. The greater the quality of leadership, the better. It could well be that with ice hockey there are even greater demands and values to effective leadership. While ice hockey is lots of fun, the greatest of sports, it is exacting. It is exacting in that hockey requires much planning and constant checking. The straight organizational aspects are demanding of leadership. The usual things familiar to all sports of practice time, coaching, equipment care, games and tournaments have the additional mechanical problems of snow, sleet and rain, location and availability of ice.

Leadership of the team itself is an obvious need that can be aided by the coaching and players themselves. But the initiative to see that such leadership is going to come about has to be achieved. An organizational type of person, willing to put responsibility and work as well as enthusiasm and desire, is what every hockey team that is going to have fun needs. This leadership has to come from former players and those active in the sport, but especially so from the fathers themselves, and sometimes from the mothers.

We hear of all the problems caused by overzealous parents. Overzealous parents are seldom the workers, the builders. There is plenty of need for ice hockey leadership on the part of youth hockey fathers. This is the great sport their sons enjoy. The area of sound organizational aid and judgment is right down the experience of many fathers. Those who have had business experience and are employers are in the best position of all to lead.

Those in hockey now as coaches, players, managers, recreation or school officials would do well to spend time seeking out and encouraging even more fathers of players to provide leadership for their boys' teams.

Minor Hockey Week, beginning January 25, has been organized by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to pay tribute to those engaged in providing leadership for minor hockey — and to encourage the participation of even more parents. This is one of the reasons the C.A.H.A. has adopted the slogan — DON'T SEND — TAKE YOUR BOY TO THE ARENA.

Music Festival

Out from under the pile of "sometime we'll do it mail" which had accumulated over the editor's prolonged Yuletide season we rescued the Digby Music Festival syllabus. We are not sure whether it was received just before the Christmas holidays or since but we do note that the date of the music festival is the week of April 13. That is now a little less than three months away. It is surprising how fast that time will go. There is the time needed to study the syllabus, to choose the selection, order it, and then to practice. We have an idea that more than a week will pass before the practising starts and then there will be all sorts of interruptions like special sport events, special school events, etc. January is none too soon to get started on the selection you are going to present at the Digby County Music Festival. And don't forget that entries must be in before March 1st.

The festival is open to schools and talent in the Municipality of Digby, and any others who wish to participate. A cup will be presented at the "Highlights of the Festival Concert" to the student obtaining the highest mark in the competitive classes.

Now, to the parents, and particularly to those who cry out about the "trash" to which children are subjected on T.V. — here is your opportunity to encourage something fine in music. Here is an opportunity to encourage participation rather than "being entertained". Here is an opportunity for forming a taste for good music in the children whose minds are so wonderfully plastic to impressions. The minds of the young can be directed without too much effort and in music they have an unlimited capacity for the development of worthy standards.

Whether it be instrumental music or music by voice, there are wonderful possibilities of expressing what was felt by the composer. Sometimes the composer revealed through his music the battling waves of storm. At other times we can sense the calm rippling accompanied by a gentle breeze. At this must be interpreted by the performer by instrument or voice and it is a worthy art to achieve.

When we hear people say today, "I can't sing" meaning "I have no special quality voice", we are reminded of the above paragraph and of the man who said "In singing brains are as necessary as voice." In other words an ordinary voice with a grasp of the dramatic and emotional possibilities of the text sometimes surpasses a fine voice without feeling. The intelligent singer must hear what he wishes to express before he can express it and pass the idea on to his audience. He expresses what he knows and understands and no more. To him every word should have a meaning and stand for some idea. These are some of the bits of knowledge which come from participation in music festivals. Whether the participant expresses himself by instrument or voice, we urge the parents to give the opportunity and encourage the boy or girl (and adult) to participate in the Digby Music Festival this year.

The Great Killer

We have an altogether illogical approach to the great killing disease. Every automobile accident death is printed in the newspapers, and if two or three people are killed, that makes it television news also. But no public notice is taken of the 70,000 people killed every year by heart disease. Many of these deaths are just as avoidable as are deaths by automobile.

Heart disease is a group of illnesses of which arteriosclerosis, which is hardening and narrowing of the body's arteries, is by far the leading type and the most deadly killer.

Protection against development of arteriosclerosis cannot be taken until the situation has been discovered, and this is one of the very good reasons for periodical medical examination. If hardening of the arteries is developing, it can be detected early, and the physician can take it under his experienced management. The greater part of his therapy will be directed toward enabling his patient to live with his condition, to pursue life at a walk instead of a run, to avoid fatiguing situations and to beware of emotional upsets.

Heart disease is not something to be taken for granted, but something we should do something about. That is why the Heart Foundations of Canada were organized; to reduce death and disability in view of the occurrence of the disease in 1,400,000 Canadians, with 350,000 of them seriously disabled, and 72,000 dying a year.

The heart has enormous powers of recuperation. It can stage a comeback better than most organs in the body. No one need be made despondent by the statement: "You have a heart disease." In fact, the great Sir William Osler once said that the life of many a man had been saved by a heart attack. What he meant was that the man who had thus been warned of a weak heart might live for many years, providing he took care of his health and confined his activities within the range permitted by his condition. J. A. Belliveau, Sec'y-treas.

"Good! I'll send you my cheque today!"

Most people today pay for goods or services by cheque — because most people have a bank account. It's the simple, safe way to transfer money to any person at any time.

The next cheque you put in the mail, or cash at any branch of a chartered bank, will be one of one billion that pass through the banking system each year. These familiar slips of paper represent 90 per cent of all financial payments made today, and their fast, efficient handling by the chartered banks is essential to bank customers, indeed to the whole economy of the nation.

To handle the ever-increasing flow of cheques — and to maintain standards of efficiency in the clearings — the chartered banks have introduced magnetic ink encoding to be used in high-speed electronic sorting. This new method, called MICR, makes possible a faster, more accurate service to customers, and maintains your chequing account as one of the cheapest, most convenient basic banking services.

Annual School Meet

Makes Recommendations

The Annual Ratepayers meeting of the Weymouth Consolidated High School section No. 18 was held on Monday, January 13th at the school. Mr. Clyde Cosman chaired the meeting and Mrs. Dan Hankinson was secretary.

The budget for the year pending the approval of the Municipal school board called for an extension to the auditorium, paving part of the causeway and a few minor improvements for the school and for the playgrounds at Weymouth Falls and Weymouth.

It was with regret the Rev. Raoul Deveau's resignation as trustee was accepted. Father Deveau has served the area conscientiously and well for a number of years. Mr. Willard Kinney of Ashmore, was elected as new trustee.

A letter was to be sent to the municipal school board and to Mr. Baden Powell requesting the recommendation to the Department of Education, that teaching music in the schools be part of the foundation programme. Again it was pointed out that Weymouth has qualified music teachers who could fill the position.

The Municipal School board was also to be contacted to take necessary steps to implement auxiliary classes in the Weymouth School. These are smaller classes, and therefore more help can be given to the slower students.

The compulsory school age for the area was changed from 7 to 14 years, to 6 to 15 years.

It was moved that a letter also be sent to the proper authorities requesting that the family allowance be paid until the age of 18, as long as pupil is making satisfactory progress in school.

Red Cross Meets

Mrs. Willard Kinney, of Ashmore was appointed co-chairman of the Women's Work Committee of the Weymouth Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society at a meeting held in the Conference Room of Weymouth Motors Ltd. on Thursday evening and chaired by the President, Mr. P. V. Charlton. She will assist Mrs. Russell Lewis, Danvers, who has been carrying on alone since the death of Mrs. John Dunkley who had served as chairman for many years.

Mrs. Lewis and the women of the area who assisted her have been commended for the fine quilts and knitted garments which have been shipped to headquarters in Halifax. The committee announced that any groups or persons who would like to assist by doing quilting or would like to do sewing or knitting at home for the Red Cross Society, either Mrs. Lewis or Mrs. Kinney would please to supply materials if contacted. The Canadian Red Cross Society is continually being called upon to assist in disasters whether they be floods or earthquakes in far off lands or the destruction of your neighbour's house by fire.

An impromptu presentation of two skits written by Commissioner Hsley, "The Stand Pat Red Cross Branch" and "The Up and Coming Red Cross Branch" formed the program and those gathered made wipers for the Blood Transfusion Service.

Clare Board Re Fisheries

The fishermen of Digby County are greatly concerned about the rumors being circulated in the area about pressure being made by certain parties in other provinces to have the present fishing regulations altered to allow draggers of 65 feet and over in length to fish in the Bay of Fundy to within the three mile limit.

The fishermen of Clare, Digby, Digby Neck and Grand Manan areas are concerned because it is feared that the larger draggers of 100 feet and over will invade the fishing grounds in the Bay of Fundy which presently is reserved to the smaller draggers. With larger draggers fishing within the present twelve mile limit, as anticipated, would deplete the fishing grounds to a very low ebb and thus depriving the many smaller boats of their livelihood.

There are over 80 draggers less than 65 feet in the Grand Manan, Digby County areas who would be affected by any change of regulations. Each dragger employs five fishermen, thus a great number of fishermen in these type of draggers would probably find employment scarce and the catch too small to make it a paying business. This does not take into account of the hundreds of smaller fishing boats that would be affected the depletion of the fishing grounds within the twelve mile limit.

Many fish plants in Clare, Digby, Digby Neck and Grand Manan depend on their supply of fish to keep operating on the smaller draggers and these firms are also concerned about the change in regulations.

The Clare Board of Trade has passed the following resolution: "Re: Fishing in Bay of Fundy."

"Whereas under present fishing regulations local fish draggers under 65 feet in length may fish within the 12 mile limit, and draggers 65 feet and over may not fish within such 12 mile limit;

And whereas it is rumored that draggers 65 feet and over in length are contemplating to fish in the Bay of Fundy to a limit of 3 miles;

And whereas if such larger draggers are permitted to enter the Bay of Fundy and fish to a limit of 3 miles, it will seriously jeopardize the under 65 feet dragger fleet;

Be it therefore resolved that the Clare Board of Trade petition the Minister of Fisheries, Hon. Heddard Robichaud, that all fish draggers 65 feet and over in length be restricted from fishing in the waters of the Bay of Fundy and that copies of this resolution be sent to Hon. E. A. Manson, Minister of Trade and Industry, Premier Louis Robichaud, Brian Meagher, Director of Fisheries and to all local Boards of Trade."

E. Jones will prepare the first of these.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Withers before meeting dismissed.

United Church Women's Study Group of Sandy Cove, Centreville Unit met at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Morton, Centreville on Thursday night last. Following devotions conducted by Mrs. Emden Morehouse, the study of chapter dealing with God and Evil was pursued, lead by the Pastor, Mr. Fred I. Withers.

Marriage

Wells — Forgeron

A lovely winter wedding took place at St. Stephen's Church, Halifax, by Msgr. Leo Murphy as Shirley Anne Forgeron became the bride of Winston George Wells. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Forgeron, Halifax and the groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wells, Deep Brook.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in floor length gown of white peau-de-soie trimmed at the neckline with white marabou fur, and her three-tier bouffant veil was held in place by a headpiece also trimmed with marabou fur. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Donald Forgeron, wearing a chocolate brown peau-de-soie dress with bell shaped skirt and matching headpiece.

Her three bridesmaids, Misses Carol Wells, Sharyn Manning and Elaine Landry wore identical dresses of gold color, ed peau-de-soie with matching headpieces and carried bouquets of white and tinted the color of their dresses. The two flower girls Sharon Samson and Marlene Sealon wore full knee length, gold colored dresses and each carried one red rose.

The best man was Donald Forgeron and ushers were Anthony Forgeron, Richard Theriault and Robert Forgeron.

The mother of the bride chose a brown double knit suit with darker brown accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The mother of the groom chose a red double knit dress with white accessories and corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception was held at Royal Canadian Legion Hall.

A toast to the bride was proposed by Anthony Forgeron, brother of the bride. After a short trip through

Definition of a Hockey Mother

MOTHERS are among the most versatile of all creatives. Especially "hockey mothers."

A MOTHER scrubs, runs, climbs, nurses, cooks, advises, scolds, entertains and teaches. And drives junior to the rink.

A MOTHER must possess the agility of a cat, the gentleness of a dove, the patience of a saint and the vitality of a stevedore. She is confident, diplomat, critic and defender.

A MOTHER is a paradox. When junior is sitting on the bench she's hollering for more ice time. But when he's "bushed" she's ready to criticize the coach for over-playing him.

Yes, she'll criticize her boy's coach in front of all and sundry — but let anyone else do so and he immediately becomes the best coach in the league.

Flowers and trees and the smell of good damp earth are pleasing to MOTHERS, but they are completely unmoved by muddy tracks on newly scrubbed floors.

She'll scold junior for tracking up the floors, then invite the whole team in for milk and cookies.

She'll complain to Dad about the inadequacy of the shopping money, then empty the fridge feeding the hockey team.

Many profound books on child psychology are read by MOTHERS, but when properly angered they have been known to spank first and reason later.

BUT just let some opponent hand out a hard body check and MOTHER soon shows whose side she's on.

MOTHERS do a lot of singing, laughing, hugging — and screaming at referees and opposing teams.

They like the smell of baking cookies and newly waxed floors — and small hockey players tracking in to eat the cookies.

MOTHERS seldom cry when they are sad, but tears fill their eyes when junior sends a frilly valentine, or heads the weekly scoring list in the local paper.

MOTHERS get fed up with hockey "morning, noon and night". But just let Dad sleep in some Saturday morning. He wouldn't dare! Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Minor Hockey Week Committee.

We had the Stevensons (the boss and his wife) over for dinner on Friday night. We also had their house guests and one of the girls from the office.

We had a very nice dinner. I was quite proud of my efforts. We had canned, frozen lobster, parsley potatoes, French green beans, and deep apple pie. I had gone to bed before I remembered that I had not put the carrots on the plates. I am sure no one missed them. It was really a very simple meal, but here are the recipes if you would like to have them.

For the lobster, I simply melted 1/4 lb. of butter in the frying pan, added 1/4 cup of vinegar, 2 cans of frozen lobster, salt and pepper. Cover, cook until hot. Do not overcook.

I used frozen French style beans. I varied them by cutting an onion up in the salted water, and boiling for a few seconds before I added the beans.

The boiled, whole potatoes, were simply coated with melted butter, and sprinkled with parsley.

DEEP APPLE PIE

6 apples 1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup brown sugar 1 tbsp. butter
1/2 tsp. nutmeg or cinnamon 2 tsp. lemon juice

Line a deep baking dish with pastry. Pare apples, cut in thin slices. Mix sugar, spice and salt together. Arrange alternate layers of apples and sugar mixture. Top with butter, sprinkle with lemon juice. Cover with pastry. Mark top pastry in six squares, and cut a slit in the centre of each square. Bake at 425° for 20 minutes, then reduce to 350° for 30 to 40 minutes longer. While still hot, pour 1/2 cup of cream into each of the slits. Serve warm.

I prepared mine the night before, and froze it until just before time to put it in the oven.

This was a rather expensive meal, but worth it, because it made such a good impression on our guests. We thought about that after they had left. Both of us had worried about the preparation of this party. Everything had to be right, the napkins and the table cloth had to be ironed just the right way. We had to have the proper number of nuts and small snacks arranged around the living room. We ran back and forth to the etiquette books, we polished silver, and we hoped that when we did not have the right dish or fork for any given thing that our guests would think us charmingly eccentric. Even after they had gone home I reviewed everything I had said during the evening, and hoped that I had not said anything inane or boring.

I am not one of those who consider poverty a blessing, and I think that this idea which some people have, that the poor are by nature somewhat more virtuous than the rich, is one of the worst forms of snobbery. We were poor once, and had fun being poor, but if we ever had to return to the way we lived five years ago, or even worse, if we had never improved our living standards since then, there would no longer be fun in being poor. By now, life would be rather dull and grey and hopeless under those circumstances, but one cannot move from one circumstance to another without losing something. What we lost was a certain gaiety and spontaneity, and a complete lack of any need to impress anybody.

Five years ago we could serve dinner guests bologna sandwiches if we wanted to, because everybody knew we could not afford anything else. We would have used paper napkins, and no tablecloth at all. We would have eaten in the kitchen with the dirty dishes making a futile effort to hide in the sink. There would not have been enough silver to go around, so some would be eating their desserts with soup spoons. We probably entertained much more than then we do now and we and our guests always had fun. We never worried then about social blunders, or the conversation being boring. Conversations then never were boring. We discussed, we argued, and we talked of ideas instead of events. I wonder if that is because we were so fresh from school that the ideas had not left us yet.

I wonder how much of the real price of sterling silver, table linen, fine china and a maple dining room suite can be counted not in money, but in a steady withdrawal from the world of abstract ideas, and a tightening of the net of conformity.

Well, since we're in this deep, let's conform some more. Have a cup of coffee, and let's talk about re-arranging the living room.

Here's why the Canadian Volkswagen has two heaters.

Canadian winters.

For ten years we've been fighting them with one heater.

In some areas it wasn't such a hot idea.

So we've added a second heater. It's a completely separate unit that doesn't use heat from the engine.

It means that on cold mornings you can heat the car faster. From twenty below to seventy above in minutes. Even with an idling engine.

So, if you hear a rumour that Old Faithful is full of hot air, it's true.

There are other reasons why the VW is a winter wonder.

Take traction.

The Volkswagen doesn't slip as easily as other cars because the engine is in the rear. It puts 200 pounds of weight where it does the most good: over the drive wheels.

To protect it against salt and sand the VW wears four coats of paint.

And you'll never buy anti-freeze because the engine is cooled with air instead of water.

Now you know why we sell so many Volkswagens. Canadian winters.

Baptist Annual Business Meeting

The annual business meeting of the Baptist Church of Digby was held last Wednesday evening in the church hall.

Following a brief devotion service led by the pastor, Rev. H. S. Hartlin, reports for 1963 were presented by the officers, boards, committees and organizations of the church. These showed a year of activity and advancement. Reports of Scouts, Cub Scouts, C.G.I.T. and Explorers indicated that a total of nearly 100 young people were enrolled in these groups. Mr. Chester M. Levy reported that the Sunday School had maintained a good average attendance throughout the year. The Women's groups, including the League and the Women's Missionary Society, told of the meetings and the work that had been done by these organizations in the church.

In his report, the pastor said there were 26 additions to the church membership for 1963. 17 by baptism and the remainder by transfer. Tribute was paid to several members of the congregation whose deaths had taken place in 1963. One of the highlights was the Evangelistic Crusade held in November with Rev. L. R. Atkinson as the evangelist. As a result of these meetings there were 11 candidates preparing for baptism, which would take place shortly.

The pastor also expressed the hope that a Deeper Life Conference could be conducted in the church during 1964. He also drew attention to the 10th anniversary of the Baptist Federation of Canada, to be held in Wolfville next summer, in addition to the meetings of the Convention of the Baptists of the Atlantic Provinces.

The report given by the Treasurer, J. J. Brittain, indicated that there had been a decrease in contributions during the year, for current expenses as well as for the Missionary & Extension Fund and also a substantial rise in loose offerings. The book were closed with a substantial balance on hand.

Charles Hersey was appointed new Trustee on the Board to replace Paul Snow, whose term of office had expired. Hubert Warner is chairman of the Board. Mrs. Shirley Clayton was appointed Clerk of the Church.

WEYMOUTH ITEMS

Frequent Trouble On Weymouth Hill

For the fifth time in as many weeks, large transport trucks came to disaster on a hill at Weymouth near the railway track on the main highway.

A large trailer truck owned by the J. M. Blythe Motor Lines of Sanford, Fla., failed to make the hill and when the vehicle came down backwards, the driver endeavoured to manoeuvre it to a side street but the trailer skidded, with the result that it cut off a power pole and struck a building housing Weymouth Supplies Limited.

After about three hours and with the assistance of a tow truck and a tractor, it was removed from its precarious position. The trailer, which was partly loaded with fresh fish, was punctured on one side, the roof of the building was damaged and the power pole snapped in two places.

75-Year-Old Traps Wildcats

Mr. Avarid Robar, of Virginia East, Annapolis County, seeing wildcat tracks in the snow near his home, decided to use his years of experience to trap these sly, hungry intruders. He set up traps and on Monday morning snowshoed to the location of each. The first trap contained a medium sized cat which had already been shot by a passer-by. The second trap proved just as successful, but the splitting creature was far from dead.

Mr. Robar had neither a gun nor a knife, so he pulled free a small maple stub which stood nearby. The cat being in a den-like structure, proved difficult to get a fatal blow at so instead, Mr. Robar poked the animal until the snarling creature gave an immense leap out of his shelter toward his foe. With one swift blow to the head, Mr. Robar laid the cat unconscious. The stick lay in four pieces. Realizing that beating the head would damage the pelt, he took from his pocket an already made noose slipped it over the head, and strangled the large animal.

The wise trapper now proudly displays his catch — all in one afternoon's work.

I'm your mother, (Oh, I'll get another John Daley) — There were only three John Daleys on the base, according to Mrs. Daley.

Year End Review

Hon. Robert L. Stanfield,
Premier of Nova Scotia.

The year 1963 was one of development and progress for Nova Scotia. The year 1963, the year in which automobile manufacturing and a heavy water plant came to Nova Scotia — may well prove a year of historic importance for our province.

New investment indicates the province's steady growth. It is expected that 1963 investments will reach $227,000,000, a four per cent rise over 1962 investments of $218,000,000.

General business conditions in Nova Scotia are encouraging. During the first six months of 1963 retail sales were more than $300,000,000, an increase over any previous year. While the number of passenger and commercial vehicles appears to be below the record year 1962, the retail value of such sales has increased.

Cheques cashed in Nova Scotia clearing houses are running 18 per cent higher than in 1962. This is a gain above the national average. Estimated labor income is five per cent greater than in the corresponding period of 1962, while the number of unemployment insurance claims up to June was 10 per cent lower than that of the previous year. The average weekly wages and salaries for the industrial composite was $68.68, a three per cent increase over the figure for 1962.

Net generation of electric power was over one billion kilowatt hours for the first six months of 1963 and increased nine per cent over the 1962 period.

To cope with increasing industrialization and the need for trained personnel, vocational training is being given greater emphasis.

The new Nova Scotia Institute of Technology was opened in Halifax, built and equipped at a cost of $4,000,000. In three courses spanning as much as 2,400 classroom hours the technician will advance in three technologies — mechanical, electric and electronic. Students will also receive post high school instruction in English, mathematics and science.

Four new vocational high schools, each costing nearly $1,000,000, opened this autumn in Kentville, Springhill, Stellarton and Sydney. Additions have been made to vocational high schools in Halifax and Yarmouth.

A concept new to North America is voluntary economic planning. Developed by the province's Department of Finance and Economics, it is designed to help private enterprise perform at its optimum capacity, plan for increased growth, to assist public and private aspects of the economy and to coordinate their activities.

It was decided for planning purposes that the economy of the province would be divided into ten sectors: power, service, manufacturing, tourist, fisheries, agriculture, forestry, mining, construction and transportation and communication.

The first organization meeting — for agriculture — took place in December, 1962. Organizational meetings were held this year for forestry, power, fisheries and secondary manufacturing. Similar meetings for other sectors are expected to take place within the next few months.

The planning organization provides a medium for the consistent flow of ideas and opinions and continuing consultation between industry and government. The problem of the sectors are then presented to a voluntary planning board which in turn makes recommendations to government.

Voluntary economic planning also provides reliable information to both government and industry for assessing future growth targets in any given sector.

International attention was placed on Nova Scotia last March when AB Volvo of Sweden, one of the world's largest manufacturers, announced it would assemble automobiles in Nova Scotia for its Canadian market. By mid-June the first of 5,000 units, predicted for the first year's production, rolled off the assembly line in Dartmouth.

The move by Volvo marked the first time in history that an European automobile manufacturing firm has established production facilities on this continent. The plant is also the first Canadian automobile factory outside of the Province of Ontario. About 250 persons are employed at the plant.

Industrial Estates Limited continued to play an important role in the development of secondary industry in Nova Scotia in 1963. Established in 1957, IEL is a crown company operating as an autonomous corporation to encourage the promotion, expansion, diversification and development of industry in the province.

To date, IEL has entered into agreements with 37 national and international firms in 11 of the provinces' 15 counties. In 1963, IEL successfully negotiated the establishment of 11 new industries three of which were from outside Canada.

While plans were materializing for the automobile plant in Nova Scotia, Industrial Estates Limited was negotiating with British-United States interests to locate a carpet factory in the province. Crossley Carpets (Canada) Limited announced that it would erect a plant in Truro. The entire project will cost an estimated $4,000,000, employ 100 Nova Scotians and commence production next spring.

At Brookfield, near Truro, Canada Cement Company aided by IEL, has started construction of a $12,000,000 plant, with an annual productive capacity of 5,000,000 bags of cement. It will use 15,000 tons of provincial gypsum annually. The plant will employ 100 persons.

With the help of IEL, Reynolds International Incorporated, the world's third largest aluminum producer, has established a $1,500,000 plant at Dartmouth. The plant, expected to begin operations in the summer of 1964, is capable of producing containers for all Nova Scotia canned products. Continental Can Company Limited have also proposed a plant with a tentative site in the western part of the province.

Manufacturing, which has made solid gains in recent years, accounts now for nearly 45 per cent of the total value of production in Nova Scotia. Construction ranks second, followed by forestry, agriculture, fishing, mining and tourism.

The selling value of factory shipments in 1962 was $125,000,000. For the first six months of 1963 the value was $21,000,000, a six per cent increase over the same period in 1962.

A construction project that will undoubtedly increase tourist trade is the announced partial restoration of Fort Louisbourg on Cape Breton Island. It has been estimated that by 1967, more than 200,000 tourists will visit the fortress annually.

Tourist travel continued to expand as one of Nova Scotia's most important industries. During the months of June, July, August and September of 1962 an estimated 706,407 tourists visited the province and spent an estimated $5,191,201. This was an increase of almost 100,000 visitors and more than $1,000,000 in tourist spending compared with the previous year.

Access to the province through Digby from Saint John, N. B., was improved with the inauguration of Canadian Pacific's new Bay of Fundy ferry Princess of Acadia. Faster than the former Princess Helene, the new ferry more than tripled passenger accommodation to 1,750 passengers and has space for 120 automobiles.

Plans were announced in July for the establishment of Nova Scotia's second national park, Kejimikujik Lake, a 148 square-mile area in the western part of the province.

The gross value of mineral production in 1962 was estimated at $63,000,000, which is about the average of the past five years. Coal production of 4,621,000 tons valued at $41,984,000 remains the most valuable single mineral commodity although its share of the total has dropped from 85 per cent to 65 per cent during the past decade. Tonnage should increase nearly 10 per cent in 1963 because of more extensive thermal power demand.

Production of industrial minerals has increased substantially during the past ten years. Gypsum production is now close to 4,500,000 tons annually, which represents 86 per cent of the total Canadian production. Output in 1962 was valued at nearly $7,000,000 and will be somewhat higher in 1963.

Salt production has been expanding steadily and amounted to 309,000 tons in 1962 with a value of $3,500,000. The Canadian Salt Company recently completed a salt refining plant, marine terminal and shipping storage facilities at Pugwash at a cost of $7,000,000.

Barites, with Nova Scotia producing 95 per cent of Canada's output, was at the 220,000 ton level, worth over $2,000,000. Silver production assumed importance for the first time since 1953 with over 700,000 ounces produced. Lead and copper are also produced at Walton.

Mineral exploration is being undertaken on a more intensive scale than ever before. A major lead deposit in the Salmon River area of Cape Breton is the most advanced new project. Over $500,000 has been spent on exploration of this deposit to the end of 1963.

Work throughout the province has included geochemical and geophysical studies as well as drilling operations. Base metals, silver, potash, fluorspar, limestone and magnesite are sought. High grade strontium and bismuthinite deposits are being developed. Thirty companies and several hundred men are engaged in this work, including some dozens of technical experts.

The most intensive search for geological conditions favorable to oil occurrences ever undertaken in the province is now in progress. Seismic work and drilling programs are planned for several mainland areas as well as on the offshore continental shelf.

The continental shelf off Nova Scotia's Atlantic coast supports some of the richest fisheries in the world. The fishing industry continues to expand and grow as new methods are adopted.

The greatest percentage of fish products is exported to the United States. Landed value of the ocean harvest for the first six months of 1963 was $18,311,000, a 19 per cent increase over the same period last year.

Evidence of this continuing growth in the fish-processing industry is found in the construction of two new fish processing plants, one at Lunenburg ($8,000,000 — IEL assisted) and a second $3,000,000 plant at Canso. The Canso plant should revitalize the fisheries of Guysborough County. Both plants will introduce a number of new deep sea trawlers and the Canso operation will also process the catch of the independent inshore operators.

Nova Scotia's wooden boat building yards are having an other busy year with 21 yachts launched and 23 other under construction. Most of these hulls were offshoredraggers ranging in length from 65 feet to 121 feet.

The present boom in building off-shore vessels has been promoted by the Nova Scotia Fisheries, Loan Board, private fishing interests and federal subsidies. Our steel-hulled trawlers are also being constructed under similar financial arrangements.

Forestry continues to be one of the leading primary industries, and monthly sawmill production statistics for 1963 show a 10 per cent increase over 1962 when 218,000,000 board feet were produced.

Nova Scotia's forest economy has been undergoing drastic change in recent years with increasing emphasis on pulpwood production.

A 15 per cent increase in pulpwood production is indicated because Nova Scotia Pulp Company's new $40,000,000 chemical pulp mill is in the first full year of production. Last year 509,000 cords of pulpwood were taken from the forests. This includes the equivalent of 50,000 cords in pulpwood chips as sawmill operators installed debarkers and chippers to make use of slabs and edgings that were formerly waste.

In agriculture the trend to farm consolidation continues and the Province's loan policy together with the Federal Farm Loan policy, continue to assist more farmers to enlarge their holdings and build farm units of a better economic size.

Agricultural production, in the province, accounts for six per cent of the total net value of production. Farm cash income amounted to $15,000,000 in 1962 while the gross income from all agricultural production reached nearly $55,000,000. The first six months of 1963 showed an increase of almost five per cent over the same period last year.

Crops in 1963 were reasonably good and there were no crop failures. Hay, grain, strawberry and apple crops were all better than average. Hog production is expected to be up about five per cent and a slight rise is expected in beef production.

The economic indicators show that the year 1963 was one of progress and that the province of Nova Scotia can look forward to 1964 with confidence.

Municipal Assessment $10,254,145

Warden Ronald Morehouse

The assessment in the Municipality of the District of Digby for the year 1964 is $10,254,145 according to figures released at the meeting of the council which began on Monday afternoon. This figure is $93,930 above the figure for 1963. Total revenue for the year was $400,571 and expenditure $381,266. In the expenditure the education costs had decreased while health expenditures went up.

It was also learned that the Municipality in 1963 had a surplus of $19,304.80.

The municipal sessions opened with prayer by Councillor Eugene Outhouse after which Warden Ronald Morehouse gave his address. Mr. Morehouse remarked, in his address, of the special interest shown by the ratepayers and citizens of the municipality in the affairs of the government of their municipality. He said that the council welcomes this interest and feels that it indicates a developing awareness on the part of the citizens in the problems which face the council. He did not state that there had been misunderstanding but felt these would disappear as ratepayers and councillors realize that each is trying to do what is deemed to be the best interests of his fellow citizens whether as a councillor or as a ratepayer.

In connection with the Digby County Ratepayers Association and requests for information, Mr. Morehouse said that the council has supplied answers to all the questions so far asked and that the records of the municipality are opened for inspection by any ratepayer. He did remind his listeners that council sessions, however, are not debating forums only and that anything which detracts from or interferes with the process of dealing with the municipal business cannot be tolerated if the council is to carry out its sworn duties.

In reviewing the progressive happenings in the Municipality of the District of Digby last year, Warden Morehouse commented on the admirable progress being made in the construction of the new Digby General Hospital. He mentioned the new and larger ship, Princess of Acadia, so beneficial to the economy of the area and hoped that improved docking facilities would soon be a reality in Digby.

The fishing industry, Mr. Morehouse said, is in a very healthy state and lumbering and farming have kept to previous levels. He commended the Resources Development Committee in the municipality on the effort made to study the area potential and develop the economic possibilities.

Warden Morehouse referred to the continued need for a permanent crossing by bridge or causeway across Petite Passage and expressed the hope that some action toward securing of this will be taken this year.

Investigate Breaks

RCMP in Digby and Bridgetown are investigating the destruction and looting of seven pay telephones located in phone booths between Digby and Middleton.

A spokesman for the Digby office of Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Company said each phone contained approximately $30.00 and was valued at a total of $200.00.

Digby Wharf, Shore Road

A resolution was placed before the Digby Municipal Council on Tuesday by Councillor (Mrs.) M. P. Gott bringing attention to the deplorable condition of the wharf at Digby making it impossible for the Princess of Acadia to dock at certain times. The resolution which was to be sent to the Minister of Transport, George Nowlan M. P. and Baden Powell M.L.A. requested that a new wharf be built as expeditiously as possible and that the existing wharf be repaired so that there would be little loss of work time.

Councillor Gott also proposed that a resolution be sent to proper authorities re the Shore Road near Digby from the Pines Hotel to the Life Saving Station asking to have it put in better shape (and keep it so) for the benefit of citizens and tourists. The road, which she stated was in a dreadful condition, is of inestimable value to Digby County, she said.

Baden Powell who was invited to comment said that the road is under consideration but that the Department feels the first thing to do is to get to areas where there are homes. To look at the road under discussion, he said would seem at first as though it could be done at little cost but he pointed out the breastwork and crib work on one side and the mountain shale on the other which would also have to be cribbed. He said he was much bothered by the condition of the Shore Road to the end of the last house. There is room for only one car and the road is dangerous. While he saw the beauty in the road referred to it was the part of the road where the people lived which needed most attention at present and the link connecting could be done later.

Mr. Powell mentioned other roads or transportation to which he would like to see improvements. Weymouth bridge, he said was one of the biggest hazards in Nova Scotia. He also mentioned the Victoria Bridge and the need for a twenty four hour service over Petite Passage. He would like to see Victoria Bridge replaced by a causeway with a gate to hold the water in which could be opened to clean. This would be ideal for boating and would attract tourists. A causeway at Weymouth would be a good fire protection service.

Speaks On New Mathematics Approach

L. S. Trites, Supervisor of Schools at Greenwood, was special speaker at a public meeting held at the Digby Regional High School on Wednesday evening. Mr. Trites, who is a specialist in the new approach to the teaching of mathematics, a method already in use in the Digby schools, used this as his topic for his hour long lecture. He discussed the reason for the new mathematics programmes and stated that it was needed for competent mathematics to "feed" the new computers. He related the history of the new programmes as they are being currently devised in the United States and Europe with a specifically "set" theory of computations on other bases than ten and the now-famous Cuisenaire method of teaching primary children.

F. C. Purdy introduced the speaker and Miss Henrietta Herkes thanked him. The meeting was presided over by Miss Margaret Leonard.

Present were more than thirty teachers from Digby, Smith's Cove and Sandy Cove and approximately ten parents or interested persons. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Digby sub-local of the Nova Scotia Teachers' Union.

PANSIES IN JANUARY

Penny Rosalind Kenney, of Westport, recently sent to the Courier several pansies in full bloom. An accompanying letter states: "I picked these pansies in my garden January 27. There are more ready to bloom. I thought it rather unusual for pansies to be blooming out of doors in January."

Princess Of Acadia Gets Face-lifting

The interior of Canadian Pacific's Princess of Acadia has been completely redecorated and renovated in the past few weeks at a cost in excess of $25,000, it is announced by K. R. Perry, superintendent.

Local tradesmen worked throughout the night, during the Sunday layover, and even while the vessel was at sea in order to finish the project in reasonable time.

During the spring dry-docking all paint below topside will be removed to the bare metal and, after three coats of red lead primer have been applied, the hull will be painted white down to the rubbing strake while the rubbing strake and below will be painted black.

Last July and August, the vessel's first tourist season on the Bay of Fundy run, the number of automobiles carried by the 'Princess' increased more than 85 per cent compared with the corresponding period last year, and at the same time, the number of passengers increased by more than 17,000, said Mr. Perry. Further increases are anticipated this year, he added.

Included in the redecoration and renovation were: laying more than 14,000 square feet of cork, vinyl asbestos, and linoleum tile; repainting the deckheads; applying new drapes in the main lounge and main staterooms; rebuilding and recovering stateroom settees and chairs in the main lounge; and recarpeting the lounge, staterooms and stairways from the upper car deck to the lower passenger deck to the upper passenger deck.

The motif in the observation lounge and upper passenger deck is Maritime blue. Light blue drapes in the lounge relieved by a nautical design in dark blue and gold, compliment the blue ceiling panels and the new chair covering which is a broadcloth gold vinyl. The floor tile of the upper deck is also blue.

In the lounge bar the floor has been covered with a brown and red marbled tile. The drapes here are Chinese red with a black and brown design and the ceiling panels are Chinese red to match the drapes.

The main deck is covered in a light marbled buff tile and the restaurant in a marbled pink, with matching pink ceiling panels.

Carpets in the staterooms are black with a gold and rust design. The rebuilt settees are covered with a rust coloured brocade vinyl.

Maureen Doucette walked away with top honors for high single of 116 and high triple of 306 went to Shirley Comeau.

Delicious refreshments were served to all at the Country Club hall to end a very enjoyable evening.

Conway Bowlers Defeat Digby

In a friendly match at Carleton Place Sunday night four men's teams from Conway defeated four men's teams from Digby by 101 pins to take the match 18 points to 14 points. Trinity Evening Guild will be held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. H. R. Bishop with Mrs. Fred Taylor as co-hostess.

Address Council

The one thing I am interested in, said Baden Powell, M.L.A. is to see this municipality on the band wagon economically. Mr. Powell was addressing the annual meeting of the Digby Municipal Council at the opening session on Monday afternoon. We need industry to keep people occupied. Our way of life has changed, he said, the wood pile is replaced by the oil barrel, the stable has become a garage. We have a better life, an easier life, but it has left a great deal of unemployment facing the municipal and provincial governments.

One way to overcome the problem of unemployment is by education. He mentioned the adult education program to upgrade people to prepare them for apprenticeship and trade.

In speaking of the two forms of government, municipal and provincial, Mr. Powell said it was often difficult for people to keep the responsibilities of one separated from the other. In such case, Mr. Powell said the two could co-operate and refer the problems to the proper place for attention.

Often, Mr. Powell stated, we find statutes of government which irritate us and which scarcely suit the situations of our changing times. It is good, he said, to bring these to the attention of the government and he would feel it a duty and privilege to do so. He urged the council to consult and advise the government on any matters of provincial concern.

Also addressing the council was His Worship Mayor Clayton D. Snow who noted the increased times in which the activities of town and municipality become joint propositions. Economically, he said, one depends on the other.

H. C. Morton of the Bank of Nova Scotia addressed the council and congratulated those who had brought school students to observe proceedings. These people, he said, would have a better understanding of municipal government and would be more interested in government affairs.

Others addressing the council were Mrs. J. M. Wallis and V. G. Cardoza. Mr. Cardoza commended the Digby Area Resources Committee as one of the best efforts in the area for sometime with many people in various walks of life working together for success.

Former Warden Harvey Chisholm, who served on the council from 1925 to 1958 in addressing the councillors noted the changes and greater responsibilities which had come into the municipal government. He said the councillors had his sympathy particularly in the realm of tax collections, since farm homes had diminished so rapidly in the past fifty years.

Daughter Of Founder New France Passes

Miss Therese Stehelin, daughter of the founder of New France, near Weymouth, died at Gison, France, Dec. 14 last. She was born at Bileville, in Alsace, on June 28th, 1873. Her father moved his family and his business into France and set up his factory at Gison.

In 1896, Miss Stehelin came to Canada with her parents to the area called New France, in Nova Scotia, where she resided until 1910, when the family moved to Weymouth. Following the termination of hostilities of World War I her parents having died and the family was dispersed, she returned to France, where she lived at Gison until her death.

She leaves to mourn her, two sisters: Mrs. Germaine Kay, of Ottawa, and Miss Simone Stehelin, of Paris, France, as well as numerous nieces and nephews in Canada and other parts of the world. Mrs. Stanislaus d'Entremont, of Little Brook, formerly Anne Marie Stehelin, daughter of the late Major Stehelin, of Church Point, and her twin sister, Mrs. Walter (Agnes) Merritt, of Halifax, are related to the deceased.

She was very well known throughout the Municipality of Clare.

In Memory Of Major Anderson

A new museum recently opened at Camp Borden, Ontario, by the Canadian Forces Medical Services, contains a lighted case in memory of the late Major E. H. Anderson "Andy", of Digby. Within the case can be seen (a) DSO citation of Maj. Anderson; (b) photo of Maj. Anderson treating a casualty in Korea; (c) the large frame here shows three photographs of the Andy Anderson Arena, which was named in his honor.

A second lighted cabinet is in memory of Surgeon General Oliver for his part in the Indian Mutiny.

A letter to Mrs. Anderson, in Digby, from the Medical Service, states that they would be "proud to receive and display any small item or photograph" which would serve as a reminder of Mr. Anderson's good service record.

Skiers Beyond Expectation

A spokesman for the Bear River Ski Club advised The Digby Courier that the number of visitors on the Bear River ski slopes on the weekend after the official opening, Saturday, January 18, was far beyond expectations. Skiers, it is learned, arrived from every area between Halifax and Yarmouth and many of these joined the Bear River club.

Demand for skis, too, was beyond expectation and forty orders could not be filled with in this part of the province. One store tried to get a supply from the skiing district of Montreal but they were unobtainable from there.

Request Grants

During the first two days of the Digby Municipal Council sessions this week no fewer than ten requests for grants were placed before the councillors for consideration.

Appearing on behalf of the Digby Victorian Order of Nurses were John Nichols, president of the V.O.N. Board and the charge nurse, Miss Edith Evenden.

Mr. Nichols explained to the municipal councillors that the V.O.N., which at one time served only Digby town had now extended its services to Bear River, Weymouth, Smith's Cove, to Digby Neck as far as Sandy Cove and they hoped to go to the Islands. Visits to the Municipality numbered 112 in 1962 and 685 in 1963. Of the municipality visits twenty nine per cent were fully paid, 52 per cent partly paid and 18 per cent free.

Mrs. Helen Anthony appeared in place of Dr. J. R. McCleave on behalf the Digby Recreation Commission. Many of the children who use the rink, Mrs. Anthony said were from the municipality. She felt that to have to close the rink would be unfair to the children who were getting much pleasure from it. She pointed out the expenses which faced the rink this year including $450 on account of machinery breaking down.

V. G. Cardoza requested a grant for the Digby Mental Health Association. New premises have been secured through the Provincial Division of the Canadian Health Association to house the Digby Psychiatric Clinic. Salaries and other items of the budget are met by the Provincial Department of Health but the local association is responsible for rent, light, heat and other expenses which amount to $2000 a year. Mr. Cardoza explained that the clinic not only serves the mentally ill but also those who are emotionally disturbed or who have problems needing assistance to solve and prevent mental illness. Mr. Cardoza said the financial saving to the district because of the clinic was difficult to access.

Others seeking grants by letter were the Canadian Institute for the Blind, Canadian Drama Festival, Nova Scotia Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Canadian Paraplegic Society, Nova Scotia Society for the Care of Crippled Children.

The Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade requested a grant of $600 towards the salary of a tourist director for the area.

Petite Passage Causeway Or Bridge

One of the items of business transacted at the Digby Municipal Council session on Wednesday morning was the passing of a resolution requesting a causeway or bridge across Petite Passage. The resolution, moved by Eugene Outhouse, Tiverton, is to go to several departments both of the federal and provincial government levels. The resolution as passed read as follows:

Whereas the present ferry service across Petite Passage is inadequate in that it now provides only daylight crossings of cars and trucks, and

Whereas weather condition curtail ferry crossings for hours, on occasion for whole days, to the extent that His Majesty's mails are delayed; and

Whereas the economy of Long and Brier Islands is dependent on the fisheries, and whereas modern methods of processing and marketing fresh and frozen fish require the ability to deliver such produce at given times and places, and

Whereas local fish processors find it difficult to compete with land-based operations due to less of night time transportation and irregularity of present ferry service

Be it resolved that we request the Government of Canada and the Government of Nova Scotia to construct a causeway or bridge across Petite Passage as a Roads to Resources project and thus promote the economy of the whole area by creating new and larger fish processing plants in this area, the fishing area on the Bay of Fundy.

Lobster dealers in the Digby to Yarmouth area state market demand for the succulent shellfish is slow at the moment and available stock being held in storage pounds, floats and crates is adequate for the demands although catches in recent weeks have been light because of inclement weather conditions.

It is expected market demand will advance within the next several weeks.

Bantam League — The Warriors and Millionaires tied 3-3; the Royals and Aces tied 2-2.

Midget League — The Victorians beat the Flyers 3-1; the Maroons defeated the Trojans 5-2.

The League's demonstration games were played, as in the past, at night. The Flyweight League opened the week's demonstration at the Forum Frolic on Saturday, January 25, when over 820 people watched the Wolves tie the Comets 1-1 and the Rockets battle the Tartans to a 0-0 tie.

On Monday night a fair crowd of interested parents watched the Paperweight and Pee Wee demonstrations. They saw the Paperweight Blue Devils tie the Black Hawks 1-1 and the lowly Red Wings finish strongly to beat the second placed Maple Leafs 4-2.

Monday's Pee Wee action saw the Bruins edge the Knights 1-0 and the Canadians tie the Rangers 1-1.

Centennial Project

One item of correspondence brought before the Digby municipal council sessions on Tuesday was a Centennial project suggested for the Municipality of Digby, Clare and Annapolis and the towns of Middleton, Bridgetown and Digby. The suggestion was to construct a replica of Poutin's grist mill at Lequille, Annapolis County, at the point known as Three Bridges, on the historic Allain River. The history of the mill dates back to 1607. It was suggested that a tablet be erected in relation to the event, that land be levelled, cleared and landscaped, that a park and picnic area be established and parking space and hard surface roads be constructed. The matter was left in the hands of the Centenary committee, John Comeau, Hubert Shortliffe and Roy Snell, for investigation.

Other correspondence before the municipal council requested consideration of a planning engineer for the counties of Yarmouth, Shelburne and Digby.

Further correspondence requested consideration of a Vocational School with Digby and Annapolis municipalities participating and with the location at Deep Brook. Street lighting at Tiverton was discussed by the council with the subject introduced by Councillor Eugene Outhouse. A number of Tiverton residents desire to have the lights from the upper part of the bridge upward but are denied this privilege because of an unpaid bill for the whole village. This section is on the waterfront and Mr. Outhouse pointed out the hazardous condition without lights in the area. This particular area had lights before the whole village was lighted and had no difficulty in payment. The council could see no way in which the lighting could be re-established in any part of the village as long as there was an indebtedness.

WEYMOUTH NORTH

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Comeau, Belliveau's Cove, visited his sister, Mrs. David Doucette on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester White and son Leonard have moved home from Toronto. Mr. White has accepted employment in New Brunswick.

Grants Passed

Wednesday morning session of the Digby Municipal Council got underway with passing of grants to various organizations and groups as follows: Salvation Army $300; Institute for Blind, $150; Crippled Children's Fund $100; Paraplegic Society $100; Mental Health $500; V.O.N. $100.

Besides passing a resolution re causeway or bridge at Pettie Passage (found elsewhere in this issue) the council, on Wednesday morning agreed to put the Municipal Home at Marshalltown up for sale by tender.

Warden Ronald Morehouse brought a matter dealing with the Municipal School Board before the council which resulted in a motion passed to the effect that the Municipal Council accept the recommendation of the Digby Municipal School Board and back up the Board in their action to only answer part of one question regarding agents for school bus insurance from the questions submitted by the Digby County Ratepayer's Association.

The afternoon session began with grants of $250 passed for the Digby County Exhibition and $25.00 for the Digby County Farmers Association.

It was decided to renew the fire protection contract with the Digby Fire Department, (Town of Digby) for another year at the existing rate. The tax levy for this protection in 1963 was $1400 with $988.31 collected to date.

Appearing before the Municipal Council were E. Adelaar, Weymouth, president of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade and Philip Woolaver, barrister, on behalf of the Digby County Ratepayers Association.

(With time limited before going to press it is impossible to give a full account of either of these appearances.) Mr. Adelaar's request was for a grant of $600 towards the salary of tourist director for the Annapolis Valley area from Windsor to Meteghan if the proposition of a director proves agreeable to the Trade Boards, municipalities and towns concerned.

Mr. Woolaver explained to the council that he had been retained by the D.C.R.A. to deal with two matters regarding the Digby Municipality and the Digby Municipal School Board and he was appearing today (Wednesday) in relation to the school board matter. He reviewed events up to the time he appeared at the Digby Municipal School Board last Friday seeking answers to a list of questions sent to the board last August by the ratepayers association.

This young Nova Scotian can't walk to school so he has to be carried to a car by a kind neighbor. He has polio. His folding wheel chair is in the car; assembled at the school and later in the day he is driven home. "The March of Dimes" campaign from early January to early February, 1964, helps hundreds, making education possible and supplying them with wheelchairs. Braces for their limbs, wheel chairs cost many thousands. Clinics, orthopedic boots help more than 1000 Nova Scotians.

Mr. Woolaver stated that he had written the chairman of the School Board regarding these questions on December tenth and was referred to the province and municipality for information. The province wrote that they did not have the information. He then wrote to the clerk of the municipality and was told the information was not available from that source. Explaining his appearance today (Wednesday) he said he appeared before the Municipal School Board on Friday and had discussed the matter at length. The school board felt that where they were responsible to the Municipal Council he should come here to get the information "and now I am here at the direction of the school board to get the information."

One of the main problems in relation to the questions, he said, is about insurance for school buses.

In due course Warden Ronald Morehouse had the clerk, Roscoe Handspeker, read from the minutes the motion passed at the morning session "that the recommendation of the school board 'that the records of the Municipal School Board will not be open to the public' be endorsed". This motion the clerk said was made by W. Derby, Westport, and seconded by Clyde Cosman, Weymouth & passed unanimously.

After considerable discussion E. J. Theriault, solicitor for the municipality, explained that the school board is a body separate and that the municipal council cannot tell the school board what to do. The motion was ruled of no consequence.

Queen Approves New RCAF Badge

Air Materiel Command Headquarters today announced that Her Majesty the Queen has graciously approved the unit badge for the RCAF's 6 Repair Depot.

The badge design is based upon the phoenix, a mythical bird which consumed itself on a funeral pyre and rose again with renewed youth and vigour to complete another life cycle. The golden phoenix rising from flames symbolizes the new life given to material at the repair depot and the ingots represent the basic materials used in the refurbishing processes. The motto may be translated as "Nothing is beyond our repair."

Based at Trenton, Ont. since its formation in February, 1910, 6 Repair Depot is the RCAF's only unit where officers and airmen may gain experience in extensive repair and overhaul procedures.

Over the years the depot's role has changed from that of a repair facility to that of a school teaching advanced industrial processes and management techniques and producing valuable repair work as a by-product. The depot handles about five per cent of the RCAF's total repair and overhaul work. The rest goes to civilian industry.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Popular Girl Can't Catch A "Steady"

By C. D. Smith

the girl or boy who has a problem getting a date. No question about having someone to go with, at any time.

The popular girl or boy who agrees to go steady with one person automatically begins to lose popularity. We have heard teenagers use an interesting phrase to describe a popular girl who decided to go steady with one boy and began refusing other dates. "She's put herself on the shelf," they said—meaning, she is out of circulation.

There's nothing wrong with going steady when a boy or girl reaches marrying age. No one should marry a stranger. There's nothing wrong with having a "favorite" where the early teen is concerned but, in this writer's opinion, going steady at too early an age is downright foolish.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, JOURNALITY AND SUB, CUBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANK FORT, KY.

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "There are always a good many boys around me at the dance, yet I seem to be unable to keep one of them for my 'steady.' What can I do? Also there is one boy who told me he loved me, but I wrote him a letter and some days later found that he hadn't even bothered to read it. What should I do?"

OUR REPLY: You should consider yourself very fortunate. Take a look around the dance floor next time you are surrounded by boys and see how many girls are all alone.

Consider also the fact that you are popular because you don't have a jealous boyfriend making faces at every boy who wants to ask you for a dance.

Going "steady" is not the "greatest," despite the fact teens who go steady will not agree. Going steady is a fine solution for

Hon. N. Layton Fergusson, Minister of Labor

In Review of the year 1963

A further development in the field of labor-management relations took place in the province of Nova Scotia during the year 1963. The second Joint Labor-Management Study Conference meeting in Halifax in November under the auspices of the Institute of Public Affairs, Dalhousie University, endorsed a second Six-Point Agreement.

The first Joint Labor-Management Study Conference held in Nov. of 1962 recommended among other things a certain moratorium on further appeals to the Legislature for amendments to the Nova Scotia Trade Union Act. The second Conference recommended that the moratorium be lifted for the express purpose of making certain specific changes in the Act, and for that purpose only.

The Joint Labor-Management Study Conference also looked beyond the Trade Union Act itself and considered other matters of common concern to both labor and management. Amongst these matters the Conference recommended the endorsement of a resolution concerning a moratorium on technological change. In regard to any social problems attending the resolution it concluded: "These problems are the common interest and responsibility of government, companies and unions, and the three parties must work in concert to meet them." The Conference also recommended that a "Resource Centre" be established at the Institute of Public Affairs, Dalhousie University, for the purpose of serving both labor and management in Nova Scotia.

It is noted with interest that the Joint Labor-Management study committee is to continue its deliberations. Its work to date has received much favorable comment. Undoubtedly all North America is watching closely the new approach in labor-management relations in the last of the 1960's. The Conference recommended that the moratorium be lifted for the express purpose of making certain specific changes in the Act, and for that purpose only.

Industrial Relations. The Conference recommended that the moratorium be lifted for the express purpose of making certain specific changes in the Act, and for that purpose only.

Conciliation. In the first eleven months of 1963, the Industrial Relations Division handled 49 conciliation cases, 21 of which were settled at the conciliation officer stage. An additional 12 cases were settled at the conciliation board level, and the remaining cases were in progress at the Conciliation Officer and Board levels at the end of November.

Following a strike at the Nova Scotia Pulp Limited, at Port Hawkesbury area, Nova Scotia, an Industrial Inquiry Commission was appointed and was successful in resolving the point at issue, and the men returned to work. Work at the mill has been continuing without interruption ever since.

Training. The Department of Labor has actively promoted the Apprenticeship Training Program over the past number of years with very gratifying results. Apprenticeship training involves pre-apprenticeship class-room training, training of the job, and class-room training at various stages during the period of apprenticeship. Trainees for the most part are indentured to employers, and the usual time required to become a qualified journeyman is four years. In order to enroll as an apprentice, certain basic education, qualifications, and required for the various trades concerned.

Human Rights Act. The Universal Declaration of Human Rights was proclaimed by the United Nations on December 10, 1948. By this Declaration, the United Nations dedicated itself to advancing the inherent and equal rights of all members of the human family.

Canada approved of the Declaration, and is a signatory to the same. It is the duty of the Government of Canada to ensure that the rights of all Canadians are protected.

Other Activities. Other divisions of the Department have been active in the administration of laws relating to industrial safety and labor standards.

Industrial Safety Division. In the Industrial Safety Division during the first seven months of the fiscal period of 1963-1964, six hundred and twenty-one inspections of boiler, pressure vessels and related equipment were made. During the same period seven boilers and pressure vessels were condemned as unsafe to operate.

Minimum Wage Survey. During the summer of 1963 a special survey was conducted to determine the prevailing wage and salary structure in the province, and to determine the impact that the imposition of any minimum wage would have upon the wage and salary structure. Of the 11,679 questionnaires mailed out on August 19, 1963, approximately 75 per cent responded. The returns are now being prepared for tabulation, and it is expected that a report will be made early in the new year.

I appreciate very much the co-operation given departmental officials and myself by trade unions and employers during 1963. I solicit your continued co-operation in 1964, and wish you all a happy and prosperous new year.

Respecting Parking Meters

In, pursuance of and by virtue of the power and authority vested in me under the Provisions of Section 129 of the Motor Vehicle Act, being Chapter 184, R.S.N.S., 1954 and Amendments thereto, I, as Traffic Authority for the Town of Digby, do hereby make the following regulations:

1. The highways in the Town of Digby and the parts thereof to which these Regulations apply are those in which, under my authority, parking meters have from time to time been installed.

2. Each parking meter installed in the Town of Digby shall be placed upon the curb or sidewalk immediately adjacent to the parking space to which it corresponds as designated by the lines or markings referred to in Section 3 hereof. The space between such lines or markings are hereinafter referred to as "parking space". Each parking meter so installed shall also be placed in such a manner as to show clearly by sign or device thereon that the corresponding parking space immediately adjacent thereto is in use either in accordance with, or in violation of these Regulations.

2A. Where twin meters are to be installed the same shall be placed upon the curb or sidewalk adjacent to the area or line or lines separating two parking spaces; an individual meter shall relate to the parking space within which or adjacent to which it is placed and a twin meter shall relate to the two parking spaces immediately adjacent to it, and all meters shall relate to their respective parking spaces in accordance with regulations made by the Traffic Authority in respect to parking meters.

3. A parking space shall be provided for each parking meter installed under the provisions of these Regulations. Each parking space so provided shall be designated by lines or markings placed or painted upon the curb or sidewalk and upon the highway immediately adjacent to each parking meter so installed. Where such lines or markings are placed upon the curb or sidewalk, the limits of each parking space shall be defined by the prolongation of such lines or markings at right angles towards the centre of the street until the centre line of the street is reached and when parking at an angle is indicated by the lines or markings aforesaid, the limits of each parking space shall be defined by the prolongation of such lines or markings at an acute angle towards the centre of the street until the centre line of the street is reached. It shall be an offence and a violation of these Regulations for any person to park or leave standing any vehicle in a parking space as hereinbefore described, without first having placed such vehicle entirely within the area designated by such lines or markings.

4. It shall be an offence and a violation of these Regulations for any person to park or leave standing any vehicle across any such line or marking.

5. Each parking meter installed shall indicate by appropriate directions thereon the parking time permitted, as hereinafter provided, in the individual parking space to which it corresponds. When in operation each parking meter shall indicate by the dial and pointer thereon the period of time during which parking is permitted in the corresponding parking space and shall, upon expiration of the period of time permitted for parking indicate that parking in such parking space is in violation of these Regulations.

6. It shall be an offence and a violation of Regulations for any person to park or leave standing any vehicle, whether attended or unattended, upon any highway in the Town of Digby or any part thereof where a parking meter has been installed and fail to comply with the directions set forth on such parking meter.

7. The parking or leaving standing of any vehicle in a parking space provided in compliance with these Regulations shall be restricted to the directions set forth on a metal plate mounted on the parking meter corresponding to such parking space. Such directions shall be in force daily other than Friday, between nine o'clock in the morning and six o'clock in the afternoon and on Fridays between nine o'clock in the morning and nine o'clock in the afternoon, excepting Sundays and Civic statutory or legal holidays. The time mentioned and referred to in these regulations shall be the time in general use in the Town.

8. The directions contained on the metal plate on each parking meter shall be in the following language or to like effect:

Deposit: 1c for 12 min.; 2c for 24 min.; 3c for 36 min. parking; 4c for 48 min. — 12 minutes for each penny.

5c for 1 hour; one nickel for one hour; one dime or 10c for two hours.

Two hour time limit, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Friday: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; except Sundays and Holidays.

9. It shall be an offence and a violation of these Regulations for the driver of any vehicle to park or leave the same standing in any parking space and immediately fail to deposit in the corresponding parking meter a coin or coins of lawful money of Canada, such coins known as follows:

a 5c piece to be known as a nickel;

a 10c piece to be known as a dime.

10. The driver of any commercial motor vehicle when using the same for transportation of goods, wares, merchandise or materials may park or leave such commercial motor vehicle standing in any parking space for the purpose of loading or unloading for any period of time not exceeding thirty (30) minutes without depositing any coin or coins in the corresponding parking meter. It shall be an offence and violation of these Regulations for the driver of any commercial motor vehicle to park or leave the same standing in any parking space for any period of time in excess of thirty (30) minutes and fail to comply with the directions set forth on the metal plate on the corresponding parking meter.

11. It shall be an offence and a violation of these Regulations for the driver of any vehicle to permit the same to be parked or left standing in any parking space while the word "VIOLATION" is visible, on the red marker in the observation window of the corresponding parking meter.

12. It shall be an offence and a violation of these Regulations for any person to deposit or cause to be deposited in any parking meter installed in the Town of Digby any disc, slug, device, metallic substance or other substitute for the coin permitted to be deposited in accordance with these Regulations.

13. The operation, maintenance, regulation and use of all parking meters installed in the Town of Digby shall be under the management, supervision and direction of the Traffic Authority of the Town of Digby.

14. All monies deposited in parking meters installed in the Town of Digby shall be collected by such person or persons as may from time to time be appointed by the Traffic Authority for the Town of Digby and all monies so collected shall be delivered to the Town Clerk by such person or persons with a record thereof within 24 hours immediately after each collection.

15. It shall be the duty of any police officer appointed by the Traffic Authority of the Town of Digby to inspect and examine all parking meters installed and all spaces in the Town of Digby and to report all violations of these Regulations.

16A. It shall be the duty of the Police Officers assigned to the enforcement of these Regulations to attach to each vehicle parking in violation of these Regulations a serially numbered Notice to the owner or operator thereof that such a vehicle has been parked in violation of any of the provisions of these regulations and instructing such owner or operator to report to the office of the Town Clerk of the Town of Digby in regard to such violation.

16B. It shall be the duty of the Chief of Police, his deputy or any other person assigned by him for such purpose to furnish to the Town Clerk of the Town of Digby a duplicate of each serially numbered notice of violation as attached to any vehicle.

17. Each such owner or operator may, within 24 hours of the time when such notice is attached to such vehicle (exclusive of Sundays and Public Holidays) pay to the Town Clerk of the Town of Digby, or other designated official on duty at his office who is authorized to accept such payment and furnish an official receipt therefor, the sum of One ($1.00) Dollar as a penalty for and in full satisfaction for such violation, or each owner or operator may deposit the said sum of One ($1.00) Dollar in the receptacles so provided for the payment of traffic penalties in the Town of Digby. Upon failure of such owner or operator to make the foregoing payment within the said 24 hours (exclusive of Sundays and Public Holidays) the said owner or operator shall be liable for prosecution as provided for by this by-law.

18. Notwithstanding anything contained in these regulations, no person shall park or leave standing a vehicle of any kind in any parking space as aforesaid for a period longer than two hours. Any person parking or leaving standing a vehicle in such parking space for a period of time in excess of two hours shall be guilty of an offence and a violation of this by-law.

19. Any person guilty of any offence in violation of these Regulations shall be liable to the penalty provided therefor by Subsection 5 of Section 129 of the Motor Vehicle Act. Provided however that these Regulations shall not apply to any motor vehicle operated by a resident practising Medical Doctor.

Are You A "Sender" Or A "Taker"

The father who sends his boy to the arena usually tucks his feet under the chesterfield, sits back, turns on the T.V., watches the Leafs, criticizes the commercials, then goes out and is not home when Junior returns from the arena.

The "sender" wouldn't know the score of any of the lad's games — he has to bowl when the team needs an extra car to drive them to a game. All in all, he has just too much to do. But maybe Mom can go to the odd game, and a lot of Moms do.

BUT — Junior's team is in the finals! Now we find Mr. Sender one of the first in the arena. First of all, why isn't the heat turned on for the kid's games? I'm going to see about this. Why don't they give the kids decent sweaters? The manager ought to be shot for letting them play with those crummy sticks! And if the coach doesn't put Junior back in I'm going right down and do something about that. Who in blazes ever told him he was a coach!!!!!!

We don't need to say to you: "Sir, are you a sender?" You couldn't be, you're going down to the arena this week because it's Minor Hockey Week in Canada. But if this IS your first trip, please think it over and come back again. Incidentally, please pass the word to "Mr. Sender" and maybe he'll join you as one of those who will "Take — not Send his boy to the Arena".

WEYMOUTH, N. S.

We were having a sewing bee. I cannot remember exactly how the conversation was running, but someone said that whenever she had any worries or troubles, she said to herself "This too shall pass" and she could face them more bravely. It seemed rather a beautiful thought. We pondered it for a while.

Then one of our number, a person who presents a bright and cheerful face to the world, a busy woman, who involves herself in church and charities and all the worthwhile acts which are supposed to induce happiness, said "But you can say that just as well when you are happy."

Several people laughed, and called her a pessimist. Most of us returned to our work, and the subject dropped, but it stayed in my mind. I began to think that anyone who would say that, in spite of her cheerful exterior, must be in some way unhappy. I began to wonder what happiness is.

Another of our group that night had said "You never hear me complain of anything, do you?" She did not get an answer, but it is true, we had never heard her complain. She went on to say "I am so thankful for everything I have I couldn't bear to complain about any petty annoyances." Is happiness thankfulness?

For the past few years I have considered myself to be about the happiest person I know. I have a good husband, and two beautiful children, which is really all I have ever wanted. Once I wanted to travel, but I have now accepted the thought that that is not for me, and that I shall have to live without it. There have been worries, there have been problems, and angry words, and the occasional sickness during these three years, but they are mere little outcroppings in the basic, easy flow of what I consider a good life. Is happiness content? Is it acceptance of one's lot?

Twice within the past few weeks, I have either read or heard the statement "happiness is not a normal condition for mankind." I have forgotten who said it, or the context. Whoever it was, seemed to think that happiness is something the luckiest of us achieve for brief periods, but that most of us do not even reach this. My feeble brain fails to grasp this. Most of us, I think, regard happiness as the normal state, and unhappiness as the abnormal one. That is why my friend says "This too shall pass," when she is not happy. The abnormal state will go away, and the normal one soon return. That is why my other friend says she never complains. Happiness is her normal state, she can disregard the small imperfections in it. That is why I feel content. Trouble is like muddy footprints on the kitchen floor — once it is cleared away, it is forgotten.

I have long thought that adults are much happier than children. We seem to have more ability to dismiss unpleasant thoughts from our minds. We worry about money and sickness and war, but we can think of these things fairly rationally. They do not rise as shadowy spectres against which we are powerless like they do in the mind of a child. Children worry more than we do. They worry about things which they cannot understand, or if they can understand, about which they can do nothing. They are overpowered by feelings of guilt for even the smallest of wrong-doings as soon as they learn that there are rights and wrongs. I would be willing to bet that in spite of all the rosy pictures we paint of childhood, that happiness is not the normal situation before the age of seventeen, but because it becomes the normal thing when we are adults, we forget the worries and fears of childhood and remember only the fun, and the fact that we did not have to work for our living.

Kahlil Gibran, in THE PROPHET says, "But I say unto you, joy and sorrow are inseparable.

Together they come, and when one sits alone with you at your board, remember, that the other is asleep upon your bed."

Maybe contentment is nothing but the inability to feel deep sorrow.

If You're TIRED ALL THE TIME

Now and then everybody gets a "tired-out" feeling, and may be bothered by backaches. Perhaps nothing seriously wrong, just a temporary condition caused by urinary irritation or bladder discomfort. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help stimulate the kidneys to relieve this condition which may often cause backache and tired feeling. Then you feel better, rest better, work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills, a Royal Templar Loan. For all your banking, your local "Royal" branch is the helpful place to go.

Taking these as examples he then encouraged youth of today to adopt the Christian principles as laid down by Jesus Christ, being totally committed to Christ, and to continually seek His guidance to conquer sin which confronts every follower of Christ.

Young Adult Course Feb. 2-8 At Caledonia

Caledonia, Queens County, will be the site of a six day residential school of adult education or folkschool from February 2-8. An exciting new program developed around the theme "Meeting the Needs of Out-of-school Youth" will be offered to young people of Western Nova Scotia who are out of school and who can attend.

The school will be directed by K. C. Langille, Regional Representative of the Adult Education Division, Department of Education. Others named to the staff include Mr. Harold Wilson, Agricultural Representative, Bridgewater; Mrs. J. M. C. Duckworth, Donald Wetmore, Lou Stephen and Tom Taylor, of the Department of Education, Halifax.

Daily discussion periods will be held dealing with such topics as "Earning Your Living", "Human Relations", reading, craft sessions, as well as field trips, music and drama periods. The overall aim of this new type program is to help the young adult toward new self-understandings and to gain knowledge and skills which are aimed at his personal development.

The total cost amounts to $20.00. This includes room and meals, as well as registration. Young people who are interested in taking advantage of this new and exciting educational opportunity are being encouraged to contact their local Agricultural Representative, School Inspector or the Yarmouth office of the Adult Education Division. Scholarships are available for students who may have difficulty financing their own way. Transportation can be arranged.

Educators across the province are keenly interested in this school since it is the first of its kind in Nova Scotia. Several have remarked that a program of this kind has been long over-due and should prove to be very helpful to all who are interested enough to take part.

Adults are expected to assume some responsibility in bringing this information to young people who will benefit.

Letter to the Editor

Jan. 26, 1964.

The Editor, Digby Weekly Courier, Digby, N. S.

Dear Madam:

Perhaps you would be kind enough to publish this request for information.

My hobby is genealogy, and I have been fortunate enough to have the use of some old and rare books, which have enabled me to trace thousands of early families. At the moment I am trying to complete a genealogy of the Rice family. I have the family traced back to when the first ancestor took a surname, so doubt if it is possible to go any further back. However, some of the later families and their descendants still have not been fitted into the family history although I have a great deal of information available.

Would anyone named Rice now, or descended from the Rices, please get in touch with me, with information regarding their own particular family. I will probably publish this work when I feel that no more information can be gained, and would hate to leave anyone out who should be included.

Yours truly,
Marin B. McCormick.

Tax Rate And Collections

Tax rate and the collection of taxes were brought before the Digby Municipal Council in session here this week.

On Monday afternoon a letter was read from the secretary of the Digby County Ratepayers Association, Mrs. M. P. Gott, on behalf of the Association, requesting that the council maintain the municipal tax rate at $1.75, bringing the letter before the council, Warden Ronald Mowhouse gave attention to the fact that the tax rate last year was $2.75.

The collection of taxes served as a heated debate following the address to the council of Ole Larsen, Assistant Tax Collector. Mr. Larsen commented on the good relationship which existed between the councillors, office staff and himself and expressed the fact that he considered the present system of tax collection in the Digby municipality good.

In discussion on tax arrears Councillor John Comeau, Weymouth, offered the suggestion that taxpayers who are in arrears should be required to pay not only on the arrears but a sum large enough within a given time to take care of current taxes as well as arrears. Otherwise, he said, the taxpayer would continue to be in arrears. Mr. Comeau said that he didn't think the municipality should end up in a few years with still having tax arrears of $140,000 as at the present time. Councillor Comeau further suggested that a two year period was too long for payment of arrears taxes and that a rate of interest higher than the present six percent should be charged on taxes in arrears.

Opinions were divided on the method of tax arrears collections and on when property should be sold for tax arrears. All agreed some improvement in collections had been made.

Mr. Larsen requested an increase in salary and a two weeks vacation in March to allow him to visit his parents on their 50th wedding anniversary.

THE MIRROR WE NEED

Everywhere there is sin. People are full of mistakes. It appears that all our neighbors and friends are fit targets for condemnation and gossip. The only fit person to judge the erring crowd is self.

People in general, Christians included, are on the job of cataloguing and exposing sin, not there own but that of others. Individuals for the most part have mastered the art of seeing the failure of others, but are often blind to personal indiscretion.

Are we too close to ourselves to see self as others see us? Think of the revolution in society, if no one could see anything wrong except the wrong in his own heart. Perhaps we are asking too much, but such a flight of imagination would be revealing.

Many may fail at seeing themselves clearly because they have no mirror. The Bible is the best mirror I know. I say "Examine yourselves". It says "Repent ye." Notice the very personal emphasis.

A story is told by a missionary of an African chief. Given a mirror, he saw his filthy face for the first time. Instead of reflecting the truth, and correcting his appearance, he smashed the offensive piece of glass to the ground. How striking! Many cast the Word of God aside rather than to change their lives. They go on living as they please, trying to cover their own faults by exposing the sin of their neighbors.

Swanburg Heads Ratepayers

At the annual meeting of the Digby County Ratepayers Association held at the Agricultural Building, Conway, on Wednesday, Paul Swanburg, Brighton, was elected president for 1964. Mr. Swanburg succeeds Harold Sullis of Smith's Cove who held the position for 1963.

Other officers elected were: vice president, Jack Harris, Bear River; secretary, Adrien LeBlanc, Marshalltown and treasurer, Earl Porter, Hillgrove (re-elected). All districts were asked to have names ready to be elected as directors at the next meeting.

P. R. Woolaver, Digby barrister, who was present, gave a report on his findings and method of procedure in trying to secure for the association certain information from the Digby Municipal School Board regarding financial transactions of the Board. His report revealed that to date he had not been successful in obtaining the information which they wanted.

He expressed the hope that the interest which the ratepayers showed in trying to obtain certain information might result in having the Education Act changed to provide for public meetings of the school board and that the public would have available all information on public funds.

Plans were made to have a delegation from the Digby County Ratepayers Association meet with the Digby Municipal Council, then in session, and offer any assistance which the Ratepayers Association could give them in furthering the progress of the municipality.

Urges Taxpayers Visit Council

Mayor Clayton D. Snow on Monday night, when presiding over the regular meeting of the town council, said that all taxpayers of the town of Digby should feel free to come to the town council meetings, for this is their town. His Worship said he would like to see the ratepayers come and find out what the council is trying to do. Anything of a public nature should be open to the public, the mayor remarked.

The mayor's remarks followed expressions of appreciation by Mrs. J. M. Wallis for the co-operation of previous councils in providing easy access to the news for the public. Mrs. Wallis expressed desire to co-operate with the present council in any way she could for the betterment of the town of Digby.

Conway Bowlers Top Digby

The ladies from the Scallop Bowl met with the ladies from the Digby Bowling Club on Sunday evening for a friendly match at Carleton Lanes.

The Conway teams defeated the Digby teams by 42 pins, to take the match 18 points to 14 points. Total pinfall was: Conway 4,899, Digby 4,857. Digby high single went to Marcia Hoare 117; high triple, Bea Amero 311. Conway high single, Muriel Wilson 103, and high triple, Corrine Hayden 294.

After the match a lunch was served the visiting team by members of the Digby Bowling Club at Carleton Lanes.

County Woman In Windsor Hospital

A two-car collision on the Hantsport bridge Sunday evening sent two female passengers to hospital suffering facial and leg lacerations.

In satisfactory condition in Payzant Memorial Hospital are Mrs. Ronald Keefe, of Dartmouth, and Mrs. Joseph Blinn, of St. Bernard, Digby County.

The accident, which occurred on the one-lane bridge about 6 p.m., involved a car driven by Joseph Blinn, of St. Bernard, and Douglas W. Symonds, of Dartmouth. Travelling in the Symonds car besides Mrs. Keefe was her husband.

Details of the mishap were not known. Windsor RCMP are investigating.

Mr. Vernon Bent was a business visitor in Yarmouth on Friday.

Town To Clamp Down On Relief Princess Of Acadia Traffic Increased

Relief seekers in Digby town are to be warned that any able bodied man who has an opportunity to work is expected to go to work unless he has a justifiable reason for not doing so. The town is not supposed to encourage laziness was the consensus of opinion of the town councilors. The decision came out of the January report presented by the welfare committee of the town at Monday night's meeting of the council which revealed 9 families on relief with a total of 55 persons. Amount, $385.63.

A centennial project for the town of Digby came up for discussion. Councillor Ralph McIntyre was asked to contact the Digby Municipal Committee to see if a combined project would be feasible. Correspondence had been read from Bridgetown and Annapolis Royal with suggestions of a frontier village and rebuilding a grist mill on Allain River.

Other correspondence consisted of a letter from the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade requesting a grant of $250 toward establishing of an office of a tourist director for the valley from Windsor to Meteghan. It was decided to have a delegation from the A.V.A.B.T. come to the council to give further information on the matter.

Appointments to the Medical Board of Health were made, viz J. W. Christie and William Troupe, Jr., for 1964. Other members of the committee from the council are Dr. D. E. Lewis, Bernard Bell and Melbourne Comeau. The resignation from the Urban School Board of Councillor Dr. Lewis was accepted and Councillor McIntyre was given the appointment. Appointments to the Building and Tender Committee (jointly with the municipality) were Councillors Lewis and McIntyre. Fred Muise was appointed to the Digby Water Commission.

Councillors Baxter, McIntyre and Lewis, of the Arbitration Committee, reported they had met with members of the committee from the municipal council and had worked out a proportion of 37 town 63 municipality on the joint expenditures of the jail, Court House and Registry of Deeds. The committee reported that the municipal home — the building, equipment and land — would be put up for sale by tender.

Arrangements were made to pay $100,000 to the Digby Hospital Board. Previous payment on the $230,000 voted by the ratepayers towards the new hospital was $75,000, making $175,000 altogether. Left to pay is $55,000.

The report of the police committee presented by Councillor Baxter showed that 15 complaints had been laid, six of which required field investigation. All except two were terminated to satisfaction. One case under the liquor control act required court action and was disposed of satisfactorily. Two thefts are under investigation and rock throwing vandalism is also under investigation. Four motor vehicle accidents were attended to.

The chief of police, Webster Dunn, recommended the use of a portable flashing light for the police cars. New uniforms for the Chief and for Constable Donald Jayne were ordered to be bought on tender.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Industrial Estates Ltd. and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics requested information on water systems, sewers, zoned areas and zoning laws, town directories, brochures, maps, tourist pamphlets, boundary lines, street names, railway plans, possible new industries, etc. It was decided to forward all information possible. A discussion on the value of town zoning followed.

Permission was granted to the Digby Ladies Hospital Auxiliary to hold a tag day on March 20 and 21.

The town clerk, Jack Whaley, brought to the attention of the council that new Town By-Laws would have to be done in 1964, since the last updated by-laws were done in the year 1912. Dr. D. E. Lewis also suggested that the Health Act of the town be revised. The present one also dates back to 1912.

Local Insurance Man Passes

Funeral services were held on Tuesday for Burton Leland Ellis, 55, well-known Digby insurance agent, who died suddenly Saturday evening while visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Keith Trask, in Coldbrook.

Born in Victoria Beach, Mr. Ellis was a son of the late John and Melvina Ellis, of that place. During his residence in Digby he took an active part in a number of community organizations and was a past noble grand of St. George Lodge, IOOF. He was a member of the United Baptist Church, where he ably gave of his time and talents.

He is survived by his wife, the former Maude Apt, and by two daughters, Nancy (Mrs. James Lewis), Rossy, and Audrey (Mrs. Keith Trask); eight grandchildren; three sisters, Mabel (Mrs. George King), Digby, Lucy (Mrs. R. Bernsen), Digby, and Myrtle (Mrs. Roy Casey), Victoria Beach; and by one brother, Edward, of Galt, Ont. Two brothers, Howard and Archie, predeceased him.

Rev. H. S. Hartlin officiated at the service, using John, 14th chapter, for his sermon. Interment was in the Baptist cemetery. An Oddfellows' service was held at Jayne's Funeral Home on Monday evening. Pallbearers were from St. George Lodge.

Saw Rocket

Mrs. P. H. H. Gray, Brighton, reported last week that she saw what she believed to be the 804 pound space craft Ranger VI in the skies around six o'clock in the evening. The spacecraft on the clear evening looked like a bright star in the sky moving rapidly in the direction of Brighton to Digby.

The craft was designed with television cameras to photograph the moon's surface during the last ten minutes of its life but the Ranger VI crashed into the moon without televising any pictures.

The spacecraft was launched on January 30 from Cape Kennedy, Florida.

Scientists had hoped the pictures would give them their first close-up look at the moon's surface and help them select a site for manned Apollo moonship landings later this decade.

It was the sixth straight failure in the Ranger program, which so far has cost some $168,000,000 figured at about $28,000,000 a shot.

Discuss Town Streets

Three thousand square yards of crushed rock has been stored and will be put on the unpaved streets in Digby this Spring, reported Deputy Mayor Bruce Baxter when he gave the streets committee report at the regular meeting of the town council on Monday night. The price of the gravel had been in the town's budget for 1963.

A general discussion on the town streets followed. It was thought that a survey of needs be made and a streets program and plan be worked out for the future. It was mentioned that the unpaved streets running east and west were narrow for passing of cars and deep ditches lay on either side. It was also mentioned that the paved streets did not have shoulders wide enough for a safety factor. Safeguard on Queen Street was also mentioned. Mention was made of the need for sidewalks on King Street for the safety of school children.

Another subject discussed was sewers. It was felt that a master plan should be obtained and a sewer plan be worked out for the town in the future. It was stated that Digby is behind in sewer construction.

A goal of $25,000 has been set.

Wharf Work Underway

Konney Construction Company, of Yarmouth, is presently doing work in preparation for the construction of a proposed new government wharf at Digby. The work is being carried out just north of the present government pier.

Piles have been driven into the harbour floor to serve as supports for platforms to hold drilling equipment which will test the harbour bottom in this area.

Meanwhile extensive repairs and renovation work is underway at the present wharf so as to strengthen it for use by the Princess of Acadia. The section used by the Acadia is being completely reinforced with timbers and cedar pilings will be driven at the end and side of the wharf. These pilings will be double layered with rubber buffers in between the two layers, and as an added strengthening effect will be bound with wire cable. The new pilings will extend five feet above the present level of the wharf and the decking at the end of the pier will be reinforced and raised.

Questions Teachers Riding On Buses

In a report to Digby Municipal Council last Saturday, Rice Kinney, chairman of the Municipal School Board, said the board appreciated the council endorsing their wish to have business vital to the board not open for public inspection.

The report stated that two new buses had been purchased during 1963. A total of 1,941 pupils use the municipal buses, and these buses travel 1,484 miles each day, for a 190-day school-year total of 281,960 miles travelled. Mr. Kinney said the school bus accident record is satisfactory, and that the drivers do a good job. The board expressed concern over troublesome pupils who by their actions may distract the driver and consequently cause an accident. Mr. Kinney said that if these pupils do not behave in a proper manner, then they should no longer be allowed to use the facilities of the buses.

Schools at Sandy Cove, North Range and Weymouth Mills were reported as unused, and it was the board's wish that the council work towards their disposal.

Councillor M. P. Gott expressed concern over the seeming lack of communication between the School Board and the trustees and secretary of the Smith's Cove Consolidated School. She spoke of blinds, library books and "other quite essential items that had been requested by the school" in January 1962, and as of January 1964 these items had not been delivered. She said in January 1964 the school requested a film projector to be shared with the Barton school. These items are essential to the education of pupils in this modern age, she said.

Councillor Clyde Cosman questioned the "right and fairness" of teachers being allowed to ride to and from school on the buses. These teachers are continually asking for more money and at the same time are being transported back and forth to work at the expense of the municipality, while their cars stay at home in the garage, Mr. Cosman said. He questioned the board as to their policy concerning teachers riding on school buses. "I brought up the subject at the request of interested taxpayers," he said.

In answering Mr. Cosman's questions Mr. Kinney said that teachers started to use school buses when there was a possibility of their not being able to teach without such transportation. Each year teachers apply to the board for this privilege, Mr. Kinney said, and they are told "only if there is sufficient space".

Omission

In the account, last week of the Youth Service of Grace United it was inadvertently omitted from the copy that the Messengers and Scouts attended the service.

Receives Decoration

Corporal Keith Pugh, a Communication Technician at R. C. A. F. Station Clinton, Ontario, was awarded the Canadian Decoration (CD) denoting 12 years meritorious service with the R.C.A.F.

Group Captain K. R. Greenway, CD, Commanding Officer of the Station, presented him with the decoration at a recent Station Parade.

Cpl. Pugh was born in Westport, N. S., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Pugh, still reside. He attended Teachers' Normal School at Truro and taught at Victoria Beach prior to enlisting in the R. C. A. F.

Municipal Tax Rate Up 20c

The Digby Municipal Council Friday afternoon set the 1964 tax rate for the municipality at $2.95 per $100 assessment. This was an increase of 20 cents over the $2.75 rate of last year.

Total expenditure for 1961 has been estimated at $416,797, including provision of $12,015 as a reserve for uncollectible taxes. Total revenue exclusive of taxes has been estimated at $114,300.

Council decided to grant a tax discount of two percent until June 30, and charge six percent per annum on uncollected taxes, beginning November 1.

In commenting on the financial position of the municipality Mr. U. J. Harrington, of the municipal affairs department, said that the per capita debt was $74. On the matter of tax collection he said the department favored a central authority such as the clerk treasurer with sufficient staff to do the job. Mr. Harrington urged the council to give consideration in the budget for provision of reserves for uncollectible taxes to help restore the municipality's favorable cash reserve position. He noted that the council in recent years had financed a number of sizeable capital expenditures from reserve funds and complimented them on this.

Choir Elects Officers

At a meeting of Grace United Church Senior Choir, held at the manse on Wednesday evening, Norman Wright was elected the choir president.

Other officers elected were: vice-president, Fred Fullerton; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Oakley Turnbull; choir leaders, Norman Wright and the organist, Mrs. Elton Arnold; librarian, Mrs. R. H. Hughes, and Roger Wright; overseer of gowns, Mrs. Milton Atkinson; membership, William Marshall and Dr. D. G. Black; representative to the Official Board of the Charge, Mrs. Gordon Ellis.

Rev. Mr. Hughes gave a short talk on the importance of the choir to the regular service and the privilege of serving in such a capacity.

A rehearsal and sing-song was followed by refreshments.

Calling Merchants Together

The next regular meeting of the Digby Board of Trade is called to meet in the Fire Hall on First Avenue, according to Charles Halliburton, president.

The change from the Town Hall, has been made, Mr. Halliburton said, to accommodate and interest citizens who are expected to attend. The topic for discussion is "Open Hours for Stores", a subject which is expected to create a great deal of interest. The meeting will likely form a Board of Trade Merchant's Committee, it has been stated.

Coffee is to be served and the meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Tuesday, February 11.

Investigate Breaks

Digby detachment RCMP, together with the town police department, are investigating two breaks which occurred in the area last Wednesday night.

In both cases it appeared attempts were made to break into locked safes through use of acetylene welding equipment. The breaks occurred at the garage premises of MacDonald Motor Company in Digby, where entry was made through opening a door, and at Ellis' service station at Barton, where entry was gained by breaking a window.

In both breaks efforts were apparently made to break the office safes by using welding torches from the garage equipment. Both attempts were unsuccessful. It is understood a quantity of cigarettes was taken in the Barton break, while in Digby a vending machine was broken into and some cash taken.

On Monday night there were a number of breaks in Weymouth and Meteghan. It is understood that a small quantity of money and cigarettes is missing from these places. Entered were the premises of Jones Bottling Company and the Post Office, at Weymouth; and the Red & White store, Irving Service Station, Meteghan Home Furnishings, Jubis Brothers, Acadia Tavern and the Church Hall, at Meteghan. Digby and Meteghan RCMP detachments are investigating.

Ratepayers "Most Willing To Co-operate"

Paul Swanburg, newly elected president of Digby County Ratepayers Association, in an address to Digby Municipal Council on Thursday afternoon, assured the group that the association is anxious to co-operate to the fullest measure on any project for general betterment of the area.

Mr. Swanburg mentioned as possible projects (a) a straightening of the highway from Bear River station to Victoria Bridge while resurfacing is being done this year, and (b) to have the unused municipal home converted into classrooms and used as an extension of the Truro Agricultural College. He stated that the association felt sure assistance could be attained from other levels of government, and that the farmers have voiced their willingness to discuss this at the council's convenience. Mr. Swanburg invited the warden and councilors to attend the association's next meeting on March 4 at the Court House, and suggested they would be welcomed most warmly. Adrien LeBlanc, secretary of the ratepayers' association, briefed the council on aims and objectives of the association.

Three Pairs Lambs Feb. 2

Watson Peck, Bear River, reports three pairs of twin female lambs born on February 2. Out of thirteen lambs born to date Mr. Peck says all have been female except three.

About This and That

We Agree On Some Points

We agree that some of the publicity which Digby received during the past year hasn't been so good for Digby. It really doesn't sound so well. It could really be detrimental to industry coming to Digby, for as we so often repeated in this editorial column — industry looks for a place where its employees can live happily and comfortably. Definitely industry is not going to locate where they already sense discord and wrangling. However, do not mistake us. In general, we think Digby is a good place for industry. In general we think most people feel Digby is a good place to live and that people get along well with one another. Just because the past year has seen some differences in some quarters does not mean that Digby must be classed as a poor bet for industry. But, again, we agree that the publicity in some areas has not painted the best picture of Digby. On the otherhand, the nice things said in the press about Digby and its people probably counteract the ill.

But, here is where we disagree. Why blame the press for the adverse publicity which Digby received in the past year? Yet, that is about what we were told one day last week. We were given the opinion that the press should print only what is pleasing and omit that which is unpleasant. It is almost like telling the press to print all the happy occasions like marriages but don't print obituaries and let people know that we, too, pass away in Digby.

The press carries the news — factual, truthful and unbiased as far as humanly possible. The press only prints the news that is created. The press does not create the news. If those who create the news feel any regrets about the publicity it is up to those people to call a halt to any situations which create poor publicity. Certainly not to print the news once it is created, no matter how adverse the publicity, would indicate a biased press. But, please, please, do not blame the press for poor publicity when the press only tries to do the job it has set out to do. Just blame those who created the news for the press to print even if the special piece of ill publicity might have got its origin a century before. The press still clings to the same principles of that pioneer of freedom of the press in Nova Scotia, Joseph Howe, who said "While I live, Nova Scotia shall have the blessing of an open and unshackled press . . . The only questions I ask myself are, What is right? What is just? What is for the public good? I am of no party, but I hold that when I am performing my duty, to the country, I am sincerely doing that which I engaged to do when I took the press into my hands."

Thanks For Co-operation

After having written the above, and made our stand clear: on accepting no blame for poor publicity for Digby and placing the blame solely on those who create the publicity, we want to thank the Digby Municipal Council, which sat last week, for its co-operation with us in supplying news to our readers. We have always found them most co-operative just as we have always found the Digby Town Council co-operative. There are times when we, through lack of time, have not given as full coverage as we would like to have done but this cannot be blamed on councils.

While we feel that meetings should be open to the press and the public we do appreciate the fact that a few things must be talked over in confidence before arriving at a decision. We think that the press can always be relied upon to use good common sense and judgment, especially in small towns like Digby. We have sat through meetings and have heard remarks which necessarily had to be of a personal nature in order to bring light to a subject. Knowing that such remarks are given in confidence, and it would serve only an injustice to all concerned to publish, we certainly use our discretion. On the other hand to deny the press to sit at a meeting of public interest immediately arouses suspicion and rightly so. In fact, we are of the opinion that every meeting where the press is denied access should be made known. If it is the right of the public to have the news, it is, then, the right of the public to know when they are being denied the news for in the long run it is not the press being denied but the public. The very fact that the press is denied news, if it is denied, makes very good copy for the press — that in itself is news.

But, as we started out to say, we appreciate the co-operation of the councils with the press and again repeat that such co-operation can only be good both for the press and the councils. The way to counteract false rumours is to print the truth at the beginning. Make the facts known and even if a monetary price must be paid, it is worth the price in peace of mind and "satisfied customers."

Don't Break The Chain

Somewhere in this issue of our newspaper there is a press release on the World Day of Prayer service. This service is held annually by the women of the Protestant churches not only in our own Digby County, our own province of Nova Scotia, but throughout the entire Christian world.

Something we read in the press release started us wondering if the importance of assembling together for the World Day of Prayer is taken as seriously as it should be in our own little area here. The percentage of women who attend the World Day of Prayer in consideration of the number of women who could be concerned is low. For this reason we were most interested to read in the release that in Newfoundland and the prairies women sometimes travel miles through blizzards or deep snow to reach the prayer centres so the chain of fellowship will not be broken.

Oh, to be sure, we have the faithful women who attend each year through snow or rain because they realize the vital significance of the day. We have those who dutifully attend because they have some special function to perform in the program. But there should be more than fifty or sixty women of us in several congregations who feel the necessity of such a day, of prayer and who show their concern.

Why should we be concerned? Well, why shouldn't we? On the recent death of President John Kennedy, days of national mourning were proclaimed and prayers were offered on behalf of the bereaved family in churches far and wide. Surely, we thought this to be good. In times of serious drought the nation has bowed in prayer. In times of national disaster or crises the nations are called to kneel. We obey humbly, though maybe selfishly, for our own safety and comfort or even our own lives are at stake.

Our trouble is that we are too shortsighted to see the need of assembling unless we are personally involved. We talk about race prejudice and all kinds of prejudices and yet we leave undone the very act which could help overcome prejudices. We are distressed about the poverty of the world, we are anxious about the chaotic condition of the world, we fear the atomic bomb, yet we pass up the very privileges and opportunities which would help to overcome the conditions we so much dread. We are a strange people.

This year on February 14, if the blizzard is not too, too severe or the snow is not too, too deep, maybe more of us can follow the pattern of the women in Newfoundland and the prairies and make an effort to keep that chain of fellowship in prayer unbroken around the world.

White Cane Week

"Because more than 2,000 Canadians lose their sight annually, White Cane Week has a two-way slant this year," said Mrs. J. T. Patterson, President of The Canadian Council of the Blind. In an interview about the aims of White Cane Week, the strictly educational period sponsored annually by her organization and The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Mrs. Patterson explained her two-sided theme. "Since doctors state that more than fifty per cent of Canada's blindness can be prevented if treated in time, we urge the sighted to take care of their good vision and to share it with their blind neighbours".

She described a major source of unnecessary blindness. People put up with an eye disease too long before seeing a doctor. "But the trouble seems deeper than this", the CCB president said. "With today's high speed living, many sighted people are not aware of the importance of good vision. They do not really take the time to see. When travelling on buses or trains with sighted guides, blind persons quickly discover that some people see while others only stare". One person will say, "We're passing trees", or "There's just the farm land and a few clouds". Another will describe the roll of the land, the crops and the details of the houses.

She told of a friend who lived in a subdivision on the edge of a city. When asked by a blind visitor if she could see the city lights from her kitchen window, she replied, "I don't know. I've never really looked".

"Your eyes are avenues to knowledge and enjoyment", Mrs. Patterson emphasized. "Appreciate your good sight and use it. Protect your eyes with an examination every two years if you're over forty. If you work in industry, wear your safety glasses. When you can, share your sight with the blind. Guide them through busy traffic. Keep the sidewalks clear of garbage cans and toys. Above all, take the time to see — see for your own sake and see for someone else".

The Newsboy Loses?

More than one daily newspaper publisher is raising the price of the newspaper to ten cents per copy or 50 cents a week instead of 45. No blame for the raise in price — we are just thinking that the newsboy might fall short in the deal.

How many handed out a weekly fifty cents with the remark "Keep the change"? We doubt if too many will add a nickel for the newsboy to the fifty cent piece or two quarters handed out for the price of the paper.

Letter to the Editor

January 26, 1961.
15 Marion Place,
Everett, Mass.

The Digby Courier,
Digby, N. S.

Dear Editor:

Since the new year we have been reading the Courier regularly and I would like to tell you how much we enjoy it. In the Digby news and all the way down Digby Neck we see familiar names. We cross the ferry to Tiverton, then on to Freeport, and over to Westport and through the news we know what our friends are doing. It seems to bring a breath of the sea and spruce trees, to refresh our bodies and lift our spirits above the city's crowds and clamor.

What wonderful Christmas programs your churches had! I only wish that I could spend just one Christmas there, but the things of life press in between and I am unable to leave them. Then comes the Courier, like a white bird flying, to bring us close to the dear place that is our part of Nova Scotia.

We wish for you a New Year that will open like a rose, bringing you the fragrance of friendship and love and God's rich blessing from above.

Yours sincerely,
MYRA P. ELLIS
(Mrs. Edwin Ellis)

Ottawa 8, Ontario,
31st January, 1961.

Mrs. Edith Wallis,
Editor,
Digby Weekly Courier,
Digby, N. S.

Dear Mrs. Wallis:

I wish to express my appreciation and gratitude, and that of all postal employees across Canada, for the fine co-operation of press, radio and television during the tremendous heavy mailing period just prior to Christmas.

While there is undoubtedly a newsworthiness to the mailing of such volumes of greeting cards, your organization went far beyond giving the news. The public service which you performed by spreading the word of early mailing, bundling of mail and correct addressing, must have won the approbation of your community. Certainly it was of great assistance to the postal operation and made the delivery of gifts and cards before Christmas Day possible.

The public, being the recipient of a successful operation, may not understand the importance of your public service announcements, but we in the postal service understand it thoroughly and take this means of expressing our thanks.

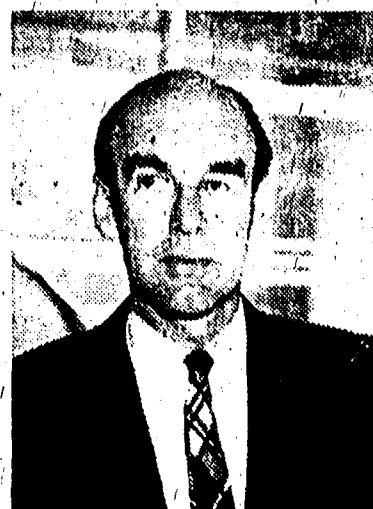

Yours sincerely,
W. H. Wilson,
Deputy Postmaster General.

Another Wildcat Casualty

One more casualty has been suffered by the bobcat population which recently has been increasing in somewhat alarming numbers in Nova Scotia.

One morning last week Stanley White, of North Range, was watching from his window what apparently was a large domestic cat on the wood pile in his neighbour's yard. When the cat moved, coming into full view, Mr. White realized it was a wildcat he had been watching. He seized his rifle and soon disposed of the bold intruder. The neighbour, Keith Halght, had been walking near the wood pile moments earlier. The cat measured 39 inches.

Year End Review

By
Hon. Robert L. Stanfield,
Minister of Education.

Technical Education

Current expansion in vocational education building construction is an outstanding feature of the 1963 progress picture in Nova Scotia.

This expansion now encompasses a full-time school for adult vocational training, the Nova Scotia Institute of Technology in Halifax, and four vocational high schools for youth, one each for the counties of Cape Breton, Cumberland, Kings and Pictou. In addition, expansion of the two vocational high schools for the counties of Halifax and Yarmouth is practically complete. When all current construction is completed there will be six vocational high schools and four full-time training schools for adults.

Television Education

Nova Scotia has added French to its series of in-school television lessons. A course for beginners and a course for students who have had about two years of previous instruction in the language are now a part of the programming being viewed in classrooms across the province. The two French courses are additional to the four courses offered beginning in 1962, Grade XI physics, chemistry, algebra and geometry.

Programs & Projects

In 1963, the Department of Education co-operated with the municipalities in providing assistance for outstanding mathematics and science teachers to take special summer school courses. These courses were designed to familiarize the instructional staff in the schools with the latest materials and methods in the fields of mathematics and science.

During the year under review, several schools in the province experimented with new methods and materials in arithmetic. In addition, curriculum committees composed of representatives of the Teachers Union and the administrative and supervisory staff of the Department and universities in the province have been continuously reviewing all subject fields with a view to refining and improving the quality of the educational product.

The Department, in 1963, continued its annual testing program. A representative sample of Grade VI students in the province was tested in English, reading, arithmetic and spelling. This testing program was carried on in co-operation with the provinces of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Curriculum Expansion

In 1963 the high school curriculum was expanded in some fifteen high schools in the province to include a "general course" leading to full high school graduation without university entrance requirements. Begun as a pilot project in 1962 the general course is aimed at students who wish a broad fundamental high school education but are not prepared to undertake the traditionally offered courses preparatory to university. The project has been successful; failure and drop-out rates are low, and the new course is being introduced into high schools in the province that satisfy staff and facility standards recommended by the Department of Education.

Nova Scotia Teachers College

Beginning in 1963, a two-year course became compulsory for all licence candidates attending the Nova Scotia Teachers College. A Grade XII entrance requirement has come into effect at the College and academic courses at the university level are now provided in seven subject areas. Further up-grading of the program of teacher education in Nova Scotia is planned by the Teachers College Board of Studies.

Nova Scotia Summer School

Enrolment and curriculum expansion continued to be realized by the Nova Scotia Summer School holding its 31st session in Halifax in July and August. The School, operated by the Department of Education for the teachers of the province, initiated a number of new programs this session.

Included were a graduate-level program to qualify reading specialists, an advanced program for home economics teachers, extension and refresher courses in Television in the School Classroom, Diagnostic and Remedial Techniques in Reading, Education Statistics, French Conversation, and Reading for Thought. Emphasis on new developments in mathematics and the sciences was continued through course work in modern physics co-sponsored by Dalhousie University and through basic and advanced mathematics courses offered by the Mathematical Congress of Canada Summer School held again in conjunction with the Nova Scotia Summer School.

The Summer School provided teachers of this province an opportunity to study with some of the outstanding authorities in the world and thereby bring themselves up to date with the expanding skills and knowledge that progressive teachers must possess.

University Grants Committee

The provincial government has established a University Grants Committee to enquire into sources of financial support of universities and colleges in the province and of any university or college outside the province that provides facilities for Nova Scotia students. The committee will advise the provincial government as to the financial support it should afford to specialized and advance educational institutions, will study existing academic and accommodation standards, and will recommend ways of avoiding unnecessary duplication of educational services.

School Building Construction

The Department's school building program provided new facilities and equipment to suit the skill of the teachers. During the year, 32 new buildings involving 286 academic classrooms, were constructed and 16 additions were made to existing schools, providing 47 additional classrooms.

In view of the consolidated schools program, only a very small number of high school pupils in the province are now denied the privilege of attending modern consolidated schools. Buildings are currently under construction which will soon fulfill the needs of all secondary school students in this province.

When Buick builds a LeSABRE--

Buick builds a high-priced car, and puts a low price on it

Lots of cars are in LeSabre's price class, but that's where the resemblance ends. For instance: Does anybody else in LeSabre's class treat you to that gentle Buick ride or impressive Buick performance and new gas economy? No. And who else gives you 15-inch wheels, finned aluminum front brakes, extra cushioning for middle-seat travelers, and separate heat ducts and controls for the rear seat? Right again: Nobody in LeSabre's field but LeSabre. If all this makes you think a LeSabre would look awfully nice in your garage, you should see how nicely it fits a budget. Who to see about it? Your Buick dealer. Who else?

Ski Schools

Thirty student skiing instructors will have an opportunity to qualify for instructor's badges at a special course February 5 - 10 at the Wentworth valley ski area.

Directing the course will be three Quebec instructor-examiners, led by Roland Delhommeur of St. Agathe des Monts.

The course will be adjusted to the needs of individuals in the group and will lead to Amateur Instructor or Assistant Ski Instructor qualification tests with the Canadian Ski Instructors' Alliance. Those passing the former will receive an Amateur Instructor's badge and those qualifying for the latter will receive the C.S.I.A. Instructor's Passport.

If weather conditions are unfavorable, the course will take place at the Alpine Ski Trails, also in the Wentworth Valley.

Feb. 8 - 10, about 225 skiers will attend the Nova Scotia ski school directed by the student instructors. Registration for this school has closed, but another is being organized in the Annapolis Valley by J. W. Betts, president of Twin Oaks Ski Club, Middleton. It is scheduled for Feb. 15 - 16.

Both ski projects at Wentworth are organized and sponsored by the Physical Fitness Office of the provincial Department of Education in cooperation with the Nova Scotia zone of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association's Atlantic Division; the Wentworth Valley Ski Club, the Wentworth Valley Development Company, and Alpine Ski Trails. Financial assistance for the instructors' course is made through a provincial grant under terms of Bill C31, the act to promote fitness and amateur sports.

At The Capitol

The sensation that's sweeping the world - "The Hootenanny Hoot" - is now playing at the Capitol tonight and Friday night, at 8 p.m., with three showings Saturday at 2:30, 7 and 9. Extra shows to accommodate extra crowds. It's sweeping the country everywhere and no wonder it's the hottest sound around.

This is the first full-length Hootenanny musical ever filmed, with a cast of singing and dancing celebrities too big to shake a stick at and including The Brothers Four, Sheb Wooley, Johnny Cash, The Gateway Trio, Judy Hensley, George Hamilton IV, Joe and Eddie, Cathie Taylor, Chris Crosby and dozens more.

Hear 15 folk song greats singing the Hootenanny hits. See "Hootenanny Hoot" and learn to do the Hootenanny. Get in the swing. It's a must for the "Smart Set", so come to the Capitol early, 'cause it's turning away hundreds everywhere who failed to come early.

Family Get- Together Closes Youth Week

Youth Week in Grace United Church concluded on Saturday night when the youth of the church and parents held a get-together at the church hall. The evening was presided over jointly by Rev. R. H. Hughes and Gerald Hogue, chairman of the Christian Education Committee of the church.

Mr. Hughes showed films on mission work of the church and gave a short talk on Church Vacations, accompanied by a poster display.

After being led in singing by Mrs. R. H. Hughes, refreshments closed the evening. Earlier in the week Mr. Hughes also showed films to the Explorers and the Cubs. On Thursday evening the CGIT went to HMCS Cornwallis to enjoy swimming.

World Day Of Prayer

February 14th the first Friday in Lent, has been chosen as the World Day of Prayer for 1964. On this day Canadians in 3,500 centres across the country will unite with other women in 150 countries to start a chain reaction of prayer and Christian Fellowship.

As the day progresses through different time zones, beginning in the warm Pacific Islands and ending in the winter dark of Canada's icy north, women of the major Protestant and Orthodox communions will meet to pray for each other, for mutual understanding and the needs of the world.

The same basic service, translated into many languages, will be used by all groups. The theme this year is "Let us Pray". It has been written by a distinguished French woman, Dr. Madeleine Barot, who is one of the executive secretaries of the World Council of Churches in Geneva. Besides English and French, the Canadian service will be followed in Indian, Eskimo, Japanese, Chinese, many European languages, as well as in Braille.

Canada has participated in this World Day of Prayer since 1920. Every year the Women's Inter-Church Council, which is the sponsoring organization, reports increased interest and give-ings.

There are reports of women in Newfoundland and the provinces who sometimes travel miles through blizzards of deep snow to reach the prayer centres so the chain of fellowship will not be broken.

Last year, World Day of Prayer gifts amounted to $60,000. Most of the Canadian money goes toward supplies of Christian literature for less developed areas. The Canadian Bible Society, for instance, publishes and distributes the Gospel in many languages. The Canadian Bible Society uses some of the money from World Day of Prayer offerings to present Bibles in their own tongues to Protestant and Roman Catholic newcomers to this country and the Old Testament to Jewish immigrants.

The Student Christian Movement in Canadian Universities, the Christian Drama Council, the Mission to Seamen, the Canadian School of Missions and many similar projects receive annual assistance from funds given at World Day of Prayer services.

In Digby town the service will be held in Trinity Anglican Church at 3:30 p.m. Leading parts will be read by Mrs. R. B. Lent, Anglican; Mrs. C. C. McInnes, United; and Mrs. Hugh Vincent, Baptist.

Miss Ada Winchester, of Smith's Cove, has announced that the service there will be held at 3 p.m. in the United Church of Canada and Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Digby, will be guest speaker.

Members of the Male Quartette, including Wallace Hodgson, Donald Brown, Paul Snow and J. J. Brittain, with their organist, Mrs. Jean Olsen, paid a visit to the Port Maitland church on a recent Sunday and sang a number of selections at a service there.

Bible Talk and Discussion meetings will continue to be held in the Baptist church hall on Sunday evenings at 7 o'clock, and are open to all.

Hold Service For Fishermen

A memorial service for two Westport fishermen was held at the Church of Christ (Disciples), Sunday. The service was in memory of Donald MacDormand, 22, and Gerald Welsh, 21, and was conducted by Rev. J. W. Derby, of Freeport. Also participating were Lieut. Ronald MacLean and Rev. William Ideson.

The two men, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard MacDormand, and Mr. and Mrs. Perch Welsh, respectively, of Westport, left December 17 to set trawl off Briar Island. They never returned. Their boat, Ruth Lillian II, was found smashed on rocks at Ellenwood Island, near Yarmouth, two days later.

Surviving Mr. Welch besides his parents, is his wife of two months, the former Carolyn Howard; three sisters, Freda (Mrs. Allan Morten), Ontario; Vera (Mrs. Sherman Hines), Quebec, and Fanny (Mrs. Cyril Urquhart), Saint John; one brother, Burton of Freeport. A brother, David was lost at sea four years ago.

Surviving Mr. MacDormand besides his parents, is a sister Sylvia (Mrs. Gerald Griffin), Coldbrook, Kings County.

Youth Week Closes By Rally

A youth rally attended by about 100 young people and their leaders last Saturday night in the church hall marked the closing event for Christian Youth Week in the Baptist Church of Digby. The pastor, Rev. H. S. Hartlin, welcomed the young people of the congregation to the gathering, and a song service was conducted by Rev. L. R. Atkinson.

An interesting program was presented by the various youth groups of the church, including skits, stunts and demonstrations by members of the Boy Scouts, Cubs, CGIT, Explorers, and also by the leaders of two of the groups. Present as guests were a number of the young people of the Hill Grove Baptist Youth Fellowship.

Refreshments were served under the direction of some of the Sunday School teachers and youth leaders.

Before the meeting broke up, a fellowship circle was formed, during which all sang "Blest Be The Tie That Binds".

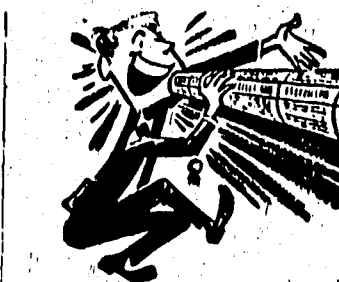

The Baptist CGIT group displayed some artistic symbols of CGIT service in one of the town's store windows during the week.

Seventeen new members were received into the Baptist Church of Digby at the service last Sunday morning. The hand of fellowship and welcome was extended by the pastor, and later in the service they participated in the Ordination of the Lord's Supper.

Members of the Women's League of the church conducted their weekly meeting on Tuesday night and program arrangements were made for future meetings of this group. There are about forty-four members of the League who will share in these programs in the weeks to come. What was once known as the Auxiliary has now merged with the Women's Guild to be formed as one organization known as the Women's League. This will also include the Women's Missionary Society of the church.

Members of the Male Quartette, including Wallace Hodgson, Donald Brown, Paul Snow and J. J. Brittain, with their organist, Mrs. Jean Olsen, paid a visit to the Port Maitland church on a recent Sunday and sang a number of selections at a service there.

Bible Talk and Discussion meetings will continue to be held in the Baptist church hall on Sunday evenings at 7 o'clock, and are open to all.

In Memoriam Card of Thanks

HANDSPIKER - In loving memory of John G. Handspiker who passed away on February 19, 1957 at Jefferson Maine.

He bade no one a last farewell
He said good bye to none
The Heavenly Gate just opened wide
And a loving voice said
"Come!"
He is not forgotten
Though on earth he is no more.
Still in memory he is with us
As he always was before.
- Inserted by his wife. 21:1c

COOK - In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Aug Cook, who passed away Feb. 5, 1959.

Depp in my heart there is a picture,
More precious than silver and gold,
A picture of a dear mother whose Memory will never grow old.
Though the tears in my eyes do not glisten,
And my face does not always look sad,
There is never a night, nor a morning
That I do not long for the mother I had.
- Lovingly remembered by daughter, Verlit. 21:1p

CROMWELL - In loving memory of George Cromwell who passed away February 7, 1963.

"The blow was great, the shock severe
No one knew the end was near Only those who have lost, can tell
The pain of parting without farewell
You cannot return, so tears are in vain

Free Dental Treatment

More than 1,000 school children in the rural areas of Nova Scotia received free dental treatment last year. For 600 of this number, this was their first visit to a dentist.

The Dental Health Division of the Public Health Department of Nova Scotia provides this free dental service to school children under 12 years of age. The objective of the program is to educate as many children as possible in the desirability of forming good dental health habits.

The administration of the program consists of two segments — the Mobile Dental Units and Dental Hygiene service. The Mobile Dental Units are three-ton trucks, fully equipped for dental work with a qualified dentist and assistant. These trucks travel to rural areas of the province where there are no dental facilities.

For many of the children the mobile unit is their first introduction to dentistry. Each child is given at least 45 minutes of dental service.

"It is wise to teach children dental education early. The sooner children learn good dental habits, the better chance they will have for a life-time of good dental health," says Dr. W. G. Dawson, director of the Dental Health Division.

According to Dr. Dawson,

"decay is the greatest cause of premature tooth loss in children. To help prevent this, parents are responsible to see that their children have a proper diet which includes plenty of wholesome, chewy foods. Don't let your children over-indulge in concentrated sugars and starches, especially between meals. Instead, keep fresh fruits, celery, carrots, or whole-wheat bread and butter on hand as snack foods."

The Dental Hygiene program provides preventive dental services to pre-school and children in the elementary grades in the larger village and small town schools. The dental hygienist visits these schools periodically cleaning children's teeth and giving fluoride topical applications in areas without a public water supply.

"Since only one of every four Nova Scotians receives the benefits of fluoridated water these fluoride applications are a great help in reducing tooth decay. Fluoridation will reduce further dental cavities by two-thirds in children's teeth if they have been able to drink fluoridated water during their growing years," says Dr. Dawson.

During 1963 more than 13,500 children visited the dental hygiene clinics. These children received: a dental examination, tooth cleaning, instruction in proper care of the teeth and in all but a few instances, topical fluoride applications.

"The dental hygienists are providing an excellent service to the school children of this province but in order to carry it out more effectively more dental hygienists are needed," says Dr. Dawson.

Currently there are seven dental hygienists employed with the Dental Health Division. Students having good scholastic records can apply for bursaries from the Department of Health in order to assist them in obtaining a diploma in Dental Hygiene.

Leur End Review

By Hon. E. A. Manson
Minister of Trade and Industry for Nova Scotia in review of the year 1963.

As Nova Scotia enters the new year, we can look back upon 1963 as a period of further progress and achievement.

This year was marked by increased activity in business and industry continuing the upward trend of the past few years.

Pointing up the generally optimistic picture is the Nova Scotia fishing industry which reached an all time record of $35,000,000 landed value.

Of significance is the fact that in 1963 the industry landed more than double the previous year's weight of swordfish. Twelve and one-half million pounds of swordfish were landed compared with 3,500,000 pounds during the previous year. The large increase in catches is attributed to the use of longlines as well as the traditional harpoon method of taking swordfish.

Scallop production continued to contribute substantially to the Nova Scotia fishing industry. The 1963 catch of 15,000,000 pounds is up 8.7 per cent over 1962 and was worth more than $6,000,000 to fishermen.

Fish plant expansion, improvement and construction continued at a brisk pace in 1963. A modern fish processing plant in Lunenburg and the co-operative plant at Alder Point are nearing completion. A small modern plant was completed in Saulnierville, Digby County. Acadia Fisheries Limited announced that a modern $2,000,000 fish processing plant will be built at Canso, construction to begin early in the new year.

Giving recognition of the importance and value of the fishing industry was the announcement that a federal-provincial fisheries conference will be held early in 1964 to formulate a national fisheries development program.

Of prime importance to the industry in Nova Scotia was the announcement by Premier Stanfield that a new provincial Department of Fisheries will be established in the new year.

Continuing the work of the past years the Department of Trade and Industry once again sponsored the Fishermen's Training School in Pictou. The school offers courses in navigation, cooking, nets and gear and marine engineering.

Following a record year in 1962, the shipyards and boat-shops of the province continued to operate at capacity in the production of wooden vessels and boats. It should be noted that nine out of 10 of the smaller wooden vessels and many of the larger ones are built with the assistance of the Fishermen's Loan Board, a division of the department.

To December 1, 1963, 21 wooden druggers were completed of which 19 fish and scallop druggers measured 94 to 100 feet in length. Two 65-foot fish druggers also were completed. Building of steel trawlers was started during 1963 with the completion of one 116-foot trawler.

Under construction were three 141-foot fish druggers and two 86-foot-longliners. All of these vessels qualified for federal subsidy. The Fishermen's Loan Board also assisted in the construction of some 60 shore boats from 28 to 47 feet, and several small druggers 45 to 58 feet.

Increased federal subsidies and a greater demand for most varieties of fish at higher prices has resulted in substantial increases in Loan Board activity during the year.

The selling value of factory shipments to the end of October was running more than six per cent ahead of the record year 1962; the primary industries maintained their position and in some cases moved ahead.

General business conditions — retail trade, construction estimates, cheques cashed — statistics showed encouraging signs and labor income and average wages and salaries rose.

The department has continued its interest in improved transportation facilities and services and in June of 1963 the Government of Nova Scotia made a formal submission to the federal government for additional ferry service between western Nova Scotia and New England. Specifically, the proposal advanced was for a second vessel to supplement the service now being provided by the M.V. Tilharnose.

In support of this proposal, a report which is in effect a traffic study, was prepared by the Department of Trade and Industry in co-operation with other agencies. Analysis of the existing pattern of tourist and truck traffic, together with information on "unmet" tourist and potential commercial demand revealed that additional or supplementary service for tourist and automobile traffic was needed during the summer months. Second, a more flexible type of vessel that can accommodate more and larger trucks was required during the off season.

The matter is now under study by the Department of Transport.

There was an increased emphasis in 1963 on the department's work with community groups. This involved the research staff as well as the industrial development officers in various parts of the province.

The department, in co-operation with groups in various centres began the preparation of basic statistical community and country surveys. Industrial development seminars were held in Halifax and Bridgewater.

The program of close co-operation between community industrial development groups and the department is proving to be very worthwhile. The town of Canso offers a good example of successful community self-help. The cumulative effect has been to bring about a balanced development by private enterprise, government, and the local business community.

The Department of Trade and Industry utilized the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto to promote industry and tourism. This project, organized and staffed by the Nova Scotia Information Service, Nova Scotia Travel Bureau and Economic Services Division, took the form of a large display of manufactured products and a tourist inquiry desk at the Exhibition, individual displays in Toronto stores, special press advertising, and radio and television interviews. Seventy-eight firms co-operated with the department in organizing the product display, in itself an indication of the growing interest and enthusiasm of the business, financial and industrial community in the "New Nova Scotia."

The government of Nova Scotia has contributed to the favorable business climate through an aggressive development program. The announcement of new and expanding businesses indicates the confidence of private investors.

Tourism once again played an important role in the economy of the province during 1963.

To encourage interest in, and support for tourist development and promotion in Nova Scotia, the government of the province, through the Department of Trade and Industry, undertook a program of matching grants. These grants are provided to assist regional tourist groups with the employment of a tourist director who will spend at least six months, full time, in any 12-month period in the promotion of the region.

Salt water sport fishing was promoted by the Nova Scotia Travel Bureau in co-operation with provincial areas interested in the development of the sport, through the provision of uniform fishing contest regulations and annual prize awards to the person landing the largest tuna and the largest swordfish in Nova Scotia waters.

In early September the 8th Annual Intercollegiate Game Fish Seminar and Fishing Match was held at Wedgeport, N.S. The match is sponsored jointly by the Province of Nova Scotia and the Yale University Athletic Association. Ten Canadian and United States Universities attended and for the first time a group of students from Japan, representing Waseda, Kelo and Nippon Universities attended the sessions.

One new travel film entitled "Nova Scotia By-Ways" was released in 1963 by the Travel Bureau. This film directed and produced by Mrs. Margaret Perry, of the Nova Scotia Information Service, was honored with the Canadian Tourist Association Maple Leaf Award for the best travel film produced in Canada in 1963.

During 1963, courses in wait-res training were provided by the bureau in co-operation with the Canadian Restaurant Association, Nova Scotia Branch; Innkeepers' Guild; and various other government departments.

The Nova Scotia Travel Bureau participated in travel shows at Hartford, Conn., and Philadelphia, Pa.

A new edition of "Canada's Ocean Playground" was distributed in late November and early December.

The Nova Scotia Travel Bureau co-operated with the Canadian Government Travel Bureau in arranging details of provincial tours for travel counsellors from Canadian Government Travel Bureau offices in Chicago, and London, England. In addition, the Nova Scotia Travel Bureau provided guides and arranged details of tours for a number of travel writers and photographers from the United States, England and Canada.

Early in the year the department's industrial promotion film "New Nova Scotia" was shown to select group of business, finance and industry leaders in New York City. This film has been shown to an estimated audience of more than 1,413,700 persons via special presentations and television.

During 1963 the Nova Scotia Information Service continued to work in co-operation with government departments and agencies in the production of films, printed materials and special projects.

Department facilities and staff were engaged in the province's Voluntary Economic Planning program.

Assistants Graduate

Thirty graduates of the School of Nursing Assistants received diplomas at exercises held at the Nova Scotia Sanatorium, Dr. J. E. Hill, medical superintendent, spoke of the founding of the first class of assistants at the sanatorium in 1948. There have been 250 graduates since that time.

Another "first" at the "San." was the training program for ministers, started by Rev. Charles J. Taylor, Professor of Practical Theology at Acadia University, guest speaker at the exercises. Professor Taylor said in this day of rapid change any profession was a continual learning process. He stressed the importance of "care and caring," treating the person as well as the illness. "Be a good listener. Make the patient feel he counts for something."

Among the graduates were Miss Annette Marie Babin, Maville; Miss Juliette Marie Comeau, Belliveau Cove; Miss Juliette Marie Dugas, Church Point; and Miss Joan Louise MacCaul, Granville.

Letter to the Editor

Digby, N. S.
Feb. 3/64.

Editor,
The Digby Courier,
Digby, N. S.

Dear Mrs. Wallis,
Having become of late especially interested in trying to help certain church interests, I wish to put forth the following suggestions, which if acted upon, could help all community life to some worth while degree.

Let us first consider, the fact and significance that this coming Wednesday, Feb. 12, is Ash Wednesday in the church calendar, and the first day in the forty days season of Lent. Let us also be reminded that this is a season for fasting, should of course be a fast for good and beneficial purpose.

Now, we have been hearing a great deal of late about certain harmful effects from the use of tobacco, so, why not prepare ourselves now, to give up tobacco, at least for the season of Lent, and give the money saved thereby to some special church fund in addition to our regular givings?

If some special fund of the church benefited from such a fast, so much the better, especially if the fund was one for community outreach, beyond ourselves into a world of real need. I am sure that a tobacco fast (good for lungs and heart, etc.), or some other such fast, would give great beneficial purpose to all. Remember — Jesus Christ gave His life for all — let us give more to His church.

4. It shall be an offence and a violation of these Regulations for any person to park or leave standing any vehicle across any such line or marking.

5. Each parking meter installed shall indicate by appropriate directions thereon the parking time permitted, as hereinafter provided, in the individual parking space to which it corresponds. Topic Race Prejudice

A forthright spokesman against racial prejudice; the chief of the National Indian Council; and an official from the United Nations will be among the guest speakers at the 39th annual meeting of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service, The United Church of Canada, when it meets in Toronto next month.

Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, chief executive officer of The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., will speak at the dinner meeting on Tuesday, February 18th, at Casa Loma, on the subject: "The Ecumenical Movement, 1964, and the Mission of the Church." The next morning, in the boardroom at United Church House, he will speak on "The Racial Barrier."

(During the school integration crisis in Little Rock, Arkansas, in the fall of 1959, in a joint statement on September 10th with Moderator Theophilus M. Taylor, of the 171st General Assembly, Dr. Blake maintained:

"We recognize that all of us, white and negro, North and South, are individuals under the judgment of God. None of us is without sin. Today is not a crucial time in the South alone. It is a crucial time for all of us to examine our own consciences, and to go forward without evading the most painful duties—even Federal police action in Little Rock, if need be. As Christians, as democratic citizens, and as members of the human race, let us avoid the blind alleys of racism and massive resistance to the fundamental principles of Christianity and the law of the land. The eyes of the world are upon us. Let us therefore, have the courage to understand one another, and go forward together in the path of cooperation and brotherhood.")

Last year Dr. Blake was arrested with 283 other persons who protested the white only policy of an amusement park in a suburb of Baltimore.

Plan New Children's Hospital

Plans are underway for the construction of a new modern children's hospital with the most up-to-date facilities and equipment that will provide for the highest quality of care for the children of eastern Canada.

The decision to build a completely new hospital had not come quickly, but had followed two years of careful investigation and consultation with hospital authorities, municipal, provincial government officials and lay and professional leaders, not only in the local area but in other centres of Canada as well.

The hospital will cost an estimated $6,000,000. In addition to government grants, gifts from corporations, private citizens, clubs, organizations and foundations will be required. An intensive campaign for financial support will take place this year, to begin immediately. Maj. Gen. The Hon. E. C. Plow, former Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia and member of the Board of Management has agreed to become General Chairman of the campaign.

The Children's Hospital serves not only the Halifax area, but in fact, thousands of little patients are referred to it from all parts of the Atlantic Provinces and elsewhere. Strong financial support for the new hospital is sought from all areas which benefit from it. The Children's Hospital in Halifax is the only hospital east of Montreal dedicated solely to the treatment of diseases of children.

The new hospital will be designed along modern lines, not only in appearance, but in providing complete health services for children—in care and treatment, and in research facilities which play an essential role in contributing to a better understanding of the causes of children's diseases. The Board of Management has decided that the hospital must remain in its present locality. Centered within the medical training and research community of Dalhousie Medical School, the Children's Hospital will provide the necessary and specialized facilities for the treatment of complicated diseases. Negotiations are now underway for the acquisition of property in the vicinity of the present structure.

Gideons Dedicate New Headquarters

The Gideons International in Canada dedicated their new national headquarters at Leaside in Metro Toronto at a special ceremony on Saturday.

The building will serve as the base for Canadian operations according to Elmer Porter, Bear River, of the Digby, Annapolis Gideon's Camp. More than a quarter of a million Bibles and Testaments are distributed annually by Canadian Gideons, who also share financially in an extensive overseas program. There are 2,000 Gideons in Canada organized into 166 local organizations called camps, and 21,000 members in 65 countries throughout the world. Major areas of distribution include hotels, motels, hospitals, prisons, schools and personal copies of the New Testament with Psalms and Proverbs to grade five school children and to nurses.

Laundromat Opens Feb. 7

A new automatic, coin-operated laundromat will open in Digby. Plans are underway to have Mayor Clayton Snow start the first machine on Friday morning to mark its opening. The laundromat is situated on the water side of Water Street south, opposite the Royal Bank of Canada.

ing be named in honor of Sir Charles Tupper, a Nova Scotia medical man who was instrumental in achieving confederation.

Chairman Mrs. F. A. Lane of Halifax, reminded committee members that this grant is separate from the per capita grant that will be used for provincial projects.

In many cases projects came from one area of the province. In order to make best use of the funds available, the committee recommended that the concerned parties in each area meet to decide which project would best benefit the area as a whole. Final deadline for all proposals is Sept. 1.

Committee members present were, vice-chairman, Dr. Julius Comeau, Meteghan; secretary, Dr. C. Bruce Ferguson; Keith C. Bishop and Mrs. Alex MacAulay, Halifax; A. J. Gorman and John R. Lynk, New Glasgow; J. H. Layton, Sydney Mines; Dr. R. S. Longley, Wolfville; Mayor D. A. MacDonald, Glace Bay; Mrs. John A. MacLean, Eureka; J. Austin Park-er, Liverpool; John M. Murphy, Truro.

Deadline Sept. 1 Centennial Projects

Recommendations were drafted on Friday in Halifax on the feasibility of proposed centennial projects for the province at a meeting of the Confederation Centenary Celebration Committee for Nova Scotia.

The recommendations will be submitted to the provincial government for consideration. Several other projects were referred back to their originators for further details and will be discussed at the committee's next meeting, September 25 in Halifax.

Although many of the projects will not necessarily be adopted as feasible the committee felt the following were sufficiently prepared to warrant consideration.

A miner's museum with a self-supporting handicraft shop and restaurant, located in Glace Bay and to be representative of Cape Breton County; a centennial recreation centre in Windsor, for which a substantial amount has already been raised by groups in that area; a centennial museum building in Bridgewater; and a park in the Liverpool area.

Several other projects were considered for centennial proposals but high costs of buildings made them prohibitive as far as federal and provincial financial support was concerned. These were referred to the proposing groups for the purpose of raising more financial support in the area concerned.

Most projects took the form of historic museums and cultural and recreational centres which would represent a lasting commemoration of the centennial year and of the province's contribution to Canada growth.

Premier Stanfield addressed the morning session and said his government would lend wholehearted support to the committee's work. He explained that the federal government would give a $1 per capita donation to centennial projects and that the province would match this, but not exceed it.

Attorney General R. A. Donahoe discussed the $2,500,000 granted to the province for a single project of lasting nature to be located in the capital city. A first-class medical science building at Dalhousie University had been recommended for this grant and Mr. Donahoe also minister of health, termed this proposal a "fundamental need" and supported it.

He suggested that the build-

Marriage Turnbull - Haynes

A wedding of interest took place at the Lower Granville United Baptist parsonage, Granville Beach, when Ardith Hazel daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Haynes Jr., of Victoria Beach was united in marriage with Lloyd Linden Turnbull son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Turnbull of Digby. The Rev. Archie MacLellan performed the ceremony in the presence of about twenty relatives. Miss Lois Turnbull, sister of the groom was bridesmaid and Mr. Donald Germaine, Digby acted as best man.

The bride was attractively attired in a winter white boucle suit with brown accessories and corsage of white and yellow mums.

The bridesmaid wore a blue boucle suit, white accessories and corsage of pink mums.

Following the wedding a reception for about 100 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents at Victoria Beach when the happy couple received many valuable gifts including money. Friends and relatives of the bride served.

They will reside in Digby where both are employed.

The following which was pilfered from the Lunenburg Progress Enterprise (without Roy Cook's permission) should be of interest to Digby readers. So far we can see it had appeared in the Cape Cod Standard Times and was written by a man, George Moses.

She wrote to her Fadder on Fundy shore
From up in Montreal,
An, alas, she wrote in a ver bad way,
For life had commence to pall.
Now, dis was a sad an sorrow-ful case,
For she was a seex mont' bride
Who'd been wooed and won on Fundy shore

By de side of de Fundy tide,
Dough her husband dear was ver sincere Dere was something, she didn't know what Made her long for de smell of a scallop shell

An de sight of Digby Gut.
As she wrote she'd cried and also sighed
An her appetite fell off,
An she's grown so t'in like a belay pin,
Wit a terrible hackin' cough
An she wrote her Fadder dat right away,

How soon she couldn't tell,
If she couldn't get back home again
She'd die as sure as hell,

On top of de postman's haul,
An she got dat fish, bit out a hunk,

Assessment Increased

Digby Municipality had an increase of $95,030 in assessment this year despite the fact a $160,000 assessment on the Weymouth Industries plant had been lost to the municipality, J. D. Hubley, municipal assessor, reported to the Council Thursday.

Mr. Hubley stated that the loss of the assessment on the Weymouth plant, which has been taken over by Industrial Estates Limited, will not be a total loss in revenue as there will be a grant covering part of the loss in assessment.

Total 1964 net assessment is $10,255,245, Mr. Hubley reported. He also gave a breakdown of assessment figures for each district.

During the past year, Mr. Hubley said, a change has been instituted in the assessment of fishing boats, providing for a more equitable assessment. He said that the system now in use provides for nine classifications of engines and for classification of boats as to age, size, original cost and other factors. He said he felt the new method has worked well, as there has been no appeals regarding boat assessments.

Provincial social assistance consultant George Matthews explained the Municipal welfare set-up to the council at the Thursday afternoon session. He briefed the councillors on advantages in providing a full-time welfare officer. As it is now, he said, many officers work with many different policies, and people through out a municipality often get treated differently.

U. J. Harrington, commissioner with the department of municipal affairs, met with the council and spoke of ways in which his department could help relieve winter unemployment.

At the Saturday morning session councillor Hubert S. Shortliffe questioned the cost of municipal burials. He mentioned that accounts forwarded to him concerning funeral expenses ranged from $150 to $250, and suggested that there should be a standard price set to be paid by the municipality for burials. Leigh Jayne, Digby funeral director, was invited to come before the council concerning this matter.

Also on Saturday James Ayer, superintendent of the Digby County Power Board, addressed the council re the Board's 1963 report. The report showed total energy sold in 1963 at 20,132,789 kilowatt hours, an increase of 1,270,226 over the previous year. The most substantial increase was in the Municipality of Clare. There were 68 new customers added, to the hydro system during the year. Revenue of the Digby County Power Board showed an increase of $19,563 over that of the previous year. Mr. Ayer reported that the excess of revenue over expenditure for 1963 amounted to $26,556. Capital expenditure for the year amounted to $34,255. Stewart MacNaughton, of Saint John, who will assume Mr. Ayer's position with the Power Board, was also present at this session. Mr. Ayer and family will soon be leaving to take up residence in Fredericton.

Cape St. Mary, Digby Co., Leads Tuna Catch

Sport fishermen landed 40 per cent more tuna in Nova Scotia waters in 1963 than in 1962.

The most successful angler was Sam Charap of Lake Macpherson, N.Y., who boated more than two tons of bluefin Aug. 19-28 off Cape St. Mary. His eight tuna ranged in weight from 500 to 677 and totalled 4,257 pounds.

Statistics released by Nova Scotia Trade and Industry Minister, E. A. Manson, showed Charap's nearest rival was Dr. Henry E. Bonals, East Hampton, Mass., who landed four tuna off Cape St. Mary Aug. 23 to Sept. 1. The tuna ranged from 425 to 755 pounds.

The largest tuna of the season was caught by Henry Klomp of Fort William, Ont., who landed an 832-pounder off Halifax August 21.

Multiple catches were made by Joseph Miele, Elizabeth, N.J., who boated three tuna Aug. 28, ranging from 200 to 700 pounds; and Mike Hammer, Halifax, who landed three with weights 200, 660 and 200 lbs. These catches were made in waters off Cape St. Mary and Halifax, respectively.

Two women were among the successful anglers. Mrs. Francis Hickernell, Richmond, Va., landed a 565-pound tuna August 2 off Wedgeport, and Mrs. Roy Bridenbough, Arcanum, Ohio, caught a 415 Sept. 5 in Cape St. Mary waters. The husbands of both women were also successful in making substantial catches.

Total catches for 1963 summer were Wedgeport 15; Cape St. Mary 71; Halifax 26.

Seconds Speech From Throne Reply

R. B. Powell, M.L.A.,
Digby

Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise to second the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. The Honorable Member from Richmond has considered a number of matters so presented therein. I wish to make reference to other topics and to give some consideration to these programs as they affect my own constituency.

Before doing so, Mr. Speaker, may I offer my congratulations to you on your re-election to the high office which you now hold. That you have been re-elected as Speaker of this Assembly is an indication of the regard in which you are held by those who have served previously under your chairmanship and we who are new to the House look forward to receiving the same courteous and fair administration of the affairs of the Assembly as you have given in the past.

Education:

I note that the educational measures, to be considered this session of the Legislature, will examine problems of today and forestall those of tomorrow. The Government has recognized the problems arising from surplus unskilled labour and is making provision for the training of those who, potentially, would be in that field of our economic life if educational offerings more compatible with individual needs, were not available. Also it has made and is continuing to make provisions for the adults who, in their youth, were unable to participate in an educational system such as we have at present. A tangible witness to the concern of this Government for these people is the Technical Institute which started operation this year in Halifax and is drawing to its corridors young adults from the entire province.

I wish to congratulate Cape Breton on the proposed building of a trade school in that part of the province. I hope that the day is not far distant when a similar institution will be established in Western Nova Scotia.

The demand by larger numbers of High School graduates for admission into the Universities has overtaken the facilities and the staffs of these institutions. So it is gratifying to learn that consideration will be given for the coming fiscal year of increased grants to these institutions. I note with satisfaction that the University Grants Committee will continue its studies on higher education in Nova Scotia.

Agriculture:

The proposed assistance under the ARDA program for construction of roads to farm woodlots will undoubtedly assist many farmers who depend on these lots for cash supplements to their other farm income. This proposed assistance will help farmers to use portions of their woodlots, which formerly they considered it unprofitable to cut.

I believe that the reorganizing of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing will be of benefit to farmers of the province. Time was when all farms in a section of the province were of a similar type. But today there is a move into more specialized activities on Nova Scotian farms. Formerly the local agricultural representative was supposed to be an expert in (Please turn to page 10)

Pyne Heads Merchants Committee

A merchants committee is to be added to the list of standing committees of the Digby Board of Trade with Allan Pyne, local merchant, to head the committee for 1964. Mr. Pyne will add members to his committee.

The decision to have a merchants committee was arrived at by the Digby Board of Trade on Tuesday evening to which an invitation had been extended to all Digby merchants. The purpose of the invitation was to give the Digby merchants an opportunity to discuss the present conflicting store hours in the town.

No action on store hours was taken as too few merchants had attended. It was estimated that only eight out of the 27 stores closed on Wednesday were represented and only one of the seven closed on Saturday was represented. These figures did not include services of any kind. Twenty attended the meeting in all.

It was decided to try to have every merchant present at the next meeting of the Digby Board of Trade and if possible to have all merchants to become members of the Digby Trade Board.

Many interesting observations were revealed through the store hours discussion.

L. M. Saunders declared that his cash register showed that to be open all week and closed on Saturday noon was the best for his own particular business. He felt that all stores should stay open six days of the week (and advertise it) until some decision on uniform hours could be arrived at. Robert Marshall felt that if that were started it should be kept up.

Mr. Sangster, of the Metropolitan Stores, felt that to be open on Saturday was more profitable to his business on account of the fishermen. On the weekend they had chance to shop or the mothers also had chance to shop because there was someone home to care for children. In a survey he had found that on Thursday, Friday and Saturday about 59 percent of his customers were from out of town and 41 percent from Digby town. He spoke of Digby Neck and Islands as a great potential. Digby, he said, could be made a real shopping centre for the area between Yarmouth and Kentville. Mr. Sangster also stated that for the benefit of tourists he would be open on both Wednesday and Saturday during July and August. He felt the tourists should have something more to do than to roam aimlessly around town.

Mrs. C. B. Connell stated that she had frequently heard tourists remark complainingly about the stores not being open. She said that people going on the boat want to purchase gifts here as the stores are closed when the boat arrives in Saint John.

Robert Marshall noted the competition in the food business from outside town and felt that this competition would not be long in entering other types of stores.

Melbourne Comeau favored open all day on Wednesday and closed on Saturday.

Mrs. Ruth Daley, of Margolian's Shoe Store, felt that whatever Yarmouth does will be somewhat of a deciding factor for Digby. She agreed that it was from outside of town that the potential buyer came.

It was mentioned that both drug stores in Digby are open on Wednesday and closed on Saturday because the doctors have these same hours. Graham Saunders drew attention to the fact that services in Digby draw people to the town. Mayor C. D. Snow briefly stated that the main question should be "What does the customer want?" rather than whether the merchant wants to stay open or not. The customer comes first, he said, and if one customer is lost at a time it is soon noticeable in the sales. If a customer is disappointed in not being able to shop for one item in Digby they go to another place not to only buy that one item but to do all their shopping. The stores should stick together

Community Pasture Idea Progresses

The Digby Area Resources Development Committee with its sub-committees met last week when progressive steps in community pasture and forestry were taken.

Land, it is understood, is being acquired, a co-op. has been organized to operate it and cattle are known to be available to graze on it. The committee of the Digby Area Resources Development has voted its support and because of this the farmers can apply to the Provincial Pasture Board for fifty percent of the cost to set up the pasture, it is learned.

A forestry school will be held in Digby in March to study in particular the problems of the Christmas tree industry and of reforestation.

A study is being made as to how best to arouse public interest about, and approach the government on, a causeway for the crossing of Route #1 at the Bear River.

The meeting was presided over by Charles Haliburton, president.

Scriptures In English At St. Patrick's

Sunday will see the Epistle and Gospel read in English at Mass at St. Patrick's Church, Digby. This is a departure from the customary Latin languages in which the scriptures have been read in the past.

Other changes which have taken place according to Father D. Stokes, is that the Sacraments of matrimony and confirmation will be as part of the Mass after the sermon and the Breviary will be shortened.

The Bishops of Canada, it is understood, will be meeting before Easter and draw up directions regarding the revised Missal.

Married 51 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest VanTassel, 200 Queen Street, Digby, will mark their 51st wedding anniversary on Tuesday, February 18. They were married in Digby in 1913 and have resided here since that time. Mrs. VanTassel is the former Josephine Ring, of Victoria Beach.

Their children are Joyce (Mrs. Jack Causey), Ontario; Roy and Gerald, Digby; and Donald, Saint John.

Conway Bowlers Top Digby

The Digby Bowling Club met the Country Club with a return match at the Scallop Bowl on Sunday evening with the following results:

Digby Club: Total pinfall, 6,025; high single, Don Jayne, 129; high triple, Don Jayne, 355; points, 4.

Country Club: Total pinfall, 6,326; high single, Roy Brinton, 137; high triple, Daniel Comeau, 326; points, 28.

Attends House Opening

Mrs. R. Baden Powell, Plympton, accompanied Mr. Powell, M.L.A. for the Electoral District of Digby, to Halifax last week and attended the opening of the Legislative House and social functions in conjunction.

on the hours and advertise the hours so the customer knows.

William Troupe expressed the thought that the store open days should be stressed rather than store closed.

Both Mayor Snow and Mr. Pyne expressed appreciation to the Digby Board of Trade for initiating the meeting of the merchants. Mr. Pyne said this was a stepping stone and the best thing that could have come to Digby. H. M. Warne also agreed with others that this was one of the best Board of Trade meetings held in Digby. He also reminded the merchants of the HMCS Cornwallis potential.

Study New Curriculum. United Church Of Canada

Left above, Rev. Elmer Asaph, Bear River, studies one of the new books included in those to be used in the new curriculum designed for the United Church of Canada. Rev. Mr. Asaph is Annapolis Presbytery Convener of Publications. Next to Mr. Asaph is S. W. Porteous, B.D., D.D., Toronto, Director of Curriculum Promotion for the United Church of Canada. Gerald Hoare, Digby, is Chairman of Christian Education for Grace United Church and extreme right is Mr. Fred Withers, lay minister of Heartz Memorial Church, Weymouth. The review of the books was made at a special meeting held at the Bear River Church on Friday evening.

The curriculum, Mr. Porteous said, consists of a training program for children, young people and adults of all ages. He said that Church School teachers have been quitting their teaching service for want of better teaching helps and the new curriculum has been planned for aid to teachers. It has in mind those who have not had the answer when encountered by someone who speaks against the church and her doctrines. It also has in mind, Dr. Porteous said, the many families (one in every 4) who are continually on the move and those in time of crisis who are bankrupt spiritually. The curriculum, he said, is designed to relate what we are teaching to the questions being asked today and with a real sense of God in our lives when not "hanging over a precipice." The whole curriculum is designed to make much use of the Bible and to encourage more good reading.

Christian education begins with adults, the speaker said. If the home and Church School are to do a job each needs to know what the other is doing so the curriculum is planned for the home and church to teach together. All ages, primary to adult are studying the same thing at the same time. Ideas must be understood before they are imparted so the teacher must learn too.

The new course of study is expected to be ready for use in September of 1964 and will begin with the study of God and His Purpose, by J. S. Thomson. A special dedication and presentation service is planned for the first Sunday the books are in use. Already an introduction to the study has been given in the presently used book The Word and The Way. Guides to accompany the new course are also prepared for teachers and parents. Pictures are considered important and are used frequently in illustrations in the books and as part of the library. Magazines, church and Church School papers will be available for keeping scholars and leaders up to date on church activity.

The new books have been placed in manuscript form in a few of the Church Schools in Canada for evaluation and after given sufficient testing will be printed. Bear River Church School was a testing ground and several teachers gave their impressions at Friday night's meeting. Presentations of other impressions throughout Canada were also given.

Mr. Trueman Wright reviewed God and His Purpose and found it to be a challenge for the attention of adults and to contain good material for the stimulation of the scholar whom the Church Schools

Legion Auxiliary Conducts Heart Campaign

Mrs. Thomas Cleveland, president of the Digby Branch Canadian Legion Auxiliary, announced that the auxiliary had responded favorably to the request to carry on the Canadian Heart Foundation campaign in Digby town within the next few weeks. Plans for the campaign will be definitely made at the meeting of the auxiliary on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Cleveland said that the auxiliary wants to make the campaign in the town "one big blitz" so that the project does not become a burdensome delay. As Mrs. Cleveland put it, "This is a very important canvass. Heart illness is a big killer these days, especially among the forty to fifty year old men, and it is time people began to take an interest in saving lives on this score. She continued that lives could not be saved unless there were funds for research in heart ailments. Research cannot be done unless everybody in every small town or large city rallies to the campaigns." Mrs. Cleveland is looking for a much wider interest in their campaign for 1964.

The Canadian Heart Fund campaign is being conducted in Digby County under the leadership of Mr. A. T. Grimmer. Mr. Grimmer, who is a resident of Queen Street, is a well known citizen, having been for many years connected with the Dominion Atlantic Railway. He has also been appointed as President of the Digby Heart Foundation chapter and Mr. C. V. Snow, manager of the Royal Bank, has been appointed Treasurer. Contributions may be sent to either of these two people, it is understood. It is hoped there will be a good response from the citizens of Digby County because of the excellent work that is being done by the Canadian Heart Foundation, Mr. Grimmer said.

Through the kind co-operation of the Bankers' Association contributions may be made through local bankers, who will arrange to have them forwarded to Mr. Snow, the Treasurer, and who will, in turn, report the total for the town of Digby and surrounding area.

seem to lose at the age of 14. Mrs. Gordon Cook, Mrs. B. Alcorn and Mrs. Darrell Henshaw, Bear River gave reports on tests made of the manuscripts in each of their Church School classes.

Impressions of the curriculum by leading people throughout Canada were read by Jerry Chute, Beverley Mayo and Marilyn Isles. Others who read comments from various points in Canada were Miss June Schmidt, Mr. C. Somers, Mr. Wright and Mrs. Cook. One observation expressed by each was that time would be needed by each teacher in preparation and that each teacher would have to have a clear idea of his or her own beliefs and faith before he or she could tell others.

The meeting presided over by Rev. Mr. Asaph was closed with the benediction by Mr. Withers.

Named On House Committees

Names of the members to serve on Nova Scotia House of Assembly committees were reported to this week's session by Attorney General R. A. Donahoe.

The four opposition Liberal Party members will have to divide their time among the eleven committees with opposition on all committees.

Robert Baden Powell, M.L.A. Electoral District of Digby, will serve on the Education Committee and Dr. H. J. Pothier, of Weymouth, M.L.A. for Clave, will serve on the Humane Committee and on the Lands and Forests Committee.

Echo II, Not Rocket

The report last week of Mrs. P. H. H. Gray, Brighton, seeing the U.S.A. rocket was a misinterpretation. As Mrs. Gray later said, "No one could see that with the naked eye" and Mrs. Gray was not using instruments when she saw the satellite. The object of her vision was Echo II and three others with her saw the Echo also. The aluminum satellite was visible only at dawn or dusk while orbiting the earth.

Many Digby Social Activities

Bridge has been foremost in Digby's social activities for the past few weeks. On Tuesday of last week Mrs. J. W. Christie, Montague Row, entertained two tables of dessert bridge when high score captured the prize for Mrs. Mary Robert. Travelling prize went to Mrs. Raymond Lent and low to Mrs. Ralph Berwick.

On Wednesday night Mrs. Christie entertained three tables with prizes won by Mrs. Sidney Smith, high; Mrs. Russell Harris, 2nd and travelling both; Mrs. J. M. Wallis, consolation.

The home of Mrs. Florence Purves, Queen St., was the scene of a delightful luncheon bridge when Mrs. Purves and Mrs. E. H. Anderson entertained. Honors for the afternoon went to Mrs. E. J. Theriault, high; Mrs. Leigh Jayne, 2nd; Mrs. Donald Logan Luckey, and Mrs. France Daley, low.

On Saturday evening Mrs. Purves and Mrs. Anderson again entertained at a dinner bridge when Mrs. Grace Hicks took high scores. Miss Dora Warne, second and Mrs. L. F. Dolron, low. Mrs. Eva Wendell won the lucky prize.

Investigate Lay Off Story

At a regular meeting of the Digby Board of Trade on Tuesday evening it was decided to investigate further the rumor that sixty-two civilians are to be laid off at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis at the end of March. Should the rumor be correct, it was felt by the Board members that a protest should be sent to the Department of National Defence.

President Charles Haliburton announced that the Industrial Development Committee of the Digby County Resources Development Committee would be holding a combined meeting on Monday night, February 17, with area Boards of Trade (including Annapolis Royal). Subject for discussion is to be a bridge or causeway across Bear River at a location near to the present Victoria Bridge.

It was felt that this matter should be considered now and views on the subject be made known before too late. The Board was invited to attend. (The remainder of Tuesday's meeting dealt with Digby store hours found elsewhere in this issue).

To Present Program

An evening's program, scheduled for the Digby regional high school on February 27th, has been planned by the Digby Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

A highlight of the program which will get underway at eight o'clock will be entertainment by members of the Student's Council of the Digby regional high school.

Another feature of the program will be a panel discussion on the need and functions of a mental health association in the community. Films on family and community life will also be shown.

The association executive, which met at the home of the president Victor Cardozo, expressed the hope there would be a large turnout at the February 27th program. There is no admission charge.

It was stated at the meeting there is an urgent need to involve more people in the work of the mental health association and to make people in the area better acquainted with the job which such an association can do in the community.

Theatre Going Days Not Over

Just bring on a good picture — a picture which appeals to the majority of people — and be assured that theatre-going days are not really over. With the advent of T.V. some years ago, it was felt that the theatre was doomed. In fact, more than one movie house closed its doors.

The show "Hootenanny Hoot", shown at the Capitol Theatre, Digby, for three days last week, had overflowing crowds for each show. Patrons could not be accommodated and had to be turned away. Wilbur VanTassel, manager of the theatre, said that the house could have easily been filled on a fourth day showing.

St. John Ambulance Campaign

Reginald Turnbull, of the Digby Fire Department, along with his team of four, will endeavour to raise $200 from February 17 to February 23 in the town of Digby for the St. John Ambulance. Others on the committee with Mr. Turnbull are Joseph Hattie, Joseph Doucet, Robert Handspeker and Randall (Buddy) Barr.

The St. John Ambulance is a voluntary organization concerned with the care of the sick and injured and the relief of distress and suffering. It gives courses of instruction in First Aid and Home Nursing and related subjects. The Home Nursing Course prepares for caring of one's own family or voluntary service and is valuable for both men and women. The First Aid Course shows the practical side of first aid work.

School Board Appointment

Mrs. Helen Anthony, formerly Deputy Mayor of Digby, will complete the term of James R. Ayer on the Town of Digby School Board, it was announced in the list of provincial government appointments throughout Nova Scotia this week. Mr. Ayer and family will be moving to Fredricton, N. B., within the next few weeks. His term on the School Board would expire January 1, 1965.

Digby Curlers Second Place

Digby schoolboy curlers were defeated 7-6 by the Amherst rink Saturday and as a result lost the annual provincial headmasters high school curling championship and the right to represent Nova Scotia in the Canadian high school championships in Regina next week. Play took place at Wolfville.

The Digby rink, composed of Keith Hawkins, skip, Doug Miller, mate, Frank Ayer, second, and Harold Denton, lead, gave an excellent performance, ending in second place with 5 wins and 2 losses. The Amherst group closed with 6 wins and 1 loss.

Start Nursery

A nursery for children whose parents want to attend morning worship at Grace United Church has been started.

Instigator of the service was Mrs. John Ritcey, who has been on hand for the past several weeks to attend to the little ones deposited to her care during the hour-long worship. Play pens have been provided and different parents take charge of the children each week while other parents go to church. Five children were at the nursery one Sunday recently.

This is the first time such accommodation for parents has been provided at Grace United.

On School Advisory Board

Rev. Dr. Harvey L. Denton, Little River, was appointed to the Nova Scotia Boys' School Advisory Board, it was announced last week in the list of annual provincial appointments throughout Nova Scotia. Others on the Board, whose terms expire January 1, 1967, are George A. Cox, Shelburne, and Elmer L. Stuart, Lockeport.

In Division No. 6, Digby County, Mrs. Bertha Ruggles, Tiverton, was appointed Registrar of Births and Deaths, replacing Mrs. Georgina Out-house.

Harold Surette, Eel Brook, was appointed to the Board of Visitors for the Argyle Municipal Home, term expiring January 1, 1967.

About This and That

Tourist Director Or Not?

Municipal Councils, Town Councils, Boards of Trade and possibly other organizations have been sent circular letters by the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade getting the feeling towards obtaining the services of a tourist director for the Valley area. Suggested allocations were also mentioned in each case. So far as we know each body in the immediate area here put off decision for further information or to see what action other organizations had taken.

At this point we are not suggesting what action the organizations or municipal bodies should take but we do feel that it might be wise to study statistics from Cape Breton. We noted in the Hon. E. A. Manson's release on tourist traffic for 1963, which we carried in this newspaper last week, that Canadian, United States and foreign cars were increased in Cape Breton by 11,303 over the year 1962. Cape Breton has a tourist director. Any significance? Might be worth investigating.

Incidentally, the tourist cars which entered the province through Digby in 1963 numbered 5,666. The Princess of Acadia is capable of carrying almost twice that many through the months of July and August when giving one trip a day service. With two trips a day, which we have reason to believe will be run, many more cars could be accommodated in the 1964 season. We understand the 1963 figure was a substantial increase over 1962.

Who Is My Brother?

(Brotherhood Week Feb. 16 - 23)

If one asks the question, "Who Is My Brother?" it is not difficult to provide an answer. It can be summed up in two words: all men.

There are no inferior human beings. Opportunity differs. National culture differs. Religion differs. Color differs. The state of civilization differs. Political outlook differs. But men are the same. That is, they share the same humanity.

Given the same opportunities, they can all rise to the same heights. Achievement, personality, and ability differ not according to accidents of race or environment, but according to inner qualities of character.

Take a look at the armed services. There a common task makes the men and women who serve one in purpose. No difference of language, race or religion enters into this. They share much together, while preserving their individual identities without interference. In our alliances, the same submerging of individual differences is seen, as people work in the common cause of defence. And there they treat each other as men and women, fellow service-people, and the question of color of skin, or racial background, or religious outlook, does not enter.

Brotherhood is not talk. It is practice. A man is brother to those whom he treats with human kindness and love, whether they are black, white, yellow, Protestant, Catholic, French, English, or what have you. All other brotherhood is sham. Nor can you force brotherhood on people by legislation. It is a thing of the heart. It springs out of those who have learned that God made men, not nationalities or races.

Congratulations DRHS Curlers

Missing out only by one point to capture the provincial Headmasters high school curling championship is a feat worthy of note. Such was the place of the Digby Regional High School Curlers at the curling meet in Wolfville on Friday and Saturday. Sure, we would have been more excited to have seen them champions but to lose by such a small margin does not necessarily prove them less efficient with the stone. Other factors besides efficiency often enter the picture.

To win such a high place in the bonspiel deserves our commendation.

Electrical Week

February 9-15 marks the electrical industry's annual observance of National Electrical Week — a time when the industry focuses its attention on electricity's contributions to our way of life. National Electrical Week is held each year during the week of Thomas A. Edison's birthday. It was he who gave birth to the industry and Digby is proud of its connection with the famous name.

The theme of National Electrical Week is "Electricity Powers Progress". And if you doubt that statement, you have simply to look around you — on your job, in your home, on farms and in communities throughout the country. Everywhere you turn, electricity is at work producing more and better things that make your life easier and more productive.

Let's take a look at what electricity does for Canada — on the job.

Today, more than 90 per cent of our machinery is powered by electrical energy. At the turn of the century, industrial plants were powered by steam, water wheels and muscle power of the workers. Electrical horsepower gives the average Canadian factory worker today the equal of 456 husky electrical helpers, almost twice as many as only 10 years ago. In our country, electricity and electronics are everywhere in industry.

In today's home, the housewife never had it so good. Compared to the homemaker of the early 1900's, today's housewife is way ahead in being able to keep a cleaner, more comfortable home, without breaking her back and her spirit in the process.

Electricity is so commonplace that we simply take it for granted around the house. Electricity cooks our food, washes and dries our clothes, entertains us with T.V., radio and phonograph music, polishes the floor, vacuums the rugs, heats our blankets, disposes of the garbage, keeps us on time, dries m'lady's hair, warms baby's bottle, opens the cans, irons the clothes, and even brushes our teeth automatically.

Our nation's farms have been revolutionized by electricity. Starting with electric lights, farmers have found new uses for electric power until almost everything on a modern farm today operates by electricity.

In our communities, electricity works 'round the clock to provide better things. Educational television enables teachers to extend their reach and make more effective use of their time. Advanced x-ray equipment aids in medical diagnosis in many hospitals, and other electrical products — from new communications systems and closed-circuit television to more efficient kitchen facilities — are helping physicians and hospitals provide better care for their patients.

The future looks even more promising. Electricity creates an atmosphere of progress which in turn produces progress. From research will come new industries, new products, new jobs and new services. There will be whole new vistas in medicine and science and manufacturing. It is electricity that runs the machines that produce the food and make the products that create the jobs and high standard of living which Canadians enjoy. Electricity has the responsibility to continue to improve, refine, and discover new ways to use this tremendous form of energy for the benefit of Canada and the world. To this end, the electrical industry will continue to devote its time, money and talent.

Lose His Cat Call

Jack Brayley, Neighbourly News Commentator, is going to lose that wierd cat-call on his Sunday morning broadcast when he reads this switch — save the wildcats. We have a reader who is quite perturbed about the slaughter of the wildcats. Not only is her indignation aroused by the killing of the wildcats but also by the killing of bears. Her wrath was most pronounced at the time she heard of someone killing a mother bear and her little cubs.

We couldn't persuade our reader to write a "Letter to the Editor" on her views but she expressed them verbally, at least. Maybe others will write the letters. But how we'll miss that cat-call of Jack's if we get the wildcat protection switch.

IN OBSERVANCE OF NATIONAL ELECTRICAL WEEK FEBRUARY 9 - 15

Thomas A. Edison

In tribute to Thomas A. Edison, whose family were at one time residents of Digby, and other pioneers whose inventive genius launched the electrical era three-quarters of a century ago:

Do You Remember When?

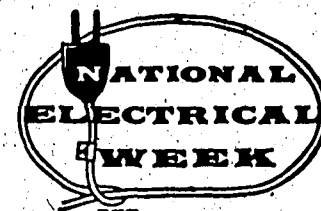

We used the frost-laden pump in the back yard? Mother used the old scrub board and tub? We had lopsided cakes baked in the old wood stove? Grandma read the Bible with a magnifying glass by the flickering light of the smokey oil lamp? The laundry froze on the clothes line? The milk and butter were kept cool in the well? Fresh fruit and vegetables were hardly available in the winter and meats spoiled in the heat of the summer?

Would You Like To Go Back?

Surely we would like to go back to those days . . . but only to reminisce. There were many happy times and pleasant thoughts but gradually each phase of this past was improved by modern inventions and the applied use of electrical energy. Electrical power has done more than any single development to improve our ways of living and complacency still has no place in electrical progress and engineers are still discovering and developing even greater things for us, all.

Don't You Agree?

That National Electrical Week is therefore worthy of recognition? That National Electrical Week is a proper tribute to Thomas A. Edison who opened the doors to our modern electric living that we enjoy today? Then let us wholeheartedly salute the pioneers in electricity who have done so much for humanity!

Newspaper Dating Back To 1879

Newspapers have been handed to The Digby Courier for review which date back to 1877. None of the papers were directly concerned with Digby but they all had some items of interest from readers from Digby and bits of news which the readers of The Digby Courier would enjoy.

Two of these papers, The St. John Weekly, Sunday, May 3, 1893, (no objection then to the abbreviated St. for Saint) and The Daily Telegraph of Saint John, August 8, 1896, were given to The Courier by A. J. Harrison, Smith's Cove. More than twenty were handed to The Courier by Kenneth Harris, Digby. These date from January 27, 1877 to June 30, 1888. The 1888 number was that of the Annapolis Spectator (Emergency number), giving a story re the fire at Annapolis as taken from the Halifax Evening Mail and related by W. E. I. Hennessey, who happened to be in Annapolis at the time of the fire. There was also the March 16, 1888, edition of the Annapolis Spectator and the others were the "Weekly Home and Abroad Journal" published at Annapolis by Wm. H. Banks. Mr. Banks was also publisher of the Annapolis Spectator at the time of the above mentioned editions of that paper. The names as subscribers on the Annapolis papers were Capt. J. E. Slocumb, Port George; and Capt. R. Weaver. The St. John Weekly Sun had been addressed to Clar Harrison, Mac-dan Station, N.S.

One thing which impressed us by The Daily Telegraph was its tremendous size. It was a 9 column paper (twenty-one and half inches in width) by thirty-five inches in length. The Annapolis Spectator of 1888 was not much smaller, being nine columns (twenty-one inches) by twenty-six inches. Others were six columns and eight columns by twenty-two or twenty-four inches with the Emergency number only nine by thirteen and half and four pages.

In the May 15, 1880, issue of the Annapolis Journal is this item of special interest to the Anglican congregation in Digby — Mrs. W. H. Moody, of Yarmouth has presented Trinity Church, Digby, with a handsome Eagle Lectern. The bird is carved out of a solid block of oak and stands on a calyx — its outspread wings sustaining a frame sufficient for the support of a large Bible the frame being made capable of being raised or depressed, to suit the reader. The whole stands on a pedestal of black walnut handsomely ornamented with emblems of the Crucifixion and the Trinity, picked out in gilt. At the base is the following inscription: "In memoriam H. Stewart, May 15, 1797, July 1, 1867, S. E. Moody, Done Dedit."

Another item of interest to our Bear River readers in particular was that in 1880, six and a half tons of cherries were shipped out of Bear River and vicinity by rail and some 15 to 20 tons shipped by the steamer Empress. (Copied from Digby Courier).

We would not want our readers to feel our Springs are getting later. April 27, 1893, saw the worst snow storm of the year, with telephone lines disrupted, as reported in the St. John Weekly Sun. Nor are we exceptional when we report Mayflowers and pansies in January. The Annapolis papers of 1880 reported Mayflowers in January.

Another bit of news in the papers of today concerns burglaries. They might be more brutal and some "smack" more of sheer vandalism today but burglaries were common in the 1880's too. In the July 31st issue Annapolis Journal are listed a shop breaking and entering in Kentville station house at Middleton (probably the same gang operating at Lawrencetown), store of John L. Moore, Clarence; store of M. T. R. Illsley. The Monitor from which one item was taken said there was too much of this sort of thing and the offenders should be punished.

Both Saint John papers and the Annapolis papers carried on the practice of listing guests at all the hotels. All the papers contained much filler material and little localized news. Few included prices in the advertisements but the Saint John papers had such items as a parlor suite $20.00; beef, 5, 6 and 7 cents per lb.; lamb 5 1/2 to 6 1/2 cents; chickens 40 to 70 cents a pair; cabbage, 40 to 50 cents a dozen; corn 10 to 15 cents a dozen; raspberries, 85 cents a pail; cucumbers, 40 cents a dozen; flannellette, 6 cents a yard.

Appealing Valentines

There is something about a Valentine that appeals to both the young in years and the young in heart.

As I stand with the children outside the store windows, admiring the Valentines that cluster there like clouds of gay butterflies, an irresistible impulse moves me to enter, to hang over the counter and buy dozens and dozens of the lovely things. I want to send you one and you and you!

We may smile at such sentiment and pride ourselves on having dispersed with all the foolish, fanciful trimmings of life, yet even in the most practical heart, you will find there lies a tender seed of romance. The Valentines of our childhood, are they not precious in our memory: "Roses red and violets blue, sugar's sweet and so are you!" Through the magic of that old rhyme I am wadded back to childhood and a little country schoolhouse. Such whispered secrets! Such sly thrusting of missives into desks! Long years are in between, yet today that breathless thrill comes back to me.

Imagination is a marvelous thing, triumphant over time, place and circumstance. As we grow older, in the rush of living, we are apt to lose our dreams and the faith and imagination that filled our childish hearts. Never let them go! Clasp them close! They give to life a glowing warmth that shines through care and sorrow like a rainbow.

Romance may not be practical for a daily diet, but on Valentine's Day let's make a meal of it! Buy Valentines and feel the joy of a child in your heart. There's something about a Valentine!

Fisheries Sector Deals With Problems

The importance of conservation, research and development were emphasized Monday at the first meeting of the Fisheries Sector committee of the province's Voluntary Planning program, in Halifax.

The Fisheries Sector was divided into five segments, fresh and frozen fish, lobsters, salt and pickled fish, vessel owners and operators, and fish by-products.

The fresh and frozen fish segment report stressed the problems of manpower; conservation; research and development; facilities and marketing and contained a summary of recommendations for each of these categories. These recommendations included a training program in personnel supervision, substantial expansion of scientific and development work, and increased programs in the fields of advertising, product research and consumer services at both levels of government.

G. I. Smith, Minister of Finance and Economics for Nova Scotia, addressed the group on the aims and basic fundamentals of VEP and the role of the sector committee in the program. Mr. Smith stressed the voluntary nature of the program stating that, "VEP grew out of the realization that we are living in a difficult, if not the most dynamic and challenging period in our history. In order to cope with the extreme changes around us VEP is a necessity but in the final analysis the success of the program depends entirely upon the voluntary co-operative efforts of Nova Scotians throughout the entirety of the economy."

A report on Federal-Provincial responsibilities regarding fisheries and the Federal Provincial Fisheries Conference held recently in Ottawa was given by Brian Meagher, Director of Fisheries. Mr. Meagher pointed out that the Fisheries Division has two main functions with respect to fisheries: to maintain liaison with the many federal government agencies whose operations concern or affect the local fisheries and to exercise its own initiative to promote modernization and development of the industry. Mr. Meagher provided the meeting with a summary of the services offered to the fisheries industry by his Division.

Among the problems dealt with under the salt and pickled segment report were those related to the skill and wages of the labor force; raw materials and federal government regulations and taxes. As a means of overcoming these problems the segment report contained recommendations to increase production, increase markets and improve operating margins. The Fisheries Sector committee will meet again on March 3 to consider and discuss the remaining three segment reports.

repairs to the interior of the church. Contributions were made to the church allotment to Presbytery, for expenses in regard to upkeep of the manse, also to the Good Cheer fund for "Shut-Ins" and various other funds in connection with church work.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

WHAT ABOUT Boy Who 'Likes' Two Girls?

he likes her and does not like me. Should I forget this boy since he calls this other girl and tells her the same thing he tells me or what should I do? I like him very much."

OUR REPLY: If you like the boy very much, you don't want to "forget about him" just because he calls another girl on the telephone — or because he likes another girl too. Don't be too concerned about this other girl trying to get his attention while he is with you — unless he should happen to give her his attention while he is with you. Should this happen, you should, in a nice and polite way, inform him that boys who take you out and then give their attention to someone else don't take you out very often. You can say this sincerely — and he will respect you for it.

By the same token, if you know this boy is using the same "line" more than once, then politely tell him that you doubt his sincerity. Be sure, however, that you have the facts in hand and are positive that he is telling the other girl the same things he tells you. The mere fact "somebody" said it is so.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

Brotherhood Week

I would consider it a privilege, to act as Honorary Chairman for Nova Scotia of Brotherhood Week, sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

The world has known great conflict and most of it has resulted from misunderstanding, prejudice, and intolerance. These things have created distrust and fear among nations and have separated individuals, even in our free society. If we are to have peace, we must first of all as individuals be prepared to accept our differences and work together in a common effort to create a world in which all men can be truly free. The foundation for peace and understanding must be built firmly on our individual acceptance of the fact that all men are brothers whatever may be their race, nationality, religion, or creed.

I believe that we have made progress in removing fear and distrust and that working together we can remove from our individual lives and from the life of the nation all those things which separated us in the past.

I hope and trust that the observance of Brotherhood Week will bring us closer together.

Yours very truly,
R. L. Stanfield.

Every Pound of Tablerite Meat is a Pound of Eating Pleasure

Letters to the Editor

Feb. 3, 1964.
To The Editor:
Madame —
Regarding a letter of February 1 in Halifax Chronicle Herald by R. K. Johnston, I would like to answer same, as such.
Man's never ending concern is with morality, integrity, and purpose. Regardless of the difference between us in creed and dogma, we all believe that man is endowed by a Divine Creator with an innate desire and conscious purpose to improve both his world and himself. Under our present system the diffusion of governmental power and functions is one of the greatest safeguards against tyranny man has yet devised. For this reason it is extremely important in our case to keep our township, city, county and governments from being bribed and coerced into coming under one direct chain of control, of which could take place by pacification of separatists, by Communists' doctrine, by dictatorial ambition (ambuscade) of which would be enviable if the day came when we felt allegiance to the crown was outmoded. God Save The Queen.

all fields, but it is impossible for one individual to cope with wisdom in all the types of farming. So this reorganization and deployment of personnel will bring better service and advice to the farmers of the entire province. Greater specialization of farming is also recognized by the Department of Agriculture in the revised and expanded courses of instruction at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College.

Camp Sites — National Parks:

The establishment of the Second National Park and its location in Western Nova Scotia will open one of the finest areas of the province for tourist use. There is no doubt but it will become one of the most patronized parks in Eastern Canada. An improved and increased ferry service between Western Nova Scotia and New England would add much to the accessibility to this park by the citizens of New England.

My constituency is pleased that a new picnic park will be established on Savary's Point on the shores of St. Mary's Bay. This is an ideal location and will give an opportunity for those who enjoy a day's outing in a combined woods and seashore location. It will also serve to perpetuate the name of Judge A. W. Savary, historian, early member of the local Legislature and member of the first Parliament at Ottawa.

I am pleased to learn that an office will be established in Montreal to promote tourism and business in our Province. I can readily see how this move will increase traffic on the "Princess Acadia" and, from Digby, fan out into Western Nova Scotia to the advantage of the establishments catering to the tourist trade. The success of this office, I believe, will be of great benefit to my constituency.

Power Commission:

I note with pleasure that the Nova Scotia Power Commission proposes a major capital program for the more effective integration of the electrical system of Cape Breton and Western Nova Scotia with the existing high voltage of the inter-provincial grid. This, I believe, will indeed be received favorably by all users of electric power. Although, in our section of the province, we are at present receiving excellent service from the Digby County Power Board, which draws its supply from the Commission plants on the Sissiboo and the Bear Rivers, it could well be, in the future, that this supply at peak loads may find it difficult to meet the demands of Western Nova Scotia.

Highways:

I note that it is the intention of the Department of Highways to place heavy emphasis upon repaving of old pavement. My constituency is pleased that this intention has already taken tangible form with tenders, even now received, for repaving of No. 1 Highway from the Town of Annapolis Royal to the Town of Digby.

It is also with great interest that I note the intention to replace inadequate bridges. This gives me great pleasure as the main approach into my constituency on No. 1 Highway is across Victoria Bridge, which spans Bear River and the exit is across the Weymouth Bridge, which spans Sissiboo River. Both of these structures, I am certain, come under the definition — inadequate bridges.

The new approach and bridge at Kinney Brook, last year, have eliminated a dangerous curve and a single-lane bridge. When this half-mile is paved, it will be a major improvement on No. 1 Highway in Digby County. This will contribute a great deal to the safety and the pleasure of the motorist in our area. I appreciate the consideration the Department of Highways has given to Digby County roads. The progress of the program for these roads is noticeable in most areas of my constituency. Some have been rebuilt and paved and there are, at present, about twenty-four miles rebuilt and ready for paving. There are considerable improvements to be completed, but the work accomplished in the constituency is outstanding.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1964

The Highways winter maintenance in Digby constituency is second to none in efficiency, and receives many favorable comments, which, unfortunately, do not often reach the Department of Highways and it is my pleasure to assure the Minister of Highways that in my county his Department is functioning efficiently and I trust that he will convey this public appreciation to his staff. I feel certain that the Highways Department, in its progressive policy, will continue studies of the Petite Passage problem. The improved financial situation on the Islands and the centering of the fishing fleet off these islands, using them as a base in the summer season, has placed a strain on the present transportation system at Petite Passage.

Fisheries:

I am certain that the proposed establishment of a Department of Fisheries will be received with acclaim by the fishing areas of the Province. This new department, when established, with a Minister, Deputy Minister, and a specialized staff, will place this industry on the level which it deserves in Provincial affairs. Co-ordinated with the Federal Department, much benefit will be derived by those who engage in this occupation.

The survey of fishing resources initiated by the Provincial Division of Fisheries, and later shared in by the Federal Department, has borne fruit and disclosed new scallop beds at the entrance of the Bay of Fundy. These have been profitably worked in 1963 by scallop draggers of Western Nova Scotia. In view of this fine result, I am certain that the fishermen of the Bay of Fundy and St. Mary's Bay, hope and expect that the Federal Department will continue to share in an expanded survey program as it was urged to do at the recent conference on Fisheries.

The successful continuation of this program can be of real benefit to the fishermen of Western Nova Scotia by further successfully locating profitable fishing areas not previously productive.

The fishing industry in my constituency is located in the Town of Digby, Digby Neck and the Islands. Here the loans advanced by the Provincial agencies and other progressive policies to the fishing industry, have been used to advantage by a number of ambitious men in this district. Their efforts have resulted in solving, in large measure, the unemployment problem in that particular section.

It is hoped by many in Digby that many in Digby by Constituency that more fishery training courses are held in the area. These classes help move some of the unskilled labour into the expanding fishing industry and also increases the efficiency of those already in the occupation.

Health & Welfare:

I am pleased that arrangements have been completed for a survey and study of Children's Aid Societies and Child Care Institutions and of the other measures to be considered during this session, of the physical surroundings of the less fortunate children of our society.

The increase in payments to recipients of Old Age Assistance, Blind Persons Allowances and Disabled Persons Allowances give me a sense of satisfaction with the present administration. I feel it is an obligation of society, during a period of financial expansion, to assist those, who through no fault of their own, are unable to receive financial gain from that expansion.

It is gratifying to find, in the Speech from the Throne, that the present administration is keenly concerned with those suffering from mental disorders. The continued expansion of Community Mental Health Centers, the provision of drugs to outpatients and

Recently Married

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Morris Webber are shown following their wedding in Beth Israel Synagogue, Oxford Street, Halifax. The bride is Tanya Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rappaport, of Halifax, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Webber, of Digby. The couple will reside in Halifax.

The marriage of Tanya Pearl Rappaport to Wayne Morris Webber was solemnized in Beth Israel Synagogue, Oxford Street, Rabbi J. Deltcher, assisted by Rev. A. Greespan, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rappaport of Halifax and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Webber, of Digby.

The altar was decorated with yellow carnations on a background of greenery and two standards of yellow chrysanthemums. Mary Dee Givir was organist and the soloist was Herman Saltzberg. The bride wore a floor length white silk gown, fashioned with long sleeves and round neckline. Lace appliques trimmed the yoke and was repeated on the border of the front panel. Her four tiered hand-rolled veil was held in place by a crown of pearls and she carried a white satin covered Bible topped with white orchids.

Miss Margo Webber, sister of the bridegroom was maid of honor. She wore a pink satin faced organza gown with scooped neckline, soft controlled skirt chapel train matching accessories and she carried a bouquet of pink baby mums. Matron of honor Mrs. Fred Ross wore an empire gown of blue with gold embossed pattern and she carried a bouquet of blue baby mums.

Gary Rappaport, brother of the bride was best man and the ushers were Jerrold Blumenthal, Fred Ross, Tommy Webber and Eric Stern. Junior ushers were Edward Levick and Steven Rappaport. The bride's mother chose a ice mint peau de sole sheath, matching head dress and her corsage was of yellow roses. Mrs. Webber, mother of the groom was attired in a blue veiled silk organza gown appliqued with beaded pearls. Her corsage was of blue stephenotis.

At a reception in the Synagogue, Gary Rappaport proposed the toast to the bride, and the parents of the bride and bridegroom received the guests.

Later the couple left on a wedding trip to Toronto and Montreal. The bride travelling in a two piece pale yellow double knit suit, trimmed with suede; matching accessories and she wore a white orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Webber will reside in Halifax.

Guests attending from Digby were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rosenthal; Mr. and Mrs. DeMille Raymond; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Woolaver and daughter Julie; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Van Tassel and daughter Sheila; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Woodman; Mr. Reginald Walker; Mr. Charles Halliburton; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Levy; Miss Ann Keith; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Richards formerly of Digby also attended.

The previously mentioned welfare measures assure me that the present Government, though committed to an economic expansion program, still retains humanitarian attributes, so often elbowed aside in the haste for material progress.

Never, in the history of our province, have we had such a period of hospital construction as we have had during the past year. In Digby, a modern hospital is now undergoing interior completion. This institution, when opened for patients, will serve a large area of Western Nova Scotia. Without the co-operation and financial assistance of the Provincial Government, it is doubtful if this institution would have gone beyond the planning stage.

Mr. Speaker, fifty years ago my constituency was prosperous. Ships were built on the shores and then used to carry products to New England and to the West Indies. Fish, lumber, cordwood and farm products were exported, which brought the funds necessary from outside the area to make a healthy financial situation. After World War 1, this activity diminished and left an economic vacuum. Many of our promising young citizens moved to other provinces and to the United States. The remainder continued to wrest a living from marginal farms, or eke a living from a deflated fishing industry.

Now, the atmosphere of growth, sponsored by the present, Provincial Government, has caused a stir in my Constituency. Without the recent economic advances in other parts of the province, we would still endure the economic vacuum. But the awakening of provincial ambition has reached us, and we are anxious to keep pace with the rest of Nova Scotia in its progress to a better and a fuller way of life.

Our fishing industry is the first to feel the upsurge and is in a healthy stage of growth. Groups of citizens are carrying out studies to ascertain how other areas in the district can partake in this provincial economic progress. I am pleased that the Departments of this Government are co-operating when requested.

Mr. Speaker, it gives me great pleasure to second the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne.

72 Years Of Service

St. John's Ambulance has a record of 72 years of service in Nova Scotia. Its first branch was established on St. John's Day - June 24, 1892 - at a meeting held in Government House under the patronage of the Lieutenant Governor, Sir Malachi Daly, with General Sir John Ross presiding.

The organization now has three branch offices in Nova Scotia - Halifax, Cape Breton and Pictou. The campaign with an objective of $25,000 opens Feb. 14th. St. John's Ambulance lectures and demonstrations will be given on the Anne Hal-

Mayor Supports Dollar Day

What can a dollar buy? To find out, shop at the stores in Digby Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

With the co-operation of the merchants of the town of Digby: It has been possible to offer the public wonderful buys on goods for the price of one dollar.

It has been said that today a dollar does not go very far in purchasing goods. The customer who shall take advantage of the dollar bargains offered to you by the merchants of Digby Thursday, Friday and Saturday shall find that the dollar shall go a long ways, even as far as the customer who comes to take advantage of dollar day values at Digby.

Many stores are participating in this special offer. There shall be a large variety of selections and an opportunity for a shopper to save by buying now for future needs. There is no other shopping centre that can offer any better buys for the dollar on these special items to be offered to you.

As Mayor of Digby I extend a hearty welcome to the out of town shoppers. A dollar saved on purchasing goods is equal to a dollar earned. Come buy and go home pleased with your days purchases.

World Day Of Prayer

Prayer is friendship, fellowship and action was the message of a meditation led by Mrs. Raymond Lent at the World Day of Prayer service held at the Trinity Anglican Church of Canada, Digby, Others with Mrs. Lent who led the service with the theme "Let Us Pray" were Mrs. Hugh Vincent and Mrs. Alfred Marshall of the Digby Baptist Church and Mrs. C. C. McInnes and Mrs. John Russell of Grace United Church.

Others who took part in the Digby service were Mrs. R. H. Hughes, United; Mrs. Roy Robinson and Mrs. Quentin Wenaus, Anglican; Mrs. H. B. Hartlin, Baptist; Mrs. H. B. Ricker and Mrs. Hubert Marshall, Reformed Baptist.

Mrs. Gerald Wilson was soloist and the offering was received by Mrs. Sidney Hall and Mrs. Digby Baxter.

At Smith's Cove the World Day of Prayer service was held in the United Church of Canada. Miss Sue Winchester conducted the service and Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Digby was guest speaker. Prayer should not be a substitute for action, Mrs. Wallis said, but action complements prayer and prayer action. Prayer, she said, gives strength to all things pleasing to God. Prayer must be God centred and sincere with the elements of trust and faith. It is communion. Prayer for spiritual needs opens the avenue for all needs.

Others who took part in the service at Smith's Cove were Mrs. Charles Kaulback, Mrs. Russell Savary, Miss Blanche Hicks, Mrs. John Wightman, Mrs. A. Ettinger, Mrs. Roger Freeman, Mrs. Aven Sanford, Miss Blanche Woodman, Mrs. George Winchester, Mrs. William Berry, Miss Hazel Smith, Mrs. Gordon Landers, Mrs. Vera Langman and Mrs. Alexander MacLean.

Aid Annapolis Fire Fighting

Digby firemen joined Lawrence, Bridgetown and H.M.C.S. Cornwallis to help the Annapolis firemen to fight a fire at Annapolis Royal on Monday night. Monday's fire was the second time in two days that Annapolis Royal buildings were razed by fire to an estimated amount of $74,000.

The first fire raged through the old arena on Sunday, razing it to the ground, and then spread to an adjoining apartment home, leaving ten people homeless. Damage to the rink and house is estimated at $26,000. It is possible that the rink might be rebuilt.

On Monday another fire destroyed a hardware store and gutted an adjoining hairdressing salon and tenement house. On both occasions the fires spread to other buildings which were endangered due to high winds fanning the flames.

One of the buildings destroyed housed the hardware store of A. W. Banks and owned by Ernest Atkinson. Mr. Atkinson is married to the former Elizabeth Bailey, daughter of the late A. R. Sulis and Mrs. Sulis of Smith's Cove. Mr. Atkinson estimates loss of stock to be $10,000.

Snow Avalanche Buries Child

What could have been a tragedy happened Monday morning outside the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Porter, Bear River, when six years old Lyle Harris was buried by an avalanche of snow. The child was completely covered with snow for ten minutes, it was estimated.

Lyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allister Harris, and Nola, daughter of Dr. D. S. Brennan, Bear River, were playing outside the Porter home with the Porter children, Martin 7, and Brent 5. All had been home from school because of the weekend storm which tied up traffic.

Lyle was playing at the corner of the house where a large amount of snow overhanging on a high bank came tumbling down on the child who was already in deep snow. All this happened unknown to the playmates but Mrs. Porter happened to look from the window to see the child buried in snow. She came to the door to ask where Lyle had gone. When Mrs. Porter went outside she heard muffled cries in the direction of the slide and immediately tried to reach the trapped boy. She realized that she needed help because of the depth of snow so phoned the telephone operator. The operator phoned the Fire Hall where firemen had gathered due to road conditions. In the meantime Jeffrey Boudreau happened along and responded to Mrs. Porter's call for help by digging with his bare hands. Assisted by the Porter boys, soon Lyle's head was cleared of snow and shortly he was taken from his terrifying experience to the Porter home.

The quick action of Mrs. Porter, Mr. Boudreau, the telephone operators and the concern of the children worked for the rescue of Lyle. All ready the telephone operators had alerted Dr. Brennan to the incident in case he were needed.

The near tragedy serves as a warning to other children to beware of overhanging snow from hill or building.

Semi-finals Tomorrow

The last two weeks of play saw the wind-up of the regular schedule of the St. Patrick's hockey league, with the semi-finals beginning tomorrow. First place St. Pat's will square off against the third place Christophers, while second place St. Theresa's will tackle St. Joseph's, who finished last.

Last Friday saw St. Theresa's and the Christophers battle to a 4-4 tie in exhibition play, while the St. Pats finished off the league schedule by coming out on top 12-5 over Weymouth, to finish in first place. The week before, St. Pats had beaten Marshalltown

This team represented Digby recently in the Headmaster's Curling Bopspiel at Wolfville, N. S., losing out in the final game to Amherst by one point. Had the boys won this game against Amherst they would have been entitled to represent Nova Scotia at the Dominion play-offs held later this month in Regina, Sask. When school began Monday morning (February 10) the entire student body assembled in the auditorium to congratulate the boys on their fine showing at the bopspiel and their very near victory. (Denton photo)

Storm Did Not Delay "Acadia"

The weekend storm did not prevent the Princess of Acadia from making her regular trip on Monday. During last week the Acadia was delayed on two occasions in her Bay of Fundy crossing, both proving that Digby is badly in need of better wharfing facilities if it is to continue to be known the world over as a shipping port.

The Princess of Acadia sailed from Saint John for Digby three hours behind schedule Thursday after assurance that its turning basin at Digby would be clear by the time it arrived.

Sailing of the Acadia was postponed after the captain of a Finnish ship loading pulp refused to move the vessel from the spur pier where it was preventing the Acadia's turning.

The Bay of Fundy ferry left Saint John at 2:05 o'clock on Thursday afternoon. She regularly sails at 11 a.m.

K. P. Perry, C.P.R. Superintendent, said he received a telegram from Digby Harbourmaster Hedley Dakin giving assurance that the Finnish ship Walsand would be out of the way by 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Dakin said the skipper of the Finnish vessel, Capt. Alf Haggblad, feared damage to his ship if he moved her. He said the ship was six feet longer than the pier and the captain was afraid the tides would ground her if she was moved ahead.

The Walsand tied up in Digby Tuesday night.

The Acadia had a tight squeeze when she left Digby Harbour Wednesday night and did not arrive in Saint John until 11:30 o'clock that night, three hours behind schedule.

Will Be 100 Years Old

Mr. Benjamin Campbell, Freeport's oldest resident, will celebrate his 100th birthday on Friday, February 28th.

A celebration is being planned in his honor by his daughters, Mrs. Alton MacNeill, Mrs. Walter Floyd, and grand daughter, Mrs. Watson Crocker.

13-7, and the Christophers had defeated Weymouth 8-3. The semi-finals will consist of two-game, total-goal matches.

Entertain At Bridge

Mrs. H. M. Warne and Miss Dora Warne were co-hostesses at bridge at the home of Mrs. Warne, Queen St., on both Saturday afternoon and evening. Red carnations and white mums graced the rooms where four tables were in play.

On Saturday afternoon, Miss Edith Shreve was presented with a prize for highest score; Mrs. E. H. Anderson, 2nd, Mrs. Grace Edwards, low, and Mrs. Mary Robert, lucky.

Mrs. B. H. Ruggles captured the highest score in the evening with Miss Eileen Swallow second. Consolation went to Mrs. Eva Wendell and lucky to Mrs. A. J. Dillon.

On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Snow entertained three tables of mixed bridge at their home on King St. Ladies high was won by Mrs. Russell Stonehouse, low Mrs. Russell Harris. Gentlemen high went to Russell Harris, low; P. C. Outhouse.

MacCallum Top Bowler With 666

A Six String Bowl-off was held at the Scallop Bowl on Sunday afternoon when a team comprising Arnie MacCallum, Captain, Ron Atwell, Mike VanTassel, Roy Brinton and LeRoy Warner, won for each member of the team a $4.00 gift certificate from J. Margolian & Co.

Team score of 3108 was registered with Arnie MacCallum scoring a 666, Glen Merritt registered a 658 for second place.

The winning team must now accept a challenge from any five members of the league, the first step in playing for the Trans-Canada Credit challenge shield.

News Late

Mail deliveries were slowed up this week because of the weekend snow storm. As a result many village notes for the Courier were late arriving.

Snow Hampers Weekend Traffic

One of the biggest storms of the year hit Nova Scotia over the weekend with Digby coming in for drifts several feet in height. No accidents were reported near Digby, but cars and buses headed for Digby were stranded at points in Annapolis Valley. Employees from Digby spending the weekend at home were unable to return for Monday morning duties. In most cases the secondary roads were not opened until Tuesday morning and late Tuesday afternoon.

Youth Meeting Well Attended

On Friday February 14th over one hundred people, mostly teenagers met at the Reformed Baptist Church of Digby for an evening of Christian Fellowship. Young People came from the Reformed Baptist Churches of Liverpool and New Tusk.

The evening started with the showing of slides by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Mullen of Port Maitland, N. S. The slides were of the Holy Land.

Following the showing of the slides the young people went to the Fireman's Hall for a time of fellowship. Games were played and refreshments served.

Ski Enthusiast Visits Bear River

Douglas Mahon, Halifax, a ski enthusiast and one who does considerable writing about skiing spent the weekend in Bear River.

Mr. Mahon had been in Middleton for the ski school on Saturday. At Bear River he was guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. Denton.

Mr. Mahon was quite taken with the Bear River slopes and impressed by the wonderful co-operation of the Bear River people.

Presently the Bear River slopes are capitalizing on the recent weekend snow.

Mrs. Wilfred Miller, Greta and Glenn spent the weekend in Halifax visiting Roy Miller also Mr. Gerald Johnston at Camp Hill Hospital. They were accompanied by John Dickie who visited his brother Greg and other relatives.

Breaks Continue Dollar Days

Under investigation at present by the R.C.M.P. and the C.P.R. police is an attempt over the weekend to break into two safes at the Canadian Pacific Railway. While the would-be thieves were not able to complete their mischief, one safe had one door broken open but the thieves were not able to get through the inner door. The dial of another safe at the C.P.R. was broken but that safe had not been opened either. The safes had been overturned and things in the office were in general disorder when discovered.

Twice last week the Digby Regional High School was broken into. On Thursday night it was thought the thieves entered the school while other functions were on there and remained to do their thieving act. Forty dollars was taken. On Saturday night an attempt was made at the pop cooler in school, but attempts failed to give gain to those who broke in.

The South End Grocery was also broken into over the weekend when hamburger, chocolate bars, cigarettes, and some money was taken. The thieves entered by way of the door using a chisel. It is thought to cut the door enough to push back the latch. They left the building with the door carefully closed.

Red Cross Thanks Quilters

At a well attended meeting of the Digby Red Cross Branch at the Court House, the February business meeting was held in conjunction with the usual Wednesday afternoon work session, at which three quilts were in the making. The president, Mrs. R. B. Lent, presided, with secretary's and treasurer's reports presented by Mrs. Mary Robert and Mrs. B. H. Ruggles respectively.

Grateful acknowledgement of quilts made up by Zelma Rebekah Lodge and the Ea-Gi Club was included in the Women's Work report given by Mrs. H. M. Warne. The Rebekahs had quilted two quilts and the Ea-Gi Club had one finished and two more to do. The Smith's Cove ladies had also taken materials for quilting, and the Rossway Community Club hoped to be able to assist with the work at an early date. With the urgent need for quilts, owing to so many being given out by Red Cross to fire victims in Nova Scotia during the winter months, assistance in quilting was particularly appreciated at this time. A donation of quilting clamps by Mrs. B. H. Ruggles was also acknowledged with thanks.

Mrs. Warne reported that a shipment of finished work, including 7 quilts, 100 articles of clothing and 2010 gauze wipes for the Blood Donor Service had gone forward to Red Cross Headquarters in January. Several cartons of new materials to be made up had also been received from Headquarters, mainly quilt cotton, lining and thread, together with 24 pounds of sock wool, totalling approximately $100 in value. A bolt of flannelette for local welfare work had also been received and passed over to the Disaster Relief Committee.

Mrs. Winfield, in reporting for the Disaster Relief Committee, stated that during the past month one layette had been given out, one family clothed, and other items of infant's clothing supplied to Miss Marjorie Tupper, Public Health Nurse.

The report of the Ways and Means Committee, prepared by Mrs. Ralph Berwick, thanked all members who had contributed refreshments for the weekly Ten Cent Teas, from which the sum of $7.05 had been received during the month, giving a cash balance of $32.52.

It was suggested by the president that plans be made for an evening meeting in connection with the forthcoming Red Cross Campaign, which is due to start March 31, all canvassers being invited to attend. Final arrangements for this and a Red Cross display window were left in abeyance, and the meeting closed with the customary social hour and refreshments served by the Ways and Means Committee.

I want to express my appreciation to the Editor of the Digby Courier for extending me, as President of the Digby Board of Trade, this opportunity to congratulate the merchants of Digby on their decision to promote a dollar day.

The Board of Trade must always be deeply conscious of and interested in the prospects and problems of the town. During the past year the main business district of Digby has seen a number of changes and it is expected that as many more changes will become evident in 1964.

Dollar day is a forward step. It indicates that our merchants are determined to take maximum advantage of the potentials of this area; it indicates a determination of our merchants to turn increasing competition into a positive advantage. I believe that this type of promotion will make Digby the shopping center for an ever expanding area.

Take Action To Protect Plants

Mrs. Helen Anthony entertained the regular monthly meeting of the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society held on Wednesday.

At the meeting there was considerable discussion on the fate of the gardens situated on the Cannon Bank in view of the activity going on to provide adequate docking facilities for the Princess of Acadia. The president, R. K. Beckwith, announced that he would be calling a meeting of the Board of Directors very soon, to make plans for the removal of the plants and shrubs from the area if government planning would prevent any gardening in that locality next summer. All members agreed that it would be advisable to plant them in an area that would enhance the beauty of the town during the next tourist season.

The program was directed by the chairman of the Program Committee, Miss Marjorie Tupper, and consisted of a talk on the various types of begonias and a flower quiz.

The organization has been asked to be host to the Regional Meeting of the Nova Scotia Association of Garden Clubs, but this request was made after the February meeting and therefore will be considered at the March meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Eva Wendell on March 4th.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Anthony and Mrs. Louise Stephen at the close of the meeting.

Congratulate Participants Digby $ Days

As chairman of the newly formed Merchants Committee for the Digby Board of Trade I want to show my appreciation for the fine spirit of co-operation shown by the Digby merchants in the Dollar Day Sale now on in the town.

As a merchant I am proud to participate and as chairman of the Merchants Committee I am encouraged that great things are in store for Digby through such fine friendly co-operation.

Congratulations and success to all participants in Dollar Day.

IN THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

ANNUAL MEETING — JANUARY 1964

The Annual Meeting of the Municipal Council for the Municipality of the District of Digby was held at the Court House, Digby, on Monday, January 27, 1964 at two o'clock in the afternoon.

Present were Councillors Roy Snell, Walter Wood, Ronald Morehouse, Victor Finigan, M. W. Derby, Herbert Shortliffe, Clyde Cosman, Eugene Outhouse, Sidney Westcott, M.P. Gott, Aubrey Forrest and John Comeau. Council opened with prayer by Councillor Outhouse.

Warden's address:

The Warden addressed the Council as follows: Members of the Council and Friends, first of all I want to extend my greetings to you all for a Happy and Prosperous 1964 as we meet here at the Annual Session of the Digby Municipal Council.

Since we last met in Annual Session a great many interesting events have taken place directly and indirectly associated with Council and outside of our sphere of influence as well.

The year just passed has seen a marked increase in the interest shown by the ratepayers and citizens of the Municipality generally in the affairs of the government of their Municipality, we in the Council welcome this interest and feel that it indicates a developing awareness on the part of our citizens in the problems which face their Council. Perhaps there have been misunderstandings over the past year as to the relationship between the Council and Ratepayers but I am certain these misunderstandings will disappear as we all come to realize that each of us in his or her own way is trying to deem the best interests of his fellow citizens whether as a Councillor or as a Ratepayer.

In the heat of discussion however, we sometimes fail to appreciate each other's role on the scheme of things and often indeed, fail to take due notice of fact. In this connection as an example I would refer to a resolution passed at the last general meeting of the Digby Ratepayers' Association which calls for the Council to retain the tax rate at $17.5. I feel certain those present at that meeting were aware the rate has been $2.75 for the past two years. While talking about rate I would like the Ratepayers to know that according to Municipal Department in 1962, of the 24 Municipalities in Nova Scotia only two had smaller tax rate than Digby Municipality.

In connection with the Ratepayers' Association and requests it has made for information, I would say the Council has supplied answers to all the questions so far asked. If there are further items of information this organization or individual ratepayer requires we would remind that the records of the Municipality are opened for inspection by any ratepayer.

It must be kept always in mind, however, that Council Sessions are not debating forums only. They are meetings which must debate, discuss and take action to deal with the business of governing the Municipality. Anything that detracts from this or unnecessarily interferes with this cannot be tolerated if we as a Council are to carry out our sworn duties.

I want at this time to comment briefly on some of the happenings in our District over the past year. Admirable progress is being made in the construction of the new Digby Hospital which should be ready for occupancy late this fall.

A new and larger ship has been placed on the Saint John to Digby Ferry Service and this has had a beneficial effect on the economy of the area. It is hoped improved docking facilities will shortly be a reality in Digby, this making the service even more effective.

The fishing industry has been in a very healthy state over the past year and lumbering and farming have kept up to previous levels.

In connection with the matter of resource development in our Municipality I want to commend the Digby Resource Development Committee and Sub-Committee on the efforts they are making to study our potential and develop our economic possibilities.

A few moments ago I spoke of transportation and in this connection I would like to refer to the continued need for a permanent crossing by bridge or causeway across Petit Passage. I hope some action toward the securing of this will be taken this year and I would urge passing of a resolution seeking this action at this session of Council.

There is much more that I could say but feel we have a great deal of important work before us. In closing I wish to take the opportunity of thanking the Municipal Clerk, Office Staff, together with all members of our council for their support and co-operation for carrying on of all Municipal business.

Respectfully submitted, January 27th, 1964.

Successful Year For Smith's Cove Baptist

During the first part of 1963 members of the Smith's Cove Baptist Church decided to hold evangelistic meetings at their church, and secured the services of Dr. George Hamilton pastor of the Kentville Baptist Church. In October, under the leadership of Rev. D. R. MacTavish, pastor of the church, a series of cottage prayer meetings were held and the numbers increased each night.

These meetings paved the way, for the services that followed. The campaign started a group of young people from Acadia University, Moncton and Fredericton, who arrived on Saturday, November 9, and made a round of visitations, narrating their experiences to the people of the community, advocating the work of Christ in their personal lives. The day closed with a Young People's Rally which was largely attended. The same group of Young People held services over the whole pastorate on Sunday, furnishing the sermon and music as well as their personal testimonies.

Dr. Hamilton arrived on Monday and held services each evening, Monday through Friday and on Sunday evening. On the last evening, the church was filled to capacity with about twenty-eight persons declaring their faith in Christ. The services during the week were strengthened by various musical groups and personal testimonies, including Rev. Glenn Urquhart of Hillsburn. The Duke's Sisters of Bear River; Digby Male Quartette; Waterville Male Quartette, Rev. R. R. Winchester, Barton; Mr. Vernon Elliott, Clementsport, and the local men's choir.

The pastor held classes of instruction for the new converts in the following weeks and on January 19, 1964, they entered the waters of Baptism in the Baptist Church at Digby. They, along with ten others were received into the fellowship of the church on February 2, Rev. MacTavish extending the right hand of fellowship.

Smith's Cove Baptist Church reports a successful year both spiritually and financially. Last year a new heating system was installed and hopes are to have running water and other improvements in the not too distant future.

Oswald Banks spent the weekend in East Ferry with Mr. and Mrs. Lou Theriault and Mr. and Mrs. George Theriault.

Brotherhood met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loran Banks at Rossway last Tuesday evening, led by Rev. Max Spencer.

Mrs. Roy Cameron spent the weekend in Saint John.

About This and That

Dollar Days

Dollar Days! What do they mean? Simply that merchants put something or some things on sale for a dollar. Everywhere the Dollar Day Sale or Dollar Days Sale is a popular idea for people are always ready for a bargain. They know that they are going to receive more than full value for their money at the Dollar Day Sale so there is usually a great influx into any town where the sale happens to be held.

For three days at the end of this week — Thursday, Friday and Saturday — Digby town, with practically all its merchants participating, is having a Dollar Days Sale. Those who are participating are advertised in this issue of The Digby Courier. We direct your attention to this advertising where your dollar can be spent wisely. We are looking for big crowds to come to Digby on Thursday, Friday and Saturday to take advantage of some of the very best buys in the province.

His Worship Mayor C. D. Snow, Charles Haliburton, President of The Digby Board of Trade and Allan Pyne, Chairman of The Merchants Committee, have all expressed their appreciation of the efforts of the merchants in the Dollar Days project. Their messages are found in this issue of the Courier also.

Why are these men and the people they represent so enthused about the Dollar Days Sale? Well, no one will deny the fact that while the merchants are giving a good bargain for a dollar, the dollar, too, is a welcome item to the merchant. Digby can stand a lot of those dollars. But "Dollar Days" means more than revenue for the merchants. A Dollar Days Sale shows a fine spirit of co-operation among the merchants and that in itself is worthwhile. Co-operation is good for its own sake but, if you want to think of it another way — co-operation among the merchants brings the dollars into town and everybody benefits. That is true of any town — Digby or any other. We at The Digby Courier join the others who have expressed their praise and the admiration of the merchants in this co-operative movement. We wish them every success and urge the readers of these pages to support the Digby merchants in their fine co-operative effort.

We are not too sure who was the instigator of this Dollar Days Sale. All we know is that we were consulted at an early stage in the idea. What we remember most in those first conversations was a remark from one merchant — "We want this to be good for all Digby. We want the little fellow and the big fellow alike to enter this scheme. It's a day (or days) for Digby, not for one or two merchants." The thought, we feel, was born very unselfishly and we feel it has had wide support from all the merchants. We anticipate that the Dollar Days Sale will serve as a spark for greater co-operative efforts by the town merchants. One or two can be destroyers of co-operation in any town or organization, but just as sure as there can be destroyers there can also be one or two great builders of co-operation. It looks as though our merchants have taken on a new lease in the program of co-operation building. More power to the leaders with their wider visions and broader viewpoints. They are welcome with their views on co-operation and their visions of a greater Digby.

With favorable weather we are looking for the Dollar Days Sale to be a tremendous success and an even greater spirit of merchant co-operation to evolve from this venture. Again, our wishes for a good and successful Dollar Days Sale. Well done, merchants! Well done, Digby! To the shoppers we direct your attention to the stores displaying the red and black Dollar Days banners.

Salute To Scouts

Boy Scout Week began on Sunday. Each year, Boy Scout Week is observed to mark the birthday of the late founder, Lord Baden Powell, who was born February 22, 1857. The Scouting movement was founded in England in 1908 and since then has gone into most of the countries of the world.

The story goes that the founder had been impressed by wartime scouts in the South African veldt. From them he took a name, a uniform, the skills of tracking and outdoor lore of all kinds. And he sought to instill their independence, too — no military drilling and marching and rigid discipline for his boys, but rather helpfulness, courtesy and a strong sense of duty in a code drawn from the knights.

Millions of lives in the world have been improved by the vision of Lord Baden Powell for every Boy Scout promises on his honor to strive his best to do his duty to God and his country, to help other people at all times, and to obey the Scout law. An organization with a purpose such as that is worthy of being recognized. It is worthy of being commended for its part in shaping the world for the better.

We salute the Boy Scouts in Digby and all the neighbouring villages where Scouts are active. We salute all the Scouts in Boy Scout Week.

We Believe In Brotherhood

The Canadian Council of Christians and Jews Inc. have circulated their creed containing nine articles, the last one of which reads: "We believe that we can make this a better country for our children to inherit only if you and I strive unceasingly to stamp out prejudice, bigotry and discrimination."

How very true. You and I includes all the adults of the world. We might include the children, too, of course, but whoever heard of children being born with the traits of prejudice, bigotry and discrimination? Each adult of today was once a child without these traits. Somewhere through the growing years these unbrotherly traits were acquired from adults. The children of today are the adults of tomorrow. We want the children to live in a world of brotherhood but all the telling to be brotherly is for naught as long as adults continue to harbour prejudice, bigotry and discrimination. Children learn by example. Seeing and hearing what others do and say are more impressive to children than being told what to do and say. So, friends, brotherhood of tomorrow doesn't begin with the children of today. Rightly it begins with the adults of today even though the children of today are the adults of tomorrow. The adults of today are the you and I of the creed.

Brotherhood will not come about alone by talking about brotherhood. It will only come about by showing brotherhood. Brotherhood won't come about by holding only one Brotherhood Week a year but by showing brotherhood for 52 weeks of the year.

Probably the most talked about and written about prejudice today is that of race. Let us be reminded that there are other forms of prejudice and discrimination shown, too. We find these in the realm of religion, language, education, culture, politics, age, possessions and there are many other areas in which prejudice and discrimination exist. Some seem petty but so long as they exist there is no true spirit of brotherhood.

There is more than one way by which we show our unbrotherly nature. We read about the evils of apartheid and of the terrible injustices in the Southern states and we smugly think we are brothers in the true sense of the word. Just some short time ago we spoke to one of our own minority groups near Digby. And self-righteously we bragged on how well the different races got along in Digby. We said "You don't find any race discrimination here, do you?" Oh, no, not openly," was the reply, "but there is an awful lot done in a subtle manner." And all we could think of was "Shame on us. Subtle discrimination is worse and hurts harder than an open practice of discrimination." Maybe a searching of heart might not be bad for us. We think the world has come a long way in brotherhood but there is probably a lot to be done yet right at our own door.

One more thought. Brotherhood is a two-way affair. We must be willing to accept brotherliness as well as give. Brotherhood is an unrestricted, deep, abiding concern for every man, woman or child. Brotherhood does not demand conformity to any particular culture, custom or dress. Brotherhood is a willingness to learn from others, to see the other's point of view. Brotherhood is not a word, to be used to discipline majority groups, the rich, the cultured or educated. Brotherhood is a two-way affair, a universal word and demands of the minority just what it demands of the majority — Brotherhood.

Marriage

Hayden — Sabean

A pretty wedding took place on Friday, February 14th, at 6 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Kaye, Hillsburn, when Sandra Haydett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sabean, Port Wade, was united in marriage to Loran Leslie Hayden, son of Mrs. Elsworth Kaye, Hillsburn, and the late Frank L. Hayden, of Victoria Beach.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a floor-length, white dress of white nylon net and acetate lace over tulle, shoulder length veil and nosegay of American Beauty roses. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Glendon Urquhart, pastor of the United Baptist Church, Hillsburn, in the presence of about fifteen relatives and friends. Mrs. Glendon Longmire played the nuptial music.

Mrs. David Halliday, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, dressed in a light blue halter-length dress and stole, white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Carl Sabean, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception for about 200 guests was held at the same home when the happy couple received many useful gifts. Friends and relatives of the bride and groom served, the bride and groom serving their own cakes.

For going away the bride chose a green wool suit, black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Donates Car For Second Year

Weymouth Driver Education car - standing beside it is Mr. Chester Sabean, driver education instructor, and one of his students, Miss Dorothy Comeau.

Again this year the Weymouth Consolidated Home School have agreed to sponsor Driver Education in Weymouth Consolidated High School. A new 1961 Pontiac was donated by Weymouth Motors Ltd. for the second year and Mr. Wilfred E. Cosman again has provided complete insurance coverage on the vehicle. The Driver Training car is equipped with complete safety features, including dual brake and clutch controls and signs on both front and rear bumpers warning other motorists that a student is driving. Classroom instructions started in November. Each student is required to take thirty hours of classroom instruction on highway safety, courtesy on the road, drive attitude as well as having a thorough knowledge of the tremendous power at his command when he takes the wheel of a car. In addition he gets six hours behind the wheel driving with his instructor and eighteen hours in the back seat to observe and listen in. Mr. Chester Sabean is fully qualified to teach this course and had excellent results with the students last year. He has 25 pupils enrolled in the class.

Insurance Companies offer a 10 per cent reduction in premiums to those who have completed this course in High School.

Finances for the course are partially supplied by the students and remainder through the Home and School. It is hoped that interested people will again send in contributions that they desire to Mrs. Carl Blynn, treasurer of the Weymouth Consolidated Driver Education Committee.

Urges Music For Schools

The regular meeting of the Home and School association was held in Weymouth Consolidated School on Tuesday, February 11th with Mr. A. E. Adelaar, presiding. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. David MacNeill was sect. pro tem. School music was again discussed and a letter was read from Premier Stanfield in which he stated that all requests to date for the teaching of music in the schools, had been approved by the Minister of Education, providing the request had come from the Municipal School Board. It was moved that the Home and School, continue their efforts along with the Trustees, in getting music taught in the schools. During the past five years many letters have been written and in view of Premier Stanfield's letter it is hoped the Municipal School Board will give their approval, which to date, has not been done. Senators Over 75 Retire?

J. Willie Comeau, who will be 88 years in March, will be one of those retired from the Senate if legislation for retirement is passed by the government as outlined in The Throne Speech on Tuesday at Ottawa.

Compulsory retirement was proposed for senators, the age to be established probably 75. Senator Comeau representing Clare was appointed to the Upper House in 1948.

At present senators are appointed for life and draw $15,000 a year. The Conservative proposal (the matter had also come before the former Conservative government) was to retire all senators automatically at 75 on a $6,000 a year pension.

Address In House

Dr. H. J. Pothier, MLA
Clare

Mr. Speaker, it gives me great pleasure to associate myself with all the previous speakers, who have showered you with such high praise and congratulations. What I have perceived since my short stay in this House of Assembly, has assured me that you are without any doubt worthy of it all.

To the Mover and Seconder of the Address in Reply to The Speech from The Throne I extend my sincere felicitations. The Honorable Member for Richmond, Jerry Doucet, assures us of a very brilliant future and my next door neighbour, the Honorable Member for Digby, Baden Powell, I am certain, will be a most valuable asset to this 48th parliament and I hope many more.

Mr. Speaker, I have noted by listening to the speeches that have been made to the Speech from The Throne, that the trend has been mostly by beginning to point out the good things in your constituency and ending by asking for most everything short of a handout. My speech will follow this trend at the beginning. I will try to be as reasonable as I can at the ending.

Mr. Speaker, I am happy to bring good tidings from Clare. The economic status of this constituency is at an all time high. When I say that I am not talking in millions, but of a good substantial living. The large majority of my constituents are engaged in fishing, shipbuilding, fish processing, lumbering, manufacturing, milk farming and agricultural farming on a moderate scale. Our fishing fleet consists of 95 lobster fishing boats, many equipped with the latest improvements, 22 fish dragners and 4 scallop dragners. For the major part of this fleet we have to give the credit and our thanks to the Fishermen's Loan Board of Nova Scotia. Seven fish processing plants (some only seasonal) give employment to a large number of both men and women. Two shipyards turning out dragners of one hundred feet in length and over. Seven boat shops, building all sizes of fishing boats and pleasure cruisers up to forty-five feet in length. Our twenty-one saw mills supplying the local and foreign markets with eleven to twelve million board feet of lumber yearly. Seven woodworking factories, manufacturing wooden building supplies. The E. M. Comeau & Sons shoek factory employing 85-90 men. One furniture factory employing 20 to 25 men and growing bigger each year. Seven milk farms raising on an average of 3,000 pups to each ranch yearly. Our small farms do not produce quite enough to supply to the local market.

Mr. Speaker, my next door neighbour, the Honorable Member for Yarmouth, Mr. Snow, in his speech of Wednesday, has mentioned one of our greatest tourist attractions to the mainland of Nova Scotia, the International Tuna Tournament. Now, that those huge fighting bluefins, after an absence of a few years, have returned to our shores and have chosen Trinity Ledge off Cape St. Mary in the constituency that I represent, for its habitat and playground during the fall of the year, my constituents and the people of southwest Nova Scotia, are eagerly looking forward to the resumption of the International Tuna Tournament. I understand that the Honorable Minister of Trade and Industry is keeping a close watch and if warranted will reopen this Tournament. We are also ideally located for Deep Sea Fishing. With bases at Cape St. Mary and nearby Port Maitland, where a few boats, during the summer, are now engaged in taking out parties, this sport could be developed into an important tourist attraction. Two fine sand beaches comparable to White Point Beach, namely Bartlett's Beach and Mavillette's Beach, could be developed with a small outlay to serve both the tourists and the people of Clare and Yarmouth town.

Mr. Speaker, now, I am about to board the bandwagon and drive towards the sanctuary of the Honorable Minister of Highways. First, the urgent necessity for a new bridge and approaches at Meteghan River. The treacherous approach to the north end of the present bridge has already claimed the lives of six people. The approach at the southern end of this bridge is now beyond description. One of our main and very important industries, the shipyard of A. F. Theriault and Son, is located near this approach and adjacent to the main trunk road on the shore or western side. The timber yard is across the trunk road facing the shipyard. Whenever a piece of the heavy timber is needed during the process of constructing a ship, it has to be hauled over the pavement, across the road with a horse or tractor. To add insult to injury, there is a fairly sharp curve in the trunk road just before coming to this lumber yard. I understand that a survey was made two or three years ago for a new bridge and approaches at Meteghan River. I would humbly ask the Honorable Minister of Highways to seriously look into this matter and start as soon as possible to replace this dangerous bridge. Our stretch of trunk road from Weymouth to Beaver River is sadly in need of resurfacing. Of the 269 miles of country roads, 39 are paved, 15 or 16 more miles would be greatly appreciated.

Mr. Speaker, I am happy to learn from the Speech from The Throne that during the coming year a new programme will be put into effect to provide drugs to persons attending out-patient facilities in psychiatric centers. At present when these poor patients return home from the hospital feeling fine, and given a prescription for the drugs needed to continue the treatment, when the druggist tells them the price, they go crazy again, because they cannot pay for these expensive drugs.

Mr. Speaker, I welcome the opportunity given to me by the Honorable Leader of the Opposition to express my views and to state publicly where I stand in regards to the activities of the Separatist Movement in Quebec and elsewhere to-day. I am in perfect agreement with the Honorable Leader of the Opposition that the matter is serious and that the divisive influences at work to-day, spreading false doctrines and seeking to engender racial hatred is to be deplored.

Mr. Speaker, I do not hesitate to say that all the native French Acadians of Nova Scotia to-day are against the Separatist Movement and strongly deplore its activities. To substantiate this statement, I shall quote well known Acadians like Senator J. Willie Comeau, who has served in this House of Assembly for 35 years between 1907 to 1948.

when he was appointed to the Senate. On June 6th, 1961, he said in Ottawa speaking about the Separatist Movement in Quebec, "I hope it will never materialize, because during these days when Communism is making headway even as close as the Caribbean, I believe that instead of being divided we should be united."

Mr. Speaker, you no doubt have heard my predecessor, Dr. Pierre Belliveau, voice his disapproval of La Federation pour la Liberation de Quebec during the Session of 1962 in this Legislative Chambers.

Mr. Speaker, the 87,883 Acadians, who are still in Nova Scotia to-day, are direct descendants from about 150 families brought here in the early part of the 17th century, mostly from Brittany, France. These early settlers were industrious, frugal and law abiding, and lived in a state of confusion, alternating as pawns of either the king of France or the king of England. The French Canadians, who are as different to the French Acadians as day to night, except in language and religion, and who are promoting separatism in Quebec, came from the Lord knows what part of France.

Another well known French Acadian, who has openly declared his views against separatism, Justice, J. Pothier, County Court Judge for Halifax and Judge of the Admiralty Court for Nova Scotia, when reading a paper before the Historical Society of Nova Scotia in 1951, explained why we are different to the French Canadians in Quebec. He made reference to some of our great educators of the past. One in particular who devoted 45 years of his life with the Acadians as far back as 1799 to 1844, l'abbé Jean Mande Sigogne. He described this man as highly educated, a superior gentleman and zealous in his attempt to make the Acadians good Nova Scotians. His goal was that the two races, English and French, would be one of growing friendship and mutual understanding.

Mr. Speaker, if to-day, we

Digby Notes In "Spectator" March 16, 1888

The contract to supply lumber for the new Victoria Bridge across Bear River, connecting Digby and Annapolis counties, has been awarded to N. B. Raymond, proprietor of the Acadia Valley mills. (A meeting called for Monday February 17, 1964 to discuss a new Victoria Bridge or causeway, was cancelled because of the week-end storm.)

The Annapolis Spectator of June 30, 1888, emergency number, gives credit to the women for carrying heavy loads of furniture and saving it from the fire which destroyed the Dominion house. The men of the town did little to assist, the writer says. He was most critical of the firemen too.

In 1877 it was found that the actual cost to the government for each pupil of common school grade was 1.37 per pupil. Cost for the academic pupil was $13.33 each per year. There were 12 academies in the province with 660 students registered.

In 1881, the Legislative House opened at 3 p.m. Thursday, March 3rd. The Annapolis Journal carries the speech from the Throne.

the French Acadians of Nova Scotia are happy and proud to be loyal subjects of our beloved Queen, staunch Supporters of Confederation, Bilingual and Bicultural, we owe it all to a proper education that started as far back as l'abbé Jean Mande Sigogne.

Mr. Speaker, now, I want to assure the Honorable Leader of the Opposition that the French Acadians of Nova Scotia will continue to keep vigil and endeavor to suppress any extreme views which could lead to racial conflicts and isolationism. Dieu protège la Reine Elizabeth et Vive le Canada dans sa Confederation.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Girl Thinks She's Old Enough To Have Company

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am 15 years old. A friend of mine lives in another state. She came to see me. We talked about lots of things and then she asked me if I was expecting company. I said, 'no.' Then she told me we were old enough to have company. I told her I thought I was too young. My mother said I was too young, also. Right or wrong?"

OUR REPLY: Don't be in a hurry to have company and to get aboard the dating merry-go-round. Your mother is right and so are you. Don't concern yourself with what others do. There is a pretty standard argument teenagers give when their parents tell them they are too young to have dates or go steady. It goes something like this, "Why not? Jeanne and Jill have dates and they are no older than I am." This is no argument. Maybe Jeanne and Jill have dates without their parents' being aware of the fact. Maybe their parents know it and don't care. This is a sad state of affairs. This writer is unable to understand how a teenager can be happy with the knowledge that his or her parents just don't care what they do, or what happens to them.

Most parents do care, fortunately, and that is why one of the biggest problems a teenager faces is becoming "old enough" to date with parental approval.

At fifteen, a girl is old enough to go to parties and socials that are properly chaperoned. Whether she is old enough to have "dates" is another question entirely.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

A few weeks ago, one of our national magazines ran an article about a family of eleven, which had gone quite suddenly bankrupt. The article was written by the father of the family four years after his business had folded. In that time, through the means of various jobs, family allowance, and a very stringent budget, he had cut his debt of $20,000 down to $5,000.

He never really did itemize the budget, but he outlined it. According to him, the family could manage to live on $19.23 a week for food and household items. They allowed themselves $2.00 a week to spend "foolishly". We may not have to feed eleven on $19.23 a week, but some of their findings may be helpful to all of us.

They found that it was cheaper to buy bread than to bake it, but cheaper to bake cakes and cookies. Their expenditure for flour and shortening increased with their austerity program because of the increased amount of home baking. I wonder if they had noticed that it is cheaper to bake with margarine than with shortening?

They cut their milk bill in half by mixing homogenized milk half and half with milk made from powder. He does not mention using powdered milk in the baking. If they did not, they missed out on a form of saving which has the advantage of increasing the vitamin content.

They concentrated on three types of meat, hamburger, beef brisket, and bologna. They claim to have cut their meat bill from $5.00 to $2.25. Both these figures seem fantastically low to me. My meat bill for a family of four is close to $8.00 per week. They ate fish every Friday. I cannot imagine how they maintained that $2.25 figure, but I wonder why they did not alternate liver with hamburger. Liver is cheaper here, anyway. They could have eaten fish more than once a week too, fish is also cheaper than hamburger.

They introduced the "pot au feu", into which they put all their leftovers, and soup bones which they got free from the stores. I hope they put in vegetable water, and celery, leaves as well. These are good sources of both flavor and vitamins. From this source they got soups for practically no expense at all.

They stopped drinking coffee completely. They stopped feeding their babies baby food. Instead, the youngest member of the family got what everybody else had, but his was pureed.

They discovered, as most of us have, I hope, that vegetables are cheaper in large frozen packages than they are any other way, including fresh. They cut out butter and used margarine. The only paper product they bought was toilet tissue. They used bread wrappers for waxed paper and sandwich wrappers.

I have read that the average family of five throws out at least three pounds of food a day. This adds unnecessary expense to our grocery budgets. One simple way to avoid food waste is to keep servings small. Your family will eat everything in their plates, and probably ask for second helpings. If they do not, the food which is still in the cooking dishes is clean, and can be re-used in new recipes, or served at another time.

It is false economy to buy food in large quantities if you do not have the storage space, and some of it goes bad. Buy in smaller quantities and use everything. Plan your menus so that you use fresh fruits and vegetables early in the shopping week. Frozen and canned ones can be saved until later, or saved into the next week, or longer.

Bye for now. See you at the grocery store — and don't take any more money with you than your food budget will allow. That way you won't over spend.

Study Medical Insurance Plans

Public Health Minister R. A. Donahoe of Nova Scotia has announced the establishment of an advisory committee to investigate provincial participation in medical insurance plans.

The Medical Insurance Advisory Committee will be headed by Frank Rowe, of Halifax, with members Dr. John Wickwire, of Liverpool, Donald M. MacLean, of New Glasgow, William Keough, of Sydney, and Electa MacLennan, director of nursing at Dalhousie University.

The committee will investigate the adequacy and cost of medical services in the province, and the need for assistance in providing medical care services.

It will also study the cost of privately and publicly operated medical services or plans in Nova Scotia and other provinces; study any plan proposed by the federal government of private agency for medical care; study other matters relating to provision and payment of medical services and care.

The committee will report and advise the minister on prepaid publicly operated or publicly assisted medical insurance with estimates of cost and suggested methods of operation and financing.

Mr. Donahoe said the committee's work would be entirely exploratory and it could not complete its study until the federal government position is known. He said the feasibility of any Nova Scotia plan would depend on the federal position.

The federal government is currently awaiting the report of the Hall Commission on Health Services before declaring its proposals on medical insurance.

Mr. Donahoe emphasized that the financial demands of any health insurance plan would probably be so great that generous federal assistance would be necessary.

Letter to the Editor

Digby, Nova Scotia, Feb. 14/64.

To the Editor of The Digby Courier, Digby, N. S.
Dear Editor:

Read your report of the meeting of the Board of Trade and the merchants.

The Board is to be commended for the effort and it was a pity that not more merchants were there.

Being hard of hearing I do not go to the public meetings for I cannot make head or tail of what they are talking about.

The last meeting was of the merchants entirely and that did not amount to anything.

We have a good country and climate but if the people and responsible people cannot get together and agree or something then there is little hope of the country prospering.

Mr. Troop hit the nail on the head when he told the meeting that the object should be when can the people shop and not when the stores are closed. That is what I call clear thinking.

Had I been able to hear what was going on the only comment I might have made would have been that if they all, at the meeting, were not prepared to abide by a majority vote they might as well go home.

Thank you,
Yours truly,
Fritz Dakin.

Bear River Board Reviews Efforts

A meeting of the Bear River Board of Trade, was held February 14 in the Fire Hall. Final plans were made for the annual supper to be held February 19 in the I.O.O.F. Hall, when speaker for the evening will be Charles Haliburton, barrister, President of Digby Board of Trade. Correspondence read at the meeting included a reply from Dalhousie University and an enquiry into the possibility of acquiring the services of a dentist for Bear River. Also the latest reply from the minister of highways reassuring that the condition of the bridge in the centre of the village is satisfactory.

The board is still concerned at the disgraceful condition of the wharves in Bear River. Further inquiry is to be made concerning repairs to the government wharf. It is understood that tenders were called for repairs some time ago. Active members of the Bear River Board of Trade would like to inform the citizens of Bear River of some of the activities of the Board during the past year. (1) Concern over the conditions of the bridge in Bear River resulted in a complete inspection by the engineers of the Dept. of Highways in Halifax. Also the replacing of the sidewalk, and the reinforcement with cement of the supports under the bridge.

(2) Concern over the lack of adequate power facilities have indirectly led to much improved facilities. (3) After much effort the west branch of the Bear River has been stocked with salmon. (4) The Board has continued and will continue to secure a permanent opening of the Chute Road. (5) The Board has done all within its power to prevent the village dumping of garbage along the road side and in the river. (6) Folders containing information about Bear River were distributed to the tourist information bureaus throughout the province.

Many other efforts have been made to make Bear River a better place in which to live.

Rev. Atkinson Addresses C.G.I.T.

Members of the Baptist Youth Fellowship attending the meeting next Sunday night in the Baptist Church hall of Digby will again see another motion picture depicting a vital Christian message for young and old. This is the second in the series of motion pictures now being shown monthly under the auspices of the B.Y.F. of the church. It is expected that the picture "Martin Luther" will be seen in March.

At last week's meeting the C.G.I.T. group was addressed by Rev. L. R. Atkinson who showed slides of his visit to India last year. The pictures brought forth many questions from the young people concerning life in India and our missionary work there.

The Male Quartette of the Baptist church along with the Trade is appealing for this greater co-operation which would result in making Bear River town more prosperous and benefit the lives and homes of those who live in it. "Members of the Bear River Board of Trade of 1964 have the same problems of Dr. Lovett 28 years ago."

Storm Blocks Road At Deep Brook

Sunday night's storm blocked the highway at Deep Brook until the snow plow got through at noon on Monday. Traffic was at a standstill.

Following the snow plow were 17 cars and two large trucks coming from Annapolis direction. After the plow went down through there were over 25 cars and trucks which came from the Digby direction.

Many had been marooned by the storm and had spent the night in their cars or garages.

No accidents nor mishaps were reported.

Heart Fund Campaign Starts

Already villages in Digby County have made plans for the Heart Fund Campaign under A. T. Grimmer, Digby, Chairman and C. V. Snow, treasurer.

At Bear River the Boy Scouts have taken on the project and are doing their collecting in the week from February 20 to 27.

Digby town is to have a "blitz", it is learned from Mrs. Thomas Cleveland, president of the Digby Branch Canadian Legion Auxiliary, which is conducting the drive for the town. The "blitz" is to be on Monday, February 24.

Baron Digby Dies

Mrs. Harold S. Emerson, Englewood, N. J., sends to The Digby Courier some information from the January 30, 1964 issue of the New York Herald Tribune in which she feels the Courier readers will be interested. It consists of recent death of the eleventh Baron Digby, 69 at Cerne Abbas, England.

Edward Kenelm Digby, a knight companion of the Order of the Garter, succeeded to the peerage May, 1920, inheriting a title that stemmed back to the first Baron Digby, knighted in Ireland in 1620. The title was conferred by the British crown in 1765.

The holder of a splendid World War I combat record wounded twice, mentioned in dispatches twice - he was awarded the Distinguished Service Order in 1919, as well as the Military Cross with Bar, and the French Croix de Guerre.

A Coldstream Guards colonel, he later served in the Second World War as assistant inspector of infantry in the British War Office and later as inspector of infantry training establishments.

After the Second World War, the Baron decided to take a personal hand in the supervision of his 1,000-acre farm near Cerne Abbas, Dorset.

With a herd of 30 cows, he had more milk than he needed for his family and his 10 employees, but found to his consternation that none of the employees could drive the milk van he had bought to take produce around to nearby housewives.

So he did it himself, which caused no end of a flutter in Cerne Abbas.

"They be fine people, the Digbys, got no swank with them, either, friendly as you please," the wife of the local stationer was quoted after one delivery. "And there's no doubt about it, he could sell that fruit at twice the price. I bought a peace from him for sixpence that would have cost me one and six in Dorchester."

Surviving are his wife, Lady Constance Pamela Alice Bruce, who was decorated with the Order of the British Empire for her service during World War II as chief commander in the women's auxiliary; a son, the heir to the title, Edward Henry Kenelm, and three daughters, Mrs. Pamela Churchill, wife of Randolph Churchill; Mrs. Charles A. Moore; and Mrs. David P. James.

Concern Over "Weekend" Lobstermen

The growing number of so-called "weekend" lobster fishermen in the Maritimes is causing concern to commercial fishermen who depend on the lobster catch for a substantial part of their yearly income. That was disclosed by Ambrose P. Fitzgerald, chief of the federal department of fisheries law enforcement service in the Maritimes. He was reporting to the department's annual area conference in Halifax this week.

Last year, said Mr. Fitzgerald, 23,500 lobster fishing licenses were issued by the Department in the three provinces. About 6,500 of those licenses were to persons not enumerated as fishermen. "Our enumerations show that the number of lobster fishermen who sell their catches have only increased by 834 in the last five years while, during the same period, there has been an increase of more than 3,000 licenses issued to so-called weekend fishermen."

That situation, Mr. Fitzgerald said, bred discontent among commercial fishermen. "Recently, meetings of fishermen have been held in various parts of the Maritimes

Marshalltown House Burns

The home of Oscar Comeau, Marshalltown, burned to the ground on Monday afternoon. The house, probably 150 years old, was one of the oldest in the village. Residing with Mr. Comeau was his grandson, Ronald Robicheau. At the time of the fire Mr. Comeau was alone in the house.

At first sign of fire the Digby firemen were called, but at no time was there hope that the building could be saved. All personal belongings were lost in the blaze. It is understood that there had been a chimney fire at the same home earlier that day.

The building was partially insured. Mr. Comeau is presently residing with his daughter, Mrs. Earl Drew, and Mr. Drew, in Marshalltown.

Kiwanis Meets

Last week's meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Digby, held at the Cornwallis Cafe, gave emphasis to the spirit of brotherhood among men. While it was known as Brotherhood Week throughout Canada and the United States, the theme was of particular interest to Kiwanians, since this is one of the vital principles of this international organization.

Kiwanian Rev. H. S. Hartlin was chairman of this meeting of the Club, and Rev. David Stokes, Parish Priest for Digby, was the guest speaker. Father Stokes spoke chiefly concerning the improved spirit of understanding and good will between Protestants and Roman Catholics. In his talk he stressed the common ground that exists among the churches. It was the things we believe in common that unite us, he said, and with understanding tend to bring us closer together in our common task of preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

On Wednesday night of this week Kiwanians were guests of the Lion's Club of Digby at a dinner in their Club hall. The occasion was the visit of Mr. Abol Zias, Executive Director of the Nova Scotia Association for Retarded Children.

Next Monday night some members of the Club will attend an Inter-Club meeting in Weymouth.

Denton Praised Bear River Board Of Trade

The Board of Trade Dinner, held on Wednesday night, in The Oddfellows Hall, was a great success. In spite of the snow and wind, about a hundred people turned out for the occasion. The speaker of the evening was Mr. Charles Halliburton, President of the Digby Board of Trade, who gave a most interesting talk on the importance of a Board of Trade. He said that the Board of Trade can have great influence in the future developments. A unified group and a working in unison with organizations can be an effective voice in matters of government nature. The voice, he said, must be on time and in unity to accomplish its end. He referred to the particular project in which the Trade Boards of Annapolis, Bear River and Digby were interested — a bridge or causeway over Bear River.

Films on Nova Scotia's Highways and By-Ways were shown.

A talk by Mr. L. V. Harris, one of two surviving charter members of Bear River Board of Trade, (the other Mr. Walton Tibert) told of the early days of the Board and of the many worthwhile projects that were accomplished.

Renewed interest in the present Board of Trade is due in a large measure to the untiring work of the President, Mr. Allison Denton and his colleagues — Seventeen new members joined the Board at the dinner meeting.

Trade Boards Favor Causeway

A meeting of the Boards of Trade from Annapolis Royal, Bear River and Digby was called to meet at the Court House, Digby, on Monday evening to discuss and determine wishes as to whether the people might favor a bridge or causeway to replace the present Victoria Bridge over Bear River in the future. By unanimous motion the causeway was favored.

The meeting was chaired by Mayor C. D. Snow, Digby, chairman of the Industrial Development Committee of the Digby County Resources Development Committee. Present were four from the Annapolis Board of Trade, five from Digby and ten from Bear River. Rt. Rev. R. H. Waterman, Industrial Development Committee, was present. Mrs. M. P. Gott was secretary for the meeting.

In introducing the subject Mayor Snow, in favor of a causeway, spoke of the inland salt water lake which would be created and which would be an asset to tourist promotion in the area. Bear River, he said, had natural scenery, some of the most beautiful rides in the province and the community was indeed blessed with lots of community spirit and pride. He mentioned the Water Carnival, Cherry Carnival, bass fishing, and other enterprising features in Bear River which tend to attract tourists. With a causeway, he felt that Bear River could become a tourist paradise. Digby and Annapolis would reap indirect benefits.

Only one objection to a causeway was voiced. This regarded the effect that ice might have on the business buildings built over the river at Bear River. This fear was immediately quelled when the Annapolis delegates told of experience with the Annapolis causeway. They said that by proper control of the gates there would be no trouble with ice. In fact, they felt there was not as much trouble with ice from a causeway as there would be from a bridge. The level of ice remains constant until Spring and there is not the tide to move the ice. The level of water would be much lower, too, than the high Spring tide level. Mr. Harry Burney, Annapolis, said he understood that the scallop boats had experienced less trouble with ice in the Annapolis Basin since the Annapolis causeway had been built.

Any difficulties anticipated with sewage can also be dispelled by checking with conditions at Bridgetown since the Annapolis causeway was built, it was noted. Fish stocking became no problem either, it was noted.

The motion that the Boards of Trade seek a causeway was made by Allison Denton, Bear River, seconded by C. W. Daniels. Mr. Denton was named to head a delegation, consisting of two members from each of the three Boards of Trade, to meet with government officials regarding the decision. They were asked to arrange a brief, giving the long range view of the benefits to everybody in the area of a causeway over Bear River. The representatives, Baden Powell, MLA, and Peter Nicholson, MLA, were to be requested to lay on a meeting for the committee.

It was decided to solicit the support of municipal and town governments, service clubs and other groups in support of a causeway over the river.

The advantage in cost of a causeway instead of a bridge was considered. The foundation was suitable for a causeway and materials are near at hand, it was suggested. Some discussion on where the causeway should be ensued but it was generally felt that this should be left as an engineering problem but when the work of a causeway might be done that the road be straightened at the same time. Leigh Marshall stated that previously not too much forward look had been used in road building but the judgment of the people should be made known in such matters.

Hold Father And Son Banquet

Scout Week in the Baptist Church of Digby was marked by a Father and Son Banquet, held in the church hall on Saturday evening. Members of the 5th Scout Group and also members of the Cubs, both organizations sponsored by the church, met with their fathers on this occasion, and nearly 70, including a number of guests, sat down to the dinner prepared and served by members of the Boys' Work Committee.

Scout leaders, Donald Brown, Richard Applejohn, and Cub Master, Bernard Bell, with their assistants, had charge of the function, and were ably assisted by members of the Boys' Work Committee.

Guests present included Dr. G. V. Turnbull, President of the Digby District Council, Mr. Harold Surette, Assistant District Commissioner for Cubs, Rev. R. R. Winchester, of Barton, and Rev. R. H. Hughes, who was the guest speaker.

Mr. Hughes was introduced by Rev. H. S. Hartlin, the pastor of the church. Following the telling of a few witty Irish stories, Mr. Hughes spoke on the responsible relationship of father and son, and the obligations that each has towards the other in this intimate relationship. He stressed the importance of a good example being set by the father. The tendency of the boy, he said, is to do what his father does. Citing church going as an example, Mr. Hughes said the time comes when the boy can no longer be sent to church or compelled to go. It is then that he makes up his mind to do what his father does, that is, not to go at all, if his father has failed his son with his own personal example in this regard.

The gathering was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

Red Cross Campaign In March

An attractive little lapel pin will identify Red Cross canvassers who start their annual trek through Nova Scotia Monday, March 2nd. For the volunteer solicitors of the 100-year old Society, it is a variation on a familiar theme. The emblem is the same — a red cross on a white field, but the material is strictly 20th century — plastic.

A swift campaign for a $211,300 provincial objective is urged by A. S. Hopkins, provincial campaign chairman. Canvassers running into the thousands have been lined up by the province's 103 branches and, armed with campaign supplies, awaited the starting gun.

Optimism that the objective would be reached this year was expressed by Mr. Hopkins, as well as by his national counterpart, O. A. H. Jones, during a recent visit to Halifax. Reason for this hopeful attitude is the new prosperity abroad in the Atlantic Provinces, the officials said.

Budgeted expenditures for 1964 in Nova Scotia are $289,414, almost $80,000 more than is raised here, Mr. Hopkins pointed out. The difference is made up by five provinces who raise more than they spend.

The Canadian Red Cross Society's national objective is $6,443,492.

DRHS Boys Win Battle But Lose War

The D.R.H.S. A Boys hockey team travelled to Kentville last Friday to play a two game total series with K.C.A. for the right to play in the Headmasters' Tournament.

In a game, which saw Digby do everything but put the puck in the net, the K.C.A. team skated off with a 6-1 victory.

In the second game, in Digby on Saturday, it was a different story and Digby outplayed K.C.A. to the tune of 4-2.

Digby's scorers were G. Robinson (R. Cook), R. Cook (G. Robinson), D. Wood (G. Robinson) and G. Robinson (M. Surette).

K.C.A.'s goals were by Selbridge (O'Brien) and P. O'Brien (M. O'Brien).

K.C.A. now advances to the Headmasters play downs, having a total goal margin of 8-5.

About This and That

Dollar Days Success

Last weekend's Dollar Days project, so far as we have heard, was a big success in town. All with whom we have conversed on the venture spoke well of it, despite the heavy snowfall which probably hindered easy moving of traffic even until the end of the week.

So far as Digby was concerned this was a pilot project and several observations, we believe, have come from it. Remarks heard centred around the fact that the merchants of the town are willing to co-operate, that the scheme should be repeated every three months (some said once a month, others twice a year), and that another time the merchants should meet before the project is launched to plan more fully than had been done with the pilot project. It was felt that preliminary plans should be made so there would be no competition amongst the merchants themselves on prices of articles on sale. While no deliberate competition is meant, yet without planning there is bound to be a difference in prices of articles when reduced for sale. The general idea, as we understand, is to have a "Digby Day" when people are brought into the town for the general good of all.

This is too early on Monday morning, as we write this, to know how The Digby Courier has made out. The mails posted on Friday and Saturday have not arrived from all sections by this time. According to the Dollar Days subscriptions taken in to date, we expect our mailing list will have increased by 100 with the project. Most of these will remain subscribers, too. To make an analysis, we might feel our effort was not worthwhile. Our cash from 100 subscribers is $100, our loss, if these people would have subscribed at any rate, is $50. But these figures representing the money involved are not the important figures. The important thing to us is that more people are reading the Courier. Our advertisers are going to be more than pleased to know their advertisements are going to be read by approximately 300 more persons with an additional 100 subscribers. Besides, we are happy because we have had an opportunity to join with the other business people of the town in a project of cooperation.

We are pleased to know the first cooperative Dollar Days venture in Digby was such an outstanding success. We are looking forward to the next time such a cooperative movement hits Digby.

By the way, Saturday afternoon saw a decline in Dollar Days sales, we believe. Was this because people would rather not shop on Saturday afternoon or because people are not sure enough of store hours in Digby? We'd like to find out. The Digby Courier is usually not open on Friday night. People were not expecting us to be open so we made one out of our estimated 100 sales on Friday night. We are not usually open on Saturday afternoon. We made four or five sales on Saturday afternoon. We can't be the judge. The Digby Courier must be open on Wednesday afternoon in order to have the paper ready for the streets on Thursday. Therefore we must close on Saturday afternoon, but we would like to have our readers tell us when would be the most convenient time for them to shop in Digby.

More On Store Hours

After writing the above we learn that Bridgewater town has decided to close its stores for business on Saturday nights. This is more of a revolution for Bridgewater than any other town we know of in Nova Scotia. We recall the days when people elbowed their way along Bridgewater streets on Saturday nights. Grant you, there were probably as many "walkers" as shoppers but the people were there.

If we heard it correctly one or two stores in Bridgewater started the "Friday night open" and "Saturday night closed" early last fall. Evidently others are following. The trend seems to be that way in Nova Scotia; but each town must analyze the situation in its own locality.

The important thing, we believe, is that all stores in a community become unified in its store hours. If the people living in the town are confused about Digby store hours, how much more confused are people from out of town and who must drive miles not knowing whether the particular stores they want to visit are open. We heard one person say that she walked down Digby town on Saturday afternoon and seeing blinds down in several places took for granted these stores were closed. She had not noticed the small "Open" signs on some of the stores where blinds were pulled to protect the goods from the sun. Had she been sure that all stores were open the drawn blinds would not have suggested "closed".

Another thought on "Dollar Day". All the merchants seemed to be in agreement that more people were around town and visited the stores over Dollar Days. A few reported that certainly more people visited the store but did not produce more sales while other merchants reported tremendous sales. It would seem that some might have been unfortunate in choosing the wrong items to put up for sale. As someone remarked, "You won't sell many snow shovels in July no matter how much the cost is reduced".

Whether Dollar Day or not, if you please the customer by something in season on sale, he is likely to be pleased to look about for something else to buy. Disappoint a customer and he isn't going to be in a pleased mood to look for anything else. In fact, a pleased customer is likely to return to the store another time. We recall buying an item reduced in price a few Christmases ago. Having bought the same item for children the previous Christmas we decided they would make nice gifts for other children on this particular Christmas. After all they were from the previous year's stock so the fifty-cent reduction on each certainly wasn't too much but they were still nice Christmas gifts. That is until we got them home in the daylight and saw how terribly they were faded and couldn't be used for Christmas gifts. Had we been pleased with our purchases we certainly would have been back again to the same store looking for more Christmas gifts at regular prices.

And since the tourist season is coming let us bear in mind that good service to tourists will bring them back again and bring others along with them.

Now, how did we get to remarks about tourists when we started out writing on store hours. Oh, well, they are not too far removed. Now, are they?

"More For The Mind"

"One, of course, has to interpret statistics with the greatest care. At the same time, there is no questioning the fact that more and more Canadians are coming back from mental hospitals to take their place in society and that greater numbers, too, even if they are unable to play a role in the mainstream of Canadian life, are being returned to their homes as a result of their improvement." — Thus Dr. John M. Griffin expresses some facts in his message to the Health League of Canada for its 20th Annual National Health Week, to be held March 8th - 14th.

Dr. Griffin continues his speech with, "Although the year recently ended was an important one in the history of the Canadian Mental Health Association, 1964 gives even greater promise of progress towards its goal of stimulating greater public interest in mental illness, mental health and in social action with respect to both."

"Last year was notable because of the publishing by Canadian Mental Health Association of what has become recognized as its blueprint for action, 'More for the Mind', a report prepared by eight psychiatrists (headed by Dr. Tyhurst, formerly of Digby Psychiatric Clinic Staff) attempts to review, assess and criticize the treatment services for those who are mentally ill and to present new ideas in planning for these services."

"'More for the Mind' has in fact become the theme for a stepped up national programme which Canadian Mental Health Association is instituting this year. Within the next few months it will seek to focus attention on the need for improved care and treatment for patients in hospitals, improved facilities and services for after-care and rehabilitation, improved and extended community-based services and better mental health services for children."

"In addition, Canadian Mental Health Association will also seek to emphasize the need for greater recognition by the medical profession of the fact that mental illness has to be dealt with in the same way as any physical illness."

"One of the highlights of 1964 will be a Canadian Conference on Psychiatric Trends, sponsored jointly by the Canadian Medical Association, the Canadian Psychiatric Association and the Canadian Mental Health Association."

"This conference, to be held in the Chateau Laurier Hotel in Ottawa, March 23-25 inclusive, will be limited to approximately 100 delegates and has as its basic objective, stimulation within the medical profession of a wider interest and concern about all aspects of mental illness and mental health and the psychiatric implications of medical practice."

"Canadian Mental Health Association has been encouraged to increase the tempo of its drive in the current year by statistics which were recently released by Dominion Bureau of Statistics. They indicate that disabling mental illness requiring long term hospital care is slowly but quite steadily declining. They also indicate that although more Canadians are needing and receiving treatment, the number of patients in hospitals is decreasing in relation to the population. Between the years 1955 and 1962, the ratio of population per 100,000 who were in the hospital, dropped from 407 to 360."

"One of the least known of the activities of Canadian Mental Health Association and one which is deserving of greater public recognition is its fostering of important research projects financed by public funds."

"Prior to its views being presented to the federal government in 1948, mental health research was practically non-existent. Current dominion-provincial mental health grants for research now approach a million dollars annually. Canadian Mental Health Association itself also provides substantial research sustaining grants designed to support research talent rather than specific projects."

"100 push-ups a day and I've never taken a slice in my life!"

It's true; milk supplies all his food needs—now! But wait until he's really mobile; with teeth just rarin' to chew. It'll take more than milk alone to replace the energy he's going to be burning up from then on through adulthood.

Bread will play an important part in his new diet because bread is a good source of energy.

And if that bread is Ben's Buttermilk, it will also be a good source of eating pleasure. But then, most grown-ups know that already!

The bread to buy!

New Psychiatric Research Book Published

The Digby Courier was in receipt this week of a new book, just off the press, titled "The Character of Danger". It is Volume III of the Stirling County Study of Psychiatric Disorder and Socio-cultural Environment and was forwarded by The Cornell Program in Social Psychiatry, with Dr. Alexander H. Leighton as director. Authors of the book are Dr. D. C. Leighton, J. S. Harding, D. B. Macklin, A. H. Leighton and the late Dr. A. M. Macmillan. It deals with psychiatric symptoms in selected communities, analyzing data and assessing its meaning as noted in two previous volumes.

The first volume published was "My Name is Legion". Volume II was "People of Cove and Woodlot", which described in detail the two communities chosen for study and reported the prevalence and kinds of psychiatric disorder in each community. Volume III, "The Character of Danger", is the final volume.

The Stirling County Study of Psychiatric Disorder and Socio-cultural Environment has been termed by the American Journal of Psychiatry as "one of the outstanding epidemiological enterprises in mental health today. Investigating a community selected for its patterning of cultures, the intensive, ten-year-long Stirling County Study, is a groundbreaking exploration of the relationships between socio-cultural factors and the origin, course and outcome of psychiatric disorder."

Author of "My Name is Legion" is Dr. A. H. Leighton, who with his wife, Dr. Dorothea C. Leighton, and family, spend their summers

Candidate United Church Ministry Speaks

A meeting of Annapolis Presbytery United Church of Canada was held on Tuesday at Bridgetown United Church. Devotions were conducted by Rev. J. Calder Fraser following which the chairman of Presbytery, Rev. Harold Thomas, formally declared the meetings convened.

Rev. Prescott Burrill of Middleton is secretary of Presbytery.

at their home in Smith's Cove, Digby County. Authors of "People of Cove and Woodlot" are Charles C. Hughes, Marc-Adelard Tremblay, Robert N. Rapoport and Dr. A. H. Leighton, all known to Digby and throughout Digby County.

The authors of "The Character of Danger" (also well known to Courier readers) explain their terms, concepts and methods and point out how the questions they have raised and the solutions proposed have bearing on the whole field of psychiatric epidemiology. They also demonstrate how their methods can be applied in future research. The authors set forth in detail evidence in support of their hypothesis that socio-cultural disintegration has a direct causal effect on the prevalence of mental disorder.

The whole study observed the Psychiatric Quarterly will be of great importance to psychiatry and to society, as laying down the principles and publishing the first extensive findings of a comparatively new scientific discipline.

The price of "The Character of Danger" is $10.00.

Mr. Fred Withers, Weymouth lead short devotions to open the afternoon session.

The report of the Home Missions Committee by Chairman Rev. M. G. Butler and that of Missionary and Maintenance Committee Rev. J. Calder Fraser were closely interlinked and Rev. J. Milton Fraser and Miss Rose spoke.

Reports from the local charges were as follows: Annapolis Royal - Granville Ferry, $3031; Aylesford, $110; Bear River, $1030; Berwick, $1757; Bridgetown, $3002; Digby, $1814; Digby Neck - Weymouth, $806; Kingston, $1843; Lawrenceton, $981; Middleton, $3000; Waterville - Woodville, $722.

It was decided by Presbytery that we should seek as an objective to be attained by the Centennial year to ask all charges in the Presbytery to strive for complete self supporting status by 1967.

Reporting for his Session at Kingston, Rev. James Hicks presented to the court Mr. Wayne Wright who will, following matriculation this summer, seek to be accepted as a candidate for the ministry. Mr. Wright who was present at the meeting spoke briefly and all present were impressed by his manner. It was suggested that there were many other young lads in high school who with a bit of encouragement could be challenged to such a decision as his.

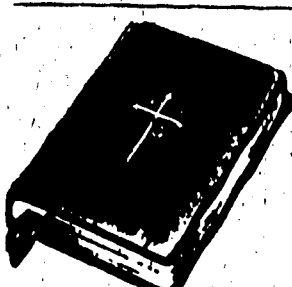

Other committee chairmen submitting brief reports included Rev. Fred Burrill, Rev. Elmer Asaph (for Publications and as Treasurer), Rev. John Henderson and Mr. Fred Withers.

B.Y.F. Conducts Meeting

The Baptist Youth Fellow, ship of the Baptist Church of Digby had charge of the meeting Sunday night held in the church hall. A motion picture, "The Two Sons," was shown, followed by refreshments served to about 50 young people and a number of adults. The devotional service was conducted by Hugh Brittain.

The largest attendance at the Sunday School for the past year or more took place last Sunday, as reported by the Sunday School Superintendent, Mr. Chester M. Levy. Several of the classes showed a very considerable increase in attendance. The Senior Young People's Class, with Mr. J. J. Brittain as teacher continues to enjoy good class meetings for the young people.

A class for those who wish to prepare for Baptism and Church membership will commence on the second Sunday in March following the morning worship service. Also commencing on the second Sunday in March, pre-Easter services will be held every Sunday evening in the church auditorium. These will take the place of the usual Sunday evening Bible hour which has been held in the church hall.

Money Spent, But No Wharf At Freeport

Pleasing Nova Scotia fishermen can sometimes be a costly venture — especially when wharf construction is involved.

The federal government lost $78,741, and Glace Bay and Freeport fishermen missed out getting new wharves — all over disagreements concerning location of the structures.

These were two items mentioned in a report issued by the auditor general's department Thursday in Ottawa which showed a total of $192,433 in non-productive payments made by the federal government in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, most of them in 1962.

The loss was spread over six products.

At Glace Bay, the fishermen objected to having to move their sheds to make room for the new wharf. The Public Works Department offered to shift the approach of the wharf but the fishermen still objected. Exploratory work cost the department $23,000.

Freeport fishermen objected to the proposed site of a break water extension and wanted a separate structure 300 feet west of the existing structure. The contractor was ordered to suspend operations, and the project was terminated. Net loss to the department: $55,741. (Chronicle-Herald)

Digby Royal Bank's Night Depository

A Night Depository, a relatively new development in the steady improvement in banking service, has been installed at the Royal Bank's Digby Branch. According to Manager C. V. Snow, it should prove very worthwhile, especially to establishments which normally stay open in the evenings and have to keep large sums of cash on hand.

The Night Depository is a means whereby cash and other receipts may be left safely with the bank outside regular banking hours, for deposit or return later on.

How it's done is really quite simple. The customer puts his money or other documents (either locked in a canvas wallet or sealed in a special envelope) through a safety door on an outside wall. The deposit drops into a special vault. Later, when the bank is open, the contents of the bag or envelope are credited to the customer's account or turned over to him, whichever he desires.

Letter to the Editor

Deep Brook, Annapolis Co., N. S., Feb. 24, 1964.

To Editor of Digby Courier and Digby Merchants:

Dear Ladies and Gents —

To Digby, to Digby, to do the week's wash, Housework a task? Today that's all "hosh". We shop while the clothes wash. And we chat while they dry. The kiddies they watch, they think it's T.V. Grandma shakes her head — "What next shall I see?"

Just a few lines to express my appreciation for Digby's Dollar Days last week. I came in town by Acadia bus and saved enough on the purchases of $ Day Specials in groceries to pay my bus fare and also to pay for my wash at the newly installed Landromat. (I would have had to use snowshoes or skis to get to my clothes line last week.)

Several of my neighbours also took advantage of the $ Day Specials. $1.00 was worth $1.25, $1.50 and in some cases more, at the stores and that's a very good dollar invested that will turn you 25 or 50 per cent in this day and age.

Whether or not the thought occurred to Mayor Snow or any of the merchants at the time, I think it was a very fine way to bring "Brotherhood Week" to a close, showing an excellent spirit of Brotherhood feeling between the merchants in agreeing to cooperate in the $ Day venture and also a nice gesture of brotherhood extended from merchants to customers.

So all in all I hope it proved a success and that the merchants were so well repaid for their advertising that they will, at another time, perhaps Spring or early Summer, when the weather will be more to their advantage, be able to repeat the $ Day courtesy, and who knows, perhaps with some advertising, some customers may come from across the Bay of Fundy for a trip, as well as from the Valley, Digby Neck, and the French Shore?

Just a hint that if ALL the merchants can just agree to close on Wednesday and stay open on Saturday afternoons, perhaps a nice new wharf, and other added attractions (we hear a rumour that "the railroad won't be running through the middle of the (house)" street in the near future, who knows, Digby might become an "Eureka")

Tiverton

Sunday is a "slow news day". Since news broadcasts are as long on Sundays as on other days of the week, they have to be filled up with stories of automobile accidents in Texas, and fires in South Carolina.

It happened to be Sunday. I happened to be in bed. The radio was on, but I was not particularly interested in the news. When the last item was read, I did not pay much attention — not enough to get the name of the man involved, or the name of his position. I looked for it in the papers on Monday, but the item had been so insignificant they had ignored it.

The gist of the item was that a Russian official has expressed his disapproval to the Russian writer's union, of recent Soviet war books which depict only the horrors of war, and fail to show war's heroic side.

There are several obvious conclusions to draw from this statement. You make them. I intend to talk about history.

Long ago, when the old Air Force barracks on Maiden Lane was being used as a junior high school, I remember walking down the front steps of that building with a friend. She was saying that she did not know why we had to study history. Why, she asked, should we learn about the past? We live in the present and the future. The past is dead and of no concern to us now.

She was twelve, and I was twelve. I had always liked history, although I had been vaguely aware that there were people who did not like it and who found it boring. I had never questioned the fact of history, and not bothered to wonder about its relationship to life. I was profoundly impressed with my friend's thinking.

It was not long after that that I read a condensed version of George Orwell's 1984. Do you remember in that book, that when the people were through with their newspapers they sent them down a chute to a central collection depot? I cannot remember the details, but the papers were destroyed, except for official copies which were kept in the archives. These copies could be altered by the government at will, so that whatever the government claimed was true, could be proven true.

It was then that I thought of a rebuttal to my friend's thought. History is the present, and the future. Without history we are molecules hanging in time. We belong nowhere. History anchors us to the present. It helps us to understand ourselves and others better. It is a sort of psychology of the past. Sometimes it comes as a surprise to us to learn that the people of 1932, or 1864, or 1595, or 331 B.C. were not very different from ourselves. I am not trying to be either mystical or Freudian when I say that we are the sum of our ancestors. Without their knowledge, their thoughts and their inventions, each of us would have to start the whole world over again for every new experience.

I imagine that deeply religious people have a deeper sense of the past than do people with less religious faith, because all religions are based on the past. Religious tradition is the very fact of the past and the present, being degrees of the same thing.

It is trite to say that today's newspapers are tomorrow's history, but some trite sayings are trite only because they are true. Today's art and literature are as much a part of tomorrow's history as today's papers are. Through the years there have been many attempts to alter history through the control of newspapers, art and literature. In Soviet Russia, an official tells the writers what kind of war stories they should be producing. In South Africa a man can be arrested and held for 90 days without trial for writing his disapproval of government policies. In pre-war, and wartime, Germany, bulletins were issued to the editors of papers every day, telling them what news they could print, what to suppress, what causes to support, and what to condemn, and what editorials they could write. These manipulations of history are not greatly different from those George Orwell described in his book.

Probably I have done no more than put into words the thoughts of romantic children and adults. I don't suppose I have convinced any of those clear thinking twelve-year-olds, or practical adults. I can only say that to live in a world without some knowledge of, or contact with, the past, would be like living in a room with no windows, no clocks, and no lights; never knowing what time it is.

"Got the order, got a bank loan - we're all set"

When a businessman wins an order or contract, he knows he can turn to his local bank for financial assistance. A loan may be needed for one or more reasons—to lay in a supply of raw materials, to buy new equipment, to meet a payroll, or to cover other costs until the firm receives payment for its products or services.

With bank credit, companies large and small can take on projects they couldn't handle if they had to depend on their own financial resources. Moreover, the chartered banks have steadily widened the scope of their commercial lending to serve new or expanded short-term needs. Every day, local bank managers are lending to producers, manufacturers, farmers, retailers and others, to help them develop opportunities, meet competition, keep men and machines busy.

Commercial loans are one of many essential services your local bank provides, to the benefit of everyone in the community.

Early Butterfly

Michael Hoare, ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hoare, King St., found a butterfly last week but the creature was not lost in the snowdrift. Michael found the butterfly cosy and warm in the basement of his home.

Last September Michael put a caterpillar into a bottle along with some nice soft grass for nourishment. The caterpillar spun a cocoon and last week Michael had the pleasant surprise of seeing that a yellow butterfly had hatched from the cocoon. Fed on sugar and water the butterfly is enjoying the comforts of the warm basement, where he flies about.

FAVOR CAUSEWAY

Other developments to tie in with a causeway were also given thought, such as a terminal loading zone, generation of hydro power, C. P. Railway facilities and other developments.

Because of the increase of traffic expected via Princess of Acadia and other tourist routes, because of the increase in traffic by transport truck and the dangerous turns in the present road near Victoria Bridge, a special urgency was seen and the committee was asked to put before the government the need of a causeway in the near future.

In concluding the discussion Mayor Snow said that every body should get behind the project so that there would be no doubt whatsoever as to the wishes of the people. Everybody, he said, would benefit by a causeway over the Bear River. Farmers, he said, would have a better market for the produce, more work would be provided for the people, there would be more shoppers around, cottages and summer homes would be built around the salt water lake and the added water sports which could be made available would benefit Annapolis, Bear River, Digby and areas. Another beneficial feature with the salt water lake would be that the mud flats would be continually covered.

Before the group disbanded on Monday night, Mr. Marshall gave an outline of the procedures used in obtaining The Fundy Trail. One thing which they emphasized was the Fundy tides, the highest in the world, which could be seen along the trail.

Mr. Denton also introduced the subject of a Vocational School somewhere between Annapolis Royal and Digby. The chairman stated that this matter was to be brought before the Digby town council at their next meeting.

Library Official At Bear River

The Provincial Library Committee of the Nova Scotia Home and School Association met at the home of Miss June Schmidt on Wednesday evening. In spite of inclement weather there were six members present, including Miss Shirley Coulter, Supervisor of School Libraries, Halifax.

This committee is concerned, not only with children's reading, but with adult reading as well. The increase and improvement of reading at the adult level was discussed, and plans made for the observance of Canada Library Week in April.

All local Home and School Associations are urged to have a Library Committee. The main function of this committee is not to buy books, but to encourage establishment of school and classroom libraries and to stimulate interest in their development. Miss Coulter will be glad to give advice on the selection and purchase of books at any time.

Tribute was paid to the excellent service rendered by the Annapolis County Bookmobile. Qualified, obliging librarians are ready to obtain for their readers any book desired on any subject. We are indeed fortunate to live in a part of Nova Scotia where there is bookmobile service.

Tobogganing Party

Saturday morning was the scene of busy preparations as some of the young people gathered wood and carried snow to make a toboggan slide for the Juniors to have a party on the hill, overlooking the village, back of the home of Elmer VanTassel, Tiverton.

About 2:30 in the afternoon the Juniors with their leader Mr. Maurice MacCabe, met on the hill for their tobogganing party. After a half hour of coasting a huge bonfire was lit and everyone enjoyed roasting wieners; marshmallows and running to the helpers for rolls and koolaid.

It was getting close to six o'clock before the last junior left the hill. The 38 Juniors their leader and eight helpers came home a bit tired but happy feeling that it was an afternoon well spent.

Young People Increase Attendance

Minister of the Church of Christ, Mr. Maurice MacCabe, and the teachers of the Juniors Bible Study Group have found it necessary to arrange a new schedule in order to accommodate the record attendance of 40 pupils.

One of the teachers said, "We just didn't know how to place them; they sat on each other's laps and some had to stand up. There is not enough room or enough chairs."

When 40 youngsters met at the Church last Saturday afternoon, Mr. MacCabe and the teachers took them on a wiener roast and tobogganing.

The Bible Study is conducted by Mr. MacCabe and is divided into classes with teachers Miss Pamela Outhouse, Miss Janet Sollows, and Miss Patsy Cossaboom. At first the group was comprised of 8 to 20 members but the last two Saturdays has shown a marked increase in attendance.

It is understood that Mr. MacCabe and teachers will separate the children into two groups and will have one Bible Study period in the morning and one in the afternoon, each Saturday.

Mr. MacCabe also conducts a Young Peoples' Bible Study period each Friday evening. This also has shown a marked increase in attendance. Several teenagers from Freeport are regular attendants. He also conducts an Adult Bible Study period each Thursday evening.

Endorses Campaign

"The name Red Cross conjures up many pictures. It suggests immediate help in time of disaster or a stream of life-giving blood provided, free of charge, to victims of accident or illness. To some, it means a Red Cross Home-maker who takes care of the family when the mother is stricken with illness. To immigrants arriving by ocean liner, it represents a friendly people helping them through their first difficult hours on Canadian soil.

"In the educational sphere, the Red Cross means instruction in home nursing or swimming and water safety. On the school level, Junior Red Cross programs give additional training in citizenship, health education and international understanding.

"The Red Cross has been built up during a century of service, changing to meet new needs, but dedicated always to the service of mankind.

"March is the traditional Red Cross month in Nova Scotia, as it is in other parts of Canada and the United States. In many places, where the Red Cross is not a partner with the United Appeal, campaigns will be conducted this month in Nova Scotia. The amount required is $211,300.

"I feel sure that the people of Nova Scotia will welcome this opportunity to give their support to the Red Cross and thus align themselves with what has been called 'the world's greatest humanitarian organization'.

Two Centennial Projects Discussed

On Monday night Digby Town Council discussed the possibilities of acquiring the Acadia Lines bus terminal on Birch Street. It was thought that Digby Town and Municipality could share the cost of purchasing the building and grounds, and as a centennial project it could be made into a museum or local information centre to serve visitors who come to Digby via Princess of Acadia or otherwise. It was mentioned that adequate parking could be made available for a number of cars. Seats and washrooms could be installed for the comfort of visitors. Ward-en Ronald Morehouse, of the municipality, was present for the discussion. It has been made known that the terminal will soon be closed. Provincial and federal governments will issue grants to areas wishing to carry out a centennial project. Council also discussed the possibilities of erecting a new recording office as a centennial project, to replace the old one now at Weymouth. This expense would also be shared by the Municipality of Clare. Councillor, Ralph MacIntyre was appointed to act as chairman of a committee to meet with members of Digby Municipal and Clare councils for a discussion on this matter.

Mayor C. D. Snow recommended to the council a poll tax of $22.00, and that it be charged to all persons eligible to pay poll tax, between the ages of 21 and 60. Persons whose incomes are less than $1,000 would be exempt, he suggested. There would be a rebate to persons paying real property tax only. Persons paying tax on real property at an amount from $1.00 to $50.00 would receive a rebate of 40% on the real property tax which would be deducted from the poll tax, if taxes were paid on the due date. Persons paying real property tax of $50.00 or more would receive a rebate of $20.00 to make a $200 poll tax being paid, if taxes were paid on the due date. After much discussion the Mayor's recommendation was turned over to the finance committee for further study. Mayor Snow also recommended a $20.00 business tax to be charged to all persons who live outside the town, but who earn their living within the town. The town clerk was instructed to write to the department of municipal affairs asking the town's right to impose such a tax.

Council recommended that the traffic authority keep large trucks off the street after 10:30 a.m., and that drivers be so instructed, and a fine to go into effect March 15 to those who are unwilling to cooperate. It was also decided to have the sidewalk changed in front of the old Central Motors building on Water Street and have two parking meters installed there. Concern was expressed about the alarming number of recent breaks throughout the area, and it was decided to continue the 24-hour patrol of the town which has been in effect for about two weeks.

Council decided to pay $250.00 as the Town of Digby share towards the hiring of a tourist director to serve the Annapolis Valley. E. Adelaar, of the A.V.A.B.T., in addressing the council, said that it is necessary to raise $10,000.00 from towns, villages and municipalities between Meteghan and Windsor. Mr. Adelaar said that a total of $52,000.00 was spent in Nova Scotia by tourists during 1963, and suggested that the Annapolis Valley area has the potential to attract its share of the total. He said that the average tourist spends from $7-$10 per day, and if their stay could be prolonged by a few days it would contribute substantially towards the economy of the entire Valley. Mr. Adelaar said that tourist expansion goes hand-in-hand with industrial expansion, so such a director would spend six months of the year in each of these phases of development.

The streets committee reported that $1,049.20 was spent for the purpose of removing snow from Digby streets during February. $168.58 was spent for gravel to cover icy patches. The high figure spent was a result of the unusual amount of snowfall and blizzards throughout the month.

Council accepted the resignation of Tom Cleveland from the post of civil defence director for Digby, and Reg. Turnbull was appointed to carry on with the duties of director.

Permission was granted Canadian Tire Corp. Digby store to build a service centre on their property on Montague Row.

It was decided to adopt Daylight Saving Time effective from April 26 to October 25.

Council will ask the Horticultural Society to get some trees to be planted where possible along Digby streets in an effort to make the town more attractive. The town is to bear the expense of planting such trees.

Hospital Ready Before End Of 1964

The new 90 bed Digby General Hospital, now under construction, will be open to serve patients before the end of 1964. F. C. Purdy announced at the annual meeting of the Digby General Hospital on Wednesday evening. The construction is now nearing the seventy-five per cent completion stage. Mr. Purdy announced. The construction is expected to be complete by early summer and equipment and furniture installed before the end of 1964.

Harry Titus, who oversees the construction work at the hospital, gave a detailed account of progress to date and said the work had progressed remarkably well.

To date, Mr. Purdy said, the Board has been able to meet all its financial commitments and said the magnificent effort in the construction of the new hospital shows a tremendous example of group leadership. He reported that of the $125,000 voluntary fund campaign objective, $53,844 had been received in cash and pledges. The campaign office was closed in September but further contributions are expected to come. He spoke highly of the efforts of the national campaign chairman, Eric Morse, Montreal.

Mr. Purdy, at the same time, announced that the hospital had received a bequest from the will of the late Violet G. Cornwall, Weymouth, amounting to $12,840.

A special committee has been set up to look into furnishing and equipping the new hospital. This committee includes members of the Board, medical staff, civic council, the administrator, director of nursing and Mrs. A. J. Dillon and Mrs. M. P. Gott in an advisory capacity. Already the special committee has invested in sterilizing and operating room equipment in excess of $25,000.

Appreciation was expressed to Mr. Purdy on Wednesday night for the vast amount of time given to the work of the Hospital Board during the past 12 years and especially during the planning of the new hospital for the past three years. The "Purdy and Richardson team", it was stated, were responsible for the area obtaining a fine new hospital.

Mental Health Panel

Chaired by V. G. Cardozo, president of the Digby County Mental Health Association, a panel dealing with mental health problems was staged at the Digby Regional High School last Thursday. The panel was part of an evening program to create interest in mental health and inform the public on mental health questions. Panelists were Rev. Logan, Clementsport; Reginald Purdy, Digby Branch Department of Welfare and C. E. Edwards, Bridgetown, Inspector of Schools.

Mr. Edwards led the panel discussion on "the school and mental health". He was quite concerned about violence seen on T. V. and said that T. V. programs are constantly affecting the morals of the children. We are losing ground he stated. Juvenile delinquency he said, has more than doubled.

The childhood days are the most important days, Mr. Edwards declared. Things go on in school, he said, which are not good for the mental health of the child. The out-of-date grade system, was cited by Mr. Edwards as being detrimental to mental health. Instead, he said, a program should be devised so that a child can develop at its normal rate.

In many cases, Mr. Edwards said, school teachers and supervisors are not impressed with the program of mental health. They are concerned about teaching mathematics but fail the child in mental health problems. Every teacher, he said, should be a good psychologist. One to two percent of pupils in a school need psychiatric treatment, five percent need some special assistance. He felt that the school should be an ideal place where problems of this nature can be dealt with. He felt the Mental Health Association could fit into the picture.

Rev. Mr. Logan dealt with mental health as related to the church. He said the mental state of a person is increasingly becoming the concern of the church. The church is realizing that man is one complete nature — body, mind and spirit and what happens to one affects the other.

Mr. Logan remarked on the great help which the M. H. A. (Please turn to page 10)

Snow at eight o'clock p.m. At eleven o'clock p.m. a motion to continue past the hour was made and passed. The hour of two o'clock came when press, police and other non-councillors, overcome by sleep, dismissed themselves. His Worship, the Mayor, later reported to the press that the councillors were so interested in all the items of business that the session did not conclude until 2:30 a.m.

Digby Has Mrs. Lewis

What does Digby have? Of ten the question is asked and immediately the answer comes — scallops. Digby has high tides. Digby has H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, the largest naval training base in the Commonwealth near to it. We can think of a number of other assets to Digby. But right for the moment we want to add "Digby has Mrs. Everett Lewis". That is, Marshalltown, near Digby has this second Grandmother Moses, (Mrs. Everett) Maude Lewis. Mrs. Lewis with her paintings of primitive character has become famous throughout Canada. The editor of The Digby Courier interviewed Mrs. Lewis again this week and found her a busy lady, she said, "Mrs. Wallis", she said, "I can't keep up with the demand, I'll have to send these letters back." Mrs. Lewis was most sincere in her statement as she clutched 25 letters, ten in Saturday's mail and 15 in Monday's. She definitely wanted to know how she could manage to get them returned without opening them. Some had no return address. By a little persuasion on the part of the writer and Mr. Lewis, Mrs. Lewis decided to keep the letters and fill the orders when she could. Among the letters were found some from Newfoundland, British Columbia, Quebec, Alberta, Manitoba and if we remember correctly U.S.A. The local demand too, is heavy said Mrs. Lewis as the editor placed an order for two. But of all the orders, filled by Mrs. Lewis, the one she filled for Robert L. Stanfield, Premier of Nova Scotia, (Please turn to page 10)

Lynch, who was a charter member and long active in the local Order of the Victorian Order of Nurses. The Trophy has been put up for annual competition and each year the interest in this bonsel has grown.

The twenty-two team entry was a slight increase over last year when several family teams were entered. Two mixed teams from the Digby Regional High School aided in the success of the bonsel. Net proceeds amounted to approximately $165.00.

Four Fundy Sport Fishing Boats

A growing interest in salt water sport fishing in Nova Scotia is underlined by a substantial increase in the number of sport fishing boat charters in 1963, Trade and Industry Minister E. A. Manson said today.

A total of 1,877 charters with 37 boats accounted for a 25 per cent increase over 1962. This year 71 charter boats are expected to be operating in all sections of the province with the number of boats in each location as follows: Bay of Fundy, four; Wedgeport, Maitland and Cape St. Mary, 13; South Shore, 12; Halifax, 11; Eastern Shore, eight; Cape Breton, 21; and Northumberland Strait, two. The majority will be equipped for tuna and sword fishing.

As part of the promotion program to develop salt water sport fishing in the province, the Nova Scotia Travel Bureau will again sponsor "schools for skippers" for fishermen wishing to enter the charter field. Those who do not have the certificate required by law may take the course to secure a master's temporary certificate.

For years Nova Scotia has been known among anglers as a bluefin tuna fishing centre. Two world records for the largest tuna caught with rod and reel anywhere in the world were established in waters of this province and still stand today.

The all-time record of 977 pounds was caught in St. Ann's Bay, Cape Breton, Sept. 4, 1950, by Commander Duncan M. Hodgson and the women's world record of 882 pounds was caught at Wedgeport, Sept. 6, 1947, by Mrs. A. D. Crowinshield.

Many anglers consider the boating of a giant tuna as the apex of their career. Last year 112 tuna were landed in Nova Scotia waters — 75 at Wedgeport, 71 at Cape St. Mary's, and 36 at Halifax. The largest tuna, weighing 832 pounds, was caught off Halifax.

The provincial travel bureau is attempting to promote fishing for other species of sport fish, in addition to tuna and swordfish, in waters surrounding the province.

Urge Use News Media Church Communication

The Moderator of the United Baptist Church of Digby urged people to use press, radio and TV for opportunities to use these media to make the work of the church more effective. He said that the church must use all means of communication. "Let us realize," he said, "that we now live and work in a period of communication. Increasingly effective communications must be made on the spot. G. K. Chesterton once said: 'To make a thing real, make it local. Certainly, it has been my experience that communication via press, radio and TV are made most of, but not from, Toronto, but rather from local sources.'"

Waitress Refresher Courses

The first 1964 waitress refresher courses are scheduled this month in Yarmouth and Halifax.

Conducted by the Department of Trade and Industry, the courses will be held March 12-13 at the Grand Hotel in Yarmouth and March 17-18 at the Nova Scotian Hotel in Halifax. Additional courses are being considered for Middleton and Cape Breton for some time in early April.

Jean Ross, supervisor of Accommodation and Facilities Section of the department and

Reg. Purdy To New Glasgow

Arthur S. Kite, R. S. W., has been appointed Regional Administrator of Welfare for Cape Breton, Island, Public Welfare Minister W. S. Kennedy Jones announced recently.

Mr. Kite is currently Regional Administrator for the Welfare Department's North Shore region with headquarters in New Glasgow. Mr. Kite will be replaced in the New Glasgow office July 1, by Reginald Purdy, M.S.W., now Regional Administrator of the Western Regional office in Digby.

In his new position, effective July 1, Mr. Kite will also be Executive Director of the Children's Aid Society of Cape Breton, an appointment confirmed by the Society's Board February 18. Mr. Jones said this joint service arrangement has been successful since its beginning in 1947.

Mr. Purdy is a graduate of Saint Francis Xavier University and the Maritime School of Social Work. He has served with the Department in a number of field positions and was Executive Director of the Cumberland County Children's Aid Society for several years. He began his career as a social worker, later serving in Annapolis and Truro.

In Digby Mr. Purdy has taken an active part in the Mental Health Association and the Victorian Order of Nurses, and has also been a member of the church. This Mr. Purdy's second assignment. He has three children, Garth, S. Kirk, and Jane.

CLOSER TO GOD

If you want to be closer to God, just look at his wonderful world. As they pass pathways you tread, and watch its beauties unfold.

The birds that swiftly fly, to their little ones in their nest. The life up their song unto the sky. As homeward they go to rest.

If you want to be closer to God, watch each and everything. The wonder of a seed within a pod. Waiting to grow in the spring. The sound of softly falling rain.

The wind that blows thru the trees. The rustle of leaves as they move. The softest sound to please.

If you want to be closer to God, take a walk within a wood. To a stream with a fishing rod. Or to a field where some animal grazes.

Listen to the grouse's noisy drumming. The squirrel's chatter from the treetop. The bees with their steady humming.

There are many things to see and hear. If you want to be closer to God, let it all be wonderful works. The things that grow from the soil.

To his swiftly flowing brooks. The beautiful flowers lift their heads. To the sun that shines above.

The little duckling in its downy bed. He cradles them all with his love.

Phyllis Jones, Weymouth North.

conductor of the course, said: "Few people realize the many qualifications a good waitress must have. She represents her establishment, community and province to our many visitors and is a hostess to her guests, a guardian of public health and a salesgirl. She must know the many techniques involved in providing good service."

Miss Ross is assisted by staff of her section and by Mrs. Betty MacRae, supervisor of the food service staff at Halifax International Airport. Mrs. MacRae has had many years' experience as a waitress and waitress in restaurants and hotels in United States and Canada.

Material used in the course has been compiled into a book entitled "Every Customer Is My Guest," written by Miss Ross. This book is being purchased by hotels and restaurants, as well as being used to supplement the curriculum of waitress training in a number of schools in Canada and the United States.

Digby Baptist Church News

The teachers of the Sunday School of the Baptist Church of Digby met with members of the Christian Youth Council last Sunday evening to give consideration to the proposed new curriculum for schools in the churches of the Atlantic Baptist Convention. Rev. H. S. Hartlin presented samples of the new materials which will be studied carefully before a decision is made. New members of the Council who were present at the meeting were welcomed. These included Gerry Dunn, Charles Hersey and Mrs. Sidney Smith.

The next meeting of the Baptist Youth Fellowship will be held on Sunday evening, April 5th. At this time it is planned to have a showing of the film "Martin Luther".

Commencing next Sunday night, services in the Baptist Church will be held in the church auditorium. These will take the form of pre-Easter services, and will replace the usual Sunday evening Bible hour. They will continue throughout the month of March.

Digby County 21 Acres Strawberries

Certified strawberry plant sales this year will go well over the 300,000 mark, according to a Nova Scotia department of agriculture report on small fruit crops. The 1963 plant sales reached a new all-time high both in the province and other provinces of Canada.

Total plant sales in 1963 were 2,866,570 a jump of 337,000 plants over 1962. Acreage planted in Kings County last year was 167 acres; Annapolis County, 56 acres; Cumberland, 32 acres; Hants, 20 acres; Colchester, 27 acres; Lunenburg, Pictou and Digby, each 24 acres; Cape Breton Island, 14 acres; Antigonish, 13 acres; Yarmouth, 11 acres; Queens, 3 acres; Halifax and Guysborough, 2 acres; Harold Gates, Canning, secretary of the Maritime Strawberry Growers Association, said as nursery sales indicated, market volume would take a decided boost this year.

Processing plants were also taking more retailers than the 32 quart crates. There is much less crushing and the berries are ready for display without rough handling to uncrate, Mr. Gates said.

Well done is better than well said.

"Low grade seed means a crop that suffers both in yield and quality. Only by using good seed of suitable varieties can a farmer produce most profitably." Mr. Hays said, commencing "National Good Seed Month" as a means of spotlighting the importance of quality seed in Canadian agriculture.

"National Good Seed Month"

The use of good seed is an important and basic step in producing crops that are high in quality and yield. Agriculture Minister Harry Hays said in proclaiming March as "National Good Seed Month".

The Minister noted that growers who purchase certified seed of recommended varieties are getting the best available — seed that is pure as to variety, and has a high level of germination and uniformity of results in the field.

He also pointed out that freedom from disease and weeds are some of the other dividends enjoyed when quality seed is used.

Although seed is the lowest factor in crop production costs, good seed of the proper variety offers the best investment protection and possibilities of increased returns.

124 Pound Leo Carried 260 Pound Ice Cakes

Although two years late, A. Valentine sends The Courier a clipping from the January 4, 1962 issue of the Boston Globe. The clipping is about a man born in Weymouth, N. S., and who carried more than twice as much ice as his weight. The man was Joseph Leo Comeau, Maynard, Mass., who was then 73 years old. A Valentine wondered if the man is still living and if he is still carrying 260 lb. ice cakes.

Mr. Comeau weighed 124 lbs. and was 5 ft. 3 ins and he carried a cake of ice weighing 315 lbs. His 26 year old truck which he had bought second hand, had been driven 182,000 miles. His license was No. 1 showing he was the first truck owner in Maynard.

Mr. Comeau moved with his parents from Weymouth, to Maynard when he was 18 months old and continued to live there. The item from the Globe states that Mr. Comeau though himself obese at 124 lbs. when he used to weigh 100 lbs. and still carried the same ice weight as mentioned above.

Nova Scotia's Model Train

Nova Scotia's newest railway is the Crystal Crescent Special, a miniature train that carries 40 children over one mile of track. The train is the newest addition to Crystal Crescent Beach recreation facilities and will make its first official run in May.

Nova Scotia's first model railway will go into operation this spring at Crystal Crescent Beach near Halifax.

The Crystal Crescent Central with a rolling stock of one four cylinder, gasoline powered locomotive and five cars, is the creation of Orville Pulsifer of Sombra, and E. C. Poole of Herring Cove.

The four-and-a-half ton model train, designed and built by the two men over a period of four months, was the product of two years planning, covering the design, construction, and building of the model train.

The little caribbean blue and silver train will operate from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. seven days a week at Crystal Crescent. Designed mainly for children, the train can accommodate up to 10 children or 24 adults. Round-trip fares; children 25 cents and adults 50 cents.

The locomotive is made of steel while the cars are of plywood. Each car will bear a name as Mermaid, Bluefin, or Sea-mist. The first two cars are passenger cars, while the remaining three can also accommodate "luggage" such as picnic baskets.

The train will travel a one-mile circuit which includes two loops, two trestles and two switches. The train has air brakes and an authentic air horn.

Mr. Pulsifer said he expects the train to carry about 20,000 passengers in the May to September period.

The model train is the latest addition to Crystal Crescent Beach enterprise. The 60 acre site has 2,000 feet of ocean and facilities for 75 tents and 25 trailers. There is a canteen undergoing expansion. There are picnic tables and fireplaces.

More than 60,000 persons are expected to visit the Crystal Crescent Beach this year.

minutes length, the schedule will not be changed.

When you come right down to it, there is no law that says you have to use big words when you write or talk.

There are lots of small words, and good ones, that can be made to say the things you want to say, quite as well as the big ones. It may take a bit more time to find them at first, but it can be well worth it, and all of us know what they mean. Some small words, more than you might think, are rich with just the right feel, the right taste, as it made to help you say a thing the way it should be said.

Small words can be crisp, brief, terse - go to the point, like a knife. They have a charm all their own. They dance, twist, turn, sing. Like sparks in the night they light the way for the eyes of those who read. They are the grace-notes of prose. You know what they say the way you know a day is bright and fair at first sight. And you find, as you read, that you like the way they say it. Small words are pay. And they can catch large thoughts and hold them up for all to see, like rare stones in a bag of gold, or joy in the case of a child. Some make you feel, as well as see; the cold deep dark of night, the hot salt sting of tears.

Small words move with ease where big words stand still or, worse, bog down and get in the way of what you want to say. There is not much

Report From Parliament Hill

George C. Nowlan
February 22, 1964

Once again a new Session of Parliament has begun, and as in the past, I will try to advise on some of the background of its proceedings, its personalities and its accomplishments or lack of them.

At the opening, all of the formalities which have become traditional throughout the years were observed. However, perhaps something of the former "pomp and circumstance" was missing. This, for two reasons.

Usually, then, Excellencies drive up to the House of Commons in an open coach, surrounded by RCMP guards.

In their colorful uniforms. However, Tuesday was a raw and chilly day, and His Excellency arrived in a closed car, without the mounted escort.

Madame Vanier was absent from this opening. She had just returned from the hospital after having had an operation for the removal of cataracts from her eyes so was unable to attend. Madame Vanier is a strikingly beautiful woman, and her presence adds a charm and colour to the opening ceremonies which was lacking on this occasion. Everyone will be glad to know that she is making a full recovery from her operation, and should soon be restored to her former good health.

All of this suggested that the years are passing by. Rumour hath it that the Honourable George Drew is being considered by the Government as a possible successor to General Vanier when he retires. The appointment of a Governor General does not cause the Government the same difficulties as would an appointment to some lesser office. Obviously, the person selected must be above politics, must have had a distinguished career, and must be like Caesar's wife, insofar as criticism, or reproach is concerned. Then, too, the man chosen must be one of experience, background in the public and social life of the country. The Government, therefore, is not embarrassed by having the usual political supplicants looking for a job. The list of potential candidates is a very restricted one indeed, and it might be a stroke of political genius for the Government to appoint someone who was never actively identified with the Liberal Party, and as a matter of fact was actively opposed to it at one time. But this was some years ago, and Mr. Drew's experience as High Commissioner in London for the past six years has removed any political stigma. Similarly, the Government of Mr. St. Laurent appointed the Honourable Vincent Massey as Governor General, who also had been at one time active in politics on behalf of the Liberal Party, but whose career as Governor General was an exemplary one. His former political associations were completely forgotten by those who perhaps at the beginning criticised the appointment.

As Prime Minister Pearson had said earlier, the Speech from the Throne contained few if any surprises. Most of the matters referred to therein had been before the last Parliament. Some of them were withdrawn for redrafting and some were dropped because there was not sufficient time for their consideration.

The speeches of the Leader of the Opposition and of the Prime Minister were of a very high order. Mr. Diefenbaker made a slashing attack upon the Government, but it was one which was replete with wit and humour, classical allusions and anecdotes, which kept everyone in a high state of good humour, not excepting the Cabinet Ministers themselves who were being taken to task. The Prime Minister gave a more sedate and scholarly address, dealing very substantially with the problems of maintaining National unity. His speech on bilingualism and biculturalism should be read by all. Having said that, I also would like to suggest that perhaps too much attention is being paid to the talk that Confederation is threatened with collapse. I am quite convinced that the majority of Canadians of all races, French, English or new Canadian, are determined to maintain this country as a Nation, and are committed to maintaining its unity. There are problems which have to be solved but they can and will be solved by agreement and co-operation. There is a limited fringe of extremists who are talking of separatism. There are youngsters who are enjoying the risk and excitement of breaking into armories and stealing guns and ammunition. The more publicity that is given to these crackpot theorists, these juvenile gangsters, the more important in their own eyes, they become and the more publicity they will seek.

Included in the Speech from the Throne was a statement of the Government's intention to create a system of loans for university students which would not bear interest until after their graduation. This has been attacked in the Province of Quebec as interference with education, which of course comes within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Province. The same argument was used when the Government of Canada instituted grants to universities. I have never seen any validity to this suggestion. There certainly is no interference with education within the Province, provided the monies are to be used for general educational purposes and that the Province will not reduce its own expenditures because of the monies it receives from the federal treasury.

The debate on the Address will probably continue throughout all next week. After that we will start dealing with important legislation among the first of which I would think would be the Canadian Pension Bill and the Redistribution Bill.

Mrs. Warne Attends Meet In Halifax

Mrs. H. M. Warne, Honorary Secretary, attended a meeting of Nova Scotia Division Red Cross officials held in Halifax last week to meet Oakah L. Jones, of Toronto, national campaign chairman for the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Mr. Jones, who had spent several of his early years in Nova Scotia, was greatly impressed by the "new look" which he had seen during this visit to the Atlantic Provinces, evident in the new schools, industries and homes to be seen in Halifax and throughout the province. This made him optimistic as campaign chairman, and he felt that this is Red Cross's year to meet its objective in the March campaign, a feat which has not been accomplished for at least 19 years.

"New opportunities are appearing which will keep her best people at home, so that the Atlantic Provinces no longer will have to boast apologetically that her greatest export is her brains," he continued.

"With these new opportunities come new responsibilities, responsibilities we will have to assume as citizens and Red Crossers," Mr. Jones said. "To meet these responsibilities, translated into help wherever it is needed throughout the world, Red Cross will need the encouragement and financial support of every individual, every business, every professional man and woman, every member of labour, every youngster."

A. S. Hopkins, campaign chairman for Nova Scotia, said the 1964 Nova Scotia objective is $211,300. Of this, $68,900 is expected to be raised in the March campaign. The remaining $142,394 is the quota accepted by United Appeals in Amherst, Cape Breton County, Halifax-Dartmouth, Pictou County and Truro.

Mr. Hopkins expressed confidence in the success of the campaign as it is carried through on national, provincial and local levels.

"Just as we, at divisional office, have set objectives for our territory," he told the assembled officers and regional vice-presidents, "we suggest that you carry this plan one step further by setting individual targets for each of your canvassers, using your own and their knowledge of their territory to guide you."

As a further guide, he said: "Secure your canvassers early; give them target figures, start canvassing March 2, make certain each and every house is canvassed, follow up for early completion and send in results."

G. R. Matheson, president of Nova Scotia Division, who chaired the meeting, commended the thoroughness with which United Appeal canvassers had called on homes in their areas.

"It is up to Red Cross canvassers to be equally efficient during our campaign," he declared. "If the canvassing force is sufficient to the task, and we know it will be, and if every home in the province is contacted, then I am convinced the success of the campaign is assured."

Other speakers were C. H. Kydd, assistant provincial campaign chairman, who thanked Mr. Jones; Commissioner Charles L. Hilsley, who talked on United Appeal; L. G. Puchard, provincial campaign director, who gave a provincial review; Carman A. Jerry, chairman, public relations committee, and Mrs. Marcella Brown, public relations director, who outlined campaign publicity.

Partnership In Mission

A new concept of the Christian Church's mission to the world was the chief outcome of the great Anglican Congress held in Toronto last August. It poses a challenge to Anglicans who belong to a world-wide Communion which embraces 18 independent Churches with a total membership of more than 40,000,000.

The Congress made it abundantly clear that if the divine mission of Anglicanism and indeed of the whole Christian Church is to be made relevant to modern life, its work and witness must be subjected to a drastic re-appraisal. Churchmen have been called upon to forget their preoccupation with local needs and to develop an ef-

Awarded Air Force Cross

F/O Donald F. Parker

On the morning of 19 April 63, F/O Parker was the navigator in a CF-101B aircraft of No. 416 All-Weather Fighter Squadron (at Chatham, N.B.) participating in a tactical exercise.

During the second mission in which he and his pilot participated, while making an attack on a target aircraft at twenty thousand feet, F/O Parker was surprised to observe his aircraft turning in the wrong direction for the intercept manoeuvre which was underway.

Upon querying the pilot, F/O Parker deduced from the replies that the pilot was in difficulty and suspected that a malfunction of oxygen equipment was the cause.

He calmly, but emphatically directed the pilot to descend and follow emergency oxygen procedures. When this action produced no tangible results and from further remarks made by the pilot, F/O Parker realized that the pilot was seriously ill. He then commenced to direct the pilot to return to base and prepare to land the aircraft.

Although the situation was obviously hazardous, F/O Parker did not even declare an emergency in his radio transmissions, since he had reasoned that this would unnerved the pilot completely. Nevertheless he elected to remain with the aircraft and to attempt to save it and the pilot.

Handling all radio transmissions himself, he soothed, persuaded and encouraged the pilot through the approach and landing in less than ideal weather conditions, in spite of the pilot's uncertain and often incorrect reactions which caused the aircraft to repeatedly approach critical performance limits.

Following the landing, the pilot collapsed almost completely and was helpless. F/O Parker climbed forward to shut down the engines and assist groundcrew and medical personnel in removing the almost unconscious pilot from the cockpit.

Throughout a dangerous situation, F/O Parker demonstrated exceptional courage, devotion to duty and loyalty to his pilot, in hazarding his own life when he might have safely ejected from the aircraft.

His cool and skillful direction, which made full use of the pilot's severely limited ability, was instrumental in saving both their lives and a valuable aircraft.

fective world strategy for Christ.

One of the primary requirements in what the Archbishop of Canterbury has called a "partnership in mission" is vision and meaningful prayer. This will result in a better understanding of each other's needs and problems and also of the respective contributions in Christian fellowship which members of less affluent overseas Churches can bring to their fellow Christians everywhere.

Another essential requirement is money. Under the Anglican World Mission Fund, set up by the Executive Council of the Canadian Church, Anglicans in this country have been called upon to raise no less than $2,500,000 during the next five years, over and above the Church's regular budget. This is part of a crash program by which the entire Anglican Communion will contribute $15,000,000 to meet the needs of the "young-er" Churches of Africa, India and South-East Asia.

Oh, oh! Here comes Mom. Well soldier, get ready for an attack.

Car Registering Time

Almost 135,000 passenger cars remain to be registered in Nova Scotia before the March 31 deadline, and the time is shorter than the motorist thinks.

Highways Minister Stephen Pyke today urged car owners to apply for their 1964 registration by March 10 to insure delivery before the deadline.

He reminded motorists that Easter falls this year during the last days of March, thus cutting two working days from the normal Motor Vehicle Branch schedule. The office is closed Good Friday, March 27 and Easter Monday, March 30. Only 26 working days remain before the deadline.

To date only about 19,000 have registered their cars for 1964. An estimated 160,000 automobiles will be registered in the province this year.

Motor Vehicle Branch staff are able to process about 2,500 applications a day, evenly divided between mail and over-the-counter sales. During February and March last year they registered 107,000 cars.

A Sydney branch office handles over-the-counter applications only, and registered 15,000 during the peak months last year.

Mr. Pyke also reminded motorists that commercial vehicle registration expired January 31 and that operator's licences expire during the person's birth month.

Marriage

Dakin — Outhouse
Grace Anglican Church, St. Catharines, Ontario, was the scene of a beautiful, quiet wedding when Rev. Wyatt united in marriage Rosiland Pearl, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murland Outhouse, Tiverton, Digby Co., and Fredrick Louis, only son of Mrs. Kathleen Dakin, of Halifax, and Louis Dakin, of Digby, N. S.

The bride looked lovely in a white sheath dress featuring a high neckline and three-quarter length sleeves, with white accessories. She wore a corsage of red and white roses.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Don Bird, of St. Catharines. Her dress was of black sheath with white accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

The groom was attended by Mr. Don Bird, of St. Catharines. Following the wedding ceremony, the bridal party dined at Lancer Restaurant, in the city, after which the bride and groom left for a honeymoon to Niagara Falls. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Dakin will reside at St. Catharines, where Mr. Dakin is employed at McKinnon Industries, Ltd.

The Battle Of Litter Lane

The moon rode slowly behind the dark clouds. A tiny mouse scampered across the street to the refuge of the shadows beyond. All was quiet in Litter Lane. A dark form moved stealthily against the moon. It was the form of Tiger Tom, a name much feared among the felines of Litter Lane. Every kitten in the vicinity was raised in the awe and fear of this creature who had vanquished all would-be rulers of Litter Lane. As to looks, Tiger Tom was rather scrawny and mangy, but after one battle with him you were wont to regard him with a respect not offered to many a plump, glossy aristocrat.

On this particular night, Tiger Tom was out hunting for food. From out of the shadowy gloom there emerged another cat. Instantly, Tiger Tom noted that it was no tabby searching for food for her babies; nor was it a meek respectful kitten getting his first glimpse of the world. No, it was another alley cat like Tom himself, evidently looking for a fight, and Tom was going to give him his money's worth.

He arched his back, uttered a shriek of hatred and defiance and hurled himself at the stranger. Though taken by surprise, the stranger did not let Tom get a headstart. The stranger was larger and stronger than Tom, but Tom was like lightning for darting quickness. For a full hour they wrangled on a biting, scratching, wriggling mass. They jumped from rooftop to road, from road to fence. Here, seeing that his opponent was out of breath, Tom got the stranger's tail between his teeth and hurled him over the fence.

Tiger Tom limped away. His eye was swollen, part of his ear was missing and there was a bald spot on his back where the stranger had torn off his fur. But that didn't matter. Tiger Tom looked around him with the air of a conqueror. He had won another fight, he was still King of Litter Lane.

A Real Blizzard

It was on a bright sunny Friday afternoon, when Joe Smith and Jim Brown started out on a hunting trip. Although people told them of a storm that was on its way, they paid no heed. Later the story of their trip was found on a piece of paper on a table in an old log cabin. This is the story.

We left home Jim and I, Joe Smith, hoping to hunt for deer. We were about three hours in the woods when it started to snow, blow and turn into a real blizzard. We soon lost our way for we couldn't see five feet in front of us. We stumbled through the woods for about two hours in the storm. My face and hands were frozen and Jim was ready to pass out when we spied a cabin in the distance. We managed to get inside and make a fire with wood that was in the cabin. Soon we were warm, but we didn't have any food. We were hoping the storm would let up, but it didn't. During the night our fire burned low, and finally went out. We couldn't light it because we had no matches or dry wood.

Saturday morning: It is cold, the blizzard is still raging and we are hungry and so cold. We are leaving and placing this letter here for we are moving on to the next camp. Joe Smith, Jim Brown.

The two men were found by a hunter three miles from the cabin frozen in the snow. Paul Isles 9-G

Newspapers Everywhere

My brother and I had always wanted a dog of our very own. One day my father said that if we bought the dog he would help us build the doghouse. We both got jobs and mine was delivering newspapers. After two weeks I had earned five cents, but he told me to walk five blocks to deliver my papers. The money was spent on two hocks for my dog.

The next day I went to deliver my newspapers early. I thought the job was truly important. I started the delivery right away. I went down the street and all my papers flew into the air. One of them

Problems In Education

"After every education bill we pay we are richer than if we hadn't paid it, but not as rich as if we had paid more," stated C. E. Edwards, Inspector of Schools, during his address to Council on educational developments in Annapolis County. Comparing education costs today with costs ten years ago, Mr. Edwards noted that in 1951 the Municipal levy for education was $100,000, which at that time was considered high. This year the Municipal levy is $146,000.15, and the total education budget for the Municipality of Annapolis for 1964, $1,140,648.00. During the ten-year period school enrolment in Annapolis County has increased by 1,000, Mr. Edwards said.

To provide an educational program to meet the needs of every child in the County is our responsibility, Mr. Edwards told Council. This calls for a well developed school program, tailored to include Guidance Counselling, non-college preparatory courses in the High School, Auxiliary Classes for the slow learners, Vocational High School opportunities for all, and well developed Industrial Arts, Household Economics and Commercial Departments in each of our Regional High Schools.

Mr. Edwards underlined the contribution of the Regional Library to the schools and communities of the County and Valley. The Royal Commission on Libraries recommends annual expenditure of $3.00 per pupil just to maintain school libraries. If this recommendation were implemented this would mean an annual expenditure of over $15,000 on school libraries alone in Annapolis County. Financially and educationally speaking, Mr. Edwards said the Regional Library, with its Bookmobile Service, is a good investment. "In Norway, libraries, symphony concerts, and drama are brought by bookmobile, snowmobile, and boat to communities way beyond the Arctic circle. In that country, Mr. Edwards said, there is no poverty." In his address, Mr. Edwards made reference to Switzerland and Colombia, South America — "One hundred years ago the mountainous country of Switzerland, essentially without natural resources, was poverty stricken, he said. Today Switzerland, because of its educational program, is one of the top cultural countries of the world, with the highest circulation of newspapers, the highest opera attendance, and the highest sale of books per capita. In contrast Colombia, South America, a country which is blessed with excellent agricultural lands, oil and mineral resources, and with everything in the world but a good educational system, is poor and its standard of living extremely low."

Continuing with problems facing Canadian education, Mr. Edwards emphasized that our most serious weakness is our failure to educate all children within full range of their potential abilities and interests. "We are not even educating the majority," he said. The most shocking statistic is that thirty percent of our children starting school in Canada leave after less than eight years of schooling. Seventy percent of our unemployed have less than Grade VIII. Young people, whose schools do not meet their needs, are cast upon the labor market ill prepared to cope successfully with life in Canada today. Formerly they were absorbed, but this is no longer true. Without an educational program to meet the needs of all our youth, we shall continue to be faced with the situation of increasing unemployment and increasing delinquency in an expanding economy. The problem of early school leaving, he said, involves not only the personal needs of the young people themselves, but it affects the quality of living and society itself. The whole community suffers, the Province suffers, and Canada suffers. In fact, Humanity itself suffers.

After two weeks I had earned five cents, but he told me to walk five blocks to deliver my papers. The money was spent on two hocks for my dog. The next day I went to deliver my newspapers early. I thought the job was truly important. I started the delivery right away. I went down the street and all my papers flew into the air. One of them landed on Mrs. Pulsifer's head and she cried out, "I will never buy newspapers again." I never sold them again either. The next day I got a new job taking care of my neighbour's dog. In a few days my brother and I had enough money to purchase the dog we wanted so very much. Joe Smith, Grade 4, St. Patrick's School.

Red Cross Campaign

A new spirit of progress and optimism is abroad in the Atlantic Provinces today, one which bodes well for the success of the Red Cross March campaign. So said Oakah L. Jones, Toronto national chairman for the Canadian Red Cross Society, at a meeting of Nova Scotia Division Red Cross officials in the Fundy Room of the Nova Scotian Hotel recently.

"The Atlantic Provinces have taken on a new look, a good new look," he declared. "It is evident in Halifax and throughout the province, in its schools, industry, new homes - and in the fresh coats of paint on the older ones."

The national campaign chairman felt sure this was Red Cross's year to meet its objective in the March campaign, a feat that has not been accomplished for at least 19 years.

"New opportunities, are appearing, which will keep her best people at home, so that the Atlantic Provinces no longer will have to boast apologetically that her greatest export is her brains," he continued.

"With these new opportunities come new responsibilities, responsibilities we will have to assume as citizens and Red Crossers," Mr. Jones said. "To meet these responsibilities, translated into help wherever it is needed throughout the world, Red Cross will need the encouragement and financial support of every individual, every business, every professional man and woman, every member of labour, every youngster."

A. S. Hopkins, campaign chairman for Nova Scotia, said the 1964 Nova Scotia objective is $211,300. Of this, $68,906 is expected to be raised in the March campaign. The remaining $142,394 is the quota accepted by United Appeals.

Quotes for Digby County are: Bear River, $150; Digby Town, $770; Digby Rural, $700; Weymouth, $610; Clare Municipality, Meteghan, $1220; L. Saulnierville Parish, $200.

This we change.

This we don't.

Now you can see for yourself where we make most of our changes. Way down deep. Every part you can see (and every part you can't see) has been changed again and again. As a matter of fact, there are only six parts left from the original VW.

But we never change the Volkswagen without a reason. And the only reason is to make it even better.

When we do make a change, we try to make the new part fit older models, too.

So you'll find that many VW parts are interchangeable from one year to the next.

Which is why it's actually easier to get parts for a VW than for many domestic cars. And why VW service is as good as it is. The same principle holds good for the beetle shape.

We made the rear window bigger one year so you could see other people better.

And made the tail lights bigger so other people could see you better.

But nothing drastic. Any Volkswagen hood still fits any VW ever made. So does any fender.

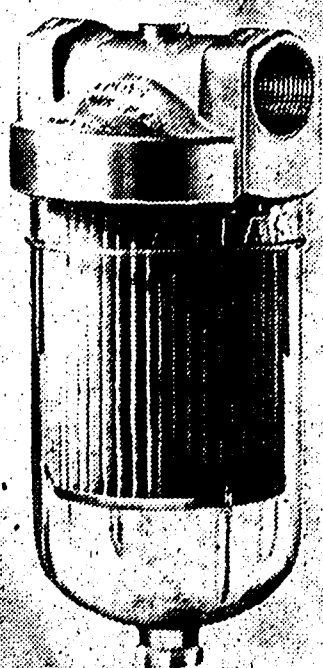

And, in case you hadn't noticed, every VW still looks like every other VW.

Which may turn out to be the nicest thing of all about the car. It doesn't go in one year and out the other.

ler of Nova Scotia gave her the most happiness. She was thrilled to have the Premier to visit her home last Fall when he called for two pictures which were previously ordered by Mrs. Stanfield. "My, he is a fine man" was the joyful expression by Mrs. Lewis. Mrs. Lewis was pursued to keep her orders and attempt to fill them as she could see fit. One order was for 6 paintings. Another order did give her quite concern. It was an order for a picture over 45 ins. in length measurement to be used in front of a fire place. "I haven't room to work at it here," said Mrs. Lewis. "I can't do it."

Questioned about the Christmas cards which Mrs. Lewis used to do for sale, she said she had to drop that project for lack of time. The pictures took all the time she had.

Mrs. Lewis and her husband who is night watchman at the Digby Municipal Home at Marshalltown, live nearby the Home in a small wooden dwelling containing a downstairs kitchen-sitting room and a bedroom on the second floor. Driving by Marshalltown the house cannot be missed for it is the only one on the road with hand painted flowers, birds and other symbols of nature decorating the doors and windows.

Should you have any doubts as to whether this is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis or not, just walk to the door. You do not need to knock. You'll find Mrs. Lewis has already opened the door for you. You cannot mistake the home after entering for no other home has a stove, stairway, blinds, mirrors, cabinets, cookie cans and practically every article in it decorated with hand painted flowers and scenes.

Mrs. Lewis is not a really well woman. She is very much crippled with arthritis and this makes her all the more wonderful. "It is tiresome to bend over and paint" remarked the over sixty year old and crippled Mrs. Lewis. "I suppose you have done well financially in this work" we queried Mrs. Lewis. "Well, the tubes of paint are expensive," she said, "and I don't believe I charge enough for my work. "We were inclined to believe that she didn't charge quite enough either and ventured to say, "Mrs. Lewis, we heard your pictures were twenty-five dollars. Is that true?" Oh, no, I have been charging only $3.00 was the answer. From there Mrs. Lewis told of her experience last year. She had done an order of 12 pictures and she had heard later they had been sold by the party for ten dollars each.

Continuing about her profits on the pictures, Mrs. Lewis remarked "I can't keep any of the money, there are so many things for which to go to town." It costs a lot to live, chimed in Mr. Lewis who had just returned from town with necessities and some candy and ice cream for Mrs. Lewis, a special treat. Their happy companionship was noted as Mrs. Lewis looked to the interviewer with a smile and remarked, "He always brings me ice cream."

Digby has Mrs. Lewis, whose paintings are becoming nationally known and whose work was described recently by a Toronto critic as outstanding in uniqueness and primitive character.

ROSSWAY
Mrs. Burton Ellis of Digby spent the weekend with her daughter, Mrs. James Lewis and family.

Mr. John Kendale of Halifax recently spent the weekend with his friend Miss Gloria VanTassel of Gulliver's Cove.

MENTAL HEALTH
and the Psychiatric Clinic are to the work of the church. He said, that at present there is dialogue going on between the psychologists and clergy and he hopes it will lead to a better and fuller life for all people.

In speaking of conditions, Mr. Logan said that there is a great moral crisis in the world today. Somewhere along the line society had failed to give people the strength both spiritually and morally to face life. Mr. Purdy dealt with the subject of mental health from the welfare angles. He said the welfare department gives social assistance because of need and often because of health conditions. Regarding health, he said, the attitude toward physical illness is worse than the illness itself. Children who are wards sometimes become delinquent because they have been moved to a strange home and a strange church in a strange community. Poverty homes, he said, often have persons of poor mental health. In all these cases, he said, the psychiatric clinic helps to prevent tragedy. The welfare office is closely aligned with the M. H. work and often the welfare staff meets with the clinic staff, he stated.

A lively interest was aroused by the speakers as was apparent in the questions from the audience. Mr. Logan concluded the panel session with the remarks that mental illness is not caused only by the lack of spiritual life but often by misdirected spiritual life. Everybody, he said, should be concerned about people, take an interest in a neighbor, the lonely and aged and the new-comer.

A mental health film "Families First" was shown.

The evening got away to a good start by an entertaining and talented program presented by students of the Digby Regional High School. The program was under the direction of Wallace Hodgson, teacher.

Vocal solos were rendered by Misses Nancy Riley and Lila Wong, Miss Riley and the Misses Dukeshire sang a trio, accompanists were Miss Hobb teacher, and Miss Karen Jayne.

"Beate" numbers were presented by Mr. Hodgson, Jeffrey Hodgson and Gordon Robinson. In the orchestra were Luke Guerlign, David Hardy, Terry James and Darren Hyson.

Brownies Mark Founder's Day

1st Tiverton Brownie Pack observed the birthday of Lord Baden Powell, founder of the Boy Scout Movement, near 1907, from which Girl Guides and Brownies later originated.

Leader Brown Owl, Mrs. Jean Elliott, read some interesting facts surrounding the life of Baden Powell, to the Brownies. It was disclosed that Mr. Powell, whose full name was Robert Smyth Baden-Powell, son of Rev. Professor and Mrs. Baden-Powell, was born in London, England, on Feb. 22, 1857. When he was three years old his father died. His mother was left with seven children, all under fourteen years of age.

It was also learned that Mr. Powell was ambidextrous and was known to make two different drawings at the same time, one with each hand.

As a boy Mr. Powell did lots of hiking, boating, and was good at sports, acting and music, as well as sketching.

Mrs. Elliott read, "During war years Mr. Powell became a soldier and rose in rank to Major-General. During the Boer War he found himself trapped at Mafeking and for 217 days, from October 13, 1899, to May 18, 1900, with a small band of soldiers, he held out against a huge force of Boers, which besieged the town. During this siege he used the boys of the town as messengers, first aid attendants and other jobs". This experience created ideas for Scouting.

Desiring to do something to make boys dependable and self-reliant, Mr. Powell developed a programme of activities which he called "Scouting For Boys". The Boy Scout Camp, which is recognized in history today to be the first, Mr. Powell held in 1907, on Brownsea Island, off the coast of England.

Today Scouting is active in over 70 countries.

Dr. Thomas B. McDormand, a native of Bear River, how President of Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, and Eastern Baptist College, Philadelphia, reports a recent visit with Hon. Charles Edison in his apartment in the Waldorf Towers, New York. Mr. Edison is a son of the great inventor, Thomas A. Edison, who as a small boy, lived for several years in the Digby area. Mr. Edison, a former Governor of New Jersey, and a former Secretary of the Navy in the United States cabinet, spoke with great interest of his father's Nova Scotia connections. By a strange coincidence, Mrs. McDormand, a trained nurse, attended Thomas A. Edison while he was a patient in a private hospital in Morristown, N.J., in 1930.

Mr. Edison is interested in Eastern Baptist College and made a generous gift to the erection of its new $700,000 library, now under construction.

Time For License Plates

Nova Scotia motorists have only 18 days to apply for their 1964 licence plates before the March 31 deadline, Highways Minister Stephen Pyke said today.

Figures released today by the Motor Vehicle Branch showed 97,000 car owners have yet to apply for 1964 registration.

Mr. Pyke reminded motorists that time is shorter this year. Because Easter falls during the last days of March, two working days are cut from the normal Motor Vehicle schedule.

The Branch said that delivery of 1964 plates could only be guaranteed if the application was received by March 10.

To date 38,000 have received their 1964 licence plates. An estimated 160,000 cars will be registered in the province this year.

The Motor Vehicle Branch office, closes Good Friday, March 27 and Easter Monday, March 30, is able to process about 2,500 applications a day. These are evenly divided between mail and over-the-counter sales.

A Sydney branch office handles over-the-counter sales only and registered 15,000 during the peak months of February and March last year.

Plan For Bazaar

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary Digby General Hospital was held at the home of Mrs. (Dr.) D. G. Black on Monday, March 2nd.

Further plans for the Bazaar, to be held on August 19th, were made, and it was agreed that the Marathon Bridge would be started right after Easter, and the Annual Tag Day would be carried out as planned.

Labels were brought in for the Golden Book for Charity, and it was felt that a much greater effort must be made to collect these labels if any great amount of money is to be raised in this way. Added to those products whose labels are valuable are: Heinz Beans in Tomato Sauce, and both types of Heinz Macaroni; all canned products put out by Puritan; Westons Crackers, Saltines and Capri Crackers; and St. Lawrence Corn Oil.

An auction was held to add to the treasury of the organization. Many and varied were the articles put up for sale by the auctioneer, Mrs. Marion Smith. About forty dollars was raised in this way.

The refreshment committee, consisting of Mrs. Black as hostess and her co-hostesses, Mrs. Frances Daley, Mrs. Ashford Thomas, Mrs. Jean Olsen, Mrs. G. R. Weir, Mrs. Lillian Leonard and Mrs. Paul Winchester, catered, providing the usual variety of delicious refreshments.

Admiral Digby Society Plans Many Projects

The monthly meeting of the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society was held at the home of Mrs. Eva Wendell on Wednesday, March 4th.

Under special consideration were decisions as to what new projects would be undertaken by the organization, and where curtailment of former projects would be necessitated by the improvements to the docking facilities for the Princess of Acadia.

A letter was read from the Board of Directors of the Digby General Hospital suggesting that the society take over as a new project the hospital grounds. In addition, plans had to be made for the new tree planting program, and the entertainment of the Regional Meeting of the Nova Scotia Association of Garden Clubs, to be held in Digby in May.

Concerted action on both old and new projects was left to a meeting of the Executive and the Board of Directors of the organization, held at the home of Mrs. Louise Daley on Friday evening, March 6th. At this meeting it was decided that an attempt would be made to retain the Rock Garden on the Cannon Bank, and every effort would be made to preserve the area around the Admiral Digby Well on account of its historical significance. The shrubs and rose bushes that are in danger of being destroyed are to be moved to other locations.

No action was taken on the Hospital Grounds Project except to appoint a committee to meet with the Hospital Building and Grounds Committee to determine just what would be involved if such a project were undertaken.

Mrs. H. W. Powell, of Weymouth, Regional Director of the N.S.A.G.C., was present at the Friday meeting. She was of great assistance to the committee in charge of the program for the Regional Meeting, to be held in May.

At the regular meeting a film, "Bluenose Holiday", was shown. Refreshments were served at both meetings, provided by the hostess in each case.

Grass Fires

ing the usual variety of delicious refreshments.

Annual Ice Carnival Cancelled

It was announced by the Digby Fire Department last Wednesday that there would be no Ice Carnival presented this year, which was scheduled for March 21st at the Digby Forum.

According to a spokesman, there were complications regarding the use of skating acts being prepared by the carnival committee and the fact that the main parts of these acts were going to be used at a proposed program to be put on by the Recreation Commission. It was felt it would not be feasible to have these acts presented again during the annual event. This meant that all the time that had been spent in preparing these acts was fruitless, he said.

It was felt that those in charge of the program for the Commission should have contacted the Ice Carnival committee and made the necessary arrangements.

This, along with difficulty in obtaining persons to handle different parts of the program, made it necessary to have to cancel the program for this year, the spokesman said. However, the Fire Department and the carnival committee are making plans for next year and hope that a much better program can be presented.

Any inconvenience that has been caused regarding this year's presentation is deeply regretted by the firemen.

Other business dealt with at the regular meeting of the department saw President Buddy Barr resign as President. Due to working hours he was unable to carry on in the capacity which he felt he should. He was succeeded by Ray Thibault, who was Vice President, and Joseph Doucette was elected as Vice President to finish out the year.

Chief Humphrey reported that the new telephone book covers recently received in the mails had the incorrect fire alarm number. This has meant that calls have been coming in on his private phone. This could be disastrous if it continued and there happened to be no one at home to receive a call. The public are reminded that the number to call to report a fire is 5-2121, as advertised in another part of this paper.

There was also considerable discussion regarding the compensation of the driver of the new No. 1 pumper. Chief Humphrey was asked to approach the town authorities on the matter and get it settled.

The application of Randy Cummings for membership in the department was accepted by the members and he becomes a member as of March 4th.

The sports committee is busy making plans for an inter-department bowling tournament with two men's teams and two ladies' teams, consisting of the wives or lady friends of the department members. Competition will commence at Carleton Lanes March 15, with all four teams in action.

Directors were appointed for the twelve municipal districts. Next meeting, to be held on April 7, will have Mr. Powell M.L.A. as special speaker.

F. Larche Ships To Malaya

There's something new in Malaya, and it's Nova Scotian. Recently eight ice crushers made by Frank Larche Manufacturing of Digby were sent to Malaya as part of the Colombo Plan.

The order consisted of six crushers equipped with gasoline engines and two with electric motors. The crushers have a 15-ton-an-hour capacity, with replaceable stainless steel picks, chain drives and built-in reduction gears.

Wisconsin 3 horse power air-cooled engines that power the crushers were specially built for use in the tropics.

Fossil - Rock Sort-Out Begins At University

Acadia University geology senior Ray Riley examines a piece of zeolite, considered something of a rare specimen, from the North Mountain near Margaretsville. It is one of the items in Acadia's mineral collection.

Once upon a time, some 300,000 years ago, there lived an elderly beetle. On this particular day he had started out for a crawl after lunch when his legs began to bother him, and feeling a bit drowsy, he crept onto a nice warm stone for a nap and never woke up. "I wouldn't exactly call it a beetle," corrected geologist Ray Riley. "Perhaps more like a crab."

Now the ancient, petrified item is one of many in Acadia University's fossil collection. Perfectly formed in its rock state, the tiny bug or crab has bulging, rather hooded eyes that look as though they might pop open any minute. It's about the size of a thumb nail.

Ray and his fellow students have started the long range assignment of straightening out part of the university's mineral fossil and rock collection.

"It will take quite a while because the whole lot was probably started not long after Acadia was established and some catalogue records have been lost," said Ray.

Pulling out a file at random he selected a rock with the label: From the north side entrance to St. Mary's Bay, 1885, G. T. Kennedy.

The date gives some clue as to when findings in the field began to be notated.

Sandstone Specimen

Here's another item: mottled sandstone, Sault St. Marie, Ernest Haycock, 1899. There are others in the lot from points all over the continent.

Ray Riley, a Bear River student, takes his degree in geology this spring and plans to go on to Queens for his master's.

OUT WHERE CHINOOKS BEGIN

Legend has it that an Indian maid named Chinook wandered away one day and became lost. After an unsuccessful search Indian braves returning home felt a gentle breeze and saw the clouds lifting in the West in a curtain that stretched from north to south above the peaks of their mountains. "It is Chinook," they said, comforted in their loss by this phenomenon.

Geology students and graduates will have no trouble finding jobs this summer. In fact, they are already booked for employment with government or private enterprise. Ray did not believe geology students and graduates in Canadian Universities would anyway near fill the demand.

Meanwhile, the tedious but essential tidying up job continues back in the classroom files.

Mineral samples and geological library are on the top floor of the geology building.

The library has such volumes as the complete works of the English geologist John Playfair, published in 1822, as well as some of the best contemporary publications.

Ray is a graduate of the Digby Regional High School and entered the Sophomore year at Acadia University. With a three year Coldwell bursary, and also one from the Canadian Legion, Ray is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alban Riley of Bear River.

Baptist Church News

In the morning, Rev. P. G. Hubley of the Bear River Baptist Church spoke on the fifth word uttered by Jesus from the Cross, "The Word of Identification" with scripture, John 19:28. During the service a duet was rendered by Mrs. Ira Harris and Mrs. James Harris.

At the evening service Rev. Mr. Hubley took as his theme the word and the Spirit" with scripture 1 Peter 1:22-25.

The Ladies Circle met on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Oakley Banks. On Wednesday evening prayer meeting was held followed by a meeting of the Advisory Council.

beside my doorway. I was reading about this spectacular wind which is always associated with Alberta winters. I remembered my childhood when great mounds of snow would disappear in a matter of hours as the soft breath of the Chinook caressed the slopes of my foothill home town.

Old-timers in the province say snow patterns have changed. Now there is not so much for the Chinook to lick up nor are the winds as frequent as they once were. Whether their frequency has diminished is a matter of chronological data, the fact remains the Chinook still blows over a band about sixty miles wide from north of Claresholm to Waterton Lake National Park and blows it self out about 100 miles eastward.

Explains Warmth

The chinook winds burst out of the Rockies at high speeds almost like a water fall. C. E. Thompson, Meteorologist, Dominion Public Weather Office, Edmonton, Alta., explained the warmth of the wind this way: "Mild moist west winds blow off the Pacific Ocean. As this air lifts over the mountains (Rockies), it becomes saturated and rain falls. This process adds heat or condensation to the air. This air descends to the prairies and is heated again by compression, giving the Chinook warmth."

"The arch is formed by a mass of cloud which stretches from north to south just east of the Rockies. The base of this cloud is over two miles above the ground, hence clear sky is visible westward under the cloud."

No wonder the long, usually low arch — the "Chinook arch" — is a well-loved symbol of milder weather to many residents of southern Alberta. Residents of other parts of the continent may scoff at tales of the warm wind but citizens of the area have seen the country firmly gripped in a freeze, then the temperature soar in a Chinook.

Old-timers say our eastern Canadian winters are not as cold or snowy as they used to be. They will have to prove it to me. I've shovelled enough snow this winter to have made the slopes of Innesbruck safe for any Olympic skier.

Religion And Personal Problems

A religion that deals with personal problems apart from social relations is not Christian. A clergyman-sociologist told the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, Rev. Stewart Crysdale, recently-appointed Assistant Secretary of the Board, is an honour graduate of the University of Toronto, Department of Sociology, and was making his first presentation to an annual meeting.

"Evangelism — the telling of the good news of God's love . . .", he said, "is tied directly with social service."

"In times of social crisis", he told Board members from every province, "when basic values were threatened, the Church in Canada led movements for social reform that altered the national economy. Moderate central controls and welfare provisions have since been built into Canadian society."

We don't like date squares in this family. I know we are abnormal, but that is the shocking truth of our family peculiarity. Nevertheless, I found a recipe for date squares which I thought was delicious. I served some to a neighbor. She thought they were wonderful. I served them to my husband, he said "Why did you make these? You know I don't like date squares." I am sorry to report that they brought no change in his attitude, but because I liked them, I will pass them on to you!

CHOCOLATE DATES

¾ cup butter or margarine	½ cup brown sugar
1 cup crushed corn flakes	½ cup water
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour	1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup sugar	1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons cocoa	2 egg whites
1½ cups pitted dates	½ cup brown sugar

Grease an 8 or 9 inch square pan. Heat oven to 350 degrees.

Blend butter, corn flakes, flour, sugar, and cocoa. Save ½ cup of this mixture, put the rest in the bottom of the greased pan. Bake for 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, in a saucepan, simmer dates, brown sugar, and water together to make a paste. Remove from heat, add butter and cinnamon.

Also, while cake is baking, beat egg whites until they will hold a soft peak. Gradually beat in remaining sugar, and continue beating until whites hold a stiff peak.

While cake is still hot, spread it with the date paste, top with meringue, and sprinkle with the ½ cup of cake mixture which you saved. Return to oven, and bake for 20 minutes, or until nicely browned.

Due to his highness's aversion to dates, I worked up another version of this, called

CHOCOLATE CHERRIES

Make the cake exactly as the cake for Chocolate Dates, but spread with canned pie cherries. Use white sugar to taste in the meringue, top with the cake crumbs, and bake exactly as in the date recipe. Use less than a full can of the cherries, as they are inclined to be a bit runny.

Here in another "square" recipe which always turns out well.

HONEY CAKES

Cream together:
1 cup sugar ½ cup butter
Add:
2 egg yolks 1 teaspoon baking powder
1½ cups flour 1 teaspoon vanilla

Put batter in pan, sprinkle with 1 cup chopped nuts. Add a meringue made of two egg whites beaten stiff, and one cup brown sugar. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Have you ever made any really outrageous cooking mistakes? One of my worst was the time I forgot to put the flour in the brownies. I cooked the poor things for over an hour, but nothing happened. Then I discovered the bowl of flour on top of the refrigerator where I had left it. I took the brownies out of the oven, stirred in the flour, and re-baked. I didn't think the result was too bad, even though the family named them "oddities".

Sorry. The coffee pot is empty.

Retired Sea Captain

by Mrs. John Outhouse

Too often we, of the younger generation, rub shoulders with someone our senior without being aware of the colorful, exciting life that has been theirs. Then one day they are asked a few simple questions and their answers reveal a life that has been lived to the fullest.

Such was the case when Fred Prime, 78, of Medford, U.S.A., regular visitor to the small fishing village of Tiverton was asked if he had done any fishing. "Oh yes," he replied with a twinkle in his eye, "I've done a bit of trout fishing. The usual queries, where, when and how, brought forth a story fascinating enough to hold his listener spellbound for hours.

Though Mr. Prime, retired sea captain, is a native of East Port Maine, he is by no means a stranger to Canada, particularly Nova Scotia.

Mr. Prime's first glimpse of Nova Scotia was as a very young lad when he accompanied his mother, the late Mrs. Annie Ossinger, on a visit to his aunt and uncle the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ossinger at Tiverton. Soon after their return to U.S.A., his parents died, leaving him an orphan.

At the age of eleven, Mr. Prime returned East, where he embarked on the trawler, "Dove", which was owned and operated by his uncle, Mr. Joseph Ossinger.

Between the ages 12 to 18, he served on various sardine boats, trawlers, freighters and other types of vessels. Among them were, "Admiral Dewey" and the "Mayflower" which were owned by John Greenlaw and George Greenlaw. Both were operated from Eastport.

The "Quickstep" was owned by Arthur Longmire and sailed from Digby port. The "Loren B. Snow" was owned by Joe Snow and captained by Bill Snow, two popular Digby residents. Also the "Lila Boutillier" owned in Centerville, Digby Co., with Captain Arthur Casey. The "Francis A", owned by Henry Amiro with Captain Harry Ross, the "Dorothy Smart" owned by Maritime Fish Corporation, Digby, with Captain Arthur Longmire; the "Ellen Marshall", which sailed from Gloucester with Captain William Snow; the "Lida F.", sailed from Eastport and was owned by John Greenlaw; the "Effie Morrissey", though American owned was captained by Ansel Snow of Digby.

Mr. Prime's first experience with being shipwrecked occurred when he was 18. He was on the "James W. Cousins" when she was lost at Lobster Bay near Argyle beyond Yarmouth. Fortunately, none of the crew were lost.

Then at the age of 25, he owned and operated his own fishing vessel, the "Harvester", with which he fished from

Mr. Saywood Ford and family in Ohio on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gaudet and daughter, Susan, visited friends in Yarmouth and West Pubnico on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Daley Thibodeau, St. George, N.B. visited his brother, Mr. Francis Thibodeau, during the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harding of Salem, Yarmouth Co., were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Doucette on the occasion of Mr. Doucette's 78th birthday.

Mr. Vernon Mullen visited his grandfather George Thibault in Yarmouth Hospital last week Mr. Thibault was 84 last Saturday.

Mr. Edward LeBlanc of Lynn, Mass., was called home last week by the death of his brother, Gustave LeBlanc. Also here for the funeral, was his brother-in-law, Mr. Isaac Amirault of Swampscott, Mass.

Digby Port. However, misfortune followed him and he lost the "Harvester", during a dense fog on Yarmouth Cape. Departing from Canadian owned trawlers and fishing type boats, Mr. Prime became third mate on the American steamship, the "West Kathorn". She was skippered by Mr. Jesse Colbirth and carried cargo from Spain to Italy.

Mr. Prime obtained his Second Mates papers while aboard the Steamship, "Lake Como", that carried coal from Norfolk to Boston. He also served as second mate on the "Lake Gasper" that also carried coal from Baltimore to Boston.

Then an opportunity that most sailors dream of, came true for Mr. Prime. As second officer he sailed aboard the government owned steamship "Ben Salem" from New York to the Far East and back.

Another dream was fulfilled for Mr. Prime aboard the "Tenefly" (a cargo steamship named after a town in New Jersey). He was second mate when she sailed, loaded with grain, for Russia and the Baltic Sea. Her captain, Jesse Colbirth.

On the Eastern Steamship, the "Governor Dingley", Mr. Prime sailed from Boston to Saint John. During World War I, he served aboard her as an instructor. He taught the art of seamanship to sailors.

During the years 1924 - 51 Mr. Prime served the Eastern Steamships. For three years he served as third mate, then second mate aboard the "Northland", a passenger ferry whose regular run was from Boston to Yarmouth. Later, during the winter months, the "Northland" plied between Key West and Havana with Frank Crosby as captain. When the Steamship "Yarmouth" was put on the Boston to Yarmouth run in 1927, Mr. Prime served as 1st mate under captains Frank Crosby, William Corning and Breckenridge. When Breckenridge became captain of the "Evangelina", Mr. Prime was 1st and 2nd mate.

During World War II, Mr. Prime was sent to New London, Conn., aboard the "Boston" with Captain Paul Mahoney. She served as barracks for a training school for young officers. Here he served as an instructor. With Merchant Marine Lieutenants ratings, Mr. Prime, using 20 small boats, trained about 90 sailors at a time on boat drills.

After completion of duties aboard the "Boston", Mr. Prime returned to "Yarmouth" then owned by the Eastern Steamship Company. When the Company dissolved in 1954,

Mr. Prime retired. Besides his deep-sea Captain's papers, Mr. Prime is the proud holder of a Masters License that allows him free passage to Europe and the Far East.

Mr. Prime is the first visitor to arrive at Tiverton in the summer, and the last to leave (and then reluctantly) in the fall. His summers are spent in his own cottage that overlooks Petite Passage. Here, he has a ship's model replica of the "Dove", the first trawler from which he fished.

His winters are spent with his son Allen (who, like his father, "follows the sea") and daughter-in-law, Grace, also four grandchildren, at Medford, Mass.

Mrs. Prime said many are the evenings they've enjoyed listening to the exciting experiences "relived" again by Mr. Prime in the comfort of their living-room. She also said they are very proud of him, and they are glad that now he can sit back and enjoy himself in comfort.

Mr. Prime is anxiously awaiting the time for his yearly visit this summer and his many friends are just as anxiously awaiting his arrival at Tiverton.

The program is to cover investigation of the geological patterns of the earth's surface as revealed in satellite and other high altitude photography. New techniques of photo interpretation are to be investigated with a view to camera specifications for future manned orbiting satellites.

One particular phase of the project is the study of the Cabot Fault, a great fracture which crosses Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, and which is believed to be a North American equivalent of the Great Glen Fault of Scotland.

Professor Cameron is known internationally for his work on water current measurements from air photos. The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey have officially adopted his method for harbor and remote area surveys. He has used it locally with the collaboration of the Royal Air Force, who photographed the inner reaches of the Bay of Fundy from high altitudes in order to survey the tidal current.

The contract will run for 3 years. Professor Cameron will carry on the research during summer vacations and whatever time is available from his regular duties on the University Faculty. A separate laboratory has been set up to carry on this research work and some highly interesting space and high altitude photographs are already on hand.

Professor Cameron is also interested in the application of radar to geological research and will be presenting a paper in Washington, D. C., in March on the use of radar for ice surveys.

Ralph Barkhouse returned home on Friday after spending three months in Florida and Massachusetts. He was met in Yarmouth by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vroom.

She Can't 'Go With' Younger Sisters

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have two younger sisters and they want to go everywhere I go. Even when I'm on my own, they want to go to the show with me. I can't go because of my sisters. How can I tell my father and mother to let me go places without these kids? And, without making them mad? They say that I am old enough to go places, but they don't let me go. What is the answer?"

OUR REPLY: Your parents feel, probably, that you are old enough to go to some places, such as a movie, and properly look after your two younger sisters. They do not want to let you go to movies by yourself, or with only the company of children of your own age.

Confusing? Not really. Your parents feel that you are old enough to accept responsibility—that of "looking after" your sisters. They feel that this responsibility is good for you. Should they permit you to go places alone, or with others your own age, they would be "worrying" about you the whole time you were gone. When you take the younger sisters with you, they feel secure—they know your sense of responsibility will direct you there and see to it that you—and they—return home promptly.

The simple truth of the matter is that being an older sister carries responsibility with it. And, contrary to what is the belief of many teenagers—"growing up" means continually taking on more and more responsibilities.

However, when you grow older, you will discover that the responsibility of "taking the kids" will fall to the next sister in line. Your own freedom will grow with the years—and with your maturity and sense of responsibility.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SCHOOL PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

The Summer Sunset

On the horizon of the far away hill
The sinking sun is now standing still
It rests where earth meets the sky
And summer sun is soon to die.

Red, yellow, what colours! even gold.
Beauty like this can't be sold
The sky is a deep inky sea blue
Parts of heaven, seem to be coming through.

The black smoke of a brush fire slowly descends
Against the blue background it beautifully blends.
Then the trails of a jet blend with the blue
Little clouds are snowy white, through and through.

But still more beauty, a river one sees
Lined on both sides with evergreen trees
Slowly swirling towards the Bay
"Come linger with me" it seems to say

Then in a moment before my eye
The summer sun sits in the sky
Such beauty in words cannot be told
But what memories, when I grow old.

The Big Sunday Night Snow Storm, 1964

On Sunday, February sixteenth, we had the biggest storm of the year. We were scared when a branch fell down and hit the trailer with a crash and we thought it was the old barn falling down. When we looked out we saw a bit of the tree. It was snowing so hard that we could not see it at all. In the morning I found that it was down. Just then I saw a big, big snow drift so I ran downstairs but I could not see much out of the windows. I had my breakfast and got dressed and tried to get out of the back door. It was stuck, so I went out of the front door. I shovelled out the driveway and the back doorsteps. After that I built an igloo. I got tired of that and built a fort. That caved in on me so I got cross and built another one. After that I went over to Mike's house and watched the snowplow plow out his driveway. Then we built an igloo and made a fort. Then we had a snowball fight and I won.

Acadians Solve Problems Peacefully

The position of Acadians in the Maritimes regarding the present French-English misunderstandings in Quebec was explained by former Moncton newspaper editor Emery LeBlanc at a seminar on biculturalism and bilingualism in Halifax during the weekend. Mr. LeBlanc was editor of "L'Evangeline". "Acadians are trying to solve the problem by peaceful means — especially discussions — and not violence", Mr. LeBlanc told the seminar at St. Mary's University. Students from seven Maritime universities attended.

The Pigeons' Home

Once upon a time there was a town hall in a little town. The pigeons made their nest in the eaves of the roof.

The mayor of the town decided to clean out all the nests. One pigeon in a nearby tree overheard the mayor talking. He quickly flew to the roof and told the others. They talked it over and planned what to do. The next day when the mayor came out of the town hall he felt a thud on top of his hat. When he looked to see what had hit him he saw a large pigeon's egg running all over his hat. The mayor thought the pigeons were so clever that he didn't destroy their nests ever again.

Falling In The Pool

It was on a hot July day when I decided to take a walk. There was a little pool at the edge of the woods. It wasn't very deep, only about five feet. As you walked through the woods there were noises everywhere. One could hear the gurgling of the brook and the chatter of the squirrel. By this time I had reached the pool. The water was crystal clear and I could see fish darting here and there. I even saw a turtle. Suddenly a bull frog croaked. Then disaster struck! The frog startled me and I stepped on a wobbly stone. I lost my balance and tumbled in. It was a hot day and the cool dip was very refreshing.

Every reform was once a private opinion. — Ralph Waldo Emerson.

A Space Ship

On a quiet time a space ship was in a museum in New York. It did not look like a ship in the museum. It looked like a machine. It thought that when the man opened the window it could get out the window. And his wish had come true. One night the space ship did go out the window and went into space. It did not come down to earth. — Garth Purdy, Grade III-W.

The Raging Sea

The raging sea curled over and raced head-long up the solid granite head. Finally melting away it fell back to try again, like soldiers who had lost a battle. Every time they tried, they were able to drag a few rocks down the beach, as if they were dragging away their dead and wounded soldier boys. In great despair they finally died away to watch, their great enemy still settling on the wall of their fort, dripping wet from the great fight with the sea, watching their enemy die in the darkness of the night.

Her Excellency Patron Of Hospital

Her Excellency Madame Vanier, wife of His Excellency Maj.-Gen. Georges P. Vanier, D.S.O., M.C., C.D., Governor General of Canada, has very kindly agreed to become the Patron of The Children's Hospital in Halifax. This announcement was made by Mrs. Stewart Rowan-Legg, President of the Hospital Board of Management. In making this announcement, Mrs. Rowan-Legg stated that Madame Vanier had extended to her and her associates on the Board her warm good wishes for the continued success of the wonderful work the Hospital is performing.

During a brief visit to The Children's Hospital in Halifax in July of 1960, Madame Vanier was surprised at the size of the Hospital. "I had no idea it was so big", said Canada's first lady, when she was told the capacity of the Hospital. Madame Vanier spent a considerable amount of time in the playroom of the Hospital during her visit, and showed a great deal of interest in the activities of the children.

Westport Lady Has "Penny Teapot"

Who could believe that a teapot could be carved from a penny? Well, viewers of Canadian television learned with interest that such small teapots really do exist, complete with separate cover. CBC's "Flashback" and CTV's "To Tell The Truth" recently gave featured spots to one of these teapots and its owner.

The TV programs seemed to have aroused new interest in such curiosities and The Digby Courier learned this week that a Westport lady, Mrs. Lawrence Gower, has in her possession a teapot. It was carved with a jack knife from an American penny, and Mrs. Gower obtained it in Boston about thirty-two years ago.

The "one cent" is still quite clear on the bottom, writes Mrs. Gower. "I've showed it to a few people since the TV program, for it's really worth seeing. People can hardly believe it. It's very tiny with a curled handle, thin and fine. I lost the top when I was shining it years ago. It came off easily. Mrs. Gower said that the teapot is fragile and so no one is allowed to handle it, although she will show it to anyone who wishes to see it. "It's really quite valuable to me", she writes.

Parents Invited To Study The Law

The Canadian Corrections Association, a division of the Canadian Welfare Council, announces that it will invite parents across Canada to join discussion groups to consider how they might help to interpret the law and its enforcement to young people.

"We believe that much of the individual's attitude to authority is learned in his own home, long before he becomes a teenager," says W. T. McGrath, Executive Secretary of the Corrections Association. Commenting on his recent book, Youth and the Law, which the Association hopes will become the basis for a school course in law in Grade 8 or 9, Mr. McGrath says: "Maximum success in this program will be possible only if parents and school work together and make it a truly community effort!"

The Corrections Association, which is preparing a pamphlet guide for the proposed discussion groups, hopes that parents themselves will learn something about the law. Mr. McGrath points out that unless parents are sure in their own minds how they feel about the police and the application of justice they can't set a firm guide for their children. He believes that parents, not only of teenagers but also of young children, should take part in the discussions, because attitudes are learned at a very early age.

Church, home and school associations, community planning councils, mental health and adult education groups, and service clubs will be asked to help get the groups established.

"Stuffing Bees" For Easter Seals

"Stuffing Bees" are popular in Nova Scotia these days. Their intent is not social, however. Nor are the participants gorging themselves on fare associated with Christmas and Thanksgiving, as the name might imply.

The principals are members of Easter Seal franchise holders who gather in pairs or groups each year at this time to "stuff" sheets of colorful Easter Seals into the familiar pink envelopes which will be deposited by the postman at homes throughout Nova Scotia during the next few weeks.

The franchise holders, 31 in Nova Scotia, are representatives of Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs, Women's Institutes, Home and School Associations, Legion Auxiliaries, Rebekah and Order of the Eastern Star Lodges.

In Digby, the Kiwanis Club is the Easter Seal franchise holder.

The club's objective is $2,000.00, it was revealed by J. C. Till, Easter Seal chairman. Half of this amount will be turned over to the parent Easter Seal organization, the Nova Scotia Society for the Care of Crippled Children, and the remainder will go into the club's coffers to be used for its own work with the less fortunate youngsters.

Nova Scotia's objective in the campaign, which kicked off February 27 and concludes March 29, Easter Sunday, with Timmy's Easter Parade of Stars, is $85,000, according to H. J. Denyar, provincial Easter Seal chairman.

Endorses Campaign

Following is an endorsement of the Red Cross campaign being held in Nova Scotia commencing March 2 and continuing throughout the month:

"The Red Cross this year enters its second century of service to mankind in peace and in war. The respect in which it is held by people everywhere is a testament to the distinction and humanity of Red Cross service in its first hundred years.

Here in our nation, the Canadian Red Cross Society has been a part of our way of life for more years than most of us can remember.

Its many programmes, services and projects are backed by millions of Canadians of all ages who serve the Red Cross in some manner. The Red Cross is a unique organization. It needs the support of all of us to meet its many obligations in Canada and to help others far from our shores. It is my earnest hope that Canadians will give the support sought by the Canadian Red Cross Society in its current campaign for funds."

"Lester B. Pearson"
Prime Minister.

March 31st Deadline For Licence Plates

Highways Minister Stephen Pyke said today 76,000 Nova Scotia motorists have yet to apply for their 1964 license plates before the March 31 deadline.

Mr. Pyke reminded car owners that only 15 working days remain before the deadline. Easter this year cuts two working days from the Motor Vehicle Branch's normal schedule.

The Branch's offices in Halifax and Sydney will be closed Good Friday, March 27, and Easter Monday, March 30.

Highways officials said their staff was exceeding the 2,500 applications usually processed each day but delivery before the deadline could no longer be guaranteed. It now is strictly on a first-come, first-served basis.

The Halifax office handles an equal amount of applications by mail and over-the-counter. The Sydney office processes over-the-counter sales only.

An estimated 160,000 passenger cars will be registered in the province this year.

Dr. Rideout Makes Health Week Statement

The situation with respect to public health activities in the Digby area was a satisfactory one during 1963.

Statistics reveal an excellent level of immunization against preventable diseases among children entering school. Digby town having 95.5% and Digby municipality having 88.1% of primary grade pupils completely immunized. Both areas, however, do not show such a successful picture among infants, where only 76% of babies were immunized before their first birthday. Parents must be made to realize that early life is when their children need this protection, not just when they reach school age.

The incidence of tuberculosis, venereal disease and other communicable diseases was low during the year. Sporadic cases of infectious hepatitis (jaundice) occurred in the area.

The major problem facing the rural areas in Nova Scotia at this time is the continued unsanitary methods of disposal of domestic sewage and refuse. This is true throughout Digby area as well, with poor or non-existent sewer systems discharging into ditches and streams, and people persisting in discarding refuse along back roads or any place they feel so inclined.

The Board of Health at its meetings has recognized these problems and hopes to find ways and means of remedying them in the future. The citizens of the area should rally to the support of the Board of Health in any action taken in this respect to provide a better, cleaner and healthier community in which to raise their families.

One very noteworthy occurrence in the Digby area was a death from tetanus (lockjaw). This disease is totally preventable by inoculation with tetanus toxoid. This material is now available combined with polio vaccine and can be obtained from any doctor. It is strongly recommended that all adults should be immunized with tetanus polio vaccine, using three doses initially and single booster doses every two or three years. By doing this these two diseases should be eradicated from our communities.

Local Dry Cleaner Wins Award

For the second time in three years, Mr. Howard Cottreau, operator of Fashion Cleaners Limited, Digby, was awarded the "Spotmanship Award" of the dry cleaning industry, by Dry Cleaning World, a United Business Publication. The award was attained by skillfully removing a difficult "Mystery Spot" from a swatch of cloth without damaging the material. The challenging "Mystery Spot" swatch was affixed to the cover of the January issue of the magazine. After successfully removing the difficult stain the cloth was returned to the challengers for judging.

Recently Mr. Cottreau, who has been connected with the cleaning industry for some twenty years, was awarded with the honors of his trade. He claims only good service and quality work are able to build a good business.

Mr. Cottreau proudly displays his award on the wall of his office.

The Institute Of Pastoral Training

The Institute of Pastoral Training has announced the reelection of Dr. J. E. Hiltz, Kentville, Nova Scotia, as Chairman of the Institute for the year 1964. Other officers elected were Dr. C. M. Nicholson, Vice-Chairman, Major O. R. Crowell, Treasurer, and Rev. Charles Taylor, Secretary.

In reviewing the progress of the Institute during the past year, Dr. Hiltz noted that a second training course had been opened at the Nova Scotia Hospital, Dartmouth, under the supervision of Rev. Professor R. J. R. Stokoe. This along with the original course at the Nova Scotia Sanatorium, of which Dr. Hiltz is Medical Superintendent, had made it possible to accept some twenty-one pastors and divinity students for training in 1963. These men represented four different Christian traditions and came for study not only from the Atlantic Provinces but from Central and Western Canada as well. This increased registration was facilitated by the Institute's increase in its scholarship funds during the year.

Another major advance noted was the accreditation of the training program with the Institute of Pastoral Care, Inc., in the United States. Dr. Hiltz noted further the very successful Maritime Chaplain's Conference sponsored by the Institute in Lancaster, New Brunswick, under the chairmanship of Rev. E. T. McKnight.

In closing his report the Chairman expressed appreciation for the continued support given to the Institute by the F. C. Manning Charitable Foundation.

Report From Parliament Hill

February 28, 1964

The debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne continued throughout the whole week, and will not terminate until Monday night. I know that there are many who look upon this as a great waste of time. They think Parliament is very inefficient. Perhaps it is. Of course, the word Parliament is derived from the French word "parler" meaning "to talk". One responsibility of Parliament, of course, is to transact its business with relative efficiency. The other, and perhaps more important, is to give the representatives of the people a chance to express their views and their problems and their grievances. Mussolini had a very efficient Parliament, but anyone who criticized him was liable to find himself in a back alley with a knife in his back. The Russian Government, I suspect, is efficient, but there is no Parliament there at all. Also, in Ghana, President Nkrumah has put all of the opposition members in jail. I doubt if we want that type of efficiency.

Perhaps we pay too much attention to tradition, but tradition is an asset which should not be lightly thrown overboard. Those who criticize Parliament today forget their constitutional history, or they never read it. Many, many years ago the Sovereign came to Parliament, and ordered Parliament as to what it should do — usually to provide money for his wars or for his family. Today, the Sovereign comes to Parliament, in our case, her representative, the Governor General, and tells Parliament what her advisers, the Cabinet, have told her to say. In the interim between these historic points, there have been long years of struggle. At first, there was the decision of Parliament to deal with some other matter, rather than the mandatory and commanding speech which the Sovereign had just made. Hence arose the tradition of introducing a Bill on Parliament's own initiative, before it started to deal with the speech from the Throne. So, even to day, immediately after Parliament is convened, immediately after the Governor General's speech, the Prime Minister introduces a Bill entitled "An Act respecting the Oaths of Office". This is merely a pro forma Bill and it is never heard of again, but it is introduced to indicate that Parliament is going to deal with any matter it pleases, regardless of the requests of the Sovereign.

Also, there arose the practice of debating the address, before the measures referred to in the speech were actually dealt with. At one time this debate went on for weeks. It is a free-wheeling debate in which any matter can be raised, and undoubtedly many of them are frivolous and might be termed vexatious. One can discuss any problem from that of the recognition of China to the quality of the cream delivered by the cows in your own constituency. As the years have gone on, we have reduced the time allowed for this debate. Now it lasts eight days. Probably it should be reduced still further, but I would be the first to oppose doing away with the debate entirely. Having sat in Parliament in opposition for some years, then as a Member of the Privy Council for six years, and now again as a member of the Opposition, I have no hesitation in stating that it is advisable that Parliament be given an opportunity to discuss matters which the members wish to raise, before dealing exclusively with the matters raised by the Governor General on the advice of his Cabinet.

During the debate, the Minister of National Defence has been under heavy fire, because of the flat-footed efforts he has made in seizing guns and ammunition from Cadet Corps and Reserve Army Units throughout the Country. This, of course, is because of the raids which have been made by terrorists in Quebec. Climaxing in the robbery of an armoury in Montreal. Certainly some protective measures should be taken, but I do not think the Minister will ever forget the week through which he has just passed. It was climaxed by the invasion of Ashbury College by army personnel from Kingston. Ashbury College is a very wealthy, residential suburb of Ottawa. The troops invaded the school at 1:30 on Sunday morning, complete with armoured vehicles, rifles and wearing bayonettes. The explosion of the Board of Governors and the parents of the boys was somewhat reminiscent of the first atomic bomb.

The Minister informed the House that only sensitive areas in the Province of Quebec, and areas at or near the boundary would be subject to search. However, lo' and behold one search unit went all the way to Windsor, Ont., several hundred miles from the Quebec boundary and just across the river from Detroit. Here they seized the ammunition of the Cadet Corps but left the guns. The ammunition was 22 caliber and of course could be bought in any hardware store. The excuse for the raid was that there are a large number of French Canadian citizens in Windsor. The Honourable Paul Martin is, of course, a French Canadian representing that constituency, and as a local newspaper said, calls most of the French Canadians by their names. The report is that the amiable and good-natured Paul "blew his top". He called the Minister of National Defence every name he could lay his tongue to both in English and in French and the ammunition was returned to the Cadet Corps the next day.

Then, of course, we had the speech of Dr. Chaput in which he suggested that Her Majesty might encounter difficulties when she visited Quebec. I think the President of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Toronto should have his head read. Crack-pots like Chaput who are disowned in their own Province, and who have been entirely discredited, welcome a platform from which they can spout their nonsense. Chaput again has become a National figure. I think perhaps if news papers would relegate statements such as his, together with the news of some of these juvenile raids, to the back pages of their papers, the crackpots and the raids would rapidly disappear. These people are publicly hungry and thrive on the headlines they make.

On Tuesday next we will start dealing with the legislative program. At the moment I cannot say which measure we will deal with first. I suspect that of the pension legislation will be very near the top. In my next column I hope to deal with some of these measures.

Letter to the Editor

Editor
Dear Mrs. Wallis,
In reply to an article on the front page of last week's Courier, I feel instead of a museum in our town, we are desperately in need of a library. Why do surrounding communities succeed in this endeavor and we, in this town, with a much larger population than other surrounding areas not avail ourselves of a place where the public can enjoy and further their reading and borrow books? Do we realize how many tourists by-pass our scenic area because of a lack of a library?

Books are so expensive that many families can not afford to buy books that are only read once or twice and then placed on the shelf; this is true of adult material also. There must be some answer and some way that we can bring the joys of reading to more of our people in this town and surrounding area. Starting on a small scale with volunteer help, I'm sure the library would soon expand. What progressive town exists without a public library; are we of Digby progressing for the good of the whole community?

Sincerely,
E. Carolyn Brown

If You're TIRED ALL THE TIME

Now and then everybody gets a "tired-out" feeling, and may be bothered by backaches. Perhaps nothing seriously wrong, just a temporary condition caused by urinary irritation or bladder discomfort. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help stimulate the kidneys to relieve this condition which may often cause backache and tired feeling. Then you feel better, rest better, work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now. Look for the blue box with the red band at all drug counters. You can depend on Dodd's.

It's true; milk supplies all his food needs—now! But wait until he's really mobile; with teeth just rarin' to chew. It'll take more than milk alone to replace the energy he's going to be burning up from then on through adulthood.

Bread will play an important part in his new diet because bread is a good source of energy.

And if that bread is Ben's Buttermilk, it will also be a good source of eating pleasure. But then, most grown-ups know that already!

The bread to buy!

About This and That

Do We Need Home & School?

With Education Week just past, the question above is a good one to ask. People have been education conscious, parents have been visiting teachers at school. Actually, the question has come to mind several times during the last week and we feel it is a good subject to discuss. We'd welcome some letters on the subject. Is a Home and School necessary these days?

Last week we had a lady come to our office asking for space in the paper for special Home and School publicity. She felt if a special column were used people might have their interest aroused in Home and School. Last week at the public Mental Health meeting in Digby the subject of Home and School was raised. Several newspapers have been mentioning Home and School and usually to the effect that attendance is low. We noticed that Marion Noble, on behalf of the Home and School Executive, had an article in the Bridge-water Bulletin last week. She mentioned that out of 504 school families probably 20 parents would be present at Home and School. She went on to say:

"Any group is limited or strengthened by its personnel — good people make good groups. One of the best ways to support any group is by regular attendance. We need many more parents (fathers as well as mothers), to make our local group alive and worthwhile. We need more teachers from the Junior and Senior High Schools. We need YOU for . . . Your Support, Your Strength, Your Co-operation, Your Interest, Your Ideas. We want to be an interested, informed, and vocal group to secure a better deal in education for ALL our young people."

Digby area has not had a Home and School for a number of years. Occasionally we hear that such an organization should be started again. The question is — Did the Home and School in Digby outlive its usefulness or was there just a lack of parent interest? Definitely Home and School has outlived the purpose of buying water coolers and maybe playground equipment, etc. We feel a Home and School must have a different purpose and program from what it had twenty or twenty-five years ago. Should there be an organization under a different name from Home and School? Or, should there be a Parents Day similar to those held in Digby schools last week rather than an organization? Some teachers spoke in glowing terms about the success of last week's venture.

We are of the opinion that the same need or even a greater need exists for a close parent-teacher-student relationship. Just how that is accomplished probably does not matter, whether by letter, phone, parents day or an organization.

We would like to hear from people in various parts of Digby County on the Home and School subject. How can a Home and School serve a purpose or has the Home and School day gone past?

Mental Health

Home and School organizations are not the only ones which have a struggle to live or which succumb to disinterest. Hundreds should have been at the Digby Regional High School last week to hear a mental health panel. Instead, we doubt if thirty attended, including the kind high school students who provided an interesting entertainment. Those who were in attendance found the panel most enlightening and raised questions which brought on interesting discussions.

A mental health association cannot survive on disinterest. We doubt if a psychiatric clinic would be able to remain in Digby if no Digby Mental Health Association existed. The first question we might ask here, then, is "Can we do without a psychiatric clinic?" If we can't, then we probably can't do without a Mental Health association and it might be wise for us to show more interest in that organization.

Each of the panel members brought out information of interest last week but one particular subject connected with mental health which C. E. Edwards, inspector of schools, mentioned was juvenile delinquency. There is scarcely a village in Digby County which is not affected in some way by the wave of juvenile delinquency, yet the attendance at the mental health meeting last week certainly would not have guessed it. But then, how many people connect mental health with juvenile delinquency? To have been at the meeting would have been to see the connection.

Mr. Edwards deplored T.V. programs depicting violence, sex and liquor and felt that parents should demand that these be deleted from the programs. The cost is great in the lives of young people, he said. Values are changing in the wrong direction and juvenile delinquency is on the increase, he continued. Mr. Edwards was quite concerned. We wonder how many parents in Digby County are concerned about the juveniles? How many are interested enough to want them to develop into stable, well-balanced personalities? How many have connected so much delinquency with the T.V. programs to which children have been subjected during the past few years? It is something to think about and Mental Health Associations are probably the proper places to discuss juvenile delinquency.

Profit In Tourist Dollars

How much do towns and cities of varying population in Canada profit from the valued tourist dollar? According to statistics prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that much needed tourist dollar can be broken down this way:

31 cents out of every Tourist Dollar are spent on food and beverages, 20 cents are spent on retail purchases, 24 cents for accommodation, 16 cents for transportation, and 9 cents for entertainment and miscellaneous expenditures.

It has also been said that in an average year tourists visiting Canada consume about four million pounds of butter, four million dozen eggs, eighteen million pounds of beef and other farm produce in like proportions. It is well to remember that whether Canadian communities are rich in farming, fishing, retail or wholesale trade or some other business or profession, at least a part of our annual income is derived from visitors.

More Education Training For Fishermen

Greater emphasis should be placed on the professional status of Nova Scotia fishermen, says a report submitted under the province's Voluntary Economic Planning program.

The report, one of three submitted to the fisheries sector committee, said this emphasis could be obtained through proper education and training. It would encourage more young men to seek their livelihood from the sea.

The vessel owners and operators segment committee said fishermen should take greater pride in their workmanship, to improve their own position and their status with the general public.

Personnel and increased productivity of the fishing service at the Reformed Baptist Church at Digby.

fleet were considered the primary problems facing the expansion of the industry.

The report said certain basic training is essential for fishing vessel operators if the maximum potential of modern equipment and technology is to be realized.

The segment recommended that more accurate hydrographic charts be made available to fishermen as the first step in improving methods and techniques in locating fish.

The committee pointed out the need for greater communication between the research men and boat owners and captains who actually utilize research results.

The by-products report outlined five major problems regarding the growth of their segment of the fishing industry. The report said there was insufficient material to keep fish meal plants operating and that fish meal from foreign, low-wage countries was currently flooding the markets.

In addition the report said that synthetics were replacing fish oil and glue and synthetic vitamins were replacing vitamins in fish oil in balanced stock feed rations, leading to a further reduction in the overall market.

The committee recommended that consideration be given to research into the development of new fish-by-products and markets. They also stressed the need for research into the possibilities of commercial off-shore herring fisheries and of commercial whale fishery based in Nova Scotia.

The lobster segment report emphasized the need for conservation and protection by fishermen of existing lobsters and said that lobster fishermen were over-capitalized. It added that more efficient methods and fewer traps could produce the same lobster catches being taken now.

The segment reports also cited transportation and freight rate problems as retardants to the expansion of the fishing industry.

Success comes to him who hustles while he waits.

The Man Who Died

Mortimer Shea died several weeks ago, but he'd lived to tell the tale.

And medical research made Mortimer Shea's recovery from death possible.

For Mortimer Shea died for almost five minutes one tension-filled night at Halifax's Victoria General Hospital. His heart gave out, and the miracle of the “D.C. Shock” technique brought him back to life and has meant that very soon he'll be back with his family and his favorite pursuits of fishing and gardening.

The record shows that Mr. Shea, a checker on Halifax's teeming waterfront, felt weak and looked pale the day his nearly fatal attack occurred. The nurse who admitted him to the hospital that evening, Mrs. Rosemary Morrison, remembers that he looked extremely wan, but was able to give the necessary details to the admitting official. But, as Mrs. Morrison helped him from his wheelchair and into his bed, he began to feel worse and several minutes later his heart was losing ground and beating irregularly.

Then, the smooth operating procedures of the hospital took over.

Mrs. Morrison immediately began to administer artificial respiration to his chest, hoping to keep the heart pumping blood. Her actions have been credited by attending doctors as the reason they were able to be at the scene so quickly and hence one of the reasons Mr. Shea is alive today.

A general alarm was sounded throughout the hospital and within seconds the situation was in the hands of Doctors John Stewart and Stephen MacIsaac, and Anesthetist Dr. Andy Pasquay.

Dr. Stewart explains that when a heart attack occurs, the heart begins “writting” and blood flow slows down and eventually stops.

The doctors introduced external heart massage in an effort to keep the blood pumping from the heart, and finally, the heart was electrically shocked so that its irregular pattern would stop, and the cardiac massage was continued. To the joy of those working in that room, Mr. Shea's heart started to beat once again in a normal rhythm.

The dedicated band of men and women had, through knowledge and skill, saved a man's life, and a grateful Mr. Shea has already made the best contribution he knows of — a cash donation to the Canadian Heart Foundation to help with more research into the cause and cures for heart disease. Were it not for such research, Mortimer Shea would not be with us today.

Mr. Shea has lost three days out of his life. The doctors explain that the amnesia was caused by the cessation of blood flow, which, of course, affected the brain — not permanently, but enough to cause a temporary loss of memory. A combination of events makes it possible for him to be alive and well today. First of all, doctors stress how lucky Mr. Shea was to have had the attack in the hospital where advanced medication was ready to help him. Secondly, Mrs. Morrison's calmness made it possible for her to quickly administer aid, and sound the alarm. If she had delayed even a minute or two, Mr. Shea would not be alive to tell the story. Because at the moment of his collapse, he was clinically dead. It is a modern medical miracle that he is alive.

But occurrences such as these, although rare, are made possible through these combinations of happenings and, most of all, through research.

Everyone's help is needed to make this research possible. Donations are needed so that others like Mr. Shea will be alive many years from now.

376 Forest Fires

Nova Scotia spent $375,611 to suppress 376 forest fires in 1963. Lands and Forests Minister E. D. Halliburton said recently.

Forestry officials attributed 111 of the fires to children, 68 of them in Halifax County.

The cost included maintenance and repair costs, salaries of fire suppression crews and capital costs.

Mr. Halliburton said 2,298 acres valued at $8,703 were burned. About half the burned area was classified as barren land. A total of 985 acres of merchantable timber was destroyed. No fire was classified as a major outbreak.

May was the worst month with 145 fires reported, followed by June with 93 and October with 48.

To protect Nova Scotia's 10,000,000 acres of woodland the Department maintains a headquarters depot at Shubenacadie and 10 sub-depots located in the counties.

These depots maintain 339 portable pumps, 4,975 back tanks and 180 miles of 1½-inch fire hose. The fire suppression section has six tanker trucks with water capacity up to 1,500 gallons and six four-wheel-drive trucks fully equipped to cope with minor outbreaks.

During the 1963 season the Department manned 26 fire towers. This summer a new tower will be erected at Lockside, Richmond County.

Two aircraft were purchased by the Department in 1963 and used on aerial patrols. Aircraft were successfully used for water bombing.

At the Shubenacadie depot, supervisor of forest fire protection, L. A. Corkum said men and equipment were ready for the 1964 fire season. Mechanical superintendent, Owen Barr, reported all vehicles ready for action.

But I'm awfully good for the shape I'm in. Arch supports I have for my feet. Or I wouldn't be able to be on the street. Sleep is denied me night after night.

And every morning I am a sight. My memory's failing, my head is in a spin, I am practically living on aspirin.

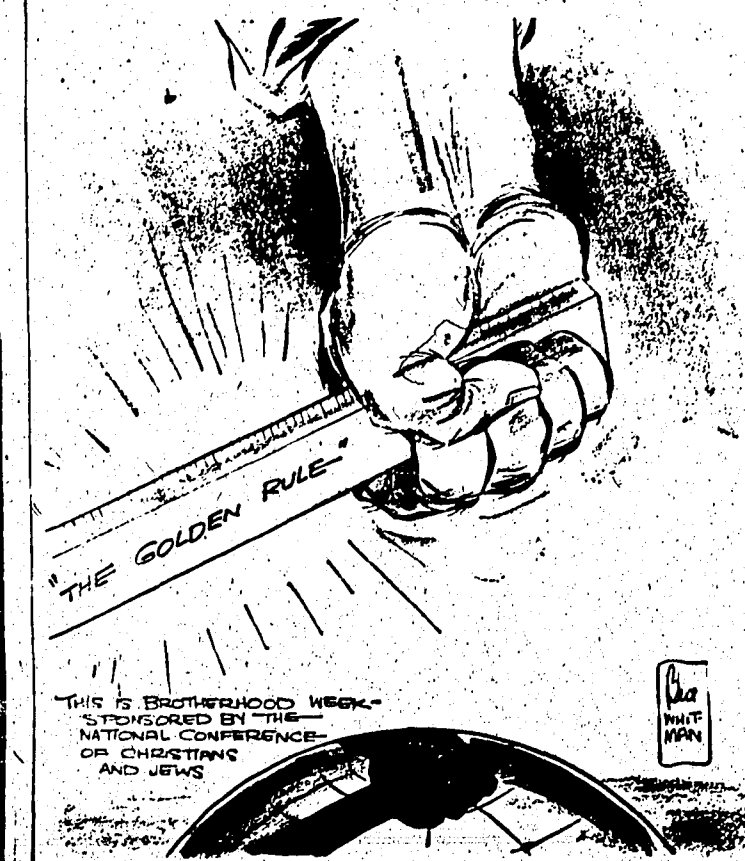

But I am awfully good for the shape I'm in. The moral is, as this tale we unfold, That for you and me who are growing old, It's better to say “I'm fine” with a grin Than to let 'em know the shape we're in.

Attend To Health

Health Minister Richard A. Donahoe urged Nova Scotians to focus their attention on health during National Health Week, March 8-14.

Mr. Donahoe said health was a person's “first wealth,” but “good health is generally taken for granted.”

“Prevent poor health by checking yearly with your physician and dentist, eating well-balanced and regular meals, getting adequate rest, and at the first sign of any disturbance checking into it with the aid of a qualified person,” said Mr. Donahoe.

“Therefore, it is not just at this time of the year that we should be concerned with health, but every day throughout the year.”

National Health Week receives the endorsement of the Governor General, the federal Health Minister, Canadian Medical Association, Canadian Public Health Association and the World Health Organization.

Presents Brief To Ministers

The Executive Council of The Canadian Chamber of Commerce said today that if the United States carries through with its proposed reductions in tax rates “we shall need to give serious consideration to similar moves in this country.” The United States tax cuts, it was stated, are scheduled to apply to both the corporate and personal income tax rates, and are aimed at accelerating the growth of the U.S. economy.

In its annual pre-budget brief to the Ministers of Finance and National Revenue the Chamber's Executive Council warned of the need for “getting our accounts into closer balance.”

“The persistence of large government expenditures and the resultant tax levels have caused increasing concern,” it was stated. “In Canada the Royal Commission on Taxation is carrying out a comprehensive investigation into the tax field, and it has already stimulated useful thought and discussion throughout the country. Yet before the Commission is able to complete its studies and publish recommendations, the United States is likely to have introduced important reductions in personal and corporate income tax rates which are bound to enter into any judgment of what is most appropriate in Canada.”

The Chamber's brief was brought by a delegation headed by G. Egerton Brown, Chairman of the Executive Council. The brief itself was prepared under the direction of L.P. Kent, Montreal, and S.H. Sutherland, Toronto, Co-Chairmen of the Chamber's Public Finance and Taxation Committee.

In a section headed “Employment and Economic Growth” the brief said:

“Though encouraging progress has been made in reducing unemployment and in providing an adequate rate of job expansion, a major challenge continues to face us for the years ahead. The increasing numbers of young people who will be coming into the labour force will require that we achieve a high rate of employment growth. At the same time, rapid advances in technology are making it more and more necessary to foster improved programs of education and training not only for our younger people but also for those who must shift to new lines of work at later years of life. The Chamber has for some time been urging its membership as well as government to do more in this area.”

Among recommendations for the Income Tax Act, the government was asked:

1. to arrange that all business enterprises, regardless of the nature of ownership, whether privately, publicly or governmentally owned, should make their full contribution to the tax revenue of the country;
2. to remove the inequity created by recent legislation aimed at increasing expenditures on scientific research for industrial purposes by arranging that all such expenditures in Canada be given the 150 per cent deduction;
3. to broaden Sections 11 and 12 to permit deduction of generally accepted business expenditures in computing income;
4. to provide increased tax

Work Begins On Swimming Area

Members of Digby (East) Fish & Game Association have taken first steps to create a safe swimming area for youngsters. Sixty 20-foot poles have been driven through the ice into the bottom of Haines Lake. Two wharves now extend from the beach 120 feet apart. This 120-foot section will be enclosed as the safe swimming area. When the ice disappears, sheathing crib and ballast will be added to the network of poles. The beach and lake bottom are also to be levelled to provide a sloping area with a maximum depth of four feet. The construction of the swimming area is part of the association's voluntary winter works project, and is under the supervision of Henry Lewis.

The game association also plans to clear a portion of their property for a skeet and trap range. Individual camping sites will be developed for tents and trailers and these will be made available to visiting members of other game conservation groups without charge.

Charles Hall, association president, reports that logs have been cut and delivered to the mill for sawing. The lumber will be used for the construction of a twenty-foot extension to Defaga Lodge. The extension will house washrooms, kitchen and canteen facilities. Work will be done by tender.

An effort to interest young people in game conservation and to develop their appreciation of the natural resources of the area is underway by the association. A meeting to form a junior auxiliary of the association was held Saturday evening at the Lions Club Hall, with president Charles Hall in charge of the program.

Due to other activities in the town on the same evening attendance was not as large as anticipated, and so another meeting has been planned for this Saturday evening at the Lions Hall, for the purpose of selecting officers.

Last Saturday's meeting suggested the following as officers for the junior branch of the association: for president, Keith Woodman, Gordon Robinson, Glenn Dunn; for first vice president, Raymond Dunn, Rickie Cook; for second vice president, Wayne Lewis, Brian Milberry; for secretary, Doreen Doucet, Shirley Melanson, Lynn Hall; for treasurer, Betty Ann Nichols, Brenda Dunn, Lee Hall.

Refreshments and a dance followed the business meeting. The Digby Lions Club have donated their hall and facilities to the game association for these two meetings.

Powell Places Need East Ferry- Island Service

Last week at the Legislative House when on the estimates of highways, R. Baden Powell, M.L.A., placed before the body the extreme need of a better service to accommodate the Islands people and the many tourists who visit there. Following is the text of Mr. Powell's case as presented:

"Mr. Chairman, I wish to bring to the attention of your committee a major transportation problem which is becoming more acute each year in my constituency.

At the end of Digby Neck are two islands which have a total population equal to many small towns of Nova Scotia. There is an influx of summer residents to the area and a large section of the Bay of Fundy fishing fleet is based here.

Petite Passage presents a problem to the flow of traffic to and from these islands. Vehicles are transported across this six to eight knot tidal water on a scow towed by a diesel propelled tug-boat. At dark, due to the hazard of towing, the ferry ceases operation and no vehicle transportation is possible until daylight. A sea, during day light whipped up against an adverse tide, also interferes with the service.

In winter on fine days this means approximately nine hours in which the ferry operates. During this time milk, fuel oil, gasoline, bread and most of the stable articles required by the people of the Islands are ferried across this stretch of churning water.

The problem is becoming more severe caused by the upsurge of the fishing industry, the exporting of the fresh fish and the general improved living standard brought about by the increasing well-being of the people. This is reflected in the increase of traffic. Last year the increased number of vehicles transported across this passage was three thousand over the previous period. I have been informed that the present year will reach a total of twenty-seven thousand vehicles conveyed across Petite Passage.

An interesting fact is that in the month of February the Yarmouth-Bar Harbor Ferry transported 208 vehicles, according to a recent press story. This is approximately the number transported daily last summer when the weather permitted the Petite Passage ferry to operate.

Due to the efficiency of the crew who operate the ferry, there have been no major incidents. But the crew feel the service is extended to the hours of darkness, using a towing system of ferrying the hazards will be multiplied.

If the increase per year of three thousand vehicles continues, it will be impossible to handle the demands under the present system. And it does seem as though we have not met the limit of expansion of this service, as the month of February this year showed an increase over the month of February last year.

There is a pressing need for some other means of transportation across Petite Passage now. This will entail considerable expenditure in docking facilities and a self-propelled type of ferry. For future use there are the two projected ideas — bridge or causeway.

I feel that the causeway should be considered jointly with the federal authorities. There is a pressing need of shelter for the increasing dragger fleet and a project of this kind would create harbour facilities in case of storms. At present there are no deep water harbour facilities between Yarmouth and Digby which can accommodate this field. If the causeway-harbour project is found feasible then the causeway section would open up the op-

Delegation Gets Good Reception

Members of the delegation who went to Halifax to meet the Hon. Stephen Pyke, regarding a causeway over the mouth of Bear River spoke in glowing terms of the kind reception and amount of time accorded them in making their presentation. In the delegation headed by Allison Denton, Bear River, who presented the brief, were Howard York, Bear River; Graham Saunders, Digby; and C. E. Daniels, Annapolis Royal. They represented Boards of Trade from Bear River, Digby and Annapolis Royal. They were also accompanied by R. B. Powell, M.L.A. The Deputy Minister of Highways, Mr. Wickwire, and highway engineers were present at the meeting.

The delegation learned that a bridge or causeway, depending on costs, was third in priority on the list of major highway projects in Nova Scotia. The many possibilities of a causeway were thoroughly discussed. The question of closing navigable waters was also discussed, the delegation reported, and the procedures and results brought to light by discussion. A future meeting of the Digby, Bear River and Annapolis delegates, involving especially Bear River, will be giving the matter further consideration, it is understood.

portunity for our Department of Highway to enter into a road within its limited financial resources.

Mr. Chairman, though Digby Neck and Islands are off the beaten trail, the people of this area are contributing and have contributed in large measure to the educational, social and the economic stability of this Province. I am confident that with the improved travel facilities they will contribute more by taking advantage of these facilities for quicker means of communication with the rest of the Province. Mr. Chairman, I would like the Minister of Highways to comment on the ferry situation on Petite Passage.

600 Employed In Fish Plants On Digby Neck

The Digby Neck area is enjoying a higher standard of living as a result of the recent success of commercial fishing. The area, comprised of a forty-mile stretch of land from Digby to Westport, which includes two small islands at its tip, is now enjoying the benefits of several successful seasons.

This forty-mile "needle" reaches into the Bay of Fundy parallel with the mainland coast. Along its paved #17 highway are located the main fishing communities of Centreville, Sandy Cove, Mink Cove, Little River, and East Ferry. Across Petite Passage the highway continues through Tiverton and Freeport, on Long Island, and across Grand Passage lies Westport on Brier Island.

There are ten fish plants in operation along this stretch of land, which employ over 600 people. Most of the area's fishermen use the popular Cape Island boats but a few of the larger concerns operate modern dragners. The many new homes are evidence of an improved standard of living throughout the entire area.

In recent years over $200,000 has been averaged most every year for fish plant equipment and improvements. Likewise, another $300,000 has gone into the construction of new boats and the overall improvement of older ones.

An extreme interest in their own natural resources and livelihood has meant success for the people of the Digby Neck area, and all indications point to a continuation of this progress and prosperity in the future.

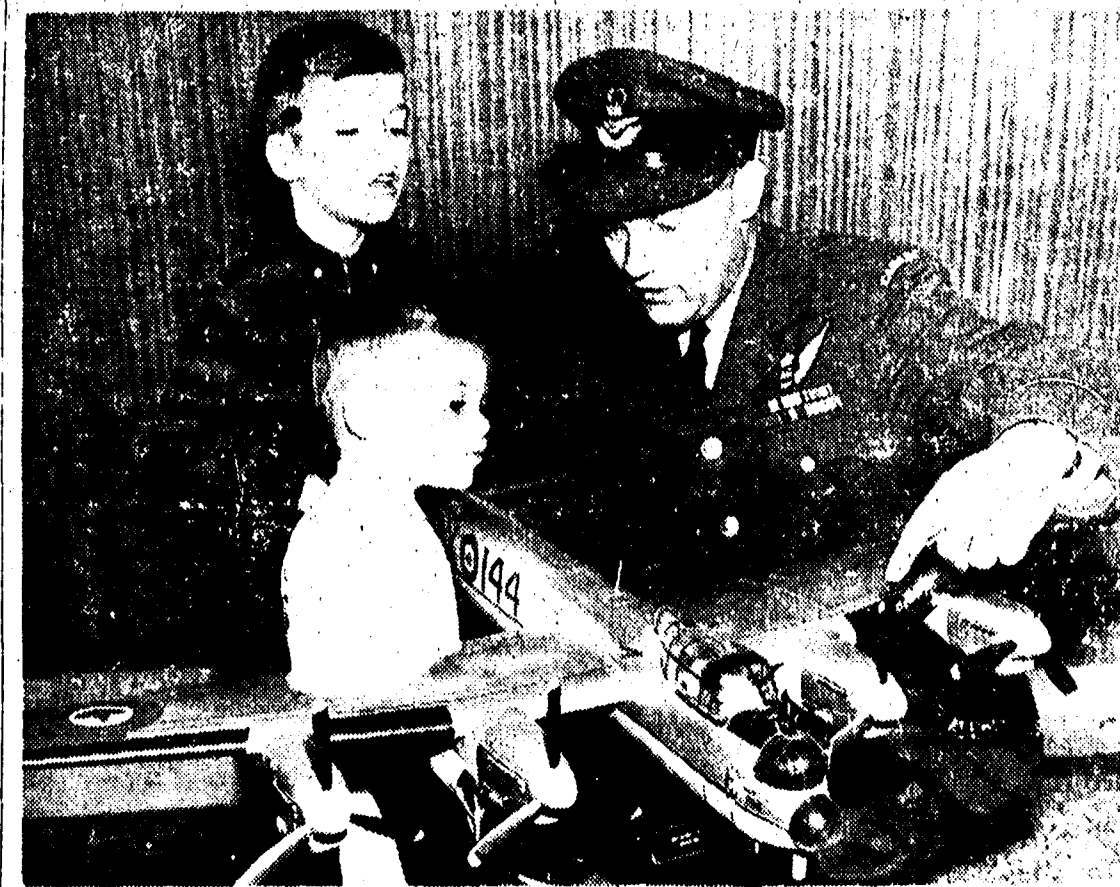

St. Patrick's To Build School

According to reports the Parish of Saint Patrick's, Digby, will build a six or eight room school. The site has not been determined but it is possible it might be on the same premises as the present St. Patrick's School building.

It was passed at the Digby Urban School Board that the parish would build the school and the Urban School Board would take care of administration such as engaging teachers, etc. Repairs on the building would be made by the parish.

The Reconnaissance Squadron of the Royal Canadian Dragoons has been ordered to Cyprus as part of the United Nations peacekeeping force. Army authorities announced Friday.

The unit, under command of Major John Beament, 37, of Ottawa, consists of three troops each with seven scout cars, and a headquarters. It numbers about 120 men including cooks, mechanics and signallers. Among them are Lieut Albert L. Geddy, Meteghan River and Signaller Alton O. Outhouse, Digby.

The remainder of the Recce Squadron left by road for Halifax Saturday morning.

Tea Kettle From Dime

In last week's "Courier" someone said "who could believe that a teapot could be carved from a penny?" Mrs. Earl McCormick, Bear River, says she can believe it, because she has a tea kettle carved from a dime.

It is a perfect miniature with open spout, movable bail and removable cover.

This prized possession was given her by her late aunt, Mrs. Jennie Brown. Mrs. Brown was a faithful worker of the Canadian Red Cross and best known as "Aunt Jennie" to everyone.

Dedicate Altar Veils

The Rev. Mr. Logan dedicated three altar-cross veils Sunday during Evensong at St. Anne's Church, Smith's Cove, in memory of Daisy Masters, former communicant, who died in Ottawa February 14th. The veils consecrated were a white for Lent, a violet for Passiontide, and a black for Good Friday.

Addresses Yarmouth Group

In a recent address to the Yarmouth Rotary Club, Wallace Hodgson, a teacher at Digby Regional School, gave an account of the operation of a safe driving road-e-o.

Mr. Hodgson told the group that on the whole, teenagers are better drivers than adults. He said that to be eligible to take part in a road-e-o one must be a teenager, having a driving license, and not having had a motor vehicle accident in the previous six months.

There must be a sponsoring body, he said, and there must also be a general chairman plus five sub-chairmen and a number of necessary committees.

Contestants have four driving tests and a written test. Mr. Hodgson said that Road-e-o's have proven worthwhile, and as a result having them in Digby for the past four years the driving habits of teenagers have improved noticeably.

Form Junior Fish & Game

Keith Woodman, Conway, was elected the first president of the Digby Junior Fish & Game Association at the organizational meeting held at the Lions Club Hall on Saturday evening. First vice president is Glen Dunn and second vice president, Donald Ecker. Doreen Doucette is secretary and Ruth Height treasurer.

Charles Hall, president of the Digby (East) Fish & Game Association, presided over the organizational meeting and explained the aims and objects of such an association. Thirty-five young people from the area were in attendance, enjoying dancing and refreshments served by Mrs. Hall.

Already the juniors have started on their membership drive, accepting all teenagers up to nineteen years. Twenty years denotes a senior.

Mrs. VanTassel Bowls 401

Friday 13th proved a lucky day for Mrs. Guy VanTassel, Digby. On that day she not only capped the ladies' high bowling score at Carleton Lanes with a 401, to tie with Austin Algee, who holds the men's high, but she also won $40.00 for bowling 135 in a single string. Mrs. VanTassel's scores were 123, 135, 143.

Hill Grove Baptist Holds Annual Meeting

The annual business meeting of the Hill Grove Baptist Church was held recently in the church hall.

Following a brief devotional service, conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. S. Hartlin, reports from various officers, organizations and committees of the church were presented and adopted. The pastor presided at the meeting.

Reports from the Sunday School, Baptist Youth Fellowship, Ladies Auxiliary, W.M.S. and other groups revealed that 1963 had been an active year and much had been accomplished.

The report given by the Treasurer, Mrs. W. E. Franklin, indicated that receipts during 1963 had been good, all bills had been paid, and that a substantial balance remained on hand at the close of the year.

In his report the pastor said that he appreciated the opportunity of working among the young people of the church and the fine response and co-operation these young people were giving. He also expressed appreciation to all officers, organizations and committees of the church for the work done, mentioning especially the contribution made to the church life by the teachers and Superintendent of the Sunday School, the organist and young people's choir, the Ladies' Auxiliary and the Women's Missionary Society. Tribute was also paid to members who had died during the year. A Bible Class had been formed and had been carried on weekly during the winter months.

Among business matters dealt with, it was agreed that a substantial increase in fire insurance be placed on the church property. The Clerk, Lloyd MacNeil, stated that a revision of the Church membership roll had been made and it was being recommended to the meeting that a list of non-resident members from whom the church had not heard for some years should be placed on a non-active list.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by members of the church's social committee.

About This and That

Free Transportation - Chartered Buses

The best example of merchants of a town working together comes from Bathurst, N. B., so far as we can see. According to a recent issue of The Telegraph Journal, free transportation and free parking have been arranged for Thursday evening, March 26, by the Bathurst Merchant's Association as an Easter Sales Promotion. Of course, the free parking would involve the Town Council, too. Free transportation is to be arranged by chartered bus.

We don't think our free advertising for Bathurst will draw any customers all the way from Digby. And we did want an opportunity to pass on the suggestion to our merchants. Also we admire the cooperation of the Bathurst merchants as we did our own merchants in the Dollar Day venture.

By the way, would you like to know what other considerations are in the minds of the Bathurst Merchant's Association members? Other projects under consideration by the association include a survey into July and August store hours, rest room facilities, charitable donations, credit delinquents, and shop lifting.

Surprising the items of business which can be considered in a Merchant's Association or Merchant's Committee.

Time To "Spruce Up"

If we were making out a list of projects for our Merchant's Committee in Digby we would include a "Time To Spruce Up" campaign. Yes, this week sees Spring officially enter the seasons of the year 1964. It is time we began thinking how we are going to spruce up the business section of Digby to make it attractive during the summer months.

Beautifulizing a town can be a tremendous morale booster for the townspeople and the merchants. There are a few merchants whom we know are in need of a morale boost after the drab, dull winter. A paint up, brighten up all around town could help. Besides, out-of-town shoppers can be attracted by a new and brighter physical look to the stores. The impression we make on our neighbouring villages and towns should not be overlooked.

However, most of the above people know us and accept us as we are if we wish to remain drab. But, what about the impression we give the tourist? And it is soon tourist time. Every tourist, practically, who arrives on the Princess of Acadia, goes through the main street of our town. The impression they get will determine whether they will stop to shop or not, whether they'll return again or whether they will or will not urge their friends to come to Digby.

Yes, it is time to Spruce Up or at least to be planning it, which all reminds us, what is the story on the vacant stores and vacant lot where the old post office stood? The present situation isn't attractive to tourists. Truly, you can't build stores or open doors just for the sake of doing it. Our wish for something brighter there prompts the question.

OF MANY THINGS, by Ambrose Hillis
Canadians often give the impression of being a pain-wracked, problem-ridden people, devoted to planning things down to the last painful detail. In 1967 they will be 100 years old... and already the birthday plans appear to be forged in anguish and argument, enmeshed with problems of bi-lingualism and multi-culturalism. The word-smiths and intellectuals have tormented the subject in seminars, panels, discussion groups and dialogues, until it has almost bogged down. And then came some light!

A blunt, outspoken business man, Oakah Jones, president of The Consumers Gas Company, was invited to speak on Canada's birthday year to the Ontario Association of Architects. I have just read a copy of his speech, and I feel like shouting yippee.

He called for a little less rigid planning and a bit more spontaneous response, some enthusiasm, and lots of gaiety. He suggested we aim for a party that will bring happy recollections that will go on for years afterwards. Let's not fight about what kind of government help we are going to get for this project or that one - let the people put on a party of their own; a celebration. And it ought to be a colorful one, because we've so many racial backgrounds, so many ethnic groups that have retained their traditions along with their Canadianism.

It starts to sound like fun. It begins to become the kind of party that will bring Americans and Europeans flocking into Canada in 1967 to celebrate with us a real party - not a fear-stained debate about our various problems. And they'll go home saying, "What a whale of a wonderful party!"

So let's all catch the spirit. Let's tell the world we're going to live it up a little in 1967, and they're welcome to join us in the fun. We have a few problems, true; but we've plenty to be gay about as well!

It's Robbery

My, oh, my! We shake our fists and lament over the safe crackers, we are astounded when we hear of people being tied to unmovable objects while their houses and shops are being ransacked. We even hear people say, "Why can't the police do something?" Goodness, should you be caught loaning a hammer to a safe cracker you'd likely go to jail with the culprit! Yet, so innocently we loan "hammers" to "safecrackers" and so innocently we stand by and not even try to catch the robber.

We are thinking of any company which would steal advertising by offering a bribe for being able to get their company's name or product into a newspaper without having to pay for the space like every other honest company does. The thinking behind it is, "We get free-advertising. Besides the newspaper is giving the donation while all the time it looks as if we are giving it."

Why the poor safecrackers! Who knows, they might be robbing the safe in order to give the money to the poor. A poor kind of charity, indeed, but who knows, they still might get their names written in the golden book in heaven for their generosity.

We are all for clearing up the safe cracking and robberies but we are all for clearing up all robberies - big and small.

Letter to the Editor

Smith's Cove,

March 16, 1964.

To The Editor,
The Digby Courier,
Digby, N. S.

Dear Madam;
I support wholeheartedly the suggestion made by Mrs. Caroline Brown to use the Bus Terminal for a public library. Not only would the location be ideal and also with the proper backing and support would, I feel sure, be an asset to the Town as well as the municipality.

As Digby County has not seen fit to avail itself of the services of the Book Mobile - which it could have done a number of years ago, and without cost - both adults and children have been denied the pleasure and privilege of reading, for reading's sake alone, as well as having available the many reference books on Agriculture, Animal Husbandry, Homemaking, Fishing and countless others - information and help so necessary to the economy and well being of this area.

It is understandable that books of this nature are most expensive, consequently the individual is not apt to buy them. How much better it would be to get them FREE through a library service. Perhaps in that way more people would be better informed as well as entertained. Our young people need to be taught to read for pleasure as well as information and what better place, outside of school, is there than a good library? Time spent in front of the T.V. absorbing the trash which 90% of the programs offer could be better spent with a good book.

Merely as a suggestion: perhaps one of the local organizations such as the Lions Club, the Kiwanis Club or any other civic minded body would like to sponsor the cause. To start the ball rolling the Smith's Cove Library has from three to four hundred books in excellent condition which I feel sure would be given to a library in Digby.

Dear Editor:

Daily I receive newspaper clippings from across Canada covering Brotherhood Week sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews for the 16th consecutive year.

Judging from the newspaper reports, I would say it has been an extremely interesting celebration this year. No longer are the writers obliged to comment only favorably about Brotherhood and its ideals. Reports have been pro and con, which to me is a healthy sign that people are beginning to think seriously about the ideals of brotherhood, which is exactly what the celebration of the Week is designed to do. Brotherhood Week is just one of the many projects sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews which are all designed to promote good intergroup relations in Canada. The special Week, because of the wide support it receives from the Mass Media of Communication, reaches millions of Canadians.

I sincerely thank your newspaper for the coverage it gave in bringing the message of goodwill to its readers. We all

Gentlemen:

For years I have used Chevrolet trucks for my city and country deliveries. I have always had really good service from them, with very little trouble. I recently traded a 1954 cab-over-engine model which had cost only $200.00 in repairs since new. A 1957 truck which I bought new is still running well with original parts throughout. From engine to rear axle, everything is original.

This kind of long service has convinced me that I buy the right trucks when I buy Chevrolet. Gas mileage is better than on any other make of truck I have owned, and my drivers tell me that there's lots of power there for their heaviest loads.

A multi-stop operation such as mine is hard on all parts of a truck but from my previous experience, I know my new Chevrolets will stand up to the job.

Yours very truly,

Mel Hill

Local Dry Cleaner Wins Award

For the second time in three years Mr. Howard Cottreau, operator of Fashion Cleaners Limited, Digby, was awarded the "Spotmanship Award" of the dry cleaning industry, by Dry Cleaning World, a United Business Publication. The award was attained by skillfully removing a difficult "Mystery Spot" from a swatch of cloth without damaging the material. The challenging "Mystery Spot" swatch was affixed to the cover of the January issue of the magazine. After successfully removing the difficult stain the cloth was returned to the challengers for judging.

Recently Mr. Cottreau, who has been connected with the cleaning industry for some twenty years, was awarded with the honors of his trade. He claims only good service and quality work are able to build a good business.

USING THE WEDGE AGAINST THE LORD'S DAY ACT OF CANADA

Editor,
The Digby Courier,
Dear Sir:

For several months some Nova Scotians, anxious for Sunday sport, etc., have been using this wedge to facilitate their aims: "Everyone is doing it", they say. "Sunday should be more secularized". But many people throughout Canada say, "Wait a minute". Fairly recently the Canadian Tourist Association president declared: "Many Americans are not 'bored by our Sunday'". One of them put it thus: "Canada's Sunday is beneficial, attractive and well worth keeping". A number of Ontario citizens' groups have organized against Sunday commercial sport along with a union delegation.

Moreover, representing a wider cross section of Canadian life, taking a similar stand are T. C. H. Allison, Honorary President, Toronto Argonaut Football Club; Dr. Sydney Smith, former University President and Cabinet Minister; Dr. Gordon Bates, Director Health League of Canada; the National Director United Steel Workers of America; and Donald M. Fleming, former M.P. and Cabinet Minister. There are many other individuals in this category.

Further, many Ontario municipalities, for example, are opposed to this hammering wedge. For "total figures to date, Nov. 1956, of votes in 76 municipalities, for commercial sport: Yes - 224,839; No - 254,151; majority against - 29,315". The eligible civic voters in St. Thomas who wanted a plebiscite, were NOT sufficiently large then to warrant a vote.

Also the press has exerted weight against the anti splitting of this act. "The Hamilton Spectator", "The Canadian Register", "The British Columbia Catholic" and "The Ottawa Journal" are among the number that have used their columns to discourage this procedure. Hear the "Orillia Packet and Times", as it (about 1959) addressed a strike of Longford Mills: "The issue may be one of national significance... it would be well for both parties... to understand that not just this newspaper, not just a few cranks, nor just the churches, nor just a few politicians, but the great mass of people of Orillia, of Ontario, of Canada are unalterably opposed to any attempt to deprive us of our Sunday day of rest. No amount of employee pay or company profit should be permitted to infringe upon our established institution, and an essential part of our way of life — the work-free Sunday".

Yes, key citizens Dominion-wide, Ontario municipalities, and several influential journalists have been seeking to halt this wedging activity.

Still further, religious denominations have been acting similarly. The Anglican Church in Canada (Anglican Social Service Council, Huron Presbytery about 1962) urged that diocese to state clearly "the physical and spiritual refreshment values of the Lord's Day for as many people as possible". A little later, Ottawa Anglicans referred to the large number of people who are obliged to work when spectator sports, and movies, are permitted on Sunday". The Hamilton Presbytery, United Church of Canada, similarly opposed commercialization of the day for such action is, "detrimental to the well-being of our society". Like utterances have been released by the Presbyterian, Baptist, Nazarene and many other denominations appealing for "more Christians to speak up for what is right".

How far has the wedge split the act? Canadian provinces have not generally split the act yet, though British Columbia (Vancouver especially) has commercial, sports and other types of entertainment; Alberta at least permits the operation of bowling alleys on Sundays. Saskatchewan has been considering the matter; apart from Winnipeg, Manitoba has apparently done little and Ontario has been mentioned previously.

In Nova Scotia some sporting interests and movie concerns are clamoring for a more commercialized Sunday. Legislative hearings have been held to learn the wish of the people in this direction. Roman Catholic church leaders (Ottawa about 1960), with "grave concern" over the secularizing of Sunday said: "Today, when militant materialism is attacking the forces of good, are we to yield to the pressure exerted by the power of money against our sane and democratic institutions?" These were "established through the unceasing efforts of many generations."

Nova Scotians be alerted! Evil prospers much quicker when good people are inactive. If the Provincial Government attempts weakened Sunday legislation, may there be a strong, general request for local option.

Respectfully yours,

Rev. J. M. Blesedell,
Chairman - Oxford-Pugwash Ministerial Association Com.

Marriage

Wamboldt — Beeler
Wamboldt — Robar

A very pretty double wedding was solemnized in the United Church of St. Andrews and St. George in Annapolis Royal, Saturday, February the twenty-second at 2:30 p.m. when Mary Ann Beeler, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beeler of Upper Clements became the bride of Edward Milledge Wamboldt, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Wamboldt of Upper Clements and Dianne Nancy Robar, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley B. Robar of Virginia East became the bride of Donald Richard Wamboldt of Upper Clements.

The double ring ceremony was performed for both couples by the Rev. M. G. Butler. Mrs. J. Allison Ralton was organist and the full robed choir sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Miss Beeler, given in marriage by her father was lovely in her floor length wedding gown of white tulle, accented by white lace appliques, with round neckline and long pointed sleeves. Her bouffant shoulder length veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Jeanne Fox, wore a street length dress of pink satin with bell shaped skirt and wedding ring head-dress trimmed with white tulle. She carried a nosegay of white baby mums. Hartley Milner was best man.

Miss Robar, given in marriage by her father, was charming in her floor length wedding gown of white organza over taffeta, accented by white lace appliques, with round neckline and long pointed sleeves. Her bouffant shoulder length veil fell from a crown of rhinestones and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Emily Wamboldt, sister of the groom wore a street length dress of yellow nylon with matching lace jacket and wedding ring head dress trimmed with white tulle. She carried a nosegay of white baby mums. Ronald Wright was best man.

Little Dianne Shaw, dressed in pale green nylon was flower girl, with assorted colored posies.

Ushers were Keith Beeler, William Wamboldt Jr., and Keith Trimmer.

The mothers of the brides were dressed in blue brocade two-piece dresses with white accessories. The groom's mother was dressed in brown printed jersey with beige accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the dining room of the church, with 200 guests in attendance. Mrs. Leon Woodworth, aunt of the groom and Mrs. Willis Robar, aunt of Miss Robar, poured.

For going away Mrs. Edward Wamboldt wore a turquoise wool dress and a cranberry red coat with mouton trim, black marabou hat and accessories. Mrs. Donald Wamboldt travelled in a turquoise wool dress and blue coat, Nova Scotia Tartan hat and purse with red accessories.

After a honeymoon through the province Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wamboldt will reside in Round Hill. The bride is on the staff of the United Elastic Ltd., Centrelea, and the groom with Clyde L. Baltzer Co., Annapolis Royal. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wamboldt will reside in Bridgewater after their honeymoon trip, where the groom is a trainee with Stedman's Store.

We have been having films instead of worship services at our church group lately.

Ordinarily, religious films leave me cold. More often than not, they are poorly acted, poorly scripted, and the moral is contrived and unconvincing. Last month we had a film which was produced amid considerable ballyhoo for a religious film, about five years ago. I thought it might mark the beginning of a new approach to the medium, but I was disappointed. The story was episodic, "conversions" were effected too quickly, with too little thought on the part of the supposedly converted, and all lived much too happily ever after.

Last week, however, we had one called SERMONS IN SCIENCE. I think it was put out by the Moody Institute. The film began with God's promise to Abraham that his descendants would be as many as the stars in the sky, or the sands of the sea. The first reaction of many of us to this statement is that ancient people could have had no concept of the discrepancy between these two figures. We reason that there are more grains of sand in any handful than there are stars in the sky. The film takes this thought, usually unexpressed — at least I have thought it many times, and not expressed it, haven't you? — and works from there. It goes on to use those staggering astronomical figures which we have all heard many times, but since our minds cannot comprehend their utter vastness, we forget them immediately.

The narrator spoke of new discoveries in astronomy since the advent of the radio telescope, especially of bodies which we used to think were single stars, which we now know are whole galaxies containing millions of stars, at incredible distances from our little point in space. According to this film, Sir James Jeans, who delights in putting colossal numbers into visual terms, which most of us can comprehend, says that in known space, there are more stars than there are grains of sand on all the beaches of the world. We can only see a few hundred, but the others are there in the vastness of space.

The early part of the film made a rather big production of the idea that we were about to see things that no-one had ever seen except on a powerful telescope. This was less than true. The photography relied mostly on graphs and still shots which can be seen in any book on the subject. The pictures, however, were lucid, and the narration was good.

There were three other sections of the film. After this incomprehensible size of space, we were asked to "consider the lilies of the field". This was most effectively done, and the photography was very good. The time lapse photography was a little too fast, perhaps for maximum effect, but if the film had not gotten its message across at all, we would have gotten some insight into how this type of work is done. Evidently, cameras are set to take a few frames of moving pictures at stated intervals. The camera opens at seven in the morning, when the flower is in tight bud, takes a few frames, then, at seven forty-five, when the flower has opened barely perceptibly more, it will snap another few frames. This can go on as long as the photographer wishes to keep it up. By this method, among other beautiful shots, we saw four days in the life of a poppy protracted into one and one-half minutes.

The next section was the old familiar life cycle of the butterfly. When I realized what was coming I was annoyed. I thought, "This film has been quite intelligently presented until now, but now they are going to show us what they really think of us by telling us things we learned in grade six." I was mistaken. We may have known the life cycle of the butterfly before, but I, at least, had never seen it happen. This photography was done at the exact speed at which things happened. Some people may find it a weird sensation to see a caterpillar four feet high shedding its skin in living color, but at least in our group, nobody squirmed, squiggled, or even said "oooooooooh". With a few notable exceptions (cockroaches, for instance) very few living things disgust me, but surely, even to people who go squeamish at the sight of wiggly things, this photography was excellent to the point of being beautiful.

The rest of the film dealt with single celled animals. This part, although not bad, was not as good as the other parts. Perhaps it came as an anti-climax to the excellent work just before. Although not grade six, it was grade twelve science. We have all seen similar films in school. The point did not impress me, and, when you've seen one paramcium, you've seen them all.

For any faults SERMONS IN-SCIENCE may have had, it was a well presented religious film. I think it might appeal especially to high school students, but then, I'm not selling it. I just thought you might be interested.

Regular services were held at the Baptist Church on Sunday. In the morning Rev. A. G. Hubley spoke on "The Word of Victory", the sixth word uttered by Jesus on the Cross, with scripture John 19:30. More For Missions By United Church

An eleven million dollar budget for home and overseas work of The United Church of Canada was expected to be approved by the Church's Board of Finance when it held its annual meeting. Rev. George M. Morrison, Secretary of the Board, presented the budget for the current year calling for a total expenditure by Boards and Departments of $11,000,000. This compared with $10,615,181 for 1963.

The Board of World Mission will receive $2,751,000, the first time that the expenditure for overseas work has exceeded that of the Board of Home Missions.

Funds for these expenditures will come from two sources: the Missionary and Maintenance Fund ($8,940,000) and United Church Women ($1,760,000). In 1963, The United Church Women exceeded their objective by $76,713, when they raised $1,776,713.

Contingent projects would result in a further expenditure of $500,000, if the money becomes available.

Feeding The Multitudes

In 1958 the population of the world was estimated at over two billion eight hundred million, so the Americana tells us. By the year 2 thousand, this figure is expected to find the means for feeding more than twice as many people as today. Moreover, each person's portion will have to come from a considerably smaller piece of land, as the increasing population takes over more and more of the earth's agricultural area.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clements spent the weekend at Halifax with Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Outhouse and attended the Ice Capades.

Minister Honoured For Many Acts

A New Brunswick born minister was honored March 11 for his many years of service to the church and community.

Rev. Herbert L. Reid, a native of New Brunswick, N.B., received a plaque from a branch of the American Legion of Tiverton for a number of years of service to the church and community.

Mr. Reid is minister of the First Christian Church at New Brunswick, N.B. He made the donation of $1,000.00 to the Tiverton Centre.

The action has drawn praise from Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston. Cardinal Cushing, in a letter "To whom it may concern" dated last Oct. 25, described Mr. Reid as a non-Protestant, non-Catholic "minister whose actions gave testimony of 'His love of God of neighbor'."

Rev. John P. Donovan, pastor of St. Francis' Church, of Winthrop, Me., said the action honored the minister's own physical condition to the point where he had very little resistance and could get any disease. The testimony was in a letter replying to a request for an impartial appraisal of Mr. Reid's action. It said, "no one should speak about Rev. Herbert Reid without considering his courage, and love of people."

The plaque was presented by the Grover - Hinckley Post No. 14 of the American Legion. The inscription outlines the actions of Mr. Reid and presented "in recognition of his great Christian act of mercy." The plaque says, "Comrade Herbert 'Sammy' Reid" is a member of the Legion Post. Rev. Mr. Reid is known in many parts of Nova Scotia and preached on several occasions in Tiverton.

$75,000 Fire At Weymouth

Fire raged through a sawmill at Weymouth, Wednesday leaving 70 men jobless and damage to Lewis Lumber Co.'s mill was estimated at about $75,000.

Last night, Clyde Cosman the company secretary - treasurer said, "We don't know what will happen now, all our workers will be laid off in the next few days, with the exception of keymen, until we decide whether or not to rebuild". The fire broke out shortly after 1:00 p.m. Just after a group of workers left the mill.

Weymouth Volunteer Fire department was called but before they arrived the building was in flames. There was nothing they could do but stand by and watch. In 30 minutes the building was destroyed. Because of the direction of the high winds which whipped flames, there was no

Thirty men work in the mill offices and yard and another 40 are employed as loggers, many other people include numbers in the area depend on the mill as a source of income.

"It is going to hit the whole community and the people living in the surrounding area very hard", said Mr. Cosman. It was the second time in just under five years that the mill had been destroyed. In August 1959, the mill was burned to the ground. "We will be having a meeting of the directors to discuss plans for the future. But at this stage it is difficult to say what we might do. Mr. Cosman continued. He said that there are still a great number of difficulties ahead before a decision about rebuilding can be made.

Plans Pre Easter Service

Weymouth and District Ministerial Association met on March 5th in regular session at the home of Rev. R. R. Waples, Brighton. Those present included Rev. C. R. Barkhouse, Mr. C. R. Jones and Fred I. Withers in addition to Mr. Winchester.

Further details were discussed relative to religious services in the various churches of the area during the week preceding Easter Sunday. Rev. Mr. Barkhouse advised that suitable folders had been mimeographed and also that newspaper space to announce same was being arranged.

Requests were received from Rev. Mr. Durling and Rev. Mr. Clayton who were unable to attend and from Rev. Mr. Peters newly appointed to the Anglican Parish of Saint Peter's.

It was agreed that following the Pre Easter services a meeting would be held at which the offerings would be distributed to various worthy charities of the districts involved.

Mr. Withers presented for study and discussion a short paper on the subject Hope, one of the great Christian qualities designated by Paul the Apostle. An interesting discussion followed. Rev. Mr. Barkhouse will present paper for discussion at the next meeting.

Weymouth U.C.W.

The United Church Women met on Tuesday evening March 17 at the home of Mrs. Muriel Payson, Weymouth, when Mrs. Perley Chaffeton was in charge of the Study Book Period. At the meeting sympathy of the group was voiced in the death of Mr. Perley Gates, husband of one of the members.

Minister Honoured For Many Acts

A New Brunswick born minister was honored March 11 for the donation three years ago of a massive skin graft to a badly burned Roman Catholic boy in Maine.

Rev. Herbert L. Reid, a native of Canterbury, N.B., received a plaque from a branch of the American Legion of which he is a member for a donation of 250 square inches of skin to badly burned Billy Tracy of Woodland, Me.

Mr. Reid is minister of the First Christian Church at New Brunswick, Me. He made the donation of skin December 7, 1960. At the Maine Medical Centre.

The action has drawn praise from Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic arch-bishop of Boston. Cardinal Cushing, in a letter "To whom it may concern" dated last Oct. 25, described Mr. Reid as a non-Protestant, non-Catholic "minister whose actions gave testimony of 'His love of God of neighbor'."

Rev. John P. Donovan, pastor of St. Francis' Church, of Winthrop, Me., said the action reduced the minister's own physical condition to the point where he had very little resistance and could get any disease. The testimony was in a letter replying to a request for an impartial appraisal of Mr. Reid's action. It said, "no one should speak about Rev. Herbert Reid without considering his courage and love of people." The plaque was presented by the Grover - Hinckley Post No. 11 of the American Legion. The inscription outlines the actions of Mr. Reid and presented "In recognition of his great Christian act of mercy." The plaque says, "Comrade Herbert 'Sammy' Reid" is a member of the Legion Post. Rev. Mr. Reid is known in many parts of Nova Scotia and preached on several occasions in Tiverton.

$75,000 Fire

At Weymouth Fire raged through a sawmill at Weymouth, Wednesday leaving 70 men jobless and damage to Lewis Lumber Co.'s mill was estimated at about $75,000.

Last night, Clyde Cosman the company secretary - treasurer said, "We don't know what will happen now, all our workers will be laid off in the next few days, with the exception of keymen, until we decide whether or not to rebuild". The fire broke out shortly after 1:00 p.m. Just after a group of workers left the mill.

Weymouth Volunteer Fire Department was called but the building was in flames. There was nothing they could do, but stand by and watch. In 30 min. the building was destroyed. Because of the direction of the high winds which whipped flames, there was no danger of the fire spreading to the office block or nearby houses.

Thirty men work in the mill offices and yard and another 40 are employed as loggers, many other people include farmers in the area depend on the mill as a source of income.

"It is going to hit the whole community and the people living in the surrounding area very hard", said Mr. Cosman. It was the second time in just under five years that the mill had been destroyed. In August 1959, the mill was burned to the ground. "We will be having a meeting of the directors to discuss plans for the future. But at this stage it is difficult to say what we might do. Mr. Cosman continued: He said that there are still a great number of difficulties ahead before a decision about rebuilding can be made.

Report From Parliament Hill

George C. Nowlan

March 11, 1964.
This is being dictated on Saturday morning, and Parliament Hill has been shocked and saddened by the news of the sudden death of the Honourable Jack Garland, Minister of National Revenue. Jack was in attendance in the House last night at its special session to which I will refer later, left to catch a train for his home in North Bay, and died just as the train pulled out of the station. Physically, Jack was a huge man, at one time weighing over 300 pounds. By temperament, he was kindly, courteous to all, and showed ability in administering a very difficult Department. His death will be a loss to the Pearson Government, as well as to the House of Commons and the country as a whole.

It has been a trying week here. Most of the time in the House was spent debating the Redistribution Bill. This debate is not yet concluded, and it will be some weeks probably before the Bill is finally enacted. It is going to substantially change most of the constituencies in Canada. There is a move on foot to enlarge the membership of the House which would lessen the changes which have to be made in individual constituencies. Personally I doubt very much if Parliament will make such a change. If it doesn't, there are many rural constituencies at least which will have to merge, because of the tremendous increase in our urban population. Nova Scotia is due to lose one Member. Technically we should lose two, but the Honourable James Gardiner, when redistribution was discussed after 1951, faced the fact that his native Province, Saskatchewan, would lose four members. Therefore, he got Parliament to enact a Statute which has been known as "the 15% Rule", which prevented any Province from losing more than 15% of its membership after any particular redistribution.

We normally should drop from 12 Members to 10; but due to the 15% rule we will only lose one. The two smallest constituencies, from the standpoint of population in Nova Scotia are Inverness, Richmond and Antigonish-Guyborough. It is a subject of some humorous comment around here that one of these constituencies is represented by Nova Scotia's Cabinet Minister, and the other by its Parliamentary Secretary. Halifax will probably lose its dual riding character. There are only two dual-ridings left in Canada, Halifax and Queens in P.E.I. Both are doomed to go, and Halifax will probably be divided into two ridings, largely comprising the cities of Halifax and Dartmouth, and my guess is that the rural parts will be attached in part perhaps to Hants, to Colchester and to Lunenburg. Of course, this is a decision which will have to be made by the Independent Commission, which is to be created by the Bill now under debate. The theory is that all decisions will be made by the Commission and when made, they will be binding upon Parliament, which will not have the right to amend the Report. This certainly deprives Parliament of the power which it has exercised since Confederation. On the other hand, there would be very little point in having an independent Commission whose Report would finally have to be approved by Parliament. You would be back exactly where you were before the Commission was set up.

All through the week, the situation in Cyprus was on everyone's mind. Day by day the word was coming through of more and more Cyprus being butchered by their Greek compatriots. Something had to be done, and yet it was very difficult to get anything finalized. The truth of the matter is that the United Nations Organization as such is broke—at least financially. The Canadian Government, quite properly, agreed to send a force to Cyprus without any charge to the United Nations. That has always been the policy of the Canadian Government wherever our forces are serving. Other countries, however, refuse to pay their cost. Finally the United States and Great Britain offered to advance $3,000,000 and other countries contributed varying amounts. In other words, this is not going to be a United Nations operation as such, citizens. Greece would have but a force organized by individual nations belonging to the United Nations. There is a substantial difference, and it may have weakened the authority of the United Nations Organization in the future. On Friday afternoon the Government attempted to get unanimous consent to deal with the matter either Friday night or Saturday by an emergency sitting. The Creditists refused to give consent and the matter was dropped. However, during the day the reports kept pouring in, indicating very clearly that unless something was done within a very few hours, the Turkish Armed Forces would probably enter Cyprus to protect their followed suit, and we probably would have had a war on our hands in the Mediterranean. Faced with this appalling possibility, the Government, with the support of the Official Opposition and the N.D.P., went ahead with its emergency session on Friday night, despite the protests of the Creditists. By midnight, the House of Commons and the Senate had approved the sending of the famous Van Doos to Cyprus. An advance party left by air last night, under command of our own Col. E. A. C. Amy, of Kentville. The party will serve as a reconnaissance and fact-finding mission, and prepare the way for the arrival of the Van Doos.

This whole operation is going to be a very sticky one, and the House was in a very somber mood, realizing that our troops would be facing greater dangers perhaps than any other peace-keeping forces heretofore. But all of the battles have not been fought in Cyprus. A very interesting one came to light yesterday, showing the struggle which has been waged in the Cabinet between the Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Harry Hays, and the Minister of Forestry, the Hon. Maurice Sauve. Sauve is a very ambitious young French-Canadian. He doesn't underestimate his own ability, and when Mr. Pearson formed his first Cabinet, he threatened to resign because he was not recognized. Mr. Pearson of forced him an appointment as Parliamentary Secretary and he refused to take it. In the Cabinet reorganization a few weeks ago, he was appointed, and it would seem that he immediately started to undermine Mr. Hays and had seven of the latter's functions transferred to Forestry. This was done by an Order in Council which had not been published. Seventeen days later by another Order in Council, the former one was revoked. This one, too, was not published. Apparently Mr. Hays is a better fighter than he is a parliamentarian, and undoubtedly much more of this will be heard next week.

Remember, you can't lift yourself by downing others.

A Smile

It costs nothing, but creates much.
It enriches those who receive without impoverishing those who give.
It happens in a flash and the memory of it sometimes lives forever.
None are so rich that they can get along without it and none are so poor but are richer for its benefits.
It creates happiness in the home, fosters good will in business and is the counter-sigh of friends.
It is rest to the weary, daylight to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad and nature's best antidote for trouble.

Yet it cannot be bought, begged, borrowed or stolen, for it is something that is no earthly good to anybody 'till it is given away!
And if it ever happens that someone is too tired to give you one, please give him one of yours.
For nobody needs a smile so much as those who have none left to give.

DIGBY, NOVA SCOTIA, THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1964

Operating Deficit $720.15

Digby Local Association
 Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada ended the year 1963 with an operating deficit of $720.15, according to the report presented at the annual meeting on Tuesday by Mrs.
 H. R. Bishop, treasurer. Ordinary receipts during the year were $1,701.42, and ordinary expenses $5,421.57. The association ended the year with a credit balance of $538.73, having sold bonds to pay an overdraft and to purchase a car. Total receipts from all sources were $9,222.15, and total disbursements $3,684.57.

Rev. H. S. Hartlin, chairman of the Finance Committee, in his report, said that a budget of at least $6,000 would be necessary to operate in 1964. He pointed out to the Board that since 1958 the association had sold bonds to the extent of $7,000 and had used bequests amounting to $2,906. The sale of bonds, he said, lowers the yearly income considerably.

Funds raised by the Board in 1961 (including donations) were $1,135; grants $1,300; nursing fees $1,100. It was noted by the treasurer that receipts from fees in 1962 had doubled over 1961 and in 1963 had doubled over 1962.

ing done, 2 crib quilts and 3 quilt tops had been donated by the Society of Friends and 3 quilt tops donated by the Earn and Give Club. In a paragraph of the annual Women's Work report of the Nova Scotia Division quoted by Mrs. Warner, it was stated that approximately 500 quilts had been given out in Nova Scotia during the past year to assist in "minor disasters", these being mainly fires, thus showing that it takes a large number of quilts to supply local needs. Mrs. Warne also reported on the Red Cross display which had been on exhibition down town in recent weeks, and expressed thanks to Stedmans for the large window space provided. Special thanks were extended to Mr. Delbert Forrest for his assistance in forwarding the Philip Donade, Digby will be one of the instructors at a five day Assessors' School to be held at the Nova Scotia Hotel and at Dalhousie University, Halifax, from April 20 to April 21. This is the twelfth annual school for assessors offered by the provincial department of Municipal Affairs in Nova Scotia.

The course will enable assessors to become more familiar in their duties, to participate in discussion and to learn methods of other communities.

It is hoped that it and subsequent courses will lead to improved assessments and to better relations between ratepayers and municipal authorities.

Speakers will be Municipal Affairs Minister N. Layton Ferguson; Guy H. Beaulieu, director of the Institute of Public Affairs at Yorkville University; and Donald E. Vogel, director of planning for the department of municipal affairs.

Not Too Busy

It was suggested one originator in New York would benefit from a Section for people from New York World Fair Study. It could serve even with car accommodations, if it felt, would bring forth who would utilize transportation facilities available in Nova Scotia if properly planned.

Digby Entrance To Have New Signs

At the regular meeting of the Digby Board of Trade last week, it was decided to have two new signs erected at the approach to Digby on Highway No. 1. Plans were made to request the town to provide a base for the signs.

Most of the meeting was given over to the second discussion on store hours. In Digby but no solution was arrived at and the Board could see no action which they could take at the present time regarding this. About 90 per cent of the merchants completed a questionnaire regarding store hours and these were analyzed at the meeting. The results were most unsatisfactory with an almost complete split in the vol-

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Reinhold Weir presided at the tea table when tea was served, with Miss Louise D. in charge. Mrs. Wendell and Mrs. Robert had charge of a sale of novelties.

A report on the progress of the financial campaign was given by M. S. Allen Harris, who stated that while it was too early to estimate total returns, the indications were favorable from the canvassers reporting thus far. Provincial reports showed that West Pubnico was the first branch to complete its canvass, and it also had the distinction of exceeding its quota by 12 1/2 per cent.

Mrs. H. M. Warne reported a request from Mrs. DeWard, of Bear River, for another Red Cross Swimming and Water Safety Course, such as was held last season at the Cornwallis swimming pool. As there were a number wishing to take the course, and a fully qualified Red Cross instructor, Mr. Darrell Warren, of Smith's Cove, was willing to take charge, it was decided to write H.M.C.S. Why one stop at your Chevrolet dealer's is like having your own private auto show

And if we had room here we could go on and on and list all the engines Chevrolet offers, starting at the Chevy II's 90-horsepower 153 4-cylinder (it's the thriftest!) and ranging all the way up to the big Chevrolet's extra-cost 425-horsepower 409 V8 (it's the greatest!). We could wax eloquent about the choice of transmissions, and how they team up with those Chevy power plants to produce some of the going-est cars ever. Or the fact that you can have unpleen different exterior and interior color choices — enough, in fact, to allow some of our lady customers to have the sort of fun in buying and choosing that they generally reserve for shoe stores. And all the models with bucket seats and all the models without — all of them comfortable as all get-out. And the hundreds — yes hundreds — of different extra-cost options . . . serious ones like Positraction and gay ones like the new AM-FM radio. But all that's best left to your Chevrolet dealer. The long and short of it is, he'll go to any length to show you exactly the kind and size and price of car you want — and exactly how reasonable that price can be for you to be able to enjoy so much more car.

Dedicated At Trinity Church

Dedicated recently at Trinity Church, by the Rector, the Rev. James Pike, were new cushions and kneeling pads for use by the choir. These were donated by Mrs. George R. Parry in memory of her husband, Capt. George R. Parry and their daughter, Mavis Iola. This was a useful and badly-needed gift and the whole congregation appreciates the improved appearance of the Chancel of the church.

Last week, the members of the Altar Guild gathered at the home of Mrs. Ralph Berwick and made a large number of kneeling cushions for the nave of the church. This gift, which was dedicated during Passion Week, by the Rector, is also greatly appreciated by the congregation who will be using them.

The cushions were used for the first time at the Palm Sunday service, which was attended by the largest congregation for some time. This service began with an address by the Rector on the meaning of Palm Sunday, which was followed by a hymn, "Hail to Thee, O Christ, Who art the King of Kings."

Prayer was then said and the choir sang "The Lord is Risen Today." The service was then continued with a reading of the Gospel and a sermon by the Rector on the meaning of Palm Sunday.

Past Presidents Receive Pins

The dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Digby, held at the Cornwallis Cafe last Thursday evening was of an unusual character and interest. It was past-President's night, and many of the past-presidents of the Club were present. These included, Chester Levy, Gordon Turnbull, Dr. John McCleave, Dr. L. F. Dolron, Dr. Douglas Black, Dr. Perley Outhouse, Reigh Jayne, John Brittain, Ed. Twohig, L. Saunders, and a former member of the club, Kenneth Beckwith. Past-president pins were presented to Jack Brittain, E. Twohig, Reigh Jayne, also pins for attendance, according to years, were given to a number of members. A pin for 15 years of faithful attendance was presented to Dr. McCleave, Kenneth Beckwith was also presented with a pin.

Following a lively sing-song led by Jack Brittain with Mrs. Jean Olsen at the piano, Rev. R. H. Hughes was introduced as the guest speaker. Mr. Hughes delighted his audience with a series of Irish stories.

The Club also welcomed five visitors from the Weymouth Club. The President of this Club, Mr. Burney spoke on behalf of the Weymouth Club concerning the proposed Children's Ward project in the new hospital, and said that his Club had accepted in principle support of the project with the Digby Club but that the matter had yet to receive further consideration.

The Easter Seals committee reported that over $1000.00 had already been received in the drive and it was anticipated that a great deal more would be coming in.

Next Thursday night's meeting will include wives of members as guests at the dinner and following this a bowling party will be held.

King opened the scoring in the first period with no answer from Saulnierville to put his team ahead 1-0. King scored again in the second period to put Meteghan ahead 2-0. Mr. Boodoosingh Addresses Brotherhood

On Saturday evening the Brotherhood met in the hall of Grace United Church. After a supper the president, Mr. George O'Neill, welcomed the members and their wives and introduced Mr. Clyde Boodoosingh, who gave an interesting talk on the Christian Church in Trinidad.

Mr. Boodoosingh described the spiritual and economic condition of the people before the coming of Rev. John Morton to Trinidad. Mr. Morton was sent by the Presbyterian Church and he set for himself the difficult task of educating the people and establishing schools and colleges, as well as setting up churches for the mental and spiritual benefit of all the people. Later he was assisted by Rev. Mr. Grant. Both of them came from Nova Scotia and today, under the guidance of the United Church of Canada, their descendants are still labouring in Trinidad for the building up of the Kingdom of God. Today Trinidad has churches, schools and colleges and Mr. Boodoosingh paid a high tribute of praise to the men from Nova Scotia who, at the bidding of God, first brought the Gospel to the people of Trinidad.

The president thanked the speaker for a most instructive and helpful talk. Mr. Norman Wright led the company in some entertainment. Rev. R. H. Hughes closed the evening with prayer.

Many teachers will be meeting in Halifax over the Easter week for the 43rd annual council of the N.S.T.U.

Speaks At Dedication

Easter services in the Baptist Church of Digby will be held next Sunday morning and evening. Special Easter music will be provided by the choir, and at the evening service the Ordinance of Baptism will be administered to several candidates. Easter services in the Hill Grove Baptist Church will be held in the afternoon.

Pre-Easter services this week are being conducted in the Hill Grove church on Wednesday evening, and a Good Friday service at 8 p.m. will be held in the Digby church.

Rev. H. S. Hartlin went to Bedford last Sunday to speak at the evening service on the occasion of the opening and dedication of the new Baptist Church edifice. Built at a cost of more than $160,000, the beautiful new church will serve the people in a rapidly expanding suburban area. Mr. Hartlin was at one time the pastor of this church, and during his ministry there a new church was built, which had now become too small for the growing congregation. In his absence, the evening service at Digby was taken by the C.E.I.T., and at Hill Grove, the afternoon service was conducted by the Baptist Youth Fellowship.

Among the requests scheduled to come before the four-day meeting of the council is the recommendation that French be taught at an earlier age. French now begins in grade seven, though a few schools in the province have been teaching it experimentally in grade five. Miss Florence Wall, N.S.T.U. president and chairman of the council, said that if the council approves the recommendation of French it will be handed on to the Department of Education, among a host of other council resolutions.

The council's 141 voting delegates and 74 associates will also be asked to approve a recommendation on television teaching which, if put into effect, could provide a general adult education program in the new mathematics. The request to council is that Saturday morning telecasts be started that will teach the new mathematics to teachers throughout the province. Essentially the new mathematics is a new method of using and understanding the subject.

Smith's Cove,
Digby County,
N. S.,
March 23, 1961.

Mrs. Edith Wallis,
The Digby Courier,
Digby County,
N. S.

Dear Mrs. Wallis,

May I take this opportunity through your kind co-operation and this letter, to express my opinion re your editorial, "How can a Home and School serve a purpose?"

The whole purpose of a Home and School Association is the study of a child's needs, mutual understanding, and co-operation between teachers, parents and others interested in the community. To develop and improve this relationship of Home, School, and Community, is the chief function of the Association.

This is achieved by records, which show that Home and School in general have accomplished this purpose, in providing special committees such as Health, Safety, School Education, The Arts, etc., for all students welfare, providing better schools and teachers, recreation facilities, and the means for a parent-teacher-child relationship, to talk over their problems together, especially in the modern world of today.

It is not very encouraging to know that in this day and age, the same education we go to such great lengths to achieve through the miracle of automation, etc., does not give a student or a parent the opportunity to discuss a particular problem with the teachers, and has fallen by the wayside, along with the little red schoolhouse, the old faithful iron stove, and such things as were the accepted way of life in those 'good old days'.

Teachers and educators today do an excellent job in educating our children in the time at their disposal, but they do have a time-table to follow, another class to follow this one, and a problem of a student, which he would like to discuss with his or her teacher, is vacuumed in the void of automation, which though it has its advantages, does not solve the students' problem, and education has advanced to such a degree today, that a parent is unable to help in solving such a problem. Where do they get the help?

This is where a Home and School can best provide the opportunity for parents, children, and teachers, to meet and discuss these things. School libraries, scholarships, Junior School of The Arts (staffed by H. & S. personnel), Health Clinics, etc., are only some of the things a Home and School provides. They present and support briefs and resolutions for the safety and welfare of all children. Adults can and do take advantage of the many services a Home and School may offer them, such as Adult Education Classes, etc., and they derive many benefits from them, and working together for the good of all children gives these things a special meaning. The happiness and well-being doing these things together is like jam. You can't spread even a little of it around without getting some spread on yourself in the process.

Advertising Sense

It has been my pleasure to meet some very wonderful people in Digby County and in the Federation itself, who work in the Home and School, or are connected with it in some way. If I have a criticism to offer, it is to say that in common with other organizations, members of a Home and School in general are too willing to help. One half is willing to help, the other half willing to let them.

Lack of interest has affected most organizations today, due to T.V., etc. To these organizations, especially the Home and School Association, I would like to commend each and every one of you for the wonderful contributions you have made, and are making, towards the citizens of tomorrow, our children, and all children.

As the President of the Digby County Home and School Association, I would very much like to see a Home and School, once again in Digby town. Officials are generally in favor of such a move, but stressed that the request would have to come from the public.

How about it Mr. and Mrs. Public? I would appreciate letters of opinion, for or against Home and School in Digby or in general, either in the Courier, or my address - R.R.#1, Smith's Cove, Digby County.

Everyone has an opinion, what is yours?

Mrs. Alice Dunn,
President,
Digby County Home and School Association Council.

About This and That

Good Friday - Easter

Within the next week we observe two important events in the Christian calendar - Good Friday and Easter. The two events are extreme opposites - death and life - grief and joy. Good Friday is the remembrance of the world's darkest hour when Christ was crucified on the cross. No believer can observe Good Friday without feeling sadness and grief for the evil which caused that darkest day. Just a few days after we will commemorate Easter - a day of triumphant joy. It will proclaim victory over death, the Resurrection.

Will the next week find us better for having lived through these two observances in 1964? Or, will they be to us just more seasonal events passed by? We are aware that some will consider these two days just as any other days on the calendar leaf. Others will commemorate Good Friday by attending church service. More will commemorate Easter by going to worship. To some the attendance at service will mean a matter of going, listening and worshipping, and then to return home without the messages of Good Friday and Easter making much of a lasting impression. To others the commemoration of Good Friday and the celebration of Easter will be very real and the significance of the events and the messages proclaimed will touch their inner lives. The observance of the two days to these last people mentioned will continue in their lives through the days ahead. The season will not end. Life and joy will continue to flow from the message of Easter Day.

Both days - Good Friday and Easter - should be very real to all who profess the Christian faith. The season should be a time of resolution, probably more so than at New Year. Easter is victory, joy and newness of life. Easter is a new start.

As we ponder on the dark days which brought about Good Friday let us examine our own lives for the darkness within them. Let us bury the evil - the bad habits, the pride, selfishness, anger, dishonesty and other undesirable traits we find there. Let us resolve to renew and emphasize in our lives the virtues of love, truth, justice, kindness, courage and other values which were exemplified in the life of Him who died and rose again at Eastertime. In this way we will be truly celebrating the Easter season.

A joyous Easter to all.

Causeway Some Day

We were delighted to learn through the news last week that R. Baden Powell, MLA for the Electoral District of Digby, presented a strong case in the Provincial Government for a better means of transportation and eventually a causeway across Petite Passage from East Ferry to Tiverton. We feel Mr. Powell was justified in making these requests on the strength of the increased fishing products which are carried across the Passage. Add to this the general passenger traffic and then consider the boost in the tourist industry for the Islands as a result of a causeway and a strong case is surely made. We hope these requests will be kept before the government and the plea meet with success in the not too far distant future.

The men who have manned the ferries across Petite and Grand Passage have done wonderful jobs. Never have we heard of a serious accident and this we are sure can be attributed to the wisdom and skill of those who have manned the ferries. But, it is felt that present resources and facilities are being strained to the limit with the increase in traffic of various kinds. A causeway is definitely in order. We look for the time when this project will be placed in high priority by the Nova Scotia government.

Are we asking for too much? might be a question on the minds of some people. We are asking for a causeway across the mouth of Bear River, we are asking for a new bridge or causeway over the Sissiboo at Weymouth and we are asking for a causeway over Petite. All three of these projects are in the one district. At least, two and part of the other are in the Digby district. The question "Are we asking for too much?" however, can readily be answered by the questions "How serious is the situation, how urgent the need?" The way we understand it is that there is a strong element of protection to be considered in each of the three cases. The safety of the bridges is being considered and as we mentioned above only the wisdom and skill of the operators has prevented accidents at the ferries. The approaches to the bridges are dangerous in the light of today's traffic. The necessity of these projects for the prosperity of this area is readily seen.

Can you help it if the plumbing in your house gives out at the same time that the roof begins to leak and the antiquated washer needs replacing. No, we are not asking for too much at once. We've deserved something better before and now all three have caught up with us at once.

46 Cents An Hour

We were interested this week to read a letter in the Chronicle-Herald by "For Underdogs", Digby. The letter stated that women are working in stores in Digby at $22 for a 48 hour week, a little less than 46 cents an hour. Tradesmen and labourers are working for less than one dollar an hour, according to the letter. We were not aware of the clerk's wages in Digby and we would be most interested in knowing how this wage compares in Nova Scotia with other towns of the same size as Digby. Definitely, we cannot compare our little town of Digby with Halifax.

Actually, we felt the complaint of "For Underdogs" was not so much against the merchants as it was resentment because MP's salaries had been increased and clerks still had to work for $22 a week in Digby. The letter closed with "Would it be too much to ask that politicians pause for a moment to go to the attic and dig out that beautiful old relic known as the Golden Rule?" We have a feeling that most owners and managers of the stores in Digby could ask that same question after they've figured up their year's profits and their own wages.

So while we are inclined to agree with "For Underdogs" that $22 a week is small pay against the high cost of living today, there is another angle to consider. It is probably all that Digby merchants can afford to pay. Most owners or managers of stores have some "rule of thumb" to direct them in wages besides the prevailing wage. Most merchants are honest and thoughtful enough that they will not try to get employees as cheaply as possible but according to what they can afford. This makes a better relationship all around. As the business prospers wages increase. We certainly would not know what "rule of thumb" to apply to other businesses but we do have some sort of rule for the particular business in which we are engaged. Our particular rule seems to be that total salaries and wages of staff should run somewhere around 40% of the gross income in order to keep a healthy operation. A payroll in our business running 45% calls for a check up, so we are advised. We have other rules as to the average amount which each employee should produce in various departments of our special type of business. We have been advised as to what is considered a healthy increase in business each year. We know that no business lasts long without some increase. We expect the merchants and other business establishments in Digby have their own set of rules, too.

The only solution we can think of for higher wages in Digby is to create a more attractive and prosperous Digby and thence a more prosperous merchant. Clerks and merchants alike can work to that end and the clerks have no small part to play on that score. So, whysay, let's get behind Digby for greater prosperity - "Underdogs" and all. We'll all benefit.

Dogs

Real dogs with four legs (not underdogs) seem to be roaming around again, so we've been told. They congregate around homes on the Lighthouse Road, we hear, and at the South end of town. The dogs bark at night and keep some people from sleeping. Worse than that, gardening time is coming (whether we can believe it or not) and some people are already worrying about the dogs getting into their gardens. There are those who would rather be an "underdog" than to lead a "dog's" life worrying about the dogs. Well, anyway, we expect somebody will look after the dogs. If they don't, they should. Dogs aren't supposed to be roaming around the neighbourhood, are they?

Report From Parliament Hill
March 21, 1964

George C. Nowlan

During the past few weeks, I have received many letters, asking me to write a column on the proposed Canada Pension scheme. I have not done this heretofore because there was very little upon which one could base any information. There was a vague resolution on the Order Paper, but the Bill itself was only introduced this week. It is a very long and very involved piece of legislation, but perhaps I can sketch roughly the broad outline of the proposal. The Bill, of course, will be sent to Committee, and will be studied and re-studied for weeks to come, and many changes may be introduced before it receives Royal assent.

Roughly, however, this is the scheme. Our present old age pension system is very cheaply administered and very efficient. Everyone gets the old age pension when he attains the age of 70, regardless of wealth. It is paid for very efficiently. A certain proportion is taken from our income tax, our sales tax, and our succession duties, and credited to the old age pension account. In other words, the Minister of National Revenue, theoretically, collects all these monies turns them over to the Minister of Finance. The Minister of Finance deducts the proportion payable to the Old Age Pension account and credits the fund with those monies. Everything is done easily, economically and efficiently. It has often been said that our Old Age Pension system is as efficient and as economically operated as any in the world.

The new proposed system is going to be entirely different. In the first place, there will be hundreds of thousands of people who will not be covered by the system. In fact, in Nova Scotia, there probably will be a vast majority of the population who will not be covered as employees. This pension system is based on the deductions made from your wages. The scale as set forth in the Act is that until 1979, the employee shall have deducted from his wages 1 per cent, and the employer shall contribute another 1 per cent. In 1980, these rates will go up to 1 1/2 per cent. In 1990, 1 1/2, and so on every ten years. The pension which you will receive is based upon the earnings from which the 1 per cent has been deducted, rather I should say 2 per cent, because 1 per cent is paid by the employee and 1 per cent by the employer. Incidentally, the benefits derived from this pension scheme will be substantially higher than those under the American Social Security Plan. That Plan requires contributions of 6 per cent; so it is obvious that our system will not be self-supporting for many years to come.

There are many classes of employment which do not come within this Pension scheme. Of paramount importance, of course, to our constituency is employed in agriculture or in agricultural enterprises. In other words, farmers, farm labour, etc., will not come under this scheme. Employment in fishing, forestry, logging or lumbering will not be pensionable in the situation where the employer pays the employee less than $250.00 a year. If there is only one domestic servant employed in the House, that servant is not pensionable. If there are two or more that household comes within the pension scheme. In other words, your wife can have a full-time maid who would not be entitled to share in this pension scheme. Incidentally, of course, these people I am speaking of will not have the 1 per cent deducted from their wages. However, if there should be a maid and a cook employed in the house, then both are pensionable and both will have to contribute the 1 per cent, as will the employer.

As I said earlier, everything is based on wages or salaries. Therefore the self-employed man will be out of luck, the grocer, the garage man and hundreds of our smaller businesses throughout the valley will have to pay their share of the deductions for their employees, but will, themselves, not be pensionable. There is a provision, however, that under certain circumstances, an employer may come under the scheme, provided that he pays the share both for himself as employer and for himself as employee.

Members of the Armed Forces and members of the R.C.M.P. do not come within the scheme, because of course they have their own pension system. However, apparently everyone else will have to come within the scheme whether they have their own pension system or not. For instance, bank employees, teachers, etc., will apparently have to make their contributions to this scheme, as well as to the system under which they are presently operating.

Very roughly, that is the broad outline of the system. Obviously, it is going to be a very expensive one to operate. In fact, the Bill envisages the setting up of Boards and Appeal Boards, Review Boards, investigators, etc., etc. Probably by the time the Act comes into force, and all of the necessary staffs have been appointed, Walter Gordon will have succeeded in solving the unemployment problem.

There is a provision in the Act which permits a Province to withdraw, if it sees fit to do so. Quebec has already given notice of its intention to do so. It is possible that other Provinces will do likewise. From the list of exemptions I have given you, it is very obvious that this is not a universal pension scheme, and if Quebec remains out, it certainly will not be a "National" pension scheme. The only certain thing is that it will be debated and considered for many weeks to come, and you will undoubtedly read all about it in the newspapers, as Parliament starts on its study sometime shortly after the Easter Recess.

Hill Grove

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gates, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gates went to Halifax on Wednesday. Mr. Frank Gates entered Victoria General Hospital and Mrs. Frank Gates is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Wentzell at Spryfield; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gates returned home the same day.

Miss Marlene Height is confined to her home with the measles.

Mr. Earle Haight, Mrs. John Haight and Mr. Floyd Cosman accompanied Mr. John Haight to the N. S. Sanatorium in Kentville on Sunday. We wish a speedy recovery and an early return home for Mr. Haight. Miss Judith Gates and Miss Wenda Franklin assisted in the Red Cross canvass in this area.

Mr. and Mrs. George Height and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ring at Barton on Sunday.

Youth Conduct Service
In the absence of the past or, Rev. H. S. Hartlin, the Sunday afternoon service at Hill Grove Baptist Church was in charge of Youth Fellowship Group. Benjamin Marshall opened the service and led in the Responsive Reading and also read the Scripture lesson. Verna Franklin offered the prayer and Wenda Franklin and Judith Gates spoke on the subject "How can One Be Truly Happy?" The Junior Choir sang a special number. Congratulations to all these young people on the splendid manner in which they conducted the entire service.

The pains we take often measure the gains we make.
