1877-1977

Now and then a printing job had a save in parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad some days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would take you to the largest press in spite of the fact he always opened an outside door to lessen the odors on the main plant.

One of the jobs I had to do, besides putting and graders' devil on the staff, was to... I cleaned one and then... One day not long after I started to get to the grating plant. I decided to climb the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned for some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily. He thought the remark pretty good and whole.

Sometimes the gasoline engine, a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and the "fix-it" man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results. Max would then stand back and come over dramatically then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of fixing."

On other occasions when some people would say, "let it be," and seemed to be brokenhearted, I would say, "use a little oil" and vice versa, after that is said, "use a little oil" and vice versa, after that is said, "let it be." They often since have I heard of the value of that remark and the actual need of oil in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the June 1 I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1943 got together just before dark one evening and decided to mutilate the newly built outdoor Pease Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just out of the pool, nobody else seemed to be around and the four boys, no thought or time for bathing suits, up in the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in. The rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story was something like, "Four Boy Swims Officially Open Pease Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the boys? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Vietnam Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent draughtsman for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale importer and himself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day, I was asked to contribute about writing your version of the story told about "The Marooning of Jerome". I did it and read at least two times what I had written about the man who was found marooned on a beach in some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Duffy County. When I read this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome appeared to have been a man of considerable social standing and, possibly, of considerable wealth. However, the way things could or would ever get after being found and lost by some family in the French shore something that sounded like Outing, let me either yield up, or, would not write down who he was or why he was left there. It was, and is, one of Dugby County's most different ideas have been mentioned in reports concerning this man. However, "Mr." was, I felt no urge to write anything different about this man. The whole thing has been very well explained."

From the files of the Chamber of January 23, 1967, the following account has been copied concerning India in 1965:

Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us are two from a copy of the Saint John Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and farming of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby "extends from the Gulf of Saint-Paul westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 134,000 acres." The town plot is then described.

The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Bay, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles distant from the head of H. Mary's Bay. This land, and not from the water's edge, partly is level ground, and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having on an eastern aspect a view of the Annapolis Bay, and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in extent, it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth at that name. It was secured by Leyden's train (New York) in 1645, the point of which went nearly to farther, as, moving to other countries, left the shore free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students, one of which was J.J.'s daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Morton of Tibet, Prescott, Digby Co.). Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters. I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print." I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like embossing, stapling, perforating, coaming, cutting and crumpling paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, too. The only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "go," the printers name for a completed mass.

There was a taste of trying to do it all inside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I took it, made several calls, spent most of the time alone preparing the orders and got an order, but

Gets Promotion

Lowell Winchester, above, has successfully completed a trade group 4 course at HMCS Stadacona, Halifax, and has been drafted to the HMCS Cape Scott. On September 8 he sailed for England and Holland for the commissioning of two submarines on order for the RCN.

Word was received by his wife last week that he was promoted to Petty Officer, 1st class. He is a shipwright.

Lowell is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Winchester. Mrs. Lowell Winchester and her daughter, Victoria Ann, age 3, are visiting with Lowell's parents.

Porpoises In New York From Bay Of Fundy

The New York Herald Tribune of September 12, 1965, carried a picture of a porpoise caught the previous Sunday in the Bay of Fundy. The picture showed a curator trying to tempt one reluctant mammal with a sardine as they were babied along with ice bags and a plywood tank.

The Tribune wrote "Finding a porpoise in life was the task the New York Aquarium at Coney Island set for itself and so far they have succeeded. Four harbor, or common, porpoises went on view there last week — the first ever exhibited here and probably the first ever exhibited in the world. Those things you see on television are not porpoises but dolphins. True porpoises are so sensitive they almost always die of shock when captured. . . . Eventually they'll live with a couple of whales."

Weymouth Wins Title

Weymouth Pontiacs captured the Nova Scotia Intermediate "B" Baseball Championship Saturday by scoring a 15 inning 14-12 victory over Mahone Bay in the fifth and final game of their series. It was the third victory in a row for the new champions, who will now play the winners of the N.B.-P.E.I. series for the Maritime title.

Fulton Logan, who came on in relief in the 6th and was in turn relieved in the 15th, was the winning pitcher, while the loser, also a reliever, was R. Ernest.

Five home runs were hit in the free-swinging game. For Weymouth the sluggers were Ed LeBlanc, Buddy Thurber and Bill MacLeod, and for Mahone Bay Dave Wilkie and Ivan Dahl.

Mrs. Brittain Entertains

Mrs. J. J. Brittain, Birch Street, entertained at afternoon tea on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. George Weir and Miss Catherine Weir, Smith's Cove.

Mrs. Weir and Miss Catherine, who spent the summer at their home in Smith's Cove, return this afternoon to their Toronto residence for the winter.

Mrs. Brittain was assisted in serving by Mrs. Weir's granddaughter, Mrs. Herman Olsen.

Gets Bursary

Hugh A. Trask, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Trask, has been granted a bursary from Dalhousie University. He has been working at Keltic Lodge, Cape Breton, during the summer. He is now taking his third year B.A. at Dalhousie University.

Garbage Disposal 30 Cents To Householder

After deliberations which lasted for two hours, the Digby Town Council in regular session on Monday night decided that the town should subsidize garbage disposal in town to the amount of ten cents per householder per week up to a maximum of 400 householders. It is expected that an incinerator owned by private individual or company will be used for garbage disposal.

Mayor C. D. Snow pointed out that garbage disposal is an essential public service which cannot be done without. The revenues from disposal and collection of garbage, Mr. Snow said, come from different sources. Up to the present time garbage has been collected and the town supplied the dump for disposal. So that all residents can make use of the service and keep the town clean, the Mayor was of the opinion that the collection fees should be kept as low as possible.

A motion was made to the effect that the town of Digby pay an amount not to exceed $3,120 a year based upon monthly payments of $100 and a subsidy of ten cents per pick up to a maximum of 400 pick ups per week to a period of five years. It was also decided that the rates for garbage collection and disposal be thirty cents per pick up per householder and that the commercial rates be not more than $1.00 per pick up per day and special pick up per householder not more than 50 cents per pick up.

From the police report it was learned that 21 complaints had been laid. Ten required further investigation with ten requiring court action, seven under the liquor act, two motor vehicle and one criminal code. Fines imposed amounted to $220.

A building permit was granted T. W. Sabine to build a sewer for drainage from his garage on 2nd Avenue. The garage to harbour a sink and wash room.

Correspondence from the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Company stated that their parking area was available to the town for $1.00 per year with the provision that space be reserved for five of their own vehicles.

Evangelistic Crusade

Commencing next Sunday night a series of evangelistic services will be held in the Hill Grove Baptist Church. The meetings will continue every night until October 17th.

Rev. L. R. Atkinson, Convention Evangelist, will bring the messages and the services will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. S. Hartlin. The crusade is sponsored by the Board of Evangelism of the Atlantic Baptist Convention.

Included in the services will be a special youth night meeting, and on the final Sunday, plans are being made to have an all-men's choir for the service.

A feature of the services will be hymn-singing every night with Mrs. Darcy Roop in charge of the organ. Both the Junior and Senior choirs will assist in leading the singing.

An invitation has been extended to people of other churches within the area to share in the services.

On Provincial Red Cross

Desire J. Comeau, Meteghan; Mrs. R. B. Lent and Mrs. H. M. Warne, Digby, are members of the 1965 - 66 executive of the Nova Scotia Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Dr. T. W. Hodgson, Digby is an honorary vice president. Miss Ethel Graham, Annapolis Royal is regional vice president for Digby - Annapolis.

A. F. Wigglesworth, Liverpool, was elected president at the recent annual meeting held in Halifax.

Three Hundred Boys Need Minor Hockey

For Tuesday night, October 12, a meeting has been called by interested persons of the town who think that there are three hundred boys who need Minor Hockey in Digby.

Twelve years ago two school teachers, Joseph Campbell and Wallace Hodgson, organized and took on the responsibility of administration of a Minor Hockey League for the boys. Others who headed the organization during those twelve years were Paul VanTassel and Arnold MacCallum. Still others helped and gave of their time from seven a.m. to three o'clock p.m. on Saturdays.

Last May, at the annual meeting of Digby Minor Hockey, the resignation of Wallace Hodgson was received. To date no one has come forward to take the place of Mr. Hodgson. The meeting is called with the feeling that someone again, maybe outside of school, will give of their time for the sake of three hundred boys who need and would like to spend their time at some good clean fun - Minor Hockey.

Parliamentary Debate Staged

By Larry Woodman

The members of the Digby Regional High School debating group staged a Parliamentary debate under the excellent direction of Miss Margaret Leonard. The senior students were given the opportunity to attend this presentation which took place during the last two periods on Wednesday. A delegation from Annapolis Royal Regional Academy was also in attendance.

The seating situation in the auditorium was arranged so as to represent Parliament, with the government and opposition on opposite sides of the House. The Speaker, Glenn Dunn, and the Clerk, Carl Dugas, were in their proper places. The four pages for the debate were Vivian Hewey, Cynthia Harris, Gerry Thurber and Robert McVeigh.

Before the debate Glenn Dunn extended a welcome to the judges, Mrs. P. Outhouse, Mr. G. E. Hayward and Rev. H. S. Hartlin, and thanked them for their participation.

The resolution, that the four Atlantic Provinces should be amalgamated, was moved by Lance Woolaver and seconded by Cheryl Dukeshire. Other speakers on the government side were Greg Buckler, Perry Spencer, Richard Gidney and Lynn Nickerson.

The opposition, led by Brenda Handsplaker and Richard Wenaus, firmly supported by Greg Donald, Duncan Armstrong, Carolyn Jeffrey, Pearl Woolaver, Carol Young and Clarence Leighton (ARRA, opposed the resolution.

In the opinion of the House, the government's was carried, and the judges supported the decision unanimously.

Preliminary Hearing Capital Murder Charge

2 SAW GIRL IN BUSHES

Preliminary hearing into the capital murder charge against Robert Randall Comeau, Digby, accused of killing Thais Maris Haskins, 16-year-old Halifax school girl, in Yarmouth last July, began at Yarmouth County Court House Monday before Provincial Magistrate C. R. Rand.

Crown Prosecutor Donald Chipman is assisted by James D. Reardon. Defence counsel is Phillip R. Woolaver. The accused, a 20-year-old fisherman, who was arrested 12 days after the murder when he landed in Yarmouth from the fishing grounds aboard a Digby boat, was brought into court by the RCMP and following the session was returned to the county jail where he has been since returning from the Nova Scotia Hospital, where he underwent a 30-day period of observation.

Four witnesses gave evidence on Monday. First witness was John Killam Noah, who found the body at about 6:30 a.m. on the morning of July 29. Noah told how he had found the body of the girl and that he immediately summoned help from Yarmouth police.

Constable William Clifford Follett, of the RCMP identification branch, showed a sketch he had made of the area and also photographs he had taken of the dead girl, both at the scene and in the autopsy room of the Yarmouth Regional Hospital. Cross-examined, he said the sketch was not an exact scale plan, but made to show directions. Police Chief E. S. Nickerson told how he and other police officers had barricaded the street on each end and later accompanied the body to hospital. There the murdered girl was identified by Ruth Haskins.

Dr. V. Rideout of the Western Health Unit and medical examiner for Yarmouth County, said he examined the body and found multiple wounds on the back and several lacerations on the back of the head. A cloth, apparently part of her dress, was over her neck and she had stockings on. He said he also found a fracture of the nose, a cut chin and upper lip, and considerable dried blood.

The autopsy, performed by Dr. Colin Wood with Dr. Rideout assisting, revealed several stab wounds, two of which had entered the chest cavity. There was a considerable amount of blood in the chest cavity. There was no physical evidence of sexual assault. Dr. Rideout said that in his opinion the wounds had been made by a small knife and cause of death was multiple stab wounds and severe lacerations of the skull. A small stone was found lodged deep in the victim's throat. He thought the time of death to be between midnight and 3 a.m.

President Resigns After Seven Years

After seven years at the helm of the Digby General Hospital Auxiliary, Mrs. A. J. Dillon tendered her resignation. Until the annual meeting held on Monday night, the nominating committee was unsuccessful in finding someone to succeed Mrs. Dillon. Under the circumstances Mrs. Dillon agreed to carry on for another month until someone else might be found to fill the position.

Vice presidents elected on Monday night were Mrs. Hilda Cossaboom, 1st, succeeding Mrs. Sidney Smith and Mrs. Herman Olsen, 2nd, succeeding Mrs. Allan Harris.

Mrs. David Boudreau was elected secretary for 1965-66. This office was filled temporarily by Mrs. Harris after the regular secretary, Mrs. Eva Wendell moved to Wolfville. Treasurer is Mrs. Grace Edwards and assistant treasurer is Miss Dora Warne. Mrs. G. V. Turnbull is chairman of the visiting committee and Mrs. L. Carson, membership. On the nominating committee were: Mrs. Hilda Cossaboom, Miss Louise Daley, Mrs. Reginald Weir and Mrs. Ralph MacIntyre.

The year 1964 - 65 in the Digby General Hospital Auxiliary was considered one of the best for many years. Almost $5,000 had been raised during the year. Eight thousand dollars had been given to the hospital building fund bringing the total to date from the auxiliary for the purpose to $25,000. In this amount was a $500 donation from Mrs. E. DuVernet of Digby and Fredricton.

Attendance at meetings was highest in the history of the auxiliary according to the secretary's report and the annual Donation Day in 1964 had exceeded all others.

Among the fund raising activities were rummage sales, bridge parties, tag days, teas, the hospital fair and others.

One of the projects sponsored by the auxiliary was the candy strippers. These were school girls who came to the hospital from four to six in the afternoon to distribute mail, carry trays and other chores.

The canteen in the hospital was also a new venture in 1964 - 65. Volunteer helpers from the auxiliary attended the canteen.

The auxiliary also continued to sponsor the Good Cheer Room in commemoration of the faithful Good Cheer Club members who had originally sponsored a room by that name. The auxiliary also sponsored the newborn nursery.

At the close of the meeting at the cafeteria, refreshments were served by Mrs. Gladys Budrow, Mrs. Ed Comeau, Mrs. John Abramson and Mrs. Lottie Doucette.

Discuss Digby Water Problem

After a shortage of water in Digby during the past summer a special meeting of the Digby Water Commission decided to look into the possibility of an increase in the supply. Mayor C. D. Snow reported at the regular session of the town council on Monday night. He reported that a survey of the water in the lake where the town supply comes from had been made and had found the water had a drop of five feet from the high water mark to where the water runs out. Soundings of the lake revealed the deepest part to be seven feet and area size to be 900 square feet. Mayor Snow said that if a depth of two and a half feet more could be used (this would supply about three million gallons of water. About 200,000 gallons of water are used per day.

Mayor Snow said that an extension of 715 feet of pipe would procure more and a better water supply from the centre of the lake rather than from near the shore and inlet as is now being used. The water, he mentioned, is spring fed.

Fred Muise, chairman of the Digby Water Commission, also addressed the council and reported that the control of chlorine at the plant could not be depended upon. It requires being cleansed and there is no way to clean it unless the system is shut off. The control at Warwick Street has been working but not too accurately. He recommended the controls be overhauled and maybe be replaced.

BYF Begins Fall Session

The first fall meeting of the Baptist Youth Fellowship of the Baptist Church of Digby was held in the church hall last Sunday evening. There was a good attendance of the young people of the church.

A filmstrip was shown that gave an answer to the question, "What is the BYF?" This led to a discussion on the subject.

Hugh Brittain led the devotional service at the beginning of the meeting. The pastor, Rev. H. S. Hartlin, outlined some of the projects and programs that might be followed in the meetings of the young people.

A nominating committee was appointed to bring in a new slate of officers.

Attendance in the Intermediate and Senior Departments of the Church School took a decided increase at the meeting of the classes last Sunday. Commencing next Sunday Mrs. Donald Buckler will assume charge of the Intermediate Boys Class, which includes boys of ages 12, 13 and 14.

90 Years Old

Mrs. Frank Gates, Hillgrove, observed her 90th birthday at her home on Monday.

Drive Carefully!

Service Adds To 122 Years

A retirement banquet was held on Friday night by the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Company which recognized service totalling one hundred and twenty-two years. The banquet held at the Digby Branch Canadian Legion headquarters honored Miss Evelyn Mount, Miss Edna Warrington and Miss Margaret Rippey who have recently retired from the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone employ.

Miss Evelyn Mount, employed with the company for 42 years, had been chief operator in Digby since August 1948. A presentation on behalf of the staff was made to Miss Mount by her successor, Miss Helena Watkins.

Miss Warrington's service was forty years. She was supervisor from 1952 until ill health forced her to retire. Mrs. Beverley Owen, supervisor, made the presentation to Miss Warrington.

Gerald Ray, local manager at Middleton, presented Miss Rippey with a gift on behalf of the employees. Miss Rippey had been chief operator at Annapolis Royal until the dial system was introduced into Annapolis, when Miss Rippey came to Digby as service representative. She had forty years service with the company.

Each of the ladies received a set of ear rings, the gift of the company president. In the absence of the president, Gordon Archibald, the presentation was made by G. D. Robb, Halifax, general traffic manager. In making the presentation Mr. Robb expressed pleasure in the service rendered and said that the three were most deserving of the recognition accorded them.

Life membership certificates were presented to Miss Mount, Miss Warrington and Miss Rippey by Laurie Bent, Yarmouth, area representative of Pioneers of America.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was B. A. Meisner, district supervisor of traffic. He told the audience of 92 persons that the attendance at the banquet was an indication of the high esteem held for the retiring personnel and their individual services. J. I. Marshall, M.L.A. for Annapolis East, and former district manager was present. He spoke highly of the capabilities of the three retiring and of the asset they were to the company.

Mrs. Frank Hayden presided at the piano and Mrs. Gerald Wilson was heard in vocal selections. A sing-song was conducted.

Firemen At Grace United

Digby Firemen attended Grace United Church on Sunday morning and were extended a welcome by the Minister, Rev. R. H. Hughes.

A special commissioning service was held commissioning those who were making visitations for the Every Member Canvass of the church.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered and for his communion sermon Mr. Hughes took as his theme Sacrament of the Common Place. He named three common place and inexpensive elements, bread, wine and towel used to wash the feet of the disciples. He told the congregation never to be too proud to do the humble task.

Under the direction of Norman Wright and Mrs. Elton Arnold, organist, the choir sang an anthem featuring a solo by Mrs. Gerald Wilson and a duet by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Emerson Graham.

A study class based on the book "Jesus Christ and the Christian Life" will be started next Sunday at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Turnbull Makes 1153 Visits

Mrs. C. V. Turnbull, Joggin Bridge, wife of Dr. Turnbull, Digby dentist has done much to scatter cheer and make hospital hours for patients less tiresome. As reported at the annual meeting of the Digby General Hospital Auxiliary on Monday night, Mrs. Turnbull made 1153 personal visits on hospital patients from October 1964 to October 1965.

Sharp Comes To Digby

Transport Minister J. W. P. Kersgill and Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp will visit Nova Scotia within the next two weeks to speak at separate Liberal rallies.

Mr. P. Kersgill will address a meeting on Friday, October 8, in the Constituency of Cape Breton North and Victoria, and will be guest speaker the following afternoon at the Liberal Nominating Convention in Antigonish - Guysborough. The Convention will be held at the Parish Centre in Antigonish beginning at 2 p.m.

Mr. Sharp is scheduled to address a rally on Wednesday October 13, at the Digby Theatre in Digby. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

Major General Plow Talks On Expo.

Major General E. C. Plow, Halifax and Smith's Cove, was guest speaker on Friday night at the Nova Scotia Weekly Newspapers Association dinner held at the Nova Scotian Hotel, Halifax. Mrs. Plow was also present at the dinner.

Mr. Plow illustrated his talk on Expo. by pictures of various pavilions which are expected to be erected by 1967 and showed a miniature structure of the Atlantic Provinces pavilion. Mr. Plow said the theme of the exhibition is Man and His World. Four groups of theme buildings will be at the heart of Expo 67. These will constitute Man the Explorer, Man the Producer, Man the Creator and Man and the Community.

More than 60 countries have made plans to enter Expo and Mr. Plow pointed out the various positions which each country would use and the type of pavilion they would erect. Outside the Canadian Pavilion will be a large maple tree containing thousands of plastic leaves on which will be names. The Atlantic provinces will operate a sea food restaurant.

Friday's luncheon was addressed by J. Roger Mills of the Voluntary Economic Planning committee. He explained to the newspaper personnel why the economic planning in Nova Scotia was necessary, the various segments and sections into which the plans have been divided and the targets for which the planning is aiming.

The ten sections described by the speaker are agriculture, construction, fisheries, forestry, manufacturing, mining, power, services, tourism, transportation and communication.

The Nova Scotia Weekly Newspapers Association meetings were presided over by Roy Cooke of the Progress Enterprise and dealt with many phases and problems of the newspaper business.

A panel of advertising was held on Friday morning chaired by Jack Nesbitt of Dartmouth with representatives taking part from Imperial Advertising Ltd., Backman Advertising Agency. On Saturday George Cadogan of Pictou moderated a panel on circulation. The panelists were Ralph Morton, Dartmouth; Mrs. Edith Wallis, Digby; and Blaise Campbell, Antigonish.

Among those on the executive is Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Digby.

About This And That

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 3-9, 1965

CHILDREN AND FIRE

Very few parents would allow their children to play on the edge of a busy street. But many otherwise responsible parents overlook a hazard just as threatening — leaving small children at home alone while they go on a brief errand to a nearby store or to a next door neighbor's.

All too often, these few moments are all that fire needs to do its deadly work. The shocking fact is that one-third of all child fire victims were alone and unprotected when fire struck. National Fire Protection Association studies show.

If you would protect your children from fire at home and at play, follow these precautions:

1. Never, under any circumstances, leave small children alone.
2. Make sure baby sitters have specific instructions to follow in case of fire. These include orders to get the children out of the house the instant smoke or gas is noted, directions for at least two escape routes from every room, and the way to get in touch with the fire department, parents, doctor, and police.
3. Keep young children — two and under — in constant sight and mind.
4. Teach older children how to use and respect fire. They learn best by your example.
5. Keep your home free of fire hazards through regular check-ups. The fire department will help in this.
6. Train children of all ages how to get out of the house to safety in case of fire. Have at least two escape routes from every room, and be sure the children know these routes by heart.

Editorial Purpose

Week after week we write editorials for this column about various subjects which we think might be of interest and benefit to our readers. With National Newspaper Week arriving next week we were considering what might be best to write for the promotion of our own newspaper or newspapers in general. Our eyes happened to glance on this question: "What is the purpose of an editorial?" The answer which followed read "The purpose of an editorial is to create discussion among readers and thus cause the reader to think through a situation or a subject and form his own opinion. In brief, then, the purpose of an editorial is to provoke thought."

The above answer might have come from our very own pen for that is exactly what we've always considered an editorial to be — something to stimulate thought and help someone to make up his own mind and not to make up his mind for him. The subject might happen to be one with all kinds of controversy or it might happen to be only a most agreeable idea which had not been thought of before. To our minds just a simple question asked can make an editorial. Just to take a simple illustration we might ask "Ever consider raising money for an organization by a fish fry?" Immediately you begin to think. We have chicken barbecues (two in a week) and the Valley has its beef barbecue. Down in Oklahoma we noticed they were having fish fries. So could we. We have a variety of fish. It would be a change from chicken and our tourists would probably like an outdoor fish fry.

But to get back to our question — we are usually amused at those people who tell you a newspaper should take a "stand." Sure, a newspaper should take a stand just as an individual should take a stand but a newspaper must reserve the reader's right to his own opinion just as an individual should respect another's opinion. What the person is really suggesting is that the newspaper should take a stand on "my" side. Woe betide, if the stand happens to be contrary and on the side of the other guy. Then, of course, the suggestion would be that a newspaper should be impartial.

Controversial subjects, yes. (Name us a subject that can't be made controversial!) But, even, and moreso, on controversial subjects people have a right to make up their own minds. Right now we have a tremendously controversial issue in our area. Some people believe everybody should vote Liberal while others believe everybody should vote Conservative. This newspaper is strictly independent. We'll print the news and maybe interpret it, if need be, but you make up your own mind.

Editorials provoke thought. An editorial, though, does not necessarily have to be in this column reserved for it. Often you find an editorial in the column headed Letter to the Editor or "Coffee at James." Actually, a letter-to-the-editor is simply an editorial written by someone else to express a viewpoint.

To celebrate Newspaper Week why not sit down and write a letter-to-the-editor or a guest editorial on some subject uppermost on your mind for the next edition of The Digby Courier. Your subject, of course, should be of interest to more than a few readers and not just a quarrel between you and your next door neighbor or closest relative or you and your business competitor. An editorial is to provoke thought.

Van Zoost Guest Speaker

Rev. W. D. Van Zoost, minister of the United Church of Canada at Middleton, was guest speaker on Wednesday night at Grace United Church hall when the annual congregational dinner was held. The dinner marked the beginning of the Every Member Canvass and the Partnership in the Ministry campaign.

Rev. Mr. Van Zoost aroused the interest of his hearers immediately when he presented the fact that instead of money being "something you can't take with you," it is "something you can take with you." If you adopt the philosophy that you can't take money with you then you spend it or tuck it away. But money can be exchanged for the coin of the spiritual realm, the speaker said. It goes into making of character. It can be translated into happiness. Training boys and girls is money with immortal content, Rev. Mr. Van Zoost said. It means lives reclaimed and broken homes restored.

Mr. Van Zoost, who is married to the former Verge Wanchester, of Digby, was introduced and thanked by Rev. R. H. Hughes, minister of the church, who presided over the dinner.

Mrs. Beigh Jayne is chairman of the campaign committee. Mayor C. D. Snow thanked the members of the United Church Women for arranging the dinner.

Mr. Frank Hayden provided the dinner music.

In D-A-K Constituency

The Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of External Affairs will be in Nova Scotia October 27 and 28 on a two-day campaign swing through central and eastern Nova Scotia.

Two meetings are scheduled for Cape Breton for October 27. The first will be an afternoon meeting at Port Hawkesbury in the Constituency of Inverness-Richmond and the evening rally will be a combined meeting for the Constituencies of Cape Breton South and Cape Breton North-Victoria.

On Thursday the 28th, Mr. Martin will be in Halifax for a noon meeting, and will conclude his Nova Scotia visit with a large rally in the Constituency of Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

Lions Club To Hold Shell-out Party

By King Lion David Daley

A unanimous decision to once again sponsor the Halloween Shell Out Party for the children of Digby was reached after reading many letters of congratulations and thanks from several business concerns in town. Many parents also expressed their thanks to the Lions for having a place where the children can congregate and have fun. They know where they can find them instead of searching all over town. Every child who comes to the Lions Hall receives a bag of candy, apples, ice cream, pop, etc., and many grand prizes for those who have collected the most shell-out tickets. These prizes are donated mainly by business concerns in the town and are given to the kids in all age groups so that everyone has a chance to win.

The Lions Club, under the leadership of King Lion Dave Daley and dressed in Halloween costumes (it is understood that some of the Lionettes will also be out with the Lions) will canvass the town on Wednesday evening, October 20, and sell shell-out tickets, which the children will be asking for Halloween night.

Chief of Police Webster Dunn has expressed the thought that if the Lions continue to sponsor the project the need for police protection on that night could be cut to a minimum.

In Memoriam

1916 - MacDonald - 1965
In loving memory of our dear daughter, June Grace (Burton) MacDonald, who passed away Oct. 6, 1946.
Quietly remembered every day. Sadly missed along life's way. - Always remembered by mother and dad. 7:1p

MULLEN - In loving memory of our dear mother, Ruby Violet, who was taken so suddenly away on October 8, 1961. What would we give if we could say, "Hello mom" in the same old way.
To hear her voice, to see her smile.
To sit and talk with her awhile
Deep in our hearts her memory is kept
To love her and cherish and never forget.
Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by sons, Donald and Francis, daughters-in-law, Marion and Ann. 7:1tc

OUTHOUSE - In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Frederick R. Outhouse who passed away October 7, 1952.
Sweet is the word remembrance
And dear is the one who is gone.
In memory we will always keep him
As long as the years roll on.
Always remembered by his wife, daughter Melba and son, Milton. 7:1p

DAKIN - In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Gordon B. Dakin, who passed away October 12th, 1962.
Like falling leaves the years slip by,
But precious memories never die.
You live with us in memory still,
Not just today, but always will.
Sadly missed and always remembered by wife Rosa, sons, Ernie, Ron, Jack and Arnie and daughter Barbara. 7:1tc TRIMPER - In loving memory of Charles S. Trimper, who passed away October 8, 1963.

Two years have passed since that sad day,
God called the one we loved away.
Forgot him, no we never will
As years go by, we miss him still.
Sadly missed by son, Lovett; daughter-in-law, Eileen and grandchildren. 7:1tc

60 Years Ago

Mrs. Bradford T. Wood, Conway, brought to The Digby Courier News of August 29, 1905. It was a supplement to The Digby Weekly Courier and was the first number of the first volume of the supplement. It was printed, so the editorial column said, because of the overflow of news and it went free to all subscribers of the Courier. Despite hints to regular advertisers that this would make a good opportunity for extra advertising, only H. T. Warne, one of Digby's most enterprising merchants, it said, took advantage. The copy of the "News" which came to the Courier this week had been addressed to Mrs. Joseph Bryant.

We note that not only Digby celebrated Labor Day in 1905 but also the nearby village of Smith's Cove also had Labor Day sports. The editor urged people to attend as the village deserved credit for its enterprise as a summer resort and the manner in which it entertained its visitors.

Then the ladies of the Presbyterian Church at Bay View were holding a tea on the Lighthouse grounds. Fish and clam chowder were served. Rev. William Bluff preached to a large congregation in the Sydney Street Christian Church, Digby, on Sunday evening.

A driving accident occurred on one of the back streets on Saturday. No one was seriously injured. (We aren't told whether horse and buggy or car.)

One birth was recorded — a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Godbeau.

An excursion from Bear River to Point Prim by Stm. Granville was recorded. Those who were not on time to leave by steamer were conveyed to Victoria Bridge by E. W. Parry's backboards, where they embarked. Promoter of the excursion was W. A. Chute. John Nichol prepared the fish chowder meal.

Fishing was good in the Bay of Fundy. Capt. John Raymond of the Hyacinth had a lady and gentleman from the Manhattan Hotel on board. Had they stayed out longer, they could have filled the boat with large fish.

"Doc" horse of Charles Stehelin and "Lady," J. C. Muse, were booked for the races at Digby on September 1, according to the Weymouth Bridge news.

This item was included — At the recent meeting of the Maritime Board of Trade held at Yarmouth, delegates were unanimous in the matter of a daily steamboat service (Sunday excepted) between Digby and Saint John throughout the entire year. It is thought that arrangements can be made to have at least a daily service for eight months during the year and alternate days during the other four. This service will prove an expensive one, but we believe it is necessary and no doubt the government will assist with sufficient increase of subsidy to enable the Dominion Atlantic Railway Co. to give us the service desired.

New Hymnary For Churches

The United Church of Canada today has expressed appreciation to The Anglican Church of Canada for the acceptance of an invitation to prepare and publish a joint Hymnary, in line with the growing union plans for the two denominations.

Three years ago, the United Church authorized preparation of a new Hymnary and an editorial committee has been at work on this, headed by Dr. R.H.N. Davidson of Toronto, and Dr. Stanley Osborne of Whitby.

A joint Committee will now be appointed to proceed on this plan. The Canada Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church which is also discussing union with the United Church, has appointed Dr. Emerson Hallman to be an observer on this Committee for Revision of the Hymnary.

The United Church of Canada has also invited the Baptist and Presbyterian Churches to share in publication of a

Amendments To Water Act

Hon. W. S. K. Jones, the minister responsible for the administration of the Water Act, has announced that recent amendments to the Act will make it easier for municipalities to carry out a pollution control survey or study.

The changes in the Act relate to Section 14A.

Under a new arrangement the Province through the N. S. Water Authority advances the total cost of a study or survey.

Previously the Province paid 20 per cent of the cost of the study when the project was completed.

The works with respect to which assistance may be furnished by the Minister are the construction of one or more trunk collector sewers; of the construction or expansion of a central plant for the treatment and disposal of domestic sewage wastes or any combination of the foregoing.

The new section of the regulations is as follows: (1) When the Minister is satisfied that a municipality has caused a pollution control study or survey to be made by an engineer or engineers whose engagement for the purpose was approved by the Water Authority and the municipality has undertaken to carry out construction of a sewer project or the construction or expansion of a sewage treatment works in consequence of that study or survey, the Minister may advance to the municipality an amount equal to the cost of the municipality of having the study conducted.

(2) When the Minister is satisfied that a trunk collector sewer or a sewage treatment plant has been satisfactorily completed by a municipality, the Minister may pay to the Municipality a sum not exceeding twenty per cent of the approval capital cost of the sewer or plant, including the cost of study or survey referred to in subsection (1), less any amount advanced under subsection (1).

Rev. C. L. Blanchard

Rev. Cecil Lawrence Blanchard, 10 Plymouth Drive, Dartmouth, died at the age of 66.

Born at Windsor, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Blanchard, he received his early education there. He served overseas in the First World War. After returning home, he attended Kings and Pine Hill colleges and was ordained in 1925. He served in the parishes of Waweg, Dalhousie, Point de la Peste, N. B. In Nova Scotia he held parishes in Bear River, Yarmouth and Brookfield.

After retiring, he served as Protestant chaplain at the RCAF Station Beaverbank. Later he was a pastor at the Halifax County Hospital.

Surviving are his wife, the former Pauline Harris of Annapolis Royal; one daughter, Joan (Mrs. Murray Faulkner), Bangkok, Thailand; 4 grandchildren; two sisters, Miss Ruth Blanchard, Montreal, Quebec; and one brother Norman, Windsor.

Kenneth Owen Irving

Kenneth Owen Irving died suddenly on Saturday evening by the results of a car accident in Digby County. He was 23 years old.

He was a graduate of the Digby Regional High School and a Telecommunications Technician Graduate of the DeVry Technical Institute in Toronto, Ont. Upon his graduation,

Other Scallop Beds

A survey for potential scallop beds on Nova Scotia and St. Pierre banks was conducted recently by the Nova Scotia Department of Fisheries in cooperation with the Industrial Development Service of the federal Department of Fisheries.

Nova Scotia Fisheries Minister E. D. Haliburton said the Lunenburg scallop dragger "Blue Dawn" was chartered for six weeks to carry out the survey.

Mr. Haliburton said, "Waters around Sable Island, Middle Ground, Baiguero and Arcton Bank were surveyed carefully but revealed no commercial quantities of the shellfish."

However, Mr. Haliburton said, he was accepted as an employee of the Canadian National Telegraph Company and became well known throughout the communities of Northern Ontario where he worked until January.

At the time of his death he was an employee of the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Company, Ltd., in Halifax, N. S.

He leaves to mourn his parents, Owen and Vivian (Rafuse) Irving and one sister, Jeanette (Mrs. Earle Durnan) of Springfield, N. B. He was predeceased by one brother, Donald.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon in the United Baptist Church at Sandy Cove with the Rev. Vic. Mersereau officiating. Interment was in the family lot at the church cemetery.

added, "On St. Pierre Bank there were several promising areas."

Tows of 20 minutes duration on the northern portion of the bank yielded five to 12 bushels of scallops in each 12-foot drag. The best catches were centered at 57° 03' Long., 46° 27' Lat. in 28 to 32 fathom depths.

The southern bed on St. Pierre Bank has been fished to some extent in 1965 and tows of three to eight bushels were made in this area.

A bed was discovered on the western edge of the bank, but has not been fished commercially. The bed is quite small with a length of about six miles and a width of two miles. The centre of the bed is found at 56° 33' Long. and 45° 57' Lat., lying NNW and SSE. Catches of six to seven bushels were made in 27 to 30 fathoms of water.

Mr. Haliburton was assured that all three beds contained a fair abundance of scallops which should make them more attractive to fishermen in 1966.

Adults To School On T.V.

In a twenty-minute period two mornings a week, adults in Nova Scotia can take a course in Grade XI Physics, or Grade VII French or any of five other courses listed below, by watching educational television.

The courses started September 13 and continue until May 26, with interruptions October 21 and April 21 for national telecasts of Shakespeare plays.

Although designed for schools, many adults follow the courses with interest. Some take the Grade XI and XII courses for credit and take examinations at the end of the year. Others combine their television watching with evening classes or a correspondence course in the same subject.

For a small fee, any adult over 16 years of age and out of school for one year, may obtain the lesson materials prepared by the television teachers for the use of classroom teachers. Reading the accompanying lessons and the recommended text books makes the course extremely valuable, whether or not it is taken for credit.

Write to the Adult Education Division, Box 578, Halifax, for a list of recommended textbooks and other information, and to put your name on the mailing list to receive the lessons sent in several mailings throughout the year.

For this service the charge is $1.50 for one course and $1.00 for each additional set of course materials.

Adults who take School Television Courses in Grade XI Physics and Grade XII Mathematics may write Provincial Examinations by making application to the Registrar, Department of Education in Halifax. Inquiries concerning examinations and credits for these courses should be directed to Nova Scotia School Television, Box 578.

Oldest Living "Bluejacket" Presented With White Ensign

Rufus Connor, Canada's oldest living "Blue Jacket", has been presented with a white ensign in recognition of his many years of colourful service in the Royal Navy. Captain J. M. Paul, commanding officer, HMCS Cornwallis, made the presentation before a massed parade of over 1,000 officers, men and cadets on behalf of the chief of the defence staff.

Mr. Connor, 86, was born in England in 1879, the son of a British army officer. His mother was a native Nova Scotian. He grew up in England, Ireland and Egypt and at the age of 16 joined the Royal Navy as a rating with a pay of 12 cents a week.

In 1902 he was promoted to petty officer and master-at-arms. Throughout his long career in the navy he maintained a reputation for being the strongest man and the best shot in the RN. His first ship was HMS Curacao, sister ship to HMCS Charybdis, Canada's ill-fated first naval vessel. He served in the Boer War, the Chinese Boxer Rebellion, the Russo-Japan War, and World War I. He retired from the RN in 1917 as a master-at-arms following injury in the bombardment of the Chatham England Military Hospital.

Besides a long and colorful career in the Navy, Mr. Connor has the distinction of being one of the oldest Scout Masters in Canada. He was appointed in 1906 by Col. Baden Powell, founder of the Scout movement. He has been a Free Mason since 1902 and a totaliter since 1891. Mr. Connor was registered a ship's diver in 1894 and holds the distinction of being the world's oldest living diver. He knew King Edward VII and on many occasions he met with members of the Royal Family.

After receiving the white ensign, Mr. Connor, resplendent in his World War I frock coat and medals, thanked Captain Paul and addressed the assembled parade. Despite his many years, the sprightly gentleman stood at rigid attention in true military manner and took the salute during the march past. Now a Canadian citizen, Mr. Connor, who spent many years since his retirement in Digby, recently moved to Cape Blomidon, Kings County, N. S.

Digby Firemen Active

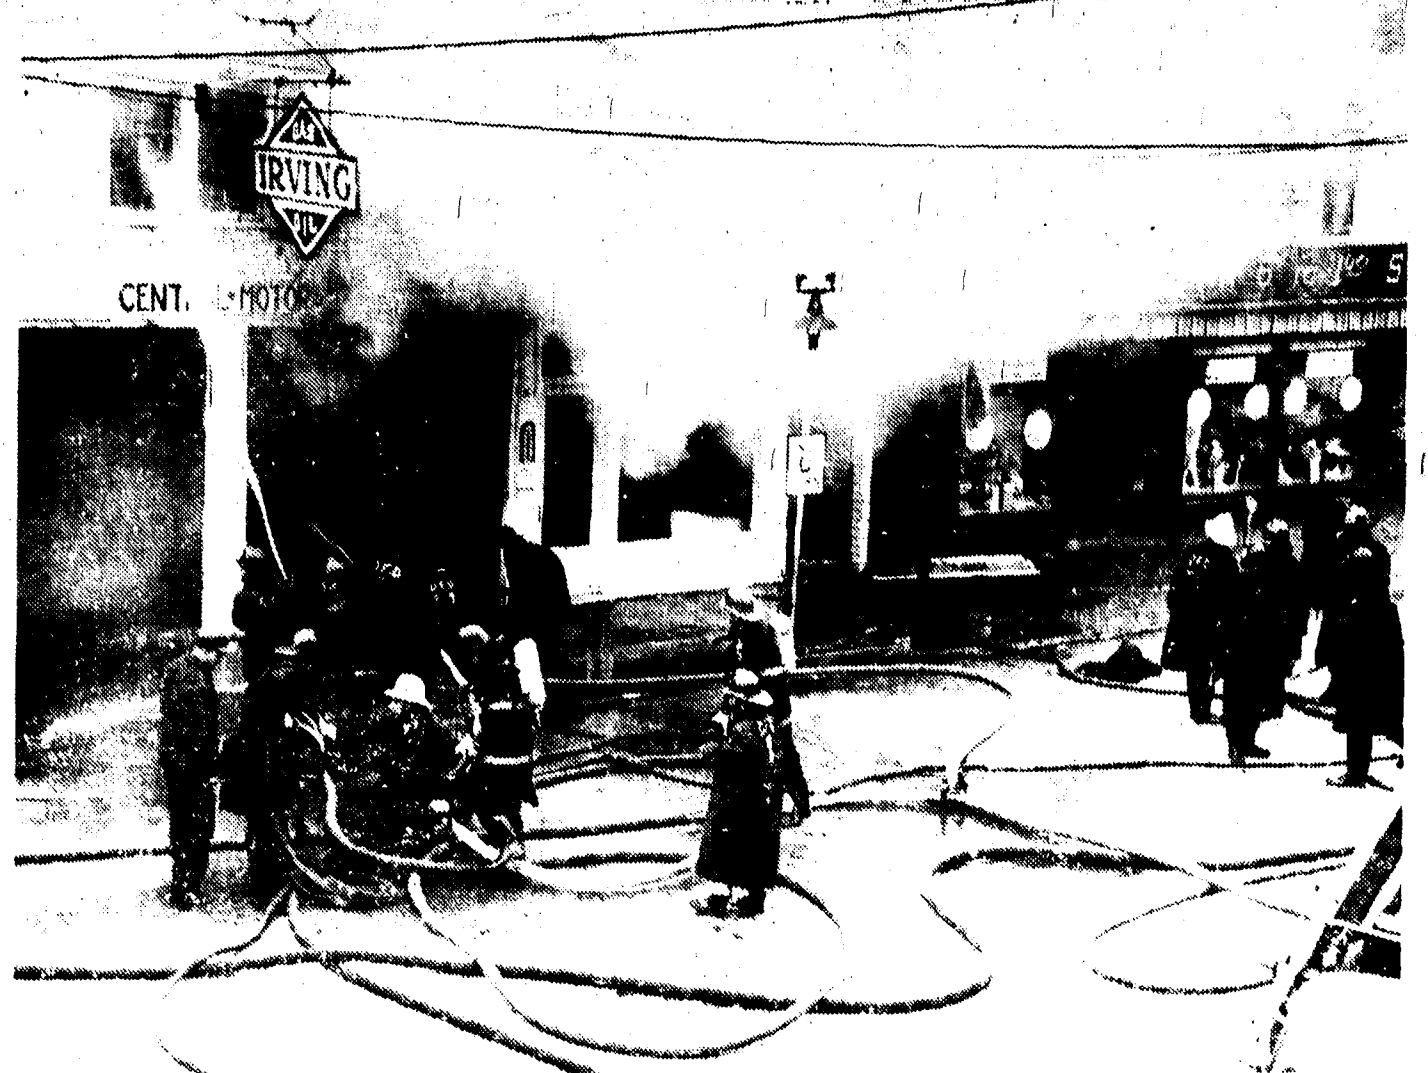

Members of Digby Fire Department assembled Sunday morning at 10:30 to participate in church parade to Grace United Church at 11 a.m. Members and equipment both paraded on this occasion and a good turnout was evident along with so many other activities being carried out at the same time. While the members were attending church a crew and pumper were dispatched to Greenwood to take part in the annual parade through Annapolis Valley of equipment which this year departed from Greenwood at 2 p.m. with these departments east of Greenwood travelling to Windsor and those west of Greenwood parading to Digby. After each department visited their own town they returned to their quarters to carry out their fire prevention projects for the week.

After local members came to church parade they were busy constructing posters for about the town. On Monday, Boy Scouts visited the fire station and were instructed in the prevention of fires and shown a film as well as this. Girl Guides, G.I.T., Boy Scouts and other youth groups from the town.

Many displays and displays were also placed in various sections of the town, drawing attention to fire prevention. Usual inspections were carried out in various parts of the town.

It Should Not Happen

In 1962 an alarm was received by Digby firemen for a fire at Central Motors Ltd. located on Water Street, opposite Shortt's Grocery, which resulted in the loss of the business and practically total loss of the building as well as the jobs of several employees.

This should not have happened in the first place, particularly when it occurred during business hours and employees were working on the job. However, it was evident that the fire started in the work shop area where employees were on hand to deal with such an outbreak before it could spread. The lack of co-operation and effort to install proper fire fighting equipment where hazardous work is being carried on was, along with carelessness, the result of this fire getting to the proportions that it did. Fire department members were constantly checking the premises and recommending that portable fire extinguishers be placed in the building. However, this was not done and the fire resulted.

Today the part remains of the building still stand, leaving an eye-sore to the town and the loss of a payroll. Further the owner of the building has made no effort to remove the remains of the building or replace it. In this particular case the time of day and weather had a great deal to do with what happened to the surrounding properties. If there had been a high wind the town would have been in serious trouble. Owners of business property cannot be reminded too often of maintaining clean premises and taking the necessary precautions to prevent fires before they happen.

- Proclamation -

I hereby proclaim the week of October 3 to October 9, inclusive, as Fire Prevention Week in the Town of Digby.

Digby has been most fortunate in the past few years in that no deaths have occurred from fire. Some loss of property has been sustained but owing to the capable services of the Digby volunteer firemen, the loss has been kept at the low amount which it is. While proclaiming Fire Prevention Week, I also take the opportunity, on behalf of myself and Digby citizens, to extend appreciation for the services of our efficient Digby Fire Department.

I want to direct the public to the use of educational matter available during Fire Prevention Week and I earnestly appeal to the citizens to give their every co-operation to the Digby Fire Department in their endeavours during the week.

C. D. SNOW,
Mayor.

"Greatest Arsonist"

Truly, the "greatest arsonist" of all is the one who through ignorance or carelessness invites fire. For example, in the home, "buzzing the watch-dog" by the use of other than a 15 ampere fuse in an ordinary circuit. Worse, still, a penny or a harp!

Checking a home, plant or office for hazards does not absolutely guarantee freedom from fire. But it helps... and there is a greater piece of mind for the occupants. Know something about the causes of fire, or ask the firefighter to help point them out to you.

PRE-PLAN what you would do in case of

1. SPREAD THE ALARM

Be SURE everyone gets out.

2. CALL 5-2121 AT ONCE

Get help on the way.

3. Then, if fire is still small, FIGHT IT.

DIGBY FIRE DEPARTMENT

Fire Inspection

Don't Be Ashamed

George Humphrey,
Chief, Digby Fire Dept.

Shame (over an untidy house), fear (of consequences), ignorance (of what it's all about) — forget these things if you have an ounce of common-sense. Welcome the uniformed, authorized fire fighter if he knocks at your door, suggesting a look-see for fire hazards.

Close your door to fire, keep it open for fire prevention. This neatly describes the philosophy of Canada's campaign for greater fire safety in the home, on the job, and everywhere. In plants, office buildings, stairwells, fire doors must be kept closed. Why? To shut off live air (oxygen) from fueling a fire. In the home, too, a closed door will slow down the spread of fire.

So Simple

But because three-quarters of all fires happen in the home, and because the basic hazards are quite simple (over-fusing, frayed wiring, faulty heaters, rubbish and the like) their elimination will go a long way in prevention. Hence the purpose of the fire fighter's call.

But why wait for the fire fighter? Check these hazards yourself. Or call the fire chief and make an appointment.

If

Turn all pot handles in during cooking. Don't wear flimsy clothing or long full sleeves when cooking. Lift far side of pan lids first to prevent scalding. Use a potholder when handling hot pans.

Your

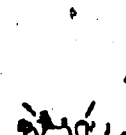

Don't ever smoke in bed. Be extremely careful when discarding matches, cigarettes, etc.

Home

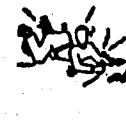

Be sure there are plenty of ashtrays in the house and that they are of a type that doesn't allow a forgotten cigarette to fall out.

Isn't

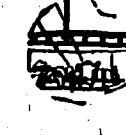

Keep children out of the kitchen during meal preparation. If small children must be watched in the kitchen, keep them in a sturdy chair or a play pen—out of reach of the stove and sharp tools. Keep matches out of reach of small children, and teach older children to use them properly.

Safe—

Be sure to keep electric wiring, equipment and appliances in good repair at all times. Don't attempt home repair of electrical equipment. Hire an electrician qualified as a journeyman in the electrical construction trade.

What

Remember! Kerosene Kindling Kills. Never use flammable liquids to start fires. Don't keep flammable liquids in dwellings and never in glass or plastic containers. Use an approved safety container. Home dry cleaning should be done only with non flammable cleaners—and NEVER use flammable cleaners in a washing machine.

Is?

Don't allow trash to accumulate in basements, attics or storage areas. Make sure all combustibles are removed regularly. Any storage of clothing should be in good containers and all pockets must be cleaned of matches before storage. Containers should be stored clear of electrical equipment and in cool locations.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL

The Provincial Health Board report showed milk and water to be satisfactory.

The streets committee reported 380 hours spent on the water works, a complete motor job was done on the tractor, 23 hours spent on cleaning the dump with one man full time, ninety-four hours were spent in installing a sewer on Queen Street and the remainder of time was spent cutting grass, cleaning streets, ditches and building bridges.

A license was granted to John C. McLinton to operate a camera shop in the building formerly occupied by the Digby Salvation Army Corps.

Permission was granted to Jack Whalley, town clerk, to attend a short course in Halifax to be sponsored by the Department of Municipal Affairs on October 27, 28 and 29.

A request for relief from taxes because of illness was not granted.

A notice was read from Dr. Longley, Wolfville, about an Apple Blossom Festival committee meeting to be held in Middleton on October 23.

Thanks was extended to the town by the Elliott Shows for courtesies extended during their recent visit here.

PRELIMINARY HEARING

Asked by Mr. Woolaver if Miss Haskins might have been killed elsewhere, the doctor said there was no evidence that she had been moved.

Two witnesses at the second day (Tuesday) of the hearing said they had seen three men in the area where the body was found in a clump of bushes. John Dominic Noah and Michael Nickerson, both 16 years old, told the court that while returning from the dance at the Yarmouth Youth Centre shortly before midnight on July 28, they saw a male and a female crossing Tooker Street. said Noah, he heard something that sounded like faint moaning coming from the direction of the alders on the north side of Tooker Street. Advancing more slowly and glancing to the left, he saw two people in the bushes. A girl, or woman, was lying on her back, apparently held there by a man, whose right arm was going up and down as if he was striking her. The girl, he said, seemed to have a pink skirt or some other such light material, and the man seemed to be wearing a khaki or fawn jacket. He looked to be quite heavy and broad about the shoulders.

Noah said he and Nickerson then continued on. He and his companion stopped to listen and then heard a sound like the ripping of cloth. Shortly after they heard a person, which they took to be a man by the footsteps on the street. At the time Noah said that he and Nickerson were in a path-way at the Haskins house immediately next to the open field which was covered with tall grass and high alders.

Noah said that while they were trying to make up their minds what to do, a man walked by wearing a dark suit, white shirt and tie. He said that soon afterwards they heard a yell as though someone was in agony, and still later a loud scream. After that, everything was silent. He said they didn't know whether to call the police and decided to go to St. Ambrose Rectory and tell the priest. When they could not awaken him they went directly to Noah's home and told his mother.

Nickerson corroborated Noah's evidence and under cross-examination testified the man he saw with the girl in the bushes was the one he had seen crossing the street, and not one of the two other men who had walked past on Tooker Street while he and Noah were standing by the Haskins house. Both he and Noah told the court, when questioned by defence counsel, that they could not recognize any of the three men in an identification parade they had attended later.

Tim Moulaison, foreman of the town's streets department, said he found a knife as he and his men were clearing the grass and alder at the scene where the girl was found.

Ruth Ann Faskins, a cousin of the victim, identified clothing and a wallet and purse as belonging to her cousin. She said she went to the dance at the youth centre with Thais and some other girls and was introduced to the accused. The latter had asked her to dance but she had refused. The accused had also talked with Thais but she had danced with him. Miss Haskins said she "smelled liquor" on the accused. She did not notice what he was wearing except that he wore a blue shirt or blue sweater. Thais had insisted on going home before the dance was over, but the witness said she had tried to persuade her to stay so that the girls could walk home with her as she did not know the area. However kins said, Comeau had been courteous while at the dance and that she had not seen him after 11:15 p.m.

The hearing resumed Wednesday morning.

Prime Minister To Halifax

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson has accepted an invitation to attend a Nova Scotia Liberal rally being held in Halifax, Friday, October 22.

"This gathering of Liberals from all sections of the province will be our tribute to the Prime Minister and provide an opportunity for the people of this province to express their confidence in him and his government," a spokesman for the party said this morning.

The meeting will be held at Halifax forum beginning at 8:30 p.m.

"Everyone, regardless of his or her political persuasion is welcome to attend and to meet Mr. Pearson," the spokesman added.

This will be the Prime Minister's only visit to Nova Scotia during the election campaign.

Obituary

Bessie Mae Sabine

The death of Bessie Mae Sabine of Bear River occurred at the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax on Tuesday, Sept. 14th after a lengthy illness. She was 67 years of age and was the only daughter of the late Herbert and Lizzie (Sabine) Sabine.

She was born at Southville, but the greater part of her life resided in New Tuskot, except for ten years, spent nursing in the United States.

She is survived by two brothers, John of Wollaston, Mass., and Stanley of Bear River. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. C. R. Barkhouse, Weymouth, from the New Tuskot United Baptist Church. Interment was in New Tuskot cemetery.

SHARP MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT ABOUT WHARF

Hon. Mitchell Sharp, speaking at a Liberal Rally in Digby last night, made the following announcement on behalf of the Pearson government.

Public Works will soon undertake an extensive program of improvements to the fishing harbour at Digby. The existing harbour is extremely congested and quite frequently has to provide tie-up space for some 40 scallop draggers and sixteen ground fish draggers. The importance of the Digby fishing industry in the economy of western Nova Scotia can be judged from the fact that during 1963 the value of fish purchased from fishermen was $622,790.00, the predominant species being scallops having a value of approximately $428,000.00. In 1964 the total number of fishermen resident in Digby was 56. However, approximately 200 additional fishermen from the surrounding community also fish from this port.

Digby harbour also accommodates pulpwood shipping coasters and various government vessels. Approximately 10,000 cords of pulpwood were shipped from Digby on eleven vessels in 1961. The extensive use which is made of this harbour combined with the fact that the existing structure requires annual maintenance in the order of $30,000.00 makes the program of improvements which are about to be undertaken an item of high priority. The proposal work consists of:

1. Dredging an approach channel and enlarging the mooring area for fishing boats.
2. Construction of a marginal wharf with a concrete deck which will provide approximately 18,000 square feet of deck area.
3. Extension of the outer spur wharf by about 150 feet and reconstruction and sheathing of the existing spur wharf.
4. Construction of a new finger pier 320 feet in length.

It is expected that a start can be made on the dredging this year with the remaining stages or portions to follow thereafter.

About 2 years will be required to complete the project estimated to cost approximately $1,000,000.00.

Society Gets $100 Grant

A grant of one hundred dollars from the Nova Scotia Department of Trade & Industry was acknowledged at the annual meeting of the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society, held last Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Percy Robert. Co-hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Blanche Porter and Mrs. Lillian Nichols.

The grant received from the province was to assist the society with costs of maintaining and developing the gardens at the "Welcome to Nova Scotia" sign near the head of the Long Wharf and at the provincial tourist information bureau.

The meeting also acknowledged receipt of fifty dollars from the Digby Pines Hotel. This money will be used to help defray costs of beautification projects being carried on by the society.

Committee reports presented at the meeting indicated the society had enjoyed a successful year. Miss Louise Daley, reporting for the tree planting committee, stated a master plan for tree planting on Digby's streets had been prepared by Mr. Morton of the department of agriculture. It had been decided to plant trees along King Street next year.

Mrs. Daniel Comeau, reporting for the Ways and Means committee, reviewed fund raising activities of the year. The treasurer's report, prepared by treasurer, Miss Dora Warne, was presented by Mrs. Lillian Nichols. This report showed the society had raised a total of $298.93 during the year. Disbursements totalled $256.38. A balance carried forward from the previous year resulted in the society ending 1965 with a balance of $370.42.

Reports were presented from Mrs. John Russell on the garden at the Admiral Digby Well and from Kenneth Beckwith on the gardens at the Welcome to Nova Scotia sign. Miss M. Tupper presented a report prepared by committee chairman Delbert Forrest on the Loyalist Cemetery. A. T. Grimmer reported on the Hanging Flower Baskets erected along Digby's main street.

A report on the garden project at the tourist information bureau was presented by Mrs. P. Robert. Mrs. R. K. Beckwith reported members were making increasing use of the garden library facilities developed by the society. Mrs. George Winfield reported an active year by the entertainment committee. Reports on program, membership and publicity were given by Miss Tupper, Mrs. Richardson and from Mrs. Wendell.

Acknowledge V.O.N. Gifts

At the regular monthly meeting of the V.O.N. held at the Court House the nurse reported 124 visits in September with 56 for nursing care, 11 visits at the schools for rapid examinations and the first immunization clinic of the fall scheduled with an attendance of 75.

John Nichols local president will attend the semi-annual meeting for Nova Scotia to be held in Truro on October 22. A donation of $75.00 was acknowledged from the Pines Hotel and gift of an office chair for the nurse by Stewart MacNaughton of the Digby Co. Power Board.

The August committee held a series of Bridges and teas and a total of $172.40 has been raised. To date the winners of the bridge were Miss Gertrude Budrow, high and Miss Mable Marshall, Montreal, consolation.

The finance committee will meet before the next regular meeting to make plans to meet a budget of some $2400 to keep the service operating between now and the end of the year.

55 Years Married

Mr. and Mrs. Willis F. Potter, of Clements, Annapolis County, celebrated the 55th anniversary of their marriage on October 4th. Children and grandchildren gathered to honor them at their home and to enjoy a family tea.

The couple are both active and in good health. We wish them many more happy anniversaries.

Disappointed No Meeting With Pickersgill

Expressions of disappointment that no meeting could be arranged with Hon. J. W. Pickersgill, federal transport minister, were made at the regular monthly meeting of the Digby Board of Trade on Tuesday night. President Charles Halliburton reported that he had contacted Lloyd Hill, Middleton, secretary director of AVABT, and also the Hon. K. Jones, who had both tried to arrange meetings with Mr. Pickersgill on behalf of the Digby Board of Trade to discuss the Saint John-Digby ferry situation but without success. The president stated that both replies to the requests were similar, to the effect that the government was undertaking discussions to ensure the continuation of the Saint John-Digby ferry service. Mr. Halliburton stated that this was not a satisfactory answer from the Board's point of view. He said the minister admits it is too important a service to let lapse but there is no commitment or no meeting.

The meeting then passed a motion that the president, along with John Nichols and Capt. Joe Casey, endeavour to contact Hon. Mitchell Sharp on his visit to Digby on Wednesday to further the cause in respect to the Saint John-Digby ferry service.

Thanksgiving At Church Of Christ

On Sunday evening, at the Weymouth Church of Christ (Disciples), an overflowing congregation witnessed the impressive Thanksgiving Service and their annual Roll Call. Adorning the Sanctuary was the attractive harvest table and autumn flowers which had been arranged by the Christian Women's Fellowship.

The pastor, Rev. Russell H. Carr, presided. Mrs. Frank Lewis was organist. The call to worship was given by the mixed choir singing a hymn of Thanksgiving. Rev. W. P. Clayton, minister of Acaciaville and Weymouth Falls United Baptist Church, gave the evening prayer, and guest soloist was Mr. David Carr of Summerside, P.E.I. who beautifully rendered, "Follow Me." Wilfred Cosman, Church clerk, called the Roll and Albert Jones, Board chairman, read the responses from non-resident members. In memory of departed members, the late Harry C. Lewis and Freeman Craibe, a hymn "When the Roll is Called up Yonder" was sung with memorial prayer by Rev. Donald Stockford.

Prior to the sermon, the Christian Men's Fellowship trio, comprising, Clifford Lewis, Glendon Barr and Harry L. Wagner, favored all with a selection, "Footprints of Jesus."

Mr. Carr introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Donald Stockford, minister of Temple Christian Church, Lubec, Me. Mr. Stockford chose his text from the Book of Acts, beginning with the institution of Christ's church and the twelve apostles He chose to go forth. He then challenged men and women to accept Christ in faith as the disciples did and to stand firm in their convictions for the Master. "This, he said, calls for complete commitment and dedication for every individual who bears the name of Christ. Religion of Jesus Christ is intended for all people and is made plain so all can understand. He urged Christians to recall the great price that was paid on Calvary's cross for their salvation and to renew their faith in Him and be changed in their intellect, affections and will."

Service closed by all singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Present for the above service were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gates of Hillgrove, who are each in their ninetieth year. They attended Roll Call Services at South Range and Southville. They will leave shortly to spend the winter in U. S. A.

Good Season For Community Pasture

The newly-developed Digby Community Pasture has enjoyed a most successful season. This was reported at a meeting of the incorporated pasture group, held recently. It was stated some thirty head of cattle had been pastured on the land which was acquired early this summer and plans were made for a much greater number next year.

The new community pasture, developed to help local farmers increase their cattle herds, is located on the Digby Neck, side of St. Mary's Bay, in the vicinity of Rossway, and near the St. Mary's Bay marshland development. Much of the pasture plot, which involves about 300 acres, is in good condition for pasturage. Despite the extremely dry season, experienced locally, grazing conditions were reported good in the pasture throughout the summer.

A portion of the plot still requires clearing and lime and fertilizer are needed on other sections. At the meeting of the pasture group a three-year program for development was worked out. This program will be forwarded to the Department of Agriculture for approval. When approved the department will pay a portion of the costs of the initial land development program.

Chairman of the pasture group is Graham Saunders, of Digby; secretary-treasurer is John Roope, of Hill Grove.

Time Separated But Not Miles

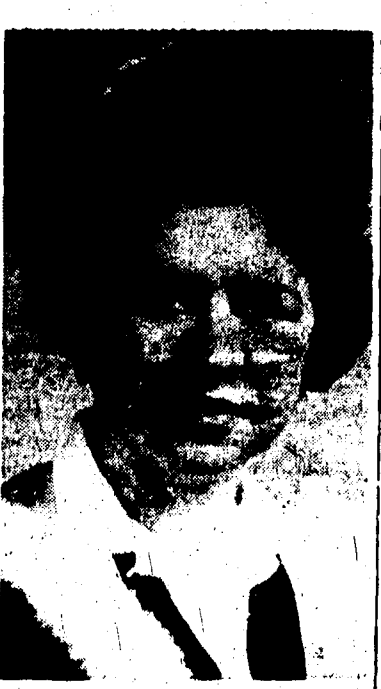

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Melanson, Hughie Melanson and Elsie Gavel, of Gilbert Cove, spent Sunday afternoon in Bear River, some twenty miles away. Mrs. Melanson called at the home of Mrs. Herbert Hazelton in Bear River. They had been school chums 56 years ago. It had been 53 years since these two friends had seen each other.

3 Showed Up

Three showed up Tuesday night for the meeting called to try to reorganize the Digby Minor Hockey League — one for each hundred boys who would like to play hockey. Had enough people been interested and had organized the 1965-66 season, equipment to the amount of $1000 could have been turned over, a spokesman said. As it is, hockey time will come, the boys will want to play and no organization will be available to turn to.

The unhappy Digby Minor Hockey situation has resulted from the resignation of Wallace Hodgson who has been administrator of Minor Hockey here for the past twelve years.

Gets B.A.

Miss Morehouse entered Dalhousie in the fall of 1962, and is at present continuing her studies there towards a degree in Education.

Awarded Scholarship

Fulton Logan, Smith's Cove, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Logan, is named among the 269 graduates to share in a total of $650,567 scholarships and fellowships to students at Dalhousie University. The announcement was made recently by Dr. Henry D. Hicks, president of Dalhousie. The awards vary in amounts from $600 for pre-masters' scholarships to $6,000 for post-doctoral fellowships.

Fulton, a graduate in arts, is studying political science.

Purdy Addresses Regional Meet

The Valley Region Meeting of the Nova Scotia Hospital Association was held Wednesday, October 6, at the Digby General Hospital with 34 business leaders from the various Boards of Trustees of the Valley in attendance.

Keith Clarke, Kingston, President, chaired the meeting. Various topics discussed were Accreditation Fees, Salary Guide for 1966, and integration of the Canada Pension Plan.

F. C. Purdy, President, Nova Scotia Hospital Association, presented the Directors Report for the region pertaining to pensions, pathologists salaries, hospital salaries in general and pharmacy licenses.

A resolution that Federal grants to the provinces for hospital renovation and construction be increased, that the province provide interim funds until such Federal funds are forthcoming, that the deadline for obtaining funds under the Municipal Development and Loan Board be extended beyond March 31, 1966, and that the Federal Grants if and when available be awarded retroactively to those hospitals under construction or which will be constructed before 1968 which did not or will not receive Federal Grants assistance now was adopted by the meeting.

Mr. V. Aylward, Windsor, stated that new Federal monies were being made available for higher education, highways, industries, etc., but no new funds were available for the basic need of each community, the hospital.

K. LeRoy Taylor, Kentville, commented that more delegations should be made to those levels of government responsible by local committees and that Federal and Provincial governments, not the municipalities and local communities, should be responsible for the added costs of construction brought on by the demands of the people and delays by those persons in the position of controlling the entire hospital system.

The meeting adjourned with a tour through the new hospital and refreshments were provided by the Ladies Auxiliary.

Entertain At Bridge

Mrs. Ralph Berwick and Mrs. R. B. Lent were joint hostesses to a delightful buffet bridge at Trinity Hall at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday. Fall flowers were in profusion to adorn the tables and the background scenery.

Prizes went to Mrs. L. M. Saunders, 1st; Mrs. J. W. Christie 2nd; Miss Marjorie Tupper, consolation; Mrs. J. M. Wallis and Mrs. Harry Daley, travelling and Mrs. B. H. Ruggles, lucky.

Want Royal Commission On Crime Problem

The Digby Board of Trade at its regular session on Tuesday evening advocated and went on record as supporting a Royal Commission on crime in Canada. The matter introduced by V. G. Snow, seconded by H. M. Warne, is expected to be brought to the floor of the annual meeting of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade in Kentville on Saturday. A copy of Digby Board's action is to be forwarded to the Federal Minister of Justice.

In introducing the subject, Mr. Snow said that some time ago the Canadian Chamber of Commerce had asked all member Boards to consider the crime problem in Canada and only recently has it become apparent to some how important was such a request.

The resolution read in part: "We have recently heard of considerable fraudulent bankruptcies and committed arson in certain Canadian business affairs, and where some investigation by law officials has brought about a number of murders. It appears that what has now been revealed is just an indication of what may be considerably more rotten business being conducted in some areas of Canadian business life and at the expense of all of us, tax wise, insurance wise, and against life itself."

Resolutions to come before the AVABT were reviewed and expressions advanced. The Board in principle favored a topographic map of the Annapolis Valley to be exhibited at exhibitions but felt that costs should be a deciding factor.

Mr. Snow presented further facts in support of the Digby Board of Trade resolution regarding the fishermen's wharf at Digby. He said the fishermen were greatly handicapped in their fishing operations due to lack of wharf frontage and breakwater. Boats, he said, had to tie up beside one another, thus causing lack of freedom, danger to boats and hardship in landing fish and taking on supplies. This handicap, Mr. Snow said, has been the situation for a long time and is growing worse continually.

Weymouth Trawler Has Unwanted Catch

A Weymouth trawler, the "Lady Anna," fishing in the Atlantic 63 miles off the Virginia coast, Wednesday night pulled up a fully armed 350-pound U. S. Navy depth charge capable of reducing the 102-foot craft to splinters.

With fresh memories of the U. S. trawler "Snoopy," which vanished in such a blast with a loss of eight lives in July, Capt. Guy d'Entremont, of the "Lady Anna," called the U. S. Coast Guard for help.

The charge was disarmed and loaded aboard the Coast Guard cutter "Cherokee" for a one-way trip to deeper water some 75 miles off-shore. There, presumably, it would stay out of the way of fishermen. The "Lady Anna" netted the object late on the afternoon of October 6. It was three feet long and fourteen inches in diameter.

About twenty other trawlers, mostly American, were in the same general area when the "Lady Anna" brought the depth charge aboard. It was not far from the spot where the "Snoopy" was demolished by a torpedo.

Visit Digby

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thomson, Winnipeg, were visitors in Digby on Tuesday. They had been travelling for three weeks, having spent some time in Ottawa, other parts of Ontario, and Quebec, before touring New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. They returned via Princess of Acadia on Wednesday and will visit in Boston before returning to the middle west.

Mr. Thomson, who was news editor on the Free Press Weekly, visited The Digby Courier.

Presents $500 For Hospital Room

To Arrange For APEC Speaker

Stuart MacNaughton gave a short report at the Digby Board of Trade meeting on Tuesday night on the two-day APEC conference he had attended at Halifax last week. The theme of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council's conference was "Guidelines to Progress" and covered every angle and area of the whole Atlantic region, Mr. MacNaughton said.

A panel discussion on education was held. Fisheries industry was discussed and the development at Bathurst and Pictou prompted further discussion on the imperative need of education. The designated area program of the government was discussed.

It was noted, Mr. MacNaughton said, that Digby's population had not fluctuated in the last ten years by even one percent.

By motion Mr. MacNaughton was asked to set up a meeting, either through the Digby Board of Trade or through Kiwanis, and invite a guest from APEC as special speaker.

Digby Pines Golf Club Ladies' Division

Mrs. Fern Webber is the winner of the Wright's of Digby Ltd. Trophy for 1965. She had the best collective score for the golfing term. She also won a Canadian Ladies' Golf Union Pin (broach).

Mrs. Florence Snow is the winner of the Smith's Drug Store Trophy for '65.

The annual meeting of Ladies' Division of the Golf Club will be held in October.

Two Injured In Collision

A car-truck collision at Deep Brook Friday sent Byard Marshall, Bear River stone mason, to Digby General Hospital suffering from head injuries.

A passenger in the Marshall car, Donald Jack, received minor lacerations. Brian Miller, driver of the truck, escaped injury.

The truck, owned by a Bear River furnishing company, was making a delivery at the time of the accident.

Thanksgiving At Grace United

Rev. R. H. Hughes took as his Thanksgiving theme on Sunday morning at Grace United Church "The Song of Harvest." Thanksgiving, he said, recognizes that the world did not happen by chance but behind everything is God. The Thanksgiving message is that God is still alive. He is in control, interested and involved. He cannot be crowded out of His world, the speaker said, and man is not independent of God. Man can only do great things within the limits of God's law. Everything we have belongs to Him. We must never lose faith in God, Mr. Hughes cautioned.

Thanksgiving music was provided by the choir under the direction of Norman Wright and organist, Mrs. Elton Arnold.

Ronald Sly, right, president of the Deep Brook Community Club, presents F. C. Purdy, president of the Digby Hospital Board, with a cheque for $500 as payment on the sponsorship of a room at the new Digby General Hospital. Another $500 will be presented as soon as the club has earned the amount. Further intention of the club is to sponsor a room, also in the Annapolis hospital.

The Deep Brook Community Club was organized in June 1965. In less than four months the $500 was earned by a smorgasbord supper, district canvass, donations from Deep Brook Neighbourly Club, variety shows and sale of cook books. A variety show is scheduled for the month of October.

The first vice president of the club is Mrs. Harold Hirtle. 2nd Vice president, Fulton Stark; secretary, L. L. Snell, and treasurer, Mrs. Ronald Sly.

Mr. Purdy in a few words expresses appreciation of the donation and congratulates Mr. Sly and the club for their energetic efforts. Mrs. Thomas Wood watches as the presentation is made. Mrs. Wood has been director of nursing at the hospital since March and has been on the Digby hospital staff for many years.

Shaw & Gidney Get Contract

Breakwater repairs to the extent of $10,944.00 will be carried out at East Ferry, Digby County, by Shaw & Gidney Limited, of Centreville, Nova Scotia.

Labour Minister Allan MacEachen was advised of the official contract awarding by the Department of Public Works.

Board To Foster Interest In Civic Affairs

E. Sangster, chairman of the Civic Committee of the Digby Board of Trade will be asked to spark interest of townspeople in the forthcoming town election for councillors. Councillors whose terms of office expire this fall are Mayor C. D. Snow, Deputy Mayor D. E. Lewis, Councillors Ralph MacIntyre and Charles Halliburton.

It was noted at the meeting of the Trade Board on Tuesday evening that councillors cannot now be elected without their consent; they cannot be railroaded in as has sometimes been done previously.

On Deans' List At Acadia

President J. M. R. Beveridge of Acadia University recently announced that on the recommendation of the faculty, the University was establishing a Deans' List.

This Deans' List, to be published annually, provides a means for the recognition of outstanding academic achievement among the undergraduate student body during the previous year of study.

Among the names of those who have achieved this distinction for 1964-65 are Allison G. DeWolf, Granville Ferry, N. S., and Mary Anna L. Hendsbee, Digby, N. S.

Obituaries

Mrs. Beatrice A. Selig

Relatives and friends were saddened by the sudden passing of Mrs. Beatrice Alberta Selig at her home in Deep Brook on Thursday. In September she had returned home from three weeks at Digby General Hospital, but was improved in health.

Mrs. Selig was born at Victory, Digby Co., 69 years ago, daughter of Samuel and Gertrude Hewey. Her husband, Aubrey, passed away in 1933. She and a son, Donald, moved to Deep Brook from Victory in 1956.

Surviving are four sons and four daughters: Maurice, Donald and Russell, Deep Brook, Aubrey, Ontario; Evelyn (Mrs. Lewis Henshaw), Clements-ville, Freda (Mrs. B. Oickle), Ethel (Mrs. Donald Cress) and Phyllis (Mrs. Jack Farnsworth), Deep Brook; nineteen grandchildren; one sister, Lillian (Mrs. Ireland Peck), Greenland, Digby Co.; one brother, Lester Hewey, Little River, Digby Co. A sister predeceased her.

Remains rested at Jayne's Funeral Home, Digby, until Sunday, when funeral service, conducted by Evangelist Robert McIlwaine, Charlottetown, P.E.I., was held from Gospel Hall, Clements-ville.

Interment followed in Clements-ville Cemetery.

Underbearers were Messrs. Raymond Moore Jr., Robert Purdy, Robert Saulnier, Donald Lowe, Robert Nelson and William Hall.

Beautiful floral tributes expressed the sympathy of relatives and friends.

John Tremblay, salesman, got a Scotia Plan Loan—$400—in 60 minutes.

John Tremblay needed $400 in a hurry. As he was reading his newspaper one night he noticed a Bank of Nova Scotia advertisement. It made good sense to John so the next day he was at his nearest Scotiabank branch. He met the manager—explained his problem—and after a few quick questions about his job, income and how much money he needed John Tremblay breathed a sigh of relief.

IN 60 MINUTES John Tremblay knew he would have all the money he needed. Of course, this actual customer was not named John Tremblay—and not all Scotia Plan Loans take 60 minutes—the time varies with the circumstances.

But there are more and more people with all kinds of names and jobs coming to The Bank of Nova Scotia to have their money problems solved—quickly. Why don't you?

A SCOTIA PLAN LOAN is one of the best—most practical ways for you to consolidate your debts. Your loan is life-insured at no extra cost. You get speedy service. You get the other advantage of dealing with the interested Scotiabank people. So talk over your money problem—whatever it is—debt consolidation—a new car—with the people at your nearest Scotiabank. They're ready and waiting to help you. How much money do you need?

Good things are happening in Nova Scotia... from coast-to-coast in Canada! The Liberal Party promised that they would create 250,000 new jobs every year.

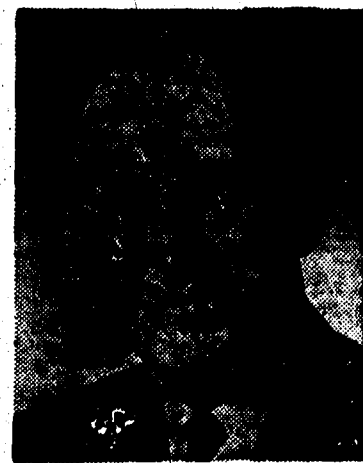

THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT HAS MORE THAN KEPT THAT PROMISE.

Today, in Canada, in Nova Scotia, people have more money to spend because there are more good jobs, better paying jobs and greater opportunities.

- Unemployment is at its lowest level in eight years.
- 548,000 new jobs have been created over the past 29 months by the Liberal Government.

GOOD THINGS ARE HAPPENING IN NOVA SCOTIA BECAUSE THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT CARED AND ACTED.

The Canada Pension Plan and its benefits

Here is what the Canada Pension Plan will do for people like Esther Meyer, a 50-year-old owner of a small store who makes $5,800 a year.

If Esther continues to earn this amount from her business until age 65, she and her husband, who is disabled and cannot work, can look forward to a retirement income of $104.17 from the Plan and $75 from Old Age Security—a total of $179.17 a month. When her husband receives Old Age Security, their income will be $254.17 a month.

Should Esther die anytime after 1967, having contributed until her death, her husband will receive a disabled widower's pension of $64.06 a month until he reaches age 65. At that time, or if he is already 65 when Esther dies, his pension under the Plan will be $62.50 a month plus $75 a month Old Age Security. On the death of his wife, Mr. Meyer will also be entitled to a lump sum payment of $500.

All benefits under the Plan will maintain their value. The actual benefits payable will probably be higher than those given here since benefits will be adjusted to meet changes in living costs and in wage levels before they are paid and changes in living costs after they become payable.

What will the Plan cost you?

If, like Esther, you have self-employed earnings of $5,800 a year, you will pay $158.40 a year which is 3.6% of $4,400, the maximum amount upon which contributions are payable. Payment will be in instalments in the same way you pay your income tax.

This advertisement is one of a series which relates some of the important benefits of the Canada Pension Plan to individual circumstances.

Issued by authority of the Minister of National Health and Welfare, Canada,
The Honourable Judy LaMarsh.

Recently Married

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized in the United Baptist Church, Bear River, when Rosamond Ferne Sabine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Sabine, of Bear River, and Peter Owen Jacob Hope, only son of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hope, of Dartmouth, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony performed by Rev. G. D. Brydon. The church was decorated with salmon pink and white gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of defustered French faille, designed on empire lines, having a softly fitted sheath skirt, scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. An edging of guipure lace marked the neckline, also the high waistline and continued on the border of the detachable, chapel length train. Her shoulder length, bouffant veil of illusion tulle was secured by a headpiece of rose petals and pearl sequins. Her bouquet was a white orchid, surrounded by a cascade of stephanotis and English ivy.

The matron of honour, Mrs. Robert Murray, Moncton, wore a deep apricot dress of crepe, the empire waistline accented by matching lace. The bridesmaid, Miss Ann Townsend, Wolfville, wore an identical dress of light apricot shade. Both wore matching open pill-boxes trimmed with pearls and carried cascade bouquets of tiny white and yellow carnations. Little Miss Jane Porter, of Bear River, was flower girl. Her dress was of coral and shrimp-colored flowers on white background with white lace accenting the empire waistline and wore a matching bow on her curls. She carried a basket of yellow and white carnations.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. David Williams, organist, and Mrs. Wellman Hawkes, soloist, both of Ipswich, Mass., and cousins of the bride. Mrs. Hawkes sang "Golden Day of Promise" before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The mother of the bride wore an empire style dress of silk crepe with overlace bodice of jade green with matching feathered hat and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. The mother of the groom was attired in an oyster shade silk brocade suit with matching feathered hat and a corsage of yellow shattered mums.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the IOOF Hall, where Mrs. Maye Townsend acted as official hostess and Mrs. Helen Burrage poured. The guest book was in the charge of Mrs. Robert Margeson.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Virginia and North Carolina. For travelling the bride wore a suit of Scotsplum tweed in deep turquoise with shadow stripes of claret, hat of deep turquoise velvet and black accessories. Her corsage was an orchid. On their return the couple will reside at 16 Benview Avenue, Dartmouth.

Out-of-town guests were from Dartmouth, Halifax, Bridgewater, Digby, Windsor, Lawrenceport, Moncton, Amherst, Sackville, Montreal and Massachusetts.

Weymouth Club Wins Rose Bowl

The Weymouth Garden Club held its monthly meeting at the home of the Misses Jessie and Madeline Comeau, Southville, with a large attendance.

The members were honored when Mr. R. S. Morton, provincial landscapist, informed them that Weymouth had won the N.S.A.G.C. rose bowl again this year for their project of beautification in the village. This is the second year in succession the group has won the trophy. Presentation of the NEWSPAPERBOY DAY, Saturday, Oct. 16, concludes National Newspaper Week with a tribute to the young men who deliver the papers.

Rehearsal Party

Mountain Gap Inn, Smith's Cove, was the scene of a delightful social event when a rehearsal party was held on the evening prior to the wedding of Miss Rosamond Sabine, Bear River, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sabine, to Peter Hope, of Dartmouth. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hope, parents of the groom.

Guests included the wedding party and relatives and friends from out-of-town who had arrived to attend the wedding the following day.

rose bowl will be made early in November.

Kenneth Beckwith, newly appointed Director for Western Nova Scotia Garden Clubs, commended the members on their fine project and gave an outline of the work he has planned for this area.

Mr. Morton showed slides of flower shows throughout Nova Scotia followed by slides of the Weymouth village garden taken when the project was first begun, up to its present state.

The secretary read a letter from Mrs. Russell Cosman granting them permission to beautify their corner lot at Weymouth North.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Ethel Shinner, and Mrs. Edgar Sabine presided at the tea service.

Tourist Season Good

Tourist Industry throughout the Annapolis Valley and the area covered by AVAHT for the summer '65 has been in excess of all anticipations. Hotels, motels, and service stations in most cases have reported a good increase throughout the Valley region and with 1966 prospects brighter still, some business men have plans under way for expansion in this industry in order to meet the full potential.

Registration at the 7 tourist bureaus throughout this area indicates that promotional efforts carried out by this organization in cooperation with the Province of N. S. have paid off. Windsor Bureau reports a total registration of 7,000, an increase of approximately 20% over 1964. Kentville Bureau reports a registration of 5,980, an increase of 7% over the previous year. The U.S. registration at the Kentville Bureau shows an increase of over 12% and registration from the United Kingdom shows a total of 33 tourists. This is encouraging indeed when one considers that the Kentville Tourist Bureau was by-passed throughout a great portion of the season, due to heavy construction on Highway 1. While figures are not available at the present time, Berwick Tourist Bureau reports a good increase during the month of July. Middleton Tourist Bureau registration remains the same as 1964, but Bridgetown is up 30% with a total registration over 5,000. Annapolis Royal Tourist Bureau shows a total of 4,200 for the season and Meteghan, in operation for the first summer, shows excellent progress. Early figures indicate that the Canadian National is handling more passengers than ever before within the Atlantic region. Commenting on this increase in traffic, H. C. Grayston, Atlantic Region Vice-President Canadian National, said, "This has been a record year for tourists so far and has boosted our passenger traffic." The Blue-nose Ferry operated by the C.N. between Yarmouth, N.S., and Bar Harbor, Maine, has had a 11% increase in passengers and a similar boost in vehicles during the month of July.

Introducing the tuned car. 1966 Buick.

What makes a car a car is styling, performance, braking and ride and handling. Only when they're all tuned together is the car a Buick.

Buick Riviera

Buick Skylark Sport Coupe

Buick Wildcat 4-Door Hardtop

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

We tuned the 1966 Buick. Not just the engine, but the whole car. We tuned all the elements. Like you would the instruments in an orchestra. And just as the tuned orchestra gives the effect of one-ness, the tuned car says blended perfection from bumper to bumper and road-line to roof-line.

Tuned Performance. We tuned Buick performance. Not just by increasing the efficiency of the six Buick engines, but by tuning everything that translates this power into activity. The transmission, the full coil suspension, the balanced drive-shaft, the brakes. All working together. All tuned.

Tuned Ride. We tuned the traditional Buick ride. And came up with something truly unique. Boulevard comfort with enough road-feel to let you know you're in charge. Then we added extra jolt-cushioning rubber to places that get a lot of pounding. The result is a very special kind of ride. A tuned ride.

Tuned Styling. We even tuned the way Buick looks. Possible? Look at any one of the Buicks. Every sweeping line and gentle curve suggests motion. Inside and out, the car has been designed to move. And to say so. Quietly. But emphatically. That's tuned styling.

Drive the 1966 Buick. Riviera, Electra 225, Wildcat, LeSabre, Skylark or Special Deluxe. They're all Buicks. All tuned cars. All tuned to you. Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

Be sure to watch "Telescope", "The Fugitive" and "The Red Skelton Hour" now showing on television. Check local listings for time and channel.

Somehow, last week, I misplaced that precious little book called Household Hints #2. It was one of ten little booklets I got once as a bonus for subscribing to a certain women's magazine. For two years it has been my household Bible. It is full of invaluable little tips on all sorts of things, but its most precious feature was that lovely timetable for household duties. If one followed it slavishly enough, not only did everything eventually get done, but one never had to think for oneself.

It was the loss of the little book which has prompted me to read, not only Household Hints #2, which does not have a timetable, but also all those little gems of household hints which get inserted into what would otherwise be empty spaces in magazines and newspapers. I have gleaned a whole new stock of simple procedures, most of them of such common sense that they are beyond my feeble brain power. I shall point with pride to the fact that I have made a few discoveries of my own, augmented lately by a move, and an unpredictable income.

Did you know, for instance, that if you line a leaky old wash tub with a plastic table cloth it is as efficient and water tight as new?

that a cookie sheet on top of your cracked drainboard tray makes a very efficient utensil? The cookie sheet prevents the water from leaking through the cracks, and the curved edges of the tray catch the drips, and leaves you with a good large space for your drainer.

that old diapers, washed and hung in the sun, make acceptable aprons, dust cloths, dish towels, and hand towels?

that the humble clothespin can be used as a clip for filing recipe clippings, unanswered letters, and sheafs of household hints like this?

that you can make a fine outdoor cooking stove from four large juice cans and the oven rack of your stove over a fire.

that if you have one of those insulated food chests for camping and picnics you can defrost the refrigerator any time? Load the chest with all the frozen foods and ice cubes. They will stay frozen for hours.

that if you chill candles in the refrigerator for twenty-four hours before your next party, they don't drip?

that rubber jar rings, looped around cupboard door knobs (when the knobs are side by side) make admirable locks against small fry?

that a heavy woolen sock with the toe filled with paste wax makes a better than average applicator? With very little pressure, wax flows smoothly and evenly through the knit.

that paste wax which has gone dry and crumbly can be restored if you sprinkle a teaspoon of turpentine over it, cover it tightly with the lid, and let it stand overnight?

that if you wax your floors only to within a foot of the baseboards and untravelled areas, the polisher will spread sufficient wax in these areas to make a shine, and wax build-up will be prevented?

that a small powder puff fits nicely into a shoe polish can, and makes a better and neater applicator than an old rag?

that if you leave a pan of ammonia in the oven overnight with the door tightly closed and the vent sealed, the dirt practically rinses off with warm water and soap in the morning?

Deep Brook

Back To Santa Domingo

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hirtle, Deep Brook have received word from their son, Stanley Bacon, that he has arrived in Santa Domingo safely from Nassau. Readers will remember the experience of Stanley, his wife, and two children when they were evacuated along with others last April during the revolution in Santa Domingo.

Since then, Stanley has been with the Bank of Nova Scotia at Woodstock, N. B. In August, he was sent to Nassau. His wife and two children have made their home with Mrs. Bacon's parents at Florenceville, N. B., but expect to be leaving for Santa Domingo the second week of October to join Mr. Bacon.

Things are not back to normal yet, as uprisings are daily reported in the news, wants to give you $500.00 CASH just for buying a WINTER-BUILT HOME

Once again, the Government of Canada is offering this special incentive to increase winter employment by encouraging the construction of Winter-Built houses. Any house certified "Winter-Built" by Federal government inspection will earn you a $500.00 rebate.

HERE'S HOW YOU QUALIFY

- You can build your own home
- You can have it built for you
- You can buy one ready-built
- It can be a single dwelling or multiple structure of not more than four units (each unit qualifies for the $500 incentive).
- Work must not proceed beyond the first floor joist stage before November 15, and the home must be completed before April 15, 1966, except for outside painting and site improvement.

HERE'S WHAT YOU DO

You can pick up a pamphlet containing full details, and registration forms at your National Employment Office, any Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation office, or in post offices where there are no N.E.S. or C.M.H.C. offices. Or, your builder can do this for you. You'll be in your new home by Spring... save rent... make yourself $500.00.

DO IT NOW! Have your home Winter-Built!

Handi-Van

NEW TORO-FLOW 4-CYCLE DIESEL ENGINES

Now diesel operational savings and long life are available for medium-duty applications. Toro-Flows give up to double the fuel mileage of similar gas-powered equipment, without the high initial cost usually associated with diesels.

NEW GASOLINE ENGINES

For 1966, a new in-line 6, a new V8 and 4 new V6 gasoline engines join the GMC line-up. Compact V6 block with short-stroke oversquare design cuts friction and heat loss to a minimum.

NEW 92" CONVENTIONAL CAB

Handsomely styled, GMC's new 92" BBC conventional cab features lap joints for great strength, reduction of moisture-holding nooks and crannies. Separate fender, hood, grille and side panels allow single-panel replacement or repair.

NEW MODELS

GMC's range of new engines, transmissions and differentials, and the new 92" conventional cab bring the total to 397 GMC models available for '66. GMC has been setting truck standards in Canada for close to thirty years. With this wider model line-up, GMC is an even better buy in '66.

Services At Hill Grove

Evangelistic services, which began in the Hill Grove United Baptist Church last Sunday night, have continued all week, and the closing service will be held next Sunday night.

Rev. L. R. Atkinson, Convention Evangelist, is delivering effective messages to attentive congregations.

Both the Junior and Senior Choirs are leading the singing at the services. At next Sunday night's service an all-men's choir will have charge of the music.

On Saturday evening young people of the Hill Grove and Acaciaville churches will form a combined choir with special music being given by the Acaciaville group.

At the service last Sunday night, the church was decorated with autumn leaves and many tokens of the harvest field were placed around the auditorium.

Mayor Supports Hallowe'en Party

Hallowe'en will soon be here. Once again the Lions Club is making preparations for their Hallowe'en party for the children of Digby.

The youth have always taken great interest in Hallowe'en and celebrate this occasion with enthusiasm. The senior citizens of our town, who in their turn have celebrated Hallowe'en, know the importance of this occasion to the children. They also know that unless the youngsters have organized entertainment this grand occasion can result in destruction of property.

The parents of the past generation held Hallowe'en parties at their homes; however, many were not invited to these parties. The Lions Club sponsoring a party for all children on such an occasion is indeed a worthy cause to be supported financially by the public. May this year's Hallowe'en party be bigger and better and an occasion for the children to remember.

Pearson In Halifax

National attention will be focused on Halifax, Friday, October 22, when Prime Minister Lester Pearson flies to the province to attend a provincial rally being held in his honor.

The Prime Minister will only make this one visit to Nova Scotia during the current election campaign; consequently, this rally has been arranged for all the federal constituencies.

The Halifax Forum has been reserved for the event. Mr. Pearson will be accompanied by his wife, members of his staff and the National Liberal Party and a corps of national press representatives.

It is expected that he will arrive during the afternoon of October 22 at the Halifax International Airport where he will be met by a delegation of candidates, party personnel and other interested persons.

The Prime Minister and his party will then travel to the Nova Scotian Hotel, where they will stay overnight.

The Provincial Welcome for Mr. Pearson will begin at 8:30 p.m. Catherine MacKinnon and Don Messer and his Islanders will provide entertainment prior to the Prime Minister's appearance at the arena. It is expected the Prime Minister will address the rally and the nation at approximately 9:15 p.m.

Delightful Bridge At Legion Headquarters

Mrs. Stuart MacNaughton and Mrs. Jack Rosenthal entertained their friends at eleven tables of bridge at the Digby Branch Canadian Legion headquarters, Shore Road, on Friday evening.

The ladies sat down to dinner at a table decorated with a centre of roses and chrysanthemums in reds and yellows and graced by yellow tapers. The attractive table displaying the wrapped prizes was centred with a bowl of mauve mums.

Prizes for the evening went to Mrs. Robert Bearne, high; Miss Colleen Campbell, 2nd; Mrs. W. L. Carson, low; Mrs. Sidney Smith, travelling; and Mrs. Glenn Smith, lucky.

Apple Day

Saturday, October 23, will be Apple Day for the Boy Scouts and Cubs of Digby.

Scouts will be selling on Friday night on the main street, and on Saturday morning the Cubs will be selling on the main street and also calling at the homes of the town and surrounding country.

Girls Net $56.00 From Car Wash

All youth groups in the Baptist Church of Digby have enrolments, in some cases, larger than ever before.

Scoutmaster Donald Brown leads a troop of about 28 boys, and many boys have also enrolled in the Cubs under the leadership of Bernard Bell.

The C.G.I.T. organization has had to divide into two groups this season, the Senior group under the leadership of Mrs. Russell Harris, and the Intermediate group under the leadership of Mrs. Amelia Whalley.

On last Saturday, the Senior C.G.I.T. group conducted a "Car-Wash" project at Amero's Service Station in Conway. The girls had a busy day and netted about $56.00 from their efforts.

The Baptist Youth Fellowship group meets again this coming Sunday night and will elect a new slate of officers.

Want Weymouth Bridge Replaced

Charles Haliburton, Digby, conducted the business dealings with the resolutions placed before the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade Annual meeting held in Kentville on Saturday.

Eleven resolutions placed before the Boards were passed. One dealt with a bridge to replace the outmoded one-way bridge across the Sissiboo River in the village of Weymouth. The government will be asked to replace the bridge immediately.

A resolution was passed asking that the government bring up to standard highway one from Annapolis Royal to Bridgetown as tourists are more likely to follow route 1 rather than route 1A.

The Digby Board of Trade resolution regarding improvements in facilities at the Digby fishermen's wharf was passed. Discussion centered around whether the resolution was answered by the announcement last week that the federal government was to spend approximately $1,000,000 on the Digby Wharf during a two year period. Arguments were that this was only enough to repair the wharf and provide for the immediate but did not make any (Please turn to page 7)

Maurine Arnold Worthy Matron

A number of distinguished guests were present on Thursday evening when the annual Installation of Officers of St. Mary's Chapter, No. 35, O.E.S., took place.

The meeting was presided over by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Beatrice Height, who welcomed P.G.M. Maude Layton, P.G.M. Annie Horton, Grand Organist Florence MacConnell, P.G.P. Douglas Horton, P.G.P. Joseph Steadman, P.G.P. J. A. Ruffee and Grand Associate Patron Winthrop Doty, as well as several Past Matrons and Past Patrons and Worthy Matrons and Worthy Patrons of visiting chapters.

The annual reports were given by conveners of committees and routine business dealt with.

The Worthy Matron, Beatrice Height, and Worthy Patron, Benjamin Height, were presented with a gift from their officers by Associate Matron, Maurine Arnold.

Mrs. Eva Wendell was also presented with a gift by the Worthy Matron in appreciation of her outstanding work in the chapter during the last several years. Mrs. Wendell has recently moved to Wolfville, and will be greatly missed in Eastern Star activities at St. Mary's Chapter.

After a brief recess the Installation of Officers took place with P.G.M. Annie Horton, of Keystone Chapter, No. 5, as Installing Officer, assisted by P.G.M. Maude Layton, of Port Royal Chapter, No. 1, and P.G.P. Douglas Horton, also of Keystone Chapter. Past Matron Louise Whitman acted as Chaplain during the Installation with Edith Gould, P.M., taking the office of Installing Marshal, Josephine Ruffee, P.M., Installing Warden, and P.P. Gilman as Installing Sentinel. Mrs. Eleanor Hankinson was Musician during the service and Miss Carolyn Arnold was soloist.

The officers for 1965-1966 are as follows:

W.M., Maurine Arnold; W.P., John Wightman, P.P.; A.M., Beatrice Height, P.M.; A.P., Benjamin Height, P.P.; Secretary, Ruby M. Roope, P.M.; Treasurer, Pauline Brooks; Chaplain, Barbara Weir, P.M.; Marshal, Isabelle Harris, P.M.; Conductress, Jean Olsen, P.M.; Associate Conductress, Winnifred Brittain; Organist, Frances Wallis; Adah, May Rice; Ruth, Vivian Irving; Esther, Alvie Kinney; Martha, Delma MacLean; Electa, Janet Wightman; Warden, Daisy Ruggles; Sentinel, LeRoy Brooks.

After brief remarks by several of the visitors, congratulating the outgoing Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron, and their officers for the work accomplished during the year, and extending best wishes to the newly installed Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron and officers, the meeting closed, and a social hour followed.

Comeau To Stand Trial On Capital Murder Charge

Robert Randall Comeau, 20-year-old Digby native, has been committed to stand trial by Supreme Court judge and jury on a charge of capital murder.

The preliminary hearing into the murder of 16-year-old Thais Marie Haskins, of Halifax, last July 28, ended Tuesday in Yarmouth. Comeau was remanded to the Yarmouth County Jail to await trial. The next sitting of the Supreme Court is scheduled for April.

RCMP Corporal Gerald Howard, in charge of the Yarmouth detachment, gave evidence at the preliminary hearing. Police interviewed 280 of the 300 people who attended a dance in Yarmouth the night Miss Haskins was murdered, before they questioned Comeau, the court was told.

The 26th and final witness in the case was Arthur Everett, of Digby, uncle of the accused, who said he had several conversations with Comeau at the Yarmouth jail. He said he sought psychiatric help for his nephew.

When evidence had been completed, Magistrate C. R. Rand read the charge to the accused and asked him if there was anything he wished to say. Comeau replied: "I have nothing to say at this time." The defence did not offer any evidence.

In summing up for the crown James D. Reardon reviewed the events following the finding of the girl's body as related to in evidence and asked for commitment of the accused on capital murder as charged.

Philip R. Woolaver, counsel for the defence, said that from his general observation the direct evidence was extremely weak with many holes in it, and on the other hand the indirect evidence was very strong. There was no evidence that the accused had been on the scene, he said, and recalled that several young people had testified that a burly man accompanied the girl across the street. He said that no blood had been found on the sweater allegedly owned by the accused. He submitted that the evidence was largely circumstantial.

Magistrate Rand pointed out that this was not a trial but merely an inquiry to determine whether there was evidence that could lead reasonable men to believe that Comeau had killed the Haskins girl. He said there were conflicting stories but it was not for the magistrate to weigh the difference in those stories. He felt the Crown had established a prima facie case.

Mental Health Campaign Still Far From Goal

With only a few of the county communities yet reporting, returns in the 1965 fund raising campaign of the Digby County Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association totalled at the beginning of the week some $400.00.

Branch officials acknowledge this is far short of the minimum campaign objective of $3,000 but state they are hopeful this objective will be reached by the campaign's end at the end of October.

The need for the branch to meet at least its minimum campaign objective in this fund raising drive is being stressed. It is stated that this is essential if the work of the branch is to continue. Volunteers who comprise the working members of the branch executive state it will be impossible to continue if public support is not forthcoming.

Included in the projects for which the Digby County Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association is responsible is the support of the Digby Community Mental Health Centre. The branch is responsible for provision of the centre quarters, light, heat, secretarial supplies, janitoring and other needs of the centre. Salaries of the professional staff are met through the department of health.

The Digby Community Mental Health Centre provides without charge psychiatric treatment to persons throughout the county who are suffering from mental illness or emotional disturbance. Other services such as counselling and guidance, psychological testing, child guidance and family counselling are also provided by the Community Mental Health Centre free of charge to the people of the area.

The services of the mental health centre are available to everyone and it is not necessary that a person, wishing to avail himself of these services, need to be referred to the centre by anyone. In some cases, however, persons who are experiencing difficulties with which they find it hard to cope, are referred by doctor (Please turn to page 7)

George Turner Nominated NDP For D-A-K

George Turner, 38-year-old D.A.R. conductor, of Kentville, was nominated as a New Democratic Party candidate for the D-A-K riding in the forthcoming federal election. He was nominated at a meeting held on Saturday evening in the IOOF Hall, Kingston.

Prof. Glen Tiltson, Wolfville, chaired the only NDP meeting held in the Valley to date.

Cecil Pineo introduced the guest speaker, Prof. James Atchison, Halifax, acting leader of NDP for Nova Scotia.

Mr. Turner is well known in the Valley area, having been a candidate in the last provincial election for Kings North. He is also chairman of Blue-nose Lodge #723 of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and takes an active part in activities of Kentville Baptist Church (including member of choir).

Ray Gilman, Secretary and Provincial Organizer, of Yarmouth and Halifax, was also present.

Professor Atchison attacked "out of date" aviation restriction clauses in some insurance contracts and some of the undesirable and "stupid" airforce regulations.

Prof. Atchison said the NDP was committed to making equalization payments on the basis of all tax revenues rather than merely on income taxes to end once and for all the tin cup approach to Ottawa by Nova Scotia and the bits-and-pieces response by Ottawa during elections.

In agriculture, he said, the NDP program called for long term loans at low interest for farm improvement and land purchase, a system of federal producer marketing board which would act as a coordinator of the work of provincial producer marketing boards, and establishment of a national free school milk program.

Without the old CCF and its successor, the NDP, there would not have been hospital insurance, the old age pension would not be what it was today and there wouldn't have been Medicare. The NDP was committed to fiscal equity — which would mean about $50 million more a year from Ottawa to Nova Scotia — and required a spokesman from the Maritimes to push it.

The CBC-TV program Telescope will feature a film on Mrs. Everett (Maude) Lewis, Marshalltown, on November 25, it has been learned.

Mrs. Lewis is Digby's noted amateur artist who works in primitive style of art from her home about four miles from Digby.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will be featured on the program as well as a few residents of the surrounding area and throughout the province.

Entertain At Luncheon

Marla Motel, Montague Row, in Digby, was the scene of a delightful luncheon on Saturday when Miss Margaret Leonard and Miss Henrietta Herkes entertained about twenty-five friends.

Sharp In Digby Last Wednesday

Highlight of the address given by Hon. Mitchell Sharp, Minister of Trade, to the Digby Liberal Rally audience last week was the announcement of a million dollar program of improvement to the fishing harbour and fishermen's wharf at Digby. The project according to Mr. Sharp could extend into a two year program. It would include dredging a channel approach and enlarging the mooring area for boats; it would provide approximately 18,000 square feet of deck on a marginal wharf to be built, extension of the spur pier by about 150 feet and construction of a new finger pier 320 feet long.

Mr. Sharp was in Digby in support of John E. Shaffner, the Liberal candidate for Digby-Annapolis-Kings in the November 8th election. Mr. Shaffner in his address said that a causeway across Petite Passage from East Ferry to Tiverton was worthy of careful study. He said he would not promise a causeway, but he would work to that end and stated that checking tidal action in the channel by gauges is a move made by the federal government already.

Red Cross Plans Regional Meet

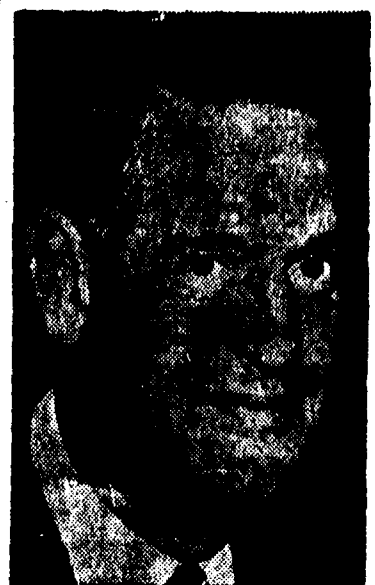

Highlights from the Red Cross Annual Meeting of the Nova Scotia Division, held in Halifax in September, were reported to the October business meeting of the Digby Branch by Mrs. George Winfield who, together with Mrs. Daniel Comeau, served as a Branch delegate. Of local interest was the fact that eight quilts made by the Digby Branch were included in the Women's Work display at the Lord Nelson Hotel, almost all of which were pieced by Digby's outstanding worker, Mrs. Oscar VanTassel. Another item of interest to the Digby representatives was a panel on Home Nursing chaired by Miss Rita Myers, R.N., who is well known in Digby as a former Victorian Order nurse stationed here for a number of years. An unusual feature of the meeting was a telephone conversation via "Early Bird" satellite between the National Commissioner, General Winch, speaking from an International Red Cross meeting in Vienna, Austria, and the N.S. Division President, Robert Matheson, which was amplified for the benefit of the entire luncheon audience. Mrs. Winfield concluded by reporting the election of Digby Branch President, Mrs. R. B. Lent, to the Division Executive, also the re-election of Dr. T. W. Hodgson as an Honorary Vice-President and Mrs. H. M. Warne as a member of the Nominating Committee for 1966.

The Digby Branch meeting was presided over by the President, Mrs. Lent, with the secretary's and treasurer's reports (Please turn to page 7)

Gives President's Address

Emanuel Adelaar, Weymouth, retiring president of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade, after two years of service in that capacity, gave a review of the organizations 1964-65 accomplishments at the annual meeting in Kentville on Saturday. Fifty thousand brochures had been procured and 30,000 had been distributed.

One of the highlights of the year was the tourist promotional campaign to Boston when press, radio and T.V. helped to publicize the Annapolis Valley. Mr. Adelaar said he felt the Department of Trade and Industry do not entirely approve of what AVABT has done and he thinks they feel the AVABT has gone beyond limits in which the Board should operate. Instead Mr. Adelaar suggested that efforts be increased. He did admit that the program of 1964-65 had caused a tremendous strain on finances and the A.V.A.B.T. was operating in the red. If the A.V.A.B.T. is to continue work along the same line, Mr. Adelaar said, then it has to raise $4,000 annually from private industry besides the grants from the municipalities. Also he felt that the provincial government should contribute $2 to every $1 contributed on the local level.

On the subject of industry, Mr. Adelaar said he felt it was not the task of A.V.A.B.T. to bring industry to the area but that it is their task to create a favorable climate in housing, water, sewage etc.

Mr. Adelaar urged the members to take part in all levels of government from local to federal. He also urged active support of Boards of Trade on the local level.

He had high praise for Lloyd Hill, the executive secretary.

Mr. Hill also reviewed the work done by the A.V.A.B.T. during the year. Mr. Hill said that the brochures would be continued next year with the addition of 5000 in the French language. Plans are to endeavour to extend the tourist season from June to October. Radio programs will be continued and audiences in Quebec, Ontario and West Indies will be added. A hospitality conference is planned. Co-operation with the Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival is to be sought. A committee on agriculture has been set up to see what can be done to expand the area.

Projects in which the A.V.A.B.T. have been interested in the past year, Mr. Hill said, were all-weather highway from Halifax to Yarmouth; avoidance of D.A.R. passenger curtailment; Saint John - Digby improved ferry service; wharf at Annapolis Royal; telephone communications at Clare; adequate water supply for fish processors, surf fishing, correction of water pollution and other projects. He mentioned the air chart-

Licked Before We Start

We are licked before we start if we think we can do without God, John J. McCarthy said when addressing the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade at Kentville on Saturday. Mr. McCarthy, Commissioner of Administration Commonwealth of Massachusetts, was speaking at the dinner in connection with the annual meeting of AVABT and giving pointers on establishing an economic future for the Valley.

Don't build around only one business — tourism — said the speaker. Attract manufacturing too, he said. One plant employing 200 brings $1,000,000, he commented, and then asked the question, "How many tourists would you have to bring for one million dollars?"

However, Mr. McCarthy was not adverse to tourism and advised the AVABT to keep the tourists coming. He urged more advertising. Using brochures is the only way to get the people here, he said. Other suggestions to advance tourism were to go further than the New England States — go into Philadelphia in Pennsylvania and into New Jersey. Keep the tourists in the Valley longer than from June to September. He suggested a Micmac Trail from Yarmouth to Sydney. Use imagination and don't be bound down by the past.

Push Nova Scotia for the land of the retiring. Retired people ask for nothing, they make no demands. They can be used as consultants, the speaker advised.

Plan tours for key business men, Mr. McCarthy said, but not just to show them the scenic value of the Valley. Tell them about tax abatements, training programs, markets, power, water. Develop a book on industrial potential, he told the Board members. Nova Scotia is a land of business opportunities. Invest in the future. Explore possibilities of surplus ships. He ended his points of advice by saying "you can't do it on your own. It is a fatal mistake to say. We are licked before we start if we think we can do without Him."

In speaking of the image produced by Canada, what people outside see in the people in Canada, Mr. McCarthy said that most don't see us at all or they think Nova Scotia is an island of fishing hamlets in the ocean. Manufacturers think of Nova Scotia as a small but beautiful island with high tides, a sleepy vacation land, frozen over in winter; because the image for tourists is perpetuated but not one for industry.

Speaking of the phases which Nova Scotia and New England have in common, Mr. McCarthy cited the Anglo Saxon of law and justice; heritage; stable government and dislike for irresponsible government; population background; ethnic groups; language; brand of humor; climate; proximity to one another; mutual need for tourism; each the other's largest customer; moved away from main industry fishing; both enjoy a high level of disposable income and more jobs needed in each country.

Mr. McCarthy was introduced by retiring president Emanuel Adelaar, Weymouth, and thanked by the newly elected president, Colin Stephens, Windsor.

David Tizzard, Kentville, presided over the dinner. Mayor Lindsay welcomed the guests. Mr. Adelaar presented the speaker with a gift and Bruce MacKenzie, Middleton, presented the retiring president with a gift. Among the head table guests were Mrs. Adelaar, Mrs. Gladys Porter, M.L.A., Mrs. McCarthy and Mrs. Stephens.

Diefenbaker Comes To Digby

Hon. John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative leader and former Prime Minister of Canada, will be speaking in Digby on the evening of October 30, it has just been announced.

The Hon. Mr. Diefenbaker will arrive by train at 6:15 p.m. from Yarmouth after a speaking engagement there in the afternoon.

Details of time and other speakers are to be announced later, it is understood. Progressive Conservative candidate for Digby - Annapolis - Kings constituency will be present also and address the audience.

Crusade Meetings Closed

The series of Evangelistic Crusade meetings held in the Hill Grove Baptist Church were brought to a close last Sunday night with a capacity congregation filling the pews. Rev. L. R. Atkinson brought his final message to the congregation, calling for the dedication of Christians to the service of Christ, and inviting men and women to respond to the challenge of Jesus for their lives.

An all-men's choir had charge of the service, and a solo was sung by Kenneth Keysall.

On the previous evening a united choir, which included the young people of the Hill Grove and Acaciaville churches led in the singing. The Acaciaville choir sang two spirituals.

The meetings were fruitful in the number of decisions made by young people to share in the Christian life and experience and the great number of church members who came forward for re-dedication.

The pastor, Rev. H. S. Hartlin, expressed his thanks and appreciation for the fine cooperation throughout the services given by the congregation, and the valuable assistance of the senior and junior choirs of the church, the organist, Mrs. Darcy Roope, and the effective leadership and efforts of Mr. Atkinson.

Contract Trout Cove Wharf Repairs

A $62,980 contract has been awarded to Mosher and Rawling Limited, of Liverpool, N. S., for repairs to a breakwater at Trout Cove, Digby County, N. S., Public Works Minister George J. McIlraith announced Saturday.

The successful bid was the lowest of four. High tender was $74,350.

Repairs to the L-shaped structure, known as the East Breakwater, will include replacement of the stone mound along the seaward side of the 263-foot ell to provide better protection for the harbor, improvements to the fendering system along the harbor face of the ell and replacement of the timber deck on the 400-foot stem of the breakwater.

Plans and specifications for the project were prepared in the office of the District Engineer for the Federal Department of Public Works at Halifax.

About This And That

Civic Election Important Too

We think the Digby Board of Trade made a good move last week when it urged the civic committee of the board to spark some interest in a civic election here this fall. Civic elections, as you know, for the past few years, seem to have lacked interest. This year the complacency could even be worse with a federal election on November 8 to overshadow the concern for government on the lower level. Certainly, while the federal election and its issues are important matters to every Canadian, there are other matters which come very close to home and which need competent attention from leaders, too. There are streets, lights, water, garbage, sewage, fire, police, education and a score of other issues so vitally important for the economic progress and general welfare of the small town.

Think on this for there is now little more than a month left until civic nominations are to be in. E. Sangster and his committee will need your help to round up some good and efficient candidates. And, remember, beginning this year, the candidates must give their consent. This, we feel, is a far better and more dignified method than used previously in railroading councillors in office against their wishes. So let us treat civic government with the respect it demands. Approach people with the dignity that the office of a mayor or a councillor merits.

There are some able men on the Digby town council whose terms expire this year. Mayor C. D. Snow is one. Mayor Snow was really being only initiated into town politics when he assumed the office of mayor. His experience for the past two years should stand him in good stead for another term. Then there are deputy mayor D. E. Lewis, councillor Ralph McIntyre and Charles Haliburton, who have acquired considerable knowledge of town affairs by this time.

There is no reason why any or all of these men should not re-offer. And, if they do re-offer, we doubt if any one of them would object to competition by election. We've met people who were willing to serve so long as they did not have to face an election. We well know that there are others who would rather run an election and then, if successful, feel confident that he or she is the person the people of the town wanted to serve them.

There's a town election coming in December. Now is the time to prepare. The federal election is important. Don't forget it. But also do not forget that elections on the lower level of governments are important too.

"We Do" And Not "We Do Not"

For want of a nail, the shoe was lost. For want of a shoe, the horse was lost. . . But forget all that. There wasn't one earthly thing wanting in the original manuscript for last week's editorial on Expo '67. To be technical there really wasn't anything wanting in the finished product. Just the reverse. All that was amiss was simply one little stray three letter word "not" which made its appearance right out of the blue after a complete run of 3500.

The heck with the shoe and the horse at such a time as that. Oh, for the want of that three letter word "not" to make our point, at least, reasonably clear.

"Printer's devils," a thing of the past? There just gotta be some around somewhere to do a trick like that. We do want to bring the merits of such a project as Expo '67 to the attention of our readers and not "We do not."

Would You Believe It?

"The spoken word hits the ear, and is gone. The television image strikes the eye, and is gone. The printed picture and the printed name linger on." So said an American newspaper man.

Numerous authentic surveys indicate that an average of 4 persons read every copy of every weekly newspaper, which means The Digby Courier is read by about 13,200 persons each week. The average length of time each copy is kept around the house is two weeks. Each copy is picked up and looked over by each reader an average of three times, which means that the Couriers are looked at 39,600 times each week. The average length of time each reader spends with each copy of his hometown newspaper is fifty minutes. The Couriers each week are in the hands of people for 660,000 minutes or 11,000 hours, according to surveys. Would you believe it?

Besides, take your time and relax. If your weekly paper can't be read today it will be there for you tomorrow.

In every age, I suppose, the pessimists and the romanticists have wished that they lived in another time in history. We know from documentary evidence that in the eyes of the two hundred and fifty older generations, the two hundred and fifty younger generations of the past five thousand years have been going straight down the road to the everlasting bonfire. To the pessimists and romanticists, through the ages, morals have steadily gotten worse, and people have steadily become more afraid of work, more fond of the soft life, and less and less happy the further we move from the idyllic shepherd and maiden settings of mythology, up the ladder of progress.

I am religiously pessimistic, and incurably romantic. I would give my heart to turn the calendar back to some point in the romantic past. Not only, like everybody else, romanticist, pessimist, or practical humanitarian, would I like to turn the clock back to a day before the nuclear bomb hung over our lives, but I would like to turn back to a day when there were fewer people.

I do like people. Among the warring facets of my schizophrenic nature is a deep love for the city, and a sense of reverence for the country. I would like to have lived in a time when there were more people living in the country than in the cities, when each country family could provide itself, and some family in the remote city, with food. I would like to have lived in a time when every morning that we got up, we would not know that when we got up the following morning there would be enough new people in the world to populate several large cities.

I would like to have lived in an age when we did not worry about "progress." If I could turn time back, I would turn it to a time when there was no MacTaqac Power Project threatening to bring prosperity and desolation to the Saint John River. It would be nice to have lived in a day when one walked in Point Pleasant Park, or through any wooded area, or country spot in the province, that we would not have to wonder how long this little space can stand against the encroachments of industrial development, or suburban housing projects. I would like to have lived in a time when it would have been inconceivable to think that one day we human beings might have crowded the animals off the face of the earth, or poisoned them with out insecticides. There was a time when the creation of life in a test tube lay only in the fantasy of science fiction authors. I wish it were not so close to not being science fiction.

There was a time, so I've been told, when our beauty spots were not littered with either garbage or neon signs, when the fresh water supply on this continent was not dwindling at an alarming rate, and when annual model changes and built in obsolescence did not threaten the world's very resources. There was a time before billboards, and automobile graveyards, and piles of washing machines which wear out, but cannot disintegrate, when we returned milk bottles and pop bottles, and put pickles and jams in store bought bottles instead of throwing away cans and plastic containers. In those days, this land was so big that we thought there was too much to ruin. Now, our technological know-how and ingenuity has taught us all sorts of ways. I wonder, if some day, when we have chased dollars and progress as far as they can go, if we will find that the value of the unspoiled wilderness was greater than the resources we took from it.

But I do not have a time machine, and time cannot be turned back. In any case, if we could, where would we turn it? Not to any time in this century, knowing what it had in store, surely. My romanticism does embrace airplanes, and indoor plumbing, recorded music, the comparative freedom from disease which we enjoy in this age. And there is my schizophrenia again. It is this freedom from disease which is in large part responsible for the population explosion.

Just a little closing thought. I would credit the author, but I'm not altogether sure who he is. I just read it somewhere.

I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.
Indeed, unless the billboards fall,
I may never see a tree at all.

District W.I. Rally Held At Bear River

The annual Fall Rally of the Digby District of the W.I.N.S. was held in Bear River on October 6th in the IOOF Hall, with sessions in the afternoon and evening.

Representatives from the five branches were present and over fifty members and guests gathered in the hall, which was decorated with beautiful fall flowers from the local gardens. A varied array of handiwork was on display with over sixty articles on view on the tables. These comprised hooked rugs, braided rugs, knitted articles, copper work, aluminum work, quilts, paintings by local artists, afghans, petit point, hand drawn work in linen sheets, etc., silver work, blanket toys, Indian baskets, luncheon sets, and a hand carved tray and table. The Hill 'n Dale Garden Club had three exhibits. Mrs. George Oickle, who headed the committee for the display table, expressed her great appreciation of the co-operation of all the ladies of the community. Miss Janet Walker, Home Economist with the Department of Agriculture, spoke of the excellent display with its wide diversification of subject matter.

The afternoon session opened at 3:30 p.m. with the District President, Mrs. Elie Comeau, of Meteghan River, in the chair. Mrs. Mary Barton, of Acaciaville, was appointed Secretary pro tem. due to the absence of Mrs. Bernie Saulnier, the Secretary-Treasurer. After the regular opening exercises the address of welcome was given by Mrs. A. G. MacIntyre, President of the Bear River Institute, and Mrs. Edmond Robichaud, of Meteghan, replied.

Mrs. Elie Comeau spoke briefly on the work of the past year. The minutes of the 1964 Rally at Acaciaville, and the minutes of the Spring District Executive meeting were read, followed by Roll Call, and reports from each branch, given by the Junior Representative: Acaciaville - 10 members present - Jr. Rep. Mrs. Eva Cromwell; Bear River - 20 members present - Jr. Rep. Mrs. Ronald Purdy; Meteghan - 3 members present - Jr. Rep. Mrs. Joseph Sullivan; Meteghan River and Lower Saulnierville - 5 members present - Jr. Rep. Mrs. Alex Deveau; Smith's Cove - 4 members present - Jr. Rep. Mrs. Avon Sanford.

A quiz on general knowledge was then put on by the Lower Saulnierville Institute, with Mrs. Elinor Elms, of Acaciaville, answering 17 of the 20 questions correctly.

Mrs. Howard Cress, of Bear River, then gave a demonstration on Drawn Work - one of our oldest of hand works - and which is one of the W.I. projects for the year.

Mrs. Florence Hickey, Supt. of W.I.N.S., Truro, N. S., and Mrs. William Phillips, of Port Morien, C. B., who is the new Provincial President of W.I.N.S., were introduced by Mrs. Willis Buckler and gave interesting addresses. A nominating committee was appointed: Mrs. A. G. MacIntyre, Mrs. Gordon Landers, and Mrs. Elinor Elms, to bring in a report to the evening session, and the meeting adjourned for the supper hour. Long tables had been set up, which accommodated fifty people and the supper hour passed pleasantly with the hostess Institute serving.

The evening session opened with group singing by the Acaciaville Institute, followed by readings by Mrs. Elinor Elms and Mrs. Ellen Barton.

The report of the nominating committee was accepted as follows: District President - Mrs. John Harris, Bear River; Vice-President - Mrs. Elinor Elms, Acaciaville; Secretary-Treasurer - Mrs. J. A. MacLean, Smith's Cove. The financial report was given by Mrs. Barton and a District Committee was appointed to meet with Miss Walker to arrange for work-shops and demonstrations - Mrs. Elie Comeau, Mrs. Edmond Comeau, Mrs. Ronald Purdy and Mrs. Eva Cromwell. Mrs. Phillips, Provincial President, spoke briefly, followed by Miss Janet Walker, who referred to various projects for the year's work. Mrs. Conrad Inglis, of Tupperville, who is the area representative, addressed the members. Miss Mildred Roehling, a member of the Bear River W.I., then gave a most interesting account of her visit during the

Marriages Wyatt-Purden - Hird

Berwick United Church was the scene of a pretty fall wedding, Saturday, October 2 at 3 p.m., when Marilyn Joyce Hird, RN, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hird, Garland, became the bride of LAC Douglas Wyatt-Purden, RCAF Greenwood, youngest son of Mrs. Bernard Cherry and the late Mr. H. Wyatt-Purden, of Pemberton, B. C. Rev. Eric Pace performed the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with baskets of gold and white chrysanthemums and the guests' pews were marked with gold and white mums and white satin ribbon bows. Mrs. Lorne Huber, Berwick, played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie. The fitted bodice featured a round neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. The bell-shaped skirt was made with a detachable cummerbund of ornamental lace and matching train. Her waist-length veil of tulle illusion fell from a wedding ring headpiece of white peau de soie. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white button mums.

Mrs. Clarke Nichols, Somerset, was maid of honor, and Miss Judy Foster, Windermere, was bridesmaid. They both wore identical floor-length gowns of gold peau de soie, with matching headresses and carried cascade bouquets of bronze and white mums.

LAC James Herring, RCAF Greenwood, was best man. Ushers were LAC Leigh Kent and LAC John Hughes, both of the RCAF, Greenwood.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the IOOF Hall, Berwick, when the parents of the bride, and the mother of the groom received with the bridal party.

The bride's mother, the former Elsie Denton of Centreville, Digby County, wore a two-piece powder blue linen dress, lace jacket with matching accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The groom's mother wore a beige lace dress with matching accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Luncheon was served by the Anne Foster Hospital Auxiliary, who catered.

Rev. Eric Pace proposed the toast to the bride, which was responded to by the groom.

Mrs. Earle Kinsman, Welsford, was in charge of the serving and also served the bridal party. Others serving were Misses Jean Patterson, Joyce Saltzman, Charlotte Brydon and Mrs. L. R. Schaffner.

After the reception, the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to the United States. The bride is a registered nurse, and has been on the staff of Western Kings Memorial Hospital, Berwick, for the past two years.

The groom is with the RCAF stationed at Greenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt-Purden will reside in Berwick.

Out of town guests were from British Columbia, Digby, Wolfville and Greenwood.

Hillgrove

Mrs. Lida Purdy of Bear River visited for a few days recently with Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Murley, Miss Doris Murley, Bruce Murley, Mr. and Mrs. John Roope and daughter Sheila spent the weekend in Glace Bay, where they attended the wedding of John Murley and Miss Judith MacLeod which was held in Knox United Church, Glace Bay on Saturday, October 9th at 11 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Lowery of Dartmouth and Miss Velva Franklin of Halifax were weekend visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Franklin. From Halifax for the Thanksgiving weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Conrad and family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Porter. Mr. Larry Goodwin at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Foster and Benjamin Marshall Jr. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Marshall.

Mr. Chester Rice of Truro spent the holiday weekend at the home of his mother, Mrs. Vernon Rice.

Mr. and Mrs. Ceol Murley accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd MacNeill were visitors to the South Shore on Sunday.

Drive Carefully!

past winter with her sister, who lives in South Africa, which was greatly enjoyed.

District allotments were then paid and a vote of thanks proposed by Mrs. MacLean. Refreshments were served by the Hostess Institute after the business session concluded.

There were forty-three members present and twelve guests.

Observes Rally Day

Rally Day was observed at the Westport United Baptist Vestry recently. The theme was "Why the Church Teaches" with the superintendent, Mrs. Earl Webber, in charge. Mrs. Albert Bailey was pianist. There were 60 present.

The meeting opened with Psalm 100, and invocation. The primary children sang "Jesus Loves Me", Junior girls gave two members in song. Scripture was read by Brian Lent and Freda Robicheau and prayer led by Mrs. E. Webber.

A story "Children of the Light" was read by Mrs. George Kenney and was about living at a little house.

Welcome Mrs. Ambrose

The October meeting of the Westport Christian Fellowship met at the home of Mrs. Edgar McDormand. The group opened with the C.W.F. prayer and the devotional followed led by Mrs. E. McDormand, theme "Called to be Servants of God". Circle of prayer was led by Mrs. Ambrose. During the business period Mrs. Edgar McDormand gave a report of the convention held recently at Saint John. She also welcomed to the group Mrs. Ambrose, the new pastor's wife.

Bible study with Mrs. Albert Welch was on a new study book "The Word with Power". An interesting discussion followed.

Mission study with Mrs. Harold Swift was on the Congo. People don't understand real reason for independence, she said, the church has an important role to bring people from primitive background. The future of the church in the Congo rests with its youth, more education for women and children, better teachers and preachers are needed, she continued.

ment, clergymen, health and welfare workers, teachers and others to whom they may have need for aid.

The Digby Community Mental Health Centre also provides free of charge, counselling service to groups, organizations and individuals in the fields of public health, welfare, religion and in other fields. Study and discussion sessions are held at the centre during which specialists in various fields meet with local workers to help them in dealing with problems which they face in their day to day activities.

In addition to this, personnel at the centre assist the department of health, department of health, local doctors and others through examinations, tests, consultation and in other ways. Centre personnel are also available to local groups, organizations and agencies interested in public welfare of any kind for assistance and advice.

During the past year the Digby Community Mental Health Centre provided psychiatric counselling and treatment to some 250 patients. Of this number about 160 were new cases while some 90 were carried over from the previous year. A total of close to 900 psychiatric interviews were held with individual patients during the year. In addition some 280 persons were given counselling and help by the social worker and the clinical psychologist worked with a total of some 190 persons.

All of the work done by the centre was provided for the persons concerned entirely free of charge. In addition, where necessary, drugs were dispensed to patients under the provincial plan which makes certain drugs available to patients of community mental health centres on a sliding wholesale cost level ranging from no cost to patients earning $25.00 or less per week, to full wholesale cost for those earning in excess of $60.00 weekly but less than $3,600 a year. Above this figure patients needing drugs are given prescriptions but the drugs are not supplied through the centre. There is no charge for dispensing or prescriptions.

SHARP IN DIGBY

Mr. Shaffner said that agriculture should have a more dominant part in the industrial life of Digby and that fishermen were not attaining the income they ought to from the fishing industry. The fishing industry in Digby, he said, must have fully adequate port facilities for the present needs and also for fisheries development. He said he will fight for the fishermen to be able to operate more efficiently than they are today.

Mr. Sharp in a more general view of the election program said that what Canada needs is a stable government free from the threat of an election. He said that the people did not want a Diefenbaker government and also the people were losing confidence in the splinter parties which were a nuisance and were uncertain. He felt the people wanted a Pearson government because of its past performance. When Mr. Pearson took over, Mr. Sharp said, he had to repair the damage of the previous government. The economy had been stagnant, he said, but now it is rising and every year exceeded its goals as laid down by the Economic Council.

Mr. Sharp said that the Pearson government had recognized the need of the Atlantic provinces which had lagged under the Tory government. Under Pearson, he said, the Maritime provinces will get a better deal than ever before. Other speakers were John Nichols, President of the Digby Liberal Association, who chaired the meeting; Peter Nicholson, M.L.A., who introduced Mr. Sharp; and Capt. Joe Casey, President of the Annapolis West Liberal Association. Mrs. Shaffner was a platform guest.

Legion Notes

It has been announced that the annual banquet for the Digby Little Baseball League will be held Friday, October 29, at the Legion Hall, Shore Road. The event will be sponsored by Branch #20 and the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion.

Plans for the November 11 Poppy Campaign are well underway, and a one-night blitz of the town by Legion members is expected.

Veterans in the area are making arrangements to attend a zone rally, to be held in Weymouth tonight.

ports presented by Mrs. Percy Robert and Mrs. B. H. Ruggles respectively.

The report of the Ways and Means Committee, prepared by Mrs. Ralph Berwick, showed a balance of $32.26, funds having been received mainly from the weekly Ten Cent Teas held by the Branch, and thanks were extended to members providing refreshments. A donation of four pairs of crutches was reported to have been gratefully received by Delbert Forrest for the use of the Sickroom Loan Service.

Mrs. Winfield reported for the Disaster Relief Committee that bedding and clothing had been provided for a family rendered homeless by fire during the past month, and also clothing given to five other families requiring assistance. Further assistance was rendered in the form of a layette provided for one case, also clothing for a man referred by the Public Health Nurse, and a family referred by the Department of Welfare.

The meeting concluded with plans to hold a Regional Meeting in Digby in November, the date to be determined after consultation with Commissioner Illesley, of the Nova Scotia Division, and Miss Ethel Graham, of Annapolis Royal, the newly appointed Regional Vice President for this area. It was also planned to hold the annual sale of aprons at this time under the convener-ship of Mrs. Allen Stark, for the purpose of raising extra funds for the Christmas welfare work of the Branch.

provision for future expansion. The resolution was passed.

A resolution asking for a Royal Commission on crime in Canada was adopted. If financially feasible, the A.V.A.B.T. will produce and maintain a topographic map for display purposes, according to a resolution adopted at the meetings on Saturday.

The AVAABT went on record as supporting the appointment of Lloyd Hill as secretary-manager for another term.

A resolution approved support of Digby and Eastport, Maine, as terminals for a new N. E. - N. S. ferry service.

A more up-to-date ferry service from Digby to Saint John was approved by the AVAABT.

Among the resolutions was one asking for a causeway across Bear River to replace the present Victoria Bridge.

Berwick presented a resolution asking the N. S. Department of Trade and Industry to assist in publication of a book on the apple industry written by Mrs. Joan Balcom. The resolution was passed.

The closure of St. Mary's Bay and the Annapolis Basin to seiners on a permanent basis was urged by a resolution passed by the AVAABT.

Douglas Foley, Victoria Beach, presented a resolution asking that the road from Victoria Beach to DeLap's Cove on the Fundy Trail be completed. Mr. Foley was asked to refer the resolution to the Annapolis Royal Board of Trade for future presentation.

A panel discussion followed the presentation of resolutions when L. E. McLaughlin, ADP coordinator for the federal department of trade and industry was heard. APEC executive director, Nelson Mann was also on the panel.

Mr. McLaughlin said that the federal government's area development program can and will make business people in Canada and the U.S.A. take second look at Nova Scotia when it comes to industrial expansion.

The Designated Area Program announced in August embraces large regions of the country in all ten provinces, offering cash grants to manufacturing and processing industries establishing within designated areas of high and chronic unemployment, low family incomes and large labor force, he said.

Mr. Mann advocated bold and imaginative action in the form of comprehensive and well co-ordinated regional development plan. The federal government must further identify itself with respect to responsibility for regional development by retooling the designated area program as it applies to the Atlantic Provinces, or introduce plans with specified purpose of upgrading the level of Atlantic economy to that of the rest of Canada, said Mr. Mann.

Weymouth Student Gets Scholarship

Premier Robert L. Stanfield, as Minister of Education, announced Monday the names of the recipients of two Henry Button Memorial scholarships awarded this year.

The two scholarships, valued at $400 each, are for study at the Nova Scotia Teacher's College in Truro and are awarded to the student making the highest mark in provincial Grade XII English examinations.

As no scholarship was awarded last year two have been made available for 1965.

Receiving a scholarship this year is Wayne Douglas Blynn, Weymouth, who is in his second year of study at the Teacher's College. A graduate of Weymouth Consolidated High School, Mr. Blynn will major in History and English as he works towards his general license.

Mr. Blynn will resume further study upon graduation from the Teacher's College as he works towards his bachelor's degree in education with the intention of teaching high school English and History.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Blynn, of Weymouth. Also receiving a scholarship

Mr. Gaudet Principal Of Islands School

Mr. J. D. Gaudet, former Sergeant and instructor in electronics and radar at Greenwood, N. S., recently moved to Freeport, N. S., to assume the duties of French instructor in the Islands Consolidated School, also principal of schools.

Following his graduation is Miss Norma Jean McKinnon, Truro. A graduate of Truro Senior High School, Miss McKinnon is currently in her first year of the two-year general license program at the Teacher's College.

Scholarships have been awarded from an $8,000 trust fund established in 1963 by Mrs. Ada Button as a memorial to her late husband. Mr. Button was President of World Affairs Press Limited which publishes an educational periodical "World Affairs" for use by students and educators. The Nova Scotia Department of Education, when the late Dr. Henry F. Munro was Superintendent of Education, was one of the first major subscribers to "World Affairs" — copies are distributed annually to the high schools of the Province.

from Dalhousie University in 1917, and prior to his enlistment in the RCAF at Greenwood, where he served four years. Mr. Gaudet taught school at St. Anne's College, Church Point, and at Meteghan, Digby Co.

In addition to teaching French, Mr. Gaudet said he hoped to teach piano lessons to all students who are interested. He also hopes to organize a choral group.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaudet have seven children: Dorene, Judith, Roland and Claudette, who attend high school, Gerald and Denise, who attend elementary school, and pre-school age Yvonne.

Mrs. Edward Outhouse, of Tiverton, graduate of Islands Consolidated School, was instructor in French since the beginning of this school term, prior to the arrival of Mr. Gaudet.

It's easy to buy 1965 Canada Savings Bonds.

Just walk in and say:
"I want some Canada Savings Bonds."

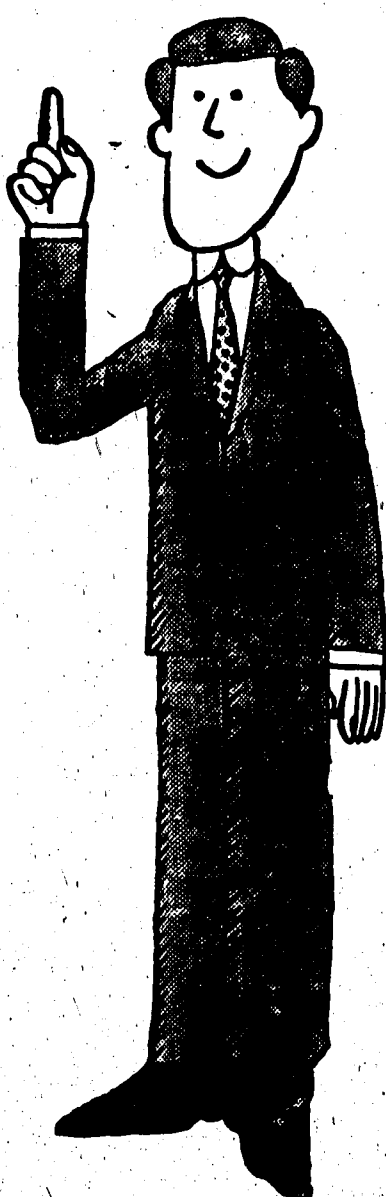

No one will act surprised. They'll smile, nod and give you an application. It's a very simple form. You fill in your name, address, and who you want registered as the owner. Then you choose the amount you want to buy—from $50 up (the limit is $10,000 per person).

A couple of signatures later, and you're all set. Quick. Simple. Friendly.

And you get bonds which pay you an average annual yield of 5.03% when you hold them to maturity. Of course your bonds are instantly cashable any time for their full face value plus earned interest.

Who sells them? You can get yours on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work—or from your bank, investment dealer, stock broker, trust or loan company.

Walk in this week and buy some. Cash or terms, Canada Savings Bonds are a great way to save.

Thanksgiving At Westport

A table very prettily decorated with fruits and vegetables was the centre of attraction at the Church of Christ Disciples, Westport on Thanksgiving Sunday. After the service on Sunday evening the Pastor Mr. Earl Ambrose announced that the above was to be sent to the widows of the church. This is the first time this has been done in the village and it was a very nice thought.

SHHHhhhh...

MEN — We are going to have to tone down some of our ads! Do you remember a couple of weeks ago when we said we were going to stir up a storm with Gale shoes? Well, we didn't think we would create a cyclone!

Your response to our sale price of 50% off all Gale shoes is such that we are compelled to continue this offer until the end of this week.

So, until Saturday, October 23 (there won't be any left after that!) get what Gale sizes we have at half price. And gentlemen, thank you so much.

LADIES — while you're waiting for your menfolk in our comfortable new chairs, ask to see our current lines of Air Step, Woolley, Shaggy Pups and others — for yourselves.

Dr. Leighton On Staff Of Harvard University

Dr. Alexander Hamilton Leighton, of Cornell University, who has headed a research program undertaken in Nova Scotia for the past fifteen and more years, and who is a leader in current attempts to reduce mental illness by treating communities rather than individuals, will join the Harvard University School of Public Health as Professor of Social Psychiatry. Dr. John C. Snyder, Dean of the Faculty of Public Health, has announced that Dr. Leighton will head a new department in the school for teaching and research in the public health aspects of mental illness. Dr.

Snyder said that Dr. Leighton, who is a social scientist as well as a physician and psychiatrist, will assemble a staff of experts in medicine, sociology, anthropology, psychology and other specialties for collaborative work at the school and in the field.

Dr. Leighton, a widely acclaimed author on human behaviour and social change, has since 1946 been Professor of Sociology and Anthropology at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., and since 1956 Professor of Psychiatry (Social) at Cornell University Medical College in New York City. During this period he also served as Professor in the School of Industrial and Labor Relations at Cornell, where he developed a program of teaching and research in human relations in industry. His research in several urban and rural sections in Canada, the United States and in other countries has highlighted the relationship between socioeconomic conditions and psychiatric disorders. Alleviating such disorders by improving the environment is a possibility which has been strengthened by Dr. Leighton's work. He will assume the Harvard position early in 1966, Dean Snyder said.

The central aim of the new department, like that of the existing eleven departments at Harvard School of Public Health, will be to find effective ways to prevent illness and improve health on a community-wide basis. Dean Snyder said. He said that equally important is the education of physicians, behavioural scientists and other public health professionals for leading roles in carrying out large-scale preventive programs.

As Dr. Leighton has shown in the case of mental illness, Dr. Snyder said, the number of people in need of help has far outgrown the capacity of the medical profession to provide individual treatment on a one-to-one basis. Further, it has become increasingly evident that many distressed people cannot be made well unless the social and cultural conditions, which induce or aggravate their illness, are improved. To reshape and revitalize deteriorated communities is an ambitious undertaking but this may be the only way to improve mental health in such environments. The enormity of the burden of mental illness and related problems in our society justifies the attempt, Dean Snyder said. Pioneering research by Dr. Leighton and his associates have demonstrated that it can be done through organized community effort.

Dean Snyder observed that basic research is vitally important to success in fulfilling human needs by organized community efforts. He noted the present trend toward improving areas of human deprivation and said "imperative and difficult though it is to change environmental factors for the better, it is also essential to bring about a change in the attitudes of the people themselves so that they will recognize and take advantage of new opportunities. The dual task calls for a great deal more than high resolve and money. It calls for skilled leadership, for innovation, for the solving of problems never before encountered and for widespread cooperation. In this, the catalytic role of the broadly-trained public health expert can be crucially important."

The new department under Dr. Leighton's leadership, Dean Snyder noted, will be organized to develop knowledge and techniques for: (1) evaluating the mental health of populations; (2) identifying social and cultural factors causing mental illness in such populations; and (3) effecting social and cultural changes as rehabilitative and preventive measures.

"The obvious fact that these activities go far beyond the conventional practice of medicine and psychiatry underlines the necessity of involving the social sciences and other professions," Dean Snyder said. "Dr. Leighton, with his outstanding record of achievement in medicine and social science, is singularly well-qualified to lead in such a multi-disciplinary venture in the School of Public Health."

In commenting on the Harvard appointment, Dr. Leighton said it would not mean any change in the focus of his work. It will instead mean an enhancement and a greater development of the program, he said. "The new department I have been chosen to head," he said, "will continue and expand studies and programs which are at present being carried on by the Cornell Program in Social Psychiatry." Most of the senior staff members of that program will be joining the new department at Harvard, he said. In addition other specialists will be recruited to assist in making the department an effective participant in the whole program of the Harvard School of Public Health.

Dr. Leighton stated that the work in Nova Scotia, which is being carried on in collaboration with the Department of Public Health and other agencies and organizations, will continue. He said that the proximity of the Harvard School of Public Health to the work being carried on in Nova Scotia would mean that stronger lines of communication could be developed, beneficially affecting the program in Nova Scotia.

With Passing Of Veteran Passes Link With Sea

With the passing of Byron Clifford Sr., of Tiverton, has vanished a link with the colorful, exciting era of wooden ships and iron men of which he played a vital role.

Life began for Mr. Clifford in a family of eleven children of the late Mr. and Mrs. John (Bohume) Clifford of Central Grove, Digby Co., on February 3, 1870. His father, needless to say, was a fisherman who operated out of Flower Cove. This location which provided excellent harbor facilities had been attracting Indians for many years, therefore, there were many tents among the fishing shades. Mr. Clifford recalled many happy hours he spent as a boy, playing bare foot with the Indian children there.

At that time school was held during the winter months only. Mr. Clifford recalled there was neither a bell or a clock in the school building. The family who lived nearest the school would hang a red rag out their window at 9 o'clock denoting time for classes to begin. The procedure was repeated at recess, at noon, etc. Though young Clifford received little education at that time he read extensively. It was recently said of him, "his knowledge of geography would put this generation to shame!"

Two events which were to last for many future years, occurred during Mr. Clifford's youth. One, he acquired the taste for pipe and tobacco which he used in secret. Believing his father to be unaware of his indulgence was quite astonished one day when the elder Mr. Clifford announced, "I forget my tobacco at home, give me a fill!" At the age of 95, a visitor to his home remarked "I see you are still smoking your pipe, By." Mr. Clifford chuckled, "Oh yes, it's taking a long while to kill me, isn't it?"

He was nine when he started fishing with his father in a row boat typical of the times. Sails were hoisted, wind co-operating, to ease the task of rowing. Upon reaching shore, dead tired and arms aching from hauling trawl by hand and from rowing to and from the fishing ground, they had to bait their own trawl in preparation for the following day.

At the age of 15, Mr. Clifford and the family moved to Tiverton where they continued to fish summer and winter. He since related he was among the first fisherman to receive the Fisherman's Bounty. He later married the siding with her sister, Mrs. Edith Rice in Bear River for the past year.

She is survived by a brother, William Tobo, Brighton; and four sisters, Mrs. Almira of Doucetteville; Miss Ella Tobo, Brighton; Savenina (Mrs. Archibald Wagner), Sissiboo Falls; and Edith (Mrs. Leigh) Rice, Bear River.

A funeral mass was held Tuesday at 9 a.m. at Holy Cross Roman Catholic Church at Plympton with burial in the St. Croix Cemetery.

Mr. Gaudet Addresses H. & S.

Mr. Gordon Kinney, teacher at Islands Consolidated School, was chairman of the first meeting of the season of Home and School held in the auditorium.

Following the usual business of the meeting, Mr. J. D. Gaudet, who recently joined the teaching staff of the high school and who is now principal of the schools, was introduced to the members.

In his address, Mr. Gaudet said Home and School is not only a business meeting but also involves cooperation between parents and children. He told the parents present he would welcome any questions regarding the education of their children.

He also stated there are many things needed in the school, especially recreation facilities.

In discussing the already proposed addition of a new elementary school which would replace the present school, which was condemned several years ago, Mr. Gaudet enthusiastically stated he is planning to contact inspector of schools, Mr. C. E. Edwards, concerning the construction of it. He said he felt instead of having the new elementary school adjoining the high school, it should be by itself and include a rumple room for the youngsters. He said the idea of the younger children playing with the older ones of the high school did not seem like a good one.

Following the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

"Reading is to the mind what exercise is to the body." -1751, Sir Richard Steele.

former Maggie McKay who predeceased him.

Though he retired from the sea at the age of 76, he was not entirely from the call of the tide. He was an avid story teller and with his pipe freshly filled and his keen eyes twinkling, he held many listeners spell bound with his own sea adventures and those of others.

One story recalled by Mr. Clifford's family dealt with fishing days before the advent of boat engines. Quite a number of occasions fishermen were caught outside at sea in a heavy wind. Because they could not stem the tide around Bear's Head to get to the wharf and home, they were forced to "lay to" at the back of the island some distance from shore. Wives, mothers and sweethearts of the men in the boats would go to the shore in the evening, build huge fires on the rocks and remain there all night for company for their men.

Mr. Clifford was familiar with most of the facts concerning the island's early history. From school youngsters, newspaper reporters, to those interested in early history of the island, all relied on his keen memory.

When asked once what he attributed his long life to, Mr. Clifford, the least ostentatious of men replied, "I just breathe and mind my own business."

Nowlan Makes Freeport Against Weather Odds

After appearing on a T.V. broadcast at Toronto on Saturday morning, Patrick Nowlan, P.C. candidate for Digby-Annapolis-Kings, boarded a plane at 12:30 p.m. headed for Freeport, Nova Scotia that same night. At 5 o'clock p.m. he was landed in Fredericton under adverse weather conditions. By 7:30 he was away by private plane to Waterville, Kings County, from where he motored to East Ferry, crossed the ferry by co-operation of the ferryman and arrived for the scheduled meeting at Freeport by 9:30 p.m.

The fort was held until Mr. Nowlan arrived by Baden Powell, M.L.A. who discussed possibilities of a causeway across Petite Passage and stressed the importance of having a member in Ottawa who could cooperate with him as did the late Hon. George Nowlan. Mr. Powell was introduced by Eugene Outhouse, Tiverton.

Albert MacDormand, Westport, introduced Mr. Nowlan who explained his reasons for returning from Vancouver to the political field in Digby-Annapolis-Kings. He told of his special interest in Digby County where his father was born, an interest which will continue, he said, even though the Digby-Annapolis-Kings riding might be disturbed by redistribution in future time. Mr. Nowlan dealt with national affairs as well as matters which were of direct concern to the Islands and Digby County.

Mr. Nowlan was thanked by Raymond Thurber and the meeting was chaired by Keith Raymond, Centreville.

Dedication New Salvation Army Citadel

Major Knight, Divisional Commander and Mrs. Knight Halifax will be in Digby on the weekend of November 6 and 7 to participate in the official opening and dedication of the new Salvation Army Citadel on Queen St., Digby. The building was formerly owned by the Pentecostal congregation and was recently bought by the Digby Salvation Army.

The service of dedication will commence at 7:45 p.m. on November 6 and will be followed by a Festival of music featuring the Halifax Civic Youth Band. Services will also be conducted on Sunday, Nov. 7.

Receives R.N.

Miss Carol Daley, of Caledon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Daley, recently received word that she successfully passed her R.N. examinations.

Carol graduated from Digby Regional High in '62, then entered the Yarmouth Regional Hospital school of nursing and graduated from there in June, 1965.

She is presently on the staff of the Digby General Hospital.

Digby K. Of C. Receives Charter

Saturday night was a significant night for the Digby Council, Knights of Columbus, when K. of C. members from Kentville and Yarmouth organizations joined with Digby (Annapolis to Weymouth) to celebrate and witness the presentation of the Charter to the newly formed Digby order, instituted January 10, 1965. More than 200 attended the banquet and saw the ceremony which took place at the Digby Branch Canadian Legion headquarters.

The charter was presented by the District Deputy, Fred Emin, Yarmouth, and was accepted by Grand Knight, Glen Smith. In unveiling the charter and making the presentation, Mr. Emin reminded the officers and members of the order that the three great principles upon which the order was founded are essential to mankind for the more perfect enjoyment of life. He said that the cultivation of the social amenities, without slipping away from any of the duties or obligations owing to eternal faith, enables attraction to various councils the pleasurable circle of brotherly love, amidst which in happy unity, with malice for none but charity for all, can be contemplated with pride and admiration, the good that can be done in linking together in a crystallized purpose to promote each other's welfare, to correct each other's faults or failings by advice, example or reproof.

Yarmouth's Mayor Fred Emin continued that in this world of remarkable uncertainties, where honest want and grasping wealth jostle each other by the wayside, where the nakedness of the indigent world might be clothed from the trimmings of the vain, should the hour of necessity present itself, the abiding satisfaction remains that there is a brotherhood to aid and lift the weary traveller. He charged the council to make the organization as near perfection as possible.

Mr. Emin brought civic greetings from the town of Yarmouth and spoke of the several fraternal orders which exist in both towns of Digby and Yarmouth and all of which uphold Christian principles of charity and goodwill. He paid respect to Past District Deputy Gerry Hope, of Kentville, who is now in Africa, and others who have done much to lay the groundwork for the formation of the Digby Council.

After the reading of the names of the charter members by the District Deputy, Grand Knight Glen Smith accepted the charter. He said he accepted it with much happiness tempered with deep humility. (Please turn to page 7)

Meteghan Lions Have Extensive Program

The Meteghan Lions Club held their semi-monthly supper-meeting at their lodge at Maxwellton, south of Meteghan, with District Governor Erskine Cumming, of New Glasgow, and International Councillor Jerry Lyons, of Arcadia, as special guests. They were accompanied by the Zone Chairman Hubert Morton, of the Yarmouth club, Dick Crabbe, John Bissett and Ray Amiraault, of the same club.

Mr. Cumming was on his provincial tour of the various Lions Clubs and explained the aims of the Lions and their work in the province. "One cannot help others without helping oneself," stated Mr. Cumming.

One of the main projects of the Meteghan club, which continues throughout the years, is the paying of the street lighting in Clare's largest and fastest growing village. Other projects have been sending a high school girl to the United Nations; seminar Mount Allison; donating wheelchair to a crippled person; paying the fare of a blind person to attend the Sydney Lions' blind persons camp and assisting the youths in Clare in sports, financially.

Mrs. Ashton Spinney and small son James of Lower Argyle spent last week visiting her grandmother, Mrs. John Handspeker returning on Saturday.

Minor Hockey Definite

Upwards of 300 boys in the Digby area will again be active in minor hockey. The decision to continue league play this winter was made by a group of interested persons meeting Tuesday evening at the Regional High School. Playing is expected to begin about November 20.

League officers for 1965-66 are: Dr. R. A. Armstrong, president; the entire Digby RCMP detachment will act as vice-presidents; Wallace Hodgson, secretary; Bob Raymond, treasurer; Fred Smith, official scorer; Walter Letteney, publicity manager.

E. B. Tufts, manager of the Digby Forum, was in attendance at the meeting and the league was assured of ample ice time for the hockey season.

Mrs. Journey Heads Deanery Women

Mrs. Richmond Journey, Weymouth, was elected president of the Annapolis Deanery W.A. of the Anglican Church of Canada, succeeding Mrs. Raymond Lent, Digby, who held the office for the past two years. Mrs. J. B. Curry, Smith's Cove, was elected vice-president. The women were elected at the annual meeting held in the parish of Clements last week when more than 65 attended the service of Holy Eucharist at St. Anne's, Smith's Cove.

The Rt. Rev. R. H. Waterman, retired Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia, was the celebrant, assisted by Rural Dean, Rev. Louis White, Bridgetown, and the rector of Clements parish, Rev. A. F. Sheward. Following the service was a buffet luncheon at the parish hall, Deep Brook.

Afternoon meeting opened at 1:30 with the deanery president, Mrs. R. B. Lent, Digby, presiding, and Mrs. M. Nicholl, Annapolis Royal, secretary. Mrs. Lent extended a welcome. Reports from branches expressed the extent of the work in the parishes.

A resolution by Mrs. M. Gott, Smith's Cove, regarding the usurping by the province of Quebec of Eskimos and Indians in the province was accepted. Copies of the resolution were to be forwarded to the Department of Northern Affairs, The Primate of the Anglican Church, the Dominion W.A. and the provincial Anglican Women's Auxiliary.

An invitation to hold the 1966 annual in Bridgetown was extended by a member of St. James congregation.

Miss Annie Buffet, Halifax, diocesan treasurer, gave ideas to various deanery treasurers in their work and spoke of impressions gleaned from the Dominion annual in London, Ontario, earlier in season. Quoting from the Primate's address at these meetings, Miss Buffet said that members are a part of the church as the official organization within the church and as such must be informed at all times. Have no fear of changes, and, if necessary, don't be afraid to "rock the boat" occasionally, she said.

Mrs. C. S. Beaver, Halifax, second vice-president of Diocesan board was also introduced by Mrs. Lent. In her remarks, Mrs. Beaver quoted from addresses of Canon Scott and Rev. Kent Clarke heard at the Dominion annual.

Miss B. Doley, Halifax, spoke briefly on her work as provincial secretary of the "Living Message," the W.A. official magazine.

Votes of thanks were extended to the speakers and to all who had been responsible for the day's success.

Supper Bridge

A supper bridge party was held at the cottage of Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Lewis, Porter's Lake on Wednesday evening when Mrs. Lewis and Miss Gertrude Budrow were joint hostesses.

The evening began at 6 p.m. Five tables were in play with prizes going to Miss Dora Warne, 1st; Mrs. Lillian Nichols, consolation; Mrs. C. M. Levy, lucky; and Mrs. H. M. Warne, travelling.

Arrives At Digby 6:45 P. M.

Rt. Honourable John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative leader and former Prime Minister of Canada, arrives in Digby by train at 6:45 p.m. on Saturday. It is expected he will be met by a large crowd, in part to greet the Hon. Mr. Diefenbaker when he and his party arrive by private train.

The Honourable Mr. Diefenbaker will address a public meeting at the Digby Regional High School at 8 o'clock in support of the Digby-Annapolis-Kings P.C. Candidate, Patrick Nowlan.

Nova Scotia's Premier Robert Stanfield will also address the meeting as will Mr. Nowlan.

C.Y.O. Officers Installed

On Oct. 9 a meeting of Saint Patrick's C.Y.O. was held to install a new slate of officers. The following were elected: Richard VanTassel, President; Paul Connelly, Vice President; Barbara Coutreau, Secretary; Maureen Moss, Treasurer; Theresa Moss, Diane Melanson, David Griffin, Karen Smith, Bruce Surette, "Spiritual"; Hazel Harrington, Paul Connelly, sports; Diane Coutreau, Victor Comeau, Danny O'Neil, library; Diane Melanson, Hazel Harrington, membership; Christine Saulnier, publicity.

During the meeting such topics as bowling, swimming, debating, and hockey were discussed.

The spiritual committee also asked the members to bring in used stamps.

The boys were asked to make small wooden crosses in order to complete the work at the Bear River Cemetery. Robert Smith is in charge of this committee.

Near the close of the meeting members were reminded of Communion Sunday which will be October 31st at the nine o'clock mass.

The C.Y.O. meeting will be Nov. 6 and all Catholic youth, 13 years or over, are invited to attend.

P.C. Women Meet

A meeting of the two Women's Progressive Conservatives was held at St. Martin's school at Meteghan with Mrs. May Comeau, president presiding. She also introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Isabelle MacCauley, president of the Nova Scotia Women's Progressive Conservative Association. Mrs. MacCauley spoke mainly on the women's part to work hard and win the election.

Another interesting speaker was Dr. Hector Pothier, M.L.A. for the Municipality of Clare and John O. Bower, candidate elect for the District of Yarmouth-Sheburne and Clare, who spoke to the group and outlined what could be done to help the people, if he was elected. He was introduced by Dr. Pothier.

Mrs. May Comeau thanked Mr. Bower for an interesting speech and also thanked all the ladies and guests from the surrounding area as well as Mrs. Isabelle MacCauley, Mrs. Bower and Mrs. Pothier. Dr. Julius Comeau gave the date of Hon. John Diefenbaker's visit in Yarmouth and asked if in Yarmouth, to try and see the great leader.

Present as platform guests will be Mrs. Diefenbaker, wife of the Hon. Mr. Diefenbaker, who will also attend a P.C. tea at Kentville in the afternoon. Other guests will include the M.L.A.'s and their wives from the Districts of Digby and Clare and from Valley points.

Edward Twobig will be chairman for the meeting.

A light lunch will be served in the cafeteria of the school at the close of the meeting. It was announced and special guards will be on hand to care for cars on the Hal-loween evening.

It is expected Mr. Diefenbaker's train will pull out from Digby at approximately midnight.

On Countrytime Jamboree Talent Promotion

Jeanie Melanson, Gilbert Cove, and David Coggins, of Weymouth, received an overwhelming applause on the Vic Mullen Talent Promotion Countrytime Jamboree, at Dartmouth on Saturday night. Jeanie and David sang two songs composed by Kay Outhouse "Somebody Somewhere" and "The Good Old Maritimes" besides encores. They appeared on the show to a capacity audience and it is understood they have been invited to appear over CHNS, Halifax station on a Sunday night Country Time.

Jeanie and David have been entertaining in Weymouth and surrounding areas for some time. David also plays in an orchestra. Mrs. Outhouse, who instructs the two teenagers saw the advertisement for contestants in the press and encouraged the two to appear on the show. On her return from Halifax she said that the demand for talent is great. She felt others should be encouraged to make use of their talents in this manner.

Mrs. George (Kay) Outhouse, who composes both the words and music of her songs began writing for pastime two years ago. She was encouraged with her work when she found it acceptable to her friends in the area and especially to the singing young people. Always having been interested in music, Mrs. Outhouse, before her marriage, had appeared on radio and in church choirs at her home in Newfoundland.

Mrs. Outhouse had been employed as tailress supervisor at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis for seventeen years, having retired recently from civil service when she was presented with a long service certificate by Capt. J. M. Paul, commanding officer, H.M.C.S. Cornwallis. Mr. and Mrs. Outhouse, who reside in Digby, have a son, Stephen, who is stationed at Camp Gagetown, N. B. Stephen, his wife, and their daughter, Kathy, the only grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. George Outhouse, reside at Marysville, N. B.

Mrs. Outhouse discovered promising talent in David and Jeanie some time ago and began working with them. She expressed great pride in their performance on Sunday night. She had begun sending songs of her own composition to the Vic Mullen show about a year ago and although she had appeared in public on such occasions in her girlhood days she remarked that she was "petrified" to get on

"Ninety-nine Of One Hundred Honest" Says Cpl. For Favreau

"I still claim ninety-nine out of a hundred people are honest," says Cpl. Quentin Wenau during his investigation along with Digby's Chief of Police, Webster Dunn, into the whereabouts of a lost pocket book containing a sum of $1,200. Sure enough, Mrs. Eva Cromwell, Conway, was the owner who was responsible for having the Corporal return the book to its owner.

The story went like this: Mrs. Eva Cromwell, Conway, and Mrs. Edith Outhouse, Tiverton, were in Digby on Friday, October 19. After saying they went to the country for a picnic lunch, it was only after their return to town to find another purchase that Mrs. Outhouse discovered she had lost her pocket book. Disturbed, they notified police, but despite Cpl. Wenau's continuing work they had little hope of finding the purse and the money, amounting to twelve hundred dollars, part of her English and French.

Mrs. Eva Cromwell, Conway, in the meantime had found the purse, and not knowing the police were on the search, sent a letter to Mrs. Outhouse advising her where to pick up her lost pocket book. Her letter also humbly apologized for having to open the pocket book but explained that it was the only way in which she could find out to whom the purse belonged.

In addressing the envelope to Mrs. Outhouse, Mrs. Cromwell used the nearby Freeport address instead of Tiverton, delaying the letter by a day or two. On Saturday Mrs. Outhouse, along with Cpl. Wenau and Chief Dunn, joyously visited Mrs. Cromwell's home, picked up the pocket book and all its contents.

Mrs. Cromwell received a reward.

"At Home" At Rectory

Trinity Anglican rectory, Digby, was the scene of a delightful occasion on Thursday afternoon and evening when the Rev. and Mrs. James Pike were "At Home" to members of the parish and friends.

Mrs. Pike was the former Mrs. Phyllis Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Erwing, Newfoundland. Rev. and Mrs. Pike were married in October of this year and with Rev. Mr. Pike's daughter, Valerie, and Mrs. Pike's eleven year old son, Paul Davis, reside at the rectory.

Flowers and candles adorned the tea table for the occasion as well as tiered wedding cakes brought from Newfoundland.

Rev. and Mrs. Pike were assisted in receiving the guests in the afternoon by Bishop R. H. Waterman, and Mrs. Waterman, Smith's Cove, and V. G. Cardoza, Digby. In the evening the Bishop and Mrs. Waterman and Dr. G. V. Turnbull and Mrs. Turnbull received with Rev. and Mrs. Pike.

Portress for the afternoon was Mrs. R. B. Lent and in the evening Mrs. Sidney Hall. Ushering and in charge of the guest book in the afternoon was Mrs. W. K. Ganong, and in the evening Mrs. Robert Hersey.

Those presiding over the tea cups in the afternoon were Mrs. Cecil Jones and Mrs. Kenneth Woodman. In the evening were Mrs. Alfred Grimmer, Mrs. Quentin Wenaus, Mrs. Ira Davis and Mrs. Roy Robinson.

Servers were Mrs. H. V. Thompson, Mrs. Percy Robert, Mrs. Herbert White, Mrs. Ralph Berwick, Mrs. Digby Baxter and Miss Louise Daley. The "At Home" was in charge of the Afternoon and Evening Guilds of the church, with Mrs. Robert and Mrs. Robinson, respectively, as presidents.

Married 60 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Josie D. Robicheau, Gilbert Cove celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on October 24.

Members of the family gathered to wish them health and happiness.

Adelaar Substitutes For Favreau

The Digby-Favreau posse of the play circuit, unable to reach Meteghan Bay for a scheduled address on Saturday night because the play was postponed at the last minute, substituted for the play. He was to speak at the River in support of Fred Armstrong, Liberal candidate for the Yarmouth-Claire constituency.

Mr. Adelaar said that the play was postponed because they went to the country for a picnic lunch, it was only after their return to town to find another purchase that Mrs. Outhouse discovered she had lost her pocket book. Disturbed, they notified police, but despite Cpl. Wenau's continuing work they had little hope of finding the purse and the money, amounting to twelve hundred dollars, part of her English and French.

In noting the achievement of the Liberal government under Lester B. Pearson, Mr. Adelaar said the economy had been built under Mr. Pearson people began having confidence in Canada again, unemployment figures dropped and the country gained a new national flag.

Candidate, Fred Armstrong, described the show-out, but debate in parliament as a result of opposition obstruction and stated that it was impossible to carry on government by minority under pressure and that was the reason for an election on November 8.

Mr. Armstrong said that the new television relay station which had been hoped for earlier would be ready for the area by the beginning of the new year. The site of the station is to be on a 15 acre property at Wellington, Yarmouth County.

Fern Webber Heads Club

The annual meeting of the ladies' division of the Digby Pines Golf Club was held at the home of Mrs. A. Boutillier on Thursday, October 21. Nine members were present. Reports of the activities of the club were read and accepted. Petty cash account balance was $8.00. Result of election of officers: president, Mrs. Hyman Webber; vice-president, Mrs. A. Boutillier; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. D. Daley; junior development, Mrs. J. Rosenthal. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Completes Air Force Basic Training

Airman Rex G. Tidd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex G. Tidd, of 1720 Kingston Road, Placentia, Calif., has completed Air Force basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Airman Tidd has been selected for technical training as a personnel specialist at the Air Training Command (ATC) school at Amarillo AFB, Tex. His new unit is part of the vast ATC system which trains airmen and officers in the diverse skills required by the nation's aerospace force.

The airman, a 1964 graduate of Fullerton (Calif.) Union High School, attended Fullerton Junior College.

He is a grandson of Shirley D. Tidd, Little River, Digby Co.

Deer Breaks Fence

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Graham, Centreville, woke up Saturday morning to find the fence surrounding their home and near the road damaged. Their first thought was that a car must have accidentally struck the fence or human vandals had been at work.

It was when they discovered deer tracks in the vicinity that they realized they had been visited by a deer which made its escape across the road towards the 'more thickly wooded area.

Supports Digby Resolution On Seiners

Mr. Halliburton expressed surprise at the restrictions having been imposed this Spring as he had earlier been in touch with Hon. Mr. Robichaud, he said, and the federal minister had advised that the restrictions would be withdrawn.

In the meantime captains of purse-seining fleets of Grand Manan and Campobello islands, it is understood, were also protesting restrictions on purse-seining in the western area of the Bay of Fundy from April 15 to November 15.

The Parish Hall at Deep Brook was filled to capacity on Saturday evening, October 23rd as people came from Deep Brook and surrounding communities by the Deep Brook Community Club.

The Dukeshire Sisters from Bear River opened the evening entertainment with two numbers, "A Melody of Choruses" and "It is no Secret". They were assisted by Mrs. Dukeshire at the piano.

Eighteen children from the Deep Brook School under the direction of the principal, Mrs. Tibbets, gave a good account of themselves in singing two numbers.

Mr. Robert Potts, the man with the educated feet, gave a good exhibition of Tap dancing. He was accompanied by Jim Sanford and Darryl McGowan on their guitars.

Next came a touching love scene entitled "Sparkling Peggy-Jane" with Mrs. Fountain and Rev. Geo. Brydon singing the parts, and this was followed by Mr. Cliff Jones and two numbers on his musical saw.

The Square Dance Group danced two numbers appropriately attired in their colourful costumes. They returned for two more numbers later on in the program. The Community Club was indebted to Mr. Guy Adams, one of the Group, for the use of his sound

Thank-offering Service At Westport

The annual Thank-offering Service of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Baptist Church, Westport, was held on Sunday evening in the church, with a splendid representation of the members present. Mrs. Lawrence Shaw presided and brought a cordial welcome to the congregation.

Mrs. Earl Webber read the scripture lesson found in Psalm 107, verses 1-15. Miss Repool equipment for the entire show. "The Wanderers" with David Foster, Gordon Atkinson, and Chris Merritt played three numbers of the popular Rock and Roll type of music, and this was followed by a short intermission during which fudge was sold.

The Male Choir, 15 voices under the direction of Rev. George Brydon sang, "The Church in the Wildwood", "How can I leave Thee" and "Seeing Nellie Home". Three ladies dressed in Halloween Costumes gave a play entitled "Entertainment for children age 6 to 60".

Maurice Selig with his guitar sang two numbers, "King of the Road" and "I can't stop loving you" and this was followed by a musical group calling themselves the "Deep Brook Beatles" with Gerald Porter, Gary Titus, Tommy Burnett and Jack Saltzman.

Mr. Cliff Jones related an adventure story about the cow in outer space, and then followed a sing-song led by Stewart McLean with the audience participating.

Mr. Ronald Sly, President of the Deep Brook Community Club and M. C. for the evening thanked all the performers and the audience for making the event a successful one.

The proceeds for the evening amounted to $97.40.

Since the Deep Brook Community Club organized last June 1965 they have been busy sponsoring various projects to raise money for the Digby and Annapolis Hospitals. They recently donated $500.00 to the Digby Hospital and have pledged a further $500.00 to sponsor a room. Their next project now under way is the sale of a cook book.

led in prayer. A special number was rendered by the church choir with Mrs. Richard Welch as organist. A trio by three little ladies of the Mission Band - Misses Mary Webber, Marilyn Titus and Angela Gower - was much enjoyed. The devotional was given by Mrs. Wylie Poole, followed by a circle of prayer in which Mrs. Wilbert Frost, Mrs. Wickerson Lent and Mrs. George Kenney led. A moment of silence was observed in memory of deceased members.

Mrs. Shaw paid tribute to two of the members, Mrs. Fred Denton and Miss Luie Repool, for their long and faithful work as treasurer and secretary respectively.

The roll was called by Miss Repool, to which members responded with a verse of scripture.

The poem, "Teach Me To Love," was beautifully read by Mrs. George Kenney.

Mrs. George Clements and Mrs. Arthur Titus collected and presented the offering. Mrs. Shaw spoke to the meeting using as her topic the report given by the UBWMU president at the 1965 Convention in Wolfville. This was most interesting and informative.

Following the hymn "In Christ There Is No East Nor West," Mrs. Poole closed the service with prayer, followed by the Mizpah Benediction.

Baptist Association At Little River

The Annapolis-Digby United Baptist Association held their Fall meeting on Tuesday, October 19th, at the Little River United Baptist Church with Rev. E. Gideon Corey, Lawrencetown, as Moderator, and Rev. Gordon L. Chappell, Nictaux, as Clerk.

The theme was "The Challenge of Home Missions."

The morning session opened at 9:30 with Rev. David Shaw, Annapolis Royal, leading the devotional period. Report of the 8th Atlantic Ecumenical Council was given by Rev. Gerard Steeves, Bridgetown, and Rev. H. S. Hartlin, Digby. Rev. Gordon L. Chappell, Nictaux, spoke on the Canadian Bible Society. Lieut. Frederick Beach, of the Digby Salvation

Minister Inducted

On Thursday evening an induction service was held in the Westport Church of Christ (Disciples) for Earl Ambrose, who with his wife are pastoring to the church.

Rev. J. W. Derby, Freeport, former pastor of the Westport Church, presided. Rev. W. Ideson, of Freeport Baptist Church, read the scripture, II Tim. 2:1-15, followed by prayer led by Ivan Rayner, of the Tiverton Christian Church. The message of the evening was brought by Rev. Cecil D. Fletcher, of the Douglas Ave. Christian Church in Saint John, N. B.

The Covenant of Dedication was given by Rev. Russel H. Carr, of the Weymouth Church of Christ Disciples, with Mr. Ambrose, officers and congregation responding to the charges given.

Greetings were brought from the churches at Southville, South Range and Weymouth by Harry J. Lewis; from the All Canada Committee and Maritime Christian Missionary Society by Mr. Wilfred E. Cosman, both of Weymouth. Prayer of Dedication was by Albert Jones and the closing benediction was given by Rev. Mr. Derby.

Following the service a Parent-Teacher Meeting At Comeauville

A parent and teachers meeting was held in the Comeauville school of the Church Point Consolidated School Section #5 on Thursday, October 14, at 7:45 p.m., with the principal, Jean R. Doucet, presiding. Rev.

Jules, Comeau, pastor of St. Mary's parish of Church Point, was guest of honor. The aim of the meeting, stated Mr. Doucet, was to make it possible for the parents to be introduced to the teachers of their children and to allow them to discuss matters of education regarding their children. He advised the parents to never criticize the teaching personnel in front of their children because it causes many difficulties to the teachers with the child. It is best to do the criticizing when the children have gone to bed, but it is better to visit your school and discuss the problem with the principal or the teacher or teachers in question. Mr. Doucet invited the parents to visit the school to resolve whatever problem may arise between the child and the school.

Rev. Jules Comeau stated that he was pleased to see such a large gathering at this meeting. It was thirty years ago that he was pastor of the St. Mary's parish for the first time. Since this is his second stage in the parish he wondered if there had been any progress in the education of their children. If one can judge by the response given by the mothers and fathers of the children of the schools in the consolidation, he stated that it certainly showed that an improvement has been made. He also stated that there is a great danger when parents take no interest in what is happening in the education of their children and he advised them to keep up this interest in the future.

Mr. Doucet, the principal, introduced the teaching personnel as follows: Sister Annette, primary and grade 1, at Church Point school; Miss Yvonne Comeau, primary and grade 1 at Comeauville school; Miss Edith Thibodeau, grade 2, Church Point; Mrs. Estelle Comeau, grade 3, Church Point; Sister Paulette, grade 4, Church Point; Mrs. Louis Belliveau, grade 5, Comeauville school; Mrs. Cecile Saulnier, grade 6, at Comeauville school and principal Jean R. Doucet, grade 7, at Comeauville. Replacing teachers (2 1/2 days) Mrs. Corinne Thimot and Melbourne Blinn.

An item on the program that appeared to interest the parents was the suggestion of the organizing of swimming courses for the summer of 1966. A committee was appointed to study the question thoroughly, especially to present figures as to cost of such a project and present it at a meeting to be held on or about November 18th in the Church Point school in the consolidation. The committee is composed of the following persons: Mrs. Louis Comeau, Mrs. Louis Thibault, Mr. Alphonse Comeau, all of Comeauville; Mrs. Benoit W. Comeau and Albert P. Melanson of Church Point and Mrs. Adrienne Blinn of Grossecos Coques. The Church Point Consolidated School Section #5 comprises the villages of Lower Comeauville, Comeauville, Little Brook, Little Brook Station, Church Point and Grossecos Coques and a portion of Concession. Schools are in Church Point and Comeauville, each being a four room school. Concession is a three room school teaching up to grade 6. Grade 7 pupils of this school go to Comeauville school.

Rev. & Mrs. Olmstead Honoured

An enjoyable evening was spent recently at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Claude Olmstead at Port Wadde when their many friends in the community gathered to wish them much happiness in their retirement there.

Mrs. Alton Hayden spoke in a few well chosen words the warm affection of the people towards Rev. and Mrs. Olmstead and presented them with a pair of living room lamps. Both Rev. and Mrs. Olmstead responded with their warm wishes to all the community and expressed their happiness at being among the residents again.

The Rev. Mr. Olmstead retired from the ministry of the United Baptist Church two years ago, but has spent one winter at Port Wadde, near Monreal, as supply minister to the United Baptist Church there, and has supplied for churches nearby during vacations.

Rev. and Mrs. Olmstead are active in community life and ever willing to help wherever they can.

The pleasant evening closed with refreshments being served by friends of the United Baptist Church and the Port Wadde United Church of Canada.

Recently Married

Friday evening, October 22, only son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McKee, of Digby, was married at seven thirty o'clock to Miss Margaret Hubley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. VanZooft, of Digby. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. D. VanZooft, officiating at the double ring ceremony. The bride wore a floor-length sheath gown of sheer organza embroidered with roses and lined with French tulle and net. A long chapel train fell from the waist ending with a deep scalloped edge caught by a bow of the same material. The empire waist was accented with a bow and featured a scooped neckline. Her wedding ring headpiece which featured a bow at the back was decorated with Mother of Pearls and from it fell a waist length veil of nylon chiffon. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow-weeheart rose buds, white Stephanotis and trailing English ivy.

Texas. Arthur Steele was organist. The soloist Mrs. Eileen Fletcher sang "The Lord's Prayer" preceding the ceremony, with "This Thing I Thee Wed" during the giving of the register and "O Perfect Love" as the guests were being ushered from the church. Baskets of beautiful bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, cattails, ripe wheat and autumn leaves tied with gold coloured satin ribbon marked the guest pews.

The bride and her father entered the church to the strains of "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven." She wore a floor-length sheath style gown of sheer organza embroidered with roses and lined with French tulle and net. A long chapel train fell from the waist ending with a deep scalloped edge caught by a bow of the same material. The empire waist was accented with a bow and featured a scooped neckline. St. Alphonse Church provided the setting when Shirley Jean Boudreau became the bride of Frederick Wallace Shaw, Rev. E. Thériault officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Boudreau of St. Alphonse and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Shaw of Glace Bay.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie and Chantilly lace, the skirt of which cascaded in several tiers of lace. The fitted bodice had long sleeves tapering to the wrists. Her bouffant veil of illusion was held in place by a para of pearls and crystal and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Gary Shendel was matron of honor and Miss Rose Anita Comeau was bridesmaid. The groom was attended by Ronald Plourde of the Royal Canadian Navy and Roy Saulnier.

Mrs. Clarence Comeau was organist and Mrs. Benoit Deveau was soloist.

Following the nuptial mass, a reception was held in the parish hall where the toast to the bride was proposed by Ronald Plourde.

Mobile Dental Clinic To Visit Freeport School

A mobile dental clinic is expected to visit Freeport schools in the near future. It has been disclosed that dental services will be free for youngsters of 12 years and under. Teenagers are expected to pay for dental services required.

At present, plans are being made to raise money to cover boarding expenses of the members of the dental clinic during their stay on the Island. To date, a colored film, "Gun Glory" and a cartoon under the supervision of principal J. D. Gaudet were shown in the auditorium of the high school and several panty sales, sponsored by members of the Home and School were held, one at Tiverton and one at Freeport. All proceeds will be used in the boarding fund project.

Obituary

Mrs. Perry MacKay

The death of Mrs. Perry MacKay, 83, occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ben Marshall, Acadaville, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 20.

She was predeceased by her husband the late Percy S. MacKay 45 years ago.

Born Lena G. MacKay of Englishown, C. B. the daughter of the late Daniel and Lavinia (Selton) MacKay.

Mrs. MacKay attended school and was also employed in the U.S.A. for a number of years before moving to Nova Scotia.

Mrs. MacKay was a loyal member of the Hill Grove Baptist Church and was actively engaged in Sunday School and church work.

Possessing a pleasing personality, she was known and beloved by a large circle of friends and relatives.

Surviving are, one son, Arthur MacKay and one daughter, Esther, Mrs. Ben Marshall both of Acadaville, four grand children and four great grand children. Two sisters Henrietta MacKay and Mabel (Mrs. Fred Benson) both of Malden, Mass.

Funeral service was held from the Hill Grove Baptist Church Saturday afternoon, Oct. 23, at 2 p.m., Rev. H. S. Hartin, pastor, officiating.

The choir, under the direction of the organist, Mrs. Dorey Roope, sang the following favorite hymns, "In the Garden", "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Abide with Me." Pallbearers were: William Roope, Olin Minard, Lloyd MacNeil, Basil Porter, Chester Keen and Wade Woodman.

The many and beautiful floral offerings paid a silent tribute of respect.

Interment was in the family lot in the Hill Grove Baptist Cemetery.

Mrs. Perry Honored

A woman whose rare film-making talents have won international recognition for Nova Scotia was honored in Halifax Thursday night.

Mrs. Margaret L. Perry, supervisor of motion pictures for the Nova Scotia Information Service, was the guest of honor at a banquet for more than 100 business and government leaders in the Lord Nelson Hotel. Premier Robert L. Stanfield was host for the evening.

The Premier thanked Mrs. Perry for her outstanding contributions to the province during the 20 years she has been producing films for Nova Scotia.

He reminded guests of Mrs. Perry's elegance when she was the "one-man" operation producing films for many years. During that time, she completed all the directing, shooting, scriptwriting, editing, negative cutting and supervising of the final recording.

With a host 50 films to her credit, Mrs. Perry has been the recipient of many national and international awards. Her "Gloosecap Country", produced in 1961, won five awards, including the Polytechnic Trophy at the International Film and Folklore Festival at Brussels. An estimated 1,700,000 people have viewed this outstanding film.

Mrs. Perry's most recent award was presented in Hamilton earlier this month at the annual convention of the Canadian Tourist Association. For the third year in a row, she won the Maple Leaf Award, symbolic of the top tourist film in Canada for the year, for her "Tides of Fundy." Previous Maple Leaf Awards were won for "Highland Heart of Nova Scotia" and "Nova Scotia By-Ways."

Premier Stanfield presented Mrs. Perry with an engraved silver tray to commemorate her 20 years with the Department of Trade and Industry.

Good things are happening in Nova Scotia . . . from coast to coast in Canada.

The Liberal Party has given real meaning to the word prosperity in Nova Scotia. Income taxes have been reduced. Income from wages has never been higher. There are more people holding down more good jobs, earning more money than at any time in Nova Scotia's history.

- Over $250,000.00 was provided to Nova Scotians during 1965 under the winter housing building incentive programme.
- It is estimated that — this year, Canada's gross national product has passed the 50 billion dollar mark for the first time in its history

ALL THIS BECAUSE OF A LIBERAL GOVERNMENT IN CANADA.

GOOD THINGS ARE HAPPENING! The country is moving again. Canada needs a Liberal majority to keep it moving. A Liberal vote is a vote for more prosperity.

1966 Volkswagen owners are going to get a big kick out of this.

The new Volkswagen has a bigger engine. It's about 20% more powerful than this year's model. So it accelerates much faster. And it doesn't get short-winded on long hills any more.

Surprisingly enough, our 1966 engine doesn't drink any more gas than the old one did. Volkswagen owners will still get around 38 miles to the gallon. The only difference is that they'll get them faster from now on.

In case you think we've just gone power mad, we'd like to make it clear that the engine isn't the only thing that's new about the 1966 Volkswagen. For instance, we've also put in a new, thermostatically-controlled heater booster to keep VW owners warmer in winter. We've fitted safety locks to the front seat backs so they won't tip forward when the car brakes quickly. And we've added a four-way emergency flasher to make night stops less hazardous.

There are some other new features, too, but we're saving those to show you when you come in.

One last thing. Some people thought we'd changed the shape of our car this year. They needn't have worried. It's still pretty difficult to tell a 1966 Volkswagen from a 1965 or even a 1955.

Unless you're driving it, that is.

Release From Yarmouth Re Fishermen's U.I.

After fishermen file claims for unemployment insurance benefits, sometimes it is quite a while before they receive any money. We have asked the Unemployment Insurance Commission why these delays take place.

They say the most frequent reason for delays in the payment of benefit is caused by the fisherman not sending or taking his insurance book to the Unemployment Insurance Commission at the time he has a claim for unemployment insurance benefit. And although he has sent or taken his book, he also has one or two more books which he has not sent. This often results in the fisherman not having enough stamps at the time his claim is being considered and it is not until he secures his missing stamps that he is able to qualify for benefit.

All fishermen when filing a claim for unemployment insurance benefit should make sure they have stamps in their book for all sales of fish and that the book or books are taken or sent to the Unemployment Insurance Commission at the time the claim is made.

The Unemployment Insurance Commission also says that fishermen in many cases do not give to the fish buyer their unemployment insurance book when they are selling their fish to the buyer. Without the unemployment insurance book, the buyer is unable to send unemployment insurance stamps and when the

Mr. and Mrs. Layton Fulton, Kentville, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gavel.

Children at the home of the Misses Comeau during last fisherman files his claim at the end of the season, he does not have all the unemployment insurance stamps for which deductions have been made from his earnings. It is therefore necessary for each fisherman to give to the buyer an insurance book when he starts to deal with that buyer.

The Unemployment Insurance Commission also had a word for fish buyers: It is the buyer's responsibility to secure the unemployment insurance book of each fisherman who is a member of the crew of a fishing vessel. If a fisherman is unable to present a book to a buyer, the buyer is required to request an insurance book from the nearest Unemployment Insurance Commission Office. The full name and number of the fisherman, as shown on his identification card must be sent in with the request for a book.

The Unemployment Insurance Commission says that if fishermen and fish buyers will follow these instructions, delays in the payment of unemployment insurance benefits to fishermen could be greatly reduced, if not entirely eliminated.

Presents Picture

A portrait of the late Hon. George C. Nowlan, former Nova Scotian member of parliament and federal finance minister, painted by a 45-year-old Digby housewife, has been presented to the provincial Progressive Conservative Association. Last week Mrs. Ruth Graham, an amateur painter for seven years, presented the portrait to Jack Chappell, secretary of the association. The presentation was made in Halifax.

The painting was done from a photograph of Mr. Nowlan which appeared in The Digby Courier.

"I didn't know at first how it would turn out," said the amazingly youthful looking grandmother of two, "so I just went ahead and finished it in about three weeks without saying anything to anyone."

Mrs. Graham said she chose to do a portrait of the former MP for Digby-Annapolis-Kings "because I'd heard so much about him. His name was often mentioned in my house."

After Mr. Nowlan's death she said, friends who had seen the painting urged her to make a gift of it to the party he had represented.

She began painting sever-

Presents Portrait To P.C. Association

Jack Chappell, secretary of the provincial P.C. Association, accepts a portrait of the late Hon. George C. Nowlan, painted by amateur artist Mrs. Ruth Graham of Digby. The 45-year-old housewife has never had an art lesson in her life yet has painted such notables as the late Sir Winston Churchill and John F. Kennedy. (Fulton Martin, Halifax Photo Services) years ago, starting out with land and seascapes. Two years later, her son, on a visit home with his six-month-old daughter, suggested that she do a portrait of the little girl.

"I'd never thought of painting people before, because it seemed so much harder than doing seascapes," said Mrs. Graham. "But the one of my granddaughter turned out well, so I decided to keep on doing them."

During the past five years, she has done portraits of the late President John F. Kennedy and Sir Winston Churchill, from photographs, as well as other studies, for which her subjects have sat.

The portraits, along with her scenes from Nova Scotia, have become widely known enough to set scores of American tourists knocking at her door during the summer and to turn a hobby into quite a profitable pastime for this soft-spoken woman. She has never had an art lesson, although she says she would "like to study sometime in the future, if I could."

Of the Nowlan portrait, she says: "He was so well liked where I come from - and almost everywhere - that I got twice the pleasure from doing the painting."

The portrait will hang at Headquarters in Halifax.

Magazine Drive Successful

The annual magazine drive was "launched" by Mr. Donald Frost, campaign manager of the Canadian Curt's Company, during an assembly on October 14th. The magazine drive has proved very successful in past years as a means of raising funds for the Students' Council. Total subscriptions for last year's drive amounted to $1,498.95. Mr. Frost offered the Students' Council a bonus for reaching an increase over last year's total by $800.00.

This year's magazine committee is headed by John Black, assisted by Lynn Nickerson, Sandra Raymond, Barbara Black, Brenda Dunn, Nancy Jayne, Richard Wenaus, Lance Woolaver, Greg Dondale and Jack Wenaus. The staff advisor generously supporting this project is Mr. Jack Ritcey.

The highlight of the assembly was the showing of the various awards, displayed by Terry Maas and Brenda Berry, which aroused the school spirit.

At the time of publishing, the goal of this year's campaign has been nearly reached with one day left for selling. The total amount of subscriptions to date is $1,535.36.

Crowds Hear Diefenbaker At Digby

An estimated 1,200 persons gathered at the Digby Regional High School on Saturday night to hear the Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker, Premier Robert Stanfield and Progressive Conservative D-A-K candidate for the November 8 federal election, Patrick Nowlan. Besides the auditorium where people stood along all three sides of the large room and in double and triple file up the centre aisle, two class rooms had been made available where listeners could hear by means of loud speaker facilities.

Opposition leader, Diefenbaker, was introduced by Dr. Julius Comeau, of Meteghan, who used both the French and English language in making the introduction.

Mr. Diefenbaker paid tribute to the late Hon. George Nowlan, whom he said gave this constituency a unique position in all constituencies. He spoke of his son, Patrick Nowlan, the present P.C. candidate, as an outstanding man with unusual ability.

The opposition leader lashed at Prime Minister Pearson for calling an election without looking up the law and also for making threats for another election in 18 months if the Liberals do not get a majority. "Let me tell you," commented Mr. Diefenbaker, "he'll have nothing to do with calling an election."

Looking back to 1957, he said if gallop polls had anything to do with his election he would not have been Prime Minister.

In speaking of education Mr. Diefenbaker said that Canada is in secondary position in so many fields of education. Cost of education is mounting tremendously, he said, and then promised higher education grants with special recognition to the Maritime educational problems. He pledged per capita grant for education to the provinces an increase from $2 to $5, and special recognition to Maritime universities. He also said he would introduce a Ministry of Youth, if elected, so that young people would have a place to lay their claims and interests.

The time has come, the opposition leader said, when men and women in the armed forces are realizing that what is going on is unjust in the matter of forced retirement. He said a government which he would head would wipe out forced retirement of armed forces personnel and restore security to their lives.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said that he would establish a special firefighting force in the armed forces which would be available both in personnel and in equipment in times of forest fires in the various provinces.

At the same time Mr. Diefenbaker referred to Defence Minister Paul Hellyer flying from Greenwood recently on an aircraft registered to North American Aviation Company. He said Mr. Hellyer should explain why he used such a plane in a trip to Greenwood in an election campaign.

To Ensure Good Digby Water Supply

The Digby Town Council on Monday night went on record as supporting the Digby Water Commission in its proposed plan to provide and conserve a good and ample water supply for consumers. An engineer from out of town was to be in town on Tuesday and, if deemed necessary by the Water Commission, his services would be retained and plans for improvements carried out, according to Fred Mulise, who addressed the Council as representative from the Commission. Dr. D. E. Lewis, councillor, suggested that plans might be made in view of twenty years hence rather than for only present needs.

Correspondence from the Attorney General of Nova Scotia brought to the notice of the Council that water pipe lines of the town had been constructed over property formerly belonging to the Digby Pines but which now has been purchased by the Nova Scotia government. It was moved by Council that if the arrangement with the Pines had not been registered, then, the agreement in respect to the same, as outlined in the letter, should be signed by council.

It was decided that rather than use the large town truck for transporting men and tools from place to place, that the town pay to the streets foreman at the rate of ten cents per mile on a month's trial for use of his half ton truck.

A letter was read from Hon. Stephen Pyke, Minister of Highways in the Nova Scotia government, in reply to a letter from the town. The Minister's letter advised that the last resurfacing job done on the highways through town was nine years ago. He stated that it was not surprising that the pavement was deteriorating as life expectancy of the pavement was from 8 to 12 years.

Plan For Town Election

At a meeting of the Digby Town Council on Monday night, it was decided the place of the town election on December 5th would be at the Digby Fire Hall. Presiding officer will be Harry Titus and A. T. Grimmer, Poll clerks are Mrs. Barbara Weir, Mrs. George Winfield and Mrs. R. B. Lent, alternate.

It was announced that E. Sangster, of the Digby Board of Trade, was endeavouring to get people to consent to run in the election for vacancies of mayor and three councillors. It was also noted that the candidate had to give his or her consent before the nomination could be placed.

Welfare Committee To Meet Each Week

The Digby Town Council on Monday night heard plans by its Welfare Committee, headed by Councillor Bernard Bell, to have one night each week set apart when individual welfare problems would be heard.

THESE ARE YOUR CANDIDATES

J. Patrick Nowlan
Progressive Conservative

On November 8 Canadians will go to the polls to elect their 27th parliament. In the constituency of Digby-Annapolis-Kings it will be a three-way political fight.

Mr. Nowlan

John Patrick Nowlan, the Progressive Conservative candidate, was born November 10, 1931, at Wolfville, a son of the late George C. Nowlan and Miriam Grace Chisholm. He was educated at Acadia University (B.A.) and at Dalhousie University (L.B.). In 1956 he married Cynthia Cornish and they have three children. Mr. Nowlan practised law at Wolfville from 1955-57; Vancouver, B.C., 1957-65. He is a member of the N. S. Bar, B. C. Bar and Canadian Bar. He was an unsuccessful candidate in the

John E. Shaffner
Liberal

1962 Provincial Election in B. C. Mr. Nowlan has held several public offices including chairman of school board and chairman of board of health, in West Vancouver.

Mr. Shaffner

John Elvin Shaffner, Liberal candidate, was born March 3, 1911, in Lawrencetown. He graduated from Acadia with a B.A. degree in 1931. He is married to the former Nell Margaret Potter, of Middleton, and they have two daughters. Mr. Shaffner is a member of the executive of the Canadian Manufacturers Association; director and president of M. W. Graves & Co. Ltd., Canada Foods Ltd., and Seven-Up (Maritime) Ltd., Halifax; vice-president of Evangeline Investments Ltd., of Halifax; member of Board of Governors of Acadia University; and a former director of Atlantic Provinces Economic Council. In the 1963 federal election Mr. Shaffner was defeated by Hon. George C. Nowlan.

George Turner
New Democratic Party

Mr. Turner

George Turner, 35-year-old D.A.R. conductor, of Kentville, is the candidate representing the New Democratic Party in Digby-Annapolis-Kings. Mr. Turner is well known in the Valley area, having been a candidate in the last provincial election in Kings North. He is chairman of Bluenose Lodge #723 of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and takes an active part in activities of Kentville Baptist Church, including a member of the choir.

Shaffner At Weymouth

John E. Shaffner, Liberal candidate for Digby-Annapolis-Kings, will address a public meeting at the Legion Hall, Weymouth, Friday evening. Other speakers include Peter M. Nicholson, M.L.A. for Annapolis West and Liberal House leader in the Nova Scotia Legislature; and Emanuel Adelaar.

Premier Expects Petite Passage Report Shortly

Premier Robert Stanfield at a P. C. Rally at the Digby Regional High School on Saturday night told the audience that a study of Petite Passage is now underway and that information about Petite Passage crossing should be forthcoming shortly.

The Premier encouraged the operations of fish plants when he said he hoped that help towards better water facilities would be available so that the plants could continue to make progress. He expressed a lack of confidence in an administration which imposed restrictions on purse seiners on the New Brunswick Shore of the Bay of Fundy which jeopardized the work fishermen in the St. Mary's Bay and the Annapolis Basin.

Mr. Stanfield said that progress is being made with plans for a vocational school in this part of the province but so far he cannot say where it will be located.

Speaking further on education Mr. Stanfield said that Nova Scotia had to compete with other provinces in terms of educational standards and that the Nova Scotia children should have education comparable to children of other provinces. Speaking of the Pearson equalization grants, he said that in Nova Scotia we cannot provide the necessary standards of services in education based on equalization. We must do all we possibly can ourselves but education is also a national interest and special grants should be given the Atlantic provinces in order to have them compete favourably with other provinces in education.

In the field of public welfare, the Premier said it was a ludicrous idea to think of making a flat 50 per cent approach as a standard of welfare assistance.

Mr. Stanfield struck out against the Pearson government in their attitude towards off shore mineral rights. He objected to the Pearson decision to turn the controversial question over to the Supreme Court of Canada instead of settling it around a conference table.

Speaking in a more local vein the Premier said it was an important thing that the government had bought the Pines Hotel property here and that it would be maintained and operated at high standard so that it would be a credit to this part of Nova Scotia and all of Canada.

Mr. Stanfield was introduced by Dr. Paul Kinsman M.L.A.

Fishermen Escape From Burning Boat

Three Digby fishermen, Captain Walter Longmire and crewmen Sherman Clayton and Victor Hamilton, of the 65-foot scallop dragger "Lipkus III", escaped injury when the dragger, exploded and burned off Digby Gap late Thursday evening.

The explosion, which destroyed the Lipkus, is said to have occurred about 7:30 when a furnace in the vessel blew up. Flashes rapidly engulfed the vessel and the captain and crew were forced to go overboard in a dory.

The dory was badly damaged in the effort to get it into the water but, despite this, the three men started out in an attempt to row to shore about three-quarters of a mile away.

After a long row they landed on the shore and then started through the woods toward the nearest community, Victoria Beach. Because of the heavy snowstorm, gale and darkness they lost their way, and it was not until after midnight they reached the village.

The vessel is reported a total loss. None of the men suffered any injury. Captain Longmire is from Parker's Cove, Sherman Clayton is from Hillsburn, and Victor Hamilton is from Litchfield.

Longmire and Clayton narrowly escaped death about three years ago when their car went out of control and toppled over the Digby wharf. The two men escaped before the vehicle had sunk.

Receives Medal

Stanley Bruce Outhouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Outhouse, Tiverton, was recipient of a 1965 Lieutenant Governor's Medal according to an announcement by Lieutenant Governor H. P. MacKeen.

Stanley, a student of the Island Consolidated High School in Freeport obtained the highest marks in Digby County on the provincial examinations of Grade XI in the subjects of English, history, science, mathematics and a foreign language.

Miss Beverly Ann Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wright, East Waldeck, student at Annapolis Royal Regional High School won the same distinction for Annapolis County.

Replacement Vessel For "Acadia" Sought

Efforts are underway in Digby and Saint John, N. B., to have a replacement vessel secured for the Bay of Fundy run while the CTS Princess of Acadia is in drydock from November 4 to December 2.

It is understood that Digby Mayor C. D. Snow has been in contact with interested parties in Saint John, and has learned that the former ferry Grand Manan II, which was replaced only two weeks ago by a new ship on the run between Saint John and Grand Manan, is available to take over the Digby-Saint John service.

This vessel is capable of carrying seventy passengers and twelve cars, and, it has been learned, can be made ready to go on the run on two hours notice.

Contacts have been made with the Digby and Saint John Boards of Trade for their support in getting a replacement ship for the service. It is understood that support of the Maritime Boards of Trade and other organizations has been enlisted.

NDP Candidate Escapes Injury

George Turner, N.D.P. candidate for Digby-Annapolis-Kings in the November 8 election, was one of those in charge of the crane car which was in collision with the D.A.R. train at Coldbrook last Saturday. Mr. Turner and his companion, Fred Graham were not hurt.

Press Reception

A press reception was held at the Maria Motor Motel, Digby on Saturday night following the Progressive Conservative Rally for Digby-Annapolis-Kings when speakers were the Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker, Premier Robert Stanfield, and candidate, Patrick Nowlan.

More than twenty reporters and photographers from various national news media in Toronto, Montreal, and Atlantic points as well as representatives from the Digby newspaper occupied the press tables for the Rally and enjoyed the reception later.

The trophy donated by the Legion has also been made by the Legion. It was first presented to the Digby Little League winning team last year. The winning team last year was also the Merchants. The trophy will be displayed in Wright's of Digby Ltd. window.

The presentation was made on Friday night at the Digby Branch Canadian Legion headquarters at a banquet sponsored by the Legion and catered to by the Legion Auxiliary who donated their services.

Some forty boys, their coaches and friends were welcomed by Mr. Cleveland who expressed the hope that more organizations besides the Legion, Merchants, Kiwanis and Lions might sponsor teams. One of the worst difficulties, he said, was to get men to help with the teams.

Umpire William MacLeod was master of ceremonies for the banquet. He mentioned

Former Bear River Doctor Passes

Dr. Alexander B. Campbell, 72, a retired Halifax doctor, died at the Victoria General Hospital late Thursday evening.

Dr. Campbell was born in Westville in 1893. He was educated in Inverness schools, at Pictou Academy, and graduated from Dalhousie Medical School. He served in France during World War One with the Canadian Artillery.

After a year on the staff of the Nova Scotia Sanatorium, he took up general medical practice at Bear River where he stayed from 1922 to 1946. In 1946 he became Chief Medical Officer of the Workman's Compensation Board for the Province of Nova Scotia, continuing in that office until retirement in 1956.

Dr. Campbell was active in professional and community affairs. He was past-president of the Provincial Medical Society, of the North British Society and of the Halifax Branch of the Canadian Club. He was an elder of Fort Massey United Church, a 32nd degree Mason, a member of the Board of Governors of Pine Hill Divinity Hall and of the Board of Dalhousie University.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mabel Daisy Morrison; one son, Dr. James S. Campbell, Ottawa; three sisters, Mrs. George F. Cameron of Burlington, Ont.; Mrs. Vincent Crosby of Framingham, Mass.; and Mrs. Harold S. MacDonald of Toronto; and three brothers, James R. of Marlboro, Mass.; William of Weston, Mass.; and Brenton of Halifax.

Commercial Sign Regulations Getting Checked

Permits granted at the Digby Town Council on Monday night included extensions to home, business, erection of neon signs, laying of telephone lines and commercial licenses.

The following permits were granted: to Digby Dairy to erect a cement tiling addition to their building to contain a cold room, pasteurizing room and bottle room; to Richard Warner to erect an 8x25 extension to his home for a porch and laundry; to Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Co., to place buried telephone cables at a depth of 30 inches in the Racquette area; to Metropolitan Stores to erect a 2000 lb. neon sign 6x21 ft. at a height of 17 ft. above the sidewalk on their property on Water St.; to Maria Motel to erect a sign at the corner of Warwick St. and Montague Row. The last two were granted under compliance with certain regulations. The clerk was requested to take note of all signs in the town to see if they had been erected under permit and in compliance with regulations.

A new photo shop in town was granted a license and notice is to be given others who operate photography in town that a license will be necessary where tax assessment does not apply.

Negro Student Gets Bursary

Miss Pearlina Barton, St. Patrick's Business School, Digby, was recently awarded one of the three bursaries worth $400 (total) granted to negro students by the Nova Scotia Association Advancement Colored People.

The bursaries are available to all negro students in the province.

These bursaries were originally made possible because of a $500 gift from the RCAF Protestant congregations through the Air Force Central Institute Branch. Since then other interested groups and individuals have made substantial contributions.

Miss Barton is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Barton, Acaciaville.

Shot Gets Steer

A steer belonging to Hugh Robbins, Rossway, was found in the field near his home on Monday morning having been shot some time during the night or early morning. It is thought it is not known whether the animal was mistaken for a deer or not. R.C.M.P. have been notified.

Nowlan Says Needs Not Fulfilled

The announcement made here some weeks ago, by Hon. Mitchell Sharp respecting the Digby wharf does not half fulfill the requirements of the people here said Patrick Nowlan, P. C. candidate for Digby-Annapolis-Kings, when speaking at a Rally on Saturday night in Digby.

Mr. Nowlan told the audience that if he were elected he was prepared to dedicate himself and give himself fully to the interest of his constituency. Parliament, he said, has changed so that it is now necessary to devote full time to the job. The members, he said, are paid on a full time basis and if elected he intends to give fully of his time. There are many problems, among them the crossing at Petite Passage, which need full time attention at Ottawa, he said. It is necessary to have a Conservative government in Ottawa to work with the Conservative government in Halifax to look after the needs here, the speaker commented.

Mr. Nowlan made no specific promises except that of working to the best of his ability for the constituency he represents.

Mr. Nowlan told the audience that he had participated in every election with his late father, Hon. George Nowlan, who represented Digby-Annapolis-Kings in Ottawa for many years. He said his family roots were in Digby County and he would always retain his interest even should there be redistribution of constituencies.

Mr. Nowlan was introduced by Dr. G. V. Turnbull, Digby, and was supported also by Baden Powell, M.L.A., who said that in sending Patrick Nowlan to Ottawa, they were sending a man of honesty and of dedication to the job.

Smith's Cove Girl In Train Crash

Miss Heather Schell, Smith's Cove, was one of the passengers on the D.A.R. train which crashed head-on into a crane at Coldbrook, Kings Co., on Saturday. She was taken to hospital but had no serious injuries, it is understood. Also taken to hospital was conductor Albert (Shiner) Manning, Kentville, formerly of Digby. Mrs. Norma Thompson, Newport Station, D.A.R. relief telegraph operator at Digby for the past two weeks, also received cuts and bruises. While in Digby she stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Conrad.

Freeport Boy Graduates From Radio College

David Teed of Freeport, has successfully graduated from a twelve months course in Electronic Engineering Technology at Radio College of Canada, Toronto, according to information received from the college. Through the help of the Placement Bureau at the college, he has accepted a position with Northern Electric Company at Barmalea, Ontario.

Make Bouquet Presentations

Little Miss Milicent Raymond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Raymond, Centreville, in a gracious manner, presented a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Diefenbaker, wife of the Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker, at a Progressive Conservative Rally held at the Digby Regional High School on Saturday night.

Looking winsome and charming, Little Miss Heather Elms, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Elms and the late Mrs. Elms, Conway, presented Mrs. Patrick Nowlan, wife of the Progressive Conservative candidate for Digby-Annapolis-Kings, with a bouquet of red roses at the same Rally.

Both recipients, who attended a tea in Kentville in the afternoon greeting 1,000 guests at the tea, responded in the usual appreciative manner.

An Open Letter To the Electors of Digby Annapolis Kings

Dear Elector -

The story appears to be spreading throughout the constituency that if elected on November 8th, I would not be devoting my full time as your representative.

To the end of clearing up any such misunderstanding I wish to state that if elected I will devote my full time and effort on your behalf as your representative in the parliament of Canada.

May I have your support on November 8.

Yours sincerely,

John Shaffner.

Dedication Service

Above is the South Range Church of Christ which has recently been renovated with a new front, a new furnace installed and venetian blinds added.

Special services will be held at the church on November 9, 10 and 11. The dedication of the new additions will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 9. Special Evangelistic services will be held on Wednesday and Thursday evenings when Rev. Cecil Fletcher, Douglas Avenue Christian Church, Saint John, N.B., will be the guest speaker. The minister of the church, Rev. Russell Carr, will preside. There will be special music at each service. During the past few years this congregation has added a Vestry and a new organ, and completed remodeling the inside of the Church. With the new addition it is considered one of the best equipped rural churches in the area.

December the 12th, the congregation will mark the 74th year in this present building. The congregation was established in the year 1851 under the leadership of Rev. Donald Crowford and many years they continued to worship without the assistance of a full time minister.

Home and School Meet

The first meeting of the Weymouth Area Home and School Association for 1965-66 was held in the school auditorium on Tuesday evening, Oct. 26, with a large attendance. Dr. W. P. Oliver, field representative, adult education division was speaker, using the topic, "Is Guidance and Counseling Necessary for maximum achievements?" The meeting was chaired by the pres. Rev. Russel Carr.

Dr. Oliver said that "people must be involved in education, not just professionals." He spoke on the goals of education and the problems of change. He said, "young people should be equipped with at least, three vocations", as in these times, young people were being educated for occupations which soon become obsolete in this age of increasing automation.

Dr. Oliver was introduced by the new supervising principal J. Wilbert Layton, formerly of Dartmouth, who was himself introduced by the chairman of the trustees, Mrs. John Shaw.

Mr. Layton spoke of changes in the school curriculum and introduced new members of the staff this year.

A report from the adult education chairman, Mrs. J. Frankland, showed classes in oil painting, and sewing were under way, and a second sewing class soon to start. Classes in Home Nursing and Choral singing were in the process of being formed, and it was suggested that if eight interested persons could be found for any class, the effort would be made to find instructors.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the social committee.

In Memoriam

BARNETT In loving memory of George Barnett who departed this life November 1st, 1964. Time may heal the broken hearted. Time may make the wound less sore. But it cannot fill the longing for the loved one gone before. Who shall say that grief is lessened? Though smiles may hide the tears. Memories keep the wound still open. With the passing of the year, I cannot bring the old days back. When we were all together. But loving thought and memories of him will live with us forever. Always remembered by wife and family. 11:11c

MOREHOUSE - In loving memory of our dear mother, Sadie Morehouse, who passed away November 3rd, 1961. The voice is mute and stilled the heart. That loved us well and true. Ah, bitter was the trial to part. From one so good as you. Lovingly remembered by sons and daughters. 11:11c Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Lucie Amirault and to

Digby Co. Youth Conference

The Fall meeting of the Digby County Baptist Youth Conference was held in the Hill Grove church on Saturday afternoon. Carol Young of Digby presided at the meeting.

Representatives of youth groups from Digby, Hill Grove, Smith's Cove, Acaciaville, Barton, and the Centreville churches were present at the session that lasted over four hours and with a program packed with interesting features.

The opening devotional service was conducted by the Hill Grove young people, while the final devotional service was led by young people from the Smith's Cove church. The young people's choir of the Acaciaville church sang special numbers at both of these services to the great enjoyment and inspiration of all present.

The Conference Counsellor, Rev. H. S. Hartlin, introduced the theme for the afternoon program on "Youth and the Church." Mrs. Donald Buckler took charge of the girl's group, and Rev. Gordon Chappell of Nictaux led the boys group in separate discussions on the theme.

Following the discussion a recreational period led by Rev. R. R. Winchester was held in the church hall where lunch was also served.

Rev. Gordon Chappell brought the Conference to a close with a message on the Challenge of the Church to the young people of today, and urged them to make Christ central in their lives and witness.

An invitation from the Smith's Cove young people to hold the Spring Conference in their church was accepted. were recent visitors to Saint Delegates to the Baptist Association meeting held at Little River last Tuesday were Mrs. Hugh Robbins, Mrs. Willard Wentzell and Mrs. Bernard McBride.

Rossway

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lewis were Sunday afternoon guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Pyne of Centreville.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Lewis

John and Frederieton where they visited their daughters and daughter-in-law.

Mr. Chester Haight spent a few days last week with his brother Guy and Mrs. Haight at Waldeck.

Mrs. Loren Shaw of Centreville spent Wednesday with Mrs. Waters Comeau.

Mrs. Allison Merritt and family of Mink Cove spent the weekend with Mrs. Merritt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Theriault.

The annual hall meeting was held in the Rossway Hall last Monday evening. Mrs. Waters Comeau acted as chairman and Mrs. Edison Specht as secretary for the evening. Mr. Darrell Lewis was re-appointed trustee for the ensuing three years. Trustees now are Mr. George MacKay, Mr. Darrell Lewis and Mrs. Edison Specht with the latter also secretary and treasurer.

Smith's Cove

Mrs. Tom Melner is a patient in the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax.

Mr. William Berry, who has been a patient in the Digby hospital for the past two weeks returned home on Thursday.

The Misses Sandra Tild and Brenda Berry attended the BYPU Fall Rally at the Hill Grove Baptist Church on Saturday.

Miss Joan Pyne, Halifax was the weekend guest of her sister, Mrs. Vic Ettinger and Mr. Ida.

Miss C. Beale, and friend of Halifax were weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Beeler. Miss Holly Berry spent the good health.

Canada Savings Bonds are issued by the Government of Canada. Any Canadian resident may buy them. They come in various sizes—$50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000. The limit for the new Series is $10,000 per person.

The 1965 Bonds have a life of 12 years. They pay you good interest every year—4 1/2% for each of the first two years; 5% for each of the next six years and 5 1/2% for each of the remaining four years.

You don't have to keep your Bond for the full 12 years if you don't want to. You can get your money back any time. Just take it to your bank, trust or loan company. They'll give you its full face value plus earned interest. It only takes a few moments.

Canada Savings Bonds are easy to buy for cash or on instalments. Banks sell them. So do investment dealers, stock brokers, trust and loan companies.

You can also buy them on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. A $100 Bond will cost you less than 29¢ a day. (The Bonds you buy on the Payroll Savings Plan are identical in all respects to the Bonds you buy for cash.)

Canada Savings Bonds are a great way to save. They pay good interest. They are easy to buy. You can cash them any time.

Everyone has something to save for. To get what you want a little faster, buy Canada Savings Bonds.

This ad is for people who've never bought Canada Savings Bonds before.

WATER SUPPLY

 An agreement with the Digby Salvage and Disposal Company was entered into. It is expected the new incinerator for garbage disposal on Digby Neck will be ready for operation by December 1. Until such time as the incinerator is ready, if there is a delay, the company will operate from the present dump. After the town dump is no more in use, sums from the plan in order to increase old age pensions to $100 per month, he said, and then commented that Miss Judy LaMarsh was going to take $2,000,000 from the plan for advertising. Mr. Diefenbaker also said that he would remove the means test for blind persons.

Mr. Diefenbaker agreed that eleven percent sales tax on construction materials should be removed.

The Council will proceed to have it cleared of rodents and cleaned up and sanitary in connection of the authorities. Councilor Lewis reported on the work of the zoning committee and mapped out areas and regulations which might apply to future subdivisions. The homes of fairly equal value are more likely to be erected in certain areas. It was decided that some definite action must be taken to assure a uniformity of sewer frontage charges and or sewer entrance charges to home owners in the town.

Councilor Ralph MacIntyre reported for Emergency Measures Organization. An auxiliary police force was trained in October with the six persons completing the course to receive certificates on November 1. There will be an auxiliary fire course in November. Carl Melanson was made deputy E.M.O. director for the Councilor Leonard Bell was asked to contact the Lions Club to have them appoint a representative on the Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival Committee.

The police report showed 14 complaints had been registered with the police in October. Ten required field investigation, eleven required court action. Eight came under the Nova Scotia Liquor Act and four under criminal code, one motor vehicle accident, one break and entry.

Parking on the roadway in front of the school came in for discussion because of danger to the children.

A detailed report of the streets committee showed 1,437 hours of work costing $1,377.75 were given to water, dump, tractor repairs, sewer, bridges, leaves, ditches and street maintenance.

DIEFENBAKER AT DIGBY

Mr. Diefenbaker said that the pegging of the dollar by his administration had resulted in Canada having the largest export trade in its history as well as the greatest tourist traffic of all time. Despite the fact that the Liberals had adversely criticized him for his policy, they have followed his policy. He noted that he made no complaints about the criticism for he knew sooner or later he would be right.

Leaders, Mr. Diefenbaker said, must have backbone to stand for what is right. He said he might have been on the wrong side at times but he never was on the side of wrong. He said that the Liberals are not mentioning Rivard in their campaign. Forgetfulness is a good quality at times, he said, but not for a Prime Minister to forget some of the things which Mr. Pearson forgot about bribery in certain places.

Another thing which the Liberals do not tell about in the election campaign is the flag, he commented. Today, he said, we have two flags and two pension plans, two nations in a single state and ten states in a single nation. He deplored their "under the table" and secret means.

Speaking of the Liberal disintegration practice, Mr. Diefenbaker said that in the last two and a half years there has been greater disintegration in Canada than ever before in its history. There is province against province and race against race, he said. He said the Diefenbaker government had a bill of rights which denied discrimination of any kind. On the international scene, the opposition leader said that we ought not to build walls of starvation if we ever hope to have a degree of peace.

Mr. Diefenbaker deplored the attitude of the Liberal government toward the Atlantic provinces. He objected to the question of mineral rights off Nova Scotia coast being taken to the Supreme Court of Canada. He felt the whole question should be settled in the spirit of Confederation by a conference.

Mr. Diefenbaker criticized the Liberal financial policy and said that one reason Pearson is going to the people is because they find themselves in an awkward financial position. Imports, he said, have been up eleven percent over last year. Exports are up only 5½ percent, which means a very serious balance of payment problem, he concluded. In the automobile transaction, the opposition leader said that it was unfair of the government not assuring a reduction in price of cars while manufacturers received a large sum on which to enjoy themselves. He charged the government was floundering from chaos to chaos.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he felt that allowance should be made to deduct municipal tax-as when computing income tax returns.

Speaking of social security, the opposition leader said that the Canada Pension scheme would cost the people twice as much as if bought from a private company. It will cost 18 percent of the employee's salary and an equal amount from the employer. If elected his government would take

Board Concerned Jack Ritecy No Ferry Replacement Heads Digby Branch Alumni

The Digby Board of Trade was gravely concerned at its regular meeting on Tuesday night that no replacement has been provided for the C.P.S. Princess of Acadia which went off the Bay of Fundy run on November 4 to go into drydock for repairs and general overhaul. The ship is expected to be off the run until December 1. This, it was stated, is causing great inconvenience and loss to passengers, fish dealers and other business firms. Three quarters of the fish caught here is exported. It was said, and a large percentage of that is shipped to the U.S.A.

Mayor C. D. Snow, who presided at the meeting in the absence of president Charles Haliburton, reported that he had contacted interested parties in Saint John and learned that the Grand Manan II would be available to take over the Digby - Saint John service while the Princess of Acadia was laid up. The Grand Manan II had been replaced a few weeks ago by a new ship on the run from Saint John to Grand Manan. The vessel, Mayor Snow said, is capable of carrying 90 passengers and 12 cars.

Telegrams and other correspondence between the Digby Board of Trade and several authoritative parties were read at the meeting. Telegrams pointing out the inconvenience and disadvantage of there being no boat replacement, had been sent by president Charles Haliburton to R. A. Emerson, President Canadian Pacific Railway Company; Hon. J. W. Pickersgill, Minister of Transport; Canadian Maritime Commission and Maritime Transportation Commission. Support was received from the Saint John Board of Trade which emphasized that the maintenance of the Digby-Saint John ferry service is vitally important to the economy of the areas.

The reply telegram from R. A. Emerson, C.P.R. stated that while the C.P.R. regrets the difficulties caused business men in the Digby area as a result of the docking of the Acadia, to adopt the suggestion of the Digby Board of Trade would entail a study of the technical feasibility and economics involved in the suggested Charter (Grand Manan II) arrangement. In view of the relatively short period involved, the telegram stated, the C.P.R. did not consider this feasible. The telegram also mentioned that the Acadia, while in drydock will have installed a bow thruster which will enable the vessel to operate more consistently during heavy weather.

Both the Maritimes Transportation Commission and Canadian Maritime Commission had replied to the effect that they had taken up the matter as presented by the Digby Board of Trade and had contacted Mr. Emerson and Mr. Pickersgill by telegram. Their reply from the C.P.R. was similar to that received by the Digby Board of Trade.

Mayor Snow said that the matter of better transportation service in general between Jack Ritecy was on Friday night elected president of the Digby Branch of the Associated Alumni of Acadia University at the annual meeting of the branch held at the Digby Legion headquarters. Mr. Ritecy succeeds Mrs. Eva Wendell, Wolfville, formerly of Digby. Elected first vice-president was Joseph Steadman, and vice-president, Mrs. Robert Beattie, and secretary, treasurer, Mrs. H. M. Warne. Guest speaker for the evening was Dr. Erik Hansen, President of the Acadia Alumni and Provost of the University, who took as his topic "The Problems of a Modern University." He spoke on the problems from three areas: finance, faculty and students.

Financial requirements, the speaker said, have changed through the years. Taking an example of science, Dr. Hansen said that one time one professor could handle science; today five or six are needed in each chemistry, physics, biology, etc. The larger faculty needed also brings on the need for more students. It is a problem in relation to finances, he said, to determine what size a university should attempt to be. Long range planning in financing is necessary.

Financing was dealt with under endowments which are more and more needed for the universities to exist, government financing, industrial and incorporated business monies. The industries, he said, depend on university graduates for employees and are recognizing the fact by greater donations. Revenue to operate a university requires $500 per student over and above the tuition and other fees paid by students. There is no magic solution to finances, he said, and the battle will continue. Even the twelve month year basis will not solve the difficulty for this in itself creates staff problems and maintenance opportunity problems. Acadia, he said, is almost on an all-year basis as summer schools are in great demand.

It is increasingly difficult to get qualified people to teach at the salaries which universities can pay, Dr. Hansen said. Faculty, he said, carries a great load and cannot be expected to be perfect. Engaging faculty he felt should be done on as broad a basis as possible so as not to add burdens to the university.

Problems of youth today, Dr. Hansen said, are the same as they have always been. There is the same rebellious spirit. They are still sampling values and thoughts in search of the proper set of values by which to live. They feel causes should be examined and they are looking for the answers which they do not always get. Most of the problems of students at university are not problems because of university but problems of which seeds had been sown in earlier life. Sympathy from parent, university and student body is necessary to solve the problems.

Dr. Hansen complimented Mrs. Wendell, who presided and introduced the speaker, on the success of the Digby Branch Alumni which had closed its second year and for the splendid edition of The Digby Courier which published the research project.

Jack Ritecy proposed a toast to Acadia University, which was responded to by Charles Haliburton.

Minor Hockey November 20th

More than 200 youngsters have filed registration forms to participate in the Digby Minor Hockey League. Play is expected to begin November 20.

League officials will make the draw to select players for various teams, this weekend. It is understood that a sufficient number of coaches will be available as in recent years. The league has again adopted the slogan, "Keep your child on ice this winter, and out of hot water."

Crippled Man Gives Alarm

Flames swept through a two and one half storey farm dwelling at Clementsvale, early Saturday morning, gutting the interior and destroying the personal possessions of its owners.

W. C. Curphey, 50, a paraplegic, was awakened at about 5 a.m. by smoke, which appeared to be coming from the living room fireplace.

He awakened his wife, the only other occupant of the house and told her "the place" was on fire.

Mrs. Curphey's first reaction was to get her husband out of the house as quickly as possible. This meant dressing him and getting him into his wheelchair, out of the first floor bedroom and to safety.

Mrs. Curphey then called the fire department at Annapolis but by the time firefighters arrived on the scene, almost 25 minutes had passed, and the flames raged beyond control.

Nearby Bear River and Cornwallis fire departments were called in to help fight the fire but could do little to save the house and its contents.

Mr. Snow said that a meeting of the committee had been called to which Mr. Purdy, V. G. Cardozo, H. M. Warne, Charles Haliburton and himself had been present. He reported that both vocational and trade schools were discussed and plans to date were to contact R. Baden Powell for information about trade schools. Another meeting would then be called before proceeding with endeavours to contact authority on having a school established here.

John Alphe Amiraault, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Amiraault, 59 Warwick Street, Digby, Nova Scotia, was one of the three students awarded an Entrance Scholarship of $666.67 by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Limited to sponsor registration in mining and Geological Engineering.

John a graduate of Digby Regional High in 1963 received his Engineering Diploma from St. Francis Xavier University is now registered in the Junior year of Geological Engineering at the Nova Scotia Technical College, Halifax, N. S.

Children Lost

Children ranging in age from five to nine years were lost in the woods at East Ferry for five hours before they were located at about 9:30 p.m. on Friday night.

The children were: Kim Eugene Shaw, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shaw, Centerville; Carla Jean, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Horner, East Ferry and Rebecca Lynn, 8, and Bruce Gregory, 5, children of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Theriault, East Ferry.

The children left for a stroll in the woods at 4:30 in the afternoon, choosing a path through the woods towards St. Mary's Bay which was filled with by-paths. Darkness fell before they were able to return.

R.C.M.P. were called in to help in the search.

$1,400 For Acadia Development Fund

Dr. Erik Hansen, (right above) accepts on behalf the Associated Alumni of Acadia University, cheques and pledges amounting to $1400 for the Acadia University Development Fund. The presentation was made by Mrs. Eva Wendell (centre), retiring president of the Digby branch of the alumni, at a banquet and annual meeting of the branch held at the Digby Legion headquarters on Friday. Mrs. H. M. Warne, branch treasurer (left) passed the gift to Mrs.

Wendell who in turn presented it to Dr. Hansen. Dr. Hansen, who is president of the Associated Alumni of Acadia University was the guest speaker at the banquet meeting.

The gifts, Mrs. Wendell said, came as a result of a special publicity project of publishing in The Digby Courier the results of a research which traced all those from Digby County who had attended Acadia University through the years. Mrs. Wendell thanked the executive, the staff of the Courier and all who helped in research or donations to make the project a success.

Mrs. Wendell said that from the survey results she was inclined to think that there is no County in the Maritimes with a greater percentage of its people going on to higher education than Digby County. She felt the project done for Acadia was a challenge to other alumni to carry on similar projects for the benefit of their universities.

PCs GAIN IN NOVA SCOTIA NOWLAN TAKES D-A-K

Canadians went to the polls Monday and elected their fourth minority government since 1957. The Liberal party led by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, were successful in having 129 members elected to Canada's 273rd parliament, the same number they held in the 1963 election. John Diefenbaker's Progressive Conservatives took 99 seats, a gain of four. Other party standings: New Democrats 21; Credit Union 9; Social Credit 5; Independents 2.

A total of 10,225,335 Canadians were eligible to vote. Mines Minister J. Watson MacNaught was defeated in the Prince Edward Island seat of Prince and Agriculture Minister Harry Hayes lost in Alberta, but all other cabinet ministers did well. Liberals received 39% of the vote, Conservatives 33%, NDP 18%, Credit Union 5%, Social Credit 3%, others 1%.

The Progressive Conservatives swept eleven of Nova Scotia's twelve seats, taking all but that of Labor Minister Allan J. MacEachen in Inverness-Richmond-Cape Breton West. Eleven New Democrats in Nova Scotia lost their $200 deposit. Only Edward Johnston in Cape Breton South was successful in polling half as many votes as the victorious candidate.

In Digby - Annapolis - Kings

John Patrick Nowlan, 6, was victorious in the seat that his father, the late Hon. George C. Nowlan, had represented since 1959. Final standings show Nowlan 17,570; Ian E. Shaffner, Liberal, 11,073; George Turner, New Democrat, 971; Of 30,287 eligible voters in D-A-K, 32,577 exercised their right to vote. In the town section of Digby, 1008 of 12,850 eligible voters voted. In Digby municipal there were 1883 voters of a total 6,217 eligible. The Clare section of Digby County is included in another constituency.

The result of the armed forces vote will be known this Saturday. In 1963 service men cast 15,607 votes in Nova Scotia, 1,112 going to Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

In Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare John O. Bower, P.C., stayed in upset over Fred T. Armstrong, Liberal member in the last parliament. Final totals show Bower 10,603; Armstrong 9,394; A. R. MacGillivray, N.D.P., 1,501.

The Progressive Conservatives now hold 19 of the 39 seats in the Atlantic Provinces, compared with 13 in the last election. Newfoundland elected 7 Liberals; Prince Edward Island 4 Conservatives; New Brunswick 6 Liberals and 4 Conservatives.

A breakdown, poll by poll, in the western sector of Digby-Annapolis-Kings follows:

Lions Hallowe'en Party Success

Between 550 and 600 children attended the Shellout Hallowe'en Party at the Lions Hall Saturday night. Each person that came was treated with a bag of candy and peanuts, a bag of chips and ice cream and their choice of pop. Nearly 2 barrels of choice apples were also given away. Prizes were presented by King Lion Dave Daley, while the rest of the Lion members were busy counting shellout tickets and passing out goodies to the children.

Heading the prize winners was Joan Farnsworth, age 7 years, who was also one of the top winners last year.

About This And That

So They Have Not Died In Vain

It is well to remember the fallen of two world wars. It is well to remember those who remained on Henders Field and those who returned from the war arena. It is well to remember them all on the special day of Remembrance, but too it is well to remember them the whole year through. With that thought in mind, we continue this editorial whether or not we later decide that publishing day, should be after Remembrance Day this week.

Remembrance Day, it is a day when we expect to honor those who fought so valiantly and so courageously braved the torments of land, sea and air. To some this honor is a matter of going through a certain ceremony for an hour or so and that is all. To others, the honoring of the war dead has a much deeper and more lasting meaning than an hour of ceremony. Their very lives show they want to live as those valiant hearts had died. They believe in the principles for which the fallen had sacrificed the lives. Those on the battle fields believed in decency, democracy, freedom, justice, love, compassion and equal rights for all men after the race, color or creed. They want to live to realize a better way of life in the world of today. The question is, did they die in vain?

The answer to the question is in our hands. We either live as though we still respect those virtues for which they died or by example we deny the very things for which they paid the supreme sacrifice or for which they gave the best years of their lives.

Shall we have them die in vain? The lives we live, and not so much an hour of ceremony, though this is good as a reminder, will give the answer.

Remember them so they have not died in vain.

Young Canada's Book Week November 15 - 22

Without a doubt, it is to our disadvantage that Digby is not fortunate enough to have a public library of any nature near at hand. Those communities like Weymouth and Sandy Cove which have access to books (although we expect they need to be replenished) should consider themselves fortunate, indeed. There is nothing we can hope to do about the erection of a library by Young Canada Book Week. November 15 - 22, 1965. Few of us there are, however, who cannot go out and purchase a new book which can add to our store of knowledge. Few there are who cannot buy a book for the youth of our own family or for a family in the community. Why not decide to do that next week?

Dr. William Kaye Lamb, National Librarian and Dominion Archivist, writes:

"When we look and listen to radio and T.V. we must see and hear what someone else chooses to make available to us, and the choice is often narrowly restricted, the subject, the level at which it is presented and the point of view from which it is dealt with, are all of someone else's choosing. Books, by contrast, can offer us an almost infinite variety of topic and point of view, and this in books that we find — and small continues to find — the fullest and most responsible discussion of many subjects that are vital to us, both as individuals and as citizens."

As true as it is important to young people is the importance that books and reading can have in their later lives and careers. No school or university, can teach them today the things that changed from sciences, new knowledge and the advance of technology. It is essential for them to know tomorrow. They themselves must be ready and able to keep their knowledge and their skills adequate and up to date. They will find that books and reading are indispensable for that purpose and that any time they may have spent acquiring skill in using them will pay handsome dividends.

No small Young Canada can acquire is more important — and none will be more important in the future — than the ability to read and to use that ability for both pleasure and profit.

Coffee

AT

Janes

Hi! Welcome to the ANSWERS TO OUR CORRESPONDENCE session of Coffee.

First of all, Mrs. Roy Stewart, of Maple Creek, Saskatchewan, wrote me about the Easy vacuum cup washing machine of my husband's aunt's which I mentioned a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Stewart says she once owned one of these machines. She purchased hers, she says, in 1928, and parted with it fourteen years ago when, she says, its age made it almost useless. She tells me that after the first year, then ran it with a thirty-two volt motor, but that when it was new it was driven by a gas engine. Mrs. Stewart did not say whether or not she bought the machine new, so I still do not know the age of Auntie's washer. She does mention that the Easy company is still manufacturing washing machines, which I knew. Perhaps I will write to the company, just from curiosity. I have not got any information on wooden merry-go-rounds yet.

Two recipes for head cheese came my way.

The first was from Miss Sue Winchester, of Joggin Bridge. Here is her recipe, exactly as I received it:

Take about five or six lbs. lean pork (spare ribs can be used). Boil until meat leaves the bone. After cooked put through a food chopper. Add salt, pepper, and sage to taste. (Sage can be omitted.) Put in waxed paper pans, press, and put in oven to bake until fat comes to the top. Take off excess fat with spoon. Turn out on wax paper to cool, and it is ready for use.

Miss Winchester says some people use beef, but she prefers pork.

Mrs. Aubrey Forrest, of Mount Pleasant, gave much the same recipe. She says that the head of a pig, if properly prepared, can be used. She uses knuckles and legs in order to solidify the head cheese well. Her instructions are: Cook, take off the bones, add salt, pepper, and sage to taste. Put in bowl and press down. Take off excess fat.

Next question:— How do you "properly prepare" a pig's head?

Now the letters are answered, and only half the usual space is used up.

I am writing this on the Eve of All Hallows, an evening which is not exactly hallowed any more. The pumpkins have been carved, and set in the windows, even though it is broad daylight. We have two new masks, of rather ridiculous cows, which have already "scared" me so many times during the writing of this article that my acting ability is beginning to wear thin. I have managed to discourage them, for the time being, at least, from wearing the masks outdoors. The supplies of apples and potato chips, intended to mollify the spirits which will be abroad this haunted evening, have already been attacked by two over exuberant ghouls, ghosties, and long legged beasties, and their multiple friends, which must be the things that go bump in the night.

I am rather dreading Hallowe'en in our new environment. I have been warned for the past several weeks that this town is the last vestige of the old, destructive types of Hallowe'en fun. It is probably too late to wish it, but I hope all the goblins are nice ones.

Recently Married

Smith's Cove United Baptist Church was the scene of a pretty candlelight wedding on Saturday evening, October 9th at 7:30 p.m. when Padre George R. Bell of Sherwater united in marriage, Linda Jean, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Brinton of Smith's Cove to Ronald Wayne, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Wright of Clementsvale. Assisting Padre Bell in the double ring ceremony was LEO Albert Marshall, pastor of the church.

Baskets of white snapdragons and pink mums decorated the front of the church and the guest pews were marked with miniature nosegays and ribbons.

The nuptial music was played by the church organist, Mrs. Frances Wallis. She also accompanied the guest soloist Mrs. Gerald Wilson of Digby who sang The Wedding Prayer before the ceremony and I'll Walk Beside You during the signing of the register.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage. She was attired in a floor length gown of white chantilly lace with a bouffant skirt caught up with matching fabric roses. The bodice featured a scalloped neckline outlined with sequins and long sleeves coming to a point at the wrist. Her shoulder veil of French illusion was held in place by a tiara of aurora borealis beads. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white streamers with attached rose buds.

Mrs. Howard Ford of Kempf was matron of honor and wore a street length gown of yellow taffeta with a matching long sleeved Chantilly lace jacket. She wore a yellow headdress with veil and carried a colonial nosegay of yellow carnations.

Mrs. Raymond Brinton of Smith's Cove, sister-in-law of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore an identical gown of pink with matching headdress and carried a pink colonial nosegay.

Little Misses Joanne and Janet Wilson, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wilson of Digby were the flower girls. They were dressed in blue lace trimmed dresses, white sequin trimmed headpieces and white accessories. They carried little baskets of pink and white carnations.

The groomsmen were Mr. Rodney Wright of Halifax, a cousin of the groom. Ushers were Roy and Raymond Brinton, Smith's Cove and Raymond Wright and Robert Sanford of Clementsvale.

The mother of the bride chose a double knit jersey sheath of peacock blue for her daughters wedding with winter white velvet hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was white carnations.

The groom's mother wore an aqua crepe jacket dress with a white hat, matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception for about 200 guests followed immediately in the church vestry. The brides table was beautifully decorated, centered with a three-tier wedding cake and white tapers in silver candlesticks on either side. Miss Gail Adams served the brides table and friends of the bride served the guests.

Miss Faye Wright, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book.

After the wedding cake was cut in the traditional manner the brides aunt, Miss Blanche Woodman, Smith's Cove presented the couple with a gift.

Deep Brook

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dumas have returned from a motor trip to Chatham, N. B., where they visited with their son, Cpl. Edwin Dumas, of the RCAF, Mrs. Dumas and family. They also visited friends at Truro on their return home.

The Ladies Dorcas Society met with Mrs. Merle Peters on Wednesday evening.

Friends have received word of the passing of Augustus Kennan of Murray River, P.E.I. Mr. and Mrs. Kennan made their home in Deep Brook for ten years. Mr. Kennan being tutor at H.M.C. Cornwallis and Mrs. Kennan assistant. Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Kennan.

The Neighbourly Club celebrated their annual dinner at the Fundy Restaurant, Digby on Wednesday evening.

Elect State

The Deep Brook Parish W.A. held their annual meeting at the home of Miss Evelyn Purdy on Monday evening. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Robert Potts; vice president, Mrs. J. Currier; secretary, Mrs. Marian Goff; treasurer, Miss Evelyn Purdy.

Joggin Bridge

Mrs. Alex MacLean, Mr. Stuart MacLean and Miss Crystal Kaulback of Bow River, were guests at the home of Mrs. MacLean's brother, Mr. Murray Wilson and Mrs. Wilson of Windsor Forks on Sunday. While there they attended the anniversary service at St. John's Presbyterian Church in Windsor. Enroute home they visited with Mr.

pared it for the young couple to serve their guests.

For travelling the bride wore a green boucle suit with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following their honeymoon to parts of New Brunswick and Maine the young couple will reside in Conway. The bride is employed with J. J. Britain Ltd., Digby and the groom is employed at Clyde L. Baltzer, Ltd. in Annapolis Royal.

Marriage

Belliveau - Shaffner
Sprays of yellow and bronze mums decorated the church of St. Alphonsus in Bridgetown, when Lynda May Shaffner and Leo Joseph Belliveau were united in marriage. Monsignor J. N. Theriault officiated at the ceremony, with Rev. Louis White of Bridgetown assisting.

The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. W. James Spier and the late J. Andress Shaffner of Bridgetown, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jovite J. Belliveau of Weymouth. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Hugh Montgomerie, and solos were sung by Fred Hall.

The bride, given in marriage by her only brother, Michael, wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie, with a fitted bodice, three-quarter sleeves, A-line skirt and a cathedral train. The skirt and train were patterned with appliques of lace, and the skirt accented with a band and bow of peau de soie at the knee. She wore a bouffant veil of silk illusion, held in place with a small coronet of pearls, and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and ivy.

Miss Sandra Newcomb, of Toronto, was maid of honour, and Miss Erica Frazier of Halifax was bridesmaid. The best man was Desiree Belliveau, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Louis Comeau and Victor Belliveau.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Legion Hall, where a toast to the bride was proposed by Vernon R. Potter of Montreal, uncle of the bride.

For a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the bride wore a pale blue suit with black picture hat, black accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

Following their wedding trip, the couple will reside in Toronto, where the groom, a graduate of St. Mary's University and the N. S. Technical College in Halifax, is employed with the Ford Motor Company, and the bride is a commercial graduate of Bridgetown Regional High School, is a secretary with Imperial Oil Limited.

Dr. Oliver Addresses Young People

On Saturday, October 30, seventy young people from various parts of Nova Scotia, plus two delegates from New Brunswick, gathered at the Church of Christ (Disciples) Weymouth, for their fall conference. The theme of the conference "Unity in Mission" was sub-divided into three topics "One World", "One Church" and "One Mission".

The Saturday afternoon session consisted of Devotions, Business and a Scavenger Hunt.

Following the banquet, served by the women of the Weymouth church, Mr. M. S. Gandhi, teacher at the Weymouth Consolidated School, spoke on "Life in India". Mr. Gandhi compared the life of young people in India to that of the young people in Canada. Because Mr. Gandhi was both interesting and informative, he was able to hold the attention of all present.

The speaker for the evening session was the Rev. W. P. Clayton, pastor of the Weymouth Falls Baptist Church, and also a teacher in Weymouth Consolidated School.

Mr. Clayton spoke on the first sub-topic, "One World", mentioning the problem of segregation. Mr. Clayton pointed out that one of the causes of this problem was the weakness of the church. He stated that the modern church was taking a theology of liberalism, and accepting the theory of evolution. So if man descended from some lower state, what does it matter if he is scorned at? Mr. Clayton advised the young people to accept the guiding hand of God, as many men have had their eyes opened by following Christ.

Following Mr. Clayton's talk the young people broke up into six groups to discuss the various points brought out during the talk.

The final session of the evening was a campfire program in the basement of the church, when the young people gathered around an imitation camp fire participating in camp fire songs and skits.

Mrs. Wilfred Cosman showed slides of some of the camps activities at Johnston Christian Park, promoting camp work.

On Sunday morning the young people met with the entire congregation at the Weymouth church for worship having Mr. Kenneth MacDougall, of Dartmouth, as speaker. Mr. MacDougall is president of the Maritime Christian Missionary Society and an elder of the Wyndholme Church, Dartmouth. Mr. MacDougall spoke on the second sub-topic, "One Church", pointing out the fact that it was necessary for men to accept the guidance of the Holy Spirit, if the church is to carry out its mission in the world today. He stated that too much emphasis was being put on ritual rather than preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ.

On Sunday afternoon, Rev. Howard Hanson of Milton, N. S. on the third sub-topic "One Mission". Mr. Hanson stated that the mission of the church was to teach that all men should become sons of God. He used a very pointed illustration to show five stones which should be used when dealing with the mission of the church. The final stone is that we are all missionaries in our own circle and there is work that all must do before the mission of the church can be completed.

Following Mr. Hanson's inspiring address the new C.Y.F. officers for 1965-66 were installed. President, George Moore, Milton, N.S.; vice-president, Harvey Howlett, Dartmouth, N. S.; secretary, Linda Freeman, Milton, N. S.; treasurer, Arla Barr, Weymouth, N.S. Other members of the executive, are the presidents of each local group. At the close of the session, refreshments were served in the basement of the church by the women of the Weymouth Church.

Grand Steward Installed

Messrs. Sherman Prime, Willis Mullen, Ronald and Scott Kinney of Tuscan Lodge No. 111 A.F. & A.M., Weymouth attended the annual meeting of Annapolis-Digby District A.F. & A.M. held in Lawrencetown at which time, Willis Mullen was installed as a Grand Steward.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Robichaud and children of Yarmouth visited Mr. and Mrs. Ted Robichaud for a few days this week.

In Memoriam
JOHNSON - In loving memory of our dear father, Horace Johnson, who passed away November 11, 1961. Softly we think of you who have gone. Tenderly we think of the past. Memories grow dear as life travels on. Our love and remembrance will last. - Sadly missed by his daughters, Amy, Ina and son Robert. 12:1c

SHORTLIFFE - In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Burton Shortliffe (Annie), who passed away November 15, 1960. Sweet memories will linger forever. Time cannot change them, it's true. Years that may come cannot sever. Our loving remembrance of you. - Always loved and remembered by husband, son Ivan and family. 12:1p

JOHNSON - In loving memory of my dear husband, Horace Johnson, who passed away November 11, 1961. Quietly remembered every day. Sadly missed along life's way. Time may change the book of grief. But memory turns back every leaf. - Sadly missed by his wife, Dorothy Johnson. 12:1c

BAXTER - In loving memory of my dear wife Geraldine Eva Baxter who passed away Nov. 10th, 1964. Your gentle face and patient smile with sadness I recall. You had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all. The voice is mute and stilled the heart that loved me well true. Ah bitter was the trial to part from one so good as you. You are not forgotten Gerri dear, nor will you ever be. As long as life and memory lasts, I will remember thee. I miss you now my heart is sore as time goes by I'll miss you more. Your loving smile, your gentle face, no one can ever fill your vacant place. - Lovingly remembered by husband Harry. 12:1p

JOHNSON - In loving memory of our dear grandfather, Horace Johnson, who passed away November 11, 1961. Not a day do we forget you. In our hearts you are always near. We who loved you sadly Miss you. As it dawns another year. - His grandchildren, Judith, Joann, Janie and grandsons Ronald and Stanley. 12:1c

PULLEY - In loving memory of Stephen Anthony, age 15 months, who passed away Nov. 15, 1966. When all is still and silent And sleep forsake our eyes Our thoughts are in the little grave Where one dear baby lies. - Always loved and remembered by all the family. 12:1c

Remembrance Day
Two new members were welcomed at the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion, which met in the Legion Hall on Thursday evening, Mrs. Mayo the president called the meeting to order.

During the business session, arrangements were made to attend the Remembrance Day service on Sunday and also to cater to the Banquet for the Veterans on November 11th to be held in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

It was also decided on motion to sponsor the community Christmas Tree for the children again this year.

At the close of the business session the Auxiliary was joined by the Legion members and a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Remembrance Day Service

On Sunday morning the community of Bear River observed Armistice Day with a special service held in the United Church of Canada and attended by a large congregation from all the churches of the village.

Conducting the service was the minister of the United Church, Rev. Kenley MacNeill, assisted by Chester Kaulback of the United Baptist Church, and Rev. Earl Waterman of the Advent Christian Church.

Members of the Royal Canadian Legion, Ladies' Auxiliary, Boy Scouts and Cubs attended the service in a body.

Music for the service was provided by a combined choir from the churches.

Norman Sanford, of Clements, read the Roll of Honour, consisting of the names of the men from the community who gave their lives in the wars. This was followed by traditional moments of silence in their memory.

The sermon was delivered by Rev. Earl Waterman, who chose as his topic "The Prayer of a Woary Soldier".

Following the service at the church, wreaths were laid at the monument by relatives in memory of loved ones and by leaders of local organizations on behalf of their members.

Diefenbaker Goes To Greet People

Above, right, Hon. John Diefenbaker leaves the platform with a sheaf of notes under his arm which he referred to in his address at the Digby Regional High School on Saturday night. More than a thousand were estimated to have attended the meeting some of whom, as above had come to the platform to meet Mr. Diefenbaker. Directly behind Mr. Diefenbaker is Edward Twohig, chairman, and to the left is Dr. G. V. Turnbull who had introduced Patrick Nowlan, P. C. candidate for Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

Mrs. Diefenbaker who arrived from Kentville, where she attended a tea in her honor in the afternoon, was actively engaged at the platform in meeting the people and, especially talking with the children who had arrived.

Digby Salvationists Open New Building

Mrs. Kathleen Knight, wife of Rev. J. A. Davidson, opened the new building of the Digby Salvation Army on Queen Street in Digby on Sunday night. The new building, which cost $15,000, was built on a site donated by the Digby Board of Trade. The building is a two-story structure with a large front porch and a steeple. It will be used for the Digby Salvation Army's various activities, including the Youth Band, under the direction of Jack Cameron, former of Digby. The building is a testament to the community's support for the Salvation Army.

BOARD CONCERNED

Digby and Saint John had not been dropped. Lloyd Hill of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade was continuing an arrangement of a meeting with Hon. Mr. Pickersill.

It was decided that a brief should be prepared to present at Atlantic Ports Day in Saint John, N. B. on December 6 and that the president be asked to arrange a special meeting of the board to deal with it. Members of the transportation committee, the ports committee and fisheries committee of the Digby Board were to be requested to go to Saint John for December 6.

On motion the fisheries committee of the Digby Board and the industrial committee were asked to attend the Workmen's Compensation meeting to be held in Digby, November 16 at two o'clock p.m.

It was announced that Stewart MacNaughton had completed arrangements for a joint meeting of the Digby Board of Trade and the Digby Kiwanis Club at 6:30 p.m. on December 2 at the Digby Legion Hall. The speaker will be from APEC. The Digby Board offered their assistance to Mr. MacNaughton to facilitate the success of the meeting.

In the matter of assistance for water for small fish plants in the counties of Digby and Annapolis, the Digby Board is awaiting information from the Atlantic Development Board, the federal Department of Fisheries and the provincial Department of Fisheries. The A.D.B. had retained a group of consultants to undertake studies relating to the provision of water supply to larger fish plants in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. It is understood that the Board was considering undertaking similar studies in communities where there are large fish plants, or where groups of small plants could be serviced from a single source of water. The Board awaits the hope that there might be a re-examination of the situation.

The Levys Entertain

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Levy, King St., was the scene of a delightful luncheon bridge on Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Levy entertained twelve of her friends beginning at one o'clock p.m. Prizes went to Mrs. Wilmet Christie, 1st; Mrs. A. J. Dillon, travelling; and Mrs. J. M. Wallis, consolation.

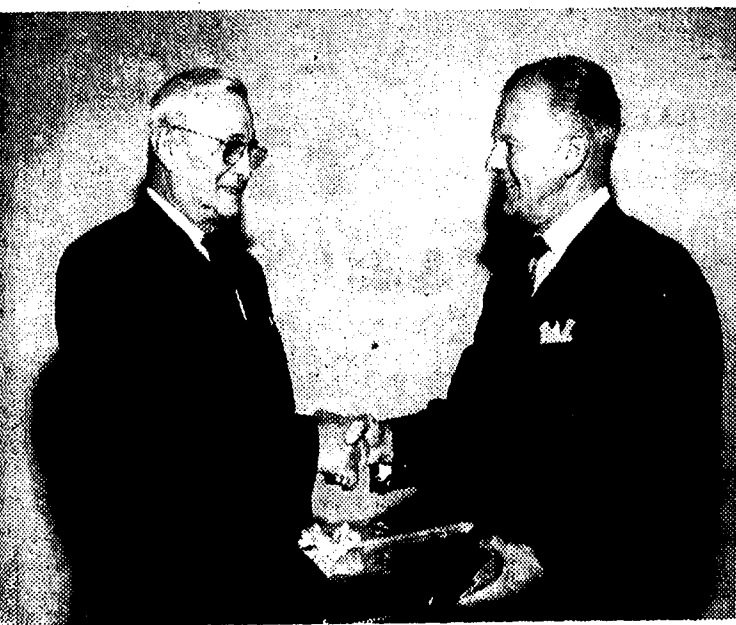

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Levy again entertained when the ladies high prize was taken by Mrs. Stewart MacNaughton and low by Mrs. Donald Logan. E. J. Theriault won the gentlemen's high and the travelling. Alfred Boutilier received the low prize.

The home and tables were tastefully decorated with late fall blooms.

Presented With Plaque

At the regular meeting of Digby branch No. 20, Royal Canadian Legion, Zone Commander Ralph Wright presented President T. W. Cleveland with a plaque in appreciation of his many years of valued service. The presentation was made on behalf of the Legion and Auxiliary.

Presentation To E. B. Richardson

Ernest B. Richardson (left), retired manager of Digby Division, National Sea Products Limited, was honored October 28 by the board of directors at a special luncheon at the Nova Scotian Hotel in recognition of 53 years service with National Sea and its predecessor companies.

Andrew Cunningham (right), Vice-President - By-Products, in making a presentation, said that Mr. Richardson "on August 31 completed over 53 years of loyal, efficient and faithful service."

"During his long service with the company, he never failed to face up to his responsibilities," he said. "He went through the lean tough years when long hours of work meant nothing — all that mattered was getting the job done."

Mr. Cunningham said that during Mr. Richardson's early years with the company, "being of an inventive nature" he was asked to design and build a fish unloading stage. "To him must go the credit for inventing the fish landing stage of the type still in use," he added.

In 1925 the company arranged to purchase in England "the first fish meal equipment

Yarmouth Castle Well Known In Nova Scotia

Many Nova Scotians are familiar with the "Yarmouth Castle," the passenger liner which burned and sank Saturday off Miami, Florida. Formerly the "SS Yarmouth," the ship travelled between Yarmouth and Boston in an era before the inauguration of aircraft and car ferry operations. She made her first trip to Yarmouth from Boston on July 11, 1927. From then until 1941 she alternated with other Eastern Line ships in maintaining a daily run during the summer months and a tri-weekly run in the winter time.

During World War II the Yarmouth was taken over by the United States government along with other privately-owned ships and was operated as a troop ship in the Pacific. From 1941 to 1947 there was no passenger service between Yarmouth and Boston but in 1947 the Yarmouth was back, this time with Capt. William B. Corning in command. He was a native of Beaver River, and now resides in Digby. The Yarmouth operated on the run summers until 1951. Then the company was sold to Eastern Shipping Corporation of Miami. After that she was changed to "Yarmouth Castle" and operated luxury cruises between Miami and Nassau.

Dr. Neily Honored

Rev. Dr. Denton J. Neily, of Nashua, N. H., and for many years a summer visitor to the Digby area, was recently honored at a testimonial luncheon honouring him on the completion of sixty active years in the Christian ministry.

Fastors of all denominations in the Nashua area joined in honouring Dr. Neily and presented him with a book as the concrete testimonial of their respect.

CORRECTIONS

A story in last week's edition results, stated that "in the town of Digby 1,008 of 12,850 eligible voters." Total eligible voters should have been 1,285. In the same story results of voting in Rossway read Nowlan 73; Shaffner 79; Turner 5. The correct number for Shaffner should have been 49.

Remembrance Day Services

Digby:

Approximately seventy members of Digby Branch No. 20, Royal Canadian Legion and Auxiliary paraded to the cenotaph on November 11 for Remembrance Day services. Wreaths were laid at the cenotaph by R. Baden Powell, M.L.A. on behalf of the government, and by Mayor C. D. Snow, for the Town, and members of the Legion and Auxiliary.

An Armistice Day banquet was held in the evening with Mayor and Mrs. Snow, Rev. and Mrs. H. S. Hartlin and T. W. Cleveland, Legion president, and Mrs. Cleveland, at the head table. Others at the head table were Eugene Outterson, Dominion representative at the provincial council, Lieut. Cmdr. Humble for Capt. J. M. Paul, HMCS Cornwallis, and Rev. and Mrs. Denchfield. Approximately 90 members and guests attended.

Rev. H. S. Hartlin, guest speaker, was introduced by Zone Commander R. O. Wright. Mr. Hartlin recalled the dark and dreary days of World War II, the determination of Winston Churchill, and the courage of the allies and those who fought, many of whom paid the supreme sacrifice. He said that a tremendous effort on the part of the Legion keeps Remembrance Day from becoming a thing of the past. Today, as in the past, people become lonely and seek friendship through the Legion branches. These problems can be solved through understanding and sympathy, and sufficient faith in the Great Creator, the speaker told his audience. We tend to forget these lonely people, tend to by-pass their problems in this age of missiles and atomic warfare. This is where the Legion fits in, he said.

During the evening the Ladies Auxiliary presented a $250 cheque to the branch for their building fund.

Deep Brook Area:

Remembrance Day services in this area began with Holy Communion at 9:30 a.m. in Saint Edward's Anglican Church, Clementsport, with the rector, Rev. A. Arthur Francis Sheward, officiating.

This was followed by brief service and laying of wreaths at Cenotaphs in the village. Guides, Cubs, Legionnaires and members of the women's auxiliaries were present.

Digby County Man President Camelback

"Austin Payson, formerly of Smith's Cove and now residing in Phoenix, Arizona was installed as President of the Camelback Toastmasters Club of that city at a dinner held on October 7 of this year. During his years of membership, this Digby County man has drawn upon his native province of Nova Scotia for sources of material for his speeches. He has found it a very rewarding experience to have his accounts of this maritime province received with interest in that western city.

Raise $96.00 For Home & School

At the November meeting of the Barton Consolidated Home and School Association, the convener of the Ways and Means Committee, Mrs. Robicheau, reported a successful pantry sale when $96.00 was taken in.

The president, Mrs. Beatrice Height, presided over the meeting which was well attended.

Mrs. Phyllis Thomas had charge of the program. An interesting discussion on two subjects: Dental Care in the school and Christmas programming, five groups participating. It was unanimously decided that Dental Care in the school would be of advantage only if followed by regular checkup by a dentist.

Christmas Program suggestions were many and varied and each will be considered and used where practicable. Refreshments were served by the South Range group when a social half hour was enjoyed.

Fishermen's Compensation Act Inquiry Held At Digby

V. G. Snow, Mayor C. D. Snow, Stewart MacNaughton, representing the Digby Board of Trade, Mrs. J. M. Wallis and Captain Reginald Hazelton attended the public inquiry held at the Court House, Digby on Tuesday which dealt with the Workmen's Compensation Act, Part III, which applies to the fishing industry.

V. G. Snow presented a brief on behalf of the fisheries sub-committee of the Digby Area Development Committee. The brief stated that many fishermen in Nova Scotia are not presently insured against loss of life or injury while engaged in the business of fishing. This situation, the brief stated, exists seemingly because there is no inspection and no enforcement of the law to secure the needed coverage for all fishermen by their employers. It was the opinion expressed in the brief that some agent of the government should oversee insurance coverage of fishermen and such coverage through private insurance companies should remain under part 3 of the Workmen's Compensation Act. The brief also recommended that some part of the cost should be borne by a special government assistance fund in order to keep the rate reasonable and fairly constant.

Further the brief stated that consideration should be given the fact that inshore fishermen operating in small boats are in a different category from offshore fishermen operating in larger boats. The cost for insurance coverage should be assessed and rated accordingly Mr. Snow said in the brief.

The inquiry was conducted here and in other parts of Nova Scotia under the Public Inquiries Act by Lorne Clarke, Truro, and Elmer MacKay, New Glasgow, barristers who will make recommendation to the provincial government after the hearings are completed.

Election Final - Service Vote Gives Liberals 2

The Liberal party has advanced to within two seats of a clear majority in the new Parliament as a result of the counting of the service vote over the weekend, and the gap could be narrowed to one as a result of a Quebec Independent's pledge to support the government.

The baiting of the armed forces and hospitalized veterans, following the tradition of favoring the Liberals, swung the Nova Scotia constituency of Antigonish-Guysborough and the Quebec riding of Shefford back to the party by margins of 57 and 47 respectively. Conservative officials immediately made known that judicial recounts would be sought in both these ridings.

The service vote returns leaves both the Liberals and the Conservatives with two more seats than they won in the 1963 election. The standings now are:

Liberals, 131; Conservatives, 97; NDP, 21; Creditists, 9; Social Credit, 5; Independents, 2.

In Antigonish-Guysborough the service vote increased the count for Liberal John Stewart, Parliamentary secretary to the secretary of state in the last house, from the 6,094 he won at the civilian polls to 6,230, while Conservative D. Hugh Gillis was able to advance his 6,113 to 6,173. In Inverness-Richmond Labor Minister Allan MacEachen increased his majority. In other parts of Nova Scotia all other Liberal candidates also ran first in the armed forces voting, but, outside Mr. Stewart, the advance was not enough to change the results.

Following is a breakdown for the local constituencies: Digby - Annapolis - Kings: Nowlan (PC) 460, Shaffner (Lib.) 653, Turner (NDP) 66. Final total: Nowlan 18,030; Shaffner 14,686; Turner 1,040. Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare: Bower (PC) 128, Armstrong (Lib.) 357. Final total: Bower 10,731; Armstrong 9,851.

Red Cross Plans Regional Meet

Red Cross branches from Middleton to Weymouth are expected to be represented at a Regional Meeting, to be held in Digby on Wednesday evening, November 24th, according to reports heard at the Digby branch business meeting last week. Mrs. R. B. Lent presided at the regular November session, when plans were made for the coming meeting, at which Commissioner C. L. Hilsley is slated to be guest speaker. Additional members were appointed to the branch Tea Committee for the occasion: Mrs. Ralph Berwick, Mrs. G. R. Weir and Mrs. Loran Hayden, to be assisted by Mrs. Orbin VanTassel, Mrs. Fred Daley and Mrs. J. J. Brittain.

An anon table, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Allen Stark and Mrs. D. J. Comeau, will be a feature of the evening meeting, funds raised from the sale being for the local welfare work of the Digby branch. There is always a special need for funds at this season when the branch carries on an extensive Christmas program for those whom Santa Claus would otherwise pretty certainly forget. A special appeal was made at the meeting for donations of good used toys and dolls which some little folk might spare while there is still time to repair and dress them in order to make others happy on Christmas morning.

Mrs. Winfield reported for the Disaster Relief Committee that used clothing had been supplied for nine families in Digby municipality during the past month. Thanks were also extended to Mrs. Alex Wentzell for 7 prs. mittens, 2 bonnets, 2 prs. booties, one jacket and 4 prs. ankle socks. Acknowledgement was made of 12 skeins yarn received from the branch Ways & Means Committee for this purpose, and a request presented for a bolt of flannelette for layettes for local welfare purposes.

Acadia Meeting November 29

Representatives of the executives of the United Baptist Convention of the Atlantic Provinces, the Board of Governors of Acadia University, the Associated Alumni and the faculty of the university will meet November 29 "for continued negotiations."

This was announced in a joint statement issued following a meeting of the executives of these groups when Convention and Alumni resolutions pertaining to the systems of appointment to the Board of Governors and the university faculty were discussed.

The statement said the discussions "made it clear that none of the interested parties involved wished to disassociate Acadia from its Baptist affiliation."

The conference was called by Dr. H. E. Crowell, chairman of the Board of Governors of Acadia, to discuss: (1) resolutions adopted by the United Baptist Convention last August which would require all members of the faculty to be Christian, and reduce the terms of office for members of the Board of Governors from nine to six years; (2) a resolution of the Associated Alumni, supported almost 9-1 in a vote of over 50 per cent of the Alumni membership, that legislation be sought at the next session of the Legislature to restrict Baptist Convention appointments to the Board of Governors to one-quarter of the total number, the remainder to be named by the Alumni and the Provincial Government.

Executive meetings of the Board of Governors and the Associated Alumni and a meeting of the faculty of Acadia have gone on record opposing the Baptist Convention resolutions adopted at the annual session last August.

Former Warden Passes

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the Bear River United Church for Harvey Edwin Chisholm, prominent farmer, former warden of the Municipality of Digby, and president of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities. Mr. Chisholm, 80, died Thursday at his home.

Born in Bear River, Mr. Chisholm was a son of the late Chipman and Annie (Bailey) Chisholm. In addition to being a Nova Scotia Farmer Farmer for some 25 years, he was a member of the Nova Scotia Land Settlement Board and served a term as president of the Nova Scotia Federation of Agriculture.

At the time of his death, he was a member of the Senate Club of the Agricultural Federation. For many years he was secretary manager of the Digby County agricultural exhibition and industrial fair, and was a member of the exhibition's association.

Mr. Chisholm served as a municipal councillor in the Municipality of Digby, for a period of more than 25 years. He was warden of the municipality for more than 10 years. He also served as chairman of the municipal school board, as a member of the regional high school board, and as a member of the Digby County Power Board.

He was a past master of The Keith Lodge AF and AM and member of the United Church in Bear River.

He is survived by his wife, the former Nellie Harris; one son, Chipman, Bear River; two daughters, Annie (Mrs. Thomas Gates), Bear River; Frances (Mrs. Crawford Purdy), Truro; a sister, Mrs. Hattie Soules; and eight grandchildren.

Rev. K. McNeil officiated at the service. Interment was in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Car Plunges Over Cliff - Driver Lives

Michael Casey, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Casey of Victoria Beach, is in serious condition in Annapolis General Hospital, following a high-way mishap early Saturday morning. The youth was proceeding homeward, alone, when the small car left the winding road, dropping about 75 feet to the rocks at the water's edge.

Although injured, Michael crawled back up the cliff to the roadway where he was found by a passing car. His father was immediately summoned. He was rushed by ambulance to the Annapolis General Hospital where he is suffering from a broken leg, head lacerations that severed an artery and caused a great loss of blood.

The accident occurred about two miles from Michael's home, near the Pony Express monument, in Victoria Beach.

Mrs. Vincent Honored At Special Meet

A public meeting, sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society of the Baptist Church of Digby, was held in the auditorium of the church last Tuesday night. A large number of people attended the service from churches in the Digby area.

Mr. Rod Fredericks, supervisor of the West Kings High School, and who had spent two summers in Rhodesia as a teacher, gave the address and showed a series of interesting slides depicting the land and its peoples.

Mrs. J. J. Brittain, president of the W.M.S., presided at the meeting.

During the meeting, Mrs. Hugh Vincent, retiring President of the W.M.S., was called to the platform. On behalf of the Society, Mrs. H. S. Hartlin presented Mrs. Vincent with a gift as a token of appreciation for the many years of devoted and faithful service she had given to the W.M.S. and the cause of missions.

At the close of the service refreshments were served in the church vestry by members of the Women's League. Members of the C.G.I.T. and Explorer groups also attended the service.

Barbershop Harmony

Digby Kiwanis Club on Tuesday night sponsored a concert at the Digby Regional High School known as Barber Shop Harmony and presented by all male talent from Kentville. The musical director was R. Wendell Phinney and Master of Ceremonies was David J. C. Waterbury.

Special feature of the evening was The Four Bars Quartet consisting of Bernard Hawkins, tenor; Alie Redda, lead; Robert Pulsifer, baritone and Ralph Morehouse, bass. Another quartet (The Mud Flats) consisted of Walter Howard, tenor; Roy Forsythe, lead; Carl McKinnon, baritone and E. Carey, bass.

Chorus by the visiting talent and a sing song by the audience rounded out the evening.

The Kentville Barber Shop Quartet and Chorus of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartette Singing in America Inc., which has been in existence for approximately a year has already won acclaim in the province for their talent and for being one of the first in Canada to revive the old barber shop singing as an organized group. President of the group is Harold Woodman, Kentville, formerly of Smith's Cove, N. S.

Guides Spend Weekend At Camp

Nine members of the first Digby Girl Guide Company: Mary Hawkins, Jeanette Cornwell, Julie Warner, Laura Daley, Bonnie Warner, Barbara Wenaus and Jackie Connolly and their leader, Mrs. Robert Bearne, spent an eventful weekend at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sabean on Haynes Lake.

The main purpose of having the weekend camp was for the girls to further the passing of their test work.

On Friday evening a Court of Honour meeting was held. The purpose of this meeting, which is held every month by the Patrol leaders and seconders, is to see if everybody in the company is content on the way regular meetings are held. During the day the girls were engaged in various activities which included a great deal of hard work but all participated with great enthusiasm.

On Saturday evening the girls enjoyed a party which was arranged by Julie Warner, Peggy Daley and Maxine Sabean. Games, dancing and refreshments were the main events of the evening.

On both Friday and Saturday evenings, an indoor camp fire was held and many familiar songs were sung.

Sunday morning a Guide's Own was held. This is a church service which the Girl Guides hold in a secluded place in the woods.

The girls broke camp late Sunday afternoon after they said that it had been a very memorable weekend.

Takes Course In England

Captain W. B. Christie, RCN, 46, of Halifax, will be among three senior officers of the Canadian Forces beginning an 11-month course at the Imperial Defence College in England in January. Captain Christie, son of Mrs. William Christie and the Mr. Christie, Digby, has been the Canadian Submarine Technical Representative in Chatham, England. Mrs. Christie is the former Maxine Bailey of Digby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bailey, Capt. and Mrs. Christie have three children. They are Peter in Ottawa, Susan and Andrew, in England with their parents.

Mrs. Gott Elected Vice President

Mrs. M. P. Gott, of Smith's Cove, was elected first vice president of the Inkeepers Guild of Nova Scotia at the annual meeting held in Halifax on Saturday.

Other officers named at the closing of the two-day sessions were Fred T. Irwin, Ingonish and Dartmouth, president; Peter Hershchorn, second vice president; Howard Elliott, treasurer and Bruce Cochran, secretary, all of Halifax. Mrs. A. J. Hustins, Bedford and Smith's Cove, is a director.

At the annual dinner, George Kenney, of Yarmouth, was presented with a life membership in the Guild for his lengthy and devoted service and Saturday was named a director at large of the Guild.

Glenn Conrad Retires

Glenn W. Conrad, Digby, locomotive engineer with the Dominion Atlantic Railway, retires on pension effective December 1. Since November 1 Mr. Conrad has been on pre-retirement vacation.

Mr. Conrad was born in Yarmouth in 1900. He is married to the former Marjorie Elizabeth McConnell, and they have one son, George, in Dartmouth. Mr. Conrad first entered the service as trainman, June 1, 1919, at Middleton, and was transferred to engine service in 1920 as locomotive fireman. He was promoted to engineer May 1, 1939. During his career he also worked with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at Saint John and Winnipeg.

Participate In Dedication Program

Among those who participated in the special program at the dedication of the new Salvation Army Citadel in Digby were Mayor C. D. Snow, (left); Major Leonard Knight, Divisional Commander, Halifax, guest speaker; Mrs. Knight who performed the official opening and Lieutenant Fred Beach, who conducted the services.

About This And That

Election Over With Service Vote

Now that the service vote has been counted, we can consider the 1965 federal election closed. To date of writing, these notes, not enough have come to the rescue of the Liberal party to give it a clear majority. It looks as if Prime Minister Pearson will have to go about governing the country by a minority again. This he can do if he will admit it. As the late Hon. George Nowlan said in the office of The Digby Courier not many days before his death, "There has been a tremendous lot of legislation put through this parliament."

It was rather a shame that Prime Minister Pearson had to spoil that parliament image through his campaign which contradicted the image on the one hand and agreed with it on the other. If the government remains as it is in the minority, then according to the campaign, we should be expecting little from it. We prefer to think it can accomplish much if it sets out to do the right things. Certainly the opposition isn't going to stand for what it considers wrong or of no value to the people. So let's make some open confessions on several scores and then get on with the business. We'll agree wholeheartedly if the first thing the government does is to go ahead and fulfill its wharf promises to Digby with a few extra promises thrown in. Just enough to really bring Digby's port and transportation facilities up to a decent standard for this modern age will make us content.

And now that the election is behind us, we, too, have some catching up to do. We appreciated the extra advertising which the election brought, but we must make an open confession, too, that we've been forced to neglect some news and have made some typographic errors also in the last few weeks. But a lot of the news is still news to our readers and the corrections can be readily made also. We'll do our best to make amends in the next few weeks even though the Christmas rush is about to descend on us too.

Served His County Well

In the passing of Harvey E. Chisholm, Bear River, the county of Digby as well as the community of Bear River has lost a man of highest respect and value. He was a man who will be greatly missed but there is the consolation that he did what he could during his life time and that life time was spared to eighty years. There are many achievements and many deeds to be happily remembered by such a life as that of the former warden, H. E. Chisholm. Would it that others might follow his example.

We will not attempt to enumerate, here, the many phases of interests which were Mr. Chisholm's. These can be read elsewhere in this issue. We shall always remember the most cordial business dealings with a number of organizations through Mr. Chisholm. We will remember his friendly personality. His influence in Bear River, Digby County, and the province will remain. To his wife and family we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

Only Six More Days

No, that title does not apply to Christmas. That title applies to something which must be looked after right here in town before Santa's sleigh bells begin distracting our attention too much.

Do you know, there are only six more days left, including today, for you to get your hat pitched in the ring if you contemplate contesting the seat of mayor or that of any of the three councillors? Do you realize that if you are not planning to offer your own services, you still have an obligation to see that some capable persons are approached to take on these civic duties?

At the last Digby Board of Trade meeting, each member present was asked to assist E. Sangster in trying to work up some interest in a town election. If you are a member of the Digby Board of Trade, you had better see what you can do. If you are a member, you still have a civic responsibility. Town government is extremely important and like any other government, is as good as the people you put there to do the job. You are the people who put the councillors in office, whether they go in by acclamation or by means of vote at an election. Even though you ignore the duty of finding suitable people for town office does not mean that you are not responsible for their election. The very fact that you have ignored the responsibility makes you responsible. And ignoring your duty gives you less right to complain about rising taxes or to make any other just or unjust criticism of town affairs.

If you have not made it a point to tell the retiring councillors that they have done a good job and that you would like to see them re-offer, do it now. Or, if you want a change, then, we think you should seek out capable and willing people to take on the civic duties. We have no doubt but that there are some people who need little more than to be approached on the subject. How about an honest effort?

Time is fleeting. Only six days before nominations close on November 23. Election day is December 7.

Accommodation Delux

No Saint John-Digby ferry service until December 4. Railway waiting room accommodation limited if you can even classify it as such. A closed bus stop where we see people waiting while sitting on the steps and dangling their feet in freezing weather.

Come to Digby friends. Nice accommodations. But, don't blame us.

Trees

Right now, and maybe for some time, we expect the Christmas tree harvesters are at work. The Christmas tree business has come to be a big business, so much so that the Department of Forestry of Canada is giving the balsam fir, the Maritime's most prolific and important Christmas tree species, a face lifting. They are in the midst of a research project aimed at production of improved balsam fir Christmas trees which will be bushier and better shaped. J. W. McLeod, Fredericton, is testing and developing techniques which will produce optimum foliage density on the trees which is a major factor affecting the quality of Christmas trees.

Yes, the Christmas tree business is big business in the Maritimes, exporting more than four million trees annually, 2,600,000 of which leave from Nova Scotia. It almost makes us wonder how there can be enough trees left in Nova Scotia for other purposes. How the trees fulfill these other purposes and contribute to the welfare of citizens had been outlined by Hon. E. D. Haliburton, Minister of Lands and Forests, in a recent National Forest Products Week.

In a statement Mr. Haliburton said:

"The sturdy trees that make up the forests of Nova Scotia contribute every day to the standard of living we enjoy. Trees harvested at the proper age, as determined by the men who manage our timberlands, will yield wood or fibre for more than 100 forest products.

"What is often overlooked is that while the tree is spending its life, from seedling to maturity, it is performing a number of important functions which benefit all the people of Nova Scotia.

"Perhaps the primary task of a growing tree is that of anchoring the forest soil. This assures that rain and melted snow have a slow, steady, stable flow into our rivers and lakes for use by thousands in urban and rural areas.

"Without trees on our watershed slopes the soil quickly erodes and runoff is quick and dirty instead of slow and pure.

"Besides keeping men and mills working, trees furnish food and cover for forest wildlife. These same trees provide cool shade and help make up the colorful surroundings which campers, hunters and anglers enjoy. Who would enjoy an outing if there weren't trees to make the landscape beautiful and enjoyable?

"Depending on species, location and planned use, a tree may be harvested at almost any age but a mature tree will yield a larger volume of timber or pulpwood. Stands are often 'cleaned' or 'thinned' to allow surviving trees more room to grow, thus yielding a larger volume of wood."

The Seeds Of Decline

(By C. J. Harris)

In the course of the recent election campaign, Mr. Pearson made the sensible comment that it is not the duty of the state to provide such full social security that it takes all incentive out of life, but "only to provide the foundation for social security on which the individual could go ahead and build." This same philosophy — more likely to be preached by parents, the press and businessman than by modern politicians — was explored in a Montreal speech by Mr. H. B. Style, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

In today's industrial society, Mr. Style said, state welfare services have become essential, but the danger is that the welfare state is growing into a sort of Frankenstein. Canada has become one of the world's most envied countries because of incentives, initiative, resourcefulness, risk taking and ambition, and these same factors are the only foundation of future progress. "I stress this," said Mr. Style, "because there is a real danger of our forgetting it in our preoccupation with the siren lure of an unlimited welfare state. Whether we care to admit it or not, it is possible to have too much security and, by emphasizing it at the expense of other still more important considerations, to sow the seeds of national decline."

Nor is it only the weakening of individual resolution and responsibility that will sow and cultivate these seeds. "The essential economic strength of Canada and the very fount of its wealth are the enterprises whose profitable operations make possible our standard of living," Mr. Style pointed out. "This is particularly true of the social services. A great many people have the idea that these are paid for entirely out of personal income taxes. Of course, it isn't so. The facts are that Ottawa collects from manufacturing industry alone more than one-quarter of its total annual revenue. In all, industry pays to the federal authority well over $2 billion dollars, $1.3 billion of this being federal sales taxes and another $700 million being corporate income taxes.

"Can we really go on adding to our social services with little or no regard for the cost factor, not only in terms of that ever-larger deduction made from our earnings but also of the impact on our ability to remain competitive at home and abroad? Who will have helped if the end result of saddling industry with rising costs is falling sales, widespread unemployment and economic stagnation?"

Snail we become so obsessed with security that we destroy it? "What poor crackerbrains we are," Henry David Thoreau wrote on this point, "easily upset and unable to take care of ourselves! If there were a precipice at our doors, some would be found jumping off today for fear that, if they survived, they might jump off tomorrow."

Coffee

AT

Helen settled into my kitchen rocking chair with an audible sigh. I passed her the mug of coffee, into which I had poured the dash of cold water which Helen, for some reason known only to herself, likes. Some evenings, when she manages to get the five younger ones in bed, and the five older ones are studying, Helen escapes and comes over here. She is good for my morale. Most of the mothers of large families which I know are terribly efficient, good organizers, bake ten loaves of bread a week, put down hundreds of cans of preserves each winter, and keep their houses spotless. They depress me. Helen's ten manage to keep her house nearly as untidy as my herd of two keep mine.

"What a day!" she blew the words out. "There are fingerprints and noseprints on every downstairs window of the house. The three youngest stay out fifteen minutes, then come in, and stare at the snow for half an hour before they go out for another fifteen minute run."

I know. We had been aroused from our sleep by two excited children and one quivering dog. We hadn't even expected snow. Yesterday was a lovely day. Before we were out of bed, the oldest was dressed, and the youngest, between excited scurries to the window, was jumping up and down on the bed squealing "Mummy, please wake up and get me wessed. Please Mummy." Please Mummy, and her other favorite plea, can me? can usually win her the moon.

The first hour after breakfast was consumed in a hustle to collect sweaters, which had been put away last year in need of buttons, snowsuits and jackets that really oughtn't do again this year, but now that it has snowed, may hang on until the January sales, and mates for the half forgotten mittens we managed to resurrect. The big one's gum boots, which he has worn with pride all summer because they make him look like a scallop fisherman, will certainly have to be replaced with something warmer. But with some shoving and pulling, the little one's boots may last until after Christmas.

The big one, thank goodness, can manage his clothes all by himself this year. Now it only takes me half an hour to get them dressed to go out. For the past three winters, it has been a three-quarters of an hour ritual. But at four they do not stay outdoors any longer than they did when they were three, nor do they stay in any longer. The clothes go on and come off, with a regularity just less than a heartbeat. Nor, has a year eliminated those snowy footed, quarter hourly pilgrimages to the bathroom.

Most of the neighborhood pre-schoolers decided to celebrate the first snow fall of the season by visiting us. They trooped through the house, adding, during the moments when they were in, to the substantial pile of coats and hats on the hall tree, and leaving, when they filed out, one harassed mother, wondering how school teachers, and people like Helen, keep their sanity when they button, zip, and tie ten or thirty of these gremlins a day.

There was a rumbling sound of snow sliding off a tin roof.

"Mummy!" came the voice of somebody who should have been asleep an hour ago.

I refilled the coffee cups, trying to ignore the sound from upstairs.

"Mummy!" the voice insisted. "How come Santa Claus forgot to come today when it snowed?"

I poured cold water into Helen's cup. She tossed aside a dog eared mail order catalogue through which she had been absently leafing.

"This," she remarked, sipping her cold water coffee, "is the start of a very long winter."

the same home were another son Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Carty and family. Mochelle.

Mr. O. W. Irving spent a few days with his daughter Mr. and Mrs. Earle Durnnian and family, Springfield, N. B.

Mrs. Elmer Lewis, Dartmouth, spent a few days last week with Mrs. O. W. Irving.

Mrs. Frank Saunders left on Wednesday to visit her daughter Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lewis and family, Dartmouth. Later on she will go to visit relatives in Boston and vicinity for the winter months.

Mrs. Bernice Bower has returned to her home in Shelburne after spending three weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Gidney and family.

Farewell Gathering for Pastor

On the evening of October 25th a farewell gathering was held at the home of Deacon and Mrs. Bradford Merritt, of Sandy Cove, in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Victor Mersereau and family of Little River, who are leaving shortly for Penobscus, N. B. where Mr. Mersereau will be taking up his new duties as pastor.

The first of the evening was spent in singing hymns after which Mr. Mersereau was presented with a camera and an envelope containing money, by Deacon Kenneth Carty and Mrs. Mersereau was presented with a handbag by Mrs. Fenwick Jeffrey.

Following the presentation Mrs. Mersereau showed slides which he had taken recently of friends, neighbours and views of Little River and Sandy Cove.

At the close of the evening

Clementsvalle Couple 50 Years Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Potter, Clementsvalle, on Wednesday, October 27, were "At Home" in the afternoon and evening to many of their relatives and friends, the occasion being their 50th wedding anniversary. Gifts were received and messages of congratulations road, including a telegram from the P.C. candidate D.A.K. Patrick Nowlan.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Potter was decorated for the anniversary occasion with chrysanthemums, roses and lighted tapers. A three-tiered wedding cake, made by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Chester Potter, Deep Brook, graced the tea table.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter were married on October 27, 1915, at the Bear River Methodist Church parsonage. Officiating minister was Rev. J. W. O'Brien.

Mrs. Potter was the former Gladys Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Simpson, Victory, Annapolis County. Mr. Potter was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Potter, Clementsvalle.

Recalling their wedding day, Mr. and Mrs. Potter related that the day was rainy as it was on their 50th anniversary. They had driven to Bear River in the afternoon by horse and covered buggy and returned to Victory for a reception later in the day. They recalled the fun of returning with a different horse so as to fool the people who would be watching for the new bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter have lived all their married life at Clementsvalle where Mr. Potter has engaged in farming, an occupation which left little free time for vacations or even a honeymoon. He recalled that they returned from the wedding reception at 12

Clare Centennial Group Meets

A meeting of the Centennial Committee for the Municipality of Clare was held at the Clare District High School on Thursday evening, November 4th, with Dr. Julius Comeau of Meteghan as chairman, Gerard d'Entremont, of Meteghan Station, and warden of the Municipality, was unable to attend due to illness. Guest of honor was Mr. Hutt, co-ordinator of the Centennial Committees of the province.

Dr. Comeau spoke briefly on the necessity of formulating plans at an early date because "before we know it the centennial year of 1967 will be upon us". Dr. Comeau is a member of the provincial Centennial Committee.

Films in color and sound were shown to the group which included members of the Acadian Festival Committee and also councillors of the Municipality. The films showed the organizing and presenting of the 1964 Prince Edward Island celebration with the villages of Miouche, North Rustico and Victoria putting on special programs. The films were for the purpose of giving ideas of what can be done by showing what others have done successfully.

Members of the Centennial Committee for Clare are as follows: Gerard d'Entremont, Meteghan Station; Henry Mazier, Hecanooga; Alphonse LeBlanc, Little Brook; Victor Comeau of Meteghan, all members of the Municipal Council; J. Marcel Valotaire and Albert P. Melanson, of Church Point, and J. Alphonse Comeau of Meteghan River.

Mrs. J. M. Valotaire and Mrs. J. Alphonse Comeau and Dr. Julius Comeau represented the Acadian Festival Committee; Leonard Boudreau of Concession and Gerard Lombard of Corberrie represented the council at the meeting, besides the members of the council who are members of the committee.

It is planned to incorporate the centennial celebration in 1967 with the Acadian Festival with one or more days being set aside especially for the centennial celebrations of Confederation of Canada.

Hartlin Named Vice-Moderator

Rev. Howard S. Hartlin of Digby was appointed vice-moderator of the Annapolis-Digby Association of United Baptist Churches at the fall session held at Little River. Rev. R. R. Winchester, Barton, was named the licensing committee.

The association meeting passed unanimously by voice vote the following resolution relative to Acadia University.

"Be it noted that the members of this Association are greatly disturbed by the action of the Board of Governors and the Executive of the Associated Alumni of Acadia University in their decision to press for legislative action to reduce the powers of the Convention in university affairs, without prior consultation with the appointed representatives of Convention."

We not with dismay that, although the Board of Governors and the Executive of the Associated Alumni are willing to discuss this matter with the Baptist Convention, it is only under that threat that either or both bodies would appeal unilaterally to the Legislature, without the co-operation of the Convention.

"Whereas we believe that no fruitful conversations could be carried on with the Atlantic United Baptist Convention under such duress, be it resolved that we respectfully appeal to the Board of Governors and the Executive of the Associated Alumni to withdraw their threats to the Convention, and then proceed to negotiate with the Atlantic United Baptist Convention in mutual faith and confidence."

"Be it resolved that the Annapolis-Digby United Baptist Association recommend and strongly urge that a commission be set up with representatives from the Convention, the Board of Governors and the Associated Alumni to make a thorough and complete study of all the issues presently at stake in the relationships between university and Convention."

Rev. Harry Renfree, Saint John, general secretary of the United Baptist Convention of the Atlantic Provinces, conferred with Baptist Institute members, ministers and interested laymen attending the fall session on the Acadia issue, notice of which had previously been given to the churches. No representatives from the Board of Governors of Acadia or the Associated Alumni had been invited to attend the meeting.

Rev. David Shaw of the Annapolis Royal United Baptist Church conducted the devotional followed by a welcome by the host pastor, Rev. Victor Mercereau of Little River, to

Rossway

Mr. and Mrs. Vinald Theriault arrived on Tuesday from Gardener, Massachusetts, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Theriault's father, the late Mr. Fred Raymond of Waterford. They returned to Gardener on Wednesday via Princess Acadia. While here they were guests of Mr. Theriault's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Theriault.

The Baptist Women's Missionary Society held their monthly meeting last Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Laura Height.

Mrs. Lottie Lewis who has been residing at Waterford for the past nineteen years is now making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Thurston Banks.

the delegates and a new minister, Rev. David Shaw of Annapolis Royal.

It was decided to arrange annual meetings in rotation between Digby and Annapolis Counties. The program of the convention to celebrate the Centennial of Confederation in 1967-68 with simultaneous evangelistic campaigns was supported and commended to the churches.

The Canadian Bible Society report was given by Rev. Gordon L. Chappell, of Nictaux and the great demand for Bibles in Asia, Africa and South America was emphasized.

Lieut. Frederick Beach, of the Salvation Army spoke on the subject of racial discrimination.

Rev. Kenneth L. Thompson gave the Missionary and Extension Fund report.

The Association Women's Missionary Society held a service in the church with Mrs. Watson Kirkconnell of Wolfville as the special speaker. Moderator Rev. E. Gideon Corey presided at the evening session. Rev. Kenneth L. Thompson led the Praise and Witness service.

Resolutions were also passed expressing the conviction that any form of racial discrimination was in fact a contradiction of the Christian faith; recommending to the treasurers of churches that they send a monthly, or at least a quarterly, remittance to the Missionary and Extension fund of the Convention in Saint John.

Rev. Carolyn Palmer, rural church assistant to the Superintendent of Home Missions, spoke on "The Challenge of Home Missions."

W. M. S. Elects Slate
The November meeting of the Smith's Cove Baptist W.M.S. was held in the church vestry.

The nominating committee report gave same slate of officers as were in with one change. Mrs. MacWilliam was appointed vice president.

Pastor And Family Honored

On Friday evening a going away party was held at the Baptist Church vestry at Little River in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Mercereau and family. They were recipients of many gifts, including a gift of money from the villages of Tidville and Whale Cove, also gifts from Mink Cove. The gift of money was presented by Mrs. Rupert K. Trask.

Mrs. Clyde Denton presented Mrs. Mercereau with a sweater from the W.M.S.

The Sunday School superintendent, Shirley Tidd, presented Rev. and Mrs. Mercereau, Margaret and Helen, with gifts of money from the Sunday school.

Helen's girl friends, Idylle Trask, Dolores Boliver, Sherry McCullough and Ella Addington gave gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Mercereau responded in a pleasing manner.

The evening was spent in singing. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Edgar Trask, Mrs. Lindsay Raymond, Mrs. Eddie Addington, Mrs. Ainsley Tidd, Mrs. Royce Elderkin, Mrs. Rupert K. Trask.

The evening closed with prayer by the pastor.

On the following Sunday Mrs. Lindsay Raymond presented Margaret with a cup and saucer from the Junior Choir, also a gold wrist watch from "A Friend."

Previous to this the Y.P.F. gave Mrs. Mercereau a scarf and gloves set and Helen a lamp. Mr. Mercereau has accepted a call to another charge in New Brunswick.

Church Service Marks Remembrance

Digby veterans of two world wars marched in a body to Grace United Church on Sunday morning to honor their fallen comrades. Also in attendance were Scouts, Cubs, Explorers and C.G.I.T., each organization standing to repeat their pledge or purpose.

Rev. R. H. Hughes, minister of Grace United, conducted the worship and delivered the sermon. Mr. Hughes said that those whom we had gathered to remember, had died for peace and to this high ideal we must concentrate our high ideals. World peace will come, he said, when men and women get right with God and right with one another. The problems of peace are not man against man but man straining against God. We can't experience peace towards others, the speaker said, until we experience peace in our own hearts.

The choir under the direction of Norman Wright, leader, and Mrs. Elton Arnold, organist sang a hymn appropriate for the occasion with Mrs. Gerald Wilson and Mrs. J. M. Wallis being heard in a duet.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan Henshaw and family of New Dyke were visitors at the home of her uncle, Mr. Robert Winchester, on Saturday.

Mrs. G. Mullen of Middleton spent the weekend at the home of Ralph Barkhouse.

Marriage

Handspiker - Brown

The marriage of Kathryn Mae Brown, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brown, Bear River, Annapolis Co., and Merrill Handspiker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Handspiker, was solemnized by Rev. George Brydon at his home, Deep Brook.

The bride wore a bridal gown of white lace with fingertip veil and yellow accessories. The bride's sister, Mrs. Avery Kaulback and Mr. Kaulback were attendants at the ceremony.

Later a reception was held at the bride's home. The young couple will reside at Bear River.

Laymen Assist In Morning Worship

Laymen of Grace United Church assisted Rev. R. H. Hughes at morning worship on Sunday when Sherman Rice led in reading the Psalm, Graham MacPherson in the scripture reading and Norman Wright in prayer.

Fred Fullerton delivered the sermon using John 17:18. He said that the church is seeing the need of getting back to the place where Christianity began — with the layman playing a prominent part.

Mr. Fullerton told the congregation that their mission is to take the church to the world. There are various functions in which the church must show concern, he said, and named social welfare, education, political matters, as a few. He said that Christianity has to be carried into the everyday life of the individual and community.

The church, Mr. Fullerton said, is undergoing a renewal program, not because everything in the church is wrong, but for the betterment of the church and its ongoing program to fulfill the mission and will of God in the world. Each board and organization within the church must examine itself, he said, to see that it is not trapped with business in such a way that it loses out on the real issues of glorifying God.

Mr. Fullerton made a strong appeal for more choir members and emphasized that the purpose of a choir is not to put on a concert, so to speak, but to lead in praise and worship, to create an atmosphere for worship. He asked those who could help in this field of the church's work to recognize this as part of their stewardship.

Mr. Fullerton asked that the congregation take a look at the church in the matter of ecumenicity, which means more than getting together with other faiths outside the church but in worship also.

Any church, he said, is as good as its members. He asked laity to rise up and give service to the King of Kings.

The choir sang the anthem God the Creator, under leadership of Norman Wright, and Mrs. Elton Arnold, organist.

Deep Brook

Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard Clarke of Windsor called on Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vroom on Sunday.

Miss Sheila Wagner entertained a number of young friends on Thursday evening to celebrate her 14th birthday anniversary. A pleasant evening was enjoyed by the young people and at the close refreshments were served including the traditional birthday cake.

Mr. Arnold Henshaw and mother, Mrs. George Nelson spent Friday in Aylesford visiting with Mrs. Robert Nelson. Mrs. Eugene Muise of Yarmouth spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Petipas and Priscilla spent the weekend in Halifax with their son, Robert and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wheelock and son and Miss Carolyn Vroom of Middleton spent Thursday with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Luke Vroom.

Mrs. Bertha Clayborne left on Sunday to spend some time with Mrs. Joseph Madden in Liverpool.

DIGBY METROPOLITAN STORE GREATLY EXPANDED

Metropolitan Manager

E. L. Sangster

E. L. Sangster, manager of the Metropolitan Store in Digby, has worked in forty different Met stores from points in Nova Scotia to as far west as Fort William, Ontario. He started his career in New Glasgow and his last place of management before coming to Digby two years ago was St. Thomas, Ontario, which incidentally was the first Metropolitan Store opened in Canada, established in 1908.

Mr. and Mrs. Sangster live in Digby.

The expanded Digby Met employs a staff of about thirty. Manager trainees are Darnell Warren, Ronald VanTassel, Gordon Thompson and Stewart Thibault. Most of the employees come from the Digby area.

The new store features expanded lines of merchandise and larger displays. A modern lunch counter and fountain service has been added. Shoppers are also treated to pleasant background music. A record bar has been added to the store where fans can obtain the latest hits, both long play and single. A cigarette bar is also a new feature at the Digby Metropolitan Store.

Mr. Sangster takes pride in showing visitors through the spacious building and turning on the fluorescent lights which give a fairland daylight effect. The walls are in most part two tone blue, but shades of orange, sand, beige and yellow are intertwined in the

Different from such industries as lumbering, mining, machine, construction and other industries regarding compensation coverage, in the fishing industry the Compensation Act is set up under a system whereby the ship owners can make their own arrangements with private companies. The inquiry on Tuesday weighed the pros and cons of the present system of coverage for fishermen as against the possibility of giving the same type of coverage to the fishing industry as is now being given to most other industries.

Coverage of part III extends to the payment of compensation for temporary disability, permanent disability and in fatalities includes dependant's benefits. The liability is limited by section 153 to the total sum of $200,000 for any one incident. If injuries or loss of life involve more than one crew member then the compensable benefits are reduced pro rata. Basic compensation benefits payable are similar to the general industries.

The question arose as to what type of assessment and risk rate should be considered if the fishermen came under Part I of the Workmen's Compensation Act and to provide coverage for more fishermen at a better rate. C. D. Snow felt that calculations should be made on landed value of fish and the burden of premiums be spread equally. In the event that such calculations make the price of fish above what the customer can afford then the federal government should help the fishing industry for the benefit of the country's economy. Mayor Snow said, but the first consideration should be to the fishermen who produce the fish. Fishermen, he felt, differ in employment from others and must be protected differently not only in loss of life protection but also in wages.

In general it was felt that risks were not so great for fishermen now as previously as facilities, safety precautions, and coastguard service is better. But it was stated that because of risks involved, few fish dealers own their boats.

lecor to lend a hand for every effect and occasion. The tiled floors, too, are in a multicolor effect on a sand background. Comfort for employees is assured by the modern forced air heating and ventilation system which conditions the air for comfortable working conditions.

At the Cenotaph in Clementsvalle, there was a service with the laying of wreaths, when guides and cubs, legionnaires, and members of the women's auxiliary united with the group from Clementsvalle.

All attended a service in the Baptist Church at Clementsvalle, with Lie. A. Marshall, of the Deep Brook Baptist Church, conducting the service, assisted by the Rev. A. F. Sheward, chaplain during the Second World War.

At the same time, Holy Communion was celebrated at Saint Anne's Anglican Church, Smith's Cove, with the Rt. Rev. R. H. Waterman, past Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia officiating.

Smith's Cove:

Remembrance Day was observed in Smith's Cove by a service in the United Church of Canada, with the minister, Rev. L. McNeill in charge.

Bishop R. H. Waterman, the special speaker, delivered an inspiring address using II Samuel, 2:23, "and it came to pass that as many as came to the place where Asahel fell down and died, stood still," as his illustration. So we today stand still for a moment of time to honor our war dead.

A good number was in attendance, including many of the young people, who assisted with the singing. A solo, "The Supreme Sacrifice," was sung by Stuart MacLean.

At the conclusion of this service a brief service was held at the monument in the Women's Institute Memorial Park, when veterans Eric Kinsman and Nelson Speights placed wreaths sent by the government of Nova Scotia and the Canadian Legion, Bear River.

Unite Clubs As Rivervale Project Club

The four 4H Clubs met Tuesday evening in the Mite Society Building with the President Jackie Sanford in charge of the meeting at Clementsvalle.

Donald MacNeil, 4H Representative, and Miss Janet Walker, Home Economist, present.

The purpose of this meeting was to decide whether the clubs would be made one. This was voted on and from now on will be known as the Rivervale Project Club.

The treasurers report revealed $30.24 on hand.

The club decided to collect for UNICEF on Halloween.

The new slate of officers was elected as follows: Miss Jackie Sanford, president; Donald Sanford, vice president; Miss Debbie Brown, secretary; Dean Thibedeau, treasurer; Miss Mary Simpson, club reporter; Miss Jackie Freeman, Miss Mary Simpson, junior leaders; Kenneth Trimper, program convener; Faye Jefferson, refreshments; Janis Baird, ways and means. It was decided that each member pay dues amounting to $1.00 per year.

A most welcome announcement was made to the effect that the Bear River East Mite Society have donated a trophy to be awarded to the best all round member of the club regardless of project.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served by the leaders present.

Centreville

Miss Linda Lombard is spending an indefinite time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Haley Graham, Moncton, N. B.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Trask of Little River were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Loran Shaw, Sunday.

Witnesses Meet At Kentville

An audience of 158 listeners packed the auditorium of the Kentville Academy, Sunday afternoon, to hear Mr. Levi Wall deliver the main address of the highly successful three day assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses. Speaking on the thought-provoking subject "What Does the Resurrection of the Dead Mean for You and Yours?", Mr. Wall posed these questions to his audience, "If you die, will you live again? Is it possible to see your deceased loved ones again?"

"Many will answer these questions differently," the speaker said, "Some hold that the dead will always be dead; others that the dead are not dead at all. In view of the many conflicting beliefs on this subject taught by the many religions of the world, where is the truthful answer to be found?" asked Mr. Wall. Only one ancient book can authoritatively answer these questions, the Bible.

"In its opening fifty chapters," Mr. Wall pointed out, "the Bible points to a resurrection of the dead and in its last twenty-two chapters it speaks of (1) the resurrection of Jesus Christ, (2) the resurrection of his faithful disciples, and (3) the resurrection of mankind in general."

Punctuating his remarks by repeated quotations from the Bible, Mr. Wall concluded by making this moving exhortation to his rapt audience: "Let this miracle of divine mercy, the resurrection from the dead, inspire you to serve God and benefit from His loving provision before it is too late!"

Discussing the effect of the three day assembly, the delegates from the fifteen congregations represented were enthusiastic about future plans for intensifying their ministry upon their return.

Harold McLaren, presiding minister of the Digby congregation, spoke to the delegates about "Praising God as His Servants."

Among those attending from Digby, Centreville and Weymouth were Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Harold McLaren, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. McKenna and David, Mr. and Mrs. K. Cossett, Mr. and Mrs. James Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. George Jarvis.

Painter Maude Lewis On T.V.

from CBC Times

(A visit with a unique Canadian artist, Thursday, Nov. 25th, 9:30 p.m. EST - 10:30 AST, TV.)

Beside No. 1 highway, four miles west of Digby, N. S., is a snug 10by-12-foot, one-room cabin that looks like a gingerbread hut dreamed up by the Brothers Grimm. In it lives a little gnome of a woman with soft, gentle eyes misty with undemanding dreams and lit by humor as warm as the big wood-range she sits beside. She has only once gone more than 60 miles from her tiny home, but her fame has travelled far.

Maude Lewis is a natural primitive Canadian artist who's surely executed simple Nova Scotia scenes in gay colors are flavored with a humor unbelievably sophisticated in one so shy, simple and untouched by 20th-century complexities. She lives a fairy-tale existence without electricity, plumbing, radio or other comforts we take for granted, and the outside world scarcely exists for her. Perhaps because of this, her work has an irresistible charm and happy quality that appeals to both tourists and artists of discrimination from many parts of the country. Maude Lewis has never heard of. She paints entirely from her own everyday experience, depicting farm animals, cottages, folds of hills and gardens with a simple directness that most people find refreshingly cosy in a world of superficiality.

She paints one picture a day, and was embarrassed and apologetic recently about raising the price of them from $4.50 to $5.00, because of the high cost of artist's supplies. Frail and crippled by arthritis, shy, rather uncommunicative, suspicious of strangers, but quietly courteous, she stays indoors most of the time these cool days, in a gay and care-free clutter of belongings piled everywhere, many of them decorated with her cheerful nature paintings. And she herself, crouched over her current painting in a sprigged apron, looks like an appealing little woodland creature, sensitive, wary and wise.

Ever since she married a tall, illiterate farm laborer, a man as lonely as she, the two of them, now in their sixties, have lived in the little cabin, which was built originally for a man five feet tall, so Everett Lewis can never stand up perfectly straight inside. He bakes the bread, hunts and traps for the stew-pot on the big black range, does the cooking, and encourages his little wife in her artistic work, playing a big, gaunt Darby, unlettered but shrewd and protective, to her gently determined, fragile Joan.

Recently, director George Ronald and a Telescope crew visited The Once-Upon-a-Time World of Maude Lewis and

Meet At Digby

Sunday afternoon, October 31, the Western Nova Scotia Firemen's Association met at the Fire Station in Digby.

Fire Departments from five counties were at the meeting, presided over by President Rev. Wade, of Kentville. Counties represented were Hants, Kings, Annapolis, Digby and Yarmouth.

Mr. Wade reported on the busy year that had just passed and the work in the coming year. He praised the departments which had purchased two-way radios during the year. The radios now give communication from Halifax to Digby. It is hoped that a department on the French Shore will purchase these radios, so communications can be connected from Yarmouth to Halifax.

Sandy Cove

Sgt. and Mrs. Eugene Lowe and family, Moncton, N. B. were weekend guests of his sister Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Gidney and family.

Mrs. Gilbert Merritt is spending an indefinite time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Walker, Waterford.

Miss Mary Elizabeth MacKay, Wolfville accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Walter MacKay spent the weekend with her aunt Mrs. C. H. Saunders and uncle Mr. Oscar MacKay.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Titus spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ruggles, Bear River.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Raymond spent the weekend in Yarmouth visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Andrews and daughter Cheryl were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Forsythe, Dartmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Nesbitt, Rossway were Sunday supper guests of Mrs. Clarence Porter.

PLANS REGIONAL MEET

The Women's Work Committee agreed to obtain the required flannelette, and also acknowledged the receipt of a quilt top from the Society of Friends, Joggin Bridge. In her report, Mrs. Warne made special mention of the many beautiful aprons made by Mrs. Allen Stark and her helpers during recent weeks, many of which are already sold and more in the making. A shipment of finished articles ready to be forwarded to Red Cross headquarters was reported being held over for display at the Regional Meeting.

The treasurer, Mrs. B. H. Ruggles, gratefully acknowledged the receipt of a donation of $75 from the "Digby Pines". This, together with refunds of forest fire and Blood Donor Clinic expenses, had replenished a treasury which was dangerously low. Mrs. Berwick's financial report of the Ways & Means Committee showed receipts of $830 from the weekly teas, and expenditures of $1206 for Disaster Relief and other supplies. The report also expressed thanks to those who had provided delicious refreshments during the past month, more of which were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Marriage

Hudson — Lewis

The United Baptist Church, Port Wade, was the scene of a pretty fall wedding when Sharon Juanita, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hudson, Port Wade, and Arthur Mayhew, son of Mr. Stanley Lewis and the late Mr. Lewis, of Parker's Cove, were united in marriage.

Rev. David H. Shaw, of Annapolis Royal, performed the double ring ceremony. Major James Brown, of Port Wade, was organist.

The church was decorated with roses, daffodils and violets. The guest pews were each marked with a single rose with pink or white bow.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown, which was fashioned with a full skirt, scoop neckline and long lily point sleeves. It featured Guipure lace appliques down the front and a lace trimmed bow at the back. Her headpiece was a crown of simulated pearls and mohair braid petals and featured a shoulder length veil of nylon tulle. Her bouquet was pink and white roses, gardenias, lily of the valley and fern with pink bow and streamers.

Beverly Hudson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mera Lewis, sister of the groom, and Doreen Hudson, cousin of the bride. All were dressed in identical floor length gowns of blue satin with white accessories and blue wedding ring headpieces. Each carried a nosegay of white roses, lily of the valley and fern.

Sandra Hudson, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a pink dress in the same style as the bridesmaids with a pink wedding ring headband and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses.

Miss Janet Sarty, Port Williams, was ring bearer for the bride, and Michael Ellis, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer for the groom. Each carried a red cushion edged with gold braid and tassels.

The best man was Richard Parks, of Parker's Cove. Ushers were Douglas Andrews and Phillip Lewis, of Parker's Cove.

The bride's mother wore a full red dress with white accessories and corsage of white carnations. The mother of the groom wore a three piece blue suit with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Port Wade school. Mrs. Ralph McGrath poured and serving were Mary Hudson, Carol Weir, Marcia Hudson, Linda McGrath, Mrs. Clair Halliday, Mrs. Roger Ellis, Mrs. Basil Taylor and Mrs. Douglas Fox. Miss Brenda Neilly had charge of the guest book.

For travelling the bride chose a black and white check skirt with a red blazer-type jacket, white blouse and accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

The happy couple will live in Parker's Cove.

North Range

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beals and family of Nictaux Falls were weekend guests of her mother Mrs. Warren Haight and Mr. Haight.

Charles Waterman of Manchester, Conn., spent several days recently with his brother, Harry, Mrs. Waterman and family.

The turkey supper at the recently acquired Baptist Church hall sponsored by the Friends and Neighbors Group, was well attended and declared a success. Over $280.00 was realized.

Mr. and Mrs. John Haight are occupying the house owned by Mrs. F. Cann, for the winter months.

When cooking fish in the oven, a general rule is to allow 10 minutes cooking time for each inch of thickness in fresh fish, at 450-500 degrees F. Double the time for frozen fish.

Marriage

Heitz — Dakin

St. John's United Church, Oakville, Ontario, was the scene of a pretty fall wedding on October 9, 1965 at 12:30 p.m. when Rev. J. Terry officiated at the double ring ceremony, which united in marriage Ruth Linda Dakin, youngest daughter of Mrs. Etta Dakin of Oakville, Ontario and Mr. Hilbert Dakin, Centerville, Digby Co., N. S. to Jack Michael Heitz only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Burgess, Vancouver, B. C.

The bride who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Dan Sanford, Port Credit, Ontario looked a picture of loveliness gowned in a white A line floor length gown of peau de soie with short jacket of chantilly lace. The gown featured a train of same material with tiny embroidered roses around bottom.

The gown was designed and made by the bride. Her headpiece was a shoulder length veil with a crown of tiny pearls. She carried a sheath bouquet of Sweetheart roses and trailing greens.

Mrs. Gene Smith of Windsor, Nova Scotia, was guest soloist accompanying herself on the harp. Mr. Kilgour, church organist played the wedding music during the ceremony.

Miss Louise Dakin only sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a street length gown of rose, with matching tiny veil headpiece. She carried a nosegay of tiny white and pink roses.

Miss Cathy Maclean and Miss Peggy Sinclair, classmates of the bride, were bridesmaids. Cathy wore a dress of olive green with matching tiny veil headpiece. Peggy wore a dress of gold with matching headpiece.

They carried nosegays of tiny white and pink roses.

Mr. Marty Barnes of London, Ontario was best man.

Mr. Otis Carter of Port Credit, Ontario, and Mr. Ton Vandercran, Georgetown, Ont., were ushers.

For a reception immediately following the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Newman, Oakville, the bride's mother, received the guests, wearing a three piece suit of knit Jersey in turquoise blue, with navy accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

The bridegroom's mother wore a black and white suit, with white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

For a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, N. Y., the bride wore a teal blue suit with matching accessories and a corsage of tiny yellow roses.

The bride is a senior graduate of O.T.H.S., Oakville and the bridegroom is a junior draftsman employed by Holder and Bank Technical Services, Oakville.

Mr. and Mrs. Heitz will make their home in Vancouver, B. C. where the groom will be employed and further his studies in Marine Biology.

Mrs. Ingram Dakin and Mrs. Florence Titus of Centerville, Digby County, N. S. are grandparents of the bride. A special guest at the wedding was Mrs. Jessie Shaw, great aunt of the bride, of Beamsville, Ont., formerly from Centerville and Wolfville, N. S.

Hospital Donation Day At Bear River

The following is a list of donations received on Hospital Donation Day from Bear River and surrounding districts: $90 cash, 94 jars jams, 44 jars pickles, 6 jars juice, 6 jars fruit, 8 packages pudding mix, vegetables.

The committee in charge, under the convener'ship of Mrs. Murray Alcorn, thanked the contributors for their generous donations.

Family Reunion

The family of Mrs. Ella Peck gathered at her home in Greenwood, on Saturday evening, Nov. 6th to celebrate her 60th birthday.

Her children including her sons, Howard of Bridgetown, Orrin of Digby, Junior at home; daughters, Dorothy, Mrs. Paul McNicolas of Dartmouth, Alice, Mrs. Willis Trimper, and Joan, Mrs. Shirley Trimmer of Bear River East and Martha, Mrs. John Bourassa of Cornwallis, and their husbands and wives were all present for the occasion.

The highlight of the evening was the cutting of a beautifully decorated birthday cake made by her daughters of Bear River East.

Mrs. Peck was presented with a gift of money from her family.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Inasmuch

(Contributed by B.R.W.I.) Inasmuch as there seems to be some misunderstanding about the subject, the Bear River Womens Institute would like to say that all they did was to suggest that part of the money spent in giving treats at Christmas to children, who are already well "treated" at home, school, and churches, would do more good if it were donated to some worthwhile cause, and designated as a Gift from the Children of Bear River. In doing so, it was stated that the sum of one hundred dollars, if given to UNICEF, would buy 35,000 pints of milk enough penicillin to cure 2,000 children of yaws, vitamin capsules for 160 children for one year, or protect 5,000 children from tuberculosis. Surely this is more worthwhile than giving another bag of candy to a few, but since this is a democratic country, everyone must make their own decision about how their money shall be spent, and the majority rules! However, before judging us may we suggest that you read Matthew Chapter 25, verse 45.

Legion Has Annual Dinner On Thursday evening the members of the Royal Canadian Legion, Bear River Branch No. 22 and wives enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner in the I. O. O. F. Hall.

At the head table were the President, Mr. H. A. Lantz and Mrs. Lantz, vice-president, D. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Isles, Mrs. James Cook and Mrs. E. Henshaw, Rev. K. MacNeill who gave the blessing and also later the address to those present. Mrs. Bert Mayo Auxiliary President and Mr. Mayo.

The tables were most attractive with the white cloth and crosses of red poppies. Toasts to the Queen and the fallen comrades were given by James Cook and D. Porter. Arthur Isles welcomed the ladies.

Following the dinner a sing song was held in which all joined in singing the familiar songs of war years.

Later in the evening the Darras Orchestra provided music for dancing.

The Womens Auxiliary of the Legion catered for the dinner.

Mayor Elected By Acclamation - Still 2 Council Vacancies

At the close of nomination period, 5 p.m. Tuesday, only one name had been placed for the three council vacancies in the town of Digby. Nominated was Gregg Gilliat, manager of the Digby Daily. A second date will have to be set.

Clayton D. Snow was re-elected mayor by acclamation for a second two-year term.

Resigns From Scouting

At the regular meeting on Monday Graham Saunders resigned as leader of the First Digby Troop of Boy Scouts. His duties will be taken over by Harold Surette, with his son, Michael Surette, as assistant.

Mayor C. D. Snow thanked Mr. Saunders for his many years of participation in Scouting activities in Digby. The meeting was attended by both Scouts and Cubs.

A going-up ceremony was held during the evening when several Cubs were received into the First Digby Scout Troop.

Christmas Concert Planned

At a meeting of the Christian Youth Council of the Baptist Church of Digby, held last Sunday evening, plans were made for the holding of an old-fashioned Christmas Concert in the church on December 22nd. Mrs. Jean Olsen will act as convener and organizer of the concert, and will be assisted by the youth leaders and the Sunday School teachers.

Reports of the work being done by the various youth leaders of the church were encouraging. Figures submitted show that about 132 young people are now enrolled in the youth organizations of the church, including the Baptist Youth Fellowship, the Rovers, Scouts, Cubs, Explorers and two C.G.I.T. groups.

Two new members to the Council were welcomed. These included Mrs. Russell Harris and Mrs. Donald Buckler.

Mr. Bernard Bell reported on the work thus far done on the hall extension, and said that plans are being made to finish the interior during the winter. This will provide more facilities for Sunday School and other youth activities.

It was reported that two former youth leaders in the church, John Comeau and William Poole, who moved to Dartmouth recently, are now in charge of youth groups in the First Baptist Church of that city.

Members of the Hill Grove Junior Choir attended one of the special services held in the Rosway church last week and took charge of the choir. They also sang four special numbers. Afterwards they were served with refreshments in the church hall. More than forty people from Hill Grove and Conway attended the service.

The pastor, Rev. H. S. Hartlin will administer the Ordinance of Baptism in the Digby church next Sunday night.

Essay Cup Won By David MacCormack

David MacCormack, Bear River, a Grade X student at the Digby Regional High School, was on Wednesday morning presented with a cup as winner of an essay contest on some phase of agriculture.

David is a son of Rev. H. E. MacCormack, Halifax, and Mrs. MacCormack.

The cup offered by the Halifax Armada Kiwanis Club was presented by Hedley G. Ivany, vice-president, on behalf of the club. The annual competition was Maritime-wide and judging was done at the Maritime Winter Fair, which was held recently in Halifax.

In making the presentation, Mr. Ivany told David that he had brought honor to himself, his teachers, his school and his community in winning the cup. He told him not to take his accomplishments lightly and the type of journalism which he showed could be a stepping stone to greater things. In reference to journalism Mr. Ivany also made special recognition of the dedication and service of the small town newspaper.

In speaking of agriculture, Mr. Ivany told the class assembled and David of the problems facing the world today because of starving people. He, himself, had visited countries where people clamored for horse meat and where people sat by the gutters in the day time and lay down in the same place to sleep at night.

Mr. Ivany is president of the Queen Elizabeth High School Home and School Association and director of the Nova Scotia Home and School Association.

Also attending the presentation ceremony on Wednesday was Gary Hanley, Halifax, Grade XII student, and Lieutenant Governor of the Key Club Division 8-A. He told of the activities of Key Clubs which is a club sponsored by Kiwanis for students of Grades X, XI and XII.

C. C. MacInnes and others present congratulated David on his accomplishment. Present were also Mrs. J. M. Wallis; Stewart MacNaughton, president of Digby Kiwanis; Mrs. R. R. Winchester, teacher; and the students of David's class.

Enrolled At Seminary

Mr. Sendel H. Barr, son of Mrs. William C. Barr, of Weymouth, and Lloyd G. Derby, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Derby, Westport, have enrolled for the 1965-66 academic year at Christian Theological Seminary, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Christian Theological Seminary is a graduate educational institution of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ). The 215 students at the Seminary represent 23 different Protestant denominations and come from 32 states and 7 foreign countries.

Assembly President Entertained

On Wednesday, November 10th, Zelma Rebekah Lodge, No. 78, held a special meeting in honor of Mrs. Agnes MacLeod, president of the Rebekah Assembly of the Maritime Provinces of Canada. The meeting was presided over by the Noble Grand, Mrs. Dorothy Milberry. Present also were members from Eliza Rebekah Lodge, Bear River, and Olive Branch Lodge, Weymouth. A number of sisters of Zelma led a consecration service. The Charter was draped by sisters of Eliza Lodge, followed by an impressive ceremony. Sisters of Olive Branch conducted a question box.

Sister MacLeod gave a helpful and interesting address on the work of the Order, and spoke fittingly at this time of honouring Canada's war dead. Each Lodge presented Sister MacLeod with a gift, which was followed by a social hour, and refreshments served by the committee in charge.

On Monday, November 22nd, the regular meeting was presided over by the Noble Grand. Preceding the meeting some forty members sat down to a delicious supper, followed by the annual roll call by the secretary, Sister Eva Fleet.

The next meeting which is to be held on December 13th will be Past Noble Grand's night, and a box of Christmas gifts will be packed for the guests at the IOOF Home in Pictou.

Proceeds from the rummage sale held in the IOOF Hall amounted to $137.00. It was paid towards the room at The Digby General Hospital sponsored by Zelma Lodge.

Makes Eleven Lunches Per Day For Family

Mrs. Francis Wood, Leonard, Ont., operator for the Metcalfe Telephone Company at Nanaimo, Ont., began making fourteen lunches every night when her son, Martin, youngest of her twelve children started to school, according to a report in an Ontario paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood have eight boys and four girls, eleven of whom are in schools. Three go to high school in Ottawa and eight to the Sarsfield Separate School. The number include twin girls who were eleven this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood's eldest daughter, Stephanie, 19 years, graduated from high school last June. She and her father work in Ottawa.

Mrs. Wood is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Amoro, Acaciaville, Digby Co. She, with her husband and complete family, have visited the Amoros in the summers.

Entertains At Bridge

Mrs. E. J. Theriault was hostess to four tables of bridge at her residence on First Avenue on Friday night when prizes were won by Mrs. V. A. Thompson, high; Miss Dora Warne, 2nd; Mrs. H. M. Warne, consolation; and Mrs. A. J. Dillon, travelling.

The approach of the Christmas season was evident in decorations which graced the home.

50 Years Married

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Gower, Westport, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on December 8.

Congratulations go out to them.

29 Crib Hand

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Spurr, Greenwood, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gidney, Sandy Cove. While Mr. Spurr and Mr. Gidney were playing cribbage Mr. Gidney came up with a perfect hand of 29.

Talk On Proposed Church Union

William MacLeod, president, presided at the regular meeting of Grace United Church Brotherhood on Saturday night when Rev. R. H. Hughes, pastor of Grace United and Rev. James Pike, rector of Trinity Anglican Church of Canada, Digby, carried on a discussion on the proposed union of the Anglican and United Churches in Canada. In the picture above sitting at the banquet table are left, Boyd Ellis, Digby, brotherhood member and Mrs. James Pike, standing left is Mr. Hughes and right, Mr. Pike.

More effort has gone into union of churches during the past sixty years than in the two thousand years preceding said Rev. Mr. Pike in opening his remarks on the proposed union of Anglicans and the United Church.

One of the late reasons for the union effort is for the purpose of combatting Communism which is foreign in its teaching to Christianity and another is because by division the work of spreading the news of the Gospel has suffered. The missionary work has been far less effective than it could have been. The third reason is that the thinking church is reminded of the Lord's wish that the church should be undivided.

Mr. Pike felt that union between the Anglicans and United Churches was not as imminent as some people think but that discussions were a good thing. There must be found, he said, the common basis of agreement. This he said is found in the creed "I believe in one holy catholic and apostolic church". Still he said, because of interpretation it will take years, much prayer and many get-togethers to accomplish union.

There will be more value to the union if it is accomplished through much prayer and unhaste, Mr. Pike said. If it is based on misunderstanding it will not hope to survive. It would probably be a union of members who did not understand the doctrines of each church.

Mr. Pike pointed out the differences in interpretations in the two churches, he explained the functions concerning the bishop of the Anglican church and the moderator of the United. He noted the problems concerning the interpretation of the sacrament of Holy Communion.

Even with the many different interpretations, Mr. Pike said, there still should be no lack of hope for union. But he said, it must be looked at realistically and God must be asked for help to solve problems and bring about union.

Mr. Hughes brought the audience up-to-date on what has been accomplished on the proposed union so far in the United Church of Canada since the General Council approved in principle such a union. He said that it is twenty years since union of these two churches was first looked into, and now they have only reached an agreement on essential elements of Faith and Order. He mentioned the many ways in which the Anglican church and the United Church

Digby Rector Will Move To Cornwallis

The Rev. James Pike, Rector of Trinity Church Parish in Digby since 1958 has been appointed Rector of St. John's Parish, Cornwallis, King's Co., by the Rt. Rev. W. W. Davis, Bishop of Nova Scotia, effective February 1st, 1966.

He will succeed the Reverend Keith Mason who moved to the Diocese of Massachusetts in October. In addition to St. John's, Cornwallis, the Rector will have charge of the congregation of St. Michael and All Angels, Canning, and St. Thomas Church in Kingsport.

Educated at Queen's College, Newfoundland, Mr. Pike served as Assistant at St. Mary's Church, St. John's, following ordination in 1937. After ministering in Newfoundland parishes he came from Botwood, Newfoundland, in 1953 to begin his ministry in Nova Scotia in the Parish of Rosette (Round Hill). While Rector of Digby he has also acted as Priest in charge of Sandy Cove, and served as Rural Dean of Annapolis from 1962 to 1965.

Capt. Paul Starts Game

Capt. J. M. Paul, commander, HMCS Cornwallis, will drop the puck on Saturday, November 27, at 1 o'clock p.m. when the hockey game between Cornwallis Cougars and the Shearwater Flyers gets underway at the Cornwallis arena.

Elected President Ontario Hospital Council

Welland County General Hospital superintendent Clarence W. Hill has been elected president of District Council of the Ontario Hospital Association at the council meeting Niagara-on-the-Lake.

The council is composed of hospital superintendents and assistants, board members and auxiliary members from hospitals in Dunnville, Hagersville, Fort Erie, Port Colborne, Niagara Falls, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Grimsby, Welland and St. Catharines.

Guest speaker at the meeting, John Owen, of Toronto, spoke on problems encountered in designing and construction of hospitals.

The council is organized to acquaint member hospitals with the aims and objectives of the Ontario Hospital Association. It also gives members a chance to exchange ideas regarding hospital services in the peninsula.

Mr. Hill, a Digby County man, son of Forrest Hill, served as Warrant Officer in the R.C.N. during the Second World War. He was well known in Halifax, where he was administrator at Camp Hill Hospital. He then received a call to Sunny Brook hospital in Ontario where he became superintendent and served for a number of years before receiving a call to Welland General Hospital. He has served at Welland as superintendent for a number of years, during which a new nurses' residence has been built, the former old hospital completely renovated and plans for a new 100 bed addition to the present hospital is underway.

Mr. Hill's wife is the former Verna Marshall, of Conway. They have a son, Douglas, who is employed by T. Eaton Co. as head of the Contract Sales Department for the Maritimes, and one daughter, Barbara (Mrs. John Morgenson), of Toronto.

can speak on common ground. He especially emphasized that when union does come about that the best from both churches will be retained and a new church will be formed from these.

Mr. Hughes felt that a divided church is a distortion of the Gospel message and that the Holy Spirit of God is working in the hearts and pushing towards union.

A question period followed after which Rev. Mr. Pike and Mrs. Pike were thanked for attending and participating in the program.

Who Is "Mr. Annapolis Valley - 1965"?

Who is this Valley community deserves the award "Mr. Annapolis Valley - 1965"? Again in 1965 and with the cooperation of the weekly newspapers in the Valley, Evangeline Radio is looking for "Mr. Annapolis Valley".

You, the citizens of the Valley, are asked to submit your nominations for the Valley Man of the Year Award and give your reasons. You are asked only that you consider your choice on a Valley-wide basis, and look beyond your immediate village, town or county before you make your final decision.

Mr. Annapolis Valley may be in your home community or he may live at the other end of the Valley. He may be a widely known individual or one who has worked constantly but quietly toward the betterment of the Valley community. He may be a comparatively young man who has given freely of his time and talents or he may be older and through sacrifice on his part helped the Valley to grow economically, socially or culturally.

Mr. Annapolis Valley is the man who strives to bring the people of the Valley closer to each other and works toward the mutual betterment of the Valley and all its people.

The closing date for nominations is December 18th. The names will then be submitted to a panel of judges for their decision.

At the beginning of the new year, Evangeline Radio will present this man with an engraved plaque as an acknowledgement and "thank you" on your behalf.

Send your nomination, and the reason for your choice, as soon as possible to: "Mr. Annapolis Valley - 1965", in care of The Digby Courier, or Evangeline Radio, Windsor, Kentville or Middleton.

Mayor For 44 Years Finally Steps Down

Stewiacke will soon have its first new mayor in 44 years. Dr. Harry B. Hovey, mayor since 1921, and a councillor for one year previous, will not seek re-election this year, it was announced Friday.

No papers have yet been filed for the mayoralty or for the 3 town council seats that expire this year.

Councillors whose terms expire are Deputy Mayor Harold E. Smith, Emerson Keen and Alan Ferris.

Mayor (Dr.) Harry B. Hovey, born in Freeport, Digby Co., November 10, 1882, and who also resided in Digby and Bridgetown for a number of years, is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hovey, Digby.

Digby Lions Donate $500.00 To Help Forum

At their regular meeting last night the Digby Lions Club passed a motion to donate $500.00 to the Digby Regional Commission to aid them in their operation of the Digby Forum. The sum of $500.00 will be in the hands of the Commission today with $200.00 to follow.

Carl Warner Selected For New Position

Carl A. Warner, Bridgeport, Town Clerk, formerly of Digby, has been selected as the new municipal clerk and treasurer for the Municipality of the County of Colchester. He was announced by Municipal Warden Logan Barnhill, Belmont.

Mr. Warner, whose date commences on December 15, will succeed H. A. Townsend, who announced his retirement during the last Municipal Council session.

Born and educated in Digby, Mr. Warner has been in municipal work since 1954 and has taken courses on financial affairs from Queen's University in Kingston. He is presently taking the municipal clerks and treasurers course offered by Dalhousie University.

Mr. Warner is married with two children.

Mrs. Franklin Honored

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Hill Grove Baptist Church was held at the home of Mrs. William Franklin on Tuesday evening, with the president, Mrs. Vernon Jones presiding.

Mrs. Thomas Franklin led in the scripture reading, and the devotional, "Be a Missionary," was given by Mrs. Jones. A poem was read by Mrs. Hartlin, "My Hostess Secret." Mrs. William Franklin gave a talk on the work of Mr. and Mrs. John Michelson, who are missionaries in La Paz, Bolivia.

After the business meeting was held a special ceremony took place when Mrs. William Franklin was presented with a Dominion Life Membership in the Women's Missionary Society of the Baptist Church. Taking part in the ceremony were Mrs. Curtis Porter, Mrs. Lloyd MacNeill, Mrs. Tracey Milner and Mrs. Vernon Jones. Mrs. Franklin was greatly surprised in having this honor bestowed upon her, but responded with words of thanks and appreciation. The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Curtis Porter.

A social period followed the meeting with refreshments being served by a committee, and a cake appropriately decorated for the occasion being presented to Mrs. Franklin.

Dual Purpose

Have you ever seen a well in Digby County, in what is commonly called "Ohio"? The well cover is painted in stripes of black and yellow and acts as a dummy policeman. (Melan-son photo)

On T.V. Tonight

Maude Lewis (Mrs. Everett Lewis), Marshalltown, who has been bringing fame to herself, her community and to Nova Scotia, will be seen on T.V. tonight. Mrs. Lewis will be seen at work as in the above picture on the T.V. program Telescope tonight at 10:30 p.m. She will tell T.V. commentators about her life and unique paintings. Mr. Lewis, neighbors and friends will also be interviewed on the program.

About This And That

Fishermen Meet Workmen's Compensation

Few arrived at the hearing held in Digby last week dealing with Workmen's Compensation for fishermen. We are not aware whether the fishermen were sent individual notices of the meeting or not. Also, it is possible that The Digby Courier should have been more alert and by editorial or news brought the meeting to the attention of the fishermen. But then, again, that is not exactly our business. News coverage was properly given after the event and that WAS our business. True, the meeting was advertised in The Digby Courier but the type of advertisement was one which could easily be passed over as not applying to anybody in Digby. For instance there was no bold headline such as "Fishermen 'Of Digby'" to catch the fishermen's attention. Be that as it is, a few arrived representing the Digby Board of Trade and private interests. One captain arrived late and confessed that he had just heard of the meeting a few minutes before and was especially interested.

The meeting itself was enlightening and served a useful purpose just the same. Those who had attended received valuable information, discussed the best possible protection for fishermen with the least added financial burden and gave Lorne O. Clarke, commissioner for the enquiry, and his companion, Elmer MacKay, something to report back to the Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia. Also if we know the ways of fishermen, all the other fishermen in the area have heard, by this time, the whole story about the meeting. This is good. The rest of the people have read about it in the columns of the Courier.

The meeting regarding fishermen's workmen's compensation, though attended by few, has created in its own manner, considerable interest. It has made the fishing boat owners more aware of their obligations toward the crew and, frankly, we believe it has made the fishermen, themselves, more aware of their privileges under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Was it a surprise to many to know that each boat owner is supposed to carry $200,000 insurance for the protection of his crew and families in case of injury or loss of life?

Time Brings Changes

It might have been the public hearing, re fishermen's compensation, which brought to the surface an old Workmen's Compensation report of Wallis Print Ltd. from back in 1943. Anyway, the facts revealed were interesting. Total payroll $4,753.79. Workman's Compensation payable $4.75.

The late J. J. Wallis and the late J. M. Wallis were the employers and, as in most of the war years, the only available staff was female employees. In 1943 the staff consisted of Dorothy Burritt, Mrs. Jake Turnbull, bookkeeper; Dorothy Potter (Mrs. C. Parker, Bear River), linotype operator; Eva Haynes (Mrs. George Kilcup), compositor; and Louise Maise (now deceased), apprentice. The weekly wage for the first three was $13.00 each and the last named $9.00 per week. In approximately twenty years the total payroll of the plant has jumped to that of seven times the 1943 figures. The number of employees also increased and has changed to mostly male employees. The plant survived those dark forties. Right now we'd venture to say that it looks encouraging enough for our survival of the sixties, at least. But, how amazing are the changes which time has wrought both in personnel and figures which appear on reports.

Thanks To Maude Lewis

All Canada will hear the name of Digby tonight all because of one wisp of a lady living humbly by the side of the main highway in the village of Marshalltown, some four miles or less away. Probably no better time of the year could have been chosen to have the name of Maude Lewis, and incidentally Digby, flashed on the T.V. screens all across Canada. We are so near to Christmas which is in itself a story of meanness, humbleness and of greatness combined. And that is the kind of a story we have in Maude Lewis.

Maude Lewis lives in her humble cottage along with her husband far, far removed from any pretense of greatness or from any pretense of wealth. Indeed, when it comes to wealth, Maude Lewis has admitted to us that practically the only source of revenue for herself and her husband at present is that which she earns by selling her paintings. With her physical handicap, her average turnout of paintings per day figures one. At the price she charges, this can scarcely be classed as wealth.

On the other side of the coin, despite the lack of material richness, Maude Lewis has achieved fame and greatness for herself, her village of Marshalltown and for Digby. For definitely, the pictures produced by Mrs. Lewis have fascinated and captured the imagination of the public. Just talk to persons in cities and towns of some distance away and one soon learns that. We who have lived near Mrs. Lewis and have become more or less used to her work, as so often happens, are the least appreciative.

We in Digby owe much to Mrs. Lewis. In bringing fame to herself she has also brought fame to Digby, a name which is invariably linked in publicity with that of Maude Lewis as has the name of Digby always been linked with the Pines Hotel and with scallops. Digby should say thanks to Maude Lewis and say it maybe in a more tangible form than just words, no matter how sincere those words might be. Here is something to think about. How about a Centennial project?

Centennial

Oh, yes, that word centennial, in the above remarks, reminds us that we hope to attend the "blitz session" and dinner in Halifax next week, designed to stimulate interest in and exchange ideas on Canada's Centennial year 1967.

We also note where Lorne V. Huff, planning co-ordinator of the provincial confederation centenary celebration committee, feels that many in Nova Scotia are apathetic about centennial. Contrary to what would seem proper, we delight in hearing those words. Why? Simply because we were feeling something like an ostrich (is it?) which wants to stick his head under the sand. We thought Digby was the only place in Nova Scotia which was so very, very apathetic about centennial. Now, at least, we are sure we have company and can endeavour to lift up our heads and try to overcome that apathy. How about it?

Another remark which is credited to Mr. Huff. It was to the effect that Expo 67 was confused by many people as being one and the same as Centennial. We agree on that score. We believe many people are confused. Besides, the emphasis put on Expo has dominated Centennial to such an extent that people's minds seem to be orientated to that project. Mind you, we are aware that if Expo 67 is to be a success it will need all the emphasis and publicity which Expo is attempting to centre on itself, no matter what means it takes to get the emphasis and publicity. In this case the forest of "centennial" is lost from view because of the overpowering "Expo" tree.

But all that is beside the point. We live in the small town of Digby. What are we doing for Canada's Centennial in 1967? We'd welcome suggestions from anybody in Digby County. We'd welcome them before the weekend.

Here are a few extracts from the Nova Scotia Centennial News Briefs which are worthy of consideration —

"HAS ANY THOUGHT BEEN GIVEN to a youth choir suitably garbed displaying a Centennial crest, and perhaps travelling to neighboring towns, being featured in local events such as church suppers, card socials, etc., in 1967?"

MONUMENTS OF STONE AND STEEL are not the objective of the Centennial. These are only symbols of what we have become as a nation. The success of the Centennial depends on the support of every citizen to help initiate and plan projects in his own area and neighborhood. Why not make plans now to have your own home Centennial celebration in 1967, perhaps a family reunion?

THIS IS CANADA: "One inspiring experience I shall always remember. I had taken a bus load of children from the Rehabilitation Centre on a tour of the Wild Animal Park at Rustico, served them a picnic supper at Cavendish, then took them to Green Gables. I was exhausted when we started homeward, yet here were children in braces, crutches, and wheelchairs, singing lustily and happily as the bus rumbled along. Suddenly they burst with fervor into 'This Land Is Your Land'. I could offer them so little when they needed so much, but here was the nucleus of all we had hoped for in Centennial year — the conscious realization by our young people that this was their heritage, their country, their opportunity and challenge." (This happened in P.E.I. in 1964.)

One thing about my kids, I used to tell myself before I had any, they would never be allowed to have money or presents, whenever they demanded them.

Over a year ago, when he was just three, our oldest used to amuse us by asking for pennies, which we gave him, two or three at a time, quite willingly. We thought it terribly cute, the way he used to like to jingle them in his pockets. An hour or so later, of course, they would be lost, but what are a few pennies? Anyway, there were usually more where those came from.

Occasionally, mysterious packages of gum, and envelopes of a hideous powdered substance which the child used to pour into their hands and lick off, found their ways into our house, but when he was questioned, our son always said that Robbie gave them to him. Obviously, Robbie was pretty generous for a five year old, but then, that may have been the secret of the hypnotic fascination Robbie held for our three year old. As I remember, they fought approximately on the stroke of every half hour. After each had gone to his respective mother to have his wounds nursed and his pride soothed, they would be bosom buddies until the next fight. In our house, merely remarking that Robbie was out doors could cause a little person who had been putting off dressing for an hour to appear hatted, coated, and booted within minutes.

It was after some time, and quite by accident, that we discovered that our three year old, and his friend, were making daily trips, with Jim's jingling pennies, to the corner store, a couple of blocks away down a busy street, to buy gum, and that ghastly enveloped concoction which was an insult to the palates of human beings, but a delight to that different species known as small boys. When we protested about the dangers involved in these expeditions, we were treated to one of those examples of impeccable logic with which children stagger their elders — "But we don't walk on the street. We walk across people's lawns!"

During the months we lived in the city, the nearest shop was across one of the busiest streets, and the one which was safe for little people to go to, could only be reached by a route so devious that I got lost the first four times I went there. The children did not go to stores. We congratulated ourselves on our strict family discipline. In a few months they would forget their former misadventures, and become the unspoiled children we wanted.

So now, we are back in the uncomplicated country, where children are reputed to live simple lives. Just down the street from us are two general stores, run, our children insist, over our protests, by gentlemen named Jim and Harry. Across the street from us, in this land which is supposed to be a haven for men diligently chopping piles of wood for the winter heat, and women pridefully pulling loaves of fragrant bread from the oven, is a gas pump and a canteen. Never in their wildest dreams in the city, had so many goodies been so accessible.

It all began when they discovered that they could ride their bikes to the store. At first we encouraged it. The movers were working here then, and it was so easy to get the kids out of our hair by giving them each a nickel, and sending them off. Under this regime, it was not long before the demands on the pocket-book became exorbitant.

I tried to counteract this by buying them each a little leather purse. Into each, I put a quarter, and presented the purses, with due ceremony, to my offsprings. This quarter, I explained to Two and Four, was to be their allowance for a whole week. They looked at me solemnly, and blinked wisely, without saying anything. "For the whole week, do you understand?" I demanded. That note of shrillness had crept into my voice again. "No," said Two. "What's a week?" asked Four.

Over the next two or three weeks, their knowledge of the value of money, made no noticeable strides forward. The quarters were spent or lost the day after they were received. Pleas for more money usually wore us weak-willed parents down to the point where we were distributing more largely toward the end of the week.

That monetary system had a very short life. We changed the allowance to a nickel a day, which adds up to five or ten cents more a week (depending on whether they get their allowance on Sunday).

So far, this system has worked. Only they ask for their nickles before they are dressed in the morning. Immediately after breakfast, they make their dutiful daily trek to the store. Then, the miserly little money grabbers spend the rest of the day begging for another nickel, and I spend the rest of the day refusing them. Money consciousness has gone so far into their lives that when two year old's dolls are being bad, she disciplines them by shouting "I'm not gonna give you no money!"

Well, there goes another good resolution.

Obituaries

R. J. Dugas

Roy Jones Dugas, 46, died at the Digby General Hospital on Thursday. Born at Brighton, he was a life resident. His parents were Henry and Margaret Logan Dugas.

He served as a cook with the Royal Canadian Army during the Second World War.

He is survived by a brother Clarence of Mount Pleasant; two sisters Edna (Mrs. Henry Paquin) Wrentham, Mass.; Kathryn (Mrs. Harry Fahn), Conn.; and a half-sister Ida Woodworth in New Brunswick.

The funeral service was on Monday at Grace United Church, Digby, at 2 p.m. Interment was in Digby.

Mrs. Archibald E. Dickson

Death claimed the life of a highly respected Digby citizen in the person of Mrs. Archibald E. Dickson age 79. Mrs. Dickson, the former C. Beatrice Paine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baird, Bairdville, N. B., died at the Saint John General Hospital on Wednesday, November 17.

Mrs. Dickson took ill en route to Saint John, N. B., early in October when she and her husband were on their way to spend Thanksgiving with their daughter, Mrs. James H. Tupper, Lancaster, N. B.

Mrs. Dickson came to Digby with her husband in 1919 and had lived here all her married life. Active in community and church, Mrs. Dickson was a charter member of the Digby General Hospital Ladies Auxiliary and was a member of the Women's Auxiliary and guild of Trinity Anglican Church.

Surviving are her husband, one son, Lawrence, Toronto, her daughter, Mrs. Tupper and a grandson, Lonnie Tupper.

A funeral service was held on Saturday at Trinity Church with Rev. James Pike officiating. Interment was in Forest Hill Cemetery.

Harold D. Pugh

Funeral service for Harold Delbert Pugh, 1838 Garden St., Halifax was held in the Bethel United Baptist Church, Ashmore Sunday afternoon, Oct. 31, at 1:30 with the pastor, Rev. C. R. Barkhouse officiating. Hymns were "Abide With Me" and "Beyond The Sunset". Mr. Pugh, who had been in failing health for the past year, passed away Thursday at the Victoria General Hospital a few hours after he was admitted. He was born in Westport, N. S. in December, 1890, a son of the late William and Laleah (Powell) Pugh. He went to sea at an early age and spent several years aboard coastal freighters. During the days of prohibition, he was a member of the Preventive Force. When this Force was absorbed by the R.C.M.P., Mr. Pugh entered the employ of the Canadian Customs and served as Captain of the Customs "A", a patrol boat in Halifax Harbour for many years. He was later transferred to land service and was placed in charge of the Customs and Excise Warehouse, Halifax until his retirement about nine years ago. He was a member of the United Baptist Church, Westport, an adherent of the West End Baptist Church, Halifax and a member of Mystic Lodge No. 18, I.O.O.F., Halifax. In November, 1917 he married the former Edna Doty of Ashmore and with the exception of a short time in Saint John, N. B., they resided in Halifax. Surviving besides his wife, is one daughter, Gloria (Mrs. Willis Mullen), Weymouth; and three sons, Roy and Ronald, Dartmouth; Donald, Kentville. Also surviving are two brothers, Murray, of Westport; John, New Hampshire and two sisters, Mrs. Fannie Marr, Rowley, Mass.; Blanche (Mrs. B. F. Spencer), Alton, New Hampshire and six grandchildren. Two brothers Frank and Ernest and two children predeceased him. His body rested at the Weymouth Funeral Home and interment was in the family lot in the Riverside United Baptist Cemetery, Weymouth North. Pall bearers were his three sons, his son-in-law Willis Mullen and nephews Capt. Ellsworth Coggins and Keith Coggins.

Recently Married

A beautiful fall wedding solemnized in the Digby United Baptist Church when Karen Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin H. Barnes of Digby, became the bride of Constable Keith Jasper Good, R.C.M.P., son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Good of Woodstock, N. B. The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion with white chrysanthemums and tall candelabra.

The double-ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. H. S. Hartlen. During the ceremony Mrs. Gerald Wilson sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer". She was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Herman Olsen.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a floor length white gown of sheer organza over taffeta, designed in Princess lines with short sleeves and a narrow edging of lace applied on the bodice and trimmed with seed pearls. Her full circular veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a wedding band headpiece of lace trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white tieria roses and stephanotis entwined with ivy.

The maid of honour, Mrs. Charles Leavis of Halifax, wore a floor length gown of gold peau de sole and carried a traditional round bouquet of orange delight roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth Morrell and Miss Eula Jenkins, wore gowns of gold peau de sole and carried crescent style bouquets of orange delight roses. The Flower Girl, Pamela Graham, was dressed in golden rapture roses.

Best man was Constable David Sherer of Halifax. Ushers were Constables Kenneth Blue, Dennis Patterson and Allan Denton.

Following the ceremony a reception for some one hundred and fifty guests was held at the Royal Canadian Legion headquarters in Digby. The bride's table was centred with a three tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. The toast to the bride was proposed by Victor Cardoza and responded to by the groom.

Miss Deirdre Daley had charge of the guest book.

After the reception the happy couple left on a wedding trip to New Brunswick and Maine. For travelling the bride chose a green double knit suit with black accessories. Her

Marriage

Hewitt - Jones

A pretty fall wedding was solemnized in the Church of Christ (Disciples), Weymouth, on Saturday, November 20, at 7:30, when the pastor, Rev. R. H. Carr, united in marriage Patricia Pearl, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones, of Weymouth, and Glen Richard Hewitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hewitt, of Digby.

The church was simply decorated for the occasion with a single rose bouquet and white candles on the communion table. The organist was Mrs. Frank Lewis.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who also gave her in marriage. She was charming in her floor-length gown of white satin with lace bodice and tapered sleeves. An attached lace train flowed from the back, and she wore a circular crown with her shoulder length veil. Her bouquet was made of red roses.

Mrs. Pierre Boissoneault, of Dartmouth, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and wore a blue nylon and lace gown with a tiara headdress. Miss Annette Young, of Digby, was bridesmaid, and wore a dress of turquoise nylon and a short veil headdress. Both carried nosegays of mums.

The best man was Godfrey Griffith, of Digby, and ushers were Greg and Peter Hewitt, brothers of the groom.

A reception was held at the Church of Christ (Disciples). The bride's mother chose a gown of aqua crepe with lace and brown accessories. Her corsage was of white mums. The groom's mother chose a gown of brown figured bemburg crepe with brown accessories, and wore a corsage of yellow mums.

The toast to the bride was given by Rev. Russel Carr. For travelling the bride chose a grey tweed suit with black accessories.

The happy couple will reside in Digby, where they are both employed.

The corsage was of pink roses. Constable and Mrs. Good will make their home in Halifax where the groom is stationed.

Guests attended from Woodstock and Fredericton, N. B., Fort Devens, Mass., and Halifax.

"Met" Stores Celebrate 45 Years

The Digby branch of Metropolitan Stores, along with sister stores across Canada, are celebrating the 45th anniversary of the founding of the original store in London, Ontario, and has spread to stores in almost every province. The local store was opened in September 1963, and at this time they are having a double celebration. The store is also marking its grand re-opening following a gigantic expansion program.

The new store features expanded lines of merchandise and larger displays. A modern lunch counter and fountain service has been added. Shoppers are also treated to pleasant background music. A record bar has been added to the store where fans can obtain the latest hits, both long play and single. A cigarette bar is also a new feature at the Digby Metropolitan Store, which employs about thirty people, mostly from the Digby area.

When Canada's first "Met" was opened for business it was known as Canadian Smallwares. Shortly after its opening it was taken over by a man named Brewster, who was in the dairy business in London. He changed the name to Brewster's 5c to $1.00. In 1929, the year the great depression started, Brewster sold out to Metropolitan Stores in the U.S.A. By that time the chain had grown to approximately 35 stores.

Later the U.S. company sold to H. L. Green Co., New York. In 1934 the U.S. interests were purchased by another firm. At this time Metropolitan had 56 stores in Canada and H. L. Green had 250 in the U.S. The firm continued to prosper under the Green Company and grew from 56 to 84 by 1961.

In 1961 Green Company of New York sold the Canadian interest to a group of business men from Winnipeg. Then Metropolitan Stores of Canada became the only national chain from coast to coast which is a wholly owned Canadian company, owned and operated by Canadians. There are now 112 stores linked with the Metropolitan chain in Canada: Ontario has 43, Nova Scotia 18, New Brunswick 3, Quebec 7, Manitoba 1, P.E.I. 1; also 22 Sarnia Stores in western Ontario. A new store will open shortly in Liverpool, N. S.

The head office of the company is in Winnipeg with the buying and executive offices located in Pointe Claire, Quebec.

Club Raises $649.50

The Deep Brook Neighbourly Club held its 12th annual business meeting at the home of the President, Mrs. Borden Fountain, on Wednesday evening, November 10th.

The secretary's report showed a busy and rewarding year. To add interest, records were kept of earnings of individual members during the year. Mrs. Harold Hirtle was first winning a free dinner at a restaurant of her choice as special guest of the Club. At the other end of the line Mrs. Dorothy Jefferson, Mrs. James Johnson and Mrs. Earle Spurr were co-hostesses at a Halloween Party for club members and other guests.

The treasurer reported that $649.50 had been raised during the year. This is the largest amount raised in any one year, and with one of the smallest memberships, 49 active members.

Cash donations made amounting to $545.00 were as follows: $5.00 each to the Deep Brook day school, Deep Brook Baptist Sunday School, Graywood Baptist Sunday School and Clementsport United Sunday School, $10.00 each to the National Institute for the Blind, March of Dimes, Red Cross, Walter Calow Fund, United Church at Clementsport and the County Home and Hospital at Bridgetown, $15.00 to the Deep Brook Parish Hall, $520.00 to Deep Brook United Baptist Church and $30.00 toward its missionary and Extension Fund Quota, $70.00 to the Cancer Society ($10.00 in "In Memoriams" and $60.00 toward operating costs of Reception Centre), $150.00 to the new Digby General Hospital.

In memory of the late Mrs. Carl Nichols and Mrs. John Rawlings, $150.00 to the Annapolis Hospital (in memory of the late Arnold Henshaw).

In addition, a wheel chair was presented to the Canadian Cancer Society in March and was accepted for use in the Annapolis General Hospital and surrounding area.

Officers for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Mrs. Borden Fountain (re-elected); vice president, Mrs. Harold Hirtle; recording seclity of the Westport Baptist Church was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Lawrence Shaw. The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Albert Bailey and circle of prayer led by Mrs. Earl Webster. The members responded with a scriptural "Thanks" to roll call.

The Spiritual Life lesson was given by Miss Lue Repool. Miss Blanche Hicks, a member of society but now residing in Smith's Cove for the better part of the year, presented an interesting program portraying familiar and sacred hymns. Those especially portrayed in word by Miss Hicks and Mrs. Logan Swift and in duet by Mrs. Fred Denton and Mrs. Albert Bailey were "Blessed Assurance" and "The 23rd Psalm". Other well known hymns were sung in chorus by the group.

A social time was enjoyed. Mrs. Shaw was assisted by Mrs. Logan Swift in serving.

Mrs. Swift Entertains Women The November meeting of the Ladies Hospital Auxiliary of the Westport Baptist Church was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Swift.

Each member responded to the roll call with a verse of scripture containing the word "Remember".

Blue Study with Mrs. Amos was from the book "The Power of the Word" and it was read at the beginning of man and God had a plan and a purpose when He made and put man on the earth.

Miss Study with Mrs. Harold Swift was taken from the study book "New Flaws" and was entitled "Bring them into your Home" dealing with new students from foreign countries who are attending colleges. Before World War II a great part of the students were sponsored by church groups. When returning to their homes they will be taking part in all phases of life.

The group closed with the benediction followed with a social hour when Mrs. Swift assisted by Mrs. Edgar McDormand served refreshments.

In Memoriam

B'UDD — In memory of "Mother", Mrs. Nellie B. Budd, Sea Brook, N. S., who passed away Nov. 30, 1965. The memories we have from day to day. No length of time can take away. For in our hearts you are always near. Still loved, still missed and very dear. daughter, Bertie. 14:15c B'UDD — In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. Nellie B. Budd of Sea Brook, who died Nov. 30, 1965. We lost a mother, with a heart of gold. Who was more to us, than wealth untold. Without farewell she fell asleep. With only memories for us to keep.

She was a mother so very rare. Content in her home and all ways there. We treasure still with love sincere. Beautiful memories of one so dear.

Lovingly remembered by her six sons and four daughters. 14:15c

BURKE — In loving memory of a dear dad and grand dad Timon Burke, who passed away Nov. 25, 1964. One year ago today God called our dear dad away. Although we long to hear his voice, to see his smile. We know he is happy in his heavenly home. Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by daughter Brenda, son-in-law Keith and grandsons Keith Jr., and Timothy. 14:15p

BARR — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Stephen Barr, who passed away, November 27th, 1964. Tonight the stars are gleaming. On a lonely, silent grave. Where sleeps in silent slumber. One we loved but could not save. May Heaven's wind blow softly. On that sweet and hallowed spot. Where one we loved lies sleeping. Who will never be forgot. — Inserted by her husband and family. 14:15c

RICE — My sister, Mrs. Bessie M. Rice, passed away on November 25, 1963. Time goes on, with many changes. Joys and sorrows, smiles and tears. But her memory one will cherish. With the passing of the years. — Lovingly remembered by sister Stella, Paul and Sandra. 14:15c

RICE — In loving memory of Mrs. Donald Rice who passed away November 26, 1963. Two years have passed since that sad day. God called the one we loved away. Forget her; no we never will. As years go by we miss her still. — Sadly missed by daughters, Diane, Delores, Nina and son Donald. 14:15c

The Bear River Courier

50th Anniversary

On Wednesday evening a few friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dondale, Bear River to honor them on their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Many gifts of money, china and flowers and cards were received. A highlight of the evening was a telephone call from their only granddaughter Miss Geraldine Oickle who is a student at Teachers College Truro.

A very prettily decorated Anniversary cake, the gift of their daughter, Mrs. Gerald Oickle was served during the Social hour.

Their many friends extend best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Dondale for many more happy anniversaries.

Tiverton

Kendrick Outhouse, who has been employed in U.S.A. has returned home.

John Outhouse and son Fraser have completed carpenter work at Sandy Cove and Mink Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Thurber have returned from visiting friends and relatives in U.S.A. They, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crocker of Freeport, N. S. are visiting friends at Cape Breton.

Youngsters of elementary grades are studying for 1st quarter exams.

Mrs. Anetta Buckman and Mrs. Jean Elliott were among those who collected for the Hospital Fund.

Brian Penny, grade three pupil, has been confined to his home this week with a seriously sore throat. He expects to return to school Monday.

Second Nomination Period Called For Councillors

Addresses Clare Board

Hon. Allan J. MacEachen, Minister of Labour in the federal government, was guest speaker on Friday evening when the Clare Board of Trade held its annual meeting at the Riverside Inn, Meteghan River. The meeting was presided over by Bernard LeBlanc, president.

The ministry congratulated the Board on its achievements during the past year and said that Acadians were progressing as they had never progressed before. He said that for a long time they had struggled with a limited livelihood and limited educational opportunities but that has been changed. Many Acadians are now entering professions, government services and other important phases of life. He mentioned many Acadians who had achieved fame and who had played a full part in the life of Canada.

He said Acadians have always lived in Nova Scotia in peace and harmony with their neighbors and it was only on such occasions as the Board of Trade banquet that a difference in race and origin was referred to. He said he would like to see more Europeans come here to enrich our Canadian history and felt that if we had a stronger economic pull in Nova Scotia we might be able to attract more Europeans here.

Speaking on a national level, Mr. MacEachen said that unemployment in Canada was at a low rate, showing that the country is growing. In September only 2.5 of the labor force was unemployed. A portion of this unemployment, he said, was caused by a lack of education and skills.

Today, the speaker said, there is a technological revolution when computers are even replacing brain power as machines replaced brawn labor some years ago. Young people, he said, should take additional skills, for while the hands used to be an honorable way to earn a living in the past, it is not possible to earn a living today without skill and education. Bernard LeBlanc Heads Clare Board

Bernard LeBlanc, Belliveau Cove, was again elected president of the Clare Board of Trade at the annual meeting held at Riverside Inn, Meteghan River, on Friday night. Other officers elected were: Vice Pres., Roland Comeau, Lower Saultmeville; Treas., J. Marcel Voltaire, Church Point; Sec., Albert P. Melanson, Church Point; Directors, for one year, J. Alphonse Comeau, Meteghan River; Ernest F. LeBlanc, Church Point; Bernard LeBlanc, Belliveau Cove; J. Marcel Voltaire, Meteghan; Linis L. Comeau, Meteghan; Directors for two years, Raymond Deveau, Maville; Emile Boudreau, Meteghan; Roland Comeau, Lower Saultmeville; E. LeBlanc, Saultmeville; Leonard Boudreau, Concession.

The slate was presented by Albert Melanson.

In his review of the accomplishments of the Clare Board of Trade during the past year, Mr. LeBlanc congratulated the Board of Directors in their efforts towards retaining the D.A.R. service in obtaining a full time forest ranger for Clare, subsidies for wooden ships as well as steel ships, coast guard service, dial telephone service, tourist booth at Smuggler's Cove, highway improvements, French T.V. network, Clare Acadian Festival and Tuna tournament participation.

The board president made special reference to the increased activity at the Theriault Shipyards and at the St. Mary's Bay Industries. He noted that the latter had received an order for a 160 ft. clipper ship to be built for a party in Philadelphia. It is to be a three masted square rigger.

Board Of Trade Holds Special Meeting

A special meeting of the Digby Board of Trade was held last evening at the town hall. Purpose of the meeting was to hear recommendations regarding a vocational school from the newly formed education committee; to deal with matters pertaining to Atlantic Ports Day in Saint John, on December 6, and other important topics.

A full report of the meeting will appear in next week's Courier.

Return From Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill V. Bartheaux, Annapolis Royal, returned recently via Air Canada, from a vacation spent with their daughter, Mrs. L. M. Keay, Mr. Keay and family at Don Mills, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Bartheaux, Mr. and Mrs. Keay and family, spent a weekend in Ottawa, Ont.

50th Anniversary Entertains

Wednesday evening friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon VanTassel, Mount Pleasant, to honor them on their Golden wedding anniversary.

Many cards and gifts were received. Highlights of the evening was a phone call from grandsons, Eugene Outhouse and Mrs. Outhouse and Donald Outhouse, Toronto.

Four tables of cards with high and low prizes, tea, refreshments and an anniversary cake were enjoyed by all.

Meeting Cancelled

A meeting sponsored by the Digby Kiwanis Club and Board of Trade, scheduled for tonight at 6:15, at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, has been cancelled due to a similar meeting being held at Annapolis Royal at the same time.

Special speaker for the meeting was to have been Ken McGrail, P. Eng. Asst., General Manager of the Nova Scotia Light and Power and an active member of the Halifax Industrial Commission.

Re-elected President

R. MacLeod Rogers, of Halifax, was re-elected president of the Nova Scotia Liberal Association at the annual session in Halifax on Saturday. As a youth Mr. MacLeod spent many years in Victoria Beach where he and his family have many friends.

Among those honoured with vice-presidencies were John E. Shaffner, of Port Williams, and Dr. Philip LeBlanc, of Little Brook, Digby Co.

Has Book Published

The book treats the folklore of the Acadian people of St.

Entertains

In the evening Mrs. Grace Hicks won 1st prize, Miss Gertrude Budrow 2nd; Mrs. Fred May, low, and Mrs. William Eldridge, lucky.

Digby Lighted For Christmas

Colored lights again give Digby's main street that Christmas effect. The Lions Club has arranged for the lights to be strung at intervals from South End Grocery to Harbour Bakery.

In previous years the merchants of the town were asked for donations for this project. This season, for the first time, the Lions Club will bear all expenses.

To Hold Rally

The first Annual Rally of the Valley Presbytery United Church men will be held on December 12th at 7 p.m. at The United Church, Annapolis Royal.

The Rally is intended to carry out the purpose of the Board of Men which is to lead men to an understanding of the work and witness of the Church, that through commitment to Christ, they may fulfill the ministry to which they are called in the home, in daily work, in the community and in the world.

A brief business meeting with installation of new officers will precede the address by the guest speaker, Dr. R. C. Chalmer who is Professor of Philosophy and Religion at Pine Hill Divinity Hall and Secretary of the Senate.

Rallies of this nature have been held in previous years in the former Windsor Presbytery, Nova Annapolis and Windsor have amalgamated to become the Valley Presbytery.

United Church men of the various congregations in the valley are urged to attend, this being the first Rally.

Counterfeit Money Found At Westport

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Frost, of Westport, were told last week that $20.00 of the $22.00 sent for the support of the two Korean orphans to World Vision, was found to be counterfeit. The Frosts believe they received the bill on the Island. The serial number was K 85105171.

It is unlikely that the holder of counterfeit money would suffer the loss, as there is no way it can be placed for genuine currency.

Addresses Red Cross Rally

Over seventy Red Cross members, representing branches from Meteghan to Millville, gathered in Digby last Wednesday evening for a District Rally held under the auspices of the Digby Branch. Miss Ethel Graham, of Annapolis Royal, newly appointed Regional Vice President for this area, presided over the meeting after she and the other visitors had been welcomed by the Digby Branch President, Mrs. R. E. Leamy.

Commissioner C. L. Hilsley, of Halifax, was guest speaker at the meeting, bringing with him the latest reports from a national Red Cross meeting in Toronto, from which he had returned the previous day. The theme of his remarks was the amount which could be accomplished by Red Cross branches, each small in itself, working together to make up a vast national and international organization. He assured those present that, although they might each represent a small branch, they should not feel that their usefulness was limited by their size. In speaking of the annual campaign for funds, which will be conducted as usual during the month of March, he placed special emphasis on the value of proper organization, with more canvassers each with fewer names, to ensure that every household is contacted. "It is not the few large donations, but the many small ones which will put the campaign 'over the top'," Mr. Hilsley stated.

Samples of Junior Red Cross work from foreign lands were on display, and Mr. Hilsley concluded his remarks with a brief summary of various types of Junior Red Cross work being carried on by groups throughout the Canadian schools. Teachers, like other Red Cross workers, are volunteers, and not all schools participate to the fullest extent in the program, but Mr. Hilsley emphasized that for those that do, the returns to the children are manifold.

Displays at the meeting also included many attractive quilts made by the Digby Branch, together with other samples of sewing and knitting done by branch members. Of special interest was the large number of children's sweaters in multi-colour stripes, made by Miss Bertha Boggs, a former Digby resident who still works through the branch. An apron table, presided over by Mrs. Allen Stark and Mrs. Daniel Comeau, not only displayed artistic handiwork, but also through the proceeds of its sales, provided a total of $100 for the local welfare program of the branch. An apron, given as a lucky chair prize, was won by Mrs. A. d'Entremont, of Meteghan River.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Digby Branch members, under the convenship of the Tea Committee, comprising Mrs. Ralph Berwick, Mrs. G. R. Weir and Mrs. Loran Hayden, assisted by Mrs. Fred Daley, Mrs. Orbin VanTassel, and Mrs. J. J. Brittain. Mrs. T. W. Hodgson and Miss Louise Daley presided over the tea table, which was colourfully decorated with chrysanthemums provided by courtesy of Cameron's Florist. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Percy Robert, Mrs. Elliott VanTassel, Mrs. Allen Harris, Mrs. Daniel Comeau and Mrs. H. M. Warne. A pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all, and satisfaction expressed over the widespread interest shown by the large and representative attendance.

Lobster Season Opens In District Four

Despite a borderline 20-mile per hour westerly wind, the majority of lobster fishermen in South Western Nova Scotia were busy Tuesday putting their traps out into the water. They were not allowed to land their traps until Wednesday, December 1.

District protection officer, Glen Smith, of Digby, who has been in Yarmouth for seven days, commanding the local patrol and protection, noted a few traps were out in the water. The weather was in the water. The day was in the water. The day was in the water.

From Port Maitland to Cape St. Mary several boats were out in the rough waters Tuesday morning. The fishermen on the Digby Neck side of St. Mary's Bay were all out as they were fishing in the lee of the westerly wind. On the Cape District side some of the boats were hampered when the top layers of buoys slid off the boats and into the sea as the strong wind rocked the Cape Island type craft.

Opening price was 75 cents a pound to the fishermen. This is 15 cent higher than the opening price last year when lobsters opened at 60 cents, jumping however to 75 cents three days after the season opened.

In order to see that fishermen would not beat the gun this year a charter plane from Air Atlantic, Halifax was in use all over District Four, with Reg Callie, assistant to the chief protection officer, as air observer. Patrols at sea were carried out by the Medolus II, Wedgetop, The Narcis Bay, St. Andrews, N. B.; the Sculpin, Church Point; the Limanda, Digby; and the Lady Mist, Yarmouth. On land protection officers operated with cars.

Church Hall Dedicated

(By Sue W. Bragg)

A dedication service was held Saturday evening, November 20th, in the former school house at North Range when the building and its furnishings were dedicated as a church hall for the North Range Baptist Church. The service was conducted by the pastor of the church, the Rev. R. R. Winchester, who led the responses and offered the dedicatory prayer. Members and adherents and other community members participated in the ceremony.

Special music was provided by the choir, including a solo, "Brighter, the Corner," by Brenda Bacon. The deed was presented by Councillor Hubert Shortliffe representing the municipality and accepted by Reginald V. Andrews, chairman of the trustees, on behalf of the church. Mr. Winchester gave a fitting message for the occasion, using for his text, Matt. 7:24-26 - the house built upon a rock; also Matt. 25:1-28 - the parable of the talents. The history of the building was given by Mrs. Milton Bragg. Mrs. R. V. Andrews presided at the organ.

The building was erected during the summer of 1937 following the destruction, by fire, of the old school house. The plan, approved by the Nova Scotia Board of Education, was drawn by Donald Marshall, a resident of the community at that time, who also did the carpentry, assisted by other members of the section. The building was completed in the autumn and served the North Range school section as a two department school until September, 1963, when it became a consolidated school for the elementary grades serving Doucetville, South Range, East & West and North Range.

In the first period of its history it was frequently used as a center for social gatherings, including the Home & School Association, Sons of Temperance and church socials and sales. During summer vacation, in the war years '40-'45, quilting was done and boxes of clothing for refugees packed for shipment in this building.

Salute Minister Of 60 Years

Dr. Denton J. Neely, who spends his summers in Digby, was born in the Annapolis Valley of Nova Scotia. He was graduated at Acadia University with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Later he received an honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity. After graduating from the Newton Theological Institution, now Andover Newton Theological School, in 1905, he was ordained to the gospel ministry at Bridgetown, Nova Scotia. He became pastor of the Baptist Church in Danielson, Conn. In 1910 he came to the First Baptist Church, in Gloucester, Mass., where he continued for eight years.

Then he was called to the First Baptist Church of Medford, Mass., and after a service of ten years came to the First Baptist Church of Nashua, N. H., and served for nineteen years. He retired from the church in 1947 and became Associate Pastor of the Merrimack, N. H., church and Director of Christian Education and Youth Work.

The last five years he has been minister of South Merrimack Congregational Church.

He has been President of the United Baptist Convention of N. H. for two terms, a trustee of the Theological School from where he graduated for thirty-nine years and for twenty-four years Secretary of the Board. He has also served on boards of the American Baptist Convention. He has now completed 60 years of service in the Christian ministry since ordination. He was a student pastor six years before ordination.

On the last Sunday of his ministry the South Merrimack Congregational Church dedicated its newly completed parish house as the "Denton J. Neely Parish House". An open house was held and a dedicatory service preceded a reception which was held for Dr. Neely.

Dr. Neely is now visiting his daughter, Mrs. Clifton D. Gray and her family in Marshall, Mo., Missouri, for the month of November. He will then visit Washington, D. C., and return to Nashua, N. H., in December.

Entertains At Bridge

Mrs. David Daley was hostess to four tables of mixed bridge at her residence at First Avenue on Friday night.

Prizes were won by: Mrs. Ira Davis, ladies' high; Mrs. Hyman Webber, ladies' low; Captain J. MacPherson, men's high; Mr. Kenneth Woodman, men's low; Mrs. Kenneth Woodman, lucky prize.

The guests were served by Laura and Peggy Daley.

New Lions

Two new members were accepted into the Digby Lions Club at an impressive induction ceremony, conducted by the Bridgetown Club. The new members are Robert White, manager of Stedmans, Digby, and Wilbert (Bill) Whitman, manager of the Digby IGA Foodliner.

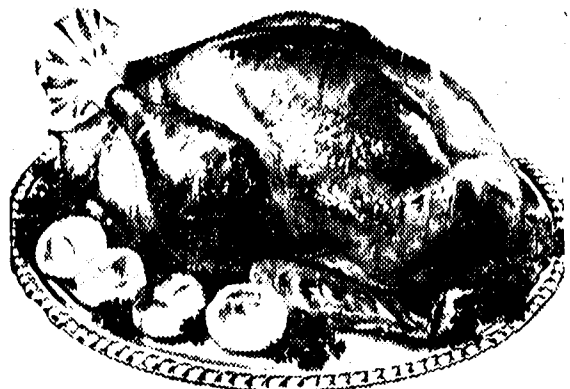

Two more members have been accepted and will be inducted at the next meeting. They are Lt. Jack Beach, of the Salvation Army, and Jack MacClintock, of the Cornwallis Photo Service.

Letter to the Editor

The Editor,
Digby Courier,
Digby, N. S.

I would like to pay a personal tribute through the pages of your paper, to two former residents of Bear River the account of whose deaths appeared recently in the Courier. I refer to the late Dr. A. B. Campbell and the late Mr. Harvey E. Chisholm. Both of these men were closely associated with me in the work of the Bear River United Church during the six years of my ministry there. Though they followed different vocations, they had much in common. Both were Christian gentlemen and devoted church workers. Both of them were busy men yet always found time for the higher interests and deeper values of the church and the community. Their friendly counsel and wise judgement were invaluable and readily given. Both were endowed with a fine sense of humour which was a happy characteristic, and which could be counted on to dispel any contentious feeling or rancour in a meeting. For me it was a

Mr. MacEachen complimented the Board for taking advantage of so many government programs and added some federal programs which the Board might watch for opportunities, viz., Atlantic Development Board, Area Development Agency in the Department of Industry and ARDA. The Atlantic Provinces had been given $100,000,000 for development by the Atlantic Development Board. Mr. MacEachen said, but so far only $2,000,000 had been committed, leaving $18,000,000 for approved projects yet to be used. Most of Nova Scotia, the speaker said, is eligible for grants through the Area Development Board. These are special grants made available to create new industry in areas of slow growth. He said it is very attractive because it pays an important share of capital investment of any enterprise. He referred to water supply and industrial sites for fish plants and erection of trawlers in Canadian shipyards.

ARDA, the minister said, is especially concerned with building up the economy of rural areas and developing new sources of income. It might find it necessary, he said, to consolidate farms for better production or change lines of farming activity for another. ARDA is a joint federal and provincial project.

Mr. MacEachen told the Board of Trade to follow up these three opportunities and join in making them known to others.

Mr. MacEachen was introduced by Emanuel Adelaar, Weymouth, past president of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade, and thanked by Medrie Comeau.

Guests were welcomed by Warden d'Entremont, of the District of Clare, and the blessing was asked by Father Superior of St. Anne's College, the Rev. Lloyd d'Entremont. Lloyd Hill, executive manager of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade, and Mayor Lindsay, of Kentville, also addressed the gathering. Present were mayors, wardens and councillors of municipalities and officers of Boards of Trade.

pleasure and a privilege to have worked with them and to have known them as personal friends. Both church and civic life alike can ill afford to lose the service and contribution which men of their calibre and character have made. Others may take the places of men like these in our communities, but in a real sense, none really ever replace them.

In January, 1961, the pupils from the elementary grades were transferred to Barton Consolidated School, building was then closed and abandoned. It was rented on one occasion by the church from the municipal school board, but because of the vast amount of red tape involved this was found impracticable. The building then fell into a state of neglect. The Baptist Church had been interested in securing the building for a hall from the time of its abandonment as a school. In the fall of 1961, when it was put up for tender by the municipality, members of the North Range Baptist Church were able to put in an offer which was successful and took possession of the property, which contains one acre of land in addition to the building.

The Baptist Church hall was first used as such in April, 1965, when a successful pie social and sale was held. The building has been remodelled to include kitchen facilities. A gas range installed and a double door was cut through the partition separating the two former classrooms, permitting easy access from one room to the other. All labor was contributed by the members of church and community.

A turkey supper was served on November 6th by members of the "Friends and Neighbors", at which time over $290.00 was taken in. On November 27 a youth night was held, sponsored by the same group, when all young people of the village were invited to an evening of games and contests.

It is the intention of the church to use the hall as a community center for all age groups, subject to the principles governing the church, of which it is a part.

Digby Store Wins National Contest

The Digby branch of Stedmans has been named winner of an All-Canada "fire contest" staged in 150 Stedman stores in every province. The contest was of two months duration.

Robert White, manager of Stedmans' Digby store, told the Courier that his store sold twenty percent over its quota, competing with many larger stores.

The Digby Stedmans store was also named national winner of a "rug contest" in September. The contests were based on total sales in the allotted period.

Marriage

Peterson — Denchfield
Shirley Peterson, daughter of Mrs. Fred Peterson, Weymouth, Ontario, and the late Mr. Peterson, exchanged marriage vows with Roger Denchfield, Oregon, Illinois in wedding ceremony held in Fonthill Church of God at Fonthill, Ontario, on August 28, 1965.

The bridegroom's parents, are the Rev. and Mrs. John L. Denchfield of Digby, Nova Scotia.

Bouquets of yellow gladioli trimmed the church for the wedding. Double-ring service performed by the bridegroom's father and the Rev. E. L. Macy, pastor of the Fonthill church.

Miss Doris Denchfield, sister of the bridegroom, sang "Because" and "Whither Thou Goest" during the ceremony.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her brother, George Peterson, wore a white gown with a full skirt featuring appliques of charity lace and a wavy lace train. Her tiered veil was attached to a satin rose headpiece with pearlized trim. Yellow roses formed the heart shaped bouquet she carried.

Mrs. Glenn Spurr, who attended her sister as matron of honor, was attired in a street length frock of yellow nylon over peau de soie styled with a bodice of white em-doubling service performed by the bridegroom's father and her bouquet combined yellow roses and white carnations.

A similar yellow dress was worn by the flower girl, Miss Donna Shurton, niece of the bride. A bandeau of yellow roses and chrysanthemums.

Kenneth Krus, Grand Rapids, Michigan was the bridegroom's best man. The wedding guests were ushered by Glenn Swartz, Cleveland, Ohio and Glenn Shurton, Fonthill, Ontario.

Following the wedding service the newlyweds were honored at the reception in the church dining room.

For their wedding trip to Digby, Nova Scotia, the bride wore a beige suit with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow and brown chrysanthemums.

The bride is a graduate of E. L. Crossley School in Fonthill and prior to her marriage was employed by the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in Welland, Ontario.

The groom is a graduate of Digby Regional High School, Digby, Nova Scotia.

The couple reside at 302 N. Fifth Street, Oregon, Illinois where Mr. Denchfield is a senior student of Oregon Bible College and also employed by the Carnation Milk Company.

Gaudet — Melanson

Melanie Melanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Melanson became the bride of Alfred Gaudet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Gaudet, when Father Ameriault, the parish priest officiated at the marriage ceremony in Concession.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of satin and net, her veil was elbow length and she carried a bouquet of white flowers.

Mrs. Norbert Melanson was matron of honor and Norbert Melanson, brother of the bride was best man.

Mrs. Disa LeBlanc was organist and the soloist was Mrs. N. LeBlanc.

A wedding breakfast for immediate family was held at the home of the groom's parents.

The couple will reside in Concession.

Hudson — Spurr

St. Luke's Anglican Church was the scene of a wedding when Marion Carole Spurr, daughter of Mrs. Gordon Rice and the late William Spurr became the bride of Edgar LeRoy Hudson. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hudson, Young's Cove, Annapolis County.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, William Spurr Jr., wore a short gown of white lace and net over satin, the neckline was embroidered with sequins and pearls and featured long sleeves. Her veil of nylon net and lace was held by a crown of sequins and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. William Spurr, Jr., was matron of honor, Gerald Sarty was best man.

The ushers were Henry Spurr, Dartmouth, brother of the bride and Robert Hudson, Parkers Cove.

A reception was held at the Lake Rose Community Hall.

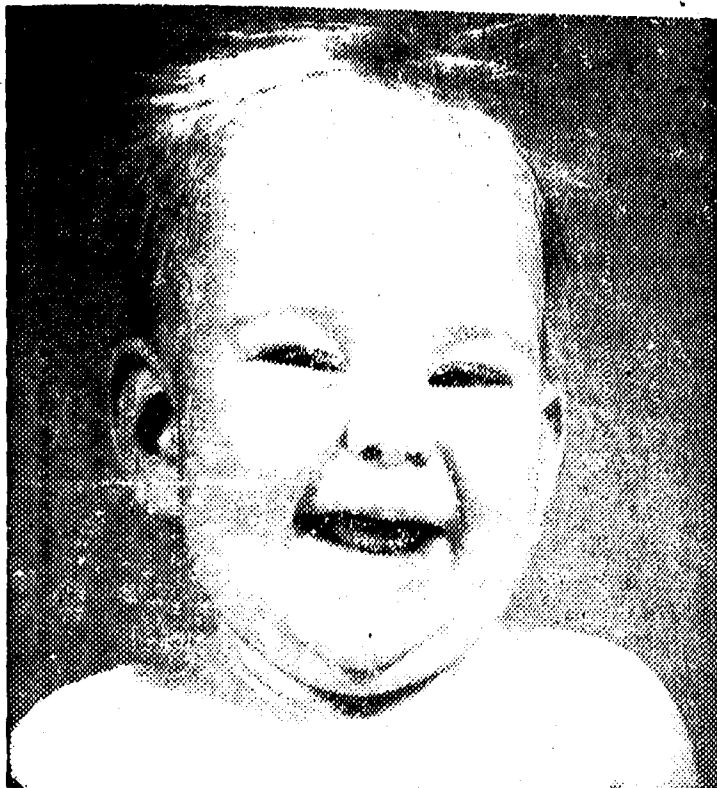

For the wedding trip the bride wore a three-piece ensemble in powder blue under a fur jacket.

The couple will reside in Granville Ferry.

NEW TUSKET

Mr. Vernon Sabean, who is teaching in Middleton, spent last week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sabean.

LAC St. Clair Ford, of Greenwood, and Lindsay Ford, of Southville, were visitors on Saturday at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Ford.

Obituaries

Miss L. Hilda Hogan

The village was shocked to learn of the sudden death of Miss L. Hilda Hogan, post mistress at Weymouth North, which occurred at Digby General Hospital on Friday. Five days after she was admitted at the age of 64. She was born in Weymouth a daughter of the late Benjamin and Laura (Falvey) Hogan, and resided in Weymouth North most of her life, having lived with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Falvey, following the death of her mother in her infancy. For about 16 years, she taught school in Margaretsville and other parts of Annapolis County as well as at Plympton Station and Gilbert Cove. She retired from school teaching and returned to Weymouth North to keep house for her grandparents and later assisted her aunt, Miss Falvey in the Weymouth Post Office. Following Miss Falvey's retirement nine years ago, she became Post mistress. Miss Hogan was a faithful and staunch member of Holy Cross Parish, Plympton and will be greatly missed by a wide circle of friends both in her church and surrounding area. Post mistress she extended many courtesies far beyond the duties of her office.

She is survived by her aunt, Miss Jesse Falvey, Weymouth North, with whom she resided and several cousins in the United States. The remains rested at the Weymouth Funeral Home. Requiem Mass was held Monday morning at 9 a.m. in Holy Cross Roman Catholic Church, Plympton with Rev. Fr. D. Stokes, P. P. officiating. He was assisted by Rev. Fr. L. Gaudet, Digby; Rev. Fr. R. Desautel, Weymouth; and Rev. Fr. DeEntremont, Amherst's Hill, Weymouth Co.

Interment was in the family lot in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church cemetery, Weymouth.

Notice To Motor Vehicle Owners Obstructing Snow Removal

In order that the Department of Highways may provide a reasonable standard of winter maintenance including snow ploughing on the highways it is essential that motor vehicle owners and operators observe the law governing parking on the highways during the winter months.

The Motor Vehicle Act, Section 121A provides that: (1) "... no person wilfully shall park or leave standing a vehicle whether attended or unattended, upon a highway or any part thereof in such manner that it might interfere with or obstruct snow removal or winter maintenance operations on the highway.

(2) Where a vehicle is parked or left standing on a highway in such manner that it interferes with or obstructs snow removal or winter maintenance operations, the Department or a peace officer may cause the vehicle to be moved or towed to some other place.

(3) Any cost incurred by the Department or a peace officer in moving or towing a vehicle under subsection (2) may be recovered from the owner of the vehicle and such debt shall constitute a lien against the vehicle.

Winter parking is a problem for many motorists; the Department asks for YOUR co-operation in parking YOUR vehicle well off the highway (especially overnight, so as not to interfere with snow plough operations).

PLEASE HELP US TO HELP YOU.

MINISTER OF HIGHWAYS.

About This And That

Digby Needs

Was it last week we said we'd start a column "Digby Needs"? That is, if our readers wanted it to have a place to express their opinions on that score. Well, our first suggestion was — "Digby Needs" to pay its mayor and councillors a salary so that it won't, in the future, be so difficult to get candidates to offer their services in the leadership of the town.

O.K. readers. Here is your chance to agree or disagree with the suggestion. Let us know what YOU think.

Then, if we want to use it as such, there is a letter in this issue from "Age 16" which suggests we should have a brass band. Good suggestion. But there are a lot of teenagers who have some valuable suggestions for Centennial or "Digby Needs".

If you recall, someone had suggested a sidewalk program as a Centennial project. We might consider that as something "Digby Needs". What else, readers?

Bless The Rain

We had a letter from Edmonton, Alberta, the other day in which the lady, more or less, complained about the excess rain during the past summer. It hampered her golfing and other outdoor activity so much. She commented "So much rain flooded us out and results of the excess water could still be seen when snow arrived on November 2."

There you go. That was a far cry from the situation on the Atlantic seaboard. Here we prayed for rain to ease the acute dry situation. The dryness caused a shortage in the hay crop and vegetable crop and gave quite some concern about the supply of water for domestic use.

So bless the rain which has fallen recently. It has relieved anxiety, especially in villages where wells had gone dry, that cold weather might set in bringing on acute water shortage situation.

Nation Admires Maude

Orders for the unique paintings done by Mrs. Maude Lewis, definitely Digby's most famous artist, have come pouring in since her appearance on T.V. They have come all the way from British Columbia on one side and Newfoundland on the other. From the southerly direction orders have come from Michigan and Missouri and more northerly States. The Courier and Mrs. Lloyd MacNeil have received many letters in favor of Mrs. Lewis and the famous artist, herself, has been deluged with correspondence. Some of the correspondence contains money to purchase pictures plus something towards the trailer about which Mrs. Lewis spoke on T.V.

It is regrettable that Mrs. Lewis sees fit to return many of her letters unopened. Her extreme honesty will not permit her to retain the price and deliver the goods as time permits. True, Mrs. Lewis is a frail little woman and strength to endure must be at a premium. There definitely must be a limit to what one small body can accomplish in one day. Only time would be in her favor to complete the orders. While most of her customers expressed their readiness to be put on a waiting list, Mrs. Lewis cannot seem to bring herself to reason that way. Good business or not, Mrs. Lewis' extreme honesty takes precedence. We admire her, too, on that score but we fail to see dishonesty in good business management and regret that Mrs. Lewis feels impelled to forego the processing of many orders.

But, leaving out any business matters, what we liked most was the admiration expressed for Mrs. Lewis and to see that her own determination to overcome a handicap has lent encouragement to others and brought out the best in humanity. For example, one of our letters at the Courier said "I was so moved by this woman that I would dearly love to have one of her paintings to look at and enjoy and also to remind me, when I complain — as I do — that I really have nothing to complain about!" This was only one of similar expressions in the letters received.

The T.V. program brought back to many memories of Digby. For instance, there was the letter from W. A. Bartlett who played in the Pines orchestra from 1951 to 1953 and who has pleasant memories of Digby. But best of all are the girlhood acquaintances of Mrs. Lewis who have renewed acquaintance. One letter of this sort revealed that Mrs. Lewis had been a very good piano player. Mrs. Lewis' extreme modesty like her extreme honesty would not divulge that information to her interviewers.

Congratulations to our own Mrs. Lewis. The nation admires you, Maude.

A New Word

After reading the editorials from last week we found a new word "split". Tell us what it means. We don't know, even though the editorial came from our pen. The word should have been "split". But, there you go — gremlins at work, again, trying to introduce us to new words all the time.

For years I have bought my shoes in the same store. The character of the sort of Trilby-Svengali relationship which has developed between the salesman there and me has been apparent since the first time I entered his shop! Now, when I go there, I am completely in his power. I trust him implicitly. If he says glass slippers will be the thing next year, or that I should wear shoes four sizes too big for me, or that my children should be shod in herring boxes, I would stock up on old glass and fish crates. Under his hypnotic spell, it has been years since I have actually made a decision on a pair of shoes. He tells me what is right for me, and, in blind faith, I go forth, confident that all is well with my feet until my next expedition there.

A couple of weeks ago, I found myself, due to a set of complicated and unpleasant circumstances, like Lucy in the song of a couple of decades ago, barefoot in the city. For several days I made do by wearing snow boots whenever I could not get away with bare feet, but on the evening we were to attend the banquet, either solution seemed singularly inappropriate. Several hundred miles from the salesman I love, I ventured into a shoe shop.

It was shortly after opening. I was the only customer. "I would like," I told the enterprising looking young salesman, "a nice pair of shoes for walking in the city."

"Yes Ma'am. Walking shoes!" The young man eagerly retreated to the back of the shop to look for samples. I settled myself comfortably on a chair, awaiting my opportunity to treat him to a really pleasant, decisive, easily satisfied customer.

The young man returned. He proudly spread before me an array of what he considered suitable walking shoes. I rejected several pairs immediately as being entirely too sensible. To my mind, sensible shoes are only one degree less loathsome than gelatine desserts and preserved gallstones. The clerk looked chagrined.

Customers began to trickle in. The circle of empty boxes, mismatched shoes, and tissue paper was widening. I selected, rejected, and selected again. The clerk's gaze began to wander longingly toward the other customers. Finally the field was narrowed to two contenders. One pair reminded me in some vague way of a pair I had had, and liked, once before. The other pair was neat and fashionable, but totally lacking in personality.

"We sell a lot of this one!" my young man exclaimed in delight, when he saw me considering it. "They're expensive, but one ought to pay well for a walking shoe."

"They have pointed toes," I said. "Pointed toes are going out of style."

He assured me that pointed toes will be in style in these parts for a long time. Maritime women, he said, are very conservative. Once a style catches on, it does not shake easily.

"If your others have, these will too. They are very popular."

I felt a pang of disappointment. I think I had hoped he would advise me not to buy them if I expected them to last that long. I was coming precariously close to buying them.

"They're boring," I told him. "I can't stand boring people, and I can't stand boring shoes. Their personality clashes with mine. We'd fight all the time."

I could tell from his expression that the salesman thought I had gone quite mad. I had been there an hour. The other customers were milling around. The layer of tissue paper was knee deep. He quietly drifted away, toward better prospects.

I took another glance in the mirror at the very popular, award winning shoes, and decided I would rather feel like me, and be barefoot, than be stylish and feel like somebody else.

I guess I will have to get another pair of shoes from my friend Svengali the shoe salesman.

Letter to the Editor

December 5, 1965

Dear Editor,
You asked for suggestions for Christmas presents. I think a good suggestion would be: for Digby to form a brass band. Then on Dominion Day, it wouldn't have to import bands from other towns. My grandfather tells me once upon a time Digby had a very good band. Although you are probably too young to remember it.

I do hear that the High School was forming a band, but nothing has been heard about it for quite some time. And what ever happened to the Marine band?
If a town is going to grow, these projects shouldn't be stopped once they get started.

In Memoriam

1942 Alexander Adams 1965
Not dead to those who loved you
Not lost, but gone before
You live with us in memory
And will forever more. — Lovingly remembered by his family. 16:1p

NESBITT — In loving memory of a dear wife, and mother, Mrs. William Nesbitt, who passed away December 11, 1960.
Our dear one is with Jesus now!
Seeing Him face to face,
Gazing upon His own beloved brow.
Watching His smile of grace;
Hearing the Master's voice in all His sweetness.
Knowing Him now in all His own completeness;
With Jesus now, with Him forever!
Never to leave Him — grieve Him Never!
Could God Himself give more?
His will
Is best, though we are weeping still.
— Ever remembered and sadly missed by Husband, Sons and Daughters. 16:1c

TITUS — In loving memory of our father, John E. Titus, who passed away December 6, 1957.
He would not wish for us to mourn
Or yet to shed a tear,
But just to keep his memory
Throughout the passing years.
— Mrs. J. W. Arthurs. 16:1c

WHITE — In loving memory of James H. White who passed away December 10, 1964.
We who loved you sadly miss you.
As it dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you are ever near — Always remembered by wife, Sadie. 16:1p

Mr. and Mrs. Percival Take left last week for Montreal and Toronto, where they will spend the Christmas season visiting their daughter and son.

The November meeting of Oakdene Home and School Association was held on Monday evening with the president, Maurice Darras, conducting the meeting. Routine business was dealt with and Mrs. L. W. Henshaw gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. F. S. Chesley read a letter stating that the application of the association for the service of a dental hygienist for the school children would receive attention as soon as there is a hygienist available to send to Bear River.

It was decided to donate five dollars toward the fund being raised by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Legion for the Community Christmas Tree treat for the children of this community.

Mrs. Allister Milner reported that the Aluminum Etching class, taught by Mrs. Lawrence Potter, was completed and that a display of the work done by this class would be shown at the next meeting.

Mrs. Lawrence Potter, membership convener, told the meeting that the membership was below that of last year. It is hoped more parents will join the association to assist in the work being done on behalf of the children.

The book prize for the month was won jointly by the classes of Mrs. Denton and Mrs. Miller.

The principal of Oakdene School, Mrs. Ellen Crocker, stated that the members of the teaching staff are completing the lists of library books desired, which, the Home and School Association, in conjunction with the Annapolis County Municipal School Board will purchase for their classrooms. Books to the value of two hundred dollars will be provided for the school in this way. This is in addition to the set of Childcraft purchased earlier this year through the same arrangement.

A letter was read from Stephen Potter, representing the pupils of grade three, thanking the Home and School for the set of Childcraft which has been placed in the grade three classroom. This set of books was on display at the meeting for the members to examine.

Members were requested to bring Christmas gifts for Mental Health patients to this meeting and a very generous response was made by members and other interested people.

The program for this meeting was "Young Canada Book Week" and featured posters, compositions, and a playlet by pupils of Oakdene School.

Posters made by pupils in the first five grades were on display and prizes were won in grade one by Lexie Peck and Linda Langley; in grade two by Rachel Wagner and Danny Trimmer; in grade three by Jane Fraser and Stephen Potter; in grade four by Martin Porter and Eva Belle Tibbetts; in grade five by Carol Kerry and Ann Copeland.

Prize-winning composition entitled "Sing Out For Books" were read by the following pupils: grade six, Roger Trimmer and Nola Brennan; grade seven, Michael Parker and Alan Trimmer; grade eight, Margaret Chesley and Neil Brennan; grade nine, Sheryl Brennan and Carol Miller.

A playlet called "Bookworms Don't Always Bite" was given by pupils of grade seven. Taking part were Joyce Taylor, Wanda Darras, Karen Milner, Lorraine Dunn, Sheryl Wade, Janet Copeland, Geraldine Keegan, and Darlene Chute.

As part of the program, Nancy Harding and Wanda Darras sang two selections, accompanied at the piano by Margaret Chesley.

The next meeting will be held on December 20 and the program will be in keeping with the Christmas season.

Mrs. Mayo Heads

Legion Auxiliary

The regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion, Bear River branch was held on Wednesday evening of last week. One new member was welcomed.

During the meeting donations were voted to UNICEF, Muscular Dystrophy, and the local Christmas Tree Funds. Arrangements were made for Santa to visit the children of Bear River and vicinity at the Legion Hall on December 18th.

The following officers were re-elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Mary Mayo; 1st. vice president, Mrs. Sally Rice; 2nd. vice, Mrs. Dora Riley; secretary, Mrs. Jean Marshall; treasurer, Mrs. Gladys Wheelhouse, committees, etc. to be named at the next meeting.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Christmas Program

Mrs. R. H. Purdy was hostess to the Annie B. Crouseup Unit of Bear River United church women on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 2nd. The meeting was led by the President Mrs. J. E. Langley.

This being observed as the Christmas meeting, hymns scripture reading and program were in keeping with the season and was further enhanced by a beautiful worship centre, thoughtfully prepared by Mrs. Purdy. A good attendance of members and two guests present.

Report was given by Mrs. Wm. Morine for the number of parcels of quilts, clothing etc. recently sent to the Brunswick Street Mission at Halifax, N. S. including a parcel of clothing from the Smith's Cove U.C.W. and a box of toys from the United Church Sunday School.

An interesting study on Trinidad was given by Mrs. H. A. Lantz and several Christmas poems were read. Following the benediction, the ladies were invited to the dining room where the table was most attractive with a Christmas table cloth and napkins and a lovely centerpiece. A social half-hour was enjoyed while tea and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess bringing to a very happy close our last meeting for the year.

Women's Institute

Christmas Meeting

The annual Christmas meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute was held on Monday afternoon, Dec. 6th at three o'clock, in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

The feature of the meeting was a demonstration of Christmas decorations, wrappings etc. put on by Janet Walker, of Kentville, Home Economist with the Dept. of Agriculture.

Guests of the afternoon were the Smith's Cove and Acaciaville Institutes with a number of local guests. The hall was decorated with bouquets of pine and poinsettias, and the tea table was centred with a Christmas wreath, decorated with a red candle, holly and gaily colored balls. The refreshments featured Christmas sandwiches, fruit bread and dainty cakes and Mrs. J. H. Cunningham and Mrs. J. L. Warren presided over the tea cups.

The serving included Mrs. Ruth Tolles, Mrs. Kenneth Fraser, Mrs. F. W. Fraser, Mrs. Clinton Miller, Mrs. Marjorie Alcorn, Mrs. John Harris, Mrs. W. Buckler and Mrs. MacIntyre.

Roll Call was answered by appropriate household hints. Twenty three members and twelve guests were present.

Eastern Visitor Sees For Herself

Mrs. E. C. Wentzell (Cornwallis to her many friends) is at present a visitor in the city.

Mrs. Wentzell is from Annapolis Royal, N. S., and is making her first visit here. She had heard so many descriptions of the west coast from navy men and their families, that she had to come and see for herself. She hasn't been disappointed.

The name Wentzell Shoe Store is a familiar one to all who have ever lived on Cornwallis. The store in Annapolis Royal, 10 miles from Cornwallis, was opened over 50 years ago by the father of the late Ted Wentzell. For 30 years, Ted and Corinna were the popular owners of the business and made many friends with those stationed at the east coast base. Ted was deputy mayor of Annapolis Royal for 20 years, until he retired due to ill health.

Mrs. Wentzell, who travelled from the east by train, she didn't want to miss any of the sights she'd heard so much about. She arrived here in September and visited her cousin, Grace Lowe, and her husband, Steve, at their Ellery Street home. She is at present the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Prestian, 3500 Henderson Road.

Recently, Mrs. Wentzell accompanied by Mrs. Preston, spent a weekend in Vancouver touring the city and also visited Mrs. Wentzell's cousin, Capt. Harry Murray. The cousins had never met before and by chance, Capt. Murray was celebrating his birthday, which made it even more of an occasion. (Esquimalt Sentinel, Wednesday, November 3, 1965).

C.G.I.T. Prepare For Vesper Service

Members of the two C.G.I.T. groups of the Baptist Church of Digby were guests last Saturday evening of the C.G.I.T. at Sandy Cove. They were accompanied by their leaders Mrs. Amelia Whalley and Mrs. Russell Harris.

The C.G.I.T. are now engaged in preparing for their Christmas Vesper Service to be held in the church on Sunday evening Dec. 19th.

At the worship service held in the Hill Grove church last Sunday afternoon, the pastor, Rev. H. S. Hartin welcomed eight new members into the church. Seven of these had received the ordinance of Baptism on the previous Sunday.

At their meeting last Sunday members of the Baptist Youth Fellowship discussed subject of Baptist Youth and Evangelism. This was accompanied by a filmstrip on the theme.

The B.Y.F. recently brought out their first issue of a monthly bulletin containing news, activities, projects, etc. of the various youth groups of the Digby church. Interest in the project was keen and nearly all copies of the Bulletin

CYO Seminar And Rally

On December 5th, at 2 p.m. a CYO Seminar and Rally was held at the Community Centre, Annapolis Royal.

The senior members of Plympton CYO attended along with Rev. Fr. Stokes, Sister Albertine and Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Melanson. Groups from Weymouth, Digby, Annapolis Royal, Bridgetown, Middleton, Greenwood, Berwick, Aylesford, Kentville, Wolfville were present.

After registration the groups went to gym where there was basketball competition between girls and boys' teams. Following this they assembled at the Community Centre where a panel discussion took place. A number of practical subjects were discussed and general reports were given to the assembly. Those reading reports from Holy Cross were Rachael Roy, Sheila Amaro, and Betty Amiraault. Rachel was presented with a scroll for the best report.

Young People's Mass was celebrated. Larry Melanson in, containing four pages of material, were disposed of to readers within a short time.

A joint Christmas meeting of the W.M.S., the Ladies Auxiliary, and the Baptist Youth Fellowship of the Hill Grove church was held last week in the church hall. Gifts were presented to be donated for the use of the Port Workers at Halifax.

Attend Liberal Meet

The annual meeting of the N. S. Liberal Association was held at the Atlantic rooms of the Nova Scotia Hotel, Halifax, on Saturday, Nov. 27. After the committee reports and election of officers, Hon. Allan MacEachen, Minister of Labour, Gerald Regan, leader of Liberal Party for N. S., and Peter Nicholson, Annapolis, M.L.A., were speakers for the afternoon.

The district of Digby and Clare was represented by John Nichols, Mrs. Leigh Sabine, Alphonse Belliveau, Bernard Belliveau, Bernard LeBlanc and Frank Jubis.

Previous to this meeting a morning session was held at Liberal Headquarters of the Executive of the Liberal Association, chaired by MacLeod Rogers, President. Digby County representatives on the executive who attended were John Nichols, Digby and Mrs. Leigh Sabine, Riverdale.

Tiverton

Claude Stanton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Stanton, observed his 3rd birthday on Sunday, Nov. 28. Special guests for the occasion were his grandmother, Mrs. Austin Elliott and his aunt, Miss Mona Elliott of Central Grove.

Miss Carolyn Thurber of Halifax spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Thurber. Also spending the weekend at the same home were Mr. and Mrs. Farr and son, Robert, of Halifax. Charles Fanning of Freeport employed at Halifax was also a guest at their home on Sunday.

Mrs. Harry Crocker, Mrs. George Crocker and small daughter, Lavina, of Freeport were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Outhouse on Sunday. John Outhouse and son Fraser motored to Plympton on Sunday.

Avery Finigan of Freeport was supper guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Thurber.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Thurber who have vacationed in U.S.A., Baddeck, and have visited their son, Mr. and Mrs. Hartford Thurber at Kentville, returned to their home at Tiverton last week. They left for their home at Westport on Monday.

George W. Outhouse is spending the winter months with his son Grafton and Mr. Outhouse.

Mrs. Jean Elliott is visiting her daughter, Lorraine, Mrs. Harold Graham at Westport.

School children of the elementary school at Freeport are extending get well wishes to their part time school teacher, Mary Finigan of Freeport. Mrs. Finigan, who occasionally substitutes for regular teachers, recently suffered a broken leg and is a patient in Digby General Hospital.

Also a patient in Digby hospital is Mrs. Heber (Annis) Outhouse. It was learned she is resting comfortably. Wishes for a speedy recovery are extended to her. Set Lobster Traps.

Despite lowering skies and low temperatures, lobster fishermen of the Tiverton area were successful in setting their traps in St. Mary's Bay. Winds were light in St. Mary's Bay area.

However, those who carry out lobstering operations in

Joggin Bridge

Mrs. James Ian MacPherson entertained at a buffet supper and two tables of bridge on Tuesday evening, November 30th. Assisting Mrs. MacPherson with the serving were Mrs. Joyce Anderson and Miss Gertrude Budrow, both of Digby. Ladies High was won by Mrs. Fred May; Second High by Mrs. Douglas Lewis and Consolation by Mrs. Victor Turnbull. The travelling prize was won by Mrs. Douglas Daley.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Adams of Halifax were visitors at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Adams on the weekend.

Mrs. George Pasler, Port Credit, Ontario spent the past week visiting her mother, Mrs. Neil MacLean and brother, Alex, Mrs. MacLean and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Brington and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wright were visitors to Halifax on Saturday.

The Bay of Fundy area were not as fortunate. Winds of 15 knots prevented them with the exception of Muriel Outhouse and his mate, Vincent Howard, from setting their traps.

Fishermen of the area have reported lobsters are not as plentiful as last year. They are hoping for increased prices for their lobsters.

Christmas Meeting Hill Grove

A combined meeting of the Church Auxiliary, the Women's Missionary Society and the Baptist Youth Fellowship was held in the Hill Grove Baptist Church hall on Wednesday evening with forty members and guests being present. Mrs. Vernon Jones presided during the W.M.S. program which was in the Christmas theme and opened with the entire group singing "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and members of the Youth Group singing "Joy to The World". A poem "My Self Denial Offering" read by Mrs. Darcy Roope was a prelude to a playlet entitled "The Acceptable Gift", given by several members of the W.M.S. with Mrs. Vernon Rice as moderator. Prayer by Mrs. Thomas Franklin was followed by the carol "O Come All Ye Faithful" sung by Wanda Franklin and Judith Gates with other young people joining in on the chorus. Readings appropriate to the Christmas Season were given by Mrs. Rene Richard, Mrs. Lloyd MacNeil and Miss Wanda Franklin. "Silent Night, Holy Night" was sung by the Youth Fellowship group with scriptures passages being read between verses, and closing with prayer by Beulah Minard.

A Provincial Life Membership certificate in the Women's Missionary Society was presented to Mrs. Kenneth Keysall by Mrs. Roy Warner on behalf of the W.M.S. and Mrs. Keysall responded with words of thanks and appreciation. During the business meeting of the Auxiliary it was reported that two hundred dollars had recently been given to the church by the Auxiliary and it was voted that the Auxiliary and W.M.S. sent Christmas cards to members who are away for the winter and to those of advanced years in the community and also Good Cheer boxes to shut-ins. The meeting closed with prayer and benediction by Rev. H. S. Hartlin. A social period followed, with delicious refreshments being served by a committee.

Marriage

Williams — Langford

A pretty fall wedding was solemnized in St. Matthew's Church, Weymouth Falls at 7 p.m., November 19, when Rev. A. G. Peters united in marriage Marie Rose, daughter of Mrs. Clyde M. Langford and the late Charles Langford and Henry Louis Williams, son of Mrs. Diana Williams of Warrenton, North Carolina. The doubling ceremony was used, Mrs. Beulah Jarvis was organist and Miss Sandra Jarvis rendered the solo "O Perfect Love".

Entering the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Ralph Jarvis, the bride was lovely in her imported gown of French Faille with sculptured bateau neckline of Alencon lace, with the fitted bodice having long lily-pointed sleeves. The controlled skirt ended in a sweeping chapel train. Her elbow length veil was held in place with a rhinestone tiara, and she carried a colonial style bouquet of yellow and white chrysanthemums. She was given in marriage by her uncle Mr. Ralph Jarvis.

Miss Edith Guy was bridesmaid and was charming in her gown of pink silk with over dress of matching nylon. She wore a tiara of yellow and white roses and carried a nosegay of bronze and white chrysanthemums.

Little Irma Johnson was flower girl and was winsome in a dress of white nylon, she carried a nosegay of white mums.

The best man was Glenn Robbins of Sawyer, Mich., and ushers were Mr. Arnold Jarvis and Mr. Lester Jarvis, both of Weymouth Falls.

A reception was held in St. Matthews Hall following the ceremony. Rev. A. G. Peters proposed the toast to the bride.

The brides mother chose a teal blue dress and jacket of all wool double knit with trapunto trim detail on the jacket. Her accessories were black and her corsage was of white mums.

For travelling the bride chose a three piece red knitted suit, with double breasted fitted jacket, straight skirt and black accessories. Her corsage was white mums and red rose buds. For a wedding trip the couple toured Nova Scotia and visited in Boston for four weeks. They will reside in Loring A.F.B. Maine where the groom is presently stationed in the U.S. Air Force as Sergeant of the Guard with the 42nd Air Police Squadron. He is an honoured graduate of Air Police Supervisors Academy at Hunter Georgia.

The provincial projects include museums, community swimming facilities, community parks, recreational and community centres, the restoration of historic buildings and provision for the housing and display of an historic engine closely associated with the development of Nova Scotia.

Arnold Edinborough, editor and publisher of the magazine "Saturday Night" was guest speaker at luncheon on Monday when he highly commended some of the centennial planning and gave instructive comments. He felt the centennial should not only look back 100 years ago but also the evolution of history through the years, such as opening up of the prairies, shift from rural to urban civilization. He advocated the restoring of old buildings, canoe caravan, interchanging of adult visitors as well as school children. He was astounded that there was no church representative on the commission.

Mr. Edinborough said there was a real job to be done to interpret the centennial to the outside and this could only be done through mass media. He emphasized giving news stating that if it is news it will get printed but if it is public relations it will not. He suggested the committee visit the publishers and said that they will print all news that's fit to print and then all the news that fits to print.

It was emphasized that each little hamlet should have its own celebration, so should each family and each person. It might be in the form of painting the house, building a lawn, widening a street, scholarship, museum, general community beautification, fishing award, award for co-operation, purchase of centennial truck, car, rest area for community, swimming pool, etc.

No organization is better than the Board of Trade to put over the community projects said E. G. Jarvis, president of the Halifax Board of Trade.

Hon. Allan J. MacEachen, minister of labor, was chairman of the conference. Also present and taking an active part was John Fisher, Centennial Commissioner who outlined many of the centennial projects now in process and the work which is yet to be done.

COMMISSION

Dr. Lewis wanted that we must sell ourselves. If we are to attract industry we must be prepared with the answers to many questions. We must be prepared to answer questions about our roads, power, water, raw materials, sewage disposal method, climate, freight rates, tax incentives, education, schools, hospitals, recreation, whether stable or unstable kind of people, quality and quantity of labor force, where employees can live, the attitude which the people have toward their town, churches, transportation, raw products available, coal, oil growth in population, financial situation of the town and any other pertinent questions.

Dr. Lewis advised that all the above information be gathered and put in a brochure to be distributed by the Department of Trade and Industry and railway companies. He emphasized that this industrial development is a big thing. He said that people in a town must work together, put their heads together and focus all things toward attracting industry.

In conjunction with the idea of attracting industry, His Worship, Mayor Snow advised on obtaining water rights on water bodies between the North Mountain and the Old Post Road near the Roxville area. The Nova Scotia Water Authority is expected to have someone from its department to look over the area.

The council by regular motion decided to make application to the proper authority for water rights to the above.

use his own judgement on the matter in relation to information received.

By motion it was decided to write off outstanding taxes to the amount of $920. The clerk had been successful in reducing these all tax accounts outstanding from $1000 to $920.

The women's pay in 1965 was down $900 from the previous year, it was reported.

The town labour men had spent 117 hours last month in connection with the town water, as reported by Councilor MacIntyre. Because of this the streets had been somewhat neglected. He reported that the water works project had started and that the incinerator for garbage disposal had been set up. The health authorities were assisting in ridding the old dump of refuse and seeing that it was put in a sanitary condition.

It was decided to check up on the condition of water pipes in the town and have them replaced where necessary before recapping of the streets was done.

According to the police report presented by Councilor Bell, 22 complaints were laid with 8 requiring field investigation. All but two were terminated to the satisfaction of those concerned. Six cases required court action and all

Meet With Council And Health Officials (160 Names On Petition)

At a special session of Digby Municipal Council, on December 7, a petition bearing about 160 names, was presented by Mrs. M. P. Gott, chairman of the municipal board of health. The petition concerned the possibility of water contamination in the area of the new incinerator at Seabrook, on the outskirts of Digby. The council session was not called specially to hear the petition.

A delegation of petitioners also appeared at the council session, and agreed to appoint two representatives to meet with board of health authorities, Dr. Rideout, and D. Tupper, sanitary engineer, on December 13 to go over the site and to meet with the board and discuss their findings.

The meeting was held as scheduled at 11:30 a.m. in the Court House, Digby. Representatives, Roy Durling and Roy Robinson, and John R. Nichols, solicitor, were present. Also present were Graham Saunders, managing director of Digby Salvage and Disposal Co. Ltd.

It was stressed by health officials that original permission for establishment of an incinerator-type dump was given at a special board of health meeting on September 2. After due deliberation and analysis of all the facts presented which were complete approval of the site and burner by the provincial department of health, water authority and the department of lands and forests approved it for fire safety, and after intensive study of the plans and specifications from the Robb Engineering Co. who designed and were to build the burner, the board of health, seeing that this request had complied in every way with the provincial health act, had no valid reason to deny permission to the Digby Salvage and Disposal Co. Ltd. to establish a burner-type dump on this site.

At Monday's meeting the representatives and their counsel were given the opportunity to question the health officials in detail.

Board officials suggested that the burner be given an opportunity to prove itself, and as long as the dump is operated and maintained properly and meets frequent inspection there is no reason for it to close.

Mr. Saunders gave assurance to the representatives that everything would be done according to the health act and that the dump would be maintained and operated in a proper manner.

Mrs. Gott said that the new incinerator is a "forward step for the municipality of Digby." Everything there is burned to ashes, and ashes can't contaminate, she said. "There are other such burners in the province and they have all proven satisfactory," Mrs. Gott said. "Each incinerator is built to specification, and the Digby one can meet the disposal needs of 3,500 persons every eight hours. This appears adequate to me," she continued.

CYO Meeting

On December 4 a regular meeting of Saint Patrick's CYO was held with approximately 30 members, one adult councillor, and Father Mills attending.

A Transportation Committee was elected consisting of Robert Smith, Evelyn Amero, Anne Marie Saulnier and Paul Connelly. The committee was found necessary because the CYO will have swimming at Cornwallis every Thursday evening.

On December 5 the CYO went to Annapolis for an all day rally, where they took part in sports, panel discussions and other various items. Before leaving for home the group enjoyed themselves at a social.

Does Not Favor Commission On Crime

A letter from L. T. Pennell, acting federal minister of justice, brought to the attention of the Digby Board of Trade on Tuesday evening, did not favor a royal commission on crime as requested by a resolution passed in October by the Digby Board and later by the A.V.A.B.T. Mr. Pennell stated that he believes there is a very strong and general awareness in Canada today of the need to maintain constant and aggressive measures against crime and to maintain and improve, where necessary, police services. He believes that appropriate officers should be prepared to deal with various situations as they arise and to anticipate them where possible rather than to approach the matter by way of royal commission.

Mr. Pennell did not think the crime problem was greater in Canada than in other countries. He stated the prevention and suppression of crime in Canada is receiving constant and continuous attention at various levels of government and it is common ground that constant vigilance is required. He noted that there is to be a federal-provincial conference on organized crime in January in which the federal authorities will participate. He also noted that at present time campaigns are being vigorously waged, in one or more provinces, against crimes which result in defrauding of creditors.

A report was made at Tuesday's meeting by the education committee of the Board who attended a special education conference in Annapolis Royal last week. In regard to a vocational school which will be built somewhere between Middleton and Weymouth, it was stated that both capital and operational costs would be borne by the federal and provincial governments without cost to the municipalities. The municipality where the school is situated, however, will have to provide nine acres of land or a minimum of 500 x 900 feet. C. D. Snow is head of the committee to present a brief in favor of Digby or vicinity for the location.

15 Years Behind Times Ferry Service

The ferry service between Digby and Saint John, N. B. is fifteen years behind the times, Vincent Snow claimed at the regular meeting of the Digby Board of Trade on Tuesday evening. The Digby Board of Trade, the town council and the municipal council should press the government to put on an up-to-date service here, he claimed. It could be that in another year or two that we might have no service here at all, he continued. Speaking further on the subject Mr. Snow said that transport trucks cannot find sufficient accommodation on the M. V. Bluenose; freight congestions exist at present in Kentville and Saint John, built up since the Princess of Acadia had been laid up for repairs.

Several attempts had been made by Boards of Trade in the area to arrange a meeting with Hon. J. W. Pickersgill, Minister of Transport, but none materialized. It was recently decided that, in case there might be a cabinet shuffle, a meeting in Saint John-Digby ferry service should be delayed for awhile but that it should not be dropped. A letter from Mr. Pickersgill to the A.V.A.B.T. was referred to in which Mr. Pickersgill stated "This service has been carried on for many years by the C.P.R. as an integral part of its railway operations. It is the hope of the Government that the Railway will be able to continue to operate an effective service which will meet the needs of the public indefinitely and discussions to ensure the continuance of the service are going on."

Bear River Couple Mark 50th Anniversary

On Wednesday, Dec. 15th, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clarke celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Married in Saint John, N. B., Mr. and Mrs. Clarke lived in Bear River for a number of years, then moved to Montreal, returning to Bear River several years ago where they built a new home.

Their son, H. Lee Clark of LaChute, Quebec, and their daughter Mrs. H. C. Curwell (Mary Clarke) of Montreal flew down on Sunday for the celebration.

On Tuesday evening, Mr. Clarke and Mrs. Curwell entertained at a dinner party at Riverview Lodge, in honor of their parents, when covers were laid for twelve.

The dinner table was centered with a beautiful flower arrangement of golden mums and greenery and candles.

A delicious turkey dinner was served. A decorated cake presented at the close of the meal.

Many beautiful flowers, gifts and cards were received. Later, the guests went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, where the bride and groom of fifty years were toasted and wished many more years of married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Carrel Clarke of Dartmouth motored to Bear River for the occasion. Mr. Ira Clarke and Mrs. Clarke of Montreal were unable to be present.

Gets Appointment

Fred Stoddard, radiation control inspector, of the department of public health, Halifax, has been appointed government representative to the Council of Nova Scotia Society of Medical Radiological Technicians, for a term to expire on May 14, 1966.

Mr. Stoddard was x-ray technician at the Digby General Hospital for a number of years before moving to Halifax some years ago.

His new appointment was announced by the department of the provincial secretary, Gerald Doucet.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

$1,000 For Sponsorship Of Room

Above: Donald Brown, president of Digby Kiwanis Club is seen pre-empting to Mrs. Grace Edwards, administrator at the Digby General Hospital, a cheque of $1000. This will be used in the sponsorship of a room in the children's section at the hospital and is the second like amount donated by the Kiwanians for the purpose. To the right is F. C. Purdy, president of the Digby General Hospital Board and a member of the Digby Kiwanis Club. The presentation was made at the regular meeting of Kiwanis on Thursday evening held at the New Scotia Restaurant.

Plans are underway by Digby Kiwanians to provide books, games and special treats for the pediatric section of the hospital before Christmas.

In accepting the cheque on behalf of the hospital, Mrs. Edwards thanked the Kiwanians and invited them to visit the hospital to see where their money is used and to visit the hospital in general.

Town Election Next Tuesday

On Tuesday, December 21, an election will be held to elect two councillors to fill vacancies on the Digby Town Council.

Candidates in the election are Stewart MacNaughton, superintendent at the Digby County Power Board; David Daley, local electrician; and Gerald Hoare, employee of Maritime Tel. and Tel. Company.

Mayor C. D. Snow and Greg Gilliat, councillor, were elected by acclamation when nominations were called in November.

Present council members whose terms expire this month, and who did not re-offer, are Deputy Mayor Dr. D. E. Lewis, Ralph MacIntyre and Charles Halliburton. Other members of Digby Council who have a year remaining in their terms are Gerry Connelly, Bernard Bell, and Thomas Cowan.

Christmas Party

The Brownies of the First Digby Pack held their closing meeting for the season on Tuesday. It was a Christmas Party. Each six was responsible for a game or skit to entertain the Brownies. After the games they formed their pow wow around the Christmas tree and exchanged gifts. A lunch was served by Tawny Owl and Blue Owl.

Two weeks ago the Brownies held their enrolment ceremony. To form the Brownie Ring a skit was performed explaining the Brownie story. At this time 17 Brownies were enrolled who were: Meredith Cleveland, Cathy VanTassel, Melana Thibault, Karen Wenaus, Susan Kolt, Julie McIntosh, Debbie VanTassel, Doreen Cowan, Cathy McInnes, Kim Wallace, Barbara Burroughs, Pamela Theriault, Sharon Mount, Linda Jayne, Joy King, Brenda Walker and Sandra MacKenzie. Ten Brownies were also presented with their golden bars. They were: Debbie Franklin, Ann Carreau, Ann Marie McInnes, Darlene Thomas, Mary Robinson, Debbie MacGe, Brenda Smith, Pamela O'Neil, Heather Robertson, Stella Robertson. The Sixer and Seconder stripes were presented at this time to Pixie Sixer, Wendy Hazelton and Seconder, Debbie Franklin; to Fairies Sixer Wendy Robicheau and Seconder, Glena Hoare; to Imps Sixer Peggy Burroughs and Seconder, Heather Robertson and to Sprites Sixer, Patsy Twobig, and Seconder Pam O'Neill. The Commissioner Mrs. Carson made the presentation.

Mrs. Clinton Wenaus, president of the local association and the mothers of the Brownies were special guests and were served tea and sandwiches by Mrs. Marcia Hoare assisted by Tawny Owl, Mrs. Luella Marshall and Blue Owl, Mrs. Vera Robertson and the Brownie Sixers.

The next meeting will be held early in the new year.

Legion Holds Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party was held at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Shore Road, Saturday evening. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Over one hundred persons attended and danced by candlelight to the music of the Downcasters. A lunch was served.

Branch No. 20 will again distribute Christmas cheer boxes to needy families of veterans in the Digby area. A good amount of gifts was donated at the Christmas party and the CPO's of course 365, HMCS Cornwallis, have made a generous donation of food.

NOTICE

Please take note that The Digby Courier will be published next week on Wednesday, December 22. This is especially for the benefit of those who wish to make use of our advertising columns before the end of the Christmas season.

All advertising copy and correspondence should be in our hands a day earlier than usual.

Recommend Manager-Engineer

Claiming that it would be much easier to get candidates to offer for civic office and also that a great deal of money could be saved by a manager-engineer, the Digby Board of Trade, on Tuesday evening, made motion to recommend to the town council that serious consideration be given to the town employing a town manager with engineering qualifications.

A town manager-engineer, it was claimed, would take some load of responsibility off the town committees. Taking the Digby Forum as a case in point, it was claimed that money can be lost without having someone who can properly care for machinery.

Mayor C. D. Snow, who was present at the meeting as a Board member, mentioned the benefit of having someone with engineering qualifications looking after the engineering functions for the town water supply. He explained in detail the adjustments made during the past year and those which it is hoped to do in the future to assure a good and bountiful supply of water for the town.

Mayor Snow also mentioned that a manager-engineer would be beneficial to solve sewer problems of the town but went on to say that money is needed to carry out recommendations. Unless ratepayers are willing to pay for present needs and look forward to future use, then consideration of a town manager with engineering qualifications is to no avail and is time wasted.

Mayor Snow said he expressed the opinion that he had faith in the people of Digby that they will be willing to see the town progress. He said that interested people should find out what is going on in town affairs and should put their shoulders to the wheel and stand behind the town in their suggestions.

It was felt by many that the Digby Board of Trade could be of real service to the town by showing support to all the town's good suggestions and by maintaining a close liaison between the two bodies.

Baptists Present Christmas Program

The Christmas Service of the Baptist Church of Digby will be held next Sunday morning with special Christmas music by the choir. In the evening the annual Vesper Service of the C.G.I.T. will be conducted by the girls, under the direction of Mrs. Amelia Whalley and Mrs. Russel Harris, leaders of the two C.G.I.T. groups in the church, and the organist, Mrs. Jean Olsen.

Christmas service in the Hillgrove church will be held in the afternoon at 2:30 p.m., and will include a Christmas concert by members of the Sunday School.

The annual Christmas concert of the Sunday School of the Baptist Church of Digby will be held on Wednesday evening, December 29th.

The C.G.I.T. groups recently held Christmas parties in the church hall with an exchange of gifts.

An impressive Christmas meeting was held by the W.M.S. on Tuesday evening in the church hall. The program featured a Christmas Pageant in which the symbols of the candles, evergreen, holly and Christmas trees were explained with the use of lighted candles and evergreens in the room.

Readers in the program included Mrs. Hugh Vincent, Mrs. J. J. Brittain, Mrs. Alfred Marshall and Mrs. Donald Buckler. Members of the C.G.I.T. groups assisted with the pageant. Mrs. Jean Olsen was in charge of the piano. Following the program, refreshments were served.

At the meeting, members of the Women's League voted to present to the church a cheque for $300.00 for current expenses, and $50.00 as an additional gift toward the church improvement fund.

Mental Health Drive Nears Objective

With a number of collectors and districts still to report, the fund raising campaign of the Digby County Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association had reached a total of $2200.00 by last week end. Campaign officials are hopeful that, when all reports are finally in, the total will reach the campaign objective of $3000.

Team captains in the various areas of the county have expressed themselves as being delighted with the response to the mental health campaign and state the results of the drive indicate a greater realization on the part of the people of Digby County of the important part being played by the Digby Community Mental Health Centre in the health services of the county.

The Digby County branch of C.M.H.A. is a voluntary organization which helps to support the Digby Community Mental Health Centre. This centre provides services free of charge to people through out the county of Digby. These services include: treatment, guidance, counselling, help in rehabilitation and child guidance. The services are available to all without cost. Persons wishing to avail themselves of the services may do so directly or on reference by doctors, clergy and others.

In addition to its direct services to the people of the area, the Digby Community Mental Health Centre also provides consultative services to other agencies. Meetings are held at the centre at which professionals in a variety of fields discuss with representatives of local agencies such as the welfare department, department of health and others, matters of mutual concern.

E.M.O. Active In Western Zone

Among those who attended the welfare course conducted in Middleton by E.M.O. were J. Thibodeau, Clare; C. C. Melanson, Digby; Raefc Douthwaite, deau, Clare; C. C. Melanson, Digby; Raefc Douthwaite, Halifax; Mrs. Nancy M. Denton, Digby and Lloyd Thompson, Middleton. Others attending from Digby were Reg Turnbull, director and Capt. Fred Beach.

A two-day course on radiation monitoring was conducted last week at Digby E.M.O. headquarters by provincial training officers. Candidates were all from the Digby area and represented various services of the E.M.O. The class was most successful, according to R. Douthwaite, provincial deputy coordinator. Training officer was G. Orlik.

The course consisted of various phases of radiation and fallout and probed what would happen if such a case occurred in the Digby area. Practical exercises were carried out. According to Digby E.M.O. director, Reg Turnbull, the course was perhaps the most successful carried out in Digby to date. Certificates for those who participated are expected within two weeks.

Those who successfully passed an E.M.O. police course conducted in Digby last month are expecting certificates shortly. The course was given under local conditions by Town and R.C.M.P. Police Officers, E. J. Theriault and Reg Turnbull.

A rescue course will be conducted in January and February by local rescue personnel. It is understood there are vacancies for about ten candidates.

Best T.V. Actor

Henry Beckman, son of Mrs. William B. Bailey, Amherst, and native of Yarmouth, was recently nominated for the best TV actor of 1965. This was for his role as "George Anderson" in "Peyton Place". The role was a very difficult one, which brought out his best.

Beckman also appeared in the movie "A House Is Not A Home". His next movie will be "McHale's Navy Joins The Air Force".

Lively Debate On Digby Parking

A lively debate ensued at the Digby Board of Trade regular meeting on Tuesday evening when the subject was brought up that the Digby Board of Trade should back the town council in any effort they make to find more parking space for Digby shoppers.

One member suggested that the merchants of Digby town should be responsible to find parking space for customers for it is the merchant himself who is using up front street parking and sending business away. It is a class, the spokes man said, for the Board of Trade or town to take time to consider parking when the merchants and business people themselves won't cooperate.

It was stated that parking in Digby has come to the place where customers drive back and forth waiting for someone else to move out of a parking space so that he can get in. This in itself was causing traffic congestion down town. The opinion was expressed by a town official that he would not like to see the day when they would have to get tough with merchants or customers but it seemed absolutely necessary now to strictly enforce the two hour parking law.

There is little place other than the front street for the merchant to park, said the official and we have to drive tax payers out but the time has come when the law must be enforced for the benefit of merchants and shoppers.

Reporting on the Irving Oil Co. building on front street as a parking area, Charles Halliburton, president said that the committee from the Board had gone as far as it seemed they could get in negotiating for this property for parking. Prices of other available areas for parking were discussed, ending the debate on a more genial note that if the Digby Board of Trade saw any feasible location for parking available it should be brought to the attention of the town council.

Entertain Nine Tables

Marla Motor Motel was the scene of a nine table supper bridge party on Saturday night when hostesses were Mrs. Grace Edwards and Mrs. J. M. Wallis.

A decorated Christmas tree, Christmas wrapped prizes and seasonal decorative favors added a festive touch for the occasion.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Percy Robert, high; Mrs. Fritz Dakin, 2nd; Mrs. Jack Rosenthal, consolation and Mrs. E. J. Theriault and Mrs. Lillian Nichols, travelling.

Successful Supper

A successful church Christmas supper grossing $545.22, was reported at the regular meeting of U.C.W. held at Grace United Church Hall on Tuesday evening. This was considered one of the most successful suppers ever held by the women.

The meeting began with a Christmas worship service conducted by the retiring president, Mrs. Allan Harris. New officers will be installed in January with Mrs. Fred Fullerton, president.

Plans were made Tuesday evening to prepare the Christmas treats for the shut-ins.

Leave For England And Austria

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Davies of Bridgetown left this week for London, England, where they will spend Christmas and then on to Vienna, Austria, for New Years.

They will be joined in England by their daughter, Miss Joan Davies, with whom they will visit in Vienna.

Miss Davies has spent four years in Vienna where she is music teacher in the International School for Embassy children.

Anybody else in this neighborhood who is not busily preparing for Christmas has all their cards out, their presents wrapped, and their baking safely tucked into the freezer or down in some cold closet in the cellar. I, alone, sit here in the usual state of unprepared-for confusion which surrounds Christmas in this house. I have had several offers from kindly, elderly ladies who, not knowing the way Christmas descends upon this family on December twenty-third, would like to baby sit, or help me with the cleaning and baking.

For some reason, the adults in this house have developed a habit of putting Christmas off until the last minute. The kids announce a new present which Santa Claus is going to bring on the stroke of every half hour. At least once a day they ask how many days it will be until Christmas, and every third day or so, they are convinced that this is the night when Santa Claus is coming. Their favorite games at present are Santa Opening His Pack, Trimming The Tree, and Opening The Presents. If the Ho-ho-ho's which echo in our halls are any indication, that jolly old man in the red flannel suit has been making personal appearances around here for weeks.

The physical signs of that notable gentleman, however, are conspicuously absent so far. The bulging closets which herald his appearance in most homes resemble in this house the closets of a certain Mrs. Hubbard. I have done my usual Christmas duty in the hint and nag department of course, but, so far, what with sneaking away from the kids, and getting baby sitters, and getting a day in town, the presents have not been forthcoming. The days keep growing shorter: I keep reminding myself that this is, and will ever be, the way of Christmas in this house. Some night, as I have done every year, when I know it can be put off no longer, I will go out, and in a store picked of its glitter, I will manage to ensure that Santa comes, and is overly generous, again this year. From early November to mid-December I feel a sort of prideful guilt about the family attitude toward Christmas. For the rest of the year, in some perverse way, I am proud of it.

The cleaning and baking, I am afraid, get treated in much the same casual manner. I have not quite decided if I am terribly efficient about my Christmas baking, or terribly lazy. In any case, I can quite successfully telescope the weeks and weeks of concentrated talk and effort other people go through into two days of work. The fruit cakes have been done. Between now and Christmas, with no great effort on my part, our family's traditional favorites, chocolate balls, mint meringues, date and nut squares, short breads, a fruit bread, and a pound cake will emerge from the oven. This will be more than enough to do us until after New Year's.

As for cleaning the house, my talents in that direction would make Phyllis Diller look like the Homemaker of the Year. I philosophize that it doesn't show anyway after three days of mayhem and tissue paper, mayhem and falling needles, mayhem and lost blocks, broken toys, and shattered decorations, mayhem and nutshells, sticky fingers, and half eaten oranges.

In spite of the lean closets, that pile of wrapped and ready-to-be-sent parcels is growing every day, and the contents of assorted boxes of cards are growing smaller every day, even though, at last tally, we had just reached the D's. So far only one card has found its way to us.

Card of Thanks In Memoriam

HANDSPIKER - I wish to express my thanks to all who sent cards, notes and visited me while in the Digby Hospital. Sincere thanks to Dr. Lewis, Dr. Black and orderlies on the second floor. Also James Pike and other clergy. Their thoughtfulness is greatly appreciated. Mrs. Walter Handspiker. 17:1c

AMERO - In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Esther Amero who passed away December 18th, 1961. One year has passed since that sad day. God called the one we loved away. Forgive her, no we will never. As years go by we miss her more. Sadly missed by her daughter Stella, Paul and five grandchildren. 17:1c

HOWARD - I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to my many friends and relatives who remembered me with cards, letters, fruit and gifts, and all who visited me while I was a patient at Digby and Camp Hill Hospital, Halifax. A special thank you to the doctors, nurses and staff also to those who donated their cars for my conveyance to and from the hospital. Charles Howard. 17:1p

PRIME - I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to my many friends who remembered me with flowers, cards, letters, gifts and prayers and to those who visited me while I was a patient in the Digby Hospital. I feel a special note of thanks is due Dr. Black also nurses and staff who gave me such wonderful care. Mrs. Gordon Prime. 17:1p

HAZELTON - I want to thank all who sent cards, letters, flowers, candy and fruit and those who visited me while I was a patient in the Digby General Hospital. To the nurses, orderlies, and the staff and to Rev. Mr. Hughes, I say thanks. Mrs. Frank Hazelton. 17:1c

HAYNES - In memory of Charlotte Haynes. There isn't any other way Except on paper, Charlotte To wish you a very Merry Christmas day. For God has taken you so far away. But even though you've gone Your memory will always linger on. Merry Christmas Charlotte. Sadly missed and remembered by Mum and Dad, Sister Judy and Brother Arnie and Brian. 16:1c

GATES - I wish to express my sincere thanks to those who sent cards and visited me while a patient at the Digby General Hospital. Special thanks to nurses and staff, also Dr. Black, Dr. Brennan and Dr. McCleave. Their kindness to me will always be remembered. Mrs. Starratt Gates. 17:1c

WAGNER - In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Willie Wagner, who passed away December 6th, 1938. No one heard the foot steps Of the angels drawing near Who took from us to Heaven The husband and father we loved so dear. The happy hours we once enjoyed How sweet the memories still But death has left a loneliness The world can never fill. Sadly missed by wife, Lois sons, James and Eric and family. 17:1c

OPPOSES COMMISSION

Vincent Snow reported on the Workmen's Compensation for fishermen hearing held in Digby recently. He said that not too many were aware that in case of loss of life that the family of a fisherman can hold the employer of the boat responsible to the extent of $200,000. He said the Digby representation had advocated that every fisherman be covered but that fishermen of smaller boats should be in a different category from those of the larger boats. Besides, they asked that the fishermen's compensation be kept under part III.

The treasurer's report revealed the Digby Board has a credit balance of $438.58.

Plans were made to hold the annual meeting of the Board on Tuesday, February 8, and a suggestion by the president, Charles Haliburton, that a tour of Valley industries be made met with favor of the members. He was asked to arrange with Lloyd Hill, executive manager A.V.A.B.T., for such a tour if possible.

BEHIND TIMES

In any event, as I have already indicated in Parliament, the present Government considers this historic service to be an essential link in our national transportation service and can not contemplate the possibility of the service being discontinued.

The comprehensive study of the transportation services in the Atlantic Provinces now being undertaken will include a careful review of this service and the best way of maintaining a proper link for the transportation of motor vehicles and passengers across the Bay of Fundy from Saint John to Digby.

The letter, to members of the Digby Board of Trade, seemed to imply that the service was considered by the minister to be adequate. The Board did not agree with this tone.

Correspondence from E. D.
Haliburton, Nova Scotia Minister of Fisheries was also referred to. This dealt with the Board's resolution presented at the A.V.A.B.T. annual meeting regarding better fishing wharf accommodation. Mr. Hal-iburton's concern to federal authorities on the matter, that it was unfortunate that the two projects (fishermen's wharf and ferry wharf) were tied together in the past and he hoped they might still be separated. He was quoted as saying that the fishing industry at Digby certainly deserves better facilities than those provided and the people of Digby can say they have been discriminated against because their facilities are not on a par with those in existence in so many other places despite the fact that they have a healthy and growing industry.

Tour Greenwood

Grades X and XI students of Islands Consolidated School,
Freeport, and their principal,
D. Gaudet, visited RCAF
Greenwood this week.

Upon their arrival, about 11 a.m., the group was shown the "Argus" aircraft. The function of the Argus was explained to them by the airman guides, who told the students the important roles the aircraft has played since 1959. The radar capabilities of this particular type of plane were pointed out and how it functions in regards to search and rescue flights.

After dinner in the combined mess, they were shown the CH-113 "Labrador" helicopter which is capable of carrying 22 passengers or 12 stretchers and is instrumented so that it can fly at night or in cloud, and is used extensively for short range evacuations of patients who are too ill to be moved otherwise.

During the students' examination of another type of search and rescue plane, the "Albatross" and its equipment, they were given an interesting and instructive lecture on search and rescue work.

Other interesting features shown the students during their tour were the recreation room, hangar and the library.

With their departure from the station the students were given pamphlets and brochures which tell a brief interesting history of the station and its growth since its establishment as an RCAF base in 1942 and a brief outline of each of the aircraft that operate from there.

Permission to tour the station was obtained for the students by Mr. Gaudet, who served several years at Greenwood air base.

Transportation was provided by school bus and driven by Robert Ruggles, school bus driver.

Gifts Dedicated

The regular monthly parish service at the church of St.
Edwards, Clementsport, Sunday morning, for the parish of Clements, was of wide interest because of several memorial gifts presented for dedication.

The rector, Rev. A. Francis Showard, was celebrant and the Rt. Rev. R. H. Waterman, Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia retired, the special preacher.
His sermon was based on the text, "I Am The Light of the World".

Gifts of a sanctuary lamp, offering plates and organist's hymn book were dedicated by Bishop Waterman, in memory of Rev. W. H. Logan, rector of this parish, who died December 19, 1961. The lamp was given by Mrs. Logan who, with other members of the late rector's family were present for this service.

St. Matthew's congregation gave the plates, and the hymn book was given by the Sunday school of St. Edward's. Also dedicated was a "Book of Remembrances" for records of all gifts, past and present, to the various churches in the parish. This book is a gift from Miss Dorothy M. Bell, president of Bradford Junior College, Bradford, Mass., in memory of her father, William Frederick Bell, Elyria, Ohio.

HEADS KIWANIS

F. C. Purdy, supervisor of schools, gave a report of an educational meeting held in Annapolis Royal, particularly emphasizing the part dealing with a vocational school which he said would definitely be built somewhere between Middleton and Weymouth. The school will not be of any direct cost to the municipalities but in whatever municipal area the school is built, that municipality must be able to provide 10 acres of land on which to construct the school.

Mr. Purdy said that each town and municipality would be presenting briefs stating what each has to offer and then the government would make the decision on the location.

Mr. Purdy commented on the interest which the Digby Board of Trade had taken in the vocational school project but said that it now had become a matter for civic government.

Plans were made for the Kiwans Christmas party when Kiwans queens and special guests will be invited. On committees are: program, J.
J. Brittain and Victor Thompson; gifts, Leigh Jayne; singing, Donald Brown; dinner, Chester Levy, Stewart Mac-Naughton; reception line, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brown and
Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Mac-Naughton.

Special money raising projects in December are sale of apples and Christmas trees.

Notice To Motor Vehicle Owners Obstructing Snow Removal
In order that the Department of Highways may provide a reasonable standard of winter maintenance including snow ploughing on the highways it is essential that motor vehicle owners and operators observe the law governing parking on the highways during the winter months.
The Motor Vehicle Act, Section 121A provides that:-
121A (1) ... no person wilfully shall park or leave standing a vehicle whether attended or unattended, upon a highway or any part thereof in such manner that it might interfere with or obstruct snow removal or winter maintenance operations on the highway.
(2) Where a vehicle is parked or left standing on a highway in such manner that it interferes with or obstructs snow removal or winter maintenance operations, the Department or a peace officer may cause the vehicle to be moved or towed to some other place.
(3) Any cost incurred by the Department or a peace officer in moving or towing a vehicle under subsection (2) may be recovered from the owner of the vehicle and such debt shall constitute a lien against the vehicle.
Winter parking is a problem for many motorists; the Department asks for YOUR co-operation in parking YOUR vehicle well off the highway (especially overnight, so as not to interfere with snow plough operations).
PLEASE HELP US TO HELP YOU.

A trip to Kentville, touring Gilmfells Rose Gardens and also Pick-A-Rose Garden was enjoyed. Mrs. Rae Burns, a member, made Christmas arrangements for the shut-ins.

We are a small club with a membership of fourteen and I wish anyone at home working in the gardens would join us.

New officers for the year include president, Mrs. Pauline Milner; vice president, Mrs. Gertrude Benson; secretary, Miss Dorothy Hill; treasurer, Mrs. Jack Harris; program committee, Mrs. Lia Harris; publicity, Mrs. Mary Davies.

Closing Held

The Adult Education class in Aluminum Etching, which was sponsored by Oakdene Home and School Association and taught by Mrs. Lawrence Potter, had their closing meeting on Tuesday.

Many fine examples of this type of etching were completed by the class and some of this work will be on display at the next Home and School meeting on December 20.

Mrs. Alister Milner presented Mrs. Potter with a gift on behalf of the members of the class and expressed the appreciation of the group to Mrs. Potter for her fine leadership in their work.

A lunch was served at the close of the work of the class.

Rossway

The Baptist Women's Missionary Society held its monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Willard Wentzell. After the devotional period, the ladies enjoyed a social hour and at the close sat down to the dining table for refreshments. The decorations were in keeping with the Christmas season.

Private Earl Lewis of the Canadian Army stationed at Camp Petewawa, Ontario is spending his leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Lewis. Also a visitor at the same home is Miss Verna Smith of Grand Falls, Newfoundland.

Name New Officers

The Women's Progressive Conservative Association of Annapolis West held its annual meeting in the Annapolis District Community Centre. Mrs. Marion Mills presided over the meeting attended by 60 members from all districts. A minute of silence was observed in memory of Hon. George C. Nowlan.

The new president elected was Mrs. Marian Mills, Granville Centre; vice-president, Mrs. Marshall Wheelhouse, of Bear River; second vice-president, Mrs. Robert Purdy, of Deep Brook; secretary, Mrs. Gordon Mills, assistant secretary, Mrs. Odvar Ellis, both of Granville Ferry; and treasurer, Mrs. Harold Bent, Belle Isle.

A vote of thanks was extended to the retiring president for her work during the past years.

The meeting adjourned and joined the annual meeting of the Progressive Conservative Association of Annapolis West.

Kenneth E. Green, president, presided over the meeting.

Motions of confidence in the Hon. John Diefenbaker and the Hon. R. L. Stanfield were moved.

New officers are, president, Ken Green; vice-president, Frank deWolfe; and secretary, Mrs. Gordon Mills.

The president gave his annual report and introduced the first speaker, Baden Powell, MLA, Digby.

Mr. Powell stressed the need for better shipping facilities in the Valley area.

He said the lack of good transportation was keeping industries from "our end of the province."

The son of a sea captain, he recalled when steamers plied from Saint John to Yarmouth, Meteghan, Digby, Annapolis Royal and Bridgetown.

Now, he said, "nothing heavier than a half ton truck can be taken across the Bay of Fundy from Digby to Saint John."

John Bower, MP, for Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare, told of a "happy caucus" at Ottawa.

J. Patrick Nowlan urged the Conservatives not to be smug about their recent Nova Scotia triumph but to proceed with a thorough stock taking. "Ask yourselves, where are you going and what are you doing," he said. "And justify your recent plebiscite."

Mike Forestell, representing the dual Halifax riding, also spoke of the Caucus in Ottawa and of the great unity of the PC party.

Mrs. Townsend Heads Women

The Clementsport United Church Women held their annual meeting at the home of the retiring president, Mrs. W. B. Haviland. The treasurer, Mrs. E. Potter reported a good bank balance.

Mrs. George Townsend, brought the following report from the nominations committee.

President, Mrs. Jean Townsend; Vice-president, Mrs. Kathleen Balcomb; Secretary, Mrs. Bernice Haviland; Treasurer, Mrs. Bernice Potter.

The post office will be closed all day December 25. The wickets are closed all day on Monday but the box lobby will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Kiwanis Club Donates $100.00

The annual Christmas Party of the Kiwanis Club of Digby was held last Thursday evening in the Legion Hall. Members of the Club, their wives and several guests enjoyed a Turkey dinner, after which there was singing, games, and an exchange of gifts. J. J. Bell, chairman was master of ceremonies and he was assisted by Keith Raymond and Lynn Saunders. Mrs. Jean Olsen presided at the piano.

At a recent meeting of the Directors of the Club, it was decided to donate $100 toward the Dr. Doiron Memorial at the Digby Hospital.

This week's meeting of the Club at the New Scotia Restaurant will welcome as guest speaker Rev. R. H. Hughes, who will be speaking on the Christmas theme.

Receives Prize

Warm tribute was paid last week to the late Aubrey L. Adams, well known car salesman, who died suddenly last March, when his daughter, Wendy, was presented with gold cufflinks by Mr. Frank McKenney, a General Motors representative.

Mr. McKenney said that the company felt that Mr. Adams, who had been a member of the Sales Leader Club for many years and who was recently missed by all, had earned his yearly prize, and felt there was no better way than to give the prize to his daughter.

He was warm in his praise of Mr. Adams and assured Wendy she could be very proud to have had such a fine man as her father.

Presentation was made in the office of the Director of Nurses at the Halifax Infirmary, where Wendy is a student nurse.

Builds "Flying Cloud" Replica

Already the keel of the replica of the "Flying Cloud" has been laid at the shipyard of St. Mary's Bay Industries Ltd., Meteghan. The shipyard, owned and operated by Camille Gaudet and the Comeau brothers is to build a replica of the "Flying Cloud" for a Philadelphia restaurant operator, Alfred N. Johnston, to be used as a dockside restaurant.

The deck of the replica ship will be 170 feet in length and the beam 30 feet. The keel, which has been laid, measures 148 feet. In order to build the ship, the St. Mary's Bay Industries Ltd. had to extend their building by 50 feet.

The construction of the "Flying Cloud" replica is expected to take four months and employ 25 local men.

The "Flying Cloud" was a clipper ship which enjoyed the last of the heyday of sailing ships and made a record passage around Cape Horn from New York to San Francisco in 69 days.

ELECTION RESULTS

It was learned just before going to press that Gerald Hoare and Stewart MacNaughton were the successful candidates in Digby's civic election on Tuesday when only 153 of 1200 voters cast ballots. Results of balloting were: Hoare, 103; MacNaughton, 96; and Daley, 87.

Christmas In The Churches

United Baptist, Digby

A large congregation gathered for the Christmas Service in the Baptist Church of Digby last Sunday morning. The auditorium was beautifully decorated with poinsettias, evergreens and lighted candles. Several of the floral decorations were in memory of loved ones. The choir sang several Christmas anthems.

During the service, Miss Linda Lewis, president of the Senior C.G.I.T. group, presented to the church a gift of a dozen hymn books. The pastor, Rev. H. S. Hartlin, receiving the books on behalf of the congregation, thanked the C.G.I.T. for the gift.

Speaking from the text, "When they saw that, star, they rejoiced with exceeding and great joy," the pastor asked the question: "What do we see in our own day at Christmas? Does Christmas really mean anything to us except as a mere festival, or do we still look up to see in Christmas the star of our eternal hope in Christ? The great truth about Christmas that shines like a brilliant star in the sky is the mystery of the Incarnation — God coming into the world in the Babe that was born at Bethlehem. Like the Wise Men of old, let this magic moment come to you again. Let gentleness have its way with your spirit. Let kindness bring you the real Christmas joy. Let our pride be subject to His humility."

In the evening a beautiful and impressive Vesper Service was conducted by members of the two C.G.I.T. groups of the church. Marching into the auditorium with lighted candles the girls, about 30 in number, formed the mass choir, with Mrs. Jean Olsen at the organ.

The service was led by Beverly Kaulback and Barbara Olsen and assisted in various parts of the program by Linda Banks, Johanna Outhouse, Lina Baxter, Shirley Adams and Peggy Banks.

The Vesper Service is an annual event across Canada, in which more than 50,000 girls take part as members of the Canadian Girls in Training, a national organization.

Members of the Sunday School and their teachers are busy preparing for the Christmas Concert to be held in the church at 7 p.m. on Wednesday (tonight).

Grace United, Digby

The Silence of Christmas was the topic chosen by Rev. R. H. Hughes for his Christmas sermon at Grace United Church on Sunday morning. There is a place for joy and festivities in the Christmas season, Mr. Hughes said, but there is also an important place for silence. He said the shepherds were silent and could hear the message. It is in silence that God gets an opportunity to talk to us but in our rush we hardly take time to think how silently the gift is given.

Mr. Hughes advised the parents of the congregation to read the story of Jesus' birth to the children on Friday night so that He is in their thoughts on Christmas morning and that the parents, too, may hear the voice of Jesus Christ and the miracle of Bethlehem be repeated in their souls.

The choir rendered two anthems, "Gentle Jesus" and "A Saviour Is Born", under the direction of Norman Wright and Mrs. Elton Arnold, church organist.

Compliments From Jennie

In sending Christmas greetings to The Digby Courier, Mrs. Jennie Beckwith, former stewardess on the C.P.R. ships Empress, Princess Helene and Princess of Acadia, asked us to extend her compliments of the season to her many friends in Digby and the county.

In Jennie's own words "Wee compliments of the season from a bunged up old stewardess to let my friends know that I have not forgotten them."

Mrs. Beckwith, according to her letter is suffering somewhat from arthritis.

Jack Fox of Amherst was a recent overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hodgson.

Guides Hold Christmas Tea

On Wednesday last, a successful Christmas tea and bazaar was held at the Trinity Church Hall. Hostesses for this event were the girls in the First Digby Girl Guide Company.

The hall was seasonally trimmed with evergreen in the windows, streamers, and a decorated Christmas tree. The tables were decorated with centre pieces which were made by the girls.

The whole company was divided into three groups: sewing, cooking and a combination of handicraft and a white elephant table.

The money from the tea $85.75 will be used in various helpful ways.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Outpatient Department Dedicated

"This outpatient department is dedicated to the memory of this outstanding man, Dr. Linus F. Doiron, for unselfish community service" are the words in French and English on the plaque unveiled at the Digby General Hospital on Saturday afternoon. The unveiling of the portrait of Dr. Doiron and the plaque was done by E. B. Richardson, chairman of the finance committee of the Digby General Hospital Board. During the act of unveiling, Mr. Richardson said that he considered it a high honor and privilege to unveil the portrait and plaque dedicated to the memory of a man who made such an outstanding contribution towards the development and construction of the hospital and to the people of the Digby-Annapolis-Clare areas served by the hospital. Mr. Richardson said that his work and unselfish devotion to the medical profession and in community service will live for years to come.

On the committee in charge of the memorial fund were Joseph Hattie, chairman; Charles Hersey, Dr. D. G. Black, Urbain Belliveau, Belliveau Cove and Dr. D. E. Lewis. In the picture above, left to right, are Mr. Hattie, Charles Hersey, Mrs. L. F. Doiron, Mr. Belliveau, who is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Doiron, Mr. Richardson, F. C. Purdy, president of the Digby General Hospital Board, and Dr. Black. Dr. Lewis is missing from the picture.

Present for the dedication were Mrs. Doiron, her daughter Yvonne (Mrs. James Ralph) and Mr. Ralph, Greenwood; daughters Cecile, of St. F. X., Antigonish, Marguerite, at Dalhousie University, Halifax, Claire, at home, and Miss Colleen Campbell, niece of Mrs. Doiron; who had made her home for some time with Dr. and Mrs. Doiron. A daughter, Louise (Mrs. Marlin Moore), Calgary, Alberta, was not present. Other relatives and members of the memorial committee and their wives were present.

Landers Gets P.O. Tender

Landers Limited of Digby, N. S., has been awarded a $29,188 contract for the construction of a post office at Bear River, N. S. Public Works Minister George J. McBrath announced today.

The successful tender was the second lowest of five opened in Halifax on Nov. 10. High bid was $35,900 and permission was given to the low tenderer to withdraw because of failure to include certain costs.

A single-storey building measuring 37 by 31 feet, the new post office will face Main Street and will have a truck yard and loading platform on the north side, entered from Digby Road.

Light brown brick will be used as the exterior finish. Interior walls will be of plywood, the ceiling of exposed plank and the floor of vinyl tile. The building will have a concrete foundation but no basement. Heating will be by electricity.

Bear River is near the naval base at Cornwallis, N. S., and some 10 miles from Digby, N. S.

Plans and specifications for the post office were prepared at the Halifax District Architect's office of the federal Department of Public Works.

Petite Passage Report Given - Study Bear River

R. Eiden Powell, M.L.A., has been notified by Hon. Stephen T. Pyke, Minister of highways for Nova Scotia, that the department has recently received the report of the consulting engineers, E. J. Margeson and Co. Ltd., engaged to carry out a study of the proposal for some form of permanent crossing of Petite Passage.

Mr. Pyke said that the province has not yet had an opportunity to carefully examine and consider all the implications of the study. He did say that he is sure the province would be quite willing to consider the possibility of incorporating a highway crossing in any permanent structure which might be designated with a view of creating a useful harbour.

Mr. Powell also advised that the report on the Bear River crossing regarding the type of crossing and where it is to be located is now under review. The same consulting engineers, E. J. Margeson and Company Ltd. have been engaged for the Bear River Survey.

Dies After Collision

A head-on collision at Mink Cove early on Sunday morning claimed the life of Ralph Newell, age 22, of Little River.

Ralph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Newell, was a passenger in a car operated by Louis Frost which had a head-on accident involving a second vehicle of which Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gidney were occupants.

Frost, who is reported to have been badly injured, is in the Digby General Hospital. Mr. Gidney, who received lacerations and broken bones, was taken to the Digby Hospital as was Mrs. Gidney, who suffered cuts and abrasions.

Newell had been taken to the Digby General Hospital, but later was transferred to the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, where he passed away. The accident occurred around 1 o'clock a.m.

Newell is survived by his parents and two brothers, Ernest, of Tidville, and Philip, of Little River.

He was a member of Little River United Baptist Church, had attended high school in Digby and was employed at the firm of Clyde A. Denton, Ltd., Little River.

Funeral service will be held today, Wednesday, at 2:30, from the Little River Baptist Church. Officiating minister will be Rev. Max Spencer, assisted by Rev. Donald Raymer. Interment will be in Little River Cemetery.

Visits Digby

Patrick Nowlan, Wolfville, successful candidate in the Digby-Annapolis-Kings constituency in the federal election, was a guest at the home of R. Baden Powell, M.L.A., and Mrs. Powell, while he visited friends in Digby on Wednesday. Mr. Nowlan and Mr. Powell also visited Digby Neck and Islands on Thursday.

About This And That

Are You Ready For Christmas?

By Mrs. John P. Outhouse

A question most frequently asked this time of year is "Are you ready for Christmas?"

To most people, "getting ready for Christmas" implies a feverish rush of baking, gift planning and shopping. While they are carolling "Silent Night, Holy Night, All is calm . . ." they are inwardly panicking because of so many things they have to do and so little time to do them in. In their restless state, "God rest you, merry gentlemen," holds not significance for them.

Yet there are some who will pause to ask, "Why all the confusion in preparing for Christmas? Has this frenzied activity always surrounded this event? While the important answers are easy to find they are not readily accepted or easily comprehended.

The divine answers to these questions are that God was ready for the event because for many years He had been making preparations for the giving of His Great Light, His only son, Jesus, to the world. Isaiah 7:14, "Therefore the Lord Himself shall give you a sign; behold a virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call His name Immanuel." Mary, the Virgin, who was to bear God's Son, was ready for the event because she said, "Behold the handmaid of the Lord; for unto me according to thy word." Luke 1:38.

The angels were ready, with their praise, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace" good will towards men." Luke 2:14. The shepherds, ready and willing to leave their flocks, made haste to Bethlehem to see the thing which the Lord had made known unto them. Luke 2:15. The wise men were also ready. They had made plans to present their costly gifts to the baby King and were ready to leave their homes in the east to travel to Jerusalem when they heard of His Divine Birth.

Yet, perhaps one cannot say the origin of Christmas was entirely free from confusion. King Herod apparently felt the birth of Jesus presented a threat to his throne and "was troubled to the extent that he hastily summoned all the chief priests and scribes of the people and wise men to find the new born Babe that He might be destroyed. The Jews also were thrown into a state of confusion at the birth of Christ and began planning ways and means to reject Him.

However, in spite of the hustle-bustle, confusion, show and glitter that surrounds the event today, Christmas has become the most popular occasion of the year. Yet, someone has suggested that not until we are prepared to "tell the world the difference between Christianity and paganism and to share the gift of God," are we ready for Christmas?

"To Men Of Good Will . . ."

The United Church of Canada,

85 St. Clair Ave. E., Toronto 7, Ont.

For people brought up, as many are, to know the Bible of King James' version, the angels' proclamation at Christmas is remembered as: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill towards men."

But it is entirely likely that those words do not represent, exactly, the original of the song over Bethlehem. The study of ancient manuscripts of Holy Scripture, many of them undiscovered when the Authorized Version was put forth at the start of the 17th century, to become known and loved by succeeding generations of English-speaking people, has led scholars to suggest that two alternative versions have better support. One is "Peace on earth, to men of good will," and the other is "peace on earth among those in whom He is well pleased." Today many modern Bibles follow one or another of these in preference to King James'. The change in meaning is suggestive and helpful.

We who live in what is sometimes called a "Welfare State" easily get into the state of mind in which we expect everything to be done for us, without effort or initiative on our own part. Religiously, we sit back and expect God to do everything while we do nothing. And the peace of God, that peace which is much more than the mere absence of war, is treated as a kind of blanket donation from heaven. "Peace, goodwill towards men" becomes an amiable outpouring, indiscriminately upon all, of the divine benevolence.

How much better to believe that God does indeed give His peace — but to those who have made themselves ready to receive it, to "men of good will," to "men in whom He is well pleased," because they have signified a willingness to make their own wills one with His. There is nothing wrong in suggesting that. But it does remind men to bestir themselves and to seek, by an act of their own wills reaching up to meet the will of God, the "peace of God, which passeth all understanding." St. John reminds those who read the introduction to the Fourth Gospel that the fullest of the divine gift is "to as many as received him."

Peace, then, is a conditional thing. Do we fulfill the condition?

T.V. Program

Many of our Christmas cards are mentioning the Maude Lewis T.V. program. A personal friend of the editor from Burlington, Ont., writes: "I'd be interested in knowing how your community and especially the Lewises felt about the experience after the Maude Lewis T.V. program was over. I wish the CBC would re-run the program. It's the kind of value system that is all too rare, and Mrs. Lewis' paintings are so full of joy — I'd love to have seen the program in colour."

Digby Needs

We refer you this week to one or more letters in The Digby Courier telling what Digby Needs. One from a "Native Son" has several suggestions. Some we have heard mentioned before. Others are new.

Of course, the ever pressing need of more parking space in town was mentioned to us. Along with the mention also came the suggestion that the triangular field adjoining the Aquarian bus stop building would provide a fairly large area if it is obtainable. Further suggestion was "If it was even made into an attractive plot it would help to add beauty to our town rather than to be a detriment."

Westport

Mrs. Harley Glavin recently spent a few days at Sanford with her brother, Mr. Robert Thurston and Mrs. Thurston.

Mrs. Sherman Hines and family of Arcadia spent a week with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Percy Welch.

Mrs. Lou Bailey and Mrs. Holland Titus were overnight guests at the "Salvia House" in Digby on Wednesday.

At the time of writing Mrs. Stan Moore, Mrs. Edgie Titus, Mr. George McDormand and Mr. Lloyd Denton are in the D. G. Hospital.

Miss Barbara Frost of Yarmouth is visiting with her uncle Mr. Wilbert Frost and Mrs. Frost.

Lawrence Sabean of Barton was a guest for a few days at the Baileys. He was in town collecting taxes.

Mrs. Richard Jondrey and daughter Gloria were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McDormand.

Mrs. Albert Graham is a patient at the V. G. Hospital in Halifax.

W.M.S. At Westport

The December meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Westport United Baptist Church was held in the home of Mrs. Bernard Bowers. Mrs. Lawrence Shaw presided. The devotional given by Mrs. Wylie Poole was based on the birth of the Christ child and his early years.

A plan for answering the appeal of Miss Thomas for White Cross articles was made to be carried out in the new year. Election of new officers for 1966 was made. The roll was called to which members answered with a verse of scripture containing the word "please".

Miss Luie Repool gave the Spiritual Life report, with Mrs. Arthur Titus presenting a Christmas program. A social hour was enjoyed when Mrs. Bowers assisted by Mrs. Albert Moore and Mrs. Wylie Poole served refreshments.

New Baptist Minister

At Westport
Rev. William G. Petchey of Grand Bay, N. B. accompanied Rev. C. L. Chute to the pulpit of the Westport United Baptist Church on Sunday morning and was the preacher of the service. He and Rev. Chute sang in duet accompanied by the church organist Mrs. Richard Welch.

Rev. Petchey (retired) has been extended a call to minister to the Westport United Baptist Church and will assume the pastorate on Sunday December 12th as interim pastor. Rev. Chute who has for the past several months ministered to this congregation has made many friends in the church and community. We wish for him God's blessing in his future service to the Master.

Annual Roll Call

The annual Roll Call Service of the Westport United Baptist Church was held on Sunday evening with a good attendance. Earl Ambrose, pastor of the Church of Christ Disciples was the guest speaker and his message very purposeful of God's love and Grace. Mr. Ambrose with Mrs. Ambrose favoured with a duet entitled "Nothing But Leaves" beautifully sung and accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Richard Welch. The choir also presented a special musical selection with Mrs. Albert Bailey taking a solo part.

A number of the members of the Church of Christ were present having closed their church to be present with this congregation on this occasion of the roll call. Letters from distant members were read and those present responded in most instances with a testimony. The offering was indicative of increasing interest in the work of the church.

Presents Christmas Program

The December meeting of the Christmas Women's Fellowship of the Westport Church of Christ met at the home of Mrs. Lou Bailey with president, Mrs. Edgar McDormand, presiding. The group opened by repeating the CWF Prayer in unison. A Christmas program was presented by the ladies. Mrs. Edgar McDormand read of "His Birth and Our Birth". A circle of prayer was led with Mrs. Ambrose. Christmas Symbols was read by Mrs. Charles McDormand. Mrs. Ambrose spoke a few words on the scripture Isaiah 9:6. A poem on Christmas by Mrs. Harold Swift and Christmas is Many Things by Mrs. Lou Bailey concluded the program. The roll call was responded to with a verse of scripture pertaining to the birth of Christ. Bible study with Mrs. Ambrose was from the study book "The Word with Power". A social hour followed with Mrs. Bailey assisted by Mrs. Edgar McDormand serving refreshments.

Obituaries

Vilah May Young

The sudden passing of Mrs. Vilah May Young, occurred on Thursday evening Dec 9, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ernest Thorne and Mr. Thorne.

The deceased, the elder daughter of the late Thomas Bine and May (VanBlarcom) Condon was born at Port Royal eighty-one years ago, and lived here until her marriage to Curtis Y. Young of Digby, N. S. in 1908. She was a member of the United Baptist Church. Having possessed a general and happy disposition, a wide circle of friends deeply regret her passing. During her entire life she was keenly interested and active in church, hospital and Red Cross Work.

Her husband predeceased her in 1948 and since that time, she has resided with her sister (Ollie) Mrs. Ernest Thorne, who is her only immediate survivor.

Funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon in the Granville Beach Baptist Church conducted by Rev. M. G. Butler of the Annapolis-Granville Charge of the United Church of Canada followed by a service later in the Digby United Church, conducted by Rev. R. H. Hughes.

The many floral tributes and the large gathering at the services, testified to the esteem held for the deceased.

Mrs. Robert Curtis

Mrs. Robert Curtis, 92, of Clementsvalle, died Thursday evening at home. She was the former Janet Baird, daughter of William and Emma (Wright) Baird and the last member of her family. She had three brothers and one sister. She is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Following her marriage she and her husband lived in Yarmouth, New Hampshire, Upper Clements, Deep Brook. Following retirement she returned to her native village of Clementsvalle. Mr. Curtis died eight years ago.

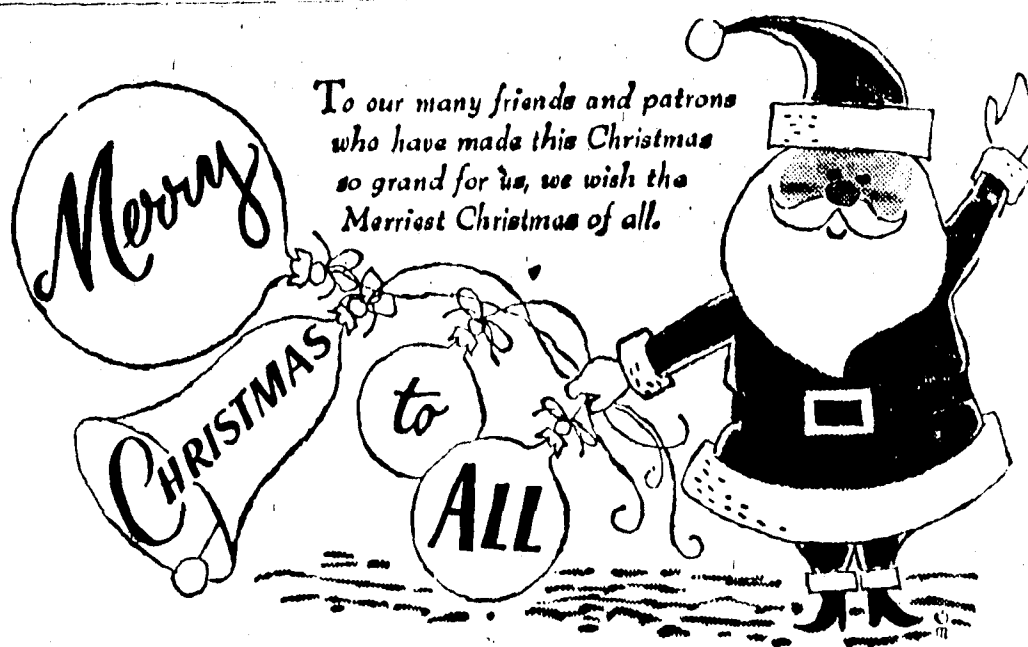

She was a member of the Baptist Church and dominion life member of the Women's Missionary Society of her church.

Funeral service was held on Sunday at Clementsvalle Baptist Church, conducted by Rev. E. A. Robertson, former pastor retired now living in Lawrence town.

Burial was in the village cemetery.

David Thomas, Truro, spent the weekend with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Allan Thomas.

Marriages

Clayton + Joyce

A wedding of interest took place at the Hillsburn Baptist Church on Saturday, November 13th at 7 o'clock p.m. when Sheila Maise Joyce, daughter of Mrs. Melbourne Hudson Jr. of Victoria Beach became the bride of Sherman Frederick Clayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clayton, of Hillsburn, Annapolis Co., N. S. The ceremony was performed by Rev. David Shaw, Annapolis Royal, with friends and relatives of both families attending.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Harold Halliday, Parker's Cove, during the wedding and the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, wore a beige tulle street length dress trimmed in mink fur with a matching halo hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

She was attended by Miss Carol Lou Haynes, Victoria Beach, who wore a green velvet dress with green accessories, Ralph Clayton, brother of the groom acted as best man.

The bride's mother wore a beige cape style suit with brown accessories. The groom's mother wore a dark tweed dress with green accessories. Digby.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Parker's Cove Consolidated School for about one hundred guests. Wendy Ann Hudson, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guests.

Out of town guests were from Camford, Kentville, and Lawrenceville. Congratulatory messages were received from New Hampshire, Cape Breton and British Columbia. The happy couple will reside in Hillsburn where they have their home.

Selig — Turpin

The marriage of Mrs. Merle Selig and Donald Wilbur Selig was solemnized by Rev. G. D. Brydon.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Milbury, of Bear River, and widow of A. B. Ray Turpin of HMCS Cornwallis. The groom is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Selig, formerly of Clementsvale.

For her marriage the bride wore a black suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

The attendants were Mrs. Freda Oickle, sister of the groom, and Leslie Milbury, brother of the bride.

Following a brief trip through the province Mr. and Mrs. Selig will reside in Deep Brook.

Rev. Frank Smith has closed his home for the winter months and is staying in dress with green accessories. Digby.

Yule Music Blends Joy, Reverence

Across the centuries man has looked to music to express his happy feelings at Christmas time.

From the medieval "Hail, Mary, full of grace" and "Merry olden, Joseph" to the modern "White Christmas" and "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," songs have been a favorite part of Christmas celebrations.

In the tradition of Christmas music, there are simple carols, blending reverent wonder with quiet joy — Martin Luther's "Away in a Manger" for instance, or the mid-nineteenth century hymns, "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "We Three Kings of Orient Are" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

There are merry songs, celebrating the jolly mood of the Yuletide, such as the time-honored "Deck the Halls," or the modern "Rudolph" and "Frosty the Snowman."

To Honor St. Basil

Since the herald angels sang bringing "glad tidings of great joy" to shepherds watching their flocks, the people of many lands have contributed to the history of Christmas hymns and carols.

In the fourth century, St. Basil the Great of Greece engaged victorious in his struggle for Christianity with the Byzantine Emperor Julian. To celebrate this victory, a musical poem or carol was sung in his honor.

The first day of the New Year is still celebrated as St. Basil's day in Greece, and children receive their "Christmas" gifts on that day.

Famous People Call Yule Their Birthday

A young farmer's wife in England gave birth to a son in 1642. In 1821, a baby girl was born in the Massachusetts village of Oxford. In 1865, the wife of a militant Christian crusader gave birth to her fourth daughter. And in 1883, in Paris, an artist's model bore a baby boy.

What did these four births have in common? In each case the child was born on Christmas Day, and grew up to become a famous person. According to the Book of Knowledge, these well-known "Christmas babies" were Clara Barton, Evangeline Booth, Maurice Utrillo and Sir Isaac Newton.

Coffee

In this world of rendezvous in space, and Rudolph the red nosed reindeer, Christmas has remained strangely unaltered over the years. The trees may be of aluminum or plastic now, but they are still decorated with colored balls. Holly and mistletoe, and poinsettias are more often bought at the dime store than at the florist's, perhaps, but their colors are still red, green, and white. Santa Claus, I gather, occasionally shows up by rocket ship these days, and hardly anybody has a fireplace for him to pop out of, but his suit is still red, and he still has those long whiskers.

One phenomenon which has scarcely changed at all over the years must be the elementary school Christmas concert. I saw one of these yesterday for the first time since the days when I used to take part in them myself. The school was not the same one I attended many years ago, but the acrid smell of damp coats and poor ventilation which pervaded the halls was exactly the smell I remember in my early years at school.

The concert, just like those I remember, was a perfect example of awfulness carried to the point of being endearing. My kids, as guests, were dressed to the teeth in their Sunday School best. The little performers wore velvet dresses, and ringlets wound too tightly, with lots of water, just as they did twenty years ago. The little boys looked, in general, a little less stiff and self-conscious than their feminine classmates. Perhaps fewer doting mothers were pinning their hopes on the boys.

The program was introduced, with some prompting from the wings, by a small boy whose voice carried just short of the first row. He continued to announce the whole program with the same degree of audibility. There were about a dozen choruses of Christmas songs, old and new, sung off key, and with a singular lack of joy. The parents looked on and beamed. My kids squirmed in their seats in delight.

Little boys who knew all of their lines recited them too fast, and little girls who did not know theirs recited them too slowly, with long gaps between. There were the same number of silver bells as there used to be, held high to illustrate points in poetry which was delightful in its sheer dreadfulness. A group of little girls filed up to the front of the room, each holding a lighted candle perilously close to the hair of the child in front, to proclaim that they were just little lights in a dark world, or something. A welcome omission from the concert which had always been included in those concerts in which I used to take part, was that row of children bearing cards with the letters C H R I S T M A S, which they held up one by one — C is for candles that give us light — H is for holly so red and so bright . . .

After each number, the audience, except for my children, and the parents of the actual performers, applauded politely. The parents clapped in undisguised glee, seeing up there, incarnate in their child, the hope of Canada's future cultural life. My kids thumped the desks in wild joy. They were enjoying every minute of this venture into the world of big kids. Watching their friends perform lent them a sort of vicarious importance.

A group of children stood at the front of the room, and solemnly but vigorously, told us, in a gay piece of bad song writing, that they were glad we came. The parents, my kids, and I, filed out. We had taken part in a very important part of the Christmas ritual.

Two years from now, one of mine will be performing in his first Christmas concert. Want to bet that by that time, the songs will all be on key, and the singers will remind me of angels. The poetry, then, will be beautiful, and so well recited! And you will all, I am sure, pardon my pride, when my son holds up that T for the tree all gaily trimmed.

May all the holy joys of that first Christmas night abide with you and your loved ones during the holiday season, bringing the same peace and tranquility that shone upon the earth on that Night so long ago.

Adolphe Joseph Bellevue
Requiem mass for Adolphe Joseph Bellevue, 72, of Bellevue Cove, was held Monday in the Roman Catholic Church at St. Bernard. Mr. Bellevue died suddenly on Saturday at the Yarmouth Regional Hospital.

He was the son of the late Edward and Annie Bellevue and was a veteran of the D. Digby County for about forty years. Weymouth Funeral Home was in charge.

He is survived by his wife, Delphine, three sons, Cleo, Edward, Bellevue Cove; Edward, Yarmouth; Nil, Bellevue Cove; one daughter, Marie (Mrs. Bernard Chaisson), Bellevue Cove; two brothers, Professor Willie J. Bellevue and Ulysses J. Bellevue, Bellevue Cove, and one sister, Mrs. Irene Le Blanc, Church Point.

Interment was in St. Bernard.

Mrs. Edele Doucet

Requiem mass for Mrs. Edele Doucet, 78, of New Edinburgh, was held on Sunday in the Roman Catholic Church at St. Bernard. Mrs. Doucet died Friday in Digby General Hospital where she was a patient for the past ten weeks. She was born in the Brook, daughter of the late Mathurin and Rosa Doucet, of Digby.

Weymouth Funeral Home was in charge. Her husband, Edele, died several years ago.

Surviving a son, Edele, Elsie (Mrs. Don Macdonald), Malden, Mass.; Beatrice (Mrs. Walter Raymond), New Edinburgh; Rose (Mrs. G. Melanson), Gilbert Cove; Evangeline (Mrs. Don Macdonald), Ottawa; Blanche (Mrs. Sam LeBlanc), Yarmouth; Rita (Mrs. George Lovejoy), Malden, Mass.; two sons, Auguste, Saulnierville; Edward, New Edinburgh; two brothers, Zee, Reading, Mass.; Howard, Gloucester, Mass.; twenty-one grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Interment was in St. Bernard.

Mrs. Ralph Tower

Mrs. Ralph Tower, 59, assistant director of nursing at the Aberdeen Hospital, New Glasgow, died Wednesday following a brief illness. Mrs. Tower, a resident of East River Road, was born at Thorburn. She was the former Christina Pearl MacDonald, daughter of the late John and Catherine MacDonald.

She was a graduate of the Aberdeen Hospital School of Nursing, a member of the Registered Nurses Association, and a member of the Aberdeen Hospital Alumnae.

Mrs. Tower was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, a member of the Order of Eastern Star, a member of the LOBA, and a past president of the Rebekah Assembly of the Atlantic Provinces.

Mrs. Tower is well known in Weymouth, where she resided for several years, while her husband was manager of Weymouth Industries Ltd.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a sister, Ida M. MacDonald, Linacy; two brothers, Alex, Mount Vernon, New York; and John S. of New Glasgow.

Funeral service was at 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, with Rev. James Roe officiating. Interment was in Thorburn.

Rossway

The brotherhood group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McBride last Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams, Deep Brook, spent Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thurston Banks.

A Sunday School concert was presented by the Juniors of the Baptist Sunday School on Sunday morning at the Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemert Raymond and daughter Linda, of Smith's Cove visited Mrs. Lotie Lewis Sunday afternoon.

The Women's Club met last Wednesday afternoon in the hall when they filled seventeen Christmas boxes for the over 70% and shuttles and afterwards enjoyed a party and exchanged gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lewis and two daughters, Gail and Coreen, visited relatives and friends in Aylesford on Sunday.

The Baptist Sunday School held their Christmas party in the hall Saturday afternoon. The hall was trimmed for the occasion as well as a decorated tree which held seventy bags of candy. After singing and games, the treats were distributed to the children. The party success was greatly contributed to by the efforts of the superintendent, Mrs. Bernard McBride.

Composers Inspired

Famous composers have found in Christmas inspiration for some of their most beloved music. Christmas, and Easter, too, people gather to hear performances of Handel's "Messiah," Bach's Christmas Oratorio, and Berlioz's "Enfance du Christ," are other examples of "serious" music often specially performed at Christmas.

Twentieth century composers, too, have written music around Christmas themes. Probably the most familiar example is Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors," an opera commissioned for television and performed annually. Handel's Christmas Cantata, and Britten's Ceremony of Carols are other notable examples.

Source Of Song

Among the well-loved Christmas hymns is "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear." The words to this one were written by a Unitarian minister of Weston, Mass., named Edmund H. Sears. Time? Just about a hundred years ago, says the Book of Knowledge.

One melody for this hymn was composed by a Detroit journalist and editor; another melody was adapted from an old British folk tune by a composer better known for his long string of light-hearted operetta hits. This was Sir Arthur Sullivan of the team of Gilbert and Sullivan.

Lighting Up

Since the Star shone on Bethlehem, lights have been a part of Christmas celebrations. Today, candlelight services are traditionally held by many churches at Christmas.

Something unique in the way of Christmas lights are the "luminarias" used to decorate the city of Albuquerque, N.M., at Christmastime.

Outlining the borders of streets, sidewalks, yards and even the roof of homes, the luminarias shine everywhere. Made of paper bags, weighted down with sand and lighted from within by a candle, thousands of luminarias all over the city offer a soft light.

Known For Paintings

One Christmas-born child had little cheer in his life, on holidays or otherwise. This was the French painter, Maurice Utrillo, born on December 25, 1883.

Son of an unknown father and a mother who was a model for many of the Montmartre brush wielders of her time, young Maurice was shy and withdrawn, not only in childhood but throughout his life.

Ironically, reproductions of many of his paintings, particularly those of the sparkling white dome of the Montmartre Church of Sacre Coeur are used by the thousands every year on Christmas cards.

In Germany

From Christmas trees to Christmas toys, many Christmas customs now universally observed came first from Germany.

In the medieval town of Nuremberg, the highlight of the Christmas season is the "Christkindmarkt," or literally, Christ Kind or Christ Child, is the gift giver, and the culmination of the fair, on Christmas Eve, is a visit by the Christ Kind to the balcony of the historic church, the Frauenturme. Days of group caroling by the children precede this event.

Among the Acadia students home for the holidays are Mary Lou Parker, Leanne Oickle, Gerald Parker, Henry Cox and Donald Miller.

Mr. George Milbury and son Bruce of Digby were Sunday supper guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Milbury.

Gordon Henshaw of U.N.B. is spending his holiday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Henshaw.

Mrs. Laura Litchfield of Ottawa is spending a Christmas holiday with her sister, Mrs. R. H. Purdy.

M. and Mrs. Jack Harnish of Dartmouth spent the weekend with Mrs. Charles Coombs. On their return home they were accompanied by Mrs. Coombs who will be their guest over the Christmas holidays.

Christmas Caroling

The C.G.I.T. Group of the Digby Baptist Church under the leadership of Mrs. Russell Harris visited the Hubley Nursing home on Thursday evening and sang Christmas carols and hymns for the patients.

Choir Visits Shut-Ins

The Junior Choir of the United Church of Canada under their leader, Mrs. Marjorie Alcorn visited the Hubley Nursing Home on Saturday afternoon, also Mrs. Charles Balser's home singing the Christmas Hymns and carols.

These visits were very much appreciated by the patients. Gifts were also presented to the patients in the Home and at Mrs. Balser's.

Philathea Class Holds Christmas Meet

The annual Christmas meeting of the Philathea Class of the Bear River Baptist Church was held at the home of Mrs. Stanley Sabine with thirty-four members.

Mrs. Mary Kaulback presented the devotional period, Luke 2, with quotations read by Mrs. Frances Green, Mrs. Lila Purdy and Mrs. Lillian Wagner, including three Christmas carols.

The program period consisted of piano solos, duets, and several choruses from seven of Mrs. Sabine's piano pupils. Mrs. Marjorie Tibbets read the life of several composers of the carols sung.

Mrs. Vera McCormick was congratulated on her composition, outlining the prophecy of Christ and His birth in both the Old and New Testament with references read by several ladies.

A box of gifts was packed and sent to the White Cross in Halifax, also plans made to pack cheer boxes for shut-ins at the home of Mrs. Mary Kaulback on December 23rd.

Delicious refreshments were served, and mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

Choirs Render Christmas Music

On Sunday evening in the United Church of Canada the choirs presented a fine evening of Christmas carols and hymns.

The Junior choir under the leadership of Mrs. Marjorie Alcorn presented an especially appropriate Christmas play. Prayer was led by Rev. K. MacNeill.

The Junior choir were dressed in white gowns, each bearing a gift which was presented to Mrs. Alcorn who later placed it under a prettily decorated tree with colored lights. The choir tree was also trimmed with green boughs and lights, giving a soft glow to the church.

The girls taking part were Linda Wamboldt, Margaret Cusley, Brenda Benson, Nora Benson, Anne Copeland, Janet Copeland, Lorraine Isles, Deb Cook and Darlene Chute.

Following the junior choir exercises the senior choir presented their Cantata "Come To Bethlehem" which was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience and showed a great deal of time and effort to prepare. Many of the beautiful hymns were sung during the service. Solos by Dr. D. S. Brennan, Miss Cheryl Brennan, Miss Beverly Mayo were all enjoyed as were the duets by Beverly and Cheryl. The Junior choir sang two selections during the Cantata. Mrs. Wiltor Lent was organist, Benediction by Rev. K. MacNeill.

Following the Cantata refreshments were served in the vestry.

Auxiliary Holds Annual

On Friday evening, The Ladies Auxiliary of Royal Canadian Legion held their annual Christmas party in The Legion Hall.

A jolly Santa Claus arrived and gifts were exchanged. The evening was spent singing Christmas carols and playing games. At the close, refreshments were served by the auxiliary.

Santa At Bear River

On Saturday afternoon, the annual Christmas party for children of Bear River and vicinity was held in the Legion Hall. Santa met the boys and girls, met them and gave them a talk on Christmas. Then took them down stairs, where a beautifully decorated Christmas tree awaited them.

Santa presented each child with a bag of candy and an orange.

The shining and joyous faces of the children showed how much they enjoyed the afternoon.

Visits Shut Ins

Mrs. Waterman and a group of young people from The Advent Christian Church, Bear River visited many "Shut-ins" on Friday evening, singing Christmas carols and hymns.

White Gift Sunday

The Joy of Christmas is sharing and giving and this was evident on Sunday when the Sunday School of the United Church of Canada, Bear River observed White Gift Sunday with a devotional program and their gifts. The program opened with Quiet Music played reverently by Mrs. Lent. Call to worship with Response, Mrs. Cook.

A story of Christmas was read by Mrs. Cook.

During the service the fourth Advent candle was lit. The first candle represented forgiveness; the second, peace; the third, joy; the fourth love. Next Sunday the fifth candle will be lit to represent "Jesus The Light of the World".

Rev. Mr. McNeil in his address told the children and the congregation of The Angels Secret and what the gifts of love are. He told what Christmas means to a Christian.

At the close of the service J. Langley presented Rev. Mr. McNeil, Mrs. McNeil and family with a check a gift from the members and friends.

Sings Carols

Denton Orde took his group of Junior Young People of Bear River on Thursday evening and visited different homes, singing Christmas carols and hymns. Following this, they enjoyed a treat of sandwiches and hot chocolate in the Vestry of The United Baptist Church.

Meeting Postponed

The January meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute will be postponed from Monday, January 3rd to Monday, January 10th due to the holiday season.

The program will be under the committee on Citizenship and Legislation. Place of meeting will be announced.

First Cards Sold

Christmas cards were first offered "to the trade" by an English publishing house in the 1860's. They carried such designs as jolly old gentlemen (who might have been Santa's forebears), plum puddings, holly and mistletoe.

Letter to the Editor

Dec. 13th, 1965

The Editor,
The Digby Courier,
Digby, N. S.

Dear Mrs. Wallis:
You ask what Digby needs?

Here are my answers:

1. Extension of shipping and wharfage facilities for all types of business.
 2. An air landing strip with room for expansion to an airport in future days.
 3. Provision for an industrial park.
 4. One good new industry to spark others.
 5. A plentiful water supply with provision made for future expansion both in respect to population and industrial use.
 6. A complete sewer system with treatment plant.
 7. Public swimming pool, also beach.
 8. Waterfront abutment protection especially around the Raquette.
 9. Library with extension for local museum.
 10. Better facilities at Petite Passage.
- These items all take time and money but should be worked for, in my opinion.
- Native Son.

Helps Others

Again the Digby Salvation Army under Capt. Fred Peach solicits help for others through their organization at Christmas time. The ringing call of the musical glass ball is always in evidence on Digby streets come Christmas time. Capt. Peach will be leaving next week to spend a few days at his home in Bermuda.

Tiverton

We are glad to report Van cent Howard has recovered from the flu. A number of cases of flu have been reported.

Wishes for a Happy Holiday season are extended to Editor Mrs. E. M. Wallis and staff of the Digby Courier.

Wishes for a speedy recovery are extended to Clarence H. Outhouse who was taken to Digby Hospital on Friday. Mr. Lawrence Sabine of South Range was a business visitor in the village on Friday.

Quite a number of residents are Christmas shopping at Digby.

Grand Master Visits Lodge

Grand Master Ray Goodwin of IOOF of Bridgetown visited Rainbow Lodge and Sunrise Rebecca Lodge at Tiverton IOOF Hall recently. Chaplain Lodge of Freeport also attended the meeting.

Mr. Goodwin gave an interesting account of his trip to the Grand Lodge in Chicago. The lodge is composed of 15 lodges in the Atlantic Provinces. He also spoke of the IOOF in addition to the IOOF in the Atlantic.

Following the meeting, a Christmas party was served.

Netted $218.00

The sum of $218.00 was realized from the annual Christmas tea and sale held recently in the vestry of the United Baptist Church, Tiverton. The event was sponsored by members of the Sunshine Bible Class and cooking was donated by members of the church.

WEYMOUTH ITEMS

Mrs. K. M. Hankinson and Mrs. Richmond Jouneay, Correspondents.

Mr. Wagner Blynn of N. S. Teachers College is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blynn and family were visitors in Paradise on Sunday.

Mr. Ray Nicholl of Ohio was a visitor with his father, Mr. C. L. Nicholl one day last week.

News was received of the death of Matthew Keegan in Bear River on Sunday evening. No details were available at the time of writing.

The U.C.W. held their Christmas meeting with Miss Frances Lent last week. Beginning with a delicious buffet supper, the evening continued into a Christmas worship theme of the Three Wise Men. Mrs. Chas. DeLong lead the service and was assisted by various members of the group. A child Health Conference was held at Weymouth Consolidated School on Monday.

Mrs. Ephraim Gates left on Thursday for Florida where she will spend the winter. She will visit her brother Karl for the Christmas holidays, en route to Florida.

Waston Comeau, St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish and Arlette and Denise of Notre Dame L'Acadia and Moncton, are spending Christmas with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Comeau.

Entertains Sunday School

Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Powell were hosts to the Sunday School of Heartz Memorial United Church, Weymouth on Saturday, at which time parents were guests, and enjoyed a Christmas concert of carols, recitations, plays, and songs. Each child received a gift and candy from the Sunday school and delicious refreshments were served.

School Hold Dance

A Christmas Dance was held at Weymouth Consolidated High School on Friday night. Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Peters and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Campbell were chaperones. Miss Louise Powell, was chairman of the dance committee, and was assisted by the grade XII students in Christmas decorations and arrangements for the occasion. "Billy and the Hurricanes" supplied the music for the dance, which proved to be most successful.

Letter to the Editor

Nov. 30, 1965.

To The Editor:

Why has the Bible and the Lord's Prayer been eliminated from our schools? It is a sad state of affairs, indeed. How often we hear the expression, "Our church has fallen down." I don't believe our church has fallen down. I believe we have.

Quebec Superior Court, said he will stand by his statement that some Quebecers have been deformed to please a small group of agnostics. The Chief Justice was commenting on a reply by Provincial Education Minister Paul Gelin-Lapointe to the Chief Justice's remarks at the opening of the Quebec City fall assizes Tuesday.

In his address, Chief Justice Doiron attacked "the handful of agnostics who are trying to make children forget everything concerning religion and the existence of God." I hereby declare myself as attacking the agnostics who are doing the same thing here in Nova Scotia.

I humbly beg you folks, who would care to make our country a better place to live, petition your government to bring back to our school "The Bible" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Yours very truly,

Douglas Foley,

Dear Member:

'Tis Christmas time again, 'tis the time when all make merry, and rejoice that in this old world of ours there is peace, and there is good will. Doesn't it seem odd to you that this custom was born almost 2,000 years ago - and more than 1900 years before the birth of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association?

Here we in CWNA try, through our individual efforts, to keep alive peace and good will every day of the year; and others are content to make it a one-shot effort every 365 days.

Peace and good will at Christmas have an extra special meaning. It is this extra special meaning which causes Christians throughout the world to celebrate Christmas. They do it joyfully, and they do it willingly.

In our association, and among our members, this thought carries on after Christmas, and to the next Christmas. We have the opportunity, without being disciples, and without being preachers, to set an example every week of the year for proper Christian living.

Most of you appreciate this privilege to serve, and carry it through in your papers. You serve your communities. In serving your communities, you serve mankind. In serving mankind, you serve Almighty God.

This makes Christmas a truly wonderful season for CWNA members. We have the entire Christian world joining us in celebrating His birth, with which was born our freedom, our privileges, and our responsibilities.

Let us ever be mindful of this freedom, these privileges, and these responsibilities. They are assets which carry on from year to year, gathering strength; assets which will, we hope, make 1966 the most wonderful year yet for every member of CWNA.

Marriage

Wood - Fawcett
At a candlelight service in Sackville United Church, Margaret Fawcett became the bride of Lowell Wood.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fawcett and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wood of Weymouth, Nova Scotia, were united in marriage by Rev. Charles Forsyth.

The music for the procession was Trumpet Tune by Purcell and for the recessional Trumpet Voluntary by Clarke, played by Arthur Brewer, trumpeter and Allison Patterson, organist. The second movement from Haydn's trumpet concerto in E flat was played during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie with fitted bodice. The gown was appliqued with lace and sequins. The shoulder-length bouffant veil was attached to a tiny cluster of peau de soie flowers. She carried a bouquet of yuletide roses and white snapdragons and wore pearls, a gift of the groom.

The maid of honour was Miss Ann Sutherland of Toronto, and bridesmaid was Miss Susan Brown of Fredericton. They wore identical floor-length gowns of peacock blue taffeta with ribboned sleeves. Their head pieces were of nylon net with a pearl trimmed flower and they carried bouquets of red and pink roses.

Robert Angel of Sydney, Nova Scotia, was best man. The guests were ushered by Donald Hill of Sydney and Robert Fawcett, brother of the bride, from Ottawa.

The bride's mother wore a cranberry dress of ruffled nylon with white accessories and a corsage of white snapdragons, centred with pink roses. The groom's mother wore a blue dress of corded silk with brown accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

At the reception following the ceremony, Carleton Elliott proposed the toast to the bride and groom. A toast to the bridesmaids was given by Robert Angel. Mrs. Lorimer Blomhorn and Mrs. Clifford Burrows, aunt of the groom, poured at the serving table.

For travelling, the bride chose a coat of Norwegian blue imported wool with bracelet-length wing sleeves, trimmed with natural fox, with white hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of epidendrum orchids and feathered carnation.

The bride and groom are graduates of Mount Allison University, with a B. A. degree, major in music. They will live in Moncton.

Gifts Dedicated

A parish service was held at St. Edwards Church, Clements-point on Sunday morning, Dec. 5th when several gifts to the memory of late Rev. W. H.

Logan were dedicated. Among these memorial gifts were two collection plates given by St. Matthews Congregation, Deep Brook.

A lovely book of remembrance for use in the parish was also dedicated. This book is a gift from Miss Dorothy M. Bell, Bradford Junior College, Bradford, Massachusetts, in memory of her father.

Servers Conference

Forty three altar servers and eight clergy of Annapolis deanery gathered at HMCS Cornwallis, Saturday morning for early communion, period of instruction and some sports.

This meeting was made possible by permission of Captain Paul, R.C.N. officer commanding, who put St. George's chapel and other buildings at the disposal of the group. Bishop R. H. Waterman was celebrant and delivered the address to the boys. Following breakfast, lectures were given by Rev. David Hantry, Round Hill, and Rev. Arthur Peters of Weymouth.

During the afternoon the boys engaged in a period of sports and swimming at the Recreation Centre.

The Annapolis deanery altar server's conference was directed by Rev. A. F. Sheward, rector of the parish of Clements, together with Rev. D. Hantry who looked after the days program.

Successful Tea

A successful pre-Christmas tea and sale sponsored by St. Matthews Guild was held in the parish hall, Deep Brook, on Wednesday afternoon, on December eighth. A cake made by Miss Evelyn Purdy was won by Mrs. Harold Hirtle.

Cards Tell Of Changes

The tradition of exchanging Christmas cards is a charming part of the joyous holiday, and it has a history of its own.

One of the most interesting parts of that history is the way that greeting cards serve to record changing social customs, manners and fashions through the years, points out Miss Esther Mooney, curator of the Norcross, Inc. greeting card collection.

For instance, an English card of 1892 shows the formality existing between parents and children during the Victorian era. Here, a little girl kneels solemnly at her mother's knee, sedately offering her a Christmas bouquet with the wish, "May your life be a Merry Christmas."

Modern cards take a livelier, more light-hearted approach. Even earlier, greeting cards began to reflect an easier sort of filial relationship. Declare as a 1930 card: "3 cheers for a Merry Christmas and you, Dad!"

In Salvation Army

Born on Christmas Day in 1865, Evangeline Booth was the fourth daughter of the Salvation Army founder William Booth. By the age of 23, she was head of the Salvation Army in London, and in 1901 she took over operations for the entire United States.

During World War I, the Salvation Army lassies under her justification spent Christmas - as well as many other days - ministering to the needs of American doughboys in France. The word "doughboy" stems from the celebrated Salvation Army doughnut, a World War I staple.

Digby Churches Unite For Week Of Prayer

At a recent meeting of the Digby Ministerial Association plans were made for the holding of the annual Week of Prayer meetings for the Digby churches.

The meetings will be held from the 4th to the 7th of January inclusive. Churches uniting for these meetings include the Baptist, United, Reformed Baptist, the Church of God, and the Salvation Army. The meetings begin on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Salvation Army Citadel on King Street, and follow on Wednesday evening at Grace United Church, and on Thursday and Friday at the Baptist Church.

It was recalled that the meetings held last January were featured by the largest attendance in many years. The hope was expressed that this year would see an even greater increase in the number of people coming to these services.

These meetings of the Week of Prayer and Witness will be held at hundreds of centres across Canada. They are sponsored by the Canadian Council of Churches which include all of the major Protestant churches of Canada, and many of the smaller ones.

Accepts Call

Rev. George P. Allen, pastor of First Baptist Church, Truro, has accepted a call to the Stevens Road Baptist Church, Dartmouth.

He will be taking up his duties there the first Sunday of February.

He served as president of the Truro and District Ministerial Association and as a member of a number of its committees.

Active in community affairs, he was a director of the Children's Aid Society, Retarded Children's Association, President of Colchester County Tuberculosis Association and chairman of the Truro and District Billy Graham Crusade in 1963.

As well as serving the Atlantic Baptist Convention as president (1957-58), Rev. Mr. Allen has served on a number of convention boards and committees, and at present is a member of the Board of Governors of Acadia University, a member of the Stewardship Committee and the Hymnary Revision Committee.

Rev. Mr. Allen, who was born in North Sydney, is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Allen.

Mrs. Allen is the former June Elizabeth Sanford, of Clements, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Sanford. They have four children: David attending Acadia University; Paul, Mary and John, at home.

Died In Los Angeles

News has been received that Guy Cathcart Pelton had passed away suddenly in Los Angeles.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sanford H. Pelton, of Yarmouth. He is survived by one brother, Gerald, and a sister, Mrs. Grace Musgrave, of Vancouver; three nephews, Ross D., San Francisco, Norman Musgrave, Kenneth Pelton, Pasadena, California; two nieces, Mrs. Alfred C. Fuller, Hartford, Connecticut; Miss Daisy Pelton, Boston, and several grand nephews.

Cremation took place at Los Angeles and the ashes will be forwarded to Yarmouth.

Dogs Kill Deer

(L. K. Hill)

Many people in the valley area will recall that at the annual meeting of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade at Kentville in October, 1965, a gentleman from the Digby area brought up the matter of dogs chasing deer in his area. This is an unusual subject for our organization, nevertheless, it is one of interest to many of our members and supporters.

It is a situation which obviously requires correction and can only be corrected if people get indignant enough to demand proper curbs by the proper authorities.

Through the willing co-operation of our Minister of Lands and Forests, the Honorable E. D. Haliburton, an effort was made to investigate complaints of dogs chasing deer in the Victoria Beach area of Annapolis County.

The investigation confirmed that dogs are a problem during all seasons of the year in the Digby-Annapolis area, however, the majority of complaints came from January to the opening of the big game season. Dog complaints cannot be given much attention during the fire season due to rangers being on call at the request of the Lawrencetown District Forestry Office.

During the winter, spring, and early summer approximately 15 complaints were received from the Annapolis-Neck area which resulted in spending the following time in this area:

Jan. 15	3 hours
April 5	3 hours
April 6	5 hours
April 13	4 hours
April 30	4 hours
May 19	5 hours
June 10	6 hours
June 11	4 hours
June 15	6 hours
June 17	6 hours
July 27	7 hours
July 29	4 hours
Total	57 hours

During this time 12 dogs were shot while actually running deer or on the trail of same.

The investigation shows that every resident in the area has one to three dogs; as a result the dog population increases fairly rapidly; also it appears that close to half the dog population depends on food from garbage and game.

Known deer losses, due to dogs last winter, numbered 6 killed in the woods and 2 driven over a cliff on to the beach. It would be impossible to estimate the total loss.

As mentioned earlier several visits were made to the area as a result of complaints about dogs in the woods with a number being shot. During June five fires started in the same area and from observations it would appear that these fires were set. Possibly there is some connection between these fires and the people who have lost dogs.

The mountainous type of land in this area makes it difficult to hunt dogs. Perhaps the answer to this situation remains with the municipal authorities, in higher dog taxes.

Lionettes Entertain

The Digby Lionettes entertained the Lions at a Christmas party held at the Lions Hall on Queen Street.

Games, dancing and a sing-song were enjoyed, along with a Christmas tree and gifts for everyone.

A delicious lunch was served at the close of the evening.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

"Scoutarama" At HMCS Cornwallis

The 1st Cornwallis Scout Group held a successful "Scoutarama" in the community centre in HMCS Cornwallis, in the presence of two hundred parents.

Guests of honor were the commanding officer, Captain J. M. Paul and Mrs. Paul and the chairman of the group committee, Lieutenant Commander J. Reid and Mrs. Reid.

"Scoutarama," a show designed to display some of the many skills taught in the Boy Scout movement, was produced by Lieutenant Commander C. H. Humble, who serves as Scout Master of the group and Scout Commissioner of the Digby District.

Included in the many demonstrations were handicrafts, singing and gymnastics by Cubs of "A" pack, while "B" pack showed their prowess in jungle dances and games. The Scouts gave an impressive signalling display and followed this with First Aid, resulting from a carefully staged "accident."

The boys of the Venturer Scout troop, built a campsite and carried out a camp project where Scouts of a patrol passed an injured member over an "electrified fence". The entire patrol was successful in clearing the fence before completing their performance with a demonstration of the use of a Scout staff for estimating heights and distances.

Rovers of the local Crew built sheerlegs and a jacksack before transferring members of the Crew across a "raging torrent" in the centre of the hall.

The evening closed with a short campfire program, in which the entire group participated. Light refreshments were then served by the ladies auxiliary.

CYO Ice Activities

Sunday evening Dec. 19th at 6 p.m. at the Forum saw the beginning of CYO ice activities for the winter season when the newly formed CYO Hockey and broomball league got underway. Boys hockey teams from St. Joseph's Parish in Weymouth, Holy Cross Parish at Plympton, and St. Patrick's of Digby make up the hockey league for the year, and these parishes make up a broom ball league for the CYO girls.

In hockey on Sunday evening St. Joseph's of Weymouth defeated the St. Pat's team in a close game by a score of 6-3. The St. Joseph goals were scored by Andy Burke with two, and John Comeau, Paul Comeau, Keith Cromwell, and D. Ford netting singletons. John Comeau picked up three assists on the St. Joseph goals.

All five St. Patrick's goals were scored by Danny Doucette. Assists on the Digby goals were made by Jerry VanTassel, Paul Connelly, Billy Nickerson each with one, and David VanTassel with two.

St. Pat's picked up the only penalties in the game with three 2 minutes sessions to Billy Nickerson, and one each to John Amiraull and Danny Doucette.

The refereeing was handled by David Wood assisted by linemen Gary Tidd.

In broomball, the St. Pat's girls defeated the St. Joseph's team 1-0. The only goal and the only penalty of the game went to Evie Amoro of Digby.

Following the games skating was enjoyed by players and CYO members as well as by the spectators at the game.

Next week's hockey will see Holy Cross vs St. Joseph's. In broomball, St. Pat's vs Holy Cross.

The Digby General Hospital Auxiliary will meet at Mrs. Clayton Snow's, King St., Monday evening.

"King Size" Vegetables

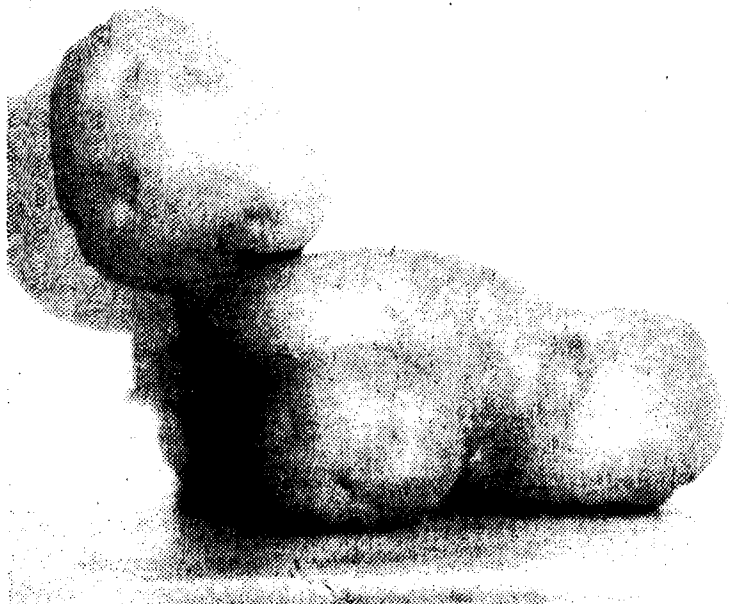

A family can eat off one turnip for a month and get a meal or two out of one potato. If the vegetables were chosen from the giants grown by Ralph Haight, a Plympton farmer.

The turnips average between 18-20 pounds each and the potato tops the three pound mark.

Mr. Haight has several more turnips almost as large and the remarkable plant which produced the potato had a yield of one bucket of potatoes.

A four pound one ounce Greenmountain potato found in the garden of Gustave Lombard of Comeauville recently which measures eleven inches.

Have you ever heard of a potato having weak eyes before? Well, never have I. Nevertheless a potato found in a field of potatoes in Saulnierville was found to have grown through one lens frame of a pair of sunglasses, which were minus lens.

The potato has been on exhibit at Eddie Saulnier's garage in Saulnierville and is presently in the care of Albert P. Melanson, at Church Point.

Letter to the Editor

Digby, Dec. 28/65.
To the Editor of the Digby Weekly Courier,
Digby, N. S.
Dear Madam:

For a number of years the children have not had any place to ski or coast and it came to me the other day that the field back of the Queen St. school would make an excellent slide.

Years ago we used to use this for skiing and at the most three hours of work would make a nice and absolutely safe place for the kiddies. I made a personal inspection and mentioned this to one of the town officials and hope that more will take an interest and go up there and look the place over. Will you give it a boost, the cost would be very little.

Yours truly,
Fritz Dakin.

Five Confirmed

Sunday evening, December 12th, at the parish church of St. Edwards, Clementsport, the rector, Rev. A. F. Sheward, presented five candidates to His Lordship, Bishop R. H. Waterman, for the rite of confirmation. The Bishop also addressed these young people with several explanations of "Real Christian Living" and the part they would play in the life of the church.

Those presented were OS Allan Lloyd Lowes, OS Robert Rorald Pierce, James Alex. Palmer, Peter Boardman and Jacqueline Frances Parish, all from HMCS Cornwallis.

Following the service confirmees, parents and general congregation enjoyed a social hour at the rectory when members of St. Edward's Guild served lunch.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Exceed Allocation

The organization known as The Canadian Bible Society has its roots in the organization formed in the city of Quebec in 1804. Nova Scotia organized its first branch in 1810, in Truro, and the Digby area several years later. Nova Scotia now has about 500 branches.

The 27 Bible Societies of the world make an annual financial appeal of which the Canadian Society now raises close to one million dollars annually. Digby's allocation has been $300 for several years, $100 has been the allocation for Smith's Cove. Both branches have now gone over their allocation for 1965. Smith's Cove raised $115.30. Digby's donation to date amounts to $314.46. Other communities in Digby County also do good work in raising money for the Bible Society.

One complete Gospel or other book of the Bible has now been published in 123 languages, spoken by 95% of the people of the world, and the complete Bible has been published in the language spoken by 90% of the people of the world.

The late Sir Winston Churchill who was, as we know, one of the world's great writers and benefactors, wrote some great things about the Bible, such as "its grand simplicity and essential accuracy of the recorded truths have lighted so far the pilgrimage of man."

One of the services that the Bible Societies give to many people is the production and distribution of special attractive booklets to patients in hospital at Christmas time. These booklets are placed on the patients' food trays during the week of Christmas. They tell the Gospel story of Christmas, the birth and childhood of Jesus. A similar booklet for Easter is distributed in the same way.

The Bible Society also distributes, through Port Workers, to immigrants of foreign language, helpful portions of Holy Scripture in their own language with the translation in the national language of their new homeland.

Books of the Bible printed in Braille for the blind are produced and sold at a fraction of the cost.

However, of the considerable number of services the Bible Societies of the world provide, the fact of helping to make all people of the word literate through providing words of light, wisdom, strength, comfort, peace and joy, in all the languages of the world is, a tremendous fact to ponder and appreciate. Without the Bible there would be no Christmas.

Santa Visits St. Theresa's

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 21st, a Christmas party was held at the Church Hall in Marshalltown, for youngsters up to ten years of age. The party was sponsored and conducted by a group of high school and young married and working people of St. Patrick's Parish, Digby along with the support of the parishoners who made many donations to make the party a great success. About 75 young children from Marshalltown and Brighton attended the party, joining in games and merriment. In attendance also were many parents, Sisters from Weymouth and Digby, and the pastor and curate of St. Patrick's Church.

Needless to say the outstanding event of the evening was the visit of that jolly old gentleman from the North Pole, Santa Claus, who, assisted by Rodney Doucette of Marshalltown, managed to pass out treats to all the children present.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall were visitors in Bridge-town Monday evening.

Widely Known Writer, Educator Passes

P. Fraser Bond, Canadian writer and educator, and professor emeritus of New York University, died Sunday at the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax.

Although a native of Halifax and a life long Canadian, Dr. Bond spent most of his active career in New York City as a newspaperman and later as a university professor. After three years as a reporter on The Toronto Daily Star, he joined the editorial staff of The New York Times as secretary and assistant to that paper's distinguished editor-in-chief, whose biography "Mr. Miller of The Times" he later wrote. In 1926 he began his teaching career on the faculty of the School of Journalism, Columbia University, and became a member of the Pulitzer Prize Award Committees.

Defective eyesight caused him to leave Columbia in 1934, and after several years of rest and travel, but with sight impaired, he assisted Helen Keller as public relations counsel for The American Foundation for the Blind. Following a successful eye operation, he again embarked on the teaching of journalism, this time at New York University, from which he retired as professor emeritus in 1957. The following year, he received the Columbia Journalism Award "For Distinguished Service to Journalism." In receiving this award, he was cited for "bringing the tradition of great university teaching — an adroit combination of wit and wisdom to the journalism classroom and library to the benefit of generations of young journalists." Columbia honored him again in 1963 with its medalion commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of its School of Journalism.

Dr. Fraser Bond was the son of the late Rev. Dr. George J. Bond and Mrs. Bond and was a nephew of the late Right Honorable Sir Robert Bond, a former prime minister of Newfoundland.

On his retirement, Dr. Bond returned to Nova Scotia and made his home in Annapolis Royal. He is survived by his sister, Dr. Roberta Bond Nichols, Halifax; by his nephews, Dr. Edward George Nichols, Mt. Allison, Sackville, N. B.; Robert H. Nichols, Dartmouth; John R. Nichols, Digby, and his niece, Mrs. William Marshall Bishop, Nassau, Bahamas.

Local and Personal

Joyce Atkinson, Dartmouth and Carol Atkinson, Milton, Queens Co., are spending the holidays at their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. "Randy" Ellis, Birch Street, have returned home after spending Christmas with their daughter Mrs. Carl Comeau and Mr. Comeau, New York City.

Mr. David Leonard and friend, Miss Janet Davison, Halifax, spent the holidays with his mother Mrs. Malcolm Leonard, Birch Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cross of Dartmouth, N. S. spent part of their Christmas holidays visiting Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard "Bud" Leonard, Halifax, spent the Christmas holidays with his mother Mrs. Malcolm Leonard, Birch Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Oxford spent the Christmas holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl VanTassel, and brother, Earl Douglas.

Danny and Nancy Crouse, Moncton, N. B., recently spent a short visit with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Collins.

LARGE POTATO

A potato weighing over four and one-half pounds was brought to the Courier Office by Walter Robicheau, Weymouth North. It was 21" in length and 15" circumference.

Season's First Blizzard Hits

An intense storm, the first real one this winter, swiftly moved into Nova Scotia Saturday night (December 25) and, within hours, had transformed what began as a wet and green Christmas into a white freeze-up.

The storm, which held on throughout most of Sunday, packed gale force winds and dumped three or four inches of snow on western Nova Scotia and up to ten inches on Cape Breton Island.

Storm damage has been slight, and the high winds kept most of the highways clear.

Heavy rains and temperatures to 30 degrees were experienced in the western part of the province on Christmas Day. By early evening temperatures had dipped to the teens. It was not immediately known whether strong winds damaged lobster traps set off the western part of the province but it is almost a certainty that traps have shifted. If this had happened a month ago when the season started the results would have been disastrous, according to fishing authorities. By now the traps have had a chance to anchor themselves by soaking up their weight in water.

Christmas Program

Unit 1 of United Church Women of Grace United was entertained at the home of Mrs. Bryson Denton for a Christmas program which consisted of readings, poems, carol singing and Christmas stories. Delicious refreshments were served at the close.

DFD Re-elects Officers

George Humphrey (above) was re-elected Fire Chief for 1966, as were Assistant Chief Arthur Hanksper; Captains, Joseph Doucette, Fred Smith and Wilbur Whitman; Lieutenants, Guy VanTassel, Carl Melanson and William Reid; President, Ray Thibault; Vice-President, Joseph Doucette; Secretary, Reginald Turnbull; Treasurer, Victor Cimeau.

An office of Assistant Secretary was proposed and amendments to the by-laws in January will make way for this office, as well as who will assist the Secretary and Treasurer when this is required.

The remainder of committee chairmen are presently being drawn up by the new executive and this will list all members as to their duties for the new year.

Annual reports of the year's work are presently being prepared and will be published in the department's annual publication shortly after the new year.

Mrs. E. M. Wallis is spending the Christmas holidays with her daughter, Mrs. Keith Chappell, Mr. Chappell and children.

About This And That

We Enter 1966

"I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year, 'Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown'. And he replied - 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be better than light and safer than a known way'."

The above words were written by M. Louise Haskins. They have been quoted by many and undoubtedly became so popular because they were quoted in a Christmas message in 1941 by King George VI. Like all worthwhile bits of literature and words of wisdom, they stand the test of time and come down through the years. And so these philosophical words have been handed down, coming out of our subconscious minds occasionally to guide our thoughts at such a season as New Year.

We, as a community and as individuals, entered 1965 as we enter 1966. We knew not the future but here we are at the end of the road. We look through the 52 issues of The Digby Courier and we cannot say that we see all joy through its pages. Some people have had their heartaches in 1965. They have had to face tragedy, illness and bereavement. We have recorded the happenings but not without sympathetic understanding. We know fully well, too, that the words of M. Louise Haskins still apply.

These pages of the Courier, too, revealed times of extreme gladness. Some have had their share of material prosperity. Others, again, it would seem, have known little of such pleasure.

As a community, we have had our misfortunes or, more properly put, our sought after good fortunes which in many cases did not materialize. Nevertheless, we can look into the individual communities and into the County of Digby as a whole and see that we had not been totally devoid of blessings. Our pictorial page recalls some of the events of the year for which we can be grateful. Those things for which we have aspired and failed have made us better for trying and we can consider our efforts as so much ground work done.

Not one thing of the past can now be undone. In many cases, we would not have it changed if it could be so. Of those things for which we were not responsible, but which brought sorrow to our lives, it was well that we were unable to see the gloom ahead. For this and the strength to endure, we should give our humble thanks.

So, again, we direct you into 1966, all unknown to us as each New Year preceding. Enter it with hope, joy and sincerity of purpose but in the spirit of, "Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be better than light and safer than a known way."

Digby Needs

"Digby Needs. Digby needs co-operation, especially among the down town merchants." That was the opinion expressed by one gentleman when discussing this "Digby Needs" column. We hope you, our readers, will elaborate more on that subject for next week. Right now we're on our way to spend Christmas with Ruth and Keith, Kim, Andrea, and Michele. We want to be there before Santa arrives. Needless to say, that is the only "need" on our minds, right now. Happy New Year.

Share The Wealth

Just when we were getting to be, oh, so nice and proudly smug, in our so much talked about affluent society in Canada, up comes someone to change our idea of "the rich we have ever with us" and jolting us back to that contrasting Biblical expression "the poor ye have always with you."

How horrifying to know that about thirty-five percent of our Canadian population subsists, maybe in a state of deprivation, poverty, or even destitution. Some of these live in rural areas and some are the city poor. We have heard them classified for a family of four in Ontario as: deprivation under $4,000 income; poverty under $3,000 and destitution under $2,000.

Where do we Nova Scotians fit in the scheme of things? Where do we fit in Digby County? What percentage of us are either deprived, poverty stricken or destitute? Those of us who are under $4,000, $3,000, or $2,000? It does make a difference where you live.

And, too, just what are we being deprived of? It can't be exactly being deprived of absolute necessities? Not when you compare these figures - last year 66 percent of all Canadian households (5,000,000 households in Canada) had electric washing machines and 20 percent had automatic ones. (We expect a lot of the 34% went to the laundromat). Ninety-six percent had radios, about the same had electric refrigeration, and 92 percent had that absolutely necessary article, television. Nine households in ten had telephones and if we are correct, Canadians make more use of telephones than any other people in the world: Three families in four have that extremely important luxury, an automobile, the same number we learn have vacuum cleaners and seven out of ten have sewing machines. Would our great, great grandmother have thought us in a state of deprivation, poverty, or destitution?

In such a Canada as ours, it seems difficult to define poverty. Or are our figures all askew? And if we compare our conditions with those of some other countries, where do we stand?

Yes, on one hand we pride ourselves on living in an affluent age. We have families with income from $18,000 up. On the other hand, we are shedding poverty tears, some persons living on $11.71 per person per month. If we average up, we probably are still a fairly well blessed nation. It is probably more of a matter of "Share The Wealth" but we think some better scheme than "hand outs" which are unnecessary or undeserving should be devised. The federal-provincial conference on poverty this fall was probably a step towards some efficient means of sharing the wealth. We hope so for "Share The Wealth" there ought to be.

We see that Dave Albon of the Hants Journal concludes (and he's done so long ago - just a matter of re-concluding) that a weekly newspaper business is no different from any other business in that changing conditions, increased costs of operations, etc., mean that more revenue must be raised to execute a successful business operation. Along with other increased costs, Dave is also preparing for the increased cost due to Canada Pension Plan.

Dave's subscriptions are going to be $5.00 in Canada and $6.50 outside. Classified ads are to be five cents a word and two dollars minimum. Transient advertising remains as before, $1.00 per column inch with a minimum of 4 inches. There will be an increase in display advertising rates.

Other newspapers are following the same pattern and also have jacked up prices as costs have ascended.

We are not trying, here, to advertise other newspapers. We are just defending ourselves against those people who come to us with that song and dance, "We can get it at . . . for . . .". We, too, keep check on prices in other plants, though we do not always advertise them. When revenue does not meet costs, there is only one thing to do and that is find the revenue or go out of business. Of course, there is also the responsibility of good plant management which we are not forgetting.

A Decalog For Safe Winter Driving

The Canadian Winter, among other disagreeable features presents a four month period of hazardous motoring conditions during which the prudent motorist has to modify some of his driving habits if he would side-step the perils which are constantly present on snow-covered thoroughfares in a country with one automobile for each three inhabitants.

Dominion Automobile Association offers below a time-proven set of rules which will, if adhered to, help guide the motorist through the winter months without mishap.

1. START GENTLY: To overcome rear wheel sloughing in snow, start slowly. Second gear, or even high gear, will frequently get a car moving, when the usual low gear start only spins the wheels.

2. SEE AND BE SEEN: Don't drive with a befogged or snow-covered windshield and windows. Don't start to roll until you can see your full circle of visibility. Let others see YOU, by turning on your headlights in the late afternoon, even if it isn't dark.

3. GET THE "FEEL" OF THE ROAD: Check the braking efficiency of the existing road surface with a light test pressure on the brake. If you slide, reduce speed accordingly.

4. DON'T "TAILGATE": The generally accepted "car length for each 10 m.p.h." doesn't apply at this time of year. It takes from 3 to 12 times the bare road factor to stop your car on ice and snow. Set up your following distance with this in mind.

5. BRAKE BEFORE TURNS: Anticipate a reduction in speed and let your engine help you brake for a turn. A fast, right-angle turn on snow can throw you out of control into an "about-face" skid!

6. "PUMP" BRAKES WHEN SLOWING: Don't risk a dangerous skid by sustained brake pressure when slowing or stopping. Apply brake in gentle intermittent pressures.

7. CARRY ALONG SOME TRACTION-MAKERS: Always carry a shovel, some sand, and tire chains (if you don't have snow tires) in your trunk. Try putting the sand in cardboard milk containers for easy spreading under wheels.

8. DON'T TAKE YOUR CAR MUFFLER FOR GRANTED: A leaky muffler or exhaust pipe can spell "curtains" for you under winter conditions. Have the boys at the filling station check these parts every time your car is on the grease rack.

9. DON'T TRY TO PUSH YOUR STALLED CAR OUT OF A SNOWBANK: Especially if you are over forty! A severe strain on a faulty heart can result from unaccustomed exertion of pushing a car out of a snowbank. Better to call a tow truck than an ambulance!

10. USE YOUR SEAT BELTS AT ALL TIMES: Seat belts are particularly valuable in winter type skidding mishaps. Don't drive ANYWHERE without them in place.

War & Peace

By: Dr. Gordon Bates,
General Director of the Health League of Canada

In all of the impassioned eloquence directed at the foolishness of fatuous humans who through the centuries have glorified war as a means of solving the problems of mankind too little has been said as to the causes of war itself. The seekers for peace have been branded as pacifists - a term of scorn - though there is nothing wrong with the ideals of a sincere pacifist. And perhaps often the seeming pacifist is a sophisticated rhetorician who cries, "peace, peace," when he knows there will be no peace if he stays wedded to the bellicose ideas of his forebears.

Vice-President Humphrey said one day in Washington when he was still Senator Hubert Humphrey that he considered the World Health Organization to be more important than the United Nations Organization itself, suggesting at least the reason. The United Nations while piously preaching the virtues of peace - in action emphasizes more the need for an international police force because by inference there is no other established method of keeping humans from killing one another. Hubert Humphrey's foresight had much to do with the coining of the slogan, "world peace through world health," and his proposal, expressed to the Health Committee of the Senate and the House of Commons in Ottawa, of a ten-year treaty between Canada and the United States to promote world health, is worthy of support.

When one considers that in Africa alone there are millions of our fellow world citizens who are short-lived, hungry, poverty stricken and ignorant because they are poor and poor because they are sick, how can we, while opulent and thinking only of our own security, blame the millions who are dirty, starved and uneducated, if they are also dissatisfied to so great a degree that they are ready to accept either Communism or war as desirable alternatives for a life which they are prone to believe is not worth living. And if they multiply and replenish the earth with progeny who are as unhappy as they are, will not the world continue to cry "peace, peace," where there is no peace?

There is urgent need for a war against poverty not only in Canada and the United States but throughout all the world. But that war will never be won if we smugly content ourselves with picking up the wounded on the battlefield. Rather, the war against poverty must recognize that practically all sickness is preventable - even that of old age. But the war is not someone else's war - it is our war - the war against the heartaches and the thousand ills that flesh is heir to. This is not only a battle against disease delegated to the dedicated official who sprays native huts in Indonesia to prevent malaria, but ours here. When we ourselves join the battle against disease, mental and physical, at home and abroad - then, and only then, will disease and poverty be conquered at home and abroad. Then there will be no more war. No more will the Communist countries accuse us of preaching the virtues of peace without conviction.

Christmas Program And Officers Elected

Eight members and four guests met at the home of Mrs. Loran Titus for their December meeting of the W.M.S.

A Christmas tree was beautifully decorated and lighted for the occasion. Other Christmas decorations adorned the home in keeping with the Yuletide season.

The president, Mrs. Roy Cameron, presided.

The devotional was led by the hostess, Mrs. Loran Titus. It was a Christmas devotion entitled "Come Let Us Worship". The first part consisted of Christmas poems, carols and scripture which told the Christmas story.

The second part was a candle lighting and prayer service and at the close of the devotional, each member and guest lit their candles from a large candle which represented the life of Jesus, whose birthday we celebrate. We were to accept the challenge to be "lights" for him. During the devotional prayers were offered for the work in India, Bolivia, Congo and Angola and Home Missions.

The president welcomed the guests and extended an invitation to join the society. Roll was called, each answered with a scripture verse connected with the story or birth of Christ.

Instead of exchanging gifts each member brought gifts to be sent to the immigrants coming into the country.

During the business period Mrs. Ronald Morehouse was chosen to be made a Dominion Life member and will be presented with a certificate and pin in near future.

The program consisted of a playlet, "The Acceptable Gift" with Mrs. Loran Shaw, Mrs. Lathie Stanton, Mrs. Willie Titus, Mrs. Ronald Morehouse, Mrs. Roy Cameron and Mrs. Loran Titus taking part.

New officers are as follows: pres. Mrs. Roy Cameron; vice pres. Mrs. Keith Raymond; secretary, Mrs. Loran Shaw; assistant secretary and press reporter, Mrs. Ronald Morehouse; treasurer, Mrs. Loran Titus; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Florence Titus; program conveners, Mrs. Roy Cameron, Mrs. Lottie Stanton; refreshment convener, Mrs. Loran Titus; hospital and White Cross convener, Mrs. M. Dakin; tidings and Maritime Baptist agent, Mrs. Keith Raymond; organist, Mrs. Loran Shaw and Mrs. Loran Titus; auditor, Mrs. Fred Dakin; spiritual life convener, Mrs. Keith Raymond; nominating committee, Mrs. Roy Cameron, Mrs. Loran Titus, Mrs. Florence Titus and Mrs. Keith Raymond.

Sunday School Holds Christmas Party

The annual Sunday School Christmas party was held on Sunday afternoon with superintendent, Mrs. Marshall Wheelhouse, conducting the period of singing Christmas carols with Mr. Gordon M. Ruggles, organist. The superintendent read interesting stories in keeping with Christmas.

Two intermediate boys, Darrell Jefferson and Gary Fraser, took up the offering. Gifts were distributed to all by Mrs. Wheelhouse, assisted by teachers and intermediate girls. Bags of candy, nuts and oranges were given to those present. Several treats were sent to shut-ins and those not able to be at the party. All sixty who were present had a very enjoyable time.

Founder Of Red Cross

Clara Barton, Civil War nurse, was born on Christmas Day in 1821. It was her warm thoughts of Christmas that led her, when she set off to visit her brother, a prisoner during the Civil War, to offer to take presents not only to him but to the prisoner relatives of all her Oxford, Mass., neighbors.

Subsequently, Clara Barton was instrumental in founding the American Red Cross and served as its president for many years.

First In U.S.

First Christmas carol composed in the United States was the work of an 18th century leather worker named William Billings, reports The Book of Knowledge. A tanner by trade but a tunesmith by inclination, Billings composed the carol "A Virgin Unspotted."

The song isn't one that is still sung, and few hymnals now include it, but carol singers today owe William Billings a considerable debt of gratitude.

During Puritan times in England, the singing of carols and, indeed, the whole celebration of Christmas, was banned. The Puritan-minded American colonies followed suit.

It was William Billings, more than any other individual who managed to persuade the Puritan New England Settlers that singing songs at Christmas wasn't sinful.

After the gifts were exchanged refreshments were served by the Committee, which included birthday cake. The cake was cut by Sis. Evelyn Purdy.

Scout Council Honours Mr. Wright

At a meeting of the Digby District Boy Scout Council in June, Norman Wright was honoured for his many services to the organization. Mr. Wright, above left, had been District Commissioner of Boy Scouts of Canada since the Digby District was formed in 1958. The district covers the area between Weymouth and Allan's Creek, including Digby Neck and Islands. Mr. Wright was presented with a tie bar and cuff link set which contained the Boy Scout crest. Presentation was made by Assistant Provincial Commissioner Judge Marshall Black, of Kentville. Mr. Wright has spent twenty-five years in Boy Scout work in the Digby area.

Bear River Trade Board 60 Years Old

More than 125 persons were at a special 60th anniversary dinner meeting of the Bear River Board of Trade in February. In the picture above, left to right, are Constable J. Plomp, who assisted Corporal Wenaus, guest speaker; Allison Denton, president of the Bear River Board of Trade; O. T. Wright, secretary; and Howard Yorks, 1st vice-president, who thanked the speakers.

NEW ACADIA GOVERNOR — Douglas V. Gonder vice-president of Canadian National's Great Lakes Region and formerly vice-president of CN's Atlantic region, has been appointed governor of Acadia University, Wolfville, N. S. One of the best-known railroaders in Canada, Mr. Gonder was born in China while his parents were serving there as missionaries. He joined CN as a machinist apprentice in Stratford, Ont., and worked his way up to some of the top posts of the system. At the same time he has taken an active role in religious, educational and community affairs. During his years at Moncton he devoted his spare time to such activities as the Greater Moncton Community Chest, the Baptist Church, the hospital board, the YMCA, the Boy Scouts and the Moncton Boys Club. Other interests include the Gideons and the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

Fun & Feasting

A merry, hearty feast is traditional at Christmas, but the ingredients are not always the same. Norwegians might serve instead of turkey and trimmings, codfish and pickled pork, while baked carp is a favoured Christmas delicacy in Austria.

Christmas dining customs change with time, too. His story describes a "traditional" Christmas feast of seventeenth century Quebec, a feast that would be considered somewhat unusual today.

Before each diner at the feast was placed a bowl of birchbark or polished basswood and a spoon of bark. The diners supplied their own knives and there were no forks. Into the bowl went first the appetizers - cornbread and a boiled mixture of eels, salmon and beans. The soup course was a rich meat broth thickened with nuts. Vegetables included corn, peas and baked squash.

The main course featured roast venison and squirrel pies with baked wild pigeons, partridges, blackbirds, owls - all served together. Dessert consisted of cakes of maple sugar or sunflower seeds and nuts, topped with a sauce of boiled dried berries.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

A local artist's conception of the proposed development of Digby port facilities as announced in Digby by the Hon. Mitchell Sharp. The harbor plans called for dredging to a low water depth of seven feet. The present ell is to be extended 150 feet and sheathed on the south side; a new wharf 325 feet long and 30 feet wide is to be built from the present spur pier; and a new section 18,000 square feet is to be built for loading and unloading of fish and the icing and victualling of fishing vessels. Photo by Cornwallis Photo Service.

The News of a Lifetime

The Digby Courier has been reporting news about you for a long time. Think of how much has happened to you since you were born... that's when the first report appeared. And perhaps the next was your fifth birthday party.

Everything Important...

That's what has appeared in the paper about you. Your activities in the Boy Scouts or Girl Scouts. When you fell from the tree and broke an arm! When you made the high school basketball team, or starred in hockey. Or appeared in the class play or sang in the operetta. And then when you were graduated from high school. Perhaps military service next, The Digby Courier kept the folks back home posted on what you were doing there.

College, and After...

College, next, and again this paper followed and reported your important activities. Proud day, when you received that degree - we saw it in The Digby Courier. And then you were married... your picture in the paper. What a fine-looking couple! Children follow... the cycle of news in the paper begins again. But you are not forgotten because of the new generation. The news about you continues so long as you live.

A Newspaper Service

The news of a lifetime... for you and yours. This is a service The Digby Courier gladly & willingly gives to this community.

Marriage

Gosson — Weir

A very pretty fall wedding took place at Humberville, Ont., on Nov. 6, when Linda Diana Weir, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Weir of Weymouth, became the bride of Richard Joseph Gosson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gosson, North Range. They were married in St. John Anglican Church, by the rector, Rev. G. Poole.

The bride looked lovely as she entered the church on the arm of her brother, Wilfred Weir. She was gown in a floor length lace with sequin trimming. Her fitted bodice had a square neckline with long sleeves of lace. Her veil was held in place with a white flower crown and was trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink roses.

The maid of honor was Violet Stark of Toronto, who was charming in a short turquoise dress with a jacket, and matching veil headpiece and satin shoes of turquoise. Her bouquet was of pink and white carnations.

Best man was Mr. Donald McKasol of Toronto. Ushers were Arthur Robicheau and Fred Robicheau also of Toronto.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Elsie Germaine. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Don McKasol.

For travelling the bride chose a rose coloured empire waist dress, with a red coat and black accessories. The happy couple left on a trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N. Y. and will reside in Toronto.

Halifax spent the Christmas weekend with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Marshall.

Mr. John Griffin and sons David and Norman spent five days visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Griffin and family in Dartmouth.

Card of Thanks In Memoriam

DENTON — The family of the late Lloyd A. Denton wish to thank all who sent flowers and messages of sympathy during the illness and death of their father. They are especially grateful to Dr. Biesel and Dr. Black, the nurses and staff at Digby General Hospital; also Pastors Petchey and Ambrose and Mr. Jayne and pallbearers. 19:1c

MELANSON — We wish to thank everyone for gifts, masses, and prayers, cards and kind deeds, Father Deveau, Father Gaudette, Father Mills, Sisters of Holy Cross Parish and nurses and staff on the 2nd floor Digby Hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Erjavec and Father Stokes. — From the both of us, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Melanson. 19:1p

McDORMAND — I wish to thank those who sent me flowers, cards, and visited me while I was in the Digby Hospital. Thanks to Dr. Black, Dr. Biesel, also nurses and staff. — George McDormand. 19:1p

FALVEY Due to illness I have been unable to answer all the lovely cards and letters I received, following the death of my niece, Miss Hilda Hogan. I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who were so kind. — Miss Jessie Falvey, Weymouth North. 19:1c

HUBLEY — I wish to thank the many organizations for their carol singing and cheer boxes to the shut-ins at my home at Christmas. May health and happiness be yours in '66. — Gertrude Hubley. 19:1p

SAULNIER — I would like to express my sincere thanks to those who sent cards, letters, money and flowers and visited me while I was a patient in the Digby Hospital. Also thanks to those who sent food to my family. Special thanks to Dr. Black and Dr. Erjavec. — Mrs. Lawrence Saulnier. 19:1p

COMEAU — I would like to thank the several groups in Bear River, the Baptist C.G. I.T. of Digby, and the Women's Club of Rossway for remembering my mother, Mrs. Wilfred Robbins, at the Hubley Nursing Home with visits and treats during the Christmas season. Also the groups of carol singers which helped greatly to make the season a happy one for her. Thanks also to all who sent greetings. — Mrs. Waters Comeau. 19:1c

GRAVES — In loving memory of a dear husband and father William A. Graves who passed away December 31, 1957. Sadly missed and always remembered by his wife Dorothy and family. 19:1p

MARSHALL — In loving memory of Grandma Marshall who died one year ago. To some you will be forgotten. To others, as part of the past, But to us who loved and lost you Your memory will always last. — Always remembered by grandson, Stan and family. 19:1c

AMERO — In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. Esther Amero. A face that is haunting us ever. A voice we are longing to hear. A smile we'll remember forever. While we try to forget every tear. A sad, but sweet remembrance. A memory fond and true. And a token of affection, dear, And heartache, mother, for you. Lovingly remembered by her son, Clifton and wife, Myrna. 19:1c

TIDD — In loving memory of J. Kemp Tidd who passed away December 27, 1964. We often think of days gone by. When we were all together; A shadow o'er our lives has cast, Our loved one's gone forever. — Always loved and remembered by wife and family. 19:1p

McDORMAND — In memory of Donald McDormand, who drowned December 17, 1963. Often a leaf blown by the wind Falls on the ocean and sink below. 'Tis never lost; where'er fate blow. The imprint of its touch stays behind. And so with life, whatever its kind, It shapes a place, 'tis destined so. If in peace or turmoil it should go, Its influence lives, as 'twas destined. — Always loved and remembered by mother, father and sister, Sylvia. 19:1p

MARSHALL — In loving memory of my dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Annie Marshall, who passed away December 31st, 1964. A wonderful mother, woman and aid. One who was better, God never made. A wonderful worker, loyal and true. One in a million, that mother was you. Just in your judgment, always right. Honest and liberal, ever upright. Loved by your friends and all whom you knew. A wonderful mother, that mother, was you. — Ever remembered by daughter, Beatrice, son-in-law Will, and granddaughter, Linda. 19:1p

About Trees

On the night Christ was born, legend says, all the trees burst into bloom. This began many stories about the Christmas tree.

Early folk tales described a huge tree in the midst of a forest. The tree had many canopies, some straight, some upside down. At the top was an angel with a halo around his head.

It was believed that the tree represented humanity. The canopies up and down symbolized people, good and bad. The light was the Christ child.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Obituaries

Mrs. Malcolm Durling
Nancy Dolphine Durling, 78, widow of Malcolm Durling, of Bear River died at the Digby General Hospital on Wednesday.

Born in Digby County, she was a daughter of the late Frederick and Annie Pothier Thibodeau. She was a seamstress and resided in Weymouth and Bear River.

Share With Others

by Commissioner Edgar Grinstead (Leader of The Salvation Army in Canada & Bermuda)

Sharing is one of life's privileges. If we could not share Christmas with friends and loved ones, the season would be bleak and lonely indeed.

In fact, we enjoy MOST what we SHARE with others the holiday meal, gifts, cards, and the festive preparations at home and office. And indeed it is only as we SHARE that CHRISTMAS has real meaning for us, as in this singularly Sacred Season, we commemorate the "Wonderous Gift" that was given to mankind so many centuries ago.

The season's festivities have a warmer glow when we include in our Christmas sharing, those who so early might be forgotten in the rush and pre-occupation of Yuletide preparation - lonely Senior Citizens, homeless men, underprivileged children, unwed mothers, families in need, and many others.

It is my prayer that you will make this Christmas truly a time of sharing - not just in a monetary sense, but in a most personal way sharing your very best of mind and spirit with others. As you do this, I am confident the miracle of this celebrated Season will bring to you as it did to Dickens' immortal Scrooge the joy of saying "AND TO ALL, A MERRY CHRISTMAS".

EMPLOYERS

Canada Pension Plan Deductions Begin Jan. 1st 1966

Employers must deduct contributions from employees who are aged 18 to 70 and paid at a rate equivalent to more than $600 a year.

Contributions of 1.8% are payable on earnings of between $600 and $5,000 a year as set out in The Canada Pension Plan Contribution Tables.

Employers must match contributions deducted from their employees and remit the combined amount. Instructions for remitting are contained in The Canada Pension Plan Contribution Tables, sent to employers in November. If you did not receive these Tables, or if you have any enquiries regarding the Plan, contact your nearest District Taxation Office.
